FBI Chief Says Break-ins Used

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Kelley said that he has not been asked to authorize any break-ins since becoming FBI director two years ago. He said he would present any such requests to the attorney general and would be guided by his opinion.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries in securing information related to the security of the nation," Keeley said in response to questions.

He defended the break-ins and said FBI personnel "acted in good faith" in authorizing and conducting them

In 1966, Kelley said, "all such activity was terminated" except for break-ins considered necessary for foreign-related counterintelligence activity

He declined to say how many break-ins have been conducted since 1966 or whether there was a substantial reduction in the number

The director said he could not discuss many details because he expects to testify on matters before the Senate committee investigating Central Intelligence Agency and FBI intelligence activities

He refused to identify the targets of the break-ins but said he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of the break-ins will be provided to the Senate committee, Kelley said, "It will be a matter which will be completely presented to the attorney general.

Mesa Youth, 19, Jailed In Assault

A Costa Mesa youth who allegedly hurled a beer bottle into the face of a police Explorer Scout assisting in crowd control duties in the annual Lions Club Fish Fry celebration has been jailed after a six-week investigation.

Corwyn K. Thompson, 19, of 387 W. Bay St., was scheduled for court arraignment on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Bail was set at $10,000 for Thompson in the arrest warrant issued from Harbor Judicial District Court, based on evidence gathered since the Sunday night, June 1, incident.

Kevin C. Gleason, 17, of 2915 Pemba Drive, Costa Mesa, sustained severe facial lacerations in the bottle attack and had to have stitches taken at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

The young member of the police department-sponsored law enforcement Explorer Scout unit was trying to get a group of children out from under the Fish Fry carnival's Nightmare Ride when he was attacked.

Investigators were told an older youth began yelling obscenities at the youth, an aspiring police officer assisting local patrolmen at the Fish Fry, then flung the bottle in his face.

Detectives said the man fled into the crowd and eluded a pursuit by two adult officers, but was allegedly identified later by at least three separate witnesses through high school yearbook photos.

Suspect Held On Murder For Hire Rap

A Huntington Beach man, who police allege wanted to get rid of his ex-wife's boyfriend, was booked into city jail Sunday night on a murder-for-hire charge.

Police said Donald Albert Ray, 35, of 18892 Florida St., Sunday allegedly offered a friend $100 to shoot Richard L. Chapman, 41, of 17391 Keelson Lane.

He claimed Chapman was his ex-wife's boyfriend, police said.

He also offered to furnish the gun, officers asserted.

But instead of taking up the offer, his friend, James H. Alexander, 37, of 7688 Brookwood St., Huntington Beach, called police.

They arrested Ray three hours later. He was still in custody today. Bail was set at $250,000, police said.

A New Phase of Life

This is the final article in a Daily Pilot five-part series on Orange County nursing homes.

"What is the Worst of Woes that Wait on Age?
To View Each Loved One Blotted From Life's Page,
And be Alone on Earth, as I am now."
—Lord Byron

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Time passes. As it does, you and those you love grow older.

And the day may come sooner than you think when you will need the care a nursing home provides, either for yourself or someone close to you.

GRANVILLE

For a younger person recovering from an illness, injury or surgery, a nursing home stay will be much less expensive but not too different from recuperating in a hospital.

But for an older person, a doctor's order sending them to a skilled nursing facility can mean the beginning of a new phase in their life.

Physical condition will tell some their stay will be a long one, perhaps for the rest of their lives.

THEY WILL BE among strangers in their new home, most living apart from family and friends for the first time.

And many who have devoted their lives to caring for others—as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers—will suddenly find themselves among the cared for, dependant on the care they receive from others to see them through each day.

How They Care

A Daily Pilot Series On Elderly Care In Orange County Nursing Homes-1975

To the nursing home operator goes the responsibility not only of tending to their aged patients' health needs but also their mental and social well being.

How will you select the right home for yourself or someone you love?

Even those close to the nursing home scene in Orange County say it's not always an easy decision.

"THINGS CAN CHANGE so fast in a nursing home that I might, for example, be willing to put my mother in a particular home today but not tomorrow," Ruth Chassane said recently.

Mrs. Chassane monitors the care of Medi-Cal patients for the county Social Services Department.

County Health Department director of health services, Dr. Thomas Hamilton, also sees ups and downs in patient care as characteristic of many nursing homes.

"New owners can make a big difference. So can a change in administrators or a new nursing director," said Hamilton.

"We sometimes have difficulty keeping a track of what's going on. And it's probably doubly difficult for the public," he added.

More Arrests Expected

Nine narcotics suspects have been arrested by Irvine vice officers on charges ranging from possession of drug paraphernalia to drug sales.

The series of arrests, which began last Tuesday, was the first coordinated narcotics enforcement operation in Irvine since the mass Operation Irving of more than a year ago.

Five adults and four juveniles were arrested and more arrests are expected by the end of the week, said vice Lt. James Blaylock. The fourth juvenile was arrested today.

The arrests, which ended a two-month investigation into sales of PCP, an animal tranquilizer, were the first felony arrests by the Irvine Police Department.

Daniel R. Pettit, 20, of 4051 Germainder Way, Irvine, and John A. Boito, 18, of 18151 Dewberry Way, Irvine, were arrested on charges alleging sale of drugs to minors.

Three other adults were arrested, given citations, and released.

Chris W. Clark, 19, of 5391 Sierra Verde, Irvine, was cited for possession of paraphernalia. Steven E. Kelsey, 21, of 526 C Bernard St., Costa Mesa, was cited for possession of paraphernalia. Larry A. Fuhrman, 22, of 11595 Iris Ave., Fountain Valley, was also cited for possession of paraphernalia.

The four juveniles, ranging in age from 15 to 17, were arrested on drug sales charges.

The arrests, said Blaylock, are the first evidence of stepped up narcotics enforcement in Irvine under the new police department.

Guests Return for Divorce Party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Everyone had such a good time at the Smiths' wedding 15 months ago, the couple decided to invite all the guests back for another party.

The champagne they received as a wedding gift was opened, and the best man was there to perform the honors — this time removing the wedding bands from the fingers of Ed and Mari Smith.

Ed and Mari filed divorce papers on July 9. Under California law, the final decree will be issued in six months.

The couple hugged — Ed called her "Babe" and Mari called him "Honey" — and everybody cheered.

Invitations to Saturday night's party read: "You are cordially invited to join us in celebrating our divorce."

Ed, 44, said the party was thrown "to show our friends that Mari and I are not mad at each other."

Mari, 24, agreed. "Ed and I are still buddies. Ed's awfully nice, but we just couldn't stand living together."

The party was Ed's idea, Mari said.

"Everybody thinks that divorce is some kind of a terrible thing, like a funeral. But if two people are not getting along it is good to find out quickly. Then it's nice to celebrate," she explained.

"I first thought he was a smart aleck and then I realized he was being cooperative. My husband amazes me. He's very ingenious."

The couple rejected one suggestion that Ed and Mari throw rice at the guests. Mari did offer to wrap and return all the wedding gifts, "but nobody accepted my offer."

In keeping with the spirit of things, Ed and Mari worked together on obtaining their divorce.

"The how-to-do-it book cost us $5 and the court costs are $53 and then that's it," Mari said.

Ragtime Holding Race Lead

The 62-foot sloop Ragtime from Long Beach continued to lead the field in the Transpacific Yacht Race Sunday after it was reported within 325 miles of Honolulu.

Transpac officials said if Ragtime continues its pace, it could finish the race late Monday morning. Good winds were reported throughout the fleet, with Ragtime reporting approximately 18 knots.

The yacht is followed by Ondine, with 354 miles to go, and Windward Passage third, 477 miles from Honolulu.

Following the three frontrunners were Sunset Boulevard with 515 miles to go and Warrior, 525 miles out.

The yacht Enterprise, skippered by Brooks Barnhill of San Pedro, reported Saturday night she was taking water aboard. Barnhill found the leak, repaired it and is proceeding toward Honolulu despite steering problems, race officials said.

Several boats reported radio problems as batteries began to run low.

The corrected time leader was Tinsley Light, followed by Regardless, Centurian, Whisper and Conception.

The leaders by class with miles to go:

Class A: Sunset Boulevard, 515; Warrior; Hawkeye; Aorangi; Miyakodori III.

Class B: Blue Streak, 687; Loco Viente III; Paragon; Tanache; Morgan's Point.

Class C: Tinsley Light, 682; Regardless; Whisper; Mamie; Dakar.

Class D: Centurian, 733; Conception; Dic Chita; Vicarious; Silver Fox.

Joint Space Shot Ready

Russ, U.S. Teams Relax as Countdown Moves

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Apollo's astronauts went joy-riding in jets today while countdowns moved smoothly toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff of the Americans 7½ hours later.

Russia's space chief said on the eve of launch the Apollo-Soyuz rendezvous in orbit would strengthen peace and deepen detente. United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the twin shots dramatize the will of the two nations to work together.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton loosened up for their flight in pursuit of Soyuz by flying T38 jets from nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Russian managers in Moscow reported that Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov also were ready at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8,670 miles from here They relaxed while engineers prepared to start fueling the Soyuz rocket about 12:20 a.m. PDT — five hours before blastoff.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project), said Adrian G Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two-month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Foreign Ministry press chief, Boris N. Petrov, chairman of Russia's Intercosmos Council, said in opening the Moscow news conference that the two ships' union in orbit will "strengthen peace and deepen the process of detente. This is an example of solving many difficulties and mutual problems in an atmosphere of cooperation and mutual understanding."

The Russians open the doubleheader with a 5:20 a.m. PDT blastoff from their desert base east of the Aral Sea. The American pilots, and millions of other persons around the world, will watch the launch on television.

The U.S. launch is set for 12:50 p.m. PDT Tuesday.

"We will see you in a couple of days," Stafford said in a telephone call to Leonov while both crews relaxed Sunday.

The threat of thunderstorms remained the one big worry for project officials although meteorologist Jess Gulick said the trend is for more favorable conditions. There have been lightning and rain in the Cape Canaveral area for eight days and forecasters said more was likely sometime Tuesday.

Lightning or even electrified clouds overhead could delay the shot a day. Scientists were prepared to drop metallic fibers into cumulus clouds in an attempt to short-circuit potential thunderheads. Four aircraft will be constantly measuring the electric potential of clouds 24,000 to 41,000 feet overhead.

The weather forecast at Baikonur was good. Meteorologists expected a high of 91 and northerly winds of 16 to 22 miles per hour.

The shot marks the end of the Apollo era for the United States. Local officials estimate it may draw as many as 1 million spectators to the cape area. There won't be another American manned space shot until 1979 when the space shuttle rocket plane begins flying.

DRUGS . . .

Narcotics officers, he said, bought $200 worth of what was represented as cannabinol. Most of the packets of powder were filled with PCP, he said.

Drug use among Irvine youth, said Blaylock, was believed to drop off after the Operation Irving arrests, but since then have climbed back to former levels.

Issuing citations rather than booking suspects for the lesser charges, he said, is to become a standard procedure for Irvine police. He said it is not an attempt to anticipate a bill recently signed into law lessening penalties for marijuana possession. That law would require police to issue traffic ticket-style citations to people caught with less than an ounce of marijuana.

"We're not after big roundups," said Blaylock, "We are pursuing an ongoing program of enforcement, a more constant program, rather than going after isolated big busts."

Gasoline to Soar Under Ford Plan?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed a complex oil-price plan that could drive up the cost of gasoline seven cents a gallon by 1978, in effect challenging Congress to come up with a better idea if it can.

The proposal would freeze the price of "new" domestic oil, which amounts to about 40 percent of American production, immediately at $13.50 a barrel and let the cost of "old" oil rise in steps to that level in 30 months.

Ford said the resulting boost in petroleum prices would be a "small price to pay" to free the nation from dependence on foreign oil producers.

His message was addressed to Congress. But he delayed sending it to Capitol Hill until later this week in an apparent attempt to buy time to woo support both among lawmakers and the public.

Once the President's message goes formally to Congress, a statutory timeclock starts running and the plan will go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house within five working days.

Appearing in the White House press room, Ford said he hoped Congress "will give this very serious consideration and not take hasty action."

He said he encountered a "minimum of opposition" when he outlined the plan to congressional leaders this morning.

"We had a greater understanding of the complexity of this problem," he added.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been hostile to the prospect of ending price controls on "old" oil, which ccmprises 60 percent of production and now pegged at $5.25 per barrel, on the theory it would send fuel prices skyrocketing.

The control law is due to expire Aug. 31 and Ford warned he would veto any extension approved by Congress unless lawmakers accept his "reasonable compromise."

Ford's plan essentially would end controls on "old" oil, and substitute a ceiling for all domestic oil at about $13.50 a barrel. So-called "new" oil, that produced by American wells since 1973 and not subject to controls, now sells for about $13 per barrel.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), immediately said he would offer a resolution of disapproval, calling the Administration's oil pricing policies "intellectually and morally corrupt."

But Republican Leader Hugh Scott and House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes promptly endorsed Ford's proposal.

Ford's action puts heavy pressure on Congress to move quickly on the complex energy problem. If it rejects his plan, it will have to come up with one of its own acceptable to the President or face an end to controls Aug. 31.

Thus far this year, Congress has been unable to override a Ford veto.

Rome Thieves Net Millions

ROME (AP) — Burglars broke into the suburban branch of a Rome bank over the weekend and stole jewels and other valuables from safe-deposit boxes, police reported today. One report estimated the take at $10 million.

Police said, however, they could not set a value on the theft before making a careful check with bank officials and clients about contents of the 200 safe-deposit boxes cleaned out by the robbers.

Dog Slayer Faces Tests

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A psychiatric examination has been ordered for a man accused of strangling his dog and tossing the animal's body onto a busy interstate highway near here.

George T. Copley, 35, Middletown, was also ordered jailed for 40 days by Hamilton County Municipal Court Judge Thomas Crush for contempt of court for remarks made to the bench.

Suburban Springdale police officers William Haver and Otis Sims testified Copley's auto ran out of gas on busy I-75, north of here. The offices said Copley strangled his terrier when it would not stay in the auto.

Conference Set

GENEVA (UPI) — The European Security Conference agreed today to hold a summit conference in Helsinki July 30 for signing a document covering cooperation in the entire field of political, economic and human relations. The summit will bring together the heads of 35 states — all European countries except Albania — plus the United States, the Soviet Union and Canada.

BREAK-INS

Full disclosure, he added, "is a question only he can answer."

The director said the Justice Department also is reviewing the break-ins to determine their legality.

Although suggesting that he might consider break-ins improper or unwise today, Kelley insisted that those who carried out the break-ins were acting for the good of the nation.

"I do not note in these activities any gross abuse of authority," he asserted. "I see a consistent thread of well-intentioned activity."

Kelley also declined to say whether he personally participated in break-ins as an FBI agent from 1940 through 1961, serving at various times in the Houston, Seattle, San Francisco, Birmingham and Memphis field offices.

He was asked whether civil rights groups were the targets of break-ins, and again refused to say.

He said all the FBI break-ins apparently were conducted in this country. "I know of none overseas," he said.

Session Called

LISBON (UPI) — Portugal's socialist party — on the outside of the cabinet for the first time since the 1974 military revolution — called its leaders into session today to chart the party's future. This week also loomed as critical for the popular Democratic party which must decide whether to remain in the 20-member leftwing cabinet.

That's No Goldilocks

Mike Schaas, 29, of San Clemente, returned home Sunday to find that someone had, just like in the fairy tale, been eating his food, sleeping in his bed, and watching his TV.

But it wasn't Goldilocks, Schaas reported, to police. Whoever it was also took $40 he had left on a bedroom table.

Police say the mystery visitor left no fingerprints and logged the incident as a burglary.

The San Clemente Chamber of Commerce gave away a bunch of door prizes at its Fiesta La Christianita Kickoff party Saturday. The big prize of the evening was a $100 Spiegel Catalogue gift certificate.

Roy Hamm, manager of the Sear's catalogue store in San Clemente, won it.

Cape Cod Nude Ban Enforced

BOSTON (AP) — Skinny-dippers have lost their court battle to save a Cape Cod beach from a National Park Service ban on nude bathing.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank H. Freedman, who visited the beach in question to cast a judicial eye on the situation, upheld the park service regulations which went into effect May 19.

The regulations ban nude bathing all along the Cape Cod National Seashore, including Brush Hollow, an area favored by nudists.

The judge noted that although the area has traditionally been used by nude bathers since the 1960s, an increase in the number of people attracted to the area was causing environmental problems.

Park service officials said the vast increase in the number of nude bathers the past few years was causing parking problems, littering and damage to the beach and sand dunes.

Judge Freedman found that "the personal right to bathe in the nude on a beach like Brush Hollow is not of such significance that it can be considered a fundamental right."

The 12 plaintiffs contended that they had the right to swim and sun bathe in the nude under the First Amendment guarantees of freedom of speech and assembly.

Freedman concluded that "the regulation banning nude bathing at the seashore is adequate to withstand the constitutional challenge of plaintiffs. It was a carefully conceived action taken in the face of a complex series of problems . . ."

Under the regulations those caught bathing in the nude are subject to a warning on the first offense and may be brought before a federal magistrate. Subsequent violations are punishable by a fine of up to $500 and up to six months in prison.

Dexter Keezer, a director of the Truro Neighborhood Association, said of the ruling; "It will save the town of Truro from being converted into a parking lot and garbage dump.

'Whether people have their clothes on or off when they go swimming or sit on the beach is a matter of indifference to me . . . But it brought throngs of people, which the town cannot support," he added.

Warnings issued under the regulations, in effect since May 19, now total 222 and three persons have been summoned before a U.S. magistrate. In the only complete case, a man was fined $25.

Pickup Truck Kills Countian

A 26-year-old pedestrian died shortly after he was struck by a hit and run pickup truck in Fullerton Sunday morning.

Police said Frank E. Martinez. 2617 E. Santa Ysabel Ave., Fullerton, died in Anaheim Memorial Hospital shortly before 3a.m.

Less than an hour earlier Martinez was hit by a south bound truck on Harbor Blvd. near Commonwealth Ave.

Witnesses told police the red pickup sped from the accident scene after slowing momentarily when it struck the victim.

DR. McCULLOUGH (RIGHT) TESTS LEE EKEBERG. College Teachers Work on Different Kind of Blood Test

Got Bad Headache? Just Think Harder

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Next time your monthly gasoline bill threatens to make the blood rush to your head and pop your cork try this:

Think:

Most people have the ability to control or alter the flow of blood in their cardiovascular system, according to a recent discovery by two Saddleback College instructors.

Drs. Andrew Kish and Richard McCullough, who recently earned PhD degrees in connection with their pioneer work in psychophysiology, say they have the evidence to prove it.

They tested 30 persons with the aid of a photoplethysmograph, a device which measures the flow of blood with the aid of a photoelectric cell sensitive to red light.

Each person tested was given instructions to think thoughts which would increase the flow of blood to the hand connected to the cell.

By thinking the proper thoughts many of those tested were able to move the tracer on the photoplethysmograph beyond its base line

And because they were able to see the tracer do its work they had immediate bio-feedback to help them concentrate on the right kinds of thoughts

What were they? They ranged from imagining that the hand was submerged in hot water or ice and even sex, Dr McCullough, 34, Mission Viejo reports.

Some were more successful in controlling blood flow than others and this led the researchers to the second part of their discovery: The ability to control blood flow is linked to certain personality traits.

Neither of the co-workers is willing to say what these are for the moment because they believe their discovery has some commercial application.

They are developing a test which will allow them to predict whether a person, based on his personality traits, will be successful in controlling his flow of blood.

Although the practical applications of the discovery by McCullough and his 46-year-old Huntington Beach counterpart have not been completely fathomed, a few are already known.

It may be possible, for example, to cure migraine headaches using the technique, McCullough says. Migraine headaches are caused by the swelling of blood vessels.

If individuals can learn how to shift their blood from the affected vessels to another part of the body they could relieve the pressure and, hence, the headache.

This principle is applicable not only to migraines but to several other less common cardiovascular disorders where there is a displacement of blood, the researchers say.

What Drs. Kish and McCullough have empirically proven has been known by eastern civilizations for centuries.

"In the East it has long been accepted that the mind has a great deal of control over the body," McCullough explains.

"There have been examples for hundreds of years of people with the ability to slow down their pulse, stop their hearts, and alter their blood flow."

However, the mind-body relationship didn't become clearly evident in the West until the 1950s when doctors began showing their patients their own pulse tracings on electrocardiograms.

"They found that patients were able to change their heart rates and that they could do this with rare exceptions, but with different degrees of success," McCullough said.

Surprisingly, the discovery of the two Saddleback scientists that thought patterns are capable of altering blood flow is not linked to changes in the heart rate

How much blood the heart pumps has no direct correlation. All of the subjects tested by Kish and McCullough were monitored at a constant pulse rate.

What they were able to do is to dilate and constrict their blood vessels, thereby causing changes in the volume of blood flowing to certain areas of the cardiovascular system.

Lull to End In Ireland?

BELFAST (UPI) — The killing of a Roman Catholic youth by soldiers in Belfast and the discovery of an arms and explosives cache in England sparked concern by British security authorities today that the Irish Republican Army planned to end its 161-day-old cease-fire.

Police said they believe the arrest of four men, including an escaped IRA officer, Sean Kinsella, in the Liverpool area of England and the discovery of a large quantity of arms and explosives indicate the IRA planned to begin a new bomb blitz in England.

Nixon Chats, Poses on Beach

Former President Richard M. Nixon, barefoot and accompanied by three members of his family, appeared at a Camp Pendleton beach over the weekend, chatting and posing for pictures with beachgoers.

Nixon, his wife Pat, daughter Tricia and son-in-law Edward Cox strolled along Red Beach at the massive Marine Corps training base Saturday, not far from the Vietnamese refugee camp set up at this sprawling Marine base.

The former president — clad in slacks and a dark jacket emblazoned with the presidential seal — signed autographs, shook hands with well-wishers and posed for photographers during the hour-long stroll.

Fire Guts Store

SAN BERNARDINO GP) — A fire of suspicious origin has gutted part of a commercial-office building complex under construction, authorities say. The blaze Sunday gutted a portion of the project that was to have been a drug store, firemen said.

Nixon Moving?

NY Relocation Rumored

From Wire Services

Richard M. Nixon may sell his San Clemente estate and move to Bronxville, N.Y., a New York City suburb, according to U.S. News & World Report.

Quoting the former president's "associates," the magazine said Nixon is "definitely considering" the move so that he "may engage in projects with his close friend, multimillionaire Robert Abplanalp, who has a home near Bronxville."

The magazine said that Abplanalp and Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, another close Nixon friend, have urged Nixon to sell his San Clemente property to assist in meeting his substantial financial obligations.

In Yonkers, N.Y., a spokesman for Abplanalp said he knows of no such plans for the former president.

Leo Murray, assistant director of public relations for Precision Valve Corp., which Abplanalp owns, quoted Abplanalp as saying he was "unaware of any specific plans relating to the disposal of San Clemente or of Mr. Nixon moving East."

The spokesman said Abplanalp added that he knows of no plans for joint projects with the former president.

High Tradition

Wallenda Grandson at Lion Country

The show must go on — and for the Wallenda family of circus fame, the show has gone on for six generations.

Even after a tragic high-wire accident that killed two family members and left another paralyzed, Karl Wallenda, at 70, is still making headlines with his daring aerial feats.

And now Wallenda's grandson, already a circus veteran at 24, is trying to make a name for himself at Lion Country Safari as the most famous of the Flying Wallendas.

"Grandfather can keep grabbing the glory for a while," says Tino Wallenda-Zoppe, who quit performing with his grandfather two years ago to strike out on his own. "But there will be a time when I will be the only one who does it."

The young aerialist began his circus career at 2 with a bareback riding act, and by the time he was 7 his grandfather was tutoring him in the art of walking the high wire.

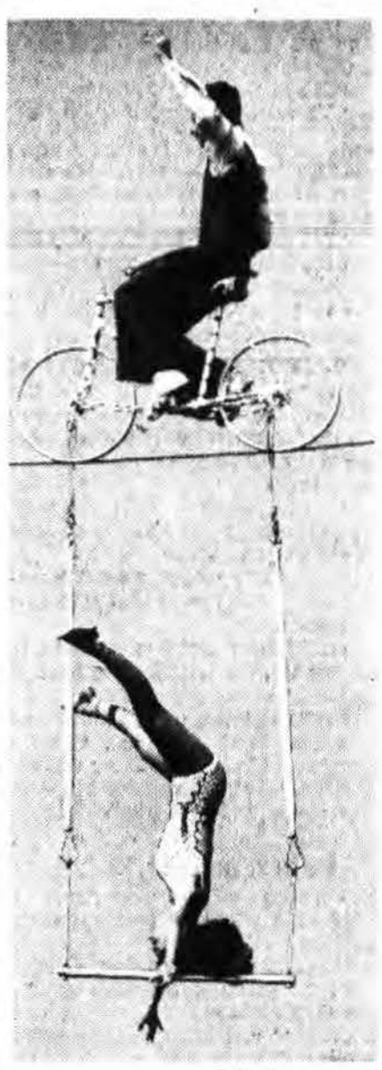

Tino made his first walk before an audience at 12, aud he has been performing on the high wire ever since.

Now he is the featured performer at the Irvine wildlife preserve. With his 21-year-old wife Olinka — also a sixth-generation circus star — he executes a series of skilled aerial stunts.

He walks a guy wire up to the high wire, then does a headstand, skips rope, dances and lies down on the wire. Only occasionally does he perform with the aid of a balancing pole.

The highlight of the act is a no-hands headstand by Olinka on a trapeze suspended from a bicycle ridden along the high wire by Tino.

The couple performs above a pond filled with only two feet of water. Tino says he has never taken a tumble while performing at Lion Country.

WALLENDAS IN ACTION Tino (top) and Olinka

"That would be bad for me," he grinned. "The water's pretty dirty."

He is undaunted by the ever-present danger of his profession or by the series of tragedies that have struck his circus family in the past.

Seven of the Wallendas were involved in a fall from the high wire while performing without a net at a Detroit circus 13 years ago. Tino's uncle and stepfather were killed in the fall and another uncle was left paralyzed.

"My mother left the act for a year, and two of the other women quit for good," he recalls. "But my grandfather was back on the high wire the next day."

Another family member was killed four years ago when he stepped over a power line during a performance and was electrocuted. And Tino himself narrowly escaped tragedy when he fell during a 1969 performance in Wichita, Kan.

He caught a ladder behind him just before he hit the ground, breaking the fall. Though he sustained several cracked ribs, sprained both ankles and tore the skin off the palms of his hands, he went on with the show.

And the Wallenda's show may soon go into its seventh generation. Tino's 1-year-old daughter, Alida, made her debut at four months, balancing on his hand.

"But it will be a long time before she begins on the high wire," her father said.

Expedition Comes to End

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — An American mountaineering expedition has failed in its attempt to reach the summit of K2, the world's second highest mountain, according to a radio message received Monday.

The message said the 10 Americans, headed by Jim Whittaker of Seattle, Wash., had suffered serious delays because of strikes by the porters and bad weather. Whittaker had previously led the first successful U.S. expedition on Mt. Everest.

President Loses Footing Again

KINCHELOE AIR FORCE BASE, Mich. (UPI) — President Ford slipped boarding the ramp to Air Force One on his return to Washington.

But he managed to regain balance before falling, as he did six weeks ago in Salzburg, Austria.

The President lost his balance Sunday night as he neared the top of the stairs. He dropped to one knee before he regained his feet, then turned to the crowd of about 1,000 spectators and waved to signal he was all right.

The Crowds Of Summer

ELBOW ROOM DEPT. — If you were anywhere in the vicinity of the Costa Mesa acreage out off Newport Boulevard over the weekend, you would figure former Mesa mayor Bob Wilson got his wish. Judging from the throngs, the world's fair had arrived. Actually, that isn't quite so. But the Orange County Fair, which continues its daily and nightly run through July 20, has arrived. The fair brass estimates they might draw a quarter of a million people before the show folds its tent. This estimate, of course, is wrong. The quarter of a million folks must have all showed up Saturday night.

THIS YEAR, the county fair is operating under the theme of The Good Old Days. Well, if that's the way things were back then, the good old days certainly had plenty of people in them.

Our county fair also has proved how good intentions can backfire on you. In an anti-inflation effort, the fair people decided to hold down the price of a general admission stub to $1.75.

This was nice; a gesture toward the sorely pressed economy and the frazzled pocketbooks of us working slobs.

The throngs that descended upon the fair, however, caused one little vexation. They came without any quarters. Everybody handed the ticket seller two bucks and expected to get a quarter back.

PRETTY SOON, the fair didn't have any quarters. They had to briefly shut down the ticket booths three times Saturday just to go fetch more quarters so they could make change.

So there's your two bits worth of Monday advice from this corner, folks. When you get out to the fair, have your own quarters. This will aid the management who tried to aid you.

Actually, Costa Mesa's fairgrounds doesn't have a corner on throngs these days along our coast. Laguna Beach, for example, now has three art shows going at the same time.

The granddaddy of them all, the Festival of Arts and Pageant of the Masters, is operating out in Laguna Canyon along with the increasingly popular Sawdust Festival. Art-A-Fair also has its show going up on Coast Highway near Sleepy Hollow.

TRAFFIC CONTROL appears to be Laguna's major malfunction during these art show runs. The way the Art Colony has decided to fix this is to ban left turns just about everywhere anybody wants to turn left.

Southbound on Coast Highway, you cannot turn left until you reach La Jolla. By this time, you have forgotten why you wanted to turn left in the first place.

You are perfectly free, however, to turn right almost anyplace as you drive through Laguna Beach.

Of course, a right turn puts you in the Pacific Ocean.

THE OCEAN is pleasant these days but you'll probably enjoy it a lot more if you get out of the car.

Now all you need to do is find a parking place.

'Get in Step'

New Marine Chief Vows to Trim Fat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Louis H. Wilson, the new commandant of the Marine Corps, has declared war on fat Marines and on officers who let them get that way.

"If I see a fat Marine, he's got a problem, and so does his commanding officer," said Wilson, who keeps lean by running two miles every morning.

WILSON TOLD a group of newsmen he plans to send the Marine inspector general around to check on how unit commanders enforce physical fitness standards.

"If they have fat Marines, then they are going to have to answer for that," he said.

Virtually every recent commandant has taken aim at flabby Marines.

(If Wilson gets everybody to shape up, he will be the first to succeed.)

From the moment he became commandant June 30, the 55-year-old Medal of Honor winner has sounded as though he feels the corps needs a general bracing.

"I CALL ON ALL Marines to get in step and do so smartly," he said as he took over from Gen. Robert E. Cushman.

Now, two weeks later, Wilson said he intends to raise enlistment standards and weed out Marines "unwilling to accept discipline."

"I'm willing to sacrifice quantity for quality," Wilson said. He added, however, that he expects the Marines to attract enough quality recruits to fill requirements even after the economic recession ends.

WILSON SAID HE will insist that the Marines recruit a higher percentage of high-school graduates. Indicating the goal is still under study, he said it will be well above the current 55 percent level.

"I believe there is a majority of opinion that the more high-school graduates we have, the less problems we're going to have with discipline," he said.

For recruits lacking high-school diplomas, Wilson said the corps will demand higher entrance test scores, particularly in the verbal and arithmetic categories. The goal is to increase the acceptable level from a score of 85 to 95.

AT THE SAME time, Wilson said he will bear down on recruiters more than has been done in the past, including setting up a mechanism for determining which recruiters may be accepting men of lesser quality to make their quotas.

Wilson acknowledged continuing problems with crime in the barracks and absence without leave. He sttributed these problems, in part, to changing lifestyle patterns among young Marines and noncommissioned officers.

Murder Victim's Screams Recorded

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — The chilling screams of a prominent Port Huron psychiatrist as he was slain in his home during the weekend were recorded by a sheriff's office tape machine, authorities say.

"It's the most grisly thing I've ever heard," said one St. Clair County Sheriff's deputy, referring to a tape recording made when Dr. Charles N. Hoyt, 61, chief of psychiatry at Port Huron Hospital, telephoned authorities to report a prowler.

AUTHORITIES DID NOT REVEAL whether any discernible words were spoken or whether the assailant's voice was recorded. They said the tape contained two minutes of screaming followed by silence.

William E. Hamm, 27, son of Port Huron Court Judge Wilbur V. Hamm and a patient of the psychiatrist, was charged with first-degree murder in the fatal beating and stabbing of Hoyt.

He also was charged with assault with intent to murder Hoyt's wife, Virginia, 59, who was in serious condition at Port Huron Hospital with numerous stab wounds.

THE YOUNGER HAMM WAS HELD without bond in St. Clair County Jail and was scheduled for preliminary examination July 24.

The elder Hamm said his son "has never been the same" after a head injury suffered last December when he said he was attacked and robbed by two men.

The judge said his son underwent brain surgery in January and then became a patient of Hoyt's.

"Neither the doctors at Ford Hospital (in Detroit) nor Dr. Hoyt gave us any indication Bill might become violent. They said he could take treatment as an out-patient.

"IF WE HAD ANY INDICATION anything like this might have happened, he would have been kept in the hospital. I had him committed to the hospital on a court order from probate court a few months ago. . .and Dr. Hoyt released him from the hospital on May 5.

"Believe me, I never thought he would hurt anyone. He's never been violent before," the judge said.

A sheriff's spokesman gave this account of the slaying:

Hoyt and his wife were asleep in a rear room of the home when they were awakened by the sound of a window breaking. Hoyt telephoned the sheriff's office, which routinely records all incoming calls, but did not hang up his receiver. The recorder picked up the death screams.

THE ASSAILANT HAD BROKEN a front window to gain entry to the home. Mrs. Hoyt was attacked but managed to escape and stumble to the home of a neighbor for help.

When authorities arrived at the Lake Huron home following the psychiatrist's phone call, Hoyt's body was found in a pool of blood in the bedroom. He had been stabbed 24 times.

Young Hamm was arrested in front of the Hoyt home.

He was covered with blood and was found walking along a driveway leading to Lakeshore Road.

A medical examiner said Hoyt had been stabbed with a sharp piece of plate glass from the broken window.

Faces Having Fun

"There is No Reason Why Laughter and Pleasant Conversation Shouldn't Be Heard in a Nursing Home," Declared the Director of One Large Chain. Here, Faces of Elderly Patients Reflect Varied Reaction to the Twice-Weekly Bingo Game at Huntington Beach Convalescent Hospital.

NURSING. . .

Those who know nursing homes best, the registered nurses who are their nursing directors, say you can begin your research for a suitable home by using your senses.

And the senses they speak of are sight, sound and smell.

"YOUR EYES CAN help tell you if a home and its patient rooms are clean, if the overall physical environment is one you would care to live in," Evelyn Meseroll, nursing director at Fountain Convalescent Hospital in Orange, said recently.

As important, Mrs. Meseroll added, is patients' physical appearance.

Are they clean and well groomed? Are ambulatory patients dressed and moving about? Do patients appear to be in reasonably good spirits? Are those who care for them neatly dressed and cheerful?

Another nursing director said sounds heard in a nursing home say something about the patient care it provides.

"There's no reason why laughter and pleasant conversation shouldn't be heard in a home," said the director employed by a large chain who asked not to be identified.

"And," she added, "it's a good bet that patients who aren't talked to with respect also aren't treated with respect."

Odors?

"TELL ME ONE good reason why a nursing home should smell foul or be scented to cover up odors that good housekeeping can eliminate?" she asked.

After you have determined a nursing home meets your own sight, sound and smell standards, consumer advocates say you should next check public records.

In Orange County, the place to go is the State Building in Santa Ana where the state Facilities Licensing Section maintains records that are available to the public.

There, you will find summaries of inspection reports completed by the section's facility evaluators.

You will not see the evaluators' complete reports. Nor will you see files containing complaints against homes or what investigation of the complaints filed.

Despite this, the summary reports will reveal a nursing homes' history of complying with licensing regulations as well as Medi-Cal and Medicare certification requirements.

SO ELABORATE and detailed are the original 68-page inspection reports that only rarely, if ever, do even the best managed homes escape without a few minor violations being reported.

Hamilton and other health officials say it's the nature of the reported vioations, not their number, that counts most.

"Such things as pre-pouring medicine, excessive cases of bed sores and dirty kitchens should be considered serious," said Hamilton.

"They are indicators of understaffing, questionable care and poor housekeeping," he explained.

In contrast to such serious problems, some violations charged to a nursing home may not be the home's fault.

For example, a doctor's failure to sign a phone order within 48 hours of his telephone call as required can be the doctor's fault, not the home's.

The section's files contain staffing reports that will tell you how many hours of nursing care are available each day and what licensed personnel you can expect to be on duty.

Also in the section's files is a history of a nursing home's ownership and management.

FREQUENT CHANGES in owners, occasional name changes and a steady turnover in administrators can be tell-tale indicators of homes with uneasy pasts, according to some health officials. New state nursing home regulations that go into effect this week make it mandatory for nursing homes to post their most recent summary inspection report "in a conspicuous place."

Nursing home inspection records, though less complete, are also available at local Social Security Administration offices.

The same information can also be obtained at the Orange County Health Planning Council's office in Santa Ana.

More concise consumer information will be available when the health planning council completes a planned consumer's guide to nursing homes.

And the county Board of Supervisors last week had the consumer in mind, when it authorized preparation of a central directory that will include a list of "approved" and "not recommended" health care facilities in Orange County.

THE COUNCIL'S CONSUMER guide is months away from completion. And preparation of the county's register will probably take longer.

For now, it will be your own guidelines that will lead you to the nursing home that best suits your needs.

In addition to inspecting the home and available public records, the National Consumers League recommends that you have a frank discussion with the home's administrator before making a decision.

During that discussion, the league says it's important to find out if the nursing home practices what some call custodial care and less kind critics say is the warehousing of people.

Among those critics is Dr. Eugene Ratajczak, director of social services at Orange County Medical Center.

"I've seen patients become bedridden literally overnight after being placed in a nursing home environment that doesn't stimulate them," said Ratajczak.

"A GOOD NURSING HOME is preoccupied with rehabilitation and has activity programs that help patients look forward to, not dread, the coming day."

Physical, occupational and speech therapy can help many sick-elderly persons retain or recapture their vigor, according to Ratajczak.

He and others argue that a rehabilitation oriented nursing home will emphasize needed therapy to support professional services ordered by a doctor.

State regulations make it mandatory for all nursing homes to employ a trained activities director to develop recreation, outside, religious and crafts programs.

In a discussion with a home's administrator, nursing home shoppers can learn what rehabilitation and activity programs the home provides and if they suit the needs of the patient.

Additionally, the consumer can check prices, learn how patient valuables are cared for, what billing procedures are followed and other important facts about the home.

Included among the important is how patient grievances are handled whether or not the home pays more than lip service to the patients' bill of rights outlined in state regulations.

MOST ACUTE CARE hospital placement directors emphasize the need for you to select a home that is conveniently located.

By convenient, they mean easy for visitors to reach.

For if there is one point nursing home defenders and detractors agree on, it is that no matter how high the quality of care a nursing home provides, there is no substitute for family love and attention.

And held in contempt by both sides are those who excuse themselves from a loved one's life on a nursing home's doorstep.

Inspectors find themselves being asked if a son or daughter they don't know is going to visit soon. Administrators find themselves making excuses for families that appear only at Christmas time. And volunteers find themselves attempting to fill a companionship roll a loved one can better fill.

There are in the patient rooms in Orange County's nursing homes many persons whose lives have lasted so long they have outlived their friends, their children and even their grandchildren.

Those who haven't find their richest days are those when friends and family visit.

And consumer advocates say the best assurance that your loved one has of receiving considerate and compassionage nursing home care is your frequent visits.

Should the care be something less, they say, you might have only yourself to blame.

SOME ADVICE—"Your eyes can help tell you if a nursing home and its patient rooms are clean; if the overall physical environment is one you'd care to live in," said Evelyn Meseroll, nursing director of Fountain Convalescent Hospital, Orange.

FUNMAKER—Janet Noir is full-time activities director for the Huntington Beach Convalescent Hospital. She had developed program for elderly which includes arts and crafts, movie session and the ever-popular twice-weekly bingo games at the hospital.

California

Sunny skies broke through low clouds by midmorning in inland Southern California but lingered until mid-day in coastal regions.

Scattered high cloudiness kept temperatures at the beaches in the mid-60s. The Los Angeles Civic Center reached 80.

Light smog was detected today throughout the Los Angeles Basin.

Some high clouds moved over the mountain areas but otherwise skies were fair. There was little temperature change with highs ranging from 75 to 85 at most resort locations.

Upper desert highs ranged from 95 to 105 while the lower deserts baked in 100 to 108-degree heat. Some winds were expected late this afternoon near the mountains.

High winds struck Paramus in northern New Jersey, heavily damaging a senior citizens home and private houses. The home reported more than 100 windows were blown out, but no injuries were reported.

A small tornado touched down briefly in the western section of Massachusetts Sunday, taking a few barn roofs and cutting off the tops of trees.

The National Weather Service reported the tornado "touched down briefly."

Coastal Weather

Midmorning low clouds, to otherwise fair today and Tuesday.

Light variable winds night and morning hours. Highs today 75 to 85.

Coastal temperatures will range between 60 and 72. Inland temperatures will range between 82 and 80. The water temperature will be 68.

U.S. Summary

Waves of 10 to 12 feet knocked five men off a jetty at Jones Beach in New Jersey Sunday and police feared one drowned in the torrential rains which were forecast to continue today.

Up to six inches of rain fell in Bergen and Somerset Counties in northern New Jersey. Heavy flooding and property damage was reported.

Nassau County police said of the five men tumbled into the water by high waves, three swam back to shore, one was rescued by a lifeguard but the fifth, Luis Castro, 25, was still missing.

Busted

David Kennedy, 20-year-old son of late Sen. Robert Kennedy, has been charged by Woodstock, Va., police with speeding and multiple driving violations.

Slaying Probe Urged

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A committee of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences says a further investigation of the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy could be valuable in determining circumstances surrounding the slaying, perhaps clarifying how many weapons were involved.

Meeting here during the weekend, the executive committee of the academy adopted a resolution indicating such an investigation could be helpful in clearing up such questions as whether a second gun was used in the killing or whether Sirhan B. Sirhan acted alone.

Kennedy, younger brother of president John F. Kennedy who was assassinated in 1963, was killed in a passageway of the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles June 5, 1968, after winning the California primary in his quest for the Democratic nomination for President.

Israeli Jets Hit Lebanon

By Associated Press

Israeli planes attacked a Palestinian refugee camp in Lebanon twice, and four persons were reported killed and 22 wounded. Several hours later rockets from southern Lebanon hit the Israeli town of Nahariya, slightly wounding two women, the Israeli command announced.

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin reported to the Israeli cabinet on his meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. A communique said the government would continue "the process of clarification and negotiation with the purpose of reaching a positive conclusion."

The Palestine guerrillas claimed that their missile and gun crews hit two of the Israeli Phantom jets that on Sunday rocketed and strafed the Ein Helweh refugee camp

Pot Odor Bust OK

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada Supreme Court ruled that policemen may search a person if he detects the odor of marijuana on his breath.

The court made the decision when it upheld the commitment of a 16-year-old boy to the Nevada Youth Training Center in Elko in February 1975.

Kennedy Debunks Big Talk

BOSTON (UPI)— Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), says constant speculation he will change his mind and run for President could hurt his U.S. Senate reelection campaign.

Kennedy, in an interview in the Boston Sunday Globe, said Republicans might be encouraged by the Presidential talk to launch a strong challenge against him in the Senate race next year.

"The speculation (about the Presidency) is counter-productive. It is not illogical to think that all the speculation about a candidacy or Presidential draft would indicate to Republicans that their primary nomination in the state is very much worth fighting for and pursuing," said Kennedy.

Banks Boost Prime Rates

NEW YORK (UPI) — First National Bank of Chicago and Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh today raised their prime interest rate to 7¼ percent from 7 percent.

The higher rate at Mellon was effective immediately. First National's rate is effective Tuesday.

The banks followed the lead of trendsetting First National City Bank of New York which raised its prime to 7¼ percent Friday.

The increase in the prime is a result of Federal Reserve moves to tighten up the money supply and to slow credit demand.

The prime is the interest banks charge their most creditworthy corporate customers.

Thais Seize Movie Team

BANGKOK (AP) — Thai provincial police arrested a movie making team of the Hong Kong-based Shaw brothers on charges of illegal work and filming obscene scenes in public places, a police spokesman said.

The arrests were made while the 14-member team was filming a movie called "Long-Haired Girls" at Thailand's famed seaside resort of Pattaya Beach, 90 miles southeast of Bangkok.

Bid Rejected

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The Indian Supreme Court turned down Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's call today for an immediate hearing on her appeal of a campaign corruption conviction.

A four-judge panel, headed by Chief Justice A. N. Ray, set an Aug. 11 date for the hearing despite a request by Jagannath Kaushal, Mrs. Gandhi's attorney, for immediate consideration of the case.

Lake Vandals?

CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK, Ore. (UPI) — The closure of Crater Lake National Park apparently was caused by vandalism to a sewer system that overflowed and fouled the drinking water, a spokesman said Sunday.

Ernest J. Borgman, Klamath Falls, Oregon group superintendent of the park service, said vandalism was "a very strong possibility." He met Sunday with regional superintendent John Rutter of Seattle and Park Superintendent Richard Sims to set up priorities for reopening the park that fectures the nation's deepest lake.

HYPOGLYCEMIA

"But Doctor, if I have low blood sugar, shouldn't I be able to eat all the sugar I want?"

This question is often asked by patients who have just learned that they have hypoglycemia, but aren't yet aware of its full implications. As much as I would like to tell them yes, the answer is no. To understand why this is so, we must look at just what hypoglycemia is.

Dr. Gary Couture, D.C.

Basically, it is an oversecretion of insulin by the pancreas. This surplus insulin means that people with hypoglycemia convert their food to energy much more quickly than normal.

For this reason, frequent feedings are necessary. The diet should generally be high in fats and protein (slow conversion to energy) and low in carbohydrates (fast conversion to energy). Obviously, a diet high in sugar content would just compound the problem by being converted to glucose and "burned up" in the form of energy even more rapidly.

Hypoglycemia can make its presence felt in many forms.

An attack generally occurs after the victim has gone without food for several hours. At first he may appear to be intoxicated, as a slurring of speech and general disorientation are likely to occur. Emotional instability may also be indicative of hypoglycemia.

Other symptoms, while not so apparent to the casual observer, are just as discomforting to the victim. Swearing for no apparent reason, numbness, hunger, trembling, fatigue, headache and dizziness are common warnings of an impending attack. In more severe cases, the victim may suffer from convulsions or go into a coma. Fortunately, these latter instances are relatively rare.

Hypoglycemia, although unpleasant, can be kept under control with proper diet, tissue extracts, multi vitamin therapy and chiropractic care.

While the term "low blood sugar" would seem to indicate that a diet high in sugar content is needed, such is not the case. The idea is to maintain a healthy blood sugar level, not try to "catch up" with insulin production. Candy and fruits with a high natural sugar content may be an excellent source of quick energy for people with normal sugar levels, but they can be the downfall of the hypoglycemia victim.

Two forms of hypoglycemia are recognized, organic and functional. While organic hypoglycemia may result from infection, the functional variety is most often caused by a disorder of the liver, the stomach, pancreas and adrenal glands.

Nature intended for your glands to function properly, but they must have a normal flow of nerve impulses to do so. While all branches of the healing arts recognize that the nerves pass down the spinal column and emerge through nerve openings in the vertebrae, Chiropractic is the only branch whose main concern is with the proper maintenance of the relationship.

If you suffer from hypoglycemia, it is quite possible that you have a spinal subluxation (misalignment of the vertebrae) which is interfering with the flow of nerve impulses to your pancreas, liver, stomach, or adrenal glands. An examination by your Doctor of Chiropractic can determine if such is the case. Through his care and treatment, the subluxation can be corrected and the proper flow of nerve impulses to the affected organ restored.

Proper diet and Chiropractic are your best defenses against hypoglycemia!

No CIA Links: Ex-aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alexander Butterfield, who was accused of being a CIA "contact officer" while a top-level White House aide, said today he considers the allegation "tantamount to a charge of perjury."

Butterfield said he had never been a "contact officer" and in fact never had any connection with the Central Intelligence Agency at all. "If I was their contact man, I was a hell of a poor one, because I had no contact whatsoever with the CIA," Butterfield said in a weekend television interview.

Retired Air Force Col. L. Fletcher Prouty, a former Pentagon intelligence officer, said last week that Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt told him in 1971 that Butterfield was a White House contact for the Central Intelligence Agency.

In a statement read in a telephone conversation today, Butterfield said "Prouty's initial public statements about me were sufficient to lead reporters to allege in my case a spy motive, to allege infiltration; in other words to suggest that while at the White House I served two masters.

"Those serious allegations are wholly false and defamatory," Butterfield said. "In that I stated my White House duties in full under oath to the Senate Watergate Committee and other high level investigative bodies, Fletcher Prouty's allegation is tantamount to a charge of perjury and the damage has been done. In my opinion, it is irreparable."

Butterfield, who headed the Federal Aviation Administration until he resigned in March, also said he has never met or even seen Hunt and had never heard of Prouty until recently.

"From my observations over a 17-year period in the federal government, the CIA is a very fine, highly professional organization and one which is terribly important and certainly of great value to our national security," Butterfield said.

"So under any normal set of circumstances I wouldn't mind at all being associated with it but the fact of the matter is that I am not assigned or attached or serving as a designated contact man, nor have I ever been."

The Prouty allegations drew immediate denials from the House and the CIA. Congressional investigators probing the CIA's activities said they had no such information but would look into the matter.

Loans Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. has signed into law a bill guaranteeing $5 million in loans by mortgage companies in city areas considered risky by private lenders. The Bill (SB4) by Sen. Arlen Gregorio (D-San Mateo) was a companion to a $950 million housing finance measure signed by Brown last month.

Fair Still in the Race

The Orange County Fair would like to sponsor thoroughbred horse racing as a method of revenue-raising for fairgrounds improvements.

Chances are strong the California Horse Racing Board will turn it down in three weeks and that the fair board will challenge that veto in court.

One problem is that an October-November race calendar is being proposed when the actual fair occurs in mid-July. State law says they should run simultaneously.

A conflicting application by established and money-powerful Santa Anita Race Track for the same dates and strong opposition by other track operators won't help the Orange County cause.

Revenue from a 14-day race calendar which would be run at briefly leased Los Alamitos Race Track would go a long way to finance a fairgrounds facelift. A master plan for it is now being prepared by an eminent architectural and planning consultant.

But getting down to racing parlance, when it comes to powerful politics among those on the horse track circuit, the Orange County Fair Board is showing much early foot.

Which means they hope to win, but they're running pretty far behind.

Attorney's Dilemma

Newport Beach attorney Richard Lynn, consistently one of the best directors of the Orange County Transit District, is in a tight spot.

He's admitted doing $1600 worth of legal consulting work over the past 18 months for a firm that regularly does business with the transit district. Both he and officers of VTN Inc. assure there was no conflict of interest because his work was not transit-related and the sum of money was a small part of Lynn's annual earnings.

Lynn's service as the lone public member of the board has been exemplary and there is nothing in his voting record to indicate he is anything but dedicated to his OCTD job.

But he did make a serious mistake by failing at the outset to abstain from VTN-related votes or at least asking for a ruling on potential conflict.

Lynn is up for re-election to the seat he has occupied since the district was created.

It is unfortunate the board could lose the services of a member who has shown talent and interest in running the district properly.

Lynn has demonstrated honesty to a degree that we believe he would have withdrawn his election bid if he felt he had in any manner compromised his position as OCTD director.

A Far-fetched Proposal

The ongoing question of finding a major jet airport site for Orange County was among the issues pondered by the 1974-75 Grand Jury, which has just ended its service.

One of the recommendations made by the jury in its final report was establishment of an elected airport authority assigned to find a suitable site.

In the first place, it is hardly likely the Board of Supervisors, which has ordered up previous airport studies, would be eager to yield to another elected body any of its authority on the issue.

In the second place, how could the voters possibly make logical selection among candidates on a countywide basis, and how would the candidates finance their campaigns?

On top of that the plan would mean a whole new staff of technical advisers for the taxpayers to support, along with the new elected officials.

They jury was off the mark on this one.

Bribery Needs a Clean-up

ART HOPPE

Innumerable complaints have been lodged concerning American businessmen spending millions of dollars to bribe foreign politicians. The complaints, lodged by American businessmen, are that they didn't get what they paid for.

To save this thriving international commerce from anarchy, the Better Bribery Bureau has been established in Beirut. Head of the BBB is the noted consumer advocate, Ralf Nadir.

"WHILE the vast majority of those in the bribery business are honest, respectable professionals," he said, "there are always a few rotten kumquats in every barrel which give an entire industry a bad name."

On joining the BBB, the purveyor of politicians is given a BBB decal which he may display on his door or tent flap above the familiar legend, "All Major Credit Cards Accepted." The decal assures the prospective customer he is dealing with a BBB member who ascribes to the BBB's stringent Code of Ethics.

THE CODE deals primarily with false and misleading advertising. "For example," says Nadir, "we've already ejected one member for touting a Saudi defense official as 'a real prince' without informing the customer that all Saudi officials are real princes."

The Code prohibits television celebrity endorsements such as the president of Gulf Oil saying, "I never bought an oil minister I didn't like," unless it can be proved he actually bought and enjoyed oil ministers.

Loss leader advertising is frowned on. "Leaders who have lost an election or a coup," explains Nadir, "are drugs on the market and thus cannot be ethically promoted."

COUPONS good for $10,000 off on one French vice president are permitted, if it is clearly stated they are limited to one to a customer. Trading stamps are allowed as long as they don't exceed five percent of the sale. "We have to limit cutthroat competition," says Nadir.

The Code requires the salesman to make "a full disclosure" of any defect in his product, such as a terminal illness. "Of what value is a warranty good for one year or 12,000 favors," asks Nadir, "if the product expires first?"

THE POLITICIAN must be truthfully labeled as to his political weight. And if he is purchased on the installment plan, the customer must be informed, not only of the total interest costs, but also of the terms under which the politician may be repossessed.

In mail order sales, Nadir advises customers to keep their canceled checks or Diners Club statements as a receipt. "Unless he has a receipt for 'One Used Politician,' " Nadir says, "there is little we can do in his behalf."

Bonanza for Oil Firms If Controls Lifted

Gas Price Hike Just a Start?

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Fourth of July gas price increase was only the beginning — if the oil companies have their way. With characteristic arrogance, several major oil companies raised gasoline prices just in time to soak the public at the start of the motoring season.

The price at the pump, accordingly, began to soak during the Fourth of July weekend. It may hit 90 cents a gallon by late fall, according to congressional experts, if President Ford has his way about decontrolling domestic oil prices.

THE PRESIDENT hopes higher prices will hold down consumption and reduce U.S. dependence upon Arab oil. He, therefore, favors decontrol, which could occur on August 31 when the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act expires.

Under the act, the price of "old" domestic oil is frozen at $5.25 per barrel. The price limitation doesn't apply to newly discovered oil. But since 40 percent of the oil Americans consume is "old" domestic oil, the slightest price rise would register immediately at the gas pump.

If controls aren't extended, the domestic price undoubtedly would shoot up to the Arab price of about $12 per barrel. It could even go as high as $17.50 if the oil potentates carry out their threat to raise prices again this fall.

Decontrol would add a staggering $318 billion to the revenues of the oil companies during the next decade, according to a confidential House analysis. This would allow the producers to nearly double their already huge profits.

THE ANALYSIS, prepared for Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., by the staff of his House Energy and Power subcommittee, is written in careful, scholarly language. When it is reduced to simple dollars and cents, however, it declares that the oil companies stand to reap great riches at the expense of their customers.

"The sub-section of the oil industry involved in the production of domestic crude," claims the study, "will experience a bonanza of new revenues. This great surge of new funds will be at the direct expense of the remainder of our commercial economy and the public."

The study cites these adverse economic effects:

—Higher oil prices will drain more money into the oil coffers, thus leaving less money for other public and private projects.

—Decontrol will cause "the further concentration of economic power in the oil industry," particularly "those involved in production."

—Higher prices will stimulate exploration for new oil, all right, as the President hopes. But production costs will also go into orbit because of "equipment and material shortages."

—Decontrol of domestic oil will only bolster the foreign oil cartel, since domestic producers "will be parallel beneficiaries" of the foreign-dictated price.

ONCE DOMESTIC oil prices are taken out from under controls, the analysis warns, it will become "increasingly difficult to re-establish a reasonable new position on oil prices. Such a future revision would likely be characterized as a rollback by the oil industry and heavily lobbied."

The study, putting the great oil windfall in perspective, notes that "the profits of the international oil industry have been $60 billion over the four years from 1970 to 1974." Although some of this is returned to governments in taxes, the analysis points out that "oil producers' revenues are lightly taxed."

It should be added, in fairness, that the analysis presents the worst situation for the U.S. consumers. A compromise may yet be worked out in the decontrol battle. Congress and the President, meanwhile, are engaged in a $318 billion game of brinkmanship.

Tips on Sky Sailing

THE BOOKMAN

One of humanity's most haunting and pervasive dreams — soaring, diving, floating effortlessly through the air — will come true for the readers of a bright, abundantly illustrated new book: Fly — The Complete Book of Sky Sailing by Rick Carrier (McGraw-Hill, $7.95).

As the author shows, the art and technique of sky sailing, or hand gliding, have fairly exploded in the public imagination and interest since the first Rogallo kite was flown in 1970. Borne aloft by a free-flying soaring kite, adrift on air currents, the flyer is free to soar, turn, and dive at will — the sail becoming an extension of himself and responding to his every motion.

"It's the first time I've read a book about a new sport and felt immediate desire to try it," wrote Norman Mailer to the author. "Some tasty amalgam of pictures, drawings and agreeable text is part of it. I expect half the people who like to sail and/or ski are going to be skysailing before too long."

WHETHER the reader wishes to fly at 50 feet or 5000 feet, Fly covers every aspect of safe, successful sky sailing. Clear, complete guidelines explain basic techniques of launching, soaring, and landing, as well as how to maintain a kite, how to join a club, and where to look up manufacturers and other resources.

This practical volume also provides basic data on all standard types of sky sails, including the Pogallo sky sail, rigid wing, Icarus flying wing, Quicksilver monoplane, and the VJ23 Swingline monoplane.

Covering everything from ground preparation to advanced maneuvers and high altitude flying, the book integrates text and pictures, conveying the poetry of flight and all the necessary practical information.

Filmmaker, flyer, editor, and author, Rick Carrier has also written a best selling book on skin diving and a book on filmmaking for beginners.

Communists Step Up Action in Malaysian Jungles

EVANS-NOVAK

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia — Alarming intensification of Malaysian jungle guerrilla warfare by Communist insurgents, particularly since the Indochina collapse, points to the futility of seeking internal security through friendship with Peking.

In truth, Malaysia's establishing diplomatic relations with Communist China a year ago has greatly increased — not inhibited — Peking-oriented insurgency. Spreading down from the northern border with Thailand into central Malaysia, insurgents now are more formidable than at any time since Communist guerrillas were totally eliminated in this then-British colony in 1960. Malaysia, secure only yesterday, today is second to Thailand among Southeast Asia's targets for Communist subversion.

This suggests not only the truth of the domino theory but the limits of neutralist diplomacy as protection against revolutionary Communism. What is needed here is far greater counter-insurgency effort, both in easing Chinese-Malay racial tensions and in improving inadequate military operations. But these essential steps may be held back by the lingering delusion of what neutralism accomplishes.

NEUTRALISM long had been preached by Tun Abdul Razak bin Hussein before becoming prime minister in 1970. Upon assuming power, he replaced Malaysia's strongly pro-Western stance with "equidistance" from the great powers. This was climaxed by his trip to Peking in May 1974, when Chinese leaders promised not to interfere in Malaysia's internal affairs.

Nothing changed. Clandestine Communist radio broadcasts are still beamed at Malaysia from Yunnan province, China. Chin Peng, fabled Communist guerrilla leader of the 1950s, directs Malaysian insurgents from Peking. Counter-insurgency experts here see a Chinese grand design: just as Richard M. Nixon's 1972 kowtowing in Peking was followed by a Communist offensive in Vietnam, so Razak's 1974 visit was followed by intensified Malaysian insurgency. China is restraining Malaysian insurgents no more than it did North Vietnam's legions.

THIS COLD reality was brought home last month when Radio Peking broadcast anniversary greetings to Malayan Communist party, then busily murdering police inspectors here. A stunned Razak summoned the Chinese ambassador, informing him that Peking had broken its promise of non-interference. When the ambassador was unrepentant and unresponsive, the prime minister formally protested to Peking. That, too, went unanswered.

All this was kept out of the controlled Kuala Lumpur press until Razak revealed his protest at the recent convention of Malaysia's ruling party which he heads. But he remains chary about offending Peking. In an interview, he told us the Peking broadcast "might have been a misunderstanding" and added (contrary to fact) that the clandestine radio in Yunnan was no longer broadcasting. To some critical Malaysians, the prime minister remains committed to a bankrupt policy.

POLICE INSPECTORS specializing in counter-insurgency are being murdered with depressing regularity. Guerrilla raids have delayed completion of Malaysia's East-West Highway for four years, until 1981. Guerrillas are slowly spreading southward, in coordination with urban terrorists around Kuala Lumpur.

Western experts believe the Malaysian problem is basically a military effort that falls short in both quantity and quality. Whereas 100,000 British Commonwealth troops were needed to defeat the old Malaysian insurgency which never exceeded 10,000 guerrillas, the odds are much shorter today: 5,000 Malaysian troops plus three companies of Police Field Forces against 2,000-plus insurgents. The undermanned government forces play into the guerrillas' hands by sticking to the roads and avoiding pursuit into the jungle.

Supporting the insurgency is Malaysia's unadmitted but unrelenting race problem: politically dominant Malays, comprising a little less than half the population, vs. the Chinese "minority," about half the population possessing over 85 per cent of the wealth. A "new economic program" of preference for the Malays is building more dissatisfaction among poor Chinese, the main source of insurgent recruitment.

Fire Officials Hunt 'Chemist'

BERKELEY (UPI) — Fire officials today wanted to talk with an absent renter about a cache of radioactive particles and dangerous chemicals they found in his house.

State

"When we catch up with this guy we're going to lean on him pretty heavily," Fire Chief Richard Hallberg said during the weekend.

He was talking about Lem Galabow, who neighbors believe is writing or editing a chemistry textbook. Neighbors said they believed Galabow was traveling in the Mojave Desert Saturday when firemen sealed up his house crammed with pungent, eye-irritating chemicals.

Man, Son Die in Crash

FALLBROOK (AP)—A man and his son were killed when their homemade airplane crashed soon after takeoff from Fallbrook Air Park, showering debris less than 100 feet from crowded tennis courts.

Authorities identified the victims of Sunday's crash as Edward Nilson, 52, and his 19-year-old son, Edward II.

Fire Destroys Landmark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Octagon House," a landmark Malibu home considered an architectural gem, has been destroyed in a fire, authorities say.

There were no injuries in the blaze early Sunday, which fire officials said caused an estimated $200,000 damage. An electrical short may have started the blaze that gutted the eight-sided, weathered gray structure, they said.

Procurer Pleads Guilty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman who has admitted providing call girls for fugitive financier Robert Vesco has pleaded guilty to pimping and pandering charges. Mrs. Alex Fleming, 42, entered the guilty plea in Superior Court, and Judge Joseph J. DiGiuseppi set sentencing for Sept. 11. Authorities said Mrs. Fleming admitted when arrested last year that she had supplied prostitutes to prominent businessmen and entertainers in Los Angeles County.

Cruiser Crew

3 Rescued Aboard Raft

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Three persons adrift on a life raft were rescued by an abalone boat Sunday after they abandoned their 42-year-old cabin cruiser when it hit an unknown object about six miles off Pt. Conception.

Rescued in good condition were Donald Pape, 58, and his 67-year-old wife, both from El Cerrito, and Robert Peterson, 25, Goleta.

MRS. PAPE was hospitalized for observation.

It was first believed four persons were aboard the vessel after a truck driver picked up a mayday call on his citizen's band radio Saturday.

The Coast Guard earlier had suspended its search for survivors of the Berna Dine pending new information of their possible location.

PAPE TOLD authorities he was en route to San Francisco when his cabin cruiser started taking on water. He said he stopped in Santa Barbara for repairs and was again on his way north when his vessel hit an unknown object.

He said they abandoned the vessel for a blue life raft when the cruiser started taking on water.

The trio were picked up by the fishing vessel Blue Angel about eight miles off Santa Barbara and was later transfered to a Coast Guard cutter.

Patrolmen Threaten Slowdown

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Highway patrolmen are said to be organizing a ticket-writing slowdown to force their demands for higher pay, it was reported today.

The Sacramento Union said it learned from a reliable source that the slowdown involves substituting written warnings instead of citations for minor infractions. Drunken or dangerously fast drivers will continue to be ticketed, the source said.

Crying Baby

Beaten, Dies

OAKLAND (UPI) — A 16-year-old Berkeley mother was held in Alameda County Juvenile Hall Saturday on a charge of beating her infant daughter to death because she would not stop crying.

Police said the 14-month-old baby died July 5 in Providence Hospital. They said an autopsy showed she died from injuries to her spleen and liver. The mother brought the baby to the hospital and told officials she had stopped breathing while she was visiting her boyfriend.

7 Injured, 28 Arrested In Rock Riot

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — A rock concert attended by some 3,000 persons in a downtown Bakersfield park turned into a and bottle throwing melee Sunday afternoon, leaving seven persons injured and 28 under arrest.

Police said the trouble started in Central Park about noon when officers received reports of gunshots and an ambulance was sent to the scene.

When the first officers arrived they said they found a fight going on among about 300 persons.

One Dead

Terror Growing In Firebombings

YUBA CITY (AP) — A four-year-old work center for the handicapped has been plagued by a series of fires and firebombings and authorities suspect the same person was responsible each time.

"We have very little to go on. We don't know what motivates him," said Police Lt. Robert Smith. He said authorities are "still struggling" with the case that so far has seen one person die.

"Weirdo, the Fireball Freak, by his actions is trying to dictate to the community: 'Stay away from the Gateway center'," said executive director Donald Larson.

THE GATEWAY project serves rural Yuba and Sutter counties. The Yuba City area was in the headlines three years ago when authorities found the bodies of 25 migrant farm workers in shallow graves along the Feather River. A former farm labor contractor, Juan Corona, was later convicted of murdering the workers.

On Feb. 18, fire destroyed a $110,000 building and $50,000 in materials being assembled by 60 handicapped workers. They were making power pole grounding kits under contract. No one was injured.

On March 1, a Molotov cocktail was thrown through a window of Gateway's upholstery shop. It was quickly extinguished, and the shaken employes kept working.

ON APRIL 6, firemen rushed to the apartment of Don Garrett, Gateway's executive director. They found his body aflame a few feet from the door. Homicide investigators said someone apparently rang Garrett's doorbell, and when he opened the door, doused him with flammable liquid and set him afire.

Larson took over May 31. "That night some of the staff threw a little pool party for me," he said. "We were swimming and suddenly we saw a lot of smoke." Two staff members' cars had been firebombed.

ON JULY 7, a handicapped girl answered the Gateway center's phone. A man's voice warned that another staff member was "going to be next."

"It really blew her mind. She went to pieces," Larson said. "That night my car was firebombed. It was a total loss.

"It's not my damn car I'm worried about," he said. "It's the people we're working with. For many of them, this is their last resort."

7 WAYS TO CUT YOUR AIR CONDITIONING COSTS.

1. KEEP TEMPERATURE AT 78°
During hot summer months, you can cut air conditioning costs substantially by cooling a room—or your whole house—no lower than 78°. It could cost about 30% less for air conditioning if you keep the temperature at 78° instead of 70°. If you use a room air conditioner, hang a thermometer on the wall. Check it to see that the room temperature drops no lower than 78°. Remember: air conditioning is not to make you cold—just comfortable.

2. INSULATE YOUR HOME
If you do not have insulation in your attic—or if you have too little—you could be using up to twice the energy necessary for air conditioning your house. (More energy to heat it, too.) Insulation can be blown into most attics. It's an investment which merits your consideration. For information, see your local insulation contractor. And don't forget to weatherstrip doors and windows.

3. CONSIDER AN AUTOMATIC TIMER
Timer attachments are available that will turn off your room air conditioner when you go to work and turn it on before you come home.

4. INVESTIGATE AN ENERGY-SAVING UNIT
If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, compare the Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) numbers. The higher the number shown, the more cooling you get from the electricity you use.

5. COOL ONLY ROOMS IN USE
If you have a room unit, keep all doors closed to the room you're cooling. Of course, no matter what system you use, whenever you air condition keep the outside doors and windows closed throughout the house.

6. KEEP THE HEAT OUT
When the children (or family pet) go out, don't forget to close the door. Keep the windows closed, too. And draw your draperies and blinds. Outside awnings or other sun screens will also reduce your cooling needs.

7. KEEP EQUIPMENT CLEAN
Clean accessible parts, but be careful not to damage them. Check filters every month and clean or replace as needed.

MAKE EVERY KILOWATT COUNT.

The cost of electricity has been going up, primarily because of the soaring cost of the foreign oil we must buy to burn in generating plants. The increasing costs of oil and the additional amounts we have had to buy are responsible for the total increase in the price of electricity since last summer.

Your air conditioning could use more energy than any other home appliance this summer. So use it wisely. Conserve. For other ways to conserve, write for our free booklet: "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, California 91770.

Regents Wary of Deficits

Medical Center Stymie?

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Regents have warned that the university may not buy Orange County Medical Center unless assured that multi-million dollar deficits at other university-run county hospitals will not be continued in Orange County.

But UC Irvine Chancellor Daniel Aldrich said the "concern of the regents about the financial problems of running county hospitals is nothing new."

And Aldrich said he is confident UCI can reach an agreement with Orange County that will meet a regents' "no loss" stipulation on university-provided patient care.

IN THE 1975-76 STATE budget, $5 million is allocated for purchase of Orange County Medical Center as the teaching hospital for the UCI-California College of Medicine.

But regents, at a committee meeting in San Francisco, were afraid that the university would have to make up any deficit in patient care costs acquired by treating Orange County indigent patients.

Under its agreement with Orange County, the UCI med school is to take over the county's responsibility for treating indigent patients. Under a formula included in the agreement, Orange County is to reimburse the university for treatment of patients not covered by MediCal or Medicare.

BUT UC VICE PRESIDENT John A. Perkins told the regents similar agreements at university-run hospitals in Sacramento and San Diego would net UC an aggregate deficit of $3.2 million in the coming year. Additionally, he said, if proposed changes in MediCal and Medicare ceilings are enacted, the deficit could rise to $7.2 million.

The gloomy fiscal news drew reactions from regents, who insisted that unless the state and county take a larger share of the medical care and teaching costs, the university faces financial disaster. Diverting funds to medical schools would mean pulling them from other areas, they noted.

Regent Norton Simon said he would propose that the university not take over any more county hospitals "no matter what pressure is put on us."

REGENT CATHERINE HEARST called the San Diego and Sacramento county hospital purchases "two suicide pacts," and warned that the university may not want to enter into a similar agreement with Orange County.

An existing agreement between UCI and Orange County must be renegotiated as a condition of the $5 million Medical Center purchase appropriation. The renegotiation would have to tie the formula for patient care reimbursement costs to the rate of inflation.

The fiscal deficits, new UC President David Saxon told the regents, "are an untenable situation."

"We cannot continue as we are," he said. "The facts demonstrate that."

SAXON CALLED FOR THE state to pick up more of the cost of facilities and said that the counties must pay a larger share of costs if the university is going to continue to operate county hospitals.

But Orange County believes it has been paying too large a share of the costs of university operation of the Medical Center, according to Ray Rhoads, an aide to Supervisor Ralph Diedrich. Diedrich has spearheaded the county's efforts to sell the Medical Center to the UCI med school.

Rhoads characterized losses to the county as "tremendous" because the Medical Center is being operated as a teaching hospital.

"WE SAID FROM THE beginning that there were huge teaching costs," said Rhoads. "We no longer wish to bear the burden of the costs of education."

Last October, when agreement on the Medical Center sale was reached by UCI and Orange County, both sides praised the agreement as equitable.

Per the terms of the state budget, the agreement is now being renegotiated.

Church Hit With Suit Over Attack

SANTA ANA — A plaintiff who claims that 10 members of a Santa Ana church attempted to kill him last Oct. 24 because his "spirit had dirtied their church" has sued them and the church for $3.5 million in damages.

Gene Holder claims in his Orange County Superior Court lawsuit that the named defendants attacked him in his cabin on El Rodeo Road, Rancho Capistrano, after accusing him of soiling the premises at Church of the Way in Santa Ana.

Holder states that at one point of the fracas he was thrown into his television set and received serious injuries.

Killer's Parole Denied

SANTA ANA —Frank Charles Zingone is not yet ready for the full parole sought by his family, Orange County Superior Court Judge James F. Judge has ruled.

Judge Judge recommended during a sanity hearing for Zingone, 44, that he be returned to Patton State Hospital to begin a tep-by-step rehabilitation program that could result in his eventual placement in what psychiatrists describe as a "half way house."

Zingone was charged with murder after the strangulation death of his wife, Pegi, 29, on Feb. 15, 1966. But it was later ruled that he was mentally unfit to stand trial on the allegations.

Judge Judge made his decision after learning that Zingone was still classified as a schizophrenic paranoid.

Miami Stars Test Sun Tonight at Big A

Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield, who jumped from the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League, make their World Football League debuts at 7:30 tonight when the Memphis Southmen meet the Southern California Sun in a exhibition at Anaheim Stadium.

And the three new Southmen—Csonka and Kiick, cruching runners, and Warfield, a top-flight receiver — figure to be a big part of what should be an offensive show.

The Southmen won 17 games against only three losses last season, the WFL's first year.

Last week, the Sun rallied in the final four minutes to defeat San Antonio, 36-31, and looked impressive on offense in the process.

Daryle Lamonica, the 13-year NFL veteran, will start at quarterback for Southern California. Last week he played only the first half, competing 8 of 13 passes for 105 yards and a touchdown. This week he again is expected to play only the first 30 minutes, with former Fullerton State star Mike Ernst taking over in the second half.

The Southmen have former Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte of Notre Dame at quarterback with Csonka and Kiick in the backfield. Warfield is one of the wide receivers, the other being Ed Marshall, pro football's top touchdown-making receiver in 1974 with 19 scores.

Ex-Trojan Anthony Davis will be in the backfield for the Sun. He made his first pro start in the San Antonio game gaining 62 yards in 16 carries and racing 64 yards with a kickoff return.

However, the appearance of the Southmen and their three ex-Dolphins is the main attraction.

"They are the class of the league," said Sun coach Tom Fears. "Memphis had a devastating attack last year and they should be a lot better this year."

Not only do the Southmen have the three ex-Miami stars, but they also have a top-flight quarterback in Huarte, ex-Mater Dei High standout. The Heisman Trophy winner completed 154 of 296 passes for 2,416 yards and 24 touchdowns last year.

Defensively, the Southmen are led by Dave Thomas and Seth Miller, who intercepted 10 and 9 passes last year, tops in the WFL.

The Southmen also have a strong offensive line, led by Justin Canale, Ralph Hill, Gary Shirk and Ron Mikolajczyk.

Marshall Blows It; LA Falls

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All-Star pitcher Mike Marshall has an ill-chosen fast ball to credit for the gratitude of the St. Louis Cardinals' Reggie Smith.

"He made a mistake," the free-swinging Smith said Sunday after batting the Cards to a 2-1 win over Marshall and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"It was a nice mistake," added Smith, whose ninth-inning single came at the expense of a fast ball.

"I know what he wanted to do," Smith said. "He wanted to get a quick strike on me. That's something he did to me all last year. He'd get me 0-2 and then carve me up. I think he struck me out six times in a row."

Smith's atonement was savored by teammates Bake McBride, who scored on the hit, and Al Hrabosky, who pitched a laborious single inning of relief. "It was a struggle to get myself up," maintained Hrabosky, 5-2, also the winner Saturday.

"Yesterday was a big day for me," noted the stocky lefthander, who was overlooked for All-star selection but in whose honor a Busch Stadium banner day was held.

"One way I did get myself up was because I knew the two pitchers were Marshall and myself."

Marshall, whose record dipped to 4-6, and Hrabosky staged their late duel after the Cards snapped a scoreless duel in the sixth on Lou Brock's single and Dave Lopes homered for Los Angeles in the eight. Marshall convinced Alston to pitch to Smith in the ninth and then lost the game.

"There's no way he (Alston) can make that kind of decision unless he wants to throw the pitch himself," Marshall said. "Most times I would load the bases," the manager said later. "But Marshall didn't want to do it. With the type of pitcher he is, 90 percent of the time he's going to be able to throw it where he wants to. This time he didn't."

Orr May Jump

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Sun says Bobby Orr of the National Hockey League Boston Bruins may sign a multi-million-dollar contract with the Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association for the 1976-77 season.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying the star defenseman has been offered a $1 million bonus to sign with the Fighting Saints.

Angels Can't Win at Home

Have Lost 11 of Last 12 at Anaheim

Home cooking gives the California Angels indigestion, it would appear.

With a little shove from the Cleveland Indians, the Angels entered the American League record book Sunday when they dropped an 8-7 verdict to the Tribe.

This was Cleveland's 13th straight victory at Anaheim Stadium and matched an American League mark for consecutive wins on the road against one team.

The reeling Halos have lost 11 of their last 12 games at Anaheim Stadium and their Big A season mark is a dismal 18-30.

The New York Yankees once rang up 13 successive victories against the old St. Louis Browns during the 1939-40 seasons.

"Heck, I can't explain it," remarked Cleveland manager Frank Robinson, who played last summer for the Angels. "Remember, I used to be on the other side of the fence."

The Indians, who haven't lost here since July 17, 1973 and won't get another chance until next season, rallied from a three-run deficit using a five-run seventh inning as the springboard to their sweep of the three-game series.

Despite being restricted to one hit by Frank Tanana for five innings, the Indians wound up with 13 hits — four of them by Buddy Bell, whose two-run double climaxed their seventh inning outburst.

Bagley Bags Watkins Glen Road Race

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Bagley of State College, Pa., led from the start Sunday and won the Super Vee auto race at Watkins Glen road racing course.

His average speed was 102.54 miles per hour.

The race preceded the Formula 5000 event scheduled for the 3.37-mile, 11-turn circuit.

Bagley's speed fell short of the record of 103.860 m.p.h. for Super Vee racing here that was set last year by Elliott Forbes-Robinson.

Howdy Holmes of Alexandria, Va., finished second in the Super Vees, a split second ahead of Richard Melville of Kingston, Jamaica. Benny Scott of Hollywood, Calif., was fourth.

The Super Vees, like the Formula 5000 cars, are single-seat, open-cockpit, rear-engine machines.

Melville's third-place finish put him in front in the 12-race Super Vee competition with 70 points and five races to be run.

Eddie Miller of Lakewood, Colo., who had been leading the series, finished eighth Sunday and dropped to third place with 63 points.

14th Hole Eagle Counted the Most

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Any golfer who birdies Carnoustie's feared par-five 14th can feel pleased with himself.

Jack Newton of Australia did it in Sunday's playoff for the British Open. But Tom Watson went him one better. He eagled it.

Watson, who was earning a history of choking in major tournaments, went on to win the crown and he said his eagle chip at the 14th was the stroke that counted the most toward the title.

"I hit a good wood for my second shot, and it landed in short grass just off the green, about 30 feet from the pin," Watson said. "I took a chipping wedge for my third shot and it ended in the hole."

Watson went on to a one-under-par 71 over the 7,065-yard, par-72 course and edged Newton by one stroke. It was the fourth time in five days that Watson had shattered par on the famous course, and it helped ease bitter memories of two consecutive U.S. Opens when he blew chances to win.

The 488-yard 14th, where the playoff turned in Watson's favor, is called "the spectacles" because two big round bunkers peer out in front of the green. Watson steered past the bunkers with his second shot but missed the green. The chip, however, was one of the outstanding shots of a memorable tournament.

"I guess we saw Carnoustie in different conditions," Watson said. "But I know we haven't had real Carnoustie weather. I expected it to blow 100 miles per hour."

In the playoff, Watson took the lead with a birdie on the second, then moved two strokes out in front when Newton, an Australian pro who plays the European circuit, bogeyed the third. But Watson bogeyed the fifth and Newton evened it with a birdie on the sixth.

They made the turn in par 36.

Newton, who like Watson is 25 and virtually unknown on the international circuit, led briefly when he birdied the 12th, but he lost a stroke at 13.

Then came the 14th which was played with such perfection that either player should have had reason to puff up with pride. As it turned out, the eagle was the margin Watson needed to put down his image as a kid from Kansas City who choked in the big ones.

At the second hole, Newton hit his second shot left of the green into the gallery. A little boy picked up the ball and stuffed it into his pocket.

"Put that down," the boy's father shouted. "I consulted the crowd and replaced the ball where they said it originally landed," Newton said.

Quad Cities Open

Maltbie Tops Field

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Roger Maltbie charged from seven strokes back to score a course-record 64 and win the $75,000 Quad Cities Open by one stroke over Dave Eichelberger Sunday.

The 24-year-old Maltbie scored his first Professional Golfers Association tournament victory with a total of 275 over the par-71, 6,305-yard Oakwood Country Club course.

Eichelberger started the final round with a three-stroke lead over Terrance Dill, Frank Beard and Howard Twitty, Jr. However, the 31-year-old Waco, Tex., native, despite a birdie putt on the 18th hole, came in with a one-over par 72.

Maltbie, who got his pro card after the PGA's fall qualifying school last November, is in his first year as a pro.

The $15,000 first place prize money marked his first big tournament paycheck.

Mark Hayes finished third after shooting a two-under 69 at 277. Gary McCord came in at 278 with a closing 70. Dill, Twitty and Homero Blancas were at 279, four strokes behind the leader, and Tony Cerda was at 280. Defending champion Dave Stockton was at 281.

Dill and Twitty shot final-round 72s, Beard had a 74, Blancas closed with a 69, Cerda shot 66 and Stockton 72.

Veteran Sam Snead was tied for second, five strokes behind Eichelberger after Friday's round. However, he faded from contention with a 77 Saturday. He came back Sunday with a 68 to finish at two-under 282.

Reds Unbeatable

Rose Calls Team Best in 13 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — In the beginning, it was to be a match race of bluebloods, with pitching-rich Los Angeles rating the edge over Cincinnati's firepower. But the Reds have turned it into a midsummer's nightmare for the rest of the National League West.

Once-struggling Cincinnati has wiped out a 7½-game deficit to the Dodgers and has all but made a one-horse race of the West.

"They can't catch us," says Joe Morgan, tossing down the gauntlet.

And for the bottom four teams in the West — San Francisco, San Diego, Atlanta and Houston — Morgan appears correct. Even the chance that the Dodgers can catch up is fading rapidly.

The Reds, embittered bridesmaids in 1974 despite a 98-victory season that was second best in the major leagues, are off to the fastest start by a National League team since 1970 when they won 70 of their first 100 games and stormed to the division title by 14½ games.

This year, they have won 61 of 90 in their attempt to bury the opposition. Their phenomenal pace of 10 consecutive victories, 19 in the last 21 games and 43 in the last 53 had left the Dodgers in the dust, 12½ games back at the midway mark.

Morgan has been the burr under the saddle, spurring the club with his hot bat and base stealing. "We won't let up. We've got too many guys here pushing each other," said the 5-foot-7 sparkplug, who is hitting .344 with 80 walks, 40 stolen bases and 60 runs batted in.

The Reds are leading the league in hitting — and confidence. "We're a hungry team because we've never won it all," says Pete Rose, who appears headed for another 200-hit season with a .319 average. "I don't think we'll do anything but get better," said Rose, in anticipation of the return in the next couple of weeks of ace lefty Don Gullett, 9-3, who's been out a month with a broken thumb.

The basis for Cincinnati optimism flows from the fact the Reds are noted second-half finishers, winning at a 63 percent clip over the last half since 1972. Two years ago, after trailing Los Angeles by 10½ games on the first of July, the Reds exploded to win 60 of their last 86 games to overtake the Dodgers. A year ago, they fell behind by 11, yet won 60 percent of their games from July on to draw within 1½ games before succumbing.

The Dodgers, hard-hit by injuries, have found runs hard to come by. Only Steve Garvey, the league's MVP, has maintained his consistency, while Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith strain to offset the loss of Tommy John.

The major disappointment has been Houston, burned badly through trades that backfired. The Astros have staggered into last place and enter the second half facing a 29-game deficit. The third-place Giants trail by 19 games. San Diego and Atlanta are 20 and 21 back.

Which leaves the Dodgers, down 13 games in the lost column, with the only hope of overtaking the raging Red Machine, bolstered by the switch of Rose to third base, the blossoming of slugging George Foster (15 home runs) and .311-hitter Ken Griffey and the emergence of young pitchers Will McEnaney, Rawly Eastwick and Pat Darcy.

If the Dodgers are going to make a move, they'll have to do it soon. Over the next 2½ weeks, the two clubs meet seven times. After those series, they meet four more times before the season ends.

The Dodgers remain plagued by injuries. Joe Ferguson is out for the season with a broken wrist. It is not known if John will make it back this season. Sutton has been slowed by a groin injury. Bill Russell has been ineffective since returning from a series of injuries. Jim Wynn is still bothered by a sore throwing arm.

All the while, the Reds roll on. They'll soon have Gullett back to join Jack Billingham, 10-3, Gary Nolan, 8-5, and Clay Kirby, 7-3, in the starting rotation.

Anderson has gone to a different lineup almost every day, sometimes using Johnny Bench (19 home runs, 73 rbi) in the outfield and making good use of platooned outfielders Foster, Griffey, Merv Rettenmund, Cesar Geronimo and Dan Driessen.

"It's the best Cincinnati team I've been on in 13 years here," said Rose. "We've got a great bench. It doesn't matter who we put out there."

BILL MULLIGAN

Saddleback To Hire Mulligan

By CRAIG SHEFF
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Bill Mulligan, one of the top JC basketball coaches in the state, is expected to be named the new basketball coach at Saddleback College tonight, the Daily Pilot has learned exclusively.

Mulligan's appointment is subject to approval by the Saddleback College board of trustees.

Mulligan, 45, has been the basketball coach at Riverside City College for the past nine years. Prior, he was the head coach at Long Beach Poly High for five years and was an assistant at USC for two seasons before switching to Riverside.

At Poly, Mulligan won CIF titles in 1960 and '64, finished second in '61 and fourth in '62.

Mulligan has won five Mission Conference championships, including the last four. His teams have compiled a 78-17 record over the past three seasons and he has a 55-7 Mission Conference mark in the last four years.

Mulligan outlined two reasons why he applied for the Saddleback job.

"It's 105 degrees in Riverside during the day and I know it's not that hot down there. And we lost four high schools in our area in the last month to other districts. Corona and Norco are going to Chaffey and Elsinore and Perris will go to Mt. San Jacinto," says Mulligan.

Mulligan will succeed Leroy Stevens, who resigned recently after serving as the head coach for seven seasons.

Samara Tops In Decathlon

SANTA BARBARA — Fred Samara heads the United States' decathlon team which will meet the USSR and Poland next month and two other Americans are hoping to compete in the same meet, even if they don't count.

Samara, formerly of Penn State, won his first National AAU decathlon title Sunday with a lifetime best 8,061 points and said he was happy with each of his 10 events over the two-days.

"This is a big breakthrough for me," he said. "And I can score even better, but this is the first time I didn't blow an event."

However, the two favorites, Bruce Jenner and Fred Dixon, did blow big events and failed to make the U.S. team.

Dixon, a Cal State (Los Angeles) graduate, scored 4,282 points Saturday to lead after the first day. He widened his edge over Samara to 160 points after scoring 914 points in the hurdles, Sunday's first event.

But in the discus, Dixon fouled three times and did not score in an event where he figured to pick up at least 700 points. He wound up ninth with 7,350, about 700 below his lifetime best.

Defending champion Jenner, formerly of Graceland College, fared even worse. He did not score in the pole vault, where he was expected to tack on about 1,000 points. After failing three times at 14-1¼, he did not compete in the 1,500-meter run and wound up with 6,500 points for the eight events.

"I haven't made a mistake like that in two years," Jenner said. "My step was off. It won't happen again."

Summaries of Sunday's AAU Decathlon Championship at the University of California at Santa Barbara:

110-meter hurdles — Fred Dixon, Beverly Hills Striders, and Chris Adsit, Athletes in Action, 14.4, 914 points. Fred Samara, New York Athletic Club, 14.5, 903. Steve Gough, Club Northwest, and John Warkentin, unattached, Goleta, Calif., 14.7, 881.

Discus — Gough, 154-9, 821. Bruce Jenner, San Jose Stars, 154-9, 821. Warkentin, 148-1, 784. Craig Brigham, University of Oregon, 148-1, 784. Samara, 140-0, 737.

Pole vault — Brigham, 16-1, 1,028. Bill Hancock, Southern Illinois; John Whitson, Gulf Coast Track Club, and Roger George, BH Striders, 15-5, 981. Samara, 15-1¼, 957.

Javelin — Dixon, 223-1, 851. Warkentin, 211-7, 815. Jim Sobieszczyk, unattached, 207-5, 800. Whitson, 202-1, 777. Jenner, 199-11, 773.

1500 meters — Mike Hill, unattached, Los Angeles, 4:16.7, 684. George, 4:19.2, 665. Sobieszczyk, 4:21.4, 649. Warkentin, 4:23.5, 634. Samara, 4:30.8, 584.

Final standings — 1, Samara, 8,061. 2, Brigham, 7,971. 3, Gough, 7,918. 4, Warkentin, 7,842. 5, Hill, 7,824. 6, George, 7,808. 7, Adsit, 7,523. 8, Sobieszczyk, 7,476. 9, Dixon, 7,350. 10, Whitson, 7,275. Jenner failed to score in pole vault, withdrew after javelin.

Roundup Of World Pro Tennis

By The Associated Press

Veterans Ken Rosewall of Australia and Manuel Orantes of Spain scored straight-set victories Sunday in a pair of foreign tennis tournaments.

The 40-year-old Rosewall beat West Germany's Karl Meiler in straight sets to capture the Swiss International Open championships at Gstaad. The 27-year-old Meiler, coming off an upset victory over top-seeded Guillermo Vilas in the semis, was no match for Rosewall who collected $8,000 for his efforts.

Glynis Cole of Britain beat South Africa's Linky Boshoff 9-7, 2-6, 8-6 in the women's final.

Orantes whipped countryman Jose Higueras 6-0, 6-3 to take the Swedish Open championships at Baastad. Orantes, a 26-year-old left-hander, picked up $8,500.

In Atlantic City, unseeded Cynthia Doerner of Australia continued her march towards the championship of the Ms. America Tennis Classic by eliminating fourth-seeded Betsy Nagelsen 6-1, 5-7, 7-6 in a semifinal match.

Doerner will face second-seeded Barbara Downs in the finals Monday. Downs coasted past Susan Mehmedbasich of El Cerrito, Calif., 6-0, 6-3 in a match that took only 40 minutes to play.

Kurrasch Captures 3 Events

Dave Kurrasch, doing almost everything except running backwards, won three events in the all-comers track and field meet Sunday afternoon at UC Irvine.

Kurrasch— the 1975 high school state shot put champ from Newport Harbor—was among 40 participants in the initial all-comers meet this summer at Irvine. Consequently, most of the races were listed in the open division.

Kurrasch was victorious in the long jump (19-0), the discus (134-5) and the shot (54-4¾). He also ran in the 100, but the sprint standout was Doug Parrell, who won the 100 in 9.8, who anchored a 440 relay team to a winning 47.2, and who won the 50-yard dash in 5.8.

Other top marks were Paul Viggiano's 6-6 in the open high jump and Carl Eissman's 6-4 in the high school high jump.

Summer Action

Irvine, GWC Divide Tilts

The Irvine Collegians and Golden West split doubleheaders Sunday in summer league baseball action, while Mission Viejo's American Legion team was a 9-3 victim to visiting Savanna.

Irvine's Rod Brown came through with a single in the 10th inning to score Joe Ducey and provide his mates with a 4-3 decision over San Fernando in intercollegiate baseball.

The latter came back to win the second half of the bill with a 5-1 triumph.

Tim Richards provided Don Rowe with all the help he needed with a first-inning home run for Golden West. Rowe spun a six-hit shutout in taming Orange, 1-0, in Metro League action.

Orange came back to win the nightcap, 8-3. Golden West picked up single tallies in the first two frames and the sixth inning with the key hits Richards' rbi triple, a sacrifice fly by Rowe and an rbi single by Jack Hudson.

The split leaves Golden West with a 7-10 record.

Mission Viejo scored three times in the fifth frame, but it wasn't enough to offset an 8-0 Savanna lead gained in the first four innings.

Dave Cooper and Tony Richardson singled and Chris Ross walked to account for the three rbi.

Bay Cruise Captured By Mirage

Mirage, a 22-foot catamaran skippered by Forrest Stewart, was the winner of the first race Saturday of Voyagers Yacht Club's Alamitos Bay Race Cruise.

The first race was from Newport to Alamitos Bay on Saturday and the second race from Alamitos Bay to Newport Sunday.

Winner of the return race was Trend, sailed by George McClellan. The event was limited to VYC members.

Sunshine Top Distaff Boat

Sunshine, a Catalina-27 skippered by Joan Malamosky, Capo Bay Yacht Club, was the winner of the third and final race of Dana Point Yacht Club's Ladies Series Saturday. She was also the overall series winner.

Runner-up in the final race was Little Spirit, a Santana-22, co-skippered by Peggy Ryan and Willma Kuhn, Capo BYC, and third was Sola Via, a Balboa-26 sailed by Sally Lassey, DPYC.

Two Clubs Score High In Regatta

Balboa Yacht Club and Mission Bay Yacht Club Lido-14 skippers scored heavily in the 23rd annual High Sierras Regatta held Saturday and Sunday at Huntington Lake north of Fresno. Ninety-six boats competed in the event.

Class winners:

CLASS A—1, Peter Jefferson, MBYC; 2, Jeff Lemhart, MBYC; 3, Scott Schock, BYC; 4, Bill McCord, BYC; 5, Tim Linsky, WYC.

CLASS B—1, Debbie Brown, MBYC; 2, Jim Forsythe, BYC; 3, Bob Perpall, KHYC; 4, Joe DeBold, MBYC; 5, Fred Toepel, BYC.

CLASS C—1, Karen Kirst, BYC; 2, Ted Jones, Fresno YC; Pat Tinge, Fresno YC.

Dana Point Race Won By Twilight

Twilight, a Morgan-33 sailed by Bill Wiedeman, Oceanside Yacht Club, was the Class A winner of the fourth race of Dana Point Yacht Club's PHRF Series Sunday.

Summary:

Junior Match Race

Long Beach Sailors Win Governor Cup

Long Beach Yacht Club with Steve Washburn at the helm of a Cal-25 sloop was the winner of Balboa Yacht Club's Governor's Cup junior match racing series Sunday.

The series started Thursday and was scheduled to wind up Saturday, but strong winds forced a cancellation of Saturday's race and the sailoff was held Sunday.

LBYC tied on points with Leeway Sailing Club's Bruce Golison, but a win by LBYC in their match with LSC resolved the tie. Final results:

1. LONG BEACH YACHT CLUB (Steve Washburn), 8-1.
2. LEEWAY SAILING CLUB (Bruce Golison), 8-1.
3. CABRILLO BEACH YACHT CLUB (Scott Winn), 6-3.
4. PACIFIC MARINERS YACHT CLUB (Eugene Massion), 6-3.
5. ALAMITOS BAY YACHT CLUB (Tom Newton), 6-3.
6. BAHIA CORINTHIAN YACHT CLUB (Scott Mason), 3-6.
7. MISSION BAY YACHT CLUB (Jay Butler), 3-6.
8. BALBOA YACHT CLUB (Skip Beck), 3-6.
9. MONTEREY PENINSULA YACHT CLUB (Dave Morris), 1-8.

Blackaller Takes Baxter Bowl Cup

Tom Blackaller of Newport Harbor Yacht Club was the winner of NHYC's Baxter Bowl Regatta for Star Class boats in a two day regatta held Saturday and Sunday in the ocean off Newport.

Runner-up was Barton Beek, also of NHYC, and third was Malin Burnham, San Diego Yacht Club.

All three skippers are internationally known Star sailors. Burnham is a former world champion in the class.

There were 23 starters in the regatta. Winds ranged from a blustery 18-20 knots on Saturday to 10 knots on Sunday.

The Star is one of the oldest one-design racing sailboats in existence. Until 1972 it was one of the Olympic classes.

BOATING

Lido Isle All Girl Race Sailed

Thirty six boats in four classes turned out Sunday for Lido Isle Yacht Club's annual All Girl Regatta. The winners:

LASER (14)—1, Gay Koll, LIYC; 2, Alanna Clary, NHYC; 3, Martha Koll, LIYC; 4, Daphne Jerens, NHYC; 5, Lisa Grundy, LIYC.

SABOT A AND B (10)—1, Molly O'Hora, NHYC; 2, Susan Spangler, NHYC; 3, Sheri Rados, NHYC; 4, Dayna Myerson, NHYC.

SABOT C (8)—1, Gale Nye, NHYC; 2, Michelle Fuller, NHYC; 3, Stephanie Norman, BCYC.

MOTHERS SABOT (4)—1, Phyllis Drayton, NHYC.

Harbour Match Set

Huntington Harbour Yacht Club has accepted the Challenge of Newport Harbor Yacht Club for the Southern California Yachting Association Commodore's Trophy to be sailed in Lido-14 sloops Aug. 2 inside Huntington Harbour.

HHYC will defend the cup with Chris Raab as skipper. There will be four races with one throwout.

All SCYA clubs are invited to file secondary challenges no later than July 26. Basic rules for the challenge are:

One Yacht per club.

Skipper and crew must be members of the challenging club.

Yachts may be chartered but must have a valid Lido-14 measurement certificate. Measurement certificate must be submitted with challenge.

On Critical Issues

Educators Speak Out

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There were apples for all the teachers attending the 113th annual convention of the National Education Association in the Los Angeles Convention Center.

The delegates found the traditional fruit in their box lunches as they sat in eight different sessions discussing critical issues in education, ranging from violence and school safety to school funding.

There was a political atmosphere as candidates for the various NEA offices conducted full-scale campaigns with buttons and banners, and some of the state delegations were colorful in matching jackets and vests.

The educators also were outspoken on the issues confronting them. Richard Boone, for example, speaking in the first seminar, charged that "schools are not doing their job."

He was a panelist in the seminar titled The Right to an Education: Teachers and Students in an Era of Crisis, which was exploring the problem of student dropouts, pushouts and those who are alienated.

"How we respond will determine what happens in the nation," he said. "The problems of the nation are mirrored in the schools. The schools are expected to solve them. The schools have been 'fall guys.'

HATE SYSTEM

"But the system has gone wrong. Schools are based on conforming to a rigid system. Many teachers within the system hate the system. This leads to a question of the role of the teacher and student, and a feeling of powerlessness for both the teacher and student."

Boone, a member of the Urban Policy Research Council in Los Angeles, said he thought students had been put "on ice" and not given attention in some of the most meaningful areas of their lives.

He used as an example high school newspapers, where the students are judged on the form of their papers, but not the content.

Boone also lamented that teachers have very little time to listen to their students, and are not trained in listening techniques. When problems do arise, teachers are powerless to act on them, he said.

During the discussion period, the delegates offered various statements and suggestions. One kindergarten teacher with nine years of experience said, "After three weeks I can tell which students will be dropouts or pushouts. I think early childhood education needs more money and input."

MORE PRESSURE

Another said that "public schools are under more pressure to provide equal opportunity than any other institution in the U. S."

Still another commented that "future parents are products of the schools. We must teach students to not relegate the whole job of raising children to the schools."

The question also was raised during the session about why there is not now a national office of education.

Indications came from the session on national economic problems and educational funding that teachers no longer will be content to stay in the classroom and hope that bond issues are passed.

They will become more and more involved in working in the community, according to a list of suggestions developed during round-table workshops.

It all boiled down to a gigantic public relations campaign to take the classroom issues off the campus. Suggestions were.

—Get a slot on local television.

—Target people who will work for you.

—Have person-to-person dealings with the public, beginning with the parents.

—Work with other groups.

—Train teachers for interviews with the media.

USE RADIO

—Learn how local groups feel about issues.

—Tell the story on radio.

—Organize community awareness programs.

—Have a file of all the "friends of education."

—Become politically involved.

—Have a voter registrar on the faculty.

—Encourage teachers to run for office.

Prior to the discussion, Blair Patrick, president of the Washington Education Association had described his state's strategy in coming up with more educational funding.

Washington schools are funded through a sales tax and a business and occupation tax, Patrick said, or "two legs of what should be a three-legged triangle."

Since the 1960s, his association has been trying to get the state legislature to change the tax structure to include income tax. The first organized attempt to promote a constitutional change came in 1969, which resulted in a 30 percent vote.

The next three years were spent in political work to change the structure of the House of Representatives.

SENATE CHANGED

"In 1972 we obtained a Democratic senate, but they are still sitting on their butts," Patrick said. "This year, we instituted a search for an interim means of funding."

Bill Cullinane, a member of the NEA staff, said the battle in Washington really was for "the careers of the teachers throughout the state."

The state's fourth largest district, with 1300 teachers, faced the loss of 500 of the total because of lack of funds, he said, and the teachers began to discuss across-the-board salary reductions so none of them would lose their jobs.

"Then, the NEA began to look for the fat in the school budgets," Gullinane said, "but the long-range solution is in Olympia with the state legislature."

Washington's goal, he said, was to "persuade the public that education was in danger" and to remind the public of the "inequities in public education."

In the seminar on violence, Willard McGuire said that "our time to teach seems to decrease and our fears and frustrations seem to increase."

He has been searching for answers to the questions of how to curb violence, and has concluded that "it will be people like us (classroom teachers) who will eventually provide the answers."

CRIME INCREASE

McGuire touched on homicides, rapes, robberies, assaults and drug and alcohol offenses, noted the increases between 1970 and 1973 and asked, "Is it any wonder students and teachers are afraid?"

Because of peer group support, McGuire said, it is even harder to deal with violence now. "The situation is more difficult because so many students support or appear even to condone the erring student," he said.

McGuire stressed that teachers cannot remain quiet about violence any more because this "survival mechanism" leads to dishonesty.

He suggested six ways to curb violence, including telling the truth about the problem, providing security in school buildings, dealing with students who are engaging in serious criminal offenses and encouraging non-traditional programs to reach students who are bored.

Finally, McGuire suggested that "we should work to establish preservice and inservice courses on how to handle the aggression and other behaviour that must be dealt with."

Another critical issue, which will be of great importance to teachers after Oct. 1, 1976, is mainstreaming. This means, according to Careth Ellingson, integrating all handicapped students with regular students in the classroom.

HISTORIC DATE

A federal law will go into effect on that date which "will change the American public school system more drastically than the 1954 Supreme Court ruling on desegregation," she said.

The new law requires, Ms. Ellingson said, education "to the maximum extent appropriate" for all the "mentally retarded, hard-of-hearing, deaf, speech impaired, visually handicapped, seriously emotionally disturbed, orthopedically or other health impaired, and children with specific learning disabilities, without special classes, separate schooling or other removal from the regular educational environment."

Ms. Ellingson, an author, outlined the specific changes the law will make in the classroom, such as physical and mental adjustments and possible additional training for teachers.

"The point is that mainstreaming is not an experiment," she said. "It is a a fact of life.

"The handicapped are clamoring at the school doors, the nonhandicapped must now, by law, open those doors, the taxpayer must pay the bill and you—the teacher—must control it all. I wish you good luck."

Concluding the first day of the critical issues conference was an address by Margaret Heckler, a member of the U. S. House of Representatives.

She called for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, which she said would rectify many inequities in America quickly, where doing the same thing "patchwork" would take another 20 years.

Rep. Heckler also said that "education belongs to the human cycle, not just to the young," and that the old should share the classroom with the young.

She offered her help to the NEA in exchange for its members' help in working for the passage of the ERA.

"I ask for your leadership. You can count on my help in Washington."

The National Education Association, founded in 1857, is the largest professional organization in the U. S. and is second only in size in employee organizations to the Teamsters Union.

It has 1.7 million members, 90 percent of whom are classroom teachers.

Rep. Margaret Heckler made the educators an offer: she would support them in return for their help with ERA.

'Many teachers within the system hate the system. This leads to . . . a feeling of powerlessness.'

More the Merrier

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) "A vacation is to develop yourself as a total person, not necessarily to im press the neighbors, compulsively sight-see, or bring back superslides," says Dr. Francis L. Clark, a Georgetown University Medical School psychiatrist.

You'll probably do best if you take several short vacations a year instead of a single long one, according to Dr. Roy R. Grinker, also a psychiatrist, of Chicago's Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center.

Getting away for three or four shorter vacations a year is much better for several reasons.

The emphasis varies. Therefore, you can avoid the conflict over what the family wants to do — each member usually pulling in a different direction.

With several vacations you can set up a schedule which allows you to touch the major bases and keep everyone reasonably happy. Through the year, you may ski, camp, sightsee.

Grinker favors family vacations. "It's advisable for families to be alone together, away from other people." he said.

Some persons can't stand long vacations. Such types, the psychiatrist said, only can endure a week away before pinning their minds on home or job.

Another plus for the short vacation: you can't drive your car too far. Grinker is against long car trips. The traffic is full of stress. The driver never gets to see much.

Psychiatrist Clark agrees that several short breaks are probably better than one long one.

For top physical and mental benefits, Clark also recommends:

—Know people well before traveling with them.

—Don't overwork beforehand. It takes longer to unwind.

—Don't expect too much and don't be disappointed. It may rain. Or, you and the wife may have a spat or two, dashing hopes that "this" vacation will patch your marriage.

—Don't rush straight back to work. Allow a "re-entry" day so you don't feel trapped. Immediately plan your next vacation. Family visits don't count.

—Keep your vacation uncontaminated by work.

Grinker agrees that rushing right back to work is harmful. He suggests avoiding stress by allowing three days for "re-entry."

"Too often returning to work is a period of stress," he said. "Most persons plunge right in, open their mail, get to work and try to catch up.

"Get into your work slowly and gradually."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My brother telephoned me last night, quite upset. He said he had just received a note from the principal of his son's school saying Jerry, who is six years old and in the first grade, is known for picking on the other kids and makes a general nuisance of himself. The principal warned him that if Jerry hasn't settled down by the time school starts in the fall, he will be expelled.

Is it possible to expel a first grader? How can Jerry be helped? — CONCERNED UNCLE

DEAR UNCLE: A child whose anti-social behavior disrupts the classroom can be expelled no matter what the age.

Obviously your nephew needs counseling and so do his parents. Children who cannot get along with others and misbehave constantly are troubled. They seek attention outside the home because there are so few rewards IN the home.

It would be helpful if you could establish a close relationship with Jerry so when he feels the need for help he can holler "Uncle."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope all those people who think living together is as good as or better than getting married will read this letter — and think again. I am in such a trap and I don't know what to do.

G. and I decided we were in love. He didn't want to get married again after two divorces (one was a real mess), and it was OK with me. That was seven years ago.

Our five-year-old son starts school in the fall. His name is the same as mine. I will have to go to school with him and write on the registration blank, son of Miss A.L. and G.O. How will it look?

Whenever I mention marriage, G. says, "I couldn't think more of you if you were my legal wife. Let's not spoil our beautiful relationship by getting married. I did.

He really treats me royally, Ann, and he's crazy about the boy. Tell me what to do. — NO-RING WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Give G. 10 days to make up his mind. Either you get a ring on your finger and that piece of paper in your hand, or it's goodbye. And make it stick.

If he loves you and the boy as much as you say, he'll marry you. If not, it's better that you know it now.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am very fond of a young man who needs psychiatric help. He has moods that are frightening. Sometimes he becomes so depressed I'm afraid he might take his life. Other times he is euphoric beyond description.

His temper is unpredictable. I never know before we meet whether he is going to be cheerful and affectionate, or glum and rejecting.

I've begged him to seek professional help (he can well afford the best) but he refuses. What can I do? — PLENTY WORRIED

DEAR P.L.: Nothing. Unless a person recognizes the need and wants to avail himself of it, it's utterly hopeless. This goes for alcoholics, overeaters, chainsmokers — the whole kit and kaboodle. Nobody changes anybody. People have to change themselves. And it's the hardest work there is.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Highlight Discretion

TUESDAY, JULY 15

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid premature starts. Round out projects, assignments. Lie low. Play waiting game. Do plenty of listening, observing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What seems attractive on surface requires more investigation. Know it and act accordingly. Going too fast, too soon could be costly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Path to contentment might be rocky. Expect it and be ready to fight for what is right. Means emotional setbacks are temporary. Rise above initial discouragement.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): No free rides. Self-discipline is more necessary than in recent past. Hold tight to principles. You get nothing for nothing, despite protestations to the contrary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be aware of apparent minor matters, details, including hidden clauses. Read between the lines. Accent is on quick trips, short messages.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Investigate. Ask questions. Don't be satisfied that something merely occurred; find out why it happened. Don't attempt to mix money and friendship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Cycle is such that key issues dominate. Trust your judgment. Older individual pulls strings. Stop pulling in opposite direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Discretion is highlighted in sense that you have a secret. You get behind scenes and have access to privileged information.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Involvement is featured. Member of opposite sex is in picture. You are due to make a commitment. Some of your fondest hopes, wishes can come close to realities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): More people understand you, are drawn to you and they say so and do something about it. Plainly, you get results! You finish assignment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take steps which lead to future rather than to brooding about past. Stress vision, independence, inventiveness. Adhere to your own style.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Money picture may be somewhat scattered. Key now is consolidation, pulling together instead of bits and pieces.

Peering Around

SEVERAL members of county chapters of the National Secretaries Association will be attending the organization's convention in Quebec.

Bahia Chapter is being represented by Marilyn Miller, Elizabeth Eskey, Evie Lea, Catherine Argeanton and Mildred Peterson.

Orange Empire Chapter is represented by Mrs. Gene Drake, Joelene Mack and Nancy Cryer.

"KEEPER OF THE FLAME," the biography of Knott's Berry Farm founder Walter Knott, has been transcribed into Braille by Mae Morrison, a member of the Braille section of the American Association of University Women in Long Beach.

FOUR BEACH area residents have won jurors choice awards at Torana Art League's All Media Open Show at Hunt Library, Fullerton.

They are Helen Hennesy of Costa Mesa, Rosita Montgomery of Newport Beach, Clay Campbell of Corona del Mar and Gary Martin of Balboa.

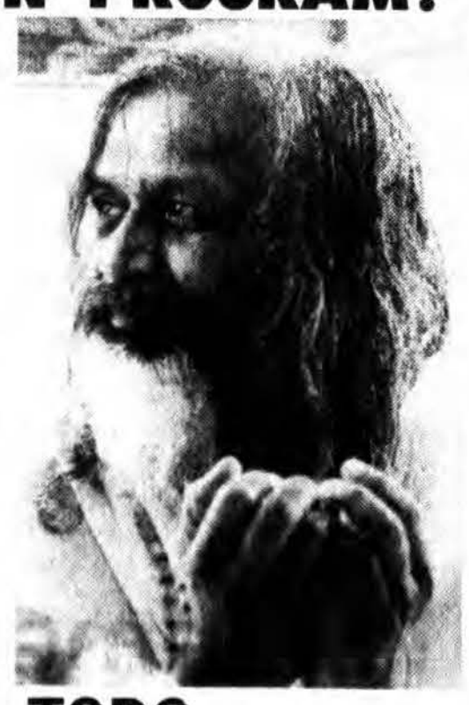

The exhibit will be open throughout July.

WINNER of the Anchor Lodge's scholarship for post-graduate studies is Meredith Piper of Huntington Beach who will continue pre-law studies at UC Irvine.

Meredith has a 3.82 grade point average at Orange Coast College.

NOTICE INVITING BIDS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the Coast Community College District of Orange County, hereinafter referred to as the Owner will receive up to, but not later than, 2:00 P.M. Thursday, July 31, 1975 sealed bids for the award of contract.

For the furnishing and installation of Mathematics Audio-Tutorial Furniture and Audio-Tutorial Electronic Equipment at Goldenwest Community College.

Such bids shall be received in the Office of the Purchasing Agent, in the Administration Building, 1370 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa, Orange County, California, and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to this invitation, the plans, specifications and all other documents comprising the pertinent contract documents. Copies of the Contract Documents are now on file and open to public inspection in the said offices of the Owner. Copies are available to qualified Electronic Bidders at the said office, by depositing $50.00 for each set. The deposit will be refunded only if the sets are returned complete and in good condition within 5 days after bid opening.

Labor and Materials Bond and Performance Bond will be required of the Contractor selected.

Each bid shall be made out on the "FORM OF PROPOSAL" bound in each set of Specifications.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check payable to the Owner, or satisfactory Bid Bond in favor of the Owner, executed by the bidder as principal and a satisfactory surety company as surety, in an amount not less than ten percent (10%) of the bid. The check or bid bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will execute the Contract if it be awarded to him on conformity with the Contract Documents and will provide the surety bond or bonds as specified therein within five days after notification of the award of the Contract to the bidder.

WAGE RATES

Pursuant to the Labor Code of the State of California, California Building and Construction Trades Council, Building and Construction Trades Council of Orange County, the said Board of Trustees has ascertained the general prevailing wage rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workmen needed to execute the contracts which will be awarded the successful bidders; and these prevailing rates are contained in said specifications adopted by the Board, and are as listed below.

Any classification not anticipated and below listed shall be paid at the current wage rates for the applicable trade and classification in effect with the above listed Trades Councils. If any rates listed below are not current or are revised by labor agreements during the bidding time or construction time, such revisions shall be considered a part of the below listed rates. Any Health, Welfare, Vacation, Promotion or other benefits shall be in addition to the below listed wage scales. Apprentices shall be employed in conformity with Section 1777.5 of the California Labor Code.

Attention is directed to the provisions of Labor Code Section 1777.5 concerning employment of apprentices. It requires contractors or subcontractors employing tradesmen in any apprenticeship occupation to apply to the applicable joint apprenticeship committee for a Certificate of Approval and fixing the ratio of apprentices to journeymen used on the Contract. Contractor may be required to make contributions to apprenticeship Programs. Contractor and Subcontractors shall also comply with Section 1777.6 in the employment of apprentices. For information relative to apprenticeship standards, contact Director of Industrial Relations San Francisco, California, or Division of Apprenticeship Standards Branch Offices.

Overtime shall be paid for work performed in excess of the regular day's work and at the rate of overtime for the craft involved.

Holidays shall be all holidays recognized in the Collective Bargaining Agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workmen employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom a contract is awarded and upon all Subcontractors under him, to pay not less than said prevailing rates of per diem wages to all workmen employed in the execution of the Contract.

Reinforcements Arrive

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "M-A-S-H," beginning its fourth year of combatting war wounds and pomposity, will turn up on television next fall with a new roster of officers.

Gone is the affable commanding officer, Col. Henry Blake, tragically lost in a flight over the Japan Sea on his return to civilian life. Also missing, but apparently not deceased, is Capt. John McIntyre, M.D., affectionately known as Trapper John.

Replacements have arrived. Col. Sherman Potter (Harry Morgan) has assumed command of the Korean medical base, and B. J. Hunnicutt, M.D. (Mike Farrell), has been assigned to duties as surgeon.

Sounds simple, yes. But behind the changes lies a pattern of charges and countercharges, suits and countersuits, plus kingsize headaches for the two men who have guided "M-A-S-H" from its inception as a TV series, Gene Reynolds and Larry Gelbart.

McLEAN Stevenson, the "late" Col. Blake, announced he was leaving "M-A-S-H" after the third season. He signed a long-term contract with NBC and was expected to head his own variety series next season. However, the show hasn't materialized.

Wayne Rogers, alias Trapper John, said he wasn't returning to "M-A-S-H" and claimed he had no contract. Twentieth Century-Fox felt otherwise and filed suit for $2.9 million damages if Rogers did not return. He sued producer Reynolds and five John Does for $3 million damages, claiming defamation of character.

While the lawyers shuffle their papers, "M-A-S-H" goes on.

Reynolds and Gelbart came to lunch — appropriately at a Japanese restaurant — on the first day of rehearsals for the new season. They seemed battle-weary but hopeful, despite the loss of two-thirds of the series' stars

"THERE'S A good spirit; everyone is excited about the challenge of the new season," said Reynolds.

NOTICE INVITING BIDS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the Coast Community College District of Orange County, hereinafter referred to as the Owner will receive up to, but not later than, 2:00 P.M. Thursday, July 31, 1975 sealed bids for the award of contract, for the furnishing and installation of Media-center Electronic equipment, furniture and fixtures at Goldenwest Community College.

Such bids shall be received in the Office of the Purchasing Agent, in the Administration Building, 1370 Adams Ave., Costa Mesa, Orange County, California, and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to this invitation, the plans, specifications and all other documents comprising the pertinent contract documents. Copies of the Contract documents are now on file and open to public inspection in the said offices of the Owner. Copies are available to qualified Electronic Bidders at the said office, by depositing $50.00 for each set. The deposit will be refunded only if the sets are returned complete and in good condition within 5 days after bid opening.

Labor and Materials Bond and Performance Bond will be required of the Contractor selected.

Each bid shall be made out on the "Form of Proposal" bound in each set of Specifications.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check payable to the Owner, or satisfactory Bid Bond in favor of the Owner, executed by the bidder as principal and a satisfactory surety company as surety, in an amount not less than ten percent (10%) of the bid. The check or bid bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will execute the Contract if it be awarded to him in conformity with the Contract Documents and will provide the surety bond or bonds as specified therein within five days after notification of the award of the contract to the bidder.

WAGE RATES

Pursuant to the Labor Code of the State of California, California Building and Construction Trades Council, Building and Construction Trades Council of Orange County, the said Board of Trustees has ascertained the general prevailing wage rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workmen needed to execute the contracts which will be awarded the successful bidders; and these prevailing rates are contained in said specifications adopted by the Board, and are as listed below.

Any classification not anticipated and below listed shall be paid at the current wage rates for the applicable trade and classification in effect with the above listed Trades Councils. If any rates listed below are not current or are revised by labor agreements during the bidding time or construction time, such revisions shall be considered a part of the below listed rates. Any health, welfare, vacation, promotion or other benefits shall be in addition to the below listed wage scales. Apprentices shall be employed in conformity with Section 1777.5 of the California Labor Code.

Attention is directed to the provisions of Labor Code Section 1777.5 concerning employment of apprentices. It requires contractors or subcontractors employing tradesmen in any apprenticeship occupation to apply to the applicable joint apprenticeship committee for a certificate of approval and fixing the ratio of apprentices to journeymen used on the contract. Contractor may be required to make contributions to apprenticeship programs. Contractor and subcontractors shall also comply with Section 1777.6 in the employment of apprentices. For information relative to apprenticeship standards, contact Director of Industrial Relations San Francisco, California, or Division of Apprenticeship Standards branch offices.

Overtime shall be paid for work performed in excess of the regular day's work and at the rate of overtime for the craft involved.

Holidays shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workmen employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom a contract is awarded and upon all subcontractors under him, to pay not less than said prevailing rates of per diem wages to all workmen employed in the execution of the contract.

ELECTRICAL (Hourly Rate) Foreman Sound Technician — ($12.91); Journey Technician — ($11.60); CARPENTRY — Carpenter Foreman — ($9.68); Carpenter Journeyman — ($8.83).

The Owner reserves the privilege of rejecting any and all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding. The Contractor may not withdraw his bid for a period of 45 days following the date of opening of bids.

A New Phase of Life

This is the final article in a Daily Pilot five-part series on Orange County nursing homes.

"What is the Worst of Woes that Wait on Age?
To View Each Loved One Blotted From Life's Page,
And be Alone on Earth, as I am now."
—Lord Byron

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Time passes. As it does, you and those you love grow older.

And the day may come sooner than you think when you will need the care a nursing home provides, either for yourself or someone close to you.

GRANVILLE

For a younger person recovering from an illness, injury or surgery, a nursing home stay will be much less expensive but not too different from recuperating in a hospital.

But for an older person, a doctor's order sending them to a skilled nursing facility can mean the beginning of a new phase in their life.

Physical condition will tell some their stay will be a long one, perhaps for the rest of their lives.

THEY WILL BE among strangers in their new home, most living apart from family and friends for the first time.

And many who have devoted their lives to caring for others—as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers—will suddenly find themselves among the cared for, dependant on the care they receive from others to see them through each day.

How They Care

A Daily Pilot Series On Elderly Care In Orange County Nursing Homes–1975

To the nursing home operator goes the responsibility not only of tending to their aged patients' health needs but also their mental and social well being.

How will you select the right home for yourself or someone you love?

Even those close to the nursing home scene in Orange County say it's not always an easy decision.

"THINGS CAN CHANGE so fast in a nursing home that I might, for example, be willing to put my mother in a particular home today but not tomorrow," Ruth Chassane said recently.

Mrs. Chassane monitors the care of Medi-Cal patients for the county Social Services Department.

County Health Department director of health services, Dr. Thomas Hamilton, also sees ups and downs in patient care as characteristic of many nursing homes.

"New owners can make a big difference. So can a change in administrators or a new nursing director," said Hamilton.

"We sometimes have difficulty keeping a track of what's going on. And it's probably doubly difficult for the public," he added.

Nation's Security Stressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Kelley said that he has not been asked to authorize any break-ins since becoming FBI director two years ago. He said he would present any such requests to the attorney general and would be guided by his opinion.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries in securing information related to the security of the nation," Keeley said in response to questions.

He defended the break-ins and said FBI personnel "acted in good faith" in authorizing and conducting them.

In 1966, Kelley said, "all such activity was terminated" except for break-ins considered necessary for foreign-related counterintelligence activity.

He declined to say how many break-ins have been conducted since 1966 or whether there was a substantial reduction in the number.

The director said he could not discuss many details because he expects to testify on matters before the Senate committee investigating Central Intelligence Agency and FBI intelligence activities.

He refused to identify the targets of the break-ins but said he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence.

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

Gallon of Gas Seen Rising To 70 Cents

By United Press International

With the travel season at its peak, the price of regular gasoline soared above 65 cents a gallon in many areas of the nation over the weekend.

Retailers said it was certain to reach 70 cents before summer ends.

"All this talk about a 70-cent gallon, which seemed so outlandish months ago, is not that far off," said Forrett Orr, Vermont energy directory.

Some dealers predicted regular will cost $1 a gallon by the end of the year. A Los Angeles dealer said if the wholesale price reaches 70 cents a gallon by Thanksgiving, as he expects, he'll charge a dollar at the pump.

But Lou Maggiotto, manager of a Mobil station in Buffalo, N.Y., said motorists won't stand for it.

"The American public will blow up the storage tanks first," he said.

An oil industry economist doubted the price could go to a $1. But, he said, "I cannot say verily, verily, the price can't go to a buck."

To get to $1, he said, it would require another Arab oil embargo, "wild action" on prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, removal of the $5.25 per barrel ceiling on "old" domestic oil and another $1 hike in the import duty and high demand.

Most dealers think the price will peak at 70 or 75 cents this year.

Denzel Kennemer, who runs a Phillips station in Austin, Tex., predicted the price would jump 10 to 15 cents from the 60-cent level by September.

"I doubt we'll see $1 a gallon before the end of the year, unless we get another embargo," said another Texas retailer, Joe

Miss Clemente Set For Annual Fiesta

San Clemente's 22nd Annual Fiesta La Cristianita will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday with Lisa Croisette reigning as Miss San Clemente, queen of the fiesta.

The fiesta commemorates the first Christian baptism in California 206 years ago.

Fiesta activities include a carnival, parade, lifeguard dory races, pancake breakfast, dedication of a monument to San Clemente's Argentine sister city and historical tour through the home of Ole Hanson, San Clemente's founder.

Miss Croisette, 20, was selected Miss San Clemente in judging Saturday at the Chamber of Commerce Fiesta Kick Off party.

She was crowned queen by Susan Pechous, Miss San Clemente '74. Princesses are Peggy Beard, 19, and Debra Robertson, 21.

The Fiesta Carnival begins at 5 p.m. Friday and runs til midnight at Plaza Park. The carnival includes 30 booths manned by community organizations and clubs. It will run from 1 p.m. to midnight Saturday and from 11 a.m. to midnight Sunday.

Saturday, a 200-unit parade will step off at 10 a.m. from the corner of Del Mar Avenue at Ola Vista Avenue. The parade will head up Del Mar to El Camino Real and turn north proceeding up El Camion Real to El Portal Avenue where it will be disbanded for presentation of awards at Plaza Park.

Grand marshal of the parade is television and movie actor J. Patrick O'Malley, who replaces actor Chuck Conners originally scheduled as the honorary leader of the event.

Other events include:

—Lifeguard Dory Race, sponsored by the San Clemente chapter of the National Surf Life Saving Association of America, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the municipal pier.

—Kiwanis Club Annual Fiesta pancake breakfast will be held from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. Saturday and Sunday in the Albertson's Market parking lot.

—Sister City dedication of a monument will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Community Clubhouse, Del Mar and Avenida Seville. The city's sister community is San Clemente del Tuju in Argentina. Dr. Alberto J.C. Nougues, consul general of

Paramedics To Shorten Their Signs

Hospital Ambulance service soon will be erasing the "IC" from "PARAMEDIC" signs on three of its emergency ambulances because of a complaint lodged with the Orange County Consumer Affairs office.

Hospital Ambulance serves Laguna Beach, El Toro, Laguna Hills, Mission Viejo, South Laguna, San Juan Capistrano and Dana Point.

Craig Scudder, firm president, said Friday the company reluctantly will remove the signs, alleged to be in violation of a health and safety code section when the ambulance is not staffed full time with paramedic personnel.

In the area served by the private ambulance company, the Orange County Fire Department has paramedic-trained personnel. The ambulance company has emergency medical technicians whose training is not as extensive as paramedics.

Schudder said the original painting of the signs "PARAMEDIC TRANSPORT" was done only after he checked with the county Paramedic officials two years ago and was told it was allowed.

He said his ambulances do transport persons treated by the county's Paramedic personnel in the Laguna Hills area. In the coastal areas, however, there is no Paramedic service.

Scudder said he had been notified that of the possible violation of using the word Paramedic. However there is no prohibition against using the word "Para-med".

Few Rescues On Beaches

It's back to the overcast and calm along the Southern Orange Coast beaches today following a generally bright but breezy weekend marked by few rescues and no serious incidents.

San Clemente lifeguards today reported 20 weekend rescues as about 10,500 people gathered on city beaches and 16,000 on county beaches between South Laguna and San Clemente both days.

Laguna Beach guards reported 37 rescues from a crowd of about 25,000 both days.

Court Eyes Krishna Bid

Cult Fights County Ban on Fair Activity

A petition demanding that the Orange County Fair permit saffron-robed cultists of the Hare Krishna Society to distribute leaflets and chant meditations was under consideration today by U.S. District Court officers in San Francisco.

The paperwork was filed Friday, following a dispute in philosophy between the Krishna consciousness group and operators of the Orange County Fair.

Krishna worshipers claim they have been refused permission to proselytize among everyone from Catholics to Unitarians to agnostics who patronize the fair.

"That's really not true," a spokesman for the fair said today.

Missionaries of the robed cult which gowns itself in saffron-orange or white colored robes and hands out esoteric leaflets to the jingle of finger-cymbals last week asked permission to do so at the fair.

They were refused, on grounds that individuals unimpressed with their devotion to Krishna doctrine might litter the 165-acre fairgrounds with Krishna literature.,

Lawyers for the Krishna Consciousness Society in Los Angeles immediately filed the petition in federal court, citing a Northern California legal action occurring last week.

A judge there issued an injunction ordering the Alameda County Fair to allow Krishna cultists to distribute their gospel through the ritual of Sankirtan, or soliciting funds for the temple and disseminating religious literature.

Fairgrounds Manager James Porterfield was tied up in operations of the fair — estimated to draw 250,000 persons during its 10-day run — and could not be reached for comment today.

A spokesman, however, said while the fair's sales manager turned down the Krishna request to distribute literature on grounds of possible litter problems, they were told they can rent an exhibit booth.

"We have several religious groups doing that," said the fair spokesman.

The lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court by the group renowned for chanting "Hare Krishna," handing out flowers and shunning meat names the 32nd Agricultural Association (the Orange County Fair Board) Orange County Sheriff Bradley Gates and District Attorney Cecil Hicks as defendants.

OFFICER SAYS SNAKES ALIVE!

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Police officer J.D. Cullins isn't sure what he expected to find when he opened the trunk of an automobile abandoned by its driver after an accident — certainly not a rattlesnake.

Authorities said Cullins, 25, bitten on the thumb Sunday by a foot-long diamondback rattler nestling in the trunk of the car abandoned on a downtown street.

Cullins was treated at a local hospital and released. Sympathetic superiors gave him the rest of the day off.

He's Well Catalogued

The San Clemente Chamber of Commerce gave away a bunch of door prizes at its Fiesta La Christianita Kickoff party Saturday. The big prize of the evening was a $100 Spiegel Catalogue gift certificate.

Roy Hamm, manager of the Sear's catalogue store in San Clemente, won it.

Huntington Man Held in Death Plot

A Huntington Beach man, who police allege wanted to get rid of his ex-wife's boyfriend, was booked into city jail Sunday night on a murder-for-hire charge.

Police said Donald Albert Ray, 35, of 18892 Florida St., Sunday allegedly offered a friend $100 to shoot Richard L. Chapman, 41, of 17391 Keelson Lane.

He claimed Chapman was his ex-wife's boyfriend, police said.

He also offered to furnish the gun, officers asserted.

But instead of taking up the offer, his friend, James H. Alexander, 37, of 7688 Brookwood St., Huntington Beach, called police.

They arrested Ray three hours later. He was still in custody today. Bail was set at $250,000, police said.

BREAK-INS

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of the break-ins will be provided to the Senate committee, Kelley said, "It will be a matter which will be completely presented to the attorney general.

Full disclosure, he added, "is a question only he can answer."

The director said the Justice Department also is reviewing the break-ins to determine their legality.

Although suggesting that he might consider break-ins improper or unwise today, Kelley insisted that those who carried out the break-ins were acting for the good of the nation.

"I do not note in these activities any gross abuse of authority," he asserted. "I see a consistent thread of well-intentioned activity."

Zylka Jr. of Dallas. "But I do expect $1 a gallon by next summer."

A nationwide survey by UPI showed regular gasoline sold on the weekend at 60 to 65 cents a gallon. But regular was as low as 53 cents at self-service or discount stations and as hgigh as 68 cents at freeway or metropolitan stations.

"It's the highest I've ever seen," said W. Bancroft Timmons of the Alabama Motorists Association in Birmingham.

New Ford Plan Ups Gas Cost?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed a complex oil-price plan that could drive up the cost of gasoline seven cents a gallon by 1978, in effect challenging Congress to come up with a better idea if it can.

The proposal would freeze the price of "new" domestic oil, which amounts to about 40 percent of American production, immediately at $13.50 a barrel and let the cost of "old" oil rise in steps to that level in 30 months.

Ford said the resulting boost in petroleum prices would be a "small price to pay" to free the nation from dependence on foreign oil producers.

His message was addressed to Congress. But he delayed sending it to Capitol Hill until later this week in an apparent attempt to buy time to woo support both among lawmakers and the public.

Once the President's message goes formally to Congress, a statutory timeclock starts running and the plan will go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house within five working days.

Appearing in the White House press room, Ford said he hoped Congress "will give this very serious consideration and not take hasty action."

He said he encountered a "minimum of opposition" when he outlined the plan to congressional leaders this morning.

"We had a greater understanding of the complexity of this problem," he added.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been hostile to the prospect of ending price controls on "old" oil, which comprises 60 percent of production and now pegged at $5.25 per barrel, on the theory it would send fuel prices skyrocketing.

"I guess I'll just rub out the "ic." he said.

In a letter to Scudder, George Ajimine, director of the mobile intensive care program, suggested it would be "prudent" to make the change before the Consumers Affairs Office forwarded its complaints to the Sheriff's Office and the California Highway Patrol was responsible for ambulance licensing.

Crews Relax

Countdown Moving To Detente Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Apollo's astronauts went joy-riding in jets today while countdowns moved smoothly toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff of the Americans 7½ hours later.

Russia's space chief said on the eve of launch the Apollo-Soyuz rendezvous in orbit would strengthen peace and deepen detente. United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the twin shots dramatize the will of the two nations to work together.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton loosened up for their flight in pursuit of Soyuz by flying T38 jets from nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Russian managers in Moscow reported that Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov also were ready at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8,670 miles from here. They relaxed while engineers prepared to start fueling the Soyuz rocket about 12:20 a.m. PDT — five hours before blastoff.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project), said Adrian G. Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow.

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two-month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Foreign Ministry press chief, Boris N. Petrov, chairman of Russia's Intercosmos Council, said in opening the Moscow news conference that the two ships' union in orbit will "strengthen peace and deepen the process of detente. This is an example of solving many difficulties and mutual problems in an atmosphere of cooperation and mutual understanding."

The Russians open the doubleheader with a 5:20 a.m. PDT blastoff from their desert base east of the Aral Sea. The American pilots, and millions of other persons around the world, will watch the launch on television.

The U.S. launch is set for 12:50 p.m. PDT Tuesday.

"We will see you in a couple of days," Stafford said in a telephone call to Leonov while both crews relaxed Sunday.

The threat of thunderstorms remained the one big worry for project officials although meteorologist Jess Gulick said the trend is for more favorable conditions. There have been lightning and rain in the Cape Canaveral area for eight days and forecasters said more was likely sometime Tuesday.

Lightning or even electrified clouds overhead could delay the shot a day. Scientists were prepared to drop metallic fibers into cumulus clouds in an attempt to short-circuit potential thunderheads. Four aircraft will be constantly measuring the electric potential of clouds 24,000 to 41,000 feet overhead.

The weather forecast at Baikonur was good. Meteorologists expected a high of 91 and northerly winds of 16 to 22 miles per hour.

Capo Beach CofC Donations Okayed

The Capistrano Beach Chamber of Commerce has approved donations to the community bicentennial park project and to the Boys' Club of the South Coast Area.

The chamber voted to allocate $500 for the purchase of two combination park tables and benches for the Pine Park Bicentennial project. The Boys' Club was given a $100 donation for its gym construction fund.

That's No Goldilocks

Mike Schaas, 29, of San Clemente, returned home Sunday to find that someone had, just like in the fairy tale, been eating his food, sleeping in his bed, and watching his TV.

But it wasn't Goldilocks, Schaas reported, to police. Whoever it was also took $40 he had left on a bedroom table.

Police say the mystery visitor left no fingerprints and logged the incident as a burglary.

Saddleback Budget Set For Study

Saddleback Community College District trustees will meet at 7:30 tonight to approve a $16.3 million publication budget and to set salaries for the district's classified and certificated employes.

The budget recommendation contains an increase in the tax rate from the present 70 cents to 92 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Provisions are also included to cover salary increases of 12.1 percent for the college's 90 instructors and an equal percentage for non-teaching employes such as secretaries and janitors.

The 12.1 percent figure represents the cost of living index issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the Los Angeles area.

If trustees approve the wage package, beginning teachers would earn $11,574 and those at the top of the salary range $28,389. Those with Ph.D. or Ed.D. degrees would earn a maximum of $31,864.

For classified employes the new salary schedule would range from $584 per month to a top of $1,929 per month depending on the years of service.

Train Victim Roger Horn Rites Slated

Funeral services for train accident victim Roger W. Horn of San Clemente will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Sunnyside Mortuary in Long Beach.

Mr. Horn died Friday at San Clemente General Hospital from injuries suffered when he was hit last Monday by a Santa Fe freight train. Horn, of 243-B La Paloma, was 37.

The incident occurred at the Linda Lane Railroad crossing. Mr. Horn was running along the outside of the tracks and apparently attempting to catch his dog running ahead of him when he was hit by the train traveling about 40 miles per hour.

Survivors are parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Horn of San Clemente; brother, Ted Horn of Monterey Park; nephew, Doug Horn and uncle, Willis Blenkinfop of Long Beach.

Sunnywide Mortuary is located at 4725 Cherry St., Long Beach.

Job is Done

Engineer Carl Carlsen inspects link in South Laguna Sanitary District's $1.5 million sewer reconstruction project. District has announced completion of the project, in which 9,326 feet of 24-inch sewer line between Aliso Beach and Three Arch Bay was replaced. Project was funded with bonds authorized by district voters in 1973.

Water District's Budget Jumps 15%

The South Coast County Water District Board of Directors has approved a budget of $608,000 for the current fiscal year, up 15 percent over last year's budget, but minus increases in water rates or taxes.

The budget is the largest in the 43 year history of the district which serves South Laguna and parts of Laguna Niguel's coastal developments.

Reflected in the budget are a six percent increase in the cost of water purchased wholesale, a 39 percent increase in pumping expenses, a 31 percent increase in transmission and distribution cost and a 24 percent increase in general and administrative expenses.

"We have some good news for our water users, nevertheless," Thomas Brooks, board president, said. "We can meet all expenses, at least during the coming fiscal year, without an increase in water rates or taxes."

However, Brooks said rising costs are bound to have an effect on rates in the future and the district staff is studying taxes and rate structure in preparation for a possible rate change next year.

The district has had no increase in water rates since 1969 when a 50-percent hike in rates precipitated a storm of protest from water users.

Since then, the cost of water has gone up nearly 50 percent and the cost of power used in pumping has jumped 60 percent, Brooks said.

Girl Shakes Up Police

The vivid imagination of a 5-year-old girl Sunday led San Clemente police to an emergency call where they expected to find two dead people.

The youngster called police headquarters at 8:37 a.m. and told the switchboard her mother and father had shot themselves and were dead in the upstairs bedroom.

Police, who arrived at the address within moments, found the couple asleep. The girl was reprimanded by her parents.

There was no immediate indication what prompted the girl to phone in the false report.

New Wrinkle

Bank Will Pay Interest First

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

Banks want your money and they're going to unusual lengths to get it. The reason is simple: They make their way in life by making money off the money you entrust to them. The profit generated by a bank represents the spread between what it pays you for money and what it can get from loaning out your money.

In that kind of situation, of course, the best kind of money for a bank is "free" money, funds it doesn't have to pay for. In that category are the demand deposits maintained by corporations and the monies you deposit in checking accounts. They gather no interest and the bank is free to loan them out—to others or even to you.

SAVING ACCOUNTS WORK IN a similar way. A commercial bank is quite willing to pay you 5 percent on your passbook account because it knows it can loan out your funds at a much higher rate. You're well aware of that spread if you hold a bank credit card. You are socked for 18 percent interest on your outstanding balance.

The newest wrinkle in this competition for your available funds comes from an unlikely quarter, Chemical Bank, a New York-based commercial bank that ranks sixth in the nation. Chemical was previously known for its conservative stance. But that apparently won't work in this go-go era and so Chemical has now joined the ranks of the aggressive bank merchandisers.

Chemical's scheme, which has just been introduced in the New York area, will undoubtedly be copied by banks in your town if it succeeds in attracting funds. It's an ingenious appeal to instant greed.

WHAT CHEMICAL HAS DONE IS TO take the traditional certificate of deposit—money you commit to banks over a given period of time to earn a higher interest—and offer to pay you the interest up front. It's akin to the automobile rebates.

Here's how it works: If you buy a two-year savings certificate from Chemical, you can pocket your interest right away instead of waiting. Give Chemical $2,500—and they will give you back $286.37. Give Chemical $99,500—and they will give you back $11,397.44. Immediately. Take the interest and run.

Chemical naturally doesn't mention that it's shading the interest payout in this deal. A two-year savings certificate normally will earn 6% interest. But for the privilege of collecting your interest in advance, you settle for 5.7%.

The thing is, you get your money right away—instant pleasure. And Chemical, throwing banker's caution to the wind, ia pointing out how you might make use of this advance payout, "like vacations and cars and summer camps and appliances and anything else that you need money for now."

THIS MARKETING PLOY BY CHEMICAL Bank is a logical extension of the easy-money, live-today-forget-about-tomorrow philosophy of modern banking in America. The objective is to dredge up lonable funds. From Chemical's standpoint, it's cheap to buy money this way. It's cheap because it realizes it can loan it out at much higher rates.

Bankers used to preach about savings as an important hedge against inflation. But in selling its new prepaid interest plan, Chemical is preaching inflation as a permanent feature of our lives. Thus, it points out that if you deposit $10,000 with Chemical today, the $1,145.48 interest payment you receive "is worth $1,145.48. Odds are it won't be two years from now."

Left unsaid is that, if you accept this scenario, the $10,000 you leave with Chemical is not going to be worth $10,000 when you cash your certificate two years from now.

ALSO LEFT UNSAID IS HOW much money Chemical Bank will earn on the $10,000 you leave there for two years. You can be sure it's more than $1,145.48.

Bankers used to worry about their stuffy image. With a few more ideas like this one from Chemical, they won't have to worry any more.

Grocery Price Drops Expected

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shoppers can expect continued reductions in the price of meat, produce and grocery items this week, a survey shows.

Recent consumer resistance to the price of beef, market executives say, will mean lower prices for many cuts this week, according to the survey.

THE SURVEY indicated the greatest reductions will be in the price for chuck and round cuts.

Chicken prices should drop from two to four cents a pound this week, the survey showed, but pork prices will remain at already high prices with some increases for bacon, hams and spareribs.

IN THE PRODUCE department, tomatoes and bell peppers should be down somewhat this week, but green beans may cost a few cents more per pound. Avocados, lettuce, cucumbers and squash will remain good buys, the survey showed.

Sugar prices are expected to hold steady for another week despite an increase of two cents per pound in wholesale prices.

Answering Service Acquired

Telephone Answering Bureau (TAB) has purchased the Sea Breeze Answering Service of Huntington Beach.

The purchase gives TAB 15 outlets in Orange County, president George Smith said. TAB will assume 140 accounts previously serviced by Sea Breeze, bringing its total to 4,700.

It will also give TAB its first direct outlet in the Huntington Beach area.

"We have been serving the western part of Huntington Beach with remote equipment, but this will be our first office in that area," explained Smith.

The offices are located at 7355 Slater St.

Pay Raised

Plumbers Get $24,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Civil Service Commission has granted the city's 225 plumbers a pay raise of 20 cents an hour, thus boosting their salaries now to about $24,000 a year, and $25,600 by next April.

The commission said the raise is equivalent to unemployment benefits in private industry.

Unless the raise is overruled by the Board of Supervisors, the action will cost the city an additional $85,000 a year.

He's Well Catalogued

The San Clemente Chamber of Commerce gave away a bunch of door prizes at its Fiesta La Christianita Kickoff party Saturday. The big prize of the evening was a $100 Spiegel Catalogue gift certificate.

Roy Hamm, manager of the Sear's catalogue store in San Clemente, won it.

Huntington Man Held in Death Plot

A Huntington Beach man, who police allege wanted to get rid of his ex-wife's boyfriend, was booked into city jail Sunday night on a murder-for-hire charge.

Police said Donald Albert Ray, 35, of 18892 Florida St., Sunday allegedly offered a friend $100 to shoot Richard L. Chapman, 41, of 17391 Keelson Lane.

He claimed Chapman was his ex-wife's boyfriend, police said.

He also offered to furnish the gun, officers asserted.

But instead of taking up the offer, his friend, James H. Alexander, 37, of 7688 Brookwood St., Huntington Beach, called police.

They arrested Ray three hours later. He was still in custody today. Bail was set at $250,000, police said.

BREAK-INS

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of the break-ins will be provided to the Senate committee, Kelley said, "It will be a matter which will be completely presented to the attorney general.

Full disclosure, he added, "is a question only he can answer."

The director said the Justice Department also is reviewing the break-ins to determine their legality.

Although suggesting that he might consider break-ins improper or unwise today, Kelley insisted that those who carried out the break-ins were acting for the good of the nation.

"I do not note in these activities any gross abuse of authority," he asserted. "I see a consistent thread of well-intentioned activity."

A nationwide survey by UPI showed regular gasoline sold on the weekend at 60 to 65 cents a gallon. But regular was as low as 53 cents at self-service or discount stations and as hgigh as 68 cents at freeway or metropolitan stations.

"It's the highest I've ever seen," said W. Bancroft Timmons of the Alabama Motorists Association in Birmingham.

New Ford Plan Ups Gas Cost?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed a complex oil-price plan that could drive up the cost of gasoline seven cents a gallon by 1978, in effect challenging Congress to come up with a better idea if it can.

The proposal would freeze the price of "new" domestic oil, which amounts to about 40 percent of American production, immediately at $13.50 a barrel and let the cost of "old" oil rise in steps to that level in 30 months.

Ford said the resulting boost in petroleum prices would be a "small price to pay" to free the nation from dependence on foreign oil producers.

His message was addressed to Congress. But he delayed sending it to Capitol Hill until later this week in an apparent attempt to buy time to woo support both among lawmakers and the public.

Once the President's message goes formally to Congress, a statutory timeclock starts running and the plan will go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house within five working days.

Appearing in the White House press room, Ford said he hoped Congress "will give this very serious consideration and not take hasty action."

He said he encountered a "minimum of opposition" when he outlined the plan to congressional leaders this morning.

"We had a greater understanding of the complexity of this problem," he added.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been hostile to the prospect of ending price controls on "old" oil, which ccmprises 60 percent of production and now pegged at $5.25 per barrel, on the theory it would send fuel prices skyrocketing.

MEDICS. . .

"I guess I'll just rub out the "ic." he said.

In a letter to Scudder, George Ajimine, director of the mobile intensive care program, suggested it would be "prudent" to make the change before the Consumers Affairs Office forwarded its complaints to the Sheriff's Office and the California Highway Patrol was responsible for ambulance licensing.

Crews Relax

Countdown Moving To Detente Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Apollo's astronauts went joy-riding in jets today while countdowns moved smoothly toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff of the Americans 7½ hours later.

Russia's space chief said on the eve of launch the Apollo-Soyuz rendezvous in orbit would strengthen peace and deepen detente. United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the twin shots dramatize the will of the two nations to work together.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton loosened up for their flight in pursuit of Soyuz by flying T38 jets from nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Russian managers in Moscow reported that Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov also were ready at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8,670 miles from here. They relaxed while engineers prepared to start fueling the Soyuz rocket about 12:20 a.m. PDT — five hours before blastoff.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project), said Adrian G. Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow.

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two-month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Foreign Ministry press chief, Boris N. Petrov, chairman of Russia's Intercosmos Council, said in opening the Moscow news conference that the two ships' union in orbit will "strengthen peace and deepen the process of detente. This is an example of solving many difficulties and mutual problems in an atmosphere of cooperation and mutual understanding."

The Russians open the doubleheader with a 5:20 a.m. PDT blastoff from their desert base east of the Aral Sea. The American pilots, and millions of other persons around the world, will watch the launch on television.

The U.S. launch is set for 12:50 p.m. PDT Tuesday.

"We will see you in a couple of days," Stafford said in a telephone call to Leonov while both crews relaxed Sunday.

The threat of thunderstorms remained the one big worry for project officials although meteorologist Jess Gulick said the trend is for more favorable conditions. There have been lightning and rain in the Cape Canaveral area for eight days and forecasters said more was likely sometime Tuesday.

Lightning or even electrified clouds overhead could delay the shot a day. Scientists were prepared to drop metallic fibers into cumulus clouds in an attempt to short-circuit potential thunderheads. Four aircraft will be constantly measuring the electric potential of clouds 24,000 to 41,000 feet overhead.

The weather forecast at Baikonur was good. Meteorologists expected a high of 91 and northerly winds of 16 to 22 miles per hour.

Capo Beach CofC Donations Okayed

The Capistrano Beach Chamber of Commerce has approved donations to the community bicentennial park project and to the Boys' Club of the South Coast Area.

The chamber voted to allocate $500 for the purchase of two combination park tables and benches for the Pine Park Bicentennial project. The Boys' Club was given a $100 donation for its gym construction fund.

That's No Goldilocks

Mike Schaas, 29, of San Clemente, returned home Sunday to find that someone had, just like in the fairy tale, been eating his food, sleeping in his bed, and watching his TV.

But it wasn't Goldilocks, Schaas reported, to police. Whoever it was also took $40 he had left on a bedroom table.

Police say the mystery visitor left no fingerprints and logged the incident as a burglary.

Saddleback Budget Set For Study

Saddleback Community College District trustees will meet at 7:30 tonight to approve a $16.3 million publication budget and to set salaries for the district's classified and certificated employes.

The budget recommendation contains an increase in the tax rate from the present 70 cents to 92 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Provisions are also included to cover salary increases of 12.1 percent for the college's 90 instructors and an equal percentage for non-teaching employes such as secretaries and janitors.

The 12.1 percent figure represents the cost of living index issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the Los Angeles area.

If trustees approve the wage package, beginning teachers would earn $11,574 and those at the top of the salary range $28,389. Those with Ph.D. or Ed.D. degrees would earn a maximum of $31,864.

For classified employes the new salary schedule would range from $584 per month to a top of $1,929 per month depending on the years of service.

Train Victim Roger Horn Rites Slated

Funeral services for train accident victim Roger W. Horn of San Clemente will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Sunnyside Mortuary in Long Beach.

Mr. Horn died Friday at San Clemente General Hospital from injuries suffered when he was hit last Monday by a Santa Fe freight train. Horn, of 243-B La Paloma, was 37.

The incident occurred at the Linda Lane Railroad crossing. Mr. Horn was running along the outside of the tracks and apparently attempting to catch his dog running ahead of him when he was hit by the train traveling about 40 miles per hour.

Survivors are parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Horn of San Clemente; brother, Ted Horn of Monterey Park; nephew, Doug Horn and uncle, Willis Blenkinfop of Long Beach.

Sunnywide Mortuary is located at 4725 Cherry St., Long Beach.

Job is Done

Engineer Carl Carlsen inspects link in South Laguna Sanitary District's $1.5 million sewer reconstruction project. District has announced completion of the project, in which 9,326 feet of 24-inch sewer line between Aliso Beach and Three Arch Bay was replaced. Project was funded with bonds authorized by district voters in 1973.

Water District's Budget Jumps 15%

The South Coast County Water District Board of Directors has approved a budget of $608,000 for the current fiscal year, up 15 percent over last year's budget, but minus increases in water rates or taxes.

The budget is the largest in the 43 year history of the district which serves South Laguna and parts of Laguna Niguel's coastal developments.

Reflected in the budget are a six percent increase in the cost of water purchased wholesale, a 39 percent increase in pumping expenses, a 31 percent increase in transmission and distribution cost and a 24 percent increase in general and administrative expenses.

"We have some good news for our water users, nevertheless," Thomas Brooks, board president, said. "We can meet all expenses, at least during the coming fiscal year, without an increase in water rates or taxes."

However, Brooks said rising costs are bound to have an effect on rates in the future and the district staff is studying taxes and rate structure in preparation for a possible rate change next year.

The district has had no increase in water rates since 1969 when a 50-percent hike in rates precipitated a storm of protest from water users.

Since then, the cost of water has gone up nearly 50 percent and the cost of power used in pumping has jumped 60 percent, Brooks said.

Girl Shakes Up Police

The vivid imagination of a 5-year-old girl Sunday led San Clemente police to an emergency call where they expected to find two dead people.

The youngster called police headquarters at 8:37 a.m. and told the switchboard her mother and father had shot themselves and were dead in the upstairs bedroom.

Police, who arrived at the address within moments, found the couple asleep. The girl was reprimanded by her parents.

There was no immediate indication what prompted the girl to phone in the false report.

New Wrinkle

Bank Will Pay Interest First

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

Banks want your money and they're going to unusual lengths to get it. The reason is simple: They make their way in life by making money off the money you entrust to them. The profit generated by a bank represents the spread between what it pays you for money and what it can get from loaning out your money.

In that kind of situation, of course, the best kind of money for a bank is "free" money, funds it doesn't have to pay for. In that category are the demand deposits maintained by corporations and the monies you deposit in checking accounts. They gather no interest and the bank is free to loan them out—to others or even to you.

SAVING ACCOUNTS WORK IN a similar way. A commercial bank is quite willing to pay you 5 percent on your passbook account because it knows it can loan out your funds at a much higher rate. You're well aware of that spread if you hold a bank credit card. You are socked for 18 percent interest on your outstanding balance.

The newest wrinkle in this competition for your available funds comes from an unlikely quarter, Chemical Bank, a New York-based commercial bank that ranks sixth in the nation. Chemical was previously known for its conservative stance. But that apparently won't work in this go-go era and so Chemical has now joined the ranks of the aggressive bank merchandisers.

Chemical's scheme, which has just been introduced in the New York area, will undoubtedly be copied by banks in your town if it succeeds in attracting funds. It's an ingenious appeal to instant greed.

WHAT CHEMICAL HAS DONE IS TO take the traditional certificate of deposit—money you commit to banks over a given period of time to earn a higher interest—and offer to pay you the interest up front. It's akin to the automobile rebates.

Here's how it works: If you buy a two-year savings certificate from Chemical, you can pocket your interest right away instead of waiting. Give Chemical $2,500—and they will give you back $286.37. Give Chemical $99,500—and they will give you back $11,397.44. Immediately. Take the interest and run.

Chemical naturally doesn't mention that it's shading the interest payout in this deal. A two-year savings certificate normally will earn 6% interest. But for the privilege of collecting your interest in advance, you settle for 5.7%.

The thing is, you get your money right away—instant pleasure. And Chemical, throwing banker's caution to the wind, ia pointing out how you might make use of this advance payout, "like vacations and cars and summer camps and appliances and anything else that you need money for now."

THIS MARKETING PLOY BY CHEMICAL Bank is a logical extension of the easy-money, live-today-forget-about-tomorrow philosophy of modern banking in America. The objective is to dredge up lonable funds. From Chemical's standpoint, it's cheap to buy money this way. It's cheap because it realizes it can loan it out at much higher rates.

Bankers used to preach about savings as an important hedge against inflation. But in selling its new prepaid interest plan, Chemical is preaching inflation as a permanent feature of our lives. Thus, it points out that if you deposit $10,000 with Chemical today, the $1,145.48 interest payment you receive "is worth $1,145.48. Odds are it won't be two years from now."

Left unsaid is that, if you accept this scenario, the $10,000 you leave with Chemical is not going to be worth $10,000 when you cash your certificate two years from now.

ALSO LEFT UNSAID IS HOW much money Chemical Bank will earn on the $10,000 you leave there for two years. You can be sure it's more than $1,145.48.

Bankers used to worry about their stuffy image. With a few more ideas like this one from Chemical, they won't have to worry any more.

Grocery Price Drops Expected

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shoppers can expect continued reductions in the price of meat, produce and grocery items this week, a survey shows.

Recent consumer resistance to the price of beef, market executives say, will mean lower prices for many cuts this week, according to the survey.

THE SURVEY indicated the greatest reductions will be in the price for chuck and round cuts.

Chicken prices should drop from two to four cents a pound this week, the survey showed, but pork prices will remain at already high prices with some increases for bacon, hams and spareribs.

IN THE PRODUCE department, tomatoes and bell peppers should be down somewhat this week, but green beans may cost a few cents more per pound. Avocados, lettuce, cucumbers and squash will remain good buys, the survey showed.

Sugar prices are expected to hold steady for another week despite an increase of two cents per pound in wholesale prices.

Answering Service Acquired

Telephone Answering Bureau (TAB) has purchased the Sea Breeze Answering Service of Huntington Beach.

The purchase gives TAB 15 outlets in Orange County, president George Smith said. TAB will assume 140 accounts previously serviced by Sea Breeze, bringing its total to 4,700.

It will also give TAB its first direct outlet in the Huntington Beach area.

"We have been serving the western part of Huntington Beach with remote equipment, but this will be our first office in that area," explained Smith.

The offices are located at 7355 Slater St.

Pay Raised

Plumbers Get $24,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Civil Service Commission has granted the city's 225 plumbers a pay raise of 20 cents an hour, thus boosting their salaries now to about $24,000 a year, and $25,600 by next April.

The commission said the raise is equivalent to unemployment benefits in private industry.

Unless the raise is overruled by the Board of Supervisors, the action will cost the city an additional $85,000 a year.

Miami Stars Test Sun Tonight at Big A

Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield, who jumped from the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League, make their World Football League debuts at 7:30 tonight when the Memphis Southmen meet the Southern California Sun in a exhibition at Anaheim Stadium.

And the three new Southmen—Csonka and Kiick, cruching runners, and Warfield, a top-flight receiver — figure to be a big part of what should be an offensive show.

The Southmen won 17 games against only three losses last season, the WFL's first year.

Last week, the Sun rallied in the final four minutes to defeat San Antonio, 36-31, and looked impressive on offense in the process.

Daryle Lamonica, the 13-year NFL veteran, will start at quarterback for Southern California. Last week he played only the first half, competing 8 of 13 passes for 105 yards and a touchdown. This week he again is expected to play only the first 30 minutes, with former Fullerton State star Mike Ernst taking over in the second half.

The Southmen have former Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte of Notre Dame at quarterback with Csonka and Kiick in the backfield. Warfield is one of the wide receivers, the other being Ed Marshall, pro football's top touchdown-making receiver in 1974 with 19 scores.

Ex-Trojan Anthony Davis will be in the backfield for the Sun. He made his first pro start in the San Antonio game gaining 62 yards in 16 carries and racing 64 yards with a kickoff return.

However, the appearance of the Southmen and their three ex-Dolphins is the main attraction.

"They are the class of the league," said Sun coach Tom Fears. "Memphis had a devastating attack last year and they should be a lot better this year."

Not only do the Southmen have the three ex-Miami stars, but they also have a top-flight quarterback in Huarte, ex-Mater Dei High standout. The Heisman Trophy winner completed 154 of 296 passes for 2,416 yards and 24 touchdowns last year.

Defensively, the Southmen are led by Dave Thomas and Seth Miller, who intercepted 10 and 9 passes last year, tops in the WFL.

The Southmen also have a strong offensive line, led by Justin Canale, Ralph Hill, Gary Shirk and Ron Mikolajczyk.

Marshall Blows It; LA Falls

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All-Star pitcher Mike Marshall has an ill-chosen fast ball to credit for the gratitude of the St. Louis Cardinals' Reggie Smith.

"He made a mistake," the free-swinging Smith said Sunday after batting the Cards to a 2-1 win over Marshall and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"It was a nice mistake," added Smith, whose ninth-inning single came at the expense of a fast ball.

"I know what he wanted to do," Smith said. "He wanted to get a quick strike on me. That's something he did to me all last year. He'd get me 0-2 and then carve me up. I think he struck me out six times in a row."

Smith's atonement was savored by teammates Bake McBride, who scored on the hit, and Al Hrabosky, who pitched a laborious single inning of relief. "It was a struggle to get myself up," maintained Hrabosky, 5-2, also the winner Saturday.

"Yesterday was a big day for me," noted the stocky lefthander, who was overlooked for All-star selection but in whose honor a Busch Stadium banner day was held.

"One way I did get myself up was because I knew the two pitchers were Marshall and myself."

Marshall, whose record dipped to 4-6, and Hrabosky staged their late duel after the Cards snapped a scoreless duel in the sixth on Lou Brock's single and Dave Lopes homered for Los Angeles in the eight. Marshall convinced Alston to pitch to Smith in the ninth and then lost the game.

"There's no way he (Alston) can make that kind of decision unless he wants to throw the pitch himself," Marshall said. "Most times I would load the bases," the manager said later. "But Marshall didn't want to do it. With the type of pitcher he is, 90 percent of the time he's going to be able to throw it where he wants to. This time he didn't."

Orr May Jump

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Sun says Bobby Orr of the National Hockey League Boston Bruins may sign a multi-million-dollar contract with the Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association for the 1976-77 season.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying the star defenseman has been offered a $1 million bonus to sign with the Fighting Saints.

Angels Can't Win at Home

Have Lost 11 of Last 12 at Anaheim

Home cooking gives the California Angels indigestion, it would appear.

With a little shove from the Cleveland Indians, the Angels entered the American League record book Sunday when they dropped an 8-7 verdict to the Tribe.

This was Cleveland's 13th straight victory at Anaheim Stadium and matched an American League mark for consecutive wins on the road against one team.

The reeling Halos have lost 11 of their last 12 games at Anaheim Stadium and their Big A season mark is a dismal 18-30.

The New York Yankees once rang up 13 successive victories against the old St. Louis Browns during the 1939-40 seasons.

"Heck, I can't explain it," remarked Cleveland manager Frank Robinson, who played last summer for the Angels. "Remember, I used to be on the other side of the fence."

The Indians, who haven't lost here since July 17, 1973 and won't get another chance until next season, rallied from a three-run deficit using a five-run seventh inning as the springboard to their sweep of the three-game series.

Despite being restricted to one hit by Frank Tanana for five innings, the Indians wound up with 13 hits — four of them by Buddy Bell, whose two-run double climaxed their seventh inning outburst.

Bagley Bags Watkins Glen Road Race

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Bagley of State College, Pa., led from the start Sunday and won the Super Vee auto race at Watkins Glen road racing course.

His average speed was 102.54 miles per hour.

The race preceded the Formula 5000 event scheduled for the 3.37-mile, 11-turn circuit.

Bagley's speed fell short of the record of 103.860 m.p.h. for Super Vee racing here that was set last year by Elliott Forbes-Robinson.

Howdy Holmes of Alexandria, Va., finished second in the Super Vees, a split second ahead of Richard Melville of Kingston, Jamaica. Benny Scott of Hollywood, Calif., was fourth.

The Super Vees, like the Formula 5000 cars, are single-seat, open-cockpit, rear-engine machines.

Melville's third-place finish put him in front in the 12-race Super Vee competition with 70 points and five races to be run.

Eddie Miller of Lakewood, Colo., who had been leading the series, finished eighth Sunday and dropped to third place with 63 points.

British Open Playoff

14th Hole Eagle Counted the Most

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Any golfer who birdies Carnoustie's feared par-five 14th can feel pleased with himself.

Jack Newton of Australia did it in Sunday's playoff for the British Open. But Tom Watson went him one better. He eagled it.

Watson, who was earning a history of choking in major tournaments, went on to win the crown and he said his eagle chip at the 14th was the stroke that counted the most toward the title.

"I hit a good wood for my second shot, and it landed in short grass just off the green, about 30 feet from the pin," Watson said. "I took a chipping wedge for my third shot and it ended in the hole."

Watson went on to a one-under-par 71 over the 7,065-yard, par-72 course and edged Newton by one stroke. It was the fourth time in five days that Watson had shattered par on the famous course, and it helped ease bitter memories of two consecutive U.S. Opens when he blew chances to win.

The 488-yard 14th, where the playoff turned in Watson's favor, is called "the spectacles" because two big round bunkers peer out in front of the green. Watson steered past the bunkers with his second shot but missed the green. The chip, however, was one of the outstanding shots of a memorable tournament.

"I guess we saw Carnoustie in different conditions," Watson said. "But I know we haven't had real Carnoustie weather. I expected it to blow 100 miles per hour."

In the playoff, Watson took the lead with a birdie on the second, then moved two strokes out in front when Newton, an Australian pro who plays the European circuit, bogeyed the third. But Watson bogeyed the fifth and Newton evened it with a birdie on the sixth.

They made the turn in par 36.

Newton, who like Watson is 25 and virtually unknown on the international circuit, led briefly when he birdied the 12th, but he lost a stroke at 13.

Then came the 14th which was played with such perfection that either player should have had reason to puff up with pride. As it turned out, the eagle was the margin Watson needed to put down his image as a kid from Kansas City who choked in the big ones.

At the second hole, Newton hit his second shot left of the green into the gallery. A little boy picked up the ball and stuffed it into his pocket.

"Put that down," the boy's father shouted. "I consulted the crowd and replaced the ball where they said it originally landed," Newton said.

Quad Cities Open

Maltbie Tops Field

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Roger Maltbie charged from seven strokes back to score a course-record 64 and win the $75,000 Quad Cities Open by one stroke over Dave Eichelberger Sunday.

The 24-year-old Maltbie scored his first Professional Golfers Association tournament victory with a total of 275 over the par-71, 6,305-yard Oakwood Country Club course.

Eichelberger started the final round with a three-stroke lead over Terrance Dill, Frank Beard and Howard Twitty, Jr. However, the 31-year-old Waco, Tex., native, despite a birdie putt on the 18th hole, came in with a one-over par 72.

Maltbie, who got his pro card after the PGA's fall qualifying school last November, is in his first year as a pro.

The $15,000 first place prize money marked his first big tournament paycheck.

Mark Hayes finished third after shooting a two-under 69 at 277. Gary McCord came in at 278 with a closing 70. Dill, Twitty and Homero Blancas were at 279, four strokes behind the leader, and Tony Cerda was at 280. Defending champion Dave Stockton was at 281.

Dill and Twitty shot final-round 72s, Beard had a 74, Blancas closed with a 69, Cerda shot 66 and Stockton 72.

Veteran Sam Snead was tied for second, five strokes behind Eichelberger after Friday's round. However, he faded from contention with a 77 Saturday. He came back Sunday with a 68 to finish at two-under 282.

Reds Unbeatable

Rose Calls Team Best in 13 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — In the beginning, it was to be a match race of bluebloods, with pitching-rich Los Angeles rating the edge over Cincinnati's firepower. But the Reds have turned it into a midsummer's nightmare for the rest of the National League West.

Once-struggling Cincinnati has wiped out a 7½-game deficit to the Dodgers and has all but made a one-horse race of the West.

"They can't catch us," says Joe Morgan, tossing down the gauntlet.

And for the bottom four teams in the West — San Francisco, San Diego, Atlanta and Houston — Morgan appears correct. Even the chance that the Dodgers can catch up is fading rapidly.

The Reds, embittered bridesmaids in 1974 despite a 98-victory season that was second best in the major leagues, are off to the fastest start by a National League team since 1970 when they won 70 of their first 100 games and stormed to the division title by 14½ games.

This year, they have won 61 of 90 in their attempt to bury the opposition. Their phenomenal pace of 10 consecutive victories, 19 in the last 21 games and 43 in the last 53 had left the Dodgers in the dust, 12½ games back at the midway mark.

Morgan has been the burr under the saddle, spurring the club with his hot bat and base stealing. "We won't let up. We've got too many guys here pushing each other," said the 5-foot-7 sparkplug, who is hitting .344 with 80 walks, 40 stolen bases and 60 runs batted in.

The Reds are leading the league in hitting — and confidence. "We're a hungry team because we've never won it all," says Pete Rose, who appears headed for another 200-hit season with a .319 average. "I don't think we'll do anything but get better," said Rose, in anticipation of the return in the next couple of weeks of ace lefty Don Gullett, 9-3, who's been out a month with a broken thumb.

The basis for Cincinnati optimism flows from the fact the Reds are noted second-half finishers, winning at a 63 percent clip over the last half since 1972. Two years ago, after trailing Los Angeles by 10½ games on the first of July, the Reds exploded to win 60 of their last 86 games to overtake the Dodgers. A year ago, they fell behind by 11, yet won 60 percent of their games from July on to draw within 1½ games before succumbing.

The Dodgers, hard-hit by injuries, have found runs hard to come by. Only Steve Garvey, the league's MVP, has maintained his consistency, while Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith strain to offset the loss of Tommy John.

The major disappointment has been Houston, burned badly through trades that backfired. The Astros have staggered into last place and enter the second half facing a 29-game deficit. The third-place Giants trail by 19 games. San Diego and Atlanta are 20 and 21 back.

Which leaves the Dodgers, down 13 games in the lost column, with the only hope of overtaking the raging Red Machine, bolstered by the switch of Rose to third base, the blossoming of slugging George Foster (15 home runs) and .311-hitter Ken Griffey and the emergence of young pitchers Will McEnaney, Rawly Eastwick and Pat Darcy.

If the Dodgers are going to make a move, they'll have to do it soon. Over the next 2½ weeks, the two clubs meet seven times. After those series, they meet four more times before the season ends.

The Dodgers remain plagued by injuries. Joe Ferguson is out for the season with a broken wrist. It is not known if John will make it back this season. Sutton has been slowed by a groin injury. Bill Russell has been ineffective since returning from a series of injuries. Jim Wynn is still bothered by a sore throwing arm.

All the while, the Reds roll on. They'll soon have Gullett back to join Jack Billingham, 10-3, Gary Nolan, 8-5, and Clay Kirby, 7-3, in the starting rotation.

Anderson has gone to a different lineup almost every day, sometimes using Johnny Bench (19 home runs, 73 rbi) in the outfield and making good use of platooned outfielders Foster, Griffey, Merv Rettenmund, Cesar Geronimo and Dan Driessen.

"It's the best Cincinnati team I've been on in 13 years here," said Rose. "We've got a great bench. It doesn't matter who we put out there."

BILL MULLIGAN

Saddleback To Hire Mulligan

By CRAIG SHEFF
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Bill Mulligan, one of the top JC basketball coaches in the state, is expected to be named the new basketball coach at Saddleback College tonight, the Daily Pilot has learned exclusively.

Mulligan's appointment is subject to approval by the Saddleback College board of trustees.

Mulligan, 45, has been the basketball coach at Riverside City College for the past nine years. Prior, he was the head coach at Long Beach Poly High for five years and was an assistant at USC for two seasons before switching to Riverside.

At Poly, Mulligan won CIF titles in 1960 and '64, finished second in '61 and fourth in '62.

Mulligan has won five Mission Conference championships, including the last four. His teams have compiled a 78-17 record over the past three seasons and he has a 55-7 Mission Conference mark in the last four years.

Mulligan outlined two reasons why he applied for the Saddleback job.

"It's 105 degrees in Riverside during the day and I know it's not that hot down there. And we lost four high schools in our area in the last month to other districts. Corona and Norco are going to Chaffey and Elsinore and Perris will go to Mt. San Jacinto," says Mulligan.

Mulligan will succeed Leroy Stevens, who resigned recently after serving as the head coach for seven seasons.

End of Summer?

U.S. Nearing 70-cent Gas

By United Press International

With the travel season at its peak, the price of regular gasoline soared above 65 cents a gallon in many areas of the nation over the weekend.

Retailers said it was certain to reach 70 cents before summer ends.

"All this talk about a 70-cent gallon, which seemed so outlandish months ago, is not that far off," said Forrett Orr, Vermont energy directory.

Some dealers predicted regular will cost $1 a gallon by the end of the year. A Los Angeles dealer said if the wholesale price reaches 70 cents a gallon by Thanksgiving, as he expects, he'll charge a dollar at the pump.

But Lou Maggiotto, manager of a Mobil station in Buffalo, N.Y., said motorists won't stand for it.

"The American public will blow up the storage tanks first," he said.

An oil industry economist doubted the price could go to a $1. But, he said, "I cannot say verily, verily, the price can't go to a buck."

To get to $1, he said, it would require another Arab oil embargo, "wild action" on prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, removal of the $5.25 per barrel ceiling on "old" domestic oil and another $1 hike in the import duty and high demand.

Most dealers think the price will peak at 70 or 75 cents this year.

Denzel Kennemer, who runs a Phillips station in Austin, Tex., predicted the price would jump 10 to 15 cents from the 60-cent level by September.

"I doubt we'll see $1 a gallon before the end of the year, unless we get another embargo," said another Texas retailer, Joe Zylka Jr. of Dallas. "But I do expect $1 a gallon by next summer."

A nationwide survey by UPI showed regular gasoline sold on the weekend at 60 to 65 cents a gallon. But regular was as low as 53 cents at self-service or discount stations and as hgigh as 68 cents at freeway or metropolitan stations.

"It's the highest I've ever seen," said W. Bancroft Timmons of the Alabama Motorists Association in Birmingham.

Ford Bares Oil Price Formula

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed a complex oil-price plan that could drive up the cost of gasoline seven cents a gallon by 1978, in effect challenging Congress to come up with a better idea if it can.

The proposal would freeze the price of "new" domestic oil, which amounts to about 40 percent of American production, immediately at $13.50 a barrel and let the cost of "old" oil rise in steps to that level in 30 months.

Ford said the resulting boost in petroleum prices would be a "small price to pay" to free the nation from dependence on foreign oil producers.

His message was addressed to Congress. But he delayed sending it to Capitol Hill until later this week in an apparent attempt to buy time to woo support both among lawmakers and the public.

Once the President's message goes formally to Congress, a statutory timeclock starts running and the plan will go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house within five working days.

Appearing in the White House press room, Ford said he hoped Congress "will give this very serious consideration and not take hasty action."

He said he encountered a "minimum of opposition" when he outlined the plan to congressional leaders this morning.

"We had a greater understanding of the complexity of this problem," he added.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been hostile to the prospect of ending price controls on "old" oil, which comprises 60 percent of production and now pegged at $5.25 per barrel, on the theory it would send fuel prices skyrocketing.

The control law is due to expire Aug. 31 and Ford warned he would veto any extension approved by Congress unless lawmakers accept his "reasonable compromise."

Laguna Hills Market Hit By 2 Bandits

Two men robbed the Laguna Hills 7-Eleven Market of an undisclosed amount of cash Sunday night in the store's second holdup in five months.

Clerk Mark Hanson, 19, was on duty and the store, at 25785 La Paz Road, had no customers when the two men entered the store at about 11:45 p.m.

Hanson reported to sheriff's deputies that one man simulated a gun under his coat but did not draw any weapon.

After taking the money, the two men took off down La Paz Road toward the San Diego Freeway. Sheriff's deputies said there may have been a third suspect waiting in the bandits' car.

The amount of cash taken in a March holdup at the convenience store also was undisclosed.

Rome Thieves Net Millions

ROME (AP) — Burglars broke into the suburban branch of a Rome bank over the weekend and stole jewels and other valuables from safe-deposit boxes, police reported today. One report estimated the take at $10 million.

Police said, however, they could not set a value on the theft before making a careful check with bank officials and clients about contents of the 200 safe-deposit boxes cleaned out by the robbers.

A New Phase of Life

This is the final article in a Daily Pilot five-part series on Orange County nursing homes.

"What is the Worst of Woes that Wait on Age?
To View Each Loved One Blotted From Life's Page,
And be Alone on Earth, as I am now."
—Lord Byron

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Time passes. As it does, you and those you love grow older.

And the day may come sooner than you think when you will need the care a nursing home provides, either for yourself or someone close to you.

GRANVILLE

For a younger person recovering from an illness, injury or surgery, a nursing home stay will be much less expensive but not too different from recuperating in a hospital.

But for an older person, a doctor's order sending them to a skilled nursing facility can mean the beginning of a new phase in their life.

Physical condition will tell some their stay will be a long one, perhaps for the rest of their lives.

THEY WILL BE among strangers in their new home, most living apart from family and friends for the first time.

And many who have devoted their lives to caring for others—as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers—will suddenly find themselves among the cared for, dependant on the care they receive from others to see them through each day.

How They Care

A Daily Pilot Series On Elderly Care In Orange County Nursing Homes-1975

To the nursing home operator goes the responsibility not only of tending to their aged patients' health needs but also their mental and social well being.

How will you select the right home for yourself or someone you love?

Even those close to the nursing home scene in Orange County say it's not always an easy decision.

"THINGS CAN CHANGE so fast in a nursing home that I might, for example, be willing to put my mother in a particular home today but not tomorrow," Ruth Chassane said recently.

Mrs. Chassane monitors the care of Medi-Cal patients for the county Social Services Department.

County Health Department director of health services, Dr. Thomas Hamilton, also sees ups and downs in patient care as characteristic of many nursing homes.

"New owners can make a big difference. So can a change in administrators or a new nursing director," said Hamilton.

"We sometimes have difficulty keeping a track of what's going on. And it's probably doubly difficult for the public," he added.

Flooded Offices A Pain for Doctors

A broken water line Sunday flooded a Mission Viejo medical-dental complex causing an undetermined amount of damage before being mopped up six hours later by a crew of 23 firemen.

Fire Capt. Tim Sappok said the three-quarter-inch line broke in one of the corridor walls sometime around 1 a.m. Sunday and flowed continuously until discovered at 8 a.m.

The water stood two inches deep on the bottom floor of the La Paz Medical-Dental Building at La Paz Road and Chrisanta Drive when firemen began their worlk.

Sappok said the water found its way into the building's elevator shaft and flooded it with six to eight feet of water.

Firemen used pumps and a water vacuum to clear the flood. Firemen were supplied with box lunches by the Mission Viejo Company, owner of the building.

Mission Viejo Company officials today were attempting to determine how much damage the water had caused.

Home Destroyed

LAKE ISABELLA (AP)—A $40,000 home has been destroyed and another 100 were briefly threatened by a brush fire that charred 300 acres along the shore of Lake Isabella.

Special Services Deputy to Speak

Raul Ramos, chief deputy in charge of special services for the Orange County Sheriff's Department, will speak to the Saddleback Area Coordinating Council Wednesday.

Ramos will describe the functions and operating policies of the department and discuss its future, SACC spokesmen said. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the community room of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan, 23688 El Toro Road, El Toro.

Saddleback Board Mulls Pay Tonight

Saddleback Community College District trustees will meet at 7:30 tonight to approve a $16.3 million publication budget and to set salaries for the district's classified and certificated employes.

The budget recommendation contains an increase in the tax rate from the present 70 cents to 92 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Provisions are also included to cover salary increases of 12.1 percent for the college's 90 instructors and an equal percentage for non-teaching employes such as secretaries and janitors.

The 12.1 percent figure represents the cost of living index issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the Los Angeles area.

If trustees approve the wage package, beginning teachers would earn $11,574 and those at the top of the salary range $28,389. Those with Ph.D. or Ed.D. degrees would earn a maximum of $31,864.

Meeting Slated Thursday

El Toro Homeowners taking first steps to form a municipal advisory council (MAC) have called a meeting for Thursday to see if homeowners in other communities might want to join them.

The MAC is a panel of locally elected representatives which gathers community opinion on local issues of health and safety, parks and recreation, roads, traffic and land planning and makes recommendations to the Orange County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors, based in Santa Ana, now make all final decisions for the Saddleback Valley's various non-city developments.

On first discussing the possibilities for a MAC, El Toro homeowners proposed it for their community only — territory served by County Service Area Six.

However, since beginning their campaign for the new panel, El Toro Homeowners Association leaders say they have had indications of interest from people in Laguna Hills, South Laguna Hills and Aegean Hills.

"We don't want to exclude anyone," said Foster Ouellet, member of an ad hoc committee organized to work on MAC formation.

"The MAC could include one service area, or it could include two, or any combination," he said.

A MAC serving Mission Viejo — County Service Area Nine — has been in operation since last November. It is the first and only MAC serving an Orange County unincorporated community.

Two years ago, before the Mission Viejo MAC was organized, the Saddleback Area Coordinating Council (SACC) advocated a Saddleback Valley-wide MAC including Mission Viejo, Laguna Hills and El Toro.

But leaders of the Mission Viejo Homeowners Association opted to proceed with an independent MAC and won authorization to form it from supervisors last summer.

With that, the push for a Valley-wide MAC subsided and little has been said about it since.

William Monoson, president of the El Toro Homeowners Association, said funding for a second Saddleback Valley MAC would come from county service area funds on a system like that

FBI Chief Says Break-ins Used

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Kelley said that he has not been asked to authorize any break-ins since becoming FBI director two years ago. He said he would present any such requests to the attorney general and would be guided by his opinion.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries in securing information related to the security of the nation," Keeley said in response to questions.

He defended the break-ins and said FBI personnel "acted in good faith" in authorizing and conducting them.

In 1966, Kelley said, "all such activity was terminated" except for break-ins considered necessary for foreign-related counterintelligence activity.

He declined to say how many break-ins have been conducted since 1966 or whether there was a substantial reduction in the number.

The director said he could not discuss many details because he expects to testify on matters before the Senate committee investigating Central Intelligence Agency and FBI intelligence activities.

He refused to identify the targets of the break-ins but said he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence.

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of the break-ins will be provided to the Senate committee, Kelley said, "It will be a matter which will be completely presented to the attorney general.

Full disclosure, he added, "is a question only he can answer."

The director said the Justice Department also is reviewing the break-ins to determine their legality.

Mission Countdown Near End

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Apollo's astronauts went joy-riding in jets today while countdowns moved smoothly toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff of the Americans 7½ hours later.

Russia's space chief said on the eve of launch the Apollo-Soyuz rendezvous in orbit would strengthen peace and deepen detente. United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the twin shots dramatize the will of the two nations to work together.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton loosened up for their flight in pursuit of Soyuz by flying T38 jets from nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Russian managers in Moscow reported that Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov also were ready at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8,670 miles from here. They relaxed while engineers prepared to start fueling the Soyuz rocket about 12:20 a.m. PDT — five hours before blastoff.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project), said Adrian G. Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow.

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two-month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Foreign Ministry press chief, Boris N. Petrov, chairman of Russia's Intercosmos Council, said in opening the Moscow news conference that the two ships' union in orbit will "strengthen peace and deepen the process of detente. This is an example of solving many difficulties and mutual problems in an atmosphere of cooperation and mutual understanding."

The campaign for a MAC for El Toro was given a push by a decision by county supervisors to allow greater density in a parcel of land around the Lake Forest fountain than the homeowners' association favored.

In doing so, supervisors sided with Occidental Land, Inc., developers of Lake Forest which is a third of El Toro.

"This whole thing has surfaced over the fountain," Ouellet said. "Now the Lake Forest residents want a voice against Big Brother (Occidental)."

Trustees To Ponder Insurance

Trustees of the Saddleback Valley Unified School District will meet in special session tonight to hear from insurance agents interested in doing business with the district.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of Los Alisos Intermediate School, 25171 Moor Ave., Mission Viejo.

The session is a follow-up to a presentation this week from the district insurance committee which recommended a health and welfare benefit program costing the district $1,058,800 per year.

The committee, which includes representatives from three employe organizations, the district business manager and the insurance broker of record, sent specifications to 79 companies and received bids from 25 carriers.

Benefits available to Saddleback Unified employes include a health plan with Blue Shield with a $300,000 major medical rider, a dental program providing for 80 percent coinsurance and $500 lifetime maximum for orthodontia; and life insurance benefits covering life, accidental death and dismemberment coverage for employes and their dependents.

The committee has recommended:

— Increasing the dental program, including stepping up orthodontia benefits to $1,000.

— Increasing the medical coverage.

— Switching to a different carrier and a dividend plan for life insurance with no increase in coverage.

Krishnas In Court Fighting Fair Ban

A petition demanding that the Orange County Fair permit saffron-robed cultists of the Hare Krishna Society to distribute leaflets and chant meditations was under consideration today by U.S. District Court officers in San Francisco.

The paperwork was filed Friday, following a dispute in philosophy between the Krishna consciousness group and operators of the Orange County Fair.

Krishna worshipers claim they have been refused permission to proselytize among everyone from Catholics to Unitarians to agnostics who patronize the fair.

"That's really not true," a spokesman for the fair said today.

Missionaries of the robed cult which gowns itself in saffron-orange or white colored robes and hands out esoteric leaflets to the jingle of finger-cymbals last week asked permission to do so at the fair.

They were refused, on grounds that individuals unimpressed with their devotion to Krishna doctrine might litter the 165-acre fairgrounds with Krishna literature.,

Lawyers for the Krishna Consciousness Society in Los Angeles immediately filed the petition in federal court, citing a Northern California legal action occurring last week.

A judge there issued an injunction ordering the Alameda County Fair to allow Krishna cultists to distribute their gospel through the ritual of Sankirtan, or soliciting funds for the temple and disseminating religious literature.

Fairgrounds Manager James Porterfield was tied up in operations of the fair — estimated to draw 250,000 persons during its 10-day run — and could not be reached for comment today.

A spokesman, however, said while the fair's sales manager turned down the Krishna request to distribute literature on grounds of possible litter problems, they were told they can rent an exhibit booth.

"We have several religious groups doing that," said the fair spokesman.

The lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court by the group renowned for chanting "Hare Krishna," handing out flowers and shunning meat names the 32nd Agricultural Association (the Orange County Fair Board) Orange County Sheriff Bradley Gates and District Attorney Cecil Hicks as defendants.

Race Lead Still Held By Ragtime

The 62-foot sloop Ragtime from Long Beach continued to lead the field in the Transpacific Yacht Race Sunday after it was reported within 325 miles of Honolulu.

Transpac officials said if Ragtime continues its pace, it could finish the race late Monday morning. Good winds were reported throughout the fleet, with Ragtime reporting approximately 18 knots.

The yacht is followed by Ondine, with 354 miles to go, and Windward Passage third, 477 miles from Honolulu.

Following the three frontrunners were Sunset Boulevard with 515 miles to go and Warrior, 525 miles out.

The yacht Enterprise, skippered by Brooks Barnhill of San Pedro, reported Saturday night she was taking water aboard. Barnhill found the leak, repaired it and is proceeding toward Honolulu despite steering problems, race officials said.

Several boats reported radio problems as batteries began to run low.

Hamilton 'Excess'; Toro Land Swap?

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Hamilton Air Force Base in Marin County, which has been eyed by the Irvine Company for a possible land swap, has been declared excess government property.

But any speculation on whether the company will trade land in the noise-bombarded area around El Toro Marine Corps Air Station for the 1,485-acre Hamilton base is premature, company spokesman Martin Brower said today.

Speculation about an imminent land swap, said Brower, has touched off controversy in the Marin County City of Novato, with arguments for and against Irvine Company acquisition and development of the land appearing almost daily in the local press.

Company vice president Tom Wolff has said that the company must have assurance that proposed developmeut would be allowed before it would move to acquire the land.

Broad swaths of land around the El Toro base cannot be developed by the Irvine Company due to the noise and potential crash hazard.

The federal government, said Brower, has offered to exchange surplus land elsewhere for corridors around El Toro. The Hamilton base, he said, is only one parcel under consideration.

The company, he said, is undertaking a preliminary study of Hamilton base and its possibilities for development.

However, he added, the company recently urged a proposed inspection tour of Irvine Company developments by Novato city officials be put off "because it's too premature."

Rep. John Burton (D-San Francisco) had asked that declaring the Hamilton base excess land be put off so Marin County officials could have more time to urge other federal agencies to move onto the deactivated base. The House Armed Services Subcommittee had delayed the decision six months.

Under procedures for government land, federal agencies will have first choice, then the land will be offered to state and local governments.

Among the suggestions for use of the land other than by the Irvine Company, said Brower, is for construction of a Marin County Airport.

Irvine Drug Sweep Nets 9 Arrests

Further Seizures Expected

Nine narcotics suspects have been arrested by Irvine vice officers on charges ranging from possession of drug paraphernalia to drug sales.

The series of arrests, which began last Tuesday, was the first coordinated narcotics enforcement operation in Irvine since the mass Operation Irving of more than a year ago.

Five adults and four juveniles were arrested and more arrests are expected by the end of the week, said vice Lt. James Blaylock. The fourth juvenile was arrested today.

The arrests, which ended a two-month investigation into sales of PCP, an animal tranquilizer, were the first felony arrests by the Irvine Police Department.

Daniel R. Pettit, 20, of 4051 Germainder Way, Irvine, and John A. Boito, 18, of 18151 Dewberry Way, Irvine, were arrested on charges alleging sale of drugs to minors.

Three other adults were arrested, given citations, and released.

Chris W. Clark, 19, of 5391 Sierra Verde, Irvine, was cited for possession of paraphernalia. Steven E. Kelsey, 21, of 526 C Bernard St., Costa Mesa, was cited for possession of paraphernalia. Larry A. Fuhrman, 22, of 11595 Iris Ave., Fountain Valley, was also cited for possession of paraphernalia.

The four juveniles, ranging in age from 15 to 17, were arrested on drug sales charges.

The arrests, said Blaylock, are the first evidence of stepped up narcotics enforcement in Irvine under the new police department.

Narcotics officers, he said, bought $200 worth of what was represented as cannabinol. Most

Ventura Trial For Vallerga

Orange County Assessor Jack Vallerga was ordered today to stand trial on criminal charges in Ventura County.

Superior Court Judge Everett Dickey told Vallerga he must report to Dept. 9 of the Ventura County Superior Court at 9 a.m. next Monday for his trial on seven criminal charges brought against him in an Orange County Grand Jury indictment.

Judge Dickey called Ventura County, which is about 110 miles from Orange County, the most convenient for the witnesses and others who will be involved in the trial.

It was on July 3 that Dickey granted the change of venue requested by Vallerga's attorney John Cahill.

The judge agreed with the petition filed by Cahill that said it would be difficult for his client to receive a fair trial in Orange County because of the extensive amount of pretrial publicity.

At his trial in Ventura County, Vallerga will answer to seven criminal charges related to the sale of a computerized assessor's appraisal system to Spartanburg County, South Carolina.

Included among the charges are embezzlement of public funds and grand theft.

Those charges center on $6,000 paid by Spartanburg to former assessor Andrew Hinshaw for what was termed consultant fees.

The grand jury charged that

A New Phase of Life

This is the final article in a Daily Pilot five-part series on Orange County nursing homes.

"What is the Worst of Woes that Wait on Age?
To View Each Loved One Blotted From Life's Page,
And be Alone on Earth, as I am now."
—Lord Byron

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Time passes. As it does, you and those you love grow older.

And the day may come sooner than you think when you will need the care a nursing home provides, either for yourself or someone close to you.

GRANVILLE

For a younger person recovering from an illness, injury or surgery, a nursing home stay will be much less expensive but not too different from recuperating in a hospital.

But for an older person, a doctor's order sending them to a skilled nursing facility can mean the beginning of a new phase in their life.

Physical condition will tell some their stay will be a long one, perhaps for the rest of their lives.

THEY WILL BE among strangers in their new home, most living apart from family and friends for the first time.

And many who have devoted their lives to caring for others—as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers—will suddenly find themselves among the cared for, dependant on the care they receive from others to see them through each day.

How They Care

A Daily Pilot Series On Elderly Care In Orange County Nursing Homes-1975

To the nursing home operator goes the responsibility not only of tending to their aged patients' health needs but also their mental and social well being.

How will you select the right home for yourself or someone you love?

Even those close to the nursing home scene in Orange County say it's not always an easy decision.

"THINGS CAN CHANGE so fast in a nursing home that I might, for example, be willing to put my mother in a particular home today but not tomorrow," Ruth Chassane said recently.

Mrs. Chassane monitors the care of Medi-Cal patients for the county Social Services Department.

County Health Department director of health services, Dr. Thomas Hamilton, also sees ups and downs in patient care as characteristic of many nursing homes.

"New owners can make a big difference. So can a change in administrators or a new nursing director," said Hamilton.

"We sometimes have difficulty keeping a track of what's going on. And it's probably doubly difficult for the public," he added.

FBI Chief Admits Security Break-ins

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Gallon of Gas Seen Rising To 70 Cents

By United Press International

With the travel season at its peak, the price of regular gasoline soared above 65 cents a gallon in many areas of the nation over the weekend.

Retailers said it was certain to reach 70 cents before summer ends.

"All this talk about a 70-cent gallon, which seemed so outlandish months ago, is not that far off," said Forrett Orr, Vermont energy directory.

Some dealers predicted regular will cost $1 a gallon by the end of the year. A Los Angeles dealer said if the wholesale price reaches 70 cents a gallon by Thanksgiving as he expects, he'll charge a dollar at the pump.

But Lou Maggiotto, manager of a Mobil station in Buffalo, N.Y., said motorists won't stand for it.

"The American public will blow up the storage tanks first," he said.

An oil industry economist doubted the price could go to a $1. But, he said, "I cannot say verily, verily, the price can't go to a buck."

To get to $1, he said, it would require another Arab oil embargo, "wild action" on prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, removal of the $5.25 per barrel ceiling on "old" domestic oil and another $1 hike in the import duty and high demand.

Most dealers think the price will peak at 70 or 75 cents this year.

Huntington Man Held in Death Plot

A Huntington Beach man, who police allege wanted to get rid of his ex-wife's boyfriend, was booked into city jail Sunday night on a murder-for-hire charge.

Police said Donald Albert Ray, 35, of 18892 Florida St., Sunday allegedly offered a friend $100 to shoot Richard L. Chapman, 41, of 17391 Keelson Lane.

He claimed Chapman was his ex-wife's boyfriend, police said.

He also offered to furnish the gun, officers asserted.

But instead of taking up the offer, his friend, James H. Alexander, 37, of 7688 Brookwood St., Huntington Beach, called police.

They arrested Ray three hours later. He was still in custody today. Bail was set at $250,000, police said.

DRUGS

of the packets of powder were filled with PCP, he said.

Drug use among Irvine youth, said Blaylock, was believed to drop off after the Operation Irving arrests, but since then have climbed back to former levels.

Issuing citations rather than booking suspects for the lesser charges, he said, is to become a standard procedure for Irvine police. He said it is not an attempt to anticipate a bill recently signed into law lessening penalties for marijuana possession. That law would require police to issue traffic ticket-style citations to people caught with less than an ounce of marijuana.

"We're not after big roundups," said Blaylock, "We are pursuing an ongoing program of enforcement, a more constant program, rather than going after isolated big busts."

Porno Flicks In Balboa Raise Hackles

Irate Balboa residents and city councilmen will air their views tonight on the issue of pornography on the Peninsula.

And lawyers will do the same Thursday morning in the first local court test of "Deep Throat" and "The Devil in Miss Jones."

Tonight's discussion will include the presentation to councilmen of yet another petition by residents seeking an end to the X-rated offerings of the Balboa Pussycat Theater.

City Attorney Dennis O'Neil will report on the progress of the local prosecution of what police consider obscene offerings at the old theater.

The first court appearance following a lengthy series of raids at the movie house is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday before Municipal Court Judge Donald Dungan.

The firm operating the theater was served last Thursday with documents summoning lawyers to court in a hearing to determine whether the theater should be shut down.

The court action amounts to the first Orange County hearing since the latest decision by the U.S. Supreme Court which significantly altered the law related to local interpretation of obscenity.

Essentially, the court ruled that obscenity cases must run the full course through local and state courts before entering the federal arena.

Tennis Team Will Teach In Summer

Irvine's University High School varsity tennis team took a look at the tight summer job market and decided to spend the summer on the tennis courts—teaching.

Through an agreement with the Irvine Unified School District, five members of the team and coach Michael Bova are offering lessons on four University High School courts Monday through Saturday.

About 100 students have signed up for the one-hour lessons, said Bova, leaving plenty of room for more.

The trial summer tennis instruction program, Bova said, serves the purposes of keeping the team on the courts and giving members a chance to earn some money.

The team members earn about $3.25 an hour, Bova said, with all extra receipts going to make improvements at the tennis facility.

By the end of the summer, Bova said, the program should have generated about $1,000 for facilities like additional backdrops and supplies for next season.

The team members—Brad Faltermeier, Gloria Faltermeier, John Faltermeier, Rick Rabb and Steve Antti—took University High to the CIF playoffs two years running, said Bova.

The players offer an eight-week program and two four-week courses. Those interested may sign up at the Uni High tennis courts.

Hours for junior lessons are 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and noon to 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Adults lessons are scheduled from 4 to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday and noon to 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The lessons offer a maximum ratio of four students per teacher, about half the ratio of other programs offered in the city, said Bova.

College Budget Weighed

Saddleback Community College District trustees will meet at 7:30 tonight to approve a $16.3 million publication budget and to set salaries for the district's classified and certificated employes.

The budget recommendation contains an increase in the tax rate from the present 70 cents to 92 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Provisions are also included to cover salary increases of 12.1 percent for the college's 90 instructors and an equal percentage for non-teaching employes such as secretaries and janitors.

The 12.1 percent figure represents the cost of living index issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the Los Angeles area.

If trustees approve the wage package, beginning teachers would earn $11,574 and those at the top of the salary range $28,389. Those with Ph.D. or Ed.D. degrees would earn a maximum of $31,864.

For classified employes the new salary schedule would range from $584 per month to a top of $1,929 per month depending on the years of service.

he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence.

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of the break-ins will be provided to the Senate committee, Kelley said, "It will be a matter which will be completely presented to the attorney general."

Full disclosure, he added, "is a question only he can answer."

The director said the Justice Department also is reviewing the break-ins to determine their legality.

GAS. . .

Denzel Kennemer, who runs a Phillips station in Austin, Tex., predicted the price would jump 10 to 15 cents from the 60-cent level by September.

"I doubt we'll see $1 a gallon before the end of the year, unless we get another embargo," said another Texas retailer, Joe Zylka Jr. of Dallas. "But I do expect $1 a gallon by next summer."

A nationwide survey by UPI showed regular gasoline sold on the weekend at 60 to 65 cents a gallon. But regular was as low as 53 cents at self-service or discount stations and as high as 68 cents at freeway or metropolitan stations.

"It's the highest I've ever seen," said W. Bancroft Timmons of the Alabama Motorists Association in Birmingham.

The survey also showed:

—An adequate supply of gasoline is available for summer motoring. All stations reported at least adequate supplies, if not a surplus. Many said oil companies were pressuring them to sell more. Don Bryans, who runs a Shell station in suburban Detroit, said a Shell representative told him to stay open longer or "We'll board the place up."

—Despite the higher prices, Americans are not canceling vacations, although they are taking shorter trips. A Florida Auto Club official said many are taking "one last fling" fearing gasoline supplies will run out or will be priced beyond their pocketbook.

—Americans are puzzled by the sudden surge in price at a time when the supply is high. They variously blame oil companies, President Ford's energy policy and foreign oil producing countries. New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson asked the Federal Energy Administration to investigate, saying the sudden increase makes Americans even more suspicious of large oil companies.

Police Probe Boat Sinking Off Newport

Newport Beach police said today they are still investigating the mysterious sinking of the "Lani Kai" and are checking into witness reports that three persons were aboard the craft the day before it sank.

The 28-foot Chris Craft was discovered almost completely submerged two miles off the Balboa pier early Friday. No crew members could be found on or near the boat.

Detective Ken Smith said witnesses reported seeing three young persons aboard the boat at its slip at Newport Dunes last Thursday afternoon.

Boat owner Tommy Finklea, Sr. of Anaheim said he was last at his boat on Tuesday and that he had left the key in the ignition.

The cause of the sinking has been attributed to a disconnected water inlet line that allowed sea water to fill the boat, according to the Coast Guard.

Krishnas In Court Fighting Fair Ban

A petition demanding that the Orange County Fair permit saffron-robed cultists of the Hare Krishna Society to distribute leaflets and chant meditations was under consideration today by U.S. District Court officers in San Francisco.

The paperwork was filed Friday, following a dispute in philosophy between the Krishna consciousness group and operators of the Orange County Fair.

Krishna worshipers claim they have been refused permission to proselytize among everyone from Catholics to Unitarians to agnostics who patronize the fair.

"That's really not true," a spokesman for the fair said today.

Missionaries of the robed cult which gowns itself in saffron-orange or white colored robes and hands out esoteric leaflets to the jingle of finger-cymbals last week asked permission to do so at the fair.

They were refused, on grounds that individuals unimpressed with their devotion to Krishna doctrine might litter the 165-acre fairgrounds with Krishna literature.

Lawyers for the Krishna Consciousness Society in Los Angeles immediately filed the petition in federal court, citing a Northern California legal action occurring last week.

A judge there issued an injunction ordering the Alameda County Fair to allow Krishna cultists to distribute their gospel through the ritual of Sankirtan, or soliciting funds for the temple and disseminating religious literature.

Fairgrounds Manager James Porterfield was tied up in operations of the fair — estimated to draw 250,000 persons during its 10-day run — and could not be reached for comment today.

A spokesman, however, said while the fair's sales manager turned down the Krishna request to distribute literature on grounds of possible litter problems, they were told they can rent an exhibit booth.

Director Confirms FBI 'Break-ins'

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Kelley said that he has not been asked to authorize any break-ins since becoming FBI director two years ago. He said he would present any such requests to the attorney general and would be guided by his opinion.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries in securing information related to the security of the nation," Keeley said in response to questions.

He defended the break-ins and said FBI personnel "acted in good faith" in authorizing and conducting them.

In 1966, Kelley said, "all such activity was terminated" except for break-ins considered necessary for foreign-related counterintelligence activity.

He declined to say how many break-ins have been conducted since 1966 or whether there was a substantial reduction in the number.

The director said he could not discuss many details because he expects to testify on matters before the Senate committee investigating Central Intelligence Agency and FBI intelligence activities.

He refused to identify the targets of the break-ins but said he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence.

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

A New Phase of Life

This is the final article in a Daily Pilot five-part series on Orange County nursing homes.

"What is the Worst of Woes that Wait on Age?
To View Each Loved One Blotted From Life's Page,
And be Alone on Earth, as I am now."
—Lord Byron

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Time passes. As it does, you and those you love grow older.

And the day may come sooner than you think when you will need the care a nursing home provides, either for yourself or someone close to you.

GRANVILLE

For a younger person recovering from an illness, injury or surgery, a nursing home stay will be much less expensive but not too different from recuperating in a hospital.

But for an older person, a doctor's order sending them to a skilled nursing facility can mean the beginning of a new phase in their life.

Physical condition will tell some their stay will be a long one, perhaps for the rest of their lives.

THEY WILL BE among strangers in their new home, most living apart from family and friends for the first time.

And many who have devoted their lives to caring for others—as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers—will suddenly find themselves among the cared for, dependant on the care they receive from others to see them through each day.

How They Care

A Daily Pilot Series On Elderly Care In Orange County Nursing Homes-1975

To the nursing home operator goes the responsibility not only of tending to their aged patients' health needs but also their mental and social well being.

How will you select the right home for yourself or someone you love?

Even those close to the nursing home scene in Orange County say it's not always an easy decision.

"THINGS CAN CHANGE so fast in a nursing home that I might, for example, be willing to put my mother in a particular home today but not tomorrow," Ruth Chassane said recently.

Mrs. Chassane monitors the care of Medi-Cal patients for the county Social Services Department.

County Health Department director of health services, Dr. Thomas Hamilton, also sees ups and downs in patient care as characteristic of many nursing homes.

"New owners can make a big difference. So can a change in administrators or a new nursing director," said Hamilton.

"We sometimes have difficulty keeping a track of what's going on. And it's probably doubly difficult for the public," he added.

Vallerga Trial Moved North

Orange County Assessor Jack Vallerga was ordered today to stand trial on criminal charges in Ventura County.

Superior Court Judge Everett Dickey told Vallerga he must report to Dept. 9 of the Ventura County Superior Court at 9 a.m. next Monday for his trial on seven criminal charges brought against him in an Orange County Grand Jury indictment.

Judge Dickey called Ventura County, which is about 110 miles from Orange County, the most convenient for the witnesses and others who will be involved in the trial.

It was on July 3 that Dickey granted the change of venue requested by Vallerga's attorney John Cahill.

The judge agreed with the petition filed by Cahill that said it would be difficult for his client to receive a fair trial in Orange County because of the extensive amount of pretrial publicity.

At his trial in Ventura County,

President's Gas Plan Expensive?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed a complex oil-price plan that could drive up the cost of gasoline seven cents a gallon by 1978, in effect challenging Congress to come up with a better idea if it can.

The proposal would freeze the price of "new" domestic oil, which amounts to about 40 percent of American production, immediately at $13.50 a barrel and let the cost of "old" oil rise in steps to that level in 30 months.

Ford said the resulting boost in petroleum prices would be a "small price to pay" to free the nation from dependence on foreign oil producers.

His message was addressed to Congress. But he delayed sending it to Capitol Hill until later this week in an apparent attempt to buy time to woo support both among lawmakers and the public.

Once the President's message goes formally to Congress, a statutory timeclock starts running and the plan will go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house within five working days.

Appearing in the White House press room, Ford said he hoped Congress "will give this very serious consideration and not take hasty action."

He said he encountered a "minimum of opposition" when he outlined the plan to congressional leaders this morning.

"We had a greater understanding of the complexity of this problem," he added.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been hostile to the prospect of ending price controls

Drowning Reported

A youth drowned Sunday afternoon while swimming at Huntington State Beach, lifeguards reported this morning.

Lifeguards would not release his name because of difficulty in notifying the parents. They also said there was not much information on how he drowned.

Friends reported him missing about 3:45 p.m. offshore in about the middle section of the state beach. Apparently no one heard a cry for help or saw him go under. The body was found slightly north of where he disappeared.

Suspect Held On Murder For Hire Rap

A Huntington Beach man, who police allege wanted to get rid of his ex-wife's boyfriend, was booked into city jail Sunday night on a murder-for-hire charge.

Police said Donald Albert Ray, 35, of 18892 Florida St., Sunday allegedly offered a friend $100 to shoot Richard L. Chapman, 41, of 17391 Keelson Lane.

He claimed Chapman was his ex-wife's boyfriend, police said.

He also offered to furnish the gun, officers asserted.

But instead of taking up the offer, his friend, James H. Alexander, 37, of 7688 Brookwood St., Huntington Beach, called police.

They arrested Ray three hours later. He was still in custody today. Bail was set at $250,000, police said.

Deadline For Park Plan Set

The state parks commission has assigned two of its members to work with the City of Huntington Beach on the proposed redevelopment of Huntington State Beach.

Commissioners Art Robinson and Sally Altick have been given a Sept. 12 deadline to iron out a disagreement between city planners and state architects.

Huntington Beach Vice Mayor Harriett Wieder asked for a longer delay Friday in the state's adoption of a $1.5 million redevelopment plan, but a two-month delay was all the state commission would grant.

A four-hour public hearing was held before the commission Friday in Huntington Beach City Council chambers.

Mrs. Wieder voiced several city objections to tbe redevelopment proposal for the 2.5 mile state strand, including:

—A lack of long-range plans for the use of additional acreage the state might acquire from the fence to Pacific Coast Highway, and 85 acres south of Southern California Edison's power plant.

—An unrealistic concept of the survival of plants in the landscaping plan.

—Insufficient parking for cars.

Ed Selich, an advance planner for the city, said today most of Friday's hearing involved a debate between commissioners themselves on the philosophy of development.

"They are developing a state beach in a highly urbanized area, but their design standards are the same as if it were a beach in Mendocino County," Selich said.

Redevelopment of the beach is scheduled to begin in 1976-77. If the specific plan for the $1.5 million first phase is not approved in September, the project could be shoved back a year.

Total redevelopment — including the acquisition and development of the additional acreage — is expected to take five years and cost $5 million, but there are no specific plans past the first year.

Man, 32, Stabbed In Valley Stable

A 32-year-old man was in guarded condition today after allegedly being stabbed at a Fountain Valley stable Saturday during an argument over his hat.

Police said Robert Andrew Logan of Sylmar suffered stab wounds in the abdomen.

Michael James Boso, 23, of Santa Ana was arrested on suspicion of attempted murder. He is being held in Orange County Jail, where bail was set at $25,000, police said.

Officers were alerted to the incident by the staff at Fountain Valley Community Hospital. They said three friends took Logan there just after midnight Saturday. Hospital officials phoned police.

Logan was rushed to emergency surgery and is now being treated in the hospital intensive care unit, police said.

Police said the alleged stabbing occurred at midnight Saturday at Westwood Farms, 17432 Newhope Street. They said about 25 persons who keep horses there were having a party after returning from an afternoon rodeo.

Someone allegedly decided to grab Logan's hat and "squish it up," police said. An argument developed and Logan allegedly was stabbed.

Lead Yachts Closing In On Honolulu

Two of the lead yachts in the Transpacific Yacht Race were driving through the Molokai Channel at 10:30 a.m. today with an estimated finish time of about noon PDT.

Officials at Honolulu Transpac headquarters said a radio report from Ragtime placed her 20 miles east of Koko Head and she was expected to finish at noon.

There was no radio report from Ondine, but observers from a high vantage point on the island of Oahu sighted a two masted vessel which could be Ondine or Windward Passage.

Russ, U.S. Teams Relax as Countdown Moves

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Apollo's astronauts went joy-riding in jets today while countdowns moved smoothly toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff of the Americans 7½ hours later.

Russia's space chief said on the eve of launch the Apollo-Soyuz rendezvous in orbit would strengthen peace and deepen detente. United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the twin shots dramatize the will of the two nations to work together.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton loosened up for their flight in pursuit of Soyuz by flying T38 jets from nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Russian managers in Moscow reported that Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov also were ready at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8,670 miles from here. They relaxed while engineers prepared to start fueling the Soyuz rocket about 12:20 a.m. PDT — five hours before blastoff.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project), said Adrian G. Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow.

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two-month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Foreign Ministry press chief, Boris N. Petrov, chairman of Russia's Intercosmos Council, said in opening the Moscow news conference that the two ships' union in orbit will "strengthen peace and deepen the pro-

TRIAL . . .

Vallerga will answer to seven criminal charges related to the sale of a computerized assessor's appraisal system to Spartanburg County, South Carolina.

Included among the charges are embezzlement of public funds and grand theft.

Those charges center on $6,000 paid by Spartanburg to former assessor Andrew Hinshaw for what was termed consultant fees.

The grand jury charged that $3,000 paid to Vallerga along with expenses rightfully was part of the contract for the purchase of the computer system.

Vallerga has insisted whatever money he received was for legitimate consulting work which he is entitled to accept with other government agencies.

Still ahead of the beleaguered county assessor are criminal proceedings related to the purported use of county employes in Hinshaw's 1972 congressional campaign.

Vallerga must also answer a Grand Jury accusation charging him with five acts of misconduct. Should a jury find the assessor guilty of any of the criminal or misconduct charges he faces removal from office.

SUCCUMBS AT 46
School Principal Beasley

Principal Beasley Succumbs

Claude Beasley, principal of Village View School in Huntington Beach since 1967, died Saturday at Westminster Community Hospital after an illness of several months.

Beasley, 46, recently had been reassigned from Village View to Ocean View School District offices because of poor health.

The family has established a scholarship fund in his memory for graduates of Village View and Marina High School. Donations can be made in care of Carolyn Morehead at district offices, 7972 Warner Ave.

Beasley had lived in California most of his life. He earned a bachelor's degree at UC Santa Barbara and a master's in administration at USC.

Before joining the Ocean View District, Beasley was a principal in the Alhambra City School District and a principal-superintendent in the Cayucos Elementary School District.

Survivors include his wife, Barbara, of the family home, 6362 Rubens Drive, Huntington Beach; a daughter, Cynthia, and a son, Brent.

Funeral services are set for 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at Peek Family Mortuary, Westminster.

He's Well Catalogued

The San Clemente Chamber of Commerce gave away a bunch of door prizes at its Fiesta La Christianita Kickoff party Saturday. The big prize of the evening was a $100 Spiegel Catalogue gift certificate.

Roy Hamm, manager of the Sear's catalogue store in San Clemente, won it.

Five Young Fishermen Win Prizes

Five Orange Coast youngsters won prizes in the Huck Finn Fishing Derby held last week at the Newport Beach Pier.

The contest, which attracted 120 boys and girls, was part of the Newport Beach Bicentennial Festival Week. Prizes were donated by Noel's Tackle Shop and Baldy's Bait and Tackle Shop.

Mitch Breneman, 14, of Huntington Beach, won an award for catching the largest fish, a two and one-half pound halibut.

Nicky Mastrocola, 9, of Newport Beach, won a prize for catching the smallest fish and Keith Robinson, 11, of Huntington Beach, won for catching the first fish.

Two Fountain Valley youngsters swept the Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher costume contest — Kenny Miller, 10, and Stephanie Delude, 5.

Rome Thieves Net Millions

ROME (AP) — Burglars broke into the suburban branch of a Rome bank over the weekend and stole jewels and other valuables from safe-deposit boxes, police reported today. One report estimated the take at $10 million.

Police said, however, they could not set a value on the theft before making a careful check with bank officials and clients about contents of the 200 safe-deposit boxes cleaned out by the robbers.

Indian Remains Studied

By TERRY COVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

At least part of an archeological site which lies under the proposed Ocean View High School campus in Huntington Beach may be salvaged, a private consultant said today.

Robert Crabtree, an archeologist and vice president with Archaeological Research, Inc., (ARI), said his firm has been asked to make an estimate on the cost of a partial salvage of the site, before a school building is put on it.

Trustees of the Huntington Beach Union High School District will discuss the problem during a special meeting Saturday, called originally for a study of the district's budget.

Crabtree said part of the identified site lies under a proposed parking lot which won't be built, so that portion will be safe.

But the rest of it falls under the main building of the campus, and district officials have given no indication they will call a halt to construction.

Crabtree said, however, ARI has been asked by the district to provide an estimate for the partial salvage of the site.

That means archeologists might be able to dig out some relics in selected sites before construction must start on the school facility.

"Hopefully a selected sample would reflect what is present in the total site," Crabtree said today.

He previously said there are indications the site, south of Warner Avenue between Gothard and Golden West Streets, was a small Gabrielino Indian hamlet, dating back to prehistoric times.

It is considered one of the more valuable sites in the city, according to a survey of such sites made by ARI for the city in 1973.

The school district had declared itself "categorically exempt" from the need to research and write an environmental impact report in connection with construction of the 2,000-student campus.

District officials now intend to file a negative declaration, indicating no major environmental impact, to meet the requirements of the 1970 California Environmental Quality Act.

Dr. Ralph Bauer, chairman of the school board, said today he was "surprised by the outcry" because plans for a school there had been considered for several years.

He said it is "a tough situation. We have to build a school and we probably won't stop the building for this."

He said the district may have made a mistake in its environmental impact procedures, but he doesn't have enough information yet to be sure, and the need for the campus is still the district's major concern.

Police Seek Pudgy Bandit

Huntington Beach police today were looking for a short, pudgy bandit and his tall companion, who allegedly robbed an all-night market Saturday night.

Police said the pair simulated a gun and took $95 from the 7-Eleven market, Brookhurst Street and Bushard Avenue.

Officers said both men were about 25 years old. One was about five feet, eight inches tall, heavy, with a "pale, pudgy face" and long blond hair.

The other was about six feet tall and of medium build, witnesses said.

Council Slates Special Meeting

The Huntington Beach City Council has scheduled a special meeting for 7 o'clock, tonight, in city council chambers. The meeting agenda lists two public topics, a discussion of the future of the design review board and a presentation from the New Zealand Lifeguard Association.

Members of the council will also meet in closed, executive session to discuss contract talks with various city employe groups.

Rapes Run Rampant

Huntington Reports 31 in First Six Months

During the first six months of this year 31 rapes and attempted rapes were reported to Huntington Beach Police. Another 21 cases of child molesting have been reported for the same time frame.

Det. Virginia Kirkmeyer, who works the sexual assault detail, estimates the number of actual rapes and child molests at perhaps 10 times that number. People just don't like to report them, or get involved with the police in such matters, she says.

"If we have a good case, nine out of 10 times the suspect will cop out (admit guilt) rather than go to court," she says, indicating victims are not always involved in the long, tense courtroom drama of recalling what happened.

But too often, police don't have a good case because information is sketchy and witnesses can't be found.

The Daily Pilot Secret Witness column offers one anonymous method for bringing to light more information on such sex crimes, coupled with the possibility of a cash reward for information which leads to the capture of a sex offender.

To help police gain more knowledge about these assaults, residents are urged to submit what they might know through the Secret Witness by phoning 642-0700, or writing to: Daily Pilot, Secret Witness, P.O. Box 790, Huntington Beach, Ca. (92648).

Secret Witness

Detective Kirkmeyer has also supplied information on two specific sex crimes, along with composite sketches of how witnesses described the assailants.

In the first crime, a 13-year-old girl was kidnaped from the area of Ross Street and Heil Avenue and forced into a man's car where she was raped on May 1.

The combined kidnap-rape happened about 9 p.m. The man reportedly held a knife at her throat, and once in the car forced her into several acts.

Witnesses said the man was 25 or older, about 5'8 or 5'9", 170-180 pounds, with brown, short brushed hair and possibly a reddish-brown beard. He wore metal framed glasses, a brown belt and dark pants, with a heavy wool red-brown, long-sleeved jacket.

His car was described as a white, American make, possibly four-door, with vinyl interior, bench seats and automatic transmission. The girl was later released.

The second incident happened about 7:15 p.m., May 31, at Lamb Elementary School. A young man, 20-25, approached two boys and physically threatened them, asking them to perform certain sex acts.

After several threats, the boys managed to escape and run home, safe. Their assailant was described as short, about 5'3" or 5'4", with brown, sandy-colored hair in a medium length Afro.

He wore brown pants, a white long-sleeved shirt and blue tennis shoes each with three white stripes. He left the area in a Ford Pinto, brown in color, with deep dish mag type rims, heading west on Yorktown Avenue, toward Brookhurst Street.

If anyone has any information on either of these two suspects, contact Detective Kirkmeyer, or the Secret Witness column. The identity of informants to the Secret Witness is not revealed to police.

Unifying Actions Affect Tax Rates

Homeowners in the Huntington Beach Union High School District could have their tax rates trimmed by five cents if Fountain Valley voters form a new unified district Nov. 4.

But if south Huntington Beach, rich in oil and Edison power plant taxes, unifies at the same time, remaining high school taxpayers in the Ocean View, Westminster and Seal Beach elementary districts could have their rates hiked by two cents.

And if south Huntington Beach unifies alone, the tax rate in the rest of the high school district could jump by seven cents per $100 of assessed value.

Those figures, calculated by the Orange County Department of Education, are in a new information booklet prepared by the staff of the high school and Ocean View districts.

According to the booklet, the tax picture is costlier for homeowners in the two new unified districts.

Tax rates in the section of Fountain Valley now served by the Garden Grove Unified School District could go up to a maximum of $5.78 per $100 of assessed valuation — $1.98 more than those residents now pay for schools.

Families now served by the Fountain Valley elementary district could have a tax hike of $1.18.

In addition, if the Seal Beach elementary district later annexed to the new Huntington Beach system, taxpayers in the remaining Ocean View and Westminster districts would have to have a 16-cent tax hike to finance the remaining high school district.

The booklet also presents arguments on both sides of the unification issue and each district's stand as well as a glossary of unification terms.

They are available through the high school or Ocean View districts.

Kelley also declined to say whether he personally participated in break-ins as an FBI agent from 1940 through 1961, serving at various times in the Houston, Seattle, San Francisco, Birmingham and Memphis field offices.

Director Confirms FBI 'Break-ins'

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Kelley said that he has not been asked to authorize any break-ins since becoming FBI director two years ago. He said he would present any such requests to the attorney general and would be guided by his opinion.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries in securing information related to the security of the nation," Keeley said in response to questions.

He defended the break-ins and said FBI personnel "acted in good faith" in authorizing and conducting them.

In 1966, Kelley said, "all such activity was terminated" except for break-ins considered necessary for foreign-related counterintelligence activity.

He declined to say how many break-ins have been conducted since 1966 or whether there was a substantial reduction in the number.

The director said he could not discuss many details because he expects to testify on matters before the Senate committee investigating Central Intelligence Agency and FBI intelligence activities.

He refused to identify the targets of the break-ins but said he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence.

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of

A New Phase of Life

This is the final article in a Daily Pilot five-part series on Orange County nursing homes.

"What is the Worst of Woes that Wait on Age?
To View Each Loved One Blotted From Life's Page,
And be Alone on Earth, as I am now."
—Lord Byron

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Time passes. As it does, you and those you love grow older.

And the day may come sooner than you think when you will need the care a nursing home provides, either for yourself or someone close to you.

GRANVILLE

For a younger person recovering from an illness, injury or surgery, a nursing home stay will be much less expensive but not too different from recuperating in a hospital.

But for an older person, a doctor's order sending them to a skilled nursing facility can mean the beginning of a new phase in their life.

Physical condition will tell some their stay will be a long one, perhaps for the rest of their lives.

THEY WILL BE among strangers in their new home, most living apart from family and friends for the first time.

And many who have devoted their lives to caring for others—as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers—will suddenly find themselves among the cared for, dependant on the care they receive from others to see them through each day.

How They Care

A Daily Pilot Series On Elderly Care In Orange County Nursing Homes-1975

To the nursing home operator goes the responsibility not only of tending to their aged patients' health needs but also their mental and social well being.

How will you select the right home for yourself or someone you love?

Even those close to the nursing home scene in Orange County say it's not always an easy decision.

"THINGS CAN CHANGE so fast in a nursing home that I might, for example, be willing to put my mother in a particular home today but not tomorrow," Ruth Chassane said recently.

Mrs. Chassane monitors the care of Medi-Cal patients for the county Social Services Department.

County Health Department director of health services, Dr. Thomas Hamilton, also sees ups and downs in patient care as characteristic of many nursing homes.

"New owners can make a big difference. So can a change in administrators or a new nursing director," said Hamilton.

"We sometimes have difficulty keeping a track of what's going on. And it's probably doubly difficult for the public," he added.

Vallerga Trial Moved North

Orange County Assessor Jack Vallerga was ordered today to stand trial on criminal charges in Ventura County.

Superior Court Judge Everett Dickey told Vallerga he must report to Dept. 9 of the Ventura County Superior Court at 9 a.m. next Monday for his trial on seven criminal charges brought against him in an Orange County Grand Jury indictment.

Judge Dickey called Ventura County, which is about 110 miles from Orange County, the most convenient for the witnesses and others who will be involved in the trial.

It was on July 3 that Dickey granted the change of venue requested by Vallerga's attorney John Cahill.

The judge agreed with the petition filed by Cahill that said it would be difficult for his client to receive a fair trial in Orange County because of the extensive amount of pretrial publicity.

At his trial in Ventura County,

President's Gas Plan Expensive?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed a complex oil-price plan that could drive up the cost of gasoline seven cents a gallon by 1978, in effect challenging Congress to come up with a better idea if it can.

The proposal would freeze the price of "new" domestic oil, which amounts to about 40 percent of American production, immediately at $13.50 a barrel and let the cost of "old" oil rise in steps to that level in 30 months.

Ford said the resulting boost in petroleum prices would be a "small price to pay" to free the nation from dependence on foreign oil producers.

His message was addressed to Congress. But he delayed sending it to Capitol Hill until later this week in an apparent attempt to buy time to woo support both among lawmakers and the public.

Once the President's message goes formally to Congress, a statutory timeclock starts running and the plan will go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house within five working days.

Appearing in the White House press room, Ford said he hoped Congress "will give this very serious consideration and not take hasty action."

He said he encountered a "minimum of opposition" when he outlined the plan to congressional leaders this morning.

"We had a greater understanding of the complexity of this problem," he added.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been hostile to the prospect of ending price controls

Mission Countdown Near End

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Apollo's astronauts went joy-riding in jets today while countdowns moved smoothly toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff of the Americans 7½ hours later.

Russia's space chief said on the eve of launch the Apollo-Soyuz rendezvous in orbit would strengthen peace and deepen detente. United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the twin shots dramatize the will of the two nations to work together.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton loosened up for their flight in pursuit of Soyuz by flying T38 jets from nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Russian managers in Moscow reported that Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov also were ready at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8,670 miles from here. They relaxed while engineers prepared to start fueling the Soyuz rocket about 12:20 a.m. PDT — five hours before blastoff.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project), said Adrian G. Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow.

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two-month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Council to Debate Pornography Issue

Irate Balboa residents and city councilmen will air their views tonight on the issue of pornography on the Peninsula.

And lawyers will do the same Thursday morning in the first local court test of "Deep Throat" and "The Devil in Miss Jones."

Tonight's discussion will include the presentation to councilmen of yet another petition by residents seeking an end to the X-rated offerings of the Balboa Pussycat Theater.

City Attorney Dennis O'Neil will report on the progress of the local prosecution of what police consider obscene offerings at the old theater.

The first court appearance following a lengthy series of raids at the movie house is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday before Municipal Court Judge Donald Dungan.

The firm operating the theater was served last Thursday with documents summoning lawyers to court in a hearing to determine whether the theater should be shut down.

The court action amounts to the first Orange County hearing since the latest decision by the U.S. Supreme Court which significantly altered the law related to local interpretation of obscenity.

Essentially, the court ruled that obscenity cases must run the full course through local and state courts before entering the federal arena.

Winds Reduce Beach Crowds

Winds of 15 to 20 miles per hour over the weekend kept beach attendance low in Newport, lifeguards said today.

Crowds at the beach were estimated at 60,000 on Saturday and 75,000 on Sunday, relatively small for a July weekend, lifeguards said.

Air temperature hovered around 67 degrees and skies were overcast in the morning. The water temperature was 68 degrees. Lifeguards reported rescuing 39 people.

Irvine Swap Site Declared 'Excess'

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Hamilton Air Force Base in Marin County, which has been eyed by the Irvine Company for a possible land swap, has been declared excess government property.

But any speculation on whether the company will trade land in the noise-bombarded area around El Toro Marine Corps Air Station for the 1,485-acre Hamilton base is premature, company spokesman Martin Brower said today.

Speculation about an imminent land swap, said Brower, has touched off controversy in the Marin County City of Novato, with arguments for and against Irvine Company acquisition and development of the land appearing almost daily in the local press.

Company vice president Tom Wolff has said that the company must have assurance that proposed development would be allowed before it would move to acquire the land.

Broad swaths of land around the El Toro base cannot be developed by the Irvine Company due to the noise and potential crash hazard.

The federal government, said Brower, has offered to exchange surplus land elsewhere for cor-

Senator George McGovern (left) and President Ford joined the ranks of the weekend hackers Sunday. McGovern, who is said to be considering another run at the Democratic presidential nomination, played in New Hampshire while spending "a nonpolitical" weekend there. TRIAL . . .

Vallerga will answer to seven criminal charges related to the sale of a computerized assessor's appraisal system to Spartanburg County, South Carolina.

Included among the charges are embezzlement of public funds and grand theft.

Those charges center on $6,000 paid by Spartanburg to former assessor Andrew Hinshaw for what was termed consultant fees.

The grand jury charged that $3,000 paid to Vallerga along with expenses rightfully was part of the contract for the purchase of the computer system.

Vallerga has insisted whatever money he received was for legitimate consulting work which he is entitled to accept with other government agencies.

Still ahead of the beleaguered county assessor are criminal proceedings related to the purported use of county employes in Hinshaw's 1972 congressional campaign.

The company, he said, is undertaking a preliminary study of Hamilton base and its possibilities for development.

However, he added, the company recently urged a proposed inspection tour of Irvine Company developments by Novato city officials be put off "because it's too premature."

Rep. John Burton (D-San Francisco) had asked that declaring the Hamilton base excess land be put off so Marin County officials could have more time to urge other federal agencies to move onto the deactivated base. The House Armed Services Subcommittee had delayed the decision six months.

Krishnas in Court Fighting Fair Ban

A petition demanding that the Orange County Fair permit saffron-robed cultists of the Hare Krishna Society to distribute leaflets and chant meditations was under consideration today by U.S. District Court officers in San Francisco.

The paperwork was filed Friday, following a dispute in philosophy between the Krishna consciousness group and operators of the Orange County Fair.

Krishna worshipers claim they have been refused permission to proselytize among everyone from Catholics to Unitarians to agnostics who patronize the fair.

"That's really not true," a spokesman for the fair said today.

Missionaries of the robed cult which gowns itself in saffron-orange or white colored robes and hands out esoteric leaflets to the jingle of finger-cymbals last week asked permission to do so at the fair.

They were refused, on grounds that individuals unimpressed with their devotion to Krishna doctrine might litter the 165-acre fairgrounds with Krishna literature.,

Lawyers for the Krishna Consciousness Society in Los Angeles immediately filed the petition in federal court, citing a Northern California legal action occurring last week.

A judge there issued an injunction ordering the Alameda County Fair to allow Krishna cultists to distribute their gospel through the ritual of Sankirtan, or soliciting funds for the temple and disseminating religious literature.

Fairgrounds Manager James Porterfield was tied up in operations of the fair — estimated to draw 250,000 persons during its 10-day run — and could not be reached for comment today.

A spokesman, however, said while the fair's sales manager turned down the Krishna request to distribute literature on grounds of possible litter problems, they were told they can rent an exhibit booth.

24,977 PACK COUNTY FAIR

A near-record 24,977 people visited the Orange County Fair in Costa Mesa Sunday.

Organizers of the fair predict it will draw a quarter of a million people during its 10-day run which concludes next Sunday.

Huntington Man Held in Death Plot

A Huntington Beach man, who police allege wanted to get rid of his ex-wife's boyfriend, was booked into city jail Sunday night on a murder-for-hire charge.

Police said Donald Albert Ray, 35, of 18892 Florida St., Sunday allegedly offered a friend $100 to shoot Richard L. Chapman, 41, of 17391 Keelson Lane.

He claimed Chapman was his ex-wife's boyfriend, police said.

He also offered to furnish the gun, officers asserted.

But instead of taking up the offer, his friend, James H. Alexander, 37, of 7688 Brookwood St., Huntington Beach, called police.

They arrested Ray three hours later. He was still in custody today. Bail was set at $250,000, police said.

Rome Thieves Net Millions

ROME (AP) — Burglars broke into the suburban branch of a Rome bank over the weekend and stole jewels and other valuables from safe-deposit boxes, police reported today. One report estimated the take at $10 million.

Police said, however, they could not set a value on the theft before making a careful check with bank officials and clients about contents of the 200 safe-deposit boxes cleaned out by the robbers.

Police Probe Boat Sinking Off Newport

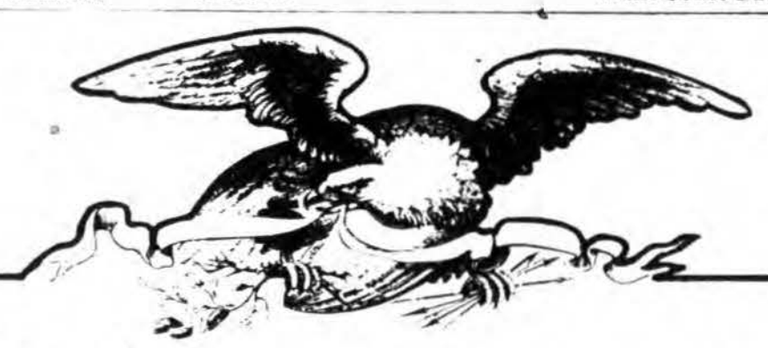

Newport Beach police said today they are still investigating the mysterious sinking of the "Lani Kai" and are checking into witness reports that three persons were aboard the craft the day before it sank.

The 28-foot Chris Craft was discovered almost completely submerged two miles off the Balboa pier early Friday. No crew members could be found on or near the boat.

Detective Ken Smith said witnesses reported seeing three young persons aboard the boat at its slip at Newport Dunes last Thursday afternoon.

Boat owner Tommy Finklea, Sr. of Anaheim said he was last at his boat on Tuesday and that he had left the key in the ignition.

The cause of the sinking has been attributed to a disconnected water inlet line that allowed sea water to fill the boat, according to the Coast Guard.

Mariners gives you up to a $1,500 tax deduction this year...

. . .AND EVERY YEAR UNTIL YOU RETIRE! NOW YOU CAN BUILD A TAX SHELTERED RETIREMENT FUND AT MARINERS, WITH "IRA" — THE INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT.

Mariners Individual Retirement Account is a personal tax-sheltered retirement plan. "IRA" was developed by Congress to give you an effective way to build your own retirement fund.

You can save as much as $1500 or 15% of your wages, whichever is less, and your savings will be a tax deduction during your working years. If your spouse works, your combined tax-sheltered savings can be as much as $3000 per year.

Come in to Mariners and start your own Individual Retirement Account. You'll be saving tax dollars now and building a much brighter future. For more information, come in or call any one of our convenient locations.

HERE'S HOW FAST YOUR MONEY GROWS IN A MARINERS "IRA" ACCOUNT. Individual Retirement Accounts are presently earning 7¾% per year when placed in a 6-year certificate. Your annual yield is increased to a big 8.06% when interest is added to the account balance and compounded daily. With a maximum individual contribution of $1500 each year, here's how your money will grow.

AFTER	WITH TAX SHELTERED IRA PLAN	WITHOUT TAX SHELTERED PLAN	EXTRA MONEY FROM TAX DEFERRAL
5 yrs.	$ 9,510	6,730	$ 2,780
10 yrs.	23,540	15,750	7,790
20 yrs.	74,640	65,840	30,560
30 yrs.	185,550	95,030	90,520

New Wrinkle

Bank Will Pay Interest First

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

Banks want your money and they're going to unusual lengths to get it. The reason is simple: They make their way in life by making money off the money you entrust to them. The profit generated by a bank represents the spread between what it pays you for money and what it can get from loaning out your money.

In that kind of situation, of course, the best kind of money for a bank is "free" money, funds it doesn't have to pay for. In that category are the demand deposits maintained by corporations and the monies you deposit in checking accounts. They gather no interest and the bank is free to loan them out—to others or even to you.

SAVING ACCOUNTS WORK IN a similar way. A commercial bank is quite willing to pay you 5 percent on your passbook account because it knows it can loan out your funds at a much higher rate. You're well aware of that spread if you hold a bank credit card. You are socked for 18 percent interest on your outstanding balance.

The newest wrinkle in this competition for your available funds comes from an unlikely quarter, Chemical Bank, a New York-based commercial bank that ranks sixth in the nation. Chemical was previously known for its conservative stance. But that apparently won't work in this go-go era and so Chemical has now joined the ranks of the aggressive bank merchandisers.

Chemical's scheme, which has just been introduced in the New York area, will undoubtedly be copied by banks in your town if it succeeds in attracting funds. It's an ingenious appeal to instant greed.

WHAT CHEMICAL HAS DONE IS TO take the traditional certificate of deposit—money you commit to banks over a given period of time to earn a higher interest—and offer to pay you the interest up front. It's akin to the automobile rebates.

Here's how it works: If you buy a two-year savings certificate from Chemical, you can pocket your interest right away instead of waiting. Give Chemical $2,500—and they will give you back $286.37. Give Chemical $99,500—and they will give you back $11,397.44. Immediately. Take the interest and run.

Chemical naturally doesn't mention that it's shading the interest payout in this deal. A two-year savings certificate normally will earn 6% interest. But for the privilege of collecting your interest in advance, you settle for 5.7%.

The thing is, you get your money right away—instant pleasure. And Chemical, throwing banker's caution to the wind, ia pointing out how you might make use of this advance payout, "like vacations and cars and summer camps and appliances and anything else that you need money for now."

THIS MARKETING PLOY BY CHEMICAL Bank is a logical extension of the easy-money, live-today-forget-about-tomorrow philosophy of modern banking in America. The objective is to dredge up lonable funds. From Chemical's standpoint, it's cheap to buy money this way. It's cheap because it realizes it can loan it out at much higher rates.

Bankers used to preach about savings as an important hedge against inflation. But in selling its new prepaid interest plan, Chemical is preaching inflation as a permanent feature of our lives. Thus, it points out that if you deposit $10,000 with Chemical today, the $1,145.48 interest payment you receive "is worth $1,145.48. Odds are it won't be two years from now."

Left unsaid is that, if you accept this scenario, the $10,000 you leave with Chemical is not going to be worth $10,000 when you cash your certificate two years from now.

ALSO LEFT UNSAID IS HOW much money Chemical Bank will earn on the $10,000 you leave there for two years. You can be sure it's more than $1,145.48.

Bankers used to worry about their stuffy image. With a few more ideas like this one from Chemical, they won't have to worry any more.

Miami Stars Test Sun Tonight at Big A

Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield, who jumped from the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League, make their World Football League debuts at 7:30 tonight when the Memphis Southmen meet the Southern California Sun in a exhibition at Anaheim Stadium.

And the three new Southmen—Csonka and Kiick, cruching runners, and Warfield, a top-flight receiver — figure to be a big part of what should be an offensive show.

The Southmen won 17 games against only three losses last season, the WFL's first year.

Last week, the Sun rallied in the final four minutes to defeat San Antonio, 36-31, and looked impressive on offense in the process.

Daryle Lamonica, the 13-year NFL veteran, will start at quarterback for Southern California. Last week he played only the first half, competing 8 of 13 passes for 105 yards and a touchdown. This week he again is expected to play only the first 30 minutes, with former Fullerton State star Mike Ernst taking over in the second half.

The Southmen have former Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte of Notre Dame at quarterback with Csonka and Kiick in the backfield. Warfield is one of the wide receivers, the other being Ed Marshall, pro football's top touchdown-making receiver in 1974 with 19 scores.

Ex-Trojan Anthony Davis will be in the backfield for the Sun. He made his first pro start in the San Antonio game gaining 62 yards in 16 carries and racing 64 yards with a kickoff return.

However, the appearance of the Southmen and their three ex-Dolphins is the main attraction.

"They are the class of the league," said Sun coach Tom Fears. "Memphis had a devastating attack last year and they should be a lot better this year."

Not only do the Southmen have the three ex-Miami stars, but they also have a top-flight quarterback in Huarte, ex-Mater Dei High standout. The Heisman Trophy winner completed 154 of 296 passes for 2,416 yards and 24 touchdowns last year.

Defensively, the Southmen are led by Dave Thomas and Seth Miller, who intercepted 10 and 9 passes last year, tops in the WFL.

The Southmen also have a strong offensive line, led by Justin Canale, Ralph Hill, Gary Shirk and Ron Mikolajczyk.

Marshall Blows It; LA Falls

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All-Star pitcher Mike Marshall has an ill-chosen fast ball to credit for the gratitude of the St. Louis Cardinals' Reggie Smith.

"He made a mistake," the free-swinging Smith said Sunday after batting the Cards to a 2-1 win over Marshall and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"It was a nice mistake," added Smith, whose ninth-inning single came at the expense of a fast ball.

"I know what he wanted to do," Smith said. "He wanted to get a quick strike on me. That's something he did to me all last year. He'd get me 0-2 and then carve me up. I think he struck me out six times in a row."

Smith's atonement was savored by teammates Bake McBride, who scored on the hit, and Al Hrabosky, who pitched a laborious single inning of relief. "It was a struggle to get myself up," maintained Hrabosky, 5-2, also the winner Saturday.

"Yesterday was a big day for me," noted the stocky lefthander, who was overlooked for All-star selection but in whose honor a Busch Stadium banner day was held.

"One way I did get myself up was because I knew the two pitchers were Marshall and myself."

Marshall, whose record dipped to 4-6, and Hrabosky staged their late duel after the Cards snapped a scoreless duel in the sixth on Lou Brock's single and Dave Lopes homered for Los Angeles in the eight. Marshall convinced Alston to pitch to Smith in the ninth and then lost the game.

"There's no way he (Alston) can make that kind of decision unless he wants to throw the pitch himself," Marshall said. "Most times I would load the bases," the manager said later. "But Marshall didn't want to do it. With the type of pitcher he is, 90 percent of the time he's going to be able to throw it where he wants to. This time he didn't."

Orr May Jump

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Sun says Bobby Orr of the National Hockey League Boston Bruins may sign a multi-million-dollar contract with the Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association for the 1976-77 season.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying the star defenseman has been offered a $1 million bonus to sign with the Fighting Saints.

Angels Can't Win at Home

Have Lost 11 of Last 12 at Anaheim

Home cooking gives the California Angels indigestion, it would appear.

With a little shove from the Cleveland Indians, the Angels entered the American League record book Sunday when they dropped an 8-7 verdict to the Tribe.

This was Cleveland's 13th straight victory at Anaheim Stadium and matched an American League mark for consecutive wins on the road against one team.

The reeling Halos have lost 11 of their last 12 games at Anaheim Stadium and their Big A season mark is a dismal 18-30.

The New York Yankees once rang up 13 successive victories against the old St. Louis Browns during the 1939-40 seasons.

"Heck, I can't explain it," remarked Cleveland manager Frank Robinson, who played last summer for the Angels. "Remember, I used to be on the other side of the fence."

The Indians, who haven't lost here since July 17, 1973 and won't get another chance until next season, rallied from a three-run deficit using a five-run seventh inning as the springboard to their sweep of the three-game series.

Despite being restricted to one hit by Frank Tanana for five innings, the Indians wound up with 13 hits — four of them by Buddy Bell, whose two-run double climaxed their seventh inning outburst.

Bagley Bags Watkins Glen Road Race

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Bagley of State College, Pa., led from the start Sunday and won the Super Vee auto race at Watkins Glen road racing course.

His average speed was 102.54 miles per hour.

The race preceded the Formula 5000 event scheduled for the 3.37-mile, 11-turn circuit.

Bagley's speed fell short of the record of 103.860 m.p.h. for Super Vee racing here that was set last year by Elliott Forbes-Robinson.

Howdy Holmes of Alexandria, Va., finished second in the Super Vees, a split second ahead of Richard Melville of Kingston, Jamaica. Benny Scott of Hollywood, Calif., was fourth.

The Super Vees, like the Formula 5000 cars, are single-seat, open-cockpit, rear-engine machines.

Melville's third-place finish put him in front in the 12-race Super Vee competition with 70 points and five races to be run.

Eddie Miller of Lakewood, Colo., who had been leading the series, finished eighth Sunday and dropped to third place with 63 points.

British Open Playoff

14th Hole Eagle Counted the Most

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Any golfer who birdies Carnoustie's feared par-five 14th can feel pleased with himself.

Jack Newton of Australia did it in Sunday's playoff for the British Open. But Tom Watson went him one better. He eagled it.

Watson, who was earning a history of choking in major tournaments, went on to win the crown and he said his eagle chip at the 14th was the stroke that counted the most toward the title.

"I hit a good wood for my second shot, and it landed in short grass just off the green, about 30 feet from the pin," Watson said. "I took a chipping wedge for my third shot and it ended in the hole."

Watson went on to a one-under-par 71 over the 7,065-yard, par-72 course and edged Newton by one stroke. It was the fourth time in five days that Watson had shattered par on the famous course, and it helped ease bitter memories of two consecutive U.S. Opens when he blew chances to win.

The 488-yard 14th, where the playoff turned in Watson's favor, is called "the spectacles" because two big round bunkers peer out in front of the green. Watson steered past the bunkers with his second shot but missed the green. The chip, however, was one of the outstanding shots of a memorable tournament.

"I guess we saw Carnoustie in different conditions," Watson said. "But I know we haven't had real Carnoustie weather. I expected it to blow 100 miles per hour."

In the playoff, Watson took the lead with a birdie on the second, then moved two strokes out in front when Newton, an Australian pro who plays the European circuit, bogeyed the third. But Watson bogeyed the fifth and Newton evened it with a birdie on the sixth.

They made the turn in par 36.

Newton, who like Watson is 25 and virtually unknown on the international circuit, led briefly when he birdied the 12th, but he lost a stroke at 13.

Then came the 14th which was played with such perfection that either player should have had reason to puff up with pride. As it turned out, the eagle was the margin Watson needed to put down his image as a kid from Kansas City who choked in the big ones.

At the second hole, Newton hit his second shot left of the green into the gallery. A little boy picked up the ball and stuffed it into his pocket.

"Put that down," the boy's father shouted. "I consulted the crowd and replaced the ball where they said it originally landed," Newton said.

Quad Cities Open

Maltbie Tops Field

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Roger Maltbie charged from seven strokes back to score a course-record 64 and win the $75,000 Quad Cities Open by one stroke over Dave Eichelberger Sunday.

The 24-year-old Maltbie scored his first Professional Golfers Association tournament victory with a total of 275 over the par-71, 6,305-yard Oakwood Country Club course.

Eichelberger started the final round with a three-stroke lead over Terrance Dill, Frank Beard and Howard Twitty, Jr. However, the 31-year-old Waco, Tex., native, despite a birdie putt on the 18th hole, came in with a one-over par 72.

Maltbie, who got his pro card after the PGA's fall qualifying school last November, is in his first year as a pro.

The $15,000 first place prize money marked his first big tournament paycheck.

Mark Hayes finished third after shooting a two-under 69 at 277. Gary McCord came in at 278 with a closing 70. Dill, Twitty and Homero Blancas were at 279, four strokes behind the leader, and Tony Cerda was at 280. Defending champion Dave Stockton was at 281.

Dill and Twitty shot final-round 72s, Beard had a 74, Blancas closed with a 69, Cerda shot 66 and Stockton 72.

Veteran Sam Snead was tied for second, five strokes behind Eichelberger after Friday's round. However, he faded from contention with a 77 Saturday. He came back Sunday with a 68 to finish at two-under 282.

Reds Unbeatable

Rose Calls Team Best in 13 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — In the beginning, it was to be a match race of bluebloods, with pitching-rich Los Angeles rating the edge over Cincinnati's firepower. But the Reds have turned it into a midsummer's nightmare for the rest of the National League West.

Once-struggling Cincinnati has wiped out a 7½-game deficit to the Dodgers and has all but made a one-horse race of the West.

"They can't catch us," says Joe Morgan, tossing down the gauntlet.

And for the bottom four teams in the West — San Francisco, San Diego, Atlanta and Houston — Morgan appears correct. Even the chance that the Dodgers can catch up is fading rapidly.

The Reds, embittered bridesmaids in 1974 despite a 98-victory season that was second best in the major leagues, are off to the fastest start by a National League team since 1970 when they won 70 of their first 100 games and stormed to the division title by 14½ games.

This year, they have won 61 of 90 in their attempt to bury the opposition. Their phenomenal pace of 10 consecutive victories, 19 in the last 21 games and 43 in the last 53 had left the Dodgers in the dust, 12½ games back at the midway mark.

Morgan has been the burr under the saddle, spurring the club with his hot bat and base stealing. "We won't let up. We've got too many guys here pushing each other," said the 5-foot-7 sparkplug, who is hitting .344 with 80 walks, 40 stolen bases and 60 runs batted in.

The Reds are leading the league in hitting — and confidence. "We're a hungry team because we've never won it all," says Pete Rose, who appears headed for another 200-hit season with a .319 average. "I don't think we'll do anything but get better," said Rose, in anticipation of the return in the next couple of weeks of ace lefty Don Gullett, 9-3, who's been out a month with a broken thumb.

The basis for Cincinnati optimism flows from the fact the Reds are noted second-half finishers, winning at a 63 percent clip over the last half since 1972. Two years ago, after trailing Los Angeles by 10½ games on the first of July, the Reds exploded to win 60 of their last 86 games to overtake the Dodgers. A year ago, they fell behind by 11, yet won 60 percent of their games from July on to draw within 1½ games before succumbing.

The Dodgers, hard-hit by injuries, have found runs hard to come by. Only Steve Garvey, the league's MVP, has maintained his consistency, while Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith strain to offset the loss of Tommy John.

The major disappointment has been Houston, burned badly through trades that backfired. The Astros have staggered into last place and enter the second half facing a 29-game deficit. The third-place Giants trail by 19 games. San Diego and Atlanta are 20 and 21 back.

Which leaves the Dodgers, down 13 games in the lost column, with the only hope of overtaking the raging Red Machine, bolstered by the switch of Rose to third base, the blossoming of slugging George Foster (15 home runs) and .311-hitter Ken Griffey and the emergence of young pitchers Will McEnaney, Rawly Eastwick and Pat Darcy.

If the Dodgers are going to make a move, they'll have to do it soon. Over the next 2½ weeks, the two clubs meet seven times. After those series, they meet four more times before the season ends.

The Dodgers remain plagued by injuries. Joe Ferguson is out for the season with a broken wrist. It is not known if John will make it back this season. Sutton has been slowed by a groin injury. Bill Russell has been ineffective since returning from a series of injuries. Jim Wynn is still bothered by a sore throwing arm.

All the while, the Reds roll on. They'll soon have Gullett back to join Jack Billingham, 10-3, Gary Nolan, 8-5, and Clay Kirby, 7-3, in the starting rotation.

Anderson has gone to a different lineup almost every day, sometimes using Johnny Bench (19 home runs, 73 rbi) in the outfield and making good use of platooned outfielders Foster, Griffey, Merv Rettenmund, Cesar Geronimo and Dan Driessen.

"It's the best Cincinnati team I've been on in 13 years here," said Rose. "We've got a great bench. It doesn't matter who we put out there."

Saddleback To Hire Mulligan

By CRAIG SHEFF
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Bill Mulligan, one of the top JC basketball coaches in the state, is expected to be named the new basketball coach at Saddleback College tonight, the Daily Pilot has learned exclusively.

Mulligan's appointment is subject to approval by the Saddleback College board of trustees.

Mulligan, 45, has been the basketball coach at Riverside City College for the past nine years. Prior, he was the head coach at Long Beach Poly High for five years and was an assistant at USC for two seasons before switching to Riverside.

At Poly, Mulligan won CIF titles in 1960 and '64, finished second in '61 and fourth in '62.

Mulligan has won five Mission Conference championships, including the last four. His teams have compiled a 78-17 record over the past three seasons and he has a 55-7 Mission Conference mark in the last four years.

Mulligan outlined two reasons why he applied for the Saddleback job.

"It's 105 degrees in Riverside during the day and I know it's not that hot down there. And we lost four high schools in our area in the last month to other districts. Corona and Norco are going to Chaffey and Elsinore and Perris will go to Mt. San Jacinto," says Mulligan.

Mulligan will succeed Leroy Stevens, who resigned recently after serving as the head coach for seven seasons.

Director Confirms FBI 'Break-ins'

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley today acknowledged that the FBI has carried out break-ins for national security investigations, beginning as early as World War II and continuing through the 1960s.

At a news conference, Kelley declined to say how many break-ins were conducted. He characterized the number as "a few" and "not many."

Kelley said that he has not been asked to authorize any break-ins since becoming FBI director two years ago. He said he would present any such requests to the attorney general and would be guided by his opinion.

"Yes, the FBI has conducted surreptitious entries in securing information related to the security of the nation," Kelley said in response to questions.

He defended the break-ins and said FBI personnel "acted in good faith" in authorizing and conducting them.

In 1966, Kelley said, "all such activity was terminated" except for break-ins considered necessary for foreign-related counterintelligence activity.

He declined to say how many break-ins have been conducted since 1966 or whether there was a substantial reduction in the number.

The director said he could not discuss many details because he expects to testify on matters before the Senate committee investigating Central Intelligence Agency and FBI intelligence activities.

He refused to identify the targets of the break-ins but said he knows of none which were not related to national security and foreign intelligence.

"There were a few" break-ins at foreign embassies in Washington in counterintelligence investigations after 1966, Kelley said, without identifying the embassies.

He said that he believes some of the foreign counterintelligence break-ins took place outside of Washington.

Asked whether the break-ins were carried out in conjunction with the CIA, Kelley replied, "I know of none. Subsequently there may have been information which did go to them. But we were not in partnership with the CIA."

Asked whether full details of

A New Phase of Life

This is the final article in a Daily Pilot five-part series on Orange County nursing homes.

"What is the Worst of Woes that Wait on Age?
To View Each Loved One Blotted From Life's Page,
And be Alone on Earth, as I am now."
—Lord Byron

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Time passes. As it does, you and those you love grow older.

And the day may come sooner than you think when you will need the care a nursing home provides, either for yourself or someone close to you.

GRANVILLE

For a younger person recovering from an illness, injury or surgery, a nursing home stay will be much less expensive but not too different from recuperating in a hospital.

But for an older person, a doctor's order sending them to a skilled nursing facility can mean the beginning of a new phase in their life.

Physical condition will tell some their stay will be a long one, perhaps for the rest of their lives.

THEY WILL BE among strangers in their new home, most living apart from family and friends for the first time.

And many who have devoted their lives to caring for others—as mothers and fathers, as grandmothers and grandfathers—will suddenly find themselves among the cared for, dependant on the care they receive from others to see them through each day.

How They Care

A Daily Pilot Series On Elderly Care In Orange County Nursing Homes-1975

To the nursing home operator goes the responsibility not only of tending to their aged patients' health needs but also their mental and social well being.

How will you select the right home for yourself or someone you love?

Even those close to the nursing home scene in Orange County say it's not always an easy decision.

"THINGS CAN CHANGE so fast in a nursing home that I might, for example, be willing to put my mother in a particular home today but not tomorrow," Ruth Chassane said recently.

Mrs. Chassane monitors the care of Medi-Cal patients for the county Social Services Department.

County Health Department director of health services, Dr. Thomas Hamilton, also sees ups and downs in patient care as characteristic of many nursing homes.

"New owners can make a big difference. So can a change in administrators or a new nursing director," said Hamilton.

"We sometimes have difficulty keeping a track of what's going on. And it's probably doubly difficult for the public," he added.

Vallerga Trial Moved North

Orange County Assessor Jack Vallerga was ordered today to stand trial on criminal charges in Ventura County.

Superior Court Judge Everett Dickey told Vallerga he must report to Dept. 9 of the Ventura County Superior Court at 9 a.m. next Monday for his trial on seven criminal charges brought against him in an Orange County Grand Jury indictment.

Judge Dickey called Ventura County, which is about 110 miles from Orange County, the most convenient for the witnesses and others who will be involved in the trial.

It was on July 3 that Dickey granted the change of venue requested by Vallerga's attorney John Cahill.

The judge agreed with the petition filed by Cahill that said it would be difficult for his client to receive a fair trial in Orange County because of the extensive amount of pretrial publicity.

At his trial in Ventura County,

President's Gas Plan Expensive?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today proposed a complex oil-price plan that could drive up the cost of gasoline seven cents a gallon by 1978, in effect challenging Congress to come up with a better idea if it can.

The proposal would freeze the price of "new" domestic oil, which amounts to about 40 percent of American production, immediately at $13.50 a barrel and let the cost of "old" oil rise in steps to that level in 30 months.

Ford said the resulting boost in petroleum prices would be a "small price to pay" to free the nation from dependence on foreign oil producers.

His message was addressed to Congress. But he delayed sending it to Capitol Hill until later this week in an apparent attempt to buy time to woo support both among lawmakers and the public.

Once the President's message goes formally to Congress, a statutory timeclock starts running and the plan will go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house within five working days.

Appearing in the White House press room, Ford said he hoped Congress "will give this very serious consideration and not take hasty action."

He said he encountered a "minimum of opposition" when he outlined the plan to congressional leaders this morning.

Too Early For Sawing

There were the customary drunks, dogs and domestic disturbances by the score on the Costa Mesa Police Department log over the warm weekend, along with a new one.

The 2:30 a.m. Sunday entry was listed simply as 415 sawing case, the numbers standing for the section covering disturbances in the California Penal Code.

Officer Wayne Riedmann responded to the 2800 block of Stromboli Road and duly advised one resident that 2:30 a.m. seemed too early for Sunday carpentry.

This Case A Hot One

The Costa Mesa Police Department's first female patrolperson answered a call Saturday that turned out to be a real hot case.

Officer Sharon Lozzi was dispatched to 2293 Fairview Road in response to an anonymous woman's tip to investigate illegal burning and loud music.

She confronted Steve W. Berggren, who explained there was no illegal burning, just the smoky barbecuing of a whole lamb which was just about done to a turn anyway.

She took a look and agreed, but warned Berggren to turn down the music.

Mission Countdown Near End

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Apollo's astronauts went joy-riding in jets today while countdowns moved smoothly toward Tuesday morning's launch of Russia's Soyuz spaceship and the blastoff of the Americans 7½ hours later.

Russia's space chief said on the eve of launch the Apollo-Soyuz rendezvous in orbit would strengthen peace and deepen detente. United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the twin shots dramatize the will of the two nations to work together.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton loosened up for their flight in pursuit of Soyuz by flying T38 jets from nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Russian managers in Moscow reported that Alexei A. Leonov and Valeri N. Kubasov also were ready at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 8,670 miles from here. They relaxed while engineers prepared to start fueling the Soyuz rocket about 12:20 a.m. PDT — five hours before blastoff.

"All the training has been completed and the crews are in full readiness for ASTP (Apollo-Soyuz Test Project), said Adrian G. Nikolaev, deputy director of the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center, at a midday news briefing in Moscow.

"We are convinced that the crews will fully cope with the mission and we wish the cosmonauts and astronauts a successful launch, a full completion of the flight program and a soft landing."

It was also reported that the two cosmonauts aboard Russia's Salyut 4 space lab will continue to fly during the Soyuz-Apollo mission, ending their two-month mission during the last 10 days of this month. Leonov and Kubasov land July 21.

Mesa Man Rescued In Apartment Fire

A Costa Mesa man who put a roast in the oven for Sunday dinner and then lay down for a nap came uncomfortably close to being barbecued himself in a $1,500 apartment fire, investigators said today.

James M. Clapper, 27, of 989 Victoria St., was rescued by two boys who spotted smoke pouring from his tiny apartment and raced to help.

Fire Department Battalion Chief Gary Golson identified the youngsters as Colin Wilcox, 13, and Mark Pattin, 12, both of 1014 Oak St., Costa Mesa.

Chief Golson said Colin and Mark were walking through the neighborhood about 7:30 a.m. when they noticed the fire.

"If they hadn't, he might not be with us today," Chief Golson said in reviewing the fire report.

He explained the apartment is extremely small and was rapidly filling with choking smoke as Clapper slept when the boys began pounding on his door to awaken him.

Investigation indicated the roast Clapper put in the oven overcooked, causing accumulated grease to ignite and spread from the stove to an adjacent kitchen cabinet.

Clapper told firemen he lay down on the living room couch after finishing his kitchen duty and dozed off.

Ragtime First To Honolulu In Transpac

HONOLULU (AP) — Ragtime skimmed across the finish line off Diamond Head this afternoon to repeat its 1973 performance as first to finish in the 2,225-mile Trans Pacific Yacht Race.

The 62-foot yacht crossed the finish line at 9:54 a.m., (12:54 p.m. PDT), giving it an elapsed time of nine days, 23 hours, 54 minutes and 51 seconds on the downwind voyage from Los Angeles.

Ragtime's time was more than 14 hours off the race record set by the 73-foot ketch Windward Passage in 1971.

Ragtime is owned by William White and William Pasquini of Arcadia, Calif., and raced out of the Long Beach Yacht Club.

The 79-foot ketch Ondine was expected to finish this afternoon, making it the second of the 67 yachts entered to finish the race.

Mesa Youth Jailed In Bottle Tossing

A Costa Mesa youth who allegedly hurled a beer bottle into the face of a police Explorer Scout assisting in crowd control duties in the annual Lions Club Fish Fry celebration has been jailed after a six-week investigation.

Corwyn K. Thompson, 19, of 387 W. Bay St., was scheduled for court arraignment on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Bail was set at $10,000 for Thompson in the arrest warrant issued from Harbor Judicial District Court, based on evidence gathered since the Sunday night, June 1, incident.

Kevin C. Gleason, 17, of 2915 Pemba Drive, Costa Mesa, sustained severe facial lacerations in the bottle attack and had to have stitches taken at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

The young member of the police department-sponsored law enforcement Explorer Scout unit was trying to get a group of children out from under the Fish Fry carnival's Nightmare Ride when he was attacked.

Investigators were told an older youth began yelling obscenities at the youth, an aspiring police officer assisting local patrolmen at the Fish Fry, then flung the bottle in his face.

Detectives said the man fled into the crowd and eluded a

Krishnas Seek Court Decision

A petition demanding that the Orange County Fair permit saffron-robed cultists of the Hare Krishna Society to distribute leaflets and chant meditations was under consideration today by U.S. District Court officers in San Francisco.

The paperwork was filed Friday, following a dispute in philosophy between the Krishna consciousness group and operators of the Orange County Fair.

Krishna worshipers claim they have been refused permission to proselytize among everyone from Catholics to Unitarians to agnostics who patronize the fair.

"That's really not true," a spokesman for the fair said today.

Missionaries of the robed cult which gowns itself in saffron-orange or white colored robes and hands out esoteric leaflets to the jingle of finger-cymbals last week asked permission to do so at the fair.

They were refused, on grounds that individuals unimpressed with their devotion to Krishna doctrine might litter the 165-acre fairgrounds with Krishna literature.,

Lawyers for the Krishna Consciousness Society in Los Angeles immediately filed the petition in federal court, citing a Northern California legal action occurring last week.

A judge there issued an injunction ordering the Alameda County Fair to allow Krishna cultists to distribute their gospel through the ritual of Sankirtan, or soliciting funds for the temple and disseminating religious literature.

Fairgrounds Manager James Porterfield was tied up in operations of the fair — estimated to draw 250,000 persons during its 10-day run — and could not be reached for comment today.

A spokesman, however, said while the fair's sales manager turned down the Krishna request to distribute literature on grounds of possible litter problems, they were told they can rent an exhibit booth.

"We have several religious groups doing that," said the fair spokesman.

The lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court by the group renowned for chanting "Hare Krishna," handing out flowers and shunning meat names the 32nd Agricultural Association (the Orange County Fair Board) Orange County Sheriff Bradley Gates and District Attorney Cecil Hicks as defendants.

Planners Weigh Complex

A zone change for a second Pinecreek Apartments complex complete with manmade stream, fir trees and boulders dotted among its proposed 17-plus acres will be considered by the Costa Mesa Planning Commission tonight.

Only the zone change itself and an environmental impact report are up for review and recommendation to the city council during the 6:30 p.m. meeting.

Citing preliminary developmental plans and the EIR, plus quality of the previous Pinecreek development, the planning department staff is recommending approval.

The proposed new Pinecreek complex of 388 units by C.J. Segerstrom and Sons would be built at 1300 Adams Ave., near Orange Coast College.

Planning department officials point out the property is suggested for multiple dwelling units under the city's general plan and one other, the Our Town Apartments, is already located in the area.

The new Pinecreek development would be identical to another one on Fairview Road, according to planners.

Hope & Co. To Entertain Fair Crowds

Comedian Bob Hope will entertain at the Orange County Fair in Costa Mesa Tuesday, appearing along with bandleader Les Brown and His Band of Renown and singer Rosemary Clooney.

Gates open as usual at 10 a.m. and close at 10 p.m.

Hope and the Brown-Clooney music makers will appear at 8 p.m. at the fairgrounds grandstand.

"Good Old Days" is this year's fair theme. Activities Tuesday will be dedicated to the City of Westminster and to all Orange County Senior Citizens.

Band music will be provided during the day by the Burbank Police Youth Band.

Following Tuesday's fair highlights:

—4 p.m., Burbank Police Youth Band concert on fairgrounds proper.

—4:30 p.m., Demonstration of bread-making with whole grains, in Home Living Pavilion.

—5 p.m., Kickfire Blues Band Concert on Mountain Dew Stage.

—6 p.m., The Melodears on Family Fun Stage.

Irvine Swap Site Declared 'Excess'

By DOUGLAS FRITZSCHE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Hamilton Air Force Base in Marin County, which has been eyed by the Irvine Company for a possible land swap, has been declared excess government property.

But any speculation on whether the company will trade land in the noise-bombarded area around El Toro Marine Corps Air Station for the 1,485-acre Hamilton base is premature, company spokesman Martin Brower said today.

Speculation about an imminent land swap, said Brower, has touched off controversy in the Marin County City of Novato, with arguments for and against Irvine Company acquisition and development of the land appearing almost daily in the local press.

Company vice president Tom Wolff has said that the company must have assurance that proposed developmeut would be allowed before it would move to acquire the land.

Broad swaths of land around the El Toro base cannot be developed by the Irvine Company due to the noise and potential crash hazard.

The federal government, said Brower, has offered to exchange surplus land elsewhere.

BREAK-INS

the break-ins will be provided to the Senate committee, Kelley said, "It will be a matter which will be completely presented to the attorney general.

Full disclosure, he added, "is a question only he can answer."

The director said the Justice Department also is reviewing the break-ins to determine their legality.

Although suggesting that he might consider break-ins improper or unwise today, Kelley insisted that those who carried out the break-ins were acting for the good of the nation.

"I do not note in these activities any gross abuse of authority," he asserted. "I see a consistent thread of well-intentioned activity."

Kelley also declined to say whether he personally participated in break-ins as an FBI agent from 1940 through 1961, serving at various times in the Houston, Seattle, San Francisco, Birmingham and Memphis field offices.

He was asked whether civil rights groups were the targets of break-ins, and again refused to say.

He said all the FBI break-ins apparently were conducted in this country. "I know of none overseas," he said.

TRIAL . . .

Vallerga will answer to seven criminal charges related to the sale of a computerized assessor's appraisal system to Spartanburg County, South Carolina.

Included among the charges are embezzlement of public funds and grand theft.

Those charges center on $6,000 paid by Spartanburg to former assessor Andrew Hinshaw for what was termed consultant fees.

The grand jury charged that $3,000 paid to Vallerga along with expenses rightfully was part of the contract for the purchase of the computer system.

Vallerga has insisted whatever money he received was for legitimate consulting work which he is entitled to accept with other government agencies.

Still ahead of the beleaguered county assessor are criminal proceedings related to the purported use of county employes in Hinshaw's 1972 congressional campaign.

Vallerga must also answer a Grand Jury accusation charging him with five acts of misconduct. Should a jury find the assessor guilty of any of the criminal or misconduct charges he faces removal from office.

Porno Flicks In Balboa Raise Hackles

Irate Balboa residents and city councilmen will air their views tonight on the issue of pornography on the Peninsula.

And lawyers will do the same Thursday morning in the first local court test of "Deep Throat" and "The Devil in Miss Jones."

Tonight's discussion will include the presentation to councilmen of yet another petition by residents seeking an end to the X-rated offerings of the Balboa Pussycat Theater.

City Attorney Dennis O'Neil will report on the progress of the local prosecution of what police consider obscene offerings at the old theater.

The first court appearance following a lengthy series of raids at the movie house is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday before Municipal Court Judge Donald Dungan.

The firm operating the theater was served last Thursday with documents summoning lawyers to court in a hearing to determine whether the theater should be shut down.

The court action amounts to the first Orange County hearing since the latest decision by the U.S. Supreme Court which significantly altered the law related to local interpretation of obscenity.

Essentially, the court ruled that obscenity cases must run the full course through local and state courts before entering the federal arena.

Mesan Faces Drug Charges In Overdose

Narcotics charges were pending today against a Costa Mesa man who was near death from an overdose of what police say was either cocaine or heroin when he finally received help Friday night.

Robert S. Roth, 19, of 740 Shalimar Drive, was rushed to Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital in a coma, then treated at Orange County Medical Center and later released.

Police Officer Dennis Jefcoat said firemen had to administer oxygen to Roth at his apartment after authorities were notified it appeared his heart had stopped.

Investigators allege they confiscated about five ounces of marijuana, a tiny amount of apparent heroin or cocaine, and a bloody hypodermic syringe from Roth's apartment.

FORD . . .

"We had a greater understanding of the complexity of this problem," he added.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has been hostile to the prospect of ending price controls on "old" oil, which comprises 60 percent of production and now pegged at $5.25 per barrel, on the theory it would send fuel prices skyrocketing.

The control law is due to expire Aug. 31 and Ford warned he would veto any extension approved by Congress unless lawmakers accept his "reasonable compromise."

Mariners Individual Retirement Account is a personal tax-sheltered retirement plan. "IRA" was developed by Congress to give you an effective way to build your own retirement fund.

You can save as much as $1500 or 15% of your wages, whichever is less, and your savings will be a tax deduction during your working years. If your spouse works, your combined tax-sheltered savings can be as much as $3000 per year.

Come in to Mariners and start your own Individual Retirement Account. You'll be saving tax dollars now and building a much brighter future. For more information, come in or call any one of our convenient locations.

HERE'S HOW FAST YOUR MONEY GROWS IN A MARINERS "IRA" ACCOUNT. Individual Retirement Accounts are presently earning 7¾% per year when placed in a 6-year certificate. Your annual yield is increased to a big 8.06% when interest is added to the account balance and compounded daily. With a maximum individual contribution of $1500 each year here's how your money will grow:

AFTER	WITH TAX SHELTERED IRA PLAN	WITHOUT TAX SHELTERED PLAN	EXTRA MONEY FROM TAX DEFERRAL
5 yrs.	$ 9,510	6,730	$ 2,780
10 yrs.	23,540	15,750	7,790
20 yrs.	74,640	65,840	30,560
30 yrs.	185,550	95,030	90,520
