Battin Asks Speedy Trial, Blasts Hicks

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Indicted Orange County Supervisor Robert Battin wants a speedy trial.

Battin announced at a press conference in Santa Ana Friday that he wants to be tried within 60 days and that a fund — the Robert Battin Defense Fund — has been set up to help him pay attorney fees.

A day after he was indicted by the Orange County Grand Jury on seven felony charges related to alleged campaigning at taxpayer expense, the Santa Ana supervisor had regained his composure and was delivering verbal blasts at District Attorney Cecil Hicks.

In addition to repeating charges of personal and official misconduct he's leveled at the district attorney since a feud between them erupted two months ago, Battin:

— Handed out unofficial indictment forms that accused Hicks of 20 violations of election codes related to accepting campaign contributions in 1970 from members of his staff.

— Declared that federal agencies are investigating Hicks' official conduct.

—Labeled Hicks the "chief soldier of the Orange County Republican mafia."

When he wasn't lambasting the district attorney, the embattled county supervisor was outlining his defense against the seven charges brought against him by the Grand Jury.

He blamed whatever shortcomings there were in the handling of his '74 campaign finances on his former office manager Ted Moraitus.

It was Moraitus who prepared the five payroll sheets that resulted in his being charged with using county paid employes in his ill-fated campaign for the Democratic Party's nomination for lieutenant governor, Battin said.

When reminded that he had called for Assessor Jack Vallerga's suspension after Vallerga was indicted, Battin said, "I hadn't walked in his shoes yet."

The two-term supervisor then said he will not abandon his seat on the board of supervisors until the felony charges against him are settled.

He is expected to get a boost on that stand from board chairman Ralph Diedrich Tuesday.

It is believed that Diedrich, who also called for Vallerga to step down after he was indicted, will point out that the post of assessor is an elected administrative position and that a supervisor is a legislator.

As for the defense fund, Battin said it is needed to help cover the cost of attorney Matt Kurilich's services.

He said the prominent Fullerton criminal attorney wants $10,000 to cover pre-trial work and an additional $15,000 if the case goes to trial.

A day earlier, Battin said that as a result of the indictment he was politically dead.

But on Friday afternonon he said his political future would be in a state of limbo until his case is settled.

Crash Kills Irvine Pilot

Police Copter Plummets

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An Anaheim police helicopter crashed on an undercover mission near Idyllwild Friday, killing a 35-year-old police pilot from Irvine and critically injuring a fellow officer.

Gary Anthony Nelson, a member of the Anaheim force for 11 years, was killed instantly when the chopper — one of the two employed by the Anaheim force — plunged earthward only a few dozen yards from a fire lookout station.

The accident occurred during an undercover surveillance Friday afternoon in an extremely remote section of Tahquitz Peak in the mountains overlooking Palm Springs.

Police spokesmen in Anaheim declined to specify the nature of the case which drew the chopper and its crew to the area.

Along with Nelson was Ontario resident and fellow Anaheim officer Robert Eugene Repartee, 24.

He was reported in grave condition at Loma Linda Hospital this morning after first being treated at the crash scene by paramedics who parachuted in and who later assisted in his evacuation.

Officials in the Riverside County Sheriff's Office said that there was only one witness to the crash, a woman forest fire lookout on duty at the almost inaccessible tower.

She reportedly said that the helicopter suddenly appeared and slammed into the ground about 75 yards from her tower.

Officer Nelson, who leaves a widow and two children, 13 and 10 years old, was among the first officers on the Anaheim force to transfer to the helicopter detail when it was organized in 1970.

Before joining the helicopter detail he worked in the special enforcement and in the patrol divisions.

Officer Nelson was a 1959 graduate of Newport Harbor High School.

Repartee has been on the force for two and one-half years.

Viejo Robbers Get $40,000

A bandit team in white rubber masks is believed to have escaped with nearly $40,000 in a Mission Viejo bank robbery Friday.

Curious witnesses watched part of the 10:40 a.m. robbery at Bank of America as the disguised pair brandishing a shotgun and pistol entered, then fled to a stolen getaway car.

They roared out of the shopping center at Muirlands Boulevard near La Paz Road as a teenaged girl ran to call police and a second youth sprinted to the doughnut shop a block away to alert two sheriff's deputies.

One of the witnesses — realizing what was happening — copied the car's license number, while others pursued it to the parking lot of Mission Viejo High School a few blocks away.

The men piled out of their stolen, olive green 1963 car, clambered into a white sedan clutching pillowcases stuffed with cash and sped away.

Radio broadcasts of the daring holdup were already crackling out over Control One, the county's emergency frequency picked up by all police radios, but it was too late.

"They just vanished," said a desk officer with the Orange County Sheriff's Department.

Bank officers refused to reveal the exact loss on instructions by FBI agents probing the case, but said it was in excess of $5,000, according to sheriff's spokesmen.

One among the witnesses, including the dozen customers who stood inside as the cursing pair came bounding in, said he overheard FBI men and bank officials conferring.

Mike Ryan, 18, of Mission Viejo, said $39,750 was the sum mentioned as the bank's actual loss.

Ryan, who was outside in the Safeway shopping center, was one of those interviewed by FBI agents.

He said his attention was immediately attracted at first as they drove in and parked near the east entrance of the bank branch, which was relatively crowded with Friday customers.

"They were wearing funny costumes, so I watched them," said Ryan. "One guy got out of the car and went into the bank. He was carrying a long gun like a rifle."

One unidentified woman told a shop owner in the center that she pulled in and parked next to the pair, then saw their guns, put her car in reverse and drove away.

Clutching the shotgun and pistol, the pair who wore old overalls and also reportedly blonde wigs swiftly entered the bank and ordered all persons present to freeze.

Clutching pillowcases, the young bandits vaulted the counter and stuffed the bed linens with bills from tellers' drawers.

Hinshaw's Attorney To Ask Trial Delay

If his attorney has anything to say about it, the trial of Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R-Newport Beach) on 15 felony counts brought against him by the Orange County Grand Jury won't get under way until November.

As it is, Hinshaw is scheduled to be tried in Santa Ana beginning Monday.

But the Republican congressman's attorney said Friday he will seek a delay until November.

"We haven't had time to examine all the evidence," lawyer Marshall Morgan said. "I think it's absolutely necessary that the trial be delayed."

While the defense wants more time to prepare its case, Assistant Dist. Atty. Michael Capizzi said Thursday the prosecution is ready to go.

Capizzi's schedule was cleared when former assistant county assessor George Upton's bribery trial ended earlier than was expected this week.

Upton shortcircuited the trial after almost four days when he pleaded guilty to three counts of accepting a bribe.

His plea, along with the conviction of Assessor Jack Vallerga that Capizzi won in Ventura County last week, left the 35-year-old prosecutor free to begin Hinshaw's trial Monday.

But if Morgan gets the 90-day delay he wants, the Hinshaw trial will begin long after accounts have been settled with others charged with crimes allegedly committed when the congressman was Orange County as-

Assembly OKs Badham Bill On Disclosure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Friday passed and sent to the governor a bill requiring judges, district attorneys and some state commissioners to file financial disclosure statements.

The Assembly voted 67-1 to concur with Senate amendments to the measure (AB959) by Assemblyman Robert Badham (R-Newport Beach).

Currently, elected judges, district attorneys and members of some state commissions do not have to file financial disclosure reports required of state legislators.

The bill would require the statements of judges, district attorneys, members of the Public Utilities Commission, members of the state Energy Resources Conservation and Development Commission, members of state or regional coastal zone commissions and members of the Fair Political Practices Commission.

Honduras Nixes Banana Pacts

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Honduras has cancelled all contracts under which Standard Fruit Co. and a subsidiary of United Brands export bananas from this central American nation.

President Juan Melgar Castro announced the action Friday night in a broadcast speech to the nation, referring to the damage to Honduras by a $1.25 million bribe scandal involving United Brands which markets "Chiquita" bananas.

Castro Says He Was Wrong On Missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro, seeking better relations with the United States, says he was wrong to have opposed the U.S.-Soviet deal that ended the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

Castro's second thoughts on the crisis agreement between former Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev and President John Kennedy were quoted in a report released Friday by Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.) who visited Castro in May.

"I would have taken a harder line than Khrushchev," McGovern quoted Castro as saying during their talks in Havana.

"I was furious when he compromised. But Khrushchev was older and wiser. I realize in retrospect that he reached the proper settlement with Kennedy.

"If my position had prevailed, there might have been a terrible war."

Two Cocaine Suspects Sought

By JACK CHAPPELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Narcotics officers are searching today for two more persons involved with a cocaine ring that police say included the son of long-time San Clemente City Manager Kenneth Carr.

Agents from the San Clemente and Laguna Beach Police Departments and the State Narcotics Bureau said they seized high grade cocaine worth an estimated $250,000 and made three arrests Thursday in San Clemente during an undercover buy of cocaine.

Those arrested included Ronald Carr, 22, son of Kenneth Carr, the city's chief administrative officer and the police chief's immediate superior.

Others arrested were Robert E. Cooper, 31, and Angela M. Martin, 28, both of whom listed an address of 26692 Calle Salida, Capistrano Beach. The younger Carr was living away from home at 114 E. Ramona, San Clemente.

Court arraignments were scheduled for Monday.

Police say two people eluded officers during followup investigations.

Laguna Beach Police Det. Terry MacAdam said Friday an undercover buy was arranged to purchase 20 ounces of cocaine at a price of $1,800 an ounce.

A state narcotics agent carried $40,000 in cash with him to the prearranged meeting spot near the San Clemente General Hospital.

His contacts at the site told him they had brought only six ounces but would arrange to bring the rest of the drug later, MacAdam said. Officers decided not to wait and 10 lawmen closed in on the action.

MacAdam said purchases of cocaine over a one month period were financed by State Narcotics Bureau and cost about $7,000 — of which $2,000 in cash was seized when the arrests were made.

In all, about a pound of cocaine was either bought or seized by officers, they said. Because of the drug's high quality, authorities said it could have been cut six to seven times before general sale thus giving it the potential worth of $250,000.

The city manager's son was booked on five counts of alleged sale of cocaine. He was held on $25,000 bail at Orange County Jail Friday.

Cooper, previously arrested in Laguna Beach for alleged receipt of stolen property, was booked on two counts alleging sales of cocaine and held on $50,000 bail. The woman was booked for alleged possession of cocaine for sale and released on her own recognizance.

Burrows Sprayed To Prevent Plague

As a preventive measure in the wake of seven cases of bubonic plague across the country, Orange County health officials are spraying burrows of squirrels which could have disease-infested fleas.

But Dr. John Philp, county health officer, stressed no plague-carrying fleas have been found.

Outbreaks of bubonic plague have been reported among ground squirrels and other rodents in some Ventura and Los Angeles county parks.

In Ventura County, an infant died of the plague. She was the first Californian since 1970 to die of the disease.

"We have had no plague in Orange County. There have been reports of rodent die-off in northern San Diego County, but we have no such phenomenon in Orange County," Dr. Philp said.

However, the county has been spraying rodent burrows with an insecticide to kill fleas which elsewhere are the actual carriers of the plague. The fleas are carried by the squirrels.

Dr. Stuart Long, vector ecologist with the Orange County Mosquito Abatement District, which monitors rodent population, said the district is conducting the spraying in areas of heavy squirrel concentrations at Fairview State Hospital grounds in Costa Mesa and at a park near the city of Orange.

In addition, the county has a testing procedure established for squirrels to see if they are carrying any diseases.

The squirrels are trapped alive. Blood samples are taken and they are combed with a fine tooth comb to check for fleas. The samples are tested at the health department lab.

Dr. Long said that before any real concern would be raised, there would have to be several positive tests, there would have to be an unusually high death rate among the rodents and there would have to be a high flea population.

"The last several years, Orange County has had very few fleas on its rodents as compared with other counties," Dr. Long said.

Extensive insecticide spraying operations are underway in San Diego and Los Angeles park areas in an effort to reduce flea populations there. Squirrels, rats and other animals have died in both counties recently showing the plague symptoms.

In humans those symptoms include fever, headache, general weakness and pain or swelling in the glands of the arms, neck and groin.

Tracing the history of squirrel plague infection Dr. Philp said it all stemmed from the 1906 San Francisco earthquake and fire.

The wharf areas burned and their large population of rats which harbored the plague fled into the city and beyond.

"The easiest way of explaining it is that at that point, the fleas kind of jumped from the rats to the squirrels," Dr. Philp said.

He said instances of plague infected ground squirrels are now found as far as the Rocky Mountains.

Divorces Speeded Up

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Fifteen couples seeking divorce on grounds of incompatibility had no trouble Friday getting along with the judge.

District Judge Keith Hayes decided he just did not have time to spend all morning on divorce cases, so he brought everybody together for a session of speedy justice.

"My clerk timed it. It took just six minutes," the judge said afterwards.

"Everybody seemed pleased and they were thrilled to get out so fast. I didn't hear any negative responses."

Feud Takes New Twist

Fired Inspector Irked by Job Offers

By JOHN VALTERZA
of the Daily Pilot Staff

A month-old feud and chess game between Newport Beach's city manager and a fired business license inspector took a new turn late this week with a list of city job offers that the employe rejected hands down.

"All the jobs he (manager Robert Wynn) offered were menial laboring jobs. That irked me," said the former city employe, Stanley Hirschberg.

Wynn, who has grappled with the issue ever since Hirschberg was demoted, then fired last spring, said Friday he thought he was abiding by the most recent civil service commission recommendations in offering the jobs to the former aide.

They included posts of police dispatcher, storekeeper, groundsman-gardener and several more.

Wynn also offered to include Hirschberg on a preferential employe's list to be notified when other positions opened up.

The commission ended a marathon hearing into the matter more than a month ago by suggesting that Wynn place Hirschberg in a job comparable to that taken from him after assertions that the inspector had difficulty working with the public.

Now, Hirschberg insists on either his old job back, or one which the city could create for him.

"The only other one I'd take is a job as city ombudsman — someone who could act as a third party to settle disputes," Hirschberg said.

At this point, Wynn insists that he has made the gesture sought by the advisory commission and that the case is closed.

But Hirschberg is far from satisfied.

"I'm pretty sure my lawyer will be filing an action sometime next week in Superior Court," he said.

He may seek a million dollars in damages, he added.

Production Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Industrial production increased in July for the first back-to-back monthly gain since the end of the Arab oil embargo, the Federal Reserve board said Friday.

The output of the nation's mines, factories and utilities climbed 0.5 percent in July to match the revised June increase, the Central Bank said.

sion Viejo branch said the robbery was recorded by two remote control movie cameras.

He said it would be some time before the photographs are developed and printed by FBI technicians in Los Angeles and that it might be Monday before they are available for distribution and possible publication.

"They're not going to tell us much of anything but which one was short and which one was tall," another FBI agent conceded later Friday.

Bonnie Corder, of Mission Viejo, witnessed the getaway. "It was just perfect for them (the robbers)," she said. "There wasn't anyone in the parking lot at the time they left . . . we saw them go."

Sheriff's deputies found the getaway car, stolen earlier in Tustin, abandoned on the Mission Viejo High School campus.

Fingerprints were lifted from the car, but investigators doubted they would be those of the bandits who obviously took great care in planning and executing the job.

It contained 10 packages of promotional plastic ashtrays advertising cigarettes, a sweater, some paper and an unopened five-pound bag of dry cat food.

Weather

Rainfall, heavy in some areas, dampened much of the lower and middle Mississippi Valley Friday while most of the rest of the country dealt with cloudy to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures.

Rainfall at midday was heaviest in southwest Missouri and northwest Arkansas, with about two inches reported.

Skies were cloudy from the Plains east through the Great Lakes and into the middle Mississippi Valley, across the Tennessee Valley and on to the Atlantic Coast.

By noon, temperatures ranged from the low 100s in the desert areas to the 60s in the northern Plains. There were some 50-degree readings in the mountains and along the Pacific Coast. Temperatures were in the 90s over much of the southeast quarter of the nation.

New Race Hurdle

County Fair Raps Bill Change

By ALAN DIRKIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A new hurdle has been thrown into the path of the Orange County Fair Board's bid to sponsor thoroughbred horse racing at Los Alamitos.

The fair board recently lost its application for a 14-day meet in November 1976, but plans to appeal the denial by the California Horse Racing Commission to Orange County Superior Court.

But before filing the appeal, Henry Lewin, the attorney representing the fair board, said he is waiting for the horse racing commission to state its reasons for the denial.

The new hurdle is a bill in the state Assembly which would change the law governing thoroughbred racing allocations.

The bill, as introduced by Assemblyman Leon Ralph (D-Los Angeles) related originally to quarter horse racing, but was amended to increase the allocation of thoroughbred racing in central and Southern California from 41 to 46 weeks.

Orange County fairgrounds Manager Jim Porterfield said, "The bill as amended is designed to preclude us from securing the horse racing dates that the law provides. Those extra five weeks fall in the dates we are after."

Porterfield said he believes the major thoroughbred racing tracks in Southern California, which opposed Orange County's recent application to the horse racing commission, were behind the bill.

Porterfield explained that the racing commission may be persuaded to award the additional dates to the major tracks rather than Los Alamitos because there would be a bigger return to the state through parimutuel betting if the dates were given to existing thoroughbred tracks.

Porterfield plans to go to Sacramento Tuesday to testify against the bill at a hearing before the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

Attorney Lewin maintained that he does not consider the amended bill as relevant to Orange County's application for the Los Alamitos dates.

"It is not law; we are proceeding under existing law," he said. "I view this bill as a tack used by those people opposing us. They decided they cannot oppose the application legally and decided to seek some change in the law. But that bill is not law and the racing commission should not be concerned with it."

The basis of Orange County's application is that existing law grants county fairs and expositions the right to hold 14 days of thoroughbred racing every year. A hearing was held on the application in July and at the commission's next meeting at Del Mar Aug. 7 the application was denied without comment.

The Orange County Fair Board is seeking the racing dates to raise revenue that would help underwrite improvements to the fairgrounds.

District Rejects Hike

Newport-Mesa Won't Boost Levy

The Newport-Mesa Unified School District will not take advantage of a school aid bill signed by Governor Brown this week which would allow the district to hike the tax rate another 11 cents.

Such an increase would bring in another $900,000, or about $28 per student, to the school district, which has an operating budget of $43.5 million.

But district Superintendent John Nicoll said Friday he had polled the district's board members and they agreed not to levy the additional amount because they want to keep faith with voters who authorized a tax increase last May.

The May vote, which carried by 171 votes out of a ballot of 17,000, allowed the district to add another $100 per student on the revenue limit for the next five years.

"We have constructed a fair budget and it would not be in good faith with the community to throw another $900,000 on the local tax kitty," Dr. Nicoll said.

However, the superintendent pointed out that the bill signed by Governor Brown which increases the statutory limit on school tax income would remain in effect in future and the 11-cent hike could be imposed by the school board next year or in later years.

"It may make it possible for us to take a better shot at keeping up with inflation in other years," he added.

The bill authorizes another $88 million in state aid for hard-pressed school districts. The governor had pared the bill down from $115 million.

The extra state cash is only for those school districts with low assessed values, and does not apply to districts like the Newport-Mesa district.

Though no state dollars were allocated to the wealthier districts, the bill does allow those school systems to increase local tax revenue. The Newport-Mesa board could have called a special meeting and approved the increase.

The increase was designed to raise $21 more per student, but because of an inflationary formula and another formula the hike would have averaged $28 per student in the Newport-Mesa district.

Second Time Bandits Shot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A bartender who was hit over the head with a steel pipe and robbed six months ago shot one alleged holdup man to death Friday and wounded another one when they tried to rob his bar.

Investigators said Ledell Alexander, 37, and Foster Morris, 34, both believed to be from Santa Ana, walked into the El Toro Bar at 1:30 a.m., displayed what appeared to be a gun concealed under a cloth and demanded money from bartender Barjam Hodo, 47.

Hodo picked up an automatic pistol and fired seven shots at the two men, police said.

Dr. Macdonald Wins Hearing on Appeal

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Friday ordered a delay in the trial of Dr. Jeffrey Macdonald on charges of killing his wife and two daughters until the court hears appeals on motions calling to dismiss the charges.

Macdonald, now an emergency room physician in Long Beach, Calif., was serving as an Army doctor at Ft. Bragg, N.C. when his wife, Collette, and his two daughters, Kristen Jean, 2, and Kimberly, 6, were beaten and stabbed to death on Feb. 17, 1970.

Macdonald, 32, contends a group of "hippie types" broke into his Fayetteville duplex then beat and stabbed him before murdering his family.

U.S. District Court Judge Franklin Dupree ordered Macdonald to stand trial in Raleigh Aug. 18, after denying a series of pretrial motions calling for dismissal of the charges and a change of venue.

But Friday, the appeals court agreed to hear appeals of the district court ruling saying, "We are of the view that the contentions made are not frivolous and that the rights asserted are too important to be denied review."

Former Nazi Chief Slain; Youth Held

EL MONTE (UPI) — Police arrested one youth who lived at the Southern California headquarters of the American Nazi Party and questioned other residents today about the slaying of the group's former leader.

Joseph Charles Tommasi, 24, El Monte, was found dead Friday by police responding to a telephoned report of a shooting outside of the white frame house.

He was shot dead with one bullet in the right eye, and police found the apparent murder gun on the sidewalk beside his body.

Witnesses told police the shooting occurred after Tommasi drove to the house, walked into the front yard carrying a club and started to argue with three men. He reportedly was shot after he stepped toward the house and refused an order to halt.

Officers questioned several members of the National Socialist White Peoples Party at the scene. Late in the day they arrested Jerry Keith Jones, 18, in connection with the death. Police also seized several handguns and rifles inside the headquarters.

Tommasi, whose last listed occupation was a cab driver, was ousted two years ago as head of the local Nazis in a dispute with the party leadership in Arlington, Va. He later formed a rival organization called the National Socialist Liberation Front to continue what he saw as "a national liberation movement against the enemy," primarily blacks and Jews.

Mrs. Flores was arrested at the port in her northbound car Thursday. She will be arraigned Monday before a U.S. magistrate in El Centro.

FBI's Disruption Of Klan Revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Previously secret documents show the FBI planted phony news stories, sent counterfeit mail and used other counterspy tactics to infiltrate and disrupt the Ku Klux Klan in the 1960s.

The documents, obtained by reporters Friday under the Freedom of Information Act, come from the files of the now-defunct FBI Counterintelligence Program (Cointelpro). Many were internal memorandums to and from the late FBI Director, J. Edgar Hoover.

They show in some detail how the bureau planted some 2,000 informants within the Klan, got fictitious news stories into print about Klan leaders and sent anonymous letters designed to demoralize Klansmen.

Cointelpro began in the early 1950s to combat the activities of the U.S. Communist Party. It later expanded in an effort to disrupt and discredit a wide range of U.S. political groups including the antiwar movement of the Vietnam era. Hoover ended the program in April, 1971, after some of its activities were disclosed by the news media.

The documents released Friday included letters dated Sept. 2, 1965, to Justice Department and White House officials in which Hoover said FBI infiltration of the Klan had helped solve the murders of civil rights activists and had reduced such violence throughout the south.

In one letter, Hoover disclosed that the Klan chieftain in one southern state was an FBI informant and said "we have had him warn every member of his organization that he will not tolerate violence in any form.

"As a result we have been successful to date in holding Klan violence in the entire state to an absolute minimum."

Hoover said FBI had informants in all 14 Klan groups and had penetrated "positions of leadership in seven of them."

Philp Story Error Noted

A printer hurrying to meet a deadline Friday inadvertently mixed two unrelated stories on page 3 of the Daily Pilot.

The resulting sequence of misplaced paragraphs made it appear that Dr. John Philp, Orange County's health officer, had resigned his post and was involved in criminal proceedings.

Dr. Philp has not resigned, nor is he involved in any criminal proceedings.

The Daily Pilot regrets the error.

FTC Warns Health Spas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is proposing a crackdown on "false, deceptive and misleading" health spa advertising aimed at Americans who crave trim waistlines and bulging biceps.

Under a Federal Trade Commission proposal announced Friday, health spa customers could get refunds if they are dissatisfied with results.

And the health spa industry — a $350 million annual sales business that has mushroomed since World War II — would have to tell prospective clients to get medical checkups if they are over 35 or may have heart conditions.

THIEF GETS RIDE INDEED

A sharp-eyed thief has taken Knott's Berry Farm for a ride — 8,000 rides, in fact.

Russell Knott, an executive of the Buena Park tourist attraction, reports that a shopping bag containing 8,000 ride tickets was stolen from an employe's car.

Lake Hills On Mission To Navajos

When 30 senior high youth board two Lake Hills Community Church vans Sunday for an 1800-mile round trip through Arizona and New Mexico, they will be off on a singing, working and witnessing mission outreach to Navajo Indians.

Leading this first annual summer missions institute will be associate pastor Rev. Robert Wise, along with youth choir director Robert Perry of Laguna Beach and high school sponsors Gary and Barb Greicar and Ed and SanDee Vaniman of Mission Viejo.

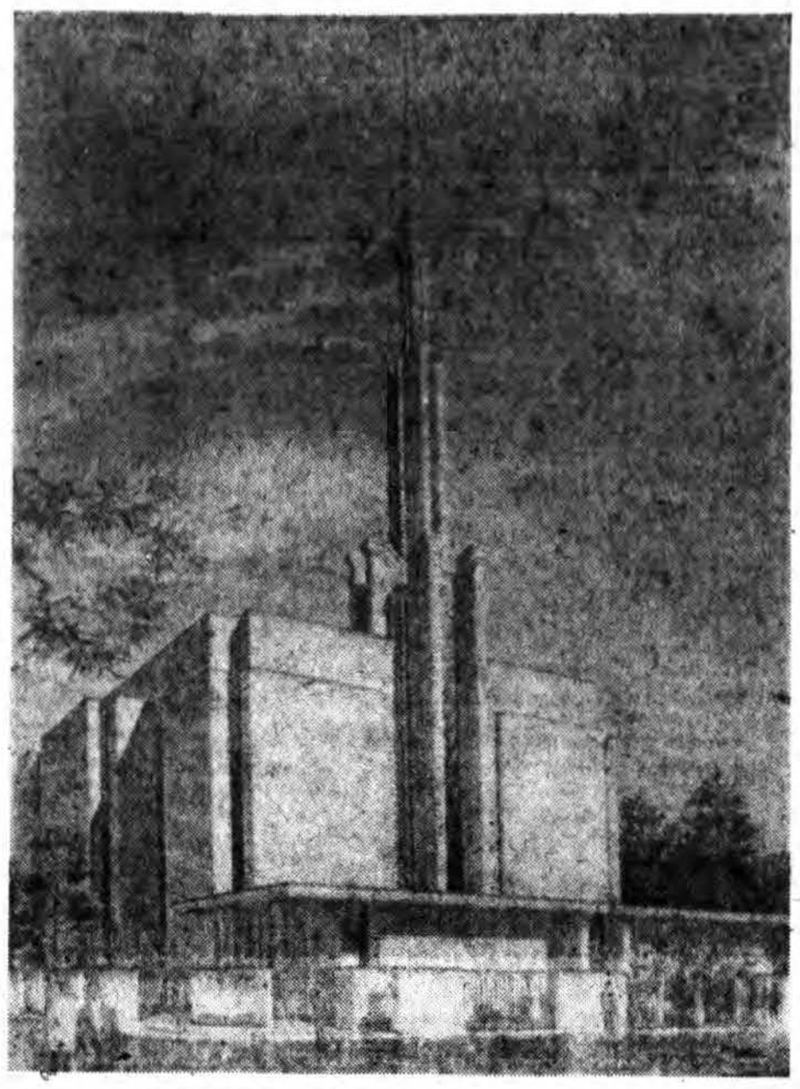

Itinerary includes the Glass and Garden Drive-in Church in Scottsdale, Arizona, where the young people will sing and share their faith. They will also perform at Trinity Presbyterian Church in Chinle, Arizona and at Community Congregational Church in Flagstaff.

THE GROUP will camp out two days at the Grand Canyon and view cliff dwellings at Canyon De Chelly. The heart of their mission, however, lies in the six days they will spend at Brethren Navajo Mission in Counselors, New Mexico. Here they will encounter Indian culture and lifestyles through interaction with high school youth and children who come to the mission; take classes in Indian lore and missions; and join in work projects of painting and repair at the mission.

The youth have spent the last eight weeks in preparation through study sessions, training in leadership and witnessing, and resource speakers, including a visit by the mission director, Rev. Larry Wedertz of Counselors, New Mexico.

In addition, the group has been in singing rehearsals since March, working in a contemporary Christian folk music vein and developing an individual style. They have appeared regularly as "The Xara Xrista" (meaning Christ joy) at Lake Hills Community Church Sunday evening services.

"Youth from an affluent society need to be exposed to the poverty and difficulties of the other side of life," says Rev. Wise. He adds, "That's one dimension of this project — confronting kids with the needs of the world. Another dimension is that we believe they can share vital Christian faith and concepts with other youth through interaction."

Tokyo Temple

The first Asian temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) will be built in Tokyo. Plans for the temple, shown in an artist's drawing, were announced this week by Spencer W. Kimball, church president. Construction of the Tokyo temple will begin next year. It is designed to serve 64,000 Mormons in Asia.

Love Loaf Program Announced

Harbor Trinity Baptist Church of Costa Mesa is conducting a World Hunger Relief Program in which church school children and families may participate through Thanksgiving Week.

The average person in the United States consumes four pounds of food daily — over 3240 calories with plenty of vitamins and minerals. Yet a majority of the people in the world today are going hungry, surviving on little more than 1800 calories a day which the United Nations says is a minimum subsistence level.

"At that low nutritional level," says Pastor Connie Salios, "a body's defense against disease weakens considerably, and it's not surprising that more than 10,000 men, women, and children die daily."

"Surely our people," said Pastor Salios, "who live in the most affluent country the world has ever known should assume their share of the responsibility for helping the world's needy."

RESPONDING TO THIS challenge Harbor Trinity Church is participating in the "Love Loaf" program of World Vision International that is being used to assist hungry people in disaster areas of the world.

Pastor Salios strongly believes that Christians cannot justify eating more than is adequate when others are not eating at all. He emphasizes that we do not need to deprive our families of needs, but we American Christians must stop assuming that we deserve luxuries.

Shaped like a miniature loaf of bread 4½ inches long and 2½ inches high, the Love Loaf containers will soon be distributed to most of the household units represented at Harbor Trinity.

PASTOR SALIOS noted that the Love Loaves will be left in homes for approximately three months. By the time they are full of nickels, dimes, pennies, and quarters, each Love Loaf will contain about $9 or $10.

"Love Loaf-Breaking Sunday" will take place at the church in about three months. Proceeds will be divided. Approximately half will be given by the church to The Baptist World Alliance Relief Commission. The remaining portion will go to the emergency relief ministry of World Vision International, originator of the Love Loaf program.

St. Paul's Readies Holy Land 'Flight'

When youngsters come to Vacation Bible School at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Laguna Beach Aug. 18 to 22, they will be embarking on an imaginary "Vacation with Jesus in the Holy Land."

Day-by-day they will venture forth to visit another place, and to reconstruct an important event that occurred in that place. The itinerary includes such locales as Sinai, Bethlehem, Galilee, Jerusalem, and the Mediterranean world.

The first "flight" is set to leave Monday at 9:30 a.m. Return will be at noon. "Flight reservations" (registration) can be made at any time by calling 494-7998 or 496-2279. However, space will be available for all who show up Monday morning.

DURING THE COURSE of the "escorted tour" maps, tableaux and displays will be constructed in conjunction with a daily lesson. Ancient and modern Hebrew folkdances will be taught. Foods of Holy Land variety will be sampled as a daily snack.

THE GRAND CLIMAX of the "Vacation Tour" will be in the closing program and family potluck dinner Friday at 6:30 p.m. Families and friends of all participants and other families of the church and community are urged to attend. At that time the youthful travelers will recap and share their happy adventure. All attending the potluck are asked to bring a main dish, plus a salad or dessert, and sufficient table service for their own needs.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church is located at 1190 Morningside Drive, on the hillside overlooking Bluebird Canyon and the sea.

Open House Slated By Temple Sharon

Temple Sharon, conservative congregation of the Harbor area, is holding its annual open house and school registration Aug. 17 and 24, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

All Jewish families are invited to tour the Temple facilities at 617 Hamilton St., Costa Mesa, and to meet the rabbi, Sheldon M. Kirsch, the Temple board members, and congregants. Questions on any phase of Temple Sharon's activities will be answered on an individual basis, according to Dan Zwickler, membership vice-president.

School registration will be held in the Vigman Educational Center. Sunday School is open to all children from four through 13 years of age. Children who are eight years old should be registered in the Hebrew School curriculum which meets every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 4 to 6, and on Sunday mornings from 9:30 until noon.

Nursery School offers a varied program from two to five mornings a week.

Hebrew High School registration will also be held at this time.

The newly refurbished Sisterhood Gift Shop will be open for browsing.

Further information may be obtained by phoning the Temple office, 646-5552, or 968-3652.

'SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY'
Pastor Eleanor Jackson

Local Pastor Views Return To Hollywood

Sunday, Aug. 31, promises to be a "memorable day" for the Rev. Eleanor C. Jackson, pastor of the Newport Harbor Church of Religious Science.

She has been invited by Dr. Robert Bitzer, president of Religious Science International and pastor of the Hollywood Church of Religious Science, to be featured speaker.

She has selected as her sermon topic: "Dominion Through Choice."

In addition to the honor of her Sunday appearance, there is also a 'sentimental' significance to the occasion. Exactly 25 years ago this month, as a young professional concert singer with the American Opera Company, she was guest soloist for the dedication of this same church.

Now, on the event of its silver anniversary, the Rev. Ms. Jackson will fill the pulpit as a Religious Science Minister.

Pastor Says:

Refugees 'Proud' To Live in U.S.A.

Pastor Nguyen Nam Hai, a spokesman for a group of 150 Vietnamese refugees living in Glendale, sharply criticized the news media attention given to the returning refugees, saying, "The vast majority of refugees consider themselves lucky to be here, and are proud to live in America. . .Why do we just hear of the few who are going home?"

Hai, speaking at the L.A. Press Club, noted that the 2,500 Vietnamese who are heading back home represent about 2% of the total escapees from the Communist regime. He cited language problems and the difficult time finding jobs for unskilled labor as decisive factors for the returnees.

For the remaining 98%, however, Hai maintained that they are proud to be here, "Now we know what freedom is. We heard a lot about freedom in Vietnam but nobody had experienced it. Now we enjoy the society here."

YET PASTOR HAI believes that the news media "preoccupation" with the discontented refugees has hurt the re-settlement process. Hai believes more Americans would be willing to help offer jobs and sponsor families if the news would focus on the feelings of the vast majority of refugees.

Hai, a former minister of the Evangelical Church of Vietnam, is the spokesman for a large group of refugees being relocated by a Glendale-based organization, World Emergency Relief. Dr. W.S. McBirnie, director for the group, stressed the dedication and pro-America spirit of the Vietnamese. "I cannot think of a time when America needed these hard-working, patriotic new Americans any more than today," commented McBirnie.

As to contentions by the North Vietnamese that the refugees were actually kidnapped from their homeland, Hai responded with a slight grin on his face, "I don't think the Americans kidnapped the Vietnamese people. . .For what purpose? For Nothing...it's ridiculous."

School Dean To Address Scientists

Dr. Al Lowe, dean of the School of Ministry, United Church of Religious Science, will be guest speaker Sunday at Huntington Beach Church of Religious Science, 609 11th St.

In addition to his lecture at 11 a.m., Dr. Lowe will conduct 9:30 a.m. study group, featuring a discussion of the teaching techniques he has developed for accredited courses in the Science of Mind.

According to the Rev. Peggy Bassett, minister of the Huntington Beach church, these new methods will be used in the first- and second-year classes beginning at the church in September.

Kennedy Still Favorite

Non-candidate 'Would Swamp' Other Democrats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Last year Sen. Edward Kennedy said unconditionally he would neither seek nor accept the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination. But there remain many who do not or do not want to believe him.

The reason is simple.

By every indicator Kennedy is the hottest political property the Democrats have.

A RECENT GALLUP Poll showed Kennedy getting 42 percent support among Democrats when matched against all other announced and potential candidates for the nomination. No one was within striking distance.

A more recent Gallup Poll gave Kennedy a 50-44 lead in a showdown with President Ford — an alluring vision for a party thrown out of the White House in 1968 and soundly trounced in 1972.

Another indicator of Kennedy's strength is his ability to round up money, even under strict new campaign reform regulations.

NEWS ANALYSIS

IN PUTTING TOGETHER a kitty for his re-election campaign in Massachusetts, the 43-year old heir to the Kennedy political dynasty had received, as of July 10, more than $104,000.

Unlike the presidential candidates who, with some exceptions, are struggling for money, Kennedy picked up his war chest at lunch in Los Angeles, cocktails in New York, breakfast in San Francisco and four events in Massachusetts.

Add the magic of the family name, the legions of party workers longing for another Kennedy campaign, high voter identification and growing stature in the Senate, and it isn't surprising that many Democrats hope — and some Republicans fear — a change of heart.

CERTAINLY KENNEDY'S statement Sept. 23, 1974, was explicit enough.

Ending the speculation that began the moment Richard Nixon destroyed George McGovern in 1972, Kennedy said ". . . In 1976, I will not be a candidate for president or vice president of the United States.

"This decision is firm, final and unconditional," Kennedy told a news conference in Boston. "There is absolutely no circumstance or event that will alter the decision."

WILL KENNEDY RUN?
Leading Candidate

KENNEDY ADDED: "I will not accept the nomination. I will not accept a draft. I will oppose any effort to place my name in nomination in any state or at any national convention, and I will oppose any effort to promote my candidacy in any other way."

Despite a disclaimer that rivaled William Tecumseh Sherman's 19th century stopper ("I will not accept if nominated and will not serve if elected") there were many skeptics — and none more skeptical than House Democratic Leader Thomas O'Neill.

O'Neill, a burly, outspoken Boston politician with good ties to the Kennedys, kept telling party leaders around the country not to accept Kennedy's word at face value.

O'NEILL MADE IT clear he considered Kennedy a candidate in an interview on Public Broadcasting System several months ago. Then more recently, O'Neill said on "Face the Nation" that "I think that Ted Kennedy will be candidate for president of the United States."

Neither Kennedy nor anyone who spoke for him sought to harness O'Neill in the time between the two interviews. It was only several days after O'Neill's second appearance before the cameras that Kennedy finally stilled him.

O'Neill called a news conference and said Kennedy phoned him and "he told me 'Tip, I am not going to be a candidate for president of the United States'."

O'NEILL SAID THE call convinced him Kennedy was not a candidate. But he insists the decision was made not on Sept. 23, 1974, but sometime between the Saturday night before "Face the Nation" and the telephone call five days later.

"Anything that I said in the past was accurate and true," O'Neill told reporters. "Any time that I said Ted told me to 'keep me alive, Tip' was accurate and true.

"His voice would say 'No, no' but his eyes would say 'Yes, yes'," O'Neill added.

"HE COULD HAVE gotten it on the first ballot," O'Neill said. "Everywhere I went there was support for him. The people who supported his brother (John Kennedy) felt the same way about Ted. They offered assistance, financial and otherwise, to him if he wanted it."

In announcing he would not run, Kennedy said he could not make the "deepest personal commitment" he felt a presidential campaign required. He added, "My primary responsibilities are at home."

Kennedy's wife, Joan, has been hospitalized several times for treatment of emotional problems. His son, Teddy, had one leg amputated to stop the spread of cancer. Kennedy remains a father figure for the sons and daughters of his two assassinated brothers.

New Sci Fi Series Due

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With the new television season approaching its start, the three networks are nervously eyeing the sky for signs of an enemy moon station.

Actually the 311 travelers on Moonbase Alpha are benign, trying to save an earth endangered by misorbiting of the moon. But to the networks "Space: 1999" represents a threat to their own well-ordered orbits.

HERE'S WHY: "SPACE: 1999" is the new series produced by England's I.T.C. and starring Barbara Bain, Martin Landau and Barry Morse.

The company's boss, Sir Lew Grade, sidestepped the networks to offer it to local stations. Some 128 channels, 90 percent of them with network affiliations, will start offering the series in the next few weeks.

Many of the stations have knocked out network shows to offer "Space: 1999" in prime time. This could mean damaged ratings and possible extinction for new series, particularly those in the 8-9 "family hour."

Why did "Space: 1999" go to syndication instead of networks?

"IT'S A MATTER OF ECONOMICS," explained Landau, the intrepid Commander Koenig of Moonbase Alpha and star with his wife of the "Mission Impossible" series.

"It takes place 25 years from now," Miss Bain recounted, "and scientists from many nations are on the moon to provide a defense system against invaders.

"Nuclear wastes are deposited on the far side of the moon, and they explode and send the moon out of orbit."

Tidal waves and earthquakes strike the earth as the moon and its inhabitants veer into space. The rest of the adventure concerns the search of the moon travelers for a new home.

THE LANDAUS WERE INTRIGUED BY the proposal and committed themselves to a year and a half of production in England. This meant transplanting themselves and daughters Susan and Juliet, now 15 and 10, to a 200-year-old house in the Little Venice section of London.

"Each show was like a '2001: Space Odyssey,'" said Landau. "In fact, the same technicians who worked on the movie did the effects for our show."

Life Term Due For Killer-rapist

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Kent D. Chisenhall, 23, has been sentenced to life imprison for repaying a couple's hospitality by killing the man and raping his common-law wife.

Chisenhall, 23, was convicted by a jury July 16 of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Williams Barns, a 25-year-old jeweler, in Barns' motorhome Dec. 5.

Barns and his common-law wife, Addie Beaudry, 23, invited Chisenhall to stay in the motorhome after striking up an acquaintance with him.

On the night of Dec. 5, testimony showed, Chisenhall shot Barns in the head with a .22-caliber pistol he had stolen from a Dallas couple he had robbed and raped. He then dragged the woman to the front of the motorhome and raped her while her two infant children slept.

Authorities testified during the trial that Chisenhall was befriended last November by a Dallas couple, Lyn and Debbie Couvillion. After living with them three days, prosecutors said, Chisenhall raped the woman at gunpoint and robbed the couple before escaping in their pickup truck, taking Couvillion's gun with him.

Nudies Get Their Days

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — The Forest Service has come up with a plan to allow both the conventional swimmer and skinny dipper to use the Spence Springs area in the Santa Fe National Forest.

Spence Springs, a longtime favorite swimming area, has been used both by persons wearing swimsuits and persons swimming in the nude. Problems often arose when the groups met.

The Forest Service said starting Sept. 1 nude bathers will be allowed to use the springs on Sundays through Thursdays. The other three days of the week will be reserved for persons with suits.

Fractures Form From Foot Fads

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If you wear clogs or platform heel shoes, a specialist warns, there's a chance of serious injury from falling.

Sprains, fractures, and contusions are often the result of such footwear, according to Dr. John R. Graham, new president of the American Podiatry Association.

"Whether a person should wear such styles must be considered individually," said the Decatur, Ill., doctor. "But aside from any damaging effect such shoes may have on the feet, the risk of accidents is higher for anyone wearing them."

A study by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, he said, cites a high incidence of accidental injury among wearers of platform styles and clogs.

Gone to Pot

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP) — Marijuana is said to flourish almost anywhere, but one exception is the police station here, which tries to keep the plants on hand to show what marijuana looks like.

"They die on us," said Chief Wayne Baker. "Usually, they grow like weeds. I don't know what's wrong."

English Ivy

Californians find 101 different ways to feature Ivy in their homes and gardens. Indoors, the simplicity and natural beauty of Ivy serves as a unique decoration to complement the furnishings.

Home, Garden Show Opens In Anaheim

Some of the rarest and most beautiful flowers under the sun — or even in the shade — are on display at the Southland Home and Garden Show through Aug. 24 in Anaheim's air-conditioned Convention Center.

The flower show portion of the annual home show is in the Arena which has been converted into a fairyland setting of colorful flowers and shrubs by the father-son team of Harry Macres Sr. and Harry Macres Jr.

FOCAL POINT of the show is a bicentennial salute in living American flowers.

Eight-foot-high busts of founding fathers, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and John Hancock are flanked by arrangements of red, white and blue flowers. Immediately in front of the busts is a large, hand printed reproduction of the Declaration of Independence.

Persons with problems in gardening and flower growing may find experts manning booths who will be able to give advice on everything from which type of fertilizer to use and when is the best time to plant.

Many rare and exotic flowers and shrubs are displayed, but also on exhibit are prized specimens of more common flowers as dahlias, begonias, fuchsias and domestic orchids.

Botanicos' Luncheon Set

The newly-elected officers of the Mission Viejo Botanicos Garden Club will be on hand Wednesday, Aug. 20 for the Club's second annual membership luncheon.

Scheduled for 11:30 p.m. at the Mission Viejo Swim and Racquet Club, 26221 Tierra Circle, the luncheon will feature a no-charge salad buffet. Plans for the upcoming year are scheduled for discussion.

Luncheon reservations are open to the public and can be made by calling Beverly Druckrey, 831-2959, no later than Thursday, Aug. 14.

Ivy Adds Freshness Indoors

Many plants are taken for granted — and members of the ivy family are often in this situation.

There may be nothing flashy about ivy, but there's distinctive beauty to be sure. Many recent introductions of this foliage favorite have thrilled gardeners who discovered them. As a matter of fact, Californians find more than 100 ways to feature ivy in their homes and gardens.

FEW PEOPLE are unaware that ivy is used extensively as a ground cover on slopes and as a lawn substitute. Many people grew up watching ivy climb up a tree trunk — or, had the chance to train ivy against the house or a garage wall. A familiar neighborhood sight is ivy rambling over a fence or cascading over a garden wall. Likewise, ivy, as a hanging basket displayed on the porch or patio, was and still is a standard feature in many California homes.

Today's interest in plants suitable for growing indoors hasn't escaped the ivy family. A single pot of English ivy, or a heart-shaped sweetheart ivy in a distinctive container, adds a refreshing touch to indoor surroundings.

People are growing such refined varieties as Hahn's ivy, a dense grower, with soft green foliage, and California ivy, whose leaves resemble small maple leaves, in increasing numbers — featuring them indoors and in garden locations as well.

IN THE GARDEN, Algerian ivy has been a most popular ground cover. The green and variegated varieties enjoy continued popularity, but today share the spotlight with the English ivy, Hahn's ivy, needle point, curly and Rochester ivy.

Weekend Gardening Checklist

•Watering continues to be a must in the garden. Maintain moisture content in Fuchsias, Begonias, Azaleas, Camellias, and Rhododendrons. Water deeply — at regular intervals, your lawn, flower borders and vegetables.

•Prize Chrysanthemums come from plants that have regularly been fed and watered. Feeding should continue until the buds show color.

•Many popular perennials can be sown in flats this month. Check the seed rack at your nursery.

•Crabgrass controls can be applied this month. Have your nurseryman outline a year-round program to check this lawn pest.

•Camellias should be fed this month for the last time of the year.

HOME/GARDEN

Magnolias Make Great Patio Trees

Patio trees are something to live with and enjoy. They should never overpower the surroundings — and should be a pleasure to look at and sit by. Trees for the patio should also be well mannered in the sense of no shedding or excess clutter.

One that is extremely popular in most parts of the state today is Photinia Fraseri. This handsome evergreen, whose new foliage is a striking copper red in color, excels as a landscape shrub. Nurseries offer it trained as a tree and its modest growth and dark green foliage qualifies it for use near the patio.

HYBRID FORMS of the Southern Magnolia are also worthy candidates for patio plantings. St. Mary and San Marino Magnolias both feature the familiar evergreen foliage and fragrant white blossoms. They differ from the time-honored Southern Magnolia in growth habit. Both are compact growers. Each is at home in limited space — such as a patio planting, where the beauty and character of each tree adds a certain atmosphere to the outdoor living area The multitude of white blossoms is a bonus

The African Sumac, sold as Rhus lancea, is no newcomer on the gardening scene, but is enjoying increased popularity because of its habit of growth — which lends itself to today's smaller gardens. This slow growing evergreen features graceful weeping branches. It can be formed into an airy tree, and is accented by an interesting branch structure and dark, rough textured bark.

State Fights Tree Disease

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The arrival of the Dutch elm disease in California has triggered a $950,000 emergency program.

The disease, which has denuded as many as 90 percent of the elm trees in the East and Midwest, was discovered in Sonoma County last week.

The state Department of Food and Agriculture said this week it is starting to cut, stump and burn infected trees.

Rose Bird, secretary of agriculture and services, says Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. approved the $950,000, which is $900,000 more than the department had planned to spend.

It's Simple With Sod

To create an instant lawn, many Californians have taken to sodding. With sod it is possible to have a carpet of green surrounding your home — in a matter of hours. As for repairing or replanting — it's simple with sod.

Turf sod comes in strips of weed-free, commercially grown grass; ready to carpet the lawn area.

The use of sod does not eliminate the necessity of soil preparation for a lawn. The roots contained within the one or so inch thick strips of sod will begin to penetrate into the soil almost immediately. Therefore, soil preparation is of the utmost importance.

AFTER ROCKS, weeds and debris are removed from the area to be covered with lawn, loosen the soil — a rented rototiller is most practical — then mix in peat moss, redwood compost, or other recommended organic material.

The area should be raked next — leveling as you go. The soil surface should be an inch below cement walkways, patio slab, the driveway and sprinkler heads, to accommodate the thickness of the sod.

Blue grass, dichondra, hybrid bermuda and fine bladed ryes are generally available in sod form.

Plants 'Cry'

Coleus Sensitive to Noise

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you love your houseplants, don't yell at them. They might cry, run dry and die.

At least that's what students in Dr. Arthur Lord's physics class at Drexel University thinks after exposing some coleus plants to noise.

They started by growing two plants under identical conditions except for sound exposure. One was subjected to 100 decibels of sound — about the amount a passing elevated train might make. That plant wilted and died within a week and a half.

Research showed the plants were suffering from a severe water loss. They were, in fact, "crying" through their leaves.

Plant Vegetables For Winter Yield

Gardeners throughout the country are engaged in tending home vegetable gardens. Whatever the reason — the economy, the back-to-nature trend, or the health-exercise aspects, Americans agree that nothing can surpass the reward of home produced vegetables.

Thanks to a favorable climate, Californians, for the most part, have an advantage over Easterners when it comes to winter vegetables. Residents of the Golden State can be harvesting vegetables when, elsewhere, snow covers the ground, or zero temperatures often prevail.

THE TIME for planting the so-called cool season vegetables is at hand, in most areas of the state. Nurseries have seeds of a long list of vegetables that can be planted now — especially in the coming weeks, for winter and spring harvest. Plant a realistic supply in relation to the size of the family. This will help in the decision of how much garden space will be needed for the home vegetable garden.

Many nurseries will be offering transplants of certain vegetables this fall. Set out a few plants of cabbage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and lettuce. Seed sown at this time may yield a crop, but may bolt and go to seed.

Such taste treats as beets, carrots, radishes and onions can be grown from seed now. They are easy to plant, hence, involving the youngsters in a fun and rewarding experience.

Elements of success for growing vegetables include soil preparation, adequate feeding, regular watering, and especially, the correct varieties for the season.

Time for Legal Aid Group Insurance?

By DAVID SMOTHERS
United Press International

Lawyers are waking up to the fact that most Americans can't afford them — or think they can't — and are trying to do something about it.

The something is insurance. A simple enough concept but new to the legal profession until lately.

If the plan works out, the middle class in this country may finally be able to enjoy legal services now available only to the rich and poor.

If you are rich, you can afford a lawyer — the best. In many areas of the country, if you are flat broke and on public aid you probably can get a lawyer, too, often the best — for free.

That leaves the rest of America, maybe 70 per cent, between 100 and 140 million people, for whom serious legal trouble can mean catastrophe, even financial wipeout, whether they are at fault or not.

James P. Connelly, president of the Chicago Bar Association, said, "We've made great strides in providing legal services to the poor. The rich never will and never did have a problem.

"And then there's a vast area of middle class citizens with family incomes of, say, $15,000 or more. That group is trapped economically in just about everything."

CONNELLY NOTED that most persons in this legally endangered group protect themselves from ruinous medical bills through insurance. If they own a car, common sense compels them to get insurance. The same goes for a house.

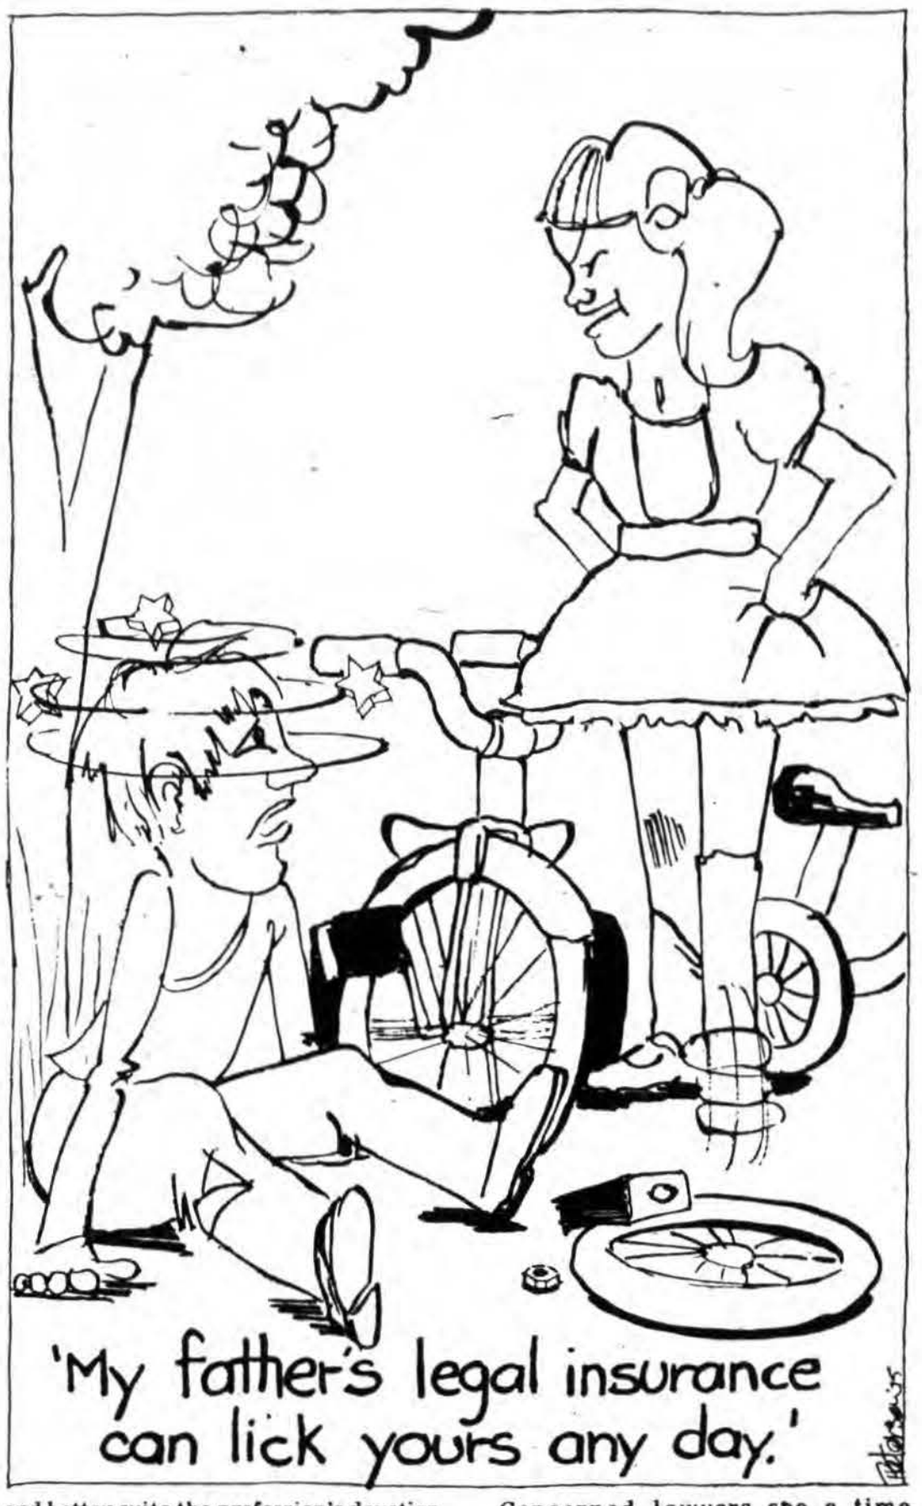

It is only within the past five years or less, however, that the majority of lawyers have come to believe their profession and the American middle class need some of the same medicine.

Legal insurance plans — the in-house phrase is "prepaid legal services" — have sprouted throughout the country, most notably in California. There are about 900 groups with contracts with 250 legal firms here. A plan for federal employes in Washington, D.C., rents $100 million worth of legal services for $500 a year per member. Just $35 a year buys substantial legal protection for members of a Michigan group.

But lawyers being lawyers, they have haggled and stalled almost until the last minute over the details.

The main nitpick is whether such plans should be "closed end," in which a selected group of lawyers guarantees its services to a certain organization, such as a union, or "open end," where the man standing in need of aid can go to any lawyer he wishes.

Closed end has proven cheaper and more efficient in the early going. Open end better suits the profession's devotion to the lawyer-client relationship. The American Bar Association House of Delegates has within the past year given its blessing to both approaches.

In Chicago, where an open-end plan is finally getting under way, Connelly said, "Lawyers are probably too sophisticated for their own good in many cases. But I think that the test tubes and drafting boards are probably behind us now. You will see a development of prepaid plans throughout the country."

Concerned lawyers see a time coming when they can truly serve all the people.

One of them, Patrick Reilly of Chicago, said, "Why should a lawyer come with any strings? He should be able to do anything for a client that a lawyer can do for a rich client. If that is true in the (legal aid) situation, it is certainly true in the middle class."

But legal insurance is not likely to prove a panacea for all the roadblocks in the way of adequate delivery of full legal counsel to Americans who need it.

There is evidence that legal aid to the poor is not as readily available as some lawyers attest. Much depends on federal funding. Congress and the White House have been stingy of late — and local funding can prove spotty at best.

A recent study in Georgia showed one-third of the state's counties had no provisions for paying lawyers to represent poor people.

James D. Fellers, president of the ABA, has called the manner of providing counsel to indigent criminal defendants "appalling . . . morally and ethically reprehensible."

In many cases Americans deprive themselves of legal counsel.

The average American, attorneys tend to agree, deals with a lawyer only two or three times in his life, if that. He often has only the foggiest idea of how much a lawyer costs, but fears it will be much more than he can pay. He knows that when he is sick he should see a doctor, but he does not know when he should see a lawyer.

It is the contention of most lawyers that they are not as expensive as many laymen believe, although professional and federal rules compel them to keep their fee schedules more or less secret.

Many attorneys are even willing to sell their services on the easy payment plan and maintain the price is usually right for the general run of legal problems.

"MOST PEOPLE do not have a family lawyer," Chicago attorney Philip Corboy said. "As a result they get into trouble. They sign agreements they shouldn't be signing.

"We had a client here a couple of years ago, a college graduate, who bought $30,000 worth of dance lessons. If he'd seen a lawyer first the lawyer would have said, 'Hey, baby, are you nuts? You'll be dancing from now until you're 150 years old.'

"Fortunately he broke his leg, so we sued to set aside the contract on the basis of unilateral inability to perform."

Lawyers themselves may have to pull up their socks and start doing their jobs better and cheaper, particularly as insurance and group practice procedures bring more clients and cases to their offices.

A spokesman for the ABA's Legal Services Group said, "The main thing is you've got to make the production of legal services more efficient. It's costly. They tailor-make too many things. There is a great deal of reptition in what they do, a great deal of sameness. They don't have efficient practices."

Fellers has warned, "For the first time, we are going to encounter economic competition because of the development of prepaid legal service plans . . . The private bar, if it is to remain in practice, must work hard to deliver services more economically."

A harsher warning came from Jane Lakes Frank, chief counsel of the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights, at a conference at Stanford University.

She said people are coming to look upon lawyers as "hired guns who charge what the traffic will bear and take cases based on how high the fees are, not on how meritorious the claims . . . If the bar fails to redirect its talent, the signals will be called from outside."

To such an attitude, Connelly retorts, "We genuinely believe in the concept that our prime function is the delivery of legal services — and it is. I don't think there is any question that the prime function of the profession is to make legal services available to all."

Some forces must have prompted such warnings and resolutions, not to mention the bar's present actions.

The legal services spokesman had a theory: "The increased level of education of people generally has done a great deal to make them aware of their rights.

"There is the rise of consumerism — we never really had organized consumers before. People generally are just more aware of their rights, more aware of when they're being infringed upon, and I think this awareness has contributed greatly to the increased interest in the availability of legal services."

If consumerism is a propellant to action, it is also in the field of consumer law that attorneys hope to make some of their greatest impact under an insurance system.

Edward Reisner, legislative counsel to the state bar of Wisconsin, put the case of "the guy who buys a $300 refrigerator and has a problem which the store or manufacturer won't fix.

"The repair fee might be $50 while a lawyer might charge a fee of $100 to handle the case. So the customer would rather pay the repairs.

"These are the types that aren't being litigated. Under a prepaid plan, a person would probably consult legal advice. They risk nothing and lose nothing." Reilly, who has been working on the legal insurance problem for 12 years, recalled, "When I was a kid — I had two Irish immigrants as parents — if you got sick it was a cup of tea and a shot of Irish whisky.

"You just didn't go to a doctor. They were expensive. You went to a doctor when the mustard plaster failed.

"I think the legal profession is much the same thing. (Insurance) has helped the medical profession render much better service. And I think with this concept developing the legal profession will go the same way and eventually the public will have the premiums paid and will decide to use the services."

White Shoes? --Really!

By HERB CAEN

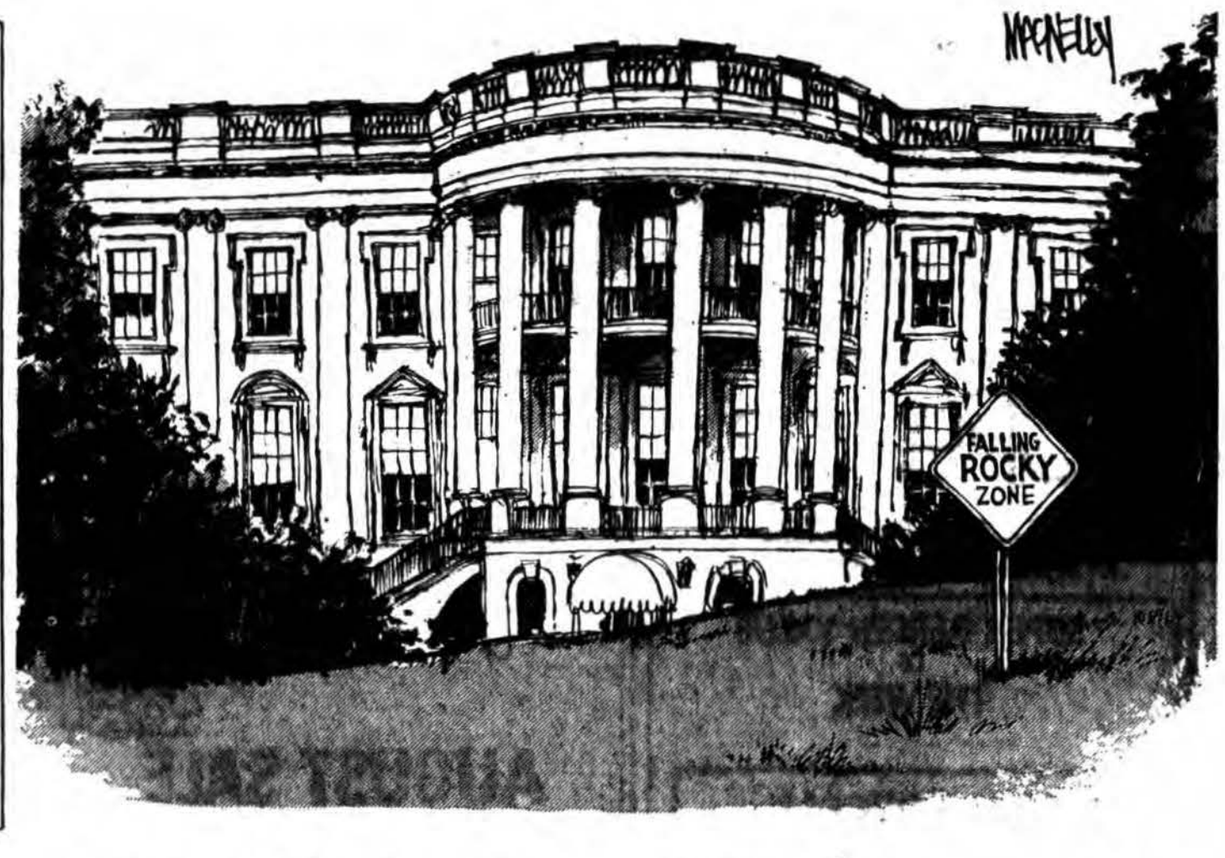

SAN FRANCISCO — John Maybury reports further evidence that Oakland is where the "there" is these days: on Broadway, a tall black dude walking along in a black silk jacket embroidered on the back, "I Am Bing Crosby, Famous Movie Star, Here Producing Movies!". . .And at San Pablo and MacArthur, John Walsh spotted a street violinist with a card strung around his neck, announcing "Emeryville Symphony Orchestra". . .

Meanwhile, the San Francisco Image contines to deteriorate. On their heralded tour of Eastern sports arenas (there's facing up to a crisis!), two Redevelopment Agency members disgraced us by wearing WHITE SHOES.

STREETSCENE: They still do things differently in Lozangeles, reports Atty. John Thorne of San Jose. His pal, Atty. Cliff Meyer, saw a crowd around a police officer on Wilshire the other day so he jaywalked across to catch the action, only to be told by the cop: "Okay fella, get in line — I'm writing tickets for jaywalking" ($15 a pop, yet).

The next victim to arrive complained: "Frevvinsakes officer, I'm a doctor on an emergency call," at which the cop grinned, "Okay, I'm down to my last ticket and it's yours. The rest of you can go." Doctor, fuming: "Gad, I've been malpracticed!"

EXULTANT: Trader Vic, who just won a Holiday mag "Fine Dining Award" for the 25th consecutive year, which would be more impressive if the honor couldn't also be claimed by Charlie's Cafe Exceptionale (huh?) in Minneapolis, Cincinnati's Gourmet, La Louisiane in San Anton', and Karl Ratzsch's in Milwaukee. . .Ah Lo and goombye: The Trader recently fired the longtime cook at his Hillsborough home, Ah Lo, and the latter is wreaking vengeance by opening a Chinese restaurant in San Mateo.

Ford's Report Card: 'A' for Honesty

NORMAN COUSINS

Many of the nation's news commentators and editorial writers this past week have been evaluating Gerald Ford's first full year in the presidency. What seems to me most striking about these appraisals is the emphasis they place on Gerald Ford's honesty and decency.

Ordinarily, these basic virtues would be taken for granted. But the experience of Watergate has caused the American people to take nothing for granted. If a national survey were to be taken today of what the American people look for in a President, personal honesty and decency would probably be close to the top of the list, along with wisdom, courage, decisiveness and a sense of responsibility to all the people and not just to any political or economic sector.

It was precisely the failure of Richard Nixon on the level of personal integrity that created a crisis of public confidence in government a year ago. No more important challenge, therefore, confronted Gerald Ford than to restore this confidence. This he has done. Despite wide opposition to his policies, almost everyone recognizes that he has succeeded to a remarkable degree in meeting the main need confronting him. It is possible, indeed, that his place in the presidential history of the nation will be as a man who restored respect for the office at a critical time.

ONE HAS only to look at the situation as it stood a year ago to realize the extent of the problem. People were dazed at the rapid deterioration of Richard Nixon's presidency, culminating in his resignation. Most shocking of all perhaps was the evidence that an American President was willing to go along with a blackmail situation involving obstruction of justice.

The tape recording has President Nixon saying he would be willing to pay $1 million to meet the blackmail demands of the Watergate criminals. The record also shows he said there would be no difficulty in getting such a large sum for that purpose and that he instructed his subordinates to transmit the money without getting caught.

That same tape, incidentally, has the President making a statement that has been somewhat glossed over in the public reports. The President made a distinction between Howard Hunt and the other criminals who would be paid off. Nixon said he was particularly worried about Howard Hunt because of everything Howard Hunt knew. The implication was that Hunt knew a great deal that hadn't surfaced.

What, besides Watergate, the dirty tricks in the election campaign and the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office, were the things that Howard Hunt knew about that made Richard Nixon apprehensive? How far back did the relationship between Howard Hunt and Richard Nixon go? Exactly what did Howard Hunt do or know that made it so urgent to buy his silence?

THESE ARE only a few of the questions that produced widespread disillusion about Richard Nixon and that spilled over to the Presidency itself. The result was that the attitude of the American people toward the highest office in the land sank to its lowest point in the 200-year history of the nation. The recovery from this low point is an event of major significance.

Even Watergate, paradoxically, may be seen in retrospect as a positive factor in the political development of the American people. For it taught them a great deal about the difference between a government of laws and a government of men.

In this sense, the main purpose of the American Constitution-makers has been fulfilled.

UNCLE LEN'S CORNER

Hi girls and boys.

Monkey See . . . monkey do. And I guess that's what happened to Uncle Len's mail this week as somebody was evidently "monkeying around" with the mail and most of the entries showed up Friday . . . too late for the contest.

So, boys and girls, in all fairness to those who spent time and energy drawing monkeys, we are going to extend the contest for another week.

HONORABLE MENTION this week, however, goes to Jane Haskell, Rob Moore, Jean Tyler and Lisa Winocur, all of Newport Beach; Lori Serene and Theresa Riel from Huntington Beach; Nancy Matyas and Tammy Flecksteiner from Costa Mesa; Polly McCoy of Laguna Beach; Pam Marchese of Santa Ana; and Donna Newcomb of Corona del Mar.

So remember now, just draw pictures of monkeys and send them along to Uncle Len. Be sure and read the contest rules in the box at right and follow the directions for size.

Uncle Len also got a very nice letter from one of his little friends. She wrote: "I have never written to you before, but last Saturday I read your Family Page and I think it's GREAT! From now on, I am going to send in drawings and poems and riddles every Saturday."

Her name is Lori Hoglind and she is from Newport Beach. She also said she was celebrating her 10th birthday on Wednesday, Aug. 13.

Thank you very, very much for the nice letter and kind words, Lori, and Uncle Len and all his friends wish you a very happy, though belated, birthday. We hope you had a real nice one and hope you will join in our fun contests.

Remember also to send in your questions to Andy, your letters to Ellie, and your jokes and riddles and poems to Carol.

Until next week then, may each and every one of you have a very, very happy everything.

★ PRIZE WINNER ★

Cheryl Conrad, 12, of 10211 Meredith Drive, Huntington Beach

Any child 14 or under, can enter Uncle Len's Contest. Here's all you do: (1) Draw picture on piece of plain, white paper 4½ inches wide and 4 inches deep. Use black ink and make lines black. (2) Do not copy or trace picture. It must be your own work. (3) Put your name, age and address on back of drawing. Mail it to Uncle Len's Art Contest, Box 1560, DAILY PILOT, Costa Mesa 92626. Entries must be received by noon on Thursday for production on the following Saturday. Winner will receive Kennedy half dollar.

Letters From Ellie

c 1975 Jean E. Heywood

Dear Ellie,

I have a male and female gecko. They live in a some-what natural environment — a terrarium with cave, water dish and plants. They always have a dish of mealworms.

Can small spiders I find outside harm them, or will the geckos eat them?

When does the female lay eggs, and how long do they take to hatch?

Nancy J.

Dear Nancy,

There are over 600 species of geckos, distributed throughout tropical areas of the world. Most of the species have little snow-shoe-like pads on their hind feet that enable them to race over sand and walk on ceilings.

In captivity these little creatures should do well on a diet of meal worms supplemented with crickets (obtainable from good pet stores). The geckos would no doubt eat the spiders, and small ones should not harm the lizards in any way, but don't feed any poisonous types such as the black widow. However, if you feed them meal worms and crickets, spiders are not needed at all.

Geckos grow quickly, and most species breed before they are a year old, or at the most, two. The female usually lays two eggs, and some produce only one. In the wilds, some species lay several clutches of eggs in a year, but in captivity, one is more likely. The eggs are usually laid between March and September. Some species lay soft, leathery eggs, others produce eggs that are hard-shelled. If the eggs become dry, they will shrink, and the embryo will die. If the eggs are kept at the right humidity and at a fixed temperature of around 86 degrees, they should hatch from within 50 to 70 days.

Incidentally, Geckos like to sip water from plant leaves rather than drink it from a dish. It is a good idea to spray the plants so that drops form on the leaves.

Ellie

Dear Ellie,

Do animals that sleep in the day and stay awake at night have special kinds of eyes?

I don't understand why they can see so well at night.

Karen K.

Dear K aren,

No animal is able to see in complete darkness, for to do so would mean that it would have to emit its own light

But there are many nocturnal creatures — birds, reptiles, mammals, who have specially constructed eyes that are able to use dim light to great advantage The eyes of these creatures tend to reflect rather than absorb light, and this is the reason that such eyes appear to glow in the dark. However, they would not glow if there were no light at all.

Cats are examples of animals who see well in very faint light, and you have no doubt noticed how readily the pupil of these animals' eyes grow narrow in bright light and widen in dim light. The eyes of nocturnal animals are very sensitive to changes in degree of light.

Also, most night creatures have elliptical shaped pupils which permit a more complete closing of the iris in daylight and allow the eyes to be more sensitive to light, thus enabling vision under poor illumination.

Ellie

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK'S QUESTION: What is a mudpuppy? A mudpuppy is a species of salamander. Its most prominent feature is a set of three branches of gills on either side of the neck. Usually these are dark and stubby, but in warm, stagnant water they blossom into red plumes. The name "mudpuppy" originated from a false belief that these little animals could emit yelping sounds that resembled the barking of a dog.

QUESTION: What is the largest insect found in the United States?

READERS: Ellie likes to answer your animal questions. Send them to ELLIE, c/o The Daily Pilot, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa, CA., 92626.

Arnold Likes Birthdays

Pampered Porker Puts on Pounds at Party

FORK MOUNTAIN, Va. (AP) — Arnold the pig made a pig of himself on his first birthday.

Bethel Mason, Arnold's owner, served a cake with one candle and the 600-pound pig ate all of it Wednesday. "He would have liked to eat the candle, too," Mason said.

Arnold, who shares the run of Mason's filling station with two German shepherd dogs, is about 100 pounds heavier than the average year-old pig.

NO WONDER, People buy him candy, soft drinks, pies and cakes. And when he isn't eating, he sleeps in the breeze from an electric fan.

"He has been known to drink a beer, too," Mason said. "He's been eating pretty good."

Mason, watching Arnold finish off two gallons of milk, said on the average day the pig eats "10 to 15 pounds of hog feed or corn meal."

But Arnold's birthday appetite appeared to have no bounds.

He gobbled up an apple pie, washed it down with chocolate soda — his favorite soft drink — then turned to dessert. It was a nickel gum ball, nuzzled out of Mason's vending machine.

The pig then flopped down in the station's doorway.

When Arnold gets bored hanging around the station, he strolls down a path beside the road to a nearby grocery store for more handouts, Mason said.

He has been known to put his front feet on the doorstep of a bread truck and eat small cakes out of the driver's hand.

IF ITS HOT, Arnold spends most of the day in a nearby waterhole. But he always spends his nights on the pavement in front of the service station.

He doesn't go onto the highway now that he's old enough to know better. When he was younger the two German shepherds saw to it that he stayed off the road.

Arnold was part of a litter of pigs owned by Mason, and he began staying around the station in the winter because it was heated. He quickly became a pet.

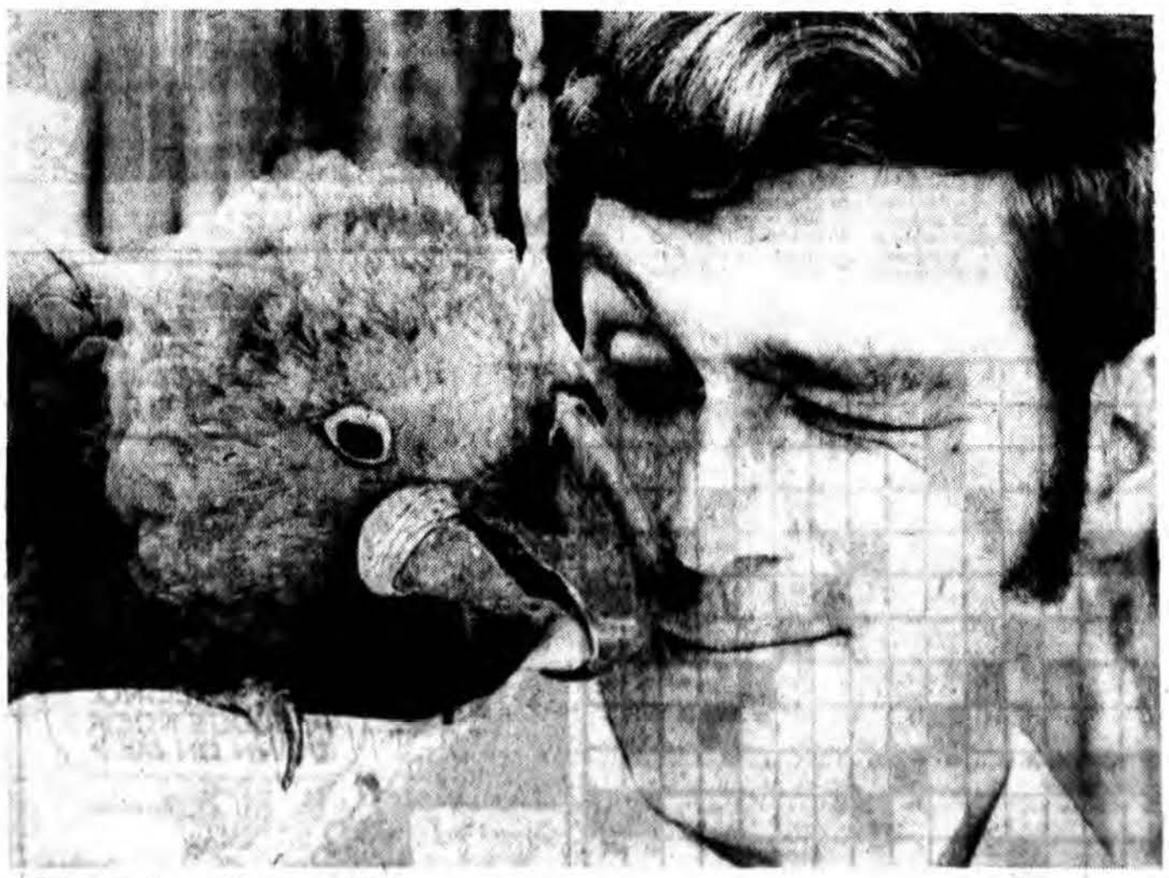

"Everybody who comes along wants to know when we'll kill him," Mason said. "But I reckon we'll let him stay around here as long as he wants to."

TURTLE GETS RACE POLICY

RUSHVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A turtle was insured for $7 in case of injury during a company's annual turtle race.

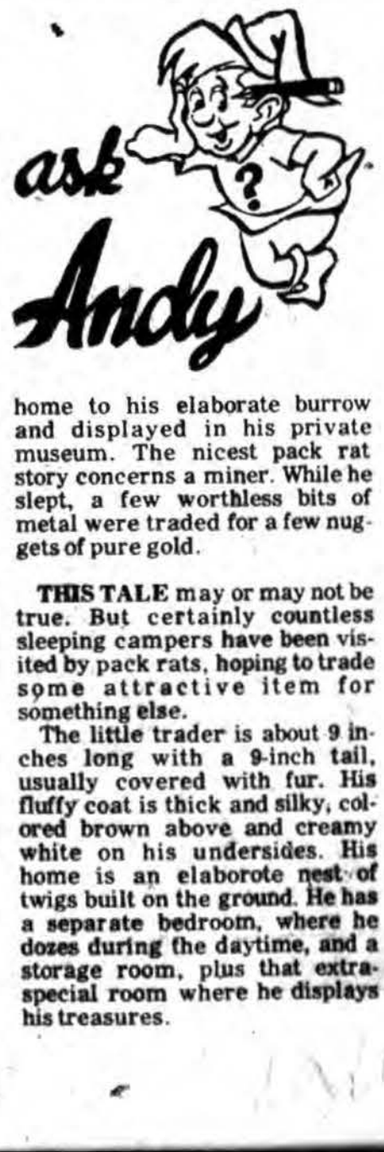

The policy, issued for four days by Farm Bureau Insurance Co., cost John Pickett of Rushville $1 when he purchased it Thursday.

The turtle, "Speedy Tortilla," is entered in the race conducted by Rodefelds Co. of Richmond, Ind., an automotive parts company.

Bird in Paradise

Mke Flagg, bird trainer at Marine World/Africa USA in Redwood City, gets it right from the parrot's mouth as he winks at his ward, Gretta, a 7-year-old Hyacinth macaw. Mike caters to Gretta as she is a very rare bird and a valuable one. The amusement park has been offered $10,000 for the bird, partly because of her rarity and partly because she in unusually well-trained. Gretta has no desire to leave her garden paradise.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Sean Kelly, age 15, of Spokane, Wash., for his question:

WHAT IS A PACK RAT?

The pack rat, alias the wood rat, is actually a vole — a ratty relative with a furry tail, large ears and a happy face. Without a doubt he is one of the most charming of the rodents, and he may be the outstanding genius of the whole clan. One might say that his greatest talent is in commerce, for of all things the pack rat is a born trader.

In pioneer days, a packman traveled the Western frontier with goods for sale, stashed in a pack on his back. Often he traded or bartered a precious cooking pot for a slab of bacon for himself. And sometimes in his lonely journeys he encountered a pack rat — who also traded something for something else.

CHANCES ARE, the packman never saw the pack rat, for the furry little trader arrived like a thief in the night. His little heart yearned for a bright shiny treasure, such as a bit of glass or metal. A few nails would do just fine, or even a scrap of bright cloth. But a thief he was not, for he came prepared with something to exchange for what he took away.

A pack rat may leave a few bright pebbles, a bleached bone or some other object which he considers to be a fair trade. The treasure he removes is taken home to his elaborate burrow and displayed in his private museum. The nicest pack rat story concerns a miner. While he slept, a few worthless bits of metal were traded for a few nuggets of pure gold.

THIS TALE may or may not be true. But certainly countless sleeping campers have been visited by pack rats, hoping to trade some attractive item for something else.

The little trader is about 9 inches long with a 9-inch tail, usually covered with fur. His fluffy coat is thick and silky, colored brown above and creamy white on his undersides. His home is an elaborote nest of twigs built on the ground. He has a separate bedroom, where he dozes during the daytime, and a storage room, plus that extra-special room where he displays his treasures.

Usually he lives alone until the courting season, when he may travel half a mile to call on a female. Being almost voiceless, he drums his feet to attract her attention. The young are born a month or so after mating, and often the male stays around awhile to help with the child care.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Frances Maier, age 12, of Lansing, Mich., for her question:

HOW DID THE BUTTERFLY GET ITS NAME?

Language experts go to endless trouble to trace the original meanings of our words and where they came from. For a long time they suspected that the word butterfly originated in the Middle East. It was given, they supposed, to a certain butter-colored insect that still flies around in that region. Then the original name was translated into English and shared by the butterflies of all colors.

Later investigations suggest that this is not the true story. Most likely the English word butterfly was invented by English-speaking people. However, nobody can explain why this particular name was chosen. Certainly butterflies fly around. But they have no special fondness for butter, and their gorgeous wings come in all colors of the rainbow.

'Visionary' Keeps Faith

NECEDAH, Wis. (AP) — They came from all over the country that Aug. 15 a quarter-century ago to see a vision.

They abandoned cars on dust-choked rural roads to walk the last miles to the farm of a 41-year-old mother of seven who announced publicly that the Blessed Virgin would appear to her for the eighth time.

SOME SAID 35,000 gathered at the farmhouse. Others estimated 100,000 in the crowd. It was Aug. 15, 1950 and they saw no vision.

Instead, they heard Mary Ann Van Hoof tell them the Virgin Mary had indeed appeared to her and instructed her to tell Christian America to "pray, pray and pray hard" to defend against communism.

"THE ENEMY behind your so-called Iron Curtain is more powerful than you think," she warned. "It will not stop unless we pray."

Many remained in Necedah, becoming the vanguard of a group whose members gave up jobs and uprooted families to become Mrs. Van Hoof's disciples.

Today, she has small pockets of followers throughout the country. More than 100 others who moved here pay daily visits to the farm that has become the shrine to the Queen of the Holy Rosary Mediatrix of Peace. They pray and give guided tours to visitors.

THE ROMAN Catholic Diocese of La Crosse responded quickly in the early days and called her claims misleading and worthless. As reports of more visions continued, the church stepped up its opposition.

In 1955, Bishop John P. Treacy officially denounced her claims as false and banned public or private religious worship connected with them.

THE FORMER Van Hoof farm is now owned by For My God and My Country Inc., one of two nonprofit, tax-exempt corporations formed by her followers.

Mrs. Van Hoof, widowed in 1960, lives a secluded life and is generally seen in public only when she goes to the shrine or to the Catholic church in Necedah on Sunday. She shuns all interviews.

IN THE PARKLIKE setting of the former farm, the "Van Hooferites," as they are called locally, have erected a series of rock shrines enclosing statues of the Blessed Virgin, various saints and even one of Mrs. Van Hoof.

Four months ago, the current La Crosse bishop, Frederick Freking, barred Mrs. Van Hoof and her closest followers from receiving all sacraments except confession. He said they could not have church burials.

"I've told Mrs. Van Hoof she can believe as she wants to," Bishop Freking said. "But when she tries to get other people to believe it then she has to submit to the authority of the church."

Medical Program Available

Saddleback College will offer a full curriculum on medical office procedures this fall.

Students can earn up to seven units per quarter through a programmed combination of classes, offering theories and procedures, typing lab practice and on-the-job training in the specialty area chosen by the individual.

The program is designed to increase individual skills needed to work in a medical front office, hospital, extended care unit or insurance office, according to Shirley Harris, instructor for Medical Office Procedures 1.

For additional information contact the school at 831-9700 or 495-4950, ext. 263.

Rams Tangle With 49ers at Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The coaches insist it will be a barnburner, but there are a number of disturbing facts about tonight's (7 o'clock) Los Angeles-San Francisco 49ers exhibition game:

— The Rams, 10-4 last season, demolished Dallas 35-7 in their National Football League preseason opener last week.

— The 49ers, 6-8 last season, scored a close, 17-13 victory over Cleveland in their opener, and Cleveland finished 4-10 last year.

— The Rams have won 11 of their last 12 exhibitions against the 49ers and nine straight league games over the Bay Area crew.

The 49ers, however, acquired speedy wide receiver Bob Hayes from Dallas during the off season, and quarterback Steve Spurrier, the top candidate for the 49er quarterback job, apparently has recovered from an injury which kept him out of the Cleveland game.

And the 49ers are talking a good fight.

"The squad will be ready to go," vows San Francisco coach Dick Nolan. "They'll be treating it as more than a preseason game because the rivalry with the Rams is something a little special and that's even heightened because of the Rams' domination of us the last few years."

And Tom Owen, who will start for the 49ers at quarterback, agrees.

"We're going to be ready because the Rams are kind of always in the back of our minds, because they're in our division and they're a team we have to beat. It's always a special occasion to play the Rams."

Not to be outdone in the battle to show respect for the other team, Rams' coach Chuck Knox says he also expects a tough game.

"They are always tough for us and they played an excellent game beating Cleveland. At the end of last year they won four out of their last five and they're a greatly improved team," he said.

The Rams will start virtually the same lineup as the one which drubbed Dallas, one which is virtually the same as that which won the Western Division championship in 1974. Rich Saul replaces Ken Iman at center and Bill Nelson moves in at defensive tackle for Larry Brooks, who is mending an injured toe.

RICK CLARK (2) OF BALBOA-CDM APPLIES PRESSURE TO NEWPORT'S BRET BERNARD.

Angels Rip Tigers, 8-0

It's 19 Down ...and 1 to Go

Frank Tanana pitched a four-hitter and rode a six-run eighth inning to victory Friday night as the California Angels blasted Detroit, 8-0, at Anaheim Stadium to hand the staggering Tigers their 19th consecutive defeat.

The loss brought the Tigers within one of the American League record of 20 set by Boston in 1906 and tied by the Philadelphia A's in 1916 and 1943. The modern day major league record of 23 losses was set by the Philadelphia Phillies in 1961.

Ron LeFlore's sixth-inning single, Willie Horton's seventh and ninth-inning singles and Tom Veryzer's eighth-inning single were the lone safeties for Detroit.

Mickey Rivers' sixth-inning single drove in the game's first run and snapped a pitching duel between Tanana, 11-6, and Mickey Lolich, 10-13.

The Angels added a run in the seventh on a double by Bruce Bochte and Ellie Rodriguez' sacrifice fly. They scored six more in the eighth on Lee Stanton's single. Bochte's three run homer and rbi singles by Mike Miley and Dave Collins.

Tanana struck out eight to raise his major league leading total to 179 for the year. Lolich lost his eighth straight game.

Bochte also had a pair of doubles for California, which won its sixth game in seven starts.

The snake-bitten and slump-ridden Tigers went quietly before Tanana for the first five innings, failing to come close to a hit.

The hardest hit ball was a line drive to right by Aurelio Rodriguez to lead off the fourth but Lee Stanton had to range only a few steps to tuck it away.

Ron Leflore shattered Tanana's no-hit bid with a leadoff single in the sixth, a hard shot into the hole between third and short. Leflore was then thrown out attempting to steal.

California came close to scoring in the second when Bochte doubled to center with one out and tried to score on an ensuing single to left by John Balaz. But Bochte was gunned down at the plate on a perfect throw by Ben Oglivie to Bill Freehan.

Tonight, the Angels will send Chuck Hockenbery against the Tigers' Ray Bare.

Green, Bies Share Lead In Hartford

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Hubert Green, who may be called away from the golf tournament at any moment to be with his wife for the birth of their first child, birdied the final hole for a 65 and a tie with Don Bies for the lead after Friday's second round of the $200,000 Greater Hartford Open.

"She knows my position," Green said of his wife, Judi, after his six-under-par effort on the 6,598-yard Wethersfield Country Club course. "If she wants me, she'll call, and I'll go."

Green, a four-time winner last season but in a slump most of this year, and the veteran Bies put together two-round totals of 131, 11 under par after two trips over the cozy layout that often yields some of the lowest scores of the season.

BAST, FERRELL IN CYCLE WINS

Mike Bast of Van Nuys captured the scratch main event Friday night in the featured motorcycle event at Orange County Fairgrounds before 8,731.

Bast bested Huntington Beach's Rick Woods, Chatsworth's Scott Sivedge and Garden Grove's Bill Cody for the honors in the four-lap race.

The five-lap handicap main was won by Pasadena's Dubb Ferrell, followed by Dan Forman of Norwalk and Woods.

Second division main event winner was Claremont's Rod Sexton.

Seeded Polo Teams Roll; Newport Dunks Balboa

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The four big guns of the 1975 AAU men's national water polo championships waded through enemy waters without a hitch Friday in the first day's salvo of action at Newport Harbor High.

Favored Concord, defending champion Long Beach (last year's Fullerton squad), Stanford and host Newport Aquatics took apart the opposition without too much hassle.

An expected duel between coach Bill Barnett's Newport outfit and the Balboa-Corona del Mar crew of Cliff Hooper failed to materialize.

It was all Newport as Jim Kruse and his UC Irvine-oriented teammates blitzed to a 9-2 victory.

Kruse scored five of Newport's first six goals and it was 4-0 early in the second quarter before the UCLA-dominated Balboa-Corona del Mar team could score.

The only scores on Newport were penalty tosses by 6-7 Jim Hester.

Newport goalie Guy Antley was credited with six saves, but he wasn't put to much of a test. The losers were unable to unload an attempt on goal in the third quarter and got off only three tries in the final stanza against the defensive net thrown up by Newport.

Others scoring for Newport were Tim Quinn, Nick Baba and Gary Figueroa. Quinn had a pair of markers and the others accounted for single tallies.

Outside of its two scores via penalty throws, the losers missed 10 shots on goal. It was a case of not being able to penetrate as the ball seldom got to the inside of the double post offense.

Newport won its morning test against Santa Barbara, 9-4, as Jack Dickmann led the scoring with three and Figueroa added two goals.

Singles were netted by Quinn, Baba, Kruse and Dale Hahn.

In morning action Stanford beat West Valley B, 7-3; Concord stopped West Valley A, 7-5; Long Beach nipped Puerto Rico, 6-5; and Stanford submerged Mira Costa, 8-2.

Mira Costa made it into the tourney after surviving a challenge from Hawaii Thursday night, 8-5.

Afternoon play found Concord continuing unbeaten with a 6-2 win over Long Beach B and Long Beach A beat Stanford B, 6-5.

Corona del Mar stayed within range by eliminating Santa Barbara, 8-3, behind the scoring of Don Spicer (4), Hester (2) and single scores from Robert Webb and Bob Neumann.

West Valley B ousted Mira Costa, 3-2; West Valley A knocked out Long Beach B, 7-5; and Puerto Rico erased Stanford B, 7-5.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE
8—West Valley A (1-1) vs Stanford (2-0)
9—Newport (2-0) vs Puerto Rico (1-1)
10—Concord (2-0) vs West Valley B (1-1)

Montreal Clobbers Sutton, 8-4

By GLENN WHITE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

MONTREAL—Floundering Montreal, cellar dweller in the National League East and possessor of six straight losses, pounced on Dodgers ace Don Sutton to end its losing streak, 8-4, Friday night before 16,574 at Parc Jarry.

Tonight the Dodgers, who saw their six-game victory string cut, send their No. 2 hurler against the Expos as Corona del Mar resident Andy Messersmith shoots for his 15th victory.

Sutton was clobbered for two triples, four doubles and a pair of singles. He yielded five walks (three of which eventually scored) and seven runs—all in 4⅔ innings.

"I haven't seen Sutton that wild in three or four years," LA skipper Walter Alston told the Daily Pilot. "It's very unusual for him to walk three in one inning. He didn't pitch too good and when he did throw a good one now and then they'd hit it."

Sutton was cannonaded in the fifth inning after the Dodgers had cut the gap to 2-1. Montreal scored five times on four hits, three walks and had two runners on base when Alston finally replaced Sutton with Charlie Hough.

"If he hadn't come to get me I was ready to go to the bullpen and bring Charlie in myself," Sutton said. "I've had easier days in basic training."

Steve Rogers held the Dodgers at bay until the ninth inning when he was rapped for three runs after two out when Davey Lopes homered following a single by Bill Russell and Lee Lacy's walk. Lopes had a double and a single to go with the home run.

Rogers had spun a nifty four-hitter for eight innings and he got heavy support at the plate from Larry Biittner, who seems to relish Dodgers pitching.

Biittner had two rbi, two doubles and a single in four times at bat and is 9-for-17 against LA this year—a hefty .529 average.

Sutton had won five of his last six games, the most recent prior to Friday a classic three-hitter in New York.

And Messersmith is coming off a strong showing Monday when he four-hit the Phillies.

NCAA Cuts Grid, Cage Travel Squads

CHICAGO (AP) — The NCAA's special economics convention adjourned Friday after setting limits on coaching staffs, reducing travel squads in football and basketball and significantly cutting off-campus contacts colleges may make in their recruiting efforts.

Division I members — the 234 largest colleges — agreed to get by with a head coach, eight assistants and two part-time assistants in football and a head coach, two assistants and one part-time assistant in basketball. There had been no limits previously.

The delegates also set limits on traveling squads in most sports. Football teams will be limited to taking 48 players for road games and basketball teams slashed to 10. There had been no previous limits.

The convention also said no college may visit any recruit off it's campus more than three times, and time periods were set for when those visits may take place. And no high school athlete may accept more than six expense-paid visits to a college. There had been no previous limits.

Edwards Qualifies In Pan-Am Trials

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Sprinter Clancy Edwards from Santa Ana burst from behind to win the 100-meter dash in a career best 10.34 seconds Friday in the men's trials for the 1975 Pan American Games.

Edwards, 20-year-old sophomore at Cal Poly (San Luis Obispo), hit the tape just ahead of Bill Collins of Texas Christian University, who also was clocked at 10.34.

Edwards, the 1974 American junior sprint champion, and Collins, earned berths on the United States men's team for the Pan Am Games, scheduled to be held Oct. 12-26 in Mexico City.

Mike Slack of the Chicago Track Club won the 5,000-meter in 13:40.24. Frank Shorter, Olympic gold medalist in the marathon, was slated to compete in the 5,000, but failed to show. Ted Castaneda of the Colorado Track Club was second in 13:40.85.

Anthony Hall of the Bruce Track Club won the javelin with a throw of 261-11, setting a Pan-Am trials record. Sam Colson of Sports International also qualified with 260-9.

Finals in the 12 remaining events are scheduled today.

The U.S. will not send qualifiers to the Pan Am Games for the 400 meters because the eight competitors entered in the event refused to run a preliminary heat.

The Pan American Games subcommittee of the U.S. Olympic Committee ruled that there will be no final without preliminaries.

Before entering, the athletes had agreed with the committee to run preliminary heats. But they termed the preliminary unnecessary when it was learned there were only eight competitors, all of whom could have run in the final.

Summaries of men's trials for the U.S. team in the 1975 Pan-Am Games. The first two finishers in finals qualify for the U.S. team:

Hammer throw — 1. Larry Hart, 214-10. 2. George Frenu, 214-7. 3. Ed Arcaro, 210-7. 4. Andy Bessette, 207-4. 5. Bill Diehl, 204-6. 6. Bill Shuff, 202-11.

Pole vault—1. Earl Bell, 17-6 (Pan Am trials record, old mark 17-6⅛ by Paul Wilson, 1967). 2. Jeff Taylor, 176. 3. Terry Porter, 17-0. 4. Larry Jessee, 16-6.

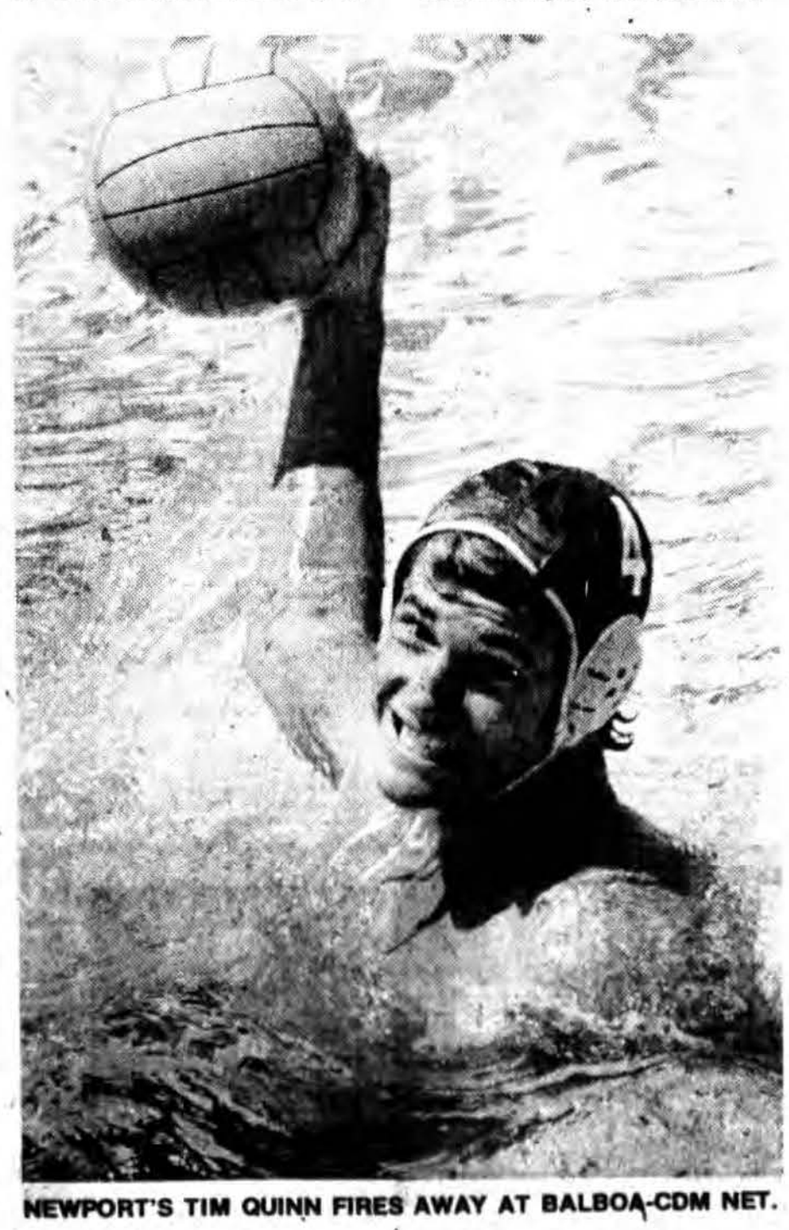

Long jump — 1. Arnie Robinson, 26-4¼ (Pan-Am trials record, old mark 26-2½ by Ralph Boston, 1967). 2. Al Lanier, 26-1½. 3. Ron Humphrey, 25-5½. 4. Stan Whitley, 25-2¼. 5. Theo Hamilton, 24-10. 6. Anthony Carter, 24-5¼.

Javelin — 1. Anthony Hall, 261-11 (Pan Am trials record, old mark 252-2 by Frank Covelli, 1967). 2. Sam Colson, 260-9. 3. Rod Ewaliko, 252-9. 4. Dave Reiss, 251-7. 5. Bill Schmidt, 243-0. 6. Robert Wallis, 231-8.

110-meter high hurdles — 1. Charles Rich, 13.69. 2. Charles Dobson, 13.81. 3. Larry Shipp, 13.82. 3. Clim Jackson, 5. Stan Druckery, 13.90. 6. Vance Rolland, 13.98.

100 meters — 1. Clancy Edwards, 10.34. 2. Bill Collins, 10.34. 3. Don Merrick, 10.37. 4. Reggie Jones, 10.40. 5. Delano Meriwether, 10.47. 6. Charlie Wells, 10.48.

5,000 meters — 1. Mike Slack, 13:40.24, (Pan Am trials record, old mark 13:48.6, by Van Nelson, St. Cloud State, 1967). 2. Ted Castaneda, 13:40.85. 3. John Gregorio, 13:41.17.

White to Play

Sun, Hawaii Clash

HONOLULU—The Southern California Sun will a tempt to get back on the winning track here against Hawaii tonight. Both teams are 1-1 in Western Division play in the World Football League behind San Antonio (3-0).

On TV Tonight
Channel 11 at 10:30

Southern California is coming off a 54-22 loss at San Antonio where the Sun lost possession of the ball 10 times—six pass interceptions and four fumbles.

Hawaii rebounded last week with a 25-24 win over Portland.

Former USC quarterback Pat Haden is expected to start for the Sun, which has picked up former Newport Harbor High and Orange Coast College star Alvin White.

White is set for punting duty, but can also play quarterback if it becomes necessary.

Haden completed 24 of 40 passes for 313 yards against San Antonio—but three were intercepted. Mike Ernst was also intercepted three times.

Hawaii's big gun is Sonny Six-killer at quarterback.

Matchups in the running department feature the Sun's Anthony Davis against Hawaii's Calvin Hill.

Pressure No Problem For Rams' Reynolds

By HOWARD L. HANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jack Reynolds, middle linebacker for the Los Angeles Rams, is a happy man when he's sitting on the bench during a game.

This isn't to imply that Reynolds doesn't enjoy the game or his role in calling audible changes at the line of scrimmage as the defensive quarterback.

"When the defense is on the bench a lot during a game, it means that the team and the offense is doing a good job and that we should be scoring because we are controlling the ball," he says.

In this day of two-platoon football, Reynolds is a defensive specialist.

Does he feel any added pressure in his role as a middle linebacker and signal caller?

"The pressure is on," he admits. "If I call the wrong audible and the other team goes for a touchdown, I worry about it.

"Football is as much a mental thing as it is physical and after the long season, it takes me a while to wind down in the off-season. Sometimes it takes a long time."

Has he been involved in any penalties for his audibilizing?

"Last week against Dallas I made them jump offsides a couple of times—but it was perfectly legal.

"They would start a man in motion and apparently the next signal was for the center to snap the ball. That's when I would give the audible and it pulled them off a few times," Reynolds says with a twinkle in his eyes.

"They complained but I told the officials I was only calling audible signals for the defense and they agreed."

Does it make a difference to him to be playing against players such as O. J. Simpson or other top stars in the NFL?

"These kind of guys you have to shut off completely before they get started.

"Yes, they make it more of an incentive to do better. But you have to do your best all of the time or you'll get burned in this game."

How does the current Rams team stack up against others in his six-year pro career?

"We've got more good ball players than I've seen since I've been here but it is still going to be a week-by-week thing. We do have the best potential, though.

"But so many things enter into a season—the breaks have to go with you for one thing. And you can't have injuries to key personnel.

"I think we have the potential to go a long ways but the 49ers are improved with Bob Hayes and that Wilbur Jackson should be good this year."

As a middle linebacker and the man on the spot in calling the audible signals before crowds in excessive of 70,000, is he nervous and how does he figure out the situation?

"It doesn't bother me," he says while fidgeting and talking to one reporter.

"The defensive front tells me where I am going to lineup and I adjust the rest of the defense according to the way the offensive backfield sets mup.

"You are not going to be right all of the time but once you have made a mistake, you have to react and get back in the play as quickly as possible."

While the Rams appeared to have little trouble with the Dallas Cowboys in the opening exhibition game, Reynolds isn't taking them lightly for the season opener in September.

"Dallas is the toughest team to use audibles on in the league. They have a lot of different alignments and a mistake could be costly."

Reynolds owns four jeeps and uses one of them for hunting on off-days while living in Huntington Beach. The other three are in Tennessee where he hopes to settle when his pro grid career ends.

But right now he and wife Pat reside in Huntington Beach where they have purchased a home.

He gained a nickname of "Hacksaw" during the past off-season.

"It's hard to say how that came about," he says. "Some people say I sawed a jeep in half and others have varying versions of the story. I just agree with all of them and then I don't have to try and explain it."

One story goes that he had a hacksaw in his hands when he had some problems with one of the jeeps he was working on and he began to saw through the metal.

Opposing teams hope he doesn't get as antagonized with them during the '75 NFL season.

Lutz Gains Semis; Nastase Advances

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Second-seeded Bob Lutz came back from a one-set deficit after a two-hour rain delay Friday to advance to the semifinals of the $50,000 Buckeye Tennis Championships with a 1-6, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Sherwood Stewart.

Lutz, of San Clemente, will face fifth-seeded Tom Gorman, who advanced with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Jim Delaney.

Nastase Wins

TORONTO—Ilie Nastase of Romania outplayed sixth-seeded John Alexander of Australia, 6-3, 6-7, 6-2 Friday to advance to the men's semifinals at the Canadian Open tennis championships.

In other men's quarterfinal matches it was Manuel Orantes of Spain defeating Adriano Panatta, 6-4, 6-1 and Juan Gisbert downed Hans Plotz, 6-2, 7-5.

In women's singles semis action Laura Dupont defeated Dianne Fromholtz, 7-6, 6-3 and Marchie Louie beat Linky Boshoff, 6-0, 6-1.

Bengals Roll

BUFFALO — Cincinnati veteran Ken Anderson tossed two touchdown passes and rookie Gary Sheide threw one as the Bengals defeated the Buffalo Bills 38-28 Friday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

Garrison Quits

DALLAS — Rugged veteran Walt Garrison, the No. 3 all-time rusher for the Dallas Cowboys, retired from professional football Friday because of a knee injury suffered in June as he pursued his off-season career as a rodeo cowboy.

Davis Leaves

ATLANTA — Outfielder Willie Davis, plagued by financial woes stemming from a broken marriage, left the St. Louis Cardinals Friday before the team's night game in Atlanta and was immediately placed on the disqualified list, a spokesman for the National League club said.

Racing Postponed

INGLEWOOD — Western Harness Racing announced Friday that its 15-week meeting scheduled to start at Hollywood Park on Aug. 21 has been postponed indefinitely because of a dispute with horsemen.

$100,000 Race Set At Los Al

A star-studded cast of the best quarterhorses in America will assemble tonight for the 21st running of the $100,000 Los Alamitos Championship with horse of the meeting honors as well as a berth in December's prestigious Champion of Champions on the line.

Seven times the winner has gone on to be named world champion and 11 times the national horse of the year has competed in the nation's only quarterhorse hundred-grander without nominating fees.

The role of wagering choice of the public figures to go to either She's Precious, Timeto Thinkrich or Wanta Go but the remainder of the rich field that includes Al's Alibi, Deck 'Em, Elan Again, Five Chics, Flig'ht 109, Native Empress and Pass Over all will receive plenty of support in a race that is expected to see a new single-race handle mark fall.

Funny Cars In Action At OCIR

Dale Pulde and Dave Condit will resume their drag racing funny car feud tonight at Orange County International Raceway as 32 of the nation's fastest cars vie in an anniversary race celebrating the eighth season of the popular track.

A special contest with fans voting on the longest burnout, will take place before the first of three rounds of competition that start at 7. Gates open at 3 this afternoon.

Also in the field and making his only appearance of the year in Southern California will be Jungle Jim Liberman.

Local entrants include Jake Johnston, Gary Cochran, Jim Dunn, Mike Halloran, John Lombardo and Brad Anderson.

Sunday's Horoscope

Scorpio: Settle Affairs

SUNDAY, AUGUST 24
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Cycle is high — get going, be a self-starter. Accent independence of thought, action. You get to heart of matters. Love is in picture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You slow down because of what amounts to an "emotional anchor." This can be negative or positive, depending upon how you relate, react.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent is on friendship, desires, reward resulting from professional efforts. You make start in direction which leads to expansion of horizons. Your self-esteem is on upswing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You "get down to cases." Means frills are removed. You see as is and can make decision based on facts. Key is to be aware of apparent minor points. Check between the lines.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on philosophy, publishing, higher education. Means this is a special time for sighting goals, answering key questions, deciding who you are and where you are going.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You can successfully communicate with one close to you regarding budget, financial status. Emphasis is on the occult or hidden, on money as it affects partner or mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on deciding where cooperation begins — and where a partnership takes over. Know it and dig deep for information.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Settle practical affairs; family get-together could be on agenda. Open discussion should be featured. Be diplomatic, but stick to main issues.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Now you finish rather than initiate actions. Project can be completed, deal closed. Avoid procrastination. Cut through red tape, paper work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasize completion, the tearing away of frills. See people, situations in realistic light. Home, familiar ground, security — these are spotlighted.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may be visiting a relative in connection with decision affecting home, personal environment. Remember recent resolutions concerning rest.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Count your change! Go places, do things, socialize. Welcome contacts, challenges, stimulating ideas.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you appreciate music, have unusual voice and draw people to you with their problems. You are loyal, affectionate and have difficulty finalizing policies. You are better at aiding others than when it comes to helping yourself.

Producer Turns Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After hiring thousands of actors for such television series as "Mission Impossible" and "Mannix," producer Bruce Geller has turned performer

The opportunity was irresistable to play his own father in the television movie, "Fear on Trial." The late Abraham N. Geller was judge in the 1962 libel trial in which actor John Henry Faulk sued over charges he was a Communist sympathizer.

Attorney Louis Nizer won the suit for Faulk, thus helping to end the blacklist of the entertainment industry.

"Fear on Trial," starring George C. Scott as Nizer and William Devane as Faulk, will appear on ABC Oct. 2.

Tonight's TV Highlights

ABC (7) 8:00 — Kolchak — the Night Stalker. This canceled series with Darren McGavin as a Chicago reporter battling the occult returns for a limited Saturday summer engagement. Tonight the last cruise of a luxury liner turns to horror when the full moon brings out a werewolf.

NBC (4) 9:00 — "The Manchurian Candidate." Laurence Harvey stars as a programmed assassin in this excellent suspense movie with Frank Sinatra as an ex-Army buddy assigned to stop him and Janet Leigh as Sinatra's girlfriend. Superb supporting performances by Angela Lansbury and James Gregory.

KCET (28) 9:00 — "The Chinese Prime Minister." No relation to the Manchurian Candidate, this TV production of Enid Bagnold's play about an aging actress stars Dame Judith Anderson.

?Trivia? By T.T.

It was John Dough's turn to finish in the money this week, and he turned in a perfect 11-point entry to open up a two-point lead in the overall standings.

Second place was occupied by Ed Schmerler, whose 10 points propelled him into third for the season, while defending champ Bobbi-Jean Alicat scored 9½ and moved up a notch also. Max Fraley and Chris Trela chipped in with nine, while Tracy Godfrey, John Russell, Trina Williams and Walter Denton all came through with seven points.

The new Kenmar Cornell entry, in only its second week, forged ahead in the battle of the 10 newcomers. Lennette Romanosky advanced the furthest, because her 10-point card from last week was too late to be registered, but early enough to count in the standings.

Jackie Gleason, slimmed down from 250 pounds to a relatively sevlte 205, is ready to tackle television again. The Great One will star in Panama Fargo, a two-hour miniseries, scheduled for the ABC-TV fall lineup with eight episodes.

Ali's Racket Not Musical

Q: Does Muhammad Ali really think he's a good enough singer to make a record album? — William Deuvre, Staten Island, N.Y.

A: No. Though Ali's going into the record business, it won't be as a singer. The champ is co-chairman and vice president of the newly formed Starwar Records. The first discs will be cut by composer-singers Johanna Meah and Anita Rock.

Q: Who was Arlene Francis' husband, Martin Gabel or Bennett Cerf? — Mrs. H.S.W., New Bedford, Mass.

A: Arlene is still Mrs. Martin Gabel. While Bennett's widow, Phyllis, is married to an old family friend — former New York Mayor Robert Wagner.

'Glad You Asked That'

by Marilyn and Hy Gardner

Q: I've heard that Oscar Wilde was one of the laziest writers of his day. How do we know? Was Oscar Wilde his real name? — M. Randune, Seattle, Wash.

A: Born Oscar Fingall O'Flahertie Wills Wilde, he was known among his peers as a lethargic individual. A favorite tale still told about him was the time his literary agent once called to inquire, "What did you accomplish today?" Oscar didn't go Wilde — he simply yawned and said, "I moved a comma."

Q: Didn't James Arness play the gimpy-legged marshal when "Gunsmoke" first went on the air? —Susan Remos, Pittsburgh.

A: No. Though he had no such infirmity, Dennis Weaver limped his leap into fame playing the lame deputy marshal. Ironically it is James Arness, who played Marshal Dillon, who has one leg slightly shorter. From an old wound incurred during the Anzio campaign of World War II.

Q: Was John Barrymore really as eccentric as raconteurs paint him? What kind of things did he do to earn that image? — Karen Galmond, Youngstown, Ohio.

A: Typical of the Great Profile was a story Harry Hershfield used to tell about his fellow Lamb. One afternoon, in his cups, the actor dropped into an exclusive Fifth Avenue men's shop and ordered a dozen silk shirts. As he indicated the monogram he wished embroidered onto the shirts, the clerk asked, "What's your name, sir?" The customer's eyebrows went up as he boomed "Barrymore!" "And your first name, sir?" "Ethel," he replied, striding out as he canceled the order.

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa 92626. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Cavett Back—on CBS

'Surprise Guest' on Debut Show Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Cavett, a Nebraska lad who went to Yale and then Manhattan and never recovered from either, is starting his new four-week summer variety series on CBS tonight at 10 on Channel 2.

His debut show features Liza Minnelli, Henry Gibson, magician Doug Henning and a "surprise guest star." I won't reveal the star's name, but it is neither Abbie Hoffman nor Judge Crater.

Cavett's hour-long opening salvo is uneven at best. Its main virtues are Steve Lawrence's nifty musical arrangements, Miss Minnelli's singing and the warm, pixie-like qualities she displays in a brief interview with the 37-year-old star.

CAVETT STARTS off with a reasonably intelligent, mildly funny monologue. At one point, he goofs — maybe it was on the cue card — by thanking ABC for finding studio space for his show.

"Try CBS," an off-camera voice stage-whispers.

"Can we go back?" grins Cavett, who for five years had his own late-night talk show on ABC. "Maybe there's time to go back."

Later, the star, a frustrated magician, brings out Henning, star of Broadway's hit "Magic Show," for a quick touch of prestidigitation and a somewhat dragged-out experiment in ESP.

After a Minnelli song, there's a telephone sketch with the "guest star" in which Cavett fails to get his dime's worth.

HENRY GIBSON, the "Laugh-In" poet who hit it big this year playing a rich country music singer in a flick about Nashville, checks in to sing a medley of songs from the movie, then disappears.

Apparently Cavett only read the New York reviews of the movie and didn't realize Gibson can do more than rehash its songs.

Then Cavett and series regular Leigh French do a sketch about talking to plants. The plants have the best lines.

The best moments in the show arrive in the last half, when Minnelli sings again, chats with Cavett and then all hands engage in an amazing saw-the-ladies-in-half bit with Henning.

THE PROBLEMS of this show seem to lie not in its stars, but in its nine writers, who include Cavett and Christopher Porterfield (a classmate of Cavett and coauthor of a book by Cavett about Cavett).

Their scrivening has sort of a this-is-what-amuses-our-crowd quality to it, the crowd being located in Southampton, Greenwich Village and the smart East Side of Manhattan.

But if it doesn't amuse the crowd west of the Hudson — at least the Nielsen crowd — Cavett's series will become just another example of why so few New York-produced evening TV shows make it these days.

ON THE GOOD news front, fans of Carl Kolchak, the intrepid Chicago wire service reporter, will be happy to learn ABC is repeating three episodes of his series, starting tonight at 8 on Channel 7.

The best of the lot is "The Ripper," which airs Aug. 30 and concerns his pursuit of a revived Jack the Ripper stalking the streets of the Windy City. Don't miss it, or we'll have ABC renew the series.

Mafia Story Due

ROME (AP) — "The Roots of the Mafia" has just finished filming in the scrubby hills and bleak villages of Sicily. The five, one-hour television dramas telling how it all began are aimed at an American public fascinated by the Mafia.

The amitious, multinational enterprise employed such actors as Joseph Cotten, Lee J. Cobb, Katharine Ross, Edward Albert, Tony Musante, Trevor Howard, Tom Skerritt, James Mason and Mel Ferrer.

The project began in 1972, when Italian documentary maker Enzo Muzzi proposed to Italy's RAI Television a series of films on the origins of the Mafia.

Sir Lew Grade, the free-wheeling director of England's ITC network, joined forces, convincing the Italians to treat the subject dramatically, rather than in a documentary form.

ENTERTAINMENT

Comic 'Gets Respect'

PITTSEURGH (UPI) — "The world loves a loser," said comedian Rodney Dangerfield, sipping his extra dry martini. "You don't identify with winners because in real life everyone believes he is a loser."

At 53, Dangerfield ought to know. His unique brand of "I don't get no respect, at all" humor has made him a success on television and a popular night club comedian.

But it wasn't always like that.

"I had a terribly rough life when I was young," Dangerfield said shortly before a night club appearance. "I never did get respect, you know what I mean. Other kids looked down on me. I came from a split home. My mother and I moved into a classy neighborhood in Kew Gardens, New York, when I was a teenager. I experienced some indirect form of anti-semitism at school. I'm no longer bitter about it. Everybody has scars.

"I've tried everything. I walked dogs for a couple of bucks a week. Sold ice cream on the beach. I was a singing waiter. I moved furniture and delivered groceries. I was so poor I used to buy yesterday's doughnuts for half price.

"Later when I became a comedian I started to tell everybody that I never get no respect. No respect at all. And, you know it's sort of funny, ever since then I am getting respect."

Spray Death Brings Lawsuit

PORTLAND (UPI) — A 750,000 suit has been filed in U.S. District Court alleging a 15-year-old California youth died by inhaling Pam, a household spray product.

The plaintiff was Carol E. Jonsrud, representative of the estate of Robert Williams Jacobs, who died Aug. 15, 1974, in Sacramento.

The suit carries no description of the circumstances under which the youth inhaled the product.

Defendants are American Home Products Corp., manufacturer of Pam, and Boyle-Midway, Inc., the distributor. Pam is sold nationally for use in preventing food from sticking to pans.

Attorney Nick Chaivoe of Portland said the suit was filed in Oregon because there is a better chance it will be resolved here sooner than in California and because he expects to file similar suits here involving Oregon plaintiffs.

The complaint alleges that Pam, although containing a deadly fluorocarbon propellant, does not give adequate notice on its label of a "propensity for sudden death after inhalation." The suit contends the product has been linked to at least 125 deaths in six years.

Coast Students On Georgia Roll

Robert M. Mitchell of Costa Mesa and James A. Bott of Fountain Valley compiled grade point averages of 3.0 or better during the spring quarter, qualifying for the Dean's List at Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Retiree-Early or Late

We have this store — This fantastic store with fabulous people who work in it and just as fabulous people who buy from it. We who work in the store think enough of our great customers to want them to have their own personal greeter — information and security man at our doors to welcome them as they enter, direct them to various areas of the store in which they might be interested, thank them for shopping with us as they leave and all the while keeping a watchful eye out for those very few people who might be trying to shoplift from us.
This position calls for much more than someone who is trained exclusively in security work, in fact it is not even mandatory — we have our own training program. However, we can't train someone to like people, to care about our customers and see to it that they are well taken care of. Those feelings must come from within — Must already be a part of your personality & makeup. We feel this opening on our staff calls for a mature, refined, retired gentleman who is in good health (being on your feet is a must) and is looking for some part time hours to round out his weekly schedule. If the position described above seems ready made for you, please send a brief resume to Daily Pilot Classified Ad No. 109, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa, 92626, and we will contact you for an interview.
