

Miners Trapped In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — An explosion ripped through a major coal mine in northeastern India Saturday, setting off flooding that trapped hundreds of workers, according to reliable reports from the scene. The men were feared dead.

Official sources in New Delhi said 250 to 300 miners were caught in the shafts of a colliery, but other reports reaching here said at least 700 workers might be trapped with little or no chance of survival.

The disaster occurred about 160 miles northwest of Calcutta in Bihar state. The area is a key mining region comparable to the Appalachian region of the United States.

More than 10 hours after the disaster, only four bodies — and no survivors — had been extricated from the mine, which caved in as waters from a nearby reservoir roared down the shafts following the explosion, according to sources in Patna, the capital of Bihar.

"It may take days to pump out the water," said one authoritative source in Patna.

Mining experts said that even if some men had survived the initial explosion, they would have died in the subsequent flooding and the accumulation of carbon monoxide in the shafts.

The national and state governments began a massive rescue operation, but there was no immediate word of any breakthrough.

The Press Trust of India initially carried a dispatch from Bihar saying nearly 900 miners were believed to have been trapped in the colliery.

Indian censors ordered the story killed, and the government issued a brief statement saying only that "due to some accident followed by some inundation, a number of underground miners are trapped in the Chasnala Colliery in Dhanbad district of Bihar."

The chief minister of Bihar, Jagannath Mishra, later issued a statement saying that 250 to 300 workers were in the mine and

Body of Girl Found; Man Jailed

VISALIA (AP) — Sheriff's deputies said a farm hand found the stabbed, unclothed body Saturday of Donna Richmond, 14, of Exeter. A 35-year-old man was reported to have been arrested.

The body was found at 3:30 p.m. in an orange grove near the Friant-Kern Canal, about a mile and a half from the victim's home. Her clothing was identified by her mother.

An autopsy was scheduled. It was not determined at the time the girl was found whether she had been sexually molested, officers said. She had been stabbed in the neck, chest and abdomen.

Kilroy's Ketch

Flying everything but the skipper's windbreaker, the ketch Kialoa, skippered by Newport Beach's Jim Kilroy and campaigning under the flag of the Royal Akarana Yacht Club of Los Angeles, leads 102-yacht fleet down the east Australia coast Saturday in 630-mile run from Sydney to Hobart. Fresh wind that nudged Kilroy's order to crack on all sails put the Kialoa out in front early on the warm summer's day that greeted yachtsmen Saturday in their down-under running of the 31st annual Sydney-to-Hobart yacht classic.

Six Firemen Hurt In Orange Blaze

A pre-dawn blaze of unknown origin demolished an Orange bar Saturday, injuring six firemen and drawing fire fighters from two neighboring cities and the county.

Orange Fire Department Battalion Chief Robert Brown said the fire was reported at 3:51 a.m. at The Outhouse & Co., 119 S. Glassell St. He said he did not know who reported the fire.

Five fire engines and two trucks from the Orange Fire Department raced to the scene, aided by task forces from Tustin and Santa Ana. Units from the Orange County Fire Department were on standby in case any other emergency calls were received in the city.

Brown said the fire was extinguished in less than an hour. Five firemen suffered minor injuries and a sixth, Stanley Mozer, 24, of Orange, was hospitalized for smoke inhalation.

No one was in the bar, which had closed at 2 a.m., Brown said.

No dollar estimate of damage was available, but the one-story structure was completely destroyed.

Doctors Vote For Slowdown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors at eight Los Angeles hospitals have voted to limit or even halt service effective Jan. 1 in protest of skyrocketing malpractice insurance rates, say their chiefs of staff.

Emergency cases would be accepted, however, they said in a statement made public Friday.

Doctors at St. Vincent's, Good Samaritan, California, Midway, Queen of Angels, Orthopedic, Hollywood Presbyterian and Temple hospitals took the vote because malpractice insurance rates were "impossible" burdens for doctors and patients alike, Dr. Daniel Silver, spokesman for the chiefs of staff, reported.

Missing Baby Back; 2 Jailed in Kidnap

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Anaheim police early today recovered a six-month-old baby kidnaped on Christmas Day. Two suspects were arrested early this morning.

Police said they were aided by a man who, when he heard about the kidnaping on the radio, realized that the suspect-babysitter and the child were probably the same pair he had picked up hitchhiking and helped to find shelter.

The man led Anaheim police to an address on North Ross Street in Santa Ana, where they arrested a couple and rescued baby Jason Richard Simmons at about 1:10 a.m.

The couple's names were not immediately known. The baby was reported in good condition.

The bizarre story began Christmas Day. Jason and his mother, Karla Simmons, 20, of Lake Elsinore, were visiting a friend in Anaheim.

Several people, including the mother, decided to go out for groceries. A girl hitchhiker known only as Connie, who had arrived earlier with a man who had given her a lift, volunteered to babysit.

When the others returned 15 minutes later, she and Jason were gone.

The pair were later reported seen at a hospital. The unidentified man who aided police said he had taken them there for emergency shelter, then driven them to the Santa Ana apartment.

Ford Okays CIA Man's Hero Burial

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford believes the publication of a CIA agent's name was partly responsible for his slaying in Athens and he is concerned about the lives of other agents "whose cover might have been blown," a White House spokesman said Saturday.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen also reported that Ford has waived certain restrictions so the slain agent, Richard S. Welch, can be buried in Arlington National Cemetery next Friday.

"He certainly died in the service of his country," Nessen quoted the President as saying at his Christmas vacation headquarters here. Nessen also disclosed Ford is close to a decision on overhauling the nation's intelligence-gathering apparatus.

Welch was shot outside his home in an Athens suburb Tuesday after an embassy Christmas party. The slaying immediately became an issue in a current controversy over public exposure of CIA activities, because Welch had been identified as an agent in the Athens Daily News and Courier.

Nessen was asked about pro-

Charred Kids Killed by Mom?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two young children whose charred bodies were found Friday night in a garbage-strewn Harlem lot were beaten to death, an autopsy showed Saturday.

The children's mother and her boyfriend, who reported them missing on a Christmas shopping trip, were charged with their murder.

Acting Chief Medical Examiner Dr. Dominick Dimaio said an autopsy showed that 2-year-old Rodell Mackall died of body contusions and blows to the face.

He said the boy's 4-year-old half sister, Candy Cunningham, succumbed to contusions of the body and also choked while being assaulted.

"There's no doubt there is sufficient evidence to account for contusions from a beating," Dimaio said.

Dimaio said he could not tell whether the beating had been administered with hands or by some instrument.

The children's mother, Mrs. Debra Mackall, 20, and her 30-year-old boyfriend, Albert Forte, were booked early Saturday on double homicide charges.

Queens Chief of Detectives Edwin Dreher said it was believed the children were slain in the Queens apartment which Mrs. Mackall and Forte shared, and then taken to Harlem in an auto.

The bodies were found in a narrow lot in a cardboard box that had been set afire after being doused with a flammable substance, Dreher said.

He said the children had been dead for "three or four days" before being found.

Dimaio said the children were set afire after they died.

A tearful Mrs. Mackall told police Christmas Eve that she and Forte were shopping at a department store with little Rodell and Candy when they disappeared.

Mrs. Mackall said the two children had been left in one part of the store while she and Forte went to get "surprise" Christmas gifts and when they returned, the youngsters were gone.

Police repeatedly searched the store and called in bloodhounds and a helicopter but could not locate the children.

Dreher said investigators began to grow suspicious when they learned from neighbors that at other times "the mother had struck the children."

First Female to Head Planners 'Loves' the Heat

The following is not, and does not purport to be, the definitive and well-rounded story of the Orange County Planning Commission today. It is a profile of a strong personality who has made both enemies and admirers among the plaintiffs who come before her as chairman of one of county government's most powerful agencies.

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Shirley Grindle is on the hot seat and she loves it. As chairman of the Orange County Planning Commission (and, incidentally, its first female leader), she is caught between environmentalists and developers, between homeowners and businessmen, each wishing a fair share of the pie.

Mrs. Grindle is now to tread this fine line because she has nothing at stake financially or politically.

"I am not beholden to anyone. No one can buy my vote," she said. "At one point, I was to vote against the people in my own neighborhood."

The Orange resident added that she believes the county is lacking in leadership because too many elected officials are worried about where their next campaign dollars are coming from.

She therefore has "no intention" of running for office until public financing of campaigns has been achieved. "I don't want to be beholden to anyone. I couldn't live with myself," she repeated.

"The rough decisions aren't being made for fear of retribution," she claimed.

An outspoken woman who is highly motivated to achieve, Mrs. Grindle has made her planning commission post a full-time job and spends many hours "doing her homework."

She was first appointed to the commission by Supervisor Ralph Clark in 1973 and now feels she is seasoned enough to be a good leader.

"It takes six months to a year of experience to be able to run a meeting. You have to know what's coming up on the agenda and be very alert at all the meetings, which last six to eight hours."

"You have to control the meeting. It's very touchy because there are hot political issues. Everyone has to have a fair say, but you can't let them get out of hand."

"You have to know when to cut them off. The man who loses will usually blame you."

Mrs. Grindle's homework consists of going out to see locations that are being discussed, talking to people on both sides of the issues and reading the tremendous stacks of documents concerned with each issue.

Her phone starts ringing at 7:30 a.m. and keeps on until 10 p.m. because "the homeowners and developers know I will help them work their problems out."

A graduate of UCLA in aeronautical engineering (the only woman in her class), Mrs. Grindle discovered early in her life that she was a self-motivated, achieving kind of person.

She took all the science and math classes at Wilson High School in Long Beach simply because they were difficult and she wanted to prove she could do it.

"It was rough. It was unnatural," she noted, "but I had tremendous drive."

All her coursework led her to engineering, even though she scored in the 35th percentile on her aptitude tests and 90 percent or over in the other areas.

Law was the most promising field for her, according to the tests, but she was determined to make it as an engineer.

After traveling, attending three other colleges and graduating from UCLA, Mrs. Grindle entered a very sophisticated field, plasma arc re-entry, which dealt with testing space vehicles to see if they could withstand the heat on re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

The test facility she headed (again, she was the only woman in charge of a test facility) was rated the best in the United States and did 80 percent of the business during the space era.

During the last five years of engineering, she found that it was getting boring, so she was ready for a new challenge in the form of sand and gravel.

"I bought my first home in Orange and discovered that a sand and gravel company wanted to get zoning for a gravel pit nearby," she related.

Fighting the zone change was the adventure she had been looking for, and it changed her odyssey into county government and citizen participation.

Until this time, she was a very "passive" citizen. "I didn't take a newspaper. I didn't know what the board of supervisors was. I didn't vote."

But through the fight, she said, she became aware of the "inadequacies of local government" and saw a place for herself, a person who could be "aggressive, independent, sift out the flak and work with both sides of an issue."

Since she had saved her money, and since she "doesn't live high on the hog," Mrs. Grindle was able to completely leave her engineering career and now supports herself and her son on the planning commission salary.

She believes local government needs "a lot more people" like herself, people who are educated, "realize that this is a world of compromise, and can fairly assess things."

DR. SEBO SEES ELECTRIC CURRENTS IN THE OCEAN

After 4 Rose Bowl Trips, a New View Of Woody's OSU

After four consecutive trips to the Coast to play in the Rose Bowl, Coach Woody Hayes and his Ohio State University Buckeyes just may have seen more of (and know more about) Southern California than some local residents.

But, for the record, there is more to OSU than a powerful football team that spends the holidays in Pasadena each year. The school has the largest single campus in the nation (49,984 students in Columbus) plus satellite campuses that enroll another 4,545.

OSU actually is 16 colleges offering 8,500 courses in 250 programs. Master's degrees are offered in 112 fields; doctorates in 85. Research is under way on 780 projects in 109 fields.

These include checking out a theory by Dr. Stephen A. Sebo, electrical engineer, that the use of temperature differences between cold and warm ocean currents could develop an alternate energy source.

And Dr. Samuel A. Corson, OSU psychiatrist, is harnessing another kind of power—the power of dogs to absolutely love a master or mistress. Experiments with extremely disturbed patients seem to prove that this kind of ego-strengthening relationship (between dog and person) eventually leads the sick person into better human relations.

You probably won't see any of this on TV Thursday afternoon at the Rose Bowl. It's all part of the "other" OSU.

Solzhenitsyn Says West Faces Failure

PARIS (UPI) — Exiled Soviet writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn said today the fate of western civilization will be decided within the next few years and democracy might lose because westerners are no longer ready to die for liberty.

"The western world has arrived at a decisive moment," the author said in an interview with Le Point magazine which named him its Man of the Year.

"It will gamble during the next few years on the existence of the civilization it created. I think it doesn't realize this."

"You have the impression the democracies can last," he said. "But democracies are islands lost in an immense river of history. The water is always rising."

"You have forgotten the meaning of liberty. When you acquired liberty in the 18th century it was a sacred notion . . . That you have forgotten. Time has eroded your notion of liberty. You kept the word but fabricated another notion: liberty without obligation and responsibility which results in enjoying possessions."

"Nobody is ready to die for it."

He added, "No political or military combination will save you (but) if the leaders of the East feel in you the least vital spark for liberties still living in you, if they understand you are ready to sacrifice your life at that second it will be they who lower their arms."

"Each time you have really showed your resolution — at Berlin, Korea, Cuba — each time the Soviet leaders have retreated. The battle is not between you and them, but between you and yourselves."

that "heavy casualties" were feared.

Newsmen in Patna stuck by their earlier accounts, saying that they had been told by officials that nearly 1,000 men were in the mine.

The worst mine disaster on record occurred at the Honkeiko Colliery in Manchuria, China, on April 26, 1942, when 1,572 miners perished, according to the Guinness Book of World Records.

Indian newspapers have reported two other mining accidents in the past 10 days at Bansol in neighboring West Bengal. Three people were killed in one accident Dec. 18 and a fourth person died Dec. 21, they said.

A mining expert in New Delhi who has visited the Chasnala Colliery said the mine employed several thousand persons and that 700 workers would represent an average shift.

Shirley Grindle on Hot Seat...

"We must keep in mind also what is best for the most in the long run. It is a frustrating job, since there are no answers for a lot of questions."

Mrs. Grindle believes Orange County's two biggest problems now are air quality and transportation, particularly in the yet-to-be-developed Orange Coast areas (southeastern portion) of the county.

She optimistically said that "at worst, that area when it is developed, will be better than what has happened here (the older sections of the county)."

"Open space is required, but people bring problems. That's what our democratic way of life is all about."

She also believes property taxes should be revamped so that people are taxed on current usage, instead of the land's "highest and best potential."

And, her problem-solving abilities have enabled her to "sift through the bureaucratic crap" and use common sense to find some money-saving solutions.

One example of this is her investigation of hillside road standards. She found that the developers building in the hills had to put in the same wide roads as were required on the level ground, and by changing to smaller roads, thousands of dollars have been saved.

Teen Boys Crash Stolen Car in Viejo

A joy ride in a stolen car by two boys, 13 and 14, ended violently in Mission Viejo Saturday after the boys led sheriff's deputies on a chase at speeds above 70 miles per hour.

No one was injured in the 3:30 p.m. incident, a sheriff's spokesman said. The two youths, one from Mission Viejo and the other from Garden Grove, were taken into custody.

A sheriff's spokesman said the pursuit began when a deputy sheriff spotted the car near the intersection of La Paz Road and Chrisanta Drive and learned that the vehicle had been stolen in Newport Beach.

The deputy chased the car, lost sight of it briefly in a housing tract, then caught sight of it again and gave chase, aided by a second sheriff's patrol car.

The second car ended the short but high-speed chase moments later when it rammed the rear end of the stolen vehicle under the La Paz interchange with Interstate 5.

Both vehicles suffered heavy damage.

Downed Families Sought in Rockies

GRANBY, Colo. (UPI) — Parka-clad searchers riding snowmobiles headed into the snow and wind-swept mountains of Rocky Mountain National Park Saturday to check emergency locator signals which may have been transmitted from a downed plane with nine persons aboard.

The Colorado Civil Air Patrol said a twin-engine Mitsubishi, carrying five adults and four children, vanished Friday during a mountain snowstorm. The chartered plane was en route from Denver to a resort ranch near Granby.

Temperatures in the area dropped to zero during the night, but the reading did not reflect the chill factor brought on by winds gusting to 50 miles an hour.

"Two planes were able to get up today and picked up signals from an emergency locator near Milner Pass in Rocky Mountain National Park," said CAP spokesman Lt. Dick Darden.

"The Grand County sheriff has 20 snowmobile-equipped men in the area, along with CAP ground teams which are equipped with electronic locator equipment."

Darden said the search for the missing twin-engine plane was one of the largest in recent Colorado history.

"This is a massive effort," Darden said. "I've never seen anything like it."

The plane, piloted by Lee Hollingsworth, president of the Denver-based Star Aviation Co., left Stapleton International Airport at 2:30 p.m. Friday on a 30-minute flight to Granby. Those aboard the plane planned a vacation at the Little King Ranch.

The passengers, all from the Los Angeles area, were identified as Stuart Nelson, 42, his wife, Myrna, 36; their two children, Tiffany, 5, Sabrina, 2; Mrs. Nelson's mother, Bobby Ross, 60; Gary Nuhivrian, 28; Bob Peterson, 10, and his brother, Richie, 9.

Nelson is head of Stuart Nelson Enterprises, Inc., of Beverly Hills, a men's clothing design and manufacture business.

The parents of the Peterson children were aboard a second plane which also flew from Denver to Granby. That plane arrived safely.

"It was completely overcast and snowing when the plane reached the Granby area," Darden said. "The pilot said he was going to fly to the north and try to find an opening in the covering, and that was the last we heard from the plane."

The plane is missing in the gress Ford is making on his plan to make some changes in the CIA and other intelligence agencies.

He said just before Ford left Washington on Tuesday for his eight-day skiing vacation that his staff gave the President "a very large pool" of recommendations. He is studying it and is moving toward decisions.

Nessen said he did not know how soon it would be before the President makes recommendations, but that it wouldn't be while he is in Vail, where he will stay until next Tuesday.

Heavy snow was falling on this mountain resort as Ford headed for the ski slopes for the fifth straight day. There was poor visibility on Vail mountain, and the President said he planned to cut his skiing to about two hours.

Asked if the snow would hamper his skiing, Ford told reporters: "It sure will, but it's fun."

area of Trail Ridge Road — the highest highway in the nation with more than 10 miles above Timberline. The road has been closed since October because of snow.

Visibility was listed at seven miles and the overcast was reported at 4,000 feet at the time of the plane's disappearance. The bad weather extended into Saturday morning when the snow began to lessen, and the CAP was able to get its search planes into the air.

Authorities said snow in the area is at least two feet deep with drifts up to six feet.

Fire Sears 250 Acres

RINCON (UPI) — Capricious winds up to 60 miles per hour drove a brush fire over more than 250 acres of coastal land in an oil lease area near here Saturday, but firefighters gained the upper hand before any structures were damaged.

The blaze, of unknown origin, erupted at the Continental Oil Co. lease on the east side of the Pacific Coast Highway near this popular surfing spot at midafternoon.

The fire was declared 75 percent contained before midnight with full containment expected early today.

Eisenhowers Visit Japan

TOKYO (AP) — David and Julie Eisenhower are pausing in Japan en route to China on a visit arranged by Mrs. Eisenhower's father, former President Richard M. Nixon.

The couple arrived Saturday from California where they had spent Christmas with the Nixons at San Clemente.

Japan Air Lines, which is handling the Eisenhowers' flight arrangements, said it had been asked by the U.S. Secret Service to withhold information on their schedule.

The line has a Monday flight to Peking.

The Orange Coast can't boast of the sparkle of starlight on snow, but it does have some striking illuminations for the holiday season this year, including some that shimmer invitingly on the water.

Top displays were selected by community groups and nominated for the "40 Miles of Christmas Smiles" competition sponsored by the Orange County Coast Association and the Daily Pilot.

Winner of the "Christmasville" title was the light display at Huntington Harbour.

A number of other commercial and residential homes present a charming spectacle for the evening driver with a little holiday leisure time.

Winners in the residential category of the contest were: 1. Kenneth Evens, 702 St. James Place, Newport Beach; 2. Emil Roth, 6102 Ocean Front, Newport Beach; Honorable Mention, Al Brashear, 16439 Shadbush, Fountain Valley.

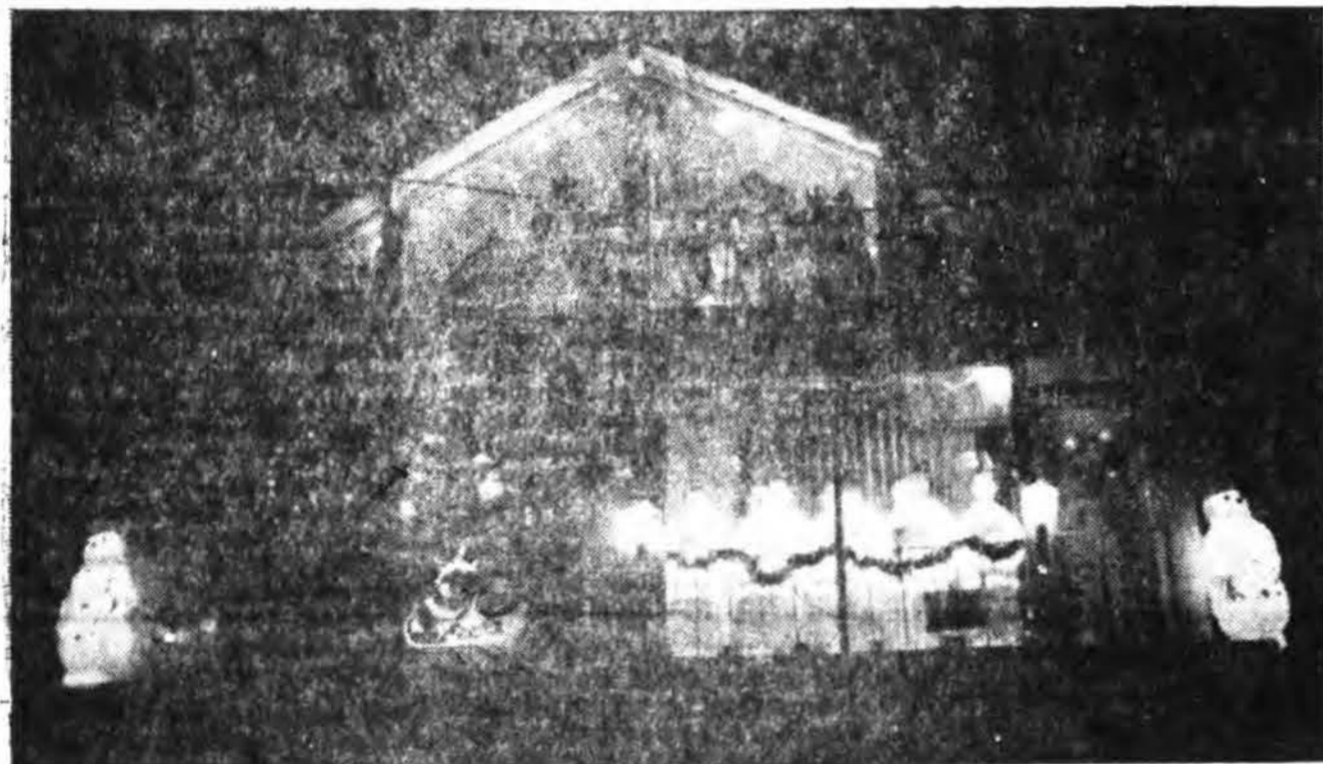

Finalists in that division include Kirk Ellison, 3911 Finisterra Dr., Huntington Harbour; Mildred Aguilar, 33251 Paseo Mono, San Juan Capistrano; Margaret Jones, 8332 Castilian Dr., Huntington Beach; Ed Garnett, 9152 Kahukui Dr., Huntington Beach; R.L. Jackman, 21401 Pinetree Lane, Huntington Beach; and William McDowell, 432 Agelita, Corona del Mar.

Winners in the commercial category were: 1. Chicken Little's Emporium, 574 S. Coast Highway, Laguna Beach; 2. Celasco Industries Inc., 3333 Harbor Blvd., Costa Mesa; Honorable Mention, Flowers By Morri, 448 E. 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Shootout at Car Pool Cops Make War Over Who Drives on Patrol

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A policeman and a policewoman were wounded Saturday in a shootout during an argument over who was going to drive their patrol car, police say.

Investigators said Walter Kalberer, 34, was in fair condition at Flint's Hurley Medical Center after being shot in the left thigh by his partner, Madeline C. Fletcher, 20.

Miss Fletcher was shot once in the chest and was in the intensive care unit at Hurley. Police said it was not yet clear whether Miss Fletcher was shot by Kalberer or other officers at the scene.

Miss Fletcher, who is black, and Kalberer, who is white, were not regular partners, but they were assigned to the same squad car Saturday, police said.

Police Chief Herbert Adams said he is satisfied after preliminary investigations that the incident was not racially motivated.

Capt. William Bannister, commander of the Patrol Bureau, said: "As far as we can determine now, it was not a racial confrontation or a sexual one. It was just a dispute between two officers."

Police said the argument over who would drive began as the two officers walked to their patrol car, parked behind Flint Police Headquarters, at the beginning of their shift Saturday morning.

Miss Fletcher got behind the wheel of the vehicle, and Kalberer tried to forcibly remove her, investigators said. Kalberer then decided to go into the station and get the shift supervisor, police said.

Miss Fletcher got out of the car, approached her partner and swung her night stick at him, police said. Kalberer, in turn, pulled his night stick and knocked Miss Fletcher's stick to the ground.

Police said Miss Fletcher started to walk away, but turned, pulled her gun, a .38-caliber revolver, and fired two or three times, striking Kalberer once in the leg.

Kalberer fired four times at Miss Fletcher, police said.

Adams said at least three other officers were in the vicinity when the shooting took place and two of them fired at Miss Fletcher when she allegedly pointed her gun at them.

Adams said it was not clear which of the officers fired the shot that struck Miss Fletcher, but state police were conducting ballistics tests to determine from which weapons the shots were fired.

Miss Fletcher finished her one-year probationary period Dec. 15. Kalberer is an eight-year veteran of the force.

Holiday on Ice: It's 'Really Neat'

It was his first visit to any ice show, so impressions of Master Titus reported here after he saw Holiday on Ice can hardly be called a "review," but his translator, Tom Titus, carries a byline familiar to review readers who frequent the pages of the Daily Pilot. And he just may have helped his son a little bit in this first literary effort.

By TIMOTHY TITUS

I really don't know how to start this out, 'cause I've never been to an ice show or anything before — 'cause, after all, I'm only 2½ years old.

But anyway, my daddy took me and our family to see Holiday on Ice at the Anaheim Convention Center 'cause he was going to write a review on it like he does on all those plays. I'd never been to any plays or anything, but he said I could see the ice show 'cause on account of it has all the characters from my favorite TV program, Sesame Street.

Well, it really was neat — especially the Sesame Street part when all the Muppets took kids for a ride around the ice, and I got to go too. When you're only 2½, that really makes your whole day. I was riding with the Cookie Monster, and he's my very favorite, I guess 'cause I like cookies.

Anyway, Daddy said I could write the review, but I had to tell about everybody and not just the Sesame Street part. But that's no problem, 'cause the whole thing was really neat. I guess, next to Sesame Street, I liked the funny painters the best. Daddy said they were Paul Andre and Dick Ganobsek, and they were his favorites too.

I can't count that high yet, but I think there were 32 beautiful girls called the Glamour Iceers who were really great, especially in their last number. Precision skating, Daddy called it, like the Rockettes at Radio City Music Hall, wherever that is.

And there were a lot of terrific skaters who did kicks and twirls and all that stuff — Jimmy Crockett, the world's champion, Cathy Mishkin and Don Bonacci, the best couple act, and Patrick McKilligan, who dressed up in red, white and blue and really tore up the ice.

But I really liked the funny stuff, like the two clowns Biddy and Baddy (who were really Gigi Percelly and Steve Pedley), and the monkey — no kidding — a chimp called Charlie who jumped over hurdles and everything.

Like I said before, my favorites were the Sesame Street characters, but I think Daddy liked Jill Shiptad best. At least he sat up real straight in his seat whenever she came on.

I really hope Daddy takes me to another ice show sometime. I bet they're more fun than all these plays he goes to. You'll probably think so too, but if you want to see it, you'd better hurry 'cause there are only two more days left before it closes Tuesday night.

Marine Okay After Days In 'Fridge'

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — A 21-year-old Marine was in good condition Saturday after spending 29 hours wedged inside a refrigerator. Police said he told officers he climbed into the refrigerator Christmas Day in an attempt to kill himself.

Patrolman Dan Gougler said Randy Scott Hales was found about 1 p.m. Friday by a maid who heard loud noises coming from the ice box at a motel. Hales told police he got into the refrigerator about 8 a.m. Christmas Day. The appliance was not airtight, police said.

Gougler said Hales told him he had not eaten in four days and that he was absent without leave from Camp Pendleton. Police said military authorities had been notified.

The policeman said Hales was found in a squatting position and "has sore knees and can't walk too well, but I think he has come away from this with a new outlook on life."

Pickets Turn Kennedy Away

SNOWBIRD, Utah (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, (D-Mass.), who refused to cross union picket lines at Sun Valley, Idaho, moved his family skiing vacation to Utah Saturday.

Snowbird resort said it was expecting Kennedy, his wife Joan and their three children. Jackie Onassis and her children were scheduled to join the senator today or Monday.

Kennedy limited himself to cross-country skiing at Sun Valley to avoid crossing picket lines of 13 striking bus drivers.

United Transportation Union drivers went on strike against Sun Valley Co. Dec. 13.

Where There's a Will...

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Warren Spannaus has filed suit against a Utah couple trying to sell California probate documents in Minnesota.

Named in the suit were Washington Services and its two owners, William and Edith Robertson of Washington, Utah.

Spannaus said they have been sending letters to Minnesota residents, telling them that "research" indicates the Minnesotans may be heirs to unclaimed estates in California.

Spannaus said the only research involves a search of city and telephone directories to find Minnesotans with the same last name as the deceased person.

Letters urge the recipients to send $15.45 to the Robertsons for legal forms and instructions on how to make a claim.

In some cases, Spannaus said, Minnesotans are told about estates which involve living persons for whom guardians have been appointed. In such cases, even legitimate relatives could not inherit money or property since the owners are still alive, the attorney general said.

The suit in Ramsey District Court seeks an injunction against deceptive statements and asks repayment of all money paid by Minnesotans to the Utah firm plus the cost of the state's investigation and a $25,000 civil penalty.

Among other things, Kuretsky said, the Utah mailings say that claims must be made within a week or two while in fact a true heir would have five years to make a claim against an estate in California.

A court hearing is scheduled Jan. 7.

Craft Advisories Out Winds Expected to Gust Up to 35 mph

U.S. Summary

Rain, snow and cloudy skies will cover much of the country today as temperatures fall in many areas.

The National Weather Service said rain will fall from Oklahoma and Texas into Kansas and western Tennessee. Rain will also fall along the north Pacific Coast, where some flooding is already reported, and it will be mixed with snow over the northern Plateau.

Partly cloudy conditions will prevail over most other parts of the nation. Temperatures will be colder over the New England states, the Rockies, and the southern Plains. Some warming will be felt in the lower Mississippi Valley.

Today's weather continues a pattern of widespread unsettled conditions.

There was light precipitation Saturday over portions of the Midwest and the northeast. Snow, snow flurries and shower activity reached from the northern and central Appalachians into the upper Mississippi Valley.

A travelers' advisory was in effect throughout the country Saturday, causing winds of over 40 miles an hour in the northern Rockies. Afternoon temperatures across the northern states were mostly in the 20s and 30s, except for readings in the teens around Lake Superior.

The Gulf Coast and southern California reported temperatures in the 60s and 70s.

Temperatures around the nation at midday ranged from 76 in Burbank to 41 at International Falls, Minn.

California

Fog that intermittently closed down Los Angeles area airports and harbor Saturday is forecast to linger along southern California today and Monday.

But otherwise, U.S. Weather Service experts predicted sunshine, slightly warmer days, and gusty winds of up to 35 mph throughout the southern.

Drifting fog shut down Los Angeles International Airport twice Saturday morning and brought ship movements in Los Angeles Harbor to a complete standstill for nearly four hours.

U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts tab winds of up to 25-30 mph in canyons and up to 30-35 mph in mountain areas through this afternoon, and then decreasing tonight and early Monday.

High temperatures will range from the low 60s in the mountain and high desert areas, in the mid-70s in Los Angeles and along the coast, and into the high 70s in the southern deserts and intermediate valleys.

Nighttime lows will drop into the 25-30 range in Owens Valley, but are forecast for the low to mid 40s elsewhere, including most mountain and high desert areas.

Small craft advisory displayed for outer coastal waters from Point Conception to the Mexican Border.

Winds outside the Channel Islands northwesterly decreasing to 8 to 15 knots today and tonight. Winds inside channel islands west to northwest and 8 to 15 knots this afternoon otherwise tight and variable nights and morning hours.

Wind waves 1 to 3 feet except mostly smooth seas inner coastal waters through tonight. Swells westerly 3 to 5 feet locally to 6 feet decreasing to 2 to 4 feet today and tonight. Patches of fog and low clouds south coastal waters tonight otherwise variable high clouds through tonight.

SANTA MONICA BAY AREA, O R A N G E C O U N T Y METROPOLITAN AREA — Low clouds and fog this morning. Otherwise fair through Monday.

Locally gusty winds below coastal canyons north to northeast 15 to 30 mph decreasing tonight. Warmer days. Overnight lows in 40s. Highs in low 70s.

LOS ANGELES — Mostly sunny and slightly warmer today and Monday. Some fog along the coast early this morning. Local gusty north to northeast winds 15 to 25 mph below canyons decreasing tonight. Highs today near 74 and on Monday about 76. Lows in mid 40s.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MOUNTAIN AREAS — Mostly sunny today and Monday. Gusty northerly winds 15 to 25 mph tonight and Monday. Slightly warmer days. Highs at resort levels 63 to 67. Overnight lows 38 to 45.

Another Battin Bobble

Another chapter in the how-silly-can-it-get book on Orange County government was written last week. Its author, not surprisingly, was Supervisor Robert Battin of Santa Ana.

Battin, under indictment on charges he used his office improperly to gain re-election, decided he had to get the goods on his arch enemy, District Attorney Cecil Hicks.

To Battin, getting the goods meant digging up some dirt on Hicks. He thought it would be a good idea for the county to underwrite such a project by appropriating $15,000 to hire a private detective agency.

Battin even knew a good agency to suggest, Jack Webb and Associates of San Francisco.

He knew about this agency because Battin's close political pal — wheeler-dealer Dr. Louis Cella — already had used the Webb firm to spy on — surprise! — District Attorney Cecil Hicks. Cella had spent something over $6,000 in a private venture to find out something improper about Hicks.

It wasn't clear if the San Francisco gumshoes had reported they were on the trail of something hot and needed more cash to run it down, or, perhaps, Battin just wanted the county to finance another fishing expedition.

What was clear was that Hicks' office had been responsible for pursuing improprieties of a number of Orange County political figures — including Battin and Cella — and this makes him less than popular in certain circles.

It was also clear that such use of county funds was grossly improper itself and the other four supervisors found little reason to support the Battin request.

But even the turn-down had its silly moments. Supervisor Laurence Schmit, himself a recipient of campaign favors from Cella, voted against the Battin measure not because it was inane and wrong but because it wouldn't be in the holiday spirit.

With remarkable tolerance, Schmit said, "It is the Christmas season and I for one am not going to do anything for two weeks."

Considering some of Schmit's own displays of his supervisory talent, the county perhaps can find cause to be happy for his vacation from mental or moral decisions and only hope that he considers extending the hiatus through 1976.

What really matters is that the batty Battin proposal got nowhere and quite correctly was rejected by the Board of Supervisors.

Judge Not Above Law

The State Bar of California wants to adopt a rule forbidding any candidate for judge from criticizing any decisions made by the incumbent he's running against.

Incumbent judges don't often have trouble getting re-elected. Once in office, they stay there unless they have been guilty of bizarre behavior or radical wrongdoing.

More ordinary reasons for removal — drunkenness or plain incompetency — often are kept from the public by the self-protection instincts of the legal profession.

For these reasons, and because the rule very likely violates constitutional guarantees of freedom of expression, the proposal is not a wise one.

A judge is an important part of legal process, but he isn't himself above the law any more than any other citizen. He should be able to stand by his decisions if they are criticized.

Angola: Just One Red Pressure Point

WASHINGTON Behind the congressional rush to tie the Ford administration's hands on Angola lies a more ominous problem now hotly debated at highest levels: how can the United States compete against the political offensive of its rival superpower, the Soviet Union? That political offensive is certainly not centered on rich, strategically placed Angola. The newly independent state on Africa's west coast is only one example of Moscow's offensive. The Kremlin's battle plan includes rising pressures on Yugoslavia, more complete economic domination of Eastern Europe and political economic forays almost everywhere the world map reaches.

ANGOLA, in the view of high administration officials, exactly defines the agonizing problem of how the U.S. should respond. As such, it reflects a superpower in decline, still recovering from the Indochina debacle and unable even to approach the speed and unity of its reaction to Soviet pressure after World War II.

THE STAMPEDE to isolationism by anti-administration Democrats such as Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, a leading presidential candidate, seems politically expedient, compounded by dangerous ignorance.

In a Nov. 28 statement, Bayh equated U.S. involvement in the brutal civil war in Angola with "intervention" by the Soviet Union, Cuba, Communist China and South Africa. He also equated small (up to $50 million) U.S. aid for anti-Soviet political movements with incomparably larger U.S. involvement in the earliest stages of the Vietnam war.

In fact, the Soviets for years have financed the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) in the absence of any U.S. involvement at all with any other Angolan faction. Washington's policy had been to support the Portuguese whose original plan for slower Angolan independence was wrecked by the 1974 revolution in Portugal.

The congressional rampage against President Ford's comparatively modest efforts to slow the MPLA's rise to total political power carries ominous implications for the whole world, not just the "third" or uncommitted world. It symbolizes U.S. inability to respond to Soviet challenges because of the ravages of Vietnam and 10 years of internal political upheaval.

Actually, it is extraordinarily difficult to prescribe the correct U.S. reaction to the Soviet challenge in Angola, including its portentous decision to use 3,000 Cuban troops and technicians. That helps explain the decision of Nathaniel Davis, now ambassador-designate to Switzerland, to resign as Assistant Secretary of State for African affairs.

DAVIS objected to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's decision to send clandestine aid through CIA channels to neighboring Zaïre for use in the civil war against the Soviet-backed MPLA. He reasoned that the Soviets were too far ahead in Angola for any other political faction to win, particularly with Peking withdrawing once Angola achieved independence.

Many U.S. officials agreed with Davis. But Kissinger and the President agonized over the world political impact of the U.S. appearing impotent to challenge Soviet penetration of one of Africa's most strategically important countries. He opted for U.S. aid, not really hoping it would change the course of the civil war but seeking to enhance the non-Communist bargaining position for a political solution.

Such subtleties are entirely lost on Sen. Bayh. He and other Democratic presidential hopefuls appear intent on cashing in on the tragic legacy of Vietnam. They show no interest in a U.S. policy to reassure a world fearful that the U.S. is fading as a superpower, leaving the field to the Soviet Union.

PRECISELY such fears strain the Washington-Peking connection. The Communist government of China, led by power-conscious realists, is far more worried than are the Birch Bayhs of American politics about signs of U.S. decline. So, too, are realistic Communist bosses in Yugoslavia, wary of rising Soviet pressures in anticipation of aging Marshal Tito's death; Tito has ordered a massive education program to remind all party cadres of heavy postwar Soviet pressure against Yugoslavia. Simultaneously, Moscow is tightening its hold over Eastern Europe. According to Communist sources, the Soviets feel more freedom today than before Vietnam to demand economic concessions from Eastern Europe.

In response, the U.S. has devised no sure way to slow the Soviet global offensive or make credible efforts toward slowing it.

Detente was enshrined in the theory that Moscow, like Washington, genuinely desires a mutual respite from costly and frequently bloody competition. Angola suggests Moscow has different fish to fry, a frightening fact which Birch Bayh may soon have to deal with.

The Art of Listening

There are two aspects to communication. One is output — the speaking and writing. Most of the concern with communication is directed towards improving the output: "How can I speak better?" "How can I get people to listen to me?" "How can I show her the error of her ways?"

We therefore find on every hand courses in communication, in effective speaking, in better business writing, in the arts of plain and fancy talk.

But the other aspect of communication — the problem of how to listen well — is a neglected subject. It does not avail a speaker to have spoken well if the listener wasn't listening, failed to understand, or believes the speaker to have said something he didn't say at all.

A common difficulty in conferences and committee meetings is what might be called the terminological tangle, in which discussion is brought to a stalemate by the fact that the parties concerned have different understandings of key terms.

SOMEONE says, "We need more discipline in our schools." What does he mean? Perhaps he means that pupils should get more homework and harder tests. He may mean that they shouldn't be allowed to run around and shout in the hallways.

He may even mean that troublemakers should be horsewhipped and expelled. But if you assume you know what he means without listening further to him, you may well find yourself arguing against something he didn't say.

Or someone may say, "I think Sen. Adlai Stevenson is a deeply conservative man." You can imagine how some people will react. "What? Adlai Stevenson? Conservative? Are you crazy?"

But terms like "conservative," "liberal," "progressive" and "reactionary" derive their meanings from the context of the issue under discussion — and the time when it is being discussed.

S. I. HAYAKAWA

And even if the issue is known, the answer is not always easy.

FOR EXAMPLE, is a vote for a given foreign aid bill "liberal" or "conservative"? What if Birch Bayh, reputedly a "liberal," votes for it, along with Sen. James Eastland, reputedly a "conservative," while the "liberal" Adlai Stevenson joins the "conservative" Sen. John Stennis in voting against it?

If we can learn to delay our reactions when confronted with statements such as, "Adlai Stevenson is a conservative," we give ourselves a chance to learn something — whether about Senator Stevenson, conservatism or the speaker.

Within the disciplined context of the natural sciences, exact or almost exact agreements about terminology can be established. But the words of general conversation and of political discussion are the language of everyday life — which means that words can mean different things to different speakers, or to the same speaker in different contexts.

This fact is to be neither applauded nor regretted. It is simply to be taken into account. And if you take it into account, you will be a better listener.

But a good listener does not merely remain silent. He asks questions, trying to avoid any suggestion of challenge or hostility, lest irrelevant emotions be aroused. The questions must be motivated by a real interest in the speaker's views.

THESE I CALL "questions for clarification." "Would you mind expanding on that point about...?" "Will you please restate your argument about...?" Perhaps the most useful question of all is, "I am going to restate in my words what I think you mean. Then will you please tell me if I've understood you correctly?" There are also what I call "questions of uniqueness." All too often we listen to a speaker in terms of a generalization about him, "Oh, he's just another progressive educator... just another black militant... just another small-time politician."

Once we classify a speaker in this way, we stop listening because we feel "we've heard that stuff before."

Questions of uniqueness prevent us from unconsciously denying the speaker a hearing. They take such forms as "How large is your school and what are your present disciplinary procedures?" "To what extent are the aims of your organization different from those of the Afro-American league?"

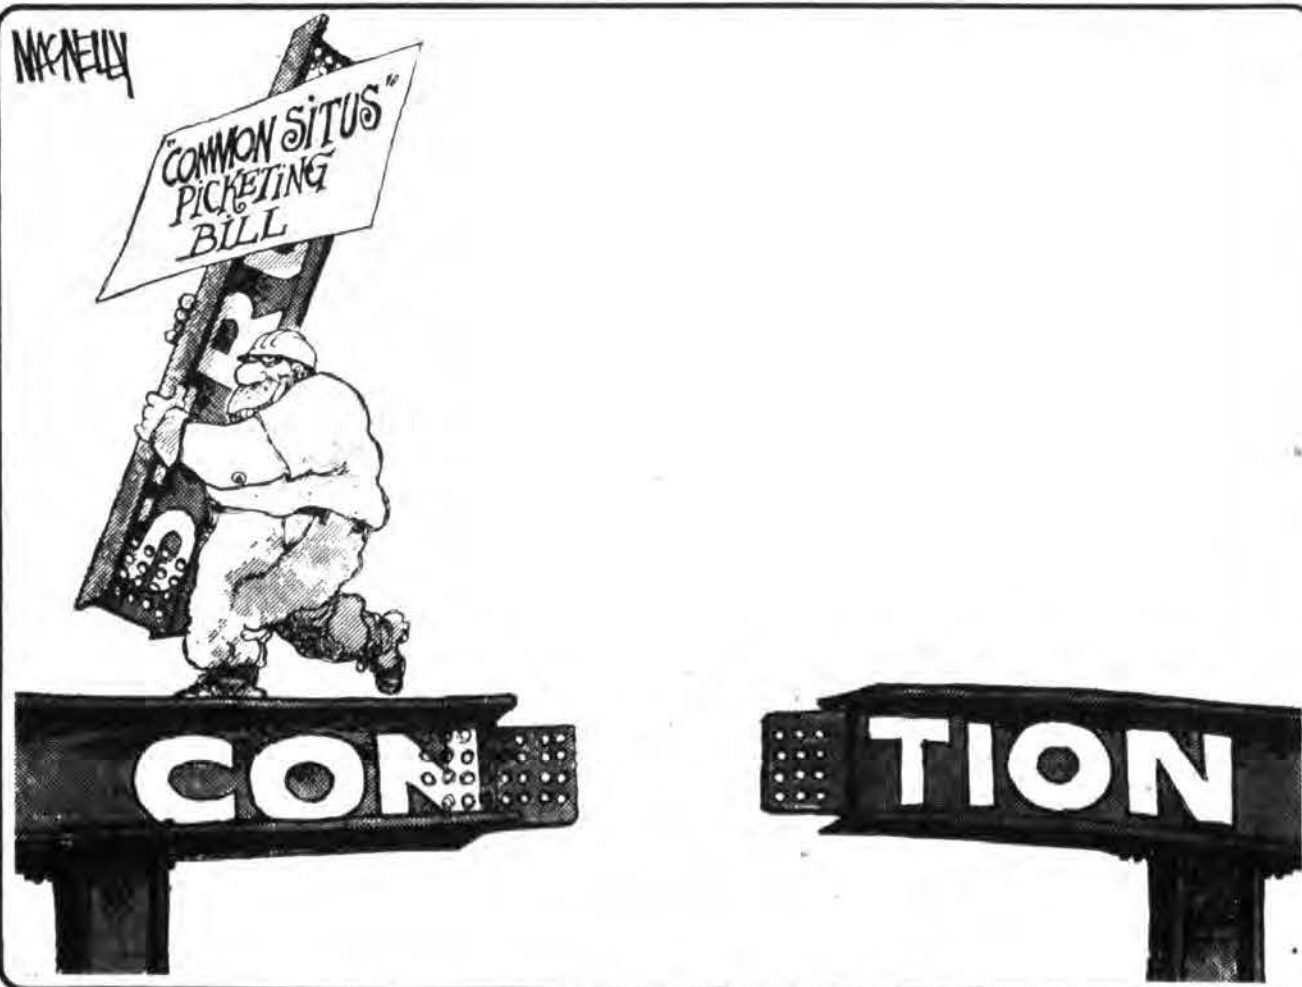

ALL TOO OFTEN the fact that misunderstandings exist is not apparent until deeper misunderstandings have accumulated on top of the original one.

We have all been at meetings at which Jones says something, Smith gives a heated response to what he mistakenly believes Jones to have said, and Jones tries to refute what he mistakenly believes Smith meant. In a matter of minutes the discussion is hopelessly mired in semantic quicksand.

At this point all others present might just as well adjourn to the bar, because it's going to take a long time to untangle the mess. This is what happens when people discuss not for clarification but for victory.

A good listener helps the speaker clarify — and sometimes correct — his ideas in the course of expressing them. Children become good communicators by virtue of parents or teachers who are good listeners.

A mother, therefore, is never wasting her time when she patiently listens to a child trying to explain something. She is helping the child to become an articulate — perhaps even an eloquent — adult.

Story Behind the Glomar Explorer

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press International

WASHINGTON — A point in the Pacific about 750 miles northwest of Hawaii probably will mark the permanent tomb of a Soviet prize once eagerly sought by the CIA, with results that are not completely known even today.

Three-fourths of the shattered Soviet nuclear missile submarine and most of its 86-man crew still lie nearly three miles down at the bottom of the Pacific.

The CIA apparently has abandoned any further plans to raise the submarine.

The Russians, who never acknowledged its loss or the partial recovery last year by Americans, have shown no intention of going after it, even if they had the technical means to make the attempt.

It was nearly seven years after the submarine exploded and sank that the bizarre story of Project Jennifer first broke into print last March, releasing a small group of reporters from an embargo imposed when CIA Director William E. Colby and other officials briefed them privately and individually.

THE REPORTERS, who had been asked to withhold publication in the name of national security, were told the CIA wanted to return for the rest of the submarine before the Russians learned about it.

The explosion came in June, 1968, while the 2,600-ton, diesel-powered submarine, only its conning tower awash, was recharging its batteries just below the surface of the Pacific.

A spark is believed to have ignited gases and ripped open the sausage-shaped hull, sending the 320-foot long submarine and its crew plummeting to the bottom. But not unnoticed.

Special receivers at U.S. Navy Fleet Headquarters in Hawaii picked up signals from a sonar hydrophone monitor, one of a network planted over much of the Atlantic and Pacific sea lanes to detect submarine and ship movements.

Long before the explosion, sonar receivers so sensitive they can eavesdrop on the mating of whales had heard the churning of the sub's propellers and automatically signaled Hawaii, which was able to take a "fix" on the craft's position.

Meanwhile, search ships were dispatched from Vladivostok, believed to have been the ill-fated craft's home port in the Soviet Far East.

SONUS AND U.S. spy satellites traced their movements to an area from which "Jennifer's" last messages had been heard.

But the CIA's scientific and technology division already had begun work on plans to go after the sub, its missiles, torpedoes, coding machines, logbooks and anything else salvageable.

It was a formidable task. Mitzar, a U.S. Navy deep sea reconnaissance ship using magnetic probes, found Jennifer 16,500 feet at the bottom. Nothing remotely near the size of a submarine had ever been recovered from this depth.

"This was a whole new ball game," a CIA official said later of Operation Jennifer. The intelligence agency's goal: to recover and study the first complete Soviet submarine in captivity.

"We had to start from scratch and build a system that could lift the boat and at the same time keep it hidden from Russian eyes," the official said.

WITH SECURITY the key, the CIA turned to the organization of billionaire Howard Hughes, whose name is synonymous with high secrecy and technological challenge.

"Mr. Hughes' name came up," a top CIA official told UPI. "We made a flat contract. They built the ship with our gadgets. Our frank estimate is that he didn't make any money. It was no ripoff."

A MONTH before, a burglary in Hollywood threatened to "blow" the operation before it started.

A team of four burglars and safecrackers looted the 7020 Romaine St. headquarters of Hughes' Summa Corp. and got away with confidential documents and $68,000 in cash.

Ten days later, a phone caller said the documents would be returned in exchange for $1 million. Hughes refused. Eventually one of the "contact" men was arrested in St. Louis.

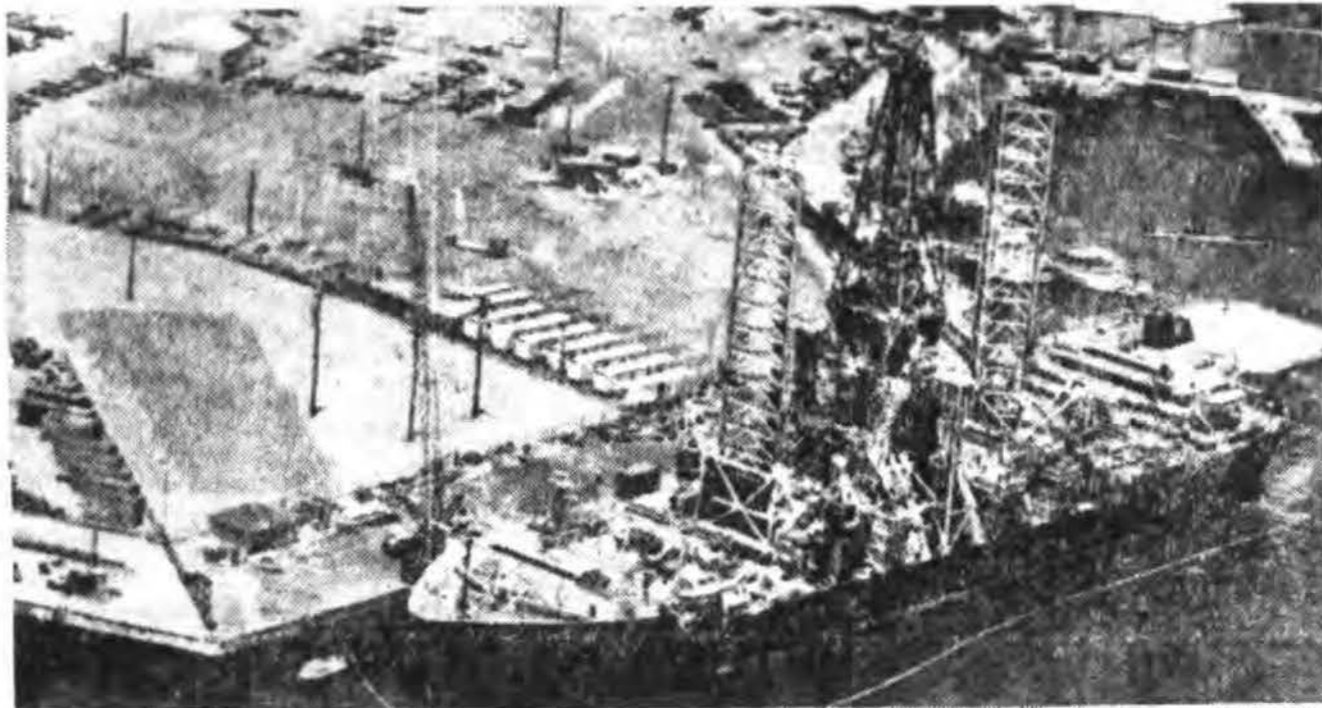

He was identified as Donald Woolbright, a former California used car salesman. He was indicted by a Los Angeles Grand Jury on charges of attempted extortion and receiving stolen property, and will go on trial Feb. 17.

The stolen documents were said to include details of the secret CIA-Hughes agreement on Operation Jennifer.

A composite of all known accounts attributed to the CIA before secrecy was reimposed claim the Glomar Explorer and its bulky barge had managed to raise the entire Soviet submarine about 6,000 feet when the hulk broke its back or a cable slipped.

The forward third was recovered along with some crewmen's bodies — different versions vary between five and 10 — parts of two nuclear-tipped torpedoes, and the detailed diary of a young officer undergoing nuclear weapons training.

The recovered bodies were buried at sea in accordance with the Soviet Red Fleet Manual. The ceremony was recorded on sound and color film.

UPI Telephoto

Howard Hughes' secret weapon, the Glomar Explorer, at home in Long Beach

Ray Cline, a former CIA deputy director, told UPI in an interview he was involved in the Jennifer planning several years ago.

"You never plan a secret operation without a cover story and a damage-limitation effort," he said.

"I remember speaking out about the importance of being fully respectful of the dead. I'm sure we would be glad to turn over this material if the Russians request it."

How much has the CIA told of Jennifer and how much has it concealed?

A high CIA official last March told a UPI reporter of the parts recovered: "We've seen it. We got some useful information, marvelous stuff."

But given the devious techniques of intelligence, "cover" stories and covers-within-covers, it is not unreasonable to speculate that all or almost all of Jennifer was recovered along with nuclear and cryptology material never before seen at close hand.

Salute to the 'Boss' — Drew Pearson

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — It wasn't long ago that investigative reporters were the pariahs of Washington journalism. The ruling institutions and their human instrumentalities were accustomed not only to having their way but to receiving only accolades from a press that, except in passing moments of upheaval, was generally docile and respectful.

At the turn of the century, political reporters in the nation's capital were likely to be prestigious, conscious peacocks who sported derbies, carried canes, practiced affections, wore grave airs and called themselves "journalists."

Should one of these learn accidentally that a high official was a dipsomaniac, an incontinent, a brawler, a bankrupt, an illiterate, an aberrant, a narcoleptic or a senile — the correspondent would not deign to report such distressing news for it would shock his peers, demean his professional dignity and breach the comfortable decorum of the gentlemen's club he fancied he shared membership in with the elect.

MY FRIEND and mentor, Drew Pearson, who would have been 78 this month, pioneered the Watergate-style reporting that has become the fashion today. Day by day, he flailed away at the malefactors of the age — imperialists, militarists, monopolists, racists, religious bigots, plutocrats, hypocrites, crooks in government and the swindlers and exploiters of the poor.

In his day, he was more than a menace to the Washington establishment; he was a shock, an affront, a betrayer who could be explained only in terms of a malignant perversion. To his targets, he took on the proportions of an inhuman monster and, by common acknowledgment, was feared and hated as no other reporter before or since.

SO OFTEN did secret conversations at high-level meetings appear in the Washington Merry-Go-Round that half of the Roosevelt and Truman cabinets were fearful that the other half was leaking to Drew. Secretary of State Cordell Hull once opened a cabinet meeting by exclaiming: "Is this for the room or is it for Pearson?" — a remark which was duly published in the column.

The character of the attacks regularly made on Pearson reflected unnatural animosity. Mere "liar," "cheat," and "scoundrel" would not do. Applied to him, the lexicon of banalities routinely bestowed on detractors was instinctively seen as inadequate. Modifiers were sought by frustrated men anguished beyond endurance to describe a preternatural scourge, a vile and unfathomable evil they had sworn to destroy but, having despaired of doing so, must endure.

YET, damned though he so often was, no other reporter or publicist could claim a following as massive or as loyal as his. Some read him mainly for the titillation they derived from seeing the private foibles of the famous made public.

But there were many others who genuinely admired him, who loved him for his championship of the helpless against the mighty, the duped against the dupers, or who lived vicariously through him as he smote the great malefactors beyond their humble reach, or punctured the sacred balloons of the day. Whatever the reason, millions paid him the ultimate homage of reading, almost every day for decades, what he had to say.

Yet the polecat in his hair was disarmingly hospitable. Sitting behind his paper strewn desk in a maroon smoking jacket, or in the bathrobe he wore some days until noon, amid pictures and mementoes of his much-loved family, with a black cat named Cinders preening companionably in the out box on his desk, he appeared not at all menacing.

THERE WAS a disconcerting drollery about him. He would introduce a topic with an inward smile that made his eyes crinkle, as if the subject involved humorous allusions with which I must be aware but invariably wasn't. His smile invited a like response, but he would not elaborate on its antecedent and so the spark of jollity would fail to ignite, and silence returned.

IT IS EASY in retrospect to see why, among those who did not share Pearson's goals or his Jeffersonian concept of the watchdog role of the press, he was despised and even regarded as a national menace.

During wartime, when government secrecy is invested with the halo of national survival, Drew's exposes of state secrets and military fiascos became particularly infuriating. Thus it was that, at the height of World War II, General George Marshall, the organizer and director of American armies around the globe, refused to move against Pearson.

"No," said Marshall, "Pearson is my best inspector general."

We could go on and on, filling this entire issue of The Progressive with brief excerpts from the horrendous catalog of official abuses against liberty and decency that have come to light in recent weeks. But what would be the use? . . . we are saturated, surfeited, with catastrophic disclosures. The danger is that we will be overwhelmed — that paralysis will set in.

That seems, in fact, to be precisely what is happening:

Americans learn that their Government has systematically spied on its own people, in violation of the law and the Constitution; they shrug. Americans discover that their civil servants have operated as an international gang of would-be assassins; they go about their business.

Americans are informed that federal agents have taken it upon themselves to badger dissidents, deprive them of their jobs, even wreck marriages; they look the other way.

The Progressive's roving editor, Milton Mayer, spent a year in Germany shortly after World War II, talking to Germans about their experiences during the Nazi years. He wrote a book about what he learned, and the title almost told it all: "They Thought They Were Free."

Like the good Germans, we continue to think we are free, while the walls of dossiers, the machinery of repression, the weapons of political assassination pile up around us. Where is the outcry? Where is the movement to restore our freedom? Who are the leaders prepared to insist that it won't happen here?

We hear the haunting final chorus of the movie "Nashville": "It don't worry me, it don't worry me. You may say that I ain't free, but it don't worry me." Is this to be the final epitaph of American liberty?

Bible Tells How to Clean Up Even Tattoo Sin

To the Editor:

Please suffer with me one more exposition on "Tattoos and Sin," since much confusion is aroused on the issue. Your Dec. 12 edition carried three pieces relating to the subject, all erring.

In Sydney Harris' "The Flesh and the Spirit," he seems to be saying that "indulgence or perversion (!) of the physical appetites" is a mild sin since "spiritual sins are infinitely worse." Let me assure anybody that sin is sin no matter the degree. "For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." (James 2:10)

THE TWO CRITICS of stands against tattooing use the same technique. They say that because the Marlboro Man, some servicemen, the ancient Chinese or an Indian chief engraved their bodies to call attention to themselves for "great status" makes it okay. Isn't this "pride"? Aren't we to put God first in everything we do? Christians must. The body is a transient vehicle that is not ours to do with as we please.

The question was asked, "Can you truthfully state that all who are tattooed are sinful?" The answer is an unequivocal "no," for it is not ours to judge, but the Bible encompasses that, stating, "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23), then quickly follows with the solution in the next verse. To achieve, all we need do is obey instructions in Romans 10:9-10, and we become "new creatures," old things pass away including the sin of idolatry. We don't have to carry the burden of guilt for sin. For this God gave us His ultimate gift, but we must accept Him — the season, is right!

DR. ARTHUR H. WHITE "Gum Shoes"

To the Editor:

On Nov. 10, 1975 Earl Waters presented a review of the private security industry which was not only hostile but was also inaccurate in many of its statements.

For Mr. Waters' and your readers' information the majority of the private security services are operated by former policemen most of whom were officers. These men maintain regular training courses as a part of their business. They have been working with the state in improving licensing requirements. In fact, these men and the California Association of Licensed Investigators have been responsible for the new law which he referred to in his article.

SINCE THE private sector is more attuned to crime prevention than detection and apprehension, no true comparison can be made of required training courses. We all agree that should a private guard pull his gun and be forced to use it, he should know when to do just that and he should be competent enough to hit the object at which he is aiming.

As to responsibility, civil law as well as criminal law applies to the private operative. Unlike his publicly employed counterpart, the private guard would not expect to be nor should he be in the active job of apprehending a criminal. He should be defensive as opposed to offensive as opposed to the police.

As a private investigator, not a guard operator, and a member of CALI I resent Mr. Waters' inference that my profession is inhabited by inexperienced "gum shoes." Many of our members (more than 350 owners) have college degrees, many years of experience, and high ethical standards. In addition to our experience we have passed an examination given by the state in order to qualify for the license. Most of us carry errors and omissions policies to protect others for any of our transgressions should such an event occur. Does Mr. Waters?

I DO AGREE with Mr. Waters on one matter. I feel all guards and investigators should be licensed, not just those of the independent operator. All "in house" guard services such as those maintained by large manufacturing firms, banks and super markets should be controlled by the same law. The same applies for the one client investigator, paralegal, and moon lighting law enforcement officer.

While there may be weaknesses in the present system, they are not of the magnitude indicated by Mr. Waters. A mandatory requirement that the private sector experience the same training requirements as the sworn police officer is not valid because of the difference in the basic philosophies of the two sectors.

HAROLD W. ANDERSON
Medical Suit

To the Editor:

So the lady from Irvine is suing her doctors and the hospital for more than $7 million because she became emotionally involved with the "baby" which was later diagnosed as a cyst. It is appalling that she will probably collect a few thousand dollars on her suit because the insurance company finds it less costly to settle out of court for a small amount rather than fight the case. In the meantime the rest of us pay higher physician and hospital fees because of the increasing cost of malpractice insurance.

I SUGGEST an alternate settlement: $1 for her pain and suffering and the opportunity to spend some hours as a volunteer at Rancho Los Amigos Rehabilitation Facility. The latter should take her mind off her own pain and suffering and perhaps make her thank God that hers was a problem which could eventually be diagnosed and solved. Those she sees at Rancho would gladly trade places with her for they come with broken bodies that no amount of money or physician skill can mend.

Iowa Courthouse Mover Volunteers

By MARGY McCAY
Associated Press Writer

The biggest thing Dave Grell has ever moved is a 48-foot-high corn crib. Now he's ready to haul an Iowa courthouse to California.

Grell, 32, read a newspaper account of California lawyer Dudley Gray, who wants to buy an Iowa courthouse, move it west and use it as a law office.

"I was just reading about this guy and thought I'd like to try it," said Grell, who runs Dave's Moving and Wrecking.

"Everybody thinks he's crazy. But nothing's impossible if you've got the time and money. I called him, and at first he thought I was a newspaper reporter, and he didn't want to talk to me.

"But I told him I do moving and wrecking and said I'd be interested in working on the courthouse with him," said Grell at his home in Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Gray, 53, a native of Whitten, Iowa, said he would pay up to $100,000 to buy an old courthouse.

"I grew up in Iowa, and I just love those old Iowa courthouses," said Gray, who now lives in Los Angeles.

At least two courthouses, one in Allison and another in Council Bluffs, are unoccupied, but contracts already have been let for their razing.

"He's still trying to figure out some way to get it lined up," said Grell. "Everybody thinks he wants to haul it out brick by brick."

"The main thing he's interested in is not the whole building, just the features like the steeple and windows

— just the fancy designs that make it look old. He doesn't want to use the brick over again."

Grell said his biggest project was moving a 48-foot-high corn crib about 40 miles.

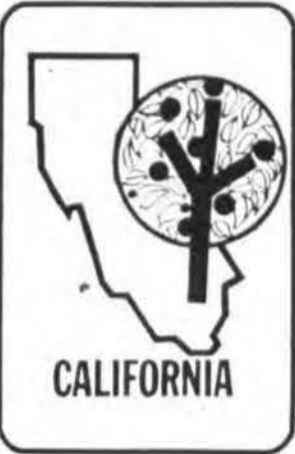

He was uncertain what it would cost to move Gray's courthouse. "But out of the clear blue sky, I'd say $40,000 to $60,000."

"It'd probably take three months" to dismantle the courthouse. "And we'd have to truck it all, because the railroad's too rough."

WOODLAND HILLS (UPI) — "It will certainly come in handy," Lee Jiron said Saturday after being notified he had won second place in the Irish Sweepstakes.

Jiron, a commercial and fine artist for the Valley News, published in Van Nuys in the San Fernando Valley, was notified Saturday morning by telegram of his sweepstakes $40,000 jackpot.

"I believe that's the minimum," Jiron said. "There's probably more to it than that."

"It's kind of a lucky thing. I wasn't figuring on it."

"I don't know about taxes," he said. "I haven't thought about it, yet."

Jiron was one of four Southern California residents to win in the sweepstakes.

Sacramento
'Palace'?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Next spring the California Highway Patrol will open a new $15-million academy on a 457-acre plot west of Sacramento — with no new cadets to train.

But CHP officials resist any comparison of their academy to Sacramento's most famous white elephant, the new governor's mansion that sits vacant because Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. refuses to live in it.

Even though there won't be any new cadets until at least July 1977 because of a hiring freeze, the new academy will have plenty of activity, the patrol says.

"It isn't a question of this nice, new academy plant sitting idle," says CHP spokesman Kent Milton.

It will continue to offer training to CHP and other law-enforcement officers, and the state Department of Transportation will use the academy's high-speed track for safety testing.

But the hoped-for 1976 class of 400 cadets won't materialize. In fact, the CHP hasn't had a new cadet class since last May, when the first coed class in the patrol's history graduated.

The hiring freeze stems from Brown's budget restrictions and his decision to transfer a vehicle inspection program from the CHP to the state Air Resources Board.

As a result, the CHP must eliminate 404 jobs by next July.

TV Medicine: Good Advice?

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — If you're the type who needs a regular dose of medical drama, the pharmacy that fills the prescription best is television. There's "General Hospital" and "The Doctors" during the day and "Marcus Welby," "Doctors Hospital," "Medical Center," "Emergency" and "Medical Story" at night.

But where do you turn if you're in need of medical fact, not fiction?

Your doctor? Sure — but while you are waiting for an appointment, take another look at the local television listings.

More and more TV stations around the country are putting on medical programs featuring real physicians discussing basic health care, often in response to questions phoned in by viewers.

THERE SEEMS to be no limit to the subjects most of them are willing to tackle: drugs, diets, heart attacks, gout, alcoholism, hypnosis, the common cold, child abuse, male menopause — you name it.

"Many people are reluctant to visit their physicians until they have to go," explains an official at the San Diego County Medical Association. "They are more prone to sit in front of the television set and pick up some medical information."

"Call the Doctor" on WCPO-TV in Cincinnati, "The Medicine Men" on KOMO-TV in Seattle, "Your Doctor Answers" on KFMB-TV in San Diego and "Doctors on Call" on WLWC-TV in Columbus all use variations of the question-and-answer format, with the questions coming from listeners or audience.

At KNBC-TV in Los Angeles and KIRO-TV in Seattle, doctors appear regularly on the nightly news programs to comment on medical matters and give health tips. And on "Good Morning America," ABC's morning news-entertainment show, Dr. Vivian Tenney answers questions mailed in by viewers.

A DOCUMENTARY approach is taken by "Medix," a five-year-old program produced by KNXT-TV in Los Angeles under the auspices of the Los Angeles County Medical Association. Winner of two local Emmy awards, the program is now syndicated to other stations.

Perhaps the most medical-minded station in the country is WCVB-TV in Boston, which utilizes not one but all of these formats under the direction of its medical editor, Dr. Timothy Johnson. He says: "We're a substitute for the family doctor of 40 years ago, when people had someone to counsel and guide them. Today they don't; they're making a lot of tough decisions on their own."

Johnson hosts a Thursday night medical program entitled "House Call," in which he and a guest physician spend 30 minutes discussing the topic of the week and taking phone calls from viewers. It is scheduled to be seen in other cities soon via syndication.

Johnson also does a weekly 10-15 minute segment for the six-station New England Network's "Good Morning" show produced at WCVB, appears twice a week on WCVB's evening news to report and comment on medical news, and produces hour-long medical specials.

IN ADDITION, the 39-year-old doctor tapes medical commentaries and health tips for WRGB-TV in Albany, N.Y., and was the resident medical consultant on "A.M. America" until ABC revamped the program and retitled it "Good Morning America."

Johnson and others involved in these types of programs say they exist because the American public is ravenous for reliable health care information. The need is further shown by the growing number of newspaper columns on medicine and medical programs on radio.

"There is a real problem in getting health care information," says Johnson, who also acts as director of lay health information at Harvard Medical School. For a variety of reasons, he says, many people no longer have relationships with a family physician or can't get one to answer all their questions.

Real Estate Questions/Comment

By Realtor Randall McCordle, Ph.D.

At one of your recent real estate seminars I heard you end your speech with "Don't Sell Me Things." I would like you to print it in your column or make and send me a copy. Thank you.

J.L. Santa Ana
I have had several requests for this and with the holiday season on us, it seems very appropriate.

DON'T SELL ME THINGS

DON'T SELL ME A HOUSE. Sell me a home. . . pride of ownership. . . love with sharing.
DON'T SELL ME CLOTHES. Sell me neat appearance. . . style. . . attractiveness.

DON'T SELL ME SHOES. Sell me foot comfort and the pleasure of walking in the open air.

DON'T SELL ME CANDY. Sell me happiness and the pleasure of taste.

DON'T SELL ME FURNITURE. Sell me comfort, cleanliness, contentment.

DON'T SELL ME BOOKS. Sell me pleasant hours and the profits of knowledge.

DON'T SELL ME TOYS. Sell me playthings to make my children happy.

DON'T SELL ME TOOLS. Sell me the pleasure and profit of making fine things.

DON'T SELL ME REFRIGERATORS. Sell me the health and better flavor of fresh-kept food.

DON'T SELL ME TIRES. Sell me freedom from worry and low cost per mile.

DON'T SELL ME PLOWS. Sell me green fields of waving wheat.

DON'T SELL ME THINGS. Sell me ideals. . . feelings. . . self-respect. . . home life. . . happiness.

Please don't sell me things.

I've paid for more than one policy of title insurance, but I've never had a good explanation of what exactly I am buying. How does a policy of title insurance help me? Thank you.

D.G. Irvine

A policy of title insurance protects you when you buy. Eliminates delays when you sell. Pays attorney fees and court costs in the event of litigation. Guarantees and insures against unknown or hidden defects such as:

1. Lost or forged deeds.
2. Deeds by incompetents.
3. Frauds as to marital status.
4. Claim of undisclosed heirs.
5. Recording errors.
6. Indexing mistakes.
7. Falsification of records.
8. Claims of children born or wife married after will has been executed.
9. Delivery of deed after the grantor has died.
10. Impersonation of record owner.
11. Other undisclosed risks.

County Homes Up $3,720 in Quarter

The average price of new homes in Orange County during the third quarter of 1975 was $55,920, up $3,720 from the second quarter, according to the Orange County Housing Market Bulletin, quarterly summary of residential trends published by Market Profiles, Santa Ana.

Containing detailed sales and inventory information, the bulletin is prepared as an aid for the lending, building and marketing industries. V. H. Cooper, senior associate for the national marketing, management and research consulting firm, said.

A DRAMATIC INCREASE was noted in prices of attached houses sold during the three-month period ended September 30, jumping from $42,609 in the second quarter to $49,080 in the third quarter, an increase of $6,480, or 15 percent.

The detached sector, however, remained relatively stable, experiencing a modest rate of $950 to a $61,350 average price tag.

Figures in the report compiled by Market Profiles were based on 236 developments currently marketing homes in the county.

SALES TOTALED 3,650 during the third quarter, a decline of 15 percent from the 4,304 reported sales in the previous quarter, but a significant increase over the first quarter, 2,878, and the fourth quarter of last year, 1,030.

Southern Orange County continued to generate the highest level of sales, its share of the market rising from 36 to 44 percent.

Residential inventory dropped seven percent from the second quarter figure, with attached housing accounting for 62 percent of the 4,623 units available. Of the total, 2,090 had been completed.

In outlining trends and summaries, the Market Profiles bulletin lists totals for three housing markets, showing northern, southern and western sections as well as the countywide totals.

Housing to Spur Economic Upturn

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The nation's economic recovery is in progress mainly because of the housing industry, the chief economist for the Mortgage Bankers Association of America declares.

John M. Wetmore, speaking at the annual convention of the Colorado Association for Housing and Building, said that contrary to prevailing views, the upturn in the economy was triggered by "consumer demand for single family housing."

WETMORE SAID sales of existing single family homes jumped from January to September by about 40 percent, and new homes sales from December to August increased 46 percent over last year.

He said housing construction still lags behind increased sales trends but that he expects it to catch up soon.

"The normal method for reducing excess inventory is to produce less than is currently being consumed. Once the excess inventory has been disposed of, production will rise to match current strong consumer demand," Wetmore said.

PRESTON MARTIN, former chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, told the conference a major shift away from government-backed assistance programs is forthcoming, and its effect on the housing industry will be significant.

Martin, president of PMI Mortgage Insurance Company in San Francisco, said, "The look to Washington will no longer suffice."

He said the housing industry will be faced with seeking alternative means of financing construction projects as a result of reform proposals being considered now by Congress.

Builders Boost VA Benefits

WASHINGTON — The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) has endorsed several proposals to rejuvenate the VA's housing programs, including a bill which would extend VA housing benefits to veterans who had served in the armed forces between the end of World War II and the beginning of the Korean conflict.

In a written statement presented to the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee, NAHB President J.S. Norman, Jr., of Houston, also supported a measure which would increase the maximum mortgage limit of the VA Direct Loan Program to $30,000 from $21,000 and to $35,000 from $25,000 in high cost areas. He noted that this program often constitutes the only way veterans can afford to buy homes in rural communities and small towns.

NOTING THAT the number of units built under the VA programs has fallen sharply in the last two years, Norman blamed the drop on extremely high interest rates, spiraling land, construction and labor costs and other inflationary pressures.

"High interest rates have priced the majority of potential home purchasers out of the market," he wrote. "In addition, the maximum mortgage and loan limits in many of the government programs such as the VA Direct Home Loan Program are just not realistic in light of today's costs."

Norman endorsed a proposal which would lower interest rates to 7½ percent for $5 billion worth of VA guaranteed mortgages. The current VA rate is nine percent.

UNDER THE proposed Senate bill, the $5 billion would come from the National Service Life Insurance Fund which currently invests in government bonds and securities.

"Permitting an investment of up to $5 billion in VA home mortgages at 7½ percent rate offers security and protection to the fund and an increased yield" and would make over 175,000 units available to qualified veterans, he said.

Norman also urged the VA to review its policy on sections of the Veteran's Housing Act of 1975 which authorize the VA to guarantee mortgage loans for the purchase of condominium units by veterans. Condominiums which maintain the right of first refusal and restrictions on leasing are ineligible for VA guaranteed mortgage loans.

Norman said that the VA's present regulations are eliminating from eligibility condominium units in California, Michigan and Florida, where there are existing projects with large unsold inventories.

Americans On the Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government survey found that during a one-year period, one in every five American households moved to another residence.

The mobility survey, released jointly by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Commerce Department, said that during a 12-month period ending in October, 1973, a total of 13.3 million families moved.

Families who rented were about four times more likely to move than those who owned their own homes, the study said.

The survey said nearly 75 percent of the nation's households had moved since 1960 and 40 percent of those had moved between 1970 and 1973.

Broker Explains Home Equity Turns Profit

Vince Caterino, broker and owner of Curtis Real Estate in Huntington Beach, has turned homeowner equity into a profitable venture for both himself and his clients.

By using a portion of built-in equity accumulated over the years by a home owner, Caterino turns this into a down payment to purchase another property for rental purposes. "It's purely an investment, but over a period of five years the client can realize as much as 100 percent on his initial outlay," said Caterino, whose offices are at 8865 Adams Ave.

CATERINO

HE EXPLAINS HIS program as offering total leverage insofar as the new property can be purchased with less than 10 percent of the property valuation. And Huntington Beach, he says, is an area that will show a rental return sufficient to cover the monthly payments.

After setting up an investment for the client, Caterino follows through with all the required legal and business details, he said, earning his fee from providing the service as a real estate broker.

"There's a lot of owner equity in the Huntington Beach area that is not being used. Curtis Real Estate office looks upon this as equivalent to cash that is not working," Caterino said. "With our concept, it is like putting money to work for the client."

CATERINO, WHO ENTERED real estate in New Jersey in 1958, turned over more than $500,000 in business the second month after opening shop in July of this year. He has been a realtor in Orange County since 1967.

"If a family purchased a home five years ago, today it would be worth $25,000 more than it cost originally," said Caterino, who relies on the steady appreciation factor in the Huntington Beach area for his profit figure.

tax rebate!

Expires Dec. 31, 1975.

On March 29 the President signed into law the Tax Reduction Act of 1975. In simple terms it means that on homes that qualify, you can receive up to a $2,000.00 credit on your 1975 income tax if you purchase a qualified new home prior to December 31st, 1975.

The trick is finding a new home you'd consider buying that qualifies.

At Village Walk and Newport Terrace our homes do! And not just a couple of obscure models either, but all of them. So there's plenty of selection. Both communities are established prestigious villages in the heart of the thriving South Coast area.

Village Walk features sexy, chalet-like, tri-level floorplans just moments from South Coast Plaza.

With exciting touches like soaring wood beamed ceilings, skylit lofts and rooftop gardens. Plus a sophisticated social life for the successful young at heart.

Newport Terrace is near the sea in Newport Beach. Here you'll discover luxurious 2 and 3 bedroom townhomes with fireplaces, beamed ceilings and dual master suites. And just for the fun of it there's a private 15-acre meadow, pools, sauna, jacuzzi, volleyball and a list of other adult playthings you won't believe.

If there has ever been a time to buy this is it because when these rebate qualified homes are gone there won't be anymore.

And besides, how many times have you seen Uncle Sam this generous?

Courses by Newspaper—Conclusion

America Moves On, Looking Back

This is the final "lecture" in the current semester's Courses by Newspaper series. The 18 articles in the series were especially written for the nation's bicentennial and explored themes of the American Issues Forum. The Daily Pilot will present another semester of in-paper studies beginning on Feb. 1 and continuing through May 30.

By MICHAEL E. PARRISH
Associate Professor, UC, San Diego

In America, novelist Thomas Wolfe wrote, "You Can't Go Home Again." Future-oriented, devoted to growth, expansion, and change, Americans have exhibited a curious attitude toward the past. On the one hand, they have perpetually moved to new land, new communities, and new tasks: a nation, as Mark Twain suggested, of Huckleberry Finns, eager to explore the next wilderness, impatient with conventions, traditions, and the status quo. At the same time, few societies display more nostalgia and sentimentality toward their history. Past events, actors, and situations are constantly evoked to measure the extent of national "decay" as well as national "progress." Anxious to escape the present, Americans have still taken to heart the philosopher George Santayana's famous aphorism that "those who do not learn from the past, are doomed to repeat it."

A comparison of the centennial and bicentennial years, Daniel Aaron suggested in the first article of this series, can help us to evaluate a century of national experience and to make some informed guesses about the future.

The centennial years, we have seen, were not happy ones for the country. Grant's administration ended in severe economic dislocation, political scandal, class tensions, and racial strife. Portions of the South remained under military rule, the last vestige of a Reconstruction policy ostensibly designed to protect the civil and political rights of blacks.

In the centennial year itself, the national government came to a virtual standstill from November 1876 to March 1877 during the disputed Presidential contest between Rutherford Hayes and Samuel Tilden. The capital hummed with rumors of conspiracies to subvert the Constitution. Then the crisis passed.

With Hayes inaugurated, economic and governmental machinery functioned again. America entered a generation of material growth, meat-and-potato politics, and of business as usual.

THE NATIONAL problems of those centennial years, differ only in degree from our current economic and political woes: "stagflation," the aftermath of Southeast Asia, Watergate, impeachment proceedings, and the resignation of a President. Have we now passed through another brief, national illness and commenced a new cycle of economic well-being, social tranquility, and business as usual? Or, rather, are we somewhere adrift in the middle of a more prolonged crisis that will revolutionize American values and institutions?

Despite analogies between centennial and bicentennial years, surely the American experience in the last quarter of this century will be fundamentally different from that of the last 25 years of the 19th. Few frontiers remain to be settled. Indians may skirmish with bureaucrats, but not with the U.S. cavalry; and no transcontinental railroads are likely to be built. Small businessmen and farmers show few signs of uniting to overthrow corporate monopolies; and whatever their felt wrongs, Afro-Americans probably will not again endure systematic disenfranchisement and official segregation.

On the other hand, certain American beliefs and practices, present in 1876 and 1976, may well persist through the next generation. They will provide continuity with our past, but function at the same time as major obstacles to reordering our relations with one another, with our society, and with the world. Sources of national vitality, these values and institutional arrangements are also sources of national weakness. At their core is the insistent American pursuit of individual fulfillment, often at the expense of mutual sacrifice and social cooperation.

In the pursuit of individual fulfillment, we treasure ethnic and cultural pluralism, political federalism, and voluntarism in the belief that they constitute the most important bonds of national cohesion. In large measure this is true, but as the Frenchman Alexis de Tocqueville noted in the 1830s and as the contemporary historian Robert Wiebe concluded in a recent book, what we call national strength remains, paradoxically, the desire of Americans to live apart from one another in isolated social compartments.

"I see," Tocqueville wrote about this country, "an innumerable multitude of men... constantly circling around in pursuit of the petty and banal pleasures with which they glut their souls. Each of them, withdrawn into himself, is almost unaware of the fate of the rest." America's present social order, Wiebe suggests, remains a collection of separate constituencies — economic, political, ethnic, religious — an interdependent nation, to be sure, but also a land of strangers.

Has not our melting pot been as much metaphor as reality? Anglo and Italian, Slav and Irish, German and Chinese, black and white, have been affected by a common technology and aspired to consume the same products. But they have attempted, for the most part, to live, marry, procreate, and die within the boundaries of their respective ethnic and religious groups.

CULTURAL AND ETHNIC pluralism has enlivened our politics and enriched our national literature. At the same time, it has stunted the growth of a collective life through religious intolerance, racial segregation, and ethnic hatred. The intense and narrow social environment which nurtured the genius of William Faulkner also spawned the Ku Klux Klan.

Except in times of extraordinary foreign or domestic crisis, ordinary Americans have successfully resisted the centralization of political authority and the coercion of individuals and groups required to achieve a common purpose. Only radical dissenters, as Alan Barth has reminded us, have suffered extreme repression.

Despite a century of strong presidents, of Square Deal, New Deal, Fair Deal, New Frontiers, and Great Society — each in turn enlarging the size and the scope of national authority — we retain our traditional political assumptions: local control, voluntary effort, self-regulation. Let those in our own community staff the draft boards. Entrust private charitable agencies with the task of dealing with natural and man-made catastrophes. Decry "federal power" and a "faceless bureaucracy" while sharing in its various practical benefits — unemployment insurance, food stamps, Medicare, relief payments, and Social Security among them.

Should local solutions and "voluntarism" prove inadequate, then try first to cure the problem at the state level. "One of the happy incidents of the federal system," Justice Louis Brandeis pointed out, was the possibility "that a single courageous state may... serve as a laboratory; and try novel social and economic experiments without risk to the rest of the country." Most of the 20th century social reforms, from workman's compensation to no-fault auto insurance, were introduced as state, not national measures.

Americans have paid a high price for their commitment to individual and local solutions within the federal system. The costs include a chaotic fiscal structure at all levels of government (how much of a program will be paid for by federal funds? how much by the state? how much locally?); inadequate regulation of a polluted environment; unequal welfare benefits; and a long tradition of wasted or duplicated efforts to cope with the general welfare.

FURTHERMORE, claims of local control and "grass roots democracy" have frequently been asserted to disguise or bolster efforts to protect entrenched groups. "Self regulation" has often served as an obvious mask for privilege — whether in connection with business interests, labor unions, or the learned professions. Those in control have sometimes managed to cloak the ruthless, the incompetent, and the greedy within their own precincts.

In the United States, so rich in resources and technical ingenuity, the boundaries of opportunity have seemed infinitely expandable, at least in theory. Until recent years, most Americans have not faced up to the serious contradictions in their value system or paid much attention to the limits of abundance, the persistence of poverty. We have not been forced to confront perpetually our basic differences or to think seriously about redistributing economic and social advantages on a basis other than competition. Always, with the exception of the Civil War, there seemed to be enough room or sufficient resources to compromise differences and console the vanquished. Losers, we assumed, could become winners, elsewhere in American time and space.

Reproduction Lectures Planned

IRVINE — Researchers at the College of Medicine at UC Irvine will present a seven-part lecture series on reproductive medicine in the UCI Extension program, "Scientific Medicine for the Layman" beginning Jan. 8.

The series runs eight Thursday evenings from Jan. 8 through Feb. 26. The course will offer a review of the anatomy and physiology of the reproductive system with particular attention to genetics and to the variety of disease processes that may affect this system.

Further information is available by contacting University Extension at 833-5414.

Candidates to Appear

By O. C. HUSTINGS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The five announced candidates for the 74th Assembly District seat being vacated by Newport Beach's Robert Badham have been invited to speak at a Jan. 13 meeting of the Irvine Coast Republican Women's Club.

Badham has chosen to run for Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's seat. Hinshaw, a Republican from Newport Beach, is currently on trial on bribery charges.

The candidates asked to the Republican Women's meeting at the Meadows Mobile Home Park Clubhouse in Irvine include Marian Bergeson, Bill Crosby, John C. Grace, Henry Quigley and Richard Wessman.

BECAUSE OF his legal entanglements, Congressman Hinshaw proved to be the only member of the county's Congressional delegation who didn't vote on the House's compromise tax-cut bill.

All the county's remaining Congressmen voted for the measure, which passed on a 372 to 10 vote.

One of the delegation, Democrat Jerry Patterson, said the tax cut extension was a "victory for the American taxpayer" in the continuing battle between Congress and the President.

He contended a stalemate would have hurt middle-income families the most.

ANOTHER county Congressman, Democrat Mark Hannaford, was part of a 25-member, bipartisan group of House members that recently sent a letter to House Speaker Carl Albert urging legislation to defray the cost of educating refugee children.

Hannaford said there are an estimated 43,500 Indochinese children in public schools, of whom about 10,000 are enrolled in California. He said some federal funds should be made available to pay for their schooling.

U.S. SENATOR Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) has lauded the Senate for passing his amendment to a federal highway funding bill that struck down a federal regulation compelling the states to force motorcycle riders to wear helmets or risk loss of funding.

Doctors Seeking Foreign Jobs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A medical job placement agency says it is being "flooded with inquiries" from U.S. doctors seeking assignments overseas to escape skyrocketing malpractice insurance costs.

The agency, Option, is conducting an advertising campaign which a spokesman says has produced inquiries from virtually every section of the United States.

In recent weeks Option has been "flooded with inquiries," spokesman Steve Conlan said in an interview. He said there were 230 responses last week alone, more than during a normal six-month period. He said most of the inquiring doctors say they would prefer countries in Africa and the Middle East.

Conlan noted, however, there is a problem with foreign pay scales. "We've got several hundred openings in foreign clinics and hospitals but only 10 percent of them offer competitive salaries," he said.

But "from the tone of the letters, I'm convinced physicians are seriously looking outside the U.S.," he added.

CONLAN SAID many of the letters came from California, where huge rises in malpractice-premiums have driven some doctors out of the state and others into early retirement. Local doctors' groups have staged work slowdowns to protest premium hikes scheduled for next year of up to 486 percent.

California's insurance commissioner recently ruled the rates could jump no more than 327 percent, but even so, yearly premiums may be as much as $20,000 for doctors in high-risk specialties such as neurosurgery. Protesting physicians have called for a complete withholding of non-emergency services beginning Jan. 1.

Two Los Angeles doctors interviewed said they are interested in the many available assignments which, according to Conlan, offer only subsistence pay or a small stipend for volunteer work.

Dr. Allen Priest, 36, who plans to leave a Los Angeles medical clinic in February, said he is looking into a hospital opening in Saudi Arabia.

No Custom Fitting for Readymades

DEAR PAT: Last June I ordered drapes and a bedspread from Drapery Fair in Garden Grove. The drapes were fine, but the bedspread was defective and too narrow. It was returned and another spread was delivered, which was too wide. I phoned the salesman and when he called back, I felt he was rude. He said I could sue him if I wanted, but he would not alter the second spread. All the spread needs is a two-inch hem on either side, which appears to be a minor adjustment to me. My letter to the owner was not answered.

V.M., Huntington Beach
Bob Prowl, manager of Drapery Fair, said that the bedspread you ordered was one of several standard sizes offered. When you thought the first spread size was too narrow, the next largest size was suggested. Prowl said that your salesman reported that the spread touched the floor, just as it should. He added that your letter was not answered because the matter had been discussed with you by phone and it was explained that no free adjustment could be made because the spread was not a customized order. Alteration on such a spread is not included in the purchase price. AYS checked with several firms and Drapery Fair's policy is proper business procedure. Only when a customer orders a custom-sized bedspread — at a much higher price — can he expect alteration.

State, Federal Tax Deductions Differ

DEAR PAT: Regarding your Nov. 14 item about deductions required for "casual" labor, the rules are slightly different between state and federal taxing agencies. The California Unemployment Insurance Code provides that wages are taxable for unemployment and disability insurance purposes and subject to disability insurance deductions when an employer has one or more employees and pays wages for employment in excess of $100 during any calendar quarter. When an employer attains subject status, as indicated above, he is a subject employer for two calendar years and all wages must be reported for the period and no minimum is applicable. Wages also may be subject to California Personal Income Tax deductions. The amount of tax deduction is determined from withholding tax tables available from our office (Employment Tax District Office, 28 Civic Center Plaza, Room 755, Santa Ana, CA 92701). Federal deductions must be determined from tables issued by the Director of Internal Revenue. Your reader indicated he had been advised that deductions are necessary if an individual earns in excess of $50 in 24 days. Under our code, this is applicable only if the services are in the course of the employer's trade or business, the minimum payment is $50 and the 24 days occur in the same or preceding calendar quarter (reg. # 640-1). The above information is applicable only to wages subject to disability insurance and California Personal Income Tax deductions. Ask your readers to phone 558-4201 or 558-4216 for additional details.

Jacque L. Coleman,
Tax Administrator

Other AYS readers requested a more detailed explanation of casual labor deduction regulations. Thanks for providing it and clarifying the difference between state and federal rules in this area.

Copper Cops a Plea on Health Claims

DEAR PAT: I sent $7.56 to Anthony Enterprises in San Francisco last July for two copper bracelets. The advertisement in Better Homes and Gardens for the "Copper Cure-All" said "by some magic mumbo-jumbo, copper gives aches and pains the brush off." A month after I placed my order, Anthony Enterprises sent a postcard saying that my order would be sent in seven days. I'm still waiting, and would like your help. I'd also like to know if there is any truth to these miraculous claims made for copper.

W.P., Fountain Valley

Anthony Enterprises now has mailed your bracelets. As for your inquiry about the health benefits of copper, they date back to Benjamin Franklin's time and early experiments with electricity. Some medical practitioners in the late 1700s believed that passing metal rods over the body would draw electricity and disease out of the body. The value of copper and other metals as a mysterious cure-all has never been proved or disproved. Most medical experts believe that an improvement in health and the wearing of copper jewelry is purely coincidental. The Postal Service has filed numerous complaints against companies that make medical claims for copper jewelry. No case ever reached trial because each company signed a consent order agreeing to stop making specific medical claims.

Gear Assembly Sender Gets It in Gear

DEAR PAT: I wrote to McGraw-Edison Co. in September 1974, regarding a gear assembly for my Kresco sabre saw. I received a list of service centers where I could write to order parts. I contacted one of these centers and have been told for six months that there was much confusion and delay in getting them. I wrote to McGraw-Edison again and didn't receive any response. I use the saw in my work and I'm losing time and money each day.

A.S., Costa Mesa

D. C. Andrus, service manager for McGraw-Edison's portable appliance and tool group, sent the gear assembly to you free of charge even though the warranty had expired. In the spring of 1974, McGraw-Edison combined its McGraw-Edison, Shopmate and Village Blacksmith divisions into one appliance and tool center. The combined headquarters also services its other brands: Toastmaster, Manning-Bowman, Shopcraft, Powerhouse and Kresco. The combination did not go as smoothly as expected, however. McGraw-Edison moved the new headquarters three times in 18 months. A complicated cross-referencing system for ordering parts also caused delays and confusion. Although some service centers ended arrangements with McGraw-Edison, some 200 remain. Order processing now is reported to be returning to normal. The service headquarters now is located at Vine & Second St., Boonville, MO 65233. Andrus invites people with parts order problems to write to him directly at the above address.

Read Insurance Policy; It's All there

DEAR PAT: Several years ago, my husband and I joined the American Funeral Plan, a life insurance policy of American Guarantee Life Insurance Co. My husband died last March 8, about two months after we paid the full year's premium in advance. The company promptly paid the face amount of the policy, but refuses to refund the unused portion of the final year's premium. This seems unfair to me, and I would like to know if it is legal.

L.B., Fountain Valley
Insurance companies usually retain the entire year's premium no matter when the insured dies during that year. If premiums are paid monthly, the company deducts all monthly premiums due that year from the settlement check. This practice may seem unfair, but it is legal. John M. Ellis, assistant vice president of American Guarantee, points out the wording in your policy which says "in the event of the death of the insured, any unpaid portion of the premium for the then current policy year shall be deducted in settlement hereunder." Some companies do refund the "unearned premium" and say so in their policies, but they add a small extra charge to regular premiums to pay for these refunds. Companies that deduct final year premiums explain that each year's premium is based on a full year of mortality for all policy holders.

Do you have a legal problem? Do you need an attorney?

You might try opening the yellow pages and looking for "a name you kind of like" as one lawyer put it.

If you're lucky, he or she will be able to serve you efficiently and at a price you can afford. If you aren't so lucky, you may find yourself facing a $500 attorney's fee for services that were less than adequate.

A safer bet, most attorneys agree, is asking a friend you trust for a suggestion or calling an attorney you already know for a reference.

YOU ALSO may dial the Orange County Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service to learn the name of an attorney well-versed in your problem.

Most Orange Coast attorneys admit that the middle-class housing tract resident often doesn't know where to turn when he needs legal service.

They say the wealthy have their attorneys, the poor can turn to the Legal Aid Society but the middle class client is sometimes overlooked.

Huntington Beach attorney Harry Hick said most people don't even like to think about needing a lawyer.

"It's like going to the dentist," he said.

"NOBODY PUTS an attorney in the family budget," he continued, "so if you have to go to an attorney you know you have a problem. So who is happy about going?"

Bill Cunningham, executive director of the Orange County Bar Association, admitted that making legal service easily available "is a real problem," not just in Orange County but nationwide.

And, he said, the local bar association, as well as the state and national ones, are trying to find solutions — including relaxation of strict rules against lawyer advertising.

John Shepphird and Harold DeGraw have tried another way of solving the problem — opening their law office in a busy Huntington Beach shopping center.

"I think the key word is access," DeGraw said.

He and Shepphird, who opened their storefront firm a year ago, said attorneys traditionally "are stuck away in an office building."

THEY DESCRIBED the traditional office as having "squishy" carpets, heavy oak doors and paneling. The offices are expensive to maintain, they said, and the client ends up footing the bill.

In addition, they said, the atmosphere makes some client's "a little bit uptight."

Instead, DeGraw and Shepphird greet their clients in a brightly colored, glass-fronted office, wearing open-necked shirts without ties.

They also use para-legal assistants for some work and have standardized some procedures which they believe will help save client costs.

Many other attorneys — inside paneled offices and out in storefront operations — use standard procedures and help from trained secretaries or assistants.

They agree that the less individual time an attorney spends on a case — at rates varying generally between $45 and $60 an hour — the less the service will cost.

Andrea Hall, executive secretary of the county bar association, also said it is standard procedure for attorneys to tell clients ahead of time what their services will cost.

attorneys, himself included, prefer receiving new clients upon referrals from established clients.

"That insures a quality client," he said. "I'm not too interested in people dropping in off the street."

HICKS ALSO is not too excited about allowing lawyers to advertise extensively.

"I can just see it," he said. "Criminal Defenses $99 or Get chairman of a committee studying the advertising question for the county bar association, said he doesn't foresee regulations easing to that extreme.

He said it's his opinion, however, that some institutionalized advertising — by the local bar association may develop, for example.

Joseph Cummins, a Los Angeles attorney who is on the Board of Governors of the California Bar Association, said the state bar has proposed allowing classified advertising in phone book yellow pages.

That would not include any mention of fees, however, he said, because the phone company does not allow listing of fees.

In addition, it would allow a "law list" including a fee statement to be published, for example, in the classified sections of newspapers.

CUMMINS SAID local bar associations and the public are being asked for comment about the proposal now. March 1 the board will review the proposal and may ask the California Supreme Court — which governs attorney ethics — to implement that program or some form of it.

Some Orange Coast attorneys also believe bigger signs would help potential clients find them.

One lawyer said he finally took his sign down after being summoned for an ethics hearing over a complaint it was too large.

He noted, however, that when bar officials came to his office to serve his hearing notice, they were delayed "because they didn't see the sign."

Witmer said signs should not have letters higher than four inches and should be designed to help someone looking for that attorney — not to attract traffic from the street.

Cummins said he believes people could use some help in finding attorneys, but he doubts there is a vast group of middle class citizens who can't find one when they need to.

"I don't believe it," he said. "It is like asking is there somebody in the middle class who can't find a doctor or a dentist or a bank."

"Anybody of average intelligence can find a doctor, lawyer or anyone else," he continued. "That isn't to say they shouldn't have some assistance."

Anyway, he said, most people probably ask friends to recommend a good attorney — much like they ask them to suggest a good doctor.

"I would guess there are mighty few people that select a doctor, lawyer or dentist from a classified ad," he said.

who have some legal questions may call the new Tel-Law service, a library of 51 tape recordings, which was started last week through the bar and Legal Aid Society of Orange County.

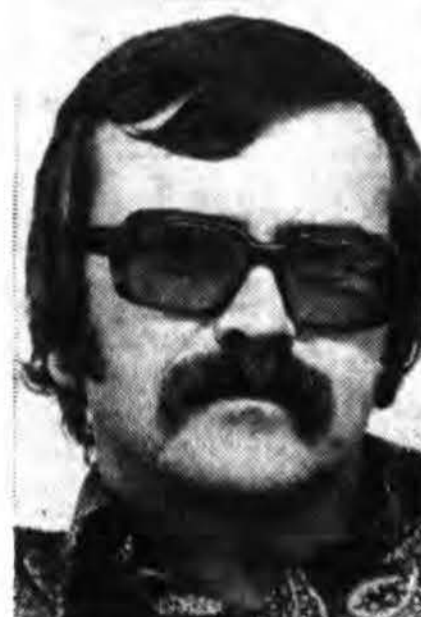

By dialing 834-1760, callers may listen free of charge to any of the prepared tapes. They deal with adoptions, home ownership, divorce, bankruptcy, employment, estate planning, finding attorneys and criminal and civil matters.

The tapes were prepared by teams of lawyers. They run from three to five minutes each.

A running tally will be kept to determine interest in the tapes, and some may later be translated into Spanish.

One of the tapes deals specifically with finding a lawyer and outlines the Orange County Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service.

Mrs. Hall said the service makes more than 15,000 referrals each year, more than any similar service nationwide.

Who to Call

If you need an attorney but don't know one, you may dial the Orange County Bar Association's Lawyer Referral Service at 494-0262 in southern Orange County or 835-8811 in the rest of the county.

Officials there will ask you to briefly state your problem, then suggest a lawyer well-versed in that field. The attorney's fee will be $15 for the first half hour of consultation.

If you have a legal question, you may dial the new Tel-Law tape library at 834-1760. The new 24-hour-a-day service, sponsored by Legal Aid Society and the bar association, includes 51 tape recordings about legal matters ranging from divorce to criminal matters.

How Much?

When you consult an attorney, you can expect to pay from about $45 to $60 or more for each hour he spends on your case.

Attorneys contacted by the Daily Pilot said you could expect to pay from $25 to $100 for a standard will, although the fee could run much higher if trust funds and large estates are involved.

Divorces would cost from about $300 in an uncomplicated matter (they say there are few of these, however) to a great deal more if restraining orders, property and child custody battles are involved.

Some attorneys recommend "do it yourself" divorces for clients with little property to divide. That costs $53 for filing, plus a few dollars more for forms.

You Can Help

Tutors Needed

Would you be interested in helping people with a language barrier learn enough to face everyday tasks and responsibilities in the community? If so, the Laubach Literacy Center needs you.

Dealing with people for whom English is a second language, or who may not know the language at all, the center utilizes tutors to help them learn English. Knowledge of a second language is not necessary for the volunteer under the Laubach system.

There is a 20-hour training session offering proficiency at the valuable skill of teaching. The center also needs other aides to assist the tutors in their work and those positions require minimal training. The classes are held Tuesday and Thursday evenings in Huntington Beach.

For more information contact Judy Lower at the Huntington Beach Outreach Office (960-3312), or in Garden Grove (530-2370).

Car Deductions

Now is a good time to start thinking about tax deductions for the new year, especially if you have an automobile and/or have business automobile expenses. If either of these situations applies, a taxpayer should note in his tax records his car mileage on Dec. 31.

This establishes a basis for determining the deduction for state gas taxes paid (in California seven cents per gallon) and for determining business automobile expenses (figured at 15 cents per mile on the first 15,000 miles and 10 cents per mile thereafter if the per-mile method of calculation is elected).

If you forgot to mark down the mileage last December 31, your garage bill for repairs or service usually has the mileage. Pull out the one closest to year-end and allow for any time difference.

To Your Health

Transfusions

About one-twelfth of your body's weight consists of blood. In an average-sized man, this amounts to approximately 13 pints. If a substantial amount of this blood is lost, a person's life is seriously and immediately threatened.

Thanks to the blood bank — a modern institution for which the entire community should feel a sense of responsibility — lost blood can be promptly and safely replaced through transfusion.

Serious blood loss may be sustained as a result of an injury, childbirth, or a disease such as hemophilia which causes hemorrhaging. Shock may be combated with whole blood and/or blood plasma transfusion. In some cases, a surgeon will order transfusions in preparation for surgery so that the patient will be in good enough health to tolerate the procedure. In other instances, blood is given during surgery to offset what is lost.

Perhaps the most dramatic demonstration of the life-saving use of blood during surgery is in open-heart surgery. During this procedure another circulation is established for the patient with a mechanical pump for the heart and an artificial lung, and additional blood from the blood bank is usually necessary.

If a person is scheduled to enter a hospital for surgery, his doctor will order certain laboratory procedures in preparation for the possibility of blood transfusion. First, he will want to know the patient's blood type. Human blood occurs in four types: O, A, B, and AB, with groups O and A being the most common. The type of blood received during a transfusion must be compatible with the type of blood circulating in the patient's body.

Beating High Costs

How to Save Money on Entertainment

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An evening on the town is really expensive these days.

Tickets for two to a top Los Angeles attraction will run you between $7.50 and $25 — or more. Then there's your gasoline and maybe $1.50 in parking. And that's not counting dinner and the baby sitter.

Who can afford to go out very often?

Orange Coast residents can — all it takes is a little planning.

This month, for example, you can attend, absolutely free, a choral concert of music by Mozart and others (Jan. 17), a band concert of Gershwin and other composers (Jan. 18), Edward Albee's play "The American Dream" (Jan. 7-8), playwright Oliver Hailey in an evening of scenes from his plays (Jan. 9-10), Samuel Beckett's play "Endgame" (Jan. 14-16), an original mime show, a sculpture exhibit and two photography exhibits, all at Orange Coast College.

At UC Irvine, for reasonable ticket prices, you can take in a wind ensemble concert (Jan. 9, $1), a dance concert (Jan. 21-24, $2) Tennessee Williams' "Streetcar Named Desire" (Jan. 29-31 and Feb. 5-7, $3), Sophocles' "Electra" (Jan. 15, $4), one-act plays by Jean Giraudoux and Tennessee Williams (Jan. 16-17, 75 cents), a musical drama called "The Play of Daniel" (Jan. 23, free), and Bertolt Brecht's "In the Jungle of Cities" (Jan. 29-31, 75 cents).

And that's only the beginning.

TWO DOLLARS will get you in to see "That Championship Season" at Golden West College (Jan. 22-Feb. 1) and other events ranging in cost from nothing to about $4 will be announced soon by Saddleback, Santa Ana and Chapman Colleges.

The parking's free and, wherever you live on the Orange Coast, there's sure to be something not too far from you.

Community theaters also offer a good bargain for a night out (look for the reviews in the Daily Pilot) and the coast's professional resident theater group, South Coast Repertory, has a top ticket price of only $5.75, with free parking.

There's an additional area of arts enjoyment that is available free.

The Orange Coast is

lined with an exceptional number of art galleries and museums. Among the museums which feature outstanding exhibits (usually free, although donations may be accepted) are the Laguna Beach Museum of Art, the Newport Harbor Art Museum, the Bowers Museum (Santa Ana), Mills House (Garden Grove) and the Muckenthaler Cultural Center (Fullerton).

Gallery openings are a good opportunity to meet interesting people, see what's happening and sometimes enjoy a film or discussion.

SPECIAL exhibitions are also organized by all area colleges and universities, sometimes featuring artists of international repute.

Films are also offered at low cost through the colleges. Complete schedules of events, including films, are available from college admissions and community relations offices.

Coast residents are also fortunate in being able to view first-run films at an abundance of local theaters with free parking and, frequently, double features.

Ticket prices are also reasonable for such local groups as the Orange County Lyric Opera, Ballet Pacifica and Newport Ballet.

What are the disadvantages of low-cost events?

For one thing, they're often crowded. If an event is free, you need to get there early. And sometimes the seats sistently excellent in their productions. With colleges, however, quality fluctuates depending on which students are involved.

However, some guidelines may be helpful. Where art exhibits are concerned, the museums are reliable and, furthermore, usually have at least two exhibits at once so that if you don't care for one, you might like the other. With commercial galleries, the brief description of the type of work (seascapes, super-realism, etc.) in the Weekender gallery listings should help you determine whether the artist is traditional, avant-garde or somewhere in between.

Musically, most of the colleges and some other local groups, such as the Irvine Master Chorale, put on performances of a surprisingly high level.

Most of the college works are conducted by faculty members, who are generally highly regarded. For example, UCI orchestra conductor Alvaro Cassuto also conducts for orchestras around the world and is director of the National Radio Symphony Orchestra of Portugal.

FACULTY members also offer individual and group performances, both instrumental and vocal, both in the evenings and at noon (noon recitals are usually free).

Dance productions, both local and featuring guest artists, are offered both at colleges and by local dance groups.

Some of the guest groups are among the best in the world. Local groups are generally good, although avid dance-goers may not always find them up to top professional standards.

Still, with the dancers as with other young performers and artists, it's best to remember that a few of those you're seeing may someday be world famous.

There's particularly an abundance of drama this year on the coast and it's hard to set down guidelines. Faculty-directed works are generally good, but an inspired student director (especially the masters degree candidates at UCI) can bring something really exciting to their productions.

Wed Without a Hitch

Chapel Funds Scholars

By ALLISON DEERR
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A bridegroom contracted chicken pox, and it spread to the rest of the wedding party.

The wedding ring got lost in the grass outside the chapel, so the couple borrowed a substitute. After the ceremony, a hands-and-knees search recovered the original.

One bride went down the aisle to absolute silence. The tape recorded music for her entrance wasn't on the tape.

Every wedding has its share of minor complications, but most of the couples who choose the Chapman College Chapel alumnae are wed without a hitch.

Much of the credit must go to members of Beta Chi, who act as hostesses for weddings at the chapel.

In the four years since the group began the project, the number of weddings have grown from 18 to more than 50.

SMALL GROUP

Although Beta Chi has only five actives currently, they contribute $1,000 each year to scholarships and the Beta Chi endowment fund.

Alumnae assist with ceremonies when school is not in session, and during the busiest seasons, three or four couples each weekend say their vows at Chapman.

Emily Rampton, secretary of the alumnae, said that the project is a good way for alumnae and actives to keep in touch while raising funds.

The actives rotate hostess duty, explained Beta Chi chaplain Sally Razak. The hostess helps run the wedding rehearsal and talks to the bride about decorations.

Before the ceremony, they make sure the chapel is orderly and help with decorations and setting up candles.

Afterward, the Beta Chis do clean-up.

Charges for use of the chapel vary, according to the size of the wedding and where the reception is held.

The project is admittedly time-consuming.

FUND SCHOLARSHIPS

Sponsor Jan Seymour and alumnae president Salli Antick said, "there aren't many college students who would put in as much time as these girls do to help someone else."

The someone else includes the two women students outside the sorority who receive $200 scholarships each year, as well as one Beta Chi recipient. Award is based on grade point average and financial need.

The one alumnae scholarship is given in the name of Virginia Cheverton, who helped revive the Beta Chis in the early '60s and the actives award theirs in the name of Dorothy Ferrin, a favored sponsor.

Popularity of the chapel, a former Episcopal Church located a block from the campus, is evidenced by the fact that bookings run several months ahead, and two-thirds are non-students at the college.

Why spend your evenings or weekends sweeping rice from a chapel or instructing the bride when to begin the march down the aisle?

"It's very rewarding. And, no matter how large or small a wedding, or how unusual, they are beautiful."

Grace Wong and Sally Razak decorate pew and light candles at Chapman College Chapel. Beta Chi members hostess weddings to fund scholarships.

Big Spenders Not Lasting

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My oldest son is just recovering from a heartbreaking romance. He bought the girl jewelry, record albums, expensive clothes, took her to the fanciest restaurants and last week she broke off with him.

Now my younger son (age 18) is headed in the same direction. He had a good summer job and saved quite a lot of money. Although he needs new shoes, a winter jacket and several other items of clothing, he doesn't spend one cent on himself. All his money goes on this girl's back. She calls him "to go shopping" and like a sap he buys her anything she wants.

When I tell him he's making the same mistake his brother made he says, "It's my money, and I'll do what I want with it."

What can I do about this stupid fool? — HEARTSICK WATCHING

DEAR MOTHER: If you are "Heartsick Watching" my advice is to look the other way. You're fighting a losing battle. Mother, some folks must get their lumps first-hand, and I'm afraid your son is due for some "on-the-job training."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do I have the right to be mad? Recently I married a man who was spoiled rotten by his mother. She waited on him like a hand-servant. He never picked up a sock after himself.

I work an eight-hour day. After the honeymoon I had a talk with him and he agreed to do the supper dishes on weekends while I took the clothes to the laundromat. When I returned, my mother-in-law was walking out of the kitchen with a towel in her hand. She had just finished doing the dishes.

After she left I hit the roof. My mother-in-law didn't eat with us. She just dropped in. I think she should not have done his work.

What's your opinion? — ANGRY
DEAR ANG: This is a problem? Grow up, kiddo. If you're going to make a go of it with Junior you'd better learn not to sweat the small stuff. Save your anger for the major hassles ahead — and I can promise you there will be many.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A woman I know lost her husband three years ago. They were married 18 years.

Ann Landers

She still wears her wedding ring, which, to me, seems like an act of misrepresentation. After all, a widow is NOT a married woman.

Should I do her a favor and tell her she is violating a rule of etiquette? — A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND (?): Do yourself a favor and MYOB.

If a widow wants to wear her wedding ring (and many do) it's perfectly proper to do so.

DEAR ANN: My mother-in-law smokes around my young children and it drives me crazy. She always has a cigarette dangling from the corner of her mouth.

Yesterday she was holding our three-month-old son and dropped some ashes on the baby's face. I was furious but gritted my teeth and said nothing. I hate fights. Please advise. — PEACE LOVER

DEAR FRIEND: I, too am a Peace Lover but there are times when one should speak up regardless of the risks. If ever you had the perfect opportunity to ask your mother-in-law not to smoke in the presence of your children, that was it. Too bad you blew it.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teenagers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400; Elgin, Ill. 60120.

The bride is a graduate of Fullerton College and California State University, Long Beach, where her husband is now a student. He also attended Fullerton College.

Crowning Glory

While their hair lengths vary, celebrities named to the Ten Best Coiffured list agree they need versatility for their career roles.

Elevated to the "heads of fame" category is three-time recipient Metropolitan Opera diva Beverly Sills. She will no longer be eligible in future years.

Also selected by the Helene Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians are film actresses Julie Christie, Faye Dunaway, Brenda Vaccaro and Raquel Welch; television stars Valerie Harper and Mary Tyler Moore;

Winners' hairdressers predict looks for 1976 will be individual. They advocate basing choice of style on the type of hair, shape of the face, personality and career.

Most prefer chin to shoulder lengths with subtle layers for versatility.

Another significant trend is color highlighting or toning. Eight of the winners receive it for flattering effects.

Broadway Season Upbeat

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK — Tallying up the 1975 theatrical year.

Broadway's biggest musicals were "A Chorus Line," "The Wiz" and "Chicago." But there wasn't a hit song anywhere.

Among dramas, "Equus" by England's Peter Shaffer nabbed both the Critics Circle and Tony awards. The Pulitzer prize, however, went to "Seascape" by Edward Albee, a native son.

Personality headlines were Ellen Burstyn, adding a top actress Tony for "Same Time, Next Year" to her film Oscar; a pair of South African visitors, Winston Ntshona and John Kani, who shared the main male trophy; and Pearl Bailey, who became a member of the U.S. delegation at the United Nations.

MOST DRAMATIC turnabout was a double backflip by ebullient producer Joseph Papp, who reversed policy at his Lincoln Center base by going back to

LIZA MINNELLI IS CAUGHT BY AUTOGRAPH SEEKERS
She filled in for Ailing Gwen Verdon in 'Chicago'

a classics repertory, then canceled a loudly promoted project to showcase five new authors at a new Times Square beachhead.

Altogether, 61 commercial and repertory shows reached Broadway. Eighteen are still around, not a bad percentage. Also on exhibit during the year were 20 holdovers from earlier seasons. Five productions collapsed en route to premiere and two others folded after opening performances.

BOX-OFFICE action, both in New York and on the road was generally upbeat and climbing despite a 25-day strike which blacked out much of the Great White Way before musicians agreed to a new contract.

Off Broadway, a booming area of theatrical experiment, was involved in a fiery dispute that included demonstrations and protest rallies when Actors Equity first imposed, then withdrew, a stiff wage scale.

There was a significant decline, due to rising costs in the previously important off-

Broadway buffer zone between off-off daring and Broadway wariness.

There were two major craft lawsuits. One ended with the Supreme Court ruling that Chattanooga, Tenn., could not censor and ban the musical "Hair." In the other, a federal panel in New York decided that the Society of Stage Directors and Choreographers isn't a monopoly restraining trade.

In a reversal of ancient showbiz tradition, two Broadway musicals attempted temporary press bans instead of seeking publicity.

The management didn't want critics to review Liza Minnelli when she went into "Chicago" for five weeks as a replacement for Gwen Verdon, recuperating from minor throat surgery. And "A Chorus Line," previously appraised off-Broadway, decided to keep critics from the Broadway incarnation until it had been running for nearly three months.

The blackout were only partially successful. Some members of the press bought tickets and wrote their opinions.

Top Rock Discs Selected

By BRUCE MEYER

Question: Who knows enough about music to name the "best" records of the year?

Answer: nobody.

Question: Does that stop critics from foisting their opinions on the unsuspecting public?

Answer: of course not.

So, with no attempt to hide the fact that what follows is merely the opinion of one overweight, underpaid and highly biased rock 'n' roll fan, here are the 10 best albums of 1975:

1. Fleetwood Mac, "Fleetwood Mac" — Varied, tidy and beautifully recorded music from a veteran band that has broken the traditional rock bias against women. Mac's sound is still founded on the impeccable rhythms of drummer Mick Fleetwood and bassist John McVie.

2. 10CC, "The Original Soundtrack" — After a couple of false starts, this brilliant English quartet came up with an album worthy of their talents.

3. Bob Dylan, "Blood on the Tracks" — The best Dylan album since "Blonde on Blonde." What more can you say?

4. Jefferson Starship, "Red Octopus" — Marty Balin rejoined his compadres from the old Airplane and the result was the most popular album of the year.

5. Bruce Springsteen, "Born to Run" — Despite all the record company money used to try to force him down the public throat, Springsteen is just as good as they say he is and this is a superb collection.

6. Paul Simon, "Still Crazy After All These Years" — A bit shy of "There Goes Rhyming Simon," but one of the best of a good year nonetheless.

7. Paul McCartney, "Venus and Mars" — Having proven he's the best of the Beatles, McCartney may now let his fertile imagination run free — and that's just what he does here.

8. Henry Gross, "Plug Me Into Something" — An album almost universally ignored, but nonetheless one of the best rock 'n' roll records ever made.

9. Joan Baez, "Diamonds and Rust" — It was a good year for Joanie. She finally got back together with Dylan (on stage, at least) — and she released what can only be termed a "comeback" L.P. Good songs, excellent performances and outstanding production.

10. Dan Fogelberg, "Souvenirs" — Made by one of the best new songwriters to emerge in years, this gentle album makes it into the top 10 largely aboard the fine production work of heavy rocker Joe Walsh.

This Gift Rings True

On an emotional scale, my husband is somewhere to the right of Mt. Rushmore.

He speaks about six words a year (four of them to me), has a face that reveals nothing, and gave in to giddiness on only one occasion. (On the birth of our first child, he punched me in the arm and said, "There will be a little something extra in your paycheck this week.")

Just before Christmas I read an ad that was to solve my problem. It read, "Get him the ring that betrays his every emotion. Find out whether he is relaxed or under pressure, inhibited or aggressively passionate. The ring that lets a woman know where you're coming from."

ON CHRISTMAS morning, he put the Mood ring on his finger. It turned black and has been in a holding pattern ever since.

"Why are you tense and inhibited?" I asked. "What makes you think I am tense and inhibited?"

"Your ring is black. If it were yellow you would be unsettled; green, serene and calm; or violet blue, emotionally charged and vivacious."

"That is a lot of rubbish."

"It is not a lot of rubbish and just once before I pass over, I'd like to see you turn blue."

Every day since Christmas, the family and I have dedicated our lives to making that funky little ring turn color.

"Hey, Dad," said our son, "here are your car keys. I just filled up the tank for you." (We looked at the ring. It remained black.)

"I've just been going through our tax deductions," I said. "And I think the government owes us $2,000." (Still black.)

OUR DAUGHTER perched on the arm of his chair. "All my girl friends think you look like Robert Redford." (She grabbed his hand. The ring never changed.)

"This is my best shot," I told the kids as I zipped up my flowing caftan and spritzed myself with perfume. "Dear, I thought we'd spend a nice quiet evening at home."

The ring turned yellow... then blue... then green... and finally WHITE!

AT WIT'S END

"You don't have to get that choked up," I said. Then I noticed that he was reading a stack of Christmas bills.

"What does white mean, Mom?"

"Get the respirator! Your father is going into ring failure!"

Think 'Freewayland' Is Ready for Wagon Train?

If you aim to head off the wagons at the pass — or somewhere else along the Bicentennial Wagon Train Pilgrimage through Southern California later this week — you'd better make some advance arrangements. There are a few problems.

What this is all about is a string of covered wagons, the real kind, pulled by horses, and not to be confused with another bicentennial project, the Freedom Train, which also is visiting several Southern California railroad stations (including the one at San Juan Capistrano) later this month.

For a long time now, most of the horse publications and a lot of other media have been telling about this wonderful plan whereby the nation's official Bicentennial Wagon Train ("official" because we taxpayers are paying for it) would sweep across the country carrying with it all the kids on ponies, families on horses and covered wagon clubs that cared to go along for the ride.

That "going along" could last for a few minutes, hours, days, weeks or months.

You could even ride all the way to Valley Forge, Pa., ultimate destination of the national train, if you had the stamina, equipment and horseflesh for such a journey.

TARGET DATE for completing the trek is July 4, 1976, when five separate trains — traveling the major routes of the Westward Movement in reverse — will have merged outside Valley Forge to triumphantly roll into modern history on Independence Day Plus 200.

In all, 60 authentic prairie schooners were built in Jonesboro, Ark., under the federal contract that went with this particular "official" bicentennial project.

Fifty of these modified-for-modern-highways wagons were dispersed to the various states, each to become that state's "official" entry in the train, and the remaining 10 will be assigned to support positions.

Now, just to prove that this whole thing has a chance of working, let me report to you that one of the first contingents already is in winter camp in Ft. Laramie, Wyo., just waiting for the spring thaw to continue its journey.

That group of hardy 20th century "pioneers" already has seen 30 wagons cross nine northwestern states in five months with more than 500 people riding in or with the wagons across at least part of the 2,700 miles covered on the old Oregon Trail, Lewis and Clark Trail, and other lesser known traces of the Upper Great Plains.

One young couple was married on the trail; two pilgrims died; one wagon turned over; another almost rolled backward over a cliff.

The pilgrims sweltered in 116-degree heat under the Nevada desert's sun, then shivered in snow that fell early in South Dakota.

BUT COMES NOW the real problems for the wagon train — Pasadena on Rose Parade day and Southern California traffic for the days to follow.

Already the Hawaii wagon has been ferried to the Mainland and the California wagon, after dutifully making the rounds of local fairs and shopping center promotions, has been stashed along with it to await the dawning of New Year's Day.

Both of them, along with another "official" wagon from Pennsylvania and a chuckwagon to serve this whole contingent, will meander along

Map shows routes of all "official" wagon trains and when respective trains are scheduled to be where in their trek across the nation under the pilgrimage emblem shown at right Colorado Boulevard Thursday as part of this year's Rose Parade in Pasadena.

The bicentennial wagoners then will spend the night at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona and pull out at 8 a.m. on Friday headed for their first encampment on the long road to Valley Forge.

Horsin' Around

with Tom McCann

The "official" plan is for the California/Hawaii train to travel straight down Mission Boulevard from Pomona to Riverside, a distance of 21.2 miles, for its first day on the transcontinental trek.

The train is expected to consist of nine wagons, 60 outriders on horseback and anyone else interested in joining in.

At this point, it had been my intention to tell all the horsemen (and pony people) in the audience just exactly how to go about becoming part of this historic occasion as it unwinds out there in the Chino Valley.

SHARON SAARE, one of California's best known horsewomen, a truly grand champion in the sport of endurance riding and trial competitions, was one of the national coordinators of the Bicentennial Wagon Train Pilgrimage to Pennsylvania.

I contacted her weeks ago, got one quick note saying she'd be back in touch with us. Thought she must have got herself lost on a trail until another note hit my desk late this week. She has parted company with the wagon train project — not happily, I gather.

Marilyn Robison of Somis, Calif., a school teacher who took a sabbatical leave for a whole year of wagoning, is the "wagonmaster" of the California train. I have had three conversations with her. Each time she promised to send detailed information for those who would like to mount up and be temporary outriders with the wagon train.

She may really be lost somewhere. No word has arrived here.

The train's announced route takes it Friday through Pomona, Ontario, several miles of county territory in both San Bernardino and Riverside counties and, of course, over lots of roadway patrolled by the California Highway Patrol.

Box score: After talking to one deputy, two clerks, a sergeant and a lieutenant in the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Office; one desk officer, one clerk and one administrative officer in the Pomona Police Department and two spokesmen for the Ontario office of CHP — nothing to nothing. Lt. Ken Warren, listed in wagon train press releases as "official" CHP contact, said he had never heard of the outrider program and, in fact, the size of the "official" California/Hawaii train is "a hell of a lot bigger than I had been informed of."

HE SAID the movement of horses and horse drawn wagons along the proposed route during a holiday period is going to "take some doing." I hope we have enough manpower to cover it.

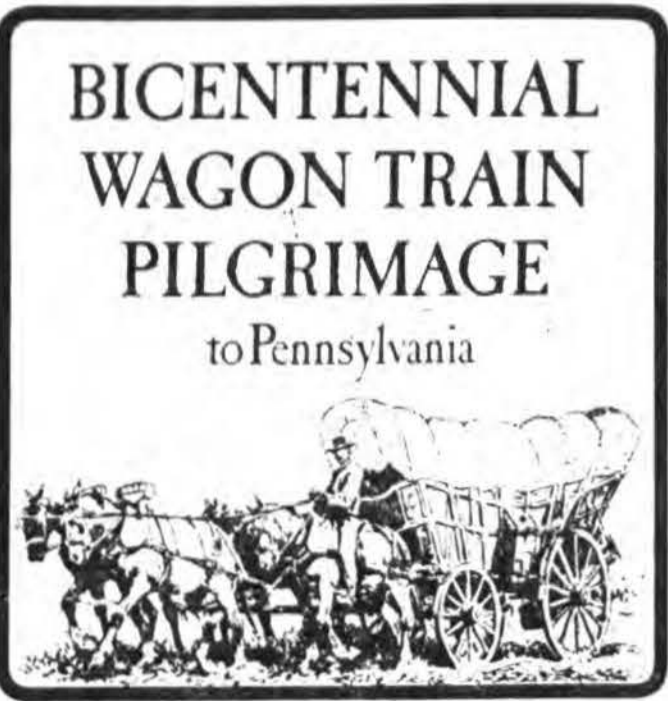

Come to think of it, maybe crossing the desert 100 years ago was easier — really.

Anyway, this train, if it ever gets through the Pasadena traffic jam, runs the CHP gauntlet and survives Riverside on a holiday weekend, will be heading for the San Geronimo Pass (Beaumont/Banning area) Saturday and Sunday.

The train is scheduled to make Palm Springs on Monday, Jan. 5; Indio on Tuesday and thence on around the east side of Salton Sea on ensuing Days until it hits the California border and crosses over to Yuma, Ariz., on Wednesday, Jan. 14.

If you can't head 'em off at the Pass, you might be well advised to catch them somewhere else along the trail — or just watch the whole thing on television.

Only hazard the wagoners face there is wending their way among the toothpaste commercials without falling into a cavity.

Rams Strike Early, Whip Cards, 35-23

By GLENN WHITE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

LOS ANGELES—St. Louis' vaunted offensive explosiveness blew up in the Cardinals' faces as the Los Angeles Rams ignited for a 35-23 National Football League playoff triumph Saturday afternoon before a Coliseum crowd of 72,650.

Costa Mesa resident Ron Jaworski and the previously injured Lawrence McCutcheon provided the offensive fireworks for L.A. Defensively, Jack Youngblood, Fred Dryer, Jack Reynolds and mates were like vultures eyeing their first meal in a month.

At one juncture L.A. had 105 yards, St. Louis had 5.

McCutcheon carried more times in one game than any other Ram in history as he toted leather 37 times for 202 yards. His longest carry was for 12 yards and only twice was he caught behind the line of scrimmage.

Jaworski continued to put life into what has been described as a somewhat listless L.A. offense since he took over starting quarterback duties from the ailing James Harris Dec. 20.

Jaworski connected on 12 of 23 passes for 203 yards and one touchdown with none intercepted.

The defense picked off three of Jim Hart's 41 passes, two for touchdowns, recovered two of three fumbles and held the St. Louis ground game to 98 yards—20 fewer than McCutcheon had by halftime when the Rams were up 28-9.

The Rams wrapped up what was supposed to be a tough test early. They blazed to a 21-0 lead as Jaworski took his team 79 yards in 13 plays to open the game, going the final five himself to make it 7-0 with 8:28 to go in the first quarter.

Before another minute could elapse it was 14-0 as Youngblood picked off a pass and returned it 47 yards for a touchdown.

Then on the first play of the second period Bill Simpson got his first of two interceptions, returning this one 65 yards to paydirt to give coach Chuck Knox's forces a seemingly insurmountable 21-0 lead.

However, the plucky Cards stayed tough, managing to trim the gap to 28-16 with 9:27 to go in the third quarter. It stayed that way until the final 3:39 of the game when Ron Jessie picked up one of three McCutcheon fumbles and legged it two yards for a TD to make it 35-16.

Simpson's second interception had given L.A. the ball on the enemy 36 to set up the short scoring march.

L.A.'s other touchdown came on a 66-yard picture pass from Jaworski to Harold Jackson with 10:36 left in the half.

Terry Metcalf put on a dazzling show for the Cards, returning kickoffs 66 and 35 yards, catching six passes for 94 yards and rushing eight times for 27 yards.

The game produced more points than any Rams outing since Dallas and L.A. combined for 68 early in 1973.

Los Angeles returns to action next weekend, to tackle the winner of today's Dallas-Minnesota tiff. If Dallas wins, it'll be at the Coliseum. If Minnesota wins the Rams will travel to Bloomington (Brrrr).

Blackout Lifting Was Costly

Lifting of the Southland television blackout for the L.A. Rams-Pittsburgh football game was a good deal for folks who didn't have tickets or those who had ducats and didn't want to fight rain, fog, traffic and crowd.

But it was a costly move for Coliseum concessionaires, who dropped an estimated $32,473 when 21,649 ticket holders elected to stay home and take in the game via TV.

And you wonder how much dough the various parking areas lost. However, in view of the rip-off prices you pay to park and eat at the Coliseum, I can't feel much sympathy for their misfortune.

If the U.S. can ever beat Mexico in Davis Cup tennis, there is a strong chance Newport Beach Tennis Club will host one of the ensuing Cup matches.

Earlier this year NBTC was slated to hold the U.S.-South Africa duel. But Mexico whipped the USA and torpedoed that plot.

However, Davis Cup officials told Newport folks they'd get another crack at it and promised them a future match in the '76 Davis Cup eliminations. The U.S. was supposed to beat Mexico, then would face South Africa in Tucson. If it beat South Africa its next home assignment would be at Newport Beach.

But the Mexicans did it to us again.

Maybe in 1977?

A movie titled "Two-minute Warning" will be filmed at the Coliseum during January and February. It's about a sniper at the Super Bowl.

Former Edison (Huntington Beach) basketball player Rod Snook is the second leading scorer for Whittier College's five with a 14.6 points per game average.

Snook is hitting 52.4 percent of his field goal attempts.

Brian Ambrozich returned to haunt his JC alma mater as he canned the winning basket to pace the alumni to an 82-81 victory over Golden West College's basketball team recently.

Ambrozich, a Huntington Beach High product, had 22 points for the evening and his 12-footer from the baseline with four seconds to play won it for the grads.

Raiders Favored Over Bengals Today

OAKLAND (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals and Oakland Raiders, who saw each other only dimly through an Ohio rainstorm back in October, meet again today in the National Football League playoffs.

"You can't base anything on that game," says Ken Stabler, the Oakland quarterback who played that day, as bad as his knee was." Oakland linebacker Phil Villapiano says.

Anderson, like Stabler, could blame a lot of his problems that day on the slippery, heavy football, but he learned that, "The Raiders have a very sound defense."

Oakland built its 11-3 record, good enough for an eighth division title in nine years, with a defense ranked first in the American Football Conference and an offense that finished third statistically. The Raiders are favored today.

The Bengals, also 11-3 and in the playoffs as the AFC wild card team, were second to Buffalo on offense and fourth in the conference on defense. Coach Paul Brown's eight-year-old team seeks its first post-season victory, having lost first-round games in 1970 and 1973.

Madden intends to use four linebackers and a three-man defensive line to combat the Cincinnati offense which accumulated an NFL-leading 3,241 passing yards this season.

Doubly Sweet Win For Youngblood

LOS ANGELES In a boisterous Los Angeles Rams dressing room, defensive end Jack Youngblood declared, "They were double-teaming me most of the day, which makes it all doubly sweet."

The 255-pound Youngblood, a Westminster resident, picked off a Jim Hart pass and ran 47 yards early in the game as the Rams grabbed a 14-0 first quarter lead en route to their 35-23 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Later he blocked a conversion attempt and sacked Hart.

"On the pass they tried to cut me down before I could get to the receiver," Youngblood said. "But I went inside of them, got the ball, made one fake and I was home free with the help of one block."

Fred Dryer threw that block and also contributed a sack of Hart, who twice was thrown behind the line. During the regular season when the Cardinals were 11-3, their quarterback was sacked just eight times.

L.A.'s Lawrence McCutcheon said the 37 carries were the most in his three years as a pro, but once at Colorado State he carried 39 times for 207 yards against Brigham Young.

"I would carry 40 or more times if they would let me. Our game plan was to control the ball by running, whether it was me or someone else doing the job.

"If we'd lost, I would be tired. As it is, I've never felt better."

Ron Jaworski, the reserve quarterback pressed into action due to James Harris' injured shoulder, said he didn't learn until two minutes before the kickoff that he was going to start.

"We decided to go with Jaworski just before the kickoff after watching both of them during the warmup," coach Chuck Knox said. "Harris could have played. He would have been okay on handoffs and the short passes, but his ball just did not have the zip it should have."

Jaworski ran five yards for the first Los Angeles touchdown and hooked up with Harold Jackson on a 66-yard play for another.

"I knew we had the long pass touchdown when I saw they were playing Harold one-on-one," Jaworski said. "No one man can contain him — he is absolutely fantastic."

Jaworski said his first pro start last week was great. "But this week was even greater."

Minnesota Tabbed Over Cowboys

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Minnesota Vikings renew their similar National Football League histories today in the National Conference division playoffs.

The Cowboys, who grabbed a playoff berth as the NFC's wild card team, carry a 10-4 record into Minnesota against the Central Division champion Vikings, 12-2.

Minnesota and Dallas each retooled considerably during the offseason to ready themselves for another playoff appearance. Both were football ragamuffins in the early 60s as expansion franchises, and have been transformed into high-powered teams. They split two earlier post season matchups with the winners advancing to the Super Bowl each time.

"Minnesota probably has even more talent this year because the young players have come through," says Dallas coach Tom Landry. "It's as solid as the recent Vikings Super Bowl teams."

The Cowboys, also reliant on many new players, have been in the playoffs nine of the last 10 years while Minnesota has missed only once in the last eight.

Landry and Minnesota's Bud Grant have developed similar public profiles and enjoy comparable success on the job. Landry's record with Dallas is 126-90-6 including a 0-11-1 season in the Cowboys' 1960 genesis. Grant has built an 87-36-3 record.

Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton bested Dallas' Roger Staubach as the top quarterback in the conference. "They've moved the ball on everybody in the league," Grant said of the Cowboys. "On defense, they don't use a lot of variations, but they're very sound."

The Cowboys averaged 359 yards offense and 25 points a game while Minnesota averaged 354 yards and 27 points a game.

Tarkenton connected on 64 percent of his passing attempts for 2,994 yards and 25 touchdowns while Staubach completed 57 percent of his attempts for 2,666 yards and 17 touchdowns.

Chuck Foreman, who became Minnesota's first 1,000-yard rusher in a season, also caught 73 passes and scored 22 touchdowns while wiping out Vikings records in those categories.

Robert Newhouse led Dallas rushers with 930 yards. Drew Pearson is the leading Cowboys receiver with 88 catches for 822 yards and eight touchdowns.

The Vikings, however, have been better defensively allowing 225 yards and 13 points a game compared to the 267 yards and 19 points a game surrendered by Dallas.

U.S. Debut At Anita Set Today

ARCADIA—Riot In Paris, a stakes winner in France, makes its American debut at Santa Anita today, facing 10 horses in the $40,000 San Gabriel Handicap at 1 1/8 miles over the turf.

Carrying top weight of 124 pounds, Riot In Paris will run coupled with El Rey and Crumbs and the Charlie Whittingham entry figures to be favored over the likes of Announcer and El Pitirre.

Riot In Paris recently won the 1 1/2 mile Prix Perth at St. Cloud and will be ridden by world champion jockey Bill Shoemaker. Announcer accounted for a division of the Henry P. Russell Handicap during Santa Anita's Oak Tree meeting while El Pitirre captured the Lucky Draw Stakes at Aqueduct last month.

Meanwhile, Stained Glass held off a late bid by hard-charging Telly's Pop to post a 1 1/2-length triumph in the $55,950 California Breeders' Champion Stakes Saturday at Santa Anita.

Stained Glass, co-owned by movie star Rod Steiger and ridden by Laffit Pincay, Jr., took the lead in the turn for home en route to a stakes record-tying time of 1:22 1-5 over the seven furlongs.

The second choice in the betting, Stained Glass returned $7.80, $2.40 and $2.40. Telly's Pop, co-owned by Telly Savalas of television's "Kojak," and movie producer Howard Koch, paid $2.20 and $2.10. Real Hot paid $2.60 to show.

1933 Coincidence

Reagan Broadcast Ford's Game

By the Associated Press

Backup center Gerald Ford watched from the sidelines most of the afternoon of Nov. 11, 1933 as the University of Michigan defeated Iowa 10-6 at Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor.

In a small radio studio 500 miles west, a 22-year-old fledgling sportscaster named "Dutch" Reagan watched a telegraphic tape and described the game by re-creation for Iowa fans listening to radio WHO in Des Moines.

THE PATHS OF THE two Republican candidates for president in 1976 almost crossed that day 42 years ago, but not quite. One reason, Reagan says, is that Michigan didn't allow broadcast-ers in the stadium.

Ford and Reagan toured the same Big Ten football stadiums for three years in the 1930s, but never at the same time, the records say.

Ford and Reagan both say they loved football. Ford played center. Reagan played right guard.

FORD WAS GOOD at it — good enough to make the Shrine East-West All-Star starting squad as a senior and get an offer of $200 per game to play professional football for the Green Bay Packers. He decided to go to Yale Law School instead, where he also was an assistant football coach.

Reagan was never that good on the field. But he did make the starting team of the tiny Eureka College football squad in Illinois for three seasons, 1929 through 1931.

And Reagan capitalized on his football knowledge and enthusiasm the next year. Fresh out of college in the depths of the Depression in 1932, Reagan talked his way onto commercial radio as a play-by-play sportscaster, a career he gave up five years later for motion pictures and eventual stardom.

FORD SPENT MOST of the 1933 and 1934 seasons on the bench, playing behind Michigan's All-American center, Charles Bernard. But his senior year, Ford was a football star on the Ann Arbor campus.

He was voted the most valuable player on the Michigan squad that year, and he went to California in 1936 to play in the East-West Game in San Francisco and then played in the College All-Star game against the Chicago Bears a few weeks later.

By 1935, Reagan also was establishing himself as a well-known personality around the Big Ten as sportscaster of University of Iowa games. He was also broadcasting Chicago Cubs major league baseball games and earning $100 a week — a handsome salary at that time.

FORD AS OUTSTANDING CENTER IN 1934
President Played for University of Michigan

TWO YEARS LATER, in the spring of 1937, sports also took Reagan to California for the first time. He traveled west to the Cubs' spring training camp on Santa Catalina Island.

While on the coast, Reagan took a screen test at Warner Brothers. A few weeks later he appeared in his first of 51 films as a sportscaster in "Love Is on the Air." He gave up "Dutch" for his given name, Ronald.

Altogether, Reagan did about 600 Chicago Cubs games and about 45 Big Ten football games during five years as a sportscaster.

"SPORTS MEAN a great deal to me. They have been an important part of my life," Ford said in an interview shortly after he was named vice president two years ago.

"My experience as a player and coach have done me a lot of good in the political arena. In politics, teamwork is necessary and there is a lot of criticism, especially from grandstands and experts, most of whom have never played the game," Ford said.

"My experience in college conditioned me for the criticism I faced in politics," he added.

FORD STILL IS a football fan, as time allows. Earlier this month, the President telephoned coach Gil Krueger of Northern Michigan University to congratulate the Wildcats on winning the national small college championship.

Krueger said Ford told him he watched Northern Michigan's final two games on television from the White House and that their come-from-behind victory was "a typical win for a Michigan football team."

Reagan is also still enthusiastic about football. In casual conversation, he is up-to-date on current pro and college football teams.

EARLIER THIS FALL, on a speaking tour in the South, he stopped by the University of Alabama practice field to meet Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant and the football squad.

"Football's more than just a game. I've always felt that way, and I'm sure you do too," he told the Alabama squad. "There are values and experiences you will carry with you wherever you go."

In his 1965 autobiography, "Where's the Rest of Me?" Reagan said he loved all sports, but football was a favorite because his lifelong nearsightedness did not hamper him much in football.

HE SAID OF HIS youth in Dixon, Ill., "It was a good life. I never have asked for anything more, then or now. Probably the best part of it all was playing football. Sure, I played basketball, went out for track and swimming; but those were games. Football was a matter of life and death."

Later in the autobiography, Reagan wrote of his first football broadcast:

"I'd seen only a few games from a grandstand in my whole life, and I'd never been in a press box. Gradually, the stadium filled up and an excitement caught me until I felt as if I were vibrating. It was to become a familiar feeling. It never deserted me on any game broadcast I ever did."

ASKED IF HE EVER crossed paths with Ford during those years, Reagan said in an interview earlier this month, "possibly, but I have no way of knowing."

"I did one Michigan-Iowa game, but I had to do it by telegraphic report. Michigan at that time would not allow you to go in to the stadium to broadcast."

Reagan Gaining Illinois Backing?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan's Illinois campaign manager said Saturday President Ford appears to be losing support among Republicans in Illinois — a state important to the President's campaign for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

Rep. Philip M. Crane (R-Ill.) said he knew of only four of the 11 Republican members of Congress from Illinois who are now willing to run in the primary election as delegates pledged to support Ford at the convention.

'BONNIE AND LEROY': HOPE IN POLITICS

Feel down-in-the-mouth about the state of the nation? Got the post-Watergate blues about politics? "Bonnie and Leroy" may make you feel better. Subtitled "An Alternative to Watergate," the 30-minute special airs Tuesday at 9PM on KCET, shows how a Sacramento couple is working quietly "within the system" to bring about change without compromising their ideals.

Bonnie and Leroy Chatfield are products of the turbulent protest years in the 1960s, working for eight years with the United Farm Workers Union. Then Leroy got involved in Gov. Brown's campaign for governor, and when Brown was elected Leroy was appointed to his staff. Bonnie, meanwhile, took a job as a researcher and speechwriter for Democratic legislators. At that point, filmmaker Ken Rosen of Profile Products set out to make the documentary—one in a series called Human Documents by Channel 28—about how this couple was continuing to work in politics despite all the post-Watergate cynicism. Then Leroy was appointed to Brown to the controversial Agricultural Labor Relations Board, adding to the story because his decisions on the board so far have not always been viewed with favor by his old allies with the United Farm Workers. As a board member, Leroy rules on heated disputes involving the law that guarantees farm workers the right to organize.

Rosen says the couple are part of a new "people's politics," characterized by persons "pragmatically involved in the problems of the 1970s." For their part, Bonnie and Leroy both acknowledge that public skepticism about politicians is not without a sound basis, but contend that the battle for cleaner politics is worth fighting. "I know some politicians whose only interest is getting reelected, and they will do whatever is most expedient," Bonnie says. "But I know some good politicians who really do have the interest of the people at heart."

Anne Elizabeth Martin, 1976 Rose Bowl Queen, will head the parade that kicks off America's Bicentennial celebration officially, as she and her court participate in the 87th annual Tournament of Roses Parade from Pasadena on New Year's Day, Thursday at 8:00AM on NBC. "America, Let's Celebrate," is the theme for this year's extravaganza that will feature 61 floral floats, 22 marching bands and 34 equestrian units. Ms. Martin is a freshman at Pasadena City College and hopes for a career in public relations. She is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. William C. Martin Jr., has one brother (Bill), and her hobbies include botany, cooking & sewing.

Michelle Moore, 1976 Orange Bowl Queen, will reign over the 42nd annual King Orange Jamboree Parade, airing live as a New Year's Eve Special on NBC, Wednesday (from 8 to 9:30PM). Michelle (22) of Pompano Beach, Florida, has worked as a bridal consultant and teacher's aide and is using her $2,000 scholarship award to continue her college studies to achieve a degree in special education. "Odyssey to Freedom" is the Bicentennial theme of the annual parade from Miami, Fla., and Joe Caragiola and Anita Bryant are co-hosts of NBC's coverage.

'PLANNING AHEAD PAYS OFF'

For 120 million North Americans — four million of them from Southern California — the annual Tournament of Roses is merely a pleasant two hour stint before the family television set, watching and enjoying the beauty and pageantry of one of the world's most spectacular extravaganzas.

But for those who make such a telecast possible it represents months of planning and preparation, sleepless nights and an investment of several hundreds of thousand dollars. The city fathers of Pasadena claim the preparation for next year's event begins as soon as the last floral decked float crosses the finish line; and the same is true for television executives and technicians who annually send out their electronic signals in living color.

As early as January 22nd, officials of KTLA — the first station to ever televise the Rose Parade — were critiquing their 1975 telecast and determining how they could make their 30th annual broadcast even better in 1976.

In 1974 KTLA had ended their coverage with the highest share of viewers in the market (Nielsen Overnight Ratings) and had gone on to win the first and only "Emmy" award ever given by the Los Angeles

Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for a telecast of the parade. They determined that what had made their telecast so unique was the hosting job of Dick and Jeri Enberg. Enberg, the "voice" of the California Angels and Los Angeles Rams, is well known to Southland audiences for his thorough preparation and the accurate and articulate manner in which he describes what he sees. It was there and then that KTLA decided they wanted the Enbergs behind their microphones for the bicentennial edition of the Pasadena Rose Parade.

Throughout the Spring, Summer and Fall more meetings and thinking occurred. KTLA's camera locations could not be improved upon. Klaus Landsberg, the now legendary genius of television technique had selected and secured the most advantageous camera angles nearly three decades ago, much to the envy of every other station covering the parade.

But little things could be improved upon. The addition of a street level mini-camera for extreme close-ups and the improvement of curb side microphones to pick up the sounds of marching bands and the excitement of the crowd were a few of the innovations to be incorporated. Staying with the parade for the full two hours without breaking for commercial interruption was another. However, the thing that pleased them most was having the Enbergs back to anchor the whole thing. They knew that no one could compete with the Enbergs' reputation for doing their homework and their intelligent and enlightening commentary. As far back as early October the Enbergs began their preparation by researching and studying the history of the parade and by getting involved with the technical people to coordinate their ideas. A visit to a float builder gave them an opportunity to see several of this year's entries in the structural stage of development. Dick picked up tid-bits on the mechanics of float building and even drove one of the floats to get a better understanding of the driver's view point; while Jeri garnered information about the flower varieties used to cover the floats and how they are preserved and attached. Other visits and interviews with parade officials and participants have given them insights into the intricacies of the event which through their system of well organized notes and recall faculties will be shared with viewers on New Year's morning.

KTLA is even offering something special for those who may not be quite awake when the first marcher steps off at 8:30AM. The station will repeat the parade telecast in its entirety immediately following the parade at 10:30AM and again at 8PM. If you miss any of these 1976 broadcasts, stay tuned. On January 2nd the people at Channel 5 will begin planning to present an even better telecast for the 1977 edition of the Tournament of Roses.

KATE SMITH IS GRAND MARSHALL

Kate Smith, who has been described as the personification of America, will be Grand Marshal of the 87th Pasadena (Calif.) Tournament of Roses. The Rose Parade and the Rose Bowl football game will air on NBC New Year's Day.

In making the announcement, Tournament of Roses Presi-

Kate Smith, the popular singer who has entertained several generations of Americans and who has become symbolic of this country, will be the Grand Marshall of the 1976 Tournament of Roses. Joining Kate will be Rose Queen Anne Martin and her Royal Court, including (l-r) Carol Hennacy, Margaret Charvat, Lisa Pedersen, Edythe Roberts, Martha Caranahan and Caren Ashton.

dent Ralph S. Helpbringer said: "I understand that President Franklin Roosevelt said of Miss Smith, 'This is Kate Smith, this is America.'"

During her 44-year career, the popular singer has introduced more than 700 songs, including "God Bless America," with which she is closely identified. She is the recipient of more than 19 gold records, signifying sales of a million or more copies. Smith will be in the forefront of both the world-famous Rose Parade and the 62nd Rose Bowl football game New Year's Day, the beginning of America's Bicentennial year.

Helpbringer said: "In the Bicentennial year, I can think of no one more fitting, more universally loved and respected, than Kate Smith. She is a legend."

Smith will be the third female Grand Marshal in Tournament of Roses history. Mary Pickford was selected in 1933, and Shirley Temple, at age 10, served in 1939.

COVER CLOSE-UP

THE 'IN' TENANTS

Jose Perez

Take four guys who unfortunately get snagged on the thorn while starting down life's primrose path and what do you have? One of the most unusual comedy series to hit the tube in many a season — the ABC half-hour comedy series, On the Rocks (Thursdays, 8:30-9:00PM.)

The scene is set in a surprising locale — Alamesa, a minimum security institution situated somewhere in the Southwest. The inhabitants of this jug are in a difficult situation and like everyone, need humor in order to survive. They are an unpredictable crew of men who are incarcerated for light crimes ranging from grand theft to property damage.

Although life is not always a bed of roses for the "in" tenants of Alamesa, the men try to make the best out of the circumstances. With their freedom curtailed, and lots of time on their hands, these temporary shut-ins find fun in winning little victories over the establishment and get hilariously involved in beating the system in amusing, unusual ways.

The leader of this convivial group is Hector Emilio Fuentes, played by Jose Perez. Puerto Rican born, Perez is best remembered for his brilliant performance on television as the attendant in Bruce Jay Friedman's "Steambath". Perez was also a regular in Calucci's Department.

Fuentes has come back to Alamesa for a return engagement with a set of reflexes designed to make life inside more tolerable. A generous soul, he is kind enough to pass on some of his acquired knowledge to his three roommates.

Hal Williams plays the role of De Mott, who did a stint with Fuentes before — the class of '68. De Mott enjoys reminiscing about the good ol' days with Fuentes. Williams has gone from one extreme to the other in his roles. Before appearing in On the Rocks, he played Smitty, the hip black policeman on Sanford and Son.

Cleaver, the eternal optimist, is portrayed by Rick Hurst. A cheery soul who always seems to know where the silver lining is, Cleaver makes the best of his situation, although at times he gives the impression of not being quite "with it." Hurst has been seen in countless commercials. Although he may come across the television screen as a man with a lower than low IQ, he has his master's degree in fine arts.

Rounding out the closely-knit assemblage of low-risk inmates is young, vulnerable, first-timer Nicky Palik, portrayed by Bobby Sandler. Palik may seem wide-eyed and innocent, but he is aware of the happenings on the inside and tries to make the most of his new digs with the help of the leadership and guidance of the ever-inspirational Fuentes. Sandler, in addition to being an excellent actor, has been seen on many variety shows as a juggler.

As in all walks of life there are the adversaries. Within the confines of Alamesa, these are the guards. Mel Stewart is the hard-nosed, no-nonsense officer, Mr. Gibson. He believes in treating the "in" group equally — with utter contempt. Stewart, an accomplished actor, was seen as Lionel Jefferson's uncle in All in the Family.

On the other hand, there is Mr. Sullivan, who believes in giving the guys a break, although at times he may appear a little too soft — which he is. Tom Poston plays Sullivan and is probably best remembered as one of the regulars on the Steve Allen Show for which he received an Emmy Award.

Sounds zany? Yes, and typical of the day-to-day life of these frustrated men. They are wily, antic and resourceful, making the best of their incarceration.

"On the Rocks" was created and written by Dick Clement and Ian La Frenais. John Rich, who produced and directed the first 85 episodes of All in the Family, is the producer and director. A John Rich Production. On the Rocks is taped before a studio audience in Hollywood.

Life in a minimum security prison hasn't got these fellows down. They are constantly dreaming up ways to beat the system. In front is Jose Perez who stars as Hector Fuentes, wisest of the group. The others are (l. to r.): Rick Hurst as Cleaver; Hal Williams as De Mott, and Bobby Sandler as Palik.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BARBRA STREISAND

Is it true that you are highly influenced by the men in your life?—A.S., San Mateo, Calif.

● No man can take over my life. I've had the same manager for 14 years, the same lawyer, the same press agents. I make my own decisions and they help me. But I resent all the implications that the man I've been going with, Jon Peters, is my Svengali. I think it's very sexist to suggest I am so weak-minded. And it's a drag to find the public actually believes my life is the same as my screen image. Every man in my life has to be a "Funny Girl" hero to the press. It's just not true!

FOR JIMMY BRESLIN, author

I understand you made a memorable statement about Governor Nelson Rockefeller's failure to go to Attica Prison during the riots. What was it?—John Rogers, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I said that when Rockefeller was a kid, he went to the Museum of Modern Art with his governess. If he had gone to the movies like other kids, he would have known that during a riot the governor of the state always shows up at the prison.

FOR LUCILLE BALL

As Lucy, you're always in incredible situations. Does this ever happen to you in real life?—L.R., Fort Worth, Texas

● How's this one? Years ago I decided to give an old-fashioned Halloween costume party. I put an awful lot of planning and effort into it. Two hours after the guests should have arrived, it became horribly obvious that no one was going to show up. The next morning, I made some phone calls to find out what happened. I found out I'd forgotten to mail the invitations!

FOR OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

I'm nuts about you and wonder what you do in your spare time. I'm hoping our paths might cross—C.R., San Mateo, Calif.

● They might, if you like horseback riding. When I'm home (in Malibu) and not working, I ride whenever I have the time. It's my favorite sport, and my best way of relaxing. I'm also a dog lover, and it breaks my heart when I see strays. I wish I could work out a system so that people would go to pounds and become "foster owners."

FOR BILLY GRAHAM

Do you ever visit Richard Nixon and his family?—Dede Fuson, La Porte City, Iowa

● Yes. In August I had dinner with the former President and Mrs. Nixon. And before my October trip to the Orient I stopped for a brief but enjoyable visit.

FOR KATE SMITH

As a perpetual dieter, how do you avoid overeating at lunch?—B.C., Anniston, Ala.

● I make what I call my "London Smoke" concoction—a half-glass of homogenized milk mixed with a half-glass of diet cola. It's filling and delicious!

FOR BUD GRANT, head coach of the Minnesota Vikings football team

I often wonder why pro quarterbacks hold the ball for field-goal kickers. They could be injured. Is this why your quarterback doesn't?—Ed Murphy, Teaneck, N.J.

● My main reason is this: When you decide to attempt a field goal, it means the quarterback has failed to take the team down the field. He's usually feeling negative at that point. Why should he be made to hold the ball when someone else can do the job?

FOR BING CROSBY

Which Christmas gift did you treasure most of all?—B.G., Canton, Ohio

● Every present is precious, especially when it comes from dear ones. But I'll never forget the time Dad came home with a new Edison phonograph (I was a lad then) and some records. It was the first time I'd heard such singers as Caruso. I was overwhelmed by the sound. Looking back, it seems that's when I must have decided I wanted to be a singer, too.

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, columnist

What is the funniest thing you've ever said?—Barb Banski, Kenosha, Wis.

● When I turned to best-selling novelist Arthur Hailey ("Airport," "Wheels," etc.) and announced, "I have written everything you've ever read."

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

How long has Guy Lombardo been playing? It seems to me he's been around forever.—S.R., North Bergen, N.J.

● His New Year's Eve broadcast this week will be his 48th. When Lombardo gave his first, on radio in 1927, he felt sure it would also be his last! He's 73, and seems to be as active now as he was when he started out, playing for concerts, hotel and club dates and one-night stands. Unlike most musicians, Lombardo was raised in moderate luxury. His father, a tailor, told his seven children not to follow in his footsteps because "The last one to get paid is always the tailor." In the beginning, Lombardo recalls, he could not broadcast lyrics that had the word "hell" in them, due to the strict censoring rules. He and Lilliebell have been married over 40 years. Incidentally, Lombardo's first book, "Auld Acquaintance," was recently published.

An Englishman Looks at Our Bicentennial: Uncle Sam and "The Mother Country"— Through 200 Years of Thick and Thin

By Geoffrey Boeca

The New York cabbie said, "You sound like a Britisher." I confessed it. He went on, "You limeys are taking over everything here. A few years ago, if a guy didn't have an English secretary, he wasn't anything. Your brain-drain doctors have taken over our medicine. Now it's English au-pair girls, and real estate deals with the English. Now I'm driving one in my cab. How do you get away with it?"

"First of all," I said, "you have to lose a war," and I collapsed on the seat in delight at my own joke. It is not often a Briton gets the chance to use that hoariest of postwar clichés, for the simple reason that Britain almost never loses a war. Since World War II alone, Britain has won no fewer than three wars which other countries considered unwinnable, guerrilla wars—in Kenya, Malaya and Borneo. The American War of Independence has been England's only total defeat since the Norman Conquest of 1066. And even then (or so we Englishmen like to tell ourselves) it took men with British names to do it.

So Americans must understand that the British do not feel bad about that war. One cannot say a love-hate relationship exists between the two countries because there is so little hate on the British side. In 1972, during one of the many peaks of controversy over Vietnam, a Harris poll recorded that 49 percent of Americans supported Government policy, 43 percent opposed it and the rest were undecided. Some weeks later, a similar poll was conducted in Britain by Gallup. The result: 48 percent in favor, 44 percent opposed. Not identical, but almost. On almost every major issue, the thinking of most Americans and most Britons is the same.

One of the least noticed facts of life—as unnoticed as the comfort of an old slipper—is the pro-Americanism of the British, both officially and in the streets. Britain gives the U.S. no headaches—not in the U.N., not in NATO, not in foreign policy generally. Anti-American riots in Britain are always synthetic, the work of professional agitators, using what Peter Simple in the London

Daily Telegraph calls "Rent-a-mob."

Not infrequently the British lean over to the extent that they defend America even while America is busy attacking herself. Much of the British press, including such influential columnists as Bernard Levin and Peregrine Worsthorne, were defending Richard Nixon long after he was abandoned by the U.S. press (their point of view: Why pick on Nixon when such tyrants as Brezhnev deserve so much more censure?).

There may be an exception, however: If a poll were to be taken today in Britain on the question, "What do you think of the American Bicentennial?" the answer might well be something like the following:

- 29% I think Americans are better at the decathlon.
- 21% I thought Buffalo Bill wiped out the bison.
- 10% Is it like our Guy Fawkes Day?
- 8% How do you spell it?
- 32% Don't know.

The British attitude to United States history is not so much ambivalent as vague. My schoolboy memories are that the War of Independence was one of history's "Good Things." The unspoken inference was that a band of English country gentlemen, under that great English general, George Washington, gave a deserved thumping to one of England's more forgettable German kings. It was always stressed that Washington was a victorious officer of British troops against the French at Fort Pitt, and that at the beginning of the War of Independence, Continental officers continued to toast the King.

"Occasionally, when I find myself in the U.S. in the summer, American friends ask how the British feel when America celebrates July Fourth. The only answer is, they don't feel anything at all."

Education about the War of 1812 was almost nonexistent because English schoolboys were busy fighting Napoleon. In 1812 both the British and the Americans presumed in advance that the depleted English forces in Canada

"Britain gives the U.S. no headaches—not in the U.N., not in NATO, not in foreign policy generally. Anti-American riots in Britain are always synthetic, the work of professional agitators, using what Peter Simple in the London Daily Telegraph calls 'Rent-a-mob.'" would be no match for the Americans, but that the American fleet had little hope against the Royal Navy. In fact, the reverse happened. The British sacked Washington, and American ships proved superior to the sophisticated British fleet.

As things happened, 39 years later, the maritime shame actually deepened. In 1851, one of the carnival features of the Great London Exposition included a world yachting championship off the Isle of Wight, sponsored by the Royal Yacht Squadron. What was to become invincibly "America's Cup" was won by the American yacht, America, to the incredulous dismay of British sportsmen. A royal aide informed Queen Victoria of the result. "Really?" asked the Queen. "Who came in second?"

The American Civil War caused deep heart-searching in Britain. The upper classes could contemplate slavery with equanimity. Voiced by the thunder of The Times of London, they were pro-South. The working classes, who had real economic reason to be pro-South, weren't. Lancashire depended deeply on Southern cotton, and thousands were thrown out of work by the Federal blockade of Southern ports. But they were also revolted by slavery. The Irish emigration explosion caused by the potato famine of 1846 was two-directional. It hit Liverpool and Glasgow as hard as it hit New York and Boston. The social and political ferment was similar on both sides of the Atlantic, and produced parallel thinking.

But throughout the Civil War there was always the danger of a "flash fire" that would bring England into the war on the side of the South. Outright war nearly began in the fall of 1861, when a hotheaded naval officer created an incident which became notorious as the Trent affair. What happened was that two distinguished Southerners, James Mason of Virginia and John Slidell of Louisiana, had boarded the British mail steamer, Trent, to press Confederate interests in London and Paris. Captain Charles Wilkes of the U.S.S. San Jacinto got wind of the mission, boarded the Trent off Havana and took off the two diplomats.

The incident caused fury in England. An American observer in London wrote William Seward, the Secretary of State, "The people are frantic with rage, and were the country polled, I fear 999 men out of a thousand would declare for war." As the English press fumed, 11,000 British troops embarked for Canada to the strains of a volunteer band playing "Dixie."

Fortunately both sides were blessed with brilliant diplomats. The American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Charles Francis Adams, and the British Ambassador in Washington, Lord Lyons, soothed ruffled feathers. While feisty Yankees were just as keen to take on the British as vice versa, Abraham Lincoln preached "one war at a time." Seward backed down gracefully, released Mason and Slidell to pursue their missions in Europe, and even offered the British troopships landing facilities in Maine, an offer rejected with equal politeness. But it was what Wellington would have called a near-run thing.

A year later, pro-Southern feeling in high places was still strong in England. William Gladstone declared in the House of Commons: "The leaders of the South have made an Army; they are making, it appears, a Navy, and they have made what is more than either—they have made a nation." The speech created a sensation on two continents. It so happened, however, that Gladstone was Chancellor of the Exchequer (Treasury). The Foreign Secretary, Earl Russell suggested to Gladstone that he stick to counting his pounds, shillings and pence, and stay out of the foreign policy biz.

Had General Lee's 1863 offensive succeeded, it is probable that Britain and France would have recognized the Confederacy's independence; but Gettysburg settled that, and the war ended with Washington and London still on speaking terms.

Between the Civil War and World War I, Britain and the U.S. pretty much left each other alone. The American press enjoyed what was called "tweaking the lion's tail," rather the way India and the former Empire countries do today; but the British (provokingly, we hoped) never seemed to notice. Emigration enriched both countries. The World traveler and novelist Geoffrey Bocca writes frequently for FAMILY WEEKLY about matters concerning his home country, England, and his adopted country, the United States. His most recent book is "Giselle" (Putnam, $8.95).

U.S. acquired, to name just one, Andrew Carnegie. Culturally, Britain got Henry James (New York), T. S. Eliot (St. Louis), and Ezra Pound (Hailey, Idaho). Industrially, we acquired Sir Hiram Maxim (Sangerville, Me.), inventor of the machine gun. Sir Gordon Selfridge, builder of Selfridge's of Oxford Street, London, one of the world's biggest department stores, was born in Ripon, Wis. in 1858.

President Woodrow Wilson brought the U.S. into WWI in March 1917. At the end of that year, Field Marshal Earl Haig uttered his famous prayer, "God grant us victory, before the Americans arrive." To further that end, he left 750,000 British soldiers dead and wounded in the quagmire and on the wire of Passchendaele.

The period between the wars saw British tastes and attitudes consumed by Hollywood. Hollywood society was practically dominated by Britishers like Ronald Colman, Merle Oberon, Leslie Howard, Cary Grant, George Arliss, Herbert Marshall and Gladys Cooper. Mock Tudor villas, rustic country houses and magisterial castles blossomed in Beverly Hills. Aspiring actors often pretended to be British to get started. Robert Cummings was one. Some went even further, moved to Britain and became virtual Britons, like Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Tallulah Bank-

Nashville Stars on "Nashville":

As most people know by now, most of the big film critics loved a movie called "Nashville." A lot of moviegoers did, too—and some didn't. But what about the people on whose lives and livelihood the movie was based—the country singers who make the real Nashville their home?

What follows are some of the comments these stars made to FAMILY WEEKLY after seeing the movie.

In case you didn't see it, "Nashville" is director Robert Altman's self-proclaimed survey of American society. As 24 characters race frantically through the film, the dominant portrait is one of self-indulgence, confusion, hypocrisy, insensitivity, violence and greed. If the movie can be said to have a star, it is Ronee Blakley as "Barbara Jean," a pathetic, emotionally shattered country singer whose assassination brings the film to a violent conclusion. Another memorable character is Henry Gibson's temperamental, tyrannical "Haven Hamilton"—a country star with political ambitions.

LYNN ANDERSON

I was personally affronted by the music. They didn't make it clear that it was tongue-in-cheek. They didn't say it with a smile.

Parts of the movie were painfully true—realistic to the point of hurting people. Other parts were blatantly overdone. There are some performers who are egomaniacs and some performers who are pious to the point of being ridiculous. But you find that in any business.

The movie was filled with a lot of cheap shots. I think they tried to make a composite of several people, but there was a blatant characterization of Loretta Lynn, and Henry Gibson was obviously meant to look like Hank Snow. That blonde has been said to be anybody from me to Tammy Wynette to Connie Smith. I wouldn't be insulted if it was me because a performer is a performer and I do show my best side to an audience. But I hope I'm not that awful to people offstage!

The producer, writer and director ob-

Loretta Lynn

Ronee Blakley

Hank Snow

Henry Gibson

See any resemblance? Some people in Nashville are saying that the resemblances are too marked to be coincidental... that "Nashville" stars Blakley and Gibson were meant to portray singers Lynn and Snow.

Too Close for Comfort—Or Not Close Enough?

By Susan Toepfer

viously had a preconceived notion that Nashville and all it stood for was trash. They left a lot of hurt feelings because everybody opened doors for them, accepted them, helped them—and didn't expect a kick in the chops! Maybe now country music has taken such large steps there's some resentment going on. The movie may just show that Nashville has reached its stardom.

But it was really such a shallow story, so rambling and sensationalized with no purpose, no moral. To me, it was just an exploitation of the boom in interest in country music by someone who didn't understand what he was exploiting. And the part I hate most is that the uninitiated will think all of us must be bad or that all of us create that horrible music they had. I hope to God my music doesn't sound like that!

CARL SMITH

I thought it was great! Fabulous! I haven't enjoyed a movie like that in ages! I've been here 25 years and I've seen it all. Maybe it hit too close to some people. There's no doubt the major characters were Loretta Lynn and Hank Snow. The film is exaggerated a little in terms of what they would do, but the main characters are based on them. It's definitely about Nashville.

Carl Smith

Jeanne Pruett

Webb Pierce

Minnie Pearl

Roy Clark

JEANNE PRUETT

I think it's a rip-off. It's the only shot some people will ever have at seeing Nashville, and all they're getting is a bunch of dressed-up, eccentric people parading around in a circus atmosphere. The film people deny that the movie is referring to real entertainers, but it is. Everybody knows Barbara Jean (the Ronee Blakley character) was Loretta Lynn. Loretta Lynn worked hard, long hours to get the stardom she's now accorded. It's not fair for her to be treated like that.

As for the music, those songs never would've made it out of Nashville. I'd be hard pressed to name the one I hated most. The whole movie was just a put-down.

MINNIE PEARL

I'm afraid a lot of people who love our music will be offended by this film. The music is terrible. I know they did a bad job with the Opry. There was a plastic look about the fans that turned me off. They took a group of regular Opry fans who were scared about bein' in a movie and they had them do the scene over and over. It showed on their faces.

Also, they left out the most important part of Nashville: the fellowship and love that exist between country singers and their fans.

WEBB PIERCE

I think Altman just had a nightmare, and he filmed that instead of our town. I don't think he'll ever be able to come back here again—he'll get hanged!

Loretta Lynn and Hank Snow drop more at a poker game than a guy like Altman makes in a year. There are rotten people everywhere—and a lot of them down here—but it's about 25-percent better than in the rest of the country. If you're gonna pick on somebody, pick on somebody dead. They don't know nothin' about it.

ROY CLARK

There was some great acting, particularly by Henry Gibson, but I couldn't figure out what was happening until the end. I kept waiting for it to settle down to "boy meets girl." I liked the music, but I didn't think much of the lyrics. In fact, I sorta resented the songs. It was quite evident that they were written by non-country songwriters.

As for similarities to real country stars, the only one I was conscious of was the character Henry Gibson played. Before I saw the movie, I did a talk show with Henry and the physical resemblance between him and Hank Snow is remarkable. I asked him off-camera if he'd patterned the character after Hank, and he said he honestly didn't. So maybe it was just one of those strange coincidences.

People have said that Ronee Blakley was supposed to be Loretta Lynn. I've known Loretta 15 years. There's a physical resemblance, but nothing Ronee did in the film resembled her. The girl in "Nashville" was too aware of what was going on.

LORETTA LYNN

I haven't seen it, but people told me I coulda sued. They didn't mention my name, but the things that went on, they might just as well have.

I don't care if they have me kinda crazy, because I am. I don't care if they have me goin' in and out of hospitals, because I do. But when I hear they're cartin' my dead body off and havin' an unknown take my place—that I don't like!

HANK SNOW

I'm not a moviegoer. The last movie I saw was "Love Story." I have better things to do than to go see a movie where somebody's supposed to be playing me. I wouldn't even go out of my way to listen to the sound track.

No... unlike the guy in the movie, I don't think I have any political ambitions. But I do like to watch politicians. And I'm not pompous at all. I'm just a quiet, bashful country boy.

Champagne, cheeses, fresh fruit and crusty bread—plus an aromatic Sausage and Sauerkraut Casserole—make festive New Year's fare.

SAUSAGE AND SAUERKRAUT CASSEROLE

- 3 cans (1 lb., 11-oz. size) sauerkraut, rinsed
- 1 bottle (½ qt.) dry white wine
- 2 large potatoes, cubed
- 1 qt. water
- ¼ lb. thick sliced bacon, cut in large pieces
- 2 onions, quartered
- 3 apples, peeled, cored and quartered
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon caraway seed
- ½ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 lb. bratwurst or smoked sausages
- 1 lb. knackwurst, scored
- 1 lb. veal sausage

1. Preheat oven to 325°F. Combine sauerkraut, dry white wine, potatoes, water, bacon, onions, apples, sugar, salt, caraway seed, pepper and bay leaves in large 6- to 8-qt. Dutch oven. Stir to mix.
2. Cover and bake for 2 hours; stir occasionally.
3. Add bratwurst, knackwurst and veal sausage to sauerkraut mixture. Continue baking, covered, for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with assorted mustards and crusty breads. Makes 8 servings

CRUSTY WHEAT BRAN BREAD

- 1 cup unsifted whole wheat flour
- 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 2¼ cups bran*
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons shortening or margarine
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease an 8- or 9-inch round layer cake pan.
2. Combine whole wheat flour, flour, 2 cups bran, baking powder, baking soda, salt and 4 tablespoons sugar in medium bowl. Stir to mix.
3. Add shortening and cut into flour with two knives or a pastry blender until shortening is in fine pieces.
4. Make a well in center of flour mixture; pour in buttermilk. Mix well.
5. Work dough with hands until it forms a rough ball. Shape into a 5-inch round ball and place in prepared pan.
6. Make 2 partial cuts crosswise through dough. Brush surface with melted butter.
7. Crush ¼ cup bran with 2 tablespoons sugar in blender. Sprinkle over top of loaf.
8. Bake for 35 to 40 minutes until golden brown. Serve warm with butter or margarine. Makes 6 to 8 servings

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES

Simply mail the application, together with check or money order for only $1.86 as payment for your first 11 records or tapes.

Every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest... plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the alternate card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened... the selections you order will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 8 selections within 3 years), you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan. Here, indeed, is the most convenient way possible to acquire the records and tapes you want—at the greatest savings possible! So don't delay—mail the application today!

How to Command your Pituitary Gland to order up to 756 times its own weight in fat to leave your body every single day

By Joan Woodward

Use your head! Millions of overweight Americans could have slimmed down a long time ago by doing just that. For years, people with weight problems have desperately searched for ways to shed pounds. Ironically, even as they frantically searched, they were carrying the perfect weight loss secret right in their own head — their Pituitary Gland.

Allow me to explain. By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you can command your pituitary gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator) to order up to 1 pound of fat to leave your body every day. You'll continue to shed pounds until you reach your ideal weight — and then stay fat free forever. This weight loss secret works for everyone, whether 5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight.

But, best of all, you lose weight while eating the foods you love. In fact, you must eat to lose weight. That's the key to this weight loss secret.

As a reporter for the newsletter "Total Fitness Today", my job is to check out weight loss plans being developed across the country. Since I machine to a fat evacuating system. Your Pituitary Gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day — even while you sleep.

Q. If these 'trigger' foods are in everyone's diet, why isn't my Pituitary Gland evacuating fat?

A. Unfortunately, even if your diet consists of 95% 'trigger' foods, it only takes 5% 'blocker' foods to prevent your Pituitary Gland from evacuating fat.

Q. How can I trigger my Pituitary Gland?

A. Not by willpower, not by concentration, not with exercise, but by eating. Only by eating 'trigger' foods and avoiding 'blocker' foods can you trigger your Pituitary Gland to evacuate fat. Remember, the Weight Loss Secret is a nutrition plan, not a diet.

Q. What are these 'trigger' foods, and how much can I eat?

A. These 'trigger' foods are the every day foods you love: juicy sirloin steaks, hearty helpings of beef stroganoff, spicy ham, double cheeseburgers, meatloaf, barbecued chicken, omelets, vegetables; like broccoli smothered with hollandaise sauce, cantaloupes, fruit cocktails – even desserts like strawberries with whipped cream, pumpkin to illness. Second, with most methods, the results, if any, come too slowly. So most people lose hope and quit.

Q. You're right about why they fail. I know, because I've tried them all, without success. But, why does glandular control work?

A. Again, two reasons. As I said, people are overweight because people are overweight because they love to eat. With Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you must eat to lose weight. Therefore, overweight people will use it. It's as simple as that. The Weight Loss Secret has none of the drawbacks of other methods. There's no starvation, no willpower, no boring exercises, no health ruining diet pills, no weird fad dieting. It doesn't leave you weak and nervous. In fact, it makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than before.

Q: You said there are two reasons why this secret works. What's the second reason?

Robert Ridgfield, discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret, points to the gland that will make you thin. Your pituitary gland, weighing a mere 1/60th of an ounce, can command up to one pound of fat (756 x 1/60th of an ounce = one lb.) to leave your body every single day. Since all of us have a pituitary gland, everyone—5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight can learn nature's weight loss secret of glandular control. The article below will explain how you can reap the benefits of this amazing scientific breakthrough by losing as much as 14 lbs. in two weeks.

WHAT WILL THE SECRET DO FOR YOU?

By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will:

- Lose all the weight you want, as much as a pound a day, while eating the food you love.
- Lose inches off your waist, hips, thighs, and banish ugly cellulite bumps.
- Never go hungry.
- Increase your energy and vitality.
- Look and feel younger.
- End your up-down roller coaster weight cycle by staying fat free forever.

After I lost my weight, my boss, Timothy Voros, the Chairman of the Board of Consumer Publishing, decided to try the secret. He lost 22 lbs. in 22 days. He was so impressed, he grabbed up the exclusive world wide rights to this revolutionary new weight loss secret. He then commissioned Mr. Ridgefield to author the text have a weight problem, I take a special interest in these assignments. When I heard about this revolutionary new weight loss secret, I decided to investigate.

I set up an appointment with Robert Ridgefield, the discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control. I started with tough questions.

HOW DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. How does the secret work?

A. The secret works by making food your ally instead of your enemy. There are two types of food in everyone's daily diet - 'triggers' and 'blockers'. By eating 'trigger' foods, you trigger or turn on your Pituitary Gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator). Once triggered, your Pituitary Gland secretes a fat evacuating chemical fluid. This fluid is transported throughout your body and transforms your body from a fat producing pie, chocolate pudding, ice cream, and your favorite wines, liquors—even beer! You need not drastically alter your eating habits to get rid of the 'blocker' foods, because they don't make up that big a part of your diet.

WHY DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. You've told me how it works, but all weight loss methods look good on paper – they just don't work in real life. Why is this one different?

A. In order to understand why the secret works, you must first know why other methods fail. They fail for two reasons. First, other methods work against human nature, and therefore are doomed to failure from the start. People with weight problems obviously love to eat. Starvation is sheer torture. No one in their right mind is going to torture themselves for very long. Strenuous exercise is difficult, worklike, and boring. Diet pills leave you weak, nervous and prone conversation, I asked Mr. Ridgfield if I could talk with people who had successfully used the secret. He did better. He introduced me to four people who were going to start the weight loss secret the following Monday, and asked me if I would like to join them.

I took a before picture of Pat, Janet, Dan and Linda. I then followed their progress every day and had an after picture taken. As you can see from the photos, their results were amazing. But, they weren't the only ones to achieve results.

I lost 4 inches off my waist, 3 inches off my thighs and 14 lbs. in 14 days. My whole life has changed. My clothes fit great. I look and feel younger. I've found new self-confidence. But best of all, my love life has improved. The Weight Loss Secret can do the same thing for you.

and ordered a small press run to be printed. This book is not available in any bookstore anywhere in the world. But, you can learn the secret right now by ordering the book direct by mail.

HOW CAN YOU LEARN THE SECRET?

If you wish to learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, simply do this: Write "Weight Loss Secret" and your name and address on a piece of paper and send it along with $6.95 in cash, check or money order. (Make checks payable to Consumer Publishing.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. name of card B. credit card number C. card expiration date.

Mail your order to: CONSUMER PUBLISHING, 401 Market Ave., N., Dept. C-50, Canton, Ohio 44702.

Mr. Voros is personally backing this book with a 100% no risk guarantee. After following the weight loss secret, you must lose all the weight you want, while eating the foods you love. You must feel healthier, happier and look 10 years younger. If this does not happen, or if you are dissatisfied in any way, just send your book back. You'll receive every penny of your money back - no questions asked.

Remember, only a small press run of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control has been printed. To make sure that you get your copy, why not order right now, while you're thinking about it. If you have any questions, feel free to call me, Joan Woodward, at (216) 455-1474.

People and You

How to Turn Stress Around—
And Make It Work for You

Unless you become a hermit, chances are you'll never totally escape stress. Psychologists Patricia MacDonald and William Johnson of Whitworth College in Spokane have discovered ways to help you cope. They suggest you: 1) Realize that many people create stress for themselves by being unrealistic about the time, strength and ability they have. For example, the idea of having all 28 members of your immediate family in for a holiday dinner may be appealing, but realistically are you and your spouse able to cope with such a situation?

2) Don't feel guilty when you allow for your emotional and physical needs. Say the experts, if you sacrifice the extra sleep, solitude, exercise or artistic expression you crave, you eventually make it easier for tension and anxiety to affect you. 3) Think through your attitude toward change. Does change automatically cause you to feel tense because you assume change means trouble? Adjusting to a new job, to a new neighborhood, to children leaving home for kindergarten or college can be either a problem or an interesting new experience depending on how you look at it. Even if you can't conquer this habit, just realizing that change makes you anxious can be useful. Another Whitworth College psychologist, David Erb, believes stress shouldn't be eliminated. When you're under stress, he says, your senses and mind are geared for action. The trick is to keep your stress at the most productive level and to pace yourself. Just as your body needs rest when doing physical work, your mind and emotions also require rest from pressure in order to achieve. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

British View

head and Ben Lyon.

How Goldwyn, Mayer, Zanuck, Selznick and the rest fell for this unconscious con job can only be explained by a massive social inferiority complex. Hollywood, in the thirties, kissed the feet of the British Empire, with "Gunga Din," "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "Northwest Mounted Police," "King of the Khyber Rifles." As for a movie called "The Sun Never Sets," it was so imperial-jingoistic, even the British felt nauseated.

When the war began in September 1939, the Empire's most influential colony, Hollywood, went to war, too. It produced streams of movies that were pro-British, pro-war and anti-German: "The White Cliffs," "Mrs. Miniver," "Nurse Edith Cavell," "That Hamilton Woman," "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," "Beau Geste" and "Eagle Squadron." In the period between September 1939 and the U.S. entry into the war in December 1941, I cannot think of a single isolationist or pacifist movie out of Hollywood, and only one very covertly anti-British film, "Drums Along the Mohawk." Even when War of Independence themes were touched on, the British were usually called "Hessians," referring to the German mercenaries the British used in the war.

The U.S. was the British Empire's first important lost colony. Not another was lost for a century and a half, when Ireland finally flew the coop. (In the interim, the Empire had increased to include most of Africa and much of Asia.) Today, Britain has lost the whole bunch and couldn't care less. A century ago, at the height of Britain's glory, a young man labored seven days a week in the mines, a girl seven days a week at the spinning jenny, and they lived on gin. Today the young coal miner and his Lancashire wife leave their color TV sets only when they climb into the car, ferry over to the Continent and drive to Spain for a vacation.

Occasionally, when I find myself in the U.S. in the summer, American friends ask how the British feel when America celebrates July Fourth. The only answer is, they don't feel anything at all. As for Thanksgiving, I doubt if 15 percent of the British people, if polled, would know what the pollster was talking about. In other words, the confident prediction of this writer is that, on the other side of the Atlantic, America's 200th birthday will be almost as much a non-event as, say, the Rose Bowl. British newspapers will be filled with news of the cricket matches against West India. The Queen will send a telegram of congratulations to President Ford, and in both countries, for different reasons, a good time will be had by all, providing the weather holds.

IT'S ONLY AN ANIMAL

Dying in a steel-jaw, leghold trap. An animal that feels pain much like we do. Imagine having your fingers crushed in a car door. Nobody opens the door for 24 hours. That's what happens in a steel-jaw trap. Less than half the states have laws requiring trappers to even check traps every 24 hours. No one has cared much. It's only an animal.

Every winter millions of fox, lynx, raccoons, minks, otters, muskrats, beavers, badgers, bobcats, skunks, and other animals suffer in these primitive traps. Why? Because humans think fur coats are "glamorous and chic." There is nothing glamorous about being clamped in a trap for hours or even days, exposed to the weather, without food or water, in pain and fear, waiting for the trapper and death. Some even chew or wring off their toes or paws to escape. But then, they're only animals.

This trap hasn't changed much since the days early fur traders and mountain men used it to nearly wipe out the beaver in this country. That was well over 100 years ago. Today trapping is a sport... a hobby... a recreation. Few people trap for survival. The reasons have changed but the trap has not. The pain and suffering it has inflicted on wild animals over the years is impossible to comprehend. Still, little has been done about more humane traps. Again, the victims are only animals.

It is time to change, time to stop making excuses for this needless suffering. It is time to outlaw the steel-jaw trap.

It is the only decent thing to do—for the animals. Please help.

The proud smoke

Product of a proud land.

Tobacco. It's as proud a part of the American tradition as Niagara Falls. At Liggett & Myers, we've made tobacco into a cigarette worthy of that tradition. The rich, mellow, distinctively smooth L&M. Smoke it proudly.

SHIRLEY BASSEY
"The Swiss are sensible"

What's it like being typed the "new Judy Garland?" "Of course I'm flattered by the comparison," Welsh singer Shirley Bassey told FAMILY WEEKLY. "Every female singer dreams of mesmerizing an audience the way Judy Garland did. Most singers want to be great actresses as well. I gave up films some years ago—I was either too light or too dark-skinned for most roles. I'm not sure I'm as much of a show-biz personality as Judy was. I love performing and 'communicating' with an audience, but I live in Switzerland—not only to escape the enormous taxes in England but also to get away from adulating fans and the clannish set of stars who live in England.

Switzerland is not only a beautiful country but a sensible one. You can't make a career out of politics there because terms in office are short and you can't be re-elected. There isn't time to become corrupt. I don't even know the name of the President!"

SEAWORTHY CAMPERS
First signs of overpopulation

Camping has become one of America's favorite pastimes in recent years. There are six million recreational vehicles in operation and an estimated 50 million people who go camping. All this interest, however, has had one serious side-effect—campsites are terribly overcrowded, thereby diminishing a camper's enjoyment and dreams of privacy. So designer-engineer Richard Reed set out to create a new way to use campers. Since people naturally head for water spots, says Reed, it seemed logical to invent a way they could use their vehicles as houseboats. The solution to the problem became Camp-A-Float, now available for rent at several wilderness lake sites. The amazing amphibious transformation is possible within 15 minutes, claims Reed, simply by driving the camping vehicle on board his specially designed five-ton cruiser, where it's mechanically positioned and secured.

Was the publisher of the Washington Post really a shy girl? "Perhaps it is not surprising that Katharine Graham grew up less than aggressively self-confident, being a child of two such formidable parents as Eugene and Agnes Meyer. Eugene had made millions on Wall Street and then devoted years to government service. But his fame rests largely on the fact that he transformed the Washington Post, which he acquired in 1933, from an unimpressive scandal sheet. Agnes was a dynamo of wit, charm, beauty, intelligence and social commitment. She has been likened to a galleon in full sail, all guns firing; but warmth and mothering were in short supply. All the Meyer children (there were five) were expected to be brilliant, charming, witty and slightly eccentric. Kay, growing up, believed that she alone of the children was failing to achieve these goals. "She was the quietest, perhaps even rather stolid. She did not join the great wide-ranging intellectual battles; the showing off, the singing, that characterized the Meyer table. Katharine Graham, now chairman of the Washington Post Co., today admits that for years she thought of herself as 'a Mongolian.' She has referred to her younger self as a peasant in almost every interview she has given. Of course, peasants are strong and durable, and it was Kay who would end up the only Meyer child of large accomplishment and influence." From "The Women of Watergate" (Stein and Day, $8.95), by Madeleine Edmondson and Alden Duer Cohen.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

SPEAK UP!

I'm growing hard of hearing,
Or so I'm told now often.
But I find it more cheering
To think they're speaking softer.

I hear as well as ever,
Though words come through a jumble.
It's just too bad, however,
So many have to mumble.

No hearing aid I'm seeking,
To vibrate on a bone.

Let others, who are speaking,
Go get a megaphone.

A young wife took one of her husband's white shirts to the laundry to see about the removal of an ugly red stain from the left pocket, where a ballpoint pen had leaked. The laundryman studied the sinister smear a moment, then said quietly: "Nice shot, lady."

When the boss tells a joke, he who laughs, lasts.—Frank Tyger

A psychiatrist was amazed to see a man enter his office with a large chicken perched on his head.

"Well, Sir," said the doctor, "it looks as though you need help."

"I do, I do . . . Get me down from here!" screamed the chicken.

—Samuel J. Stannard

Imagination is something that sits up with parents while the children are out late.—Thomas LaMance

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

One of the fringe benefits of having twins is the delightful things other children say about them. One little girl, who appeared to be four or five, walked around the stroller looking our identical boys over carefully. Then she asked, "Which is the real one?"

DURING THE WEEK AFTER CHRISTMAS I ALWAYS FEEL A LITTLE DEPRESSED! IT'S LIKE THOSE MOVIES WHERE A GUY IS OUT ON A BURNING DESERT...

WHEN ALL OF A SUDDEN HE SEES A MIRAGE AND HE GETS REAL EXCITED AND STARTS RUNNING TOWARDS IT! ONLY TO FIND THAT WHEN HE GETS THERE, THERE'S NOTHING THERE AND EVERYTHING IS THE SAME AS IT WAS!

THAT'S HOW I FEEL THE WEEK AFTER CHRISTMAS! HOW DO YOU FEEL, CRAZY?

DOCTOR SMOCK

By George Lemont

● SAY WHEN! "No man is rich enough to buy back his ____." —Oscar Wilde. Fill the blank with a short word, if you can.

● In 1977, there will be a 7/7/77. In 1988, there'll be an 8/8/88, and so on. When will a date have the same number seven times?

● Repeat aloud: A shepherd had 20 sick sheep. One died. How many were left? Answer (19 or 25) hinges on how one hears "20 sick sheep."

● Riddle-Me-This! Why is a drummer the fastest man in the world? Answer: Because although time beats all men, a drummer beats time. No?

TRY this mind-reading trick at your New Year's party. Introduce one of the guests as your assistant, and then explain the trick.

During your assistant's absence from the room, someone is to touch or indicate any object in sight, and on his return your friend will name the object selected.

How it's done: By prearrangement, your aide knows that when you ask for the fifth time "Is it this?" he is to answer "Yes."

Repeat the stunt, designating the third object this time, and repeat again naming the sixth object, etc.

SPECIAL DELIVERY! What can you draw to complete this timely scene? To find out, add lines from dot to dot.

SCORE 10 points for using all the letters in the word below to form two complete words:

- - - - -

THEN score 2 points each for all words of four letters or more found among the letters.

Try to score at least 50 points.

DO YOU KNOW HOW MUCH I MISS YOU WHEN YOU'RE NOT WITH ME?

IN THE YEAR AHEAD, DEAR-LORD, GRANT US SUFFICIENT STRENGTH TO BRING LAW AND ORDER TO MEN'S MINDS. ALONG WITH TOLERANCE AND STEADFASTNESS - AMEN.

I GUESS YOU KNOW, TRACY, THAT SPARKLE IS HOME AND ALL IS WELL WITH THE ALLDIDS.

YES, THEY'RE STARTING THE NEW YEAR RIGHT, LIZZ.

And so they are!

IT SHORE IS NICE TO SEE YOU TWO JOKIN' AND CARRYIN' ON AGAIN.

BUNNY!

I INNOCENTLY CAUSED ALL THE TROUBLE AND I'M HERE TO APOLOGIZE AND WISH YOU AND VERA A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

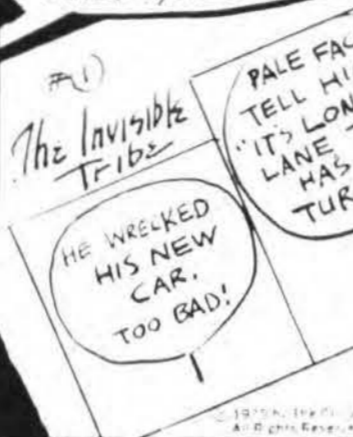

AND HERE, VERA, ARE TEN NEW GAGS FOR YOUR STRIP. "INVISIBLE TRIBE." NO CHARGE.

THAT'S A SAMPLE. HOPE YOU LIKE THEM, VERA.
