Stores Quit Sale Of Guns, Stock Given to Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - A Columbus discount store chain turned over $20,000 worth of guns and ammunition to the city police depart-ment Friday and decided to permanently eliminate the sale of weapons in its stores as a result of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Marty J. Rosen, president of J-Mart's Family Discount Centers, said he wanted to "remove the possibility of supplying anyone with the means to cause bodily harm,, inadvertently or by intent, not only to our dedi-cated public leaders but to anyone regardless of station in life."

Volunteer Hostage Stops Escapee

Daring 'Trade'

CHECOTAH, Okla. (UPI) - A courageous prison warden traded himself Friday for two hostages held at gunpoint by an escaped robber, and then talked the convict into releasing him.

Officers said escapee Thomas J. Rogers, 25, held a policeman and a nurse's aide captive for more than four hours, threatening to kill the girl, before warden Ray Page obtained their freedom.

"He kept that gun on her head," said veteran McAlester, Okla., policeman Ray Kirkpatrick, one of the hostages.

"He wasn't hostile, but I think if they had pressed him he might have shot the girl."

Page talked the escapee into releasing Marilyn Fain, 18, by offering to take her place as a hostage. Kirkpatrick was released a short time later. Rogers then surrendered to Page after talking with him briefly and was returned to the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester.

"We just visited for awhile," Page said. "He wanted to talk to his exwife, but I wouldn't let her up there until he let me have the gun.

Tustin police said officers Richard Kretsinger and Jerry Bennett were staked out in the rear of a Seven-Eleven Market at McFadden Avenue and Village Way when the 10:45 p.m. stickup occured.

They said a young man entered and pulled a revolver on clerk James E. Moore, also holding several customers at bay, including a young housewife clutching her 10-month-old baby.

The hidden police officers said they watched as the gunman took $125 in cash and then laid a trap as he fled the small convenience market, located in a rural area.

Officer Kretsinger said the bandit, whom police declined to identify exactly as Edward or Jack Hazen, fought with him in the parking lot after being ordered to halt.

Cash taken in the holdup, along with the robbery weapon, were dropped, according to Officer Bennett, who was frantically radioing for help as the suspect and his partner scuffled.

Bennett joined the fight and Officers Brent Bixler and Jack Terry quickly arrived and helped subdue

The 24-year-old defendant sat at the foot of a marble-topped altar that served as the judge's bench and heard the Grand Jury indictment charging him with the murder "of Robert Francis Kennedy, a human being."

Only newsmen who had been carefully identified and searched were allowed into the chapel by sheriff's deputies determined to protect Sirhan from the fate of Lee Harvey Oswald, who was shot down in a Dallas police garage two days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Superior Court Judge Arthur L. Alarcon, at a defense request, named two psychiatrists to examine the defendant.

"The doctors are to act as agents of the attorneys for the defense," Alarcon said.

He said the psychiatrists were only to assist in determining the plea. He also stressed he was not making a decision at this time on Sirhan's sanity. Sirhan, dressed in a white, open-neck shirt and blue prison trousers, stared impassively at the 200 newsmen who jammed the makeshift courtroom. He

POLICE REPORT ALARMING STORY

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (UPI) -So you think you hate to get up in the morning?

Police - who could hardly keep a straight face - today topped any story you could ever tell on yourself.

It seems that about wake-up time, a frantic mother called headquarters. Her 18-year-old daughter, she said, had an alarm clock "trapped in her head."

When the patrol car got there, they found that the girl, on hearing the alarm go off, apparently had slammed it down on top of her head.

Since the clock had four sharp tongs for legs, it stuck in her scalp.

A doctor at Anna Jacques Hospital removed the clock and said the only injury the girl suffered was to her pride.

Up, Up Go Wages

Newport Survey Shows Rise Everywhere

Up, up and away. . . That's what's happening to salaries of public employes all over Orange County, according to a study by Newport Beach city aides.

The survey was conducted in con-nection with a 6.8 percent pay hike recommendation for Newport city workers, now under consideration by councilmen. One year ago, the council approved a 5 percent increase for the city's more than 400 employes.

Here's what the comparative survey shows:

- Anaheim: City employe representatives are now negotiating for a 10 percent increase, to be effective in July. Last year, the council approved an average 5 percent boost.

- Buena Park: Councilmen are stu-dying a 5 percent hike. A year ago, a similar increase was approved.

- Costa Mesa: A 7.5 percent in-crease is reportedly under study by councilmen. Last July a 3.5 percent increase was approved.

- Fullerton: Employe pay was boosted 5.9 percent last December, retroactive to October. A delay in salary revisions until fall is again expected.

- Garden Grove: Workers last year received a 5 percent hike; last April,

'63 March Mastermind Leaves Poor Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Poor People's Campaign has dropped Bayard Rustin, the genius of the 1963 march on Washington.

Rustin, who quit over what the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy called "very minor differences," was replaced by Washington Urban League director Sterling Tucker.

Tucker was named to succed Rus-tin, who had offended Abernathy and others by releasing last weekend a statement of goals for the Poor People's march.

The Poverty March on June 19 had been regarded as the most dramatic if not the climactic - public demonstration of the month-old Poor People's March for more jobs, housing and welfare assistance. Whether it can now succeed without the organizational genius of Rustin, the gray-haired theoretician of the civil rights movement, was questionable.

Rustin, head of the A. Philip Randolph Institute in New York, organized the 1963 civil rights march on Washington that drew 210,000 persons. Tucker, little known outside Washington, was praised by Abernathy as "no stranger" to civil rights battles and as a "staunch supporter" of the Poor People's March as coordinator of its Washington activities.

Tucker issued a statement through his office that he had prior obligations to consider and would not announce a decision on whether to accept Abernathy's offer until today.

In another shakeup, march officials said 150 "mature men" in their thirties would replace the younger, existing band of marshals who maintain discipline and security at the campsite near the Lincoln Memorial.

Abernathy and Hosea Williams, the field director of the march, have said Rustin issued a list of poor people's goals which they did not authorize. Williams called them "a bunch of jazz and foolishness."

Rustin, after setting forth specific legislative objectives for the poor that were immediately endorsed by liberal congressmen, gave the march leadership until noon Friday to settle the issue or he would quit. He quit.

Abernathy told newsmen in Washington that Rustin's program was not comprehensive enough for the Poor People's March.

another 2.5 percent. More is expected in August.

- Huntington Beach: Nothing is firm, but indications are that wages will be hiked from 5 to 7.5 percent for the new fiscal year. Last year the increase averaged 5 percent.

Orange: Preliminary reports point to a proposed 9.8 percent increase. It was 5 percent last July.

- Santa Ana: No change is expected until September. Last September a 5 percent increase was adopted.

Orange County: Supervisors on May 22 granted a 6.7 percent increase. In June, 1967, county employes received a 6.4 percent boost.

The arrangements made by the Kennedy family called for a simple motorcade procession with brief slowdowns at the Senate Office Building and the Justice Department, in deference to Kennedy's service there.

One three-car section was proceeding to Union Station with the body, Kennedy's widow, Ethel, and other family members. The remaining cars, carrying hundreds of friends and dignitaries who attended the funeral at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York, was arriving separately. At 4:40 p.m. (EDT) the procession

Coast City Totals McCarthy Won All But Capo

Compiled By the DAILY PILOT

Orange Coast Democratic voters preferred Senator Eugene J. McCarthy over the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy in last Tuesday's balloting, a city-by-city breakdown of coastal voting indicated today.

For the Republicans, Orange Coast residents gave State Superintendent Max Rafferty a clear victory over in-cumbent U.S. Senator Thomas Kuchel of Anaheim.

The coastal voting breakdown show-ed McCarthy won in every city except the Mission hamlet of San Juan Capistrano with its strong Mexican-American heritage. There, Kennedy won 150 to 120 with all three precincts fully counted.

Here are the highlights of voting in major races in the unofficial city-by-city breakdown issued by County Clerk William St John:

In the Republican U.S. Senate race, the vote is Rafferty 102,416 against Kuchel's 62,872.

Scorpion May . Have Struck Sea 'Mountain'

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) - With me-chanical failure virtually ruled out, Navy investigators showed growing conviction today that the nuclear submarine Scorpion sank to the bottom of the Atlantic after colliding with an undersea mountain.

The formal court of inquiry, entering its fourth day of hearings today, heard testimony Friday affirming previous witnesses who said there were minor mechanical faults in the attack submarine's equipment but nothing that jeopardized its seaworthiness.

Capt. Wallace Greene, commander of Submarine Division 62 of which the Scorpion was a part, summed up his study of the eight-year-old vessel's condition with the statement Scorpion was "fully ready for sea" when she set out from the Azores two weeks ago for Norfolk.

Although the vessel and its 99 men are officially classified "lost in the depths of the Atlantic," the search went on for the 13th day today. Officials said ships specially equipped for deep water search were concentrating on an area south of the Azores where the Scorpion was last heard from by radio on May 21.

The area has many undersea mountains. Witnesses testified earlier that some are not accurately depicted on the Navy charts the Scorpion was using, making a plausible case for the undersea collision theory some court members appeared to feel was the probable explanation of the tragedy.

A note of mystery was introduced Friday when Greene told the court the Scorpion was off course at the time of its last radio transmission because it was on a secret mission. According to previous testimony, she was 27 miles from her assigned position at that time. After Greene's comment, the court went into private session. Testimony was also taken in closed session on an admitted failure of an emergency system for blowing water out of the sub's ballast tanks. Two Navy captains testified that, in their view, the emergency ballast tank blower system and other known mechanical and structure weaknesses were not serious enough to have caused the sub to sink.

PARIS (UPI) - Instructions from their leaders in Hanoi have ruled out an offer of concessions in return for a total halt of U.S. air raids on the north, North Vietnamese sources at the Vietnam war talks said today.

The sources said Xuan Thuy, the chief Hanoi negotiator, will emphasize with added vigor Wednesday that any "serious" talk of peace can come only after an unconditional and complete cessation of all U.S. attacks on North Vietnam.

W. Averell Harriman, the leader of the U.S. negotiating team, was in New York for the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, with him was his deputy, Cyrus Vance.

Since the talks began May 13, Harriman has repeatedly insisted the North Vietnamese must show some restraint on their part if the Paris talks are to succeed in their objective of toning down the war enough to permit the start of formal peace negotiations.

The Hanoi sources said the latest word from their Communist leadership said they were determined to hold out for an American promise to "fully and unconditionally" stop the bombing.

The source added that they expect the talks to last "a very long time." Both sides appeared ready for an extended stay in Paris waiting to

Reagan Backs Grape Growers On NY Boycott

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - Gov. Ronald Reagan stood behind the state's grape growers today in their efforts to prevent a threatened boycott of California table grapes by New York City supermarkets.

Reagan Friday ordered state government agencies to "gather all the facts . . . so that steps may be taken to stop" the boycott which the California Grape and Tree Fruit League says will be started Monday by the AFL-CIO.

AFL-CIO officials were unavailable to comment on the report.

"I deplore these tactics and am hopeful that the chain stores will not be intimidated by these threats," Reagan said in a news release. He described the boycott as "irresponsible tactics."

The typewriter was being delivered to prisoner Jay Avery Bayer on a court order because he is acting as his own attorney. Bayer was arrested on a charge of petty theft.

Deputies stopped the woman, whose identity was not disclosed, after she entered the jail lobby. Two derringers and one revolver were discovered taped to a metal panel inside the rear of the typewriter during a routine inspection of the machine.

tralia and Japan via satellite.

Authorities took unprecedented measures to prevent any untoward incidents and to handle tens of thousands expected to line the route of the procession despite a forecast of muggy heat in the 80's and a good chance of rain.

Inevitably, memories were revived of the solemn state funeral of John Fitzgerald Kennedy on Nov. 25, 1963, when a riderless horse was followed by 13 members of royal families, 16 presidents and heads of states, 38 foreign ministers, seven heads of national legislatures and six defense ministers and military chiefs.

Robert Kennedy's burial was not that elaborate but attendance by most of his colleagues in the senate and his rivals for the presidency and by representatives of most of the 113 nations which maintain diplomatic missions in Washington was evidence of the esteem in which he was held, in America and around the world.

It was a rare departure from international protocol for high ranking foreign officials to attend the funeral of a U.S. Senator, but Kennedy, who had covered much of the globe in his travels, was so highly regarded abroad that sentiment overruled precedent.

Kennedy was appointed Attorney General by President Kennedy despite his own misgivings about taking a ranking government post in his brother's administration. He served until Sept. 3, 1964, when he resigned to run for the Senate from New York.

Kennedy qualified for burial at Arlington, now filled to capacity, by virtue of having been a high ranking government official who had been honorably discharged by the Armed Forces. He volunteered for service as a seaman during World War II.

Fired for Book, Teacher Wins Cash Settlement

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Robert Kendall, 31, an English teacher who claimed dismissal from a private school in Woodland Hills because of a book he wrote, has received a $2,450 settlement, it was disclosed today.

Kendall, author of "White Teacher in a Black School," said he was fired by the Pinecrest Ranch School in 1965. He said the school claimed he was incompetent, but he charged the book prompted the dismissal. The book was based on a previous experience while Kendall was employed by the Los Angeles City Board of Education.

Kendall, who lived in Woodland Hills when the Superior Court complaint was filed, had sought $127,250 damages, but the school agreed to the compromise settlement.

nesday for an extension until June 30 for the organization to come up with the necessary funds to cover the bid and contingencies to construct a new Laguna-Moulton Playhouse.

Councilmen also continued until their next meeting the art school appeal of a planning commission standoff on whether the school may build a new facility on city-owned hillside property above the Festival of Arts.

The long pending matter was continued when councilmen received a letter from attorney James Leddy, representing property owner opposition to school use of the ten parcels.

Paul Stiker, representing the school, said, "This tactic has been used about three times; presenting something at the meeting with no opportunity for the council to study it or for us to study it."

Councilman Roy Holm suggested at the meeting that the city might consider úsing some approach rather than the variance procedure such as dedicating the hillside property as part of Irvine Bowl Park.

Holm indicated the council could then consider whether the school would be a fit use in the park rather than considering it as a variance which he said disturbs him.

Because the variance was technically denied at the planning commission in a 2-2 vote deadlock, it would take four council votes to approve the use as an appeal from a planning commission variance denial.

Wife in Car Sees Husband's Copter Death

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (UPI)-A helicopter crashed and burned five miles south of here Friday, killing the pilot, while his wife, trailing him in a car, watched.

Killed in the crash was Lloyd A. MacNeil, 23, Provo, Utah, the only occupant of the craft, according to Boundary County Sheriff Earl Lane. Lane said the helicopter had taken off from the Bonners Ferry Airport and was flying south following U.S. Highway 95-2. It crashed on the edge of the road.

Mrs. MacNeil was taken to Community Hospital here suffering from shock.

A spokesman said the accident happened about 8:45 a.m. when the helicopter, under contract to the U.S. Forest Service and owned by Mountain West Helicopter, Provo, Utah, went through the 115,000 volt BPA line.

A forest service spokesman said MacNeil was returning to Sandpoint. Idaho, headquarters of the Kaniksu National Forest to which he was assigned when the accident occurred.

the suspected bandit, who was described as big, heavy and strong.

Followup units converged on the scene and the second suspect, spotted waiting in a car nearby, was captured by Sgt. Allen Brown, who found a bank bag containing $500 in the vehicle.

The Hazen brothers are also suspected of two other armed robberies along the Orange Coast earlier in the evening and Costa Mesa police said a wallet taken from one victim was in their possession.

Officer Ted Curry said they are suspected of pulling a $370 holdup at the E-Z In Liquor Store, 1888 Placentia Ave., a half-hour before the Tustin robbery.

Clerk John L. Becker, 48, said a young man with characteristic military haircut sauntered in and pulled a .38 caliber revolver, catching several customers at the same time.

"Okay, open a paper bag and fill it up," the victim quoted the gunman as saying.

Police said Becker emptied two cash registers and the bandit fled after ordering witnesses to lie down on the floor in the rear of the liquor store.

Earlier, about $130 was taken in a robbery at a Tic Toc Market at 2710 Camino Capistrano, in San Clemente, according to police there.

Investigators said a man who matches the description of one of the Hazen brothers entered the market and pulled a pistol on assistant manager Herbert M. Beck.

They said he also took $8 from a customer and that a wallet taken in one of the two holdups was found on one of the Marines captured after the Tustin robbery.

Officers there had staked out the small market in a fairly isolated rural area after the city was hit by a string of robberies recently.

"We've been racked by them," said Officer Bixler, who helped wrestle one of the Hazen brothers into submission shortly before midnight.

Money totalling the amount taken in the San Clemente and Costa Mesa holdups earlier was found in a bank bag in the Hazen brothers' car, police said.

Night Flight Ban Overruled

Santa Monica Decision a Lesson for Orange County

Even if Orange County wanted to, it cannot ban night flights — jets or otherwise - out of the County Airport.

That's one of the lessons drawn from a court ruling Friday overthrowing a Santa Monica city law against nighttime jet takeoffs at Santa Monica Municipal Airport.

An appellate panel of three Los Angeles Superior Court judges issued an order prohibiting officials from en-forcing the Santa Monica ordinance.

Robert Kennedy Buried

The writ of prohibition held that federal authorities have pre-empted the field of aircraft regulation.

A law similar to Santa Monica's was proposed recently by a Newport Beach homeowners group. It was sent before the Board of Supervisors, and has remained in limbo since then.

"It's my understanding that once an airport takes federal funds, it must agree to operate the airport on a nondiscriminatory basis. Banning jet flights would be discriminatory," ex-plained Robert J. Bresnahan, Orange County airport director.

Concerning the proposed nighttime jet ban at Orange County Airport, he said:

"We were advised by the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) that it would not approve this type of regulation. Everybody was standing by to see what would happen in Santa Monica, really.'

An FAA attorney in Los Angeles told the DAILY PILOT the FAA has no regulations in effect anywhere to regulate flight in order to lessen the disturbance to people below.

World's First Woman Heart Switch Fails

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) - The firs' heart to be transplanted in a woman functioned satisfactorily for an hour and a half Friday night at Dallas' Parkland Hospital before it failed for "unknown reasons."

Mrs. Esther Matthews, a 41-yearold Dallas Negro mother of five, died at 9:30 p.m., four hours and 45 minutes after the transplant was begun by a team of surgeons from the Unisersity of Texas' Southwestern Medical School.

The heart came from a white man, Bobby Wayne Blocker, 26, a Euless, Tex., used car dealer, who died 47 minutes before the transplant began.

Blocker, married and the father of two, had been injured Wednesday in a Dallas automobile accident that killed three other young men.

Dr. Watts Webb, chairman of the medical school's thoracic and cardiovascular surgical division, said "technically, the transplant was satisfactory with the heart restarting and beating satisfactorily with a normal rhythm and blood pressure for nearly one and one half hours."

"The heart then progressively failed for unknown reasons. A cardiac assist pump was used for a short period but all known means failed to change the outcome," he told newsmen.

The transplant was the world's 21st. Seven recipients remain alive -two in Houston, Tex., and one each in Paris, London, South Africa, Brazil and Argentina.

On a 23-0 vote, the Senate Friday approved an Assembly-passed resolution by Assemblyman Vincent Thomas (D-San Pedro) and E. Richard Barnes (R-San Diego).

The resolution says that during the past seven years, 57 tuna clippers have been seized on the high seas by the naval forces of Ecuador and Peru. The most recent involved the clipper Paramount on March 20.

Plead Insane as Defense Holdup Spree

Sirhan Arraigned, May

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - For the accused assassin of Sen. Robert F, Kennedy, the defense may be an insanity plea to escape the gas chamber.

Sirhan B. Sirhan, a lumpy-faced former racetrack exercise boy, was indicted for Kennedy's murder Friday. He then made a brief, but dramatic appearance at a jailhouse chapel arraighment under super security measures.

Sirhan was wheeled in and out of the half-hour proceeding in a collapsable wheelchair. The swarthy Jordanian immigrant asked for, and was granted a delay until June 28 in formally answering the charge.

The 24-year-old defendant sat at the foot of a marble-topped altar that served as the judge's bench and heard the Grand Jury indictment charging him with the murder "of Robert Francis Kennedy, a human being."

Only newsmen who had been carefully identified and searched were allowed into the chapel by sheriff's deputies determined to protect Sirhan from the fate of Lee Harvey Oswald, who was shot down in a Dallas police garage two days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Superior Court Judge Arthur L. Alarcon, at a defense request, named two psychiatrists to examine the defendant.

"The doctors are to act as agents of the attorneys for the defense," Alarcon said.

He said the psychiatrists were only to assist in determining the plea. He also stressed he was not making a decision at this time on Sirhan's sanity. Sirhan, dressed in a white, open-neck shirt and blue prison trousers, stared impassively at the 200 newsmen who jammed the makeshift courtroom. He

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (UPI) -So you think you hate to get up in the morning?

Police - who could hardly keep a straight face - today topped any story you could ever tell on yourself.

It seems that about wake-up time, a frantic mother called headquarters. Her 18-year-old daughter, she said, had an alarm clock "trapped in her head." When the patrol car got there, they found that the girl, on hearing the alarm go off, apparently had slammed it down on top of her head.

Since the clock had four sharp tongs for legs, it stuck in her scalp. A doctor at Anna Jacques Hospital removed the clock and said the only injury the girl suffered was to her pride. The police, ever gentlemen, did not name the girl.

Volunteer Hostage Stops Escapee

CHECOTAH, Okla. (UPI) - A courageous prison warden traded himself Friday for two hostages held at gunpoint by an escaped robber, and then talked the convict into releasing him. Officers said escapee Thomas J. Rogers, 25, held a policeman and a nurse's aide captive for more than four hours, threatening to kill the girl, before warden Ray Page obtained their freedom.

"He kept that gun on her head," said veteran McAlester, Okla., policeman Ray Kirkpatrick, one of the hostages. "He wasn't hostile, but I think if they had pressed him he might have shot the girl."

Page talked the escapee into releasing Marilyn Fain, 18, by offering to take her place as a hostage. Kirkpatrick was released a short time later. Rogers then surrendered to Page after talking with him briefly and was returned to the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester.

A stakeout in a Tustin market paid off late Friday when two brothers both of them Marines - were captured following a $125 holdup in which one suspect wrestled a policeman for his shotgun.

The pair are also suspected of robbing a Costa Mesa liquor store of $370 and a San Clemente grocery store of $130 earlier in the evening. Booked on suspicion of armed robbery following the Tustin holdup were Edward R. Hazen, 21, and his brother Jack A. Hazen, 20, whose San Clemente address was not immediately determined.

Tustin police said officers Richard Kretsinger and Jerry Bennett were staked out in the rear of a Seven-Eleven Market at McFadden Avenue and Village Way when the 10:45 p.m. stickup occured.

They said a young man entered and pulled a revolver on clerk James E. Moore, also holding several customers at bay, including a young housewife clutching her 10-month-old baby.

The hidden police officers said they watched as the gunman took $125 in cash and then laid a trap as he fled the small convenience market, located in a rural area.

Officer Kretsinger said the bandit, whom police declined to identify exactly as Edward or Jack Hazen, fought with him in the parking lot after being ordered to halt.

Cash' taken in the holdup, along with the robbery weapon, were dropped, according to Officer Bennett, who was frantically radioing for help as the suspect and his partner scuffled

Tough Gun Law Sought for SF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - On the urging of Mayor Joseph Alioto, Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn set about drafting a tough city gun law today. He hoped to present the draft to Monday's meeting of the supervisors. The law would make it a misdemeanor for anyone not to register with police his pistol, shotgun or rifle, whether or not he obtained the weapon in San Francisco. The stiffest misdemeanor penalties would be applied - six months in jail, a $500 fine and confiscation of the weapon, said Mendelsohn.

Stores Quit Sale Of Guns, Stock Given to Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - A Columbus discount store chain turned over $20,000 worth of guns and ammunition to the city police department Friday and decided to permanently eliminate the sale of weapons in its stores as a result of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Marty J. Rosen, president of J-Mart's Family Discount Centers, said he wanted to "remove the possibility of supplying anyone with the means to cause bodily harm, inadvertently or by intent, not only to our dedicated public leaders but to anyone regardless of station in life."

The stores' entire inventory of small arms, hand guns and ammunition was given to the police department.

"It is my hope that this action will encourage public support for sane legislation banning unrestricted gun sales immediately," Rosen said.

Up, Up Go Wages

Newport Survey Shows Rise Everywhere

Up, up and away. . . That's what's happening to salaries of public employes all over Orange County, according to a study by Newport Beach city aides.

The survey was conducted in connection with a 6.8 percent pay hike recommendation for Newport city workers, now under consideration by councilmen. One year ago, the council approved a 5 percent increase for the city's more than 400 employes.

Here's what the comparative survey shows:

- Anaheim: City employe representatives are now negotiating for a 10 percent increase, to be effective in July. Last year, the council approved an average 5 percent boost.

- Buena Park: Councilmen are studying a 5 percent hike. A year ago, a similar increase was approved.

- Costa Mesa: A 7.5 percent increase is reportedly under study by councilmen. Last July a 3.5 percent increase was approved.

- Fullerton: Employe pay was boosted 5.9 percent last December, retroactive to October. A delay in salary revisions until fall is again expected.

- Garden Grove: Workers last year

'63 March Mastermind Leaves Poor Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Poor People's Campaign has dropped Bayard Rustin, the genius of the 1963 march on Washington.

Rustin, who quit over what the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy called "very minor differences," was replaced by Washington Urban League director Sterling Tucker.

Tucker was named to succed Rustin, who had offended Abernathy and others by releasing last weekend a statement of goals for the Poor People's march.

The Poverty March on June 19 had been regarded as the most dramatic if not the climactic - public demon-stration of the month-old Poor People's March for more jobs, housing and welfare assistance. Whether it can now succeed without the organizational genius of Rustin, the gray-haired theoretician of the civil rights movement, was questionable.

Rustin, head of the A. Philip Randolph Institute in New York, organized the 1963 civil rights march on Washington that drew 210,000 persons. Tucker, little known outside Washington, was praised by Abernathy as "no stranger" to civil rights battles and as Washington activities. Tucker issued a statement through to consider and would not announce a decision on whether to accept Abernathy's offer until today.

In another shakeup, march officials said 150 "mature men" in their thirties would replace the younger, existing band of marshals who maintain discipline and security at the campsite near the Lincoln Memorial.

Abernathy and Hosea Williams, the field director of the march, have said Rustin issued a list of poor people's goals which they did not authorize. Williams called them "a bunch of jazz and foolishness."

Rustin, after setting forth specific legislative objectives for the poor that were immediately endorsed by liberal congressmen, gave the march leadership until noon Friday to settle the issue or he would quit. He quit.

Abernathy told newsmen in Washington that Rustin's program was not comprehensive enough for the Poor People's March.

- Huntington Beach: Nothing is firm, but indications are that wages will be hiked from 5 to 7.5 percent for the new fiscal year. Last year the increase averaged 5 percent.

- Orange: Preliminary reports point to a proposed 9.8 percent increase. It was 5 percent last July.

- Santa Ana: No change is expected until September. Last September a 5 percent increase was adopted.

Laguna Delays Playhouse, Art School Action ing to President Kennedy's gravesite. It is within the 31/2 acres set aside > Councilmen have continued action on both the Laguna Players and Laguna Beach School of Art and Design. Each is seeking a new facility.

Geoff Riker, Players board vice president, asked the council Wednesday for an extension until June 30 for the organization to come up with the necessary funds to cover the bid and contingencies to construct a new Laguna-Moulton Playhouse. Councilmen also continued until their next meeting the art school appeal of a planning commission standoff on whether the school may build a new facility on city-owned hillside property above the Festival of Arts. The long pending matter was continued when councilmen received a letter from attorney James Leddy, representing property owner opposition to school use of the ten parcels. Paul Stiker, representing the school, said, "This tactic has been used about three times; presenting something at the meeting with no opportunity for the council to study it or for us to study it." Councilman Roy Holm suggested at the meeting that the city might consider using some approach rather than the variance procedure such as dedicating the hillside property as part of Irvine Bowl Park. Holm indicated the council could then consider whether the school would be a fit use in the park rather than considering it as a variance which he said disturbs him. Because the variance was technically denied at the planning commission in a 2-2 vote deadlock, it would take four council votes to approve the use as an appeal from a planning commission variance denial.

Coast City Totals McCarthy Won All But Capo

Compiled By the DAILY PILOT

Orange Coast Democratic voters preferred Senator Eugene J. McCarthy over the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy in last Tuesday's balloting, a city-by-city breakdown of coastal voting indicated today.

For the Republicans, Orange Coast residents gave State Superintendent Max Rafferty a clear victory over in-cumbent U.S. Senator Thomas Kuchel of Anaheim.

The coastal voting breakdown showed McCarthy won in every city except the Mission hamlet of San Juan Capistrano with its strong Mexican-American heritage. There, Kennedy won 150 to 120 with all three precincts fully counted.

Here are the highlights of voting in major races in the unofficial city-bycity breakdown issued by County Clerk William St John:

COSTA MESA: 56 of 56 precincts reported. For presidential delegations: McCarthy, 3,377; Kennedy, 2,726. Reagan, 6,543. For U.S. Senate: Republican, Rafferty, 4,917; Kuchel, 3,671. Coastal Municipal Water District: Donald C. Simpson, 1,482; incumbent Charles V. Turner, 764.

NEWPORT BEACH: 42 of 48 precincts reported. For presidential delegations: McCarthy, 1,736; Ken-nedy, 1,057. Reagan, 7,548. For U.S. Senate: Rafferty, 5,705; Kuchel, 4,016. Coastal Municipal Water District: Donald C. Simpson, 2,849; Charles V. Turner, 1,540.

LAGUNA BEACH: 15 of 15 precincts reported. For presidential delegations: McCarthy, 950; Kennedy, 514. Reagan, 2,416. For U.S. Senate: Rafferty, 1,832; Kuchel, 1,210.

HUNTINGTON BEACH: 82 of 82 precincts reported. For presidential delegations: McCarthy, 5,542; Ken-nedy, 4,786. Reagan, 8,905. For U.S. Senate: Rafferty, 6,876; Kuchel, 4,783.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY: 21 of 21 precincts reported. For presidential delegations: McCarthy, 1,315; Kennedy, 1,202. Reagan, 2,086. For U.S. Senate: Rafferty, 1,715, Kuchel, 997.

SEAL BEACH: 27 of 30 precincts reported. For presidential delega-tions: McCarthy, 1,564; Kennedy, 1,194. Reagan, 4,052. For U.S. Senate: Rafferty, 2,965; Kuchel, 2,117.

WESTMINSTER: 40 of 40 precincts ty's 1,173 precincts and a total of 326,915 ballots have been counted.

The county total gives McCarthy, 65,427 against Kennedy's 58,893. Reagan's vote was 127,511 for his favorite son GOP delegation. In the Republican U.S. Senate race, the vote is Rafferty 102,416 against Kuchel's 62,872.

Scorpion May Have Struck Sea 'Mountain'

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) - With me-chanical failure virtually ruled out, Navy investigators showed growing conviction today that the nuclear submarine Scorpion sank to the bottom of the Atlantic after colliding with an undersea mountain.

The formal court of inquiry, enter-ing its fourth day of hearings today, heard testimony Friday affirming previous witnesses who said there were minor mechanical faults in the attack submarine's equipment but nothing that jeopardized its seaworthiness.

Capt. Wallace Greene, commander of Submarine Division 62 of which the Scorpion was a part, summed up his study of the eight-year-old vessel's condition with the statement Scorpion was "fully ready for sea" when she set out from the Azores two weeks ago for Norfolk.

Although the vessel and its 99 men are officially classified "lost in the depths of the Atlantic," the search went on for the 13th day today.

Officials said ships specially equirped for deep water search were concentrating on an area south of the Azores where the Scorpion was last heard from by radio on May 21.

The area has many undersea mountains. Witnesses testified earlier that some are not accurately depicted on the Navy charts the Scorpion was using, making a plausible case for the undersea collision theory some court members appeared to feel was the probable explanation of the tragedy.

A note of mystery was introduced Friday when Greene told the court the Scorpion was off course at the time of its last radio transmission because it was on a secret mission. According to previous testimony, she was 27 miles from her assigned position at that time.

At 4:40 p.m. (EDT) the procession was to begin the 35-minute trip to Arlington, about four miles distant. A 15 - minute graveside ceremony was arranged, witnessed by some 2,000 invited guests and televised to the nation. Robert Kennedy's grave was 60 feet to the east and south of John Kennedy. Robert Kennedy's burial place is near two Japanese Magnolia trees just outside the circular walk lead-grave.

PARIS (UPI) - Instructions from their leaders in Hanoi have ruled out an offer of concessions in return for a total halt of U.S. air raids on the north, North Vietnamese sources at the Vietnam war talks said today.

The sources said Xuan Thuy, the chief Hanoi negotiator, will emphasize with added vigor Wednesday that any "serious" talk of peace can come only after an unconditional and complete cessation of all U.S. attacks on North Vietnam.

W. Averell Harriman, the leader of the U.S. negotiating team, was in New York for the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, with him was his deputy, Cyrus Vance.

Since the talks began May 13, Harriman has repeatedly insisted the North Vietnamese must show some restraint on their part if the Paris talks are to succeed in their objective of toning down the war enough to permit the start of formal peace negotiations.

The Hanoi sources said the latest word from their Communist leadership said they were determined to hold out for an American promise to "fully and unconditionally" stop the bombing.

The source added that they expect the talks to last "a very long time." Both sides appeared ready for an extended stay in Paris waiting to

Reagan Backs Grape Growers On NY Boycott

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - Gov. Ronald Reagan stood behind the state's grape growers today in their efforts to prevent a threatened boycott of California table grapes by New York City supermarkets.

Reagan Friday ordered state government agencies to "gather all the facts . . . so that steps may be taken to stop" the boycott which the California Grape and Tree Fruit League says will be started Monday by the AFL-CIO.

AFL-CIO officials were unavailable to comment on the report.

"I deplore these tactics and am hopeful that the chain stores will not be intimidated by these threats." Reagan said in a news release. He described the boycott as "irresponsible tactics."

The typewriter was being delivered to prisoner Jay Avery Bayer on a court order because he is acting as his own attorney. Bayer was arrested on a charge of petty theft.

Deputies stopped the woman, whose identity was not disclosed, after she entered the jail lobby. Two derringers and one revolver were discovered taped to a metal panel inside the rear of the typewriter during a routine inspection of the machine.

chance of rain. Inevitably, memories were revived of the solemn state funeral of John Fitzgerald Kennedy on Nov. 25, 1963, when a riderless horse was followed by 13 members of royal families, 16 presidents and heads of states, 38 foreign ministers, seven heads of national legislatures and six defense ministers and military chiefs.

Robert Kennedy's burial was not that elaborate but attendance by most of his colleagues in the senate and his rivals for the presidency and by representatives of most of the 113 nations which maintain diplomatic missions in Washington was evidence of the esteem in which he was held, in America and around the world.

It was a rare departure from international protocol for high ranking foreign officials to attend the funeral of a U.S. Senator, but Kennedy, who had covered much of the globe in his travels, was so highly regarded abroad that sentiment overruled precedent.

Kennedy was appointed Attorney General by President Kennedy despite his own misgivings about taking a ranking government post in his brother's administration. He served until Sept. 3, 1964; when he resigned to run for the Senate from New York.

Kennedy qualified for burial at Arlington, now filled to capacity, by virtue of having been a high ranking government official who had been honorably discharged by the Armed Forces. He volunteered for service as a seaman during World War II.

Fired for Book, Teacher Wins Cash Settlement

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Robert Kendall, 31, an English teacher who claimed dismissal from a private school in Woodland Hills because of a book he wrote, has received a $2,450 settlement, it was disclosed today.

Kendall, author of "White Teacher in a Black School," said he was fired by the Pinecrest Ranch School in 1965. He said the school claimed he was incompetent, but he charged the book prompted the dismissal. The book was based on a previous experience while Kendall was employed by the Los Angeles City Board of Education. Kendall, who lived in Woodland Hills when the Superior Court complaint was filed, had sought $127,250 damages, but the school agreed to the compromise settlement.

Mourning Delays 'Top' School Rites

As a result of the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, the dedication of Laguna Beach's Top of the World Elementary School has been rescheduled for Wednesday, June 12 at 7 p.m. at the school.

The ceremonies were to be held Sunday, now been proclaimed a national day of mourning.

After Greene's comment, the court went into private session.

Testimony was also taken in closed session on an admitted failure of an emergency system for blowing water out of the sub's ballast tanks.

Two Navy captains testified that, in their view, the emergency ballast tank blower system and other known mechanical and structure weaknesses were not serious enough to have caused the sub to sink.

Followup units converged on the scene and the second suspect, spotted waiting in a car nearby, was captured by Sgt. Allen Brown, who found a bank bag containing $500 in the vehicle.

The Hazen brothers are also suspected of two other armed robberies along the Orange Coast earlier in the evening and Costa Mesa police said a wallet taken from one victim was in their possession.

Officer Ted Curry said they are suspected of pulling a $370 holdup at the E-Z In Liquor Store, 1888 Placentia Ave., a half-hour before the Tustin robbery.

Clerk John L. Becker, 48, said a young man with characteristic military haircut sauntered in and pulled a .38 caliber revolver, catching several customers at the same time.

"Okay, open a paper bag and fill it up," the victim quoted the gunman as saying.

Police said Becker emptied two cash registers and the bandit fled after ordering witnesses to lie down on the floor in the rear of the liquor store.

Earlier, about $130 was taken in a robbery at a Tic Toc Market at 2710 Camino Capistrano, in San Clemente, according to police there.

Investigators said a man who match es the description of one of the Hazen brothers entered the market and pulled a pistol on assistant manager Herbert M. Beck.

They said he also took $8 from a customer and that a wallet taken in one of the two holdups was found on one of the Marines captured after the Tustin robbery.

Officers there had staked out the small market in a fairly isolated rural area after the city was hit by a string of robberies recently.

"We've been racked by them," said Officer Bixler, who helped wrestle one of the Hazen brothers into submission shortly before midnight.

Money totalling the amount taken in the San Clemente and Costa Mesa holdups earlier was found in a bank bag in the Hazen brothers' car, police said.

Newport Men Flip Bal To Busy Campaigner

It was one of those crazy things that happen in American politics.

But it gave two Newport Beach men a memory they will never forget. And it made one of them just possibly the receiver for the last football pass ever thrown by a famous touch football player named Robert Kennedy.

It all started last Sunday when Newport Beach insurance agent Mike Lawler and a friend, electronic parts

Newport Writer Receives Award

Wesley Marx, Newport Beach resident and free lance writer, has won the 1968 James D. Phelan Award in non-fictional prose for his recently published book, The Frail Ocean.

The award carries a $1,000 stipend, and is one of several in literature and art offered every other year for native Californians 20 to 40 years old.

Marx, 33, writes frequently for national magazines and newspapers.

His award winning book deals with ocean conservation and the dangers of its exploitation. Earlier this year, he was a member of a technical party on a 7,000-mile ocean survey cruise.

Recently, he has become active in the Friends of Upper Bay, a citizens group interested in preserving a portion of Upper Newport Bay for conservation purposes.

United Press International Once upon a time, not so many years ago, you could assume with little risk of error that a young man graduating from a theological seminary would enter upon a ministerial career as pastor or assistant pastor of a congregation.

That assumption is no longer valid. Surveys indicate only a little more than half of the men graduating from seminaries this month will go into the pastoral ministry.

THE REST will go into the so-called "specialized ministries" which have great appeal to young clergymen who fear their vocation to Christian service may be frustrated or stifled in the confining atmosphere of the institutional church. ministry" has traditionally been applied to teaching posts and chaplaincies. In recent years, it has been expanded to include social students, hippies, night club work because they are workers and others rarely reached by conventional church programs; and leadership of various kinds of protest movements.

Seminarians and newly ordained clergymen are attracted to specialized ministries, in many cases because they want to "be where the action is." They want to feel that what they're doing is "relevant" to the real human needs and concerns of contemporary society.

THUS THE TREK into specialized ministries is implicitly a judgment on local church life.

What these young ministers are saying, in ef-fect, is that they believe there are more important thnigs for a dedicated Christian to do than struggle with the problems of institutional The term "specialized housekeeping which constitute so large a part of the typical pastor's job. Roger Dr.

the current issue of the Christian Century that the growng tendency of deeply committed Christians to seek areas of service oustide the church reflects a "conviction that the battle with the organizational church is not the one most worth fighting."

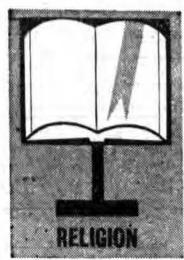

All of this should be prayerfully pondered by lay church members, for it suggests that unless they change some of their attitudes and expectations, they will find fore and more of their pulpits going empty, or being filled with second-rate talent.

But seminarians and young ministers might also do a bit of prayerful pondering about the possibilities (See CASSELS, Page 5)

We are considering investing in some apartments. We do not want to be bothered with tenants or any management problems; we just don't have the time. Is now the time to get into something like this or should we wait? What are some of the things we should be looking for? What do you recommend?

T. R. A., Newport Beach

An investment in an apartment development can be just as trouble-free for an owner as an investment in a blue chip leased commercial property. In addition, it can pay a much better return without its income being rigidly fixed for a long term. It also has the possibility of increased income with a resulting increase in market value. Sound management is the key to this situation, therefore, the proposed investment is designed to produce sufficient income to support full-time professional management.

Adequate market research and financial analysis are imperative to the success of any apartment ven-ture. We firmly believe than an apartment investment can be totally successful if it is properly researched and certain important criteria are considered. Some of the important factors are location, price, room layout. architectural design and population concentration.

As of January 1, 1967 Orange County's Population was estimated to be 1,235,924. Many economists, including Stanford Research Institute, predict that by 1980 the population will be 2.5 million. Orange County is the fastest growing major metropolitan area in the United States. To satisfy the demand for apartments being created by the influx of population, it should be neces-sary to build approximately 10,000 to 15,000 new units in Orange County each year.

In 1965, building permits were issued for 5,598 mul-tiple units and in 1966 there were permits issued for only 3,591 new units. This same downward trend continued in 1967, therefore, the high vacancy factors that prevailed in Orange County as a result of a previous overbuilt condition have been eliminated. Rent schedules of projects for which there is the most demand have risen steadily in the past year and should continue to rise. The future looks very bright indeed for apartment house investors.

Huntington Beach recently announced that we had reached the 100,000 population level. Does this rank us as the second largest city in Orange County? First, second or third, we are on the grow! just look at our vacant fields; but don't wait too long to look because there will soon be buildings where beans used to be! How do we rank with other Orange County cities?

Please explain what an "acceleration clause" is, and what effect it has. Thank You.

S. T., Costa Mesa.

The term "acceleration clause" refers to a provision in a note and deed of trust or mortgage requiring immediate payment of the entire unpaid balance of principal and interest upon the occurrence of a specified event or events.

One of the two common types of acceleration clauses contained in most notes, makes the entire amount of unpaid principal and interest become immediately due and payable upon default, at the option of the lender.

The other type of acceleration clause, also referred to as "due on sale clause" or "alienation clause." makes the entire amount of unpaid principal and interest become immediately due and payable upon the sale or transfer of the property.

County Steps Up Housing Tempo

Orange County picked up in the first quarter of 1968 but market remains critically tight.

It was the best first quarter since 1964 and it was also the first time in four years that building starts exceeded the number of housing units absorbed in the same period.

The county now has barely 10,000 units in inventory and only 7,500 under construction. In the past 12 months, approximately 8,700 units were absorbed by the Orange County market. Rental units were taken up somewhat more rapidly than tract houses.

These are among the findings of Advance Mortgage Corporation's quarterly survey, U.S. Housing Markets, published today. The study compares Orange County with 16 other although they are still markets. Joseph LaLiberte.

Statistics from another source indicate that present population increase in the area is over 460 persons per day, due to in-migration and natural increases of births over deaths, at an annual growth rate of 168.000 per year.

Intermission UCI Rep Enjoys 2nd Big Season

By TOM TITUS of the Dally Pilot Staff There are many ways of measuring success in the theater, but none so certain as those three magic letters SRO. When your playgoers consistently outnumber your seats, brother, you have arrived.

Last Saturday night we sat in on the final performance of "The Good Woman of Setzuan" which closed out the second season of the Irvine Repertory Theater at UCI. And by the number of audience members seated in the aisles and standing at the rear of the Studio Theater, it would seem that the IRT definitely has arrived.

Seconding that motion is Bob Cohen, the young UCI drama prof who created the student company a year ago and guided it through the first two seasons. He views the season just completed as far superior to the first, and tabs "Setzuan" as the finest accomplishment of that season.

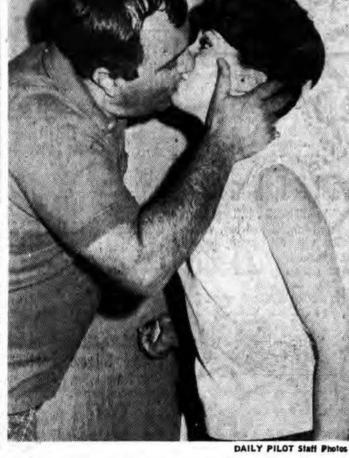

"THIS SHOW WAS THE biggest acting stretch for the company, which is why we saved it for last," Cohen reports. "By the end of the season we can begin to count on the ensemble effect; the kids are used to working with each other and with me, and discipline is less strict, because we are working on a more intimate, personal basis."

This, Cohen explains, was the principle behind the initial season of 1967 when the student repertory group staged "Oedipus Tyrannos," three one-act plays (including one written by Cohen) and Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," the last production and the most difficult.

This season the Irvine Repertory Theater mounted "The Hostage" and "Setzuan" under Cohen's direction and "The Dark of the Moon," directed by Herbert Machiz, a noted professional in the field. Audience response was exceptional, and aisle sitters became a common sight at the Studio Theater.

We could have extended 'Setzuan,' " Cohen muses, "but we hadn't planned on such a heavy sale. If we'd held over, we'd have run past the last day of school."

vacation in the East where he'll write a book on directing and another on modern drama, will face a situation akin to that of a basketball coach who's just won a championship with a team of underclassmen when he returns to UCI next fall. Only four members of the IRT will be lost to graduation, leaving most of this year's company available for the 1969 season.

'We'll have a longer season next year," the director predicts. "There'll be four plays instead of three, running for two weeks each, in stock rather than alternating in repertory.'

The Irvine Repertory Theater is a prestige item at UCI. Auditions for the group are exhausting and demanding-and are just an indication of the artistic labor required once a student joins the IRT. As Cohen points out, it amounts to 23 weeks without a day off, alternating performances of one play with rehearsals for another.

'THE STUDENTS SEEM TO be more dedicated this year." Cohen observes. "more aware of their position in the theater. And more of them will continue their theatrical training after school is out."

Among these are Oakley Hall, Bruce Bouchard. Steve Nesbit, Pamela Brown and Jeri Collins, who have received scholarships to study with the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco; Sally Hayton. Bob Wallace and Betty Tesman, bound for the Southampton Summer Theater in Long Island; Charles Hutchins to the Santa Maria Drama Festival, and Piper Zeller, who will be assistant director of summer stock in Cour d'Alene, Idaho. James McKie, meanwhile, will return to South Coast Repertory.

Cohen's plans for next season? "Hopefully, more acting classes and a heavier emphasis on training. And, of course, to expand our schedule and just do what we're doing better."

Sellout Crowd to Watch Big D Try for Record Osteen Gets Into Act, Blanks Philadelphia, 2-0

By EARL GUSTKEY of the Daily Pliot Staf

Don Drysdale, a talented athlete who for years pitched in the shadow of Sandy Koufax, stands again tonight in America's sports spotlight.

Not only will he be gunning for his seventh consecutive shutout - he already holds the major league record of six - but the six-foot-six sidewinder will be after Walter Johnson's record of 56 straight scoreless innings when he takes on the Phillies at Dodger Stadium.

During the 1913 season, Johnson set the record Drysdale will be firing at tonight. Last Tuesday, his 0-5 job on the Pirates gave him 54 straight scoreless innings. In other words, just three more runless frames knocks Johnson - who once pitched for Fullerton High School - out of the record books.

Drysdale's record-breaking shutout over Pittsburgh Tuesday was in stark contrast to last Friday's zero job on the Giants.

The Pirates went down with hardly a whimper - they could manage just three hits off Big D, who is obviously is the best form of his career.

The Giants screamed bloody murder when Drysdale hit a batter in the ninth inning with the bases loaded but the umpire ruled the hitter made no attempt to get out of the way and was not allowed to take first base.

Claude Osteen broke the stranglehold Philadelphia has held on him and hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to their fifth consecutive victory, beating the Phillies 2-0 Friday night with a four-hitter.

No Philadelphia runner got past second base as Osteen raised his record to 5-7 with the Dodgers' fifth straight complete game in which they have allowed only 26 hits and three runs in 46 innings.

Osteen had lost to the Phillies nine straight times before limiting them to four singles as he outpitched Chris Short.

Bob Bailey tripled off the rightcenterfield fence in the fourth and scored on Ken Boyer's sacrifice fly for the first run.

Paul Popovich beat out a hit with two out in the seventh and scored when Ted Savage slammed his second double for the other marker.

Short, who allowed six hits in 8 1/3 innings, fell to 3-7.

Connolly Defeats OCC's Burke

By GLENN WHITE of the Daily Pilot Staff

LOS ANGELES - Orange Coast College history teacher Ed Burke blamed a slow windup for his failure to defeat old rival Hal Connolly in 'Friday night's hammer throwing competition at the Coliseum-Compton Invitational meet, here.

However, Burke's coach, Chuck Coker of Huntington Beach, pinned most of the explanation for the loss on a strenious workout session Thursday when the OCC instructor had several heaves over 220 feet, the best of which measured 226-0.

"Ed should have quit after 10 good hard throws," Coker confides. "But he was doing so well he took another 10."

Burke's best effort at the Coliseum

was 211-5 on his first toss and earned him a second place finish.

Dee DeBusk of Costa Mesa, the Orange Coast area's other contribution to Friday's affair, got off to a poor start but still managed to pull up to third place in he women's 100 with a 10.9 clocking.

Paul Williams of Huntington Beach scratched from the special high school 880, still suffering from heavy chest congestion which has handicapped him the past two weeks.

Top event of the evening was the 440 relay, won by Santa Clara Valley Youth Village in American record time of 39 flat with USC second at 39.1 SC is not the American record holder despite having run 38.6 because Lennox Miller is a Jamaican).

Tommie Smith outlegged Miller to gain the victory and the Trojans were handicapped by a poor baton exchange from O.J. Simpson to Miller.

The 440 was also outstanding as Lee Evans fought from behind to edge UCLA freshman Wayne Collett. Evans' time was 45.8. Collett ran 46.0.

Milers put on a tremendous show with eight-tenths of a second separating the first four finishers. Sam Bair won in four minutes flat.

Shot put king Randy Matson whipped the ball 69-1 to easily capture his specialty. Georgeg Young zipped to a nifty 8:36.4 for the 3,000 meter steeple chase

And in the heralded dash duel between Smith and Jim Hines, Smith took the 100 in 10.3 and the 200 in 20.4

Burke's series was 211-5, foul, 209-7, 211-4, 208-2, foul. It was a far cry from his American record of 235-11.

"Anyone with throws like that deserves to get beat. I was getting any speed into my wind and when you don't have speed at the beginning, you don't have it at the end," he confided.

Connolly, former world record holder and Olympic champion, went ahead in this year's rivalry with Burke, 2-1.

The 36-year-old Connolly took the lead on his second attempt of the night - a 216-0 effort - and never looked back. His series was 208-9, 216-0, 221-0, 216-10, 218-7, 220-7,

It's Chapman In a Breeze For Title, 11-0

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) - Chapman College blasted Delta State of Mississippi with 10 runs in the first two innings and went on to an 11-0 win for the championship of the inaugural NCAA Small College Tournament Friday night.

Freshman Rick McHale, a lefthander, allowed only two hits in pitching the shutout.

Both hits were by Delta's Rich Peeples, an infiled dribbler in the fourth and a solid blow in the seventh. McHale struck out seven and walked two in notching his 11th victory against three losses on the year. The Chapman Panthers were paced by centerfielder Tony Spano, who had a home run, triple and double to drive in five runs.

Spano was named the outstanding player in the tourney and was joined by teammates McHale, pitcher Bill Holt, third baseman Jim Harris and outfielder Dennis Veltz on the All-Star team.

Others on the team were catcher Wes Slough, shortstop John Smillie and outfielder Jim Whitehurst of Delta: second baseman Dana Ryan of Arkansas State and first sacker Jeff Hansen of Long Island University.

Long Island University was the pretourney favorite, but fell to Chapman in the opening round. Chapman won the tourney with three straight wins, while Delta State struggled back through the consolation bracket.

Chapman went through regional and national play undefeated and posted a season mark of 35-18.

Delta finished the year with a 20-11-1 record.

Friday's championship was delayed for one hour because of rain.

There were six individual events for female swimmers in the 1964 Games at Tokyo. The qualifying times in four of the events are faster than the eighth place time in the Olympic finals.

Of the six events, four gold medals were won by Americans along with four silver and five bronze for a total 13 of a possible 18.

The new Women's Olympic events are the 200 and 800-meter freestyle, the 200-meter backstroke, the 100meter breaststroke, the 200-meter butterfly and the 200-meter individual medley.

Under chairman Kennety Treadway of Bartlesville, Okla., the Olympic women's swimming committee has drawn up a severe list of qualifying times to hold the expanded program to manageable size.

The Olympic minimum qualifying times: Freestyle - 100 meters, 1:02.4; 200,

Crampton Pads Lead at Indy; 66 by Graham

INDIANAPOLIS. Ind. (AP) -Bruce Crampton preserved his two stroke lead with a two-under-par 70 Friday, but Lou Graham moved into serious contention with a record-tying 66 in the second round of the $100,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament.

Sam Snead, who turned 56 last week, and Mike Hill each shot 69 and tied Graham for the second spot at 140-two strokes behind Crampton.

Tied at 141 were Billy Casper, the PGA's leading money winner; Speedway defending champ Frank Beard, veteran Dutch Harrison and Mike Higgins.

The 148 cutoff erased 1964 champion Bobby Nichols, along with Larry Hinson, who hit 66 in the pro-amateur tourney here Wednesday. Nichols shot 74 in the second round for a 149 total. Hinson hit par 72 but still had a 150 total.

Crampton, the Australian who won the 1965 Speedway Open, shook a penalty shot on the final hole for his second straight sub-par round.

Casper, winner of the Speedway tourney in 1962 and 1966, and Crampton's partner the first two rounds, tied the Aussie after 27 holes with a three under par 33. But the star from Peacock Gap, Calif., faltered to a two-over-par 38 coming home.

Known for his sharp putting. Graham used only 27 putts in tying the Speedway record set in 1966 by Chi Chi Rodriguez and John Schlee.

Angels Flash Offense To Split With Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) - The California Angels rapped 15 hits including homers by Don Mincher and Tom Satriano and whipped the New York Yankees 8-4 for a split of their twinight doubleheader Friday.

The Yankees took the opener 4-1 behind Fritz Peterson's eight-hit pitching.

Today's scheduled outing with the Yanks was postponed because of the assassination to New York senator, Robert F. Kennedy. It will be played as part of a double-header Sunday.

Mincher's three-run shot in the first inning gave the Angels a quick lead, and Jim McGlothlin weathered some rough early going to post his fifth victory.

McGlothlin was touched for a tworun homer by Mickey Mantle in the Yankees' first and a run-scoring triple by pinch-hitter Charlie Smith in the second.

Mincher, Rick Reichardt and Jim Fregosi led the Angel attack with three hits apiece. Fregosi had two triples. Satriano's bases-empty homer came in the fifth inning.

Peterson struck out seven and surrendered California's only run in the sixth inning when Paul Schaal, Jim Fregosi and Rich Reichardt bunched singles.

By then, the Yankees had a 3-0 edge

DAILY PILOT 17

LOS ANGELES - Two hours before the baseball game of Tuesday, June 4, Don Drysdale was a great deal more nervous than a cat. Today it's the same story all over again for Big D.

BUD TUCKER

And, why not. A cat never waits around to go out and pitch for a major league record which might stand for all time.

Tuesday, Drysdale was to throw baseballs at the Pittsburgh Pirates at Dodger Stadium and needed to get only five men out to break Carl Hubbell's National League record of 46 1/3 consecutive scoreless innings of pitching.

Further, although it seemed out of the question at the moment, Big D had a shot at the major league record of 56 innings held by Walter Johnson, a man known as the Big Train. But he breezed by Hubbell's mark and now tonight he shoots for Johnson's seemingly unreachable plateau.

"I wish I could go out there right now and get it are so big our only hope will over with," Drysdale said at 6 a.m. "This waiting around is murder.

"For one thing, I'm getting too old for this kind of thing. It should have happened 10 years ago.

A guy observed that the Pirates were not renowned as a team of banjo hitters and asked Drysdale if there was any other team he would rather face in quest of the record.

"Yes," Big D said with a nervous smile, "the West Covina Little League."

But if Drysdale was pervous and upset before that one, he figures to be a basket case tonight when he throws against the Philadelphia Phillies. His fidgets have since been greatly compounded by his heroics of Tuesday night.

Drysdale broke Hubbell's record without anything resembling a struggle but he went much further than anyone, least of all himself, had dared hope. He threw a shutout at the Pirates and ran his consecutive shutbut string to six, for an all-time record, and his inning otal to 54. This leaves him six outs short of Johnson's incient mark.

Big D takes his big run at immortality tonight and if he was nervous last time, this time he figures to be a mess.

You envision it all taking place. Drysdale walks out to the mound to a standing ovation similar to the one that accompanied him Tuesday.

He takes his warmup pitches. Then he stands on the mound and throws up. Or, he takes his warmup pitches and throws up his hands and runs for the Dodger dugout and on to the locker room and the bathroom.

You asked Drysdale about Saturday.

"I think I'll be okay once I get out to the mound," Big D laughed. "The only trouble might be getting out there. My legs felt kind of weak the other night. I'll have the real rubber wheels Saturday.

"Is there any rule against getting a couple of guys to carry me out there?"

Once out there, Drysdale will have considerable to think about. For one thing, he will probably remember the heart-stopping play made in Tuesday's sixth inning by Paul Popovich, the castoff second baseman from the Chicago Cubs.

Again? The North team has never won in the three-year history of Orange County's annual North-South prep allstar basketball game and Russ Hawk, this year's North coach, is fully aware of it.

He was asked if he considers his team as the underdog for the June 22 game at Orange Coast College.

"Very definitely," he said. "Those guys (the South) be to run and shoot and work hard on the press." Hawk, selected for the North coaching post for the outstanding record his Sunny Hills (Fullerton) team recorded last season, is apprehensive over meeting the tall Southerners. South center John Yule is 6-7 and forward Mark Soderberg is 6-81/2. And the North's progress toward equalizing that advantage isn't yet apparent. "Nobody is looking particularly good at this stage," Hawk said.

"Most of the guys are out of condition and they're unfamiliar with the drills we're using. We haven't even had an inter-squad scrimmage yet." Hawk has his club running through drills at Fullerton Junior College. He says he hopes to have a scrimmage against Fullerton JC and-or Chapman College sometime before the game.

Coast Prep Athletes Close Highest Successful Season

High school athletes from the Orange Coast area chalked up, without a doubt, the finest record ever during the 1967-68 school year.

When one ponders the list of achievements by them, he will find that the Coast area produced varsity champions in both the Sunset League and Irvine League in no less than six sports. CIF titles were garnered twice during the course of the year.

Water polo, wrestling, basketball, baseball, tennis and golf were the sports dominated.

The glory started off in the fall when Newport Harbor defeated Fullerton, 5-3, for the CIF championship in water polo. The Tars had taken the Sunset title while Corona del Mar was doing likewise in the Irvine loop.

the quarter - finals before bowing to Marina.

DAILY PILOT Staff Photo

Between the three, they compiled a staggering 82-11 record. Seven of those losses were to each other and the other four were to undefeated Compton.

Then spring sports rolled around and the domination continued.

Westminster and Costa Mesa won loop baseball titles and Chris Gammon of Costa Mesa sparked the Mustangs to a second place in the Bee division of the CIF swimming finals.

He posted a 54.3 in the 100-yard butterfly to earn a CIF record. Paul Ralston of Westminster led the Lions to a third place finish in the CIF gymnastics finals.

Pirates Explode For Win

By RAY PLUTKO of The Dally Pilet Stoff

ANAHEIM-Orange Coast College (Ward's Pirates), virtually silent in the offensive department Friday night, exploded for three runs in the ninth inning to pull out a 4-2 win over Cal State Fullerton (Anaheim Hustlers at La Palma Park.

A fine crowd was on hand for the Orange County Metro League's season inaugural and it was treated to a sparkling mound effort by Pirates' Gary Dunkelber-

Utilizing what was prob-ably the best-breaking stuff of his pitching career, Dunkelberger fanned 14 batters including seven straight over the middle innings and failed to yield a free pass in the route-going effort.

However, the talented right - hander had to rely on some ninth-inning heroics on a triple by Mike Bailey and a tie-breaking single by Din Dalebout.

Both Orange Coast and Golden West are in action Sunday, Orange Coast testing Santa Ana JC in a 2 p.m. outing at Memorial Park and Golden West utilizing that same field at 7 in clashing with Cal State Fullerton.

There were two outs and the Pirates had a man standing at third base. Maury Wills, the former Dodger captain, came to the plate. Wills selected a Drysdale pitch and drilled it to the right of Popovich. The 30,000 witnesses groaned. Surely it was a hit and the run would score.

But Pop made the play, an incredible play, and threw out Wills and Drysdale was still alive as part of history.

As Big D said, he is getting a trifle old for this sort of thing but it is rather typical of the man and his career. He is a workhorse and one of the most durable pitchers in the history of the pastime.

As trainer Bill Buhler puts it, "One thing about Drysdale. you know he is going to be ready to pitch. He'll be there every four days. You can set your watch by the big guy."

So it is, then, one thing figures as sure for tonight. Big D will be there. He'll be there two hours early, pacing up and down and worrying and fretting. He'll be a great deal more nervous than a cat, but he'll be there.

In short, it's a big day for Big D. He has a train to catch. Copyright, 1968, SGV Tribune, Inc.

On June 14, Americans will observe Flag Day, commemorating the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by Congress on June 14, 1777.

RE ATGOR

During the intervening years, many stories have been circulated concerning the flag's origin, some of which have little basis for support. As time passes, it becomes increasingly difficult to separate fact from fiction.

As a matter of fact, the origin of the flag is so shrouded in mystery that no one can say today with certainty who first proposed its design or where and when the Stars and Stripes was firs unfurled.

PRIOR TO AND during the years of the American Revolution, many flage of various designs were used by the colonists on both land and sea.

Then, in December, 1775, following the authorization of a Continental Navy by Congress, a then-obscure Navy Lieutenant named John Paul Jones raised a "Grand Union" flag over the "Alfred," one of the ships in the new fleet.

Early in 1776, enroute to the Bahamas, it received its first baptism of salt water.

This flag, adapted from the British "Meteor Flag" bore the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew in the blue union, symbolic of loyalty to Great Britain and, in the field, 13 red and white stripes representing the American colonies.

ON NEW YEAR'S DAY, 1776, General George Washington, com-mander-in-chief of the Continental Army, also raised a "Grand Union" flag over his camp just outside Boston.

Though not generally used as a landbattle flag, the "Grand Union" flag or "Union" or "Congress" flag as it was sometimes called, was really our first national flag despite the fact that it was never adopted by Congress.

From it, by one simple change that of removing the obnoxious crosses of St. George and St. Andrew from the first canton and rep them with 13 white stars - the Stars and Stripes was later created. In the journal of Congress, under date of June 14, 1777, between two resolutions submitted by the Marine Committee, appears this brief but momentous entry: "RESOLVED: that the Flag of the United Sattes be made of thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation.'

In observance of Flag Day, Patience Wright Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and Cavalier Chapter, Colonial Dames XVII Century, join in presenting this true story of the birth and growth of the "Stars and Stripes."

the first to gain foreign recognition for the flag just as he was the first, in an hour-long battle off the coast of England, to raise "The American Stars," victoriously, over a beaten foe. Following an Act of Congress on Jan. 13, 1794, two stars and two stripes were added to the flag to provide for the admission of Vermont and Kentucky. This 15 star-15 stripe flag was the banner of our growing nation for almost a quarter of a century.

Fearing that too many stripes would spoil the design of the flag, Congress passed a law on April 4, 1818, returning the flag to its original 13 stars and 13 stripes and providing for a new star to be added to the field as additional states came into the union.

AS TO WHO designed or made the first flag, there were two chief contenders, Francis Hopkinson and Betsy Ross.

An ardent advocate of independence. Francis Hopkinson was a man of culture, ability and integrity who had served for a time as a member of Congress from New Jersey.

Maybe Betsy Ross Didn't Design the First Stars and Stripes-But No One Can Prove She Didn't.

Soon after the passing of the flag resolution, he was appointed as one of the three commissioners of the Continental Navy. Possessed of both poetic and artistic ability, Hopkinson had, at various times exerted his abili-

George Ross, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Though it is not definitely known that her business in June 1776 included the making of flags, the fact that she was a flag-maker sometime prior to May 29, 1777 is attested to by a Navy record of that date ordering that she be paid a certain amount for "making the colours."

It is also known that Mrs. Ross, her daughters and granddaughters continued in the flag-making business for 50 years. In addition, General Washington was actually in Philadelphia from May 22 to June 5, 1776, conferring with Congress on the conduct of the war.

IN 1905 the Betsy Ross Memorial Association opened the Betsy Ross House on Arch Street in Philadelphia as "The American Flag House," a public shrine.

Long before this was done, the story of Betsy Ross and the flag had spread across the nation and was even taught in our schools. Yet, many historians contend that it is the most widely circulated of all the misconceptions which are held about the flag.

However, from all the controversy, at least one concrete fact emerges: just as the advocates of Betsy Ross have never been able to prove she actually did make the flag, the historians who contend it is all a myth have never been able to prove that she didn't make it.

So far as most Americans are concerned - historians or nonhistorians-Betsy Ross made that flag.

Francis Hopkinson and his claim for the flag, which some historians believe to be much more valid than that of Betsy Ross, is today little known or remembered.

IT WAS NOT until 1814, 40 years after the flag resolution, that Americans became flag conscious. It was attributable for the greater part to a song which a British Admiral, a British composer and an American poet helped to create.

Violence 50 Million Guns in America-Amid a 'Steady Diet of Mayhem'

By JOAN S. GIMLIN Editorial Research Reports

If violence, in the words of Negro militant H. Rap Brown, is "as American as cherry pie," realization of that fact still has come as a bitter shock. Violence is the subject of constant and at times obsessive discussion, not because it is new in American life but because its current manifestations are different than in the past. It is spread throughout society and is associated with not one but a dozen issues and causes, including racial rioting, student rebellions, and anti-war movements

The killing of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles, coming barely two months after the assassination of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., served to fortify the impression that violence in America is out of control. Kennedy's statement acknowledging victory in the California Democratic primary, delivered minutes before he was shot, included a remark deploring violence.

ACCORDING TO Daniel Moynihan, head of the M.I.T.-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies, "The sheer effort to hold things together has become the central issue of politics in a nation that began the decade intent on building a society touched with moral grandeur.

The nation's population is reacting to the latest threats to its security by indulging in an orgy of gun buying which has put 50 million guns in about half of all U.S. homes, mostly for purposes of "self-defense," The political pressures stemming from public unrest over the violence of the Vietnam war have become so great that President Johnson's decision not to seek another term can be viewed as one of the results. U.N. Secretary General U Thant has blamed "the prevailing mood of violence in the United States and elsewhere" on the psychological climate created by the war.

PSYCHIATRISTS and sociologists warn that the nation's children are being conditioned to accept violence as normal through a steady diet of mayhem on TV and movie screens. Psychiatrist Fredric Wertham accuses the mass media of trampling on children's "inborn capacity for sympathy." Acts of murder and serious sadism are reported regularly among young children, whereas a generation ago such crimes were rare.

Numerous observers have noted that our current problems have their roots in the violent beginnings and development of the nation. Revolutionary America was familiar with the use of mob violence against the British, but occasionally the mob frightened American leaders themselves. In his "Autobiography" John Adams wrote, "If the power of the country should get into such hands . . . to what purpose have we sacrificed our time, health and everything else? Surely we must guard against this spirit . . , or we shall repent of all our conduct."

But America was to become a land where killing Indians became part of frontier life, where enslavement of Negroes was justified as "parentalism," and where class warfare found expression in a bloody labor history.

THE REASONS for man's violence are debated among students of human and animal behavior. Biologist and psychiatrist Konrad Lorenz believes that animals and man possess a fundamental aggressive instinct which serves the purpose of conserving, rather than of destroying the species. While predatory animals have inhibitions which prevent them from killing their own, only man, standing at the forefront of animal development, is in danger of suffering destruction from his aggressive instinct.

His powers of verbal speech and conceptual thought have enabled him to invent sophisticated weapons and establish complicated social patterns but his instincts for controlling his inventions have not kept pace with these products of his brain. The great question is, says Lorenz, "will man gain sufficient knowledge of himself before he destroys himself?"

PSYCHOLOGISTS who favor instinctive theories of aggression are at odds with those who see violence as a reaction learned in society. "The fault," says social biologist Ashley Montagu, "lies not in our nature, but in our nurture." As he sees it, the failure to humanize children by teaching them to love "during the first half dozen years of . . . childhood results in a progressive dehumanization which leads to every kind of destructive behavior."

Until now man has been able to eat his neighbor, or gas and bomb him to death without ending the world, but his margin of safety has disappeared. While they differ over the origin of man's aggressiveness, social scientists agree that his behavior can be modified.

William James proposed more than a half century ago a "moral equivalent of war" so that young men could develop hardiness and self-discipline without bloodshed. He suggested a period of service for the country - a sort of domestic Peace Corps.

Kenneth Keniston contends that the issue of violence "is to this generation what the issue of sex was to the Victorian world; The fact of violent upheaval and the possibility of cataclysm has been interwoven with the development of a whole generation." Social scientists may differ over the origin of man's aggressiveness, but they generally agree that his behavior can be modified.

Some believe that the way to start is to debunk the myth that a man with a gun is the embodiment of masculine virtue and glory.

1964's Freshmen and How They Feel About It Today

Berkeley Four Years Later

UNATTENDED by a single word of introduction or explanation, it gave no details as to the size of the union or canton or arrangement of the stars, thus affording wide latitude for varying interpretations.

Actually, it would seem that after once passing the resolution, Congress washed its hands of the whole affair for over 135 years elapsed before it officially answered any of the questions which had been left hanging in the air.

In the meantime, both the Army and Navy continued to fight under a confused array of local, State and regimental flags while the Grand Union flag gradually disappeared from the scene.

Though there is no absolute proof as to just when and where the Stars and Stripes was flown during the war of the Revolution, it could have been and probably was flown in many places. As a matter of fact, a number of claims have been advanced, with varying degrees of support, that it was.

AT SEA, John Paul Jones, if not the first, was definitely one of the first to fly the Stars and Stripes when, early in November, 1777, he sailed for France in his sloop "Ranger."

No Hollywood press agent ever advertised his client more successfully than did Jones the Stars and Stripes to the governments of Europe. To him belongs the distinction of being ty in the public welfare, such as designing The Great Seal of the U.S. and other work for which he had made no charge.

On May 25, 1780, he wrote a letter to Congress requesting a modest stipend for his various services or "devices" he had created, which included "The Flag of the United States of America." Following a committee investigation, Congress declined to consider the claim as he "was not the only person who had worked on the design for the flag."

THE BETSY ROSS CLAIM was presented for the first time in 1870 when Mrs. Ross' grandson, Wm. J. Canby, read a paper before the Pennsylvania Historical Society in which he related the story of Mrs. Ross making the flag, as she had told it to him.

That story, briefly, was as follows: that in June 1776, a committee of Congress composed of General George Washington, George Ross and Robert Morris had visited her upholstery shop on Arch Street, Philadelphia and asked her to make a flag from a sketch which Washington had drawn, which was the Stars and Stripes; that she had suggetsed the stars have five points instead of six and that they be arranged in a circle - and that the flag be longer than it was wide. The committee agreed and Mrs. Ross made the flag to those specifications with General Washington later exhibiting it before Congress.

WHILE IT IS true, as many historians contend, that this claim is based only on tradition, is is also true that some documented records relating to Mrs. Ross tend to lend at least some authenticity to her claim.

It is a matter of record that Betsy Ross, a Quakeress, operated an upholstery shop on Arch Street in Philadelphia; that she was the widow of John Ross, who was the nephew of

It all began with the burning of Washington by the British in 1814 and as they departed by sea, taking with them as prisoner, an aged Washington doctor for alleged "discourtesy."

The story of his rescue by the young poet-lawyer Francis Scott Key and their being held temporary prisoners during the subsequent attack on Fort McHenry, reads like a best-seller.

All day and into the night of Sept. 13-14 the two Americans, from their vantage point aboard ship, anxiously watched the terrific bombardment. Suddenly, all firing ceased and in the ominous silence which continued through the night, their fears increased that the fort had surrendered. Then, to their joy "by the dawn's early light" they caught their first glimpse of the Stars and Stripes waving in the breeze.

IN THE FERVOR of the moment, Key reached into his pocket and found an old letter on the back of which he jotted down the words of the song which we know today as "The Star-Spangled Banner" and which eventually became our national anthem. The words which Key began writing aboard ship and continued as he was taken by boat into Baltimore were set to the stirring music of the then popular song "Anacreon In Heaven," which had originated in London. Both words and music appealed to Americans everywhere and marked the beginning of devotion to the flag. Since that time so long ago when John Paul Jones defiantly hoisted "The American Stars" off the coast of England until today, in the jungles of Vietnam, countless Americans have fought and died for the Flag, Americans who believed it to be their duty to love their country, to obey its laws have gladly defended it against all enemies.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) - Sue Werbe, a pert and perky brunette from Detroit, will be one of 4,600 seniors graduating June 15 from the University of California at Berkeley. Sue and her fellow students came through four turbulent years at the huge campus - years which shook the foundations of the nation's academic world, years which made "involvement" a byword in the halls of learning and "student power" a new social force.

They were freshmen in 1964 when an all-night sit-in of the Berkeley administration building set a pattern followed most recently on a large scale at Columbia University.

FOUR YEARS AGO all available police vans, working in relays, carted off to jail more than 700 students protesting discipline procedures at UC.

Today the freshmen of that time - a birth era for college activism - are graduating into a world of turmoil.

Only a few days away from graduation Sue and four of her fellow seniors took careful looks over their four years at Berkeley, and what the experience has meant to them.

"Initially I wasn't involved." said soft-voiced 21-year-old Miss Werbe, managing editor of the campus newspaper.

"I had an activist teaching assistant in history. I went into the section and on the table was a note saying, 'If you come here you shouldn't be here. You should be on the picket line.' I just looked at the policemen and I just looked at the kids being carried out. "And I went and joined a picket line.

From then on I felt I was involved."

ALL THIS STARTED on a small plot of ground called the Bancroft Strip, named after the street separating the city of Berkeley from the university's 1,200-acre campus.

There was a long-standing rule against talking politics and collecting funds on campus. But it wasn't enforced.

In October, 1964, suddenly, the rule was enforced. A non-student was arrested for collecting funds to help register Negro voters in the South. A protesting crowd surrounded and stalled a campus police car. Student Mario Savio climbed on top and sparked the Free Speech Movement.

The administration dickered with the rebels. The arrested man was released. Freedom to advocate and collect was allowed. But seven of the demonstrators were ordered disciplined. Emotions erupted. In December, more than 700 protestors staged a dayand-night sit-in at Sproul Hall, the administration building.

Police and highway patrolmen broke it up, carrying many bodily out of the building. Campus activism was in full сгу.

LIFE FOR Berkeley's 4,186

freshmen of 1964 would never be the same.

"When this first came up, I just said that's the way it happens at Berkeley," explained sandy-haired, handsome Robert A. Crittenden of San Diego, a varsity football star for three years and co-captain of last season's Golden Bears.

"I just kept my nose out of it. But I found as it went along the interest in the campus just became very highly strung and everything just became focused on this one thing. By the end of November, I was for it and I was sympathizing with it."

"I was very conservative when I came here," said bearded Ken Stahl. 21, of Jamaica, N.Y., vice president of the Associated Students of the University of California.

"As the tension grew and they had the first picket down in the plaza, I remember debating the whole question out with my roommates. And we went through the whole thing and just decided one night the university was wrong. From then on, I pretty much went through all the efforts and demonstrations. And I got more radical as it went along.

"IT CHANGED my political outlook tremendously because it seems very clear that the radicals were the ones who were for freedom and individual rights and the conservatives were against it."

Deeply-concerned Jay N. Miller of Palm Springs, Calif., a 21-year-old political science major who plans to become a rabbi, recalled:

"I was interested in civil rights because that was the main issue at the time. I wanted to be a part of the civil rights movement in my own way."

That way was not to sit down and demonstrate.

"I think that such things as the Free Speech Movement can't possibly be considered advantageous, but also I'm sure that it wasn't inevitable," Miller contemplated.

PRETTY AND SHY Elga Jekabsons, of Richmond, Calif., a straight grade A student who majored in physics and chemistry, was just one of thousands at Berkeley too busy to become very involved.

"I don't think the issue was really free speech at all. I mean that might have been a minor point. But I think it was more that the students wanted to be heard. And they realized that perhaps the only way they would be heard was to go to Sproul Hall, 700 of them, and sit there.'

The campus scene at that time took on a bizarre atmosphere.

A long line of card tables stretched out along Sproul Hall Plaza, Sexual freedom was advocated. Signups were taken for political followings ranging from the far left to the far right. Peace Corpsmen were recruited right next to a table for resistance to the draft.

Scarcely a noon passed without a rally on the Sproul Hall steps.

THE CURIOUS passerby would ask, "Could anyone possibly get an education here?"

Activism persisted. Demonstrations continued. They turned against the draft and the Vietnam war.

Critics blamed a noisy minority. As recent as last April, two professors filed a report saying the activists had ulterior motives, not the good of the university.

Psychology Prof. Alex Sherriffs, later to join the staff of Gov. Ronald Reagan, a sharp critic of the campus demonstrations, said most of the students were of "the silent generation," unwilling to become involved.

President Clark Kerr, later fired by Reagan and other regents for his handling of campus problems, was among those who said Communists took part in the campus strife.

"There were obviously Communists," Stahl, the former conservative, conceded, "and there are obviously subversives around but people don't pay any attention to them unless there's a genuine grievance."

In turmoil, the 4,186 freshmen of 1964-65 began their collegiate career. Now, after a comparatively quiet senior term, they end four years at Berkeley. Charles Hitch, who succeeded Kerr as president, recently said:

"Don't underrate our students. The students now attending the university are the best prepared, the most capable, the most nearly abreast in their fields of any who have attended the university in its history."

Refusing that accolade. Miller said: "I think President Hitch is sticking his neck out by saying that. Because I think it is too soon in the life of our generation to figure out what we're going to do."

Summer Rentals? They Could Be

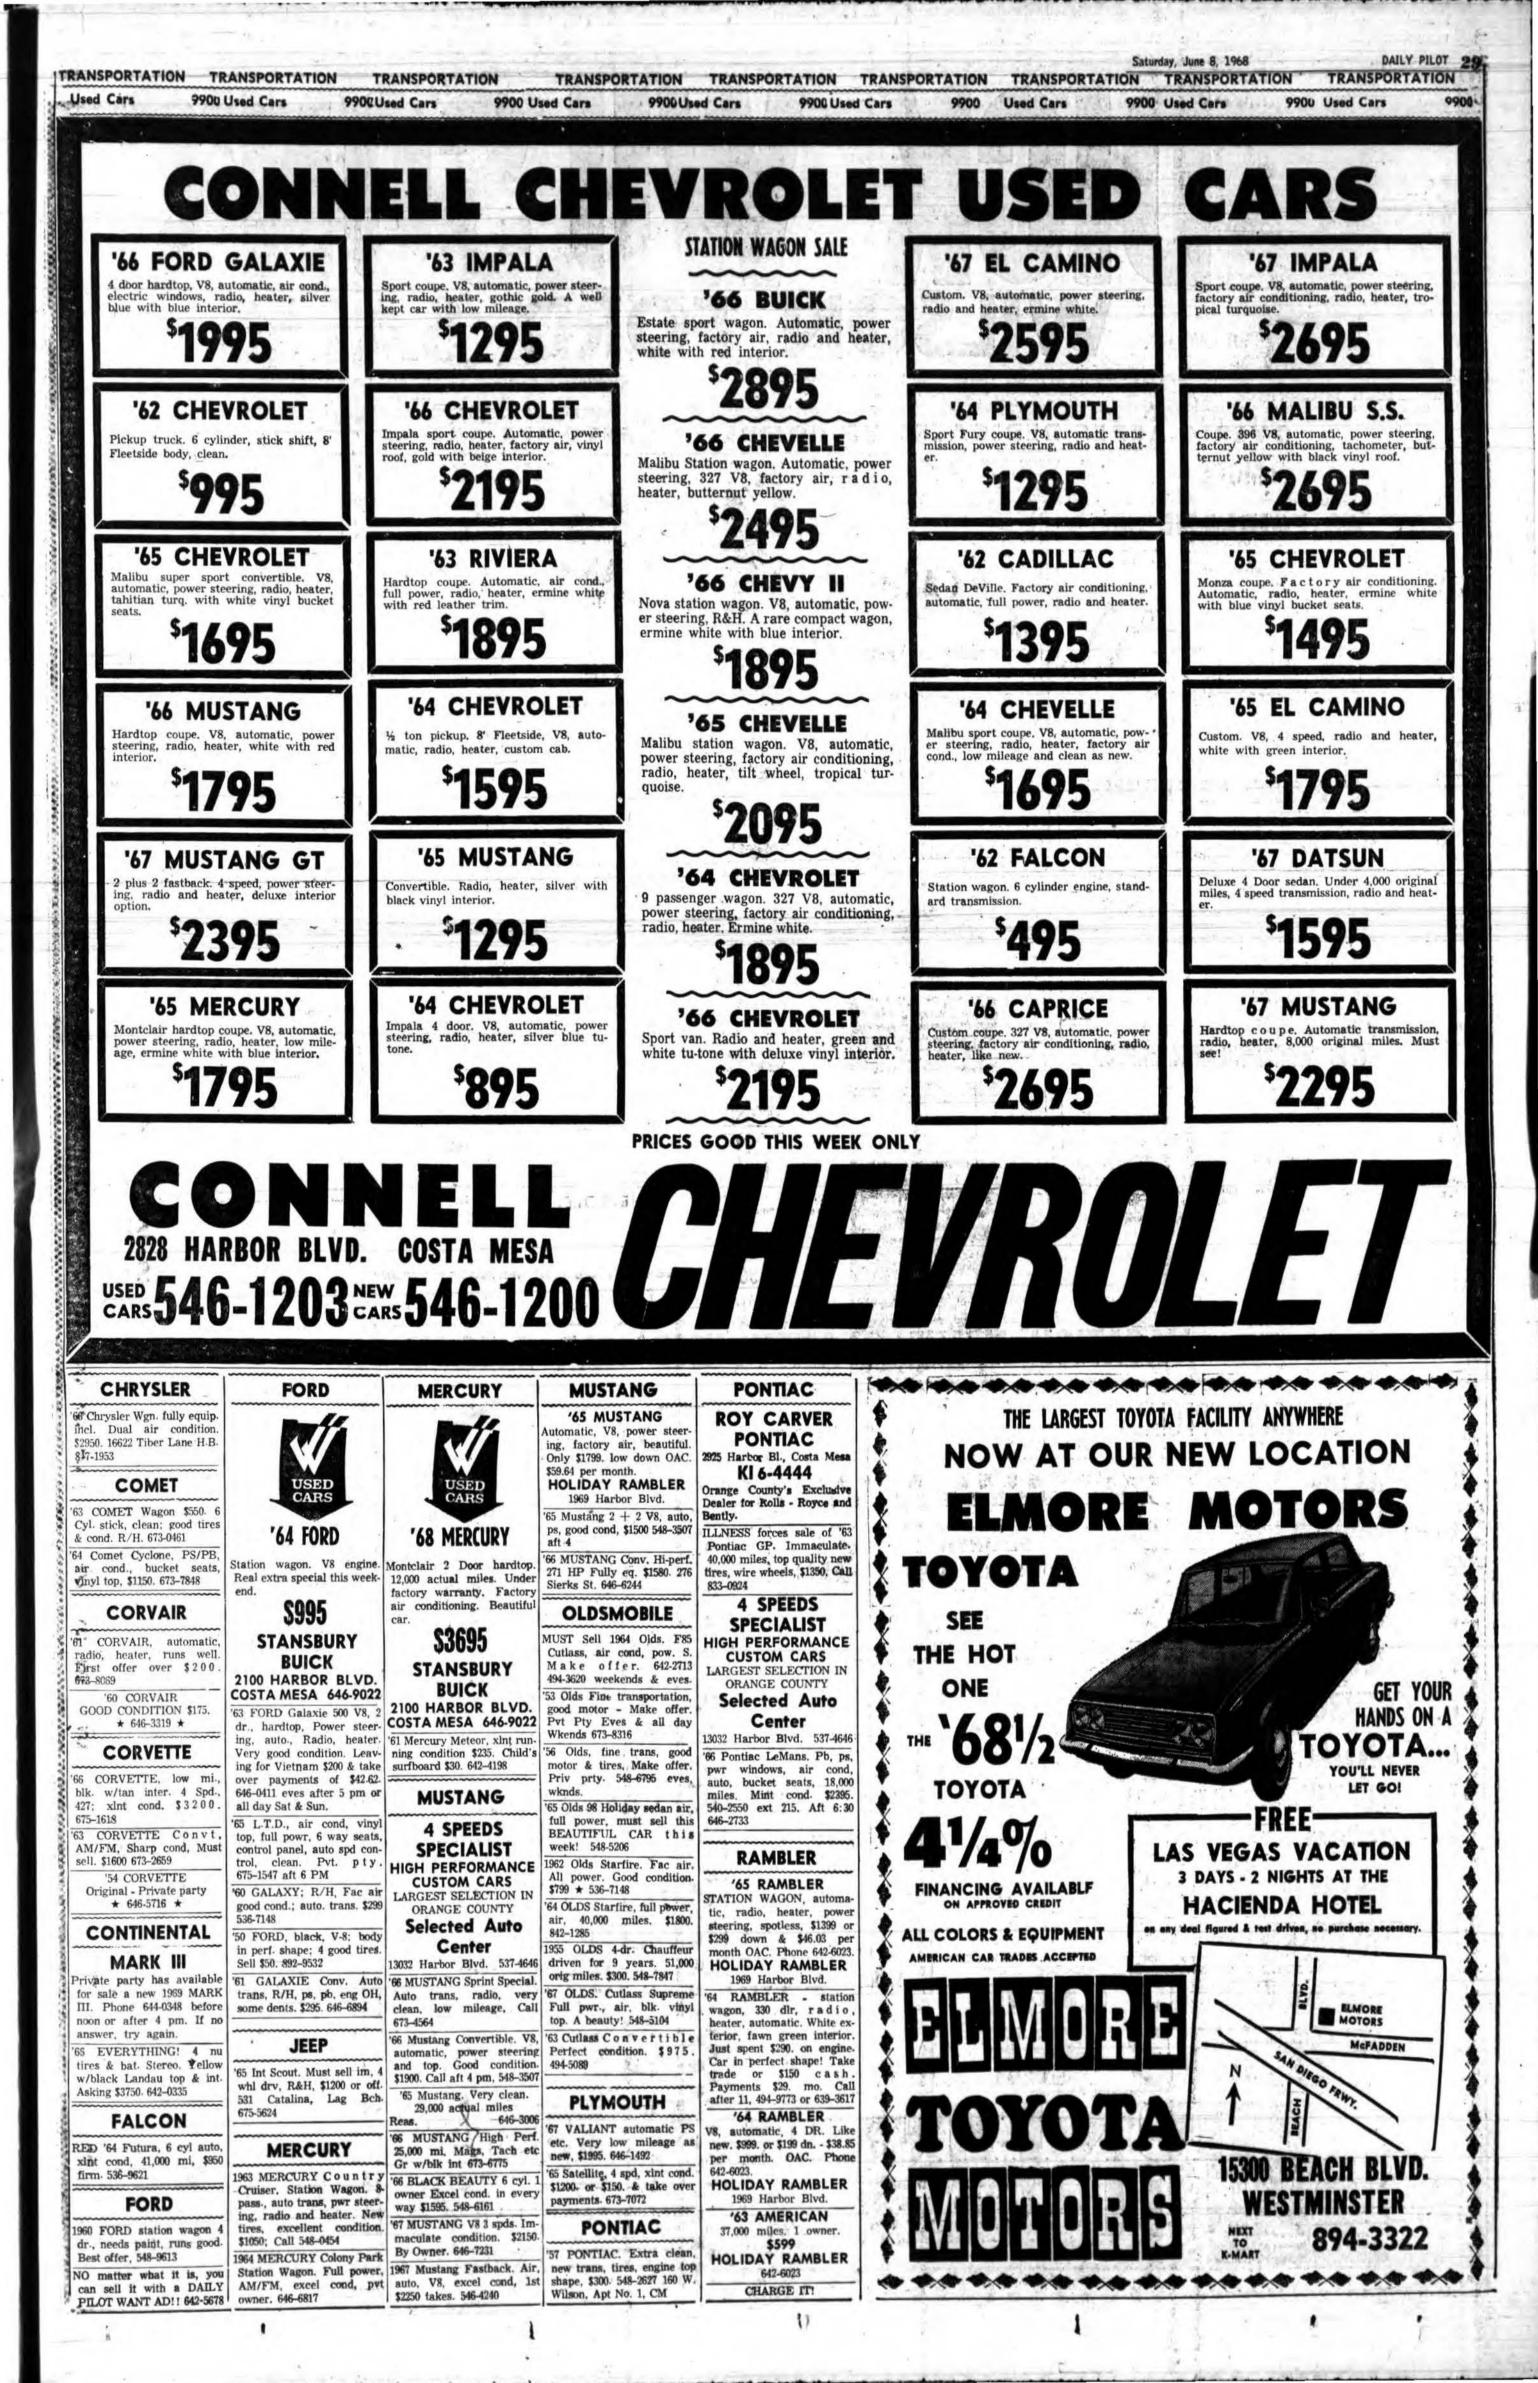

These are some pretty exclusive cliff dwellings. They're in Mesa Verde National Park, Colo., and they're estimated to be 700 years old, not exactly in the same class as the charming bungalows all along the Orange Coast you'll find advertised daily in classified ads of the DAILY PILOT. But, you know something? We'd be almost willing to bet you could rent these Indian relics for the summer if they overlooked the fabulous beaches of the Orange Coast . . . AND, if you placed your ad where people are looking. This is no cliff hanger. "Buying" or "selling," the market is in the DAILY PILOT. Dial 642-5678 and we'll drop you our direct rope ladder to the Classified Advertising Department where a courteous specialist will help you with your "smoke signal"

The various ways of making money in art-and the many ways of losing it-are explored in this NBC news special, Friday at 8:30 PM. Edwin Newman and Aline Saarinen report on "the buying and selling of pictures for love or profit-mostly profit." NBC sent its cameras to London and Paris, as well as to principal centers throughout the U.S. In London, which dominates the international art scene, cameras focus upon the famous auction at Christie's (below) at the moment when the highest price ever paid for an impressionist painting was bid-almost a million and a half more than what the owner paid for it in 1926. In Paris, a one-time forger artist demonstrates his ability to forge a Picasso; and in the U.S., NBC obtained the first interview-an exclusive-with Algur H. Meadows, multimillionaire Texas oilman, who was the victim of one of the greatest art frauds in history. Miss Saarinen also interviews J. Paul Getty, richest of all the collectors, who once discovered a Raphael that he bought for only $200.

KHJ-TV, Channel 9, the station in question, or should we say, the station that is questioning the stock line-up of soap operas, series re-runs and inane game shows that make up most of the sunshine hours, had established itself as the "movie" station. It still features many movies, including the very fine Cinema IX showing of foreign films, but the supply of movies is dwindling, and networks are competing in that area.

The station has tried a number of different types of daily pro-gramming, but so far Tempo has been the most successful. All the hosts are sharp and interesting people who make the format a far cut above the usual talk-guest sort of show. They often focus on local happenings, which is of great interest to the community. And they try to make television relevant to our lives—which is more than can be said for about 75% of current programming.

Channel 9 Sets the Tempo

By MARIAN DERN

Question: How does an independent TV station, operating in an area that has the largest number of TV stations anywhere in the country, get viewers to tune in, and stay turned-on during daily daytime and nighttime hours?

Answer: It changes around its format; it experiments. And it comes up with a kind of live, "reality" programming—in this case a three part concept called TEMPO, encompassing the hours be-tween noon and 4 PM, 10 and 11 PM daily.

Question: Does it work?

Answer: It seems to work, but the station is still experimenting. At the moment, the noon to 2 PM segment is hosted by a heavyset, uninhibited fellow with years of radio and TV experience named Stan Bohrman, and a pretty lady, Maria Cole (widow of the late Nat King Cole) who is both charming and not afraid to ask ques-tions that expose the fact that she, like most of us, doesn't know everything.

The 2 to 4 PM section is presided over by a Mr. & Mrs. team: clean-cut, opinionated Bob Dornan, a sometime actor and selfpropelled foreign correspondent, and wife Sallie, actress and mother of five.

The evening segment, formerly held down by Hollywood writerdirector and non-stop pontificator Don McGuire, is now hosted by alternating guest-hosts, the latest being Richard Dawson of Hogan's Heroes.

Ray Half-dragged To London Court

LONDON (UPI) - James Earl Ray, the accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., today was half-dragged into a magistrate's court where he was ordered held without bail on gun and passport violations ih Britain. U.S. efforts to extradite him will come later, possibly this week.

Ray, a 40-year-old American, escaped convict, then was taken under heavy guard to Brixton Prison to await another hearing June 18, His appearance in court lasted only 82 seconds during which he either scowled or screwed his face into a half grin as he answered "no" to two questions. U.S. extradition efforts will not have to wait until the second hearing. Embassy officials said both the states of Missouri and Tennessee were preparing extradition papers — jail break in Missouri and the King murder charge in Memphis, Tenn. American sources indicated the decision had not yet been made as to which, if either, of these states' possible extradition claims would be used. They said Ray could simplify things by waiving extradition - though he has not spoken on this matter - or Britain could simply deport him as an indesirable.

Cabbie Robbed At Gunpoint, Locked in Trunk

What could have been a good fare ended in a good scare for the Long Beach cab driver who found himself locked in the trunk of his own taxi

Sunday night in Huntington Beach. Police said Ward L. Mangum, 62, of 56011/2 Lemon St., was robbed at gunpoint of $45 then locked in the trunk by his passenger at Salmon Lane and Yorktown Avenue, Huntington Beach, shortly after midnight Monday.

The victim told police that he picked up the male passenger at a Long Beach bar about 10 p.m. Sunday.

A security officer of a nearby tract, hearing the cab driver's cries, released him and notified police.

The assailant is described as being between 5 feet, 5, and 5 feet, 6, 145 to 150 pounds with fair complexion and short blond hair.

2-gun Bandit Robs Theater In Costa Mesa

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL Of the Daily Pilot Stat

A bandit armed with two guns and a butcher knife robbed a Costa Mesa theater of more than $400 late Saturday, then vanished while marching the manager and his assistant away as hostages.

Telephone lines were cut during the holdup at Fox South Coast Plaza Theater, 3410 S. Bristol St., but no one was injured by the heavily armed gunman, police said.

Manager Harry D. Francis said the robber placed the cold muzzle of a .38 caliber revolver behind his left ear while forcing him to cut the wires and urged him not to try any tricks. "Don't try to be a hero," he warned,

"We're crazy to try this anyway," although four other witnesses told Of-ficer Gary Webster they saw no accomplice.

Francis told investigators he was reading a newspaper in his office about 11:30 p.m. Saturday, when the man slipped in and closed the door.

"Excuse me," he said, "I have something to show you," displaying the revolver and a small automatic pistol. He then tossed a butcher knife onto Francis's desk to cut the telephone line.

The victim told officers the robber took a small amount of money from the office and then ordered him to open two safes in the box office, after ascertaining where major receipts were kept.

He also told Francis to act as though he were a friend if anyone approached as they walked toward the box office, keeping his gun hidden from sight.

The shaken manager was trembling too badly to open the safe on the first (See HOLDUP, Page 2)

Thousands at RFK Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) - In life, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy went where the crowds were. Now his last campaign is done and they come to him, to stand for a moment before a newly-sodded grave on a grassy slope of Arlington National Cemetery.

Nearly 60,000 people made that pilgrimage Sunday, amid steamy heat and afternoon rain. The pilgrimage continued today as more than 7,000 filed past the new white cross before midday.

Ethel Kennedy, expecting her 11th child, came to kneel at the foot of her husband's grave Sunday.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy came with her two children, to pray at the grave of her assassinated husband, then to walk the few steps to the resting place of her assassinated brother-in-law.

Tourists with cameras came, and mourners with flowers,

They stood six abreast and waited in a burning June sun.

And when they had climbed the cemetery hill, many did not know where to look for the grave. They had to ask the soldiers who stood guard there.

A family spokesman said Robert's gravesite is temporary but the permanent burial place will be in the same general area.

A simple memorial will be designed

About Death Of Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Sirhan B. Sirhan, accused of the slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, had shown no remorse and has asked for visits by his family, it was revealed Monday.

Sirhan has talked with an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union and asked him to obtain the services of a prominent attorney but he has not said a word about Kennedy's fatal shooting, the Los Angeles sheriff's office said.

The 24-year-old onetime racetrack exercise boy is eating three meals a day in his cell in the hospital ward of the county jail. He sleeps well and takes exercise daily by walking up and down the jail corridor.

A spokesman said he had shown no remorse whatsoever.

A. L. Wirin, chief counsel for the Southern California ACLU, has visited Sirhan almost daily.

This week Wirin will ask Presiding Judge Richard Schauer of Los Angeles Superior Court to call on the Los Angeles Bar Association and other legal groups to obtain a defense at-(See SIRHAN, Page 2)

Parents Given Lesson on Drug Problems

By JACK BROBACK

. Only one subject was "taught" at Estancia High School Saturday morning, narcotics.

The students were parents and other adults attending a program called, "Narcotics Symposium for Parents, A Time for Community Action."

Approximately 130 persons attended the program staged by the Harbor Council of Parent-Teachers Association and endorsed by the Harbor Council of Churches and Harbor Area Ovordinating Council. Among things they learned in their day at school were:

-That the narcotics problem among school children is bad but not nearly as bad as a lot of people would lead you to believe.

-That similar problems have confronted every generation and have been solved, or at least partially solv-

-That there are ways to minimize the narcotics problem among school age children. Gerald Buck, Orange County juvenile delinquency prevention coordinator, offered parents the most hope.

"As a parent, admit that you don't know everything about drugs. Your children will admit it, too. Tell them they have to decide for themselves, give them some factual information," the county officer said.

"Don't generalize," he warned, "like saying all long-haired kids use drugs. They know this isn't true and won't believe anything else you say." But Buck said young people must be impressed with the legal consequences of breaking drug laws. "A record can affect future employment."

Children also will listen to such facts as that the majority of society rejects drug use, he explained. "Getting high on drugs isn't approved by most people," he said.

Buck said one program had been started in the county for which he had high hopes. "The San Clemente PTA

"They have found it is great. You get together with your neighbors and talk about the drug problem in small groups. It is effective," Buck con cluded.

Dr. Michael Brown, Cal State Fullerton instructor and consultant on narcotics to the Fullerton High School District, said a detailed study in that is not as bad as some think.

"You have heard figures bandied about that 60 to 70 percent of school age children are using or have tried narcotics," Dr. Brown said.

"Our studies show that it is only 20 to 25 percent. We have just begun and we are trying to eliminate as much of that 25 percent as possible but we wanted to see what the problem really was before we started."

Dr. Brown also blamed parents for shoving the problem of drugs off onto the school authorities and police. "It is easy to find villains - the pusher, the cop who makes a mistake - but the real problem is at home," the professor said.

Dr. Maurice Kaplan, director of the South Coast Child Guidance Clinic, said the present "hysteria" over narcotics is not realistic.

"There has been some kind of problem in every generation. There were "Saying let's have a cure for drug addiction is not the way to solve the problem, it's narrowing it," Dr. Kaplan warned.

"People get excited about a problem but they don't go to authorities who can help," Dr. Kaplan concluded.

A mother who obviously wanted to remain anonymous concluded the meeting pointedly with:

"Please listen to me carefully, this isn't easy for me to say. We wanted help. We had seen our child change from a nice person into a frightened animal. We were frightened, so we called the police.

"The police came. A nice young man in one of those black and white cars. He suggested that we talk to their probation officer and made a date for us.

"We didn't keep it but he did! He talked to us and helped us. We kept the next appointment and we - all of us have been helped.

Veiled and carrying a single flower, Ethel Kennedy came at mid-morning for her first visit to the completed grave. Mrs. Kennedy and other members of the family left the cemetery before the casket was lowered into the grave, 26 minutes before Saturday midnight.

With her eldest son, Joseph, 15, the widow knelt at the grave, bowed her head and closed her eyes. Young Joseph fixed his eyes on the white cross and the fingers of his clasped hands worked nervously.

Mrs. Kennedy added her flower to the single bouquet of spring blossoms marking the grave.

A massive array of flowers sent to the cemetery Saturday formed an arc on the hillside above the gravesite.

Singer Andy Williams drove the widow to the cemetery. Roosevelt Grier, the giant professional football player, and former Olympic decathalon champion Rafer Johnson were with them.

Civilian Toll In Red Saigon Shelling Soars SAIGON (AP) - The civilian casualty toll from 22 days of Viet Cong rocket and mortar attacks on Saigon soared past the 500 mark today with another shelling on the densely populated central districts of the capital.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, outgoing commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam, told a farewell news conference; "It's virtually impossible to stop this indiscriminate firing of rockets." Westmoreland leaves Tuesday for Washington to become Army chief of staff. (See story, Page 4).

At least 15 of the 100-pound, Russian-made rockets tore into the city early today in the Viet Cong's terror campaign, setting several houses afire. Ten Vietnamese civilians were killed and 33 wounded. It was the 22nd day out of the last 37 that Saigon has been hit with rockets or mortars.

During the period, since the start of the Viet Cong's May 5 "peace talks" offensive against Saigon, 109 civilians have been killed and 413 wounded from enemy shellings alone, based on an unofficial tabulation of reports of the South Vietnamese military headquarters and the U.S. mission.

South Vietnamese military headquarters announced that overall, 433 civilians have been killed and 3,660 wounded in the last 37 days from both enemy rocket and mortar attacks and street fighting in the capital military district that includes Saigon and surrounding Gia Dinh Province. Headquarters said 16,269 houses were set afire and destroyed or damaged.

Vinson saw Ray briefly on Sunday but American sources said he did not ask him whether he would waive extradition and the embassy said it still does not know Ray's attitude. A formal request for extradition would be made by the State Department directly to the British Foreign Office before or after Ray appears for his second hearing June 18. The embassy indicated such a request probably would not be ready within the next "couple of days." Vinson refused to see newsmen today and the embassy refused to disclose any information on Ray's activities, or even his whereabouts before his arrest at 11:15 a.m. Saturday. Ray was brought into court by 12 police guards, almost shuffling as they propelled him along into a court room where for the first time in memory every person entering the magistrate's court was searched by detectives. The detectives themselves were armed which is unusual for Britain. Magistrate Frank Milton, especially careful of Ray's civil rights championed by King in the United States, asked Ray if he objected to limiting press coverage of his hearing and if he had a lawyer. Milton granted him legal aid, a free attorney, and ordered him held in jail until at least June 18. It gave prosecution and defense more time to prepare to argue Ray's case against charges he held fraudulent passports and a gun and five bullets illegally when arrested Saturday at London airport at the end of a worldwide hunt that began April 4 when King was slain in Memphis, Tenn.

TEN CENTS

UCI Parley Spotlights Beach, Valley Poverty

By THOMAS FORTUNE Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Poverty pockets exist as close to home as Huntington Beach, San Clemente, Santa Ana, Orange and Fountain Valley, County Welfare Director Granville C. Peoples said at a Saturday poverty conference at UC Irvine.

One out of 10 county residents is part of a family that makes less than $3,000 per year, he informed.

The poor man-rich man division was clear to the nearly 1,000 participants in the conference on "Poverty in Orange County," even though many Orange Coast residents may not see the out-of-the-way places where poverty exists.

UCI Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich spoke of the stark division between the affluent and those trapped in the web of poverty.

"I am so impressed we have come to the point that we will admit there is poverty in Orange County," Mrs. Sadie Reid, a Negro and organizer of a Santa Ana child care center, told the gathering that filled UCI's gymnasium.

"Most of us are so insulated we have a hard time believing it," commented David Collins, representing Orange County Chamber of Commerce.

Peoples said he is appalled at the lack of understanding and high degree of emotionalism concerning welfare he has found in talks to service clubs.

"We need to accept the fact that 11 percent of our county population is poor, that 17 percent are dropping out of high school," he said. "This county gives meagerly to private agencies." The other overriding theme of the conference was that the best cure for poverty ills is employment opportunity.

"The key word is opportunity.

Somebody has to open the door," said Ray Villa, president of the Mexican-American Political Association.

County Supervisor David L. Baker said the disadvantaged need the opportunity to compete in the environment they see on television. Government programs are not the answer, Baker said. Urban renewal, he said, only displaces people who have no place to go. As a member of the National Commission on Urban Problems he said he learned that Baltimore has 50,000 municipal and federal employes out of a labor market of 110,000. "This is government payroll," he said, "and it is not the answer."

"If we businessmen aren't going to take a major role in alleviating poverty and prejudice, who will?" asked Francis N. Laird, employer for (See POVERTY, Page 2)

Nearly 60,000 people made that pilgrimage Sunday, amid steamy heat and afternoon rain. The pilgrimage continued today as more than 7,000 filed past the new white cross before midday.

Ethel Kennedy, expecting her 11th child, came to kneel at the foot of her husband's grave Sunday.

Mrs. John F. Kenne iy came with her two children, to pray at the grave of her assassinated husband, then to walk the few steps to the resting place of her assassinated brother-in-law.

Tourists with cameras came, and mourners with flowers.

They stood six abreast and waited in a burning June sun.

And when they had climbed the cemetery hill, many did not know where to look for the grave. They had to ask the soldiers who stood guard there.

The walkway leading toward Robert's grave goes to that of John Kennedy assassinated in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. And the crowds were drawn automatically toward that memorial, with its everburning flame.

The new grave is outside the low hedge which borders the memorial to the slain President and is shielded by the broad, low branches of a magnolia tree.

A bandit armed with two guns and a butcher knife robbed a Costa Mesa theater of more than $400 late Saturday, then vanished while marching the manager and his assistant away as hostages.

Telephone lines were cut during the holdup at Fox South Coast Plaza Theater, 3410 S. Bristol St., but no one was injured by the heavily armed gunman, police said.

Manager Harry D. Francis said the robber placed the cold muzzle of a .38 caliber revolver behind his left ear while forcing him to cut the wires and urged him not to try any tricks.

'Don't try to be a hero," he warned, 'We're crazy to try this anyway, although four other witnesses told Officer Gary Webster they saw no accomplice.

Francis told investigators he was reading a newspaper in his office about 11:30 p.m. Saturday, when the man slipped in and closed the door.

"Excuse me," he said, "I have something to show you," displaying the revolver and a small automatic pistol. He then tossed a butcher knife onto Francis's desk to cut the telephone line.

Council, Parks Board to Meet

Future plans for parks and the recreation program in Huntington Beach will be discussed beginning at 7 o'clock tonight in a joint meeting of the city council and recreation and parks commission.

The study session will be held in council chambers of Memorial Hall, 5th Street and Pecan Avenue.

At issue is whether the city tax rate should be increased by some nine cents to raise the park and recreation special levy to the maximum allowed by the city charter.

The rate presently is about 11 cents per $100 assessed valuation. If the rate is, increased to the maximum, the money would go toward park improvement. Councilmen are considering also the possibility of a special bond issue election to provide money for buying additional park sites and developing the land.

Huntington Beach now has, it appears, some 13,000 boys who fit one or the other of these definitions. At least, that's the number a survey showed to be in the 8 to 18 age range. The present 480 membership is expected to more than double within a year, putting great strain on the present facility at 319 Yorktown Street, Downey reported. The club's hope is that additional clubhouses can be built on Huntington Beach's north side and down in the Valley area, "if donations make this possible.

On the subject of donations, Downey said local businesses and individuals have been generous with materials blacktop, lights, welding, other supplies and labor. He cited a donation of $2,000 received only last week from (See BOYS CLUB, Page 2)

500 Saigon Citizens Die In Shelling

SAIGON (AP) - The civilian casualty toll from 22 days of Viet Cong rocket and mortar attacks on Saigon soared past the 500 mark today with another shelling on the densely populated central districts of the capital.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, outgoing commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam, told a farewell news conference; "It's virtually impossible to stop this indiscriminate firing of rockets." Westmoreland leaves Tuesday for Washington to become Army chief of staff. (See story, Page 4).

At least 15 of the 100-pound, Russian-made rockets tore into the city early today in the Viet Cong's terror campaign, setting several houses afire. Ten Vietnamese civilians were killed and 33 wounded. It was the 22nd day out of the last 37 that Saigon has been hit with rockets or mortars.

During the period, since the start of the Viet Cong's May 5 "peace talks" offensive against Saigon, 109 civilians have been killed and 413 wounded from enemy shellings alone, based on an unofficial tabulation of reports of the South Vietnamese military headquarters and the U.S. mission.

South Vietnamese military headquarters announced that overall, 433 civilians have been killed and 3,660 wounded in the last 37 days from both enemy rocket and mortar attacks and street fighting in the capital military district that includes Saigon and surrounding Gia Dinh Province. Headquarters said 16,269 houses were set afire and destroyed or damaged.

It was considered reasonable assumption that most of the propertydestruction was caused by the massive fire power of allied troops. They used bombers, artillery, tanks and helicopter gunships to root out Viet Cong guerrillas in abandoned houses.

The U.S. mission reported that street fighting and shellings in the capital military district since May 5 have left 161,000 persons homeless. Some of the refugees eventually will be able to return to their homes once their districts have been declared secure.

On the military side, government headquarters reported that allied troops have killed 5,316 Vict Cong and North Vietnamese troops in and round Saigon since the enemy command launched its May 5 attacks. Another 433 enemy and 1,750 weapons were reported captured.

Trustees of Huntington Beach Union High School District will be asked to rename the high school under construction at Magnolia Street and Hamilton Avenue the "Robert Francis Kennedy High School."

A petiion asking the name change from Edison High School will be presented Tuesday during the 7:30 p.m. session of the board at district headquarters, 1902 17th St., Huntington Beach.

Don Mitchell, spokesman for the group, said the first pressure for renaming the school came from residents of the Huntington Harbour area, but now is spreading all over the city.

He said a large delegation of residents is expected to attend the meeting to back the petition request. The 3,000-student high school is due for opening in September 1969.

BOYS CLUB...

the Sears Roebuck Foundation for shop equipment.

"What we most need now, however, is money we can use for professional staff and new clubhouses," Downey said. "Once in awhile we have a dedicated volunteer who is faithful and does a great job. But in this kind of work, for dependability in carrying out a program, we must have paid professionals."

Underscoring this point, the Boys' Club executive cited the unique philosophy under which his and other affiliated clubs operate across the nation. He said it's the combination, not any one factor, which makes the operation different. Among these he listed:

-They're all boys. No men, no moms, no sisters.

-They have full-time professional leadership.

-There is no requirement of proof of character. The new boy may be just out of Juvenile Hall. If he needs help, the club tries to give it. If he gets out of line he may be kicked out of a particular activity for awhile, but not out of the club. The club, Downey said, is for the boys, and "even the bad boys soon lear that the club is theirs, to be protected, not vandalized."

-The club is non-sectarian, but the club has a code by which every member must abide.

-Dues are $1.50 a year. If any boy can't afford that much, he is given a chance to work it out in chores at the club.

-The clubhouse and grounds are open for as many school-free hours as possible.

-- Every possible constructive program and boy-interest is provided.

-The ultimate goal is "keeping a good boy good," though along the way the club takes some boys already off on the wrong foot, sets them straight, then seeks to keep them that way.

Statistics on the present local club's membership show that 106 of the 480 members are from broken homes. In 59 of these there is only the mother, in seven others only a father. The average number of children in the 480 homes is four, but some families run to eight and nine children.

Until they experience the Boys' Club, many of these children never get farther from home than to school or a neighborhood store. On a recent mountain field trip, five of the boys had never touched snow before and two had never been on a mountain.

Downey said the boys, tenderfeet though they are, take their conservation lessons seriously.
