School Incident

Pair Beat, Stomp Milk Truck Driver

Two assailants stomped and severely beat a driver as he was delivering milk to a Huntington Beach elementary school early today.

Police said that William Marshall, 23, of Santa Ana, suffered fractured ribs and other serious injuries when he arrived at Meadowview School at 5702 Clark Drive in the northern part of the city.

Sgt. David Miller said Marshall was jumped on the school grounds and was badly mauled with both fists and feet. He was taken to Huntington Intercommunity Hospital with "quite serious" injuries.

A hospital official said today that Marshall was resting comfortably and that tests were scheduled later in the day.

Miller said that Marshall, a driver for Cal-Va Dairy in Santa Ana, was attacked at about 2:15 a.m.

Miller said police believe that the two assailants took the key to the school's multi-purpose room when it fell out of Marshall's pocket during the beating.

The investigator said he didn't know if the two men were casing the school for a burglary and were surprised by Marshall or if they were lying in wait for him to obtain the key.

Officers said there was no indication that the school had been broken into or that anything had been stolen.

Police are waiting for Marshall to recover from the shock of his beating before questioning him further to gain leads on the two attackers.

Marshall told officers that he thought he recognized the two men who were seen hanging around another school site.

Playboy Comments

'Not Sorry,' Carter Says

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said today he is not dismayed by reaction to his statements that he has "looked on a lot of women with lust" and "committed adultery in my heart." He said he doesn't think it has hurt his campaign.

Carter responded to questions from reporters as he got into his car after completing an early morning inspection of his peanut processing operation.

Asked whether he was dismayed by some of the reaction to his statements, made to an interviewer from Playboy magazine, the candidate replied:

"No. I don't want to have a press conference this morning."

Q. "Do you feel you were misunderstood?"

A. "I haven't been bothered by it."

Q. "Why did you grant the interview?"

A. "The same reason I grant you one . . ."

Q. "Are you sorry you granted it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you regret it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you think it's been misunderstood?"

A. "I don't think it's hurt in any way."

Q. "You don't think it's hurt at all?"

A. "I don't believe so."

But Carter said he did not want to conduct a news conference on the matter without his staff present.

In the interview, made public this week, Carter said he would not attempt to impose his own religious beliefs on others.

"Christ set some almost impossible standards for us," he said, adding that to sin is human and "God forgives me for it."

In one excerpt, Carter declared:

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do — and I have done it — and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust,

Twice Told, Tale Tallies

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — In a slip of the tongue, Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale momentarily appeared to have forgotten his running mate's name.

MONDALE

"You're telling me, you're telling America, you want that White House once again occupied by a peoples' president, this time named Jimmy Ford."

Realizing his mistake, Mondale grimaced, adding: "Jimmy won't like that. Jimmy, I didn't mean it. I didn't mean it. Let me try again. Jimmy Carter. There we go."

ALIOTO'S FIANCEE? Kathleen Sullivan

Alioto, 59, Will Marry Bostonian, 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday.

"My private life is private," the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan, 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a "desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy."

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

Both Top Mobil Bid For Stock

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Lawyers for the California Attorney General's office and the Irvine Company compared valuations of the company Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court and came up with a difference of $51 million.

Irvine Company executive Lansing Eberling testified during a hearing into Irvine heiress Joan Irvine Smith's challenge of a proposed sale to the Mobil Oil Company that the net worth of the organization is about $329 million.

Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Tapper disagreed. He quoted from a liquidation analysis prepared by his office earlier this year and pegged the net value of Irvine holdings at $380 million.

Tapper's figure would put the per share value of Irvine stock at $44.75. Eberling's valuation brings the per share value down to $39.16.

Both figures are considerably higher than the $24 per share figure represented by the Mobil offer to pay $200 million for Irvine Company shares held by the James Irvine Foundation.

Those shares represent a 54.5 percent controlling interest in the Irvine Company. Under state law, the foundation must divest itself of those shares.

Blacks To Rule?

Rhodesian Whites Mull Proposal

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's cabinet ended two days of discussions today with no word on whether it will accept proposals by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to transfer governing power to Rhodesia's black majority.

"There's a lot of life and kick in Rhodesians," Smith told a tourist waiting outside with reporters. "We have still got a lot of fight but that doesn't mean that we want to be stupid. We have got to face up to realities but I think we're going to be all right."

Smith refused to answer questions from reporters on the cabinet reaction to the proposals, saying only that there would probably be "something a bit firmer" Thursday after he meets with all 50 white members of parliament.

The decision is expected to be made at that meeting, and Smith has scheduled a radio and television address to the nation Friday.

Thursday's white caucus would have to assure majority backing of the proposals before Smith can announce the plan to the nation.

The British-American proposals in the hands of Smith and his cabinet are still secret, but are believed to provide for black majority government within two years, accompanied by a $2-billion fund to be set up by the United States and other Western nations to compensate Rhodesian whites who leave the country and help the new black government with development.

The Rhodesian Herald newspaper said the settlement plans are being described as the Callaghan-Kissinger-Vorster proposals, and commented: "The implication is that the South Africans have finally turned the screws on Mr. Smith despite denials to the contrary."

South African Prime Minister John Vorster, host to the Kissinger-Smith talks in Pretoria last weekend, had been pressed by Kissinger to try to convince Smith to agree to black rule.

Britain and Prime Minister James Callaghan were involved with the United States in formulating the settlement proposals.

Rhodesia, a British colony until Smith unilaterally declared its independence in 1965, has a population of 270,000 whites and some six million blacks.

Kissinger, reportedly carrying to black African leaders the word of Smith's new position, had talks in Kinshasa today with Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko, then departed for Kenya.

With These Hands

Welder Billy Corbett of Anchorage, Alaska, displays his hands, somewhat the worse for wear, after he karate-chopped 5,800 bricks in an hour and 45 minutes to break the Guinness world record. The feat didn't draw the crowds he'd hoped for, however. He planned to donate proceeds from the demonstration to a non-profit health agency, but only four youths showed up.

Rock Again Emerges At County Session

A troublesome ocean rock off Capistrano Beach prompted county supervisors to call Tuesday for a study of all offshore rocks between the San Clemente pier and Dana Point Harbor.

The usually submerged rock, off 35083 Beach Road, first came to supervisors' attention a month ago. At the time, they agreed to urge boaters to follow navigational charts, which list the rock, and to stay far from shore.

But at the time, county officials had told them the rock was only 30 yards offshore. They learned Tuesday it is 300 yards offshore.

And San Clemente City Councilman Tom O'Keefe, a member of the county Harbors, Beaches and Parks Commission, asked that the rock be marked with a sign to warn boaters of potential hazards.

O'Keefe said the rock is on a direct line with the main entrance to Dana Point Harbor and could cause a serious accident.

Supervisor Tom Riley said he was told it never has caused an accident, and he said it may be just one of many rocks in the area.

At his suggestion, supervisors agreed to have the sheriff's harbor patrol deputies conduct a study in the area and report to the Harbors, Beaches and Parks Commission within 60 days.

County officials earlier had considered blowing up the rock but learned permits for doing so probably could not be obtained.

They also asked the Coast Guard to buoy the rock, but were turned down when Coast Guard officials said the rock was just one of many along the coast.

Jogger Sues In Dog Attack

A man who claims two dogs attacked him and caused him to break his left arm while he was jogging on Laguna Canyon Road has sued the alleged owners of the animals for $60,000 in damages.

Plaintiff Arthur C. Smart names Mike and Pat Dwight as defendants in his Orange County Superior Court lawsuit and charges them with responsibility for the alleged attack on him last Dec. 6.

He claims that he was attacked by the dogs as he jogged in the vicinity of 21312 Laguna Canyon Road.

"Christ says don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who's loyal to his wife ought not to be condescending or proud because of the relative degree of sinfulness."

The candidate's statements brought mixed reactions.

— His wife, Rosalynn, said in New York they caused her no anxiety about his fidelity.

"I trust him completely. I've never had to worry about that at all," she said.

— Dr. Harry N. Hollis Jr., a denominational authority on social ethics, said in Nashville that Carter's statements on morality accurately reflect Southern Baptist teachings.

But Hollis, a staff mber of the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Conference, said he "wouldn't have used the same language."

— Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, Tex., declared: "I am highly offended by this. I think he's mixed up in his moral values, and I think the entire church membership will feel the same way."

— Dr. Jerry Vines, pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., and a former president of the pastors' conference of the Southern Baptist Convention, said: "This appears to be another instance of Carter accommodating himself to his audience.

Silent Bandit Robs Capistrano Bank

A San Juan Capistrano bank was robbed of an estimated $360 Tuesday by a silent bandit who shoved a note across the counter but displayed no weapon, Orange County Sheriff's officers said.

Deputies, who are working with FBI agents in investigating the robbery at the Bank of America, 31872 Camino Capistrano, said the robber fled on foot after being handed the cash.

Bank teller Julie Ann Bunker, 23, of Dana Point, told officers the robber passed a note across the counter which made it clear that he wanted the contents of her cash drawer. She immediately complied with the demand.

Officers refused today to divulge the contents of the note. They said it offered a clue to the identity of the bandit.

Investigators described the man as being about 28 or 29 years of age, about six foot three and with brown hair. They said he was wearing dark blue pants, a Navy blue windbreaker jacket and a white tennis cap.

HEIRESS. . .

Judge James F. Judge is being asked in what is expected to be a six-week hearing to make permanent a temporary injunction against a Mobil deal already accepted by foundation trustees.

Mrs. Smith contends that the $200 million figure is too low and that the sale would be unfair to her and other minority stockholders.

Tapper and Eberling agreed, however, that it would take several years to bring about liquidation of the giant company's many assets even if such a sale were to be accepted by the Irvine board.

Tapper predicted that it would take ten years to dispose of the company's 70,000 acres of undeveloped land and about two years to sell its real estate and industrial holdings.

Eberling said he thought it would take 15 years to sell undeveloped properties and at least three years to dispose of developed real estate and industrial assets.

Tahoe's Air Rule Violated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Clean air standards are being violated in the Lake Tahoe Air Basin in the winter and summer, according to the staff of the California Air Resources Board.

The staff report presented to the board said air samples taken during the past year showed the carbon monoxide standard of six parts per million, averaged over eight hours, is violated during winter traffic.

It added that the oxidant standard is violated at the south end of the lake during the summer, but the 30-mile visibility standard appears to be met during the summer.

800 Students Strike for More Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In an era of striking school teachers, this walkout was different. The students struck, demanding more teachers.

About 800 clapping, placard-carrying students checked in for classes at George Washington High School on Tuesday and then, as expected, moved out of the school and onto the football field for a protest rally.

Another 800 of the school's 2,600 students simply left their classes and wandered in the neighborhood two miles south of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Students listened to speeches, cheered and held aloft signs reading, "Students want quality classes" and "We have a right to a good education."

The youths chanted, "We want our teachers back."

It was the latest in a series of protests against a reduction in the number of classroom teachers, switching some to other positions such as a permanent substitute pool.

Senate Hits Bill Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has been brought to a virtual standstill by Sen. James B. Allen (D-Ala.), who is trying to block a bill that would permit courts to award attorneys' fees to persons who bring successful civil rights enforcement suits.

The Senate voted 69 to 12 Tuesday to take up the bill, but with Allen resorting to various delaying tactics, it has been unable to make any further headway.

Status Quo DST Reigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speed-up procedures to pass a bill extending Daylight Saving Time have been rejected by the House, virtually assuring that the measure will not be enacted this year.

The bill would have set the beginning date for DST as the third Sunday of March and the ending date as the third Sunday of October, beginning in 1977. Under existing law, the country is on DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

With few members on the floor, the House voted 11 to 10 Tuesday for suspending the rules and passing the bill. But the suspension procedure requires two-thirds.

Outgoing Director Blamed for Riot

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The president of the California Correctional Officers Association blames the Chino troubles on the policies of Alan Breed, lame-duck director of the Youth Authority.

The president, Arnold Thompson, issued a statement Tuesday after the escape and riot at the Youth Training School in Chino.

Breed's term has expired, but Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has not named a successor.

Thompson's statement said, "Contrary to Breed's thinking, CYA facilities are not Boy Scout camps."

He called the Chino school "a prison facility where a substantial number of aggressive, violence-prone young adults are incarcerated, where custody and safety should be — but is not — a matter of major concern."

He said a list of demands, including the arming of YTS guards, will be presented to CYA officials today.

A CYA spokesman, Art German, said Breed is to be replaced soon.

German said YTS escapes increased from 16 in 1974-75 to 54 in 1975-76, but in three years there has been a three-fold increase in the number of youths committed for crimes against persons instead of against property.

"To call it a Boy Scout camp — that's ridiculous. We know the potential there for violence. We're trying to create an atmosphere to make it as safe as possible for the inmates and the staff," German said.

Only one of 13 youths who escaped remained at large and one guard remained in serious condition today.

Law enforcement agencies used a land and air assault to round up the escapees Tuesday.

However, authorities said a 32-year-old supervising guard, Gary Cauble, was in serious condition at San Antonio Community Hospital with a fractured skull and facial lacerations.

CYA officials said the lone inmate who hadn't been caught was William Winter. They did not release his age or home town.

The disturbance at this school for youths under age 25 began early Tuesday. In the ensuing riot by an estimated 200 inmates, about $7,000 in damage was done to the prison compound, leaving it in a shambles, authorities said.

Wanderer Tied to Tree, Dies

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Before he died, Douglas Ray Sumner spent two weeks chained to a tree. He built a lean-to for shelter, dug a hole to collect rain, and ate palmetto leaves and bark chips while he struggled in vain to free himself, police say.

Sumner, 21, had not been seen by his family since he left home to go camping two years ago, telling his mother, 'I'll be back in three or four days — or maybe never."

When his best friend saw him a year ago and asked what he had been doing, Sumner replied, according to police: "I'm just trying to get my head screwed on straight. Don't tell anybody you've seen me."

A Baptist pastor who knew him said Sumner had gotten involved in a "way-out religious group" and might have willingly allowed himself to be anchored to a tree by a 15-foot logging chain attached to a 20-inch metal collar around his waist.

Two hunters stalking wild boar found his bones in a dense thicket a mile from the Gulf of Mexico last month. Investigators say Sumner died about seven months before that, from either starvation or exposure.

Police call his death murder, but have not speculated on a possible motive. No arrests have been made.

Pastor Pierre Kennedy said Tuesday that the last time he saw Sumner the youth told him "he was going to go up to the forest and stay for a while.

"I think he might have had somebody chain him to that tree. Maybe someone said to him, 'We'll chain you to this tree and you can get closer to God.'

"This is the type of thing some of those lunatic religious groups talk about, this ascetic idea that you can get close to God by depriving your body of things, food and drink and pleasure."

Found near Sumner's body were sneakers, shreds of clothes, a leather belt, books including a Bible and identification card from the University of South Florida where he had worked as a groundskeeper.

Only 10 of the body's 206 bones remained. Officers said the rest must have been carried off by animals. Sumner was identified by a jawbone fragment and the identification card.

At the bottom of the pine tree was a gash where Sumner apparently tried to cut the thick bark, police said. They said scars 10 feet up showed where he tried to work the chains up and over the top of the tree.

Agents from the Florida Department of Criminal Law Enforcement said that near the tree where Sumner died they found a crude lean-to fashioned from palemtto fronds and a hole apparently dug by human hands.

Also nearby they found several balls of leaves the size of a fist, which they believed Sumner used for nourishment in addition to the fronds.

They speculated that he had been left to die sometime in January and had managed to keep alive for about two weeks.

38 Coastline Miles Marked for Parks

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Thirty-eight miles of shoreline have been recommended for purchase with funds from a parkland bond measure on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The $280-million measure, part of a legislative package designed to save California's coast from overdevelopment, includes $110 million for state park coastal acquisitions. It is Prop. 2 on the ballot.

State Parks and Recreation Director Herbert Rhodes suggested Tuesday the $110 million be used to buy 27 coastal sites with a total of 16,000 acres. Most of the sites picked by his department were also recommended by the state Coastal Commission, he added.

The bond measure would also provide $85 million for local parks, $34 million for various state park projects, $26 million for state water project recreation facilities, $15 million for development of wildlife areas and $10 million to fund a state coastal conservancy.

Here are some of the locations of Southern California sites proposed for purchase and reasons for the purchases:

—Irvine Coast, Orange County: To provide beach access and day use facilities.

—Dana Point Headlands, Orange County: To provide bluff-top park and recreation areas.

—Torrey Pines State Reserve, San Diego County: To provide additions to the reserve and Penasquitos Lagoon wetlands.

—Point Dume, Los Angeles County: To buy headland with views of Santa Monica Bay and mountains and access property to several beaches.

—Paradise Cove, Los Angeles County: To provide beach, parking sites and beach frontage.

—Malibu Bluffs, Los Angeles County: To provide park, vista point, possible camping area and shuttle bus terminus.

—Lower Topanga Canyon, Los Angeles County: To provide parking and camping space for adjacent beach and a trail head for Topanga State Park.

—Ormond Beach, Ventura County: to provide beachlands and supporting upland recreational facilities. The site would connect two public beaches.

County Backs Service Time For Offenders

A Harbor Municipal Court program allowing misdemeanor offenders to volunteer for community service projects instead of paying fines or serving jail terms won the endorsement of county supervisors Tuesday.

Supervisors authorized county officials to seek a $44,981 federal grant to continue the program. The state and county each would contribute $2,499 in addition.

A report to supervisors said during its first year, placements were made with more than 140 agencies, including the Red Cross, Braille Institute, Fairview State Hospital, boys and girls clubs, parks departments and community centers.

The program is operated through the Voluntary Action Center of Newport Beach.

Charity Bingo Given Final County Okay

Bingo playing in Orange County's unincorporated areas was approved Tuesday by county supervisors.

They adopted an ordinance allowing non-profit charitable organizations to hold bingo games, providing they first obtain a three-year license at $50.

Supervisors' Chairman Ralph Diedrich voted against the measure, as he had when it was given first reading last week.

He had suggested a $250 prize limit per game is too high.

The ordinance was made possible by a statewide ballot measure allowing local government to permit bingo. California and county voters approved that measure in June.

The new regulations apply to games played only in unincorporated areas outside city boundaries within the county.

Blue Eagle Shot Down

CLOVER, S.C. (AP) — Will Miss Blue Eagle fly this year at Clover High School? No, says the school's principal, Joe Gordon.

Gordon says that guidelines set down by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare indicate to him that the naming of Miss Blue Eagle — the traditional title for the school's homecoming queen — would be an act of sexual discrimination.

The contest in previous years has been entered by females only.

Father Sues Over Youth's Bike Injury

Damages to be determined in trial court are being demanded by the father of an Edison High School student who allegedly was seriously injured when he drove his bicycle into barbed wire erected near the school grounds.

Named as defendants in the Orange County Superior Court lawsuit filed by Phillip Monteith Sr. of Huntington Beach are the Orange County Flood Control District, Southern California Edison Company, the Kernview Oil Company and Laguna Beach County Water District.

The action states that Phillip Monteith Jr., 17, was cut on the face, chin and throat in an accident allegedly caused when the defendants sealed off a bicycle path traditionally used by Edison students to get to and from the school.

Voter to Benefit

Journalist: Watch for 'Balance'

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Pulitzer Prize winning journalist David Halberstam says the "Jerry and Jimmy Show," the first segment of which will air Thursday night, get the American people interested in politics again.

Halberstam, who spoke to Orange Coast College students Tuesday about the media in politics, said the upcoming debates between presidential candidates Jerry Ford and Jimmy Carter, "will help to bring 10 to 12 percent more of the electorate out on Nov. 2."

"But," he told his young audience, "what they will say is less important than your own measuring of the men."

Halberstam told his audience to "pay close attention to the inner balance and the texture of the candidates."

He predicted both candidates will be able to handle themselves very well in the debates.

"Carter is careful with words," Halberstam said. "He knows how to be understated, and TV gives its hand to the man who uses the fewest words. Carter uses a low-decibel count kind of softness."

He said Ford will not be able to get the Democratic candidate on the defensive, "and the President will try that approach on specific issues," he said.

The former New York Times reporter, who gained recognition in the 1960s for his pessimistic reports on the South Vietnam conflict, has written a series of books about that war.

His analyses include "The Making of a Quagmire," "Ho," and "The Best and the Brightest," and continues today with his current look at the media in America.

His audience Tuesday included many journalism students and instructors.

'WATCH THE MEN'
Journalist Halberstam

"President Ford has an essential decency about him," Halberstam continued. "He's not the brightest man in the world, but if he loses the election, it will be because he is not quite dynamic enough to be president."

Admitting he tends to favor Carter for president, the correspondent compared the peanut farmer as "a hybrid of John F Kennedy and evangelist Billy Graham."

"But when you watch the debates," he advised, "watch the texture of the men, not their programs. Judge not by their words, but by the balance and control of the candidates. And, after the debates, listen to your friends."

He said the news media has taken a devil's advocate role in two major national crises in the past 15 years.

"It was the media versus Lyndon Johnson over the Vietnam war, and the media against President Nixon during the Watergate encounter," Halberstam said.

"In both cases, it was the work of reporters and broadcasters that brought down both men."

He calls improvements in transportation and communication "the new monster in the U.S." saying the media has "clearly made the president more powerful, and Congress and the two major political parties weaker."

"And the media itself is getting more powerful, involuntarily filling the gap with the failing of the political party system," he said.

"The president can manipulate the television media. He can get on the air anytime he wants," Halberstam said. "The only time the House of Representatives gets on the air is when the president goes down there to deliver his State of the Union address."

He said congressmen now suffer the worst reputation in the public polls, "but it's because they are never seen on the media. In actuality, the Congress is probably doing the best job in its history, but you never see them in action."

He said Congress is partly to blame in its reluctance to allow cameras in its sessions.

"What the camera sees is terribly important," he said.

"Many of my colleagues think the media sabotaged the Vietnam war. You might think a lot of unnecessary war violence was shown, but my friends in the media think the war sanitized."

House Ban Vote Delayed

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The compatibility of housing tracts and El Toro Marine Corps Air Station jet noise was left unsettled for 30 days by county supervisors Tuesday.

The board was left seemingly split 2-2 on whether home construction should be permitted in areas a consultant has said are impacted by jet noise.

But the issue itself never came to a vote, as supervisors agreed 3-1 to continue the matter for 30 days.

Supervisor Ralph Clark voted against the delay. He said agreement should be sought again next week.

At stake is whether 10,000 acres should be added to an existing 16,500-acre noise zone within which residential construction is banned. Presently, 3,850 of those acres are planned for housing.

Supervisor Thomas Riley arrived at Tuesday's meeting with a resolution that would prohibit housing within about 3,000 of those acres.

That resolution was similar to one proposed last week by Clark, which also left the board deadlocked.

Riley's proposal also required that potential home buyers in the remaining 7,000 acres be notified in writing of the potential noise levels.

While Clark expressed support for that proposal Tuesday, Supervisor Laurence Schmit said he did not think he would vote for it.

And both he and Board Chairman Ralph Diedrich asked for more time to study the issue.

Clark insisted that Riley's proposal addressed nearly all of the issues that surfaced during lengthy debates on the topic at two board meetings last week.

"All I am asking for is a week rather than delay this 30 days," he said.

But Diedrich argued that he had taken "testimony" in his office that raised new questions about the noise-impacted areas.

He later declined to say just who offered that testimony except to say one contact was an Irvine Company employe.

RECUTTING OLD DIAMONDS

A diamond has three beauty characteristics. "Brilliance" is light reflection into your eyes. "Fire" is dispersion of light into colors. "Scintillation" is twinkling at slightest movement.

The full beauty of a diamond results when cutters use the method originated before 1700 by Peruzzi and, early in the 20th century, modified through optical science to produce today's precise 58 facet formula. Any deviation from this formula denies the diamond its full potential.

Diamonds not cut to this exact formula can be recut for maximum beauty. Changes in cutting formulas have caused recutting and size feduction of such famed jewels as the Nassak Diamond, the value of which increased though its size was reduced.

You may have a reasonable large diamond not cut to modern formula. This gem might become far more beautiful and valuable through recutting without in any way damaging its value as an antique or heirloom.

AWFULNESS DEPT. — News dispatches filtering out of our wonderful County Seat early this week indicate that Santa Ana City Council members have just been subjected to gross indignities and terrible affronts to their moral values.

The tortures that these dedicated public servants have been subjected to can be fairly characterized as an outrage.

What happened, you see, was that the Santa Ana City Council people were forced to sit in a back room and sift through two satchels filled with dirty pictures.

You need some background to understand how they got forced into this distasteful task.

SANTA ANA HAS two movie houses that in euphemistic terms are called adult theaters. In plain language, this means they show sex films. One of these theaters happens to operate in a shopping center just a stone's throw from what was once considered the flower of all Santa Ana residential neighborhoods.

This particular house is currently screening an epic titled, "Autobiography of a Flea" — which sounds innocent enough. Apparently, however, it isn't fitting for a kiddie matinee.

Anyway, certain of Santa Ana's good citizens have become outraged at the operations of these two movie houses and have demanded that the municipal government do something.

Santa Ana's city brass found itself stymied by recent court rulings which have flung out municipal ordinances designed to shut down the showing of flesh films.

Now the city calculates it can close them down by filing civil suits.

This requires, however, that the city file a new suit on each new film that gets screened.

THUS IT WAS that the news dispatches chronicled how a special attorney showed up at City Hall with the two big satchels. They were filled with still photographs taken from the Triple-X rated movie currently on the screen.

Alas, it would be necessary for the good City Council members to sift through all these pictures and determine if the movie is indeed lewd.

The chore was apparently considered so distasteful that, according to the news, several council members had fled city hall before the photographs arrived. But they were quickly rounded up when the word leaked out.

One council member flatly refused to view the sexy pictures. He declared it was late and it would ruin his dinner.

THE OTHERS, HOWEVER, grimly went about the task. They closeted themselves behind closed doors and spent 35 minutes in the agony of judging the pictures for pornographic content.

Emerging from this terrible session, it was announced to the press that there hadn't been enough time to make a moral judgment. Council members will have to meet again in the back room and once again suffer the indignities of poring over all these sex pictures.

Sometimes, when you are a dedicated public servant, you suffer terrible consequences.

Hendrix Heir?

An appeals court in Sweden has upheld a lower court ruling that Jimi, 6-year-old son of Eva Sundqvist, was fathered by the late American rock star Jimi Hendrix. The ruling is not binding on this country, but the mother's lawyer said he expects the boy now will become heir to Hendrix' estate, valued at about $1 million.

Jackson Wins Easy Senatorial Primary

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, one of the big losers in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes, is proving once again that he can be a big winner at home. And Dixy Lee Ray was leading in her quest to become Washington's first woman governor.

Jackson barely broke a sweap in capturing his party's nomination Tuesday night for a fifth term in the junior Senate seat from Washington, defeating two little-known opponents.

DR. RAY, A FORMER chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, led in a close contest for the Democratic nomination for governor. With 93 percent of the precincts reporting, she had 185,355 votes or 38 percent of 177,379 votes or 36 percent for Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman. Environmentalist Marvin Durning ran third.

Elsewhere, Rep. Henry Helstoski (D-N.J.) won renomination in a special primary despite an indictment charging him with bribery, and House Speaker Carl Albert's top aide lost his bid for Albert's Oklahoma congressional seat.

Helstoski, indicted with three aides on charges of taking money in return for helping South American aliens win their citizenship, defeated state Assemblyman Byron Baer by about 3,500 votes in a Democratic primary called following allegations of vote fraud in their first contest June 8. Helstoski had won the first election by 1,500 votes.

ALBERT'S AIDE, CHARLES Ward, was defeated in a Democratic runoff by State Sen. Wes Watkins, who also defeated him in the first primary. Ward had been endorsed by Albert, who is retiring.

Also in Oklahoma, Carol McCurley, a housewife, defeated Stephen Jones, a former American Civil Liberties Union lawyer, for a Republican nomination. She will face Rep. Glenn English in November.

In the same state, former hospital administrator Tom Dunlap won the Democratic nomination for the seat of retiring Republican Rep. John Jarman.

In Washington congressional races, Democratic incumbents Brock Adams and Lloyd Meeds were renominated easily.

Norm Dicks, a former aide to Sen. Warren Magnuson, defeated state Rep. Mike Parker in another Democratic race. Incumbent Democrat Floyd Hicks is retiring to seek a seat on the state Supreme Court.

Terrorists Claim Bombing at Hilton

NEW YORK (AP) — The Puerto Rican terrorist group FALN has claimed responsibility for a powerful bomb that exploded in a stairwell of the New York Hilton, 21 floors above a banquet where Puerto Rican Gov. Rafael Hernandez-Colon was being honored.

No one was injured in the blast.

A woman who identified herself as an FALN member called the New York Post after the explosion Tuesday night to report the bombing in protest of Hernandez-Colon's visit. Police said they later found an FALN communique taped to a telephone in a booth one block from the hotel.

POLICE COMMISSIONER Michael Codd said contents of the note would be made public today.

FALN is the acronym for a Spanish phrase meaning Armed Forces of National Liberation of Puerto Rico. The organization has been linked to about a dozen bombings in the last two years in the New York City area, including the unsolved 1975 bombing of historic Fraunces Tavern in the Wall Street area. Four persons were killed in that bombing. Banks and government buildings also have been targets of the group.

The woman caller to the Post warned that another bomb would go off shortly afterward at the Statler Hilton hotel, also in midtown, but police said they found no device there. A ticking noise coming from an elevator bank was traced to a transformer.

THE BLAST AT THE New York Hilton tore through a 24th-floor stairwell, blowing out a section of the landing and wall, bursting some water pipes and sending smoke into the hallway, authorities and witnesses said.

More Dyes Banned

Carbon Black, Red No. 4 Suspected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) today banned the artificial colors used to make maraschino cherries red and jelly beans and licorice black, saying their safety is questionable.

Laboratory tests with dogs suggest that food dye called Red No. 4 may cause urinary bladder polyps and atrophy of the adrenal glands, the FDA said. Furthermore, there is no reliable testing method to assure that the color carbon black does not contain a cancer-causing byproduct, the agency said.

THE FDA ANNOUNCED it also will ban 10 other color additives, approved for use only in cosmetics, in 30 days; that it will permanently approve 20 other colors for use only in external drugs and cosmetics by the year's end; and give industry more time to conduct further safety testing of 52 other colors, three of them in food.

Richard Ronk, head of FDA's color additives division, said the carbon black ban signals an end to black jelly beans and licorice. But an FDA spokesman and an official of the National Confectioners Association in Chicago both said other products could be used to make the candies.

"The termination of carbon black in jelly beans and licorice does not mean the end of these products. A black substitute can be used," the FDA spokesman said.

BENDT BLADEL, technical director of the National Confectioners Association in Chicago, said most of the association's members were prepared to switch to a substitute coloring. "I do feel confident that the candy manufacturers have been getting ready for this and have found other substitutes which are 100 percent acceptable to the FDA and which have been found acceptable by customers," he said.

It was unclear whether the Red No. 4 ban would spell the end for red maraschino cherries or whether another additive can be used.

The color does not influence the flavor of cherries, which also are marketed in green and in their natural yellow color after processing.

THE BAN DOES NOT affect already-produced stocks.

Three years ago, the Giant Food retail chain began marketing maraschino cherries without artificial coloring in its 110 stores in Virginia, Maryland and Washington, D.C. But "they have not been a wildly popular product," store officials say.

"People always think cherries should be red, and yellow ones just don't register. They're looking for something red to put on grapefruit or in whiskey sours," said Janet Tenney, assistant to Giant's vice president for consumer programs.

Ex-envoy Killed

Chilean Police Blamed for Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of the ruling military junta in Chile are charging that nation's secret police with responsibility for a bomb blast that ripped through the car of a former Chilean official, killing him and a woman colleague.

The explosion in downtown Washington killed Orlando Letelier, 44, ambassador to the United States under the late Chilean President Salvador Allende. Ronnie Karpen Moffitt, 25, a staff member at the Institute for Policy Studies where Letelier ran a foreign affairs program, was riding in the front seat and also was killed.

Her husband, Michael, a research associate at the liberal research institute, who was in the back seat, survived with injuries that didn't require hospitalization.

Ceremony Boycott Planned

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Leftist Moslem leader Kamal Jumblatt and his supporters will boycott the swearing-in Thursday of President-elect Elias Sarkis because it is being held in Syrian-occupied territory, Jumblatt announced today.

"The decision to hold the swearing-in ceremony in a Syrian-occupied area mirrors the depth of the disgrace Lebanon has sunk to," Jumblatt said in a statement.

Soyuz Pair Plan to Land

MOSCOW (AP) — The two cosmonauts orbiting the earth in Soyuz 22 are preparing to return to the Soviet Union after only a week in space, Tass announced today.

The official Soviet news agency said Col. Valery Bykovsky, the 42-year-old commander of the mission, and Vladimir Aksenov, the 41-year-old flight engineer, completed their work on "biological objects" this morning and "began operations to prepare for their flight back to earth."

Indicted President's Job Mulled

WASHINGTON (AP) — With its president, James Hastings, now under indictment, the board of directors of the New York-based Associated Industries will consider this week whether to continue him in his $52,500-a-year position.

Hastings, a former upstate New York congressman, was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of mail fraud and false statements in connection with a payroll kickback scheme involving three of his employes.

SWAT Closes In

Smoke poured from the house where Los Angeles SWAT team members surrounded Stephen Coats, 22, (above) and another youth after a couple they'd held hostage escaped. When the pair were alone in the house, SWAT members poured in rounds of tear gas, driving the two outside and setting the house ablaze. More than 75 percent of the house burned before the fire was extinguished. The incident was reportedly a simple burglary which escalated along with police responses.

Witnesses Lash Nursing Homes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of a state commission probing licensing of California nursing homes says pictures of some patients look like people he saw at the Auschwitz concentration camp.

Nathan Shapell, a Polish Jew who was incarcerated at the German concentration camp, made the comment at a hearing by the Commission on California State Government Organization and Economy.

AT THE HEARING, several ex-patients and patients' relatives told of urine burns, bed sores, rough handling and other results of poor quality care in nursing homes.

Shapell, a Beverly Hills building contractor, said in clipped tones at the close of the hearing, "We saw some pictures here that I have not seen since Auschwitz, and I am a graduate of Auschwitz."

John Brooks, a 64-year-old San Francisco resident whose wife was in a nursing home before her death from cancer, also gave a stinging indictment of nursing homes at the hearing.

IN A SLOW, HALTING voice, the short, black man said, "Nursing homes do not have a human feeling for no one. They only have a human feeling when they hear those cash registers ring."

Repeatedly, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s already-beleaguered state Department of Health came under attack at the hearing about the quality of federal-state nursing home inspections and licensing.

Brown's director of the Department of Health, Jerome Lackner, responded in his testimony that he didn't deny that the department "had a long way to go."

ROBERT GERST, A NURSING home industry spokesman, said there had been major changes in nursing home regulations in the last year with "much more enforcement."

Department officials testified they were working to upgrade the caliber of inspections at the 1,200 state-licensed nursing home facilities in California.

Present law mandates that state investigators inspect nursing homes once a year, but state officials said they wanted to do six to eight checks a year starting by next July 1.

ALL THIS TESTIMONY was not enough to assure some members of the commission, known as the "Little Hoover" Commission.

Robert DeMonte, a commission member from Piedmont, told Lackner he thought the Brown administration might be "over before you are ready to start directing the Department of Health."

Drivers OK RTD Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bus drivers have voted to accept a new contract with the Rapid Transit District, but talks between striking mechanic-maintenance workers and the RTD have broken off without a settlement.

State Conciliator Thomas McCarthy will try to get the talks going again on Thursday, said RTD spokesman Pat Barry. He added there is no immediate word on whether the talks have shown any progress. The main issue is wages.

Meanwhile, a dispute remains regarding exactly what the new contract means to drivers, since both sides have claimed victory in the month-long dispute.

AS THE STRIKE moved into its 32nd day today, drivers overwhelmingly approved a new three-year contract which the RTD said gave drivers about a 19.4 percent increase in wages and fringe benefits.

However, union officials told their drivers before their ratification vote that the new contract would provide them with 21 percent more in fringe benefits and wages.

Police Reopening Overdose Case

TORRANCE (AP) — Police have reopened their investigation of the drug overdose death of child star Mary Anissa Jones after arresting a physician who had treated her on charges of dispensing drugs without prescriptions.

Police Lt. Robert Armstrong said Dr. Don Carlos Moshos, 65, of Torrance, was arrested on a district attorney's complaint charging him with 11 counts of illegally dispensing drugs. He was freed on $5,000 bond.

Miss Jones, 18, appeared as Buffy in the television series "Family Affair," which starred Brian Keith. She was found dead of an apparent drug overdose Aug. 28 in the bedroom of a friend's oceanside apartment.

New Plans for City

Huntington Beach has been batting around the problem of redevelopment of the obviously blighted downtown area for nearly a decade.

It now appears the city is on the verge of approving a revitalization plan after several efforts in past years have proved fruitless.

The city council has scheduled a public hearing on the new plan Oct. 11. Passage appears assured and Huntington Beach should at long last be on the way to becoming a destination resort designed to capitalize on the tourist trade.

There appears to be no question that revitalization of some kind is needed.

Equally needed, however, is a means for officials to put before the affected citizens the pros and cons of specific issues such as high rise, density and possible relocation of residents.

Unless this problem is addressed, the city council — which doubles as the redevelopment agency — could end up without proper consideration for those most affected.

Residents should clearly know what redevelopment will mean to them before the plan is approved.

Study in Contrasts

How times change.

The Fountain Valley School District passed through one of its smoothest teacher negotiations under new collective bargaining laws with the approval of a one-year contract last week.

Right across Beach Boulevard, however, at the Ocean View School District, the teachers and school board are expected to be fighting tooth and nail over a contract for some time to come.

According to Fountain Valley teachers, their contract negotiations this time went along without a hitch. In past years trustees had to call in a third party to mediate disputes. Last year there was a three-day strike.

A strike at Ocean View does not appear likely at this time. A mediator must be called in, however, to try to shake up the stalled contract talks. Teachers want the district to submit to the decision of an impartial third party but the school board said it will not agree to this procedure now.

Fountain Valley should bottle whatever magic it has worked with its teachers this year and export a large dosage to Ocean View.

Once Is Enough

For nearly two weeks, hundreds of Huntington Beach residents have been offended — even sickened — by obnoxious fumes unearthed at a construction site.

Citizens have complained that the garlic-like smell has caused splitting headaches and spells of nausea. After two weeks their patience is understandably wearing thin.

Preliminary laboratory tests haven't revealed much information other than noting the fumes do not appear to be harmful.

There are conflicting reports about the source of the odor. Some believe it is caused by a natural seepage of a petroleum compound into the affected soil. Others say the odors stem from dumped materials or some substance filtering in from another site.

Whatever the source, the city should have had it pinned down by now and, in fact, should have either ordered or at least recommended a remedy.

When this situation is cleared up — if, indeed, it ever is — it could serve as a lesson for future dirt movement at construction sites. Perhaps more analytical core samples could predict such a problem before it occurs.

We're All A Little Eccentric

SYDNEY HARRIS

Speaking of paranoid behavior, as I was the other day, it's worth keeping in mind that all of us are a little off-focus in some way or another. The occupant of the adjoining cell to mine, Bill Mauldin, the cartoonist, rushed back the other day to test the door of his office. "I'm never sure I locked it," he explained, "and I always think I've left the gas on in the stove at home." I smiled understandingly, as a man who practices his own small insanities.

When I drop important letters down a mail chute, I always give the receptacle an extra bang or two, for fear that a letter might be left in the chute and never delivered, thereby calling down bill collectors or the IRS on my innocent head.

I AM ALSO a nut about clean cutlery and glasses in restaurants, absolutely refusing to use any utensil bearing the slightest sign of soil; yet I will nonchalantly pick up a peanut or a piece of candy that has dropped to the floor and pop it in my mouth. Inconsistent, huh?

Half the time, on a long motor trip, I smell "something burning" in the engine, and stop to lift the hood for an inspection. Nothing is burning, of course, except that small hole in my head.

For years (I am ashamed to tell you how old I was before I got over it) I just "couldn't" swallow a pill even the size of an aspirin, but would mash it finely and dissolve it in a glass of water.

Then someone casually mentioned to me that I swallowed chunks of meat far larger than any pill without ever thinking of it, and from that day on I never had any trouble taking pills. (By that time, I was a full grown man with an unjustified reputation for logical thinking.)

MOST OF US are filled to the brim with absurd and irrational habits or idiosyncracies which are just barely this side of nuttiness. And it makes little difference how much "reason" we display in the larger areas of life; psychiatrists who are professionally aware of these aberrations have their own little pet insanities, as any of their wives or children would be willing to tell you.

Phobias and manias, in their milder forms, afflict nearly all people. Some of the most eminent and distinguished men and women in the country "cannot" fly in an airplane for fear of crashing; yet every day they drive in autos that are many times more dangerous. Reality, facts, statistics, have nothing to do with their fear, which has unconscious roots.

The imagination of man is far more powerful (because more ancient) than his rational faculties. We are all, to some degree, the captives of primitive magic — and the craziest people of all are those who imagine that they are totally logical and utterly reasonable. For such insanity, there is no remedy whatever.

To the Editor:

Property tax payers are aware that due to the increased evaluation their taxes are going up tremendously. However, in order to reduce these taxes it must be understood where this tax money is going. The largest portion of the tax bill goes to schools, and yet the schools are unable to reduce taxes because it is the combination of the state sales tax and the property tax money that finance the operation of the schools.

If the local property tax money received by the school districts is increased, then the amount of state money received is decreased proportionately. The portion of sales tax money which was to be used for schools will now go into the general fund to help balance the state budget.

THE AMOUNT of money that Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley will not receive from the state is in the millions of dollars. Imagine how much money this is statewide.

Four years ago the sales tax was increased 1 percent in order to reduce the property tax. If the state is not going to give this money to the school districts because of increased local property tax, should not this 1 percent sales tax be given back to the people, rather than allowing the state to use it for other purposes? Should this not become a very important issue to be thoroughly investigated?

Not 'Kooks'

To the Editor:

The issues confronting today's world and our nation have become so numerous and intricate, that study groups, committees, boards, etc. are becoming more prevalent among our governing bodies. Rapid change taking place throughout the universe, and various new elements and influences, interlocking and merging into each problem, is the basis for the complications.

Among the newer issues challenging this planet and demanding solution is that of the environment. When this issue is given priority over the universe's other transactions humanity may come out of the tailspin. For environment involves being able to function, to exist, and it concerns everything that is still alive.

AMID THOSE who have been alert to this all important issue are the environmentalists who strive to educate and warn this nation and the world of possible oncoming self destruction. They are, frequently, called "alarmists" or "Doomsdayists" or alluded to as "kooks" or "ecofreaks" by those who will not, or cannot, accept the necessity of conserving our remaining resources and who ignore pollution and what it has already done to the air and water.

They seem unaware that it has been suggested that the homo sapiens should be included on the various lists of endangered species. There are also among the homo sapiens citizens who have become computerized into materialistic robots. They search, sadly, for the mythical pot of gold reputed to be at the end of every rainbow, then, in the process, they destroy the rainbows and the environment with their greedy and destructive attempts.

Nevertheless, the facts concerning continued or discontinued life on what is left of this planet must be faced, or our nation and the world will continue to self-destruct. Instead of the usual put-down of environmentalists, thinking people should band together to solve this most important issue. Then, when the other problems and issues are solved, humanity will move on to the greatest and most fantastic era in all of history.

Let Them Pay

To the Editor:

There is much todo when someone is arrested in a foreign country for smuggling drugs. You would think their United States citizenship licenses them to smuggle dope.

But what of the fishing boats, hijacked on the high seas and held for ransom by two-bit Central American countries? They get very little attention from the U.S. government.

I would say that if someone is caught smuggling by a foreign government, let them serve their time; they earned it.

JAMES BOLDING

Patriotism

To the Editor:

Jimmy Carter said in a speech at the national convention of the American Legion in Seattle that the veterans of the past wars should be cared for, and the nation's morale rebuilt so that patriotism is no longer "an object of scorn or jokes."

I heartily agree with him on that statement.

If he is sincere about what he said, I hope the next time he meets with Governor Brown he will sit down and have an eyeball-to-eyeball talk about our veterans and patriotism.

I WONDER if he knows our highly esteemed governor was invited to speak at the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Los Angeles last year but snubbed them. I wonder if he knows they offered him the American flag and he refused to accept it. I wonder if he knows that California has the only governor who refuses to sign the Loyalty Day Proclamation.

I wonder if he knows that when Gov. Brown was asked prior to the Fourth of July what his plans were for the Bicentennial said, "I have none." Some patriot isn't he?

If Jimmy Carter does not know about the unpatriotic behavior of the governor of California, then I think it is high time he and the people of this state and country were made aware of it.

Alcohol Facts

To the Editor:

I want to congratulate Doris Lee on the excellent job of writing, reporting and interpretation in the alcoholism story, Sept. 12.

I know it wasn't the easiest story in the world because it's a complex subject and there was information to distill.

The story was accurate and I think presented a good overview of the problem and the disease.

I HAVE heard nothing but favorable comments on it from people in the field of alcoholism and from people in Alcoholics Anonymous.

It is stories such as this which get the lifesaving information out to the alcoholic who is still out there (or in there, in the case of the housewife) and which also lend support to sober alcoholics by helping to alleviate stigma.

Many thanks as a representative of the alcoholism council, and as a recovered alcoholic.

Let Viewers Judge

To the Editor:

In a major election year, with apathy threatening to turn into a complete boycott of our polls, I was most disappointed in the immature judgment of the television newsmen's threat of boycotting the presidential debate. Their reason, though not actually stated, was simply their inability to interpret the debate as it was taking place. The interpretation would be done in a very subtle manner and the viewing audience would, for the most part, hardly recognize that the newsmen's interpretation had been made.

OVER THE years we have grown used to television's explanation of merely focusing the camera on an object, a person, or whatever, but did that not become a major point helping us to come to some conclusion of the story or news item that we were watching? This is great for fictional drama, but do we need this type of interpretation on such a critical matter as who shall be the guardian of the White House for the next four years?

I would urge those who are arranging the debates to hold firm to their dedication of keeping this as fair and free from anyone's interpretation as possible. Let's cover only the two debaters, the moderator and the panel. In the 16 years since the last presidential debate, I feel that most of us have become more sophisticated in our use of television and are very capable of making our own judgments without the help of the reactions of the audience in attendance.

Educators Missed the Obvious

EARL WATERS

At long last the complaints of parents and employers about the state's public education system have penetrated the legislative halls. For years, despite the hundreds of millions poured into the public schools, students have been graduating from high school, and college as well, unable to read, spell or do simple arithmetic.

It took a freshman Assemblyman, Gary K. Hart of Santa Barbara, to bring about some action to remedy the situation. A native of California who taught high school for ten years, Hart had the first hand experience to bolster his arguments for legislation which will require proficiency in basic subjects for future high school diplomas. With degrees from both Stanford and Harvard he also had impeccable credentials as an educator.

About the only criticism one could make of Hart's solution is that it puts part of the burden of basic education upon the high schools. In pushing his bill Hart said that fully 20 percent of the high school students are below ninth grade levels in abilities to read and compute.

SINCE READING, spelling and arithmetic are subjects not taught in high school, one might feel better if his legislation precluded emergence from grade school, which has the responsibility, until those subjects are mastered. For the amount of benefit to be gained in high school must be diminished by deficiencies in reading and computing. How, for example, can one learn algebra and geometry without being able to add two and two?

Still, Hart's measure is remarkable progress in the face of the repugnance of the school people to suffer any criticisms or accept any suggestions. And it does put the gate much closer to where it belongs than did the recent rule adopted by the State University Trustees. Under their edict, near illiterates will continue to be admitted to college but won't be graduated if, after four years of cluttering up the classes, they can't pass tests in the basic subjects.

HART'S MEASURE provides for what he terms "early warnings" or alerts. It will require that the schools give tests between the 7th and 9th grades and twice afterwards before the twelfth grade. Presumably, remedial classes will have to be provided for those not making the grades and no diplomas for the ultimate failures.

State Superintendent of Instruction Wilson Riles has long complained that the reason for low achievements in these areas is due to the multitude of legislative mandated programs which divert from the basic subjects. Hart agrees.

Most of these added burdens have little to do with education as was envisioned when the state instituted free public schools. Much has been the result of social programmers who have pressured the Legislature into adopting compulsory courses in everything but the "three Rs". Students were passed along regardless of their grades as long as they didn't create problems. In the face of that, students opt for the easy courses such as shop and physical education.

So parents and employers will find much encouragement and satisfaction in the enactment of Hart's bill. But there also must be a regret and a great disillusionment in the realization that the Legislature must decree something which everyone would have expected that educators worthy of the name would have been doing all along.

Debaters' Past Positions a Preview?

By the Associated Press

President Ford and Jimmy Carter are sure to cover some familiar ground in their debate Thursday night on domestic and economic issues.

Here is a brief guide to what the candidates already have said on some of the questions involved:

ABORTION: Both personally oppose abortion. Carter also says he does not favor "a constitutional amendment which would prohibit all abortions, nor one that would give states local options to ban abortions." Ford opposes a national ban on abortion, but supports "an amendment which would permit each state, or the voters in each state, to make the decision on that state's abortion policy."

AMNESTY: Carter says, ". . .I am going to issue a blanket pardon for all those outside our country or in this country, who did not serve in the armed forces. I am going to issue a pardon, not an amnesty." Ford set up a program in 1974 offering conditional pardons to draft evaders. GOP Vice Presidential nominee Robert Dole says: "Let there be no confusion as to President Ford's position on this issue. It is unequivocal. . .— no blanket pardon, no blanket amnesty, no blanket clemency."

CARTER

BUSING: Both oppose forced busing. Carter says he will support the rulings of the federal courts, however, and does not believe the subject should be "reopened with a constitutional amendment." Ford says "busing as a remedy ought to be the last resort and. . .limited in scope to correcting the effects of previous constitutional violations." He sent legislation to Congress to limit busing.

EDUCATION: Carter urges increased federal aid for public schools and allowing revenue-sharing funds to be used for education. Ford sent Congress a plan to consolidate federal aid for elementary and secondary schools and has said he will try to find a way to use the tax system to help families "who choose to send their children to nonpublic schools." He also says, "No student should be denied access to a postsecondary education because of financial barriers."

NEWS ANALYSIS

ENERGY: Carter has urged increased emphasis on solar power and coal and says, "U.S. dependence on nuclear power should be kept to the minimum necessary. . .Atomic power itself should be relegated to the last priority as far as energy sources are concerned." Ford ordered a concerted review of U.S. nuclear policy. He supports development of nuclear energy and has proposed an Energy Independence Authority to provide $100 billion in loan guarantees to encourage investment in energy projects and speed up nuclear production.

FARM POLICY: Carter and Ford say they are against embargoes on foreign grain shipments except in extraordinary circumstances, such as a shortage at home. Carter told a crowd in Des Moines, Iowa: "Under my administration, if I'm elected, there will never be another embargo that singles out farm products." He said any embargo "would have to be an extreme case." Ford, who imposed a temporary embargo in 1975, said in accepting the presidential nomination, "We will never use the bounty of America's farmers as a pawn in international diplomacy. No embargoes!"

FORD

HEALTH INSURANCE: Carter urges "a national health insurance program, financed by general-tax revenues and employer-employee shared payroll taxes which is universal and mandatory." He says the added annual federal expenditure might be $10 billion, but has not provided specific details. Ford opposes an all-inclusive national health insurance, but has proposed a catastrophic illness plan to cover everyone now covered by Medicare. No one over 64 would pay more than $500 a year for covered hospital or nursing home care or more than $250 a year for doctor bills.

HOUSING: Carter says "A direct subsidy of new housing units is essential." He also says that the $10 billion to $11 billion in tax breaks now provided to homeowners represents about the right level "of encouragement for home construction and home ownership," but he is not sure whether he will retain those breaks in their present form or in some new program. Ford said last week that he would recommend reduced down payments on lower and medium-priced homes to encourage home ownership and would order the Department of Housing and Urban Development to expedite implementation of a new program under which mortgage payments are lower during the early years of home ownership and rise gradually with family income.

INFLATION: Carter says he believes inflation — now over 6 percent — can be cut to 3 or 4 percent by 1979 or 1980 by comprehensive planning, controlled budgets and businesslike management of government. He says, "I'm against across-the-board permanent wage and price controls, but I do favor standby controls. . ." Ford says, "My first objective is to have sound economic growth without inflation." He opposes wage and price controls, but adds, "We do have a wage-price council that. . .on several occasions has been helpful in trying to get a moderation of a price increase."

JOBS: Carter says, "The major priority of the next administration has got to be unemployment." He supports the Humphrey-Hawkins bill aimed at reducing adult unemployment to 3 percent, by 1980, but says he prefers job creation in the private rather than the public sector. Ford also stresses private employment. "But," he says, "the federal government can create conditions and incentives for private industry to make more and more jobs." He says he expects unemployment to fall below 7 percent this year and 6 percent next year. Ford's goal is 2½ million new jobs a year. That would take care of the two million who normally join the labor force every year and would reduce unemployment by 500,000.

REORGANIZATION: Carter says, "I believe the present 1,900 federal departments can be reduced to no more than 200 with a great savings in tax money and a streamlining of services to our people." He has not said which agencies will be eliminated. Ford also condemns the size of government bureaucracy and urges cutbacks. The President Ford Committee says that during the first two years of the Ford administration, the number of federal forms that have to be filled out by individuals at all levels was cut by about 12 percent.

SPENDING: Carter says, "We can attain a balanced budget with full employment by 1979. . ." He urges zero-based budgeting, with government programs required to rejustify all expenditures annually. He says, "There will be no new programs implemented under my administration unless we can be sure that the cost is compatible with my goal of having a balanced budget. . ." Ford proposed a $394 billion spending ceiling for fiscal 1977 — almost $20 billion below that approved by Congress. Ford also says, "We will submit in the fiscal year 1979 a balanced budget."

TAXES: Carter promises a comprehensive reform plan by the first part of 1978. He says he cannot provide specifics now, but has four principles: "Treat all income the same. . .tax income only once. . .a progressive tax rate. . .greatly simplify the whole system." He says his aim is to increase taxes for those earning higher incomes and decrease taxes for those in lower and middle-income brackets. When pressed in an AP interview for a definition of what he meant by higher, Carter said: "I don't know. I would take the mean or me-

He Died On Own Gallows

Nobody knows who invented the gallows, but the fellow who first put a trap door in the thing, thus to drop the victim to a merciful snapping death, has been identified as William Brodie of Edinburgh, Scotland. A carpenter was he by day, a bandit by night. As a well respected townsman, his trap door innovation was accepted immediately. Not until later when he was caught in muggings and murders did the irony emerge. A jury sentenced him to death on his own gallows, the first so to die.

SHAVING

Q. "How come all barbers shave the cheeks and sideburns first before getting around the upper lip and chin?"

A. Didn't realize all barbers did that, but those who do so probably want to give the thicker whiskers more time to soften up in the moisture.

In this country, statistically, it's in the South where the police officer is most likely to be killed in the line of duty. Next most likely, the North Central states. Third most likely, along the Pacific Coast. Least likely, in the Northeast.

True, there aren't any real pink elephants, but there are real elephants with naturally pink tusks, sir.

ORANGE COUNTY

Water Project Begins

By RAY ESTRADA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A $30 million system designed to protect Orange County's ground water from sea water intrusion barrier will begin operating this week, Orange County Water District (OCWD) spokesmen have announced.

The hydraulic barrier involving 23 water injection wells located along Ellis Avenue between the Santa Ana River and Beach Boulevard in Fountain Valley which will be used along with seven water extraction facilities.

MASSIVE intrusion is not likely but the threat of salt water encroachment is still present in the Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley areas, OCWD officials said. If water pressures permit, sea water can push inland through fresh water aquifers (underground water-bearing rock or sand) which have direct access to the ocean, officials said, ruining underground water supplies.

Seven extraction wells, located about halfway between the injection facilities and the ocean, intercept and return brackish water to the ocean.

When the project becomes fully operational sometime in October, as much as 10 million gallons of water will be extracted and more than 20 million gallons injected into the county's aquifers, according to Dave Argo, OCWD district engineer.

THE INJECTION water initially will be a blend of well and waste water, Argo said. The state water resources board has ruled the water used in the project cannot exceed 550 parts per million in total dissolved solids.

The treated waste water used in the project is required to be mixed on a 50-50 basis with well water by the state health department.

WITH LITTLE rainfall in the past several years, uuderground water use has been at its highest levels. Orange County receives about 60 percent of its fresh water from wells.

The OCWD has been involved in a similar protection project along with the Los Angeles Flood Control District since 1965. It is the Alamitos Barrier Project, consisting of 17 jointly operated injection wells two miles inland near the San Gabriel River.

Transit Committee Reduction Sought

The future elimination of Orange County Transit District (OCTD) study committees has been suggested by one district director.

Director Al Hollinden, a Fountain Valley city councilman, said the two-member committees could be replaced with a third OCTD board meeting each month.

HE SAID the five committees were designed for long range district planning. Yet, he said, they have become discussion sessions between committee members and the OCTD staff about upcoming agenda items.

As a result, Hollinden said, directors not on those committees lack the benefit of the discussions and are left at meetings sometimes complaining about insufficient background material.

Directors did agree to reduce the number of committees from five to three as had been recommended in a management audit.

HOLLINDEN noted scheduling of committee meetings had become a "nightmare," and he said if OCTD was to have committees at all, three would be a better number.

Director Robin Young, a La Habra City Council member, agreed with Hollinden, saying she hadn't liked the committee system, but had found nothing better to replace it.

Board Chairman Ralph Clark, a county supervisor, said he is not prepared to abandon the system, contending its benefits outweigh its weaknesses.

And OCTD director William Farris said the system helped him become acquainted with staff members and district operations firsthand, when he joined the OCTD board.

The new committees include planning and inter-agency coordination to handle long-range financial planning, transit operations to handle planning for the current and next fiscal year and management and administration to handle administering the current budget and drafting next year's budget.

How I turned from a loser into

"A MAN CALLED ACE"

Dear Friend:

Today you would recognize my name in an instant, so far and fast has my fame spread. Yesterday was a different story.

Then I was a duffer at tennis, a plodder, never seeming to improve. I had three long years of handy hints from my opponents, reading books and magazines and I still never learned the difference between the continental and western grips. After all that time and effort, my forehand was wishy-washy, my backhand a contortionist's dream and my overhead smash a quivering mass of gelatin.

I was like every one of you. My name was C Player.

I was also poor and ugly. I paid so much for tennis balls my wallet was flatter than my feet, and whenever I saved some money I spent it on a new racquet, hoping it would be the one to help. It never was. I was forced into wearing my faded white bathing trunks and stained navy sweatshirt on the courts, hoping they would pass as tennis clothes. They never did.

Then one day I was playing a doubles match with my ex-best friend. We lost it at match point when my volley bounded weakly off the net at his feet.

"You dumb jerk," he said, among other things. But back in the locker room, he spoke more kindly.

"Listen, noodleneck. You play lousy and look worse. But just for old times' sake I'm gonna do you a favor." And he whispered the name of a Magic Place.

Well, I was desperate; I hurried there as fast as I could. Lo and behold! There were professionals who knew everything about tennis and taught me. Tennis racquets galore as free demonstrators, and I tried every one. Tennis balls at a mere $2.19 per can, and anything else under the sun a tennis player might need.

No longer was I poor; the money I saved in tennis balls alone amounted to a small fortune, and I was clothed to walk the alleys of Wimbledon without shame. My rating soared up and up, yes and verily even unto the B's. The thrill of power I got when I hit a smashing serve with the right racquet was incomparable. I ever seemed to grow more handsome.

It was less than a month afterward that the Magic Word — whispered to me by a friend in the hour of my deepest despair — enabled me to win the coveted title of Champion in the Chick 'n Bean Tourney. And I'm going to tell it to you.

Because now I need some competition.

Sincerely, Ace

At Your Service

Got a problem? Then write to Pat Dunn. Pat will cut red tape, getting the answers and action you need to solve inequities in government and business. Mail your questions to Pat Dunn At Your Service, Orange Coast Daily Pilot, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa, CA 92626. Include your telephone number. The column appears daily except Saturdays.

Appeal Procedure Booked

DEAR PAT: Could you tell me where I can obtain a booklet or brochure about small claims court? I would like to know if an attorney is allowed to be present in court and if one can appeal a decision against him.

R.R., Costa Mesa

The California Department of Consumer Affairs offers a free publication, "The Consumer And The Small Claims Court." A copy is being mailed to you by the Orange County Office of Consumer Affairs. Other readers may request this most informative publication by writing to that office at 511 N. Sycamore, Santa Ana, CA 92701, or by phoning 834-6100. Letters and calls should be directed to the attention of Jo Schetter. Regarding your specific inquiries, neither the defendant nor the plaintiff may bring a lawyer to small claims court. If the defendant loses his case, he has the right to appeal to the Superior Court within 20 days from the entry of judgment. The plaintiff does not have the right to appeal, unless he loses to a counter claim. If you wish to appeal, you must pay a filing fee with the Superior Court. The court clerk will provide further information about appeal procedure.

Mail's Late, Not Renewal

DEAR PAT: I feel that the Department of Motor Vehicles has unjustly charged me a penalty fee for late payment of my car registration renewal. The Huntington Beach Post Office held most of my mail from June 10 through July 19 without my knowledge or permission. A substitute carrier put a "vacation stop" on my mail during this time. The residence next to mine was vacant. Maybe that explains the error. When the regular postman returned, he checked with a neighbor and learned that I'd never been away. He then brought 27 pieces of delayed mail. Among them was my $68 renewal card due on July 16. I sent a check the evening of July 19, explaining the delay and that enough mail had filtered through to allay any concern I would have had about missing mail. I still have to pay the penalty even though I would never have let the renewal become delinquent. I'm already paying extra because of this new renewal system and $68 is the maximum I can afford! S.P., Huntington Beach

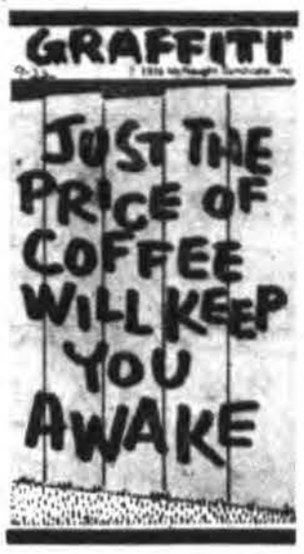
You have red tape piled on top of red tape, don't you? The Department of Motor Vehicles will reconsider its late payment penalty in view of your mixed-up mail delivery. Stop in at the Costa Mesa DMV office and B.W. Miles or G. Stromberg will work out the details to correct this late fee for you.

Repair Schedule Needs Fixing

DEAR PAT: We purchased a Marlborough Development Corp. home in The Shore at Lake Forest in El Toro. Escrow closed Dec. 24, 1975. As with any new home, there were certain items that had to be repaired. A few were taken care of soon after we moved in, but seven repairs remain untouched. My husband and I have called repeatedly since last April, but we can't get any results. I work part time and have offered to give a key to the company representative to facilitate these repairs, but even that has not helped.

L.E., El Toro

Ron Carl, service representative with Marlborough Development Corp., asks you to outline the uncompleted repairs in a letter to him. Carl said that phone call requests cannot be filled and no key can be accepted by the company. You will have to schedule each repair with his office and make certain that you are home when the repairs are to be made. Let AYS know how this arrangement works out. Be very careful not to allow your warranty period to expire before the needed repairs are made. Request written repair appointment verification outlining each specific repair to be done. If repairmen do not keep their scheduled appointments, you then will have some recourse in case not all repairs have been completed within the warranty period. Send your repairs outline by certified mail with return receipt requested, and keep a carbon copy for your files.



MGM Sued By Ex-star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie swim star Esther Williams wants to dunk Metro Goldwyn Mayer for $1 million plus a share of the profits from two recent movies that use scenes from her old films.

A lawsuit filed in Superior Court alleges MGM has been unjustly enriched and invaded Miss Williams' privacy by using scenes from several of her films in "That's Entertainment" and "That's Entertainment Part II."

THE TWO FILMS earned more than $55 million for MGM, said attorney Paul Caruso.

Miss Williams, the wife of movie actor Fernando Lamas, was under contract to MGM from 1941 to 1955, with a starting salary of $75 a week and ending at $200, making about 10 pictures in that period.

WILLIAMS

"We feel she signed to perform only for those pictures," Caruso said Tuesday, adding that although there was language in her contract allowing MGM to make whatever use it wished of her image on the screen, "that doesn't mean in perpetuity."

"EVERYBODY whose likeness was used in these pictures will be watching with great interest," he said.

He said in addition to the $1 million in damages, the suit asks for an accounting of receipts, revenues and profits from the two films.

Films that were excerpted included "Million Dollar Mermaid," "Dangerous When Wet," "Pagan Love Song," "Bathing Beauty" and others.

Wallace Rancor Fades

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, hinting at the possibility of a conspiracy, says there are still "too many gnawing questions" about the attempt on his life and the assassinations of President John Kennedy, Sen. Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.

Congress, he says, should "conduct a search for new evidence and new light in all these cases."

WALLACE'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY, "STAND Up for America," is being published Friday by Doubleday. In it, the 57-year old governor, still paralyzed in both legs from the bullets fired by Arthur Bremer, says he has "tried sincerely" to forgive Bremer for the assassination attempt at Laurel, Md., on May 15, 1972.

BREMER

". . . I honestly believe I have done so — although I continue to hate the crime he committed.

"There is little left of rancor, although there are plenty of lingering questions and doubts about his motivations. When I think of him now, my thoughts are mostly concentrated on the mystery surrounding the attack and on the contradictions between what he appears to be and what I believe he may really be."

Bremer, a busboy from Milwaukee, Wis., is serving a prison term for the shooting.

WALLACE SAYS HE IS CONVINCED that Bremer intended to kill him "right from the day he started working as a volunteer in my Wisconsin presidential campaign organization, and until he nailed me in Laurel.

"I wonder, for example," Wallace says, "where he got the money to stalk me across so many states, to rent limousines, buy a car, frequent good eating places and stay at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. This is hardly the lifestyle one would expect of a part-time busboy."

He says Bremer's diary "has a contrived tone to it, as though it were deliberately written to throw off inquiry into a possible conspiracy."

AND, HE ASKS: "IS IT A MERE coincidence that in a country where few people keep diaries anymore, just about all the political assassins have been 'Dear Diary' addicts?" Bremer's diary, the governor says, "is a strange combination of flashes of rather brilliant prose mixed with phrases even an illiterate would be ashamed of. . .One gets the impression that it was written by an educated man — but an educated man trying to give the impression of a mediocre and emotional disturbed mind . . . Are we really to believe that he is a low-intellect high school dropout?"

Park Plans Approved

A $237,000 expansion project at Irvine Regional Park was approved Tuesday by county supervisors.

The plans call for building two restrooms, installing lights and paving a parking area just south of Santiago Creek.

In addition, supervisors directed county staff members to prepare a lease for an equestrian center just north of the creek.

If Caught in Quake, Stay Still for Safety

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

If you are caught in a major earthquake, one of the worst things to do is make a run for it, according to an expert.

Ninety percent of all injuries and fatalities are incurred by falling objects such as roofs, walls, bricks and power lines, notes Huntington Beach Civil Defense Coordinator George Thyden.

"IF YOU ARE outside when it starts shaking, stay there even if your family is inside," Thyden advises.

"If you are inside, stay there. Exterior walls are more likely to fall than the interior ones," he adds.

Thyden says people can't do anything about earthquakes but can make preparations to help insure their safety if disaster strikes.

HE ADVISES FAMILIES to survey their homes for the safest areas as well as for those which pose the greatest hazards.

Thyden says the bathroom often is the safest room of all because of the more intensive structural supports.

Windows, heavy bookcases, shelves and swag lights are the greatest dangers, he notes.

He points out that residents must not remain in the line of fire of windows.

"THEY'LL JUST EXPLODE if the quake is severe enough. Bits of glass have been known to travel as far as 50 to 75 feet because of the terrific force."

Thyden explains that most of Huntington Beach lies along the Inglewood-Newport fault responsible for the 1933 Long Beach earthquake.

He says local residents can take heart, in that the California wood frame home is the safest structure there is to withstand earthquakes.

THYDEN LISTS SOME steps residents can take in advance of an earthquake.

— Establish an escape route from each room and set a safe meeting place for the family away from the danger of falling objects.

— Locate and learn how to turn off valves for water and utilities if disaster hits.

— Store enough water in plastic containers that will provide each member of the family two gallons for two days.

—HAVE A BATTERY-operated radio and flashlight in working order. The emergency broadcast system stations for Orange County are KWIZ, 1480 on the dial and KEZY, 1190.

Thyden also lists one big don't.

"Don't light a match for any reason if you smell gas." "The entire house could blow up if you do."

Tax Form Accident Accepted

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Hoaxer Clifford Irving has won a case against the government, acting as his own attorney.

Irving, 45, who gained fame — and a prison term — for selling a fake "autobiography" of the late billionaire Howard Hughes to McGraw Hill for $765,000, was accused in a civil suit of failing to report $44,000 in income when filing for bankruptcy last year.

IRVING CITED liabilities of $110,000 and assets of $770, including an old typewriter, a 1967 car and an "inoperable sailboat."

The government charged him with failing to mention $44,000 he was said to have received in connection with a movie, "Reichenbach," based on his book "Fake," about an alleged art forger.

IN A DECISION made public in bankruptcy court, Judge William Rudin ruled that Irving did not omit the $44,000 intentionally.

The judge noted that Irving had written his financial statement while in prison in Danbury, Conn., without "assistance or advice," and said he had not prepared it "with the intention to deceive."

3 Trustees To Attend Meeting

Three of Saddleback College's seven trustees will attend a four-day national community college conference in St. Louis this month.

And Norrisa P. Brandt, president of the Mission Viejo school's board of trustees, will moderate one of the conference's 12 panel discussions. Her group's topic is "Closing the Open Door: A Threat to the Lifelong Learning Concept."

Also attending the Sept. 28-Oct. 1 confab will be Laguna Beach Trustee Larry Taylor and Dr. James W. Marshall of Laguna Hills.

Mrs. Brandt said the topic of her panel is particularly important to California community colleges because of a new level of scrutiny of educational philosophies by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

She said the remainder of the conference and the organization sponsoring it, the Association of Community College Trustees, are also important to the advancement of two-year college goals.

dian level of income and anything above that would be higher and anything below that would be lower."

He said repeatedly that he did not know where the tax burden would shift, but Republicans jumped on the "median income" statement, claiming Carter would raise taxes for everyone earning more than the median, now around $13,000 a year. A Carter aide said later that families earning up to $25,000 would be considered middle income. Ford says his tax objectives "are threefold — greater equity, greater simplification, and lower taxes." He says benefits should be "directed toward middle and lower income tax payers and incentives for creation of new jobs by business." In an interview in the October issue of Reader's Digest, Ford said: "I favor giving greater tax relief to the so-called middle income taxpayers — those in the earning brackets of $8,000 to $30,000 a year."

URBAN AFFAIRS: Carter says many costs, including welfare, should be shifted from local governments. He urged a Federal Municipalities Securities Corporation to help cities market their bonds. Ford proposed consolidating some government grant programs to give cities greater leeway in spending. He told the U.S. Conference of Mayors and League of Cities: "The success of the community block grant program, like the success of the general revenue sharing program, points to one central fact: you know what to do to improve your cities and you know how to do it. . .I have faith in you. . ."

Oceanside's Secret

OCEANSIDE (AP) — After 20 years, Oceanside admits luring tourists is tough.

The slogan the city came up with in 1955 was "Tan Your Hide in Oceanside."

It's being replaced with "Oceanside — California's Best Kept Secret."

Over-60 Gays Eyed In Study

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco State has announced it is going to study homosexual men and women over 60, in part to find out what happens in the lives of such persons as they approach old age.

The study is to be financed by a two-year grant from the National Institute of Health.

The university said the study will attempt to determine the impact of sexual orientation on the life course and of aging.

The announcement said research findings will be used to improve social services and develop "community support systems" to meet the needs of older homosexual men and women.

Outside Attention Needed

By DR. STEINCROHN

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a 15-year-old girl and I am very upset and sick. I have had swollen glands in my neck for some time. Also have bad sore throats, even though my tonsils were taken out.

Lately I have been getting pains in my stomach. Sometimes they are so bad I double up in pain. I even passed out once for a few minutes.

I TOLD MY mother. She says it's all in my head. She has no confidence in doctors since my father died two years ago of cancer. She hasn't been to a doctor since and won't let me go.

The other day I made an appointment to see a doctor. She found out. Now I am locked in my room and can only go out for five minutes a day.

I HAVE taken my temperature the past five days. It runs between 101.2 and 103.2. Before that I had fever on and off. I also get dizzy spells. But my mother won't listen. I have another doctor's appointment but it doesn't look like I'll be out of the house for a few months. —Miss N.

DOCTOR IN THE HOUSE

COMMENT: So many conditions might cause fever and sore throat. The trouble might be mononucleosis or something entirely different. It's not important that I guess at a diagnosis. But what is essential is that you get a true diagnosis and treatment.

You are being held prisoner in your own home. What you need is outside help. At the risk of making your mother angrier, it seems to me you should use the few minutes of freedom you have every day to phone for help. Call a social agency or the health department.

Aside to your mother: Give your child a chance. Don't let your hostility against doctors prevent her from geting well. Maybe you need some medical advice for yourself. Why ruin two lives?

MEDICALETTES

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a 68-year-old male. Four years ago a condition developed in my right lower leg, bringing on swelling, redness and localized tenderness. I had difficulty in walking.

The original symptoms recur occasionally in the same spot. Right now the pain is quite bad and my leg is swollen and tender. I take no medicine for it. Have been told to be off my feet as much as possible and elevate my leg.

Is there no means of dissolving such clots before entering heart or lung? — Concerned Patient

COMMENT: Phlebitis that is giving so much trouble deserves more than leg elevation to control it. Better ask for consultation. You may need blood thinners.

If the condition is serious, it may even be necessary to perform an operation on veins higher up to close off the possibility of clots entering heart or lung.

Of Vows, People, Legends

OF LEGENDS—Huntington Beach High athletes got a bit of inspiration recently when they heard a talk from Cap Sheue, former coach and athletic director at HB High from the 1920s to 1950s. The kids gave Cap, now in his eighties, a couple of ovations (one standing, one sitting).

OF VOWS — Nine months ago Don Smith was told he had cancer and could expect to live for about six months. If that estimate were true it meant he would die prior to the summer Olympic Games in Montreal.

Smith, 55, vowed he would live until the Games had been concluded. That was because his son, Graham, and daughter, Becky, were swimmers on the Canadian Olympic team.

The elder Smith fulfilled his vow and watched the Olympics on TV, thus living to see Graham get a silver medal. Becky got a silver and a bronze.

"Watching them get their medals is the greatest feeling I've ever had," Smith is quoted as saying. "It is a terrific moment in my life."

Life ended for Smith Sept. 1.

OF PEOPLE—Mission Viejo High product Dave Patterson recently completed his season with the Danville Dodgers of the Midwest Class A baseball league.

Patterson had an 8-1 pitching record (the only reversal was a 1-0 verdict), struck out 55 in 75⅓ innings and yielded 82 hits. His earned run average was a flossy 1.67.

OF NOSTALGIA—A bunch of former basketball players from Estancia (Costa Mesa) and Corona del Mar Highs are getting together Friday afternoon at 5 at Estancia to go against each other one more time on the hardwoods.

Set to show up for Estancia are Scott Gayner, Skip Williams Armfelt, Gary Orgill, Craig and Mike Hays, Scott Rabe, Doug Confer and coach Bill Wetzel.

Due for CdM are Casey Jones, Dan and Mark Grigsby, Don Killian, Matt Keough, Scott Cameron, John Sumner and maybe John Yule. Charlie Brande is the coach.

Grid Lottery Sales Drag

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Ticket sales continued to drag in the second week of Delaware's new football lottery games, but lottery officials maintain there are brighter days ahead.

"I think we're just going through a learning process. Nobody's ever done this before and we have no track record to run on," said Peter Simmons, acting lottery director, in an interview this week.

Although Simmons has not made projections on what he expected the early weekly sales would be, he did say before the games started that he hoped for total sales of $6 million during the 14-week National Football League season.

So far sales have been far behind the average weekly gross of $428,000 in sales that would be needed to reach that figure.

First week sales amounted to $62,000. They dropped to $54,000 this week on 25,528 tickets sold.

Alston Says It's Cincy's Best Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, mathematically eliminated from pennant contention, offer no excuses for the Cincinnati Reds' dominance of the National League's Western Divisions.

"I'm sending a congratulatory telegram to Sparky Anderson,"

On TV Tonight
Channel 11 at 7:10

said Dodgers manager Walter Alston shortly after his club's 3-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Tuesday.

Midway through the Candlestick Park contest, the Reds clinched the pennant with a victory over Houston. The Dodgers stayed 11½ games behind Cincinnati with 11 games remaining.

"I think this is the best team the Reds have had in recent years," said Alston, whose Dodgers are 3-12 against Cincinnati with three games left in the season's series.

"George Foster and Ken Griffey came through and all their pitchers had good seasons," Alston added. "We played poorly against the Reds, Giants and Padres (14-32 combined) and that's what hurt us."

Bill Buckner, who stole home against the Giants, agreed. "It's the Reds' best team," he said. "The pitching came around and they made their bench solid by adding Bob Bailey and Mike Lum."

Steve Garvey, however, feels differently. "I don't think this year's Reds have played as well as they did in 1975," Garvey offered. "But they dominated us and that did it. We were nine out and they swept us four straight in LA."

Haden May Start For Rams Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We like to run the football," admits coach Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams, whose two running backs each have accounted for more rushing yardage this season than the entire output of next Sunday's foe.

"We like to control the football game," said the coach, but he added, "to do it we have to pass as well as run."

The New York Giants, winless in two outings, invade Los Angeles on Sunday for the Rams' home National Football League opener and the Giants have rushed a net 178 yards, including 111 by Larry Csonka, late of the Miami Dolphins and the World Football League.

The Rams, 1-0-1, have John Cappelletti with 230 yards and Lawrence McCutcheon with 225 as an illustration of how they run with the football.

Cappelletti, who won the Heisman Trophy as the star back at Penn State, won a starting job this season. He and McCutcheon provide a one-two punch of big backs.

"He's running better now than he ever has run," the coach declared Tuesday at his weekly breakfast session with sports writers.

It appeared that Pat Haden, the rookie from Southern California, again would get the starting call at quarterback, although veteran James Harris will start if he's 100 percent recovered from the fractured thumb he suffered in the preseason.

Haden was at the helm last Sunday when the Rams battled back for a 10-10 tie with Minnesota in a game that also saw a scoreless overtime period.

"Haden looked like a very poised quarterback, said Knox of the Rhodes Scholar who studies in England when not playing football. "He executed the things we wanted done extremely well."

Haden has completed 12 of 23 passes for 183 yards so it can't be said the Rams' offense works exclusively on the ground.

Knox will look at a couple of candidates for a wide receiver job left open when rookie Freeman Johns suffered torn knee ligaments.

Asked if erstwhile Ram Jack Snow would be one of those, Knox replied, "I don't think so."

Snow verbally attacked the Rams' management on his release just prior to the start of the regular season.

Knox said the club was looking for a player who could take part on the special teams as well as being a backup wide receiver.

In the quarterback situation, Harris has been throwing but still has some pain in his thumb.

"We'll watch him closely Wednesday and Thursday and then make the decision on who will start," Knox said.

The coach said his club actually was only .2 of a second from beating Minnesota. On the play when Nate Allen blocked Tom Dempsey's field goal try from the 30, it was a high snap from center that spoiled the attempt.

The holder had to reach up for the ball and put it down. Dempsey hit it squarely but Allen deflected it with a backhand.

"We were just .2 of a second late in getting it off," said Knox who sometimes clocks plays by the clicks of film going through his movie projector.

Sports in Brief

Reds Clinch Title; Phillies Pad Lead

The Cincinnati Reds clinched their fifth National League Western Division title in seven years Tuesday night, beating the San Diego Padres 9-1 as rookie Pat Zachry notched his 14th victory.

Zachry, supported by a 12-hit Cincinnati attack, scattered eight hits to lift his record to 14-5. The 6-foot-5 right-hander struck out eight and walked three as the Reds claimed the NL West title with 10 games left in the season.

Phils Roll

PHILADELPHIA — Dick Allen's double with two out in the fourth inning triggered a three-run outburst and the Philadelphia Phillies went on to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1 Tuesday night and boost their lead in the National League's Eastern Division to five games.

Pirates Stopped

CHICAGO — Manny Trillo's two-out single in the 13th inning drove home Jerry Morales, who had doubled as the Chicago Cubs beat Pittsburgh 2-1 Tuesday, thwarting the Pirates bid for a doubleheader sweep.

The Pirates won the first game, 4-3, on a two-out, two-run ninth inning single by Rennie Stennett, snapping a three-game losing streak.

Morales' double and Trillo's line shot to right came off Bob Moose, 3-9, and gave the win to Paul Reuschel, 4-2, the Cubs' sixth pitcher, as Pirates rightfielder Dave Parker's throw to get Morales at the plate bounced past catcher Duffy Dyer.

In the second game the Cubs scored first. They twice loaded the bases in the third on a hit, two walks and an error, but managed only one unearned run, which scored on an infield out.

Dantley to Start

BUFFALO — Adrian Dantley, who signed a multi-year contract to play basketball for Buffalo, was slated for a slot in the Braves' starting lineup several weeks ago.

In order to make room for the hero of the gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic basketball team, the Braves had sold veteran small forward Jim McMillian to the New York Knicks. McMillian was captain of the National Basketball Association club.

Quinn Dies

STANTON—John Quinn, a former general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, is dead at the age of 68.

A spokesman for the National League baseball team said Quinn died Monday night. He is survived by his widow, Marian, two daughters and two sons.

Quinn joined the Phillies in 1959 and helped build the team that came close to the National League pennant in 1964.

Heated Argument

New York Yankees manager Billy Martin displays his anger to home plate umpire Bill Kunkel in eighth inning of the game with Baltimore Tuesday. The host Yankees blew a 7-0 lead and lost 11-8.

Tanana Gets Lucky; Angels Win in 9th

Pitcher Frank Tanana was the recipient of a little good luck—pinch-hitter Ron Jackson's game-tying home run leading off the ninth inning Tuesday night — and he used it to win his 17th game of the season, a personal high.

Dave Chalk delivered a run-scoring single later in the ninth to power the California Angels and Tanana to a 2-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"The unexpected happened," said Tanana about Jackson's homer, "and that gave everybody a lift."

Tanana said he was disappointed he couldn't win 20 games this year, but said 17 was a good number to reach.

"Yeah, it was important to me because I had never done it before. I want to improve each year and if I win more than I did the year before, that's an improvement.

"Yes, I'm disappointed I can't win 20. That hurts. But I guess I'll just go out and get as many as I can." Tanana, who was 16-9 last year, figures he's got two more starts.

Tanana pitched a three-hitter in winning. He has 10 defeats.

Jackson, batting for Bruce Bochte, smashed his seventh homer of the year off reliever Joel Hoerner, 0-4. Mike Easler followed with a walk and was sacrificed to second base by Andy Etchebarren.

Then came Chalk's game-winning hit off Steve Foucault.

New Manager

Ex-Dodgers coach Roy Hartsfield is rumored to be the new manager of the Toronto Blue Jays, the new American League Club. Hartsfield guided Hawaii to its second straight Pacific Coast League title this year.

Royals Charge A's With Foul Play

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals stepped to the threshold of the American League West championship Tuesday night.

But there was no joy in the Royals' dressing room.

There was anger and harsh words and an ugly bruise on the back of Amos Otis' neck.

Dynasties die hard. Old indignities can also linger past their time.

By whipping Oakland, their most hated and feared rival, 3-1, the Royals moved seven games ahead of the A's with only 11 games remaining.

The A's, who have won the division every season since 1971, tallied on successive doubles in the sixth by Campy Campaneris and Joe Rudi.

But in the first inning Otis, who has quarreled with A's manager Chuck Tanner in the press, was struck on the back of the head by a pitch from Stan Bahnsen and taken away on a stretcher. A few minutes later a high, tight fastball sent McRae reeling from the plate and a brawl almost erupted.

In the sixth, Royals manager Whitey Herzog led the entire umpire crew to the A's bullpen, charging that they were using binoculars and a walkie talkie to steal and relay signs. While Oakland players denied it all, fans in the bleachers yelled at Herzog to check under a towel, where he found a pair of field glasses.

Herzog announced he was playing the game under protest, but umpires questioned whether binoculars in the bullpen were illegal.

"If that's the way they run the league, fine," Herzog fumed. "Maybe we'll start getting cutesy with them, too."

Herzog, characteristically a congenial, mild-mannered sort, was raging.

"This puts us seven-up on them with 11 to play, that's all it does," he snapped. "I'd love to beat them the next two and put them nine back. Then they'd really be desperate."

Otis swears Tanner told Bahnsen to throw at him.

"Chuck Tanner ordered him to hit me," he said. "But Stan Bahnsen doesn't throw hard enough to put me out. Will I play tomorrow night? Does a bee give honey?"

"I know they were throwing at Amos, and they might have been throwing at me," said McRae. "And that business with the walkie talkie and binoculars! That kind of stuff is out of the 1930s."

Tanner denied he was stealing signs, denied he told Bahnsen to hit Otis.

Tars Shuffle Lineup for CdM

BILL PIZZICA

Newport Harbor High's Sailors, in an effort to get more punch in their running attack, are making some changes for Friday's non-league football test with Corona del Mar at OCC.

Coach Bill Pizzica says it'll probably be Chris Cosum and Dave Rouse starting at running backs for the Sailors. Both have been sidelined with injuries, but are ready to play now.

In absorbing a 13-0 lacing by Servite in the first game of the season, the Sailors running game was limited to 15 yards net.

Corona del Mar stifled Marina of Huntington Beach in its opener and was especially tough on the run.

Corona del Mar rushed the ball all over the field in the second half and shut Marina down cold with the defense," says Pizzica. "Corona del Mar's defense executed very well and we're just going to have to block and run better than we did against Servite.

"Our passing game was adequate against Servite, but we have to get our offense moving. Mainly it's a matter of getting out there and blocking."

Pizzica sees the test as a clash between two similar elevens [illegible] is especially [illegible] or [illegible]. "That's the only kind of football both of us play," says Pizzica. "Basic, fundamental football."

Also available to the Newport running attack is Rosemead transfer Brett Forrest. Forrest was also injured and his return puts Newport at full strength in the running game.

Pizzica sees the Corona del Mar threat as a matter of defensing the inside power. "Corona del Mar comes right at you with the tailback and ran it very well against Marina."

Despite the loss to Servite, the Newport coach wasn't down on his team's effort. "We missed some tackles, but you have to expect that early in the season. And Servite scored on two mistakes. We were disappointed, but Servite is tough. I don't feel we were blown off the field," says Pizzica.

Defensive Battle?

Mustangs Face Top QB Threat

Costa Mesa High's Mustangs get a final tuneup for South Coast League battle Saturday night with what you can call a street brawl in preparation for a boxing match a tuneup.

It's the Foothill High Knights of Santa Ana that will furnish the opposition at Tustin High School and the Knights of coach Rudy Lucidi march in after a 39-0 win over Garden Grove's Santiago High.

Observers say the Knights could have won by [illegible] three last year, but [illegible] Last year's team rolled to an 8-2-1 record and a 4-1 league record in the Empire League with 13-0-1.

Backing the Knights' juggernaut is 6-3, 218-pound quarterback Paul Easter, who passed for a TD in one game and another, and completed 50 percent of his passes against Santiago.

The backs, Tom Mariel (5-10, 165) and Jim Bremer (185—chalked up 205 yards between them against Santiago.

Lucidi is pleased with a defense that features linebackers Mike Healy, Rob Streeter and David Young, who provide the core of Foothill's defense.

There appears no weak spots in the Foothill armor, although the offensive line has only one senior (guard Bruce Steadman) from tackle to tackle.

Lucidi says Costa Mesa presents a problem with its various defensive sets and an offensive philosophy which dictates power and trap plays.

Also, two tight ends in the offensive alignment creates somewhat of a mismatch when a defensive back has to cover the second tight end.

Foothill's early power appeared to be in the ground game, but Lucidi says he expects more out of Escalera. "Paul didn't have a bad game against Santiago, he completed 5 of 10 for 93 yards, but we think he's capable of much more."

Pickeroo Mixup

A mixup has resulted in the Army-North Carolina game being listed twice in this week's Redskin Pickeroo football prediction contest.

Contest players should disregard the game altogether—it will not be counted in judging.

Saddleback Facing Bigger Challenge

KEN SWEARINGEN

Out of the frying pan and into the fire?

That could sum up the situation facing Saddleback College's football team this Saturday night when it battles Orange Coast at OCC.

Saddleback's Gauchos fell to Cypress, 15-14, last Saturday and head coach Ken Swearingen says his club faces an even bigger challenge this week.

"I don't think Cypress is nearly as good as Coast," says Swearingen. "Both teams are physical, but Orange Coast is the better football team. Cypress' defense isn't as good as Coast's.

"I can tell you this, if we don't improve Saturday night, we'll get beat," says Swearingen.

It's the first meeting between the two schools but Swearingen and OCC coach Dick Tucker have battled before. When Swearingen was the head coach at El Camino he defeated Tucker two out of three times.

All three were high scoring affairs but Saturday night's game doesn't figure that way.

"Orange Coast is a tough team to move the ball against. They always play tough defense," says Swearingen.

But defense is our strength right now. Our defense did some really good things against Cypress," adds the Gauchos boss.

Inconsistency plagued Saddleback in the setback to Cypress.

"At times we played well and other times we played poorly. We made a lot of freshman mistakes.

"We're going to have to eliminate those mistakes to beat Orange Coast. We had six turnovers and we can't afford to do that again.

"Defensively, we're going to have to improve our pass defense. After what happened to us against Cypress, Coast will probably try to throw against us," says Swearingen.

Cypress completed 18 of 40 passes for 206 yards while being held to minus 24 yards rushing.

Swearingen says running back Chuck Van Liew should also be able to see action against OCC.

Says Cypress' Lent Close Game Seen

Cypress College coach Don Lent isn't predicting a winner in this week's Orange Coast-Saddleback football game but says the score will be close at the end.

Lent's Chargers lost to Orange Coast, 10-0, in the rain, then came from behind to topple Saddleback, 15-14, in a thriller that was won with a strong passing game.

"I think they both [illegible] excellent defensive teams," says Lent. "Coast's offensive unit may take a little time to come around because they graduated so many players from their team of last year.

"We had a hard time moving the ball on the ground against [illegible] them. Against Orange Coast we [illegible] because of the rain.

"It's really hard for me to evaluate Orange Coast because of the weather conditions which prevailed when we played.

"Saddleback will win a lot of games this year. They are a lot [illegible] than you'd think [illegible] for this time of the [illegible] new coach. They have an excellent all-around [illegible] pick a winner [illegible] think it will [illegible] the end."

Cougars, Lagunans Similar

NORCO—Young, not too big and thin in ranks has been the description Laguna Beach High football fans have had to put up with for several years.

That's the overall look at Norco High where the Cougars are preparing for their non-league tussle at Laguna Beach Friday night.

Despite the overall picture at Norco, the Cougars routed Victor Valley in their opener, 34-6, and nearly picked up a spot in the CIF 2-A Top 10 poll.

Sophomore Bob Moore (6-1, 195) is the key to the Norco game after running 117 yards in 16 carries against Victor Valley.

Quarterback Chris McGrath tossed a 48-yard scoring pass and ran for a touchdown and fullback Larry Nelson added a 38-yard TD run for the Cougars.

Norco coach Gary Campbell says Laguna's main assets are its well-rounded attack and strength at quarterback.

"I saw Laguna Beach in its scrimmage and I was impressed with Rich Nunis at receiver and Gompf, the quarterback," says Campbell.

"Gompf runs the veer real well. Laguna Beach controled the scrimmage and dominated the game with Brea."

The Cougars operate out of a power I-formation and are trying to improve on a 4-5 record in 1975. The major improvement figures in the passing game, although Norco only went to the air four times against Victor Valley with McGrath at quarterback.

Pacing the offensive line are veterans Jordan Guirbino (170) at center and tackle Ken Hicks (6-2, 175). There's only one 200-pounder on the 29-man roster for Norco, and he doesn't start.

Defensively the Cougars are led by Chuck Brown, who intercepted twice against Victor Valley and had five thefts in 1975.

Senior linebackers Jack Kay and Smiley Rocha, and tackle Darrell Bolin were impressive against Victor Valley.

JC Poloists In Tourneys

Orange Coast and Golden West colleges both will play two games Friday in the annual Mt. San Antonio College water polo tournament.

Third round, consolation and championship play is set Saturday.

Elsewhere, Saddleback College is favored to win the annual Mission Conference tourney at Southwestern College in Chula Vista.

GWC's Rustlers face Santa Monica at 5 Friday night at Mt. SAC and tangle with Rio Hondo at 9. OCC's Pirates battle Rio Hondo at 6 and Santa Monica at 10.

Other Friday games: 3—Mt. SAC vs. Fullerton; 4—West Valley vs. LA Harbor; 7—Fullerton vs. LA Harbor; 8—Mt. SAC vs. West Valley.

Saturday morning games: 8—Fullerton vs. West Valley; 9—Mt. SAC vs Harbor; 10—Golden West vs. Orange Coast; 11—Santa Monica vs. Rio Hondo.

In the Mission circuit tourney, Saddleback faces San Diego Mesa Friday at 4 o'clock. If the Gauchos win, they'll return at 10 Saturday morning. The title game is set for 3 Saturday afternoon.

Warriors Possess Huge Line

WEST TORRANCE—While the center of talk revolves around the loss of 17 starters from an 11-1 team that advanced to the CIF 4-A semifinals, football observers are also mentioning the great size that the West Torrance High Warriors possess.

Led by 6-6, 269-pound lineman Jack Campbell, the Warriors also have the likes of 222-pound center Jerry Stablein and 207-pound guard Mark Holden, who is their smallest offensive lineman.

They figure to give the Edison Chargers of Huntington Beach a major challenge Friday night when the two teams collide in non-league action at West Torrance High. Kickoff is 7:30 instead of 8, the previous starting time.

Both teams are highly ranked—West Torrance is No. 6 and Edison No. 10 in the CIF 4-A poll—both run out of the I formation and both have similar blocking patterns.

But West Torrance is bigger, sparked by Campbell, a two-way starter who only played at defensive tackle last year.

"We're bigger, but Edison is quick on defense," says West Torrance football coach Fred Petersen. "They appear to have a swarming-type defense and they come at you all the time. They storm you."

Edison will have plenty of players to storm at Friday. The one who may cause the most damage is dropback quarterback Dave Weatherman (6-0, 165, sr.), a part-time starter last year. In the Warriors' 17-14 win over Long Beach Wilson, Weatherman completed seven of 13 passes for 98 yards.

Although running out of the I, West Torrance likes to split its backs, who are usually Bob Hudsteph (5-10, 188) and Scott McQueen (6-0, 195).

They are also defensive stars. Hudsteph was an all-league end while McQueen was an all-league linebacker.

Petersen feels his defense will be tested Friday.

"I'm impressed with Edison's quarterback and tailback," he says.

Saints Try To Improve On Kicking

For a football team that is mostly composed of juniors, Santa Ana High coach Bob Larson wasn't totally displeased with the Saints' 6-6 tie with Buena Park last week.

But he hopes Santa Ana's kicking game will improve against the host Mission Viejo High Diablos Friday night.

"We missed two field goal attempts and one extra point," says Larson, last year's Orange County coach of the year. "And one of the field goal attempts was on the four-yard line."

Otherwise, the young Saints performed well. They gained 350 total yards while holding Buena Park to 147. Larson isn't sure Santa Ana will have as much success Friday.

"I haven't seen Mission Viejo yet, but they always have a good football team," says Larson. "They have good receivers, and I figure we'll have our hands full with everyone we play."

Like usual, Santa Ana is limited in numbers—the varsity is composed of 32 players—but like usual, the Saints have plenty of quality.

The strengths appear to be on the lines where Santa Ana is fairly large. The top players here are 200-pound tight end Sergio Hernandez, 230-pound tackle David Reyes and 200-pound guard Joe Kulp. All start on the defensive line, too.

Other key offensive players are quarterback Ken Cast and running back Ray Chavez, both of whom rushed for over 80 yards against Buena Park. Senior Mike Williams is another back.

The big offensive loss is quarterback Chuck Hogg, last year's Century League player of the year.

Defensively, the Saints are strong in the secondary. Roger Jim Vitelli, a starter last year, and Williams are key defensive backs as is junior John Carlyle.

FV Ranked No. 1 By Wilson Coach

LONG BEACH—The Wilson High School Bruins figure to be a contender for the Moore League football championship this season but coach Jon Meyer isn't overlooking this week's game with the Fountain Valley Barons here Friday night (7:30).

"I think Fountain Valley is the No. 1 team in the CIF right now," Meyer says without hesitation. "Redlands has a strong program and they blitzed them (34-0) in their opener.

"I also saw the scrimmage with Santa Ana Valley and although Valley is a 3-A school, it plays excellent football and it was no contest with Fountain Valley."

Meyer's Bruins lost their opener to West Torrance (17-14) in a game riddled with mistakes.

"We're young but getting better every day," he says. "We thought we should have won but an incredible number of things happened.

"We had one touchdown called back on an ineligible receiver downfield and there was none, we had another touchdown pass dropped in the end zone when the man was open, we fumbled and they picked it up and ran for a touchdown, and we had two consecutive 15 yard penalties against us after a first and goal on their [illegible]

"Then with 2:28 left to play, we fumbled at our own 30, they recovered and subsequently kicked the field goal that won the game."

Mike Peters is the Bruins quarterback and threw two touchdown passes against West Torrance and had another called back. Another potential score was dropped.

Alan Koos will open at fullback and Dale Oden at tailback. Koos is 190 and Oden 185 and both are returning starters.

The Wilson defensive unit is young with only two lettermen returning. Chris Thompson at linebacker and Carl Golightly at tackle are the only ones returning.

Meyer feels that if Fountain Valley has a weakness it's in the number of players going both ways.

OCC Wins, 12-8

WHITTIER—Orange Coast College came from behind to score eight goals in the fourth period and defeat host Rio Hondo in water polo action Tuesday afternoon. Jim Davidson was the leading OCC scorer with three.

Drazba to Start for MD

Mater Dei High coach Wayne Cochrun is faced with a problem that a lot of coaches would love to have.

Cochrun has two capable quarterbacks in Tim Wigmore and Mark Drazba. His problem concerns which one to start.

Drazba gets the nod this week when the Monarchs of Santa Ana travel to La Mirada to take on the Matadores Thursday night (7:30) in non-league football action.

"After what happened last week against Dos Pueblos Mark deserves to start," says Cochrun.

Drazba ignited the sputtering Mater Dei offense for two fourth quarter touchdowns in its 17-13 loss to Dos Pueblos of Goleta Saturday.

The 5-10, 165-pound senior completed five of six passes for 88 yards and carried twice for 16 yards in a little more than one quarter.

Despite Drazba's success, Cochrun is not giving up on Wigmore. "Tim's a good athlete and a better runner than Drazba, but you can't do anything if you don't have the blocking. I don't care who you are," he says.

Cochrun figures if the Monarchs can establish a running game and if they can come up with some good blocking, they will then be able to take advantage of Drazba's passing.

Aztecs, Tritons Similar

A brief description of San Clemente High football would be to classify the offense as a ground-oriented, power team with no tricks and a defense featuring the Arkansas 6-1.

And that's exactly the scene at Garden Grove's La Quinta High where the Aztecs of coach Dave Selph are preparing for their trek to San Clemente Friday night in non-league action.

"We're basically a running team," says Selph. "My biggest worry is about our defense stopping San Clemente. San Clemente has a power attack and that's what beat us last time."

Selph does not credit San Clemente's loss to Garden Grove's Bolsa Grande last week as any sort of bonus. "We figured Bolsa Grande as the favorite for the Garden Grove League championship on the basis of what Bolsa had coming back," says Selph.

Two major losses in the La Quinta camp have come on the practice field which could cut deeply into the Aztecs' armor. Jim Kruse, a 190-pound defensive tackle, broke his leg in practice Monday. And Marc Magana, a 180-pound guard, was lost in practice for the season with a knee injury prior to the Costa Mesa game, which Mesa won, 31-13.

"We moved the ball well against Costa Mesa," says Selph, "but we turned the ball over the first three times we had possession. We got behind quick and lost our confidence.

"As for San Clemente, we're concerned with its size and strength. We know the system we'll be running against, it's just a matter of being able to physically move San Clemente out.

"When San Clemente goes to the air it's usually when they go out of their ususal formation."

We Can Rebound —Sentinels Coach

Magnolia High School (Anaheim) coach Jim Howell is looking for improvement this week in his Sentinels football team as it prepares for a Saturday night confrontation with Marina High of Huntington Beach at La Palma Park in Anaheim.

"Hopefully, we will improve as the year goes along," Howell says. "Otherwise, it will be a long season.

"We felt like this was going to be a better year for us before our opening game. And I still feel like we will come back. I just don't know why we weren't ready for the game with Orange."

The Sentinels lost to Orange in their opener, 21-6 and Howell feels the defense was responsible.

"We played a pretty poor game," he says. "Orange has a fair football team but we helped them a lot. Our defense played poorly and we didn't get the ball very much."

The Magnolia defense has several starters back and others who saw action last season. "Some of them played like they were never on a football field before," Howell says.

When the Sentinels are on offense, senior quarterback Lee Balinger will direct the attack. He stands 5-10 and weighs 160 pounds and throws left-handed.

Bob Patterson (5-8, 150) is the team's leading rusher and is joined by fullback Dan Kottman (5-8, 170).

The Sentinels stress a balanced offensive attack but were forced to play catch-up football last week and threw more than usual.

Brea Must Overcome Line's Poor Blocking

Following a dismal offensive performance in which they gained 24 yards, the Brea High Wildcats are trying to mold an offensive line in practice this week.

"We are trying to get our young kids together," says Brea's first-year football coach Jim McAllister. "We only have one senior offensive lineman, and it was a combination of poor line blocking and quarterbacking that contributed to our loss."

Brea was shut out by Laguna Beach, 25-0, and will try to rebound against another South Coast League team, El Toro, at Brea High Friday night.

El Toro defeated Valencia of Placentia, 7-6, but McAllister says, "El Toro was very fortunate to win. They have a couple of kids with pretty good speed in the backfield, and their kids play pretty good defense. Otherwise, they look like just another high school football team."

(Valencia outgained El Toro in yards, 311-180.)

It's doubtful Brea will gain as many yards against El Toro as Valencia did. The Wildcats' No. 1 quarterback, Cal Haney, injured his knee prior to the Laguna Beach game and may be lost for the season.

"But a lot of the passes were dropped," adds McAllister.

Led by all-league linebacker Alphonso Martinez, the Wildcats' defense didn't disappoint McAllister.

"We played the option pretty well," he says.

El Toro will run from an I formation, but McAllister says, "we did reasonably well against Artesia in a scrimmage and they ran an I. I'm not too concerned about our defense."

He can't say the same about the offense, though.

GWC Star To Return

Golden West College quarterback Jim Andrus, injured in the Rustlers' 14-0 football win over Orange Coast Saturday, will not be lost for the season as first believed.

Andrus, a sophomore, hyperextended a knee and will be sidelined approximately three weeks.

Two other players, defensive back-punt returner Mark Messner and reserve tackle Jude Kaufman, are lost for the season.

Messner was operated on Tuesday for torn ligaments in a knee and Kaufman has a ver-tebra injury.

Lobos Invade

Uni's Halagan Out 2 Months

Last week University High (Irvine) football coach Dick Roche had a problem deciding who would be his starting quarterback.

But Thursday night (7:30) when the Trojans meet the Los Amigos Lobos of Fountain Valley at Tustin High in a non-league football game, Roche won't be faced with that question.

Quarterback John Halagan broke three toes in the Trojans season opener with Tustin that ended in a scoreless tie. Kevin Hook will step in for Halagan, who will be out for about two months.

"Losing John will actually hurt us more on defense than on offense," says Roche. "Kevin and John were about equal at quarterback, but now we won't have Halagan working at cornerback."

Additionally, Roche says that fullback Rich Shiffer will also be sidelined. Shiffer will be out for two weeks because of a knee injury.

And sophomore Dave Langmade is tabbed to fill in for Halagan at cornerback and Shiffer.

"Dave is quicker than Shiffer," says Roche. "But he's had less experience and is not as proficient in fundamentals like faking and blocking. We'll have more speed, but less power."

With Shiffer out, Roche says that Gil Zaldivar will be carrying the ball more.

"It sounds funny after the scoreless tie with Tustin, but I was happy with our offense. When we didn't move the ball it was because of our own mistakes which we can correct," says Roche.

"But our defense is still questionable in my mind," he says. "Los Amigos has a strong running game and not much of a passing attack. If we can't take the run away from them, they won't have to worry about the pass."

Golden West Rated No. 3

Bakersfield College retained its rating as the Daily Pilot's No. 1 Southland JC football team.

Golden West, a 14-0 victor over rival Orange Coast last Saturday, moved up a notch to third place, changing spots with El Camino.

Estancia to Pass--Flanagan

The 1976 football season started for Garden Grove's Rancho Alamitos High Aug. 16 with pre-conditioning week and through the first 38 days all the Vaqueros have to show for it is a 34-0 loss in Hawaii against Kamehameha High.

"We feel like we've been practicing all our lives," says coach Dennis Flanagan, who sends his team against Costa Mesa's Estancia Friday night at Newport Harbor High.

The Vaqueros opened their season early, went without a scrimmage, were ripped in Hawaii two weeks ago and have since been preparing for Estancia.

Kamehameha's two-year record prior to beating Rancho Alamitos was 19-1 and with Estancia coming off a 28-3 loss to Huntington Beach's Edison, it's a chance for both to get a win under prior to league action.

Larry Buckley (5-10, 170 sr.) is at quarterback with Mike Brooks (6-1, 180 soph.) backing him up in the I-formation. Backs Mike Ouzts (5-11, 185) and Faamanu Atuatasi (5-11, 175) figure to start for the Vaqs with receivers Bill Mabie, Jack Jernigan and Bob Creed the key passing targets.

Other gems in the Rancho Alamitos attack include linemen Steve Bolton (210), Mike McMahon (180), Bill Wright (185) and linebacker Brad Statum (200).

"I'm sure Estancia will want to pass on us," says Flanagan. "Neither of us have proven much at this point, I'm sure coach Jim Bratten is trying to find out what his team can do.

"Defensively Estancia does some things that cause you problems with the stunts and stacks. We'd like to run the ball, but basically we just want to win the game in any fashion."

A bonus for Rancho is the return of Ron Rivera at center after a case of flu.

Passing Game Key for Bolsa

If their 28-14 win over San Clemente is any indication, the Bolsa Grande High Matadors of Garden Grove are going to gain the reputation as a passing team that capitalizes on big plays.

"After one game, we have already tied last year's record of three touchdown passes," says Bolsa Grande head football coach George Asleson. "And we are only 206 yards short of last year's passing offense."

Against San Clemente, Bolsa Grande quarterback Tom Stormer threw for 185 yards, completing four of 10 passes. But if statistics are a guide, Stormer will have a tougher task Friday night when the Matadors collide with the host Huntington Beach Oilers.

The Oilers held Garden Grove quarterback Tim Golia to 51 yards through the air (he was four for 13), but Asleson figures Bolsa Grande can score.

"The Huntington Beach defense did a good job the whole game," says Asleson, "but right now, we feel it will have to stop either the running or the passing game. And whatever they let us do, we will take advantage of it."

While San Clemente let the Matadors take advantage of the passing game, it stopped the rushing attack. Bolsa Grande only gained 42 net yards, but Asleson isn't that concerned, saying, "anytime somebody puts up an eight-man front, it's tough to move the ball."

Defensively, Bolsa Grande looked strong against the Tritons, holding them to 95 net yards rushing.

In that game, Matadors nose guard Ray Ferrer recovered three fumbles while linebacker Paul Carroll had eight assisted and five unassisted tackles. Defensive end Dave Frisch was in on nine tackles (two assisted) and caused a fumble. Cornerbacks Craig Sudkya and Tommy Barnett each intercepted a pass.

Sudkya and Barnett will have to be at their best Friday.

"We must stop Huntington Beach's passing game," says Asleson. "Their split receiver (Steve Samperi) is outstanding."

Samperi was an All-Orange County choice last year.

DH Rival Sparkles In Opener

NORWALK—Excelsior High School's Pilots may be headed for their best football season in recent years under coach Art Lopez after an opening game victory over El Segundo High, 21-6.

Friday night the Pilots tangle with Dana Hills at home and the Dolphins could be in for trouble if quarterback Steve Crapo is still sidelined with an injury.

"We looked a lot better than I thought we would against El Segundo," Lopez admits. "We put in a new offense this year and I thought our kids ran the ball pretty well."

The Pilots are using the veer offense with Eddie Garcia, a 6-2, 180-pounder at the controls at quarterback.

"The running game and passing protection have four big linemen in front of them, all weighing over 200 pounds.

Norm Hickling at 230, is the biggest and is a returning starter from a year ago. At the other tackle is Rene Aguirre, a 215-pounder and at center is Andy DeArmas at 220. Mike Rodriguez at tight end weighs in at 220.

"This is the biggest line we have had since I've been here," Lopez admits.

How about the running game?

Kenny Mardis, a 5-11, 190 tailback, gained 160 yards in the fullback opener against El Segundo while Dave Hill (5-10, 175) picked up 72 yards.

The Pilots will use an okie defense with Mardis and Hill at linebacker and cornerback.

Darryl Goad (6-0, 190) is a returning starter at the other linebacker spot and Dan Figueroa (5-7, 160) is another letterman starter at the middle guard spot.

Lopez feels the key to the Dana Hills attack is Crapo and says the Dolphins are good have size with rangy players in the special areas like the receivers.

Recreation Show Set

The world of outdoor recreation will come to Anaheim Stadium today when a recreational vehicle, van and boat show will open for a five-day run.

Visitors to the show will have an opportunity to compare prices and designs of hundreds of recreational vehicles including vans — many of them custom models — motor homes, pickups, dune buggies, campers, motorcycles, mopeds, bicycles and off-road vehicles.

Also on display will be many types of boats including sailing vessels, conventional power boats up to 30 feet in length and jet-powered craft.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for youngsters 6-16. Children under six will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

OFF AND ROARING — Backdropped by the San Francisco skyline, these three open class boats took an early lead in the annual offshore Power Boat Classic but only one of them finished. Betty Cook of Newport Beach, the only woman driver, was leading (right) until she broke down; Joel Halpern (center) the season high-point champion, also broke down, and Preston Henn, Pompano Beach, Fla. (left) went on to win.

San Francisco Event

Henn Power Champion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Preston Henn of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., a 45-year-old owner of "adult" drive-in movie theaters, overcame steering problems and won the fourth annual San Francisco 181-mile Offshore Power Boat Race.

The hydraulic steering system on Henn's boat, Streaker, a 38-foot Bertram powered by 2-482 cubic inch MerCruisers, malfunctioned twice during the race, spinning the boat completely round.

Joel Halpern of Bronxville, N.Y., the recently crowned national offshore champion, dropped out of the race with a blown engine three minutes after the start.

HENN STARTED out far back in the pack of 12 open-class boats on a course which took the boats from San Francisco Bay out into the Pacific Ocean on three separate legs.

Bob Nordskog of Van Nuys, in Powerboat Magazine Special with 2-496 cubic inch turbocharged Nordskog engines, held the lead throughout the race until the last 35 miles, when he broke a stern drive at Pt. Montara, 20 miles south of San Francisco.

EARLIER IN THE race Nordskog was strongly pressed by Billy Martin of Clark, N.J., in Bounty Hunter, a 35-foot Cigarette with 2-496 cubic inch MerCruisers; Arnold Glass of Sydney, Australia, in Sabre Dance, a 36-foot Cigartette with 2-469 Unser power plants; Kudu, the 35-foot tunnel hull driven by Betty Cook of Newport Beach, the only woman driver in the race, and Benihana, a 35-foot Cigarette with 2-482 MerCruisers driven by Rocky Aoki, Englewood Cliffs, N.J.

Kudu, the 1974 winner, dropped out halfway through the race with blown engines as did Bounty Hunter. This left Nordskog still in the lead followed by Henn, Glass and Aoki.

WHEN NORDSKOG dropped out, Henn moved up to first place followed by Aoki and Glass. Henn and Aoki were less than two minutes apart and finished in that order with Sabre Dance a slow third.

The boats clocked an average speed of 69.6 miles per hour.

The 103-mile production class race was won by Sting, a 29-foot Scarab with 2-350 cubic inch MerCruisers, driven by Clare Flaxman of Redondo Beach.

Third Lido Title Won By Ullman

Two young Balboa Yacht Club sailors — both of whom were defeated for Olympic berths in their respective classes — battled down to the wire the past weekend for the District I (Southern California) Lido-14 championship at King Harbor Yacht Club.

When the final gun had sounded, Dave Ullman had wrapped up his third Lido-14 district championship — to go along with his national title in the class.

But close behind him on the scoreboard was his clubmate Argyle Campbell. Ullman posted finishes of 1-3-1 for a total of 4½ points while Campbell stayed in the running to the last with finishes of 2-1-2 for 4¾ points.

There were 51 entries in the district regatta, 16 sailing the championship flight after eliminations on Saturday.

The winner in the consolation flight was Charlie Cummings of Alamitos Bay Yacht Club; the runner-up was Lou Brooks, Mission Bay Yacht Club, and third was Chris Ebert, ABYC.

Top Racing Teams Seek Mallory Cup

Eight of the top sailboat racing teams in the United States begin competition at Alamitos Bay Yacht Club, Long Beach Harbor for the coveted Mallory Cup, symbolic of the men's yacht racing championship of the United States.

Representing Area G (California) will be Dave Crockett of the host club with crewmen Sid Exley and Curt Nicolai.

THE EIGHT-RACE SERIES will be sailed in Cal-20 sloops with spinnakers allowed on the downwind runs. Officials at ABYC said all of the boats are being outfitted with new sails to make them as nearly equal as possible.

The race schedule calls for three races Thursday, three on Friday and two Saturday.

The Mallory Cup is one of the United States Yacht Racing Union's annual competitions to determine the top sailors in various categories.

OTHERS INCLUDE THE Adams Cup for women, the Sears Cup for juniors, the O'Day Cup for singlehanders and the Prince of Wales Bowl for match racing.

The previous year's winner does not automatically defend his title. Competitors have to emerge to the finals by a series of elimination races in their respective areas.

Application Due

Application for State Graduate Fellowships are available, according to State Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter.

The fellowships, available to students involved in graduate work or professional study, may be used to pay tuition and fees charged at any accredited California graduate or professional school.

The forms and additional information may be obtained through Carpenter's local office at 17880 Skypark Circle, Suite 103, Irvine, or by calling 557-3200.

40 Yachts Invited

Ocean Fleet Race Set

More than 40 offshore sailing yachts have been invited to compete in the Ocean Racing Fleet of Southern California championship off Long Beach Harbor, Oct. 9-10.

The roster of invited yachts include those who placed high in eight of Southern California's major offshore series, plus top finishers in Los Angeles Yacht Club's Mazatlan race, the Yacht Racing Union's Pacific Ocean Racing Conference, and at least one boat from Florida's Southern Ocean Racing Conference.

The major series from which yachts are invited include the PORC, Los Angeles Yacht Club's Whitney Series, California Yacht Club's Overton Series, San Diego Yacht Club's Rumsey Series, Balboa Yacht Club's 66 Series, Newport Harbor Yacht Club's Ahmanson Series, Windjammer Yacht Club's Cameron Jones Series, Cabrillo Beach Yacht Club's Cabrillo Series, and Long Beach Yacht Club's Catalina Series.

Jim Kilroy's 79-foot ketch Kialoa was issued an invitation by virtue of her first to finish record in Florida's SORC and the Southern Cross Series in Australia.

The championship series will be sailed under the International Offshore Rule Mark III (a).

Newport Retirees Open Fall Season

The American Association of Retired Persons of Newport Beach, Chapter 121, meets Thursday for a pot luck luncheon and a talk on the AARP insurance program.

The luncheon will take place at noon at the Veterans Memorial Hall, 565 W. 18th St., Costa Mesa. Participants should bring a dish to share and their own table service.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS (BIDS) FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF HEADWORKS AND PRIMARY SEDIMENTATION TANKS AND BLOWER BUILDING MODIFICATIONS AT THE MICHELSON WATER RECLAMATION PLANT IRVINE RANCH WATER DISTRICT, IRVINE, CALIFORNIA

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Directors of said District invites and will receive sealed proposals (bids) up to the hour of 11:00 a.m. on the 8th day of October, 1976, at the office of VTN Consolidated, Inc., as given below, for furnishing to said District all transportation, materials, equipment, labor, services, and supplies necessary to construct said work for the District, at which time said proposals will be publicly opened and read aloud at the office of VTN Consolidated, Inc., 2301 Campus Drive, P.O. Box C-19529, Irvine, CA 92713

Said bids shall conform to and be responsive to the contract documents for said work as heretofore approved by said District and must be accompanied by the security referred to therein.

Copies of the contract documents are on file and may be examined in the office of the District and in the office of VTN Consolidated, Inc., by payment of $10 per set and this cost is not refundable regardless of whether the plans and specifications are returned.

Plans and specifications will be mailed, upon request, to prospective bidders for an additional $5.00 (non-refundable) to cover the cost of postage and handling.

Copies of the Standard Specifications for Public Works Construction are available from the Building News, Inc., 3055 Overland Avenue, Los Angeles, California 90034.

In accordance with the Labor Code of the State of California, the Irvine Ranch Water District has ascertained, determined and adopted the general prevailing rate of per diem wages, and the general prevailing rate for legal holiday and overtime work in the locality in which said work is to be performed for each craft classification or type of workman needed to execute the contract, and it shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the Contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than said specified rates to all workmen in the execution of the Contract. A copy of the general prevailing rates of wages is on file in the office of the Irvine Ranch Water District and shall be posted at the job site by the Contractor.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded, and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the specified rates to all workmen employed by them, in the execution of the contract.

Each bid or proposal shall be made out or submitted on a form furnished as part of the contract documents, and must be accompanied by a cashier's check, a certified check, or a bidder's bond in an amount not less than 10 percent of the amount of the bid, made payable to the order of, or for the benefit of, said District, as the case may be; and each bid or proposal shall be sealed and filed with the Secretary of the District at or before the time in this notice provided. The above-mentioned check or bond shall be given as guarantee that the bidder will enter into a contract with the District if awarded the work, and will be declared forfeited if the successful bidder refuses to enter into said contract. Each bid or proposal shall be accompanied by the list of proposed subcontractors.

The envelope enclosing the proposal shall be sealed and addressed to VTN Consolidated, Inc., 2301 Campus Drive, (P.O. Box C-19529), Irvine, California 92713 and delivered or mailed to VTN Consolidated, Inc., 2301 Campus Drive, Irvine, California. The envelope shall be plainly marked in the upper left-hand corner with the name and address of the bidder and shall bear the words "Proposal for," followed by the title of the specification for the work and the date and hour of opening of bids. The certified or cashier's check, money order, or bidder's bond shall be enclosed in the same envelope with the proposal.

The Board of Directors of the District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any and all irregularity in any bid.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD EVALUATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, (PL 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (PL 93-234) it will fund a detailed study of flood hazard areas in the City of San Clemente.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by Harris-Toups Associates of California.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed and to determine flood elevations for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as the basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new and existing buildings and their contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have an opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the Chief Executive Officer of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration.

'Ball Four' Promising

'Quest' Best Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tonight's new wares are CBS' "Ball Four," a horsehide ho-ho; ABC's "Charlie's Angels," a private eye opus of triple vision, and NBC's "The Quest," a show of new realism in the Old West.

NBC's newbie is good. "Angels," about three lovely lady gumshoes, proves that eyeful and awful equal pretty wretched. CBS' knuckleball comedy falls off the mound trying, but has promise.

"BF," at 8:30, is based on the inside-baseball book by ex-pitcher Jim Bouton. Jim, now an ex-sportscaster, is the star of the series, which he cooked up with TV critic Marvin Kitman and sportswriter Vic Ziegel.

BOUTON PLAYS A RELIEF pitcher and chief flake for the Washington Americans. The team is like Congress on Fridays and Mondays — imaginary. But the athletes are fairly realistic. There's a huge dumb catcher (Ben Davidson), a "Birdman" (Lenny Schultz) who quacks a lot, a staff redneck (Marco St. John) and a long-suffering manager (Jack Somack).

TV REVIEW

The manager is the kind who, when asked by Bouton if there's any chance of getting in tonight's game, says: "Yeah, got a ticket?"

THE PLOT CONCERNS THE team's concern over a series of inside-baseball articles that Bouton —a much better at or than Gardner McKay—has written. The alarm is major, the gags minor.

The good stuff comes only when Bouton, summoned to the basebal commissioner's office, is met by a TV crew for a stop-and-start interview that resembles the real thing.

For example, the reporter privately praises Bouton for telling it like it is in print. Then, as the camera rolls, he asks: "Where do you get off stabbing your teammates in the back?"

With more of this, "Ball Four" would be off to a good start. Still, it's a hopeful sign, so wait for the second inning.

"CHARLIE'S ANGELS," AT 10, stars Kate Jackson, Farrah Fawcett-Majors and Jaclyn Smith as ex-cops working for a private eye emporium run by John Forsythe, who never faces the screen. Smart move, John.

The opening show has the Angels trying to solve a fatal car-racing crash that you will find is linked to a planned diamond heist.

The plot explodes, screeches, twists, turns and makes childish seem adult. Not much acting is required of the ladies, only that they look tawny. Miss Fawcett-Majors is the best-looking tawny.

NBC's "QUEST" (9:30), the sole western on this fall, may sound mundane — two young brothers Kurt Russell and Tim Matheson seeking their sister, whom Cheyenne Indians kidnaped in a raid eight years earlier.

But the opening show, about a white woman and her half-breed son whom the brothers save during an Army reprisal raid on a Cheyenne camp, is realistic, gritty stuff for television.

Among other things it shows the Army did its share of frontier massacres, that brothels were part of frontier life and that those who believed in the Bible could be as bigoted as anyone.

This is old hat for theatrical movies but new hat for television's version of the West. This version, featuring good acting, fair plotting and intelligent dialogue, is a fine beginning. Hope it continues.

Actor Pens Script For 'Falling Star'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robby Benson, star of "Ode to Billy Joe," solved the problem of how to follow that film. He wrote his own screenplay.

Benson and Jerry Segal are co-authors of the original script, "Catch a Falling Star," which Warner Brothers will begin filming Oct. 9. Benson will star under the direction of Lamont Johnson.

The story concerns a basketball player and his involvement in athletic politics. Locations will be filmed at Colorado State University in Ft. Collins.

New Musical Season Preview Completed

TOM BARLEY
Music Box

It's time for us to wrap up our preview of the Orange County Philharmonic Society's 1976-77 season by taking a look at what the five programs in the organization's "Series B" will bring us.

All five concerts, like those of "Series A," are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. in the Santa Ana High School auditorium. And that means the best acoustics in the county for all 10 concerts, not to mention the better seating.

AS IN SERIES A, we start off with a corker of a concert: the Polish National Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Bohdan Wodiczko, with Piotr Paleczny as piano soloist, in a program that includes the Concerto No. 2 in C minor for piano and orchestra, opus 18, and Ravel's Alborada del Gracioso from "Miroirs."

That's on Nov. 5 and here are the details on the remaining four concerts:

— Feb. 19, 1977, guest conductor Gennady Rozhdestvensky with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra and solo violinist Silvia Marcovici in a program that includes Tschaikowsky's Violin Concerto and the same composer's Third Symphony.

— MARCH 12, guest conductor Pinchas Zukerman with the LAPO with several as yet unnamed celebrity film actors handling the English narration of Stravinsky's "The Soldier's Tale." Also Bach's Brandenburg concertos, Nos. 1, 3 and 4.

— April 9, music director Zubin Mehta with his LAPO in a program that will feature Brahms' Symphony No. 1.

— April 27, Mehta again with his LAPO in a program that will include Strauss' "Don Juan" and Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 1.

Remember, music lovers, all programs are subject to change. Keep an eye open for any revisions or additions that will be announced as the season progresses.

—CHORDS AT Random — A young lady who is a member of the Orange Coast College Symphonic Chorale asks me why I have not commented on the fact that the ensemble plans to tour Europe next June.

If you insist. My view is that such a tour is a mistake. I heard nothing from the OCCSC last season to suggest that you were ready for a tour of Orange County let alone Europe.

LIFE STORY OUT
Tiny Tim

Sinatra, Denver Applauded

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — It was a classic example of the veteran entertainer and the relatively new singer being teamed, and it is being acclaimed as one of the best concert shows to play a Nevada casino in years.

Frank Sinatra and John Denver did eight weekend shows—three a night Friday and Saturday and two on Sunday — before wildly-applauding standing-room only audiences at Harrah's on Lake Tahoe's South Shore.

A HARRAH spokesman called it one of the best received concerts in memory, adding that it had attracted what he termed a phenomenal advance registration response. He said Harrah's switchboard received nearly 40,000 phone calls in the first hour after the reservations list was opened.

The 90-minute format opened with Sinatra and Denver each making 30-minute solo appearances and then teaming for the last 30 minutes in a highlight finale.

Critics and audience alike had praise for Denver's more youthful voice but many saved their highest acclaim for the phrasing and vocal characterization that has made Sinatra the most famous and influential pop singer of his generation.

Tipping Tiny's Tulips

Q: Does Tiny Tim in his biography of the same name just published by Playboy Press talk about whether he was ever in our armed forces? Also what names did he "work" under before he made Tiny Tim famous? — Amy Fisher, Forest Hills, N.Y.

A: Though the contents of this "unauthorized biography" are credited to writer Harry Stein, the subject himself constantly chimes in to reveal his thoughts and recollections.

At the start of the Korean War (known then as a "police action"), Tiny reveals, he made fruitless efforts to enlist in any branch of the service. "I thought," he writes, "that there might be a place for me in the Air Force. Of course, there was no space program back then, but I was sure that sooner or later they'd be sending someone to the moon. And I thought I would make a perfect human guinea pig. I still think it would have been better to send someone like me to the moon instead of an astronaut, because I'd had no special training.

"ANYWAY I DIDN'T GET into the Air Force because I couldn't pass the mental test. A little while afterwards the Army called me. Everyone else was trying to get out, but I really wanted to get in — to get closer to the moon. I passed the physical, but then they took me to see the psychiatrist. He asked me if I went out with girls. I said, 'No, of course not.' Then he asked me if I liked boys. I said, 'I like playing ball with them, naturally.'

"Next he asked why I wanted to get into the Army. I said, 'It's because I want to go to the moon.' After that a lot of other doctors came over and talked with the psychiatrist who came over and told me my classification — I think it was 4-G. I said, 'What does this mean?' He told me, 'It means we'll call you if they attack New York'!"

Having run out of services in which to enlist, Tiny decided to tuck his ukulele into a brown grocery bag and started to audition to play and sing (while doubling as a change maker) at Playland Park in Rye, N.Y.

STILL ITCHING TO GET a job entertaining, he finally landed a spot at Hubert's Flea Museum — a 42nd Street honky tonk. He worked there for several years as Larry Love, the Singing Canary. "They were paying me fifty dollars a week, and for singing!" Tiny bragged to Stein.

"In 1960," he explained, "I changed my name to Darry Dover; I figured the '50s were past, and Larry Love should be left behind with them. Even today, I occasionally tell people my name is Sir Stafford Kripps. I also use the name of Amos Radcliffe. I wrote a letter recently to a girl and signed it Donald Vanderleigh. I love name changes."

The book jacket sums up this gentle soul as succinctly and honestly as he himself might. Asked what he'd like to see chiseled onto his own tombstone, he came up with: "Whether he was a misunderstood innocent, an infantile egotist, or an entertainment genius — Tiny Tim was never dull."

Neither is his "unauthorized biography."

Q: I heard Yul Brynner on a talk show claim that a psychic healer cured him of throat cancer. Anything to this? — Ms. Vera Baylor, Raleigh, N.C.

A: Brynner, 58, revealed he'd consulted psychic healers for years. For several months a growth had been developing on one of his vocal cords and tests were made to see if it required surgery. Brynner consulted Norbu Chen of Houston who claims to have learned healing from Tibetan mystics. The actor was visited by Chen three times a day for three days and the treatment included acupuncture. According to Brynner — "It was remarkable, the psychic healing took only a few seconds, then I slept for two hours and woke feeling much better."

'Sky Terror' Champ

ABC Sweeps Top Ten

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC's Sunday night movie, "Sky Terror," was last week's most-watched television show, and a paid half-hour address by Ronald Reagan on behalf of the Republican party the same night on NBC drew the fewest viewers, according to A. C. Nielsen Company estimates.

Twelve other ABC shows finished in the top 20 besides the movie, which was seen in nearly 22.3 million homes or 51 percent of the audience in its time period, the survey said Tuesday. ABC had the top 10 all to itself.

REAGAN'S SPEECH was seen in just more than 3.5 million homes, according to the survey for the week ending Sept. 13.

Folksinger Bob Dylan's NBC special last Tuesday, his first on a commercial network, won viewers in about 7.4 million homes, coming in third in its time period against a CBS News special, "Rescue at Entebbe," and an ABC repeat of "Family," Nielsen said.

Only two new series premiered last week, "Spencer's Pilots" on CBS and Bill Cosby's variety show on ABC. The latter ranked 21st of 59 prime-time shows, while "Spencer's Pilots," ranked 53rd in audience appeal.

ACCORDING TO the Nielsen estimates, the 20 most-watched programs last week were "Sky Terror," "Six Million Dollar man," "Charlie's Angels," "Happy Days," "Love Boat," "Bionic Woman," "Family," "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Barney Miller" and "Baretta" (all ABC); "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" (CBS); "Murder on Flight 502" and "Monday Night Football" (both ABC); "All in the Family" (CBS); "Starsky and Hutch" (ABC); "60 Minutes" and "Mary Tyler Moore" (both CBS); "Emergency" and "Wednesday Movie" (both NBC); and "The Johnny Cash Show" (CBS).

'Free' Credit Cards May Be on Way Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A bank official says that someday it will cost money just to carry a credit card. But not right away.

Kenneth V. Larkin, senior vice president of Bank of America and head of its lending and BankAmericard program, guesses that a fee for the popular card is about five years off.

BUT IT'S BOUND TO come, Larkin said as he began his tenure as chairman of the American Bankers Association's bank card division.

"Our costs have gone up," he said. "We are charging the same rate as in 1958 when BankAmericard was introduced.

Credit card holders have been anticipating a fee since Citibank, New York's largest, began a 50-cent-a-month charge last April on cards with an unpaid balance. No other bank has followed in its footsteps.

HOWEVER, WHEN ONLY 3,500 of the bank's 350,000 card users dropped out because of the fee, it showed Bank of America something, Larkin said.

"This tells us most people don't think $6 a year is exorbitant for the use of a bank card."

Larkin said bank cards are becoming increasingly popular at department stores, where 14 of the nation's top 100 chains now accept Mastercharge and BankAmericard.

"In five years our market has gone from 10 to more than 30 percent," he said. "By 1980 it will be over 50 percent."

New Angles

The Continental Mark V for 1977, succeeding this year's Mark IV, will have more angular lines while retaining the traditional Mark grille and Continental spare tire trunk lid. Front fender louvres are a new touch. The new model weighs almost 400 pounds less and has a standard 400-CID 2V engine.

Slow Hikes

Pennies Adding Up

By The Associated Press

Slowly, over weeks and months but in pennies that add up to dollars, the prices you pay for food are going up.

— The Agriculture Department says food prices as a whole may go 3 to 4 percent higher through June, 1977, than they did in the first half of this year.

— SUGAR PRODUCERS say the price of their product should go up because of President Ford's actions Tuesday in tripling the tax on sugar grown outside the United States.

— And the Agriculture Department also announced that the second increase this year in price supports for manufacturing-grade milk will have some effect on consumers.

The government announced Tuesday that consumer prices increased by five-tenths of 1 percent in August. The rate of increase has not changed in the last three months.

LABOR DEPARTMENT statistics showed that inflation is running at an annual rate of about 6 percent, in line with administration forecasts. The department said a decline in meat prices failed to offset higher costs for most other foods, fuel and clothing.

OC Price Hikes Outstrip Nation's

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Consumer prices in Southern California rose faster than in the rest of the nation last month, the government said.

Led by a 2 percent rise in apparel and upkeep costs, prices climbed by .5 percent in August to a record 169.7 on the federal government's Consumer Price Index. That means the same goods and services which cost $100 in 1967 would cost $169.70 today.

A Bureau of Labor Statistics spokesman in Los Angeles said prices in Orange and Los Angeles counties were rising at an annual rate of 6.9 percent. For the nation as a whole, prices were rising at a 6 percent annual rate.

The only item in the Southern California Consumer Price Index which remained unchanged during August was food, the spokesman said.

Nuclear Hearings Set

The California Energy Resources Conservation & Development Commission has scheduled five days of informational hearings on San Diego Gas & Electric Company's notice of intention to build the Sun Desert nuclear plant in the vicinity of Blythe.

The primary goal of the hearings is to provide an opportunity for public participation. Hearings will include presentations by SDG&E staff and consultants and Energy Commission staff, statements or comments by intervenors, and questions or comments from the public.

Accountants to Meet

John H. Burton, Western regional director of corporate relations for Fluor Corp., will speak at tonight's meeting of the Orange Coast Chapter of the National Association of Accountants. The meeting will be held at the South Coast Plaza Hotel, Costa Mesa.

Bank Accepts Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite U.S. opposition, Communist Vietnam has won membership in the World Bank. A U.S. official said no other nation voted against Hanoi.

The vote on Vietnam was taken informally Tuesday during a closed meeting of the executive directors of the bank, which lends billions of dollars a year to member nations to help them with development projects.

Manager Seminar Set

Eight one-day workshops in skills for managers and supervisors will be offered Thursdays and Saturdays during fall by the UC Irvine management and supervisory development program, sponsored by UCI Extension.

Four Thursday workshops, directed by Dr. Howard Wilson, are scheduled for the Holiday Inn, 3131 Bristol St., Costa Mesa. Four Saturday workshops will be held on the UCI campus in the Mesa Court Gold Room. Both sessions begin this week. Sessions will be held from 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Fee for each workshop is $50 and includes lunch, parking and materials.

Further information is available at UCI Extension, 833-5414.

Company Plans Hotel

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Officials of Moran Constructors, Inc., Alhambra, have announced tentative plans for a $21 million, 500-room hotel on Portland's west side waterfront.

George Dickerson, vice president, said the company hopes to complete financing arrangements by Oct. 1.

Rent Bill Veto Urged

OAKLAND (AP) — A group of state and San Francisco Bay area officials has urged Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to veto a bill that would prohibit cities from imposing rent control laws.

"At issue is not whether rent control is good, but whether cities should have the right to respond to housing conditions on a local level," state Sen. Nicholas Petris (D-Oakland), said after the group met.

Kraftco-Kraft

Name Changes, So Do Products

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

The nation's largest food processor is changing its name — again. This time it thinks it has it down right.

When it was originally organized in 1923 as one of the major dairy foods complexes in the country, the company was called National Dairy Products Corp. and it made its headquarters in New York City.

The company was — and is — a leading producer of fluid milk, ice cream and other dairy products, but as it grew the division that achieved the greatest success was the old Kraft cheese operation out of Chicago. Kraft became the big contributor of profits and management talent to National Dairy.

NATIONAL DAIRY RECOGNIZED THIS contribution by moving its headquarters to the Chicago area. The company is now based in Glenview, Ill. It also decided in 1969 to change its corporate name.

Why it simply didn't rename itself Kraft is a mystery. But the name it did come up with was Kraftco. So for the first 46 years of its existence, the company was known enigmatically as "National Dairy." Then, for the next seven years, it had a name, Kraftco, that confused a lot of people.

Now the corporate name is going to be changed to — yes — Kraft Corp. You have no idea how much high-powered executive time and effort are expended in reaching these difficult decisions, which in this case came down to naming the company after its most well-known brand name.

WHATEVER THE NAME, THIS company generates more sales than any other food processor we have. Much of it is in cheese, which accounts for roughly 40 percent of the company's sales. Among its major packages are Cheez Whiz, Velveeta, Cracker Barrel and Philadelphia cream cheese. Kraft does an estimated 50 percent of the processed cheese business in America, which is an incredible slice for one company.

Kraft is a power in the margarine market with its Parkay brand, it's probably the leading salad dressing producer with its mayonnaise, Miracle Whip and Great Beginnings mixes, and it has a strong line of packaged pasta-based dinners.

Among its dairy brand names are Breakstone, Sealtest, Breyer's, Sugar Creek and Light n' Lively. Fluid milk products account for 9.4 percent of its sales, ice cream and frozen desserts represent another 5.9 percent.

HERE IS THE WAY U.S. food processors rank:

1975 Sales

Kraftco	$4.8 billion
Esmark (Swift)	$4.1 billion
General Foods	$4 billion
Beatrice Foods	$3.6 billion
Borden	$2.5 billion

Not bad for a cheese maker, which is now edging away from its dairy base by bringing out such items as imitation mayonnaise and imitation colby cheese, products which substitute vegetable oil for milk, thereby cutting the costs of the ingredients. The original name would not do at all.

Borrowers' Rights Upheld in Ruling

By Capitol News Service

Debtors can no longer sign away their rights to trial as part of a routine contract when borrowing money, according to Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Younger's opinion, in response to an inquiry from Rep. William Thomas (R-Bakersfield) about "judgments by confession," closed a loophole allowing debtors to serve as their own attorneys.

CONSUMER

In the past, the unwary borrower who signed such a confession of judgment could find himself suddenly faced with a court order to repay the money immediately or lose the property if he defaulted on his payments.

Now, the debtor must have an attorney to make sure he understands the possible consequences and is willing to sign such an agreement.

AN EXAMPLE OF A confession of judgment statement given by Younger is, "I, debtor, do hereby confess judgment herein in favor of creditor, and authorize judgment to be rendered and entered against me in the sum of $500. This confession of judgment is for a debt justly due and owing by me on account of . . ."

With such a confession of judgment the lender was able to obtain a court order automatically, without a hearing, because the signed agreement admitted the debtor's guilt in advance. Under the law no further notice or the filing of a complaint was necessary.

While a person can usually act as his own attorney in court and generally bind himself in legally enforceable contracts, he cannot reasonably be called capable of "giving himself" legal advice, Younger said.

CONFESSIONS OF JUDGMENT require legal advice because they preempt the borrower's right to defend himself in court.

In 1975, the legislature added to the civil procedure code a provision that "such judgment by confession shall be entered only if an attorney independently representing the defendant signs a certificate that he has examined the proposed judgment and has advised the defendant to utilize the confession of judgment procedure."

The rationale for the 1975 amendment, Younger said, "is precisely that confessions of judgment are special cases, in which the common understanding of consumers regarding this area of the law is presumptively inadequate to ensure that they are waiving their rights to notice and hearing voluntarily and intelligently."

THIS DEVICE IS OFTEN used by collection agencies who take consumer accounts after default on the original credit contract. The agencies convince consumer-debtors to sign their agreements while negotiating easier terms for repayment.

Although it is usually understood that the creditor will resort to a court order only in case of default, the creditor with properly signed consignment of judgment in hand can get a court order for immediate repayment at any time merely by presenting the confession to a court clerk.

New Unit Announced

Basic/Four Corp., Irvine, an MAI company, has simultaneously announced its entry into computer manufacturing with a microprogramed central processing unit (CPU) and introduced a new system featuring up to 16 video display terminals, expanded disc storage capacity and the CPU.

According to T. J. Smith, president, the new small-business computer can perform 16 different tasks at one time.

San Diego Bay Clear After Navy, City Battle

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Less than 15 years ago a murky cesspool of garbage and death, San Diego Bay today is shimmering clear, a haven for wildlife and fish of all types.

"It is the cleanest bay in a metropolitan area in the world," claims Dr. J.B. Askew, a retired public health official who helped clean it up.

How did it happen?

THE NAVY, WITH its warships controlling the waters, and wastes from industrial plants were identified as the big offenders.

Halting the flow of raw sewage from the big ships has also been the toughest job, but with city pressure the Navy has installed self-contained sewage treatment plants on more than half its ships.

In other ships are holding tanks, and in almost all the naval installations bordering the bay are ship-to-shore sewage connections.

The city's metropolitan sewage system has strictly controlled dumping into the bay since the system was formed in 1963. Tough regulations were enforced by the harbor district.

The two major tuna canneries take into the sewage system today the water that is poured over frozen fish to thaw them for unloading. Tuna boats stay in port only briefly, and their crews stay on shore.

A degree of pollution still is blamed on foreign cargo ships and freighters, as well as private fishing boats, but not much.

GETTING ALL THE people off anchored boats remains a headache but "the amount of sewage that comes from them is not a big problem" for the entire bay, says Ladin Delaney, supervising engineer for the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

"I tried to get the people off the boats, but I never succeeded," said Askew, who was the board's first chairman.

The improvement in water conditions has been spectaculor.

Dresses to Return Shorter, Smoother

By CHERYL ROMO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What's new in fashion for Orange Coast women this fall?

Merchandisers differ in their evaluation, but one adviser summed it up by saying, "Nothing is really new in fashion."

One noticeable change is the return of the dress. Seen generally in the evening, it is no longer called a "cocktail" or "after five" but a "P.M." Legwatchers will be pleased to hear hemlines have risen just a bit and softer fabrics suggest a more "romantic look."

Man-tailored, vested suits are making an impact, as well as the familiar velvet blazer-plaid skirt combinations of five years ago.

The tunic is attracting attention because of its versatility. It can be worn as a dress or over pants and the chiffon float is being shown for evening wear.

The turtle or cowl neck sweater is considered the single most important fashion accessory this season. Nothing has replaced 14-carat gold in jewelry.

Women are returning to small clutch bags for evening; letting big leather "feedbags" carry them through the workday. Natural leather in rust tones remains the most popular accessory choice in the area; but with the return of the skirt, many retailers are selling shoes with slimmer, higher heels and slightly pointed toes.

Orange Coast residents still favor earth colors, such as beige and brown for fall, but the new rust and burgundy tones are catching on. Black is back; as well as blue, gray and jade green.

Hairstyles are shorter and cuts like "The Wedge" are in for easy care and styling. With the return of the dress, women may choose a softer, longer coif for spring.

Although the Orange Coast woman generally prefers a classic, conservative look, say merchandisers, she does consider her wardrobe an investment and buys the best she can afford.

She wants to look elegant whether on the tennis court, boating, entertaining or attending a business meeting. So perhaps this season, she will invest in a "P.M." or a man-tailored suit with cowl neck sweater, or a chiffon float and know it will be just as comfortable next fall.

For Beauty In Waiting: New Design

A lady in waiting needn't be unglamorous.

In fact, says Page Boy manager Sue McCabe, maternity fashions can be just as sophisticated and tailored as a women is used to wearing.

What's new in maternity wear?

"Well, we're really excited about the new Bob Mackie designs coming in shortly," exclaims McCabe.

Mackie is the Emmy Award winning designer to Hollywood stars such as; Cher, Carol Burnett, Liza Minnelli and Diana Ross.

Rust and heather blue are popular colors this fall and McCabe says there is a definite trend back to dresses.

Page Boy stores are located in South Coast Plaza and Fashion Island where the boutique is on the third floor of Robinsons (conveniently adjacent to the Infants Department).

At Ease: Customers Can See It

English caps in bright plaids, tartans and tweeds; oak hardwood floors and pleasant personnel all combine to make At Ease, Fashion Island, Newport Beach, a warm and inviting place to shop this fall.

Steve Faschling, manager, stresses At Ease tries to carry every style and dress feeling for area residents—from suits to levis.

"We feel our boy's section is the best in the southern half of California," says Faschling.

At Ease specializes in ladies' country day wear featuring Jones of New York and Emily.

The menswear section features major name brands such as Hang Ten, Corbin, Levi, Sero, Raymar and Cacherl. At East is the exclusive distributor for Talbot ties.

For those desiring a more casual look, Al's Garage, located just three doors away, is geared for the Levi and T-shirt set.

Both stores are open seven days a week.

Schell Opens Doors To 'Forward Movers'

"My store is geared for the gentleman who is forward moving, progressive in his thinking and with just the right amount of ego to care how he presents himself," says Mark Schell, owner of a new men's clothing store in Corona del Mar.

Schell has been in the eye of the fashion world most of his life beginning as a child model, and then becoming both a buyer and manager for a men's clothing store in San Francisco.

Located at 2737 East Coast Highway, Mark Schell is scheduled for opening Saturday, October 2, and the champagne celebration will continue through November 6.

"Our clothes will be elegant and tasteful and we will feature mainly European styling," comments Schell. "But we will carry conservative fashions as well."

Decorated in a Victorian motif, the store will carry such diverse items as embroidered cartoon character T-shirts, ladies' scarves, corduroy bags and many items designed by Schell.

Mark Schell

"We plan to add a private showing room. Wine and coffee will always be offered to our customers," he said.

Mink Still the King Of the Fur Industry

M. Jacques of Newport Beach introduces his latest creations. From left: a natural zorina parka and a natural curly lamb coat

"Sport furs, such as combinations with leather, are very big this year —but mink is still the most popular fur in the world and accounts for 70 percent of industry sales," comments Newport Beach furrier M. Jacques.

The man who has been making women feel elegant since 1933, was speaking from his store at 74 Fashion Island, Newport Center.

The most desired fur is lynx and prices have risen 150 percent in the last few years according to Jacques.

"The designers are showing full-length, long-haired furs and women want them," he says. "Fox, marten and Russian sable are also in demand — but very expensive."

Jacques designs and manufactures 98 percent of his inventory. He moved from Los Angeles nine years ago to "get away from the city." The craftsman was formerly located in Prague, Paris, London and New York.

He stresses that furriers today are not using any endangered species in their work and are regulated.

"We use only non-endangered species. Last year, fur industry growth was the biggest since World War II," he adds.

His advice for the woman purchasing her first fur: "I suggest she choose a casual style that can be worn either with pants or dresses."

Prices range from $300 to $4,500.

Unicorn Sports Schedules Huntington Grand Opening

"Our whole family is sports oriented and so opening a sporting goods store seemed like a natural thing to do," says Charlotte MacLean of Unicorn Sports.

The store, located in the Old West Plaza at the corner of Springdale and Warner in Huntington Beach, has scheduled a grand opening celebration for September 26.

Charlotte and husband Jimmy will carry a full array of gear ranging from everything you need to improve your tennis game to soccer equipment.

Unicorn will be open seven days a week from 10 to 7 p.m. and will offer sportswear by Robert Lewis of New York, Spaulding, Hang Ten, Puma and Convair.

The Wedge

Mr. Anthony, of Westcliff Coiffures, is seen showing his version of The Wedge with Brenda Brown. He predicts the return of longer, softer hairstyles this spring. Mr. Anthony, formerly of New York, opened his salon at 1617 Westcliff Drive, Newport Beach, last December

High Color Featured At Lido Fashions

"High fashion is not necessarily good fashion," comments Pat Harrison, corporate president of Lido Fashions with headquarters in Newport Beach.

Speaking from her store at 3424 Via Lido, she talked about changes in the fashion world since she first opened her doors in 1952.

"We basically stick with a conservative look and are now seeing second generation customers," she smiles.

"Many of our customers go from their boats to cocktail parties and we outfit them from head to toe. We are a high color store rather than high fashion."

Lido specializes in clothing by California designers, such as Lilli Ann, Alex Coleman, Lilli Diamond, Louise Designs, Cole of California, Christianfield, Julie Miller and Rhodes of California.

Harrison feels the "chiffon float" will have an impact on the fashion scene this year. It can be worn over pants in either fingertip or floor-length. She predicts the return of the short dress for spring.

Lido Fashions is also one of the few stores in the area carrying a complete line of cocktail ensembles and lingerie.

The firm will soon open another location in Balboa to be called "The Other Store."

Bermuda Bags Fit More

Planning your fall vacation, or first ski trip, and your suitcase is already full?

It's difficult to travel and retain a level of versatility in your accessories. Pappagallo of Lido Village in Newport Beach has the answer.

The Bermuda Bag comes in both bamboo and wood handles with separate button on covers. They are available in all colors and textures ranging from leather to crewel.

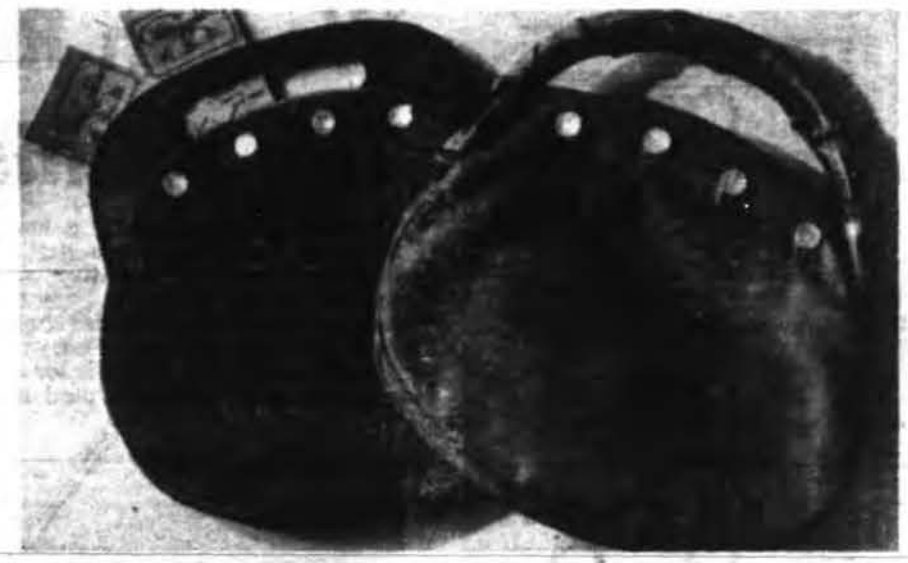
"They're perfect for travel," says store owner Bonnie Baker. "We even have covers in eyelet, suede, velveteen and of course, whimsical cotton colors."

Bermuda Bags are available in two sizes, modestly priced from $17. Covers range from $7.

Pappagallo also carries a unique stock of Junior League cookbooks from all over the country, and as Baker says, "a delightful selection of shoes in classic, elegant styles."

Tom and Bonnie Baker opened Pappagallo in 1974 and Mrs. Baker likes to think of her customers as friends, most of them on a first name basis.

"We have a casual, relaxed atmosphere, decorated as a person's home would be," she smiles.



Pappagallo of Lido Village presents the Bermuda Bag with bamboo and wood handles, and versatile button-on covers

Imports Featured At Home

Home Fabrics Center of Newport Beach is the only store in the Harbor area carrying distinctive European fabrics according to owner Randy Bhaumik.

"We are unique in that we carry material suitable for both work and play and stock lines such as; Boussac of Paris, Chateau International, Moygashel of Ireland and new wool and polyester blends from Italy."

Bhaumik says suede is popular this fall and feels a definite trend toward making your own clothing. He cites the prohibitive price of garments and the return to personal creativity as reasons.

"Young women seem to be favoring print materials, while older women prefer geometric designs," he said.

Home Fabrics is located at 2121 Westcliff Drive in Newport Beach and offers free sewing consultation. A sewing machine is on the premises for customer use.

Natural leather shoes, with wood heels, are a favorite of Orange Coast women say the fashion experts at Chandler's Shoes

Pointed Toes, Slim Heels Latest Look for Shoes

With the return of the dress, pointed toes with slimmer heels are the new look in shoes this season, according to fashion advisers at Chandler's of South Coast Plaza.

Natural leather shoes, with wood heels, remain a popular item and 95 percent of Chandler's wide selection of footwear and handbags reflect this preference. They offer an unconditional guarantee on these items.

"Southern California is wide open for color, but many of our customers prefer the more conservative styles. A favorite is the 'mock toe' wedge with crepe sole," comments a Chandler spokesperson.

The store is open seven days a week and stocks a full line of panty hose modestly priced from $1. to $2.99.

Women Recapturing The 'Feminine Look'

Women are returning to a more feminine look, heels are getting higher, handbags smaller and dresses are definitely "in" say the fashion consultants at Cameo Shoes, South Coast Plaza, Costa Mesa.

Rust is a popular fall color for accessories and leather is predominant.

"We are the only store in the area that carries a complete range of sizes," said manager Leo Rubenstein. Sizes run from a petite four to a larger 11.

Cameo is open seven days a week for your convenience.

Male Man owner, Richard T. Monsour displays discounted, name brand clothing

Male Man: Top Brands, Discounts

The Male Man of Harbor Center in Costa Mesa caters to the gentleman looking for name brand merchandise at discount prices.

"Generally speaking, we discount 25 to 30 percent off regular retail during the year," states owner Richard T. Monsour.

"All of our merchandise is guaranteed first quality. We even have some extraordinary 50 percent off sales."

The shop features lines such as: Jantzen, Puritan, Robert Bruce, MacGregor, Tobias, Jockey, Silton, Donegal, Lancer and Levi.

Specializing in casual and three piece "related" sportswear, the firm is open seven days a week. Another Male Man store is located at 1077 Pacific Coast Highway in Seal Beach.

Monsour says he is able to offer low prices because of his many contacts in the garment industry and because he is not located in a major shopping center.

He was formerly regional sales manager for Puritan Sportswear and is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

"We welcome browsers and price comparisons," adds Monsour.

Sears introduces the continental look with flannel shirt (about $16), crewneck sweater and bulky neck scarf

Fall Accents Layered Look

If you want a "put-together" look, it's more fashionable if you put it together yourself.

That's the menswear message for fall '76. The look is layered and very European, says Paul Rogers, fashion director for Sears The Men's Store.

Bulky-wrap sweaters, collared pullovers and short-waisted cardigans — in solids, Indian and geometric prints and bold striping — form the outer layer over sweaters and shirts.

Separates that work, because colors and textures blend to give a very European feel and an individual look to put-together fashion items, notes Rogers.

Antiques sparkle at Gerald's Gold, Lido Village

Radiance Of Setting Adds Glow

The dictionary defines gold as a radiant, precious metal and Gerald's Gold at 3375 Via Lido in Newport Beach adds a touch of radiance to the Orange Coast.

The jewelry salon is furnished in a turn of the century motif featuring antique showcases, a private showroom and a wine cellar for customer's enjoyment.

"Buying jewelry, I feel, is a very personal thing, and it demands a very personal setting," states salon owner Gerald Levine.

"I think people derive a cold feeling when they buy across a counter top in a large department store."

Following in the footsteps of its successful Balboa Bay Club sister store, Gerald's Gold features a unique and highly-fashioned assortment of original creations for men and women, including a large collection of gemstones.

Tunic Leads Year's Trend

This is the year of the tunic.

The Temptdress Shop of Mesa Verde Center in Costa Mesa is featuring the new look which may be worn as a full dress or coordinated with pants.

According to Temptdress' owner Virginia Holmes, the tunic can go anywhere. She carries both a polyester knit for day and black with rhinestone version for evening.

For the woman who wants to be memorable, a unique item in the fall line is the handkerchief dress.

Jumpsuits are offered by Temptdress in both polyester knit and cotton-polyester blend.

Gaucho pants with boots remain popular and Holmes says that longer dresses with soft flowing fabrics are being seen at formal occasions with cowl neck sweaters and knit pants highlighting casual gatherings.

Holmes carries a full line of Jack Winter coordinated sportswear and states the fashions at Temptdress are designed with the "style-conscious, contemporary woman in mind."

ON GROWING OLD:

. . .IT'S UP TO YOU

Choose One: Diet or Dilapidation

By BARBARA GIUS
Daily Pilot Food Editor

When the Fashionables and Town and Gown support groups of Chapman College announced their "Design for Living" luncheon which graced the Balboa Bay Club last Wednesday, the invitations promised a program on "the beauty of aging."

Call it what you like, the speaking panelists agreed: the challenge of growing old gracefully — or "aging prevention," as one termed it — is a human phenomenon that manages to reorganize our vanity circuitry to comparing photographs and skin folds and looking languorously at tight-bodied, vibrant youthfuls.

If there was one consistent theme in the pep talks delivered to the more than 400 women attending, it would be that aging doesn't really have to happen, or at least, take an ugly toll.

Physical degeneration is a matter of choice, the audience was told: It can be ours by virtue of what we choose to worry about, and by how and what we choose to eat, drink and smoke.

"If you want bags, wrinkles, lifeless skin and lusterless hair, then by all means, drink, drink, drink," Frances Messinger, program director for St. Vincent's Alcoholic Treatment Center in Los Angeles, told the women. Many had sipped an aperitif before being served a skinless, cold chicken plate, bran muffin and low-carb chocolate cake.

EMPTY CALORIES

"Talk about empty calories," Ms. Messinger went on, "alcohol has absolutely no nutrients whatsoever. But unfortunately, we have been brought up in a society where taking a drink is a thoughtless process.

"It's too easy," she said, even though alcohol is "the most addicting drug available to us and the number one health problem in the U.S."

"We are forever seeking a 'safe' limit whereby we can enjoy drinking and not be affected by it. Well, there is no part of the body that is not affected by liquor," Ms. Messinger said. "Alcohol takes its toll in the nervous system and the brain, often enough to trigger antisocial behavior."

Although both men and women claim to drop unwanted pounds when they cut alcoholic beverages out of daily consumption, many admit that when desired weight loss is attained, they return to relying on an "evening highball" to "make them feel happy and lovable," she said.

SOCIAL LUBRICATION

"This is sad commentary, indeed," Ms. Messinger continued. "It's too bad we feel we need something to lubricate us in order to relate with others.

"I see the problem of alcohol as a simple matter of choice, not will power," she continued. "Why should we need willpower to be happy — to not drink the poison of our youth and to not age prematurely?"

Ms. Messinger was joined by Jeanne Jones, nutrition consultant and lecturer for the American Diabetes Assn., who recently authored a booklet for a dietetic cake mix company in which she offers recipes for special occasion "gorgeous goodies" with caloric counts rarely above 100 per serving.

Ms. Jones, who calls her favorite lecture "Don't Kill Your Best Friend," says desserts are "the real kicker."

"For some reason, after living for weeks on steamed vegetables and low-fat meals, we feel a need to go super-rich on planning an entertaining menu," she told luncheon goers. "Crisp, fresh apples somehow get transformed into a pie and of course, what would dinner be without dinner rolls — with REAL butter?"

Ms. Jones says such dietetic aids as low-carbohydrate cake mixes should supplant conscientious eaters' other dessert mix supplies which manage to send out tempting vibes "every time you open the pantry door."

TEMPTATION A NO-NO

"The key to vitality and body maintenance is in good nutrition through sensible eating," she said. "It's like having an 11th commandment to follow: Thou Shalt Not Tempt, which means, if you shouldn't have it, don't bring it in the house."

Following Ms. Jones' presentation was a brief showing of fall fashion ideas by seven Newport area models whose total age was calculated at 334 years.

Actress Shirley Rothman, who describes herself as a lecture-student of the "Age of Age Prevention," spoke about growing old as an "unnatural phenomenon."

"Aging is an accumulation of diseases brought on when body chemistry breaks down and can't get repaired," she said. Aging is manifested physically, she said, when two molecules get hooked together in a process called cross-linking.

"In 10 years," she estimated, "American scientists will have found a laboratory enzyme to dissolve this molecular bond and reverse aging. They will have found a way to make menopause occur at 80 instead of 45."

MATURATION CONTROLLED

In laboratories at the Department of Physiology, University of California at Berkeley, research assistant Paul Segall is controlling maturation in rats by restricting their intake of tryptophan, one of the eight essential amino acids.

Found chiefly in dairy products, some animal and plant proteins, tryptophan is, as Segall explains, "the substance from which the body manufactures neuro-transmitters which regulate functions such as body temperature and appetite."

Segall says he has been able to extend the rats' average 22-month life span to 30 months by limiting their tryptophan intake to 34 milligrams per 100 food grams. The "normal" human allowance is 180 milligrams of tryptophan per 100 grams.

At the present time, says Segall, scientists are "without any human vocabulary" where this type of experimentation is concerned. "The only thing our studies really tell us is that aging can be controlled in the laboratory, but we don't know to what extent.

TURNING OFF CLOCK

"What we do know is that aging is a programmed process that works much like a clock in controlling the pituitary gland," he said. "The 'hands' of the clock are the neuro-transmitters. By limiting tryptophan in the diet, we have, in effect, turned off the clock."

Once rats are placed back on a normal diet, Segall said growth resumes where it left off. "In older rats, there are exterior signs of rejuvenation, and young rats remain small, until normal feeding resumes."

Although an effectively tryptophan-deficient diet can be achieved by ingesting large amounts of cornmeal in place of other protein foods, Segall vehemently discourages this kind of human experimentation.

"Humans could go crazy on a diet like this," he said.

Segall says the diet was so drastic that only about a third of the laboratory animals survived the experiment.

Those that did survive showed signs of "terrible side effects," he said, like convulsions and ironically, thinning hair.

Harvest Home Contest Cooks

Recipes are now being received for the Daily Pilot Harvest Home Cooking Contest, with Taste-Off scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 2 at the Irvine Harvest Festival, Culver Drive and New Barranca Roads in Irvine.

Recipes must be received no later than Friday for competition in the following categories: Whole Grain Baked Goods, Fruit Pies, Vegetarian Main Dishes, Diet Desserts and Space-Age Snacks.

In keeping with the theme of this year's Harvest Festival, "New Horizons," categories have been drawn to include your most economical, energy-saving and future-minded concoctions.

Recipes must be submitted in typewritten form on an 8½ x 11-inch piece of paper, and must include a list of ingredients and procedures; your name, address and phone number.

A panel of judges will select contestants for the Oct. 2 Taste-Off on the basis of recipe originality, ease in preparation, and use of natural and economical ingredients.

Finalists will be announced in the Food Section next week and will be asked to bring their entries to the Daily Pilot food booth at the festival grounds by 2 p.m. the day of judging.

Winners will receive prizes including a crock pot slow-cooker, dinner for two, and gift certificates for clothes, records and a personalized birthday cake, all donated by the Temptdress shop, the Stew Kettle, the Music Market and Priscilla's Bakery, in the Mesa Verde Shopping Center.

Winning recipes will appear in the Food Section Oct. 6.

ON FEEDING YOUNG:

Fat or Slim? Thank Mom

Chances are, according to the most recent theories on early childhood development, if you're overweight now, you were probably a bottle-fed baby.

Speaking before the California Dairy Council's Symposium on Early Childhood Nutrition last week in Oakland, Dr. Charlotte G. Neumann of the Department of Pediatrics at UCLA, said bottle feeding allows the mother to shape the infant's appetite by her own attitudes about how much the baby should eat.

Healthy, breast-fed infants, in contrast, usually suckle until they are no longer hungry, allowing them to better respond to their own needs.

Force-feeding not only contributes to a proliferation of fat cells, said Dr. Neumann, it also tends to establish long-term patterns of overeating.

The accumulation of adipocytes (fat cells) is shown to be permanently irreversible, said Dr. Neumann, regardless of subsequent calorie intake.

"It used to be if you didn't have a fat baby, you were a lousy parent," Dr. Neumann told the symposium. "Well, researchers have found that fat babies are not necessarily healthy babies.

"In fact, they are more susceptible to lower respiratory illnesses than infants of normal weight, and often have orthopedic problems during early walking stages."

Dr. Neumann said research has shown the incidence of bronchitis and other respiratory infections to increase about 102 percent among "fat babies."

"Mothers should be encouraged to breast-feed their children up to six months when possible," Dr. Newmann said. "Breast-fed infants are shown to double their birth weight weeks later than formula-fed babies, which means more gradual, cellular growth."

Dr. Neumann also suggests that too-rapid weight gain can be caused by giving the baby solid food too soon. "By the time some babies are two months old, they have already tasted chocolate pudding and berry cobbler," she said.

"Mothers should be discouraged against feeding their babies anything solid until age four-five months and then, I hope it would be something more wholesome than sweet desserts. That seems to be a trigger for another obesity pattern," she said.

Paralleling current trends for natural birth methods, there is also a trend among mothers to favor breast-feeding over formula feeding, Dr. Neumann noted.

Figures show that in 1974, 18 percent of all babies born were breast-fed, compared to 10 percent in 1974. This year's figures are nearly double, she said.

The majority of babies, however, are fed iron-fortified formula. But iron, once thought to be a necessary dietary supplement for hemoglobin development, is now prescribed with greater reservation.

When given to babies on diets high in unsaturated fats, iron can cause hemoglobin levels to fall off more drastically than if the supplement weren't provided.

A complicating factor is that premature infants often have difficulty digesting fats, especially vitamin E. This coupled with the fact that iron appears to destroy some of the baby's reserve of vitamin E, can result in vitamin E deficiency anemia.

Trap Door Hard to Spring Open

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Some time ago a woman asked you what to do about a husband who beat her up repeatedly. You said, "Leave him." You also said a woman who stays with a man who beats her is sick. Your advice proves you have no idea what a battered wife's life is like.

Well, I can tell you. It's hell. At least the woman who wrote got her husband to see a psychiatrist. Most men won't go. They see nothing wrong with what they are doing. You say, "LEAVE." How can she leave when there is no place to go?

You are probably thinking, "There is ALWAYS a place to go," but you're wrong. I read where London has 75 shelters for battered wives and their children, but in the United States there are very few.

People who've never had the experience can't imagine what it's like to be a battered wife. More has been done to help abused animals in this country than women. You call the police and the guy is arrested. Within hours he is out of jail — mad as hell. So he goes home and beats up his wife again.

I've been clobbered dozens of times in the 10 years we've been married, often in front of the children, for no reason except I said hello to a man on the street, or cooked a dinner my husband didn't like.

I've resigned myself to more of the same because I'm trapped. I don't expect you to print this but I had to write. Sign me — WITHOUTHOPE

DEAR W.H.: A woman who says "I've resigned myself to more of the same" will surely get it. I do not agree that there are no alternatives. There may not be many, but there must be ONE, and it's up to you to find it.

Contact your clergyman, a good-hearted friend or relative, the Catholic Charities, the Family Service Assn., the Salvation Army, the Jewish Welfare, the Community Referral Service, or any feminist organization (especially N.O.W.). Call the doctor who delivered the children. These numbers are in the phone book.

Arrange with your oldest child to go to the neighbors and phone the police the next time your husband starts to beat you. Take him to Family Court and insist that he live elsewhere and support you and the kids.

Unless you have the determination to put an end to the brutality, you WILL be trapped forever.

DEAR ANN: I find it hard to sympathize with "Crushed in Cincinnati" and her small-busted sisters. My problem is just the opposite and I'll trade with her.

Ever since I was 14, I've known that most boys are interested in one thing. Or should I say two?

When "Crushed" shops for a blouse or a dress she can wear any style. I must avoid low necklines, clingy fabrics and knits. The brassiere problem is simply awful. Mine have special padding on the straps and still they cut into my shoulders.

A woman can always make herself look larger, but to accomplish the reverse requires surgery which is painful and expensive. "Crushed" should count her blessings — TOO MUCH IS NO GOOD

DEAR T.M.: I've heard from many women who have had the surgery you speak of. They say it was worth the money and pain. Reconsider.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Highlight practicality; take nothing for granted. Insist on quality and service. Refuse to be intimidated by one who scowls.

May 20): Fun and games will replace worry and tension. Means there is abrupt transition — what was a setback can become a definite asset.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get on solid footing — be aware of prices, restrictions, eventual assets. One with experience will lend helping hand. Older individual will cooperate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be ready for change, variety, travel — start dialogue with one who means much to you. Short trip, calls, messages, selection of product — these are on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on money, income, budget personal possessions. Home improvement, reconciliation with family member — these also could be on agenda.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Lunar cycle high — you can perfect techniques, make valuable contacts and get to heart of matters. Accent on looks, drive, personality, originality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Key now is organization. Leave no loose ends. Don't delegate too many duties. Accept responsibility. You'll find that club or charitable organization is behind you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on romance, creativity, valuable contacts, flattery and meaningful compliments. You successfully complete assignment, project. You build for future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on authority, responsibility, new starts, independence, standing in community. Relationships with professional superiors also are spotlighted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good Moon aspect coincides now with communication, education, spiritual insights, journeys. One close to you is reliable but needs reassurance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Temptation is to be extravagant — overcome it by consulting one with experience. Means there are persons eager to lend helping hand.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lie low — do more listening than asserting. Check details — become familiar with basic material, concepts. Accent on long-term relationships, partnership, marital status.

If September 23rd is your birthday you make new starts this year — you will be more financially secure in October. You are inquisitive, a good reporter-detective — you're concerned with character, theater, law. You're versatile, can be domineering and you are generous.

Fund-raising High on List

DUSTY WINGS: Members and guests are invited to a Fiesta of Friends to be held Saturday, Sept. 25, in the Tustin home of Mrs. Richard Robinson.

On a tour of the Salvation Army's summer camp, the group presented a check which brought the annual total to $1,170.

CHAPMAN COLLEGE: Trustees and their spouses will be entertained at the annual Town and Gown fall reception for faculty and administration at 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 25, in the Fullerton home of the William J. Haneys.

UPPER BAY ASSOCIATES: Early California Fiesta is the theme of a progressive dinner, to be staged to raise funds for the Orange County Philharmonic Society.

Beginning at 5 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 26, guests will be treated to a social hour at the home of the Frank Vachons and then will proceed to other designated homes.

ORANGE DISTRICT: As the 34 clubs in the district of the California Federation of Women's Clubs will sponsor the Providence Speech and Hearing Center, a tour of the facility is being planned at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Another tour planned is to Project Concern, Tijuana on Wednesday, Sept. 29. The project provides health care, dental services, nutrition training and public health education. District clubs have donated supplies to this cause.

CHILDREN'S CREATIVE ART WORKSHOP: The Sales and Rental Council of the Newport Harbor Art Museum will sponsor its annual workshop for children beginning Saturday, Oct. 2.

Instructor will be Jan S. Cook, an Orange Coast College teacher who owned the Costa Mesa Art Center for 18 years.

Classes will take place in Art Room 502 at Corona del Mar High School. Anyone interested in the class may call the museum office, 675-3866.

MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY BENEFIT: The annual King of the Hill Procelebrity tennis tournament will travel to 28 cities to raise funds for the MD Association.

Matches will be played Sunday, Oct. 3, at the Cornelia Connelly School, Anaheim.

COMMUNITY FRIENDS: Mental Health Association is recruiting Orange County volunteers for the program which assists the convalescent in meeting daily situations with new feelings of self-confidence and self-sufficiency.

Anyone interested in the training program is asked to call the MHA office, 547-7559.

Public Hearings

Home Care

The status of home care in the U. S. will be discussed during a public hearing Thursday, Sept. 30, and Friday, Oct. 1, in the Los Angeles Convention Center.

The hearing is one of a series being conducted across the country during September and October to obtain information on how the Department of Health, Education and Welfare should regulate Federal home health care programs under Medicare and Medicaid.

Representatives from health and medical professions, welfare agencies, organizations for the aged, voluntary nurses associations and homemaker agencies will participate. The public also is invited.

Anyone wishing to testify or submit a written statement may do so, according to Joe P. Maldonado, HEW regional director.

Further information is available by writing to Alan Marer, HEW Region IX, 50 United Nations Plaza, Room 427, San Francisco 94102, or by calling Marer at (415) 556-1961.

Don't look for the Jones' at our Tennis Club

The Harbor Racquet Club is a tennis club not necessarily a social club.
Sure, our facilities include saunas, clubhouse, practice alleys and all the conveniences you'd expect, but the difference is our members are serious about tennis.
If you've thought about joining a tennis club but weren't sure how to go about it, we'd like to show you our facility.
Try out the Harbor Racquet Club for one day's play or several. Only $3.00 on weekdays and $5.00 on weekends. We've got plenty of court-time available because membership is limited. Join us for a day or a year. Play tennis... and leave the Jones' somewhere else!

Oakland contractor Arthur Coleman (white cap), works with youths on new clubhouse in North Oakland neighborhood.

New Clubhouse

Lives 'Rebuilt'

OAKLAND (AP) — One year ago the bureaucrats came to flatten the clubhouse that a hammer-toting squad of north Oakland youngsters had painstakingly pieced together with rusty nails and warped lumber.

Never mind that some of the novice carpenters were street-wise toughs with names far too familiar on police blotters, kids gone bad trying for once to do something good. The building was not up to code.

But now — thanks to the efforts of some community leaders, a couple of policemen and a building contractor — a new clubhouse is in the works. One with perfectly square corners and sturdy planks. Bound together with proper strands of bureaucrat-pleasing red tape.

"It shows what can be accomplished," beamed Lamar Parker, a neighborhood leader who helped the youths in the battle to resurrect their clubhouse. "Maybe the bureaucratic system is not so bad after all."

SOUR TUNE

But Parker said that when the clubhouse came tumbling down last year, he sang a more sour tune, grumbling that "Kids do something constructive and they shoot them down."

His frustration was mirrored by several other members of the community, including Willie Mae Nash, resident manager of a housing project in the neighborhood.

"The clubhouse gave them something constructive to do, something to take pride in," she said. "They've set up rules and the other older kids take care of the little ones. They're not just rebuilding a clubhouse — they're rebuilding their lives."

Two Oakland policemen who sympathized with the kids joined in an informal campaign to rebuild the clubhouse. Their toils began to take the shape of a new clubhouse designed to please the most finicky of building inspectors.

Arthur Coleman, a contractor, arrived with the plans for a new building and work started immediately. The neighborhood kids who will inhabit the wooden structure are driving the nails themselves, while Coleman keeps his practiced eye on the work to be sure it makes the grade.

"The children are all tickled to death," said Mrs. Nash.

"It's our American heritage to holler," added Parker, "and sometimes, if you stay with it, you can get something done."

Weddings and Engagements

To avoid disappointment, prospective brides are reminded to have their wedding stories with black and white glossy photographs to the Daily Pilot People Department one week before the wedding.

Pictures received after that time will not be used.

For engagement announcements it is imperative that the story, also accompanied by a black and white glossy picture, be submitted six weeks or more before the wedding date; otherwise it will not be published.

To help fill requirements on both wedding and engagement stories, forms are available in all Daily Pilot offices. Further questions will be answered by People Department staff members at 642-4321.

Personality Reflected

"Women who don't wear accessories are uptight. They don't want to express their personality. Accessories are a reflection of a woman's personality."

Peter Catalano probably would believe in accessories even if he weren't part-owner of a new firm turning out a complete line of jewelry and belts.

Since he is the senior partner and chief designer for P. C. Designs he has a vested interest in the decorations women choose for themselves, however.

Catalano, on a quick trip from his New York studio to Newport Beach, said he and his partner, Peggy Cone, would like to expand into scarves and handbags and eventually offer every accessory a woman would need.

His company, which started with jewelry made of playskool beads, stresses "color," which he defines as "emphasis."

"It's not fine metals or metal costume jewelry. It's serious line using all materials."

Catalano, appearing at a "how-to" show in Robinson's, said most women wear accessories poorly if they wear them at all.

Many women buy a dress then ask what to wear with it, he added. "It's a question we get all the time."

Women are not skilled in using jewlery or scarves because accessories have been treated like the step-child to ready-to-wear, he said.

But extra pieces are essential to add a finishing touch to most garments or add versatility, Catalano asserted.

He said accessories will become even more important as clothing goes higher in price. Women will need more scarves, belts and jewelry to change the look of their expensive pieces.

Accessories will become even more important as clothing goes higher in price, believes designer Peter Catalano.

The designer, who also is an architect, said young girls now are beginning to wear dresses instead of jeans, which he believes will make the upcoming market a "very exciting one."

Women stopping at the "how-to" show have ranged in age from 12 to 70, he added.

What does he see as exciting trends for the future?

"Gold for day. Not metal, though. The gold color, mixed with brights and naturals.

"Corded necklaces. Sling necklaces for layering."

½ teaspoon instant coffee crystals
1 teaspoon vanilla

Resift flour with sugar, salt and baking powder. Blend in butter. Mix Kahlua, instant coffee and vanilla, and let stand a minute to soften coffee crystals. Add to flour mixture and blend to a moderately stiff dough. Chill ½ hour or longer.

Roll on lightly floured board to about ⅛-inch thickness. Cut with floured cutter. Bake above oven center in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 5 to 7 minutes until edges are very lightly browned.

Cool and store in airtight container. Makes about 5 dozen 2¼-inch cookies.

KAHLUA DIP

1 8-ounce package cream cheese
¼ cup Kahlua
2 tablespoons light cream
2 tablespoons chopped toasted blanched almonds.

Soften cream cheese. Gradually beat in Kahlua and cream until mixture is smooth. Stir in almonds. Serve with Kahlua Wafers and fruit, such as strawberries, bananas, pineapple chunks or fresh apple wedges for dipping. Makes 1⅓ cups.

The younger set of sweet tooths will appreciate this mocha-flavored milkshake featuring chocolate ice cream and no liqueur. Um-m-m-m, richly refreshing.

MOCHA MILK SHAKE

4 teaspoons instant coffee crystals
1 cup nonfat dry milk powder
1⅓ cups cold water
2 cups (1 pint) chocolate ice cream

Measure all ingredients into large mixer bowl or blender container. Mix just until combined. (Pour into insulated beverage container to carry to a picnic.) Yield: 4 servings.

Micro Cooks' Classes Set

Three Southland home economists will explain the secrets of microwave cooking in a series of three free lectures beginning Oct. 1 at 7:30 p.m., in Forum 1 at Golden West College.

The Oct. 8 lecture deals with easy family foods, from delicate egg dishes and hearty main courses to desserts.

Shortcuts to elegant gourmet meals, including recipes for the new multi-cooking levels, will be given by Teri Jewell at the Oct. 15 lecture. Ms. Jewell is director of home economics for the marketing department of Thermador.

Dairy Prices On the Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says growing consumer demand for dairy products, including butter and cheese, could push the farm price of milk to record high levels later this year if the pace continues.

Last December, the "blend" price of all milk at the farm rose to a record of $10.30 per 100 pounds. As production increased early this year, the price declined and in June — the largest production month — it averaged $9.11 per hundredweight.

But milk prices rose seasonally in July to $9.41 and in August, according to preliminary USDA figures, the average was $9.67 per hundredweight.

James J. Miller of the department's Economic Research Service said in a new "Agricultural Outlook" report that milk prices in November and December may average near the year-earlier record "if current wholesale butter and cheese prices hold until year end."

By mid-August, he said, wholesale butter prices in Chicago were almost $1.07 a pound, up 17 cents since mid-May and only two cents below last December's record.

Wholesale cheese in Wisconsin was selling for about $1.03 a pound, up almost nine cents from May and just one cent below last December.

"The primary factor causing the rises in wholesale butter and cheese prices has been the very strong demand for milk and dairy products," he said. "These strong sales have absorbed the substantial increases in milk production while holding commercial dairy stocks to moderate seasonal levels."

Cuisine Robust

Poland cuisine has remained a mystery in this country except in pockets of Polish-American neighborhoods in a few major cities.

Polish cooking, like most of Eastern Europe's cuisine, is generally considered robust with some dishes consisting of five or six types of meats and two or three kinds of poultry. There is, however, another side of Polish cooking that features subtle soups, incomparable sauces and delicate pastries.

For gourmets who want to broaden their knowledge of authentic foreign dishes and for people who simply enjoy eating good food, the news of the establishment of the Polish Gourmet Society of America should be welcome indeed.

Membership in the Polish Gourmet Society of America is free and members will receive a membership card and information about where Polish gourmet meals will be served in their areas. Those wishing information about membership should write to the Polish Gourmet Society of America, P.O. Box 7, Cooper Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10003.

Save your stroganoff.

When you're making a real beef stroganoff, don't give it a fake taste. Use real sour cream. Those imitators have a different texture. And artificial additives.

Code Meets Critics

By Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO — It looks like grocery stores may join with consumers in protesting the federal Uniform Product Code — those little parallel lines on every grocery product which are supposed eventually to replace the old stamped price.

A study commissioned by the grocery industry showed shoppers in the UPC stores gradually became less and less aware of prices.

While this obviously means store customers could be victimized by higher prices, it also means they are oblivious to sales.

The idea of a growing band of robot-like shoppers who are unaware of supermarket ads, specials, and discounts struck horror into much of the industry.

The report also indicated shoppers are prone to leave UPC stores for the more comfortable, familiar stores which retained the price of the item on every product.

The study, conducted by the University of Michigan, concluded with the recommendation grocery stores retain the stamped price along side the computer line code.

Item-pricing in California is required until April 1, 1977, when stores will have the option of continuing to use item pricing or going solely to the UPC.

The UPC system has been touted as a substitute for item pricing that would save money and labor. It calls for a computerized "laser-eye" check out system to speed consumers through long checkout lines.

Clerks would no longer be kept busy stamping and re-stamping items as prices changed, advocates of the system said, and as the store's costs dropped, savings could be passed on to shoppers.

The industry study, conducted by the University of Michigan, presents other findings:

— Shoppers in conventional stores knew the correct prices of items 71 percent of the time, compared to 56.5 percent of shoppers in UPC stores.

— Forty percent of shoppers had difficulty determining prices in UPC stores, compared to 15 percent in conventional stores.

— Twice as many UPC shoppers switched to another store as conventional shoppers — 43 percent compared to 26 percent.

— Contacted at home after shopping, only 20 percent of the UPC shoppers could give correct purchase prices. Some 44 percent of conventional shoppers could, because they were able to check prices of goods on their kitchen shelves.

— Almost all (96 percent) of conventional shoppers could determine the correct price of an item when asked. Only 88 percent of UPC shoppers could.

Time To Pick

September through November is harvesting time for olives.

If you have olive trees that are bearing fruit, and want to preserve it, the University of California is offering a free publication — Home Pickling of Olives #2758.

It includes the process for producing green-ripe or dark-ripe olives, and for Greek, Spanish or Sicilian style.

Some of the preserving processes require that the fruit be picked when green, straw-colored or cherry-red.

You can send for the free booklet now, before your olives get too ripe, by writing HOME PICKLING OF OLIVES, Box 1629-N, Richmond, CA 94802.

Nectar Bee-comes You?

Once described by the philosopher Aristotle as the "dew distilled from the stars and the rainbow," honey has been exalted through the ages for its manufacture of energy, its soothing medicinal qualities, as to coat sore throats, and as a skin softener.

Enrico Caruso was said to have swallowed a dollop before unleashing an aria at the New York Metropolitan and Sir Edmund Hillary reportedly took a jar of the amber sweet along on his 1953 assault on Mount Everest.

Honey is most popularly used as a substitute for jams and jellies, sugar and syrup, a companion to fruit and peanut butter, and in baking.

In the U.S., honey is usually derived from sweet clover; but many regional varieties are made throughout the country, from bees in sage, cactus, citrus and avocado groves. Honey connoisseurs say the best is derived from thyme that grows wild in the Catskills.

Regardless of where it comes from, Americans are said to consume some 110 million pounds of the stuff annually, which means a lot of sticky business for bee harvesters.

Although a natural food, honey is often available in forms more natural than others. Uncooked, often "cloudy" varieties are more nutritious, since cooking acts to "refine" out nutrients.

Because it is a natural food, it is popularly used in Kosher cooking. Lekach, or honey cake is a popular addition to the table during Jewish holidays, which commence this week. This recipe is from the Kosher cookbook, "Love and Knishes."

LEKACH

4 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup honey
½ cup strong black coffee
2 tablespoons salad oil
3-½ cups flour
1-½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon ground allspice
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup raisins
¼ cup citron, finely cut
2 tablespoons brandy

Beat eggs. Add sugar gradually, beating until creamy. Combine honey and coffee. Stir into oil. Combine with the egg mixture.

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, and spices. Add nuts, raisins, and citron to flour mixture. Add egg mixture to dry ingredients, blending thoroughly. Stir brandy through the batter.

Line two greased loaf pans (10-¼ x 3-⅝ by 2-⅝ inches) with waxed paper. Half fill each pan with batter. Bake at 300 degrees for 1-¼ hours. Each cake serves 8.

Gumbo Pod Turns Fritter Favorite

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The English called it "lady's finger." African slaves brought it to America as an early ingredient for "soul food" and for a time it was regarded as a love potion.

At any rate, the green seed pod known as okra is a versatile vegetable with a long history. It is believed to have originated in ancient Abyssinia, and years later made its way to Europe. The French liked it so much that they took some seeds to Louisiana in the early 1700s and it became a keystone of creole cooking.

A member of the mallow family, okra was popular in Egypt at about the time that Antony was courting Cleopatra, which may have given rise to the love potion idea.

This theory persisted and there are accounts of a hunger strike staged in 1728 by a group of "mail order brides" who had been sent to Louisiana to make homes for the French settlers.

The disconsolate grooms, according to the story, finally whipped up a batch of gumbo with liberal additions of okra and served it to the rebellious brides, thus ending the strike.

Perhaps the most popular of southern vegetables, okra thrives in that part of our country. The green pod is usually picked when young and tender and about three inches long.

Okra is added to southern-style dishes such as gumbos and seafood for both flavoring and thickening. It also gives a distinctive touch to vegetable dishes such as stewed tomatoes.

Okra is good cooked by itself, too. It can be boiled, baked or fried and seasoned to taste. One of the most popular dishes down south is fried okra. Dipped in beaten egg and coated with cracker crumbs or corn meal, it is quick-fried and served piping hot.

Okra as a flavoring ingredient or thickener is at its best when added to soups or stews during the last few minutes of cooking time. Cooked too long, it become gummy.

Okra is not grown in many parts of the country, so the fritter recipe contained here calls for it frozen.

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon melted butter
½ cup evaporated milk
1 10-ounce package frozen cut okra

Stir first five ingredients together. Stir in eggs, melted butter and evaporated milk. Fold in okra, cooked as directed on package and drained.

Drop by tablespoon into hot fat. Fry till lightly browned and puffed, about 2 minutes per side. Makes about 12 fritters.

Fry 'em Gently

You can use the inner coarse white part (but not the core) of a green cabbage for these light supper dishes and save the green part for slaw.

FRY PAN VEGETABLES

6 tablespoons butter
1 medium onion, cut in thin strips
1 quart coarsely shredded cabbage, packed down
½ pound (scant) mushrooms, sliced
½ medium or large green pepper, cut in thin strips
½ medium or large cucumber, pared and thinly sliced
1 ear fresh corn, kernels cut and pulp scraped, from cob
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Into a 12-inch skillet turn all the ingredients. Over moderately low heat mix with a spoon or chopsticks until butter melts and cabbage wilts.

Cover and simmer until tender-crisp — about 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

CRISPY FRIED CABBAGE

1 egg
1 cup water
¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
1-½ cups flour, approximately
1 teaspoon salt
1 small head cabbage
Oil

Heat oil to 375°. Lightly beat together egg, water, mustard, 1 cup flour, and salt (batter should be lumpy). Cut cabbage into wedges; dip in flour, then in batter. Fry in deep hot fat 4 to 5 minutes, until golden brown. 6 servings.

Class Slated

A course in nutrition with special emphasis on aging and chronic disease will again be offered at Saddleback Community Hospital this fall by Saddleback College.

The class, taught by Dr. Frank Varese, will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday nights beginning Sept. 27 in the hospital cafeteria. The course will survey the principles of proper nutrition and will help students plan a proper daily diet for healthful living. Enrollment for the class can be arranged at the first meeting.

Registration information is available by calling the Office of Community Information at 831-9700 or 495-4950, Ext. 263.

Kids Cut Up

Kitchen fun for children: give them some wrapping paper or slit bags and some fancy-shape cookie cutters plus crayons.

The youngsters will enjoy drawing around the cutters and filling in the shapes with the crayons of different colors.

If appropriate paper is used, the kids can make place-mats for the family table in this fashion.

Dieters Miss Fiber in No-Bread Fantasy

By DOROTHY WENCK
Orange County Home Advisor

"I'm on a diet — no bread for me." How many times have you heard someone say this?

Many Americans have the notion that bread is a very fattening food and that if they eat less of it, they will surely lose weight.

The ingredient in bread which people focus on as being so fattening is carbohydrate, just a big word for starch and sugar.

Starch and sugar, however, are just one source of calories. We also get calories from protein and fat. So, if you cut down on bread when you're dieting, but don't cut down on anything else, you may not lose much weight.

The most potent source of calories is fat, which supplies 2¼ times as many calories as either starch, sugar, or protein. An ounce of fat, for example, has 250 calories, while an ounce of protein, starch, or sugar has just 110.

When you eat less bread, you do tend to eat less fat — in the form of butter or margarine — and you will save some calories. One slice of bread has about 65 calories; a pat of butter or margarine (1 teaspoon) has about 35 calories.

If you also add such sweets as honey or jelly to your bread, you can save another 35-60 calories by going without.

But while you might easily get along without the butter, margarine, honey or jelly, you do need to have some bread or other cereal food in your diet every day.

The carbohydrate furnished by cereal foods is a necessary nutrient. The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council suggests an intake of at least 100 grams of carbohydrate a day to maintain body functions. (Our average diet has between 200 and 300 carbohydrate grams.)

QUESTIONS WE ARE ASKED:

. . .Q. Is cheddar cheese naturally orange in color or do they add artificial coloring?

. . .A. Colorings are added to most cheeses. The two colorings usually used are vegetable dyes (not artificial colors) which are not thought to be hazardous. One is annatto, which comes from the flesh around the seeds of a small tropical tree. The second is carotene, a yellow substance in carrots and other bright yellow fruits and vegetables which the body actually changes into vitamin A.

* * *

. . .Q. What is the current situation on the food coloring Red No. 2. Is it still being used in food?

. . .A. Red No. 2 (an artificial color synthesized from coal) has been banned as of last February 12 by the Food and Drug Administration. No foods manufactured after that date may include Red No. 2.

Some companies stopped using this coloring as soon as the ban was announced, which was early in January. Foods containing the dye which were made before February 12 can still be sold. It's difficult to find out how much, if any, of such food is still around.

In all probability, not much is left on the market, but you may still have some in your cupboard.

* * *

. . .Q. I tried making some whipped "diet" type margarine at home by whipping water into regular soft margarine. It works fine as long as it's cold, but it melts quickly when I put it out for a meal. What do they do to the commercial diet margarine to prevent this?

. . .A. In the commercial "diet" margarine a stabilizer is added to keep it from melting too quickly. You might try using the harder stick margarine instead of the soft margarine when you whip water into it. Also, don't try to add too much water. Add about ¼ cup water per cup (½ pound) of margarine. Whip it in a little at a time.

Treat Berry Tasty

Kids just learning their ABCs and those into algebra will delight in home baked "Berry Bonny Bread."

Slice it thinly and spread with cream cheese or peanut butter.

BERRY BONNY BREAD

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg
1¼ cups buttermilk
3½ cups unsifted flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg
Grated rind of 1 orange
½ cup raisins
1 can (8 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce

In a bowl, cream butter until fluffy. Stir in brown sugar, egg and buttermilk. Beat in flour, baking soda, salt and spices. Fold in orange rind, raisins and cranberry sauce.

Pour mixture into a greased and floured 9x5x3 inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour and 20 minutes or until firm to the touch in the center. Unmold and cool thoroughly before cutting.

Rolls Cheesy

Add cheesy-dill flavoring to your next batch of refrigerator biscuits.

BISCUIT NIBBLERS

Roll 1 can (8 ounces) refrigerated flaky buttermilk biscuits into 8 x 6-inch rectangle on floured surface. Brush with 2 tablespoons melted butter; sprinkle with 1 teaspoon dill weed and 1 teaspoon celery seed.

Fold into thirds; roll again into 8 x 6-inch rectangle. Cut into desired shapes.

Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush with 2 tablespoons melted butter and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon shredded Parmesan cheese. Bake at 375 degrees 10 to 12 minutes or till golden brown. Makes about 1 dozen.

Tortillas: Mexican Meal-makers

In Mexico, a sandwich is a fiesta all in itself. The nation's two favorite sandwiches, the open-faced tostada and the rolled-up burrito, start with tortillas, a flat bread made with corn or flour.

TOSTADAS

8 stone ground corn tortillas (at room temperature)
Oil for frying
1 can (17 ounces) refried beans, heated according to package directions
2 cups shredded lettuce
2 tomatoes, sliced
1 avocado, peeled, seeded and sliced
Shredded Monterey Jack or mozzarella cheese
1 cup dairy sour cream
8 ripe olives, sliced
Hot Beef Filling

Fry tortillas on both sides in small amount of oil until crisp. Drain on paper towels. Spread each tortilla with refried beans, and then with Hot Beef Filling. Top with shredded lettuce, tomato slice, and avocado slices. Sprinkle with cheese. Garnish with sour cream and ripe olives.

HOT BEEF FILLING

1 small onion, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 pound ground beef
⅓ cup chopped ripe olives
1 envelope (1½ ounces) taco seasoning mix
Salt & pepper

Cook onion and garlic in oil for 3 minutes; add meat and brown. Add olives and taco seasoning mix; simmer until heated through. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

BURRITOS

3 tablespoons cooking oil
¾-pound stew beef, cut in ½-inch pieces
¾-pound pork shoulder, cut in ½-inch pieces
1 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups water
1 can (4 ounces) green chilies, drained
1 can (15 ounces) refried beans
¼ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
12 flour tortillas

Heat 2 tablespoons oil in a large skillet; cook beef, pork and onion until meat is browned and onion is tender. Add garlic, salt, and water; heat to boiling.

Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 2 hours or until meat is tender and begins to fall apart. Add chilies and, with fork, gently flake meat. Continue cooking, uncovered, until all liquid has evaporated.

Heat refried beans in 1 tablespoon oil. Add cheese; heat until cheese is melted.

In center of each tortilla, spread about two tablespoons bean mixture in a thin layer. Spoon about 2 tablespoons meat mixture near one edge of tortilla. Roll up, folding ends in securely, forming a rectangular roll.

Place burritos on a cookie sheet; cover with foil. Heat in preheated 325 degree oven for 15 minutes. Serve with taco sauces. Makes 12 servings.

TOMATOES STUFFED WITH GUACAMOLE

6 medium tomatoes
3 large ripe avocados, peeled and seeded
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tomato, peeled, seeded, and chopped
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Salt
Dash hot pepper sauce
Lettuce leaves

Make three crosswise cuts in top of tomatoes, cutting almost but not through the bottom. Spread sections apart to form a cup.

Mash avocados and mix with onion, chopped tomato, and lemon juice. Add salt and hot pepper sauce to taste and mix well. Stuff the tomatoes with the avocado mixture and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves.

Faking It

Leftovers Spanish Way

With your next batch of leftover turkey, chicken or canned tuna, try dressing them with pasta shells and a tasty tomato sauce. Spicy Spanish Shells can be prepared in minutes to allow ease and sociability with family or guests.

SPICY SPANISH SHELLS

¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup sliced celery
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups cubed turkey
1½ cups uncooked macaroni shells
¼ cup sliced black olives
1 green pepper, sliced
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
¼ cup sour cream
1 10-ounce can tomato sauce
¼ teaspoon basil, crushed

Cook macaroni shells according to directions. Drain. Saute celery and onion in butter until tender. Add turkey and green pepper and cook 3-5 more minutes.

Stir in tomato sauce, olives, cheese, basil and water. Simmer, covered, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Stir in sour cream and macaroni shells. Heat through. Serve in a large casserole garnished with chopped hard-boiled egg.

Jewish Holy Days Mean Festive Tables

The High Holy Days, the first ten days of the Jewish calendar New Year, begin this year on Saturday.

Opening with Rosh Hashanah and ending ten days later with Yom Kippur, this solemn season is not necessarily a time of sadness. In fact after the evening service at the synagogue Jewish tables are festive with special foods.

Since Jewish dietary law prohibits the combining of meat and dairy products at the same meal, Jewish cuisine includes a unique collection of dairy main dishes. Noodles, pancakes and dough are the mainstays of dairy meals, and are often filled with savory cheese and egg mixtures.

Cheese blintzes are a leading favorite during the High Holy Days.

CHEESE BLINTZES

1 pound dry or uncreamed cottage cheese
1 package (3-ounce) cream cheese, softened
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
4 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon peanut oil
1 cup milk
1 cup unsifted flour
⅓ cup peanut oil
Sour cream

Combine cottage cheese, cream cheese, sugar, cinnamon and 1 egg until thoroughly blended. Set aside.

Combine remaining 3 3ggs, salt, 1 teaspoon peanut oil and milk. Beat in flour until smooth. Pour 2 tablespoons batter into a hot, lightly oiled 6-inch skillet. Tilt pan to spread batter evenly. Cook over medium-high heat until bottom is lightly browned. Remove from pan, browned side up.

Place 2 tablespoons filling in center. Fold opposite sides in to form a rectangle. Repeat with remaining batter and filling.

Heat ⅓ cup peanut oil in large skillet until hot. Fry blintzes on each side until golden brown. Remove from pan; drain on paper toweling. Serve hot with sour cream. Makes 15 blintzes.

WHITEHOUSE CASSEROLE

1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup chopped cucumber
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
2 cups cooked, flaked whitefish (1 pound)
½ cup shredded American cheese
6 pitted black olives, cut in half

In large bowl stir together egg, mayonnaise, flour, salt and pepper; add cucumber, green onion and fish, mixing thoroughly. Turn into greased 1-quart casserole. Top with cheese and olives. Bake in 350 degree oven 30 minutes or until cheese is melted. Makes 4 servings.

CORNED BEEF MOLDED SALAD

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
¼ cup finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup mayonnaise
1½ cups finely shredded cabbage
1½ cups shredded cooked corned beef
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup sweet pickle relish

In small saucepan sprinkle gelatin over cold water. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, 3 to 5 minutes or until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat; stir in onion, lemon juice and salt.

Gradually stir gelatin mixture into mayonnaise. Add cabbage, corned beef, celery and pickle relish; stir until well mixed. Turn into 1½ quart mold and chill about 2 hours or until firm. Unmold and serve. Makes 8 (¾ cup) servings.

CAULIFLOWER CREME

1 cup water
½ teaspoon salt
1 medium head cauliflower, washed, outer leaves and stalk removed
2 tablespoons peanut oil
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
Dash pepper
1 cup chicken broth
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

In a large saucepan bring water and salt to a boil. Add cauliflower; bring to a boil. Cover and cook over medium heat until tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from saucepan. Place on serving dish. Keep warm.

In a small heavy saucepan blend together peanut oil, flour, salt, nutmeg and pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Remove from heat and gradually stir in chicken broth. Return to heat and bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Pour some of hot mixture into egg yolk. Blend well. Pour yolk mixture back into broth mixture. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Stir in parsley. Pour over cauliflower. Serves 4-6.

SWEET POTATO CAKE

2 cups unsifted flour
2¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground cloves
4 eggs, separated
2 cups sugar
1 cup peanut oil
1½ cups shredded raw sweet potatoes
1 cup chopped pecans
⅓ cup hot water
Confectioner's sugar

Combine flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Stir to blend well; set aside.

Beat egg whites in small mixer bowl until soft peaks form; set aside.

In large mixer bowl combine sugar and peanut oil. Beat until well be blended. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mix in sweet potatoes and pecans. Alternately blend in dry ingredients and hot water. Fold in egg whites. Turn batter into a greased and floured 12-cup Bundt pan.

Bake at 350 degrees F. about 55 minutes, or until done. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Turn out onto rack to finish cooling. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

MANDEL BROT

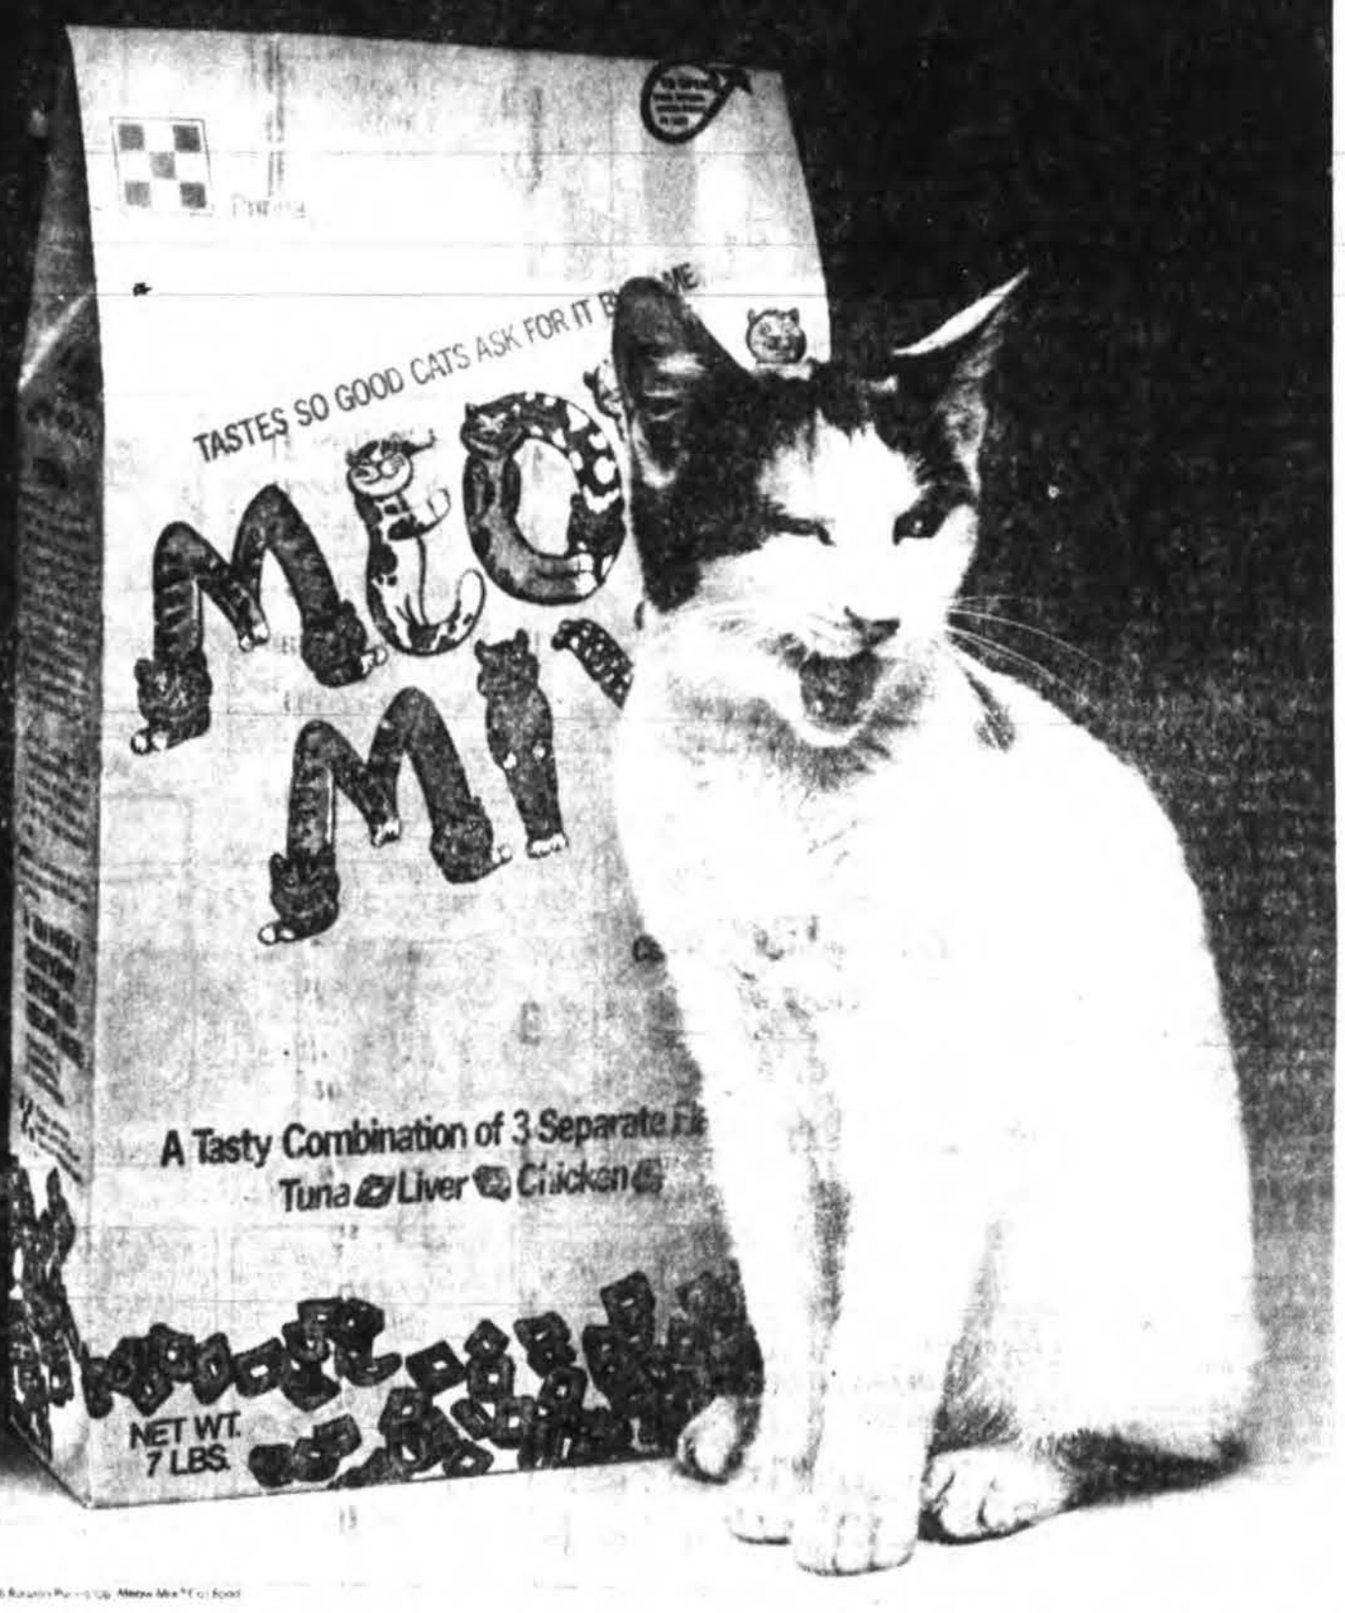
4½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup corn oil
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup coarsley chopped almonds or walnuts
Sugar
Cinnamon

In a large bowl stir together flour and baking powder. Beat eggs and sugar until thick and light in color. Add corn oil and extract; continue beating until thoroughly mixed. Stir in flour mixture until well mixed. Stir in nuts.

Shape dough into long rolls, about 2 inches thick. Place on greased baking sheets. Bake in 350 degree F. oven 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool rolls completely on wire racks. Cut each roll into ½-inch slices. Sprinkle sugar and cinnamon on each slice.

Return slices, sugar side up, to baking sheets and bake 15 minutes longer or until browned. Makes 48 slices.

OUR 7 LB. ECONOMY SIZE. NOW YOUR CAT'S MEOW CARRIES MORE WEIGHT.



Until recently, a cat's meow could be loosely translated as a request for either the 18 oz. box of Meow Mix or the 3½ lb. bag.

Now, however, Meow Mix*cat food also comes in a 7 lb. bag.

We call it our large, economy size.

It's perfect for cats with large, not so economy size appetites. And for families with more than one cat.

While it costs less per oz. than our smaller sizes, it also gives a cat the kind of taste as well as the kind of variety he couldn't get in any other larger size.

And not only does your cat's word carry a lot of weight at Meow Mix, now it also carries a lot of weight at the grocery. For with the coupon it can save 30¢ on the 7 lb. bag at Meow Mix.

Flavor Nutty

Idea Germinates

If you do any baking at all, wheat germ is sure to become a regular on your list of ingredients. This natural cereal is truly an all purpose food and does so much for anything it goes into. The fresh wholesome taste is attributed to the fact that it contains no additives or preservatives, and is usually vacuum-packed to preserve freshness.

The nutlike flavor in these confections adds hearty texture interest, too. Wheat germ's nutrient content of high quality protein, iron and vitamins is also a plus. The tasty honey raisin bars, for instance, may be made with either regular wheat germ or wheat germ with sugar and honey. They're moist and flavorful with butter, honey, raisins and cinnamon.

Eye catching sandwich cookies begin with a vanilla wheat germ refrigerator cooky dough. The thinly sliced and baked cookies are put together with buttercream filling, then cut into half moons.

No-bake wheat germ fudge squares can be made anytime since they don't require an oven — let the junior cooks try this one! They're super, with graham cracker crumbs, chopped walnuts and semisweet chocolate pieces. Cut into confection-size squares to serve.

WHEAT GERM HONEY RAISIN BARS

¼ cup butter, softened
¼ cup brown sugar (packed
⅓ cup honey
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup wheat germ
1 cup raisins
½ cup finely chopped walnuts

Beat together butter and sugar until fluffy. Beat in honey, egg and milk. Mix in flour, soda, salt and cinnamon. Stir in wheat germ, raisins and nuts.

Spread batter evenly in buttered 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 18 to 20 minutes or until pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on rack 15 minutes. Cut into bars with sharp knife. Makes 3 dozen (2 x 1½-inch) bars.

GERM SANDWICHES

¾ cup butter
⅔ cup powdered sugar
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
1¾ cups flour
1 cup wheat germ
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons milk
Buttercream Filling

Beat together butter, sugar and vanilla until soft and creamy. Mix in flour combined with wheat germ, baking powder and salt. Stir in milk. Divide dough in half. Shape each part into an 8-inch roll. Wrap and chill at least 2 hours. Slice ¼-inch thick. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until light golden. Remove and cool on rack. Sandwich cookies with Buttercream Filling. Makes 3 dozen.

BUTTERCREAM FILLING: Soften ¼ cup butter and beat in 1½ cups unsifted powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract and 1 to 2 tablespoons milk. NOTE: To make half moons, carefully slice through cooky sandwiches with serrated knife.

WHEAT GERM FUDGE-NUT SQUARES

1 cup butter
1½ cups powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 egg
1 cup wheat germ
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
½ cup finely chopped walnuts
1 (6-ounce) package semisweet chocolate pieces

Melt ½ cup butter in top of double boiler over not hot boiling water. Add ½ cup sugar, vanilla and egg. Simmer, stirring constantly 3 to 5 minutes until mixture thickens slightly. Remove from heat. Add what germ, crumbs, walnuts and ½ cup chocolate pieces.

Stir until chocolate melts. Pack firmly into ungreased 9-inch square pan. Refrigerate 15 to 30 minutes until firm. Meanwhile, combine remaining ½ cup butter with remaining chocolate pieces. Heat, stirring, until chocolate melts. Remove from heat. Mix in remaining powdered sugar. Spread over cooky base.

Top with additional chopped walnuts, if desired. Refrigerate. Cut into squares when firm. Store in refrigerator. Makes about 6 dozen small pieces.

Wheat germ goes bananas in a quick banana snacking loaf and a fluffy blender nog.

The bread has excellent moistness and texture. It keeps well and cuts even better the second day.

QUICK WHEAT GERM BANANA LOAF

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup wheat germ
¾ cup all purpose flour
¾ cup whole wheat flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup mashed ripe banana (about 3 medium)
¼ cup milk
½ cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Beat together butter and sugar until smooth. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Mix wheat germ, flours, baking powder and salt. Stir into batter alternately with banana and milk. Fold in nuts. Turn into greased and floured 8½ x 4½ x 2½-inch loaf pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 55 to 60 minutes or until wooden pick inserted into center comes out clean. Cool 5 to 10 minutes in pan then remove and cool on rack. Makes 1 (8-inch) loaf.

Save your strawberries.

When you're putting real strawberries in a sour cream sauce, don't put them in a fake taste. Use real sour cream. Those imitators have a different texture. And artificial additives.

You see, we have a free booklet with a strawberry dessert recipe and 16 others, and we don't want you to make a poor imitation. So when you pick up our booklet "Do more with sour cream than simply smother another hot potato," pick up real sour cream. At your grocer. And save the taste.

Order to Show Cause Why Corporation Should Not be Dissolved At Instance of Directors

In the Matter of A-1 APARTMENT SUPPLY, INC. A corporation in the Process of Winding Up and Dissolution.

Upon reading the verified Petition made and filed in the name of A-1 Apartment Supply, Inc., a California Corporation, by its directors for an Order to Show Cause Why an order should not be made declaring said corporation to be duly wound up and dissolved and good cause appearing therefor,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that any person claiming to be interested in said corporation either as shareholders, creditors or otherwise, appear in this proceeding before this Court to contest said Petition at any time before the expiration of thirty (30) days from the completion of publication of this Order, as hereinafter specified, and show cause, if any they have, why this Court should not make and enter an order declaring said corporation to be duly wound up, its known assets distributed, any tax or penalty due under the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Law paid, and its other known debts and liabilities are paid as far as its assets permit, settling the accounts of its directors and discharging its directors from their duties and liabilities to its creditors or shareholders and declaring said corporation to be dissolved, and making such other order and granting such other relief as this Court may deem meet and proper upon the evidence submitted.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that this order be served by publication of a copy thereof in the Daily Pilot, a newspaper of general circulation in Orange County, where the principal office of said corporation is located, once a week for a period of two consecutive months, the first publication to be on August 16, 1976.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the petition on file herein be, and the same is hereby, set for hearing on November 22, 1976 at the hour of 9:00 A.M. in the courtroom of this Court, Department 36, at 700 Civic Center Drive West, Santa Ana, California.

$77.9 Million Effort

Reagan's $16.1 Million Tops Tabulation

From AP Dispatches

Candidates seeking presidential nominations spent $77.9 million, the Federal Election Commission reported in a massive study of primary financing.

The three biggest spenders were unsuccessful Republican challenger Ronald Reagan at $16.1 million, President Ford at $13.8 million and Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter at $12.8 million.

Eight other candidates, all Democrats, spent more than $1 million each.

The report showed that $42.8 million was spent by Democrats as a group and $30 million by Republicans. Various independent and minor party candidates accounted for the remaining $5 million.

Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, who twice sought the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas, emerged from a 116-year-old Wells-Fargo stage coach to become the president of Wells College in Aurora, N.Y.

FARENTHOLD

She told the 500 women students of Wells:

"There will be much greater diversity in roles women will play. To your great-grandmothers, your life spans will be much longer, it may be double, and that alone will have a profound effect on your lives. I urge you to prepare for it."

The 109-year-old exclusive women's college was founded by Henry Wells, who also founded the famous stage coach line.

President Ford will meet at the White House Friday with president-elect Jose Lopez Portillo of Mexico, press secretary Ron Nessen announced.

PORTILLO

They will meet in the afternoon and again at a working dinner in the White House that night. Mrs. Lopez Portillo will accompany her husband.

Portillo was elected president July 4 and will be inaugurated Dec. 1.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim let loose criticism at some of the United Nations' most cherished habits — partying, paperwork and procrastination.

Speaking at a luncheon just before the start of the annual U.N. General Assembly, Waldheim said:

WALDHEIM

"When I look at my official program of social events, luncheons, receptions and dinners for the coming weeks, I am filled with a mixture of despair and incredulity, not least because I myself have made my own contribution to the list of events."

Alcoholic beverages were not served because of the presence of Moslem guests, and the secretary-general said with a smile that the absence of liquor was an "important step forward" in reducing the time spent on socializing.

A Yale University lecturer, who resigned after it was revealed that he worked for the Nazis in World War II Russia, was a competent teacher who was told there was no basis for firing him, his former department head says.

Vladimir Sokolov-samarin, 63, offered his resignation July 20 after his activities were detailed in a Russian journal and four colleagues wrote him expressing moral opposition to his work in a Soviet city occupied by the German army. He had taught Russian literature at Yale for 17 years.

"He had a right to remain here and this right was conveyed to him," Robert Jackson, chairman of the Department of Slavic Languages and Literature, said. "It is true that he would have faced an uncongenial departmental atmosphere, but I think any person has to bear responsibility for his past."

President Tito met with a group of high ranking politicians at his hunting lodge and is responding well to medical treatment of his liver trouble, according to the official news agency Tanjug.

Tanjug said Tito, 84, and his wife, Jovanka, met with the visitors at Belje, a hunting lodge near the Hungarian border.

PEOPLE

Tito is suffering from an acute liver disease that forced cancellation of official visits to Yugoslavia by French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and other foreign dignitaries.

President Ford welcomed to the White House Liberian President William R. Tolbert Jr., the only African head of government to make a U.S. bicentennial visit.

Military honors were accorded at the start of a 20-minute welcoming ceremony witnessed by several thousand persons on the White House south lawn.

TOLBERT

Ford called Tolbert a distinguished friend of the United States and noted that his visit is taking place at a time when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is attempting to bring about black-white detente in Southern Africa.

Tolbert, wearing a white safari suit, flew to Washington by helicopter after an overnight stay at Williamsburg, Va.

A lottery will be used to determine the inheritance tax referee who will set the value of the late oil billionaire Jean Paul Getty's estate.

Judge Neil A. Lake, supervising judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court Probate Department, said that he will conduct the drawing from a pool of 28 referees assigned to the court's Central District. Lake normally assigns all referees on a rotating basis.

The person chosen on Friday, however, won't become a millionaire as he might have before a new law passed the Assely limiting referee fees to $5,000 unless a judge decides it should be larger.

Professor Jailed In Drug Scheme

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former chemistry professor, at the University of California at Riverside Dr. Phillip Radlick, 37, has been sentenced to three months in jail for his role in a scheme to sell more than $85 million worth of an illegal drug, the U.S. Attorney's office says.

Radlick also received a two-year suspended prison term and was placed on five years' probation.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Darrell W. MacIntyre, who prosecuted the case, said Radlick and two others conspired to manufacture the drug PCP, also known as "angel dust."

Union Head Loses City Job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Board of Supervisors has found Plumbers Union leader Joe Mazzola guilty of conflict of interest, stripping him of his job on the San Francisco Airports Commission and denying him any future city job.

Mazzola, business manager of the Plumbers Union, was one of the leaders of a 38-day city strike and refused to permit city plumbers to repair facilities at the airport. Consequently, toilets were clogged and heating was shut down during most of the walkout.

Grocery Pay Talks Resume

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Representatives of the Food Employers Council and the Teamsters Union have returned to the bargaining table in an effort to head off a strike against California and Nevada grocery stores.

The union, which represents 10,000 drivers and warehousemen in Las Vegas and Southern California, voted last week to strike if negotiations break down. Voight said drivers now earn between $6.85 and $7.10 an hour and warehousemen average $6.90 an hour. The union is asking for boosts of $4.93 an hour over three years.

Restroom Ban Approved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County supervisors have given preliminary approval to an ordinance that would subject men entering women's restrooms to arrest and prosecution.

The supervisors acted on the ordinance proposed by Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess who said the absence of such a measure had prevented authorities from taking action in recent cases. The ordinance bars women from entering men's restrooms and exempts janitors and children under the age of 7.

Third Suspect Arraigned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 37-year-old machinist, Zoltan Kakash, has been arraigned as the third suspect in the kidnaping of record company executive Lou Adler and an employe of Adler's company.

Second Album Tops 'Horses'

By LISA ROBINSON
Field Newspaper Syndicate

Amidst the artistic clutter of her Manhattan apartment (where you can look out the window and see the hookers under streetlights), Patti Smith listened to the final mix of her forthcoming LP, "Radio Ethiopia."

Wearing a red T-shirt (emblazoned with the words "Patti Smith Group" on the front, "Radio Ethiopia" on the back), a black silk raincoat, black trousers and red socks, Patti sipped mint tea and listened with special attention to the slightly psychedelic 12-minute title cut.

"WHAT OTHER POET WOULD GIVE her guitar player a 12-minute solo?" she laughed.

Patti's second album contains all the heart and soul of the first ("Horses"), but technically the record is superior to her debut effort.

Some of the credit can go to producer Jack Douglas, but much must go to the band which improved with months on the road and is now a tight, dynamically professional unit. And, of course, to Patti, who knew what she wanted on this one.

Tops in Pops

"We recorded the 'Radio Ethiopia' track on the night of the full moon, right in the middle of Hurricane Belle," Patti told me. "We chose Take No. 5, it's the one where I talked the least."

THE IMPROVISATION ON THE "Radio Ethiopia" cut prompted guitarist Lenny Kaye to laugh, "Maybe we should subtitle that 'Live At The Fillmore.' "Yeah," said Patti, "we could bring back light shows."

Patti's proudest moments on "Radio Ethiopia" (the song — such as it is — not the album) are her Duo Sonic guitar solos.

"That's all me on guitar at the beginning of the cut, and I managed to get the last note in on the album as well."

Other songs are "Ask The Angels" (a Stones-like rocker that could easily be a single), "Pumpin' " (high energy rock and roll: "We've got a dance to go along with it," Patti told me), "Ain't It Strange" (sounding much like Patti's live version) and "Poppies" (a lamentation on the burning of the Turkish poppy fields and a tribute to the late Edie Sedgwick).

"'POPPIES' IS ONE OF THE few cuts (in addition to the aforementioned "Radio Ethiopia") where Patti does some of what has been called "poetry."

"Distant Fingers" was written by Blue Osyter Cult's Alan Lanier, and is about unrequited, interstellar love. With lines like "When will you be landing?" it could be one of the first "Mars hits."

Patti's album includes a four-page insert of liner "poems" written by Patti; featured along with her illuminations on what you'll hear inside are photos of Lawrence of Arabia's opium pipe and Rimbaud in Abyssinia.

AFTER A BRIEF European tour, the Patti Smith Group will return to U.S. concerts in November. When Patti tours this time, her crew will include her brother Todd Smith who, Patti claims, looks "just like Paul Newman."

DYLAN

(Incidentally, if you saw Bob Dylan on the cover of TV Guide, you saw him wearing the Moroccan scarf Patti gave him. Reportedly, he rarely takes it off his head.)

Ever since Television signed with Elektra/Asylum four weeks ago, I've been asking Tom Verlaine when he'll record that first LP. His answer is always the same: "As soon as possible". . .Carol Bayer Sager, who's written songs ("Midnight Blue") for Melissa Manchester and others, is recording her own first album with producer Richard Perry. . .Mick Ronson is shopping for musicians. . .They're still talking about how Mr. Chow (the elegant Chinese restaurateur) catered the backstage area at the Stones Knebworth concert. . .Stevie Wonder finally delivered his new album ("Songs in the Key of Life") to Motown last week. . .The Who will be back, and this time for more concerts than on their last "mini-tour." Scheduled shows are Oct. 6, Phoenix; 7, San Diego; 9-10, Oakland, (with the Grateful Dead); 13, Portland; 14, Seattle; 16, Edmonton; 18, Winnepeg; 21 & 22, Toronto; 23, Montreal; 24-25, to be announced.

WONDER

Wildlife Seminar Offered

Educators at all grade levels have been invited to participate in Lion Country Safari's annual educational program, which begins Oct. 2 and continues through May.

The African wildlife preserve, bounded by Moulton Parkway and the San Diego Freeway just inside Irvine's southern boundary, will offer a free series of wildlife conservation seminars for teachers interested in presenting such information to their students.

ALTHOUGH THERE is no charge for the sessions, a Lion Country spokesman said reservations must be made through the park's education office.

Participating instructors will attend a morning session that will include a short lecture program and a question-and-answer period with Milton Tennant, Lion Country's zoological director.

BERNARD FARrell, educational coordinator at Lion Country, will discuss the preserve's school field trip program for the year and present a slide program on eastern and southern Africa.

During the afternoon session, teachers will be taken on a tour of Lion Country's 500-acre facility.

College Opens Exhibit

The Saddleback College art gallery season has opened with a month-long exhibition of experimental films and video displays by Southern California artists. The show will run through Oct. 8.

The first two weeks of the exhibit will be devoted to the video electronics display, featuring such things as the time-lapse device used by America's space program.

OTHER DISPLAYS include "Archigram: A Look at the Future," produced by a British firm to prove that change is the dominant factor in modern life.

And starting Saturday, "Video Weavings II," a film presentation of electronic color images generated by a synthesizer will be shown. This device translates pure mathematical input into electronic visual forms, according to acting gallery director Bill Schimsky.

"THE EXHIBITION offers an introduction into the ways video is being utilized by artists," Schimsky said. "Some use it to document their work and others to experiment with electronics in the film media."

The Mission Viejo school's gallery is located on the lower campus in building T-2. It is open daily through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Wednesdays from 6 to 8 p.m. Sunday hours are from noon to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Douglas Ups Fares 50c to $1

Douglas Bus Lines has increased its fares to offset what the company said is the higher cost of liability insurance.

Authority for the increase was granted by the California Public Utilities Commission.

Increases range between 50 cents and $1, depending on the route.

Douglas operates a commuter service between points in Los Angeles and Orange counties, providing home-to-work service to large industrial complexes.

Fume Plague May Cause Health Alert

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A Huntington Beach city councilman said today he is prepared to declare a health hazard because of obnoxious fumes that have plagued the city for a fortnight.

Ron Shenkman said that people are getting sick from the garlic-like odor that still remains a mystery after two weeks.

"If things are not resolved by Friday, I will act to declare the area a health hazard and to cease all activities at the site," Shenkman said.

"I will move to get a task force of experts in to recommend a solution," he added.

Shenkman said he has received a number of complaints, one from a longtime friend who lives near the 4.5-acre construction site south of Warner Avenue and east of Bolsa Chica Street.

"He is not the kind to complain, but he is genuinely distressed," Shenkman said.

"The fumes are causing bad headaches and breathing problems and people with respiratory weaknesses are actually leaving their homes," he added.

"We just can't stand by much longer."

City Public Works Director Bill Hartge said today that the city still has not received final laboratory tests of samples taken from the soil of the area.

"Preliminary findings show traces of dimenthol sulfide gas and methyl mercaptain gas," Hartge said. "There also is a small amount of hydrocarbons which indicate that part of the problem may be petroleum oriented," Hartge said.

Hartge said that preliminary analysis shows that the gases are not poisonous.

"The odor will likely dissipate naturally," Hartge added, "but there is no indication on how long that may take."

About 500 square feet of the affected soil has been removed by the developer and taken to the county dump.

Hartge said he hopes soon to either be able to isolate the offending soil and to remove it or to get recommendations for a material that will neutralize the odor.

"I don't really know why it is taking so long to get the laboratory tests back, but there are a lot of elements they are looking into," he said.

Hartge said that one area of the property still smells, but that complaints appear to be subsiding somewhat.

Jimmy: 'No Regrets'

Playboy Story 'Won't Hurt Campaign'

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said today he is not dismayed by reaction to his statements that he has "looked on a lot of women with lust" and "committed adultery in my heart." He said he doesn't think it has hurt his campaign.

Carter responded to questions from reporters as he got into his car after completing an early morning inspection of his peanut processing operation.

FORD-CARTER STANDS LISTED—A7

Asked whether he was dismayed by some of the reaction to his statements, made to an interviewer from Playboy magazine, the candidate replied:

"No. I don't want to have a press conference this morning."

Q. "Do you feel you were misunderstood?"

A. "I haven't been bothered by it."

Q. "Why did you grant the interview?"

A. "The same reason I grant you one . . ."

Q. "Are you sorry you granted it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you regret it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you think it's been misunderstood?"

A. "I don't think it's hurt in any way."

Q. "You don't think it's hurt at all?"

A. "I don't believe so."

But Carter said he did not want to conduct a news conference on

Huntington Employes Sign Pact

The City of Huntington Beach and the Municipal Employes Association (MEA) have signed a salary agreement running until next June 30.

Personnel Director Ed Thompson said the MEA, which makes up the largest employe group in the city with slightly more than 500 members, agreed to a 7.56 percent increase including salary and fringe benefits.

The cost to the city for the entire package will be $541,000, Thompson said.

Included in the settlement is a dental insurance plan for employes that takes effect on Nov. 1.

A long-term disability plan also will be in effect, beginning next April 1.

Employes who have been disabled more than 30 days will collect half their salary through an insurance program paid for by the city, Thompson said.

The Municipal Employes Association includes maintenance and clerical workers and includes employes at the city yard, planning department, public works, engineering department, recreation and parks and the library.

Under terms of the previous contract a librarian, for example, started at an annual salary of $11,424 and after three and one-half years advanced to $14,088. The new contract calls for a librarian to start at $12,228 annually. The top range is $15,072.

Settlement of the contract was worked out several weeks after an impasse had been declared and just prior to the start of mediation hearings.

The city already has signed agreements with the Police Officers Association and the Management Employes Organization.

Negotiations still are pending with heads of various departments, Thompson said.

What a Finish!

Bob Gentry and Sally Peterson, both associate deans of students at UCI, make a valiant effort as they complete the round-the-park tricycle course Tuesday. HB Driver Stomped At School

Two assailants stomped and severely beat a driver as he was delivering milk to a Huntington Beach elementary school early today.

Police said that William Marshall, 23, of Santa Ana, suffered fractured ribs and other serious injuries when he arrived at Meadowview School at 5702 Clark Drive in the northern part of the city.

Sgt. David Miller said Marshall was jumped on the school grounds and was badly mauled with both fists and feet. He was taken to Huntington Intercommunity Hospital with "quite serious" injuries.

A hospital official said today that Marshall was resting comfortably and that tests were scheduled later in the day.

Miller said that Marshall, a driver for Cal-Va Dairy in Santa Ana, was attacked at about 2:15 a.m.

Miller said police believe that the two assailants took the key to the school's multi-purpose room when it fell out of Marshall's pocket during the beating.

The investigator said he didn't know if the two men were casing the school for a burglary and were surprised by Marshall or if they were lying in wait for him to obtain the key.

Officers said there was no indication that the school had been broken into or that anything had been stolen.

Police are waiting for Marshall to recover from the shock of his beating before questioning him further to gain leads on the two attackers.

Marshall told officers that he thought he recognized the two men who were seen hanging around another school site.

Teachers Support Hundley Candidacy

By RAY ESTRADA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Teacher representatives in the Huntington Beach Union High School District have endorsed John Hundley, 34, among the four candidates running for a vacant trustee seat to be filled by a Nov. 2 special election.

Hundley, of 9372 Cloud Haven Drive, Huntington Beach, administers a diversionary program in the Artesia-Cerritos-Bellflower Unified School District and teaches one course for police officers at California State University, Long Beach.

The 700-member District Education Association (DEA), representing the high school teachers, invited all four candidates to interviews with the DEA political action committee, according to Ray Cooper, president. Three of the four candidates appeared before the group.

Hundley said he believes the basic issue in the election to fill former trustee Robert Knox's seat is basic education in the district. "I don't know much about my opponents at this time but I intend to learn more," he said.

Knox was appointed to a West Orange County municipal judgeship last May.

The three remaining trustees voted to appoint James Hamilton, who is also running in the Nov. 2 election, to the vacant seat. However, DEA representatives did not agree on Hamilton's selection process and called for the $17,000 special election.

"I don't know if I agree with the special election because I have reservations about spending $17,000 of the taxpayers' money," Hundley said. "But I can understand why the DEA forced the special election," he said.

DEA representatives contended that the board of trustees should have reopened applications for the vacant seat when Knox announced he was resigning.

Huntington Aides Set Seacliff Meet

Top city leaders of Huntington Beach are scheduled to attend an all-day retreat on Oct. 29 at the Seacliff Country Club in Huntington Beach.

More than 20 of the city's high echelon officials are expected to discuss goals and objectives for the city as well as ways to improve relations and communications.

Leaders also are expected to embark on studies for a five-year fiscal plan for the city.

The session is open to city residents and no formal action will be taken.

The retreat originally was scheduled to be held at the Cal Poly Pomona campus on Sept. 11-12 but was postponed after questions were raised about the legality of it being held outside the city.

Opinions were voiced that city business would be discussed which might be weighed in future decisions without the public having adequate access to the proceedings.

City officials said the coming retreat could not be held at the civic center because of fears that there would be many interruptions.

City Administrator Bud Belsito said Tuesday that he understands rooms will be provided free of charge at the country club.

He said the only costs that are expected to be incurred include the price for lunches and dinners plus the use of a "facilitator" to lead discussions.

The "facilitator" will be paid $842.

Alioto, 59, Plans To Wed Woman, 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday.

"My private life is private," the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan, 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a "desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy."

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

Status Quo DST Reigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speed-up procedures to pass a bill extending Daylight Saving Time have been rejected by the House, virtually assuring that the measure will not be enacted this year.

The bill would have set the beginning date for DST as the third Sunday of March and the ending date as the third Sunday of October, beginning in 1977. Under existing law, the country is on DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

With few members on the floor, the House voted 11 to 10 Tuesday for suspending the rules and passing the bill. But the suspension procedure requires two-thirds.

Clemente Cable TV Cut Off

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TM Communications Company cut cable television service to 7,000 San Clemente subscribers today.

The termination of service came within an hour of a post midnight City Council refusal to suspend a provision of its contract with TM. The provision allows the city to confiscate all the equipment within the city 30 days after a television franchise expires if not replaced with a new contract.

TM's latest position in a continuing feud with the city is that it must discontinue service and dismantle equipment to protect against possible future city seizure of that equipment.

Last week the council approved a new contract with the cable company but gave a $1.25 a month rate hike and provisions for future automatic fee increases. Councilmen Thomas O'Keefe and Tony DiGiovanni were opposed to the contract.

Mayor B. Patrick Lane voted for the rate hike but said he agreed with the council minority, voting for the contract only to stave off cost of a lawsuit.

But Tuesday Lane joined with O'Keefe and DiGiovanni to enforce the confiscation provision.

The new franchise won't be effective until Oct. 21. TM's old contract ran out Sunday.

CARTER. . .

In the interview, made public this week, Carter said he would not attempt to impose his own religious beliefs on others.

"Christ set some almost impossible standards for us," he said, adding that to sin is human and "God forgives me for it."

In one excerpt, Carter declared:

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do — and I have done it — and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust, but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock.

"Christ says don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who's loyal to his wife ought not to be condescending or proud because of the relative degree of sinfulness."

The candidate's statements brought mixed reactions.

— His wife, Rosalynn, said in New York they caused her no anxiety about his fidelity.

"I trust him completely. I've never had to worry about that at all," she said.

— Dr. Harry N. Hollis Jr., a denominational authority on social ethics, said in Nashville that Carter's statements on morality accurately reflect Southern Baptist teachings.

But Hollis, a staff mber of the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Conference, said he "wouldn't have used the same language."

— Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, Tex., declared: "I am highly offended by this. I think he's mixed up in his moral values, and I think the entire church membership will feel the same way."

— Dr. Jerry Vines, pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., and a former president of the pastors' conference of the Southern Baptist Convention, said: "This appears to be another instance of Carter accommodating himself to his audience.

Prosecution Rejected For Schorr

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Committee refused today to recommend that television reporter Daniel Schorr be prosecuted for failing to give the panel his copy of a classified House intelligence report.

The committee voted 6-5 against a motion by Rep. Edward Hutchinson (R-Mich.), to cite Schorr for contempt-of-Congress. One member was absent.

The vote apparently doomed any effort to initiate legal action against the CBS reporter for refusing to turn over his copy of the document or reveal his source for the report detailing activities of U.S. intelligence agencies.

The committee also defeated by a 7-4 vote a motion by Rep. Thad Cochran (R-Miss.), to recommend that Schorr be denied the use of the House radio-television galleries for the remainder of this session of Congress.

In an appearance before the ethics committee last week, Schorr said the First Amendment's free press guarantees protected him from having to reveal his source or relinquish his copy of the report.

Hutchison, however, argued the report was the property of the House and that Schorr should be forced to return it.

Rep. Thomas S. Foley (D-Wash.), said no valid purpose would be served by attempting to prosecute Schorr for contempt-of-Congress, a misdemeanor punishable by a fine or jail sentence.

Foley said the courts have been "extremely concerned" about interfering with constitutional guarantees protecting reporters.

"I would hope we would avoid a constitutional confrontation on this issue," Foley said.

'Olympiad' Set for Kids

The Crest View elementary school Parent Faculty Organization will hold a mini-olympics Saturday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., on the campus athletic field.

Students will compete in eight events including: a team relay race, high jump, 50-yard dash, broad jump, softball throw, team walking race, marathon and a students vs. parents and faculty volleyball game.

All Crest View students from kindergarten through the eighth grade may participate.

STRIKING STUDENTS AT GEORGE WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL RALLY ON FOOTBALL FIELD
In San Francisco, the Kids Walk Out to Protest a Shortage of Teachers

800 Students Strike for More Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In an era of striking school teachers, this walkout was different. The students struck, demanding more teachers.

About 800 clapping, placard-carrying students checked in for classes at George Washington High School on Tuesday and then, as expected, moved out of the school and onto the football field for a protest rally.

Another 800 of the school's 2,600 students simply left their classes and wandered in the neighborhood two miles south of the Golden Gate Bridge.

The youths chanted, "We want our teachers back."

It was the latest in a series of protests against a reduction in the number of classroom teachers, switching some to other positions such as a permanent substitute pool.

Burke Slated For Address After Debate

Assemblyman Robert H. Burke (R-Huntington Beach), will address a Town Hall meeting Thursday, following the nationally televised debate between presidential candidates Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

The Burke meeting will be held in Huntington Beach City Council Chambers, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

A spokesman at Burke's Huntington Beach office said today she didn't realize the town hall meeting had been scheduled the same night as the television debate, but added that Burke has not canceled the meeting.

Interested citizens will have 30 minutes to get to the city council chambers following the television debate, which is scheduled to run from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. (PDT).

Alien Jailing Policy Wins Council Nod

The Santa Ana City Council has approved a police department policy of detaining illegal aliens suspected of criminal activity for federal immigration authorities.

The controversial policy, revised nine times, calls for the jailing of aliens suspected of committing a crime. It does not include aliens reporting crimes to police, or people stopped for minor traffic violations.

The policy also instructs police who encounter situations in which they believe an illegal alien is being exploited, to report such cases to health, welfare, employment or building authorities.

The police department's former policy was no enforcement of immigration laws.

Soviets Angered

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet Union said today that Japan "chose to strain Japanese-Soviet relations" by refusing to immediately return a defecting Soviet pilot and his MIG25 jet fighter. Soviet Ambassador Dmitri Polyansky reported the seizure as "unfriendly acts" by Japan which "cannot remain without consequences" to the two nations' relations.

Heart Attack Victim Lost Off HB Coast

A 37-year-old Hermosa Beach man was lost off the coast of Huntington Beach Tuesday evening after apparently suffering a heart attack, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

The man was being towed in the water on an automobile fender used as a raft behind a 22-foot sailboat, officials said.

Richard R. Russillo dropped from sight when he let go of the fender. A companion in the water with him said the victim had foam and mucous coming from his mouth.

Russillo's limp body was lost about one half mile northwest of Oil Island Eva near Huntington Beach, officials said.

The incident occurred at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Coast Guard and Orange County Harbor Patrol rescue units have discontinued a search for the body.

Atom Product Firm Seeks Past Crews

CHICAGO (AP) — A nationwide search has been launched for 4,500 former employes of a West Chicago company who may have been affected by inhaling radioactive dust, an Argonne National Laboratory official reports.

Andrew Stehney, a member of the Argonne team conducting the search, said Tuesday that medical researchers are trying to determine possible health hazards from working with radioactive thorium.

Stehney said the plant was operated by the Lindsay Light and Chemical Co. between the mid-1930s and 1973. The plant processes thorium and other minerals used in the manufacturing of incandescent mantles for kerosene and gasoline lamps.

It is not known, Stehney said, whether low-level exposure to the dust leads to cancer or other health problems.

But a study conducted in Denmark, Portugal and West Germany has shown that the outdated practice of injecting the substance into X-ray patients caused liver cancer.

The study will try to track down the entire work force of the West Chicago plant to determine the cause of death of any employes who have died since the 1960s.

Twice Told, Tale Tallies

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — In a slip of the tongue, Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale momentarily appeared to have forgotten his running mate's name.

Speaking to about 500 people who came down to the railroad tracks Tuesday to meet his campaign train, Mondale said:

Irvine Valuation Differs

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Lawyers for the California Attorney General's office and the Irvine Company compared valuations of the company Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court and came up with a difference of $51 million.

Irvine Company executive Lansing Eberling testified during a hearing into Irvine heiress Joan Irvine Smith's challenge of a proposed sale to the Mobil Oil Company that the net worth of the organization is about $329 million.

Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Tapper disagreed. He quoted from a liquidation analysis prepared by his office earlier this year and pegged the net value of Irvine holdings at $380 million.

Tapper's figure would put the per share value of Irvine stock at $44.75. Eberling's valuation brings the per share value down to $39.16.

Both figures are considerably higher than the $24 per share figure represented by the Mobil offer to pay $200 million for Irvine Company shares held by the James Irvine Foundation.

Those shares represent a 54.5 percent controlling interest in the Irvine Company. Under state law, the foundation must divest itself of those shares.

Judge James F. Judge is being asked in what is expected to be a six-week hearing to make permanent a temporary injunction against a Mobil deal already accepted by foundation trustees.

Mrs. Smith contends that the $200 million figure is too low and that the sale would be unfair to her and other minority stockholders.

Tapper and Eberling agreed, however, that it would take several years to bring about liquidation of the giant company's many assets even if such a sale were to be accepted by the Irvine board.

Books Needed By HB Library

Paperback books are needed by the Huntington Beach Public Library for its free exchange program.

Books in any quantity may be taken to the library at 7111 Talbert Ave., or the library will pick up large quantities of paperbacks, according to Librarian Walter Johnson. Books may also be taken to any of the library annexes.

Johnson said that patrons bring in paperbacks and may exchange them for an equal number of other paperbacks. "The library also welcomes all book donations it can get," Johnson said.

Will Wild Chase Seal Booth's Fate?

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

At the Irvine Ranch Water District, the search is on for a pair of seals to appear at the Irvine Harvest Festival.

With the festival less than two weeks away, it's beginning to look like the water district is on a wild seal chase.

The seal idea was born about three weeks ago. Public relations man Bruce Taylor decided it would be a great idea if he could find seals to swim in water in front of the IRWD festival display booth.

"Can't you just see it? Every kid in town will drag his folks over to our booth to see the seals," says Taylor, adding that inside the booth would be factual information pertaining to water.

Taylor says he began his search by calling the "obvious places."

"I called Marineland, Sea World, Knott's Berry Farm, Disneyland, Enchanted Village, Lion Country Safari—everywhere I thought I might track down a couple of seals," Taylor says.

"Hell, I was willing to settle for one seal," he adds.

Carter's 'Lust' No Big Issue?

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said today he is not dismayed by reaction to his statements that he has "looked on a lot of women with lust" and "committed adultery in my heart." He said he doesn't think it has hurt his campaign.

Carter responded to questions from reporters as he got into his car after completing an early morning inspection of his peanut processing operation.

Asked whether he was dismayed by some of the reaction to his statements, made to an interviewer from Playboy magazine, the candidate replied:

"No. I don't want to have a press conference this morning."

Motocross Unpopular

Irvine Residents Planning Council Protest

An angry group of Smoketree residents vowed Tuesday to ask the Irvine City Council to move the bicycle motocross course away from their homes, or at least to modify it.

The homeowners voted nearly unanimously Tuesday night to attempt to block the construction at the site, which is in the Edison Company right-of-way off Jeffrey Road next to the railroad tracks.

The vote came after Irvine Public Works Director Brent Muchow and Project Manager Jim Johnson spoke to the residents, briefing them on the project plans and relating the history of the bike motocross course.

Several representatives of the homeowners association were scheduled to meet today with Irvine Assistant City Manager Paul Brady to find out what the resident's options are in fighting the matter of the unwanted motocross.

Muchow and Johnson told the homeowners that the $65,000 bicycle motocross course — financed with bike bond money — has been planned for more than one year and that hearings were held without protest at various city commissions.

However, when the hearings were conducted, Smoketree residents had not yet moved into their homes.

Residents claim that when they bought their homes from the Warmington Development Company there was no indication of the planned motocross course.

Instead, a map shown to prospective homeowners indicated a greenbelt area, with a bike pathway, picnic tables and barbecue pits, they said.

Some homeowners said they picked their sites next to the motocross course because they were attracted to the greenbelt they thought would be there.

Muchow told the residents that the original plans were modified, so that the latest blueprint shows no public address system and the spectator grandstands are facing away from the homes and hidden behind a dirt mound, or berm.

However, homeowners said they were most concerned about the parking situation. Visitors to the motocross would park in the Los Naranjos School parking lot,

Valuations Differ On Irvine Company

Tapper predicted that it would take ten years to dispose of the company's 70,000 acres of undeveloped land and about two years to sell its real estate and industrial holdings.

Eberling said he thought it would take 15 years to sell undeveloped properties and at least three years to dispose of developed real estate and industrial assets.

Coastal Land Annex Hits Snag on Fees

Plans to annex 3,400 acres of Irvine coastal property to Newport Beach's sewer district hit a snag Tuesday over payment of annexation fees.

The annexation, agreed to in principle Tuesday night by directors of Orange County Sanitation District 5, calls for the Irvine Company, as owner of the property, to pay the district $2,139,000 within 90 days of annexation.

That money is based on a $1,394 per acre annexation fee for the 1,535 acres that have been identified for development.

The dispute centers on the remaining 1,907 acres that have been set aside for open space.

District officials want to write a provision into the annexation agreement that says the Irvine Company will pay annexation fees for that open space if any other governmental agency, such as the state, acquires it.

Gordon Jones, an Irvine Company representative, asked instead that the provision be dropped from the agreement. He suggested the district plan on collecting fees when the new property owner develops something such as a campground that would require sewer service.

"You could collect before hooking them up," he suggested.

Tom Woodruff, the sanitation district's attorney, pointed out that the provision was included in the agreement because of problems the combined Orange County sanitation districts had in collecting fees when Bolsa Chica marsh was acquired by the state.

Overflowing, Pupils Seek Class Permits

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Tight new attendance regulations have forced thousands of Saddleback College District students to seek special permits to attend classes at two neighboring college district campuses.

All but a small percentage of the permit requests have been denied, according to Robert Bosanko, Saddleback's dean of admissions and records.

The rigid policy requires permits for any student wishing to study in the Coast or Rancho Santiago Community College Districts. Until this fall, students taking six or fewer units could cross the lines without permission.

But on the other hand, the North Orange County Community College district's facilities are open to Saddleback students without permit requirements of any kind.

Why the big difference?

"Seat taxes, that's what," said Bosanko. Saddleback's two neighbor districts levy a $300 annual fee against the Mission Viejo district for each equivalent full time student attending their colleges. The north county district charges nothing.

TV Service Cut in Battle With SC Council

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TM Communications Company cut cable television service to 7,000 San Clemente subscribers today.

The termination of service came within an hour of a post midnight City Council refusal to suspend a provision of its contract with TM. The provision allows the city to confiscate all the equipment within the city 30 days after a television franchise expires if not replaced with a new contract.

TM's latest position in a continuing feud with the city is that it must discontinue service and dismantle equipment to protect against possible future city seizure of that equipment.

Last week the council approved a new contract with the cable company but gave a $1.25 a month rate hike and provisions for future automatic fee increases. Councilmen Thomas O'Keefe and Tony DiGiovanni were opposed to the contract.

Mayor B. Patrick Lane voted for the rate hike but said he agreed with the council minority, voting for the contract only to stave off cost of a lawsuit.

But Tuesday Lane joined with O'Keefe and DiGiovanni to enforce the confiscation provision.

The new franchise won't be effective until Oct. 21. TM's old contract ran out Sunday.

Councilman Bill Walker, who hammered out the new compromise franchise provisions, bitterly charged that Lane, O'Keefe and DiGiovanni conspired all along to take over the cable operation while convincing TM executives that the council was negotiating in good faith.

Walker said the council majority attempted to pull a "hoax" on TM.

City hall switchboards and TM offices in San Clemente were flooded this morning with hundreds of calls from confused and irate cable subscribers.

Richard Young, TM vice president, issued a statement this morning that company officials were "shocked and dismayed" by the council action.

He stated that in addition to the confiscation possibility "the final straw" was a council decision to also maintain a provision of its contract that would allow the city to collect 100 percent of TM revenue accrued from Sept. 19, when the franchise expired, to Oct. 21, the date the new franchise is effective.

"The council's action," Young said, "forces TM to take out its plant by Oct. 19 unless the City Council acts promptly to waive the two onerous provisions they are thretening the company properties and revenue with."

Young stated that while the company was "hopeful" it could restore service it is not "hopeful" that the council "will allow it."

ANNEX. . .

"It took three years and threats of lawsuits to get a lousy $60,000 from the state," he said. "In this regard we consider the Irvine Company a better credit risk because we know where to find them."

Both Woodruff and Jones stressed that there isn't any disagreement over the $2.1 million.

That arrangement works to the advantage of both the company and the sanitation district because it allows the company to pay its fees now, instead of in the future when development actually occurs and the fees may have doubled.

It serves the district's interest in providing cash for the operating budget.

Woodruff noted that, while the district will use the money for current operations, it is still required to see to it there are sewer trunk lines installed at the time of development in the coastal property.

Jones says it's the question of cost that affects the company's stand on open space.

"By requiring payment of an annexation fee up front at the time we transfer title to another governmental agency, you will be raising the price of the land by at least $1,400 per acre. It may be no agency is going to be willing to buy it," he said.

In spite of the disagreement, directors Ray Williams and Don McInnis agreed to the annexation in principle in order to start the annexation proceedings through the county's Local Agency Formation Commission. Supervisor Thomas Riley, the third sanitation district director was not present.

Williams and McInnis asked Jones and sanitation district staff members to study the problem clause and report back for ratification of the actual agreement Oct. 13.

Academic Courses Top School Agenda

Whether more academic courses should be offered to high school students during the last period of the school day will be discussed by Irvine school trustees at tonight's board meeting.

The meeting opens at 7:30 p.m. at University High School and is open to the public.

Last month, two parents asked trustees if they would initiate a policy of offering more academic classes during the seventh period so their children could be better prepared for college.

According to the parents, few academic courses were offered during seventh period and their youngsters were not able to take all the academic courses they wanted to take.

High school and district officials have discussed the matter since that meeting and are now proposing that academic courses be made available to those students who want to take them beginning second semester.

Many juniors and seniors become involved either with athletics or with off campus activities, such as courses at the junior college, CROP classes or work experience.

District officials explain that a wide selection of academic classes are now offered during seventh period, but they are mainly for freshmen and sophomores.

However, officials suggested that the extra academic courses be offered, even though it might mean that classes would have small enrollment at first.

Other items on Wednesday's agenda include:

—Formal action by the school board regarding the lighted athletic stadium at Irvine High.

—Appointment of committee members to the task force that will study alternative pay systems, such as merit pay, for school district employes.

—A discussion of the future of SELF alternative high school. The school is in jeopardy of having to leave its current building on Milliken Avenue at the end of the school year unless legislative changes are made in Sacramento.

—Trustees are expected to take action on the proposal to create a youth advisory board to serve as a liaison between Irvine's youth and city agencies.

"People will be trooping through our front lawns on the way to the course, especially when there are weekend meets with hundreds of people," said one resident, whose front yard faces the route the motocross visitors would take.

The residents said they are also considering pursuing legal action against Warmington for the company's alleged failure to inform them of the motocross.

SEALS. . .

But he struck out. Nobody had any seals to rent or loan.

"When I couldn't find anything at the obvious places, I opened the yellow pages and began looking up animal acts and theatrical agents — including one called the Foxy Lady Agency that didn't have any seals either," says Taylor.

The only thing Taylor could come up with were two seals located in Ohio. They could be shipped to Irvine if the IRWD would foot the bill.

"Obviously that was out, and I was getting a little panicky, so I decided that when all else fails you should call your supervisor so I called Supervisor Ralph Clark," says the public relations man.

When it was pointed out to Taylor that his supervisor is Thomas Riley, not Ralph Clark, he shrugged and said, "Yeah, I know, but I have a very good friend in Clark's office."

It turned out that Taylor's very good friend turned him on to Marvin the Human Seal, who happens to be Walter Matthau's brother, who does a very good seal imitation act.

"Sounded great, but when I called Marvin's agent, I discovered Marvin was in New York and on his way to Jamaica," Taylor explains.

Taylor also phoned marine biologists at colleges and circuses — who told him that they book seal acts, not rent them.

"Finally, after I had about a hundred people out there checking around for me, I got a call back that there was a pair of seals available in the San Fernando Valley, Van Nuys, I think," he says.

"The problem is, they're movie stars and they cost $450 a day, with two trainers."

But Taylor was enthused over the prospect of hiring movie star seals and began planning seal shows he'd put on on the festival stage.

"Now, all I need to do is find sponsors to help pay their cost," he says.

Despite his bad luck, Taylor says he's not giving up.

For example, he plans to call car dealer Cal Worthington and see if he can lend a hand. "If he's got a dog named Spot that actually is a Tiger, surely he can find a seal for me," says Taylor.

And, Taylor is still hoping Marvin will decide to forego Jamaica and return to the west coast.

Not to mention Taylor's latest brainstorm.

"How about a seal look-alike contest? We can have all the kids in Irvine bring their dogs and cats to the festival and the one that looks the most like a seal wins," Taylor suggests.

"In fact, maybe Cal Worthington will judge the contest."

COLLEGE . .

In recent years, the seat taxes have cost Saddleback district taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

The tough new policy, which also includes stricter guidelines for determining when a permit request is valid, was adopted by Saddleback trustees last spring both to cut down on seat tax costs and to stem the tide of local students rushing to other districts.

During their deliberations on the new rules, trustees said the desire on the part of local students to go elsewhere might have been valid because of scanty offerings at the Mission Viejo school. But now, they said, such reasoning is no longer valid.

That stance has caused some headaches at the neighbor districts.

Dr. Robert Moore, dean of instruction at Orange Coast College, said scores of Saddleback students have been turned away this year—many more than in the past because of the eliminated "six unit rule."

"This has certainly inconvenienced a lot of people from Saddleback and we have to be stuck in the role of the bad guy telling them they can't come here without a permit — and those are apparently quite hard to come by," Moore said.

Bosanko conceded that permits are indeed harder to get this year than ever before.

No consideration — except in cases of extreme hardship — is given to transportation difficulties, location of campus versus residence or place of employment, conflict with personal schedule, adult education or recreation programs.

In short, being denied a permit at Saddleback is almost as much a certainty as death and taxes, according to college officials.

Status Quo DST Reigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speed-up procedures to pass a bill extending Daylight Saving Time have been rejected by the House, virtually assuring that the measure will not be enacted this year.

The bill would have set the beginning date for DST as the third Sunday of March and the ending date as the third Sunday of October, beginning in 1977. Under existing law, the country is on DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

With few members on the floor, the House voted 11 to 10 Tuesday for suspending the rules and passing the bill. But the suspension procedure requires two-thirds.

Britons Snub Atom Power

LONDON (AP)—A royal commission recommended today that Britain avoid a major commitment to nuclear power for electricity on grounds that it produces waste that carries grave potential danger for mankind.

The commission, whose findings will be studied by Parliament, warned that there should be no big nuclear expansion until there is a safe way of disposing indefinitely of the highly radioactive wastes produced, some of which might have to be stored for 250,000 years.

The Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution also described as "entirely credible" the possibility that terrorists could hijack plutonium, a by-product of commercial nuclear power stations, and make a "crude but effective weapon."

Alioto, 59, Plans To Wed Woman, 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday.

"My private life is private," the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan, 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a "desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy."

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

Kathleen Sullivan

Alioto was elected mayor of San Francisco in 1968 and was mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate during his first term. He served until 1975.

He was acquitted of fee splitting in a state of Washington case. The case ended with a ruling supporting a $2.3 million legal fee received before becoming mayor.

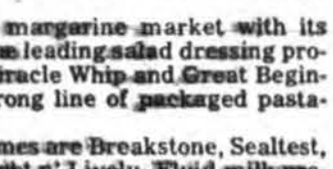
Kraftco-Kraft

Name Changes, So Do Products

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

The nation's largest food processor is changing its name — again. This time it thinks it has it down right.

When it was originally organized in 1923 as one of the major dairy foods complexes in the country, the company was called National Dairy Products Corp. and it made its headquarters in New York City.



The company was — and is — a leading producer of fluid milk, ice cream and other dairy products, but as it grew the division that achieved the greatest success was the old Kraft cheese operation out of Chicago. Kraft became the big contributor of profits and management talent to National Dairy.

NATIONAL DAIRY RECOGNIZED THIS contribution by moving its headquarters to the Chicago area. The company is now based in Glenview, Ill. It also decided in 1969 to change its corporate name.

Why it simply didn't rename itself Kraft is a mystery. But the name it did come up with was Krafteo. So for the first 46 years of its existence, the company was known enigmatically as "National Dairy." Then, for the next seven years, it had a name, Krafteo, that confused a lot of people.

Now the corporate name is going to be changed to — yes — Kraft Corp. You have no idea how much high-powered executive time and effort are expended in reaching these difficult decisions, which in this case came down to naming the company after its most well-known brand name.

WHATEVER THE NAME, THIS company generates more sales than any other food processor we have. Much of it is in cheese, which accounts for roughly 40 percent of the company's sales. Among its major packages are Cheez Whiz, Velveeta, Cracker Barrel and Philadelphia cream cheese. Kraft does an estimated 50 percent of the processed cheese business in America, which is an incredible slice for one company.

Kraft is a power in the margarine market with its Parkay brand, it's probably the leading salad dressing producer with its mayonnaise, Miracle Whip and Great Beginnings mixes, and it has a strong line of packaged pasta-based dinners.

Among its dairy brand names are Breakstone, Sealtest, Breyer's, Sugar Creek and Light n' Lively. Fluid milk products account for 9.4 percent of its sales, ice cream and frozen desserts represent another 5.8 percent.

HERE IS THE WAY U.S. food processors rank:
1975 Sales

Krafteo	$4.8 billion
Esmark (Swift)	$4.1 billion
General Foods	$4 billion
Beatrice Foods	$3.6 billion
Borden	$2.5 billion

Not bad for a cheese maker, which is now edging away from its dairy base by bringing out such items as imitation mayonnaise and imitation colby cheese, products which substitute vegetable oil for milk, thereby cutting the costs of the ingredients. The original name would not do at all.

Dow Takes Loss Amid Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, bucking periodic waves of profit taking after Tuesday's steep rally, showed a small loss in heavy trading today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks lost 0.74 points to 1,014.05. Gainers held a 4-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume was ahead of the pace set Tuesday, when the full day's total of 30.30 million shares was the heaviest in nearly six months. Volume today was 32,970,000.

The market was at its highest level in 3½ years.

The afternoon pullback seemed to be aggravated by the government's report that new orders for durable goods dropped 2.2 percent in August after a 2.4 percent decline in July.

San Diego Bay Clear After Navy, City Battle

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Less than 15 years ago a murky cesspool of garbage and death, San Diego Bay today is shimmering clear, a haven for wildlife and fish of all types.

"It is the cleanest bay in a metropolitan area in the world," claims Dr. J.B. Askew, a retired public health official who helped clean it up.

How did it happen?

THE NAVY, WITH its warships controlling the waters, and wastes from industrial plants were identified as the big offenders.

Halting the flow of raw sewage from the big ships has also been the toughest job, but with city pressure the Navy has installed self-contained sewage treatment plants on more than half its ships.

In other ships are holding tanks, and in almost all the naval installations bordering the bay are ship-to-shore sewage connections.

The city's metropolitan sewage system has strictly controlled dumping into the bay since the system was formed in 1963. Tough regulations were enforced by the harbor district.

The two major tuna canneries take into the sewage system today the water that is poured over frozen fish to thaw them for unloading. Tuna boats stay in port only briefly, and their crews stay on shore.

A degree of pollution still is blamed on foreign cargo ships and freighters, as well as private fishing boats, but not much.

GETTING ALL THE people off anchored boats remains a headache but "the amount of sewage that comes from them is not a big problem" for the entire bay, says Ladin Delaney, supervising engineer for the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

"I tried to get the people off the boats, but I never succeeded," said Askew, who was the board's first chairman.

The improvement in water conditions has been spectacular.

Arch Beach Moratorium Extended

By JACK CHAPPELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Acting under emergency authority, the Laguna Beach City Council approved a further building moratorium Tuesday on residential construction in Arch Beach Heights.

The ordinance extends a building prohibition in the hilltop community which was due to expire today.

The council action was taken despite questions raised by Councilman Jack McDowell over the legality of the measure.

The urgency ordinance passed with the minimum 4-1 vote — McDowell voting no — will be in effect until Oct. 14.

The council's action was supported by Bonnie Kutz, Chairman of the Arch Beach Heights Association.

The moratorium will prohibit construction of new homes in the heights unless the structure is built on two combined building sites, or unless a single building site is surrounded by developed property.

Building sites in Arch Beach Heights were laid out before the city incorporated the area. They most commonly are 25 by 100 feet, and are laid out in a grid pattern despite the steep and rough topography of the area.

The combination has led to creation of very dense development of homes constructed on stilt-like platforms.

The moratorium will permit about 15 builders who have hardship exemptions pending to go ahead, except no builder can receive more than one exemption, nor can he build if the addition of his home would allow construction of another house by surrounding a vacant property.

The council directed the city planning commission to immediately prepare and hold public hearings on land use regulations to implement suggestions for easing the impact of development in the area.

Those suggestions are part of a $15,000 environmental impact report prepared for the city on Arch Beach Heights.

Among the mitigation measures are development of a service road from Top of the World to Arch Beach Heights for emergency vehicles, provisions for parks acquisition, development of a one way street system, and a phased residential system.

Under a phased construction program, only a set number of homes would be allowed to be built each year. No set number has been determined yet, however, previous suggestions have placed it at 12 houses per

Clemente Cable TV Cut

Council Ruling Prompts Action

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TM Communications Company cut cable television service to 7,000 San Clemente subscribers today.

The termination of service came within an hour of a post midnight City Council refusal to suspend a provision of its contract with TM. The provision allows the city to confiscate all the equipment within the city 30 days after a television franchise expires if not replaced with a new contract.

TM's latest position in a continuing feud with the city is that it must discontinue service and dismantle equipment to protect against possible future city seizure of that equipment.

Last week the council approved a new contract with the cable company but gave a $1.25 a month rate hike and provisions for future automatic fee increases. Councilmen Thomas O'Keefe and Tony DiGiovanni were opposed to the contract.

Mayor B. Patrick Lane voted for the rate hike but said he agreed with the council minority, voting for the contract only to stave off cost of a lawsuit.

But Tuesday Lane joined with O'Keefe and DiGiovanni to enforce the confiscation provision.

The new franchise won't be effective until Oct. 21. TM's old contract ran out Sunday.

Councilman Bill Walker, who hammered out the new compromise franchise provisions, bitterly charged that Lane, O'Keefe and DiGiovanni conspired all along to take over the cable operation while convincing TM executives that the council was negotiating in good faith.

Walker said the council majority attempted to pull a "hoax" on TM.

City hall switchboards and TM offices in San Clemente were flooded this morning with hundreds of calls from confused and irate cable subscribers.

Richard Young, TM vice president, issued a statement this morning that company officials were "shocked and dismayed" by the council action.

He stated that in addition to the confiscation possibility "the final straw" was a council decision to also maintain a provision of its contract that would allow the city to collect 100 percent of TM revenue accrued from Sept. 19, when the franchise expired, to Oct. 21, the date the new franchise is effective.

"The council's action," Young said, "forces TM to take out its plant by Oct. 19 unless the City Council acts promptly to waive the two onerous provisions they are thretening the company properties and revenue with."

Young stated that while the company was "hopeful" it could restore service it is not "hopeful" that the council "will allow it."

Young said the company has already dissembled head-in equipment, electronics gear that processes television signals that TM antennas bring in.

He said unless the council calls

Silent Type

San Juan Bank Hit by Bandit

A San Juan Capistrano bank was robbed of an estimated $360 Tuesday by a silent bandit who shoved a note across the counter but displayed no weapon, Orange County Sheriff's officers said.

Deputies, who are working with FBI agents in investigating the robbery at the Bank of America, 31872 Camino Capistrano, said the robber fled on foot after being handed the cash.

Bank teller Julie Ann Bunker, 23, of Dana Point, told officers the robber passed a note across the counter which made it clear that he wanted the contents of her cash drawer. She immediately complied with the demand.

Officers refused today to divulge the contents of the note. They said it offered a clue to the identity of the bandit.

Investigators described the man as being about 28 or 29 years of age, about six foot three and with brown hair. They said he was wearing dark blue pants, a Navy blue windbreaker jacket and a white tennis cap.

No Carter Regrets on 'Lust' Talk

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said today he is not dismayed by reaction to his statements that he has "looked on a lot of women with lust" and "committed adultery in my heart." He said he doesn't think it has hurt his campaign.

Carter responded to questions from reporters as he got into his car after completing an early morning inspection of his peanut processing operation.

Asked whether he was dismayed by some of the reaction to his statements, made to an interviewer from Playboy magazine, the candidate replied:

"No. I don't want to have a press conference this morning."

Q. "Do you feel you were misunderstood?"

A. "I haven't been bothered by it."

Q. "Why did you grant the interview?"

A. "The same reason I grant you one . . ."

Q. "Are you sorry you granted it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you regret it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you think it's been misunderstood?"

A. "I don't think it's hurt in any way."

Q. "You don't think it's hurt at all?"

A. "I don't believe so."

But Carter said he did not want to conduct a news conference on the matter without his staff present.

In the interview, made public this week, Carter said he would not attempt to impose his own religious beliefs on others.

"Christ set some almost impossible standards for us," he said, adding that to sin is human and "God forgives me for it."

In one excerpt, Carter declared:

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that

Irvine Firm Stock Price Hotly Argued

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Lawyers for the California Attorney General's office and the Irvine Company compared valuations of the company Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court and came up with a difference of $51 million.

Irvine Company executive Lansing Eberling testified during a hearing into Irvine heiress Joan Irvine Smith's challenge of a proposed sale to the Mobil Oil Company that the net worth of the organization is about $329 million.

Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Tapper disagreed. He quoted from a liquidation analysis prepared by his office earlier this year and pegged the net value of Irvine holdings at $380 million.

Tapper's figure would put the per share value of Irvine stock at $44.75. Eberling's valuation brings the per share value down to $39.16.

Both figures are considerably higher than the $24 per share figure represented by the Mobil offer to pay $200 million for Irvine Company shares held by

Saddleback College Tightening Policy

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Tight new attendance regulations have forced thousands of Saddleback College District students to seek special permits to attend classes at two neighboring college district campuses.

All but a small percentage of the permit requests have been denied, according to Robert Bosanko, Saddleback's dean of admissions and records.

The rigid policy requires permits for any student wishing to study in the Coast or Rancho Santiago Community College Districts. Until this fall, students taking six or fewer units could cross the lines without permission.

But on the other hand, the North Orange County Community College district's facilities are open to Saddleback students without permit requirements of any kind.

Why the big difference?

"Seat taxes, that's what," said Bosanko. Saddleback's two neighbor districts levy a $300 annual fee against the Mission Viejo district for each equivalent full time student attending their colleges. The north county district charges nothing.

In recent years, the seat taxes have cost Saddleback district taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

The tough new policy, which also includes stricter guidelines for determining when a permit request is valid, was adopted by Saddleback trustees last spring both to cut down on seat tax costs and to stem the tide of local students rushing to other districts.

During their deliberations on the new rules, trustees said the

Supervisors Ask Study of Hidden Rocks

A troublesome ocean rock off Capistrano Beach prompted county supervisors to call Tuesday for a study of all offshore rocks between the San Clemente pier and Dana Point Harbor.

The usually submerged rock, off 35083 Beach Road, first came to supervisors' attention a month ago. At the time, they agreed to urge boaters to follow navigational charts, which list the rock, and to stay far from shore.

But at the time, county officials had told them the rock was only 30 yards offshore. They learned Tuesday it is 300 yards offshore.

And San Clemente City Councilman Tom O'Keefe, a member of the county Harbors, Beaches and Parks Commission, asked that the rock be marked with a sign to warn boaters of potential hazards.

O'Keefe said the rock is on a direct line with the main entrance to Dana Point Harbor and could cause a serious accident.

Supervisor Tom Riley said he was told it never has caused an accident, and he said it may be just one of many rocks in the area.

Twice Told, Tale Tallies

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — In a slip of the tongue, Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale momentarily appeared to have forgotten his running mate's name.

Speaking to about 500 people who came down to the railroad tracks Tuesday to meet his campaign train, Mondale said:

MONDALE

"You're telling me, you're telling America, you want that White House once again occupied by a peoples' president, this time named Jimmy Ford."

Realizing his mistake, Mondale grimaced, adding: "Jimmy won't like that. Jimmy, I didn't mean it. I didn't mean it. Let me try again. Jimmy Carter. There we go."

a special meeting within the next few days to rescind the confiscation provisions, the entire TM operation will be cleared from the city.

Councilman Walker said that would mean subscribers would be without adequate television reception for six months or more.

Young said TM attorneys are preparing legal action against the council. "I'm certain it will end up in court," he said.

He called the council move "specious." He said, "What good's an ordinance when they're getting ready to confiscate your property, without compensation?"

He said he asked the council that Tuesday and "they smiled."

Young added that "I guess we'll find out how bad the people in San Clemente want cable television."

Karoline Koester, a local community leader and one of the offended cable customers who faced a fuzzy television set this morning, said she would meet with Lane today to demand a special council session.

Councilman Walker lambasted Lane, O'Keefe and DiGiovanni for what he inferred was behind-the-scenes doubledealing.

"It has become very obvious," he said, "that three councilmen have been doing private negotiations among themselves, to which Councilwoman Donna Wilkinson and myself were not privy."

That same charge was leveled last week at Mrs. Wilkinson and Walker, who met privately with TM executives last Monday to discuss contract details before last Wednesday's council meeeting.

Mayor Lane said today that Walker's charges that he conspired with two other councilmen to wrest the cable operation from TM were untrue.

"It's not unusual," he said, "that (Walker) would not know what he is talking about."

Other councilmen were not available for comment.

Cable television rate hikes have been bitterly debated in San Clemente over the past several years.

TM went to court in 1973 and again in 1974 to secure rate hikes, and lost.

desire on the part of local students to go elsewhere might have been valid because of scanty offerings at the Mission Viejo school. But now, they said, such reasoning is no longer valid.

That stance has caused some headaches at the neighbor districts.

Dr. Robert Moore, dean of instruction at Orange Coast College, said scores of Saddleback students have been turned away this year—many more than in the past because of the eliminated "six unit rule."

"This has certainly inconvenienced a lot of people from Saddleback and we have to be stuck in the role of the bad guy telling them they can't come here without a permit — and those are apparently quite hard to come by," Moore said.

Bosanko conceded that permits are indeed harder to get this year than ever before.

No consideration — except in cases of extreme hardship — is given to transportation difficulties, location of campus versus residence or place of employment, conflict with personal schedule, adult education or recreation programs.

In short, being denied a permit at Saddleback is almost as much a certainty as death and taxes, according to college officials.

Bosanko said he is sure there would be no more problems if Coast and Rancho Santiago waive their seat tax requirements.

Status Quo
DST Reigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speed-up procedures to pass a bill extending Daylight Saving Time have been rejected by the House, virtually assuring that the measure will not be enacted this year.

The bill would have set the beginning date for DST as the third Sunday of March and the ending date as the third Sunday of October, beginning in 1977. Under existing law, the country is on DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

With few members on the floor, the House voted 11 to 10 Tuesday for suspending the rules and passing the bill. But the suspension procedure requires two-thirds.

Annexation Snag

Sewer Fee Fight May Delay Transfer

Plans to annex 3,400 acres of Irvine coastal property to Newport Beach's sewer district hit a snag Tuesday over payment of annexation fees.

The annexation, agreed to in principle Tuesday night by directors of Orange County Sanitation District 5, calls for the Irvine Company, as owner of the property, to pay the district $2,139,000 within 90 days of annexation.

That money is based on a $1,394 per acre annexation fee for the 1,535 acres that have been identified for development.

The dispute centers on the remaining 1,907 acres that have been set aside for open space.

District officials want to write a provision into the annexation agreement that says the Irvine Company will pay annexation fees for that open space if any other governmental agency, such as the state, acquires it.

Gordon Jones, an Irvine Company representative, asked instead that the provision be dropped from the agreement. He suggested the district plan on collecting fees when the new property owner develops something such as a campground that would require sewer service.

"You could collect before hooking them up," he suggested.

Tom Woodruff, the sanitation district's attorney, pointed out that the provision was included in the agreement because of problems the combined Orange County sanitation districts had in collecting fees when Bolsa Chica marsh was acquired by the state.

"It took three years and threats of lawsuits to get a lousy $60,000 from the state," he said. "In this regard we consider the Irvine Company a better credit risk because we know where to find them."

Both Woodruff and Jones stressed that there isn't any disagreement over the $2.1 million. million.

That arrangement works to the advantage of both the company and the sanitation district because it allows the company to pay its fees now, instead of in the future when development actually occurs and the fees may have doubled.

It serves the district's interest in providing cash for the operating budget.

Woodruff noted that, while the district will use the money for current operations, it is still required to see to it there are sewer trunk lines installed at the time of development in the coastal property.

Jones says it's the question of cost that affects the company's stand on open space.

"By requiring payment of an annexation fee up front at the time we transfer title to another governmental agency, you will be raising the price of the land by at least $1,400 per acre. It may be no agency is going to be willing to buy it," he said.

In spite of the disagreement, directors Ray Williams and Don McInnis agreed to the annexation in principle in order to start the annexation proceedings through the county's Local Agency Formation Commission. Supervisor Thomas Riley, the third sanitation district director was not present.

Williams and McInnis asked Jones and sanitation district staff members to study the problem clause and report back for ratification of the actual agreement Oct. 13.

ALIOTO'S FIANCEE?
Kathleen Sullivan

Alioto, 59, Will Wed Woman, 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday.

"My private life is private," the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan, 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a "desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy."

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

School Incident

Pair Beat, Stomp Milk Truck Driver

Two assailants stomped and severely beat a driver as he was delivering milk to a Huntington Beach elementary school early today.

Police said that William Marshall, 23, of Santa Ana, suffered fractured ribs and other serious injuries when he arrived at Meadowview School at 5702 Clark Drive in the northern part of the city.

Sgt. David Miller said Marshall was jumped on the school grounds and was badly mauled with both fists and feet. He was taken to Huntington Intercommunity Hospital with "quite serious" injuries.

A hospital official said today that Marshall was resting comfortably and that tests were scheduled later in the day.

Miller said that Marshall, a driver for Cal-Va Dairy in Santa Ana, was attacked at about 2:15 a.m.

Miller said police believe that the two assailants took the key to the school's multi-purpose room when it fell out of Marshall's pocket during the beating.

The investigator said he didn't know if the two men were casing the school for a burglary and were surprised by Marshall or if they were lying in wait for him to obtain the key.

Officers said there was no indication that the school had been broken into or that anything had been stolen.

Police are waiting for Marshall to recover from the shock of his beating before questioning him further to gain leads on the two attackers.

Marshall told officers that he thought he recognized the two men who were seen hanging around another school site.

Judge James F. Judge is being asked in what is expected to be a six-week hearing to make permanent a temporary injunction against a Mobil deal already accepted by foundation trustees.

Mrs. Smith contends that the $200 million figure is too low and that the sale would be unfair to her and other minority stockholders..

Tapper and Eberling agreed, however, that it would take several years to bring about liquidation of the giant company's many assets even if such a sale were to be accepted by the Irvine board.

Fiery Crash Leaves One Man Injured

A car and van collided in front of 1426 N. El Camino Real in San Clemente at 2 a.m. today and both exploded in flame.

Police were unable to provide details, but said only one man was injured.

Firemen found Stephen E. Caldwell, 23, of 34122 Street of the Amber Lantern, Dana Point, sprawled in the street about 20 yards from the wreckage.

He was treated for numerous bleeding cuts and transported to San Clemente General Hospital, where today he was reported in fair condition.

Cause of the accident is under investigation.

The candidate's statements brought mixed reactions.

— His wife, Rosalynn, said in New York they caused her no anxiety about his fidelity.

"I trust him completely. I've never had to worry about that at all," she said.

— Dr. Harry N. Hollis Jr., a denominational authority on social ethics, said in Nashville that Carter's statements on morality accurately reflect Southern Baptist teachings.

But Hollis, a staff mber of the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Conference, said he "wouldn't have used the same language."

— Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, Tex., declared: "I am highly offended by this. I think he's mixed up in his moral values, and I think the entire church membership will feel the same way."

— Dr. Jerry Vines, pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., and a former president of the pastors' conference of the Southern Baptist Convention, said: "This appears to be another instance of Carter accommodating himself to his audience.

Trial Slated On Clemente Beating Raps

A municipal court jury trial has been set for Oct. 20 for a San Clemente man on misdemeanor charges relating to accusations he beat his wife and stepdaughter.

Ronald Melville Ricketts, 33, of 483 Avenida Santa Barbara, was arrested after his wife, Sharon, complained to police that he had periodically beaten her and her 5-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, over a period of several months.

Originally held on $5,000 bail, Ricketts has been released by the south county municipal court on his own recognizance.

Police said Mrs. Ricketts had several large bruises on her arms, back, a hip and leg and was crying and trembling at the time she made her charges.

She claimed she was forced to send a son to live with Oklahoma City, Okla., relatives because of repeated beatings he received.

ROCK . . .

At his suggestion, supervisors agreed to have the sheriff's harbor patrol deputies conduct a study in the area and report to the Harbors, Beaches and Parks Commission within 60 days.

County officials earlier had considered blowing up the rock but learned permits for doing so probably could not be obtained.

They also asked the Coast Guard to buoy the rock, but were turned down when Coast Guard officials said the rock was just one of many along the coast.

Instead, rezoning of the 192 acres of land south of El Toro Road and east of Laguna Canyon Road, was continued until March. Then, the Laguna Greenbelt study may be complete and county officials hope to have more information on traffic access and sanitation facilities.

F. E. DeWitt Inc. had proposed building 132 homes on 38 of the 192 acres, leaving 135 acres as open space and 10 acres as parks.

The Orange County Planning Commission had voted 4-1 earlier to recommend rezoning the land, with Commission Chairman Shirley Grindle opposed.

Supervisor Thomas Riley said the developer didn't plan to build soon anyway. He suggested, instead, that rezoning be delayed until important access and other questions are resolved.

But John Chapman of the Center for Planning Research, representing the developer, said the zoning would conform with the general plan.

He claimed the reason housing costs are soaring is a shortage of land. And he asked that the rezoning be approved to remove uncertainty in the area.

James Dilley, president of the Laguna Greenbelt Inc., and Laguna Beach Planning Director Doug Schmitz opposed the rezoning Wednesday.

Witnesses Lash Nursing Homes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of a state commission probing licensing of California nursing homes says pictures of some patients look like people he saw at the Auschwitz concentration camp.

Nathan Shapell, a Polish Jew who was incarcerated at the German concentration camp, made the comment at a hearing by the Commission on California State Government Organization and Economy.

AT THE HEARING, several ex-patients and patients' relatives told of urine burns, bed sores, rough handling and other results of poor quality care in nursing homes.

Shapell, a Beverly Hills building contractor, said in clipped tones at the close of the hearing, "We saw some pictures here that I have not seen since Auschwitz, and I am a graduate of Auschwitz."

John Brooks, a 64-year-old San Francisco resident whose wife was in a nursing home before her death from cancer, also gave a stinging indictment of nursing homes at the hearing.

IN A SLOW, HALTING voice, the short, black man said, "Nursing homes do not have a human feeling for no one. They only have a human feeling when they hear those cash registers ring."

Repeatedly, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s already-beleaguered state Department of Health came under attack at the hearing about the quality of federal-state nursing home inspections and licensing.

Brown's director of the Department of Health, Jerome Lackner, responded in his testimony that he didn't deny that the department "had a long way to go."

ROBERT GERST, A NURSING home industry spokesman, said there had been major changes in nursing home regulations in the last year with "much more enforcement."

Department officials testified they were working to upgrade the caliber of inspections at the 1,200 state-licensed nursing home facilities in California.

Present law mandates that state investigators inspect nursing homes once a year, but state officials said they wanted to do six to eight checks a year starting by next July 1.

ALL THIS TESTIMONY was not enough to assure some members of the commission, known as the "Little Hoover" Commission.

Robert DeMonte, a commission member from Piedmont, told Lackner he thought the Brown administration might be "over before you are ready to start directing the Department of Health."

SWAT Closes In

Smoke poured from the house where Los Angeles SWAT team members surrounded Stephen Coats, 22, (above) and another youth after a couple they'd held hostage escaped. When the pair were alone in the house, SWAT members poured in rounds of tear gas, driving the two outside and setting the house ablaze. More than 75 percent of the house burned before the fire was extinguished. The incident was reportedly a simple burglary which escalated along with police responses.

Drivers OK RTD Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bus drivers have voted to accept a new contract with the Rapid Transit District, but talks between striking mechanic-maintenance workers and the RTD have broken off without a settlement.

State Conciliator Thomas McCarthy will try to get the talks going again on Thursday, said RTD spokesman Pat Barry. He added there is no immediate word on whether the talks have shown any progress. The main issue is wages.

Meanwhile, a dispute remains regarding exactly what the new contract means to drivers, since both sides have claimed victory in the month-long dispute.

AS THE STRIKE moved into its 32nd day today, drivers overwhelmingly approved a new three-year contract which the RTD said gave drivers about a 19.4 percent increase in wages and fringe benefits.

However, union officials told their drivers before their ratification vote that the new contract would provide them with 21 percent more in fringe benefits and wages.

Police Reopening Overdose Case

TORRANCE (AP) — Police have reopened their investigation of the drug overdose death of child star Mary Anissa Jones after arresting a physician who had treated her on charges of dispensing drugs without prescriptions.

Police Lt. Robert Armstrong said Dr. Don Carlos Moshos, 65, of Torrance, was arrested on a district attorney's complaint charging him with 11 counts of illegally dispensing drugs. He was freed on $5,000 bond.

Miss Jones, 18, appeared as Buffy in the television series "Family Affair," which starred Brian Keith. She was found dead of an apparent drug overdose Aug. 28 in the bedroom of a friend's oceanside apartment.

Changing the Rules

There's more than one way to skin a feline and there's more than one way to circumvent Laguna Beach city laws designed to protect the integrity and autonomy of its planning and design review panels.

Just ask the Laguna Beach City Council.

At issue is a requirement for a four-fifths vote of the council to overturn decisions made by the planning commission and design review board, a requirement designed to protect the planning bodies from the eddies of political currents.

But up came an appeal on a home graded into a hill. Because they liked the project, Mayor Phyllis Sweeney and Councilmen Carl Johnson and Jack McDowell merely used their 3-2 majority to rewrite the rules under which the design review board considered and denied the project in the first place.

That the three council members did this after all the citizens opposing the project had left the hall believing they had prevailed is all the more reprehensible.

The council must play by the rules, not change them when they get in the way, or forfeit public confidence.

Move Mishandled

The San Clemente City Council lacked sensitivity when it advertised for bids from private industry on parks maintenance work without some consideration for city workers who now handle those chores.

Instead, the council callously called for bids, without explanation, leaving city crews to wonder about their fate alone.

Understandably, morale in that department is low. Ill feeling has spread to other departments and, for the first time ever, the city employes' association is meeting with union representatives — obviously a reaction to the council move.

Council members should have offered some job assurance to employes. The workers could have been absorbed into other departments where possible, or a hiring freeze might have been proposed until surplus workers were whittled through attrition.

Employer-employe loyalty goes both ways. Imagine the city's reaction if every single park worker suddenly quit simultaneously — without warning.

New Dress Code?

Street of the Golden Lantern in Dana Point has in recent weeks been a bad place to drive, walk, ride or even get across.

The county roads department tore up the entire street about a month ago to install storm drains and widen the road, which is the major access to Dana Hills High School.

Not many persons will dispute that the job needed doing. But did it need to be right at the time school was reopening?

School buses have been running late, parents and student drivers cursing to negotiate the holes and ruts, and students walking to school dodging dirt and rocks kicked up from under spinning tires.

The county blames the coastal commission for delaying permits. The work, officials say, was planned for June.

But we wonder why the county, with its previous experience dealing with the commission, didn't plan further ahead.

Dana Hills may be the first school around to adopt hard hats as part of its dress code.

We're All A Little Eccentric

SYDNEY HARRIS

Speaking of paranoid behavior, as I was the other day, it's worth keeping in mind that all of us are a little off-focus in some way or another. The occupant of the adjoining cell to mine, Bill Mauldin, the cartoonist, rushed back the other day to test the door of his office. "I'm never sure I locked it," he explained, "and I always think I've left the gas on in the stove at home." I smiled understandingly, as a man who practices his own small insanities.

When I drop important letters down a mail chute, I always give the receptacle an extra bang or two, for fear that a letter might be left in the chute and never delivered, thereby calling down bill collectors or the IRS on my innocent head.

I AM ALSO a nut about clean cutlery and glasses in restaurants, absolutely refusing to use any utensil bearing the slightest sign of soil; yet I will nonchalantly pick up a peanut or a piece of candy that has dropped to the floor and pop it in my mouth. Inconsistent, huh?

Half the time, on a long motor trip, I smell "something burning" in the engine, and stop to lift the hood for an inspection. Nothing is burning, of course, except that small hole in my head.

For years (I am ashamed to tell you how old I was before I got over it) I just "couldn't" swallow a pill even the size of an aspirin, but would mash it finely and dissolve it in a glass of water.

Then someone casually mentioned to me that I swallowed chunks of meat far larger than any pill without ever thinking of it, and from that day on I never had any trouble taking pills. (By that time, I was a full grown man with an unjustified reputation for logical thinking.)

MOST OF US are filled to the brim with absurd and irrational habits or idiosyncracies which are just barely this side of nuttiness. And it makes little difference how much "reason" we display in the larger areas of life; psychiatrists who are professionally aware of these aberrations have their own little pet insanities, as any of their wives or children would be willing to tell you.

Phobias and manias, in their milder forms, afflict nearly all people. Some of the most eminent and distinguished men and women in the country "cannot" fly in an airplane for fear of crashing; yet every day they drive in autos that are many times more dangerous. Reality, facts, statistics, have nothing to do with their fear, which has unconscious roots.

The imagination of man is far more powerful (because more ancient) than his rational faculties. We are all, to some degree, the captives of primitive magic — and the craziest people of all are those who imagine that they are totally logical and utterly reasonable. For such insanity, there is no remedy whatever.

Schools Not Getting Special Tax

Does State Owe Us a Refund?

To the Editor:

Property tax payers are aware that due to the increased evaluation their taxes are going up tremendously. However, in order to reduce these taxes it must be understood where this tax money is going. The largest portion of the tax bill goes to schools, and yet the schools are unable to reduce taxes because it is the combination of the state sales tax and the property tax money that finance the operation of the schools.

If the local property tax money received by the school districts is increased, then the amount of state money received is decreased proportionately. The portion of sales tax money which was to be used for schools will now go into the general fund to help balance the state budget.

THE AMOUNT of money that Huntington Beach and Fountain Valley will not receive from the state is in the millions of dollars. Imagine how much money this is statewide.

Four years ago the sales tax was increased 1 percent in order to reduce the property tax. If the state is not going to give this money to the school districts because of increased local property tax, should not this 1 percent sales tax be given back to the people, rather than allowing the state to use it for other purposes? Should this not become a very important issue to be thoroughly investigated?

Not 'Kooks'

To the Editor:

The issues confronting today's world and our nation have become so numerous and intricate, that study groups, committees, boards, etc. are becoming more prevalent among our governing bodies. Rapid change taking place throughout the universe, and various new elements and influences, interlocking and merging into each problem, is the basis for the complications.

MAILBOX

Letters from readers are welcome. The right to condense letters to fit space or eliminate libel is reserved. Letters of 300 words or less will be given preference. All letters must include signature and mailing address but names may be withheld on request if sufficient reason is apparent. Poetry will not be published.

Among the newer issues challenging this planet and demanding solution is that of the environment. When this issue is given priority over the universe's other transactions humanity may come out of the tailspin. For environment involves being able to function, to exist, and it concerns everything that is still alive.

AMID THOSE who have been alert to this all important issue are the environmentalists who strive to educate and warn this nation and the world of possible oncoming self destruction. They are, frequently, called "alarmists" or "Doomsdayists" or alluded to as "kooks" or "ecofreaks" by those who will not, or cannot, accept the necessity of conserving our remaining resources and who ignore pollution and what it has already done to the air and water.

They seem unaware that it has been suggested that the homo sapiens should be included on the various lists of endangered species. There are also among the homo sapiens citizens who have become computerized into materialistic robots. They search, sadly, for the mythical pot of gold reputed to be at the end of every rainbow, then, in the process, they destroy the rainbows and the environment with their greedy and destructive attempts.

Nevertheless, the facts concerning continued or discontinued life on what is left of this planet must be faced, or our nation and the world will continue to self-destruct. Instead of the usual put-down of environmentalists, thinking people should band together to solve this most important issue. Then, when the other problems and issues are solved, humanity will move on to the greatest and most fantastic era in all of history.

Misleading

To the Editor:

Your recent article (Sept. 6) entitled "Semester Begins Without Students" mentioned that a long late registration period at Saddleback College was being allowed.

It was also stated that the students who start late will be able to catch up on their own because the first few weeks are normally pretty slow.

IT IS this last statement to which we object and want to notify whomever that the pace in classes is not necessarily slower in the beginning, middle or end.

The fact is, that in many classroom instances, the pace at the beginning of a term is more accelerated than at other times because the tone and rapport between student and instructor are established at this time.

Point Missed

To the Editor:

In your editorial of Sept. 15, "Check the Price Tag," you imply that all celebrations in Laguna Beach cost the taxpayers money. You say, "Be it the Festival of Arts, a parade or a pancake breakfast, it costs something..."

IN FACT, of course, the one exception is the Festival of Arts, and no doubt it was just an omission on the part of your editorial writer not to mention the fact that, far from costing the city anything, the Festival of Arts pays the city around $166,000 a year.

I feel sure that in the interests of fairness and factual reporting you would want to make that point clear.

Alcohol Facts

To the Editor:

I want to congratulate Doris Lee on the excellent job of writing, reporting and interpretation in the alcoholism story, Sept. 12.

I know it wasn't the easiest story in the world because it's a complex subject and there was information to distill.

The story was accurate and I think presented a good overview of the problem and the disease.

I HAVE heard nothing but favorable comments on it from people in the field of alcoholism and from people in Alcoholics Anonymous.

It is stories such as this which get the lifesaving information out to the alcoholic who is still out there (or in there, in the case of the housewife) and which also lend support to sober alcoholics by helping to alleviate stigma.

Many thanks as a representative of the alcoholism council, and as a recovered alcoholic.

Let Viewers Judge

To the Editor:

In a major election year, with apathy threatening to turn into a complete boycott of our polls, I was most disappointed in the immature judgment of the television newsmen's threat of boycotting the presidential debate. Their reason, though not actually stated, was simply their inability to interpret the debate as it was taking place. The interpretation would be done in a very subtle manner and the viewing audience would, for the most part, hardly recognize that the newsmen's interpretation had been made.

OVER THE years we have grown used to television's explanation of merely focusing the camera on an object, a person, or whatever, but did that not become a major point helping us to come to some conclusion of the story or news item that we were watching? This is great for fictional drama, but do we need this type of interpretation on such a critical matter as who shall be the guardian of the White House for the next four years?

I would urge those who are arranging the debates to hold firm to their dedication of keeping this as fair and free from anyone's interpretation as possible. Let's cover only the two debaters, the moderator and the panel. In the 16 years since the last presidential debate, I feel that most of us have become more sophisticated in our use of television and are very capable of making our own judgments without the help of the reactions of the audience in attendance.

Educators Missed the Obvious

EARL WATERS

At long last the complaints of parents and employers about the state's public education system have penetrated the legislative halls. For years, despite the hundreds of millions poured into the public schools, students have been graduating from high school, and college as well, unable to read, spell or do simple arithmetic.

It took a freshman Assemblyman, Gary K. Hart of Santa Barbara, to bring about some action to remedy the situation. A native of California who taught high school for ten years, Hart had the first hand experience to bolster his arguments for legislation which will require proficiency in basic subjects for future high school diplomas. With degrees from both Stanford and Harvard he also had impeccable credentials as an educator.

About the only criticism one could make of Hart's solution is that it puts part of the burden of basic education upon the high schools. In pushing his bill Hart said that fully 20 percent of the high school students are below ninth grade levels in abilities to read and compute.

SINCE READING, spelling and arithmetic are subjects not taught in high school, one might feel better if his legislation precluded emergence from grade school, which has the responsibility, until those subjects are mastered. For the amount of benefit to be gained in high school must be diminished by deficiencies in reading and computing. How, for example, can one learn algebra and geometry without being able to add two and two?

Still, Hart's measure is remarkable progress in the face of the repugnance of the school people to suffer any criticisms or accept any suggestions. And it does put the gate much closer to where it belongs than did the recent rule adopted by the State University Trustees. Under their edict, near illiterates will continue to be admitted to college but won't be graduated if, after four years of cluttering up the classes, they can't pass tests in the basic subjects.

HART'S MEASURE provides for what he terms "early warnings" or alerts. It will require that the schools give tests between the 7th and 9th grades and twice afterwards before the twelfth grade. Presumably, remedial classes will have to be provided for those not making the grades and no diplomas for the ultimate failures.

State Superintendent of Instruction Wilson Riles has long complained that the reason for low achievements in these areas is due to the multitude of legislative mandated programs which divert from the basic subjects. Hart agrees.

Most of these added burdens have little to do with education as was envisioned when the state instituted free public schools. Much has been the result of social programmers who have pressured the Legislature into adopting compulsory courses in everything but the "three Rs". Students were passed along regardless of their grades as long as they didn't create problems. In the face of that, students opt for the easy courses such as shop and physical education.

So parents and employers will find much encouragement and satisfaction in the enactment of Hart's bill. But there also must be a regret and a great disillusionment in the realization that the Legislature must decree something which everyone would have expected that educators worthy of the name would have been doing all along.

Carter's 'Lust' No Big Issue?

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said today he is not dismayed by reaction to his statements that he has "looked on a lot of women with lust" and "committed adultery in my heart." He said he doesn't think it has hurt his campaign.

Carter responded to questions from reporters as he got into his car after completing an early morning inspection of his peanut processing operation.

Asked whether he was dismayed by some of the reaction to his statements, made to an interviewer from Playboy magazine, the candidate replied:

"No. I don't want to have a press conference this morning."

Q. "Do you feel you were misunderstood?"

A. "I haven't been bothered by it."

Q. "Why did you grant the interview?"

With These Hands

Welder Billy Corbett of Anchorage, Alaska, displays his hands, somewhat the worse for wear, after he karate-chopped 5,800 bricks in an hour and 45 minutes to break the Guinness world record. The feat didn't draw the crowds he'd hoped for, however. He planned to donate proceeds from the demonstration to a non-profit health agency, but only four youths showed up.

Panel Halts Query of Newsman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee today ended its attempt to punish television reporter Daniel Schorr for refusing to give the panel his copy of a secret House intelligence report or identifying the person who gave it to him.

The panel voted 9-1 to lift the subpoenas against Schorr and three other persons involved in the publication of a classified report on activities of U.S. intelligence agencies.

Rep. Thomas F. Foley (D-Wash.), said the vote effectively ends the committee's attempt to discover who gave the report to Schorr or to take legal action against the CBS reporter for refusing to cooperate in the panel's investigation.

The other three subpoenaed were Clay Felker, publisher of the Village Voice; Aaron Latham, a senior editor of New York magazine, and Sheldon Zalaznick, former senior editorial director of New York.

The decision to drop the subpoenas came after a series of votes on related motions failed to unite the committee behind a specific course of action. One would have declared "the committee does not recommend citing Daniel Schorr for contempt." It failed on a 5-5 tie vote.

The committee voted 6-5 against a motion by Rep. Edward Hutchinson (R-Mich.), to cite Schorr for contempt of Congress for his refusal to answer questions or relinquish control of his copy of the report.

It also defeated by a 7-4 vote a motion by Rep. Thad Cochran (R-Miss.), to recommend that Schorr be denied use of the House radio-television galleries for the remainder of this session of Congress.

In an appearance before the ethics committee last week, Schorr said the First Amendment's free press guarantees protected him from having to reveal his source or relinquish his copy of the report.

Hutchison, however, argued the report was the property of the House and that Schorr should be forced to return it.

Jimmy Oops

Twice Told, Tale Tickles

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — In a slip of the tongue, Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale momentarily appeared to have forgotten his running mate's name.

Speaking to about 500 people who came down to the railroad tracks Tuesday to meet his campaign train, Mondale said:

MONDALE

"You're telling me, you're telling America, you want that White House once again occupied by a peoples' president, this time named Jimmy Ford."

Realizing his mistake, Mondale grimaced, adding: "Jimmy won't like that. Jimmy, I didn't mean it. I didn't mean it. Let me try again. Jimmy Carter. There we go."

Irvine Firm Stock Price Hotly Argued

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Lawyers for the California Attorney General's office and the Irvine Company compared valuations of the company Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court and came up with a difference of $51 million.

Irvine Company executive Lansing Eberling testified during a hearing into Irvine heiress Joan Irvine Smith's challenge of a proposed sale to the Mobil Oil Company that the net worth of the organization is about $329 million.

Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Tapper disagreed. He quoted from a liquidation analysis prepared by his office earlier this year and pegged the net value of Irvine holdings at $380 million.

Tapper's figure would put the per share value of Irvine stock at $44.75. Eberling's valuation brings the per share value down to $39.16.

Both figures are considerably higher than the $24 per share figure represented by the Mobil offer to pay $200 million for Irvine Company shares held by the James Irvine Foundation.

Those shares represent a 54.5 percent controlling interest in the Irvine Company. Under state law, the foundation must divest itself of those shares.

Judge James F. Judge is being asked in what is expected to be a six-week hearing to make permanent a temporary injunction against a Mobil deal already accepted by foundation trustees.

Mrs. Smith contends that the $200 million figure is too low and that the sale would be unfair to her and other minority stockholders.

Tapper and Eberling agreed, however, that it would take several years to bring about liquidation of the giant company's many assets even if such a sale were to be accepted by the Irvine board.

After Divorce

Alioto, 59, Plans To Wed Woman, 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday.

"My private life is private," the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan, 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a "desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy."

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

Alioto was elected mayor of San Francisco in 1968 and was mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate during his first term. He served until 1975.

He was acquitted of fee splitting in a state of Washington case. The case ended with a ruling supporting a $2.3 million legal fee received before becoming mayor.

Miss Sullivan was graduated from Manhattanville College and has done graduate work at Boston University and Harvard Graduate School of Education.

Alien Jailing Plan Wins SA Council Nod

The Santa Ana City Council has approved a police department policy of detaining illegal aliens suspected of criminal activity for federal immigration authorities.

The controversial policy, revised nine times, calls for the jailing of aliens suspected of committing a crime. It does not include aliens reporting crimes to police, or people stopped for minor traffic violations.

The policy also instructs police who encounter situations in which they believe an illegal alien is being exploited, to report such cases to health, welfare, employment or building authorities.

The police department's former policy was no enforcement of immigration laws.

Scores Rise

Harbor Kids Buck Trend

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Contrary to a nationwide downward trend, Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores among Harbor Area high school students rose six points above last year's scores.

THE POINT differentials and comparisons were revealed today by John Nicoll, superintendent of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District.

California scores in the combined verbal and math tests have dropped eight points since last year while scores nationwide have fallen three points.

THE STANDARD score range for the SAT tests is between 200 to 800 points. In the verbal segment, scores for Newport-Mesa males dropped an average of one point to 468, while scores for females rose an average of two points to 464, thus, the district average was up one point.

In math, the male average dropped a point to 537. However, the female average jumped six points to 481. This means the district math average increased five points.

THE COMBINATION of this increase with the one point rise in verbal scores makes the overall six point increase, Nicoll explained.

Nationwide, the verbal test average is 431 with math scores at 472. The California average is 430 in verbal and 470 in math. The overall Newport-Mesa average is 466 in verbal and 510 in math.

Council Battle

Clemente Cable TV Viewers Unplugged

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TM Communications Company cut cable television service to 7,000 San Clemente subscribers today.

The termination of service came within an hour of a post midnight City Council refusal to suspend a provision of its contract with TM. The provision allows the city to confiscate all the equipment within the city 30 days after a television franchise expires if not replaced with a new contract.

TM's latest position in a continuing feud with the city is that it must discontinue service and dismantle equipment to protect against possible future city seizure of that equipment.

Last week the council approved a new contract with the cable company but gave a $1.25 a month rate hike and provisions for future automatic fee increases. Councilmen Thomas O'Keefe and Tony DiGiovanni were opposed to the contract.

Mayor B. Patrick Lane voted for the rate hike but said he agreed with the council minority, voting for the contract only to stave off cost of a lawsuit.

But Tuesday Lane joined with O'Keefe and DiGiovanni to enforce the confiscation provision.

The new franchise won't be effective until Oct. 21. TM's old contract ran out Sunday.

Richard Young, TM vice president, issued a statement this morning that company officials were "shocked and dismayed" by the council action.

City hall switchboards and TM offices in San Clemente were flooded this morning with hundreds of calls from confused and irate cable subscribers.

Early Mesa Planner Dead At Age 69

Earl L. Patterson, one of Costa Mesa's first planning commissioners, is dead at the age of 69.

Mr. Patterson, a retired general contractor, was named to the first planning commission in the city in 1953.

He and his wife, Velma, opened the first dairy market in the area in 1962 at the corner of 22nd Street and Santa Ana Avenue.

"We started the Newport Creamery when those streets were just two ruts in the road," Mrs. Patterson recalls.

She said the couple later sold their small herd and Mr. Patterson began building custom homes until his retirement in 1958.

She said the couple were "avid Baja buffs," spending much of their free time south of the border before Mr. Patterson became too ill to make the weekend trips.

The fifty-year Costa Mesa resident became a charter member of the Costa Mesa Lions Club in 1927.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Patterson is survived by sons Earl "Pat" Patterson and Melvin R. Patterson, both of Costa Mesa, and daughters Joan Berger, also of Costa Mesa and Carol Wegner of Newport Beach.

Also surviving are seven grandchildren.

Services will be held Friday at 11 a.m. at Bell Broadway Chapel in Costa Mesa.

Discussions End

Rhodesia Mum On Black Rule

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's cabinet ended two days of discussions today with no word on whether it will accept proposals by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to transfer governing power to Rhodesia's black majority.

"There's a lot of life and kick in Rhodesians," Smith told a tourist waiting outside with reporters. "We have still got a lot of fight but that doesn't mean that we want to be stupid. We have got to face up to realities but I think we're going to be all right."

Smith refused to answer questions from reporters on the cabinet reaction to the proposals, saying only that there would probably be "something a bit firmer" Thursday after he meets with all 50 white members of parliament.

The decision is expected to be made at that meeting, and Smith, has scheduled a radio and television address to the nation Friday.

Thursday's white caucus would have to assure majority backing of the proposals before Smith can announce the plan to the nation.

The British-American proposals in the hands of Smith and his cabinet are still secret, but are believed to provide for black majority government within two years, accompanied by a $2-billion fund to be set up by the United States and other Western nations to compensate Rhodesian whites who leave the country and help the new black government with development.

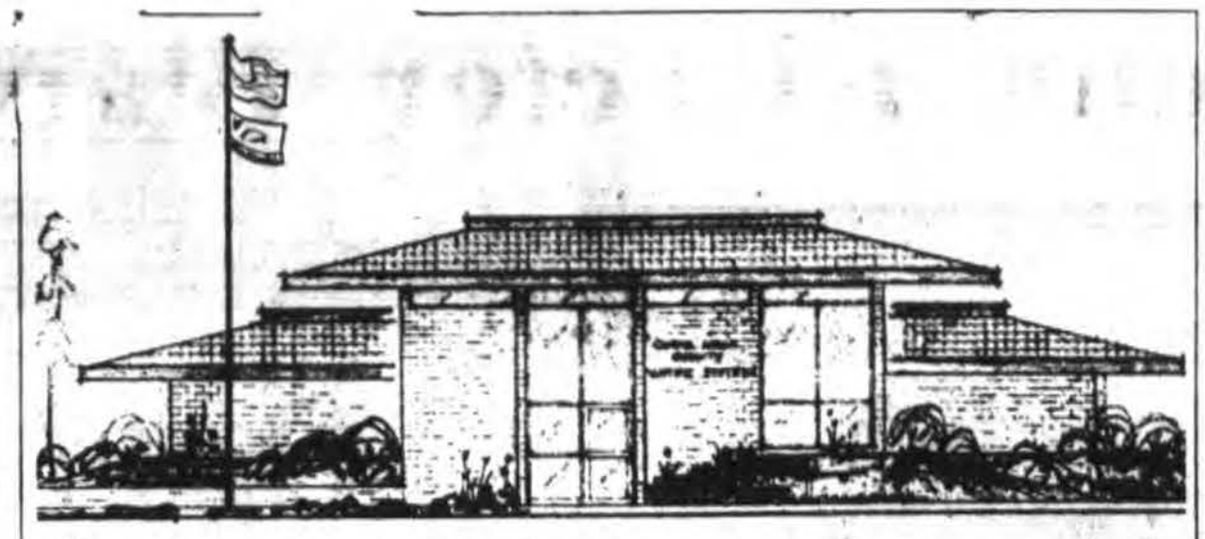
The Rhodesian Herald newspaper said the settlement plans are being described as the Callaghan-Kissinger-Vorster proposals, and commented: "The implication is that the South Africans have finally turned the screws on Mr. Smith despite denials to the contrary."

South African Prime Minister John Vorster, host to the Kissinger-Smith talks in Pretoria last weekend, had been pressed by Kissinger to try to convince Smith to agree to black rule.

Britain and Prime Minister James Callaghan were involved with the United States in formulating the settlement proposals.

Rhodesia, a British colony until Smith unilaterally declared its independence in 1965, has a population of 270,000 whites and some six million blacks.

Kissinger, reportedly carrying to black African leaders the word of Smith's new position, had talks in Kinshasa today with Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko, then departed for Kenya.



Headquarters Under Construction

The Costa Mesa County Water District has broken ground for its new $289,800 headquarters building adjacent to the district's field offices on Placentia Avenue. Water district officials expect to begin moving into the 7,000 square foot facility from quarters at the Civic Center by February.

5 Join Revamp Panel

A new permanent member and four alternates have been named to the Costa Mesa Community Development Committee by city councilmen.

Jean Forbath replaces Frank Murillo as permanent member on the 11-member committee. Murillo recently resigned, citing other commitments.

Councilmen appointed alternate members Diana Milroy, Paul Raver, Doug Weiler and Joan Margol.

The committee oversees operation of the city's Community Development activities, headed by coordinator Tony Cannariato.

The agency provides low-cost housing and rental incentives to low-income Costa Mesa citizens through federally-funded Housing and Urban Development programs.

Newport To Choose New Mayor

Newport Beach city councilmen will choose a new mayor Monday from among four councilmen who say they are interested in the job.

The city is without a mayor following the death of Howard Rogers two weeks ago. Mayor Pro Tem Milan Dostal has assumed the duties on a temporary basis.

So far, a list of declared candidates excludes only former mayor Don McInnis and council newcomer Ray Williams.

The remaining four council members, Dostal, Lucille Kuehn, Paul Ryckoff and Pete Barrett, all have decided to run and are trying to line up support for their candidacies.

McInnis, who served four years as mayor prior to Rogers' election to that post in April, said he doesn't believe the large number of candidates will pose a serious problem in voting.

"I believe the four candidates can work it out among themselves," he said.

Of the four candidates, Dostal has been on the council longest. He was first elected in 1970 and was re-elected in 1974. He served two years as mayor pro tem prior to re-election to that post in April.

Ryckoff is in the beginning of his second council term. He was first elected in 1972 and was re-elected this year.

Both Barrett and Mrs. Kuehn are serving their first terms. They were both elected in 1974.

Young Artist Class Offered

"Introduction to Oils," a painting class for beginning artists 8 to 16 years old, is being offered by the Costa Mesa Department of Leisure Services. The class starts Oct. 5.

The Tuesday course will be at the Costa Mesa Community Recreation Center from 4-5:30 p.m.

The eight-week class costs $8. Registration will be conducted Monday from 6-8 p.m. at the Estancia High School gym, 2323 Placentia Ave., Costa Mesa.

Car Tapes Stolen

Orange Coast College coed Holly M. Ferrell told Costa Mesa police Tuesday thieves broke a window on her car outside her apartment at 2300 Fairview Road, and took a tape deck and tapes valued at $306.

Burke Slated For Address After Debate

Assemblyman Robert H. Burke (R-Huntington Beach), will address a Town Hall meeting Thursday, following the nationally televised debate between presidential candidates Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

The Burke meeting will be held in Huntington Beach City Council Chambers, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

A spokesman at Burke's Huntington Beach office said today she didn't realize the town hall meeting had been scheduled the same night as the television debate, but added that Burke has not canceled the meeting.

Interested citizens will have 30 minutes to get to the city council chambers following the television debate, which is scheduled to run from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. (PDT).

Drill Team Classes Set

Special instruction in drill team activities offered by the Costa Mesa Department of Leisure Services, begins Oct. 4.

The class, for 9 to 15-year-olds, will take place Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 4-5 p.m. at Davis Middle School, 1050 Arlington Drive, Costa Mesa. Fee for the 14-week class is $3.

Registration will be Monday from 6-8 p.m. at Estancia High School gym, 2323 Placentia Ave., Costa Mesa. Mail registration will be accepted Sept. 28.

CARTER. . .

all?"

A. "I don't believe so."

But Carter said he did not want to conduct a news conference on the matter without his staff present.

In the interview, made public this week, Carter said he would not attempt to impose his own religious beliefs on others.

"Christ set some almost impossible standards for us," he said, adding that to sin is human and "God forgives me for it."

In one excerpt, Carter declared:

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do — and I have done it — and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust, but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock.

"Christ says don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who's loyal to his wife ought not to be condescending or proud because of the relative degree of sinfulness."

The candidate's statements brought mixed reactions.

— His wife, Rosalynn, said in New York they caused her no anxiety about his fidelity.

"I trust him completely. I've never had to worry about that at all," she said.

— Dr. Harry N. Hollis Jr., a denominational authority on social ethics, said in Nashville that Carter's statements on morality accurately reflect Southern Baptist teachings.

But Hollis, a staff mber of the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Conference, said he "wouldn't have used the same language."

— Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, Tex., declared: "I am highly offended oy this. I think he's mixed up in his moral values, and I think the entire church membership will feel the same way."

— Dr. Jerry Vines, pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., and a former president of the pastors' conference of the Southern Baptist Convention, said: "This appears to be another instance of Carter accommodating himself to his audience.

Heart Attack Victim Lost Off HB Coast

A 37-year-old Hermosa Beach man was lost off the coast of Huntington Beach Tuesday evening after apparently suffering a heart attack, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

The man was being towed in the water on an automobile fender used as a raft behind a 22-foot sailboat, officials said.

Richard R. Russillo dropped from sight when he let go of the fender. A companion in the water with him said the victim had foam and mucous coming from his mouth.

Russillo's limp body was lost about one half mile northwest of Oil Island Eva near Huntington Beach, officials said.

The incident occurred at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Coast Guard and Orange County Harbor Patrol rescue units have discontinued a search for the body.

Clean Getaway For Mesa Thief?

A Costa Mesa construction worker told police Tuesday someone entered his home at 219 Knox Place while he was at work, taking three women's rings.

James L. Platfoot said the thief, who may have entered the home through a bathroom window, also took a bar of soap before fleeing with $462 in valuables.

Pair Beat, Stomp Milk Truck Driver

Two assailants stomped and severely beat a driver as he was delivering milk to a Huntington Beach elementary school early today.

Police said that William Marshall, 23, of Santa Ana, suffered fractured ribs and other serious injuries when he arrived at Meadowview School at 5702 Clark Drive in the northern part of the city.

Sgt. David Miller said Marshall was jumped on the school grounds and was badly mauled with both fists and feet. He was taken to Huntington Intercommunity Hospital with "quite serious" injuries.

A hospital official said today that Marshall was resting comfortably and that tests were scheduled later in the day.

Miller said that Marshall, a driver for Cal-Va Dairy in Santa Ana, was attacked at about 2:15 a.m.

Miller said police believe that the two assailants took the key to the school's multi-purpose room when it fell out of Marshall's pocket during the beating.

The investigator said he didn't know if the two men were casing the school for a burglary and were surprised by Marshall or if they were lying in wait for him to obtain the key.

Officers said there was no indication that the school had been broken into or that anything had been stolen.

Police are waiting for Marshall to recover from the shock of his beating before questioning him further to gain leads on the two attackers.

Nicoll Says No Need To Plan Growth

It's too early to prepare for the impact of development of the Irvine Ranch coastline, members of the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce were told today.

About 45 chamber members attended a town hall meeting on the Irvine coast held this morning at the Marriott Hotel which featured John Nicoll, superintendent of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District, and Tim Cowell of the Newport Beach Community Development Department.

According to Cowell, it is known that homes built in the area between Laguna Beach and Corona del Mar will generate a large amount of tax income and will require considerable services. "But we haven't got a handle on what that balance is between taxes and costs," Cowell said.

Nicoll, on the other hand, said the school district has a pretty good idea of the problem it will face— 4,000 students that will need at least five schools that will cost about $40 million to build.

But both men noted that since development of the area is three to four years away, it is really too early for either the city or the school district to start making changes.

Nicoll noted that the district's board of trustees has taken no position on the impending student influx. He pointed out that he was apprised of the situation in 1971 when it was assumed that taxes would pay for school costs in the area.

Status Quo DST Reigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speed-up procedures to pass a bill extending Daylight Saving Time have been rejected by the House, virtually assuring that the measure will not be enacted this year.

The bill would have set the beginning date for DST as the third Sunday of March and the ending date as the third Sunday of October, beginning in 1977. Under existing law, the country is on DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

With few members on the floor, the House voted 11 to 10 Tuesday for suspending the rules and passing the bill. But the suspension procedure requires two-thirds.

Two Newsrack Law Changes

Costa Mesa councilmen have approved two changes in the city's year-old newsrack ordinance, which regulates the placement of the machines in the public right-of-way.

The changes deal with the storage and disposal of illegal newsracks. One adds a dollar per day storage charge from the date of confiscation.

The second change says unclaimed vending machines will be disposed of 30 days after they are taken off the sidewalk.

Jim Eldridge, director of public services, said the two changes will put the cost burden on the businesses that repeatedly violate the municipal ordinance.

$51 Million Splits Irvine Values

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Lawyers for the California Attorney General's office and the Irvine Company compared valuations of the company Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court and came up with a difference of $51 million.

Irvine Company executive Lansing Eberling testified during a hearing into Irvine heiress Joan Irvine Smith's challenge of a proposed sale to the Mobil Oil Company that the net worth of the organization is about $329 million.

Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Tapper disagreed. He quoted from a liquidation analysis prepared by his office earlier this year and pegged the net value of Irvine holdings at $380 million.

Tapper's figure would put the per share value of Irvine stock at $44.75. Eberling's valuation brings the per share value down to $39.16.

Both figures are considerably higher than the $24 per share figure represented by the Mobil offer to pay $200 million for Irvine Company shares held by the James Irvine Foundation.

Those shares represent a 54.5 percent controlling interest in the Irvine Company. Under state law, the foundation must divest itself of those shares.

Judge James F. Judge is being asked in what is expected to be a six-week hearing to make permanent a temporary injunction against a Mobil deal already accepted by foundation trustees.

Mrs. Smith contends that the $200 million figure is too low and that the sale would be unfair to her and other minority stockholders.

Tapper and Eberling agreed, however, that it would take several years to bring about liquidation of the giant company's many assets even if such a sale were to be accepted by the Irvine board.

Tapper predicted that it would take ten years to dispose of the company's 70,000 acres of undeveloped land and about two years to sell its real estate and industrial holdings.

Eberling said he thought it would take 15 years to sell undeveloped properties and at least three years to dispose of developed real estate and industrial assets.

Playboy Story 'Won't Hurt Campaign'

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said today he is not dismayed by reaction to his statements that he has "looked on a lot of women with lust" and "committed adultery in my heart." He said he doesn't think it has hurt his campaign.

Carter responded to questions from reporters as he got into his car after completing an early morning inspection of his peanut processing operation.

Asked whether he was dismayed by some of the reaction to his statements, made to an interviewer from Playboy magazine, the candidate replied:

Coastal Land Annex Hits Snag on Fees

Plans to annex 3,400 acres of Irvine coastal property to Newport Beach's sewer district hit a snag Tuesday over payment of annexation fees.

The annexation, agreed to in principle Tuesday night by directors of Orange County Sanitation District 5, calls for the Irvine Company, as owner of the property, to pay the district $2,139,000 within 90 days of annexation.

That money is based on a $1,394 per acre annexation fee for the 1,535 acres that have been identified for development.

The dispute centers on the remaining 1,907 acres that have been set aside for open space.

District officials want to write a provision into the annexation agreement that says the Irvine Company will pay annexation fees for that open space if any other governmental agency, such as the state, acquires it.

Gordon Jones, an Irvine Company representative, asked instead that the provision be dropped from the agreement. He suggested the district plan on collecting fees when the new property owner develops something such as a campground that would require sewer service.

"You could collect before hooking them up," he suggested.

Tom Woodruff, the sanitation district's attorney, pointed out that the provision was included in the agreement because of problems the combined Orange County sanitation districts had in collecting fees when Bolsa Chica marsh was acquired by the state.

Scores Rise

Harbor Kids Buck Trend

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Contrary to a nationwide downward trend, Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores among Harbor Area high school students rose six points above last year's scores.

THE POINT differentials and comparisons were revealed today by John Nicoll, superintendent of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District.

California scores in the combined verbal and math tests have dropped eight points since last year while scores nationwide have fallen three points.

THE STANDARD score range for the SAT tests is between 200 to 800 points. In the verbal segment, scores for Newport-Mesa males dropped an average of one point to 468, while scores for females rose an average of two points to 464, thus, the district average was up one point.

In math, the male average dropped a point to 537. However, the female average jumped six points to 481. This means the district math average increased five points.

THE COMBINATION of this increase with the one point rise in verbal scores makes the overall six point increase, Nicoll explained.

Nationwide, the verbal test average is 431 with math scores at 472. The California average is 430 in verbal and 470 in math. The overall Newport-Mesa average is 466 in verbal and 510 in math.

Panel Halts Query of Newsman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee today ended its attempt to punish television reporter Daniel Schorr for refusing to give the panel his copy of a secret House intelligence report or identifying the person who gave it to him.

The panel voted 9-1 to lift the subpoenas against Schorr and three other persons involved in the publication of a classified report on activities of U.S. intelligence agencies.

Rep. Thomas F. Foley (D-Wash.), said the vote effectively ends the committee's attempt to discover who gave the report to Schorr or to take legal action against the CBS reporter for refusing to cooperate in the panel's investigation.

The other three subpoenaed were Clay Felker, publisher of the Village Voice; Aaron Latham, a senior editor of New York magazine, and Sheldon Zalaznick, former senior editorial director of New York.

The decision to drop the subpoenas came after a series of votes on related motions failed to unite the committee behind a specific course of action. One would have declared "the committee does not recommend citing Daniel Schorr for contempt." It failed on a 5-5 tie vote.

The committee voted 6-5 against a motion by Rep. Edward Hutchinson (R-Mich.), to cite Schorr for contempt-of-Congress for his refusal to answer questions or relinquish control of his copy of the report.

It also defeated by a 7-4 vote a motion by Rep. Thad Cochran (R-Miss.), to recommend that Schorr be denied use of the House radio-television galleries for the remainder of this session of Congress.

Council Battle

Clemente Cable TV Viewers Unplugged

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TM Communications Company cut cable television service to 7,000 San Clemente subscribers today.

The termination of service came within an hour of a post midnight City Council refusal to suspend a provision of its contract with TM. The provision allows the city to confiscate all the equipment within the city 30 days after a television franchise expires if not replaced with a new contract.

TM's latest position in a continuing feud with the city is that it must discontinue service and dismantle equipment to protect against possible future city seizure of that equipment.

Last week the council approved a new contract with the cable company but gave a $1.25 a month rate hike and provisions for future automatic fee increases. Councilmen Thomas O'Keefe and Tony DiGiovanni were opposed to the contract.

Mayor B. Patrick Lane voted for the rate hike but said he agreed with the council minority, voting for the contract only to stave off cost of a lawsuit.

But Tuesday Lane joined with O'Keefe and DiGiovanni to enforce the confiscation provision.

The new franchise won't be effective until Oct. 21. TM's old contract ran out Sunday.

Richard Young, TM vice president, issued a statement this morning that company officials were "shocked and dismayed" by the council action.

City hall switchboards and TM offices in San Clemente were flooded this morning with hundreds of calls from confused and irate cable subscribers.

Councilman Bill Walker, who hammered out the new compromise franchise provisions, bitterly charged that Lane, O'Keefe and DiGiovanni conspired all along to take over the cable operation while convincing TM executives that the council was negotiating in good faith.

Walker said the council majority attempted to pull a "hoax" on TM.

Britons Snub Atom Power

LONDON (AP)—A royal commission recommended today that Britain avoid a major commitment to nuclear power for electricity on grounds that it produces waste that carries grave potential danger for mankind.

The commission, whose findings will be studied by Parliament, warned that there should be no big nuclear expansion until there is a safe way of disposing indefinitely of the highly radioactive wastes produced, some of which might have to be stored for 250,000 years.

The Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution also described as "entirely credible" the possibility that terrorists could hijack plutonium, a by-product of commercial nuclear power stations, and make a "crude but effective weapon."

Blacks To Rule?

Rhodesian Whites Mull Proposal

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's cabinet ended two days of discussions today with no word on whether it will accept proposals by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to transfer governing power to Rhodesia's black majority.

"There's a lot of life and kick in Rhodesians," Smith told a tourist waiting outside with reporters. "We have still got a lot of fight but that doesn't mean that we want to be stupid. We have got to face up to realities but I think we're going to be all right."

Smith refused to answer questions from reporters on the cabinet reaction to the proposals, saying only that there would probably be "something a bit firmer" Thursday after he meets with all 50 white members of parliament.

The decision is expected to be made at that meeting, and Smith has scheduled a radio and television address to the nation Friday.

Thursday's white caucus would have to assure majority backing of the proposals before Smith can announce the plan to the nation.

The British-American proposals in the hands of Smith and his cabinet are still secret, but are believed to provide for black majority government within two years, accompanied by a $2-billion fund to be set up by the United States and other Western nations to compensate Rhodesian whites who leave the country and help the new black government with development.

The Rhodesian Herald newspaper said the settlement plans are being described as the Callaghan-Kissinger-Vorster proposals, and commented: "The implication is that the South Africans have finally turned the screws on Mr. Smith despite denials to the contrary."

South African Prime Minister John Vorster, host to the Kissinger-Smith talks in Pretoria last weekend, had been pressed by Kissinger to try to convince Smith to agree to black rule.

Britain and Prime Minister James Callaghan were involved with the United States in formulating the settlement proposals.

Rhodesia, a British colony until Smith unilaterally declared its independence in 1965, has a population of 270,000 whites and some six million blacks.

Kissinger, reportedly carrying to black African leaders the word of Smith's new position, had talks in Kinshasa today with Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko, then departed for Kenya.

Huntington Incident

Pair Beat, Stomp Milk Truck Driver

Two assailants stomped and severely beat a driver as he was delivering milk to a Huntington Beach elementary school early today.

Police said that William Marshall, 23, of Santa Ana, suffered fractured ribs and other serious injuries when he arrived at Meadowview School at 5702 Clark Drive in the northern part of the city.

Sgt. David Miller said Marshall was jumped on the school grounds and was badly mauled with both fists and feet. He was taken to Huntington Intercommunity Hospital with "quite serious" injuries.

A hospital official said today that Marshall was resting comfortably and that tests were scheduled later in the day.

Miller said that Marshall, a driver for Cal-Va Dairy in Santa Ana, was attacked at about 2:15 a.m.

Miller said police believe that the two assailants took the key to the school's multi-purpose room when it fell out of Marshall's pocket during the beating.

The investigator said he didn't know if the two men were casing the school for a burglary and were surprised by Marshall or if they were lying in wait for him to obtain the key.

Officers said there was no indication that the school had been broken into or that anything had been stolen.

Police are waiting for Marshall to recover from the shock of his beating before questioning him further to gain leads on the two attackers.

Reactions Sought on Church Plans

Community reaction is being sought for the environmental impact report on a 100-unit senior citizens housing complex planned in Corona del Mar.

The housing project is backed by the Lutheran Church of the Master, 2900 Pacific View Drive. The housing units are to be built on two acres next to the church.

A draft EIR on the project has been prepared and Bill Foley, a city staff member who oversees preparation of the reports, said reaction to it is being sought from area residents as well as a variety of governmental agencies.

Foley said a public hearing on the EIR will be held by the city council in late October or November.

Once the report is approved, the church will then take its proposal to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for a construction loan.

According to a spokesman for Seaview Lutheran Plaza, the corporation formed by the church to develop the project, the one and two-bedroom units will be rented to senior citizens at 25 percent of their monthly incomes.

In addition to the construction loan, additional HUD funds are being sought to underwrite the cost of the rentals so that actual income from the rents will be at the going market price.

The three-story apartment buildings will include a common library, laundry and recreation rooms.

Band Instruments Taken by Thieves

Music students at Corona del Mar High School who wanted to learn to play the French horn, clarinet, trumpet, piccolo or tuba will have to take up something else for a while.

Vernon Schroeder, music director at the school Monday reported the theft of those five instruments from the school at 2101 Eastbluff Drive. The instruments were last seen at the close of summer school in August and are worth $4,270.

Supervisors Ask Study of Hidden Rocks

The usually submerged rock, off 35083 Beach Road, first came to supervisors' attention a month ago. At the time, they agreed to urge boaters to follow navigational charts, which list the rock, and to stay far from shore.

But at the time, county officials had told them the rock was only 30 yards offshore. They learned Tuesday it is 300 yards offshore.

And San Clemente City Councilman Tom O'Keefe, a member of the county Harbors, Beaches and Parks Commission, asked that the rock be marked with a sign to warn boaters of potential hazards.

O'Keefe said the rock is on a direct line with the main entrance to Dana Point Harbor and could cause a serious accident.

Supervisor Tom Riley said he was told it never has caused an accident, and he said it may be just one of many rocks in the area.

At his suggestion, supervisors agreed to have the sheriff's harbor patrol deputies conduct a study in the area and report to the Harbors, Beaches and Parks Commission within 60 days.

County officials earlier had considered blowing up the rock but learned permits for doing so probably could not be obtained.

They also asked the Coast Guard to buoy the rock, but were turned down when Coast Guard officials said the rock was just one of many along the coast.

United Way Kickoff Set

The United Way of Orange County North/South will begin its annual fund-raising campaign, Thursday at the Disneyland Hotel.

According to campaign chairman Art Fretwell, the United Way's volunteer campaign team will be reaching for a goal of $4.6 million, a 44 percent increase over last year's campaign total.

Since the opening kickoff coincides with the first nationally televised presidential debate, television sets will be set up in the lobby of the hotel's Grand Ballroom.

ANNEX. . .

"It took three years and threats of lawsuits to get a lousy $60,000 from the state," he said. "In this regard we consider the Irvine Company a better credit risk because we know where to find them."

Both Woodruff and Jones stressed that there isn't any disagreement over the $2.1 million. million.

That arrangement works to the advantage of both the company and the sanitation district because it allows the company to pay its fees now, instead of in the future when development actually occurs and the fees may have doubled.

It serves the district's interest in providing cash for the operating budget.

Woodruff noted that, while the district will use the money for current operations, it is still required to see to it there are sewer trunk lines installed at the time of development in the coastal property.

"By requiring payment of an annexation fee up front at the time we transfer title to another governmental agency, you will be raising the price of the land by at least $1,400 per acre. It may be no agency is going to be willing to buy it," he said.

In spite of the disagreement, directors Ray Williams and Don McInnis agreed to the annexation in principle in order to start the annexation proceedings through the county's Local Agency Formation Commission. Supervisor Thomas Riley, the third sanitation district director was not present.

Williams and McInnis asked Jones and sanitation district staff members to study the problem clause and report back for ratification of the actual agreement Oct. 13.

since we won't be able to use it," he said.

Nicoll said the district's options are really limited to finding a way to educate those students. He stressed that his staff is not planning to recommend "de-annexation" of the area.

Cowell said a cost and revenue analysis of the area will have to wait until development begins. And he noted any city decision regarding annexation of the coastal area could not be made without the data from that analysis.

Cowell said the city will be following development plans closely in an attempt to insure that roads, such as the Bonita Canyon bypass, are built to handle traffic that will come from the area.

ALIOTO'S FIANCEE? Kathleen Sullivan

Alioto, 59, Will Wed Woman, 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday.

"My private life is private," the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan, 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a "desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy."

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

Alioto was elected mayor of San Francisco in 1968 and was mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate during his first term. He served until 1975.

He was acquitted of fee splitting in a state of Washington case. The case ended with a ruling supporting a $2.3 million legal fee received before becoming mayor.

Jimmy Oops

Twice Told, Tale Tickles

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — In a slip of the tongue, Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale momentarily appeared to have forgotten his running mate's name.

Speaking to about 500 people who came down to the railroad tracks Tuesday to meet his campaign train, Mondale said:

"You're telling me, you're telling America, you want that White House once again occupied by a peoples' president, this time named Jimmy Ford."

Realizing his mistake, Mondale grimaced, adding: "Jimmy won't like that. Jimmy, I didn't mean it. I didn't mean it. Let me try again. Jimmy Carter. There we go."

In the interview, made public this week, Carter said he would not attempt to impose his own religious beliefs on others.

"Christ set some almost impossible standards for us," he said, adding that to sin is human and "God forgives me for it."

In one excerpt, Carter declared:

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do — and I have done it — and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust, but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock.

"Christ says don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who's loyal to his wife ought not to be condescending or proud because of the relative degree of sinfulness."

The candidate's statements brought mixed reactions.

— His wife, Rosalynn, said in New York they caused her no anxiety about his fidelity.

"I trust him completely. I've never had to worry about that at all," she said.

— Dr. Harry N. Hollis Jr., a denominational authority on social ethics, said in Nashville that Carter's statements on morality accurately reflect Southern Baptist teachings.

But Hollis, a staff mber of the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Conference, said he "wouldn't have used the same language."

— Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, Tex., declared: "I am highly offended by this. I think he's mixed up in his moral values, and I think the entire church membership will feel the same way."

— Dr. Jerry Vines, pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., and a former president of the pastors' conference of the Southern Baptist Convention, said: "This appears to be another instance of Carter accommodating himself to his audience. I would prefer that a man running for high public office would use more refined language."

— William A. Powell, editor of the Southern Baptist Journal in Atlanta, said he was "flabbergasted" by what Carter said.

— Acting Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd said Tuesday in Washington he wished the interview "had not occurred."

But he added: "I don't think it's terminal by any stretch of the imagination."

— Byrd's Republican counterpart, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, quipped: "I think a fluff a day makes plenty of hay."

— White House press secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford would have no comment on the Carter interview.

Alien Jailing Policy Wins Council Nod

The Santa Ana City Council has approved a police department policy of detaining illegal aliens suspected of criminal activity for federal immigration authorities.

The controversial policy, revised nine times, calls for the jailing of aliens suspected of committing a crime. It does not include aliens reporting crimes to police, or people stopped for minor traffic violations.

The policy also instructs police who encounter situations in which they believe an illegal alien is being exploited, to report such cases to health, welfare, employment or building authorities.

The police department's former policy was no enforcement of immigration laws.

Trap Door Hard to Spring Open

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Some time ago a woman asked you what to do about a husband who beat her up repeatedly. You said, "Leave him." You also said a woman who stays with a man who beats her is sick. Your advice proves you have no idea what a battered wife's life is like.

Well, I can tell you. It's hell. At least the woman who wrote got her husband to see a psychiatrist. Most men won't go. They see nothing wrong with what they are doing. You say, "LEAVE." How can she leave when there is no place to go?

You are probably thinking, "There is ALWAYS a place to go," but you're wrong. I read where London has 75 shelters for battered wives and their children, but in the United States there are very few.

People who've never had the experience can't imagine what it's like to be a battered wife. More has been done to help abused animals in this country than women. You call the police and the guy is arrested. Within hours he is out of jail — mad as hell. So he goes home and beats up his wife again.

I've been clobbered dozens of times in the 10 years we've been married, often in front of the children, for no reason except I said hello to a man on the street, or cooked a dinner my husband didn't like.

I've resigned myself to more of the same because I'm trapped. I don't expect you to print this but I had to write. Sign me — WITHOUT HOPE

DEAR W.H.: A woman who says "I've resigned myself to more of the same" will surely get it. I do not agree that there are no alternatives. There may not be many, but there must be ONE, and it's up to you to find it.

Contact your clergyman, a good-hearted friend or relative, the Catholic Charities, the Family Service Assn., the Salvation Army, the Jewish Welfare, the Community Referral Service, or any feminist organization (especially N.O.W.). Call the doctor who delivered the children. These numbers are in the phone book.

Arrange with your oldest child to go to the neighbors and phone the police the next time your husband starts to beat you. Take him to Family Court and insist that he live elsewhere and support you and the kids.

Unless you have the determination to put an end to the brutality, you WILL be trapped forever.

DEAR ANN: I find it hard to sympathize with "Crushed in Cincinnati" and her small-busted sisters. My problem is just the opposite and I'll trade with her.

Ever since I was 14, I've known that most boys are interested in one thing. Or should I say two?

When "Crushed" shops for a blouse or a dress she can wear any style. I must avoid low necklines, clingy fabrics and knits. The brassiere problem is simply awful. Mine have special padding on the straps and still they cut into my shoulders.

A woman can always make herself look larger, but to accomplish the reverse requires surgery which is painful and expensive. "Crushed" should count her blessings — TOO MUCH IS NO GOOD

DEAR T.M.: I've heard from many women who have had the surgery you speak of. They say it was worth the money and pain. Reconsider.

New Start for Sagittarius

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Highlight practicality; take nothing for granted. Insist on quality and service. Refuse to be intimidated by one who scowls.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Fun and games will replace worry and tension. Means there is abrupt transition — what was a setback can become a definite asset.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get on solid footing — be aware of prices, restrictions, eventual assets. One with experience will lend helping hand. Older individual will cooperate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be ready for change, variety, travel — start dialogue with one who means much to you. Short trip, calls, messages, selection of product — these are on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on money, income, budget personal possessions. Home improvement, reconciliation with family member — these also could be on agenda.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Lunar cycle high — you can perfect techniques, make valuable contacts and get to heart of matters. Accent on looks, drive, personality, originality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Key now is organization. Leave no loose ends. Don't delegate too many duties. Accept responsibility. You'll find that club or charitable organization is behind you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on romance, creativity, valuable contacts, flattery and meaningful compliments. You successfully complete assignment, project. You build for future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on authority, responsibility, new starts, independence, standing in community. Relationships with professional superiors also are spotlighted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good Moon aspect coincides now with communication, education, spiritual insights, journeys. One close to you is reliable but needs reassurance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Temptation is to be extravagant — overcome it by consulting one with experience. Means there are persons eager to lend helping hand.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lie low — do more listening than asserting. Check details — become familiar with basic material, concepts. Accent on long-term relationships, partnership, marital status.

If September 23rd is your birthday you make new starts this year — you will be more financially secure in October. You are inquisitive, a good reporter-detective — you're concerned with character, theater, law. You're versatile, can be domineering and you are generous.

ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS
To Make Presentation

The first Junior Woman-of-the-year will be selected by the Assistance League of Newport Beach, Junior Auxiliary.

Presentation will be made during a fall fashion benefit Friday, Oct. 8, in the Marriott Hotel. Fashions will be from Robinsons.

The award will be presented by Adela Rogers St. Johns, well-known author, newspaperwoman and champion of woman's ability to create positive change in our world today.

The recipient will be chosen on the basis of outstanding achievements and contributions to the organization(s) in which she serves and to Orange County on the whole.

Fund-raising High on List

DUSTY WINGS: Members and guests are invited to a Fiesta of Friends to be held Saturday, Sept. 25, in the Tustin home of Mrs. Richard Robinson.

On a tour of the Salvation Army's summer camp, the group presented a check which brought the annual total to $1,170.

CHAPMAN COLLEGE: Trustees and their spouses will be entertained at the annual Town and Gown fall reception for faculty and administration at 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 25, in the Fullerton home of the William J. Haneys.

UPPER BAY ASSOCIATES: Early California Fiesta is the theme of a progressive dinner, to be staged to raise funds for the Orange County Philharmonic Society.

Beginning at 5 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 26, guests will be treated to a social hour at the home of the Frank Vachons and then will proceed to other designated homes.

ORANGE DISTRICT: As the 34 clubs in the district of the California Federation of Women's Clubs will sponsor the Providence Speech and Hearing Center, a tour of the facility is being planned at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Another tour planned is to Project Concern, Tijuana on Wednesday, Sept. 29. The project provides health care, dental services, nutrition training and public health education. District clubs have donated supplies to this cause.

CHILDREN'S CREATIVE ART WORKSHOP: The Sales and Rental Council of the Newport Harbor Art Museum will sponsor its annual workshop for children beginning Saturday, Oct. 2.

Instructor will be Jan S. Cook, an Orange Coast College teacher who owned the Costa Mesa Art Center for 18 years.

Classes will take place in Art Room 502 at Corona del Mar High School. Anyone interested in the class may call the museum office, 675-3866.

MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY BENEFIT: The annual King of the Hill Procelebrity tennis tournament will travel to 28 cities to raise funds for the MD Association.

Matches will be played Sunday, Oct. 3, at the Cornelia Connelly School, Anaheim.

COMMUNITY FRIENDS: Mental Health Association is recruiting Orange County volunteers for the program which assists the convalescent in meeting daily situations with new feelings of self-confidence and self-sufficiency.

Anyone interested in the training program is asked to call the MHA office, 547-7559.

Public Hearings

Home Care

The status of home care in the U. S. will be discussed during a public hearing Thursday, Sept. 30, and Friday, Oct. 1, in the Los Angeles Convention Center.

The hearing is one of a series being conducted across the country during September and October to obtain information on how the Department of Health, Education and Welfare should regulate Federal home health care programs under Medicare and Medicaid.

Representatives from health and medical professions, welfare agencies, organizations for the aged, voluntary nurses associations and homemaker agencies will participate. The public also is invited.

Anyone wishing to testify or submit a written statement may do so, according to Joe P. Maldonado, HEW regional director.

Further information is available by writing to Alan Marer, HEW Region IX, 50 United Nations Plaza, Room 427, San Francisco 94102, or by calling Marer at (415) 556-1961.

Choose One: Diet or Dilapidation

By BARBARA GIUS
Daily Pilot Food Editor

When the Fashionables and Town and Gown support groups of Chapman College announced their "Design for Living" luncheon which graced the Balboa Bay Club last Wednesday, the invitations promised a program on "the beauty of aging."

Call it what you like, the speaking panelists agreed: the challenge of growing old gracefully — or "aging prevention," as one termed it — is a human phenomenon that manages to reorganize our vanity circuitry to comparing photographs and skin folds and looking languorously at tight-bodied, vibrant youthfuls.

If there was one consistent theme in the pep talks delivered to the more than 400 women attending, it would be that aging doesn't really have to happen, or at least, take an ugly toll.

Physical degeneration is a matter of choice, the audience was told: It can be ours by virtue of what we choose to worry about, and by how and what we choose to eat, drink and smoke.

"If you want bags, wrinkles, lifeless skin and lusterless hair, then by all means, drink, drink, drink," Frances Messinger, program director for St. Vincent's Alcoholic Treatment Center in Los Angeles, told the women. Many had sipped an aperitif before being served a skinless, cold chicken plate, bran muffin and low-carb chocolate cake.

EMPTY CALORIES

"Talk about empty calories," Ms. Messinger went on, "alcohol has absolutely no nutrients whatsoever. But unfortunately, we have been brought up in a society where taking a drink is a thoughtless process.

"It's too easy," she said, even though alcohol is "the most addicting drug available to us and the number one health problem in the U.S."

"We are forever seeking a 'safe' limit whereby we can enjoy drinking and not be affected by it. Well, there is no part of the body that is not affected by liquor," Ms. Messinger said. "Alcohol takes its toll in the nervous system and the brain, often enough to trigger antisocial behavior."

Although both men and women claim to drop unwanted pounds when they cut alcoholic beverages out of daily consumption, many admit that when desired weight loss is attained, they return to relying on an "evening highball" to "make them feel happy and lovable," she said.

SOCIAL LUBRICATION

"This is sad commentary, indeed," Ms. Messinger continued. "It's too bad we feel we need something to lubricate us in order to relate with others.

"I see the problem of alcohol as a simple matter of choice, not will power," she continued. "Why should we need will power to be happy — to not drink the poison of our youth and to not age prematurely?"

Ms. Messinger was joined by Jeanne Jones, nutrition consultant and lecturer for the American Diabetes Assn., who recently authored a booklet for a dietetic cake mix company in which she offers recipes for special occasion "gorgeous goodies" with caloric counts rarely above 100 per serving.

Ms. Jones, who calls her favorite lecture "Don't Kill Your Best Friend," says desserts are "the real kicker."

"For some reason, after living for weeks on steamed vegetables and low-fat meals, we feel a need to go super-rich on planning an entertaining menu," she told luncheon goers. "Crisp, fresh apples somehow get transformed into a pie and of course, what would dinner be without dinner rolls — with REAL butter?"

Ms. Jones says such dietetic aids as low-carbohydrate cake mixes should supplant conscientious eaters' other dessert mix supplies which manage to send out tempting vibes "every time you open the pantry door."

TEMPTATION A NO-NO

"The key to vitality and body maintenance is in good nutrition through sensible eating," she said. "It's like having an 11th commandment to follow: Thou Shalt Not Tempt, which means, if you shouldn't have it, don't bring it in the house."

Following Ms. Jones' presentation was a brief showing of fall fashion ideas by seven Newport area models whose total age was calculated at 334 years.

Actress Shirley Rothman, who describes herself as a lecturer-student of the "Age of Age Prevention," spoke about growing old as an "unnatural phenomenon."

"Aging is an accumulation of diseases brought on when body chemistry breaks down and can't get repaired," she said. Aging is manifested physically, she said, when two molecules get hooked together in a process called cross-linking.

"In 10 years," she estimated, "American scientists will have found a laboratory enzyme to dissolve this molecular bond and reverse aging. They will have found a way to make menopause occur at 80 instead of 45."

MATURATION CONTROLLED

In laboratories at the Department of Physiology, University of California at Berkeley, research assistant Paul Segall is controlling maturation in rats by restricting their intake of tryptophan, one of the eight essential amino acids.

Found chiefly in dairy products, some animal and plant proteins, tryptophan is, as Segall explains, "the substance from which the body manufactures neuro-transmitters which regulate functions such as body temperature and appetite."

Segall says he has been able to extend the rats' average 22-month life span to 30 months by limiting their tryptophan intake to 34 milligrams per 100 food grams. The "normal" human allowance is 180 milligrams of tryptophan per 100 grams.

At the present time, says Segall, scientists are "without any human vocabulary" where this type of experimentation is concerned. "The only thing our studies really tell us is that aging can be controlled in the laboratory, but we don't know to what extent.

TURNING OFF CLOCK

"What we do know is that aging is a programmed process that works much like a clock in controlling the pituitary gland," he said. "The 'hands' of the clock are the neuro-transmitters. By limiting tryptophan in the diet, we have, in effect, turned off the clock."

Once rats are placed back on a normal diet, Segall said growth resumes where it left off. "In older rats, there are exterior signs of rejuvenation, and young rats remain small, until normal feeding resumes."

Although an effectively tryptophan-deficient diet can be achieved by ingesting large amounts of cornmeal in place of other protein foods, Segall vehemently discourages this kind of human experimentation.

"Humans could go crazy on a diet like this," he said.

Segall says the diet was so drastic that only about a third of the laboratory animals survived the experiment.

Those that did survive showed signs of "terrible side effects," he said, like convulsions and ironically, thinning hair.

ON FEEDING YOUNG:

Fat or Slim? Thank Mom

Chances are, according to the most recent theories on early childhood development, if you're overweight now, you were probably a bottle-fed baby.

Speaking before the California Dairy Council's Symposium on Early Childhood Nutrition last week in Oakland, Dr. Charlotte G. Neumann of the Department of Pediatrics at UCLA, said bottle feeding allows the mother to shape the infant's appetite by her own attitudes about how much the baby should eat.

Healthy, breast-fed infants, in contrast, usually suckle until they are no longer hungry, allowing them to better respond to their own needs.

Force-feeding not only contributes to a proliferation of fat cells, said Dr. Neumann, it also tends to establish long-term patterns of overeating.

The accumulation of adipocytes (fat cells) is shown to be permanently irreversible, said Dr. Neumann, regardless of subsequent calorie intake.

"It used to be if you didn't have a fat baby, you were a lousy parent," Dr. Neumann told the symposium. "Well, researchers have found that fat babies are not necessarily healthy babies.

"In fact, they are more susceptible to lower respiratory illnesses than infants of normal weight, and often have orthopedic problems during early walking stages."

Dr. Neumann said research has shown the incidence of bronchitis and other respiratory infections to increase about 102 percent among "fat babies."

"Mothers should be encouraged to breast-feed their children up to six months when possible," Dr. Newmann said. "Breast-fed infants are shown to double their birth weight weeks later than formula-fed babies, which means more gradual, cellular growth."

Dr. Neumann also suggests that too-rapid weight gain can be caused by giving the baby solid food too soon. "By the time some babies are two months old, they have already tasted chocolate pudding and berry cobbler," she said.

"Mothers should be discouraged against feeding their babies anything solid until age four-five months; and then, I hope it would be something more wholesome than sweet desserts. That seems to be a trigger for another obesity pattern," she said.

Paralleling current trends for natural birth methods, there is also a trend among mothers to favor breast-feeding over formula feeding, Dr. Neumann noted.

Figures show that in 1974, 18 percent of all babies born were breast-fed, compared to 10 percent in 1974. This year's figures are nearly double, she said.

The majority of babies, however, are fed iron-fortified formula. But iron, once thought to be a necessary dietary supplement for hemoglobin development, is now prescribed with greater reservation.

When given to babies on diets high in unsaturated fats, iron can cause hemoglobin levels to fall off more drastically than if the supplement weren't provided.

A complicating factor is that premature infants often have difficulty digesting fats, especially vitamin E. This coupled with the fact that iron appears to destroy some of the baby's reserve of vitamin E, can result in vitamin E deficiency anemia.

Harvest Home Contest Cooks

Recipes are now being received for the Daily Pilot Harvest Home Cooking Contest, with Taste-Off scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 2 at the Irvine Harvest Festival, Culver Drive and New Barranca Roads in Irvine.

Recipes must be received no later than Friday for competition in the following categories: Whole Grain Baked Goods, Fruit Pies, Vegetarian Main Dishes, Diet Desserts and Space-Age Snacks.

In keeping with the theme of this year's Harvest Festival, "New Horizons," categories have been drawn to include your most economical, energy-saving and future-minded concoctions.

Recipes must be submitted in typewritten form on an 8½ x 11-inch piece of paper, and must include a list of ingredients and procedures; your name, address and phone number.

A panel of judges will select contestants for the Oct. 2 Taste-Off on the basis of recipe originality, ease in preparation, and use of natural and economical ingredients.

Finalists will be announced in the Food Section next week and will be asked to bring their entries to the Daily Pilot food booth at the festival grounds by 2 p.m. the day of judging.

Winners will receive prizes including a crock pot slow-cooker, dinner for two, and gift certificates for clothes, records and a personalized birthday cake, all donated by the Temptdress shop, the Stew Kettle, the Music Market and Priscilla's Bakery, in the Mesa Verde Shopping Center.

Winning recipes will appear in the Food Section Oct. 6.

Clemente Cable Viewers Unplugged

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TM Communications Company cut cable television service to 7,000 San Clemente subscribers today.

The termination of service came within an hour of a post midnight City Council refusal to suspend a provision of its contract with TM. The provision allows the city to confiscate all the equipment within the city 30 days after a television franchise expires if not replaced with a new contract.

TM's latest position in a continuing feud with the city is that it must discontinue service and dismantle equipment to protect against possible future city seizure of that equipment.

Last week the council approved a new contract with the cable company but gave a $1.25 a month rate hike and provisions for future automatic fee increases. Councilmen Thomas O'Keefe and Tony DiGiovanni were opposed to the contract.

Mayor B. Patrick Lane voted for the rate hike but said he agreed with the council minority voting for the contract only to stave off cost of a lawsuit.

But Tuesday Lane joined with O'Keefe and DiGiovanni to enforce the confiscation provision.

The new franchise won't be effective until Oct. 21. TM's old contract ran out Sunday.

Councilman Bill Walker, who hammered out the new compromise franchise provisions, bitterly charged that Lane, O'Keefe and DiGiovanni conspired all along to take over the cable operation while convincing TM executives that the council was negotiating in good faith.

Walker said the council majority attempted to pull a "hoax" on TM.

City hall switchboards and TM offices in San Clemente were flooded this morning with hundreds of calls from confused and irate cable subscribers.

Richard Young, TM vice president, issued a statement this morning that company officials were "shocked and dismayed" by the council action.

He stated that in addition to the confiscation possibility "the final straw" was a council decision to also maintain a provision of its contract that would allow the city to collect 100 percent of TM revenue accrued from Sept. 19, when the franchise expired, to Oct. 21, the date the new franchise is effective.

"The council's action," Young said, "forces TM to take out its plant by Oct. 19 unless the City

Playboy Story 'Won't Hurt Campaign'

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said today he is not dismayed by reaction to his statements that he has "looked on a lot of women with lust" and "committed adultery in my heart." He said he doesn't think it has hurt his campaign.

Carter responded to questions from reporters as he got into his car after completing an early morning inspection of his peanut processing operation.

Asked whether he was dismayed by some of the reaction to his statements, made to an interviewer from Playboy magazine, the candidate replied:

"No. I don't want to have a press conference this morning."

Q. "Do you feel you were misunderstood?"

A. "I haven't been bothered by it."

Q. "Why did you grant the interview?"

A. "The same reason I grant you one . . ."

Q. "Are you sorry you granted it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you regret it?"

A. "No."

Q. "Do you think it's been misunderstood?"

A. "I don't think it's hurt in any way."

Q. "You don't think it's hurt at all?"

A. "I don't believe so."

But Carter said he did not want to conduct a news conference on

San Juan Bank Hit Silently

A San Juan Capistrano bank was robbed of an estimated $360 Tuesday by a silent bandit who shoved a note across the counter but displayed no weapon, Orange County Sheriff's officers said.

Deputies, who are working with FBI agents in investigating the robbery at the Bank of America, 31872 Camino Capistrano, said the robber fled on foot after being handed the cash.

Bank teller Julie Ann Bunker, 23, of Dana Point, told officers the robber passed a note across the counter which made it clear that he wanted the contents of her cash drawer. She immediately complied with the demand.

Officers refused today to divulge the contents of the note. They said it offered a clue to the identity of the bandit.

Investigators described the man as being about 28 or 29 years of age, about six foot three and with brown hair. They said he was wearing dark blue pants, a Navy blue windbreaker jacket and a white tennis cap.

HB Driver Stomped At School

Two assailants stomped and severely beat a driver as he was delivering milk to a Huntington Beach elementary school early today.

Police said that William Marshall, 23, of Santa Ana, suffered fractured ribs and other serious injuries when he arrived at Meadowview School at 5702 Clark Drive in the northern part of the city.

Sgt. David Miller said Marshall was jumped on the school grounds and was badly mauled with both fists and feet. He was taken to Huntington Intercommunity Hospital with "quite serious" injuries.

A hospital official said today that Marshall was resting comfortably and that tests were scheduled later in the day.

Miller said that Marshall, a driver for Cal-Va Dairy in Santa Ana, was attacked at about 2:15 a.m.

Miller said police believe that the two assailants took the key to the school's multi-purpose room when it fell out of Marshall's pocket during the beating.

The investigator said he didn't know if the two men were casing the school for a burglary and were surprised by Marshall or if they were lying in wait for him to obtain the key.

Officers said there was no indication that the school had been broken into or that anything had been stolen.

Police are waiting for Marshall to recover from the shock of his beating before questioning him further to gain leads on the two attackers.

Marshall told officers that he thought he recognized the two men who were seen hanging around another school site.

Saddleback College Tightening Policy

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Tight new attendance regulations have forced thousands of Saddleback College District students to seek special permits to attend classes at two neighboring college district campuses.

All but a small percentage of the permit requests have been denied, according to Robert Bosanko, Saddleback's dean of admissions and records.

The rigid policy requires permits for any student wishing to study in the Coast or Rancho Santiago Community College Districts. Until this fall, students taking six or fewer units could cross the lines without permission.

But on the other hand, the North Orange County Community College district's facilities are open to Saddleback students without permit requirements of any kind.

Why the big difference?

"Seat taxes, that's what," said Bosanko. Saddleback's two neighbor districts levy a $300 annual fee against the Mission Viejo district for each equivalent full time student attending their colleges. The north county district charges nothing.

In recent years, the seat taxes have cost Saddleback district taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

The tough new policy, which also includes stricter guidelines for determining when a permit request is valid, was adopted by Saddleback trustees last spring both to cut down on seat tax costs and to stem the tide of local students rushing to other districts.

During their deliberations on the new rules, trustees said the

Plaza Display Reported Gone

Miniature circus wagons and stage coaches that were often placed on display at the Saddleback Valley Plaza on El Toro Road may never be seen there again, Orange County sheriff's officers said.

Deputies said the authentic reproductions in miniature of Old West wagons were hauled away from the shopping center by burglars who must have used a truck to carry off their loot.

Shopping center owner Alexander Haagen values the wagons and coaches at $8,500. He said the circus wagon alone was valued at $2,500.

Race Driver Loses Tools to Burglar

Professional race driver Dennis James Martin has reported the theft of car tools valued at $1,000 from his Mission Viejo home.

Orange County sheriff's officers said Martin, 29, of 24831 Leto Circle, told them the tools were taken from his garage while he was away from his home. He said the garage door was left unlocked.

District Set to Fill New Lake in Viejo

Santa Margarita Water District directors Monday approved an agreement for the filling of Mission Viejo Company's 125-acre man-made lake.

It is expected to take about seven months to fill the lake, now a large graded hole near the ends of Marguerite and Alicia Parkways.

William Knitz, the district's general manager, said water facilities and the lake bottom are expected to be completed by mid-October.

He said a low flow of water probably will begin pouring into the lake in the end of October. Water will be pumped at a faster rate during winter months when the district's demand usually is less, he said.

Imported domestic water will be used for the lake. Knitz explained that since the lake will be used for body contact sports, it requires "clean water."

He said the lake owners will be billed at the district's standard irrigation rate on a monthly basis. He estimated the lake will take about a half million dollars worth of water.

Since the weather and ground absorption are uncertain, Knitz said the district doesn't know exactly how much water will be needed to fill the lake.

According to the agreement, the district will maintain the lake.

The Mission Viejo Company will dedicate pumping facilities it is building to the water district.

$51 Million Splits Values

Irvine Company Worth Pondered in Court

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Lawyers for the California Attorney General's office and the Irvine Company compared valuations of the company Tuesday in Orange County Superior Court and came up with a difference of $51 million.

Irvine Company executive Lansing Eberling testified during a hearing into Irvine heiress Joan Irvine Smith's challenge of a proposed sale to the Mobil Oil Company that the net worth of the organization is about $329 million.

Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Tapper disagreed. He quoted from a liquidation ahalysis prepared by his office earlier this year and pegged the net value of Irvine holdings at $380 million.

Tapper's figure would put the per share value of Irvine stock at $44.75. Eberling's valuation brings the per share value down to $39.16.

Both figures are considerably higher than the $24 per share figure represented by the Mobil offer to pay $200 million for Irvine Company shares held by the James Irvine Foundation.

Those shares represent a 54.5 percent controlling interest in the Irvine Company. Under state law, the foundation must divest itself of those shares.

Judge James F. Judge is being asked in what is expected to be a six-week hearing to make permanent a temporary injunction against a Mobil deal already accepted by foundation trustees.

Mrs. Smith contends that the $200 million figure is too low and that the sale would be unfair to her and other minority stockholders.

Tapper and Eberling agreed, however, that it would take several years to bring about liquidation of the giant company's many assets even if such a sale were to be accepted by the Irvine board.

Young said the company has already dissembled head-in equipment, electronics gear that processes television signals that TM antennas bring in.

He said unless the council calls a special meeting within the next few days to rescind the confiscation provisions, the entire TM operation will be cleared from the city.

Councilman Walker said that would mean subscribers would be without adequate television reception for six months or more.

Young said TM attorneys are preparing legal action against the council. "I'm certain it will end up in court," he said.

Heart Attack Victim Lost Off HB Coast

A 37-year-old Hermosa Beach man was lost off the coast of Huntington Beach Tuesday evening after apparently suffering a heart attack, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

The man was being towed in the water on an automobile fender used as a raft behind a 22-foot sailboat, officials said.

Richard R. Russillo dropped from sight when he let go of the fender. A companion in the water with him said the victim had foam and mucous coming from his mouth.

Russillo's limp body was lost about one half mile northwest of Oil Island Eva near Huntington Beach, officials said.

The incident occurred at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Coast Guard and Orange County Harbor Patrol rescue units have discontinued a search for the body.

Riley to Outline South County Plan

MAC on Record

Water Reclamation Opinions Sought

Comments from the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) will be included in a final environmental impact report on a waste water reclamation system planned for the community.

Santa Margarita Water District directors Monday asked that public comments be included in the report before they meet on Oct. 18. By then, said William Knitz, the district's general manager, MAC members will have studied and made comments on the plans.

After a presentation on the plans last week, MAC members refused to endorse the system until after their planning committee reviewed the proposal.

District directors are expected to accept the report and move ahead on the first phase of the system which eventually may include several sewage treatment plants, pumping stations and a 115-acre reservoir on upper Oso Creek.

Construction of an effluent treatment plant adjacent to Oso Creek, near the dead end of La Paz Road, is expected to begin in October. Knitz said the facility should be completed and providing irrigation water to parks and school grounds by May.

Although designed to handle a million gallons of reclaimed water a day, Knitz said the project will begin with about 200,000 gallons and build up to its capacity.

Alien Jailing Policy Wins Council Nod

The Santa Ana City Council has approved a police department policy of detaining illegal aliens suspected of criminal activity for federal immigration authorities.

The controversial policy, revised nine times, calls for the jailing of aliens suspected of committing a crime. It does not include aliens reporting crimes to police, or people stopped for minor traffic violations.

The policy also instructs police who encounter situations in which they believe an illegal alien is being exploited, to report such cases to health, welfare, employment or building authorities.

The police department's former policy was no enforcement of immigration laws.

desire on the part of local students to go elsewhere might have been valid because of scanty offerings at the Mission Viejo school. But now, they said, such reasoning is no longer valid.

That stance has caused some headaches at the neighbor districts.

Dr. Robert Moore, dean of instruction at Orange Coast College, said scores of Saddleback students have been turned away this year—many more than in the past because of the eliminated "six unit rule."

"This has certainly inconvenienced a lot of people from Saddleback and we have to be stuck in the role of the bad guy telling them they can't come here without a permit — and those are apparently quite hard to come by," Moore said.

Bosanko conceded that permits are indeed harder to get this year than ever before.

No consideration — except in cases of extreme hardship — is given to transportation difficulties, location of campus versus residence or place of employment, conflict with personal schedule, adult education or recreation programs.

In short, being denied a permit at Saddleback is almost as much a certainty as death and taxes, according to college officials.

Bosanko said he is sure there would be no more problems if Coast and Rancho Santiago waive their seat tax requirements.

Until then, he said, his office is geared to handle the thousands more permit requests coming in this year than in the past. Bosanko said there is no way of knowing for certain how many requests have been made and denied until final tallies are made in the weeks ahead.

TV Stolen in Toro

A color television set valued by the victims at $458 has been stolen from an El Toro store by a burglar who walked through the unlocked rear door. Orange County sheriff's officers said the theft was reported by Kennedy Patterson, operator of Laguna Hills TV, 23819B El Toro Road. Patterson said he was busy in another part of the store when the set was taken.

Status Quo DST Reigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speed-up procedures to pass a bill extending Daylight Saving Time have been rejected by the House, virtually assuring that the measure will not be enacted this year.

The bill would have set the beginning date for DST as the third Sunday of March and the ending date as the third Sunday of October, beginning in 1977. Under existing law, the country is on DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

With few members on the floor, the House voted 11 to 10 Tuesday for suspending the rules and passing the bill. But the suspension procedure requires two-thirds.

Audubon Chief Talk Slated

Orange County pioneer Paul Colburn, organizer of Laguna Hills Leisure World's large Audubon Society, will be the guest speaker at Sunday's annual meeting of the Saddleback Historical Society.

The session will take place at 3 p.m. in the New Deal Soup Kitchen at El Toro's Saddleback Valley Plaza Shopping Center.

Colburn's talk, entitled "That's the Way It Was," will touch on his personal recollections of the county's growth over the past 50 years and on the native birds of the area. The public is invited.

Talk Planned For Parents

Family therapist Ann Price will present a forum tonight at Mission Community Hospital in Mission Viejo to help parents develop better relationships with their children.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the conference room at the hospital, 27802 Puerta Real.

Following a film on parent-child relationships, "Run Wild, Run Free," Dr. Price will lead a discussion. Additional information is available by calling Linda Parkin at Mission Community Hospital, 495-4400 or 831-2300.

Color TV Taken

Burglars whose method of entry is unknown took a color television set valued at $480 from an El Toro home while the victim was out at work. Orange County sheriff's officers said the theft was reported by trucker Edson Scott, 50, of 23402 Devonshire Drive. The set was taken from his den.

CARTER. . .

In the interview, made public this week, Carter said he would not attempt to impose his own religious beliefs on others.

"Christ set some almost impossible standards for us," he said, adding that to sin is human and "God forgives me for it."

In one excerpt, Carter declared:

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do — and I have done it — and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust, but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock.

"Christ says don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who's loyal to his wife ought not to be condescending or proud because of the relative degree of sinfulness."

The candidate's statements brought mixed reactions.

— His wife, Rosalynn, said in New York they caused her no anxiety about his fidelity.

"I trust him completely. I've never had to worry about that at all," she said.

— Dr. Harry N. Hollis Jr., a denominational authority on social ethics, said in Nashville that Carter's statements on morality accurately reflect Southern Baptist teachings.

But Hollis, a staff mber of the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Conference, said he "wouldn't have used the same language."

— Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, Tex., declared: "I am highly offended by this. I think he's mixed up in his moral values, and I think the entire church membership will feel the same way."

— Dr. Jerry Vines, pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., and a former president of the pastors' conference of the Southern Baptist Convention, said: "This appears to be another instance of Carter accommodating himself to his audience.

Alioto, 59, Plans To Wed Woman, 31

BOSTON (AP) — Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday.

"My private life is private," the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan, 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a "desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy."

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

Alioto was elected mayor of San Francisco in 1968 and was mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate during his first term. He served until 1975.

He was acquitted of fee splitting in a state of Washington case. The case ended with a ruling supporting a $2.3 million legal fee received before becoming mayor.
