International painter Gianne de Genevraye paints public gardens in Europe, Japan, Mexico the UK and the United States. She is a Contemporary Nature Painter, exhibiting widely with work seen in collections in prestigious garden and city collections. A California native, she lives in both France and Laguna Beach while doing art residencies in gardens around the world. Gianne's focus is on painting in public gardens and exhibiting in public spaces. Gianne received her BFA from UC Irvine in the 1970s during the defining years of the Minimalist movement under masters such as Judy Chicago and Tony DeLap. Gianne has embraced the concept of sustainability and is committed to help frame the discussion of conservation through the aesthetics of painting water wise gardens. She has completed 14 residencies in the past nine years.
