County Running Short of Gasoline

Some Stations to Close for Holiday

By The Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County motorists planning a Memorial Day weekend outing may find the touted gasoline shortage is suddenly very real.

A random survey of service stations from Seal Beach to San Clemente indicated many will close for the holiday, some for the entire weekend, to save fuel for regular customers.

"We're closing for the entire weekend, not just Memorial Day but every weekend," said the manager of Mike's Union Service Station, 3599 Harbor Boulevard, Costa Mesa.

The squeeze is coming from the top.

Corporate spokesmen for Chevron said they are limiting their stations to the amounts purchased this month last year.

For the University Park Chevron dealer, Culver Drive and Michelson Avenue, Irvine, this has meant a cutback from 180,000 gallons to 140,000. It has meant shorter hours of operation each day. It will mean closing for the long holiday weekend.

Most West Orange County stations sampled planned to close on Memorial Day, except Shell and Exxon dealers, who seemed confident supplies would hold out through month's end.

Norm Rice's Chevron on Beach Boulevard in Huntington Beach has chopped three hours daily from his work day and closes Sundays to stretch supplies.

Jerry Foster Chevron, Talbert Avenue at the San Diego Freeway in Fountain Valley, has quit giving stamps and upped prices. He'll close Memorial Day and hike prices more if demand outstrips supplies.

One Arco station in the middle of San Clemente has been closed through the week because there is nothing in its tanks.

"It seems to be a standard procedure by the supplier. They will allot us a certain amount of gasoline and it will have to last through a set period," said Bob

Schools Fear Field Trips To Face Cuts

Most school districts contacted along the Orange Coast indicate the gas shortage will take its toll on field trips. Students are going to be class-bound much more than they were this year.

Basic pick-up and delivery services won't be affected, say school officials. The buses will make their daily runs to the school house even if they have to fill up at the corner gas station.

Gas rationing will be noticed most in large districts, such as the Huntington Beach Union High School District, which has 34 buses, another 170 vehicles, power lawn mowers, edgers, other equipment and a $40,500 annual fuel budget.

The high school buses covered more than 350,000 miles this past year. That's tough on gas when you realize a school bus only gets three to four miles-per-gallon.

Some districts which have recently built schools will hardly feel the fuel pinch because they'll be making fewer bus trips than the previous year.

Most of the districts also admit they have not mapped out detailed plans because they were only recently made aware of the 15-percent cutback.

At the Capistrano Unified School District headquarters the situation is tense.

Although the summer recess will mean few major fuel expenses, the 156-square-mile district closes its schools late this year and Supt. Truman Benedict said Friday that finding fuel for the month of June will be "tough."

"Our present fuel contract expires June 1 and the supplier has promised to fill our tanks before that date. We only hope that that fuel will last through the month.

"We're pretty sure that we'll have adequate supplies after that period, but diesel fuel will probably go up by 50 percent very soon. It will be a major new expense," he added.

The Laguna Beach Unified School District uses about 33,000 gallons of gasoline a year, and 16,000 gallons of diesel.

"I don't know what we will do," maintenance director Ray Lawson said.

His department is now studying the district's usage patterns and will be going to the school board soon.

"I don't know what they can do," he said.

He said he expected that extra-curricular trips and athletic trips would be cut first. He said even contracting with a private bus company for the extra trips might not work. "The contractors are in the same boat we are," he said.

He said the district might be cut back

Toll: Five Dead

Mental Patient Slays Four, Self

CARSON (UPI) — A man released from a state mental hospital two weeks ago shot and killed his wife and three young children, then killed himself Friday evening at their home in this Los Angeles suburb, officials said.

Sheriff's deputies said a .22-caliber pump action rifle was found beside the body of the father, Charles R. Soper, 36, who was discovered lying in the bedroom of his dead son, Roy, 10.

The other victims included the mother, May, 35, and two children, Diane Marie, 11, and Teresa Bernise, 7.

Investigators said Soper was released two weeks ago from Camarillo State Hospital and had a history of mental illness since 1971.

Deputies said Soper called his mother Thursday saying that he was depressed. The mother tried to call the home Friday, got no answer, then called a social worker who notified authorities.

One Injunction Granted Against Avco Complex

By TOM BARLEY
of the Daily Pilot Staff

An injunction hailed by Avco Development Corporation's courtroom opponents as a major blow to the company's $100 million Salt Creek complex was granted late Friday by an Orange County Superior Court judge.

Judge Herbert S. Herlands closed two days of hearings into the action filed by the Environmental Coalition of Orange County against Avco by halting all grading at the shopping complex surrounding a planned Alpha Beta store.

He issued an identifical injunction against a planned golf course until an impassioned last-minute plea by Avco attorney R. Wicks Stephens II led the judge to agree to accept further testimony on the issue Monday.

Stephens, obviously shaken by the ruling, said he will put witnesses on the stand Monday in a bid to stave off an order that would freeze grading operations at two of three Salt Creek tracts until trial of the issue.

Coalition lawyers said Judge Herlands' refusal to order an injunction for the third tract — a planned residential-condominium sector — was expected since 95 percent of the grading had been completed when coastline conservation laws went into effect.

Judge Herlands' comments before the afternoon sessions Friday seemed to indicate a ruling that would have been more to the liking of Avco's battery of lawyers.

But testimony by county building officials on the scope and extent of grading operations in the Salt Creek development appeared to pave the way for his final ruling.

Judge Herlands repeatedly noted in the final hours of the hearing that Avco had pumped more than $82,000 into grading operations in the 11 days prior to the effective date of the coastline conservation act authorized by the passage of Proposition 20.

And Coalition lawyers just as repeatedly noted that Avco had contributed $25,000 to the campaign mounted against Proposition 20 when the company realized that the initiative was a threat to the Salt Creek development.

Avco lawyers told Judge Herlands before he ruled that the delays already imposed by Judge Robert P. Kneeland's restraining order had cost the company at least $5 million.

The delay imposed by Judge Herlands' ruling will at least double that figure, they estimated after the hearing.

Judge Herlands' injunction allows the company to complete grading in its residential-condominium complex but bars further construction under the terms of the coastline conservation measure.

It bars construction activity of any kind in the planned Alpha Beta shopping center pending trial of the issue.

And the judge made it clear that he

Fill 'er Up-- With Kool-Aid

Smith's Arco Kool-Aid Service?

"I'm stuck with an overabundance of glasses," rationalizes Robert J. Smith, who no longer needs such fancy premiums to induce people to purchase his brand of petroleum.

Underground tanks at Smith's Arco Service, 2990 Bristol St., Costa Mesa, contained barely 200 gallons at 2 p.m. Friday, with 13 days still to go until the next shipment.

He has no fuel to sell if he stays open, but under terms of Smith's lease, it's cancelled if he closes for that period.

"In order to keep my head above water, I'm going to sell Kool-Aid for 20 cents a glass — you keep the glass — until I run out of them," says Smith.

"Then I'll probably start polishing cars."

Order Approved For Exhumation Of Beach Woman

An Orange County Superior Court judge has granted permission for the prosecution to exhume the body of a Huntington Beach woman who was raped and strangled more than three months ago.

Judge Everett Dickey signed the order for Deputy District Attorney Robert Chatterton Friday as the prosecutor sought to strengthen his case against accused Marine Jared Alan Wallace, 26, of Santa Ana.

Investigators who have also obtained permission from the husband of slain Nanette Post, 27, said they will be looking for marks on her wrists that may have been caused by handcuffs or wire and for throat marks that could be linked to Wallace.

Wallace is represented by the public defender. Deputy Public Defender Ron Butler said he will be present when the exhumation takes place during the weekend.

Wallace will be tried June 25 on charges that he kidnapped Mrs. Post shortly after she left her job as a waitress at a Garden Grove tavern last Feb. 9, raped and strangled her and then shoved her body under a juniper bush in a Huntington Beach housing tract.

Wallace, an El Toro Marine who held a parttime job as a security guard, also faces kidnap and assault charges filed in connection with the attempted abduction of a San Clemente X-ray technician.

Carole Ann Rowan, 24, has identified Wallace as the man who ordered her to pull over near the Beach Cities off ramp of the San Diego Freeway last Feb. 4. She said the flashing red light atop his vehicle led her to believe he was on official business.

It is alleged that Wallace then attempted to handcuff her but she managed to escape from the car and call police. Officers who later arrested Wallace said they found Mrs. Post's checkbook and wallet in his possession.

Tuesday Hearing

Probers Seek to Link Ehrlichman, McCord

WASHINGTON (AP) — A source close to the Senate Watergate probe says investigators believe they can establish that former presidential counsellor John D. Ehrlichman authorized repeated offers of executive clemency made to James McCord.

McCord stands convicted of wiretapping, burglary and conspiracy in the case. He testified in televised hearings Friday that former White House aide John Caulfield repeatedly pressured him, and once threatened him, in an attempt to get him to go to jail without talking.

McCord quoted Caulfield as saying executive clemency would be given him after a year in jail, that the offer had come "from the highest levels of the White House," and that President Nixon had been told of the offers and would be informed of McCord's decision.

McCord said he assumed Caulfield meant the offer came from the President, Ehrlichman or White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman.

Caulfield will be called as the next witness before the Senate hearings. He is scheduled to testify after McCord finishes at the next session, scheduled for Tuesday.

Friday, Caulfield issued a statement saying that McCord's testimony "does not fully reflect my best recollection of the events . . ." but that he did meet with McCord "on three occasions in January and conveyed to him certain messages from a high White House official."

WATERGATE PROSECUTOR NAMED—Picture, Page 8

Staff investigators already have questioned Caulfield, who is on leave from his job at the Treasury Department. Sources say Caulfield declined to say if anyone higher up authorized him to make the clemency offers to McCord. They say originally Caulfield claimed that he had merely pretended to McCord that his offers came from higher-ups, and that he was just "puffing" to impress McCord of the importance of his silence.

However, the sources said "Caulfield was Ehrlichman's man," and indicated they can prove orders regarding clemency came from Ehrlichman.

Bunyard Gives Innocent Plea

MARIPOSA (AP) — John P. Bunyard says he is innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in the murders of two women and the kidnaping of a Huntington Beach couple.

Bunyard, 27, entered those pleas Friday to counts of murder, assault with a deadly weapon, kidnaping and armed robbery that stemmed from a two-day, two-state alleged crime spree.

Superior Court Judge Dean Lauritzen said Bunyard's trial would begin July 9. He also ordered three doctors to examine Bunyard and file reports by June 6 when a sanity hearing is scheduled.

NIXON AND 'BEBE' SAIL ON POTOMAC

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon went for a Potomac River cruise Friday night aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia on a chilly spring evening.

Speedy Swift Captures Guadalupe Island Event

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Editor

Jack Mallinckrodt's Newport-41 sloop Swift from the host Balboa Yacht Club confounded the experts Friday as the first to finish the 600-mile Guadalupe Island race shortly after noon.

Swift finished at 12:16 p.m. to edge Bob O'Brien's 56-foot yawl Spirit from California Yacht Club by 12 minutes. Spirit led most of the way, and at 9 a.m. Friday was the only yacht in sight as she ghosted toward the finish some 10 miles away in a flat, windless sea.

But Mallinckrodt and his crew took Swift about 12-15 miles offshore and picked up a slightly better breeze that brought her home ahead for the Endymion Perpetual Trophy dedicated for the race by Donald Douglas Sr.

But Swift was unable to save her handicap time over the Ericson 2-35 Decision, skippered by Paul Berger of Del Rey Yacht Club. Decision finished at 6:27:36 to wrap up the overall handicap and Class B win.

At last report, these were the yachts which had finished:

Swift, 12:16 p.m.; Spirit, 12:28:47; Loco Viente, Jim Seals, BYC, 3:50:50; Topaz, A.M. Moreno, Cabrillo Beach YC, 4:50; Intermezzo, Jack Bibb, BYC, 6:00, and Decision.

Topaz, a 54-foot cutter, was the first Pacific Handicap yacht to finish.

The other six boats in the race were slowly beating their way up the coast with little or no wind.

Hit-run Traffic Victim Discovered Near Arches

The badly mangled body of a young man — the apparent victim of a hit-run — was discovered on Pacific Coast Highway near the Arches in Newport Beach early today.

Police were summoned to the scene at 12:42 a.m. and came upon the remains lying in the westbound lanes of the highway a few hundred feet west of the Arches.

Officers said that the impact of the collision dismembered the victim and killed him instantly.

Detectives were dispatched to the scene to seek clues in the death.

Initial reports said that some debris, possibly from the car which struck the man, was found at the scene.

The identity of the victim had not been established early today.

Hijackers Land

MERIDA, Mexico (UPI) — A hijacked Venezuelan airliner landed in Mexico en route to Cuba early today carrying four armed leftist guerrilas who threatened to blow up the plane and 37 persons on board unless 79 Venezuelan political prisoners are freed. Five persons were released earlier in Panama City.

Orange Coast Weather

The Orange Coast is in for another gloomy weekend as skies are to remain mostly cloudy. Only partial clearing is forecast for this afternoon. The high temperature should reach the upper 60s. Winds will be light.

SHORTAGE . . .

Palmer, spokesman for the Gordon Moon Chevron Station, El Camino Real and the San Diego Freeway in San Clemente.

"We're going to have to make that fuel last, either having earlier closing hours, a 24-hour day off or limiting the amount a customer can buy at one time," he added.

Independents are in trouble too. The once busy discount stations in San Clemente often have little, if any, gasoline to sell.

A Newport Beach dealer took a lighter view of the problem.

George Perlin of George Perlin and Sons Arco, Balboa, said:

"We're going to refine our own. If Long Beach can do it, so can we. We have a still that we've been using for hooch and we're going to change over to gasoline temporarily. Call it 'Perlin Strikes back'.

"We've got 8,000 gallons now that will last us four or five days. We've been cut back to 86 percent of the previous month's purchases but I held over from the end of last month.

"My customers will not suffer. Perlin may walk but my customers won't."

Service stations in Laguna Beach cut back their working hours rather than ration the gallonage each customer could buy.

"We've had to cut our operating hours and laid off a couple of men," Irv Powers of Ray Carey Chevron said.

His station has been experimenting with the number of hours it stays open.

Last Sunday, the station closed. This Sunday, it will be open. Last week, the station closed at 6 p.m. but, now it is open to 10 p.m., a changing pattern that is confusing to customers, Powers said.

"We're suggesting that they come in the morning or afternoon," he said.

He said the station had not run out of gasoline. But, from sales of 90,000 gallons per month, it has been cut back to 60,000 gallons.

He said the Memorial Day weekend operation was "still a question mark" with operating hours yet to be set.

Saddleback Valley residents might not have a critical problem getting gas for regular and vacation driving in the next week.

The Standard Station at 23891 Bridger Road in El Toro is keeping its 24-hour, seven-days a week schedule. Customers, however, are limited to the purchase of 10 gallons.

"We aren't going to close at all," a station representative said.

Not hit yet by the rationing is the Shell Station at 23842 El Toro Road, El Toro. But "you never can tell," the station manager said. "We could be rationed tomorrow. They're talking about it," he added, referring to Shell officials.

Allen Seyler's Arco Station at Culver Drive and Walnut Avenue in Irvine now opens at 8 a.m. instead of 6 and closes whenever the 1,200 gallons he can sell each day are sold.

He has imposed a limit of eight gallons per customer to "spread it around." Seyler said, "I've laid off five employes since I opened last September; I'd rather work a shorter day than use up my supplies all at once." He also plans to take the holiday off, something he hasn't done for years.

Arco spokesmen said the company will make no deliveries until the following calendar month to any station using up its allocation.

Orris Boyd, operator of an Arco Station in Costa Mesa said he would close Memorial Day. "We've gone from 24 hours a day to 14 hours. We've stopped giving stamps and gone up a penny on regular and we should be going up three or four cents in a few days," Boyd said.

Add 5

Clayton Concorn of Jim Jennings Union 76 on Balboa Island said, "We've been cut to 600 gallons a day, been starting late — about 8:30 and been selling out by 4 o'clock.

"We're already over our quotas because they didn't tell us about a quota until the day after we were supposed to be limiting sales. I don't know about Memorial Day but if we don't get any more gas by then) we'll be out."

Knox Crow of Knox Crow Mobil in Laguna Beach said he has not been cut back in deliveries, and doesn't expect to be unless things get much tighter.

"Mobile and Shell are in the best situation," Crow said.

"We will not cutback unless the others that do cut back drive customers to us. We have enough to take care of our normal business, but, if the shortages of the other companies create a strain on us, we will have to cut back," Crow said.

Marines Cut Some Services; Fuel Scarce

A reduction in fuel available for non-defense military flights may be the next step in a gasoline shortage that has already hit the El Toro and Santa Ana Marine Corps Air Stations.

A Marine Corps spokesman said Friday, "We are feeling the pinch the same as everybody else."

Interstation bus and taxi services run for base personnel have been reduced because of the shortage.

The El Toro Marine base gas station, which serves base personnel, retired Marines and their dependents, has set a maximum sale at 12 gallons. Officials are warning that may be reduced even more by the end of May.

Prices are higher and hours are shorter. The station was open weekends and after 5 weekdays. It no longer is.

Both Marine bases bid for their gasoline. The contract is currently held by Chevron.

Prices may continue to rise and other services be curtailed in an effort to conserve gas, the Marine Corps spokesman said.

Certain kinds of military flights, especially the aerial demonstrations, may suffer cutbacks, he said.

But the Marine Corps Colonel hastened to add he was sure "national defense operations" wouldn't be affected.

"They'll find some gas somewhere" for those, he said.

The base gas station began its rationing about a week ago. That practice may be intensified at the end of May if the station's reservoir of gasoline continues to diminish, the spokesman said.

by providing just bus service to and from school and said that expanding the walking radius of the schools could even be a consideration.

"Our equipment is getting older every year, and uses more gasoline," he said.

Buses in the San Joaquin School District will be able to take Irvine and Saddleback Valley children to school without fear of gas shortages through June, a district official said.

"We're wondering how it will affect us in the future," Rex Nerison, district assistant superintendent of business, said Friday.

Nerison, who will take on a similar post with the new Irvine Unified School District July 1, said school officials "just don't know" yet how the apparent fuel crisis will change busing practices.

"One saving grace is that many school buses are diesel-powered," he said. Although diesel is going up in price, the supply doesn't seem to be as much a problem.

Bridges Better

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — West Coast longshore leader Harry Bridges was under doctor's orders to take it easy today after he collapsed at a breakfast for Mayor Joseph Alioto. Bridges, 71, was examined Friday after his collapse at Children's Hospital by physicians who said he was suffering from exhaustion.

Which Way Prop. 20?

Builders Study Effects at Newport Meet

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Now that builders have taken a long seminar look at Proposition 20 and its coastal commissions, the question remaining today is if the thrust of their efforts in the future will be to "fight 'em or join 'em."

They got advice going both directions this week during the Proposition 20 study at the Newporter Inn in Newport Beach. The session was sponsored by the Young Home Builders Council, a branch of the Building Industry Association (BIA).

More than 500 coastal builders, developers and planners attended the $40-per-head conference. And obvious antagonism toward Proposition 20 flared during the session. Builders criticized it as unfair, unworkable and unconstitutional.

Proposition 20, the coastal zone conservation act passed by voters last November, created one state commission and six regional commissions. They have interim permit powers in the coastal zone while charged with creating a coastal management land use plan by late 1975.

The BIA is party to a lawsuit filed in Orange County Superior Court claiming the proposition is unconstitutional. Attorney James Acret told the developers Wednesday the charge is based partly on the "awesome and unrestrained" power of the commissions.

That suit hasn't been heard yet. Acret said a similar San Diego County action may take place first.

But State Attorney General Evelle Younger indicated he thinks the chances of such suits succeeding to be remote.

Younger said, "It behooves all of us to cooperate and try to make the law work," adding that new environmental law will result in more orderly and efficient growth.

It's too soon to assess the full impact of Proposition 20, Younger said but preliminary data show the California economy actually improved in the period following its passage.

"We probably have already demonstrated the sky didn't fall down," said the Attorney General who said the "doomsayers" who predicted the state's economy would collapse were wrong.

Two members of the South Coast Regional Commission, which includes Orange and Los Angeles counties, its executive director and the director of the state commission all urged the developers to get involved now in the planning.

They said they are trying to strike a balance between environment and economy and want the builders' input.

But the developers acted most impressed with a similar message from Irvine Company Executive Vice President Ray Watson, who said, "Now's the time to help prove we were wrong."

The Irvine Company contributed $50,000 to the campaign against the proposition, Watson said, largely because it opposed another layer of government.

But now that it is the law, he added, "None of us will gain anything by frustrating the system created by Proposition 20.

"Let's not hope — let's help," he said, referring to lawsuits against it.

The Irvine Company will make available to the new commissions all information it has developed on coastline planning, Watson offered, urging other builders to do the same.

"We should work toward the common goal" of drafting the coastal plan for submission to the legislature by 1976.

Watson expressed the fear that the deadline couldn't be met, but emphasized the planning should be the main effort of the commission. If not, the new bodies might become regulatory, not planning agencies.

If that happens, Watson said, the constitutionality of the act might be questioned.

The new environmental laws are expensive, he commented, adding the Irvine Company has spent more than $200,000 on environmental impact reports since they've been required.

Waiting for governmental agencies to plan can also be expensive, he said. The company pays $1 million a year in property taxes on the undeveloped 3.5 miles of coastline it owns between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach, he said.

Newport Beach developer Larry Deane, who moderated the seminar, called delays to a developer "the kiss of death."

Concern was also voiced about the usurpation of local government zoning. The regional or state commissions can deny a project even though it may conform with local zoning.

Peter Douglas, an attorney who helped write Proposition 20, said commissioners must show a project has substantial adverse affects on the environment before turning it down.

A number of developers and attorney Acret said words like "substantial" and "environment" were too undefined.

Melvin Carpenter, executive director of the South Coast Commission, said the commission has approved $2.5 billion worth of construction, not including exemptions.

During the question and answer period, discussion centered on appeals of permit denials or approvals, information required for application and time delays.

Police Bring Severed Foot To Hospital

Costa Mesa police patrolman Robert Kredel became a courier of mercy late Friday after a traffic crash at an Irvine intersection.

Kredel scooped up a severed foot and sped with it to Tustin Community Hospital where surgeons were waiting to reattach the member to the leg of an El Toro Marine.

The bizarre ending to what began as a routine traffic crash took place at about 10:30 p.m. as Kredel was working the Irvine beat.

At the crossing of Trabuco Road and Culver Drive, Daniel E. Henry, 17, the Marine, was riding a motorcycle when it struck an automobile.

The crash severed the young Marine's foot.

After the youth arrived at Tustin Hospital, physicians dispatched Kredel back to the scene to search out the severed member and rush it back to the hospital.

Spokesmen there said it would be several days before it is determined if the drastic measures by surgeons will succeed.

Air California Accord Extended

PSA Inc. and Westgate-California Corporation announced Friday that the agreement for the acquisition by PSA of Westgate's subsidiary, the Orange County-based Air California, has been extended to June 15.

P S A and Westgate also indicated that they intend to appeal the recent decision of a federal court denying the companies' motion to dismiss a federal anti-trust suit seeking to block the acquisition.

In making the announcement, J. Floyd Andrews, P S A's board chairman, commented, "The decision to appeal the ruling is based on our continued conviction that the merger of P S A and Air California will be a major benefit to California air travel."

U.S. Weather

A state of emergency was declared in parts of central New York Friday after a record spring storm dumped a half-foot or more of heavy wet snow over the area.

Trees and utility lines were downed, roads blocked and schools closed. At the peak of the freak storm, which also stretched into northeastern Pennsylvania and covered Pleasant Mount with five inches of snow, some 11,500 customers of the Niagara Power Corp. were without electricity.

By afternoon in the hard-hit Utica region, about 4,000 customers still remained blacked out.

The heaviest accumulations — seven to eight inches — were reported scattered in areas near Utica and Old Forge of the Adirondacks well north of the city.

"Never in my experience have I seen this kind of phenomenal weather," said a Utica utility manager.

California

Foggy, mild weather with occasional hazy sunshine peering through Southern California haze will continue through the weekend, forecasters predicted Friday.

Fog closed Ontario International Airport for about two hours Friday, and Riverside Municipal Airport was closed briefly in the morning.

In urban areas, highs were forecast Saturday in the low 70s.

Some desert areas can expect maximums of 110, the National Weather Service said.

does not expect to have the last word in the Salt Creek development controversy.

"This is something that will have to be decided by an appellate court," he commented. "The injunction does not, of course, reflect what may come out of our Superior Court trial but I know a higher court is destined to make the real decision in this issue."

"But this isn't fair, it just doesn't make sense," Stephens pleaded. "Avco put several millions of dollars into this plan long before Proposition 20 and it seems incredible that we should have to take this licking now."

"I don't want to lick Avco," Judge Herlands snapped. "I don't want to hurt you any more than any other defendant but in the light of what I've heard this afternoon you haven't proved your case."

He also rejected Stephens' plea for a delay of the court ruling that would allow Avco to seek relief from the South Coast Regional Commission.

"We will not build until the commission rules," Stephens' vainly pleaded. "And I can assure you that we will go to the commission on this entire issue."

Judge Herlands similarly rejected Stephens' plea that the entire Salt Creek development is interrelated and cannot be segregated in terms of the line drawn through the former 836-acre Capron property.

"Much of the development on the seaward side of that line — 1,000 yards from the mean high tide line — is connected to projects covered by the act," Stephens said. "The coastal commission saw this when it granted us emergency permits for some of the work."

"You just haven't convinced me," Judge Herlands said. "And I don't think the California Supreme Court is going to look too kindly on any effort to undo Proposition 20."

Judge Herlands will open what is expected to be the brief final phase of the hearing at 9:45 a.m. Monday.

Cambodia Raids

HONOLULU (AP) — American aircraft, including B52 bombers, continued operations over Cambodia for the 73rd consecutive day Friday, the U.S. Pacific Command said. The command said the raids were conducted at the request of the Cambodian government but gave no other details.

Astronauts To Try Out New Tools

HOUSTON (UPI) — With their disabled space station awaiting an in-orbit service call, Skylab's astronauts today try out hastily-built tools they will use Friday in a bold attempt to fix overheating and power problems.

After working with the new-fangled sunshade apparatus and associated tools here, the pilots will fly to Huntsville, Ala. Sunday to practice under water where they float as if they were in weightless space.

The plan calls for Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz to take off from Cape Kennedy at 6 a.m. PDT Friday in an Apollo loaded with 90 pounds of repair and replacement equipment.

IN SHORT...

● Formally Charged

STUART, Fla. (AP) — A former deputy sheriff was charged Friday with murder in the slaying of two teen-age girls. Authorities have said the deaths are linked to the killing or disappearance of at least five other women in South Florida, and possibly 20 or more.

Staze Atty. Robert E. Stone interrupted a Circuit Court competency hearing to announce that Gerard Schaefer had been charged in the killings of Georgia Jessup, 16, and Susan Place, 17.

● Town Angered

ATLANTA (UPI) — Four suspects in the murder of a family of six were flown from West Virginia Friday night and lodged in jail pending preliminary hearings today in the angry southwest Georgia town of Donalsonville.

"We're not worried" about the safety of the prisoners in the town where five men and a woman in the Alday family were shot to death Monday night, said Col. Ray Pope, director of the State Department of Public Safety.

● Kalmbach Sued

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A suit filed Friday claimed a Nixon campaign figure stole letterheads and used them to try to sink Sen. George McGovern's chances in the California primary last June.

The suit, filed by the California Committee for McCarthy, alleged that Donald H. Segretti stole letterheads and envelopes from Sen. Eugene McCarthy's California primary headquarters and mailed them out by the thousands.

Also named as defendants were the Committee to Re-elect the President, former Attorney General John Mitchell, former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans and Herbert Kalmbach of Newport Beach, Nixon's former personal attorney.

● Veto by Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress was called upon today to override President Nixon's veto of a bill that would have required his budget director and deputy budget director to be confirmed by the Senate.

Nixon vetoed the measure Friday, saying that it would have "forced by unconstitutional procedure" the removal of Roy Ash as director of the Office of Management and Budget and his chief deputy, Frederick V. Malek.

Niguel Heist Take Revised Upward

By FREDERICK SCHOEMEHL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

As the web of arrests in connection with the Laguna Niguel bank burglary continues to broaden, it has been learned the total take in the crime may rise above $6 million.

Robert Bonner, the U.S. government prosecutor, said a previous estimate — backed by testimony — that $5 million was hauled out of United California Bank's Monarch Bay branch "may prove to be too low."

Bonner noted about $2.75 million in securities already has been uncovered by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. The official loss of securities alone is placed at $3.2 million, with $200,000 in gold coin and $200,000 in jewelry also removed when the 458 safety deposit boxes were looted.

But the official estimates do not cover the amount of cash that wealthy bank patrons along the Southern Orange Coast had in their safety deposit boxes.

The estimates are based only on what people can either document was in their box or what they think they had.

Patrons who stashed large amounts of cash in their safety deposit boxes — shunning Internal Revenue Service regulations — aren't about to report it.

There have been various reports that one wealthy patron had $200,000 in hard cash held in one of the looted boxes.

Another factor that ups the loss figure is the sharp increase in the price of gold and other metals.

Major recoveries of property included discovery of $1.4 million worth of securities on an Ohio farm not far from the house of the ex-wife of James Dinsio, one of five men convicted of the crime in recent months.

Another $1.2 million worth of securities was found by workmen in a secluded Laguna Niguel canyon at the end of Sea Island Drive. The certificates had been laundered to remove fingerprints.

Agents seized $175,000 worth of stocks and bonds last month during the arrest of Harry Haller, a Los Angeles public relations executive who tried to use the loot to secure a $100,000 loan.

Only a pittance of gold coins has been recovered, with all jewelry still missing.

Investigators have said privately they had hoped to make a near total recovery with information provided by suspects arrested in connection with the crime. But that strategy hasn't worked.

Only one of the men indicted in connection with the $6 million job remains at large with speculation mounting that he may hold a substantial amount of the remaining loot.

Meanwhile, both the FBI and the U.S. Attorney's Office have been under pressure from boxholders for a return of loot already recovered.

One source said more than 100 letters have been received from anxious boxholders demanding a return of their property.

But it appears law enforcement officials won't release the loot until the case — and its 11 related arrests — is disposed of in court.

Not only are boxholders demanding a return of their property, but United California Bank Officials also would find relief in it.

In the wake of the crime, the bank has been faced with lawsuits totaling $80 million from safety deposit boxholders who charge bank negligence led to the burglary.

U.S. Charges Witness Offered $25,000 Payoff

A key government witness in the $6 million Laguna Niguel bank burglary case was offered $25,000 cash in January to change his story of what he knew about the crime, federal investigators have alleged.

Investigation led to the arrest of Harold Dawson of Youngstown, Ohio, charged with attempting to bribe a witness.

The cash payoff assertedly was earmarked for his brother, Earl, a Tustin resident to whom the crime was admitted by one of five men convicted of the world's largest bank burglary.

Earl Dawson's garage was used by the team of burglars to hide a 1962 Oldsmobile, the most damaging piece of evidence against the sophisticated burglary team.

The car was loaded with tools and other goods bearing the fingerprints of at least five men who have been convicted of the massive assault on the vault of the Monarch Bay branch of United California Bank.

The car also contained three gold coins from the collection of Denis Fargher, a Laguna Niguel resident and holder of one of the 458 safety deposit boxes punched during the burglary.

In October, Earl Dawson testified that he was first contacted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation about the car on June 2, 1972 — the same date agents arrested Charges A. Mulligan, 38, of Youngstown, Ohio in connection with the case.

According to investigators, the money allegedly was offered to Earl Dawson to bribe him into testifying at a subsequent trial that investigators had searched the car prior to June 2.

Such testimony would have disputed FBI evidence and possibly resulted in the car being removed as evidence. Had this occurred "the case would have been blown right out of the water" said one source close to the case.

Harold Dawson remains in federal custody in Cleveland.

In another arrest in connection with the case, agents have arrested a Youngstown, Ohio pawn shop owner on charges he possessed at least five gold coins stolen from the $50,000 collection of Denis Fargher, a Laguna Niguel resident who kept the coins in the bank's vault.

Agents asserted they seized about 2,000 to 3,000 coins in the possession of James Vincent Pilloli when he was arrested while trying to catch a plane for a Cleveland Airport.

It is not known whether the remainder of the coins came from the vault of the Laguna Niguel bank.

Whetmore Calls for Vote On State Death Penalty

State Sen. James E. Whetmore (R-Fullerton) has joined the long list of officials criticizing the State Assembly leadership for blocking the death penalty bill.

"It will be a pompous neglect of the mandate of the people of California who are demanding return of the death penalty to the statute books," Whetmore said in an attack obviously aimed at Assembly Speaker Robert Moretti, a Van Nuys Democrat.

Moretti has been quoted as saying the capital punishment bill will never get out of committee.

Whetmore said the Assembly criminal justice committee plans to consider SB-450 by State Sen. George Duekmejian on June 5.

"It is hard to understand how this committee can justify ignoring the results of Proposition 17 when two-thirds of the voters of California voted for the return of the death penalty," Whetmore charged.

He said the recent reports of "horrendous crimes perpetrated on the public by killers belie claims that the death penalty is not needed."

Month Later, Associates Salute Patrick McNulty

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The McNulty would have loved it.

He was a mischievous Irishman, born and christened Patrick, but to a special fraternity of fun-loving men on the Orange Coast and all over the world, he was simply The McNulty.

Only one copy was turned out; then the mold broke, probably from sheer exertion.

Friends of the writer, editor, sportsman, publisher and prankster gathered Thursday at the Newporter Inn one month after his death to celebrate The McNulty's joy of life.

The McNulty lived again re-created in a succession of stories at a $100 per guest combination wake and smoker, from which God — in His infinite wisdom — made certain ladies were barred.

Proceeds from the stag night will go to The McNulty Boys' Fund, which now has $8,000 and will eventually hold $20,000 in trust to help educate the former Associated Press foreign correspondent's five sons.

Those who came included writers, editors, publishers, surfers, business executives, Hollywood figures, Fourth District Court of Appeals Justice Robert Gardner and Laguna Beach's renowned George Peanuts Larson Zimmerman who brought along his ukulele.

There were also a few buddies from the Class of '44 at Glendale High School.

And many of those who couldn't come sent contributions, with $500 telegraphed from one old pal in Lisbon, Portugal.

Master of ceremonies for the night was Brennan "Hevs" McClellan, a room-mate of The McNulty in bygone days and who was with him April 15 when he suffered a fatal heart attack.

McClellan presided in a Yellow Cab driver's cap and American Flag tie.

"Some of the things Pat wrote would have been difficult to substantiate," reminisced McClellan, who was the target of as many practical jokes as he aided and abetted or instigated.

There was the wire story of a flying saucer that allegedly landed in South Pasadena carrying little leather-suited beings and which so inspired an Ohio UFO enthusiast that he hopped a plane West to investigate.

There was the famous, record-breaking auto speed race from the San Gabriel Valley to San Francisco, via Paso Robles, that made the San Francisco Chronicle sports section.

"He hated Hollywood with a passion, but his story ideas were great," observed actor John Quinliven, who had discussed a script for a movie about the JFK assassination with McNulty two nights before he died.

His night out with the boys finally ended uproariously, with risque limericks sung to wild Mexican music that drew an amazed crowd to the open door, a most unusual conclusion for an Irishman's make.

The McNulty would have loved it.

Wife of MIA Says 'Simple' Cross Missing

A crudely fashioned "plain and simple" one-inch silver colored cross is missing from the purse of Mrs. Carole Hanson of El Toro.

The wife of a serviceman who is still missing in action in Southeast Asia is not worried about the loss of the cross for monetary reasons.

"It is valuable only because of the sentiment attached to it," Mrs. Hanson explained.

"It was made by a prisoner of war who rubbed a spoon on the rock floor of his cell until the metal was shaped like a small cross.

"He wore it around his neck for six years while he was a POW," she said.

In recognition of Mrs. Hanson's activities on behalf of POWs and MIAs, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Ed Davis gave her the cross when she toured Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland.

"It is so small, I think it fell out of my coin purse when I was shopping in Costa Mesa at South Coast Plaza, the other day," Mrs. Hanson said.

'Response Fantastic'

Realtors Salute Youth

Officers of the Newport Harbor-Costa Mesa Board of Realtors were pleasantly surprised when they walked onto 11 Harbor Area campuses and found out how well young people live up to this year's Realtor Week theme.

They were so impressed, in fact, that they have made a special salute to the students who best exemplified, "Pride in, Respect for the Property of America."

Realty board spokesman Frank Kingaard said the idea of saluting youth during Realtor Week has been a smashing success. National Realtor Week starts Sunday.

"The response to our awards was fantastic," he said. "We must have touched a real nerve because the awareness of keeping our property beautiful picked up even more on some campuses."

With the help of principals and scholarship committees at the five Newport-Mesa district high schools and six intermediate schools, the board selected recipients of the $25 cash awards and plaques.

In one case, Lincoln Middle School in Corona del Mar, the "recipient" came in a batch. The school's Stamp Out Stupidity Club (SOS) was chosen because of its sponsorship of an annual "Earth Week" at the school, Kingaard said.

Other awards went to a student who raised $1,200 almost single-handedly to pay for landscaping improvements at her school.

Another went to a young student journalist whose strong editorial stands on campus cleanliness and pride encouraged his fellow students to make their campus a better place to be.

And one award went to one of the key organizers of the nearly-completed ecology center in a desolate gully behind Newport Harbor High School.

Board President Roderick Calderhead acknowledged many students who will remain unsung in their efforts to show their pride in property.

"Their clinging to the principles of pride and respect for property will surely have its own reward in a good and strong America," he said.

Kingaard said he got particular gratification from the response at McNally continuation school.

"To me, this is the place that really needs recognition and we were pleased the response was so great," he said.

"These students are all setting a fine example for us and for their peers," Kingaard added. "We are saluting them for that example."

Students saluted by the board for Realtor Week include:

Susan Reneir of TeWinkle Middle School; Janet Smith of Kaiser Middle School; Timothy Phillips of Ensign Middle School; Robin Bolton of Davis Middle School and Kevin Dunlap of Rea Middle School.

Also, Cheryl Angel of Estancia High; Dana Dunning of Newport Harbor High; Curt Fleming of Corona del Mar High; Charles Archer of Costa Mesa High and Dan Russell of McNally.

Watery Battle

MWD, Arizona Fought 1934 'War'

The politics of water are incredible, according to Neil Cline, assistant director of the Orange County Water District.

And at one point, the politics of water led to a "war" between the state of Arizona and the Metropolitan Water District.

It was a war that was fortunately brief and bloodless, but it did involve troops of the Arizona National Guard and a navy of sorts.

In 1934, when construction of the Parker Dam was just beginning, Gov. B. B. Moeur of Arizona declared martial law and dispatched a unit of guardsmen to take possession of the dam. He claimed that Congress had not authorized its construction.

The troops arrived in Parker, a few miles downstream from the dam site and were carried up to the construction on the barge Nellijoe.

The "naval" vessel had been used as a ferry between Parker, Arizona and Earp, Calif. and its enterprising owners seized the "war" as a means of getting paid for getting their boat upstream of the dam where it could be used on the lake that would back up behind the dam.

The troops had been sent on their expedition with no provisions and had nothing to set up camp with when they landed on the Arizona side of the dam site.

The sympathetic construction men and MWD engineers took pity on the forlorn looking troops and set up an on-site nonaggression pact so that sandwiches and lemonade from the MWD mess hall could be ferried to the Arizona soldiers.

The war never got further than the troop landing, but Moeur's actions did cause a halt in construction that lasted nearly a year and cost the MWD about $240,000 in the middle of the Great Depression.

It's hard to get excited about water.

It's one of those basic commodities that is easy to take for granted. You turn a tap and you're never disappointed. It's always there.

But consider the following:

—The Colorado River Aqueduct is a triumph of engineering genius that stretches 242 miles from Lake Havasu to Riverside County and gives southern California a billion gallons of water a day.

—By 1985, because of a U.S. Supreme Court decision, half that water will go to the State of Arizona for its water project instead of to Southern California.

—Orange County and Los Angeles residents need not fear dehydration in the 1980's. By then the state's Feather River water project will be delivering more than 1.3 trillion gallons of water a year to Southern California.

Daily Pilot Photos And Stories By Joanne Reynolds

If size and volume are considered alone, water and the way it gets here isn't such a dull subject after all.

It's especially not a dull subject to the politicians and engineers who have been fighting over water and where Southern California gets it since the turn of the century.

Los Angeles was the first to import water when the city built the Owens River Aqueduct, much to the displeasure of Owens Valley residents.

It served the city's water needs until the 1920s when the area's growth made it clear that more water would have to be found.

At that time, Orange County was still an agricultural area, giving no indication of its enormous growth potential.

Farmers and ranchers had plenty of ground water supplied through the Santa Ana River, but when the Metropolitan Water District was formed in 1928, the Orange County Water District joined.

The political wrangling and battling between California and Arizona that preceded the construction of Parker Dam forming Lake Havasu has probably been equalled by the intrastate fighting over the Feather River Project.

After lengthy political and judicial fighting, Arizona won a victory when the Supreme Court decreed that half of the water that goes into the aqueduct for Southern California must go into Arizona's water project instead.

That means by 1985 the majority of the water used by the residents of Orange and Los Angeles counties will be coming from the Feather River project — a continuing source of controversy within the state.

"The politics of water are incredible," says Neil Cline, assistant manager of the Orange County Water District. "We live in an area that has about 77 percent of the state's population and 30 percent of its water. We have to get extra water from somewhere."

Since 1941 the source of that extra water has been the Colorado River and a network of man-made lakes, pumping stations, canals and tunnels that corries the water over one of the most desolate stretches of desert in the western United States.

The water moves over mountain ranges strung across the arid landscape in five giant steps, going from a 450-foot elevation at Lake Havasu to 1,807 feet near Shaver's Summit.

From there it flows by gravity more than 125 miles to the holding reservoir at Lake Mathews in Riverside County and then to two treatment plants at the entrance to the pipes of Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

The water is boosted over the mountains by massive pumps which shove it uphill just far enough to let gravity take it through the tunnels and canals to the next pumping station.

In one case, the water flows 65 miles this way from the pumping station at Gene Village to the next pumping plant at Iron Mountain.

Even by modern scientific standards that consider putting men on the moon a commonplace event, the design and construction of the Colorado River Aqueduct has to be one of the major technical achievements of the twentieth century.

The terrain through which most of the aqueduct runs is so rough that surveyors plotting its course for construction could only cover the right of way by mule.

Construction was carried out continuously over an eight-year period in the desert where it is not uncommon to find summer temperatures peaking above 120 degrees.

The mountains were the biggest obstacle to the aqueduct. Where it doesn't go over, the water goes through in nearly 100 miles of tunnels, the longest of which is the 13-mile tunnel through Mount San Jacinto.

Water — nature's supply — proved to be another problem that engineers had to face. The desert flatlands are scarred by ravines and washes that serve as spillways for the mud and debris carried by flash floods.

So special V-shaped siphons were designed to carry the cleaner river water under the washes and protect it from potential pollution by flash floods.

But the one element that overides all others in the aqueduct is size. That, and the fact its designers in the late twenties had the foresight to build it so it could easily be expanded to carry nearly one and a half billion gallons a day — enough to meet the needs of the nine million people who live in Southern California today.

Dual Purpose Bad?

Water Officials Split Over Recreation Usage

From Lake Havasu on the Colorado River to Lake Mathews in Riverside County the aqueduct stretches through 242 miles of canals, lakes and basin that are untouched by man.

In contrast to the state water project, which features dual utilization of its lakes for water storage and recreation, the Metropolitan Water District has a strict policy of keeping people off of and out of the water in their system.

A water district spokesman explained that this is done to keep the bacteria content of the water down to as low a level as possible, thus saving money at the treatment facilities.

The official philosophy of the MWD is that if you let people near your water, you're going to have to spend a lot of money cleaning it up that you otherwise wouldn't have to spend.

Lake Havasu, the beginning of the aqueduct, is of course open to the public.

But Gene Wash Reservoir and Copper Basin Reservoir, two small manmade lakes on the aqueduct that are within six miles of Lake Havasu and are closed to the public.

Lake Mathews is a body of water with a 25-mile shoreline within an hour's drive of Los Angeles. It is the end of the line for the aqueduct, the last storage lake before the water is treated, filtered and put into water pipes for local use.

Like Gene and Copper Basin, Lake Mathews is also closed to the public.

Near Mathews is what is at the moment a big, dry, hole in the ground, which in six months will be filled with water and called Perris Lake.

Because it is part of the state's water project, it will incorporate recreational use along with its use as the end of the line of the Feather River Water Project.

In addition, eight other lakes on the state aqueduct ranging from Lake Oroville where the project begins to Pyramid and Castaic lakes which lie along its route through the Tehachapi Mountains, are also open to the public and have been developed for recreational use.

The idea, according to a spokesman for the state Department of Water Resources, is to give the taxpayer the most for his money.

It's an idea that has carried over to the Orange County Water District.

The OCWD buys water from the MWD to put back into the county's natural ground water supply. One of the ways of getting it back into the county's natural ground water supply. One of the ways of getting it back into the ground is to let it seep back in through the sandy bottom of the Santa Ana River bed.

So the district sold sand and gravel rights to some land it owned on the river in Anaheim and let contractors pay the OCWD for hauling away the sand and gravel until a 50-foot deep hole had been dug.

The hole is now filled with water, stocked with fish and called Anaheim Lake. More than 100,000 fishermen visit it annually and the district is using the proceeds as their part of the Santa Ana River greenbelt project.

A similar lake is being dug to the northeast of Anaheim Lake at Warner basin and will provide even a larger lake that will serve a recreational purpose and the water district at the same time.

Airport Panel Criticizes Proposal on Standards

Orange County Airport Land Use commissioners have criticized a new Public Utilities Commission edict because it applies only to publicly-owned airports.

Meeting Thursday night in Santa Ana, the commissioners studied a proposed draft submitted by the State Department of Aeronautics which is being prepared to comply with the PUC edict.

The PUC code change states that the aeronautics department must adopt standards to apply to airport land use commissions.

The proposed standards are limited to airports owned by counties or cities and do not include military or private airports, the commissioners criticized. They thought, to be effective, the standards must be broadened to include all airports.

The new PUC code change also came under fire of Deputy County Counsel Victor Bellerue. He said the one sentence edict applying to land uses around airports was defective in that it does not provide any procedural process for enforcing the proposed land use regulations.

The PUC code change does not materially change the function of airport land use commissions. It states that such agencies must try to achieve conforming zoning around all new airports and existing ones. Uses compatible to air traffic such as industrial and commercial are suggested and residential barred.

Bellerue says the intention is good but that the code is probably unenforceable because of the lack of proper provisions for enforcement procedures.

"They can't do what they are trying to do in a one sentence edict." the county counsel argued.

Displays Carded At Armed Forces Day Observance

A sentry dog show and a demonstration of the military's strategic communications system are scheduled as part of the Armed Forces Day events this weekend at the Huntington Center Mall.

Displays set up by the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps have been in the mall all week and will continue through today and Sunday with the special shows and demonstrations.

Air Force sentry dogs will stage a show today at 2 p.m. and the Army's worldwide strategic communications system will be demonstrated today and Sunday at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The Apollo 14 spacecraft is also on display at the center as part of the Armed Forces exhibit.

Opera's Swap Meet Set for Weekend

The Lyric Opera Swap Meet and Flea Market will be held today and Sunday with the exhibition of goods by more than 70 merchants on the grounds of the Festival of Arts in Laguna Beach.

Western Group Fights Tax

Rebels Range From Scripture Quoters to Athiests

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — They stamp cars with fake tax seizure notices, form "posses" to arrest government agents and refuse to file tax returns. They're a loosely organized group of Western tax rebels out to rid America of the income tax.

The Internal Revenue Service calls them lawbreakers, however, and says it isn't worried. It claims victories in recent court cases against tax rebels in Utah, Arizona and California. Several have received prison sentences, and cases are pending in a scattering of other states.

Utah IRS director Roland Wise says the protesters are lawbreakers, self-styled martyrs and people who just plain don't want to pay their fair share.

THEY RANGE FROM Scripture-quoting Mormons to atheistic followers of novelist-philosopher Ayn Rand. Nearly all are political conservatives, capitalists and critics of the Nixon administration, as well as every other administration.

Many of the tax rebels are members of the Libertarian party which believes in severely limiting government power over the individual.

Karl Bray, a Salt Lake City precious metals dealer, is chairman of the Libertarian party and spokesman for a legal group organized to defend taxpayers against the IRS. He says thousands of people in the West belong to antitax groups which meet regularly, but do not use formal names to avoid conspiracy charges.

"TAXATION IS THEFT," Bray says. "It is theft from productive people who are told they do not have the maturity and freedom to voluntarily pay for the services they receive."

He says IRS agents violate citizens' rights and income tax is unconstitutional, against free enterprise and Communist-inspired.

> 'Taxation is theft. It is theft from productive people.'

Bray says a source in the IRS told him 11,700 protest returns were filed in Utah last year by persons who took steps as overtly reporting false withholding exemptions.

Wise says the number of protest returns was less than 100.

The IRS isn't alone in rejecting the so-called tax rebellion.

County sheriffs in Utah and Idaho have turned away politically conservative groups who tried to enlist the sheriffs in their cause. And the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has issued strong statements against Mormons not paying their taxes.

"I'm TRYING TO ignore them because I don't like their tactics," said Sheriff Ford Smith of Idaho's Madison County after a group approached him in connection with the citizens' posse they formed. "They remind me of the way vigilantes operate," Smith said.

John F. Grismore of Bountiful, Utah, a Mormon and author of a book to arrest and try IRS and other goverment agents who "violate our constitutional rights" by seizing property or harassing tax protesters.

Grismore was found guilty of interfering with federal officers and "forcibly rescuing property (his car) which had been seized by the U.S. government for nonpayment of taxes.

The author of another tax protest book, Marvin Cooley of Mesa, Ariz., was convicted in Arizona last month of failing to file returns in 1968, 1969 and 1970.

COOLEY ARGUED THAT the income tax is an invasion of privacy under the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and that he had no income "in valid constitutionally legal dollars redeemable in gold and silver."

Bray led a tax protest demonstration last month in Salt Lake City, and blamed rainy weather for the fact that less than 50 persons joined the demonstration.

New Park Remains Primitive

RICHMOND (AP) — You have to be quite a walker even to reach Pt. Pinole "walking park" — the entrance is 1½ miles from the parking lot.

The director says no cars are allowed inside the park to avoid disturbing the natural environment. And he warns that, if necessary, the number of visitors will be limited.

PT. PINOLE includes 1,000 acres of beaches, tree groves, meadows, marshes and tidelands on the outskirts of an urbanly impacted area.

"It's a natural, beautiful area that could be easily destroyed if overrun with people. If you allowed too many people in here it could destroy the values that the park was acquired for," said Richard Trudeau, director of the East Bay Regional Park District.

THE PARK, including 3½ miles of San Francisco Bay shoreline, was bought for $6 million last month from Bethlehem Steel which had a plant on the site.

"It is probably the only place you'll find anywhere on the San Francisco Bay that is just about the way it was a century ago," he said.

ANTHROPOLOGY professor George Coles of Contra Costa College said he believes the Huchillones, a small ethnic community of native Americans, may have inhabited the park area several thousand years ago.

"You can find a little bit of the surface debris of habitation in the area, primarily shell wastes and ash of a kind generally associated with a shoreline site," he said, adding that his teams have begun digging in the area.

Flood From Watergate

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Record floods in the Mississippi Valley have eased somewhat in the fortnight since President Nixon flew over the area and designated five states as major disaster areas.

A deluge of a different sort continues to wreak havoc in the capital, however. Any day now you may be reading a dispatch somewhat along this line.

LIGHTER SIDE

Washington — President Nixon declared parts of the White House a disaster area today because of the heavy flood of damaging disclosures from the Watergate.

The proclamation makes presidential aides driven from office by the flood eligible for emergency legal defense loans and bail bonds.

IN ADDITION to the staff members already forced to flee by the rising tide of evidence, it appeared that several other officials were in over their heads.

There was even doubt in some quarters that the President himself was on safe ground.

The Watergate flood was started a few weeks ago by a minor grand jury leak. Efforts were made to contain the flow of implications by piling up sandbags filled with press releases.

BUT THESE proved woefully inadequate and quickly became inoperative.

Flood stage was reached when the dam of a newly formed Senate investigating committee broke, sending torrents of allegations gushing toward the White House and washing away a wall of executive privilege.

An extra crew was put on duty to help pump out denials, but they were unable to keep up with the overflow of accusations.

AFTER A couple of former Nixon campaign officials were swamped, others began heading for higher ground, vowing they would not be left up the creek without a paddle. Rescue workers said the outpouring of inculpating reports from grand jury, FBI, Senate and White House sources was made worse by a freshet of rumor, hearsay and gossip.

"These are the most damaging revelations to hit the White House since the foundation was shaken by disclosure of Sherman Adams' imprudence during the Eisenhower administration," said a Red Cross volunteer after an aerial inspection of the scene.

KIND-HEARTED residents are opening their homes to White House aides caught in the inundation and nearby churches are serving as temporary shelters.

Some victims of the flood, most of whom are not covered by scandal insurance, are expected to seek refuge in the Fifth Amendment.

Ex-editor Files Suit

SAN JOSE (AP) — Charging harassment, the former editor of Ramparts and Scanlan's magzines has filed a $1 million suit here against the Internal Revenue Service.

Warren Hinckle III had sought an injunction in U.S. District Court to prevent the IRS from auctioning his home in lieu of $1,504 in unpaid 1971 income taxes.

The IRS used "extreme and outrageous collection procedures," Hinkle charged.

Gemini: Give Yourself Room; Find Your Style

SUNDAY
MAY 20
By SYDNEY OMARR

Sign I am often accused of disliking or ignoring: Taurus. Sign many say I overemphasize: Leo. Sign some claim I misunderstand: Sagittarius. In actuality, I strive to be objective and to give "equal time" to all of the zodiacal signs. I am interested in your views and comments. Do you feel you have been disliked, ignored or spotlighted to a great extent? Let me know!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent now is on getting legal green light to proceed toward objective. New contact can be the key. Permit natural qualities of independence to flow forth. You will intrigue "right" people. Be confident!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lunar aspect emphasizes ability to gain by treading lightly. Be considerate. Soft sell best serves your purposes. Cancer individual might play important role. Check facts. Be aware of previous commitments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Forces tend to be scattered. But this results in ability to diversify, to be versatile and to relax. Don't feel everything must be accomplished at once. Give yourself room. Experiment. Find your own style.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Study Taurus message and go slow. Patience and attention to details are a requisite. One who urges otherwise is misinformed. Build on solid base. Leave speculation to others. Listen and observe. Be quiet within.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Relative may act in "upsetting" manner. Key is to maintain balance. Refuse to be drawn into foolish argument. Gemini, Virgo persons could be involved. Guard against emotional wear - and - tear. Gradual change will occur.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Family member may have problem adhering to budget. Be diplomatic, fair and firm. Taurus, Libra persons probably will be in picture. Don't attempt to force issues. What you need is available if receptive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): You may have to do some tearing down in order to begin process of rebuilding. Perceive potential. Don't feel past methods are the only ones available. Be an innovator. You are due to receive solid offer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Message could be misleading. Take time to be positive. Older individual should be consulted. Tendency is to try doing too much at once. You have more authority than might be suspected. Shake off groundless fear.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money could be involved in decision to break with some aspects of the past. Explore better ways of distribution. Friend who is enthusiastic may lack experience. Know it and stop carrying unnecessary burden.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Cycle is such that you overcome adversity to achieve goal. However, goal may not be the obvious. Some changes are indicated, including plans and directions. Leo could be in picture along with Aquarius.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take path of least resistance. Give yourself time to gain proper perspective. Cooperate with Capricorn. Intuition is on target. Trust inner feelings. Overall view is necessary. Put together bits and pieces.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friends may have disagreements. Remain objective. Don't become inextricably involved. Member of opposite sex might play key role. One who blusters is bluffing. Know it and respond accordingly.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are steadfast, sensitive, capable of conserving and earning. You are productive, and August should be your most significant month of this year.

Highway Patrol Quiz Set

SACRAMENTO (AP) — All possible links between hitchhikers and crimes, accidents and other "incidents" will be studied over a six-month period by the California Highway Patrol, Commissioner Walter Pudinsky announced.

THE STUDY, being made at the request of the Legislature, will involve all city police and sheriffs' departments.

Pudinski said they will be required to submit additional reports on "each incident involving a hitchhiker."

The reports are to include whether the hitchhiker was the victim or the suspect, whether he or his hosts were injured, and data on his trip.

The legislation requesting the study was written by Sen. Lawrence Walsh (D-Huntington Park).

HE SAID he was interested in whether the chance of an accident is increased when hitchhikers are picked up or let out on or near freeway ramps.

History a Trail of Broken Treaties

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

The trouble with Indian treaties is that they are so easily broken.

Once any treaty is ratified, it becomes part of U.S. law. And, like any other law, it can be amended, superseded or repealed by a newer law.

So breaking an Indian treaty may not be honorable, but it can be perfectly legal.

EVEN IN CASES where there has been no legal justification for breaking a treaty, Indian tribes have often found themselves without the power to force compliance.

The question of Indian standing, and therefore claim to the land on which they live, has been ambiguous since the first white men came to America.

Charles V, king of Spain and grandson of Ferdinand and Isabella, made the first attempt at defining Indian property rights and turned to Franciscus de Victoria, professor at the University of Salamanca and one of the foremost theologians of his day.

Victoria said Indians had title to their land and Spaniards could not claim it by virtue of discovery. He suggested that if Europeans wanted Indian land, they buy it.

VICTORIA'S ADVICE was not always taken literally, as white explorers continued to claim new discoveries in the name of European monarchs, although his ideas survived in an unwritten code which generally ascribed sovereignty to the white kings but title to the Indians.

The English colonizers followed this rule, and individual colonies passed ordinances requiring acquisition of Indian land be by purchase authorized by the colonial government.

The British home government held similar views.

During the American Revolution the Continental Congress continued to deal with Indians in the same way and concluded the first U.S.-Indian treaty with the Delawares on Sept. 17, 1778.

BUT AT THE close of the war George Washington expounded the theory that Indian lands were "conquered provinces" as a result of the military victory over the British.

In 1784, Congress appointed commissioners to negotiate peace terms with Indians along the frontier and set up boundaries, making it clear that the territory belonged to the government although the Indians could live on it.

"The United States alone possess the sovereign power within the limits described at the late treaty of peace between them and the king of England," David Ramsay, chairman of the Congress declared. "You may also assure the Indians that they tell lies who say that the king of England has not in his late treaty with the United States given up to them the lands of the Indians."

But the Indians resented the government's approach and it became apparent that the United States, which had no standing Army once the Revolution was over, was going to have to soften its stand or fight.

CONSEQUENTLY, the secretary of war in 1788 recommended a new policy of purchasing land the government had been virtually confiscating in peace treaties. Money was appropriated to purchase Indian claims to land already ceded, and treaties were renegotiated.

On Jan. 9, 1789, treaties were signed with the Six Nations and the Wyandotte, Delaware, Chippewa and Ottawa, establishing a new official view of Indian lands rights. In these landmark treaties, the United States gave up claim to designated territory to be held by the Indians.

The U.S. government obviously recognized an international character to Indian relations and several treaties stipulated that having allied with the United States, the Indians could not ally with other nations.

The early treaties contained several other provisions implying a degree of Indian sovereignty.

As early as the 1778 Delaware treaty, the government guaranteed the integrity of Indian territory. Boundaries were set out between U.S. territory and Indian land and between Indian nations, just as the map of Europe was redrawn after the World Wars.

IN SOME CASES passports were required of U.S. citizens going into Indian nations. Some treaties provided extradition provisions. Location of military posts on Indian lands was negotiated just as the United States locates facilities overseas today.

Treaties signed with northern tribes in 1785 and 1786 provided that any U.S. citizen attempting to settle on Indian land forfeited the protection of the United States.

The U.S. government obviously recognized an international character to Indian relations and several treaties stipulated that having allied with the United States, the Indians could not ally with other nations.

Indian nations had formed alliances with first one power and then another in the many wars among Europeans in the American wilderness. Some joined the British against the Americans in the Revolution and the War of 1812.

IN THE AMERICAN Civil War some tribes formed treaty alliances with the Confederacy and then renegotiated with the United States after the war.

But time eroded whatever standing the Indians had as independent nations.

Some treaty provisions became obsolete, such as those requiring the government to provide grist mills and blacksmiths to repair hunting rifles. A Cherokee treaty still requires the government to hire mounted riders at $30 a day to guard the reservation.

Such anachronisms encourage a view of the treaties as quaintly out of date and not to be taken seriously, although some guarantees of goods and services are still vitally important to the Indians.

These annuities, though vital today, were the first step in downgrading Indian stature. They made the Indians dependent on the government at a time when the shrinking frontier denied their traditional huntsman's livelihood.

WEAKNESS ON the part of Indians invited whites to take advantage. Defeated by U.S. forces in 1814, the Creeks were forced to surrender 23 million acres, half their ancestral domain, although a big chunk of it belonged to loyal Indians.

As circumstances made Indians more dependent and less able to resist, other tribes accepted the inevitable and formalized similar arrangements, signing away what remained of their independence.

In a typical treaty, signed in 1861, the Arapahoe and Cheyenne "agreed and stipulated that the president, with the assent of Congress shall have full power to modify or change any of the provisions of former treaties. . ."

Finally, Congress eradicated the last illusion of Indian independence by legislating in 1871 "that hereafter no Indian nation or tribe within the territory of the United States shall be acknowledged or recognized as an independent nation, tribe or power with whom the United States may contract by treaty."

IN 1903 the Supreme Court said Congress could break old treaties and take Indian land so long as it was justified by circumstances "which will not only justify the government in disregarding the stipulations of the treaty, but may demand, in the interest of the country and the Indians themselves, that it should do so."

Anything goes, the court said, as long as it is "consistent with perfect good faith towards the Indians."

Indians today claim the government has found it in their best interest to allow their lands to be dried up or flooded by dams, ravaged by strip mining, denuded of forests, stripped of minerals and turned over to real estate developers.

They say the government's own agencies often have done the most damage, or have encouraged Indians to sell their birthright by fostering strife between tribal factions.

"That is one reason why Indians today are pointing guns at white men again, and at each other."

Our Man in San Francisco

Red Chinese Ping-ponging Around U.S.

By HERB CAEN

SAN FRANCISCO — Conventions are now the lifeblood of Baghdad-by-the-Bay, or so we've been told by the proponents of $500 million Yerba Buena Center, and this week the lifeblood is rich indeed, pulsing with some of the most corporate corpuscles in the land.

Gathering here in solemn conclave is the American Institute of Architects, the creme de la creme, the elitists' elite, the thousands upon thousands of incontestable geniuses who have changed the face of every city, San Francisco most definitely not excepted.

Walking among us mere mortals will be titans of the T-square who have given us such wonders as pyramids with ears, filing cabinets in the sky, vertical ice trays, 60-story decks of cards and, in the center of this once delicately poised metropolis, the living (dying?) embodiment of the dark monolith of "2001." Not to mention round apartment houses that screw themselves into the ground in case of nuclear attack.

Let us bid welcome to these princes of the Plastic Inevitable, for they have made us what we are today. Very, very nervous.

CAENFETTI: You can't say the Nixon administration discriminates against Democratic architects. S. F.'s John Carl Warnecke has just landed the plum assignment of the year, that is designing the new-new Senate Office Building in Washington, a $48 million job. This is not to be confused with the "new" SOB, built in the 1950s, or the old SOB, built in the 1880s, both of which will continue in use, and isn't it amazing how much space 100 Senators require? (John Carl's explanation: "It's all those Xerox machines!")

AFTER SEEING that great movie, "Cabaret," Dr. Robert Lichtenstein of Los Altos turned to the original Christopher Isherwood "Berlin Stories," inspiration for the film, and ran across this eerily familiar line, spoken by a young Nazi: "The Fuhrer does not want war. Our program stands for peace, with honor!"

HERE & THERE: Mainland China's 10-man delegation to the U.S., en route from Peking to Washington, stopped at the St. Francis and Gen. Mgr. Bill Quinn had a Mandarin feast ready for them (the hotel's two Chinese chefs had spent all day preparing it). However, after looking at the menu in Victor's, the hotel's rooftop restaurant, the Chinese ordered French onion soup, sirloin of beef, strawberries and tea, period and sorry. The State Dept. picked up the tab and soothed the Chinese chefs with tips.

HOW COMMERCIAL it has all become: a kid I know wrote to Roman Gabriel for an autographed photo last football season and finally got it a few days ago — along with order blanks for a Roman Gabriel watch, T-shirt, wall plaque and stadium cushion . . . Of course, what kind of kid would want Roman Gabriel's autograph in the first place?

U.S. Takes Friends for Granted

Allies Like Japan, Not Old Foes, Hold Key

The author, a professor at Harvard University, is a former U.S. ambassador to Japan. His remarks are from a May 4 speech in San Francisco before the Commonwealth Club of California.

By EDWIN O. REISCHAUER

The administration in Washington has concentrated mainly on relationships with our adversaries. But these seem to be a declining part of our general international problem. The balance of power was once all-consuming in its interest; it is not so today. War is no longer an acceptable alternative to peace for any major nation. Our great problems of the future are problems of cooperation, including cooperation with our friends.

There are grave poblems in our relations with Japan to which we have not addressed ourselves. We have taken the Japanese for granted. Japan has risen economically at such an astronomical rate that it and the rest of the world were unable to adjust to the situation economically, politically and, most of all, psychologically.

No country in history has risen at a rate of 11 percent per annum for a period of 20 years. It is not surprising that this rate of growth has created all sorts of international problems.

BECAUSE OF Japan's great dependence upon foreign natural resources, and therefore upon foreign markets to pay for them, the rate of trade has risen even faster. It has doubled every 5 years, which translates as a sixteen-fold growth in the past 20 years. Japan has suddenly become the number three country in the world.

In some ways, she might be called the number two shaper of the world because, next to us, she is doing more than any other country to fashion the future of the globe.

The Japanese have not seen their tremendous success. As a result, they have been very slow to grant reciprocity in terms of the letting in of industrial goods and foreign investments. This has caused great irritation to others, particularly the U.S., which sees its one-time trade surplus with Japan turned into a $4 billion deficit.

The Japanese view themselves as a nation isolated throughout much of history and still behind tremendous language barriers. They feel themselves part of an extremely homogenous culture, having a strong sense of the 'we' as opposed to the 'they.' They feel themselves poor, because they are poor in many ways. They are a terribly crowded nation, and space is a wealth the Japanese will never have. They also find themselves in an economically precarious position, for they do depend upon global markets and foreign resources in a way that no other country does.

IT IS SMALL wonder that the Japanese have tended to be somewhat insecure and slow to adjust; but we have tended to overreact, not realizing the temporary nature of the problems. Both we and the Europeans have become tremendously fearful of what we call Japan, Incorporated. Insofar as Japan has achieved the best pattern of basically free enterprise with excellent government direction of the macro-economy, we should admire the accomplishment rather than look upon it as something sinister. We run great danger in having a shift in the tide of world trade which has been so beneficial to all of us.

These are some of our anxieties. On the part of the Japanese, there are grave anxieties over the strategic and political relationship in the Mutual Security Treaty. This has enabled Japan to spend less than 1 percent of its gross national product on defense which is one of the reasons that economically things have gone so well. But Japan has had to pay psychologically for this bargain — military bases in control of a foreign power on Japanese soil and a sense of insubordination.

Both sides have been slow to recognize the need for change — a change in attitudes as well as policies. There are those who feel that Japan, feeling rejected by the U.S. and becoming disenchanted with playing a subordinate role in U.S. foreign policy, would shift to a relationship with the Soviet Union or China. This is completely unrealistic. Neither of these countries could possibly be the trading partner with Japan that we are.

Another position has occurred to Japan which is far more plausible — and that is a position of independent rivalry with the U.S. with the implication of limited rearmament if required to stand alone But most Japanese recoil from this course of action for all of its problems with respect to domestic politics and effects on the adversary relationships in Southeast and South Asia.

THE ONLY VIABLE alternative seems to be a reshaping of the American relationship. It must come to reflect an attitude of interdependence and real equality. This is what we have been terribly slow in doing, and this is what the Japanese are so terribly concerned about. Are we really a reliable partner in defense? And if we are, are we willing to play the game as true co-equals? Our relationship with Japan should be exactly as it is with Western Europe.

We run a great risk of drifting apart. The American irritations and worries on the economic side play against the Japanese worries and anxieties about the defense and political relationships. The mistrust and fears can build on each other all too easily. The real basic problem I believe is a lack of communication and meaningful dialogue. If Japan drifts toward a more isolated or military position because of a lack of confidence in us, then the animosities and tensions in East Asia will mount very severely, which could result in a catastrophe for all of us.

The Japanese crisis does not surface as a sudden, great explosion. It is a current under the surface, all the more dangerous because people are not aware of it ; and that current, if not reversed, can move us into deeply troubled waters by the end of this century.

PR Boom: State Tax Dollars Polishing Apples

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Public relations is a big business for the nation's most populous state.

Such spending in California illustrates the size to which state public relations can grow.

Californians pay out millions that go into a daily cascade of press releases, pamphlets, books on state government, tourist brochures, state agency reports and for the salaries of hundreds of persons responsible for producing this information.

THE TAXPAYER'S dollar also contributes to a certain amount of image-polishing by state bureaucrats and politicians.

Although accurate figures are hard to come by, it is estimated that California has about 120 employes working full time in public relations for state agencies, and considerably more if one counts aides to the state's 120 legislators and Governor Ronald Reagan's eight-member public information staff.

Salaries for these people in California range from the $10,608 paid a beginning PIO, to the $28,875 a year earned by Reagan's press secretary Ed Gray.

California officials said they could not say how much money is spent on PIO work, but state Capitol reporters estimate the figure at about $2 million annually.

"PUBLIC INFORMATION is so difficult to label," said A. Alan Post, the California Legislature's nonpartisan fiscal adviser. "It's so difficult to extract. We were unable to put on any kind of meaningful price tag. We finally threw up our hands."

The output of the PIOs is impressive. For example, during a typical 2½-hour period at California's state Capitol at Sacramento, 18 press releases were tossed into the "in" basket of The Associated Press' bureau there — about one every eight minutes.

The state operates its own printing plant, which did $18 million worth of work last year. Among its products is a free, full color, 24-page brochure on "California — The Golden State," and other full color pamphlets on the legislature, as well as a hardbound "Blue Book" on state government published every four years.

The 1971 issue has full color pictures of Reagan and other state officeholders and is 545 pages thick. It sells for $10 but Capitol reporters get free copies. They also get each year a hardbound book containing biographies and pictures of state lawmakers. Each has the reporter's name embossed in gold on the cover.

THE MOST eye-catching publication issued recently by the state is a brochure published by the Division of Tourist Development in the California Department of Commerce. With full color on all but one of its 20 pages, it cost $70,000.

State agencies, independent boards, legislative committees and the governor's office issue a stream of annual or monthly reports, usually mimeographed on colored paper and ranging into the hundreds of pages. Capitol reporters estimate they get such reports on an average of once a day.

State lawmakers are entitled to taxpayer-paid "informational mailings" to constituents. The 80 assembly members get three a year, and the 40 senators are allotted 15 cents per registered voter, which usually boils down to two mailings a year.

The timing is left to the legislator. One Republican state senator, John Nejedly of Walnut Creek, came under fire last year from an election opponent who accused him of saving up his mailings and issuing two of them during his re-election campaign. Nejedly won.

BURIED DEEP in the Capitol at Sacramento is a small television studio where a lawmaker can appear in front of a huge blowup of the domed Capitol building and make a film clip for home district television stations, if he wants to hire a cameraman. There are also facilities for preparing tapes for home town radio stations.

What is the purpose of the enormous publicity apparatus?

The official answer is that it serves to let the people know what their state government is doing.

The public relations operation does make large amounts of information available to the public and the media. But there is a tendency, in the view of many reporters, for the government apparatus to portray all decisions as bold and decisive and to give as little publicity as possible to actions likely to arouse public ire.

SAYING GOVERNMENT "ought not to propagandize its citizens," California Assemblyman John Vasconcellos introduced a resolution last year calling for a study of "the nature and extent of advertising and public relations conducted by the various agencies of state government, and the amount of public funds being expended for those purposes."

UNCLE LEN'S CORNER

Here it is another Spring Saturday and just around the corner from a relaxing, sunny, summer vacation. I'll bet all of Uncle Len's little friends are really looking forward to getting away for a while. I sure am.

We had a really swell turnout in this week's contests. Those ambulances do a lot to save lives in times of emergency and I'm glad to see so many of you know what they do.

This week, we'll have two big topics on which to base your artwork, poems and even your riddles if you can think up good ones.

How many of you have been to the zoo or wild animal parks where you've seen a new animal for the first time — one you never thought existed.

How many times have you been asked to name all the animals you know? Do you come up with the common ones like dogs, cats, elephants, hippos, horses, cows and so forth?

But no matter how many animals you can think up, you'll never come close to hitting the grand total of roughly 1,200,000 animal species that there are in the world.

There are far more animals than people in the world but unfortunately many of the most beautiful ones are being gradually destroyed as man spreads outward.

There are animals like emus and oryxs, gazelles and koalas that most of us would never think of on that list of the world's creatures. But they are there and many more just like them — funny names on strange animals that most of us ignore.

Make it a point to learn which of the world's exotic, rare animals are endangered and may not be around much longer for us to see.

Make preservation of the less-known species one of your topics for the week.

And, though I'm sure some of you won't like it, why don't you work on some art and poems on summer school.

Uncle Len knows many youngsters in Huntington Beach who will attend wonderful classes of their own choice this summer just because they want to learn something.

Of course, summertime is a time to learn fun things about the world around us and about our own talents in art, reading, writing and many other things.

So make that your second choice for topics of the week and really pack the old mail bag next week.

Honorable mentions in art this week go to Cliff Ballard, 6, of Huntington Beach; Dean Clark, 4, of Costa Mesa; Cindy Clark, 6, Costa Mesa; Robert Ballard, 8, Huntington Beach; Andy Clark, 8, Huntington Beach; Lori Porath, 7, Huntington Beach; Karen Loomis of Irvine; Connie Knapp, 4, of Newport Beach; Patrick Knapp, 7, of Newport Beach and one mention in poetry to Jane Halloran, 9, of Costa Mesa.

★ PRIZE WINNER ★

Cheryl Rouleau, 11, 33912 Calle Borrego, San Juan Capistrano

Any child under 12 can enter Uncle Len's Contest. Here's all you do: (1) Draw picture on piece of plain, white paper 5½ inches wide and 4 inches deep. Use black ink and make lines black. (2) Do not copy or trace picture. It must be your own work. (3) Put your name, age and address on back of drawing. Mail it to Uncle Len's Art Contest, Box 1560, DAILY PILOT, Costa Mesa 82626. Entries must be received by noon on Thursday for production on the following Saturday. Winner will receive Kennedy half dollar.

Andy sends a complete 26-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Scott Smith, age 11, of Tulsa, Okla., for his question:

How do minerals differ from rocks?

Bricks are bricks and houses are houses. Leaves are leaves and trees are trees. So it goes with the minerals and the rocks, at least for most of the way. However, in a few cases a rock may be called a mineral and a reasonably pure mineral may occur in rock form. But most rocks in the earth's crust are composed of assorted chemicals called minerals.

An amateur rockhound may refer to any sample as either a rock or a mineral. A real pro knows which is which.

The solid globe and the fluid seas are composed of inorganic chemicals called minerals. Altogether, the earth contains about 2,000 different minerals, though only about 100 of them are here in large amounts.

Most of them are chemical compounds made from molecules — and all the earth's compounds are built from fewer than 100 atomic elements. Most of our familiar minerals are found in rocks — though water is classed among the most common minerals.

A sample of ordinary granite is classed as a rock because it is built from a little of this and a little of that. Its plumpudding texture is a mixture of assorted small chunks of various minerals. It may contain raisin or blueberry type nodules of the minerals hornblende or feldspar.

Gritty grains of hard silica are mixed in the recipe and perhap a few flakes of glassy mica that sparkle like diamonds when sunbeams strike at just the right angle.

There are about 100 different types of rock and granite is one of the best examples. It is found everywhere — as pebbles and boulders, in massive hulks uplifted to build mountains and in massive layers underlying whole continents.

It was formed when molten magma erupted from the bowels of the earth. As it cooled, the various chemicals in the molten mixture solidified at different temperatures and formed nodules of different minerals.

Each batch formed from a unique mixture and though all granite is rated as rock, no two deposits are exactly alike.

This is not true of the mineral ingredients in the granite rock. Take for example the silica. It is made of molecules, each of which is a specifically constructed package of one atom of silicon and two atoms of oxygen. Silica molecules may be used in gritty sand, clear quartz crystal and dozens of other substances. All of them have similar properties because all are the same basic mineral with the same basic molecules.

Rocks are made from minerals and the majority of minerals are made from molecules. Of the 2,000 or so minerals, fewer than 100 are made not from molecules, but from atoms. These are basic chemical elements, such as pure gold and silver.

All the atomic elements in the earth are rated as minerals — so are all the inorganic chemical compounds. The 100 or so rocks are mixtures of these various elements and compounds.

Andy sends a seven-volume set of The Chronicles of Narnia to Amy Congress, age 9, of Peoria, Ill., for her question:

Which was the first University in America?

The first universities in the New World were founded by the Spanish. The oldest one is the University of Santa Domingo. It was founded in what is now the Dominican Republic way back in the year 1538.

In 1551, the University of San Marcos was founded in Lima, Peru. In the same year, the National Autonomous University was founded in Mexico.

The oldest universities in North America are older than the United States. The first one was founded in 1636, in Massachusetts. At that time it was called Newtowne College —and later it became Harvard University.

The first plans for a university in Virginia had to be abandoned because of trouble with hostile Indians. This was around 1620. But in 1693, the University of William and Mary was founded at Williamsburg, Virginia.

It is the second oldest university in North America.

A LIFE SAVER

Whizzing by at a terrific speed,
The ambulance is on its way
To help someone in his hour of need.
They're working day and night
Zooming down the street so fast
His red light flashing proudly
Whizzing, zooming, going past
His siren screeches loudly.

Duffy's Gold Smile Worse Than His Bark

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Duffy is an attack dog with a smile more disarming than his snarl.

The 97-pound German shepherd has a mouth full of shiny gold teeth — a six-piece fixed bridge on his front incisors.

"When he bares them now it's a real deterrent," laughs owner Harold Whitney, 35. "He startles his victim."

The canine wasn't too convincing when he curled his lip to growl and showed his gums, says his veterinarian, Dr. Rocky A. Santa Cruz.

Three months ago Duffy's teeth were knocked out in an accident and the 5-year-old dog lost his job as lead demonstrator in a school where dogs are trained to attack on signal.

Duffy, a silver and black shepherd, sprung at another attack dog who was giving Whitney a hard time and chomped down on a metal headrest bar in a car. "It was like a cartoon," said Whitney. "Four teeth fell right out on the front seat."

He rushed the bleeding animal to the vet, who called in his own personal dentist for consultation.

"We had to make sure we used something Duffy wouldn't lose in someone's arm," Santa Cruz said. "Porcelain tends to crack and with stainless steel there can be problems in welding."

They decided to try cast gold, though Santa Cruz says he's never heard of it being done before.

The veterinarian says he's quite pleased with the results.

But Whitney has some reservations. "At night now I hear this metallic clicking sound when he chews."

Eggs Get Hard Test In Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — What happens when a "bird" hovers about 150 feet above ground and drops fresh eggs.

Most land intact if they're packed in protective devices such as gelatin, popcorn, diapers, foam plastic, foam rubber and nylon stockings.

That's what happened here when pupils at Horizon View Elementary School at Lake Forest Park took up the challenge in an assignment.

Ed Orsborn, a science teacher, challenged pupils to "design and construct a package no larger than a shoebox or a basketball which will hold a fresh grade-A hen's egg."

"The idea is to simulate an instrument package drop on the moon," he said.

An Army reserve helicopter hovered over the school playground while some 80 youngsters who took up the challenge and another 200 or more of their friends waited below.

"Did you see that Jello? It just went blooey" hollered one youngster when he saw the landing of an egg that had been packed in 10 pounds of gelatin with a package of lemon Jello thrown in for good measure.

Another child said, "My popcorn is still bouncing out there."

The most elaborate successful device, however, was an arrangement of nylon stockings fastened to the sides of a box with adhesive tape, leaving a suspended egg. The device was designed by Jeff Arrowsmith, a first-grader.

Tom Turkey A Birdbrain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The turkey may be a fine feathered friend of American consumers but as a thinker the creature is really a birdbrain, says the Agriculture Department.

"Whatever the turkey's salient nutritional and economic qualities, it is not one of nature's brighter animals," says an article in the current issue of Farm Index published by the Economic Research Service.

Even poults, young turkeys, sometimes do not have enough sense to eat. Starvation rates in some flocks can go as high as five percent because the young birds do not figure out how, the article says.

Services Held

Priscilla Jane Frazer, Laguna Painter, Dies

Memorial services were held Friday for Priscilla Jane Frazer, a long-time Laguna Beach painter who died Thursday at South Coast Community Hospital. She was 66.

Mrs. Frazer, originally a realistic watercolorist, in recent years experimented in objective abstract works in oil and acrylics.

She won 16 personal awards, including two first awards at the Laguna Beach Festival of Arts, and had given 14 one-woman shows.

For years Mrs. Frazer's studio was next to her home at 233 Emerald Bay. For the last two years, she had been living in Mexico.

A native of Battle Creek, Mich., Mrs. Frazer had lived in Laguna since 1932.

She is survived by a brother, Edwin H. Frazer of Rancho Santa Fe and a sister, Virginia Frazer Owens of Emerald Bay.

The family suggest memorials in the form of donations to the Orange County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, 18356 Irvine Blvd., Tustin.

Mrs. Frazer began her long and successful art career in 1928 when she took an eight-month world painting tour with Lucille Douglas, one of her favorite painters.

She studied at the University of Southern California, Long Beach State College, Jepson Art Institute, the Art Center, Chouinard, and at Oxford, England.

She was tutored by painters Rex Brandt and Phil Dike and Eliot O'Hara at Taubes, Jae Carmichael, and James Pinto at Mexico's Instituto Allende.

Many art associations occupied her attention: The Laguna Beach Art Association, the California Watercolor Society, and the Los Angeles Art Association.

She had exhibited in all the western states, Washington, D.C., New York, and Mexico.

Mesa Holds 2 In Money Order Cashing Scheme

A young transient and his janitor buddy are in Costa Mesa police custody today, charged with a stolen money order-cashing spree that skimmed about $1,500 from various Orange Coast victims.

William J. Dugan, 23, who stayed at some motels which allegedly cashed the notes, and Timothy W. Gravelle, 24, were to be charged with forgery and conspiracy to commit forgery in complaints being sought Friday.

Gravelle, of 1848 Illinois St., Costa Mesa, and his alleged accomplice were taken into custody by a new Special Operations team set up by Costa Mesa detectives.

Investigators Norm Kutch and Dave Stern picked up Gravelle at his home, while Dugan was arrested at a Harbor Boulevard motel where he was staying.

The suspects are accused of passing about 40 of 52 money orders stolen from Laguna Federal Savings and Loan, 260 Ocean Ave., Laguna Beach, in recent weeks.

The Special Operations team said money orders from the missing supply have been cashed in Fountain Valley, Huntington Beach, Garden Grove and Anaheim.

If made out to their limit, the book of money orders could hit $13,000, but investigators said most of those passed were for moderage amounts.

Laguna Beach police will be in charge of the case, since the original money theft occurred in that city.

Kuyper Studies Court's Airport Curfew Ruling

Orange County Counsel Adrian Kuyper will study a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision on airport curfew laws.

The Board of Supervisors ordered the study this week to determine if the decision will have any effect on Orange County's present 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. ban on jet takeoffs. Landings are allowed until 11 p.m.

Cursory examination of the Supreme Court ruling seems to indicate that the court's 5-to-4 decision banning a city of Burbank law on jet flights from the Hollywood-Burbank Airport does not effect curfew laws for government-owned facilities like the Orange County Airport.

Hollywood-Burbank is owned by Lockheed Terminal Inc.

Old Jail Given Week's Reprieve

The abandoned former Orange County Jail building on Sycamore Street, near Eighth Street, in Santa Ana, got another week of "life" through action of the Board of Supervisors.

They postponed for one week the $19,400 demolition contract award to the Gangi Demolition Co, the low bidder.

The old jail is being torn down to make way for the extension of Civic Center Drive from Main Street to Broadway, a budgeted Santa Ana street project.

Also doomed is the old Hall of Records on 8th Street.

Watercolors Shown At Laguna Savings

The paintings come from the collection of Helen Zillgitt, a Newport Beach artist. Included are works by Rex Brandt, Joan Irving, George Post, Millard Sheets, Phil Dyke, Milford Zorne and Robert Wood.

The show was arranged by Ton Enman, director of the Laguna Beach Museum of Art.

Yucca Moth Champ Pollinator of All

By BILL GARDNER

BALDWIN PARK (AP) — Spring is here and the birds and bees are at it again — pollinating sweet-smelling, brightly-colored flowers. But it's a moth — with unique pollen scrapers on the tip of her chin — who ranks as the ablest pollinator of them all.

The moth — named yucca — pollinates as if her life depends on it.

It does.

The yucca moth and a common southwestern plant — the yucca — have developed such a complete partnership that neither species can reproduce without the other, scientists believe. The plant, with stiff, sword-like leaves at the bottom and a spire of white blossoms atop a four to 10 foot shaft, is currently in bloom and standing tall on many southwestern hillsides.

The small, silver-colored moth is the sole pollinator of the plant, which is the sole food supply for the yucca caterpillar and nesting site for the moth.

Many insects and birds are attracted by colors of nectar to flowers so structured that guests are dusted with pollen, which later comes off on other flowers as the visitors make their rounds.

But this transfer of pollen is accidental as far as the insect or bird is concerned. No pains are taken either to gather or distribute the pollen.

The fact is, the birds and bees just don't merit the acclaim they've received for their parts in the pollination process.

The yucca moth, on the other hand, pollinates the yucca plant intentionally.

"Scientists hate to use the word 'intentionally' applied to insects," says Don Frack, a Baldwin Park entomologist who has been studying the yucca moths for almost three years.

"I use it because it seems to best describe what happens."

Actually, there are four species of pollinating yucca moths and several species of yucca plants, including the picturesque Joshua Tree, but the story is about the same for each, Frack says.

When the yucca flower blooms, the female yucca moth is attracted by smell and goes to the tip of the stamen male sex organ and begins scraping up pollen with an exterior mouthpart specially adapted for such work. Of the more than 100,000 species of moths, only the yucca moths have pollen-scraping mouthparts.

The moth doesn't feed. Her sole objective, seemingly, is to scrape up pollen, roll it into a small ball and tuck it under her chin.

After gathering the pollen, the moth flies to another flower to lay her eggs, according to published reports.

She then makes a little hole in the wall of the flower's ovary and lays an egg. Only the yucca moths have well-developed piercing egg-laying tubes.

With the ball of pollen still tucked under her chin, she then visits the pistil female sex organ and deliberately and vigorously rubs the pollen into the stigma part of the female sex organ. The moth then flies away. By going to another flower to deposit the pollen, the moth insures cross-pollination.

The moth receives no direct benefit from either collecting or distributing the pollen. But the moth's children and the plant's seeds survive only because of the moth's "foresight."

After fertilization by the pollen, seeds develop in the ovaries and some are used for food by the yucca caterpillars when they hatch. But plenty of seeds are left for growing new plants.

Frack, one of only two or three yucca moth specialists in the country, says he began concentrating on the moths because of the perplexing questions posed by the yucca moth — yucca plant relationship.

After laying her eggs, how does the moth know that she must pollinate the plant in order that seeds will develop and the newly-hatched caterpillars will have food to eat?

How does the moth know to deposit the pollen in a different flower from the one where she gathered it?

How, indeed, does she know which part of the flower to scrape the pollen from and which part to deliver it to? Or, for that matter, how does she know what pollen does?

If, as most scientists belive, the moth actually "knows" none of these things, how did such an intricate, seemingly purposeful behavior pattern ever evolve?

"Any statement as to how this partnership developed would be highly speculative," says Frack. "Fossil records of moths are pretty bad and the intermediate steps to this arrangement are missing."

William Morton Wheeler, one of the most famous entomologists who ever lived, faced the same general problem and concluded, "Why animals and plants are as they are, we shall never know; of how they have come to be what they are, our knowledge will always be extremely fragmentary. . .but that organisms are as they are . . . is a perennial joy and consolation."

BRING CHARM TO YOUR BACKYARD WITH BRICK PATIO
Detailed Instructions Guide Home Craftsman Step-by-step

Bricks Sweeten as They Age

By STEVE ELLINGSON

The romance of brick is forever. And the older it gets, the richer and warmer the effect. Our patio project can bring the charm of brick to your backyard, providing a rich setting for outdoor living and adding to the resale value of your home.

It's easy to lay a brick patio similar to the one pictured here. Our detailed instructions will guide you every step of the way. With the basic information offered in the pattern, you can also lay a brick walkway or build the brick barbecue pictured here. Planter walls and foundations are covered in depth.

The accent, however, is on laying bricks with a sand or concrete base, with or without wood divider strips. The suggested patio design we offer can be adapted to any backyard simply by adding or deleting sections of brick. A complete list of tools and a materials estimate guide is included in our pattern.

To obtain the step-by-step Brick Patio Pattern 512, send $2 (add 25 cents for airmail delivery) by cash, check or money order to:

'Mum' Should Be the Word

'Mum's the word. Or, at least it should be with gardeners in California. May is a good time to consider chrysanthemums—and their color contributions to the fall season.

'Mums are fall-blooming flowers under natural garden conditions. The pots of blooming chrysanthemums, available all year, can be used as indoor decorations, or sunken into garden bare spots to brighten-up the surroundings. After the flowers fade, the five plants to be found in the container can be cut back to 4-6 inches, separated and planted in sunny sites. The plants will bloom again in fall.

Chrysanthemums seem custom-made for the autumn season. The yellows, golds, and bronzes herald the arrival of fall; other shades—ranging from white through the reds to lavenders and purple—make up for any lack of fall garden color.

The gardener will enjoy more bloom for his money by setting-out young, rooted transplants which are available in May.

These rooted cuttings may have been pinched-back by the nurseryman. If not, pinch-out the top of the plant, yourself. This encourages sidebranching and bushiness—which means more flowers per plant.

With large-flowering exhibition-types and spider 'mums, the interest is in bloom size; pinch-back the last time in mid-July. You'll obtain a less shrubby plant with longer stems and larger blooms. Pompons, anemones, daisy and button-type chrysanthemums can be repinched in July.

USDA Has Answers

Home gardeners with pest problems may find help in a U.S. Department of Agriculture publication, "Insects and Diseases of Vegetables in the Home Garden" (G-46).

Recently revised to conform to new pesticide restrictions, the publication may be obtained for 40 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402.

Cut To Match

To get a perfectly matched seam when installing resilient sheet flooring, the edges of adjacent pieces should be overlapped, then cut through both pieces at the same time with a sharp knife and a straight edge.

"I'd like to get rid of that hot, barren triangle at the head of the driveway," I complained to the Management one day some years back.

"Why don't you plant it to something?" she asked.

"I have, but nothing will grow. Too hot. Poor soil."

Most every home has a similar hot, dry spot, I guess — a curb or a too sunny corner or a slope where the top soil has been eroded away. We had three of them. But not anymore. The most unsightly one, by the driveway, is now almost a bosky dell. It took some experimental gardening to make it that.

First I tried grass but the summer sun burned it to a crisp, even the perennial rye, which is a tough plant. The soil was clay from which the topsoil had been scraped away during the driveway grading.

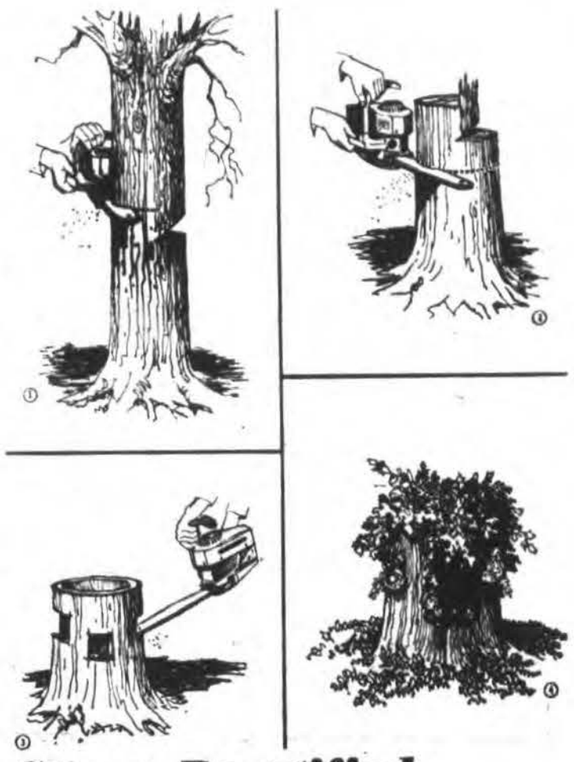
"I'LL TRY MYRTLE and honeysuckle',' I decided. "They'll grow if anything will."

They caught on and that was a start. Then a bluejay helped me by dropping a couple of live oak acrons in the honeysuckle, where he couldn't retrive them. The live oak seedlings in time made enough shade for two conifers, a maple and a Japanese flowering plum.

Before many years, the hot and baked area was a spot of semi-shade in which decaying leaves created a thin layer of new top soil. I tossed some cast-off daffodil bulbs into the jungle and they took root and acclimated. Other shady place flowers caught on and we had the sort of the bockey dell, so cool that I use it sometimes for flats in which I'm rotting cuttings. Quite a change from the hot, barren triangle in which nothing would grow.

ON ANOTHER SLOPE I tried a bright idea that turned out to be a brilliant blooper. I planted squash seeds at the top of a hot slope where sprinklers could water the roots while the vines covered and cooled the sun-baked hot area. It was a great idea except that the vines insisted on covering the sprinklers instead of the slope. I'd start them down the hill; a couple of days later their tips would be back on top of the sprinklers. So I switched to vetch, a much slower cover crop, but one that pulls nitrogen out of the air and injects it into the soil.

For my third hot spot I relied entirely on myrtle, a tough-rooted spreading plant that some of my visitors insist on calling periwinkle. Whatever its rightful name, it did the job and covered the slope, pushing out in every direction and taking over the area. Now I have myrtle forever; there's no way to eradicate it apparently, once it takes root. So I'm wary about letting myrtle get started near a flower or vegetable patch. It's a pest, but great for covering hot, dry spots.



Stump Beautified

The next time it becomes necessary to remove a tree, cut the stump about three feet above ground. Make it flat. A lightweight chain saw can be used to carve out the inside and make niches in trunk at intervals. Fill natural planter with peat moss and soil mixture. Vines such as nasturtium, periwinkle, ivy or lantana may be planted to cascade down. Fuchsia, prostrate rosemary, petunias or geraniums will grow with minimal attention.

Retarded Helped

El Toro Lutheran Home Filling Up

Enrollment is beginning at Good Shepherd Lutheran Home in El Toro and the first of the 102 mentally retarded who will occupy the residential school are arriving.

Dedication of the facility is set for Sept. 16. Transfer of title from the former Parklane School operators is complete and the State of California has granted the license.

An extensive refurbishing program has been under way and hiring of the staff is nearly complete, according to William Hoehne, temporary administrator.

Staff members have been training at the home's headquarters in Terra Bella, Calif. The home operates a residential school for 279 in the San Joaquin Valley community, as well as an 84-bed facility in Cornelius, Oregon and a 20-bed respite home in Apple Valley.

All beds have been reserved in El Toro, but the 500-name waiting list has been considerably reduced by the Oregon and El Toro openings.

Good Shepherd Home was founded in 1952 in Anaheim by a group of local Lutherans affiliated with Missouri Synod churches.

Admittance is open to all races and creeds, with acceptance based on the prospects of the retardate to be helped by the home. Parents are billed for the cost of care and those who cannot pay the full amount are helped by a sponsorship program which contributes about $20,000 per month for all four homes.

Much of the assistance is made possible by individual donors, as well as 7,000 auxiliary women throughout the western United States, plus operation of several thrift stores in connection with local chapters of National Assn. for Retarded Children and Exceptional Children's Foundation.

There is also an active parents' auxiliary.

An open door visiting policy prevails. Individuals may drop in any time, but groups are asked to give advance notice by calling the Home at 837-4272.

Program materials, including film strips, slides, speakers and displays are available to church groups or service clubs.

"We plan to bring more facilities close to our pupils' family homes," says Hoehne.

"But we believe the day of the residential school is not past. Retarded people need to proceed at their pace and are encouraged by the success of progressing under our program. Foster homes and local community programs meet many needs, but there are those who must have the security of a permanent home," he said.

Academic classes will follow the school year and there will be a workshop and vocational training program, training in personal hygiene, manners, music, art, sports with swimming emphasized. Meals are planned by a dietician and health care is around-the-clock with arrangements made with local hospitals for acute treatment.

"Permeating the entire program is the Christian faith — the real reason we founded Good Shepherd Home," reports the Executive Director E.M. Engstrom.

Church-raisin'

The sons of the old sod who settled the California community of Dublin would be proud of their descendants. In true Irish spirit, they won a long, hard battle to preserve and restore old St. Raymond's Church, built in 1860. Their struggle to save the tiny church from destruction started in 1961.

Hour of Segregation

Nation's Churches Hurt for Black Faces

United Press International

Twenty years ago, an observer noted more in sorrow than cynicism, that "eleven o'clock on Sunday morning is the most segregated hour of the week."

It's still true.

Some religious denominations and many individual Christians have played active, courageous, self-sacrificing roles in the battle to eliminate racial barriers from American society.

But the church as a whole remains the least integrated public institution in this country.

The 1973 edition of the Yearbook of American Churches, most authoritative source of religious statistics, reports that 90 percent of America's 14.4 million black Christians are members of predominantly black denominations.

Many of the remaining 10 percent while affiliated with racially mixed denominations, attend local churches that are exclusively or overwhelmingly black in membership.

At the most optimistic estimate, fewer than one million black Christians worship regularly in congregations that are genuinely integrated as opposed to having a token membership of one or two black families.

"The church is still divided mainly into black churches and white churches," says the Rev. W. Sterling Cary of New York, first Negro president of the National Council of Churches.

"The only churches that are truly integrated are those in transition from white to black. We are self-righteous at the national level of church life about prodding secular institutions into becoming more racially open.

"But in my view, the political, educational and business structures of this nation are in fact reflecting far more racial inclusiveness than the churches."

Some who have worked long and hard for integration of the church might argue that white racism — overt or subtle — is by no means the only factor involved in continued segregation of religious life in America.

Many white congregations are not only ready to welcome black members, they are actively seeking them. But they find the majority of black Christians reluctant or unwilling to venture into interracial worship.

Black Christians acknowledge this. They say it is an attitude compounded partly of doubt about the kind of welcome they'd receive, and partly of a desire to avoid being conspicuous exceptions in a sea of white faces. Worship is a personal and private area of a person's life, and it is easy to understand why most people tend to choose a church in which they feel completely at home.

Cloud Hangs Over Religious Orders

NEW YORK (AP) — A question mark hangs today over the future of the old, once thriving and powerful religious orders of Roman Catholicism. Most are shrinking. A noted American church scholar says bluntly they're already dead."

This is the jolting thesis of Brother Gabriel Moran, a pungently articulate intellectual and leader in one of the Church's most venerable teaching orders, the Christian Brothers. He has been pressing the point for the last three years.

"We've got to face it while we still have enough concerned people left in the movement to crystallize new, living forms of community," he says. "There is still something that could be done, but it won't be true for long."

While other Church authorities cite various ailments of the religious orders, few concur with the idea that they're totally defunct. And many dismiss Brother Moran's view as mere gadfly needling of complacency.

"He makes overemphatic, blatant assertions to wake people up and make them think," commented his superior in Rome, Brother Aloysius Carmody, secretary-general of the 300-year-old Christian Brothers.

Nevertheless, statistically, there has been a steady shrinkage in most religious orders both for men and women for the past seven years, despite numerous changes in their structures, rules and activities.

In that period in the United States, the number of priests in religious orders has fallen from 23,021 to 20,694; the number of brothers has dropped from 12,539 to 9,740 and the number of nuns from 181,421 to 146,914.

Studies have projected continued declines. A product of the late Middle Ages, the orders such as the Franciscans, Dominicans and Jesuits long have been the wellspring of the Church's academic and social creativity. But their cohesive mystique has waned in modern times.

Brother Moran, 37, a professor of theology and education and also the elected superior of the Long Island-New England province of the Christian Brothers, has sounded his warning since 1970 in lectures, articles and books.

He maintains the religious order has lost its effectiveness, can no longer accomplish its purposes, has ceased to be a viable form of organization and thus, in effect, is dead, although thousands of people still are members.

That they still remain adherents offers a continuing, but gradually disappearing means for developing new modes of community religious life that can survive in modern times, he says.

He says this will require a total dismantling of the old forms which segregate men and women in different organizations, and the development of new communities including men and women, young and old, married and single, doing away with "all castes" and involving all kinds of Christians.

Open House Set

Brian Price, 3 and Laurie Brown, 5, get artworks ready for open house at a Christianita Preschool at 35522 Camino Capistrano in San Clemente. The preschool is sponsored by Christ Lutheran Church and displays of childrens' work and school equipment will be set up for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

School Set To Mark 20th Year

St. Andrew's Prebyterian Church Pre School is celebrating it's 20th birthday. The church-related school is one of the oldest in Orange County.

It was in September, 1952, that Mrs. James Stewart and her committee organized the pre school.

The state of California licensed the school for 35 children. Today, 1973, the school is serving the community and has grown to a total registration of 160 pre schoolers and 15 in the new Kindergarten program.

The aims for the school have remained the same—to create an atmosphere conducive to growth of each child. Educational goals have changed over the years.

The staff of teachers firmly believes that the child must create on his own, stimulating his own growth from inside.

The staff, consisting of 11 teachers, is highly trained to teach in the field of early childhood education.

Mrs. Frank Caudell followed Mrs. Stewart as director, serving in this capacity until 1966, and at the present time is adviser to the pre school.

To Appear

Noted religious author Dr. Harold F. Leestma will appear at autograph open houses today and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at 14152 Livingston in Tustin. He is the author of "God at My Elbow."

Mesa Coed Gets Money From Fund

Debra Anderson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Anderson of 3050 Ceylon Road, Costa Mesa, has been awarded a $300 scholarship by Lutheran Brotherhood, Minneapolis-based fraternal insurance society.

Debra is a student at Lutheran Bible Institute, Seattle, Wash.

The scholarship is one of 17 junior college awards of $300 each presented by Lutheran Brotherhood this year as part of its support of Lutheran higher education in the United States.

A total of $375,250 has been allocated this year for Lutheran Brotherhood scholarships and fellowships.

Uganda Missionaries Must Make Decision

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — The time of decision has come for American and other foreign Christian missionaries in this central African nation.

The three-year work permits for 1,293 U.S., British, Italian, Dutch and Canadian missionaries are about to run out and President Idi Amin, a Moslem, seems to be persisting in his expressed desire to turn the churches — along with everything else in Uganda — over to Ugandans.

If Amin's government does not renew the work permits the foreigners will have to leave, and under the law they can take with them only the equivalent in Ugandan pounds of $140.

Many, if not most, want to stay.

"This after so long," said one Protestant missionary who came here 18 years ago. "I'd like to stay."

Speaking of President Amin, he adds: "No, he is not anti-Christian as some say. He just wants the white man to go and Africans to run Uganda's churches."

Amin denies he wants to make Uganda a Moslem country.

Of the 10 million population, eight million are Christians, another million Moslems and the rest practice tribal religions.

Amin says talk that he wants to make Islam the dominant religion is just propaganda. But he adds: "Any religious leader who brings confusion will be dealt with by a military tribunal."

Amin, an army general, is Uganda's strongman leader.

Radio Uganda publicizes converts to Islam, reporting 420 converts as making the change "because they realized it was the only true religion."

Amin likes to point out that he is the only Moslem in his Cabinet. Others note that Moslems are often No. 2 in government departments but held high positions in the army.

Pastor Goes To Assembly

Dr. Charles H. Dierenfield, Pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Newport Beach is attending the 185th General Assembly in Omaha Nebraska.

Dr. Dierenfield was elected a Commissioner by the Los Ranchos Presbytery which is comprised of 48 Presbyterian churches, mostly located in Orange County although a few are in Los Angeles County.

College Research

Group Isolated For Time Tests

DAVIS (UPI) — UC Davis scientists have isolated six students in small rooms for three months to see if they will lose their sense of time.

The researchers are regulating the lighting and other elements in the two sound-proofed rooms so the volunteer students will have little idea of what is happening in the outside world.

MEDICINE

Scientists hope the experiment will help predict how astronauts will perform on space stations and explain the time lag disruption felt by jet travelers.

• Cancer Device

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A method of destroying certain cancer tumors by injecting a rubber-like material that cuts off the blood supply to the growth has been unveiled by UCLA physicians.

The method involves no knife incisions and is done under local anesthetic.

However, Dr. Robert Rand said the use of the technique is limited to certain tumors that have a well-defined blood supply and are located in particular parts of the body.

The innovative aspect of the method is the use of a huge, powerful electromagnet that holds the injected material at the tumor site and keeps it from spreading throughout the body.

• Danger Cited

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Instalation of X-ray machines at airports to speed inspection of carry-on baggage is a hazard to the health of airline employes operating the equipment, a physician has complained to state and federal agencies.

"It doesn't make any sense," Dr. Robin P. Michelson said. "They ought to stop forthwith before someone gets hurt."

Michelson, an ear, nose and throat specialist, said he was "horrified" to see the baggage inspector's hand was x-rayed during the inspection operation.

• Dentists Merge

SAN MATEO (AP) — The California Dental Association has been reunified after 76 years with Dr. Burton H. Press of Pittsburg as president.

The 103-year-old professional organization was split into two groups by factions, one serving the southern part of the state and another the north.

Press, who was elected to represent the 12,000 association members said the reunified dental association will support better care for Medi-Cal patients, fluoridation, improvement of training in dental disciplines and the elevation of professional standards.

• Policies Hit

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — The psychiatric profession should consider confining its "tell-me-about-it" specialists and its "bleeding heart advocates" to private patients, Dist. Atty. Peter Chang Jr. contends.

Chang was reacting to statements by psychiatrists that it would be easy for disturbed persons to "fake" sanity and thus mislead psychiatrists into judging them normal.

The psychiatrists, in turn, had been criticized for judging accused mass murderer Edward Emil Kemper III as sane only three days after he allegedly murdered a college coed, cut up her body and buried the pieces.

• Officer Resigns

FRESNO (AP) — Fresno County Health Officer William DeFries has resigned, saying that a majority of the board of supervisors has "serious reservations as to their confidence" in him.

DeFries and a member of his staff have been involved in a controversy over missing health department memorandums that were instrumental in the dismissal of a county planning commissioner last year.

At a board meeting, County Chairman John Krebs admonished DeFries, saying that the citizens of the county "had lost faith in the public health department."

LA Rallies To Topple Braves, 3-2

ATLANTA (AP) — Willie Crawford and Bill Russell drove in key runs in a three-run eighth inning Friday that rallied the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Dave Lopes and Bill Buckner opened the inning with singles, chasing Atlanta starter Ron Reed, 2-5.

After a sacrifice by Willie Davis, Joe Ferguson drove in the first Dodgers run with a sacrifice fly, then Crawford tied the game with a double.

Roric Harrison intentionally walked Ron Cey, then Russell drove in the winning run with a sharp single.

Starter Andy Messersmith, 4-3, allowed six hits before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Jim Brewer finished on the mound and gained his fourth save.

May 20	Los Angeles at Atlanta (2)	10:30 a.m.
May 22	San Diego at Los Angeles	7:55 p.m.

The Braves jumped to a first inning lead on Darrel Evans' solo home run, No. 7, and added another in the fourth on Sonny Jackson's sacrifice fly.

Reed was tough in the early going, spacing his hits well until the big Dodger eighth. Except in that inning and the second, the big right-hander allowed no more than one base runner.

Until the eighth, he had retired 13 of 14 batters.

The Braves put the tying runs on base in both the eighth and ninth innings, but lacked the punch to get it across.

When Charlie Hough came on at the start of the eighth in relief of Messersmith and issued Hank Aaron his third walk of the night, he was lifted for Brewer.

Rod Gilbreath, running for Aaron, was forced by Rusty Baker, but Mike Lum got his third single of the game, putting Brewer in trouble.

Brewer escaped by getting Dave Johnson to bounce into a double play.

The Braves made a last gasp effort in the ninth when, with two out, Ralph Garr singled. But Brewer got Johnnny Oates on a fly and recorded his fourth save of the season.

It was only the third defeat in nine games for the Braves.

Kentucky Derby Winner Tabbed Over 5 Others

BALTIMORE (AP) — Secretariat, trainer Lucien Laurin and jockey Ron Turcotte loosened up Friday for the $150,000-added Preakness — the colt with a breeze and the men with quips.

Secretariat, the Kentucky Derby winner and early 2-5 favorite in the field of six 3-year-olds for today's Preakness, galloped 1¾-miles on the Pimlico track and then opened up to go a quarter-mile in 25 1-5 seconds.

Laurin expressed satisfaction with the work and then went to the annual alibi breakfast where he cracked:

"This is my fourth Preakness and if I don't get it this time, you've lost a customer."

The veteran trainer finished third with Amberoid in 1966, third with Jay Ray in 1969 and then fourth last year with Secretariat's Meadow Stable mate, Riva Ridge, who was the odds-on favorite.

On TV Today
Channel 2 at 2

Asked if he purposely went wide on the turn for home when Secretariat won the Derby in the record time of 1:59 2-5 for the 1¼-miles, Turcotte joked: "I was going so fast I guess I just skidded around the turn."

Others in the field for the 1 3/16 mile Preakness were Sigmond Sommer's Sham, the Derby runnerup and second favorite; Mrs. M.J. Pritchard, Dr. E. W. Thomas and trainer Bill Resseguet Jr.'s Our Native, third in the Derby; Harry and Robert Meyerhoff's Ecole Etage, winner of the Preakness Prep last Saturday; Thomas Mellon Evans' Torsion and Frederick R. Menke's Deadly Dream.

Jockey assignments for the race, scheduled to start were Laffit Pincay Jr., Sham; Anthony Black, Deadly Dream; Don Brumfield, Our Native; Ben Feliciano, Torsion, and George Cusimano, Ecole Etage.

Pimlico officials were hoping for a crowd of 60,000, which would be a record, and, although it rained Thursday night and Friday, the weather forecast for today was sunny, temperatures in the low 70s and very little chance of rain.

However, should rain produce an off track, neither Secretariat nor Sham should be affected.

Secretariat won the 1 1-16-mile Laurel Futurity by eight lengths in 1:42 2-5 on a sloppy track at Laurel last year and in his first start as a 3-year-old he won the seven-furlong Bay Shore by 4½ lengths in 1:23 1-5 in the slop at Aqueduct.

Sham won a six-furlong allowance race as a 2-year-old by six lengths in 1:10 4-5 on a muddy track at Aqueduct and this year in mud at Santa Anita he won the 1 1-16-mile Santa Catalina by 2½ lengths in 1:45.

Each Preakness starter will carry 126 pounds. But Racing secretary Larry Abbundi said if it was a handicap, he would assign the following weights:

Secretariat, 130; Sham, 126; Our Native, 118; Ecole Etage, 113; Deadly Dream, 112 and Torsion, 107.

Ashe, Richey Gain Vegas Tennis Semis

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., the only seeded player to make the semifinals, defeated Jaime Fillol of Chile, 7-6, 6-2, Friday in the quarterfinals of the second annual $150,000 Alan King-Caesars Palace Tennis Classic.

Cliff Richey also made the semis by beating Ray Moore of South Africa 6-1, 6-4.

Fifth-seeded Ashe's opposition today will be Roscoe Tanner. Richey will face Brian Gottfried.

Ashe seemed in control of the match when he was serving for the first set at 5-3, after breaking the Chilean at love. But Fillol broke right back, winning four consecutive points. Both players held serves to force a tiebreaker at 6-6.

On TV Today
Channel 7 at 3:30

The tempo seemed to swing to Fillol as he ran off a 5-1 lead in the best of 12-point tiebreaker.

Ashe pulled himself out of trouble twice with unreturnable serves to capture the breaker at 10-8 and easily won the sixth set as he broke his opponent's first two serves of the game.

For Richey, it was fiery match. Both players complained about line calls before the Texan settled down to rout Moore in the first set.

Richey won the first four games before the South African turned the match into a contest, holding serve at 4-4 in the final set. But Moore was broken when serving 4-5 to lose the match.

The singles winner will receive $30,000, while the doubles victors split $10,000.

The winners of Friday's first doubles match was the third-seeded team of Ken Rosewall and Fred Strolle of Australia. They upset top-seeded Stan Smith and Bob Lutz, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

In the second match, unseeded Gottfried and Dick Stockton beat fourth-seeded John Newcombe of Australia and Marty Reissen, 7-6, 5-7, 7-6.

UCI Faces Northridge In Opening Playoff Tilt

UC Irvine will face Cal State (Northridge) in the opening game of the 1973 NCAA Western Regional baseball tournament Friday at 12 o'clock with Puget Sound, Wash. drawing a bye in the three-team event.

A second game will be played Friday between Puget Sound and the loser of the first game at 3:30.

Saturday's schedule calls for two games at the same hours with Puget Sound playing the winner of the tourney opener.

If all three teams have identical 1-1 records at this time, two will be determined by lot to play a second game Saturday in the double elimination event.

If one team is eliminated, the two surviving schools will meet with a possible tourney champion determined. Should another game be necessary, it would be played at 1 o'clock Sunday.

Tickets for the individual games are $1 per person with 50 cent student tickets also available. A series ducat for adults sells for $2.50 and $2 for students. Both individual game and series tickets are available at the school athletic office in Crawford Hall and will be on sale at the games Friday.

Contreras Drafted

SAN DIEGO — Former Huntington Beach High standout Mike Contreras, a guard from Arizona State, was chosen by the San Diego Conquistadors in a supplementary American Basketball Association draft.

The supplemental draft, conducted by mail, was announced Friday.

Title Fight

PANAMA CITY, Panama — Antonio Cervantes of Colombia, World Boxing Association welterweight champion, predicts he will knock out former titleholder Alfonso "Peppermint" Frazer of Panama in their scheduled 15-round title fight tonight.

"I'll win by a knockout," said Cervantes, who won the championship by stopping Frazer in the 10th round last October.

USC Nine Wins

PULLMAN, Wash. — Ed Bowman's bases-loaded home run sparked Southern California's seven-run first inning and a 13-4 victory over Washington State University in the first game of the Pacific-8 Conference baseball playoffs Friday.

Bruins Breeze To Big Lead; Albritton Fifth

EUGENE, Ore (AP) — Heavily favored UCLA, the nation's No. 1 track and field power, breezed into the early lead but sprinter Don Quarrie and long jumper Randy Williams of Southern California turned in the top performances Friday on the opening day of the Pac-8 Conference championships.

Former Newport Harbor High star Terry Albritton, a freshman at Stanford, finished fifth in the shot put with a top effort of 59-2¼.

Oregon's Mac Wilkins won it with a heave of 63-7.

Williams, the Olympic gold medalist last summer, won the long jump with a wind-aided 27-9.

Quarrie, bothered by a leg injury last season, showed no sign of problems by flashing to a wind-aided 9.1 in his heat of the 100. He came back with the top qualifying time of 20.2 in the 220, a clocking that matched the conference record.

UCLA, which didn't lose a man in the qualifying, held a 52-37 lead over Washington State after six events of the two-day meet.

Williams, who lost to James McAlister in a dual meet two weeks ago, reversed the finish this time as the UCLA football standout came in second at 26-9.

The loss to McAlister "helped get me ready, obviously," Williams said. "You're always after the guy who's on top."

Singer Posts 7th Win; Angels Belt Texas, 7-1

California erupted for five runs in the second inning and Bill Singer turned back Texas on eight hits for his seventh victory of the season Friday night as the Angels hammered the Rangers, 7-1, at Anaheim Stadium.

Singer, posting his sixth straight win to give California its sixth victory in seven games, struck out eight and permitted only one walk.

Frank Robinson crashed his sixth homer of the year, a two-run shot off loser Mike Paul, 3-3, in the first inning before the Angels stunned the Rangers with their five-run burst in the second.

Jeff Torborg scored two with a double and Billy Garbarkewitz added a two-run single to highlight the rally.

Singer, 7-1, was never in serious difficulty after permitting a Rangers run the second inning on Vic Harris' run-scoring single.

The Angels started fast, staking Singer to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Grabarkewitz walked and Robinson launched his homer high into the left field seats.

Texas responded with run in the second. Jeff Burroughs cracked a double and rode home on a single by Harris.

California broke it open in the same inning, with Al Gallagher starting the explosion with a walk. One out later Lee Straton delivered a single. Torborg then hit what looked like a double play ball to Rangers third baseman Toby Harrah but Harrah let it roll under his glove for an error.

Gallagher scored, Stanton went to third and Torborg wound up on second. Grabarkewitz and Rudy Meoli followed with run-scoring singles and Winston Llenas contributed a sacrifice fly.

After Robinson was hit by a pitch, Paul left in favor of Bill Gogolewski who was greeted by Bob Oliver's single, driving in the fifth run of the round.

New Putter Gives Hill Memphis Lead

MEMPHIS (AP) — Dave Hill, who owns an unmatched history of success in this tournament, repeatedly scrambled out of potential trouble and shot a three-under-par 69 for the second-round lead Friday in the $175,000 Memphis Golf Classic.

Hill, who won this event three times in a four-year stretch, used a new putter and a new putting stroke to salvage his round with only 29 strokes on the greens as he established a two-round lead with a 137 total.

That put him seven under par for two trips over the windswept, 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course and two in front of his nearest challenger, Jerry McGee.

McGee, a non-winning tour regular who has been playing poorly most of the season, matched the day's best round with a 68 for a 139.

First round leader Dan Sikes slipped to a 75 and was in a group at 142.

Defending titleholder Lee Trevino had three birdies and as many bogeys in his par round, and at 143 was one-under-par and six back of Hill. Hill, who has used only 57 putts in 36 holes, said he was using a putter lifted out of J.C. Snead's locker and a new putting stroke.

"I call it the 'Over 40' grip," Hill said. "I put my right forefinger down the shaft, like those guys over 40 do who are losing their nerves."

He said he acquired the putter two days ago. "J.C. had about three of them in his locker. I just took one. He's going to have a hard time getting it back."

Hill, a wiry, intense veteran of 15 years on the pro tour, said the putter was all that was saving him. He described his swing as "horrible. If they'd had out of bounds stakes out there, I'd have been out at least twice," he said.

Second round leaders in the $175,000 Memphis Golf Classic:

Drastic Releaguing For County Schools

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The CIF Southern Section releaguing committee for Orange County has reversed itself and submitted a final proposal to the CIF Southern Section almost identical to the original proposal of April 4, the Daily Pilot has learned exclusively.

The proposal drastically changes the current league alignment in Orange County.

Lou Joseph and Vic Sherreitt, with the CIF's help, has made only one change from the original plan — they switched Loara and Kennedy.

Otherwise the plan is identical and figures to pass without a hitch considering that Orange County principals issued Joseph and Sherreitt carte blanche authority to releague as they saw fit following Thursday's Orange County meeting.

"Our second proposal met with almost total objection in one league and the principals finally realized the futility of trying to please everyone and gave us the go-ahead to do it like we see it," Joseph told the Daily Pilot.

CIF Southern Section commissioner J. Kenneth Fagans emphasizes that this is only a proposal and that it won't be officially finalized until Sept. 20.

But observers close to the scene say this is the way Orange County schools will operate beginning in September of 1974:

League A — Edison, Fountain Valley, Marina, Westminster, Newport Harbor, Los Alamitos, Western, Loara.

League B — Anaheim, Huntington Beach, Orange, Katella, Cypress, Foothill, Saddleback, Kennedy.

League C — Corona del Mar, Estancia, Costa Mesa, Tustin, El Modena, Villa Park, Magnolia, Santa Ana.

League D— Esperanza, Valencia, Brea, Canyon, El Dorado, Sonora.

League E — Laguna Beach, San Clemente, Dana Hills, University, El Toro, Mission Viejo.

Garden Grove — Bolsa Grande, Garden Grove, La Quinta, Los Amigos, Pacifica, Rancho Alamitos, Santiago, Freeway League — Buena Park, Fullerton, La Habra, Lowell, Savanna, Sunny Hills, Troy, Santa Ana Valley.

The proposed setup means the Garden Grove League stays the same as the present and the Freeway League's only change is Santa Ana Valley's insertion and the deletion of Kennedy High of Buena Park.

For Huntington Beach it means competing in football with Anaheim and Kennedy and for Mission Viejo it means competing in AA circles.

The structure of the famed Sunset League is halved and even the name may be replaced.

There has been considerable discussion among principals to do away with the name because of the radical changes being proposed.

The plan leaves Orange Coast area school Huntington Beach with no opponent in common and Costa Mesa appears destined to further AAAA competition.

Joseph indicated that most of the decisions were based strictly on enrollment figures with some emphasis on geographical setup.

The proposal also leaves four Huntington Beach School District institutions in one league.

The Anaheim School District, which likes to spread itself out as much as possible, dominates League B with four entries.

The proposal kills such football rivalries as Anaheim-Westminster and Western-Anaheim, along with basketball wars between Huntington Beach and Marina and or Westminster.

AAAA Spike Finals

Neidhart's 67-5¾ Only Second Best

By STEVE BRAND
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

LAKEWOOD — Like a Presidential election where the momentum suddenly shifts, it now appears Newport Harbor High may be crowning its third straight CIF shot put champion next week.

Jim Neidhart, the Sailors' star who has trailed Inglewood High's Dave Doupe all season, is inching up so close now Doupe doesn't even have to turn around to see him.

In the CIF AAAA team championships Friday night at Lakewood High, Neidhart finally passed his bitter rival. It only lasted a moment but if the Newport Harbor heavyweight continues his improvement in the Masters meet Friday night at Citrus College, Doupe's four-meet winning streak will be over.

Neidhart got off a mighty 67-5¾ heave on his first toss to better by six inches the best of the season in the Southland. Doupe answered with his best, 67-8¼.

The mark up even though Neidhart had three more tosses over 67 feet while Doupe's next best was 66-9¾. Neidhart's effort bettered his seasonal high of last week by 14 inches and places him just 3¼ inches behind Terry Albritton's school record 67-9.

The Masters meet will determine individual champs and after Albritton's two-year reign, Nedhart looks ready to move right in.

The close finish in the shot was mirrored in the team chase as Centennial beat Muir in the final event to capture the crown by a scant one point.

It was also a meet of double winners.

Santa Ana High speedster Clancy Edwards successfully defended his 220 title, running a 21.2 to tie the CIF record he set a week ago, and stunned the 100 yard dash field by pulling away in the final 15 yards to a brisk 9.6.

Santa Monica High's Curtis Beck posted a unique 880 and 2-mile double, winning the shorter race in 1:51.4 and then decimating the 2-milers in 9:05.4.

He announced after the meet he'd run only the two mile at the Masters competition.

While the Orange Coast area failed to have a single champion in the varsity, it listed four of the 11 individual winners in the frosh-soph division.

Edison High's Tom Lloy captured the 660 in 1:22.1 by simply running way from the field. One of his victims was Mission Viejo's Jon Cook who earlier finished in what appeared to be a dead heat in the 1320, losing on the photo, and had tried to double.

Newport Harbor's Brian Theriot led from the gun to win the 220 in 22.4. Earlier in the day, in the rerun of the 220 semifinals, he clocked a 22.2.

Estancia's Ken Conner, who won the Cee division as a freshman last year, repeated under the new system, winning the high jump at 6-4.

UCI, Pirates Seek Crew Titles Today

LOS GATOS — UC Irvine and Orange Coast College bid for West Coast crew supremacy today in the finals of the Western Sprints championships on Lexington Reservor.

UCI's eight-oared varsity shell, victorious in its heat Friday, is seeded second today behind powerful Washington.

Meanwhile OCC's Pirates will also duel Washington for the JV eight title.

UCI's Anteaters won with a time of 6:16 Friday while Washington's varsity boat rowed to a clocking of 6:13 in easily nabbing its heat.

Other schools in the varsity championship today include Oregon State, Cal State (LB), California and UCLA.

Orange Coast's JV boat had a time of 6:36.8, the top clocking in the division. Washington won its heat with a time of 6:38.6. They will be joined by UCI, Cal State (LB), California and Oregon State.

UCI's JV boat finished second to OCC with a time of 6:42.3 but qualified for the finals by winning its repechage (second chance) heat later in the day.

The Pirates' freshman eight boat and UCI's varsity four and freshman four also gained finals berths.

OCC coach Dave Grant's freshman crew won its heat in 6:23.5 and will face Washington (6:20.5), Cal, USC, UCLA and Santa Clara in the finals.

UCI's varsity four placed third in its morning heat but later finished second to Santa Clara in the repechage to gain the finals. OCC's varsity four boat was third in the same race and thus did not qualify for the grand championship. Instead it will race in the petit finals.

UC Irvine's freshman four was second in its morning heat but later was No. 2 behind Stanford in the repechage to earn a place in the finals.

UCI coach Bob Ernst's freshman eight also will race in the petit finals after gaining a third place in the repechage.

The temperature soared into the high 80's during Friday's racing.

Valbuena Stands Out In Spring Grid Drills

Checking the JC scene:

Gary Valbuena, the ex-Fountain Valley and Orange Coast College quarterback, sparkled in Tennessee's spring football scrimmage last week.

Gary threw for 106 yards, completing seven of 18 passes with one going 67 yards for a touchdown.

He's still No. 2 behind junior Conridge Holloway, according to reports from Tennessee. Holloway is a member of the Vols' baseball team and did not play in the scrum.

CRAIG SHEFF

Valbuena enters his senior season in September.

La Verne College baseball coach Ben Hines is hot after five area standouts — OCC's Rich Fielder, Paul Fleming and Dan Quisenberry and Corona del Mar High's Matt Keough and Bob Palmer.

Hines figures that Keough and Palmer could go high in June's major league draft.

He's also interested in Western's Mike Duffy and Fullerton College's Ron Bell.

Three ex-area stars — Dan Clark (Costa Mesa High, OCC), Don Snyder (Corona del Mar, OCC) and Bill Hawse (OCC) are playing for La Verne this year.

Al Verdun has resigned as baseball coach at Rio Hondo College after a 63-62-2 record in four seasons.

OCC defensive lineman Dave Jackson has accepted a football scholarship to San Jose State. Jackson, a Marina High graduate, won the Daily Pilot most improved trophy last season after switching from offense to defense.

Spring sports banquets for Golden West and OCC are right around the corner.

GWC will honor its tennis, golf, gymnastics and surfing teams Tuesday and fete its baseball, track and swimming squads Wednesday in the college center (6:30).

And OCC's crew will be lauded Wednesday in the student center (6:30) with the tennis and track squads feted May 29. The OCC baseball and golf teams will be honored the following night.

Golden West College aquatics coach Tom Hermstad, on sabbatical leave in Europe, says he'll be home about June 1.

Hermstad has been instructing water pole in various European countries during the past three months.

He's now in Holland for a tournament involving Germany, Romania, Yugoslavia and Holland. Tom says he'll referee the Romania-Yugoslavia match.

The Hermstads (Tom's wife and children are with him) recently visited London for five days.

All-Irvine League Net Team Named

The All-Irvine League tennis team of 1973 is dominated by three underclassmen singles players in an evenly distributed list of honors as selected by that circuit's coaches.

Senior Steve Mallott of Estancia is joined by two juniors and a freshman (Dan Gerken of Corona del Mar) in the singles.

Singles

Steve Mallott (Estancia), Dan Gerken (Corona del Mar), Eric Lane (Los Alamitos), Bob Desola (Edison).

Doubles

Carlos Passo (Edison), Scott Gayner (Estancia), Jeff Tsao (Los Alamitos), Jeff Dyer (Corona del Mar), Ed Schwartz (Estancia).

Second Team

Singles

Rick Newman (Edison), John Gulick (Corona del Mar), Dan Baker (Los Alamitos), Vince Huebner (SA Valley), Tony Sawaya (Estancia).

Dennis Smith (Los Alamitos), Greg McCarty (Corona del Mar), Gary Ellmore (Edison, Glen Ruud (Edison), Ray Hanso (SA Valley), Bill Wade (Estancia), Bob Hollfield (Magnolia).

Rustlerettes Rip Fullerton, 10-0

Debbie Meyer pitched a shutout and Kathy Stephens returned to the lineup for the first time in a month to get four hits as the Golden West College Rustlerettes girls softball team defeated Fullerton, 10-0, in second round action of the Southern California tournament Friday on the GWC diamond.

This afternoon, Golden West will face Pasadena at 3 o'clock with the winner advancing to Wednesday's finals. Pasadena defeated Cypress, 6-4, Wednesday and is the only other undefeated team with Golden West.

In the loser's bracket, La Valley won on a forfeit from El Camino and Santa Ana defeated Mt. San Antonio, 5-4.

Golden West scored three times in the third and added seven tallies in the fifth on 14 base hits including a blast by Debbie Burlison that hit the scoreboard in left field for a double.

Hydro Swanson Bounces Back From Surgery

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Marina High's Ron Swanson packs 200 pounds on a 6-2 frame and at that size there seems little question he's one of the biggest prep second basemen around.

And he's one of the best around, too, with his glove and bat after lettering in basketball and baseball for three years.

Hydro, as his friends call him, has shed some of the image that garnered him the nickname of the Greek water god with wings sprouting from the side of the head.

A haircut did the trick. And a shave took away some of the Captain Ahab image.

But his playing ability on the field or floor has only gotten better, although his athletic future was nearly cut short due to a painful elbow injury.

Dr. Robert Kerlan, the specialist who handles the Los Angeles Lakers and UCLA Bruins, among others, predicted only a 50-50 chance that Hydro would be able to compete after last summer's operation for a bone chip in the elbow.

But the surgery corrected the problem and Swanson came out of it in good fashion, although he did have a slow start in basketball and baseball.

To compound his problems he missed six games during the stretch of Marina's baseball season due to another injury.

"With Hydro and Dan Wells both out with injury we lost about all the power we had," says Marina baseball coach Paul Frey.

Swanson hurt his shoulder when he dove for a ball near the mound and although he was in the lineup in all but two games, Frey considers his loss in the neighborhood of six issues.

"He was our No. 4 hitter and always offered the long ball threat," adds Frey.

Despite the problems Swanson garnered first team honors on All-Sunset League and honorable mention in All-Orange County circles.

He has a natural sidearm throw to first and is virtually impossible to take out of the play at second base on a slide situation.

Frey recalls one attempt at killing a double play ball on a run and hit situation:

"Santa Ana tried it and the kid just slid into him and stopped. He ended up like a pretzel and Swanson still doubled him up at first."

Swanson's bat produced a .333 batting average and he possesses 4.0 speed from the right side of the plate to first base.

He's also tough on the basketball scene, but baseball is his No. 1 love and No. 1 sport.

In addition to his bat and glove, Swanson's assets include the great attitude, a good knowledge of the fundamentals and he was the team captain.

Off the field Hydro busies himself as an exploratory teacher in special education.

And he's usually one of the first to volunteer on little league missions.

All-Coast Area Chosen

Huntington Beach and Corona del Mar dominate the All-Orange Coast area baseball selections as picked by the Daily Pilot.

Huntington Beach gleaned three first team honors with pitcher Brian Slagle, outfielder Craig Kennedy and infielder Randy Mills in the picture.

Corona del Mar's duo of catcher Bob Palmer and pitcher Matt Keough were unanimous choices for first team and Palmer was named outstanding player of the year for the area.

Coach of the year is Mater Dei's Bob Donkersley, who led the Monarchs to the games, then came on strong to cop the title.

Angelus League championship. Mater Dei lost three of its first four league tle.

Cerritos Wins

NORWALK — Cerritos College handed Los Angeles City College a 4-0 loss to take the upper hand in the Southern California JC baseball playoffs at Cerritos Friday.

In another game of the double elimination tourney, Long Beach City College ousted Citrus, 13-2.

Thus LBCC faces LACC at 11 with the winner facing Cerritos in the second game at 3. A third tilt if necessary will follow Sunday at 1 o'clock.

What's Doing Outdoors

JIM NIEMIEC

Yellowtail are currently responsible for increased fishing pressure along the coastline. Good catches of these game fighters are reported at all of the off-shore islands.

The right water current, temperature and an abundance of squid are teaming up to make conditions near perfect. Boats out of all landings are running only half full loads allowing anglers plenty of elbow room. These ideal conditions will only last for the rest of May due to vacationers.

In addition to yellows, white sea bass, barracuda, bonito and bass are also ending up in large fish sacks. The season has gotten off to a good start and it is expected to continue through the summer.

Most of the yellows are averaging about 18 pounds, but a few are in the 22-to 25-pound class. Live squid is most productive although experienced jig fishermen are also hooking yellows regularly.

A good bait supply along the coast almost assures anglers of a good migration of game fish working up from below the border.

Newport's fleet of day boats running out of Art's Landing and the Pavilion are trapping local waters for a variety of surface and bottom fish. Both popular harbor landings have opened up a full schedule of party boats offering a wide variety of fishing.

Too Early for Predictions

When, where, how many? . . . are questions now being asked along the water front. Will the albacore be forced outside by warm water, will they arrive on schedule, usually about July 1)? It's really too early to make any valid predictions.

Current water conditions can change and do. It is this writer's opinion that we are going to have a very good albie and tuna season, but it might be a later than usual start.

Trout Fishing Improves

Fishing in the high country has improved greatly over the opening weekend. Lots of small trout were caught from Bishop north to Bridgeport. The big trophy fish of the area were also cooperative as a number of browns in the 8-to 15-pound class were taken. Rapala type lures trolled in the lakes produced the trophy brown trout.

The Department of Fish and Game is now beginning regular weekly stocking of rainbow trout in all fishable waters.

Heavy trout limits are coming out of Irvine and Anaheim lakes for anglers using cheese, salmon eggs, Zeke's and small lures. Weekly stockings are helping both of these popular Orange County lakes.

Bass fishing has slowed down in the Southland, but should improve with a few warm days. Water temperature is still in the low 60's and until it rises about 8 degrees bucketmouths won't become too active on surface plugs.

Crappie are considered slow, and catfish and bluegil are becoming more active at most lakes in Southern California. Lakes Henshaw, Vail, Wohlford and Sherwood will continue to give up nice stringers of panfish well into August.

Big Bear is still on the slow side, as is Gregory and Silver Springs in the San Bernardino Mountains. The Salton Sea is giving up an occasional corvina but sargo are listed as most active.

River Fish Active

Both bass and trout have come to life on the Colorado River. Fishing has shown a marked improvement during the past 10 days.

Bass are up in the shallows in heavy cover during the cooler morning and afternoon hours and hitting on surface plugs. During the day, worms worked slowly are producing some keeper size bass. Orange County angler Hank Neverak has been getting in some very good popper fishing in the potholes along the lower stretch of the river. Neverak is using bass poison poppers and connecting on bass to 4½ pounds.

Trout are in deeper water in the upper portions of the river and its impoundments. Zekes is working well for still fishermen while trollers are doing best with Fishback and Rapala type lures.

Monarchs Top CIF Rival, 4-2

By HANK WESCH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Mater Dei High's baseball team mounted a three-run fifth inning rally and held on to edge Ramona 4-2 in an opening round game of the CIF AAAA playoffs Friday at Mater Dei.

The victory propels the Monarchs into a second round contest Tuesday against Long Beach Millikan at a site to be selected today. Millikan stopped Fullerton 6-0 to make its way into the second round.

Friday's Mater Dei victory was largly the result of some heads-up defensive play and an opportunistic offense.

The Monarchs managed only four hits, two of them infield singles, but took advantage of Ramona mistakes to score the necessary runs.

Mater Dei starter Neil Lendzion didn't have one of his better games — he walked eight men and allowed runners on base in every inning — but some solid fielding by his teammates held Ramona to single runs in the first and fourth innings.

Trailing 2-1, Mater Dei forged its winning rally with only two hits. John McElwain started things with a line single to center. Kevin Timpane then bunted back to the mound attempting to sacrifice, but Ramona pitcher Brad Petroff threw high to second base and McElwain slid in safely.

A bunt single past the mound by Lendzion loaded the bases, and Mater Dei tied the score when pinchhitter Mark Stanbra's bouncer to second was misplayed for an error.

A sacrifice fly by Dave Najera brought in Timpane with what proved to be the winning run and Lendzion scored on a grounder to second by Jim Gardea.

UC IRVINE'S SHORTSTOP DAN HANSEN.

Starting Shortstop Hansen Will Conclude UCI Career

By HOWARD L. HANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Four members of the UC Irvine baseball team will be ending four years of competition with the annual NCAA playoffs — whether it will be at home in the regionals or in Springfield, Ill. in the finals will be determined next weekend at UCI.

One of those four has been the starting shortstop, with few exceptions, since the opening game at UC Riverside when he was a freshman.

Dan Hansen, a graduate of Western High School and a high professional draft choice four years ago, chose a college education over signing a pro contract.

"It has been worth every minute of it," he says when asked about his original choice. "I'm not sorry at all but I would like to get a chance to play professional baseball when I graduate in June," he adds.

Hansen has had a problem once the playoffs rolled around each of the past three years and this one is no exception.

Injuries have cropped up and this time an accidental kick in the back during a game with UCLA has forced him to the sidelines for the final games of the regular season.

"I hope this one gets over before the playoffs so I can show the scouts I can still play baseball," the deft-fielding infielder says.

Arm trouble that plagued him for two years is no longer of concern and his accurate, hard throws to first base and his range in fielding ground balls make him an excellent choice in the field.

At the plate, he had his best season, average-wise, as a freshman when he hit .305. As a sophomore his average was .301 and last year it tailed off to .226.

This year he has moved back up to .270 after a slow start that saw him hitting .230 going into the Anaheim tournament.

How does he feel about the NCAA playoffs this year and the Anteaters' No. 1 rating?

"This is the year if we are ever going to do it," he says.

"The team is better balanced and our biggest asset is the pitching depth this time. We have three very good starters this year, something we haven't had in the past.

"Our hitting is also better, I think. It is better balanced than in other years throughout the entire lineup."

The three starters he is referring to are Jerry Maras (8-2, 1.50 e.r.a.), Ray Humphries (11-1, 2.66 e.r.a.) and Gary Wheelock (8-4, 3.03 e.r.a.).

UCI hasn't exactly set the playoffs on fire in past years, sporting a 1-6 record in three previous regional appearances.

"I think this will make the whole team play better this time when they realize how poorly we have done in the past."

While professional baseball is uppermost in his mind as far as the future is concerned, Dan also has other plans and even has an alternative if he isn't offered a sufficient pro pact.

His father is thinking seriously of purchasing 240 acres of recreational land in the Yosemite area and Dan will be available to help with operation and promotion of this project if he doesn't sign a pro contract.

But one thing that isn't an alternative and perhaps the big thing that makes him feel it was all worth while to attend UCI is an impending marriage this summer to Carol Weaver, a girl he met while attending the Anteaters institution.

And the other three four-year veterans of UCI baseball?

Tom Dodd, a pitcher who started and won the first game at UC Riverside and hit the first home run for the team; Bob Barlow, another pitcher; and Chuck Spanski, a reserve outfielder.

Dodd and Barlow have been plagued with arm troubles, Dodd for two years and Barlow this season.

But despite the injury problem, Dan Hansen is ready and willing to aid UCI to a national championship in baseball once the call to play ball is sounded Friday.

Finals Tonight

Laguna Spikers In Title Struggle

Laguna Beach and University High will be among a slew of teams vying for the CIF AA track and field championship tonight at Valencia High School.

The action begins with field events at 6:30 and running events are scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock.

Orange League champion Laguna Beach suffered a setback when sprinter John Carlson missed the preliminaries last week with an injury, but has qualified five men on the varsity level and rates an outside chance against favored Crespi and Indio.

University's hopes ride with Bob Bradford and Jim Dykes in the 440, and a mile relay team which qualified third in the preliminaries. Mater Dei's lone varsity qualifiers are Jim Poettgen in the mile, and Mark Fitzpatrick in the 440.

The CIF finals are being held on a divisional basis for the first time and close races and excellent times appear a certainty.

The first three finishers in the field events, 880, mile, two-mile and 1320 will qualify for the prestigious Masters Meet Friday night at Citrus College, as will the first two qualifiers in all other events.

One of the night's most promising events is teh two-mile, where Laguna Beach freshman standout will be challenging El Dorado's Pat Dutzi. Dutzi and Hulst finished 1-2 in both the mile and two-mile in the Orange League championships. Dutzi will attempt to double again, with a 40 minute rest between races, while Hulst points only for the two-mile.

Bradford and Dykes could possibly finish 1-2 in the 440, where Bradford has a 49.2 clocking and Dykes has been timed in 49.8.

Other Orange Coast area representatives given chances to place high include Laguna Beach's Doug Case in the high jump and Judd Binley in the shot put.

Case has cleared 6-4½ at the Valencia track in the Orange League finals, but will need a best-ever effort to defeat Vic Churchill of Alemany, who has cleared 6-8.

Bast Nabs Cycle Race

The Bast brothers continued to dominate motorcycle racing at Costa Mesa's Orange County Fairgrounds Friday night.

Van Nuys' Mike Bast won the four-lap scratch main event with brother Steve finishing second ahead of Garden Grove's Bill Cody and Dana Point's Mike Curoso.

And in the five-lap handicap main event, Steve Bast placed fourth.

The race was won by Santa Ana's Ron Taylor.

A crowd of 8,322 viewed the action.

Corona, Tars, Laguna Post CIF Tennis Wins

Corona del Mar, Newport Harbor and Laguna Beach breezed to CIF playoff tennis victories Friday.

Corona del Mar's Sea Kings posted a 19½-8½ victory over host Arcadia and visiting Newport knocked off Long Beach Poly, 22-6 in AAAA play while invading Laguna blitzed Pasadena Poly, 19¾-8¼ in AA action.

Thus Newport will host Foothill Tuesday while Corona takes on top-seeded Beverly Hills on the Sea Kings' courts. And Laguna will face El Centro at a site to be named.

TONIGHT'S TV HIGHLIGHTS

KCET 28 5:00 — American Odyssey. The first of a four-part series documenting our American heritage. "Off to Sea Again" features the Clancy Brothers, Tom Paxton and Dave Van Ronk.

KTTV 11 5:00 & 11:30 — "Golden Boy" William Holden, Barbara Stanwyck and Lee J. Cobb star in this 1939 drama about the prizefighting world.

NBC 4 9:00 — "Love is a Ball." Glenn Ford and Hope Lange head the cast of this romantic comedy from 1966, along with Charles Boyer, Ricardo Montalban and Telly Savalas.

KCOP 13 9:30 — Rodeo Special. A preview of the rodeo to be held May 24-27 at the Forum, with highlights of the calf roping, bronco busting and bull riding.

'Children's Mass' Just Big Mess

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Children's Mass," which is a total mess, opened Wednesday on the catsup-streaked stage of off-broadway's Theater De Lys.

Written by Frederick Combs, until now an actor, the piece is a series of lurid notes from the underground world of hustlers, drugs and drag queens.

Two 7-ish moppets bystand the garish events in a Greenwich Village pad and obviously are intended as manifestations of high dramatic purpose. The title evolves from occasional references to possible arcane religious ritual.

THE WHOLE thing takes itself terribly seriously, expecially during ludicrous plunges into half-think that alternate with efforts at real life representation of the freak gallery.

Realism attains gruesome acme in an episode that starts with a couple of the characters shooting heroin and ends with heroine Dutchie lethally impaled on a butcher's knife.

The costumes and particularly the set demonstrate Pater Harvey's keen eye for human and urban dilapidation. The producers include Sal Mineo, who also used to act and as a producer evinces sustained interest in exotic shock; Robin Archer Moles, and an ominously named outfit called Serpentine Productions Ltd.

"The Children's Mass" could attract only voyeurs out for ersatz thrills.

UCI's 'Twelfth Night'

Shakespeare Show Scores

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

No less an authority than Sir Laurence Olivier said of the Royal Shakespeare Company's "Twelfth Night" that it made him long to go back over his many years in the theater and do the play as director Brewster Mason saw it.

High praise indeed for this gifted craftsman but anyone who has seen this glittering mounting of Shakespeare's cleverest comedy at UC Irvine will tell you that it was richly earned.

But you can't make bricks without clay and Mason is the first to tell the world that his task was made much easier by a cast who took to this deliciously funny "Twelfth" and his fast paced direction of the classic like ducks to water.

"TWELFTH NIGHT"
A comedy by William Shakespeare, directed by Brewster Mason, presented for one more performance tonight at 8 o'clock in the Concert Hall in the UC Irvine Fine Arts Village. Reservations 833-6617.

THE CAST

Orsino	Bill Miller
Sebastian	Michael Stoddard
Antonio	Tom Walther
Sea Captain	Stanley Wlasick
Valentine	Richard Bobb
Curio	Glenn Daniels
Sir Tony Belch	Don Hamilton
Sir Andrew Aguecheek	Stuart Duckworth
Malvolio	Jeff Addis
Fabian	Bob Schneider
Feste	Steve Rotblatt
Olivia	Jade Hubacker
Olivia	Sands Hall
Maria	Bronwen Denton
Viola	Sands Hall

THERE WASN'T A wrong note to be detected in a big cast that put on a splendid team effort but it has to be recorded here that four of its members stood head and shoulders above their fellows. And the volume of the ovation directed to them at play's end certainly justifies that comment.

To be sure, Malvolio, Feste the clown, Sir Toby Belch and Sir Andrew Aguecheek are plum roles that any Shakespearean buff worth his salt would long to interpret for no less a luminary than Brewster Mason.

Mason himself sees those roles as the backbone of the play. And his direction Thursday night made it very clear that he had delivered the message on that score to, respectively, Jeff Addis, Steve Rotblatt, Don Hamilton and Stuart Duckworth.

ADDIS AS Malvolio gets this critic's personal plaudits for a brilliant interpretation of the mincing, thoroughly gullible Malvolio. His show-stopping moment, for this writer, was the scene in the garden where he is delightfully hoodwinked by Belch and Aguecheek and the flighty Maria, cleverly played by the capable Bronwen Denton.

But that's hardly fair to Rotblatt. He was the complete clown and he gave us some very pleasing renditions of appropriately Shakespearean airs to demonstrate the versatility that is so much a part of this fine actor's character.

Sands Hall had a difficult role as Viola, the shipwrecked twin who masquerades through 99 percent of "Twelfth" in male garb that lands her in all kinds of trouble before that blissfully happy ending. She turns in a first rate job and so does Bill Miller as Duke Orsino, the unhappy aristocrat who strikes boudoir gold after bouncing off a brick wall for the best part of the play.

RICHARD Triplett's sets and costumes were, as usual, magnificent. His decor was in exquisite taste, ideally suited to the swift changes of scene in this very fast "Twelfth," and his costuming showed meticulous attention to 16th century garb.

And a word of tribute to a splendid staff of musicians and their ideal choice of music for the evening. David Lawrence and Christy Crump on recorders, trumpets Larry Cox and Dan Jett and guitarist Larry Washbin were under the very capable direction of harpsichordist Lawrence Gordon.

"Twelfth Night" will close tonight at 8 p.m. in UCI's concert hall.

Black Network Going On the Air in July

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Black Network, which describes itself as the first black owned and operated radio news network, will go on the air by July 1.

Eugene D. Jackson, president of Unity Broadcasting Network, Inc., which will operate NBN, said at a news conference that 38 stations have already signed contracts to affiliate with the network.

He said the total is expected to be 50 to 60 by July 1, giving the network an estimated "total market penetration" of about 30 million blacks with about $35 billion in annual buying power.

Jackson declined to name the network's New York affiliate or any of the other stations that have signed up because of the competitive market situation.

Another black network, the Mutual Broadcasting System's Mutual Black Network, marked its first anniversary May 1

SCR's 'The Clowns'

Silents Slightly Saluted

By TOM TITUS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

About "The Clowns," South Coast Repertory's original mime production purportedly created as a tribute to the silent movie comedians of the past, first the good news:

Laurel and Hardy, Buster Keaton and Charlie Chaplin are alive again and amazingly re-created by a quartet of SCR performers. Now the bad news:

They're only on stage long enough to whet your appetite.

Ronald Boussom, who conceived, directed and partially costumed "The Clowns" is the Costa Mesa company's leading exponent of the pantomimic art. His "slapstick symphony" is executed with the consummate skill born of a compatible union of music and comedy.

BUT AS A paean to the comic greats of the silent screen—as, indeed, the SCR production is billed—"The Clowns" falls disappointingly short. With the exception of the first two-thirds of the initial act, these classic characterizations have been edged out of the spotlight.

This is regrettable, since Linda Kostalik's Chaplin, Reginald Rook's Keaton and the Laurel and Hardy of Steve Patterson and Raoul O'Reily are more deserving of center-stage treatment. All are faithfully reproduced, from the Chaplin duck walk to Stanley's bemused head-scratching. And Patterson's pratfalls in the Keaton garb must rank quite near the Great Stone Face himself.

"THE CLOWNS"

A "slapstick symphony" in pantomime, created and directed by Ronald Boussom, choreography by Linda Kostalik, associate director and lighting designer Reginald Rook, musical director Carol Jeanne Martin, costumes by Maggi and Ronald Boussom, set design by Greg Bolton, presented by South Coast Repertory Wednesdays and Thursdays at 8 o'clock through June 21 at the Third Step Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa. Reservations 646-1363.

THE CAST

Charlie Chaplin ..... Linda Kostalik
Buster Keaton ..... Reginald Rook
Stan Laurel .....Steve Patterson
Oliver Hardy .....Roul O'Riley
Stranger ..... Ronald Boussom
Dancers ....Nancy Johnson, Elizabeth Herbert, Ellen Sternberg, Jeanne Oltsman, Linda Kostalik, Steve Patterson.

ENTERTAINMENT

But Boussom has stacked the deck against the very foursome he seeks to venerate by devoting the majority of the 90-minute program to a troupe of dancers (among whom are Patterson and Miss Kostalik) in an extended routine with Boussom himself. It is a skillfully mounted exercise, and Boussom's abilities are certainly applaudable, but one cannot help wondering when the clowns will return.

CERTAINLY, the first few minutes of the show suggests an unabashed evening of hilarity — the assembling of a comic orchestra presided over quite dictatorially by Carol Jeanne Martin. It is pure musical slapstick of the Spike Jones school and entirely in keeping with a show spotlighting the likes of the four re-created zanies.

Alas, their contribution to the evening is limited to a drawn-out mad doctor skit and a freewheeling chase scene that is the clear highlight of the show. The anticipated individual routines akin to those that have regaled a half century of audiences are nowhere to be found on the SCR stage.

This is not to diminish the talent that has gone into this special production — in particular Miss Kostalik's choreography, Greg Bolton's eye-catching reel-and-projector backdrop and some scintillating percussion work by Thom Granger to open the second act. But the silents in retrospect, it isn't.

"The Clowns" as an original entertainment may be accepted and enjoyed on those terms, but not as a tribute to the Messrs. Chaplin, Keaton, Laurel and Hardy, who are merely supporting players. Performances continue Wednesdays and Thursdays through June 21 at the company's Third Step Theater, 1827 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa.

This weekend is
BAYWOOD APARTMENTS' GRAND OPENING.

Well,
actually it'll be more informal, rustic, leafy, and breathtaking than a usual "weekend-given-to-apartment-hunting" Grand Opening.

Please come.
Don't wear your best clothes. You may decide to hike a bike trail. If you have children, bring them.

Welcome.
If you've never seen your kids in the midst of wild flowers and small creatures in a nature canyon park, bring a camera.

Feel at home here.

If you're a privacy-loving adult searching for a home that includes woodsy paths, sunlit open spaces and a curiously nostalgic bridge, bring your checkbook.

Whoever you are, a family group or adult, Baywood apartments and townhouses won't disappoint you.
You'll see.

Whatever your lifestyle, it probably includes celebration. At Baywood, it's sure to. The recreation center was made for fun.
Superbly.
Huge fireplace. Pillowed conversation pit. Billiard and card rooms. Dance area. Lounges. Complete kitchen facilities. Wet bar. A neat player piano.
A table for two here and there.

Even more charming than its picture is the bridge.

Same with the sunny patios and balconies. Two pools—one a junior olympic size—the other Jacuzzi-equipped for adults. The randomly placed barbeque pits are handy. Convenient mini-laundry centers sided by fenced tot lots.

Yes. Be practical.
Check into the schools, shopping conveniences, Newport Center within walking distance, freeway accessibility, bay and beach adjacency. All the features thoughtful apartment-hunters think through. Closets, bulk storage, carports, room sizes, calibre of appliances.

What makes Baywood's
an occasion of natural greenery and gladness is the discovery that these are affordable apartments and townhouses.

HARBOR AMERICAN MOTORS BUYER PROTECTION PLAN
1. A simple, strong guarantee, just 101 words! When you buy a new 1973 car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship. This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada, and that guaranteed repairs or replacement be made by an American Motors dealer.
2. A free loaner car from almost every one of our dealers if guaranteed repairs take overnight.
3. Special Trip Interruption Protection.
4. And a toll free hot line to AMC Headquarters.
