Newport Nixes Police TV

Councilmen Vote 4-3 Against EPS

By JEROME F. COLLINS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

City councilmen reached that decision Monday night in a 4-3 vote.

The balloting capped a heated, three-hour public hearing on the proposed "Electronic Protection System" (EPS).

Dozens of citizens trooping to the microphone in the packed council chambers were just as split on the issue as municipal lawmakers.

Mayor Doreen Marshall's vote was the difference.

She explained her opposition to seeking a $497,000 federal grant for the law enforcement surveillance program this way:

"It is possible that if this experiment were carried out in Newport Beach, it could be valuable to our nation. But the first thing that bothers me very much is that there are not sufficient constraints or controls as far as the limits of the TV tests are concerned.

"Over and above that," she said quietly to a still audience, "one question I have been struggling with is why should this be conducted in Newport Beach? We have an excellent police force in this community. It is a well-controlled community.

"I respect Chief (B. James) Glavas' concern that means must be found to improve law enforcement, and I have the highest regard for him and the high level of police service he has brought to this city. The reason he brought up this EPS plan is because he is such a dedicated officer.

Mystery Sniper

Another Freeway Cyclist Fired On

Another mystery sniper attack on a young aircraft plant employe riding home from work by motorcycle on a West Orange County freeway was reported late Monday, five days after the first victim was murdered by five gunshots.

Robert A. Brown, 24, of 1214 W. Highland St., Santa Ana, escaped injury as he swerved evasively on his big BMW motorcycle, southbound on the Garden Grove Freeway between Springdale Avenue and Valley View Street.

"I know for damn sure they shot at me," Brown told the DAILY PILOT today, "I was a gunner's mate in the Navy and once you see those things, you never forget."

Fountain Valley Police said today that they have nothing new in the murder last Wednesday of Navy veteran James Gardner, 21, of 619 Mountain View St., Santa Ana.

"All we know now is what has already been said," commented Sgt. Fred Nourse, currently commanding police investigation of the case since Lt. Martin Fortin went on vacation.

The two cases bear a chilling resemblance.

He was hit by five slugs from an apparent automatic rifle, while Brown, an employe of Northrop Aircraft Co., Hawthorne, said he was forced to

Missing Laguna Playhouse Fund Head Found

By THOMAS FORTUNE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Frazier Smith, the distinguished looking Laguna-Moulton Playhouse building fund chairman who vanished in January when $1,950 was drawn on forged checks, was picked up today in New York.

Laguna Beach police said they were notified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that Smith was arrested this morning.

Detective Sgt. Vic Sagan said it is not known when Smith will be returned to Laguna on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on three counts of forgery.

"We don't know yet whether he will waive extradition," Sgt. Sagan said.

Smith, 41, formerly of 1481 Santa Cruz St., Laguna, was reported booked into Clinton County Jail in Plattsburgh, N.Y.

He had been stopped by New York State Police in Malone, N.Y., for a traffic violation. A record check showed the outstanding warrant.

Sgt. Sagan said the FBI had thought Smith to probably be in Mexico or South America. Smith reportedly went to Mexico over the Christmas and New Year holiday shortly before his disappearance.

The gray-haired, genteel New Englander came to Laguna two years ago claiming to have been a former newspaperman — including a stint on the Wall Street Journal — and a former delegate to the United Nations.

He was hired to raise funds for the new playhouse on a commission basis.

Con Slayer 82nd On Death Row

SAN RAFAEL (UPI)—A San Quentin prison inmate convicted of slaying another prisoner moved onto Death Row today — its 82nd inhabitant.

Leo E. Robles, 23, was sentenced to death Monday by Marin County Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley. He was found guilty last month of killing Forest Smith, 42, in the prison psychiatric ward.

At the time, Robles was serving a life sentence for the hanging death of a Santa Clara County jail cellmate in 1965.

Did Sidewinder Missile Strike Oil Survey Ship?

POINT MUGU (UPI) — An "unknown object" from the sky smashed into an oil survey vessel Monday night, and a Navy spokesman said it could have been a Sidewinder missile.

Three injured crewmen from the SS Pacific Seal were airlifted by U.S. Coast Guard helicopter to the hospital at Point Mugu Naval Air Station following the incident at 9:10 p.m.

The Pacific Seal was prospecting for oil in the Santa Barbara Channel area. The Navy announcement said the 175-foot ship was in the vicinity of Santa Rosa Island, in the Pacific 50 miles northwest of Point Mugu.

An aircraft squadron from Point Mugu had been firing Sidewinder air-to-air missiles at a nearby test range shortly before the Pacific Seal reported she had been damaged.

The ship was en route to the naval base at Port Hueneme just north of here, escorted by the Coast Guard Cutter USS Cape Hatteras. A Navy spokesman at Point Mugu said the ship was proceeding under her own power "as far as we know."

Sighted sub — sank, might well have been the report of Ivan Anderson, 710 W. 18th St., Costa Mesa, after a harrowing experience Sunday night in the ocean off Catalina Island.

The Viking, a 25-foot cabin cruiser belonging to Ivan and his brother Andy, is high and not quite so dry on the beach at Avalon with a hole in her bow from slamming into an anchored submarine.

U.S. Routs Viet Cong Battalion

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen smashed a Viet Cong battalion in the Mekong Delta and crippled two separate enemy units in ambushes north of Saigon, the U.S. Command reported today.

Troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division counted 104 enemy bodies today after a two-day battle with an estimated 300-strong enemy force in the delta rice paddies 21 miles southwest of Saigon. American losses were 15 killed and 30 wounded.

It was one of four engagements in the Mekong Delta since Monday in which the allies claimed a total of 181 Viet Cong killed.

U.S. troops of the 25th Division ambushed 25 Viet Cong 25 miles northwest of Saigon and killed 10. There were no American casualties.

In another operation 340 miles northeast of Saigon, a small combined action platoon of U.S. Marines and Vietnamese Popular Forces killed 28 Viet Cong and fought its way out of a night ambush without suffering a ingle casualty.

The platoon surrounded two houses in the coastal village of Van Thai after residents reported that a group of Viet Cong had gathered there. The allies killed 12 Viet Cong and captured three and seized three Chinese-made machine guns, three rocket launchers and seven individual weapons.

As the platoon moved out, it was ambushed by another enemy force of unknown size. The Marines called in a U.S. Navy swiftboat to fire flares and mortars while helicopter gunships raked the enemy position. South Vietnamese spokesmen said 14 bodies were found after the bombardment.

Viet Cong sabotage plans were dealt two damaging blows in Saigon.

Government agents raided a house four blocks from the Tan Son Nhut Air Base and seized a munitions cache containing Chinese assault rifles, 200 pounds of dynamite and 50 bazooka-type rockets.

Two Vietnamese chauffeurs assigned to the U.S. Military Command's Pentagon East headquarters at Tan Son Nhut were arrested as suspected members of a Viet Cong sabotage and assassination squad. U.S. spokesmen confirmed that the two men were drivers in the command's motor pool, authorized to drive American officers below the rank of general.

'Please Catch Me,' Begs Florida Killer of Three

From Wire Services

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Time and the immeasurable drive of a killer's homicidal instinct hounded lawmen here today as they sought the slayer of one and maybe three victims, who has begged by telephone for capture.

"Ive murdered three people," an anonymous young man told a sheriff's desk officer Monday, "Please catch me. Please."

Directed by the apparent slayer, police found the bodies of an 11-year-old girl and her critically wounded mother, who was slumped over in a car at Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Clark, 42, of Clarkston, Ga., shot five times in the head and neck is near death, while her daughter Marilyn, 11, was also fatally shot five times in the head.

Motorists found the slain child's body along a Hollywood, Fla., roadway, four miles from where her mother was discovered and police are dragging area wtaterways for a probable third victim.

"He wasn't lying about the first two," said a detective, "so why should he lie about a third?"

MACHINIST HELD

Investigators revealed they are holding one person — an unemployed Santa Monica, Calif., machinist, — after he tried to buy a ticket to anywhere at the airport.

Ray C. Masterson, 18, is being held in connection with the theft of some watches from an airport concession, but police would not say if he is a suspect in the homicide case.

The grisly tale began to unfold Monday morning when a young man — his voice at times anguished — telephoned and Broward County Sheriff's Deputy James Rice answered.

Caller: Sir, I'd like to report a murder.
Rice: A what?
Caller: Murder.
Rice: A murder?
Caller: I just killed three people
Rice: Just killed three people:

'PLEASE CATCH ME'

Caller: I'm serious. Please catch me. Please.
Rice: Where are you?
Caller: Please, I ju. . .Please.
Rice: Where are you son?
Caller: I'm gonna kill 'em tonight, too. Please.
Rice: Where are you?
Disconnect.

Lawmen urged the public not to panic, but ordered all persons to use strict precaution, since they are evidently seeking a maniacal killer who is helpless against his drive.

Minor Blazes Hit Watts As Police Guard Area

A rash of minor blazes — at least five of them started by Molotov cocktails — broke out in the Watts area of Los Angeles before "saturation policing" of the district was broken off before dawn this morning.

FALSE ALARMS

The burned woman, identified as Velma Williams, 25, was found on the sidewalk when firemen responded to a blaze believed started by a flaming cocktail at a two-story apartment building.

The victim suffered burns over 70-80 percent of her body and was taken to Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center.

There were no reports of sniping or looting Monday night in the area where three Negroes were shot to death and 42 other persons wounded during a two-hour battle between police and snipers Sunday night. Five of the wounded were policemen.

Police said they believe at least two of the three Negroes killed Sunday were shot by other Negroes.

3 TO A CAR

Police Chief Tom Reddin Monday said "saturation policing of the area" and complete mobilization of the force would continue "until things have calmed down." He ordered officers to travel three to a car but not to wear helmets nor have their guns "bristling."

Leaders of the Negro community urged Reddin to withdraw the heavy police patrols lest their presence in the tense area incite more violence. At the same time, they urged residents of Watts to keep off the streets during the night.

The violence Sunday, the third anniversary of the devastating 1965 riots, resulted in the arrest of 35 persons, 28 of whom were booked on felony charges.

Twenty-two buildings sustained minor damage, mostly broken windows. Some looting and fire bombing occurred at the height of the Sunday disturbance but authorities said it was scattered and did not seem to be organized.

"This was a big gun. You can tell the sound of a .45 caliber weapon," Brown said, "it was sort of a crack, but it didn't really sound like that."

"I wasn't being too awfully objective about the whole thing at the time," Brown said, describing the flash and roar as a car sped by him on the freeway.

"They came up and passed me like I was going backwards and you know anybody travelling that fast on the freeway has to be crazy," the victim said afteward.

"They were colored for one thing. beyond that I couldn't give much of a description. There was a whole bunch of them in the car," Brown told investigators.

He said the vehicle was an older model Ford Falcon sedan, dark reddish in color.

Garden Grove police said today investigation was continuing into the alleged attack on Brown and results of their report would be forwarded to Fountain Valley police to compare with the Gardner killing.

Brown said he was treated at a hospital early this morning, where his swollen right foot was checked.

He said he believes he struck the foot on a curbing in his desperate maneuvering to avoid being shot by the alleged freeway marauders.

PARIS (UPI) — Siamese twin girls separated Monday in a three-hour, 15 minute operation were in "very satisfactory" condition today, a spokesman at Necker Enfants Malades Hospital said.

Suspect Cleared In Laguna Beach Jade Theft Case

Celli had been accused of the April 23, 1967 theft of 50 pieces of jade from the home of art appraiser James J. Brennan, 935 Gaviota Drive, Laguna Beach.

Celli, 23, of 3160 Mountain View Ave., Laguna Beach, was arrested in June of 1967 following discovery of most of the jade hidden in the storeroom of a school in Los Angeles. Most of the missing pieces were recovered.

Celli at one time was found insane and unable to assist in his defense in connection with another case where he was accused of assault. Authorities said he was alleged to have been under the influence of drugs when the assault occurred.

Nixon Campaign

Crime, Disorder Crucial Issues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A top advisor to Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon says crime and civil disorders — issues Nixon aides consider potentially troublesome — will get top billing in the campaign.

Aides said Monday the issues are crucial and a difficulty will be to stress law and order without appearing insensitive to slum problems or overshadowing Nixon's proposals for easing them.

Nixon has said order and civil rights progress must go hand in hand.

The candidate's proposed program of "black capitalism" to offer Negroes "a piece of the action" of American enterprise is attracting interest in the Negro community, said Charles S. Rhyne, chairman of United Citizens for Nixon.

Nixon's running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, said in San Francisco, meanwhile, that violence and disorder are not the answer to civil rights problems.

"Those who feel civil rights and lawlessness are compatible must be convinced otherwise," Agnew said.

DISENCHANTED

He spoke of "the many wonderful Negro citizens in this country who are completely disenchanted" with militants who advocate violence.

A group of 18 Baltimore Negro leaders accused Agnew Monday of "antipathy toward black people" and said they have organized to spread his record of "inadequacies" throughout the nation.

A $5 million Nixon-Agnew effort to win Democratic and independent votes was announced Monday by Rhyne. He said five million workers are to be enlisted and one million already have signed up.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy urged his non-delegate supporters to stay away from the Democratic National Convention, and called Nixon's campaign promises on Vietnam and other issues "irrelevant to the reality of 1968."

"The presence of large numbers of visitors amidst the summer tensions of Chicago," McCarthy said to his supporters, "may well add to the possibility of unintended violence or disorder."

The Democratic presidential contender said Nixon, after urging greater military effort in the Vietnam war, now "tells us he will settle it without saying how."

$4 MILLION CAMPAIGN

A McCarthy aide, Norval Reece, meanwhile predicted the Minnesota senator will spend about $4 million in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sen. George S. McGovern launched a concerted two-week campaign Monday for the Democratic nomination, calling for an end to the draft system and cuts in spending to the military-industrial complex.

McGovern said the draft should be replaced with a voluntary system that pays well enough to draw adequate numbers of servicemen.

The South Dakota senator said he hopes to line up 200 to 250 delegate votes on the first ballot at the Democratic National Convention starting Aug. 26 in Chicago.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, easing previous wording, said Monday that "restraint and reasonable response" by Hanoi should be the price for a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

He said his previous use of the word "reciprocity" as the price had been "misinterpreted as a harsh and rigid word. This certainly was not my intent."

Fair Manager Pleads Innocent To Boy Assault

Lutjeans is accused by Randy L. Guffy, 16, of 144 Brookline Drive, Costa Mesa, of two separate assaults against him following an Aug. 2 altercation over fairgrounds trespassing.

The Guffy boy was riding his minibike on fairgrounds property and Lutjeans ordered him away once, but he ignored the command, according to the suspect's version.

Police said Lutjeans took the little gas-powered bike away and locked it in a fairgrounds building after the confrontation, witnessed by many city officials from their Civic Center offices.

Harbor District Judicial Court Judge Calvin Schmidt ordered Lutjeans freed on his own recognizance, before he was actually booked into jail.

Newport Diver Drowns in Kelp Off Catalina Isle

Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies identified the diver as Robert Lee Smith, 39, of 1150 Polaris Drive, who was reported missing by a companion last Monday.

A sea and air search was begun for Smith after the report, but was called off in the evening due to poor visibility. Smith's body was later discovered floating in the water 1½ miles from Emerald Bay.

Delay Sought in Bolsa Airport Site Hearing

By WILLIAM REED
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

County Airport Commissioner Roger Slates of Huntington Beach told the DAILY PILOT today that he will ask fellow commissioners to postpone a public hearing on the proposed Bolsa Chica site for a future county airport.

The hearing has been scheduled for Aug. 30, Slates said, "but so many people are awaiting public distribution of the airport master plan report before making any decisions on the location question."

Slates said the report is not due for distribution until just before the scheduled hearing and that "in all fairness the report should be in the hands of these groups before we can expect them to give an intelligent comment on location of the future airport."

He said the commission has been accused of "railroading" the Bolsa Chica site through. "We are not going to railroad anything; airplanes are our speciality," the commissioner quipped.

Five possible locations for the future county regional air facility have been proposed. Of the five sites three are being used as military bases.

There has been no indication that the military is about to release any of the bases under consideration within the foreseeable future, Second District Supervisor David L. Baker's aide Peter Moore told the Chamber of Commerce recently.

"This story reported in the DAILY PILOT has made people realize that the Bolsa Chica site is a likely one for the proposed airport," Slates said. "They are beginning to realize that someone should investigate the airport possibility."

His suggestion that the city council look into the airport was met with a request for official notification of a public hearing on the airport plan.

"We've had no official notification of a hearing or anything else," Vice Mayor Jack Green told Slates.

An international-type airport has been suggested for a site just east of Warner Avenue along Coast Highway. The airport would have twin runways a mile apart running out to sea.

Other locations under study by the county Airport Commission include a site in the San Jaquin Hills between Laguna Beach and Corona del Mar.

Military sites include Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, El Toro and the Marine Air Facility.

These sites were suggested in a proposed master plan of air transportation developed by Pereira and Associates. No cost figures were included in the Phase One section.

The report calls for construction of the new airport in the next five years.

Council Rejects City Park Model

Latest rejection of his idea for a model to show what the city has in mind for a large section in the geographical center of the city came in a special meeting Monday night.

While councilmen were less than enthusiastic about spending some $2,000 for construction of a park model, they said they could consider the possibility again on Monday night.

"I'm trying to sell this park idea to the people and the model would be of great assistance," Matney told the council, pointing out that the bond proposal on the November ballot contains money for the proposed park.

Director of Recreation and Park Norm Worthy suggested a large master plan could be ordered rather than the model. "A large scale master plan would cost about $1,500."

Worthy said the model suggested by Matney would be built by a couple of landscape architects who work for the city of Anaheim. "They do this work on the side."

Acting City Administrator Brander Castle said that with announcement of the city's proposed $6 million bond issue for parks there have been many inquiries from architects wanting to make presentations to the city.

"I think we might be able to get this model pretty cheap if we look around," Castle told the council.

Leading the opposition to the Matney model idea is Mayor Alvin Coen who argued that it would be better to obtain a master plan of the park prior to building a model.

Mysterious Shots Recur On Freeway

Another mystery sniper attack on a young aircraft plant employe riding home from work by motorcycle on a West Orange County freeway was reported late Monday, five days after the first victim was murdered by five gunshots.

Talbert District Seeking Delay Of LAFC Hearing

Proposed dissolution of the Talbert Water District in Huntington Beach is on Wedensday's agenda of the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFC) but the district wants the hearing postponed to the Oct. 9 meeting.

The dissolution has been proposed by the City of Huntington Beach. The district provides irrigation water to only 13 landowners in the southeast section of the city but all property owners are taxed.

The city's contention is that the vast majority of the landowners affected receive no benefit and the city will be able to serve the 13 landowners.

The district was formed in 1954 when the area it covers was largely agricultural. Now it is built to homes and apartmnets.

Last year a spirited campaign was waged to put two homeowner representatives on the district's board of directors, but failed.

The district has a tax rate of 28 cents and an annual budget of $40,726.

Navy Sidewinder Hits Oil Vessel Near Point Mugu

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A Navy air-to-air Sidewinder missile was identified today as the object that smashed into an oil survey vessel and set it afire Monday night, Navy officials said.

A spokesman at Pt. Mugu Naval Air Station said an examination of the parts found aboard the Pacific Seal confirmed that it was a non explosive training Sidewinder that hit the ship 15 miles from shore near Santa Rosa Island.

Huntington Surf Contest May Draw 500 Entries

More than 150 surfers, including two-time United States champion Corky Carroll of Dana Point, have agreed to compete in Huntington Beach's 10th annual United States Invitational Surfboard Championship Sept. 28 and 29.

Norm Worthy, director of recreation and parks for Huntington Beach, said more than 500 people are expected to sign up for the competition by the Sept. 1 deadline.

Invitations have gone to surfers all over the United States, as well as Mexico, Peru and Japan, Worthy said.

This year's contest is dedicated to Duke Kahanamoku, who died in January.

Champions will be named in five divisions of the meet.

Women and girls will compete together in one division, but boys and men will be divided into four groups. They will compete in 14 and under, 15-17, 18-34 and 35 and over categories.

Only 10 women and girls have returned applications to compete so far, Worthy said.

Huntington's Voters to Find 4 Bonds on Ballot

Voters will find on the Nov. 5 general election ballot four propositions from Huntington Beach governmental agencies with bonding programs totaling $21.16 million.

Listed first on the ballot will be the $12 million building bond proposal of the Huntington Beach Union High School District.

Trustees ordered this measure on the ballot Aug. 5 in a stormy session in which the bond requests were cut from $23 million to the $12 million mark.

Second on the ballot will be a request by the Huntington Beach Recreation and Parks Department for $6 million to finance park construction and aquisition over the next six years.

This measure was trimmed from an original request of more than $14 million.

Third measure is a $3.16 million bond request by the city Library Department. The money would be used to buy a site at Golden West Street and Talbert Avenue and to build a 60,000 square foot main library there.

Each of the bonding propositions requires a two-thirds margin for approval.

Fourth local item on the ballot will be a proposed charter change making the office of city attorney appointive by the council rather than elective by the people.

The proposition reserves recall rights for the citizens. This measure requires only a simple majority of those voting.

Con Slayer 82nd On Death Row

SAN RAFAEL (UPI)—A San Quentin prison inmate convicted of slaying another prisoner moved onto Death Row today — its 82nd inhabitant.

Leo E. Robles, 23, was sentenced to death Monday by Marin County Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley. He was found guilty last month of killing Forest Smith, 42, in the prison psychiatric ward.

At the time, Robles was serving a life sentence for the hanging death of a Santa Clara County jail cellmate in 1965.

'Stop Me,' Killer Cries

Murders Three in Florida, Then Calls Police

From Wire Services

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Time and the immeasurable drive of a killer's homicidal instinct hounded lawmen here today as they sought the slayer of one and maybe three victims, who has begged by telephone for capture.

"Ive murdered three people," an anonymous young man told a sheriff's desk officer Monday, "Please catch me. Please."

Directed by the apparent slayer, police found the bodies of an 11-year-old girl and her critically wounded mother, who was slumped over in a car at Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Clark, 42, of Clarkston, Ga., shot five times in the head and neck is near death, while her daughter Marilyn, 11, was also fatally shot five times in the head.

Motorists found the slain child's body along a Hollywood, Fla., roadway, four miles from where her mother was discovered and police are dragging area wtaterways for a probable third victim.

"He wasn't lying about the first two," said a detective, "so why should he lie about a third?"

Investigators revealed they are holding one person — an unemployed Santa Monica, Calif., machinist, — after he tried to buy a ticket to anywhere at the airport.

Ray C. Masterson, 18, is being held in connection with the theft of some watches from an airport concession, but police would not say if he is a suspect in the homicide case.

The grisly tale began to unfold Monday morning when a young man — his voice at times anguished — telephoned and Broward County Sheriff's Deputy James Rice answered.

Caller: Sir, I'd like to report a murder.

Caller: Murder.

Rice: A murder?

Caller: I just killed three people.

Rice: Just killed three people:

Caller: I'm serious. Please catch me. Please.

Rice: Where are you?

Caller: Please, I ju. . .Please.

Rice: Where are you son?

Caller: I'm gonna kill 'em tonight, too. Please.

Rice: Where are you?

Disconnect.

Lawmen urged the public not to panic, but ordered all persons to use strict precaution, since they are evidently seeking a maniacal killer who is helpless against his drive.

U.S. Routs Viet Cong Battalion

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen smashed a Viet Cong battalion in the Mekong Delta and crippled two separate enemy units in ambushes north of Saigon, the U.S. Command reported today.

Troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division counted 104 enemy bodies today after a two-day battle with an estimated 300-strong enemy force in the delta rice paddies 21 miles southwest of Saigon. American losses were 15 killed and 30 wounded.

It was one of four engagements in the Mekong Delta since Monday in which the allies claimed a total of 181 Viet Cong killed.

U.S. troops of the 25th Division ambushed 25 Viet Cong 25 miles northwest of Saigon and killed 10. There were no American casualties.

In another operation 340 miles northeast of Saigon, a small combined action platoon of U.S. Marines and Vietnamese Popular Forces killed 28 Viet Cong and fought its way out of a night ambush without suffering a single casualty.

The platoon surrounded two houses in the coastal village of Van Thai after residents reported that a group of Viet Cong had gathered there. The allies killed 12 Viet Cong and captured three and seized three Chinese-made machine guns, three rocket launchers and seven individual weapons.

As the platoon moved out, it was ambushed by another enemy force of unknown size. The Marines called in a U.S. Navy swiftboat to fire flares and mortars while helicopter gunships raked the enemy position. South Vietnamese spokesmen said 14 bodies were found after the bombardment.

Viet Cong sabotage plans were dealt two damaging blows in Saigon.

Government agents raided a house four blocks from the Tan Son Nhut Air Base and seized a munitions cache containing Chinese assault rifles, 200 pounds of dynamite and 50 bazooka-type rockets.

Two Vietnamese chauffeurs assigned to the U.S. Military Command's Pentagon East headquarters at Tan Son Nhut were arrested as suspected members of a Viet Cong sabotage and assassination squad. U.S. spokesmen confirmed that the two men were drivers in the command's motor pool, authorized to drive American officers below the rank of general.

Back to Bikini

Crime Nixon's Target

Republican Also Cites Disorders as Key Issue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A top advisor to Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon says crime and civil disorders — issues Nixon aides consider potentially troublesome — will get top billing in the campaign.

Aides said Monday the issues are crucial and a difficulty will be to stress law and order without appearing insensitive to slum problems or overshadowing Nixon's proposals for easing them.

Nixon has said order and civil rights progress must go hand in hand.

The candidate's proposed program of "black capitalism" to offer Negroes "a piece of the action" of American enterprise is attracting interest in the Negro community, said Charles S. Rhyne, chairman of United Citizens for Nixon.

Nixon's running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, said in San Francisco, meanwhile, that violence and disorder are not the answer to civil rights problems.

"Those who feel civil rights and lawlessness are compatible must be convinced otherwise," Agnew said.

He spoke of "the many wonderful Negro citizens in this country who are completely disenchanted" with militants who advocate violence.

A group of 18 Baltimore Negro leaders accused Agnew Monday of "antipathy toward black people" and said they have organized to spread his record of "inadequacies" throughout the nation.

A $5 million Nixon-Agnew effort to win Democratic and independent votes was announced Monday by Rhyne. He said five million workers are to be enlisted and one million already have signed up.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy urged his non-delegate supporters to stay away from the Democratic National Convention, and called Nixon's campaign promises on Vietnam and other issues "irrelevant to the reality of 1968."

"The presence of large numbers of visitors amidst the summer tensions of Chicago," McCarthy said to his supporters, "may well add to the possibility of unintended violence or disorder."

The Democratic presidential contender said Nixon, after urging greater military effort in the Vietnam war, now "tells us he will settle it without saying how."

A McCarthy aide, Norval Reece, meanwhile predicted the Minnesota senator will spend about $4 million in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sen. George S. McGovern launched a concerted two-week campaign Monday for the Democratic nomination, calling for an end to the draft system and cuts in spending to the military-industrial complex.

McGovern said the draft should be replaced with a voluntary system that pays well enough to draw adequate numbers of servicemen.

The South Dakota senator said he hopes to line up 200 to 250 delegate votes on the first ballot at the Democratic National Convention starting Aug. 26 in Chicago.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, easing previous wording, said Monday that "restraint and reasonable response" by Hanoi should be the price for a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

He said his previous use of the word "reciprocity" as the price had been "misinterpreted as a harsh and rigid word. This certainly was not my intent."

The vice president explained his position in a letter to the National Committee for a Political Settlement in Vietnam, whose eight-point program he had endorsed except for its call for a unilateral halt to the U. S. bombing.

In other political developments:

—Arkansas Democrats cast ballots in a runoff today to decide whether Mrs. Virginia Johnson or veteran state Rep. Mario H. Crank will run against incumbent Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

—A Democratic Platform Committee fight over a Vietnam plank began taking shape when Sen. Claiborne Pell (D-R. I.), a committee member, proposed a call for a bombing halt in the North and elections open to all in the South.

—A Former White House press secretary Bill Moyers, just back from a Paris trip, says U. S. Ambassador Sargent Shriver told him he is not a candidate for vice president and does not intend to encourage anyone to promote him for the office.

Huntington's Shaggy Dog Still Among the Missing

By SANDI MAJOR
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There's no end yet to Huntington Beach's current shaggy dog story.

The silky-haired pup, a pet of the Robert Heyings of 20421 Seven Seas Lane, has been missing three weeks now, and despite rumors that he is meandering along a route that will eventually take him home, the one-year-old Ralphie has not been found.

"Gosh, no, we haven't given up."

The three older Heying boys, Michael, 17, Terry, 16, and Kevin, 15, were to spend today checking the Orange County dog pound and circling an area where the dog was last seen.

BELIEVED STOLEN

Ralphie disappeared from the Heyings' business, Garfield Foreign Car Service at Garfield and Holly, July 26. Police theorize he was stolen.

The five Heying children, who had been saving money for an operation to restore the sight of Ralphie's nearly blind father, George, a fluffy dust-mop of a dog, offered their savings as a reward.

A story in the DAILY PILOT brought calls from Westminster and Huntington Beach residents whose reports indicated the dog was trying to make his way home.

He was spotted first on Bushard in Westminster the day he disappeared, the family said.

STRUCK BY CAR

Then he was seen at Edinger and Springdale, where a mother and her daughter cared for him after he was struck by a car.

His family, however, is not giving up.

"If anything, we're looking harder for him," said Heying.

Twins Separated

PARIS (UPI) — Siamese twin girls separated Monday in a three-hour, 15 minute operation were in "very satisfactory" condition today, a spokesman at Necker Enfants Malades Hospital said.

Minor Blazes Hit Watts As Police Guard Area

A rash of minor blazes — at least five of them started by Molotov cocktails — broke out in the Watts area of Los Angeles before "saturation policing" of the district was broken off before dawn this morning.

After a long night of intensive patrolling, police packed up their ammunition and shotguns and abandoned their Watts command post before dawn today. Despite the fires, the south-central district of the sprawling city was pronounced "generally calm" during the night.

FALSE ALARMS

The burned woman, identified as Velma Williams, 25, was found on the sidewalk when firemen responded to a blaze believed started by a flaming cocktail at a two-story apartment building.

The victim suffered burns over 70-80 percent of her body and was taken to Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center.

There were no reports of sniping or looting Monday night in the area where three Negroes were shot to death and 42 other persons wounded during a two-hour battle between police and snipers Sunday night. Five of the wounded were policemen.

Police said they believe at least two of the three Negroes killed Sunday were shot by other Negroes.

3 TO A CAR

Police Chief Tom Reddin Monday said "saturation policing of the area" and complete mobilization of the force would continue "until things have calmed down." He ordered officers to travel three to a car but not to wear helmets nor have their guns "bristling."

Leaders of the Negro community urged Reddin to withdraw the heavy police patrols lest their presence in the tense area incite more violence. At the same time, they urged residents of Watts to keep off the streets during the night.

The violence Sunday, the third anniversary of the devastating 1965 riots, resulted in the arrest of 35 persons, 28 of whom were booked on felony charges.

Twenty-two buildings sustained minor damage, mostly broken windows. Some looting and fire bombing occurred at the height of the Sunday disturbance but authorities said it was scattered and did not seem to be organized.

Beach Meeting Slated Thursday On Library Bonds

The first in a series of citizens' meetings to promote the Huntington Beach $6 million park and $3 million library bond issues to be on the November ballot will convene Thursday at the Ocean View School District administration offices.

Walter Johnson, Huntington Beach librarian, said the purpose of the meeting would be to select a chairman to head the bond drive and nominate publicity, finance and speakers' bureau chairmen.

Invited to the 7:30 p.m. meeting are trustees of local school boards, representatives of the Urban Land Institute Citizens Steering Committee and library and park commissioners.

Norm Worthy, director of the recreation and parks department, said this meeting will form the "back bone" of a citizens' advisory committee.

He said invitations would go out to other community leaders to join the committee within "another week or two."

Planners Hold Child Nursery Permit Request

Westminster planners Monday nixed any possible fast action on a conditional use permit to operate a retarded children's nursery in an R-1 (single family) zone.

Planners continued until Aug. 26 an application by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Plouchard to establish the six-bed, non-ambulatory facility at 6401 Cayuga Drive.

On other matters commissioners approved an application by St. Edward the Confessor Episcopal Mission to relocate a children's nursery on the church's property, 8912 Hazard Ave., an R-1 district.

Two street-name changes were recommended to the City Council, Dickens Avenue to Asbury Circle and Dalton Avenue to Downing Circle. The streets, located north of McFadden Avenue and west of Bushard Street, conflicted with the names of streets in an adjacent tract.

Fair Manager Pleads Innocent To Boy Assault

Lutjeans is accused by Randy L. Guffy, 16, of 144 Brookline Drive, Costa Mesa, of two separate assaults against him following an Aug. 2 altercation over fairgrounds trespassing.

The Guffy boy was riding his minibike on fairgrounds property and Lutjeans ordered him away once, but he ignored the command, according to the suspect's version.

Police said Lutjeans took the little gas-powered bike away and locked it in a fairgrounds building after the confrontation, witnessed by many city officials from their Civic Center offices.

dodge shots from what also sounded like a rifle.

"This was a big gun. You can tell the sound of a .45 caliber weapon," Brown said, "it was sort of a crack, but it didn't really sound like that."

"I wasn't being too awfully objective about the whole thing at the time," Brown said, describing the flash and roar as a car sped by him on the freeway.

"They came up and passed me like I was going backwards and you know anybody travelling that fast on the freeway has to be crazy," the victim said afterward.

"They were colored for one thing, beyond that I couldn't give much of a description. There was a whole bunch of them in the car," Brown told investigators.

He said the vehicle was an older model Ford Falcon sedan, dark reddish in color.

Garden Grove police said today investigation was continuing into the alleged attack on Brown and results of their report would be forwarded to Fountain Valley police to compare with the Gardner killing.

TV's Convention News

Although news reporting on network television has greatly improved in recent years, it still has shortcomings which reveal themselves most vividly in such maximum viewer interest situations as a national presidential nominating convention.

A contributor to today's Mailbox column (below on this page) objects to a telecast technique which she describes as "directed thought" — the tendency to be too quick to comment on and analyze a just-completed speech or action.

Others resented the cynical camera direction which ignored nomination seconders at center stage while picking up almost anyone with an opinion to express or a rumor to convey on the convention floor. Many of the speakers ignored on TV were personalities in the news — regional, if not national — and the TV audience was entitled to see them in action and to hear at least a sampling of what they had to say.

The stamp of show business is still on TV news presentation — and especially on the floor directors who decide instantly what the cameras will pick up in a fast-moving situation. They are, for the most part, not editors, nor even particularly "editorially minded." As a result, they don't recognize that what to their showmen's eyes close to the "performance" may seem dull, indeed, may be vitally important in giving the public a balanced view of a major event.

A flaw in TV's performance showed in the tendency of newscasters on the floor to become "stars" of the show instead of mere reporters of the news as they should be.

Electronic and print media may not fairly be compared in their abilities to convey information in depth to the mass audience day in, day out. By their very immediacy, on-the-scene TV and radio broadcasts of complex events, such as political conventions — or riots — accentuate the necessity for the more detailed, balanced reports in the newspapers and magazines.

Perhaps viewer complaints over the Miami Beach performance will bring some basic changes at the Democratic convention in Chicago. Perhaps there can be more camera attention to the men who occupy center stage there, less to frivolous floor gossip — while continuing the effort to ferret out everything going on off camera which has, or might have, real significance.

Electronic Vote Counting

Orange County not so long ago was laughed about as the slowest vote-counting entity in the state, often being days behind all other counties.

Then the county adopted the Coleman system when there were some 320,000 registered voters in the county — not so much for greater speed, though that was a factor, but for greater accuracy and lower cost compared to worker-fatigued hand counting. It saved $300,000 a year, enough to pay for itself as of this year.

Now, with a projected 570,000 registered voters in November, the Coleman system is overburdened. Various newer kinds of vote counting systems will be tested in the November election and in the June, 1970 primary election and the following November.

In the process, decentralization of vote counting will be a goal so that the system chosen may serve city, school and district elections.

Expensive voting machines, as used in some other areas of the nation, would provide an instant count at closing time in each precinct. But speed is not paramount; accuracy, economy and flexibility are, given reasonable speed.

Some one modern electronic system should emerge from testing as of optimum value to Orange County as a successor to the now overburdened and outmoded Coleman system — good as it has been for its time and place.

Balance of Power Little Understood

'The South Shall Rise Again'

Richard Wilson

WASHINGTON — Save your Confederate money boys, runs the popular lyric, for the South shall rise again. It has risen in this 1968 presidential year to hold the balance of power in both political parties, and perhaps in the election.

This is very little understood, particularly in the Midwest and northwest where the South is often regarded as out of the main stream. But the South is very much in the main stream this year, with its boulders of dissent making the channels very hazardous.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is at the mercy of the South. He would have much greater difficulty winning the Democratic nomination without solid southern support, and perhaps could not win it at all.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY at Miami Beach was hung up by the South in its attempt to move completely out of the dark age of Goldwater. From any detached point of view the central issue was placating the South because the mathematics of politics made its support, in one form or another or at least its consent, essential to the victor.

The South's heart lies with Ronald Reagan and George Wallace, not with Dick Nixon, or HHH, or Rocky. The threatening wraith of Wallace hung over the Republicans in Miami Beach, as it will over the Democrats in Chicago.

Both parties — Democrats as well as Republicans — are caught up by the law and order question, mixing up racial disturbances having a social base with criminality and lawlessness having other causes as well. Wallace is the true possessor of the law and order symbol. Humphrey, Nixon and Reagan merely borrowed it for the duration of the campaign.

THE CENTRAL QUESTION at the Republican convention up until nomination was whether or not the Republican alternative to Wallace, Reagan, could so shake Nixon's southern support as to block his nomination.

The central question at the Democratic convention will be Humphrey's ability to satisfy the South, and particularly Texas, with a vice-presidential nominee while still holding a maximum of northern liberal support.

Both these questions were forced by the Wallace candidacy and the possibility that southern states would deny sufficient electoral votes to either major party candidate to give him a majority.

The "southern strategy," therefore, has worked, and it is in the course of preventing both political parties moving as rapidly into the "new politics" as many northern elements would like.

THE "NEW POLITICS" as it is represented in the Democratic Party by Senator McCarthy and in the Republican Party by Governor Rockefeller, is nothing more than shaking off restraining conservative influences mainly centered in the South. These influences, of course, are present in the North too, but the South furnishes the weight that shifts the balance.

Republicans may eventually have to ask themselves if their subservience to the "southern strategy" is worth it and if a complete break with the South may not be necessary if the GOP is to become the majority party nationally. For the net result of the southern strategy this year is to threaten the Republican candidate with defeat.

Wallace has exploded the southern strategy. He may carry states that would under normal circumstances be carried by the Republican candidate, and so deny the presidency to the Republican candidate if the election is close in the North.

THIS IS AN IRONIC turn to the decades-long effort of northern Republicans to build a Republican Party in the South. They may merely have succeeded in tying themselves to compromises which are not acceptable in the natural home of the Republican Party, the Midwest and the Northeast.

Vice President Humphrey will be faced by an acute problem in Chicago. He will be faced by choosing a vice president acceptable to northern liberals and inviting to the dissident McCarthyites, or the kind of more moderate vice-presidential candidate called for by Gov. John Connally of Texas and some of his fellow southern governors.

They ask for a vice-presidential nominee representing a point of view more moderate than Humphrey's. Connally himself would fit that qualifiation. He would also affix on Humphrey more vividly than before the mark of Lyndon Johnson.

So the South marches on, its rebel banners flying.

Ron Finds a Note in His Cornflakes

Art Hoppe

MIAMI BEACH — I have been extremely busy gathering material for my monumental history tentatively titled, "The Making of a Loser — 1968."

One interesting find is a tape recording. The tape, all in a tangle, was discovered lying in a dark and secret passageway in the bowels of Convention Hall shortly before the balloting began.

Unfortunately, the two voices on the tape are not identified. I present a transcript of it here so that my fellow scholars may assist in deciphering its meaning, if any.

"HI THERE, Ron. Thanks a thou for coming."

"Well, golly, Nelson, I'm not a politician. I'm just a plain old citizen. So I don't believe in secret meetings. But when I found your note in my cornflakes this morning, I said, 'Here's the fellow citizen who needs my help all open and aboveboard.' And maybe you'd better douse that light."

"Sure thing, Ron. But what I wanted to ask is how's it going, fella?"

"Well, gee, Nelson, I'm not a politician, you know. But I'm confidently predicting victory on the third ballot."

"And I'm confidently predicting victory on the fifth ballot. Unfortunately, it looks as though he's going to get it on the first or second ballot. We've got to stop him, Ron."

"GOSH, NELSON, I'm not here to stop anybody. I think that'd be pretty negative. How do you figure we could do it?"

"A dream ticket, fella. You and me. We let the delegates know they can have us as a package. Why, a dream ticket like that will steamroller the convention, unify the party and sweep the country."

"Well, golly, Nelson, I'm not a politician so I don't make deals. But you've got yourself an agreement."

"Great, fella. Our dream ticket will take it on the first ballot And, oh, what a campaign. You'll capture the south and the rural areas with your kooky conservative ideas. And I'll wow 'em in the north."

"With your funny minded pinko liberalism."

"Look here, fella, who're you calling pinko?"

"WHO'RE YOU calling kooky? You can take your dream ticket and . . ."

"Now hold on, fella either we softpedal our differences and get together to stop him or . . ."

"Not being a politician, I will never compromise my American ideals."

"Or it's back to the State House for both of us."

"But fortunately, I've always admired your stand on the issues, Nelson, and I'm sure we'll get along just fine. Put her there, partner. And just let me add that . . ."

"Here's my hand, dear friend. And just let me say that . . ."

Both voices together: "I know you'll make a wonderful Vice President."

DUE UNDOUBTEDLY to some technical difficulty, the tape at this point tails off into a babble of screeches, squawks, thumps and moans. This is a shame for otherwise one feels it would be of great importance.

To the Editor:

I have always respected NBC for objective reporting, good taste and good sense. Last Thursday night the "reporters" decided to editorialize immediately after the acceptance speech. They decided to "tell" people what the reporters heard in Richard Nixon's acceptance speech.

This was colossal nerve and prejudiced all that Mr. Nixon had inspired in that speech.

TO THE LISTENERS and watchers, Nixon's command of the convention built and built. At first people listened rather resignedly and some frankly looked disaffected. By the time he was half way through he had the delegates on their feet and by three quarters of the way he had them absolutely silent, attentive and with him.

It seems to me that Mr. Vanocur's remarks about his speech being "as good as it should have been" did not allow the people to draw their own conclusions.

"REPORTING" SEEMS to be becoming "directed thought" and is taking dangerous and unfair advantage of those who listen and watch the candidates. Too many people are influenced by opinions voiced by those men whom they see often in a news reporter's role.

Even David Brinkley remarked that news media editorials should not be taken so seriously (in connection with the turnabout of the New Mexico Governor). However, the opinions expressed so closely following Mr. Nixon's speech prompted this letter in angry protest to NBC editorializing and not having the good taste to at least wait a few hours to let the effect of the speech be absorbed and reflected on by the listeners.

MRS. WILLIAM DILLIARD

Veterans at UCI

To the Editor:

An article appeared in your columns on July 31 regarding the remarkable scholastic achievements of veterans at Orange Coast College. Unfortunately, a typographical error garbled a reference to veterans at the University of California, Irvine.

To set the record straight, we currently have 43 students continuing their enrollment for this fall under the GI Bill who are veterans of the Korean war. IBM information cards are currently being compiled for newly admitted students eligible for veterans assistance under the GI Bill. Therefore, statistics are not currently available on returning veterans from Vietnam.

While we have not developed facts and figures comparing veterans to non-veterans, I am under the impression through my contact with these fine young men that their general scholastic record at Irvine is good, and probably compares favorably with the record at Orange Coast College.

Air Traffic Problems Grow

Allen-Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — Two near-tragic "near-misses," involving campaign planes of presidential candidates, are worrying political planners and federal authorities as the 1968 campaigning moves towards its busiest final phase.

The two incidents helped to dramatize air traffic problems and convince economy-minded Senate and House members that more money should be invested in airway safety. Additional funds, voted by Congress before its convention recess, will not help this year, however.

Soon after Labor Day, chartered planes for Republican and Democratic candidates will begin their cross-country caravans. The third-party campaign of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace will be air-borne too, and, in the campaign's final stages, additional press planes, "truth squads" and the like will add to the congestion.

ALL OF THESE campaign aircraft, most of them fast jets, will move on irregular schedules into airports, large and small, often at their busiest times. Over the campaign years, the air lines and the government's air traffic experts have managed these quadrennial problems without a serious hitch.

Recently, however, senators and House members were advised of two little-publicized encounters which might have made banner headlines. Reporting in closed session to the Senate-House conference committee on the $5.8 billion appropriation bill for the Department of Transportation, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said:

"At Lawrence, Kan., a light airplane at an airport without a control tower cut sharply in front of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's plane as he was landing there to make a speech. The pilot skillfully averted an accident.

"While the late Sen. Robert Kennedy was campaigning on the west coast in the town of Roseburg, Ore., an airplane landed on the same runway as his plane but in the opposite direction, and they narrowly missed."

IN ADDITION to providing additional air traffic controllers, an action which was highlighted by traffic slow-downs at major airports, Congress subsequently boosted from $70 million to $120 million the sum budgeted by President Johnson for facilities and equipment to improve air safety.

The additional sums will finance installations of different types of radar equipment and improvements for control towers at locations across the nation. Small, ill-equipped airports were earmarked for improved equipment along with the overtaxed air terminals in large cities.

The final congressional action, however, was still $71 million short of the $191.5 million outlay recommended by the Federal Aviation Administration and initially approved by the Senate. Federal experts must now sort through the list of equipment needs across the nation to develop a $120 million listing of priority projects for immediate attention.

Dear Gloomy Gus:

Gore Vidal lamented on TV that the rich five percent of Americans have 20 percent of the wealth and the poor 20 percent only five percent of the wealth. That leaves 75 percent of the people with 75 percent of the wealth — the widest distribution of individual wealth of any country in history.

The chief difference between a true writer and a propagandist is that the propagandist writes to persuade others, while the true author writes to make the truth more clear to himself — clarity comes first, and only then communication.

A smoker without cigarets is less frustrated than a smoker with cigarets and no matches; the closer the goal, the more vexing the distance — and so it is, also, with social goals, that the closer we are to realizing them, the angrier we get at the little gap.

Sniper Strikes

Another Freeway Cyclist Attacked

Another mystery sniper attack on a young aircraft plant employe riding home from work by motorcycle on a West Orange County freeway was reported late Monday, five days after the first victim was murdered by five gunshots.

Robert A. Brown, 24, of 1214 W. Highland St., Santa Ana, escaped injury as he swerved evasively on his big BMW motorcycle, southbound on the Garden Grove Freeway between Springdale Avenue and Valley View Street.

"I know for damn sure they shot at me," Brown told the DAILY PILOT today, "I was a gunner's mate in the Navy and once you see those things, you never forget."

Fountain Valley Police said today that they have nothing new in the murder last Wednesday of Navy veteran James Gardner, 21, of 619 Mountain View St., Santa Ana.

"All we know now is what has already been said," commented Sgt. Fred Nourse, currently commanding police investigation of the case since Lt. Martin Fortin went on vacation.

The two cases bear a chilling resemblance.

Gardner — found dead along the San Diego Freeway near Euclid Avenue in Fountain Valley with his watch shattered at 1:55 a.m., Wednesday — was a Douglas Aircraft Co. plant employe,

Surf Crash With Truck Injures Youth in Laguna

A 12-year-old boy was injured Monday afternoon when he rode a wave into shore and under a Laguna Beach city trash truck traveling along the beach.

Francis Kemberling was not run over but required four stitches in his left shoulder after smashing into the truck, Laguna police said. He was treated at South Coast Community Hospital.

The youth is from Tuscon, Ariz., and is vacationing in Laguna with his parents.

The accident occurred on the beach between Cross Street and Mountain Road. Kemberling was body surfing and the trash truck was traveling along the surfline.

Laguna Woman Burned in Fire

Mrs. Jessie Rea, 85, suffered second degree burns early today in a fire which caused an estimated $5,000 damage to her home at 450 Brooks St., Laguna Beach firemen reported.

Fire Marshal Jim Presson said a cigarette apparently started the blaze in Mrs. Rea's bed.

Presson said Mrs. Rea apparently suffered the shoulder burns while carrying her smoldering mattress to the bathtub. She evidently tried to quench the burning mattress with a pail of water, he said, but the bathroom ceiling caught fire.

Firemen got the call at 2:05 a.m. and extinguished the blaze in 10 minutes.

5 Liquor Bottles, Blender Stolen

Five bottles of liquor, an automatic blender and three locks were stolen from a liquor storage cabinet at the Victor Hugo Inn, 361 Cliff Drive, on Monday, Laguna police said.

Burglars broke a window to gain entry.

Suspect Cleared In Laguna Beach Jade Theft Case

Celli had been accused of the April 23, 1967 theft of 50 pieces of jade from the home of art appraiser James J. Brennan, 935 Gaviota Drive, Laguna Beach.

Celli, 23, of 3160 Mountain View Ave., Laguna Beach, was arrested in June of 1967 following discovery of most of the jade hidden in the storeroom of a school in Los Angeles. Most of the missing pieces were recovered.

Celli at one time was found insane and unable to assist in his defense in connection with another case where he was accused of assault. Authorities said he was alleged to have been under the influence of drugs when the assault occurred.

Extradition On Forgery Rap Sought

By THOMAS FORTUNE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Frazier Smith, the distinguished looking Laguna-Moulton Playhouse building fund chairman who vanished in January when $1,950 was drawn on forged checks, was picked up today in New York.

Laguna Beach police said they were notified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that Smith was arrested this morning.

Detective Sgt. Vic Sagan said it is not known when Smith will be returned to Laguna on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on three counts of forgery.

"We don't know yet whether he will waive extradition," Sgt. Sagan said.

Smith, 41, formerly of 1481 Santa Cruz St., Laguna, was reported booked into Clinton County Jail in Plattsburgh, N.Y.

He had been stopped by New York State Police in Malone, N.Y., for a traffic violation. A record check showed the outstanding warrant.

Sgt. Sagan said the FBI had thought Smith to probably be in Mexico or South America. Smith reportedly went to Mexico over the Christmas and New Year holiday shortly before his disappearance.

The gray-haired, genteel New Englander came to Laguna two years ago claiming to have been a former newspaperman — including a stint on the Wall Street Journal — and a former delegate to the United Nations.

He was hired to raise funds for the new playhouse on a commission basis.

He also became involved in the players family as an actor, handling various roles — including the lead in the play, "You Can't Take It With You."

At the windup of the $400,000 building fund drive, Playhouse officials learned that four allegedly forged checks had been drawn against the Bank of America on Dec. 15. Smith, who had lived alone, disappeared shortly after the checks were cashed.

The checks, according to police, were for $450, $350, $650 and $500. Three complaints accusing Smith of forgery were issued by the district attorney. The $500 check was not the basis of a complaint because of a legal technicality.

The losses were absorbed by the bank and did not hurt the playhouse drive for a new 350-seat theater.

Newport Council Nixes Police TV Camera Setup

By JEROME F. COLLINS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

City councilmen reached that decision Monday night in a 4-3 vote.

The balloting capped a heated, three-hour public hearing on the proposed "Electronic Protection System" (EPS).

Dozens of citizens trooping to the microphone in the packed council chambers were just as split on the issue as municipal lawmakers.

Mayor Doreen Marshall's vote was the difference.

She explained her opposition to seeking a $497,000 federal grant for the law enforcement surveillance program this way:

"It is possible that if this experiment were carried out in Newport Beach, it could be valuable to our nation. But the first thing that bothers me very much is that there are not sufficient constraints or controls as far as the limits of the TV tests are concerned.

"Over and above that," she said quietly to a still audience, "one question I have been struggling with is why should this be conducted in Newport Beach? We have an excellent police force in this community. It is a well-controlled community.

"I respect Chief (B. James) Glavas' concern that means must be found to improve law enforcement, and I have the highest regard for him and the high level of police service he has brought to this city. The reason he brought up this EPS plan is because he is such a dedicated officer.

"But I can't convince myself," she concluded, "that this is the time for Newport Beach to offer itself for this type of experiment."

Mayor Marshall thus assured a majority vote against ex-Mayor Paul J. Gruber's motion to forward the EPS application to state and federal agencies.

Others voting to kill the plan, a subject of controversy in the community during almost a year of studies, were Councilmen Donald A. McInnis, Robert Shelton and Vice Mayor Lindsley Parsons.

Youth Uninjured By 2-story Leap

A Laguna Beach man police said was apparently under the influence of drugs leaped two stories into the street from a motel balcony Monday and landed unhurt.

The 20-year-old man, of an unknown Laguna address, was being held in the mental ward of Orange County Medical Center today for observation. A hospital spokesman said he suffered "no fractures, nothing — not a mark."

Employes of Vacation Village motel, 647 S. Coast Highway, told police the man ran through the lobby shortly before 3 a.m. Monday acting strangely. He was asked to leave.

He left by jumping over the balcony railing 20 feet above Sleepy Hollow Lane. Police found him in the street and arrested him on suspicion of being under the influence of drugs.

Crime, Riots Nixon's Targets

Republican's Aides Cite Key Issues for Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A top advisor to Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon says crime and civil disorders — issues Nixon aides consider potentially troublesome — will get top billing in the campaign.

Aides said Monday the issues are crucial and a difficulty will be to stress law and order without appearing insensitive to slum problems or overshadowing Nixon's proposals for easing them.

Nixon has said order and civil rights progress must go hand in hand.

The candidate's proposed program of "black capitalism" to offer Negroes "a piece of the action" of American enterprise is attracting interest in the Negro community, said Charles S. Rhyne, chairman of United Citizens for Nixon.

Nixon's running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, said in San Francisco, meanwhile, that violence and disorder are not the answer to civil rights problems.

"Those who feel civil rights and lawlessness are compatible must be convinced otherwise," Agnew said.

He spoke of "the many wonderful Negro citizens in this country who are completely disenchanted" with militants who advocate violence.

A group of 18 Baltimore Negro leaders accused Agnew Monday of "antipathy toward black people" and said they have organized to spread his record of "inadequacies" throughout the nation.

A $5 million Nixon-Agnew effort to win Democratic and independent votes was announced Monday by Rhyne. He said five million workers are to be enlisted and one million already have signed up.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy urged his nondelegate supporters to stay away from the Democratic National Convention, and called Nixon's campaign promises on Vietnam and other issues "irrelevant to the reality of 1968."

"The presence of large numbers of visitors amidst the summer tensions of Chicago," McCarthy said to his supporters, "may well add to the possibility of unintended violence or disorder."

The Democratic presidential contender said Nixon, after urging greater military effort in the Vietnam war, now "tells us he will settle it without saying how."

A McCarthy aide, Norval Reece, meanwhile predicted the Minnesota senator will spend about $4 million in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sen. George S. McGovern launched a concerted two-week campaign Monday for the Democratic nomination, calling for an end to the draft system and cuts in spending to the military-industrial complex.

McGovern said the draft should be replaced with a voluntary system that pays well enough to draw adequate numbers of servicemen.

The South Dakota senator said he hopes to line up 200 to 250 delegate votes on the first ballot at the Democratic National Convention starting Aug. 26 in Chicago.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, easing previous wording, said Monday that "restraint and reasonable response" by Hanoi should be the price for a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

He said his previous use of the word "reciprocity" as the price had been "misinterpreted as a harsh and rigid word. This certainly was not my intent."

The vice president explained his position in a letter to the National Committee for a Political Settlement in Vietnam, whose eight-point program he had endorsed except for its call for a unilateral halt to the U. S. bombing.

In other political developments:

—Arkansas Democrats cast ballots in a runoff today to decide whether Mrs. Virginia Johnson or veteran state Rep. Mario H. Crank will run against incumbent Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

—A Democratic Platform Committee fight over a Vietnam plank began taking shape when Sen. Claiborne Pell (D-R. I.), a committee member, proposed a call for a bombing halt in the North and elections open to all in the South.

Huntington Surf Contest May Draw 500 Entries

More than 150 surfers, including two-time United States champion Corky Carroll of Dana Point, have agreed to compete in Huntington Beach's 10th annual United States Invitational Surfboard Championship Sept. 28 and 29.

Norm Worthy, director of recreation and parks for Huntington Beach, said more than 500 people are expected to sign up for the competition by the Sept. 1 deadline.

Invitations have gone to surfers all over the United States, as well as Mexico, Peru and Japan, Worthy said.

This year's contest is dedicated to Duke Kahanamoku, who died in January.

School Traffic Problems Set For Board Action

Park Avenue runs through the middle of Laguna Beach High School and periodically at class changing time a mass of students stops traffic. Motorists can be forced to wait as long as five minutes.

There is one tunnel beneath the street. At one time it was suggested another be added, but the idea was dropped because of cost.

Reeves told the DAILY PILOT that a professional traffic engineer probably will have to be brought in before a solution is reached. In the meantime, the students will be changing classes, and the drivers will be caught watching, unable to go anywhere because of the human blockade.

In other action at tonight's meeting:

—The staff will report on the need for portable classroom units and science lab. They will go either to Thurston Intermediate or the high school.

—Dr. Ullom, district superintendent, will report on the Royal-McBee electronic equipment that is used in the scheduling of Thurston Intermediate School's students.

—Dr. Ullom will report on contract negotiations with Gerstenberger and Pierson, contractors of Thurston, who were being penalized due to the late completion of the school.

—A bill will be up for adoption which will allow a teacher to instruct in an area other than his major or minor, so that he can be used, if necessary, as a substitute. This move is recommended by the county counsel, as advisor to county school districts.

Doctor Drowns Off Catalina With Lagunan

Autopsy results were awaited today in the death of a Newport Beach physician who apparently drowned Monday while diving with a Laguna Beach man off Catalina Island.

The body of Dr. Robert Lee Smith, 39, of 1150 Polaris Drive, was found north of Ship Rock at Catalina shortly after 6 p.m. Monday, according to the Coast Guard.

Dr. Smith had been reported missing earlier in the afternoon. The Coast Guard said a Los Angeles Sheriff's helicopter spotted the body some four hours after the search started.

A family spokesman said the doctor was an experienced diver.

According to deputies, the drowning apparently occurred like this:

Dr. Smith was aboard a vessel called the Euphoria with Frank William Flores, 44, of 1241 Cliff Drive, Laguna Beach.

Flores went over the side to secure the anchor and when he returned to the boat he heard the physician say:

Flores began his descent to the ocean floor 200 feet below. He reported that at the depth of 60 feet he saw Dr. Smith some 30 feet above him.

Two blue sharks distracted Flores momentarily, and when he again peered upward to watch Dr. Smith, the physician had disappeared.

Flores told deputies that a kelp bed was in the area. He said he searched for more than an hour for his missing companion, then notified the Coast Guard.

Cong Battalion Smashed

U.S. Infantrymen Rout Two Red Units Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen smashed a Viet Cong battalion in the Mekong Delta and crippled two separate enemy units in ambushes north of Saigon, the U.S. Command reported today.

Troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division counted 104 enemy bodies today after a two-day battle with an estimated 300-strong enemy force in the delta rice paddies 21 miles southwest of Saigon. American losses were 15 killed and 30 wounded.

It was one of four engagements in the Mekong Delta since Monday in which the allies claimed a total of 181 Viet Cong killed.

U.S. troops of the 25th Division ambushed 25 Viet Cong 25 miles northwest of Saigon and killed 10. There were no American casualties.

In another operation 340 miles northeast of Saigon, a small combined action platoon of U.S. Marines and Vietnamese Popular Forces killed 28 Viet Cong and fought its way out of a night ambush without suffering a single casualty.

The platoon surrounded two houses in the coastal village of Van Thai after residents reported that a group of Viet Cong had gathered there. The allies killed 12 Viet Cong and captured three and seized three Chinese-made machine guns, three rocket launchers and seven individual weapons.

Hughes Pushes Plan to Buy Air West Line

From Wire Services

Billionaire Howard Hughes today will try to go ahead and purchase Orange County-linked Air West airlines, reportedly because he got miffed at its service to Las Vegas.

Hughes will pay about $90 million, or $22 a share for Air West.

The relatively new airline is a regional carrier created from the merger of Bonanza, West Coast and Pacific airlines. Air West got its Orange County Airport service because Bonanza previously had such service.

Hughes, who was rebuffed by stockholders recently in an attempt to gain control of the American Broadcasting Co., agreed to pay $22 a share for Air West.

Although board chairman Nick Bez said in Seattle, Wash., he and other major stockholders will try to push the deal through, other top executives expressed doubt.

"We don't consider it in the best interests of the stockholders," said G. Robert Henry, company president, at San Francisco.

A similar view was expressed by David R. Grace, chairman of the executive committee, in New York, and by Edmund Converse, vice chairman. Henry said he doesn't think the Civil Aeronautics Board would approve such a transaction.

Air West closed Monday on the American Stock Exchange at 19¼. There are 3.7-million shares outstanding.

In 1966, after long litigation, Hughes sold his controlled interest in Trans World Airlines for more than $500 million. He has since bought large land and resort holdings in Las Vegas.

5 Minor Fires Hit Watts Despite 'Calm'

A rash of minor blazes — at least five of them started by Molotov cocktails — broke out in the Watts area of Los Angeles before "saturation policing" of the district was broken off before dawn this morning.

After a long night of intensive patrolling, police packed up their ammunition and shotguns and abandoned their Watts command post before dawn today. Despite the fires, the south-central district of the sprawling city was pronounced "generally calm" during the night.

FALSE ALARMS

The burned woman, identified as Velma Williams, 25, was found on the sidewalk when firemen responded to a blaze believed started by a flaming cocktail at a two-story apartment building.

The victim suffered burns over 70-80 percent of her body and was taken to Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center.

There were no reports of sniping or looting Monday night in the area where three Negroes were shot to death and 42 other persons wounded during a two-hour battle between police and snipers Sunday night. Five of the wounded were policemen.

Police said they believe at least two of the three Negroes killed Sunday were shot by other Negroes.

3 TO A CAR

Police Chief Tom Reddin Monday said "saturation policing of the area" and complete mobilization of the force would continue "until things have calmed down." He ordered officers to travel three to a car but not to wear helmets nor have their guns "bristling."

Leaders of the Negro community urged Reddin to withdraw the heavy police patrols lest their presence in the tense area incite more violence. At the same time, they urged residents of Watts to keep off the streets during the night.

The violence Sunday, the third anniversary of the devastating 1965 riots, resulted in the arrest of 35 persons, 28 of whom were booked on felony charges.

North Vietnam Delegate Returns to Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — Le Duc Tho, a key figure in North Vietnam's peace talk delegation, came back to Paris today after a six-week trip to Hanoi. U.S. officials speculated that his return could open an important new stage in the talks.

On his way back, Tho conferred Monday with Soviet officials in Moscow. He said his trip to Hanoi was part of his "regular duties."

Tho returned to Paris a day after Cyrus R. Vance, deputy chief of the U.S. delegation, returned from the United States. There he not only conferred with President Johnson but also briefed Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon on the Paris talks.

Vance met with Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and other U.S. delegation members today. If he brought new instructions — in line with what appears to be at least a new emphasis on a soft line in Washington — there was no outward indication of it.

But there are signs that the Johnson administration's handling of the talks is undergoing either a policy change or a tactical shift tailored to U.S. domestic politics.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, told the National Committee for a Political Settlement in Vietnam Monday that he thought all bombing of North Vietnam should be stopped if Hanoi showed "restraint and reasonable response" in return. Humphrey said he was dropping the word "reciprocity" to describe conditions for a halt in the bombing.

His letter is subject to the interpretation that the administration is taking a new look at the lull, now almost two months old, in the fighting in South Vietnam to see whether it might be acceptable as a "sign of some word that if he ended the bombing.

Diplomatic authorities here assume that Johnson has been trying to get from Hanoi — probably indirectly — some word that if he ended the bombing the Communists would not suddenly launch a new offensive in the South.

The tone of Humphrey's recent statements has differed markedly from the firm line taken by Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk two weeks ago.

Negro Woman Given High U.S. Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Barbara M. Watson, 49, of New York City Monday became the first woman and the first Negro to serve as administrator of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

It was the first time a Negro has been named to such a high position in the State Department. The position, to which she was sworn in Monday, carries the rank of assistant secretary of state.

Little Rock

Racial Violence In Fourth Night

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Crude firebombs were thrown into six businesses, there were scattered shooting and 11 persons were arrested Monday night and early today in Little Rock's fourth straight night of racial violence.

Nobody was hurt and damage was slight. The firebombs were so poorly made, they failed to go off, police said. Gunfire was reported within a few blocks of police headquarters, but police said they could not find anything to substantiate the reports.

Police said patrol cars were fired upon but none was hit. Ten of the 11 persons arrested were charged with curfew violations. One person was arrested for carrying a weapon.

Officials debated whether to impose a curfew again tonight because of the Democratic runoff election today. A curfew would dull much of the election night celebrating by the winners. The runoff includes a governor's race.

Little Rock Police Chief R. E. Brians said law enforcement units would be near each polling place in Little Rock and North Little Rock where one out of every seven registered voters in the state lives.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller cancelled a speaking engagement at a Republican fund raising dinner in Santa Fe, N.M., Monday to remain in the state. For the third night, Rockefeller placed Pulaski County — of which Little Rock is the county seat — under the curfew.

No injuries were reported from the latest shooting incidents, which began Friday night following a march in protest of the death of a young Negro inmate at the County Penal Farm.

A motion was filed in federal court Monday against the Pulaski County Grand Jury investigating the "causes and events" that led to the violence.

The motion filed by 13 Negroes said the makeup of the Grand Jury is discriminatory and asks that the investigation be suspended until the jury is reconstituted to represent more Negroes, more younger people, and more working people in non-managerial positions. It is the first time a Grand Jury has been challenged in the county.

A hearing is scheduled on the motion today in Harrison where Federal Judge J. Smith Henley is vacationing.

Friday's march was prompted by the death Aug. 2 of an 18-year-old Negro inmate at the Pulaski County Penal Farm. A white trusty inmate has been charged with manslaughter in the death.

The Rev. Thomas McVeigh Smith, a white Roman Catholic priest and leader of the protest, said Monday another march would be held unless conditions at the penal farm were improved. He called for an end to racial segregation in the detention unit and said the facilities should be cleaned up.

Lack of Clues Baffles Police In Death of 2

WESTMORELAND, Kan. (UPI) — Patricia Ortega telephoned her mother in Topeka, Kan., last Wednesday to tell her she would be home "in a couple of days." Patricia never saw home again. A white plastic jug floating in a lake marks the spot where she was found dead, tied to the body of another girl.

Patricia had left home early this year after her 18th birthday. She stayed in Topeka, then went to Kansas City, where she worked as a waitress.

"But she always called and let us know how she was," her stepfather, Cortino Hernandaz, said. "My wife talked with her Wednesday evening, and she said she'd be home in a couple of days."

"She was traveling with a girl friend of hers. That's all we know. There's a possibility that the other girl is this girl friend. But we don't know anything for sure."

Pottawatomie State Lake No. 1, a deserted fishing spot in the northern Flint Hills 60 miles from Topeka, has yielded little information about the deaths of the two girls. The nearest house is one - half mile away in the timber, and its occupants heard no shots. So far, no one at the lake during the past few days has come forward with any clues.

The County Coroner estimated the girls were shot some 24 to 48 hours before a fisherman and his grandson spotted the bodies in the lake early Sunday.

The Ortega girl had been shot once in the head, and two bullets had pierced the chest of the other girl.

"As far as we know," Sheriff Dow Reves said, "the girls were shot before they were put in the lake."

The victims, each wearing shorts, blouses and sandals, were bound at the feet with a rope frayed at one end, which investigators believe may have been tied to a weight. Neither of them had been sexually molested.

23 White Jail Inmates Charged In Race Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — A racial attack in the city's jail on Rikers Island has led to the indictment of 23 white inmates on charges of assault and possession of weapons.

The indictments, made public Monday, charged that about 80 whites attacked six Negroes on the night of July 9.

The attack allegedly occurred after the six Negroes moved a picnic table into a recreation area that the white prisoners had designated for whites only, and the Negroes sat down at the table to watch white prisoners play handball.

The six Negroes allegedly were attacked by white prisoners armed with chair legs, bent tin cans, mop handles, chains and knives made from filed-down spoons.

The indictments and the attack were discussed at a joint news conference by Bronx Dist. Atty Isidor Dollinger, his chief assistant, Burton E. Roberts, and City Correction Commissioner George F. McGrath.

Roberts said one of the victims of the attack, a star pitcher for the jail's baseball team, still is "in a comatose state" in the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital. "His chances of recovery are absolutely nil," Roberts said, "and at best the doctors say he will always be a vegetable."

Roberts praised McGrath for reporting the attack and insisting on prosecution. "This kind of thing happens in institutions all the time, but they usually are swept under the rug," Roberts said.

Roberts said McGrath's decision to call for a complete investigation and the subsequent indictments played important roles in easing racial tensions on Rikers Island.

Hippies Holler 'Help'

Their Love Not Reciprocated in Colorado Resort

DENVER (UPI) — Hippies who have made the popular resort town of Aspen, Colo., their pad went to court Monday because townsfolk don't love them.

In fact, the community has been so downright nasty the hippies filed suit in federal court complaining that their constitutional rights had been violated.

The suit was filed on behalf of all persons who, because of "being unconventional in appearance, manner and life style as compared with the mainstream of society . . . are commonly referred to as hippies."

The hippies said life became unbearable in the Colorado resort town last month shortly after 16 Aspen businessmen presented a petition to the city council. The businessmen complained of a large number of "undesirable transients" who were endangering the "health, moral well-being and business welfare" of the town.

Since then, it's been one harassment after another, the hippies said.

They charged police once even mistook artist-in-residence Robert Indiana for a hippie and demanded to see his draft card.

One of the hippie plaintiffs, Stephen G. Mulford, member of a San Francisco band, said one officer grabbed his long hair and indicated he was going to chop it off with a knife.

The hippies said all they wanted was to be left in peace. They asked for a U. S. District Court order to make sure of it.

Ballet Enthusiasts Sup Under Stars

FREE SAMPLES — Mrs. Lloyd Bacon and Mrs. Basil Gannon (right to left) co-chairmen of a Champagne Supper to take place before "Ballet Alfresco" and members of the board of directors, Laguna Beach Civic Ballet Co., sample the salad prepared by Mrs. Terrence Neptune, manager of the Terrace Restaurant, Irvine Bowl, where the supper will take place Saturday night, Aug. 31.

Ballet fans will pop corks at a champagne supper to take place before Laguna Beach Civic Ballet Co.'s presentation of "Ballet Alfresco" at 8:30 p.m. in Irvine Bowl Saturday, Aug. 31.

While dancers are limbering up for the performance, Ballet Guild members are busy stage managing the supper which will be served at 6:30 p.m. on the Terrace Restaurant of Irvine Bowl.

The supper, chaired by Mrs. Basil Gannon and Mrs. Lloyd Bacon, is open to the public, however only about 100 guests may be accommodated, so early reservations are suggested. Tickets, at $6 per person, may be obtained by calling the Ballet Center, 494-7271 by Thursday, Aug. 15.

Afterwards, guests will adjourn to the adjacent Irvine Bowl where members of the national honor company will present three popular items geared to appeal to all age groups.

Opening the third annual dance program will be "Fugitive Visions," a ballet based on color and danced to music by Prokofiev, which will be viewed in Laguna for the first time. The dance's premiere performance was in Oakland last May when the Laguna group was selected to appear in the Pacific Western Regional Ballet Festival.

"Enchanted Toy Shop," an item which should appeal to younger members of the audience, concerns a shop full of toys which come to life and dance.

The final number on the program will be "Moods of Russia," a Russian-type ballet danced to music by Arensky.

All choreography for "Ballet Alfresco" is being done by Lila Zali, the company's artistic director, a former prima ballerina for the CBS-TV system and star of many stage and television presentations of ballet.

Tickets, at $2, $3 and $4, are available at the Irvine Bowl Box Office, 494-1147. Student tickets are half price except in the loge section.

"We would love to fill the entire bowl for this performance," commented Douglas Reeve, general director of the company. The bowl seats 2,512 people.

The Laguna group is the only one in all of Southern California to be named a National Honor Company by the Association for Regional Ballet. This is a designation reserved for ballet groups selected, after independent adjudication by out-of-state authorities, to perform in any three out of five consecutive annual gala performances staged at region-wide Ballet Festivals.

The company is supported by membership contributions and grants from the City of Laguna Beach, Festival of Arts and the National Foundation for Arts and Humanities.

Mary Hanf Is 'On Her Toes'

By JUDY HURST
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Twenty-five-year-old Miss Hanf is on "vacation." She is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Hanf of Newport Beach.

It is not the usual type of vacation where she is sunning at the beach. Mary is studying with Lila Zali in her Laguna Beach studio and performing with the Laguna Beach Civic Ballet Company.

The naturally pretty and petite 5-foot 3-inch ballerina with light auburn hair caught into a chignon is very excited about her upcoming performance Aug. 31 with the Civic Ballet.

"Ballet Alfresco" will be presented in the Irvine Bowl and Mary will be dancing in "Paquita" and "Moods of Ancient Russia."

Also on the program is the production of "Vision Fugitive" which Mary performed in the Pacific Regional Festival in Oakland last May.

Miss Hanf currently is under contract with the Ruth Page International Ballet in Chicago. "My contract includes about seven months work. I toured for three months last year and this year it's set for 10 weeks."

She performed in the lyric opera in Chicago, September through Dec. 3, and was in the "Nutcracker Suite" during the Christmas holidays.

"My second season begins in September. My work days are like everyone else's," she said, surprised that it should be different.

"I work eight hours daily with a lunch hour and a 10 minute rest break every hour. This is according to our union rules," she indicated.

The Laguna Beach High School graduate had taken piano lessons as a small girl, but couldn't concentrate long enough at the keyboard. "During my junior year at high school in Redlands I began ballet lessons."

Her mother wanted her to dance. "I never had the interest as a child but now it's a way of life."

Mary was so involved with dancing that she turned down a trip to Europe several years ago with her mother and brother.

"But two years ago I visited the British Isles for two weeks. I didn't raise a foot for dancing, just touring and shopping," she said guiltily.

The ballerina and her parents and brothers moved to Laguna Beach from Redlands in 1960 and Mary began studying with Lila Zali.

She studied at Orange Coast College in the field of liberal arts and was in the dance department at UCI for almost two terms.

Mary certainly is putting her education to good use. She is really on her toes when it comes to dancing.

Irate Aunt Shutters Over Picture's Dreadful Development

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister has entered her 15-year-old daughter in a beauty contest and it is making us all sick. Bettylou is built like a Swedish 20-year-old, if you get the picture. She gets A's from the men teachers and is flunked by the women teachers. I hope you get THAT picture too. All the emphasis has been on looks and figure and sex appeal and the poor kid is going to end up a professional party girl if something isn't done to open her mother's eyes.

Last night we were at my sister's house for dinner. There were 10 of us present — all family. My sister said, "Honey, why don't you model the bathing suit you're going to wear in the contest? It will be good to practice walking."

In five minutes Bettlou was sashaying through the living room in a bikini that didn't have 50 cents worth of material in it. My brother-in-law Herman almost swallowed his dentures which surprised me because Bessie (his wife) has been referring to him as "my dead battery" for the last 10 years.

I like beauty as well as the next person, but I don't see anything beautiful about a 15-year-old girl showing her behind tc the whole world. Please print this letter so my sister can see it. She'll know it's for her and I hope it helps. — DORIS

DEAR DORIS: Here's the letter but don't expect it to change anybody's mind. I feel sorry for any girl whose brains are in her bikini. Obviously Bettylou's mother has encouraged her along these lines and one day the chickens will come home to roost.

DEAR ANN: Your frankness is refreshing and I admit I enjoy it when you tell a reader off. Now, perhaps it is my turn to get told off, and I hope you will not spare the horses if you think I have it coming.

Teddy and I have been married 11 years. We have no children. Teddy is a good husband and I am trying my darndest to be a good wife.

His job has brought him to this foreign country which I hope you will not name because I wouldn't want to insult the people. Teddy signed up to stay here 18 months. Four months have passed and I am so miserable I could die. I can't speak the language. The climate is wretched. Living conditions are primitive. The food is dreadful. The prices are high. The people are not friendly.

I have considered going back home, getting a job and saving some money. Teddy has begged me to stay. I should tell you he is very attractive and the women here have that look in their eyes when they talk to him at social gatherings.

What should I do? — NEED YOUR WISDOM

DEAR NEED: Some people don't know when they've got it good, Lady. You should read the letters I get from wives whose husbands are fighting the war in a neighboring country. They would give their eye teeth to be there with them — in the "wretched" climate, eating the "dreadful" food and paying those high prices.

Get off your back porch and quit griping. Learn the language and make yourself useful. The orphanages and hospitals over there can use a strong, healthy American girl.

What is French kissing? It is wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Loan Rate Boost To Aid Students

By SYLVIA PORTER

President Johnson has just signed a law extending until Oct. 31 the federal-state guaranteed student loan program. The key part of the extension is a raise in the interest rate students in college, vocational, business and technical schools must pay to banks and other lenders from today's obsolete 6 percent to a new, realistic ceiling of 7 percent.

The emergency law is designed to expand the number of loans being made to students between now and September, when Congress is expected to pass similar legislation as part of the Higher Education Act Amendments of 1968, eliminating the October cut-off date.

IN BRIEF: the undergraduate student can, in most states, borrow up to $1,000 for each academic year to a total of $5,000. The full-time student in graduate school can borrow now up to $1,500 a year. The combined maximum for undergraduate and postgraduate study is, in most states, $7,500.

If the student's adjusted family income is under $15,000 the federal government pays the entire 7 percent while the student is in college and 3 percent after graduation. If the family's income is $15,000 or more, the student must pay the entire interest both while he's in school and after graduation. (There is a special provision for states which have usury laws setting a 6 percent interest ceiling).

The key purpose of the guaranteed loan program is to relieve middle-income families of at least part of the increasingly unbearable burden of higher education costs for their children.

The student loan program was originally established under the 1965 Higher Education Act and it was supposed to have gone into high gear long ago. But because of the upsurge in interest rates starting in 1966, lenders have found the 6 percent rate far, far too low. As an indication of where rates are now, banks are charging an average total of well over 7 percent for mortgage loans:

Some banks have reserved student loan funds strictly for their favored customers, those in the relatively higher income brackets. Others have simply refused to "buy" a loss loan and have stopped making the loans altogether.

AS A RESULT:

— Only about $248 million in loans was made to only about 330,000 students in the first full academic year ending in June 1967; the goal was $700 million to 963,000 students.

— Only about $435 million in loans was made to about 515,000 students in the fiscal year ended June 30; the goal was to provide loans for 560,000 students.

— Only a disappointingly low percentage of the nation's banks are now actively involved in the loan program.

EVEN AN interest rate of 7 percent won't guarantee that all of the nation's lenders will grant student loans to all applicants. The averages underline the fact that banks and other lending institutions can make bigger profits on other loans.

But the prospects certainly have been enhanced by the hike to 7 percent.

Model Pageant Here to Stay

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The kindly, bespectacled gentleman seated on the aisle watched the stewardess sashay back and forth, as male passengers are wont to do, and then said: "How would you like to be a model?"

THE STEWARDESS had heard it all before. Withering him with a glance that took in his graying hair, she said: "Don't you think you ought to get a new line?"

Paul Levitan might have explained but why entertain the other travelers further? He went back to his newspaper and the stewardess will learn here that she turned down a chance to compete in the "Model of the Year Pageant" on CBS-TV Sept. 14.

LEVITAN, director of special events for CBS and producer of the pageant, lends an eye himself now and then to his professional scouts who this year covered 55 cities and 10,000 miles in search of girls with what they call "The Look" — the talent to dramatize a fashion in a single photograph.

It is a rare quality and highly perishable. Levitan says it rarely lasts beyond the age of 23. Some remain in public notice after that but more as personalities than as competitive models.

THE MODEL of the Year Pageant was televised for the first time last year, caught on immediately and this year goes out a sa 90-minute program for 220 stations. Levitan, who was the original TV producer of such shows as "Miss America", "Miss Universe" and the "Miss Teenage America Coronation" presumably knows whereof he speaks when he says it is here to stay.

"Unlike other pageants these girls are especially chosen because they photograph well," he explained, "and consequently are the most photogenic batch on TV. This year we've got new lenses that will catch even the subtlest skin tones. The girls are tall as well as beautiful and intelligent — they have to take a written examination, you know — and the public reacted to these qualities last as it did to the styles they wore from bikinis to ball gowns.

Levitan loks for girls from 5 feet 6 and 110 pounds to five feet ten and 125 pounds and from 18 to 23 years old. They can be models who have had not more than one national magazine exposure but the right height, apperance and flair are the important qualities not previous experience. Last year there were 15 finalists and so many attractive girls had to be eliminated that this year there will be 30 finalists ,the pick of 15,000 to 20,000 girls screened during the year.

THE MODEL SEEKERS will go anywhere anytime to look at a likely candidate. One tracked down a report of a lovely girl dining at the elegant Forum restaurant who was said to look a bit like Jean Shrimpton, the famous British model. He found that it was Miss Shrimpton.

When he isn't thinking about models Levitan wonders about his Miss Teenage America Coronation program. The contestants are 13 to 17 years old. But teenagers these days are so mature Levitan has to take into consideration the possibility that one of these days a teenage winner will actually look older than Miss Universe or, for that matter, the Model of the Year!

Mystery Sniper

Another Freeway Cyclist Fired On

Another mystery sniper attack on a young aircraft plant employe riding home from work by motorcycle on a West Orange County freeway was reported late Monday, five days after the first victim was murdered by five gunshots.

Robert A. Brown, 24, of 1214 W. Highland St., Santa Ana, escaped injury as he swerved evasively on his big BMW motorcycle, southbound on the Garden Grove Freeway between Springdale Avenue and Valley View Street.

"I know for damn sure they shot at me," Brown told the DAILY PILOT today, "I was a gunner's mate in the Navy and once you see those things, you never forget."

Fountain Valley Police said today that they have nothing new in the murder last Wednesday of Navy veteran James Gardner, 21, of 619 Mountain View St., Santa Ana.

"All we know now is what has already been said," commented Sgt. Fred Nourse, currently commanding police investigation of the case since Lt. Martin Fortin went on vacation.

The two cases bear a chilling resemblance.

Gardner — found dead along the San Diego Freeway near Euclid Avenue in Fountain Valley with his watch shattered at 1:55 a.m., Wednesday — was a Douglas Aircraft Co. plant employe.

He was hit by five slugs from an apparent automatic rifle, while Brown, an employe of Northrop Aircraft Co., Hawthorne, said he was forced to dodge shots from what also sounded like a rifle.

"This was a big gun. You can tell the sound of a .45 caliber weapon," Brown said, "it was sort of a crack, but it didn't really sound like that."

"I wasn't being too awfully objective about the whole thing at the time," Brown said, describing the flash and roar as a car sped by him on the freeway.

"They came up and passed me like I was going backwards and you know anybody travelling that fast on the freeway has to be crazy," the victim said afteward.

"They were colored for one thing, beyond that I couldn't give much of a description. There was a whole bunch of them in the car," Brown told investigators.

He said the vehicle was an older model Ford Falcon sedan, dark reddish in color.

Garden Grove police said today investigation was continuing into the alleged attack on Brown and results of their report would be forwarded to Fountain Valley police to compare with the Gardner killing.

Brown said he was treated at a hospital early this morning, where his swollen right foot was checked.

He said he believes he struck the foot on a curbing in his desperate maneuvering to avoid being shot by the alleged freeway marauders.

Newport Doctor Drowns Diving Near Catalina

Autopsy results were awaited today in the death of a Newport Beach physician who apparently drowned Monday while diving with a Laguna Beach man off Catalina Island.

The body of Dr. Robert Lee Smith, 39, of 1150 Polaris Drive, was found north of Ship Rock at Catalina shortly after 6 p.m. Monday, according to the Coast Guard.

Dr. Smith had been reported missing earlier in the afternoon. The Coast Guard said a Los Angeles Sheriff's helicopter spotted the body some four hours after the search started.

A family spokesman said the doctor was an experienced diver.

According to deputies, the drowning apparently occurred like this:

Dr. Smith was aboard a vessel called the Euphoria with Frank William Flores, 44, of 1241 Cliff Drive, Laguna Beach.

Flores went over the side to secure the anchor and when he returned to the boat he heard the physician say:

Flores began his descent to the ocean floor 200 feet below. He reported that at the depth of 60 feet he saw Dr. Smith some 30 feet above him.

Two blue sharks distracted Flores momentarily, and when he again peered upward to watch Dr. Smith, the physician had disappeared.

Flores told deputies that a kelp bed was in the area. He said he searched for more than an hour for his missing companion, then notified the Coast Guard.

Mesa Sailor Hits Sub in Catalina; Cruiser Sinks

Sighted sub — sank, might well have been the report of Ivan Anderson, 710 W. 18th St., Costa Mesa, after a harrowing experience Sunday night in the ocean off Catalina Island.

The Viking, a 25-foot cabin cruiser belonging to Ivan and his brother Andy, is high and not quite so dry on the beach at Avalon with a hole in her bow from slamming into an anchored submarine.

Anderson said the submarine USS Grimm was anchored with only a single white light showing. Anderson skirted the white light only to find that 300 feet of submarine was attched to it.

EPS Dies On Mayor's Key Vote

By JEROME F. COLLINS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

City councilmen reached that decision Monday night in a 4-3 vote.

The balloting capped a heated, three-hour public hearing on the proposed "Electronic Protection System" (EPS).

Dozens of citizens trooping to the microphone in the packed council chambers were just as split on the issue as municipal lawmakers.

Mayor Doreen Marshall's vote was the difference.

She explained her opposition to seeking a $497,000 federal grant for the law enforcement surveillance program this way:

"It is possible that if this experiment were carried out in Newport Beach, it could be valuable to our nation. But the first thing that bothers me very much is that there are not sufficient constraints or controls as far as the limits of the TV tests are concerned.

"Over and above that," she said quietly to a still audience, "one question I have been struggling with is why should this be conducted in Newport Beach? We have an excellent police force in this community. It is a well-controlled community.

"I respect Chief (B. James) Glavas' concern that means must be found to improve law enforcement, and I have the highest regard for him and the high level of police service he has brought to this city. The reason he brought up this EPS plan is because he is such a dedicated officer.

"But I can't convince myself," she concluded, "that this is the time for Newport Beach to offer itself for this type of experiment."

Mayor Marshall thus assured a majority vote against ex-Mayor Paul J. Gruber's motion to forward the EPS application to state and federal agencies.

Others voting to kill the plan, a subject of controversy in the community during almost a year of studies, were Councilmen Donald A. McInnis, Robert Shelton and Vice Mayor Lindsley Parsons.

NO SURPRISE

Parsons' vote surprised no one. He had been the only incumbent municipal official to speak out against EPS publicly since introduction of the proposal by Glavas and City Manager Harvey Hurlburt last September. Parsons called it at that time a creature out of George Orwell's gloomy novel on things to come, "1984."

McInnis and Shelton, however, made it clear Monday night that their decision wasn't easily reached.

Use of TV cameras in public places as a police tool, conceded McInnis, "would be technologically important and desirable at the proper time . . . but I don't feel that Newport Beach is the proper place, that this is the proper time or that our city represents the proper sociological environment for this experiment."

MIXED FEELINGS

Shelton said he had had mixed feelings about the project from the outset. "My best friends and advisors are divided. They've been no help to me at all," he smiled.

He then turned to his reason for rejecting EPS: there are no compelling reasons for accepting it. He intoned his views like a litany.

He said in order for the "pioneer-

TV Men Put on Show at Hearing

It was just after Councilman Howard Rogers, commenting on the motion to defeat police TV tests in Newport, said:

"I wonder where this nation would be if our forefathers were timid and afraid to step into the future."

The applause was vigorous. It was led by a CBS-TV soundman, who quickly apologized for losing control of himself.

It was the second interruption of the hearing by TV newsmen, who were apparently attending their first City Council meeting ever.

Earlier in the hearing, former vice mayor Hans Lorenz was interrupted in mid-sentence by a cameraman, who asked that he wait until the TV crew reloaded with film.

Lorenz, an EPS proponent, ignored the request, as spectators roared.

Marathon EPS Hearing Wipes Out Council Time

Rather than wrestle with municipal matters on into the wee small hours, Newport Beach city councilmen Monday night called it quits at 11:30 p.m.

Most of the session was spent on the "Electronic Protection System" hearing. On a unanimous vote, the meeting — and the other 17 pages of the agenda — was adjourned to Monday, August 19.

Councilmen earlier had set aside that date for a discussion of a new civic center site. The civic center issue will now be taken up on Wednesday, August 28, councilmen decided.

'Well Groomed' Salesman Sought

Newport Beach police today were searching for $18,000 and a groom. Both disappeared about the same time a week ago, leaving a 42-year-old divorcee bereft of both marriage and money.

Detectives said the groom-to-be was a used car salesman identified as John Bates Gregg, 47. He reportedly had no fixed address in the area, but had known the woman for about two months.

According to the story pieced together by investigators, the Newport Beach woman's problems mounted

Missile Hits Oil Vessel

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A Navy air-to-air Sidewinder missile was identified today as the object that smashed into an oil survey vessel and set it afire Monday night, Navy officials said.

A spokesman at Pt. Mugu Naval Air Station said an examination of the parts found aboard the Pacific Seal confirmed that it was a non explosive training Sidewinder that hit the ship 15 miles from shore near Santa Rosa Island.

The Pacific Seal was prospecting for oil in the Santa Barbara Channel area. The Navy announcement said the 175-foot ship was in the vicinity of Santa Rosa Island, in the Pacific 50 miles northwest of Point Mugu.

An aircraft squadron from Point Mugu had been firing Sidewinder air-to-air missiles at a nearby test range shortly before the Pacific Seal reported she had been damaged.

The ship was en route to the naval base at Port Hueneme just north of here, escorted by the Coast Guard Cutter USS Cape Hatteras. A Navy spokesman at Point Mugu said the ship was proceeding under her own power "as far as we know."

CdM Seen Favored as Civic Center Site

The advantages of building a new Newport Beach Civic Center at a site in Corona del Mar far outweigh the advantages of rebuilding at the present City Hall location in Central Newport.

That is the gist of consultants' findings to be publicly released tonight, according to informed sources.

The consultants — Welton Becket & Associates and Economic Research Associates (ERA) — were hired by the City Council last May to help determine the best place to build a new civic center.

Two months ago, the sites were narrowed down to two from an original list of about a dozen. Those two are the 4.5-acre present site at 32nd Street and Newport Boulevard, and a 20-acre parcel of Irvine Company land at the corner of MacArthur Boulevard and E. Coast Highway. A drive-in restaurant is now located on a portion of the property.

Since June, Becket and ERA have concentrated their studies on the two sites. They will take the wraps off their findings at tonight's meeting of the citizens' civic center advisory committee at 7:30 p.m. at Mariners Library.

At that time, printed reports will be distributed to committee members and the press. None will be available until then.

Sources outside municipal government, however, advised the DAILY PILOT Monday that the reports mean bad news for those who want City Hall to stay where it is. No city official would comment on the information in advance of tonight's meeting.

Among principal advantages the consultants believe the Corona del Mar site has over the present location, according to these sources, are:

—It will be much closer to the future center of the city's population.

—It is feasible as a location for county government agencies, such as municipal courts, and for non-government agencies, such as the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

The present site will not support anything but municipal offices, ruling out the prospect of sharing the cost of parking and other jointly used facilities.

The citizens committee is expected to explore in detail the consultants' largely technical reports. Committee members will then make a recommendation to the City Council.

It is not believed likely that a decision on a recommendation will be reached at tonight's meeting, termed a "workshop" session.

Another committee meeting date will probably be set. If it is, it will have to be before August 28, because it is on that date that councilmen will officially receive the consultants' reports. A committee recommendation presumably will be presented at the same session.

The council had set aside August 19 as the time for a "public review" of the civic center studies, but Councilman Howard Rogers said Monday "that would be rushing it."

"The committee I know would like to have the reports to study closely, to absorb the information and reach an objective decision," he said.

Councilmen agreed unanimously to the August 28 "public review."

No council action will be taken at that time, according to Mayor Doreen Marshall. She said formal action would probably come on Sept. 10, at a regularly scheduled council session.

This action, if the Irvine location is favored, would be to instruct the city staff to open up negotiations with the Irvine Company for a price and to begin discussions with county authorities on locating municipal courts at the new site.

POLICE TV . . .

ing" to be acceptable:

"There should be strong evidence of a serious and worsening crime problem in Newport Beach.

"There should be strong evidence that existing and accepted methods of law enforcement are inadequate.

"There should be strong evidence that community opinion, without the stimulation by advocates of EPS, favors new and different policing techniques.

"I believe none of these conditions exist today."

BOTH SIDES APPLAUDED

Applause filled the room. It was an evening of applause, pro and con.

"If space age technology can make meaningful and proven contributions to law enforcement, these can be adopted in due course. Meanwhile, in the absence of compelling arguments for EPS, I prefer that the energies and dollars available to this city government be committed in other ways."

ROGERS BITTER

Gruber's motion had piled up the four "no" votes before any councilman favoring it had a chance to speak. The issue was thus dead by the time it came Councilman Rogers' turn to comment. He made no effort to hide his bitterness.

"Obviously, this motion has failed," Rogers declared. "All I can say is that I wonder where this nation would be if our forefathers were timid and afraid to step into the future."

Councilman Hirth also voiced disappointment at the majority position. "Somewhere in this country," he predicted, "this type of program will be tested. I think it is worthwhile to try. If it were to get out of line, it could be revised and controlled."

'IDEAL COMMUNITY'

"I feel Newport Beach is an ideal community for this," he said. "It's true, we don't have a great mass of crime, in fact we have a lower crime rate than the average. But this is still the ideal community because within a few square miles there are all kinds of stages where the EPS cameras can be tested.

"There is no particular risk in this . . . we have an opportunity now to really do something for humanity. If we move forward we could make a mark on the pages of law enforcement history that can never be forgotten."

Gruber said crime in the nation had reached the point "where we have to take advantage of everything we have to fight it."

"That," he said in summary, "is why I made my motion. It should get four favorable votes."

But it didn't.

After the council made it official by flashing four red lights and three greens, Chief Glavas stepped to the microphone. He said that many other cities had expressed an interest in Newport's EPS research. "A great deal of work has gone into this," he sai. "May we now conclude that the material we have prepared can now be released?"

'IT'S OURS'

The council said no, with Gruber adding emphatically:

"We paid for this. It's ours."

The material, consisting of a 30-page grant application prepared by Arinc Research, Inc., of Santa Ana, cost the city $3,500. If anything is done with the application, largely a technical compilation, it presumably won't be given away.

THREE HOURS

Before voting councilmen listened patiently to almost three hours of testimony from the city staff, Arinc consultants and citizens.

Patrick Therrien, senior engineer with Arinc, outlined how the system would work. He emphasized that it would utilize existing technological developments only. "We're not inventing anything," he said.

Among advantages of the cameras, he said, is that they would be able to penetrate darkness and fog. "They could protect areas throughout the still of the night," he said.

Questioned closely by Parsons and Mayor Marshall, Therrien assured them that federal and state agencies would not tell the city how and where to use the cameras, some 15 of which would be installed during the two-year "test" period.

Residential areas, he said, "do not fit into the scheme of the plan." The cameras, monitored at police headquarters, would be used at parking lots, along public streets in commercial areas, at the beach and along the waterfront.

LEGAL SAFEGUARDS

Mayor Marshall noted the proposed application did not comment much on legal safeguards against invasion of privacy. "The application," replied Therrien, "concerns chiefly technical approaches. These are the areas that have been researched deeply."

Glavas told councilmen that the cameras, if installed, would represent "no more or no less than a greatly expanded police force."

"Penetrating darkness and seeing through fog is more than the human eye can do," snapped Parsons.

Both comments registered about the same on the applause meter.

SAMPLE TESTIMONY

Forrest Fullmer: "It is questionable to bring into this city at this time this unnecessary, controversial issue."

Jay Murley: "George Orwell's '1984' will be coming true 16 years ahead of schedule. Let's not let Newport Beach be a testing ground for wholesale invasion of privacy. Let's not permit 'Big Brother' here. It would only result in an imposed conformity. I'd like to see the council put this on the shelf for 16 more years."

Dwight Gick: "I'm a businessman, and I would be most happy to have a TV camera on my place of business when I go home at night."

George Doubledee: "I'm an insurance broker, and this system would be a great aid to certain types of business that have a hard time getting insurance coverage, such as service stations, liquor stores and clothing stores."

Jerry Wooters: "Anyone who says there isn't a crime problem in Newport Beach is wrong. Two weeks ago a daughter of an employe of mine was beaten with a wrench by a mugger."

Robert Pinkerton: "This would be a further encroachment on the rights of an individual."

J. Leslie Steffensen: "It would just be part of technological progress. I can remember when traffic was diverted by a man standing at a corner waving his arms. Now we have traffic lights. I'd like to see an EPS camera on my street. There is nothing that I will do that my neighbors won't know about anyway."

Dr. Ralph Gerard: "As a scientist, I see no possible reason for not making this carefully controlled experiment."

Mrs. George Buccola: "I'm definitely in favor of it. If the cameras picture a man staggering drunk to his car, the police could follow him. At least that way they would be aware of a hazard on the highway before it becomes manslaughter."

'SURVEY BOATS'

Jim Pech: "I believe in this system so much, that I will donate the roof of my house on Balboa Island so the TV cameras can survey all the boats in at least half the bay."

Barbara Aune: "This is a moral issue. I'm opposed to it on that basis. I wish there were more psychologists and psychiatrists here to speak on this."

John Vaughn: "Listening to all this tonight has put me on a gigantic bummer. This is pretty frightening. It can all be summed up in one phrase—get that nigger. I'd like to put in my two cents on the side of freedom and democracy. We've got enough police. We don't need this Dick Tracy stuff."

Vaughn's was just about the last word.

2 More Hessians Freed; 8 Held in Mesa Beating

Two additional members of the Hessians motorcycle club — arrested Friday and held over the weekend — were released today for lack of evidence linking them to a Costa Mesa melee last Wednesday.

They are L. Stens Christensen, 26, of 1323 W. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach, and Gerald English, 31, of 1738 Tustin Ave., Costa Mesa, according to Police Capt. Ed Glasgow.

Eight other Hessians, in the meantime, are held at Orange County Jail, awaiting preliminary hearing at 9:30 a.m. Friday in Harbor District Judicial Court. Arraignment was last Friday.

The eight are among 22 originally picked up for questioning after the chain-whipping and beating of ex-prizefighter Robert Glazier, 30, in his apartment at 2224 Placentia Ave., in Costa Mesa, on Wednesday.

The victim, shot in the left hand by a .22 caliber gun, identified his attackers as Hessians, striking back after a tavern fight several days before. Neither the gun nor the slug have been found.

Capt. Glasgow said today Glazier has been to the station to talk with detectives, but it is not known where he is staying in order to avoid possibly more violence.

The alleged leader of the gang of 15 to 20 men which burst into the Glazier home, Frank "Wild Mouse" Rundle, 24, of 127 Albert St., Costa Mesa, is being held on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

The other seven suspects are charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, as well as burglary, stemming from the raid on Glazier's apartment.

Glazier later said he and Wild Mouse Rundle had tangled several days before, while the victim was employed as a bouncer at a bar near his home.

Gregg was aware that his lady friend was coming into a divorce settlement amounting to some $21,000. The money arrived in a check on a Friday. She reportedly endorsed the check and deposited it in his account.

Some time the following Monday, two cashier's checks worth a total $18,000 were written on Greg's account, and he disappeared.

Police said they were hoping to locate the missing groom for questioning.

School Counsel Offices to Open

Counseling offices at the Harbor area's four high schools will be open for new student registration and program adjustments for regular students through the beginning of the fall semester on Sept. 10.

New students who will be attending Corona del Mar, Costa Mesa, Estancia or Newport Harbor High Schools are encouraged to make appointments as early as possible.

Appointments or information may be obtained by calling Corona del Mar High School, 646-1000; Costa Mesa High School, 545-9431; Estancia High School, 642-4850; and Newport Harbor High School, 548-1121.

Missing Laguna Playhouse Aide Smith Captured

By THOMAS FORTUNE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Frazier Smith, the distinguished looking Laguna-Moulton Playhouse building fund chairman who vanished in January when $1,950 was drawn on forged checks, was picked up today in New York.

Laguna Beach police said they were notified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that Smith was arrested this morning.

Detective Sgt. Vic Sagan said it is not known when Smith will be returned to Laguna on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on three counts of forgery.

"We don't know yet whether he will waive extradition," Sgt. Sagan said.

He had been stopped by New York State Police in Malone, N.Y., for a traffic violation. A record check showed the outstanding warrant.

Sgt. Sagan said the FBI had thought Smith to probably be in Mexico or South America. Smith reportedly went to Mexico over the Christmas and New Year holiday shortly before his disappearance.

The gray-haired, genteel New Englander came to Laguna two years ago claiming to have been a former newspaperman — including a stint on the Wall Street Journal — and a former delegate to the United Nations.

He was hired to raise funds for the new playhouse on a commission basis.

He also became involved in the players family as an actor, handling various roles — including the lead in the play, "You Can't Take It With You."

Girls Clubs Build Pioneer Spirit

PIONEER POWER — The need for strength and fitness is not confined only to pioneers, according to Mrs. Owen Gorman and Harbor Girls Club members Miss Janet Anthony and Miss Misty Lee (from left), who are breaking out the transportation for the over 50 girls and representatives converging on UCI Aug. 19 to 23. The "Fit for Life" conference site is one of only three in the nation.

When you were a girl, did "traveling west" bring visions of rumbling wagons snaking over broad-backed hills?

Were you enchanted with the thought of snow brushed mountains and misty seashores to be explored by rugged pioneers who carried their livelihood on their backs?

The pioneer toughness, the stamina that won the west for America, is being perpetuated in modern times by a nationwide program which trains young girls in physical fitness.

Called "Fit for Life," the course is co-sponsored by the Girls Clubs of America and the Readers Digest Association. This year delegates from 137 clubs across the nation will gather at three central points to join in fun and physical activity under the careful direction of leading authorities.

The Harbor Area has the distinction of being one of the chosen three and detailed preparations are under way to host the more than 50 girls and their adult representatives who will be arriving by wing and wheel in a more modern version of the trek westward.

The honor of acting as host club has been given to the Girls Club of the Harbor Area under the direction of Mrs. Gleam Murphy, executive director and her staff of active volunteers.

From the far corners of the seven western state the girls will converge on UCI, where they will be housed in the women's dorms. Demonstrations and teaching activities, open to the public, have been reserved for the gymnasium.

In addition to the demonstrations, presented by Miss Bonnie Prudden, physical fitness authority, lecturer and television personality, the delegates and their chaperones will be offered a full schedule of recreational activities. Swims in UCI pools and at the beach will be supplemented by a trip to Disneyland by double-decker bus; entertainment at the Girls Club, and a closing banquet to which the public is invited.

The Institute's local representatives will include the Misses Terri Fisher, 13, daughter of Mrs. Bennie Fisher of Costa Mesa; Misty Lee, 13, daughter of Mrs. Robert Williams of Newport Beach and Janet Anthony, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Anthony of Costa Mesa. Mrs. Owen Gorham of Costa Mesa has volunteered her services as adult representative, along with instructor Mrs. Jim Wood, also of Costa Mesa.

Selection as a delegate is quite a feather in a girl's cap. The future homemakers, wives and mothers have been chosen in recognition of their individual participation and achievement in the Fit for Life programs taught on the local club level.

Total fitness has traditionally been a goal in the program of Girls Clubs, and the four-day Institute is a giant step along the road toward that goal.

A fitting climax to the 1968-69 program, evpected, as in 1967, to involve thousands of girls and adults, will be the banquet scheduled for Thursday evening, Aug. 22, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. in the Mesa Commons on the UCI campus.

George Hoag II, president of the Harbor Area Girls Club, will serve as emcee, introducing guest speaker Mrs. Sylvia Livingston Bogen. For many years a lecturer and panelist on young people and their problems.

Reservations for the banquet, at $4.20, may be obtained by calling Mrs. Paul Friebertshauser at 545-8567.

Mary Hanf Is 'On Her Toes'

By JUDY HURST
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Twenty-five-year-old Miss Hanf is on "vacation." She is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Hanf of Newport Beach.

The naturally pretty and petite 5-foot 3-inch ballerina with light auburn hair caught into a chignon is very excited about her upcoming performance Aug. 31 with the Civic Ballet.

"Ballet Alfresco" will be presented in the Irvine Bowl and Mary will be dancing in "Paquita" and "Moods of Ancient Russia."

Also on the program is the production of "Vision Fugitive" which Mary performed in the Pacific Regional Festival in Oakland last May.

Miss Hanf currently is under contract with the Ruth Page International Ballet in Chicago. "My contract includes about seven months work. I toured for three months last year and this year it's set for 10 weeks."

She performed in the lyric opera in Chicago, September through Dec. 3, and was in the "Nutcracker Suite" during the Christmas holidays.

"My second season begins in September. My work days are like everyone else's," she said, surprised that it should be different.

"I work eight hours daily with a lunch hour and a 10 minute rest break every hour. This is according to our union rules," she indicated.

The Laguna Beach High School graduate had taken piano lessons as a small girl, but couldn't concentrate long enough at the keyboard. "During my junior year at high school in Redlands I began ballet lessons."

Her mother wanted her to dance. "I never had the interest as a child but now it's a way of life."

Mary was so involved with dancing that she turned down a trip to Europe several years ago with her mother and brother.

"But two years ago I visited the British Isles for two weeks. I didn't raise a foot for dancing, just touring and shopping," she said guiltily.

The ballerina and her parents and brothers moved to Laguna Beach from Redlands in 1960 and Mary began studying with Lila Zali.

She studied at Orange Coast College in the field of liberal arts and was in the dance department at UCI for almost two terms.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister has entered her 15-year-old daughter in a beauty contest and it is making us all sick. Bettylou is built like a Swedish 20-year-old, if you get the picture. She gets A's from the men teachers and is flunked by the women teachers. I hope you get THAT picture too. All the emphasis has been on looks and figure and sex appeal and the poor kid is going to end up a professional party girl if something isn't done to open her mother's eyes.

Last night we were at my sister's house for dinner. There were 10 of us present — all family. My sister said, "Honey, why don't you model the bathing suit you're going to wear in the contest? It will be good to practice walking."

In five minutes Bettlou was sashaying through the living room in a bikini that didn't have 50 cents worth of material in it. My brother-in-law Herman almost swallowed his dentures which surprised me because Bessie (his wife) has been referring to him as "my dead battery" for the last 10 years.

I like beauty as well as the next person, but I don't see anything beautiful about a 15-year-old girl showing her behind tc the whole world. Please print this letter so my sister can see it. She'll know it's for her and I hope it helps. — DORIS

DEAR DORIS: Here's the letter but don't expect it to change anybody's mind. I feel sorry for any girl whose brains are in her bikini. Obviously Bettylou's mother has encouraged her along these lines and one day the chickens will come home to roost.

DEAR ANN: Your frankness is refreshing and I admit I enjoy it when you tell a reader off. Now, perhaps it is my turn to get told off, and I hope you will not spare the horses if you think I have it coming.

Teddy and I have been married 11 years. We have no children. Teddy is a good husband and I am trying my darndest to be a good wife.

His job has brought him to this foreign country which I hope you will not name because I wouldn't want to insult the people. Teddy signed up to stay here 18 months. Four months have passed and I am so miserable I could die. I can't speak the language. The climate is wretched. Living conditions are primitive. The food is dreadful. The prices are high. The people are not friendly.

I have considered going back home, getting a job and saving some money. Teddy has begged me to stay. I should tell you he is very attractive and the women here have that look in their eyes when they talk to him at social gatherings.

What should I do? — NEED YOUR WISDOM

DEAR NEED: Some people don't know when they've got it good, Lady. You should read the letters I get from wives whose husbands are fighting the war in a neighboring country. They would give their eye teeth to be there with them — in the "wretched" climate, eating the "dreadful" food and paying those high prices.

Get off your back porch and quit griping. Learn the language and make yourself useful. The orphanages and hospitals over there can use a strong, healthy American girl.

What is French kissing? It is wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Susan Nelson Becomes Bride

MRS. EDWARD G. WARMINGTON JR.
Bay Area Honeymoon

Arrangements of yellow and white gladioli and marguerites decorated the altar of St. James Episcopal Church, Newport Beach Saturday afternoon for the nupital ceremony of Susan Nelson and Edward George Warmington Jr.

The Rev. John P. Ashey performed the double ring rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Nelson and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Warmington, all of Newport Beach.

Escorted by her father down the aisle featuring a white runner and candles, the bride wore a floor length white silk organza gown with an alencon lace bodice and sleeves. The lace was repeated in her crown which caught her fingertip illusion veil, and forming her nosegay were white roses and stephanotis.

Floor length gowns of dotted Swiss over yellow taffeta with white velvet and venise lace trim, yellow fabric bows as headpieces and French bouquets of yellow and white flowers were selected for her entourage.

Mrs. William Warmington of Corona del Mar served as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Gene Barrow of San Fernando Valley, Miss Melinda DeBerard of Ontario and Miss Beth Heck of Newport Beach, Pi Beta Phi sorority sisters of the bride and Miss Lori Nelson, the bride's sister was the junior bridesmaid. Kris Nelson, another sister was the flower girl.

The bride, a 1965 Children's Home Society debutante, is a graduate of Newport Harbor High School and attended the University of Southern California where she majored in education.

Her husband attended the same schools and is a business and marketing major.

MRS. GEORGE SMEATHAM
Avalon Honeymoon

Faye Kathleen Forsyth New Mrs. Smeatham

George Edward Smeatham of Chicago claimed Faye Kathleen Forsyth as his bride during the double ring nuptials conducted by Leslie Schwartz in Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Gowned in royal blue crepe floor length gowns with light blue lace bodices and light blue chiffon overskirts were maid of honor Miss Inez Smeatham of Huntington Beach and bridesmaid Miss JoEllen Alderson of Dana Point. Both carried bouquets of white carnations trimmed with blue.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Inez Anthony of Chicago, asked the bride's cousin, Brian Wolf of Oxnard, to be his best man. Ushering was the bride's brother, Frank Forsyth. Attendents were Michael Houraney of Anaheim and Tom Balint of Huntington Beach.

The Huntington Beach Recreation Center provided the setting for the reception, which featured a buffet supper and music by the Eddie Dykes Band. Assisting the bride's mother were Mrs. Ken Miers of Costa Mesa and Mrs. Jack Prather of Huntington Beach.

Los Altos Wedding

Island Honeymoon Told

Honeymooning in Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. R. William Rose following their wedding last Saturday afternoon in the Los Altos Methodist Church.

Miss Jan Royer was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were the Misses Margie and Susie Royer, the bride's twin sisters; Marketta Mattila, her AFS foster sister from Finland; and Janet Prosser, Lesley Greer and Linda May, the bride's Delta Gamma sorority sisters.

Attending the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rose of Long Beach, were Ron Berberian of Stockton, best man, and Jim Hughes, Whittier; Ross Shoemaker, San Jose; Bill Kutzer, Sacramento, and Bob Horvath, Huntington Beach.

Following the wedding a reception for 300 guests took place in the home of the bride's parents. Special guests attending were Mrs. R. W. Royer and Mrs. R. C. Eshelman and Mr. and Mrs. William Crooks, grandparents of the newlyweds.

The bride is a graduate of Marina High School and now is majoring in biology at the University of the Pacific, Stockton.

Her husband, a graduate of Wilson High School, Long Beach, was graduated from the University of the Pacific where he also obtained his masters degree. He presently is teaching at the university.

The newlyweds will make their home in Stockton.

Mesan Rams Sub

Cruiser Damaged in Ocean Mishap

Sighted sub — sank, might well have been the report of Ivan Anderson, 710 W. 18th St., Costa Mesa, after a harrowing experience Sunday night in the ocean off Catalina Island.

The Viking, a 25-foot cabin cruiser belonging to Ivan and his brother Andy, is high and not quite so dry on the beach at Avalon with a hole in her bow from slamming into an anchored submarine.

Anderson said the submarine USS Grimm was anchored with only a single white light showing. Anderson skirted the white light only to find that 300 feet of submarine was attched to it.

Anderson said he made emergency repairs to a hole in the bow of the Viking and returned to Avalon with the help of an Avalon Harbor Department patrol boat. His boat was sinking and was beached at Avalon.

Coast Guard Search and Rescue at Long Beach said it had been "advised of such an incident by the Navy" but had no details because the Coast Guard was not asked for assistance.

An Ordinary Guy

Battle Wounds Kill Mesa Marine

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Leonard Z. Gurwitz was an ordinary young man.

He was an ordinary U.S. Marine Corps lance corporal, with the ordinary hopes of the young GI helping to fight a war in a distant country.

He had the ordinary wants common to men who have done the world's soldiering since the dawn of organized conflict: Civilian food. Mail or word from home. Returning under his own power. Walking in unwounded.

Cpl. Gurwitz flies home Thursday.

His mother Mae is coming with him, along with a U.S. Marine Corps escort, detailed to accompany a dead man back to those he loved and served.

The Defense Department Monday officially notified Harold Gurwitz, 3165 Bermuda Drive, Costa Mesa, of the death of his 22-year-old only son in a hospital in the Philippines.

Death was attributed to a cardiac arrest after some 10 weeks' hospitalization for treatment of shrapnel and bullet wounds suffered at Quang Tri, South Vietnam in late May.

"I guess he was on a 'sweep' they call it," the elder Gurwitz told the DAILY PILOT, "almost the whole

Water Board Will Sell Prime Land

If you have about $100,000 and the desire to pick up a parcel of prime property in west Costa Mesa, you have a bit less than 60 days to put in a bid.

The Costa Mesa County Water District (CMCWD) is preparing to sell off about 2.3 acres of land at 16th Street and Monrovia Avenue. It is zoned M-1, for manufacturing use.

Bids on the property, which is estimated at $90,000 to $100,000 in value, will be opened at the Oct. 10 meeting of CMCWD directors.

Directors are not bound to accept any of the sealed bids if they are not satisfied with the offers.

On other fronts, two CMCWD improvement projects are on the verge of completion and a third water system to serve a 300-home subdivision is scheduled to begin soon.

The new $10,000 project will get under way soon, initially serving an increment of about 70 homes to be built between Sunflower Avenue and the San Diego Freeway, near Fairview Road.

A new series of water lines and fire hydrants also is being completed in a loop around a parcel of land at Red Hill Avenue and Palisades Road, with completion of the $5,300 job expected in about two weeks.

A second project, installation of 18, 12, and 8 inch water lines in the area of Hyland and Sunflower avenues and the San Diego Freeway, also is nearing completion.

2 More Hessians Freed; 8 Held in Mesa Beating

Two additional members of the Hessians motorcycle club — arrested Friday and held over the weekend — were released today for lack of evidence linking them to a Costa Mesa melee last Wednesday.

They are L. Stens Christensen, 26, of 1323 W. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach, and Gerald English, 31, of 1738 Tustin Ave., Costa Mesa, according to Police Capt. Ed Glasgow.

Eight other Hessians, in the meantime, are held at Orange County Jail, awaiting preliminary hearing at 9:30 a.m. Friday in Harbor District Judicial Court. Arraignment was last Friday.

The eight are among 22 originally picked up for questioning after the chain-whipping and beating of ex-prizefighter Robert Glazier, 30, in his apartment at 2224 Placentia Ave., in Costa Mesa, on Wednesday.

The victim, shot in the left hand by a .22 caliber gun, identified his attackers as Hessians, striking back after a tavern fight several days before. Neither the gun nor the slug have been found.

Capt. Glasgow said today Glazier has been to the station to talk with detectives, but it is not known where he is staying in order to avoid possibly more violence.

The alleged leader of the gang of 15 to 20 men which burst into the Glazier home, Frank "Wild Mouse" Rundle, 24, of 127 Albert St., Costa Mesa, is being held on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

The other seven suspects are charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, as well as burglary, stemming from the raid on Glazier's apartment.

Glazier later said he and Wild Mouse Rundle had tangled several days before, while the victim was employed as a bouncer at a bar near his home.

Panther Witness Silence Okayed

OAKLAND (UPI) — The judge in the murder trial of Black Panther founder Huey P. Newton today refused to order a key prosecution witness to testify "at this time." (Earlier story, Page 7).

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Monroe Friedman pointed out, however, that a section of the California Penal Code provides that the prosecutor can ask in writing for a separate hearing at which a person taking the fifth amendment would be ordered to show cause why he should not be forced to testify.

The judge said he had considered memoranda submitted by the prosecution, Newton's attorneys and the attorney for the recalcitrant witness.

Another Freeway Attack

Sniper Shoots at Santa Ana Motorcyclist, Misses

Another mystery sniper attack on a young aircraft plant employe riding home from work by motorcycle on a West Orange County freeway was reported late Monday, five days after the first victim was murdered by five gunshots.

"I know for damn sure they shot at me," Brown told the DAILY PILOT today, "I was a gunner's mate in the Navy and once you see those things, you never forget."

Fountain Valley Police said today that they have nothing new in the murder last Wednesday of Navy veteran James Gardner, 21, of 619 Mountain View St., Santa Ana.

"All we know now is what has already been said," commented Sgt. Fred Nourse, currently commanding police investigation of the case since Lt. Martin Fortin went on vacation.

The two cases bear a chilling resemblance.

Gardner — found dead along the San Diego Freeway near Euclid Avenue in Fountain Valley with his watch shattered at 1:55 a.m., Wednesday — was a Douglas Aircraft Co. plant employe.

He was hit by five slugs from an apparent automatic rifle, while Brown, an employe of Northrop Aircraft Co., Hawthorne, said he was forced to dodge shots from what also sounded like a rifle.

"This was a big gun. You can tell the sound of a .45 caliber weapon," Brown said, "it was sort of a crack, but it didn't really sound like that."

"I wasn't being too awfully objective about the whole thing at the time," Brown said, describing the flash and roar as a car sped by him on the freeway.

"They came up and passed me like I was going backwards and you know anybody travelling that fast on the freeway has to be crazy," the victim said afteward.

"They were colored for one thing, beyond that I couldn't give much of a description. There was a whole bunch of them in the car," Brown told investigators.

Crime, Civil Disobedience Crucial Issues for Nixon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A top advisor to Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon says crime and civil disorders — issues Nixon aides consider potentially troublesome — will get top billing in the campaign.

Aides said Monday the issues are crucial and a difficulty will be to stress law and order without appearing insensitive to slum problems or overshadowing Nixon's proposals for easing them.

Nixon has said order and civil rights progress must go hand in hand.

The candidate's proposed program of "black capitalism" to offer Negroes "a piece of the action" of American enterprise is attracting interest in the Negro community, said Charles S. Rhyne, chairman of United Citizens for Nixon.

Nixon's running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, said in San Francisco, meanwhile, that violence and disorder are not the answer to civil rights problems.

"Those who feel civil rights and lawlessness are compatible must be convinced otherwise," Agnew said.

He spoke of "the many wonderful Negro citizens in this country who are completely disenchanted" with militants who advocate violence.

Mesa Marine Hurt on Patrol

Marine Lance Cpl. James Hudspeth of Costa Mesa has been wounded in Vietnam and is recuperating at the Da Nang Naval Hospital, according to his mother, Mrs. Nadine Pearcy.

"He is recovering from fragmentation wounds suffered from explosives," Mrs. Pearcy told the DAILY PILOT today. "He was on patrol duty in the Quang Nam Province when it happened."

Cpl. Hudspeth, 20, was one of the few survivors of Bravo Company at the Battle of the Citadel which took place in Hue during the Tet Offensive earlier this year.

Newport Nays Defeat Police TV Eyes

By JEROME F. COLLINS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

City councilmen reached that decision Monday night in a 4-3 vote.

The balloting capped a heated, three-hour public hearing on the proposed "Electronic Protection System" (EPS).

Dozens of citizens trooping to the microphone in the packed council chambers were just as split on the issue as municipal lawmakers.

Mayor Doreen Marshall's vote was the difference.

She explained her opposition to seeking a $497,000 federal grant for the law enforcement surveillance program this way:

"It is possible that if this experiment were carried out in Newport Beach, it could be valuable to our nation. But the first thing that bothers me very much is that there are not sufficient constraints or controls as far as the limits of the TV tests are concerned.

"Over and above that," she said quietly to a still audience, "one question I have been struggling with is why should this be conducted in Newport Beach? We have an excellent police force in this community. It is a well-controlled community.

"I respect Chief (B. James) Glavas' concern that means must be found to improve law enforcement, and I have the highest regard for him and the high level of police service he has brought to this city. The reason he brought up this EPS plan is because he is such a dedicated officer.

"But I can't convince myself," she concluded, "that this is the time for Newport Beach to offer itself for this type of experiment."

Mayor Marshall thus assured a majority vote against ex-Mayor Paul J. Gruber's motion to forward the EPS application to state and federal agencies.

Others voting to kill the plan, a subject of controversy in the community during almost a year of studies, were Councilmen Donald A. McInnis, Robert Shelton and Vice Mayor Lindsley Parsons.

Parsons' vote surprised no one. He had been the only incumbent municipal official to speak out against EPS publicly since introduction of the proposal by Glavas and City Manager Harvey Hurlburt last September. Parsons called it at that time a creature out of George Orwell's gloomy novel on things to come, "1984."

McInnis and Shelton, however, made it clear Monday night that their decision wasn't easily reached.

Use of TV cameras in public places as a police tool, conceded McInnis, "would be technologically important and desirable at the proper time . . . but I don't feel that Newport Beach is the proper place, that this is the proper time or that our city represents the proper sociological environment for this experiment."

Shelton said he had had mixed feelings about the project from the outset. "My best friends and advisors are divided. They've been no help to me at all," he smiled.

He then turned to his reason for rejecting EPS: there are no compelling reasons for accepting it. He intoned his views like a litany.

He said in order for the "pioneering" to be acceptable:

"There should be strong evidence of a serious and worsening crime problem in Newport Beach.

"There should be strong evidence that existing and accepted methods of law enforcement are inadequate.

"There should be strong evidence that community opinion, without the stimulation by advocates of EPS, favors new and different policing techniques.

"I believe none of these conditions

Applause filled the room. It was an evening of applause, pro and con.

"If space age technology can make meaningful and proven contributions to law enforcement, these can be adopted in due course. Meanwhile, in the absence of compelling arguments for EPS, I prefer that the energies and dollars available to this city government be committed in other ways."

group got it."

The 22-year-old member of A Company, 1st Battalion, 9th Marine Division gradually worsened, until his mother was called to be with him a week ago. She telephoned her husband Sunday with the sad news.

AT KHE SANH

The elder Gurwitz said his son was at Khe Sanh, the fortress pounded bitterly by Communist artillery during the late spring and summer sieges, then he was scheduled for sea duty aboard a ship.

He was sent instead to Quang Tri, where he was hit.

Gurwitz, who brought his family to Costa Mesa about nine years ago, said his son's funeral will be scheduled for next Sunday at Baggott's Chapel of the Bells Anaheim Mortuary.

The funeral time will be announced later.

Cpl. Gurwitz was a fairly quiet boy who loved horses, raised pets and planned to marry and go to college after his separation from the Marine Corps in about one year.

"There was nothing particularly distniguished about his life," said Gurwitz, "until now."

"He studied animal husbandry in high school," the elder Gurwitz recalled, "he was sort of young in his interests. He wanted to be a gentleman rancher."

The young in interest are the ones who go to war, however, and the plot of land reserved for Cpl. Gurwitz is far smaller than the one he once dreamed about.

FLORIDA POLICE STAND NEAR BLANKET-COVERED BODY OF TEEN-AGE GIRL

'Stop Me,' Killer Cries

Murders Three in Florida, Then Calls Police

From Wire Services

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Time and the immeasurable drive of a killer's homicidal instinct hounded lawmen here today as they sought the slayer of one and maybe three victims, who has begged by telephone for capture.

"Ive murdered three people," an anonymous young man told a sheriff's desk officer Monday, "Please catch me. Please."

Directed by the apparent slayer, police found the bodies of an 11-year-old girl and her critically wounded mother, who was slumped over in a car at Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Clark, 42, of Clarkston, Ga., shot five times in the head and neck is near death, while her daughter Marilyn, 11, was also fatally shot five times in the head.

Motorists found the slain child's body along a Hollywood, Fla., roadway, four miles from where her mother was discovered and police are dragging area wtaterways for a probable third victim.

"He wasn't lying about the first two," said a detective, "so why should he lie about a third?"

Investigators revealed they are holding one person — an unemployed Santa Monica, Calif., machinist, — after he tried to buy a ticket to anywhere at the airport.

Ray C. Masterson, 18, is being held in connection with the theft of some watches from an airport concession, but police would not say if he is a suspect in the homicide case.

The grisly tale began to unfold Monday morning when a young man — his voice at times anguished — telephoned and Broward County Sheriff's Deputy James Rice answered.

Caller: Sir, I'd like to report a murder.

Caller: Murder.

Rice: A murder?

Caller: I just killed three people.

Rice: Just killed three people:

Caller: I'm serious. Please catch me. Please.

Rice: Where are you?

Caller: Please, I ju. . .Please.

Rice: Where are you son?

Caller: I'm gonna kill 'em tonight, too. Please.

Rice: Where are you?

Disconnect.

Lawmen urged the public not to panic, but ordered all persons to use strict precaution, since they are evidently seeking a maniacal killer who is helpless against his drive.

Navy Sidewinder Hits Oil Vessel

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A Navy air-to-air Sidewinder missile was identified today as the object that smashed into an oil survey vessel and set it afire Monday night, Navy officials said.

A spokesman at Pt. Mugu Naval Air Station said an examination of the parts found aboard the Pacific Seal confirmed that it was a non explosive training Sidewinder that hit the ship 15 miles from shore near Santa Rosa Island.

The Pacific Seal was prospecting for oil in the Santa Barbara Channel area. The Navy announcement said the 175-foot ship was in the vicinity of Santa Rosa Island, in the Pacific 50 miles northwest of Point Mugu.

An aircraft squadron from Point Mugu had been firing Sidewinder air-to-air missiles at a nearby test range shortly before the Pacific Seal reported she had been damaged.

The ship was en route to the naval base at Port Hueneme just north of here, escorted by the Coast Guard Cutter USS Cape Hatteras. A Navy spokesman at Point Mugu said the ship was proceeding under her own power "as far as we know."

Girl Who Left After Tot Took LSD Still Sought

A young live-in baby-sitter who disappeared after one of her young charges accidentally went on an LSD trip is still being sought by Costa Mesa police.

Charmane Bellavue, 21, who lived with Dennis Griffith and his three children at 779 Shalimar Drive, is charged in an arrest warrant with possession of dangerous drugs.

Miss Bellavue never returned from her weekly day off July 18, when Gloria Griffith, 7, was suddenly seized with symptoms of psychedelic drug consumption and hospitalized for a week.

The Griffith children had been left with an alternate baby-sitter from the neighborhood, police said, and had been playing in Miss Bellavue's room prior to becoming ill.

They said she was alternately shivering, staring oddly into space, crying and mumbling about colored lights.

Fair Manager Pleads Innocent To Boy Assault

Lutjeans is accused by Randy L. Guffy, 16, of 144 Brookline Drive, Costa Mesa, of two separate assaults against him following an Aug. 2 altercation over fairgrounds trespassing.

The Guffy boy was riding his minibike on fairgrounds property and Lutjeans ordered him away once, but he ignored the command, according to the suspect's version.

Police said Lutjeans took the little gas-powered bike away and locked it in a fairgrounds building after the confrontation, witnessed by many city officials from their Civic Center offices.

Harbor District Judicial Court Judge Calvin Schmidt ordered Lutjeans freed on his own recognizance, before he was actually booked into jail.

Suburb of Hell

Last Desert Rat Dies in Ballarat

BALLARAT, Calif. (UPI) — "Bet you ain't had a bath in a year," somebody once told Slim Ferge.

He will be buried Saturday in the miners' cemetery at Ballarat, the Ghost Town where he lived more than 60 years. For several decades he had been Ballarat's only inhabitant.

His nickname of "Seldom Seen Slim" was a tribute to his reclusive habits. Ballarat's silver vein petered out in 1917 but Slim kept on living there.

He developed a desert industry that paid better than mining. Slim aged glass bottles in the sun until they turned vivid shades of violet or green, then sold them to tourists driving up the highway from Los Angeles.

Ballarat lies in the Panamint Valley, a depression in the southern Sierra that parallels Death Valley. It's just as barren and almost as hot. Nineteenth century miners called Panamint the "Suburb of Hell."

Slim's place of business was an earth-walled shelter set amid crumbling adobe walls that once housed Ballarat's Wells Fargo station and its seven saloons.

Burros where Slim's traveling companions often in his 64 years in the desert. In later life, as the colored glass business prospered, Slim was seen driving an old Volkswagen.

He spent most of the year at Ballarat, abandoning his home only in the worst of the summer heat or winter cold.

Friends who went out to call Wednesday found him ailing. They took the old prospector to a hospital in Trona, Calif., 22 miles away, where a doctor called it terminal cancer. Slim died Sunday.

At noon on Saturday Slim will be laid to rest in simple graveside services at Ballarat's long-neglected cemetery.

Mesa Burglar Leaves Family Without Clothes

Loot totaling more than $2,000, including a family's entire wardrobe, was reported stolen Monday in a series of Costa Mesa burglaries.

Police said someone pulled a screen from the window of Mrs. Betty Peryer's apartment at 706 Shalimar Drive while she was at work and looted the home of $1,650, including all clothing.

The victim said $100 in cash and a piggy bank containing $50 in assorted change was also taken.

Steven G. Groover, of 720 Victoria St., also returned to his property at 1139 Charleston St., to find a washing machie, two bicycles and assorted other items worth $362 missing.

Annette C. Gassaway, employe of Crown Manufacturing, 657 W. 17th St., also reported burglars who may have had a key took a cashbox containing $50 from the auto parts company.

Mesa Library Closes

The Costa Mesa branch of the Orange County Public Library will be closed for inventory today through Saturday. Patrons are urged to use the Mesa Verde branch, 2969 Mesa Verde Drive.

School Counsel Offices to Open

Counseling offices at the Harbor area's four high schools will be open for new student registration and program adjustments for regular students through the beginning of the fall semester on Sept. 10.

New students who will be attending Corona del Mar, Costa Mesa, Estancia or Newport Harbor High Schools are encouraged to make appointments as early as possible.

Appointments or information may be obtained by calling Corona del Mar High School, 646-1000; Costa Mesa High School, 545-9431; Estancia High School, 642-4850; and Newport Harbor High School, 548-1121.

Newport Doctor Drowns Diving Near Catalina

Autopsy results were awaited today in the death of a Newport Beach physician who apparently drowned Monday while diving with a Laguna Beach man off Catalina Island.

The body of Dr. Robert Lee Smith, 39, of 1150 Polaris Drive, was found north of Ship Rock at Catalina shortly after 6 p.m. Monday, according to the Coast Guard.

Dr. Smith had been reported missing earlier in the afternoon. The Coast Guard said a Los Angeles Sheriff's helicopter spotted the body some four hours after the search started.

A family spokesman said the doctor was an experienced diver.

According to deputies, the drowning apparently occurred like this:

Dr. Smith was aboard a vessel called the Euphoria with Frank William Flores, 44, of 1241 Cliff Drive, Laguna Beach.

Flores went over the side to secure the anchor and when he returned to the boat he heard the physician say:

Flores began his descent to the ocean floor 200 feet below. He reported that at the depth of 60 feet he saw Dr. Smith some 30 feet above him.

Two blue sharks distracted Flores momentarily, and when he again peered upward to watch Dr. Smith, the physician had disappeared.

Flores told deputies that a kelp bed was in the area. He said he searched for more than an hour for his missing companion, then notified the Coast Guard.

500 May Compete In Surfing Meet

More than 150 surfers, including two-time United States champion Corky Carroll of Dana Point, have agreed to compete in Huntington Beach's 10th annual United States Invitational Surfboard Championship Sept. 28 and 29.

Norm Worthy, director of recreation and parks for Huntington Beach, said more than 500 people are expected to sign up for the competition by the Sept. 1 deadline.

Invitations have gone to surfers all over the United States, as well as Mexico, Peru and Japan, Worthy said.

Reeds . . . In the Wind

If you haven't driven by the Huntington Beach municipal pier at night lately, you should. Instead of the dimly lighted walkway to the sea you will find bright lights and likely a few surfers in the water.

Vince Moorhouse has about 18 of the 49 new lights going each evening and the results so far have been tremendous. Many more people have taken the walk out to the surf line on the pier since the new lights began operation.

The Harbors and Beaches Department director expects night traffic to increase markedly when all of the lights are on each evening.

The lights provide plenty of illumination for surfing after dark and it looks as though the surfers are up to the challenge. It's possible that the $67,000 worth of lights could make Huntington not only a year-round surfing center, but a day-night surfing capital as well.

Mention of the memorial proposed for the great Duke P. Kahanamoku brought a reminder from a reader that surfing was first introduced to the Orange Coast in 1907 by George Freeth of Hawaii. The first surfboard in the county was carved by Delbert "Bud" Higgins, former fire chief of Huntington Beach and Gene Belche former police chief.

It seems that when the Duke, an Olympic champion swimmer from Honolulu, came to Hollywood to appear in a picture, he ended up at Corona del Mar surfing.

Bud saw the surfing and in 1926 made the first surfboard in the county. It weighed 136 pounds and was made from a plank 10-feet long, four inches thick and 26 inches wide.

He later became lifeguard chief and fire chief for the city and now is the city historian. Bud still is an avid backer of surfing as a sport and among those happy to see the possibility of greater use of the local surf.

Special Parks Board Meet Set

A special meeting of the Fountain Valley Parks and Recreation Commission is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday at city hall, 10200 Slater Ave.

Up for consideration are bond and tax override alternatives for financing the city's proposed $1.5 million park program.

Zap! Huntington Pier Brightening Up Monday

On Sunday, night strollers of the Huntington Beach pier will find the 50-year-old landmark 25 times brighter than it has been in the past.

That's the official ribbon-cutting date when city officials will throw the switch to light the 49-mercury-vapor bulbs each possessing a 1,000-watt lighting capacity.

The powerful, new lights, which are perched on 27-foot, marbleite standards replace 47-low voltage predecessors.

Councilmen see the pier as the city's focal point in its drive to attract tourists.

Long a favorite haunt of fishermen, the pier could prove to be a moneymaker with expanded attractions, officials believe.

A pet project of Vince Moorhouse, director of harbors and beaches, the lifeguard chief has combed fishermen's wharf-type areas from Long Beach to Redondo to San Francisco for ideas for a massive refurbishing of the pier.

State High Court Says 'No Sale' On Beer Bargains

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There'll be no bargaining for beer in California, the State Supreme Court decided Monday.

The court, in a 4-3 decision, upheld the Alcoholic Beverage Control department's regulations forbidding price-cutting in the sale of beer.

The high court reversed lower courts in a suit brought by several large grocery chains which wanted the freedom to seek quantity discounts from their beer suppliers.

Justice Mathew O. Tobriner's majority decision said the department has the authority to issue such regulations under the law permitting it to "foster and encourage the orderly wholesale marketing and wholesale distribution of beer."

He said if retailers were allowed discounts, they might buy larger amounts than they could sell quickly and some customers would get stale beer.

OV School District Changes Meetings

The regular Aug. 19 meeting of the Ocean View School District will not be held, Supt. Clarence Hall has announced.

District trustees voted to cancel the month's second meeting and to change the meeting dates for September also. Instead of meeting the first and third Mondays next month, trustees will convene the second and fourth Tuesdays.

400-acre Park Pushed

'Rare Opportunity' Says Councilman

By WILLIAM REED
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

If Jerry Matney has anything to say about it, more than 400 acres of land and water in central Huntington Beach will be preserved as a park, complete with lakes, wildlife refuges, picnic areas and an 18-hole golf course.

"We can and will have this park," says the Huntington Beach city councilman, who heads a committee studying the project.

His confidence of the city's ability to acquire the needed land is shared by members of the Recreation and Parks Department.

"This is a rare opportunity to obtain for the community a park of this size at minimum cost," says Norm Worthy, director of parks and recreation. "We could have a unique regional park within our city limits."

The area in question is enclosed roughly by Slater Avenue on the north, Taylor Avenue on the south, Gothard Street on the east and Edwards Street on the west. An additional piece of park land would extend north of Talbert Avenue between Golden West and Edwards Streets.

Matney would like to have a model made of the proposed central park to show to the groups in the city who might have to campaign for a bond issue to finance the development and land acquisition.

Councilmen Monday night ordered a master plan study, but were reluctant to order a model now.

Matney said that the park committee needs the model "because the people must be able to see in three dimensions what we could have there. You can't tell anything by looking at a stupid brochure."

The model idea was shelved temporarily when Librarian Walter Johnson responded "very few" to a question on how many people came to the library to see a model of the now-defunct Bolsa Island plan.

"We would plan to take the model to the people," Matney argued unsuccessfully.

At present the city owns 15 acres of Talbert Park, 13 acres of Huntington Lake and a five-acre water company site. To complete the park project another 230 acres would be needed.

Costs for the entire package are estimates presently, but could top $6 million. A large share of the money could come from state and federal sources, Worthy pointed out.

Presently there are a few unofficial recreational activities being conducted without legal sanction. Fishing has become popular in Talbert Lake, water skiing and boating on Huntington Lake and motorcycle hill climbing near Talbert Avenue and Golden West Street.

"These activities must be encouraged under supervision so that children from now on will be able to know what it's like to sit on the bank of a lake and fish or just poke in the mud or to see first hand the wildlife," said Councilman Matney.

His committee is making a study of the proposed park and is due to report to the council in the near future.

Library Closing At Westminster

Westminster residents will be able to use the Fountain Valley branch, 17565 Las Alamos St., during the week.

New Dog Obedience Classes Scheduled

New classes in dog obedience training will begin Aug. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at Lake Park in Huntington Beach. The classes are sponsored by the Recreation and Parks Department.

The novice classes will run nine weeks. Enrollment is under way now for dogs over six months. Registration may be taken care of by calling the Recreation Department, 536-2573, or by calling 968-3670 after 5 p.m.

New McDonnell Douglas Space Booster in Debut

A new and more powerful space booster — the Long Tank Delta—will make its debut this week with the launch of another Tiros Operational Satellite (TOS-E) from the Western Test Range.

The Long Tank Delta is the newest in the family of Delta launch vehicles built for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center by the McDonnell Douglas Corp., Huntington Beach.

To date Delta has orbited its payload in 54 of 57 launches. The reliable vehicle currently enjoys a streak of 24 launch successes in a row.

Produced at the McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Company's Santa Monica, facility, the Long Tank Delta is 14.5 feet longer than its predecessor, the Thrust Augmented Improved Delta (TAID), and is 50 percent more powerful.

The 70-foot-long first stage of the Long Tank Delta is cylindrical instead of conical in its upper portion and has an eight-foot diameter throughout, permitting an increase in fuel capacity. The additional fuel lengthens the burn time for the main engine by 70 seconds, giving the vehicle significantly greater payload-lifting capacity.

For the TOS-E mission, the Long Tank Delta will be launched in a two-stage configuration with the second stage maneuvering the satellite into a planned 790-nautical mile circular orbit.

When fitted with a new solid propellant third stage for later launches, the Long Tank Delta will be able to lift payloads exceeding 2300 pounds into a 200-mile orbit, as compared to 1670 pounds for a three-stage TAID.

With its larger propellant capacity, the Long Tank Delta first stage weighs 185,000 pounds fully loaded — 50,000 pounds more than the TAID first stage. The entire Long Tank Delta, with its 345-pound TOS-E payload, measures 106.2 feet in length and will weigh 196,260 pounds at liftoff.

Total thrust of the Long Tank Delta main engine and three solid strap-on motors is 333,000 pounds at liftoff — the same as that of the TID.

Weather satellites orbited by Delta since November 1960 include nine of the TIROS series and all six of the ESSA series. These satellites have been upgraded both in design and maneuverability for maximum effectiveness in obtaining weather data.

Little Rock

Racial Violence In Fourth Night

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Crude firebombs were thrown into six businesses, there were scattered shooting and 11 persons were arrested Monday night and early today in Little Rock's fourth straight night of racial violence.

Nobody was hurt and damage was slight. The firebombs were so poorly made, they failed to go off, police said. Gunfire was reported within a few blocks of police headquarters, but police said they could not find anything to substantiate the reports.

Police said patrol cars were fired upon but none was hit. Ten of the 11 persons arrested were charged with curfew violations. One person was arrested for carrying a weapon.

Officials debated whether to impose a curfew again tonight because of the Democratic runoff election today. A curfew would dull much of the election night celebrating by the winners. The runoff includes a governor's race.

Little Rock Police Chief R. E. Brians said law enforcement units would be near each polling place in Little Rock and North Little Rock where one out of every seven registered voters in the state lives.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller cancelled a speaking engagement at a Republican fund raising dinner in Santa Fe, N.M., Monday to remain in the state. For the third night, Rockefeller placed Pulaski County — of which Little Rock is the county seat — under the curfew.

No injuries were reported from the latest shooting incidents, which began Friday night following a march in protest of the death of a young Negro inmate at the County Penal Farm.

A motion was filed in federal court Monday against the Pulaski County Grand Jury investigating the "causes and events" that led to the violence.

The motion filed by 13 Negroes said the makeup of the Grand Jury is discriminatory and asks that the investigation be suspended until the jury is reconstituted to represent more Negroes, more younger people, and more working people in non-managerial positions. It is the first time a Grand Jury has been challenged in the county.

A hearing is scheduled on the motion today in Harrison where Federal Judge J. Smith Henley is vacationing.

Friday's march was prompted by the death Aug. 2 of an 18-year-old Negro inmate at the Pulaski County Penal Farm. A white trusty inmate has been charged with manslaughter in the death.

The Rev. Thomas McVeigh Smith, a white Roman Catholic priest and leader of the protest, said Monday another march would be held unless conditions at the penal farm were improved. He called for an end to racial segregation in the detention unit and said the facilities should be cleaned up.

Lack of Clues Baffles Police In Death of 2

WESTMORELAND, Kan. (UPI) — Patricia Ortega telephoned her mother in Topeka, Kan., last Wednesday to tell her she would be home "in a couple of days." Patricia never saw home again. A white plastic jug floating in a lake marks the spot where she was found dead, tied to the body of another girl.

Patricia had left home early this year after her 18th birthday. She stayed in Topeka, then went to Kansas City, where she worked as a waitress.

"But she always called and let us know how she was," her stepfather, Cortino Hernandaz, said. "My wife talked with her Wednesday evening, and she said she'd be home in a couple of days."

"She was traveling with a girl friend of hers. That's all we know. There's a possibility that the other girl is this girl friend. But we don't know anything for sure."

Pottawatomie State Lake No. 1, a deserted fishing spot in the northern Flint Hills 60 miles from Topeka, has yielded little information about the deaths of the two girls. The nearest house is one - half mile away in the timber, and its occupants heard no shots. So far, no one at the lake during the past few days has come forward with any clues.

The County Coroner estimated the girls were shot some 24 to 48 hours before a fisherman and his grandson spotted the bodies in the lake early Sunday.

The Ortega girl had been shot once in the head, and two bullets had pierced the chest of the other girl.

"As far as we know," Sheriff Dow Reves said, "the girls were shot before they were put in the lake."

The victims, each wearing shorts, blouses and sandals, were bound at the feet with a rope frayed at one end, which investigators believe may have been tied to a weight. Neither of them had been sexually molested.

23 White Jail Inmates Charged In Race Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — A racial attack in the city's jail on Rikers Island has led to the indictment of 23 white inmates on charges of assault and possession of weapons.

The indictments, made public Monday, charged that about 80 whites attacked six Negroes on the night of July 9.

The attack allegedly occurred after the six Negroes moved a picnic table into a recreation area that the white prisoners had designated for whites only, and the Negroes sat down at the table to watch white prisoners play handball.

The six Negroes allegedly were attacked by white prisoners armed with chair legs, bent tin cans, mop handles, chains and knives made from filed-down spoons.

The indictments and the attack were discussed at a joint news conference by Bronx Dist. Atty Isidor Dollinger, his chief assistant, Burton E. Roberts, and City Correction Commissioner George F. McGrath.

Roberts said one of the victims of the attack, a star pitcher for the jail's baseball team, still is "in a comatose state" in the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital. "His chances of recovery are absolutely nil," Roberts said, "and at best the doctors say he will always be a vegetable."

Roberts praised McGrath for reporting the attack and insisting on prosecution. "This kind of thing happens in institutions all the time, but they usually are swept under the rug," Roberts said.

Roberts said McGrath's decision to call for a complete investigation and the subsequent indictments played important roles in easing racial tensions on Rikers Island.

Hippies Holler 'Help'

Their Love Not Reciprocated in Colorado Resort

DENVER (UPI) — Hippies who have made the popular resort town of Aspen, Colo., their pad went to court Monday because townsfolk don't love them.

In fact, the community has been so downright nasty the hippies filed suit in federal court complaining that their constitutional rights had been violated.

The suit was filed on behalf of all persons who, because of "being unconventional in appearance, manner and life style as compared with the mainstream of society . . . are commonly referred to as hippies."

The hippies said life became unbearable in the Colorado resort town last month shortly after 16 Aspen businessmen presented a petition to the city council. The businessmen complained of a large number of "undesirable transients" who were endangering the "health, moral well-being and business welfare" of the town.

Since then, it's been one harassment after another, the hippies said.

They charged police once even mistook artist-in-residence Robert Indiana for a hippie and demanded to see his draft card.

One of the hippie plaintiffs, Stephen G. Mulford, member of a San Francisco band, said one officer grabbed his long hair and indicated he was going to chop it off with a knife.

The hippies said all they wanted was to be left in peace. They asked for a U. S. District Court order to make sure of it.

Apollo Testing Begins

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Ground testing begins today on the Apollo spaceship that will fly aboard the first manned Saturn 5 super rocket in January.

The cone-shaped moonship arrived at Cape Kennedy Monday after a cross-country airplane trip from the plant of its prime contractor, North American Rockwell Corp. at Downey, Calif.

Scheduled to ride the spaceship on an earth-orbital mission in January are Air Force Lt. Cols. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart, a civilian astronaut. Their flight, named Apollo 8, will be the first manned mission aboard a 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 rocket, the type of booster which is to hurl three astronauts to the moon late next year.

In late October or early November of this year, three other astronauts — Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham, a civilian — are scheduled to make America's first three-man space flight. They will be launched by a Saturn 1 rocket, however, forerunner of the larger Saturn 5 man-to-the-moon booster.

The Apollo 8 flight plan includes a space walk by Schweickart outside the Apollo capsule and the first manned test of a lunar module, the spacecraft that will ferry two astronauts from an Apollo command ship in lunar orbit to the moon's surface.

Israel May Exchange MIGs for Boeing 707

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel today shifted the two Syrian air force MIG17 jet fighters which landed at an Israeli airfield Monday to a secret air force base.

The planes were hauled away by trucks during the night. Troops had to uproot road signs and other obstacles along the narrow road leading south from the airfield in northern Israel.

A blackout on the interrogation of the pilots was maintained, and 24 hours after the planes touched down, there was still no official explanation for the sudden arrival of the fighters.

Even the Israeli press, which usually agrees to security restrictions, was indignant that no reason had been offered.

The semi-official newspaper Davar said, "This silence is not in place. In an event of this sort, which is news for all the world, the windmills of news grind fast, and when there are no reliable facts available for the journalists and commentators, they naturally are fed on rumors and suppositions."

There has been speculation Israel would try to exchange the two planes for the Boeing 707 airliner hijacked from the Israeli airline last month and still held in Algeria.

Davar did not attempt to dispel the exchange speculation in its editorial, and the influential Haaretz said it was possible an exchange would take place.

Some newspapers assumed in their editorials that the two Syrian pilots had defected, because of "the rottenness of the Syrian regime, where one officer undermines another."

Another possibility suggested here was that the pilots had run out of fuel and attempted to land in Lebanon. The Israeli airfield where they landed is only two miles south of the Lebanese-Israeli frontier.

A Syrian military spokesman said the planes were flown by new pilots on a training mission. He indicated they had lost their way in bad weather, run out of fuel and been forced to land.

Meanwhile, the Israeli army said Jordanian troops fired three bazooka shells at an Israeli armored car on patrol in the Beisan Valley.

Greek Chief Escapes Try By Assassin

ATHENS (UPI) — A former Greek Army officer today attempted to blow up the car in which Premier George Papadopoulos was riding to Athens from his seaside vacation villa, the government announced.

The announcement said Papadopoulos escaped without injury and the would be assassin was captured.

Papadopoulos was one of the leaders in the military coup of April 1967 which eventually led to the flight of King Constantine. The Greek Monarch fled into self-exile in Italy last December after an unsuccessful attempt to oust the military regime.

A government spokesman said the bomb exploded as Papadopoulos' car passed a point only a few miles outside Athens. The blast was heard in downtown Athens.

The spokesman said the Greek premier was not hurt.

He said the former officer, whom he identified as a "fascist" ex-lieutenant named George Panaghouhas, was captured.

Solon Hits Crime Rate

CONCORD, N. H. (UPI)— Sen. Norris Cotton (R-N.H.), says the crime rate is so bad in Washington, D.C., that he prefers not to go out at night.

"I don't go out at night in Washington, the streets are not safe at night," he said Monday.

The senator also voiced opposition to national gun registration and national licensing.

Ike Makes Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's condition has improved to the point where doctors have stopped issuing regular medical bulletins.

Doctors said Eisenhower passed the critical period Monday from his sixth heart attack. But officials at Walter Reed Army Hospital said his "convalescence is apt to be prolonged because of the general's previous attacks."

Eisenhower was a few days away from leaving the hospital when he was stricken with what doctors termed a major attack last Tuesday.

Walter Reed officials said the five-star general no longer needs oxygen, although he is still confined to bed and visitors are limited to his immediate family.

Beats Berlin Wall

Refugee Wins Race With Death

BERLIN (UPI) — Timing himself, East German border guard Lutz Kirsche unstrapped his submachine gun and aimed it.

It took 12 seconds. He estimated it would take 12 to 18 seconds to run the 80 to 90 yards to the allied checkpoint at Helmstedt, on the West German end of the 110-mile highway to West Berlin.

Kirsche, 22, knew there were about six seconds when he would be a target for other guards on duty at the Communist highway but he decided to take the chance. He won his race with death and became one of the dwindling number of refugees managing to get past the new, tight, efficient East German border controls.

Statistics available on the seventh anniversary of the building of the wall today show the Berlin Wall from an East German viewpoint has paid off. It virtually has halted the flow of refugees that seven years ago threatened the very existence of the German Democratic Republic.

Before the wall went up an Eastern resident could escape for five cents. That was all it cost to take the elevated railway across the open East - West Berlin border.

Now it costs several thousand dollars if an East German is lucky enough to find a professional "refugee helper" who can get him past the border, or if he can find some one to bribe.

A few years ago skill, courage and determination still could get a refugee past the wall. Today the wall controls are so efficient that the odds are against a professional athlete making it without a lot of luck.

Kirsche was one of the 415 East Germans who managed to escape the first six months of this year.

"I decided to flee when I realized there were spies in my outfit who snitched to the officers that we were buying American and English cigarettes and Playboy magazine from the Russians, who bought them from the western soldiers" he told a news conference Monday.

"I knew the best time to flee was during the changing of he guard. All my four hours on duty I said to myself 'it has to be today.'

"I gave my sergeant a push as he was talking to a Russian soldier and he fell in the Russian's arms. Then I raced toward the demarcation line.

"For the last six seconds when I was a target I ran so that if they shot at me there would be American soldiers on the other side of the border in their line of fire.

"We all had a firm order that refugees could not be fired on if other persons, especially western allied soldiers, might be hit.

"Two guards on a watchtower, however, looked as if they were about to shoot. But at that moment a West German customs policeman ran toward me, placed himself in front of me and shouted 'he's with us'."

Refugee figures of past years compared with the 415 figure for the first six months of this year show how hard it has become to escape.

Flight used to be so easy that 2,824,000 fled from 1949, when the West started to keep records, until Aug. 13, 1961, when the wall was built.

Johnson Awaiting X-ray Evaluation

The medical findings presumably will determine whether Johnson must undergo surgery for the third time in four years — a possibility the Texas White House has refused to rule out.

Johnson made his third visit in a week Monday to Brooke Army Medical Center, San Antonio, where X-rays of the lower intestine were made so doctors could assess the extent of his ailment, called diverticulosis.

Normally not a serious or disabling condition, diverticulosis produces pouches on the inner lining of the intestine. Should these become inflamed, surgery might be required.

6 Reds Killed

Four Held In Bogus Bill Raid

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Four counterfeiting suspects and about $800,000 in bogus $20 bills have been seized by Secret Service agents.

Guy Spaman, head of the Los Angeles office, said Monday about 200 of the fake notes were passed at stores and banks since the suspects started turning them out a month ago.

Two of the suspects, Daniel Migdol, 38, of Canoga Park, and his brother, Max, 42, of Reseda, are printers, Spaman said. Daniel Migdol was released from prison last month after his second counterfeiting conviction in 1963.

The brothers were arrested in a West Los Angeles apartment Sunday where agents found $150,000 of the fake banknotes.

Arrested Saturday night in a West Los Angeles parking lot were Howard Burnstein, 32, of Woodland Hills and Wayne Kruse, 25, of Canoga Park. All four were charged with possession and manufacture of counterfeit money and conspiracy.

In a raid on the Ever Ready Printing Co. in West Los Angeles, the agents seized between $300,000 and $400,000 bogus bills. Also seized were plates and a printing press.

Court Decision Due Today On Panther Witness' Silence

OAKLAND (UPI) — The state finds out today whether or not its key witness in one charge against Black Panther founder Huey P. Newton will be forced to testify.

The witness, Dell Ross, 26, of Oakland, stopped the murder trial cold Monday when he refused to tell about his alleged kidnap by Newton on the grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Newton, 26, is charged with killing Oakland Policeman John Frey, 23, wounding policeman Herbert Heanes, 25, and kidnaping Ross to drive him to a hospital for treatment of a bullet wound in his stomach.

The predawn shootout on an Oakland street took place last Oct. 28. Newton's trial entered its fifth week Monday.

There had been much testimony about the alleged shooting of the two policemen by the first 17 witnesses, but no mention of the kidnap.

Then Ross was called as witness number 18. He answered a few questions about what kind of car he owned last October and then prosecutor Lowell Jensen asked:

"Where were you about 5 a.m. last Oct. 28?"

"In Oakland," Ross replied.

"Where in Oakland?" asked Jensen.

"I refuse to answer where on the grounds of incrimination. I don't want to say nothing wrong. I take the fifth amendment," answered Ross, 26, a Negro dressed in a red turtleneck sweater and a blue jacket.

Jensen asked that Ross be ordered to answer and mentioned that he had testified before the Grand Jury. The jury was sent out of the courtroom for arguments.

Douglas Hill, attorney for Ross, said he had advised his client not to answer on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

"Where he was at that time could not possibly be incriminating," Hill admitted, "but what he was doing might be."

Hill mentioned that there was no cross-examination at the Grand Jury hearing last November and that Ross was not represented by counsel.

"At what point can he stop answering questions?" Hill asked. "The prudent thing to do is to take the fifth amendment early and be consistent and I so advised him."

Groom, Pal Arraigned in 'Death Ride'

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — Police have charged Billy Ray Carmack, 26, with trying to murder his 20-year-old bride of a month after insuring her life for $20,000.

Carmack and a companion, Thomas Santos, 24, were arraigned Monday on charges of assault with intent to murder and arson.

Barbara Carmack told police her new husband took her for a ride in the Oakland hills Saturday night and beat her into semiconsciousness with a billy club. Then, she said, a man named Tom doused the car with gasoline and pushed it over a 50-foot cliff as it burned.

She said she managed to crawl out, and a motorist took her to a hospital where she was treated for bruises and released.

Man Slays Woman, Self

LONG BEACH (UPI) — The bodies of a woman and a man, apparent murder-suicide victims, were found early today in his apartment by police.

Dead were Mrs. Glenna R. Bradbury, 52, of Long Beach, who had been shot once in the body and once in the face, and Robert Tura, 58, also of Long beach, who was shot once through the head and still clutching a .22 caliber revolver, police said.

Minorities Meet Council

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A public hearing on community-police relations will be held Wednesday afternoon, won by Mexican-Americans and Negroes in an angry confrontation with the City Council.

A group calling itself the Crisis Coalition packed the council chambers Monday and presented seven demands to councilmen, including one which said "stop legal killing by police." They also accused police of a "criminal conspiracy to disrupt and destroy the black and brown community."

The spokesmen, cheered by 500 in the council chambers, warned violence may flare in the South-Central and East Los Angeles areas of the city. Few of them made direct reference to the gun battles in Watts Sunday night that left three Negroes dead and 44 persons wounded or injured.

The meeting was first scheduled last week after three Negro youths were shot to death in a gun battle with police.

Walter Bremond, chairman of the Black Congress, said, "We're tired of police brutality, we're tired of the murders of our black and brown brothers in the streets, we're tired of being arrested on every trumped-up charge."

Carl Velasquez, president of the United Mexican-American Students Association, accused police of "the beatings of teenagers, constant citizen harassment on commercial streets, arrogant interfering with family social functions and the daily insults meted out to black and brown people in their contacts with officers." He said that was "daily routine", in predominantly Mexican-American East Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, a sign-carrying crowd of 85 demanded to see Police Chief Thomas Reddin at police headquarters. A dozen uniformed policemen formed a human wall to keep them out of the building.

"Because of the situation in Watts," Reddin said he would not see the crowd.

Other demands made to the council were: "Stop wholesale arrests of citizens ... intimidation ... and illegal detention and illegal search" ... reduce concentration of police in our communities, remove the white police and investigate "a criminal conspiracy now in operation by the Los Angeles Police Department to disrupt and destroy the black and brown communities."

Afterward, Councilman Gilbert Lindsay suggested the City Council must do something. He urged additional members be named to the council's Police, Fire and Civil Defense Committee and investigate bloodshed in Los Angeles.

There was no move by the councilmen to comment or take any action on the demands by the speakers. The public hearing on community-police relations will begin Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Gunman Gets $746 In 'Jack'

TUSTIN — You drive up to drive-through eatery and the harlequin figure says, "May I have your order please?" You can then pick up the food and pay the cashier at the window.

At least that's the way the whole thing is supposed to work, unfortunately for the owner of the drive-through restaurant at the corner of Redhill and Newport Avenue in Tustin, the Jack in the box is not quite fool proof. As the result, he's out approximately $746 in weekend receipts.

Bypassing the squawk in the box, a long haired hippie-type, about six feet tall, wearing yellow gloves, white T-shirt and dark trousers entered the back door of the restaurant about 10 a.m. Monday and "ordered" there.

Backing his demands with an as yet unidentified handgun instead of cash, he ordered all the employes into the walkin freezer after taking about $13 from the cash register.

He then ordered the owner upstairs and forced him to hand over the rest of the money, $571 of which was in checks.

The armed robber then put the owner on ice in the freezer and absconded with an employe's car.

Slide Area

Muddy earth carves a path down hill at home at 33112 Palo Alto Street in Dana Knolls area of Dana Point. This is only one of several hillside homes in area which have suffered the quiet damage. County officials reported about 60 tons of dirt have given away and slid down hills "with very little noise, just sort of a whisper."

County Aide Hearing Date Slated

Arraignment of Arthur Charloff, former chief deputy public administrator for Orange County, on embezzlement of public funds was set for Aug. 28 when he appeared in Superior Court Friday.

Charloff, 33, will answer to charges that he stole $239.67 from estates handled by the public administrator's office.

Charloff's indictment by the Grand Jury July 17 was an ironic echo from the past. He was instrumental in the conviction of former deputy public administrator Louis Vanscourt.

Sigh of Relief, Splash Of Regret in Flood Job

Progress has taken some of the fun out of Laguna Beach. For kids. For motorists, it's a different story.

The "Big Bend" of the Laguna Canyon road will no longer be flooded during the rainy months, thanks to a $46,975 project undertaken by the Orange County Flood Control District. No more water holes for ambitious and daring youngsters.

The 160-day undertaking was officially completed Monday, when city officials gathered with construction engineers and gave a sigh of relief.

Times were when the water would collect at the Big Bend, making passing sometimes impossible. The new drain pipe will direct the rain water to the ocean, eliminating any further flooding. The backbone of the project is a nine-foot-tall, 12-foot-wide underground conduit pipe.

In order to resolve the flooding problem for the whole canyon area, further work will need to be done, after the financing is taken care of.

The Corps of Engineers, under a recent Presidential order, is conducting a Laguna Canyon Flood Planning Information Study which, when completed, will be publicized as a guide to property owners planning future development in the area.

In the meantime, the Big Bend problem is eliminated. And along with city and construction officials, a lot of motorists must be pleased.

Opening Set For Bridge

ANAHEIM — The new Jefferson Street bridge over the Santa Ana River opens at 10 a.m. Thursday. County officials say it will provide motorists safer and more convenient access to the Autonetics plant and other nearby industrial facilities.

The two-lane, $367,647 bridge off the Riverside Freeway was financed by the county and the City of Anaheim. It can be widened to four lanes in the future.

Trio Helps Run WESCON Show

LOS ANGELES — Three Newport Beach area electronics executives have been appointed to positions for the Western Electronics Show and Convention (WESCON) scheduled for Aug. 20-23 in Los Angeles.

They are Thomas P. Walker, 1901 Bayadere Terrace, Corona del Mar, chairman of the host committee; Jack L. Kasparek, 499 Prospect, Newport Beach, chairman of the registration committee; and Harry J. Delaney, 2021 Deborah Lane, Newport Beach, vice chairman of the visitor committee.

SA Heights Water Fate Before LAFC

SANTA ANA — The county's Local Agency Formation Commission is scheduled to hear arguments Wednesday involving the fate of the shareholder-owned Santa Ana Heights Mutual Water Co.

Shareholders have proposed that the company, one of the last mutual water agencies in the county, be reorganized into a public district to be known as the Santa Ana Heights Water District.

The move was spurred by an offer from the Costa Mesa County Water District (CMCWD) to buy the mutual company for $504,000. Some shareholders claim the purchase would lead to eventual annexation by the City of Costa Mesa of county territory now served by the mutual water company.

Petitions signed by 1,652 persons backing the formation of the new Santa Ana Heights Water District have been submitted with the proposal.

The proposed district would cover about 1,200 acres between Upper Newport Bay and Orange County Airport.

The City of Newport Beach is against formation of the new district and CMCWD Manager Ray Wallace has argued that formation of the new district would mean that shareholders in the old mutual water company would lose all the value of their ownership certificates.

Major shareholders in the mutual company include the Irvine Company and the Santa Ana Country Club.

Police Siege Suspect Sane

SANTA ANA — A suspect in a liquor store holdup who held off two dozen police in a three-hour siege July 4 after being cornered in Anaheim will enter a plea Friday in Superior Court.

Charles A. Barbee, 19, of Orange, was ruled sane Monday by Superior Court Judge Robert Gardner following receipt of psychiatric reports. He is held in lieu of $32,500 bail.

Barbee, stopped by police on suspicion of robbing an Orange liquor store, sat in his car in the early morning hours armed with a pistol and a shotgun.

Tear gas shells were finally pumped into an open window and Barbee staggered out and surrendered.

Newsman K. Knight Succumbs

Veteran Orange County newspaperman Kenneth "Ken" Knight, 39, died Sunday in Riverside after suffering a heart attack.

Mr. Knight, recently employed by the Santa Ana Register, had been residing at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Knight. Riverside authorities said he suffered a heart seizure while watching television Sunday night. He was dead on arrival at Riverside County Hospital.

Mr. Knight, who was graduated from California State College at Long Beach, was on the editorial staff of the Long Beach Independent-Press Telegram from 1955 to 1966. Later he served for a period on the DAILY PILOT staff in Newport Beach.

Besides his parents, survivors include his wife, Joan; son, Christopher and daughters Karen, Sharon and Kathy. Services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Garden of Prayer Mortuary Chapel in Riverside.

Driver Dies Of Injuries

ORANGE — After one and one-half month fight for life, a 25-year-old Norwalk man injured in a Huntington Beach accident July 1 died early today in the Orange County Medical Center.

Frank Rollen Naber, 10633 Everest St., Norwalk, succumbed to injuries received when his car reportedly collided with a parked auto on Pacific Coast Highway. He had gained consciousness intermittently at the hospital.

McLain May Get 30th Win at Anaheim

Attention baseball fans: There's an outside chance that Detroit's Denny McLain can win his 30th game of the season in Orange County.

Detroit's next and last appearance at Anaheim Stadium will be September 9-10-11. McLain won his 24th game last night.

There are 28 days between today and September 9. If McLain wins five of six starts before September 9 — figuring a start every fourth day — he would come into Anaheim with 29 wins.

Should he win 30, McLain, now 24-3, would become the first pitcher to do so since Dizzy Dean turned the trick in 1934 with the Cardinals.

CLEVELAND (AP) — "All I want to do is win the pennant," said Dennis McLain, but the Detroit Tiger hurler admitted he had 30 wins on his mind too.

"I've been thinking about 30 since 15," McLain said after posting his 24th victory Monday night — an easy 6-3 win over the Cleveland Indians.

"I think it's natural to think about winning 30 games," said McLain, who should get 11 or 12 more starts before the season ends. "But I'm not losing any sleep over it," he added.

The only member of the Tribe who gave McLain trouble was Tony Horton. He hit two home runs, one of them with a mate aboard in the ninth.

Detroit catcher Bill Freehan said he didn't think the pitches Horton hit "were in places where Denny wanted to throw them"

McLain agreed. "They were perfect pitches. I could have hit them out. They were fast balls right down the middle waist high.

"Of course," he added, "there were some great plays behind me, and it doesn't hurt to have six runs behind you."

A "situation" came up in the eighth, when the Indians got two men on bases with one out. "I wanted to jam Duke Sims, and I did," said McLain. "He hit one on the handle. I wanted Cardenal to go the other way and he did," the right hander continued, explaining how he got out of trouble.

The Tigers added three more runs in the top of the ninth to make things easy for McLain. Then Horton came through with his second homer, and Manager Mayo Smith made one of his infrequent visits to the mound to talk to his pitching ace.

"I was rushing myself in the ninth," said McLain. "Smith came out to get me to slow down."

"Denny had better stuff than he's had the last few times out," said Smith.

Asked what McLain was doing differently than he did last season, when he was 17-16, Smith said:

Whatever he's going, McLain makes it sound easy. "The toughest thing I've done this season is cut a record album for Capital," McLain said. "A Dennis McLain Quintet" LP is due for release in mid-September, "in time for the World Series," Denny noted.

62-year-old Satchel Returns

Baseball's Legend Reborn, Paige Pitching for Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Satchel Paige, the living legend of professional baseball, has been a pitcher for 40 years — and he's back in the game today.

Paige signed a contract with the Atlanta Braves Monday aimed at providing him with the benefits of baseball's pension plan. He needs 158 days to qualify for the five-year pension, which pays $250 a month at the age of 65.

He will join the Braves' active roster Aug. 23 for the rest of the current season and be retained in some capacity for 1969.

"Satchel is one of the greatest pitchers of all time," said Braves President William Bartholomay, "and baseball would be guilty of negligence should it not assure this legendary figure a place in the pension plan.

"With his tremendous background, Paige is expected to be a great help in working with and conditioning young players."

Getting to the heart of the matter, Bartholomay added, "More than anything else, it will give many Atlanta fans the chance to see for the first time a living legend."

"I don't know what I can do now," Paige said in a news conference after the signing. "I'll have to get out there and unfold first. If cold weather comes, I'm dead. My blood's not as thick as it used to be. If it's hot I'll be all right. I'm glad to be here and I'll do my best whatever I'm in."

Paige was was denied the chance to pitch in the majors until 1948. Prior to that time he pitched on Negro teams in the minor leagues.

He played for parts of six American League seasons with the Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Kansas City A's.

"Ole Satchel," was past 40 when he arrived in the majors — but he still chalked up a 28-31 record.

His last game in the majors was Sept. 25, 1965, when he pitched three scoreless innings for Kansas City against Boston. His earned run average in the majors is 3.29.

"This is my love, baseball," Paige said. "I'm glad to be back to my love."

Paige's age is thought to be 62, but he does not like to talk about it and says nobody knows how old he really is.

Namath Holding Out? Clemente May Retire

Young, also an announcer for Jets' games, said over WOR-TV that Namath says he was promised an additional $3,000 by former Jets' owner Sonny Werblin for each exhibition game. But the new owners said they know nothing about such an agreement, Young said.

PITTSBURGH — Roberto Clemente, who kept his injured shoulder a secret while he struggled all through the spring, says he will retire before next season if the shoulder doesn't feel any better.

The 34-year-old Clemente has come on very slowly this season after a poor start and now is batting .279. But if he should finish there it would mark his worst average since 1957. Last year he hit .357 and won his fourth National League batting championship.

FULLERTON — The Los Angeles Rams were still waiting to learn today whether three players injured in last Saturday's encounter with the Cleveland Browns will be ready to face the Dallas Cowboys this Saturday night at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Running backs Willie Ellison and Les Josephson and reserve center George Burman worked out Monday afternoon, but their status for this weekend's National Football League exhibition clash was still unknown.

INGLEWOOD — Jack Kent Cooke, owner of The Forum, continued his fight Monday to stop night harness racing at adjacent Hollywood Park.

In a 19-page presentation, Cooke claimed the Inglewood City Council has authority to block the night racing. Cooke's report came in answer to a staff report of the City of Inglewood which questioned the power of the city council to prevent night harness racing.

Moves to Woodbury

Westwood Wonder Man Quits After 20 Years

Westwood's coaching wizard has resigned and with his departure comes a close to a colorful and highly successful era which was marked by 349 victories, 23 ties and 28 defeats over two decades.

No, it isn't basketball coach John Wooden who's ending his career for the UCLA Bruins.

The fellow hanging up his whistle is Edward "Jock" Stewart, a transplanted Scot who explains the decision thusly: "It was simply a case of UCLA outgrowing me. They no longer want an athletic program — they want a winning one. I feel there is no challenge left for me so I'm leaving to take the soccer coaching job at Woodbury College in Los Angeles."

Stewart admits that UCLA's decision to drop out of open soccer competition in favor of participation in NCAA action greatly influenced his resignation.

GLENN WHITE

WHITE WASH

"They don't use international rules in the NCAA and I would not want to be affiliated with it under any circumstance," he says.

Stewart, who has also managed a number of fighters during his 58 years of life, recalls the early days of coaching at Westwood.

"USC used to be our only opponent," he points out. "The first time we met them, we won, 3-1. There used to be free-for-alls all over the bloody field. Everyone picked an opponent then all hell would break loose.

During one span of his spectacular career, Jock's teams won 96 straight. Their downfall came in 1961 when they met Riverside in the morning, scoring a win, then coming back the same night to meet Pomona. The latter was UCLA's Waterloo as Pomona took a 1-0 verdict.

Plenty of Alcohol

Stewart is well known to Orange Coast area fans. Five times his UCLA outfits appeared here to meet the pride of the Coast — the Coast Rangers.

Action was held at UCI, Newport Harbor High and Mariners Park, with the Ashcroft Trophy going to the winner. Big crowds and spirited action marked most of the duels.

And Jock added color to the scene with his loud chastisement of players, his good natured bitching about facilities and his marvelous medicine chest, which always seemed to have plenty of alcohol, if not enough iodine.

No Direct Reply

He brought his best-ever team to UCI earlier this year and blasted the Rangers. That prompted me to ask how many of his pro-appearing performers were actually enrolled at UCLA.

The question brought 30 seconds of continuous laughter — but no direct reply.

FRAZIER HURT IN CYCLE CRASH

Frazier, a native of Beaufort, was riding double on a motorcycle with his 14 year-old brother-in-law when it collided with an automobile. Frazier was driving.

Halos Try Ellis Against Yanks After 5-2 Loss

That just seems to be the story lately of New York Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle. First he announces he's quitting baseball.

Then he comes through with a game-winning hit and plays like the man who tore up the American League in years past.

Mantle has announced he's quitting when the current season is over.

And to be true to form, Monday night he clouted his 14th home run of the season as the Yankees pasted the California Angels 5-2. It was their 16th defeat in their last 22 games.

Football TV Is Hurting

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the football boom, television in the United States and Canada finds itself in the position of a team that can't gain, yet dare not kick.

"All of us are in trouble — we're hurting," one American television executive says. Another official of a U. S. network explains:

"None of us are making money on football, but none of us would dare give up our contracts. In fact, we're trying for more. It's a funny business. You blow a Saturday or a Sunday afternoon and you blow an entire audience for the weekend."

And Murray Chercover, president of CTV, Canada's other network, says the production cost of football is out of proportion "in relation to the advertising efficiency."

There's no doubt about fan interest in football being at its peak. Sellout crowds are the rule rather than the exception. So why are the television people worried.

All-Star Football Boss

North's Hill—a Man Used to Winning

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The North, besides having a pretty fair group of athletes going for it, has something else in its favor.

He is Herb Hill. A man used to winning.

And he doesn't have any plans for a change in the upcoming county North-South All-Star football game extravaganza at Orange Coast's LeBard Stadium on August 22.

Hill has guided his Loara Saxon teams to three Irvine League championships out of the last four seasons. The only miss was when Loara was shifted to the Crestview League for the '66 campaign.

He came there after serving several years as an assistant coach specializing in line play.

The former Santa Ana High and Santa Ana College defensive whiz started his coaching career at Garden Grove High in 1953 where he served three years as line coach.

From there he went on to serve as head coach at Rancho Alamitos High for another three years and then migrated to Orange Coast College under Steve Musseau.

After two seasons as the line coach of Orange Coast, Hill served one year with Cal State (Long Beach), again as an assistant coach . . . specializing in the line aspect of the game.

Hill started the glory trail at Loara in his third season when the Saxons cremated Irvine League competition before finally falling in CIF playoff action, 14-13, in the semifinals to eventual CIF AAA champion San Marino.

Loara culminated an undefeated regular season in 1965 with another Irvine circuit title before dropping a 13-0 decision to West Covina in the semifinals of the AAA CIF eliminations. West Covina went on to take it all.

When queried on why the remarkable success at Loara, Hill comments, "It's a very cohesive group with the coaches, players and parents in a united effort. The Anaheim School District's policies give all phases of education a chance to be a winner. There's a lot of pride involved."

Hill started out as a guard for Santa Ana High and went on to start at defensive guard for the Santa Ana Dons in the 1949 Junior Rose Bowl game against Little Rock. Little Rock won the thriller, 25-19.

Looking at Draft

Picking 15 Top Angels Is Difficult Chore

Drawing up a list of the 15 most valuable Angels is like listing the greatest of Italy's military heroes.

Yet that's the task that occupies the forefront of general manager Fred Haney's mind these days. Owners from the American League's new Seattle and Kansas City franchises will gather around a table with their nervous peers in Boston three months from now to acquire livestock.

The process begins with the established clubs issuing lists of 15 "untouchables" — those players they wish to protect.

Everybody else — from the big league team to the lowest minor league outfit — is up for grabs.

But once a player is selected on the first round, the established club can add three more to the untouchable list, so after the first round it gets to be pretty slim pickin's.

Here're the players we think the Angels will protect, listed in our order of merit: 1. Jim Fregosi, 2. Tom Murphy, 3. Bill Harrelson, 4. Jim McGlothlin, 5. Rick Reichardt, 6. Vic Davalillo, 7. Tom Satriano, 8. Aurelio Rodriguez, 9. Andy Messersmith, 10. Ed Kirkpatrick, 11. Rick Clark, 12. Bobby Knoop, 13. Jim Spencer, 14. Roger Repoz, 15. Jarvis Tatum.

Naturally, this list omits some Angels who are generally accepted as being genuine performers, such as Don Mincher and Bubba Morton. But Mincher, 30, is having a poor year and there are others who can play first base for the Angels.

Morton is 34. The Angels, of course,

EARL GUSTKEY

hope that he won't be picked for that reason and they'd be delighted. They want Morton but can't afford to protect him at the expense of a younger prospect.

Age is the predominate factor in other exclusions: George Brunet (33), Bob Rodgers (30) and Chuck Hinton (32).

Rojas is 29 and the Angels would dearly love to retain him but Minnie has a bad arm. Nobody on the ball club is more liked than Rodgers but the fact remains he can't hit.

Kansas City and Seattle each get three picks from each existing club. Add that fact to the two-divisional setup in the American League next year and you have the new face of baseball.

The Angels are in the Western Division with Oakland, Minnesota, Chicago, Seattle and KC. One thing is for sure — they won't finish eighth.

BROHAMER DEPT. — There's a good chance Huntington Beach's Jack Brohamer will finish the current baseball season in the Pacific Coast League.

The Indians told him he'll be advanced to Portland in the PCL if he continues to improve.

Brohamer was home three weeks ago when his first born arrived, eight-pound, 10-ounce John A. Brohamer III.

Chapman Hot, Pumps in 47 For Jabsco

Orco-7's basketball forces tossed away 98 percent of its flickering hopes for a 1968 Costa Mesa Recreation League title at Orange Coast College when it forfeited its match with Golden West College Monday evening.

Orco-7 was forced to forfeit when it showed up with only one man. With only three playing dates remaining in loop competition, league-leading Woody's Wharf owns a commanding three-game lead.

South Stars Shine in Drill, Backs Lauded

Once a day workouts continue in both North and South football camps with the stress being applied to the running game in preparation for the ninth annual North-South All-Star football game August 22 at Orange Coast College's LeBard Stadium.

South tutor Jim Coon called Monday's practice session "one of our best," chiefly because of the improvement of defensive backs Bob Wickersham (Huntington Beach), Rick Deckert (Santa Ana) and Rod Graves of Tustin.

No injuries or changes have occurred in the North camp.

Those who have stood out to date on the defense have been the two linebackers, Jim Berg and Eric Patton of Mater Dei along with Corona del Mar's Doug Casey.

The offense will work on bags while the defense scrimmages.

RAMBLERS INK EX-DON STAR

GURNEY, SHELBY OPEN FILM HOUSE

LOS ANGELES — Dan Gurney and Carroll Shelby, two of the biggest names in auto racing, have announced the formation of Gurney-Shelby Film House.

Noted film producer Arthur Rosenblum has joined the enterprise. He is a veteran film maker of ABC's Wide World of Sports.

"I definitely feel Gurney-Shelby Film House has a bright future," declared Gurney, a Corona del Mar resident.

JACK BROHAMER

Cleveland Promotes Oil City Ace

After leading his team in hits at the Indians' team in the Western Carolina Rookie League, Rock Hill, Brohamer was sent up to the A class Reno team.

Brohamer hit .295 at Rock Hill and was leading the league in doubles and triples when moved up late last month. He hit a home run last week at Reno, where he's hitting .250.

The former Oiler performer has been switch-hitting in pro ball, something he didn't do when playing for Huntington Beach.

He was originally scheduled to finish the season in the Western Carolina League but Rock Hill manager Pinky May recommended to the Cleveland front office that he be promoted.

Reno's season ends September 4. After that, he may play in Cleveland's winter rookie league in Arizona.

Ambitious Cubs Seeking Repeat of '51 Miracle

They've won 28 of their last 38 games. Williams has cracked 12 home runs since the All-Star break and five in his last five games.

Armed with a 13-game lead over the ambitious Cubs, the Cardinals are playing it cool and feel it's only a matter of time before they clinch their second straight pennant.

Not even the fact that today is the 17th anniversary of the beginning of the 1951 New York Giant drive, piloted by Leo Durocher, when the Giants overcame a 13½ game deficit and whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers in a playoff to win the pennant, bothers the Cardinals.

Another Unser Bids For Racing Greatness

By DEKE HOULGATE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Used to be when you heard the name Unser you thought of the hill that Lt. Zebulon Pike found while poking around the West for President Jefferson. One Unser after another has played king of that mountain in the annual hillclimb motor racing classic.

Now, just when Bobby has got us fans used to the fact that Unsers win other places too, along comes Al Unser to top him.

Bobby's younger brother Al has been on the brink of greatness for awhile, but he has just won his first, second, third, fourth and fifth championship races of all time.

So "little brother" Al is second place in the point standings both of the USAC championship division and the stock car division. However, if he kept a diary it would probably read: "14 championship races — I beat Bobby eight times."

The best tribute to Al's fierce competitive pride and ability as a driver comes from brother Bobby.

"I'm tellin' you, I like to beat my brother," Bobby confided once. "I really like beatin' him. If we were to have a race with tricycles I'd break my back to beat him.

"If you want to know, though, I have to work hard to do it. He's good. Maybe I'm the only one knows just how good he really is."

That historic hill is as good a test as any of how good Al Unser is. Bobby runs up the hill every year. Al didn't go there until 1960, and he finished second to his brother. He ran again in '62, finishing second again.

He went back in '64, beat Bobby to break a long chain of his brother's victories and set a speed record in the bargain. Al was back the next year. He won again.

It's difficult to discuss anybody named Unser without constantly flashing back to the 12.5-mile sightseers' road from 9,400 ft. to the 14,109-ft. summit. Their lives seem to center around the uphill time trial in the Rockies.

First came Uncle Joe Unser, who was a Pikes Peak regular until his death in 1929. Next in racing were brothers Jerry Unser Sr., the father who lived not quite long enough to see one of his sons win the Indianapolis 500, and Louis Unser, who was a winner at the hill nine times.

Jerry Jr., oldest of the generation of boys sired by Jerry Sr., won the hillclimb twice before he met his death in 1959 racing at Indianapolis. Al has won twice and Bobby nine times, to tie his Uncle Louie's record. Statistics kept by USAC show that since the road was opened to traffic and to racing 52 years ago Unsers have won at Pikes Peak 25 times.

★ ★ ★

Down here below the clouds, on level ground, Al has been notable this year as the one championship driver who has followed Andy Granatelli's advice and switched his race car over to 4-wheel-drive. His arguments against the United States Auto Club ban of 4WD for the 1970 season are reportedly being given serious consideration.

At the speedway Al crashed only 41 laps after the start when a wheel came off. That's a shame, because Al now wears the Indianapolis 500 results like an albatross around his neck.

Since Indy the writers have been calling Al "the other Unser." As they overlook the fact that there has been somebody named Unser in a race car almost continuously for more than 30 years, the racing press has found a sure way to get under his skin. Al is the Avis of auto racing. He's the champion's kid brother.

Not everybody thinks of him as a kid, however. Al has berated USAC for taking action against 4WD. He's not concerned because he has won five times, placed third, fourth twice and 12th. He argues that 4WD is safer than conventional two-wheel-drive. The rules committee is listening to him, whereas it appeared to ignore the same argument by Granatelli.

★ ★ ★

Everybody's noticing Al Unser these days. As recently as last February at Daytona that wasn't the case.

Al drove the high banks for the first time in the Daytona 500. Late in the race he was running a strong third when he brushed the wall and had to make an unscheduled pit stop. He still finished fourth to break up the Mercury-Ford parade in that important race with his Dodge.

Meanwhile, up in the press box they passed around a sheet to the writers so they could vote for the top rookie. Al's name wasn't even on the list. The stock car racing reporters who cover that race are a pretty wise bunch. They made Al Unser the first "write-in" winner ever to take rookie honors at the Daytona 500.

Al celebrated his 30th birthday the day before this year's Indy 500 at a private family gathering. He has been competing at the speedway on in a race car somewhere for 11 of those birthdays.

From racing modified roadsters around his Albuquerque, N.M., home, Al jumped to sprint cars, campaigning his way through both the California Racing Assn. and International Motor Contest Assn. to USAC's sprint and midget circuits in 1964.

His apprenticeship lasted eight years, and then all of a sudden he was driving in the big time and winning at the hill.

Golf's Gold Dust Twins Fall

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, top money winners in modern golf, scored a 1-up victory Monday over Jug McSpaden and Byron Nelson, the gold dust twins of the 1940s, on the long, long Dub's Dread golf course.

It was a best-ball match in which Palmer, 38, and Nicklaus, 28, spotted the old-timers 50 yards on the tee for each hole. A gallery of about 10,000 followed the action.

The match was even going into the 17th hole, a 604-yard, par 5 monster for the younger men.

Then all four men shot par 4 on No. 18.

Par on the gigantic course, which can measure 8,100 yards, is 36-36—72. Palmer and Nicklaus played it at 7,646 yards and each shot 35-36—71 for 1-under-par.

Palmer had three birdies and two bogeys, while Nicklaus birdied the first hole and had pars the rest of the way.

"Are you sure I had only one birdie?" Nicklaus said. "I felt like I had eight. This is the longest course I've ever seen."

Nelson, 56, of Fort Worth, Tex., shot 36-35—71 with two birdies and one bogey. The home club pro, 60-year-old McSpaden, shot 35-39—74, with two birdies and four bogeys.

"I played much better than I expected to," Nelson said. "I was worried before I came up here. I was so pleased to get to play with Jug that I got keyed up and played real well."

Nicklaus said, "Byron, you played wonderful golf, just wonderful."

"My iron play was not as sharp as I wanted," Nelson said.

"I think Firestone is the most difficult course we play on the tour," said Nicklaus, winner of the $125,000 American Golf Classic at Akron, Ohio, Sunday.

Irvine Bass Haul On Upturn

Ed Trettin of Midway City landed a six-pound, four-ounce bass at Irvine Lake last week, one of the biggest bass catches in recent weeks, according to Lake operator Russ Cleary.

His lure was a rubber purple worm. For his hefty catch, Kurowsky was inducted into Irvine Lake's "Whopper Club."

The Lake will close for the 1968 season on September 15.

GOLFING WITH Arnold Palmer
Golf's first Million Dollar P.G.A. Winner

TWO IMPORTANT SWING CONCEPTS

Every serious golfer should understand the vital concepts of "clubhead path" and "swing plane."

Illustration #1 shows the proper path of the clubhead in the hitting area. Note that it moves from "inside" the target line to along this line, and then it continues back inside. Never should it pass beyond the imaginary target line. If it does move outside, the clubhead must move across, rather than into, the ball during impact. An offline shot must result.

Illustration #2 shows how the plane of the swing—upright, normal, or flat—affects the level of the clubhead in the hitting area. If the swing is too upright, the clubhead is not at ball level long enough to assure consistently solid contact. If the plane is too shallow, the clubhead will be at ball level for a relatively long period. However, the golfer's swing will be so flat that the clubhead will not move along the target line long enough.

Golden Glow Surrounds Fall Benefits

Busy as Santa's elves a week before Christmas are members of the Golden Key Auxiliary of the Child Guidance Center, Orange County.

Two major funding events in support of the only mental health center in the county are planned, and arrangements for both are being carried on simultaneously.

First on the fall calendar is the fifth annual Fete d'Automne, and tickets for the luncheon and fashion show now are available for purchase. They may be obtained from any auxiliary member or by calling Mrs. William Hanna, 847-3341, or Mrs. John Wyatt, 536-6836.

Mrs. Robert Blau is general chairman of this year's fashion fantasy which will feature the newest autumn and winter styles from the May Co.'s South Coast Plaza store.

Others assisting with the Oct. 19 benefit, which will begin with an 11:30 a.m. social hour in the Sheraton Beach Inn, include the Mmes. Dale Dunn, co-chairman; Paul Phillips, president; Frederic Forster, second vice president; Bob Goodson, Hanna Wyatt, Raymond Morehouse, William Dawes, James Hughes, Jack Greeley, Cy Peterson and Stanley Ruiz.

The next meeting of the fashion show committee will take place at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 20, in Mrs. Blau's home.

Meeting today are members of the auxiliary's bazaar committee, the second major benefit scheduled to take place Dec. 3 in the Community Methodist Church.

Hosting the meeting were the committee's chairman and co-chairman, Mrs. Dawes and Mrs. Fabian Gomez. Among many items which will be donated by members are toys, homemade candy and baked goods, boutique, Christmas decorations and novelties, flower arrangements, living plants and the auxiliary's cookbook.

Highlight of the bazaar will be the flea market, handled by Mrs. Hanna. Among the articles of used merchandise, all outstanding values, which will be offered through this section are pieces of brass from India and exceptionally nice dolls.

The cookbook, comprised of recipes donated by members of all the center's support groups, may be obtained any time by calling Mrs. Goodson, chairman, at 847-3340, or Mrs. Phillips 962-3757.

Summer Calendar Shows Progress

Admiring the beautiful doll are (above) Mrs. Fabian Gomez, co-chairman of the bazaar, and Leila Abraham, 23, month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abraham.

At a committee meeting today, Mrs. Dawes announced that she will welcome the assistance of all auxiliary members in preparing for the benefit. Additional information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Gomez, 847-5866.

Tickets now are on sale for the group's first major benefit of the coming season — the Fete d'Automne, a luncheon and fashion show which will take place Saturday, Oct. 19.

Irate Aunt Shutters Over Picture's Dreadful Development

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister has entered her 15-year-old daughter in a beauty contest and it is making us all sick. Bettylou is built like a Swedish 20-year-old, if you get the picture. She gets A's from the men teachers and is flunked by the women teachers. I hope you get THAT picture too. All the emphasis has been on looks and figure and sex appeal and the poor kid is going to end up a professional party girl if something isn't done to open her mother's eyes.

Last night we were at my sister's house for dinner. There were 10 of us present — all family. My sister said, "Honey, why don't you model the bathing suit you're going to wear in the contest? It will be good to practice walking."

ANN LANDERS

In five minutes Bettlou was sashaying through the living room in a bikini that didn't have 50 cents worth of material in it. My brother-in-law Herman almost swallowed his dentures which surprised me because Bessie (his wife) has been referring to him as "my dead battery" for the last 10 years.

I like beauty as well as the next person, but I don't see anything beautiful about a 15-year-old girl showing her behind to the whole world. Please print this letter so my sister can see it. She'll know it's for her and I hope it helps. — DORIS

DEAR DORIS: Here's the letter but don't expect it to change anybody's mind. I feel sorry for any girl whose brains are in her bikini. Obviously Bettylou's mother has encouraged her along these lines and one day the chickens will come home to roost.

DEAR ANN: Your frankness is refreshing and I admit I enjoy it when you tell a reader off. Now, perhaps it is my turn to get told off, and I hope you will not spare the horses if you think I have it coming.

Teddy and I have been married 11 years. We have no children. Teddy is a good husband and I am trying my darndest to be a good wife.

His job has brought him to this foreign country which I hope you will not name because I wouldn't want to insult the people. Teddy signed up to stay here 18 months. Four months have passed and I am so miserable I could die. I can't speak the language. The climate is wretched. Living conditions are primitive. The food is dreadful. The prices are high. The people are not friendly.

I have considered going back home, getting a job and saving some money. Teddy has begged me to stay. I should tell you he is very attractive and the women here have that look in their eyes when they talk to him at social gatherings.

What should I do? — NEED YOUR WISDOM

DEAR NEED: Some people don't know when they've got it good, Lady. You should read the letters I get from wives whose husbands are fighting the war in a neighboring country. They would give their eye teeth to be there with them — in the "wretched" climate, eating the "dreadful" food and paying those high prices.

Get off your back porch and quit griping. Learn the language and make yourself useful. The orphanages and hospitals over there can use a strong, healthy American girl.

What is French kissing? It is wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the DAILY PILOT enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Susan Nelson Becomes Bride

MRS. EDWARD G. WARMINGTON JR.
Bay Area Honeymoon

Arrangements of yellow and white gladioli and marguerites decorated the altar of St. James Episcopal Church, Newport Beach Saturday afternoon for the nupital ceremony of Susan Nelson and Edward George Warmington Jr.

The Rev. John P. Ashey performed the double ring rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Nelson and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Warmington, all of Newport Beach.

Escorted by her father down the aisle featuring a white runner and candles, the bride wore a floor length white silk organza gown with an alencon lace bodice and sleeves. The lace was repeated in her crown which caught her fingertip illusion veil, and forming her nosegay were white roses and stephanotis.

Floor length gowns of dotted Swiss over yellow taffeta with white velvet and venise lace trim, yellow fabric bows as headpieces and French bouquets of yellow and white flowers were selected for her entourage.

Mrs. William Warmington of Corona del Mar served as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Gene Barrow of San Fernando Valley, Miss Melinda DeBerard of Ontario and Miss Beth Heck of Newport Beach, Pi Beta Phi sorority sisters of the bride and Miss Lori Nelson, the bride's sister was the junior bridesmaid. Kris Nelson, another sister was the flower girl.

The bride, a 1965 Children's Home Society debutante, is a graduate of Newport Harbor High School and attended the University of Southern California where she majored in education.

Her husband attended the same schools and is a business and marketing major.

MRS. GEORGE SMEATHAM
Avalon Honeymoon

Faye Kathleen Forsyth New Mrs. Smeatham

George Edward Smeatham of Chicago claimed Faye Kathleen Forsyth as his bride during the double ring nuptials conducted by Leslie Schwartz in Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Gowned in royal blue crepe floor length gowns with light blue lace bodices and light blue chiffon overskirts were maid of honor Miss Inez Smeatham of Huntington Beach and bridesmaid Miss JoEllen Alderson of Dana Point. Both carried bouquets of white carnations trimmed with blue.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Inez Anthony of Chicago, asked the bride's cousin, Brian Wolf of Oxnard, to be his best man. Ushering was the bride's brother, Frank Forsyth. Attendents were Michael Houraney of Anaheim and Tom Balint of Huntington Beach.

The Huntington Beach Recreation Center provided the setting for the reception, which featured a buffet supper and music by the Eddie Dykes Band. Assisting the bride's mother were Mrs. Ken Miers of Costa Mesa and Mrs. Jack Prather of Huntington Beach.

To Live in Stockton

Los Altos Wedding

Honeymooning in Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. R. William Rose following their wedding last Saturday afternoon in the Los Altos Methodist Church.

The bride is the former Linda Royer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. Quentin Royer of Huntington Harbour.

Miss Jan Royer was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were the Misses Margie and Susie Royer, the bride's twin sisters; Marketta Mattila, her AFS foster sister from Finland; and Janet Prosser, Lesley Greer and Linda May, the bride's Delta Gamma sorority sisters.

Attending the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rose of Long Beach, were Ron Berberian of Stockton, best man, and Jim Hughes, Whittier; Ross Shoemaker, San Jose; Bill Kutzer, Sacramento, and Bob Horvath, Huntington Beach.

Following the wedding a reception for 300 guests took place in the home of the bride's parents. Special guests attending were Mrs. R. W. Royer and Mrs. R. C. Eshelman and Mr. and Mrs. William Crooks, grandparents of the newlyweds.

The bride is a graduate of Marina High School and now is majoring in biology at the University of the Pacific, Stockton.

Her husband, a graduate of Wilson High School, Long Beach, was graduated from the University of the Pacific where he also obtained his masters degree. He presently is teaching at the university.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Friends could prove expensive today. Means tendency exists to be extravagant. Realize simplicity can represent quality.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stress harmony, diplomatic approach to domestic problems. Adjustment is required at home. Study TAURUS message. You tend to act on impulse today. Control temper. Be courteous — then you gain.

Loan Rate Boost To Aid Students

By SYLVIA PORTER

President Johnson has just signed a law extending until Oct. 31 the federal-state guaranteed student loan program. The key part of the extension is a raise in the interest rate students in college, vocational, business and technical schools must pay to banks and other lenders from today's obsolete 6 percent to a new, realistic ceiling of 7 percent.

The emergency law is designed to expand the number of loans being made to students between now and September, when Congress is expected to pass similar legislation as part of the Higher Education Act Amendments of 1968, eliminating the October cut-off date.

IN BRIEF: the undergraduate student can, in most states, borrow up to $1,000 for each academic year to a total of $5,000. The full-time student in graduate school can borrow now up to $1,500 a year. The combined maximum for undergraduate and postgraduate study is, in most states, $7,500.

If the student's adjusted family income is under $15,000 the federal government pays the entire 7 percent while the student is in college and 3 percent after graduation. If the family's income is $15,000 or more, the student must pay the entire interest both while he's in school and after graduation. (There is a special provision for states which have usury laws setting a 6 percent interest ceiling).

The key purpose of the guaranteed loan program is to relieve middle-income families of at least part of the increasingly unbearable burden of higher education costs for their children.

The student loan program was originally established under the 1965 Higher Education Act and it was supposed to have gone into high gear long ago. But because of the upsurge in interest rates starting in 1966, lenders have found the 6 percent rate far, far too low. As an indication of where rates are now, banks are charging an average total of well over 7 percent for mortgage loans:

Some banks have reserved student loan funds strictly for their favored customers, those in the relatively higher income brackets. Others have simply refused to "buy" a loss loan and have stopped making the loans altogether.

AS A RESULT:

— Only about $248 million in loans was made to only about 330,000 students in the first full academic year ending in June 1967; the goal was $700 million to 963,000 students.

— Only about $435 million in loans was made to about 515,000 students in the fiscal year ended June 30; the goal was to provide loans for 560,000 students.

— Only a disappointingly low percentage of the nation's banks are now actively involved in the loan program.

EVEN AN interest rate of 7 percent won't guarantee that all of the nation's lenders will grant student loans to all applicants. The averages underline the fact that banks and other lending institutions can make bigger profits on other loans.

But the prospects certainly have been enhanced by the hike to 7 percent.

Model Pageant Here to Stay

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The kindly, bespectacled gentleman seated on the aisle watched the stewardess sashay back and forth, as male passengers are wont to do, and then said: "How would you like to be a model?"

THE STEWARDESS had heard it all before. Withering him with a glance that took in his graying hair, she said: "Don't you think you ought to get a new line?"

Paul Levitan might have explained but why entertain the other travelers further? He went back to his newspaper and the stewardess will learn here that she turned down a chance to compete in the "Model of the Year Pageant" on CBS-TV Sept. 14.

LEVITAN, director of special events for CBS and producer of the pageant, lends an eye himself now and then to his professional scouts who this year covered 55 cities and 10,000 miles in search of girls with what they call "The Look" — the talent to dramatize a fashion in a single photograph.

It is a rare quality and highly perishable. Levitan says it rarely lasts beyond the age of 23. Some remain in public notice after that but more as personalities than as competitive models.

THE MODEL of the Year Pageant was televised for the first time last year, caught on immediately and this year goes out a sa 90-minute program for 220 stations. Levitan, who was the original TV producer of such shows as "Miss America", "Miss Universe" and the "Miss Teenage America Coronation" presumably knows whereof he speaks when he says it is here to stay.

"Unlike other pageants these girls are especially chosen because they photograph well," he explained, "and consequently are the most photogenic batch on TV. This year we've got new lenses that will catch even the subtlest skin tones. The girls are tall as well as beautiful and intelligent — they have to take a written examination, you know — and the public reacted to these qualities last as it did to the styles they wore from bikinis to ball gowns.

Levitan loks for girls from 5 feet 6 and 110 pounds to five feet ten and 125 pounds and from 18 to 23 years old. They can be models who have had not more than one national magazine exposure but the right height, apperance and flair are the important qualities not previous experience. Last year there were 15 finalists and so many attractive girls had to be eliminated that this year there will be 30 finalists ,the pick of 15,000 to 20,000 girls screened during the year.

THE MODEL SEEKERS will go anywhere anytime to look at a likely candidate. One tracked down a report of a lovely girl dining at the elegant Forum restaurant who was said to look a bit like Jean Shrimpton, the famous British model. He found that it was Miss Shrimpton.

When he isn't thinking about models Levitan wonders about his Miss Teenage America Coronation program. The contestants are 13 to 17 years old. But teenagers these days are so mature Levitan has to take into consideration the possibility that one of these days a teenage winner will actually look older than Miss Universe or, for that matter, the Model of the Year!

Johnson & SON

STRAIGHT From The SHOULDER

WE WILL NOT INSULT YOUR INTELLECT
With
"STRIP DOWN" PRICE ADVERTIZING

Like all other dealers, we are now closing-out our 1968 Inventory, but we are not selling below our cost (AND NEITHER IS ANY OTHER DEALER.)

Stock No. 4124, '68 Cougar, 289 cubic V8 engine, concealed headlights, sequential turn signals, E70x14 wide tread tires, bucket seats, 100% nylon carpet, 4 sets seat belts, shoulder harness, 3-speed std. trans., life guard safety features deluxe wheel covers. This lightly equipped car sells for just under $2700, but obviously the car would have limited appeal.

Perhaps you want air conditioning. Let's look at Stock No. 4123: Add to above equipment air conditioning, tinted glass, sports console, power disc brakes. $3396 kills this Cougar. And so on through our scores of brand new '68 Cougars.

Then, of course there are our demonstrators. They must go too.

BUT MAYBE

There's just no malarky at Johnson's. We strive to be helpful. We believe that it's fun to keep promises. And we wouldn't still be here after fifteen years if we weren't competitive.

WHAT'S MORE

This advt will not appear in any other newspaper. Our bargains are for our neighbors.

TV's Convention News

Although news reporting on network television has greatly improved in recent years, it still has shortcomings which reveal themselves most vividly in such maximum viewer interest situations as a national presidential nominating convention.

A contributor to today's Mailbox column (below on this page) objects to a telecast technique which she describes as "directed thought" — the tendency to be too quick to comment on and analyze a just-completed speech or action.

Others resented the cynical camera direction which ignored nomination seconders at center stage while picking up almost anyone with an opinion to express or a rumor to convey on the convention floor. Many of the speakers ignored on TV were personalities in the news — regional, if not national — and the TV audience was entitled to see them in action and to hear at least a sampling of what they had to say.

The stamp of show business is still on TV news presentation — and especially on the floor directors who decide instantly what the cameras will pick up in a fast-moving situation. They are, for the most part, not editors, nor even particularly "editorially minded." As a result, they don't recognize that what to their showmen's eyes close to the "performance" may seem dull, indeed, may be vitally important in giving the public a balanced view of a major event.

A flaw in TV's performance showed in the tendency of newscasters on the floor to become "stars" of the show instead of mere reporters of the news as they should be.

Electronic and print media may not fairly be compared in their abilities to convey information in depth to the mass audience day in, day out. By their very immediacy, on-the-scene TV and radio broadcasts of complex events, such as political conventions — or riots — accentuate the necessity for the more detailed, balanced reports in the newspapers and magazines.

Perhaps viewer complaints over the Miami Beach performance will bring some basic changes at the Democratic convention in Chicago. Perhaps there can be more camera attention to the men who occupy center stage there, less to frivolous floor gossip — while continuing the effort to ferret out everything going on off camera which has, or might have, real significance.

Electronic Vote Counting

Orange County not so long ago was laughed about as the slowest vote-counting entity in the state, often being days behind all other counties.

Then the county adopted the Coleman system when there were some 320,000 registered voters in the county — not so much for greater speed, though that was a factor, but for greater accuracy and lower cost compared to worker-fatigued hand counting. It saved $300,000 a year, enough to pay for itself as of this year.

Now, with a projected 570,000 registered voters in November, the Coleman system is overburdened. Various newer kinds of vote counting systems will be tested in the November election and in the June, 1970 primary election and the following November.

In the process, decentralization of vote counting will be a goal so that the system chosen may serve city, school and district elections.

Expensive voting machines, as used in some other areas of the nation, would provide an instant count at closing time in each precinct. But speed is not paramount; accuracy, economy and flexibility are, given reasonable speed.

Some one modern electronic system should emerge from testing as of optimum value to Orange County as a successor to the now overburdened and outmoded Coleman system — good as it has been for its time and place.

Balance of Power Little Understood

Richard Wilson

WASHINGTON — Save your Confederate money boys, runs the popular lyric, for the South shall rise again. It has risen in this 1968 presidential year to hold the balance of power in both political parties, and perhaps in the election.

This is very little understood, particularly in the Midwest and northwest where the South is often regarded as out of the main stream. But the South is very much in the main stream this year, with its boulders of dissent making the channels very hazardous.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is at the mercy of the South. He would have much greater difficulty winning the Democratic nomination without solid southern support, and perhaps could not win it at all.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY at Miami Beach was hung up by the South in its attempt to move completely out of the dark age of Goldwater. From any detached point of view the central issue was placating the South because the mathematics of politics made its support, in one form or another or at least its consent, essential to the victor.

The South's heart lies with Ronald Reagan and George Wallace, not with Dick Nixon, or HHH, or Rocky. The threatening wraith of Wallace hung over the Republicans in Miami Beach, as it will over the Democrats in Chicago.

Both parties — Democrats as well as Republicans — are caught up by the law and order question, mixing up racial disturbances having a social base with criminality and lawlessness having other causes as well. Wallace is the true possessor of the law and order symbol. Humphrey, Nixon and Reagan merely borrowed it for the duration of the campaign.

THE CENTRAL QUESTION at the Republican convention up until nomination was whether or not the Republican alternative to Wallace, Reagan, could so shake Nixon's southern support as to block his nomination.

The central question at the Democratic convention will be Humphrey's ability to satisfy the South, and particularly Texas, with a vice-presidential nominee while still holding a maximum of northern liberal support.

Both these questions were forced by the Wallace candidacy and the possibility that southern states would deny sufficient electoral votes to either major party candidate to give him a majority.

The "southern strategy," therefore, has worked, and it is in the course of preventing both political parties moving as rapidly into the "new politics" as many northern elements would like.

THE "NEW POLITICS" as it is represented in the Democratic Party by Senator McCarthy and in the Republican Party by Governor Rockefeller, is nothing more than shaking off restraining conservative influences mainly centered in the South. These influences, of course, are present in the North too, but the South furnishes the weight that shifts the balance.

Republicans may eventually have to ask themselves if their subservience to the "southern strategy" is worth it and if a complete break with the South may not be necessary if the GOP is to become the majority party nationally. For the net result of the southern strategy this year is to threaten the Republican candidate with defeat.

Wallace has exploded the southern strategy. He may carry states that would under normal circumstances be carried by the Republican candidate, and so deny the presidency to the Republican candidate if the election is close in the North.

THIS IS AN IRONIC turn to the decades-long effort of northern Republicans to build a Republican Party in the South. They may merely have succeeded in tying themselves to compromises which are not acceptable in the natural home of the Republican Party, the Midwest and the Northeast.

Vice President Humphrey will be faced by an acute problem in Chicago. He will be faced by choosing a vice president acceptable to northern liberals and inviting to the dissident McCarthyites, or the kind of more moderate vice-presidential candidate called for by Gov. John Connally of Texas and some of his fellow southern governors.

They ask for a vice-presidential nominee representing a point of view more moderate than Humphrey's. Connally himself would fit that qualifiation. He would also affix on Humphrey more vividly than before the mark of Lyndon Johnson.

So the South marches on, its rebel banners flying.

Ron Finds a Note in His Cornflakes

Art Hoppe

MIAMI BEACH — I have been extremely busy gathering material for my monumental history tentatively titled, "The Making of a Loser — 1968."

One interesting find is a tape recording. The tape, all in a tangle, was discovered lying in a dark and secret passageway in the bowels of Convention Hall shortly before the balloting began.

Unfortunately, the two voices on the tape are not identified. I present a transcript of it here so that my fellow scholars may assist in deciphering its meaning, if any.

"HI THERE, Ron. Thanks a thou for coming."

"Well, golly, Nelson, I'm not a politician. I'm just a plain old citizen. So I don't believe in secret meetings. But when I found your note in my cornflakes this morning. I said, 'Here's the fellow citizen who needs my help all open and aboveboard.' And maybe you'd better douse that light."

"Sure thing, Ron. But what I wanted to ask is how's it going, fella?"

"Well, gee, Nelson, I'm not a politician, you know. But I'm confidently predicting victory on the third ballot."

"And I'm confidently predicting victory on the fifth ballot. Unfortunately, it looks as though he's going to get it on the first or second ballot. We've got to stop him, Ron."

"GOSH, NELSON, I'm not here to stop anybody. I think that'd be pretty negative. How do you figure we could do it?"

"A dream ticket, fella. You and me. We let the delegates know they can have us as a package. Why, a dream ticket like that will steamroller the convention, unify the party and sweep the country."

"Well, golly, Nelson, I'm not a politician so I don't make deals. But you've got yourself an agreement."

"Great, fella. Our dream ticket will take it on the first ballot And, oh, what a campaign. You'll capture the south and the rural areas with your kooky conservative ideas. And I'll wow 'em in the north."

"With your funny minded pinko liberalism."

"Look here, fella, who're you calling pinko?"

"WHO'RE YOU calling kooky? You can take your dream ticket and . . ."

"Now hold on, fella either we softpedal our differences and get together to stop him or . . ."

"Not being a politician, I will never compromise my American ideals."

"Or it's back to the State House for both of us."

"But fortunately, I've always admired your stand on the issues, Nelson, and I'm sure we'll get along just fine. Put her there, partner. And just let me add that . . ."

"Here's my hand, dear friend. And just let me say that . . ."

Both voices together: "I know you'll make a wonderful Vice President."

DUE UNDOUBTEDLY to some technical difficulty, the tape at this point tails off into a babble of screeches, squawks, thumps and moans. This is a shame for otherwise one feels it would be of great importance.

To the Editor:

I have always respected NBC for objective reporting, good taste and good sense. Last Thursday night the "reporters" decided to editorialize immediately after the acceptance speech. They decided to "tell" people what the reporters heard in Richard Nixon's acceptance speech.

This was colossal nerve and prejudiced all that Mr. Nixon had inspired in that speech.

TO THE LISTENERS and watchers, Nixon's command of the convention built and built. At first people listened rather resignedly and some frankly looked disaffected. By the time he was half way through he had the delegates on their feet and by three quarters of the way he had them absolutely silent, attentive and with him.

It seems to me that Mr. Vanocur's remarks about his speech being "as good as it should have been" did not allow the people to draw their own conclusions.

"REPORTING" SEEMS to be becoming "directed thought" and is taking dangerous and unfair advantage of those who listen and watch the candidates. Too many people are influenced by opinions voiced by those men whom they see often in a news reporter's role.

Even David Brinkley remarked that news media editorials should not be taken so seriously (in connection with the turnabout of the New Mexico Governor). However, the opinions expressed so closely following Mr. Nixon's speech prompted this letter in angry protest to NBC editorializing and not having the good taste to at least wait a few hours to let the effect of the speech be absorbed and reflected on by the listeners.

To the Editor:

An article appeared in your columns on July 31 regarding the remarkable scholastic achievements of veterans at Orange Coast College. Unfortunately, a typographical error garbled a reference to veterans at the University of California, Irvine.

To set the record straight, we currently have 43 students continuing their enrollment for this fall under the GI Bill who are veterans of the Korean war. IBM information cards are currently being compiled for newly admitted students eligible for veterans assistance under the GI Bill. Therefore, statistics are not currently available on returning veterans from Vietnam.

While we have not developed facts and figures comparing veterans to non-veterans, I am under the impression through my contact with these fine young men that their general scholastic record at Irvine is good, and probably compares favorably with the record at Orange Coast College.

Air Traffic Problems Grow

Allen-Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — Two near-tragic "near-misses," involving campaign planes of presidential candidates, are worrying political planners and federal authorities as the 1968 campaigning moves towards its busiest final phase.

The two incidents helped to dramatize air traffic problems and convince economy-minded Senate and House members that more money should be invested in airway safety. Additional funds, voted by Congress before its convention recess, will not help this year, however.

Soon after Labor Day, chartered planes for Republican and Democratic candidates will begin their cross-country caravans. The third-party campaign of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace will be air-borne too, and, in the campaign's final stages, additional press planes, "truth squads" and the like will add to the congestion.

ALL OF THESE campaign aircraft, most of them fast jets, will move on irregular schedules into airports, large and small, often at their busiest times. Over the campaign years, the air lines and the government's air traffic experts have managed these quadrennial problems without a serious hitch.

Recently, however, senators and House members were advised of two little-publicized encounters which might have made banner headlines. Reporting in closed session to the Senate-House conference committee on the $5.8 billion appropriation bill for the Department of Transportation, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said:

"At Lawrence, Kan., a light airplane at an airport without a control tower cut sharply in front of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's plane as he was landing there to make a speech. The pilot skillfully averted an accident.

"While the late Sen. Robert Kennedy was campaigning on the west coast in the town of Roseburg, Ore., an airplane landed on the same runway as his plane but in the opposite direction, and they narrowly missed."

IN ADDITION to providing additional air traffic controllers, an action which was highlighted by traffic slow-downs at major airports, Congress subsequently boosted from $70 million to $120 million the sum budgeted by President Johnson for facilities and equipment to improve air safety.

The additional sums will finance installations of different types of radar equipment and improvements for control towers at locations across the nation. Small, ill-equipped airports were earmarked for improved equipment along with the overtaxed air terminals in large cities.

The final congressional action, however, was still $71 million short of the $191.5 million outlay recommended by the Federal Aviation Administration and initially approved by the Senate. Federal experts must now sort through the list of equipment needs across the nation to develop a $120 million listing of priority projects for immediate attention.

Dear Gloomy Gus:

Gore Vidal lamented on TV that the rich five percent of Americans have 20 percent of the wealth and the poor 20 percent only five percent of the wealth. That leaves 75 percent of the people with 75 percent of the wealth — the widest distribution of individual wealth of any country in history.

The chief difference between a true writer and a propagandist is that the propagandist writes to persuade others, while the true author writes to make the truth more clear to himself — clarity comes first, and only then communication.
