'Nude' Mesa Cook Nabbed by Police

A restaurant cook who was allegedly cavorting in the nude at an intersection was jailed early today, captured following a 70-mile-per-hour chase by Costa Mesa City Manager Fred Sorsabal, who pursued the suspect's car into Fountain Valley.

The Costa Mesa Police helicopter Eagle II, plus ground patrol units and Huntington Beach police, along with Fountain Valley officers were eventually involved in the speedy midnight motorcade.

James R. Ayres, 24, of 336 E. 20th St., Costa Mesa, remained in custody this morning, booked into jail on charges of reckless driving and indecent exposure.

Huntington Beach Police Officer James Cutshaw finally succeeded in pulling over Ayres' sport sedan at Ellis Avenue and San Antonio Street in Fountain Valley shortly after midnight.

Sorsabal told police that he, his wife Marlene, their two teenaged sons and a young friend were returning home from an evening out, with son David, 16, driving, when they first encountered the naked man standing in the intersection of Suva Circle and Mesa Verde Drive.

The city manager dropped off his passengers at their nearby home and sped back after reporting the incident.

Thieves Get $250 Steaks at Hilton

Burglars who entered the kitchen area after the restaurant had closed for the night carried off steaks valued at $250 from the Hilton Inn, Laguna Hills, during the weekend, Orange County Sheriff's officers reported today.

Deputies said witnesses told them they saw two men leaving the hotel at high speed in a yellow jeep shortly after the choice cuts of meat were taken from a walkin freezer.

CIA Jobs Remain Mystery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major CIA activities have had presidential approval, according to both Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.).

But just what those activities were is still a big mystery in Washington and still provoking debate.

Meanwhile, a key Rules Committee member said today he will propose abolishing a special House CIA investigating committee because it has been torn by dissension.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, (D-Calif.), said he would introduce the resolution to disband the House Select Committee on Intelligence because of a move by five of the committee's seven Democrats forcing the resignation of the chairman, Rep. Lucien Nedzi, (D-Mich.).

Rockefeller, whose commission report on the CIA was released last week, said Sunday one reason the panel did not develop conclusive evidence on alleged CIA foreign assassination plots was because so many persons implicated in them are dead.

He hinted his commission may have obtained information President Kennedy and his brother, former attorney general Robert Kennedy, were involved in the alleged plots but he emphasized none of the secret information was strong enough to support conclusions of guilt.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate committee investigating the CIA, backed up Rockefeller by saying no major CIA action, such as an assassination, "would have taken place without the president knowing about it."

He also said Sunday he had seen no evidence any CIA assassination plots were ever at-

Nine Die in Bus Crash in Scotland

From Wire Services

Police said nine passengers were killed. Another 33 were hospitalized, 22 of them in serious condition.

Eyewitnesses said a truck tire blew out and that the vehicle ran out of control on a straight stretch of road and ploughed headlong into the bus.

It was the second bus accident involving elderly persons in Europe in two days. Sunday, a tour bus carrying pensioners careened down a mountain road in Villach, Austria, killing 21 persons and injuring 23.

It was Austria's worst bus disaster, and authorities said brake failure was the cause.

Police said smoke was seen coming from the brakes as the Austrian bus started down 7,106-foot Mt. Dobratsch. One survivor said bus driver Josef Ramsbacher yelled "Jump off — the brakes are failing!" before the bus hurtled over an embankment and tumbled 120 feet into a rocky ravine.

The passengers were old-age pensioners from Carinthia province. Ramsbacher, father of four, was among the dead.

The roof of the bus was torn off and many of the passengers were killed when they were thrown out of the vehicle. Several survivors pinned beneath the wreckage were freed only after a crane was brought in to pull the debris off them.

"It was dreadful," said Helmut Neumueller, who witnessed the crash. "The roof of the bus was torn off. The dead were scattered over a wide area. And the injured lay among them crying for aid."

Dr. Brigitte Norvath, a physician, said some of the dead had

Court Nixes Fixed Fees in Real Estate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down minimum legal-fee schedules for real estate transactions today in an 8 to 0 decision which probably also spells the end of fixed fees for other legal services.

The court ruled that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law whenever the fees affect interstate commerce.

The decision was a victory for a Virginia couple, Lewis H. and Ruth Goldfarb, which challenged the Fairfax County Bar Association's fixed minimum fee for legal work required when they bought a home.

It also was a victory for the

Sanity Hearing Slated

Steven Craig Hurd was found guilty of two murders today by an Orange County Superior Court jury which must now determine if the bushy-haired defendant was sane when he participated in two killings within a 24-hour period.

The jury ended two days of deliberation by ruling that Hurd, 25, was guilty of first degree murder in the slayings five years ago of Mission Viejo teacher Florence Nancy Brown and service station attendant Jerry Wayne Carlin.

Hurd was with convicted killer Arthur Craig "Moose" Hulse, now 21, on June 2, 1970, when Hulse used a roofer's ax to chop to death Carlin, 21, in the restroom of his service station.

It was alleged in Hurd's trial that he repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Brown, 31, of El Toro to death in an Irvine orange grove the next day after the teacher was dragged from her station wagon by the gang of drug-using drifters led by Hurd.

Opening statements in the sanity hearing now faced by Hurd will be delivered later today in Judge Frank Domenichini's courtroom.

Lawyers for both sides have scheduled psychiatrists as witnesses and defense attorney William Gamble hopes to put Hurd on the stand as his final witnes-

German President Visits U.S.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford welcomed West German President Walter Scheel today with a strong reaffirmation of the United States' commitment to defend Western Europe.

In a sunbathed welcoming ceremony on the White House south lawn with full military honors, Ford told Scheel the United States is "strongly committed to safeguarding the freedom of the West."

"We remain committed to the freedom and security of Berlin," he said, adding that the United States sees the security of Western Europe as "a true test of what is known as detente."

Scheel, who arrived by helicopter from Williamsburg, Va., where he and his wife spent the night, was the first president of West Germany to visit the United States in 17 years and the second since World War II. He has visited the United States several times, however, as a private citizen.

Both presidents stood at attention while the Marine Corps band played "Deutschland Uber Alles" and the "Star Spangled Banner."

Scheel, in perfect English, told the gathering that his visit mirrored the "excellent" relations between West Germany and the United States.

Referring to World War II, he said the Germans "owe a debt of gratitude to the United States for the help it afforded its former enemies.

"This help will never be forgotten."

But insteal of dwelling on the past, he said, the two countries must focus on the future of strengthening the Atlantic Alliance to deal not only with the problems of common security but to developing a "common approach to economic and monetary problems."

Scheel also invited Ford to visit West Germany. Ford was expected to do so, perhaps in early August should there be an East-West summit meeting following the conclusion of the European Security onference.

El Toro Nursery Loses Money Bag

Deputies said the cash, representing a day's receipts at Green Thumb International, 23782 Bridger Road, was taken from behind the counter while employes were working in another part of the store.

Hurd accepted the two verdicts today with no display of emotion. He is under daily sedation following a California Supreme Court ruling last month that he could be tried on the murder charges provided he is tranquilized at all phases of the trial.

Lawyers for both sides agree that Hurd is only capable of telling the truth or understanding testimony while he is under the supervised sedation.

He faces life in state prison on each of the two convictions if the jury now finds that he was sane at the time of the two killings.

Deputy District Attorney Frank Briseno declined to ask for the death penalty on either conviction when he made his final argument to the jury.

Justice Department, which has waged a long-standing battle against fee schedules established by professional associations. The department supported the Goldfarbs in their lawsuit.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled 7 to 2 that states may not constitutionally prohibit the advertising of abortion services. The court said such advertising is protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

—Agreed to review a ruling of the U.S. court of Appeals in Washington that the Federal Power Commission may not give natural-gas producers built-in authority to shut off the gas supply of interstate pipelines when their contracts expire.

—Declined to review a Kentucky family's claim that its property rights were violated when its land was strip mined without the family's consent. The family does not own the mineral rights to the land in question.

Writing for the court in the legal-fees case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "In terms of restraining competition and harming consumers . . . the price-fixing activities found here are unusually damaging."

He noted that the Goldfarbs could not buy a home without a title examination and that only a lawyer licensed in Virginia could perform the work, so the Goldfarbs "could not turn to alternative sources for the necessary service."

The fee schedule issued by the county bar association established "a fixed, rigid price floor" and the schedule "was enforced through the prospect of professional discipline from the state bar and the desire of attorneys to comply with announced professional norms," Burger said.

"These factors coalesced to create a pricing system that consumers could not realistically escape," Burger wrote. "On this record the bar association's activities constitute a classic illustration of price-fixing."

Lady Lucan Talks

Says Earl Tried to Strangle Her

LONDON (AP) — Lady Veronica Lucan, wife of the missing British earl who is sought in the murder of the family nanny, said for the first time today he had tried to strangle her on the night of the murder.

She told a tense inquest at London's Westminster Coroner's Court: "He thrust two gloved fingers down my throat and we started to fight. During the course of it he attempted to strangle me from in front."

The inquest was hearing evidence on the death of the Lucan family's nanny, 29-year-old Sandra Rivett, who was battered to death in the Belgravia home of the Countess of Lucan last Nov. 7. Lady Lucan, 37, was also badly injured by the nanny's assailant on that day.

Lady Lucan told the Daily Express, "I shall simply tell the court what happened, and if asked I shall reveal the name of the man who attacked me — the man who sat on the stairs afterwards, cried on my shoulder and told me had killed Sandra."

The countess said she waited until the man calmed down and then ran to a nearby pub for help, streaming blood and crying "murder." Miss Rivett's bludgeoned body later was found wrapped in a canvas sack in the basement of the three-story house.

Some detectives have theorized that the murderer wanted to kill the countess and got the governess by mistake.

The 40-year-old earl vanished a few hours after the killing. Scotland Yard, after interviewing the countess, issued a warrant for his arrest for murder and for the attack on his wife. He has never been traced despite reports that he was seen in France, Australia, South Africa and Latin America.

Most Scotland Yard men say they believe Lord Lucan committed suicide in some remote part of Britain. But some senior investigators think he is still alive and being hidden by friends, here or overseas.

County Workers Drop Protests

County employes agreed today to call off demonstrations planned for Tuesday to protest stalled 1975-76 salary negotiations between Orange County officials and the Orange County Employes Association (OCEA).

Tuesday's demonstrations were to have included a before-work rally in Santa Ana Bowl, a mass visit to the board of supervisors meeting and a noon rally in the civic center.

According to OCEA Executive Director John Sawyer, the decision to postpone the demonstrations was made after county negotiators agreed to meet with OCEA officials and a state mediator Wednesday.

At issue in the discussions are wage and fringe benefits OCEA's 9,700 members expect to receive in the coming fiscal year.

One source said the county so far has offered two percent pay raises covering about 2,000 employes and 4¾ percent pay hikes for OCEA's remaining members.

The same source said county negotiators are demanding a three-year salary-fringe benefit contract while the association is holding out for the customary one year pact.

According to James Shelton, the county's chief negotiator, a meeting between himself, OCEA officials and state mediator Tim McCarthy ended in an impasse shortly before midnight Friday.

As a result, militant county workers opened their garages over the weekend to sign making parties.

While Tuesday's demonstrations have been called off, Sawyer indicated today that should Wednesday's meeting end in an impasse the sign-making effort may not have been wasted.

Valley Police Nab Pair in Robberies

An alleged baseball bat wielding bandit and his companion were arrested by Fountain Valley police early today, ending what officers said was a 90-minute market robbery spree in four cities.

In custory are Alfonso Mendoza Jr., 18, of 1497 Purdy St., Midway City, and Richard Kneeland, 20, of 15292 Neece St., Westminster, both on charges of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon, police said.

They are being held at Orange County Jail, and no bail has been set.

Three market clerks and one customer were injured when they allegedly were struck on the arm with the bat.

The spree allegedly started at a Huntington Beach market, then moved to Garden Grove, then Westminster, before the suspects were arrested outside a Fountain Valley market.

Huntington Beach police alleged Mendoza entered the 7-11 Market at Newland Street and Warner Avenue at 11:25 p.m., slapped the bat down on the counter and ordered the clerk to turn over some cash.

She reportedly gave him $100, police said, then he allegedly fled in a car, driven by Kneeland.

Fountain Valley police allege the pair then drove to Garden Grove, where Mendoza entered the Tic Toc Market, 13211 Brookhurst St., smacked the clerk on the arm with the bat, then fled with an unknown amount of cash.

At 12:14 a.m., they allegedly stopped at the Quick Stop Liquor Store, 13690 Golden West St., Westminster, where Mendoza assertedly smashed a glass jar on the counter with the bat, then struck the clerk in the arm, and again fled with an unknown amount of cash, police said.

Mendoza allegedly entered the 7-11 Market at Euclid Street and Warner Avenue at 12:41 a.m., officers said, with the now-splintered bat stuffed into his trousers.

Officers allege he pulled it out as he entered, smashed two glass bottles on the counter, then struck clerk Robert Kaiser, 22, and customer James Stobie, 21, on the arms.

He fled with about $209 in cash, police said, but officers had been signaled by an alarm and were on their way to the market.

The pair was stopped outside and arrested without incident, police said.

The market was the same one in which clerk Mike Finklea, an Orange Coast College wrestling star, was shot and killed last Oct. 31 during a holdup, police said

SS Catalina Said Target Of Sabotage

SAN PEDRO (AP) —Sand was dumped into the main bearings and a main electrical line was damaged on the SS Catalina, the white steamship which ferries passengers to and from Catalina Island, a steamship company spokesman says.

A ship engineer, Raymond Burnham, told police Thursday someone broke into the engine room, put sand in all the bearings then smashed electric cables with a hammer.

Switchboard operators at the Catalina Terminal Berth 95 told police that a bomb threat had been made against the ship Wednesday. They said a man had called to warn that the Army of Cambodia would bomb the ship at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Police are investigating the incident and the April bombing of the Carib Star, the Catalina's sister ship.

The president of Catalina Motor Cruises Robert Filson told police the sand would have caused as much as $40,000 damage if the ship had run with it undetected.

Cuba to Give Money Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cuban government has agreed to return a $2 million ransom obtained by skyjackers in 1972 from Southern Airways, Sen. George S. McGovern, (D-S.D.), announced today.

In a letter to McGovern, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said his government has decided to give "a positive answer" to requests that the money be returned.

McGovern said he received the letter from Castro Friday.

The Rockefeller Commission report was to be given officially today to the Senate Investigating Committee, which Wednesday will hear from CIA Director William Colby testifying under tight security about the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Dinh Diem.

Rockefeller's hint of Kennedy involvement in assassination plots resulted in a statement from two former aides of Robert Kennedy, who accused the vice president of ignoring the conclusions of his own report or "deliberately lying."

Rockefeller said in a broadcast interview (NBC-TV's Meet the Press) the commission failed to complete the assassination investigation because it ran out of time and encountered too many difficulties.

"Let's face it," he said, "many of the people have died who were allegedly involved and others were assassinated in this country tragically."

Asked if he was referring to the Kennedys, Rockefeller replied: "Well, as I said, we have no conclusive information, but the president of the United States and the attorney general of the United States were both assassinated tragically in this country."

He was asked if he meant the Kennedys actually were involved in such plots.

"Well," he said, "I said we had no evidence on the basis of which to draw conclusions. I said it was very difficult to get information because we go back 15 years and many of the people who were involved in the CIA and in the White House are no longer living."

Raiders Get Guns, Ammo From Armory

BELFAST (UPI) — Armed raiders dressed as militiamen overpowered guards at a Northern Ireland militia camp early today, cleaned the armory of its weapons and ammunition and escaped in two stolen military vehicles.

A British army spokesman said the raiders escaped with 148 semiautomatic rifles, 35 submachine guns, three 3.22 rifles, a general purpose machine gun, an automatic pistol and "a substantial quantity" of ammunition.

"They seemed to know exactly what they were after," the spokesman said.

The raiders knocked one guard unconscious and overpowered the rest, tying them up. They then forced open a cabinet to get keys to the armory.

Records Lost?

Delays Bother War Refugees

By Associated Press

Some Vietnamese refugees say they are being delayed from starting their new lives in America because of lost records at "Little Saigon."

The allegations, specifically leveled against the largest volunteer agency handling resettlement of the nearly 20,000 refugees here, were stoutly denied.

Joseph Battaglia, director of the refugee services for the volunteer agency, the United States Catholic Conference, was on record today saying he "could not accept the charges."

He said some refugees are complaining because of "campitis," having been at Pendleton since early May in cases even though 15,000 refugees have left the Marine base permanently for new homes.

"It's not that their file isn't here," Battaglia told an interviewer. "It's going through a mill." He said that means the file was being switched during processing between the agency's two tents and three trailers.

"What the refugee has been doing is going into all the different trailers asking for his file," he said. "Many couldn't get the answer they wanted in their desperation."

On the other hand, a refugee named Quang, No. 2602 in the agency's files, told a reporter he had been mishandled even though when he applied to the agency on May 12 he already had a supposed ticket out — a sponsor, namely his sister and her husband.

Quang said when he appeared five days later, his file only contained two names — his own and his son's. He said he has been trying for a long time to get things straight.

The sponsor question is crucial because officials won't let the refugee finish processing at the refugee camp until arrangements for his future are concluded.

Thang, file No. 240, says he came to the United States Catholic Conference at the beginning of May, but laments: "when I checked with USCC about a week ago, I found my file was gone. I was told the file may have been destroyed because my application was incomplete. But they never informed me it was incomplete."

Thang continued: "I went there many times to speak with the Vietnamese worker. But I was always told he was too busy to see me. I couldn't see anyone else, either. I got so discouraged I left to apply at another agency."

A Vietnamese lawyer at one camp section says that about 100 complaints involving USCC came in during a recent week. He said allegations ranged from claims of misplaced files to alleged bribery for speedy processing help.

Battaglia said it was predictable that the refugees would blame Vietnamese workers. He said the bribery allegation was traced to an unfounded rumor that sponsors could be obtained illegally at USCC.

The USCC spokesman said that some refugees were unhappy by a recent decision by all of Pendleton's helping volunteer agencies that refugees cannot switch from one agency to another once processing starts. USCC bears the largest brunt of would-be switchers because "we just happen to be the largest," Battaglia stated. Dissatisfaction by refugees, he concluded, "is something that exists in all refugee camps. It's born out of their desperation."

Squirrels Go

From Heisler to UCI Hills

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Laguna Beach's fine, furry, friends — the Heisler Park squirrels—are being relocated to new homes in the rolling hills near UC Irvine.

About 200 of the bushy-tailed burrowers have been trapped and removed from their beachside haunts by a team of UCI student researchers. About 100 still remain.

The live-trapping and relocation program was initiated after the students learned that the squirrels were responsible for erosion that has caused portions of Heisler Park to tumble into the sea.

The students are using traps that do not harm the squirrels. Once trapped, they are placed in cages for the trip to Irvine.

The students volunteered to conduct the squirrel study after efforts to erradicate the animals ran aground.

The City Council balked at a proposal to kill the squirrels with an anticoagulant drug and the federal Food and Drug Administration told the city it couldn't experiment with Mestranol, a birth control drug for squirrels.

"The students have not determined what squirrel population level is the most desirable, but we recommend it be zero," said Stanley E. Scholl, city municipal services director.

"If there is a desire to have some squirrels in the park for the people to feed, we recommend that some of them be trapped and maintained in an attractive confinement," Scholl said.

Scholl said the city paid the university $100 to conduct the trapping program. The money was used mainly to buy peanuts to lure squirrels to the traps.

"They also had to pay for three of four parking tickets that they got while trapping," Scholl said.

Scholl said, however, that the students probably will be hired by the city to continue to trap and transport the squirrels to Irvine.

The final aspect of the project will be to plant the Heisler Park bluffs with vegetation that will prevent further erosion of the cliffs.

Profumo Honored By Queen

LONDON (UPI) — John Profumo, disgraced in a 1963 scandal with party girl Christine Keeler, says his return to favor won't change his new life as a social worker.

"I will be back there at my desk on Monday," Profumo said after Queen Elizabeth II honored him for his welfare work among the poor of London's East End.

The Queen made Profumo a commander of the Most Excellent Order of The British Empire Saturday, a dozen years after he resigned in disgrace as Secretary of State for War.

"The past is dead," Profumo said of the Queen's decision to put him on her birthday honors list. "Everybody has been so kind."

Profumo has been working without pay for Toynbee Hall, a welfare agency aiding the underprivileged of London's East End, since being forced from office in 1963.

"All I want is to retain my anonymity and to continue my work at Toynbee Hall," the wealthy Profumo said.

The discovery that Profumo shared the same mistress with Capt. Eugene Ivanov, the deputy Soviet naval attache in London, touched off a scandal that rocked the British establishment.

Profumo told Parliament he never had sexual relations with the woman — 20-year old Chrsitine Keeler — but he later admitted it was a lie. He said he had tried to protect the feelings of his wife, actress Valerie Hobson.

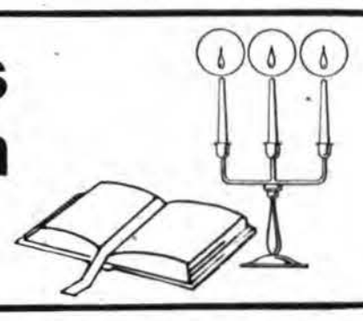
The Secretary of State for War resigned from public life after Parliament found him guilty of contempt of the House of Commons.

The 60-year-old Profumo spends four days a week helping the needy at Toynbee Hall and two more as board member of Grendon, Britain's only psychiatric prison.

Miss Keeler dropped from sight after a fitful career as a model. She married, gave birth to a son and was divorced. Capt. Ivanov was recalled to Moscow before the storm broke.

Former Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, who resigned a few months after the scandal, later said he bore no grudge against Profumo.

Sunday's Sermon



Reported By Tom Barley

(Editor's Note: This is a regular Monday feature in the Daily Pilot, a personalized account of the sermon at a church or synagogue chosen at random from the newspaper's circulation area. The church also will be the subject of a feature story on Saturday's church page.)

Fathers who truly care for their families are not simply making a living but are making a life for their wives and children, Pastor Roy Gesch told his congregation Sunday in a Father's Day sermon at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Laguna Beach.

"Many, many fathers find that their time is more and more limited," he said. "And so many of us face demands that send us from the home before our children get up in the morning and see us come home when they are in bed.

"But despite all our present day pressures, we fathers must give our children every possible moment of our precious time," Pastor Gesch said. "Our churches and our schools, however hard they try, cannot take the place of the father and the vital role he plays in the molding of our children."

Pastor Gesch told the fathers of his congregation that they should admire Sen. Edmund Muskie for his recent statement that, whatever the political pressure on him, the family comes first in the Muskie home.

And he reminded his congregation that the Bible has given us Solomon's wisdom, much of which was devoted to the vital role of the father in a day and age that did not know the pressures and problems of present day America.

"But that is why the father is so absolutely vital in our complex society," Pastor Gesch said. "It is not just the begetting and the providing —it is the example, the dedication, the patience, the teaching and the love.

"It saddens me that here in Laguna Beach this Father's Day so many young people have drifted such a long way from home and so far from their family's way of life," Pastor Gesch told his Lutheran congregation.

"And so very often they don't know why they are doing this," he said. "They don't even know that the fathers who have tried to care for them as only a father can are wondering what went wrong and why it went wrong."

Pastor Gesch conceded that mothers are principally charged with the teaching of their children but it is through the fathers that the children really learn moral values, responsibility and unselfishness, he said.

"He brings to his children the values that we hope will be reflected in them," he said in his moving Father's Day message. "He brings to them his love and his life just as Jesus brought his Father's love to us by the supreme sacrifice.

"Let us not take the entertainment industry's view of the bungling, fumbling yet lovable father as depicted in the 'Life With Father' image as being the typical American father," Pastor Gesch warned.

"Fathers wield tremendous force by the power of their example," he said. "They are the foundation of our family life and the foundation of our family's future."

Widow Burned To Death

MERIDEN, Conn. (UPI) — Witnesses said a man threw gasoline on an elderly widow, set her afire and watched her burn.

Mark Harrington, 22, was to be arraigned today for her murder. Authorities said he had a history of commitments to a mental hospital.

"My God, I don't even know him," screamed Mrs. Bertha "Lillian" Bowen, 71, as her body was engulfed in flames. She died at Yale-New Haven Hospital about noon Saturday, some 24 hours after the incident Friday.

Harrington, formerly of Suncook, N.H., was arrested half a block from the scene of the attack about two hours after it occurred. He was held on a $100,000 bond, pending arraignment in common pleas court.

A spokesman for the New Hampshire State Mental Hospital in Concord said Harrington was in the facility for eight months in 1974. Police records in Pembroke, N.H., showed he had been committed to the hospital on two previous occasions.

Relatives with whom Harrington was staying in Meriden while he searched for a job said they became concerned when they spotted him playing with gasoline in their back yard Friday before the attack on Mrs. Bowen.

"Mark wanted to go back to the hospital but his doctor said he wouldn't commit him," one relative said.

Mrs. Bowen, described as a "very cheerful, very helpful woman who looks and acts much younger than she is," was leaving the Grande Prix Coiffures after her weekly appointment when she was attacked, authorities said.

Harrington was walking up the street, carrying a half-gallon of gasoline under his arm, police said, when he threw the liquid on Mrs. Bowen, set it afire with a wooden match, watched the flames briefly and then fled.

The fire, which left an imprint of her body on the ground, burned off Mrs. Bowen's clothes and melted her plastic handbag, authorities said. Witnesses put out the flames and summoned police.

Marine Held In Rape of Buddy's Wife

The 18-year-old wife of a Camp Pendleton Marine was raped in San Clemente Sunday allegedly by a friend of her husband.

The woman said her assailant had followed her into the motel where she and her husband were living. Her husband had left earlier to go to the marine base.

Weekend Madness

HERE & THERE DEPT. — I knew this past weekend was going to be one for the zanies when the following bumper sticker setup was sighted on an aging foreign station wagon as it plied Pacific Coast Highway in Newport Beach:

On the left-hand side of the rear bumper it proclaimed: "Liberate Women."

Even zanier, rumor had it that the San Clemente Police Department got through the entire weekend without jailing a single serviceman for bar brawling. Maybe it was the Father's Day spirit?

SPEAKING OF Father's Day, numerous dads of our region now have a lot of new neckties to wonder what to do with. Yet some kids likely took advantage of that sale out at South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa to offer father a theme gift.

Yes indeed, the headline on the advertisement advised, Cuckoo Clocks for Dad —Save Now for Father's Day."

Why, you could get cuckoo old dad a clock with the tweetie-bird starting at $14.95 and ranging all the way up to $79.95. And every time it went tweetie, good old dad would think of you.

Seems that there would be a message in there someplace.

MEANWHILE, DOWNCOAST on this very same zany weekend, the county of Orange began lifting junk around in the skies above the hills behind Laguna Beach.

This was the junker airlift. They were using a helicopter to capture abandoned automobiles.

All this came about because since the days of the Model T, people have been using the canyons and ravines behind Laguna to dispose of old clunker cars which have abruptly backfired for the last time and expired.

Thus, over the years, the hilly areas have been turned into a giant junkyard. Before helicopters, there was no way to remove this junk from the pristine foliage of steep arroyos. Now, powerful whirlybirds can drop cable, snare the old junk cars and haul them away through the air to a regular junkyard.

SOME FOLKS HAVE suggested it might have been easier to simply make planter boxes out of the old junk and grow flowers in them. Others favored spray painting the old junk into earth tones so the clunkers would blend into the landscape.

The only real problem with the helicopter junklift, however, could have come because tramps and hoboes have been known to use those old cars for shelter during the night. They sleep in them sometimes.

SO HOW WOULD you like to be a tramp who was just trying to get a little shuteye and abruptly awaken to find yourself swaying on the end of a cable at 15,000 feet and still climbing?

The way other events were shaped this weekend, I'm surprised it didn't happen.

Drink Linked To Passenger Train Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The engineer of a Canadian Pacific passenger train was charged with assault Sunday after the train rammed into the back of an Amtrak train in a switching yard on the U.S. side of the International Railway Bridge, officials said.

They said 34 persons were injured in the collision, none seriously.

Police said Canadian Pacific engineer Lawrence Beebee, 63, of Ancaster, Ont., admitted that he had been drinking before his two-car motor express crashed into a six-car Amtrak train headed for Detroit.

Police said Beebee requested a chemical breath test and registered .16 on the equipment. They said a reading of .10 is the maximum allowable for the safe operation of an automobile.

Beebee told police his train was moving at 10 to 15 miles per hour shortly before the collision.

A Canadian National Railways employe who witnessed the accident said the Canadian Pacific train rammed the rear of the Amtrak train and five cars derailed — the front car of the Canadian train and four Amtrak cars.

Canadian National Railways owns the track on which the collision occurred.

The witness said the Amtrak train was slowing to a stop to enter customs before crossing into Ontario on the railway bridge that connects Buffalo with Ft. Erie, Ont., across the Niagara River.

Russell Boltz of Rochester, Mich., an Amtrak passenger, said the Amtrak train had "virtually stopped" when it was struck.

Israel Sees Hope

Chance for Interim Pact 50-50

By United Press International

Two authoritative Israeli newspapers today quoted senior Israeli officials in Washington as saying there is a 50-50 chance for an Israeli-Egyptian interim agreement as a result of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's conferences there.

Rabin flew home to Israel today from talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. His visit was marred by an Arab terrorist attack on a border village that Israeli foreign ministry officials said was aimed at disrupting his peace efforts.

The Arab terrorist raid Sunday killed three Israelis and wounded six in the frontier settlement of Yuval near the Lebanese frontier. The four Palestinian attackers were killed by Israeli soldiers.

Israeli planes struck Lebanese villages in reprisal and both Israeli and Lebanese artillery dueled across the border today.

The Israelis said Arab gunners hit Metulla, Israel's northernmost town and the nearby settlement of Kfar Giladi. No casualties were reported.

Israeli military sources reported a concentration of guerrillas all along the frontier with the biggest concentration at Aita Ech-Chaab, a village just across the frontier and previous target of Israeli ground assaults directed against guerrilla bases.

Kissinger said Sunday after further talks with Rabin in New York that the positions of Israel and Egypt on an interim Middle East agreement have now been fully clarified beyond any possible misunderstanding.

Kissinger would not go into details but said that during the next few weeks "we will be working in diplomatic channels with all of the parties to see whether it is possible to translate these ideas into concrete progress."

He said he did not expect to resume his shuttle diplomacy efforts, which collapsed last March, in the "next immediate weeks."

In Tel Aviv the newspapers Ha'aretz and Yedioth Aharonoth quoted senior Israeli officials in Washington as saying there is a 50 percent chance for an Israeli-Egyptian interim agreement.

They said Israel expected Egypt to reply within two weeks to proposals on a new pact made by Rabin in Washington.

In Jerusalem, police said they arrested four young people during the night in connection with an alleged plan to attack Arab targets in the eastern sector of the city in retaliation for the guerrilla attack at Yuval.

Bomb Blast Rocks Bank in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A thunderous explosion blasted windows from the Puerto Rican-based Banco de Ponce early today in mid-Manhattan's Rockefeller Center.

A short time later, a person claiming to represent the Weather Underground claimed the group had touched off the blast in support of "the Puerto Rican cement workers."

The only injury reported was suffered by an unidentified driver of a bakery truck who was passing through the area at the time. Flying glass cut him on an arm.

The explosive device, which police said was apparently a medium sized bomb, went off at 1:43 a.m. PDT in a revolving door of the bank at 10 Rockefeller Plaza. The bank is on the corner across from the sunken plaza area containing fountains and the gilded statue of Prometheus.

Windows in the area around the bank were shattered, littering 49th Street with glass. Windows as high as the sixth floor of the RCA building across from the bank were broken.

"It shook the whole floor" of 30 Rockefeller Plaza, said Ed Kane, a Rockefeller Center worker who was on the second floor of the RCA building, headquarters of the National Broadcasting Co.

A female caller to the Associated Press said the explosion was set in support of Puerto Rican cement workers.

About 450 cement workers are on strike in the city of Ponce on Puerto Rico's southern coast. There have been six incidents of violence, including three bombings, since the strike began Jan. 31 against Ponce Cement, the largest cement producer on the Caribbean island.

Negotiations have stalled over no-strike clauses and the length of the contract.

In Puerto Rico, meanwhile, four bomb blasts shook a San Juan suburb today in a terrorist attack against a telephone lines installation company, police said.

The explosions partially destroyed four panel trucks of the Church and Tower Corp., a firm subcontracted by the struck Puerto Rico telephone authority.

U.S. Denies Dirty Grain Shipments

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Grain inspectors here denied charges Sunday that grain elevators in New Orleans and in other port cities employ "blenders" to deliberately add debris to foreign grain shipments.

"They actually add dirt, and that's what the purchaser sees at the other end," Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa) told the Des Moines Sunday Register. "Then he thinks American grain is no good, and that hurts sales."

Harlan Ryan, chief grain inspector for the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) in New Orleans, said he has never found any operator deliberately adding dirt in the 25 years he has been an inspector.

"Operators rarely put anything back into the grain which does not come out of the grain," he said.

Ryan said grain is graded according to the amount of foreign matter in it, and foreign buyers can purchase any grade. Most, however, purchase lesser grade grains because they are cheaper, he said.

New Orleans handles more grain than any port in the world. One-third of the nation's grain exports pass through this port.

California

Typical May-June low clouds and fog hovered inland over Southern California again this morning shielding the sun until midmorning in most areas before sunshine penetrated through haze and smog.

Temperatures were somewhat cooler in the coastal regions but remained hot in the deserts and windy in some of the mountain areas.

Today's high at the Los Angeles Civic Center climbed to 71 degrees, dropping two notiches from Sunday's 73. The overnight low should drop to about 58 degrees.

Light to moderate smog was detected throughout the Los Angeles Basin today, with heaviest concentrations reported in the San Fernando, San Gabriel and Pomona-Walnut Valleys.

U.S. Summary

Showers and thunderstorms stretched across the northern parts of the nation today and down the Eastern Coast.

Tornado sighting totaled eight Sunday, with one each in Florida, Gelrgia, South Carolina and North Dakota. Four sightings were reported in Ohio, where at Cambridge some mobile homes were damaged and two injuries were reported.

Light showers and thunderstorms were scattered across the northern half of the Rockies. A band of showers and thunderstorms roamed through the Central Plains and into the middle and upper Mississippi River valley and thunderstorm activity persisted along the Atlantic coast, but it was beginning to clear as the storm center moved out to sea.

Coastal Weather

Night and morning low clouds and local fog otherwise fair today and Tuesday.

Light variable winds night and morning hours.

Highs today in the mid 60's.

Coastal temperatures will range between 58 and 70. Inland temperatures will range between 60 and 82. The water temperature will be 61.

Stuntman

Kelly Held In Shooting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John "Flagpole" Kelly, a former stuntman who claims the world record for sitting atop a flagpole, was charged Sunday with shooting at houses in the Tujunga area of the city.

The 72-year-old Kelly, sitting in wheelchair, surrendered to police, who had cordoned off the neighborhood and telephoned him to surrender.

Crash Ends Wedding Plan

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Shortly after dining together to discuss their wedding plans, a traffic accident claimed the life of the prospective groom and seriously injured his fiance, officials said.

Their automobile struck a street divider and rolled over twice, instantly killing Henry P. Lay, 44, of Valencia. Passenger Carol Jean Wortham, 33, San Bernardino, was listed in fair condition afterward Sunday at St. Bernardine's Hospital.

54 Nabbed in Drug Bust

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Fifty-four persons, 22 of them juveniles, were arrested by undercover narcotics officers this weekend on drug and alcohol charges at a concert by rock star Alice Cooper.

Police Sunday said charges ranged from drunkenness to use of dangerous drugs. A capacity crowd of 7,000 attended Cooper's Friday night performance at the National Orange Show auditorium.

Accident Kills Deputy

RIVERSIDE (AP) — As they prepared to go hunting, a friend accidentally shot to death a retired deputy while showing him a gun, the Riverside County Sheriff's office said.

Killed was Harry Carl Bewlah, 44, a retired deputy with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's department, officials said Sunday. He had been looking at a .357 magnum revolver owned by Dale Rix.

Boy, 15, Dies in Fire

EUREKA (AP) — A 15-year-old Washington boy died in a fire aboard a fishing boat while in port here, local fire officials said today.

The victim was identified by the coroner as Russell White, of Westport, Wash., who was on a trip on the family boat Marcard with his father.

Party Thrown By Guru

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Maharaj Ji, the 17-year-old guru who was renounced by his mother for allegedly living the life of a playboy, threw a Father's Day party for himself that seemed more of a jet-set gathering than a meditation session.

The guru, whose position as leader of the Divine Light Mission was challenged by his mother after he married his American secretary and bought a Malibu mansion, hosted about 1,000 of his West Coast followers who flew in Sunday on less than 24 hours notice for the occasion.

"I hope you enjoy the grace and bliss that surrounds this house," Maharaj Ji told his guests, who crowded onto the patio and tennis courts of his white split-level home on a cliff overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

ONLY "PREMIES" — the sect's word for believers — were admitted beyond the gates of the mansion.

Those who made their way up the steep, mile-long road leading to the house and past the entourage of security guards outside spent the evening dancing on tennis courts, sipping non-alcoholic punch and applauding the guru during his brief appearances.

Car Drags 2 Victims

MARINA DEL REY (UPI) — One of two women dragged for six blocks Saturday beneath a hit-run driver's car was still unconscious and in criticlal condition today at Marina Mercy Hospital.

Hospital officials reported "no improvement" in the condition of Marla Gable, 23, of Los Angeles, who suffered scrapes, multiple fractures and a crushed foot in the accident. Doctors fear the woman's leg may have to be amputated.

Another woman, Deborah Hendricks, 21, died on arrival at the hospital shortly after the accident early Saturday.

Nixon Strolls

Seen Along Red Beach

A third photograph showed Pat Nixon during one of the recent walks, described as the third in as many days and lasting about 40 minutes.

Cowboy Pickens Lauds Ford's Son

Pickens made the comment as young Ford, 19, wrapped up four days of cowboy fun Sunday with activities such as chasing an 1,800-pound Texas steer and riding horseback.

Ford managed to stay on his horse despite some lively Western action but a Secret Service guard lost his saddle and Pickens himself had a close call on the 24-mile weekend ride at El Capitan Grande Indian Reservation, home of the Mission Indians.

Pickens, who as a former rodeo star isn't just a celluloid cowboy, missed a goring by inches on Sunday's return trip after a wild steer was spooked out of a canyon by Ford and wranglers led by ex-rodeo star Casey Tibbs.

The steer came up behind Pickens' horse, wide horns swiping within inches. "I damn near got off and started running by myself because those horns looked like the wings of a B52," Pickens said.

Ford, who in recent months has worked on a Montana ranch, stayed alongside the steer but he and the other riders were unable to corral him although they gave chase for nearly two miles and just missed herding him in.

$11.5 Billion

Assembly Gets State Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A compromise state budget of about $11.5 billion goes before the Assembly late today.

A two-house committee agreed Sunday on the spending program for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The exact total of the compromise bill could not be determined immediately. Finance Director Roy Bell said it was between the Assembly and Senate versions, which varied by about $86 million.

Assemblyman John Foran (D-San Francisco) who presided over the two house committee, said it would be about $150 million above the $11.4 billion proposed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Democrats have 54 votes in the Assembly, the exact two-thirds required to pass a budget. However, one Democrat, Curtis Tucker of Inglewood, is absent recovering from heart surgery. He was brought to the capitol to cast the deciding vote on the Assembly's version of the budget.

If the Democrats are one vote short on the two-house compromise budget, the Republicans have agreed to cast a courtesy vote so Tucker won't have to make the trip from Inglewood again.

The budget worked out by the two-house committee rejects Brown's proposal to borrow money for college construction with a future bond issue, with the state to pay if voters reject the bonds.

"It's all 'pay-as-you-go'," said Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, the other co-chairman of the two-house committee.

Missiles Inspected By NATO

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger Sunday conducted a tour of this coastal space and missile center for defense ministers and officials of six European countries as a prelude to their NATO nuclear planning group meetings this week.

The NATO defense officials will meet in Monterey today, and Tuesday to discuss possible changes in the alliance's strategy and the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

Weekend Madness

HERE & THERE DEPT. — I knew this past weekend was going to be one for the zanies when the following bumper sticker setup was sighted on an aging foreign station wagon as it plied Pacific Coast Highway in Newport Beach:

On the left-hand side of the rear bumper it proclaimed: "Liberate Women."

You are left wondering which way they really want it. . .

Even zanier, rumor had it that the San Clemente Police Department got through the entire weekend without jailing a single serviceman for bar brawling. Maybe it was the Father's Day spirit?

SPEAKING OF Father's Day, numerous dads of our region now have a lot of new neckties to wonder what to do with. Yet some kids likely took advantage of that sale out at South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa to offer father a theme gift.

Yes indeed, the headline on the advertisement advised, Cuckoo Clocks for Dad —Save Now for Father's Day."

Why, you could get cuckoo old dad a clock with the tweetie-bird starting at $14.95 and ranging all the way up to $79.95. And every time it went tweetie, good old dad would think of you.

Seems that there would be a message in there someplace.

MEANWHILE, DOWNCOAST on this very same zany weekend, the county of Orange began lifting junk around in the skies above the hills behind Laguna Beach.

This was the junker airlift. They were using a helicopter to capture abandoned automobiles.

All this came about because since the days of the Model T, people have been using the canyons and ravines behind Laguna to dispose of old clunker cars which have abruptly backfired for the last time and expired.

Thus, over the years, the hilly areas have been turned into a giant junkyard. Before helicopters, there was no way to remove this junk from the pristine foliage of steep arroyos. Now, powerful whirlybirds can drop cable, snare the old junk cars and haul them away through the air to a regular junkyard.

SOME FOLKS HAVE suggested it might have been easier to simply make planter boxes out of the old junk and grow flowers in them. Others favored spray painting the old junk into earth tones so the clunkers would blend into the landscape.

The only real problem with the helicopter junklift, however, could have come because tramps and hoboes have been known to use those old cars for shelter during the night. They sleep in them sometimes.

SO HOW WOULD you like to be a tramp who was just trying to get a little shuteye and abruptly awaken to find yourself swaying on the end of a cable at 15,000 feet and still climbing?

The way other events were shaped this weekend, I'm surprised it didn't happen.

Drink Linked To Passenger Train Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The engineer of a Canadian Pacific passenger train was charged with assault Sunday after the train rammed into the back of an Amtrak train in a switching yard on the U.S. side of the International Railway Bridge, officials said.

They said 34 persons were injured in the collision, none seriously.

Police said Canadian Pacific engineer Lawrence Beebee, 63, of Ancaster, Ont., admitted that he had been drinking before his two-car motor express crashed into a six-car Amtrak train headed for Detroit.

Police said Beebee requested a chemical breath test and registered .16 on the equipment. They said a reading of .10 is the maximum allowable for the safe operation of an automobile.

Beebee told police his train was moving at 10 to 15 miles per hour shortly before the collision.

A Canadian National Railways employe who witnessed the accident said the Canadian Pacific train rammed the rear of the Amtrak train and five cars derailed — the front car of the Canadian train and four Amtrak cars.

Canadian National Railways owns the track on which the collision occurred.

The witness said the Amtrak train was slowing to a stop to enter customs before crossing into Ontario on the railway bridge that connects Buffalo with Ft. Erie, Ont., across the Niagara River.

Russell Boltz of Rochester, Mich., an Amtrak passenger, said the Amtrak train had "virtually stopped" when it was struck.

Israel Sees Hope

Chance for Interim Pact 50-50

By United Press International

Two authoritative Israeli newspapers today quoted senior Israeli officials in Washington as saying there is a 50-50 chance for an Israeli-Egyptian interim agreement as a result of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's conferences there.

Rabin flew home to Israel today from talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. His visit was marred by an Arab terrorist attack on a border village that Israeli foreign ministry officials said was aimed at disrupting his peace efforts.

The Arab terrorist raid Sunday killed three Israelis and wounded six in the frontier settlement of Yuval near the Lebanese frontier. The four Palestinian attackers were killed by Israeli soldiers.

Israeli planes struck Lebanese villages in reprisal and both Israeli and Lebanese artillery dueled across the border today.

The Israelis said Arab gunners hit Metulla, Israel's northernmost town and the nearby settlement of Kfar Giladi. No casualties were reported.

Israeli military sources reported a concentration of guerrillas all along the frontier with the biggest concentration at Aita Ech-Chaab, a village just across the frontier and previous target of Israeli ground assaults directed against guerrilla bases.

Kissinger said Sunday after further talks with Rabin in New York that the positions of Israel and Egypt on an interim Middle East agreement have now been fully clarified beyond any possible misunderstanding.

Kissinger would not go into details but said that during the next few weeks "we will be working in diplomatic channels with all of the parties to see whether it is possible to translate these ideas into concrete progress."

He said he did not expect to resume his shuttle diplomacy efforts, which collapsed last March, in the "next immediate weeks."

In Tel Aviv the newspapers Ha'aretz and Yedioth Aharonoth quoted senior Israeli officials in Washington as saying there is a 50 percent chance for an Israeli-Egyptian interim agreement.

They said Israel expected Egypt to reply within two weeks to proposals on a new pact made by Rabin in Washington.

In Jerusalem, police said they arrested four young people during the night in connection with an alleged plan to attack Arab targets in the eastern sector of the city in retaliation for the guerrilla attack at Yuval.

Bomb Blast Rocks Bank in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A thunderous explosion blasted windows from the Puerto Rican-based Banco de Ponce early today in mid-Manhattan's Rockefeller Center.

A short time later, a person claiming to represent the Weather Underground claimed the group had touched off the blast in support of "the Puerto Rican cement workers."

The only injury reported was suffered by an unidentified driver of a bakery truck who was passing through the area at the time. Flying glass cut him on an arm.

The explosive device, which police said was apparently a medium sized bomb, went off at 1:43 a.m. PDT in a revolving door of the bank at 10 Rockefeller Plaza. The bank is on the corner across from the sunken plaza area containing fountains and the gilded statue of Prometheus.

Windows in the area around the bank were shattered, littering 49th Street with glass. Windows as high as the sixth floor of the RCA building across from the bank were broken.

"It shook the whole floor" of 30 Rockefeller Plaza, said Ed Kane, a Rockefeller Center worker who was on the second floor of the RCA building, headquarters of the National Broadcasting Co.

A female caller to the Associated Press said the explosion was set in support of Puerto Rican cement workers.

About 450 cement workers are on strike in the city of Ponce on Puerto Rico's southern coast. There have been six incidents of violence, including three bombings, since the strike began Jan. 31 against Ponce Cement, the largest cement producer on the Caribbean island.

Negotiations have stalled over no-strike clauses and the length of the contract.

In Puerto Rico, meanwhile, four bomb blasts shook a San Juan suburb today in a terrorist attack against a telephone lines installation company, police said.

The explosions partially destroyed four panel trucks of the Church and Tower Corp., a firm subcontracted by the struck Puerto Rico telephone authority.

U.S. Denies Dirty Grain Shipments

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Grain inspectors here denied charges Sunday that grain elevators in New Orleans and in other port cities employ "blenders" to deliberately add debris to foreign grain shipments.

"They actually add dirt, and that's what the purchaser sees at the other end," Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa) told the Des Moines Sunday Register. "Then he thinks American grain is no good, and that hurts sales."

Harlan Ryan, chief grain inspector for the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) in New Orleans, said he has never found any operator deliberately adding dirt in the 25 years he has been an inspector.

"Operators rarely put anything back into the grain which does not come out of the grain," he said.

Ryan said grain is graded according to the amount of foreign matter in it, and foreign buyers can purchase any grade. Most, however, purchase lesser grade grains because they are cheaper, he said.

New Orleans handles more grain than any port in the world. One-third of the nation's grain exports pass through this port.

California

Typical May-June low clouds and fog hovered inland over Southern California again this morning shielding the sun until midmorning in most areas before sunshine penetrated through haze and smog.

Temperatures were somewhat cooler in the coastal regions but remained hot in the deserts and windy in some of the mountain areas.

Today's high at the Los Angeles Civic Center climbed to 71 degrees, dropping two notches from Sunday's 73. The overnight low should drop to about 58 degrees.

Light to moderate smog was detected throughout the Los Angeles Basin today, with heaviest concentrations reported in the San Fernando, San Gabriel and Pomona-Walnut Valleys.

U.S. Summary

Showers and thunderstorms stretched across the northern parts of the nation today and down the Eastern Coast.

Tornado sighting totaled eight Sunday, with one each in Florida, Gelrgia, South Carolina and North Dakota. Four sightings were reported in Ohio, where at Cambridge some mobile homes were damaged and two injuries were reported.

Light showers and thunderstorms were scattered across the northern half of the Rockies. A band of showers and thunderstorms roamed through the Central Plains and into the middle and upper Mississippi River valley and thunderstorm activity persisted along the Atlantic coast, but it was beginning to clear as the storm center moved out to sea.

Coastal Weather

Night and morning low clouds and local fog otherwise fair today and Tuesday.

Light variable winds night and morning hours.

Highs today in the mid 60's.

Coastal temperatures will range between 58 and 70. Inland temperatures will range between 60 and 82. The water temperature will be 61.

Stuntman

Kelly Held In Shooting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John "Flagpole" Kelly, a former stuntman who claims the world record for sitting atop a flagpole, was charged Sunday with shooting at houses in the Tujunga area of the city.

The 72-year-old Kelly, sitting in wheelchair, surrendered to police, who had cordoned off the neighborhood and telephoned him to surrender.

Crash Ends Wedding Plan

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Shortly after dining together to discuss their wedding plans, a traffic accident claimed the life of the prospective groom and seriously injured his fiance, officials said.

Their automobile struck a street divider and rolled over twice, instantly killing Henry P. Lay, 44, of Valencia. Passenger Carol Jean Wortham, 33, San Bernardino, was listed in fair condition afterward Sunday at St. Bernardine's Hospital.

54 Nabbed in Drug Bust

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Fifty-four persons, 22 of them juveniles, were arrested by undercover narcotics officers this weekend on drug and alcohol charges at a concert by rock star Alice Cooper.

Police Sunday said charges ranged from drunkenness to use of dangerous drugs. A capacity crowd of 7,000 attended Cooper's Friday night performance at the National Orange Show auditorium.

Accident Kills Deputy

RIVERSIDE (AP) — As they prepared to go hunting, a friend accidentally shot to death a retired deputy while showing him a gun, the Riverside County Sheriff's office said.

Killed was Harry Carl Bewlah, 44, a retired deputy with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's department, officials said Sunday. He had been looking at a .357 magnum revolver owned by Dale Rix.

Boy, 15, Dies in Fire

EUREKA (AP) — A 15-year-old Washington boy died in a fire aboard a fishing boat while in port here, local fire officials said today.

The victim was identified by the coroner as Russell White, of Westport, Wash., who was on a trip on the family boat Marcard with his father.

Party Thrown By Guru

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Maharaj Ji, the 17-year-old guru who was renounced by his mother for allegedly living the life of a playboy, threw a Father's Day party for himself that seemed more of a jet-set gathering than a meditation session.

The guru, whose position as leader of the Divine Light Mission was challenged by his mother after he married his American secretary and bought a Malibu mansion, hosted about 1,000 of his West Coast followers who flew in Sunday on less than 24 hours notice for the occasion.

"I hope you enjoy the grace and bliss that surrounds this house," Maharaj Ji told his guests, who crowded onto the patio and tennis courts of his white split-level home on a cliff overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

ONLY "PREMIES" — the sect's word for believers — were admitted beyond the gates of the mansion.

Those who made their way up the steep, mile-long road leading to the house and past the entourage of security guards outside spent the evening dancing on tennis courts, sipping non-alcoholic punch and applauding the guru during his brief appearances.

Car Drags 2 Victims

MARINA DEL REY (UPI) — One of two women dragged for six blocks Saturday beneath a hit-run driver's car was still unconscious and in criticlal condition today at Marina Mercy Hospital.

Hospital officials reported "no improvement" in the condition of Marla Gable, 23, of Los Angeles, who suffered scrapes, multiple fractures and a crushed foot in the accident. Doctors fear the woman's leg may have to be amputated.

Another woman, Deborah Hendricks, 21, died on arrival at the hospital shortly after the accident early Saturday.

Nixon Strolls

Seen Along Red Beach

A third photograph showed Pat Nixon during one of the recent walks, described as the third in as many days and lasting about 40 minutes.

Cowboy Pickens Lauds Ford's Son

Pickens made the comment as young Ford, 19, wrapped up four days of cowboy fun Sunday with activities such as chasing an 1,800-pound Texas steer and riding horseback.

Ford managed to stay on his horse despite some lively Western action but a Secret Service guard lost his saddle and Pickens himself had a close call on the 24-mile weekend ride at El Capitan Grande Indian Reservation, home of the Mission Indians.

Pickens, who as a former rodeo star isn't just a celluloid cowboy, missed a goring by inches on Sunday's return trip after a wild steer was spooked out of a canyon by Ford and wranglers led by ex-rodeo star Casey Tibbs.

The steer came up behind Pickens' horse, wide horns swiping within inches. "I damn near got off and started running by myself because those horns looked like the wings of a B52," Pickens said.

Ford, who in recent months has worked on a Montana ranch, stayed alongside the steer but he and the other riders were unable to corral him although they gave chase for nearly two miles and just missed herding him in.

$11.5 Billion

Assembly Gets State Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A compromise state budget of about $11.5 billion goes before the Assembly late today.

A two-house committee agreed Sunday on the spending program for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The exact total of the compromise bill could not be determined immediately. Finance Director Roy Bell said it was between the Assembly and Senate versions, which varied by about $86 million.

Assemblyman John Foran (D-San Francisco) who presided over the two house committee, said it would be about $150 million above the $11.4 billion proposed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Democrats have 54 votes in the Assembly, the exact two-thirds required to pass a budget. However, one Democrat, Curtis Tucker of Inglewood, is absent recovering from heart surgery. He was brought to the capitol to cast the deciding vote on the Assembly's version of the budget.

If the Democrats are one vote short on the two-house compromise budget, the Republicans have agreed to cast a courtesy vote so Tucker won't have to make the trip from Inglewood again.

The budget worked out by the two-house committee rejects Brown's proposal to borrow money for college construction with a future bond issue, with the state to pay if voters reject the bonds.

"It's all 'pay-as-you-go'," said Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, the other co-chairman of the two-house committee.

Missiles Inspected By NATO

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger Sunday conducted a tour of this coastal space and missile center for defense ministers and officials of six European countries as a prelude to their NATO nuclear planning group meetings this week.

The NATO defense officials will meet in Monterey today, and Tuesday to discuss possible changes in the alliance's strategy and the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

Suits Cost Everyone

The fact that soaring malpractice insurance rates are reflected in the fees doctors charge their patients has become fairly well known during recent debates on the issue.

But far more citizens are likely to be hit in the pocketbook by increasing rates cities must pay for liability insurance to protect themselves against citizen suits.

The current dilemma in Newport Beach is fairly typical. The city formerly paid an annual premium of $97,000 for its liability insurance. When that agreement ended it was forced to accept a new "low" bid of $207,000. But that pact was cancelled after a few months. Now the city must face up to setting aside even more funds for even higher premiums.

And of course the funds come from the taxpayers.

Suing cities has become even more popular than suing doctors. At almost any city council meeting, up to half a dozen "claims" are referred to the city's insurance carrier.

They come from people who stumble and fall on allegedly uneven sidewalks, whose cars are scraped by unkempt tree branches, whose homes are damaged by water leaks for which they feel the city may be responsible...the list is endless.

Some of the claims are valid. Too many are an obvious grab at what appears to be easy money by victims of everyday mishaps that probably are nobody's fault.

The settlements usually are not spectacular. Most of the threatened suits never get to court. The insurance carrier and the alleged victim of civic negligence just agree on a suitable payment and the matter is concluded.

But over the years the settlements add up to an enormous amount. Hence the soaring premiums.

Perhaps the way to break the plague of "suit-itis" would be for the cities and their insurance carriers to gamble on taking more of the cases to court. It might be more costly in the beginning, but it could serve to break a pattern that threatens to break the taxpayers.

IRS Eyes Lawmakers

The Internal Revenue Service definition of a "tax home" as opposed to a physical residence threatens to cost California legislators some money.

Under present arrangements, the lawmakers receive, in addition to their base salary of $21,120 a year, a $30 tax-exempt living allowance for expenses away from home every day the Legislature is in session.

And since California now has a full-time Legislature, this becomes a substantial annual increment.

While it is true that most of the legislators maintain residences away from Sacramento, the IRS, it seems, regards a taxpayer's residence — for tax purposes — as the place where he earns most of his income. For the legislators, this would be Sacramento.

And that would make the per diem pay an item of taxable income, if court rulings in favor of the IRS in other states serve as a precedent.

Legislators who do live in Sacramento probably should not be entitled to the tax-free living allowance. But those who regularly commute to homes elsewhere should be compensated for that expense.

Perhaps abolishing the flat per diem payment in favor of some combination of a higher—and fully taxable—regular salary, along with bona fide expense statements would solve the problem.

Our Foreign Policy Still Backs Losers

VON HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON — Jerry Ford, what are you doing in that picture with an octogenarian Spanish fascist, riding in an antique Rolls Royce accompanied by a wing of museum-piece Horse Guards? Political values aside, they learned you better common sense than that in Grand Rapids.

Where did you develop such a nose for smelling out losers? The entire Iberian peninsula is quaking with revolt, revolution and rebellion. Portugal has already overthrown its dictator. Catalonia is in a state of martial law and insurrection, the rest of Spain is close to blowing up and you're traveling to Madrid to have a conference with Prince Juan Carlos de Bourbon about the future? Jer, in case Hank hasn't told you, the Bourbons don't have a future. All they have is a past and you don't want to be part of it. Where are you going on your next trip? Rhodesia?

WHY DID HE go to Europe? We've been offered so many explanations. Was it to sell guns? Specifically the F-16 fighter, which the papers describe as "the arms deal of the century." The NATO meetings did smack of a convention of Saturday night special salesmen. Even so, if America must earn her foreign daily bread by peddling munitions, does our President have to be the one with the sample case and order book?

We're also told that this was the propitious time for yet another hollow reaffirmation of NATO. Had the President gone overseas with some proposals to redesign it, that might have made sense. Perhaps that's what's behind that official, not-for-attribution-exactly gush about the Portuguese Trojan Horse, if you can imagine an animal of such strange mixed ancestry.

Not likely. Mr. Ford was selling the idea that Portugal may go Communist and when it does the Reds will have access to NATO's secrets. Maybe Portugal will go Red, but NATO doesn't have any secrets. It doesn't even own guns that shoot compatible ammunition. The powerful military alliance formed in Mr. Ford's young adulthood now resembles an international refuge for political hacks dispatched to Brussels by home governments who find it convenient to get them out of the country. A nursing home for has-beens.

THE PRESS has also been printing speculations that the trip is part of the look-tough, feel-tough, be-tough campaign to convince the Russians and-or the American electorate that Mr. Nixon's last appointee is a big, busy President. In the background of his European voyage he has his Secretary of Defense blowing an obbligato about tac nukes, while we are reminded every 24 hours that his ordering a bunch of people to an early and promiscuous death in Cambodia is an unmistakable sign of statesmanlike resolve. In truth all this noise has the small dog, yappy sound of men who lack the very qualities they insist so stridently are theirs.

Amid the assurances of constancy to international arrangements arrived at a generation ago, Mr. Ford returns again and again to his anti-isolationist theme. He talks about it so much, one is encouraged to find out what these horrible isolationists were saying that haunt men of the President's vintage.

Here are the words of one, the historian Charles A. Beard, written in 1935: "There will be an 'incident,' a 'provocation.' Incidents and provocations are of almost daily occurrence. Any government can quickly magnify one of them into a 'just cause for war.'"

To Ford-Kissinger such talk is inimical to the sane conduct of foreign policy. Others may not find it so irresponsible of the isolationists to oppose presidentially-made wars and to try and stop them with ideas like the Ludlow and Bricker Amendments.

THE LUDLOW Amendment would have required a national referendum to put the United States into a war. The Bricker Amendment would, inter alia, have forced Senate ratification of executive agreements with foreign countries, thus making it more difficult for our Presidents to invent new wars on the basis of secret commitments.

The isolationists also took the Washingtonian injunction against entangling alliances more seriously than the men who run our government do. That is not to say they were really "isolationists," xenophobes who thought we should have nothing to do with foreigners. Many of them favored disarmament agreements and other peaceful treaty arrangements of a more sweeping kind than anything contemplated today, but what they were not going to buy is what one of them called "perpetual war for perpetual peace."

Jer, you climb back down out of that Rolls Royce, you get back over here where you belong, and don't be forgetting you were brought up to know a good Grand Rapids boy doesn't play around with Bourbons either in the bottle or on the throne.

Medicine Should Be Reversed

SYDNEY HARRIS

The relatively new idea — in this country, at least — of Health Maintenance Organizations, makes a great deal of sense to me, for one incontrovertible reason: there is at present no money in preventive medicine. All the money in the medical profession comes after people get ill. By then, it is terribly expensive to recover, and sometimes it is too late. These days, especially, an ounce of prevention can be better than a thousand pounds of cure.

In old China, I am reliably told, they handled this matter much more sensibly. You paid your doctor as long as he kept you well; when you took ill, you stopped paying him until you recovered. He was, in effect, being rewarded for his part in prevention, and not in curing.

THIS IS the way a sensible and rational Health Maintenance Organization would work. The patient, or family, would pay a regular weekly or monthly fee for checkups, advice, prescriptions, and regimens. Half or more of the ailments in this country could be eradicated or controlled if they were caught in time, including many types of cancers.

But most people don't go until it is too late. For one thing, they are lazy. For another, they are fearful of learning the worst, a childish attitude that our present system of public health education does little to overcome.

Most importantly, however, the present system — or lack of it — is simply too expensive. A good, all-round examination would run at least $70, and should be had at least twice a year.

IF WE could cut our hospital admissions by even one-third (which a sound program of preventive medicine could surely accomplish), this would relieve an enormous burden from the collective shoulders of the hospitals, the insuring agents, and the patients. Not to mention company employers, who bear a large brunt today in the form of fringe benefits.

Our whole medical system is topsy-turvy. It should cost us more to stay healthy (which is worth it), and practically nothing when we get sick. But, as the medical profession is organized today, doctors get nothing when we are healthy (or when we stay away from them, ignoring our symptoms until they get acute), and then have to charge too much when we finally do go for emergency attention.

All the allied medical professions have long bleated about the need for "prevention," but they have done next to nothing to make it a practicable reality. When the government finally does, they will scream "socialism."

Was the Crisis Necessary?

Appeasement and Oil

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Congressional investigators have gotten hold of some explosive documents, which suggest that the world oil crisis could have been averted.

The documents allege that France wanted to break the oil-producing cartel back in December, 1973. The French believed that the consuming countries could have prevented the disastrous price rise if they had stood together, according to the documents.

This completely contradicts the popular impression that France, more than any other nation, refused to hold the line against the oil increase and, thereby, precipitated the collapse of consumer solidarity.

BUT THE documents lay the blame on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, claiming he favored cooperation instead of confrontation with the oil bloc. His pursuit of a Middle East settlement, it is alleged, led him to take a soft line with the Arabs on oil.

"He seemed to . . . underestimate economics and overestimate the Middle East political problem," states one confidential paper.

There is no dispute about what happened thereafter. The 13 nations, which control 85 percent of the crude moving in international commerce, quadrupled the price of oil.

The consuming nations scrambled to make separate deals with the oil potentates. Oil that was produced in the Middle East for 11 cents a barrel suddenly began selling for $11 a barrel. Some frantic companies bid up the price of oil as high as $23 a barrel.

This gave the Western world the greatest jolt since World War II. There was a massive transfer of wealth from the consuming countries to the oil producers. The world's financial system was strained to the breaking point. And the industrial nations were plunged into an economic crisis.

NOW THE OIL potentates, even as they are wallowing in their new wealth, are talking about raising prices another $4 per barrel in September. This continuing economic assault upon the oil-importing nations has caused more damage than a military attack.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) a power on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is preparing to challenge the U.S. policy of placating the oil-exporting countries. He wants to know what the United States has received in return for arming Iran and Saudi Arabia, the kingpins of the oil cartel.

The Shah has spearheaded the drive for higher and higher oil prices. The Saudis, on the other hand, have shown more concern about the economic damage they are inflicting upon the West.

Senator Church has ordered his subcommittee to delve into the intricacies of oil diplomacy. He believes the consuming countries, before they are left in economic ruins, must take a tough, united stand against the oil giants.

HE HAS information, however, that it is not the French, but Kissinger, who still wants to appease the oil cartel. As one confidential document puts it, "Since 60 percent of the dollar value of raw materials exports moving in international trade today originates from (the consuming) countries, the French have taken the position that the major oil consumers should not fear discussing this subject with the oil producers . . .

"Closer U.S. - France relations are needed if the consumer governments are to have any effective leverage over (the oil cartel). If the U.S. unilaterally cuts off arms shipments and other industrial goods to Iran, the possibility exists that the French and others would step in and take the business.

"(But) the French care more about heading off another oil price rise than about selling Mirages to the Shah."

The reason the French left the other oil-importing countries and began negotiating their own oil deals, according to the documents, was because Kissinger tried to dictate terms.

"Kissinger made it impossible politically for the French government to cooperate with the U.S. on the oil problem," states one document. "Put differently, the breakdown in U.S. - France relations was not over an unwillingness to cooperate but over the structure within which that cooperation would take place."

A STATE Department spokesman disputed this. Any French offer of cooperation, he said, "had no practical significance. When we tried to tie them down to something specific, they would always refuse to go along."

Kissinger's first priority in late 1973, the spokesman reminded us, was to keep the Middle East "from blowing up again." The Secretary had to keep this objective in mind in his dealings with the oil producers, the spokesman said.

How to Beat Time

THE BOOKMAN

People who are always rushed and feel they cannot squeeze everything they want to do into a few hours will find a powerful ally in The Time Trap: How to Get More Done in Less Time by R. Alec Mackenzie (McGraw-Hill Paperbacks, $2.95).

Why do some individuals manage to accomplish an impressive amount of work each day, and still find it possible to contribute to their communities and enjoy their private lives, while others wake up out of breath, figuratively speaking, and wind up harassed after chasing an unremitting clock? The former have long been Mackenzie's models:

"For the past eight years, I've been seeking them out," he writes. "I've encountered these exceptional people at seminars and lectures in ten countries, on planes, in homes of friends."

THE RESULT: an inspiring, stimulating analysis of timewasting and a no-nonsense guide to working one's way out of the snare. The Time Trap is packed with practical, easy-to-apply tips and techniques for overcoming the problems of procrastination, interruptions, decision-making, organization, and delegation of authority.

The suggestions in this useful book will help business people, managers, secretaries, teachers, public officials — all those who want to overcome the daily stress of time-pressure, and still have valuable time for what they really consider important or pleasant.

A lawyer and management consultant, R. Alec Mackenzie is a West Point graduate and president of his own management consultant firm. He has held high posts in numerous foundations and professional associations and has lectured extensively throughout North America and Europe.

School Change

Year-round Plan Studied

Capitol News Service

Sacramento — The traditional nine-month school year evolved from a search for a school term that would win the consensus of the nation's rural areas and its cities.

The nine-month school term is a compromise between the rural areas where farm work dictated that children attend school only in the winter, and the cities where the school year once lasted 11 months.

But now that school enrollment is on the decline, the year-round school concept is being kindled in a number of schools in California.

IN A REPORT on initiating year-round school programs titled, "Year-Round Education Handbook," recently issued by California's Department of Education, the nine-month school term is viewed as no longer an economically or educationally feasible tenure.

"The changing lifestyles of the post-World War II era have made it increasingly apparent that the traditional reasons for the nine-month school calendar no longer exist," claims the report. "The long three-month summer vacation finds hosts of children and youth idle and bored. Often the lack of available constructive activities is the cause of increased vandalism and drug use."

These sociological reasons for the year-round school concept invariably outshadow the economic reasons for the year long school. Building utilization is enhanced and overcrowding is relieved by the 12-month school program.

CALIFORNIA LEADS the nation in the number of schools where the year-round concept is being put to practice. There are now 126 schools in 38 California school districts that operate under some form of the year-round plan. Sixty other districts are contemplating the switch from the traditional school year.

By eliminating summer vacation — a considerable gap in formal training between June and September — schools can offer youngsters an education much higher in quality. "After the long summer vacation, students and teachers must spend valuable time in review because of the loss of learning during the three months away from school," claimed the report.

Newport Girl Scouts Lauded

By ELLIOTT ALMOND
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It took them three years of training but they finally made it.

Eleven girls, all ninth graders at Newport Harbor High School, reached a plateau in scouting when they were recently awarded First Class, the highest honor a girl can achieve in the scout program.

The First Class symbol is equivalent to the Eagle Scout in Boy Scouts.

The girls started in 1972 with 24 others in the seventh grade at Ensign Junior High School. "We started with more than we should have," scout leader Mrs. Roger Blanchard said. Mrs. Blanchard has worked with these girls for the last three years in the cadette program of Girl Scout Troop 1223, Newport Beach.

But she quickly added that most plan to continue. "The girls will be entering the senior scout program. We have two troops in the area." Mrs. Blanchard said the senior scouts participate in outdoor activities such as sailing and community service projects.

After three years of concentration and hard work, Mrs. Blanchard believes the girls do deserve recognition for their recent awards.

TO BE ELIGIBLE for First Class, the girls choose the traditional route of qualification. This includes passing four challenges and six badges.

The challenges included social dependability, emergency preparedness, active citizenship and outdoor skills.

"Our girls formed a petition that was passed around Harbor High to request a trigger signal at 17th Street and Dover Drive for bicycles," Mrs. Blanchard said. "This was part of their active citizenship challenge. And the city council passed the request too," she added.

BESIDES THE four challenges, the girls completed six badges in order to complete their requirements.

The badges were earned in art, home, citizenship, outdoors, health and safety and international understanding. Mrs. Blanchard said the challenges and badges did not overlap learning experiences. Instead, she said, they complimented each other.

"I've been told that girls who participate in the scouting program are the active ones in high school because of their training," Mrs. Blanchard said. "I don't know yet, but I'm waiting to see."

Gov. Brown View:

He Wants It Plain, Simple

By DOUG WILLIS
AP Political Writer

SUSANVILLE (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. tugged at the Indian necklace around his neck and smiled as he described how he fights back against bureaucrats.

"I don't sign anything I can't understand," the 37-year-old Democrat said as the twin-engine Convair flew over the snow-capped High Sierra.

"I DON'T want anything written in state government that isn't intelligible. The government belongs to the people, and if the people can't understand it, forget it."

This plane trip was on what Brown called a weekend day off. But he started in San Francisco, gave a speech in Santa Clara, and then flew to Susanville for a bear dance and a state prison tour.

Dressed in ragged denims and sporting the Indian necklace, he appeared at the front desk of the remote state prison in eastern Lassen County for an impromptu tour of the facility.

At a local annual bear dance celebration of the Maidu Indians, Brown stopped by and was presented with the multicolored bead necklace.

DURING THE day-long trip, Brown described his philosophy and goals in a wide-ranging interview.

He was skeptical of planners and experts "who write in unintelligible languages," the federal government in general and federal grants in particular.

Brown complained that government is interfering in the lives of individuals and business, and he advocated decentralization of government power.

He talked at length about welfare and other social service programs, questioning the philosophy behind them:

"We have got to be compassionate. But you can only take that so far before you begin to reward those characteristics of your society that are not building it," Brown said.

"More and more of our resources are devoted to trying to prop up failures in society. . .By a peculiar reversal, it gives the rewards to the very kinds of attitudes and behavior patterns that we're trying to minimize."

He said he is annoyed by federal bureaucrats — especially planners and bureaucrats whose regulations intrude in private industry and local government.

"They speak in the alphabet soup. Planning is just wheel-spinning. It proliferates options at the highest level of abstraction such that no one can perceive that very little is being said."

Will Congress OK Hinshaw's Arrest?

By O.C. HUSTINGS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It may take approval of the U.S. House of Representatives for Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R-Newport Beach) to be taken into custody on an arrest warrant issued by an Orange County judge.

That is the opinion of a House parliamentarian who said that members of Congress and their records are constitutionally protected against subpoena without approval of the House.

The parliamentarian said that if Hinshaw were arrested "it would be in violation of the rules of privilege of the House of Representatives."

Orange County Superior Court Judge Walter Smith issued the warrant last Wednesday. It came after Hinshaw failed to answer a subpoena to appear in court in connection with the pending trial of James Bertolino, an employe of the Orange County assessor's office.

Bertolino, 52, was indicted on charges that he worked on Hinshaw's 1972 Congressional campaign on county time. Hinshaw was head of the assessor's office until his election.

The judge directed that the arrest warrant, which carries bail of $500, be held until June 26 to allow Hinshaw time to make a voluntary appearance.

Seal Beach Wins Annexation Battle

SANTA ANA — Seal Beach won a minor annexation battle with Huntington Beach when the county's Local Agency Formation Commission granted a 1,400 acre expansion to the northern neighbor.

The total annexation completes the physical growth of Seal Beach, expanding it to all of the borders considered within its sphere of influence.

The annexation included 1,194 acres of the U.S. Naval Weapons Station, 103 acres of the former Hellman Ranch, and the county's 90-acre Sunset Aquatic Park.

It was the annexation of Sunset Aquatic Park that Huntington Beach opposed, as did the county harbors, beaches and parks department.

City officials argued that Huntington Beach is better able to serve the park for police and fire protection, while the county said annexation to Seal Beach means an additional $3,500 a year in taxes which will be passed on to the park users.

Seal Beach had already annexed a slim finger of territory near the aquatic park, which was why the LAFC considered Sunset in the Seal Beach sphere of influence.

TO RETIRE - UCI's Nagel

Professor Retires

Nagel Launched German Program

In 1967, the flexibility of a new institution lured German literature professor Bert Nagel from the oldest university in Germany — Heidelberg — to one of the newest in the U.S. — UC Irvine.

He will retire this month as professor emeritus. Also this month, Marianne Armstrong of Santa Ana, the first student to receive a PhD under a postgraduate program in German put together by Nagel, will be awarded her degree.

Nagel, a Laguna Beach resident, received the Grand Cross of Merit of the German Federal Republic in 1972 in recognition of his contribution to German culture.

On leaving active teaching at UCI Nagel notes that economic conditions are making inroads in student pursuit of the humanities.

"In times of economic hardship," he said, "the study of the humanities is often mistakenly overlooked in favor of more direct solutions to the problems of unemployment and inflation.

"It is true that modern life requires the highest degree of specialization, but this specialization will become sterile if people lose the survey of the whole, if they are so specialized that they are only a function and no longer a person," he said.

Nagel will be a visiting professor of German literature at UC San Diego this fall and at UC Riverside during the winter.

Tear this out so you will remember to attend.

The problem isn't just taking it off... it's taking it off right. Diet alone can't do it all, because two people who weigh the same can look so different.

The answer is shaping it up while you're taking it off. And the right place to do it is with us. Talk to our conditioning experts. You'll probably find that, while you're overweight here, you're underdeveloped there. And we have complete, balanced diet and exercise programs designed to help you slim down and shape up. Plus steam, sun and sauna. Programs to change the way you look, feel, and live. Five different programs starting as low as $10.

Regular memberships are also available at low cost. Lower on your first visit.

Call us. Changing the shape of your body can change the shape of your life.

Energy Saver?

The rig that Mrs. Diane Pattison of Costa Mesa uses to haul her three sons around doesn't use any gas and doesn't pollute the atmosphere, but it does take a lot of energy — mom's. But when it comes to transporting Morgan, 10 months; David, 3, and Bruce, 4, Mrs. Pattison doesn't mind at all.

Trustees Mull Funding

Saddleback College trustees will be briefed Monday night on new legislation which could reduce state support of the college by $79,500 next year.

The special session is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the college library.

As presently written, the state budget bill would limit state appropriations for enrollment growth at community colleges from three to five percent.

For Saddleback College which has forecast a growth of 16.5 percent next year, this could mean withdrawal of state funding for about 1,200 students.

However, a compromise move by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee would allow the college to make up the difference between the state appropriations and actual enrollment to be collected from the taxpayers.

Barletta explained that state support for each Saddleback student consists of $125, considerably less than the $600 per student state subvention for Orange Coast and Golden West college students.

He said state aid represents only a small portion of the $1,500 budgeted for each student but that college officials still aren't happy about plans to curtail state allocations.

Barletta pointed out that some efforts had been made to persuade legislators to change their minds but that the board of trustees had not yet formally opposed the measure.

"We are not as badly off as the Coast Community College District or any other school district which receives a substantial amount of its income from state sources," Barletta explained.

"We are considered a wealthy district in terms of our assessed valuation. We have a large tax base. Our support for ADA (average daily attendance) is not that great and therefore the impact would not be that great."

Saddleback Hires 2 New College Aides

Trustees of the Saddleback Community College District have added a financial aid officer and a public information assistant to the college staff but delayed action on the hiring of an athletic therapist-trainer.

The aid officer will coordinate financial assistance to students and keep track of federal, state, and local aid payments. The position carries a salary range of $828 to $1,054 depending on qualifications and experience.

The public information assistant will help information officer Dan Armstrong with the college's community relations program. Proposed salary for the position ranges from $769 to $981.

Trustees are expected to take action on the third position at a special meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Board members balked at approving the position last Monday night because the job description made reference only to the treatment of athletes for injuries.

At the suggestion of board Chairman Robert Bartholomew, the trainer-therapist's duties will include the treatment of all students who might require whirpool baths and other therapeutic remedies.

New El Toro School to Be Named Serrano

Serrano Intermediate School has been selected as the name for the new junior high scheduled to open next winter in El Toro.

Saddleback Valley Unified School District trustees selected the name from three suggested by Ray Garubo, new principal for the facility, and a committee of teachers, parents and students.

The winning name was that of a Spanish grandee who owned a land grant in the days when Spain ruled California.

All three reflect the district's pattern of using the area's Spanish-Mexican heritage in naming schools.

Don Jose Serrano's Spanish land grant extended over the land now known as Lake Forest and El Toro.

Water Rates Going Up For Viejo?

District General Manager Jim Smith said he will ask directors Tuesday to authorize a rate study and to set a public hearing in July on the probable rate hike.

"The rates will go up," Smith said, "we just don't know how much."

He said a 30 percent increase in the cost of power and a charge increase of about $10 per acre foot of water as supplied by the Metropolitan Water District is prompting the rate study.

"We are not sure how the increase charge would be collected," Smith said. "If we don't increase the minimum charge (which is now four dollars per month) it would go on as a user charge, spread out among all the people who are using water."

The public is invited to the water board meetings. Tuesday's is set for 2 p.m. at the Santa Margarita office, 25571 Marguerite Parkway, Mission Viejo (Plaza Viejo).

'Sting' Producers Plan 'Taxi' Film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although their marriage is asunder, Michael and Julia Phillips will reunite to produce another film, "Taxi Driver," starring Robert DeNiro and Cybill Shepherd.

The Phillipses won Oscars for producing (with Tony Bill) "The Sting," best picture of 1973. The couple have since separated. The new film will be directed by Martin Scorsese ("Bang the Drum Slowly," "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore").

DeNiro, winner of the best supporting-actor Oscar this year for "The Godfather," will play a taxi driver who becomes involved with a political campaign worker, Miss Shepherd.

One Umpire Almost Killed

"Kill the umpire!" That's the venerable cry of the baseball fans. Question arises as to whether any umpire actually has been killed by irate fans. Pritnear. Umpire Billy Evans almost died after he was beaned by a bottle thrown from the stands in St. Louis. He was a borderline bed case for three weeks.

FUTURE MATE

Q. "On which day of the week are you most likely to meet your future mate?"

A. Saturday, says our Love and War man. Monday is next. After that, Sunday.

Q. "WHAT would be the value of an opal as big as a loaf of bread?"

A. Can only report that one such found about six years ago in Australia is known to be worth $1.6 million. Weighs 6.5 pounds. They say it's the biggest opal ever.

WILL YOU BUY the notion that the seafood from the Atlantic tastes better than the seafood from the Pacific because the Atlantic's waters are colder? That's a fairly popular contention on the East Coast.

HEADACHES

There's no word in the Albanian language that means "headache." Albanians don't get headaches. Seriously, that's the claim of a pharmacology researcher. Remarkable, if true. Can't really argue the matter, however. I don't get headaches, either. Unless you want to count that dive years ago in the shallow end of the "Y" pool.

"Not all unleaded gasolines are alike. Your car, old or new, might show you the difference."

By Bob Awe, Gasoline Product Manager, Shell Oil Company.

Bob Awe

A Shell fuel expert tells why the right gasoline for your car might just happen to be unleaded. And offers help on fighting knock in a '75.

First, I'll tell you how a thing like lead got into gasoline in the first place. Then I'll talk about some problems that the right gasoline can solve. After that, I'll tell you why there's talk of "detuning" some '75's.

At the end, I'll give you some information about our own Shell Super Regular Unleaded.

How lead got there in the first place

The first gasolines didn't have lead. They worked just fine in the low compression engines of the early 1900's.

Later, the higher compression engines ran into "knock". When an engine knocks, some of its fuel-air mixture explodes all at once instead of burning smoothly. You can hear this as a pinging, rattling noise.

In 1921 it was discovered that adding certain lead compounds to the gasoline could prevent knock, and this discovery paved the way for higher efficiency engines.

Since octane numbers measure the ability of gasoline to resist knock, you could say that lead increases a gasoline's octane rating.

Because of emissions standards for the '75 cars, most of them are designed for unleaded gasoline and the law requires them to use it. In these gasolines, the job of lead is usually done by high-octane hydrocarbons.

Unleaded in your pre-'75 car

But the pre-1975 cars don't have to use unleaded. So why should you even consider it? Because one of the unleadeds just might turn out to be the right gasoline for your car. By right, I mean the one that gives you the best balance between price and performance.

1. Stall out — the engine dies when you put it in gear while it's cold.
2. Hesitation — that stumbling feeling when you try to accelerate before the engine is fully warmed up.
3. Run-on — the car keeps chugging on after you turn off the key.

Of course these problems can sometimes have mechanical solutions, too. But if your car is in tune it's smart to try to solve them by switching gasoline first. And when you shop around for the right gasoline, don't leave out the unleadeds.

If you do end up using an unleaded, you get a nice little bonus. Your spark plugs and muffler will last longer.

Tip: If your owner's manual does not recommend unleaded — and if you drive at sustained high speeds — a tankful of leaded fuel every 4th or 5th fill-up protects exhaust valves against excessive wear.

There's more than one way to fight knock in a '75

The law says that unleaded gasoline must have a "Research octane number" of at least 91. (Somewhat less for high altitudes.) Most unleaded gasoline is only slightly above this minimum.

But some '75's are knocking with these fuels. And we expect more of them to start

We estimate that one out of every three 1975 cars will eventually develop knock using the average unleaded gasoline.

"Detuning" the car, — that is, having the ignition timing retarded — is one way to fight the knock. And this is one of the remedies being considered.

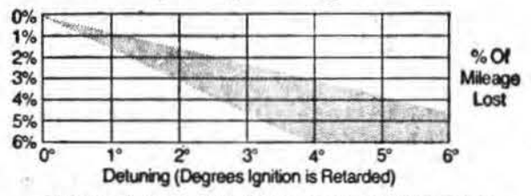
But detuning has some bad side effects. It might hurt performance. And, all other factors being equal, detuning can hurt your gas mileage. (See chart, next column.)

For example, if your car's ignition had to be retarded by 4 degrees to get rid of knock, you could expect a mileage loss of about 4 percent. That would cost you money — as much as if you paid about 2¢ more per gallon at today's prices.

And detuning may be against the law. Check before you have it done.

The right gasoline might be the answer

There are differences in the octane ratings of unleaded gasolines, just as there are with leaded gasolines. So if your '75 knocks on the average unleaded, try switching to an unleaded with higher octane. (There are a few significantly higher than the minimum.) It may be better than having your engine detuned and possibly wasting fuel.



Mileage decreases by about one percent for every degree the timing is retarded from the proper setting, up to six degrees.

Octane Facts and Myths

Test yourself

The more octane, the better.
Myth. An octane rating any higher than your car needs does no good.

There is more than one kind of octane rating.
Fact. For example, the octane rating used most in owner's manuals comes from the Research octane test. The Motor octane test gives a lower rating. The number you often see on gasoline pumps is, in accordance with a government rule, an average of the two. It's usually three to five numbers below the Research octane rating.

Run-on can be an octane problem.
Fact. If your car keeps chugging on after you turn off the key, a gasoline with a higher Research octane rating will help.

This is one of the higher octane unleadeds available - Shell Super Regular Unleaded.

Shell Super Regular Unleaded gasoline has a Research octane of 94 or 95 in most parts of the country*. That's 3 or 4 numbers above the federal minimum and significantly higher than most other unleadeds. If your '75 car knocks, using this could be the solution that will let you avoid having your car detuned and maybe wasting gasoline.

In addition, Shell Super Regular Unleaded has excellent detergent properties and is blended for good driveability to help solve problems like cold-engine stall-out and hesitation.

Shell Regular has a Research octane of about 93 or 94* and good detergent properties. If you can use this (and more than half of our customers do), stick with it. It's our lowest priced gasoline.

Super Shell is our top-priced leaded gasoline with good driveability, excellent detergent properties, and Research octane of about 99 or 100.* It's blended for top rate performance in pre-1975 cars that require high octane fuel.

Tips: If you use Super Shell, give Super Regular Unleaded a try. You could save money. If you use Shell Regular and have driveability or run-on problems, try Super Regular Unleaded before going all the way up to Super Shell.

Publication Pedal-powered

Publisher Elaine Holt checks details of her year-old tabloid, Bicycle Motocross News

If someone told her of plans to start a newspaper with $5,000, Elaine Holt would respond, "You're absolutely nuts. You can't do it."

Yet that's exactly what she did.

This month marks the first anniversary of her publication, Bicycle Motocross News.

The tabloid, which is sold in the Orient, Great Britain, Canada and Australia as well as this country, has grown from 10 to 40 pages in its formative year.

And she can boast, "We made our first profit last month. . .43 cents."

That's pretty good, she said. She was told she should have enough cash to carry the publication for a year and warned not to expect a profit for three years.

Although she worries about money, and hates it, she's also thinking of other ventures for her company, Westword Publications.

NO EXPERIENCE

She attributes her apparent success to "partially luck and partially kind of having your eyes open, too."

She certainly can't credit experience; she had none. Nor did she have any training in the business.

She's stepped into the publisher's position from a doctors' office which she managed for three years.

"It was not the most challenging job in the world and I am one who likes to be challenged," she explained. So she "moonlighted" for a friend who was getting into bicycle motocross equipment.

She was to handle the promotion and advertising, a difficult task because there was no medium reaching the youths involved in the sport.

Mrs. Holt admits the decision to fill this gap was "scary."

She remembers reading of the poor economy and rising unemployment. She thought of women with more education not being able to find work while she was giving up a four-and-a-half day job which included profit sharing, medical insurance and great bosses.

But a friend, a woman she met in a management course who was a bank vice president, believed in what she was doing and got her the $5,000 loan.

LEARNED BY DOING

She got herself a good book on advertising and learned the photography, writing and pasteup by doing it.

She went and watched the printers prepare the first issue. "That's the first time I'd ever been in a big print shop. I was just dying for it to come off the press."

It looked great, until she got home and read it. The center spread story had been laid out backwards.

Ten thousand papers had been printed and a couple hundred had been sent out. She had the error corrected and the paper printed over.

"It was an expensive mistake.

"Now, I'll tell you, I read everything before it goes."

But mistakes are still made sometimes. Once she forgot an ad "and that was terrible."

She has learned, "Whether you've put out one issue or 12 issues, you still have to pay attention to every detail."

In that first issue, the publisher said, "I didn't even ask for subscriptions. I really didn't know if it would go or not and I was spending my grocery money on it."

The response came quickly. There were phone calls asking when the next issue would be out. . .advertisers. . .and circulation in bicycle shops.

KIDS RESPOND

"The kids really enjoyed it and it just kind of snowballed," she said.

Except for Boys' Life, she knows of no other publication which is geared to youths in their young teens and doesn't talk down to them.

"We believe kids are intelligent. They don't always have the best judgment but it's up to adults to guide them.

"I like the idea of being able to give them recognition."

And when she's feeling harassed by the business, she can open the mail. "We get some super letters from kids and that really, really makes it worthwhile," she explained.

"Maybe that's our forte. We communicate with kids."

Although she had the help of friends and consultants, she did most of the work herself until November when she hired an assistant and a secretary.

"The stage I was reaching I was absolutely going bananas," she explained.

WILL STAY IN BUSINESS

Although there are times when she really doesn't like the pressure of publishing, she intends to stay in the business.

"This has been the most exciting year of my life. I certainly cannot say that I have not been challenged now."

Although she expects that she will soon have competition, she's optimistic for the future.

"The sport is growing," she explained. "As it grows, we grow."

Bicycle motocross (BMX) is an off-shoot of motorcycle motocross, a race on a dirt course with obstacles. The difference is "it's boy-powered or girl-powered," she explained.

Participants work out with weights and run, she said, because the race requires strength, endurance and a competitive desire.

"That's fun to see. We encourage it, naturally."

BRIGHTEST STAR

Mrs. Holt sees motocross as "the brightest star in the bicycle industry."

A year ago, she recalled, there were only two or three displays of motocross bikes and accessories in the industry's largest show. This year, almost every company had a display.

She contends BMX, which is most popular in the warmer states, is not a trend. "As long as there are kids and bicycles," she said, "there will be racing and good times." Why not BMX?

"It's just that no one has really stopped to organize it as a sport," she said, quickly adding that Pop Warner football started on a sandlot.

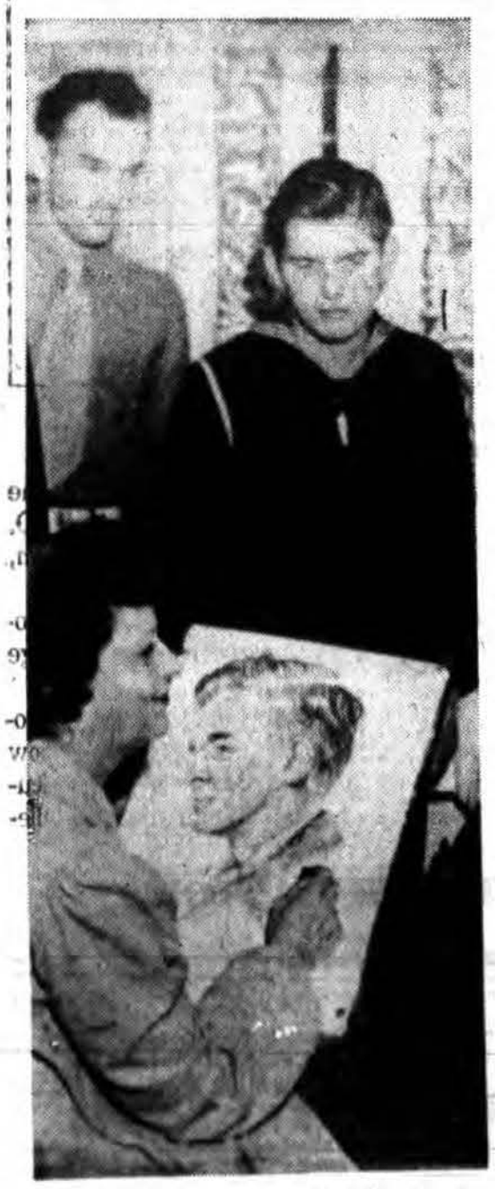
Coincidences Sketchy



News stories all too often are harsh or sad. But when we can tell about how one brought two people together after more than 25 years, it is indeed heartwarming.

An example is the story published about Kathryn Olsen in the Wednesday, June 4, edition of the Daily Pilot.

The coincidences are so great that one wonders if the hand of fate weren't gently guiding all the participants in this drama.

Kay served as a volunteer at the Laguna Beach USO during World War II. She spent most of her time painting portraits of the servicemen and mailing them to a loved one, usually Mom, back home.

However, Charles Bourgeois (unidentified) of Costa Mesa appeared.

But that night he didn't see the story. He says, "I couldn't find the Sports Section so I didn't read it."

His son Brad, an employe of the Daily Pilot who had visited his grandmother in Louisiana earlier in the year where he saw Kay's painting of his father, didn't see the picture or story either.

But daughter Cookie, who remembered seeing this photograph in a scrapbook, did. She brought it to her father's attention.

Unfortunately, the story only mentioned that Kay was in a Costa Mesa convalescent home, so he was unable to contact her immediately.

Fortunately for us the home hadn't been named. Had it been we might not be writing this story as we might not have heard about it.

A few days elapsed and Bourgeois called at the office to find out where Kay is. He said he hadn't seen her since 1949 in Laguna Beach.

Reminiscing about USO days, he said, "She was like a fixture. If she wasn't there it was like a piece of furniture missing.

"She was a very attractive lady—the kind you noticed right away because of her eyes. They had so much love they just thrilled you."

Bourgeois visited Kay. "When I asked for her everyone wanted to take me to see her. I could see she still is doing what she has always done—entertaining the young."

When he got to her room, she recognized him immediately. They talked awhile and she showed him a display of the Christmas cards she received from her "boys" last year.

Bourgeois lamented that he hadn't kept in touch when he lived so close, yet "those from so far away remembered her."

"I found out she likes chocolates."

He went out, bought a box and returned.

"I guess I'll be doing that quite often now.

Advice Offers Choices

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed two letters in the last several weeks advising women on how best to protect themselves against rape. The last letter advised screaming, kicking, karate chops, etc.

I hope you will print my letter which is based on information from an expert. He is Frederic Storaska, founder of the National Organization for the Prevention of Rape and Assault.

According to Storaska, a woman should never scream, struggle, run or try to kick the rapist where it counts. If she does, the rapist is likely to silence her by strangling her or cracking her skull open. Struggling excites him.

What's more, very few women are good enough at self defense to throw a would-be rapist and make a run for safety. As for carrying a weapon, he says it would probably be in her purse — the first thing a woman drops when someone grabs her.

Pleading, according to Storaska, is the rapist's pornography. It would merely intensify his desire. If a victim denounced him and shrieked obscenities, it would only heighten his rage and he would become even more dangerous. (The rapist is, as you know, not a woman-lover, but a woman-hater. His actions are not based on the desire for sex, but his deep-seated irrational loathing of women.)

Storaska believes the best way to deal with a rapist is to turn him off by belching, scratching, vomiting — something that will divert him from the act. Storaska does suggest, however, that if a woman feels her life is in danger she should press her attacker's eyeballs into his head as hard as she can if she can reach them. This could blind or kill him.

While Storaska admits that reporting a rape to the police is a distasteful business, he says all women who have undergone the experience have a responsibility to society to report it in the hope that the rapist will be caught.

Catching a rapist and convicting him, however, are not one and the same thing. About 65 percent of all rapists who stand trial, according to this expert, are found "not guilty." — AVID ANN FAN

DEAR AV: Thank you for another point of view. We now have two contradictory sets of instructions. Dr. James Selkin, Director of the Center for the Study of Violence at Denver General Hospital, says "Scream, kick, yell your head off — unless the rapist enters the bedroom and puts a gun to your head or a knife to your throat."

It's up to each woman to decide which makes the best sense. Selkin's position is supported by some impressive statistics. Fewer than nine percent of the Denver women who screamed and fought back suffered anything more than a cut or a bruise.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have long, beautiful fingernails. They are my best "feature," if you can call them that. What I mean is, I get more compliments on my nails than on anything else.

My boyfriend loves to bowl. Every time I have gone bowling with him, I've broken at least two nails. I refuse to bowl anymore and he is very upset with me. Is he being fair? What should I do? — NAILED IN N.J.

DEAR N.J.: Go with him — as a spectator. Be his cheering section. Applaud his efforts. Build up his ego. That should satisfy him. If it doesn't — too bad.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teenagers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

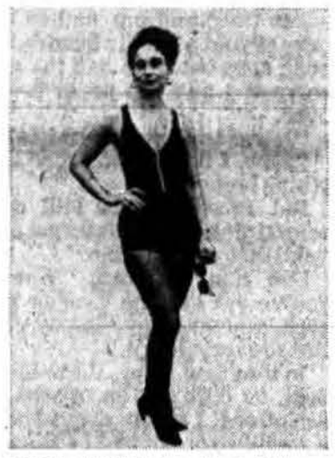
What is being said about summer reducing the Gloria Marshall way...



BURMA KNEPPER – "I started my Gloria Marshall program because I was very unhappy with my appearance. In a short time I went from a size 15 to a size 7 and lost 43½ pounds and 60¾ inches.

I feel great knowing I look good."

CELIA COREY – "I went to Gloria Marshall, well, the results have been fantastic. I have lost 45¼ lbs. and 50 in. Now I can get into a size 12 dress from a size 18.

Gloria Marshall says:
Your results start the moment you do...
Start your summer figure today!
We specialize in helping each woman with individually designed programs and nutritional guidance.

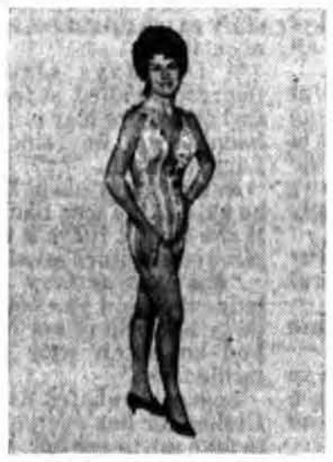
MARGARET McDANIEL – At Gloria Marshall's Figure Salon I lost 29¾ inches and 22 lbs. I look and feel better now than I have in 5 years. My husband says so too. If you need a figure lift, join now! You won't be sorry.



JUDY FERRIER – "Before going to Gloria Marshall's, I was 50 pounds overweight and needed to lose at least 60 in. Since I have been on the program at Gloria Marshall's I have reached this goal."

CAROL BROWN – "I took my dilemma to Gloria Marshall's, how could I even wear a bathing suit out in the backyard with so many bulges? Now, 16 lbs. and 25 inches smaller, I am proud to say, 'My goal I did reach so it is off to the beach'."

Marshall Fades; So Do Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Marshall, the Los Angeles Dodgers' relief ace who won the Cy Young Award in 1974 and set a bushel of major league records in the process, has lost four straight decisions and hasn't won a game since April 17.

When Greg Luzinski homered off Marshall in the eighth inning Sunday to power the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-3 victory over Los Angeles, it marked Marshall's third loss in a week.

"I don't think that'll bother a guy like Marshall," said Phillies manager Danny Ozark. "It could bother a younger pitcher, but not Marshall. He had a great year in 1974 and everyone expects him to come back and have a year like that. It's tough. He might have tried to come back too soon after being hurt."

Idled with a painful cartilage injury for nearly six weeks, Marshall has appeared six times in the last 10 days. "I thought his stuff was better today than at any time since coming back," said Dodgers manager, Walt Alston.

It didn't ease the plight of the defending National League champions. The loss was their fifth in six games and seventh in their last nine. It was also the seventh series in the last eight the Dodgers have failed to win and left them with a 16-19 record against the East.

The Dodgers, by losing, missed an opportunity to gain ground on Cincinnati and trail the Western Division-leading Reds by 3½ games. Cincinnati completed its 11-3 victory of Saturday's suspended game with the Chicago Cubs and then bowed to Chicago 4-3 in the regularly scheduled game.

Marshall took over in the eighth inning of a 3-3 game, following starter Doug Rau, who failed for the eighth straight start to post a win, and rookie Rick Rhoden, who pitched 1⅔ innings. Marshall fanned Jerry Martin, but Luzinski slugged his 2-0 pitch into the center field pavailion. It was Luzinski's 13th homer of the year, the Phillies' 19th homer in June, eight of which were hit against the Dodgers.

Hester Has 50-50 Shot

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Linebacker Ray Hester, 26, has Hodgkins Disease, and doctors say he has only a 50-50 chance to live.

Hester played three years on special teams with the New Orleans Saints in the National Football League and last year worked his way up to a starting linebacker's post with the World Football League's Hawaiians.

He's proud of his reputation as a scrapper and regards his disease as just another challenge — the toughest he's ever faced, but nothing he can't whip.

"I've thought the whole thing through," he said. "After you come to the realization that you may die and face up to it, then you put yourself in the right mental frame of mind.

"With the mental part behind you, you turn to the physical. The idea of facing two years of treatment which the doctors can't guarantee will work isn't what you call encouraging.

"But what the heck, I'm still here. I've been through some pain on the football field. So you take it as it comes." Hester said the treatment will involve cobalt treatments and injections — "A real bummer.

"I've lost my sense of taste, and I guess that's because of the drugs I'm on. I've also lost the feeling in my fingertips, and I don't know what's causing that."

He has also lost 35 pounds.

"People keep telling me how good I look. Well, maybe I look good to them, but I'm used to looking like a football player."

Prison Term Next

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Sitting behind his desk at Hurley Medical Center, where he is a management intern, Billy Taylor says it's hard to think about what's ahead.

In two weeks, Taylor, the leading ground-gainer of all time in University of Michigan football annals, will leave his job — to serve a prison term. "It's hard to believe I'll be leaving this and going behind bars," Taylor said.

He was sentenced early this month to eight years in prison for his role in an attempted bank robbery in Barberton, Ohio, last January. He waited in a car outside the bank during the robbery, and surrendered to police without a struggle when the plan went awry.

Taylor, 26, has until July 1 to finish the civil service job he got in February developing an affirmative action program for the hospital's 2,500 employes. Then he must report to the U.S. marshal in Akron.

He said he has tried not to think about the future. "I realize I got into a situation first by not making my own decisions and by straying from the way I've been brought up," he said.

"If you've been brought up in a God-fearing home, if that's your position in life and that's how you live your life, then you should stick to it," Taylor said.

"I know that my involvement was very limited, but it's something I'm going to have to pay for," he added. "I'm going into it realizing that, first of all, there is some time I've got to spend, and I'm just praying that the people in the position to help me realize I don't belong there for any long period of time."

Taylor failed in a number of attempts at pro football, and he was running into financial problems. But he doesn't blame those difficulties for his participation in the robbery.

"Indecisiveness," Taylor said. "That has cost me a lot. That's what got me sucked into this whole thing."

UCI Girl Wins

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—Lee Ann Fischer of UC Irvine won her opening singles match over Malorie Snyder of Kalamazoo, 6-2, 6-2, but teammate Jody Peterson lost to Claudia Smith of Elizabethtown, 6-1, 6-0, in the AIWA women's intercollegiate tennis championships here Sunday.

Winters, Bridgeman, Smith Also in Deal

INGLEWOOD — The Los Angeles Lakers acquired professional basketball's top player, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, from the Milwaukee Bucks today in exchange for four players, including the Lakers' top draft pick, Dave Meyers of UCLA.

At a news conference at the Forum here today, it was announced that Meyers, Junior Bridgeman of Louisville—another first round pick—and current Lakers Elmore Smith and Brian Winters would go to the Bucks for Abdul-Jabbar.

For several years now, Abdul-Jabbar has been reportedly unhappy in Milwaukee and has expressed interest about playing in either New York or Los Angeles.

The trade terminated a relationship that ranged from 1971's giddy honeymoon — an NBA championship in the Bucks' third season of existence — to frustration as the team unexpectedly plunged to last place in its division this year.

Abdul-Jabbar asked the Bucks to trade him several times since they had won draft rights to him in a coin flip with Phoenix in 1969. Separation from his wife more than a year ago and the team's misfortunes intensified his disenchantment, and he made his feelings public for the first time last March 14.

"I never said I was unhappy with the Bucks or Milwaukee," he said. "The problem is, I don't have any family or friends here. The things I relate to aren't in Milwaukee.

"Milwaukee is not the kind of city I'm about. I'm not knocking it or the people. It's just that, socially and culturally, I don't fit in Milwaukee."

Milwaukee fans worshiped Abdul-Jabbar the player, but few knew or understood the man, whose interests and tastes include his orthodox Moslem faith, black culture, heavy reading and jazz music.

None of those pursuits is particularly visible in Milwaukee, a city of about 15 percent black population which is stereotyped for love of beer, bratwurst, basketball and polka bands.

He seldom tolerated even the briefest insights into his personality or private life. He once purchased a home in a tree-shaded suburb, but retreated to a lakefront apartment after a few days because the home attracted throngs of curious persons.

He usually consented to post-game interviews in recent years, but his relationship with the local media remained distant.

"Billy and I have a lot in common along those lines," he once said of Bill Walton, like himself a former All-American at UCLA and currently the controversial and enigmatic center of the Portland Trailblazers.

"We are both reclusive," Abdul-Jabbar said. "He (Walton) detects a certain callousness among certain press people who are small-minded and out to serve their own end. I talk to people I can relate to."

Raised a Roman Catholic in New York City, the former Ferdinand Lewis Alcindor converted to Islamism in 1968 and three years later changed his name to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The names translate to "Noble," "Servant of" and "Tyrant" or "Healer."

"I don't think Christians have a very good history of practicing what they preach," he once said. "My people were put in bondage by Christians. They were made to become Christians, but they have not been treated truly as brothers on the basis of skin color. That's totally wrong. It's not what Jesus taught."

The surge of racial consciousness that marked the 1960s affected Abdul-Jabbar, as it did many who reached maturity in that decade.

Basketball fans received an insight into Abdul-Jabbar's commitment to his faith when seven persons, including five children, were slain in a Washington mansion Jan. 18, 1973. Abdul-Jabbar had bought the mansion for $78,000 in 1971 and donated it to members of the Hanafi Madhhab Moslem sect, to which he belongs, for use as a spiritual center.

Figueroa Vs Busby After Split

KANSAS CITY — Ed Figueroa (5-2) goes against Kansas City Royals whiz Steve Busby (8-5) tonight as the California Angels try to regroup after the weekend disaster in Milwaukee, where they dropped three of four games.

The Angels split a 7-hour-long doubleheader with the Brewers Sunday, winning the opener 8-7 but losing the nightcap, 4-2.

Lee Stanton sparked the Angels attack in the first game Sunday, slugging his second grand slam in a week, the first Angel to do that since Rick Reichardt in 1967.

Stanton's third inning slam gave the Angels a 5-1 lead, but the Brewers caught up in the seventh. Each team got another run in the ninth, sending the game into overtime.

The Angels picked up the eighth and winning run in the 11th inning when Milwaukee's Billy Champion gave up a bases-loaded walk to Bruce Bochte. Angel southpaw Mickey Scott quelled a Brewer rally in the bottom of the 11th to save the game for Don Kirkwood, who got his first major league win.

In the second game, the Angels could only muster seven hits off of Milwaukee's Jim Slaton and Tom Murphy, and their two runs didn't come until the ninth inning when catcher Ellie Rodrigues slammed a homer with one on. It was too little and too late, as the Brewers won, 4-2.

Sports in Brief

Angels Get Catcher

BALTIMORE — Baltimore Orioles catcher Andy Etchebarren has been sold to the California Angels for a sum in excess of the $20,000 waiver price, the Orioles announced Sunday night.

An Orioles spokesman said the sale was made primarily because Etchebarren, who has spent his entire 15-year professional career with the Baltimore organization, threatened to retire if he was not moved to his native California.

Andretti Rolls

MOSPORT, Ont. — Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa. led all the way and held off the constant challenge of England's Brian Redman in winning the Formula 5000 auto race Sunday.

Andretti, who qualified his Lola for the pole position in the 100-mile race, finished a split second ahead of Redman, winner of the 1974 Formula 5000 series and winner of the opening race of the 1975 nine-race series at Pocono, Pa. on June 1. Redman, also in a Lola, was close behind Andretti throughout most of the race.

Courtney Dies

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Clint Courtney, manager of the Richmond Braves of the International League and a fiery former major league catcher who was involved in numerous disputes during his playing career, died early today in Genesee Hospital. He was 49.

Courtney played 11 different seasons in the major leagues, beginning in 1951. Five of those years were with the old Washington Senators.

Borg Breezes

PARIS — Bjorn Borg, the 19-year-old Swedish tennis star, mastered Guillermo Vilas of Argentina 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 Sunday and won the French title for the second straight year.

The dynamic young Swede, who lost his Italian crown two weeks ago, was right back in top form and made it a one-sided final.

Women's Doubles

Ickx, Bell Win

LE MANS, France — Jacky Ickx of Belgium and Derek Bell of Britain in a Gulf Ford won the 43rd Le Mans 24-hour race Sunday after leading for all but three hours.

In second place were Jean-Louis Lafosse and Guy Chasseuil of France in a Ligier-Ford J-S 2.

Players Try Too Hard With Pele

NEW YORK (AP) — Pele's professional soccer debut was a typical performance for Brazil's Black Pearl, the man who has averaged nearly a goal a game in his 1,254 career games.

But there was far more significance in the reception the sport received — and probably will continue to receive — now that the 34-year-old superstar is a marketable entity in the United States.

Quite simply, a North American Soccer League game wouldn't have drawn national network television coverage in the United States, much less live telecasts to Japan, Costa Rica, Mexico, Brazil, Colombia.

Quite simply, an NASL game wouldn't have attracted some 300 newsmen from all over the world to the miniature press box at Downing Stadium. It wouldn't have attracted 21,278 fans to the aged concrete structure where there are boards instead of seats and light towers that originally stood atop Ebbets Field.

Pro soccer just isn't that popular here, especially on a Father's Day when the New York Yankees were giving away baseball bats and there was horse racing at Belmont Park.

But they came; in buses, cars, on bicycles and some even on foot to see the Black Pearl show his stuff. And it wasn't even a league game; it was an exhibition.

In fact, they spent the first half of Sunday's 2-2 tie against the Dallas Tornado trying to figure out what to do. Pele's mere presence seemed to dictate that he carry the ball throughout, take all the shots and score all the goals. That's what helped Dallas gain a 2-0 lead in the first half.

"The younger players were passing to me too much instead of dribbling more or passing to other players," said Pele after his long-awaited debut. "The team I saw Tuesday (when he watched the Cosmos for the first time after signing his multi-million dollar contract) was much more coordinated."

Weiskopf Quits

Jenkins Leads Golf Classic

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Jenkins, a non-winner who has a certain affinity for this tournament, got the lead and Tom Weiskopf got down the road in Sunday's second round of the weather-plagued, $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

"I just wish they played about 40 tournaments a year here," Jenkins said after his six-under-par 65 had given him a commanding, five-stroke lead at 134, eight under par for two delayed rounds over the friendly little 6,687 yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

"I don't know why, but my putting stroke just seems to smooth out when I get to Whitemarsh," said Jenkins, who tied for third in this tournament as a tour sophomore last season. He has finished higher only once in his brief career.

Alan Tapie of Newport Beach, tied for third after the first round, fell to 144 for the two rounds and is well behind the leaders.

But while Jenkins, winner of only $11,180 this season, was hungrily eyeing the $30,000 first prize, Weiskopf turned his gaze toward Medinah, Ill., and the U. S. Open that gets under way Thursday.

Weiskopf, who shot a fat 76 in Saturday's twice-delayed opening round, was one of more than a half-dozen to withdraw.

The first two days of the schedule were washed out by heavy rains and a flooding creek. The tournament now is set to end with 36 holes today, weather permitting.

Irvine, Downey In Split

DOWNEY—Rick Cornell's rbi single in the eighth inning of the second game here Sunday gave the Irvine Collegians a split of their doubleheader with the Downey Reds in summer intercollegiate baseball action.

The Collegians won the nightcap, 5-4, after dropping a 4-3 decision.

Irvine was trailing 4-3 going into the eighth, but came up with four hits. Tom Soto and Herb Tiderman led off with singles and came home on rbi hits by Jeff Hancock and Cornell.

Soto was the batting star of the nightcap, getting four hits, including a triple. Catcher Steve Morton also tripled, scoring Cornell in the fourth inning.

The Collegians were not as fortunate in the opener, blowing a 3-1 lead. Downey scored three unearned runs in the seventh inning on two walks and an error.

Irvine's record is now 3-6.

Area Girls All-CIF

Four Orange Coast area girls were honored at Magic Mountain Sunday when the All-CIF teams for softball, track, gymnastics and swimming were honored along with badminton.

Kathy David of Edison High, was named to the 4-A first team as an infielder in softball and pitcher Susie Davis of Mission Viejo gained a spot on the 3-A second team.

Lisa Gourdine of El Toro, was named as the top long jumper in track and Becky Daniel of Newport Harbor gained a spot as the team's shot putter.

Mary Diamond of Mission Viejo in singles and the doubles combine of Gigi d'Angelo and Debbie Pool of Estancia, gained first team honors in badminton.

Mat Lessons At El Toro

Any boys of school age interested in wrestling are invited to attend instructional wrestling sessions at El Toro High this summer.

El Toro wrestling coach Bob Webber is coordinating the program that begins Wednesday and will last through the end of July.

The lessons will be held twice a week—on Wednesday and Friday—and will take place in the El Toro High boys' gym from 4-6 p.m.

Hawaiian Gardens Wins; GWC Falls

Hawaiian Gardens exploded for 10 runs in the first four innings Sunday night and went on to record an easy 10-1 win over Coletto Ford in a Connie Mack League baseball game played at Blair Field in Long Beach.

In a Metro League doubleheader played at Golden West College Sunday afternoon, Golden West dropped a twin bill to Chapman College, losing the opener, 4-3, and the second game, 1-0.

In a game that lasted only five innings, Tim Funke and Rick Hibbard drove in two runs each as Hawaiian Gardens scored one run in the first, six in the third and three in the fourth.

Chapman scored three runs in the first inning against Golden West, but the latter tied it with two in the second and one in the third.

Tom Johnson was hit by a pitch, Steve Namath singled and they both moved up on a wild pitch. Mike Selwood hit an infield single, scoring Johnson and Namath came home on an error for the two runs in the second.

In the second Jack Hudson singled, stole second and scored on Tim Richards' single.

Richards and Ron Meredith combined to pitch a two-hitter for Golden West in the second game, but Chapman's Bob Wolf and Art Spencer also combined for a two-hitter. Chapman won the game with a run in the third.

Hawkeye Paces PORC

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Editor

The 1975 edition of the biennial Pacific Ocean Racing Conference (PORC) went into the record books Saturday with the sailing of Newport Harbor Yacht Club's 26-mile colorful Huntington Tidelands race.

The PORC is a small scale version of Florida's famed Southern Ocean Racing Conference, and like the SORC, it turned into a showcase for several new yacht designs.

And when the trophies were handed out at the gala dinner at NHYC, Saturday, at least two of the top prizes went to two local yachts so new they were almost launched on the starting line of the first PORC race.

THE TOP CLASS A prize went to Dave Cuckler's 48-foot sloop Hawkeye, a creation of Newport Beach designer Bruce King. Hawkeye is an extremely radical design with a 16½ foot beam and twin adjustable bilgeboards instead of the customary fixed keel.

The adjustable bilgegoards, a refinement of the centerboard type yacht, were designed to reduce wetted surface when sailing off the wind in such races as the Transpac and the races to Mexico. It was King's second such design, the first being Al Cassel's 35-foot one-tonner The Terrorist.

Class B honors in the five-race PORC went to an equally new boat, Hurricane Deck, owned and skippered by Morrie Kirk of Balboa Yacht Club. Hurricane Deck is a 40-foot two-ton configuration designed by young Doug Peterson of San Diego and built by Carl Eichenlaub. She was launched only a few days before the start of the first PORC out of San Diego.

IN HULL DESIGN, Hurricane Deck is a sister-ship to Vendetta which has won most of the races she has entered during the past year. She was the Class C winner in the PORC.

The reason for the difference in class between the two one-tonners is that Hurricane Deck has a slightly different rig, requiring her to give time to Vendetta. Vendetta is sailed by Tom Tobin and Art DeFever of San Diego Yacht Club.

Big surprise in the PORC came in Class D won by Whimsey Tres, a Yankee-38 owned and skippered by Hugh Rogers of Los Angeles Yacht Club. Veteran observers had virtually conceded the Class D series to George Tooby's Sparkman & Stephens-designed 35-footer, America Jane II from Newport Harbor Yacht Club. America Jane has cleaned up in most types of competition she has been in during the past year.

The sponsoring Yacht Racing Union of Southern California does not compute overall fleet results in the PORC. In the class competition, here is the way the series wound up:

BOATING

Tidelands Regatta Real Traffic Jam

Newport Harbor Yacht Club's traditional Huntington Tidelands race, a yachting event created with the spectator in mind, turned into a three-ring circus Saturday for participants and spectators alike.

The Tidelands race was originally conceived as a yachting event that would give shoreside spectators a view of yachts beating, reaching and spinnaker-running near the beach from the Balboa Pier to Huntington Beach and return.

BUT IN THE intervening years other series type yachting regattas have adopted the course, making it somewhat of a "piggy back" race. In addition to the Tidelands race — which requires no previous entries in series races, the course Saturday was occupied by the Ahmanson Series racers, the Midget Ocean Racing Fleet sailing for the Corkett Trophy, and the Performance Handicap Racing fleet competing in the Dickson Series, and the Pacific Ocean Racing Conferences.

Here is the way the scoring went in all events:

HUNTINGTON TIDELANDS RACE

IOR-B—1, Silver Fox, Don Kellerher, LBYC; 2, Mistress III, Robert Ettinger, St. FYC; 3, Outward Bound, J. Lenthall, DPYC.

AHMANSON DIVISION

CLASS B—Nuance, Steve Austin, SSSC; Liberty Bob Babson, Capo BYC.

PORC DIVISION

Winds Buffet Dana Point Yacht Race

Freak, blustery winds off Dana Point Saturday blew out sails and contributed to some rail-down sailing in Dana Point Yacht Club's Performance Handicap Racing Fleet Series.

Winds of 25 to 30 knots came up suddenly and were not experienced in any other area along the coast. Race results:

CLASS A —1, Maker (Irwin-30) Savin and Doose, OYC; 2, Big Kahuna II (Islander-36) Mark Townsend, DPYC; 3, Smokin (Islander-41) Jim Livermore, Capo BYC.

Kialoa Leads Atlantic Race

Jim Kilroy's 79-foot ketch Kialoa from Newport Beach was the first yacht to round the turn off Cape Henry, Va., and head for the open ocean in the 473-mile Annapolis, Md., to Newport, R.I., race Sunday.

The race started Saturday afternoon after a short delay because of light winds. Weather throughout Chesapeake Bay was sunny and warm with winds in the bay ranging from 10 to 15 knots from the south. Winds in the Atlantic were 5 to 15 knots.

Summer Work

U.S. to Provide Jobs for Youths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department says it will release almost half a billion dollars for 840,400 summer jobs for young people when President Ford signs a bill providing the money.

The legislation was passed by Congress last week and the White House said President Ford will sign it. The summer jobs program will provide 9 to 12 weeks of employment at wages of at least $2.10 hourly for youths aged 14 through 21. The jobs are intended for young people from economically disadvantaged families.

The $456,350,000 will be distributed to 433 state and local government agencies.

Grass Find

EUREKA (AP) — Plastic-wrapped bricks and bales of marijuana valued at $40,000 have washed ashore along Humboldt Bay and authorities say they don't know how it got there.

Humboldt County sheriff's deputies refused Sunday to disclose the location of the find for fear that beach combers would flock to the area.

Youth Slain

MADRID (UPI) — A policeman shot and killed a youth in a bar in the Basque city of Bilbao, government sources said today.

They said a group of youths created a "disturbance" in the bar Sunday. Two policemen tried to calm them, but one of them was attacked and pushed to the ground. The other policeman fired a shot killing Alfredo San Sebastian.

His death was the third in 10 days in incidents between police and civilians in the restive Basque region.

IN SHORT

Isle Shaken

MORIOKA, Japan (AP) — A severe earthquake at sea early today shook the northeastern tip of Honshu, the largest of Japan's four main islands. The Japanese meteorological agency said the impact on land was mild, and there were no reports of damage or injuries.

Agency officials said the quake registered 3 on the Japanese scale of 7. The epicenter was located 40 miles offshore from Iwate Prefecture, officials said.

CIA Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate committee investigating the CIA is going back through the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations in an attempt to trace assassination plots and any actual murders.

CIA Director William Colby comes before the committee this week to answer questions about any CIA participation in the assassination of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, and Operation Phoenix, a program of eliminating — sometimes killing — suspected Viet Cong agents during the war.

Women's Jail Disturbance Injures 13

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A delegation of inmates met with prison officials today following a disturbance at the state Corrections Center for Women late Sunday in which 13 persons were injured.

Meanwhile, about 150 of the prison's some 434 inmates remained in the prison yard, protesting conditions at the institution. The inmates vowed they would remain outside their cells until they spoke personally with Gov. Jim Holshouser.

Holshouser was in Boca Raton, Fla., at a meeting of the Southern Regional Education Board.

C. Gene Anderson, a top aide to Holshouser, was participating in the meeting with inmate representatives. Anderson said he had informed Holshouser of the prison disturbance early this morning, and told him there was no need to return at this time.

A prison spokesman said the disturbance began about 8 p.m. Sunday when the demonstrators refused to return to their cells at the evening lockup.

Guards forced the women into the prison auditorium, where the prisoners began breaking windows and scuffling with the officers, the spokesman said.

Eight officers and five inmates were injured, officials said. Some of the injured were hospitalized, but the number and the extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

Lido Regatta Draws Field Of 67 Boats

Newsman Expelled

SAIGON (UPI) — The government has notified one of three remaining American newsmen in South Vietnam he would have to leave the country aboard the first available flight. Daniel Rodill, 36, of Philadelphia, said government authorities told him Saturday his expulsion was part of a continuing process of thinning out of the foreign press corps.

100 Boats Compete In Reverse Argosy

The ocean from Huntington Beach to Newport Beach swarmed with sailboats Saturday as nearly 100 boats from Los Angeles Harbor sailed through the Huntington Tidelands fleet of about 100 boats.

The fleet out of Los Angeles Harbor was bound for Newport on the first leg of the Bahia de Cabrillo Reverse Argosy co-sponsored by Cabrillo Beach Yacht Club and Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club.

After spending the night rafted up to BCYC's guest dock the fleet gathered off Balboa Pier Sunday for the return race to San Pedro. Skippers and crews of the visiting yachts were entertained at a gala dinner party and dance at BCY Saturday night.

THE REVERSE Argosy is a copy of Newport Ocean Sailing Association's Alamitos Bay Argosy in the fall in which the yachts race from Newport to Long Beach on a Saturday, whoop it up at LBYC on Saturday before sailing home the next day.

The argosy type races actually stemmed from the Newport to Ensenada bash which combines good hard racing with a dash of social hilarity thrown in. Here are the results of the two races of the Reverse Argosy:

Los Angeles to Newport (Saturday)

MORF — Dubhe, Walter Richards, S1 BYC; 2. Gladiator, Paul Smith, LBYC; 3. Hawk, Don Hucker, LSF; 4. Maid Of the Mist, Ken Stiles, CBYC; 5. Pop 'N Us, Peter Kent, LBYC.

PHRF-A — 1. Impetuous, Carl Coe, Navy YC; 2. Geisha, Frank Dair, CBYC; 3. Paper Doll, Gilbert Thompson, SAYC; 4. Aurora, Ed Underman, LSF; 5. Tonic, Bill Howard, LBYC.

Newport to Los Angeles (Sunday)

PACIFIC MULTIHULL — No results.

PHRF-A — 1. Impetus; 2. Aurora; 3. Zephyrous, Joe Degenhardt, S1 BYC; 4. Trident, Phil Novrodvorsky, Navy YC; 5. Flying Cloud, Eugene Feldman, CBYC.

PHRF-B — 1. Blackjack, Howard Jackson, LBYC; 2. Bobbil, Bill Lovelille, CBYC; 3. Lupi Tai, Joan Kind, CBYC; 4. Fortune, Fred Stevens, LAYC; 5. Ginger Ale.

Cal Cup Race

Sorcery Close Winner

It was Jacob Wood's Sorcery, from the host California Yacht Club, by one minute and 24 seconds over Bill Niemi's Sorcery, Seattle Yacht Club, in the third and deciding race of the Cal Cup match race series on Santa Monica Bay off Marina del Rey Sunday.

The two 61-foot sloops had battled tack-for-tack and jibe-for-jibe for three days in match racing that rivaled or outclassed the same kind of competition in the hallowed America's Cup.

Joli had staged a great come-from behind effort on Friday to win the initial race by 26 seconds, only to have a gear failure drop her behind her sister ship in the second race Saturday, losing by 28 seconds.

SO THE BIG spectator fleet was all set Sunday to witness another thriller. But it didn't materialize — despite better wind and sea conditions than the two previous days.

The spectator fleet cheered the start as the two yachts crossed the line deadlocked with Sorcery holding a slight advantage to weather.

But when Niemi chose to give up his safe-leeward position and engage Sorcery in a tacking duel, it was all over but the shouting and horn tooting.

ON THE HALF-hearted duel up the first weather leg, the Seattle yacht seemed to be footing as well as Sorcery, but after each tack she fell farther to leeward. At the mark she was one minute and 19 seconds astern.

As in the previous races, Joli seemed to have better speed off the wind. On the run to the reaching mark she gained 19 seconds on Sorcery and chopped another eight seconds off the deficit on the reach to the leeward mark.

Back on the wind it was the same story as the first weather leg, despite a more spirited tacking duel. Joli even tried enticing her rival over into the spectator fleet in order to force Sorcery's crew into a mistake, but to no avail. Wood and his crew kept a tight cover on Joli, gaining on each tack to build up a 1:33 advantage at the second weather mark.

BOTH CREWS set "bloopers" under their spinnakers on the final downwind run, giving the spectators a thrill with their clouds of sail. (A "blooper" is a large, light sail, similar to a spinnaker but flown free on the opposite side.)

At the end of the 18-mile course Joli had gained only nine seconds on Sorcery and the most hotly contested Cal Cup in the 13 year history of the event was all over but the shouting and horn tooting.

AD RESPONSE 'TREMENDOUS'

"Tremendous." That's the word a Huntington Beach man used to describe the response this Daily Pilot classified ad produced:

'66 DART GT, 2 dr. buckets, slant six, A/T, 1 owner, $425. xxx-xxxx.

2 SALES MADE ON SINGLE AD

Two sales for the price of a single classified ad. That's the success story related by a Newport Beach man who said he sold not one, but two cars when this ad ran in the Daily Pilot:

'67 COUGAR, Xlnt. Cond. Orig. ownr. A.C.P.S. P.B. $925. xxx-xxxx.

PUT A FEW WORDS TO WORK FOR YOU

"I'm another satisfied customer," the caller from Huntington Beach said.

"I sold my car," he added.

'63 GALAXY V-8. $250

SUCCESS DOUBLED WITH AUTO SALE

"I got a lot of calls from girls and sold my car, too. To the first person who came to see it."

That's the double success related by the Newport Beach bachelor who placed this ad in the Daily Pilot:

"The phone rang once every nine minutes and we rented the apartment."

Freedom Train Plans Capistrano Stop

The Freedom Train will make a three-day stopover in San Juan Capistrano in January while chugging from coast to coast on its Bicentennial tour.

Mayor James K. Weathers said today he had received a telegram from the Freedom Train Foundation agreeing to the San Juan stop providing two conditions can be met.

One involving securing permission from the Santa Fe Railway for the use of 1,200 feet of rail siding, and the other is to provide a guaranteed income of $15,000 a day for the train.

Weathers said he is confident those contractual obligations can be fulfilled. He noted that the town of Archibald, Ohio, was able to meet the financial request by pre-selling tickets for admission to the train.

The train, carrying valuable artifacts from America's 200-year history, will be drawn by a restored steam engine and displayed on a section of track north of Del Obispo.

In addition to San Juan Capistrano, the train is scheduled to stop in San Diego, Los Angeles and Anaheim. No specific dates were given for the San Juan stop.

Weathers said it will carry the original Declaration of Independence and the original U.S. Constitution, a car filled with Lincoln memorabilia, and several other historical documents.

Those admitted will view the exhibits from a moving sidewalk constructed inside the train.

San Juan Capistrano applied for a Freedom Train stop because it also will be celebrating its 200th birthday in 1976.

Mayor Weathers noted that one of the Freedom Train obligations — that of providing housing for the train's staff of 125 — had already been solved by putting the crew up in a local motel.

Develop Ban Hit By Unit

The city of Laguna Beach has been stung with a $250,000 claim from owners of a Crescent Bay Point lot who maintain they cannot develop or sell the property because of an open space designation applied by the city council one year ago.

The claim was filed by Margaret Sandra McKnight Russell, Earl Kenneth Russell and Eva May Goalder, as trustees of Russell Trust for Children of 1972, owners of the blufftop lot commanding an impressive view of the Laguna Beach shoreline and the Pacific Ocean.

The lot is just south of three Crescent Bay Point lots jointly purchased by the city, county and state from the Russell trust earlier this year. Purchase price was $550,000. The site will be developed as a view park.

The claim cited a June 1974 action of the City Council stating that it was not the intention of the city to purchase the lot if agreement could be reached with the owners on a "visual easement" over its seaward portion.

According to William Wilcoxen, attorney for the Russells, this was construed to mean that no construction would take place within 60 feet of the top of the bluff.

The owners allege in the claim that the action designated the land for open space for park

Hurd Convicted Of Two Murders

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Steven Craig Hurd was found guilty of two murders today by an Orange County Superior Court jury which must now determine if the bushy-haired defendant was sane when he participated in two killings within a 24-hour period.

The jury ended two days of deliberation by ruling that Hurd, 25, was guilty of first degree murder in the slayings five years ago of Mission Viejo teacher Florence Nancy Brown and service station attendant Jerry Wayne Carlin.

Hurd was with convicted killer Arthur Craig "Moose" Hulse, now 21, on June 2, 1970, when Hulse used a roofer's ax to chop to death Carlin, 21, in the restroom of his service station.

It was alleged in Hurd's trial that he repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Brown, 31, of El Toro to death in an Irvine orange grove the next day after the teacher was dragged from her station wagon by the gang of drug-using drifters led by Hurd.

Opening statements in the sanity hearing now faced by Hurd will be delivered later today in Judge Frank Domenichini's courtroom.

26-cent Tax HikeViewed By Trustees

Laguna Beach school trustees will consider approval tonight of a tentative $5,435,660 budget for the upcoming school year that would raise the tax rate an estimated 26 cents.

The budget is about $416,000 greater than this year's $5,019,380 spending program. The increase will cover the cost of educating new students and offsetting inflationary increases in many budget accounts.

About $346,000 is set aside in reserves. This figure will be reduced when school trustees decide on salary increases for school employes.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Education Center, 550 Blumont St.

The projected 26-cent tax rate increase would raise the overall rate to $3.12. This rate is based on an eight percent increase of the assessed valuation of property within the district.

The owner of a $60,000 home next year would pay $505 in school taxes. He paid $429 this year.

Following review of the tentative budget by the county Department of Education, it will return to the district for final approval by the board on Aug. 5.

Shark Bites Man on Leg

Authorities said Daniels was swimming near his boat in about 15 feet of water when the shark attacked. His wife and daughter were in the boat. By batting at and scaring the shark, Daniels was able to break loose and swim back to his boat.

Teachers To Picket CUSD Meet

Teachers of the Capistrano Unified School District are expected to picket a meeting of the district school board at 7:30 tonight at San Juan Elementary School.

The teachers hope to underscore their demands for pay increases in what may be their final chance this school year.

The demonstration is being planned by members of the Capistrano Union of Federated Teachers which represents a fifth — about 60 — of the district's teachers. The others are member of the Capistrano Unified Educators Association or belong to no organization.

Representatives of the protesting organization were not available for comment today.

The smaller teachers group has voted to boycott pay negotiations with the district because of its contention that the meetings have not been productive.

The larger group is continuing talks and has agreed to undertake its own review of the proposed school 1975-76 budget to determine where funds coulld be cut to pay for increased teacher salaries.

The current preliminary budget of $19 million, does not make provision for teacher cost of living increases. Increases for experience and education are in the budget.

It is estimated that $100,000 will have to be cut from the education spending for each percent increase the teachers are given. Initial demands were for a 20 percent increase.

District officials have forecast an 82-cent tax rate increase under the preliminary budget, an increase which would cost the owner of a $40,000 home $132 more in school taxes next year.

Presidential Approval

'CIA Had to Get Okay' — Rocky, Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major CIA activities have had presidential approval, according to both Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.).

But just what those activities were is still a big mystery in Washington and still provoking debate.

Meanwhile, a key Rules Committee member said today he will propose abolishing a special House CIA investigating committee because it has been torn by dissension.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, (D-Calif.), said he would introduce the resolution to disband the House Select Committee on Intelligence because of a move by five of the committee's seven Democrats forcing the resignation of the chairman, Rep. Lucien Nedzi, (D-Mich.).

Rockefeller, whose commission report on the CIA was released last week, said Sunday one reason the panel did not develop conclusive evidence on alleged CIA foreign assassination plots was because so many persons implicated in them are dead.

He hinted his commission may have obtained information President Kennedy and his brother, former attorney general Robert Kennedy, were involved in the alleged plots but he emphasized none of the secret information was strong enough to support conclusions of guilt.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate committee investigating the CIA, backed up Rockefeller by saying no major CIA action, such as an assassination, "would have taken place without the president knowing about it."

He also said Sunday he had seen no evidence any CIA assassination plots were ever attempted but that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the White House considered killing Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

Time magazine reported Sunday the CIA plotted in 1960 to kill Castro by supplying him with poisoned cigars, but never carried out the plan because there was no assurance Castro would

Nine Die in Bus Crash in Scotland

From Wire Services

Police said nine passengers were killed. Another 33 were hospitalized, 22 of them in serious condition.

Eyewitnesses said a truck tire blew out and that the vehicle ran out of control on a straight stretch of road and ploughed headlong into the bus.

It was the second bus accident involving elderly persons in Europe in two days. Sunday, a tour bus carrying pensioners careened down a mountain road in Villach, Austria, killing 21 persons and injuring 23.

It was Austria's worst bus disaster, and authorities said brake failure was the cause.

Police said smoke was seen coming from the brakes as the Austrian bus started down 7,106-foot Mt. Dobratsch. One survivor said bus driver Josef Ramsbacher yelled "Jump off — the brakes are failing!" before the bus hurtled over an embankment and tumbled 120 feet into a rocky ravine.

The passengers were old-age pensioners from Carinthia province. Ramsbacher, father of four, was among the dead.

The roof of the bus was torn off and many of the passengers were killed when they were thrown out of the vehicle. Several survivors pinned beneath the wreckage were freed only after a crane was brought in to pull the debris off them.

"It was dreadful," said Helmut Neumueller, who witnessed the crash. "The roof of the bus was torn off. The dead were scattered over a wide area. And the injured lay among them crying for aid."

Dr. Brigitte Norvath, a physician, said some of the dead had

Saddleback Trustees Eye Pay Demands

Trustees of the Saddleback Community College District will meet in executive session tonight to discuss salary demands by the district's 180 teachers and classified employes.

The secret deliberations are scheduled toward the end of a public business meeting set for 7:30 in the campus library.

Although the salary increase requests have not been made public, a spokesman for the college indicated both groups are asking for increases of 18 percent.

Purpose of the executive session is to discuss the demands with college business manager Roy Barletta who was appointed by the trustees as negotiator in May.

Dad, Girl Drowned

SS Catalina Said Target Of Sabotage

SAN PEDRO (AP) — Sand was dumped into the main bearings and a main electrical line was damaged on the SS Catalina, the white steamship which ferries passengers to and from Catalina Island, a steamship company spokesman says.

A ship engineer, Raymond Burnham, told police Thursday someone broke into the engine room, put sand in all the bearings then smashed electric cables with a hammer.

Switchboard operators at the Catalina Terminal Berth 95 told police that a bomb threat had been made against the ship Wednesday. They said a man had called to warn that the Army of Cambodia would bomb the ship at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Police are investigating the incident and the April bombing of the Carib Star, the Catalina's sister ship.

Countess Relates 'Terror'

LONDON (AP) — Lady Veronica Lucan, wife of the missing British earl who is sought in the murder of the family nanny, said for the first time today he had tried to strangle her on the night of the murder.

She told a tense inquest at London's Westminster Coroner's Court: "He thrust two gloved fingers down my throat and we started to fight. During the course of it he attempted to strangle me from in front."

The inquest was hearing evidence on the death of the Lucan family's nanny, 29-year-old Sandra Rivett, who was battered to death in the Belgravia home of the Countess of Lucan last Nov. 7. Lady Lucan, 37, was also badly injured by the nanny's assailant on that day.

Lady Lucan told the Daily Express, "I shall simply tell the court what happened, and if asked I shall reveal the name of the man who attacked me — the man who sat on the stairs afterwards, cried on my shoulder and told me had killed Sandra."

The countess said she waited until the man calmed down and then ran to a nearby pub for help, streaming blood and crying "murder." Miss Rivett's bludgeoned body later was found wrapped in a canvas sack in the basement of the three-story house.

Some detectives have theorized that the murderer wanted to kill the countess and got the governess by mistake.

The 40-year-old earl vanished a few hours after the killing. Scotland Yard, after interviewing the countess, issued a warrant for his arrest for murder and for the attack on his wife. He has never been traced despite reports that he was seen in France, Australia, South Africa and Latin America.

Most Scotland Yard men say they believe Lord Lucan committed suicide in some remote part of Britain. But some senior investigators think he is still alive and being hidden by friends, here or overseas.

Vandalism Report

CUSD Cites Damages Up $7,481

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"We are learning first hand that vandalism is not confined to ghetto communities," says Joe Wimer, director of administrative services for the Capistrano Unified School District.

"We are also finding," he says, "that vandalism isn't limited to kids."

Vandalism has cost the Capistrano school district more than $14,000 since July 1, 1974, Wimer reports. That is up from $7,481 the previous fiscal year.

Actual damage done amounted to $7,867 last year and $19,303 this year, he says. Restitution amounting to $386 was collected in 1973-74, and $4,650 has been applied for this year, bringing down total costs to the district.

Most restitution comes from parents of children responsible for damage to district property.

"It is important for parents to realize that they will be held liable for damage their children cause to school property," Wimer stresses. "If they know this, they may emphasize responsibility to the community more at home."

Some restitution comes from the vandals themselves — adults who have stolen school property. Theft most often occurs, Wimer says, on sites where new schools are being built. Homeowners have been known to help themselves to sprinkler heads and lumber at taxpayers' expense, he reports.

Hal Mason, director of fiscal services for the Orange County Department of Education, agrees with Wimer. "Kids often get the blame for things they don't do," he says. "Crime is on the upswing generally in Orange County. Vandalism is not keeping pace with overall crime figures."

Comparing Capistrano to other county school districts, Mason says local residents pay less for vandalism. The county average is $2 per child. The Capistrano district pays closer to $1 per child, he says.

Citing a Stanford Research Institute report on school vandalism, Wimer says that social scientists emphasize the importance of community support in combating the problem.

Mason agrees with the experts. "The kids who damage school property don't feel a part of their school," he says. "Instilling in students and area residents a pride in their school has a deterrent effect on vandalism. Planting colorful flowers around a school building has proven effective. The Fountain Valley district has made school walls available to students for Chicano murals."

Wimer points out that school property is particularly vulnerable during summer vacation. "Now that school is out," he says, "people who live around the schools can really do their communities a service by keeping an eye out for mischief and reporting suspected problems to the police."

$1 Per Gallon

Solon Predicts Gas Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says American motorists soon will be paying about $1 per gallon for gasoline if Congress and President Ford can't get together on an energy program.

Mansfield said Ford's full $3-per-barrel tariff would raise gasoline prices to about 70 cents per gallon. "On top of that, you have the recent decision by the OPEC (oil-producing) countries to raise prices by 30 percent in September," he said.

"If something isn't done by Congress and the President together, we stand to see an increase which will bring it somewhere around a dollar," he said in a weekend interview.

Mansfield said gasoline prices will rise in any event, but Congress and the White House must agree on a program to cut large-scale waste — "around 40 percent" of the supply.

High Court Knocks Fixed Legal Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down minimum legal-fee schedules for real estate transactions today in an 8 to 0 decision which probably also spells the end of fixed fees for other legal services.

The court ruled that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law whenever the fees affect interstate commerce.

The decision was a victory for a Virginia couple, Lewis H. and Ruth Goldfarb, which challenged the Fairfax County Bar Association's fixed minimum fee for legal work required when they bought a home.

It also was a victory for the Justice Department, which has waged a long-standing battle against fee schedules established by professional associations. The department supported the Goldfarbs in their lawsuit.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled 7 to 2 that states may not constitutionally prohibit the advertising of abortion services. The court said such advertising is protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

—Agreed to review a ruling of the U.S. court of Appeals in Washington that the Federal Power Commission may not give natural-gas producers built-in authority to shut off the gas supply of interstate pipelines when their contracts expire.

—Declined to review a Kentucky family's claim that its property rights were violated when its land was strip mined without the family's consent. The family does not own the mineral rights to the land in question.

Writing for the court in the legal-fees case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "In terms of restraining competition and harming consumers . . . the price-fixing activities found here are unusually damaging."

He noted that the Goldfarbs could not buy a home without a title examination and that only a lawyer licensed in Virginia could perform the work, so the Goldfarbs "could not turn to alternative sources for the necessary service."

The fee schedule issued by the county bar association established "a fixed, rigid price floor" and the schedule "was enforced through the prospect of professional discipline from the state bar and the desire of attorneys to comply with announced professional norms," Burger said.

"These factors coalesced to create a pricing system that consumers could not realistically escape," Burger wrote. "On this record the bar association's activities constitute a classic illustration of price-fixing."

purposes, and, thus, had reduced it in value and rendered it unsaleable.

The claim demands the city pay the owners $250,000 for the lot, interest on the property since June 1974 and legal costs associated with the claim.

City Council members will consider the claim at Wednesday's regular meeting. They are expected to refer the claim to City Attorney George Logan and the city's insurance carrier.

Wilcoxen said the intent of the claim is to seek a determination from the city on whether it wants to purchase the lot or free it for development.

He said the Russells want to build a private residence on the site, but that he has advised them not to spend money on planning until the open space issue is resolved.

He noted that any development on the property would require approval from the regional coastal commission.

The Rockefeller Commission report was to be given officially today to the Senate Investigating Committee, which Wednesday will hear from CIA Director William Colby testifying under tight security about the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Dinh Diem.

Rockefeller's hint of Kennedy involvement in assassination plots resulted in a statement from two former aides of Robert Kennedy, who accused the vice president of ignoring the conclusions of his own report or "deliberately lying."

Rockefeller said in a broadcast interview (NBC-TV's Meet the Press) the commission failed to complete the assassination investigation because it ran out of time and encountered too many difficulties.

"Let's face it," he said, "many of the people have died who were allegedly involved and others were assassinated in this country tragically."

Asked if he was referring to the Kennedys, Rockefeller replied: "Well, as I said, we have no conclusive information, but the president of the United States and the attorney general of the United States were both assassinated tragically in this country."

He was asked if he meant the Kennedys actually were involved in such plots.

South Coast Water Bond Set for Vote

The South Coast County Water District will resubmit a multi-million dollar bond issue to the district voters in the fall.

The district which serves the area from South Laguna to Dana Point failed by a narrow margin to obtain voter approval for $3.5 million in improvement bonds in March.

The new issue will be trimmed of a proposal to finance construction of a controversial 3.5 million gallon water reservoir.

Citizens Against Development which organized in the last days prior to the campaign, had charged that the reservoir was growth inducing.

Failure of the bonds to pass — it was 11 votes short — has caused a delay in the start of a $1.2 million water main project of the district and the Laguna Beach County Water District which had been scheduled to start in September.

Completion of the joint project will be delayed until adequate financing is provided, according to South Coast County Water District.

Hurd accepted the two verdicts today with no display of emotion. He is under daily sedation following a California Supreme Court ruling last month that he could be tried on the murder charges provided he is tranquilized at all phases of the trial.

Lawyers for both sides agree that Hurd is only capable of telling the truth or understanding testimony while he is under the supervised sedation.

He faces life in state prison on each of the two convictions if the jury now finds that he was sane at the time of the two killings.

Deputy District Attorney Frank Briseno declined to ask for the death penalty on either conviction when he made his final argument to the jury.

Cuba to Give Money Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cuban government has agreed to return a $2 million ransom obtained by skyjackers in 1972 from Southern Airways, Sen. George S. McGovern, (D-S.D.), announced today.

In a letter to McGovern, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said his government has decided to give "a positive answer" to requests that the money be returned.

McGovern said he received the letter from Castro Friday.

been thrown from the bus and were hanging in trees lining the precipice. She said nine dead were found under the bus.

According to first police reports, the truck crossed through a gap in the median to join the road on which the bus was traveling. Police said the bus overturned and the driver was among the dead.

Raiders Get Guns, Ammo From Armory

BELFAST (UPI) — Armed raiders dressed as militiamen overpowered guards at a Northern Ireland militia camp early today, cleaned the armory of its weapons and ammunition and escaped in two stolen military vehicles.

A British army spokesman said the raiders escaped with 148 semiautomatic rifles, 35 submachine guns, three 3.22 rifles, a general purpose machine gun, an automatic pistol and "a substantial quantity" of ammunition.

Light Crowds At Beaches

Gloomy weather made things bright for lifeguards along the south coast this weekend.

Guards in both San Clemente and Laguna Beach reported generally light crowds over the weekend with Sunday being the heavier of the two days. No incidents were reported.

For the second weekend, Laguna Beach guards reported a heavier than normal influx of scuba divers caused by a re-certification law passed in Los Angeles County.

Clemente Nabs Pistol Packer

San Clemente police arrested a Grants Pass, Oregon, man. They said a 9mm automatic pistol slipped from the man's trousers and clattered to the floor of a downtown cafe Saturday.

David Gary Johnson, 21, was booked on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon without a permit and for alleged possession of dangerous drugs.

Officers were called to the Halfway House Coffee Shop, 218 S. El Camino Real, by a cafe employe.

Police reported that after dropping the handgun, the man calmly picked it up and put it back in the waist band of his pants.

'Treasure' Found

HUNTINGDON, England (UPI) — Archeologists and British Museum officials reported Sunday the discovery of 25 pieces of church silver making up possibly "the earliest known collection of Christian church plates in the Roman Empire." The silver, with an estimated value of $120,000, was turned over to county officials for a decision as to whether it is treasure trove — thus going to the government — or whether it will be given to the finder.

Mariners gives you up to a $1,500 tax deduction this year...

. . .AND EVERY YEAR UNTIL YOU RETIRE! NOW YOU CAN BUILD A TAX SHELTERED RETIREMENT FUND AT MARINERS, WITH "IRA" — THE INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT.

Mariners Individual Retirement Account is a personal tax-sheltered retirement plan. "IRA" was developed by Congress to give you an effective way to build your own retirement fund.

You can save as much as $1500 or 15% of your wages, whichever is less, and your savings will be a tax deduction during your working years. If your spouse works, your combined tax-sheltered savings can be as much as $3000 per year.

Come in to Mariners and start your own Individual Retirement Account. You'll be saving tax dollars now and building a much brighter future. For more information, come in or call any one of our convenient locations.

HERE'S HOW FAST YOUR MONEY GROWS IN A MARINERS "IRA" ACCOUNT. Individual Retirement Accounts are presently earning 7¾% per year when placed in a 6-year certificate. Your annual yield is increased to a big 8.06% when interest is added to the account balance and compounded daily. With a maximum individual contribution of $1500 each year, here's how your money will grow:

AFTER	WITH TAX SHELTERED IRA PLAN	WITHOUT TAX SHELTERED PLAN	EXTRA MONEY FROM TAX DEFERRAL
5 yrs.	$ 9,510	6,730	$ 2,780
10 yrs.	23,540	15,750	7,790
20 yrs.	74,640	65,840	30,560
30 yrs.	185,550	95,030	90,520

Disclosures Proposed

Food Ad Rules Pushed by FTC

By SYLVIA PORTER

While the Federal Trade Commission is pushing tough rules covering food advertising in the U.S., an even harder-hitting approach to the explosive issue of food advertising is being urged by a group of the FTC's own staff members.

The FTC "Staff Proposals" call for "Affirmative Disclosure" — or disclosure requirements where no requirements exist today — in food ads on the grounds that omission of nutrition information in food advertising constitutes a "deceptive and unfair" practice over which the FTC has legal regulatory authority.

Here's a rundown on these proposals:

(1) IF A FOOD CONTAINED an added nutrient, or if any nutrition claim or piece of information respecting nutrition were made on the label or in the ad, advertising for the product would have to identify up to four key nutrients present in nutritionally significant amounts (10 percent or more of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for one serving of each nutrient). The ad also would have to show the actual percentage of the RDA represented by each nutrient and number of calories in a serving.

A TV ad for a can of spaghetti and meatballs, for instance, would have to disclose something like this on the screen: "One I½ oz. serving provides the following percentages of the U.S. RDA: Protein 15, Niacin 10, Iron 10; calories 100."

(2) If a food did not contain any significant total of any nutrient, the ad would have to disclose that fact in a statement such as: "This food does not contain 10 percent or more of the U.S. RDA of any vitamin, mineral or protein."

(3) If a food did not have any nutrition information on its label for one reason or another, its ad still would have to disclose the number of calories per serving and the definition of "serving" also would have to be stated in the ad.

(4) FOR FOODS WHICH were not required to have nutrient labels, the ads would have to disclose specifically that the food did "not contain 10 percent or more of the U.S. RDA of any vitamins, minerals oi proteins" — if that were the case.

(5) As an alternative to these proposed "affirmative disclosures," ads would simply display the nutrient labels themselves from the food packages — for a given minimum number of seconds.

Consumer groups also are calling for:

— Full disclosure of chemical food additives including preservatives, colors, flavorings — plus a special indication if no additives w re contained in the food. The absence of any additives could be indicated — on food labels and ads — by some simple system of symbols which could be easily recognized by the public.

— MUCH MORE EXPLICIT labeling of fabricated or synthetic products, across the board from cream to ice cream, juices, bacon, eggs. Such labeling might apply to this type of product not only as it is sold in grocery stores but also as it is served in restaurants, airplanes, etc.

— Clear warnings — on labels and in ads — of the health hazards of eating too much sugar, salt, cholesterol.

— A simple scorecard system of nutrition grading of foods on labels and in ads — similar to grading of school papers.

A full six years ago, the White House Conference report on Food, Nutrition and health declared that "one basic right of individuals in our society is the right to proper food." An extension of this right is the "right" to know what you're eating.

"We need a reordering of priorities in the food industry," says Dr. Michael Jacobson, director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest in Washington — now organizing a nationwide "Food Day" for April 17, 1976 to dramatize our nutrition gap and the urgency of overhauling food advertising. And adds Jacobson: "top billing" in the new order would be "the customer's health."

YOU HAVE BEEN "invited" to write your views to the Federal Trade Commission, William Dixon, Special Asst. Director for Rulemaking, Washington, D.C. 20508. If you opt for doing nothing, you will have only yourself to blame if you dislike the outcome.

Recall the $2 Bill? Well, It May Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — With inflation having eroded the dollar, a decision will be made within a month or two on whether to bring back the $2 bill in 1976, says Deputy Treasury Secretary Stephen S. Gardner.

"Personally I favor the idea, and I think the secretary favors the idea," said Gardner. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon recently said he tends to support it.

Gardner said the $2 bill may be more useful to people now because of changes in price levels in recent years. The bill was removed from circulation in 1963 on the ground that it was not being used.

A RECENT SURVEY conducted for the Federal Reserve Board by students at the Harvard Graduate School of Business concluded there still is not much public support for a $2 bill, a board spokesman said.

The Harvard survey said a "considerable marketing effort" would be required to gain public acceptance for the $2 bill.

But Gardner said in an interview that he doesn't have much faith in such surveys — "To go out and ask people if they would use something they are not now using, in part encourages negative answers."

The Treasury Department will probably make the final decision by midsummer, but the Federal Reserve Board's opinion is considered important because the boat would be responsible for putting the bills into circulation.

IF A DECISION IS made to go ahead with it, Gardner said one reason for printing the bill in 1976 is to overcome past public resistance by tying the bill to the nation's Bicentennial observance.

A controversy would be almost certain to develop over whose portrait the bill should carry. There is some sentiment in Congress for a woman, such as the late suffragette, Susan B. Anthony.

However, Gardner said there also will be support for using the portrait of Thomas Jefferson, the third president, whose portrait was used on the old $2 bill. Proponents of Jefferson argue he would fit the Bicentennial theme.

There would be real economic benefits from the $2 bill, according to one advocate, Director James A. Conlon of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the agency that prints the nation's money.

Conlon has estimated his agency would save $3 million annually in printing costs, since fewer $1 dollar bills would be needed.

THE COST OF PRINTING a thousand bills of any denomination is the same, about $11, up from $7.76 per thousand in 1972. Since 1946, the largest bill printed is the $100 bill.

Conlon said one reason the $2 bill wasn't accepted before was that not enough of them were printed.

Energy Saver?

The rig that Mrs. Diane Pattison of Costa Mesa uses to haul her three sons around doesn't use any gas and doesn't pollute the atmosphere, but it does take a lot of energy — mom's. But when it comes to transporting Morgan, 10 months; David, 3, and Bruce, 4, Mrs. Pattison doesn't mind at all.

Trustees Mull Funding

Saddleback College trustees will be briefed Monday night on new legislation which could reduce state support of the college by $79,500 next year.

The special session is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the college library.

As presently written, the state budget bill would limit state appropriations for enrollment growth at community colleges from three to five percent.

For Saddleback College which has forecast a growth of 16.5 percent next year, this could mean withdrawal of state funding for about 1,200 students.

However, a compromise move by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee would allow the college to make up the difference between the state appropriations and actual enrollment to be collected from the taxpayers.

Barletta explained that state support for each Saddleback student consists of $125, considerably less than the $600 per student state subvention for Orange Coast and Golden West college students.

He said state aid represents only a small portion of the $1,500 budgeted for each student but that college officials s ill aren't happy about plans to curtail state allocations.

Barletta pointed out that some efforts had been made to persuade legislators to change their minds but that the board of trustees had not yet formally opposed the measure.

"We are not as badly off as the Coast Community College District or any other school district which receives a substantial amount of its income from state sources," Barletta explained.

"We are considered a wealthy district in terms of our assessed valuation. We have a large tax base. Our support for ADA (average daily attendance) is not that great and therefore the impact would not be that great."

Saddleback Hires 2 New College Aides

Trustees of the Saddleback Community College District have added a financial aid officer and a public information assistant to the college staff but delayed action on the hiring of an athletic therapist-trainer.

The aid officer will coordinate financial assistance to students and keep track of federal, state, and local aid payments. The position carries a salary range of $828 to $1,054 depending on qualifications and experience.

The public information assistant will help information officer Dan Armstrong with the college's community relations program. Proposed salary for the position ranges from $769 to $981.

Trustees are expected to take action on the third position at a special meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Board members balked at approving the position last Monday night because the job description made reference only to the treatment of athletes for injuries.

At the suggestion of board Chairman Robert Bartholomew, the trainer-therapist's duties will include the treatment of all students who might require whirpool baths and other therapeutic remedies.

New El Toro School to Be Named Serrano

Serrano Intermediate School has been selected as the name for the new junior high scheduled to open next winter in El Toro.

Saddleback Valley Unified School District trustees selected the name from three suggested by Ray Garubo, new principal for the facility, and a committee of teachers, parents and students.

The winning name was that of a Spanish grandee who owned a land grant in the days when Spain ruled California.

All three reflect the district's pattern of using the area's Spanish-Mexican heritage in naming schools.

Water Rates Going Up For Viejo?

District General Manager Jim Smith said he will ask directors Tuesday to authorize a rate study and to set a public hearing in July on the probable rate hike.

"The rates will go up," Smith said, "we just don't know how much."

He said a 30 percent increase in the cost of power and a charge increase of about $10 per acre foot of water as supplied by the Metropolitan Water District is prompting the rate study.

"We are not sure how the increase charge would be collected," Smith said. "If we don't increase the minimum charge (which is now four dollars per month) it would go on as a user charge, spread out among all the people who are using water."

The public is invited to the water board meetings. Tuesday's is set for 2 p.m. at the Santa Margarita office, 25571 Marguerite Parkway, Mission Viejo (Plaza Viejo).

Shopping Centers: Future Blight?

Site Is a Stone's Throw Away From Four Other Shopping Centers

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"Hell, every time I come out here there's a new shopping center somewhere," grins a Newport Beach resident who commutes to the Saddleback Valley.

The humor belies a real concern among county planners.

They believe there is too much commercially zoned property in the Saddleback Valley, encompassing the communities of El Toro, Laguna Hills and Mission Viejo.

The planners warn that blighted commercial areas may arise in the future if all the current commercially zoned property is allowed to develop.

Commercial zoning — how much is needed and where it should be located — is a difficult subject to grasp, even for the planners.

But commercial zoning standards that have been developed over the years are violated grossly in the Saddleback Valley, according to a 1973 study prepared for the county planning department by Danielian, Moon, Sampieri and Ilg (DMSI), a Newport Beach planning firm.

'They've Overdone It'

Saddleback Merchants Assail Expansion

"I think they've overdone it. It seems like there's a shopping center for every 100 homes."

Robert Tonso is owner of Tonso International Imports, a well-manicured delicatessen and liquor store in the Wild West Center, corner of McIntyre Street and La Paz Road in Laguna Hills. He has been in business in the Saddleback Valley for a year.

Tonso said he thinks the valley is saturated with shopping centers.

"Five years ago, anyone who opened a store would be an immense success, no matter how they treated their customers," Tonso said.

"But I don't know why anyone would want to go into business now. Those who aren't aggressive won't survive," he warned.

Fellow Wild West Center merchant Robert Barr, owner of Pet Safari, said, "There's more commercial than the area needs."

Even so, he said, merchants are being solicited to lease space in commercial centers that are still on the drawing boards.

"What they're offering, I don't know. But it's dumb to start somewhere and then go to a new center."

Barr also complained that there are too many like businesses in the Saddleback Valley — pet and plant stores to name two.

"There are certain types that never seem to reach saturation — liquor stores, supermarkets and restaurants, for example," he said.

"Business has been fairly good. Of course, it could always be better," said Doris Tuttle, owner of El Toro Hobby and Tennis Shop, 23684 El Toro Road, El Toro.

"But we're just being saturated with shopping centers. I'm afraid we're all going to be dragged down," she said.

Hurd Convicted Of Two Murders

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Steven Craig Hurd was found guilty of two murders today by an Orange County Superior Court jury which must now determine if the bushy-haired defendant was sane when he participated in two killings within a 24-hour period.

The jury ended two days of deliberation by ruling that Hurd, 25, was guilty of first degree murder in the slayings five years ago of Mission Viejo teacher Florence Nancy Brown and service station attendant Jerry Wayne Carlin.

Hurd was with convicted killer Arthur Craig "Moose" Hulse, now 21, on June 2, 1970, when Hulse used a roofer's ax to chop to death Carlin, 21, in the restroom of his service station.

It was alleged in Hurd's trial that he repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Brown, 31, of El Toro to death in an Irvine orange grove the next day after the teacher was dragged from her station wagon by the gang of drug-using drifters led by Hurd.

Opening statements in the sanity hearing now faced by Hurd will be delivered later today in Judge Frank Domenichini's courtroom.

Lawyers for both sides have scheduled psychiatrists as witnesses and defense attorney William Gamble hopes to put Hurd on the stand as his final witness.

Hurd accepted the two verdicts today with no display of emotion. He is under daily sedation following a California Supreme Court ruling last month that he could be tried on the murder charges provided he is tranquilized at all phases of the trial.

Lawyers for both sides agree that Hurd is only capable of telling the truth or understanding testimony while he is under the supervised sedation.

He faces life in state prison on each of the two convictions if the

Shark Bites Man on Leg

Authorities said Daniels was swimming near his boat in about 15 feet of water when the shark attacked. His wife and daughter were in the boat. By batting at and scaring the shark, Daniels was able to break loose and swim back to his boat.

Teachers To Picket CUSD Meet

Teachers of the Capistrano Unified School District are expected to picket a meeting of the district school board at 7:30 tonight at San Juan Elementary School.

The teachers hope to underscore their demands for pay increases in what may be their final chance this school year.

The demonstration is being planned by members of the Capistrano Union of Federated Teachers which represents a fifth — about 60 — of the district's teachers. The others are member of the Capistrano Unified Educators Association or belong to no organization.

Representatives of the protesting organization were not available for comment today.

The smaller teachers group has voted to boycott pay negotiations with the district because of its contention that the meetings have not been productive.

The larger group is continuing talks and has agreed to undertake its own review of the proposed school 1975-76 budget to determine where funds coulld be cut to pay for increased teacher salaries.

The current preliminary budget of $19 million, does not make provision for teacher cost of living increases. Increases for experience and education are in

Special Meeting

Zogg Pact Announced

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A special meeting to act on the resignation of superintendent William Zogg has been called for tonight by Saddleback Valley Unified School District trustees.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at Los Alisos Intermediate School, 25171 Moor Avenue, Mission Viejo.

Trustees said they will announce the legal and financial agreements made between the board and Zogg's attorneys in secret negotiations over the past few weeks.

Zogg, who has clashed with the board repeatedly since an election March 4 brought in three new trustees, has not been available for comment since the week before last and is no longer at his former office at district headquarters in Laguna Hills.

The resignation was effective Friday. Dr. Richard Welte, deputy superintendent, was announced by Henry as interim superintendent.

In a four-paragraph statement Henry said was jointly written by Zogg and the board, the resignation was attributed to "philosophical differences respecting district administration . . . which appeared to be irreconcilable."

The statement did not specify the differences and Henry declined to comment on them.

But since Zogg's biggest supporters, Chester Briner, Joseph Peterson, and Vince McCullough were defeated March 4, the superintendent and his new board have been in conflict repeatedly.

One of the incidents came when the new board asked Zogg to notify all top district administrators that they might not be rehired because the trustees felt the district was top-heavy.

He refused, noting that the new board had not yet been sworn in.

On another occasion, the board questioned Zogg in a public meeting about the fact that he is co-

Saddleback Trustees Eye Pay Demands

Trustees of the Saddleback Community College District will meet in executive session tonight to discuss salary demands by the district's 180 teachers and classified employes.

The secret deliberations are scheduled toward the end of a public business meeting set for 7:30 in the campus library.

Although the salary increase requests have not been made public, a spokesman for the college indicated both groups are asking for increases of 18 percent.

Purpose of the executive session is to discuss the demands with college business manager Roy Barletta who was appointed by the trustees as negotiator in May.

Toro Trailer Park Weighed

Members of the Orange County Planning Commission will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday to consider issuing a use permit for a 257-space mobile home park in El Toro.

The park is proposed for location on 32 acres of land on Cornelius Drive near El Toro Road.

El Toro Nursery Loses Money Bag

Deputies said the cash, representing a day's receipts at Green Thumb International, 23782 Bridger Road, was taken from behind the counter while employes were working in another part of the store.

$1 Per Gallon

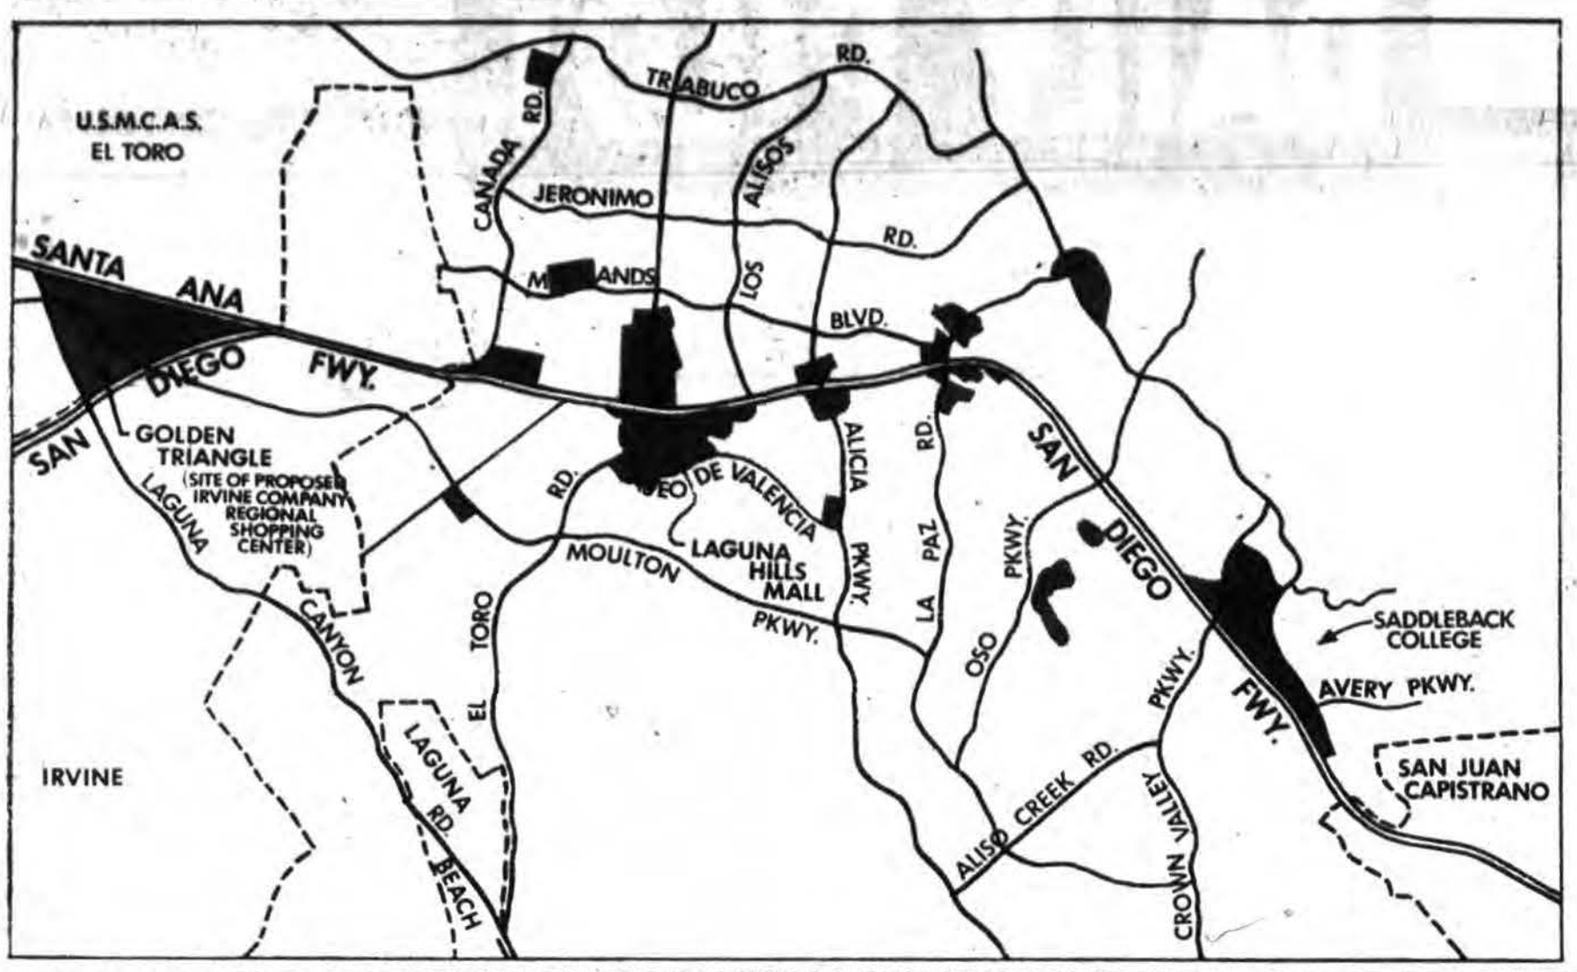
Solon Predicts Gas Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says American motorists soon will be paying about $1 per gallon for gasoline if Congress and President Ford can't get together on an energy program.

Mansfield said Ford's full $3-per-barrel tariff would raise gasoline prices to about 70 cents per gallon. "On top of that, you have the recent decision by the OPEC (oil-producing) countries to raise prices by 30 percent in September," he said.

"If something isn't done by Congress and the President together, we stand to see an increase which will bring it somewhere around a dollar," he said in a weekend interview.

Mansfield said gasoline prices will rise in any event, but Congress and the White House must agree on a program to cut large-scale waste — "around 40 percent" of the supply.



COMMERCIALLY ZONED PROPERTY (SHADED AREAS) ABOUNDS ALONG THE SAN DIEGO FREEWAY IN SADDLEBACK VALLEY
Orange County Planners Believe There Is Double the Commercial Zoning that Ultimately Will Be Needed

SHOPPING CENTER BLIGHT . . .

County planners rely heavily on the findings of the report in assessing commercial zoning in the Saddleback Valley.

The report concluded:

— There is at least twice the amount of commercially zoned acreage in the Saddleback Valley that is needed to support is projected ultimate population.

— There are five areas along the San Diego Freeway between the south Irvine city limit and the north San Juan Capistrano city limit that aspire to be major regional shopping complexes when only two, at most, will be required.

The DMSI study is predicated on a probable "concept of development" in the heart of the Saddleback Valley — defined as a corridor extending two miles on each side of the San Diego Freeway between Irvine and San Juan Capistrano.

The area is unincorporated and, thus, governed solely by decisions of the county planning commission and board of supervisors. Advisory input comes from the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council and the Saddleback Area Coordinating Council.

Under the probable development model, the ultimate population of the valley would hit 250,000 persons. Its current population is more than 70,000 persons.

According to the study, the ultimate population would require 22 commercial centers — 16 neighborhood shopping complexes, four larger community centers and two major regional centers.

The 22 centers would require no more than 500 acres of commercially zoned property, according to the DMSI study.

An inventory of commercially zoned property in the study area, however, shows that 1,077 acres is available, double the ultimate population requirement.

The report said, "...it is seen that five separate locations along the freeway show concentrations of commercial which aspire to be regional centers according to land allocated.

"Normally, regional centers are located with a separation of at least five miles. The typical distance between the concentrations noted here is one mile," the report stated.

Concern also is expressed in the report over development of a department store and specialty shops center on the so-called "golden triangle" bordered by the San Diego, Santa Ana and Laguna freeways.

Laguna Hills Mall, a development of major department stores and specialty shops, is just a few miles down the freeway.

It is the freeway itself that has contributed to the overabundance of commercial zoning, said Jim Tso, a senior planner with the county Environmental Management Agency.

Historically, it has been common practice for investors to purchase property along major arterials like the freeway, since commercial development, taken over the long run, can generate the most profit, Tso said.

Access is critical to the success of any commercial development. The San Diego Freeway provides that link, Tso explained.

Land along the freeway was zoned long before the county entered its general planning program. Had the general planning program preceded the zoning applications, things might have gone quite differently in the valley, Tso said.

"But what we're seeing in the Saddleback Valley is very standard across tke country," said David Moore, county zoning administrator.

"For example, the city of Los Angeles once did a study that showed the commercial zoning along Olympic Boulevard could support a population of 20 million," Moore said.

Moore claimed that as time proceeds, the effects of the overzoning will be felt more and more within the Saddleback Valley.

"What happens when all the commercial areas are developed?" Moore asked rhetorically. "We'll end up with blighted, substandard areas."

The only circumstance that may alter that outcome, Moore said, is a realization by owners of commercial property that there's too much commercial and that some of the property should be rezoned for other uses.

Moore and Tso agree that the likelihood of this occurring today is remote.

Said Tso, "Yes, there are ways to reduce it, but it takes a lot of convincing argument on the part of the planners to convince the board of supervisors to roll back the commercial. You're telling a guy to cut back on the profit of his investment. That is not a popular thing for a politician to do."

Moore was more blunt. He said commercial property owners are interested in building today and making a profit. "They don't think about the future."

He complained that the county planners' attempts to change the commercial zoning allocation in the Saddleback Valley are interpreted as "anti-commercial" attacks by the landowners. He denies this is the case.

While holding little hope that the existing zoning picture in the valley will change, the planners noted that firms designing new planned communities in the area are sensitive to the commercial zoning situation.

The Moulton Ranch General Plan, for example, states, "It was recognized early in the planning process that there is an unrealistic amount of land allocated or existing in commercial along the San Diego Freeway and surrounding communities. Because of this, commercial uses have been held down within the MRGP and would be used primarily by MRGP residents."

Similar statements are made in planning documents for the Glenn Ranch, Rancho Los Alisos and Rancho Serrano in the El Toro area.

Valley doughnut shop, who asked not to be identified, said the proliferation of shopping center after shopping center "is bound to hurt somebody."

"We have a duplication of shops. While I'm not afraid of competition, I wonder. . .," he said.

"If the shops hold up, they help open up jobs. They provide more variety. But there's only so much variety in donuts," the baker added.

Only one merchant contacted during a random survey expressed a view different from the others.

"Banks and supermarkets are opening down here. They're controlled by smart people," said John Welch, owner of Lake Forest Gourmet Meats, 23401 Muirlands Blvd., El Toro.

"People who say there's too much commercial are afraid. They don't like progress. My business is outstanding."

SAN JUAN (UPI) — A Soviet hydrofoil took refuge in a Puerto Rican port to escape a storm and was forced to remain over the weekend, the U.S. Coast Guard said Sunday. Police in Mayaguez maintained a cordon around the pier where the 100-foot hydrofoil, Kometa, was docked.

Freedom Train Slated

The Freedom Train will make a three-day stopover in San Juan Capistrano in January while chugging from coast to coast on its Bicentennial tour.

Mayor James K. Weathers said today he had received a telegram from the Freedom Train Foundation agreeing to the San Juan stop providing two conditions can be met.

One involving securing permission from the Santa Fe Railway for the use of 1,200 feet of rail siding, and the other is to provide a guaranteed income of $15,000 a day for the train.

Weathers said he is confident those contractual obligations can be fulfilled. He noted that the town of Archibald, Ohio, was able to meet the financial request by pre-selling tickets for admission to the train.

The train, carrying valuable artifacts from America's 200-year history, will be drawn by a restored steam engine and displayed on a section of track north of Del Obispo.

In addition to San Juan Capistrano, the train is scheduled to stop in San Diego, Los Angeles and Anaheim. No specific dates were given for the San Juan stop.

Weathers said it will carry the original Declaration of Independence and the original U.S. Constitution, a car filled with Lincoln memorabilia, and several other historical documents.

Those admitted will view the exhibits from a moving sidewalk constructed inside the train.

San Juan Capistrano applied for a Freedom Train stop because it also will be celebrating its 200th birthday in 1976.

Mayor Weathers noted that one of the Freedom Train obligations — that of providing housing for the train's staff of 125 — had already been solved by putting the crew up in a local motel.

CUSD Vandalism Increases $7,481

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"We are learning first hand that vandalism is not confined to ghetto communities," says Joe Wimer, director of administrative services for the Capistrano Unified School District.

"We are also finding," he says, "that vandalism isn't limited to kids."

Vandalism has cost the Capistrano school district more than $14,000 since July 1, 1974, Wimer reports. That is up from $7,481 the previous fiscal year.

Actual damage done amounted to $7,867 last year and $19,303 this year, he says. Restitution amounting to $386 was collected in 1973-74, and $4,650 has been applied for this year, bringing down total costs to the district.

Most restitution comes from parents of children responsible for damage to district property.

"It is important for parents to realize that they will be held liable for damage their children cause to school property," Wimer stresses. "If they know this, they may emphasize responsibility to the community more at home."

Some restitution comes from the vandals themselves — adults who have stolen school property. Theft most often occurs, Wimer says, on sites where new schools are being built. Homeowners have been known to help themselves to sprinkler heads and lumber at taxpayers' expense, he reports.

Hal Mason, director of fiscal services for the Orange County Department of Education, agrees with Wimer. "Kids often get the blame for things they don't do," he says. "Crime is on the upswing generally in Orange County. Vandalism is not keeping pace with overall crime figures."

Zogg said he had been assured by the Orange County Counsel's office that the investment liaison did not constitute a conflict of interest.

But trustees maintained that to them, the partnership was indiscreet, if not illegal.

Throughout the transition to the new board, a sore point has been that the old board gave Zogg a four-year contract extension — through 1978 — last December.

This placed the new board in the predicament of having to buy out Zogg's contract if it wished to replace him.

The board is expected to announce a buyout agreement of $45,000 tonight.

President Approved All CIA Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major CIA activities have had presidential approval, according to both Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.).

But just what those activities were is still a big mystery in Washington and still provoking debate.

Meanwhile, a key Rules Committee member said today he will propose abolishing a special House CIA investigating committee because it has been torn by dissension.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, (D-Calif.), said he would introduee the resolution to disband the House Select Committee on Intelligence because of a move by five of the committee's seven Democrats forcing the resignation of the chairman, Rep. Lucien Nedzi, (D-Mich.).

Rockefeller, whose commission report on the CIA was released last week, said Sunday one reason the panel did not develop conclusive evidence on alleged CIA foreign assassination plots was because so many persons implicated in them are dead.

He hinted his commission may have obtained information President Kennedy and his brother, former attorney general Robert Kennedy, were involved in the alleged plots but he emphasized none of the secret information was strong enough to support conclusions of guilt.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate committee investigating the CIA, backed up Rockefeller by saying no major CIA action, such as an assassination, "would have taken place without the president knowing about it."

He also said Sunday he had seen no evidence any CIA assassination plots were ever attempted but that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the White House considered killing Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

Time magazine reported Sunday the CIA plotted in 1960 to kill Castro by supplying him with poisoned cigars, but never carried out the plan because there was no assurance Castro would not give the cigars to other people.

The Rockefeller Commission report was to be given officially today to the Senate Investigating Committee, which Wednesday will hear from CIA Director William Colby testifying under tight security about the 1963 as-

'Flood' Costs Looming

Beginning in July, the cost of housing in Irvine will rise by $87 a year, the cost of flood insurance under a new federal program.

Under the flood insurance program, all cities in flood hazard areas must join the program. In those that do not, mortgage money will not be loaned by banks after July 1, according to planner Mike Harris.

However, some banks already have refused to loan money for Irvine mortgages and home improvement loans pending the city's joining the program.

The city council has decided to join it, despite disagreement with the federal government on how much of Irvine is in the hazard area. Current official maps put the whole city in the flood zone.

City planners have protested that new studies show a much smaller area of the city in the flood plain. However, Harris said, while the federal government has accepted the smaller area as accurate, it will be September before the maps are changed.

Meanwhile, he said, all loans on Irvine homes will be subject to the $87 a year charge for flood insurance. After the maps are changed, only the homes in the flood area will have to have in-

Hurd Convicted Of Two Murders

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Steven Craig Hurd was found guilty of two murders today by an Orange County Superior Court jury which must now determine if the bushy-haired defendant was sane when he participated in two killings within a 24-hour period.

The jury ended two days of deliberation by ruling that Hurd, 25, was guilty of first degree murder in the slayings five years ago of Mission Viejo teacher Florence Nancy Brown and service station attendant Jerry Wayne Carlin.

Hurd was with convicted killer Arthur Craig "Moose" Hulse, now 21, on June 2, 1970, when Hulse used a roofer's ax to chop to death Carlin, 21, in the restroom of his service station.

It was alleged in Hurd's trial that he repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Brown, 31, of El Toro to death in an Irvine orange grove the next day after the teacher was dragged from her station wagon by the gang of drug-using drifters led by Hurd.

Opening statements in the sanity hearing now faced by Hurd will be delivered later today in Judge Frank Domenichini's courtroom.

Lawyers for both sides have scheduled psychiatrists as witnesses and defense attorney William Gamble hopes to put Hurd on the stand as his final witness.

Hurd accepted the two verdicts today with no display of emotion. He is under daily sedation following a California Supreme Court ruling last month that he could be tried on the murder charges provided he is tranquilized at all phases of the trial.

Lawyers for both sides agree that Hurd is only capable of telling the truth or understanding

Nine Die In Crash Of Bus

From Wire Services

A bus carrying a party of elderly vacationers collided headlong with a runaway tractor-trailer truck on a main highway 55 miles south of Glasgow, Scotland today.

Police said nine passengers were killed. Another 33 were hospitalized, 22 of them in serious condition.

Eyewitnesses said a truck tire blew out and that the vehicle ran out of control on a straight stretch of road and ploughed headlong into the bus.

It was the second bus accident involving elderly persons in Europe in two days. Sunday, a tour bus carrying pensioners careened down a mountain road in Villach, Austria, killing 21 persons and injuring 23.

It was Austria's worst bus disaster, and authorities said brake failure was the cause.

Police said smoke was seen coming from the brakes as the Austrian bus started down 7,106-foot Mt. Dobratsch. One survivor said bus driver Josef Ramsbacher yelled "Jump off — the brakes are failing!" before the bus hurtled over an embankment and tumbled 120 feet into a

Authorities said Daniels was swimming near his boat in about 15 feet of water when the shark attacked. His wife and daughter were in the boat. By batting at and scaring the shark, Daniels was able to break loose and swim back to his boat.

Court Ends Fixed Fee Schedules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down minimum legal-fee schedules for real estate transactions today in an 8 to 0 decision which probably also spells the end of fixed fees for other legal services.

The court ruled that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law whenever the fees affect interstate commerce.

The decision was a victory for a Virginia couple, Lewis H. and Ruth Goldfarb, which challenged the Fairfax County Bar Association's fixed minimum fee for legal work required when they bought a home.

It also was a victory for the Justice Department, which has waged a long-standing battle against fee schedules established by professional associations. The department supported the Goldfarbs in their lawsuit.

In other action, the court

—Ruled 7 to 2 that states may not constitutionally prohibit the advertising of abortion services. The court said such advertising is protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

—Agreed to review a ruling of the U.S. court of Appeals in Washington that the Federal Power Commission may not give natural-gas producers built-in authority to shut off the gas supply of interstate pipelines when their contracts expire.

Extension to Begin

Michelson Drive Construction Scheduled

If there are no snags in funding, construction of the recently approved Michelson Drive extension from the Irvine Industrial Complex to University Park should begin next spring, Irvine Public Works Director Brent Muchow said today.

Redesign of the bridge over San Diego Creek from the originally planned four lanes to the two lanes approved by the city council will take too long for the project to be started this year, he said.

Construction in flood control channels can take place only between April 15 and Nov. 15, said Muchow.

The size of the mile stretch of road was trimmed from four lanes to two by the city council after University Park residents protested that the road would bring industrial traffic through their area.

The delay could jeopardize funding for the San Diego Creek bridge, set for $1.2 million in county financing, Muchow said.

A state commission, he said, is reviewing how gas tax money — the source of the bridge-building funds — is dispersed.

Among the commission's initial findings is that Orange and Los Angeles counties are receiving the bulk of the money while many other areas do not receive enough to maintain their existing county road systems.

A change in the financing system may be made in the next year, potentially drying up the funds for the bridge, said Muchow.

Muchow said he also is attempting to find funds to widen on-ramps to the San Diego Freeway at Jamboree Boulevard, a step proposed as a way to keep traffic from following the Michelson extension to the Culver Drive on-ramps near University Park.

Shuttle Bus to Cut Thumbing Students

In an attempt to cut down the number of University High School students hitchhiking, a shuttle bus in operation on runs between the high school and the SELF school in the Irvine Industrial Complex will start making an extra stop next fall.

A hitchhiking task force at the high school has determined that students thumbing rides to Carl's Jr. accounts for a large share of the noon and after-school hitching.

The task force, chaired by high school Activities Director Lance Otis, has recommended that the shuttle bus, which makes trips at 20-minute intervals from the SELF school to University High, make an intermediate stop at Carl's.

The bus service is run to take SELF students to classes at University High that are unavailable at the SELF school. The task force hopes the free transit service will reduce the number of hitchhiking students.

Saddleback Trustees Eye Pay Demands

Trustees of the Saddleback Community College District will meet in executive session tonight to discuss salary demands by the district's 180 teachers and classified employes.

The secret deliberations are scheduled toward the end of a public business meeting set for 7:30 in the campus library.

Although the salary increase requests have not been made public, a spokesman for the college indicated both groups are asking for increases of 18 percent.

Purpose of the executive session is to discuss the demands with college business manager Roy Barletta who was appointed by the trustees as negotiator in May.

Lion Safari Sign to Stay?

Lion Country Safari of Irvine may get to keep its new jumbo gypsum hillside sign that tells the world in 32-foot letters that the wildlife park is snapping back at its current economic hard times.

The park is expected to apply within the next week for a sign variance allowed under the city's new sign ordinance, according to Planning Director Claudette Donatella.

If the planning commission approves, the big white letters proclaiming "Lion Country" will stay, she said.

Irvine Stadium Faces Snag

Unless the Irvine City Council decides to go ahead with a proposed stadium at the new Irvine High School Community Park site, the city financial situation will preclude building a stadium for at least two years, according to Community Services Director Paul Brady.

The city council has elected to pursue the high school stadium alternative after officially shelving a three-way venture with Irvine schools and UC Irvine to build a stadium at UCI.

But the UCI stadium proposal has surfaced again, with UC regents approving a proposed agreement with the city and schools to build the $308,000 in lighting, seating, scoreboard and public address system intended to make a stadium of UCI's athletic field.

Chances are slim, said Brady.

The city's only source of financing for an athletic facility, he said, are park bond funds. Those funds may be used only at city parks and could not be used for improvements at UCI, he said.

Following Friday's meeting, city and schools representatives agreed to consider the matter again after receiving a copy today of the revised stadium proposal.

However, Brady added, "none of us are wedded to the Irvine High School stadium."

Another possibility, he said, would be a joint venture with Saddleback Community College District, which is presently seeking a second college site in Irvine.

A stadium at the Irvine High site has been criticized as inconvenient to nearby residents due to the noise and traffic that would accompany games.

However, that is the only alternative presently under consideration that could be ready for games by the fall of 1976, due to the tight city financial situation.

Lady Lucan Talks

Says Earl Tried to Strangle Her

LONDON (AP) — Lady Veronica Lucan, wife of the missing British earl who is sought in the murder of the family nanny, said for the first time today he had tried to strangle her on the night of the murder.

She told a tense inquest at London's Westminster Coroner's Court: "He thrust two gloved fingers down my throat and we started to fight. During the course of it he attempted to strangle me from in front."

The inquest was hearing evidence on the death of the Lucan family's nanny, 29-year-old Sandra Rivett, who was battered to death in the Belgravia home of the Countess of Lucan last Nov. 7. Lady Lucan, 37, was also badly injured by the nanny's assailant on that day.

Lady Lucan told the Daily Express, "I shall simply tell the court what happened, and if asked I shall reveal the name of the man who attacked me — the man who sat on the stairs afterwards, cried on my shoulder and told me had killed Sandra."

The countess said she waited until the man calmed down and then ran to a nearby pub for help, streaming blood and crying "murder." Miss Rivett's bludgeoned body later was found wrapped in a canvas sack in the basement of the three-story house.

Some detectives have theorized that the murderer wanted to kill the countess and got the governess by mistake.

The 40-year-old earl vanished a few hours after the killing. Scotland Yard, after interviewing the countess, issued a warrant for his arrest for murder and for the attack on his wife. He has never been traced despite reports that he was seen in France, Australia, South Africa and Latin America.

Most Scotland Yard men say they believe Lord Lucan committed suicide in some remote part of Britain. But some senior investigators think he is still alive and being hidden by friends, here or overseas.

German President Visits U.S.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford welcomed West German President Walter Scheel today with a strong reaffirmation of the United States' commitment to defend Western Europe.

In a sunbathed welcoming ceremony on the White House south lawn with full military honors, Ford told Scheel the United States is "strongly committed to safeguarding the freedom of the West."

"We remain committed to the freedom and security of Berlin," he said, adding that the United States sees the security of Western Europe as "a true test of what is known as detente."

Scheel, who arrived by helicopter from Williamsburg, Va., where he and his wife spent the night, was the first president of West Germany to visit the United States in 17 years and the second since World War II. He has visited the United States several times, however, as a private citizen.

Teen Injured As Car Rams Into Mailbox

An Irvine teenager is recovering today from accident injuries suffered Sunday only a few seconds after he dropped off a pal at his home following an evening out on the town, police said.

Alan J. Duran, 17, of 14541 Highcrest Circle, reportedly turned around in the car to see if Steve Lewis, 16, of 14801 Doncaster Road, had gotten into his house all right.

Officer Michael White said Duran's distraction caused him to turn the steering wheel and he veered off the road into a brick mailbox fixture at the home of John K. Smith, 14781 Doncaster Road.

The youth staggered back to his friend's house, bleeding from a head laceration and his nose and was taken to Tustin Community Hospital, then the El Toro MCAS dispensary for emergency treatment.

Aide Denies CIA Report

CHICAGO (UPI) — Congressional leaders have been told the CIA was involved in the early stages of a plot to assassinate the late Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the Chicago Tribune reported Sunday.

In another story, the newspaper reported a CIA liaison man gave Congressional leaders preliminary information that the FBI had advised two aides to the late president John Kennedy to withhold information concerning Kennedy's assassination. One of the two aides has denied the story.

The information dealt with the location of the gunfire directed at Kennedy and was not presented to the Warren Commission which investigated the assassination, the story said.

Truck Stolen, Set on Fire

Irvine police are probing the theft and stripping of a Santa Ana serviceman's 1975 compact pickup truck which was set afire and destroyed in an orange grove Sunday.

Daniel Clark, a Marine, and his wife, Cheryl, apparently didn't yet know the little truck had been stolen.

Orange County Probation Officer Frank C. Wright discovered the blazing vehicle parked at the dead end of Sand Canyon Avenue at the San Diego Freeway before dawn and called authorities.

Officer Pat Rodgers said it appeared the vehicle had been deliberately torched in an effort to destroy any evidence that might have connected the perpetrator to the grand theft.

The roof of the bus was torn off and many of the passengers were killed when they were thrown out of the vehicle. Several survivors pinned beneath the wreckage were freed only after a crane was brought in to pull the debris off them.

"It was dreadful," said Helmut Neumueller, who witnessed the crash. "The roof of the bus was torn off. The dead were scattered over a wide area. And the injured lay among them crying for aid."

Dr. Brigitte Norvath, a physician, said some of the dead had been thrown from the bus and were hanging in trees lining the precipice. She said nine dead were found under the bus.

Writing for the court in the legal-fees case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "In terms of restraining competition and harming consumers . . . the price-fixing activities found here are unusually damaging."

He noted that the Goldfarbs could not buy a home without a title examination and that only a lawyer licensed in Virginia could perform the work, so the Goldfarbs "could not turn to alternative sources for the necessary service."

The fee schedule issued by the county bar association established "a fixed, rigid price floor" and the schedule "was enforced through the prospect of professional discipline from the state bar and the desire of attorneys to comply with announced professional norms," Burger said.

"These factors coalesced to create a pricing system that consumers could not realistically escape," Burger wrote. "On this record the bar association's activities constitute a classic illustration of price-fixing."

Art Museum Given Grant, Seeking Funds

The National Endowment for the Arts has given the museum $5,000 to spend on acquiring works of art, according to David Steinmetz, president of the museum's Board of Trustees.

Steinmetz said the grant and the matching funds will be used to begin the museum's own permanent collection. The only works now owned by the museum are 34 pieces of contemporary art donated by Avco Financial Services in 1971.

The acquisition council formed to spearhead the fund-raising effort is headed by Mrs. Johann Jonas and John Martin Shea, both of Newport Beach.

Rockefeller's hint of Kennedy involvement in assassination plots resulted in a statement from two former aides of Robert Kennedy, who accused the vice president of ignoring the conclusions of his own report or "deliberately lying."

Rockefeller said in a broadcast interview (NBC-TV's Meet the Press) the commission failed to complete the assassination investigation because it ran out of time and encountered too many difficulties.

"Let's face it," he said, "many of the people have died who were allegedly involved and others were assassinated in this country tragically."

Asked if he was referring to the Kennedys, Rockefeller replied: "Well, as I said, we have no conclusive information, but the president of the United States and the attorney general of the United States were both assassinated tragically in this country."

He was asked if he meant the Kennedys actually were involved in such plots.

"Well," he said, "I said we had no evidence on the basis of which to draw conclusions. I said it was very difficult to get information because we go back 15 years and many of the people who were involved in the CIA and in the White House are no longer living."

HUNTINGDON, England (UPI) — Archeologists and British Museum officials reported Sunday the discovery of 25 pieces of church silver making up possibly "the earliest known collection of Christian church plates in the Roman Empire." The silver, with an estimated value of $120,000, was turned over to county officials for a decision as to whether it is treasure trove — thus going to the government — or whether it will be given to the finder.

President Approved All CIA Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major CIA activities have had presidential approval, according to both Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.).

But just what those activities were is still a big mystery in Washington and still provoking debate.

Meanwhile, a key Rules Committee member said today he will propose abolishing a special House CIA investigating committee because it has been torn by dissension.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, (D-Calif.), said he would introduce the resolution to disband the House Select Committee on Intelligence because of a move by five of the committee's seven Democrats forcing the resignation of the chairman, Rep. Lucien Nedzi, (D-Mich.).

Rockefeller, whose commission report on the CIA was released last week, said Sunday one reason the panel did not develop conclusive evidence on alleged CIA foreign assassination plots was because so many persons implicated in them are dead.

He hinted his commission may have obtained information President Kennedy and his brother, former attorney general Robert Kennedy, were involved in the alleged plots but he emphasized none of the secret information was strong enough to support conclusions of guilt.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate committee investigating the CIA, backed up Rockefeller by saying no major CIA action, such as an assassination, "would have taken place without the president knowing about it."

He also said Sunday he had seen no evidence any CIA assassination plots were ever attempted but that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the White House considered killing Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

Time magazine reported Sunday the CIA plotted in 1960 to kill Castro by supplying him with poisoned cigars, but never carried out the plan because there was no assurance Castro would not give the cigars to other people.

The Rockefeller Commission report was to be given officially today to the Senate Investigating Committee, which Wednesday will hear from CIA Director William Colby testifying under tight security about the 1963 as-

Parents Support Board

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A group of Fountain Valley School District parents is starting a "back the school board" campaign aimed at presenting their view of last week's teacher strike and what they believe is a struggle by teachers to seize control of the district.

They will meet at 7:30 tonight at the home of Mrs. Freddie Douglass, and those wishing to attend may phone her at 842-9116 for directions. Her husband, Don, will be chairman of the new group.

Trustees Karen Ackley and Board President Roger Belgen are expected to attend to outline teacher contract proposals and discuss the impact they could have if adopted, Mrs. Douglass said.

"Teachers are taking control of the district " said Betty Rivers, another member of the fledgling group. "We just want to make sure our kids aren't coming out on the short end of the stick."

Janet Gasky, another member of the group, added, "We are supportive of teachers. We want to support them, but what is happening isn't right."

They urged parents to go to the district offices and study teacher proposals, then to attend Thursday's 7:30 p.m. school board meeting.

Mrs. Gasky said the group also hopes to halt the recall effort against Belgen and Trustees Sheila Meyers and Bill Crane.

Another parent group, headed by Fran Johnson, started that effort, claiming trustees had been "unresponsive" to teachers and parents.

But Mrs. Douglass' group criticzed teacher conduct during the three-day walkout and praised the board.

They said, for example, and district officials confirmed, that about 180 teachers went to the homes of Belgen, Ackley, Crane and Meyers, demanding to see them.

Only Mrs. Ackley was at home, district officials said, and she was afraid to go outside.

They also reportedly confused Crane's address and picketed his neighbor instead.

Huntington Police Reject Pay Package

Huntington Beach policemen rejected a new pay package from the city Friday, opting instead to turn the matter over to arbitration.

Officer David Gammell, negotiator for the 178 member police association, did not release exact results of the secret ballot vote but said the rejection was "substantial."

The police pay package included an eight percent pay raise, time and a half pay for overtime over 40 hours a week and retirement pay based on an officer's highest year of earnings.

Gammell said the city proposal equals about a 12 percent increase in total pay and benefits.

However, police also had asked the city to pay the officer's share of the retirement fund, which Gammell said would boost the package to 16 or 18 percent.

He said today the fact finding process will begin as soon as the arbitrator is available. Police and the city chose someone from a list submitted by the Americian Arbitration Association.

High Court Knocks Fixed Legal Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down minimum legal-fee schedules for real estate transactions today in an 8 to 0 decision which probably also spells the end of fixed fees for other legal services.

The court ruled that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law whenever the fees affect interstate commerce.

The decision was a victory for a Virginia couple, Lewis H. and Ruth Goldfarb, which challenged the Fairfax County Bar Association's fixed minimum fee for legal work required when they bought a home.

It also was a victory for the Justice Department, which has waged a long-standing battle against fee schedules established by professional associations. The department supported the Goldfarbs in their lawsuit.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled 7 to 2 that states may not constitutionally prohibit the advertising of abortion services. The court said such advertising is protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

—Agreed to review a ruling of the U.S. court of Appeals in Washington that the Federal Power Commission may not give natural-gas producers built-in authority to shut off the gas supply of interstate pipelines when their contracts expire.

Spree Squelched

Pair Nabbed in Valley

An alleged baseball bat wielding bandit and his companion were arrested by Fountain Valley police early today, ending what officers said was a 90-minute market robbery spree in four cities.

In custory, are Alfonso Mendoza Jr., 18, of 1497 Purdy St., Midway City, and Richard Kneeland, 20, of 15292 Neece St., Westminster, both on charges of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon, police said.

They are being held at Orange County Jail, and no bail has been set.

Three market clerks and one customer were injured when they allegedly were struck on the arm with the bat.

The spree allegedly started at a Huntington Beach market, then moved to Garden Grove, then Westminster, before the suspects were arrested outside a Fountain Valley market.

Huntington Beach police alleged Mendoza entered the 7-11 Market at Newland Street and Warner Avenue at 11:25 p.m., slapped the bat down on the counter and ordered the clerk to turn over some cash.

She reportedly gave him $100,

Hurd, 25, Convicted In Deaths

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Steven Craig Hurd was found guilty of two murders today by an Orange County Superior Court jury which must now determine if the bushy-haired defendant was sane when he participated in two killings within a 24-hour period.

The jury ended two days of deliberation by ruling that Hurd, 25, was guilty of first degree murder in the slayings five years ago of Mission Viejo teacher Florence Nancy Brown and service station attendant Jerry Wayne Carlin.

Hurd was with convicted killer Arthur Craig "Moose" Hulse, now 21, on June 2, 1970, when Hulse used a roofer's ax to chop to death Carlin, 21, in the restroom of his service station.

It was alleged in Hurd's trial that he repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Brown, 31, of El Toro to death in an Irvine orange grove the next day after the teacher was dragged from her station wagon by the gang of drug-using drifters led by Hurd.

Opening statements in the sanity hearing now faced by Hurd will be delivered later today in Judge Frank Domenichini's courtroom.

Lawyers for both sides have scheduled psychiatrists as witnesses and defense attorney William Gamble hopes to put Hurd on the stand as his final witness.

Hurd accepted the two verdicts today with no display of emotion. He is under daily sedation following a California Supreme Court ruling last month that he could be tried on the murder charges provided he is tranquilized at all phases of the trial.

Lawyers for both sides agree that Hurd is only capable of telling the truth or understanding

$1 Per Gallon

Solon Predicts Gas Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says American motorists soon will be paying about $1 per gallon for gasoline if Congress and President Ford can't get together on an energy program.

Mansfield said Ford's full $3-per-barrel tariff would raise gasoline prices to about 70 cents per gallon. "On top of that, you have the recent decision by the OPEC (oil-producing) countries to raise prices by 30 percent in September," he said.

"If something isn't done by Congress and the President together, we stand to see an increase which will bring it somewhere around a dollar," he said in a weekend interview.

Mansfield said gasoline prices will rise in any event, but Congress and the White House must agree on a program to cut large-scale waste — "around 40 percent" of the supply.

'Nude' Mesa Cook Nabbed in Valley

A restaurant cook who was allegedly cavorting in the nude at an intersection was jailed early today, captured following a 70-mile-per-hour chase by Costa Mesa City Manager Fred Sorsabal, who pursued the suspect's car into Fountain Valley.

The Costa Mesa Police helicopter Eagle II, plus ground patrol units and Huntington Beach police, along with Fountain Valley officers were eventually involved in the speedy midnight motorcade.

James R. Ayres, 24, of 336 E. 20th St., Costa Mesa, remained in custody this morning, booked into jail on charges of reckless driving and indecent exposure.

Huntington Beach Police Officer James Cutshaw finally succeeded in pulling over Ayres' sport sedan at Ellis Avenue and San Antonio Street in Fountain Valley shortly after midnight.

Sorsabal told police that he, his wife Marlene, their two teenaged sons and a young friend were returning home from an evening out, with son David, 16, driving, when they first encountered the naked man standing in the intersection of Suva Circle and Mesa Verde Drive.

The city manager dropped off his passengers at their nearby home and sped back after reporting the incident.

Government Gives Grant To Huntington

Grants to three Orange County cities including Huntington Beach and Costa Mesa, totaling more than $1 million in revenue-sharing funds for community improvement were announced today in Washington.

The money allotted by the Department of Housing and Urban Development under Community Development Grants legislation approved last fall will cover a variety of projects.

A spokesman for the office of Sen. Alan Cranston (D-Calif.), said the funds are the first released under the new law.

Cranston aide Dan Perry said Huntington Beach is to receive the largest allocation in Orange County, a total of $460,000 for three projects.

These include community programs for the elderly and the handicapped, public works projects and the acquisition of land, Perry said.

Costa Mesa will receive $229,000 for housing rehabilitation and other community improvements, according to Cranston's office.

Cash released by HUD will be used for storm drains, street lighting, sidewalks, curbs and gutters, street improvements and specialized crime prevention programs.

Perry said the HUD fund releases were announced through Sen. Cranston's office because he is a member of the Senate Subcommittee on Housing.

Fugitive Charges Slated

A 28-year-old alleged fugitive is to be arraigned this week on multiple charges, including assault with a deadly weapon and suspicion of armed robbery after leading police on a lengthy chase through downtown Huntington Beach.

The Friday night chase ended, police said, when David Doyle Lynn, 28, of 616 17th St., Huntington Beach, ran into the path of a police car and was thrown over the hood.

He was treated at Orange County Medical Center over the weekend and released to Orange County Jail.

Police said the chase started at 10 p.m., when a man stopped an officer, claiming Lynn tried to run his car off the road. But when officers tried to question Lynn, he allegedly fled, with police in pursuit.

During the chase, along Orange, Olive and Pecan Avenues and from about 15th to 18th Streets, police said, Lynn allegedly crashed into two other cars and hit a utility pole.

He jumped out of his station wagon in an alley between 15th and 16th, near Olive, officers alleged, and ran off on foot, as his car continued down the alley until it struck a pickup truck.

A policeman then started chasing him on foot, and as Lynn turned once to look at him, he was struck by a police car, en route to the scene to help.

Lynn also has been charged with driving under the influence, reckless driving and illegally carrying a gun. He is also wanted on two warrants, police said. Officers allege he was carrying a gun during the chase, but tossed it aside, and they were checking today to see if he matches the description of any recent armed robbers.

Murderess Gets Parole

BOSTON (AP) — A 28-year-old woman was granted a 2½-year parole instead of a jail sentence for a manslaughter conviction today so she could return home to care for a daughter, ill with cystic fibrosis.

Mrs. Robert Shaffer embraced weeping relatives following the decision by the state Parole Board.

"I'm extremely grateful, very happy," Mrs. Shaffer said.

Mrs. Shaffer was convicted of slaying her fiance 3½ years ago and given an indeterminate sentence of up to five years in prison. Her conviction had been upheld on appeal and the trial judge granted a two-week stay of sentence so she could seek commutation from the governor.

Mrs. Shaffer, a divorcee who also has a son, contended a long imprisonment could hasten the death of her 11-year-old daughter, Evie.

2 Nabbed In Beach Shooting

Two men were arrested on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder early today after one of them fired a gun during an argument in downtown Huntington Beach.

Police said no one was injured by the gunfire, although one of the suspects suffered cuts and bruises as onlookers tried to subdue him.

In custody are Joseph Couillard, 37, of 8402 Westminster Ave., Westminster, the man who allegedly fired the shot, and his companion, Thomas Henderson, 30, Downey.

Both were in custody today in the city jail.

Police allege Couillard drew a handgun and pointed it at the group of residents who started gathering, then started to put the gun away but fired it instead.

By this time a nearby police officer arrived, and was taking Couillard into custody, when some of the residents tried to hold Henderson for custody as well, police said.

Shark Bites Man on Leg

Authorities said Daniels was swimming near his boat in about 15 feet of water when the shark attacked. His wife and daughter were in the boat. By batting at and scaring the shark, Daniels was able to break loose and swim back to his boat.

Sheri Chiesa New Queen Of Huntington

Sheri Chiesa, 18, was crowned the new Miss Huntington Beach Saturday evening.

Rockefeller's hint of Kennedy involvement in assassination plots resulted in a statement from two former aides of Robert Kennedy, who accused the vice president of ignoring the conclusions of his own report or "deliberately lying."

Rockefeller said in a broadcast interview (NBC-TV's Meet the Press) the commission failed to complete the assassination investigation because it ran out of time and encountered too many difficulties.

"Let's face it," he said, "many of the people have died who were allegedly involved and others were assassinated in this country tragically."

Asked if he was referring to the Kennedys, Rockefeller replied: "Well, as I said, we have no conclusive information, but the president of the United States and the attorney general of the United States were both assassinated tragically in this country."

He was asked if he meant the Kennedys actually were involved in such plots.

"Well," he said, "I said we had no evidence on the basis of which to draw conclusions. I said it was very difficult to get information because we go back 15 years and many of the people who were involved in the CIA and in the White House are no longer living."

"How do you explain the situation to a 6-year old who says his teacher doesn't love him any more?" she asked.

Mrs. Rivers continued: "They will tell you the issue isn't money. If it isn't then why don't they withdraw their request for a 10 percent pay increase?"

Teachers said the strike was over teacher respect from the school board, more than over pay.

Mrs. Illingworth, who spent 500 hours as a parent volunteer in the district this year, added, "I couldn't believe my teachers were doing this."

"At first, I thought just see if they get me to volunteer next year," she added. "But then I thought who would I hurt if I did that—the kids, that's who."

Day Asking Huntington For Back Pay

Herb Day, former oil field superintendent for the city of Huntington Beach, is asking the city to pay him for 325 hours of overtime work he claims he put in between Aug. 7, 1967 and Nov. 1, 1971.

Day was considered a department head and a change in the city personnel rules eliminated overtime pay for department heads after Nov. 1, 1971.

In a letter to the city council, which will be considered at tonight's council meeting, Day claims he has documented proof of the overtime worked.

He ends the letter saying if payment for the request is not made within 20 days, he will consider the request denied. Day did not say how much money he is asking.

police said, then he allegedly fled in a car, driven by Kneeland.

Fountain Valley police allege the pair then drove to Garden Grove, where Mendoza entered the Tic Toc Market, 13211 Brookhurst St., smacked the clerk on the arm with the bat, then fled with an unknown amount of cash.

At 12:14 a.m., they allegedly stopped at the Quick Stop Liquor Store, 13690 Golden West St., Westminster, where Mendoza assertedly smashed a glass jar on the counter with the bat, then struck the clerk in the arm, and again fled with an unknown amount of cash, police said.

Mendoza allegedly entered the 7-11 Market at Euclid Street and Warner Avenue at 12:41 a.m., officers said, with the now-splintered bat stuffed into his trousers.

Officers allege he pulled it out as he entered, smashed two glass bottles on the counter, then struck clerk Robert Kaiser, 22, and customer James Stobie, 21, on the arms.

He fled with about $209 in cash, police said, but officers had been signaled by an alarm and were on their way to the market.

The pair was stopped outside and arrested without incident, police said.

Lady Lucan Tells Court Of Terror

LONDON (AP) — Lady Veronica Lucan, wife of the missing British earl who is sought in the murder of the family nanny, said for the first time today he had tried to strangle her on the night of the murder.

She told a tense inquest at London's Westminster Coroner's Court: "He thrust two gloved fingers down my throat and we started to fight. During the course of it he attempted to strangle me from in front."

The inquest was hearing evidence on the death of the Lucan family's nanny, 29-year-old Sandra Rivett, who was battered to death in the Belgravia home of the Countess of Lucan last Nov. 7. Lady Lucan, 37, was also badly injured by the nanny's assailant on that day.

Lady Lucan told the Daily Express, "I shall simply tell the court what happened, and if asked I shall reveal the name of the man who attacked me — the man who sat on the stairs afterwards, cried on my shoulder and told me had killed Sandra."

The countess said she waited until the man calmed down and then ran to a nearby pub for help, streaming blood and crying "murder." Miss Rivett's bludgeoned body later was found wrapped in a canvas sack in the basement of the three-story house.

Huntington's Council Feted By Chamber

The entire Huntington Beach City Council has been named honorary directors of the Chamber of Commerce, according to Chamber President Ed Sullivan.

Along with the seven council members, the chamber also lists Assemblyman Robert Burke, State Sen. Dennis Carpenter, Superior Court Judge Charles A. Bauer, and City Administrator Dave Rowlands.

A press release from the chamber says, "honorary directors were selected on the basis of being persons so qualified by election to high civic offices in the community and who thusly should contribute to the business community through official affiliation with the board."

The chamber also listed seven advisory directors named at a recent board meeting: William Carlson, attorney; Paul Nagle, President of the Jaycees; Dr. R. Dudley Boyce, President of Golden West College; Herb Vaughn, Top Hat Liquor; Paul Loumena, Rainbow Disposal; C. S. Carper, Cambro Manufacturing Company; John Hile, Kaiser Aetna Company.

Speed reached 70 miles per hour as the suspect headed for Fountain Valley, allegedly nearly colliding with other cars including Sorsabal's toward the end of the pursuit.

Officer Sutton said their quarry careened through the parking lot of Marie Callender's Pie Shop, 18889 Brookhurst St., in Fountain Valley and changed directions before it was finally halted.

Sorsabal chased the fleeing auto through the Mesa Verde area, at speeds up to 50 miles per hour on residential streets, according to police reports.

Firemen, Police to Make Pay Pitch

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach firemen, policemen and city negotiators are still deadlocked in pay discussions and employe spokesmen said today they will make a pitch to the city council at next Monday's meeting.

Firemen are requesting a 12 percent pay hike plus manpower boosts at three fire stations. The city's last offer was a 6 percent increase and no changes in manpower.

Large numbers of firemen and policemen are expected to show up at next week's meeting, during which city councilmen are scheduled to approve the 1975-76 budget.

Stephen Silver, a lawyer representing both groups, said city employes are hoping citizens will attend to offer support for police and firemen.

Silver said the firemen's request reflects a cost-of-living raise and would place Newport firemen in the pay range of firemen from other Orange County cities where there are high rise buildings, such as Santa Ana, Anaheim and Orange.

Newport Beach firemen with four years experience currently earn $1,157 per month. Firemen from Anaheim and Santa Ana earn about $100 more per month, Silver said.

In addition to the pay request, firemen are asking that the staffs of three fire stations closest to high rise buildings in Newport be increased.

They are also asking that a fire captain be assigned to supervise the Balboa Island fire station.

The difference between the six percent hike offered and the 12 percent raise asked is about $86,000 and the extra men would cost the city about $300,000, Frank Ivens, the city's personnel director, said.

That means a policeman who retires at age 50 with 25 years experience would receive 50 percent of his salary as a pension.

Police currently have a plan that has a pension of half their

Rocky Ford's Choice --Despite Grumbling

Running Mate Assured

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford made clear today that despite conservative grumbling, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller is his choice for a running mate on the 1976 Republican ticket.

"I am convinced that both of us can convince the delegates (to the GOP National Convention) that individually and as a team we should be nominated," Ford said in a statement read to White House reporters by Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

The Ford comment put his personal stamp of disapproval on suggestions from conservatives in Congress that the choice of a vice presidential candidate be left open by Ford as he seeks the presidential nomination for himself.

Nessen said the statement was prepared even before Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), took an oblique public swipe at Rockefeller during the weekend with a statement that he had always believed the vice president "would make a great secretary of state."

In making the statement, Ford, through Nessen, observed the political fiction that a vice presidential candidate is chosen by the convention delegates rather than by the presidential nominee.

"The President will be for Nelson Rockefeller for the (vice presidential) nomination," Nessen said in response to questions. "The delegates will make the decision." In fact, every presidential candidate in modern political history has chosen his own running mate and the convention always has approved the choice.

Seeking Recreation

It may not seem like fun, but these sleepy Newport Beach residents were out for a little recreation early Saturday. This was the line around city hall at 8 a.m. when registration for the city's summer recreation programs began. The line extended around three sides of city hall. Parks and recreation officials said 654 people signed up for tennis instruction, making that the most popular activity of all.

Legal Fee Hit By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down minimum legal-fee schedules for real estate transactions today in an 8 to 0 decision which probably also spells the end of fixed fees for other legal services.

The court ruled that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law whenever the fees affect interstate commerce.

The decision was a victory for a Virginia couple, Lewis H. and Ruth Goldfarb, which challenged the Fairfax County Bar Association's fixed minimum fee for legal work required when they bought a home.

It also was a victory for the Justice Department, which has waged a long-standing battle against fee schedules established by professional associations. The department supported the Goldfarbs in their lawsuit.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled 7 to 2 that states may not constitutionally prohibit the advertising of abortion services. The court said such advertising is protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

—Upheld a robbery and assault conviction against Jack Roland Murphy, the celebrated Miami, Fla., jewel thief who is the central figure in the motion picture "Live A Little, Steal A Lot."

—Agreed to review a ruling of the U.S. court of Appeals in Washington that the Federal Power Commission may not give natural-gas producers built-in authority to shut off the gas supply of interstate pipelines when their contracts expire.

—Declined to review a Kentucky family's claim that its property rights were violated when its land was strip mined without the family's consent. The family does not own the mineral rights to the land in question.

Writing for the court in the legal-fees case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "In terms of restraining competition and harming consumers . . . the price-fixing activities found here are unusually damaging."

Hurd Found Guilty Of 2 Grisly Deaths

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Steven Craig Hurd was found guilty of two murders today by an Orange County Superior Court jury which must now determine if the bushy-haired defendant was sane when he participated in two killings within a 24-hour period.

The jury ended two days of deliberation by ruling that Hurd, 25, was guilty of first degree murder in the slayings five years ago of Mission Viejo teacher Florence Nancy Brown and service station attendant Jerry Wayne Carlin.

Hurd was with convicted killer Arthur Craig "Moose" Hulse, now 21, on June 2, 1970, when Hulse used a roofer's ax to chop to death Carlin, 21, in the restroom of his service station.

It was alleged in Hurd's trial that he repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Brown, 31, of El Toro to death in

County's Employes To Rally Over Pay

County employes agreed today to stage demonstrations Tuesday to protest stalled 1975-76 salary negotiations between Orange County officials and the Orange County Employes Association (OCEA).

Tuesday's demonstrations will include a before-work rally in Santa Ana Bowl, a mass visit to the Board of Supervisors meeting, picketing of the county administration building and a noon rally in the civic center.

According to OCEA Executive Director John Sawyer, the decision to hold the demonstrations was made this morning after county negotiators agreed to meet with OCEA officials and a state mediator Wednesday.

At issue in the discussions are wage and fringe benefits OCEA's 9,700 members expect to receive in the coming fiscal year.

One informed source said the county so far has offered two percent pay raises covering about 2,000 employes and four ¾ percent pay hikes for OCEA's remaining members.

The same source said county negotiators are demanding a three-year salary-fringe benefit contract while the association is holding out for the customary one year pact.

According to James Shelton, the county's chief negotiator, a meeting between himself, OCEA officials and state mediator Tim McCarthy ended in an impasse shortly before midnight Friday.

Presidential Approval

'CIA Had to Get Okay' — Rocky, Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major CIA activities have had presidential approval, according to both Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.).

But just what those activities were is still a big mystery in Washington and still provoking debate.

Meanwhile, a key Rules Committee member said today, he will propose abolishing a special House CIA investigating committee because it has been torn by dissension.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, (D-Calif.), said he would introduce the resolution to disband the House Select Committee on Intelligence because of a move by five of the committee's seven Democrats forcing the resignation of the chairman, Rep. Lucien Nedzi, (D-Mich.).

Rockefeller, whose commission report on the CIA was released last week, said Sunday one reason the panel did not develop conclusive evidence on alleged CIA foreign assassination plots was because so many persons implicated in them are dead.

He hinted his commission may have obtained information President Kennedy and his brother, former attorney general Robert Kennedy, were involved in the alleged plots but he emphasized none of the secret information was strong enough to support conclusions of guilt.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate committee investigating the CIA, backed up Rockefeller by saying no major CIA action, such as an assassination, "would have taken place without the president knowing about it."

He also said Sunday he had seen no evidence any CIA assassination plots were ever attempted but that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the White House considered killing Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

Time magazine reported Sunday the CIA plotted in 1960 to kill Castro by supplying him with poisoned cigars, but never carried out the plan because there

$1 Per Gallon

Solon Predicts Gas Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says American motorists soon will be paying about $1 per gallon for gasoline if Congress and President Ford can't get together on an energy program.

Mansfield said Ford's full $3-per-barrel tariff would raise gasoline prices to about 70 cents per gallon. "On top of that, you have the recent decision by the OPEC (oil-producing) countries to raise prices by 30 percent in September," he said.

"If something isn't done by Congress and the President together, we stand to see an increase which will bring it somewhere around a dollar," he said in a weekend interview.

Mansfield said gasoline prices will rise in any event, but Congress and the White House must agree on a program to cut large-scale waste — "around 40 percent" of the supply.

'Flood' Costs Looming

Beginning in July, the cost of housing in Irvine will rise by $87 a year, the cost of flood insurance under a new federal program.

Under the flood insurance program, all cities in flood hazard areas must join the program. In those that do not, mortgage money will not be loaned by banks after July 1, according to planner Mike Harris.

However, some banks already have refused to loan money for Irvine mortgages and home improvement loans pending the city's joining the program.

The city council has decided to join it, despite disagreement with the federal government on how much of Irvine is in the hazard area. Current official maps put the whole city in the flood zone.

City planners have protested that new studies show a much smaller area of the city in the flood plain. However, Harris said, while the federal government has accepted the smaller area as accurate, it will be September before the maps are changed.

Meanwhile, he said, all loans on Irvine homes will be subject to the $87 a year charge for flood insurance. After the maps are changed, only the homes in the flood area will have to have insurance.

Problems with loans to date have been reported only on resales, said Harris. The Irvine Company reports no financing problems on its new homes.

A 100-year flood, according to county Environmental Management Agency Assistant Director Carl Nelson, is a major flood with a statistical probability of happening once a century.

Art Museum Given Grant, Seeking Funds

The National Endowment for the Arts has given the museum $5,000 to spend on acquiring works of art, according to David Steinmetz, president of the museum's Board of Trustees.

Steinmetz said the grant and the matching funds will be used to begin the museum's own permanent collection. The only works now owned by the museum are 34 pieces of contemporary art donated by Avco Financial Services in 1971.

The acquisition council formed to spearhead the fund-raising effort is headed by Mrs. Johann Jonas and John Martin Shea, both of Newport Beach.

'Nude' Mesa Cook Nabbed in Valley

A restaurant cook who was allegedly cavorting in the nude at an intersection was jailed early today, captured following a 70-mile-per-hour chase by Costa Mesa City Manager Fred Sorsabal, who pursued the suspect's car into Fountain Valley.

The Costa Mesa Police helicopter Eagle II, plus ground patrol units and Huntington Beach police, along with Fountain Valley officers were eventually involved in the speedy midnight motorcade.

James R. Ayres, 24, of 336 E. 20th St., Costa Mesa, remained in custody this morning, booked into jail on charges of reckless driving and indecent exposure.

Huntington Beach Police Officer James Cutshaw finally succeeded in pulling over Ayres' sport sedan at Ellis Avenue and San Antonio Street in Fountain Valley shortly after midnight.

Sorsabal told police that he, his wife Marlene, their two teenaged sons and a young friend were returning home from an evening out, with son David, 16, driving, when they first encountered the naked man standing in the intersection of Suva Circle and Mesa Verde Drive.

The city manager dropped off his passengers at their nearby home and sped back after reporting the incident.

Police helicopter crewman Officer Sutton said the chopper and City Manager Sorsabal each picked up the trail of a car speeding out of the Suva Circle area with its lights out at about the same time, just moments later.

Speed reached 70 miles per hour as the suspect headed for Fountain Valley, allegedly nearly colliding with other cars including Sorsabal's toward the end of the pursuit.

Officer Sutton said their quarry careened through the parking lot of Marie Callender's Pie Shop, 18889 Brookhurst St., in Fountain Valley and changed directions before it was finally halted.

Sorsabal chased the fleeing auto through the Mesa Verde area, at speeds up to 50 miles per hour on residential streets, according to police reports.

The Rockefeller Commission report was to be given officially today to the Senate Investigating Committee, which Wednesday will hear from CIA Director William Colby testifying under tight security about the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Dinh Diem.

Rockefeller's hint of Kennedy involvement in assassination plots resulted in a statement from two former aides of Robert Kennedy, who accused the vice president of ignoring the conclusions of his own report or "deliberately lying."

Rockefeller said in a broadcast interview (NBC-TV's Meet the Press) the commission failed to complete the assassination investigation because it ran out of time and encountered too many difficulties.

"Let's face it," he said, "many of the people have died who were allegedly involved and others were assassinated in this country tragically."

Asked if he was referring to the Kennedys, Rockefeller replied: "Well, as I said, we have no conclusive information, but the president of the United States and the attorney general of the United States were both assassinated tragically in this country."

He was asked if he meant the Kennedys actually were involved in such plots.

Construction Permits Dip For Newport

Building permit valuations for construction in Newport Beach still are below a 10-year average, but the latest data shows that the slump is easing, city aides said today.

In the latest data released by the department of community development, permit valuations for the month of May amounted to slightly more than $3 million.

A total 70 new dwelling units were approved for permits during the month with the largest amount being $1.8 million for 61 condominium units by McLain Development Company at Big Canyon.

The largest commercial permit was one for $68,000 for alterations of the Irvine Company's building at 660 Newport Center Drive.

Crew Working To Cap Well

INTRACOASTAL CITY, La. (UPI) — A drilling crew began the tedious process of capping a wild offshore natural gas well today to stop the flow of natural gas and crude oil into the Gulf of Mexico.

The owners of the well said sealing operations would take from three to six weeks.

A spokesman said the crew will bore a relief column to shut off the leaking well and also will pump mud into its 15,000-foot shaft.

Board Weighs Teacher Fate

Newport-Mesa school trustees planned to decide late today whether to rescind charges against suspended Corona del Mar High School teacher Michael Mang or to set a date for his public hearing.

Trustees called a special meeting at 4 p.m. today to make the decision. Mang was suspended in early May, charged with "unprofessional conduct," and issued a notice of intent to dismiss.

'Treasure' Found

HUNTINGDON, England (UPI) — Archeologists and British Museum officials reported Sunday the discovery of 25 pieces of church silver making up possibly "the earliest known collection of Christian church plates in the Roman Empire." The silver, with an estimated value of $120,000, was turned over to county officials for a decision as to whether it is treasure trove — thus going to the government — or whether it will be given to the finder.

Newport Program

Tots Can Get In the Swim

The Newport Beach Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department has announced a new format for its swimming program this summer.

Classes to be offered include "Mommy and Me," "Tiny Tot," beginners, advanced beginners, intermediate, lifesaving, synchronized swimming and ocean awareness.

The "Mommy and Me" program is for children one through three who are accompanied in the water by a responsible adult. The "Tiny Tot" program is for children three through five.

Lessons will be given at Newport Harbor and Corona del Mar High Schools and at "N" Street and 10th Street in the Bay.

Recreational swimming will also be offered at the two high school pools, costing 50 cents for those under 17 and 75 cents for adults.

The Newport Harbor High School pool will be open for recreational swimming from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday and Friday; and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The Corona del Mar High School pool may be used for recreational swimming from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday; and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

These schedules begin June 23 and continue throughout the summer. More information is available at 640-2271.

3 Newport Officers Win MA Degrees

Three members of the Newport Beach Police Department have won master's degrees in public administration from the University of Southern California.

Heeres, who has been on the force for 15 years, is a 1960 graduate of UC Berkeley. He heads the department's administrative division.

Jacobs has been a member of the force since 1968 and serves as a field supervisor in the patrol division. He earned his bachelor's degree in 1971 from Cal State Fullerton.

Chandler, a 1970 graduate of Chaminade College, Hawaii, joined the department in 1970. He is a crime analyst in the administrative division.

Red Leader's Visit Stalls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger suggests Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev may have to wait to visit Washington until there is progress on a new arms limitation agreement.

But in linking the planned visit to negotiating progress, Kissinger was optimistic about a new agreement. He said Brezhnev's visit "will depend on SALT," because the Soviet leader would "prefer to mark his visit with some significant result."

SALT is the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks between the United States and the Soviet Union.

an Irvine orange grove the next day after the teacher was dragged from her station wagon by the gang of drug-using drifters led by Hurd.

Opening statements in the sanity hearing now faced by Hurd will be delivered later today in Judge Frank Domenichini's courtroom.

Lawyers for both sides have scheduled psychiatrists as witnesses and defense attorney William Gamble hopes to put Hurd on the stand as his final witness.

Hurd accepted the two verdicts today with no display of emotion. He is under daily sedation following a California Supreme Court ruling last month that he could be tried on the murder charges provided he is tranquilized at all phases of the trial.

Lawyers for both sides agree that Hurd is only capable of telling the truth or understanding testimony while he is under the supervised sedation.

. . .AND EVERY YEAR UNTIL YOU RETIRE! NOW YOU CAN BUILD A TAX SHELTERED RETIREMENT FUND AT MARINERS, WITH "IRA" — THE INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT.

Mariners Individual Retirement Account is a personal tax-sheltered retirement plan. "IRA" was developed by Congress to give you an effective way to build your own retirement fund.

You can save as much as $1500 or 15% of your wages, whichever is less, and your savings will be a tax deduction during your working years. If your spouse works, your combined tax-sheltered savings can be as much as $3000 per year.

Come in to Mariners and start your own Individual Retirement Account. You'll be saving tax dollars now and building a much brighter future. For more information, come in or call any one of our convenient locations.

HERE'S HOW FAST YOUR MONEY GROWS IN A MARINERS "IRA" ACCOUNT. Individual Retirement Accounts are presently earning 7¾% per year when placed in a 6-year certificate. Your annual yield is increased to a big 8.06% when interest is added to the account balance and compounded daily. With a maximum individual contribution of $1500 each year, here's how your money will grow:

5 yrs.	$ 9,510	6,730	$ 2,780
10 yrs.	23,540	15,750	7,790
20 yrs.	74,640	65,840	30,560
30 yrs.	185,550	95,030	90,520

Disclosures Proposed

Food Ad Rules Pushed by FTC

By SYLVIA PORTER

While the Federal Trade Commission is pushing tough rules covering food advertising in the U.S., an even harder-hitting approach to the explosive issue of food advertising is being urged by a group of the FTC's own staff members.

The FTC "Staff Proposals" call for "Affirmative Disclosure" — or disclosure requirements where no requirements exist today — in food ads on the grounds that omission of nutrition information in food advertising constitutes a "deceptive and unfair" practice over which the FTC has legal regulatory authority.

Here's a rundown on these proposals:

(1) IF A FOOD CONTAINED an added nutrient, or if any nutrition claim or piece of information respecting nutrition were made on the label or in the ad, advertising for the product would have to identify up to four key nutrients present in nutritionally significant amounts (10 percent or more of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for one serving of each nutrient). The ad also would have to show the actual percentage of the RDA represented by each nutrient and number of calories in a serving.

A TV ad for a can of spaghetti and meatballs, for instance, would have to disclose something like this on the screen: "One 1½ oz. serving provides the following percentages of the U.S. RDA: Protein 15, Niacin 10, Iron 10; calories 100."

(2) If a food did not contain any significant total of any nutrient, the ad would have to disclose that fact in a statement such as: "This food does not contain 10 percent or more of the U.S. RDA of any vitamin, mineral or protein."

(3) If a food did not have any nutrition information on its label for one reason or another, its ad still would have to disclose the number of calories per serving and the definition of "serving" also would have to be stated in the ad.

(4) FOR FOODS WHICH were not required to have nutrient labels, the ads would have to disclose specifically that the food did "not contain 10 percent or more of the U.S. RDA of any vitamins, minerals oi proteins" — if that were the case.

(5) As an alternative to these proposed "affirmative disclosures," ads would simply display the nutrient labels themselves from the food packages — for a given minimum number of seconds.

Consumer groups also are calling for:

— Full disclosure of chemical food additives including preservatives, colors, flavorings — plus a special indication if no additives w re contained in the food. The absence of any additives could be indicated — on food labels and ads — by some simple system of symbols which could be easily recognized by the public.

— MUCH MORE EXPLICIT labeling of fabricated or synthetic products, across the board from cream to ice cream, juices, bacon, eggs. Such labeling might apply to this type of product not only as it is sold in grocery stores but also as it is served in restaurants, airplanes, etc.

— Clear warnings — on labels and in ads — of the health hazards of eating too much sugar, salt, cholesterol.

— A simple scorecard system of nutrition grading of foods on labels and in ads — similar to grading of school papers.

A full six years ago, the White House Conference report on Food, Nutrition and health declared that "one basic right of individuals in our society is the right to proper food." An extension of this right is the "right" to know what you're eating.

"We need a reordering of priorities in the food industry," says Dr. Michael Jacobson, director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest in Washington — now organizing a nationwide "Food Day" for April 17, 1976 to dramatize our nutrition gap and the urgency of overhauling food advertising. And adds Jacobson: "top billing" in the new order would be "the customer's health."

YOU HAVE BEEN "invited" to write your views to the Federal Trade Commission, William Dixon, Special Asst. Director for Rulemaking, Washington, D.C. 20508. If you opt for doing nothing, you will have only yourself to blame ff you dislike the outcome.

Energy Saver?

The rig that Mrs. Diane Pattison of Costa Mesa uses to haul her three sons around doesn't use any gas and doesn't pollute the atmosphere, but it does take a lot of energy — mom's. But when it comes to transporting Morgan, 10 months; David, 3, and Bruce, 4, Mrs. Pattison doesn't mind at all.

Trustees Mull Funding

Saddleback College trustees will be briefed Monday night on new legislation which could reduce state support of the college by $79,500 next year.

The special session is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the college library.

As presently written, the state budget bill would limit state appropriations for enrollment growth at community colleges from three to five percent.

For Saddleback College which has forecast a growth of 16.5 percent next year, this could mean withdrawal of state funding for about 1,200 students.

However, a compromise move by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee would allow the college to make up the difference between the state appropriations and actual enrollment to be collected from the taxpayers.

Barletta explained that state support for each Saddleback student consists of $125, considerably less than the $600 per student state subvention for Orange Coast and Golden West college students.

He said state aid represents only a small portion of the $1,500 budgeted for each student but that college officials s ill aren't happy about plans to curtail state allocations.

Barletta pointed out that some efforts had been made to persuade legislators to change their minds but that the board of trustees had not yet formally opposed the measure.

"We are not as badly off as the Coast Community College District or any other school district which receives a substantial amount of its income from state sources," Barletta explained.

"We are considered a wealthy district in terms of our assessed valuation. We have a large tax base. Our support for ADA (average daily attendance) is not that great and therefore the impact would not be that great."

New El Toro School to Be Named Serrano

Serrano Intermediate School has been selected as the name for the new junior high scheduled to open next winter in El Toro.

Saddleback Valley Unified School District trustees selected the name from three suggested by Ray Garubo, new principal for the facility, and a committee of teachers, parents and students.

The winning name was that of a Spanish grandee who owned a land grant in the days when Spain ruled California.

All three reflect the district's pattern of using the area's Spanish-Mexican heritage in naming schools.

Saddleback Hires 2 New College Aides

Trustees of the Saddleback Community College District have added a financial aid officer and a public information assistant to the college staff but delayed action on the hiring of an athletic therapist-trainer.

The aid officer will coordinate financial assistance to students and keep track of federal, state, and local aid payments. The position carries a salary range of $828 to $1,054 depending on qualifications and experience.

The public information assistant will help information officer Dan Armstrong with the college's community relations program. Proposed salary for the position ranges from $769 to $981.

Trustees are expected to take action on the third position at a special meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Board members balked at approving the position last Monday night because the job description made reference only to the treatment of athletes for injuries.

At the suggestion of board Chairman Robert Bartholomew, the trainer-therapist's duties will include the treatment of all students who might require whirpool baths and other therapeutic remedies.

Water Rates Going Up For Viejo?

District General Manager Jim Smith said he will ask directors Tuesday to authorize a rate study and to set a public hearing in July on the probable rate hike.

"The rates will go up," Smith said, "we just don't know how much."

He said a 30 percent increase in the cost of power and a charge increase of about $10 per acre foot of water as supplied by the Metropolitan Water District is prompting the rate study.

"We are not sure how the increase charge would be collected," Smith said. "If we don't increase the minimum charge (which is now four dollars per month) it would go on as a user charge, spread out among all the people who are using water."

The public is invited to the water board meetings. Tuesday's is set for 2 p.m. at the Santa Margarita office, 25571 Marguerite Parkway, Mission Viejo (Plaza Viejo).

Plan to Restructure 19th Street

Costa Mesa planners are suggesting that a downtown redevelopment project be tied to a plan to realign 19th Street between Newport Boulevard and Park Avenue.

City Planning Director William Dunn estimates the combined jobs would cost in the neighborhood of $3 million. Some of the money would be public, some private, he said. A key to the plan is to acquire a vacant market near 19th and Harbor to provide new locations for businesses displaced by the street widening.

President Says Rocky is His Man

Federal Funds Set For Mesa

Grants to three Orange County cities including Huntington Beach and Costa Mesa, totaling more than $1 million in revenue-sharing funds for community improvement were announced today in Washington.

The money allotted by the Department of Housing and Urban Development under Community Development Grants legislation approved last fall will cover a variety of projects.

A spokesman for the office of Sen. Alan Cranston (D-Calif.), said the funds are the first released under the new law.

Cranston aide Dan Perry said Huntington Beach is to receive the largest allocation in Orange County, a total of $460,000 for three projects.

These include community programs for the elderly and the handicapped, public works projects and the acquisition of land, Perry said.

Costa Mesa will receive $229,000 for housing rehabilitation and other community improvements, according to Cranston's office.

Cash released by HUD will be used for storm drains, street lighting, sidewalks, curbs and gutters, street improvements and specialized crime prevention programs.

Perry said the HUD fund releases were announced through Sen. Cranston's office because he is a member of the Senate Subcommittee on Housing.

Running Mate Assured

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford made clear today that despite conservative grumbling, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller is his choice for a running mate on the 1976 Republican ticket.

"I am convinced that both of us can convince the delegates (to the GOP National Convention) that individually and as a team we should be nominated," Ford said in a statement read to White House reporters by Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

The Ford comment put his personal stamp of disapproval on suggestions from conservatives in Congress that the choice of a vice presidential candidate be left open by Ford as he seeks the presidential nomination for himself.

Nessen said the statement was prepared even before Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), took an oblique public swipe at Rockefeller during the weekend with a statement that he had always believed the vice president "would make a great secretary of state."

In making the statement, Ford, through Nessen, observed the political fiction that a vice presidential candidate is chosen by the convention delegates rather than by the presidential nominee.

"The President will be for Nelson Rockefeller for the (vice presidential) nomination," Nessen said in response to questions. "The delegates will make the decision." In fact, every presidential candidate in modern political history has chosen his own running mate and the convention always has approved the choice.

$1 Per Gallon

Solon Predicts Gas Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says American motorists soon will be paying about $1 per gallon for gasoline if Congress and President Ford can't get together on an energy program.

Mansfield said Ford's full $3-per-barrel tariff would raise gasoline prices to about 70 cents per gallon. "On top of that, you have the recent decision by the OPEC (oil-producing) countries to raise prices by 30 percent in September," he said.

"If something isn't done by Congress and the President together, we stand to see an increase which will bring it somewhere around a dollar," he said in a weekend interview.

Mansfield said gasoline prices will rise in any event, but Congress and the White House must agree on a program to cut large-scale waste — "around 40 percent" of the supply.

Mesa City Manager Helps Capture Nude

A restaurant cook who was allegedly cavorting in the nude at an intersection was jailed early today, captured following a 70-mile-per-hour chase by Costa Mesa City Manager Fred Sorsabal, who pursued the suspect's car into Fountain Valley.

The Costa Mesa Police helicopter Eagle II, plus ground patrol units and Huntington Beach police, along with Fountain Valley officers were eventually involved in the speedy midnight motorcade.

James R. Ayres, 24, of 336 E. 20th St., Costa Mesa, remained in custody this morning, booked into jail on charges of reckless driving and indecent exposure.

Huntington Beach Police Officer James Cutshaw finally succeeded in pulling over Ayres' sport sedan at Ellis Avenue and San Antonio Street in Fountain Valley shortly after midnight.

Sorsabal told police that he, his wife Marlene, their two teenaged sons and a young friend were returning home from an evening out, with son David, 16, driving, when they first encountered the naked man standing in the intersection of Suva Circle and Mesa Verde Drive.

The city manager dropped off his passengers at their nearby home and sped back after reporting the incident.

Police helicopter crewman Officer Sutton said the chopper and City Manager Sorsabal each picked up the trail of a car speeding out of the Suva Circle area with its lights out at about the same time, just moments later.

Speed reached 70 miles per hour as the suspect headed for Fountain Valley, allegedly nearly colliding with other cars including Sorsabal's toward the end of the pursuit.

Officer Sutton said their

Hurd Found Guilty Of 2 Grisly Deaths

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Steven Craig Hurd was found guilty of two murders today by an Orange County Superior Court jury which must now determine if the bushy-haired defendant was sane when he participated in two killings within a 24-hour period.

The jury ended two days of deliberation by ruling that Hurd, 25, was guilty of first degree murder in the slayings five years ago of Mission Viejo teacher Florence Nancy Brown and service station attendant Jerry Wayne Carlin.

Hurd was with convicted killer Arthur Craig "Moose" Hulse, now 21, on June 2, 1970, when Hulse used a roofer's ax to chop to death Carlin, 21, in the restroom of his service station.

It was alleged in Hurd's trial that he repeatedly stabbed Mrs. Brown, 31, of El Toro to death in an Irvine orange grove the next day after the teacher was dragged from her station wagon by the gang of drug-using drifters led by Hurd.

Opening statements in the sanity hearing now faced by Hurd will be delivered later today in Judge Frank Domenichini's courtroom.

Presidential Approval

'CIA Had to Get Okay' — Rocky, Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major CIA activities have had presidential approval, according to both Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.).

But just what those activities were is still a big mystery in Washington and still provoking debate.

Meanwhile, a key Rules Committee member said today he will propose abolishing a special House CIA investigating committee because it has been torn by dissension.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, (D-Calif.), said he would introduce the resolution to disband the House Select Committee on Intelligence because of a move by five of the committee's seven Democrats forcing the resignation of the chairman, Rep. Lucien Nedzi, (D-Mich.).

Rockefeller, whose commission report on the CIA was released last week, said Sunday one reason the panel did not develop conclusive evidence on alleged CIA foreign assassination plots was because so many persons implicated in them are dead.

He hinted his commission may have obtained information President Kennedy and his brother, former attorney general Robert Kennedy, were involved in the alleged plots but he emphasized none of the secret information was strong enough to support conclusions of guilt.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate committee investigating the CIA, backed up Rockefeller by saying no major CIA action, such as an assassination, "would

German President Visits U.S.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford welcomed West German President Walter Scheel today with a strong reaffirmation of the United States' commitment to defend Western Europe.

In a sunbathed welcoming ceremony on the White House south lawn with full military honors, Ford told Scheel the United States is "strongly committed to safeguarding the freedom of the West."

"We remain committed to the freedom and security of Berlin," he said, adding that the United States sees the security of Western Europe as "a true test of what is known as detente."

Scheel, who arrived by helicopter from Williamsburg, Va., where he and his wife spent the night, was the first president of West Germany to visit the United States in 17 years and the second since World War II. He has visited the United States several times, however, as a private citizen.

Both presidents stood at attention while the Marine Corps band played "Deutschland Uber Alles" and the "Star Spangled Banner."

Scheel, in perfect English, told the gathering that his visit mirrored the "excellent" relations between West Germany and the United States.

Referring to World War II, he said the Germans "owe a debt of gratitude to the United States for the help it afforded its former enemies.

"This help will never be forgotten."

But insteal of dwelling on the past, he said, the two countries must focus on the future of strengthening the Atlantic Alliance to deal not only with the problems of common security but to developing a "common approach to economic and monetary problems."

Scheel also invited Ford to visit West Germany. Ford was expected to do so, perhaps in early August should there be an East-West summit meeting following the conclusion of the European Security onference.

Board Weighs Teacher Fate

Newport-Mesa school trustees planned to decide late today whether to rescind charges against suspended Corona del Mar High School teacher Michael Mang or to set a date for his public hearing.

Trustees called a special meeting at 4 p.m. today to make the decision. Mang was suspended in early May, charged with "unprofessional conduct," and issued a notice of intent to dismiss.

Mang, a social studies teacher, appeared at the May 28 school board meeting and requested a public hearing.

14 Die in River

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI) — A small boat capsized in the Khiale River near Peshawar Sunday and 14 persons drowned, officials reported. Most of the victims were reported to be women and children.

Lady Lucan Tells Court Of Terror

LONDON (AP) — Lady Veronica Lucan, wife of the missing British earl who is sought in the murder of the family nanny, said for the first time today he had tried to strangle her on the night of the murder.

She told a tense inquest at London's Westminster Coroner's Court: "He thrust two gloved fingers down my throat and we started to fight. During the course of it he attempted to strangle me from in front."

The inquest was hearing evidence on the death of the Lucan family's nanny, 29-year-old Sandra Rivett, who was battered to death in the Belgravia home of the Countess of Lucan last Nov. 7. Lady Lucan, 37, was also badly injured by the nanny's assailant on that day.

Lady Lucan told the Daily Express, "I shall simply tell the court what happened, and if asked I shall reveal the name of the man who attacked me — the man who sat on the stairs afterwards, cried on my shoulder and told me had killed Sandra."

The countess said she waited until the man calmed down and then ran to a nearby pub for help, streaming blood and crying "murder." Miss Rivett's bludgeoned body later was found wrapped in a canvas sack in the basement of the three-story house.

Some detectives have theorized that the murderer wanted to kill the countess and got the governess by mistake.

The 40-year-old earl vanished a few hours after the killing. Scotland Yard, after interviewing the countess, issued a warrant for his arrest for murder and for the attack on his wife.

Legal Fee Hit By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down minimum legal-fee schedules for real estate transactions today in an 8 to 0 decision which probably also spells the end of fixed fees for other legal services.

The court ruled that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law whenever the fees affect interstate commerce.

The decision was a victory for a Virginia couple, Lewis H. and Ruth Goldfarb, which challenged the Fairfax County Bar Association's fixed minimum fee for legal work required when they bought a home.

It also was a victory for the Justice Department, which has waged a long-standing battle against fee schedules established by professional associations. The department supported the Goldfarbs in their lawsuit.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled 7 to 2 that states may not constitutionally prohibit the advertising of abortion services. The court said such advertising is protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

—Upheld a robbery and assault conviction against Jack Roland Murphy, the celebrated Miami, Fla., jewel thief who is the central figure in the motion picture "Live A Little, Steal A Lot."

—Agreed to review a ruling of the U.S. court of Appeals in Washington that the Federal Power Commission may not give natural-gas producers built-in authority to shut off the gas supply of interstate pipelines when their contracts expire.

—Declined to review a Kentucky family's claim that its property rights were violated when its land was strip mined without the family's consent. The family does not own the mineral rights to the land in question.

Writing for the court in the legal-fees case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "In terms of restraining competition and harming consumers . . . the price-fixing activities found here are unusually damaging."

HURD. . .

Lawyers for both sides have scheduled psychiatrists as witnesses and defense attorney William Gamble hopes to put Hurd on the stand as his final witness.

Hurd accepted the two verdicts today with no display of emotion. He is under daily sedation following a California Supreme Court ruling last month that he could be tried on the murder charges provided he is tranquilized at all phases of the trial.

Lawyers for both sides agree that Hurd is only capable of telling the truth or understanding testimony while he is under the supervised sedation.

He faces life in state prison on each of the two convictions if the jury now finds that he was sane at the time of the two killings.

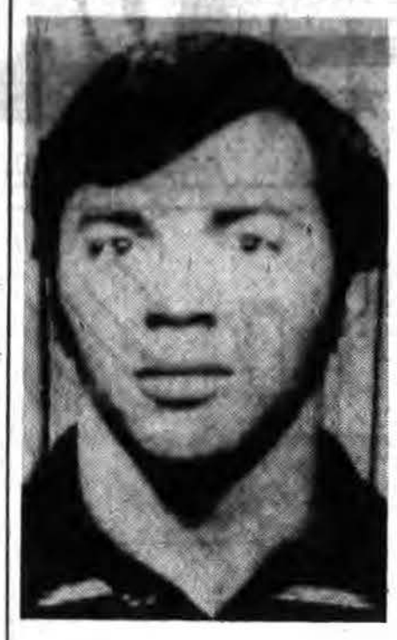
Italians Vote In 'Showdown'

ROME (UPI) — Italians are voting in crucial regional elections expected to test the strength of the Communist campaign for a role in the coalition government.

The two-day voting, which began Sunday, provided a showdown between the Christian Democratic-led coalition and the largest Communist party in the west.

But elections officials said many Italians took advantage of the warm, sunny weather Sunday to pass up the first day of voting and visit the beach.

A Missing Face



Stephen Smith of Garden Grove was not among his fellow graduates at Stanford University Sunday. He and another student, Carrie Jane Hunter of Atherton, are being held captive by revolutionaries in Tanzania.

"They are very much in our thoughts," said Stanford President Richard Lyman in opening remarks at the university's commencement exercises.

County's Employes To Rally Over Pay

County employes agreed today to stage demonstrations Tuesday to protest stalled 1975-76 salary negotiations between Orange County officials and the Orange County Employes Association (OCEA).

Tuesday's demonstrations will include a before-work rally in Santa Ana Bowl, a mass visit to the Board of Supervisors meeting, picketing of the county administration building and a noon rally in the civic center.

According to OCEA Executive Director John Sawyer, the decision to hold the demonstrations was made this morning after county negotiators agreed to meet with OCEA officials and a state mediator Wednesday.

At issue in the discussions are wage and fringe benefits OCEA's 9,700 members expect to receive in the coming fiscal year.

One informed source said the county so far has offered two percent pay raises covering about 2,000 employes and four ¾ percent pay hikes for OCEA's remaining members.

The same source said county negotiators are demanding a three-year salary-fringe benefit contract while the association is holding out for the customary one year pact.

According to James Shelton, the county's chief negotiator, a meeting between himself, OCEA officials and state mediator Tim McCarthy ended in an impasse shortly before midnight Friday.

Art Museum Given Grant, Seeking Funds

The National Endowment for the Arts has given the museum $5,000 to spend on acquiring works of art, according to David Steinmetz, president of the museum's board of trustees.

Steinmetz said the grant and the matching funds will be used to begin the museum's own permanent collection. The only works now owned by the museum are 34 pieces of contemporary art donated by Avco Financial Services in 1971.

The acquisition council formed to spearhead the fund-raising effort is headed by Mrs. Johann Jonas and John Martin Shea, both of Newport Beach.

Airport Director To Speak in Mesa

Orange County Aviation director Robert Bresnahan will speak to members of the Citizens Harbor Area Research Team (CHART) at 7:30 a.m. Thursday at Glendale Federal Savings and Loan Association in Costa Mesa.

He will report on airport activities affecting the Harbor Area, such as takeoff patterns, and the condemnation of homes under flight paths.

He also said Sunday he had seen no evidence any CIA assassination plots were ever attempted but that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the White House considered killing Cuban premier Fidel Castro.

Time magazine reported Sunday the CIA plotted in 1960 to kill Castro by supplying him with poisoned cigars, but never carried out the plan because there was no assurance Castro would not give the cigars to other people. ple.

The Rockefeller Commission report was to be given officially today to the Senate Investigating Committee, which Wednesday will hear from CIA Director William Colby testifying under tight security about the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Dinh Diem.

Rockefeller's hint of Kennedy involvement in assassination plots resulted in a statement from two former aides of Robert Kennedy, who accused the vice president of ignoring the conclusions of his own report or "deliberately lying."

Rockefeller said in a broadcast interview (NBC-TV's Meet the Press) the commission failed to complete the assassination investigation because it ran out of time and encountered too many difficulties.

"Let's face it," he said, "many of the people have died who were allegedly involved and others were assassinated in this country tragically."

Asked if he was referring to the Kennedys, Rockefeller replied: "Well, as I said, we have no conclusive information, but the president of the United States and the attorney general of the United States were both assassinated tragically in this country."

He was asked if he meant the Kennedys actually were involved in such plots.

"Well," he said, "I said we had no evidence on the basis of which to draw conclusions. I said it was very difficult to get information because we go back 15 years and many of the people who were involved in the CIA and in the White House are no longer living."

'Treasure' Found

HUNTINGDON, England (UPI) — Archeologists and British Museum officials reported Sunday the discovery of 25 pieces of church silver making up possibly "the earliest known collection of Christian church plates in the Roman Empire." The silver, with an estimated value of $120,000, was turned over to county officials for a decision as to whether it is treasure trove — thus going to the government — or whether it will be given to the finder.
