El Toro Marine Sergeant Jailed in Child's Death

WHITE HOUSE REPRISAL LIST BARED BY MONTOYA

A Big Hand For Trash Men

When trash collectors arrived for their morning pickup at St. Bonaventure School in Huntington Beach today, they found students gathered for an appreciation ceremony.

Students at the school presented employes of Rainbow Disposal Company, the trash collection firm for the city of Huntington Beach, with a plaque in appreciation of efficient trash pickup service this year.

A school spokesman said trash was collected daily and the firm's employes kept the area around the school neat and clean. The school has 700 students in the first through eighth trades.

El Toro Marine Sergeant Held In Son's Death

An El Toro Marine Corps Air Station sergeant whose wife already faces murder charges in connection with the death of her eight-month-old son joined her Monday night in county jail on charges of felony child neglect.

Sheriff's officers said Sgt. Dennis Eugene Dabney, 24, and his wife, Jennifer, 20, will be arraigned Wednesday in Santa Ana municipal court.

Investigators said the arrest Monday of Dabney followed further investigation into head injuries that led to the death Saturday of eight-month-old Robert Dabney.

The boy died in Childrens Hospital of Orange County after the condition initially being treated at the El Toro Marine Corps station dispensary rapidly worsened.

Mrs. Dabney was booked into the county jail on murder charges shortly after her son died.

The dead child's twin brother is being confined in the Albert Sitton Home as a ward of the county while criminal charges are being processed against the parents.

Sheriff's officers today said the surviving child is being carefully examined in view of healed head injuries that were spotted after the child was admitted to the hospital.

Coroner's officers have not yet completed their report on the cause of death.

Reprisal Memo Cited By Montoya

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya (D-N.M.), made public today confidential White House memoranda that he said document a campaign to reward friends and punish enemies in the awarding of federal grants.

Montoya said he was particularly concerned that Spanish-speaking minorities were taken advantage of by the White House during the 1972 presidential election campaign.

"Much of the conduct appears violative

of civil and criminal law," Montoya said during a hearing before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee he heads.

The subcommittee is considering a 1975 budget request from the Office of Management and Budget.

Montoya named Fred Malek, former key White House staff member and a former deputy director of the Nixon re-election campaign, as playing a major role in the alleged effort to influence awarding of government grants.

Malek, 37, is deputy director of the OMB. He said he was shocked that Montoya would choose to raise the issue that he said had previously been discussed in executive session of the Senate Watergate Committee. Montoya also is a member of that committee.

Meanwhile, White House lawyer James St. Clair said today he would welcome testimony by former White House counsel Charles W. Colson in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"In my view, it would be highly supportive for the President," St. Clair told newsmen as he entered the committee room for the start of another week of closed-door hearings.

The committee planned a look into White House dealings with the

Israeli Troops Capture 2 Terrorists, Weapons

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Security forces captured two young Arab terrorists on a death mission into Israel and seized a cache of hand grenades and Kalashnikov submachine guns hidden near the Lebanese border, the police reported today.

"We were ordered to kill," the police

said the 19-year-olds told them.

They said they were ordered to murder people at random in Haifa, Israel's chief port.

The Israeli miiltary command said the terrorists were Israeli citizens who left their village near Acre, in northern Galilee, a year ago to join the Fatah guerrillas. The youths slipped across the Lebanese border before Monday, the command reported, but it said three other gunmen with them abandoned the mission and escaped back into Lebanon.

The teen-agers ate a meal in a restaurant about a mile from the heavily guarded border, hailed a taxi, asked the fare to a nearby village and offered to overpay the driver by $2.50. The driver — an Arab — became suspicious, drove the pair to a security roadblock and winked frantically to tip off the police.

The command said security troops have killed nine terrorists and captured five in the three weeks since frontier patrols were strengthened after terroists killed 22 children in the Maalot schoolhouse.

The police also reported that somebody sent a booby-trapped package to Israel's

Mesa Burglars Get Blank Checks And Signatures

Investigators are probing the $1,382 burglary of a Costa Mesa investment firm in which the intruder also took blank checks and papers bearing signatures of company officers.

A spokesman for the Brunswick and Ribbe Company, 845 W. 19th St., told police the blank checks can be written for up to $10,000 each and the stolen signatures could be used as models for forgery.

Myra A. Dembik, of the company's office staff, called police Monday when the break-in was discovered.

She said the loss in addition to the checks and business documents included assorted tools and office equipment.

Police said entry was made by prying a sliding window with a homemade tool specifically designed for use in committing burglaries.

18 Seeking Democratic Nomination

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California voters had their say today in nominating potential successors to Gov. Ronald Reagan. Early balloting was relatively light.

They also faced a controversial "political reform" ballot initiative which traced back to public reaction against Watergate. Supporters view it as a prototype for the nation.

Sponsored chiefly by Common Cause and Los Angeles-based People's Lobby, the measure, among other things, would put a ceiling on campaign expenditures, limit lobbyist spending to $10 a month per person, demand full identification of contributors who donated $50 or more to a candidate, forbid contributions by lobbyists, and create a $1 million commission to enforce the changes.

A jam-packed field of 18 Democrats sought the party's nomination for governor including Edmund G. Brown Jr., 36, son of former Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown, whom Reagan buried in a 1966 landslide.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, indicted by a Watergate grand jury for alleged perjury, was in the toughest battle of his political life on the Republican side

How Sweet it Was

Inflation Big Winner–1c Candy Extinct

CHICAGO (AP) — Penny candy apparently is going the way of copper pennies, out.

Higher prices are the reason.

Peter F. Norton, a of board of the National Confectioners Association, predicted in an interview Monday that penny candies will soon be a thing of the past.

And Morton also said the 15-cent candy bar is fast becoming the 20-cent candy bar or a smaller 15-cent bar.

Norton, executive vice president of Ludens, Inc., Reading, Pa., manufacturer of candy as well as cough drops, is in Chicago for the association's annual convention and exposition.

He said the price of candy has been slow to rise in relation to the price of a cup of coffee or a soft drink but that lately the cost of candy ingredients has increased sharply, forcing the price of candy up.

He said sugar, for example, has gone up 250 percent since January and that in two years the price of cocoa beans has increased from 21 cents to $1.10 a pound.

Production costs — electricity, transportation, labor and the like — also have risen sharply, Norton said.

A candy bar that sold for 10 cents a year ago now has to bring 20 cents because of these higher costs, he said. There will be 15-cent bars, but they won't be as large as the 10-cent bars were, he added.

Norton said that if penny candy were made smaller it would be too small to sell, so the price will probably be two cents a candy kiss.

The Commerce Department Monday noted that Americans spent 8.3 percent more on candy during 1973 than the year before but said per-capita consumption declined for the fifth consecutive year — to 18.7 pounds from 20.3 pounds in 1968.

Norton said, however, that he doesn't think consumption will continue to go down but will level off after consumers become accustomed to higher prices.

Candy is not a luxury, but "one of the cheapest and quickest foods available from the point of view of supplying nourishment and energy," he said.

Magruder Claim

Nixon's Approval Of Trick Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, who goes to prison today for his part in the Watergate scandal, says he was told that President Nixon approved at least one campaign dirty trick in 1972 — a phony write-in campaign for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in the New Hampshire Democratic primary.

Magruder recounts the incident in his book, "An American Life — One Man's Road to Watergate," scheduled for publication June 26.

Magruder pleaded guilty last August to one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States. He was sentenced May 21 to serve 10 months to four years in prison.

Although most of the first-person account retraces with some new detail the Watergate events spelled out in his dramatic Senate testimony last summer, Magruder discloses a few new incidents.

He said the write-in was conceived by former special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson "to create confusion among the Democrats" and "sow ill will between Kennedy and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie," who was considered the front-runner in the Democratic presidential race.

Magruder, deputy director of President Nixon's re-election campaign, said he opposed the multi-thousand dollar plan because "it seemed like a large outlay for a dubious result.

"Then, one day in February, I was in the White House and encountered Colson just outside the President's office," Magruder wrote. "We've got to get that mailing going," he told me. 'I've just come from talking to the President, and he thinks it's crucial'."

Magruder said he checked with White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, "who told me that what Colson said was true, the President did want the pro-Kennedy mailing in New Hampshire."

A Democratic friend of a Colson aide was recruited to head a "draft-Kennedy movement—which Kennedy immediately repudiated," Magruder said.

Subversives List Killed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today abolished the attorney general's list of subversive organizations — which was started 27 years ago — and issued orders forbidding government agencies to use copies of the list in the future.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe announced the presidential order, saying Nixon acted on his recommendation. Saxbe's recommendation was based, in turn, on a study initiated last year by then Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson.

President Harry S Truman in 1947 directed the Justice Department to compile a list of organizations that he considered subversive and through later years the number of entries had grown to about 300.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

There have been published reports that Colson's surprise arrangement with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski was causing concern in the White House but St. Clair discounted them.

"It's not true," he said. "It would be my view he would testify in favor of the President."

against state Controller Houston Flouroy a political moderate.

Brown, California Secretary of State, predicted a 62.5 percent turnout, a record for a gubernatorial primary. Election officials in the most populous counties forecast an average 60 percent turnout. Registered voters total 9.49 million.

Brown, who has long held a substantial lead in public opinion polls, was challenged by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, millionaire businessman William Matson Roth and liberal Rep. Jerome Waldie in a contest that failed to spark great voter intersest.

Reinecke, appointed by Reagan in 1969 as his heir apparent, held a strong lead over Flournoy in the polls prior to his indictment in April. He pleaded innocent to three counts of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee regarding his knowledge of an offer by International Telephone and Telepgraph to help finance the 1972 GOP national convention then scheduled for San Diego.

Flournoy surged ahead in the polls after Reinecke's indictment.

Democratic U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston faced token opposition and was virtually guaranteed renomination. But Republicans were tied up in a scrap for the Senate nomination.

The contest pitted conservative State Sen. H.L. "Bill" Richardson of Arcadia, a former John Birch Society member, against Earl Brian, a Vietnam war combat hero and former Reagan administration official. Other candidates included Thomas Malatesta, a nephew of Bob Hope, and James E. Johnson of Orange County, who served in both the Reagan and Nixon administrations.

Guadalupe Yacht Racers Reported In Home Stretch

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Editor

The 11 boats in Balboa Yacht Club's 600-mile Guadalupe Island race were headed home today with prospects of an early finish Wednesday.

The lead boat is the Newport-41 sloop Swift, co-skippered by Gayle Post and Jack Mallinckrodt, last year's first to finish.

Some 12 miles behind Swift was Dakar, another Newport-41 skippered by William Goodley of Del Rey Yacht Club.

The fleet reported sailing in westerly winds of seven to eight knots which were lighter than they were during the night. Most of the boats reported the usual lee around Guadolupe Island.

Boats in the race with distances to go to the finish:

Last Rites Held For Jean Ziebe, Aunt of Heiress

Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Jean Elizabeth Ziebe of Emerald Bay, who died Sunday at her home, 807 Emerald Bay, after a long illness. She was 64.

Mrs. Ziebe is an aunt of Joan Irvine Smith, of Middleberg, Va., and sister of Mrs. Thurmond Clarke of Newport Beach.

A resident of Emerald Bay for 10 years, Mrs. Ziebe had been active in Pasadena civic events prior to moving to the Orange Coast. She was a charter member of the Pasadena Guild and Children's Hospital of Los Angeles.

Other survivors are husband Richard A. Ziebe of the family home and daughter, Anita Jean, of Burlingame.

Services were held at St. James Episcopal Church in Newport Beach. Interment followed at Pacific View Memorial park.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Children's Hospital of Los Angeles. Funeral arrangements were directed by Pacific View Memorial Park.

Marshmallows Cover Vital Areas

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Diana Marlo, who appears in the "Bang Bang Burlesque" at the Fontainebleau Hotel's Boom Boom Room, began using marshmallows instead of the pasties strip-tease dancers normally use to conceal portions of their bodies.

Then she began inviting the customers to remove the marshmallows, refraining, of course, from touching her.

One customer was not amused, however, and called police. The Florida Beverage Department sent two agents, who agreed that the folks in the Boom Boom Room were going to far.

The Fontainebleau was notified it faces a preliminary hearing on the incident. Alan Margulies, a spokesman for the hotel, said "our liquor license is at stake and without that license we might as well close our doors."

But Richard Caplano, chief enforcement officer of the beverage department's Miami office, said the more likely outcome was a "small fine."

Copter Spots Huntington Youth in Wild Car Spree

A Huntington Beach youth who police allege admitted he was inspired to practice drag racing on a grassy school ground by downing a few shots of whiskey was arrested early today following a high-speed chase by police in downtown Costa Mesa.

The suspect, 17, was arrested when he finally stopped his mother's sports coupe in an alley spotlighted by the Eagle II police helicopter.

Officer Dick Rosser said the youth was released to his mother and father following booking on a charge of evading arrest.

Investigators said today they will also seek Orange County Juvenile Court charges of reckless driving and malicious mischief as a result of the $200 destruction spree.

Damage to the grounds of Harper School, 425 E. 18th St., was estimated at that amount, police said.

Patrolman Rosser initiated the pursuit about 2 a.m., when he attempted to stop the sports car, which was making circular skids on the school grounds.

He charged the teenager gunned the sports car and tried to cross a two-foot embankment to escape, then slammed the vehicle into reverse and sped past the police car.

The patrolman lost his quarry briefly during a high-speed chase along East 18th Street, in which the youth reportedly turned off his headlights and ran through intersections without stopping.

Investigators said the chase ended when the helicopter crew cornered the youth in an alley between Broadway and Flower Street.

Snake Slows Up Train in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — The 150 mile-an-hour trains linking Tokyo and Osaka have been halted for 90 minutes again by a snake.

Japan National Railways officials said Monday the snake fell from the top of a tunnel and onto a power line supplying electricity for Japan's fastest trains.

The line was short-circuited, resulting in a power failure.

It was the second time in a week trains on the high-speed Shinkansen line had been brought to a standstill by a snake. On Friday, another blue general snake coiled around the terminals of a transformer near Shizouka, causing a power failure.

chief rabbi, Shlomo Goren, and explosives were planted under the car of the high priest of the Samaritans.

Both attempts were discovered and the explosives defused.

The police said the rabbi's wife became suspicious Monday while opening a bulky envelope. Sappers found it contained an explosive charge with a note saying the religious leader would be "gathered unto his fathers."

Goren frequently has been threatened with violence by Jewish fanatics who charge he is too moderate in ritual matters.

Twenty-four hours before the package bomb was discovered, arsonists poured oil over benches in the Tel Aviv synagogue where he prays and set them ablaze. The fire caused little damage.

In the Israeli-occupied Jordanian town of Nablus, army experts defused a bomb left beneath the car of Amram Ben-Yitzhak, religious leader of the tiny Samaritan community, an ancient sect with a religion similar to Judaism. The car was parked at the foot of Mt. Gerizim, a hill the Samaritans regard as sacred.

Some Arabs have been campaigning against the priest for trying to form a Jewish religious community in Nablus.

Federal Energy Czar Proposes Necktie Curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the name of energy conservation, federal energy chief John C. Sawhill urged male office workers today to doff neckties this summer and to wear open-necked, short-sleeved shirts on the job.

Sawhill tried to set an example by working in his office with his tie off and his shirt open at the neck. The idea is that thermostats can be set higher — conserving fuel for air conditioning.

Sawhill did not suggest specifically how women should dress at the office. In a statement, he said only that women employes should wear "neat and comfortable clothes" to keep cool.

And he recognized that among men "there will still be occasions when a coat and tie will obviously be appropriate."

Sawhill instituted the casual dress code for the Federal Energy Administration and urged private industry and other government agencies to follow his example.

Previously, he asked Americans to set thermostats at 78 degrees this summer to conserve energy. A difference of 6 degrees in a thermostat setting can cut cooling costs by 15 percent, he said.

3 Face Charges In Agnew Probe

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted two Maryland engineers on charges stemming from the investigation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former Baltimore County Executive N. Dale Anderson.

A third engineer was charged directly Monday by U.S. Attorney George Beall, in an action bypassing the grand jury, with violating federal income tax laws.

Eugene H. Hsi, 50, of Towson, and Blair P. Overton Jr., 61, of Hagerstown, were charged in the indictment with making false statements before the grand jury during its Anderson investigation last year.

JOIN THE ESTABLISHMENT!

There is a definite advantage in doing business with an ESTABLISHED local firm.

We are interested in doing business with ESTABLISHED mills, which we have determined after decades of doing business. There is no way, unfortunately, to tell how a mill will back its products until there is a problem! Carpet stores interested ONLY in price have no one to back them, and consequently walk away from complaints.

A few times through the years, we have had to stand the cost of replacement when a mill wouldn't. This will only happen once to us, and then the samples are in our trash can.

What this means to our customers is that the lines we carry are from reputable mills, and that they can buy with confidence from Alden's.

End of an Era

Last Singing Telegram Sent

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The nation's last singing telegram was sung to a young woman at the Brass Rail Pizza Parlor in Oakland.

California was the last state to authorize Western Union to discontinue the 36-year-old service, but the song was sung at 11 p.m. Monday at Reno, because this Nevada city is the firm's Western headquarters.

James Carskaddon, supervisor, noted that the final song was a birthday greeting and carried the traditional words, "Happy birthday to you, Happy birthday to you . . ."

Just who placed the last call and the name of the young woman who got it were not made public. But whoever they were, they ended an era.

'War of Nerves'

Man Keeps Officers At Bay With Guns

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — An unemployed 20-year-old man kept at least 30 police officers at bay for six hours with a shotgun and a rifle before surrendering without a shot being fired.

Steven Kerhansky ended what officers called "a war of nerves" following negotiations Monday by telephone and television with his mother, a brother and the city superintendent of police.

Police were summoned to Kerhansky's house about 3 p.m. after he threatened his mother and a brother with a high-powered rifle and a shotgun.

Kerhansky had been sent to a hospital Sunday night after an apparent overdose of drugs, police said, speculating that the quarrel began when he returned home.

Officers cordoned the area, evacuated at least seven homes and positioned two sharpshooters in a bedroom directly across the street from the third-floor window where Kerhansky appeared twice during the siege.

One officer commented, "We've been told to not use force if we can avoid it. He knows if he shoots we just won't stand by. This is a war of nerves."

His mother, Anna, a widow, called him on the telephone and tried to coax him into surrendering, but he hung up and refused to answer subsequent calls.

She then addressed her son through a television interview by KDKA-TV.

"Steve, my son, my youngest son, I love you very much," Mrs. Kerhansky said. "Come out. I'm losing my mind about you. Come out. Come out in the name of God, come out."

Kerhansky, after several hours of silence, appeared at a window to shout obscentities at police, but then agreed to talk with police Superintendent Robert Colville.

He told Colville to move newsmen back from the house and then permitted his brother, Terry, 32, to enter the home. A few moments later, he came out the door, ushered by his brother and his best friend, Rodney Steele, 20.

"He committed no major crime and we told him he wouldn't be charged with a major crime unless he persisted," Colville said.

"I went to school with him," Steele said. "I loafed with him. I drank with him and I rode cycles with him. He's a good boy."

Kerhansky was taken to Western Psychiatric Hospital for observation pending possible charges, including disorderly conduct.

Did They Start Penny Pinch?

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Curtis D. Crews had been hearing about the penny shortage, so they decided to help.

They walked into a branch of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, and asked for Banker Dennis J. Easter.

What Easter saw was 68,435 pennies.

Ridership Gains On County Buses, But So Do Costs

Nearly 50,000 more people rode Orange County Transit District buses in April than the month before but operating costs moved even faster, district General Manager G.J. "Pete" Fielding said Monday.

A total of 419,274 riders were reported on the district's fleet during April and that total is expected to rise even higher for the month of May, when 63 new buses began their runs.

The ridership figure for April represents a 13.1 percent increase over March.

Fielding noted that the amount of revenue the district takes in per passenger mile traveled rose from about 27 cents to nearly 29 cents over the same period but it is still far short of the per mile operating costs of the buses.

That figure fluctuates month-to-month but during April, it spiraled higher than the ridership increased — from 72 cents to 82 cents per mile.

Nine Valley Students Win Auxiliary Scholarships

Nine Saddleback Valley students have been awarded $5,500 in scholarships from the Mission Community Hospital Auxiliary.

Heading the list are Lynda McMillen of Mission Viejo High School and Eric Lucha of Dana Hills High who each won $1,000.

Other winners include Dana Hills student Michael Viggianeli, $500; and from Mission Viejo High Loreen Ketels, $950; Leo Martin, $500; Karen Brightwell, $500; Maria Sanchez, $350; Margaret Kieny, $350; and Don Reeves, $350.

Miss McMillen, 17, will graduate from Mission Viejo High this month with a 3.9 average. She is on the honor roll and is president of the senior class.

She plans to enter Stanford University in the fall.

Lucha is completing his high school education at Dana Hills High in only three years. He will graduate in June with a 4.0 (straight-A) average and go to Cal Tech to pursue a career in medicine.

Applicants for the Auxiliary scholarships are reviewed by the group's scholarship committee which included Madeline Chapman, Carol Muench, Louise Swanson, Vey Norris, Diane Porter, and Auxiliary President Toad Sanchez.

"The Auxiliary is pleased to offer real financial assistance to these students," Mrs. Sanchez said. "The members of our group work hard throughout the year so that we can make these awards and encourage young people to become part of the medical field."

Deception Cited In 'Party' List

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A group of Democratic candidates leveled an eleventh hour protest Monday against the Orange County leadership of their party for sponsoring the mailing of an unofficial endorsement pamphlet mailed to the county's 300,000 Democrats.

"We are protesting the intentional deception of 300,000 Orange County voters who were led to believe this was the official endorsement of the party," said Wylie Aitken, county campaign chairman for gubernatorial candidate Herb Hafif.

Hafif accused supporters of Edmund G. Brown Jr. of launching an illegal mailing of the "Orange County Democratic Voters Guide."

Brown denied any participation in the mailing. A spokesman for the Secretary of State said, "We had nothing to do with it. None of our money was involved in it."

Hafif also charged supporters of Assemblyman Kenneth Cory (D-Garden Grove) with participating in nad helping to finance the mailer.

Claude Young, a Democrat seeking the 72nd Assembly District seat, said he was sent a letter from former party chief John Dean saying it would cost $1,000 to put his name in the pamphlet.

Most of the pamphlets, which are similar in size and color to the official voters guide sent with ballots, were received last week by the voters. Disclaimers are printed in small type in several places noting it was not an official document of the party.

"I refused to pay and protested that this is the same type of deception from the same type of so-called Democratic leaders in Orange County that we have had in the past," Young said. "This type of thing is not going to be tolerated anymore."

According to disclosure documents filed by the "Democratic Voters Guide" committee, the pamphlet cost at least $34,471 to print and mail.

The document shows much of the money was pledged by current Democratic chairman Richard O'Neill and political leader Dr. Louis Cella, a wayward Republican who backs mostly Democrats.

They each loaned the effort $5,000. Another $1,700 was pledged by Bill Butcher of Campaign Communications, Inc., one of the firms responsible for sending out thousands of computer-printed letters for various candidates.

Much of the balance came from the people whose names, photos and biographies appear in the booklets.

The endorsed candidates include Assessor Jack Vallerga, Supervisor Ronald Caspers, and Sheriff's candidate Bradley Gates — all Republicans running for non-partisan jobs.

It also includes Democrats such as Cory, Alan Cranston, Ralph Clark, Robert Battin, Richard Robinson and Edmund G. Brown Jr., to name a few.

According to the protesting candidates, each district got its own booklet with a list inside the front cover marking off which candidates were "endorsed."

Sueanne Currie Lewis, lone Democrat opposing incumbent Assemblyman Robert Badham (R-Newport Beach), said she was asked to pay and couldn't. When her name was not included, she called to ask why.

"I was then told by Dr. Cella it was an accident because since I was unopposed, I didn't have to pay at all," she said.

Albert Nasser, another Democratic candidate in the 72nd Assembly District, said the pamphlet was "unwise, misguided and uncalled for and I'm sorry Democrats were behind it."

Also protesting the pamphlet were representatives of San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, a candidate for governor, Fifth District Supervisorial Candidate Jim Thorpe and Sheriff's candidates Marshall Norris and George Savord.

Several other local candidates also joined in the protest.

The protesters claim some of those "endorsed" probably never paid for it but were instead chosen arbitrarily by the people publishing the pamphlet.

They also protested inclusion of a mailing envelope for donations to the party. The envelope was addressed to Democratic headquarters, which also happens to be the campaign headquarters of Cory, who is running for controller.

The group said their protests would be sent to Secretary of State Brown, candidate for governor endorsed in the pamphlet.

"I doubt he'll do anything even though he is the state's top election officer and charged with pursuing such flagrant deceptions," Aitken said.

Mesa Candidate For Sheriff Due Marijuana Trial

Jerry L. Lawrence of Costa Mesa, a candidate for Orange County sheriff, says he expects to be in a runoff election next November with Brad Gates, a sheriff's lieutenant who is also seeking the job.

But Lawrence, who lists himself on today's ballot as an herb dealer, could be behind bars instead.

The 32-year-old Lawrence is facing trial in Orange County Superior Court next Monday on charges of possessing marijuana. Police allege they confiscated about 16 pounds of marijuana at his Costa Mesa home when they arrested him Jan. 2.

Lawrence says he has had other encounters with the law and because of that claims he is unusually qualified for election as county sheriff. He says he is an expert on jails.

The Battle Of the Ballot

FEARLESS FOLLIES DEPT.—Dawn broke glumpy along the Orange Coast today. The sky was a wet gray blanket that dripped some. It was fitting. For this is Election Day, 1974.

'Tis the first Tuesday in June, which rhymes with moon, spoon, croon and sometimes buffoon.

Oh, what a great time for a candidate to be running for office, here in the Year of the Watergate.

As usual, the predictors have all been predicting on how this election will come out. Discounting the partisan nominations which are on the separate ballots for the Demos and GOPs, we have some local races on today's ballot.

HERE IN ORANGE COUNTY, we will be electing three supervisors, a new sheriff, a county superintendent of schools, a district attorney and a whole gaggle of other lesser officeholders.

So the predictors are saying that the way things look, all the Ins will stay in and the Outs are still out.

We shall see. After all, this is the aforementioned Year of the Watergate. You can talk to some political pundits who offer you the sage advice that the odors which have wafted from Washington bode well for all Democrat candidates.

Other savants of the scene will insist that the Watergate thing will mean nothing in the election and the people will vote on qualifications of the candidates just as they always did.

Still others, however, suggest that Watergate syndrome won't split down party lines with the electorate. It will simply mean the voters will toss everybody who is in Out, regardless of party, creed or credence.

IF THAT SHOULD happen, there sure will be a lot of jitters developing in the offices of incumbents clear across the country as today's vote starts coming in. We shall see.

One of the main problems, of course, will be if and when that vote does come in.

You have to hope they will have an easier time counting the votes than folks had casting them. I voted early today in an effort to avoid the throngs. It was a good notion. I'd have hated having somebody standing behind me, waiting for me to get that ballot unfolded in the booth.

NOT ONLY THAT, but I had carefully marked up my sample ballot and carried it into the booth, too. So I tried to unfold both the real and the sample ballots in the booth at the same time.

It was like trying to be a paperhanger in an outhouse.

Well anyway, the polls are open until 8 o'clock tonight so if you haven't gone down for your yoga exercises in the cardboard voting booth, do it now.

You can anticipate that by 8:04 o'clock tonight, some radio or television station will come on the air with "projected winners" for certain of the election races.

I'M SURE YOU won't be humbugged by those early guess tallies.

If you voted, you know that the last people in the booth couldn't have even gotten their ballots folded back up by then.

House Panelists Accepted Milk Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 16 members of the House Judiciary Committee accepted political donations ranging from $100 to $11,000 from the same three dairy farmer cooperatives the panel is investigating as part of its impeachment probe.

Two members, Democrat Charles B. Rangel of New York and Republican Thomas F. Railsback of Illinois, decided to return the money after being questioned about it by The Associated Press.

RANGEL GOT $100 from Associated Milk Producers, Inc. last March, and sent it back Monday with a letter saying it would be improper for him to accept it.

An aide to Railsback said he would give back $500 that he received from the same group in 1972 "because he wants to be free of any conflict of interest."

The others including committee chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. who got $4,100 said they sa wno conflict.

The biggest recorded donation went to Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, a first-term Democrat from Iowa, who got $11,000.

According to public records going back to April 7, 1972, these committee members were given money by one or more of the co-ops, Associated Milk Producers, Inc. Dairymen, Inc. and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc:

M. CALDWELL Butler (R-Va.), $1,000; William S. Cohen (R-Maine), $3,000; John Conyers Jr. (D-Mich), $100; David W. Dennis (R-Ind.), $500; Walter Flowers (D-Ala.), $1,000; Harold V. Froehlich (R-Wis.), $100; William L. Hungate (D-Mo.), $2,300; Robert W. Kastenmeier (D-Wis.), $2,650; Trent Lott (R-Miss.), $2,500; Robert McClory (R-Ill.), $500; Mezvinsky, $11,000; Wayne Owens (D-Utah), $2,600; Railsback, $500; Rangel, $100; Rodino, $4,100 and Jerome R. Waldie (D-Calif.), $200.

Kastenmeier, Hungate and Flowers also were among sponsors of legislation to raise the federal support price for milk in 1971. The White House has cited this legislation, sponsored eventually by 121 House members, as a key reason President Nixon overruled the Agriculture Department and raised milk price supports in March 1971.

The Judiciary Committee is scheduled to begin, within a week or two, a formal inquiry into allegations that Nixon raised prices because of a promise of $2 million in political donations from the dairy cooperatives. The White House has said Nixon knew abuut the promise of money but wasn't influenced by it.

PUBLIC RECORDS show that members of the Judiciary Committee received a total of $32,650 after April 7, 1972. Records of congressional donations before that date are no longer available for public inspection.

Four-hour Drama

A New York police sharpshooter squeezed off one round Monday to kill a wild gunman who held a man and woman hostage for four hours in a Manhattan apartment. The motives of the gunman, identified as John D. Portee, were still not clear this morning. The hostages were Ruth Melnick and her boyfriend, John Van Danhouton. Portee's shots hit a passerby in the leg. The sharpshooter's shot was the only one fired by police.

Kidnap Suspect Seized

Wealthy Oil Executive Home Safe After Abduction

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — FBI agents said today they had arrested an oil field worker and charged him with the kidnaping of wealthy oil industry executive Walter Helmerich III, abducted Monday and held eight hours before he was released on payment of $700,000 ransom.

Helmerich, 51, father of five sons and husband of former screen actress Peggy Dow, was seized on his way to work, blindfolded, bound and kept on the rear floorboard of a car that zipped from one telephone booth to another as his abductor arranged for the ransom payment.

Freddie D. Smith of Tulsa, president of an oil field supply firm, was arrested at his home on a warrant charging him with violation of the Hobbs Act, a federal statute relating to extortion involving Interstate Commerce.

FBI DIRECTOR Clarence Kelley, in a statement released in Tulsa, said Smith was arrested following Helmerich's release at 5 p.m. Monday and payment of $700,000 ransom.

Helmerich is President of Helmerich and Payne, Inc., a Tulsa-based international drilling company. The firm also owns the Utica Square shopping center in Tulsa, where the bank which handled the ransom money is located.

"I was never afraid for my life," Helmerich said. "I put myself in the hands of the Lord and I was never afraid. It all seems kind of simple now."

Helmerich said he was never harmed nor threatened, and that he visited with the kidnaper about numerous subjects, primarily sports. He said the abductor often inquired whether the victim was comfortable, whether his tape bindings were too tight or if he could breathe freely.

Helmerich said his only bad moment came near the end of his ordeal when the abductor stopped the car near Jenks, Okla., and lifted Helmerich onto the ground, taped his hands to his ankles and left him.

"IT TOOK ME four or five seconds to peel the bandage off," Helmerich said. "I know it sounds silly, but I tried to cut the tape off my hands like in the movies and I couldn't so I flagged down a truck. The lady in it was scared to death, so I told her to just cut the tape and she could go. But her son cut it and they called my wife."

Mrs. Helmerich said the family prayed a lot for her husband's safe release.

"We're a praying family and this is a time when you have to really depend on the dear Lord's power," the former actress said, "because there's nothing else you can do."

Two other sons were away at camp and the fifth was in the hospital, recuperating from appendicitis.

After the money was paid, Helmerich was released on a secluded road near the small Tulsa suburb and the abductor drove away, FBI agents said.

Nixon's Mideast Flight Outlined

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will leave Monday for a five-nation swing through the Middle East, featuring stops in Egypt, Syria and Israel.

The trip, the White House said today, is aimed at strengthening the "mutual trust and confidence" developed between the United States and nations of the area over the past several months.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT said the trip would last until June 18. Just a week later, the President will be setting off on another major trip — his summit visit to Moscow, possibly tying in a trip to Japan before he returns home.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will accompany the President, the White House said.

The White House announced the itinerary after the dates were disclosed earlier in the Middle East. The first major stop will be Cairo where Nixon will meet for the first time with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Cairo sources gave a full rundown of Nixon's schedule this morning, including a two-day visit in Damascus, capital of Syria, the third stop on his tour. This disclosure came as Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said in Damascus that full diplomatic relations were being restored with Washington.

THE PRESIDENT, accompanied by his wife, plans to fly Monday directly to the quaint Austrian town of Salzburg, arriving there Monday night for a rest stop before proceeding to Egypt. The Cairo sources said Nixon would arrive there Wednesday morning.

It will be the first time Nixon has met Sadat, who became warm friends with Henry A. Kissinger during the Secretary of State's marathon peace missions this year, and is credited with being extremely helpful in getting other Arab countries to go along with Kissinger's efforts.

Two Cambodian School Officials Killed in Riots

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The Cambodian education minister and his top assistant were shot and killed today when government troops stormed a high school where students were holding them hostage in a protest demanding education reforms.

Police said earlier in the day the two men had been shot and stabbed by the students. But UPI newsman Tea Kim Heang, at the scene, said the two men were shot by military police when the students used the officials as human shields. Police did not confirm this version.

Prime Minister Long Boret's cabinet imposed a 6 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew on the capital after a week of anti-government student unrest flared into a bloody confrontation that turned a section of the capital into a riot-torn battlefield.

Military police said two students were killed, eight others wounded and 48 arrested in the melee and that one policeman was wounded.

IN SHORT...

● SLA Sign

McCORMICK, S.C. (UPI) — Authorities said Monday that a seven-headed cobra, the symbol of the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA), was sketched in the sand near the mutilated bodies of three soldiers found at the Clark Hill Reservoir.

State law enforcement chief J. P. Storm confirmed that his agents had informed him of finding the symbol. But Storm added authorities did not attach much significance to it.

● POW to Stay

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The pro-Communist Pathet Lao refused to release an American war prisoner today, deadline for the release of all prisoners of war under terms of the new coalition government in Laos.

The Pathet Lao, in a statement to newsmen, said Emmet Kay, a pilot for a commercial airline captured May 7, 1973, would not be released because the United States had refused to abide by the peace agreement in Laos.

● Mexico Kidnaping

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The governor of Guerrero today began removing police from an area near the resort of Acolpulco in an attempt to start negotiations for the release of a kidnaped federal senator.

Police disclosed Monday that Mexico's most wanted guerrilla leader, Lucio Cabanas, had kidnaped Sen. Ruben Figueroa and four companions who wanted to convince the guerrillas to end their warfare.

Letter Bomb Kills Judge In Chambers

PASCO, Wash. (UPI) — A mail bomb delivered to a county courthouse in southeastern Washington exploded in the chambers of Judge James Lawless Monday, killing the veteran jurist just seconds after a colleague left the room.

"I had probably just seen him 15 seconds before it went off," said Judge Al Yencopal. Yencopal said he had been a close friend of Lawless since the 50-year-old father of five was appointed to the Superior Court bench 16 years ago.

A HEAVY envelope-size package containing the fatal bomb was addressed to Lawless at the courthouse in Prosser in nearby Benton County. It was carried to Lawless' office in the Franklin County courthouse in Pasco by court reporter Maxine Hancock.

"He looked at it and said, 'What in the world is this?' I didn't stay. I just turned around and went back to my office."

About a minute later, she said, the explosion shook the building, which also housed the Pasco Police Department and the County Sheriff's office.

LAWLESS

"He must have opened it right away," she said of the package. "After the explosion I started toward his office, but Judge Yancopal looked in and said to me, 'Don't go in'."

MRS. HANCOCK said the package, seven inches long, three inches wide and two inches deep, had an Expo '74 sticker used at the Spokane, Wash., World's Fair, but she didn't notice any postmark, return address or stamps.

Agents from the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms sifted through the wreckage for evidence.

About a month ago, a dynamite explosion destroyed the car of Jerry Hood, a chief investigator for the Benton County Sheriff's Department. The car was empty at the time and parked near Hood's home.

Agnew to Repay U.S. $1,100 For Home Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spiro T. Agnew has quietly agreed to repay the government $1,100 for the $175,000 worth of improvements made to his home at public expense when he was vice president.

A congressman showed UPI a copy of the agreement signed April 12 by Agnew and disclosed that government officials are investigating whether Agnew should also rebate part of the reported $300,000 he made on the sale of the home.

"I think he's entitled to every dime that resulted from the inflated real estate market," Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), said.

"But the people are entitled to the part of the profit representing the government's investment in the property."

Agnew, who resigned last fall after pleading no contest to an income tax evasion charge, bought the suburban Bethesda, Md., home for $190,000 and sold it 15 months later — with most of the improvements intact — for a reported $300,000.

The agreement, made by arrangement with the General Services Administration and co-signed by GSA Chief Arthur W. Sampson, indicates Agnew repaid only $400 for carepting and $700 for air conditioning out of GSA-funded improvements totalling $175,569.19.

Donald E. Santarelli, head of the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, has quit his job after suggesting that President Nixon resign. He was quoted as saying Watergate had 'cheapened' government service.

'Impeach' President Says Union

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The convention of the United Auto Workers after hearing the president of the American Bar Association demand that President Nixon obey the Supreme Court, voted almost unanimously Monday in favor of impeachment.

Only two or three hands were raised in the President's favor as the 3000 delegates to the UAW Convention voted on a motion listing 13 charges on which the President could be brought to trial and if convicted removed from office.

Just before the vote the convention was addressed by Chesterfield Smith, president of the ABA, who said he believes Nixon's refusal to honor Congressional subpoenas for tapes and evidence in itself constitutes an impeachable offense.

"But now we are in a much more serious situation because the White House refuses to comment on what the President will do in the face of an order from the Supreme Court," he added.

● Student Vigil

BERKELEY (UPI) — Hundreds of students at the University of California vowed to begin a vigil today in protest against a proposed closure of the campus' School of Criminology.

A rally and march by 2000 students last Wednesday resulted in a sit-in at the criminology building during which 159 students were forcibly removed by police. University officials Monday dropped disciplinary action which would have caused the 159 students ejected from the building to have missed final exams.

● Murder Charged

FONTANA (UPI) — The divorced parents of a Riverside girl were charged with murder Monday 10 years after their daughter was allegedly killed.

Police charged Antonio Rivera, 37, of Colton and Mrs. Merla Bueno, 35, of San Bernardino with killing their 3-year-old daughter, Judy, on a Saturday in either 1964 or 1965. The remains of the girl, found in the Jurupa Hills near here last year, remained unidentified until a coroner's inquest was held and the girl's birth certificate located.

● Airlines Sues

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Turkish Airlines Inc. sought $35 million plus unspecified damages from the McDonnell Douglas Corp. in a suit filed Monday in connection with the crash of a DC10 jetliner that claimed 340 lives.

The airline alleged the plane en route from Paris to London, crashed because of negligence in the design and assembly.

● Men Sentenced

LONG BEACH (UPI) — A Superior Court Judge sentenced a 25-year-old man to life in prison Monday for the first-degree murder of a 16-year-old girl whose body was found in a cave at Point Fermin Park.

Thomas Kirby was found guilty by a seven-woman, five-man jury May 1. The victim, Candis Wilbur of San Pedro, had been stabbed repeatedly.

'Classy' Burglar Charged

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — According to the charges against him, Ernest Crowley was one classy burgler, stealing from Hollywood celebrities. Among other things, he allegedly got John Wayne's shotgun.

Crowley, 54, who police said was once a television newscaster in Boston, has been working for three years as a security guard at Paramount Studios. He was charged Monday with two counts of burglary and three of grand theft for allegedly making off with $85,000 worth of loot from the studio and the offices or dressing rooms of such stars as Wayne, Lucille Ball, Sammy Davis Jr., Bing Crosby, and Danny Thomas.

Bodies of 3 Teen-agers Found Floatiing in Rivers

SALINAS (UPI) — The bodies of three teen-agers were found floating in rivers Monday in what authorities said were apparently connected slayings.

Monterey County Sheriff's investigators said it had bben established that the three, two men and a woman, were together at a campsite in the Los Padres National Forest.

Investigators said blood stains showed the three had been pushed through bridge railings into the rivers.

The victims were identified as Teri Kathleen McCort, 17; Wyatt Scott Hansen, 17; and Patrick Ory Hill, 18, all of Salinas.

The coroner's office said at least one of the victims died of gunshot wounds. Casings from a .22 caliber weapon were found near the campsite.

The bodies of the two men were found in the Arroyo Seco River in the Los Padres National Forest. The body of the woman was found 30 miles away in the Salinas River.

An investigator said there was no evidence of a struggle and "no motive and no suspects" in the slayings.

SLA Body Parts Kept By Coroner's Office

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The coroner's office is keeping pieces of the bodies of the six Symbionese Liberation Army members who died in a gun battle with police and FBI agents May 17.

Coroner Thomas Noguchi said Monday that when the bodies of the six victims were turned over to their families for burial, his office kept the teeth and fingers as well as pieces of scalp, brain, lung, liver and flesh.

Noguchi talked to newsmen following complaints from the family of Donald Defreeze, who called himself "Field Marshal General Cinque." Defreeze's brother, Delano, said in Cleveland that so much of his brother's body had been removed it was difficult to identify it. The body was also badly damaged by fire following the gunfight.

Noguchi said even more portions were removed in the case of Defreeze because he committed suicide. Noguchi said he retained the portions of the skull showing that Defreeze shot himself through the head.

The specimens were kept for further investigation, Noguchi said, calling it standard practice.

The terrorist group was decimated in the shootout three months after it leaped to nootriety by kidnaping newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

Claims Libel

Judge Files Suit For $21 Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Municipal Judge Joseph R. Grillo, a candidate for a Superior Court judgeship, filed a $21 million libel suit Monday following release of a poll of attorneys in which 92 percent said he was unqualified.

The poll was conducted by deputy district attorneys and public defenders.

The suit seeks $10 million compensatory damages to Los Angeles County citizens, $10 million punitive damages and $1 million compensatory damages for Grillo for injury to his reputation "as a firm and fair judge."

He said he would turn over any damages received to the Los Angeles County Bar Association to reimburse "clients who have been damaged by negligent and unethical attorneys."

Grillo said the poll was a "rigged-up job to prevent a strong judge (himself) from being elected."

Girl Kept In a Box

VAN NUYS (UPI) — A former mental patient pleaded guilty in Superior Court Monday to kidnaping a 14-year-old girl and keeping her in a cardboard box.

Joseph Henry Larroque, 49, Granada Hills, was to be sentenced July 18.

The girl escaped from the box after three days.

Larroque previously had been treated at Atascadero State Mental Hospital.

$2 Million Suit Filed By Bugliosi

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Vincent T. Bugliosi, Democratic candidate for state attorney general, Monday filed a $2 million countersuit against six persons.

The defendants include George V. Denny III, a lawyer who considers Bugliosi "unfit to run" for office, Bugliosi's primary opponent, William A. Norris, Mrs. Virginia Cardwell, who said she had an affair with Bugliosi and was beaten by him after refusing to obtain an abortion he allegedly paid for, and three of her attorneys.

Bugliosi's suit was in response to a slander suit filed May 10 by Denny, who sought $150,000 from Bugliosi and his campaign treasurer because they allegedly called Denny a "liar" and a "hatchet man."

Housing Cost Study

Leaders of a loose coalition of Orange County business and labor leaders have won county government endorsement to set up a special task force to study ways of reducing spiraling housing costs in the county. The Council for Employment, Environment, Economy and Development (CEEED) plans to use this panel to explore the reasons why housing has grown so out of reach of those who need it.

We wish them luck. The causes of high housing costs are rooted deep in a statewide and nationwide framework. Local cures are likey to solve nothing at all. The problem CEEED points to is born in the Federal Housing Administration, which sets construction guidelines, and in the Federal Home Loan Banking system, which sets interest rates higher and higher each year—plus, of course, inflated land, labor and material costs.

We see little chance that CEED's housing study will produce any new miracle solutions to the problem. But perhaps its most useful service could be to bring out the problems and the options for their solution, so that the citizens of Orange County and their government authorities can weigh them and possibly arrive at the right equation.

We must caution, however, that the task force be comprised of a wide range of interests and not dominated by development advocates. This could taint whatever findings do come out of the study.

Unnecessary Holiday

By the time this paper reaches you, hundreds of thousands of California voters will have found time to stop by the polls to cast their votes, many by making an early start to work, others on their lunch hours. More will find time to vote on the way home from work tonight.

But California state government employes won't have to fit the trip to the polls into their working schedules. Nor will local government employes in many areas.

For them, election day is a holiday. A paid holiday, that is. And it costs the state's taxpayers up to $16 million per election to finance this day off for their public servants.

In a rare bipartisan accord in Sacramento, a legislative remedy for this nonsensical situation is in the works. SB 1502, if it passes, will eliminate the election-day holiday.

Of course, it's opposed by government employe union leaders, but, given the current mood of reform, their objections may fall on deaf ears, as indeed they should.

If the average worker can find time to vote during the lengthy polling hours, there is no reason to grant public employes a paid holiday on election day.

Oil Spill Alert

An attempt to coordinate statewide services in the event of oil spills will be greatly assisted by installation of a toll-free, around-the-clock telephone alert system.

Citizens observing an oil spill—or emergency contamination from spills of other hazardous materials—can sound the alert by calling, toll-free, the state Office of Emergency Services in Sacramento at (800) 852-7550.

The service is of particular importance to coastal residents who are likely to be the first to spot oil spills.

The emergency notification plan is part of the new State Oil Spill Contingency Plan recently approved by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The plan is designed to coordinate the response of all concerned state agencies, beginning with the Department of Fish and Game, which has the principal responsibility for initial response and evaluation of reported spills.

The toll-free oil spill number should not be used for other emergencies, which should be reported to local authorities.

'Yes, Mr. Jaworski. The Chief Justice did receive your petition for a decision on the president's power to withhold evidence.'

Shakespeare Could Use Translation

SYDNEY HARRIS

Shakespeare is nearly unread, and almost unreadable, by the modern high school student. Despite the force-feeding by English teachers, the greatest writer in the world has become a period-piece, quaint and quotable, but not a vivifying force in literature.

Part of the blame, of course, resides in the wretched way Shakespeare is taught in most schools, and the steadily decreasing literacy of the American public. But more important than this blame is the historical fact that the English language has changed radically since Elizabethan times.

Phrases have disappeared, syntax has shifted, words have altered their meanings in the more than 350 years since he composed his plays and poems. Going through the newly published "Riverside" Shakespeare edition the other night, I ran across a dozen sentences per page that make little sense to the modern reader without explanatory footnotes.

THE GERMANS feel closer to Shakespeare than we do — they call him "unser Shakespeare"—our Shakespeare. The reason for this is not their superior sensitivity or scholarship, but simply the fact that they are closer to him—in time. In language, they are only half the distance from him that we are, owing to a particularly fortunate piece of translation.

The great classic German translation of the Shakespearean plays was published by A. M. Schlegel in 1833, less than 150 years ago. As a result, the German version is far closer to modern German as it is spoken today than the original English is to the English we speak today.

Most of the archaisms were pruned away or transliterated—the "marry" and "forsooth" and "an" in the sense of "if" and the inverted constructions that make it so formidable for us to get to the pith of the Shakespearean meaning and to appreciate his cunning command of rhetoric. It is ironic that mutations in our own language in the last three centuries have alienated us from him more than another language.

IRREVERENT as it may sound, perhaps it is time for Shakespeare to be "translated" into modern English, as Schlegel turned him into relatively modern German. It would take an exceptional combination of a great scholar and a fine poet to turn this trick without vulgarizing or flattening or losing the subtle allusions to be found in the original.

Yet the choices seem to be between moldering and modernization. He is already a bronzed relic to most people, respected far more than understood or appreciated, and increasingly tedious to new generations of schoolchilren. We preserve buildings and other great monuments of our heritage; shall we let Shakespeare wither without even an attempt at restoration in modern form to preserve this irreplaceable legacy?

The Unyielding Special Prosecutor

White House Misjudged Jaworski

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's blistering letter to the Senate Judiciary Committee is a political act, calculated and combative, which exposes the extreme danger of President Nixon's continuing fight against turning over subpoenaed evidence.

Neither asking nor desiring Senate action, Jaworski was firing a long-contemplated signal. By publicly revealing that the President broke his promises not to interfere with the special prosecutor, Jaworski has made himself more fireproof than ever. Yet, if Mr. Nixon eventually loses in the Supreme Court,, his only sensible alternative to the self-destructive sacking of Jaworski would be to obey the court and surrender the tape recordings.

However, there is universal suspicion (Jaworski's included) that those tapes contain information at least as damaging to the President as the revelations on nine tapes he surrendered after the Saturday night massacre last October. Thus, while attention is now glued to impeachment proceedings on Capitol Hill, Jaworski's office in downtown Washington is an actively dangerous second front where the President's prospects are bleak.

JAWORSKI remains perhaps the worst of all the blatant White House miscalculations about Watergate. The President was wrong from the start that the 68-year-old Houston corporation lawyer would prove a welcome relief from the deposed Prof. Archibald Cox as special prosecutor. After seven long months, the White House will not admit that error.

Continuing to misinterpret Jaworski's character, Nixon aides insist he really wants to clean up the Watergate cases without causing more trouble and go home to the good life in Texas. It's just that poor old Leon, they say, is the captive of ferocious young anti-Nixon liberal lawyers he inherited from Cox.

This conflicts with evidence that Jaworski is totally in control — as in the recent decision on how to handle former Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst's admitted deception before a Senate Committee. Although these young prosecutors wanted a perjury indictment, Jaworski insisted that Kleindienst — more sinned against than sinning — should be let off with a one-count misdemeanor.

BUT THE White House has talked so much about the captive-Jaworski theory that Mr. Nixon's lawyers actually broached it to Jaworski himself, crudely attempting to alienate him from the Cox holdovers. Jaworski responded with some heat that he runs his own show.

That heat displayed a combativeness by trial lawyer Jaworski far more intense than appellate lawyer Cox's. As the White House remained adamantly uncooperative, Jaworski long ago decided he would return — at the proper time — to the Senate to complain about the President. When Nixon defense lawyer James St. Clair argued in closed session before Judge John Sirica that Jaworski was subordinate to the President's wishes, Jawosrki knew the proper time had come.

HIS INTENT is certainly not to further the basic Nixon strategy of delay by getting Congress to establish a statutory special prosecutor's office. Rather, the letter to the Senate was a means of getting his case in the open without breaching the court's semi-gag rule (imposed upon Jaworski but not St. Clair).

The letter further undercut Mr. Nixon with many remaining Republican supporters in Congress. Realizing Mr. Nixon can neither fire Jaworski nor seem to be impeding his investigation, they view this struggle with the special prosecutor as deflating the President's hopes for survival.

The unsinkable Jaworski deepens problems Mr. Nixon faces in his lawsuit against the subpoenas. Just as last October, the White House inner circle — in this case, the President, St. Clair and chief of staff Alexander Haig — has talked itself into believing it will win in the Supreme Court. So, White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt might be telling the truth when he contends the reaction to an adverse court decision has not even been discussed.

BUT OUTSIDE lawyers believe the Supreme Court could very well order the tapes be given Jaworski. Since he cannot turn off this process by firing Jaworski, Mr. Nixon would then have to consider presidential defiance of the Supreme Court, leading to a constitutional crisis which would likely result in his conviction by the Senate.

The President's problem, then, boils down to the actual contents of the subpoenaed tapes. Risking his very office to keep them secret reinforces the inescapable suspicion which has always dogged him: that he is protecting not his former aides but himself. That suspicion would endure even if the Supreme Court ruled for him. Only a lenient special prosecutor could ease this pressure against the President, and even the White House must now realize that Leon Jaworski is anything but that.

Nixon Tax Penalty Unfair?

RICHARD WILSON

WASHINGTON — Debate about President Nixon's impeachability often ends, "Yeah, but he cheated on his income taxes in a big way and that's enough," or "Legal or not, a president of the United States ought not to try to get by with that stuff."

It just isn't that simple and it is a shame the President's case was not fully presented before he committed himself to paying any arrears claimed by the hawkeyed staff of the congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation. These arrears were judged to be considerable and with other commitments the President has made, tend to reduce his net worth after 40 years of striving to zero-minus.

SENATOR Carl T. Curtis, a solid Republican conservative from Nebraska, has sent to editors and news directors a defense of the President running about 1,500 words which the New York Times requested, but "just couldn't find the space" to print.

Later, the Times did publish as long an article by a tax expert outlining the basis upon which a reader could arrive at his own conclusion on whether or not Nixon committed tax fraud.

The tax expert, Harry G. Balter, a specialist on fraud and negligence for the publication, "Journal of Taxation," has not helped us much. If you are predisposed to think Nixon is tricky, a cheater, and probably crooked, Balter provides reasons for thinking he is also guilty of tax fraud. If you are not so predisposed, you can find a good basis for an opposite conclusion.

CURTIS' analysis is noteworthy on three major points. First, there is the matter of the sale of Nixon's New York apartment and the purchase of his San Clemente "principal residence" in the same year, which would normally exempt the transaction from capital gains taxes.

How does one look at this? Was not Nixon's principal residence actually the White House? Well, at best he was a temporary resident there, just as was Franklin D. Roosevelt when his family home was at Hyde Park, N. Y.

San Clemente was bought as a principal residence and to be used as such instead of the New York apartment, which was Nixon's principal residence before he was elected President. Okay, if that's the case, why didn't Nixon pay income taxes in California? There are specific provisions of the California law covering that point, which might justify paying California taxes, but it can be argued Nixon can't have it both ways.

THE SECOND point made by Curtis has to do with the big item, Nixon's gift of his vice presidential papers to the Federal Archives. Curtis argues this gift was just as valid as that of previous presidents, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, much of whose papers were delivered after his death without a deed and held valid on the expression of his intention while living. Nixon's intent was also clearly expressed, though the actual deeding appears to have been faulty. Curtis claims no deed is actually necessary, and Nixon's gift stands on firmer footing than F.D.R.'s.

A third point might produce more general agreement. This is the matter of the use of government aircraft for private family trips, which the Secret Service was advising because of the prevalence of aircraft hijacking. Nixon absorbed some of the cost, and this was another "historic first" for him. No previous president is known to have paid for flights on government aircraft by family members.

We get now to a sticky point. Is not a President of the United States entitled to some emoluments and privileges? A practical answer might be that he is, always has been, and ought to be.

Curtis makes a pretty good case that Nixon has had a rougher deal than any president before him.

THIS IS probably unavoidable in the present climate, and is not really the heart of the matter, which goes back to tax expert Balter's hide-and-seek on the tax fraud question. This is important in the impeachment matter, because if Nixon can't be found specifically guilty of the Watergate coverup, then the tax matter can also be cited as part of a general pattern of unpresidential behavior justifying his impeachment.

What emerges now is that the public and Congress have not had the benefit of a full airing of the pros and cons of Nixon's tax problem, but have leaped to conclusions on a very complex matter without much appreciation of the defensibility of Nixon's tax lawyers and accountants.

The House Impeachment Committee, it is to be hoped, will give them a fairer and more open hearing that has been the case so far.

Ownership Can Spell Death for Love

CHARLES McCABE

The lad with the blue jaw was sitting in The Green Coast, a cantina by the ocean in Puerto Vallarta. He was into his third tot of rum and glaring a little at his lady, who was pretending not to hear.

"Why," he asked, "are they so damned understanding and considerate, and even kind for Chrissake, when you're just doing sack duty? They study you like they were taking a clock apart, anticipate your mood, leave you alone when you want to be alone, make no demands.

"But always," bitterly now, "they have it in the back of their little heads, just how to put the clock back together, and the name of that game is always the same. It's marriage, the wall and the bars, the ball and the chain. Everything that made you want to do it in the first place flies out the window the day you sign the parchment."

HIS COMPLAINT is unoriginal, but it will never lose its pathos. Nor will the plight of the girl, which is equally unoriginal. Something terrible happens to two people when the idea of ownership enters the world of their feelings. Nor will woman's lib, or open marriage, or any of the bright oriflammes of Sexual Freedom be likely to change this. This is the tragedy of what we commonly call love.

Two words which mean almost the exact opposite are love and owning. The words can be contained by a beautiful object; but not by people acting on each other. Yet loving and owning are used by so many of us, at least in the period before "love" is murdered by itself, as if they were the same thing.

This is a lethal confusion, as all too many lovers have found out. When it is all over, we talk about the suffering caused by love, and we mean it, oh how we mean it. But we are wrong. The suffering comes not from the love, but from the ownership.

SOMETHING like this had been running through my mind as the lad with the blue beard addressed me. "It has long been my idea," I said, "that marriage should be made extremely difficult by society, if we really wish both marriages and families, and therefore society, to survive in a useful form.

"For instance, I think it would be extremely useful if you and Debbie were compelled to show proof that you had successfully lived together for a period of five years before you were even allowed to take a blood test before marriage."

I mentioned that in certain peasant communities in Brittany, couples are not permitted to be married unless the girl is pregnant when she appears before the marrying magistrate. Here is hardrock common sense. The purpose of marriage, in the backward Breton view, is to have children and form a family, to add to other earlier families. The only sure way to achieve this aim is to have proof positive that the couple are fertile.

"WE LIVE in a somewhat more complicated society," I continued, "and such a solution will not do it for us, though it would probably help. Our troubles are the emotional strains that come to essentially unemployed people, people who no longer spend 12 hours on the land or the sea or in the home. The insecurities those strains create are what in turn creates this devilish demand for ownership of another. It's a kind of dubious street-corner therapy. If we own somebody he can't leave us, we will not be alone.

"Prolonged shacking-up might either kill or cure us of this longing for ownership, which is the enemy of love and the parent of suffering. Just might."

ECOLOGY SPECIAL — The Edison-20 bay boat has all the features to make an "eco-freak" rejoice. No smelly or noisy engine, no fuel to buy. The boat is powered by a 3½ horsepower electric motor. Source of power is 12 six-volt batteries which can be recharged by a built-in charger.

Costa Mesa Firm Creates Electric-power Bay Craft

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Editor

Worried about present or future fuel shortages for boats?

Does the sound of a high-speed powerboat blasting through the bay offend your eardrums?

Or the smell of gasoline or diesel fumes do something to your olfactory senses?

Then get an electric boat. Preferably an Edison-20 — since that is the only one available in these parts.

SO WHAT IS an Edison-20? Briefly, it is a 20-foot electric-powered bay boat, many of which can be seen gliding noiselessly around Newport Harbor on any given weekend.

The boat is the creation — both as designer and builder — of Marshall Duffield Jr., who is producing the boats at the rate of four or five a month at Duffield Marine, 660 W. 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Some of the economical advantages of the craft: No carburetor, no ignition, no water pumps, clutches or any of the mechanical things that can go wrong with gasoline engines.

THE EDISON-20 operates on the same motive power as the well known golf carts — a 3½ horsepower G.E. electric motor that swings an 11-inch propeller. The motor is powered by 12 six-volt 250 ampere Trojan batteries.

There isn't even a starter button to press. When you want to go forward just push the throttle lever forward and the motor starts at half speed. Push it a little farther and the boat is up to full speed. To reverse pull the lever back through the upright position and the motor starts again in reverse.

There are no costly engine overhauls because there is no engine. Most costly item of overhaul would be the replacement of the full bank of batteries at a cost of $350 to $400.

BUT EVEN this contingency is remote. The boat has a built-in 110-volt generator that can be hooked up to any shore line. Cost of recharging from a complete discharge is about 35 cents.

At half-speed the boat glides along at about 3½-4 knots. Full speed is 6½-7 knots, depending, of course on the passenger load.

About the boat itself: It looks like a character boat except for such modern innovations as fiberglass construction, teak trim, tassled covering and isinglass windbreaker.

"We wanted a fiberglass boat without the plastic look, yet still retain low maintenance," says Duffield.

TWO OF THE biggest manufacturers in the electric field helped with the engineering of the Edison-20's electrical system. Trojan Batteries played the key role in the construction of the first boat.

"Their knowledge and our philosophy combined to make what we believe is the most revolutionary boat to hit the yachting world," says Duffield.

It's not a boat for offshore cruising. Cruising limit at full speed is about eight hours — at half speed, 12-14 hours. Then it's time to recharge.

THE BOAT IS simple enough for "little old ladies" or even children to operate. Even at full speed the boat can be stopped in seconds, and the large rudder makes it highly maneuverable in traffic.

Rev. Cole Accepts Ministry

The Rev. Dr. Donald Cole has accepted the call of ministry from South Shores Baptist Church in Laguna Niguel. He was serving as interim pastor during the past year.

Dr. Cole has previously served as president of the California Baptist Theological Seminary in Covina, dean of men and professor of counseling and psychology at Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena; pastor of Linden Baptist Church in Camden, N.J., and associate pastor of First Baptist Church in San Diego.

He holds a Doctorate degree in psychology from the University of London and currently maintains a practice in personal and family counseling. He is also under contract with the U.S. Air Force to conduct six counseling seminars a year in various parts of the world in cooperation with Air Force chaplains.

Festivities Scheduled By Priests

Priests of St. Michael's Preparatory High School of Orange County will mark the 14th anniversary of their arrival with a day-long festival and barbecue on June 16.

Festivities will commence at 11 a.m. on the school grounds.

Traditionally held on Father's Day, the old-fashioned pit barbecue dinner will be again prepared by Gratian Bidart and the Changala Brothers. Tables will be set up on the lawn and dinner will be served from noon to 8 p.m., with barbecued hot dogs, soft drinks, ice cream and other refreshments available throughout the day.

St. Michael's can be reached by the San Diego Freeway. From the El Toro Road exit, go under the freeway and head northeast on El Toro Road for seven miles to the school grounds, just south of the intersection of El Toro, Santiago Canyon and Live Oak Canyon Roads.

Orange Coast Students Take Top Number of Scholarships

A record total of $19,910 in scholarships has been awarded to Orange Coast College students at the annual OCC Honors Night program.

Community organizations, businesses and individuals contributed the awards. A number were also donated by the college. The ceremony, held in the Tale of the Whale Restaurant in the Balboa Pavilion Wednesday night, was attended by more than 500 students, parents and faculty members.

A total of 133 students won awards. Newport Harbor-Costa Mesa Lions Club was the biggest donor, awarding $1,000 in scholarships. The American Business Women's Association awarded $900.

List of winners by city:

BALBOA — Kathryn Moodey, Ebell Club of Newport Beach, $200; Jojo Perrin, Sally Maedel Memorial Award for Dance, $50.

BALBOA ISLAND — Dean Jones, Associated Students-OCC Film Award, $100; Michael Kirby, Rotary Club of Costa Mesa, $200.

He's Big Operator

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — An $84-a-month theater attendant has been performing "complicated surgical operations" at a general hospital in northern Nigeria for more than 17 years, although he has never had any formal medical training, the Nigerian Herald reported.

Newspaper Vulgarity Gets Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to decide if high schools can forbid distribution of unofficial student newspapers using vulgar language but which are not obscene under criminal law.

The case, involving students at an Indianapolis school, could knock down administrative rules across the country providing for prior approval of papers distributed in high schools. The court could also decide whether students have the same First Amendment rights as adults.

SIX INDIANAPOLIS high school students were prohibited from distributing the paper on school grounds because it used vulgar language, often in criticizing school administrators. School regulations also prevented them from soliciting sales of the newspaper on the school campus.

U.S. District Judge William E. Steckler subsequently struck down six regulations by the School Board as either unconstitutionally vague or in violation of the First Amendment.

THE BOARD LOST an appeal to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court before coming to the Supreme Court.

Hinshaw: Impeachment Vote Imperative

By O. C. HUSTINGS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Delay of a congressional vote on a bill of impeachment against President Nixon may mean a repetition of the proceedings next year, according to Rep. Andrew Hinshaw (R- Mission Viejo).

The 93rd Congress, which is considering the impeachment question, will be dissolved at the end of December when congressmen elected in November take office and the 94th Congress is formed.

A possibility exists, Hinshaw said in an interview, that a vote on the question will be delayed past that deadline and the proceedings will have to start over.

"THE REASON is that the House is not a continuing body," Hinshaw said. "It ceases to function in all respects at the end of its two-year term."

Any unfinished business, he said, would cease to exist.

"They probably would not have to start over from scratch," he said, " because the information is still available.

"The 94th Congress would not have authority for the staff they have. They would have to approve authority for the impeachment inquiry and they would have to approve new rules of conduct and so forth."

THE DELAY, he said, could come about this way :

"The Judiciary Committee could decide it does not want to make a recommendation until it has access to all the material it has requested from the President.

"That could delay it until fall.

"If the house itself does not get the information until late fall, I don't believe it could conclude its hearings before the term expires," Hinshaw said.

One consideration, he said, is that each member of the House may be permitted to speak for up to an hour on the question.

"IF THEY all chose to do so, the hearings could stretch out for months."

The Judiciary Committee has set a late July target date for its recommendation, Hinshaw said, and it will be under "extreme pressure" from the House to make some finding.

Hinshaw said he would like some finding from the committee indicating whether the information points to an impeachable offense or not. If the committee is still in doubt, he said, they should report the precise information needed to come to a conclusion.

"THIS WOULD allow the people of the country to believe that the Judiciary Committee is not on a continual fishing expedition," he said.

What such a delay would do to the country, he said, "is too speculative for accurate comment."

"But, if we don't get some action by the November elections, it might have some impact on them."

ALLUDING TO the election as a "vote of confidence," he said that an election returning a heavily Republican Congress could be seen as favorable to the President.

"If it goes the other way, it could be construed as a lessening of confidence and that would encourage the 94th Congress to go ahead with the inquiry," he said.

"Certainly if there is no recommendation by late fall, we will run out of time."

'VOTE NEEDED SOON' Congressman Hinshaw

Water District Races Cleared

Stories regarding the election of directors of the Municipal Water District of Orange County and the Coastal Municipal Water District, which ran Sunday and Monday were transposed in mid story, placing the candidates in the wrong districts.

The candidates should have been presented as follows.

In Municipal district Division 2 the candidates are:

Incumbent Gerald E. Price, 67, of 14822 Van Buren St., Midway City. Married, with four children, he is a retired manufacturer of farm machinery who has served on the board since the district was formed in 1951.

Harry D. Bentley, a roofer, of 13762 Gunther St., Garden Grove, and Gordon Gleason, an industrial engineer, of 14152 Flower St., Garden Grove, are the Division 2 challengers.

IN MUNICIPAL district Division 5 the candidates are:

Incumbent Clem M. McColloch, 72, of 5185 Duenas, Laguna Hills. Married, with one child, he has served on the board since 1951. He is a retired citrus grower.

William D. Fenton, a public relations man and salesman, of 26682 Pepita Drive, Mission Viejo, and Sterling S. Sharrar, a computer programmer, of 12372 Newport Ave., Santa Ana, are the Division 5 challengers.

IN THE COASTAL district the Division 4 candidates are:

Incumbent William K. Patrick, 61, of 2198 Pacific Ave., Costa Mesa. Married with three children, he is a 12-year board veteran. He is an inspector for the Orange County Department of Agriculture.

Gene J. Adams, 49, of 1547 Santa Ana Ave., Costa Mesa, is the Division 4 challenger. He is a self-employed business management consultant specializing in utility audits.

COASTAL district Division 3 candidates are:

Incumbent Hans J. Lorenz, 61, of 165 Shorecliff Road, Corona del Mar. The board chairman for I.S. Industries of Newport Beach, he has served on the water district board since 1965.

Challenger Winton M. Ashton, 42, of 309 Coronado, Balboa, is married, with four children. He is a self-employed industrial and commercial real estate broker.

Challenger Ed Vanden Bossche, 33, of 121 40th St., Newport Beach, is an architect.

Challenger W.A. Coleman, 75, of 324 Morning Canyon Road, Corona del Mar, is married, with three grown children. He is the retired president of a chain of food stores.

UC Irvine Sets Meet For Music

UC Irvine's first summer conservatory for students of violin, viola, cello or string bass continues to have openings for "string players of all ages."

The five-week program including private lessons and ensemble concert preparation and performance gets unde way June 24 following orientation sessions June 17 and 22.

DR. PETER Odegard, UCI professor of music, is directing the string conservatory which offers 30 hours of private and semi-private instruction. UCI Extension is in charge of enrollments and the program costs participants $195.

Both children and adults may enroll regardless of level of advancement. Beginners, intermediate and advanced students are invited to participate.

The program is planned "to provide instruction that is both intensive and pleasurable at a minimal cost," Odegard said. Lessons of a half-hour duration are being offered at a rate equal to $3.25 each.

"PRIVATE lessons, supervised practice, performance and ensemble classes will complement each other to give the best balanced musical involvement possible," Odegard said.

A separate 30-hour program for guitar students also is offered Monday and Thursday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon.

String conservatory activities will be scheduled afternoons at UCI in the Fine Arts Village complex.

Murderess Sentenced

SANTA ANA — A Garden Grove woman who admitted stabbing her husband to death with a butcher knife after the couple quarreled in the kitchen of their home has been sent to state prison for up to 15 years.

Orange County Superior Court Judge Herbert S. Herlands ordered the prison term for Lois Elaine Cannou, 42, after she pleaded guilty to charges of voluntary manslaughter.

Garden Grove police booked her on murder charges last Jan. 30 after they found the body of Albert Felix Cannou, 50, at the home. The only witness to the accident was the couple's 5-year old son.

Tax Official

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Donald G. Procida, audit supervisor of the Franchise Tax Board, was named by Gov. Ronald Reagan as administrator of the tax preparation program in the Department of Consumer Affairs. The $19,332-a year post was created by legislation which makes it unlawful starting next year for any person not registered with the state to prepare a tax return for a fee.

Ice Cream OK With Everybody

Just about every sort of food has been rejected by some society somewhere. Around here, for instance, you don't see many people eating roast dog. Certainly beefsteak isn't acceptable generally in India. Nor is pork in much demand in the Middle East. But it's said there's one food that never has been rejected by any society once said has tried comestible. That's ice cream.

Sir, if you're six inches taller than your wife, the two of you are average. In that respect, at any rate.

Most of the bull rings in Spain have mourning boxes. Wherein relatives of the recently deceased can watch the fights. Without being seen.

CLOTHES

How old should a girl be before her folks let her go out on her first date? Age 13 is now that year most commonly named. Not so long ago it was age 14. And back a generation or so, age 16. However, those err who claim the foregoing query causes the most arguments between parents and teenage daughters. Commonest cause of such contention is the widespread desire among girls to wear revealing clothes.

Clearly it wouldn't do to name the saddened lady or the society editor who commented about her. But after the former had cremated her third husband, the latter wrote, "She had husbands to burn." Unkind, unkind.

KISSING

When pollsters asked 6,000 college students whether they kissed on first dates, 42 percent of the men said yes and 32 percent of the women said likewise. Interesting, if accurate.

Am certain I told you this story a half dozen years ago, but a customer asks about the infamous potato roast of the Marx brothers. That occurred in the office suite of MGM producer Irving Thalberg. The brothers, then four, got a little restless when Thalberg kept them waiting for 20 minutes in the outer room. So they sent out for a bag of spuds. And a half hour later, when Thalberg strolled out of his sanctum, he witnessed the four of them, sitting stark naked around his fireplace, roasting those potatoes. It is writ that Thalberg did not keep the Marx men waiting at any future date.

Gang Rape Fear

Prison Escapes Justified

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The Michigan Court of Appeals, citing the "growing problem of institutional gang rapes in our prison system," has ruled that fear of sexual attack is justification for a convict to attempt escape.

The court reversed the escape conviction of Terry Lee Harmon who claimed he fled Ionia State Reformatory in June, 1972 because of homosexual attacks.

"THE TIME HAS come when we can no longer close our eyes to the growing problem of institutional gang rape in our prison system," said Judge Vincent J. Brennan.

"The state has a duty to assure inmate safety and if our prison system fails to live up to its responsibilities in this regard we should not, indirectly, countenance such a failure by precluding the presentation of a defense based on those facts," the court said.

The new decision could bring to light "more and more evidence of the homosexuality and brutality that creates a climate of fear in prisons," said James R. Neuhard, director of the state appellate defender's office.

"IF AN INMATE flees in order to escape the clutches of the person threatening him, then he should be allowed to present those circumstances to the jury," he said.

Harmon was sentenced on the escape charges by Circuit Court Judge Leo B. Bebeau who refused to allow fear of sexual attacks as a defense. Prison ofifcials said Harmon did not report sexual pressure before his escape or immediately after caputure.

BEBEAU EXPRESSED concern that a rash of such defenses would erupt in similar cases because the charges of threats of homosexual attacks or beatings are difficult to prove.

Edward S. Turner, an attorney and assistant to corrections Director Perry M. Johnson, said he did not know what effect the decision would have on prison escapees. Correction officials have said 170 men escaped from minimum security institutions this year.

Beautify your bug. It could win you a new one.

A "Beautify Your Bug" contest and parade will be held at Disneyland Sunday, June 30, in honor of a Volkswagen's starring role in the new Walt Disney Studios' movie, "Herbie Rides Again."

The Grand Prize is a 1974 Beetle. (If you don't win the bug, you'll have your chance at other valuable prizes.)

Here's what you do. Decorate your bug for judging in one of three categories. Make it patriotic. Make it nostalgic. Make it comical.

But don't make it anything until you take this entry blank to your VW dealer. He'll give you an official Beautify Your Bug for "Herbie Day at Disneyland" envelope which you mail to Disneyland. And then, when you hear from Disneyland that you've been accepted as one of the entrants, you can start decorating your bug.

Because of limited space availability, only 1000 entrants will be accepted. And your entry must be received at Disneyland before June 10.

Each accepted entrant gets four free Disneyland passes and four five-ride ticket books. (So you win before the contest even starts.)

Twenty-five finalists will be chosen from each category to drive in the big parade through Disneyland. The grand prize winner and three winners in each category will be chosen after the parade.

If you're selected, you could parade out in a brand new bug.

BEAUTIFY YOUR BUG FOR "HERBIE DAY AT DISNEYLAND"

I am 16 years of age or older. I have a valid driver's license. I understand that if I do not enter my own Volkswagen Beetle or Super Beetle, I must have written authorization to drive and decorate the one I enter. I also understand that I must take this completed entry form to an authorized Volkswagen Dealer and place it in an official Beautify Your Bug envelope and mail it to Disneyland. No purchase necessary. All entry blanks must be received on or before Monday, June 10, 1974.

My category is:
_____ Most Patriotic _____ Most Nostalgic _____ Most Comical

PLEASE PRINT YOUR:

CITY & STATE _____ ZIP _____
PHONE _____ YEAR OF CAR _____

Please do not decorate your car until you have received notification that yours is one of the 1,000 eligible entries permitted by limited space availability.
Employees (or their families) of Volkswagen of America, and Walt Disney Productions, their distributors, dealers and advertising agencies are not eligible.

I AGREE TO COMPLY WITH OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

CONTEST RULES

A. Entrants must be 16 years of age and must possess a valid driver's license.

B. The vehicle to be judged must be a Volkswagen Beetle or a Super Beetle. Decorations must utilize the basic Beetle shape. Decorated Beetles will be judged on originality and creativity of design. A grand prize winner and three runners-up from each category (a total of nine runners-up) will be chosen. All judges' decisions are final.

C. If the entrant does not own the vehicle, he must bring written authorization from the owner allowing him to participate in the contest.

D. No purchase is necessary. All entries must be received at Disneyland by June 10, 1974, in an official Beautify Your Bug envelope obtained from an authorized Volkswagen Dealer. First 1,000 entrants will be selected to participate. Employees, or their families, of Volkswagen of America, Walt Disney Productions, their distributors, dealers and advertising agencies are not eligible.

E. The prizes are non-transferrable and non-redeemable for cash. No substitute prizes will be offered. If the grand prize winner is unable to accept the prize, the first runner-up in each category will be rejudged to select another grand prize winner. The category from which the new winner is chosen will then be rejudged and a new runner-up selected. Winners are liable for license fees and for any federal, state or local taxes.

Don't miss "Herbie Day At Disneyland" June 30. You'll see Herbie--star of Walt Disney Studios' new movie, "Herbie Rides Again."

Present-day Hero

Medic in Viet War Grows Own Pot Now

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Kenneth Kays is not your government-issue hero. His victory garden is full of marijuana, and he is determined to keep it as a symbol of his freedom.

Kays, 24, won the Medal of Honor and was honored at the White House for heroism in Vietnam.

A DRAFT RESISTER-turned-medic, Kays lost a leg in battle in May 1970 but repeatedly crawled past his lines to rescue and treat wounded comrades.

Today his battleground is a 1,000-square foot patch near his trailer in this Southern Illinois town where he farms the illegal marijuana plants for his personal use.

With practiced ease, he swings down the rows on his artificial leg hoeing, raking and tilling. A headband secures his long, sun-tinted hair which cascades into his beard.

KAYS WAS RAISED in Fairfield, population 6,000, and attended Southern Illinois University. He was discharged from the Army in 1970, and has been living here on disability checks since then.

What he did in Vietnam and what he is doing now are part of the same personal quest for freedom and what is just, even if it conifcts with the law, Kays said.

"I'll finish what I started, a search for personal freedom," he said in an interview. "I desire freedom to seek myself."

KAYS RESISTED going into military service. When his induction notice came, he left for Canada. But, unsure he was doing the right thing, he reported 31 days late and volunteered to be a medic.

The medal he earned has no value of itself, only the experience it represents, and has often been a source of trouble, he said.

"I can't handle being a hero," he said, adding the accolade brings him unwanted attention and praise.

Kays has been arrested twice and convicted once for possession and cultivation of marijuana. He was sentenced to one year of probation.

TWO WEEKS AFTER his first arrest, the sheriff discovered Kays was still growing marijuana and arrested him again. Revocation of probation is being sought by the prosecutor.

"They see my adherence to responsibility as irresponsibility," he said. "All they are is what they have been told. What purpose is served by restricting freedom?

"I don't wish to fight, but I'm not going to quit," he said. "I will trust to the courts to see that justice is done. My only weapon is the truth. No man has the right to dictate to another."

IN ANOTHER BRUSH with the law, police took Kays car in lieu of bail after he refused to pay a traffic fine. He was ticketed for roaring through the town at 60 miles per hour honking his horn.

Distaff Officer First Army Copter Aviator

FT. RUCKER, Ala. (AP) — The helmet wrecks her hair and is so hot it makes her eye makeup run but 2nd Lt. Sally Woolfolk is glad she is about to become the Army's first woman flier.

Miss Woolfolk, 25, graduates today from the Army Aviation Center here and will be qualified to fly helicopters, making her the first woman to become an Army aviator, according to Army spokesmen.

Her male counterparts have accepted her from the beginning," she says. "I was allowed to maintain my feminity, but the men did not pamper me or give me special treatment."

Lt. Woolfolk doesn't know where her first assignment will be, but says one of the first things she will do after graduation is marry Capt. Dan Murphy of Monmouth, N.J. on Saturday. He also is an Army flier.

Irving's New Book 'Trucking'

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — Trucking executive Cleo Crouch says he has hired Howard Hughes hoax author Clifford Irving to ghost-write a book about how three poor farm boys built a three-truck outfit into a business that grossed $24 million last year

Crouch said Monday he is paying Irving $40,000 to supervise the writing of the book, tentatively entitled "One for the Road."

"WHEN I FIRST mentioned it, I think everybody thought I was kidding," said Crouch, who built Crouch Brothers, Inc. into one of the largest family-owned truck lines in the nation. "Then when I mentioned Clifford Irving, they said I couldn't get him.

"But I told them you can get anybody with money."

Crouch said he had been considering an autobiography for several years and made up his mind in October, 1972, several months after Irving tried to turn a fraudulent book about Hughes into a fortune.

"WITH ALL THE good writers in New York, why Irving? Well, I'm basically just a Midwest farmboy. I don't know all those writers, but I do know who Clifford Irving is," Crouch said.

Shortly after Irving was paroled last February, Crouch met with him.

"When I met Clifford in New York, he told me to start talking," Crouch said. "He listened to me for about half an hour. I told some anecdotes and stories from the early days. I told him about how a poor farm boy got into the trucking business and stayed wtih it and made it one of the biggest in the country.

"HE TOLD ME, 'You've got a book.' "

Power Fascinates Priest

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. John McLaughlin, a Jesuit priest who took a vow of poverty, is paid $25,000 a year as a White House speech writer, lives in Washington's plush Watergate complex and says he is fascinated by power.

"Clearly power is just as great an emotional experience as making love," he said in an interview published in People magazine, "and it might not be as short term."

McLAUGHLIN, 47, said, "My lifestyle is avante garde, salaried and autonomous."

He said he opposes releasing the White House tapes, an act he compares to losing your virginity — you reveal one and then how do you stop?"

He defends President Nixon's use of profanity as nothing more than "a form of emotional drainage."

McLAUGHLIN SAID in the interview that he thinks celibacy for priests is "obsolete."

"I look forward to the day when women can become priests," he said.

His presence on the White House staff and his defense of President Nixon have thrust McLaughlin into controversy. He was summoned to Boston to talk to his religious superior, the Very Rev. Robert T. Cleary, Jesuit provincial of New England for "prayer and reflection."

Saturday, Cleary said McLaughlin will be allowed to keep his job and its earthly trappings as long as he takes time off every year for prayer and reflection.

CLEARY SAID IN Boston that he and McLaughlin "talked and reflected together, and individually prayed over these matters raised in recent weeks.

"I have decided with Father McLaughlin that he will fulfill this annual spiritual requirement when his schedule permits."

He added, "Father McLaughlin's work with the government has certain unique aspects which may require a degree of flexibility in his living. I am now satisfied that, although this flexibility is not normative, it is permissible, given his special situation."

McLAUGHLIN SAID Monday leaders of his religious order showed they were "thoroughly enlightened" by permitting him to keep his job at the White House.

"It is filled with meaning for political scientists, historians, and theologians, especially as it relates to church-state relations," he said.

"The statement underscores the fact that a United States citizen who is both a Catholic priest and a member of a religious order can at the same time serve in a political capacity in the United States government and simultaneously honor both commitments."

McLAUGHLIN JOINED the White House staff in 1971 after an unsuccessful race for the U.S. Senate against Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.)

In the People magazine interview, McLaughlin said, "Even though I work at the White House, I'm available for weddings, baptisms — and exorcisms. I've never performed an exorcism," he said, "but the time could come. I've been inclined to look at the judicial branch."

Panel Lashed By McLaughlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. John J. McLaughlin, a Jesuit priest and deputy assistant to President Nixon, suggests that the House Judiciary Committee may be covering up "unprofessional and amateurish procedures" by refusing to open impeachment hearings to the public.

In McLaughlin's bold attack on the committee Monday he said the panel has "no legal case against the President" and there is no substance to the allegations the committee is considering as possible grounds for impeaching Nixon.

NY Playwright Pinero Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI) — Miguel Pinero, the ex-convict and award-winning playwright, has been arrested on a change of using obscene language in a dispute with a token seller in a lower East Side subway, police said.

"Short Eyes," won the New York Drama "Short Eyes", won the New York Drama Critics Award as the best American play of the 1973-74 season, was arrested Monday at the BMT 14th Street subway station by a transit patrolman.

Woodstock Film Suit Appealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S Supreme Court has declined to intervene in an invasion of privacy suit against the makers and distributors of the film Woodstock.

With Justice William O. Douglas dissenting, the court rejected an appeal by Wadleigh-Maurice, Ltd. and Warner Bros., Inc., makers and distributors of the film about the 1969 music festival in Bethel, N.Y., seeking to head off an invasion of privacy suit they claim should be dismissed.

THE SUIT WAS filed by Thomas Taggart. an employe of a company called Port-O-San which furnished and serviced portable latrines at the festival. He was interviewed in the film as he serviced the latrines.

He sought $250,000 compensatory damages and $1 million punitive damages, alleging that his inclusion in the film subjected him to public ridicule and embarrassment.

A District Court granted summary judgment dismissing the suit but the 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals denied it, saying the plaintiff may have been drawn out in conversation and made an involuntary performer in the film. If this could be established, the court ruled. he could recover for invasion of privacy.

Ex-mine Leader Gets Life Term

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Former United Mine Workers official William Prater has been sentenced to life imprisonment in the 1969 murders of UMW reform leader Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Prater, 54, LaFollette, Tenn., former UMW District 19 organizer, was convicted here in March, 1973, on three counts of first-degree murder.

Judge Edward Carney of Erie County Court sentenced him Monday to three concurrent life terms after Richard Sprague, special prosecutor in the Yablonski murders, recommended leniency.

Pork Chop Uses His Head

LOS ANGELES (AP) — He got mad and won a wrestling title, calls himself Pork Chop and figures he can make $150,000 a year in a profession he entered as a 32-year-old.

"Pork Chop is my real name," the black professional wrestler asserts. "I had to fight a lot of times for that. Fellows would say, 'I had you for breakfast, I had you for dinner, anything to make me mad.'"

THE FELLOW calling himself Pork Crop doesn't get mad. He's the clean type of wrestler, a profession he's followed for all of three months.

He's big at 235 pounds on a 5-foot 11 frame.

His head must be the hardest of all.

"I got one hold that I use . . . the head butt," he says. "I won about 90 percent of my matches with the head butt. I run into them with the head . . . boom. When I lay that head on them, that's it."

PORK CHOP SAYS he developed his hold, the head butt, after alley gangs in Washington, D.C. would beat him and slam his head against brick walls.

"That's what made my head hard," he says. "I was knocked out in the streets but never in the ring. And I've knocked a lot of guys out."

Just as unbelievable as his name is the story of how Pork Chop became a wrestler. Let him tell it.

"I WENT TO a television studio to watch John Tolos, the Maniac, wrestle a soul brother.

"Anyway, Tolos was beating this guy so bad . . . no sense in just beating him, just pin him and be done with it, but he just kept punishing him.

"That got under my skin, and before I could realize it, I was in the ring, and he and I were going at it. I just couldn't stand the guy and the way he wrestled."

PORK CHOP WAS escorted from the ring at that Channel 13 wrestling match, but the program had been live and fans rallied to his support. He gained a match against Tolos for the America's heavyweight championship.

"I won, and I think I won because there was blood in my eye," says Pork Chop who says he's 32 with a wife and five children in Washington, D.C.

"I worked there as a computer operator and was in Los Angeles only on vacation," he says.

SOME SAY HE was on relief, but Pork Chop answers, "A big, healthy man like me shouldn't be on welfare. I like to live good like the next guy and I work at it."

Pork Chop is a clean fighter, explaining, "I'm a scientific wrestler. I go by the rules. If the other guy doesn't want to follow the rules, so then I don't follow the rules. If he wants to get rough, then we just get rough together."

Pork Chop figures he can earn $150,000 in a year if he keeps the awarded title.

AND HE THINKS he might, in the near future, bring his wife and five youngsters from Washington to Los Angeles.

In the meantime, he's the idol of fans, enjoys his adulation and enjoys talking to his fans.

"You know now, I walk down the street and everybody recognizes me," he says. "Some of the guys who I wrestle bring up the racial thing but not the fans . . . they love me."

Dirty Pool Practices Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission says it will hold a public hearing to investigate allegations of consumer fraud in the swimming pool industry.

The agency said some of the complaints it will investigate are that:

— contractors lure customers by advertising low-priced pools but then try to talk them into buying something much more expensive. Such "bait-and-switch" ploys may involve claims that the low-priced pool is inadequate or perhaps unavailable.

— prices advertised as "special" or pre-season have turned out to be false.

— guarantees sometimes have conditions or limitations about which the customer is not told in advance.

—some guarantees do not cover regular work or additional construction that must be done to correct shoddy workmanship.

The FTC regional office in New York will conduct the hearings both there and in New Jersey. The agency said testimony would be taken from consumers, law enforcement officials, the industry and other interested individuals when the hearings start early in July.

Extra care in engineering...it makes a big difference in small cars.

Buying a small car?

ASK YOUR FORD, GM OR VOLKSWAGEN DEALER IF HE CAN MATCH CHRYSLER CORPORATION'S SMALL CARS ON THESE SEVEN IMPORTANT POINTS!

1 Does his car get better fuel economy?
FACT: In a recent fuel economy test, under both city and highway driving conditions, Plymouth Duster and Dodge Dart Sport with 225 "Slant Six" engines got much better mileage than either Nova or Maverick sixes. In fact, our "Slant Sixes" even did better than the four-cylinder Mustang II in light city driving.* Of course, the mileage you get depends on many factors, including how and where you drive and the condition of your vehicle.

2 Does his car have more hiproom than Dodge Dart or Plymouth Valiant and Duster?
FACT: Dodge Dart and Plymouth Valiant and Duster have more hiproom to seat you comfortably than any car in their price class offered by Ford, GM or Volkswagen.

*Tests sanctioned and results certified by United States Auto Club, January and February 1974. All cars equipped with manual transmissions. Dodge Dart Sport and Plymouth Duster 6's equipped with standard 2.76 rear axle.

3 Does his car have Electronic Ignition as standard equipment?
FACT: While some models of some cars are beginning to offer Electronic Ignition, only Chrysler Corporation, first to offer Electronic Ignition as standard equipment, offers it as standard equipment again this year on every car it makes in North America.

4 Can his car match Plymouth Valiant and Duster or Dodge Dart for easy maintenance?
FACT: With standard Electronic Ignition, you can save up to $62 every 24,000 miles with a 6, up to $90 with an 8, on recommended ignition maintenance over competitive 6's and 8's like Nova's. And, Chrysler's TorqueFlite transmission has no required maintenance under normal driving conditions.

5 How does his car compare with Plymouth Duster or Dodge Dart Sport for trunk space?
FACT: Plymouth Duster and Dodge Dart Sport have the largest capacity by far in the small-car field, three times as much as Ford's Pinto, and twice as much as Volkswagen or GM's Vega.

Maintenance flat rates and parts list are extracted from 1974 Chilton's Labor Guide and Parts Manual. Labor rates based on national average of $10.00 per hour.

6 Does his car offer Unibody Construction and Torsion-Bar Suspension?
FACT: Only the small cars from Chrysler Corporation give you both the features of Torsion-Bar Suspension (a different way to obtain a comfortable ride) and all-welded Unibody.

7 Is his car priced lower than a Plymouth Duster or a Dodge Dart Sport?
FACT: We believe there is no car in the Ford, GM or VW lineup priced less and still offering the combination of value, economy, room, comfort and engineering features found in the small cars from Chrysler Corporation.

Exquisite jewels are created by Irvine resident Marjorie Sawyer. She uses cloisonne, a 10th century technique.

SHOWCASE OF JEWELS

Cloisonne Captures Life

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

From large bowls to miniature pendants, Marjorie Sawyer's work has gotten smaller and smaller, but her focus on life has become larger and larger.

The Irvine enamelist and silversmith has turned her attention from traditional enameled copper bowls and ash trays to museum-quality miniature art works which are so finely executed they may some day earn her an international reputation.

Her creativity is expressed through cloisonne, an art form dating back to the Byzantine Empire.

Delicate silver or gold wires form the basis for her designs, and layers and layers of transparent enamel add the color between the wire outlines.

Using skills she acquired only months ago, she fabricates all parts of the silver rings and pendants she makes before applying the cloisonne techniques and firing them in her three-inch kiln.

CANDY BOX

Each piece is so painstakingly put together and so delicate that Mrs. Sawyer considers each one a special "baby." She knows who has each piece and would rather keep her art works in a candy box than see them go to an uncaring owner.

She also makes lighthearted plain silver pendants, which have caught the attention of customers at Sassoon's Beverly Hills salon where her daughter Kathi, a Phi Beta Kappa UCLA graduate, is a model.

To perfect her craft, Mrs. Sawyer is studying with Carol Wilcox, a Rancho Santa Fe jeweler who works in Del Mar and who is one of eight recognized cloisonne workmasters in the United States.

Though her talent is noteworthy, Mrs. Sawyer's odyssey into the world of art and fine jewels is more remarkable.

"I was a housewife and raised my children," she said. "I needed something to do creatively. So I signed up for a class in Sierra Madre (near their home) and started enameling when the rest of the housework was done."

GAVE LESSONS

After doing bowls and trays, she started doing a little cloisonne, then started teaching a class at the Creative Arts Group where she was taking lessons.

She did this on and off for 12 years, stopping to work part-time for a while. Then, her daughters went to college (Pam will transfer to UCI as an art major in the fall) and the Sawyers moved to an apartment in Irvine.

Then Marjorie Sawyer asked herself, "Now what?

"I had a great big black hole," She said. "Then it hit me—this is it." So, she became a full-time jeweler, setting up a tiny studio in Pam's bedroom.

She has "dabbled" in stained glass production and taken color and design classes, but the cloisonne jewels put it all together.

Mrs. Sawyer graduated from the State University of New York at New Paltz as a teacher, but never worked.

"I moved from one soft little nest to another," she said.

WOMAN'S SYNDROME

After her daughters went to college, she admitted she was "caught in the woman's syndrome." What could I do that's of value? she asked herself.

Her jewelry teacher in Orange encouraged her in putting her talents in enameling and silversmithing together, and it is here she meets her challenge.

Though she spends long hours alone doing tedious work, she finds it stimulating.

"I love the variety," she said. "I do very different things and bring them together in one place. I never get bored. I'm always trying a new process.

"My focus of attention is getting smaller. Zeroing in to small jewels almost becomes meditative."

Mrs. Sawyer would not care to show her work in a traditional jewelry store because she believes it simply would be lost in such a setting.

"My things are limited. They take a tremendous amount of energy — emotional energy as well. I don't want to pursue an outlet now. A gallery would be a more suitable display place," she said.

Ideally, she would like to have a small workshop with pots and plants for sale so people could come in to watch her at work. This, Mrs. Sawyer explained, would keep her in touch with the outside world.

Where will her work take her? She does not know, but she is "constantly amazed" at how her life fits together. She said she has always been in the right place at the right time.

She will continue to experiment with shapes beyond her round and square pendants, and with the addition of pearls.

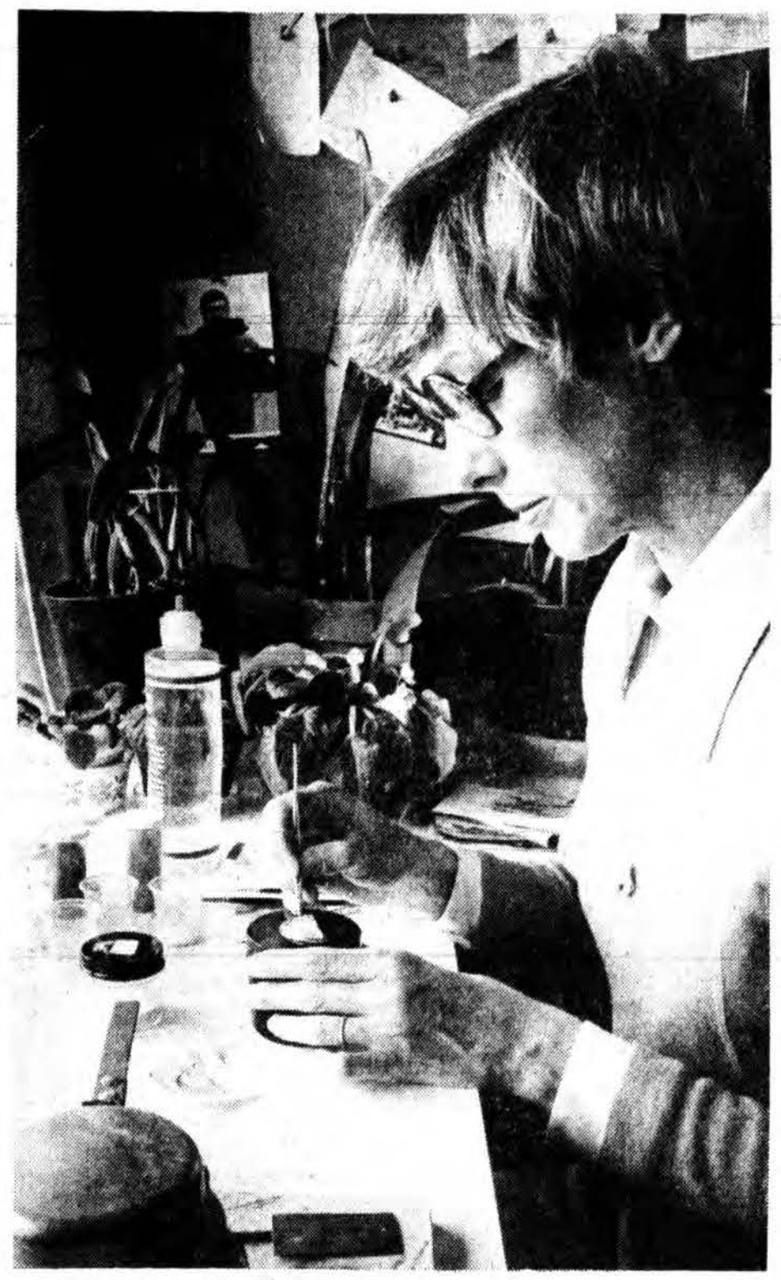
Mrs. Sawyer would like to study with other noted artists in cloisonne both in the United States and abroad, but admits this is a dream.

She has done some work on military paraphernalia and finds there is a need for restoration of old military medals, an avenue she may pursue further in the future.

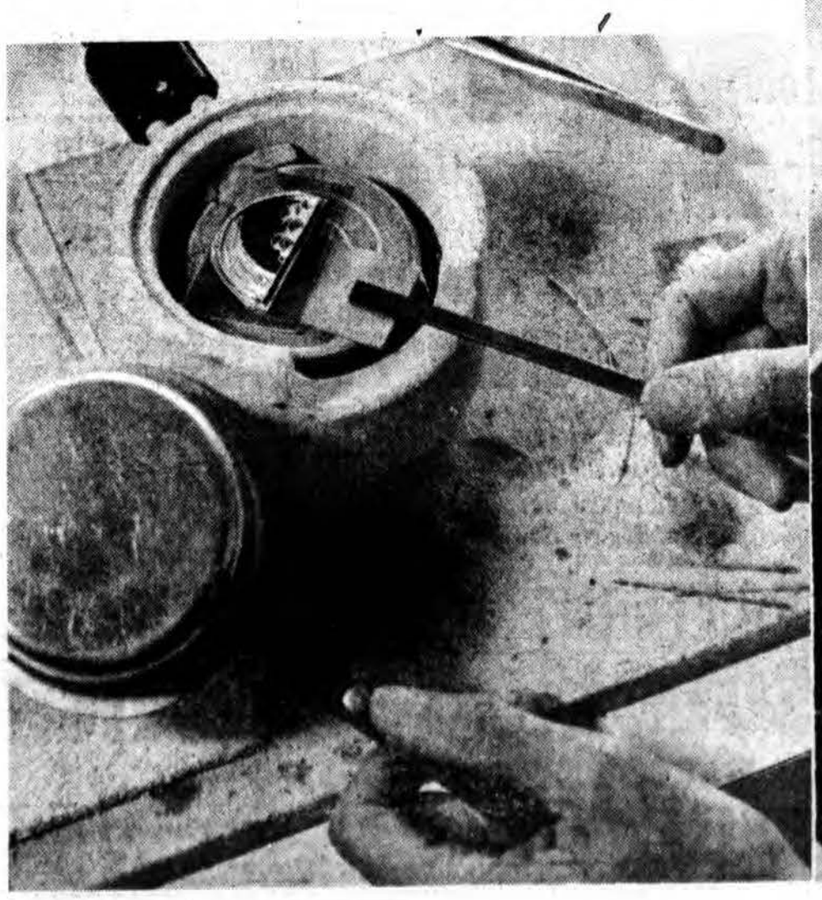
But for now she still has some motherly duties to perform and responsibilities in caring for her apartment. She teaches several times a month and visits art museums and craft fairs as often as possible, so she finds her life "pretty full" at the moment.

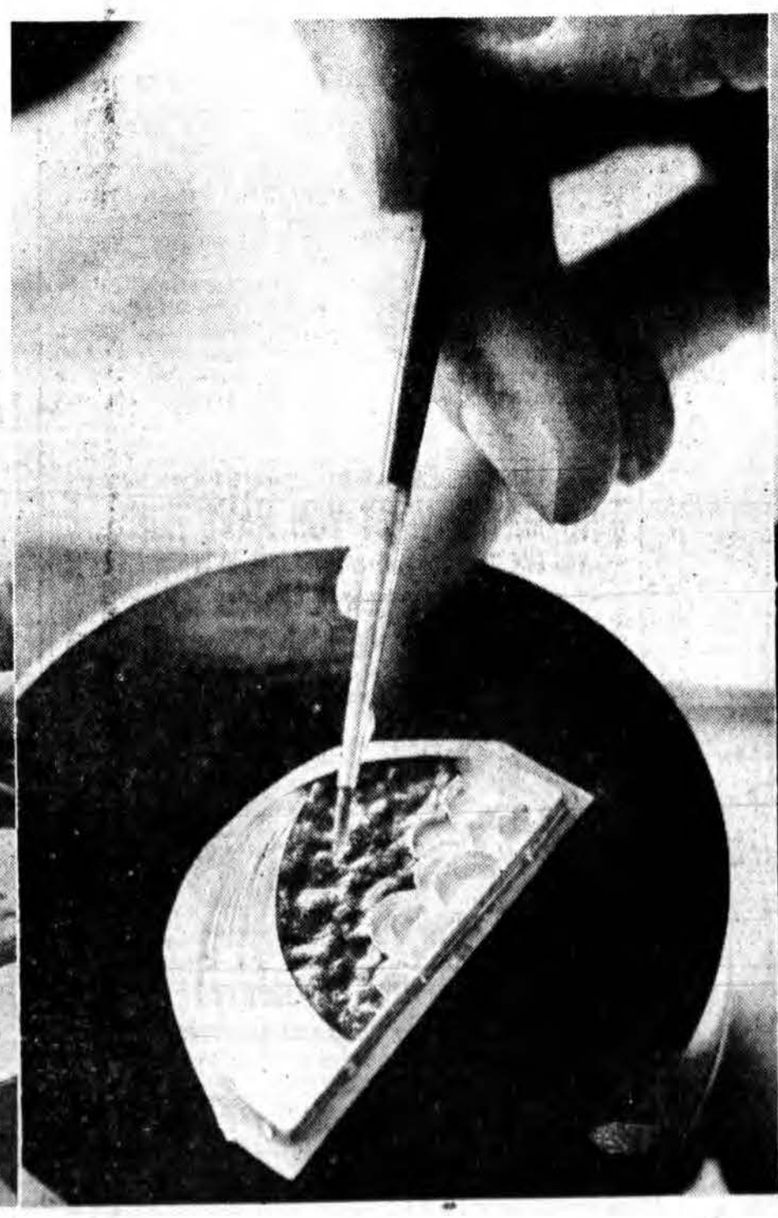
A recent issue of Craft magazine featured, ironically, an exhibit of enamels at New Paltz, Mrs. Sawyer's alma mater.

"I was there 25 years too soon," she said.



Working with tiny tools, Marjorie uses silver wire as the basis for her designs. Enamel is carefully put in and the jewel is fired up to 12 different times.





Over-regulation Feared

Bill Labeled a Threat

By BEA ANDERSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Cosmetic controls are necessary, but regulations should be set by the industry rather than government, claims John Street, president of a New York firm.

Street believes that the bill dealing with testing of cosmetics, proposed by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, might "over-regulate the industry out of business."

He contends that his firm, Germaine Monteil, and other ethical companies, test formulas before marketing them.

"We as an industry must be careful in what we say," Street said during an interview.

"We can't say a cream will be absorbed by the skin, and we can't say it will heal."

Both claims, he explained, classify the formula as a drug subject to regulation by the Food and Drug Administration — controls which he prefers to avoid.

However, he said, under the proposed law, cosmetics would be subject to FDA controls.

"If this happens," he warned, "all existing formulations will have to be tested," which he predicts will be very costly, and, of course, the increase would be passed on to the consumer.

Street estimated that it would cost about $250,000 per formula. "Our company alone has some 400 products."

Listing all ingredients on labels, he said, has cost the company $362,000. Although his firm complies with full disclosure, he said, "we don't always feel it is necessary."

Street explained that this regulation is similar to the truth in labeling law for food products, i.e. ingredients must be listed in the order of amount used. The biggest percentage heads the list. "Then we get down to key ingredients."

The president wondered how consumers react when reading the labels.

Most formulas start with water, but consumers might not know that, he explained.

Wax, he said, is the key ingredient of lipstick. "We are coming out with a new one that will have more than 50 ingredients in it," Street said, and then wondered how they could list all of them on a tube.

But his prime concern is over the possibility of FDA testing and reiterated his company already conducts its own Results, he said, are available by writing to the company.

When asked if formulas of most brands aren't basically the same, he said, "You are semi-correct,"

The major ingredients usually are the same, he explained. It's the other ingredients and amounts that vary.

John S. Street, president of a cosmetics firm, fears government regulation.

Excuses Too Weak

By ERIA BOMBECK
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There are families who take vacations with their childern.

There are families who prefer to stay at home with their children. The sniveling cowards!

Sure, it's easy to spend time with your kids when you have a stove to cook on. . .a washing machine that doesn't eat quarters. . .and a freezer you can run to for a gin popsicle any time you want.

But out there on the road. . .in a leaky tent, a sandy bed and mildewed marshmallows . . . it's a jungle.

Our neighbors, Wanda and Duward, have never taken a vacation in their lives. When their children were infants, do you know what her excuse was for not traveling? "What fun would it be for me to wash diapers in a saucepan and sit in a mosquito-infested cabin while my husband fished?" So, who promised her a rose garden?

When their children were toddlers, she again stayed home saying, "All our children can do now is fall in a lake, upset a boat, or drool chocolate all over their clothes." So what are kids for?

When their kids were 9 and 11, she informed me they were staying home because other parents told them all their children cared about was putting quarters in a magic fingers vibrating bed.

But there were other chances for them to be one of the gang.

One year they rejected a vacation because their daughter had a boyfriend who threatened to turn to crime if she left him. Another year, their son had a job and they would have had to plan their vacation between 9 p.m. Sunday and 4:30 p.m. Monday.

It's hard to love people like Wanda and Duward. . .people who are practical, sensible and perceptive. I had just about given up on our having any kind of a relationship when she informed me this year she and Duward were going on a vacation. . .without the children.

"I think they're old enough to be trusted and mature enough to be left at home alone," she said. "I have a freezer full of food for them, notes all over the refrigerator, and emergency numbers in case they need us."

Last night, Wanda and Duward arrived home. There were 123 lights burning. The dog was on the roof. Stereos were blazing. Her china service for 12 was soaking in the sink. Their son was wearing the same clothes as when they left. There were car tracks on the front porch. There were phone messages from 18 neighbors . . .some of them as far as 50 miles away.

Poor Wanda and Duward. A couple of summer vacations would have conditioned them for this.

Solution's Not Perfect

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a fool to write this letter. You'll never print it. Everyone knows you are in the hip pocket of the physicians and psychiatrists, but here goes anyway.

My particular subject is "Psychiatric Help." It's nothing but a jungle of quacks, incompetents and counselors who are crazier than their patients. Under the guidance of two therapists, I experienced two divorces and have seen my daughter turn so trashy and foul-mouthed that when she left home, I was relieved.

According to my first psychiatrist I needed treatment for "a childish need to be dependent." The symptom: My husband spent (by actual count) 67 hours a week at home, including sleeping. The rest of the time he was out carousing around.

My therapist told me I exhibited a pathological dependence by bothering my husband with such details as, "Should we have the children's tonsils removed?"

I was informed that I was creating a feeling of "mistrust" in my daughter (age 13) because I told her I was appalled by her sneaking out of the house after the family had gone to bed and wouldn't stand for it.

After several months of therapy (at $40 and $50 an hour) I was made to feel that my judgment was faulty and that I had created most of my own problems because of some "inadequacy in my personality."

When I asked my therapist, after four years, "How long will I have to be in treatment?" he replied, "How long did it take you to get sick?" I wondered if that meant that because I was 44 I could look forward to another 44 years of treatment.

I am not trying to make it appear there is nothing wrong with me. There is plenty wrong, which is why I got into this whole psychotherapy mess in the first place.

The point is that finding a therapist with competence, compassion and common sense is so chancey that a person is probably just as well off to talk to himself — and it would be a lot cheaper. Sign me — CRAZY AS EVER BUT A LOT SMARTER.

DEAR SMARTER: Psychiatry has done beautifully for some, very little for others, and has been downright destructive for those who fell into the wrong hands. Of course there are some nutty psychiatrists. In fact, some of them selected the field in search of solutions to their own problems.

Your mistake was staying too long with therapists who weren't helping. Don't damn the entire profession because you drew a couple of losers. For many patients, therapy has been a life-saving experience, and I've received hundreds of letters to prove it.

Topics Varied

Speakers on Calendar

Women

While attempting to obtain credit, women who are married, single or divorced face the same barrier — their sex, says Nancy Polikoff of the center for women's policy studies.

Ms. Polikoff will discuss the Credit-ability Gap during the next in a television series, entitled Women, to be aired at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, June 6, on Channel 50.

FSA

Cocktails, a buffet supper and music by the Zanotti Trio will comprise the La Fiesta para la Reunion de la Familia evening planned by the Orange County Family Service Association.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Go slow-and-easy. Aspects for you are such that you gain only by utilizing proverbial light touch. Heavy-handed methods backfire.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may have to reach a bit further than originally anticipated. Eschew apparent shortcuts — get to heart of matters. See as is — realistically.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Time is on your side — play waiting game. Contract which ties your hands could be unwelcome restraint. Know it and insist on freedom to organize.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You find loophole, chance for greater freedom of action. Be alert to opportunity. Work associate will cooperate. La F-:

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your ability to communicate is enhanced. You act in a more creative, independent manner. Opposite sex is attracted. Ego receives a boost.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Ability to get to heart of matters is accented. Be specific and insist others deal with facts, not fantasies. Teach and learn — share knowledge.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accentuate humor, sociability. be versatile; display sense of beauty, humor. Art object is in picture and your opinion probably will be sought. Be flexible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23.-Nov. 21): Avoid expanding too quickly. Don't skip essentials. Read between the lines and be aware of fine print. Money is involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Cycle is at peak and you succeed, make creative changes and impress one you admire. Property value is enhanced. Your security rating could soar.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Home, family, the way you live, your lifestyle — these areas are spotlighted. You are asked about fixtures, furniture, lamps, pictures. Be patient. Learn and teach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friends may disagree among themselves. Don't be persons as they are, not drawn into conflict. See persons as they are, not merely as you wish they could be.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't overspend — consult one in authority. You could receive guidance which enables you to make purchase for much less than quoted price.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you investigate, write, travel, explore. You seldom are satisfied to rest on laurels. Instead; you search, wanting to know why, how, who — what makes people tick.

Anteaters Bid for NCAA Title Tonight

Special to the Daily Pilot

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Defending champion UC Irvine moved into the role of odds-on favorite to retain its championship Monday with a pressure-packed, 12-6, victory over Louisiana State University at New Orleans in third round play of the NCAA college division baseball World Series here.

The Anteaters are the only undefeated team remaining in the tournament and could end it all with a victory tonight. New Haven (Conn.) and LSU (New Orleans) meet in an early game this evening and the winner will face coach Gary Adams' UCI nine in a second game tonight. Jerry Maras (7-0) will pitch.

"Monday's game with LSU was a pressure-packed thriller until we broke it open in the seventh inning," an elated Adams said.

"I think the real turning point of the game came in the seventh. We were leading 4-0 and had the bases loaded with two outs.

"After a 2-and-2 pitch to Steve Whitehead was called ball three, the LSU catcher attempted to pick Craig Anderson off first and threw the ball away. Two runs scored and we breathed easier."

During the first five innings, sophomore pitcher Tad Davis of UCI was hooked up in a tight pitching battle.

"He did a great job for us," Adams continued. "His fastball was moving well and his slider was outstanding. He threw the slider 75 percent of the time, very effectively.

"He was helped a great deal by some sparkling defensive play, especially by Rod Spence in left field and Craig Anderson at second base.

"Rod made a sensational diving catch to save a run and Craig played a push bunt perfectly to get his man and save another possible score."

The victory for Davis was his sixth against two defeats and it marked the 32nd straight win for UCI and brought the team's season mark to 47-7.

Davis worked 7⅓ innings but appeared to tire in the eighth after a prolonged six-run top half and was relieved by freshman left-hander Russ Johnson who completed the game.

After five scoreless innings, the Anteaters broke into the scoring column with a pair of runs in the sixth. Belasco opened with a single and Terry Stupy was safe on a sacrifice bunt that was mishandled for an error.

Jeff Malinoff singled home the first run and Spence singled to load the bases. Whitehead then drove the second marker across with a hit.

In the seventh, Alan Belasco, Stupy and Malinoff singled and after two outs, Gary Wheelock singled for one run. Anderson walked to force in another and set the stage for the pickoff attempt that backfired allowing two more to score.

Tired of Football

Ex-OCC Star Zaltosky Ends Brief Pro Career

"All those who wander are not lost" . . . J. R. R. Tolkien

By HANK WESCH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Craig Zaltosky ended a one day professional football career with the Southern California Sun of the World Football league Monday.

No, the Sun didn't cut Zaltosky. You might say he cut the Sun.

Zaltosky, a former Orange Coast College and Stanford University grid standout, is turning in his helmet and shoulder pads for a passport and knapsack.

Instead of trying to run down wide receivers and running backs this summer he'll be running with the bulls in Pamplona, Spain.

He's about to become a wanderer, but he's anything but lost.

"I'm leaving camp tonight," Zaltosky told the Daily Pilot after completing the first full day of workouts with the Sun at Cal State (Fullerton).

"If you really want to do something, you've got to have your head and heart into it, and my heart just isn't in this any more.

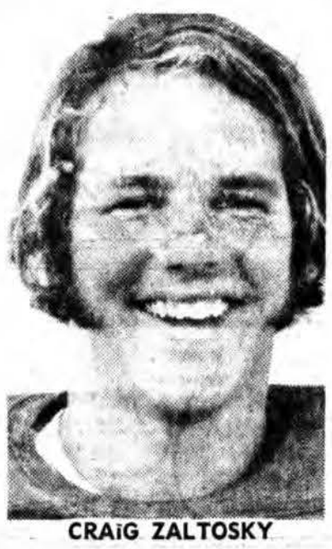
"Some people are going to get the idea I'm a quitter, but that's really not the way it is. It's just that I've been doing this for 15 years, and I'm about burned out."

In that 15 years of football, Zaltosky, a 5-7, 175-pound defensive back, provided fans with a large ration of thrills and racked up several honors. He once intercepted six passes in a game at Orange Coast, and led the Pacific Eight in punt returns in 1973, for example.

But he leaves the game, and the oppurtunity to make big money in the pros with few regrets.

"Football has been very good to me, and I've enjoyed it, but there comes a time when a man has to experience other things, and there's something in me that won't let me settle down right now.

"I don't have a wife or family to support, and I don't owe anybody anything. Apparently I'm not mature enough to realize what $20,000 a year might mean, but what the heck, I'm only 21.



CRAIG ZALTOSKY

So with $1,000 in savings in his pocket, a free ride to New York with some friends and a head full of hopes, Zaltosky is leaving football. He'll await his passport to Spain, fly there to meet friends, and hopefully reach a long-time goal of running with the bulls in Pamplona.

When he returns to the U.S., if indeed he does, he intends to join a teaching group in Northern California, and resume playing rugby, a sport which he has come to enjoy more than football.

"I guess I've lost a lot of my competitive nature, but rugby is one sport that you can still play just for fun."

Reflecting on his professional football career, Zaltosky is nearly as brief as the career itself.

"I have no derogatory feelings about the team. I had to come out to see if I really was through with football, or if I still wanted to play deep inside.

"I'm honored to have been given the chance to try out.

"Could I have made it if my heart was really in it? I don't know, I'd have to stay around a long time to see."

Three UCI Standouts All-America

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Three members of the UC Irvine baseball team have gained first-team All-America recognition, one for the second time.

First baseman Jeff Malinoff was named to the team a year ago and is a repeater.

Catcher Terry Stupy, named most valuable player in the NCAA college division tournament a year ago, and Gary Wheelock, pitcher-designated hitter this season, were the other two named.

Malinoff had a 31-game hitting streak during the current season and entered the NCAA tournament with a .364 batting average.

Stupy, the team hitting leader most of the season, took a .359 average to Springfield.

Wheelock won the first game of the tournament for his 16th win of the year, has a .318 batting average and set school records for most strikeouts, most innings pitched in a single season and most victories (16).

UC Irvine was ranked No. 1 in the final NCAA college division baseball poll with 485 points out of a possible 500. Valdosta State was ranked second in the final poll.

● Quisenberry Sharp

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—Dan Quisenberry, former Costa Mesa High and Orange Coast College star, pitched La Verne College to an 8-2 victory over Wisconsin-Oshkosh Monday night and a place in the NAIA baseball tournament semifinals.

Quisenberry recorded his 12th triumph of the season against two defeats. He fanned five and walked one and at one stage in the game retired 16 batters in a row.

La Verne is 2-1 in the tourney and 36-8 for the season. Oshkosh was eliminated and posted a 28-11 season mark.

● Title to Alvarado

TOKYO — Oscar Alvarado of Houston knocked out Japan's Koichi Wajima in the 15th round today to capture the World Boxing Association junior middleweight boxing title.

The knockout came at 1 minute 57 seconds of the last round as Alvarado decked Wajima for the third round in the round.

● Gridder Sentenced

NORMAN, Okla. — Oklahoma State halfback Fountain Smith was given a two-year sentence Monday on a guilty plea of selling marijuana to an undercover agent.

Smith entered the guilty plea on May 15, 1973, to a charge of selling marijuana to an undercover agent in Norman on Aug. 9, 1972. He was sentenced Monday by Cleveland County District Court Judge Elwin Brown.

It was indicated that Smith would appeal.

● $6 Million Suit

INDIO — The estate of California Angel rookie pitcher Bruce Heinbechner has been sued for $6 million in damages by a 20-year-old woman who was seriously injured in the auto accident which killed Heinbechner.

In her Superior Court suit filed Monday, Cathy Carroll alleged that Heinbechner, 23, was driving at 104 miles an hour while intoxicated last March 10 when his car swerved into the path of her's inPalmSprings.

She also listed as defendants the American League baseball team and two Palm Spirngs restaurants, which she alleged served alcoholic beverages to Heinbechner after he was already intoxicated.

Miss Carroll, who suffered internal injuries and fractures in both arms, said she would be away from her job for at least a year.

Who Needs Protection? Rose Praises NY Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — There were three plainclothes policemen assigned to protect the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose Monday night.

They didn't have very much to do.

"Those were good fans out there tonight," said Rose following the Reds' 5-2 victory over the New York Mets Monday night. "I didn't hear one bad thing out there, and not a single thing was thrown. They were noisy, but that's their privilege."

The plainclothesmen were part of beefed-up security which surrounded Rose for his first visit to New York since last fall's tumultuous National League playoffs. Even though it has been eight months since Rose and Bud Harrelson engaged in their much-publicized scrap, nobody was taking any chances.

The three officers escorted Rose from his hotel to the ball park, then spent the evening in Cincinnati's bullpen out in left field, in case anyone decided to make a run at Rose during the game.

In addition, the Mets did not sell any of the seats in left field, so there was really nobody within throwing range of Rose. And an extra 25 security officers were scattered through the stands — with a special concentration in the left field area — in attempt to prevent the bottle-throwing and general rowdyism which marred that playoff contest.

"Only a fool would have thrown anything tonight, with all those policemen around," Rose said.

There were very few banners at Shea Stadium, but one of them in the third base seats was an elaborate bedsheet affair described, "Rose is a Bum." Did Pete mind it?

"Heck, no. Matter of fact, the kid who made that banner showed it to me at the hotel this afternoon," Rose said, "and I signed it for him. I figure, if he goes to all the trouble of making a banner like that, the least I can do is sign it for him."

Rose was booed loudly during the pregame introductions, and again when he stepped to bat to lead off the first inning. But as the game wore on, the booing lessened.

Houston Tops Strings; Emerson Dealt Defeat

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Houston EZ Riders stung the Los Angeles Strings, 27-15, Monday night in a battle between section leaders in the Western Division of World Team Tennis.

Helen Gourlay downed Marita Redondo, 6-1, to get the Riders off to a big jump and Los Angeles could never recover.

John Newcombe beat John Alexander 6-4 and Houston's doubles team Karen Krantzcke and Wesley Bowrey defeated Karen Susman and Kathy Harter 6-1 to assure the Riders of a tie with an 18-6 score at halftime.

Alexander and Geoff Masters beat Dick Stockton and Bobby McKinley 6-3 for the Strings' only match victory of the night.

Newcombe and Krantzcke defeated Masters and Susman 6-3 to complete the rout.

In Chicago, meanwhile, Butch Bucholz, Chicago's 33-year-old player-coach, posted a 6-0 victory over Newport Beach's Roy Emerson Monday night in leading the Aces to a 26-22 triumph over Oakland's Golden Gaters in a World Team Tennis match.

The Aces, scoring their second victory in two nights, also won the women's singles when Sue Stap defeated Leslie Hunt 6-3.

Entertainer Bill Cosby, making a surprise visit, played a brief singles exhibition at halftime before the slim crowd of 310.

Bush Confident as NCAA Meet Nears

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "If our field event men do what I think they can, we will win it," UCLA coach Jim Bush said Monday referring to the NCAA track and field championships.

"If we can't win it," Bush continued. "I hope Tennessee does. I like the coach and I know some of the athletes. They are fine people. But we want to win it."

Bush told the Southern California track writers he will take 20 Bruins to the NCAA meet in Austin, Tex., departing early Tuesday morning.

"This will be the closest NCAA meet in several years," said Bush whose Bruins will be seeking their fourth straight title.

"I figure four teams have good chances — BYU and UTEP, the international teams and Tennessee and us."

BYU and UTEP have several foreign athletes on their rosters. Bush once again rapped the use of older foreign athletes by American colleges.

"You don't have to be a coach when you have seasoned athletes," he said. "I don't object to having young foreign athletes who come here to get an education and compete."

Clem Jackson, ex-Bruin hurdler who won the 120 highs in the King Games Saturday in 13.6, picked Ricky Stubbs of Louisiana Tech and Charles Foster of North Carolina College as the hurdle favorites in the NCAA meet.

Jackson, who stayed out of school this year plans to re-enroll at UCLA next fall and compete for the Bruins in 1975. He will be a senior.

Tom Jennings coach of the power-laden Pacific Coast Club said all of his athletes will participate in the national AAU meet at UCLA June 21-22. Jennings and the PCC which includes Dwight Stones, Al Feuerbach, George Woods and Francie Larrieu, have often clashed with the AAU.

Jennings reiterated his stand that PCC athletes will not take part in a USA-Russia meet this summer at Durham, N.C.

Last Place Bucs Face Torrid LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, for years a team that had to scramble for a run, suddenly wield the most powerful bats in the league.

They're even calling themselves "the Big Run Machine."

"This definitely is the best run-producing team we've ever had in Los Angeles," says manager Walt Alston.

The Dodgers meet the Pittsburgh Pirates tonight in the opener of a nine-game home stand for Los Angeles, 20-5 at home this season and a 6½ game leader in the National League West over second-place Cincinnati — baseball's "Big Red Machine."

June 4 Pittsburgh at Los Angeles	7:25 p.m.
June 5 Pittsburgh at Los Angeles	7:25 p.m.
June 6 Pittsburgh at Los Angeles	7:25 p.m.

The Dodgers lead the majors with 52 home runs, and last year they didn't get No. 52 until July 1. Center fielder Jim Wynn leads the league with 15 homers and Steve Garvey, who is No. 1 in runs batted in with 46, has 11 homers.

The team averages six runs and more than 10 hits per game in a 37-15 record. The Dodgers last year won 10 of 12 meetings with the Pirates, who this year are 18-28, last in the NL East.

Meanwhile, general manager Al Campanis defended Walt Alston's line-up decision which has kept the disenchanted Von Joshua in a pinch-hitting role. Joshua said he was "fed up" with being a reserve and wants to be traded.

Alston has gone with Bill Buckner in left field, Wynn in center and Willie Crawford in right, although catcher Joe Ferguson has played some right field and probably will be there tonight against left-hander Jerry Reuss.

The Dodgers are 20-0 this season in games caught by Steve Yeager, who like Ferguson is a right-handed hitter. Joshua bats left-handed.

"If Von feels he's better than Buckner, it's not indicated in the averages," said Campanis, who said the same is true when Joshua and Wynn are compared.

Campanis, speaking Monday when the Dodgers had an off day, said he would trade Joshua, but won't give him away for what has been offered in the past.

"You just don't push a button and make a trade," he said, adding that Joshua's feeling is not unique in baseball.

"This is not the first time players who are not playing have asked to be traded," he said.

Angels Tangle With Brewers; Winkles Frets

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"We're a streaky ball club," manager Bobby Winkles of the California Angels said ruefully, noting that much of the team's streaking has been in the loss column.

The Angels, after about one-third of the season, are in fifth place in the six-team American League West, but only 5½ games behind leading Oakland as they embarked on a nine-game trip starting tonight at Milwaukee.

Last week, the Angels lost four straight games, then won two of three from Detroit. But Winkles said his club's pattern has been to win a few in a row, then turn around and drop at least that many before winning again.

Angels Slate

June 5 California at Milwaukee	5:25 p.m.
June 6 California at Milwaukee	11:25 a.m.
June 7 California at Detroit	4:55 p.m.

"We've got to get where we can win three or four, lose one or two, then come back and win three or four," said Winkles.

The Angels left home three games under .500 at 24-27, and the manager said, "If we come off the trip at .500, we are still in excellent shape. We go to Milwaukee, Detroit and New York, and that's a tough trip. We'll really have to play hard on this trip."

Still, Winkles wasn't confident that the Angels will be able to gain on the front-running Athletics.

"Oakland seems to be coming on strong now, and might open it up. If we can keep Oakland from running off and hiding, anybody in the division can win this thing."

If the Angels succeed, it will be because of pitching. The team, said Winkles, doesn't have enough offense.

"We could use another strong hitter in the lineup," he said, "but guys who hit with sock aren't available. They're the toughest commodity to find.

"We'll have to hope we get enough pitching to keep us in the ball games."

Bill Singer, 7-3, has been California's primary losing streak "stopper," and Nolan Ryan, 7-5, has three consecutivve strong outings.

"We've made some changes in the bullpen, and I think we've strengthened that," said Winkles, referring to the additions of relief pitchers Barry Raziano and John Cumberland. The team also called up first baseman John Doherty from the minor leagues to fill in for slumping Bob Oliver and acquired Paul Schaal to tighten up third base.

Injuries have hurt a team that, besides power hitting, has another glaring weakness — lack of depth.

Diablos Win CIF Golf Title

HEMET — Mission Viejo High completed a successful quest for a CIF golf championship by taking the team title at the championship tournament at Quail Lake Golf Course, here, Monday.

Coach Bob Minier's Mission Viejo team used the balanced scoring which had carried it to victories in the Crestview League and CIF regional play to total 403 strokes in winning the team trophy.

By virtue of previous experience over the hilly and treacherous Quail Lake course, and some early tee-off times, Minier felt optimistic about his team's chances as early as last week, and the Diablos came through.

Junior Mark O'Meara led the Diablos, firing a round of 76, four over par and four strokes back of medalist Matt Ellison of Ventura.

Behind O'Meara for Mission Viejo came fellow junior Ted Cumming, who shot a 77, Tom Keeler and Tom Martin with 81s and John Schock with an 88.

Ellison, meanwhile, won the medalist honors by a one-strike margin over Ron Frankel of Beverly Hills. Several golfers checked in at 74.

Five other Orange Coast area golfers toured the course in 80 or less.

Estancia's Larry Collins and Brian Lindley had 74s.

Costa Mesa was led by Bob Tetrault, who shot a 77 while teammate Gil Gorski recorded a 79.

Westminster's Lou Cooper, meanwhile, shot an 80.

Martin and Schock, who have lettered in golf four years at Mission Viejo, will be the only graduation losses from the championship team before next season. Martin averaged 75.8 during the regular season, while Schock came into the tournament with an average of 81 per round.

Barracuda, Bonito Hit; Bass, Too

Warming waters have resulted in a upswing in barracuda and bonita catches, area landing reported today.

Dana Wharf saw 78 barracuda and bonito catches, after 36 were hooked Saturday as fishing picked up in calm waters.

In addition to the scrappy berries and bonito, good-eating calico bass were plentiful with 260 anglers landing 799 Sunday.

While halibut catches were spotty, one lucky angler landed a 26-pounder Saturday.

Dana Wharf has three half-day boats plus an all-day boat running daily.

Davey's Locker also landed a smattering of barracuda and bonito but its hottest run came Sunday on the Catalina special.

There, anglers landed 300 perch and 200 rock cod in addition to barracuda, bonito, yellowtail and 11 sheepshead.

The Westerner also had some luck with seven large barracuda.

Art's Landing has been sending its boats to the kelp beds off Laguna Beach and the result has been fair bass fishing with occasional hookups of barracuda.

Action is expected to pick up as the water temperature rises.

NEWPORT (Davey's Locker) — 49 anglers: 19 barracuda, 63 bonito, 13 sand bass, 46 rock cod, 2 halibut. (Art's Landing) — 35 anglers: 3 barracuda, 32 calico bass, 40 rock cod.
LONG BEACH (Belmont Pier) — 43 anglers: 5 yellowtail, 26 calico bass, 1 halibut, 431 rock cod. (Sportfishing) — 21 anglers: 7 calico bass, 238 rock cod.
SEAL BEACH — 50 anglers: 804 rock cod, 2 cow cod, 1 'ling cod, 16 sand bass. Barge — 45 anglers: 3 sand bass, 23 halibut.
DANA WHARF — 71 anglers: 304 calico bass, 27 barracuda, 17bonito, 2 halibut, 11 mackerel.
REDONDO — 78 anglers: 86 yellowtail, 179 calico bass, 824 rock cod. Barge — 47 anglers: 4 sand bass, 19 mackerel, 781 rock cod.
SAN PEDRO (Sportfishing) — 6 anglers: 1 barracuda, 25 calico bass, 20 rock cod. (22nd Street Landing) — 53 anglers: 32 yellowtail, 1 barracuda, 2 white sea bass, 299 calico bass, 200 blue bass, 30 mackerel, 74 rock cod.

Banquets Set

Laguna Beach High will honor its spring sports participants in baseball, volleyball, golf and tennis with a banquet tonight at 7 at the school cafeteria.

The San Clemente gymnastics team, meanwhile, will hold a similar fete tonight at 7:30 at the Scandinavian restaurant.

San Clemente Lone Winner In Legion Baseball Action

San Clemente's American Legion baseball team was the only one from the Orange Coast area to collect a win in weekend action.

With Mike Stavro driving across three runs, Joe Janton had all the support he needed Saturday in three-hitting La Habra, 5-1.

Even San Clemente had its problems Sunday, however, dropping a 3-2 game to Katella despite a two-for-four batting spree by Tom Zanotti and then falling 10-3 to Fullerton's Angels.

Elsewhere, the picture was the same.

Westminster was upset by Los Alamitos 8-5, Fountain Valley dropped a pair, 6-5 to Fullerton and 8-5 to Savanna, Mission Viejo lost to the Fullerton Dodgers 9-6, and Dana Hills was belted by Placentia, 8-3.

Mission Viejo saw a 4-3 lead disappear when Fullerton's Dodgers, led by Mark Wulfemeyer, rallied for three runs in the sixth and four in the eighth en route to the 9-6 win.

Vince Bienek and Dean Fox collected three hits each but Fullerton rallied three times in a 10-inning 6-5 win.

Fountain Valley led 4-3 in the ninth and 5-4 in the 10th, but five errors ruined the victory bid. In the 8-5 setback against Savanna, Mark Garfield's three-run triple and Dan Jackson's single tied the game at 5-5 until Savanna scored three in the eighth to win.

Tony Accomando sliced four hits and scored twice in a losing cause for Westminster Sunday against Los Alamitos. Tim Richards collected two rbi with a double in the seventh.

FORD COURIER: THE GUTSY LITTLE ECONOMY PICKUP.

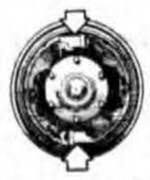
Courier shown with optional striping, wheel covers and mirrors.

Economical? Yes! But don't think Ford's hot-selling Courier isn't plenty gutsy, too. Courier's extra-husky frame, for example, features box-section side rails anchored by seven crossmembers. The roomy 74.5 in. x 62.2 in. box is all steel, all welded. Upfront, Courier rides on an independent suspension with big coil springs and a stabilizer bar. Rear springs are long, wide . . . with six leaves. There are double acting shocks, front and rear.

And Courier is as comfortable as it is rugged. A roomy cab has excellent visibility and insulated quiet. Courier's wheelbase is a long 104.3 inches to help smooth the ride. There's even an optional dress-up package . . . stripes, wheel covers, mirror, rear step, the works . . . for special sports appeal. And you get all this with an honest payload-and-people capacity of up to 1,400 pounds.

4-cylinder 1800-cc. overhead cam engine has 5 main bearings for rigidity and strength.

Rugged frame backbones a solid curb weight of 2,555 lbs.



Dual-cylinder brakes give you 2 brake cylinders at each wheel.

Snap-down bed liner option cushions Courier's roomy all-welded steel box.

Groucho's Marxmanship

Q: That funny man, Groucho Marx, is he comical when you interview him? Or is he always, as they say, on — J. MacPhail, Evanston, Ill.

A: Groucho, on or off, is always a delight, bless him. Whether you're chatting with him face-to-face over lunch, tea and lemon, a cocktail, or in front of TV cameras. Or even getting answers to questions by telephone or the mails.

The special Oscar winner was one of a number of public figures who told all for a survey we conducted (about 1958) for the old New York Tribune on the subject of the personal habits of celebrities getting on in years.

Groucho, who celebrates either his 79th of 84th birthday next Oct. 2 (depending upon what source you believe), started off by saying his present age was "200 B.C."

In answer to the question, "What keeps you looking and feeling so young?" he said, "Each night before going to bed I rub bear grease between my toes."

'Glad You Asked That'

by Marilyn and Hy Gardner

Q: How much sleep do you get out of the average 24 hours?

Groucho: "23 hours."

Q: Is it good or fitful sleep?

Groucho: "I sleep like a trout."

Q: How much sleep do you think you need?

Groucho: "24 hours."

Q: Do you control your temper more now than when you were younger?

Groucho: "I have no temper! Every afternoon I throw a fit and that continues until they throw cold water on me."

Q: How frequently and thoroughly do you get a physical checkup?

Groucho: "Every afternoon."

Q: How much weight have you lost or gained in the past five years?

Groucho: "100 pounds."

Q: Do you use any alcohol?

Groucho: "Just whisky — and kerosene for my lamps."

Q: Do you resent younger people coming up in your profession?

Groucho: "Depends upon how high up they come."

Q: Have you any objection to taking direction from younger people?

Groucho: "I love it. I'm always getting lost."

Q: Why is an aging male star still attractive to young girls?

Groucho: "You'll have to get some young girl to answer this one. And if you're successful, get one for me, too."

Q: Does reading the obituary column slow you down?

Groucho: "Are you referring to the standing of the Yankees?"

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of this newspaper P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa 92626. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Sebastian's, Irvine

'Dames,' 'Harold' Opening

TOM TITUS
Intermission

It's nostalgia week along the Orange Coast, at least in two productions raising their curtains on Wednesday and Saturday, respectively.

If the Thirties make you misty, you might want to drop in on "Dames at Sea," Wednesday's curtain raiser at Sebastian's West Dinner Playhouse. The musical is a lighthearted spoof of the old Dick Powell-Ruby Keeler epics.

Or, if your bag is the Fifties, then the Irvine Community Theater comedy "Harold," bowing in Saturday, is for you. It's from the pen of Herman Raucher who scripted "Summer of '42" for the movies.

The two new arrivals raise the total of Orange Coast theatrical offerings to eight, three of which are winding up their respective stints in Costa Mesa, San Clemente and Fountain Valley with final performances on Saturday.

IN THE CASE of "Dames at Sea," it'll be the third instance at Sebastian's West of director John Ferzacca mounting a show for the second time locally. "Dames," which Ferzacca staged last fall, follows "Fiddler on the Roof" and "The Owl and the Pussycat" on his list of personal repeats.

Also repeating their roles from previous productions will be Blanche Mickelson and Cynthia Wells, who played Mona Kent and Ruby in "Dames" at OCC and Pacific Group Theater. Joe Fletcher, who's missed only one of the dinner theater's first six shows, takes the male leading assignment, with Reed Jones, Carol Crittenden and Chris Foster rounding out the abbreviated cast.

"Dames at Sea" will play Wednesdays through Saturdays until June 30 at Sebastian's West, 140 Avenida Pico, San Clemente, with dinner at 7 and curtain at 9:40. Reservations 492-9550.

Incidentally, Sebastian's has announced auditions for its July production, the Orange County premiere of "Norman, Is That You?" They'll be held Saturday at 10 a.m., with callbacks the following day, if needed.

CLOSING OUT its "premiere season" of Orange County firsts, the Irvine Community Theater reaches back to the Fifties for the warm and wacky family comedy "Harold," opening Saturday for a four-weekend run.

Michael Carnahan plays the title role of an awkward, love-smitten youth given the "My Fair Lady" treatment by his buddies (Del Jones, Tim Petritz and Robert Sax). Completing the Irvine cast are Joyce Connolly, D. D. Calhoun, Jack Ogborn, James Hendrickson and Terri Vitro.

Directed by yours truly, "Harold" will be the last ICT production staged in the UC Irvine Humanities Hall Playhouse. Performances are Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30. Reservations 557-7297.

THREE LOCAL community theaters lower their final curtains Saturday night with closing performances of "U.T.B.U." at the Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse. "The Sudden and Accidental Re-education of Horse Johnson" at the San Clemente Community Theater and "The Peacock Season" at the Fountain Valley Community Theater.

Pati Tambellini completes a full year of five directorial efforts with "U.T.B.U." at Costa Mesa, with Annabelle Quigley, Stan Wlasick and Ron Moeller in the principal assignments. Performances are Friday and Saturday at 8:30 in the Community Center auditorium on the Orange County Fairgrounds. Reservations 556-5300.

Richard Andersen is "Horse Johnson" at San Clemente, with Mary Modiano co-starring under Hazel Burrows' direction. The curtain goes up at 8:30 Thursday through Saturday at the Cabrillo Playhouse, 202 Avenida Cabrillo, San Clemente. Reservations 492-0465.

Fountain Valley's "Peacock Season" spotlights Margaret Boyer, Joseph Damroth, Sylvia Lee and Ken Smokla in the major roles with Jay Conklin directing. Curtain is 8 o'clock Friday and Saturday at the playhouse, 18280 Mt. Baldy Circle, Fountain Valley.

STILL ON THE boards in the midst of their engagements are South Coast Repertory and "House of Blue Leaves," the Huntington Beach Playhouse's "Third Best Sport" and the Westminster Community Theater's playhouse-opening production of "Don't Drink the Water."

Martin Benson directs "Blue Leaves" with Hal Landon Jr., Mimi Smith and Helen Hodnett heading the cast. Curtain is 8 o'clock Wednesdays through Sundays at the Third Step Theater, 1627 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa. Reservations 646-1363.

"Third Best Sport" enters its fourth of five weekends at the Huntington Beach Playhouse, 2110 Main St., Huntington Beach, where Lois Farah and Hank Sorkin head the cast under Stuart Elliott's direction. Performances are Friday and Saturday at 8:30. Reservations 842-5421.

Enjoying its second weekend in Westminster's brand new theater is the Woody Allen comedy "Don't Drink the Water," with Doris Allen directing. Sam Brandon, Jo Scott, Denise McCanles and J. D. Reichelderfer head the cast at 7272 Maple Ave., Westminster, with an 8:30 curtain Friday and Saturday. Reservations 893-8626.

CASTING HAS been announced, belatedly, by the Laguna Moulton Playhouse for its season-closing production, "See How They Run," and directors Hap Graham and Alex Koba have combed the county for a true all-star company.

Heading the cast of the British farce set in a vicarage are John Loughman, Maureen Shrubsole, Joanne Wolcott and Peter McAllister. Colin Guiver will repeat his Huntington Beach role as the puzzled parson, with Gene Benedict, Dean Hughes and Elizabeth Hughes rounding out the cast, along with director Koba as the Bishop of Lax.

"See How They Run" hits the boards next Tuesday for a three-week engagement, Tuesdays through Saturdays at 8:30, at the playhouse, 606 Laguna Canyon Road, Laguna Beach. Reservations 494-0743.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
No. D 13466

On July 9, 1974, at 2:00 o'clock P.M., at the south front entrance of the old Orange County Courthouse located in the 200 block of West Santa Ana Blvd., (formerly West Sixth Street), in Santa Ana, California, SECURITY PACIFIC NATIONAL BANK, as duly appointed trustee under the deed of trust dated December 19, 1972, made by Edward A. Weitzul and Mary R. Weitzul recorded on December 29, 1972, in book 10492, page 905 of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Orange County, California, by reason of default in the payment or performance of obligations secured thereby, a Notice of Default and Election to Sell Under Deed of Trust having been recorded as provided for by law and more than three months having elapsed since such recordation, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, payable in lawful money of the United States of America at time of sale, without covenant or warranty expressed or implied as to title, possession or encumbrances, the interest conveyed to and now held by it under said deed of trust, in and to the property in Orange County, State of California, described as:

Lot 1 in Block 11 of East Newport Tract, in the City of Newport Beach, as per map recorded in Book 3, Page 27 of Miscellaneous Maps, records of Orange County, California.

EXCEPTING THEREFROM that portion on the East conveyed to the City of Newport Beach by Deed recorded April 5, 1909, in Book 173, Page 301 of Deeds.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be:

127 East Balboa Boulevard, Balboa, California

The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein.

Said sale will be made to pay the obligations secured by said deed of trust including all costs, fees and expenses of trustee and of the trust created by said deed of trust; all sums expended under the terms of said deed of trust, not then repaid; and $15,700.00 remaining principal of the note secured by said deed of trust, with interest from October 30, 1973 as in said note provided.

Mailing Address: P. O. Box 1368, Newport Beach, California 92663

Project Identification Name: HANDBALL COURTS - ESTANCIA HIGH SCHOOL

Place Plans are on File: 1857 Placentia Avenue, Costa Mesa, California

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the above named School District of Orange County, California, acting by and through its Governing Board, hereinafter referred to as "DISTRICT", will receive up to, but not later than the above stated time, sealed bids for the award of a contract for the above project.

Bids shall be received in the place identified above, and shall be opened and publicly read aloud at the above stated time and place.

There will be a $20.00 deposit required for each set of bid documents to guarantee the return in good condition within 10 days after the bid opening date.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to the contract documents.

Each bid shall be accompanied by the security referred to in the contract documents and by the list of proposed subcontractors.

Mr. James M. Helstand, Director, School Facilities, Maintenance and Operations, will meet with those persons interested in touring the site at the School Facilities Office, located at 923 Baker Street, Costa Mesa, at 10:00 a.m., Thursday, June 6, 1974.

The DISTRICT reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in any bids or in the bidding.

The DISTRICT has determined the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which the work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the contract. These rates are on file at 1857 Placentia Avenue, Costa Mesa. Copies may be obtained on request. A copy of these rates shall be posted at the job site.

The foregoing schedule of per diem wages is based upon a working day of eight (8) hours. The rate for holiday and overtime work shall be at least time and one-half.

It shall be mandatory upon the CONTRACTOR to whom the contract is awarded, and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all workmen employed by them in the execution of the contract.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of forty-five (45) days after the date set for the opening of bids.

A payment bond and a performance bond will be required prior to execution of the contract. The payment bond shall be in the form set forth in the contract documents.

Money's Worth

List of Product Ingredients Eyed

By SYLVIA PORTER

Monday is the deadline for you to present your written views to the Federal Trade Commission in Washington for or against a little noticed but vitally important new regulation affecting every U.S. household.

This regulation, under the Fair Packaging & Labeling Act of 1966, would require household detergent manufacturers to to list all detergent ingredients on packages, in the order of their decreasing predominance, along with the function of each ingredient. For instance, sodium silicate might be listed as an "anti-caking and anti-corrosion agent."

PORTER

A DETERGENT labeling law would give the consumer:

—A way to compare values by comparing amounts of key ingredients (which would be listed by common names);

—Valuable guidelines on how much detergent you really need to use in a washerload of clothes or dishes;

—A warning signal if members of your family are allergic to one ingredient or another;

—Clues to how rapidly your clothes are likely to be chewed up by strong detergents and, by the same token, how effective each detergent is in cleaning very dirty clothes;

—Provision for poison control centers with quickly available offsets to injurious ingredients;

—The means to compare the biodegradability of each detergent once it enters the household septic system.

THE DETERGENT industry is fighting the proposal, arguing, for instance, that shortages of certain ingredients might require substitutions of others more rapidly than label changes could be made.

But you — consumers spending $2 billion a year on soaps and detergents — are caught between your knowledge of how effective phosphate detergents are in cleansing and your worry about how damaging they may be under certain circumstances to our lakes, streams, other waterways. Many states, in fact, restrict or impose outright bans on the amount of phosphate a detergent may contain.

It's even possible that a nationwide ban on phosphates in detergents could result from a major study now underway by the Environmental Protection Agency of the relationship between water pollution and phosphates. Whether or not this happens, as matters now stand, you have no sound way to judge the washing capabilities of detergents, outside of your own trial and error experience. And manufacturers may switch key ingredients in "new improved" versions of detergents you do use and favor.

A RELATED AND perhaps even more significant bill now before Congress is the Toxic Substances Control Act, sponsored by Sens. Warren G. Magnuson (D.-Wash.), Philip Hart (D.-Mich.) and John Tunney (D.-Calif.). This bill — bottled up in a House-Senate conference for nearly a year — would enormously enhance the EPA's authority to stem pollution of our air and water.

Under the Senate version, the EPA would be given authority to ban or restrict the use or distribution of any harmful chemical not regulated by some other law or agency; to screen and test any little-known chemical substance posing an "unreasonable threat" to public health or the environment before the substances reach the market; to require special label warnings and/or disposal instructions, etc.

With some 2 million chemical compounds now in use in the U.S., and with 250,000 new chemical combinations introduced into our marketplace each year, virtually everything we eat, wear and ride either contains chemicals or is made with the help of chemicals.

AT THIS MOMENT, dozens of different toxic chemicals are under investigation by federal authorities and consumer protection agencies for possibly harmful or even lethal effects to the environment.

Among them: vinyl chloride used in some pesticides, drugs and cosmetics, spray paints; DES (diethylstilbesterol) used as a morning-after contraceptive pill; a variety of pesticides, herbicides and insecticides, dyes, food additives and other types of substances.

To protect us from a possible "poison explosion," strict new federal controls well may be found to be imperative — even though the new controls could mean new, painful dislocations within the multibillion dollar chemical industry and in other industries leaning heavily on chemicals which turn out to be dangerous and which, as a result, are restricted or banned.

But when the choice comes down to jobs and profits vs. human lives and limbs, this country's conclusion will be "that's no choice at all."

Lockheed Reshuffle Revealed

BURBANK (UPI) — Executives of financially troubled Lockheed Aircraft, biggest U.S. defense contractor, will try Thursday to sell a refinancing plan to the banks that loaned Lockheed $620 million.

The federal government guaranteed repayment of more than a third of the debt.

LOCKHEED MONDAY announced a tentative agreement whereby Textron Inc., a giant conglomerate based in Providence, R.I., will invest $85 million in Lockheed.

Textron would wind up owning about 45 percent of Lockheed's stock under the plan, and the chairman of Textron's board would become chairman of Lockheed's board, but the two firms would not merge and would continue as separate corporations, the announcement said.

The plan is subject to a number of conditions. including approval by many other parties: the federal government, Lockheed's creditor banks and the stockholders of both corporations.

LOCKHEED EXECUTIVES are to meet in New York Thursday with representatives of the 24-bank consortium, to secure approval.

Part of the motivation behind the refinancing is to reduce the interest Lockheed pays, which amounted to almost $70 million last year.

Butz Sued Over High Food Costs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mrs. Ethel Rosen, irked by high food prices, has sued Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz for $15 billion.

Mrs. Rosen, of suburban Wilmette and chairman of Women's War on Prices, filed the suit last month in federal court without the benefit of a lawyer, and personally served notice of the suit on Butz when he was in Chicago in May. She is a temporary process server.

IN WASHINGTON, Agriculture Department officials queried about the suit said they would have "no comment except through proper legal channels" and indicated nothing further would be said at the moment.

The suit charges that Butz and the Department of Agriculture "maliciously advocate sales of American food to foreign countries while their own reports show the production to be down."

U.S. Pulls Plug On Electric Car

Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO — Although three out of seven people in the country believe someday electric automobiles will be the answer to the energy crisis, it just isn't so.

This is the conclusion of industry leaders and the U.S. Department of Transportation.

As reported by Bert Mills, Motor Magazine's Washington correspondent, thirty firms are now trying to produce a practical and efficient electric car that could be mass produced to meet a potential market of 55 million Americans.

A survey made in 1972, Mills reported showed these people wanted a "$2,000 commuter car that would go 30 miles per hour for 100 miles without recharging."

None of the cars displayed at the Electric Vehicle Symposium in February in Washington could meet the desired criteria.

Undersecretary of Transportation John W. Barnum told the meeting: "The ideal electric powered car obviously is still some distance from reality." However, he promised the department "will be responsive to any demonstration by the industry of a real breakthrough."

From the standpoint of energy saving, Barnum pointed out that "any large scale conversion to electric cars, trucks and buses" depends on widespread development of nuclear powerplants. Plugging these electrical vehicles in for recharging will require far more energy than is now available from existing power facilities.

Retail auto dealers from coast-to-coast report showroom traffic is building, used car prices are firming and interest in standard-sized cars is reviving. There are few indications of any consumer pennypinching in the area of optional equipment. Dealers say the short-term outlook for automobile retailing of domestic and imported units is brightening. Dealers handling imports were a bit more guarded in their optimism but almost uniformly complained of shortages.

There's a little known phenomenon about small cars that augers favorably for the service industry. Functional and internal engine parts on small cars generally have a considerably faster wear rate than parts on big cars. They have to be serviced or replaced more frequently.

Government Issue

Guide to Products: Worthless Booklet?

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ
Chronicle Features

Several years ago, the federal government was pressured by consumer groups to make available to us information about the products it buys. It responded to that pressure. We now have the information. But how much practical help it is to you, as a shopper, is dubious.

The theory was simple.

MOSKOWITZ

The U.S. government is obviously one of the largest buyers of goods and services in the world. Not just guns and planes and other military equipment but ordinary consumer items such as toothpaste, razor blades and tires.

THE GOVERNMENT, as a consumer, is basically interested in two factors: Performance and price. It tests the products it buys. And it buys from the manufacturer offering the lowest price. It does not buy on the basis of brand names.

The consumer advocate organizations said: "Great! Why can't we have this information? We have the right to know which products our government is buying, especially since most of them are probably the same as the ones offered to the public under brand names."

Ralph Nader, Consumers Union or any interested citizen may now have this information. All you have to do is send 65 cents to Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009, and ask for a copy of "Brand Name Listing." What you will receive is a 38 page government booklet listing the brand name equivalents of some 700 consumer products bought last year by the General Services Administration, the civilian buying arm of the U.S. government.

IT'S NOT A sexy document but then it's not intended to be. Its aim, as envisioned by the consumer groups, was to give us some guidance in our journeys through the supermarket aisles. Here's a sampling of what the booklet contains:

Toothpaste: The brand leaders in this market are Crest and Colgate but they don't show up on the government's shopping list. The GSA bought Pepsodent from Lever Brothers and Ace from Comfort Mfg.

Razor blades: The government bought the Hammer brand, supplied by the Vulcan Safety Razor Corp. (We're not making up these names.)

Tires: They came from a variety of companies (Dunlop, Uniroyal, Goodrich, General Tire) but not one was purchased from either Goodyear or Firestone, the two top tire makers.

Refrigerators: Every one came from the Hotpoint division of General Electric.

WE'RE DIFFERENT
Regardless of the "Fantastic Prices" that one reads about, the fact is that competition keeps prices about the same wherever you shop. We lose very few sales by being undersold. We're different because our salesmen listen hard to what you say, they're sensitive to what you really want & they have the inventory to make the perfect match between Organ & Organist, Piano & Pianist. If you are thinking about a keyboard instrument, give us a try. We think you'll agree that we're different.

IN SEARCH OF NEW TALENT FOR SADDLEBACK COLLEGE
Dr. Hilton Bell, Dr. Robert Jenkins To Head Selection Committee

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A former San Francisco superintendent of schools, Dr. Robert Jenkins of Mission Viejo, has been hired to head the search for a new Saddleback College superintendent.

Jenkins will be assisted by Dr. Hilton Bell of San Clemente, a former superintendent at Visalia and Garden Grove, and by a seven-member volunteer screening committee.

Dr. Fred Bremer, superintendent of the school since 1968, resigned last week.

The committee includes two trustees, Norrisa Brandt of Irvine and Patrick Backus of Dana Point. It also includes one student, Student Body President David Hall; and one teacher, Band Director Monte LaBonte.

One Saddleback administrator, Associate Dean of Counseling and Student Affairs William Kelly, also was appointed to the task force, along with two at-large community members. They are Marjorie Day of Tustin and Gratian Bidart of Mission Viejo.

Mrs. Day chaired the committee appointed last winter by Trustee Hans Vogel to come up with constructive alternatives to the proposed withdrawal of Tustin from the Saddleback district.

Gratian Bidart is a former member of the now defunct San Joaquin Elementary School district.

Former Saddleback College superintendent Fred Bremer, who previously had the dual title of superintendent and president, resigned as superintendent by a mutual agreement with the board.

Bremer, who has two years remaining on a $35,000 a year contract, will remain on as president working on special assignments given by the board.

He resigned after a year of crises at the school. The stormy year included four resignations on the board of

Capo's Teachers Picket Trustees Over Salaries

8% Increase Inadequate –Delegates

By JOHN VALTERZA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Scores of teachers in the Capistrano Unified School District picketed district headquarters Monday evening as a prelude to discussions later in the evening over the district's latest offer of an eight percent raise.

And at the end of the board session, a deep division remained between teachers and trustees.

Delegates from two teachers bargaining groups termed the offer of an 8 percent hike "totally inadequate."

Trustees made it clear the sum would probably be their final offer although it will not be affirmed until a later meeting.

The picketing — the second to take place before a board meeting this year by teachers — brought about 70 members of the teaching staff out with bright yellow placards declaring, "8 percent an insult; we need bread and milk too" and "Teachers Can't Eat Dedication."

One youngster helping a parent who teaches carried a sign reading, "I'm Hungry; eight percent is not enough."

The initial requests by the teaching staff in the large district called for a straight 15-percent wage increase along with the district paying the full premium on health and dental insurance plans for dependents. The district currently pays the total cost for the plan relating to teachers, but only half the costs for the teachers's family.

Trustees Monday first dealt with a specific request by teacher representatives that negotiations be stepped up to daily marathon sessions in an effort to resolve the wage and benefit dispute before the end of the school year — slightly more than a week away.

But trustees adamantly declined, declaring the commitment of staff time and special meetings of trustees "impossible."

Then, after an executive session to discuss strategy, the board cast another motion which scheduled a poll of trustees

Marine Facing Charges With Wife Over Death

An El Toro Marine Corps Air Station sergeant whose wife already faces murder charges in connection with the death of her eight-month-old son joined her Monday night in county jail on charges of felony child neglect.

Sheriff's officers said Sgt. Dennis Eugene Dabney, 24, and his wife, Jennifer, 20, will be arraigned Wednesday in Santa Ana municipal court.

Investigators said the arrest Monday of Dabney followed further investigation into head injuries that led to the death Saturday of eight-month-old Robert Dabney.

The boy died in Childrens Hospital of Orange County after the condition initially being treated at the El Toro Marine Corps station dispensary rapidly worsened.

Mrs. Dabney was booked into the county jail on murder charges shortly after her son died.

The dead child's twin brother is being confined in the Albert Sitton Home as a ward of the county while criminal charges are being processed against the parents.

Sheriff's officers today said the surviving child is being carefully examined in view of healed head injuries that were spotted after the child was admitted to the hospital.

Coroner's officers have not yet completed their report on the cause of death.

Avco Developers Win One, Lose One Development

By CANDACE PEARSON

A three-hour hearing by the Regional Coast Commission which took on tones of a courtroom Monday ended with one win and one loss for Avco Community Developers.

After hearing lengthy, often legally technical arguments on both sides, the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission in Long Beach:

— Approved 7-3 a total of 390 condominiums and 10 holes of an 18-hole golf course on 27 acres inland of Pacific Coast Highway at Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel.

The entire tract, much of which is outside the commission's jurisdiction,

Straight Talk

Instructor Tired of 'Procedure'

The stiff, uncomfortable rhetoric evident in discussions between teacher representatives and trustees over wages and benefits gave way for a few moments Monday when Capistrano Unified School District teacher John Porter stood to address trustees.

Porter warned the board in an opening remark that he did not plan to cite his case in a nutshell.

"What if your son is born with a disease and the damned district insurance doesn't cover it, and it costs an extra $1,500 to pay the expenses that the district can't cover? The policy is worth absolutely nothing.

"I'm having to subsidize education by selling myself and going out to work at Sears at night.

"It's these things that hurt," Porter said.

"I'm tired of hearing your Mickey Mouse procedures, and I don't care if a class has to have 40 kids or 20 kids because there never has been any data to support the contention that education suffers in a large classroom...

"It's the second job . . . all the stuff we do to subsidize education . . . that's what hurts kids in class-rooms.

"And very frankly, I don't think it's worth it any more," he said wearily.

Morning Voting Turnout Sparse In San Clemente

Gloomy skies and a confusing set of huge ballots appeared to be deterring some early morning voters in today's state primary election along the South Orange Coast.

Spot checks of precincts in the Capistrano Valley showed a slower-than-normal turnout of early voters with the highest readings of about 10 percent surfacing in sections of San Clemente where residents primarily are retired.

At the San Clemente Community Clubhouse precinct worker Mrs. Dorothy Lower said the large twin ballots brought about by a confusing set of circumstances in water district board races are proving a hindrance to voters and precinct workers alike.

"We're sensing some confusion by some voters this morning and the turnout has been a lot slower than past elections down here," she said.

Churchmen's Foundation Readies Another Appeal

Developers proposing a major residential, religious and residential complex for the elderly — one which has drawn disfavor from planning commissioners — will bring their case to San Clemente city councilmen Wednesday.

The Churchmen's Foundation will seek council permission for a general plan amendment which would allow them to rebuild the First Christian Church and around it build a major, residential complex for the elderly.

Planning commissioners recommended denial of the plan for the property along Avenida de la Estrella because of its impact on the surrounding residential neighborhood. Residents of the area immediately west of the San Diego Freeway fought the plan as well.

Wednesday's hearing is one of six major items set for public discussion at the 7:30 p.m. session.

Other hearings and council-action items include:

—Another hearing on a bid by San Clemente Cablevision to increase its monthly rates from $5.50 to $6.50 and to raise the charge for additional household outlets from $1.50 to $2 per month. Despite several past requests, councilmen each time have denied the bid for increased fees to stave off inflation.

—A hearing on planning commission suggestions for the setting up of a formal architectural review board to enforce esthetic standards for all construction in the city except for R-1, single-family projects.

—The annual public hearing on the city's $5 million proposed budget calling for an austere, hold-the-line list of expenditures and no change in the $1.55 tax rate.

—A request from planning commissioners for council permission to tape

Reprisal Memo Cited By Montoya

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya (D-N.M.), made public today confidential White House memoranda that he said document a campaign to reward friends and punish enemies in the awarding of federal grants.

Montoya said he was particularly concerned that Spanish-speaking minorities were taken advantage of by the White House during the 1972 presidential election campaign.

"Much of the conduct appears violative

of civil and criminal law," Montoya said during a hearing before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee he heads.

The subcommittee is considering a 1975 budget request from the Office of Management and Budget.

Montoya named Fred Malek, former key White House staff member and a former deputy director of the Nixon re-election campaign, as playing a major role in the alleged effort to influence awarding of government grants.

Malek, 37, is deputy director of the OMB. He said he was shocked that Montoya would choose to raise the issue that he said had previously been discussed in executive session of the Senate Watergate Committee. Montoya also is a member of that committee.

Meanwhile, White House lawyer James St. Clair said today he would welcome testimony by former White House counsel Charles W. Colson in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"In my view, it would be highly supportive for the President," St. Clair told newsmen as he entered the committee room for the start of another week of closed-door hearings.

The committee planned a look into White House dealings with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today and then will take up political contributions by the dairy industry late in the week.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

There have been published reports that Colson's surprise arrangement with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski was causing concern in the White House but St. Clair discounted them.

"It's not true," he said. "It would be my view he would testify in favor of the President."

Marshmallows Cover Vital Areas

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Diana Marlo, who appears in the "Bang Bang Burlesque" at the Fontainebleau Hotel's Boom Boom Room, began using marshmallows instead of the pasties strip-tease dancers normally use to conceal portions of their bodies.

Then she began inviting the customers to remove the marshmallows, refraining, of course, from touching her.

One customer was not amused, however, and called police. The Florida Beverage Department sent two agents, who agreed that the folks in the Boom Boom Room were going to far.

The Fontainebleau was notified it faces a preliminary hearing on the incident. Alan Margulies, a spokesman for the hotel, said "our liquor license is at stake and without that license we might as well close our doors."

But Richard Caplano, chief enforcement officer of the beverage department's Miami office, said the more likely outcome was a "small fine."

'Cuckoo's Nest' Deleted From CUSD Book List

The best-selling novel "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" was sent south for the winter by trustees of the Capistrano Unified School District Monday.

Deemed unsuitable as optional reading for a class in environmental literature, the book was deleted fro ma list of materials available to about 60 seniors and juniors in an elective class calculated to examine how man relates to his surroundings.

Trustees ended a year's controversy over the book written a decade ago by Oregon writer Ken Kesey in which the main character describes a colorful view of a mental institution through the eyes of a patient.

The novel initially drew a split vote by a special panel of parents and staff charged with selecting books suitable for classroom work.

Critics in the committee charged that the book lends a negative view about the quality of care in mental institutions.

And trustees Monday — each of whom had ordered up a copy of the novel to see for themselves several weeks ago — agreed that the staff at San Clemente High School find some other novel to illustrate the same point.

Trustee William Enquist suggested "The Snake Pit," as a more palatable alternative to depict the problems in some mental institutions.

The only board member to mildly disagree with the majority on the fate of the book was Bob Hurst, whose motion to approve the entire list — "Cuckoo" included — failed to muster a second.

Hurst said that although the book contained a few passages which displayed language "we don't hear every day", he found it to be a possible good addition to the reading list.

Despite the board vote Monday, all is not lost for "Cuckoo."

Extracted segments of the book still will be a part of the required reading for the course, and if students are that adamant about reading Kesey's work, they can check out a complete copy on their own.

The book is in the school library.

Trustees Approve Staff Pay Raise At Saddleback

Saddleback College faculty and classified employes were granted an 8.9 percent raise Monday by the unanimous vote of the board of trustees.

The increase, up from last year's five percent pay raise for the college staff, is based on a cost-of-living guideline of the Los Angeles office of the Department of Labor.

Other salary items negotiated between the board and the staff include a provision for two days of personal leave and a clause providing insurance coverage of eye care and glasses.

Student employes were granted an increase in their hourly rate from $1.70 to $2. Some 350 students work for the college each year in every department, in the bookstore and library, and in administrative and athletic offices.

"Many districts have fought long and hard to get what you've always had," said Board President Hans Vogel. An administrator in the Tustin Unified School District, Vogel recently helped hash out salary disputes there following a walkout by teachers.

VOTERS . . .

Inspector Wilma Wallington agreed.

"I suppose a lot of them must be playing golf this morning, because the turnout hasn't been that good for such a major election," she said.

One of the most dismal turnouts in the city during the spot checks was at the downtown precinct at the Interfaith Serviceman's Center where 14 persons had cast ballots out of a possible total of 289 eligible voters. One of the best was San Juan Capistrano's Rancho Alipaz Mobile Home Park where 82 persons had voted out of a possible 322.

All precinct workers contacted earlier today conceded that the real crush usually takes place in the later afternoon hours, followed by a last-minute flurry at the dinner hour as working voters return home from their jobs.

The only truly local races confronting voters along the South Coast are Saddleback College trustee and water district board choices.

The polls will remain open until 8 p.m.

at their next meeting to finally determine if the eight-percent figure would be the district's final offer.

Charles Conklin, the representative of the bulk of the district's teachers through the Capistrano Unified Educators' Association (CUEA), stressed that in the five years he had been in the district trustees had never sought an end to negotiations until well into the summer.

"We would much prefer intensified negotiations so teachers can be made fully aware of the details before they leave for the summer recess," he said.

Trustees President George White said that daily negotiations "are simply not possible."

"We've made the best offer we're capable of making," he added.

Conklin reminded trustees that early this year teachers appeared (and picketed) to induce the board to approve a tax override which could have appeared on today's primary ballot, but that the trustees heeded the staff's advice and killed the idea.

"The solution would have been clear," but the board chose to forget about it," Conklin said.

White said that there was little use in discussing the override, because the possibility was gone.

"We emphasized when we rejected the override that employes in the district would receive a "reasonable raise in pay," he added. He admitted, however, that no specific amount was set.

Monday's board action essentially left the next move in the dispute over pay up to the teachers, and Conklin leveled a threat to the board before the vote on the impending 8 percent decision was taken:

"Don't back your employes into a position where they have to do something regrettable, although necessary to protect themselves and their families."

Last year at this time in the negotiation process teachers from the militant Capistrano Unified Federation of Teachers walked off the job at high schools in the district in a work stoppage which lasted about two days.

trustees, the threatened de-annexation by a fourth of the district (Tustin), a bookmaking conviction by one of the former trustees, and a criticism of Bremer's administration by the Orange County Grand Jury.

Jenkins said the search has already begun for a new superintendent. He and Bell, both of whom have had statewide posts in professional educational organizations, said they have begun to contact universities and community colleges to inform them of the Saddleback opening.

A new superintendent is scheduled to be on the job "as soon as possible after July 1," board president Hans Vogel said Monday.

"With close to 300 square miles in Orange County as its district, Saddleback College is one of the most important resources of this community," Jenkins said. "It's important to find just the right person."

He said the committee would develop a list of 10 to 12 candidates and allow the board to narrow that down to three to five.

Then a board committee will visit the candidates' home communities and find out just what is happening there Jenkins said.

Patron Arrested For 'Souveniring'

A restaurant patron who allegedly picked up a potted plant and a vase of flowers after he paid his bill at a San Juan Capistrano restaurant Monday night will dine today in a somewhat less elegant dining area.

Orange County Sheriff's officers jailed Marine Miguel Angel Banderas, 24, of 23333 Ridge Route Drive, El Toro, on theft charges after he allegedly helped himself to the decor from the Franciscan Restaurant, 31781 Camino Capistrano.

Deputies said Banderas took the plant and the flowers from the cashier's counter.

UCI Chancellor

Aldrich Heading U.S. Food Panel

By GEORGE LEIDAL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. said today he is chairing a National Science Foundation backed effort to recommend policies for the U.S. role in world food production.

Dr. Aldrich who participated in a similar study in 1967, has been asked to provide copies of preliminary findings by June 15 to U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The UCI chancellor said today the U.S., Canada and Australia are to world food production what the Arab nations are to oil production.

Dr. Kissinger is said to be interested in findings of the study for use in diplomatic solutions to international shortages of food.

"The ability of a nation to feed its people is is a potent political force," Aldrich said.

To date, the committee involving internationally known scholars with interests in agriculture, has met only once.

Aldrich will chair the mid-July final conference set for Woods Hole, Mass. A final report is due to be adopted at that session.

Aldrich said participants generally fall into two categories. They are:

— Those who favor conversion of U.S. production and eating habits to reduce the amounts of grains devoted to meat production.

— And those who support, as Aldrich said he does, continued full production of U.S. Agricultural resources as a hedge against future shortages and a source of world supplies while developing nations advance their farming skills and food production systems.

Among concerns to be studied by the committee are:

— Impact of energy shortages on world food production.

— What effect does increasing loss of land to uses other than farming have on food supplies?

— How may food best be produced at locations nearest to the population centers of the world?

— What is the range-range role of the U.S., Canada and Australia in production of food for the world?

Israel Nabs Terrorists On Mission

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Security forces captured two young Arab terrorists on a death mission into Israel and seized a cache of hand grenades and Kalashnikov submachine guns hidden near the Lebanese border, the police reported today.

"We were ordered to kill," the police

said the 19-year-olds told them.

They said they were ordered to murder people at random in Haifa, Israel's chief port.

The Israeli miiltary command said the terrorists were Israeli citizens who left their village near Acre, in northern Galilee, a year ago to join the Fatah guerrillas. The youths slipped across the Lebanese border before Monday, the command reported, but it said three other gunmen with them abandoned the mission and escaped back into Lebanon.

The teen-agers ate a meal in a restaurant about a mile from the heavily guarded border, hailed a taxi, asked the fare to a nearby village and offered to overpay the driver by $2.50. The driver — an Arab — became suspicious, drove the pair to a security roadblock and winked frantically to tip off the police.

The command said security troops have killed nine terrorists and captured five in the three weeks since frontier patrols were strengthened after terroists killed 22 children in the Maalot schoolhouse.

The police also reported that somebody sent a booby-trapped package to Israel's chief rabbi, Shlomo Goren, and explosives were planted under the car of the high priest of the Samaritans.

Both attempts were discovered and the explosives defused.

The police said the rabbi's wife became suspicious Monday while opening a bulky envelope. Sappers found it contained an explosive charge with a note saying the religious leader would be "gathered unto his fathers."

Goren frequently has been threatened with violence by Jewish fanatics who charge he is too moderate in ritual matters.

Twenty-four hours before the package bomb was discovered, arsonists poured oil over benches in the Tel Aviv synagogue where he prays and set them ablaze. The fire caused little damage.

In the Israeli-occupied Jordanian town of Nablus, army experts defused a bomb left beneath the car of Amram Ben-Yitzhak, religious leader of the tiny Samaritan community, an ancient sect with a religion similar to Judaism. The car was parked at the foot of Mt. Gerizim, a hill the Samaritans regard as sacred.

Some Arabs have been campaigning against the priest for trying to form a Jewish religious community in Nablus.

50-cent Increase Part of Clerks' Contract Package

A new contract offer which kept 13,000 Orange County food industry retail clerks from walking off their jobs reportedly includes a 50-cent pay hike which the union had termed the "rock bottom" needed to avert a strike.

Orange County Retail Clerks Local 324 has decided to wait until Thursday to vote on the package, but the Bakersfield local approved the Food Employer's Council offer Monday by a 120 to 10 vote. Labor and management negotiators had apparently reached an impasse Sunday, but both groups credited federal Mediator Nicholas Findandis with outlining a settlement to stop a pending strike by 54,000 clerks in nine Southern California counties.

The agreement calls for a 35-cent hike retroactive to April 1 and an additional 15 cents Monday when the new contract goes into effect.

Under the agreement, clerks will earn $5.18 cents an hour.

Security Boosted

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard today ordered tightened security at airports and public buildings in preparation for a possible revenge attack for the hunger-strike death of a convicted Irish Republican Army prisoner — a death the IRA called an "act of murder."

will include the full golf course and 2,000 housing units.

— Rejected plans for 900 condominiums on 41 oceanside acres at Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel, overlooking Salt Creek Beach.

The vote was 5-5, with eight votes needed for approval because of the land's potential for use as public recreation.

Commission planners had recommended approval of the inland tract, but suggested a denial of the oceanside tract.

They cited increased traffic congestion along the highway as one reason and said as one of the few remaining large undeveloped blufftops, the land should be considered for preservation as open space.

The commission's action Monday could set off a series of simultaneous appeals to the State Coastal Commission.

Avco officials can appeal the denial of the Oceanside tract, while the Environmental Coalition of Orange County and the opponents who spoke Monday plan to question the approval of the inland development.

The hearing room in Long Beach Monday was packed with homeowners from Laguna Niguel, some of whom arrived in a bus chartered by Avco.

Led by Avco atrorney Marvin Burns, a total of eight people spoke in favor of Avco's plan, which had been reduced several times before the commission.

Paul Sayre, president of United South Orange Coast Communities (USOCC), a coalition of homeowners' groups, said residents are "vigorously opposed" to proposal to build a tourist-oriented development on the Oceanside tract.

Lorell Long and Dale Secord of the Environmental Coalition presented that alternative for the area.

Secord said the examples of motels, hotels, campgrounds, restaurants and executive retreats would comply better with the objective of 1972 Coastal Zone Act than a private Community.

John Chapman, a planner working for Avco, contended more intensified public use would overload the "fragile beach."

The atmosphere at the afternoon hearing was often tense. Burns argued legal issues, challenged the validity of the Coastal Act and asked the commission not to accept any "unsworn testimony."

Deputy State Attorney General Dennis Antenore said the commission's hearing was administrative, not judicial, and courtroom rules of evidence didn't apply.

Commissioner Ronald Caspers, an Orange County Supervisor who has received campaign funds from Avco, voted in favor of the company's plans after being asked to voluntarily abstain.

Lorell Long said she knew the Attorney General had ruled such donations weren't conflicts of interests under the law, but she asked Caspers to "show discretion" and not vote.

Caspers, who had left the room while Ms. Long was talking, said only, "I used to try to go to the bathroom when Ms. Long is at the microphone. I guess I didn't stay there long enough."

Caspers is running for his second term on the county board of supervisors.

3 Face Charges In Agnew Probe

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted two Maryland engineers on charges stemming from the investigation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former Baltimore County Executive N. Dale Anderson.

A third engineer was charged directly Monday by U.S. Attorney George Beall, in an action bypassing the grand jury, with violating federal income tax laws.

Eugene H. Hsi, 50, of Towson, and Blair P. Overton Jr., 61, of Hagerstown, were charged in the indictment with making false statements before the grand jury during its Anderson investigation last year.

JOIN THE ESTABLISHMENT!

There is a definite advantage in doing business with an ESTABLISHED local firm.

We are interested in doing business with ESTABLISHED mills, which we have determined after decades of doing business. There is no way, unfortunately, to tell how a mill will back its products until there is a problem! Carpet stores interested ONLY in price have no one to back them, and consequently walk away from complaints.

A few times through the years, we have had to stand the cost of replacement when a mill wouldn't. This will only happen once to us, and then the samples are in our trash can.

What this means to our customers is that the lines we carry are from reputable mills, and that they can buy with confidence from Alden's.

Laguna to Whoop It Up at Park Fete

Everything from Laguna Beach's sky-diving Mayor Roy Helm to an outrigger race, a beauty contest and fireworks show are planned for the dedication of the city's Main Beach Park June 22.

A full-day of events will be highlighted by the formal dedication ceremonies at 11 a.m. at the park.

Dignitaries scheduled to attend include Festival of Arts and civic leaders.

Events are being coordinated through the Laguna Beach city recreation department. Food and refreshments will be on sale throughout the day by Laguna Beach civic organizations.

Mayor Holm, accompanied by skydivers Ron Rumble, Jerry Jackson, Paul Maddus and Gino Pasquini will jump from an aircraft piloted by Astronaut Gordon Cooper at 9:30 a.m. the day of the dedication.

The city hopes to pay for activities at the park through the sale of special silver and bronze medallions.

Silver medallions, the size of a $1 coin, are on sale through the city treasurer's office at $18 each. The silver medals are numbered and limited in production.

Bronze medallions will be sold for $3 and will also be given as awards to winners in the many contests scheduled throughout the day.

Sale of the medallions along with other fees and a return of 10 percent of the food sales should net the city an estimated $12,400.

Costs include $535 for a mayor's champagne brunch for dignitaries; $1,250 for a fireworks show; $495 for awards and $250 for program printing and posters.

Total costs are $6,685 and will net the city $5,714, if projections on sales of medallions are borne out.

Special races and events include a lifeguard dory race, a water skiing exhibition, photo contest, raft surfing contest, volleyball contest, beach basketball contest, performances by the Lyric Opera and civic ballet, a sand casting contest, beach run, beauty contest, frisbee contest, kite-flying contest and youth dance.

Food service includes a pancake breakfast 7:45 a.m. sponsored by the Junior Women's Club and the Jaycees; a hot dog lunch at noon sponsored by the Boys' Club and Kiwanis; a Mexican Fiesta dinner at 5 p.m. sponsored by the Mermaids and Masters of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Avco Wins One, Loses One

Coast Panel Mulls Two Projects

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A three-hour hearing by the Regional Coast Commission which took on tones of a courtroom Monday ended with one win and one loss for Avco Community Developers.

After hearing lengthy, often legally technical arguments on both sides, the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission in Long Beach.:

— Approved 7-3 a total of 390 condominiums and 10 holes of an 18-hole golf course on 27 acres inland of Pacific Coast Highway at Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel.

The entire tract, much of which is outside the commission's jurisdiction, will include the full golf course and 2,000 housing units.

— Rejected plans for 900 condominiums on 41 oceanside acres at Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel, overlooking Salt Creek Beach.

The vote was 5-5, with eight votes needed for approval because of the land's potential for use as public recreation.

Commission planners had recommended approval of the inland tract, but suggested a denial of the oceanside tract.

They cited increased traffic congestion along the highway as one reason and said as one of the few remaining large undeveloped blufftops, the land should be considered for preservation as open space.

The commission's action Monday could set off a series of simultaneous appeals to the State Coastal Commission.

Avco officials can appeal the denial of the Oceanside tract, while the Environmental Coalition of Orange County and the opponents who spoke Monday plan to question the approval of the inland development.

The hearing room in Long Beach Monday was packed with homeowners from Laguna Niguel, some of whom arrived in a bus chartered by Avco.

Led by Avco atrorney Marvin Burns, a total of eight people spoke in favor of

Wage Dispute

Capo's Teachers Picket Trustees

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Scores of teachers in the Capistrano Unified School District picketed district headquarters Monday evening as a prelude to discussions later in the evening over the district's latest offer of an eight percent raise.

And at the end of the board session, a deep division remained between teachers and trustees.

Delegates from two teachers bargaining groups termed the offer of an 8 percent hike "totally inadequate."

Trustees made it clear the sum would probably be their final offer although it will not be affirmed until a later meeting.

The picketing — the second to take place before a board meeting this year by teachers — brought about 70 members of the teaching staff out with bright yellow placards declaring, "8 percent an insult; we need bread and milk too" and "Teachers Can't Eat Dedication."

One youngster helping a parent who teaches carried a sign reading, "I'm Hungry; eight percent is not enough."

The initial requests by the teaching staff in the large district called for a straight 15-percent wage increase along with the district paying the full premium on health and dental insurance plans for dependents. The district currently pays the total cost for the plan relating to teachers, but only half the costs for the teachers's family.

Trustees Monday first dealt with a specific request by teacher representatives that negotiations be stepped up to daily marathon sessions in an effort to resolve the wage and benefit dispute before the end of the school year — slightly more than a week away.

But trustees adamantly declined, declaring the commitment of staff time and special meetings of trustees "impossible."

Then, after an executive session to discuss strategy, the board cast another motion which scheduled a poll of trustees at their next meeting to finally determine if the eight-percent figure would be the

Councilmen Set Talks On Parking

The Laguna Beach City Council will meet at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday to consider an agenda chock full of proposed changes in the city parking.

Under separate items, the council will consider a measure establishing Coast Highway as it passes through Laguna as a "parking zone" and setting the hourly meter rate at 20 cents.

The council will also consider Parking and Transportation Committee suggestions for ending 10-hour parking at the Peppertree lot next to the Forest Avenue mall and replacing it with four hour and two hour parking.

Cars parked in the metered stalls would be ticketed for "meter-feeding" if left parked longer than the maximum time shown on the meters.

The council will review the Parking and Transportation Committee's recommendation supporting construction of a two-story parking structure adjacent to city hall and authoriznig spending of $6,000 for preliminary plans.

The committee also recommended for council action a plan returning Ocean Avenue between Forest Avenue and Beach Streets to two-way traffic.

The road was closed to make a one-way street several years ago when residents complained of bus traffic, and exhaust danger to youngsters.

Other items to confront the council under the business portion of the agenda include:

— Appointment of a citizens committee to review the rates, service and future utilization of the Storer Cable Television system in Laguna Beach. The company is subject to city review and certain controls.

— Citizen pleas to organize coastal city resistance to off-shore oil drilling in the federal and state tidelands of south Orange County waters.

Thurston Students Rival Houdini

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There are possibly 450 budding Houdinis roaming around Laguna Beach. waiting to dazzle you with their sleight of hand.

Perhaps not all 450 are still practicing the "abracadabra" art, but Thurston magic teacher Art Fisher says there are signs everywhere of his former pupils dabbling in the realm of magic.

One youth, now a high school sophomore, has a sideline business in magic. Jackson Harvey, one of Fisher's prize pupils, charges $8 for a 45-minute gig at children's birthday parties, his former teacher says proudly.

Many of the magic students have continued on in drama at the high school, but continue to brush up on their magic on the side.

Fisher admits his classes are "a bit unusual", and says he knows of only two other such offerings — at the school district in Palos Verdes and the junior college Mt. SAC.

Since Fisher came to Thurston Intermediate School in 1969, he has held a Magic 1 class, and a class called the Presto Club, or advanced magic, each semester.

The classes are "minor electives," as opposed to more academic courses such as typing or French. Because of their minor status, they meet only twice a week for half an hour.

Fisher, who is a science teacher at the school, has been a magic aficionado since he was in the sixth grade, and continues his hobby in his free time.

When given an opportunity to teach magic, Fisher jumped at the chance and so did an inquisitive mob of students. His class is always one of the first electives to fill up.

The Magic 1 students are mainly seventh graders, and when they enter

Friends-Enemy List Attributed To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya (D-N.M.), made public today confidential White House memoranda that he said document a campaign to reward friends and punish enemies in the awarding of federal grants.

Marine Facing Charges With Wife Over Death

An El Toro Marine Corps Air Station sergeant whose wife already faces murder charges in connection with the death of her eight-month-old son joined her Monday night in county jail on charges of felony child neglect.

Sheriff's officers said Sgt. Dennis Eugene Dabney, 24, and his wife, Jennifer, 20, will be arraigned Wednesday in Santa Ana municipal court.

Investigators said the arrest Monday of Dabney followed further investigation into head injuries that led to the death Saturday of eight-month-old Robert Dabney.

The boy died in Childrens Hospital of Orange County after the condition initially being treated at the El Toro Marine Corps station dispensary rapidly worsened.

Mrs. Dabney was booked into the county jail on murder charges shortly after her son died.

The dead child's twin brother is being confined in the Albert Sitton Home as a ward of the county while criminal charges are being processed against the parents.

Sheriff's officers today said the surviving child is being carefully examined in view of healed head injuries that were spotted after the child was admitted to the hospital.

Coroner's officers have not yet completed their report on the cause of death.

Voters' Turnout In Laguna Beach Reported Normal

A spot check of selected precincts in Laguna Beach today indicated voters turning out at the polls in average numbers — with about 15 percent voting by midday. Polls will remain open until 8 o'clock tonight.

Several precincts counted 28 percent of those registered to vote, but at another precinct in Laguna Canyon, seven percent had turned up.

Precinct workers at some polls blamed the lengthy ballot for a slow-down in putting voters through.

"We only have five booths here, but could use at least two more. People are standing in line waiting to get into the booths, and people are taking a long time to mark their ballots," explained James C. Ward, precinct inspector at Three Arch Bay clubhouse.

Don't Forget To Vote; Polls Open Until 8

Air Quality Resolution Move Fails

Laguna Beach planning commissioners have refused to send a recommendation to the City Council accepting the air quality implications of the $26 million sewage treatment project proposed by the Aliso Water Management Agency (AWMA).

Commissioner Jack McDowell, who was in the minority of Monday's vote, lambasted the decision as "the best example of the worst illogical thinking I've ever seen."

Commissioners were asked by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) — to whom AWMA is applying for grant funds — to adopt one of two resolutions.

One resolution states the air quality standards would not be affected by the project.

The other admits the air would be affected by the project.

The other admits the air would be affected, but recognizes the need for the project to solve water problems in the south county and therefore recommends stricter land use and transportation restrictions to limit the air quality effect.

The commissioners, however, decided to send neither resolution, but wanted their minutes forwarded to the council so the council members would understand their reasoning.

The guidelines of the State Water Resources Control Board, which together with the EPA would be providing grant funds, state the city of Laguna Beach must adopt one of the two resolutions offered.

Laguna is one of seven water and sanitation districts involved with AWMA, which was established in 1972.

Commissioner Bill Leak, who eventually voted with McDowell, called the EPA resolutions a "weird situation."

"They ask us a question about air quality standards, but give us two answers . . . this, or that. They're the EPA — they really should be telling us, not asking us," Leak said midway through the two-hour public hearing.

"If we must choose, I'd have to pick number two," Leak said.

But Commissioners Sally Bellerue, Roger Lanphear and C. C. Claxton said they would not choose one over the other "just because we have to."

"I think we're planning fragmentally. A great deal of this land involved in the AWMA area is not yet planned, but here we are planning sewage for that area," Commissioner Bellerue said.

"It's kind of like the cart before the horse. Resolution One doesn't make any sense at all and I don't like the second one, either," she said.

All three commissioners who refused to endorse the resolutions said they wished they could get more information about affect on air quality standards from the EPA.

Mrs. Bellerue said, "We're talking about cleaning up the water by polluting the air. We need another solution. There's a terrifically critical problem in this air basin and I don't think we should add to it."

The question of endorsing the air quality implications now falls to the city council, who will take action on the matter Wednesday night.

CAPO UNIFIED TEACHERS PROTEST DISTRICT WAGE OFFER AT BOARD SESSION

Straight Talk

Instructor Tired of 'Procedure'

The stiff, uncomfortable rhetoric evident in discussions between teacher representatives and trustees over wages and benefits gave way for a few moments Monday when Capistrano Unified School District teacher John Porter stood to address trustees.

Porter warned the board in an opening remark that he did not plan to cite his case in a nutshell.

"What if your son is born with a disease and the damned district insurance doesn't cover it, and it costs an extra $1,500 to pay the expenses that the district can't cover? The policy is worth absolutely nothing.

"I'm having to subsidize education by selling myself and going out to work at Sears at night.

"It's these things that hurt," Porter said.

"I'm tired of hearing your Mickey Mouse procedures, and I don't care if a class has to have 40 kids or 20 kids because there never has been any data to support the contention that education suffers in a large classroom...

"It's the second job . . . all the stuff we do to subsidize education . . . that's what hurts kids in class-rooms.

"And very frankly, I don't think it's worth it any more," he said wearily.

'Cuckoo's Nest' Deleted From CUSD Book List

The best-selling novel "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" was sent south for the winter by trustees of the Capistrano Unified School District Monday.

Deemed unsuitable as optional reading for a class in environmental literature, the book was deleted fro ma list of materials available to about 60 seniors and juniors in an elective class calculated to examine how man relates to his surroundings.

Trustees ended a year's controversy over the book written a decade ago by Oregon writer Ken Kesey in which the main character describes a colorful view of a mental institution through the eyes of a patient.

The novel initially drew a split vote by a special panel of parents and staff charged with selecting books suitable for classroom work.

Critics in the committee charged that the book lends a negative view about the quality of care in mental institutions.

And trustees Monday — each of whom had ordered up a copy of the novel to see for themselves several weeks ago — agreed that the staff at San Clemente High School find some other novel to illustrate the same point.

Trustee William Enquist suggested "The Snake Pit," as a more palatable alternative to depict the problems in some mental institutions.

The only board member to mildly disagree with the majority on the fate of the book was Bob Hurst, whose motion to approve the entire list — "Cuckoo" included — failed to muster a second.

Hurst said that although the book contained a few passages which displayed language "we don't hear every day" he found it to be a possible good addition to the reading list.

Despite the board vote Monday, all is not lost for "Cuckoo."

Extracted segments of the book still will be a part of the required reading for the course, and if students are that adamant about reading Kesey's work, they can check out a complete copy on their own.

The book is in the school library.

district's final offer.

Charles Conklin, the representative of the bulk of the district's teachers through the Capistrano Unified Educators' Association (CUEA), stressed that in the five years he had been in the district trustees had never sought an end to negotiations until well into the summer.

"We would much prefer intensified negotiations so teachers can be made fully aware of the details before they leave for the summer recess," he said.

Trustees President George White said that daily negotiations "are simply not possible."

"We've made the best offer we're capable of making," he added.

Conklin reminded trustees that early this year teachers appeared (and picketed) to induce the board to approve a tax override which could have appeared on today's primary ballot, but that the trustees heeded the staff's advice and killed the idea.

"The solution would have been clear," but the board chose to forget about it," Conklin said.

White said that there was little use in discussing the override, because the possibility was gone.

"We emphasized when we rejected the override that employes in the district would receive a "reasonable raise in pay," he added. He admitted, however, that no specific amount was set.

Monday's board action essentially left the next move in the dispute over pay up to the teachers, and Conklin leveled a threat to the board before the vote on the impending eight percent decision was taken:

"Don't back your employes into a position where they have to do something regrettable, although necessary to protect themselves and their families."

Rites Thursday For Costa Mesan William F. Moore

A funeral service will be conducted Thursday for Costa Mesa resident William F. Moore, onetime owner and operator of the Laguna Body Shop in Laguna Beach, who died Saturday.

A longtime auto body repairman, Mr. Moore owned the shop in Laguna Beach for 18 years and was also engaged at one time in a similar business in Beverly Hills.

He lived in Orange County for 30 years and leaves a son, William F. Moore of Pennsylvania, sisters Mrs. Alice Kuschner and Mrs. Peg Bollenger of Santa Ana, and four grandchildren.

UCI Chancellor

Aldrich Heading U.S. Food Panel

By GEORGE LEIDAL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. said today he is chairing a National Science Foundation backed effort to recommend policies for the U.S. role in world food production.

Dr. Aldrich who participated in a similar study in 1967, has been asked to provide copies of preliminary findings by June 15 to U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The UCI chancellor said today the U.S., Canada and Australia are to world food production what the Arab nations are to oil production.

Dr. Kissinger is said to be interested in findings of the study for use in diplomatic solutions to international shortages of food.

"The ability of a nation to feed its people is is a potent political force," Aldrich said.

To date, the committee involving internationally known scholars with interests in agriculture, has met only once.

Aldrich will chair the mid-July final conference set for Woods Hole, Mass. A final report is due to be adopted at that session.

Aldrich said participants generally fall into two categories. They are:

— Those who favor conversion of U.S. production and eating habits to reduce the amounts of grains devoted to meat production.

— And those who support, as Aldrich said he does, continued full production of U.S. Agricultural resources as a hedge against future shortages and a source of world supplies while developing nations advance their farming skills and food production systems.

Among concerns to be studied by the committee are:

— Impact of energy shortages on world food production.

— What effect does increasing loss of land to uses other than farming have on food supplies?

— How may food best be produced at locations nearest to the population centers of the world?

— What is the range-range role of the U.S., Canada and Australia in production of food for the world?

AVCO . . .

Avco's plan, which had been reduced several times before the commission.

Paul Sayre, president of United South Orange Coast Communities (USOCC), a coalition of homeowners' groups, said residents are "vigorously opposed" to proposal to build a tourist-oriented development on the Oceanside tract.

Lorell Long and Dale Secord of the Environmental Coalition presented that alternative for the area.

Secord said the examples of motels, hotels, campgrounds, restaurants and executive retreats would comply better with the objective of 1972 Coastal Zone Act than a private Community.

John Chapman, a planner working for Avco, contended more intensified public use would overload the "fragile beach."

The atmosphere at the afternoon hearing was often tense. Burns argued legal issues, challenged the validity of the Coastal Act and asked the commission not to accept any "unsworn testimony."

Deputy State Attorney General Dennis Antenore said the commission's hearing was administrative, not judicial, and courtroom rules of evidence didn't apply.

Commissioner Ronald Caspers, an Orange County Supervisor who has received campaign funds from Avco, voted in favor of the company's plans after being asked to voluntarily abstain.

Last Rites Held For Jean Ziebe, Aunt of Heiress

Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Jean Elizabeth Ziebe of Emerald Bay, who died Sunday at her home, 807 Emerald Bay, after a long illness. She was 64.

Mrs. Ziebe is an aunt of Joan Irvine Smith, of Middleberg, Va., and sister of Mrs. Thurmond Clarke of Newport Beach.

A resident of Emerald Bay for 10 years, Mrs. Ziebe had been active in Pasadena civic events prior to moving to the Orange Coast. She was a charter member of the Pasadena Guild and Children's Hospital of Los Angeles.

Other survivors are husband Richard A. Ziebe of the family home and daughter, Anita Jean, of Burlingame.

Services were held at St. James Episcopal Church in Newport Beach. Interment followed at Pacific View Memorial park.

VOTERS . . .

Beach said most persons were surprised at the length of the ballot and said some people took as long as 10 minutes to cast their votes.

Voters are deciding today whether to provide an additional $271,600 to the Laguna Beach Unified School District — a sum school officials say is needed to maintain quality education in the district.

To collect this extra revenue, the district would assess taxpayers $3.20 per $100 assessed valuation. This would be a seven-cent decrease from the $3.27 assessed this year.

JOIN THE ESTABLISHMENT!

There is a definite advantage in doing business with an ESTABLISHED local firm.

We are interested in doing business with ESTABLISHED mills, which we have determined after decades of doing business. There is no way, unfortunately, to tell how a mill will back its products until there is a problem! Carpet stores interested ONLY in price have no one to back them, and consequently walk away from complaints.

A few times through the years, we have had to stand the cost of replacement when a mill wouldn't. This will only happen once to us, and then the samples are in our trash can.

What this means to our customers is that the lines we carry are from reputable mills, and that they can buy with confidence from Alden's.

Seeks State Office

Irvine City Councilman Henry Quigley and his wife Margie were among the early voters casting ballots in the Ranch area of Irvine. Quigley is the only Orange Coast area candidate for a statewide office. He is seeking the Republican nomination to run for state treasurer in the November general election.

Balloting Pattern Steady, But Light, in Irvine Area

Voter turnout today at polling places sampled in Irvine and the Saddleback Valley were at 10 to 20 percent by mid-day with inspectors reporting steady traffic.

At Forest Gardens Mobile Home community center in Lake Forest, 135 of 700 registered voters had come in by 11 a.m. and no problems were reported.

Other precincts sampled in Mission Viejo reported 96 of 541 registered voters at O'Neill School and 24 of 285 at Cordillera School.

In Irvine, turnout was described as being "heavier than usual for a June primary election."

City voters today are deciding two ballot measures providing $16 million for parks acquisition and development and $2 million for bike and hiking trails.

Another local item on the Saddleback and Irvine ballots was choosing three new trustees for Saddleback College—two from the Tustin area and one from Laguna Beach. All voters in the college district were eligible to choose all three.

Short lines formed at some Irvine polling places particularly prior to the 7 a.m. opening. A Turtle Rock precinct opened with a half dozen voters waiting and didn't catch up until nearly noon.

University Park voting continued "steady" throughout the morning with one precinct reporting an 18 percent turnout early in the voting day.

Some problems were reported for voters handling the bulky primary election ballot. One voting inspector said in anticipation of that problem, her precinct had provided clothespins and a line so that voters could pin up their sample ballots inside the booths.

"This is a very good turnout so far," one inspecotr said. "We haven't had a single problem."

Solons Reject Gubler Charge

A complaint filed by Republican 40th Congressional District primary hopeful David Gubler charging incumbent Andrew Hinshaw with violation of franking laws was thrown out by the Commission on Congressional Mailing Standards today.

According to the commission's chairman, Rep. Morris K. Udall (D-Arizona) no misrepresentations or abuses of the franking laws were found in a Hinshaw newsletter mailed to his constituents in the new 40th district.

The commission telephoned Gubler and Hinshaw today to relate its findings on the two-month-old complaint.

Gunmen Assault Clerk in Holdup

Two gunmen who gave the hotel clerk a beating with a wine bottle before they fled from the premises took $208 in cash Monday night from the Hilton Inn at 25205 La Paz Road, Laguna Hills.

Clerk Gary Allen Stanton, 28, told Orange County Sheriff's officers that the pair confronted him, guns in hand, and ordered him to hand over the contents of the cash register.

Stanton said he immediately complied and also handed over his own wallet at the demand of the two men. He was then struck over the head with the wine bottle and the pair fled.

Deputies said Stanton was not seriously hurt. A description of his assailants has been circulated throughout the county.

Burglar Kills Two

ELBERTON, Ga. (UPI) — A burglar, surprised by a returning family, shot two boys to death and wounded their father Monday and escaped into a wooded area. Police said Dwayne Cooper, 13, and David Cooper, 11, were shot and killed with a .22 pistol the burglar found in the home of Wayne Cooper, a cattleman and Baptist minister.

UCI's Aldrich Heads National Panel on Food

By GEORGE LEIDAL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. said today he is chairing a National Science Foundation backed effort to recommend policies for the U.S. role in world food production.

Dr. Aldrich who participated in a similar study in 1967, has been asked to provide copies of preliminary findings by June 15 to U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The UCI chancellor said today the U.S., Canada and Australia are to world food production what the Arab nations are to oil production.

Dr. Kissinger is said to be interested in findings of the study for use in diplomatic solutions to international shortages of food.

"The ability of a nation to feed its people is is a potent political force," Aldrich said.

To date, the committee involving internationally known scholars with interests in agriculture, has met only once.

Aldrich will chair the mid-July final conference set for Woods Hole, Mass. A final report is due to be adopted at that session.

Aldrich said participants generally fall into two categories. They are:

— Those who favor conversion of U.S. production and eating habits to reduce the amounts of grains devoted to meat

Viejo Golfers CIF Champs

Mission Viejo High School won its first California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) title Monday night—the golf championship.

A proud board of trustees of the governing Saddleback Valley Unified School District announced the title at a regular board meeting moments after the victory.

Marine Facing Charges With Wife Over Death

An El Toro Marine Corps Air Station sergeant whose wife already faces murder charges in connection with the death of her eight-month-old son joined her Monday night in county jail on charges of felony child neglect.

Sheriff's officers said Sgt. Dennis Eugene Dabney, 24, and his wife, Jennifer, 20, will be arraigned Wednesday in Santa Ana municipal court.

Investigators said the arrest Monday of Dabney followed further investigation into head injuries that led to the death Saturday of eight-month-old Robert Dabney.

The boy died in Children's Hospital of Orange County after the condition initially being treated at the El Toro Marine Corps station dispensary rapidly worsened.

Mrs. Dabney was booked into the county jail on murder charges shortly after her son died.

The dead child's twin brother is being confined in the Albert Sitton Home as a ward of the county while criminal charges are being processed against the parents.

Sheriff's officers today said the surviving child is being carefully examined in view of healed head injuries that were spotted after the child was admitted to the hospital.

Coroner's officers have not yet completed their report on the cause of death.

Viejo Educator Will Head Saddleback Chief Search

By JAN WORTH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A former San Francisco superintendent of schools, Dr. Robert Jenkins of Mission Viejo, has been hired to head the search for a new Saddleback College superintendent.

Jenkins will be assisted by Dr. Hilton Bell of San Clemente, a former superintendent at Visalia and Garden Grove, and by a seven-member volunteer screening committee.

Dr. Fred Bremer, superintendent of the school since 1968, resigned last week.

The committee includes two trustees, Norrisa Brandt of Irvine and Patrick Backus of Dana Point. It also includes one student, Student Body President David Hall; and one teacher, Band Director Monte LaBonte.

One Saddleback administrator, Associate Dean of Counseling and Student Affairs William Kelly, also was appointed to the task force, along with two at-large community members. They are Marjorie Day of Tustin and Gratian Bidart of Mission Viejo.

Mrs. Day chaired the committee appointed last winter by Trustee Hans Vogel to come up with constructive alternatives to the proposed withdrawal of Tustin from the Saddleback district.

Gratian Bidart is a former member of the now defunct San Joaquin Elementary School district.

Former Saddleback College superintendent Fred Bremer, who previously had the dual title of superintendent and president, resigned as superintendent by a mutual agreement with the board.

Bremer, who has two years remaining on a $35,000 a year contract, will remain on as president working on special assignments given by the board.

He resigned after a year of crises at the school. The stormy year included four resignations on the board of trustees, the threatened de-annexation by a fourth of the district (Tustin), a bookmaking conviction by one of the former trustees, and a criticism of Bremer's administration by the Orange County Grand Jury.

Jenkins said the search has already begun for a new superintendent. He and Bell, both of whom have had statewide posts in professional educational organizations, said they have begun to contact universities and community colleges to inform them of the Saddleback opening.

A new superintendent is scheduled to be on the job "as soon as possible after July 1," board president Hans Vogel said Monday.

"With close to 300 square miles in Orange County as its district, Saddleback College is one of the most important resources of this community," Jenkins said. "It's important to find just the right person."

He said the committee would develop a list of 10 to 12 candidates and allow the board to narrow that down to three to five.

Then a board committee will visit the candidates' home communities and find out just what is happening there Jenkins said.

Experts Say Tape Gaps 5 'Erasures'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of tape experts, in a highly technical report released today, stuck by its earlier conclusions that an 18½-minute gap in a White House tape was caused by at least five separate erasures. They did not fix any blame for the gap.

The report said the tape recorder used by President Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, "probably produced the entire buzz section" that replaced a portion of a conversation Nixon had with then chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972.

An expert hired by the White House, Dr. Michael H. L. Hecker of the Stanford Research Institute, agreed with the six-man panel's conclusion in every respect except one.

Hecker said the six-man panel "finally and irrevocably dismissed the possibility that a faulty machine was involved in producing the erasure . . .

"We believe that the Uher 5000 tape recorder . . . was electronically faulty at the time when the erasure was produced."

Hecker said he believed "it is still possible that some internal malfunction of the machine" was partly responsible for the buzzing sound.

Before the inch-thich report was released, Miss Woods' lawyer, Charles S. Rhyne, filed a paper with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica objecting to his receiving the report as evidence.

Rhyne said that the panel's conclusions "are based on disputed assumptions and disputed probabilities" and that the data are inconsistent with the testimony Miss Woods gave last November.

Miss Woods said that she accidentally pushed the record-erase button while transcribing the tape for President Nixon and at the same time kept her foot on a pedal used to advance the tape. But she said she was sure that lasted only four to five minutes.

The panel's conclusion consisted mostly of a detailed technical elaboration of a report submitted to Sirica Jan. 15.

As they did before, the panel members said that the erasure "required hand operation of keyboard controls."

Site at Ranchwood Soiled

Developers, County, Owner Unable to Fix Blame

The Ranchwood homeowners in El Toro think they've gotten a dirty deal.

It involves an estimated 9,200 extra cubic yards of dirt which have appeared on a 1.8-acre site where the homeowners had hoped to have a landscaped park by now.

But so far none of the three parties involved — the developer, Pacesetter Homes; the Orange County Harbors, Beaches, and Parks Department; and the homeowners—have been able to decide where the extra dirt came from and who should remove it.

The homeowners say they suspect the developer put the dirt on the site. They say the mounds block their views across the site, which sits in the center of the tract and is visible from many of the homes around its circumference.

Tom Burton, Jr., a contractor working with Pacesetter on the Ranchwood tract, said it appears to him the extra dirt came from homeowners' swimming pool excavations in the area. That's not Pacesetter's responsibility, he contends.

Spokesmen for the county say they feel certain the extra dirt is not from swimming pools and add getting it off the site is the developers' responsibility.

The upshot of the deal, county officials say, is that unless at least 4,000 cubic yards of the troublesome soil is removed, a $54,000 contract for development of the park cannot continue.

Delays in getting their park has prompted the nearby homeowners to picket Pasesetter sales models twice in the last two weeks.

Meanwhile, as one county spokesman put it, the empty park site is "becoming a big dust bowl right in the middle of the tract."

Burton contends the park site was picket Pacesetter sales models twice in a written agreement was produced guaranteeing that the developer had done his part.

The extra dirt appeared after those two agreements were signed, Burton added. "According to county regulations, we couldn't have people living in those homes now if we hadn't done what the county requires first," he said.

"It's a big mess, and Pacesetter has been caught in the middle," he acknowledged.

Pat Hilles, president of the Ranchwood Homeowners Association, said the homeowners plan to continue putting pressure on the county and the developer to get the soil question resolved and get the park under way..

"Originally, we were able to get money allocated for this park by putting on some pressure," Mrs. Hilles said. "About 92 percent of the homeowners signed petitions saying we wanted a park.

Don't Forget To Vote; Polls Open Until 8

UCI Plans To Assist Minorities

Some changes sought by the UC Irvine chancellor's advisory committee on minority hiring will be initiated and the committee will be asked to continue working, it was learned today.

Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. said today he will "not debate the numbers" contained in the advisory body's report. Findings alleging that UCI discriminates in its hiring and promotion of women and minorities were made public before the final draft of the report was forwarded to Dr. Aldrich on May 29.

Aldrich said he had studied the report "over the past weekend". He said it fairly informs him of problems he has known for some time have existed at UCI.

The advisory committee was intended "to advise me on how to better provide for fair and equitable, equal employment opportunity for minorities and women," Aldrich said. "I want them to suggest ways to help the institution to employ more minorities and women."

Aldrich disagreed with a committee allegation that the affirmative action program at Irvine was ineffectual.

"Affirmative action is now powerless. The plan indicates what the institution is about in improving the numbers of minorities and women on the campus.

"Implementation of the plan, its effectuation, comes back to the decisions which are made about hiring and the power to make those decisions resides in the individual management units of the campus," Aldrich said, adding that ultimate responsibility for affirmative action nevertheless is his.

"I don't hire the faculty or staff. But, I can indicate to those who do what the campus goals are in the area of affirmative action."

Aldrich said he plans to appoint an affirmative action officer to work fulltime at improving UCI's hiring of minorities and women faculty and staff.

He said the position would not have vice chancellor status as the committee had urged.

Until now, Mrs. Eloise Kloke, Dr. Aldrich's assistant for administration, has been responsible for affirmative action.

Hampering efforts to hire minority faculty is the national "lack of minority faculty . . . of any quality," Aldrich said.

Selection of faculty solely on the basis of seeking the best qualified individual is likely to produce a white male since statistics suggest there are more white males in the academic labor market, Aldrich contends.

"Affirmative action means choosing from among the most qualified applicants the best qualified candidate who is a woman or from an ethnic minority," Aldrich explained.

"Equal opportunity of employment is not sufficient to change the numbers of minorities and women. It takes affirmative action to make a difference," he concluded.

White House dealings with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today and then will take up political contributions by the dairy industry late in the week.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

There have been published reports that Colson's surprise arrangement with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski was causing concern in the White House but St. Clair discounted them.

"It's not true," he said. "It would be my view he would testify in favor of the President."

Trustees Approve Staff Pay Raise At Saddleback

Saddleback College faculty and classified employes were granted an 8.9 percent raise Monday by the unanimous vote of the board of trustees.

The increase, up from last year's five percent pay raise for the college staff, is based on a cost-of-living guideline of the Los Angeles office of the Department of Labor.

Other salary items negotiated between the board and the staff include a provision for two days of personal leave and a clause providing insurance coverage of eye care and glasses.

Student employes were granted an increase in their hourly rate from $1.70 to $2. Some 350 students work for the college each year in every department, in the bookstore and library, and in administrative and athletic offices.

"Many districts have fought long and hard to get what you've always had," said Board President Hans Vogel. An administrator in the Tustin Unified School District, Vogel recently helped hash out salary disputes there following a walkout by teachers.

Firm Will Head Building Study At Saddleback

The Santa Ana firm of Hippe and Randell was hired Monday by Saddleback College trustees to take over the 10-year building program on the 200-acre Mission Viejo campus.

Robert Lowrey and Associates, district architect since the school opened seven years ago, was fired two weeks ago for reasons the board did not explain.

Robert Hippe and George Randell, who both worked for Lowrey in the past, were appointed immediately to continue the program. It calls for eight major buildings in the next ten years.

The first permanent building, a $3.2 million library-classroom complex, was finished last year. The second structure, a $3.9 million math-science building, is under coustruction and scheduled to be open by fall.

Other buildings scheduled on the Hippe and Randell contract include a fine arts building, a central utilities plant a physical education complex and gymnasium, a business science building, a technology building, a paramedical facility, on administration building and a student union.

Most classes at Saddleback now are conducted in 20 relocatable buildings.

Patron Arrested For 'Souveniring'

A restaurant patron who allegedly picked up a potted plant and a vase of flowers after he paid his bill at a San Juan Capistrano restaurant Monday night will dine today in a somewhat less elegant dining area.

Orange County Sheriff's officers jailed Marine Miguel Angel Banderas, 24, of 23333 Ridge Route Drive, El Toro, on theft charges after he allegedly helped himself to the decor from the Franciscan Restaurant, 31781 Camino Capistrano.

Deputies said Banderas took the plant and the flowers from the cashier's counter.

Straight Talk

Instructor Tired of 'Procedure'

The stiff, uncomfortable rhetoric evident in discussions between teacher representatives and trustees over wages and benefits gave way for a few moments Monday when Capistrano Unified School District teacher John Porter stood to address trustees.

Porter warned the board in an opening remark that he did not plan to cite his case in a nutshell.

"What if your son is born with a disease and the damned district insurance doesn't cover it, and it costs an extra $1,500 to pay the expenses that the district can't cover? The policy is worth absolutely nothing.

"I'm having to subsidize education by selling myself and going out to work at Sears at night.

"It's these things that hurt," Porter said.

"I'm tired of hearing your Mickey Mouse procedures, and I don't care if a class has to have 40 kids or 20 kids because there never has been any data to support the contention that education suffers in a large classroom...

"It's the second job . . . all the stuff we do to subsidize education . . . that's what hurts kids in class-rooms.

"And very frankly, I don't think it's worth it any more," he said wearily.

'Cuckoo's Nest' Deleted From CUSD Book List

The best-selling novel "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" was sent south for the winter by trustees of the Capistrano Unified School District Monday.

Deemed unsuitable as optional reading for a class in environmental literature, the book was deleted from a list of materials available to about 60 seniors and juniors in an elective class calculated to examine how man relates to his surroundings.

Trustees ended a year's controversy over the book written a decade ago by Oregon writer Ken Kesey in which the main character describes a colorful view of a mental institution through the eyes of a patient.

The novel initially drew a split vote by a special panel of parents and staff charged with selecting books suitable for classroom work.

Critics in the committee charged that the book lends a negative view about the quality of care in mental institutions.

And trustees Monday — each of whom had ordered up a copy of the novel to see for themselves several weeks ago — agreed that the staff at San Clemente High School find some other novel to illustrate the same point.

Trustee William Enquist suggested "The Snake Pit," as a more palatable alternative to depict the problems in some mental institutions.

The only board member to mildly disagree with the majority on the fate of the book was Bob Hurst, whose motion to approve the entire list — "Cuckoo" included — failed to muster a second.

Hurst said that although the book contained a few passages which displayed language "we don't hear every day" he found it to be a possible good addition to the reading list.

Despite the board vote Monday, all is not lost for "Cuckoo."

Extracted segments of the book still will be a part of the required reading for the course, and if students are that adamant about reading Kesey's work, they can check out a complete copy on their own.

The book is in the school library.

Snake Slows Up Train in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — The 150 mile-an-hour trains linking Tokyo and Osaka have been halted for 90 minutes again by a snake.

Japan National Railways officials said Monday the snake fell from the top of a tunnel and onto a power line supplying electricity for Japan's fastest trains.

The line was short-circuited, resulting in a power failure.

It was the second time in a week trains on the high-speed Shinkansen line had been brought to a standstill by a snake. On Friday, another blue general snake coiled around the terminals of a transformer near Shizouka, causing a power failure.

Wage Dispute

Capo's Teachers Picket Trustees

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Scores of teachers in the Capistrano Unified School District picketed district headquarters Monday evening as a prelude to discussions later in the evening over the district's latest offer of an eight percent raise.

And at the end of the board session, a deep division remained between teachers and trustees.

Delegates from two teachers bargaining groups termed the offer of an 8 percent hike "totally inadequate."

Trustees made it clear the sum would probably be their final offer although it will not be affirmed until a later meeting.

The picketing — the second to take place before a board meeting this year by teachers — brought about 70 members of the teaching staff out with bright yellow placards declaring, "8 percent an insult; we need bread and milk too" and "Teachers Can't Eat Dedication."

One youngster helping a parent who teaches carried a sign reading, "I'm Hungry; eight percent is not enough."

The initial requests by the teaching staff in the large district called for a straight 15-percent wage increase along with the district paying the full premium on health and dental insurance plans for dependents. The district currently pays the total cost for the plan relating to teachers, but only half the costs for the teachers's family.

Trustees Monday first dealt with a specific request by teacher representatives that negotiations be stepped up to daily marathon sessions in an effort to resolve the wage and benefit dispute before the end of the school year — slightly more than a week away.

But trustees adamantly declined, declaring the commitment of staff time and special meetings of trustees "impossible."

Then, after an executive session to discuss strategy, the board cast another motion which scheduled a poll of trustees at their next meeting to finally determine if the eight-percent figure would be the district's final offer.

Charles Conklin, the representative of the bulk of the district's teachers through the Capistrano Unified Educators' Association (CUEA), stressed that in the five years he had been in the district trustees had never sought an end to negotiations until well into the summer.

"We would much prefer intensified negotiations so teachers can be made fully aware of the details before they leave for the summer recess," he said.

Trustees President George White said that daily negotiations "are simply not possible."

"We've made the best offer we're capable of making," he added.

Conklin reminded trustees that early this year teachers appeared (and picketed) to induce the board to approve a tax override which could have appeared on today's primary ballot, but that the trustees heeded the staff's advice and killed the idea.

"The solution would have been clear," but the board chose to forget about it," Conklin said.

White said that there was little use in discussing the override, because the possibility was gone.

"We emphasized when we rejected the override that employes in the district would receive a "reasonable raise in pay," he added. He admitted, however, that no specific amount was set.

Monday's board action essentially left the next move in the dispute over pay up to the teachers, and Conklin leveled a threat to the board before the vote on the impending eight percent decision was taken:

"Don't back your employes into a position where they have to do something regrettable, although necessary to protect themselves and their families."

Last year at this time in the negotiation process teachers from the militant Capistrano Unified Federation of Teachers walked off the job at high schools in the district in a work stoppage which lasted about two days.

Supervisor Caspers told us it would be five years."

But eventually, the money was allocated and set aside. Now the dirt has placed a new stumbling block in getting the park work done, even though the county had already hired a contractor.

"I don't think any of the money from the $54,000 available in the local service area fund for this park should be diverted for any other use than developing it," said Ralph Hudson, chief of development for county parks.

County officials has scheduled beetings with the Pacesetter Homes spokesmen to try to negotiate who will remove the dirt and who will pay for removing it.

Meanwhile, the homeowners have vowed to continue keeping their "dirty deal" fresh in everyone's mind by picketing if they have to.

— What effect does increasing loss of land to uses other than farming have on food supplies?

— How may food best be produced at locations nearest to the population centers of the world?

— What is the range-range role of the U.S., Canada and Australia in production of food for the world?

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted two Maryland engineers on charges stemming from the investigation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former Baltimore County Executive N. Dale Anderson.

A third engineer was charged directly Monday by U.S. Attorney George Beall, in an action bypassing the grand jury, with violating federal income tax laws.

Eugene H. Hsi, 50, of Towson, and Blair P. Overton Jr., 61, of Hagerstown, were charged in the indictment with making false statements before the grand jury during its Anderson investigation last year.

JOIN THE ESTABLISHMENT!

There is a definite advantage in doing business with an ESTABLISHED local firm.

We are interested in doing business with ESTABLISHED mills, which we have determined after decades of doing business. There is no way, unfortunately, to tell how a mill will back its products until there is a problem! Carpet stores interested ONLY in price have no one to back them, and consequently walk away from complaints.

A few times through the years, we have had to stand the cost of replacement when a mill wouldn't. This will only happen once to us, and then the samples are in our trash can.

What this means to our customers is that the lines we carry are from reputable mills, and that they can buy with confidence from Alden's.

Huntington Override Voter Turnout Lagging

Voters in the Huntington Beach Union High School District trickled into the polls today with a spot survey showing a light 10 percent early turnout.

One deputy registrar at the Huntington Beach Boys' Club said she had expected to be mobbed by early morning Primary Election Voters at 7 a.m. trying to vote before they went to work.

Instead, only a few came and by 11 a.m., 27 out of the 365 voters registered there had cast ballots.

At stake is the high school district's proposed tax override, Proposition H on today's primary ballot.

The override, which needs a majority approval, would add 17.8 cents to the district's current tax rate of $2.82 per $100 assessed valuation to finance a new high school.

The new tax rate would raise at least $14.5 million to be paid off over a period of 27 years.

A check of polling places in four area elementary districts — Fountain Valley, Huntington Beach City, Ocean View and Westminster — all confirmed the average nine or 10 percent early turnout.

The lowest turnout of voters at the random checkpoints today was in the Huntington Beach City Districts, where 135 voters out of 1,558 registered at three spots had voted.

The largest response, according to the survey, was in Fountain Valley, where the city council and the elementary district have endorsed the override.

At three polling places, a total of 181 out of 1,739 voters registered — slightly more than 10 percent — had balloted early today.

One deputy registrar in Huntington Beach predicted a "heavy vote after 4:30 p.m." and called the early showing "very light for a primary."

Polls are open until 8 p.m.

Harper School in Fountain Valley district — with 69 voters out of 534 registered — and Harbour View in the Ocean View district — with 70 voters out of 611 — had the highest percentage turnouts in the spot check.

The tax override is the only local proposition on today's ballot.

District officials proposing the increase say there are 19,600 students registered for high school classes next fall and permanent space to house only 14,700 of them.

Mediator Gets School Pay Dispute

A Big Hand For Trash Men

When trash collectors arrived for their morning pickup at St. Bonaventure School in Huntington Beach today, they found students gathered for an appreciation ceremony.

Students at the school presented employes of Rainbow Disposal Company, the trash collection firm for the city of Huntington Beach, with a plaque in appreciation of efficient trash pickup service this year.

A school spokesman said trash was collected daily and the firm's employes kept the area around the school neat and clean. The school has 700 students in the first through eighth trades.

Panel Seeks Negotiating On Contract

The Fountain Valley School District Community Council voted Monday to ask district trustees and teachers to return to the negotiating table in their current contract dispute.

Teachers in the district have threatened to strike on Friday if the district doesn't agree to reopen contract talks.

The 34-member council, composed of 17 parents and 17 teachers, meets monthly to discuss district educational programs and goals.

Fifteen of the 24 attending Monday supported the motion, a district spokesman said, with six voting no and the others abstaining.

The board declared contract talks at an impasse last month, turning them over to a three-man board of review.

Teachers now have refused to participate on the review board and plan to march en masse to the board meetings Wednesday and Thursday evenings urging the board to return to the negotiating table.

Teachers are asking for a 13 percent pay hike. The board has offered no pay raise. Teachers also want reduced class size, a greater voice in curriculum planning and improved benefits.

Orange Coast Weather

There may be a patch of blue in that overcast sky Wednesday, according to the weather service — and warmer temperatures, too. Sunny skies are forecast Wednesday afternoon with highs at the beaches in the upper 60s rising to the mid-70s inland.

Valley Cut Off Transit Priority List

Orange County Transit District consultants said Monday they have reshuffled their priority list of communities due to receive Dial-a-Ride bus service during the next fiscal year.

Huntington Beach, which was in a top priority category to get the door-to-destination bus system on the original list, stayed near the top of the list.

Fountain Valley, which was given a high-priority ranking on the first list because of its proximity to Huntington Beach, has been cut from the top priority list altogether.

The Dial-a-Ride expansion list is due to undergo special study June 11 when leaders of the county's 26 cities will be asked for input on the latest list.

Protests by the cities caused the reshuffling by consultants from DAVE Systems Inc., who attempted to rank the cities based on a series of criteria.

The district's current financial picture requires a phased introduction of Dial-a-Ride, which is already running on an experimental basis in the city of La Habra.

The expansion now being envisioned would consist of 67 van-type coaches at a cost of about $1.6 million. Transit directors have been told the system could be installed within two years throughout the county if voters approve a one-cent sales tax increase for the county.

The expansion priority list — once it has gone through several hearings — will be brought to the directors to endorse. If directors approve it, Dial-a-Ride could be implemented by fall in the top priority areas — Huntington Beach and Orange.

But at least one director, Al Hollinden of Fountain Valley, said he thinks moving ahead with implementation now may be hasty.

"Based on our current funding sources, only seven proposed areas can receive Dial-a-Ride service," Hollinden said.

"If it should turn out that's all we can afford, I would have serious reservations about giving those seven the service if other cities are never to receive it."

Hollinden said the money might be better spent on fixed route buses that would serve a larger number of residents.

He said after the meeting his opposition is not based on the fact Fountain Valley was stricken from the high priority list.

"Quite to the contrary, because it never should have been up there, anyway," Hollinden said. "I just think we need to wait and see if the voters get a chance to decide on a sales tax this November before proceeding with the expansion."

Directors were told by Dr. Marcel Zobrak, consulting engineer for DAVE Systems, that the new list was drafted putting less emphasis on technology and more on need.

"In our re-examination we tended to disregard technical aspects and concentrate more on the need criteria established and endorsed by this board," Zobrak said.

Zobrak's original priority list came under heavy criticism from several cities, which complained some service areas actually bisected cities.

Zobrak said the new list was drafted putting heavier emphasis on the percentage of young and elderly within the service area, households in the area with one or no cars, available bus serv-

TEACHERS AND PARENTS CROWD INTO RANCHO VIEW AUDITORIUM FOR BOARD MEET
In Huntington Beach's Ocean View District, a Stormy Confrontation

Strike Set Wednesday By Teachers

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The contract battle in Huntington Beach's Ocean View School District was turned over to a mediator today in an effort to avert a threatened teacher strike on Wednesday.

After a lengthy and stormy confrontation with 450 angry teachers and parents, the Ocean View Board of Trustees agreed to call in the California Conciliation Service, a state-funded mediation agency, to try to resolve the current contract impasse.

Marilyn DeVore, president of the Ocean View Teachers Association, urged the board to use this service, rather than turn the negotiations over to a board of review, because teachers believe the mediators can help the two reach an agreement by the time school ends June 14.

The board of review process could take several weeks, she pointed out, leaving negotiations still unresolved by the middle of the summer.

Teachers are seeking a 14 percent pay boost, while the district has offered five. They also want a voice in planning and additional staff.

Teachers will meet late today in Murdy Park to decide whether to carry out their threatened strike Wednesday. About half the district's 568 teachers were off the job last week in a one-day strike, but the district managed to keep classes operating with 210 substitute teachers.

The crowd of parents and teachers Monday first arrived at the district board room but most were turned away by Huntington Beach fire protection specialist Gary Glenn because the board room capacity is only 64.

The board agreed to conduct the regular board business, then moved the meeting to nearby Rancho View School auditorium. Even then, about one-third were forced to stand, many of them outside the auditorium.

In addition, many were angry that the board adjourned into executive session in between the two meetings, forcing the crowd to wait in the auditorium for nearly 90 minutes before trustees arrived.

"I'm put out because it took you so long to come over here," said one parent. "If that is an example of what these teachers have to put up with I understand their feeling."

"If this isn't resolved by the end of the school year," said Norma Sanders,

Wednesday Rites Slated For Ex-Edison Principal

Funeral services are scheduled Wednesday in Long Beach for Ernest Pascoe, former principal of Huntington Beach's Edison High School who died Sunday of a heart attack. He was 48.

Mr. Pascoe opened Edison High School as its first principal in 1969.

He resigned his post at the beginning of the 1972-73 school year to take a one year leave of absence and open a private school in Long Beach.

Services will be at 4:30 p.m. at the Eastside Christian Church at 7th Street and Obispo Avenue in Long Beach. Rev. Tom Bousman will officiate. Burial will be in Dixon, Calif.

Mr. Pascoe, who had been living in Long Beach for the past year, came to the Huntington Beach Union High School District as an assistant principal eight years ago.

He was at Marina High School until Edison opened.

Mr. Pascoe graduated from UC Berkeley and was an assistant principal in the Santa Paula high school district and a teacher in Pasadena schools prior to coming to Huntington Beach.

Mr. Pascoe named his private Long Beach venture the Huntington School.

Survivors include his wife, Marilyn; sons, Frank, George and Fred; stepbrother, Claude Rohwers; stepsister, June Pister, and stepmother, Norme Pascoe.

The family has suggested memorial contributions to the Huntington Beach Lions Club for work in the prevention of blindness.

Judge Dismisses Franking Suits

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Suits seeking to prevent two incumbent congressmen from using franking privileges were dismissed by a federal judge.

Democratic opponents of both Rep. Del Clawson (R-Downey), and Charles Wiggins (R-West Covina), filed suits to prevent the congressmen from using franking privileges to mail literature to residents outside their current districts.

The two are running for re-election in reapportioned districts that contain only a small portion of the districts they currently represent.

Teachers Plan To Picket at Dwyer School

Teachers in the Huntington Beach City School District voted Monday to picket Dwyer School late today while contract negotiations are going on inside.

A spokesman for teachers said after that negotiation session teachers will discuss what further action to take, possibly additional picketing."

Teachers have asked the district for a raise based on the cost of living increase. The district has offered teachers a $337,000 lump sum to be used as teachers wish.

Teachers contend most of this would be used by the autmotatic pay raises teachers receive for additional years of service and educataion, as well as by starting a teacher dental plan, leaving only a one percent pay boost.

Teachers also have asked the district to reconsider a mandatory seven-period day for junior high students, leaving it at six periods with an optional seventh class.

The teachers also want a district-wide art, music, remedial reading and physical education program to replace a current plan leaving those programs up to individual schools.

Economic Policy Rejection Shown

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's economic policies have received their biggest rejection in a Louis Harris Poll since Nixon came to the White House.

Eighty-two percent of the respondents in 1,555 houseolds across the nation did not approve of Nixon's handling of the economy, Harris said Monday.

Fifteen percent of those queried in early May approved and the remaining 3 percent were unsure.

Strike Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide strike of 110,000 garment workers at 750 factories in 30 states will continue at least until Wednesday, when negotiators might gather in Washington to resume contract talks. Murray H. Finley, president of the striking Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, said he would go to Washington Wednesday or Thursday at the suggestion of W. J. Usery Jr., director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Strike Vote Hotline Set

Parents who want to learn the outcome of the Ocean View teacher strike vote today and programs on mediation may telephone the district information line 847-6361.

The line will be kept up to date with information as mediation in the current contract dispute gets under way.

A district spokesman said a mediator from the California Conciliation Service was to begin meeting with teachers and district representatives at 11 a.m. and teacher representatives were excused from class to attend the meetings.

White House Plot Cited

Friends Rewarded, Foes Punished—Montoya

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya (D-N.M.), made public today confidential White House memoranda that he said document a campaign to reward friends and punish enemies in the awarding of federal grants.

Montoya said he was particularly concerned that Spanish-speaking minorities were taken advantage of by the White House during the 1972 presidential election campaign.

"Much of the conduct appears violative of civil and criminal law," Montoya said during a hearing before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee he heads.

The subcommittee is considering a 1975 budget request from the Office of Management and Budget.

Montoya named Fred Malek, former key White House staff member and a former deputy director of the Nixon re-election campaign, as playing a major role in the alleged effort to influence awarding of government grants.

Malek, 37, is deputy director of the OMB. He said he was shocked that Montoya would choose to raise the issue that he said had previously been discussed in executive session of the Senate Watergate Committee. Montoya also is a member of that committee.

Meanwhile, White House lawyer James St. Clair said today he would welcome testimony by former White House counsel Charles W. Colson in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"In my view, it would be highly supportive for the President," St. Clair told newsmen as he entered the committee room for the start of another week of closed-door hearings.

The committee planned a look into White House dealings with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today and then will take up political contributions by the dairy industry late in the week.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

There have been published reports that Colson's surprise arrangement with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski was causing concern in the White House but St. Clair discounted them.

"It's not true," he said. "It would be my view he would testify in favor of the President."

A short time later, White House spokesman Gerald L. Warren said of Colson: "We welcome his decision to step forward and tell the truth comprehensively and completely."

Warren rejected as "utterly false" suggestions that Nixon and the White House were apprehensive about Colson's testimony.

Capsule Council Action

Here in capsuule form are major actions taken Monday night by the Huntington Beach City Council:

MORATORIUM: Ordered the city attorney to preserve an emergency ordinance for their June 10 meeting which could impose a building moratorium on the Sunset Heights district near Huntington Harbour.

GOLF COURSE: Hired O'Melveny and Meyers as bond consultants in preparation for the purchase of Meadowlark Golf Course. The city is close to agreement on the purchase, according to City Administrator Dave Rowlands.

BUS RIDERS: Refused to buy annual bus passes from Orange County Transit District for the city's 830 workers, unless the administrator can prove they would be widely used.

HORSES: Backed a policy indicating a strong desire to keep horses in Huntington Beach, especially in the area of the ceneral park.

another parent. "I personally will be happy to get signatures to have you all recalled."

Others accused the board of dodging questions and failing to cut the budget where necessary to give teachers the pay raise they need.

"I see a great deal of evasion of legitimate questions," said James Whitlock, another parent. "I sense you are trying to hide something."

Throughout the meeting, board members assured those present they had been negotiating with teachers through their representative, Assistant Superintendent Kenneth Meberg.

They also said they were trying to meet teacher demands as much as current funds would allow.

"Negotiations are going on," said Board President Robert Zinngrabe. "We are not here to negotiate at this meeting."

Nineteen parents addressed the board, many of them obviously upset with trustees, many confused about the issues, others urging a prompt settlement. Only four teachers spoke, all of them politely asking the board to work with them to resolve problems.

"Teachers want to be heard as equal partners in education," said Layne Neugart, a teacher at Harbour View School. "Teachers have been left outside in decision making."

U.S. Will Press Vietnam Search

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The United States said today it will continue the search for missing Americans in South Vietnam despite the paralysis of the machinery which coordinates the search.

U.S. Embassy spokesman John Swenson said U.S. and South Vietnamese delegates to the four-party Joint Military Team met today despite a boycott of the team by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. Looking for the missing is part of the team's responsibilities.

The search, which began after the accords were signed, has had limited success. The Pentagon lists about 1,100 missing in Indochina, but U.S. sources say the remains of only about 34 persons have been positively identified as being American missing.

Huntington Teen Held By Police After Car Chase

A Huntington Beach youth who police allege admitted he was inspired to practice drag racing on a grassy school ground by downing a few shots of whiskey was arrested early today following a high-speed chase by police in downtown Costa Mesa.

The suspect, 17, was arrested when he finally stopped his mother's sports coupe in an alley spotlighted by the Eagle II police helicopter.

Officer Dick Rosser said the youth was released to his mother and father following booking on a charge of evading arrest.

Investigators said today they will also seek Orange County Juvenile Court charges of reckless driving and malicious mischief as a result of the $200 destruction spree.

Damage to the grounds of Harper School, 425 E. 18th St., was estimated at that amount, police said.

Patrolman Rosser initiated the pursuit about 2 a.m., when he attempted to stop the sports car, which was making circular skids on the school grounds.

He charged the teenager gunned the sports car and tried to cross a two-foot embankment to escape, then slammed the vehicle into reverse and sped past the police car.

The patrolman lost his quarry briefly during a high-speed chase along East 18th Street, in which the youth reportedly turned off his headlights and ran through intersections without stopping.

Investigators said the chase ended when the helicopter crew cornered the youth in an alley between Broadway and Flower Street.

ice and expected patronage.

The new list represented a change only in terms of the top priority areas.

Orange was on top of both lists, but Huntington Beach moved from third to second spot, bumping Brea to fourth.

Buena Park moved into third spot from fourth and Westminster was added to the list in fifth spot followed by Tustin a new addition) and the Cypress-LaPalma area, which was last on both lists.

It had been thought before the first list was released that the Saddleback Valley area was due for Dial-a-Ride service.

But Zobrak's criteria revealed that area is in relatively good shape for the time being.

The criteria also show the city of Irvine could well be the last city in the county to receive Dial-a-Ride because it falls short in the need category.

Funny Money Found

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal court judge found a 29-year-old man guilty Monday of possessing more than $2 million in bogus bills. Sentencing of Jaime Nixon III was set for June 24. Nixon was arrested last March at his place of business, Million Dollar Enterprises in Hollywood, where Secret Service investigators said they found the counterfeit money in $5 and $100 denominations.

Sunset Heights Ban Eyed

Huntington Council to Consider Measure June 10

The possibility of imposing a four-month building ban on the Sunset Heights district, next to Huntington Harbour, will be considered June 10 by Huntington Beach councilmen.

The moratorium was suggested Monday night by Councilwoman Harriett Wieder, a Harbour resident, who cited earthquake dangers as the basis for wanting a building ban.

"We live on a geologically unstable planet. A moratorium just for this specific area is not logical," complained Councilman Don Shipley.

"I'm kind of concerned about the fact we're constantly reacting instead of acting," countered Mrs. Wieder. "Learning to live with earthquakes doesn't make it right."

She failed, however, to convince other councilmen the earthquake threat in the area is sufficient to impose a building moratorium for just that reason.

But Mayor Al Coen and Councilman Henry Duke did agree with a possible halt to new construction in the area to give the city planning commission time to study that quarter section in terms of density and the need for a school and park site.

On a 3 to 2 vote (Shipley and Ted Bartlett opposed) they ordered the city attorney to prepare an emergency ordinance for next Monday's council session which would impose an immediate moratorium.

While the three votes were enough to order the ordinance written, chances of passing an emergency building ban appear slim. Even if the two absent councilmen, Jerry Matney and Norma Gibbs, voted for it, "no" votes by Shipley and Bartlett would kill it. An emergency law requires four fifths (six of seven) approval.

The Sunset Heights quarter section is bounded by Algonquin and Bolsa Chica streets, Warner and Heil avenues. It is the location of a 66-unit, low income apartment project which drew the anger of a number of Harbour residents who used the earthquake danger as one unsuccessful argument against approval for the apartments.

Mrs. Wieder disavowed any relationship between her Monday night moratorium request and opposition to the federally financed apartments.

In requesting the moratorium ordinance, the council majority ignored the advice of Building Director John Behrens, who said the city already has sufficient earthquake control procedures, and Planning Director Dick Harlow, who said the area is a highly unlikely site for a school or a park.

Behrens also told councilmen that so far there has been no surface evidence of earthquake activity in that area.

3 Face Charges In Agnew Probe

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted two Maryland engineers on charges stemming from the investigation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former Baltimore County Executive N. Dale Anderson.

A third engineer was charged directly Monday by U.S. Attorney George Beall, in an action bypassing the grand jury, with violating federal income tax laws.

Eugene H. Hsi, 50, of Towson, and Blair P. Overton Jr., 61, of Hagerstown, were charged in the indictment with making false statements before the grand jury during its Anderson investigation last year.

Use of Student Teachers During Strike Alleged

A charge that student teachers were illegally employed as substitutes during the one-day teacher strike in the Ocean View School District last week has been issued by the California Teachers Association.

Calling for an investigation by the state, Les Francis, CTA regional consultant, said at least two student teachers from Fountain Valley were involved.

James Carvell, Superintendent at Ocean View, branded the charge "absolutely untrue."

Francis said the students, both from Cal State Long Beach, were told that since they don't hold California teaching credentials they would be employed as aides.

Once they receive their certificates and have them registered with the County Superintendent of Schools, Francis continued, the district promised to pay them retroactively for substitute work performed this spring.

A school district spokesman said the district hired 210 substitute teachers last week, from lists compiled by Ocean View and several surrounding school districts.

Teachers normally are not on such a list unless they have teaching credentials, the spokesman Said. Under the press of trying to find substitutes and keep schools open, the credentials of each substitute were not checked by the district.

The spokesman also said Fountain Valley student teachers may have been hired as aides, but no agreement was made to pay them retroactively as teachers.

Sound and Fury

Huntington Parade Route Changed

The sound of music in this year's Huntington Beach Fourth of July parade may be partially muffled by the sound and fury of a controversy over a change in the parade route.

Some senior citizens and downtown shop keepers are angry about the shifting of the parade uptown, near the new $12 million civic center.

At Monday's city council meeting, Councilman Ted Bartlett complained the parade has followed the same route for nearly 70 years and he didn't see why it had to change this year.

But Mark Hammerquist, director of the parade for the Huntington Beach Jaycees, said today there were several vital reasons for the change.

"The new route offers a better background for the parade, and it provides more parking at the civic center and Huntington Beach High," he explained.

He also said the new route, because it is straighter and wider, has attracted more major bands and floats to this year's parade.

"Downtown, there were a lot of sharp turns and narrow streets. It was tough on large bands. This year we have 28 bands and 25 major floats (compared to 10 floats last year)," Hammerquist said.

The old parade route wound through the downtown section, beginning at Lake Park, traveling south down Main Street, then down 5th Street to Walnut Avenue, across Walnut back to Main north on Main to Pecan Avenue, Pecan to Lake Street and back to Lake Park.

This year the parade has been shifted north, starting at Lake Park and heading north on Main to Mansion Avenue, east on Mansion to Lake Street, and south on Lake back to Lake Park.

Hammerquist said today he will extend the parade about another half mile to ease the complaints. Instead of halting it at Lake Park, he may have it continue south on Lake Street to 5th Street, west on 5th to Main, and north again on Main back up to Lake Park.

The extension would not take it as far south as it was before but the route would dip into the downtown area where seniors could walk to it.

Hammerquist said another major reason for the route change is a promise from KOCE-TV, Channel 50, to televise the parade at 7 p.m., July 4th. Television crews didn't think they could do it downtown, he said.

The 70th annual Huntington Beach Fourth of July Parade has also been declared the official county parade this year by Orange County supervisors.

Hammerquist said he expects more than 250,000 spectators at this year's event. The parade starts at 10 a.m. and should last about two hours.

JOIN THE ESTABLISHMENT!

There is a definite advantage in doing business with an ESTABLISHED local firm.

We are interested in doing business with ESTABLISHED mills, which we have determined after decades of doing business. There is no way, unfortunately, to tell how a mill will back its products until there is a problem! Carpet stores interested ONLY in price have no one to back them, and consequently walk away from complaints.

A few times through the years, we have had to stand the cost of replacement when a mill wouldn't. This will only happen once to us, and then the samples are in our trash can.

What this means to our customers is that the lines we carry are from reputable mills, and that they can buy with confidence from Alden's.

End of an Era

Last Singing Telegram Sent

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The nation's last singing telegram was sung to a young woman at the Brass Rail Pizza Parlor in Oakland.

California was the last state to authorize Western Union to discontinue the 76-year-old service, but the song was sung at 11 p.m. Monday at Reno, because this Nevada city is the firm's Western headquarters.

James Carskaddon, supervisor, noted that the final song was a birthday greeting and carried the traditional words, "Happy birthday to you, Happy birthday to you . . ."

Just who placed the last call and the name of the young woman who got it were not made public. But whoever they were, they ended an era.

Israeli Troops Capture 2 Terrorists, Weapons

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Security forces captured two young Arab terrorists on a death mission into Israel and seized a cache of hand grenades and Kalashnikov submachine guns hidden near the Lebanese border, the police reported today.

"We were ordered to kill," the police said the 19-year-olds told them.

They said they were ordered to murder people at random in Haifa, Israel's chief port.

The Israeli miiltary command said the terrorists were Israeli citizens who left their village near Acre, in northern Galilee, a year ago to join the Fatah guerrillas. The youths slipped across the Lebanese border before Monday, the command reported, but it said three other gunmen with them abandoned the mission and escaped back into Lebanon.

The teen-agers ate a meal in a restaurant about a mile from the heavily guarded border, hailed a taxi, asked the fare to a nearby village and offered to overpay the driver by $2.50. The driver — an Arab — became suspicious, drove the pair to a security roadblock and winked frantically to tip off the police.

The command said security troops have killed nine terrorists and captured five in the three weeks since frontier patrols were strengthened after terrorists killed 22 children in the Maalot schoolhouse.

The police also reported that somebody sent a booby-trapped package to Israel's chief rabbi, Shlomo Goren, and explosives were planted under the car of the high priest of the Samaritans.

Both attempts were discovered and the explosives defused.

The police said the rabbi's wife became suspicious Monday while opening a bulky envelope. Sappers found it contained an explosive charge with a note saying the religious leader would be "gathered unto his fathers."

Goren frequently has been threatened with violence by Jewish fanatics who charge he is too moderate in ritual matters.

Twenty-four hours before the package bomb was discovered, arsonists poured oil over benches in the Tel Aviv synagogue where he prays and set them ablaze. The fire caused little damage.

In the Israeli-occupied Jordanian town of Nablus, army experts defused a bomb left beneath the car of Amram Ben-Yitzhak, religious leader of the tiny Samaritan community, an ancient sect with a religion similar to Judaism. The car was parked at the foot of Mt. Gerizim, a hill the Samaritans regard as sacred.

Some Arabs have been campaigning against the priest for trying to form a Jewish religious community in Nablus.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Curtis D. Crews had been hearing about the penny shortage, so they decided to help.

They walked into a branch of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, and asked for Banker Dennis J. Easter.

"They said they had a few pennies out in the car," Easter said. "But when they opened the trunk I couldn't believe it. I almost ran and hid."

What Easter saw was 68,435 pennies.

Mesa Candidate For Sheriff Due Marijuana Trial

Jerry L. Lawrence of Costa Mesa, a candidate for Orange County sheriff, says he expects to be in a runoff election next November with Brad Gates, a sheriff's lieutenant who is also seeking the job.

But Lawrence, who lists himself on today's ballot as an herb dealer, could be behind bars instead.

The 32-year-old Lawrence is facing trial in Orange County Superior Court next Monday on charges of possessing marijuana. Police allege they confiscated about 16 pounds of marijuana at his Costa Mesa home when they arrested him Jan. 2.

Lawrence says he has had other encounters with the law and because of that claims he is unusually qualified for election as county sheriff. He says he is an expert on jails.

Magruder Ties Nixon To Trick

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, who went to prison today for his part in the Watergate scandal, says he was told that President Nixon approved at least one campaign dirty trick in 1972 — a phony write-in campaign for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in the New Hampshire Democratic primary.

Magruder recounts the incident in his book, "An American Life — One Man's Road to Watergate," scheduled for publication June 26.

Magruder pleaded guilty last August to one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States. He was sentenced May 21 to serve 10 months to four years in prison.

Although most of the first-person account retraces with some new detail the Watergate events spelled out in his dramatic Senate testimony last summer, Magruder discloses a few new incidents.

He said the write-in was conceived by former special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson "to create confusion among the Democrats" and "sow ill will between Kennedy and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie," who was considered the front-runner in the Democratic presidential race.

Magruder, deputy director of President Nixon's re-election campaign, said he opposed the multi-thousand dollar plan because "it seemed like a large outlay for a dubious result.

"Then, one day in February, I was in the White House and encountered Colson just outside the President's office," Magruder wrote. "We've got to get that mailing going," he told me. 'I've just come from talking to the President, and he thinks it's crucial'."

Magruder said he checked with White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, "who told me that what Colson said was true, the President did want the pro-Kennedy mailing in New Hampshire."

A Democratic friend of a Colson aide was recruited to head a "draft-Kennedy movement—which Kennedy immediately repudiated," Magruder said.

Ridership Gains On County Buses, But So Do Costs

Nearly 50,000 more people rode Orange County Transit District buses in April than the month before but operating costs moved even faster, district General Manager G.J. "Pete" Fielding said Monday.

A total of 419,274 riders were reported on the district's fleet during April and that total is expected to rise even higher for the month of May, when 63 new buses began their runs.

The ridership figure for April represents a 13.1 percent increase over March.

UCI's Aldrich to Chair Food Production Studies

By GEORGE LEIDAL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

UC Irvine Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. said today he is chairing a National Science Foundation backed effort to recommend policies for the U.S. role in world food production.

Dr. Aldrich who participated in a similar study in 1967, has been asked to provide copies of preliminary findings by June 15 to U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The UCI chancellor said today the U.S., Canada and Australia are to world food production what the Arab nations are to oil production.

Dr. Kissinger is said to be interested in findings of the study for use in diplomatic solutions to international shortages of food.

"The ability of a nation to feed its people is is a potent political force," Aldrich said.

To date, the committee involving internationally known scholars with interests in agriculture, has met only once.

Aldrich will chair the mid-July final conference set for Woods Hole, Mass. A final report is due to be adopted at that session.

Aldrich said participants generally fall into two categories. They are:

— Those who favor conversion of U.S. production and eating habits to reduce the amounts of grains devoted to meat production.

— And those who support, as Aldrich said he does, continued full production of U.S. Agricultural resources as a hedge against future shortages and a source of world supplies while developing nations advance their farming skills and food production systems.

Nixons Take Cruise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon took Mrs. Nixon and their daughter and son-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower, for a dinner cruise on the Potomac. The yacht, the Sequoia, reportedly cruised south of the capital Monday night.

18 Seeking Democratic Nomination

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California voters had their say today in nominating potential successors to Gov. Ronald Reagan. Early balloting was relatively light.

They also faced a controversial "political reform" ballot initiative which traced back to public reaction against Watergate. Supporters view it as a prototype for the nation.

Sponsored chiefly by Common Cause and Los Angeles-based People's Lobby, the measure, among other things, would put a ceiling on campaign expenditures, limit lobbyist spending to $10 a month per person, demand full identification of contributors who donated $50 or more to a candidate, forbid contributions by lobbyists, and create a $1 million commission to enforce the changes.

A jam-packed field of 18 Democrats sought the party's nomination for governor including Edmund G. Brown Jr., 36, son of former Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown, whom Reagan buried in a 1966 landslide.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, indicted by a Watergate grand jury for alleged perjury, was in the toughest battle of his political life on the Republican side against state Controller Houston Flouroy a political moderate.

Brown, California Secretary of State, predicted a 62.5 percent turnout, a record for a gubernatorial primary. Election officials in the most populous counties forecast an average 60 percent turnout. Registered voters total 9.49 million.

Brown, who has long held a substantial lead in public opinion polls, was challenged by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, millionaire businessman William Matson Roth and liberal Rep. Jerome Waldie in a contest that failed to spark great voter intersest.

Reinecke, appointed by Reagan in 1969 as his heir apparent, held a strong lead over Flournoy in the polls prior to his indictment in April. He pleaded innocent to three counts of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee regarding his knowledge of an offer by International Telephone and Telepgraph to help finance the 1972 GOP national convention then scheduled for San Diego.

Flournoy surged ahead in the polls after Reinecke's indictment.

Democratic U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston faced token opposition and was virtually guaranteed renomination. But Republicans were tied up in a scrap for the Senate nomination.

The contest pitted conservative State Sen. H.L. "Bill" Richardson of Arcadia, a former John Birch Society member, against Earl Brian, a Vietnam war combat hero and former Reagan administration official. Other candidates included Thomas Malatesta, a nephew of Bob Hope, and James E. Johnson of Orange County, who served in both the Reagan and Nixon administrations.

Candidates Lash Pamphlet

Supporters of Brown Charged With Illegal Mailing

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A group of Democratic candidates leveled an eleventh hour protest Monday against the Orange County leadership of their party for sponsoring the mailing of an unofficial endorsement pamphlet mailed to the county's 300,000 Democrats.

"We are protesting the intentional deception of 300,000 Orange County voters who were led to believe this was the official endorsement of the party," said Wylie Aitken, county campaign chairman for gubernatorial candidate Herb Hafif.

Hafif accused supporters of Edmund G. Brown Jr. of launching an illegal mailing of the "Orange County Democratic Voters Guide."

Brown denied any participation in the mailing. A spokesman for the Secretary of State said, "We had nothing to do with it. None of our money was involved in it."

Hafif also charged supporters of Assemblyman Kenneth Cory (D-Garden Grove) with participating in nad helping to finance the mailer.

Claude Young, a Democrat seeking the 72nd Assembly District seat, said he was sent a letter from former party chief John Dean saying it would cost $1,000 to put his name in the pamphlet.

Most of the pamphlets, which are similar in size and color to the official voters guide sent with ballots, were received last week by the voters. Disclaimers are printed in small type in several places noting it was not an official document of the party.

"I refused to pay and protested that this is the same type of deception from the same type of so-called Democratic leaders in Orange County that we have had in the past," Young said. "This type of thing is not going to be tolerated anymore."

According to disclosure documents filed by the "Democratic Voters Guide" committee, the pamphlet cost at least $34,471 to print and mail.

The document shows much of the money was pledged by current Democratic chairman Richard O'Neill and political leader Dr. Louis Cella, a wayward Republican who backs mostly Democrats.

They each loaned the effort $5,000. Another $1,700 was pledged by Bill Butcher of Campaign Communications, Inc., one of the firms responsible for sending out thousands of computer-printed letters for various candidates.

Much of the balance came from the people whose names, photos and biographies appear in the booklets.

The endorsed candidates include Assessor Jack Vallerga, Supervisor Ronald Caspers, and Sheriff's candidate Bradley Gates — all Republicans running for non-partisan jobs.

It also includes Democrats such as Cory, Alan Cranston, Ralph Clark, Robert Battin, Richard Robinson and Edmund G. Brown Jr., to name a few.

According to the protesting candidates, each district got its own booklet with a list inside the front cover marking off which candidates were "endorsed."

Sueanne Currie Lewis, lone Democrat opposing incumbent Assemblyman Robert Badham (R-Newport Beach), said she was asked to pay and couldn't. When her name was not included, she called to ask why .

"I was then told by Dr. Cella it was an accident because since I was unopposed, I didn't have to pay at all," she said.

Albert Nasser, another Democratic candidate in the 72nd Assembly District, said the pamphlet was "unwise, misguided and uncalled for and I'm sorry Democrats were behind it."

Also protesting the pamphlet were representatives of San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, a candidate for governor, Fifth District Supervisorial Candidate Jim Thorpe and Sheriff's candidates Marshall Norris and George Savord.

Several other local candidates also joined in the protest.

The protesters claim some of those "endorsed" probably never paid for it but were instead chosen arbitrarily by the people publishing the pamphlet.

They also protested inclusion of a mailing envelope for donations to the party. The envelope was addressed to Democratic headquarters, which also happens to be the campaign headquarters of Cory, who is running for controller.

The group said their protests would be sent to Secretary of State Brown, candidate for governor endorsed in the pamphlet.

"I doubt he'll do anything even though he is the state's top election officer and charged with pursuing such flagrant deceptions," Aitken said.

House Panelists Accepted Milk Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 16 members of the House Judiciary Committee accepted political donations ranging from $100 to $11,000 from the same three dairy farmer cooperatives the panel is investigating as part of its impeachment probe.

Two members, Democrat Charles B. Rangel of New York and Republican Thomas F. Railsback of Illinois, decided to return the money after being questioned about it by The Associated Press.

RANGEL GOT $100 from Associated Milk Producers, Inc. last March, and sent it back Monday with a letter saying it would be improper for him to accept it.

An aide to Railsback said he would give back $500 that he received from the same group in 1972 "because he wants to be free of any conflict of interest."

The others including committee chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. who got $4,100 said they sa wno conflict.

The biggest recorded donation went to Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, a first-term Democrat from Iowa, who got $11,000.

According to public records going back to April 7, 1972, these committee members were given money by one or more of the co-ops, Associated Milk Producers, Inc. Dairymen, Inc. and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc:

M. CALDWELL Butler (R-Va.), $1,000; William S. Cohen (R-Maine), $3,000; John Conyers Jr. (D-Mich), $100; David W. Dennis (R-Ind.), $500; Walter Flowers (D-Ala.), $1,000; Harold V. Froehlich (R-Wis.), $100; William L. Hungate (D-Mo.), $2,300; Robert W. Kastenmeier (D-Wis.), $2,650; Trent Lott (R-Miss.), $2,500; Robert McClory (R-Ill.), $500; Mezvinsky, $11,000; Wayne Owens (D-Utah), $2,600; Railsback, $500; Rangel, $100; Rodino, $4,100 and Jerome R. Waldie (D-Calif.), $200.

Kastenmeier, Hungate and Flowers also were among sponsors of legislation to raise the federal support price for milk in 1971. The White House has cited this legislation, sponsored eventually by 121 House members, as a key reason President Nixon overruled the Agriculture Department and raised milk price supports in March 1971.

The Judiciary Committee is scheduled to begin, within a week or two, a formal inquiry into allegations that Nixon raised prices because of a promise of $2 million in political donations from the dairy cooperatives. The White House has said Nixon knew abuut the promise of money but wasn't influenced by it.

PUBLIC RECORDS show that members of the Judiciary Committee received a total of $32,650 after April 7, 1972. Records of congressional donations before that date are no longer available for public inspection.

The Battle Of the Ballot

FEARLESS FOLLIES DEPT.—Dawn broke glumpy along the Orange Coast today. The sky was a wet gray blanket that dripped some. It was fitting. For this is Election Day, 1974.

'Tis the first Tuesday in June, which rhymes with moon, spoon, croon and sometimes buffoon.

Oh, what a great time for a candidate to be running for office, here in the Year of the Watergate.

As usual, the predictors have all been predicting on how this election will come out. Discounting the partisan nominations which are on the separate ballots for the Demos and GOPs, we have some local races on today's ballot.

HERE IN ORANGE COUNTY, we will be electing three supervisors, a new sheriff, a county superintendent of schools, a district attorney and a whole gaggle of other lesser officeholders.

So the predictors are saying that the way things look, all the Ins will stay in and the Outs are still out.

We shall see. After all, this is the aforementioned Year of the Watergate. You can talk to some political pundits who offer you the sage advice that the odors which have wafted from Washington bode well for all Democrat candidates.

Other savants of the scene will insist that the Watergate thing will mean nothing in the election and the people will vote on qualifications of the candidates just as they always did.

Still others, however, suggest that Watergate syndrome won't split down party lines with the electorate. It will simply mean the voters will toss everybody who is in Out, regardless of party, creed or credence.

IF THAT SHOULD happen, there sure will be a lot of jitters developing in the offices of incumbents clear across the country as today's vote starts coming in. We shall see.

One of the main problems, of course, will be if and when that vote does come in.

You have to hope they will have an easier time counting the votes than folks had casting them. I voted early today in an effort to avoid the throngs. It was a good notion. I'd have hated having somebody standing behind me, waiting for me to get that ballot unfolded in the booth.

NOT ONLY THAT, but I had carefully marked up my sample ballot and carried it into the booth, too. So I tried to unfold both the real and the sample ballots in the booth at the same time.

It was like trying to be a paperhanger in an outhouse.

Well anyway, the polls are open until 8 o'clock tonight so if you haven't gone down for your yoga exercises in the cardboard voting booth, do it now.

You can anticipate that by 8:04 o'clock tonight, some radio or television station will come on the air with "projected winners" for certain of the election races.

I'M SURE YOU won't be humbugged by those early guess tallies.

If you voted, you know that the last people in the booth couldn't have even gotten their ballots folded back up by then.

Four-hour Drama

A New York police sharpshooter squeezed off one round Monday to kill a wild gunman who held a man and woman hostage for four hours in a Manhattan apartment. The motives of the gunman, identified as John D. Portee, were still not clear this morning. The hostages were Ruth Melnick and her boyfriend, John Van Danhouton. Portee's shots hit a passerby in the leg. The sharpshooter's shot was the only one fired by police.

Kidnap Suspect Seized

Wealthy Oil Executive Home Safe After Abduction

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — FBI agents said today they had arrested an oil field worker and charged him with the kidnaping of wealthy oil industry executive Walter Helmerich III, abducted Monday and held eight hours before he was released on payment of $700,000 ransom.

Helmerich, 51, father of five sons and husband of former screen actress Peggy Dow, was seized on his way to work, blindfolded, bound and kept on the rear floorboard of a car that zipped from one telephone booth to another as his abductor arranged for the ransom payment.

Freddie D. Smith of Tulsa, president of an oil field supply firm, was arrested at his home on a warrant charging him with violation of the Hobbs Act, a federal statute relating to extortion involving Interstate Commerce.

FBI DIRECTOR Clarence Kelley, in a statement released in Tulsa, said Smith was arrested following Helmerich's release at 5 p.m. Monday and payment of $700,000 ransom.

Helmerich is President of Helmerich and Payne, Inc., a Tulsa-based international drilling company. The firm also owns the Utica Square shopping center in Tulsa, where the bank which handled the ransom money is located.

"I was never afraid for my life," Helmerich said. "I put myself in the hands of the Lord and I was never afraid. It all seems kind of simple now."

Helmerich said he was never harmed nor threatened, and that he visited with the kidnaper about numerous subjects, primarily sports. He said the abductor often inquired whether the victim was comfortable, whether his tape bindings were too tight or if he could breathe freely.

"IT TOOK ME four or five seconds to peel the bandage off," Helmerich said. "I know it sounds silly, but I tried to cut the tape off my hands like in the movies and I couldn't so I flagged down a truck. The lady in it was scared to death, so I told her to just cut the tape and she could go. But her son cut it and they called my wife."

Mrs. Helmerich said the family prayed a lot for her husband's safe release.

"We're a praying family and this is a time when you have to really depend on the dear Lord's power," the former actress said, "because there's nothing else you can do."

Two other sons were away at camp and the fifth was in the hospital, recuperating from appendicitis.

After the money was paid, Helmerich was released on a secluded road near the small Tulsa suburb and the abductor drove away, FBI agents said.

Nixon's Mideast Flight Outlined

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will leave Monday for a five-nation swing through the Middle East, featuring stops in Egypt, Syria and Israel.

The trip, the White House said today, is aimed at strengthening the "mutual trust and confidence" developed between the United States and nations of the area over the past several months.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT said the trip would last until June 18. Just a week later, the President will be setting off on another major trip — his summit visit to Moscow, possibly tying in a trip to Japan before he returns home.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will accompany the President, the White House said.

The White House announced the itinerary after the dates were disclosed earlier in the Middle East. The first major stop will be Cairo where Nixon will meet for the first time with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Cairo sources gave a full rundown of Nixon's schedule this morning, including a two-day visit in Damascus, capital of Syria, the third stop on his tour. This disclosure came as Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said in Damascus that full diplomatic relations were being restored with Washington.

THE PRESIDENT, accompanied by his wife, plans to fly Monday directly to the quaint Austrian town of Salzburg, arriving there Monday night for a rest stop before proceeding to Egypt. The Cairo sources said Nixon would arrive there Wednesday morning.

It will be the first time Nixon has met Sadat, who became warm friends with Henry A. Kissinger during the Secretary of State's marathon peace missions this year, and is credited with being extremely helpful in getting other Arab countries to go along with Kissinger's efforts.

Two Cambodian School Officials Killed in Riots

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The Cambodian education minister and his top assistant were shot and killed today when government troops stormed a high school where students were holding them hostage in a protest demanding education reforms.

Police said earlier in the day the two men had been shot and stabbed by the students. But UPI newsman Tea Kim Heang, at the scene, said the two men were shot by military police when the students used the officials as human shields. Police did not confirm this version.

Prime Minister Long Boret's cabinet imposed a 6 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew on the capital after a week of anti-government student unrest flared into a bloody confrontation that turned a section of the capital into a riot-torn battlefield.

Military police said two students were killed, eight others wounded and 48 arrested in the melee and that one policeman was wounded.

IN SHORT...

● SLA Sign

McCORMICK, S.C. (UPI) — Authorities said Monday that a seven-headed cobra, the symbol of the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA), was sketched in the sand near the mutilated bodies of three soldiers found at the Clark Hill Reservoir.

State law enforcement chief J. P. Storm confirmed that his agents had informed him of finding the symbol. But Storm added authorities did not attach much significance to it.

● POW to Stay

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The pro-Communist Pathet Lao refused to release an American war prisoner today, deadline for the release of all prisoners of war under terms of the new coalition government in Laos.

The Pathet Lao, in a statement to newsmen, said Emmet Kay, a pilot for a commercial airline captured May 7, 1973, would not be released because the United States had refused to abide by the peace agreement in Laos.

● Mexico Kidnaping

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The governor of Guerrero today began removing police from an area near the resort of Acolpulco in an attempt to start negotiations for the release of a kidnaped federal senator.

Police disclosed Monday that Mexico's most wanted guerrilla leader, Lucio Cabanas, had kidnaped Sen. Ruben Figueroa and four companions who wanted to convince the guerrillas to end their warfare.

Letter Bomb Kills Judge In Chambers

PASCO, Wash. (UPI) — A mail bomb delivered to a county courthouse in southeastern Washington exploded in the chambers of Judge James Lawless Monday, killing the veteran jurist just seconds after a colleague left the room.

"I had probably just seen him 15 seconds before it went off," said Judge Al Yencopal. Yencopal said he had been a close friend of Lawless since the 50-year-old father of five was appointed to the Superior Court bench 16 years ago.

A HEAVY envelope-size package containing the fatal bomb was addressed to Lawless at the courthouse in Prosser in nearby Benton County. It was carried to Lawless' office in the Franklin County courthouse in Pasco by court reporter Maxine Hancock.

"He looked at it and said, 'What in the world is this?' I didn't stay. I just turned around and went back to my office."

About a minute later, she said, the explosion shook the building, which also housed the Pasco Police Department and the County Sheriff's office.

LAWLESS

"He must have opened it right away," she said of the package. "After the explosion I started toward his office, but Judge Yancopal looked in and said to me, 'Don't go in'."

MRS. HANCOCK said the package, seven inches long, three inches wide and two inches deep, had an Expo '74 sticker used at the Spokane, Wash., World's Fair, but she didn't notice any postmark, return address or stamps.

Agents from the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms sifted through the wreckage for evidence.

About a month ago, a dynamite explosion destroyed the car of Jerry Hood, a chief investigator for the Benton County Sheriff's Department. The car was empty at the time and parked near Hood's home.

Agnew to Repay U.S. $1,100 For Home Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spiro T. Agnew has quietly agreed to repay the government $1,100 for the $175,000 worth of improvements made to his home at public expense when he was vice president.

A congressman showed UPI a copy of the agreement signed April 12 by Agnew and disclosed that government officials are investigating whether Agnew should also rebate part of the reported $300,000 he made on the sale of the home.

"I think he's entitled to every dime that resulted from the inflated real estate market," Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), said.

"But the people are entitled to the part of the profit representing the government's investment in the property."

Agnew, who resigned last fall after pleading no contest to an income tax evasion charge, bought the suburban Bethesda, Md., home for $190,000 and sold it 15 months later — with most of the improvements intact — for a reported $300,000.

The agreement, made by arrangement with the General Services Administration and co-signed by GSA Chief Arthur W. Sampson, indicates Agnew repaid only $400 for carepting and $700 for air conditioning out of GSA-funded improvements totalling $175,569.19.

Over-regulation Feared

Bill Labeled a Threat

By BEA ANDERSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Cosmetic controls are necessary, but regulations should be set by the industry rather than government, claims John Street, president of a New York firm.

Street believes that the bill dealing with testing of cosmetics, proposed by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, might "over-regulate the industry out of business."

He contends that his firm, Germaine Monteil, and other ethical companies, test formulas before marketing them.

"We as an industry must be careful in what we say," Street said during an interview.

"We can't say a cream will be absorbed by the skin, and we can't say it will heal."

Both claims, he explained, classify the formula as a drug subject to regulation by the Food and Drug Administration — controls which he prefers to avoid.

However, he said, under the proposed law, cosmetics would be subject to FDA controls.

"If this happens," he warned, "all existing formulations will have to be tested," which he predicts will be very costly, and, of course, the increase would be passed on to the consumer.

Street estimated that it would cost about $250,000 per formula. "Our company alone has some 400 products."

Listing all ingredients on labels, he said, has cost the company $362,000. Although his firm complies with full disclosure, he said, "we don't always feel it is necessary."

Street explained that this regulation is similar to the truth in labeling law for food products, i.e. ingredients must be listed in the order of amount used. The biggest percentage heads the list.

"Then we get down to key ingredients."

The president wondered how consumers react when reading the labels.

Most formulas start with water, but consumers might not know that, he explained.

Wax, he said, is the key ingredient of lipstick. "We are coming out with a new one that will have more than 50 ingredients in it," Street said, and then wondered how they could list all of them on a tube.

But his prime concern is over the possibility of FDA testing and reiterated his company already conducts its own Results, he said, are available by writing to the company.

When asked if formulas of most brands aren't basically the same, he said, "You are semi-correct,"

The major ingredients usually are the same, he explained. It's the other ingredients and amounts that vary.

John S. Street, president of a cosmetics firm, fears government regulation.

Excuses Too Weak

By ERIA BOMBECK
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There are families who take vacations with their childern.

There are families who prefer to stay at home with their children. The sniveling cowards!

Sure, it's easy to spend time with your kids when you have a stove to cook on. . .a washing machine that doesn't eat quarters. . .and a freezer you can run to for a gin popsicle any time you want.

But out there on the road. . .in a leaky tent, a sandy bed and mildewed marshmallows . . . it's a jungle.

Our neighbors, Wanda and Duward, have never taken a vacation in their lives. When their children were infants, do you know what her excuse was for not traveling? "What fun would it be for me to wash diapers in a saucepan and sit in a mosquito-infested cabin while my husband fished?" So, who promised her a rose garden?

When their children were toddlers, she again stayed home saying, "All our children can do now is fall in a lake, upset a boat, or drool chocolate all over their clothes." So what are kids for?

When their kids were 9 and 11, she informed me they were staying home because other parents told them all their children cared about was putting quarters in a magic fingers vibrating bed.

But there were other chances for them to be one of the gang.

One year they rejected a vacation because their daughter had a boyfriend who threatened to turn to crime if she left him. Another year, their son had a job and they would have had to plan their vacation between 9 p.m. Sunday and 4:30 p.m. Monday.

It's hard to love people like Wanda and Duward. . .people who are practical, sensible and perceptive. I had just about given up on our having any kind of a relationship when she informed me this year she and Duward were going on a vacation. . .without the children.

"I think they're old enough to be trusted and mature enough to be left at home alone," she said. "I have a freezer full of food for them, notes all over the refrigerator, and emergency numbers in case they need us."

Last night, Wanda and Duward arrived home. There were 123 lights burning. The dog was on the roof. Stereos were blazing. Her china service for 12 was soaking in the sink. Their son was wearing the same clothes as when they left. There were car tracks on the front porch. There were phone messages from 18 neighbors . . .some of them as far as 50 miles away.

Poor Wanda and Duward. A couple of summer vacations would have conditioned them for this.

Solution's Not Perfect

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a fool to write this letter. You'll never print it. Everyone knows you are in the hip pocket of the physicians and psychiatrists, but here goes anyway.

My particular subject is "Psychiatric Help." It's nothing but a jungle of quacks, incompetents and counselors who are crazier than their patients. Under the guidance of two therapists, I experienced two divorces and have seen my daughter turn so trashy and foul-mouthed that when she left home, I was relieved.

According to my first psychiatrist I needed treatment for "a childish need to be dependent." The symptom: My husband spent (by actual count) 67 hours a week at home, including sleeping. The rest of the time he was out carousing around.

My therapist told me I exhibited a pathological dependence by bothering my husband with such details as, "Should we have the children's tonsils removed?"

I was informed that I was creating a feeling of "mistrust" in my daughter (age 13) because I told her I was appalled by her sneaking out of the house after the family had gone to bed and wouldn't stand for it.

After several months of therapy (at $40 and $50 an hour) I was made to feel that my judgment was faulty and that I had created most of my own problems because of some "inadequacy in my personality."

When I asked my therapist, after four years, "How long will I have to be in treatment?" he replied, "How long did it take you to get sick?" I wondered if that meant that because I was 44 I could look forward to another 44 years of treatment.

I am not trying to make it appear there is nothing wrong with me. There is plenty wrong, which is why I got into this whole psychotherapy mess in the first place.

The point is that finding a therapist with competence, compassion and common sense is so chancey that a person is probably just as well off to talk to himself — and it would be a lot cheaper. Sign me — CRAZY AS EVER BUT A LOT SMARTER.

DEAR SMARTER: Psychiatry has done beautifully for some, very little for others, and has been downright destructive for those who fell into the wrong hands. Of course there are some nutty psychiatrists. In fact, some of them selected the field in search of solutions to their own problems.

Your mistake was staying too long with therapists who weren't helping. Don't damn the entire profession because you drew a couple of losers. For many patients, therapy has been a life-saving experience, and I've received hundreds of letters to prove it.

Topics Varied

Speakers on Calendar

Women

While attempting to obtain credit, women who are married, single or divorced face the same barrier — their sex, says Nancy Polikoff of the center for women's policy studies.

Ms. Polikoff will discuss the Credit-ability Gap during the next in a television series, entitled Women, to be aired at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, June 6, on Channel 50.

FSA

Cocktails, a buffet supper and music by the Zanotti Trio will comprise the La Fiesta para la Reunion de la Familia evening planned by the Orange County Family Service Association.

Exquisite jewels are created by Irvine resident Marjorie Sawyer. She uses cloisonne, a 10th century technique.

Cloisonne Captures Life

By JO OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

From large bowls to miniature pendants, Marjorie Sawyer's work has gotten smaller and smaller, but her focus on life has become larger and larger.

The Irvine enamelist and silversmith has turned her attention from traditional enameled copper bowls and ash trays to museum-quality miniature art works which are so finely executed they may some day earn her an international reputation.

Her creativity is expressed through cloisonne, an art form dating back to the Byzantine Empire.

Delicate silver or gold wires form the basis for her designs, and layers and layers of transparent enamel add the color between the wire outlines.

Using skills she acquired only months ago, she fabricates all parts of the silver rings and pendants she makes before applying the cloisonne techniques and firing them in her three-inch kiln.

CANDY BOX

Each piece is so painstakingly put together and so delicate that Mrs. Sawyer considers each one a special "baby." She knows who has each piece and would rather keep her art works in a candy box than see them go to an uncaring owner.

She also makes lighthearted plain silver pendants, which have caught the attention of customers at Sassoon's Beverly Hills salon where her daughter Kathi, a Phi Beta Kappa UCLA graduate, is a model.

To perfect her craft, Mrs. Sawyer is studying with Carol Wilcox, a Rancho Santa Fe jeweler who works in Del Mar and who is one of eight recognized cloisonne workmasters in the United States.

Though her talent is noteworthy, Mrs. Sawyer's odyssey into the world of art and fine jewels is more remarkable.

"I was a housewife and raised my children," she said. "I needed something to do creatively. So I signed up for a class in Sierra Madre (near their home) and started enameling when the rest of the housework was done."

GAVE LESSONS

After doing bowls and trays, she started doing a little cloisonne, then started teaching a class at the Creative Arts Group where she was taking lessons.

She did this on and off for 12 years, stopping to work part-time for a while. Then, her daughters went to college (Pam will transfer to UCI as an art major in the fall) and the Sawyers moved to an apartment in Irvine.

Then Marjorie Sawyer asked herself, "Now what?

"I had a great big black hole," She said. "Then it hit me—this is it." So, she became a full-time jeweler, setting up a tiny studio in Pam's bedroom.

She has "dabbled" in stained glass production and taken color and design classes, but the cloisonne jewels put it all together.

Mrs. Sawyer graduated from the State University of New York at New Paltz as a teacher, but never worked.

"I moved from one soft little nest to another," she said.

WOMAN'S SYNDROME

After her daughters went to college, she admitted she was "caught in the woman's syndrome." What could I do that's of value? she asked herself.

Her jewelry teacher in Orange encouraged her in putting her talents in enameling and silversmithing together, and it is here she meets her challenge.

Though she spends long hours alone doing tedious work, she finds it stimulating.

"I love the variety," she said. "I do very different things and bring them together in one place. I never get bored. I'm always trying a new process.

"My focus of attention is getting smaller. Zeroing in to small jewels almost becomes meditative."

Mrs. Sawyer would not care to show her work in a traditional jewelry store because she believes it simply would be lost in such a setting.

"My things are limited. They take a tremendous amount of energy — emotional energy as well. I don't want to pursue an outlet now. A gallery would be a more suitable display place," she said.

Ideally, she would like to have a small workshop with pots and plants for sale so people could come in to watch her at work. This, Mrs. Sawyer explained, would keep her in touch with the outside world.

Where will her work take her? She does not know, but she is "constantly amazed" at how her life fits together. She said she has always been in the right place at the right time.

She will continue to experiment with shapes beyond her round and square pendants, and with the addition of pearls.

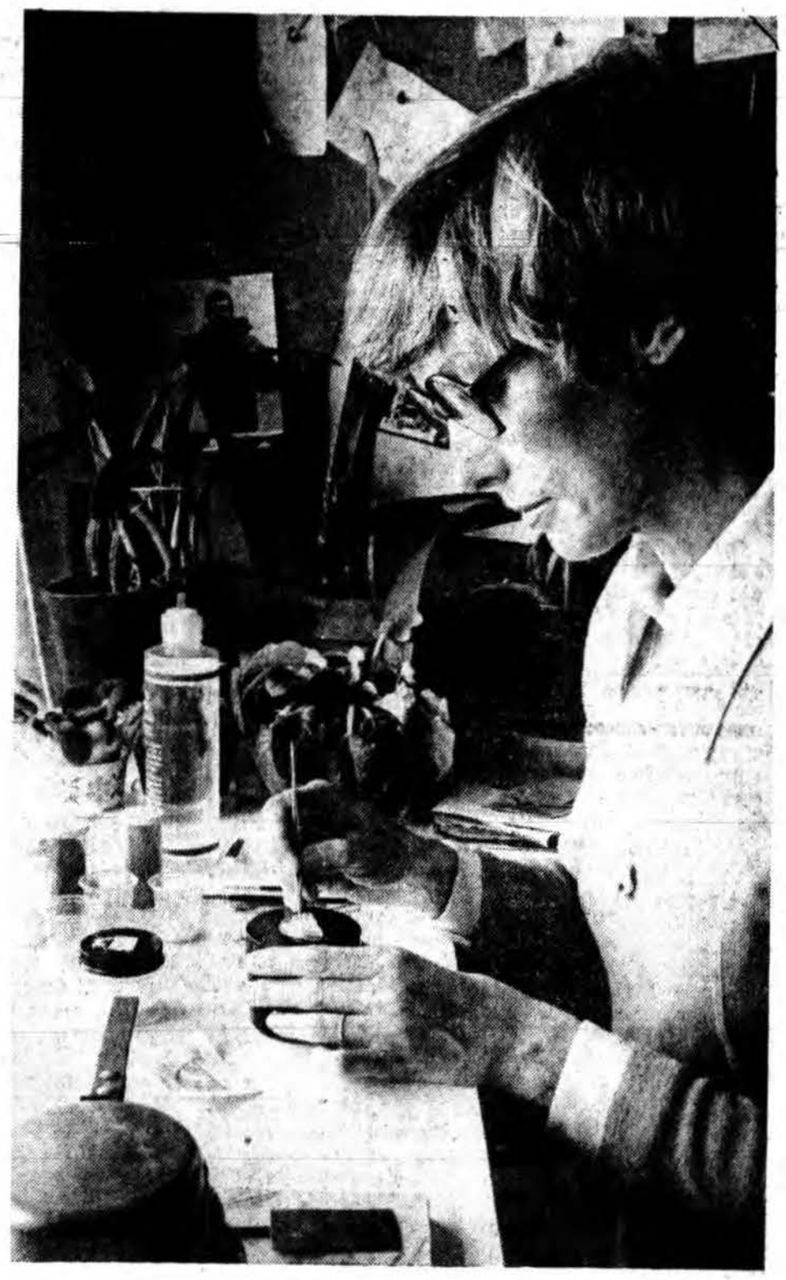
Mrs. Sawyer would like to study with other noted artists in cloisonne both in the United States and abroad, but admits this is a dream.

She has done some work on military paraphernalia and finds there is a need for restoration of old military medals, an avenue she may pursue further in the future.

But for now she still has some motherly duties to perform and responsibilities in caring for her apartment. She teaches several times a month and visits art museums and craft fairs as often as possible, so she finds her life "pretty full" at the moment.

A recent issue of Craft magazine featured, ironically, an exhibit of enamels at New Paltz, Mrs. Sawyer's alma mater.

"I was there 25 years too soon," she said.



Working with tiny tools, Marjorie uses silver wire as the basis for her designs. Enamel is carefully put in and the jewel is fired up to 12 different times.

Bridge Panel Hands 'Hot Potato' to Council

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Newport Beach Bay Crossing Planning Committee recommended Monday that a new six-lane bridge be built over Newport Bay but sidestepped the controversial issue of how high the bridge should be.

In preparing its recommendations for City Council review next Monday, the committee also said that plans for an interchange at either end of the bridge will have to be dropped.

The report drawn up by the committee lists the arguments for a high (about 32 feet) and a low (about 17 feet) Coast Highway bridge without recommending either alternative.

"We'll hand that hot potato to the council," said committee member Marshall Duffield.

The two council members present at Monday's meeting, Lucille Kuehn and John Store, did not comment on the committee's abdication on the height issue.

The committee did make recommendations on other aspects of the bridge and the intersections involved.

One recommendation is that the new bridge have six traffic lanes, three in each direction, and at least one free right-turn lane from Coast Highway onto Dover Drive.

Separate bicycle and pedestrian lanes also are suggested.

In addition, the committee reports that an interchange at the Dover Drive intersection at the west end of the bridge is not feasible because of cost and safety factors.

Originally, a flyover or left-turn overpass from Dover Drive intersecting with the bridge at its peak was being considered.

The idea was abandoned at an earlier meeting however, when Wally Knudson of the California Department of Transportation (CALTRANS) said his engineers had concluded that the distance is too short to permit the construction of a safe flyover.

A separated structure, in which bridge elevation would begin at some point west of Dover Drive and pass over the intersection, also was eliminated.

One reason, according to the committee's report, is that cars entering the highway from ramps would not have a safe distance in which to change lanes to make turns at the Bayside Drive intersection.

In addition, an interchange would cost about $2.5 million and would result in substantial delay in building the bridge because of the difficulty of obtaining additional funding, Knudson said.

The report recommends instead that improvements in the intersections be made at grade level.

Big Canyon Veto

Caspers Likens Newport to Nero

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An 83-unit Big Canyon condominium project was denied Monday by the regional coastal commission after one member likened the city of Newport Beach to a modern-day Nero.

The townhouses were planned on Irvine Company land at Jamboree and Ford Roads in Newport Beach by Robert McLain.

The 7.1-acre project with a density of 8.3 units per acre is one of three tracts in Big Canyon remaining unbuilt, according to planners of the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission. They recommended approval.

The project failed on a 6 to 3 vote, with seven votes required for approval.

Commissioner Ronald Caspers, an Orange County supervisor and a Newport Beach resident, led the dissent.

His objections centered on traffic congestion along Pacific Coast Highway at the Upper Newport Bay bridge.

"While Newport Beach city government and residents fiddle," Caspers charged, "the area is burning."

City officials are still discussing whether they want to build a new 32-foot high bridge or a new 17-foot low bridge over the Back Bay crossing.

A citizens committee Monday night said the issue is too political to decide.

Panel Okays Berkshire's Remodeling

The Elks and developer Donald Koll locked horns Monday at the regional coastal commission over his permit request to remodel Berkshire's restaurant in Newport Beach.

Koll emerged the unanimous victor with a 10 to 0 vote in favor of the $150,000 renovation at 3450 Via Oporto.

The South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission agreed to the permit after Koll said he planned to take down the large "Berkshire's" sign which overlooked Newport Harbor.

The Elks Club, represented by attorney Stanley Gould, objected to the project partly on the grounds of the traffic and parking congestion created by the entire Lido Village redevelopment.

The Elks Club has been negotiating with Koll to lease 38 off-site parking spaces the city says the club facilities require. The negotiations have fallen through.

Gould asked the commission to leave the restaurant the way it is and to delay a vote two weeks so he could get more people to sign protests against the plans.

Tim Strader, representing Koll, said the restaurant will seat 277 people during the day and 400 after 6 p.m.

He said Koll's 367-space parking structure will handle the restaurant and other developments in the area.

"I'd almost vote for this just to get rid of that old sign," Commissioner Ronald Caspers said. He lives on Lido Isle.

Commission planners, who recommended approval of the project, called its location at the harbor turning basin "the first and most important public view entering or leaving the peninsula."

Mediation Monday

Newport, Police Declare Formal Wage Impasse

By L. PETER KRIEG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Newport Beach police and the city administration have declared a formal impasse in their negotiations for a new contract, it was learned today.

Police initially had asked for an 18 percent pay hike for 1974-75. Both sides declined to disclose what police are now asking—or what the city is offering—but it was learned they are about three and one half percent apart.

A representative of the California State Conciliation Service will attempt to mediate the impasse at a a meeting Monday.

Both sides reportedly also are at odds over fringe benefits, including the amount of money the city pumps into the Police Scholastic Achievement Program.

The city spent about $30,000 this year for bonuses to police who advanced their education.

The police contract is the only one remaining to be settled.

The administration last month settled with the Newport Beach City Employes Association, which represents clerical and blue collar workers as well as planners and engineers, for a six percent raise July 1 and a three percent hike Jan. 1.

The Fire Association has agreed to terms but they have not been disclosed.

Newport Beach lifeguards still have another year of a two-year contract which provided six percent hikes each year.

Teachers in the Newport-Mesa Unified School District will be receiving 9 percent wage hikes July 1.

Frank Ivens, administrative assistant to city manager Robert L. Wynn, said he is hopeful that a settlement with the police can be reached by the time councilmen adopt the new budget June 30.

Lt. Gary Peterson, negotiator for the Police Association, would not comment on prospects other than to assert the police will not consider a work slowdown or walkout as a negotiating weapons.

"All we are trying to do is get a fair wage. We do not feel the city is offering us an honest cost of living increase," Peterson said.

Peterson said if the mediation is not successful, the last alternative it to take the dispute to the city council.

"The council has the final say," Peterson explained, "There is not even a way for an arbitrator or a court to dictate to them."

Early Newport Voting Today Appears Light

Newport Beach voters were going to the polls in typically light numbers early today to pick candidates for a host of statewide and county offices.

A spot check of polling places throughout the city showed that slightly more than 10 percent of the registered voters had cast their ballots in today's primary election by 11:30 a.m.

Poll workers at Newport Elementary School said they had been deluged with complaints by voters in the Balboa area who said they had not received their sample ballots.

There, only 34 of the 336 registered voters had been to the polls by late morning.

Voting was a little heavier in Corona del Mar. Sixty of 459 eligible voters had cast ballots at Corona del Mar Elementary school at Carnation Avenue.

In the Newport Heights area, the turnout climbed to about 15 percnt.

At Newport Harbor High School, 66 of 487 registered voters had cast ballots while at Horace Ensign Middle School, 69 of 357 eligible had been to the polls.

White House Reprisals List Told by Montoya

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya (D-N.M.), made public today confidential White House memoranda that he said document a campaign to reward friends and punish enemies in the awarding of federal grants.

Montoya said he was particularly concerned that Spanish-speaking minorities were taken advantage of by the White House during the 1972 presidential election campaign.

"Much of the conduct appears violative of civil and criminal law," Montoya said during a hearing before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee he heads.

The subcommittee is considering a 1975 budget request from the Office of Management and Budget.

Montoya named Fred Malek, former key White House staff member and a former deputy director of the Nixon re-election campaign, as playing a major role in the alleged effort to influence awarding of government grants.

Malek, 37, is deputy director of the OMB. He said he was shocked that Montoya would choose to raise the issue that he said had previously been discussed in executive session of the Senate Watergate Committee. Montoya also is a member of that committee.

Meanwhile, White House lawyer James St. Clair said today he would welcome

Guadalupe Yacht Racers Reported In Home Stretch

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Editor

The 11 boats in Balboa Yacht Club's 600-mile Guadalupe Island race were headed home today with prospects of an early finish Wednesday.

The lead boat is the Newport-41 sloop Swift, co-skippered by Gayle Post and Jack Mallinckrodt, last year's first to finish.

Some 12 miles behind Swift was Dakar, another Newport-41 skippered by William Goodley of Del Rey Yacht Club.

The fleet reported sailing in westerly winds of seven to eight knots which were lighter than they were during the night. Most of the boats reported the usual lee around Guadolupe Island.

Boats in the race with distances to go to the finish:

Orange Coast Weather

There may be a patch of blue in that overcast sky Wednesday, according to the weather service — and warmer temperatures, too. Sunny skies are forecast Wednesday afternoon with highs at the beaches in the upper 60s rising to the mid-70s inland.

Candy Prices on Way Up

CHICAGO (AP) — Penny candy apparently is going the way of copper pennies, out.

Higher prices are the reason.

Peter F. Norton, a of board of the National Confectioners Association, predicted in an interview Monday that penny candies will soon be a thing of the past.

And Morton also said the 15-cent candy bar is fast becoming the 20-cent candy bar or a smaller 15-cent bar.

Norton, executive vice president of Ludens, Inc., Reading, Pa., manufacturer of candy as well as cough drops, is in Chicago for the association's annual convention and exposition.

He said the price of candy has been slow to rise in relation to the price of a cup of coffee or a soft drink but that lately the cost of candy ingredients has increased sharply, forcing the price of candy up.

He said sugar, for example, has gone up 250 percent since January and that in two years the price of cocoa beans has increased from 21 cents to $1.10 a pound.

Production costs — electricity, transportation, labor and the like — also have risen sharply, Norton said.

A candy bar that sold for 10 cents a year ago now has to bring 20 cents because of these higher costs, he said. There will be 15-cent bars, but they won't be as large as the 10-cent bars were, he added.

Norton said that if penny candy were made smaller it would be too small to sell, so the price will probably be two cents a candy kiss.

The Commerce Department Monday noted that Americans spent 8.3 percent more on candy during 1973 than the year before but said per-capita consumption declined for the fifth consecutive year — to 18.7 pounds from 20.3 pounds in 1968.

Norton said, however, that he doesn't think consumption will continue to go down but will level off after consumers become accustomed to higher prices.

Candy is not a luxury, but "one of the cheapest and quickest foods available from the point of view of supplying nourishment and energy," he said.

Economic Policy Rejection Shown

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's economic policies have received their biggest rejection in a Louis Harris Poll since Nixon came to the White House.

Eighty-two percent of the respondents in 1,555 houseolds across the nation did not approve of Nixon's handling of the economy, Harris said Monday.

Fifteen percent of those queried in early May approved and the remaining 3 percent were unsure.

Subversives List Killed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today abolished the attorney general's list of subversive organizations — which was started 27 years ago — and issued orders forbidding government agencies to use copies of the list in the future.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe announced the presidential order, saying Nixon acted on his recommendation. Saxbe's recommendation was based, in turn, on a study initiated last year by then Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson.

President Harry S Truman in 1947 directed the Justice Department to compile a list of organizations that he considered subversive and through later years the number of entries had grown to about 300.

'Mother B' Blaich Rites Wednesday

Life's volume has closed for Miriam Cora "Mother B" Blaich, a Balboa Peninsula pioneer who became a librarian in 1909 and never lost her love for books, words and literature.

She was 88 and died Sunday after being stricken in her cottage at 1319 E. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach.

The little home purchased in 1927 as a summer retreat was within walking distance of the Balboa Library branch.

"She used to come in quite a bit and we would always pick her up for Friends of the Library meetings," says Referenece Librarian Sue Clark.

Mother B loved both secular and religious books.

She was not only a faithful member of the Friends of the Library, but served as a deaconess in the Plymouth Congregational Church of Whittier.

The active octogenarian also maintained membership in the Newport Harbor and Whittier historical societies and the American Association of University Women's Whittier chapter.

She obtained her Bachelor of Arts degree in Library Science in 1909 at the University of Nebraska and worked with friends of the Library in Whittier as well as Newport Beach.

A Whittier resident since 1916, Mrs. Blaich spent summers in Balboa since 1927 and in her old age became a semi-permanent peninsula resident.

Friends — many of them decades younger — often remarked on Mother B's continuing interest in life and the freshness of her outlook on the world.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at 3:45 p.m. at Hillside Chapel of Rose Hills Memorial Park in Whittier, with Plymouth Congregational Church pastor Rev. Homer Schwartz officiating.

Survivors include a son, John A. Blaich, of Newport Beach, a great-aunt, Mrs. L.A. Garman and a cousin, Mrs. Harold C. Smith, both of Whittier.

DENIAL . . .

Carmen Warschaw Monday in Long Beach joined Caspers in voting no, despite Commissioner Art Holmes' comment that Big Canyon is at least two miles from Coast Highway.

Holmes said residents could shop at Fashion Island without being drawn to the overloaded highway.

McLain said he planned 249 parking spaces for the 83 units, a 3:1 ratio, and 65 percent open space on the lots.

A total of 57 two-bedroom, 19 three-bedroom and 12 three-bedroom and den units were planned in the portion of the project within the 1,000 yard coastal zone.

McLain also plans to build 61 townhouse units on a tract outside the commission's jurisdiction.

Endorsement Hit

Official Fires Salvo on Bridge

The Association of Orange Coast Yacht Clubs' endorsement of a high-level (32-foot) new bridge over Newport Bay was challenged Monday night in a letter from David W. Lang, Commodore of the Balboa Yacht Club.

In a letter to the association, a copy of which was distributed at Monday's meeting of the Bay Crossing planning Committee, Lang protested that the association does not have the right to speak for the Balboa Yacht Club.

"As commodore, I assure you that I do not assume, nor do I intend to assume, an endorsement on any political issue from our club members," Lang said in the letter, which was addressed to association Vice Commodore Anthony D'Arcy.

The issue of the validity of the association's endorsement came up at the Bay Crossing committee' public meeting last week.

At that time, several members of the audience protested that, although they were members of yacht clubs, they had not been polled on the matter.

Newport Beach City Councilman John Store said he subsequently asked Lang to comment on the authenticity of the association's recommendation.

Store said he asked Lang because he himself is a member of the Balboa Yacht Club.

Bay crossing committee Vice chairman Gordon Glass, also a member of the Balboa Yacht Club, said, "I don't know exactly what the association is limited to in its power, but I would think that my own and other yacht clubs should speak in behalf of the best interest of boating."

The controversial recommendation was made in a letter dated May 2 by Morrie Kirk, Staff Commodore of the Association of Orange Coast Yacht Clubs.

In the letter addressed to committee Chairman Robert Shelton, Kirk said the association wished to encourage the adoption of a plan for a high bridge.

suggested is to restrict traffic at the Bayshores Drive entrance.

Instead, the report suggests opening a combined entrance for Bayshores and the Balboa Bay Club, with a signal light, on the Coast Highway near Marino Drive west of the bridge.

Another recommendation made in the report is to eliminate a tunnel from consideration because of its excessive cost (about $30 million), according to CALTRANS estimates.

Committee Chairman Robert Shelton said no height recommendation was made because of sharp disagreement within the committee and because he does not believe the city council requires the committee to make such a recommendation.

Instead, arguments favoring each height brought out during the committee's five month investigation were listed in the report.

The 32-foot height, the report states, would accommodate all trailerable sailboats currently in production and a large percentage of the boats in the harbor.

A high bridge would also decrease problems for boats currently berthed in the Upper Bay and which have to lower equipment to pass underneath the present 13.6 foot high bridge, the report states.

Of the 17 foot bridge, the report says that its estimated cost ($2.6 million) is programmed in the CALTRANS 1975-76 budget.

Knudson, representing CALTRANS, said the state will consider building any height bridge the city recommends, but taht a more expensive bridge might result in some delay because of funding problems.

Knudson said the state has not made an estimate on a 32-foot bridge but that a 40-foot bridge would cost about $5 million.

The 32-foot height was chosen deliberately by the committee because it is the minimum height which adequately accommodates boating traffic, Shelton said.

Other arguments favoring the 17 foot height are that the flatter grades will improve traffic safety and bicycle and pedestrian service. The flatter grades would also reduce noise impact and be less visually obtrusive, according to the report.

The height issue raised heated audience controversy at the committee's public meeting last week. Arguments involved environmental preservation versus increased boating activity and development.

Avco Developers Win One, Lose One Development

By CANDACE PEARSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A three-hour hearing by the Regional Coast Commission which took on tones of a courtroom Monday ended with one win and one loss for Avco Community Developers.

After hearing lengthy, often legally technical arguments on both sides, the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission in Long Beach.:

— Approved 7-3 a total of 390 condominiums and 10 holes of an 18-hole golf course on 27 acres inland of Pacific Coast Highway at Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel.

The entire tract, much of which is outside the commission's jurisdiction, will include the full golf course and 2,000 housing units.

— Rejected plans for 900 condominiums on 41 oceanside acres at Crown Valley Parkway in Laguna Niguel, overlooking Salt Creek Beach.

The vote was 5-5, with eight votes needed for approval because of the land's potential for use as public recreation.

Commission planners had recommended approval of the inland tract, but suggested a denial of the oceanside tract.

They cited increased traffic congestion along the highway as one reason and said as one of the few remaining large undeveloped blufftops, the land should be considered for preservation as open space.

The commission's action Monday could set off a series of simultaneous appeals to the State Coastal Commission.

Avco officials can appeal the denial of the Oceanside tract, while the Environmental Coalition of Orange County and the opponents who spoke Monday plan to question the approval of the inland development.

The hearing room in Long Beach Monday was packed with homeowners from Laguna Niguel, some of whom arrived in a bus chartered by Avco.

Tape Experts Say Gap Caused by Five Erasures

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of tape experts, in a highly technical report released today, stuck by its earlier conclusions that an 18½-minute gap in a White House tape was caused by at least five separate erasures. They did not fix any blame for the gap.

The report said the tape recorder used by President Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, "probably produced the entire buzz section" that replaced a portion of a conversation Nixon had with then chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972.

An expert hired by the White House, Dr. Michael H. L. Hecker of the Stanford Research Institute, agreed with the six-man panel's conclusion in every respect except one.

Hecker said the six-man panel "finally and irrevocably dismissed the possibility that a faulty machine was involved in producing the erasure . . .

"We believe that the Uher 5000 tape recorder . . . was electronically faulty at the time when the erasure was produced."

Hecker said he believed "it is still possible that some internal malfunction of the machine" was partly responsible for the buzzing sound.

Before the inch-thich report was released, Miss Woods' lawyer, Charles S. Rhyne, filed a paper with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica objecting to his receiving the report as evidence.

Rhyne said that the panel's conclusions "are based on disputed assumptions and disputed probabilities" and that the data are inconsistent with the testimony Miss Woods gave last November.

Miss Woods said that she accidentally pushed the record-erase button while transcribing the tape for President Nixon and at the same time kept her foot on a pedal used to advance the tape. But she said she was sure that lasted only four to five minutes.

50-cent Increase Part of Clerks' Contract Package

A new contract offer which kept 13,000 Orange County food industry retail clerks from walking off their jobs reportedly includes a 50-cent pay hike which the union had termed the "rock bottom" needed to avert a strike.

Orange County Retail Clerks Local 324 has decided to wait until Thursday to vote on the package, but the Bakersfield local approved the Food Employer's Council offer Monday by a 120 to 10 vote. Labor and management negotiators had apparently reached an impasse Sunday, but both groups credited federal Mediator Nicholas Findandis with outlining a settlement to stop a pending strike by 54,000 clerks in nine Southern California counties.

The agreement calls for a 35-cent hike retroactive to April 1 and an additional 15 cents Monday when the new contract goes into effect.

Under the agreement, clerks will earn $5.18 cents an hour.

testimony by former White House counsel Charles W. Colson in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"In my view, it would be highly supportive for the President," St. Clair told newsmen as he entered the committee room for the start of another week of closed-door hearings.

The committee planned a look into White House dealings with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today and then will take up political contributions by the dairy industry late in the week.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

There have been published reports that Colson's surprise arrangement with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski was causing concern in the White House but St. Clair discounted them.

"It's not true," he said. "It would be my view he would testify in favor of the President."

A short time later, White House spokesman Gerald L. Warren said of Colson: "We welcome his decision to step forward and tell the truth comprehensively and completely."

Warren rejected as "utterly false" suggestions that Nixon and the White House were apprehensive about Colson's testimony.

Last Rites Held For Jean Ziebe, Aunt of Heiress

Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Jean Elizabeth Ziebe of Emerald Bay, who died Sunday at her home, 807 Emerald Bay, after a long illness. She was 64.

Mrs. Ziebe is an aunt of Joan Irvine Smith, of Middleberg, Va., and sister of Mrs. Thurmond Clarke of Newport Beach.

A resident of Emerald Bay for 10 years, Mrs. Ziebe had been active in Pasadena civic events prior to moving to the Orange Coast. She was a charter member of the Pasadena Guild and Children's Hospital of Los Angeles.

Other survivors are husband Richard A. Ziebe of the family home and daughter, Anita Jean, of Burlingame.

Services were held at St. James Episcopal Church in Newport Beach. Interment followed at Pacific View Memorial park.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Children's Hospital of Los Angeles. Funeral arrangements were directed by Pacific View Memorial Park.

3 Face Charges In Agnew Probe

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted two Maryland engineers on charges stemming from the investigation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former Baltimore County Executive N. Dale Anderson.

A third engineer was charged directly Monday by U.S. Attorney George Beall, in an action bypassing the grand jury, with violating federal income tax laws.

Eugene H. Hsi, 50, of Towson, and Blair P. Overton Jr., 61, of Hagerstown, were charged in the indictment with making false statements before the grand jury during its Anderson investigation last year.

Woman Facing Eviction Receives Offers of Help

Mrs. Patti duPont, 49, the partially disabled Corona del Mar resident who faces eviction this week, is no longer afraid she may be thrown out on the street.

Mrs. duPont, who suffers from hearing loss, is currently out of work and has been unable to get sufficient aid from help agencies to meet her expenses.

Her plight was detailed in Saturday's Daily Pilot and the response was immediate.

"I had two calls Saturday morning," Mrs. duPont said. "A lady in Capistrano Beach offered me her home for as long as I need it."

"A man from Costa Mesa also called to offer me the use of a trailer in his backyard in return for some light duties helping his wife," she said.

Mrs. duPont said she also received a postcard Monday from another Costa Mesa man.

"It was very touching," she said. "The card offered me a room in his home because he needed a lady's touch in a motherless home."

"I can't accept that kind of offer but I'll give him a call and thank him for his kindness," Mrs. duPont said.

She said she was visited Monday by a representative from the Fish Organization, a voluntary group which helps find rides, food and jobs for people in need.

"She said they sometimes get calls about live-in situations and that she'll keep in touch with me," Mrs. duPont said.

Mrs. duPont said she has not yet made a decision because California Vocational Rehabilitation has told her they may have a training situation for her in a useful field.

"I'm supposed to call them Friday," Mrs. duPont said. "My first emphasis is on training so I can have a trade in the future."

Mrs. duPont said because of her hearing loss she can't do secretarial work. She said she can't work on the telephone or from a dictaphone. She said she's done some temporary secretarial work, primarily typing, in the past.

"I want a steady, reliable occupation because I know I can't live on welfare or other forms of aid," Mrs. duPont said.

The category of welfare for which she is eligible pays only $110 a month, the Orange County Welfare Department confirmed.

"I haven't settled on where to move yet because it depends on where I'll be going to school," Mrs. duPont said.

"But the offers have taken away some of the terrible terror of not having any place to go," she said.

"I've known better days and places, but I'm finally beginning to accept where I am and what I have to do," she said. She said she plans to pay off the three months back rent she owes on her present $250-a-month residence at 520½ Marguerite Avenue.

"I'll pay it when I can," she said.

"Where I go to hang my hat is still a moot point," Mrs. duPont said today. "But I feel better because of the offers."

JOIN THE ESTABLISHMENT!

There is a definite advantage in doing business with an ESTABLISHED local firm.

We are interested in doing business with ESTABLISHED mills, which we have determined after decades of doing business. There is no way, unfortunately, to tell how a mill will back its products until there is a problem! Carpet stores interested ONLY in price have no one to back them, and consequently walk away from complaints.

A few times through the years, we have had to stand the cost of replacement when a mill wouldn't. This will only happen once to us, and then the samples are in our trash can.

What this means to our customers is that the lines we carry are from reputable mills, and that they can buy with confidence from Alden's.

18% Budget Hike Looms

$17.4 Million Proposal Includes Paramedics

By RUDI NIEDZIELSKI
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

City Manager Fred Sorsabal presented a $17.4 million budget to the Costa Mesa City Council Monday night. It calls for the establishment of a paramedic unit and a six-man police motorcycle squad.

The total recommended budget for operations and capital improvements represents an 18.4 percent increase over last year's expenditures of $14.7 million.

Sorsabal's recommendations will be reviewed during a public study session next Monday night and is scheduled for council action June 17. The anticipated 10-cent hike of the tax rate to $1.61 per $100 of assessed valuation largely reflects the repayment of park bonds floated by Costa Mesans last September.

In his budget message Sorsabal said his recommendations call for the hiring of 22 more workers, mostly policemen and firemen, purchase of a $76,000 fire truck, and replacement of police helicopters Eagle I and Eagle II.

The 1974-75 fiscal year budget also calls for the appropriation of $19,000 for the addition of a six-man Mobile Intensive Care (Paramedic) Division. Training of the men is not scheduled until April.

In addition, there is a $20,160 budget entry for the purchase of six new patrol cycles. Members of the council last year rejected Sorsabal's bid for motorcycles to help with traffic enforcement.

The overall budget reflects expenditures not only for the general fund, but for several special districts including parks and recreation, street lighting, and repayment of park bonds.

Although Sorsabal's proposed budget is balanced overall, he informed city councilmen that the street lighting district would have to be bailed out with a subsidy from the general fund.

"We face a continuing problem with the street lighting district due to escalating energy costs and the limits of Senate Bill 90, which will not allow us to increase the tax rate," the city manager explained.

Sorsabal said he and his aides soon would be looking at different methods of keeping the lights burning to avoid a continuing drain of revenues from the general fund.

On the capital improvements side of the ledger, major recommendations include the design for a new fire station, $21,000; bicycle trails, $25,000; 18th Street and Irvine Avenue storm drain, $230,000; Balearic Avenue storm drain, $175,000 and several road projects.

Inflation Winner–1-cent Candy Extinct

CHICAGO (AP) — Penny candy apparently is going the way of copper pennies, out.

Higher prices are the reason.

Peter F. Norton, a of board of the National Confectioners Association, predicted in an interview Monday that penny candies will soon be a thing of the past.

And Morton also said the 15-cent candy bar is fast becoming the 20-cent candy bar or a smaller 15-cent bar.

Air Horns, Bells

Mesa May Soon Outlaw Catering Truck Devices

Loud air horns, bells or other devices which may be used by catering trucks to signal their arrival may soon be outlawed in Costa Mesa.

City councilmen Monday night asked City Attorney Roy E. June to explore the possibility of drafting an ordinance outlawing such noisemakers after hearing complaints from residents of a trailer park.

A petition signed by seven residents of Play Port Mobile alleges that they are being disturbed by the loud blasts seven times a day.

City Manager Fred Sorsabal said his staff had investigated the complaints, but found no violations of Costa Mesa's already existing noise ordinance.

The real problem, he told council members, is mixed land uses. "You have allowed a mobile home park to be built in an industrial area," he said.

Councilman Dom Raciti, who made the motion for the 5-0 vote calling for the ordinance, suggested that letters be written to the catering companies involved asking them not to toot their horns.

Judge Clears 'Deep Throat'

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A Franklin County judge has disolved a preliminary injunction issued against two theater managers who had shown the controversial film "Deep Throat."

The Judge said Monday the court had no right to issue such an order.

The co-mangers of the South Gate Theater were served with the court order Dec. 10 after seven ministers viewed the movie and said it was obscene.

Judge John W. Keller said in a 25-page opinion that the section of the law under which the case was filed was vague and did not define obscenity in motion pictures.

Mesa Keeps Membership

City Council Votes 3-2 to Pay ICC Dues Once More

Costa Mesa will continue its membership in Orange County's Intergovernmental Coordinating Council (ICC) for another year even though two city councilmen are not impressed by its performance and a third has mixed feelings about it.

City councilmen, on a 3-2 vote, agreed to pay their second-year membership dues Monday night after considerable soul-searching about what the $2,537 would buy them.

In the opinion of Councilmen Alvin Pinkley and Dom Raciti, who voted against the appropriation, it wouldn't be much.

"I'm not in favor of another layer of government," snapped Pinkley. "It hasn't done anything. It's not worth the price we pay."

Raciti added that the county and the council's 24 member cities had spent $60,000 last year to get the ICC going "and they haven't gotten anywhere."

The ICC was formed primarily as a liaison group which would help solve problems which are beyond the scope of individual member cities, explained Costa Mesa's delegate to the council, Vice Mayor Jack Hammett.

Hammett said it took considerable time just to develop language and procedures by which the member cities could communicate. He described membership as worthwhile and urged Costa Mesa's participation for another year.

Mayor Robert M. Wilson, who admitted that the council hadn't performed the way he had hoped and has established a bureaucracy which does not please him, joined Hammett and Councilwoman Norma Hertzog in voting for continued membership.

"I think we should go along with the funding and give them a chance," said Wilson before casting the tiebreaking vote.

Mesa Approves Fairview Road

The Costa Mesa City Council awarded a $936,363 contract to the Sully Miller Company Monday to widen Fairview Road past Orange Coast College and Costa Mesa High School.

Scheduled for this summer, the project will provide th enorth-south thoroughfare with two extra lanes of traffic, raising lane capacity to six.

Bicycle trails will be installed in conjunction with the widening project.

Mayor Robert M. Wilson voted against the appropriation because the Southern California Edison Company did not agree to place its utility lines underground as part of the project.

"With the ugly utility poles, Fairview Road will look just as bad as before," Wilson commented. "They (the poles) are just as ugly as billboards."

Copter Spots Huntington Youth in Wild Car Spree

A Huntington Beach youth who police allege admitted he was inspired to practice drag racing on a grassy school ground by downing a few shots of whiskey was arrested early today following a high-speed chase by police in downtown Costa Mesa.

The suspect, 17, was arrested when he finally stopped his mother's sports coupe in an alley spotlighted by the Eagle II police helicopter.

Officer Dick Rosser said the youth was released to his mother and father following booking on a charge of evading arrest.

Investigators said today they will also seek Orange County Juvenile Court charges of reckless driving and malicious mischief as a result of the $200 destruction spree.

Damage to the grounds of Harper School, 425 E. 18th St., was estimated at that amount, police said.

Patrolman Rosser initiated the pursuit about 2 a.m., when he attempted to stop the sports car, which was making circular skids on the school grounds.

He charged the teenager gunned the sports car and tried to cross a two-foot embankment to escape, then slammed the vehicle into reverse and sped past the police car.

The patrolman lost his quarry briefly during a high-speed chase along East 18th Street, in which the youth reportedly turned off his headlights and ran through intersections without stopping.

Investigators said the chase ended when the helicopter crew cornered the youth in an alley between Broadway and Flower Street.

Solid Turnout of Voters Indicated in Costa Mesa

A random check of Costa Mesa polling places as voters neared the halfway point in the primary election today indicated a solid turnout might be in the offing.

Close to one fifth of the registered voters in each of several precincts in different parts of the city had cast ballots by noon.

"It is really a good turnout," said Gwenn Caruselle, whose home at 340 E. 16th Place was one of the precincts checked.

"We've been really busy since 7:30 a.m.," she said, adding that 69 of 515 eligible voters had already cast their ballots.

The turnout began to increase markedly at Kaiser Intermediate School, 2130 Santa Ana Ave, as the noon hour approached, according to precinct workers there.

"It was pretty slow this morning, but now it's beginning to pick up," said Precinct Inspector Mrs. Barbara Littleton, adding that 92 among 500 eligible voters had turned out, with heavy voting expected later in the day.

A total of 75 voters out of 580 registered for the primary election had showed up at the fire station at 111 Rochester St., in the downtown area.

CM — Balloting — coded by marj

A similar turnout was reported at the Fairview Baptist Church, 2525 Fairview Road, where 76 voters among 580 registered had turned out, according to precinct worker Mary Vitale.

"Light," said Mrs. Frederick L. Rayner when asked how voting was going at her home, 2217 Anaheim Ave., where less than a tenth of the 500 registered voters had turned out.

However, the location is an area inhabited mostly by working people, many of whom were expected to vote this evening.

Weather

There may be a patch of blue in that overcast sky Wednesday, according to the weather service — and warmer temperatures, too. Sunny skies are forecast Wednesday afternoon with highs at the beaches in the upper 60s rising to the mid-70s inland.

Friends Rewarded, Foes Punished – Montoya

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya (D-N.M.), made public today confidential White House memoranda that he said document a campaign to reward friends and punish enemies in the awarding of federal grants.

Montoya said he was particularly concerned that Spanish-speaking minorities were taken advantage of by the White House during the 1972 presidential election campaign.

"Much of the conduct appears violative of civil and criminal law," Montoya said during a hearing before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee he heads.

The subcommittee is considering a 1975 budget request from the Office of Management and Budget.

Montoya named Fred Malek, former key White House staff member and a former deputy director of the Nixon re-election campaign, as playing a major role in the alleged effort to influence awarding of government grants.

Malek, 37, is deputy director of the OMB. He said he was shocked that Montoya would choose to raise the issue that he said had previously been discussed in executive session of the Senate Watergate Committee. Montoya also is a member of that committee.

Meanwhile, White House lawyer James St. Clair said today he would welcome testimony by former White House counsel Charles W. Colson in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

"In my view, it would be highly supportive for the President," St. Clair told newsmen as he entered the committee room for the start of another week of closed-door hearings.

The committee planned a look into White House dealings with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today and then will take up political contributions by the dairy industry late in the week.

Colson played a leading role in White House dealings with ITT and dairy groups, as well as activities of the White House plumbers.

Colson pleaded guilty to a single count of obstruction of justice Monday, saying he wants "to tell everything I know."

Colson's conversations with Nixon on a number of subjects involved in the committee inquiry are among tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

There have been published reports that Colson's surprise arrangement with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski was causing concern in the White House but St. Clair discounted them.

Tape Experts Say Gap Caused by Five Erasures

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of tape experts, in a highly technical report released today, stuck by its earlier conclusions that an 18½-minute gap in a White House tape was caused by at least five separate erasures. They did not fix any blame for the gap.

The report said the tape recorder used by President Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, "probably produced the entire buzz section" that replaced a portion of a conversation Nixon had with then chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972.

An expert hired by the White House, Dr. Michael H. L. Hecker of the Stanford Research Institute, agreed with the six-man panel's conclusion in every respect except one.

Hecker said the six-man panel "finally and irrevocably dismissed the possibility that a faulty machine was involved in producing the erasure . . .

"We believe that the Uher 5000 tape recorder . . . was electronically faulty at the time when the erasure was produced."

Hecker said he believed "it is still possible that some internal malfunction of the machine" was partly responsible for the buzzing sound.

Before the inch-thich report was released, Miss Woods' lawyer, Charles S. Rhyne, filed a paper with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica objecting to his receiving the report as evidence.

Rhyne said that the panel's conclusions "are based on disputed assumptions and disputed probabilities" and that the data are inconsistent with the testimony Miss Woods gave last November.

Miss Woods said that she accidentally pushed the record-erase button while transcribing the tape for President Nixon and at the same time kept her foot on a pedal used to advance the tape. But she said she was sure that lasted only four to five minutes.

Fish Fry Receipts Hit $92,400–More Coming

Receipts from last weekend's Costa Mesa Fish Fry today stand at $92,400 and "there's still money coming in," Hank Hornsveld, president of the organizing Costa Mesa-Newport Harbor Lions Club, reported today.

"This is the highest gross we have ever taken in," said Hornsveld, stressing that the improvement was significant over last year's count of $83,000.

The club's net income is somewhere near $30,000 at the moment but Hornsveld predicted the final total will be somewhere between $32,000 and $33,000. Last year's net was $28,700.

"Because of inflation the food cost us a lot more but we still gained a lot more," said Hornsveld who noted that the price of fish nearly doubled over last year. "We really came out all right."

Fish dinners sold increased by 1,200 over last year and the receipts from carnival rides jumped 15 percent. The profits will be divided among the Lions Club's service to the blind project and local charities such as the Boys Club, Girls Club, Girl and Boy Scouts, scholarships and youth organizations.

Penalty Halved For Dog Owners

Costa Mesa dog owners who fail to get their pooches licensed this month got a break on the penalties from the city council Monday night.

Instead of charging a 100 percent penalty, they will charge only a 50 percent penalty for missing the June 30 deadline.

The softening of the penalty was requested by Vice Mayor Jack Hammett who said that nobody, "including the IRS don't charge you double" and that a 100 percent penalty was not fair.

Hammett recommended a 25 percent penalty but failed to get his motion through. The council agreed to 50 percent but asked for a review of the penalty procedure in one year.

Dog license fees are $6. The fee for neutered dogs is $3.

Security Boosted

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard today ordered tightened security at airports and public buildings in preparation for a possible revenge attack for the hunger-strike death of a convicted Irish Republican Army prisoner — a death the IRA called an "act of murder."

Mesa Supports Intelligence Unit With $6,300 Tab

The Costa Mesa City Council backed the super secret Orange County Intelligence Unit Monday night with a $6,300 contribution.

The amount is more than double the city's annual contribution to the unit which shares information with 22 member police departments.

City Manager Fred Sorsabal told councilmen the larger contribution was required because the Orange County Board of Supervisors has withdrawn its support in a dispute over who should act as a watchdog of the agency for the public.

That left the remaining members to come up with approximately $50,000 to sustain operation of the unit, which Sorsabal described as one of the best weapons against organized crime in the county.

50-cent Increase Part of Clerks' Contract Package

A new contract offer which kept 13,000 Orange County food industry retail clerks from walking off their jobs reportedly includes a 50-cent pay hike which the union had termed the "rock bottom" needed to avert a strike.

Orange County Retail Clerks Local 324 has decided to wait until Thursday to vote on the package, but the Bakersfield local approved the Food Employer's Council offer Monday by a 120 to 10 vote. Labor and management negotiators had apparently reached an impasse Sunday, but both groups credited federal Mediator Nicholas Findandis with outlining a settlement to stop a pending strike by 54,000 clerks in nine Southern California counties.

The agreement calls for a 35-cent hike retroactive to April 1 and an additional 15 cents Monday when the new contract goes into effect.

Under the agreement, clerks will earn $5.18 cents an hour.

Marine Facing Charges With Wife Over Death

An El Toro Marine Corps Air Station sergeant whose wife already faces murder charges in connection with the death of her eight-month-old son joined her Monday night in county jail on charges of felony child neglect.

Sheriff's officers said Sgt. Dennis Eugene Dabney, 24, and his wife, Jennifer, 20, will be arraigned Wednesday in Santa Ana municipal court.

Investigators said the arrest Monday of Dabney followed further investigation into head injuries that led to the death Saturday of eight-month-old Robert Dabney.

The boy died in Children's Hospital of Orange County after the condition initially being treated at the El Toro Marine Corps station dispensary rapidly worsened.

Mrs. Dabney was booked into the county jail on murder charges shortly after her son died.

The dead child's twin brother is being confined in the Albert Sitton Home as a ward of the county while criminal charges are being processed against the parents.

Sheriff's officers today said the surviving child is being carefully examined in view of healed head injuries that were spotted after the child was admitted to the hospital.

Coroner's officers have not yet completed their report on the cause of death.

Guadalupe Yacht Racers Reported In Home Stretch

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Editor

The 11 boats in Balboa Yacht Club's 600-mile Guadalupe Island race were headed home today with prospects of an early finish Wednesday.

The lead boat is the Newport-41 sloop Swift, co-skippered by Gayle Post and Jack Mallinckrodt, last year's first to finish.

Some 12 miles behind Swift was Dakar, another Newport-41 skippered by William Goodley of Del Rey Yacht Club.

The fleet reported sailing in westerly winds of seven to eight knots which were lighter than they were during the night. Most of the boats reported the usual lee around Guadolupe Island.

Boats in the race with distances to go to the finish:

Mesa Burglars Get Blank Checks And Signatures

Investigators are probing the $1,382 burglary of a Costa Mesa investment firm in which the intruder also took blank checks and papers bearing signatures of company officers.

A spokesman for the Brunswick and Ribbe Company, 845 W. 19th St., told police the blank checks can be written for up to $10,000 each and the stolen signatures could be used as models for forgery.

Myra A. Dembik, of the company's office staff, called police Monday when the break-in was discovered.

She said the loss in addition to the checks and business documents included assorted tools and office equipment.

Police said entry was made by prying a sliding window with a homemade tool specifically designed for use in committing burglaries.

Copies of the preliminary budget are available for public scrutiny from the office of the city clerk and Sorsabal suggested that anyone interested in the city's finances check out a copy of the 414-page document.

Woman Facing Eviction Receives Offers of Help

Mrs. Patti duPont, 49, the partially disabled Corona del Mar resident who faces eviction this week, is no longer afraid she may be thrown out on the street.

Mrs. duPont, who suffers from hearing loss, is currently out of work and has been unable to get sufficient aid from help agencies to meet her expenses.

Her plight was detailed in Saturday's Daily Pilot and the response was immediate.

"I had two calls Saturday morning," Mrs. duPont said. "A lady in Capistrano Beach offered me her home for as long as I need it."

"A man from Costa Mesa also called to offer me the use of a trailer in his backyard in return for some light duties helping his wife," she said.

Mrs. duPont said she also received a postcard Monday from another Costa Mesa man.

"It was very touching," she said. "The card offered me a room in his home because he needed a lady's touch in a motherless home."

"I can't accept that kind of offer but I'll give him a call and thank him for his kindness," Mrs. duPont said.

She said she was visited Monday by a representative from the Fish Organization, a voluntary group which helps find rides, food and jobs for people in need.

"She said they sometimes get calls about live-in situations and that she'll keep in touch with me," Mrs. duPont said.

Mrs. duPont said she has not yet made a decision because California Vocational Rehabilitation has told her they may have a training situation for her in a useful field.

"I'm supposed to call them Friday," Mrs. duPont said. "My first emphasis is on training so I can have a trade in the future."

Mrs. duPont said because of her hearing loss she can't do secretarial work. She said she can't work on the telephone or from a dictaphone. She said she's done some temporary secretarial work, primarily typing, in the past.

"I want a steady, reliable occupation because I know I can't live on welfare or other forms of aid," Mrs. duPont said.

The category of welfare for which she is eligible pays only $110 a month, the Orange County Welfare Department confirmed.

"I haven't settled on where to move yet because it depends on where I'll be going to school," Mrs. duPont said.

"But the offers have taken away some of the terrible terror of not having any place to go," she said.

"I've known better days and places, but I'm finally beginning to accept where I am and what I have to do," she said. She said she plans to pay off the three months back rent she owes on her present $250-a-month residence at 520½ Marguerite Avenue.

"I'll pay it when I can," she said.

"Where I go to hang my hat is still a moot point," Mrs. duPont said today. "But I feel better because of the offers."

JOIN THE ESTABLISHMENT!

There is a definite advantage in doing business with an ESTABLISHED local firm.

We are interested in doing business with ESTABLISHED mills, which we have determined after decades of doing business. There is no way, unfortunately, to tell how a mill will back its products until there is a problem! Carpet stores interested ONLY in price have no one to back them, and consequently walk away from complaints.

A few times through the years, we have had to stand the cost of replacement when a mill wouldn't. This will only happen once to us, and then the samples are in our trash can.

What this means to our customers is that the lines we carry are from reputable mills, and that they can buy with confidence from Alden's.
