Missing Corpse Found

A decomposed female body washed ashore at Crystal Cove Sunday morning and has been tentatively identified as Sherre Miller, 21, of Costa Mesa, who has been missing at sea since Dec. 7, when her sailboat was found partially submerged off Abalone Point.

Her husband, Steve Miller, 27, also aboard the sailboat, is still missing.

"The body is beyond visual recognition. We have tentatively identified her as a Jane Doe. However, it appears likely it is Mrs. Miller," a coroner's deputy said today.

The deputy added that the body can be positively identified either through fingerprints or dental charts.

The body was discovered about 8 a.m. at the cove, between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach. The Millers' water-filled boat had been discovered farther south, off Abalone Point.

When the boat was found, the body of the Millers' 3-year-old son, Shawn, was found in the cabin.

An autopsy revealed that Shawn died of drowning.

The Millers moved to Costa Mesa only three weeks prior to the fateful sailing trip. Miller had purchased the new boat only two weeks before taking the overnight cruise out of Newport Harbor.

'Jolly' Santa

St. Nick Smashed in HB

Should Santa Claus and his sleigh pulled by eight tiny reindeer ever get pulled over by a traffic cop, the computerized records check will show he was questioned Sunday by Huntington Beach police.

Officers were dispatched to a luxury apartment complex on the beachfront at 711 Ocean Ave., after reports of a boisterous and extremely jolly old Saint Nick perched high atop a wall in full uniform.

HE WOULD HAVE BEEN high even standing on the ground, investigators said, and his nose wasn't red from the chill of the ocean breeze as he waved and shouted to passing motorists.

"Santa Claus had been drinking and was disturbing the peace but not drunk," the police log entry suggested.

POLICE FILLED OUT a field identification card used in reference to suspicious persons, issued a warning and left without busting Santa Claus.

After all, 'tis the season to be jolly.

Soviet Device

Satellite-blinding Laser Now Tested?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department official said today discussions are being held with the Soviet Union about allegations that it is testing a laser to blind U.S. spy satellites.

Dr. James P. Wade, director of the Pentagon's Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) task force, told the House Armed Services Committee it would be premature to call the allegations accurate.

"This is a new issue raised in the news media," Wade said. "The facts are not in on the issue."

He refused to discuss either the laser allegation or the possibility that the Soviets are testing a new antimissile radar "because both are subjects of current discussions with the Soviets."

Drawing heavy questioning about and some criticism of alleged Soviet violations of the first SALT agreement in 1972, Wade insisted to the committee that no certain Soviet violations have been found.

"We cannot clearly demonstrate any violation has taken place," he said.

But he said a number of possible violations have been and are being discussed with the Soviets, as well as Soviet claims of U.S. violations, which he refused to describe.

Wade made his statements about the laser issue after Rep. Les Aspin, (D-Wis.), asked him about an Aviation Week magazine story saying Soviet lasers blinded sensors on U.S. satellites in five instances since Oct. 18.

The story said infrared sensors able to detect Soviet missile launchings were interfered with

Subpoena For Top Aide Told

County Supervisor Laurence Schmit has been called to appear before the Orange County Grand Jury Tuesday as the jury continues its probe into the complex financial and political affairs of Dr. Louis Cella.

Also subpoenaed to testify before the jury at a closed session is Schmit's top executive aide, Loran Norton.

Schmit was a major benefactor of Cella's political generosity, roughly $134,000 in contributions and loans, when he succeeded in unseating incumbent Second District Supervisor David Baker.

Last week, it was learned that Schmit was employed by a Cella-controlled hospital as a public relations consultant during the final six months of his successful campaign.

Financial disclosure statements filed later by the freshman supervisor failed to show the income received from the hospital during the last six months of 1974.

Schmit said he does not believe as an incoming official that he was required to show the hospital income.

"At worst it was a mistake — an honest mistake on my part," the supervisor said.

Norton, a long time Cella political worker, said last week he received money from the hospital during 1974 for pro-

Empty Cupboard Sparks Shooting

A reportedly long-simmering situation between a Huntington Beach couple exploded Sunday when police allege the husband shot his wife in the back six times, enraged because there was no hot chocolate mix in the pantry.

Investigators said a sorrowful Bobby Benard, 50, of 19372 Cindy Lane, surrendered without incident following the shooting that occurred in the front yard of their home.

Spokesmen at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital said today that Mrs. Uva Benard, 54, is listed in critical condition and is under close watch and constant care.

Police said the front yard shooting appeared to be a case of domestic friction that built up over a long period of time until a minor incident set it off.

"He was very remorseful," Detective Richard Nolen said of Benard who was interrogated following the Sunday afternoon shooting.

The suspect was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and Nolen said a complaint would be sought from the Orange County District Attorney's Office Tuesday.

Investigators confiscated a .22 caliber revolver believed used in the shooting when they took Benard into custody.

Poor Santa Sent Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Not only was Santa Claus' candy in "very poor condition," but also his immigration card allegedly was forged, and Mauricio Castillo-Espinoza was held for deportation, police said.

Castillo-Espinoza, 34, dressed up as Santa Claus Sunday and passed out candy to children but police drew the line when he asked their parents for "donations" afterwards.

Officers said Santa collected $67.90 in four hours.

Woman Pours Own Blood Over Herself

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — A woman doctor who poured her own blood over herself to protest Indonesian military intervention in Portuguese Timor said today she took the action to "dramatize the plight" of the Timorese people.

Dr. Elizabeth Elliott, a physician at a women's health center in the Sydney suburb of Leichhardt, said she wanted to "dramatize and personalize the plight of a people only trying to develop in their own way."

She told newsmen she took about one pint of blood from herself and from two friends Tuesday when she received news that two Timorese friends were killed in fighting in the Portuguese colony.

She then went to the Indonesian consulate and poured the blood over herself, reportedly shouting at consulate staff members, "Do you realize people are being killed in Timor by your fellow Indonesians?"

Does Santa Need an Attorney?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Santa Claus had to follow the same federal regulations as everyone else, he would be filling out forms or hiring a lawyer now instead of preparing for his trip south on Chrismas eve.

"The list of possible law violations by old Saint Nick is staggering," Rep. M. G. "Gene" Snyder, (R-Ky.), commented in a letter to constituents.

"It may be necessary for him to retain a lawyer or receive executive clemency if he is to make his traditional Christmas visit on time."

Among the federal violations which would land him in a heap o' trouble, Snyder said, are:

— Flying across the heavens without certification by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and without filing a flight plan.

— Breaking Labor Department regulations for minimum wages for the elves in his toy shop, and possible occupational safety and health violations if they don't wear hard hats.

In addition, Snyder said, the Food and Drug Administration might award a grant to the National Science Foundation to determine if Rudolph was being fed an unauthorized drug to make his nose light up.

And, "not to be outdone, the Internal Revenue Service has instigated an audit to find out if over the years Santa has been declaring as taxable income the cookies and milk that are left for him by the children of the nation," the congressman said.

"However," he said, "it does give one pause to think and wonder just where our multitude of laws and regulations are taking us."

Passing Highway Patrolmen Save Pedro Man Who Apparently Suffered Seizure at Wheel

CHP Officers Save Driver In Costa Mesa

Kendall, 58, is in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Santa Ana's Mercy Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack and losing control of his car on the Newport Freeway Sunday night.

A CHP spokesman said the car was northbound on the freeway and plunged down an embankment near the Paularino Avenue offramp in Costa Mesa when Kendall suffered the seizure at about 9:30 p.m.

Patrolman Robin Hanson spotted the car at the bottom of the slope and ran down to give aid. He found Kendall lying on the seat on the passenger side of the small foreign car. He had stopped breathing.

Hanson pulled the driver out of the car and began applying mouth to mouth resuscitation until Kendall started breathing raggedly.

Three other officers, John Galvin, Art McMahan and Mark Hedgpeth arrived at the scene and took turns applying heart massage to the victim while Hanson cintinued to aid his breathing.

The officers worked on the victim until Costa Mesa paramedics arrived on the scene to continue the treatment and take Kendall to the hospital.

fessional services rendered through two small companies he owns.

Friday, affidavits supporting search warrants issued in connection with the county investigation of Cella showed that investigators were seeking cancelled checks from other Cella-controlled companies made payable to Schmit, Norton and State Controller Kenneth Cory.

While the Grand Jury in Orange County is investigating possible violations in some of Cella's business dealings, a federal grand jury in Los Angeles is conducting probe of its own.

In the forefront of the investigations are the purported use of fictitious firms to drain money from Mission Community Hospital, Mission Viejo, and Mercy General Hospital, Santa Ana.

Cella is a minority owner in both hospitals but has freely admitted that he made or shared in most major financial decisions at the hospital.

Altogether, the wealthy Santa Ana physician contributed more than $500,000 to 54 political candidates last year with Schmit and Cory receiving the lion's share.

Bush Pledges CIA Standards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Bush promised Congress today that if he is confirmed as CIA director he will establish high ethical standards for the agency and restrict it to gathering foreign intelligence.

Bush also told the Senate arms services committee his extensive political background may help him in his new job. Bush is a former Congressman and Republican party chairman.

Court Upholds Engineer's Avco Lawsuit

An Orange County Superior Court jury's decision that state highway engineer Barry Lippert should get more than $1.1 million because of harassment by Avco Community Developers has been upheld by an appellate court.

The ruling by the Fourth District Court of Appeals in San Bernardino overturns Superior Court Judge Robert L. Corfman's rejection of the jury verdict.

Justice Marcus Kauffman's opinion returns the $1,109,200 to Lippert, 31, of Garden Grove. It removes from the record Judge Corfman's comment that the award was excessive and the law suit should be retried.

Judge Corfman at one point told Newport Beach attorney Donald Belveal that he was "trying to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" in pressing the lawsuit he filed for Lippert.

The highway engineer sued Avco when he allegedly was harassed by the developers after he moved his two-story home from Mission Viejo to Laguna Niguel.

Lippert argued that Avco slandered him and his title to the property and that the harassment was triggered by the company's realization that it did not possess any restrictive powers on construction plans in the La Veta tract.

The harassment, Belveal told the jury, triggered the major heart attack suffered by his client who was never able to move into the home at 29691 Ana Marie Lane.

Belveal described Avco's actions against Lippert as the "conduct of a systemized campaign of terrorism, economic depression and vexation."

UFO Sighted?

'Three Stories High'

HASTINGS, Fla. (UPI) — Three persons attending Larry Masters' backyard cookout reported seeing a giant, dome-shaped unidentified flying object hovering over nearby trees. Sheriff's deputies from three counties and the Florida Highway Patrol could find no other evidence of the object.

St. Johns County sheriff's dispatcher John Harnage said another air search of the area would be made today.

Masters called sheriff's deputies in St. Augustine shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday to report the UFO sighting. He and his three guests told officers the object was about three stories tall and appeared to be between "one football field and two football fields in length."

The four told a deputy the UFO had about 30 round, amber-shaped lights blinking from the side and the entire object was glowing brightly.

The sighters said the UFO hovered above the trees for about three minutes, then sank below the tree line for a minute, then rose again and descended, appearing to land.

$113 Hike

'76 Fords to Cost Two Percent More

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a second round of price hikes on its 1976 model cars that will amount to $113 — two percent — on the average equipped automobile. (Related Editorial Page A6)

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford vice president for sales, said the prices are effective Jan. 5, 1976, and are "necessary at this time to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment."

The increase amounts to $97 — 2.2 percent — on base vehicles and $16 on optional equipment — 1.6 percent. The increase on the average equipped vehicle, with options that most people buy, worked out to $113, Bidwell said.

In October, when Ford introduced its 1976 models, it said it was raising prices on its average equipped cars $247, a figure the federal Cost of Living Council said actually worked out to $269.

There was no immediate indication whether the other three U.S. auto makers would follow Ford's lead in a second round of price hikes so early in the model year.

New government-mandated vehicle safety standard which will increase costs require an improved hydraulic brake system on cars and three-point lap and shoulder belts for light trucks, both effective Jan. 1, 1976, Bidwell said.

The federal agency said the four companies increased prices on the 1976 mdels by $222, compared with the whopping $630 price increase for 1975 models that sent Detroit's auto makers deeper into a slump from which they are just recovering.

Besides the increase in car prices, Ford said the base price on light trucks would be increased $123, or 2.8 percent. On the imported Capri, the sticker price will be jumped $118, or 2.8 percent.

Bidwell said that in the three model years preceding 1976, costs of more than $350 a vehicle have not been recovered with price increases.

"Further, our 1976-model price increases at introduction time recovered only about 60 percent of expected 1976-model cost increases, and even with this latest increase, we will not recover all of our 1976-model increases," the Ford executive said.

Except for saying at one point "my information is classified" Wade did not concede that U.S. officials have any information beyond the magazine article.

Wade said Soviet testing of the radar at Kamchatka does not violate the 1972 limit of two Soviet antimissile sites because testing is still permitted at more than two sites.

But he said the issue is being discussed with the Soviets and that it is more significant that the new radar is more sophisticated in its ability to track large intercontinental missiles.

Injured Teacher 'Serious'

Fountain Valley High School teacher Denis Gitschier was in serious condition in a hospital intensive care unit today after a Saturday morning attack that left an off-duty Long Beach policeman dead.

Gitschier, 30, reportedly underwent 13 hours of surgery at Los Altos Hospital in Long Beach for his injuries.

Gitschier reportedly was attacked with a sharp instrument as he slept in the back of his car in Long Beach.

Officer Franke Neal Lewis, 28, tried to come to Gitschier's assistance and was shot in the face by the young teacher's alleged attacker. (Additional story today, Page A-5).

Fountain Valley Principal Paul Berger said today Gitschier was driving home to Torrance from a high school staff party at a teacher's home, when he became sleepy and pulled off the road to rest.

He described Gitschier, who has been teaching at Fountain Valley since 1971, as popular with teachers and students.

In addition to his teaching duties, Berger said Gitschier serves as an adviser to the Future Business Leaders of America chapter.

He said Gitschier, 30, had been living with his parents in Torrance this fall while he was purchasing a home in Huntington Beach. Berger said Gitschier was to move into his home soon.

Sunday's Sermon

Reported
By Tom Barley

A Closer Look At Christ Urged

(Editor's Note: This is a Monday feature in which Daily Pilot reporter Tom Barley gives a personalized account of a sermon from a church or synagogue selected at random in the Daily Pilot circulation area. The church also will be the subject of a feature on Saturday's church page.)

Far too many Christians are content in this happy season to confine their Christmas observances to the pleasant vision of the Christ child in the manger, the Rev. Richard J. Dunlap warned his congregation Sunday at Shepherd of the Hills United Methodist Church, Mission Viejo.

"But we should take another look and see the contrast we have created between the golden boy of Bethlehem and the man who died on the cross," the Rev. Dunlap pointed out in his sermon.

"Jesus the baby was welcome," the speaker said. "Certainly, we all love babies; we feel superior and important in the presence of a little child and we are protective because we sense the helplessness of the infant.

"But Jesus Christ who became a man was not always welcome," the Rev. Dunlap said. "From the age of two when he escaped King Herod's slaughter of the innocents he came to know a hostility that ended with his death on the cross."

The speaker condemned as "a fairly recent development" the concept of Jesus as eternally a "gentle Jesus, meek and mild, who was wholly absorbed with flowers, sunsets, birds, little children and who was the friend of forgotten people.

"This has come about through moderr literature and art forms," he said. "And we only have to ask ourselves why, if all this is true, was Jesus crucified?"

Far too many people—and especially at Christmas——are adapting a conception of God and Christ to fit the fabric of their own intimate lives, the speaker warned.

"Others look on Jesus Christ as the supreme sales executive," he said. "There are many such flippant ideas built around this vision of that great sales manager in the sky and musicians tell us that we should talk to the man upstairs.

"Jesus was wholly pure, good, ethical, unselfish and honest," the Rev. Dunlap said. "And he has always found a way of shaking himself and what he represents loose from those who would use him for ungodly purposes."

But we, in our turn, have not always found a way to accept him as he should always be accepted, the Rev. Dunlap said. "We were the shepherds in the fields but we were also the innkeeper who had no room when Jesus first came to us.

"He was the baby who became a man who shocked his elders in the temple and who was regarded as an incendiary force. But he was also the man who set our standards of honor, decency and integrity and who shows us what it is to have moral obligations and responsibility.

"These are the things that Jesus Christ the intruder brings into our human lives every Christmas," the Rev. Dunlap said. "Let us all remember that the Christmas baby was the promise of the man to come."

HB Airs Matney Charges

The Huntington Beach ad hoc committee looking into allegations against City Administrator Dave Rowlands has scheduled further hearings in January.

Chairman Al Coen says his committee will hear additional testimony Jan. 7 on a number of allegations lodged by City Councilman Jerry Matney.

Coen says he expects the panel to continue the investigation until it can offer a comment on each allegation.

The ad hoc committee also will meet Jan. 5 with the City Council on the findings that were released Monday.

The intent of that meeting is reportedly to give officials a better grasp on why certain recommendations were made.

In the report, the panel alleged that Rowlands gave the Police Officers Association retirement benefits without authorization and also assumed greater prerogatives than authorized in the city's property tax transfer election.

Matney says he believes the report, combined with the city's bookkeeping controversy, is grounds to dismiss Rowlands.

Early Semesters Studied

By LAURIE KASPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Saddleback College, the only community college in the county and one of the few in the state operating on a quarter system, may shift to an "early semester" system of scheduling of classes by the opening of the next school year.

A committee established to study academic terms has recommended the calendar change to the district trustees. Trustees are expected to consider it during their next regular meeting in January.

If approved, the college would offer two semesters of classes, rather than three quarters, during the regular school year. Total class time would be the same but the semester system would allow shorter class periods spread out over a longer period.

The first fall semester under the system would begin on Aug. 23, 1976, making it an "early" semester, and end on Dec. 23. The spring semester would run from Jan. 10 to May 25, 1977.

Saddleback has been on the quarter system since the college was formed in 1968. At that time, it was thought to be ahead of the educational trend. Other community and state colleges were expected to make the shift to the quarter system.

Instead, most other colleges kept the traditional semester or changed to the early semester system, leaving the Mission Viejo college behind, not ahead, of the trend.

Although studies have failed to prove any specific type of calendar improves the teaching-learning process, many schools across the country have changed or are changing to the early semester system.

In fact, this system has become the most common academic calendar nationwide. The traditional semester ranks second in popularity and the quarter system third, according to a report by the state chancellor's academic calendar task force.

Gale Sinks Polynesian Canoe; 4 OK

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — The "Spirit of the Nuku Hiva," a 75-foot Polynesian canoe built in San Diego, was lost in a gale at sea, but her skipper and three crew members survived.

Without the aid of modern navigational instruments, builder and skipper Robert L. Griffith had sailed from San Diego to the Marquesas Islands two months ago. But he reported Sunday that he encountered a non-seasonal three-day gale on the return to Hilo.

The storm was accompanied by 25-foot swells which swamped the double-hulled canoe. Crossmembers linking the two hulls broke, causing both hulls to overturn.

Griffith's wife, Nancy, maneuvered a 53-foot escort yacht, the Awahnee, to rescue her husband and three crew members, Frazier Beauchamp and Jeffrey Cogswell, both of Sacramento, and Daniel D. Baldwin, San Diego. None was reported injured.

"We'd lost every stitch of clothing, and we worried about exposure if we had to remain out there," Griffith said.

After the men were safely aboard the Awahnee, the remains of the Nuku Hiva were tied to the yacht, but the storm tore the canoe remnants away and into the ocean during the night.

"We lost everything in that storm," Mrs. Griffith said.

The Nuku Hiva's voyage since it reached the Marquesas has been marred by tragedy. The Griffiths' son, Reid, 21, died in a hiking accident there and several crew members afterwards declined to make the return voyage, calling the Nuku Hiva "unsafe."

Youth Booked in Boat Theft

OXNARD (UPI) — A Bellflower teen-ager, suspected of stealing a 27-foot sailboat from Redondo Beach, was arrested by the California Highway Patrol while driving a car allegedly stolen from Santa Barbara.

The Ventura Harbor Patrol said it rescued two youths from a sailboat that capsized off Oxnard Saturday. The youths gave their names and then left before authorities discovered the boat had been stolen.

Gunman Kills Girlfriend, Cop

SUGAR LOAF, N.Y. (AP) — A 24-year-old state trooper responding to a domestic quarrel call has been shot to death by a man who first trained his rifle on his girlfriend, killing her, state police said.

The dead officer, Michael V. McDonough, of Tuxedo, N.Y., was gunned down Sunday night by a single rifle shot fired by Chris Georgeades, 28, as the trooper arrived at the house in Orange County, police said.

Georgeades had already killed his girlfriend, Linda Manacke, 28, in the same manner, they said. The couple had opened a craft shop here about a year ago.

Bonfires Out

Newport Cites Costs

The bonfires that once lit up Newport Beach skies during the annual post-holiday Christmas tree-burning will not be conducted this year, according to city and fire officials.

The fires, a city tradition for many years, allowed residents to dispose of their Christmas trees. The activity was sponsored by the city's fire department.

HOWEVER, INCREASED LIABILITY COSTS for the ctity have made the tree-burning too expensive, according to city officials.

And, fire officials say they are no longer able to provide enough personnel for the strict control needed for the collecting, stacking and burning of the trees.

Firemen say they fear the reduced supervision might result in accidents.

INSTEAD OF HAULING TREES TO the traditional burning sites, residents were asked to put trees with their trash on their regular collection day.

Trees more than four feet in height should be cut into two pieces, city aides said. Also, city crews will patrol the streets and alleys between Dec. 29 and Jan. 5 to pick up trees too large for the refuse packers.

Tricycle Power

CRAZY DAZE: Only yesterday, amid sunny Sunday afternoon traffic along our Pacific Coast Highway, I spotted this kid driving the other way in the Number 1 lane. Nothing too odd about that. Kids drive the other way all the time.

The difference was, in this case, the kid was driving a tricycle. I rubbed my eyes in disbelief but the kid on his trike didn't go away.

There he was, tooling down the hill in front of the Hotel Laguna, pumping his pedals furiously with a whole string of cars trailing behind him.

We must be in the pre-Christmas crazies, I thought to myself.

ON THE OTHER HAND, there must be something illegal about riding a tricycle down Coast Highway. But what is it? People ride bicycles down the road all the time. That's not illegal.

What are you going to do, arrest the kid for having one too many wheels?

Now back there in the dark ages when I was a kid, if I'd been riding a tricycle down Coast Highway and had been spotted by a cop, I know precisely how it would have turned out.

The good officer would have grabbed me by the scruff of the neck as I rode by and bellowed in my ear, "Listen you little jackass, you've got just four seconds to get that damn tricycle out of the traffic, you hear?"

Alas, life was so simple back then. You can't expect your law enforcement officers to act like that these days.

IF THE COP TODAY had snatched the kid by the scruff of the neck, his parents would have filed a complaint of police brutality. The officer would have found himself standing on the rug in front of the Police Review Board, charged with illegal neck-scruffing.

Meanwhile, the kid himself would have run off to the nearest offices of the ACLU. He would be demanding that the ACLU file a class-action lawsuit on behalf of all tricyclists seeking equal rights upon the highways—or somesuch.

This sweeping action would have been joined by the Senior Citizens Council. This group would note that while the case at hand involved a little guy on a small tricycle, there are many senior citizens who ride large tricycles which are actually full-sized bikes that have been converted to have two rear wheels.

THUS THE REASONING would be if you can discriminate against a little trike carrying a small tyke, the next thing you know, the law would be coming down on large tricycles carrying full-grown taxpayers.

There is no end to where all this litigation might go.

We are not simply suffering the pre-Christmas crazies. We have the year-around crazies these days.

Angolan Warning

Solon Sees Vietnam-type Situation

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — There is danger that a U.S. commitment to provide millions of dollars — probably more than $50 million — in arms aid to Angola guerrillas could trap America in a Vietnam-style conflict there, Sen. Dick Clark, (D-Iowa), said today.

Reports of U.S. involvement in the civil war in Central Africa surprised many members of Congress and is one of the most serious problems Congress faces this week, House Democratic Leader Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill said.

CLARK, WHO heads the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on African Affairs, told reporters the United States apparently has provided only dollars — and no people — so far to two Angola factions which oppose the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

Clark said he was not free to specify how much aid has been given, but noted that U.N. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan had confirmed Sunday that Washington is funneling $50 million through neighboring Zaire to anti-Soviet factions in Angola.

"I'm inclined to think it may be somewhat greater than that," said Clark.

Clark, interviewed on CBS Morning News, said he expects to see passage Tuesday of an amendment he introduced, which would prohibit sending military equipment to Angola without congressional approval.

"I THINK that there are no people involved," he said. "There are indications that we do have some pilots going down in there delivering material and some pilots going down for reconnaissance purposes, but I don't think there are any advisers there. I don't think it's gone that far yet."

Meanwhile, the presidents of Kenya and Zambia today blamed foreign involvement for stepping up the Angolan civil war, called for an immediate cease-fire and urged the three rival factions to form a government of national unity.

Handicap Home Killers Sought

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Police sought a man and a woman today in connection with a predawn robbery at a home for the handicapped that left two dead and three injured.

"It was just brutal, senseless," said the Rev. J.W. Wynn, director of Bethesda Center, a motel converted into living quarters for 30 handicapped persons.

"My staff gave their lives for the residents. I guess they saved others by just being there at that moment," he said of the incident Sunday. "I just don't know what else they could do."

THELMA ELOISE Lehman, 46 and partially blind, was stabbed to death. Delta Post Bemis, 59, was fatally shot, police said.

Officers said Mrs. Bemis' husband, Joseph, 62, was shot in the head and a blind resident, Joy Denise Castlen, 22, was severely beaten. Both were listed in serious condition at a local hospital.

Gary Jackson Reach, 19, a cerebral palsy victim who worked the switchboard, was beaten unconscious. He recovered and was released after being treated at the hospital.

Police gave the following account of the incident.

A MAN ENTERED the home before dawn, went first to Reach's room, beat the man and took the house keys. The attacker then went to Mrs. Lehman's room, scuffled with her, killed her and ransacked the room.

He then knocked on Miss Castlen's door, woke her up and took her downstairs on the pretext that there was a fire. In the lobby, the man started beating the young blind woman.

Miss Castlen's screams woke the Bemis'. They were shot when they went to investigate.

Miss Castlen managed to call police and lock herself in a bathroom as the Bemis' were attacked, but the assailant was gone when police arrived.

The Rev. Mr. Wynn, who gave up a Baptist church ministry to set up and run the non-profit home, said Reach told him he saw a woman with the attacker.

"ONLY MRS. Lehman kept any money," the Rev. Mr. Wynn said. "She had $200 or $300, but we don't know how much they got. We only surmise they knew it was there. They went straight to her room, passed four other rooms."

He said a night security guard will be permanently posted at the home.

"I thought my staff was security enough," he said. "If a security guard would have been there, he might have got the jump, but it's doubtful.

"We had a meeting with the residents this afternoon and I said, 'What do you want to do'?"

Joan Little Back In Raleigh Prison

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Joan Little, the 21-year-old black woman found innocent last August of charges she murdered her white jailer, was arrested Sunday night for not posting bond in her appeal of a breaking and entering conviction.

Attorneys for Miss Little were scheduled to appear before the state Supreme Court today seeking reinstatement of bond and the woman's release.

LITTLE

POLICE SAID Miss Little was arrested at a motel in Durham 23 miles away.

Beaufort County Sheriff O. E. Davis and a matron picked up Miss Little late Sunday night at the Durham County Jail and took her to the state Women's Prison in Raleigh.

Miss Little was acquitted in August of charges she murdered Beaufort County jailer Clarence Alligood. She claimed Alligood tried to sexually attack her.

Miss Little was being held in the Beaufort County Jail in Washington, N.C., on a breaking and entering conviction when she stabbed Alligood to death in August 1974.

After the murder trial, she was released on $15,000 bond pending appeal of the breaking and entering conviction, for which she had been sentenced to seven-10 years in prison.

Last month the state Court of Appeals upheld the conviction and her attorneys appealed to the state Supreme Court.

HER ATTORNEY, Jerry Paul, asked the high court to allow her to remain free while he filed a motion for review of the case.

Paul posted bond in Washington, N.C., but Miss Little did not appear at Supreme Court offices to sign certification papers. She and Paul were expected to appear at the clerk's office Thursday and Friday to sign the papers, but when they did not show up, an all-points bulletin was issued for Miss Little's arrest.

Father Kills Son; Thought He Was Crook

DETROIT (UPI) — Norman Quarles, a 21-year-old University of Detroit student, broke a pane of glass in his parents' home early Sunday and started to climb inside. Suddenly, there was a rifle shot from inside.

QUARLES FELL dead, killed by his father.

"It's a tragedy," said Quarles' brother, John Quarles Jr., "But my father says he had no choice but to shoot."

Police said Quarles told them he thought a burglar was trying to break into the west side home.

Quarles' brother said his father ordered Norman out of the house Saturday because they "never got along."

POLICE SAID they believed the victim was trying to reenter the house to find a place to sleep because he was unable to pay the rent at a flat he took several months ago.

Police held the father, John Quarles Sr., 68, for several hours Sunday before releasing him. They did not file charges against him.

It was the second time in just over two years Quarles had been detained in a fatal shooting at his home.

Chlorine Blast Kills 4

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A railroad tank car loaded with chlorine gas exploded at a chemical plant here Sunday night, killing at least four persons and overcoming about 80 others with toxic chlorine fumes, authorities said.

The explosion at the Hooker Chemical Co. plant, located along the Niagara River about a mile north of this city's famed waterfalls, sent the toxic fumes over a wide area and felled a number of people who were driving or walking in the vicinity, authorities said.

Spies Sentenced

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (UPI) — A state court today sentenced confessed Communist spy Guenther Guillaume to 13 years in prison for stealing state secrets in the scandal that toppled former Chancellor Willy Brandt.

The Duesseldorf State Court announced its verdict in a windowless, maximum security cellar room where it had met for six months to hear the case against Guillaume and his wife, Christel.

Beirut Fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese security forces moved into Beirut's war battered seafront hotel area today and took over control of the unfinished Hilton Hotel in a new bid to end fighting between Moslem and Christian gunmen.

In the wake of the latest government-arranged cease-fire, fighting between rival militiamen dropped away to isolated sniper duels after a week of killing in Beirut and other cities left nearly 600 dead and 900 wounded.

Suspect Nabbed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Salvatore Soli, a suspect in the killing a week ago of newspaper heir John S. Knight III, was arrested at a motel here Sunday night, police said.

Soli, 38, of Philadelphia, was taken into custody after a young woman staying with him at the motel called police, Homicide Detective Jimmy Beall said.

California

Southern California began experiencing pleasant conditions today after going through a weekend of chilly temperatures and gusty winds, remnants of last week's storm.

Sunny skies and warmer temperatures prevailed throughout most of the Southland. The spring-like conditions were interrupted at times by winds gusting up to 25 miles an hour in mountain areas and coastal valleys.

The winds diminished by afternoon, but were expected to pick up tonight.

Deserts were the exception temperature-wise, where cooler readings were recorded in both the upper and lower areas.

Temperatures Sunday ranged from a low of 30 to the mid-60s. San Diego recorded a Southland high of 66.

Los Angeles had a high of 60, and it was expected to climb to 69 today.

U.S. Summary

Temperatures dropped nearly 50 degrees between daytime yesterday and early this morning from the middle Mississippi valley to the southwestern plains. And very cold air continued to spread across the Midwest and South.

Arctic air that invaded the northern U.S. during the weekend is still pushing to the south and east and now has reached as far south as central Texas.

Temperatures in northwest Texas plunged into the teens and 20s. Sub-zero readings were common across the Dakotas, Minnesota and Nebraska. Northerly winds, gusting up to 30 miles per hour, added to the chill. There was a variety of precipitation.

Light now fell snow fell during the night from upper Michigan into eastern Kansas, and some freezing rain and sleet was noted from central Oklahoma to southwest Missouri. Showers and a few thundershowers occurred from the remainder of the Great Lakes region into Arkansas and southeast Oklahoma.

Coastal Weather

Clear and cold tonight with increasing winds. Sunny and warmer Tuesday. Highs Tuesday in the low 70's.

Coastal temperatures will range between 41 and 66. Inland temperatures will range between 40 and 68. The water temperatures will be 55.

Response Indicators

Test to Identify Rapist Developed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Scientists say they have developed a foolproof test to identify potential rapists.

Electronic response indicators were hooked to the genitals of men who listened to recordings of rape episodes.Rapists and potential assaulters were aroused but "normal" men were not.

The researchers, from the University of Tennessee, told a weekend meeting of the Association of Advancement of Behavioral Therapy their test marked the first time a distinction between rapists and other men could be made accurately.

Records were played describing sexual experiences — a rape, a consenting love scene and a man beating a woman. The rapist's arousal response was traced by the polygrath machine and compared with that of other men.

The researchers said a rapist was invariably aroused by the rape scenario.

They also said they successfully used aversion therapy to change a rapist's behavior. The urge to rape was curbed by associating rape with a bad consequence such as loss of job, family disgrace or other embarrassment.

1990 Population Eyed

Planners Scale Down State Predictions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The shape of things to come for Southern California in 1990 isn't as crowded as originally thought. Regional planners have cut 500,000 people from their projected census.

The region, encompassing six counties, won't decrease in population. It just won't increase as much, the experts say in an updated population forecast for the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG).

LOS ANGELES, Ventura, San Bernardino and Riverside counties' population estimates have been cut significantly from the forecast issued in January 1974, said Frank Hotchkiss, SCAG's deputy planning director.

Only Orange and Imperial counties are expected to exceed the forecast, he said, with Orange gaining 685,000 more people than originally thought and Imperial revised upward by 3,900.

"The censuses in Ventura County and San Bernardino County showed both areas growing less than they (planners) estimated," said Hotchkiss. "They were still using growth forecasts of the boom years of the '60s."

LOS ANGELES county can expect 144,400 fewer people in 1990 than the 690,400 forecast two years ago, for a new projected total population of 7,557,000, Hotchkiss said.

He said there is a lower birth rate and a smaller migration into the region.

"We don't know all the reasons for the slowdown, but those two are primarily responsible," he added.

Man Booked In Cop Death

LONG BEACH (AP) — Acting on a tip, police have booked a 24-year-old man for investigation of murder in the shooting of an off-duty policeman who died in his wife's arms in front of his home.

Officers said Terry Dean Harper of Culver City was arrested Sunday after the death of officer Franke Lewis, 28, on Saturday.

The investigator said Lewis saw a strange car parked near his house as he was arriving home from work, decided to investigate and apparently interrupted his assailant in the act of beating another man.

The beating victim, Denis Gitschier, 30, a Fountain Valley schoolteacher, was listed in serious condition with head injuries at a local hospital.

Stiff Winds Buffet Motorists

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Northeast winds gusting up to 70 miles an hour swept through portions of San Diego and Imperial counties Sunday night, forcing the closure of a 50-mile stretch of Interstate 8 for 12 hours.

The California Highway Patrol said there were "numerous reports" of campers, mobile homes and at least one tractor-trailer rig being blown over by the high winds.

The highway, which runs from San Diego to Yuma, Ariz. along a route just above the U.S.-Mexican border, was closed from Alpine in central San Diego County to Ocotillo in western Imperial County.

John Clark, the dispatcher at the San Diego CHP office, said the winds were strongest between Alpine and Jacumba and had been clocked at 70 miles an hour.

Parents End State Sit In

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Parents of mentally retarded children have ended a 57-hour siege of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s office with an hour-long meeting with the governor and an assurance that he would review their requests for better care for their children at state hospitals and see how the requests would fit into the 1976 state budget.

Helen Hopkins, one of the protesting parents, said Sunday night they had staged the sit-in to press their demand "to implement the 1973 staffing standards which provide for more direct-care staff so that residents at state hospitals may be taught self-help skills and how to control negative behavior."

Another Victim?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Firemen Sunday found the remains of what may be the 13th victim of the arson-caused Gartland Apartments fire and Battalion Chief John Sherratt said he expects still more bodies will be found.

Investigators probing the gutted apartment building found a human leg in the charred rubble but were not certain if it was a 13th victim or belonged to one of the dozen bodies already found in the wake of the Friday fire.

Yacht Burns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The lone occupant of an $80,000 yacht that burned and sank off Manhattan Beach was rescued by the Coast Guard after he paddled away from the blazing craft on a small life raft.

The 55-foot cabin cruiser, Louis D, was en route from Marina del Rey to San Pedro for repairs when it began taking water, said the occupant, John Wright, 33. He said the engines died, the rising water shorted out wiring, and the craft burst into flames.

Sex Shops Raided

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A half-dozen Hollywood sex shops have been raided by sheriff's vice officers who arrested 13 women and five men and closed down all the establishments.

The women taken into custody in the raids Saturday night were booked for investigation of prostitution. The men, all of them managers of the establishments, were booked for investigation of failure to have licenses for a business running an escort service.

The Bill of Rights

On this day, Dec. 15, in 1791, the third most important document in the history of the United States came into being.

In long-range effect on the lives of Americans, the Bill of Rights surely ranks alongside the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence that preceded it.

The basic first 10 amendments, presented in 1789, just two years after adoption of the Constitution, and ratified by the states two years later, are brief and to the point. They spell out specifically what the government cannot do to its citizens.

The first words of the First Amendment are the key: "Congress shall make no law..."

The area covered in the relatively short list is remarkable: freedom of religion, speech and press; the right to gather peaceably; to bear arms; to be secure in the home and protected from unreasonable searches; to be granted a speedy and public trial; to be protected from cruel punishment.

These were all painfully real issues to the authors, so recently engaged in the fight for freedom from oppression. They wanted to be sure there would be no misunderstanding about the role of government in the future.

In the admirable simplicity of the Bill of Rights, they secured freedom for generations of Americans yet to come.

Wheels Are Turning

Americans who have been holding back on replacing their older cars apparently are beginning to yield to the temptations of Detroit—and at the same time, some are having second thoughts about making the replacement a foreign import.

In November, sales of U.S.-built cars were up 35 percent over November, 1974 sales. This followed a 23 percent increase in October. But among 15 leading foreign imports, only 6 report gains over last year.

However, in most of California, and especially in Orange County, imports continue to account for 30 percent and more of total car sales.

For the 66,000 American auto workers still on indefinite layoffs, it's too soon to start cheering. U.S. automakers are proceeding with caution, building only enough cars to replace inventories, and say they don't plan much rehiring before next summer or fall.

But the climate can change, and if the appetite—and pocketbook—for new cars keeps growing, these workers may be back on the job sooner than they anticipated. And this would be good news for the whole country.

Unnecessary Expense

Under federal law, the bilingual ballot now is a fact of life. Voting jurisdictions with substantial non-English speaking minorities must print ballots and ballot materials in the secondary language.

Orange County's large Spanish-speaking population places it within the new law. And the state attorney general has ruled that the county, with all its cities and school districts, is a single jurisdiction.

This is being challenged by the City of Irvine. Why, the city asks, should candidates for local office be obliged to pay two and a half times as much for the translation and printing of their statements of qualification in an area with virtually no Spanish-speaking population? The cost is estimated at more than $200 a candidate.

Since inclusion of the statements with sample ballots is voluntary, and paid for by the candidates, the argument that they should be given a choice on the translation matter makes sense.

The cost of running for office already is too high. Doubling any part of it could discourage qualified citizens.

It's Time To Move Christmas

ART HOPPE

The Christmas season on which our beleaguered economy so desperately depends is open. And Time magazine reports the nation's merchants are happily predicting a ten percent increase in retail sales.

In fact, this could be our biggest Christmas ever!

Of course, nowhere in its seven-page cover story on the Christmas season does Time mention Christ. And we're obviously in for the usual complaints from bleeding heart idealists about the "overcommercialism of Christ's birthday."

These do-gooders, overlook three facts: (1) such complaints have never done any good in the past, (2) unless we give each other billions of dollars worth of useless junk every December 25, the country will go to the bowwows, and (3) the odds are 365-1 that it isn't Christ's birthday anyway.

This last gives hope for a compromise that should modify all factions: instead of trying to take the commercialism out of Christmas, let's simply take Christmas out of the commercialism.

AFTER ALL, no one seems to know the exact date of Christ's birth. No one appears to have thought about it until 200 A.D. And since then it's been variously celebrated on January 6, December 25 and January 10, to name a few. So there's no reason we can't celebrate it any other day we want to.

Once we have removed Christmas from December 25, we can call that day "Xmas," giving no offense to purists and considerable delight to sign painters and headline writers. Best of all, Xmas would be completely ecumenical and you wouldn't have to worry about sending religious cards to friends of the Zoroastrian persuasion.

We would continue, of course, to have Xmas trees, Xmas presents, Xmas carols (but only about decking halls and partridges in pear trees), and Xmas office orgies. But we would feel no guilt that they had no spiritual significance.

And Xmas would naturally be preceded by National Buy Till It Hurts Month, just as it is today. So the economy would be saved.

THE ONLY problem is what to do with Christmas. Most people I talked to said they had no strong feeling about what day it should fall on as long as it was a Monday so they could have a three-day weekend.

But I liked best the young lady who said, "Let's make it a surprise birthday because surprise parties are best." That would be nice. Then you could look up at the stars whenever you wanted to and say, "Happy birthday, dear friend."

Heck, there may even be some Christians somewhere who might want to celebrate the occasion every day of the year.

Hoist With His Own Petard?

Reagan Fund Scheme Backfires

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although Ronald Reagan should be starting his challenge for the Republican presidential nomination unencumbered by the thorny issues plaguing President Ford, he needlessly carries one heavy burden which has become the secret worry of his political managers.

That burden is his proposal for turning back to the states federal programs spending some $90 billion annually. Conceived last summer to pump life into what then seemed Reagan's hopeless prospects, it now threatens to be an albatross around his neck. Mr. Ford's political operatives hope and some Reagan insiders fear it will do to Reagan what the $1,000-for-everybody scheme did to Sen. George McGovern in 1972.

HAVING ignored the plan for three months, national political reporters are now fully aroused and will press Reagan to defend and explain it when he begins full-scale campaigning in January. Some Reagan advisers feel he should cut his losses and abandon the scheme now, but the consensus within the campaign is that the humiliating cost would be too high. Instead, maximum efforts are scheduled this month to polish Reagan's defense of the plan and, if possible, refine the program to make it more plausible.

This poses an early test for Reagan in coping with a difficult problem. But to some disappointed conservatives, the existence of the needless burden means candidate and campaign have already failed in leadership and organization.

The $90 billion scheme, however, must be viewed in the climate of last summer, when Mr. Ford appeared unbeatable and Reagan seemed to be playing Hamlet. Managers of Reagan's unannounced campaign sought not only an exciting idea to energize conservatives but a new standard stump speech for Reagan, who seemed no less tired than everybody else of the script he had used all year.

THE RESULT: a program to return social welfare programs to state and local governments, embodying Reagan's philosophy but devised by his bright young idea man, Jeff Bell. It was unveiled as a speech to the Chicago Executives Club Sept. 26, written by journalist M. Stanton Evans, chairman of the American Conservative Union, with contributions from John McClaughry of Lyndonville, Vt., a nationally known Republican operative.

So many Reagan insiders today disclaim advance knowledge of the speech that one aide suspects "infectious amnesia." In fact, Bell cleared the speech with all political advisers. Nobody dissented. Far from dissenting, Ronald Reagan was enthusiastic. To prevent internal bickering today over responsibility, campaign manager John Sears has laid down this line: "We were all involved."

The Sept. 26 speech was ignored generally and hailed on the right. By late October, Reagan had mastered the speech and was enchanting conservative audiences. Nobody in his campaign considered it a problem.

But outsiders did. Dr. Martin Anderson of Stanford University's Hoover Institute, preparing to join Reagan fulltime in January, found the program so vague that it contained the seeds of serious political trouble.

NEITHER Reagan nor the program's drafters had answered these questions: How could so radical a change ever get through Congress? Would the transfer be sudden or gradual? Would poorer states get equalization money from Washington? How would federal tax relief be coordinated?

Such questions were not sharply presented to Reagan during his first two days as an announced candidate, Nov. 20 and 21. But when he appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers" Nov. 30, two network correspondents interviewing him were ready. Reagan was not. He seemed surprised, vague and unable to discuss the program with authority.

When ABC's Bob Clark asked whether Reagan's program might force the key primary state of New Hampshire to newly enact a sales or income tax to assume federal programs, Reagan replied lamely: "But isn't this a proper decision for the people of the state to make?" Astonishingly, he said nothing about reduced federal taxes more than compensating for higher state taxes.

SUCH LACK of preparation provided the first scent of Reagan's blood for the Washington press corps. When Democratic presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter breakfasted with political correspondents Dec. 2, he answered a question about Reagan's program with one word: "Ridiculous." The danger for Reagan is that Carter's answer will become the public perception and, like McGovern's $1,000-for-everybody fiasco, the program will be seen as an outlandish blunder reflecting on the candidate's good judgment.

Investors' Guide

THE BOOKMAN

What makes stock prices go up and down? How can an investor tell when a genuine market rally or downturn is coming? How can even a small investor play the stock-market game to win? Such questions are answered in Making It in the Market: Richard Ney's Low-Risk System for Stock Market Investors (McGraw-Hill, $8.95).

For the first time, the author of The Wall Street Jungle and The Wall Street Gang shows how the big institutional investors and specialist brokers play the financial game, why they win, and how anyone's moves can be timed to theirs. — to win along with them.

One of the nation's foremost investment advisors whose sensational achievements are a matter of public record, Ney reveals:

— How to anticipate ups and downs, how to develop a sense of timing, how to know when to hold, buy, or sell.

— What unconventional and highly successful techniques and tools are best suited to beat the market manipulators at their own game.

— How specialists and certain elements of the media conspire to dupe the non-enlightened investor about what is really causing stock prices to rise and fall.

VON HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON — The other day a friend got a letter from Clarence Kelley, the Director of the FBI. The letter said compliance with the friend's request for all material in the Bureau's files relating to him would be indefinitely delayed.

The Freedom of Information Act requires Kelley to cough up the requested information within 10 working days. It doesn't order on him the power to excuse himself from the obligations of the law, least of all for the reason Kelley gave, which is that the Bureau is swamped with similar requests from the Bureau's own victims.

Still, transferring the FBI personnel who are wasting their time and our money conducting Walt Disney tours of the Washington headquarters building to Freedom of Information work might indicate a good faith attempt to comply with the law by Director Kelley. So now the question is, what's the difference between a Kelley and a Hoover?

ON THE JOB almost a year and a half, Kelley has seen bales of evidence suggesting that an unknown but not insignificant number of his subordinates are dangerous criminals. Prima facie cases have been made out against FBI agents implicating what we hope is only a small percentage of them in murder, blackmail, bombing, you name it. Again and again Kelley's spokesmen before congressional committees have had to admit their deputized, ideological racketeers have violated the rights, peace of mind, homes and economic and social security of thousands of people.

To this Kelley's reaction has been like Hoover's: Admit what you can't deny, volunteer no information, do not cooperate with legitimate law enforcement efforts and protect everybody below you in the outfit. The Bureau's reputation and credit has fallen so low it is being convicted by establishmentarian big shots of conniving to suppress evidence in connection with the murder of an American president.

AND FROM the Great, Gray Gumshoe, what is heard? Recitations of J. Edgar Hoover's old speeches deploring crime and the decline of morals. You might think that an organization so impeached and impugned would issue some kind of white paper setting forth its version of what went wrong, what has been done to prevent a repetition and who has been punished. Naturally, nobody has been punished.

Even local police departments, which are supposed to be a lot dumber than the Feds, go through the motions of a shake-up when their boys get caught grafting. But Kelley's made it clear he isn't going to do anything he's not forced to do.

In the FBI and CIA both, the best thing that could happen would be a few showcase punishments. No indictments, no trials, no jails. With bureaucrats it is sufficient to take away their parking privileges and their health insurance. In the case of multiple murderers, dismissal and pension revocation might be considered. That will create not heroism in the ranks of the time servers, but inertial resistance to the next illegal order from above.

IT MIGHT help if a person with a different background from Kelley's were appointed to the directorship. Professional law enforcement officers shouldn't run police agencies for the same reason that generals shouldn't be secretaries of defense. Cops'll always protect their own, like lawyers, bankers and journalists.

Clarence Kelley would make a great newspaper editor. Surely he must have had enough experience being abused, hounded, misquoted and axed by our species so that as an editor he'd not be so likely to buy our self-serving contentions that our libels and character assassinations are necessary for the proper conduct of public affairs. By the same token a newspaper editor should be less inclined to buy the FBI motto that the best way to enforce a law is to break it.

Card Cost Up At Christmas

By The Associated Press

Bah! Humbug! It will cost you more to wish your family and friends a Merry Christmas this year.

Card prices generally have risen anywhere from 20 to 30 percent and sometimes more since 1974, although retailers and manufacturers say you can still find inexpensive greetings if you search for them.

A SPOKESMAN FOR HALLMARK Cards Inc., of Kansas City, said prices for a box of 25 cards range from $2 to $8 this year. In 1974, he said, the range was from $1.50 to $8.

The $8 boxed cards have just as much glitter and decoration as they ever did and are the same size. But individual cards — known in the $1-billion-a-year industry as counter cards — have gotten smaller.

The Hallmark spokesman said the size of the cards had been cut by about one-seventh to offset increases of 25 to 40 percent in the price of paper. Other manufacturers said higher labor costs forced them to cut frills and raise prices.

IRVING COHEN, PRESIDENT OF Fifth Avenue Card Shop, a 57-store, East Coast chain of retail outlets, said that manufacturers have dropped decorations, cut back on colors and reduced the size of cards to keep prices steady or at least limit increases.

Cohen said he expected sales to be good this year. For reasons he can't completely explain, people are buying the more expensive cards.

"The low-priced boxes just sit there," he said.

CONSUMER

Cohen said the company sold about 1.8 million Christmas cards last year and expects to sell about 1.5 million this year.

HE SAID THE AVERAGE PRICE of a Christmas card sold individually is now between 35 and 40 cents. Last year, he said, it was 25 to 30 cents.

Shoppers used to be able to find a box of 25 cards for $1, he recalled.

"No more. Now it's 25 for $4.75 or $5.75 or $7.50."

A spokesman for the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers said millions of low-priced cards are sold in the country. He said you can still find boxes of 20 cards for $1.

The spokesman said that the average price of a Christmas card has gone from about 16 cents a couple years ago to about 20 cents today.

HE SAID ABOUT SEVEN BILLION cards are sold each year, half of them at Christmas time. The Christmas business has been levelling off, however, as people trying to cope with inflation and rising postal rates cut their card lists.

The number of individual cards sold at other times of the year has been growing steadily and so have the prices.

Cohen said the 1976 Valentine card will cost about 40 ceuts, up from 35 cents last year. The birthday card that was 25 cents last year is 35 cents this year. The 50-cent card has gone to 60 cents.

Hallmark says its basic card lines are 15, 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents and $1. Most of the 15-cent cards are birthday greetings for young children. Studio cards —"The ones with the gags" —start at 40 cents.

THE GREETINGS THAT PEOPLE DO buy during this holiday season will probably have a more traditional look than in recent years.

The spokesman for the greeting cards association said one out of three Christmas cards has a religious theme. There also is a trend toward renewed popularity for holly, the fireplace and Santa Claus.

"For a while, some of the cards were pretty far out," the spokesman said. "The peace thing was big for two or three years. Now there's a swing back to more and more traditional cards."

Reminder: if you're late with your cards, you'll pay even more. Postal rates go up Dec. 28 and the cost of mailing a first-class letter will increase from 10 to 13 cents.

Drawing Dispute

Security Guards Found Untrained

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — One-third of the armed private security guards enrolled in the state's new firearms training classes flunked, the Department of Consumer Affairs reports.

Douglas Faigin, chief of the bureau of collections and investigation services, said the test results indicate many private security companies "have done little or nothing in the past to train their guards."

On Jan. 1, it will be illegal for a private security guard to be armed without passing the training course.

Guards flunking the course are not permitted to carry weapons, but are allowed to work in a non-armed capacity, he said.

No Holiday Divorces

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A judge saved two marriages with a moratorium on divorce suits during last year's Christmas holidays and hopes to do even better this year.

District Court Judge Raymond Naifeh announced he will accept no more divorce cases until the day after Christmas.

Naifeh says his ban on divorce cases has been criticized, but he thinks he is right to try to keep families together through the holidays.

"I might be technically wrong in taking this stand, but I'm convinced I'm morally right," he said.

Warning for Women

FDA Eyes Radiation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said it is writing guidelines to prevent young women, especially those who are pregnant or suspected of being pregnant, from being exposed to unnecessary radiation.

"These recommendations are intended to minimize unnecessary exposure of developing human embryos and fetuses to ionizing radiation that results from radiological examinations," the agency said in a call for public comments.

THE FDA SAID IT hopes to arrive at a "consensus of expert opinion" among scientific and technical authorities, and professional, public and private organizations.

One question that must be resolved, the FDA said, is the advisability of X-raying the abdomen of a woman of childbearing age during the early part of her menstrual cycle when there is no medical emergency.

THE FDA SAID IT also wants to know whether it is possible to take fewer X-rays of known or possibly pregnant women to reduce the radiation exposure of the unborn child and still obtain adequate information about a suspected injury to the mother, and whether abdominal shields could be used to protect the fetus.

Anybody wishing to comment on the issue can contact the FDA at 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md.

Victim Tortured; 5 Held

TROY, N.Y. (UPI) — A Rensselaer county grand jury has indicted three men and two women in the case of a 27-year-old man who, authorities said, was imprisoned and brutally tortured for two months in a house here.

The victim, James Whitbeck, has been in critical condition at Albany Medical Center Hospital since the night of Oct. 30, when he was allegedly dumped, badly beaten, from a car.

THE WOMEN, identified as Irene Richardson and Mary Jane Richardson, were booked on charges of kidnap and assault.

Charles H. McIntosh, 30, was indicted on two counts of first-degree kidnaping and two of second-degree assault, and Clyde Cook, 27, was charged with one count of second-degree assault.

ALSO INDICTED was Donald Cook, 17, on two counts of kidnaping and two of second-degree assault.

McIntosh was accused of forcing Whitbeck into the basement of a house, where he allegedly beat him with a bat, set his legs afire with lighter fluid, forced him to drink human urine, burned his testicles with a cigarette lighter, choked him and forced him to wear women's clothing.

THE ELDER Cook, "on or about the last two weeks of October, allegedly kicked Whitbeck with his feet, "one of which was encased in a plaster cast," thereby fracturing numerous ribs and causing other injuries.

Signup System Changes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State parks officials say they're changing the park reservation system so people who can't plan their vacations three months in advance have a chance to find a campsite.

Starting next month, at least 20 percent of the family campsites in each state park will be held until 30 days before the camping date, said state Parks and Recreation Director Herbert Rhoades.

The remaining campsites will still require reservations 90 days in advance.

Currently, all state park campsites take 90-day reservations.

Welcome Aboard

By ALMON LOCKABEY

The National Association of State Boating Law Administrators passed a host of resolutions at its annual conference in Chicago, not all of which will find favor among the boating public.

The most controversial proposal to which the NASBLA attached its approval was that all types of pleasure craft be subject to state registration — including documented vessels.

Efforts to do away with documentation of pleasure craft is not new, but has successfully been stopped in the past. The advocacy of the state law administrators of such a proposal appears to most boat owners to be just another effort on the part of the states to generate more revenue from registrations.

VESSELS DOCUMENTED BY the U.S. Coast Guard are not subject to state registration and are considered vessels of the U.S. Government. Not every boat is eligible for documentation.

Another NASBLA resolution that may raise the hackles of small boat owners was one urging the elimination of buoyant cushions as an approved Personal Flotation Device (PFD) on boats under 16 feet in length. The Coast Guard has long found that these cushions are adequate flotation devices in waters where such small boats operate. To eliminate them and substitute the bulkier type PFDs required on larger boats would take up room that could be used for other safety devices.

OTHER RESOLUTIONS more to the liking of pleasure boat owners:

Commended the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for the sensibility shown by its willingness to modify the 1972 marine sanitation device standards permitting the use of certified flow-through treatment devices in coastal and interstate waters where no environmental problems are substantiated, and expressed its appreciation to the Coast Guard for counseling EPA on the matter.

Opposed proposals to impose exorbitant lockage fees or similar waterway user charges on recreational watercraft for locking through federally maintained dams on the inland waterways system.

URGED CONGRESS TO exempt pleasure craft less than 65 feet from coverage under the new International Rules for Navigational Lights developed by the 1972 Safety of Life At Sea Conference and requested the Coast Guard "to appoint to the Rules of the Road Committee of the Merchant Marine Council additional members who represent recreational boating."

Recommended withdrawal of a USCG proposal to require all pleasure boats to carry "auxiliary power" (paddle or oars) and a "dewatering device" (bailer).

APPROVED A MODEL act for motorboat noise control.

Bees Scare to Death

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) —The so-called "killer" bees of Brazil may not be guilty of having a fatal sting as much as simply scaring people to death, says an entomologist.

Dr. Michael Burgett, an assistant professor at Oregon State University, told the annual meeting of the Washington Beekeepers' Association that some Brazilians may have died from allergic reactions to bee stings or were terrified by the bees' tendency to pursue their victim farther than most other bees.

"THE PROBLEM WITH THIS BEE is its aggressive nature," said Burgett, "but aggression is a recessive genetic trait in honeybees and should be modified as it breeds with other bee sub-species and becomes genetically diluted.

"When a bee stings you, it leaves an odor we call an alarm odor. It's meant to mark the enemy.

"This Brazilian hybrid produces more of that odor than other bees. . .That means you're likely to get stung again if other bees are nearby," he said.

THE BRAZILIAN BEE, DEVELOPED from an African bee and several European species already in Brazil, carries a parasitic mite not found in this country, Burgett said. This factor and public fear of bees could affect the beekeeping industry.

"With all the sensational publicity, there's a risk of developing an antihoney attitude among the public," Burgett said.

"People are scared. Shortly after the novel 'The Swarm' came out, residents of Sussex County in New York tried to ban bees from their half of Long Island."

BUT HYBRIDS WHICH HAVE moved farther south in South America have become gentler because of the cooler climate and because they've intermingled with commercially raised bees.

Those bees remaining in the tropical jungles retain their aggressiveness because of the heat and because other strains of honeybees are not found there.

The Brazilian bees have been reported moving toward the United States but are not expected to reach the Southern states until about 1990. They should arrive in a genetically diluted form.

*The above figures assume that you contribute $1,500 each year with no withdrawals and that your money earns 7.5% annual interest, the current maximum rate of interest allowed by law.

Give yourself a tax break. In addition to building a substantial nest egg, the Security Retirement Plan also allows you a considerable reduction in your current Federal income tax payments. The plan also allows you to defer paying taxes on the interest you earn.

How to make your savings snowball. Each year, you can put aside up to $1500 or 15% of your annual compensation for personal services—whichever is less—into your Security Retirement Plan. Save as much or as little as you wish.

Your savings accumulate and grow from the day of deposit. When they total $1000, you can have your money automatically invested in a Maxi-Growth Account, where it earns the highest interest rates permitted by law from the day we invest it.

What's so special about the Security Retirement Plan. It's flexible. Choose from two options; The Maxi-Growth or the Do-It-Yourself Plan.

To receive the full benefits of the Security Retirement Plan, put your qualifying savings—in a lump sum or in periodic deposits—in an Accumulation/Maxi-Growth account. The money you deposit earns interest from the day of deposit at our current regular savings rate. Each time your account reaches $1000, we automatically transfer those funds to your Maxi-Growth account.

If you prefer to do your own planning, choose the Do-It-Yourself option. Deposit your Security Retirement Plan funds in a lump sum each year. Or, make deposits throughout the year ($100 minimum). Specify that the money you deposit is for your retirement, and put it into the high interest earning Security Retirement Plan that pays selected rates of interest. If you like, we can tie the maturity dates of your savings to the day you retire, assuring you of maximum earnings and immediate availability of your savings on your retirement date.

How to start getting rich. Almost 50% of American workers qualify. You can start your Security Retirement Plan at any of the nearly 500 offices of Security Pacific Bank. We'll give you a free booklet that describes the plan in greater detail, and we'll be glad to answer any of your specific questions personally. The sooner you start, the richer we can make you.

How About a Stutz For Only $47,500?

DETROIT (UPI) — There's still time to put a little something special under the tree on Christmas morning. Something that comes fully assembled, needs no batteries and is fully guaranteed.

That is, if you can come up with the $47,000 asking price.. No discounts, but you can arrange for easy financing.

But hurry, there are just 16 available in the United States right now.

THIS CHRISTMAS bauble — one is green trimmed with red — is the Stutz Blackhawk, a handbuilt motorcar that never saw the inside of a Detroit assembly plant. The dials on the instrument panel are trimmed in 24-karat gold; the standard carpeting is Australian lamb's wool, shorn short or long depending on your taste. Upholstery is Connolley leather that never loses its distinct flavor, and there's a clock in the middle of the steering wheel.

"IT'S PROBABLY the ultimate thing in snob appeal," says Norm Glazier, chairman of the board of the Stutz Motor Car Co. of North America. "But people don't get mad at you when they see you driving it even though they know it's expensive."

Who owns a Stutz, whose only connection with the famous Stutz cars of the early motoring years is its name? Glazier says the typical buyer is 45, male and a self-made man.

Aside from the typical owner, there's Elvis Presley who bought the first one and now owns four. Sammy Davis Jr. owns one, and the Shah of Iran drives his own. Lucille Ball plans to give her husband a silver model trimmed with black for the holidays.

"MAYBE THE COSTS involved would only justify a $96,000 price tag, but doesn't $100,000 sound so much better?"

While General Motors, American Motors and Ford may be fighting in terms of a few dollars to offer the lowest-priced car, Glazier admits his car may be priced too low.

"Its main competition right now is the Rolls-Royce Corniche coupe at $60,000, so where does that leave us?" he asked.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS By Bil Keane

"Why did you say 'Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus'? My name's Dolly, not Virginia."

Gardens in County

Plots Available for $10 a Year

Orange County government is ready to paint some thumbs green — figuratively, that is — for the nominal charge of $10 per year.

Small plots of unused county-owned land are being made available to the general public as community garden sites.

A total of 17 acres of county land un unincorporated areas and several cities has been identified as usable for gardening under terms of a program approved by the county Board of Supervisors.

ORANGE COUNTY

THE LAND will be marked off into 18 by 20 foot parcels and will be leased to interested individuals for a $10 annual fee. The fee is designed to cover the cost of on-site water supplies, according to Supervisor Robert Battin, who originated the idea.

Information about the public garden program can be obtained by calling Dick Kelly or Dan Miller in the County Administrative Office at 834-3830.

FOR GARDEN plots in unincorporated areas, the county will assume responsibility for tilling and irrigating the gardens. Supervisors have allocated $10,000 for that purpose.

The program is cooperative with whatever city governments want to get involved and plots within city boundaries will be the responsibility of that government entity, noted Battin an avid gardener himself.

Laetrile Penalty

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Trying to bring Laetrile into the United States will cost a Mexican man two months in jail. Alvaro Gonzalez-Pacheco of Tijuana was accused of driving a car with $19,000 worth of the so-called cancer treatment in the form of 2,100 vials and 1,000 pills.

Chapman College Raises $120,000

Financially troubled Chapman College in Orange got a $120,000 shot in the arm as a result of a four-day telephone fund raising campaign by students faculty, administrators and alumni.

Martin Cadena, student body president of the small, private liberal arts college, said still another $30,000 may come in the form of pledges by various Chapman support groups.

A GOAL OF $100,000 had been set by the fund raising group to help offset serious money broblems at the school, which is experiencing declining enrollments and donations.

Major cutbacks, including a temporary suspension of Chapman's World Campus Afloat program, were undertaken last month to make ends meet.

According to Cadena, more than 400 students and others turned out to look up phone numbers, make calls and write followup letfers to prospective donors.

CADENA conceded that there were some negative reactions from alumni reached by phone during the drive to ask them for money.

"I heard several callers say the person reached hung up on them, some with negative comments, mostly pointing to the fact that a college diploma hadn't provided a job and how could we expect them to donate to the college," Cadena said.

Cadena said the donors who promised funds will have until May 31 to make their contributions.

High School Test: Measure of Skills?

By ALLISON DEERR
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Take a test. Earn a passing grade. Take home a certificate that's the legal equivalent of a high school diploma.

That's the option being offered 16- and 17-year-old students beginning Dec. 20.

The test, called the California High School Proficiency Test, was mandated under the Senate Bill 1112 in 1972.

A comprehensive, four-hour examination, it is gauged so that a passing score is the median score made by the "average" graduating senior.

The State Department of Education has estimated that some 640,000 to 670,000 teenagers are eligible to take the test at 125 sites throughout the state.

How many will actually apply is still a guess at this point, said Jeff Wells, testing and program evaluation, Orange County Department of Education.

Alan Seder, Educational Testing Services, Berkeley, said that although all registration has not been tabulated, probably only 2 percent of those eligible will take the first test.

Of that number, probably 25-50 percent may earn a passing grade, he estimated.

Wells noted that the test was geared to meet the needs of two distinct student populations.

"There are those who want to get out of high school as early as possible to find a job, or to work part-time and attend junior college part-time," he said.

"And, there are students planning to attend a four-year college or university who want to get an earlier start."

The exams will be graded on a pass-fail basis and the results mailed directly to the students. Those who pass will receive a certificate of proficiency and with parental permission may leave secondary school.

The certificates will be accepted by community colleges, Wells said, but the state colleges, universities and private colleges have not as yet come to any consensus.

PLACEMENT INDIVIDUAL

"Most have language requirements, for example, that these students may not be able to meet.

"It is probable that they will require Scholastic Aptitude Tests and advanced placement tests of these students," Wells said.

Special requirements may also be made of the 16-year-old who normally would have two more years of high school curriculum.

"These students, I assume, will be dealt with on an individual basis."

The proficiency test "is not an IQ test. It measures thinking ability and covers a wide range of academic areas."

What impact will the California High School Proficiency Test have on high schools and colleges?

"We really won't know until we have the results of the Dec. 20 testing," Wells said.

The most certain impact, according to Richard Stiles, consultant to the Office of Program Evaluation and Research, State Department of Education, will be on the junior colleges.

WHY TAKE TEST?

—"I'm wasting my time in high school." Students who believe that they are marking time, and want to try something else, believe the test is a good idea.

— "I don't want to go to college, but my parents won't let me quit. With this test, maybe I can prove to them that I know enough to quit and start work and maybe go back to JC later, when I know what I want."

Some students, explaining that they are in no hurry to join the unemployment lines, said that taking the test might be a good idea "to find out where you stand."

One, hoping for a medical or legal career, liked the idea of a head start. "I'll be that much younger when I start to practice."

Asked whether he'd risk not being accepted into med school or law school, he added that many high school students were already taking college courses, so the step to full-time wouldn't be that difficult.

MIXED BLESSING

One student saw the idea as beneficial to not only those taking the test, but the remaining students as well.

"If the kids ready for college and the dropouts who really don't like the way things are pass the test, then the teachers can concentrate on those who have to, or want to, stay in high school and really get something out of it."

No one interviewed predicted a mass exodus from high schools into the labor market or the junior college, but the question did arise: If many students leave, how will it affect teachers?

Will they be unemployed or will they move on to the junior college setting?

"They expressed interest, but their parents won't let them leave school if they do pass. The ones showing the most interest are those that frankly dislike school and want out."

He believes that one drawback is "the certificate of proficiency is not a diploma. A lot of the kids and their parents are worried about this.

"In a few years, perhaps, it will be accepted as such, but not now."

He also said that many students "really aren't that anxious to get out of school and work. There aren't that many jobs and the majority of kids like it here."

He sees the test as a way for the state to put a foot in the door, eventually leading to requirement that all high school students prove their proficiency before being awarded a diploma.

"What they're saying is that not every student who takes home a diploma is proficient in the skills he should have."

CARAT TOPS FRESH DESIGNS

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To Jacqueline Becker, custom-designed jewelry is like a fine painting. "Every day it is a pleasure to look at," she said.

A good item of jewelry is a wise investment, too, she believes, because "it will increase in value as the pleasure increases."

Ms. Becker ought to know. She has designed 11 different rings, brooches and earrings which were winners of Diamonds International awards, a worldwide competition for jewelry designers.

Her winners have included, for example, a brooch with mobility, which was made of black star sapphires and cinnamon colored diamonds, and a ring of yellow gold which had tiny diamonds paved to hide the gold.

The winning pieces, Ms. Becker said, usually are put on display all over the world, used for promotion and sometimes sold. One of hers, for example, was donated to the Thalians for an auction.

"I understand that Harry Karl bought it for Debbie Reynolds," she said.

CELEBRITY CLIENTS

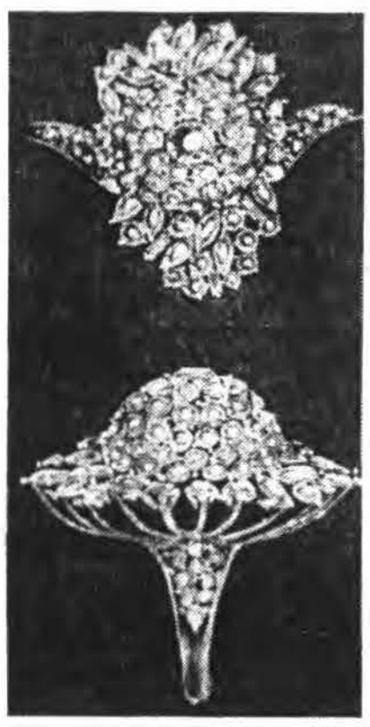

Ms. Becker's clients, before she moved to Corona del Mar, included Bob Hope, the Jack Benny family, Frank Sinatra, Danny Thomas, Edie Adams, Jill st. John, Rhonda Fleming and Jayne Meadows.

She has assisted Edith Head with jewelry for several films, did Barbra Streisand's gifts for the cast of her first movie, and has designed charms and cuff links for the members of Bob Hope's Christmas troupes.

Ms. Becker also has designed for "lower rung royalty" and worked with museum curators, so her achievements are far-reaching.

But it isn't the celebrity names which intrigue Ms. Becker. It's the challenge of working with an unusual stone owned by someone "who will have the courage to accept an unusual setting, and allow me to use my imagination to make that stone something beautiful and elegant," and the thrill of showing a person uneducated in gems "what can be done."

She herself didn't know the possibilities in jewelry until she picked up some wax one day and carved a setting, which came out "acceptable."

She had been working in advertising, with no training in gemology or design, but became intrigued with the process.

"I started working on my own, but I didn't know the mechanics of what could be used with what. Soon, I ended up doing nothing but designing."

INFORMAL TRAINING

Her experience came from working with jewelry and people, talking with jewelers and making contact with dealers.

"People like to say they are self-taught, but no one really is," Ms. Becker said.

After serving as head designer for Marvin Hime & Co. in Beverly Hills, she accepted a position in Costa Mesa because she had always wanted to live near the ocean.

"It is so different. The people are not as uptight here. It's a growing, fresh area," Ms. Becker noted.

She and a former co-worker have opened a store in Huntington Beach, Professional Jewelers, Inc. where they can do their own designing and sales, and where she is continuing her custom design business.

Her services, she maintains, are not just for the rich or those who know exactly what they want in a design. She advises those who doubt to "just go and look. You can get gold mountings for as little as $20."

Designing is "a creative process between two people," she explained. She first talks with customers to get some ideas, then shows them samples from the case just for inspiration. Then, she makes sketches based on the interchange.

"People usually do know what they want, though they may say they don't. They just can't articulate it."

Ms. Becker doesn't design for herself very often and owns few pieces, but admits to wearing some of her designs from the display case once in a while.

But owning your own custom piece is the ultimate, she said. "Fine jewelry brings charisma. It's like giving yourself a medal because you're happy with yourself."

Her Honor Courts Career Challenges

The first woman to serve on the Philippine Supreme Court believes President Ford should have appointed a woman to succeed Justice William O. Douglas on the U.S. Supreme Court.

'Well, I suppose the only statement I can make is one of regret,' said Mrs. Cecilia Munoz Palma of the nomination of Judge John Paul Stevens of Chicago.

'It would have been very appropriate to appoint a woman in International Women's Year. I can hope for better luck next time.'

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

MANILA (AP) — How does a woman get along on a supreme court where all other justices are men?

"At the beginning, I think the other justices felt they did not want a woman: They were afraid they would not be able to feel free with their jokes," said Cecilia Munoz Palma, 63, the first woman associate justice of the Philippine Supreme Court.

"I made them feel free. Sometimes the jokes really made me blush. But from the beginning of my career, as a prosecutor, I always have been with men.

"I enjoyed the jokes. I did not appear shocked.

"But the dispensation of justice should be sexless. Somehow, I feel that a woman on the court does have a particular advantage. She looks at a case with more human understanding.

"Not that the men don't have human understanding. Well, the men say, 'What do you think of us? Don't we have human understanding?' It is very difficult to say what I mean.

"As a rule, women are conscientious, hard-working with a natural sense of justice. In the family, when there is a squabble among the children, the father tends to play favorites, the mother settles the dispute," says Mrs. Palma, who has 14 grandchildren.

She made her attitude clearer in a decision which has never been made public.

She wrote it in August 1974, nearly a year after her appointment, in favor of a petition of a former senator, Jose W. Diokno, who was detained for two years without charge after President Ferdinand E. Marcos imposed martial law here in September 1972.

Marcos freed Diokno in September 1974 before the court's ruling was announced and the case was dropped as moot. Summing up her decision, Justice Palma wrote:

"I am bothered by the thought that some of my colleagues may attribute my approach to Diokno's petition to my being a woman, and I may even be accused of allowing my emotions to overpower my reason. If there is such an assumption, I would say that it is incorrect.

"However, if it is indeed true that my being a woman led me to take this stand on Diokno's petition, then I am happy and proud that I was born a woman."

In the brief time she has been a justice, Mrs. Palma has gained a reputation for being a tough advocate of individual liberty despite martial law.

Mrs. Palma recognized that Marcos selected her over male judges with greater seniority to make her an associate two years ago.

"When I was appointed, I felt a burden of responsibility being the first woman appointed to this tribunal," she said. "I felt the eyes of my countrymen, of the world, were upon me to see if I could meet the challenge.

"I was appointed from the middle of the ranks to demonstrate that it was high time a woman was appointed to this court."

Mrs. Palma, who earned a degree in criminal law at Yale University, is married to attorney Rodolfo Palma who is dean of the College of Law of the University of the East in Manila. They have three children.

"My husband has been understanding enough to let me pursue my career. When I was assigned as a judge far from Manila, he urged me to accept, although it meant a separation for a year.

"Marriage has to be preserved at all costs. If I have to give up my profession to save my marriage, I would do it. A wife must see that she doesn't step over the shoes of her husband.

"But that is the climax. That is the secret of my success. An understanding husband."

Ann Landers

Marriage Needs New Night Games

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is my husband. He's a great father, a good provider, a lovely guy, but a rotten loser.

Whenever we play backgammon and I win, Pat throws the board across the room and starts a fight.

He accuses me of trying to humiliate him — says I must have cheated because he is the superior player and should beat me every time.

I hate to give up playing backgammon with Pat just because he's a sorehead. It's great fun after the children are asleep to sit down to this fascinating game. But Pat's behavior is so despicable when he loses I don't know what to do. Any suggestions, Ann? — PERPLEXED IN GLENDALE HEIGHTS

DEAR PLEX: Yeah, do something else — anything — but don't play backgammon with the sorehead. Obviously he can't stand losing to you. If you're smart you'll give up those night games to protect something more important. Your marriage.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are not a doctor and you don't pretend to know all the answers. Yet you were the one who identified my husband's medical problem after we had gone from doctor to doctor for 15 years.

Recently, I wrote to you about Jim falling asleep during movies, card games, in church, even at the dinner table. It used to worry me sick that he might fall asleep while driving the car. All the doctors who checked him said he was OK and not to worry.

When he fell asleep at a Notre Dame football game (he is a proud alumnus of that great school) I knew something must be terribly wrong. It was you who suggested the possibility that Jim might have narcolepsy.

The following day he went to a doctor recommended by a new neighbor. Sure enough, that was the diagnosis. Since Jim has been on medication he is 100 percent better. I'm fascinated by the fact that you called the shot. I feel as if we should send you a check. — GRATEFUL

DEAR G.: Please don't. It was the new doctor who made the diagnosis, furthermore, I don't want to be nailed for practicing medicine without a license. Glad I could help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it wrong to bring a cake when invited to a friend's home for dinner?

I came from a small town. My mother and aunts did this often. It seemed like a warm gesture. So far as I know, nobody ever resented it.

We moved to Pittsburgh a few months ago. People here have been very kind to us. Three times I have baked cakes and brought them to dinner parties. Each time I had the feeling the hostess was not pleased.

What about this, Ann? — LOVE TO BAKE

DEAR BAKE: Better bring a box of candy or some nonperishable delicacy in a jar or can.

When a guest brings a cake the hostess may feel obligated to serve it. This louses up her menu. She must either ditch her dessert or serve it in addition to the guest's cake, which is just too much.

If you "Love to Bake" ask the hostess in advance if you can bring the dessert. There's a good chance she'll be pleased. But don't surprise her.

Jaworski's Wait Ends In Triumph

By GLENN WHITE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

LOS ANGELES—It had been a long wait. But Sunday at the Coliseum, Costa Mesa resident Ron Jaworski got his chance.

The former Youngstown State star was called into action early in the first quarter when James Harris' shoulder stiffened.

And Jaworski responded admirably, quarterbacking the Rams to a come-from-behind 22-5 triumph over the Green Bay Packers before a turnout of 59,312 football fans.

He completed 14 of 24 passes for 174 yards and would have gone over the 200-yard mark if a wide open Ron Jessie hadn't dropped what appeared to be an easy reception in the first half. He threw for a TD and had one intercepted.

Jaworski also made good use of another Ram who has had little action this year—former UCLA ace Rob Scribner. Scribner carried a dozen times for 83 yards and one touchdown after Jim Bertelsen was apparently knocked out for the season with a knee injury in the first half.

It took Jaworski a couple of series to get untracked as he initially was thrown for a safety, which got Green Bay in the scoring column first. In fact, it was 5-0 before the Rams got with it.

"I thought I could play in the pros the first day I came to the Rams," Jaworski said. "It's been hard to keep from getting down on myself.

"But I was told by everybody to be patient and I would get a chance. And I don't think I ever passed better than I did in this game."

Jaworski had thrown only 11 passes this year prior to Sunday's game and the last time he saw any extended duty was a year ago against Washington.

"It took awhile for me to get my confidence and for the adrenalin to start flowing," he said of Sunday's performance.

Harris' status for Saturday evening's game with Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh is still uncertain and he was due to undergo further treatment today of the shoulder, which had been injured a week ago.

RON JAWORSKI

Green Bay scored the safety when Dave Pureifory tossed Jaworski in the end zone. The 255-pound defensive tackle also sacked the Rams quarterback four additional times for a total of 37 yards lost.

"I changed plays sent in from the bench a couple of times and probably should have done it a couple more," commented Jaworski. "When Pureifory threw me for that 12-yard loss, I thought I was heading for the wrong goal."

Then a fumble recovery at the Green Bay 14 set up the drive that put them ahead for good. Scribner carried the final three yards and Dempsey missed the PAT which left it 9-5 with 2:52 to go before halftime.

In putting their record at 11-2, equalling the best in the NFL, the Rams have virtually assured—themselves of being the home club in the first Super Bowl playoff game when they face St. Louis, the Eastern Division NFC champion.

Lakers Cut Down Pistons

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar set a personal high by grabbing 34 rebounds, the best one-game effort in the National Basketball Association this season, leading the Los Angeles Lakers past the undermanned Detroit Pistons 110-100 Sunday night.

Pistons center Bob Lanier sprained his left ankle and did not suit up.

After Detroit cut a gap of 16 points to five points at 63-58 with nine minutes to go in the third quarter, Abdul-Jabbar bailed the Lakers out. He scored on consecutive field goal attempts, grabbed nine rebounds and blocked four shots in the quarter to give the Lakers an 85-75 lead.

Abdul-Jabbar's 27 points led all scorers. He was followed by Lakers guards Gail Goodrich and Lucius Allen with 25 and 22 points.

The Lakers won their 14th straight home game in the seson and are approaching the team record of 17 straight set in 1972-73. Los Angeles moved to within one-half game of the Pacific Division-leading Golden Warriors.

It was the fifth straight loss for the Pistons, who are also without injured guards Kevin Porter and John Mengelt, and dropped their record to the .500 mark at 11-11.

A Big One for Linhart

Austrian's Field Goal Sinks Miami, 10-7

BALTIMORE (AP) — Toni Linhart, a 33-year-old Austrian kicker never completely accepted by Baltimore fans, may have finally silenced his critics Sunday with a 31-yard field goal that put the Colts in position to win a National Football League division title.

Linhart's boot, with 2:16 remaining in overtime, propelled the Colts to a 10-7 victory over the Miami Dolphins. The loss left the Dolphins in danger of losing the American Conference's Eastern Division for the first time in five years.

Linhart, who once played soccer before a crowd of 125,000 in Scotland, booted the winning kick as a crowd of 59,398 screaming fans yelled encouragement from stands engulfed in a dense fog.

"You gotta be calm," Linhart said. "If you're not nervous, you're not human. But it's better not to think too much about it. It's better to go at it the same way every time."

Linhart, who missed a 29-yard field goal attempt in the second quarter, said holder Marty Domres patted him on the back just before the center snap and said simply: "Let's go."

Baltimore fans booed Linhart quite a bit last season, but their outbursts have virtually disappeared since the revitalized Colts made their move this year.

Baltimore and Miami now have 9-4 records, and the Dolphins could still win the division title when the regular season comes to a close next week. If Miami beats Denver and Baltimore loses to New England, Miami would once again rule the AFC East. But if their records are identical, the Colts would win on the strength of two victories over Miami this season.

"The Colts deserved to win," said a downcast Miami coach Don Shula. "They had what it took in the overtime and came up with big plays during the final drive. We had the opportunities to win throughout the game, but we couldn't come up with the big plays."

Baltimore's Ted Marchibroda, a rookie head coach in the NFL, called the victory, "without a doubt the greatest I've ever had — all the way back to high school."

Commenting on the winning drive, launched from the Baltimore four yard line, Marchibroda said: "I knew we had a long way to go, but that's the kind of team we have. They've been doing what they've had to do all season long.

The Colts, completely rebuilt since winning the 1971 Super Bowl, tied the score 7-7 on a six-yard touchdown run by Lydell Mitchell with 5:30 remaining in regulation time, then launched their winning drive from their own four following an out-of-bounds punt by Larry Seiple.

The Colts converted three third-down plays on the winning drive and quarterback Bert Jones, playing with injured ribs, completed four consecutive passes for 45 yards.

Don McCauley almost broke loose on a touchdown run but was hauled down by Miami's Curtis Johnson on the Dolphins' 21 after a 14-yard gain.

Detroit Gets Tough

Lions Stagger Vikings, 17-10

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit scored two first quarter touchdowns, the second on a 46-yard run by Bobby Thompson, and the Lions stunned the Minnesota Vikings 17-10 Sunday in a nationally-televised National Football League game.

Although the Vikings quarterback, Fran Tarkenton, needed just one touchdown pass to tie Johnny Unitas' career record of 290, Detroit's defense sacked him four times and he wasn't able to tie the record.

But Chuck Foreman set an all-time single-season rushing record for Minnesota, which lost for only the second time against 11 victories.

It was only the second time the Lions have beaten the Vikings in their last 16 meetings.

Detroit, 7-6, took control early, thwarting a Vikings touchdown bid when Levi Johnson intercepted a pass at the goal line and returned it 45 yards. The Lions then drove 55 yards in 10 plays climaxed by Joe Reed's eight-yard scoring pass to Marlin Briscoe.

Thompson's touchdown came three plays after the Lions' Ed O'Neil recovered Detroit's onside kick after the first score.

Fred Cox booted a 39-yard field goal for Minnesota in the second quarter soon after safety Paul Krause's second interception of the game and Errol Mann booted a 30-yarder for Detroit with 12 seconds left in the half.

Lem Barney's 74-yard fumble return when Minnesota was driving for a third-quarter touchdown was followed moments later by an 86-yard fumble return by Krause for the Vikings' touchdown. Linebacker Wally Hilgenberg had recovered the Reed fumble and returned it 13 yards before lateraling to Krause, who sprinted the final 70 yards.

The Lions, upset 25-21 a week ago by the lowly Chicago Bears, were playing despite a number of injuries.

Krause's first interception came in the early moments and it looked like the Vikes would once again dominate their division

Tigers Brass Miffs Lolich

DETROIT (AP) — "In so many words, Jim Campbell and Ralph Houk told me they didn't need me anymore. That hurt me more than anything.

Those are the words of former Detroit Tigers star left-hander Mickey Lolich, now trying to get ready for a new pitching career with the New York Mets.

Lolich agreed Friday to be traded to the Mets for slugger Rusty Staub after an up-and-down 13-year American League career with the Tigers in which he became baseball's premier left-handed strikeout artist.

"What really bothered me about the whole thing was the fact that I felt pushed up against the wall," Lolich said, adding he had less than 12 hours in which to make a decision.

Lolich said he also was miffed because Campbell and Houk never told him about the talks that led up to the trade. And he said he had had previous assurances from Houk he would remain with Detroit in 1976.

Blalock Wins It

Sinks Playoff Birdie

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Jane Blalock walloped her drives off the tee, but it was a 20-foot putt that wrapped up her win in the $50,000 Triple Crown women's golf tournament.

"Believe it or not, today my drives were my best feature," Blalock said Sunday after sinking a birdie on the first hole of a three-way sudden-death playoff to capture the $15,000 first prize. "And I'm not known as a long-ball hitter."

They went to the 16th hole of the Mission Hills Country Club course for the sudden death. Rankin and Carner had taken their third shots on the par-four hole when Blalock sank her 20-footer for a birdie that ended the contest.

"I got a little bit lucky on the last few holes," Blalock said. "I had to be a real scrambler today."

Rankin and Carner each took home $8,750. JoAnne Washam scored a 143 for fourth place and $5,000, and Sandra Palmer, the top money winner on the LPGA tour, finished fifth at 148 for $3,500.

Washam missed an 18-foot putt on the 18th hole, bogeyed the hole and fell out of a four-way tie.

Chargers Test NY, Namath

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Chargers will try Monday night to do for the first time this year what their opponents, the New York Jets, have done only once — win two games consecutively.

Both clubs just ended long losing streaks. The Chargers broke an 11-game losing string with a 28-20 victory last week over the Kansas City Chiefs while the Jets snapped an eight-game slide with a 30-28 win over the New England Patriots.

Aside from gaining them a measure of self respect, the Charger triumph also saved San Diego from an embarrassing place in the record books — the first National Football League team ever to lose every game in its 14-game season.

The nationally televised contest will be the Chargers' last chance this season to win a game in front of the home crowd at San Diego Stadium. Their win against the Chiefs last week was in Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium.

This game has been billed thus far as a passing duel between New York's Joe Namath and young Dan Fouts, who climaxed a 46-yard drive against the Chiefs with a nine-yard touchdown run.

It's also expected to be a high-scoring affair with neither team very effective on defense.

NFL Roundup

Raiders Lose; O.J. to Retire?

The Oakland Raiders, looking ahead to the National Football League playoffs, were beaten Sunday by the Houston Oilers, 27-26, in action at the Oakland Coliseum.

Dan Pastorini threw a two-yard touchdown pass to Mack Alston on the final play of the game and Skip Butler kicked the extra point which gave the Oilers the win.

George Blanda, closing in on 2,000 points in his long career, missed two conversion points and a field goal during the game. The defeat broke a seven-game winning streak for the Raiders.

Blanda seemed to hurry his kick on a 29-yard field goal attempt in the fourth quarter that could have won it for Oakland and at the same time put him over the 2,000-point mark.

Elsewhere in the National Football League Sunday, things went like this:

BUFFALO AT NEW ENGLAND — O. J. Simpson, hinting that this may be his final season in the NFL, rushed for 195 yards and a touchdown as the Buffalo Bills swept to a 34-14 win over the New England Patriots.

After the game, Simpson said he would retire if an attractive motion picture role were offered.

Although he has two years left on his contract with the Bills and his dream of playing in the Super Bowl is unfulfilled, Simpson indicated he would quit football if offered a role in an upcoming movie.

"I can retire any time I want," he said. "I've always felt I wanted to play in the Super Bowl and I still do. But if the right thing comes along—well, I think I've proved to everybody I can play football."

ST. LOUIS AT CHICAGO — Jim Otis crashed the 1,000-yard barrier and the St. Louis Cardinals won their second consecutive Eastern Division title with a 34-20 triumph over the Chicago Bears.

Otis bulled his way 33 times for 147 yards, including two touchdowns, and a 30-yard scamper, the longest of his six-year career. He now has 1,007 yards for the year, up from his total of last campaign of 664.

SAN FRANCISCO AT ATLANTA — Rookie Steve Bartkowski fired two touchdown passes to Alfred Jenkins to lead the Atlanta Falcons over the San Francisco 49ers, 31-9.

Bartkowski, who completed seven passes to Jenkins for 147 yards, hit the speedy wide receiver on touchdown plays covering 20 and 63 yards.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak for Atlanta and extended San Francisco's losing string to three games.

NEW ORLEANS AT NEW YORK GIANTS — Third-period touchdowns by Rondy Colbert on a 65-yard punt return and Doug Kotar on a 46-yard run, carried the New York Giants to a 28-14 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

KANSAS CITY AT CLEVELAND — Elusive Greg Pruitt turned in his best game in three years as a pro by rushing for 214 yards and scoring three touchdowns to lead the Cleveland Browns to a 40-14 win over Kansas City.

Pruitt, a 5-10 running back out of Oklahoma, went over the 1,000-yard mark for the season. He became the third player in Cleveland history to reach that plateau and the first since Leroy Kelly did it in 1968. Pruitt now has 1,030 yards.

PHILADELPHIA AT DENVER — Denver running back Floyd Little, playing at home for the final time in his nine-year pro career, raced 66 yards with a third quarter screen pass and scored another touchdown to lead the Broncos to a 25-10 win over Philadelphia..

Little, who retires next week to conclude his brilliant career, broke a 10-10 tie late in the third quarter with his first touchdown romp. The other score came with 1:57 left in the game.

Gauchos Play GWC

Golden West and Saddleback colleges, two area JC basketball teams that figure to be solid contenders in their conferences, clash tonight (8 o'clock) at Mission Viejo High.

Golden West's Rustlers, led by 6-9 freshman Paul Schilleci, come into the game with an 8-1 record and a seven-game winning streak. Saddleback is 5-3, dropping its last two in the Santa Barbara tourney.

Schilleci is averaging 70.6 points per game and 19 rebounds per game, but he has a good supporting cast.

Jack Fletcher (13.3), Dale Parker (12.8), Scott Clark (11.8) and Jay Johnson (10.8) are all averaging in double figures. Parker is nursing a back injury and may not play. Linn Wilson (9.3 points per game) will start if Parker does not.

Sparking the Saddleback attack is 6-5 center Dennis Smith and forward Mike Bokosky. Smith, from Servite High, is hitting at a 19.6 clip per game while Bokosky has a 17.9 average.

LIONS . . .

rivals. But Johnson's pickoff reversed the momentum quickly and before Minnesota had a chance to recover after the Briscoe TD, the on-side kick by Mann with Detroit recovering kept the Lions moving.

Detroit's defense, led by tackle Herb Orvis and linebacker Paul Naumoff, gave Tarkenton and Foreman fits.

Hinshaw's Son Testifies Against Him

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's son testified as a prosecution witness today that he was the recipient of stereo equipment allegedly supplied free of charge while Hinshaw was serving as Orange County assessor in 1970.

University of Southern California student Andrew Howard Hinshaw Jr., 18, told a Superior Court jury that the stereo set and components distributed by the Tandy Corporation was a gift from his father.

Hinshaw's stepdaughter, Chapman College student Karen Worthen, 18, also testified that she was with her mother, Mrs. Thais Hinshaw, in a Park Newport apartment when a stereo set addressed to Hinshaw arrived shortly before Christmas 1972.

Miss Worthen told prosecutor Michael Capizzi that she and her mother, who has since sued Hinshaw for divorce, unpacked speakers, a turntable and a receiver shortly after the container was delivered.

She testified that the stereo set was later shipped to Hinshaw's Washington D.C. apartment in January 1973.

The equipment was later seized there by the district attorney's office during an investigation that led to the indictment of Hinshaw.

The Newport Beach Republican is being tried on three counts of bribery, all contained in a Grand Jury indictment.

It is alleged that he accepted gifts of stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Tandy Corporation through its Radio Shack warehouse in Garden Grove.

It is further alleged that Hinshaw solicited a bribe from a lawyer representing Beckman Instruments in return for his promised intervention in an assessment appeals hearing.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that a number of stereo sets were donated by Tandy officials in return for favorable assessment action that may have saved the firm as much as

Schmit's Testimony Due in Cella Probe

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

County Supervisor Laurence Schmit has been called to appear before the Orange County Grand Jury Tuesday as the jury continues its probe into the complex financial and political affairs of Dr. Louis Cella.

Also subpoenaed to testify before the jury at a closed session is Schmit's top executive aide, Loran Norton.

Schmit was a major benefactor of Cella's political generosity, roughly $134,000 in contributions and loans, when he succeeded in unseating incumbent Second District Supervisor David Baker.

Last week, it was learned that Schmit was employed by a Cella-controlled hospital as a public relations consultant during the final six months of his successful campaign.

Financial disclosure statements filed later by the freshman supervisor failed to show the income received from the hospital during the last six months of 1974.

Schmit said he does not believe as an incoming official that he was required to show the hospital income.

"At worst it was a mistake — an honest mistake on my part," the supervisor said.

Norton, a long time Cella political worker, said last week he received money from the hospital during 1974 for professional services rendered through two small companies he owns.

Friday, affidavits supporting search warrants issued in connection with the county investigation of Cella showed that investigators were seeking cancelled checks from other Cella-controlled companies made payable to Schmit, Norton and State Controller Kenneth Cory.

While the Grand Jury in Orange County is investigating possible violations in some of Cella's business dealings, a federal grand jury in Los Angeles is conducting probe of its own.

Weird Scene

Firemen Get Crazy Calls

Just when firemen think that they've been called to just about every situation, something new arises.

And Newport Beach firemen early in the weekend had two cases to chuckle about.

HER NEW DENTURES, she said with great difficulty, had apparently caught her tongue. It was stuck.

So firemen dropped by to put everything back in place.

Only a few hours later, firemen received their second crazy call of the day.

WHO COULD HELP? The family figured the fire department.

Department information officer Art Morton said that the noisy dilemma was solved in a matter of moments.

"Just when you think that everything possible has been reported," he observed, "something new and crazy comes in."

Suspects Seized in SC Heist

Three gunmen who threatened to kill a waitress if their demands for money were not met robbed a San Clemente restaurant and seven early morning diners of nearly $3,600 early today. Three suspects later were arrested in Tustin.

The waitress, identified by police as Fran Kearins, was held with a handgun stuck in her back by one man as his two armed accomplices forced the manager of Carrow's Hickory Chip Restaurant, 620 Avenida Pico, to open the safe and turn over its cash contents.

Then the duo demanded that customers turn over their money, police said.

After the money was collected, the waitress was released unharmed. The manager, Albert Kowella, and the restaurant patrons were not injured.

Acting on information supplied by San Clemente Police, California Highway Patrol Officer Don Gritton intercepted a suspect vehicle near the Culver Freeway exit to the Santa Ana Freeway in Irvine.

Using their patrol cars as a shield, Gritton and Thompson, with shotguns poised, ordered the three occupants to exit the car with their hands in the air.

Huntington Case

Man Shoots Wife Over Hot Drink?

A reportedly long-simmering situation between a Huntington Beach couple exploded Sunday when police allege the husband shot his wife in the back six times, enraged because there was no hot chocolate mix in the pantry.

Investigators said a sorrowful Bobby Benard, 50, of 19372 Cindy Lane, surrendered without incident following the shooting that occurred in the front yard of their home.

Spokesmen at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital said today that Mrs. Uva Benard, 54, is listed in critical condition and is under close watch and constant care.

Police said the front yard shooting appeared to be a case of domestic friction that built up over a long period of time until a minor incident set it off.

"He was very remorseful," Detective Richard Nolen said of Benard who was interrogated following the Sunday afternoon shooting.

The suspect was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and Nolen said a complaint would be sought from the Orange County District Attorney's Office Tuesday.

Investigators confiscated a .22 caliber revolver believed used in the shooting when they took Benard into custody.

Victim of Sailing Tragedy Discovered

A decomposed female body washed ashore at Crystal Cove Sunday morning and has been tentatively identified as Sherre Miller, 21, of Costa Mesa, who has been missing at sea since Dec. 7, when her sailboat was found partially submerged off Abalone Point.

Her husband, Steve Miller, 27, also aboard the sailboat, is still missing.

"The body is beyond visual recognition. We have tentatively identified her as a Jane Doe. However, it appears likely it is Mrs. Miller," a coroner's deputy said today.

The deputy added that the body can be positively identified either through fingerprints or dental charts.

The body was discovered about 8 a.m. at the cove, between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach. The Millers' water-filled boat had been discovered farther south, off Abalone Point.

When the boat was found, the body of the Millers' 3-year-old son, Shawn, was found in the cabin.

An autopsy revealed that Shawn died of drowning.

The Millers moved to Costa Mesa only three weeks prior to the fateful sailing trip. Miller had purchased the new boat only two weeks before taking the overnight cruise out of Newport Harbor.

Train Rams Truck In Viejo; None Hurt

An Amtrak train carrying 100 passengers and traveling about 90 miles per hour struck a pickup truck in Mission Viejo that had been abandoned on the tracks Saturday morning by three youths.

There were no injuries in the 11:35 a.m. crash, according to a California Highway Patrol spokesman. Debris from the truck was scattered over a wide area and there was moderate damage to the lead engine on the train, the spokesman said.

He said three youths had been riding in the truck on a dirt road that parallels the track just prior to the spectacular crash.

"Apparently they thought the pickup truck could go just about anywhere — including across the railroad track. But it got stuck," the spokesman said.

The crash occurred about two miles north of Avery Parkway near the north end of Camino Capistrano.

The patrol spokesman said the youths attempted to push the truck off the tracks, but didn't succeed.

"Then next thing, they saw that train coming like 90. They decided to get out of the way," the spokesman said.

He said emergency braking procedures applied by the train's engineer did little good because of the short distance between the truck's location and the point where it was spotted.

The patrol spokesman identified the driver of the pickup as Kenneth McMillen, 18, of 24581 Alcoba, Mission Viejo. Investigation of the accident is continuing.

Boston Pupils Stage Walkout

BOSTON (UPI) — About 150 white students walked out of South Boston High School today shortly after classes began at the troubled facility.

A leaflet from the White Student Caucus said the action was to test a new protest method by which white students could walk out on a given signal. A spokesman at the South Boston information center said such walkouts would be staged when black students began provocations.

Slow Progress For Mercer

Former Newport Beach resident Johnny Mercer was reported today to be making slow, but steady, recovery from the effects of brain surgery performed earlier this year in Pasadena.

Spokesmen for Huntington Memorial Hospital said that the 66-year-old composer of many popular songs was able to sit up and was responding to therapy.

Appeals Court OKs Award to Engineer

An Orange County Superior Court jury's decision that state highway engineer Barry Lippert should get more than $1.1 million because of harassment by Avco Community Developers has been upheld by an appellate court.

The ruling by the Fourth District Court of Appeals in San Bernardino overturns Superior Court Judge Robert L. Corfman's rejection of the jury verdict.

Justice Marcus Kauffman's opinion returns the $1,109,200 to Lippert, 31, of Garden Grove. It removes from the record Judge Corfman's comment that the award was excessive and the law suit should be retried.

Judge Corfman at one point told Newport Beach attorney Donald Belveal that he was "trying to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" in pressing the lawsuit he filed for Lippert.

The highway engineer sued Avco when he allegedly was harassed by the developers after he moved his two-story home from Mission Viejo to Laguna Niguel.

Lippert argued that Avco slandered him and his title to the property and that the harassment was triggered by the company's realization that it did not possess any restrictive powers on construction plans in the La Veta tract.

The harassment, Belveal told the jury, triggered the major heart attack suffered by his client who was never able to move into the home at 29691 Ana Marie Lane.

Belveal described Avco's actions against Lippert as the "conduct of a systemized campaign of terrorism, economic depression and vexation."

Waikiki Chart House Burned

HONOLULU (UPI) — Fire gutted the fashionable Chart House restaurant in the Ilikai Hotel on Waikiki, causing $1 million damage.

Ten fire companies battled the flames for a little more than an hour Sunday before bringing the fire under control. Two policemen and a security guard were treated for smoke inhalation.

Ambulance Said Late For Child

A 2-year-old Irvine child who had choked on a piece of food while eating at a Lagnuna Beach restaurant, was taken to South Coast Community Hospital in a police car Sunday.

Police reported the private ambulance took 19 minutes to respond to the incident, and when it arrived, a water hose burst and so it could not be used to transport the victim.

Matthew Miller of 2212 Verano Place, was released after emergency care at South Coast Community Hospital. He was transported there by Officer Bruce Briggs aided by Laguna Beach fireman Ken Hite.

Firemen reported that on their arrival at the restaurant, the Beachhouse Inn, 619 Sleepy Hollow Lane, the child was lying on a table and two physicians were assisting him.

The doctors had dislodged a small quantity of food from the child's throat but the boy was semi-conscious.

Heater Sets Laguna Fire

A malfunctioning wall heater set fire to a Laguna Beach apartment early Friday morning and did an estimated $7,750 damage to the structure and contents before being extinguished by the Laguna Beach Fire Department.

The fire occurred at 3:13 a.m. at 159 Nyes Place, Apt. 1. There were no injuries. Firemen identified the tenant of the building as Wiley Johnson.

The fire was first reported as a sofa fire but by the time fire units arrived, a wall of the apartment unit was in flames. Damage was estimated to be $7,000 to the structure and $750 to contents.

Bush Pledges CIA Standards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Bush promised Congress today that if he is confirmed as CIA director he will establish high ethical standards for the agency and restrict it to gathering foreign intelligence.

Bush also told the Senate arms services committee his extensive political background may help him in his new job. Bush is a former Congressman and Republican party chairman.

Four CHP Officers Save Coast Driver

Kendall, 58, is in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Santa Ana's Mercy Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack and losing control of his car on the Newport Freeway Sunday night.

A CHP spokesman said the car was northbound on the freeway and plunged down an embankment near the Paularino Avenue offramp in Costa Mesa when Kendall suffered the seizure at about 9:30 p.m.

Patrolman Robin Hanson spotted the car at the bottom of the slope and ran down to give aid. He found Kendall lying on the seat on the passenger side of the small foreign car. He had stopped breathing.

Hanson pulled the driver out of the car and began applying mouth to mouth resuscitation until Kendall started breathing raggedly.

Capistrano's Council Field Swells to 6

A sixth person has emerged as a potential candidate for the San Juan Capistrano City Council.

Others who have taken out nomination papers are James Weathers and Roy Byrnes, the two incumbents, Robert Davies, a planning commissioner, David Smith, the city's director of planning, and Gary Hausdorfer, president of the Alto Capistrano Homeowner Association.

No one has yet filed the papers and become a candidate. The deadline for this is 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 24.

Andy Devine Still at Hoag

Actor Andy Devine of Newport Beach was reported still "wrestling with a bit of a temperature" today at Hoag Memorial Hospital where he is being treated for pneumonia.

Devine, 70, was admitted late last week to the hospital in a move termed a precaution because of his affliction with a form of leukemia.

North State Ch-chilly

By The Associated Press

It was the coldest morning of the winter in Northern California today as temperatures dipped below freezing and frost dotted Golden Gate Park in San Francisco.

The heart of the agriculture country was freezing with temperatures in the 20s. Sacramento reported 27, Stockton 16, Paso Robles 19 and Marysville 28.

UFO Sighted?

'Three Stories High'

HASTINGS, Fla. (UPI) — Three persons attending Larry Masters' backyard cookout reported seeing a giant, dome-shaped unidentified flying object hovering over nearby trees. Sheriff's deputies from three counties and the Florida Highway Patrol could find no other evidence of the object.

St. Johns County sheriff's dispatcher John Harnage said another air search of the area would be made today.

Masters called sheriff's deputies in St. Augustine shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday to report the UFO sighting. He and his three guests told officers the object was about three stories tall and appeared to be between "one football field and two football fields in length."

The four told a deputy the UFO had about 30 round, amber-shaped lights blinking from the side and the entire object was glowing brightly.

The sighters said the UFO hovered above the trees for about three minutes, then sank below the tree line for a minute, then rose again and descended, appearing to land.

Soviet Device

Satellite-blinding Laser Now Tested?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department official said today discussions are being held with the Soviet Union about allegations that it is testing a laser to blind U.S. spy satellites.

Dr. James P. Wade, director of the Pentagon's Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) task force, told the House Armed Services Committee it would be premature to call the allegations accurate.

"This is a new issue raised in the news media," Wade said. "The facts are not in on the issue."

He refused to discuss either the laser allegation or the possibility that the Soviets are testing a new antimissile radar "because both are subjects of current discussions with the Soviets."

Drawing heavy questioning about and some criticism of alleged Soviet violations of the first SALT agreement in 1972, Wade insisted to the committee that no certain Soviet violations have been found.

"We cannot clearly demonstrate any violation has taken place," he said.

But he said a number of possible violations have been and are being discussed with the Soviets, as well as Soviet claims of U.S. violations, which he refused to describe.

Wade made his statements about the laser issue after Rep. Les Aspin, (D-Wis.), asked him about an Aviation Week magazine story saying Soviet lasers blinded sensors on U.S. satellites in five instances since Oct. 18.

The story said infrared sensors able to detect Soviet missile launchings were interfered with in one case for about four hours in what appeared to be Soviet testing.

Valley Instructor In 'Serious' Shape

Fountain Valley High School teacher Denis Gitschier was in serious condition in a hospital intensive care unit today after a Saturday morning attack that left an off-duty Long Beach policeman dead.

Gitschier, 30, reportedly underwent 13 hours of surgery at Los Altos Hospital in Long Beach for his injuries.

Gitschier reportedly was attacked with a sharp instrument as he slept in the back of his car in Long Beach.

Officer Franke Neal Lewis, 28, tried to come to Gitschier's assistance and was shot in the face by the young teacher's alleged attacker. (Additional story today, Page A5).

Fountain Valley Principal Paul Berger said today Gitschier was driving home to Torrance from a high school staff party at a teacher's home, when he became sleepy and pulled off the road to rest.

He described Gitschier, who has been teaching at Fountain Valley since 1971, as popular with teachers and students.

In addition to his teaching duties, Berger said Gitschier serves as an adviser to the Future Business Leaders of America chapter.

He said Gitschier, 30, had been living with his parents in Torrance this fall while he was purchasing a home in Huntington Beach. Berger said Gitschier was to move into his home soon.

Capo Beach Home Burgled for Ring

Deputies said the ring was stolen from the home of college student Andrea Lee Roberson, 21, while she was busy in another part of the residence. They said there was no sign of forced entry.

Pursued Speeder

Niguel Driver Held in Chase

A 25-year-old Laguna Niguel man is in jail today after a zany cat-and-mouse pursuit through Laguna Beach and South Laguna which assertedly started as an attempt to make a citizens arrest of a speeder.

Charles L. Sunday, of 29532 Via San Sebastian, was booked for alleged assault with a deadly weapon (an automobile) and for resisting arrest.

Police officer Barry Snyder was injured slightly in a fight at the time Sunday was taken into custody Sunday morning. He was not hospitalized and was on duty today.

Police Sgt. Terry Temple gave this account:

Sunday was in his car on South Coast Highway when he saw another vehicle pass at what he thought was an excess speed.

Sunday gave chase. The people in the other car, a middle-aged Laguna Beach couple, became fearful when Sunday attempted to stop them. They increased speed making Sunday more determined to pull them over.

The speeding a cars careened through Laguna Beach and down to First Street in South Laguna. There, the pursued couple attempted to turn around, return to Laguna Beach, and try to reach the police station.

Sunday attempted a roadblock with his car, cutting off two traffic lanes of Pacific Coast Highway, but the other car eluded him and sped back toward Laguna Beach at speeds up to 70 miles per hour.

Along the way, the cars passed Officer Greg Bartz who was out of his car and was on his way to eat dinner. Bartz radioed to another police unit ahead of the speeding cars.

HOLDUP . . .

to San Clemente jail for booking were Jerone Bradford, 27; Curtis Green, 27, and Jerry Tyler, 29, all of Compton.

Gritton said a search located a .38-caliber revolver and $1,500 in cash on Bradford's person.

Officers said a serach of the car located the balance of the cash and a loaded .22-caliber automatic pistol.

Gritton said there was no resistance at the time of the arrests. The arrest occurred about 7:05 a.m., just 25 minutes after the armed robbery.

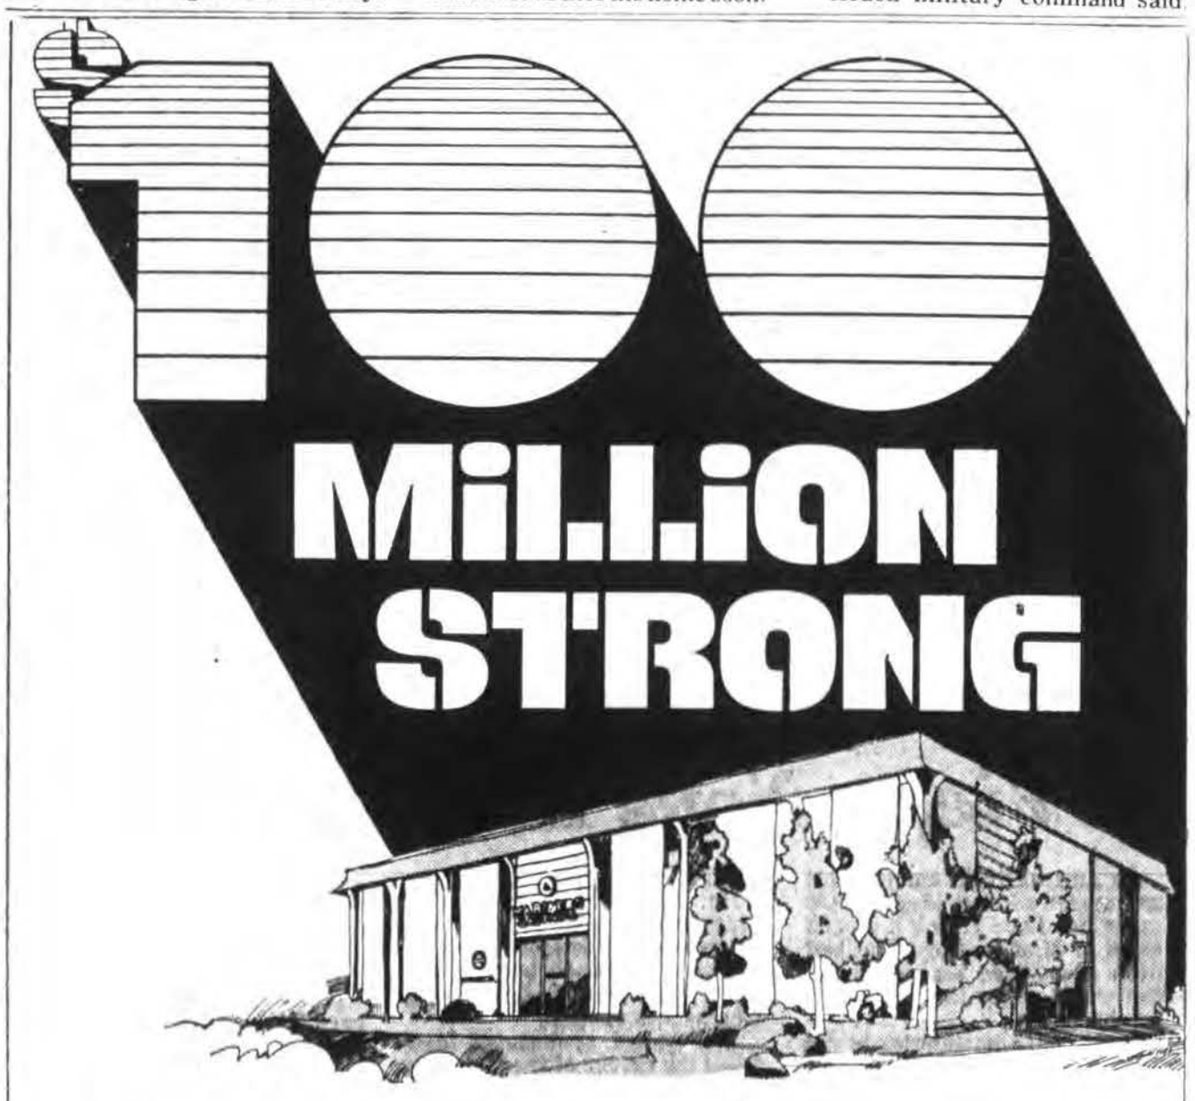

As the CHP was making the arrest in Tustin, Orange County Sheriff's deputies on patrol in Mission Viejo stopped a car also matching the description of that used in the robbery and in like manner ordered the occupants out with guns drawn. Closer inspection revealed that the occupants did not match the description of the suspects. They were allowed to go on their way.

Missing Decimal Soars Panel Cost

An article carried in Sunday's Daily Pilot under the byline of Judy Rosener, member of the South Coast Regional Coastal Commission, said costs of operating the seven coastal commissions was $25 million. This was a typographical error. The figure should have read $2.5 million.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS By Bil Keane

Gardens in County

Plots Available for $10 a Year

Orange County government is ready to paint some thumbs green — figuratively, that is — for the nominal charge of $10 per year.

Small plots of unused county-owned land are being made available to the general public as community garden sites.

A total of 17 acres of county land un unincorporated areas and several cities has been identified as usable for gardening under terms of a program approved by the county Board of Supervisors.

THE LAND will be marked off into 18 by 20 foot parcels and will be leased to interested individuals for a $10 annual fee. The fee is designed to cover the cost of on-site water supplies, according to Supervisor Robert Battin, who originated the idea.

Information about the public garden program can be obtained by calling Dick Kelly or Dan Miller in the County Administrative Office at 834-3830.

FOR GARDEN plots in unincorporated areas, the county will assume responsibility for tilling and irrigating the gardens. Supervisors have allocated $10,000 for that purpose.

The program is cooperative with whatever city governments want to get involved and plots within city boundaries will be the responsibility of that government entity, noted Battin an avid gardener himself.

Laetrile Penalty

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Trying to bring Laetrile into the United States will cost a Mexican man two months in jail. Alvaro Gonzalez-Pacheco of Tijuana was accused of driving a car with $19,000 worth of the so-called cancer treatment in the form of 2,100 vials and 1,000 pills.

Chapman College Raises $120,000

Financially troubled Chapman College in Orange got a $120,000 shot in the arm as a result of a four-day telephone fund raising campaign by students faculty, administrators and alumni.

Martin Cadena, student body president of the small, private liberal arts college, said still another $30,000 may come in the form of pledges by various Chapman support groups.

A GOAL OF $100,000 had been set by the fund raising group to help offset serious money broblems at the school, which is experiencing declining enrollments and donations.

Major cutbacks, including a temporary suspension of Chapman's World Campus Afloat program, were undertaken last month to make ends meet.

According to Cadena, more than 400 students and others turned out to look up phone numbers, make calls and write followup letfers to prospective donors.

CADENA conceded that there were some negative reactions from alumni reached by phone during the drive to ask them for money.

"I heard several callers say the person reached hung up on them, some with negative comments, mostly pointing to the fact that a college diploma hadn't provided a job and how could we expect them to donate to the college," Cadena said.

Cadena said the donors who promised funds will have until May 31 to make their contributions.

Hinshaw's Son Testifies Against Him

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's son testified as a prosecution witness today that he was the recipient of stereo equipment allegedly supplied free of charge while Hinshaw was serving as Orange County assessor in 1970.

University of Southern California student Andrew Howard Hinshaw Jr., 18, told a Superior Court jury that the stereo set and components distributed by the Tandy Corporation was a gift from his father.

Hinshaw's stepdaughter, Chapman College student Karen Worthen, 18, also testified that she was with her mother, Mrs. Thais Hinshaw, in a Park Newport apartment when a stereo set addressed to Hinshaw arrived shortly before Christmas 1972.

Miss Worthen told prosecutor Michael Capizzi that she and her mother, who has since sued Hinshaw for divorce, unpacked speakers, a turntable and a receiver shortly after the container was delivered.

She testified that the stereo set was later shipped to Hinshaw's Washington D.C. apartment in January 1973.

The equipment was later seized there by the district attorney's office during an investigation that led to the indictment of Hinshaw.

The Newport Beach Republican is being tried on three counts of bribery, all contained in a Grand Jury indictment.

It is alleged that he accepted gifts of stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Tandy Corporation through its Radio Shack warehouse in Garden Grove.

It is further alleged that Hinshaw solicited a bribe from a lawyer representing Beckman Instruments in return for his promised intervention in an assessment appeals hearing.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that a number of stereo sets were donated by Tandy officials in return for favorable assessment action that may have saved the firm as much as Soviets Testing Laser?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department official said today discussions are being held with the Soviet Union about allegations that it is testing a laser to blind U.S. spy satellites.

Dr. James P. Wade, director of the Pentagon's Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) task force, told the House Armed Services Committee it would be premature to call the allegations accurate.

"This is a new issue raised in the news media," Wade said. "The facts are not in on the issue."

He refused to discuss either the laser allegation or the possibility that the Soviets are testing a new antimissile radar "because both are subjects of current discussions with the Soviets."

Drawing heavy questioning about and some criticism of alleged Soviet violations of the first SALT agreement in 1972, Wade insisted to the committee that no certain Soviet violations have

County Supervisor Laurence Schmit has been called to appear before the Orange County Grand Jury Tuesday as the jury continues its probe into the complex financial and political affairs of Dr. Louis Cella.

Also subpoenaed to testify before the jury at a closed session is Schmit's top executive aide, Loran Norton.

Schmit was a major benefactor of Cella's political generosity, roughly $134,000 in contributions and loans, when he succeeded in unseating incumbent Second District Supervisor David Baker.

Last week, it was learned that Schmit was employed by a Cella-controlled hospital as a public relations consultant during the final six months of his successful campaign.

Financial disclosure statements filed later by the freshman supervisor failed to show the income received from the hospital during the last six months of 1974.

Schmit said he does not believe as an incoming official that he was required to show the hospital income.

"At worst it was a mistake — an honest mistake on my part," the supervisor said.

Norton, a long time Cella political worker, said last week he received money from the hospital during 1974 for professional services rendered through two small companies he owns.

Friday, affidavits supporting search warrants issued in connection with the county investigation of Cella showed that investigators were seeking cancelled checks from other Cella-controlled companies made payable to Schmit, Norton and State Controller Kenneth Cory.

While the Grand Jury in Orange County is investigating possible violations in some of Cella's business dealings, a federal grand jury in Los Angeles is conducting probe of its own.

Train Rams Truck In Viejo; None Hurt

An Amtrak train carrying 100 passengers and traveling about 90 miles per hour struck a pickup truck in Mission Viejo that had been abandoned on the tracks Saturday morning by three youths.

There were no injuries in the 11:35 a.m. crash, according to a California Highway Patrol spokesman. Debris from the truck was scattered over a wide area and there was moderate damage to the lead engine on the train, the spokesman said.

He said three youths had been riding in the truck on a dirt road that parallels the track just prior to the spectacular crash.

"Apparently they thought the pickup truck could go just about anywhere — including across the railroad track. But it got stuck," the spokesman said.

The crash occurred about two miles north of Avery Parkway near the north end of Camino Capistrano.

The patrol spokesman said the youths attempted to push the truck off the tracks, but didn't succeed.

"Then next thing, they saw that train coming like 90. They decided to get out of the way," the spokesman said.

He said emergency braking procedures applied by the train's engineer did little good because of the short distance between the truck's location and the point where it was spotted.

The patrol spokesman identified the driver of the pickup as Kenneth McMillen, 18, of 24581 Alcoba, Mission Viejo. Investigation of the accident is continuing.

Burglars Kick In Door in El Toró

Burglars who kicked in the locked door to gain entry have stolen a microwave oven, a fire extinguisher and a motorcycle from an El Toro home, Orange County Sheriff's officers reported today.

Deputies said the theft occurred at the home of Saddleback College teacher Miahn S. Shahrivar, 42, while she was away at work. The total loss was valued at $700.

School Post Awarded To Mitchell

James A. Mitchell, principal of de Portola School, has been appointed administrator for personnel services and employer relations for the Saddleback Valley Unified School District.

The appointment by the Board of Education becomes effective when school resumes after the holiday vacation on Jan. 5.

Mitchell will be filling the post left vacant when Gary Shinkle was appointed administrator for instructional services in November. No one has been named as yet to fill his spot at de Portola.

A graduate of State University College of Education at Plattsburgh, New York, Mitchell has taught elementary school and served as an elementary principal for nine years. He is a past president of both the San Joaquin Teachers' Association and the San Joaquin Administrators' Association. He has also been active in the Exchange Club of Saddleback Valley.

Man Shoots Wife Over Hot Drink?

A reportedly long-simmering situation between a Huntington Beach couple exploded Sunday when police allege the husband shot his wife in the back six times, enraged because there was no hot chocolate mix in the pantry.

Investigators said a sorrowful Bobby Benard, 50, of 19372 Cindy Lane, surrendered without incident following the shooting that occurred in the front yard of their home.

Spokesmen at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital said today that Mrs. Uva Benard, 54, is listed in critical condition and is under close watch and constant care.

Police said the front yard shooting appeared to be a case of domestic friction that built up over a long period of time until a minor incident set it off.

"He was very remorseful," Detective Richard Nolen said of Benard who was interrogated following the Sunday afternoon shooting.

The suspect was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and Nolen said a complaint would be sought from the Orange County District Attorney's Office Tuesday.

Investigators confiscated a .22 caliber revolver believed used in the shooting when they took Benard into custody.

UFO Sighted?

'Three Stories High'

HASTINGS, Fla. (UPI) — Three persons attending Larry Masters' backyard cookout reported seeing a giant, dome-shaped unidentified flying object hovering over nearby trees. Sheriff's deputies from three counties and the Florida Highway Patrol could find no other evidence of the object.

St. Johns County sheriff's dispatcher John Harnage said another air search of the area would be made today.

Masters called sheriff's deputies in St. Augustine shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday to report the UFO sighting. He and his three guests told officers the object was about three stories tall and appeared to be between "one football field and two football fields in length."

The four told a deputy the UFO had about 30 round, amber-shaped lights blinking from the side and the entire object was glowing brightly.

The sighters said the UFO hovered above the trees for about three minutes, then sank below the tree line for a minute, then rose again and descended, appearing to land.

2 Take Out Papers For MAC Post Race

Two more people have taken out nomination papers for the March 2 Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) election, the Orange County Registrar of Voters reported today.

The two potential candidates are William C. Johnson, 23772 Salvador Drive, a certified public accountant, and Ted Keene, 26772 Morena Drive, a field sales engineer.

Neither of the two Mission Viejo residents was available for comment today.

A third prospective challenger to the three seats held by incumbents is George J. Simons Jr., 24245 Castilla Lane, a retired construction worker.

Of the incumbents only Cal Neve, a deputy sheriff, has taken out nomination papers so far. Jeanne Gagnebin and Noble have indicated they would seek reelection but they haven't taken out their papers.

Candidates have until 5 p.m. Dec. 24 to file their completed forms with the Office of the Registrar of Voters, 1119 E. Chestnut Ave., Santa Ana. The nomination forms must contain the signatures of at least 20 registered voters from Mission Viejo.

'76 Fords to Cost Two Percent More

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a second round of price hikes on its 1976 model cars that will amount to $113 — two percent — on the average equipped automobile. (Related Editorial Page A6)

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford vice president for sales, said the prices are effective Jan. 5, 1976, and are "necessary at this time to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment."

The increase amounts to $97 — 2.2 percent — on base vehicles and $16 on optional equipment — 1.6 percent. The increase on the average equipped vehicle, with options that most people buy, worked out to $113, Bidwell said.

In October, when Ford introduced its 1976 models, it said it was raising prices on its average equipped cars $247, a figure the federal Cost of Living Council said actually worked out to $269.

There was no immediate indication whether the other three U.S. auto makers would follow Ford's lead in a second round of price hikes so early in the model year.

New government-mandated vehicle safety standard which will increase costs require an improved hydraulic brake system on cars and three-point lap and shoulder belts for light trucks, both effective Jan. 1, 1976, Bidwell said.

El Toro MAC Petitioners Halfway Home

Proponents of a municipal advisory council (MAC) in El Toro have nearly reached the halfway mark in their petition drive.

Sharron Bedard, secretary of the El Toro Homeowners Association, reported today that her volunteers had collected 200 of the 430 signatures required to place the MAC issue on the ballot next June.

Mrs. Bedard, however, noted that MAC backers are trying to collect at least 1,000 signatures by mid-January to make a favorable impression on the Orange County Board of Supervisors.

"Four hundred and thirty signatures would technically do it but just because you have them it doesn't mean that the board will vote to put it on the ballot," she said.

Supervisors are expected to rule in late January whether a council of advisors should be elected to help them make decisions affecting the residents of El Toro.

One year ago they authorized the formation of the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council which, to date, is the only MAC operating in Orange County.

In addition to the El Toro petition drive, homeowners living in Laguna Niguel currently are investigating the feasibility of establishing a MAC in their community.

Mrs. Bedard said the El Toro petition drive was slowed considerably by the pre-Christmas season.

"We have about 15 petitions out and in checking with my volunteers I found out that only two of them were really doing anything. They're all housewives and they just don't have the time right now. Still, all of them definitely believe in the MAC and they intend to go out between Christmas and New Year's," she said.

Mrs. Bedard urged anyone willing to assist with the petition drive to contact her at 581-5695.

"We're going to get these 1,000 signatures even if I to get the last 800 myself," she vowed.

Suspects Seized in SC Heist

Three gunmen who threatened to kill a waitress if their demands for money were not met robbed a San Clemente restaurant and seven early morning diners of nearly $3,600 early today. Three suspects later were arrested in Tustin.

The waitress, identified by police as Fran Kearins, was held with a handgun stuck in her back by one man as his two armed accomplices forced the manager of Carrow's Hickory Chip Restaurant, 620 Avenida Pico, to open the safe and turn over its cash contents.

Then the duo demanded that customers turn over their money, police said.

After the money was collected, the waitress was released unharmed. The manager, Albert Kowella, and the restaurant patrons were not injured.

Acting on information supplied by San Clemente Police, California Highway Patrol Officer Don Gritton intercepted a suspect vehicle near the Culver Freeway exit to the Santa Ana Freeway in Irvine.

Using their patrol cars as a shield, Gritton and Thompson, with shotguns poised, ordered the three occupants to exit the car with their hands in the air.

Arrested and later transported to San Clemente jail for booking were Jerone Bradford, 27; Curtis Green, 27, and Jerry Tyler, 29, all of Compton.

Gritton said a search located a .38-caliber revolver and $1,500 in cash on Bradford's person.

Officers said a serach of the car located the balance of the cash and a loaded .22-caliber automatic pistol.

Gritton said there was no resistance at the time of the arrests. The arrest occurred about 7:05 a.m., just 25 minutes after the armed robbery.

As the CHP was making the arrest in Tustin, Orange County Sheriff's deputies on patrol in Mission Viejo stopped a car also matching the description of that used in the robbery and in like manner ordered the occupants out with guns drawn. Closer inspection revealed that the occupants did not match the description of the suspects. They were allowed to go on their way.

Countian Held In Fatal Crash

COMMERCE (UPI) — A Granada Hills couple was killed and a teenager booked on suspicion of felony drunken driving and manslaughter Sunday following the head-on collision on the Santa Ana Freeway.

Dead were James Reid Butler, 30, and his wife, Charlene Anne, 29.

Weird Scene

Firemen Get Crazy Calls

Just when firemen think that they've been called to just about every situation, something new arises.

And Newport Beach firemen early in the weekend had two cases to chuckle about.

The first call came on Friday from an 88-year-old woman who lives alone.

HER NEW DENTURES, she said with great difficulty, had apparently caught her tongue. It was stuck.

So firemen dropped by to put everything back in place.

Only a few hours later, firemen received their second crazy call of the day.

WHO COULD HELP? The family figured the fire department.

Department information officer Art Morton said that the noisy dilemma was solved in a matter of moments.

"Just when you think that everything possible has been reported," he observed, "something new and crazy comes in."

Victim of Sailing Tragedy Discovered

A decomposed female body washed ashore at Crystal Cove Sunday morning and has been tentatively identified as Sherre Miller, 21, of Costa Mesa, who has been missing at sea since Dec. 7, when her sailboat was found partially submerged off Abalone Point.

Her husband, Steve Miller, 27, also aboard the sailboat, is still missing.

"The body is beyond visual recognition. We have tentatively identified her as a Jane Doe. However, it appears likely it is Mrs. Miller," a coroner's deputy said today.

The deputy added that the body can be positively identified either through fingerprints or dental charts.

The body was discovered about 8 a.m. at the cove, between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach. The Millers' water-filled boat had been discovered farther south, off Abalone Point.

When the boat was found, the body of the Millers' 3-year-old son, Shawn, was found in the cabin.

An autopsy revealed that Shawn died of drowning.

The Millers moved to Costa Mesa only three weeks prior to the fateful sailing trip. Miller had purchased the new boat only two weeks before taking the overnight cruise out of Newport Harbor.

She also instituted an oil barrel tax which has netted the city $2 million to date, aided in the state acquisition of the Huntington Beach Company beachfront, and helped form the county's council on aging.

Lucky St. Nick Immune

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Santa Claus had to follow the same federal regulations as everyone else, he would be filling out forms or hiring a lawyer now instead of preparing for his trip south on Chrismas eve.

"The list of possible law violations by old Saint Nick is staggering," Rep. M. G. "Gene" Snyder, (R-Ky.), commented in a letter to constituents.

"It may be necessary for him to retain a lawyer or receive executive clemency if he is to make his traditional Christmas visit on time."

Among the federal violations which would land him in a heap o' trouble, Snyder said, are:

— Flying across the heavens without certification by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and without filing a flight plan.

— Breaking Labor Department regulations for minimum wages for the elves in his toy shop, and possible occupational safety and health violations if they don't wear hard hats.

In addition, Snyder said, the Food and Drug Administration might award a grant to the National Science Foundation to determine if Rudolph was being fed an unauthorized drug to make his nose light up.

And, "not to be outdone, the Internal Revenue Service has instigated an audit to find out if over the years Santa has been declaring as taxable income the cookies and milk that are left for him by the children of the nation," the congressman said.

"However," he said, "it does give one pause to think and wonder just where our multitude of laws and regulations are taking us."

Hinshaw's Son Testifies Against Him

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's son testified as a prosecution witness today that he was the recipient of stereo equipment allegedly supplied free of charge while Hinshaw was serving as Orange County assessor in 1970.

University of Southern California student Andrew Howard Hinshaw Jr., 18, told a Superior Court jury that the stereo set and components distributed by the Tandy Corporation was a gift from his father.

Hinshaw's stepdaughter, Chapman College student Karen Worthen, 18, also testified that she was with her mother, Mrs. Thais Hinshaw, in a Park Newport apartment when a stereo set addressed to Hinshaw arrived shortly before Christmas 1972.

Miss Worthen told prosecutor Michael Capizzi that she and her mother, who has since sued Hinshaw for divorce, unpacked speakers, a turntable and a receiver shortly after the container was delivered.

She testified that the stereo set was later shipped to Hinshaw's Washington D.C. apartment in January 1973.

The equipment was later seized there by the district attorney's office during an investigation that led to the indictment of Hinshaw.

The Newport Beach Republican is being tried on three counts of bribery, all contained in a Grand Jury indictment.

It is alleged that he accepted gifts of stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Tandy Corporation through its Radio Shack warehouse in Garden Grove.

It is further alleged that Hinshaw solicited a bribe from a lawyer representing Beckman Instruments in return for his promised intervention in an assessment appeals hearing.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that a number of stereo sets were donated by Tandy officials in return for favorable assessment action that may have saved the firm as much as

Soviets Testing Laser Weapon?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department official said today discussions are being held with the Soviet Union about allegations that it is testing a laser to blind U.S. spy satellites.

Dr. James P. Wade, director of the Pentagon's Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) task force, told the House Armed Services Committee it would be premature to call the allegations accurate.

"This is a new issue raised in the news media," Wade said. "The facts are not in on the issue."

He refused to discuss either the laser allegation or the possibility that the Soviets are testing a new antimissile radar "because both are subjects of current discussions with the Soviets."

Drawing heavy questioning about and some criticism of alleged Soviet violations of the first SALT agreement in 1972, Wade insisted to the committee that no certain Soviet violations have been found.

"We cannot clearly demonstrate any violation has taken place," he said.

But he said a number of possible violations have been and are being discussed with the Soviets, as well as Soviet claims of U.S. violations, which he refused to describe.

Wade made his statements about the laser issue after Rep. Les Aspin, (D-Wis.), asked him about an Aviation Week magazine story saying Soviet lasers blinded sensors on U.S. satellites in five instances since Oct. 18.

The story said infrared sensors able to detect Soviet missile launchings were interfered with in one case for about four hours in what appeared to be Soviet testing.

Except for saying at one point "my information is classified" Wade did not concede that U.S. officials have any information beyond the magazine article.

Wade said Soviet testing of the radar at Kamchatka does not violate the 1972 limit of two Soviet antimissile sites because testing is still permitted at more than two sites.

But he said the issue is being discussed with the Soviets and that it is more significant that the new radar is more sophisticated in its ability to track large intercontinental missiles.

Baby Saved After Choking In Laguna

A 2-year-old Irvine child who had choked on a piece of food while eating at a Laguna Beach restaurant, was taken to South Coast Community Hospital in a police car Sunday.

Police reported the private ambulance took 19 minutes to respond to the incident, and when it arrived, a water hose burst and so it could not be used to transport the victim.

Matthew Miller of 2212 Verano Place, was released after emergency care at South Coast Community Hospital. He was transported there by Officer Bruce Briggs aided by Laguna Beach fireman Ken Hite.

Firemen reported that on their arrival at the restaurant, the Beachhouse Inn, 619 Sleepy Hollow Lane, the child was lying on a table and two physicians were assisting him.

The doctors had dislodged a small quantity of food from the child's throat but the boy was semi-conscious.

Female Body Washes Ashore Near Laguna

A decomposed female body washed ashore at Crystal Cove Sunday morning and has been tentatively identified as Sherre Miller, 21, of Costa Mesa, who has been missing at sea since Dec. 7, when her sailboat was found partially submerged off Abalone Point.

Her husband, Steve Miller, 27, also aboard the sailboat, is still missing.

"The body is beyond visual recognition. We have tentatively identified her as a Jane Doe However, it appears likely it is Mrs. Miller," a coroner's deputy said today.

The deputy added that the body can be positively identified either through fingerprints or dental charts.

The body was discovered about 8 a.m. at the cove, between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach. The Millers' water-filled boat had been discovered farther south, off Abalone Point.

When the boat was found, the body of the Millers' 3-year-old son, Shawn, was found in the cabin.

An autopsy revealed that Shawn died of drowning.

The Millers moved to Costa Mesa only three weeks prior to the fateful sailing trip.

Man Shoots Wife Over Hot Drink?

A reportedly long-simmering situation between a Huntington Beach couple exploded Sunday when police allege the husband shot his wife in the back six times, enraged because there was no hot chocolate mix in the pantry

Investigators said a sorrowful Bobby Benard, 50, of 19372 Cindy Lane, surrendered without incident following the shooting that occurred in the front yard of their home

Spokesmen at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital said today that Mrs. Uva Benard, 54, is listed in critical condition and is under close watch and constant care.

Police said the front yard shooting appeared to be a case of domestic friction that built up over a long period of time until a minor incident set it off.

"He was very remorseful," Detective Richard Nolen said of Benard who was interrogated following the Sunday afternoon shooting

The suspect was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and Nolen said a complaint would be sought from the Orange County District Attorney's Office Tuesday.

Investigators confiscated a .22 caliber revolver believed used in the shooting when they took Benard into custody.

Fortunately, Santa Claus Is Immune

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Santa Claus had to follow the same federal regulations as everyone else, he would be filling out forms or hiring a lawyer now instead of preparing for his trip south on Chrismas eve.

"The list of possible law violations by old Saint Nick is staggering," Rep. M. G. "Gene" Snyder, (R-Ky.), commented in a letter to constituents.

"It may be necessary for him to retain a lawyer or receive executive clemency if he is to make his traditional Christmas visit on time."

Among the federal violations which would land him in a heap o' trouble, Snyder said, are:

— Flying across the heavens without certification by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and without filing a flight plan.

— Breaking Labor Department regulations for minimum wages for the elves in his toy shop, and possible occupational safety and health violations if they don't wear hard hats.

In addition, Snyder said, the Food and Drug Administration might award a grant to the National Science Foundation to determine if Rudolph was being fed an unauthorized drug to make his

Firemen Get Crazy Calls

Just when firemen think that they've been called to just about every situation, something new arises.

And Newport Beach firemen early in the weekend had two cases to chuckle about.

The first call came on Friday from an 88-year-old woman who lives alone.

HER NEW DENTURES, she said with great difficulty, had apparently caught her tongue. It was stuck.

So firemen dropped by to put everything back in place.

Only a few hours later, firemen received their second crazy call of the day.

A girl's bracelet, they learned, had snagged on the toenail of a pet dog and wouldn't come loose.

WHO COULD HELP? The family figured the fire department.

Department information officer Art Morton said that the noisy dilemma was solved in a matter of moments.

"Just when you think that everything possible has been reported," he observed, "something new and crazy comes in."

Sara's Plea Accepted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge ruled today that Sara Jane Moore was mentally competent to plead guilty to charges of attempting to assassinate President Ford.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti, after hearing testimony from Dr. Jack Eardley, psychiatrist from the Federal Correctional Facility in Springfield, Mo., who interviewed Miss Moore over the weekend, ruled that she was competent in asking that her innocent plea be changed to guilty.

Conti scheduled a hearing Tuesday at wh ich time he said he would decide whether to accept the plea chanbge.

Eardley said that after the discussion with her, "I felt that she was competent to make that plea."

Miss Moore on Friday asked the court to permit her to change her plea to guilty on charges she fired a shot at Ford in San Francisco Sept. 22.

Asked by Conti whether Miss Moore was aware of the consequences of her plea, which includes possible life imprisonment, Eardley replied: "Yes, sir."

She renewed her request today to be allowed to plead guilty to the charges.

Miss Moore, 45, said she had thought about her request during the weekend and still wanted to plead guilty.

"I am at peace with myself," she told Conti. "There is nothing I would change."

Conti, who told Miss Moore Friday to think about her request over the weekend, once again warned her of the consequences of a guilty plea — possible life imprisonment.

"I have spent the (weekend) seriously considering" Conti's warnings, Miss Moore said.

She added that she discussed the matter with a psychiatrist, her attorney and a "fellow activist who is a priest."

Defense attorney James Hewitt told Conti he discussed the change of plea with Miss Moore Friday following her request and again today "and told her it was my opinion that she should not plead guilty."

Arrested and later transported to San Clemente jail for booking were Jerone Bradford, 27; Curtis Green, 27, and Jerry Tyler, 29, all of Compton.

Gritton said a search located a .38-caliber revolver and $1,500 in cash on Bradford's person.

Officers said a serach of the car located the balance of the cash and a loaded .22-caliber automatic pistol.

Gritton said there was no resistance at the time of the arrests. The arrest occurred about 7:05 a.m., just 25 minutes after the armed robbery.

As the CHP was making the arrest in Tustin, Orange County Sheriff's deputies on patrol in Mission Viejo stopped a car also matching the description of that used in the robbery and in like manner ordered the occupants out with guns drawn. Closer inspection revealed that the occupants did not match the description of the suspects. They were allowed to go on their way.

Train Rams Truck In Viejo; None Hurt

An Amtrak train carrying 100 passengers and traveling about 90 miles per hour struck a pickup truck in Mission Viejo that had been abandoned on the tracks Saturday morning by three youths.

There were no injuries in the 11:35 a.m. crash, according to a California Highway Patrol spokesman. Debris from the truck was scattered over a wide area and there was moderate damage to the lead engine on the train, the spokesman said.

He said three youths had been riding in the truck on a dirt road that parallels the track just prior to the spectacular crash.

"Apparently they thought the pickup truck could go just about anywhere — including across the railroad track. But it got stuck," the spokesman said.

The crash occurred about two miles north of Avery Parkway near the north end of Camino Capistrano.

The patrol spokesman said the youths attempted to push the truck off the tracks, but didn't succeed.

"Then next thing, they saw that train coming like 90. They decided to get out of the way," the spokesman said.

He said emergency braking procedures applied by the train's engineer did little good because of the short distance between the truck's location and the point where it was spotted.

The patrol spokesman identified the driver of the pickup as Kenneth McMillen, 18, of 24581 Alcoba, Mission Viejo. Investigation of the accident is continuing.

Actor Andy Devine of Newport Beach was reported still "wrestling with a bit of a temperature" today at Hoag Memorial Hospital where he is being treated for pneumonia.

Spokesmen at Hoag said today that Devine was resting comfortably and that his condition is fair.

Former Newport Beach resident Johnny Mercer was reported today to be making slow, but steady, recovery from the effects of brain surgery performed earlier this year in Pasadena.

Spokesmen for Huntington Memorial Hospital said that the 66-year-old composer of many popular songs was able to sit up and was responding to therapy.

2 Bodies Sent From Chinese

HONG KONG (AP) — The ashes of two Americans killed in China during the Vietnam war were flown to a U.S. military identification laboratory in Thailand today for processing before being sent to the United States.

The Chinese said the remains were those of Lt. Cmdr. James L. Buckley of Sioux City, Iowa, who was shot down Aug. 21, 1967, in Kwangsi province; and parachute rigger Kenneth W. Pugh of Lancaster, Pa., whose plane crashed on the Leichou peninsula, in Kwangtung province, on April 12, 1966.

An article carried in Sunday's Daily Pilot under the byline of Judy Rosener, member of the South Coast Regional Coastal Commission, said costs of operating the seven coastal commissions was $25 million. This was a typographical error. The figure should have read $2.5 million.

Ford Ups New Car Prices

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a second round of price hikes on its 1976 model cars that will amount to $113 — two percent — on the average equipped automobile. (Related Editorial Page A6)

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford vice president for sales, said the prices are effective Jan. 5, 1976, and are "necessary at this time to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment."

The increase amounts to $97 — 2.2 percent — on base vehicles and $16 on optional equipment — 1.6 percent. The increase on the average equipped vehicle, with options that most people buy, worked out to $113, Bidwell said.

In October, when Ford introduced its 1976 models, it said it was raising prices on its average equipped cars $247, a figure the federal Cost of Living Council said actually worked out to $269.

There was no immediate indication whether the other three U.S. auto makers would follow Ford's lead in a second round of price hikes so early in the model year.

New government-mandated vehicle safety standard which will increase costs require an improved hydraulic brake system on cars and three-point lap and shoulder belts for light trucks, both effective Jan. 1, 1976, Bidwell said.

The federal agency said the four companies increased prices on the 1976 mdels by $222, compared with the whopping $630 price increase for 1975 models that sent Detroit's auto makers deeper into a slump from which they are just recovering.

Besides the increase in car prices, Ford said the base price on light trucks would be increased $123, or 2.8 percent. On the imported Capri, the sticker price will be jumped $118, or 2.8 percent.

Bidwell said that in the three model years preceding 1976, costs of more than $350 a vehicle have not been recovered with price increases.

"Further, our 1976-model price increases at introduction time recovered only about 60 percent of expected 1976-model cost increases, and even with this latest increase, we will not recover all of our 1976-model increases," the Ford executive said.

NESSIE PHOTOS JUST 'MODEL'?

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — The latest theory on Nessie, the Loch Ness monster's nickname hereabouts, is that recent photographs purported to be of it may show nothing more than an old movie model, which sank in the lake in late 1960s.

The theory was advanced by Roy Muir, who has been seeking the elusive monster for 15 years and claims to have seen it four times.

UFO Sighted?

'Three Stories High'

HASTINGS, Fla. (UPI) — Three persons attending Larry Masters' backyard cookout reported seeing a giant, dome-shaped unidentified flying object hovering over nearby trees. Sheriff's deputies from three counties and the Florida Highway Patrol could find no other evidence of the object.

St. Johns County sheriff's dispatcher John Harnage said another air search of the area would be made today.

Masters called sheriff's deputies in St. Augustine shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday to report the UFO sighting. He and his three guests told officers the object was about three stories tall and appeared to be between "one football field and two football fields in length."

The four told a deputy the UFO had about 30 round, amber-shaped lights blinking from the side and the entire object was glowing brightly.

The sighters said the UFO hovered above the trees for about three minutes, then sank below the tree line for a minute, then rose again and descended, appearing to land.

Appeals Court OKs Award to Engineer

An Orange County Superior Court jury's decision that state highway engineer Barry Lippert should get more than $1.1 million because of harassment by Avco Community Developers has been upheld by an appellate court.

The ruling by the Fourth District Court of Appeals in San Bernardino overturns Superior Court Judge Robert L. Corfman's rejection of the jury verdict.

Justice Marcus Kauffman's opinion returns the $1,109,200 to Lippert, 31, of Garden Grove. It removes from the record Judge Corfman's comment that the award was excessive and the law suit should be retried.

Judge Corfman at one point told Newport Beach attorney Donald Belveal that he was "trying to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" in pressing the lawsuit he filed for Lippert.

The highway engineer sued Avco when he allegedly was harassed by the developers after he moved his two-story home from Mission Viejo to Laguna Niguel.

Lippert argued that Avco slandered him and his title to the property and that the harassment was triggered by the company's realization that it did not possess any restrictive powers on construction plans in the La Veta tract.

The harassment, Belveal told the jury, triggered the major heart attack suffered by his client who was never able to move into the home at 29691 Ana Marie Lane.

Belveal described Avco's actions against Lippert as the "conduct of a systemized campaign of terrorism, economic depression and vexation."

Reds Test Satellite-blinding Laser?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department official said today discussions are being held with the Soviet Union about allegations that it is testing a laser to blind U.S. spy satellites.

Dr. James P. Wade, director of the Pentagon's Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) task force, told the House Armed Services Committee it would be premature to call the allegations accurate.

"This is a new issue raised in the news media," Wade said. "The facts are not in on the issue."

He refused to discuss either the laser allegation or the possibility that the Soviets are testing a new antimissile radar "because both are subjects of current discussions with the Soviets."

Drawing heavy questioning about and some criticism of alleged Soviet violations of the first SALT agreement in 1972, Wade insisted to the committee that no certain Soviet violations have been found.

"We cannot clearly demonstrate any violation has taken place," he said.

But he said a number of possible violations have been and are being discussed with the Soviets, as well as Soviet claims of U.S. violations, which he refused to describe.

Wade made his statements about the laser issue after Rep. Les Aspin, (D-Wis.), asked him about an Aviation Week magazine story saying Soviet lasers blinded sensors on U.S. satellites in five instances since Oct. 18.

The story said infrared sensors able to detect Soviet missile launchings were interfered with in one case for about four hours in what appeared to be Soviet testing.

Except for saying at one point "my information is classified" Wade did not concede that U.S. officials have any information beyond the magazine article.

Wade said Soviet testing of the radar at Kamchatka does not violate the 1972 limit of two Soviet antimissile sites because testing is still permitted at more than two sites.

But he said the issue is being discussed with the Soviets and that it is more significant that the new radar is more sophisticated in its ability to track large intercontinental missiles.

Schmit to Testify in Cella Case

Subpoena For Top Aide Told

County Supervisor Laurence Schmit has been called to appear before the Orange County Grand Jury Tuesday as the jury continues its probe into the complex financial and political affairs of Dr. Louis Cella.

Also subpoenaed to testify before the jury at a closed session is Schmit's top executive aide, Loran Norton.

Schmit was a major benefactor of Cella's political generosity, roughly $134,000 in contributions and loans, when he succeeded in unseating incumbent Second District Supervisor David Baker.

Last week, it was learned that Schmit was employed by a Cella-controlled hospital as a public relations consultant during the final six months of his successful campaign.

Financial disclosure statements filed later by the freshman supervisor failed to show the income received from the hospital during the last six months of 1974.

Schmit said he does not believe as an incoming official that he was required to show the hospital income.

"At worst it was a mistake — an honest mistake on my part," the supervisor said.

Norton, a long time Cella political worker, said last week he received money from the hospital during 1974 for professional services rendered through two small companies he owns.

Friday, affidavits supporting search warrants issued in connection with the county investigation of Cella showed that investigators were seeking cancelled checks from other Cella-controlled companies made payable to Schmit, Norton and State Controller Kenneth Cory.

Huntington Man Helps Ailing Mom

A Huntington Beach man who considers his family "fortunate" has given a $50 donation to a 29-year-old mother in danger of losing her home.

Mrs. Kathleen King, beset by illness and finacial woes, said she will lose her home Wednesday unless she finds funds to make up back mortgage payments, homeowners association fees and other bills.

The man's wife said this morning "my husband just felt that she is doing what she can and illness is something all of us face and may not be able to do anything about.

"He doesn't want to see a woman with two children lose her home," the woman continued. "Although we are having a hard time making ends meet, we are very fortunate."

The woman asked that the family name not be used.

Mrs. King suffers from heart trouble, a kidney disorder, bronchitis, an ulcer, a blood sugar ailment, arthritis and a blood clotting illness that causes a form of epilepsy, she said.

Friends said she got into financial difficulties while trying to help a neighbor with food bills.

Valley Instructor In 'Serious' Shape

Fountain Valley High School teacher Denis Gitschier was in serious condition in a hospital intensive care unit today after a Saturday morning attack that left an off-duty Long Beach policeman dead.

Gitschier, 30, reportedly underwent 13 hours of surgery at Los Altos Hospital in Long Beach for his injuries.

Officer Franke Neal Lewis, 28, tried to come to Gitschier's assistance and was shot in the face by the young teacher's alleged attacker. (Additional story today, Page A5).

Fountain Valley Principal Paul Berger said today Gitschier was driving home to Torrance from a high school staff party at a teacher's home, when he became sleepy and pulled off the road to rest.

He described Gitschier, who has been teaching at Fountain Valley since 1971, as popular with teachers and students.

In addition to his teaching duties, Berger said Gitschier serves as an adviser to the Future Business Leaders of America chapter.

He said Gitschier, 30, had been living with his parents in Torrance this fall while he was purchasing a home in Huntington Beach. Berger said Gitschier was to move into his home soon.

He said the salesmen asked the fire department for a sanction but fire officials refused.

He said the group is doing nothing illegal, but salesmen may have inferred that the fire department sanctioned their promotion, and Hosmer said it did not.

CHP Officers Save Driver In Costa Mesa

Kendall, 58, is in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Santa Ana's Mercy Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack and losing control of his car on the Newport Freeway Sunday night.

A CHP spokesman said the car was northbound on the freeway and plunged down an embankment near the Paularino Avenue offramp in Costa Mesa when Kendall suffered the seizure at about 9:30 p.m.

Patrolman Robin Hanson spotted the car at the bottom of the slope and ran down to give aid. He found Kendall lying on the seat on the passenger side of the small foreign car. He had stopped breathing.

Hanson pulled the driver out of the car and began applying mouth to mouth resuscitation until Kendall started breathing raggedly.

Five Years Ago, District Trustees Made Commitment They Can't Keep

HB Trustees Trying To Keep Dwyer Open

The president of the Huntington Beach City (elementary) School Board hopes to work out an agreement with state officials, that will keep Dwyer Intermediate School open.

Steve Holden said he hopes district officials can make a presentation on the matter within the next 90 days to the State Allocations Board in Sacramento.

School trustees agreed five years ago to sell Dwyer by now and use the proceeds to help pay back a state building loan.

The $2 million loan was part of a state lending package used to build Sowers Intermediate School and two other elementary schools, district officials said.

But Holden said when the school board made the agreement to sell Dwyer it didn't believe the building would still be needed to house sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

He said that five years ago, the district's main growth in student population was east of Beach Boulevard.

But houses since have sprung up west of Beach, he said, in greater number and more quick-

'Jolly' Santa

St. Nick Smashed in HB

Should Santa Claus and his sleigh pulled by eight tiny reindeer ever get pulled over by a traffic cop, the computerized records check will show he was questioned Sunday by Huntington Beach police.

Officers were dispatched to a luxury apartment complex on the beachfront at 711 Ocean Ave., after reports of a boisterous and extremely jolly old Saint Nick perched high atop a wall in full uniform.

HE WOULD HAVE BEEN high even standing on the ground, investigators said, and his nose wasn't red from the chill of the ocean breeze as he waved and shouted to passing motorists.

"Santa Claus had been drinking and was disturbing the peace but not drunk," the police log entry suggested.

After all, 'tis the season to be jolly.

Motor Home Owners To Protest in HB?

Motor home owners are expected to confront Huntington Beach City Council members tonight over an ordinance banning the parking of their vehicles on city streets for more than two hours.

The regular Monday night meeting will start at 7 p.m. at council chambers.

One of the protesters is Mrs. Martha Baird, 21281 Seaforth Lane, who said she and her husband purchased a 22-foot motor home only after a great deal of thought and preparation.

"I even checked with the police before buying," she said. "An officer told me at the time there were no laws prohibiting it from being on the street."

She said, however, just a few days after buying the recreation vehicle, the city decided to press enforcement of the parking limits.

Mrs. Baird says she will ask the city council to either issue permits for the large campers or to change zoning so that she and her husband could add another driveway to accommodate it.

She said that if nothing is done, she will have to move or sell the outfit and probably take a loss on it.

She added that she uses it as a second car and that putting it in a storage yard would not be suitable for her.

"We tried to touch all bases before buying it," she said, "and committing ourselves to a 10-year loan. It was kind of like deciding whether to get pregnant or not."

Others also have indicated they plan to protest strict enforcement of the ordinance.

Viet Classes To Stay Open Over Yule?

The board will meet at Harbour View School 4343 Pickwick Circle, Huntington Beach.

Superintendent Dale Coogan said trustees will discuss spending $334 during the holidays to pay a teacher and two aides, offering English classes for 42 Vietnamese children.

Coogan said the proposal would provide classes for the youngsters for six days of the holidays.

He said the students requested that they not be off the entire holiday, fearing they would lose part of their newly acquired English language skills.

School Chief Session Set

The Fountain Valley school board will meet tonight to interview consultants who might be hired to help find a new district superintendent.

District officials said the meeting will be conducted behind closed doors.

The school board has decided to hire a permanent replacement for Dr. Michael Brick, who resigned the post a year ago. Dr. Robert Read had been filling the position on an interim basis.

After the defeat of unification at the polls in November, trustees agreed to begin searching for a permanent superintendent.

Ford Reports Second Round Of Cost Hikes

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a second round of price hikes on its 1976 model cars that will amount to $113 — two percent — on the average equipped automobile. (Related Editorial Page A6)

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford vice president for sales, said the prices are effective Jan. 5, 1976, and are "necessary at this time to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment."

The increase amounts to $97 — 2.2 percent — on base vehicles and $16 on optional equipment — 1.6 percent. The increase on the average equipped vehicle, with options that most people buy, worked out to $113, Bidwell said.

In October, when Ford introduced its 1976 models, it said it was raising prices on its average equipped cars $247, a figure the federal Cost of Living Council said actually worked out to $269.

There was no immediate indication whether the other three U.S. auto makers would follow Ford's lead in a second round of price hikes so early in the model year.

New government-mandated vehicle safety standard which will increase costs require an improved hydraulic brake system on cars and three-point lap and shoulder belts for light trucks, both effective Jan. 1, 1976, Bidwell said.

Teacher Member Boycotts

Administrators in the Huntington Beach City (elementary School District scheduled another fact finding session today in connection with the district's teacher contract dispute.

But long before the 2 p.m. session was to begin, the teacher representative said he would boycott the session.

Tom Brown of the California Teachers Association said this morning he has rejected Pepperdine University Professor E. Earle Brewer as a member of the fact finding panel. And he said he would not attend the 2 p.m. meeting.

But the district's deputy superintendent, Charles Palmer, said this morning he had not been notified that Brown wouldn't attend, and the session was still on.

The meeting was expected to be a repeat performance of last week's fact finding session, when Brewer and Palmer attended but teachers and Brown did not.

After waiting 15 minutes, the meeting was canceled, district officials said.

Then Tuesday night the school board debated the matter in a four-hour executive session, before ordering Palmer to make another attempt to set a meeting.

Trustees Brian Garland and Dale Bush voted against that move, however, with Garland urging instead that teachers and the school board return to the bargaining table.

Brown said he will meet with teachers later this afternoon to discuss the fact finding impasse.

Holden said he is confident the matter can be negotiated satisfactorily.

However, district officials have said the loan is due for repayment now, and state officials could force the immediate closure and sale of Dwyer to pay it off.

District taxpayers are currently paying off the rest of the loan package through a special tax of 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation, officials said.

Garland said he still wants to investigate the matter. He also said the lending arrangement was unusual and only one other district in the state has ever made a similar commitment.

"I am by no means prepared to bury it," he said of the matter.

Holden said that if the state does allow continued use of the facility, trustees will have to make some decision about whether to remodel it or eventually replace it.

Garland has suggested appointment of a citizen committee to study the entire matter, but Holden said he hasn't made up his mind.

"I believe in getting the thinking of the community on these things," he said, "but I feel the ultimate decision rests with the board."

But he said he probably would prefer hearing from residents during the course of regular board meetings rather than through a committee.

Valley Students Hosting Musical

About 200 Fountain Valley High School students will take part in "Christmas 1975," a holiday musical program, Thursday night at Red Hill Lutheran Church in Tustin.

There will be no admission fee for the 8 p.m. concert, district officials said. The church is located at 13202 Red Hill Ave.

Dogs Trotting

Valuable Canines Come Back

The family, however, consists of prize Samoyed show dogs Sam, who is the mother, and Sateless, the father, plus six puppies, all of whom are worth $1,600 or more.

The Michael Messer family, of 9402 Leilani Drive, telephoned police to report a possible grand theft of dogs when Sam and Sateless and their brood were discovered missing.

Happily for all concerned, however, the eight costly dogs were just out on a Sunday sojourn and might even have returned home on their own.

A crowd estimated at more than 10,000 turned out Saturday and Sunday to view the annual Christmas Boat Parade in Huntington Harbour.

Named winners for best decorated homes along the waterway were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Fortuna; Lisa and Laurie Killian; Mr. and Mrs. m ans; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Perry; Mr. and Mrs. Don Hunt; Mr. and Mrs. James Solum; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Footner; Mr. and Mrs. Don Mapson; Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Grossman; Kevin, Ronnie and Kim Del Toro and Kip and Kirk Ellison.

Miranda Ruling Tested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court, in another case involving the "Miranda" rules, agreed today to decide if the convicted sex slayer of a 10-year-old girl is entitled to a new trial on grounds he was subtly coerced into taking police to the girl's body.

The justices will hear oral arguments on Iowa's appeal of lower court decisions ordering a new trial. Iowa contended that the defendant acted voluntarily and that the Miranda guidelines were applied in an unduly technical fashion.

The defendant, Robert Anthony Williams, was convicted and sentenced to life for killing Pamela Powers on Christmas eve, 1968. Williams allegedly abducted the girl in the YMCA washroom, sexually abused and strangled her.

He fled to Davenport, Iowa, where on the advice of a Des Moines lawyer, he turned himself in. He was warned of his rights not to answer questions, and said he would wait to tell his story until after talking to his lawyer in Des Moines.

Under the Supreme Court's 1966 Miranda decision, a suspect in police custody must be warned of his right to remain silent and to have a lawyer. Otherwise, what he confesses may not be used against him at his trial.

In another case on police questioning decided last Tuesday, two dissenting justices said the majority probably would overturn Miranda soon.

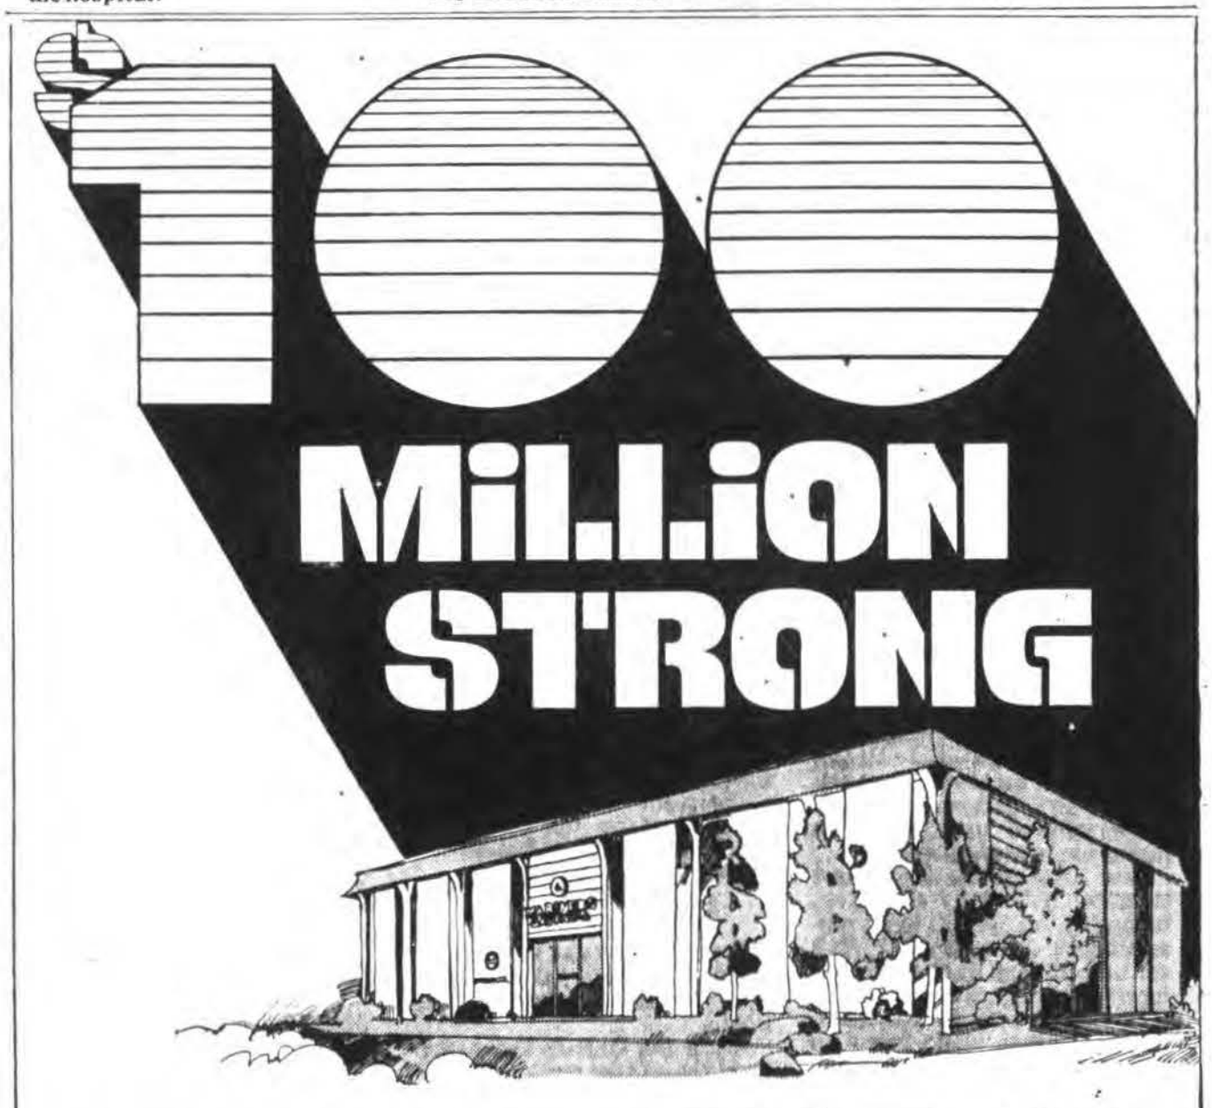

Some observers have suggested that the case accepted for review today may be the vehicle for giving police greater leeway in applying the Miranda rules.

Hinshaw's Son Testifies Against Him

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's son testified as a prosecution witness today that he was the recipient of stereo equipment allegedly supplied free of charge while Hinshaw was serving as Orange County assessor in 1970.

University of Southern California student Andrew Howard Hinshaw Jr., 18, told a Superior Court jury that the stereo set and components distributed by the Tandy Corporation was a gift from his father.

Hinshaw's stepdaughter, Chapman College student Karen Worthen, 18, also testified that she was with her mother, Mrs. Thais Hinshaw, in a Park Newport apartment when a stereo set addressed to Hinshaw arrived shortly before Christmas 1972.

Miss Worthen told prosecutor Michael Capizzi that she and her mother, who has since sued Hinshaw for divorce, unpacked speakers, a turntable and a receiver shortly after the container was delivered.

She testified that the stereo set was later shipped to Hinshaw's Washington D.C. apartment in January 1973.

The equipment was later seized there by the district attorney's office during an investigation that led to the indictment of Hinshaw.

It is alleged that he accepted gifts of stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Tandy Corporation through its Radio Shack warehouse in Garden Grove.

It is further alleged that Hinshaw solicited a bribe from a lawyer representing Beckman Instruments in return for his promised intervention in an assessment appeals hearing.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that a number of stereo sets were donated by Tandy officials in return for favorable assessment action that may have saved the firm as much as

Weird Scene

Firemen Get Crazy Calls

Just when firemen think that they've been called to just about every situation, something new arises.

And Newport Beach firemen early in the weekend had two cases to chuckle about.

HER NEW DENTURES, she said with great difficulty, had apparently caught her tongue. It was stuck.

So firemen dropped by to put everything back in place.

Only a few hours later, firemen received their second crazy call of the day.

Department information officer Art Morton said that the noisy dilemma was solved in a matter of moments.

"Just when you think that everything possible has been reported," he observed, "something new and crazy comes in."

Sara's Plea Studied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge ruled today that Sara Jane Moore was mentally competent to plead guilty to charges of attempting to assassinate President Ford.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti, after hearing testimony from Dr. Jack Eardley, psychiatrist from the Federal Correctional Facility in Springfield, Mo., who interviewed Miss Moore over the weekend, ruled that she was competent in asking that her innocent plea be changed to guilty.

Conti scheduled a hearing Tuesday at which time he said he would decide whether to accept the plea change.

Eardley said that after the discussion with her, "I felt that she was competent to make that plea."

Miss Moore on Friday asked the court to permit her to change her plea to guilty on charges she fired a shot at Ford in San Francisco Sept. 22.

Asked by Conti whether Miss Moore was aware of the consequences of her plea, which includes possible life imprisonment, Eardley replied: "Yes, sir."

She renewed her request today to be allowed to plead guilty to the charges.

Miss Moore, 45, said she had thought about her request during the weekend and still wanted to plead guilty.

"I am at peace with myself," she told Conti. "There is nothing I would change."

Conti, who told Miss Moore Friday to think about her request over the weekend, once again warned her of the consequences of a guilty plea — possible life imprisonment

County Supervisor Laurence Schmit has been called to appear before the Orange County Grand Jury Tuesday as the jury continues its probe into the complex financial and political affairs of Dr. Louis Cella.

Also subpoenaed to testify before the jury at a closed session is Schmit's top executive aide, Loran Norton.

Schmit was a major benefactor of Cella's political generosity, roughly $134,000 in contributions and loans, when he succeeded in unseating incumbent Second District Supervisor David Baker.

Last week, it was learned that Schmit was employed by a Cella-controlled hospital as a public relations consultant during the final six months of his successful campaign.

Financial disclosure statements filed later by the freshman supervisor failed to show the income received from the hospital during the last six months of 1974.

Schmit said he does not believe as an incoming official that he was required to show the hospital income.

"At worst it was a mistake — an honest mistake on my part," the supervisor said.

Norton, a long time Cella political worker, said last week he received money from the hospital during 1974 for professional services rendered through two small companies he owns.

Friday, affidavits supporting search warrants issued in connection with the county investigation of Cella showed that investigators were seeking cancelled checks from other Cella-controlled companies made payable to Schmit, Norton and State Controller Kenneth Cory.

While the Grand Jury in Orange County is investigating possible violations in some of Cella's business dealings, a federal grand jury in Los Angeles is conducting probe of its own.

In the forefront of the investigations are the purported use of fictitious firms to drain money from Mission Community Hospital, Mission Viejo, and Mercy General Hospital, Santa Ana.

Huntington Case

Man Shoots Wife Over Hot Drink?

A reportedly long-simmering situation between a Huntington Beach couple exploded Sunday when police allege the husband shot his wife in the back six times, enraged because there was no hot chocolate mix in the pantry.

Investigators said a sorrowful Bobby Benard, 50, of 19372 Cindy Lane, surrendered without incident following the shooting that occurred in the front yard of their home.

Spokesmen at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital said today that Mrs. Uva Benard, 54, is listed in critical condition and is under close watch and constant care.

Police said the front yard shooting appeared to be a case of domestic friction that built up over a long period of time until a minor incident set it off.

"He was very remorseful," Detective Richard Nolen said of Benard who was interrogated following the Sunday afternoon shooting.

The suspect was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and Nolen said a complaint would be sought from the Orange County District Attorney's Office Tuesday.

Supervisors Mull 2 More Judges in OC

Ralph Diedrich, chairman of the Orange County Board of Supervisors, said today he will ask his fellow supervisors to approve his adding two judges to the county Superior Court.

Diedrich's comment reverses a position he and the other supervisors have held since early last year.

They refused to accept two judges allowed by the Legislature because, according to county administration figures, the state refused to fully fund the positions.

Now, Diedrich said, the backlog of work is such that the new judges are needed and county residents are suffering because they have not already been added to the bench.

The board's refusal to accept the two judgeships was based on the state's willingness to provide only $120,000 in funding for the new positions.

Under Senate Bill 90, costs incurred by local governments as the result of legislation are to be fully paid for by those making the mandate.

And for that reason, in the face of heavy criticism from local court officials, the supervisors have balked at accepting the two new positions that would bring the number of Orange County Superior Court judges up to 33.

Both presiding Judge Robert Banyard and court administrator Les McCartney said the shortage of judges in Orange County was forcing a delay in civil trials that had grown from six months to more than 15 months as the supervisors debated the funding issue.

Victim of Sailing Tragedy Discovered

A decomposed female body washed ashore at Crystal Cove Sunday morning and has been tentatively identified as Sherre Miller, 21, of Costa Mesa, who has been missing at sea since Dec. 7, when her sailboat was found partially submerged off Abalone Point.

Her husband, Steve Miller, 27, also aboard the sailboat, is still missing.

"The body is beyond visual recognition. We have tentatively identified her as a Jane Doe. However, it appears likely it is Mrs. Miller," a coroner's deputy said today.

The deputy added that the body can be positively identified either through fingerprints or dental charts.

The body was discovered about 8 a.m. at the cove, between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach. The Millers' water-filled boat had been discovered farther south, off Abalone Point.

When the boat was found, the body of the Millers' 3-year-old son, Shawn, was found in the cabin.

An autopsy revealed that Shawn died of drowning.

The Millers moved to Costa Mesa only three weeks prior to the fateful sailing trip. Miller had purchased the new boat only two weeks before taking the overnight cruise out of Newport Harbor.

Initiative To Halt Coast Plan Begins

A statewide initiative aimed at stopping the Legislature from implementing the state coastal plan has been begun by Gil Ferguson, a Newport Beach lobbyist for labor and construction interests.

The initiative proposal was presented to the attorney general by Ferguson this morning in Sacramento. After approval by the attorney general, Ferguson and the others involved in the campaign will begin gathering signatures.

The state coastal plan, presented to the governor and Legislature Dec. 1, is a plan drawn up by the state coastal commissions for protecting the coastline. It would continue the life of the state coastal commission indefinitely.

Ferguson is carying out the initiative campaign as chairman of the California Coordinating Council, a federation of citizens, business and labor organizations throughout the state.

Santa Trouble?

Trip South May Be Illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Santa Claus had to follow the same federal regulations as everyone else, he would be filling out forms or hiring a lawyer now instead of preparing for his trip south on Chrismas eve.

"The list of possible law violations by old Saint Nick is staggering," Rep. M. G. "Gene" Snyder, (R-Ky.), commented in a letter to constituents.

"It may be necessary for him to retain a lawyer or receive executive clemency if he is to make his traditional Christmas visit on time."

Among the federal violations which would land him in a heap o' trouble, Snyder said, are:

— Flying across the heavens without certification by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and without filing a flight plan.

— Breaking Labor Department regulations for minimum wages for the elves in his toy shop, and possible occupational safety and health violations if they don't wear hard hats.

In addition, Snyder said, the Food and Drug Administration might award a grant to the National Science Foundation to determine if Rudolph was being fed an unauthorized drug to make his Soviets Testing Laser Weapon?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department official said today discussions are being held with the Soviet Union about allegations that it is testing a laser to blind U.S. spy satellites.

Dr. James P. Wade, director of the Pentagon's Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) task force, told the House Armed Services Committee it would be premature to call the allegations accurate.

"This is a new issue raised in the news media," Wade said. "The facts are not in on the issue."

He refused to discuss either the laser allegation or the possibility that the Soviets are testing a new antimissile radar "because both are subjects of current discussions with the Soviets."

Drawing heavy questioning about and some criticism of alleged Soviet violations of the first SALT agreement in 1972, Wade insisted to the committee that no certain Soviet violations have been found.

"We cannot clearly demonstrate any violation has taken place," he said.

But he said a number of possible violations have been and are being discussed with the Soviets, as well as Soviet claims of U.S. violations, which he refused to describe.

Wade made his statements about the laser issue after Rep. Les Aspin, (D-Wis.), asked him about an Aviation Week magazine story saying Soviet lasers blinded sensors on U.S. satellites in five instances since Oct. 18.

The story said infrared sensors able to detect Soviet missile launchings were interfered with in one case for about four hours in what appeared to be Soviet testing.

Except for saying at one point "my information is classified" Wade did not concede that U.S. officials have any information beyond the magazine article.

Wade said Soviet testing of the radar at Kamchatka does not violate the 1972 limit of two Soviet antimissile sites because testing is still permitted at more than two sites.

But he said the issue is being discussed with the Soviets and that it is more significant that the new radar is more sophisticated in its ability to track large intercontinental missiles.

Miranda Ruling Tested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court, in another case involving the "Miranda" rules, agreed today to decide if the convicted sex slayer of a 10-year-old girl is entitled to a new trial on grounds he was subtly coerced into taking police to the girl's body.

The justices will hear oral arguments on Iowa's appeal of lower court decisions ordering a new trial. Iowa contended that the defendant acted voluntarily and that the Miranda guidelines were applied in an unduly technical fashion.

The defendant, Robert Anthony Williams, was convicted and sentenced to life for killing Pamela Powers on Christmas eve, 1968. Williams allegedly abducted the girl in the YMCA washroom, sexually abused and strangled her.

He fled to Davenport, Iowa, where on the advice of a Des Moines lawyer, he turned himself in. He was warned of his rights not to answer questions, and said he would wait to tell his story until after talking to his lawyer in Des Moines.

Under the Supreme Court's 1966 Miranda decision, a suspect in police custody must be warned of his right to remain silent and to have a lawyer. Otherwise, what he confesses may not be used against him at his trial.

In another case on police questioning decided last Tuesday, two dissenting justices said the majority probably would overturn Miranda soon.

Some observers have suggested that the case accepted for review today may be the vehicle for giving police greater leeway in applying the Miranda rules.

Huntington Man Helps Ailing Mom

A Huntington Beach man who considers his family "fortunate" has given a $50 donation to a 29-year-old mother in danger of losing her home.

Mrs. Kathleen King, beset by illness and finacial woes, said she will lose her home Wednesday unless she finds funds to make up back mortgage payments, homeowners association fees and other bills.

The man's wife said this morning "my husband just felt that she is doing what she can and illness is something all of us face and may not be able to do anything about.

"He doesn't want to see a woman with two children lose her home," the woman continued. "Although we are having a hard time making ends meet, we are very fortunate."

The woman asked that the family name not be used.

Mrs. King suffers from heart trouble, a kidney disorder, bronchitis, an ulcer, a blood sugar ailment, arthritis and a blood clotting illness that causes a form of epilepsy, she said.

Friends said she got into financial difficulties while trying to help a neighbor with food bills.

Slow Progress For Mercer

Former Newport Beach resident Johnny Mercer was reported today to be making slow, but steady, recovery from the effects of brain surgery performed earlier this year in Pasadena.

Spokesmen for Huntington Memorial Hospital said that the 66-year-old composer of many popular songs was able to sit up and was responding to therapy.

Missing Decimal Soars Panel Cost

An article carried in Sunday's Daily Pilot under the byline of Judy Rosener, member of the South Coast Regional Coastal Commission, said costs of operating the seven coastal commissions was $25 million. This was a typographical error. The figure should have read $2.5 million.

Ford Reports Second Round Of Cost Hikes

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a second round of price hikes on its 1976 model cars that will amount to $113 — two percent — on the average equipped automobile. (Related Editorial Page A6)

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford vice president for sales, said the prices are effective Jan. 5, 1976, and are "necessary at this time to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment."

The increase amounts to $97 2.2 percent on base vehicles and $16 on optional equipment 1.6 percent. The increase on the average equipped vehicle, with options that most people buy, worked out to $113, Bidwell said.

In October, when Ford introduced its 1976 models, it said it was raising prices on its average equipped cars $247, a figure the federal Cost of Living Council said actually worked out to $269.

There was no immediate indication whether the other three U.S. auto makers would follow Ford's lead in a second round of price hikes so early in the model year.

New government-mandated vehicle safety standard which will increase costs require an improved hydraulic brake system on cars and three-point lap and shoulder belts for light trucks, both effective Jan. 1, 1976, Bidwell said.

Optional Phys Ed Studied

When Newport-Mesa school trustees meet Tuesday night, they will learn what students, teachers, parents and local doctors think about optional physical education.

Surveys have been sent to the above groups. While the results were still being tabulated today, district officials said they expect to have the final figures for trustees at the school board meeting, 7:30 p.m. in the Lyceum Theater at Costa Mesa High School.

For the past few months, trustees have been grappling with the problem of whether or not to allow an optional physical education program.

The problem results from a new state law, effective Jan. 1, that allows individual school districts to decide if juniors and seniors at their high school campuses may choose other classes instead of physical education.

At Tuesday night's meeting, the school board is expected to decide whether to allow second semester seniors to have the optional program when the second semester in February begins. If so, it would be a trial program.

However, trustees may wait until next spring to decide whether to extend the option to more students for the 1976-77 school year beginning next September.

Already, trustees have heard presentations by students who favor the option. And, sophomores, juniors and seniors already polled have indicated 82 percent support for optional physical education of one type or another.

Freshmen students were recently polled, too, and their responses will be revealed Tuesday night, along with those of parents, high school teachers and local physicians

Valley Instructor In 'Serious' Shape

Fountain Valley High School teacher Denis Gitschier was in serious condition in a hospital intensive care unit today after a Saturday morning attack that left an off-duty Long Beach policeman dead.

Gitschier, 30, reportedly underwent 13 hours of surgery at Los Altos Hospital in Long Beach for his injuries.

Officer Franke Neal Lewis, 28, tried to come to Gitschier's assistance and was shot in the face by the young teacher's alleged attacker. (Additional story today, Page A5).

Fountain Valley Principal Paul Berger said today Gitschier was driving home to Torrance from a high school staff party at a teacher's home, when he became sleepy and pulled off the road to rest.

He described Gitschier, who has been teaching at Fountain Valley since 1971, as popular with teachers and students.

In addition to his teaching duties, Berger said Gitschier serves as an adviser to the Future Business Leaders of America chapter.

He said Gitschier, 30, had been living with his parents in Torrance this fall while he was purchasing a home in Huntington Beach. Berger said Gitschier was to move into his home soon.

Bandits Slay Bank Official

UNION POINT, Ga. (UPI) — Two men held up the Farmers Bank today, kidnaped a bank official and later shot and killed him in an attempt to extort money for his release.

A spokesman said police have one suspect in custody.

Sources said the bandits shot and killed bank vice president Reuben Flint, after demanding money for his release at the bank.

Appeals Court OKs Award to Engineer

An Orange County Superior Court jury's decision that state highway engineer Barry Lippert should get more than $1.1 million because of harassment by Avco Community Developers has been upheld by an appellate court.

The ruling by the Fourth District Court of Appeals in San Bernardino overturns Superior Court Judge Robert L. Corfman's rejection of the jury verdict.

Justice Marcus Kauffman's opinion returns the $1,109,200 to Lippert, 31, of Garden Grove. It removes from the record Judge Corfman's comment that the award was excessive and the law suit should be retried.

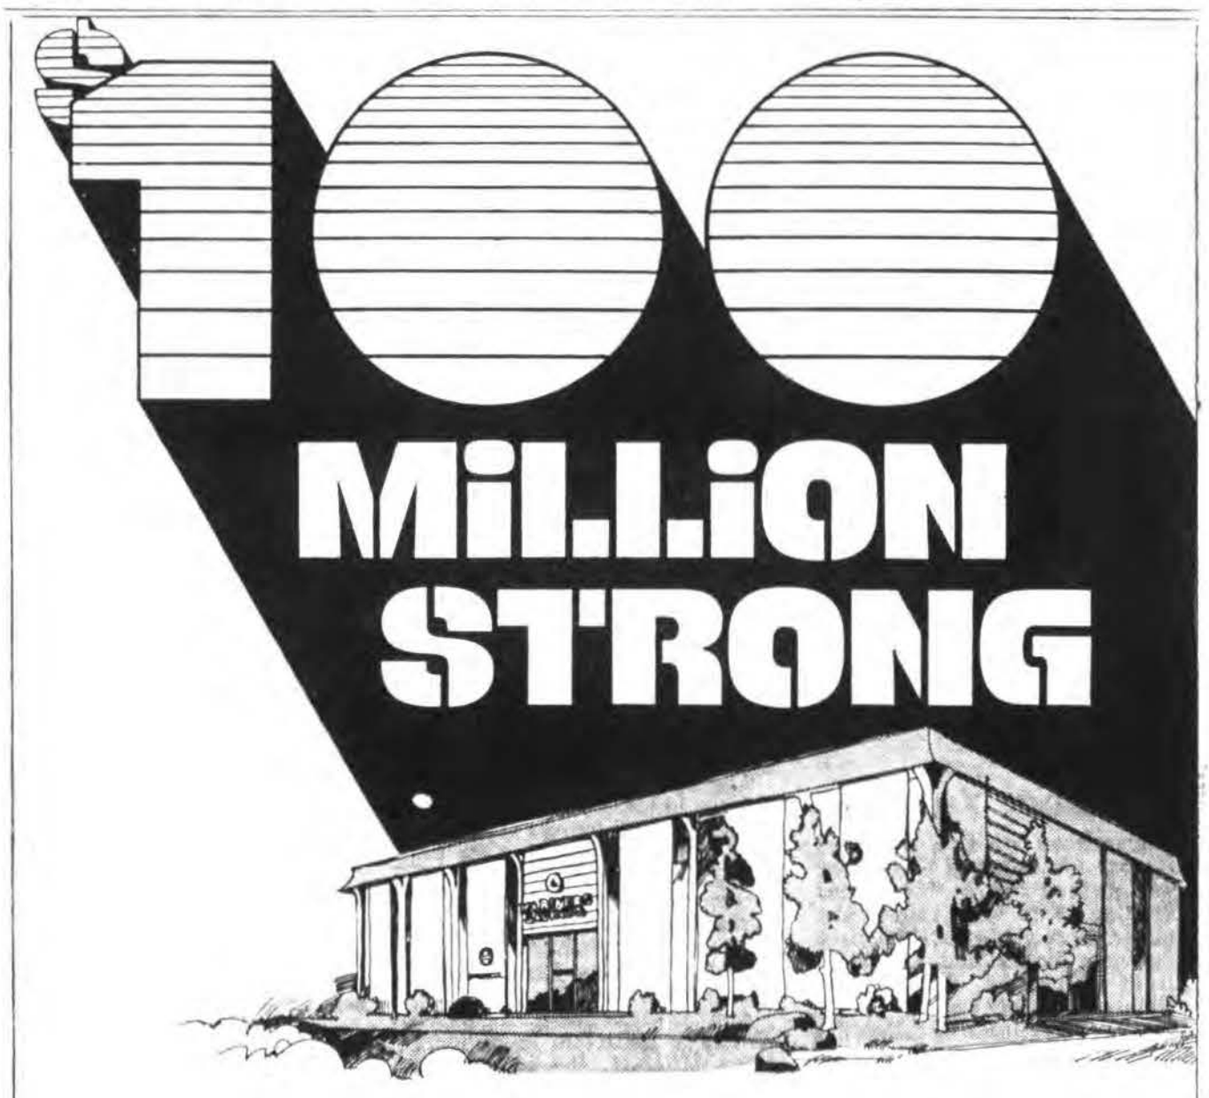

Judge Corfman at one point told Newport Beach attorney Donald Belveal that he was "trying to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" in pressing the lawsuit he filed for Lippert.

The highway engineer sued Avco when he allegedly was harassed by the developers after he moved his two-story home from Mission Viejo to Laguna Niguel.

Lippert argued that Avco slandered him and his title to the property and that the harassment was triggered by the company's realization that it did not possess any restrictive powers on construction plans in the La Veta tract.

The harassment, Belveal told the jury, triggered the major heart attack suffered by his client who was never able to move into the home at 29691 Ana Marie Lane.

Belveal described Avco's actions against Lippert as the "conduct of a systemized campaign of terrorism, economic depression and vexation."

THE FAMILY CIRCUS By Bil Keane

Gardens in County

Plots Available for $10 a Year

Orange County government is ready to paint some thumbs green — figuratively, that is — for the nominal charge of $10 per year.

Small plots of unused county-owned land are being made available to the general public as community garden sites.

A total of 17 acres of county land un unincorporated areas and several cities has been identified as usable for gardening under terms of a program approved by the county Board of Supervisors.

THE LAND will be marked off into 18 by 20 foot parcels and will be leased to interested individuals for a $10 annual fee. The fee is designed to cover the cost of on-site water supplies, according to Supervisor Robert Battin, who originated the idea.

Information about the public garden program can be obtained by calling Dick Kelly or Dan Miller in the County Administrative Office at 834-3830.

FOR GARDEN plots in unincorporated areas, the county will assume responsibility for tilling and irrigating the gardens. Supervisors have allocated $10,000 for that purpose.

The program is cooperative with whatever city governments want to get involved and plots within city boundaries will be the responsibility of that government entity, noted Battin an avid gardener himself.

Laetrile Penalty

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Trying to bring Laetrile into the United States will cost a Mexican man two months in jail. Alvaro Gonzalez-Pacheco of Tijuana was accused of driving a car with $19,000 worth of the so-called cancer treatment in the form of 2,100 vials and 1,000 pills.

Deaths Elsewhere

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Mrs. Alice Young, 101, oldest local survivor of the 1889 Johnstown flood, died Saturday. She would have been 102 on Dec. 26.

FT. SILL, Okla. (UPI) — Brig. Gen. James W. Cannon, 46, who directed the opening of the nation's largest refugee center at Ft. Chaffee, Ark., died Saturday at Reynolds Army Hospital of lung cancer.

SHIRLEY, Mass. (AP) — Benton MacKaye, 96, who conceived the idea of the Appalachian Trail, died Thursday night. The Appalachian Trail is a nearly 2,000-mile-long mountain footpath winding through 14 states, from Mt. Katahdin, Maine, to Springer Mountain, Georgia.

Chapman College Raises $120,000

Financially troubled Chapman College in Orange got a $120,000 shot in the arm as a result of a four-day telephone fund raising campaign by students faculty, administrators and alumni.

Martin Cadena, student body president of the small, private liberal arts college, said still another $30,000 may come in the form of pledges by various Chapman support groups.

A GOAL OF $100,000 had been set by the fund raising group to help offset serious money broblems at the school, which is experiencing declining enrollments and donations.

Major cutbacks, including a temporary suspension of Chapman's World Campus Afloat program, were undertaken last month to make ends meet.

According to Cadena, more than 400 students and others turned out to look up phone numbers, make calls and write followup letfers to prospective donors.

CADENA conceded that there were some negative reactions from alumni reached by phone during the drive to ask them for money.

"I heard several callers say the person reached hung up on them, some with negative comments, mostly pointing to the fact that a college diploma hadn't provided a job and how could we expect them to donate to the college," Cadena said.

Cadena said the donors who promised funds will have until May 31 to make their contributions.

Hinshaw's Son Testifies Against Him

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's son testified as a prosecution witness today that he was the recipient of stereo equipment allegedly supplied free of charge while Hinshaw was serving as Orange County assessor in 1970.

University of Southern California student Andrew Howard Hinshaw Jr., 18, told a Superior Court jury that the stereo set and components distributed by the Tandy Corporation was a gift from his father.

Hinshaw's stepdaughter, Chapman College student Karen Worthen, 18, also testified that she was with her mother, Mrs. Thais Hinshaw, in a Park Newport apartment when a stereo set addressed to Hinshaw arrived shortly before Christmas 1972.

Miss Worthen told prosecutor Michael Capizzi that she and her mother, who has since sued Hinshaw for divorce, unpacked speakers, a turntable and a receiver shortly after the container was delivered.

She testified that the stereo set was later shipped to Hinshaw's Washington D.C. apartment in January 1973.

The equipment was later seized there by the district attorney's office during an investigation that led to the indictment of Hinshaw.

The Newport Beach Republican is being tried on three counts of bribery, all contained in a Grand Jury indictment.

It is alleged that he accepted gifts of stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Tandy Corporation through its Radio Shack warehouse in Garden Grove.

It is further alleged that Hinshaw solicited a bribe from a lawyer representing Beckman Instruments in return for his promised intervention in an assessment appeals hearing.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that a number of stereo sets were donated by Tandy officials in return for favorable assessment action that may have saved the firm as much as

Schmit to Testify in Cella Case

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

County Supervisor Laurence Schmit has been called to appear before the Orange County Grand Jury Tuesday as the jury continues its probe into the complex financial and political affairs of Dr. Louis Cella.

Also subpoenaed to testify before the jury at a closed session is Schmit's top executive aide, Loran Norton.

Schmit was a major benefactor of Cella's political generosity, roughly $134,000 in contributions and loans, when he succeeded in unseating incumbent Second District Supervisor David Baker.

Last week, it was learned that Schmit was employed by a Cella-controlled hospital as a public relations consultant during the final six months of his successful campaign.

Financial disclosure statements filed later by the freshman supervisor failed to show the income received from the hospital during the last six months of 1974.

Schmit said he does not believe as an incoming official that he was required to show the hospital income.

"At worst it was a mistake — an honest mistake on my part," the supervisor said.

Norton, a long time Cella political worker, said last week he received money from the hospital during 1974 for professional services rendered through two small companies he owns.

Friday, affidavits supporting search warrants issued in connection with the county investigation of Cella showed that investigators were seeking cancelled checks from other Cella-controlled companies made payable to Schmit, Norton and State Controller Kenneth Cory.

While the Grand Jury in Orange County is investigating possible violations in some of Cella's business dealings, a federal grand jury in Los Angeles is conducting probe of its own.

In the forefront of the investigations are the purported use of fictitious firms to drain money from Mission Community Hospital, Mission Viejo, and Mercy General Hospital, Santa Ana.

Cella is a minority owner in

Superior Court

Diedrich Seeks Two New Judges

Ralph Diedrich, chairman of the Orange County Board of Supervisors, said today he will ask his fellow supervisors to approve his adding two judges to the county Superior Court.

Daily Pilot Staff Photo

Councilman Hammett

Diedrich's comment reverses a position he and the other supervisors have held since early last year.

They refused to accept two judges allowed by the Legislature because, according to county administration figures, the state refused to fully fund the positions.

Now, Diedrich said, the backlog of work is such that the new judges are needed and county residents are suffering because they have not already been added to the bench.

The board's refusal to accept the two judgeships was based on the state's willingness to provide only $120,000 in funding for the new positions.

Under Senate Bill 90, costs incurred by local governments as the result of legislation are to be fully paid for by those making the mandate.

And for that reason, in the face of heavy criticism from local court officials, the supervisors have balked at accepting the two new positions that would bring the number of Orange County Superior Court judges up to 33.

Both presiding Judge Robert Banyard and court administrator Les McCartney said the shortage of judges in Orange County was forcing a delay in civil trials that had grown from six months to more than 15 months as the supervisors debated the funding issue.

The California Highway Commission is to hold its next meeting, Jan. 22 and 23, in Costa Mesa.

While in the city, the commissioners will likely be taken up in a helicopter, one at a time,

He will show them the excavation in the middle of Newport Boulevard, the hole dug to get fill dirt for the Newport-Corona del Mar Freeway interchange at Bristol Street.

"I hope to take them up," Hammett said today. "It's a one-on-one thing. You can communicate with them. It also turns them on."

Hammett, qualified as a commercial pilot and as an instructor for both fixed-wing and helicopter craft, said that he will use a rented helicopter, and not one of the police helicopters, for the flights. The rental will be charged to the city.

Bandits Slay Bank Official

UNION POINT, Ga. (UPI) — Two men held up the Farmers Bank today, kidnaped a bank official and later beat him to death in an attempt to extort $60,000 for his release.

A spokesman said police have one suspect in custody.

Victim of Sailing Tragedy Found

A decomposed female body washed ashore at Crystal Cove Sunday morning and has been tentatively identified as Sherre Miller, 21, of Costa Mesa, who has been missing at sea since Dec. 7, when her sailboat was found partially submerged off Abalone Point.

Her husband, Steve Miller, 27, also aboard the sailboat, is still missing.

"The body is beyond visual recognition. We have tentatively identified her as a Jane Doe. However, it appears likely it is Mrs. Miller," a coroner's deputy said today.

The deputy added that the body can be positively identified either through fingerprints or dental charts.

The body was discovered about 8 a.m. at the cove, between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach. The Millers' water-filled boat had been discovered farther south, off Abalone Point.

When the boat was found, the body of the Millers' 3-year-old son, Shawn, was found in the cabin.

An autopsy revealed that Shawn died of drowning.

The Millers moved to Costa Mesa only three weeks prior to the fateful sailing trip. Miller had purchased the new boat only two weeks before taking the overnight cruise out of Newport Harbor.

CHP Officers Save Driver In Costa Mesa

Kendall, 58, is in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Santa Ana's Mercy Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack and losing control of his car on the Newport Freeway Sunday night.

A CHP spokesman said the car was northbound on the freeway and plunged down an embankment near the Paularino Avenue offramp in Costa Mesa when Kendall suffered the seizure at about 9:30 p.m.

Patrolman Robin Hanson spotted the car at the bottom of the slope and ran down to give aid. He found Kendall lying on the seat on the passenger side of the small foreign car. He had stopped breathing.

Hanson pulled the driver out of the car and began applying mouth to mouth resuscitation until Kendall started breathing raggedly.

Santa Needs Lawyer?

Breaks CAB, Antitrust Rules Every Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Santa Claus had to follow the same federal regulations as everyone else, he would be filling out forms or hiring a lawyer now instead of preparing for his trip south on Chrismas eve.

"The list of possible law violations by old Saint Nick is staggering," Rep. M. G. "Gene" Snyder, (R-Ky.), commented in a letter to constituents.

"It may be necessary for him to retain a lawyer or receive executive clemency if he is to make his traditional Christmas visit on time."

Among the federal violations which would land him in a heap o' trouble, Snyder said, are:

— Flying across the heavens without certification by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and without filing a flight plan.

— Breaking Labor Department regulations for minimum wages for the elves in his toy shop, and possible occupational safety and health violations if they don't wear hardhats.

In addition, Snyder said, the Food and Drug Administration might award a grant to the National Science Foundation to determine if Rudolph was being fed an unauthorized drug to make his nose light up.

And, "not to be outdone, the Internal Revenue Service has instigated an audit to find out if over the years Santa has been declaring as taxable income the cookies and milk that are left for him by the children of the nation," the congressman said.

Ford Manager Blasts Reagan

President Ford's campaign manager openly berated former California Gov. Ronald Reagan during the weekend, apparently breaking a political truce between the two candidates not to criticize each other.

Howard Callaway, Ford's campaign manager, labeled Reagan's campaign "a Hollywood facade" during an appearance Saturday at the Southern Republican Conference in Houston. He also said Reagan would lose the California primary because of his record as governor for eight years.

'76 Autos Cost More

Ford Hikes Prices

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a second round of price hikes on its 1976 model cars that will amount to $113 — two percent — on the average equipped automobile. (Related Editorial Page A6)

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford vice president for sales, said the prices are effective Jan. 5, 1976, and are "necessary at this time to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment."

The increase amounts to $97 — 2.2 percent — on base vehicles and $16 on optional equipment — 1.6 percent. The increase on the average equipped vehicle, with options that most people buy, worked out to $113, Bidwell said.

In October, when Ford introduced its 1976 models, it said it was raising prices on its average equipped cars $247, a figure the federal Cost of Living Council said actually worked out to $269.

There was no immediate indication whether the other three U.S. auto makers would follow Ford's lead in a second round of price hikes so early in the model year.

New government-mandated vehicle safety standard which will increase costs require an improved hydraulic brake system on cars and three-point lap and shoulder belts for light trucks, both effective Jan. 1, 1976, Bidwell said.

The federal agency said the four companies increased prices on the 1976 mdels by $222, compared with the whopping $630 price increase for 1975 models that sent Detroit's auto makers deeper into a slump from which they are just recovering.

Besides the increase in car prices, Ford said the base price on light trucks would be increased $123, or 2.8 percent. On the imported Capri, the sticker price will be jumped $118, or 2.8 percent.

Bidwell said that in the three model years preceding 1976, costs of more than $350 a vehicle have not been recovered with price increases.

"Further, our 1976-model price increases at introduction time recovered only about 60 percent of expected 1976-model cost increases, and even with this latest increase, we will not recover all of our 1976-model increases," the Ford executive said.

Slice of Orange

Costa Mesa History Related

A new edition of "A Slice of Orange," the history of Costa Mesa, is to be published soon.

It is being tagged a bicentennial edition, and the printing of 1,000 copies is being sponsored by the Costa Mesa Jaycees and the Costa Mesa Bicentennial Committee.

Bicentennial committee member Hank Panian said that nearly all the copies have been sold, but it is still possible to place an order by sending a check for $11 or $20 to the Costa Mesa Jaycees, Box 1694, Costa Mesa, 92626.

Those paying $20 will have their names printed in the back of the book as sponsors. The check must be received by Wednesday.

The book was written by Edrick J. Miller, a member of the city's Finance Department, who wrote both the original edition, printed in 1970, and the revised edition.

The City of Costa Mesa has ordered 300 copies of the new edition, for distribution to schools, libraries, and to visiting dignitaries. The city paid $10 a copy; the normal $11 fee includes a $1 handling charge.

The bicentennial committee has several other projects in the works as 1976 draws near.

— A poster contest organized by the Orange Coast College art department attracted 36 entries. The winner, yet to be named, will receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond.

— The poster will announce the staging of a fine arts competition open to all elementary school children in the city. The competition, on the meaning of the bicentennial, will be held in January.

— Jan. 16, when an Americanization class taken by prospective citizens at Orange Coast College concludes, the Bicentennial committee will present certificates of appreciation to all class members.

— Artist Thelma Hope Paddock is working on a commissioned painting of the Estancia adobe, the historic landmark in the city. The city will buy the painting for $200.

— The bicentennial committee is working with the fire department on the possibility of selected fire hydrants in the city being painted red, white, and blue or in the form of revolutionary figures during 1976.

— Also in 1976 an essay competition will be conducted for all high school students on, "How the Declaration of Independence Has Affected My Life." Three $500 prizes, for trips to the East Coast, will be offered.

"What we are trying to do is to reach all levels of society with the bicentennial message," Panian said.

Mesa Council Eyes Olympic Pool Request

A request for an Olympic pool at Costa Mesa High School appears to be the most significant topic on the agenda for tonight's meeting of the Costa Mesa City Council.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the council chambers at 77 Fair Drive.

Last month the boosters of a 50-meter pool urged the city to consider a joint agreement with the Newport-Mesa Unified School District.

The council indicated that the question would be pursued further through its liaison committee with the school district. Council members also asked for more information on the maintenance and heating costs of a 50-meter facility.

Another potentially controversial topic on the agenda is a request for a hearing on a general plan amendment by attorney Donald Smallwood, representing Nabers Cadillac.

Recently a general plan amendment to change three lots on Princeton Drive near Harbor Boulevard from low density to commercial was rejected by the City Council.

Smallwood is seeking the rehearing on the grounds that the auto agency wants to change the application to only one lot instead of three.

The previous proposal was strongly opposed by residents of the College Park Homeowners Association.

California Department of Transportation staff members up in a rented helicopter to show them the excavation. "They were impressed," he said. "It was the first time they had seen the problem from 200 feet up. I took them down into the hole."

Fellow public officials and staff members at city hall see the benefit of such public relations helicopter flights. But Hammett's love of flying —he is chairman of the city's aviation committee—has apparently gone beyond use of rented helicopters.

He has frequently flown in one of the police helicopters, and efforts by his friends and colleagues to discourage him have not been successful.

Police Chief Roger Neth said that he issued an order "a long time ago" that Hammett is not to fly a police helicopter. "If he wants to fly one he has to rent one," Neth said.

But estimates are that Hammett goes up in a police helicopter once a month, sometimes once a week.

Hammett agreed today that he flies in a police helicopter as often as he can, but said that he always sits in the right seat, the instructor's seat. But he added that the helicopter can be flown from either seat, and admitted that there have been times when he has taken the controls.

Hammett, a reserve police officer, said that he often rides in a patrol car and he fails to see the difference between that and flying in a helicopter.

"I have a right as an elected official and as a police reserve officer to become aware," he said. I am more aware by being part of the boys."

He agreed that he goes up in a police helicopter every chance I get."

"That's a tool we paid for," he said. "Let's face it. The police helicopter does not chase burglars all day. I go up there to see what's going on," adding that such flights are useful in surveying the possible effects of planning issues.

"I feel everyone on the council should be out on some activity with the fire department or the police department, so long as they don't take anything out of service.

Hammett said that he does not go up in a helicopter when the police are engaged in an emergency, but he noted that he is qualified to operate a police radio and once when he was up an emergency call came through and he, Hammett, handled the radio and the searchlight.

Mayor Alvin L. Pinkley said that he has felt uneasy about his council colleague's helicopter rides.

"It's an advantage to show the hole in the road, but if Jack does that it will be in a rented helicopter," Pinkley said. "I don't feel anybody should be flying in the police helicopter."

Neth added that Hammett has never flown in a Folice helicopter and been the pilot in command. "He has always taken the right seat, the observer's seat," Neth said. "If he were to take the controls, he would still not be the pilot in command."

Bologh Files Again in Mesa Council Race

Theodore C. Bologh, a general machinist, is the latest person to take out nomination papers for the Costa Mesa City Council election March 2.

Three seats will be at stake in the vote. So far 19 residents have taken out papers for the election, and five have returned them, signed by 20 registered voters, to become official candidates.

Ex-postmistress MacGinitie Dies

Florence A. MacGinitie, a resident of Costa Mesa for 43 years and a former postmistress of Corona del Mar, died Sunday at the age of 79.

Mrs. MacGinitie was active in Harbor Area affairs for many years. She was a member of the Harbor Star chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, and was a member of the White Shrine. She was the postmistress of Corona del Mar in the late 1930s.

A memorial service for Mrs. MacGinitie will be conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday at Pacific View Chapel, Newport Beach. Interment will follow in the memorial park.

She is survived by her sons, Edwin Anderson of Costa Mesa, Guy H. Anderson of Galt, Calif. daughter, Patricia A. Schindler, of Newport Beach, ten grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Contributions to the Heart Fund or a charity are asked in lieu of flowers.

Mrs. Larrabee Of Mesa Dies

Mrs. Lahoma C. Larrabee of Costa Mesa, a clerk in the admissions and records office at Orange Coast College, died Saturday. She was 61.

Services will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Pacific View Chapel, Newport Beach, with interment following in the memorial park.

Missing Decimal Soars Panel Cost

An article carried in Sunday's Daily Pilot under the byline of Judy Rosener, member of the South Coast Regional Coastal Commission, said costs of operating the seven coastal commissions was $25 million. This was a typographical error. The figure should have read $2.5 million.

Optional PE Survey Studied

When Newport-Mesa school trustees meet Tuesday night, they will learn what students, teachers, parents and local doctors think about optional physical education.

Surveys have been sent to the above groups. While the results were still being tabulated today, district officials said they expect to have the final figures for trustees at the school board meeting, 7:30 p.m. in the Lyceum Theater at Costa Mesa High School.

For the past few months, trustees have been grappling with the problem of whether or not to allow an optional physical education program.

The problem results from a new state law, effective Jan. 1, that allows individual school districts to decide if juniors and seniors at their high school campuses may choose other classes instead of physical education.

At Tuesday night's meeting, the school board is expected to decide whether to allow second semester seniors to have the optional program when the second semester in February begins. If so, it would be a trial program.

However, trustees may wait until next spring to decide whether to extend the option to more students for the 1976-77 school year beginning next September.

Already, trustees have heard presentations by students who favor the option. And, sophomores, juniors and seniors already polled have indicated 82 percent support for optional physical education of one type or another.

Freshmen students were recently polled, too, and their responses will be revealed Tuesday night, along with those of parents, high school teachers and local physicians.
