NIGUEL'S PORTER CHARGED WITH WATERGATE LIE

Foot Power?

Guilty Plea To Be Made, Says Lawyer

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter of Laguna Niguel, a former official of President Nixon's re-election committee, will plead guilty to one count of lying to the FBI about the Watergate breakin, his attorney said today.

Porter's attorney, Charles B. Murray, said his client intends to plead guilty next Monday when the case is heard by U.S. District Judge William Bryant. The charge was filed today.

Porter and his wife Carol and three children have been living with her parents, Arthur and Dolly Briggs of 32451 Mediterranean Drive in Monarch Terrace since early spring.

"We are still getting our lives back together," Mrs. Porter said when contacted today at the Briggs home.

"I hate the word 'lie' . . . it conjures up all kinds of things in people's minds," Mrs. Porter said. "It is not my husband's habit to lie. He is pleading guilty to making a false statement to the FBI."

Since moving from Washington, D.C. last spring, Porter has been employed in his father-in-law's contracting firm.

Porter, former scheduling director for the Nixon re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee last summer that he had lied to the FBI and the federal grand jury and had lied at the original Watergate trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Mideast Accord Lifts Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Repuhlican leader Hugh Scott, who attended a White House briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today, said the "strongest blockage" to an agreement on lifting of the oil embargo by the Arabs was removed by the signing of the Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The Pennsylvania senator also said that he was hopeful of "constructive progress" and perhaps "some early progress" in reaching some settlement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger and President Nixon were applauded at the bipartisan congressional leadership meeting in the Cabinet room to hear a report by Kissinger, just returned from 11 days of diplomatic negotiations.

Scott said there were "no secret guarantees," and that none was mentioned and "I don't believe any existed." He said various assurances were given to both parties as the negotiation sessions went on, which he said led both parties to feel that security was better assured.

Scott declined to give any predictions on when the oil embargo to the United States might be lifted. He said he hopes progress will continue and said, "the strongest blockade to an agreement on oil was removed by the signing of the agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"It is hopeful," Scott said, "that this

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Oil company executives appearing before a Senate panel investigating the severity of the energy crisis were accused today of "cheating the American public."

The charges were made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

Ribicoff accused the companies of

using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increaseses in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

Ribicoff said the oil firms misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages. Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson (D-Mich.), said that some of the information the companies submitted to his staff was evasive.

Executives from six other oil companies — Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana and Shell — sat in the Senate hearing room across the table from Ribicoff.

Meanwhile, President Nixon promised officials of the Federal Energy Office and the Internal Revenue Service today whatever support their inspection teams needed to audit major oil companies.

Linda Lovelace 'Expanding to New Horizons'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Linda Lovelace, star of "Deep Throat," says she plans to make her next screen appearance in a western film that should get a relatively mild "R" rating.

"I wouldn't say that I'll never do another X-rated film," she told a news conference Sunday. "In fact, last night I was thinking how much fun it would be to do a Busby Berkeley porno movie."

Berkeley was a movie maker of the '30s and '40s whose work featured meticulously choreographed mass dance scenes.

The object, she said, is to "expand my image. I wouldn't say I'm changing my image. I'm trying to expand myself into new areas."

Hearing Opened Today In Popeil Murder Plot

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit murder against Eloise Popeil and her alleged lover opened today in Long Beach Municipal Court over objections of defense attorneys.

Robert Green and Phil Petty of Santa Ana, who represent Mrs. Popeil, and Frank Karl of Los Angeles who made a special appearance for Daniel Ayers all petitioned unsuccessfully for continuance of the hearing.

Judge Charles Litwin refused to continue the hearing despite Karl's plea that Ayres had no counsel.

Karl said he was appearing only to ask for reduction of Ayers' $100,000 bail to $20,000 so the unemployed machinist could get out of jail to find an attorney.

Litwin said he would rule on the bail reduction at the end of today's session.

The hearing was delayed nearly an hour while a public defender was found to represent Ayers.

Ayres, 37, and Mrs. Popeil, 48, are accused of a plot to murder her multi-millionaire husband, Samuel Popeil of Chicago.

They were arrested Jan. 8 at Mrs. Popeil's bayfront home at 519 Harbor Island Road.

Police allege they hired an acquaintance of Ayers for $25,000 to travel to Chicago to kill the kitchen gadget manufacturer.

Their motives, detectives allege, was financial in that if he were killed before their divorce became final Mrs. Popeil would have inherited one third of his $200 million estate.

Massage Parlors Worry Peoria

PEORIA, ILL. (UPI) — A survey conducted by a local television station claims there are more massage parlors per capita in Peoria than in Chicago, and this has city officials worried.

Two city councilmen, Warren Reynolds and Franklin Renner, told a news conference that the city will explore the possibility of using home rule licensing power to regulate the parlors.

Both stressed that an ordinance should "differentiate between useful, medicinal parlors and those that are used as a front for prostitution."

Son-in-law Dead

Broker Remains In Coast Jail

Real estate broker Charles Jackson Hinckley Jr. remained in San Clemente city jail today under $250,000 bail set after his arrest on murder charges late Saturday night.

And police have begun extra patrols of Hinckley's fashionable Shorecliffs residence because of reports of possible retaliation by friends of the arrestee's son-in-law who was stabbed to death during a scuffle shortly before midnight.

Hinckley, 53, was arrested by patrolman Craig Steckler moments after the officer answered a call reporting a stabbing at the home at 237 Via Socorro.

Hinckley assertedly placed the call to police and was quoted as saying he had just stabbed a man and that an ambulance was needed.

The gray-haired businessman was waiting for police at curbside after he reportedly called the station.

Steckler said the man led him inside the residence where Ronald Lawrence Shirley, 21, a carpet layer from Yorba Linda, lay fatally wounded. The officer applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but said the victim did not respond.

Shirley, stabbed twice in the abdomen assertedly with a hunting knife, was dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital.

Detectives said Hinckley took the alleged murder weapon from his pocket and handed it over to the patrolman.

The incident, which reportedly climaxed a long period of family disputes, began when Shirley assertedly forced his way into the home to discuss the custody of his 2-year-old son, who was staying at the Hinckley home with his mother, Joan, 21.

Detectives said a shoving and shouting match ensued in the foyer of the expensive home and moments later Hinckley ran for the knife.

Hinckley returned, withdrew the weapon from a leather scabbard, and allegedly stabbed his son-in-law twice.

Shirely fell to the floor mortally wounded, stabbed once in the heart and once in the liver, coroner's deputies said.

Police said the victim reportedly had caused problems in the family home several times and that patrolmen were called to keep the peace.

Hinckley, whose real estate business closed in Tustin last month, was expected to be formally charged in the stabbing Tuesday in South Orange County Municipal Court.

Police described him as calm and cooperative after the incident. He has made a statement, they added.

progress which is being made will continue and result favorably."

Scott added that the United States has no military commitment or involvement in the Mideast and it simply was a case of making its good offices available and he will continue to do so.

Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana declined to discuss the briefing with reporters as he left the White House.

Mahon was among 16 congressional leaders of both parties assembled by Nixon to hear the report on the Israeli-Arab agreement.

Kissinger returned before dawn from his 11-day journey that produced a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt and what Kissinger said was "real progress" toward a similar pact between Israel and Syria.

Those attending the briefing included members of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees.

Before heading for home via London, Kissinger brought to Israel what he termed "a number of very constructive suggestions" from President Hafez Assad of Syria that could lead to negotiations between the two October war foes.

Kissinger also told Israeli leaders that Syria may be willing to turn over a list of war prisoners and to permit visits by the International Red Cross if the talks make substantial progress.

Privately, U.S. officials believe that a relaxation on the Syrian front is vital for further accords between Egypt and Israel since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, for political reasons within the Arab world, cannot afford to move too far ahead of the other Arab states in dealing with Israel.

The Israeli government is to study Assad's ideas and then give its response to Kissinger. Developments are not expected for two weeks.

Truck Protest Fizzles At Capital; 5 Show Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drastically shrunken protest by independent truck drivers drove through Washington today, delayed by more than an hour when scores of trucks were either lost or dropped out.

Five tractor-trailers left Robert F. Kennedy Stadium 80 minutes late after meeting there to re-form a caravan that began Friday in Oklahoma City.

Spokesmen for United Truckers of America, Inc. expected 500 trucks to participate in the protest against high diesel fuel prices and short supplies and said Friday that 300 left Oklahoma.

The protest moved through Washington under police escort. A police photographer took pictures of each car or truck in the caravan.

One truck stopped at the White House to deliver a petition to an Administration official and then the group re-formed at the statdium meeting site to take taxicabs to meetings later in the day with congressmen and Transportation Department officials.

Only four trucks were lined up at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium when the parade was to have begun. Leaders of the protest delayed the parade wrile they tried to use citizen band radios to bring the other trucks to the stadium meeting point.

An estimated 75 truckers spent Sunday night just north of Richmond, Va., before driving into Washington today.

The truckers' route to Washington took them through Arkansas, Tennessee and Virginia. The Tennessee Highway Patrol reported no incidents as the truckers passed through that state Saturday and Sunday.

Paul Polin, who said he is executive secretary of a three-week-old group called United Truckers of America, said the group is opposed to a shutdown.

"We want an end to discrimination in fuel prices which is putting independents out of business," Polin said.

The truckers are trying to "stay within the system and make it work," Polin said.

With the caravan was Tom Savage of Oklahoma City, an official of a firm which sells trailers. He said in 10 days his firm has reposesed $250,000 in trailers from truckers who went broke.

"The main thing is I want the truth," Nixon told the group as photographers recorded the beginning of the meeting. "If people are being fair and complying with the law I don't want to take after them. But if they are violating the regulations or price gouging . . . we want to know about it."

Gang Members Dead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two gang members were found shot to death near the site of a baby shower they were attending in a rival gang's territory Sunday, police said. James Garcia, 18, and Daniel Aguinaga, 17, were apparently fleeing from the party after an argument broke out, officers said.

Police Corral Body Snatchers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police leafed through their law books to find the proper law to book two men who allegedly tried to steal a body from a coroner's wagon.

However, truck driver Don Kelly, who told police Sunday he witnessed the incident, didn't have time to locate a book.

He grabbed one of the suspects and "spread him over the hood of a car," Kelly said. The other man surrendered to police.

The suspects, Dale Christensen, 33, and Dennis McPherson, 29, were booked on suspicion of "malicious removing of remains from a coroner's truck."

Lion Kills Boy

New Mexico Scene of Rare Attack

ESPANOLA, N.M. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy playing near his home was attacked and killed by a young mountain lion, authorities said. Another child was attacked but escaped injury.

Regional medical examiner Dr. Andrew Kalivoda identified the dead child Sunday as Kenneth Clark Nolan. He was playing with David Cordry, 8, who fled and summoned help, Kalivoda said.

George Merrill, an official of the state game department, said David Cordry, father of the Cordry boy, and stepfather of the Nolan boy, shot and wounded the animal. James Meyer then tracked it down and killed it.

The incident occurred at Aroyo Seco, a small community about five miles south of Espanola and about a mile from the boys' home.

Merrill said the lion was sent to the public health laboratory at the University of New Mexico to check for rabies or other disease. The cat was a subadult, about 16 months old, and weighed 40 to 50 pounds.

Sex Death Testimony More Lurid

HOUSTON (UPI) — With testimony at the pretrial hearing of accused mass murderer Elmer Wayne Henley becoming more lurid, Judge William M. Hatten asked attorneys to speed examinations of the persons expected to be the most dramatic witnesses.

The defense will call Rhonda Williams, 15, and Timothy Kerley, 20, the couple stripped and strapped to "torture boards" the night Henley called police and said he shot and killed Dean Corll, the alleged mastermind of the sex and torture ring.

Henley, 17, is expected to take the stand Tuesday to tell about his oral and written confessions to police Aug. 8, 9 and 10, the first days of the investigation of the three-year spree of sex and torture which left 27 young men dead.

"I'm trying to keep us from trying this case at this hearing so the publicity won't make it impossible for us to get a jury," Hatten said.

Hatten said he still wanted jury selection to begin Jan. 28, its originally scheduled date, but that timetable appeared out of reach because of extended testimony during the first week.

The pretrial hearing will decide a defense motion to suppress Henley's confessions because, according to the defense, Henley's constitutional rights were violated by police and Henley was not competent to waive constitutional rights.

Police said Henley confessed to killing six of the teen-age boys procured for Corll and to how Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, charged with four murders, led them to the victims' graves at a Houston boat shed, near Lake Sam Rayburn in East Texas and along the Gulf Coast north of Galveston.

Laguna Police Report Five Weekend Thefts

A smashed window and theft of $1,488 worth of jewelry from Dan Miller Jewelers, 448 S. Coast Highway was one of five thefts reported over the weekend to Laguna Beach police.

At Miller's, a set of diamond earrings and two rings were stolen after the shop's display window was broken, store hours, Sgt. Sagan said.

Theft of a color television and stereo equipment valued totally at $800 was reported by Reginald G. Hurd from his home at 720 Griffith Place. Sgt. Sagan said it appeared entry to the residence was gained through an unlocked window.

Warren Imports, 1462 S. Coast Highway, reported the theft of a $225 statue from its showroom. The theft reported Friday occurred during normal storehours, Sft. Sagan said.

Hitchhiker Kirk Marshal reported that his backpack and belongings valued at $437 were stolen by an accommodating driver who had asked him to go into a liquor store and buy some cigarette papers.

Marshall told police Saturday that when he returned, the car, and his backpack with equipment were gone.

A Boston fern in a pedestal stand was stolen from Thomas Merrick, 545 Windsor Place. The fern was valued at $50.

Tavern Loses Beer, Money

Thieves who bypassed a burglar alarm looted a Costa Mesa tavern of 26 cases of beer and rifled the safe, for a total $517 loss, it was discovered Sunday.

Sharron Kersenbrock, manager of the bar at 1125 Victoria St., discovered the burglary when she arrived to open up for the day's business.

Alan R. Muse, owner of the tavern which has been known as the Olden Times and Callitmacaroni told investigators there was one puzzling aspect to the burglary.

The intruder took the 26 cases of beer and an even $400 but left $188.30 in cash and coin.

Acrobat Arrested

Hand Standing Brings Drunk Rap

A Costa Mesa man was arrested for alleged drunkenness and assault on a Laguna Beach police officer after police responded to a report of a man doing handstands in the intersection of a downtown street Friday night.

POLICE ARRESTED Phillip B. Bell, 22, of apartment 41, 525 Victoria Place.

Police allege that during Bell's arrest for drunk in public, he kicked Laguna Patrolman Paul Rose in the chest and spat in the officer's face.

ROSE REPORTED that he observed the characteristics of intoxication and arrested Bell.

After being handcuffed and placed in the rear of the police car, Bell assertedly became angry and kicked at the doors and windows of the unit.

He assertedly kicked Rose as he was being moved to the Laguna Beach Jail.

Six Saddleback Candidates Critical

District's Finances Troubled

And the image appears somewhat unpleasant.

The district, said Sam Chicas, assistant superintendent for business, faces another year of stiff income ceilings imposed by state legislation which attempts to balance the incomes between "rich" and "poor" districts.

And the CUSD is classified as a "rich" one in the state books.

Chicas said that although poorer districts might realize revenue gains of as much as 21 percent next budget year, the CUSD will be lucky to manage a six percent increase.

He said that even though the slim gain means an anticipated million dollars in extra state revenue, it will not go far.

Growth in the district by at least 700 pupils next fall will mean the addition of 26 new teachers at a cost of more than $250,000, he explained in a memo to trustees.

Other unavoidable increases in salaries paid to all district employes as well as extra costs for existing benefits means that of the million-dollar revenue increase, more than two-thirds already would be committed.

He stressed that the district already will be lightening the purse strings to assure some carry-over funds into the new budget.

And when all the expenses are taken out of the increase, about $250,000 will be left over for new programs, extra wages or for use as a reserve cushion in the budget.

Under Senate Bill 90 enacted before this current year's budget, the district has a legal ceiling on tax revenue it can receive.

The limit for the CUSD is more stringent than that set for districts elsewhere in California which have less tax-base money behind each child.

The aim of the legislation was to end the disparity in revenue between the two types of districts and seek a balance.

The district, Chicas said, would be limited to a $9.4 million income next fiscal year.

Tonight's discussion on fiscal matters marks the first step in the long months of budget planning ahead.

SIX CANDIDATES FOR SADDLEBACK COLLEGE POST ADDRESSED ISSUE SUNDAY

Hopefuls Miffed With Leadership

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Even though they disagreed on many things, there was one issue six candidates for a single opening on the Saddleback College board of trustees had in common Sunday night:

None of them are satisfied with the school's present administration, headed by Supt. Fred Bremer.

Candidates who appeared for a campaign forum sponsored by the Saddleback Faculty Association were Norrisa Brandt, Steve DeLapp, and Vera Snyder of Irvine; and Earl Carraway, Nick DiGiuro, and John Tolle of El Toro.

The other two declared candidates for the Irvine - El Toro post, Gary Rasmussen and Andrew Murray, both of Irvine, did not attend the meeting.

After two hours of questioning on other issues, the candidates were asked, "In a simple yes or no answer without elaborating, are you satisfied with the present administraion of Saddleback College?"

Following the six simple "no" replies, the audience of some 50 teachers and other staff members applauded.

Format for the meeting covered five basic issues.

First was whether the campus building program should continue on the 200-acre campus and if so, how it should be financed.

All the candidates agreed that a bond issue should be tried again, rather than a permissive tax applied without direct voter approval.

"The time will be ripe for another bond issue in a few years," said Norrisa Brandt. "Anything can be done if people find that their money is well spent at Saddleback."

Steve DeLapp said he felt a permanent campus, instead of the portable bungalows at the site, would help the school's flagging image.

"But buildings don't make quality instructors or the quality of the school," he said.

He added that present residents of the area should not pay all the cost for campus construction as is the case in permissive taxing.

"Future residents should have a stake in this as well through a bond program," he said.

Nick DiGiuro pointed out that construction costs go up close to 10 percent a year and the sooner the buildings are built, the less they will cost the district.

But Vera Snyder warned that of late "bond issues have a way of being defeated. We should not put the entire financing weight on bond elections."

John Tolle said as a student at the college he feels the completion of the new library is a step in the right direction—and urged that the faster the campus is built, the less it will cost.

The second question put to the candidates was "What is the current image of Saddleback and how do you think it could be improved?"

Everyone agreed the present image of Saddleback needs improvement.

Earl Carraway of El Toro said he felt everything possible should be done to keep recently disenchanted Tustin residents in the fold.

Mrs. Brandt urged a re-examination of Saddleback course offerings. She said a full-time curriculum dean should be hired and suggested board meetings be held in various parts of the district to encourage local attendence.

She said the school's citizens advisory committee should be revitalized and used as a public relations focus.

DeLapp urged that a commuter system for Tustin residents take top priority. He also said Irvine does not feel a part of the district and needs a representative on the board.

"Accentuate the positive at Saddleback College," DeLapp said. "The events of the past year have done great damage to this school's image."

"Nothing is too drastic to improve Saddleback's image if it works," DiGiuro agreed.

Tolle said the main cause of a bad image is "fences—between students and faculty, faculty and administration, and students and administration. When there are fences, rumors grow. These fences need to be lowered."

Mrs. Snyder said more positive publicity in local papers could help.

Complaints about the school's lack of adequate course offerings echoed through the discussion.

DiGiuro said counseling on vocational opportunities should take priority in curriculum improvements. Mrs. Snyder agreed that vocational education is a top need in the area.

She suggested that daytime courses need to be added to the existing extended campus night program in six area high schools.

"The citizens should come before the board, citizens needs must come first. We need creative thinking and really good new programming," Mrs. Brandt said.

Asked if they favored federal aid, DiGiuro answered no, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Brandt, DeLapp and Tolle answered yes, and Carraway answered "maybe."

Questioned on the school's faculty-administration relations, Digiuro replied, "For seven years we've just let things happen as they may.

"The faculty could be the greatest sales force available. But if you don't want to change things, you could break a mirror and have another seven years of the same."

High Court Nixes Rules On Pregnant Instructors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court today struck down regulations that force school teachers off the job in the early months of pregnancy regardless of individual ability to continue work.

The 7 to 2 decision represented a victory for women's equal rights advocates. But the high court majority pointedly left open the possibility that similar rules taking effect during the last few weeks of pregnancy might be upheld.

The pregnancy case involved rules from school systems in Ohio and Virginia which forced pregnant school teachers to leave the classroom at the fourth and fifth months of their pregnancy, respectively.

The majority concluded "that neither the necessity for continuity of instruction nor the state interest in keeping physically unfit teachers out of the classroom can justify the sweeping mandatory leave regulations that the Cleveland and Chesterfield County (Va.) school boards adopted."

Writing for the majority, Justice Potter Stewart said that while the regulations "no doubt represent a good-faith attempt to achieve a laudable goal, they cannot pass muster under the due process clause of the 14th Amendment because they employ irrebuttable presumptions that unduly penalize a female teacher for deciding to bear a child."

One question in the case was whether the rule on pregnancy constituted an impermissible classification on the basis of sex.

The majority did not place its reasoning under the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment which could condemn such discrimination. Rather, the majority said that arbitrary cutoffs of employment for pregnant teachers denies them due process of law.

Torture Slaying Suspect Seized; Second Hunted

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police are seeking a second suspect in the torture slaying of a young Virginia woman whose mutilated body was found in a remote area.

The victim's body had been severely beaten and repeatedly tortured, with her elbows and knees broken at 45-degree angles and her breasts mutilated and burned with cigarettes.

The victim was identified Sunday as Donna Marie Dixon, 18, of Newport News.

Bleach in Pop Brings Arrest

OXNARD (UPI) — A man who allegedly gave a soda pop bottle filled with household bleach to his female companion to drink in an attempt to poison her is in custody today, faced with attempted murder charges, police said.

Kathleen Hendrix, 37, drank from the bottle Saturday night but was successfully treated for poisoning at the County General Hospital in Ventura, authorities said.

Larry Barbarine, 41, was arrested.

Irvine Educator Will Give Talk At Orlando Meet

Irvine Unified School District' assistant superintendent will discuss the fate of planning programming budgeting systems (PPBS) at a national conference March 18 in Orlando, Fla.

Dr. John M. Rajcic, fiscal planner for the new unified school district, will address the Institute for Educational Finance. His topic is "What Happened to PPBS?"

Rajcic says the "rational, comprehensive approach to resource allocation by the advocates of PPBS is impossible, considering the value-laden nature of education and our political system."

Search, Rescue Plan for Baja, U.S. Scheduled

PLAZA SANTA MARIA, Mexico (AP) — Prompted by a plane crash that killed four persons, the two-nation Commission of the Californias will set up a search-and-rescue system for the Baja California peninsula.

Officials of California, Baja California and the Mexican territory of Baja California del Sur agreed in this Baja California community to coordinate communications and rescue efforts along the 1,000-mile peninsula.

They indicated drivers could be required in the future to notify officials of their plans before starting down the peninsula.

California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke asked new procedures to deal with emergencies like the crash of a light plane from Orange Count, near Mulege on the Gulf of California.

The plane, carrying a couple from Mission Viejo, Marvin and Terry Goodwin and Goodwin's father and stepmother from Washington, took off Dec. 22 and probably crashed the same day.

The volunteer groups didn't begin the search until Jan. 5. A plane reached the wreckage three days later and found the four bodies.

Officers said the occupants had been killed on impact. "But if anyone had lived they could have died before they were found," a San Diego County sheriff's spokesman said.

"Valuable time was lost because of a breakdown in communications," Reinecke said.

Baja California Lt. Gov. Francisco Santana Peralta recommended that a Mexican federal agency coordinate future search efforts. He said private pilots flying south from Mexicali and Tijuana should be required to tell the airports when they would return.

Itineraries should also be filed by motorists traveling down the new transpeninsular highway, said Carlos Riva Palacio, tourism director of Baja del Sur.

"All too often we have found drivers or campers and motor homes leaving the road and getting stuck or stranded in some isolated area," he said.

Real Surfers Hit the Waves

UPCOAST, DOWNCOAST: Some surf has developed in recent days along this best of all possible coasts. Not that we do not always have a few waves washing our shoreline. But I mean the kind of breakers that bring out a particular species of sportsman.

This person is The Surfer. The Surfer is particularly evident in our region during our warm summer days. There are lots of surfers out riding their boards when the weather is good. These are the Sunshine Surfers.

They are just as interested in what fills the bikinis on the beach as they are in the size and shape of waves. Maybe more interested in the aforementioned sizes and shapes.

Anyway, it is easy to find surfers during our happy hot days.

TO DISCOVER THE real hard-core surfer, however, you must scan our beachfronts along about this time of the year.

He looks like a frogman in one of those old World War II teevee movies, about to go out and plant explosives under the hull of an enemy battleship.

IT MAY TAKE HIM three hours to don all this gear but by Neptune, he's going to ride surf even if his feet freeze to the surfboard.

Hard-core winter surfers, however, do not want to go through putting all this rubberized finery on their bodies only to get to the beach and find little ripples instead of real riding waves.

To avoid such wasted effort, winter surfers do a lot of talking about it before they actually attack it. This is called The Interrogation.

For example, your son is lounging on the sofa when one of his hard-core surfing buddies bursts through the door, dripping sea water. And the conversation goes something like this:

"HEY MAN, YOU oughtta see it down there. It's really up, man. Outta sight. C'mon, man. Get your wetsuit on. Let's fly. . ."

"No way, man. You look like you came out of a deep freeze."

"Okay, how big is it? Is it high tide? Which way's the swell? Is there any chop. Who else is down there, anyway? Is Big John in? How about Goofy-Foot? How big does Crazy Harry say it is?"

ALL THESE QUESTION in The Interrogation draw answers in grunts, groans, wows and hey, mans. In the end, your kid retreats to his room and spends the half-hour getting into all his hard-core surfer gear.

Thus, your kid leaves with board and in rubber suit, his mouth set in a grim line. He doesn't know if the surf is real or he's just been conned by a buddy who wants company while freezing.

Rickover Married

CHICAGO (AP) — Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the guiding force behind development of America's atomic submarine program, is on a honeymoon today with his new bride. Rickover, 73, married Cmdr. Eleonore A. Bednowicz, 43, a Navy nurse, Saturday. The time and location of the ceremony were kept secret.

France Floats Franc

Country Attempting to Bolster Exports

PARIS (UPI) — France floated its currency today to defend the economy against the impact of big oil price increases and the franc depreciated by 4.8 percent against the dollar at the day's end.

Financial sources said the effect of the six-month flotation announced Saturday would be an effective devaluation.

WHEN TRADING opened, the official commercial dollar was quoted at 5.25 francs, a 5.3 percent franc depression against Friday's closing 4.9850 francs, and the financial dollar, used by speculators, was up to 5.45 francs against Friday's final 5.17.

The 5.25 franc price for the commercial dollar was the highest since the dollar was first devalued in 1971.

With exchanges closed in some other European capitals, trading was hectic in Paris after the prices were announced, bankers said.

A banker at the Paris branch of a New York bank said he expected the official dollar to reach 5.30 francs then drop to 5.15-5.20 francs. "The United States itself would not want it to go higher," he said. "Higher prices would hurt U.S. exports."

THE GOVERNMENT said it decided to float the franc for six months in an effort to bolster exports and trim an anticipated foreign trade deficit brought on by the oil price increases.

France, anticipating a $10 billion trade deficit because of the oil price spiral, became the fourth European common market nation to float its currency.

Belgium, The Netherlands and Japan closed their money markets today to give themselves time to study the effects of the French float in other countries.

The Bank of France was given instructions to allow the franc to fluctuate freely against the U.S. dollar and other money when trading opened on the exchange.

Before the franc float, the Bank of France intervened in money markets to maintain the value of the franc within 2.5 percent of the official rate, 4.985 to the dollar.

EXCHANGE DEALERS said they expected the franc to drop about four percent in value as an immediate reaction to the float decision, greeted in financial circles as a devaluation in disguise.

At the closing of money markets Friday, the dollar was selling at 5.17 francs in tourist transactions compared to the official 4.985 francs for international transactions.

Would Evidence Aid President?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detailed White House transcripts refuting charges by John W. Dean III that President Nixon kne of the Watergate cover-up were prepared but never released, an informed source has disclosed.

The source, who said he has read the transcript based on secret presidential tapes, said the White House had planned to release them as part of "Operation Candor" but later decided against making them public.

THE SOURCE added, however, that the transcripts cover material available to the Watergate grand juries and could form the basis for perjury charges against Dean, the former White House counsel turned prime presidential accuser.

The White House declined comment Sunday on the matter.

Neither Dean nor his lawyers were available for comment.

Specifically, the source said, the transcripts he read disprove Dean's claim that his conversations with Nixon show the President was aware of the Watergate cover-up before the March 21, 1973, date on which Nixon says he learned of it.

They show that conversations Dean said took place on different dates between Sept. 15, 1972, and March 21, 1973, all took place on the latter date, the source explained.

THE SOURCE said the former White House counsel apparently was tripped up by the fact that, unknown to him when they occurred or when he testified, the conversations were being taped by the secret presidential recording system.

A primary reason for deciding against release of the transcripts was that fear that such action could trigger demands for further disclosures, the source said. He said these demands would jeopardize the confidentiality that Nixon and his top aides have insisted should be maintained.

He also said that another reason was fear that publication of the transcripts, and widespread comment on them, could jeopardize successful prosecution of some of the Watergate-related indictments expected to be brought shortly by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The source disclosed existence of the transcripts after Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said on nationwide television he had information that could clear Nixon of Watergate wrongdoing but that the White House was unwilling to make it public.

U.S. Officials 'Refused' S. Viet Request for Aid

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. officials turned down a South Vietnamese request last weekend to send ships and helicopters to evacuate beleaguered Vietnamese troops under fire from Chinese forces in the Paracel Islands, government military sources said today.

THE SOUTH Vietnamese were unable to evacuate the islands themselves and 150 Vietnamese and one American were killed or captured by the Communists in the two-day war Saturday and Sunday when the Chinese used MIGS, naval vessels and amphibious troops to overrun the islands.

Vietnamese military officers said the American was stationed with a four-man Saigon meteorological team on Robert Island in the bleak, South China Sea Archipelago which is 200 miles off the South Vietnam coast and 200 miles south of China's Hainan Island, but is claimed by both.

The military sources said South Vietnamese officials in Saigon asked U.S. Ambassador Graham A. Martin to request ships and helicopters of the U.S 7th fleet to conduct a rescue mission on the three islands before they were overrun by the Chinese.

MARTIN TURNED down the request flatly, the sources said.

It was not clear whether he consulted with officials in Washington first, or whether he had already received orders to refuse American military help in the battle for the Paracels.

A spokesman for Martin refused to confirm that an American was stationed with the Vietnamese in the Paracels. But Vietnamese government officers said a U.S. expert had been with the weather team on the barren atolls for several years. The Americans were rotated back to Vietnam and other stations regularly, they said.

Chinese news broadcasts have yet to mention the American, although Radio Peking said today it has taken some Vietnamese prisoners and would release them "at an appropriate time."

THE CHINESE foreign ministry issued a statement in Peking saying the Chinese acted in self-defense and that their military units meted out "due punishment to the invading enemy."

U.S. officials in Saigon and in Washington have consistently refused all details of 7th Fleet operations in the Pacific and the South Cina Sea.

It is known, however, that ships of the fleet regularly patrol the entire South China Sea area, sailing close to both China and North Vietnam on occasion.

Arab Lifting of Embargo Premature Says Official

KUWAIT (UPI) — Kuwaiti Foreign Minister Sheikh Sabah Al Ahmed As Sabah said in an interview published today it is "premature" to reconsider the question of lifting the Arab oil embargo against the United States or increasing production at this stage of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Sheikh Sabah told the Kuwaiti newspaper Al Rai El Aam (Public Opinion): "The lifting of oil measures is linked with the withdrawal of Israel from the occupied Arab land and restoration of the rights of the Palestinian people.

"It is premature to reconsider the oil supply question or production increase at this stage particularly because Israel has so far failed to declare her intention to withdraw from the Arab land," he said.

● Fire's Out

PILOTTOWN, La. (UPI) — Thousands of gallons of foam poured continuously on a burning oil tanker for three days finally smothered the inferno at the mouth of the Mississippi River Sunday, opening the nation's most importnat inland waterway to river traffic for the first time since Friday.

The 155-foot tanker Key Trader collided with the 657-foot Norwegian ship Buane Friday. The tanker, carrying 152,000 barrels of home heating oil, burst into flames and ruptured turning the Mississippi into a river of fire extending for a mile.

● Mass Burial

MEXICALI, Mexico (UPI) — Thirteen of the 19 farm workers who died in a bus accident near Blythe were buried Sunday in a ceremony attended by Cesar Chavez and some 4,000 mourners.

The burial site is about 110 miles from where the bus ran off a road and plunged into a 10-foot deep irrigation canal. Most of the dead, including three women, drowned when they were trapped in the bus which rolled over on its left side.

Boating Cowboys Round Up Cattle in Northwest

By The Associated Press

Idaho cowboys riding motorboats instead of horses roped stranded cattle and towed them out of flooded areas as most of the Pacific Northwest returned to normal today after a week of flooding.

A Red Cross spokesman in North Idaho said cowboys were towing strays out of swamped areas with motorboats and occasionally gave the cattle artificial respiration to revive them.

NO NEW MAJOR flooding was reported in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana or Northern California, but the National Weather Service predicted rainshowers for the region today.

A helicopter pilot became the 17th reported flood-related fatality when his helicopter crashed Sunday. The pilot, Larry Brown, 26, of Yakima, Wash., was flying supplies to persons stranded by flood in south-central Washington.

In Oregon, searchers found four more bodies of the nine men killed Wednesday in a huge mudslide near Canyonville. The body of one of the nine victims is still missing — Raymond Bell, 59, of Myrtle Creek, an employe of Sage Pipeline Co.

Authorities identified the four bodies found Sunday as Robert Miller, 46, of Roseburg; William Centers, 45, of Medford; Gilbert Maret, 47, of Wilbur and Williams Combs, 42, of Roseburg. They were employes of Pacific Northwest Bell.

THE NINE MEN were killed when tons of mud and debris cascaded down a hill, sweeping away a small building where the men were working. The building housed telephone switching equipment.

Foood damage in the five states has been estimated at more than $100 million, and thousands of persons have been left homeless. Eleven persons died in Oregon, four in Northern California and two in Washington.

U.S. Highway 101, one of the two main links between California and Oregon, was closed in places by mudslides.

Schools were still closed today in Ashland, Ore., a city of 14,400. Health officers closed all restaurants and taverns in the southern Oregon city, and water to homes was turned off because of contamination after two water mains burst.

DRINKING WATER was available only from National Guard tankers.

The 600 residents of Klickitat, Wash., remained isolated except for some treacherous back country roads.

California

Clear skies and crisp air greeted Southern Californians as a light storm which brought some rain headed southeastward. The morning sun burned off some fog and low clouds and further clearing was expected Tuesday.

The rain brought .20 of an inch to Los Angeles, .15 of an inch to the San Fernando Valley and .43 of an inch to Mt. Wilson.

Downtown Los Angeles' season total was raised to 10.82 inches, compared with 10.36 last year and 6.56 normally for the period.

No new snow was added to the mountain areas for skiers, but the rain did clear clouds and fog which had made driving conditions hazardous in the San Gabriel Mountains and temporarily closed air traffic at county carports.

Winds of up to 45 miles per hour accompanied the clouds and drizzle in some mountain and desert areas.

U.S. Summary

Travelers warnings were posted today as the East Coast braced for a winter storm rolling in from the Great Lakes.

Ice and freezing rain were expected from eastern New York and northeast Pennsylvania through New Hampshire and southern New England.

A freezing rain warning was in effect for upper Michigan as rain fell from South Dakota across the upper Great Lakes into northeastern New York and Vermont.

At the southern edge of this storm system, heavy rains brought flooding to Mississippi and Tennessee. Ten families were evacuated from their homes in southern Mississippi because of flooding.

Two tornadoes were reported Sunday, including one in Arlington, Ga., which destroyed a mobile home and two warehouses. The other, in Goshen, Ala., killed thousands of chickens.

No injuries were reported to residents.

Coxes Dine With Nixons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tricia Nixon Cox spent the weekend at the White House with her young lawyer husband, Edward Cox. The elder daughter of the President has been denying recent rumors that she and Cox were splitting up.

The Coxes joined the President and Mrs. Nixon and Julie and David Eisenhower for a family dinner Saturday night at the White House.

The rumors about the Coxes surfaced after she spent three weeks in California and Washington away from her husband, who is with a Wall Street firm.

'Impeach' Rallies Draw 850

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A pair of rallies calling for the impeachment or resignation of President Nixon attracted about 850 persons of various ages and political affiliations.

One, sponsored by the Dump Nixon Coalition, drew about 45 persons who marched in the rain Sunday afternoon to City Hall in downtown Los Angeles.

The other, held in Fairfax High School on the city's west side, included speakers representing elected officials of both major political parties. It was sponsored by the Impeachment Coordinating Center.

Rescue at Sea

One man drowned and another was rescued and hospitalized Sunday as a result of a boating accident at Ventura Marina. Dead is William Harris Hastings 47, of Canoga Park, and injured was his companion John North, 44, of Thousand Oaks. North and Hastings were taking their 15-foot sailboat out when heavy surf capsized them. Shown is Ventura Sheriff's helicopter hovering over North as deputy throws line and prepares to jump out to effect the rescue.

● Energy Gouge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More than half the service stations checked in Southern California have violated price freeze regulations and some station owners would rather face fines of up to $2,500 daily than cut back prices, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The IRS said during the weekend that many stations have overcharged or otherwise violated price freeze regulations because they are ignoring energy crisis regulations or are bewildered by them.

● Glider Death

DALY CITY (AP) — A "hang glider" lost control of his kite-like vehicle Sunday and died shortly after he crashed into a 12,000-volt power line and then into the rear of a Daly City Home, police said.

Thomas Williamson, 23, of San Jose, was administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage by Daly City Policeman Dennis Pinnatore, but died at 1:40 p.m. in Mary's Help Hospital.

● 19 Arrested

FONTANA (AP) — Authorities arrested 19 members of what they said was a black paramilitary group who had been firing rifles on an improvised target range.

They were booked Sunday for investigation of unlawful assembly of a paramilitary organization and possession of an illegal sawed-off shotgun.

● $200,000 Heist

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Four bandits wearing stocking masks escaped with more than $200,000 in cash and jewels from the home of weatherman Irving Krick.

Krick was in Michigan at the time. The gunmen Friday pistol-whipped his son, Irving, 23, and assaulted his wife, Maria, 54. They forced the son to open a bedroom safe, in an operation police said had apparently been carefully planned. Krick is an internationally known meteorologist.

● Shot to Death

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — A man, apparently arguing with a tavern owner's attempt to close his bar, was fatally shot in the chest Sunday, police said.

Hans Heber, 62, Colton, owner of the Can-Can bar, was booked on murder charges. Robert T. Aguila, 40, shot in the chest by a .22-caliber pistol, died at County Hospital.

Acid Bath Killer Gets Prison Term

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 39-year-old butcher has received a one to 15-year prison term for aiding in the acid bath murder of a Paramount man in the summer of 1970.

Superior Court Commissioner Elias Powell sentenced Joseph F. Samson after the defendant was allowed to plead guilty to voluntary manslaughter.

Samson was convicted once for second-degree murder in the killing of machinist James Summers, 32, but the verdict was later reversed on appeal because of a technicality.

'Nude Conversation' Brings $60 an Hour

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nude "hostesses" were still getting $1 a minute to engage "clients" in blue conversation today while police awaited clarification of a new law that would stop San Francisco's latest sex industry.

In "Encounter" parlors with names like Naked City and Den of Love, men pay $60 an hour to sit and listen to a naked woman talk or read a dirty book.

A city licensing law that would virtually ban the parlors was scheduled to go into effect Sunday, but police said it won't be enforced immediately.

"We're not going to enforce it until legal technicalities get straightened out," a police spokesman said. The ordinance bans both nudity and encounter booths in the parlors.

A SUIT charging the city ordinance is unconstitutional was filed Friday in Superior Court. Judge Clayton Horn Saturday denied the parlors' request for a temporary restraining order, but he ordered the city to show cause why it felt the ordinance was necessary.

Police decided to delay enforcing the law for at least a month, pending a definite court ruling.

The House of Ecstasy, Cupid's Corner, The Tunnel of Love, The House of Joy, Brandy's, The Powell Nude Encounter Parlor along with Naked City and Den of Love are battling the new law.

"It is the customer's choice," said Attorney Gilbert Eisenberg, "whether he wishes to disrobe or wishes to have the female disrobe during conversations.

"No sexual act or touching of any kind is permitted between employe and customer."

"OUR TRIP is to stall them," said one hostess. "We undress, read dirty boks, talk to them. We just keep dancing or whatever until the receptionist tugs the curtain and says, 'Time's up.' "

It isn't always that easy. One enraged customer, according to a hostess, threatened to beat her up and emerged nude from a booth shouting that the receptionist had misled him on what was available.

Dope Use Renounced By 'Hell's Angels'

SAN JOSE (AP) — The Hell's Angels want you — to swear off hard drugs, that is.

The renegade motorcycle club, whose public image has been mixed up in narcotics for a decade, has renounced dope now and wants to set others straight, too.

To prove it, the bikers have leased three billboards in the San Jose area, all emblazoned with a skull and crossbones over a hypodermic needle. Each carries the terse "No Hope with Dope."

"IT'S A MOVE back to Jack Daniel's," said biker Phil Cross, adding the club is printing up anti-dope brochures and making speakers available for high school and college lectures.

Police, however, remain skeptical.

"They have to do more than put up billboards to prove anything to me," said one officer. "All I go by is their past experiences, and I doubt they're about to change."

CROSS, a former chapter president here, said the Angels don't consider marijuana, barbituates or amphetamines as "hard stuff."

But, "if an Angel sticks a needle in his arm one time, he's out," Cross said in an interview Sunday. "If he snorts (cocaine), he's out. There's no rehabilitation program, nothin', just out. Period."

Drug use became so bad among Angels that Cross said some bikers sold their prize "choppers" to buy dope.

Taxpayers Hit Again

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's 10-day trade mission to Australia and Indonesia cost California taxpayers $1,127, claims filed with the state controller reveal.

That is the total of personal expense claims filed by six Reagan aides, and it includes a tuxedo rental for one of Reagan's security officers.

The Reagan party flew 18,750 miles by Air Force jet to Sydney, Melbourne, Jakarta, Singapore and other cities on the goodwill tour last Nov. 25 through Dec. 5.

Surgeon Faces 25 Charges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. John G. Nork, a surgeon who recently lost a $3.7 million malpractice suit and faces 25 other negligence charges, has resigned from the staff of the Martinez veterans hospital.

Paul Battisti, regional veterans administration official, told a VA legislative hearing that Nork's resignation would be effective Jan. 31.

He said Nork has had "no direct contact with patients since early December and won't" until his resignation takes effect.

A $3.7 million malpractice judgment was returned in Sacramento County Superior Court last November against Nork.

Nork, 45, presently faces 25 counts of gross negligence and incompetence, unprofessional conduct, misrepresentation, excessive treatment and improper use of dangerous drugs filed by the State Board of Medical Examiners.

Four Obsessed

Priest Exorcises Devil in Ritual

DALY CITY (UPI) — A 57-year-old priest says he used the relics of saints to drive the "diabolic" forces of the devil from a young couple, a child, and a former college professor through the ancient Catholic ritual of exorcism.

"The devil has a high intelligence and he can play a thousand different tricks," the Rev. Karl Patzelt said Sunday.

In the case of a young couple in Daly City and their 2-year-old child, the devil used external harassment such as setting fires around the house, destroying religious statues and hurling objects about, said Father Patzelt, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima, a Byzantine Catholic church in San Francisco.

THE COLLEGE professor lost his job in Southern California because of "diabolic distlrbances" of an internal nature, the priest said.

"All of a sudden, against his will, his back would bend over, he would shake violently, his mouth would open without reason and nothing would come out."

In each of the cases, Father Patzelt said, he obtained permission from the church superiors to perform the ancient rites, which ended successfully.

The offices of Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken was avoiding questions on the matter.

Priests at St. Andrew's Parish in Daly City said that in 1972 the couple came to them for help.

"We made a very intensive investigation of this particular matter," said the Rev. Mr. Thomas M. Rolle, a deacon.

"These unresolved questions, while not ruling out the possibility of supernatured presence of evil, indicate to us that the situation is not as clear-cut" as reported, Mr. Rolle said.

THE UNIDENTIFIED Daly City couple said in a copyrighted story in Sunday's San Francisco examiner that during the first seven exorcisms "the devil revealed himself by knocking both of us down. Often he would knock one of us totally unconscious. He would choke us, twist our arms behind our backs.

"He would grab nerves — be it in the back, the legs, the arm. He would squeeze very, very tight until we were really in excruciating pain.

"When this would happen, Father Karl (Patzelt) would touch us with the relic of the holy cross. This brought immediate relief."

Once, the couple said, their baby was crying and they found a rocking chair had been lifted into its crib. Another time a huge bite was taken out of a sandwich left on the kitchen table and "black shadows" would whiz around the room, leaving a "very cold chill" as they went.

SOMETIMES there were as many as 30 witnesses to the terrible happenings, the couple said, although most of the time the devil would wait until they were alone before harassing them.

During the last exoricism Sept. 18, the couple said, "there were about 20 people there. The signs were of the Lord and the blessed Mother. People felt hot, tremendously hot. People were perspiring We thought at first it was because of the crowd.

Black Image Prizes Made By NAACP

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Stevie Wonder, the Pointer Sisters, Henry Aaron, Sidney Poitier and the television series "Sanford and Son" won this year's awards for improving black image from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

A special founders' award went to Frank Willis, a black security guard whose suspicions about a taped-over door latch at the Watergate apartment complex in Washington, D.C., led to the discovery of the break-in there by agents of the Committee to Re-elect the President.

How Pacific Mutual is helping conserve energy.

In response to America's need to cut its use of fuel, we have been making changes at our home office building in Newport.

So far, we've cut our total consumption of electricity by over 28%.

Excluding our Computer and Data Processing Centers, we've cut our use of electricity more than 35% during the day; 50% at night. To do this wasn't easy. Because our building was designed to use some lighting for heating, it meant we had to extensively rewire every floor. And we've taken out over 4,000 fluorescent tubes. Many of the changes are not visible. For instance, we've cut our usage of electricity for air conditioning, heating and office machines.

Driving by, you may see some lighting at night. This is for people inside who are working. When nobody is in an office, we turn the lights off. The design and location of our building tend to accentuate this minimal illumination.

We share the concern for the need to conserve energy and we thought you'd like to know what we're doing to help. And we're not through, yet. We're working on even more reductions in our use of energy.

Inexcusable Errors

As any wage-earner knows, an increasingly large amount of the weekly pay check is lopped off to support various and sundry government operations which supposedly improve the quality of life.

And it is not all that bad to contribute to government funds that help the aged, blind and disabled, or enable a veteran to complete his education and prepare for a decent job.

But when bumbling bureaucrats — also paid out of our wages and taxes — sink to such a level of incompetence that the money we hand over doesn't even reach those in need, the blood pressure rises.

This month, some 1,500 Orange County blind, aged and disabled were among thousands throughout the state who failed to receive their support checks. It was, they were told, a computer error, triggered when the aid program was taken over by the federal government. Thirty thousand checks were delayed or missing, while the intended recipients faced eviction and hunger.

A similar foulup has tied up checks for thousands of student veterans since the opening of the fall semester. Many have been forced to drop out, lost their cars and piled up almost insurmountable debts.

Official "explanations" and apologies don't help these unfortunates. In private business, an employe or employes responsible for such bungling would face instant dismissal. A similar house-cleaning in the government bureaucracy might be beneficial.

Taking No Chances

The Irvine Company tends to function on a grand scale and its compliance with Orange County's new lobbyist registration law was no exception.

To the astonishment of county officials, more than 130 employes of the company were registered last week as lobbyists in the biggest mass filing on record. Their reports were added to the 60 received to date from individuals working for other firms.

The Irvine group included engineers, planners, architects, traffic analysts, geologists, economists and community liaison officers employed by the giant landowner. Company officials explained they wanted to be sure any employe likely to be dealing with the county at any level was in compliance.

The lobbyist law, which became effective Jan. 1, requires lobbyists to file quarterly reports listing the name of their employer, salary received and expenses in excess of $25 spent on entertainment for county officials.

The law as adopted specifically exempts technical experts who might have to appear before county boards to explain details of proposed projects, but the Irvine Company was taking no chances. And, given the obscure wording of some of our laws, and the penchant of three of the supervisors for making a whipping boy of the Irvine Company perhaps they have a point.

Expensive Vandalism

Vandalism at Orange County schools declined a bit last year but the total monetary loss is nonetheless startling and is definitely a pain in the taxpayers' pocketbooks.

Officials say schools were damaged to the tune of more than $615,000 — about $85,000 less than the year before.

Some of the biggest losses were caused by fires apparently set by arson. But most loss was attributed to day-to-day damage wrought by students and outsiders on county campuses.

Of the total loss, Orange Coast schools suffered $113,000 worth.

Some districts were luckier than others. They recorded markedly lower losses to vandals and attributed it to better security.

Considering the size of the drain on tax funds caused by vandalism, it behooves all districts to take a hard look at ways to better protect the huge investment the public has in their schools.

Summons to Washington May Be Significant

John Dean Interrogation Resumed

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The previously undisclosed fact that John W. Dean III quietly returned to Washington last weekend and immediately entered the heavily guarded downtown offices of the special prosecutor for more questioning poses new dangers for Richard M. Nixon and a deepening dilemma for Leon Jaworski.

The interrogation of Dean picked up where it stopped several weeks ago when he left for the West Coast because of his mother-in-law's illness. It is expected to continue for some time. That would scarcely be the case if the secret White House tape recordings heard so far by the prosecutor's office flatly proved, as the White House contends, that Dean's accusations against President Nixon are lies.

BUT IF the prosecutors think Dean is telling the truth, it would follow that they must also suspect that the President is criminally culpable—and therein lies the dilemma for special prosecutor Jaworski. He publicly committed himself last week against handing over any evidence to the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment proceedings. At the same time, many legal scholars bet he cannot and will not seek a criminal indictment against the President prior to impeachment.

In that case, his evidence against the President, buttressed by deposed White House counsel Dean, at least temporarily would fall between the two stools of indictment and impeachment. So, unless he can work out some arrangement with the House, Jaworski will face accusations—surely unjustified—of abetting yet another White House cover-up.

At the heart of this is whether Dean, who has been the only overt accuser of Mr. Nixon, told the truth in sworn testimony before the Senate Watergate committee. For months, White House aides have been claiming that the notorious tapes would show that Dean lied under oath.

IF SO, Dean would be in deep trouble. When he pleaded guilty last Oct. 19 to a one-count prosecution in return for immunity, the deal with the special prosecutor made this exception: no immunity from perjury. Thus, a clear-cut contradiction of Dean by the White House tapes would give the special prosecutor an obvious perjury case against him.

Yet, though the prosecutors—including Jaworski himself in some cases—have heard the Nixon-Dean tapes (except, of course, the two missing tapes), they are resuming interrogation of Dean. The inescapable conclusion is that they do not feel that possible differences between the tapes and Dean's Senate testimony are damaging his credibility.

A credible Dean equals a vulnerable Nixon. Despite this, the President might be effectively immune for some time to come, thanks to two points made to us by Jaworski during an interview this week in his Washington office.

First, Jaworski reiterated—closing the door hard — his public declarations last week that his evidence would not be made available for the House impeachment proceedings. Evidence presented to a grand jury, he said, cannot go to the House unless the judge consents or until the trials are finished.

Second, Jaworski emphasized that his office has not reached a legal opinion about whether a sitting President can be indicted. "I haven't reached that conclusion," he said, conceding that many legal scholars believe impeachment must precede indictment.

PROF. ARCHIBALD COX, Jaworski's predecessor, shared his doubts about the constitutionality of indicting a President. But there was no doubt either in Congress or the Justice Department that Cox would turn his evidence over to the House if and when it got around to serious impeachment proceedings. That represents the sole difference in approach between Cox and Jaworski, but it is sufficiently serious to threaten Jaworski's performance.

Airline Passenger Complaints Soar

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A confidential House report charges that the two federal agencies which are supposed to make air travel tolerable for the traveler, pander instead to the airline industry.

As a result, says a staff report to the House Commerce Committee, passengers' complaints have more than doubled since 1970, and some airlines run late flights 75 percent of the time.

Yet the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Administration pay more attention to the airlines than the public, the document charges.

"THE INCREASED number of complaints is significant evidence that the problem . . . is pervasive throughout the United States," declares the report. "The inaction of the CAB and the FAA in the face of numerous complaints and apparent substandard service . . . warrants legislative hearings."

A three-man investigative team checked airports on the Eastern seaboard. The samplings showed that American Airlines flights reached the airports on schedule only 25 percent of the time.

Braniff planes managed to make it to the airports on time 28.8 percent, and Eastern achieved a 50 percent record. However, Eastern's famous hourly shuttles sometimes ran on the hour-and-a-half.

THE DELAYS were often controllable or, at worst, predictable. The reasons for the late arrivals, according to the House Investigators, were "weather, air traffic control, mechanical defects, strikes, airport congestion, airport construction, tardy flight crews, poor airline management, fuel shortages."

Tracing the history of late arrivals, the report states that rules were proposed in 1956 to curb controllable delays. These were "watered down by the CAB," however, because of "air carrier opposition."

THE CONFIDENTIAL, 16-page document concedes that pressing for on-time arrivals could lead to accidents if safety is sacrificed. But it offers a few recommendations, beginning with airline honestly in telling passengers that certain flights are behind schedule.

The report also calls for the construction of more airports and advocates diverting noncommercial flights away from congested commercial airports.

Nixon's 'Great Sense of Humor' Doesn't Include Media

VON HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON — Bebe Robozo talking to Walter Cronkite about his friend, Richard Nixon: "He's got a great sense of humor and a very unique sense of humor that people don't see . . . But it's so quick coming . . . and if you try to repeat it, it does not have the zing that it has with him. We had one time . . . somebody gave me a couple of these Ladies' Legs. It looks like a real leg. They're skin-colored and all, and they're blown up. And so Abplanalp was going to come over to visit us, so we decided to play a trick on him . . . we borrowed a wig . . . put it into bed with . . . the legs sticking out from under the sheet.

"And I hid while the President was going to show Abplanalp through the house. Well, Bob came in, and when he saw that he didn't — he didn't know whether to act like he didn't see it or what . . . It was quite a riot . . . I was hiding around the corner with a flash camera and took a picture of Abplanalp hovering over this figure in bed. . .It's hard to recall the incidents, but he really has a rare and quick sense of humor."

The above was aired on December 21 and it may be the only moment of honesty in this just-concluded period that some other White House wit has named Operation Candor. Refreshing as is this cameo of a giggly President entertaining his millionaire friends, the manner in which Operation Candor's last two documents concerning the milk and ITT cases were released may tell us more about what the man is up to.

THE NIXON explanation of his part in these two curdled affairs had been promised since last November. Nevertheless, he or Ron Ziegler released these two controversial documents 35 minutes before the major nightly TV news programs were to go on the air. There was no way the reporters and researchers working on the story could cross-check his assertions with the statements and testimony of the many other people involved in the cases.

All three networks alluded to the lateness of the hour of release without suggesting that it was one of the oldest gimmicks in the public relations business to get a one-sided, biased story on the air. Old and recognizable though it was, the trick worked. NBC's Tom Brokaw, broadcasting from the network's Burbank studios, had to come on the air live after having had the text read to him on the phone. CBS's Fred Graham was able to look over the material in a taxicab before rushing in front of a camera.

From what we know about Nixon, he's something of a media buff. He seems to have made as much of a study of our business as of football. He knows how news organizations operate, he knows the rules they've made for themselves, and he knows how their competitiveness can be used to spoil the quality of their work. Thus he could pull this number certain that his version of the story would air and that nobody would say something like, "The President released his long-awaited white papers on ITT and the Milk Campaign Fund too late for us to tell you more than he says he's innocent. We will have a detailed story for you tomorrow."

THE NEXT NIGHT, while ABC omitted any mention of the story and left their viewers with a slanted, Nixonized version, its two competitors broke with tradition to come back without a "hard news peg" and do a tough analysis. NBC's Carl Stern and Fred Briggs had pieces suggesting perjury and bribery. But CBS was rougher. Phil Jones pointed out that Nixon's statement on the Milk Fund directly contradicted his October 26 statement that "I have a rule. I have refused to accept contributions myself; I have refused any discussion of contributions." Fred Graham went further, suggesting that the document failed to explain "why two years ago President Nixon permitted the Senate to confirm Kleindienst as Attorney General on the basis of testimony that may well have been perjured."

This is good journalism, providing, as it did, necessary background information which is usually only available in 30 or 40 of the better newspapers. For two of the three networks it may also represent a recognition of the fact that if they go on in the old ways, their antagonist in the White House will play them for patsies every time.

Such a recognition is hard to come by. It isn't easy for journalists to give up the role of the non-combatant, the non-participant, the professional who gathers, processes and disseminates information according to certain, nearly invariable rules. But those conventions work only if the people being reported on accept journalism's definition of itself.

THIS PRESIDENT looks on all the media, but television particularly, as the enemy. Nor is his the passive dislike of his predecessors. Were that the case, the neutral role would still be possible. But no, he's out, to use a White House word, to screw television news, and to the extent that the news people cling to the old ways they make it easier for him to knock them off.

Against his hated media enemy he uses the large threat of the Justice Department and the petty harassments of sneaking off to California on a half-empty commercial jet that could have accommodated the press entourage if he hadn't ordered Ziegler not to tell them. If such behavior is beyond belief in a President, remember that we know he spends his idle San Clemente hours playing practical jokes and blowing up balloons.

State Gets 900 Acres For Parks

SACRAMENTO (AP) — More than 900 acres on San Francisco Bay have been transferred to state ownership, says Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The governor announced he signed transactions with Mobil Oil Estates for 132 acres of frontage along a five-mile stretch of Redwood Peninsula. In addition, Mobil donated 800 acres of Bair Island.

Reagan said the shoreline area is ideal for hiking, fishing, boating and other recreation. Bair Island is inhabited by various forms of endangered wildlife.

OUTDOORS

● 160-acre Buy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National Park Service handed the Sierra Club Fountaion a $208,700 check to buy 160 acres in Yosemite National Park.

The park service has managed the land, including Parsons Lodge, since last June when the purchase agreement was made. The land is at the junction of John Muir and Pacific Crest trails.

The Sierra Club bought the property in 1912 as a campground for members.

● Site to State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said it is selling a site at Bodega Bay, once scheduled for an atomic power plant, to the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

The price is $500,000, PG&E said. The 269-acre site, 24 miles west of Santa Rosa, has been leased to Sonoma County in recent years for park use.

● Ranch Sale

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A 2,600-acre Malibu Canyon ranch will be added to the state park system, State Parks Director Wiliam Penn Mott Jr. says.

Mott anncunced that the state Public Works Board agreed to purchase Century Ranch from the Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. as an addition to the system.

The film company will continue to use the property until the end of 1974 under a lease agreement.

● Bill Slated

Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman Paul Priolo (R-Santa Monica) says he will introduce legislation to acquire 600 acres of beachrront property in the Pacific Palisades area.

Priolo said the land would provide additional open space for Los Angeles County residents.

The $3.1 million parcel must be purchased by Aug. 1, or the transaction cannot be completed, the legislator said.

● Wilderness

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation creating a state wilderness system by setting aside forest and desert land to prevent commercial development has been introduced in the Senate.

The bill (SB1497) submitted by Sen. John A. Nejedly (R-Walnut Creek) is patterned after federal legislation enacted in 1964.

It would immediately set aside sections of the Mt. San Jacinto State Park in Riverside County, Anza Borrego Desert State Park in San Diego County, Castle Crags State Park in Shasta County and 1,480 acres of state-owned land in Monterey, Santa Barbara, Siskiyou and Tehama counties.

● Park Status

Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO — A legislative proposal by Assemblyman Ray Gonzales (D-Bakersfield) to redesignate Red Rock Canyon as an official state park has been approved by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

● Redwood Land

Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO — The Save-the-Redwoods League announced purchase from the Pacific Lumber Co. of 62 acres of young-growth redwood forest located on the eastern ridge of Humboldt Redwoods State Park.

This property will be deeded to the state of California for addition to the park, officials said.

SACRAMENTO — "Anza Sky Trail," a publication that guides pilots along a scenic air tour of Anza-Borrego Desert State Park, has been updated and reprinted by the California Department of Parks and Recreation.

'No Sweat'

Porno Bill Approved

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Senate may be accused of trying to keep people from perspiring in public.

An antipornography bill approved includes "excretory functions" in a list of acts to be prohibited.

Sen. Lawrence M. Borst, a veterinarian, pointed out that this includes "spitting, coughing, sweating and blowing one's nose.

"If Frank Sinatra were to appear on stage in Indiana and perspire, he might wind up in jail," Borst said after the bill was unanimously adopted.

Sponsor of the measure, Sen. Walter P. Helmke, (R-Fort Wayne), said he doubted his bill will be quite so loosely interpreted.

Insemination Bid

She's Single, Wants Baby

SEATTLE (AP) — A divorced school teacher, who says she plans to enlarge her family through artificial insemination, has asked the state Human Rights Commission to protect her from any possible charges of "moral turpitude."

MARY LOU LEWIS-Krusic of Issaquah, Wash., sought protection under a state regulation forbidding discrimination on the basis of marital status.

Dovorced six years ago, she is the mother of a son, 7. She told the commission whe wanted to have another child but refuses to marry simply to legitimitize the birth.

An Issaquah School District regulation is apparently in conflict with state rules. It permits the termination of a teacher's contract for "moral turpitude," a charge which has been applied to unmarried female teachers who become pregnant.

ARTIFICIAL insemination would technically make her an unwed mother under the regulations, threatening her position as a school teacher.

Commissioners expressed support for her position, but said they are only empowered to act to restore her job if she is fired on the grounds of marital status discrimination.

His Home 'Toasty' For Free

MADERA (AP) — While most people shiver with thermostats set in the 60s, a Madera man keeps his two-bedroom home at a toasty 80 degrees with a clear conscience.

Henry Willis, 56, has constructed a heater which runs on used motor oil. He usually gets all he can use free at local service stations.

Approximately two gallons a day flow through the device which Willis estimates cost him about $10 to assemble. Willis learned about furnaces from his father years ago so had a good idea of what he was doing when he began working on his heater.

He doesn't worry about safety, a problem with some gimmicks used to save fuel during the current energy crisis.

"You can't explode crude oil," he said. The burning oil is odorless, and no trace of soot or smoke mars the white wall behind the heater.

A milk can holds a reservoir of oil which is fed through a valve to a metal pipe. The ipe deposits the oil in the bottom of an old gas heater purchased at a "flea" market.

Once the heater is lit, it will run without attention as long as the oil supply lasts. Compressed air helps the oil flow though the pipe, and the temperature is regulated by the valve to let in more or less oil.

Making the Switch

After leaving their cars in a crowded parking lot near a railway station in suburban Tokyo, two commuters walk toward train that will take them to their downtown offices. More commuters are switching to trains to cope with Japan's fuel shortage.

Simon Vows No 'Fuel Hoarding'

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — To prevent hoarding, energy chief William E. Simon today promised "to put a dip stick" into every major fuel supply tank in the nation.

"Oil companies, independent jobbers, railroads, trucking firms — you name it, we'll be there," Simon said.

TERMING CREDIBILITY one of the keys to easing the energy crisns, Simon directed his speech toward critics who claim the energy crisis may be contrived by the oil industry to boost prices.

"We recognize — we have said all along — that the petroleum industry reporting system is inadequate. That's why the Federal Energy Office is going to mandate inventory reports and audit them regularly with field checks," he said in a speech to the National Association of Home Builders.

To prevent price gouging, "We intend to determine the precise return on net invested capital in the petroleum industry, compare it to other industries, and determine a fair profit level in order to insure that the oil companies do not profit excessively at the expense of the American consumer."

High Prices Predicted For While

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two top government fiscal advisers predict higher prices and a sluggish economy in coming months because of the oil shortage, but both are optimistic for some relief by mid-year.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, predicted Sunday that prices for meat, fuel and other products will keep rising the first half of the year before tapering during the summer and fall.

ROY ASH, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said the overall economy will have rough going during the first three months of 1974, but will demonstrate "fairly good strength" the rest of the way.

Stein, President Nixon's top economic adviser, said the largest price increases would be among products using oil and oil by-products.

"I think we're going to have some big increases for a few months, certainly," Stein said. "We think, although we're not quite sure of this, that we have some months of fairly rapid rises in meat prices ahead."

STEIN WAS interviewed by U.S. News & World Report. Ash, in a taped interview for the public television program Washington Straight Talk, gave this assessment of the economy in general:

". . .in this quarter, the quarter that ends March 31, we'll have a poor quarter. It won't be very good from the point of economic statistics. On the other hand, we believe that in the second and third and fourth quarters following that, there will be a continual improvement in the economy."

Health Act Outlined In Seminar

Employer and employe rights and responsibilities under the California Occupational Safety and Health Act, will be explained by the State Department of Industrial Relations at a seminar at the Disneyland Hotel Feb. 15.

Richard Wilkins, chief of the Division of Industrial Safety will speak on the general intent of the California Act during the morning session.

The afternoon session includes workshops on the state safety orders for general industry and construction, electrical safety orders, record keeping and the role of the Department of Health in the implementation of the Health Act.

Recreation Vehicles Exempted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manufacturers of mobile homes, travel trailers and campers were exempted from price controls today by the Cost of Living Council.

The council said the exemptions applied to manufacturers' prices and to wages paid to workers of those industries.

Council director John T. Dunlop said the action would have minimal inflationary impact because several leading manufacturers have made commitments not to increase prices more than three percent.

Dunlop also noted that the industry faces declining sales in recreational vehicles because of the gasoline shortage.

In a second price decontrol action, the council lifted controls from the manufacturers' prices of semiconductors and related solid state devices and to wages paid to workers in the industry.

First-class Sections Abandoned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Western Airlines has abandoned first-class seating on nearly all mainland-to-Hawaii flights as a means of increasing seating capacity in the face of the energy crisis.

Western says it hopes to offer 1,100 more seats to and from Hawaii each week by eliminating first class on 11 of its narrow-bodied Boeing 707s and 720Bs assigned to the island route. Its DC10s will continue to offer first-class seating.

"THE WHOLE thing has been inspired by the energy crisis," says a Western spokesman. "We have plenty of airplanes to add additional flights if we could."

But he explained the goal is to add up to 10 more seats per airplane instead of going to the expense of putting additional ships in the air.

Western's cutback in first-class service also is attributable to a low demand for deluxe service to the islands, the Los Angeles-based carrier said. Only about 9 percent of its Hawaii-bound passengers are willing to pay the higher price — up to $81 over regular one-way fares.

WESTERN SAID 20 of the wider first-class seats are being removed on five 707s and will be replaced by 30 coach seats, bringing the seats in these aircraft from 137 to 147.

Brokerage Going Off Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — DuPont Walston Inc., one of Wall Street's largest brokerage houses, announced plans today to sell its assets and go out of business.

The firm, one of two connected Wall Street firms controlled by Texas computer services millionaire H. Ross Perot, cited "continued operating losses" as the reason for its decision.

Walter E. Auch, duPont Walston president, said all of the firm's customer accounts were protected by adequate capital, and that its ratio of debts to capital was "well within requirements of the New York Stock Exchange."

Auch said the firm would continue to operate until its assets and operations, including 143 branches across the country, could be sold.

Perot, head of the Electronic Data Systems Corp. of Dallas, has invested an estimated $90 million in duPont Walston and its associated firm, duPont Glore Forgan, which he bailed out from financial difficulties in 1971.

The two firms are both major data processing customers of Electronic Data Systems.

Workmen's Compensation

Is Your Firm Up to Date?

By SYLVIA PORTER

Are you, the employe in a small firm with a total payroll of, say, two or three employes, covered by your state's workmen's compensation law — a system which might be virtually your sole source of financial support and your sole means of paying medical bills if you were seriously injured on your job?

PORTER

Or must you work for a firm which employs a specific minimum?

Are you, the farmworker or domestic employe or self-employed worker, covered by workmen's compensation? Or does your state exempt these categories of work from coverage?

ARE YOUR workmen's compensation benefits automatically hiked as wages rise in your state? Or would you be paid only a tragically small proportion of today's real living costs?

If you were seriously injured on your job, involving $15,000 or $20,000 or $50,000 in medical and rehabilitation costs, would your state's workmen's compensation system cover all these costs? Or just part of them? Would you be given your own free choice of your physician, surgeon, other specialists?

What would happen if your employer's workmen's compensation insurance fund ran out of money? Do you have any protection against such insolvency?

WITHOUT FEAR of losing the bets, I'll wager that you don't know the answers to more than one or two of these questions. Yet, if you did become seriously ill or injured on or because of your job, these answers could be of crucial importance to you.

Introduced into the first session of the 93rd Congress — and to be debated during the 1974 session — is a bill that would force all 50 states to meet a new set of strict federal standards for our workmen's compensation "non-system" in which the rules and the extent of protection vary wildly from state to state, employer to employer and worker to worker. (That's why those critically important questions are so tricky; the protection you have depends on where you work, who you work for, what your job is.)

SEVERAL MONTHS ago, a special National Commission on State Workmen's Compensation Laws issued the results of a lengthy study and came up with major recommendations for reforms by the individual states. If the states don't shape up, the commission urged Congress to consider federal legislation to assure the U.S. worker real financial protection in the event of on-the-job accident, injury or illness.

Sens. Jacob Javits, (R-N.Y.,) and Harrison Williams, (D.-N. J.,) sponsors of the legislation, are now jumping this gun. Hearings on their bill are to be held this week in Portland, Ore., and San Francisco. Under their proposal, the states would have only a year and a half — until July 1, 1975 — to bring their workmen's compensation laws in line with the new recommendations.

AMONG OTHER things, this would mean that 500,000 employers would be compelled to provide workmen's comp coverage for their employes for the first time. (Are you even covered?)

A federal takeover of workmen's compensation — with all the bureaucratic red tape, snarls and delays this might well create — is a clear prospect if the states do not act constructively in the months directly ahead.

TO GRASP fully why this is so vital to your own safety, consider these basic points:

— Although workmen's compensation is our nation's oldest firm of social insurance, going back 65 years, 10,500,000 U.S. workers are not covered as conditions stand today.

— Among the least covered occupations: agricultural work, domestic work, work for religious, charitable and non-profit organizations, "casual" labor, self-employment, workers in small firms. Clearly, the least covered are likely to be among those most in need of the protection.

— Our state compensation laws are arbitrary and loaded with gaps and inequities. Typical maximum benefits for total disability range from $40 to $175 a week, according to the state.

In some states, a worker may not be compensated unless he or she has been disabled by an "accident" on the job; a disabling job-caused illness does not count. In other states, both the number of days and dollars of compensation are strictly limited.

32 Utilities Forming Power Plant Concern

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — Thirty-two public utilities in Uath and California today formed a non-profit corporation to construct a $1.5-billion, 3,000-megawatt power plant in South-Central Utah.

The utilities filed papers with the Utah Secretary of State's office creating Intermountain Power Project, which plans to construct the coal-fired plant by 1980 on one of three sites.

One of those sites is only about 30 miles from the proposed Kaiparowits power plant, which has come under heavy fire from environmentalists and has been alternately killed and revived by the Interior Department.

IPP was formed by the Intermountain Consumer Power Association of Sandy — which supplies power to 26 publicly owned utility companies serving Utah and small portions of surrounding states — and the municipal utility departments of Los Angeles, Burbank, Pasadena, Anaheim, Riverside and Glendale.

Joseph C. Fackrell, executive director of the ICPA, will be chairman of the Intermountain Power Project, with Anaheim utilities director Gordon W. Hoyt as vice chairman.

Ruby Keeler Studies the Suburbs

Christian Science Monitor Service

WASHINGTON — The tap-dancing star of the 1930's who "shuffled off to Buffalo" and had "the beat of 42nd Street" is still kicking.

Ruby Keeler of Newport Beach is on the road playing the lead role in "No, No, Nanette" and because of business is doing more traveling and sightseeing than in 35 years.

The playbill clearly states she is "back on stage" after her last and fifth child went off to college.

"The kids agreed that I must keep busy . . . so I accepted this road company opportunity," she said.

"I do a rare kind of sightseeing," mused the soft-spoken woman whose birthdays must count up to at least 64. "We hire a car and driver and just ride around and look. I don't go in any of the buildings. I must admit that even though I have been in Washington many times, I have never entered the Capitol, the White House, any of the galleries — the Smithsonian or the Washington Monument.

"MRS. NIXON invited me to luncheon one day. It wasn't held in the White House. It was in another government building.

"I love to ride around in Georgetown and look at all those quaint houses surrounded with garden walls — just little nothings from the outside but they must be absolutely gorgeous on the inside. Jackie Kennedy's house on N Street really fascinates me."

It's not that this still glamorous grandmother has slowed down. She's a fast stepper with lots of energy on stage. She just does not have any interest in getting out of the car.

"WASHINGTON and Philadelphia are my favorite places to visit. What I like best about them is that they are open . . . clean looking . . . lots of trees . . . and are just very pretty cities. I like the blend of the old with the new, but I'm mostly intrigued with the lovely surrounding neighborhoods. It's too bad tourists don't make an effort to see the best parts of our cities. They just want to concentrate on the downtown areas and don't bother with the elegant homes and parks that are usually located in the suburbs.

"Take, for instance, Baltimore and Pittsburgh. They have such beautiful sections too," she added.

"I'm a United States girl. Our country is so big and beautiful. I love being in the East when the leaves start changing color and start blowing around. I love the way the ocean rolls in along the coast of Maine. Then there's wonderful California — so different again — there isn't one place that's better than the rest. It's all wonderful.

LIKES SIGHTSEEING
Newport's Ruby Keeler

"I THINK Americans should see America first instead of flying to Europe — seeing what you are supposed to see — being uncomfortable traveling as fast as you can from one city to the other — two days here — three days there. There's no sense to it."

Because she is widowed after 27 years of marriage to John Lowe, she now travels with her sister. They sometimes visit Miss Keeler's mother-in-law in Kennebunk, Maine.

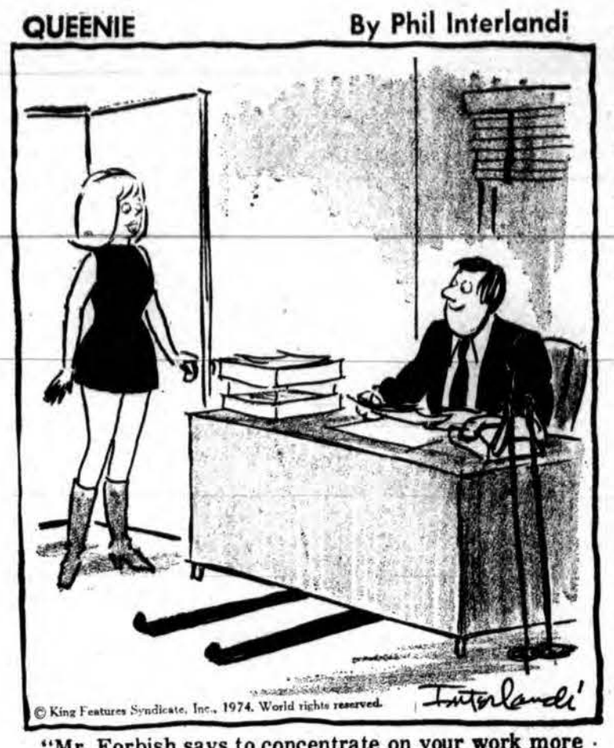
"I'm fond of this little place near the New England coast," she said. "I'm drawn to it somehow. I'm originally from Halifax, Nova Scottia, and I think that sort of scenery gets to me."

"WE GENERALLY fly to where we are going; however, I like the train. It's far more relaxing and scenic. The Metroliner linking Washington and New York is great.

"I've driven cross country. But I don't want to do that again. It's too much push. And when you get on the freeways you don't see a thing.

"Because of business we generally book into a hotel near the theater in which I am working. We save a lot of time this way."

QUEENIE By Phil Interlandi



"Mr. Forbish says to concentrate on your work more and not spend all your time thinking about the weekend."

Wedding Attire Contested

NEW YORK (UPI) — A suit filed in federal court here challenges the constitutionality of New York City's dress code for City Hall weddings, which requires "the bride must wear a dress or skirt and blouse, no slacks. The groom must wear a coat and tie."

" I have not worn a skirt or dress in three years," said Susan Bilton, who is engaged to be married to Walter Lyczkowski.

Lyczkowski said he "does not own a necktie or a suit." They postponed their marriage until the lawsuit is decided.

Another couple joining in the suit, Dr. and Mrs. Desmond Callan, learned of the rule when they were married Nov. 2.

Mrs. Callan said she was required to change from a "tasteful, elegant, dignified, chic and pretty" green velvet pants suit she bought in Paris for the occasion into an "ill-fitting, unmatching skirt."

Owner Arrested

Thieves Market Really Was One

And he proclaimed to the public in leaflets and posters:

"Get super bargains every day. Used items, large and small, arrive daily. Rod the Rat says, 'Our stock of hot new items changes constantly and is on the market mostly at a fraction of wholesale."

HE SOLD everything from saddles to sofas at the Thieves Market. And that's just what the place was, police say.

One day this month, a Tulsa man whose home had been burglarized went to shop at "Thieves Market No. 1" and found some of his stolen property on sale.

Men Prove Needle Point

BY JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Though Rosie Grier has written a book on needlepoint and more and more men are taking up the art, it still causes heads to turn and ears to perk up when a man admits that he has joined the ranks of the stitchers.

Two Orange Coast men, whose styles are as different as their reasons for stitching, love to talk about their avocation and hope it will encourage other men to stop thinking of stitchery as women's work.

Bob Goldman, a retired stockbroker who now lives in Leisure World, does his needlepoint while he watches the stock reports on television.

He had watched his wife, Bunny, do needlepoint for many years, and he himself had hooked so many rugs there wasn't room enough in their Long Island home for them.

NO GOLF

Bunny was making belts for Christmas for their children and she got him started on one during one evening when he was recuperating.

"That got me hooked on needlepoint," Goldman said. "I first did a pillow, by counting, then decided to make something for my doctor. I took a pattern that looked like an eye."

Goldman told his doctor he wanted him to use it for patients who might be skeptical of having similar surgery.

His first major project was a clock. More intricate pillows followed, then a detailed wall hanging. Now, he and his wife are making pillows with animal motifs to be sold for benefit of the Animal Protection Institute.

BANK SHOW

Goldman also has exhibited his work at a Leisure World bank, which stimulated interest.

Both Goldman and his wife believe there is nothing "masculine" or "feminine" about needlepoint. "It's creative," said Bunny. "All creative hobbies are related."

The Goldmans were involved in the Photographic Society of America when they lived in New York and Goldman was president from 1959-1963.

The presidential duties were demanding, Goldman said. "It was almost a full-time job. I was at odds after my term and was looking for something else to do.

"That hobby took us around the world," Bunny added.

OWN DESIGNS

The Goldmans have taken up lapidary at Leisure World and are now thinking about combining stones and needlepoint. "We would like to design our own work," Bunny said.

They also would like to start a needlepoint club for men and women in the Laguna Hills community.

"If Rosie Grier can do it in public, so can I," Goldman laughed.

Bunny reminded him that "the finest tapestries in museums are made by men, and the finest rugs are made by men."

How did Goldman really feel when he picked up the needle for the first time and sat with his wife to stitch?

Not embarrassed. Just "all thumbs."

The design aspect of needlepoint is more interesting to Corona del Mar resident Jack Agcaoili than the creating of the art work with needle and thread.

ART TEACHER

He first approached it as a crafts project at Westminster High School, where he is a department chairman and art instructor.

"My field is design," Agcaoili said. "I started designing needlepoint for myself and other people, and for a shop in La Jolla."

He also displays his work in his antique shop in North Laguna, called "What's Next," and supplies a shop in northern California.

Agcaoili's themes are based on Chinese motifs and antique or folk art designs.

He is a collector of Chinese art and antiques, as a visit to his home will testify.

Some designs are inspired by Chinese export plates, one was from an 18th Century wallpaper pattern, another was from an early American sampler, another could be matched to a Chinese vase.

ORDERLINESS

"I like the organization of needlepoint," he commented, "the placement of each stitch on a line."

Agcaoili does no other handwork. When his students do a stitchery project, "we don't play it up or down."

He does needlework in the evenings to "unwind," but emphasizes that he is mainly interested in designing canvases for others to work to fit a specific decor.

Some are available through his shop, which is open by appointment only and specializes in furniture and accessories made before 1840.

Agcaoili also likes needlepoint because it can be done rapidly and intensely.

He believes there is a renewed interest in needlepoint because people are "trying to find something that is more individual—that they have made.

NEW INTEREST

"There seems to be a whole renaissance in this craft activity.

"There is a relationship between needlepoint and the past. Even young people are antique-conscious. People have lots of leisure time. If this ecology thing keeps on, how are people going to use their time?"

It is now more acceptable for men to do needlepoint, Agcaoili feels, though there "always have been men who do needlepoint in Europe."

To get further inspiration for his designs, Agcaoili hopes to travel back to England and Ireland. He regularly makes pilgrimages to southern Arizona, where there is "a lot of emphasis on folk art," and plans to visit the Pacific Northwest to explore its arts and crafts.

'Sermon' Reminds Of Love

DEAR READERS: This will be a first. I have never before cut my readers in on a three-way correspondence, but today's the day: The following letter was sent to me by my good friend, and a principal psychiatric consultant, Dr. Zigmond Lebensohn of Washington, D.C.

DEAR EPPIE: I every much appreciated your printing my letter on homosexuality and your gracious comments about it.

I have already received several letters as a result of that column and am happy to say that most of them have been laudatory. A few took sharp exception to my statements, however, and I herewith enclose a real lulu, along with my answer. Since you are much better at this sort of thing, I would appreciate any suggestions you might have for dealing with angry mail. Yours — ZIG

Below is the letter to Dr. Lebensohn:

Ann

DEAR DR. LEBENSOHN: Most of the letters published in Ann Landers's column are sickening, but yours on homosexuality was the worst.

Homosexuals are SINNERS. They are society polluters who violate the laws of God. Only spiritual illiterates consider they have an obligation to be more understanding and compassionate toward unrepentant sinners than our Divine Saviour Himself.

Homosexuality is vehemently condemned in the sacred scriptures. Therefore homosexuality cannot be categorized as anything but SIN. — MRS. M.D. OF SEATTLE

Here is Dr. Lebensohn's reply:

DEAR MRS. M.D.: I read your views on homosexuality with great interest. Since I am a physician and a psychiatrist, I do not profess to be an expert at diagnosing "SINNERS." I will leave that to the theologians and to the consciences of the people involved.

I would like to remind you that the sacred scriptures to which you refer also preach the value of understanding, compassion and the love of one's fellow man. It might surprise you to find that some of the men you most admire or whose writing, music and paintings have given you the greatest joy, may have been homosexuals.

I hope you will give this matter some thought and possibly discuss it with some members of the clergy. Sincerely, ZIGMOND M. LEBENSOHN, M.D.

DEAR ZIG: Your letter to Mrs. M. D. was beautiful. You don't need any help from me, or anyone else. Thanks for sharing this correspondence.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How To Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, 222 W. Bank Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Chinese Cuisine Coming

Beyond Motherhood: Answer Sought

By BEA ANDERSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Women who have worked themselves out of their jobs as mothers were offered alternatives for fulfilling their needs.

"Going back to school is not the only answer," claimed Linda Algazi, UCI faculty member and social worker. Part-time employment or high-level volunteer work should be seriously considered as well, she advised.

Ms. Algazi served on a panel with Shirley Lampert, sociologist whose special interests are in social psychology and marriage counseling, and Antoinette Jenkins, a clinical psychologist with emphasis in marriage counseling.

They discussed marriage, A Family and Then What? during a luncheon meeting of Irvine Newcomers in the Balboa Bay Club.

Comparing men in the same age group, Ms. Algazi said that they have been able to progress and most have reached a pinnacle at work.

"On the other hand, women have worked themselves out of a job.

"There is a great need for part-time opportunities," she said, adding, "our biggest problem is to sell ourselves."

RECOGNIZE SKILLS

When returning to the job market, Ms. Algazi advised women to recognize the skills they have learned as a homemaker and to sell these as qualifications.

"You'll have a lot better chance by selling yourself as a super human," she asserted, "than you will if you say, or your attitude says, 'Hire me to save me from my menopause.'"

Panelists agreed that some women find fulfillment in the role of homemaker and cautioned them not to feel guilty. Their advice was "to do what's right for you."

"One of the biggest problems women have," asserted Ms. Jenkins, "is self-identity.

"If a woman chooses the traditional goal of child-rearing, it leaves her unemployed at 40 which brings a dilemma of self-identity."

Other goals, Ms. Jenkins said, which are considered traditional are getting a good husband and being a good wife and mother. "But," she said, "we seldom hear about being a woman.

RESTRICTIONS

"We are always restricted by defining ourselves in terms of someone else. We need to extend our feelings. . . how we relate to ourselves."

Working in charity groups, PTA and so on, Ms. Jenkins said, are accepted activities for women. "However, we are not working for ourselves, but for others. If we have a job, it is considered a job, not a career."

To develop positive ideas of self-identity, she said, we should be aware of ourselves, goals and activities, learn to strive for our own satisfaction and to develop emotions that we are proud of.

"Realistically," Ms. Jenkins said, "we must learn there is a freedom of choice."

Ms. Jenkins advised her audience to retain their own traits and then harmonize and integrate male traits with them and warned, "Don't make role reversals."

NEVER EQUAL

Ms. Lampert claimed that "women will never be equal to men as long as they have children."

In the mother role, women only have their children to interact with, she explained.

On the other hand, she said, men can grow because they interact with their peers, have more time for reading journals and magazines and also continue their education.

However, she said, women can go on to fulfill other needs if they are sexually fulfilled. Unfulfilled sexual needs cause more fear, pain, guilt and insecurity than any physical or mental breakdown, she claimed.

Ms. Lampert blamed sexual hang-ups on Victorian attitudes which foster double standards and myths.

"Where, oh where, do we get sex education?

"But even more important, who will teach your children?

"Marriage counselors, not doctors or schools, are trained to treat sex problems," she said, advising that the best time to see one is before trouble begins.

Your Horoscope Tomorrow

Aquarius: Express Self In Dynamic Manner

TUESDAY
JANUARY 22
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Power, drive and authority become your private trinity. You are able to complete, to leave mark, to utilize natural and best qualities. Another Aries figures prominently. Reach beyond current expectations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good lunar aspect now coincides with journey, learning process, initiative, creativity. You feel at one with yourself. You comprehend situation that was a mystery. Leo, Aquarius persons could be involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emotions tend to dominate. The way you feel takes precedence over the way you think. Know it and don't make long-range commitments. Love and lovers' quarrels dominate. You may cry but you wil feel alive and ultimately happy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't take others, or yourself, too seriously. Forces are scattered and many around you are confused. Sagittarius, Gemini persons may be involved. Decision is due in connection with partnership, legal agreement — or marriage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Now you should be practical. Now you must eschew get-rich quick schemes. Now is time for you to push at steady pace. You are going to be surprised. You also will receive offer which confounds, challenges and makes you review concepts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Analyze. Deduce. Take nothing for granted. Investigate. Applies to all areas, including personal. One who has whispered sweet nothings may be stalling, sparring, bobbing and weaving. Get to heart of matters in meaningful, mature manner.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can be more secure at home, with family. What was a misunderstanding can be tranformed into a strong tie, a bond. Key is diplomacy, some concession and empathy with one who has been under emotional pressure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis is on movement, dialogue, exchanging of ideas. Close relatives, neighbors are featured. Messages, short trips command attention. Development of concepts is keynoted. Important contacts are made — and you will be in position to make the most of them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are repaid. Money comes your way, along with added responsibility. Older individual is in your corner. Past experience pays dividends. What you have to offer is more valuable than might be immediately apparent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are able to appeal to more persons. Cycle remains high — you emerge a winner. You can successfully distribute. Project of importance receives support and will be completed. Aries, Libra persons may be spotlighted.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Area which was obscured will receive benefit of greater light. Be independent. Throw off doubts, fears. Highlight originality, creativity. Leo could play significant role. Express yourself in dynamic, positive manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Accent is on how you use material at hand. You receive encouragement from professional superior. Key is to proceed with confidence. Self-doubt should be tossed aside. Study Aquarius message. Aim toward goal.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, were on your own early and your concepts, ideas are your concepts, ideas are many. This should be a most important year, with September indicated as an outstanding month. You are inventive, stubborn and success-oriented. If single, marriage is on horizon.

Pro Tennis Battle Opens at Mission Viejo

By HANK WESCH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Mission Viejo's Valerie Ziegenfuss gets the spotlight tonight in first round play of the women's professional tennis tournament at the Marguerite Recreation center in Mission Viejo.

Miss Ziegenfuss is scheduled for a 7:30 singles match against Janet Newberry of La Jolla in all likelihood the center-court attraction to complete the first day of play.

The $50,000 tournament got under way this afternoon with six opening round singles matches, and four other singles matches are slated tonight.

Besides the Ziegenfuss-Newberry affair, matchups pitted Kerry Melville of Australia and Isa Fernandez of Colombia and Kathy Kuykendall vs. Helen Gourlay at 6 o'clock and Glynis Coles (England) vs. Betty Stove Netherlands) in another 7:30 match.

The top-seeded players swing into action Tuesday afternoon with second-seeded Billie Jean King and sixth-seeded Francoise Durr the top names. Mrs. King is paired against Tory Fretz of Hollywood at 2:30, and Ms. Durr tangles with Mimi Jausovec at the same time.

Mrs. King returns today to her home territory with an $11,600 start toward what she feels could be her greatest year in tennis.

She won the singles championship in the 1974 pro tennis circuit opener by beating 19-year-old Chris Evert, 7-6, 6-2, Saturday night in San Francisco. Then she teamed with Miss Evert for a victory over Betty Stove and Francoise Durr in the doubles title match.

"We're staying together," Mrs. King said about herself and Miss Evert before the women tennis stars opened the second stop of the tour here with first round matches today.

Mrs. King, who grew up in nearby Long Beach, earned $10,000 for the San Francisco singles title and added $1,600 as her share of the doubles money.

Her strong serve, well-aimed baseline shots and scrambling save shots were impressive in the singles match, but she said later, "I was lucky in that first set."

However, Miss Evert said, "I don't think it was as close as the score made it look." Ms. King, who was behind 0-2 in points in the tie-breaker 13th game, gasped at that statement from her opponent.

"Thank God that God gave me a good pair of wheels," she said, referring to the dash she made to return an Evert lob, helping her win the third point in the crucial game and go on to take five straight points.

TUESDAY (1 p.m.) — Kris Kemmer (San Diego) vs. qualifier No. 5; (2:30 p.m.) — Billie Jean King (Hilton Head, S.C.) vs. Tory Fretz (Hollywood); Francoise Durr (France) vs. qualifier No. 2; (6 p.m.) — Rosemary Casals (San Francisco) vs. Martina Navratilova (Czechoslovakia); doubles match to be drawn today; (7:30 p.m.) Chris Evert (Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.) vs. qualifier No. 4; Wendy Overton (Ormond Beach, Fla.) vs. Nancy Gunter (Lake Livingston, Tex.).

East Nabs Pro Bowl Win On Yepremian's Kicking

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Garo Yepremian, obviously proud but modest, said he "had to come through for the rest of the guys."

Yepremian, the placekicking specialist for the world champion Miami Dolphins, referred to the Pro Bowl record five field goals he booted Sunday in the 15-13 American Football Conference victory over the National Conference.

"The money did not mean anything," Yepremian said. "Most of the extra $500 the winners get goes for taxes anyway."

Yepremian, who almost wasn't available for his fourth and fifth field goals, said that when he went out to try the game-winning 42 yarder with 21 seconds left he mumbled "a little prayer and asked God to help me once more.

"He kept me in there again." After his field goal soon after the second half started, Yepremian was hit hard by Mel Renfro of Dallas. Garo was almost motionless on the ground for long moments and was finally helped from the field.

That 22-yard effort was nullified by a motion penalty against tackle Dave Foley of Buffalo. Yepremian strode back onto the field and kicked the 27-yarder.

"My knee's kind of sore," Yepremian said. "There was pain after each of the kicks after I got hurt, but I'm an athlete, and I can stand pain as much as any athlete."

John Madden of Oakland, the AFC boss, who lost an earlier Pro Bwol coaching assignment, said squaring his record was very much on his mind all during the contest.

Tom Landry of Dallas, the NFC coach, blamed turnovers, of which there were 14 by both clubs in the first half alone, on practicing in San Diego's warm weather and playing in Kansas City in "the combination of moisture and cool air. Our defense played well, but they ran the ball well and we didn't."

Free safety Paul Krause of the Minnesota Vikings also noted the lack of an AFC touchdown in praising the field goal kicking of Garo Yepremian of the Miami Dolphins.

Landry said, "Our defense played well. But they (the AFC) stars ran the ball well and we didn't. "They kept putting it in position for the field goal," he said. "That probably was the biggest factor."

The NFC missed what would have been the margin of victory in the third quarter when Atlanta's Nick Mike-Mayer's 45-yard field goal attempt hit the goal post.

Sports in Brief

Quick Success Pays: Knox Coach of Year

NEW YORK — Chuck Knox, who turned the Los Angeles Rams from losers into divisional champions in one season, was an overwhelming choice as the National Football Conference's 1973 coach of the year in a vote of the Pro Football Writers of America, it was announced today.

Knox, in his first season as coach, guided the Rams to a 12-2 record, as good as any team in pro football, and the NFC's West Division championship. In 1972, the Rams had failed to make the playoffs with a 6-7-1 record.

● Coach Named

Crum, 39, becomes the first non-Miami graduate since Woody Hayes to be named to the head coaching post.

● Kings Lose

BOSTON — Defenseman Carol Vadnais and winger Ken Hodge scored two goals apiece Sunday night and the Boston Bruins trounced the Los Angeles Kings 5 to 2, running their National Hockey League home record to 20-2-1 for the season.

● Connors Wins

ROANOKE, Va. — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors defeated fourth-ranked Karl Meiler of Germany, 6-4, 6-3, Sunday and won the singles championship of the Roanoke Invitational tennis tournament.

It was the third time Connors has won the tourney in the three years it has been held. His victory Sunday earned him $5,000.

● Goolagong Tops

AUCKLAND, New Zealand - Australian star Evonne Goolagong won the women's singles title in the New Zealand hardcourt tennis championship Sunday, defeating Peggy Michel of Pacific Palisades, 6-4, 6-4.

In the men's singles final, John Lloyd easily defeated Mark Farrel 6-2, 6-4. Both are from Great Britain.

Soccer Fans Riot in Italy

CATANZARO, Italy (AP) — Soccer fans protesting what they considered one-sided refereeing rioted following the Palermo-Catanzaro soccer game Sunday, tearing down the doors of the stadium and breaking windows.

Police had to use tear gas to disperse the rioters. Seven policemen were injured, none seriously. Police said 10 persons were taken into custody.

Over 100 fans poured from the stands and attempted to storm the referee, Luciano Benedetti, when the game ended in a 0-0 tie, claiming Benedetti had overlooked two fouls in the Palermo penalty area.

Claims Wooden

Maryland Better Than Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND (AP) — UCLA Coach John Wooden, his team's 88-game winning streak having been broken by Notre Dame, has sounded a warning to the Fighting Irish for this week's rematch at Los Angeles.

"Obviously, Bill — two-time All-American Bill Walton — wasn't as mobile as he was in the past," Wooden said Saturday after the second-ranked Fighting Irish had stunned the topranked Bruins 71-70. "I'm sure he will be next week. He was reluctant to take his crossover hook shot and his injury hurt his board play."

The 63-year-old UCLA coach, whose 26 Bruin teams have won 566 games and lost 140, added, "I think you are going to get a better measure of this game next Saturday. If they win there, you've got to say, 'They're a better ball club.'

"If we don't have to struggle to win at home, then I'll have to feel that UCLA would be better on a neutral court.

"If the two teams do meet for the third time this season on a neutral court, it almost certainly would be in the NCAA tournament."

About the national ratings, Wooden said UCLA was no longer No. 1, but added, "I would vote for Notre Dame as No. 1 this week, but I think Maryland is a better team."

Referring to his team's 65-64 home court victory over Maryland, Wooden said, "They came from far behind on the road, which I think Phelps would agree is harder. I think Maryland is stronger on the boards than Notre Dame."

The Bruins, now 13-1 this season play at home Friday night against Santa Clara, while Notre Dame, 10-0, plays Tuesday night at home against St. Francis, Pa. before leaving for Los Angeles.

Clay's shot and the ensuing victory caused 11,343 Notre Dame partisan fans to make the Athletic and Convocation Center into a wild scene for about 20 minutes.

Players were mobbed, coaches were manhandled and the press row was picked clean of "souvenirs" in a celebration reminiscent of the scene Jan. 23, 1971, when UCLA last lost a game.

After its national record 88 straight victories, the first loss in three years came on the same floor as the last for the Bruins, winners of seven straight NCAA titles and nine of the last 10.

It was Notre Dame's day, despite the return of the 6-11 Walton, who had missed three games because of back and rib injuries. Walton played the entire 40 minutes and hit 12 of 15 shots from the floor for 24 points, but had only nine rebounds.

Notre Dame coach Dick "Digger" Phelps said, "We have great respect for UCLA. Now we have to go out there, and I told my kids they'd better be ready; it'll be tough."

JOHNNY MILLER, MR. UNBEATABLE.

Invincible Miller Chalks Up Another

TUCSON (AP) — Johnny Miller did it again. The skinny blond held off the closing challenge of Ben Crenshaw Sunday and scored a record-breaking third consecutive victory in the Tucson Open golf tournament.

Miller finished with a four-under-par 68, faltering at the end, and had a 72-hole total of 272, 76 under par on the 7,305-yard Tucson National Country Club course. His winning margin was three strokes.

The victory, following triumphs in the Bing Crosby and the Phoenix Open, made him the first player in history to sweep the first three tournaments of the year on the pro golf tour. And he's the first since Arnold Palmer in 1962 to win any three consecutive American triumphs.

But Miller's streak — probably the most spectacular since Lee Trevino swept the American, Canadian and British Opens in 1971 — will end here.

He's taking a week away from the tour to nurse a heavy, nagging cold that cut 15 yards off his length from the tee and had him all but conceding to Crenshaw.

"I felt I was fighting an uphill battle," said the unbeaten Miller in a voice barely louder than a whisper. His voice was flat and calm, drained of any emotion.

"I didn't think I could handle his action," he said, nodding toward Crenshaw.

"I got lucky. I made some putts and he didn't. That was the difference. I got off to that great start. I birdied the first three holes. If I'd gone par-par-par you can bet your bottom dollar I wouldn't have won."

Jabbar's Late Volleys Hand Lakers Defeat

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers had the Milwaukee Bucks reeling Sunday, only to be done in by the last two volleys of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's most devastating assault of the National Basketball Association season.

Abdul-Jabbar poured in a season high 39 points, including a tipin and jump shot in the last minute and a half, to salvage a 94-90 victory for the Bucks before a national television audience.

The Lakers, down by 10 points with eight minutes left, had rallied behind reserve Mel Counts and pulled into a 90-90 tie on a three-point play by Connie Hawkins with 1:45 left.

"We caught the rest of their team on an off day shooting, but Jabbar was really outstanding and made the difference down the stretch," Los Angeles coach Bill Sharman said. "Look at what he did. Thirty-nine points, 22 rebounds, five assists and three blocked shots. You can't ask for more than that."

Reserve guard Ron Williams, one of the few Bucks whose outside shooting was up to standards, said setting up Abdul-Jabbar for 32 shots was by design.

"We wanted to go inside because once you established an inside game, the outside shots come much easier," Williams said. "If they collapse on Kareem and he can't shoot, he can punch it back out and you get a lot of 15-footers that way."

Gail Goodrich kept the Lakers in the game with 29 points, but their other starting guard, Jim Price, sank only four of 17 shots. Jerry West hit only one of seven shots in 19 minutes, the brilliant veteran's second contest since a groin injury had sidelined him for 16 games.

'71 Hero Carr's Views on Game

When Notre Dame beat UCLA on Jan. 23, 1971, Austin Carr and Henry Bibby expressed their emotions on the basketball court.

However, when the Irish finally put an end to the Bruins' 88-game winning streak Saturday, 71-70, Carr and Bibby, now both National Basketball Association players, found themselves camped in front of television sets hundreds of miles away from South Bend rooting on their favorite team.

"Oh, yeah, did I watch that game," said Carr, who was the catalyst that felled the Bruins 89-82. He scored 46 points to hand the Bruins their first non-league loss in 48 straight games.

"The team that beat UCLA Saturday and the one I played on are basically the same," said Carr. "Maybe this team plays more control-type ball using their inside strength whereas we played more of a running type of game."

Carr, a senior and captain on the 1970-71 squad coached by Johnny Dee, warned however that the Irish could not expect to play like they did at South Bend and win again at Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles this Saturday.

"It's going to be tough out there," he said. "They can't afford to get off to a slow start like they did Saturday."

100-point Game

Awesome Start For Vikes Frosh

By HANK WESCH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Future foes of Marina High School basketball please take note—your problems appear to be monumental.

That Marina is becoming a well of basketball talent is generally conceded by even staunch rivals, and that well it apparently a deep one. Especially in light of a recent 104-26 victory by the Marina freshman team over Anaheim in a Sunset League game.

The Vikings frosh left Anaheim in a state of shock in the game after amassing the following statistics:

—Scoring an average of three points a minute for the 32-minute game and stunning the Colonists by outscoring them 36-10 in the first quarter and 30-0 in the second period.

—Cashing in 50 percent of their field goal attempts (41 of 82) and 69 percent from the free throw line (22 of 32) while Anaheim shot only 17 percent (six of 26).

—Doing it all without the services of one regular starter, who was out with an illness, and using reserves exclusively in the second half.

It was a performance ,that impressed everyone with one exception, Vikings coach Ray Allen.

"I've really been more impressed by this team in other games," Allen says. "Our opponents didn't play that well early in the games, and once we got rolling everything went right.

"I was happier for the team when it beat Newport 78-77 without four of the first five starters for most of the game."

In what is starting to become a Marina trademark the Vikings freshman team wins with balanced scoring, a fast-break offense and pressing tactics.

All five starters average nearly 10 points per game, and the reserves who see a lot of action, average nearly four apiece as a group.

The starters include 6-3 Terry Warren (13.2 points per game average), 5-10 guard Jeff Wolfe (12.8), 5-9 guard Rick Puig (10.2), 5-11 forward Manny Torres (9.3) and 6-2 guard-forward Chuck Spade (9.0).

The team's balance was particularly evident in the Anaheim win. Puig and Warren scored 17 points each to pace the starters with Wolfe scoring 15. From the other players, the scoring breakdown showed Richard Harlow and Dave Gibbs with nine each, Torres and Brent Kosick with six each, Jim Dougherty with 5 and a quintet of Spade, Todd King, Charlie Koeller, Perry Bogdan and Glenn Leckie with four each.

Similar scoring balance all season has allowed the Vikings freshmen to win nine of 11 games and average 72 points per contest against 48 per game for the opposition. The two losses came to Fountain Valley (66-59) and to La Mirada in tournament championship games.

Allen, who once coached a Marina freshman team to a 20-0 record, says the Vikings will be a team to reckon with in coming years, but is hesitant about dishing out too many superlatives.

"This team is the best scoring freshman team I've ever seen, but they don't have the overall speed and defense of the 20-0 team I coached," says Allen.

"We've won our first two league games, but I know there are several good teams in the league, and I wouldn't venture to say who will be the team to beat."

It's quite likely they wouldn't be so hesitant to answer that question at Anaheim.

Yet the young Ohio State graduate feels there is too much money being offered, especially for the top two places in each tournament.

Weiskopf stopped by La Costa Country Club last Monday and expressed his views on the subject of golf.

"I personally think we play for too much money right now. When I say this, I mean $500,000 for one tournament and 20 percent of the total purse is far too much for first place."

HOWARD HANDY

Another point Weiskopf feels strongly about is the designated tournament situation that the PGA is gradually putting into vogue.

"I think it is unfair to say you have to play this week. Suppose my best friend is getting married and I want to attend the wedding.

"Instead, the PGA says I have to play in a tournament and must skip the wedding.

"I think there will be cases where favoritism will be shown.

"Golfers are very spoiled and selfish people. We play for so much money. But if a guy doesn't feel like playing, I think it is the worst thing they can do to tell him he has to play.

"How do you think they feel in Memphis this year? They are right between two designated tournaments and how many of the players who have to play in the designated events do you think will play in Memphis?"

Weiskopf is also cognizant of the high attrition rate on the pro tour.

"When I started in 1965, there were 39 rookies. Only Homero Blancas and myself remain. That's 37 leaving for club pro jobs or other endeavors in six years."

Weiskopf says it costs about $25,000 a year for a pro on the circuit to live. This includes maintaining a home base and expenses while traveling.

"I'm not against sponsors," Weiskopf says. "I have never had one but a lot of young guys out there are killing time because of the sponsors paying the bills."

He also feels the tour is too long and would be better off to start late in January and end in mid-October.

"Golf has been great to me and it has given me a chance to visit many foreign countries. I get a lot of satisfaction out of a fifth place finish. The hardest thing in the world to do is to win."

UC Irvine's gain is Philadelphia's loss. First baseman Jeff Malinoff, taken by the Phillies in the recent free agent draft, will remain in school this spring to complete his final year of collegiate competition.

"I didn't get what I was after but that doesn't disappoint me at all," Jeff says. "I really like it here at UCI and want to finish school.

"Mr. (Al) Zarilla talked to me and was very fair but his offer wasn't what I wanted so I'll remain in school this year," the young left-hander adds.

Zarilla is the Phillies scout in this area and this is the second time he has talked with Malinoff about signing. Maybe the third time will be the charm come June when Jeff graduates.

MD's McCaughey Leads by Example

By STEVE BRAND
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Ireland may have lost its best basketball prospect 14 years ago when Brian McCaughey moved his family, including son Brendon, to the United States.

Ireland's loss is Mater Dei High's gain.

"Brendon is one of the best pure shooters we've ever had, maybe the best," says Mater Dei basketball coach Jerry Tardie of the Costa Mesa resident.

"He's a co-captain and leads by example. He doesn't talk much, but when he does, the players listen.

"I really didn't expect this team to be 12-4 right now but the play of Brendon has helped make this club a winner."

McCaughey is accurate from 20 feet but prefers 15-20 foot shots.

"I think I shoot best from the corner," says McCaughey, "but I like to shoot from the top of the key, too. From the top of the key I can follow my shots better and rebound."

McCaughey, at just 6-2, is the team's top rebounder as well as its leading scorer at 15.8 points a game. His best game this year scoring-wise came against Savanna in the Anaheim Tournament when he hit 27.

"One of Brendon's greatest assests is his basketball disposition," says Tardie. "In addition to being a good shooter and rebounder, he knows how to shake off a missed shot or bad play.

"Some kids brood and it bothers them for another five minutes. Brendon is ready to play almost immediately.

"He knows how to handle criticism and praise. I guess you could sum up his major strength by saying he's a winner."

If McCaughey's parents hadn't moved to the United States he'd probably be playing soccer. His father is the coach of the Coast Rangers semi-pro soccer team.

"My dad wanted me to play soccer," admits McCaughey, "but I didn't like it. All you do is kick the ball. I prefer to just go out and shoot."

St. John the Baptist School is right across the street from his home and he spends many hours practicing on the asphalt courts.

He says his decision to attend Mater Dei, instead of Costa Mesa High, was made early.

"I played in a tournament here in the eighth grade and saw enough games when I was still in junior high to know I wanted to go here," says McCaughey.

"It wasn't a major decision."

Riverside 500 Reset

RIVERSIDE — Rain interrupted the Winston Western 500 after 156 miles Sunday, causing the first major stock car race of the season to be postponed until Saturday.

Rain began to pepper the nine-turn, 2.62 - mile Riverside International Raceway while Chevrolet-driving Bobby Allison was leading the pack in the 60th lap.

The yellow caution flag came out to slow the field, and was followed three laps later by a red flag which halted proceedings.

The 29 survivors from an original starting field of 35 pulled their gaudily - painted cars to pit road, where they sat for more than three hours before track officials informed the 44,500 spectators that there would be a delay of six days before the restart.

BOAT TALK—by Capt. Bob

SAVE YOUR ENERGY GO BOATING

There has been a lot of misinformation and confusion regarding the use of fuel for recreational boating during the current "energy crunch." Before you rush out and put your boat on blocks, take just a few minutes to separate these FACTS from FICTION.

FACT! Although boating is America's number one family recreation sport, all of the pleasure boats in the U.S. consume only 1/2 of 1 per cent of the fuel used nationally. At the same time, recreational boating is a clean, healthful, family activity enjoyed by 40 million middle income Americans.

FACT! Recreational boating is a $4 billion industry directly employing 500,000 persons, plus providing important support for thousands of other firms. No responsible government could conceivably think of seriously damaging an industry that has such a profound impact on our nation's economy and people.

FACT! By far, the overwhelming percentage of recreation boats in the U.S. are small (average 16 feet) with low horsepower engines (40 per cent under 20 horsepower)—NOT the large luxury yachts featured in fiction.

FACT! When you spend the day boating with your family, you probably are using LESS energy than if you stayed at home. You're saving energy because you're not running several TV's or hi-fi's. The air conditioning or heat can be turned off. You're not burning lights. Your wife is not using the range, hair dryer, vacuum cleaner, or other energy consuming appliances. You're also not burning up fuel in your car shopping, visiting friends—or fuming in a freeway traffic jam.

FACT! Boating is a close-at-home sport for Southern Californians. You are just a short fuel-easy drive to many excellent water recreation areas.

FINAL FACT! Boating is important to millions of Americans. And to America. It is a healthy way for you and your family to get away from it all—and get together. On top of all this, boating can actually help you SAVE ENERGY. Think about it.

For a free guide to boating in California waters or any question you may have about boats or boating—see your SCMA dealer, or write or call—

New Class Scheduled

"California Geology" is being offered at Coast College evening schedule this spring for the first time.

It is a three-unit class that will meet Tuesday evenings from 7-10 p.m. in the OCC Science Building. The course will look at geologic framework and factors which have influenced California's human history. It will examine the interrelationships of geology with agriculture, transportation, construction, mining, the oil and gas industry, recreation, and public welfare.

'Parole' Explores Prison Systems

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Wonder of wonders, someone's finally come up with an intelligent, no-nonsense TV study of men bhind bars. It's called "Parole," is on public TV tonight at 8 on Channel 28 and you ought to see it.

Granted, these things usually are a drag. They either treat the inmate as some sort of weird bug, or blabber endlessly on to the effect that most cons are the victims of society.

T'AINT SO with "Parole," produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and filmed at the Washington State Penitentiary near Walla Walla. Its approach is far more precise and revealing.

It zeroes in on parole board hearings for two convicts, one a 24-year-old logger in for burglary and two parole violations, the other a 42-year-old carpenter doing life for helping kidnap the young son of a wealthy businessman and asking $45,000 ransom.

The show poses three basic questions. When is a convict ready for parole? What happens to him if it's denied and he stays in prison? What factors weigh in the calculated gamble of parole?

THE MAKERS OF "Parole" draw no conclusions. They let viewers make up their own minds. Necessary background is included in a minimum of narration by E.G. Marshall.

But reporter-producer William H. Willson has the wisdom to let his subjects speak for themselves — the convicts, those in the parole process, a guard or two, a sheriff and, very importantly, the father of the youth who was kidnaped and released unharmed.

The most gripping part of the show is its study of the kidnaper, Telford Baker, in prison eight years for committing what the show calls his "first and only crime."

HE'S IN FOR life, but can be freed. The minimum mandatory sentence is 13 years and four months, but can be waived. The catch: Six of the parole board's seven members have to waive it.

Baker, who comes across as an essentially decent man, lives only for the waiver of that "mandatory," to go free, to go back to his work, to try picking up the threads of his ilfe.

He only gets one try a year for parole. On his first try last year the vote was 5-2.

HE NOW FACES two board members, one an ex-cop with a background in juvenile probation, the other a man with experience in social work and juvenile corrections.

It may startle you to learn who takes the harder line in reviewing Baker's history since his last hearing — and what the additional year behind bars has done to the man.

Neither prisoner in "Parole" is what I'd call a hard-core criminal, herewith defined as a guy who for various reasons tries to make a living at crime between stays in the slammer.

'Waltons' Fought Big City Tastes

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The video ratings indicate there are definitely some major differences in taste between the grassroots audience and televiewers in New York City and Los Angeles.

Statistical figures for two series in particular, CBS-TV's "The Waltons" and NBC-TV's Walt Disney Hour, offer proof of this point.

Neither show, for instance, is a major weekly ratings hit in New York, but both are big successes in the national rankings.

"The Waltons" never would have become the smash that it is without the backing of the grassroots audience. Los Angeles gives the series good ratings now, but it didn't while the show was struggling to get established.

THIS WAS a show that really made it the hard way. It started off well down in the rankings, in large part because it was a head-on competitor of a highly popular variety series, the Flip Wilson program.

Early ratings for "The Waltons" in New York and Los Angeles were disastrous.

Then the show steadily began to move up in the statistical competition. Still, New York wasn't buying it, and Los Angeles was not going overboard for it either.

Yet the phenomenal rise of "The Waltons" continued, and now it regularly finishes among video's highest-ranked programs. So spectacularly has it triumphed that it has simply demolished the Wilson series in their head-on statistical battle.

THE NEW YORK ratings for the "The Waltons" have improved, but the show would probably be canceled if CBS made a programming decision based solely on these figures. Los Angeles now is close to the national statistics for the series.

As for the weekly Disney program, it, too, might be a candidate for cancellation if NBC made a schedule decision based strictly on the New York ratings. But the grassroots audience makes this series a powerhouse entry. Los Angeles statistics are relatively consistent with the national figures.

One of the revelations of the ratings is that there is clearly no overriding correlation between sophisticated programs and the big-city audiences of New York or Los Angeles.

Sprague Captures Trophy

Henry Sprague III of Newport Harbor Yacht Club was the winner of the Barney Lehman Trophy, symbolic of the championship of the Lehman-12 Class.

FINAL FIVE races of the championship series was sailed on Saturday following a postponement from December.

Runnerup in the championship flight was Dave Ullman of Balboa Yacht Club and Peter Parker, NHYC, was third.

Arthur Strock of NHYC was the winner in the Commodore's Flight for the consolation prize. Tom Summers, NHYC, was second and Hartley Turpin, Bahia Corinthian YC was third.

ON SUNDAY the Lehman-12s sailed for the Corkett Trophy. The winner was Chris Colby, NHYC. Second was Dave Ullman, BYC and Barton Beek, NHYC, was third.

Also on Sunday, the Finn Class sailed for the Inslee Trophy. The winner was John McClure, NHYC; Bob Kettenhofen, BYC, was second and Phil Ramming, NHYC, was third.

Area Boats Edged Out In Florida

Ted Turner's Robin from Atlanta, Ga. was the overall winner of the North American One Ton Championship at St. Petersburg, Fla. Sunday with two local boats in runner-up and third place positions.

Second in the series was George Tooby's Ranger-33 America Jane from Newport Harbor Yacht Club, and third was Al Cassel's Terrorist, Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club.

The series consisted of four races, two short day races and two of more than 100 miles.

Midwinter Regatta Scheduled

Southern California Yachting Association's 45th annual Midwinter Regatta will be held Feb. 16, 17, and 18, according to SCYA Commodore Barry Labow.

The giant regatta, which usually draws over 1,000 entries will be spread over a wide area from Newport Beach to Santa Monica Bay with 13 yacht clubs acting as hosts to the numerous classes.

Local races will be supervised by Newport Harbor Yacht Club, Lido Isle Yacht Club, Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club and Balboa Yacht Club. Classes racing on local courses include Naples Sabot, A, B, C, and Senior, Flipper, Lehman-12, Metcalf and Kite (racing out of NHYC and LIYC and Rhodes-33, Etchells-22, Schooners, Ketches, yawls, Clippers and wooden hulls, Eendeavor and Rhodes 19 (racing from BCYC and BYC).

Only Los Angeles Yacht Club will conduct races all three days for the large-boat classes, the One Tons and Shields. All other clubs will hold races on Saturday and Sunday only.

Australian Victorious

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Southern Cross IV, skippered by Norman Booth of Australia, was confirmed winner of the World 5.5 Meter Yacht Championship Friday after the seventh heat was cancelled because of rough seas and strong winds.

Crown Prince Harald of Norway was runnerup in the Sydnev Five Skagerrak. With the cancellation of the seventh heat the series was decided on six heats with worst performances discarded. Southern Cross IV finished the series with a loss of six points, counting three wins and two seconds and discarding a fifth.

Cup Challenger

This is the first sailing shot of Australis, Australia's new aluminum 12-meter which will be out to wrest the U.S. stranglehold on the America's Cup next September. Australis has been her trial horse and previous America's Cup Challenger, Gretel II in first two races.

Boat Show Belies Fears of Crisis

The energy crisis shows no indication of dampening the enthusiasm of sailors if the upcoming Long Beach Sailboat Show is a barometer. The show is scheduled Feb. 15-24 at the Long Beach Arena.

According to officials of the sponsoring Southern California Marine Association, the 1974 show promises to be larger than ever as space is already sold out to sailboat manufacturers and marine hardware makers.

AMONG THE sailboat models which will be exhibiting are Westsail-32, Flicka-20, 26, Chrysler Mutineer catamaran, Sol Cat, Cal-35 cruising boat, Clipper Quarter Ton, and International Boats' Tornado Cat.

Also Coastal Recreation's La Paz-25 motorsailer, Snark dinghies, Pleasure Concept's catamaran, Tazer of Canada, Charest ferro-cement boats, Coast Catamaran's 12-foot monocat, Ventura Cat, GF Marine's mono-hull, and the WestWite Potter.

THE SHOW will represent a who's who of the sailboat industry. Other makers who will be exhibiting include Alger West, AMF Alcort, Capital, Challenger, Catalina, Capri, Erickson, Islander, Janus, Lancraft, Lakesport, Melen, Midship, Montgomery, Morgan, Performance, Port Royal, Ranger, Schock, Scampi, Shakespeare, Surfglas, Sidney, Vanguard, Varalyay and Windsurfer.

One of the highlights of the show will be a nightly lecture series spotlighting some of the more important figures in the sailing world talking on subjects of interest to sailors. There will also be a movie theater showing outstanding sailing films.

10-meters Will Race Next Month

Owners of 10-meter yachts are invited to participate in a special weekend of match racing on the weekend of Feb. 2-3 sponsored by Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club.

The series will be the ordinary match-race format in which each boat will race against every other at least once. The races will be sailed in the ocean off Newport Beach, using the course chart of the Association of Newport Harbor Yacht Clbs.

The warning cone will be at 12 o'clock each day. There will be a skippers' meeting at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the BCYC clubhouse. If unable to attend, skippers are asked to call in for pairings and instructions.

Ten-meter skippers have also been asked to race as a class in BCYC's Valentine Regatta, Feb. 9-10, and in the Southern California Yachting Association Midwinter Regatta Feb. 16-17.

Fog Masks Dana Finish

Fog on Saturday aborted the finish of Dana Point Yacht Club's Winter Regatta for the Performance Handicap Racing Fleet.

There were two finishers in the Excalibur race, which started ahead of the PHRF. Winner in the Excalibur Class was Flint Smith's Husky, Balboa Yacht Club, and Eres Tu, Keith Dinsmoor, BYC was second.

Junior Seminar Planned

Alamitos Bay Yacht Club, Long Beach, and Sea Magazine will co-sponsor a junior sailing seminar Saturday and Sunday, April 9-21. The program is open to any junior sailor who owns a recognized North American Yacht Racing Union yacht club.

The instructional staff has designed a program to allow for morning lectures and films and as much sailing as possible. Lectures will cover match racing, fleet racing, starting tactics and small boat tuning.

The seminar will be under the guidance of Henry Sprague III, Bob Burns, Nancy Hargreaves, Andy Rose, Bob Kettenhofen and Ken Weiss.

There will be take-home trophies for first and second places in fleet and match racing. The Sea Seminar take-home trophy will be awarded to the participant who by his outstanding performance has demonstrated his overall excellence in seamanship and racing techniques.

Touch-up Expensive

LONDON (UPI) — The British navy has flown 80 gallons of royal blue paint to Auckland, N.Z., to touch up the hull of the royal yacht Britannia, a ministry of defense spokesman said today. The move carried a royal price tag.

The cost of the flight by commercial jet ran to $4,905, which made each gallon of the paint worth $612.80.

A ministry spokesman said the paint had to be purchased in England because it contained a special chemical preparation unavailable in New Zealand.

The yacht sailed to Auckland to be used by the royal family when they attend the Commonwealth Games in Christchurch later this month.

PUBLIC NOTICE

COSTA MESA SANITARY DISTRICT
ORANGE COUNTY, CALIFORNIA
NOTICE INVITING BIDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk on behalf of the Costa Mesa Sanitary District, at her office in the City Hall, 77 Fair Drive, Costa Mesa, California, until the hour of 11:00 a.m. on the 4th day of February 1974 at which time they will be opened publicly and read aloud in the Council Chambers for furnishing all labor and materials for the construction of a sanitary sewer main in Wilson Street from Harbor Blvd. to Placentia Ave.

A set of plans, specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Director of Public Services, Room 417, in the City Hall upon payment of Five Dollars ($5.00). An additional charge of one dollar ($1.00) will be made if handled by mail.

Each bid shall be made on the proposal form and in the manner provided in the contract documents, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or a bid bond for not less than ten percent (10%) of the amount of the bid, made payable to the Costa Mesa Sanitary Dist.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the Board of Directors of the Costa Mesa Sanitary District has heretofore established a prevailing rate and scale of wages in accordance with law, to be paid in the construction of the above entitled improvements. That said rate and scale was adopted by the Board of Directors by Resolution No. 73-261 on the 3rd day of January, 1973 and is on file in the office of the Assistant Secretary, 77 Fair Drive, Costa Mesa. That said rate and scale is herein referred to and adopted in this notice as though fully and completely set forth herein, and that said scale, as adopted by said resolution is made a part of this notice by reference.

The contractor shall in the performance of the work and improvements conform to the Labor Code of the State of California and other laws of said State, applicable thereto, with the exception only of such variations as may be required under the special statutes pursuant to which proceedings hereunder are taken and which have not been superseded by the provisions of the Labor Code. Preference to labor shall be given only in the manner provided by law.

The contractor shall use only unmanufactured materials produced in the United States and only manufactured materials manufactured in the United States, substantially all from materials produced in the United States, in the performance of the contract.

No bid shall be considered unless it is made on a blank form furnished by the Costa Mesa Sanitary District and is made in accordance with the provisions of the proposal requirements.

Each bidder must be licensed and also prequalified as required by law.

The Board of Directors of the Costa Mesa Sanitary District reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Governor Throwing Reception

From Wire Services

There will be standing room only Wednesday night at a party in the new Indiana governor's mansion.

The invitation from Gov and Mrs. Otis R. Bowen reads:

"We're having a 'bare walls' reception . . . Won't you please join us . . . so we can show you the 'before' of the residence and hopefully some of our plans for it."

Pentagon Spying? Tsk Tsk

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reports of Pentagon spying on the White House have caused a great deal of eyebrow-raising and tsk-tsking here.

These expressions of astonishment or consternation came mostly from persons who don't understand the situation. So I shall endeavor to put the incident in proper perspective.

FIRST OF ALL, the Pentagon had good and valid reason for wanting to keep tabs on the activities of Henry Kissinger when our farflung secretary of State was serving as President Nixon's national security adviser.

LIGHTER SIDE

At the time of the alleged spying (mid-1971), Kissinger was engaged in negotiations that could have resulted in outbreaks of peace in several places.

Obviously, information relating to the talks was of vital interest to the Pentagon.

SUPPOSE, FOR example, that Kissinger put through an agreement to end the fighting in Cambodia. And suppose the Pentagon, unaware of the arrangement, continued the Cambodian bombing.

A faux pas of that sort would amount to an admission that U.S. military intelligence was deficient or defective.

Well, you may ask, why couldn't the Pentagon have gone through official channels to obtain the information that was leaked from the National Security Council?

ACCORDING TO C. Howard Tiddlehook, author of the book "I Was A Spy for the American Battle Monuments Commission.." Most federal agencies maintain intelligent-gathering apparatuses in other agencies.

"Many federal agencies don't know what they are doing," Tiddlehook explains.

"So agency A will spy on Agency B, hoping to learn what Agency B has learned from spying on Agency A. Through this process, Agency A keeps itself inofrmed about its own operations."

G. GORDON Deadwright, author of "The spy Who Came in From the Railroad Retirement Board," is even more to the point.

"Government agencies aren't necessarily hiding things from each other," he writes. "But when they communicate through channels, the information is transmitted by inter-office memos, which are tedious to read and must be initialed by at least six other bureaucrats, usually in triplicate.

"Furthermore, the memos frequently become buried in somebody's 'in' basket, causing inordinate time lags.

In the circumstances, one can readily see why the Pentagon officials might have tried to sneak a peek at some of Kissinger's papers.

Rawls Thinking 'Country'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Lou Rawls has a style described as jazz, blues, rock, pop, folk and soul. Lately, he has been thinking about adding country to that lineup.

"Country music is nothing but an extension of the blues," said Rawls. "My main line is blues, but I don't want to limit myself to that."

RAWLS HAS a lot in common with the country sound. The songs he sings are laments. His themes are hard times and strife, as black people know them. Country songs, he said, storify the same themes for whites.

"Black people aren't really into country music, except perhaps in the South." he said. "Blacks in the South have been consistently exposed to the country sound. They can relate, just as the whites do, to the stories and the songs."

RAWLS DOESN'T believe race would be a barrier if he decides to do country.

"Race hasn't been a barrier for a long time in music," he said. "Charlie Pride is the only black who has really made it big in the country field, but that's only because there aren't many blacks who seriously consider going into country."

NAME in the NEWS

Recently, Rawls teamed with Lynn Anderson in a network television show for a country duet.

"I WAS thinking, perhaps, if I could find a black female country singer, I might try an album of duets with her," he said. The trouble is there aren't any black Lynn Andersons. Still, if I could find the girl, I think that would be a gas."

Rawls grew up in Chicago, singing gospel in church choirs. He toured with the Pilgrim Travelers, a male gospel group, before joining the Army.

In the Army, Rawls sang in service clubs, and after his release, began singing in small Midwest night clubs. In 1959, he moved to Los Angeles and made his first major appearance in the Hollywood Bowl with Dick Clark.

HIS SONG "Natural Man" sold millions and earned him a Grammy award for best male performance in 1972, his second. His first was in 1967 for "Dead End Street," which won for best rhythm and blues single.

Rawls is absorbed by his music.

"Music is not just a part of my life, it is my life," he said.

But his career cost him his marriage, which ended in divorce a year ago.

"I SPEND 35 to 40 weeks a year on the road," he said. "I know it took a toll on my marriage."

He says he has his son, 9, and daughter, 5, with him "sometimes, when they're out of school."

NOTICE TO EDISON CUSTOMERS:

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION ORDERS FURTHER CUTS IN USE OF ELECTRICITY.

Your efforts are helping to save electricity and oil. In December, reduced electric consumption saved the equivalent of about one-half million barrels of fuel oil in Edison generating plants alone.

But now there is a need for even greater conservation. Therefore, the State Public Utilities Commission has ordered an additional 5% reduction in the use of electricity over the original 10% curtailment that it ordered in November.

This means that the Commission is now asking us (and other electric utilities throughout the state) to urge you to cut back a total of 15%.

Immediate Action Urged

The order calls for additional, voluntary conservation efforts by all Edison customers to achieve this 15% reduction in electric usage.

Mandatory Curtailment

The order also requires certain mandatory reductions for commercial and industrial customers, and a few mandatory cutbacks for residential customers. The elimination of outdoor decorative lighting and the operation of fountains applies to residential as well as all other customers. However, commercial and industrial customers are also restricted in their use of advertising lighting, functional outdoor lighting, electricity used for public gatherings, indoor business lighting, and heating and cooling at variance from prescribed levels. Detailed suggestions to help business firms and factories meet the mandatory restrictions will be mailed to them.

How to Measure Electricity

Electricity is measured in kilowatt-hours (KWH). A KWH is 1,000 watts of electricity used for one hour—or 100 watts used for 10 hours. For example, a 100-watt bulb burned for 10 hours is one KWH.

Last year our average residential customer used about 500 kilowatt-hours a month. That's about 17 KWH a day. So, to cut back 15% would mean using about 2-1/2 KWH less a day.

ENERGY USED TO OPERATE TYPICAL APPLIANCES (KWH = Kilowatt-hour)

Remember, one kilowatt-hour is 1,000 watts of electricity used for one hour, or 100 watts—such as a 100-watt light bulb—used for 10 hours.

100-watt light bulb	1/10 KWH per hour	Range (Electric)	1 KWH per meal
40-watt light bulb	1/25 KWH per hour	Microwave Oven	1-1/3 KWH per hour
Clothes Dryer (Electric)	3-1/3 KWH per load	Room Air Conditioner (Summer Season)	1-1/2 KWH per hour
Clothes Washer	1/3 KWH per load	Television—Black & White	1/4 KWH per hour
Food Waste Disposer	1/100 KWH per load	Color	1/3 KWH per hour
Dishwasher (rinse, wash & dry)	1 KWH per load	Water Heater (Electric)	13-1/2 KWH per day
Food Waste Compactor	1/5 KWH per load
Food Freezer—Frost Free
16 cu. ft.	5 KWH per day	PORTABLE APPLIANCES
20 cu. ft.	5-1/4 KWH per day
24 cu. ft.	5-1/2 KWH per day	Coffee Maker	1 KWH per hour
Refrigerator Freezer—Manual Defrost		Toaster	1 KWH per hour
16 cu. ft.	3-2/3 KWH per day	Electric Fry Pan	1/2 KWH per hour
20 cu. ft.	5-1/3 KWH per day	Mixer	1/8 KWH per hour
24 cu. ft.	7 KWH per day	Blender	2/5 KWH per hour
Refrigerator—Frost Free		Electric Knife	1/10 KWH per hour
16 cu. ft.	5 KWH per day	Hand Iron	1 KWH per hour
20 cu. ft.	7 KWH per day	Electric Blanket	1/5 KWH per hour
24 cu. ft.	8-3/4 KWH per day	Hair Dryer	3/5 KWH per hour

Your appliances will operate more efficiently and conserve energy if you follow manufacturers' instructions for use and care.

Keep Your Heat Down

If you've set your heater's thermostat down to 68°, you're saving kilowatt-hours already (and if you lower your thermostat more when you go to bed, you'll cut back even more). Even if your space heating is not electric, it probably uses electricity to circulate air through your home or apartment. So lowering your thermostat will conserve it.

You Can Reduce Kilowatt-Hours by Cutting Back on Your Use of Appliances

As you can see, a color TV set uses about 1/3 KWH per hour. Use it three hours less, and you've saved one KWH.

A clothes washer uses 1/3 KWH per load. An electric dryer uses 3-1/3 KWH. You can save kilowatt-hours if you delay doing a wash until you have a full load.

An automatic dishwasher uses one KWH per load. By waiting to use the dishwasher until it's full, you'll reduce the number of times you use it and save still more kilowatt-hours.

Use Less Lighting

Switching from 100 to 60-watt bulbs will save 40 watts per hour—per bulb. And be sure to turn off all lights throughout the house when not really needed.

Check the list for other ways to "make every kilowatt count." And for 70 other ways to conserve electricity, send for our free booklet. Write: "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, CA 91770.

Clemente Broker Remains Jailed in Slaying

Real estate broker Charles Jackson Hinckley Jr. remained in San Clemente city jail today under $250,000 bail set after his arrest on murder charges late Saturday night.

And police have begun extra patrols of Hinckley's fashionable Shorecliffs residence because of reports of possible retaliation by friends of the arrestee's son-in-law who was stabbed to death during a scuffle shortly before midnight.

Hinckley, 53, was arrested by patrolman Craig Steckler moments after the officer answered a call reporting a stabbing at the home at 237 Via Socorro.

Hinckley assertedly placed the call to police and was quoted as saying he had just stabbed a man and that an ambulance was needed.

The gray-haired businessman was waiting for police at curbside after he reportedly called the station.

Steckler said the man led him inside the residence where Ronald Lawrence Shirley, 21, a carpet layer from Yorba Linda, lay fatally wounded. The officer applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but said the victim did not respond.

Shirley, stabbed twice in the abdomen assertedly with a hunting knife, was dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital.

Detectives said Hinckley took the alleged murder weapon from his pocket and handed it over to the patrolman.

The incident, which reportedly climaxed a long period of family disputes, began when Shirley assertedly forced his way into the home to discuss the custody of his 2-year-old son, who was staying at the Hinckley home with his mother, Joan, 21.

Detectives said a shoving and shouting match ensued in the foyer of the expensive home and moments later Hinckley ran for the knife.

Hinckley returned, withdrew the weapon from a leather scabbard, and allegedly stabbed his son-in-law twice.

Shirely fell to the floor mortally wounded, stabbed once in the heart and once in the liver, coroner's deputies said.

Police said the victim reportedly had caused problems in the family home several times and that patrolmen were called to keep the peace.

Hinckley, whose real estate business closed in Tustin last month, was expected to be formally charged in the stabbing Tuesday in South Orange County Municipal Court.

Police described him as calm and cooperative after the incident. He has made a statement, they added.

Niguel Man Charged in Lie

Two Dana Boaters Run Into Crises

Two boaters who braved the bad weather and put out to sea from Dana Harbor Sunday wished later in the day that they had stayed at home.

Harbor patrolmen said that the two vessels nearly were lost in separate mishaps — one a near-sinking and the other a soggy grounding on a San Clemente beach.

The boat lost its battery power and could not be restarted shortly before noon.

The lack of an anchor on board meant that there was nothing to keep the vessel from running aground, patrolmen said.

San Clemente lifeguards attached a tow rope to the vessel after it fetched up at Poche Beach and patrolmen succeeded in towing the boat back to Dana Harbor.

The second incident involved a 25-foot cabin cruiser which suddenly began taking on water near the harbor entrance at 2:30 p.m.

Patrolmen said the owner-operator, George Tagulis of Anaheim, used an "unconventional but effective" mayday signal.

The stranded skipper fired several shots into the air with a .44 magnum pistol.

Officers said that shortly after the distress was fired, Tagulis abandoned ship. He was picked up by a passing sailboat.

A passenger in the craft, in the meantime, had stayed aboard the sinking cruiser.

Patrolmen used pumps to keep the boat afloat and once into the harbor they found the reason for the leak.

A hose in the engine cooling system had come off and water pumps were filling the bilges.

Damage to each craft was described as minor by patrolmen.

Lion Kills Boy

New Mexico Scene of Rare Attack

ESPANOLA, N.M. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy playing near his home was attacked and killed by a young mountain lion, authorities said. Another child was attacked but escaped injury.

Regional medical examiner Dr. Andrew Kalivoda identified the dead child Sunday as Kenneth Clark Nolan. He was playing with David Cordry, 8, who fled and summoned help, Kalivoda said.

George Merrill, an official of the state game department, said David Cordry, father of the Cordry boy, and stepfather of the Nolan boy, shot and wounded the animal. James Meyer then tracked it down and killed it.

The incident occurred at Aroyo Seco, a small community about five miles south of Espanola and about a mile from the boys' home.

Merrill said the lion was sent to the public health laboratory at the University of New Mexico to check for rabies or other disease. The cat was a subadult, about 16 months old, and weighed 40 to 50 pounds.

Agents Nab 3 Drug Suspects

Federal and local narcotics and Internal Revenue Service agents arrested three local men today in connection with an alleged nationwide conspiracy and marijuana smuggling ring.

They were arrested in Laguna Beach, South Laguna and Dana Point on indictments from a Nevada Federal Grand Jury.

Quick said the men would be transported from Laguna Beach to United States Marshal's office in Los Angeles and be arraigned before a federal magistrate today.

Quick said that Landt faced charges of conspiracy to smuggle marijuana and for being involved in a continuing criminal enterprise. The last charge has a 10-year to life sentence, he said.

The two others were arrested for conspiracy to smuggle marijuana, he said.

Quick characterized the alleged smuggling ring as a "major organization" but would not make further statements on the extent of the operation until the men were arraigned.

He said that Laguna Beach was one of the points where "certain covert actions of conspiracy took place." Nevada was also one of those points, he said.

The federal grand jury returned indictments on 13 persons. In addition to the three men arrested in Laguna, arrests were being made in other cities across the United States, Quick said.

He said the investigation had lasted two years and indicated that sizeable quantities of marijuana were being smuggled.

The IRS men were present on the investigation because it is a crime not to report all income and there is a tax on marijuana, officials said.

CHARGED WITH LIE
Herbert L. Porter

Watergate Panel Cites Nixon Aide

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter of Laguna Niguel, a former official of President Nixon's re-election committee, will plead guilty to one count of lying to the FBI about the Watergate breakin, his attorney said today.

Porter's attorney, Charles B. Murray, said his client intends to plead guilty next Monday when the case is heard by U.S. District Judge William Bryant. The charge was filed today.

Porter and his wife Carol and three children have been living with her parents, Arthur and Dolly Briggs of 32451 Mediterranean Drive in Monarch Terrace, since early spring.

"We are still getting our lives back together," Mrs. Porter said when contacted today at the Briggs home.

"I hate the word 'lie' . . . it conjures up all kinds of things in people's minds," Mrs. Porter said. "It is not my husband's habit to lie. He is pleading guilty to making a false statement to the FBI."

Since moving from Washington, D.C. last spring, Porter has been employed in his father-in-law's contracting firm.

Porter, former scheduling director for the Nixon re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee last summer that he had lied to the FBI and the federal grand jury and had lied at the original Watergate trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Porter testified at the trial that $100,000 of the money given to G. Gordon Liddy was for hiring 10 college students in 10 cities for campaign work.

He had told the same story to the grand jury and the FBI, but admitted at the Senate Watergate hearing that the store was false.

By pleading guilty he will avoid separate charges of making false sworn statements to various investigative bodies.

"It's a compromise," said his attorney.

During the Senate Watergate hearings, Porter engaged in a famous dialogue with Sen. Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn.), over how he could have taken part in Watergate-related activities.

Porter replied at the time that he had known Nixon since 1946, and that he did so out of a feeling of loyalty and team play.

Speaking to reporters before his court session, Porter said: "I'm a much

Murder-for-hire Hearing Begins Over Objections

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit murder against Eloise Popeil and her alleged lover opened today in Long Beach Municipal Court over objections of defense attorneys.

Robert Green and Phil Petty of Santa Ana, who represent Mrs. Popeil, and Frank Karl of Los Angeles who made a special appearance for Daniel Ayers all petitioned unsuccessfully for continuance of the hearing.

Judge Charles Litwin refused to continue the hearing despite Karl's plea that Aryes had no counsel.

Karl said he was appearing only to ask for reduction of Ayers' $100,000 bail to $20,000 so the unemployed machinist could get out of jail to find an attorney.

Litwin said he would rule on the bail reduction at the end of today's session.

The hearing was delayed nearly an hour while a public defender was found to represent Ayers.

Ayers, 37, and Mrs. Popeil, 48, are accused of a plot to murder her multi-millionaire husband, Samuel Popeil of Chicago.

They were arrested Jan. 8 at Mrs. Popeil's bayfront home at 519 Harbor Island Road.

Police allege they hired an acquaintance of Ayers for $25,000 to travel to Chicago to kill the kitchen gadget manufacturer.

Their motives, detectives allege, was financial in that if he were killed before their divorce became final Mrs. Popeil would have inherited one third of his $200 million estate.

San Clemente Case

Emergency Okay Given For Gas Main Relocation

An emergency coastal commission permit has been issued to allow relocation of a gas main in San Clemente, the scene of a recent fire caused by leaking gas.

Mel Carpenter, executive director of the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission, said today in Long Beach, he and commission Chairman Donald Bright approved the permit Friday.

Southern California Gas Company was scheduled to start relocation of 4,600 feet of 12-inch gas line today.

The new line will be about 20 feet from the existing line where several more small leaks have been found in the last week, Carpenter said.

The fire caused by the gas leaks in the main line which runs between Los Angeles and San Diego burned seven mobile homes in Capistrano Shores Mobile Park.

The gas company is now back feeding gas from San Diego to San Clemente, in reverse of its usual flow, Carpenter said. If any problems develop in this procedure, he said, San Clemente would be without any gas.

The new work, he added, should eliminate all leaks in the area.

Damaged Coach Ransacked In San Clemente

The owner of a mobile home heavily damaged in San Clemente early this month in a $100,000 gas main explosion and fire reported over the weekend that looters have ransacked his damaged coach.

Lonnie Ardoin, who is staying at another mobile home while his damaged one is being replaced, said that the looting took place in recent days at the burned-out remnants of his residence at Space 88 of the Capistrano Shores Mobile Home Park.

Although the missing articles had smoke and heat damage, he told police, looters took them anyway.

They amounted to household items worth $625 before they were damaged.

In all, seven coaches were either destroyed or heavily damaged in the Jan. 9 blaze characterized as one of the worst in city history.

Big Train Derails Damage $3 Million

CHILDRESS, Tex. (AP) — Railroad officials today sought the cause of a Sunday derailment of an 80-car freight train that resulted in $3 million damage to a cargo of cotton, cottonseed oil and fertilizer. Sixty-two cars of the Burlington-Northern freight left the tracks 20 miles south of here, sparking a fire that roared out of control through most of the day. No injuries were reported.

Supervisors Set To Cancel Debt Of Capo District

Fifth District Supervisor Ronald Caspers today said the county plans to erase a major land-purchase debt owed by the Capistrano Bay Parks and Recreation District because annual payments "have been bleeding the district dry."

The debt — what remains from the initial purchase of the Del Obispo little league complex — has been the main fiscal problem for the small taxing district saddled with providing parks for Capistrano Beach and Dana Point.

And directors of the district for years have said that annual payments of about $10,000 on the remaining sum of $35,774 have created major problems.

Caspers said that supervisors last week agreed to invoke a policy which donates surplus county property for parks purposes and that once the legal machinery is finished working, the county will not require any further payments.

The little league complex near the entrance to Dana Harbor is the district's only major developed park. Pines Park in the Capistrano Beach Palisades is another large parcel but it still requires major improvements.

Caspers said he hopes that by erasing the debt, the district with a $35,000

Hand Standing Brings Drunk Rap

A Costa Mesa man was arrested for alleged drunkenness and assault on a Laguna Beach police officer after police responded to a report of a man doing handstands in the intersection of a downtown street Friday night.

POLICE ARRESTED Phillip B. Bell, 22, of apartment 41, 525 Victoria Place.

Police allege that during Bell's arrest for drunk in public, he kicked Laguna Patrolman Paul Rose in the chest and spat in the officer's face.

ROSE REPORTED that he observed the characteristics of intoxication and arrested Bell.

After being handcuffed and placed in the rear of the police car, Bell assertedly became angry and kicked at the doors and windows of the unit.

He assertedly kicked Rose as he was being moved to the Laguna Beach Jail.

Speeder Smashes At Police Station

POMONA (UPI) — The high-speed pursuit of a Camp Pendleton Marine, driving a suspected stolen car, ended Sunday in front of the police station when his car jumped a curb, slid across a lawn and rammed into a patrol car.

The crash occurred while four policemen were building a road block in front of the station.

Richard A. Anderson, 19, of Camp Pendleton, was chased by patrol cars at speeds of up to 110 miles per hour. He was booked on grand theft auto charges.

There were no injuries.

Irvine Co. President Wins Honor

Irvine Company President Raymond L. Watson, designated 1973 builder of the year, told a Houston audience today the building industry in 1974 will measure its success in units approved for construction not units sold.

"The year may be the best year the home building industry has had in recent times, not in terms of units built, but in terms of clearing the way to permit buildng in the years ahead," Watson said.

He addressed a breakfast meeting of the National Association of Home Builders convention-exposition. Professional Builder magazine presented its award to Watson at the early morning session.

Watson said the energy crisis may very well shake the nation back into reality so that it will seek solutions to the environmentalist-developer conflicts.

He termed as unrealistic the public's "have-your-cake an eat-it-too" syndrome in which low density, no growth and personal affluence are wanted all at once.

"The question today is not 'how many units have been sold' but 'how many units have been approved'," Watson told more than 250 of the nation's largest homebuilders.

He suggested 1974 may be the year when reality may replace confusion as typified by the Environmental Protection Agency's proposed fee on parking spaces and the no growth movement.

Conflicting problems of energy, the environment, the economy and growth may now be addressed.

"This is the year the pendulum will begin to swing back and the extremists are cut adrift," he said.

Watson told the builders they can no longer be fighters with war chests aimed at combatting environmentalists or any other opponent of the builders' "we know best" plans, "because that battle has been lost and perhaps deservedly so."

He urged cooperation.

"Don't expect the environmentalists to have answers to the questions they raise, but responsible environmentalists would like to find solutions.

"The developer who works with environmentalists to discover workable solutions is the one who will not only survive and flourish, but who, equally important, will contribute to society's needs for a better urban environment," he said.

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Oil company executives appearing before a Senate panel investigating the severity of the energy crisis were accused today of "cheating the American public."

The charges were made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increaseses in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

Ribicoff said the oil firms misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages. Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson (D-Mich.), said that some of the information the companies submitted to his staff was evasive.

Executives from six other oil companies — Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana and Shell — sat in the Senate hearing room across the table from Ribicoff.

Meanwhile, President Nixon promised officials of the Federal Energy Office and the Internal Revenue Service today whatever support their inspection teams needed to audit major oil companies.

"If you need several thousand (inspectors) you've got them," Nixon said. "You can have as many as you need but don't ask for more just to make a big show."

Nixon met with John Sawhill, deputy director of the FEO; William Walker, FEO general counsel; IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander and several other IRS officials to discuss the monitoring system.

"The main thing is I want the truth," Nixon told the group as photographers recorded the beginning of the meeting. "If people are being fair and complying with the law I don't want to take after them. But if they are violating the regulations or price gouging ... we want to know about it."

Linda Lovelace 'Expanding to New Horizons'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Linda Lovelace, star of "Deep Throat," says she plans to make her next screen appearance in a western film that should get a relatively mild "R" rating.

"I wouldn't say that I'll never do another X-rated film," she told a news conference Sunday. "In fact, last night I was thinking how much fun it would be to do a Busby Berkeley porno movie."

Berkeley was a movie maker of the '30s and '40s whose work featured meticulously choreographed mass dance scenes.

The object, she said, is to "expand my image. I wouldn't say I'm changing my image. I'm trying to expand myself into new areas."

Plane Skyjacked Headed for Cuba

BOGOTA (UPI) — An Aeropesca airliner with 50 persons aboard was hijacked today and a spokesman for the company said the hijackers intended to take it to Cuba.

The plane was flying from Oasto, capital of the department of Barino, near the Ecuadorian border, to Bogota, when it was taken over by the air pirates.

The airline said the plane was taken over by an undetermined number of men at 8:55 a.m. PDT while approaching Cali.

It said the aircraft landed at Cali where the hijackers permitted an undetermined number of women and children passengers to deplane.

The spokesman said the plane took off for Cuba at 9:10 a.m. PDT.

He said the information came from the pilot, Capt. Horacio Biana, by radio to the control tower in Bogota.

River Sweeps Up Marina, 15 Boats

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Loris Brothers Marina and 15 boats were swept down the Sacramento River after huge timbers crashed into the marina, breaking its mooring.

The marina's bar and gas station, a houseboat and 14 pleasure craft floated out of control Sunday down the swift, storm-swollen river for as much as three miles before they either went aground or were tied up to shore by citizens and firemen.

Acting battalion Chief Sherman Tilsdale of the Sacramento Fire Department said the timbers were part of a bridge or some other structure upstream.

Reservoir Leak Inundates Roads In Capistrano

A major reservoir serving residents in San Juan Capistrano sprung a leak over the weekend, and soggy access routes are making repairs difficult, officials said today.

T. J. Meadows, the manager of County Waterworks Number Four, said the leak is relatively minor and will not cause any interruptions to service.

But it still will cause problems for repair crews.

Dirt roads leading to the leaking tank behind San Juan Hills Golf Course are so soggy that workmen had to travel to the damaged tank on foot.

"Its awfully soggy up there and we'll have to try and patch the leak temporarily and wait for things to dry out," Meadows said.

The leaking area is beneath the tank, perhaps in a pipe, he added.

Year-round School

BURLINGAME (AP) — The policy-making body of the California Teachers Association Sunday urged school districts to proceed cautiously toward year-round school. Bryan Stevens of Millbrae, CTA president, said the resolution adopted by the State Council of Education marks the first time the association declared an official policy on the subject.

Mideast Accord Lifts Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Repuhlican leader Hugh Scott, who attended a White House briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today, said the "strongest blockage" to an agreement on lifting of the oil embargo by the Arabs was removed by the signing of the Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The Pennsylvania senator also said that he was hopeful of "constructive progress" and perhaps "some early progress" in reaching some settlement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger and President Nixon were applauded at the bipartisan congressional leadership meeting in the Cabinet room to hear a report by Kissinger, just returned from 11 days of diplomatic negotiations.

Scott said there were "no secret guarantees," and that none was mentioned and "I don't believe any existed." He said various assurances were given to both parties as the negotiation sessions went on, which he said led both parties to feel that security was better assured.

Scott declined to give any predictions on when the oil embargo to the United States might be lifted. He said he hopes progress will continue and said, "the strongest blockade to an agreement on oil was removed by the signing of the agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"It is hopeful," Scott said, "that this progress which is being made will continue and result favorably."

Scott added that the United States has no military commitment or involvement in the Mideast and it simply was a case of making its good offices available and he will continue to do so.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Kissinger outlined the mideast negotiations n detail, adding "There were no secret agreements or understandings."

Mansfield commended Kissinger for a "superb job in effecting a first step agreement," and said he is cautiously hopeful for a similar disengagament agreement between Syria and Israel.

"You're our hero," Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), greeted Kissinger as they shook hands.

Mahon was among 16 congressional leaders of both parties assembled by Nixon to hear the report on the Israeli-Arab agreement.

Kissinger returned before dawn from his 11-day journey that produced a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt and what Kissinger said was "real progress" toward a similar pact between Israel and Syria.

Those attending the briefing included members of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees.

Before heading for home via London, Kissinger brought to Israel what he termed "a number of very constructive suggestions" from President Hafez Assad of Syria that could lead to negotiations between the two October war foes.

Kissinger also told Israeli leaders that Syria may be willing to turn over a list of war prisoners and to permit visits by the International Red Cross if the talks make substantial progress.

Privately, U.S. officials believe that a relaxation on the Syrian front is vital for further accords between Egypt and Israel since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, for political reasons within the Arab world, cannot afford to move too far ahead of the other Arab states in dealing with Israel.

The Israeli government is to study Assad's ideas and then give its response to Kissinger. Developments are not expected for two weeks.

Candidate Bows Out of Contention In Board Election

An Irvine candidate for Saddleback College trustee announced today he is withdrawing from the contest because a job promotion will require him to move from the trustee area.

Andrew Murray, of 3900 Parkview Lane, said he has been given a job change as a correctional counselor with the probation department and will move to San Juan Capistrano.

Murray's withdrawal reduces the slate for the Mar. 5 election tc seven: Norissa Brandt, Steve DeLapp, Gary Rasmussen, and Vera Snyder of Irvine; and Earl Carraway, Nick DiGiuro, and John Tolle of El Toro.

annual budget can use the extra cash for badly needed parks development.

Consultants are nearing completion of a development master plan for the two communities and when the local district board meets Thursday, county officials plan to unveil the latest reports on parks needs and planning for the area.

The $7,500 document will review details for new parks purchases, development and provision of new beach access and bicycle trails in the two unincorporated communities.

The district last fall sought in vain to win voter approval of a 10-cent tax override which would have doubled annual revenue.

UCI's Dr. Slavin Will Take Post At Louisville U

Dr. Arthur Joseph Slavin of El Toro in September will leave his UC Irvine post as chairman of the history department to become dean of arts and sciences at the University of Louisville.

Dr. Slavin, 40, came to UCI last year after spending eight years on the faculty of UCLA and four years at Bucknell University.

A native of New York City, he is an Air Force veteran of the Korean Conflict, recipient of both Woodrow Wilson and Guggenheim fellowships and was graduated summa cum laude from Louisiana State University.

He is the author of several books on the English Reformation and the Tudor period of English history.

He and his wife, Inger-Johanne, have a two-week old daughter. Dr. Slavin has four other children by a previous marriage.

Gang Members Dead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two gang members were found shot to death near the site of a baby shower they were attending in a rival gang's territory Sunday, police said. James Garcia, 18, and Daniel Aguinaga, 17, were apparently fleeing from the party after an argument broke out, officers said.

Ruby Keeler Studies the Suburbs

Christian Science Monitor Service

WASHINGTON — The tap-dancing star of the 1930's who "shuffled off to Buffalo" and had "the beat of 42nd Street" is still kicking.

Ruby Keeler of Newport Beach is on the road playing the lead role in "No, No, Nanette" and because of business is doing more traveling and sightseeing than in 35 years.

The playbill clearly states she is "back on stage" after her last and fifth child went off to college.

"The kids agreed that I must keep busy . . . so I accepted this road company opportunity," she said.

"I do a rare kind of sightseeing," mused the soft-spoken woman whose birthdays must count up to at least 64. "We hire a car and driver and just ride around and look. I don't go in any of the buildings. I must admit that even though I have been in Washington many times, I have never entered the Capitol, the White House, any of the galleries — the Smithsonian or the Washington Monument.

"MRS. NIXON invited me to luncheon one day. It wasn't held in the White House. It was in another government building.

"I love to ride around in Georgetown and look at all those quaint houses surrounded with garden walls — just little nothings from the outside but they must be absolutely gorgeous on the inside. Jackie Kennedy's house on N Street really fascinates me."

It's not that this still glamorous grandmother has slowed down. She's a fast stepper with lots of energy on stage. She just does not have any interest in getting out of the car.

"WASHINGTON and Philadelphia are my favorite places to visit. What I like best about them is that they are open . . . clean looking . . . lots of trees . . . and are just very pretty cities. I like the blend of the old with the new, but I'm mostly intrigued with the lovely surrounding neighborhoods. It's too bad tourists don't make an effort to see the best parts of our cities. They just want to concentrate on the downtown areas and don't bother with the elegant homes and parks that are usually located in the suburbs.

"Take, for instance, Baltimore and Pittsburgh. They have such beautiful sections too," she added.

"I'm a United States girl. Our country is so big and beautiful. I love being in the East when the leaves start changing color and start blowing around. I love the way the ocean rolls in along the coast of Maine. Then there's wonderful California — so different again — there isn't one place that's better than the rest. It's all wonderful.

LIKES SIGHTSEEING
Newport's Ruby Keeler

"I THINK Americans should see America first instead of flying to Europe — seeing what you are supposed to see — being uncomfortable traveling as fast as you can from one city to the other — two days here — three days there. There's no sense to it."

Because she is widowed after 27 years of marriage to John Lowe, she now travels with her sister. They sometimes visit Miss Keeler's mother-in-law in Kennebunk, Maine.

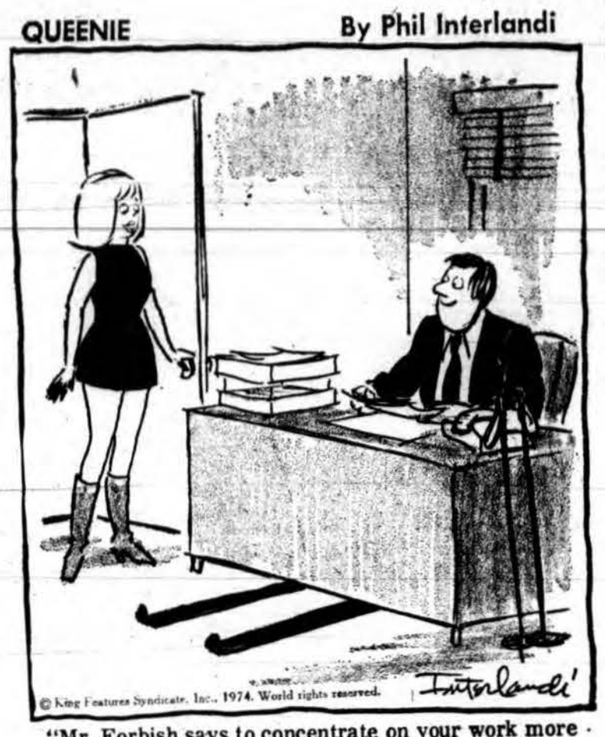
"I'm fond of this little place near the New England coast," she said. "I'm drawn to it somehow. I'm originally from Halifax, Nova Socttia, and I think that sort of scenery gets to me."

"WE GENERALLY fly to where we are going; however, I like the train. It's far more relaxing and seenic. The Metroliner linking Washington and New York is great.

"I've driven cross country. But I don't want to do that again. It's too much push. And when you get on the freeways you don't see a thing.

"Because of business we generally book into a hotel near the theater in which I am working. We save a lot of time this way."

QUEENIE By Phil Interlandi



"Mr. Forbish says to concentrate on your work more and not spend all your time thinking about the weekend."

Wedding Attire Contested

NEW YORK (UPI) — A suit filed in federal court here challenges the constitutionality of New York City's dress code for City Hall weddings, which requires "the bride must wear a dress or skirt and blouse, no slacks. The groom must wear a coat and tie."

"I have not worn a skirt or dress in three years," said Susan Bilton, who is engaged to be married to Walter Lyczkowski.

Lyczkowski said he "does not own a necktie or a suit." They postponed their marriage until the lawsuit is decided.

Another couple joining in the suit, Dr. and Mrs. Desmond Callan, learned of the rule when they were married Nov. 2.

Mrs. Callan said she was required to change from a "tasteful, elegant, dignified, chic and pretty" green velvet pants suit she bought in Paris for the occasion into an "ill-fitting, unmatching skirt."

Owner Arrested

Thieves Market Really Was One

And he proclaimed to the public in leaflets and posters:

"Get super bargains every day. Used items, large and small, arrive daily. Rod the Rat says, 'Our stock of hot new items changes constantly and is on the market mostly at a fraction of wholesale."

HE SOLD everything from saddles to sofas at the Thieves Market. And that's just what the place was, police say.

One day this month, a Tulsa man whose home had been burglarized went to shop at "Thieves Market No. 1" and found some of his stolen property on sale.

Irvine Company Now Top County Taxpayer

The Irvine Company moved into first place on the list of top Orange County property taxpayers during the current fiscal year with a total of more tran $10.4 million in taxes, Tax Collector-Treasurer Bob Citron said today.

"For the first time since the county has been keeping records, Southern California Edison Company has fallen out of first place all the way to third," Citron said.

Public utilities were in second, third and fourth spots on the list after the Irvine Company and the top 10 was rounded out by Disneyland, which paid a total of $2.16 million.

Citron said the Irvine Company's taxes would have been $916,722 higher — the amount due for 1973-74 on the Upper Newport Bay property involved in an abortive trade between the county and the company.

"The properties in question are in litigation between the county and the Irvine Company in three separate suits," Citron said.

The latest suit was filed by the company against the county in October of last year for the purpose of determining the company's tax liabilities as claimed by the county.

Even without the Back Bay taxes, the Irvine Company's property taxes increased by $971,000.

Replacing the Eidson Company in second place on the list was Pacific Telephone Company, whose taxes are $9.15 million, Citron said.

Edison's taxes declined this year by $369,500 because of what Citron called "a lower valuation by the state Board of Equalization of all Edison's properties."

Edison's overall $9.12 million figure may also be attributable to reduced overall tax rates in many areas of the county, Citron added.

In distant fourth place on the list was General Telephone, which paid $3.2 million, followed by North American Rockwell Corporation, which paid $2.66 million.

Others on the list include Union Oil at $2.6 million, Standard Oil at $2.5 million, Signal Oil at $2.4 million and Southern California Gas Company at $2.3 million.

Citron noted the total taxes for the top 10 is $1.67 million less than last year again attributed to major tax rate reductions in many county areas.

The total of $46.8 million paid by the top 10 represents nearly 10 percent of the total real property tax bill in the county this year," Citron said.

Oil Firms 'Cheating' Solon Says

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Oil company executives appearing before a Senate panel investigating the severity of the energy crisis were accused today of "cheating the American public."

The charges were made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increaseses in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

Ribicoff said the oil firms misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages. Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson (D-Mich.), said that some of

Hand Standing Brings Drunk Rap

A Costa Mesa man was arrested for alleged drunkenness and assault on a Laguna Beach police officer after police responded to a report of a man doing handstands in the intersection of a downtown street Friday night.

POLICE ARRESTED Phillip B. Bell, 22, of apartment 41, 525 Victoria Place.

Police allege that during Bell's arrest for drunk in public, he kicked Laguna Patrolman Paul Rose in the chest and spat in the officer's face.

ROSE REPORTED that he observed the characteristics of intoxication and arrested Bell.

After being handcuffed and placed in the rear of the police car, Bell assertedly became angry and kicked at the doors and windows of the unit.

He assertedly kicked Rose as he was being moved to the Laguna Beach Jail.

Burglars Busy in Laguna; $1,468 in Jewelry Taken

A smashed window and theft of $1,488 worth of jewelry from Dan Miller Jewelers, 448 S. Coast Highway was one of five thefts reported over the weekend to Laguna Beach police.

At Miller's, a set of diamond earrings and two rings were stolen after the shop's display window was broken, store hours, Sgt. Sagan said.

Theft of a color television and stereo equipment valued totally at $800 was reported by Reginald G. Hurd from his home at 720 Griffith Place. Sgt. Sagan said it appeared entry to the residence was gained through an unlocked window.

Warren Imports, 1462 S. Coast Highway, reported the theft of a $225 statue from its showroom. The theft reported Friday occurred during normal storehours, Sft. Sagan said.

Hitchhiker Kirk Marshal reported that his backpack and belongings valued at $437 were stolen by an accommodating driver who had asked him to go into a liquor store and buy some cigarette papers.

Marshall told police Saturday that when he returned, the car, and his backpack with equipment were gone.

Agents Nab 3 Drug Suspects

Federal and local narcotics and Internal Revenue Service agents arrested three local men today in connection with an alleged nationwide conspiracy and marijuana smuggling ring.

They were arrested in Laguna Beach, South Laguna and Dana Point on indictments from a Nevada Federal Grand Jury.

Quick said the men would be transported from Laguna Beach to United States Marshal's office in Los Angeles and be arraigned before a federal magistrate today.

Quick said that Landt faced charges of conspiracy to smuggle marijuana and for being involved in a continuing criminal enterprise. The last charge has a 10-year to life sentence, he said.

The two others were arrested for conspiracy to smuggle marijuana, he said.

Quick characterized the alleged smuggling ring as a "major organization" but would not make further statements on the extent of the operation until the men were arraigned.

He said that Laguna Beach was one of the points where "certain covert actions of conspiracy took place." Nevada was also one of those points, he said.

The federal grand jury returned indictments on 13 persons. In addition to the three men arrested in Laguna, arrests were being made in other cities across the United States, Quick said.

He said the investigation had lasted two years and indicated that sizeable quantities of marijuana were being smuggled.

The IRS men were present on the investigation because it is a crime not to report all income and there is a tax on marijuana, officials said.

CHARGED WITH LIE
Herbert L. Porter

Watergate Panel Cites Nixon Aide

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter of Laguna Niguel, a former official of President Nixon's re-election committee, will plead guilty to one count of lying to the FBI about the Watergate breakin, his attorney said today.

Porter's attorney, Charles B. Murray, said his client intends to plead guilty next Monday when the case is heard by U.S. District Judge William Bryant. The charge was filed today.

Porter and his wife Carol and three children have been living with her parents, Arthur and Dolly Briggs of 32451 Mediterranean Drive in Monarch Terrace, since early spring.

"We are still getting our lives back together," Mrs. Porter said when contacted today at the Briggs home.

"I hate the word 'lie' . . . it conjures up all kinds of things in people's minds," Mrs. Porter said. "It is not my husband's habit to lie. He is pleading guilty to making a false statement to the FBI."

Since moving from Washington, D.C. last spring, Porter has been employed in his father-in-law's contracting firm.

Porter, former scheduling director for the Nixon re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee last summer that he had lied to the FBI and the federal grand jury and had lied at the original Watergate trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Porter testified at the trial that $100,000 of the money given to G. Gordon Liddy was for hiring 10 college students in 10 cities for campaign work.

He had told the same story to the grand jury and the FBI, but admitted at the Senate Watergate hearing that the store was false.

By pleading guilty he will avoid separate charges of making false sworn statements to various investigative bodies.

"It's a compromise," said his attorney.

During the Senate Watergate hearings, Porter engaged in a famous dialogue with Sen. Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn.), over how he could have taken part in Watergate-related activities.

Porter replied at the time that he had known Nixon since 1946, and that he did so out of a feeling of loyalty and team play.

Speaking to reporters before his court session, Porter said: "I'm a much

Clemente Broker Held in Death Of Son-in-law

Real estate broker Charles Jackson Hinckley Jr. remained in San Clemente city jail today under $250,000 bail set after his arrest on murder charges late Saturday night.

And police have begun extra patrols of Hinckley's fashionable Shorecliffs residence because of reports of possible retaliation by friends of the arrestee's son-in-law who was stabbed to death during a scuffle shortly before midnight.

Hinckley, 53, was arrested by patrolman Craig Steckler moments after the officer answered a call reporting a stabbing at the home at 237 Via Socorro.

Hinckley assertedly placed the call to police and was quoted as saying he had just stabbed a man and that an ambulance was needed.

The gray-haired businessman was waiting for police at curbside after he reportedly called the station.

Steckler said the man led him inside the residence where Ronald Lawrence Shirley, 21, a carpet layer from Yorba Linda, lay fatally wounded. The officer applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but said the victim did not respond.

Shirley, stabbed twice in the abdomen assertedly with a hunting knife, was dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital.

Detectives said Hinckley took the alleged murder weapon from his pocket and handed it over to the patrolman.

The incident, which reportedly climaxed a long period of family disputes, began when Shirley assertedly forced his way into the home to discuss the custody of his 2-year-old son, who was staying at the Hinckley home with his mother, Joan, 21.

Detectives said a shoving and shouting match ensued in the foyer of the expensive nome and moments later Hinckley ran for the knife.

Hinckley returned, withdrew the weapon from a leather scabbard, and allegedly stabbed his son-in-law twice.

Shirely fell to the floor mortally wounded, stabbed once in the heart

More Bits Left Of Boardwalk

In just two days, some 300 persons picked up historical chunks of the old Laguna Beach boardwalk, but there's still more where that came from.

Clyde Sweetser, Laguna Beach public works superintendent said there are about 500 more of the 18-inch long pieces remain.

Lagunans may pick up the bits of history by going to Sweetser's office in the city yard.

He said about 800 pieces of the chunks were cut to start with from the oldest parts of the old booardwalk along Laguna's Main Beach.

Laguna Legion To Hear POW Col. Pitchford

Air Force Lt. Col. John Pitchford, a former prisoner of war, will address the Laguna Beach American Legion Post 222 and its auxiliary at a pot luck dinner at 6:30 Thursday at the post headquarters, at Legion and Catalina Streets.

Lt. Col. Pitchford, a resident of Laguna Niguel, was captured after being shot down over North Vietnam Dec. 1965. He was held prisoner until released Feb. 1973. He never knew what happened to his co-pilot captured by the enemy.

Lt. Col. Pitchford will describe prison life and his wife Shirley will tell how she felt during the seven years.

Triple Kill Suspect

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A 27-year-old man wanted in a triple slaying in Tennessee was captured here Sunday after being wounded in a gun battle with law officers. A spokesman for the FBI said Alvin Seagroves of Chattanooga, Tenn. was arrested about an hour after the gunfight when Charlotte residents reported seeing a man bleeding in the street.

Speeder Smashes At Police Station

POMONA (UPI) — The high-speed pursuit of a Camp Pendleton Marine, driving a suspected stolen car, ended Sunday in front of the police station when his car jumped a curb, slid across a lawn and rammed into a patrol car.

The crash occurred while four policemen were building a road block in front of the station.

Richard A. Anderson, 19, of Camp Pendleton, was chased by patrol cars at speeds of up to 110 miles per hour. He was booked on grand theft auto charges.

There were no injuries.

Plane Lost in Utah

BRYCE CANYON NATIONAL PARK, Utah (UPI) — A twin-engine plane with six persons aboard was missing and feared down Sunday night in the rugged mountains of southwestern Utah. The Federal Aviation Administration flight service station lost both radio and radar contact with the Oakland-based aircraft about 7:15 p.m.

Lion Kills Boy

New Mexico Scene of Rare Attack

ESPANOLA, N.M. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy playing near his home was attacked and killed by a young mountain lion, authorities said. Another child was attacked but escaped injury.

Regional medical examiner Dr. Andrew Kalivoda identified the dead child Sunday as Kenneth Clark Nolan. He was playing with David Cordry, 8, who fled and summoned help, Kalivoda said.

George Merrill, an official of the state game department, said David Cordry, father of the Cordry boy, and stepfather of the Nolan boy, shot and wounded the animal. James Meyer then tracked it down and killed it.

The incident occurred at Aroyo Seco, a small community about five miles south of Espanola and about a mile from the boys' home.

Merrill said the lion was sent to the public health laboratory at the University of New Mexico to check for rabies or other disease. The cat was a subadult, about 16 months old, and weighed 40 to 50 pounds.

Burglary Suspect Captured in Market

A cleanup crew inside the neighborhood market heard noises, called police and then apprehended the wold-be burglar. Arrested was Gerald B. Boomer, 26, address unknown, who police booked for suspicion of attempted burglary.

Porno Star Lovelace

'Deep Throat' Star Plans Western Next

NEW YORK (UPI)—Linda Lovelace, star of "Deep Throat," says she plans to make her next screen appearance in a western film that should get a relatively mild "R" rating.

"I wouldn't say that I'll never do another X-rated film," she told a news conference Sunday. "In fact, last night I was thinking how much fun it would be to do a Busby Berkeley porno movie."

Berkeley was a movie maker of the '30s and '40s whose work featured meticulously choreographed mass dance scenes.

The object, she said, is to "expand my image. I wouldn't say I'm changing my image. I'm trying to expand myself into new areas."

Reagan Against Nixon Resigning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan says President Nixon should not resign and Congress should decide soon whether to begin impeachment proceedings.

Reagan said Sunday the Watergate crimes and related matters should be resolved by the courts and Congress rather than a sudden presidential resignation.

"That's our system and our process and the system seems to be working," he said, on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Prediction

Pact Improves Chances for Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Repuhlican leader Hugh Scott, who attended a White House briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today, said the "strongest blockage" to an agreement on lifting of the oil embargo by the Arabs was removed by the signing of the Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The Pennsylvania senator also said that he was hopeful of "constructive progress" and perhaps "some early progress" in reaching some settlement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger and President Nixon were applauded at the bipartisan congressional leadership meeting in the Cabinet room to hear a report by Kissinger, just returned from 11 days of diplomatic negotiations.

Scott said there were "no secret guarantees," and that none was mentioned and "I don't believe any existed." He said various assurances were given to both parties as the negotiation sessions went on, which he said led both parties to feel that security was better assured.

Scott declined to give any predictions on when the oil embargo to the United States might be lifted. He said he hopes progress will continue and said, "the strongest blockade to an agreement on oil was removed by the signing of the agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"It is hopeful," Scott said, "that this progress which is being made will continue and result favorably."

Scott added that the United States has no military commitment or involvement in the Mideast and it simply was a case of making its good offices available and he will continue to do so.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Kissinger outlined the mideast negotiations n detail, adding "There were no secret agreements or understandings."

Mansfield commended Kissinger for a "superb job in effecting a first step agreement," and said he is cautiously hopeful for a similar disengagament agreement between Syria and Israel.

"You're our hero," Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), greeted Kissinger as they shook hands.

Mahon was among 16 congressional leaders of both parties assembled by Nixon to hear the report on the Israeli-Arab agreement. ▶

Kissinger returned before dawn from his 11-day journey that produced a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt and what Kissinger said was "real progress" toward a similar pact between Israel and Syria.

Those attending the briefing included members of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees.

Before heading for home via London, Kissinger brought to Israel what he termed "a number of very constructive suggestions" from President Hafez Assad of Syria that could lead to negotiations between the two October war foes.

Kissinger also told Israeli leaders that Syria may be willing to turn over a list of war prisoners and to permit visits by the International Red Cross if the talks make substantial progress.

Privately, U.S. officials believe that a relaxation on the Syrian front is vital for further accords between Egypt and Israel since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, for political reasons within the Arab world, cannot afford to move too far ahead of the other Arab states in dealing with Israel.

The Israeli government is to study Assad's ideas and then give its response to Kissinger. Developments are not expected for two weeks.

Mission Viejo To Host Women Tennis Players

Women's tennis pros Billie Jean King, Rosie Casals and Chris Evert, along with 29 other natinally ranked tennis champions, are in Mission Viejo today for the kickoff of a weeklong Virginia Slims tournament. (See sports page 16)

The first match began at 1 p.m. today with Marcie Louie of San Francisco pitted against Karen Krantzcke of Australia.

The Virginia Slims competition being held at the Marguerite Recreation Center, marks the first time the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association has had women's matches in Orange County.

Competitors are staying at the Laguna Hills Hilton Inn for the tournament, which has a $50,000 purse.

Top, featured action scheduled for today is a 7:30 p.m. match between Rosie Casals and Martina Navratilova, 18, number one woman tennis player in Czechoslovakia.

More information on the tournament may be obtained by calling 837-6050.

Hospital Board Picks Directors

Election of eight directors to the board will head the agenda at the annual meeting of South Coast Community Hospital at 7:30 p.m., Thursday.

The meeting — open to the hospital's 3,000 members — will be conducted in the auditorium. Tristan E. G. Krogius, president of the board of directors, will preside.

The membership will be asked to vote on a change in the by-laws reducing the size of the board of directors from 25 to 18. Annual reports from chairmen of standing board committees will be presented.

The sale will be held Feb. 23 and 24 on the library grounds. Books may be brought to the library, 363 Glenneyre St., for donation. Both paperbacks and hard cover books will be accepted.

Boats Encounter Rough Sailing Off Dana Point

Two boaters who braved the bad weather and put out to sea from Dana Harbor Sunday wished later in the day that they had stayed at home.

Harbor patrolmen said that the two vessels nearly were lost in separate mishaps — one a near-sinking and the other a soggy grounding on a San Clemente beach.

The boat lost its battery power and could not be restarted shortly before noon.

The lack of an anchor on board meant that there was nothing to keep the vessel from running aground, patrolmen said.

San Clemente lifeguards attached a tow rope to the vessel after it fetched up at Poche Beach and patrolmen succeeded in towing the boat back to Dana Harbor.

The second incident involved a 25-foot cabin cruiser which suddenly began taking on water near the harbor entrance at 2:30 p.m.

Patrolmen said the owner-operator, George Tagulis of Anaheim, used an "unconventional but effective" mayday signal.

The stranded skipper fired several shots into the air with a .44 magnum pistol.

Officers said that shortly after the distress was fired, Tagulis abandoned ship. He was picked up by a passing sailboat.

A passenger in the craft, in the meantime, had stayed aboard the sinking cruiser.

Patrolmen used pumps to keep the boat afloat and once into the harbor they found the reason for the leak.

A hose in the engine cooling system had come off and water pumps were filling the bilges.

Damage to each craft was described as minor by patrolmen.

Plane Skyjacked Headed for Cuba

BOGOTA (UPI) — An Aeropesca airliner with 50 persons aboard was hijacked today and a spokesman for the company said the hijackers intended to take it to Cuba.

The plane was flying from Oasto, capital of the department of Barino, near the Ecuadorian border, to Bogota, when it was taken over by the air pirates.

The airline said the plane was taken over by an undetermined number of men at 8:55 a.m. PDT while approaching Cali.

It said the aircraft landed at Cali where the hijackers permitted an undetermined number of women and children passengers to deplane.

The spokesman said the plane took off for Cuba at 9:10 a.m. PDT.

He said the information came from the pilot, Capt. Horacio Biana, by radio to the control tower in Bogota.

Hearing Opened Today In Popeil Murder Plot

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit murder against Eloise Popeil and her alleged lover opened today in Long Beach Municipal Court over objections of defense attorneys.

Robert Green and Phil Petty of Santa Ana, who represent Mrs. Popeil, and Frank Karl of Los Angeles who made a special appearance for Daniel Ayers all petitioned unsuccessfully for continuance of the hearing.

Judge Charles Litwin refused to continue the hearing despite Karl's plea that Aryes had no counsel.

Karl said he was appearing only to ask for reduction of Ayers' $100,000 bail to $20,000 so the unemployed machinist could get out of jail to find an attorney.

Litwin said he would rule on the bail reduction at the end of today's session.

The hearing was delayed nearly an hour while a public defender was found to represent Ayers.

Ayers, 37, and Mrs. Popeil, 48, are accused of a plot to murder her multi-millionaire husband, Samuel Popeil of Chicago.

They were arrested Jan. 8 at Mrs. Popeil's bayfront home at 519 Harbor Island Road.

Police allege they hired an acquaintance of Ayers for $25,000 to travel to Chicago to kill the kitchen gadget manufacturer.

Their motives, detectives allege, was financial in that if he were killed before their divorce became final Mrs. Popeil would have inherited one third of his $200 million estate.

Candidate Bows Out of Contention In Board Election

An Irvine candidate for Saddleback College trustee announced today he is withdrawing from the contest because a job promotion will require him to move from the trustee area.

Andrew Murray, of 3900 Parkview Lane, said he has been given a job change as a correctional counselor with the probation department and will move to San Juan Capistrano.

Murray's withdrawal reduces the slate for the Mar. 5 election to seven: Norissa Brandt, Steve DeLapp, Gary Rasmussen, and Vera Snyder of Irvine; and Earl Carraway, Nick DiGiuro, and John Tolle of El Toro.

Laguna Realtor Walter M. Rapp Last Rites Held

Funeral services for Walter M. Rapp, a Laguna Beach realtor and resident for 26 years, were held Saturday. Mr. Rapp died Wednesday at South Coast Community Hospital. He was 77.

Mr. Rapp was past exalted ruler of the Laguna Elks Lodge, a member of San Clemente Lodge No. 2068 and a member of the Laguna Men's Club.

Burial was private at Hollywood Memorial Park in Hollywood. Memorial services were held at Sheffer Chapel of Laguna Beach.

Mr. Rapp is survived by his wife, Lily; daughter, Jean Bellona of Bishop, and three grandchildren.

The family suggests contributions to the Cerebral Palsy Association sponsored by the San Clemente Elks Club.

Services were directed by Sheffer Laguna Beach Mortuary.

Executives from six other oil companies — Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana and Shell — sat in the Senate hearing room across the table from Ribicoff.

Meanwhile, President Nixon promised officials of the Federal Energy Office and the Internal Revenue Service today whatever support their inspection teams needed to audit major oil companies.

"If you need several thousand (inspectors) you've got them," Nixon said. "You can have as many as you need but don't ask for more just to make a big show."

Nixon met with John Sawhill, deputy director of the FEO; William Walker, FEO general counsel; IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander and several other IRS officials to discuss the monitoring system.

"The main thing is I want the truth," Nixon told the group as photographers recorded the beginning of the meeting.

Police Shoot 2 During Scuffle

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — A man stopped for drunken driving and a companion were seriously wounded by shotgun blasts after a scuffle with two policemen in which both the officers were temprarily disarmed.

Officer James Owens, who had his gun taken away at gunpoint Sunday by one of the men, drew a hidden pistol and retreated to his patrol car where he grabbed a shotgun and fired until both men were on the ground. Both officers were treated for minor wounds.

The incident started, police said, when Owens' partner, Robert Martinez, was getting identification from Lovelle Brown, 24.

Woman Held in Death

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — A woman has been accused of fatally shooting another woman who allegedly cost her the sight of one eye by stabbing her during a knife fight, police said. Velma M. King, 37, was charged with murdering Sylvia J. Belk, 21, during a party at Mrs. King's home Saturday night, according to authorities.

Irvine Company Now Top County Taxpayer

The Irvine Company moved into first place on the list of top Orange County property taxpayers during the current fiscal year with a total of more tran $10.4 million in taxes, Tax Collector-Treasurer Bob Citron said today.

"For the first time since the county has been keeping records, Southern California Edison Company has fallen out of first place all the way to third," Citron said.

Public utilities were in second, third and fourth spots on the list after the Irvine Company and the top 10 was rounded out by Disneyland, which paid a total of $2.16 million.

Citron said the Irvine Company's taxes would have been $916,722 higher — the amount due for 1973-74 on the Upper Newport Bay property involved in an abortive trade between the county and the company.

"The properties in question are in litigation between the county and the Irvine Company in three separate suits," Citron said.

The latest suit was filed by the company against the county in October of last year for the purpose of determining the company's tax liabilities as claimed by the county.

Even without the Back Bay taxes, the Irvine Company's property taxes increased by $971,000.

Replacing the Eidson Company in second place on the list was Pacific Telephone Company, whose taxes are $9.15 million, Citron said.

Edison's taxes declined this year by $369,500 because of what Citron called "a lower valuation by the state Board of Equalization of all Edison's properties."

Edison's overall $9.12 million figure may also be attributable to reduced overall tax rates in many areas of the county, Citron added.

In distant fourth place on the list was General Telephone, which paid $3.2 million, followed by North American Rockwell Corporation, which paid $2.66 million.

Others on the list include Union Oil at $2.6 million, Standard Oil at $2.5 million, Signal Oil at $2.4 million and Southern California Gas Company at $2.3 million.

Citron noted the total taxes for the top 10 is $1.67 million less than last year again attributed to major tax rate reductions in many county areas.

The total of $46.8 million paid by the top 10 represents nearly 10 percent of the total real property tax bill in the county this year," Citron said.

Oil Firms 'Cheating' Solon Says

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Oil company executives appearing before a Senate panel investigating the severity of the energy crisis were accused today of "cheating the American public."

The charges were made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

Ribicoff accused the companies of using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increaseses in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

Ribicoff said the oil firms misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages. Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), said that some of the information the companies submitted to his staff was evasive.

Executives from six other oil companies — Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana and Shell — sat in the Senate hearing room across the table from Ribicoff.

Meanwhile, President Nixon promised officials of the Federal Energy Office and the Internal Revenue Service today whatever support their inspection teams

Railroad Hassle?

Transit Chief Opposes Service Boost

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Transit District Manager G. J. "Pete" Fielding said today any significant increase in commuter rail service to Los Angeles would seriously jeopardize the county's economy.

In a detailed report to OCTD directors, Fielding said any effort to improve commuter rail links through the county would be strongly opposed by the railroads, which depend largely on freight service for their income.

Fielding acknowledged his report is "negative" toward improvements in commuter rail service but he said there are possibilities for minor improvements.

"For a limited time until some of our current energy problems are worked out there is a possibility of adding one additional train at peak commuter times," Fielding said.

"This would no doubt be very limited service and only a stopgap measure."

Fielding also said current passenger train schedules could be revised, making the train leave earlier in the morning and arriving closer to normal working hours in Los Angeles.

Nowhere in Fielding's report is there mention of additional train stops in the South county area, something residents of San Juan Capistrano and other communities have been pushing for.

Fielding said it would be hard enough to win minor changes in the train system let alone such major ones as new stops.

Fielding said the only line available to commuter trains would be the main Santa Fe system running from San Diego to Los Angeles. He said that track is already handling 43 freight trains every day and is "almost at capacity already."

Fielding said much of the rail line is single track rather than dual lines and could easily be clogged up with pessenger trains, hurting vital freight service to key areas in Orange and

Power Pole Replacement Snarls Newport Traffic

Commuters bound for Newport Beach's business and financial districts this morning encountered an unexpected detour because workmen were replacing a power pole at the intersection of MacArthur Boulevard and Jamboree Road.

Traffic had to be rerouted because the pole, which caught on fire Sunday night, threatened to fall into the busy intersection, according to a spokesman for the Southern California Edison Company.

Newport Beach police, who blocked the intersection, said some drivers ignored the barricades and were given citations. The intersection was predicted to be passable again tonight.

The pole burned at 6:45 p.m. Sunday blacking out power to a one square mile area near Orange County Airport. Three 30,000 volt wires and three 12,000 volt wires were destroyed.

Edison officials said the fire was caused when electricity "tracked" past the insulators and down the pole because of damp weather and fog.

Newport Beach fire inspector Art Morton said the pole was in danger of snapping and that restaurants in the airport area had to serve dinners by candle light until power was restored.

The Edison Company shut off electricity at 7:40 p.m. and rerouted it through other lines to most of the affected area within 10 minutes.

Irvine Company President Named Year's Builder

Irvine Company President Raymond L. Watson, designated 1973 builder of the year, told a Houston audience today the building industry in 1974 will measure its success in units approved for construction not units sold.

"The year may be the best year the home building industry has had in recent times, not in terms of units built, but in terms of clearing the way to permit buildng in the years ahead," Watson said.

He addressed a breakfast meeting of the National Association of Home Builders convention-exposition. Professional Builder magazine presented its award to Watson at the early morning session.

Watson said the energy crisis may very well shake the nation back into reality so that it will seek solutions to the environmentalist-developer conflicts.

He termed as unrealistic the public's "have-your-cake an eat-it-too" syndrome in which low density, no growth and personal affluence are wanted all at once.

"The question today is not 'how many units have been sold' but 'how many units have been approved'," Watson told more than 250 of the nation's largest homebuilders.

He suggested 1974 may be the year when reality may replace confusion as typified by the Environmental Protection Agency's proposed fee on parking spaces and the no growth movement.

Eloise Popeil Murder Plot Hearing Opens

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit murder against Eloise Popeil and her alleged lover opened today in Long Beach Municipal Court over objections of defense attorneys.

Robert Green and Phil Petty of Santa Ana, who represent Mrs. Popeil, and Frank Karl of Los Angeles who made a special appearance for Daniel Ayers all petitioned unsuccessfully for continuance of the hearing.

Judge Charles Litwin refused to continue the hearing despite Karl's plea that Ayres had no counsel.

Karl said he was appearing only to ask for reduction of Ayers' $100,000 bail to $20,000 so the unemployed machinist could get out of jail to find an attorney.

Litwin said he would rule on the bail reduction at the end of today's session.

The hearing was delayed nearly an hour while a public defender was found to represent Ayers.

Ayers, 37, and Mrs. Popeil, 48, are

Laguna Niguel's Porter Charged in 'Watergate'

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter of Laguna Niguel, a former official of President Nixon's re-election committee, will plead guilty to one count of lying to the FBI about the Watergate break-in, his attorney said today.

Porter's attorney, Charles B. Murray, said his client intends to plead guilty next Monday when the case is heard by U.S. District Judge William Bryant. The charge was filed today.

Porter and his wife Carol and three children have been living with her parents, Arthur and Dolly Briggs of 32451 Mediterranean Drive in Monarch Terrace, since early spring.

"We are still getting our lives back together," Mrs. Porter said when contacted today at the Briggs home.

"I hate the word 'lie' . . . it conjures up all kinds of things in people's minds," Mrs. Porter said. "It is not my husband's habit to lie. He is pleading guilty to making a false statement to the FBI."

Sipce moving from Washington, D.C. last spring, Porter has been employed in his father-in-law's contracting firm.

Porter, former scheduling director for the Nixon re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee last summer that he had lied to the FBI and the federal grand jury and had lied at the original Watergate trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Porter testified at the trial that $100,000 of the money given to G. Gordon Liddy was for hiring 10 college students in 10 cities for campaign work.

He had told the same story to the grand jury and the FBI, but admitted at the Senate Watergate hearing that the store was false.

By pleading guilty he will avoid separate charges of making false sworn statements to various investigative bodies.

"It's a compromise," said his attorney.

Board to Study Offer by Ranch

Orange County Supervisors will be asked Tuesday to close the deal to buy 5,500 acres of the Starr Ranch in the hills above San Juan Capistrano as a major regional park.

The board will consider an offer by the Starr Ranch Foundation, a trust of ten charities now holding the land, to sell the property for a total of $4.4 million. The money would be paid in five equal installments after an initial down payment of $1.5 million already budgeted.

On the same agenda is a detailed plan drafted by Supervisor Ronald Caspers for development of the park.

Lion Kills Boy

New Mexico Scene of Rare Attack

ESPANOLA, N.M. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy playing near his home was attacked and killed by a young mountain lion, authorities said. Another child was attacked but escaped injury.

Regional medical examiner Dr. Andrew Kalivoda identified the dead child Sunday as Kenneth Clark Nolan. He was playing with David Cordry, 8, who fled and summoned help, Kalivoda said.

George Merrill, an official of the state game department, said David Cordry, father of the Cordry boy, and stepfather of the Nolan boy, shot and wounded the animal. James Meyer then tracked it down and killed it.

The incident occurred at Aroyo Seco, a small community about five miles south of Espanola and about a mile from the boys' home.

Merrill said the lion was sent to the public health laboratory at the University of New Mexico to check for rabies or other disease. The cat was a subadult, about 16 months old, and weighed 40 to 50 pounds.

Newport Beauty Miss Chinatown In LA Parade

Bettie Kym Young, 21, of Newport Beach, the new Miss Chinatown of Southern California, will lead the Year of the Valiant Tiger parade through Los Angeles Tuesday.

She was chosen to reign over the Chinese New Year celebration from among nine contestants who spoke Chinese and modeled pantsuits and evening gowns.

Miss Young is a physical therapy major at Long Beach City College and will enroll next semester at Orange Coast College.

She came to California two years ago from Hughes, Ark., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yet Quang Young and four brothers reside. She was born in Memphis.

The 5-foot-6, 120-pound beauty queen will represent the Chinese community on a year-long publicity tour climaxed when she competes for Miss Chinatown, USA, in San Francisco.

Agents Nab 3 Drug Suspects

Federal and local narcotics and Internal Revenue Service agents arrested three local men today in connection with an alleged nationwide conspiracy and marijuana smuggling ring.

They were arrested in Laguna Beach, South Laguna and Dana Point on indictments from a Nevada Federal Grand Jury.

Quick said the men would be transported from Laguna Beach to United States Marshal's office ir Los Angeles and be arraigned before a federal magistrate today.

Quick said that Landt faced charges of conspiracy to smuggle marijuana and for being involved in a continuing criminal enterprise. The last charge has a 10-year to life sentence, he said.

The two others were arrested for conspiracy to smuggle marijuana, he said.

Quick characterized the alleged smuggling ring as a "major organization" but would not make further statements on the extent of the operation until the men were arraigned.

He said that Laguna Beach was one of the points where "certain covert actions of conspiracy took place." Nevada was also one of those points, he said.

The federal grand jury returned indictments on 13 persons. In addition to the three men arrested in Laguna, arrests were being made in other cities across the United States, Quick said.

He said the investigation had lasted two years and indicated that sizeable quantities of marijuana were being smuggled.

The IRS men were present on the investigation because it is a crime not to report all income and there is a tax on marijuana, officials said.

During the Senate Watergate hearings, Porter engaged in a famous dialogue with Sen. Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn.), over how he could have taken part in Watergate-related activities.

Porter replied at the time that he had known Nixon since 1946, and that he did so out of a feeling of loyalty and team play.

Speaking to reporters before his court session, Porter said: "I'm a much happier person now, doing what I'm doing — getting away from that kind of existence."

A college classmate of White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, Porter joined the staff of then-communications director Herbert G. Klein in late 1970. Porter left about five months later to join the re-election committee.

RAILROAD...

Los Angeles counties.

Fielding noted a number of other drawbacks to using that track for commuter service. These included such things as required slow speeds on bad curves all along the line, close proximity to the tracks of major residential areas, short supplies of high capacity passenger cars, out of date train stations, inconvenient bus links at both ends of the line and inefficient turn around facilities at both ends.

Fielding estimates that the 800 to 1,000 people who would ride the trains each day would not provide enough revenue to make the system workable—even with an average fare of $1.50.

He said adjusted revenues would amount to only about $340,000 each year with an estimated expenditure of as much as $661,000.

He said that would mean Orange County would have to provide at least a $320,000 annual subsidy to the rail line since Orange Countians would benefit most from such a commuter link.

He said the money could better be spent improving bus service since the impact on county freeways of such a minor reduction would be minimal.

Mission Viejo To Host Women Tennis Players

Women's tennis pros Billie Jean King, Rosie Casals and Chris Evert, along with 29 other nationaly ranked tennis champions, are in Mission Viejo today for the kickoff of a weeklong Virginia Slims tournament. (See Sports, Page 16)

The first match began at 1 p.m. today with Marcie Louie of San Francisco pitted against Karen Krantzcke of Australia.

The Virginia Slims competition being held at the Marguerite Recreation Center, marks the first time the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association has had women's matches in Orange County.

Competitors are staying at the Laguna Hills Hilton Inn for the tournament, which has a $50,000 purse.

Top featured action scheduled for today is a 7:30 p.m. match between Rosie Casals and Martina Navratilova, 18, number one woman tennis player in Czechoslovakia.

More information on the tournament may be obtained by calling 837-6050.

Massage Parlors Worry Peoria

PEORIA, ILL. (UPI) — A survey conducted by a local television station claims there are more massage parlors per capita in Peoria than in Chicago, and this has city officials worried.

Both stressed that an ordinance should "differentiate between useful, medicinal parlors and those that are used as a front for prostitution."

Hand Standing Brings Drunk Rap

A Costa Mesa man was arrested for alleged drunkenness and assault on a Laguna Beach police officer after police responded to a report of a man doing handstands in the intersection of a downtown street Friday night.

POLICE ARRESTED Phillip B. Bell, 22, of apartment 41, 525 Victoria Place.

Police allege that during Bell's arrest for drunk in public, he kicked Laguna Patrolman Paul Rose in the chest and spat in the officer's face.

ROSE REPORTED that he observed the characteristics of intoxication and arrested Bell.

After being handcuffed and placed in the rear of the police car, Bell assertedly became angry and kicked at the doors and windows of the unit.

He assertedly kicked Rose as he was being moved to the Laguna Beach Jail.

Prediction

Pact Improves Chances for Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Repuhlican leader Hugh Scott, who attended a White House briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today, said the "strongest blockage" to an agreement on lifting of the oil embargo by the Arabs was removed by the signing of the Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The Pennsylvania senator also said that he was hopeful of "constructive progress" and perhaps "some early progress" in reaching some settlement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger and President Nixon were applauded at the bipartisan congressional leadership meeting in the Cabinet room to hear a report by Kissinger, just returned from 11 days of diplomatic negotiations.

Scott said there were "no secret guarantees," and that none was mentioned and "I don't believe any existed." He said various assurances were given to both parties as the negotiation sessions went on, which he said led both parties to feel that security was better assured.

Scott declined to give any predictions on when the oil embargo to the United States might be lifted. He said he hopes progress will continue and said, "the strongest blockade to an agreement on oil was removed by the signing of the agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"It is hopeful," Scott said, "that this progress which is being made will continue and result favorably."

Scott added that the United States has no military commitment or involvement in the Mideast and it simply was a case of making its good offices available and he will continue to do so.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Kissinger outlined the mideast negotiations in detail, adding "There were no secret agreements or understandings."

Mansfield commended Kissinger for a "superb job in effecting a first step agreement," and said he is cautiously hopeful for a similar disengagament agreement between Syria and Israel.

"You're our hero," Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), greeted Kissinger as they shook hands.

Mahon was among 16 congressional leaders of both parties assembled by Nixon to hear the report on the Israeli-Arab agreement.

Broker Held On Clemente Murder Rap

Real estate broker Charles Jackson Hinckley Jr. remained in San Clemente city jail today under $250,000 bail set after his arrest on murder charges late Saturday night.

And police have begun extra patrols of Hinckley's fashionable Shorecliffs residence because of reports of possible retaliation by friends of the arrestee's son-in-law who was stabbed to death during a scuffle shortly before midnight.

Hinckley, 53, was arrested by patrolman Craig Steckler moments after the officer answered a call reporting a stabbing at the home at 237 Via Socorro.

Hinckley assertedly placed the call to police and was quoted as saying he had just stabbed a man and that an ambulance was needed.

The gray-haired businessman was waiting for police at curbside after he reportedly called the station.

Steckler said the man led him inside the residence where Ronald Lawrence Shirley, 21, a carpet layer from Yorba Linda, lay fatally wounded. The officer applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but said the victim did not respond.

Shirley, stabbed twice in the abdomen assertedly with a hunting knife, was dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital.

Detectives said Hinckley took the alleged murder weapon from his pocket and handed it over to the patrolman.

The incident, which reportedly climaxed a long period of family disputes, began when Shirley assertedly forced his way into the home to discuss the custody of his 2-year-old son, who was staying at the Hinckley home with his mother, Joan, 21.

Detectives said a shoving and shouting match ensued in the foyer of the expensive nome and moments later Hinckley ran for the knife.

Reinstatement Asked by Huntington Oil Chief

City oil field superintendent Herb Day wants Huntington Beach to reinstate his status as a department head, at least in terms of fringe benefits, if not title.

Day has requested a personnel hearing to protest what his attorney, Stephen Silver of Los Angeles, calls a "demotion without cause."

A year ago Day was in charge of a separate oil field department which included himself, one field inspector and a secretary. But in a reorganization move, City Administrator Dave Rowlands made the oil field operation a division under Building Director John Behrens.

Rowlands contends that even though Day's title was "department head," no one ever considered him such because of the small size of his so-called department.

The city and Day nearly reached a compromise without going to a personnel hearing. After considerable discussion, the city attorney's office and Silver settled on a compromise which:

—Provided Day with secretarial services he says are necessary.

—Allowed him all current and future benefits which department heads enjoy.

—Would pay Day's $550 attorney fee.

That agreement was nullified, however, when the city council refused to pay the attorney fee. Rowlands said the city is not against giving Day department head benefits, but the council was "unhappy" with the idea of paying the attorney fee.

"The city was under no obligation to compromise," says Silver, Day's attorney. "But the city did make the offer, then all of a sudden it backed off. Now we want a hearing."

No hearing date has been set yet, but city Personnel Director Ed Thompson said he will probably ask the state sometime this week to send a hearing officer to conduct the personnel proceeding.

Day was not the only former department head whose position was placed under another department. City Purchasing Agent Roy Howe also underwent the same change a year ago, but prior to the switch he and the city reached an agreement which gave him all department head benefits, which include a car allowance and a free annual physical examination.

Old Town Lots Assessment District Eyed

By TERRY COVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach Councilmen are expected to take the first steps tonight toward the formation of a $1.5 million assessment district in a portion of the old Town Lots.

Resolutions establishing an engineer, attorney, and legal advertisements for the district and authorizing the preparation of a boundary map are on the agenda for the 7 p.m. meeting in city council chambers.

If approved, the city's public works department would begin detailed plans for the resurrection of a 57-acre, 18-block section in the northeastern corner of the Town Lots.

The proposed district would be bounded by 17th and Golden West Streets, and Orange and Palm Avenues.

Its purpose is to build new streets, curbs and gutters; new water lines and street lights; extra landscaping; and create extra on-street parking by blocking some streets with trees and creating parking courts.

The area currently contains mostly vacant, lots with little development and the occasional remnant of scattered oil wells from the boom days of the 1920s.

City planners are groping for some method to control future Town Lot development so it doesn't become an apartment ghetto stuffed with small four-plex units crowded onto tiny lots.

One major problem for developers is the size of the lots — only 25 feet wide. City officials think the assessment district with its improved facilities will encourage developers to combine much of the land for larger projects with more open space.

The $1.5 million price tag is the public works department estimate for the cost of all the improvements. Firm figures will be determined when the district is established and the city seeks bids for the actual construction work.

Property owners will pay the $1.5 million based on the amount of property they own. The district's biggest land owner is the Huntington Beach Company with 34.5 percent of the surface area.

After a firm price is established, the city will schedule a protest hearing and if more than half the property owners oppose the assessment district, it could be abandoned.

With more than 50 percent opposition, the council could still go ahead with the district if six of the seven councilmen favor it.

The old Town Lots, which stretch along the coast north of downtown Huntington Beach, were once the foundation for a planned resort called Pacific City in the early 1900s.

The dream of a rival to the East Coast's Atlantic City faded during the

ELOISE POPEIL AWAITS START OF COURT HEARING
Newport Beach Defendant Shows Up With Two Attorneys

Kill-for-hire Hearing Held--Over Objections

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit murder against Eloise Popeil and her alleged lover opened today in Long Beach Municipal Court over objections of defense attorneys.

Robert Green and Phil Petty of Santa Ana, who represent Mrs. Popeil, and Frank Karl of Los Angeles who made a special appearance for Daniel Ayers all petitioned unsuccessfully for continuance of the hearing.

Judge Charles Litwin refused to continue the hearing despite Karl's plea that Aryes had no counsel.

Karl said he was appearing only to ask for reduction of Ayers' $100,000 bail to $20,000 so the unemployed machinist could get out of jail to find an attorney.

Litwin said he would rule on the bail reduction at the end of today's session.

The hearing was delayed nearly an hour while a public defender was found to represent Ayers.

Ayers, 37, and Mrs. Popeil, 48, are accused of a plot to murder her multi-millionaire husband, Samuel Popeil of Chicago.

They were arrested Jan. 8 at Mrs. Popeil's bayfront home at 519 Harbor Island Road.

Police allege they hired an acquaintance of Ayers for $25,000 to travel to Chicago to kill the kitchen gadget manufacturer.

Their motives, detectives allege, was financial in that if he were killed before their divorce became final Mrs. Popeil would have inherited one third of his $200 million estate.

Mideast Oil 'Blockade' Easing--Scott

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Repuhlican leader Hugh Scott, who attended a White House briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today, said the "strongest blockage" to an agreement on lifting of the oil embargo by the Arabs was removed by the signing of the Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The Pennsylvania senator also said that he was hopeful of "constructive progress" and perhaps "some early progress" in reaching some settlement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger and President Nixon were applauded at the bipartisan congressional leadership meeting in the Cabinet room to hear a report by Kissinger, just returned from 11 days of diplomatic negotiations.

Scott said there were "no secret guarantees," and that none was mentioned and "I don't believe any existed." He said various assurances were given to both parties as the negotiation sessions went on, which he said led both parties to feel that security was better assured.

Scott declined to give any predictions on when the oil embargo to the United States might be lifted. He said he hopes progress will continue and said, "the strongest blockade to an agreement on oil was removed by the signing of the agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"It is hopeful," Scott said, "that this progress which is being made will

WASHINGTON — Oil company executives appearing before a Senate panel investigating the severity of the energy crisis were accused today of "cheating the American public."

The charges were made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

Ribicoff accused the companies of using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increaseses in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

Ribicoff said the oil firms misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages. Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), said that some of the information the companies submitted to his staff was evasive.

Executives from six other oil companies — Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of

12 Ponder Huntington Council Seat

An even dozen names are now on the candidates list for the April 9 Huntington Beach City Council election.

The latest resident to pick up nomination papers from the city clerk's office is John N. Flood, who is both an M.D. and an attorney.

Four council seats are open this year, with three of the four incumbents seeking re-election. Only Jack Green has decided to retire from the council, primarily because he must move to the city of Los Angeles where he is director of the department of environmental quality.

In addition to Flood, the list of residents who have picked up council nomination papers includes: Robert Alberts, William D. Armstrong, Ted Bartlett (incumbent), Dr. Ralph Bauer, Al Coen (incumbent), Bruce Gabrielson, Norma Gibbs (incumbent), George McCracken, Mark Porter, John Patrick Swain, and Harriet Wieder.

Noon, Jan. 31 is the filing deadline by which time all candidates must have filed their nomination papers bearing the signatures of 50 resident registered voters.

In the city attorney's race, incumbent Don Bonfa is still the only one who has picked up papers.

Congressman Hosmer Won't Seek Re-election

By GEORGE LEIDAL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Health and court-ordered reshaping of his district may have led to today's announcement by Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) that he will not seek re-election to Congress.

Hosmer, victim of two heart attacks in recent years, has been elected 11 times since 1953. He has represented voters in Seal Beach and Huntington Beach for several years. However, portions of Hosmer's district were assigned to a district in which Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R-Mission Viejo) is expected to run next fall.

"It has been a tough decision," Hosmer said today in Washington, "but now seems to be the logical time to make way for a new representative in the new 34th Congressional District."

Hosmer expressed his "deep gratitude" to the people of the 32nd district for allowing him "to serve long and continuously in the Congress during an era of key decision on nuclear, environmental and many other vital issues of historic concern."

Hosmer, 58, is an attorney and retired Naval Reserve rear admiral. He is the ranking Republican member of both the joint committee on atomic energy and the House Interior Committee.

"Long seniority helps a congressman serve his constituency well but from time to time, it s also healthy for fresh talent to move up to governmental responsibility," he said.

Hosmer indicated he expects to go into business or practice law or go into "other government service" but has no definite plans at this time.

Hosmer indicated his decision was due to the California Supreme Court decision realigning the state's Congressional districts. But, he denied that he felt he couldn't be re-elected.

STEPPING DOWN
Congressman Hosmer

"It's a fully manageable district," he said.

Hosmer's most recent heart attack came last March while he was on a tour of Japan in connection with his atomic energy committee duties.

Hosmer said the pressures of being a congressman "are enough to kill anybody.

"I've had nearly 22 years in this job and the job just isn't the same anymore. The political climate is different and Congress has changed," he said.

Rescuers Find Cowboy, 48, Dead

JULIAN (AP) — After his horse returned without him, searchers began combing Witch Creek Canyon for Millard Zobrist, 48. They found the cowboy dead Sunday.

Zobrist, who left the Cummings Ranch to check on cattle in the canyon area three miles away, was either killed when thrown from his horse or suffered a heart seizure after he dismounted, said San Diego County Deputy Coroner Al Kersey.

More than 60 men on horses and in four-wheel drive vehicles started searching Saturday when the horse showed up at the ranch.

Sex Death Testimony More Lurid

HOUSTON (UPI) — With testimony at the pretrial hearing of accused mass murderer Elmer Wayne Henley becoming more lurid, Judge William M. Hatten asked attorneys to speed examinations of the persons expected to be the most dramatic witnesses.

The defense will call Rhonda Williams, 15, and Timothy Kerley, 20, the couple stripped and strapped to "torture boards" the night Henley called police and said he shot and killed Dean Corll, the alleged mastermind of the sex and torture ring.

Henley, 17, is expected to take the stand Tuesday to tell about his oral and written confessions to police Aug. 8, 9 and 10, the first days of the investigation of the three-year spree of sex and torture which left 27 young men dead.

"I'm trying to keep us from trying this case at this hearing so the publicity won't make it impossible for us to get a jury," Hatten said.

Hatten said he still wanted jury selection to begin Jan. 28, its originally scheduled date, but that timetable appeared out of reach because of extended testimony during the first week.

The pretrial hearing will decide a defense motion to suppress Henley's confessions because, according to the defense, Henley's constitutional rights were violated by police and Henley was not competent to waive constitutional rights.

Police said Henley confessed to killing six of the teen-age boys procured for Corll and to how Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, charged with four murders, led them to the victims' graves at a Houston boat shed, near Lake Sam Rayburn in East Texas and along the Gulf Coast north of Galveston.

Henley said he shot Corll in self-defense during that last orgy at Corll's house in the Heights suburb of Houston. Kerley and Miss Williams were in the house that night, but have only told their stories to a grand jury, never in public.

Niguel's Porter Charged

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter of Laguna Niguel, a former official of President Nixon's re-election committee, will plead guilty to one count of lying to the FBI about the Watergate break-in, his attorney said today.

Porter's attorney, Charles B. Murray, said his client intends to plead guilty next Monday when the case is heard by U.S. District Judge William Bryant. The charge was filed today.

parents, Arthur and Dolly Briggs of 32451 Mediterranean Drive in Monarch Terrace, since early spring.

"We are still getting our lives back together," Mrs. Porter said when contacted today at the Briggs home.

"I hate the word 'lie' . . . it conjures up all kinds of things in people's minds," Mrs. Porter said. "It is not my husband's habit to lie. He is pleading guilty to making a false statement to the FBI."

Since moving from Washington, D.C. last spring, Porter has been employed in his father-in-law's contracting firm.

Porter, former scheduling director for the Nixon re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee last summer that he had lied to the FBI and the federal grand jury and had lied at the original Watergate trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Porter testified at the trial that $100,000 of the money given to G. Gordon Liddy was for hiring 10 college students in 10 cities for campaign work.

He had told the same story to the grand jury and the FBI, but admitted at the Senate Watergate hearing that the store was false.

By pleading guilty he will avoid separate charges of making false sworn statements to various investigative bodies.

"It's a compromise," said his attorney.

During the Senate Watergate hearings, Porter engaged in a famous dialogue with Sen. Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn.), over how he could have taken part in Watergate-related activities.

Porter replied at the time that he had known Nixon since 1946, and that he did so out of a feeling of loyalty and team play.

Speaking to reporters before his court session, Porter said: "I'm a much happier person now, doing what I'm doing — getting away from that kind of existence."

A college classmate of White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, Porter joined the staff of then-communications director Herbert G. Klein in late 1970. Porter left about five months later to join the re-election committee.

Ex-bank Manager N. P. Rampton Services Slated

Services were held today at Smith's Chapel in Huntington Beach for N. Pornatus Rampton, a resident of Orange County for the past 55 years.

Mr. Rampton, 81, died Thursday. He began his banking career in Huntington Beach at Security Pacific National Bank, at Main and Walnut, in 1922, when he was a teller.

He later was manager of the branch until his retirement in 1959.

Mr. Rampton leaves his wife, Mary, and two daughters, Francis M. Hauser of Burlingame, and Shirley J. Stevens, of Carson City, Nevada.

He also leaves one brother, Lauren Rampton, of Riviera, Ariz.; and a sister, Fawn Getta, of Bountiful, Utah; and two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Rampton was involved in many organizations in the county, including the Lions Club, World War I Veterans, Masonic Lodge No. 380, the Long Beach Consistory of Scottish Rite and the El Bekal Shrine Temple.

Mr. Rampton was buried at Westminster Memorial Park following the services.

Florida Pushes Hunt for Bodies

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Authorities said Brevard County sheriff's deputies would continue their search today for more bodies on the government-owned wildlife preserve where the bodies of five women have been found since Thankstiving.

A police spokesman said it was too early to tell whether the case of the "orange grove" murders would continue to uncover more corpses.

The fully clothed, decomposed body of a young girl was found Saturday night in a drainage ditch on the preserve by duck hunters. Several miles away, the bodies of four young women ranging in ages from 14 to 22 were found in an orange grove near a trailer park between Thanksgiving and mid-December.

Huntington Man Contests Charter in Court Fight

For the second time in two years the Huntington Beach city charter will be challenged in court by a new resident who wants to run for a municipal office.

James Dukette, 31, of 711 Pacific Coast Highway, has asked the Orange County Superior Court for a writ of mandate to allow him to run for city clerk even though he has not lived in Huntington Beach two years as required by the charter.

Dukette and city officials will appear before Superior Court Judge Mark Soden at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, to settle the legal question.

Two years ago, Dave Garofalo won a court order allowing him to run in the 1972 city council race although he had not been a two-year resident of the city. He won the court battle against the city charter, but lost the election.

According to City Clerk Alicia Wentworth, who refused to accept Dukette's nomination papers last week, his case is similar, but not identical to Garofalo's.

The two-year residency requirement has not been eliminated in the city charter, so Mrs. Wentworth said she had to obey the charter and refuse Dukette's papers.

"I can't go against the charter unless he goes to court," she said, explaining that a Superior Court decision, such as Garofalo won, does not eliminate the charter provision but only orders the city to accept the entry of that particular candidate.

Mrs. Wentworth also said that if the charter is once again overruled on the two-year residency requirement, Dukette will also have to get a ruling against a one-year requirement established not by charter, but by city ordinance.

The ordinance, which goes into effect if the charter is invalidated, says a candidate must be a resident and a registered voter a full year before taking office.

Mrs. Wentworth said Dukette has been a resident of the city 14 months, but he only became a registered voter Jan. 8.

Garofalo met both of the one year requirements when he filed for the council race so that legal point was never challenged in court.

Neither Dukette, an administrative services assistant with the Orange County Harbor Department, nor his attorney, Dale Bush, a former city attorney for Huntington Beach, could be reached for comment today.

Two people have already entered the April 9 clerk election: Mrs. Wentworth, the incumbent, and Bernard Mahoney, who ran two years ago and lost to the late Paul Jones.

Three Classes Remain Open For Valley Folks

Persons interested in social dancing, quilt making or wine appreciation are in luck — if they live in Fountain Valley.

These three classes are still open in the Fountain Valley Recreation Department's new schedule of offerings, but interested persons must sign up Monday or Tuesday.

Registration is at the Community Center, 10200 Slater Ave., between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Social dancing is being offered for children 10 to 14 years of age. It will meet on Wednesdays at 4 p.m., for eight weeks, beginning this coming Wednesday. The lessons include both rock and traditional dancing and cost $7.75.

Quilt making and patchwork, for adults, will be offered on Wednesdays, too, at 12:30 in the Community Center. There will be eight lessons, beginning next week, and the cost is $9.

The third class still open is Wine Appreciation, meeting Tuesdays at 8 p.m., also beginning next week. Wines ranging in price from 89 cents to $50 will be discovered by those in the class. The eight lessons cost $10, plus an additional $15 charged for the wines used.

More information is available by calling 962-2424, ext. 211.

Massage Parlors Worry Peoria

PEORIA, ILL. (UPI) — A survey conducted by a local television station claims there are more massage parlors per capita in Peoria than in Chicago, and this has city officials worried.

Two city councilmen, Warren Reynolds and Franklin Renner, told a news conference that the city will explore the possibility of using home rule licensing power to regulate the parlors.

Both said that an ordinance should "differentiate between useful, medicinal parlors and those that are used as a front for prostitution."

Plans for Four New Parks Near Schools on Tap

Plans for four new parks adjoining Ocean View district schools in Huntington Beach will be discussed tonight at the regular school Board meeting by Norm Worthy, director of parks and recreation for the city.

Worthy will also discuss city plans for Site 10, a site originally earmarked by the district for a new elementary school. Since development in the area of the site, west of Beach Boulevard, near Gothard Street and Taylor Avenue, has not progressed as foreseen, the district plans to sell the land.

The city of Huntington Beach has been considering purchasing the land to build a neighborhood park.

The four schools slated to receive adjacent parks are Glen View, Golden View, Marine View and Haven View.

Library Aide Resigns Post In Huntington

Ken White, 40, assistant Huntington Beach librarian, has resigned his post to research material on what he calls, "the new concept library and its contribution to the community."

White said he plans to study the "new concept library" in terms of the varied services it can offer a community.

He has been assistant city librarian since 1969. White has been involved with several civic organizations such as the chamber of commerce, the coordinating council, the Exchange Club and Friends of the Library.

He is also helping on the planning of this year's citywide festival which will be expanded from a one-day show to a four-day affair in April. White will continue his work on the festival committee.

Commuter Rail Plan Opposed by OCTD Chief

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Transit District Manager G. J. "Pete" Fielding said today any significant increase in commuter rail service to Los Angeles would seriously jeopardize the county's economy.

In a detailed report to OCTD directors, Fielding said any effort to improve commuter rail links through the county would be strongly opposed by the railroads, which depend largely on freight service for their income.

Fielding acknowledged his report is "negative" toward improvements in commuter rail service but he said there are possibilities for minor improvements.

"For a limited time until some of our current energy problems are worked out there is a possibility of adding one additional train at peak commuter times," Fielding said.

"This would no doubt be very limited service and only a stopgap measure."

Fielding also said current passenger train schedules could be revised, making the train leave earlier in the morning and arriving closer to normal working hours in Los Angeles.

Nowhere in Fielding's report is there mention of additional train stops in the South county area, something residents of San Juan Capistrano and other communities have been pushing for.

Fielding said it would be hard enough to win minor changes in the train system let alone such major ones as new stops.

Fielding said the only line available to commuter trains would be the main Santa Fe system running from San Diego to Los Angeles. He said that track is already handling 43 freight trains every day and is "almost at capacity already."

Fielding said much of the rail line is single track rather than dual lines and could easily be clogged up with pessenger trains, hurting vital freight service to key areas in Orange and Los Angeles counties.

Fielding noted a number of other drawbacks to using that track for commuter service. These included such things as required slow speeds on bad curves all along the line, close proximity to the tracks of major residential areas, short supplies of high capacity passenger cars, out of date train stations, inconvenient bus links at both ends of the line and inefficient turn around facilities at both ends.

Fielding estimates that the 800 to 1,000 people who would ride the trains each day would not provide enough revenue to make the system workable—even with an average fare of $1.50.

He said adjusted revenues would amount to only about $340,000 each year with an estimated expenditure of as much as $661,000.

He said that would mean Orange County would have to provide at least a $320,000 annual subsidy to the rail line since Orange Countians would benefit most from such a commuter link.

He said the money could better be spent improving bus service since the impact on county freeways of such a minor reduction would be minimal.

Irvine Co. President Wins Honor

Irvine Company President Raymond L. Watson, designated 1973 builder of the year, told a Houston audience today the building industry in 1974 will measure its success in units approved for construction not units sold.

"The year may be the best year the home building industry has had in recent times, not in terms of units built, but in terms of clearing the way to permit buildng in the years ahead," Watson said.

He addressed a breakfast meeting of the National Association of Home Builders convention-exposition. Professional Builder magazine presented its award to Watson at the early morning session.

Watson said the energy crisis may very well shake the nation back into reality so that it will seek solutions to the environmentalist-developer conflicts.

He termed as unrealistic the public's "have-your-cake an eat-it-too" syndrome in which low density, no growth and personal affluence are wanted all at once.

Watson blamed developers for wanting to enjoy the same syndrome.

"The question today is not 'how many units have been sold' but 'how many units have been approved'," Watson told more than 250 of the nation's largest homebuilders.

He suggested 1974 may be the year when reality may replace confusion as typified by the Environmental Protection Agency's proposed fee on parking spaces and the no growth movement.

Conflicting problems of energy, the environment, the economy and growth may now be addressed.

"This is the year the pendulum will begin to swing back and the extremists are cut adrift," he said.

Watson told the builders they can no longer be fighters with war chests aimed at combatting environmentalists or any other opponent of the builders' "we know best" plans, "because that battle has been lost and perhaps deservedly so."

He urged cooperation.

"Don't expect the environmentalists to have answers to the questions they raise, but responsible environmentalists would like to find solutions.

"The developer who works with environmentalists to discover workable solutions is the one who will not only survive and flourish, but who, equally important, will contribute to society's needs for a better urban environment," he said.

3 South Coast Suspects Arrested on Drug Charge

Federal and local narcotics and Internal Revenue Service agents arrested three local men today in connection with an alleged nationwide conspiracy and marijuana smuggling ring.

They were arrested in Laguna Beach, South Laguna and Dana Point on indictments from a Nevada Federal Grand Jury.

Quick said the men would be transported from Laguna Beach to United States Marshal's office in Los Angeles and be arraigned before a federal magistrate today.

Quick said that Landt faced charges of conspiracy to smuggle marijuana and for being involved in a continuing criminal enterprise. The last charge has a 10-year to life sentence, he said.

The two others were arrested for conspiracy to smuggle marijuana, he said.

Quick characterized the alleged smuggling ring as a "major organization" but would not make further statements on the extent of the operation until the men were arraigned.

He said that Laguna Beach was one of the points where "certain covert actions of conspiracy took place." Nevada was also one of those points, he said.

The federal grand jury returned indictments on 13 persons. In addition to the three men arrested in Laguna, arrests were being made in other cities across the United States, Quick said.

He said the investigation had lasted two years and indicated that size quantities of marijuana were being smuggled.

The IRS men were present on the investigation because it is a crime not to report all income and there is a tax on marijuana, officials said.

Torture Slaying Suspect Seized; Second Hunted

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police are seeking a second suspect in the torture slaying of a young Virginia woman whose mutilated body was found in a remote area.

The victim's body had been severely beaten and repeatedly tortured, with her elbows and knees broken at 45-degree angles and her breasts mutilated and burned with cigarettes.

The victim was identified Sunday as Donna Marie Dixon, 18, of Newport News.

High Court Nixes Rules On Pregnant Instructors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court today struck down regulations that force school teachers off the job in the early months of pregnancy regardless of individual ability to continue work.

The 7 to 2 decision represented a victory for women's equal rights advocates. But the high court majority pointedly left open the possibility that similar rules taking effect during the last few weeks of pregnancy might be upheld.

The pregnancy case involved rules from school systems in Ohio and Virginia which forced pregnant school teachers to leave the classroom at the fourth and fifth months of their pregnancy, respectively.

The majority concluded "that neither the necessity for continuity of instruction nor the state interest in keeping physically unfit teachers out of the classroom can justify the sweeping mandatory leave regulations that the Cleveland and Chesterfield County (Va.) school boards adopted."

Writing for the majority, Justice Potter Stewart said that while the regulations "no doubt represent a good-faith attempt to achieve a laudable goal, they cannot pass muster under the due process clause of the 14th Amendment because they employ irrebuttable presumptions that unduly penalize a female teacher for deciding to bear a child."

One question in the case was whether the rule on pregnancy constituted an impermissible classification on the basis of sex.

The majority did not place its reasoning under the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment which could condemn such discrimination. Rather, the majority said that arbitrary cutoffs of employment for pregnant teachers denies them due process of law.

Search, Rescue Plan for Baja, U.S. Scheduled

PLAZA SANTA MARIA, Mexico (AP) — Prompted by a plane crash that killed four persons, the two-nation Commission of the Californias will set up a search-and-rescue system for the Baja California peninsula.

Officials of California, Baja California and the Mexican territory of Baja California del Sur agreed in this Baja California community to coordinate communications and rescue efforts along the 1,000-mile peninsula.

They indicated drivers could be required in the future to notify officials of their plans before starting down the peninsula.

California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke asked new procedures to deal with emergencies like the crash of a light plane from Orange Count, near Mulege on the Gulf of California.

The plane, carrying a couple from Mission Viejo, Marvin and Terry Goodwin and Goodwin's father and stepmother from Washington, took off Dec. 22 and probably crashed the same day.

The volunteer groups didn't begin the search until Jan. 5. A plane reached the wreckage three days later and found the four bodies.

More Than Edison

Irvine Tax Tops

The Irvine Company moved into first place on the list of top Orange County property taxpayers during the current fiscal year with a total of more tran $10.4 million in taxes, Tax Collector-Treasurer Bob Citron said today.

"For the first time since the county has been keeping records, Southern California Edison Company has fallen out of first place all the way to third," Citron said.

Public utilities were in second, third and fourth spots on the list after the Irvine Company and the top 10 was rounded out by Disneyland, which paid a total of $2.16 million.

Citron said the Irvine Company's taxes would have been $916,722 higher — the amount due for 1973-74 on the Upper Newport Bay property involved in an abortive trade between the county and the company.

"The properties in question are in litigation between the county and the Irvine Company in three separate suits," Citron said.

The latest suit was filed by the company against the county in October of last year for the purpose of determining the company's tax liabilities as claimed by the county.

Even without the Back Bay taxes, the Irvine Company's property taxes increased by $971,000.

Replacing the Eidson Company in second place on the list was Pacific Telephone Company, whose taxes are $9.15 million, Citron said.

Edison's taxes declined this year by $369,500 because of what Citron called "a lower valuation by the state Board of Equalization of all Edison's properties."

Edison's overall $9.12 million figure may also be attributable to reduced overall tax rates in many areas of the county, Citron added.

In distant fourth place on the list was General Telephone, which paid $3.2 million, followed by North American Rockwell Corporation, which paid $2.66 million.

Others on the list include Union Oil at $2.6 million, Standard Oil at $2.5 million, Signal Oil at $2.4 million and Southern California Gas Company at $2.3 million.

Citron noted the total taxes for the top 10 is $1.67 million less than last year again attributed to major tax rate reductions in many county areas.

The total of $46.8 million paid by the top 10 represents nearly 10 percent of the total real property tax bill in the county this year," Citron said.

Broker Held On Clemente Murder Rap

Real estate broker Charles Jackson Hinckley Jr. remained in San Clemente city jail today under $250,000 bail set after his arrest on murder charges late Saturday night.

And police have begun extra patrols of Hinckley's fashionable Shorecliffs residence because of reports of possible retaliation by friends of the arrestee's son-in-law who was stabbed to death during a scuffle shortly before midnight.

Hinckley, 53, was arrested by patrolman Craig Steckler moments after the officer answered a call reporting a stabbing at the home at 237 Via Socorro.

Hinckley assertedly placed the call to police and was quoted as saying he had just stabbed a man and that an ambulance was needed.

The gray-haired businessman was waiting for police at curbside after he reportedly called the station.

Steckler said the man led him inside the residence where Ronald Lawrence Shirley, 21, a carpet layer from Yorba Linda, lay fatally wounded. The officer applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but said the victim did not respond.

Shirley, stabbed twice in the abdomen assertedly with a hunting knife, was dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital.

Detectives said Hinckley took the alleged murder weapon from his pocket and handed it over to the patrolman.

The incident, which reportedly climaxed a long period of family disputes, began when Shirley assertedly forced his way into the home to discuss the custody of his 2-year-old son, who was staying at the Hinckley home with his mother, Joan, 21.

Detectives said a shoving and shouting match ensued in the foyer of the expensive home and moments later Hinckley ran for the knife.

Hinckley returned, withdrew the weapon from a leather scabbard, and allegedly stabbed his son-in-law twice.

Officers said the occupants had been killed on impact. "But if anyone had lived they could have died before they were found," a San Diego County sheriff's spokesman said.

Board to Study Offer by Ranch

Orange County Supervisors will be asked Tuesday to close the deal to buy 5,500 acres of the Starr Ranch in the hills above San Juan Capistrano as a major regional park.

The board will consider an offer by the Starr Ranch Foundation, a trust of ten charities now holding the land, to sell the property for a total of $4.4 million. The money would be paid in five equal installments after an initial down payment of $1.5 million already budgeted.

On the same agenda is a detailed plan drafted by Supervisor Ronald Caspers for development of the park.

Real Surfers Hit the Waves

UPCOAST, DOWNCOAST: Some surf has developed in recent days along this best of all possible coasts. Not that we do not always have a few waves washing our shoreline. But I mean the kind of breakers that bring out a particular species of sportsman.

This person is The Surfer. The Surfer is particularly evident in our region during our warm summer days. There are lots of surfers out riding their boards when the weather is good. These are the Sunshine Surfers.

They are just as interested in what fills the bikinis on the beach as they are in the size and shape of waves. Maybe more interested in the aforementioned sizes and shapes.

Anyway, it is easy to find surfers during our happy hot days.

TO DISCOVER THE real hard-core surfer, however, you must scan our beachfronts along about this time of the year.

He looks like a frogman in one of those old World War II teevee movies, about to go out and plant explosives under the hull of an enemy battleship.

IT MAY TAKE HIM three hours to don all this gear but by Neptune, he's going to ride surf even if his feet freeze to the surfboard.

Hard-core winter surfers, however, do not want to go through putting all this rubberized finery on their bodies only to get to the beach and find little ripples instead of real riding waves.

To avoid such wasted effort, winter surfers do a lot of talking about it before they actually attack it. This is called The Interrogation.

For example, your son is lounging on the sofa when one of his hard-core surfing buddies bursts through the door, dripping sea water. And the conversation goes something like this:

"HEY MAN, YOU oughtta see it down there. It's really up, man. Outta sight. C'mon, man. Get your wetsuit on. Let's fly. . ."

"No way, man. You look like you came out of a deep freeze."

"Okay, how big is it? Is it high tide? Which way's the swell? Is there any chop. Who else is down there, anyway? Is Big John in? How about Goofy-Foot? How big does Crazy Harry say it is?"

ALL THESE QUESTION in The Interrogation draw answers in grunts, groans, wows and hey, mans. In the end, your kid retreats to his room and spends the half-hour getting into all his hard-core surfer gear.

Thus, your kid leaves with board and in rubber suit, his mouth set in a grim line. He doesn't know if the surf is real or he's just been conned by a buddy who wants company while freezing.

France Floats Franc

Country Attempting to Bolster Exports

PARIS (UPI) — France floated its currency today to defend the economy against the impact of big oil price increases and the franc depreciated by 4.8 percent against the dollar at the day's end.

Financial sources said the effect of the six-month flotation announced Saturday would be an effective devaluation.

WHEN TRADING opened, the official commercial dollar was quoted at 5.25 francs, a 5.3 percent franc depression against Friday's closing 4.9850 francs, and the financial dollar, used by speculators, was up to 5.45 francs against Friday's final 5.17.

The 5.25 franc price for the commercial dollar was the highest since the dollar was first devalued in 1971.

With exchanges closed in some other European capitals, trading was hectic in Paris after the prices were announced, bankers said.

A banker at the Paris branch of a New York bank said he expected the official dollar to reach 5.30 francs then drop to 5.15-5.20 francs. "The United States itself would not want it to go higher," he said. "Higher prices would hurt U.S. exports."

THE GOVERNMENT said it decided to float the franc for six months in an effort to bolster exports and trim an anticipated foreign trade deficit brought on by the oil price increases.

France, anticipating a $10 billion trade deficit because of the oil price spiral, became the fourth European common market nation to float its currency.

Belgium, The Netherlands and Japan closed their money markets today to give themselves time to study the effects of the French float in other countries.

The Bank of France was given instructions to allow the franc to fluctuate freely against the U.S. dollar and other money when trading opened on the exchange.

Before the franc float, the Bank of France intervened in money markets to maintain the value of the franc within 2.5 percent of the official rate, 4.985 to the dollar.

EXCHANGE DEALERS said they expected the franc to drop about four percent in value as an immediate reaction to the float decision, greeted in financial circles as a devaluation in disguise.

At the closing of money markets Friday, the dollar was selling at 5.17 francs in tourist transactions compared to the official 4.985 francs for international transactions.

Would Evidence Aid President?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detailed White House transcripts refuting charges by John W. Dean III that President Nixon kne of the Watergate cover-up were prepared but never released, an informed source has disclosed.

The source, who said he has read the transcript based on secret presidential tapes, said the White House had planned to release them as part of "Operation Candor" but later decided against making them public.

THE SOURCE added, however, that the transcripts cover material available to the Watergate grand juries and could form the basis for perjury charges against Dean, the former White House counsel turned prime presidential accuser.

The White House declined comment Sunday on the matter.

Neither Dean nor his lawyers were available for comment.

Specifically, the source said, the transcripts he read disprove Dean's claim that his conversations with Nixon show the President was aware of the Watergate cover-up before the March 21, 1973, date on which Nixon says he learned of it.

They show that conversations Dean said took place on different dates between Sept. 15, 1972, and March 21, 1973, all took place on the latter date, the source explained.

THE SOURCE said the former White House counsel apparently was tripped up by the fact that, unknown to him when they occurred or when he testified, the conversations were being taped by the secret presidential recording system.

A primary reason for deciding against release of the transcripts was that fear that such action could trigger demands for further disclosures, the source said. He said these demands would jeopardize the confidentiality that Nixon and his top aides have insisted should be maintained.

He also said that another reason was fear that publication of the transcripts, and widespread comment on them, could jeopardize successful prosecution of some of the Watergate-related indictments expected to be brought shortly by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The source disclosed existence of the transcripts after Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said on nationwide television he had information that could clear Nixon of Watergate wrongdoing but that the White House was unwilling to make it public.

U.S. Officials 'Refused' S. Viet Request for Aid

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. officials turned down a South Vietnamese request last weekend to send ships and helicopters to evacuate beleaguered Vietnamese troops under fire from Chinese forces in the Paracel Islands, government military sources said today.

THE SOUTH Vietnamese were unable to evacuate the islands themselves and 150 Vietnamese and one American were killed or captured by the Communists in the two-day war Saturday and Sunday when the Chinese used MIGS, naval vessels and amphibious troops to overrun the islands.

Vietnamese military officers said the American was stationed with a four-man Saigon meteorological team on Robert Island in the bleak, South China Sea Archipelago which is 200 miles off the South Vietnam coast and 200 miles south of China's Hainan Island, but is claimed by both.

The military sources said South Vietnamese officials in Saigon asked U.S. Ambassador Graham A. Martin to request ships and helicopters of the U.S 7th fleet to conduct a rescue mission on the three islands before they were overrun by the Chinese.

MARTIN TURNED down the request flatly, the sources said.

It was not clear whether he consulted with officials in Washington first, or whether he had already received orders to refuse American military help in the battle for the Paracels.

A spokesman for Martin refused to confirm that an American was stationed with the Vietnamese in the Paracels. But Vietnamese government officers said a U.S. expert had been with the weather team on the barren atolls for several years. The Americans were rotated back to Vietnam and other stations regularly, they said.

Chinese news broadcasts have yet to mention the American, although Radio Peking said today it has taken some Vietnamese prisoners and would release them "at an appropriate time."

THE CHINESE foreign ministry issued a statement in Peking saying the Chinese acted in self-defense and that their military units meted out "due punishment to the aggressors."

U.S. officials in Saigon and in Washington have consistently refused all details of 7th Fleet operations in the Pacific and the South Cina Sea.

It is known, however, that ships of the fleet regularly patrol the entire South China Sea area, sailing close to both China and North Vietnam on occasion.

Arab Lifting of Embargo Premature Says Official

KUWAIT (UPI) — Kuwaiti Foreign Minister Sheikh Sabah Al Ahmed As Sabah said in an interview published today it is "premature" to reconsider the question of lifting the Arab oil embargo against the United States or increasing production at this stage of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Sheikh Sabah told the Kuwaiti newspaper Al Rai El Aam (Public Opinion): "The lifting of oil measures is linked with the withdrawal of Israel from the occupied Arab land and restoration of the rights of the Palestinian people.

"It is premature to reconsider the oil supply question or production increase at this stage particularly because Israel has so far failed to declare her intention to withdraw from the Arab land," he said.

Boating Cowboys Round Up Cattle in Northwest

By The Associated Press

Idaho cowboys riding motorboats instead of horses roped stranded cattle and towed them out of flooded areas as most of the Pacific Northwest returned to normal today after a week of flooding.

A Red Cross spokesman in North Idaho said cowboys were towing strays out of swamped areas with motorboats and occasionally gave the cattle artificial respiration to revive them.

NO NEW MAJOR flooding was reported in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana or Northern California, but the National Weather Service predicted rainshowers for the region today.

A helicopter pilot became the 17th reported flood-related fatality when his helicopter crashed [illegible]. The pilot, Larry Brown, 26, of Yakima, Wash., was flying supplies to persons stranded by flood in south-central Washington.

In Oregon, searchers found four more bodies of the nine men killed Wednesday in a huge mudslide near Canyonville. The body of one of the nine victims is still missing — Raymond Bell, 59, of Myrtle Creek, an employe of Sage Pipeline Co.

Authorities identified the four bodies found Sunday as Robert Miller, 46, of Roseburg; William Centers, 45, of Medford; Gilbert Maret, 47, of Wilbur and Williams Combs, 42, of Roseburg. They were employes of Pacific Northwest Bell.

THE NINE MEN were killed when tons of mud and debris cascaded down a hill, sweeping away a small building where the men were working. The building housed telephone switching equipment.

Foood damage in the five states has been estimated at more than $100 million, and thousands of persons have been left homeless. Eleven persons died in Oregon, four in Northern California and two in Washington.

U.S. Highway 101, one of the two main links between California and Oregon, was closed in places by mudslides.

Schools were still closed today in Ashland, Ore., a city of 14,400. Health officers closed all restaurants and taverns in the southern Oregon city, and water to homes was turned off because of contamination after two water mains burst.

DRINKING WATER was available only from National Guard tankers.

The 600 residents of Klickitat, Wash., remained isolated except for some treacherous back country roads.

Clear skies and crisp air greeted Southern Californians as a light storm which brought some rain headed southeastward. The morning sun burned off some fog and low clouds and further clearing was expected Tuesday.

The rain brought .20 of an inch to Los Angeles, .15 of an inch to the San Fernando Valley and .43 of an inch to Mt. Wilson.

Downtown Los Angeles' season total was raised to 10.82 inches, compared with 10.36 last year and 6.56 normally for the period.

No new snow was added to the mountain areas for skiers, but the rain did clear clouds and fog which had made driving conditions hazardous in the San Gabriel Mountains and temporarily closed air traffic at county carports.

Winds of up to 45 miles per hour accompanied the clouds and drizzle in some mountain and desert areas.

U.S. Summary

Travelers warnings were posted today as the East Coast braced for a winter storm rolling in from the Great Lakes.

Ice and freezing rain were expected from eastern New York and northeast Pennsylvania through New Hampshire and southern New England.

A freezing rain warning was in effect for upper Michigan as rain fell from South Dakota across the upper Great Lakes into northeastern New York and Vermont.

At the southern edge of this storm system, heavy rains brought flooding to Mississippi and Tennessee. Ten families were evacuated from their homes in southern Mississippi because of flooding.

Two tornadoes were reported Sunday, including one in Arlington, Ga., which destroyed a mobile home and two warehouses. The other, in Goshen, Ala., killed thousands of chickens.

No injuries were reported to residents.

Light rain fell in the upper Mississippi Valley today, sending rivers even higher than expected.

100-point Game

Awesome Start For Vikes Frosh

By HANK WESCH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Future foes of Marina High School basketball please take note—your problems appear to be monumental.

That Marina is becoming a well of basketball talent is generally conceded by even staunch rivals, and that well it apparently a deep one. Especially in light of a recent 104-26 victory by the Marina freshman team over Anaheim in a Sunset League game.

The Vikings frosh left Anaheim in a state of shock in the game after amassing the following statistics:

—Scoring an average of three points a minute for the 32-minute game and stunning the Colonists by outscoring them 36-10 in the first quarter and 30-0 in the second period.

—Cashing in 50 percent of their field goal attempts (41 of 82) and 69 percent from the free throw line (22 of 32) while Anaheim shot only 17 percent (six of 26).

—Doing it all without the services of one regular starter, who was out with an illness, and using reserves exclusively in the second half.

It was a performance that impressed everyone with one exception, Vikings coach Ray Allen.

"I've really been more impressed by this team in other games," Allen says. "Our opponents didn't play that well early in the games, and once we got rolling everything went right.

"I was happier for the team when it beat Newport 78-77 without four of the first five starters for most of the game."

In what is starting to become a Marina trademark the Vikings freshman team wins with balanced scoring, a fast-break offense and pressing tactics.

All five starters average nearly 10 points per game, and the reserves who see a lot of action, average nearly four apiece as a group.

The starters include 6-3 Terry Warren (13.2 points per game average), 5-10 guard Jeff Wolfe (12.8), 5-9 guard Rick Puig (10.2), 5-11 forward Manny Torres (9.3) and 6-2 guard-forward Chuck Spade (9.0).

The team's balance was particularly evident in the Anaheim win. Puig and Warren scored 17 points each to pace the starters with Wolfe scoring 15. From the other players, the scoring breakdown showed Richard Harlow and Dave Gibbs with nine each, Torres and Brent Kosick with six each, Jim Dougherty with 5 and a quintet of Spade, Todd King, Charlie Koeller, Perry Bogdan and Glenn Leckie with four each.

Similar scoring balance all season has allowed the Vikings freshmen to win nine of 11 games and average 72 points per contest against 48 per game for the opposition. The two losses came to Fountain Valley (66-59) and to La Mirada in tournament championship games.

Allen, who once coached a Marina freshman team to a 20-0 record, says the Vikings will be a team to reckon with in coming years, but is hesitant about dishing out too many superlatives.

"This team is the best scoring freshman team I've ever seen, but they don't have the overall speed and defense of the 20-0 team I coached," says Allen.

"We've won our first two league games, but I know there are several good teams in the league, and I wouldn't venture to say who will be the team to beat."

It's quite likely they wouldn't be so hesitant to answer that question at Anaheim.

MATER DEI BASKETBALL STANDOUT BRENDON McCAUGHEY.

MD's McCaughey Leads by Example

By STEVE BRAND
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Ireland may have lost its best basketball prospect 14 years ago when Brian McCaughey moved his family, including son Brendon, to the United States.

Ireland's loss is Mater Dei High's gain.

"Brendon is one of the best pure shooters we've ever had, maybe the best," says Mater Dei basketball coach Jerry Tardie of the Costa Mesa resident.

"He's a co-captain and leads by example. He doesn't talk much, but when he does, the players listen.

"I really didn't expect this team to be 12-4 right now but the play of Brendon has helped make this club a winner."

McCaughey is accurate from 20 feet but prefers 15-20 foot shots.

"I think I shoot best from the corner," says McCaughey, "but I like to shoot from the top of the key, too. From the top of the key I can follow my shots better and rebound."

McCaughey, at just 6-2, is the team's top rebounder as well as its leading scorer at 15.8 points a game. His best game this year scoring-wise came against Savanna in the Anaheim Tournament when he hit 27.

"One of Brendon's greatest assests is his basketball disposition," says Tardie. "In addition to being a good shooter and rebounder, he knows how to shake off a missed shot or bad play.

"Some kids brood and it bothers them for another five minutes. Brendon is ready to play almost immediately.

"He knows how to handle criticism and praise. I guess you could sum up his major strength by saying he's a winner."

If McCaughey's parents hadn't moved to the United States he'd probably be playing soccer. His father is the coach of the Coast Rangers semi-pro soccer team.

"My dad wanted me to play soccer," admits McCaughey, "but I didn't like it. All you do is kick the ball. I prefer to just go out and shoot."

St. John the Baptist School is right across the street from his home and he spends many hours practicing on the asphalt courts.

He says his decision to attend Mater Dei, instead of Costa Mesa High, was made early.

"I played in a tournament here in the eighth grade and saw enough games when I was still in junior high to know I wanted to go here," says McCaughey.

"It wasn't a major decision."

So Costa Mesa's loss, as well as Ireland's, is Mater Dei's gain.

Too Much Money Offered On Golf Tour--Weiskopf

Yet the young Ohio State graduate feels there is too much money being offered, especially for the top two places in each tournament.

Weiskopf stopped by La Costa Country Club last Monday and expressed his views on the subject of golf.

"I personally think we play for too much money right now. When I say this, I mean $500,000 for one tournament and 20 percent of the total purse is far too much for first place."

HOWARD HANDY

Weiskopf feels strongly about is the designated tournament situation that the PGA is gradually putting into vogue.

"I think it is unfair to say you have to play this week. Suppose my best friend is getting married and I want to attend the wedding.

"Instead, the PGA says I have to play in a tournament and must skip the wedding.

"I think there will be cases where favoritism will be shown.

"Golfers are very spoiled and selfish people. We play for so much money. But if a guy doesn't feel like playing, I think it is the worst thing they can do to tell him he has to play.

"How do you think they feel in Memphis this year? They are right between two designated tournaments and how many of the players who have to play in the designated events do you think will play in Memphis?"

Weiskopf is also cognizant of the high attrition rate on the pro tour.

"When I started in 1965, there were 39 rookies. Only Homero Blancas and myself remain. That's 37 leaving for club pro jobs or other endeavors in six years."

Weiskopf says it costs about $25,000 a year for a pro on the circuit to live. This includes maintaining a home base and expenses while traveling.

"I'm not against sponsors," Weiskopf says. "I have never had one but a lot of young guys out there are killing time because of the sponsors paying the bills."

He also feels the tour is too long and would be better off to start late in January and end in mid-October.

"Golf has been great to me and it has given me a chance to visit many foreign countries. I get a lot of satisfaction out of a fifth place finish. The hardest thing in the world to do is to win."

UC Irvine's gain is Philadelphia's loss. [illegible] baseman J. [illegible] Malinoff, taken by the Phillies in the recent free agent draft, will remain in school this spring to complete his final year of collegiate competition.

"I didn't get what I was after but that doesn't disappoint me at all," Jeff says. "I really like it here at UCI and want to finish school.

"Mr. (Al) Zarilla talked to me and was very fair but his offer wasn't what I wanted so I'll remain in school this year," the young left-hander adds.

Zarilla is the Phillies scout in this area and this is the second time he has talked with Malinoff about signing. Maybe the third time will be the charm come June when Jeff graduates.

Riverside 500 Reset

RIVERSIDE — Rain interrupted the Winston Western 500 after 156 miles Sunday, causing the first major stock car race of the season to be postponed until Saturday.

Rain began to pepper the nine-turn, 2.62-mile Riverside International Raceway while Chevrolet-driving Bobby Allison was leading the pack in the 60th lap.

The yellow caution flag came out to slow the field, and was followed three laps later by a red flag which halted proceedings.

The 29 survivors from an original starting field of 35 pulled their gaudily-painted cars to pit road, where they sat for more than three hours before track officials informed the 44,500 spectators that there would be a delay of six days before the restart.

BOAT TALK—by Capt. Bob

SAVE YOUR ENERGY GO BOATING

There has been a lot of misinformation and confusion regarding the use of fuel for recreational boating during the current "energy crunch." Before you rush out and put your boat on blocks, take just a few minutes to separate these FACTS from FICTION.

FACT! Although boating is America's number one family recreation sport, all of the pleasure boats in the U.S. consume only 1/2 of 1 per cent of the fuel used nationally. At the same time, recreational boating is a clean, healthful, family activity enjoyed by 40 million middle income Americans.

FACT! Recreational boating is a $4 billion industry directly employing 500,000 persons, plus providing important support for thousands of other firms. No responsible government could conceivably think of seriously damaging an industry that has such a profound impact on our nation's economy and people.

FACT! By far, the overwhelming percentage of recreation boats in the U.S. are small (average 16 feet) with low horsepower engines (40 per cent under 20 horsepower)—NOT the large luxury yachts featured in fiction.

FACT! When you spend the day boating with your family, you probably are using LESS energy than if you stayed at home. You're saving energy because you're not running several TV's or hi-fi's. The air conditioning or heat can be turned off. You're not burning lights. Your wife is not using the range, hair dryer, vacuum cleaner, or other energy consuming appliances. You're also not burning up fuel in your car shopping, visiting friends—or fuming in a freeway traffic jam.

FACT! Boating is a close-at-home sport for Southern Californians. You are just a short fuel-easy drive to many excellent water recreation areas.

FINAL FACT! Boating is important to millions of Americans. And to America. It is a healthy way for you and your family to get away from it all—and get together. On top of all this, boating can actually help you SAVE ENERGY. Think about it.

New Class Scheduled

"California Geology" is being offered at Coast College evening schedule this spring for the first time.

It is a three-unit class that will meet Tuesday evenings from 7-10 p.m. in the OCC Science Building. The course will look at geologic framework and factors which have influenced California's human history. It will examine the interrelationships of geology with agriculture, transportation, construction, mining, the oil and gas industry, recreation, and public welfare.

Spring classes begin Feb. 4.

Newport Seeks Bigger Slice of Oil Revenues

By JOHN ZALLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach wants a bigger share of the $1 million annual revenue from its offshore oil fields.

But the Armstrong Petroleum Corporation has refused to renegotiate the long term lease which permits it to operate those fields.

Under the current contract, Newport Beach will receive about $125,000 per year for the 110,000 barrels of oil it permits Armstrong to remove from the public tidelands.

At the same time, Armstrong will receive about $875,000 per year as its share of the value of that oil.

City officials believe that in view of the skyrocketing value of oil, this seven-to-one ratio for division of oil revenue is no longer equitable.

"In the days when oil was selling for just $1 or $2 a barrel, this might have been a fair arrangement," says Newport Beach City Manager Robert L. Wynn.

"It was expensive to operate oil fields, and if the ratio had been any lower, it might not have been feasible to operate the field," he says.

But in past the few weeks, the market value of oil from the city's fields shot from $3.16 per barrel to $9.06 per barrel.

Thus what was once a possibly marginal operation for Armstrong suddenly became an extrememly profitable one.

Without increasing his production one barrel above 1973 levels, Armstrong was able to raise his gross sales revenue from $350,000 last year to an expected $875,000 in 1974? City revenues also are expected to increase — from $40,000 to $125,000 — bu Wynn believes there is room for them to go much higher. The hitch is that Armstrong has a contract that runs through 1981.

Robert Armstrong, president and owner of Armstrong Petroleum, declines to discuss publicly his contract with the city. However, he does say that he believes the recent increase in revenues is reasonable.

"I know there are those who think these are undeserved windfall profits," he says. "But I don't think so. In my opinion, oil is just rising in price to the level of its real value.

"Now there's some incentive to explore for more oil and to make improvements in existing fields that wouldn't otherwise be feasible."

Armstrong says that with the increased revenue from his city fields he will be able for the first time to afford a genuine oil exploration program in

Oil Firms 'Cheating' Solon Says

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Oil company executives appearing before a Senate panel investigating the severity of the energy crisis were accused today of "cheating the American public."

The charges were made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increaseses in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

Ribicoff said the oil firms misled federal energy chief William E. Simon

Newport Beauty Miss Chinatown In LA Parade

Bettie Kym Young, 21, of Newport Beach, the new Miss Chinatown of Southern California, will lead the Year of the Valiant Tiger parade through Los Angeles Tuesday.

She was chosen to reign over the Chinese New Year celebration from among nine contestants who spoke Chinese and modeled pantsuits and evening gowns.

Miss Young is a physical therapy major at Long Beach City College and will enroll next semester at Orange Coast College.

She came to California two years ago from Hughes, Ark., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yet Quang Young and four brothers reside. She was born in Memphis.

The 5-foot-6, 120-pound beauty queen will represent the Chinese community on a year-long publicity tour climaxed when she competes for Miss Chinatown, USA, in San Francisco.

Popeil Murder Plot Hearing Given Delay

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit murder against Eloise Popeil and her alleged lover was continued to Thursday after opening today in Long Beach Municipal Court.

The three-day delay was granted by Judge Charles Litwin so that codefendant Daniel Ayers will have time to find an attorney.

The motion for continuance was granted at noon, two hours after Judge Litwin had denied a similar request.

Public defender John Yzurdiaga successfully pleaded that Ayers was not eligible to be represented throughout court proceedings by the public defender's office and that he needed the additional time to find a private attorney.

Yzurdiaga, however, was unsuccessful in persuading the judge to reduce the $100,000 bail that Ayers is being held on to $25,000. At the start of today's proceedings a special counsel for Ayers, Frank Karl of Los Angeles, was

Watergate Lie by Porter Claimed

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter of Laguna Niguel, a former official of President Nixon's re-election committee, will plead guilty to one count of lying to the FBI about the Watergate break-in, his attorney said today.

Porter's attorney, Charles B. Murray, said his client intends to plead guilty next Monday when the case is heard by U.S. District Judge William Bryant. The charge was filed today.

Porter and his wife Carol and three children have been living with her parents, Arthur and Dolly Briggs of 32451 Mediterranean Drive in Monarch Terrace, since early spring.

"We are still getting our lives back together," Mrs. Porter said when contacted today at the Briggs home.

"I hate the word 'lie' . . . it conjures up all kinds of things in people's minds," Mrs. Porter said. "It is not my husband's habit to lie. He is pleading guilty to making a false statement to the FBI."

Since moving from Washington, D.C. last spring, Porter has been employed in his father-in-law's contracting firm.

Porter, former scheduling director for the Nixon re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee last summer that he had lied to the FBI

Hugh Scott 'Hopeful' In Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, who attended a White House briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today, said the "strongest blockage" to an agreement on lifting of the oil embargo by the Arabs was removed by the signing of the Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The Pennsylvania senator also said that he was hopeful of "constructive progress" and perhaps "some early progress" in reaching some settlement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger and President Nixon were applauded at the bipartisan congressional leadership meeting in the Cabinet room to hear a report by Kissinger, just returned from 11 days of diplomatic negotiations.

Scott said there were "no secret guarantees," and that none was mentioned and "I don't believe any existed." He said various assurances were given to both parties as the negotiation sessions went on, which he said led both parties to feel that security was better assured.

Scott declined to give any predictions on when the oil embargo to the United States might be lifted. He said he hopes progress will continue and said, "the strongest blockade to an agreement on oil was removed by the signing of the agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"It is hopeful," Scott said, "that this progress which is being made will continue and result favorably."

Scott added that the United States has no military commitment or involvement in the Mideast and it simply was a case of making its good offices available and he will continue to do so.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Kissinger outlined the mideast negotiations in detail, adding "There were no secret agreements or understandings."

Mansfield commended Kissinger for a "superb job in effecting a first step agreement," and said he is cautiously hopeful for a similar disengagament agreement between Syria and Israel.

"You're our hero," Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), greeted Kissinger as they shook hands.

STEPPING DOWN
Congressman Hosmer

By GEORGE LEIDAL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Health and court-ordered reshaping of his district may have led to today's announcement by Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) that he will not seek re-election to Congress.

Hosmer, victim of two heart attacks in recent years, has been elected 11 times since 1953. He has represented voters in Seal Beach and Huntington Beach for several years. However, portions of Hosmer's district were assigned to a district in which Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R-Mission Viejo) is expected to run next fall.

"It has been a tough decision," Hosmer said today in Washington, "but now seems to be the logical time to make way for a new representative in the new 34th Congressional District."

Hosmer expressed his "deep gratitude" to the people of the 32nd district for allowing him "to serve long and continuously in the Congress during an era of key decision on nuclear, environmental and many other vital issues of historic concern."

Hosmer, 58, is an attorney and retired Naval Reserve rear admiral. He is the ranking Republican member of both the joint committee on atomic energy and the House Interior Committee.

"Long seniority helps a congressman serve his constituency well but from time to time, it s also healthy for fresh talent to move up to governmental responsibility," he said.

Hosmer indicated he expects to go into business or practice law or go into "other government service" but has no definite plans at this time.

Hosmer indicated his decision was due to the California Supreme Court decision realigning the state's Congressional districts. But, he denied that he felt he couldn't be re-elected.

"It's a fully manageable district," he said.

Arches Motel Tenants Served Eviction Note

The 30 tenants of the Arches Motel have been served formal eviction notices giving them 11 days to vacate their apartments.

Linda Pfeiffer, manager of the complex, says the Feb. 1 eviction notices were served Sunday by officials of the California Department of Transporation, which owns the property at 224 N. Newport Blvd., Newport Beach.

"I don't know how all of us are supposed to find a new place, get packed, and move out on such short notice," Mrs. Pfeiffer complained.

"But it looks like that's what we'll have to do. They threatened to send the marshal if we don't," she said.

Mrs. Pfeiffer and her tenants were first informed last week that the state has immediate plans for bulldozing the old hotel and apartment structures.

"When they came last week they said we had to be out two days ago," said Mrs. Pfeiffer. "So we really didn't know what was going to happen.

"At least with the eviction notices, we know."

State officials explained that they had served termination notices last November to the master lease holder of the property, but that he had apparently neglected to notify the apartment manager or the tenants.

Court Scene

Visitors View 'Plot' Suspects

The appearance in Long Beach Municipal Court today of Eloise Popeil and Daniel Ayers, alleged lovers accused of a murder plot, was considerably different than it was two weeks ago.

At that time, the slim Newport Beach matron and the unemployed machinist had been in custody for two days. They wore the clothes they were arrested in to the courtroom for arraignment.

But today, Mrs. Popeil, 48, who has been out on bail for more than a week, arrived in a cream-colored shirt dress escorted by her two attorneys and one of the attorney's wives.

Her alleged conspirator, who made his initial appearance in a dirty white jacket and faded blue jeans, came to court handcuffed and escorted by a Los Angeles county marshal.

This time Ayres, whose long brown hair reveals a balding spot, was attired in a dapper gray suit, blue shirt and floral pattern tie.

The pair was ogled by a courtroom full of spectators who were evenly divided among a core of newsmen covering the hearing and a group of senior citizens who apparently had individually been following the case in the newspapers.

Also present were two men identified only as Mr. Reed and Mr. Peeler who sources say are the two men police allege were hired killers who broke the case and turned their evidence over to police.

The two men, who declined to speak to reporters, sat quietly in a back row watching the proceedings until a two-hour recess was granted so that Ayers could talk to the public defender.

Most of that recess the two men, who were also dressed in gray suits, paced the corridor outside the courtroom and chatted ith Diwstrict Attorney Charles Sheldon and Long Beach police investigator Tom Hughes.

By the time court reconvened most of the little old men and little old ladies had left, leaving as observers to the 15-minute session only witnesses who might have been called to the stand and newsmen.

But Judge Litwin told the public defender he was denying the motion without prejudice and he would entertain a similar motion at the close of the preliminary hearing which is expected to last three or four days.

Mrs. Popeil has been free after posting $100,000 bail on Jan. 12 but Ayers has remained in custody. In his appearance in court today, Ayers also was granted a total of four phone calls in search for an attorney.

Ayers, 37, and Mrs. Popeil, 48, are accused of a plot to murder her multi-millionaire husband, Samuel Popeil of Chicago.

They were arrested Jan. 8 at Mrs. Popeil's bayfront home at 519 Harbor Island Road.

Police allege they hired an acquaintance of Ayers for $25,000 to travel to Chicago to kill the kitchen gadget manufacturer.

Their motives, detectives allege, was financial in that if he were killed before their divorce became final Mrs. Popeil would have inherited one third of his $200 million estate.

Slipping Away

Mrs. Sue Simpson, a neighbor, ponders slippage of Upper Newport Bay cliff at Dover Shores home of Dr. and Mrs. Justin Call, 1958 Galaxy Drive. Several feet of the cliff have crumbled in a series of small slides over the past six weeks. Cracks in the cliff also have developed at four other homes in the area. City officials say the slippage has not endangered any of the homes yet.

Power Pole Replacement Snarls Newport Traffic

Commuters bound for Newport Beach's business and financial districts this morning encountered an unexpected detour because workmen were replacing a power pole at the intersection of MacArthur Boulevard and Jamboree Road.

Traffic had to be rerouted because the pole, which caught on fire Sunday night, threatened to fall into the busy intersection, according to a spokesman for the Southern California Edison Company.

Newport Beach police, who blocked the intersection, said some drivers ignored the barricades and were given citations. The intersection was predicted to be passable again tonight.

The pole burned at 6:45 p.m. Sunday blacking out power to a one square mile area near Orange County Airport. Three 30,000 volt wires and three 12,000 volt wires were destroyed.

Edison officials said the fire was caused when electricity "tracked" past the insulators and down the pole because of damp weather and fog.

Newport Beach fire inspector Art Morton said the pole was in danger of snapping and that restaurants in the airport area had to serve dinners by candle light until power was restored.

The Edison Company shut off electricity at 7:40 p.m. and rerouted it through other lines to most of the affected area within 10 minutes.

Boats Encounter Rough Sailing Off Dana Point

Two boaters who braved the bad weather and put out to sea from Dana Harbor Sunday wished later in the day that they had stayed at home.

Harbor patrolmen said that the two vessels nearly were lost in separate mishaps — one a near-sinking and the other a soggy grounding on a San Clemente beach.

The boat lost its battery power and could not be restarted shortly before noon.

The lack of an anchor on board meant that there was nothing to keep the vessel from running aground, patrolmen said.

San Clemente lifeguards attached a tow rope to the vessel after it fetched up at Poche Beach and patrolmen succeeded in towing the boat back to Dana Harbor.

The second incident involved a 25-foot cabin cruiser which suddenly began taking on water near the harbor entrance at 2:30 p.m.

Patrolmen said the owner-operator, George Tagulis of Anaheim, used an "unconventional but effective" mayday signal.

The stranded skipper fired several shots into the air with a .44 magnum pistol.

Officers said that shortly after the distress was fired, Tagulis abandoned ship. He was picked up by a passing sailboat.

A passenger in the craft, in the meantime, had stayed aboard the sinking cruiser.

Patrolmen used pumps to keep the boat afloat and once into the harbor they found the reason for the leak.

A hose in the engine cooling system had come off and water pumps were filling the bilges.

Damage to each craft was described as minor by patrolmen.

Torture Orgy Survivors Set For Testimony

HOUSTON (UPI) — With testimony at the pretrial hearing of accused mass murderer Elmer Wayne Henley becoming more lurid, Judge William M. Hatten asked attorneys to speed examinations of the persons expected to be the most dramatic witnesses.

The defense will call Rhonda Williams, 15, and Timothy Kerley, 20, the couple stripped and strapped to "torture boards" the night Henley called police and said he shot and killed Dean Corll, the alleged mastermind of the sex and torture ring.

Henley, 17, is expected to take the stand Tuesday to tell about his oral and written confessions to police Aug. 8, 9 and 10, the first days of the investigation of the three-year spree of sex and torture which left 27 young men dead.

"I'm trying to keep us from trying this case at this hearing so the publicity won't make it impossible for us to get a jury," Hatten said.

Hatten said he still wanted jury selection to begin Jan. 28, its originally scheduled date, but that timetable appeared out of reach because of extended testimony during the first week.

The pretrial hearing will decide a defense motion to suppress Henley's confessions because, according to the defense, Henley's constitutional rights were violated by police and Henley was not competent to waive constitutional rights.

Police said Henley confessed to killing six of the teen-age boys procured for Corll and to how Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, charged with four murders, led them to the victims' graves at a Houston boat shed, near Lake Sam Rayburn in East Texas and along the Gulf Coast north of Galveston.

Henley said he shot Corll in self-defense during that last orgy at Corll's house in the Heights suburb of Houston. Kerley and Miss Williams were in the house that night, but have only told their stories to a grand jury, never in public.

Press Contact To White House Staffers Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential spokesman confirmed today that all White House staff members have been asked by senior officials to report any contacts they have with members of the news media.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said it was simply an effort to be informed about "concerns being expressed by the press" of things that are on the public's mind.

There was no intention of intimidation or curbing contacts with the press, he added.

Warren said the President's senior staff concluded in the last 10 days or so that such reporting "would be a helpful thing."

He said he didn't know if President Nixon was aware of the suggestion.

But Warren maintained "it's not a big deal." He said that staff members can report "whenever they wish," either before or after talking to reporters.

Reports of contacts were to be made to the press office, headed by senior staff member Ronald Ziegler, who has the dual job of press secretary and assistant to the President, Warren said.

Warren denied that this suggestion was related to alleged Pentagon spying on the National Security Council.

The spokesman said he could not say who of the senior advisers initiated the idea. It evolved from daily meetings at the White House, he said.

He called it merely "a matter of exchanging information" of concerns expressed by reporters.

Porter testified at the trial that $100,000 of the money given to G. Gordon Liddy was for hiring 10 college students in 10 cities for campaign work.

He had told the same story to the grand jury and the FBI, but admitted at the Senate Watergate hearing that the store was false.

By pleading guilty he will avoid separate charges of making false sworn statements to various investigative bodies.

During the Senate Watergate hearings, Porter engaged in a famous dialogue with Sen. Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn.), over how he could have taken part in Watergate-related activities.

Porter replied at the time that he had known Nixon since 1946, and that he did so out of a feeling of loyalty and team play.

Speaking to reporters before his court session, Porter said: "I'm a much happier person now, doing what I'm doing — getting away from that kind of existence."

A college classmate of White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, Porter joined the staff of then-communications director Herbert G. Klein in late 1970. Porter left about five months later to join the re-election committee.

Milk Supplies Control Sought By Dairy Co-op

WASHINGTON (AP) — A court deposition from a former official of the nation's largest dairy cooperative indicates the firm sought to gain control of all milk supplies in the United States.

The cooperative, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., is facing government antitrust action for allegedly illegal monopoly practices.

David L. Parr said in a deposition that a major aim of the Texas-based firm was "to manage or control the total supply of milk in the United States, including imports and exports."

The civil antitrust action against the cooperactive has not come to trial. It was initiated in 1972 after thenAtty. Gen. John N. Mitchell turned down a proposed grand jury probe of the company's activities.

The cooperative pledged $2 million to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign and eventually gave $202,000.

A separate controversy has surfaced surrounding those contributions, with the White House denying that the gifts had anything to do with the President ordering a 1971 increase in milk price supports.

Parr made his statements on the effort to control milk supplies in a deposition taken in October 1972. He was special counsel to the cooperative's manager, Harold Nelson, who he said knew he was promoting the goal of national control and didn't stop him.

Parr said a primary objective of such a national cooperative would be to raise the income of dairy farmers.

Parr is staff adviser to Dairymen, Inc., of Louisville, Ky., the nation's third largest dairy cooperative. That firm is also being sued by the Justice Department for alleged monopoly tactics.

Nelson was ousted as Associated's manager shortly before the government's antitrust suit was filed and is general manager of the American Grain and Cattle Cooperative in San Antonio, Tex.

Powder Puff Flag Pigskin Games Aid Fairview Fund

Football fans take notice. The season did not end with Sunday's Pro Bowl. There are still two games to go. The players are girls. What's more, they're playing for money.

The annual Powder Puff flag football series begins Saturday night at Davidson Field. It will involve juniors and seniors from Estancia and Costa Mesa High Schools.

The girls plan to turn over all receipts to Fairview Hospital for use in the hospital's retarded Olympics and to Pete Richardson, a former Costa Mesa High School football player who was paralyzed in a surfing accident three years ago.

The first game, between Estancia seniors and Estancia juniors, is scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p.m. Costa Mesa juniors will play the Costa Mesa seniors at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the gate. The cost is $1 for adults, 75 cents for students, and 50 cents for children.

A second benefit game is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Feb. 2, also at Davidson Field. That night the winners and the losers of Saturday night's game will play each other.

"Last year the girls raised about $1,800 for Pete Richardson," he said.

The powder puff series began five years ago when girls from both campuses volunteered to raise money for athletic equipment and uniforms for Fairview hospital.

The girls play flag football. The games have 12-minute quarters.

Watergate Lie by Porter Claimed

Herbert L. "Bart" Porter of Laguna Niguel, a former official of President Nixon's re-election committee, will plead guilty to one count of lying to the FBI about the Watergate break-in, his attorney said today.

Porter's attorney, Charles B. Murray, said his client intends to plead guilty next Monday when the case is heard by U.S. District Judge William Bryant. The charge was filed today.

Porter and his wife Carol and three children have been living with her parents, Arthur and Dolly Briggs of 32451 Mediterranean Drive in Monarch Terrace, since early spring.

"We are still getting our lives back together," Mrs. Porter said when contacted today at the Briggs home.

"I hate the word 'lie' . . . it conjures up all kinds of things in people's minds," Mrs. Porter said. "It is not my husband's habit to lie. He is pleading guilty to making a false statement to the FBI."

Since moving from Washington, D.C. last spring, Porter has been employed in his father-in-law's contracting firm.

Porter, former scheduling director for the Nixon re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee last summer that he had lied to the FBI

Solon Says Oil Firms 'Cheating'

From Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Oil company executives appearing before a Senate panel investigating the severity of the energy crisis were accused today of "cheating the American public."

The charges were made by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

Ribicoff accused the companies of using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increaseses in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

Ribicoff said the oil firms misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages. Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), said that some of the information the companies submitted to his staff was evasive.

Executives from six other oil companies — Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana and Shell — sat in the Senate hearing room across the table from Ribicoff.

Popeil Murder Plot Hearing Given Delay

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy to commit murder against Eloise Popeil and her alleged lover was continued to Thursday after opening today in Long Beach Municipal Court.

The three-day delay was granted by Judge Charles Litwin so that codefendant Daniel Ayers will have time to find an attorney.

The motion for continuance was granted at noon, two hours after Judge Litwin had denied a similar request.

Public defender John Yzurdiaga successfully pleaded that Ayers was not eligible to be represented throughout court proceedings by the public defender's office and that he needed the additional time to find a private attorney.

Yzurdiaga, however, was unsuccessful in persuading the judge to reduce the $100,000 bail that Ayers is being held on to $25,000. At the start of today's proceedings a special counsel for Ayers, Frank Karl of Los Angeles, was also unsuccessful in getting the bail reduced to $20,000.

Hugh Scott 'Hopeful' In Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Repuhlican leader Hugh Scott, who attended a White House briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger today, said the "strongest blockage" to an agreement on lifting of the oil embargo by the Arabs was removed by the signing of the Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The Pennsylvania senator also said that he was hopeful of "constructive progress" and perhaps "some early progress" in reaching some settlement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger and President Nixon were applauded at the bipartisan congressional leadership meeting in the Cabinet room to hear a report by Kissinger, just returned from 11 days of diplomatic negotiations.

Scott said there were "no secret guarantees," and that none was mentioned and "I don't believe any existed." He said various assurances were given to both parties as the negotiation sessions went on, which he said led both parties to feel that security was better assured.

Scott declined to give any predictions on when the oil embargo to the United States might be lifted. He said he hopes progress will continue and said, "the strongest blockade to an agreement on oil was removed by the signing of the agreement between Israel and Egypt.

"It is hopeful," Scott said, "that this progress which is being made will continue and result favorably."

Scott added that the United States has no military commitment or involvement in the Mideast and it simply was a case of making its good offices available and he will continue to do so.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Kissinger outlined the mideast negotiations in detail, adding "There were no secret agreements or understandings."

Mansfield commended Kissinger for a "superb job in effecting a first step agreement," and said he is cautiously hopeful for a similar disengagament agreement between Syria and Israel.

Acrobat Arrested

Hand Standing Brings Drunk Rap

A Costa Mesa man was arrested for alleged drunkenness and assault on a Laguna Beach police officer after police responded to a report of a man doing handstands in the intersection of a downtown street Friday night.

POLICE ARRESTED Phillip B. Bell, 22, of apartment 41, 525 Victoria Place.

Police allege that during Bell's arrest for drunk in public, he kicked Laguna Patrolman Paul Rose in the chest and spat in the officer's face.

ROSE REPORTED that he observed the characteristics of intoxication and arrested Bell.

After being handcuffed and placed in the rear of the police car, Bell assertedly became angry and kicked at the doors and windows of the unit.

He assertedly kicked Rose as he was being moved to the Laguna Beach Jail.

Congressman Hosmer Won't Seek Re-election

By GEORGE LEIDAL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Health and court-ordered reshaping of his district may have led to today's announcement by Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) that he will not seek re-election to Congress.

Hosmer, victim of two heart attacks in recent years, has been elected 11 times since 1953. He has represented voters in Seal Beach and Huntington Beach for several years. However, portions of Hosmer's district were assigned to a district in which Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R-Mission Viejo) is expected to run next fall.

"It has been a tough decision," Hosmer said today in Washington, "but now seems to be the logical time to make way for a new representative in the new 34th Congressional District."

Hosmer expressed his "deep gratitude" to the people of the 32nd district for allowing him "to serve long and continuously in the Congress during an era of key decision on nuclear, environmental and many other vital issues of historic concern."

Hosmer, 58, is an attorney and retired Naval Reserve rear admiral. He is the ranking Republican member of both the joint committee on atomic energy and the House Interior Committee.

"Long seniority helps a congressman serve his constituency well but from time to time, it s also healthy for fresh talent to move up to governmental responsibility," he said.

Hosmer indicated he expects to go into business or practice law or go into "other government service" but has no definite plans at this time.

Hosmer indicated his decision was due to the California Supreme Court decision realigning the state's Congressional districts. But, he denied that he felt

Billboard Light Prohibition Eased by PUC

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Public Utilities Commission today amended its mandatory power curtailment order to allow electric business signs and billboards to remain illuminated longer.

The PUC Jan. 3 ordered curtailment of specific customer groups effective this Wednesday night to achieve at least a 15 percent reduction in the use of electricity.

Businesses would be restricted to one electric outdoor sign, which could be lighted until a half-hour after closing of business. Billboard lighting was barred after 9 p.m.

The amended order extends the billboard lighting to 10:30 p.m. and allows one outdoor business sign to remain lighted between the hours of sunset and half an hour after closing or 10:30 p.m., whichever comes later.

The PUC said the California Electric Sign Association and California State Outdoor Advertising Association "presented uncontroverted evidence" at public hearings last week that the mandatory curtailment ordered was discriminatory to their industries.

The PUC said the record shows that a 33 percent saving of electricity can be obtained with a 10:30 p.m. turnoff of billboard lighting. It added that to achieve statewide uniformity and fair, reasonable treatment for the industry, the order should be amended.

Mesa Fire Captain Angry

Claims City Owes Him Salary Hike

RENEWS CONTROVERSY
Mesa Fireman Tillner

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Controversy has flared up again in the case of Norman Tillner, the Costa Mesa fire captain who was fired in 1972 and ordered reinstated by Orange County Superior Court.

Tillner, of 324 Hazel Drive, Corona del Mar, has been back on the job after being out of work 15 months. But he says he has been treated unfairly and claims the city owes him an additional $20 a month in salary benefits.

That is the amount due him from a longevity bonus because he has served on the Costa Mesa Fire Department for 14 years, Tillner claims.

City officials, on the other hand, assert that Tillner, who was demoted to the rank of fireman specialist at the time of his reinstatement, does not qualify for the bonus.

City Manager Fred Sorsabal said the ordinance covering the special payment program clearly specifies that persons are eligible only after one year of continuous service.

Tillner applied for the longevity benefit 2½ months after he was rehired—not long enough, according to Sorsabal. In addition the 49-year-old fireman also failed to demonstrate the "meritorious service" required before payments are allowed.

City councilmen one week ago backed Sorsabal by rejecting the embattled fireman's plea for a public hearing. Tillner was told to take his grievance to court.

Tillner says he might do just that if he can have an assurance from his lawyer that the city would have to pick up the legal fees if he wins his case.

The fireman, one of the original unionists in the Costa Mesa Fire Department claims his troubles, both past and current, stem from his involvement as a member of the International Association of Firefighters.

He said the word was out that the fire administration was out to crush the union and that Tillner was made an example.

Only five Costa Mesa firemen are members of his union. "The other guys went out and sought the Teamsters after I got fired," Tillner maintains.

Tillner was dismissed in March 1972 on 21 different charges, including that he refused to participate in

Tavern Loses Beer, Money

Thieves who bypassed a burglar alarm looted a Costa Mesa tavern of 26 cases of beer and rifled the safe, for a total $517 loss, it was discovered Sunday.

Sharron Kersenbrock, manager of the bar at 1125 Victoria St., discovered the burglary when she arrived to open up for the day's business.

Alan R. Muse, owner of the tavern which has been known as the Olden Times and Callitmacaroni told investigators there was one puzzling aspect to the burglary.

Woman Held in Death

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — A woman has been accused of fatally shooting another woman who allegedly cost her the sight of one eye by stabbing her during a knife fight, police said. Velma M. King, 37, was charged with murdering Sylvia J. Belk, 21, during a party at Mrs. King's home Saturday night, according to authorities.

Court Scene

Visitors View 'Plot' Suspects

The appearance in Long Beach Municipal Court today of Eloise Popeil and Daniel Ayers, alleged lovers accused of a murder plot, was considerably different than it was two weeks ago.

At that time, the slim Newport Beach matron and the unemployed machinist had been in custody for two days. They wore the clothes they were arrested in to the courtroom for arraignment.

But today, Mrs. Popeil, 48, who has been out on bail for more than a week, arrived in a cream-colored shirt dress escorted by her two attorneys and one of the attorney's wives.

Her alleged conspirator, who made his initial appearance in a dirty white jacket and faded blue jeans, came to court handcuffed and escorted by a Los Angeles county marshal.

This time Ayers, whose long brown hair reveals a balding spot, was attired in a dapper gray suit, blue shirt and floral pattern tie.

The pair was ogled by a courtroom full of spectators who were evenly divided among a core of newsmen covering the hearing and a group of senior citizens who apparently had individually been following the case in the newspapers.

Also present were two men identified only as Mr. Reed and Mr. Peeler who sources say are the two men police allege were hired killers who broke the case and turned their evidence over to police.

The two men, who declined to speak to reporters, sat quietly in a back row watching the proceedings until a two-hour recess was granted so that Ayers could talk to the public defender.

Most of that recess the two men, who were also dressed in gray suits, paced the corridor outside the courtroom and chatted with District Attorney Charles Sheldon and Long Beach police investigator Tom Hughes.

By the time court reconvened most of the little old men and little old ladies had left, leaving as observers to the 15-minute session only witnesses who might have been called to the stand and newsmen.

UNHAPPY...

The fire captain asked for a grievance hearing before the city manager which ended with a ruling from Sorsabal upholding Fire Chief John Marshall's dismissal of Tillner.

That decision later was reversed by Judge Robert P. Kneeland, who ordered Tillner reinstated with $15,000 back pay but the judge left his future rank in the hands of the city manager.

Because he was reinstated, Tillner now asserts that he meets the continuous service requiremnt. "Theoretically, I was never away," he maintains.

Further, he insists that the "Meritorius service" requirement is being used as a tool to prevent him from getting the payments.

"I'm sure the city council never meant it to be used that way," says Tillner.

The evaluation by Captain James Richey, a man who ironically worked on Tillner's crew when Tillner was a captain, said that Tillner had not evidenced any interest or shown high quality workmanship.

"He is a machine at his job with no feelings about the city other than contempt," Richey concluded.

However, a subsequent evaluation by the same captain, taken some months later, holds Tillner in high regard, especially for putting in extra time on his job.

Sorsabal said that new recommendation would be taken under consideration next September when Tillner once again is eligible to file for the benefits—not before then.

Fire Chief John Marshall has declined to comment on the Tillner case except to say that the fireman's performance evaluation by his superiors "does not reflect any consideration."

Tillner says the demotion has cost him approximately $200 a month and that he could use the additional $20 he believes is due him.

he couldn't be re-elected.

"It's a fully manageable district," he said.

Hosmer's most recent heart attack came last March while he was on a tour of Japan in connection with his atomic energy committee duties.

Hosmer said the pressures of being a congressman "are enough to kill anybody.

"I've had nearly 22 years in this job and the job just isn't the same anymore. The political climate is different and Congress has changed," he said.

Police Corral Body Snatchers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police leafed through their law books to find the proper law to book two men who allegedly tried to steal a body from a coroner's wagon.

However, truck driver Don Kelly, who told police Sunday he witnessed the incident, didn't have time to locate a book.

He grabbed one of the suspects and "spread him over the hood of a car," Kelly said. The other man surrendered to police.

Torture Orgy Survivors Set For Testimony

HOUSTON (UPI) — With testimony at the pretrial hearing of accused mass murderer Elmer Wayne Henley becoming more lurid, Judge William M. Hatten asked attorneys to speed examinations of the persons expected to be the most dramatic witnesses.

The defense will call Rhonda Williams, 15, and Timothy Kerley, 20, the couple stripped and strapped to "torture boards" the night Henley called police and said he shot and killed Dean Corll, the alleged mastermind of the sex and torture ring.

Henley, 17, is expected to take the stand Tuesday to tell about his oral and written confessions to police Aug. 8, 9 and 10, the first days of the investigation of the three-year spree of sex and torture which left 27 young men dead.

"I'm trying to keep us from trying this case at this hearing so the publicity won't make it impossible for us to get a jury," Hatten said.

Hatten said he still wanted jury selection to begin Jan. 28, its originally scheduled date, but that timetable appeared out of reach because of extended testimony during the first week.

The pretrial hearing will decide a defense motion to suppress Henley's confessions because, according to the defense, Henley's constitutional rights were violated by police and Henley was not competent to waive constitutional rights.

Police said Henley confessed to killing six of the teen-age boys procured for Corll and to how Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, charged with four murders, led them to the victims' graves at a Houston boat shed, near Lake Sam Rayburn in East Texas and along the Gulf Coast north of Galveston.

Henley said he shot Corll in self-defense during that last orgy at Corll's house in the Heights suburb of Houston. Kerley and Miss Williams were in the house that night, but have only told their stories to a grand jury, never in public.

Powder Puff Flag Pigskin Games Aid Fairview Fund

Football fans take notice. The season did not end with Sunday's Pro Bowl. There are still two games to go. The players are girls. What's more, they're playing for money.

The annual Powder Puff flag football series begins Saturday night at Davidson Field. It will involve juniors and seniors from Estancia and Costa Mesa High Schools.

The girls plan to turn over all receipts to Fairview Hospital for use in the hospital's retarded Olympics and to Pete Richardson, a former Costa Mesa High School football player who was paralyzed in a surfing accident three years ago.

The first game, between Estancia seniors and Estancia juniors, is scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p.m. Costa Mesa juniors will play the Costa Mesa seniors at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the gate. The cost is $1 for adults, 75 cents for students, and 50 cents for children.

A second benefit game is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Feb. 2, also at Davidson Field. That night the winners and the losers of Saturday night's game will play each other.

"Last year the girls raised about $1,800 for Pete Richardson," he said.

The powder puff series began five years ago when girls from both campuses volunteered to raise money for athletic equipment and uniforms for Fairview hospital.

The girls play flag football. The games have 12-minute quarters.

'No Intimidation'

White House Staff Told To Report Press Contacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential spokesman confirmed today that all White House staff members have been asked by senior officials to report any contacts they have with members of the news media.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said it was simply an effort to be informed about "concerns being expressed by the press" of things that are on the public's mind.

There was no intention of intimidation or curbing contacts with the press, he added.

Warren said the President's senior staff concluded in the last 10 days or so that such reporting "would be a helpful thing."

He said he didn't know if President Nixon was aware of the suggestion.

But Warren maintained "it's not a big deal." He said that staff members can report "whenever they wish," either before or after talking to reporters.

Reports of contacts were to be made to the press office, headed by senior staff member Ronald Ziegler, who has the dual job of press secretary and assistant to the President, Warren said.

Warren denied that this suggestion was related to alleged Pentagon spying on the National Security Council.

The spokesman said he could not say who of the senior advisers initiated the idea. It evolved from daily meetings at the White House, he said.

He called it merely "a matter of exchanging information" of concerns expressed by reporters.

When a reporter asked if this would not have a "chilling effect" on staff members who might want to talk to the press, Warren said he did not think so.

Dairy Firm Tried Control Of Nation's Milk Supplies?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A court deposition from a former official of the nation's largest dairy cooperative indicates the firm sought to gain control of all milk supplies in the United States.

The cooperative, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., is facing government antitrust action for allegedly illegal monopoly practices.

David L. Parr said in a deposition that a major aim of the Texas-based firm was "to manage or control the total supply of milk in the United States, including imports and exports."

The civil antitrust action against the cooperactive has not come to trial. It was initiated in 1972 after thenAtty. Gen. John N. Mitchell turned down a proposed grand jury probe of the company's activities.

The cooperative pledged $2 million to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign and eventually gave $202,000.

A separate controversy has surfaced surrounding those contributions, with the White House denying that the gifts had anything to do with the President ordering a 1971 increase in milk price supports.

Parr made his statements on the effort to control milk supplies in a deposition taken in October 1972. He was special counsel to the cooperative's manager, Harold Nelson, who he said knew he was promoting the goal of national control and didn't stop him.

Parr said a primary objective of such a national cooperative would be to raise the income of dairy farmers.

Parr is staff adviser to Dairymen, Inc., of Louisville, Ky., the nation's third largest dairy cooperative. That firm is also being sued by the Justice Department for alleged monopoly tactics.

Nelson was ousted as Associated's manager shortly before the government's antitrust suit was filed and is general manager of the American Grain and Cattle Cooperative in San Antonio, Tex.

Plane Skyjacked Headed for Cuba

BOGOTA (UPI) — An Aeropesca airliner with 50 persons aboard was hijacked today and a spokesman for the company said the hijackers intended to take it to Cuba.

The plane was flying from Oasto, capital of the department of Barino, near the Ecuadorian border, to Bogota, when it was taken over by the air pirates.

The airline said the plane was taken over by an undetermined number of men at 8:55 a.m. PDT while approaching Cali.

It said the aircraft landed at Cali where the hijackers permitted 26 women and children passengers to deplane.

The spokesman said the plane took of at 9:10 a.m. PDT.

He said the information came from the pilot, Capt. Horacio Biana, by radio to the control tower in Bogota.

Newport Beauty Miss Chinatown In LA Parade

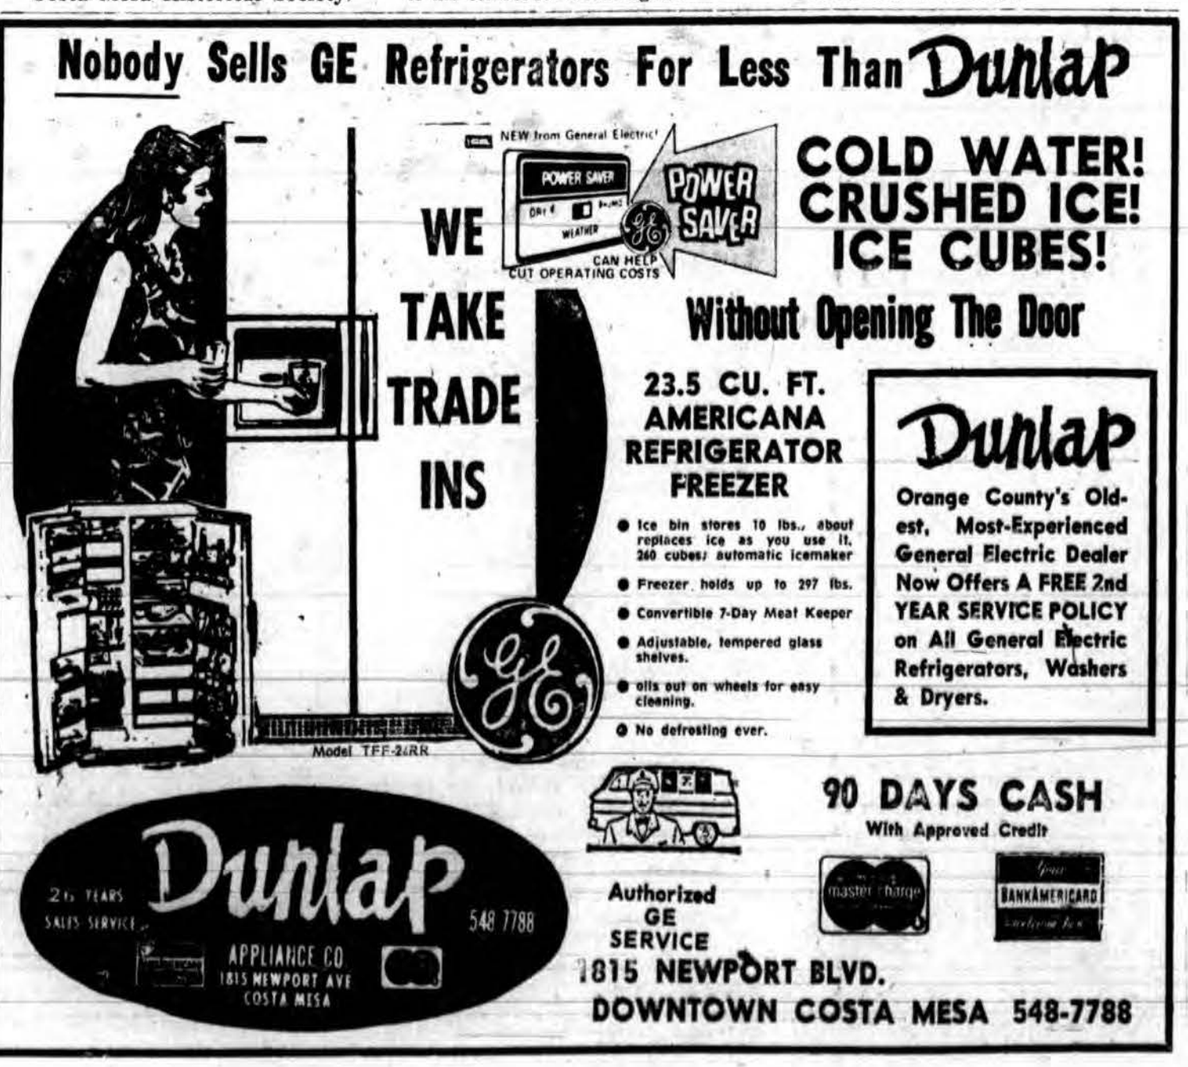
Bettie Kym Young, 21, of Newport Beach, the new Miss Chinatown of Southern California, will lead the Year of the Valiant Tiger parade through Los Angeles Tuesday.

She was chosen to reign over the Chinese New Year celebration from among nine contestants who spoke Chinese and modeled pantsuits and evening gowns.

Miss Young is a physical therapy major at Long Beach City College and will enroll next semester at Orange Coast College.

She came to California two years ago from Hughes, Ark., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yet Quang Young and four brothers reside. She was born in Memphis.

The 5-foot-6, 120-pound beauty queen will represent the Chinese community on a year-long publicity tour climaxed when she competes for Miss Chinatown, USA, in San Francisco.



What's Been Done?

A year ago today, the United States Supreme Court, for all practical purposes, legalized abortion.

Recognizing that most states had passed abortion laws in the middle of the 19th century, not for any moral reasons but to protect women from the dangers of the operation which then existed, the court held that concern was warranted no longer.

Saying that the termination of an unwanted pregnancy is up to the woman and her doctor, the court ruled 7 to 2 that criminal abortion laws of almost every state violated a constitutional "right of privacy."

In the majority opinion three stages of pregnancy, each with differing rights, were delineated.

During the first three months, the court said, "any interest of the state in protecting the woman from an inherently hazardous procedure . . . has largely disappeared." It is during this time period that a woman can now most easily obtain an abortion.

During the second trimester, the court said, the state's "important and legitimate interest in preserving and protecting the health of the pregnant woman" begins to intrude on the right of privacy so the states may legislate health regulations.

At some point during the last trimester, the court declared, the fetus becomes "viable" and can live outside the mother's womb so the state's "important and legitimate interest in potential life" outweighs the mother's individual rights.

During this time, the court said, the states may proscribe abortion except when it is necessary to preserve the life or health of the mother.

Those who favored and fought for liberalized abortion laws (a form of which existed in California) happily heralded the decision and generally considered the decision their victory.

Many people seemed willing to "let it be" and go on to mourn the death of former President Lyndon Baines Johnson and celebrate the cease-fire in Vietnam, two other occurrences which grabbed headlines that week.

But those who had stood staunchly against abortion of any kind refused to accept the decision as an end to their battle. They changed their targets from the state legislators to their federal representatives.

"A year ago I don't think anybody took them seriously," said Susan McGreivy, a member of the Laguna Beach chapter of the National Organization for Women who is serving as NOW's state abortion action coordinator.

It now appears the struggle is mounting nationally and will, both sides say, be seen here in Orange County.

Political Controversy Not Aborted

Today, a new anti-abortion group, the Pro-Life Political Action Committee of Orange County, is to be organized during their first meeting to which a nucleus of about 80 people have been invited.

A membership application defines their goals as being: "To re-dedicate ourselves to God, the Constitution and good government. To restore confidence and morality in our political system. Education on Pro-Life issues especially abortion and euthanasia.

"Retain seats of pro-life incumbents regardless of political party. Seek out pro-life candidates. Precinct organization for pro-life candidates. Publish and distribute voters guide. Bi-partisan political unity on pro-life issues. To guide pro-life people in political action."

Saturday, members of the Laguna Beach chapter of National Organization for Women demonstrated on Pacific Coast Highway in support of the Supreme Court's decision on abortion. The Orange County chapter held a similiar demonstration yesterday in front of Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's office.

Both groups hoped to obtain signatures on a petition to federal legislators urging them to survey their constituents. Their belief is that such surveys would favor leaving the abortion decision to a woman and her doctor, as the Supreme Court said.

The issue of abortion has been made the top priority of NOW in California and all other states which have ratified the Equal Rights Amendment.

Other organizations are involved on both sides of the issue, but it appears these two will probably be the most active in the county.

Within the past year, many abortion counseling services and clinics have opened. An estimated one and a half million abortions are said to have been performed in the country during the past year, although actual statistics are not available.

The number of abortions in California has continually increased since the 1967 Therapeutic Abortion Act became effective.

Yet, also within the past year, congressmen have introduced numerous constitutional amendments which would either prohibit abortions or return the right to legislate on the issue to the states.

Other bills relating to abortion have been introduced, and some have been passed, in both Houses of Congress.

"I think it's a political time bomb right now," said Susan McGreivy, state abortion action coordinator for NOW "It's just ticking and when it's going to explode, I don't know."

But she seems certain that the issue will explode because of the work of "pro-life" groups. They would agree with her.

"Our greatest opposition is apathy," explained Cathy Sullivan, convening chairman of the Pro-Life Political Action Committee.

Many people, she said, are "with us in their heads but they don't act it out."

And Ms. McGreivy said, "I think that our biggest fear is that people aren't taking this seriously enough."

She believes a majority of the people, even Catholics who are reputed to be the largest opposition to abortion, favor a free choice on the issue over any governmental restrictions.

But she believes a prohibitive amendment could be passed out of Congress and said, "It wouldn't be the first time a very vocal minority got legislation passed."

Both groups also complain that congressmen are remaining uncommitted on this issue and so they are urging them to "stand up and be counted."

Both would then like to see votes cast in the next election on the issue rather than political party ties.

Ms. McGreivy admits concern that the issue is not that important to people who favor abortion. They are, she believes, more likely to vote along party lines while those who oppose abortion will vote on that one issue alone.

"There's no doubt in my mind that Right to Life will make it an issue in every congressional district in the state," she said.

Making abortion an issue in each of the county's districts is exactly what Mrs. Sullivan said her group will do. But Right to Life, as an organization, refrains from political activity to protect their tax status.

Mrs. Sullivan said, "People have been separated by political parties . . . We want them to look at an issue and vote on the issue regardless of the party."

The group plans to put out a voters' guide on each candidate's stand on the issue.

"We want to help the good ones and get rid of the bad ones," said Dianne Muth, vice chairman of the committee. So, Mrs. Sullivan said, "We're backing ourselves up with our own work."

For candidates who not only say, but show, they support their side of the issue, the group promises to have people walk precincts, make telephone calls and do other "grass roots" things in the political campaign.

They believe their efforts will reap greater rewards than an amendment prohibiting abortions.

Mrs. Muth said they have found a person who is "pro-life" is also "a moral person and an honest person . . . They go hand in hand."

"We hate to sound old fashioned, but things haven't been running so well in the United States," Mrs. Sullivan added.

"This mass destruction of human life must stop if God is to allow our nation to survive as the land of the free and the home of the brave."

"We think there is a pro-abortion establishment in control right now," she said. "We've been put on the defensive . . . and I don't think that's fair."

She believes concern over population control has been brought about by "mobacracy . . . mob rule where the loudest voice will be heard."

So, the women say, they are doing something they have always been told they couldn't do. "We're going to fight City Hall."

When Is Life . . . More Important?

"When you lose your respect for life at one end of the spectrum, it moves up the spectrum so you lose your respect for life," said Cathy Sullivan, chairman of the Pro-Life Political Action Committee of Orange County.

This is a key concern expressed by those who are actively working to get Congress to pass a constitutional amendment which will prohibit abortions.

Mrs. Sullivan said they support an an amendment, sponsored by Rep. Lawrence Hogan of Maryland, which would insure due process and equal protection to an individual "from the moment of conception."

This amendment, for which a rarely used discharge petition has been initiated to take the bill from committee and place it directly on the floor with priority over all other business, would also forbid the state from depriving "any human being of life on account of illness, age, or incapacity."

Such an amendment would allow an abortion only if it were performed "to save the life of the mother," Mrs. Sullivan said. Such a case may exist if the mother had a tubal pregnancy or cancer of the uterus.

It is generally considered a "pro-life" position. But Susan McGreivy, NOW's state abortion action coordinator, said, "We see ourselves as pro-life because we're basically concerned with the quality of life and rights of people who are alive."

Although she believes this position is considered "selfish" in a society which holds a "let her suffer" attitude, she contends, "a woman does have a right to control her body."

But Mrs. Sullivan counters this belief with a question, "You have the right to take a person's life, especially when it's a person's life you brought about?"

She and Dianne Muth, vice chairman of the committee, defined abortion as "the killing of innocent human life."

Mrs. Muth contends studies have shown that a brainwave can be read from the baby at 43 days. "Everything the baby ever needs, ever will have, is formed at 11 weeks," she said.

Although the fetus is attached to the mother for nourishment, she contends it is not a part of the mother. Rather, it is "a distinct human being."

But Ms. McGreivy also points to research which shows there is no electrical activity in the brain, which is the legal definition of life, until its later development in the womb. Even then, she claimed, it is minimal.

"I suppose the embryo is a living being. It is growing, like a plant is," she said.

She believes the concept of life beginning with conception involves the concept of "divine soul" and contends most of those who oppose abortion are Catholic and other fundamental religions.

This, she explained, would make it a religious issue which nonbelievers should not have to follow.

Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Muth, however, deny that it involves any religion. They say there are atheists who favor their stand.

They admit that they are seeking a "basic belief in God," but point to the country's motto, "In God We Trust," and claim, "We are not starting anything that's not already there."

Ms. McGreivy also argues that their belief is based on sex as only being for procreation. But, she said, there is evidence that shows many other things come from sex. Studies, she added, show that monkeys will die if they're not held.

But the other women argue on the basis of responsibility for one's actions.

"Love is, a lot of it, giving and sharing," Mrs. Sullivan said. She objects that abortion is not an act of love and says, instead, that it is sharing one's uterus with a baby.

"They think that they really have a caring idea but they haven't thought out the consequences," Ms. McGreivy said.

She projects that a woman might be held for manslaugter or even murder if a woman has a miscarriage after some activity, as waterskiing, at 14 weeks.

She also brings up the problem of rape, which Mrs. Muth said is not conducive to conception. Although Ms. McGreivy admits very few rape victims do conceive, she asks, "But what if you're the one? It's just absolutely inhuman to me."

She asks, "If they force women to have children, what are they going to do about it?"

There are, she said, already over 15 million families in the country headed by women, many of whom are living on "hand-to-mouth welfare" which is supported by the taxpayers.

Those who are opposed to abortion say the children could easily be put up for adoption, since there is now a lack of adoptable children. But Ms. McGreivy believes the end to abortions would overflow this market.

She also brings up the potential physical and psychological damage to unwanted children and said, "We want to make every child a wanted child."

But then Mrs. Muth claimed studies show that today's "battered children" were planned and wanted.

Ms. McGreivy also contended abortions would continue because "women with lots of money have always been able to get abortions." The burden here, she said, would fall on the poor.

"There are social problems," admitted Mrs. Muth. "But by eliminating people to solve social problems, your social problems only become worse."

She fears abortions may also lead to euthanasia, legislation limiting the number of children a person could have and even the kinds of people who are allowed to live.

'We're concerned with the quality of life and rights of people who are alive.'

'You have the right to take a person's life, especially when it's a person's life you brought about?'

'They think that they really have a caring attitude but they haven't thought out the consequences.'

'There are social problems. But by eliminating people to solve social problems your problems only become worse.'

Crackers and Tapes

Logic Crumbles

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't know whether or not newspaper columnists have an unspoken agreement not to rat on each other, but I do hope you will print this letter in the public interest.

Will you please suggest to those household-hint writers that they print only suggestions which are practical and sensible? A lot of nutty women will try anything they see written up as a "work-saver."

My not-so-bright wife read in the paper that a good way to save time when making cracker crumbs is to put the whole box of crackers in a plastic bag and ride over it with a car.

A rolling pin costs 50 cents. Our car cost $4500. My wife asked me last night to please get the wide, 70-series tires because they would make better cracker crumbs. Knowing my wife as I do, I'm sure she will nag me until I get those new tires. We don't NEED new tires, Ann Landers. What do you suggest now?-IRRITATED IN YONKERS

DEAR YONK: Sorry, I've got all I can do to respond to readers who have legitimate complaints against MY advice. I can't handle beefs directed at other columnists. Why don't you write to Whatzername? The next letter will give you an idea of what I'm up against at the moment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It is 4 a.m. and I am boiling. My sister-in-law, an unmitigated fool, age 46, just set the house in an uproar. I am visiting here from Fairbanks, Alaska.

About 2 this morning, all hell broke loose. I heard my brother-in-law yelling for me. It seems his wife Catherine had awakened during the night coughing and choking, clawing at the wide strips of adhesive tape that she had plastered every which way across her mouth.

When her husband finally succeeded in ripping off the tape, he took some of her lip with it. There was a little bleeding but certainly no hemorrhage.

My brother-in-law was very upset and started to look for something to remove the adhesive mess left on Catherine's face. I offered him some lighter fluid—a trick I had learned in the Army.

Well, it must have stung a little and she screamed so loud I thought for sure the neighbors would call the police.

After we got her quieted down, I asked what in the world that tape was doing over her mouth anyway. She replied, "I read in Ann Landers's column that if a person tapes his mouth shut at night it will eliminate snoring."

Please tell me, Ann, did you give that advice? I can't believe it.- A GUEST

DEAR GUEST: Yes, I did, and many readers wrote to say it works. Sorry about Catherine's lip, but she apparently put on much more tape than was necessary. And now, Bub, what kind of an idiot would suggest lighter fluid on a raw wound?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell those middle-aged ladies with beautiful bodies to quit referring to "stretch marks" from childbirth as ugly. Usually they ask you how to get rid of them.

I am 25 years old and have three lovely children. I have stretch marks on my breasts as well as my abdomen and hips. I do not consider them ugly, and neither does my husband. They are the scars I bear as a result of having children. If you print my letter, it might help other women with stretch marks feel less ashamed. — SALT LAKE MAMA

DEAR MAMA: Here it is—and now take that and that, you gals out there who are ashamed of your stretch marks. They're your medals for motherhood! Cheer up.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. and the federal grand jury and had lied at the original Watergate trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Porter testified at the trial that $100,000 of the money given to G. Gordon Liddy was for hiring 10 college students in 10 cities for campaign work.

He had told the same story to the grand jury and the FBI, but admitted at the Senate Watergate hearing that the store was false.

By pleading guilty he will avoid separate charges of making false sworn statements to various investigative bodies.

"It's a compromise," said his attorney.

During the Senate Watergate hearings, Porter engaged in a famous dialogue with Sen. Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn.), over how he could have taken part in Watergate-related activities.

Porter replied at the time that he had known Nixon since 1946, and that he did so out of a feeling of loyalty and team play.

Speaking to reporters before his court session, Porter said: "I'm a much happier person now, doing what I'm doing — getting away from that kind of existence."

A college classmate of White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, Porter joined the staff of then-communications director Herbert G. Klein in late 1970. Porter left about five months later to join the re-election committee.

Tavern Loses Beer, Money

Thieves who bypassed a burglar alarm looted a Costa Mesa tavern of 26 cases of beer and rifled the safe, for a total $517 loss, it was discovered Sunday.

Sharron Kersenbrock, manager of the bar at 1125 Victoria St., discovered the burglary when she arrived to open up for the day's business.

Alan R. Muse, owner of the tavern which has been known as the Olden Times and Callitmacaroni told investigators there was one puzzling aspect to the burglary.

Woman Held in Death

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — A woman has been accused of fatally shooting another woman who allegedly cost her the sight of one eye by stabbing her during a knife fight, police said. Velma M. King, 37, was charged with murdering Sylvia J. Belk, 21, during a party at Mrs. King's home Saturday night, according to authorities.

Court Scene

Visitors View 'Plot' Suspects

The appearance in Long Beach Municipal Court today of Eloise Popeil and Daniel Ayers, alleged lovers accused of a murder plot, was considerably different than it was two weeks ago.

At that time, the slim Newport Beach matron and the unemployed machinist had been in custody for two days. They wore the clothes they were arrested in to the courtroom for arraignment.

But today, Mrs. Popeil, 48, who has been out on bail for more than a week, arrived in a cream-colored shirt dress escorted by her two attorneys and one of the attorney's wives.

Her alleged conspirator, who made his initial appearance in a dirty white jacket and faded blue jeans, came to court handcuffed and escorted by a Los Angeles county marshal.

This time Ayers, whose long brown hair reveals a balding spot, was attired in a dapper gray suit, blue shirt and floral pattern tie.

The pair was ogled by a courtroom full of spectators who were evenly divided among a core of newsmen covering the hearing and a group of senior citizens who apparently had individually been following the case in the newspapers.

Also present were two men identified only as Mr. Reed and Mr. Peeler who sources say are the two men police allege were hired killers who broke the case and turned their evidence over to police.

The two men, who declined to speak to reporters, sat quietly in a back row watching the proceedings until a two-hour recess was granted so that Ayers could talk to the public defender.

Most of that recess the two men, who were also dressed in gray suits, paced the corridor outside the courtroom and chatted with District Attorney Charles Sheldon and Long Beach police investigator Tom Hughes.

By the time court reconvened most of the little old men and little old ladies had left, leaving as observers to the 15-minute session only witnesses who might have been called to the stand and newsmen.

UNHAPPY...

"communityness," used profane language, and insulted a captain about a coffee table.

The fire captain asked for a grievance hearing before the city manager which ended with a ruling from Sorsabal upholding Fire Chief John Marshall's dismissal of Tillner.

That decision later was reversed by Judge Robert P. Kneeland, who ordered Tillner reinstated with $15,000 back pay but the judge left his future rank in the hands of the city manager.

Because he was reinstated, Tillner now asserts that he meets the continuous service requiremnt. "Theoretically, I was never away," he maintains.

Further, he insists that the "Meritorius service" requirement is being used as a tool to prevent him from getting the payments.

"I'm sure the city council never meant it to be used that way," says Tillner.

The evaluation by Captain James Richey, a man who ironically worked on Tillner's crew when Tillner was a captain, said that Tillner had not evidenced any interest or shown high quality workmanship.

"He is a machine at his job with no feelings about the city other than contempt," Richey concluded.

However, a subsequent evaluation by the same captain, taken some months later, holds Tillner in high regard, especially for putting in extra time on his job.

Sorsabal said that new recommendation would be taken under consideration next September when Tillner once again is eligible to file for the benefits—not before then.

Fire Chief John Marshall has declined to comment on the Tillner case except to say that the fireman's performance evaluation by his superiors "does not reflect any consideration."

Tillner says the demotion has cost him approximately $200 a month and that he could use the additional $20 he believes is due him.

he couldn't be re-elected.

"It's a fully manageable district," he said.

Hosmer's most recent heart attack came last March while he was on a tour of Japan in connection with his atomic energy committee duties.

Hosmer said the pressures of being a congressman "are enough to kill anybody.

"I've had nearly 22 years in this job and the job just isn't the same anymore. The political climate is different and Congress has changed," he said.

Police Corral Body Snatchers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police leafed through their law books to find the proper law to book two men who allegedly tried to steal a body from a coroner's wagon.

However, truck driver Don Kelly, who told police Sunday he witnessed the incident, didn't have time to locate a book.

He grabbed one of the suspects and "spread him over the hood of a car," Kelly said. The other man surrendered to police.

Torture Orgy Survivors Set For Testimony

HOUSTON (UPI) — With testimony at the pretrial hearing of accused mass murderer Elmer Wayne Henley becoming more lurid, Judge William M. Hatten asked attorneys to speed examinations of the persons expected to be the most dramatic witnesses.

The defense will call Rhonda Williams, 15, and Timothy Kerley, 20, the couple stripped and strapped to "torture boards" the night Henley called police and said he shot and killed Dean Corll, the alleged mastermind of the sex and torture ring.

Henley, 17, is expected to take the stand Tuesday to tell about his oral and written confessions to police Aug. 8, 9 and 10, the first days of the investigation of the three-year spree of sex and torture which left 27 young men dead.

"I'm trying to keep us from trying this case at this hearing so the publicity won't make it impossible for us to get a jury," Hatten said.

Hatten said he still wanted jury selection to begin Jan. 28, its originally scheduled date, but that timetable appeared out of reach because of extended testimony during the first week.

The pretrial hearing will decide a defense motion to suppress Henley's confessions because, according to the defense, Henley's constitutional rights were violated by police and Henley was not competent to waive constitutional rights.

Police said Henley confessed to killing six of the teen-age boys procured for Corll and to how Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, charged with four murders, led them to the victims' graves at a Houston boat shed, near Lake Sam Rayburn in East Texas and along the Gulf Coast north of Galveston.

Henley said he shot Corll in self-defense during that last orgy at Corll's house in the Heights suburb of Houston. Kerley and Miss Williams were in the house that night, but have only told their stories to a grand jury, never in public.

Powder Puff Flag Pigskin Games Aid Fairview Fund

Football fans take notice. The season did not end with Sunday's Pro Bowl. There are still two games to go. The players are girls. What's more, they're playing for money.

The annual Powder Puff flag football series begins Saturday night at Davidson Field. It will involve juniors and seniors from Estancia and Costa Mesa High Schools.

The girls plan to turn over all receipts to Fairview Hospital for use in the hospital's retarded Olympics and to Pete Richardson, a former Costa Mesa High School football player who was paralyzed in a surfing accident three years ago.

The first game, between Estancia seniors and Estancia juniors, is scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p.m. Costa Mesa juniors will play the Costa Mesa seniors at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the gate. The cost is $1 for adults, 75 cents for students, and 50 cents for children.

A second benefit game is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Feb. 2, also at Davidson Field. That night the winners and the losers of Saturday night's game will play each other.

"Last year the girls raised about $1,800 for Pete Richardson," he said.

The powder puff series began five years ago when girls from both campuses volunteered to raise money for athletic equipment and uniforms for Fairview hospital.

The girls play flag football. The games have 12-minute quarters.

'No Intimidation'

White House Staff Told To Report Press Contacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential spokesman confirmed today that all White House staff members have been asked by senior officials to report any contacts they have with members of the news media.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said it was simply an effort to be informed about "concerns being expressed by the press" of things that are on the public's mind.

There was no intention of intimidation or curbing contacts with the press, he added.

Warren said the President's senior staff concluded in the last 10 days or so that such reporting "would be a helpful thing."

He said he didn't know if President Nixon was aware of the suggestion.

But Warren maintained "it's not a big deal." He said that staff members can report "whenever they wish," either before or after talking to reporters.

Reports of contacts were to be made to the press office, headed by senior staff member Ronald Ziegler, who has the dual job of press secretary and assistant to the President, Warren said.

Warren denied that this suggestion was related to alleged Pentagon spying on the National Security Council.

The spokesman said he could not say who of the senior advisers initiated the idea. It evolved from daily meetings at the White House, he said.

He called it merely "a matter of exchanging information" of concerns expressed by reporters.

When a reporter asked if this would not have a "chilling effect" on staff members who might want to talk to the press, Warren said he did not think so.

Dairy Firm Tried Control Of Nation's Milk Supplies?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A court deposition from a former official of the nation's largest dairy cooperative indicates the firm sought to gain control of all milk supplies in the United States.

The cooperative, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., is facing government antitrust action for allegedly illegal monopoly practices.

David L. Parr said in a deposition that a major aim of the Texas-based firm was "to manage or control the total supply of milk in the United States, including imports and exports."

The civil antitrust action against the cooperactive has not come to trial. It was initiated in 1972 after thenAtty. Gen. John N. Mitchell turned down a proposed grand jury probe of the company's activities.

The cooperative pledged $2 million to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign and eventually gave $202,000.

A separate controversy has surfaced surrounding those contributions, with the White House denying that the gifts had anything to do with the President ordering a 1971 increase in milk price supports.

Parr made his statements on the effort to control milk supplies in a deposition taken in October 1972. He was special counsel to the cooperative's manager, Harold Nelson, who he said knew he was promoting the goal of national control and didn't stop him.

Parr said a primary objective of such a national cooperative would be to raise the income of dairy farmers.

Parr is staff adviser to Dairymen, Inc., of Louisville, Ky., the nation's third largest dairy cooperative. That firm is also being sued by the Justice Department for alleged monopoly tactics.

Nelson was ousted as Associated's manager shortly before the government's antitrust suit was filed and is general manager of the American Grain and Cattle Cooperative in San Antonio, Tex.

Plane Skyjacked Headed for Cuba

BOGOTA (UPI) — An Aeropesca airliner with 50 persons aboard was hijacked today and a spokesman for the company said the hijackers intended to take it to Cuba.

The plane was flying from Oasto, capital of the department of Barino, near the Ecuadorian border, to Bogota, when it was taken over by the air pirates.

The airline said the plane was taken over by an undetermined number of men at 8:55 a.m. PDT while approaching Cali.

It said the aircraft landed at Cali where the hijackers permitted 26 women and children passengers to deplane.

The spokesman said the plane took of at 9:10 a.m. PDT.

He said the information came from the pilot, Capt. Horacio Biana, by radio to the control tower in Bogota.

Newport Beauty Miss Chinatown In LA Parade

Bettie Kym Young, 21, of Newport Beach, the new Miss Chinatown of Southern California, will lead the Year of the Valiant Tiger parade through Los Angeles Tuesday.

She was chosen to reign over the Chinese New Year celebration from among nine contestants who spoke Chinese and modeled pantsuits and evening gowns.

Miss Young is a physical therapy major at Long Beach City College and will enroll next semester at Orange Coast College.

She came to California two years ago from Hughes, Ark., where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yet Quang Young and four brothers reside. She was born in Memphis.

The 5-foot-6, 120-pound beauty queen will represent the Chinese community on a year-long publicity tour climaxed when she competes for Miss Chinatown, USA, in San Francisco.
