Fog Hides Coast; 3 Boats Aground

Two people were injured Sunday when a dense afternoon fog caused three power boats to run aground along the Orange Coast.

Bishop Moses suffered leg injuries when the 21-foot cabin cruiser Centurion, with seven people aboard, went on the rocks off Crescent Bay Point in Laguna Beach. Moses was apparently injured while attempting to hold the boat off the rocks. He was reported in guarded condition today at UCI Medical Center after undergoing surgery.

An unidentified woman was treated for minor shock after the 42-foot cabin cruiser Lucky Duck crashed onto San Juan Rock shortly after clearing the Dana Point Marina for Newport Beach. Harbor Department officials said the craft owned by A.E. Aiken eventually sank in 40 feet of water.

A 21-foot motorboat with four people aboard went aground off Eighth Street Sunset Beach. No injuries were reported.

A Harbor department spokesman said the afternoon fog caught many yachtsmen by surprise and Orange County Harbor Department rescue boats from Dana Point and Newport Harbor were kept busy locating small craft in distress.

Also assisting in the rescue operations was the Coast Guard cutter Point Divide.

Despite the numerous calls from people expressing concern over yachtsmen who had not returned on schedule, harbor department officials said all boatsmen were accounted for.

Butz: 'I Paid Price For Joke'

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Former agriculture secretary Earl Butz told an Orange County audience today he "paid a tremendous personal price" for what he said were indiscreet remarks about blacks.

But he told the crowd in Anaheim that he did not intend to discuss the matter further, noting "that chapter is closed."

Butz was speaking to about 1,500 delegates to the National Association of Concessionaires and National Association of Theater Owners at the Disneyland Hotel.

Butz, dressed conservatively in a gray pin-striped suit, blue striped shirt and maroon tie, said of the racial slur which forced his cabinet resignation a week ago, "I have apologized as sincerely as I know how to do it."

In a press conference afterward, he also said he would not discuss the matter further adding the remarks were taken out of context from a private conversation.

He said he intends to do all he can to help congressional candidates, President Ford's reelection effort as well as the drafting of new farm legislation.

Partly referring to notes, Butz discussed free enterprise in the U.S. and what he said was the finest food supplying and marketing system in the world.

Butz, who served as agriculture secretary since 1971, said U.S. consumers spent 17 percent of their pay for food today compared with 20 percent in Canada and 25 to 40 percent in other nations of the world.

In addition, he said U.S. citizens (See BUTZ, Page A2)

Costa Mesa police said today they have found several links between an attempted assault on a Laguna Hills woman a week ago, and the murder of a Costa Mesa housewife last month.

A description of her assailant by the Laguna Hills woman is very similar to the one provided by a witness in the murder of Pam Davis, who was shot five times at close range in her Costa Mesa home Sept. 10.

"At this time, we think both suspects may be the same man," said Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton.

Pam Davis received a phone call at her home, which was for sale, at about noon Sept. 10. The caller said he was interested in looking at the home, which had been advertised for sale in several newspapers.

The man, posing as a potential buyer, showed up at the home at 2867 Velasco Lane a short time later, wearing a black raincoat, black trousers and a hat pulled down over his face.

Mrs. Davis apparently allowed the man to enter her home, and a short time later, a young woman in the home heard shots and a scream.

The witness entered a hall in the home and saw the suspect standing at the entrance to the master bedroom. She ran out the back of the home and sought help.

Two Trains Collide In Northern Mexico

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — A passenger train carrying tourists, including some Americans, collided with a freight train in the rugged Sierra Madre Mountains of northern Mexico, killing at least 17 persons and injuring 45, police reported today.

They said at least five of the injured were Americans, and there were unofficial reports that one of the dead was from New York City.

Some of the passengers were travel agents, most from Mexico City, making the trip as part of a tourism promotion, police said.

The American Society of Travel Agents had been meeting in Guadalajara, though it was not known whether any of the group was aboard the train.

One observation car on the "Railroad to the Pacific" tumbled into a 45-foot-deep canyon when the passenger train smashed into the freight Sunday afternoon near the village of Pitoreal about 200 miles west of Chihuahua City and 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said.

They said rescue workers were still trying to pry apart the car's wreckage to reach passengers trapped inside. The rescue squads could not use cutting torches on the wreckage because spilled diesel fuel might ignite, police said.

The freight train was eastbound from San Rafael en route to Chihuahua City, and the passenger train was westbound on the same track, police said.

Crash Injures County Pilot

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — An Anaheim man who crashed in mountainous terrain while piloting a small aircraft over eastern Kern County remained in critical condition today at a hospital here, authorities reported.

The pilot was identified as Peter Pilling, 20. He crashed late Sunday afternoon in mountains near Lake Isabella. He was discovered by a U.S. Forest Service employee and taken to Mercy Hospital here.

Authorities don't know what caused the crash. Further details were unavailable.

Ford Opinion Chided by Pole

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The top ranking Polish-American in the Ford administration says the President's statement that the Soviets don't dominate eastern Europe was an inadvertent "overstatement."

"The President recognizes, and he must recognize, that Poland is in a sphere of influence by the Soviets. He certainly knows the reality of East and West," said Mitchell Kobelinski.

Turkey Trot Paycheck Wins Top Trophy

CUERO, Tex. (AP) — "Gentlemen, start your turkeys," was all Ruby Begonia IV and Paycheck needed to hear. With that, they began a frenzied foot and air race to decide the winner of this year's Traveling Turkey Trophy of Tumultuous Triumph.

When the feathers settled at the end of the 150-yard contest Sunday, Ruby had the fastest time in the final leg of the Great Gobbler Gallop. But Paycheck won the six-foot trophy.

Ruby, the Texas entry, failed to overcome a time loss she suffered against Paycheck in the first leg of the race last month at Worthington, Minn.

The gallop was the highlight of the annual Cuero Turkeyfest. The town of 8,000 bills itself as the Turkey Capital of the World, a title also claimed by Worthington.

After Bad Week

More Aggressive Ford Effort Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's campaign manager says he expects to see Ford "get somewhat more aggressive" after a week acknowledged as "less than outstanding."

As Ford flew here from Dallas Sunday to end a week-long Western tour, campaign chairman James A. Baker III told five reporters aboard Air Force One:

"In the five-week campaign, we think we've had four outstanding weeks. We recognize this last week has been less than outstanding. We think this is something to be expected ... that there would be peaks and valleys."

Baker said, "We would acknowledge that we hit a bump last week," with the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz under fire and Ford's repeated efforts to clarify remarks he made in Wednesday night's televised debate with Jimmy Carter about the status of Poland and other Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

"I firmly believe," Baker added, "we have regained whatever momentum we've lost."

He said Ford recouped during weekend visits to Oklahoma, where he criticized Carter's defense posture, and Texas, where the President grabbed for the coat-tails of the late former President Lyndon Johnson.

The Ford camp felt the candidate's chances in Texas have been enhanced by Carter's criticism of Johnson in a Playboy magazine interview for which the Democratic nominee has apologized.

When a reporter suggested to Baker that Ford seemed to be taking a more aggressive posture following Wednesday's debate, the campaign chief replied:

"I would expect to see the President get somewhat more aggressive in his campaign appearances."

However, Baker contended that Ford would not be aggressive "to the point Gov. Carter has reached when he called Ford more secretive than Richard Nixon or a worse president than Richard Nixon. It seems to me those are rather desperate-type tactics."

Carter to Revise Campaign Manual

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter has ordered his staff to revise a manual that suggests such tactics as stalling traffic to create crowds and using fictitious names in telephone surveys.

The manual was written for the Carter campaign's advance men, who precede the Democratic presidential candidate to campaign stops and take charge of planning and promotion.

Some of it "is not in line with the way I want to see this campaign run," Carter was quoted by his press secretary, Jody Powell.

Powell said Carter had never seen the manual. The campaign staff's review of it, he added, was hurried and inadequate.

Some details in the manual were "never intended to be taken seriously," said its author, chief Carter advance man Jim King.

The manual is a guide to drawing and pleasing crowds. "These techniques will enable you to draw a substantial crowd through organization in a relatively invisible manner which will lead the press to infer that the candidate drew the crowd," it said.

One method mentioned is stalling cars to create a traffic jam. Another is to "invent a fictitious name like 'Resort Marketing Inc.'" to use in telephone surveys to determine whether people intend to be home on the date of a campaign appearance.

The manual is very specific about the physical arrangements for a Carter appearance. It touts Carter's hair as his best feature, and it tells how to arrange television lighting to create a radiant circle around Carter's head to highlight it.

Whoever appears on stage with Carter, the handbook says, "should be Middle American in appearance and balanced by race and sex."

"Don't leave enthusiasm to chance ... Encourage pandemonium by scattering hardcore enthusiasts through the crowd ... Organize 'spontaneous' cheering ... Instruct the claqueurs to clap, chant, and cheer when the candidate arrives," the manual advises.

The handbook tells Carter's press aides to dribble out information to reporters to insure maximum publicity for the candidate. "Never tell people more than they need to know to perform their function," it adds. "By restricting knowledge you will be better able to control what happens."

Carter, the manual states, "dislikes being hustled around by excitable people. He needs 15 to 50 minutes of private time to prepare for every major speech. There must be a decent private holding room with bathroom near where he will speak."

Cops Arrest Sex Seekers In San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A crackdown on female prostitutes is aimed at discouraging them by taking away their customers.

Police arrested 40 men ranging in age from 19 to 67 last weekend for investigation of soliciting sex. Five hundred males have been arrested since May.

Among the latest 40, who later made bail, were 19 servicemen.

A police spokesman said none of the women working on downtown streets was arrested. Three women police decoys joined in.

At one time, he said, "guys were driving up to the curbs to stop and talk to girls. The traffic was backing up bumper to bumper on some streets."

"It got so bad out there that we had to concentrate on taking the business away from them," the spokesman said.

2 Dead, 11 Hurt In Riot

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Two black inmates were stabbed to death and 11 others were injured when a group of white prisoners attacked the blacks in the dining room of Nevada State Prison, officials said.

One white inmate was hurt. The attack occurred Sunday, one day after officers began a partial release of inmates who were locked in their cells after racial fights broke out in the maximum security prison Sept. 27. About 415 inmates were locked in their cells after those fights, which left 36 inmates injured.

Authorities said no arrests were made pending a probe into the slayings.

Howard Pyle, head prison counselor and duty officer Sunday, said tear gas was lobbed into the cafeteria to force about 125 inmates into the main prison yard after the fighting broke out.

Pyle said whites and blacks were forced into opposite ends of the main prison yard as they came out of the dining room, but he didn't have exact numbers.

"This is apparently the aftermath of the incident two weeks ago," he said. "But different inmates were involved, because the main people involved two weeks ago are still in lockup."

"Two weeks ago, blacks attacked whites. This looks like retaliation."

In last week's assault attempt, a 26-year-old Laguna Hills housewife told Sheriff's deputies a man knocked on her front door and identified himself as a realtor.

When he entered the home, the tall suspect said he was not really a realtor. "What I really want is you," he told the woman.

The victim, who was edging toward a rear door, asked the man what his name was and he said, "Earl."

Sheriff's deputies said the woman then ran to a neighbor's home.

Costa Mesa's Lt. Lorton said today the Laguna Hills woman provided a description of the assailant before viewing an earlier drawing provided by the witness in the Pam Davis murder.

"The two drawings are very similar," he noted.

Police are circulating the two drawings in hopes the suspect might be identified.

The man is described as being between 27 and 35 years old, with short black hair parted on the left. He wears square clear glasses with thick dark frames.

Anyone who can provide clues as to the man's identity is asked to contact Costa Mesa police or the Orange County Sheriff's Office.

SAN JOSE (AP) — A $300,000 federal grant has been awarded San Jose as half the costs of acquisition of another 33.5 acres for Lake Cunningham Park.

The area in San Jose's east side will be developed for water sports, hiking, biking, and nature study, centered on a 90-acre man-made lake and a 5.2 acre swimming lagoon. With the new acreage, the park will total 125.9 acres.

SMILING, HANDCUFFED PALESTINIAN TAKEN FROM SYRIAN EMBASSY IN ROME
Terrorists Surrender After Failing to Take Ambassador Hostage

Terrorists Free Five Three Palestinians Shoot Way Into Embassy

ROME (AP) — Three Palestinians protesting Syrian intervention in Lebanon shot their way into the Syrian Embassy in Rome today but surrendered to police after holding five hostages for two hours.

Police said one hostage, embassy counselor Hunen Hatem, was seriously wounded in the leg. The guerrillas allowed him to be taken to a hospital where he underwent a 1½-hour operation.

A Syrian official said the Palestinians surrendered after they realized they had failed to take the ambassador hostage. Ambassador Farouk al Sharaa had left the embassy earlier to attend a ceremony.

About five hours after they stormed the Syrian Embassy, the Palestinians were jailed and charged with attempted murder, taking hostages, violent action against a private building and its occupants, and import, possession and use of explosives and war weapons.

A Palestinian, identified as the 25-year-old leader of the group, was quoted by Italian radio as saying they were protesting what they called Syria's betrayal of the Palestinian cause. Syrian forces allied with Lebanese

Christians have been fighting leftists Moslems and Palestinians in the Lebanese civil war.

The attack came two weeks after Syrian authorities hanged in public in Damascus three Palestinian terrorists who had raided a hotel in an attack in which four hostages were killed.

Youssef Miro, an embassy official who was among today's hostages, said, "The three came in, leveled their guns at us and said they wanted to revenge the massacre in Lebanon." He said there were about 10 people in the building, but five fled by jumping from windows.

Taken hostage, he said, were three men and two women.

In his radio interview, the Palestinian leader said the guerrillas were members of the Black June Movement, which is named for the month when Syria sent an estimated 13,000 troops and several hundred tanks into Lebanon.

The guerrilla leader said the embassy attack was designed to "draw the attention of the world to the betrayal of the Syrian government and the plot of Arab states against the Palestinian people."

"We did not want to harm anyone," he said. "This action marks a new stage in the struggle of the Palestinian people."

Restaurants

Hit in Trio Of Burglaries

Three Newport Beach restaurants and a delicatessen were hit by burglars over the weekend, police reported today.

According to reports, in two of the burglaries, thieves made off with cash and goods valued at more than $1,170. In the other two, apparently nothing was taken, investigators said.

Thomas Arconti, owner of the Chicken Delight at 500 W. Coast Highway, told police he lost a meat slicer and $28 in rolled coins when burglars pried open the rear door during the hours of darkness Friday night and Saturday morning.

He told police he had secured the door by nailing it shut, but the thieves apparently were able to pry the door open anyway.

The second loss was reported Saturday morning by employees of the Smashed Potato, 101 Palm St., who said an overnight burglary cost the restaurant $156 in coins and cigarettes.

Police said a second Peninsula restaurant, the Tale of the Whale at the Balboa Pavilion, was broken into but apparently nothing was taken by the thieves who were frightened off by the burglary alarm.

Employees of Gallo's Italian Deli, 3900 E. Coast Highway, also reported an attempted break in from Friday night but police said that burglary was apparently foiled by the door lock that the intruders could not break.

enjoy higher quality food than those in other nations and packaging and marketing provides some "built-in maid service."

For example, he said, 60 percent of the potatoes consumed in the U.S. today are already peeled and partially processed, work formerly done in the kitchen. And he said similar conveniences are packaged into other foods.

"This is one of the marvelous success stories in the American story."

Because Americans spend relatively little for food, they have more money for automobiles, television sets and other conveniences.

"If you listen to some of the political palaver that is going around you get the impression that America is falling apart at the seams," Butz continued. "You get the idea that you had better crawl back in your shells and sit on what you have."

But he said it has been free enterprise and an ability by government to let free enterprise work that led the country to where it is today.

Youth's Flight Thwarts Killer's Aim

PHILIPPI, W. Va. (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Jeff Moats' decision to run for his life, instead of taking a bullet lying down, paid off handsomely.

"I guessed that I was just as well off dying on the run as laying there," Moats said Sunday after escaping from a man who told him he planned to shoot him.

"I got in a kind of half-crouch like I was going to do what he said and then I started to run. I could see him out of the corner of my eye taking aim and I took a roll and hit the dirt. I heard the bullet go over my head and then I heard a shot."

Minutes after Moats informed state police of what had happened, officers arrested Lewis Harris, 24, of Brownston on charges of abduction and armed robbery. He was later accused of murdering another service station attendant.

Moats, a junior at Philip-Barbour High School, said he was working at a service station near Philippi when a man entered the station on Saturday, whipped out a pistol and ordered him to empty the cash register.

The gunman then ordered him in to his vehicle, and the two drove to Clarksburg.

"We talked all the way over there," Moats recalled. "We talked about his wife and his family. He made me feel a little more at ease. He was real nice on the way."

After driving for a period of time, the gunman pulled the car off the road behind some brush and ordered him out, Moats said.

"He told me to get out of the car and walk behind it and lay down. I said, 'You're not going to shoot me, are you?' He said, 'Yes, I am.'"

After he escaped, Moats said, he hid in the woods while the gunman called to him. "He kept blowing the horn and yelling to try to talk me into coming back like I was an idiot or something," Moats said.

"I was scared but I think looking back on it all makes me more scared than what actually happened did."

Moats said he may even play hooky from school today.

"I . . . think I'll just take tomorrow off."

Pop Sports Hailed At Escape Country

By WILLIAM SCHREIDER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

ON MY WAY BACK from a press sneak peek at the new skateboard complex at Escape Country, I finally figured out what it is about that so-called "amusement ranch" that makes my skin crawl and palms sweat.

It's that same feeling of impending doom I got while watching those two science fiction movies about a computerized, robot-staffed amusement island called Delos where "Nothing can go wrong . . . go wrong . . . go wrong."

Escape Country harbors and even encourages all those crazy sports that I wouldn't try for all the tea in China. I call them the "pop" sports. They're like pop wines and pop music — in one day and out the next as new realms of thrill gratification are explored.

Into the category of "pop" sports, I lump such things as hang gliding, sky diving, dirt motorcycling, hot air ballooning, surfing, skateboarding, drag racing, rock climbing and hot dog skiing. Hula Hooping could be added here but its thrill aspect is questionable.

THERE'S A FAR GREATER "macho factor" in pop sports than in the more traditional plebian athletic pastimes such as swimming and football. That's because the key aspect of a pop sport is the constant specter of instant death or horrible injury.

But the most intriguing thing about pop sports is that all the participants act, sound and even look alike. Maybe that's because many of them participate in multiple pop sports to decrease their probability of survival.

They all seem to have an intuitive grasp of the jargon in each pop sport and can easily recite the names of the top skier, skater, glider, biker or whatever. Because each pop sport has about a dozen "individual events," there seem to be hundreds of "world champion" pop sports figures.

AND JUST AS ALL pop sports enthusiasts must look as though they are cast from the same mold, so must there be pop sports groupies and hangers-on.

There are the armchair thrill seekers who prefer their dose of excitement vicariously while they sit in the open doorway of a custom van sipping beer and watching "the action."

Dutch End Visit To War Liberators

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — The faces were different, but the "Screaming Eagle" insignia was the same worn by the paratroopers who liberated Mathew Van Luyt's hometown in Holland in World War II.

They were the Screaming Eagles of the 101st Airborne Division stationed at Ft. Campbell, the same division that 32 years earlier had helped liberate Van Luyt's home of Eindhoven after four years of Nazi occupation.

Van Luyt, along with 51 other members of the Society of Dutch Airborne Friends (SDAF) and 13 Belgians, ended Sunday an 11-day reunion described as the "official continuation of the friendship that exists since the 1944 dropping."

SDAF was organized in 1966 and given legal recognition by the Dutch government to commemorate the liberation and honor the liberators.

Van Luyt was 11 years old at the time of the liberation. When Germany overran Holland in 1940, Van Luyt, now 43, recalled, "My father said, 'Well this is not going to last longer than a year.' But we waited quite a long time for it."

Van Luyt, now an electronics manufacturer, said that when the liberation finally came, in the form of a joint American-British airborne attack, he was "astounded" by the large numbers of men and material from the United States.

"I remember so well the planes coming over with their gliders behind them," he said, "and just a couple of hours later we had Americans in the streets . . . paratroopers. It was so wonderful."

While at Ft. Campbell, the SDAF visitors have gotten special treatment. They were given a demonstration of an air assault complete with helicopters, a sky-diving demonstration and were guests at a dinner dance attended by Maj. General John A. Wickham, division and post commander.

One of the highlights of this and the two previous DAC (Dutch Are Coming) trips, Van Luyt said, is the opportunity to stay in private homes. "This is what I think makes the friendships," he said.

Death Claims Big Band Singer

NEW YORK (AP) — Connie Boswell, a noted singer from the Big Band era remembered for such songs as "Stormy Weather" and "Whispers in the Dark," died today at Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Miss Boswell, 68, had been confined to a wheelchair since she contracted polio at 3. She had undergone surgery for cancer last February at Mt. Sinai.

Born in New Orleans, she first came to the public's attention as one of the three Boswell Sisters. In 1936, her sisters retired and Connie forged on alone. It was about that time she married Harry Leedy, the group's manager.

Miss Boswell also made a name for herself in movies as "Kiss the Boys Good Bye," "The Trans-Atlantic Merry-Go-Round," and "Artists and Models," in which she sang the Academy Award-winning song, "Whispers in the Dark."

She recorded for Decca records and had a series of duet hits with Bing Crosby. Some of the best sellers were "Yes Indeed," "Basin Street Blues" and "Alexander's Rag Time Band."

With her recording of the operatic song "Martha," done in swing style, she started a trend of swing bands and singers adapting classical music for their own arrangements.

She performed from a wheeled stool that could be moved about the stage. Her floor-length gowns were specially designed to hide the stool.

"I'm not trying to hide the fact onstage," she said of the long gowns. "But I don't want the fact that I can't walk to stand between me and the audience."

Miss Boswell, who lived in New York City, was widowed in January 1975 and stopped performing about that time. Funeral arrangements were pending.

Jane Calm For Debut On 'Today'

NEW YORK (AP) — Jane Pauley, who made her much ballyhooed debut as cohost on NBC television's "Today" show this morning, says she never got the expected jangling of nerves before the broadcast.

"I was very calm this morning and I actually slept last night," the 25-year-old Indiana native said as she relaxed after her inaugural appearance on the long-running morning program.

She said it was much easier than her first time, referring to a guest appearance on the show last July.

"And I think I really got over the hump during the one-week stint I spent in September."

Miss Pauley replaced Barbara Walters, who left NBC for a million dollar contract to coanchor the ABC Evening News with Harry Reasoner.

She was selected after a nationwide search, leaving a job at WMAQ-TV, the NBC network affiliate in Chicago where she had been the first woman to coanchor a regular weeknight news program in that city.

Tom Brokaw, the other recent addition to the "Today" show staff which also includes Gene Shalit, said he thought his new colleague was "calm, cool, collected and had something to say."

Coast Woman Sues Over 'Witch' Quip

A woman who claims that KNBC anchor man Paul Moyer has referred to her during his evening programs as "the witch of San Juan Capistrano" sued the television personality Friday for $200,000 in damages.

Mrs. F.M. Snowden of San Juan Capistrano claims in her Orange County Superior Court lawsuit that the comments allegedly made by Moyer over Channel 4 stemmed from a letter to him in which she criticized his grammar and diction.

Mrs. Snowden states that her letter was stressed as being personal and confidential. She accuses Moyer of breaching that trust and of quoting her letter on the air in an attempt to humiliate and discredit her.

She claims that Moyer referred to her as a witch while discussing upcoming Halloween festivities on Oct. 6, 1975.

Mishap Kills School Chief

FREMONT (AP) — James M. Nunes, former superintendent of Alviso School District, has been killed in an accident at his ranch near here.

Authorities said Nunes, 68, who lived alone on the six-acre ranch, died Saturday when he was pinned beneath a tractor.

He headed the Alviso School District for 17 years until it merged with the Fremont Unified School District in 1964.

Small Town Humming Elko Braces for Summa's $142 Million Trial

ELKO, Nev. (AP) — When private jets start landing at Elko's airport, and they stay around, residents know something is going on.

And what is going on in this small eastern Nevada city is a civil trial alleging $142 million in damages against one of the most powerful companies in the United States, if not the world.

Since Elko is not what you'd call a $142 million town, it all seems a bit paradoxical. In this city, in an almost ancient courthouse, are 11 big-city attorneys, an angry newspaper publisher and two corporate jets.

The defendant is Summa Corp., used to be called the Hughes Tool Company and was owned and controlled by the late billionaire recluse Howard Hughes.

His one-time friend, Las Vegas publisher Hank Greenspun, is plaintiff in the case. Thus far he has provided the key testimony in a lawsuit that began in 1972.

Four years, and millions of words in briefs and testimony later, it is rolling throughout the state. Elko Judge Joseph McDaniel has presided and he now is serving as judge and jury. Both parties agreed to move the matter out of Las Vegas.

The case was in recess over the long weekend, but was set to resume Tuesday.

Everything about Howard Hughes in recent years was surrounded with mystery. Shadows of enigma pervade this case.

The attorneys carefully guard their mountains of files and lug them home for study each night. There are few spectators and all listen every time the name of Hughes comes up.

Sam Lionel, whose Las Vegas law firm is the largest in the state, represents Summa while Ralph Denton, also of Las Vegas, heads the Greenspun team of lawyers.

Greenspun and Lionel have clashed on several occasions, especially while the Las Vegas Sun publisher was being cross-examined.

Lionel, relentlessly slugging at Greenspun's testimony over several years, has attempted to discredit it.

At one time Greenspun asked Lionel to step away from him. Another time he refused to answer a question. Obviously haggard at one point during his second day before Lionel, Greenspun voiced his exhaustion and said:

"I'm tired . . . if there was a union of witnesses I would join it right now."

The case is simple in essence, complex in litigation.

Chronologically, in 1967, Greenspun borrowed $4 million from Hughes to rebuild his fire-ravaged Sun. He secured the note with some land he owned adjacent to the Paradise Country Club near Las Vegas. At the time he also owned the club.

In 1969 Greenspun and Hughes negotiated for the sale of the country club and the land. The deal fell through when Hughes wanted out. But Greenspun refused to let him back out of the course sale.

At the same time, Greenspun contends, the terms of the 1967 loan were rewritten, allowing him more time to pay, and more importantly, he maintains, changing the collateral on the note from the land to stock in the Sun.

Summa contends the change of collateral was tied to the abortive land deal.

The trust deed on the land was note filed by Summa until 1971, suddenly and without notice, Greenspun said.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPT.—Nobody is really fretting today about what the weather has done. It's done everything.

What you have to worry about now is what it could possibly do next?

So far we've already experienced early October weather that included heat, fog, smog and soaring ocean water temperatures.

As a matter of fact, just last Saturday was proclaimed the hottest October day in Orange County since 1909 when at 2 p.m., central county thermometers soared to 104 degrees.

DO YOU KNOW how long ago 1909 was? I will remind you, William Howard Taft was President of the United States.

Taft got to be president the year before by defeating a man named William Jennings Bryan, known as the Great Commoner, had made his third run at the presidency.

He is the only man ever to run for president unsuccessfully three times. He was clearly stubborn about the thing.

Byran first won the nomination in 1896 when he challenged the Eastern Establishment's hard line on the gold standard. He favored a two-metal standard. Thus he made his famous speech to the Democratic Convention, urging that this nation not be crucified upon "a cross of gold."

PLEASE DO NOT anticipate this kind of rousing oratory in our current presidential campaign. We have already suffered the agonies of dozing off during two nationally televised debates by our current standard bearers. There is a third one coming up.

There isn't much hope that Debate Three will develop any fist-thumping declarations. The best we can hope for is two or three coherent sentences strung together.

The blessing is, you suppose, that William Jennings Bryan isn't around to witness these presentations. He would be left baffled and amazed, wondering what this country is coming to.

BUT I DIGRESS. We were supposed to be talking about the weather, which is more interesting than the presidential debates by a long shot. Point is that it's been 67 years since it got this hot in our region in October.

The weather has been all over the place. So it went to 104 Saturday and then by noon Sunday it was up to 90 at our inland beaches and thus sent streams of beachgoers our way.

And what happened? They got here along the coastline to be greeted by vagrant fogs that drifted in and out of the shoreline area.

NOW YOU HAVE to wonder what will happen next. The weather people are predicting it'll get cooler. That's safe. It can't get much hotter.

For the real forecast, however, I have turned to my trusty Old Farmer's Almanac. It predicted the heat wave. The almanac now forecast we shall have rain by this coming weekend. Quite heavy, in fact.

Just remember where you read it first.

Thai Military Ruler Clamps Down on Left

BANGKOK — Thailand's five-day-old military regime has accused a general of plotting with other army officers against the ruling military council headed by Adm. Sangad Chalard, senior military sources reported.

The sources said the accused general, Chalard Hiranyasiri, 53, was "under security surveillance" and was ordered to appear before the 24-man military council. They said the council had also drawn up a list of army generals and lower-ranking officers suspected of plotting with Chalard.

THE SOURCES SAID the council ordered telephone taps and surveillance for those under suspicion and some might be dismissed from their posts.

Though Chalard is known to have some support among the officer corps and has close connection with the rightist Thai Nation party, he did not appear to be a serious threat to the military group that overthrew the elected civilian government last Wednesday. The ruling council is made up of every key military commander in the country and controls all command posts.

CHALARD WAS assistant commander of the army, but earlier this year he was transferred to a staff job in the defense ministry. The sources said he was "not in tune" with Sangad.

Special units continued to man security checkpoints in Bangkok, searching for leftist "subversives," and patrolled the streets in jeeps mounted with machine guns. But life in the city was bustling once again, and schools reopened after being closed almost a week.

Flight Aborted

But Balloonist Sets Mark

PONTA DELGADA, Azores (AP) — American balloonist Ed Yost, rescued nearly 600 miles short of his goal, says he feels "perfect" and "in good spirits because I broke lots of records."

Yost was forced down in the Atlantic Ocean on Sunday east of the Azores, cutting short his attempt to become the first man to cross the ocean in a balloon. But his headquarters near Washington said that before Yost ditched, he traveled longer — nearly 107 hours — and farther — 2,500 miles — than any other balloonist.

The West German freighter Elisabeth Bolten rescued Yost and was taking him to Gibraltar. The ship was expected to arrive there Tuesday morning.

IN SHORT

Ford Settlement Doubts Arise

DETROIT (AP) — The tentative settlement in the 27-day-old strike at Ford Motor Co. appears in jeopardy as early vote results show the proposal rejected by skilled tradesmen at the union's largest single local and by members of a large local in Ohio.

However, some locals voted to ratify the contract, and the remainder of Ford's 170,000 United Auto Workers employees were to have voted today and Tuesday on the proposed three-year contract.

Second Everest Climb Dropped

EVEREST BASE CAMP, Nepal (AP) — Members of the American Bicentennial Everest Expedition are headed back to base camp after 100-mile-per-hour winds and numbing cold forced cancellation of an attempt to put a second team on top of the world's tallest mountain.

Dr. Chris Chandler and Robert Cormack made it to the 29,028-foot summit Friday afternoon, but expedition leader Phil Trimble decided Sunday to call off an assault by the three-man second team. "We have decided to abandon the mountain," Trimble said from Camp 2, at 21,000 feet. "It's very windy and cold and the weather seems to be getting worse. A second summit attempt is not worth the risks it would entail."

Pilot 'Repeats' A-bomb Raid

HARLINGEN (AP) — Watched by 40,000 persons who paid up to $5 each, the pilot who dropped the A-bomb on Hiroshima, Japan, reenacted his historic mission from a B29 bomber — complete with imitation mushroom cloud.

Paul Tibbets, a retired Air Force general, flew a B29 Superfortress over this Lower Rio Grande city once Saturday and twice Sunday to help raise money for a group that preserves World War II aircraft. The real bomb he dropped from the "Enola Gay" on Aug. 6, 1945, left nearly 130,000 persons dead, missing or injured.

Belfast Rage

Mob Attacks Peace Leaders

BELFAST (AP) — An angry mob of Roman Catholics punched and kicked the two leaders of the Women's Peace Movement and destroyed their cars while the women took refuge in a Belfast church.

Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan tried to address a meeting of the Turf Lodge Tenants Association. The meeting was called on Sunday to protest the death earlier in the day of a 13-year-old boy hit in the head by a British soldier's plastic bullet.

THE HOSTILE AUDIENCE of about 600 women chased the women out of the meeting, and they ran to a nearby Catholic church.

"The mob was right behind us," a woman with the group said. "I saw them pulling Miss Corrigan's hair and trying to rip the clothes off her back. Mrs. Williams was kicked in the stomach."

Mrs. Williams said later that it was the women who were against us when we arrived who advised us to leave. They were shocked by the animal hatred of most of the crowd.

"I AM NOT BITTER about what happened because I can understand why these men took the gun," Mrs. Williams said. "I do not want any army on our streets. I have seen the British army commit atrocities and these people in Turf Lodge have been under terrible pressure in the last three weeks from the British army."

She said they went to the protest meeting "because we have said we condemn all sorts of violence, including violence by the British army."

LEADERS OF THE peace movement called for a rally in downtown Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second largest city, to protest a surge of violence there.

"WE CAME OUT OF the back door of the hall and headed towards a church about 100 yards away. Outside the hall there was a group of about 50 women and children. Ralph (her husband) and I walked hand-in-hand straight towards the church, and I was kicked, punched and my hair was pulled. Just as we got to the entrance of the church, I felt a blow on the back of my head and I passed out." Williams said his wife passed out in the church aisle but recovered 10 minutes later and the group went into the vestry.

"WE WERE IN THERE for about two hours and it was while we were there that our cars were wrecked by the crowd," he said. "We could hear muffled shouts of the crowd outside and the sound of a few bricks landing here and there."

The group left by the back door of the church after enough men had gathered to protect them.

The peace movement was organized seven weeks ago by Mrs. Williams, 32, and Miss Corrigan, 23, to protest the Catholic-Protestant warfare in which at least 1,634 persons have died in seven years. Both the women are Catholics. But their movement is not popular in the Turf Lodge area because residents believe the women are backed by the British government, a charge they deny.

China Near Naming Successor

TOKYO (AP) — China's leaders are believed to be waiting for a meeting of the Communist party Central Committee before officially naming Premier Hua Kuo-feng to succeed Mao Tse-tung as party chairman. But another report from Peking appears to indicate that Hua is Mao's successor.

Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, reported Sunday that the Chinese army pledged obedience to the Central Committee "headed by Hua Kuo-feng."

HUA PRESUMABLY has been acting head of the committee since Mao's death on Sept. 9 because he was first vice chairman of the party. But the Hsinhua report repeatedly used the phrase "headed by Hua," and this appeared to confirm his elevation.

The army's support is considered crucial in the power struggle that apparently has gone on in China since Premier Chou En-lai died last Jan. 8.

U.S. Summary

A sprawling high pressure area still centered over West Virginia early today, while clear weather prevailed across the South.

The forecast today called for partly cloudy to occasionally cloudy skies over a wide area — from the north Atlantic states and much of the northern Rockies and upper Great Plains, and into the upper Great Lakes region.

California

Southern California is going to cool down, thanks to an approaching low pressure trough and an onshore flow of ocean-cooled air, says the National Weather Service.

After a sweltering weekend in which temperatures soared to as high as 104 at Van Nuys and into the high 90s elsewhere in Southern California, weather service forecasters predicted a sharp drop into the mid and upper 70s in Los Angeles and coastal and intermediate valleys. Lows will dip into the mid and upper 50s in most coastal and valley areas.

Coastal Weather

Low clouds and dense fog in the early morning hours otherwise fair with hazy sunshine in the afternoon. Light variable winds night and morning hours. Highs Tuesday in the mid 70s.

'But We Need Them'

Official Slams
CYA 'Stupidity'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Allen Breed, outgoing director of the California Youth Authority, says correctional institutions "are concrete monuments to our stupidity in dealing with the problems of mankind."

But "that does not mean we don't need them," Breed said in an interview published Sunday in the Sacramento Bee.

Breed, 55, leaves later this month for a one-year U.S. Justice Department fellowship in Washington, D.C. He said he is reluctant to leave.

"I'D REALLY LIKE TO be director under Jerry Brown, but I have strong feelings about changing the bureaucrats every eight or 10 years. We need to throw the rascals out every so often," he said.

He said his successor, Pearl West, former vice chairwoman of the Youth Authority parole board, will be "a breath of fresh air."

Breed said it costs $12,000 a year to keep a juvenile in an institution. "How much more money should be put into correctional institutions is highly questionable."

"IF WE REALLY WANT to do something about the problems of crime, we should work on strengthening the family," he said.

Breed acknowledged the tougher public attitude toward crime: "I see increasingly harsher sanctions being imposed. Basically, the American people are a punitive lot, and they have no understanding of what time behind bars means."

"The general public really doesn't give a damn about due process for inmates. They generally feel they deserve what they're getting and if they'll just stop hitting people over the head and stealing their property, they can have their freedom. It's not that simple."

Primitive Earth
Too Hot for Life

PASADENA (AP) — Temperatures which may have reached 160 degrees may be one reason there were few complex organisms on earth three billion years ago, a Caltech scientist says.

Dr. Samuel Epstein, a professor of geochemistry, said in the current issue of Geochimica et Cosmochimica Acta, a scientific journal, that the earth "may simply have been too hot and too humid for any sophisticated life to have evolved."

Bacteria and blue-green algae may have been able to withstand the heat and humidity of the primitive earth, he said. Both are believed to have been the first life to have evolved on earth and fossilized bacteria have been dated back 3.3 billion years.

Epstein's research, which was done several years ago but reported only now, involved using several isotopes found in a flint-like rock. Through analysis, the temperature at which the rock was formed can be determined.

Welcome Aboard

By ALMON LOCKABEY

Fire extinguishers on boats are usually thought of as safety devices. In fact, Coast Guard approved fire extinguishers are required by law to be aboard most vessels.

But these same fire extinguishers could become the most unsafe gear items aboard your boat — in fact a potential bomb.

The Coast Guard warns that fire extinguishers can become lethal if they are not properly maintained. A recent case involving the explosion of a CO-2 fire extinguisher aboard a recreational boat prompted the warning from the Coast Guard office of Boating Safety. Here's what happened:

A 47-FOOT MOTOR yacht that was secured in its slip was blasted by an extinguisher that was stored in the cockpit of the boat. The vessel suffered extensive damage to the port side of the hull and minor damage on the starboard side.

Apparently, when the extinguisher exploded it crashed off the starboard side and embedded itself in the port side, knocking several planks of the wooden hull loose in its flight. Damage was estimated at $1,500. Fortunately, no one was aboard so there were no injuries.

The CO-2 extinguisher that caused all the damage was 30 years old but appeared to the owner to be in good condition. Close inspection after the accident revealed that corrosion under the label was the source of the canister failure. The Coast Guard believes that routine maintenance could have prevented the explosion.

ALTHOUGH NO FEDERAL regulations require maintenance of fire extinguishers aboard recreational craft, California Administrative Code, Title 19, Subchapter 3, does require it.

All fire extinguishers must be serviced annually by a certified service man. This servicing may require as little as a visual inspection of all the component parts of the device.

It may be as complicated as a hydrostatic test to determine if the canister is still strong enough to withstand the internal pressure to which it is normally subjected. All service must be performed by a mechanic certified by the California state fire marshal.

EVEN IF THE LAW DID not require it, an annual inspection should be made to make sure the fire extinguisher will do the job for which it was intended rather than becoming a further hazard, the Coast Guard warns.

Lehmans, Lasers
Sailed Off Coast

Fourteen Lehman-12 sailors turned out at Newport Harbor Yacht Club Saturday and Sunday for the W.D. Schock Trophy series, and 14 Laser sailors were on the line for the local fleet championship.

The winner in the Lehman-12s was Tim Hogan, followed by Bill Symes and Ted Munroe. All three skippers are from NHYC.

Kevin Kirk of Balboa Yacht Club is the new Laser fleet champion. Runner-up was Steve Arrigo, NHYC, and third was Mike Arrigo, NHYC.

Foulup Fog
Cut Back Races

A mixup on the setting of marks and dense fog reduced the Ocean Racing Fleet championship series from a projected three races to one.

The overall winner in the only race sailed Saturday was Cadenza, a Peterson-designed Two Ton sloop built, owned and skippered by Carl Eichenlaub of San Diego Yacht Club.

THE REGATTA schedule called for two races on Saturday and one on Sunday. One of Saturday's races was thrown out as the result of a protest on the location of the windward mark.

The race committee then scheduled two races on Sunday, but a dense fog set in just before the start of the first race and never dissipated. The fleet milled around the starting line for a couple of hours before the race was called by the committee for safety reasons.

mittee for safety reasons.

THE SERIES was hosted by Long Beach Yacht Club and was sanctioned by the Ocean Racing Fleet of Southern California.

Results based on one race:
CLASS A — Dog Patch, Don Arrington, NHYC; 2, Quester, Bill Povey, NHYC; 3, Raider, Jim Linderman, BYC.
CLASS B — 1, Cadenza; 2, Vendett, Hart Isaacs, CYC; 3, Spellbound, E. Felt, LBYC.
CLASS C — 1, Bananas, Baehr/Hart, PMYC; 2, 7th Heaven, Lando Parri, ABYC; 3, Preamble, Saint, Terry Cicero, LBYC.

Dana Race Taken
By Silent Woman

Silent Woman, an Islander-36 owned and sailed by Mark Meade, Capistrano Bay Yacht Club, was a Class A winner in Dana Point Yacht Club's Dorcas Britt Regatta, named for the woman club member on the race committee who does most of the spade work for the committee.

The event was originally billed as the Fall Regatta and featured Performance Handicap Racing Fleet yachts racing on outside courses and small boats racing inside the harbor. Results:

PHRF A — 1, Silent Woman; 2, Contagious (Ranger-33) Kenny Kuhn, Cap BYC.
PHRF B — 1, Avoca (Cal-28) Tim Fuller, DPYC; 2, Sunshine (Catalina-27) Ron Malanovsky, DPYC; 3, Windfriend (Cal-28) Tim Kahn, Cap BYC.
PHRF C — 1, Horizon Job (Clipper Marine-38) Craig Fletcher, DPYC; 2, Obsession (Cal-25) Bob Gates, Cap BYC; 3, Little Spirit (Santana-22) Chuck Ayres, Cap BYC.
CRUISING CLASS — 1, Konania (Victory-21) Phil Duffield, unattached; 2, Funny Feeling (Catalina-27) Pete Meade, Cap BYC; 3, Company's Best (Cal-25) George Cunningham, DPYC.
SABOT — 1, Julie Timon, Cap BYC.
LIDO-14 — 1, Phil Adams, DPYC; 2, Zain Simonsen, DPYC; 3, Marty Telkame, Cap BYC.
LASER — 1, Tim Fuller, DPYC; 2, Craig Fletcher, NHYC.

Flam Cal-40 Champ

Dense fog Sunday failed to daunt eleven Cal-40 skippers and crews who turned out for the class championship at Los Angeles Yacht Club. Two races were sailed Saturday and one on Sunday.

The new champion is Barney Flam of Long Beach Yacht Club, owner and skipper of Flam-buoyant. Runner-up was Persephone, skippered by Jack Woodhull, California Yacht Club, and third was Firebird, sailed by Bob Grant, Santa Barbara Yacht Club.

Agony of Victory

Joe Rarick of New Baltimore, Mich., strains as he slowly edges toward victory over Ron Bennett of Sonoma in wrist wrestling championships being held in Petaluma, Calif. Rarick won, advancing to final rounds and capturing the lightweight title as well.

Ford Death Plot
An Empty Threat

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An intense weekend investigation into what appeared to be a plot to kill President Ford turned out to be "much ado about nothing," the Secret Service says.

Authorities thought they had stumbled across a plot to assassinate Ford when blueprints of a building near the route the President used during his visit to Dallas over the weekend were found in an abandoned Hollywood apartment.

The Secret Service spent the weekend investigating the background of a man who abandoned the apartment and left behind a mysterious device and the blueprints to the World Trade Mart in Dallas.

"As it turns out, there was probably legitimate reason for him to have the plans," Special Agent Robert E. Powis said Sunday, "he's an architect."

State Drops Laetrile Charge

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Criminal charges of dispensing illegal Laetrile as a cancer cure have been dropped against 64-year-old Roberto Clemente.

Laetrile, an extract of apricot kernels, is called an ineffective quack remedy by public health authorities.

Clemente was found innocent last February of practicing medicine without a license. But the jury deadlocked 11-1 on the Laetrile charge. A unanimous verdict is needed for conviction in criminal cases.

The dismissal by Sacramento Superior Court, reported Sunday, followed the request of Deputy Dist. Atty. Dennis Warren.

CSEA Faces Cuts in Staff

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 1977 budget adopted by the California State Employees Association will require a 20 percent cut in staff.

The action Sunday at the CSEA's annual convention means 40 positions will have to be dropped, effective Jan. 1, 1977, from a staff of just over 200.

Officials said even with the reduction in staff, the 1977 budget of $8.1 million won't be met unless the membership, now 86,000, is increased by 2,000 during the year.

Looking Elsewhere

Perhaps the most reasonable step taken recently toward solving Orange County's airport problem came last week when county supervisors agreed to discuss seeking a regional airport site with neighboring government agencies.

For too many years, the airport dilemma has languished in false hopes that a suitable site is available in Orange County.

In the interim, more than $500,000 has been spent for a series of studies that accomplished little more than suggest sites that were quickly ruled out on closer examination.

And one politician after another has held out such lackluster and improbable solutions as joint use of military air bases that are nearly as impacted by urban sprawl as Orange County Airport.

While such false hopes have bought time for politicians on the hot seat, the list of practical alternatives has dwindled to a point where a glance at a map demonstrates there is no suitable site for a major airport in Orange County.

Rather than continue futilely thrashing about, it is better that Orange County cast its lot with others to seek a solution to a problem that has obviously outgrown county boundaries.

All Those Freebies . . .

The minor flurry in the Ford-Carter campaign about the acceptance of vacations, plane rides, golf games, etc., doesn't shed much new light on the American political process. And barring some startling new and major disclosure, probably has had little impact on the standing of either candidate.

The average American voter probably is pretty well convinced that every elected public official — Presidents, members of Congress, governors, legislators, county supervisors and city councilmen — has at one time or another accepted hospitality from individuals, businesses, unions or citizens' special interest groups who wanted to be well-regarded by the officeholder.

The issue always turns on how much is too much. And that, in turn, often is measured by the extent to which "everybody's doing it."

Be that as it may, one thing seems clear. As a result of the discussions of the courtesies extended to Ford and Carter and previous disclosures of gifts, goodies and contributions to senators, Congressmen and all down the line, there should be a whole lot less of this kind of thing going on in the future.

And this is all to the good.

Too Much Surprise

Orange County Transit District (OCTD) Board Chairman Ralph Clark took fellow directors by surprise last week when he popped up with an eight-point program to give directors more say in guiding the district's financial affairs.

So it wasn't surprising that board members delayed action until they know more about the proposal.

Chances are the Clark plan has its good points — and certainly there's evidence the OCTD needs some clearer policies on how it handles its multi-million-dollar operation.

But Clark should have asked that his proposal be placed on the agenda and handled as a matter of regular business. Instead, he sprung it at the end of the meeting, ruffling feathers and producing a generally negative reaction.

OCTD directors have criticized staff members in the past for coming up with major proposals at the last minute. The same criticism applies when the board chairman tries the same thing.

"Remember, now — only the head."

Butz Goes, Hinshaw Stays

What Moral Judgment?

To the Editor:

The hypocrisy within our government has finally slapped the cheek of the law abiding citizens of this country, even after all the "Watergate" mess.

I cannot believe that our elected congressmen, who set the moral standards for our young men, could by majority rule vote down a resolution to permanently remove a convicted felon, Congressman Hinshaw, from the taxpayer's payroll, a man who doesn't have the decency to resign and flaunts his disregard for the law publicly.

THIS IS MORE blatantly exhibited in the current publicity surrounding Earl Butz' resignation for a racial slur which, by the way, was repeated by John Dean — an individual whose credibility most of us would question. Or did you forget?

Don't you think that it is time to stop and take a look at our priorities — when the time comes that an official is more severely reprimanded for an opinion given in a private conversation, whether right or wrong, than a public servant who steals from the public coffers? It's a sorry sign of the times to witness a lack of public furor in one instance and a demand for resignation in another — shouldn't these situations have been reversed?

How do you teach children

To the Editor:

The time for witches and goblins is swiftly approaching — but to ME, the real spook is the sugar our children will consume over a relatively short period of time.

I suppose fruit and homemade goodies are out too because of past incidents of certain people thinking it was "cool" to insert razor blades or drugs. So we carefully instruct our little ones not to eat ANYTHING until Mom or Dad have checked it out thoroughly.

Whatever happened to "The Good Old Days"? The worst thing I ever did was to change costumes and go through the neighborhood twice!

BACK TO SUGAR! We just spent $313 on our ten year old son's teeth. Then there's always the weight aspect — not to mention the under-weight sugar consumer who's super prone for a diabetic existence.

This letter won't contain any great alternatives, but I hope some of you imaginative readers will come up with some — for instance, possibly handing out the inexpensive little birthday favors.

If you don't believe that sugar can be a killer, please ask your doctor or get a book on the subject. By the way, I'm not a "food freak". My own withdrawal from being a Twinkie lover was unreal!

Helping Pets

To the Editor:

Kathy Clancy's well-researched article (Sept. 26) and your editorial (Sept. 30) prove once again the Daily Pilot's compassionate awareness of the pet population problem in Orange County. You have performed a service to pets, pet-owners and non-pet-owners alike by publishing this information.

Concerned readers will be interested to know that this month a volunteer program is being inaugurated at the Orange County Animal Shelter which will have as a main objective the education of the public to the need for responsible pet-ownership and pet population control.

went along, Ford's confirmation would have been obstructed.

ONE TOP DEMOCRAT, privy to the backstage discussions, told us that Albert could have become President merely by remaining neutral. It took Albert's active opposition, said our source, to thwart the scheme.

All our sources agree that the Speaker refused to hold up Ford's confirmation. During one discussion, he cited the second section of the 25th amendment to the Constitution. It states simply: "Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of the Vice President, the President shall nominate a Vice President who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress."

Albert declared firmly that he did not intend to tamper with the constitutional processes.

NIXON NOMINATED Ford for Vice President on Oct. 12, 1973. Ten days later the House Judiciary Committee began an inquiry into possible impeachment charges against Nixon. By late November, it appeared to leading Democrats that there were grounds to impeach him.

Our sources differ over who led the move to delay Ford's confirmation until Nixon was impeached. Some say it was House Majority leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill (D.-Mass.). But O'Neill told us he supported the Speaker.

Our sources recall that the matter finally was brought up at a secret caucus of House Democrats. House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino (D.-N.J.), warned that any delay in the confirmation process would

Also, we hope that the presence of volunteers at the shelter will encourage more people to turn in strays. Too often, fearing certain death for the pet at the pound, the finder will look the other way, leaving the stray to uncertain death by starvation or traffic accident. Or, if they do take it in, will keep it or give it away.

Meanwhile, the distraught owner daily searches the pound in vain. The re-uniting of lost pets with their owners will be a major concern of the volunteers.

Volunteers are needed, and people interested in learning more about the program should call 960-2900 or 644-8851.

Chowchilla Trial Tests Court Costs

EARL WATERS

Gov. Jerry Brown's veto of the bill to defray Madera County expenses in the trials of the Chowchilla school children kidnappers was everything its author, Assemblyman Ken Maddy, called it.

Maddy, a moderate Republican who often acts more like a Democrat, probably because he represents a district predominantly registered Democratic, termed the veto "flip-pant" and said the governor lacked sensitivity.

Maddy's wrath is two-fold. An attorney, he sees the possibility of a miscarriage of justice if the county is unable to finance the prosecution of the kidnapers, whose well-heeled families will be employing high powered counsel for prolonged legal maneuvering. He also sees the injustice of putting an undue tax burden upon the families of the victims.

For Madera is one of the state's smaller counties, just barely over 40,000 population. Its total revenues from property taxes are only about $5 million. Recent celebrated trials have been running as high as $1 million in costs to the taxpayers. And, as Maddy sees it, to require a small county to expend 20 percent of its total budget for all county government operations on a single trial is unrealistic.

THE GOVERNOR objected to the bill on the grounds it would apply to any situation similar to Madera County's plight. He indicated he might approve a measure limited to aiding that county alone. That may be good penny pinching but it plays havoc with the logic his Jesuit training should have provided. If the principle is sound in providing aid to Madera County, why shouldn't any other county confronted with a similar problem also be assisted?

The issue resurfaces the question of who should finance the superior courts. The fact is that such courts are state courts. That is recognized in part by the state in paying the lion's share of the salaries of the judges of those courts. And it would seem time for the state to assume full responsibility for the costs of those courts. In a mobile society, local property owners shouldn't be required to bear the burdens of trials which come into the courts by twists of fate and accident of county lines.

There is no more reason for the county taxpayers to pay for the superior courts than there is for them to finance the costs of those same cases when they go to the appellate and supreme courts.

FULL STATE FINANCING of superior courts would get the hearty support of those who contend property taxes should be levied only for property-related services such as police and fire protection.

The debate over court financing opens the scope of true property tax reform. Local government should not be required to finance those functions of government over which it has no control. Certainly it has no control over the courts, nor should it.

Of course, true property tax relief measures must contemplate that, if and when the state does assume the full burden of court expense, it does not free local tax revenues for other purposes but directly benefits the taxpayer by property tax reductions.

To date the fallacy of all property tax relief measures has been the increasing of subsidies to local government with no absolute limits on property taxes. Although former Gov. Ronald Reagan attempted to design his homeowner tax exemption subsidies that way by freezing tax rates, he left the back door wide open in overlooking the ability of local government to increase assessed valuations. The result has been that the state has greatly increased subsidies to local government and the property tax bills keep climbing anyway.

Carl Albert Almost Became President

WASHINGTON — Sources close to Speaker Carl Albert say a could have been President today if he had been willing to manipulate the congressional machinery.

In discussions so secret that staff members were excluded, some Democratic colleagues urged Albert in 1973 to hold up the confirmation of Gerald Ford to be Vice President.

His would have left the speaker next in line for the presidency.

THE DEMOCRATIC schemers predicted that the embattled Richard Nixon, then in the last lurches of his presidency, would be impeached. He was unworthy, they argued, to select his own successor.

JACK ANDERSON

All Albert had to do, they suggested, was to delay Ford's confirmation and wait for Nixon to be impeached. Then, under the Constitution, Albert could take over the White House and bring the Democrats to power.

This possibility stirred deep controversy at the secret strategy discussions. Some argued that it would amount to a Democratic coup and, therefore, would alienate the voters. Others contended that the Republicans had been so badly discredited by Watergate that a Democratic takeover would be best for the country.

Our sources disagree over how serious the Democrats were about blocking Nixon's vice presidential selection. Some say the idea never got beyond loose talk. Others insist that if Albert had

Q. "What's 'Stargazy Pie'?"

A. A baked fish dish. Out of the hot pie crust across the top are supposed to protrude the numerous heads of small sardines, each looking straight at you. No, thank you, my dear, I'll pick up a snack at the club.

Q. "What's the world's longest street?"

A. Some claim it's that 30-mile stretch of Figueroa between Colorado Boulevard in Pasadena and the Pacific Coast Highway of Los Angeles. But debate goes on.

Q. "Can you identify the first lady newspaper editor?"

A. Wouldn't that be Anne Franklin? She edited the Mercury in Newport, R.I., in 1762.

A recent survey in our prisons reveals a predominance there of convicts born under the sign of Aquarius with Capricorns next and then Tauruses. Fewest were those prisoners born under the sign of Aries.

KINDNESS

Item No. 684C in our Love and War man's file labeled "Kindness" is a quotation from actress Lauren Bacall: "Women are kinder to men than men are to women. If men knew the power of kindness, they'd have to beat the women off with sticks."

Not counting birds, what marine creature travel the seas with the wind for propulsion? Some jellyfish do. And so do right whales, using their tails for sails.

President George Washington's eggnog recipe called for whiskey, rum, brandy, sherry, spices and a bit of honey with the eggs.

It's a matter of record, too, that a certain Egyptian pharaoh many centuries ago was particularly fond of freshly picked cherries. But the nearest cherry orchards were 400 miles northeast at Baalbek, Syria. So at the outset of the picking season, a flock of 2,000 carrier pigeons was shipped there. Each bird was harnessed with a sack only large enough to hold one big cherry. All were loaded up with fruit and turned loose. Those cherries picked in the morning wound up on the pharaoh's table that night.

Did somebody say "race car" was a rare phrase inasmuch as it spells the same way both backwards and forwards? Not at all rare. Consider: Bird rib, bomb mob, party trap, live devil, seven eves, girl rig, daft fad, diary raid, elite tile and gate tag.

An 'Electronic Junta' Former Nixon Aide Blasts Media in County Talk

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Former Nixon aide Bruce Herschensohn says bias in the nation's news media led to the fall of Richard Nixon, the rise of communist influence in southeast Asia and the purge of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Speaking before a meeting of the World Affairs Council of Orange County, the 44-year-old author and former film producer said, "The nation is dangerously close to an electronic junta. There is a need for more self-discipline and restraint on the part of the people operating the news. The public should raise a furor."

Herschensohn called the recent Ford-Carter debates on domestic and foreign policy "a futile exercise." "It isn't the President who directs our foreign and domestic policy," he said, "it's the national media."

HERSCHENSOHN

ALTHOUGH THE FORMER deputy special assistant to Richard Nixon denied that there is a conspiracy in the media, he said that there is a definite strand of liberalism. Herschensohn said there is a need for more diverse views and less selectivity.

"What is and what isn't reported is the most important aspect of the news," he said. "What a newsman thinks is a wrong in society may not be."

Herschensohn cited the unemployment issue as an example. "How can that be the highest priority when 92 percent of the nation is employed?" he asked.

IN CONTRAST, HERSCHENSOHN said the media failed to give sufficient coverage to an Aug. 22 incident in which a pastor in East Berlin burned himself to death to protest Communism. "In my mind, anyone willing to kill themselves is worthy of media attention," he said.

Herschensohn referred to TV newscasters as "performers" whose artistic orientation causes them to use phrases that provoke negative images.

"Was the Saturday Night Massacre (Nixon's dismissal of special prosecutor Archibald Cox) really a massacre? Did Nixon really work in a small, secret hideaway?"

"The same thought process runs through all TV networks," he said. "When you have the responsibility of telling the nation the news you shouldn't editorialize."

HERSCHENSOHN SAID during his talk Thursday that the recent printing of classified documents on the CIA formed "a fuzzy line between scoop and treason." "Daniel Schorr went above the will of Congress and the American people," he said.

"Yet there is a different set of rules for reporters than the Nixon Administration," he said, commenting on the lack of investigative reporting into the Schorr case.

Herschensohn described the Watergate scandal as "unavoidable" but said that imbalance in reporting can be stopped. "There will always be some damn fool who's going to do something illegal," he said. "It's just human nature."

HE NOTED THE CASE of Utah Congressman Allan Howe, who was indicted on charges of soliciting prostitution, as another example of the media's "phony morality." Herschensohn drew applause when he said: "Since Watergate we judge people by mistakes while we judge ourselves by our highest accomplishments. You can't judge someone by one night's foolishness."

Herschensohn cited the three major TV networks, the Washington Post, the New York Times, Time magazine and Newsweek as the media outlets most responsible for the bias he believes plagues the news.

Two Joining UCI Chancellor's Club

Two members of the Orange County business and professional community have been selected as officers in the Chancellor's Club at UC Irvine.

Sanford L. Brickner, a Santa Ana attorney and certified public accountant, will serve as vice president and chairman of the program committee. Named as vice president and chairman of the membership committee is Patrick Cadigan, president of Electronic Engineering Company of California, Santa Ana.

Members of the Chancellor's Club program committee are Mrs. Ralph Gerard of Corona del Mar; John B. Lawson of Laguna Niguel, former executive vice

Patience Helps Used-car Buyer Needs Caution

By SYLVIA PORTER

An estimated one million used cars will be sold this year to people who previously have never purchased anything but a new car, reports the National Automobile Dealers Assn.

Buying a used auto can bring personal satisfaction and considerable savings to an experienced shopper. But to an amateur it can be a scenario of frustration, loss of money and dissatisfaction.

Yet, "many of the problems experienced by the buyer of a used car are of his own making," says the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

WITH COMMON SENSE, MOST of these problems can be avoided. It's not that tough to find a good, safe and dependable used car, even though an appalling number do contain uncorrected safety defects or may be mechanically unsound. Know-how and patience are necessary.

These weeks mark the start of the new car season, which traditionally means an upsurge in trade-ins on the used-car lots. Thus, some common sense guidelines:

— Under no circumstances shrug off the safety aspect, even though priorities also may be price, gas mileage, style, appearance, power and desired equipment.

— DO NOT ACCEPT WITHOUT question statements by a seller regarding a car's condition and performance. Rarely does a first-time used-car buyer inspect the auto for flaws, rarely does he check the details of the warranty, and rarely does this shopper even check whether the dealer is equipped to repair the car when it needs servicing. As a result, a used car buyer may be stuck with an unsafe car that requires costly repairs to eliminate defects that should have been corrected before.

— If possible, have the used car run through a diagnostic center before purchase. Or have it inspected by a competent mechanic.

— Don't buy at night, in the rain or under any conditions that could discourage you from examining the car, inside and out. Crawl under the car to inspect it. Rainy-day shoppers may not check for a rusted-out frame, worn steering or suspension parts, leaking brake fluid and curb-bruised tires. What's more, rain can make dents, patches and repainting shine like new. Investigate for rusted-out doors, flooring and tailgates.

— DON'T BUY THE CAR without giving it a test drive. Don't buy if you're refused a request to let your own mechanic check the car. Don't buy if any promises for mechanical adjustments are not written and signed in advance of purchase. Insist on a final test drive or inspection after all promised pre-purchase repairs.

— To protect against unrepaired safety defects ignored by prior owners, call the auto safety hotline of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (800) 424-9393 and give the make, model, year and vehicle identification number. This toll-free number is available to residents of every state except Hawaii and Alaska. The call can net a report on defect recalls for that make.

— Take into consideration that depreciation reduces value of U.S.-made cars about 50 percent during the first two years of its life.

— Write the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009, and request brochure 293D, "Common Sense in Buying a Used Car." It's free.

Prefer Long Use Car Partsmakers Fight Switching

By Patrick News Service

Automobiles are changing rapidly in design and in materials used to produce certain parts, largely due to governmental regulations.

Independent parts firms are reluctant to tool up to produce a replacement item unless they know the item will be used on cars for a minimum of eight to 10 years, according to the current issue of Motor magazine.

Auto companies have no way of forecasting how long they will stay with a particular part or design. They may be forced to switch by a change in regulation. The independent partsmakers say they cannot risk the substantial investments needed to put a new item in production if it may be scrapped in a few years.

The next time your car is on the lift at the service station for a lube, use the opportunity to do your own check of the entire length of the exhaust system. Look for holes, dents, broken brackets and loose connections. Be particularly alert for areas of rust and corrosion.

THESE ARE THE EARLIEST signs of a hole developing in the pipe. Use a screwdriver to probe lightly on all suspected spots. If the screwdriver should break through the pipe, it's no disaster. More likely you've avoided a serious problem.

Most mufflers are designed to slow down the exhaust gases. This means more rust and corrosion and more muffler replacement.

The "how-to" manuals seldom have very much to say about auto water pumps; they are very reliable. Among possible problems: The bearings can wear out and they can lose a seal, allowing the pump to leak. If your car has coolant loss and there aren't any leaks in the radiator or hoses examine the bottom of the water pump.

There is a small drain hole on the underside of most pumps. If the pump has a bad seal, traces of coolant can be seen on the front of the engine under the pump. Only an expert should attempt to fix a pump and chances are it is cheaper to replace than repair. Before you replace make sure the fan belt is set at the proper tension. If it isn't, it will cause the pump and fan to run more slowly than is needed for good cooling.

Landed Shrimp Eyed For Desert Project

YERINGTON, Nev. (AP) — Dr. Robert Taylor has a dream — a shrimp farm in the desert, more than 200 miles from the ocean.

The Sierra Pacific Power Company will pay $54,000 during the next 18 months to Taylor, of the University of Nevada School of Veterinary Medicine, for trying to raise shrimp commercially in the power station's 240 acres of cooling ponds at Fort Churchill.

Coke Studies Payments

ATLANTA (AP) — Coca Cola Company officials said they have reported to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) that the company made questionable foreign payments of about $300,000.

The Atlanta-based soft drink company said it has hired "outside counsel" to investigate the payments.

Film Actress Replaced

ROME (AP) — English actress Teresa Ann Savoy has been signed to replace Maria Schneider in the starring role in Gore Vidal's film, "Caligula," now shooting here.
Miss Schneider, the Frenchwoman who won fame in "Last Tango in Paris," walked out on the new film after arguments with the director Miss Savoy, 21, lives in Rome.

'Runaways' Run Loose

Q: It's about time. I hear that in England there's a new rock band, the Runaways, made up of young girls. And they play numbers that are as "wholesome as mom's apple pie." Is this true? — J. Wren, Pittsburgh.

A: If so, then mom's apple pie is full of worms. "They may be only 16," informs London writer Mike Cable, "but there is nothing sweet about the Runaways. Their music is raw and their stage act is wild. Their debut album, 'Runaways,' just released, is packed with references to drugs and sex." Guitarist Joan Jett boasts: "We do everything that's on the album."

'Glad You Asked That'

by Marilyn and Hy Gardner

Lead singer Cherie Currie — whose tongue-flicking, prancing and writhing is as suggestive as Mick Jagger at his most outrageous — walked out of school and insists that she is never going back. "I know how to read and write — there's nothing else they can teach me that I want to know," she says. "The rockin' rebels," Cable continues, "smoke, drink and spatter their conversations with four-letter words." Despite this, their parents are backing them all the way. The girls are looking forward to the day when they're 18 and able to tour the countryside. "We really wanna destroy England," warns Joan.

Q: What do psychologists have to say about the kind of violence on TV by which cops-n-robbers chase scenes encourage amateur drivers to be equally reckless? — Dolly Sotherd, San Mateo, Cal.

A: You've touched upon a tender topic. At least that's what some researchers at the University of Hawaii discovered. They claim that watchers of Kojak, Cannon, Baretta and similar shows, "react more aggressively and vindictively in everyday incidents than normal drivers." (Whoever they are!)

Q: How come Redd Foxx is enjoying his new found fame and fortune without doing what people like Sammy Davis, Harry Belafonte and other black performers do — stand up and fight for or at least finance such efforts for their people? — B.D.S., Austin, Tex.

A: If that's what you think, you have Redd wrong. Only recently he put up one-half million dollars to produce a biographical film about Martin Luther King. It's titled "Selma," based on King's famous march through Alabama which gave inspiration and faith to fellow blacks.

Q: I read that Bob Hope rents a warehouse to house the thousands of plaques, cups, scrolls, etc. he's received during his 55 years in show business. Can you ask him which awards he prizes most? — Mrs. Donald MacGregor, St. Paul, Minn.

A: "I can't say I don't like every award I have received," Bob answers, "but there are some that stand out in my mind. For instance, the Medal of Merit presented in behalf of the U.S. government by President Eisenhower. The Congressional Gold Medal presented by President Kennedy. The Sylvanus Thayer Medal from the Association of Graduates of West Point. And the Commander of the British Empire (C.B.E.)." Concludes Sir Robert: "Pretty good for a vaudeville ham, right?"

Tape Slightly Off Track

DEAR PAT: I saw a television commercial for a Sammy Davis 8-track tape, and decided to order it on June 21. My tape arrived July 24, but it was defective. I mailed the tape back to Audio Research Inc. in Downers Grove, Ill., on July 25, requesting replacement. So far, nothing has been received. I decided that I was just another victim of a P.O. Box TV ad, but I saw this same commercial again yesterday and decided to ask for your help.

B.F., Huntington Beach
This offer was not a ripoff. Slow fourth-class mail appears to be the culprit. An Audio Research spokesman said that your replacement tape was mailed to you Aug. 24. Since up to six weeks are usually required for this type of delivery, your tape probably has arrived by now. If not, inform the firm, and it will contact you personally. Your returned tape took more than a month to reach the Chicago area where the firm is located, so its replacement also should be expected to take just as long.

Population Pinned Down

DEAR PAT: Can you tell me the address of the Zero Population Growth organization? I'd also like to know if this is a nonprofit group.

G.R., Huntington Beach
Zero Population Growth, Inc., is located at 343 Second St., Los Angeles, CA 90022. This organization is a nonprofit corporation which aims to stop the population explosion through education and political activity.

Searching for Sunbeams

DEAR PAT: I am the new owner of a 1961 Sunbeam Alpine. It is a very old car and since they are no longer manufactured, it is quite difficult to know how to care for it. I've heard that there are Sunbeam clubs in the Los Angeles area, but I'm unable to locate one in this area. I would be grateful if you could help me in my search.

P.M., Costa Mesa
AYS struck out on finding a P.M., Costa Mesa Club for you in Orange County. If any of our readers can provide information about such a Club in Orange County or the Los Angeles area, you'll be contacted.

MERIT!

Letters confirm low tar MERIT as taste-science breakthrough.

"Thanks for considering the people's taste rather than the manufacturers' gimmicks.... Merit is a boon to smokers everywhere."

—Ms. Sharon Kessler York, Pennsylvania

"Thank you for making the biggest breakthrough in smoking in all the years I have smoked. The taste and pleasure I get from MERIT is unbelievable."

—Marc A. Nolan
Akron, Ohio

"And they said it couldn't be done. Some one has finally produced a fine cigarette with low tar, but excellent taste."

—Miss Dolores Taylor
Arlington, Virginia

"Your new Merit cigarettes are great. I have tried every low tar and nicotine brand on the market and have finally found one that truly tastes like a smoke should."

—Phil Hill
Kirkland, Washington

"I've finally found a menthol cigarette with good taste and low tar. I wouldn't switch now for anything."

—Beth Herbert
Boston, Massachusetts

"I switched to MERIT cigarettes. Great cigarette, and best switch I ever made."

—Ernest Balish
Miami Beach, Florida

"We tried every low tar cigarette on the market, to no avail.... Now we smoke MERIT. Great taste, great flavor!"

—Mrs. Patricia Dworniczak
Lansing, Illinois

"Merit is a winner! Thanks to 'Merit', my wife and I both are now smoking the first enjoyable low tar."

—James L. Brooks, Jr.
Prattville, Alabama

"Verdict: FINALLY, a low tar cigarette with taste."

—Bianca Doeschner
New York, New York

"Thanks for a low tar cigarette that tastes like a cigarette and not just like air!"

—Ms. Diane Smith
Franconia, Pennsylvania

"All that taste and low on tar too.... With MERIT around, I won't be reaching for anything else."

—Alan L. Vaughn
Columbia, Missouri

"I have tried all the low tar cigarettes and I believe if they had a horse race for low tar cigarettes, MERIT would win by several lengths!"

—Ms. Victoria M. Lowry
Provo, Utah

"These things have so much flavor, it's very difficult to believe the nicotine and tar ratings, even though they're printed right on the package."

—Thomas R. Zentner
Cayuga, New York

"MERIT is the GREATEST! A truly remarkable low tar cigarette that leaves me satisfied."

—Mrs. Richard H. Walther
Richmond, Virginia

"I couldn't believe how good they taste and how low they are in tar and nicotine."

—Ms. Roselyn Hall
Minneapolis, Minnesota

"By golly, it's true what people say about Merit. I tried them, I switched! They're satisfying, while I'm cutting down on tar."

—Mrs. Dawn Rauh
Burbank, California

"I was amazed! I can't believe that a low tar and nicotine cigarette can taste so good."

—J. Thomas Ellicott, Jr.
North Palm Beach, Florida

"Now that is one really good cigarette.... Thanks again—your new MERIT MENTHOLS are really out of sight. Beautiful!!!"

—Mrs. Gayle D. Rosengren
Minneapolis, Minnesota

"I would like to compliment you on a fine blend of tobacco. Thanks for a great cigarette."

—Joseph Commiskey
Elmira, New York

"I've tried all the low tar, low nicotine cigarettes and they all lacked taste and flavor. Then came 'MERIT', voila! The flavor is fine and I enjoy them."

—Mrs. Jeannette Trebilcock
Virginia Beach, Virginia

"Thank you Philip Morris, for living up to your word! MERIT is truly the best-tasting low tar and nicotine cigarette I've ever smoked."

—Terry Stewart
Springfield, Ohio

"MERIT will be my steady brand from now on. They are a truly satisfying smoke."

—Mrs. Joan C. Gottlieb
Pompton Plains, New Jersey

"When I spotted your ad about MERIT, I decided to try them. I was not disappointed. Your claims about MERIT are fully justified."

—Mr. Karlis Velts
Danbury, Connecticut

"Merit surely is everything you say it is, right down to the taste. I can have low tar and nicotine and pleasure too."

—Miss T. M. Fredericks
St. Louis, Missouri

"Man, was I surprised. This cigarette has taste. Your advertisements really mean what they say.... Thanks for doing the impossible."

—John E. Ehrenberg
Suitland, Maryland

"You've done it; made a good-tasting cigarette, low in tar and nicotine. I've switched to MERIT!"

—Mrs. Frederic Shaw
Jenkintown, Pennsylvania

"The taste is outstanding.... I, for one, thank you for MERIT cigarettes. They are really refreshing."

—Douglas B. DeMaris
Minneapolis, Minnesota

"The very first pack of MERIT Menthol did it. I was immediately impressed with the taste."

—Raymond T. Abdoo
Suffield, Ohio

"My husband and I tried switching to a brand lower in tar. Neither one of us could. Then we tried MERIT. We really like them and have been smoking them ever since."

—Mrs. Barry Brandon
Whitehall, Pennsylvania

Another 'First' Taken in Stride

ACTON (AP) — Teddie Boston is the perfect answer to the question of what kind of 49-year-old woman would hike the rugged 2,600-mile Pacific Crest trail by herself.

Wiry, weathered and grinning, Teddie looks like she would be out of place without her 60-pound backpack, hiking boots and cutoff shorts.

She swings the pack up easily and falls into an unhurried but long stride that bespeaks an adventurer much more used to country trails than city sidewalks.

But that isn't really so.

Teddie is a mother of four from Anaheim. And until May 1 when she set off from Canada at the beginning of the trail, Teddie worked 18 years for the local school district purchasing department — a job she lost recently when a local paper printed a story about her expedition.

The district had given Teddie five months of sick leave. Looking anything but ill, Teddie concluded she had fudged slightly — "Well, I told them I was out here to settle a case of jangled nerves."

While admitting they miss their mom, Teddie's college-aged children are excited about the trip — her husband too.

SURPRISE
At one point on her journey, Teddie's 20-year-old son, Craig, and 28 of his friends arranged a surprise greeting in a desolate desert town, just to cheer her on.

Pre-designated stops in towns along the route allow her to pick up food packages and mail — and to telephone family and friends.

Mostly a weekend and vacation hiker, she isn't really sure why she tackled the five-month project of making her way on foot along the Cascade and Sierra Nevada ranges from Canada to Mexico.

During the long trek, her answers to "Why?" ranged from, "Because it's there," to "I don't know," to "Because I want to, I guess."

But as she talked about the trip, only 400 miles from completion when she stopped briefly for mail in the northern Los Angeles County mountain town of Acton, more answers emerged.

"The Pacific Crest Trail needed my footprints. Everyone is pretty sure it's the first time a woman's done it alone," she said.

And although she told her employers she was seeking peace and solitude for her nerves, the hike has hardly been a case of immersing herself in nature as a hermit.

People abound on certain sections of the trail. In fact, Teddie met 134 persons on one seven-mile stretch — "the John Muir Freeway with no passing lane," she said, laughing. But another stretch of the trail saw three days go by with no other hikers in sight.

TEDDIE PRINTS

On one long haul, she played leap frog with two Yale students. The two said they were "following the Teddie prints," coining a phrase that Teddie may use as the title of a book about her wanderings.

"I'm going off to the hills to write my book when I'm done — I really have to write this up," she said. "Maybe in a cabin in the Siskiyou or Trinity."

She won't lack adventures, hardships and excitement to fill the book.

Early in the trip, she scratched the cornea of her eye on a dead tree limb.

"I've never known such pain," she said. "I hiked into Bend, Ore., and it was almost healed when I got there. It was probably a good 50 miles out of my way — and then I found out there's no treatment for a scratched cornea!"

DRAMA

Another time, she was crossing a snow bridge when it collapsed, dumping her into an ice-cold stream.

Slogging through waist-high water, encumbered by her pack, Teddie walked a quarter mile before the bank was low enough for her to scramble out.

But more wetness was in store for her in Southern California. She went to sleep on the edge of the Mojave desert, confident that rain would be her last worry. She hadn't counted on Tropical Storm Kathleen.

"By 2 a.m. I was soaked in my sleeping bag and by 4 a.m. I was sitting in my own private pool. It took me all afternoon in a laundromat to dry out."

At the other extreme, Teddie suffered through one 30-mile stretch in the Shasta-Lassen area without water because of the long winter's drought. "All you can think about is all the streams you walked across earlier."

The temperature there hit about 107 degrees, the hottest on her trip. The coldest weather was on Aug. 14 when it snowed in the Tuolumne area — 18 degrees.

Were there times when she was lost?

"Lost? Oh, heavens, yes. There's no map that's up to date with all the roads. You wind your way through roads that go off in all directions. But you always keep on going and eventually you find yourself on the map."

END OF TRAIL

When she came to a store near Kernville, clerks told her she had reached the end of the trail.

"I said, 'Did they move the Mexican border?' I headed for Kernville on the paved road and told the rangers there that the trail wasn't marked. They said they'd send a flag crew out if I could follow the flags. I told them I'd follow a jack rabbit if it was headed south!"

There were the beautiful moments, too.

"I climbed up to the 11,000-foot level. All I could hear was my breathing and my heart thumping. I camped next to a gnarled pine tree, my pack next to my head."

"And there was a chipmunk that kept scratching at the pack. He stayed there all night long trying to get at the food."

Several relatives have suggested that her next trip be from California to the East Coast.

Teddie chuckles at the thought, discarding it as unfeasible — probably.

Anyway, there is the Pacific Crest Trail yet to finish. She was scheduled to reach the end of the trail at the Mexican border by the end of October.

"I can't believe it's been five months," she sighs.

Tabu Subject Explored

By JUDITH OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

If you're an average American citizen, there's one subject you don't want to discuss, much less write a book about: death and dying.

For Ron Lunceford PhD, a trained sociologist and counselor, the subject wasn't too disturbing until a few years ago when he found himself preoccupied with thoughts about mortality.

"I was becoming uncomfortable about spending so much time thinking about death and dying," he said. "I began to wonder if other people had those thoughts."

The result of his wondering is a new book which explores death from a cultural standpoint.

Written by Dr. Lunceford and his wife, Judy, a teacher and psychologist, the book is unusual because it concentrates on attitudes toward death rather than the actual process of dying.

In his own pondering about death, Dr. Lunceford realized that he was at a turning point in his life and the troublesome thoughts were occurring because he had "so many things I hadn't done yet."

He talked to his wife about it and discovered that she, too, had things she hadn't worked through yet in terms of her own mortality.

RESEARCH PROJECT

They then launched a research project through California State University, Long Beach, and interviewed more than 2,000 people of various ages and ethnic groups.

The results are documented in the book, "Attitudes on Death and Dying: A Cross-cultural View."

Questionnaires administered in Los Angeles and Orange counties by trained junior and senior students from CSULB were augmented by in-depth taped interviews of people from five different ethnic backgrounds.

Cultural groups surveyed were Anglo, Asian, Black, Mexican-American and Native American Indian.

Several interesting facts came out of the survey. The students found that a person's view of death is tempered by his age, and that women who are experiencing new lifestyles are extremely eager about life.

Religion also played a part in the answers, Dr. Lunceford said.

"It still has a great deal of influence on the death process. We have a strong need to identify with a powerful force. Even some agnostics admit there is a more powerful being than a human."

CHILDREN MYSTIFIED

Dr. Lunceford found that older people, who have accomplished some of their life's goals, seem better able to handle thoughts about death and dying.

"Younger children also think about it," he added. "They are still mystified about life."

The age group of 30-45 is where people cling to life much more strongly. "We seem to need to live forever," Dr. Lunceford commented.

Most older people interviewed simply indicated that they wished not to die in pain.

Women who are newly divorced, going back to school or entering a new career were reluctant to talk about death, Dr. Lunceford added.

People from lower income groups are much less concerned about it, the author noted, because "life has less meaning for them."

Dr. Lunceford also found definite cultural differences in the way death is viewed.

In Asian cultures, for example, the grieving process is viewed as normal. Indians celebrate death and Jewish people view it as a time for both celebration and mourning.

Americans, in contrast, are taught to suppress their emotions and see death as being painful.

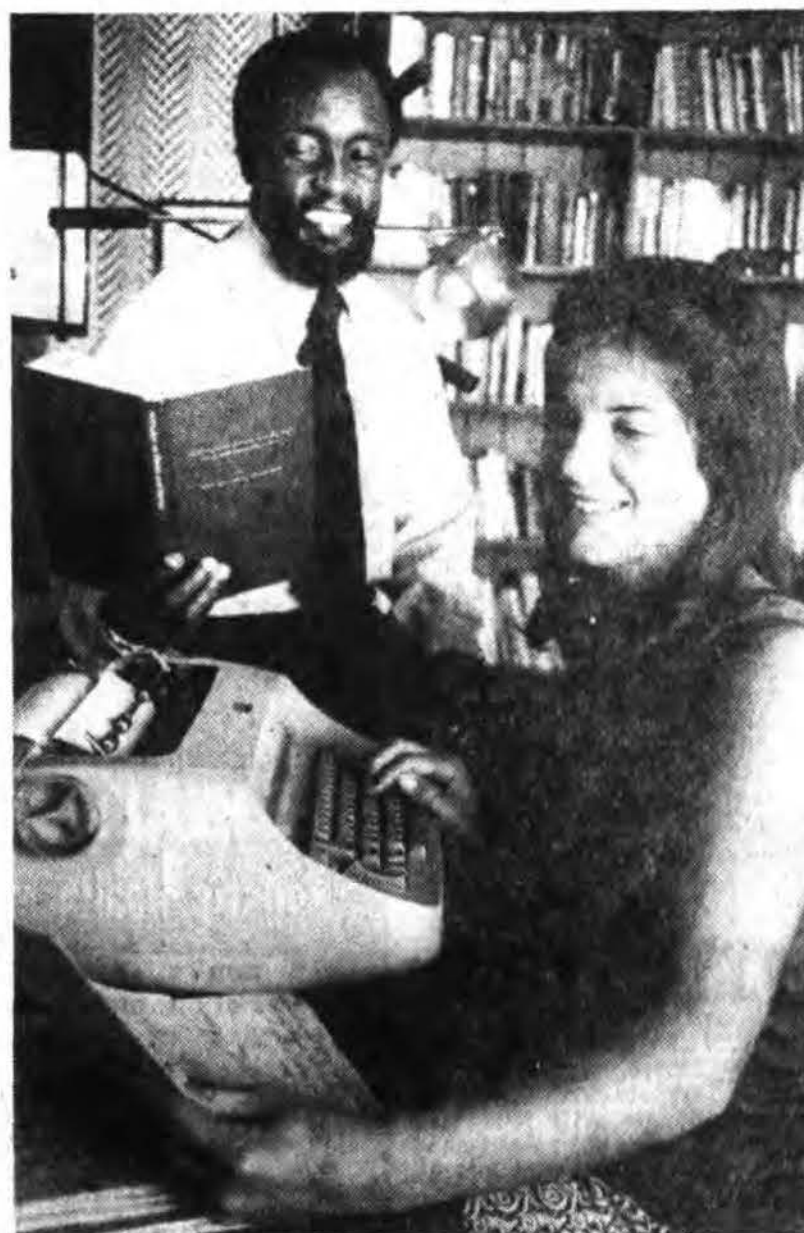

"We've relied on the church to handle it," Dr. Lunceford said. "Even medical schools don't train people in how to deal with dying."

MORE FREEDOM

He believes attitudes are changing, however. "Young people are becoming more and more aware. Educational institutions are offering more opportunities to study death. We're becoming more healthy mentally and more free about our lives."

Dr. Lunceford finds the thought of death especially important in his life since he had a close call several years ago through a serious illness. "I realized then that life had a beautiful spiritual meaning. I had no control over what was going to happen to me. I had to accept the reality of what was happening at that time."

Dr. Lunceford said his life has changed since then for the better. He now is able to show more love to his wife and children and he doesn't waste time being angry. "I feel something more moving about people. I tell them more how I care about them."

The Irvine resident, who is a co-founder with his wife of The People's Clinic in Santa Ana, said his views of what kind of ceremony he wants after his death also have changed.

NEW DESIRES

Before writing the book he simply wanted to be cremated. "Now, I want my family to be able to say what I meant to them. It would be a symbolic gesture."

He would like, he added, to have a scholarship established in his name and be remembered for his part in the clinic.

Dr. Lunceford also believes the American process of planning funerals should be updated so it is less painful. Funeral arrangements should not have to be made by grieving families, he stressed.

Family Crises Cooled

NEW DIRECTOR
John Von Glahn

By DENNIS McLELLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What's bugging families today?

There's the usual things: Hot quarrels, cold indifference, angry parents, rebellious teenagers, financial problems, divorce and loneliness.

But in the uncertain '70s there are also problems related to the changing roles of men and women, single parenting, the prospect of job lay-offs and rising parent and child drug and alcohol abuse.

Those are some of the trends John Von Glahn, new executive director of the Orange County Family Service Association, has noticed in recent years.

Although people are burdened with problems, more appear at least to be trying to do something about them, according to Von Glahn.

"There is less of a stigma attached to going to an agency for help," he said, adding that such a move in the past often made people feel they were admitting failure.

By seeking help, however, they discover their problems are not unique and that the sooner they face them the better off they will be.

HELPSOUGHT

Yet, Von Glahn admits, it's still difficult to make that first phone call and ask for help.

The county Family Service Association, which provides marriage, individual, parent-child and single parent counseling, handles approximately 2,300 cases a year.

Von Glahn, who took over his position in mid-September following the retirement of John Turner, directs the four branch offices: Tustin, Fullerton, Garden Grove and San Juan Capistrano.

He was director of Family and Children's Services in Lehigh, Pa. for seven years. Prior to that he was with the Wisconsin State Department of Health and Social Services.

INFLUENCE

"Almost my whole career has been involved with family or children's services," he said. "I think the family probably has the most influence on an individual."

"If you're going to provide service, one of the first places to start is the family. That's why I feel working with family services is so important."

While the agency basically is a counseling service, he said, it also has been involved in family life education (parenting and communication skills).

A class to help people adjust to divorce is planned for the future.

"I really see the job of an agency as offering more things like courses and small groups where people can help each other and learn."

Firm Stand Receives Support

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the teenager in Massachusetts who thought it was unrealistic to prohibit the sale of contraceptives to high school kids — and your agreeing with him — was the talk of our card club. (I live in Belmont, a suburb of Boston.)

Now I read in the Globe that each of the 50 contenders for the Miss America crown was required to sign a statement swearing she is not now pregnant, has never BEEN pregnant and has not had an abortion. Wait — there's more.

Every girl who entered the pageant had to promise she would not get pregnant if she won the title. The man who was in charge of the pageant said it would be very embarrassing if the Queen started to look a bit heavy after four months of her reign.

So what better evidence could anyone present in support of your statement that once teenagers get into sex they need information and protection? Here we have the cream of the crop of America's young womanhood — and one of the major fears of the pageant director is that the Queen might turn up "with child" before her year of queen-ing is up.

Just keep telling it like it is, Ann. As a mother of five girls who is firmly against abortion, I believe it is imperative that young people who have already become sexually active should be permitted to purchase contraceptives without government interference. I appreciate your gutsy stand, Ann. Sign this — ANOTHER REALIST AND CATHOLIC BOOT

DEAR REALIST: Thanks for the strong affirmative vote. The fact that you are a Catholic from Massachusetts makes it especially meaningful. I hope you are able to enlighten some of your card-club sisters who are on the other side of the fence. Let me repeat, this is NOT being permissive. It is just common sense.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

Ann Landers

There's been an awful lot of comment in your column lately about women who don't shave their legs or their armpits. You said it would be hard to imagine a less appetizing sight than a growth of hair poking out of nylon stockings.

What in the world has hair got to do with the appetite? I think you are nuts. — LOUISVILLE READER

DEAR LOU: Have you ever been served a bowl of soup and discovered a hair in it?

See, Ski

While ski experts demonstrate the art of freestyling and trampoline acrobatics, specialized ski fashions will be modeled in another area of South Coast Plaza Wednesday, Oct. 13. Head Ski Wear, such as shown at right, will be paraded for public viewing at 4, 6 and 8 p.m.

Gem Real Jewel

(NEW YORK AP)—If you're looking for something for the woman in your life that would make even Elizabeth Taylor jealous, then Cartier has just the thing: a 107.07-carat diamond with a $5-million price tag.

The famous jewelers unveiled the 1½-by-2-inch gem, three quarters of an inch thick and mounted in platinum, at a news conference in its Fifth Avenue store. Cartier-New York president Ralph Destino promptly dubbed it "the most beautiful diamond ever found."

The glittering, pear-shaped stone named "The Louis Cartier Diamond" in honor of the third generation descendant of the firm, is the largest stone ever to achieve a "D Flawless" rating by the Gemological Institute of New York.

The rating refers to the colorless gem's purity of brilliance and absence of any detectable flaws such as cracks or traces of carbon when placed under a powerful magnifier.

Found in the coal mines of South Africa, the $46,000 per carat diamond has undergone almost two years of planning and cutting. It is almost twice the size of the second largest "D Flawless specimen," according to Cartier officials.

They added that it is considered superior even to the famous Tiffany diamond which, although larger, does not possess the flawless rating.

Leo: Accent Romance

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 12
By SYDNEY OMARR
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Joy comes through exchange of ideas, short trip to out-of-way place, opening lines of communication with close neighbors, relatives. You could be in love, alive, vital.

Peering Around

FOR THE SECOND consecutive year, Lori Wardein of Irvine has been awarded the annual undergraduate student scholarship fund of the Newport-Irvine Rotary Club.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Money picture is bright. You get bargain, you earn more, get more plaudits for efforts. Collect, consolidate, refuse to sell yourself short.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle is such that you make gains, progress, become confident, popular, versatile. Timing improves; element of "luck" rides with you. Make personal appearances. Purchase apparel.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You get work done, basic issues sorted; you gain greater self-understanding. Secret fears, doubts can be pushed aside. Review and rebuild. Concentrate on what is, not what you wish.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on romance, creativity, friendship, the blending of desire into reality. You are able to test, deduce, analyze. Member of opposite sex makes you feel more alive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis on accomplishment, ability to favorably impress superiors. Business prospects are excellent. One you love makes major concession.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Good lunar aspect coincides now with journeys, education, communication, publishing. You are president. You sense what is to occur — and you can do something about it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Financial prospects improve, especially where partner or mate is involved. You find that you're able to "cash in" in hints, tips and other knowledge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Public acceptance of your proposals will increase. Those who opposed could be transformed into allies. Legal picture is brighter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Health, employment areas are accented and you could have reason to be optimistic. You get second chance, opportunity to begin anew, to imprint style, personality.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have chance to express, create — and to love. Wishes come true, vitality returns. Personal magnetism soars. Young persons support you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have more confidence — you're assured of support from those in authority.

Moose Killed on 29th Birthday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitcher Bob Moose of the Pittsburgh Pirates, killed in an Ohio auto crash on his 29th birthday, is remembered for the way he battled hard times on and off the baseball field.

"Bob Moose was my kind of player," Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds said while in Philadelphia for the National League playoffs.

"He would fight you down to the bitter end," Rose added Sunday on the exact four-year anniversary of the wild pitch Moose uncorked in the last inning of a playoff game that gave the Reds the National League title.

"Bob was a very courageous person," said Joe L. Brown, recently retired as Pirates general manager. "He was full of confidence, and he felt all he could do was go out and give the best he had."

Moose was killed Saturday night near Martins Ferry, Ohio, in a two-car crash that injured four persons, including two women passengers in his car.

Police said Moose's car ran out of control on rain-slicked Ohio 7 and struck a car, driven by Stephen George, 17, of Yorkville, Ohio.

Moose, dead at the scene, was on his way to a party and golf outing at the Rayland, Ohio, course owned by former Pirates player Bill Mazeroski.

"Nobody could believe it," said Pittsburgh pitcher Dave Giusti, who was at Mazeroski's.

"We went to the hospital and it was confirmed he was killed. It's still hard for me to believe."

"How sad," said manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds. "Only 29. How sad."

Moose's body was returned to his hometown of Export, Pa., where funeral services will be held Wednesday. He is survived by his wife, Alberta, and a daughter, April, 5.

Moose signed with the Pirates after he was graduated from high school in 1965. In 1969, he posted a 14-3 record with Pittsburgh and pitched a no-hitter against the Mets in New York.

He averaged 12 victories in each of his next four seasons, including the '72 season in which he made his decisive wild pitch against the Cincinnati Redlegs.

"I remember when he made that wild pitch," said former Pirate Dave Cash, now with the Phillies. "He didn't make any excuses. He wasn't an excuse guy."

Moose's career and his life almost ended in 1974 when he developed a blood clot under his pitching shoulder and underwent surgery. Within months he was throwing batting practice and he made the Pirate team in 1975 spring training.

A torn thumbnail sidelined him midway in the 1975 season and he went to the minors. Yet he worked his way back to the Pirates late in the year. Used as a relief pitcher this season, he compiled a 3-9 record. His career record was 74-69.

Kings Downed, 1-0 Fight Spices Rough Contest

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The confrontation had classic proportions. Dave Schultz, the "enforcer" for the Philadelphia Flyers for four years, was making his first Spectrum appearance in an enemy uniform.

It was short, about 16 minutes, and not too sweet. Schultz and six other players were banished with about three minutes to play in the first period after a bench-clearing brawl.

"That was your typical Flyers brawl. Four guys on one," said Schultz. "I never was involved in anything like that here. I believe in fighting one on one."

Veteran goaltender Bernie Parent recorded his 40th National Hockey League shutout Sunday night as the Philadelphia Flyers blanked Schultz and his Los Angeles Kings teammates, 1-0.

The lone goal of the game came at 9:20 of the second period when Flyers leftwinger Ross Lonsberry fired a 30-footer toward the net.

The game was a rough one, with referee John McCauley whistling 43 penalties for a total of 189 penalty minutes, ejecting the players and Kings coach Bob Pulford.

The fight erupted when Philadelphia's Mel Bridgman was speared in the face by Dave Hutchison, who said it was accidental. He had just given a stiff body check.

Splittorff, Royals Cut Down Yankees

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There was a time in this baseball season when Paul Splittorff thought he had run out of time.

The Kansas City left-hander could remember it with a smile Sunday night after returning from the pitching scrap heap and hurling the Royals to a vital 7-3 victory over the New York Yankees, tying their American League best-of-five playoffs series 1-1.

The series moves to New York for game three Tuesday night.

It was his first meaningful contribution to the Royals since July when went on the disabled list with tendonitis in the middle finger of his pitching hand.

"After three weeks, I took the splint off my finger and it swelled right up," remembered Splittorff. "I really thought I was going to run out of time."

Splittorff had won eight straight games before being injured. Now, he had become all but useless with the strange injury.

"I waited another week and took the splint off again," he said. "This time, it was all right."

After six weeks of waiting,

Splittorff was sent to the Florida Instructional League in an effort to regain his effectiveness. But when he got back to Kansas City he might just as well have had that splint on his finger. He was hit freely in three brief appearances and was not considered one of the keys to Kansas City's chances in this series.

But Royals manager Whitey Herzog had other ideas. During the week of practice before the playoffs, Kansas City had a couple of intrasquad games. Splittorff got a chance to pitch and Herzog liked what he saw.

"I made the decision then," said Herzog. "I really didn't have a long left-hander in the bullpen."

Now, after Splittorff had throttled New York on four hits and held them scoreless, giving the Royals a chance to come back. Herzog again doesn't have a long left-hander in the bullpen.

"He's going to pitch the fifth game," the manager said. "I'm almost certain of that."

"I wanted so desperately to contribute to our team, but I couldn't," Splittorff said. "I thought I would run out of time. It was the most lonesome feeling in the world."

The Yankees won only 10 more games than they lost at Yankee Stadium this year.

Rams, 49ers Battle At Coliseum Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For three years under coach Chuck Knox, the Los Angeles Rams have dominated the Western Division of the National Football Conference, and the San Francisco 49ers aim to put a stop to it.

A nationwide television audience will watch the California rivals square off in the first of their two battles tonight with the Rams favored by two touchdowns.

TV for Southern California will be blacked out.

That could be an extreme differential since San Francisco stands 3-1 so far and the Rams are just a shade better at 3-0-1. James Harris directs the Rams at quarterback and newcomer Jim Plunkett, late of the New England Patriots, is at the helm of the 49ers.

Harris missed the first two regular season games because of a broken thumb, but against New York's Giants and the Miami Dolphins, he has passed for 615 yards on 31 completions in 52 attempts for a 59.6 average.

The only black starting quarterback in the NFL, Harris passed for 436 yards, including two key second half touchdowns, as the Rams edged Miami 31-28 a week ago Sunday.

Plunkett has connected on 55 of 92 throws for 653 yards and a 59.78 average. A Heisman Trophy winner at Stanford in 1970, the quarterback played with New England before asking to be traded.

Each club possesses a potent running attack, the Rams so far going to the edge with Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti, who just this year won a starting assignment.

McCutcheon has gained 389 yards in 96 carries and Cappelletti, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Penn State, has 348 on 79 carries and they rank two-three in the NFC.

San Francisco also boasts a pair of top runners although not as well known as the Los Angeles twosome. Del Williams has gained 295 yards and Wilbur Jackson 164.

On defense the 49ers have been awesome. In the preseason when Los Angeles won 10-7, the San Francisco defenders sacked the quarterback seven times.

Last week in beating the New York Jets 17-6 they also turned in seven sacks and that goes as a club record.

Still, the Rams offensive line has permitted only two sacks in four weeks.

The 49ers defensive line has been rebuilt with two veterans and two second-year men, Cedrick Hardman and Tommy Hart are the veterans at the ends, with relative newcomers Jimmy Webb and Cleveland Elam at the tackles.

Los Angeles boasts more experience in the defensive front four but 36-year-old Merlin Olsen has been hampered by a hamstring injury. He'll start at tackle along with Larry Brooks, Jack Youngblood and Fred Dryer play the ends.

Sports in Brief

Japan's Oh at 715; Solomon Tops Lutz

TOKYO — Sadaharu Oh, the slugging first baseman of the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants, today became the second man to break Babe Ruth's career home run total of 714.

The 35-year-old power-hitter's record-breaking homer — his 48th of the season and 715th of his career — came in the bottom of the eighth against the Hanshin Tigers with a man on base.

The Giants beat the Tigers 9-3 at the packed 50,000-seat Korakuen Stadium.

Falcons Lose QB

ATLANTA — Quarterback Steve Bartkowski, the National Football League's rookie of the year last season, underwent knee surgery today and probably is out for the season, an Atlanta Falcons spokesman said.

Bartkowski suffered ligament damage in his right knee when he was tackled by Andy Dorris of the New Orleans Saints just before halftime in Sunday's 30-0 Saints victory.

Bartkowski will be out at least two months and probably the rest of the season.

Muldowney Rolls

ONTARIO — Shirley Muldowney and Don Prudhomme made drag racing history Sunday by winning their final elimination races in the National Hot Rod Association World championship at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Muldowney, from Mt. Clemens, Mich., became the first woman driver in history to win two NHRA national titles in the same season when she out-powered Jerry Ruth of Seattle, in the top fuel final.

Prudhomme, the veteran hot rodder from Granada Hills, captured his seventh national funny car title in eight tries this season to top the record of six he set last year. Prudhomme needed only to make a single pass timed 6.09 seconds at a top speed of 236.22 mph to take his final run, when his opponent, Ed McCulloch of Fresno, was disqualified.

Lutz Falls

KAANAPALI, Hawaii — Harold Solomon defeated Bob Lutz Sunday to win the singles title in the $100,000 Island Holidays Pro Tennis Classic.

Solomon, who was second-seeded in the tournament, defeated Lutz 6-3, 5-7, 7-5.

HB Man 2nd

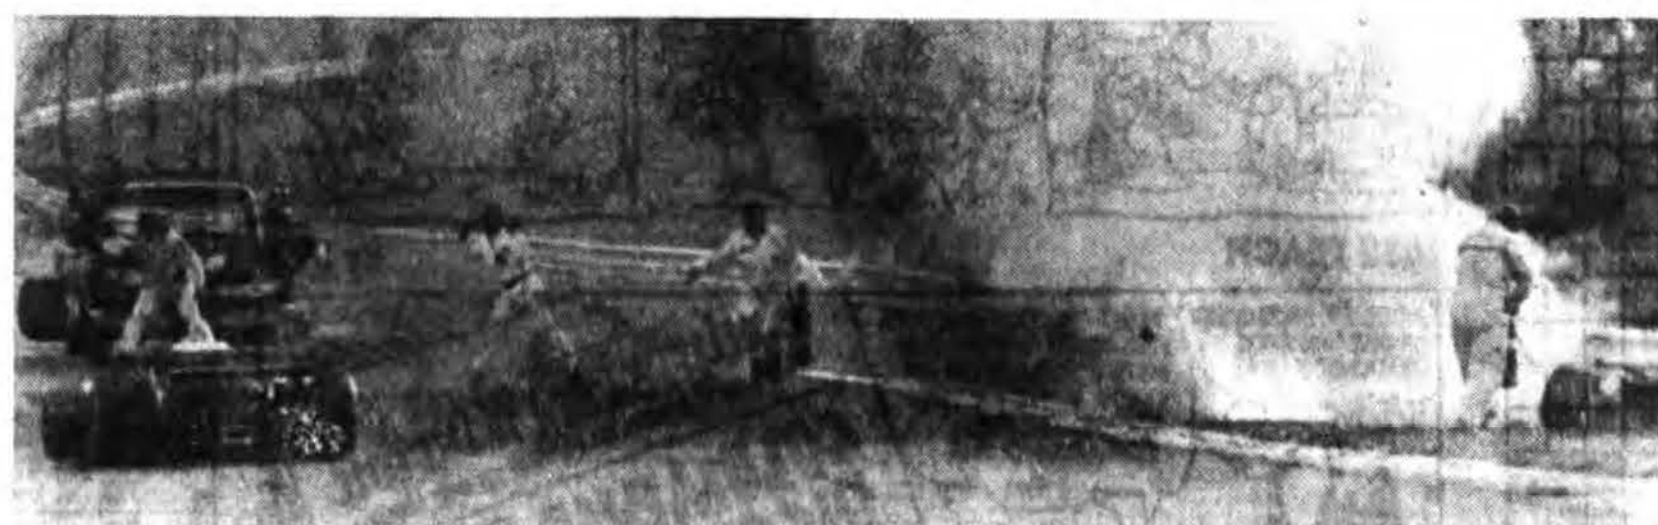

NEW BERLIN, N.Y. — Huntington Beach's Gary Semic finished second to Belgium's Roger DeCoster in the Trans-AMA motocross series Sunday at the Unadilla Valley Sports Center.

Hunt Wins Prix

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. — James Hunt held off Jody Scheckter in a race-long game of cat-and-mouse and won Sunday's United States Grand Prix, closing to within three points of Niki Lauda for the World Driving championship.

The title now will be decided Oct. 24 in the Japanese Grand Prix, the final event of the Formula 1 season.

Lauda finished a distant third and earned only four points to bring his season total to 68, while Hunt earned nine for victory.

ICKX INJURED — Belgium's Jacky Ickx, three-time winner of the 24-hour Le Mans endurance race and a Formula 1 veteran, was injured in Sunday's United States Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y. Ickx suffered a compound fracture of the right ankle and possible fracture of the lower left leg, as well as burns. Here, workers try to put out the flames from his burning car.

Reds Leave Ozark, Phils In Shock

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia manager Danny Ozark looked like a guy who was shell shocked after the Cincinnati Reds lowered the boom on his National League East Division champions for the second straight time.

The Reds took a 6-2 victory over the Phillies Sunday and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series for the National League pennant and a place in the World Series.

Is there some kind of leadership he can provide to help the Phillies in their improbable task of beating the Reds three straight in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium?

"There is no leadership involved," said Ozark, who led his team to a nine-game margin over

On TV Tuesday Channel 7 at Noon

defending champion Pittsburgh in the East. "It's just a matter of going out and playing the best we can. We've got to go out and do it like we did last season."

Ozark lamented the Phillies' failure to exploit a big second inning opportunity when they had one run home, the bases loaded and none out. Jim Lonborg bounced to third baseman Pete Rose for a third-to-home-to-first double play.

"If Lonborg hit it to anybody else we get another run out of it," said Ozark. Dave Cash ended the inning by grounding out.

Lonborg pitched hitless ball for 5½ innings before the Reds routed him in a four-run sixth, keyed by the controversial error on first baseman Dick Allen that let two runs in and sent the the Reds ahead 3-2.

"The mistake I made," said Lonborg, "was to get negative thoughts in my mind. I worried too much about the runner and lost my concentration. I was in trouble before I knew it."

The runner Lonborg referred to was Dave Concepcion, who walked to start the sixth. Lonborg retired the pitcher, but then the roof caved in. Pete Rose lashed a single for the Reds' first hit and a run. Ken Griffey singled and Lonborg was gone.

A Phillies mistake hurt in the seventh when reliever Tug McGraw struck out pitcher Pedro Borbon, but the third strike was a wild pitch and Borbon reached first safely. The Reds went on to score two runs.

Bears Come Close; Steelers Fall Again

The Chicago Bears came within two points of beating Minnesota and Cleveland Sunday to highlight National Football League action, which also saw Kansas City, Detroit and the New York Jets come up with surprising victories.

The Bears missed two extra points in their efforts to beat the Minnesota Vikings after the Vikes had built a 17-0 halftime lead.

The Vikes blocked one extra point and placekicker Bob Thomas missed another that would have tied the game at 20 in the fourth quarter.

The Bears' final threat died at the Vikings 44 with 1:09 left when they missed a first down by inches.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday:

PITTSBURGH AT CLEVELAND — Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw suffered a neck injury and was taken to the hospital where X-rays showed no breakage as the Steelers dropped their fourth straight, an 18-16 decision to the Cleveland Browns.

Don Cockroft kicked field goals of 43, 28, 50 and 40 yards—the last one giving Cleveland an 18-10 lead with 1:55 remaining.

Also injured in the hard-hitting game was Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe, who left the game in the first half with a mild concussion.

NEW ENGLAND AT DETROIT — Greg Landry threw three TD passes, two to rookie David Hill, as the Detroit Lions whipped the New England Patriots, 30-10.

Detroit's defense picked off five Steve Grogan passes, including two steals by Levi Johnson.

The Lions' third TD, a five-yard pass from Landry to Charlie Sanders, gave Detroit a 11-0 second quarter lead.

KANSAS CITY AT WASHINGTON — Quarterback

Mike Livingston's 36-yard pass to Larry Brunson on a razzle dazzle play rallied the Kansas City Chiefs to a 33-30 victory over the Washington Redskins to give KC its first win of the season.

Livingston handed off to Woody Green, who gave the ball to wide receiver Henry Marshall, who turned and lateraled to Livingston, who fired the ball to Brunson on the eight and he ran it in with 1:04 left.

The winning TD came shortly after John Riggins ran six yards to a Washington touchdown to give the Redskins a 30-26 lead with 2:50 left.

Jan Stenerud kicked field goals of 45, 38, 52 and 37 yards in six attempts. Two others were blocked by Diron Talbert.

BUFFALO AT NY JETS — Pat Leahy's 38-yard field goal with 48 seconds remaining lifted the New York Jets to their first win of the season, a 17-14 triumph over the Buffalo Bills.

A 67-yard punt return by Keith Moody of Buffalo with four minutes left had tied the score at 14. But the Jets drove 69 yards in eight plays to set up the winning kick.

Ed Marinaro led the Jets with 119 yards on 31 carries and scored a touchdown.

O.J. Simpson carried the ball 15 times and netted 53 yards.

DALLAS AT NY GIANTS — The Giants debuted at their new home in East Rutherford, N.J., but the unbeaten Cowboys victory the occasion with a 24-14 victory behind quarterback Roger Staubach.

Staubach completed 13 of 15 passes for 178 yards before a crowd of 76,042. The Cowboys cruised to a 17-0 halftime lead, blocking a New York field goal attempt and punt in the process.

Then, after New York scored its touchdown, Cliff Harris picked off a Craig Morton pass early in the fourth period and running back Doug Dennison spun off tackle for a four-yard touchdown to complete Dallas scoring.

MIAMI AT BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Colts raced to a

28-7 lead early in the third quarter, then went to a ground game in grinding out a 28-14 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

Baltimore shut Miami's running game to 88 yards and kept Earl Morrall, subbing for the injured Bob Griese, to a minimum.

Bert Jones completed 11 of 14 passes before the Colts sat back and watched the clock take care of Miami.

ATLANTA AT NEW ORLEANS — Atlanta's Falcons were guilty of four first half turnovers, led by an interception by Jim Merlo and an 83-yard return for a touchdown as the New Orleans Saints raced to a 30-0 victory.

The Saints, in addition to Merlo's TD run, got rich in the first half with Maurice Spencer's fumble recovery at the New Orleans two and Spencer's recovery at the New Orleans 22 on Atlanta's next two possessions to set the trend of the day for the Falcons' hopeless offense.

PHILADELPHIA AT ST. LOUIS — Jim Hart threw a 49-yard touchdown pass to Mel Gray and the opportunistic St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of a series of Philadelphia mistakes for a 33-14 triumph.

The Cardinals, down 7-0 in the first period, rallied behind a one-yard TD run by Steve Jones and Hart's scoring toss to Gray.

After Clarence Daren intercepted a John Walton pass, Wayne Morris sliced six yards to establish a 19-7 St. Louis lead at the half.

SEATTLE AT GREEN BAY — Lynn Dickey passed for 215 yards, including a 66-yard scoring pass to Steve Odom, while Barty Smith rushed for 84 yards and two TDs to rally the Green Bay Packers to a 27-20 victory over winless Seattle.

Smith scored the tying touchdown from six yards out with 7:42 to play and Chester Marcol's extra point made it 21-20.

The Seahawks led 20-7 with 5:54 spent in the half.

TAMPA BAY AT CINCINNATI — Mixing a varied offensive attack with a strong defensive effort by Tom Casanova, Cincinnati's Bengals handled winless Tampa Bay, 21-0.

Casanova intercepted a pass which set up a Bengals TD drive and then in the third quarter, he ignited a listless crowd by recovering a Charlie Davis fumble and going 25 yards for a touchdown.

DENVER AT HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers overcame missed scoring opportunities with a 14-yard touchdown run by Fred Willis and Skip Butler's 18-yard field goal to defeat the Denver Broncos, 17-3.

Willis broke one tackle and carried another Denver defender into the end zone on his touchdown run early in the second quarter to give Houston a 7-3 halftime lead.

The Oilers iced the game with 2:35 left with Ronnie Coleman's 10-yard touchdown run. Coleman's score was set up on Zeke Moore's 28-yard return with an interception to the Denver 10.

Same Old Story: Oakland Tops SD

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The poor San Diego Chargers. They had been hoping the 16th meeting against a John Madden-coached Oakland club would be the charm. But Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler blew them down 27-17.

"Stabler had a great day; he was a lot of them," said Chargers coach Tommy Prothro of the National Football League game Sunday in which he charged the dream of a playoff berth after a long drought dried up.

It also meant that Madden has never lost to San Diego since becoming Raiders coach in 1969. He has won 14 while losing two.

"You throw what the defense gives you, and San Diego gave us the middle all afternoon," said Prothro.

Prothro has done a lot of bragging about San Diego's "new look," but admitted afterward, "our team fought hard, but we gave them a couple of awfully cheap ones."

The Chargers scored in the third period on a 45-yard field goal by Fritsch that closed the gap to 14-10.

The Chargers opened the final period by sending Mercury Morris over from the one for a touchdown that put them ahead 17-14 after Fritsch booted the extra point.

The Raiders then went ahead 20-17 on a 41-yard pass play from Stabler to Branch.

In the second period, Stabler capped an 86-yard effort in less than four minutes with a touchdown pass to Cliff Branch, who caught it on the unfended Chargers' 41 yard and ran it in.

No Change: FV No. 1

Fountain Valley High's unbeaten Barons, No. 1 in the CIF 4-A poll, are unanimous choices for No. 1 in Orange County for the fourth straight week in the official Orange County prep football poll.

The Barons open Sunset League action Friday against Huntington Beach's Marina and are heavy favorites to continue with a perfect mark.

New to the list of rated teams are Mater Dei of Santa Ana and Orange's El Modena, while Anaheim and Huntington Beach's Edison, losers last week, and Foothill of Santa Ana with its lackluster win over Orange, drop out.

Key test of the week is an Orange League tiff Friday night with No. 4 Sonora at No. 5 La Habra.

By LAURENE KEYS
UC Irvine's Gary Figueroa thinks treading water for an hour with someone climbing all over his back with mayhem in mind is fun.

Now that sounds a little strange, and some people wonder if perhaps Figueroa has spent too much time in the water.

The 20-year-old junior is a water poloist — and he's good. In fact he may be one of the best in the country.

His coach Ed Newland calls him the Elgin Baylor of water polo, referring to doubt to the former basketball star's endless array of moves and shots.

The leading NCAA tournament scorer last year with 14 goals, Figueroa has already hit for 46 this season with only 10 games under his belt.

And the 8-2 Anteaters seem to be on their way to a good year, already knocking off such powers as Stanford, UCLA and defending NCAA champ UC Berkeley.

UCI has finished second in the championship for the past four years, but according to Figueroa, this could be the Anteaters' year.

But then the blue-eyed social science major is used to being up there at the top, and is accustomed to championship play.

He prepped at Fullerton's Sunny Hills High which won the CIF polo title his sophomore and senior years.

"It's a personal goal of mine for us to win the title this year," says Figueroa.

GARY FIGUEROA

He says this year's team is very close and has a good deal of contact away from the pool, also.

"Being so close helps our communication in game situations," he says. "And since we're a smaller team physically than ones we've faced, we have to play team defense and help each other out."

Talent notwithstanding, Figueroa figures Newland is one of the main reasons the Anteaters are doing so well.

"Newland looks for more intelligent players and ones who are team-oriented, not just the big stars," says Figueroa.

"And he gives us something to shoot for," he adds. "I respect him, he's honest and he works as hard as any other person out there. He's a very disciplined man."

And discipline counts for so much in this sport which to the uninitiated often seems to be an unorganized water free-for-all.

Some experts have described water polo as a combination basketball and soccer afloat. But all agree that it takes a high degree of physical endurance.

Figueroa says the Anteaters spent about two weeks working with weights, running and getting in lots of water time during pre-season conditioning.

"We have workouts twice a day and spend about 3-4 hours per day in the water. The scrimmages are hard work, but really once you're ready, once you're in condition, it isn't too hard. And the game is the fun part," he says.

"Besides," he adds, "I find treading water relaxing."

Houses For Sale

Newport Beach 1069

JUST FOR LAUGHS READ THIS 1932 AD!
1932 Disposal sale of LIDO ISLE sensational, low, 1932 prices. ACT QUICKLY! Remember last summer! Almost half of this beautiful island was snapped up in the last 10 weeks of the 1931 season, when the liquidation sale of Lido Isle was first announced. 30-40 — YES, even 50 lots a week were sold; since then, hundreds of those buyers have been planning homes; 32 already up or building — scores more plans for immediate construction — making Lido Isle TODAY the most active & successful seaside colony on the Pacific coast. AND YET, prices are still at ROCK BOTTOM for those who act AT ONCE!

$550 — $660 — $774

NOW READ THIS 1976 AD
Have you noticed the scarcity of vacant lots on Lido Isle? We just happen to have a rare find at only $96,000. P.S. I wonder how many laughed in 1932?

Butz 'Closes Book' on Racial Slur

By KATHY CLANCY

Former agriculture secretary Earl Butz told an Orange County audience today he "paid a tremendous personal price" for what he said were indiscreet remarks about blacks.

But he told the crowd in Anaheim that he did not intend to discuss the matter further, noting "that chapter is closed."

Butz was speaking to about 1,500 delegates to the National Association of Concessionaires and National Association of Theater Owners at the Disneyland Hotel.

Butz, dressed conservatively in a gray pin-striped suit, blue striped shirt and maroon tie, said of the racial slur which forced his cabinet resignation a week ago, "I have apologized as sincerely as I know how to do it."

In a press conference afterward, he also said he would not discuss the matter further adding the remarks were taken out of context from a private conversation.

He said he intends to do all he can to help congressional candidates, President Ford's reelection effort as well as the drafting of new farm legislation.

Partly referring to notes, Butz

discussed free enterprise in the U.S. and what he said was the finest food supplying and marketing system in the world.

Butz, who served as agriculture secretary since 1971, said U.S. consumers spent 17 percent of their pay for food today compared with 20 percent in Canada and 25 to 40 percent in other nations of the world.

In addition, he said U.S. citizens

enjoy higher quality food than those in other nations and packaging and marketing provides some "built-in maid service."

For example, he said, 60 percent of the potatoes consumed in the U.S. today are already peeled and partially processed, work formerly done in the kitchen. And he said similar conveniences are packaged into other foods.

success stories in the American story."

Because Americans spend relatively little for food, they have more money for automobiles, television sets and other conveniences.

"If you listen to some of the political palaver that is going around you get the impression that America is falling apart at (See BUTZ, Page A2)

Mobile Park Top Decided

A dispute centering on the esthetic appearance of rooftops of a Huntington Beach mobile home park has been decided in favor of the park owners by the city council.

Council members unanimously decided that granular textured aluminum panel shingles will be acceptable for patio covers and carports in the park.

Some homeowners of bluff areas overlooking the development had expressed concerns that the aluminum-based shingles would constitute a glare.

A number of residents in the bluffs had insisted that the shingles for the coverings be either shake, cedar or composition as stipulated originally by city codes.

It was determined, however, that materials other than the granular aluminum panels would be too heavy for the carports and patio support.

The rooftops of the coaches themselves was not an issue in the dispute.

Councilman Ron Shenkman said that the rights of the mobile park owners had to be observed prior to the 6 to 0 city council vote on the matter Wednesday night.

"They are being priced out of single residence homes and they are not second class citizens," he said.

Mayor Harriett Wieder also spoke in defense of mobile home parks.

"These are the developments of today and tomorrow," she said. "People can no longer afford to buy homes. Attitudes will have to change towards mobile home parks," she observed.

The park is located at the southwest corner of Ellis Avenue and Newland Street adjacent to the Fountain Valley city boundaries.

New Missiles For Israelis Okayed by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has agreed to give Israel a new, extremely sophisticated missile system for use primarily in antitank warfare, Israeli and U.S. sources said today.

The deal does not involve an increase in the cost of American military aid now scheduled for Israel, but will make new weapons available that were not previously offered.

Israel is now set to receive $1.5 billion in direct military aid plus another $800 million in economic assistance.

The new program involves a top-secret antitank missile system within that financial framework, according to an Israeli official.

Presidential press secretary Ron Nessen confirmed that the U.S. would give Israel "certain additional items of military hardware," adding that "it is in our interest to sell these goods."

Nessen declined to spell out what the new equipment would be, though some details were obtained from sources elsewhere.

Redevelopment Eyed by Council

By ROBERT BARKER

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Huntington Beach City Council members are expected to come to grips with downtown redevelopment tonight. The issue has confronted the city for nearly 10 years.

Supporters of redevelopment say that action to correct what they say are blight conditions in the city is overdue.

Opponents of redevelopment say the plan could have an adverse effect on residents for as long as three decades. Some of them say that it will place too much authority in the hands of too few officials.

Whatever the long-range ramifications, downtown redevelopment has been gaining momentum as an emotional issue in the city in recent weeks.

Both sides have retained special counsel for tonight's showdown when the city council, doubling as the redevelopment agency, holds hearings on the plan and its environmental impact.

The most intensive redevelopment plan would focus on a five-block area along Pacific Coast Highway between Lake Street and Sixth Street.

Existing structures would be removed and replaced with higher intensity development, including a 22-story hotel, an office tower building and retail, specialty, commercial and parking developments.

This plan also would call for some development on the pier along with its refurbishing and upgrading.

Tied with the high intensity plan is development of a four-block area along Main Street between Walnut Avenue and Orange Avenue.

This four-block area would include specialty and retail commercial uses and areas would be converted to pedestrian ways and a mall concept. Existing structures would be rehabilitated in accordance with a theme concept.

A second alternative for the five-block area along Pacific Coast Highway would be of lesser intensity.

Existing structures would be removed and replaced with "moderate intensity development," including offices, retail and specialty commercial stores and parking structures. Several restaurants and beach-oriented businesses would be located on the ocean side of Pacific Coast Highway.

The pier, however, would be upgraded only to retain its original character without any new development. The four-block area along Main Street would be rehabilitated in the same manner as the alternative with the highest density.

A third concept poses the lowest intensity of all. It would concentrate on rehabilitation of the entire five-block area along (See ISSUE, Page A2)

3 Boats Reached

2 Hurt as Cruisers Run Aground

Two people were injured Sunday when a dense afternoon fog caused three power boats to run aground along the Orange Coast.

Bishop Moses suffered leg injuries when the 21-foot cabin cruiser Centurion, with seven people aboard, went on the rocks off Crescent Bay Point in Laguna Beach. Moses was apparently injured while attempting to hold the boat off the rocks. He was reported in guarded condition today at UCI Medical Center after undergoing surgery.

An unidentified woman was treated for minor shock after the 42-foot cabin cruiser Lucky Duck crashed onto San Juan Rock shortly after clearing the Dana Point Marina for Newport Beach. Harbor Department officials said the craft owned by A.E. Aiken eventually sank in 40 feet of water.

A 21-foot motorboat with four people aboard went aground off Eighth Street Sunset Beach. No injuries were reported.

A Harbor department spokesman said the afternoon fog caught many yachtsmen by surprise and Orange County Harbor Department rescue boats from Dana Point and Newport Harbor were kept busy locating small craft in distress.

Also assisting in the rescue operations was the Coast Guard cutter Point Divide.

Despite the numerous calls from people expressing concern over yachtsmen who had not returned on schedule, harbor department officials said all boatsmen were accounted for.

Officials 'Support' Programs

A potential controversy involving two Huntington Beach city officials over the Neighborhood Watch program is apparently now resolved.

Police Chief Earle Robitaille and City Attorney Don Bonfa said they want it clearly understood that they both fully support the citizen crime prevention program.

In a legal opinion released last week, Bonfa challenged the alleged sponsorship by the city of the watch program.

He also said expenditure of city funds for its operation are not legally proper because they reportedly had not been approved by the city council.

"We are preparing a resolution establishing the printing and other costs as a line item in the budget," Bonfa said.

He said that if the city council approves the expenses it would be perfectly legal.

Chief Robitaille said the group will be asked to eliminate from its literature any references which could lead to a belief that the program is sponsored by the city.

Bonfa said the watch program printed the name of the chief of police and the department's telephone number on a monthly newsletter.

He maintained in his opinion that this suggested city sponsorship.

Huntington Family Struck by Tragedy

Death has struck twice in almost the same spot on a Long Beach roadway in 72 days, depriving the same Huntington Beach family first of its wife and mother, now a friend and babysitter.

Police went to the home of Kenneth Winterbottom of 16082 Ballantine Lane to deliver another death message early Sunday, in the second such visit since July 31, when Mrs. Win-terbottom was the victim.

Sunday's victim was Diana L. Lanham, 26, who was planning to return home to Glen Burnie, Md., in about two weeks after staying on as babysitter for the Winterbottom youngsters.

"It's crazy..." Winterbottom mused hollowly today when contacted regarding the fatal accident that killed Miss Lanham and a companion, Kevin Barry, 24, of Oxnard.

They died almost instantly on Studebaker Road in front of a Southern California Edison Company steam generating plant just inside Long Beach city limits, according to police.

Investigators said their car slammed into the rear of a semi truck-and-trailer rig making an illegal left turn from the far right-hand lane of Studebaker Road into the plant property.

Truck driver William Parent, 54, of Chicago, was arrested and booked on suspicion of manslaughter, then released on $1,000 bail pending arraignment.

Winterbottom, a food technologist for Star-Kist Foods Corp., said today Miss Lanham was visiting from Maryland when Mrs. Loy Winterbottom, 29, was fatally injured July 3 at the same spot.

She was babysitting for the Winterbottoms, while the food technologist was on a lengthy business trip for his firm.

She and another family acquaintance, Chris Wilson of Seal Beach, were injured when their car slammed into a power pole at that location. Wilson survived the accident.

Winterbottom said today there was no connection between the two fatal accidents that claimed first his wife, then their babysitter, adding it is merely a matter of coincidence.

"Studebaker Road is simply a (See TRAGEDY, Page A2)

Trains Hit In Mexico; 17 Killed

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — A passenger train carrying tourists, including some Americans, collided with a freight train in the rugged Sierra Madre Mountains of northern Mexico, killing at least 17 persons and injuring 45, police reported today.

They said at least five of the injured were Americans, and there were unofficial reports that one of the dead was from New York City.

Some of the passengers were travel agents, most from Mexico City, making the trip as part of a tourism promotion, police said.

The American Society of Travel Agents had been meeting in Guadalajara, though it was not known whether any of the group was aboard the train.

One observation car on the "Railroad to the Pacific" tumbled into a 45-foot-deep canyon when the passenger train smashed into the freight Sunday afternoon near the village of Pit-torreal about 200 miles west of Chihuahua City and 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said.

They said rescue workers were still trying to pry apart the car's wreckage to reach passengers trapped inside. The rescue squads could not use cutting torches on the wreckage because spilled diesel fuel might ignite, police said.

Here's Right Flu Number

In Sunday's Daily Pilot story about swine flu vaccination clinics, the telephone number for information about the clinics was incorrectly listed.

The correct phone number for the Community Referral and Information Service is 547-5178.

The Daily Pilot regrets the error.

Trenching to Nip HB Odors

Trenching work is expected to resume this week on a construction site which has caused widespread noxious odors in Huntington Beach.

Supervisor Laurence Schmit said today a county Health Department inspector will be posted at the location to monitor fumes apparently released by construction work.

The health officer is empowered to stop work if the concentration of fumes becomes toxic.

City Administrator Bud Belsito said the work for water mains is scheduled sometime this week at the affected site, but only after residents of the area near Bolsa Chica Street and Warner Avenue are given two days' advance notice.

The informal agreement on work procedures was reached recently by city and county officials and the developer, Frank Buccella.

The trenching work is expected to be carried out as quickly as possible during early morning hours when prevailing winds are blowing away from nearby residences.

Belsito said that curb and gutter work last week uncovered another small area that emitted noxious fumes. He said there were several complaints from residents.

The odor, believed caused by methyl mercaptan gas, was first uncovered during grading operations for a tract of four-plex dwellings on Sept. 8.

Nearby residents complained of headaches and spells of nausea. Health officers say the odor is noxious but not toxic in low concentration.

The area responsible for the garlic-like smell is believed to be either from an old dump site or on land adjacent to one.

2 Dead, 11 Hurt In Riot

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Two black inmates were stabbed to death and 11 others were injured when a group of white prisoners attacked the blacks in the dining room of Nevada State Prison, officials said.

One white inmate was hurt. The attack occurred Sunday, one day after officers began a partial release of inmates who were locked in their cells after racial fights broke out in the maximum security prison Sept. 27. About 415 inmates were locked in their cells after those fights, which left 36 inmates injured.

Authorities said no arrests were made pending a probe into the slayings.

Howard Pyle, head prison counselor and duty officer Sunday, said tear gas was lobbed into the cafeteria to force about 125 inmates into the main prison yard after the fighting broke out.

Pyle said whites and blacks were forced into opposite ends of the main prison yard as they came out of the dining room, but he didn't have exact numbers.

"This is apparently the aftermath of the incident two weeks ago," he said. "But different inmates were involved, because the main people involved two weeks ago are still in lockup."

"Two weeks ago, blacks attacked whites. This looks like retaliation."

Cops Probe Occult-style Cat Slaying

San Clemente police are investigating the occult-style slaying of a small black and white cat that had been crucified and left in the yard behind a policeman's apartment Sunday. The animal's throat had been cut.

The cat was tied to a cross and at its feet, said police, was the drawn figure of a death's head or devil. Around the figure were the words "Sun, Earth, Moon, Air, Sea."

The paper with the words also contained astrological signs.

The remains were found by the wife of the San Clemente police officer beneath her clothes line. Police said the yard, surrounded by a high fence, serves four apartments. Investigators do not believe that the slaying of the cat was linked to the fact that a policeman lives in one of the apartments.

The front verandah of the apartments in the northwest sector of the city, was covered by blood. Police said the animal had apparently been throttled there and carried to or thrown into the backyard.

Police could not give a reason for the cruel act.

China, Soviet Enmity Deep

WASHINGTON (AP) — The distrust between China and the Soviet Union goes too deep for a reconciliation, former Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger thinks.

Schlesinger, in an interview this week with U.S. News and World Report, said that during his recent 23-day tour of China he found the border with the Soviet Union "chronically restless."

"The Chinese state there is firing of artillery rounds across the border by the Soviets with both high-explosive rounds and propaganda leaflets. Also, they speak of the introduction of secret agents across the frontier," he said.

the seams," Butz continued. "You get the idea that you had better crawl back in your shells and sit on what you have."

But he said it has been free enterprise and an ability by government to let free enterprise work that led the country to where it is today.

He referred to this year's federal budget which will exceed $400 billion and said that it is bound to be inflationary.

"We have got to face up to the questions here in America," Butz said, "and ask if we are going to renege on our commitment to the principles of economics and political principles which have worked so well in the past 200 years."

Unlike an appearance last Friday in Mississippi which was interrupted by hecklers, Butz' appearance this morning was broken up several times by laughter and applause.

He joked about his expenses for the trip to California saying now that he was a private citizen he hoped the associations were picking up his tab and in referring to his age of 67 he said "there is plenty of life in me. I am the same age as Wilbur Mills and I am just one year older than Wayne Hays."

Butz Defended By Connolly

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connolly was defending Earl Butz' controversial remarks about blacks and criticizing Jimmy Carter for "more offensive" remarks in his interview with Playboy magazine.

Connolly, a former Democrat who switched parties and was Treasury secretary under Richard Nixon, referred to the Playboy interview in which Democrat Carter admitted having "committed adultery in my heart many times."

Connolly said that was "far more offensive and reprehensible" than Butz' remarks about blacks which led to his resignation. The remarks included a derogatory characterization of what Butz said were the sexual, dress and bathroom preferences of blacks.

"We all tell 'em (racial jokes)," Connolly said Saturday. "Everybody tells jokes on the blacks, and so the mere telling of a joke on a nationality or racial group doesn't disturb me."

Jail Inmates

Two Suspects Held In Holdup Slaying

Anaheim police have arrested two men held on drug charges in Westminster jail in connection with the fatal shotgun shooting of an Anaheim market clerk last Thursday night.

Police said today George Louis Ledesma, 19, of 14331 Olive St., Westminster, and an unidentified 16-year-old were arrested this morning following their jailing earlier this week on drug related charges in Westminster.

Costa Mesa police said today they are interested in the two men, whom they assert may also be responsible for the armed robbery of a Costa Mesa market last Tuesday night.

The pair is being held on suspicion of murder and robbery in the holdup of Albertson's Market, 610 S. Brookhurst St., Thursday.

Officers said they are seeking a third suspect in the market murder of clerk Jack Warren Mason, of Stanton, who was shot at point blank range by a suspect wielding a sawed-off shotgun.

Mason died at West Anaheim Community Hospital three hours after the shooting.

The three bandits entered the Albertson's Market at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, forcing about 15 to 20 customers to lie on the floor.

As the trio scooped up money from cash drawers, one suspect allegedly shot Mason at his cash register.

2 Crimes 'Linked' By Artist

By STEVE MITCHELL

Costa Mesa police said today they have found several links between an attempted assault on a Laguna Hills woman a week ago, and the murder of a Costa Mesa housewife last month.

A description of her assailant by the Laguna Hills woman is very similar to the one provided by a witness in the murder of Pam Davis, who was shot five times at close range in her Costa Mesa home Sept. 10.

"At this time, we think both suspects may be the same man," said Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton.

Pam Davis received a phone call at her home, which was for sale, at about noon Sept. 10. The caller said he was interested in looking at the home, which had been advertised for sale in several newspapers.

The man, posing as a potential buyer, showed up at the home at 2867 Velasco Lane a short time later, wearing a black raincoat, black trousers and a hat pulled down over his face.

Mrs. Davis apparently allowed the man to enter her home, and a short time later, a young woman in the home heard shots and a scream.

The witness entered a hall in the home and saw the suspect standing at the entrance to the master bedroom. She ran out the back of the home and sought help.

In last week's assault attempt, a 26-year-old Laguna Hills housewife told Sheriff's deputies a man knocked on her front door and identified himself as a realtor.

When he entered the home, the tall suspect said he was not really a realtor. "What I really want is you," he told the woman.

The victim, who was edging toward a rear door, asked the man what his name was and he said, "Earl."

PROGRAM

Mike Relic, a police liaison with Neighborhood Watch, said that printing costs for a newsletter to about 1,000 members cost about $40 per month.

He said that in addition he was paid overtime for attending the meetings which came to about $50 monthly.

Erich Matthews, an administrative analyst for the city, said that financing of the Neighborhood Watch Program was addressed in this year's budget.

Bonfa said, however, that specific amounts weren't listed.

The Neighborhood Watch Program was formed as a non-profit organization in 1975 and is credited with a reduction in the city's burglary rate.

The group is apprised at meetings and in newsletters of basic crime prevention methods and is told when and what to report in assisting the police in apprehension of criminals.

The organization meets monthly to discuss ways to stop residential burglaries and hear guest speakers on law enforcement topics.

Two Suspects Held In Holdup Slaying

Witnesses said the clerk did not provoke the shooting and was apparently cooperating with the bandits at the time of the shooting.

Costa Mesa police today are obtaining photographs of the two Anaheim robbery suspects to circulate to witnesses of a Costa Mesa market robbery earlier last week.

They suspect the same gunmen were responsible for the robbery of Ralphs Market in the Harbor Shopping Center, last Tuesday evening.

In the Costa Mesa robbery, three bandits took more than $1,000 in cash and another $3,000 in checks and food stamps from the market.

The shotgun-armed suspect allegedly struck a market clerk with the barrel of his gun before the three men fled into the darkness.

Costa Mesa police said the three men are very similar in description to the Anaheim robbers.

Meanwhile, the executive board of Retailers Clerks Union Local 324 have offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of retail clerk Mason.

Albertson's Market earlier offered a similar award for the apprehension of the suspects.

Pacific Coast Highway. Typical uses would include offices, a motel, restaurants and specialty shops.

Rehabilitation would dominate the area. The pier would be refurbished only to retain its original character without any new development.

As evidence of the mounting interest that redevelopment is generating, about 100 citizens attended a seminar Saturday morning sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Huntington Beach and Seal Beach.

Lance Jacot, an opponent of redevelopment plans, told the audience that the plan didn't have the benefit of adequate citizen participation.

He said that the Project Area Committee, an advisory group on redevelopment, was supposed to represent the interests of citizens but that six of the 11 members were not residents of the project area.

Jacot said that input from the citizens didn't warrant projections that could result in "incredible density." He said that decisions would be made after that fact and that too few people will be making the decisions.

"Once the enabling legislation is enacted, it will be in force for 35 years," he said. "Limits, restrictions and controls don't exist." He added that redevelopment would displace a number of residents and businesses.

Jerry Shea, a member of the Project Area Committee, offered an opposing viewpoint.

He said that development of the downtown is badly needed and that the area along Pacific Coast Highway is long past its prime.

Shea said the area along the beach has been called the front window of the city "but it is one that we can't look on with much pride."

He said redevelopment offers a chance to satisfy the top need of the city and that is to revitalize the downtown. He said redevelopment will enhance tax receipts and serve to hold down taxes.

Dr. Gordon Shanks, a member of the Seal Beach Project Area Committee, sounded a warning on redevelopment.

He said there are almost no legal remedies if the redevelopment agency makes a decision that citizens don't like. He said that redevelopment agencies, if given the choice, will almost always opt for the most intensive alternative of development to get extra revenues.

Crash Injures County Pilot

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — An Anaheim man who crashed in mountainous terrain while piloting a small aircraft over eastern Kern County remained in critical condition today at a hospital here, authorities reported.

The pilot was identified as Peter Pilling, 20. He crashed late Sunday afternoon in mountains near Lake Isabella. He was discovered by a U.S. Forest Service employee and taken to Mercy Hospital here.

Authorities don't know what caused the crash. Further details were unavailable.

Police said one hostage, embassy counsellor Hunen Hatem, was seriously wounded in the leg. The guerrillas allowed him to be taken to a hospital where he underwent a 1½-hour operation.

A Syrian official said the Palestinians surrendered after they realized they had failed to take the ambassador hostage. Ambassador Farouk al Sharae had left the embassy earlier to attend a ceremony.

About five hours after they stormed the Syrian Embassy, the Palestinians were jailed and charged with attempted murder, taking hostages, violent action against a private building and its occupants, and import, possession and use of explosives and war weapons.

A Palestinian, identified as the 25-year-old leader of the group, was quoted by Italian radio as saying they were protesting what they called Syria's betrayal of the Palestinian cause. Syrian forces allied with Lebanese Christians have been fighting leftists Moslems and Palestinians in the Lebanese civil war.

The attack came two weeks after Syrian authorities hanged in public in Damascus three Palestinian terrorists who had raided a hotel in an attack in which four hostages were killed.

Youssef Miro, an embassy official who was among today's hostages, said, "The three came in, leveled their guns at us and said they wanted to revenge the massacre in Lebanon." He said there were about 10 people in the building, but five fled by jumping from windows.

Taken hostage, he said, were three men and two women.

HB Shooting Being Probed; One Wounded

Conflicting stories among witnesses to a shooting in Huntington Beach that left one man wounded in the leg, apparently not seriously, were being evaluated by investigators today.

Details of the incident that occurred at 14th Street and Orange Avenue were sketchy, since complete reports of the gunshot assault had not yet been compiled.

Officers said in early stages of their probe the assault with a deadly weapon episode apparently involved two men, at least slightly acquainted with each other.

"Apparently it was a tossup just who was going to shoot whom," commented one officer.

No arrest was made and investigators say they have not yet established a specific motive for the predawn incident in the westerly downtown residential area.

Palestinian leader said the guerrillas were members of the Black June Movement, which is named for the month when Syria sent an estimated 13,000 troops and several hundred tanks into Lebanon.

The guerrilla leader said the embassy attack was designed to "draw the attention of the world to the betrayal of the Syrian government and the plot of Arab states against the Palestinian people."

"We did not want to harm anyone," he said. "This action marks a new stage in the struggle of the Palestinian people."

Police rushed to the scene when they heard shots from the embassy, a four-floor building with a garden on a quiet tree-lined street.

Police surrounded the embassy and placed sharpshooters on terraces and roofs of nearby buildings.

Funeral arrangements for Miss Lanham will be handled in Glen Burnie, Md., with Dilday Family Mortuary of Long Beach handling forwarding arrangements. She leaves her mother and father.

Police Probe Knifing Death

Anaheim police are seeking the killer of an unidentified stabbing victim whose body was found on a city street early Sunday morning.

The victim, believed to be an alien, reportedly died in Anaheim Memorial Hospital about an hour after being discovered lying at 1 a.m. in the street in the 100 block of Wills Drive.

Police said the mortally wounded man was treated at the scene by paramedics but died shortly after arriving at the hospital.

Turkey Trot Paycheck Wins Top Trophy

CUERO, Tex. (AP) — "Gentlemen, start your turkeys," was all Ruby Begonia IV and Paycheck needed to hear. With that, they began a frenzied foot and air race to decide the winner of this year's Traveling Turkey Trophy of Tumultuous Triumph.

When the feathers settled at the end of the 150-yard contest Sunday, Ruby had the fastest time in the final leg of the Great Gobbler Gallop. But Paycheck won the six-foot trophy.

Ruby, the Texas entry, failed to overcome a time loss she suffered against Paycheck in the first leg of the race last month at Worthington, Minn.

The gallop was the highlight of the annual Cuero Turkeyfest. The town of 8,000 bills itself as the Turkey Capital of the World, a title also claimed by Worthington.

Butz 'Closes Book' on Racial Slur

By KATHY CLANCY

Former agriculture secretary Earl Butz told an Orange County audience today he "paid a tremendous personal price" for what he said were indiscreet remarks about blacks.

But he told the crowd in Anaheim that he did not intend to discuss the matter further, noting "that chapter is closed."

Butz was speaking to about 1,500 delegates to the National Association of Concessionaires and National Association of Theater Owners at the Disneyland Hotel.

Butz, dressed conservatively in a gray pin-striped suit, blue striped shirt and maroon tie, said of the racial slur which forced his cabinet resignation a week ago, "I have apologized as sincerely as I know how to do it."

In a press conference afterward, he also said he would not discuss the matter further adding the remarks were taken out of context from a private conversation.

He said he intends to do all he can to help congressional candidates. President Ford's re-election effort as well as the drafting of new farm legislation. Partly referring to notes, Butz discussed free enterprise in the U.S. and what he said was the finest food supplying and marketing system in the world.

Butz, who served as agriculture secretary since 1971, said U.S. consumers spent 17 percent of their pay for food today compared with 20 percent in Canada and 25 to 40 percent in other nations of the world.

In addition, he said U.S. citizens

enjoy higher quality food than those in other nations and packaging and marketing provides some "built-in maid service."

For example, he said, 60 percent of the potatoes consumed in the U.S. today are already peeled and partially processed, work formerly done in the kitchen. And he said similar conveniences are packaged into other foods.

success stories in the American story." Because Americans spend relatively little for food, they have more money for automobiles, television sets and other conveniences.

Sudden Fog Hides Coast; 3 Aground

Two people were injured Sunday when a dense afternoon fog caused three power boats to run aground along the Orange Coast.

Bishop Moses suffered leg injuries when the 21-foot cabin cruiser Centurion, with seven people aboard, went on the rocks off Crescent Bay Point in Laguna Beach. Moses was apparently injured while attempting to hold the boat off the rocks. He was reported in guarded condition today at UCI Medical Center after undergoing surgery.

An unidentified woman was treated for minor shock after the 42-foot cabin cruiser Lucky Duck crashed onto San Juan Rock shortly after clearing the Dana Point Marina for Newport Beach. Harbor Department officials said the craft owned by A.E. Aiken eventually sank in 40 feet of water.

A 21-foot motorboat with four people aboard went aground off Eighth Street Sunset Beach. No injuries were reported.

A Harbor department spokesman said the afternoon fog caught many yachtsmen by surprise and Orange County Harbor Department rescue boats from Dana Point and Newport Harbor were kept busy locating small craft in distress.

Despite the numerous calls from people expressing concern over yachtsmen who had not returned on schedule, harbor department officials said all boatsmen were accounted for.

Palestinians Fail In Embassy Kidnap

3 More Raid 2nd Embassy

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Three Palestinians Monday attacked the Syrian Embassy and the ambassador's residence to protest against Syrian involvement in Lebanon, informed sources said.

The Palestinians were intercepted as they forced their way into the embassy and they exchanged fire with police guards. Unconfirmed reports say one of the attackers was killed and the others were injured.

The attackers also threw a hand grenade into a room of Syrian Ambassador Mohammed Shahr Dreib's house and it exploded but caused no injuries, the sources said.

The attack coincided with a raid Monday by Palestinians against the Syrian Embassy in Rome.

Two months ago 45 Palestinians, mostly students, stormed the Syrian Embassy in Pakistan and set a room afire.

Train Disaster

17 Killed, 45 Hurt in Mexico

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — A passenger train carrying tourists, including some Americans, collided with a freight train in the rugged Sierra Madre Mountains of northern Mexico, killing at least 17 persons and injuring 45, police reported today.

They said at least five of the injured were Americans, and there were unofficial reports that one of the dead was from New York City.

Some of the passengers were travel agents, most from Mexico

City, making the trip as part of a tourism promotion, police said.

The American Society of Travel Agents had been meeting in Guadalajara, though it was not known whether any of the group was aboard the train.

One observation car on the "Railroad to the Pacific" tumbled into a 45-foot-deep canyon when the passenger train smashed into the freight Sunday afternoon near the village of Pitoreal about 200 miles west of Chihuahua City and 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said.

They said rescue workers were still trying to pry apart the car's wreckage to reach passengers trapped inside. The rescue squads could not use cutting torches on the wreckage because spilled diesel fuel might ignite, police said.

The freight train was east-bound from San Rafael en route to Chihuahua City, and the passenger train was westbound on the same track, police said.

Two Crimes Linked

Suspects Similar in Police Drawings

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Costa Mesa police said today they have found several links between an attempted assault on a Laguna Hills woman a week ago, and the murder of a Costa Mesa housewife last month.

A description of her assailant by the Laguna Hills woman is very similar to the one provided by a witness in the murder of Pam Davis, who was shot five times at close range in her Costa Mesa home Sept. 10.

"At this time, we think both suspects may be the same man," said Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton.

Pam Davis received a phone call at her home, which was for sale, at about noon Sept. 10. The caller said he was interested in looking at the home, which had been advertised for sale in several newspapers.

The man, posing as a potential buyer, showed up at the home at 2867 Velasco Lane a short time later, wearing a black raincoat, black trousers and a hat pulled down over his face.

Mrs. Davis apparently allowed the man to enter her home, and a short time later, a young woman in the home heard shots and a scream.

The witness entered a hall in the home and saw the suspect standing at the entrance to the master bedroom. She ran out the back of the home and sought help.

In last week's assault attempt, a 26-year-old Laguna Hills housewife told Sheriff's deputies a man knocked on her front door and identified himself as a realtor.

When he entered the home, the tall suspect said he was not really a realtor. "What I really want is you," he told the woman.

The victim, who was edging toward a rear door, asked the man what his name was and he said, "Earl."

Sheriff's deputies said the woman then ran to a neighbor's home.

Costa Mesa's Lt. Lorton said today the Laguna Hills woman provided a description of the assault suspect before viewing an earlier drawing provided by the witness in the Pam Davis murder.

"The two drawings are very similar," he noted. Police are circulating the two drawings in hopes the suspect might be identified.

The man is described as being between 27 and 35 years old, with short black hair parted on the left. He wears square clear glasses with thick dark frames.

Anyone who can provide clues as to the man's identity is asked to contact Costa Mesa police or the Orange County Sheriff's Office.

Jail Inmates

Two Suspects Held In Holdup Slaying

Anaheim police have arrested two men held on drug charges in Westminster jail in connection with the fatal shotgun shooting of an Anaheim market clerk last Thursday night.

Police said today George Louis Ledesma, 19, of 14331 Olive St., Westminster, and an unidentified 16-year-old were arrested this morning following their jailing earlier this week on drug related charges in Westminster.

Costa Mesa police said today they are interested in the two men, whom they assert may also be responsible for the armed robbery of a Costa Mesa market last Tuesday night.

The pair is being held on suspicion of murder and robbery in the holdup of Albertson's Market, 610 S. Brookhurst St., Thursday.

Officers said they are seeking a third suspect in the market murder of clerk Jack Warren Mason, of Stanton, who was shot at point blank range by a suspect wielding a sawed-off shotgun. Mason died at West Anaheim

Community Hospital three hours after the shooting.

The three bandits entered the Albertson's Market at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, forcing about 15 to 20 customers to lie on the floor.

As the trio scooped up money from cash drawers, one suspect allegedly shot Mason at his cash register.

Witnesses said the clerk did not provoke the shooting and was apparently cooperating with the bandits at the time of the shooting.

Costa Mesa police today are obtaining photographs of the two Anaheim robbery suspects to circulate to witnesses of a Costa Mesa market robbery earlier last week.

They suspect the same gunmen were responsible for the robbery of Ralphs Market in the Harbor Shopping Center last Tuesday evening.

In the Costa Mesa robbery, three bandits took more than $1,000 in cash and another $3,000 (See SUSPECTS, Page A2)

2 Dead, 11 Hurt In Riot

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Two black inmates were stabbed to death and 11 others were injured when a group of white prisoners attacked the blacks in the dining room of Nevada State Prison, officials said.

One white inmate was hurt. The attack occurred Sunday, one day after officers began a partial release of inmates who were locked in their cells after racial fights broke out in the maximum security prison Sept. 27. About 415 inmates were locked in their cells after those fights, which left 36 inmates injured.

Authorities said no arrests were made pending a probe into the slayings.

Howard Pyle, head prison counselor and duty officer Sunday, said tear gas was lobbed into the cafeteria to force about 125 inmates into the main prison yard after the fighting broke out.

Pyle said whites and blacks were forced into opposite ends of the main prison yard as they came out of the dining room, but he didn't have exact numbers.

"This is apparently the aftermath of the incident two weeks ago," he said. "But different inmates were involved, because the main people involved two weeks ago are still in lockup."

"Two weeks ago, blacks attacked whites. This looks like retaliation."

Cops Arrest Sex Seekers In San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A crackdown on female prostitutes is aimed at discouraging them by taking away their customers.

Police arrested 40 men ranging in age from 19 to 67 last weekend for investigation of soliciting sex. Five hundred males have been arrested since May.

Among the latest 40, who later made bail, were 19 servicemen.

A police spokesman said none of the women working on downtown streets was arrested. Three women police decoys joined in.

At one time, he said, "guys were driving up to the curbs to stop and talk to girls. The traffic was backing up bumper to bumper on some streets."

"It got so bad out there that we had to concentrate on taking the business away from them," the spokesman said.

Ford Boycott Effort Claimed

By the Associated Press

Jimmy Carter today attacked President Ford's claim that the administration supports efforts to thwart the Arab boycott of Israel. Carter released copies of a letter he said proved conclusively that Ford opposed Congress' efforts to impose tax penalties on American firms that cooperated with the Arab boycott.

The letter, from Treasury Secretary William Simon, was written last August. It called the proposed tax legislation "an inappropriate and dangerous response to a delicate foreign policy problem."

During last week's debate, Ford said he had vigorously opposed the Arab boycott. Carter said Simon's letters shows that Ford was deceitful.

Both candidates are observing the traditional Columbus Day memorials as they enter the home stretch of the presidential campaign.

Ford was to mark the day by placing a wreath at a statue of Christopher Columbus in Washington, while Carter was attending Columbus Day services at Our Lady of Pompeii Church in Chicago and walking in the Columbus Day parade there.

wooing the nation's ethnic and religious voting groups, which form big blocks in major swing states. And both Ford and Carter tried to exploit the perceived blunders of their opponents in seeking support of one group or another.

In Chicago, Carter continued to pound away at Ford's statement that the Soviet Union does not dominate the nations of Eastern Europe.

Speaking to a banquet of Polish-Americans, Carter pledged that no word or deed of a Democratic White House would even hint at acceptance of permanent Soviet domination of Eastern Europe.

Ford, meanwhile, was seeking the votes of Southern Baptists, a constituency some have conceded to Carter.

In Texas, Ford attended televised services at First Baptist Church of Dallas, the largest church in the Southern Baptist Convention. Its pastor, the Rev. W. A. Criswell, publicly endorsed the President.

The Rev. Mr. Criswell, a pastor with a habit of speaking out on politics, was sharply critical of Carter in his sermon because of his interview with Playboy magazine.

The minister called Playboy a "salacious, pornographic magazine." He called Ford a president who "seeks godly wisdom in making worldly decisions." Ford, he said, had been asked for an interview by Playboy and had refused. The congregation of 6,000 persons applauded.

Campus Child Care Center Debate Looms

An issue that was a hot potato during summer budget deliberations — a campus child care center — may heat up again tonight at the Saddleback College board of trustees meeting.

A report from the architects assigned to design the facility in an existing "lower campus" building are due to make their report. Trustees will be asked to set the project in motion.

The proposed center became an issue in June when several trustees voiced philosophical objections to the concept. They claimed such a center encouraged mothers to neglect their children.

The total project will cost $21,000 and the architects were paid $1,900 to design it.

The college board meeting is due to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the college library.

Jews Pen Letter

MOSCOW (AP) — Two leading Jewish dissidents have written an open letter to President Ford asking why "that just during your presidency, Jewish emigration from the U.S.S.R. drastically decreased." Mark Azbel, one of the writers of the letter, said their purpose was not to embarrass the President before the election but wanted him to reconcile his concern with "the fact he has apparently done nothing to help our situation."

Carter to Revise Campaign Manual

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter has ordered his staff to revise a manual that suggests such tactics as stalling traffic to create crowds and using fictitious names in telephone surveys.

The manual was written for the Carter campaign's advance men, who precede the Democratic presidential candidate to campaign stops and take charge of planning and promotion.

Some of it "is not in line with the way I want to see this campaign run," Carter was quoted by his press secretary, Jody Powell.

Powell said Carter had never seen the manual. The campaign staff's review of it, he added, was hurried and inadequate.

Some details in the manual were "never intended to be taken seriously," said its author, chief Carter advance man Jim King.

The manual is a guide to drawing and pleasing crowds. "These techniques will enable you to draw a substantial crowd through organization in a relatively invisible manner which will lead the press to infer that the candidate drew the crowd," it said.

One method mentioned is stalling cars to create a traffic jam. Another is to "invent a fictitious name like 'Resort Marketing Inc.'" to use in telephone surveys to determine whether people intend to be home on the date of a campaign appearance.

The manual is very specific about the physical arrangements for a Carter appearance. It touts Carter's hair as his best feature, and it tells how to arrange television lighting to create a radiant circle around Carter's head to highlight it.

Whoever appears on stage with Carter, the handbook says, "should be Middle American in appearance and balanced by race and sex."

"Don't leave enthusiasm to chance... Encourage pandemonium by scattering hardcore enthusiasts through the crowd... Organize 'spontaneous' cheering... Instruct the claqueurs to clap, chant, and cheer when the candidate arrives," the manual advises.

The handbook tells Carter's press aides to dribble out information to reporters to insure maximum publicity for the candidate. "Never tell people more than they need to know to perform their function," it adds. "By restricting knowledge you will be better able to control what happens."

Carter, the manual states, "dislikes being hustled around by excitable people. He needs 15 to 50 minutes of private time to prepare for every major speech. There must be a decent private holding room with bathroom near where he will speak."

Police Probe Knifing Death

Anaheim police are seeking the killer of an unidentified stabbing victim whose body was found on a city street early Sunday morning.

The victim, believed to be an alien, reportedly died in Anaheim Memorial Hospital about an hour after being discovered lying at 1 a.m. in the street in the 100 block of Wills Drive.

Police said the mortally wounded man was treated at the scene by paramedics but died shortly after arriving at the hospital.

Trio Seized In Clemente Jewel Holdup

Three men face armed robbery charges in San Clemente today after they were chased down by the wife of a jeweler who'd been robbed and maced.

Police said Michael Disieno, owner of Michael's Jewelers, 139 Avenida Del Mar, called police Friday afternoon to report he'd been robbed.

As police cars sped to the scene, Disieno's wife took off on foot after the three men and chased them down the street to another jewelry store, Phillips Jewelers.

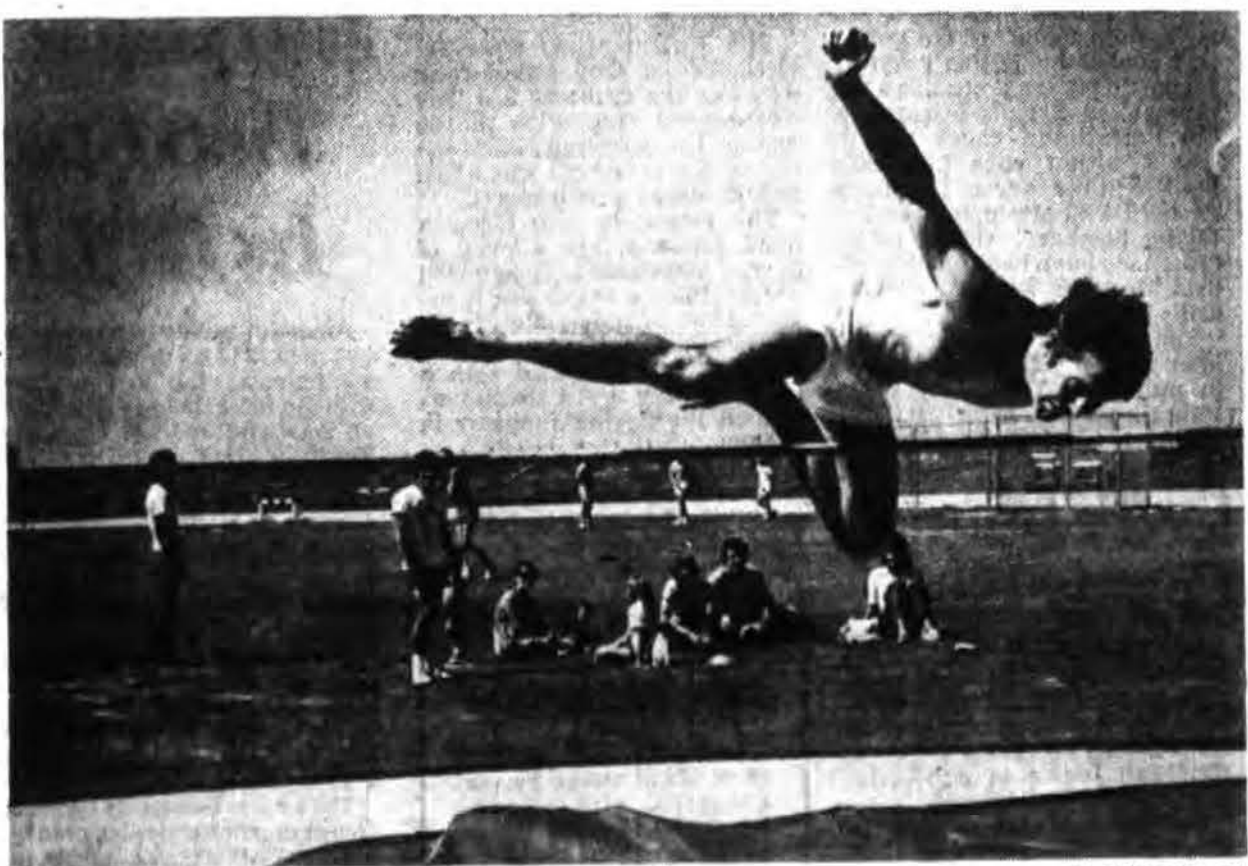

Police spotted the suspects, and the woman chasing them, and made arrests. Booked on charges of armed robbery were Thomas G. Irving, 45, of Visalia, Helen Q. Irving, 26, of Porterville, and Bill W. Pierce, 26, of Hermosa Beach.

A 9 mm Walther semiautomatic pistol was booked into evidence as the alleged weapon used to hold up the store.

Ford Opinion Chided by Pole

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The top ranking Polish-American in the Ford administration says the President's statement that the Soviets don't dominate eastern Europe was an inadvertent "overstatement."

"The President recognizes, and he must recognize, that Poland is in a sphere of influence by the Soviets. He certainly knows the reality of East and West," said Mitchell Kobelinski.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "What's 'Stargazy Pie'?"

A. A baked fish dish. Out of the hot pie crust across the top are supposed to protrude the numerous heads of small sardines, each looking straight at you. No, thank you, my dear, I'll pick up a snack at the club.

Q. "What's the world's longest street?"

A. Some claim it's that 30-mile stretch of Figueroa between Colorado Boulevard in Pasadena and the Pacific Coast Highway of Los Angeles. But debate goes on.

Q. "Can you identify the first lady newspaper editor?"

A. Wouldn't that be Anne Franklin? She edited the Mercury in Newport, R.I., in 1762.

A recent survey in our prisons reveals a predominance there of convicts born under the sign of Aquarius with Capricorns next and then Tauruses. Fewest were those prisoners born under the sign of Aries.

Probably no other animal, including man, is so fond of chewing tobacco as the elephant.

Did I list Mrs. Andrew Jackson as one of our First Ladies? Wrong again! She died before her husband was inaugurated.

KINDNESS

Item No. 684C in our Love and War man's file entitled "Kindness" is a quotation from actress Lauren Bacall: "Women are kinder to men than men are to women. If men knew the power of kindness, they'd have to beat the women off with sticks."

Not counting birds, what marine creature travel the seas with the wind for propulsion? Some jellyfish do. And so do right whales, using their tails for sails.

President George Washington's eggnog recipe called for whiskey, rum, brandy, sherry, spices and a bit of honey with the eggs.

It's a matter of record, too, that a certain Egyptian pharaoh many centuries ago was particularly fond of freshly picked cherries. But the nearest cherry orchards were 400 miles northeast at Baalbek, Syria. So at the outset of the picking season, a flock of 2,000 carrier pigeons was shipped there. Each bird was harnessed with a sack only large enough to hold one big cherry. All were loaded up with fruit and turned loose. Those cherries picked in the morning wound up on the pharaoh's table that night.

Did somebody say "race car" was a rare phrase inasmuch as it spells the same way both backwards and forwards? Not at all rare. Consider: Bird rib, bomb mob, party trap, live devil, seven eves, girl rig, daft dad, diary raid, elite tile and gate tag.

An 'Electronic Junta' Former Nixon Aide Blasts Media in County Talk

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Former Nixon aide Bruce Herschensohn says bias in the nation's news media led to the fall of Richard Nixon, the rise of communist influence in southeast Asia and the purge of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Speaking after a meeting of the World Affairs Council of Orange County, the 44-year-old author and former film producer said, "The nation is dangerously close to an electronic junta. There is a need for more self-discipline and restraint on the part of the people operating the news. The public should raise a furor."

Herschensohn called the recent Ford-Carter debates on domestic and foreign policy "a futile exercise." "It isn't the President who directs our foreign and domestic policy," he said, "it's the national media."

HERSCHENSOHN

ALTHOUGH THE FORMER deputy special assistant to Richard Nixon denied that there is a conspiracy in the media, he said that there is a definite strand of liberalism. Herschensohn said there is a need for more diverse views and less selectivity.

"What is and what isn't reported is the most important aspect of the news," he said. "What a newsman thinks is a wrong in society may not be."

Herschensohn cited the unemployment issue as an example. "How can that be the highest priority when 92 percent of the nation is employed?" he asked.

IN CONTRAST, HERSCHENSOHN said the media failed to give sufficient coverage to an Aug. 22 incident in which a pastor in East Berlin burned himself to death to protest Communism. "In my mind, anyone willing to kill themselves is worthy of media attention," he said.

Herschensohn referred to TV newscasters as "performers" whose artistic orientation causes them to use phrases that provoke negative images.

"Was the Saturday Night Massacre (Nixon's dismissal of special prosecutor Archibald Cox) really a massacre? Did Nixon really work in a small, secret hideaway?"

"The same thought process runs through all TV networks," he said. "When you have the responsibility of telling the nation the news you shouldn't editorialize."

HERSCHENSOHN SAID during his talk Thursday that the recent printing of classified documents on the CIA formed "a fuzzy line between scoop and treason." "Daniel Schorr went above the will of Congress and the American people," he said.

"Yet there is a different set of rules for reporters than the Nixon Administration," he said, commenting on the lack of investigative reporting into the Schorr case.

Herschensohn described the Watergate scandal as "unavoidable" but said that imbalance in reporting can be stopped. "There will always be some damn fool who's going to do something illegal," he said. "It's just human nature."

HE HAD THE CASE of Utah Congressman Allan Howe, who was indicted on charges of soliciting prostitution, as another example of the media's "phony morality." Herschensohn drew applause when he said: "Since Watergate we judge people by mistakes while we judge ourselves by our highest accomplishments. You can't judge someone by one night's foolishness."

Herschensohn cited the three major TV networks, the Washington Post, the New York Times, Time magazine and Newsweek as the media outlets most responsible for the bias he believes plagues the news.

Butz 'Closes Book' on Racial Slur

By KATHY CLANCY

Former agriculture secretary Earl Butz told an Orange County audience today he "paid a tremendous personal price" for what he said were indiscreet remarks about blacks.

But he told the crowd in Anaheim that he did not intend to discuss the matter further, noting "that chapter is closed."

Butz was speaking to about 1,500 delegates to the National Association of Concessionaires and National Association of Theater Owners at the Disneyland Hotel.

Butz, dressed conservatively in a gray pin-striped suit, blue striped shirt and maroon tie, said of the racial slur which forced his cabinet resignation a week ago, "I have apologized as sincerely as I know how to do it."

In a press conference afterward, he also said he would not discuss the matter further adding the remarks were taken out of context from a private conversation.

He said he intends to do all he can to help congressional candidates, President Ford's reelection effort as well as the drafting of new farm legislation.

Partly referring to notes, Butz

discussed free enterprise in the U.S. and what he said was the finest food supplying and marketing system in the world.

Butz, who served as agriculture secretary since 1971, said U.S. consumers spent 17 percent of their pay for food today compared with 20 percent in Canada and 25 to 40 percent in other nations of the world.

In addition, he said U.S. citizens

enjoy higher quality food than those in other nations and packaging and marketing provides some "built-in maid service."

For example, he said, 60 percent of the potatoes consumed in the U.S. today are already peeled and partially processed, work formerly done in the kitchen. And he said similar conveniences are packaged into other foods.

success stories in the American story."

Because Americans spend relatively little for food, they have more money for automobiles, television sets and other conveniences.

"If you listen to some of the political palaver that is going around you get the impression that America is falling apart at (See BUTZ, Page A2)

Sewage Spill Closes Clemente Beach Again

Sixth Time In 1976

Something happens on holiday weekends in San Clemente. It happened July 4. It happened Labor Day

It's happened again this Columbus Day holiday.

For the sixth time since January, a sewage spill has closed a section of prime beach. The sewer backup occurred Sunday afternoon after a citizens band radio enthusiast, trying to raise an antenna, knocked the antenna into three 12,000-volt power lines.

One of the lines broke, resulting in a blackout for five hours to hundreds of San Clemente homes and businesses, and a failure at the Linda Lane sewer pump station, where new pumps were installed after the Labor Day pump failure there.

More than a mile of beach, from the municipal pier to Estacion Beach, was ordered closed by the county health department at least through Thursday.

The Linda Lane pumps functioned for two hours after the power failure, but heat and tension were through drivebelts. According to City Engineer Phil Peter, the Linda Lane pumps were out only about an hour during which raw sewage bubbled into the sea.

There was conflicting information about just how much sewage poured into the ocean, and for actually how long, however.

Lifeguards reported sewage seeped for several hours. Peter said only about 7,200 gallons of sewer water and solid wastes entered the ocean, but county health official estimates were as high as 100,000 gallons, which would have made the spill one of the worst of the year.

Firemen, meanwhile, reported that Wayne Lile, 1016 Buena Vista, whose work with the CB antenna allegedly initiated the power failure, was lucky to be alive.

They said he was fortunate not to have been struck by the broken electrical wire.

Laguna Rape Try, Mesa Murder Linked

By STEVE MITCHELL

Costa Mesa police said today they have found several links between an attempted assault on a Laguna Hills woman a week ago, and the murder of a Costa Mesa housewife last month.

A description of her assailant by the Laguna Hills woman is very similar to the one provided by a witness in the murder of Pam Davis, who was shot five times at close range in her Costa Mesa home Sept. 10.

"At this time, we think both suspects may be the same man," said Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton.

Pam Davis received a phone call at her home, which was for sale, at about noon Sept. 10. The caller said he was interested in looking at the home, which had been advertised for sale in several newspapers.

The man, posing as a potential buyer, showed up at the home at 2867 Velasco Lane a short time later, wearing a black raincoat, black trousers and a hat pulled down over his face.

Mrs. Davis apparently allowed the man to enter her home, and a short time later, a young woman in the home heard shots and a scream.

The witness entered a hall in the home and saw the suspect standing at the entrance to the master bedroom. She ran out the back of the home and sought help.

In last week's assault attempt, a 26-year-old Laguna Hills housewife told Sheriff's deputies a man knocked on her front door and identified himself as a realtor.

When he entered the home, the tall suspect said he was not really a realtor. "What I really want is you," he told the woman.

The victim, who was edging toward a rear door, asked the man what his name was and he said, "Earl."

Sheriff's deputies said the (See LINKS, Page A2)

Crowds Big, Surf Small On S. Coast

Sunny weather and temperatures as high as 93 degrees in Laguna Beach brought summer-like crowds to the South Coast beaches over the weekend.

There were however, relatively few rescues made by San Clemente and Laguna Beach lifeguards. Although the crowds were large the surf was small.

Laguna Beach guards rescued 73-year-old Mildred Juarez of Redlands after a mishap at the Diamond Street beach.

The elderly woman was knocked down in the surf and broke her leg Sunday. She was taken to South Coast Community Hospital where she was reported in stable condition today.

San Clemente lifeguards reported making 54 rescues over the weekend as an estimated 12,000 persons went to city beaches.

Two Trains Collide In Northern Mexico

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — A passenger train carrying tourists, including some Americans, collided with a freight train in the rugged Sierra Madre Mountains of northern Mexico, killing at least 17 persons and injuring 45, police reported today.

They said at least five of the injured were Americans, and there were unofficial reports that one of the dead was from New York City.

Some of the passengers were travel agents, most from Mexico City, making the trip as part of a tourism promotion, police said.

The American Society of Travel Agents had been meeting in Guadalajara, though it was not known whether any of the group was aboard the train.

One observation car on the "Railroad to the Pacific" tumbled into a 45-foot-deep canyon when the passenger train smashed into the freight Sunday afternoon near the village of Pitotreal about 200 miles west of Chihuahua City and 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said.

They said rescue workers were still trying to pry apart the car's wreckage to reach passengers trapped inside. The rescue squads could not use cutting torches on the wreckage because spilled diesel fuel might ignite, police said.

Fog Hides Coast; 3 Boats Aground

Two people were injured Sunday when a dense afternoon fog caused three power boats to run aground along the Orange Coast.

Bishop Moses suffered leg injuries when the 21-foot cabin cruiser Centurion, with seven people aboard, went on the rocks off Crescent Bay Point in Laguna Beach. Moses was apparently injured while attempting to hold the boat off the rocks. He was reported in guarded condition today at UCI Medical Center after undergoing surgery.

An unidentified woman was treated for minor shock after the 42-foot cabin cruiser Lucky Duck crashed onto San Juan Rock shortly after clearing the Dana Point Marina for Newport Beach. Harbor Department officials said the craft owned by A.E. Aiken eventually sank in 40 feet of water.

A 21-foot motorboat with four people aboard went aground off Eighth Street Sunset Beach. No injuries were reported.

A Harbor department spokesman said the afternoon fog caught many yachtsmen by surprise and Orange County Harbor Department rescue boats from Dana Point and Newport Harbor were kept busy locating small craft in distress.

Also assisting in the rescue operations was the Coast Guard cutter Point Divide.

Despite the numerous calls from people expressing concern over yachtsmen who had not returned on schedule, harbor department officials said all boatsmen were accounted for.

Cops Probe Occult-style Cat Slaying

San Clemente police are investigating the occult-style slaying of a small black and white cat that had been crucified and left in the yard behind a policeman's apartment Sunday. The animal's throat had been cut.

The cat was tied to a cross and at its feet, said police, was the drawn figure of a death's head or devil. Around the figure were the words "Sun, Earth, Moon, Air, Sea."

The paper with the words also contained astrological signs.

The remains were found by the wife of the San Clemente police officer beneath her clothes line. Police said the yard, surrounded by a high fence, serves four apartments. Investigators do not believe that the slaying of the cat was linked to the fact that a policeman lives in one of the apartments.

The front verandah of the apartments, in the northwest sector of the city, was covered by blood. Police said the animal had apparently been throttled there and carried to or thrown into the backyard.

Police could not give a reason for the cruel act.

Drug Thieves Hit Pharmacy in Laguna

Laguna Beach Police are investigating the theft of $3,054 worth of drugs from Bushards Pharmacy, 244 Forest Avenue.

Police suspect the theft late last week was committed by someone who hid inside the store after it was closed for business. The theft included large amounts of narcotic and other prescription drugs.

Police Query Pair on Drugs

Anaheim police have arrested two men held on drug charges in Westminster jail in connection with the fatal shotgun shooting of an Anaheim market clerk last Thursday night.

Police said today George Louis Ledesma, 19, of 14331 Olive St., Westminster, and an unidentified 16-year-old were arrested this morning following their jailing earlier this week on drug related charges in Westminster.

Costa Mesa police said today they are interested in the two men, whom they assert may also be responsible for the armed robbery of a Costa Mesa market last Tuesday night.

The pair is being held on suspicion of murder and robbery in the holdup of Albertson's Market, 610 S. Brookhurst St., Thursday.

Officers said they are seeking a third suspect in the market murder of clerk Jack Warren Mason, of Stanton, who was shot at point blank range by a suspect wielding a sawed-off shotgun.

Mason died at West Anaheim Community Hospital three hours after the shooting.

The three bandits entered the Albertson's Market at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, forcing about 15 to 20 customers to lie on the floor.

As the trio scooped up money from cash drawers, one suspect allegedly shot Mason at his cash register.

Witnesses said the clerk did not provoke the shooting and was apparently cooperating with the bandits at the time of the shooting.

Costa Mesa police today are obtaining photographs of the two Anaheim robbery suspects to circulate to witnesses of a Costa Mesa market robbery earlier last week.

They suspect the same gunmen were responsible for the robbery of Ralphs Market in the Harbor Shopping Center last Tuesday evening.

In the Costa Mesa robbery, three bandits took more than $1,000 in cash and another $3,000 in checks and food stamps from the market.

The shotgun-armed suspect allegedly struck a market clerk with the barrel of his gun before the three men fled into the darkness.

Costa Mesa police said the three men are very similar in description to the Anaheim robbers.

Meanwhile, the executive board of Retail Clerks Union Local 324 has offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of retail clerk Mason.

Albertson's Market earlier offered a similar award for the apprehension of the suspects.

Looming In Report

The Laguna Beach Planning Commission will review a report Tuesday suggesting all buildings and nonemergency vehicles be banned from city beaches and parks.

The meeting is at 4:30 p.m. at city hall.

The report by the city's parks and recreation committee shapes up as a political football.

The commission has been instructed by the City Council to ignore the matter and defer the report until the Recreation committee defines its goals for the year.

Implementation of the report — or even its acceptance by the commission — could have an impact on plans for construction of a lifeguard headquarters at Main Beach Park, plans the City Council has given informal approval to.

Some members of the city planning commission are known to oppose development of the lifeguard facility at the park. The commission under its own rules has been prevented from taking a stand on the matter which has generated a head of steam at the city council level.

A previous attempt to put a lifeguard facility at the north end of the park where a sewer pump station is located was killed once by the commission more than a year ago when it voted construction would not be in conformance with the city's general plan because it would "encroach on the park."

The issue currently shapes up as a bit of preliminary parliamentary wrangling between the council, the commission and the parks committee.

Other commission business includes development of a specific plan limiting development at Crescent Bay Point and application for federal housing and community assistance funds.

Three Palestinians Shoot Way Into Embassy

ROME (AP) — Three Palestinians protesting Syrian intervention in Lebanon shot their way into the Syrian Embassy in Rome today but surrendered to police after holding five hostages for two hours.

Police said one hostage, embassy counsellor Hussein Hatem, was seriously wounded in the leg. The guerrillas allowed him to be taken to a hospital where he underwent a 1½-hour operation.

A Syrian official said the Palestinians surrendered after they realized they had failed to take the ambassador hostage. Ambassador Farouk al Sharaf had left the embassy earlier to attend a ceremony.

About five hours after they stormed the Syrian Embassy, against a private building and its occupants, and import, possession and use of explosives and war weapons.

A Palestinian, identified as the 25-year-old leader of the group, was quoted by Italian radio as saying they were protesting what they called Syria's betrayal of the Palestinian cause. Syrian forces allied with Lebanese the Palestinians were jailed and charged with attempted murder, taking hostages, violent action Christians have been fighting leftists Moslems and Palestinians in the Lebanese civil war.

The attack came two weeks after Syrian authorities hanged in public in Damascus three Palestinian terrorists who had raided a hotel in an attack in which four hostages were killed.

Youssef Miro, an embassy official who was among today's hostages, said, "The three came in, leveled their guns at us and said they wanted to revenge the massacre in Lebanon." He said there were about 10 people in the building, but five fled by jumping from windows.

Taken hostage, he said, were three men and two women.

In his radio interview, the Palestinian leader said the guerrillas were members of the Black June Movement, which is named for the month when Syria sent an estimated 13,000 troops and several hundred tanks into Lebanon.

The guerrilla leader said the embassy attack was designed to "draw the attention of the world to the betrayal of the Syrian government and the plot of Arab states against the Palestinian people."

"We did not want to harm anyone," he said. "This action marks a new stage in the struggle of the Palestinian people."

Police rushed to the scene when they heard shots from the embassy, a four-floor building with a garden on a quiet tree-lined street.

Police surrounded the embassy and placed sharpshooters on terraces and roofs of nearby buildings.

"You get the idea that you had better crawl back to your shells and sit on what you have."

But he said it has been free enterprise and an ability by government to let free enterprise work that led the country to where it is today.

He referred to this year's federal budget which will exceed $400 billion and said that it is bound to be inflationary.

"We have got to face up to the questions here in America," Butz said, "and ask if we are going to dedicate ourselves to that wedding of economics and political principles which has worked so well in the past 200 years."

Unlike an appearance last Friday in Mississippi which was interrupted by hecklers, Butz' appearance this morning was broken up several times by laughter and applause.

He joked about his expenses for the trip to California saying now that he was a private citizen he hoped the associations were picking up his tab and in referring to his age of 67 he said "there is plenty of life in me. I am the same age as Wilbur Mills and I am just one year older than Wayne Hays."

Suspect Killed

PAMPLONA, Spain (AP) — Youths demonstrated and some businesses closed their doors in mourning today after police shot and killed a robbery suspect near this city in the tense Basque region of northern Spain.

New San Juan Traffic Panel Member Seated

Gary Hausdorfer, 30, has been sworn in as San Juan Capistrano traffic and transportation commissioner.

Hausdorfer is no stranger to the traffic commission. For three years he has battled for improvements to the narrow, winding Via de Agua, sole access road to the Alto Capistrano tract in south San Juan.

The past two years he has served as president of the Alto Capistrano homeowners' association.

Hausdorfer, vice president of W.R. Campbell Company and manager of the Laguna Hills business park, said he views the main task facing the traffic commission as revision of the circulation element in San Juan's general plan.

"It is extremely important, as the valley continues to grow," he said, "that we have a traffic plan to handle the increased load."

"In the meantime, we'll be working to assure our existing roads are safe and new subdivisions have well-planned access routes."

San Juan's Council OKs Traveling Van

The San Juan Capistrano City Council has approved funding for a van and two recreation leaders to carry the city recreation program to the people — wherever they are.

The van, carrying craft materials, tumbling mats and table games, will visit San Juan parks, school sites, and cul-de-sacs in housing tracts on a rotating schedule, so that residents citywide can participate, said Thomas Baker, recreation director.

The program evolved out of a summer recreation session in which staff transported equipment in their own vehicles. More than 3,000 youngsters participated in crafts and games at five city parks and San Juan Elementary and Marco Forster Intermediate Schools, Baker said.

The Capistrano Valley Lions Club will donate funds toward purchase of the van, which has been dubbed the San Juan "gamemobile."

Components, Cash Taken in Theft

Stereo components and cash with a total value of $858.04 have been stolen from a Capistrano Beach home by burglars who entered via a sliding glass door.

Handicapped Fight for Rights

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The handicapped figure the best way to make it convenient for them to get around in public is to put civic leaders in wheelchairs and let them see how far they can go.

This is just one project planned by the South Orange County chapter of the California Association of the Physically Handicapped (CAPH).

"People don't realize how difficult it is for a handicapped person to shop or attend school or go to the beach — activities other people take for granted," said Cleo Weibert, chapter president.

Mrs. Weibert, who was crippled by polio as a young child, said handicapped people should have the most convenient parking spaces.

"It's not just to save us a few steps," she said. "Those special parking slots are reserved next to an open space, because it takes a lot of room to get a wheelchair out of a car."

Mrs. Weibert, who can get around quite spryly with the help of a cane, traveled to Hawaii entirely by wheelchair, in order to discover how the trip could be made easier for someone unable to travel any other way.

"Our goal is to make as much available to the handicapped as to the non-handicapped person," she said. "Our organization welcomes all people interested in helping us meet this goal. Not everyone in the Heart Association has heart problems, and we don't limit our membership to the handicapped."

One non-handicapped person who is active in the south county chapter is Ellen Trujillo of Dana Point. She is involved in problems of the handicapped ranging from fighting for pending legislation to developing projects for those confined to a wheelchair.

One of her current projects is working for a dial-a-ride system to assure local handicapped students are not prevented from attending college because they lack transportation.

The local CAPH chapter is cooperating with Saddleback College on Thursday, "Awareness Day," to present an informational program from 2 to 4 p.m. at the campus for the handicapped.

The local CAPH group also holds monthly meetings at Marco Forster Junior High School in San Juan Capistrano.

"Our meetings feature a speaker, who presents information helpful to the handicapped," said Mrs. Weibert. "Mike Kevoian, a Long Beach artist who teaches the handicapped, also attends each month with some of his students for painting demonstrations."

"Perhaps the most valuable part of the meeting, though, is the opportunity to share with one another in an atmosphere where we don't have to feel self-conscious."

Additional information on CAPH activities is available by calling Mrs. Weibert, 496-2836, or Mrs. Trujillo, 496-2938.

Butz 'Closes Chapter' on Racial Slur

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Former agriculture secretary Earl Butz told an Orange County audience today he "paid a tremendous personal price" for what he said were indiscreet remarks about blacks.

But he told the crowd in Anaheim that he did not intend to discuss the matter further, noting "that chapter is closed."

Butz was speaking to about 1,500 delegates to the National Association of Concessionaires and National Association of Theater Owners at the Disneyland Hotel.

Butz, dressed conservatively in a gray pin-striped suit, blue striped shirt and maroon tie, said of the racial slur which forced his cabinet resignation a week ago, "I have apologized as sincerely as I know how to do it."

In a press conference afterward, he also said he would not discuss the matter further adding the remarks were taken out of context from a private conversation.

He said he intends to do all he can to help congressional candidates, President Ford's reelection effort as well as the drafting of new farm legislation.

Partly referring to notes, Butz discussed free enterprise in the U.S. and what he said was the finest food supply and marketing system in the world.

Butz, who served as agriculture secretary since 1971, said U.S. consumers spent 17 percent of their pay for food today compared with 20 percent in Canada and 25 to 40 percent in other nations of the world.

In addition, he said U.S. citizens

enjoy higher quality food than those in other nations and packaging and marketing provides some "built-in maid service."

For example, he said, 60 percent of the potatoes consumed in the U.S. today are already peeled and partially processed, work formerly done in the kitchen. And he said similar conveniences are packaged into other foods.

success stories in the American story."

Because Americans spend relatively little for food, they have more money for automobiles, television sets and other conveniences.

"If you listen to some of the political palaver that is going around you get the impression that America is falling apart at (See BUTZ, Page A2)

Israelis to Receive Sophisticated Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has agreed to give Israel a new, extremely sophisticated missile system for use primarily in antitank warfare, Israeli and U.S. sources said today.

The deal does not involve an increase in the cost of American military aid now scheduled for Israel, but will make new weapons available that were not previously offered.

Israel is now set to receive $1.5 billion in direct military aid plus another $800 million in economic assistance.

The new program involves a top-secret antitank missile system within that financial framework, according to an Israeli official.

Presidential press secretary Ron Nessen confirmed that the U.S. would give Israel "certain additional items of military hardware," adding that "it is in our interest to sell these goods."

Nessen declined to spell out what the new equipment would be, though some details were obtained from sources elsewhere.

Sources from both governments, including White House officials, ruled out any Israeli acquisition of the Pershing missile, however. The Pershing is a tactical system capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

Word of the development was confirmed as Israel's deputy Prime Minister, Yigal Allon, conferred with President Ford.

School Board Sets Meeting Over McNally

Trustees of the Newport-Mesa Unified School District will meet Tuesday night to continue discussion on the relocation of McNally continuation high school.

With the pending sale of the downtown McNally site, trustees plan on closing one or more schools in order to relocate McNally students.

Deputy Superintendent Norman Loats will present slides demonstrating what boundary changes may be necessary and where students would be placed if their school is closed.

At present, trustees have considered the following schools for possible closure: Kaiser Middle School, Bay View, Lindbergh, Mariners, Woodland, Harper and Monte Vista elementary schools.

The public meeting begins Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Newport Harbor High School auditorium.

3 Boats Aground In Fog

Two people were injured Sunday when a dense afternoon fog caused three power boats to run aground along the Orange Coast.

Bishop Moses suffered leg injuries when the 21-foot cabin cruiser Centurion, with seven people aboard, went on the rocks off Crescent Bay Point in Laguna Beach. Moses was apparently injured while attempting to hold the boat off the rocks. He was reported in guarded condition today at UCI Medical Center after undergoing surgery.

An unidentified woman was treated for minor shock after the 42-foot cabin cruiser Lucky Duck crashed onto San Juan Rock shortly after clearing the Dana Point Marina for Newport Beach. Harbor Department officials said the craft owned by A.E. Aiken eventually sank in 40 feet of water.

A 21-foot motorboat with four people aboard went aground off Eighth Street Sunset Beach. No injuries were reported.

A Harbor department spokesman said the afternoon fog caught many yachtsmen by surprise and Orange County Harbor Department rescue boats from Dana Point and Newport Harbor were kept busy locating small craft in distress.

Also assisting in the rescue operations was the Coast Guard cutter Point Divide.

Cops Arrest Sex Seekers In San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A crackdown on female prostitutes is aimed at discouraging them by taking away their customers.

Police arrested 40 men ranging in age from 19 to 67 last weekend for investigation of soliciting sex. Five hundred males have been arrested since June.

Among the latest 40, who later made bail, were 19 servicemen.

A police spokesman said none of the women working on downtown streets was arrested. Three women police decoys joined in.

At one time, he said, "guys were driving up to the curbs to stop and talk to girls. The traffic was backing up bumper to bumper on some streets."

"It got so bad out there that we had to concentrate on taking the business away from them," the spokesman said.

Trains Hit In Mexico; 17 Perish

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — A passenger train carrying tourists, including some Americans, collided with a freight train in the rugged Sierra Madre Mountains of northern Mexico, killing at least 17 persons and injuring 45, police reported today.

They said at least five of the injured were Americans, and there were unofficial reports that one of the dead was from New York City.

Some of the passengers were travel agents, most from Mexico City, making the trip as part of a tourism promotion, police said.

The American Society of Travel Agents had been meeting in Guadalajara, though it was not known whether any of the group was aboard the train.

One observation car on the "Railroad to the Pacific" tumbled into a 45-foot-deep canyon when the passenger train smashed into the freight Sunday afternoon near the village of Pit-torreal about 200 miles west of Chihuahua City and 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said.

They said rescue workers were still trying to pry apart the car's wreckage to reach passengers trapped inside. The rescue squads could not use cutting torches on the wreckage because spilled diesel fuel might ignite, police said.

The freight train was east-bound from San Rafael en route to Chihuahua City, and the passenger train was westbound on the same track, police said.

Artist's Drawings Similar

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Costa Mesa police said today they have found several links between an attempted assault on a Laguna Hills woman a week ago, and the murder of a Costa Mesa housewife last month.

A description of her assailant by the Laguna Hills woman is very similar to the one provided by a witness in the murder of Pam Davis, who was shot five times at close range in her Costa Mesa home Sept. 10.

"At this time, we think both suspects may be the same man," said Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton.

Pam Davis received a phone call at her home, which was for sale, at about noon Sept. 10. The caller said he was interested in looking at the home, which had been advertised for sale in several newspapers.

The man, posing as a potential buyer, showed up at the home at 2867 Velasco Lane a short time later, wearing a black raincoat, black trousers and a hat pulled down over his face.

Mrs. Davis apparently allowed the man to enter her home, and a short time later, a young woman in the home heard shots and a scream.

The witness entered a hall in the home and saw the suspect standing at the entrance to the master bedroom. She ran out the back of the home and sought help.

In last week's assault attempt, a 26-year-old Laguna Hills housewife told Sheriff's deputies a man knocked on her front door and identified himself as a realtor.

When he entered the home, the tall suspect said he was not really a realtor. "What I really want is you," he told the woman.

The victim, who was edging toward a rear door, asked the man what his name was and he said, "Earl."

Sheriff's deputies said the woman then ran to a neighbor's home.

Costa Mesa's Lt. Lorton said today the Laguna Hills woman provided a description of the assault suspect before viewing an earlier drawing provided by the witness in the Pam Davis murder.

"The two drawings are very similar," he noted.

Police are circulating the two drawings in hopes the suspect might be identified.

The man is described as being between 27 and 35 years old, with short black hair parted on the left. He wears square clear glasses with thick dark frames.

Burglars Hit Trio of Eateries

Three Newport Beach restaurants and a delicatessen were hit by burglars over the weekend, police reported today.

According to reports, in two of the burglaries, thieves made off with cash and goods valued at more than $1,170. In the other two, apparently nothing was taken, investigators said.

Thomas Arconti, owner of the Chicken Delight at 500 W. Coast Highway, told police he lost a meat slicer and $28 in rolled coins when burglars pried open the rear door during the hours of darkness Friday night and Saturday morning.

He told police he had secured the door by nailing it shut, but the thieves apparently were able to pry the door open anyway.

The second loss was reported Saturday morning by employees of the Smashed Potato, 101 Palm St., who said an overnight burglary cost the restaurant $156 in coins and cigarettes.

Police said a second Peninsula restaurant, the Tale of the Whale at the Balboa Pavilion, was broken into but apparently nothing was taken by the thieves who were frightened off by the burglary alarm.

Employees of Gallo's Italian Deli, 3900 E. Coast Highway, also reported an attempted break in from Friday night but police said that burglary was apparently foiled by the door lock that the intruders could not break.

Turkey Trot Paycheck Wins Top Trophy

CUERO, Tex. (AP) — "Gentlemen, start your turkeys," was all Ruby Begonia IV and Paycheck needed to hear. With that, they began a frenzied foot and air race to decide the winner of this year's Traveling Turkey Trophy of Tumultuous Triumph.

When the feathers settled at the end of the 150-yard contest Sunday, Ruby had the fastest time in the final leg of the Great Gobbler Gallop. But Paycheck won the six-foot trophy.

Ruby, the Texas entry, failed to overcome a time loss she suffered against Paycheck in the first leg of the race last month at Worthington, Minn.

The gallop was the highlight of the annual Cuero Turkeyfest. The town of 8,000 bills itself as the Turkey Capital of the World, a title also claimed by Worthington.

Carter Attacks 'Deceit'

By the Associated Press
Jimmy Carter today attacked President Ford's claim that the administration supports efforts to thwart the Arab boycott of Israel. Carter released copies of a letter he said proved conclusively that Ford opposed Congress' efforts to impose tax penalties on American firms that cooperated with the Arab boycott.

The letter, from Treasury Secretary William Simon, was written last August. It called the proposed tax legislation "an inappropriate and dangerous response to a delicate foreign policy problem."

During last week's debate, Ford said he had vigorously opposed the Arab boycott. Carter said Simon's letters shows that Ford was deceitful.

Both candidates are observing the traditional Columbus Day memorials as they enter the home stretch of the presidential campaign.

Ford was to mark the day by placing a wreath at a statue of Christopher Columbus in Washington, while Carter was attending Columbus Day services at Our Lady of Pompeii Church in Chicago and walking in the Columbus Day parade there.

As the campaign enters its final three weeks, the Republicans and Democrats are wooing the nation's ethnic and religious voting groups, which form big blocks in major swing states. And both Ford and Carter tried to exploit the perceived blunders of their opponents in seeking support of one group or another.

In Chicago, Carter continued to pound away at Ford's statement that the Soviet Union does not dominate the nations of Eastern Europe.

Speaking to a banquet of Polish-Americans, Carter pledged that no word or deed of a Democratic White House would even hint at acceptance of permanent Soviet domination of Eastern Europe.

Ford, meanwhile, was seeking the votes of Southern Baptists, a constituency some have conceded to Carter.

In Texas, Ford attended televised services at First Baptist Church of Dallas, the largest church in the Southern Baptist Convention. Its pastor, the Rev. W. A. Criswell, publicly endorsed the President.

Ford Forces Hoping for Good Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's campaign manager says he expects to see Ford "get somewhat more aggressive" after a week acknowledged as "less than outstanding."

As Ford flew here from Dallas Sunday to end a week-long Western tour, campaign chairman James A. Baker III told five reporters aboard Air Force One:

"In the five-week campaign, we think we've had four outstanding weeks. We recognize this last week has been less than outstanding. We think this is something to be expected... that there would be peaks and valleys."

Baker said, "We would acknowledge that we hit a bump last week," with the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz under fire and Ford's repeated efforts to clarify remarks he made in Wednesday night's televised debate with Jimmy Carter about the status of Poland and other Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

"I firmly believe," Baker added, "we have regained whatever momentum we've lost."

He said Ford recouped during weekend visits to Oklahoma, where he criticized Carter's defense posture, and Texas, where the President grabbed for the coat-tails of the late former President Lyndon Johnson.

The Ford camp felt the candidate's chances in Texas have been enhanced by Carter's criticism of Johnson in a Playboy magazine interview for which the Democratic nominee was apologized.

When a reporter suggested to Baker that Ford seemed to be taking a more aggressive posture following Wednesday's debate, the campaign chief replied:

"I would expect to see the President get somewhat more aggressive in his campaign appearances."

However, Baker contended that Ford would not be aggressive "to the point Gov. Carter has reached when he called Ford more secretive than Richard Nixon or a worse president than Richard Nixon. It seems to me those are rather desperate-type tactics."

Three Palestinians Shoot Way Into Embassy

ROME (AP) — Three Palestinians protesting Syrian intervention in Lebanon shot their way into the Syrian Embassy in Rome today but surrendered to police after holding five hostages for two hours.

Police said one hostage, embassy counsellor Hunen Hatem, was seriously wounded in the leg. The guerrillas allowed him to be taken to a hospital where he underwent a 1½-hour operation.

A Syrian official said the Palestinians surrendered after they realized they had failed to take the ambassador hostage. Ambassador Farouk al Sharaf had left the embassy earlier to attend a ceremony.

About five hours after they stormed the Syrian Embassy, against a private building and its occupants, and import, possession and use of explosives and war weapons.

A Palestinian, identified as the 25-year-old leader of the group, was quoted by Italian radio as saying they were protesting what they called Syria's betrayal of the Palestinian cause. Syrian forces allied with Lebanese the Palestinians were jailed and charged with attempted murder, taking hostages, violent action Christians have been fighting leftists Moslems and Palestinians in the Lebanese civil war.

The attack came two weeks after Syrian authorities hanged in public in Damascus three Palestinian terrorists who had raided a hotel in an attack in which four hostages were killed.

Youssef Miro, an embassy official who was among today's hostages, said, "The three came in, leveled their guns at us and said they wanted to revenge the massacre in Lebanon." He said there were about 10 people in the building, but five fled by jumping from windows.

Taken hostage, he said, were three men and two women.

In his radio interview, the Palestinian leader said the guerrillas were members of the Black June Movement, which is named for the month when Syria sent an estimated 13,000 troops and several hundred tanks into Lebanon.

The guerrilla leader said the embassy attack was designed to "draw the attention of the world to the betrayal of the Syrian government and the plot of Arab states against the Palestinian people."

"We did not want to harm anyone," he said. "This action marks a new stage in the struggle of the Palestinian people."

Jail Inmates

Two Suspects Held In Holdup Slaying

Anaheim police have arrested two men held on drug charges in Westminster jail in connection with the fatal shotgun shooting of an Anaheim market clerk last Thursday night.

Police said today George Louis Ledesma, 19, of 14331 Olive St., Westminster, and an unidentified 16-year-old were arrested this morning following their jailing earlier this week on drug related charges in Westminster.

Costa Mesa police said today they are interested in the two men, whom they assert may also be responsible for the armed robbery of a Costa Mesa market last Tuesday night.

The pair is being held on suspicion of murder and robbery in the holdup of Albertson's Market, 610 S. Brookhurst St., Thursday.

Officers said they are seeking a third suspect in the market murder of clerk Jack Warren Mason, of Stanton, who was shot at point blank range by a suspect wielding a sawed-off shotgun.

Mason died at West Anaheim Community Hospital three hours after the shooting.

The three bandits entered the Albertson's Market at about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, forcing about 15 to 20 customers to lie on the floor.

As the trio scooped up money from cash drawers, one suspect allegedly shot Mason at his cash register.

Witnesses said the clerk did not provoke the shooting and was apparently cooperating with the bandits at the time of the shooting.

Costa Mesa police today are obtaining photographs of the two Anaheim robbery suspects to circulate to witnesses of a Costa Mesa market robbery earlier last week.

They suspect the same gunmen were responsible for the robbery of Ralphs Market in the Harbor Shopping Center last Tuesday evening.

In the Costa Mesa robbery, three bandits took more than $1,000 in cash and another $3,000 in checks and food stamps from the market.

The shotgun-armed suspect allegedly struck a market clerk with the barrel of his gun before the three men fled into the darkness.

Costa Mesa police said the three men are very similar in description to the Anaheim robbers.

Meanwhile, the executive board of Retailers Clerks Union Local 324 have offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of retail clerk Mason.

Albertson's Market earlier offered a similar award for the apprehension of the suspects.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Alan Renouf, 57, will become Australia's ambassador to the United States early next year, the government announced today.

Newport Council To Fill Empty Seat

Newport Beach councilmen are expected to appoint a replacement for their late colleague, Howard Rogers Tuesday night.

The council meeting, normally held on a Monday, has been put off to Tuesday because of the Columbus Day holiday today.

Councilman Don McInnis, a member of the three-man council committee on appointments, declined today to reveal the name of the person who will be recommended for the First District Council seat.

But he did say that he and committee members Paul Ryckoff and Lucille Kuehn had interviewed 13 of the 14 applicants for the city council seat and they are unanimous in their recommendation.

Should the council fail to approve an appointment — it requires four votes — the seat will remain vacant until a special election can be held next March.

Interviewed by the council committee were Rogers' widow, Trudi; former Newport-Mesa school board member Don Strauss; Rogers' opponent from the 1974 election, Peg Forgit; planning commissioner Paul Belalis, and Elaine Linhoff, a member of the city's Community Development Citizens Advisory Committee.

Also interviewed were Bill von Esch, former chairman of the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission; Albert Irwin, physical education instructor at UC Irvine; Robert Allen, a marine businessman; William Martin, a McDonnell Douglas employee; Kae Ewing, a stockbroker and J. Douglas Lynn, an office equipment supplier.

Other committee interviews were conducted with George Bissell, an architect and Walter Ziglar, president of a ceramics firm.

McInnis said the only candidate not interviewed was Peninsula resident James Fortune who was out of town.

The appointee will serve until April of 1978 when Rogers' term expires.

City councilmen are selected by district. The first district, which Rogers represented for 10 years, includes all of the Peninsula up to 32nd Street and all of Lido Isle.

the seams," Butz continued. "You get the idea that you had better crawl back in your shells and sit on what you have."

But he said it has been free enterprise and an ability by government to let free enterprise work that led the country to where it is today.

He referred to this year's federal budget which will exceed $400 billion and said that it is bound to be inflationary.

"We have got to face up to the questions here in America," Butz said, "and ask if we are going to rededicate ourselves to that wedding of economics and political principles which has worked so well in the past 200 years."

Unlike an appearance last Friday in Mississippi which was interrupted by hecklers, Butz' appearance this morning was broken up several times by laughter and applause.

He joked about his expenses for the trip to California saying now that he was a private citizen he hoped the associations were picking up his tab and in referring to his age of 67 he said "there is plenty of life in me. I am the same age as Wilbur Mills and I am just one year older than Wayne Hays."

Garage Conversion Burns

Costa Mesa firemen extinguished a blaze in a game room, converted from a garage in the back of the Community Gay Center of Orange, 215 23rd St. Sunday night. The blaze, believed sparked by coals from a

Butz 'Closes Book' on Racial Slur

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Former agriculture secretary Earl Butz told an Orange County audience today he "paid a tremendous personal price" for what he said were indiscreet remarks about blacks.

But he told the crowd in Anaheim that he did not intend to discuss the matter further, noting "that chapter is closed."

Butz was speaking to about 1,500 delegates to the National Association of Concessionaires and National Association of Theater Owners at the Disneyland Hotel.

Butz, dressed conservatively in a gray pin-striped suit, blue striped shirt and maroon tie, said of the racial slur which forced his cabinet resignation a week ago, "I have apologized as sincerely as I know how to do it."

In a press conference afterward, he also said he would not discuss the matter further adding the remarks were taken out of context from a private conversation.

He said he intends to do all he can to help congressional candidates, President Ford's reelection effort as well as the drafting of new farm legislation.

Partly referring to notes, Butz

discussed free enterprise in the U.S. and what he said was the finest food supplying and marketing system in the world.

Butz, who served as agriculture secretary since 1971, said U.S. consumers spent 17 percent of their pay for food today compared with 20 percent in Canada and 25 to 40 percent in other nations of the world.

In addition, he said U.S. citizens

enjoy higher quality food than those in other nations and packaging and marketing provides some "built-in maid service."

For example, he said, 60 percent of the potatoes consumed in the U.S. today are already peeled and partially processed, work formerly done in the kitchen. And he said similar conveniences are packaged into other foods.

success stories in the American story."

Because Americans spend relatively little for food, they have more money for automobiles, television sets and other conveniences.

"If you listen to some of the political palaver that is going around you get the impression that America is falling apart at (See BUTZ, Page A2)

KINDERGARTEN TEACHER MECHAM AT WORK IN HIS RANCHO CANADA CLASSROOM
The Public Sees Him in a Different Role—Chief Negotiator for Teacher Organization

Double-edged Teacher Negotiator's Sharp Edge Gone in Class

Bill Meham, president of the Saddleback Valley Educators Association (SVEA), seems a different person than Bill Meham, kindergarten teacher.

He usually is seen and heard by the public as spokesman and chief negotiator for the 700 teachers who have not yet reached agreement on a contract with the Saddleback Valley Unified School District.

Appearing as an adversary of trustees and administrators, he is assertive, stern and unbending. He seems to have a singular interest — getting what the teachers want.

But inside his classroom at Rancho Canada Elementary School in El Toro, he is friendly, firm in an easy-going way and watchful of the 24 5-year-olds in his class.

Mecham recognizes each child as he or she turns in a "leaf man," the class' first major cut and paste project. "Oh my goodness, here's Christie's." "Thank you, Sherie." "Oh, look at Robbie's."

"Everything they do is right, even if it's wrong," he explained. A youngster may not have cut the leaf properly but he did it and this alone warrants congratulations, he said.

School Negotiator Wears Several Hats

By LAURIE KASPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Rather than a jack of all trades, John Cooper seems a jack of many tasks in the Saddleback Valley Unified School District.

He currently carries the titles of assistant to the superintendent, director of classified personnel and chief negotiator for the district in employee bargaining sessions.

The latter role is an important one now since negotiations with the district's 700 teachers remain unsettled.

But Cooper said he is proudest of the work he did in a two-year stint as coordinator of research and development, his first assignment after spending a year as an administrative intern.

The accomplishment for which he admits pride was the creation of a demographic analysis system to predict the district's growth and trends.

"The system, one of the first of its kind, was less than one-half percent off in its predictions. It is still being used by the district today."

"It really wasn't anything in my background, just something needed in the district," Cooper said. To do it, he went out and learned computer programming.

To do his present work in negotiations, he went out and learned about labor law. He'll probably go out and learn about whatever else he's given to do as well.

"I spend a great deal of time becoming acquainted with everything I deal with," he explained. He said he tries to be as broad as possible in approach and as competent in as many areas as possible.

"My philosophy toward jobs is very much tempered by my own personal philosophy," Cooper explained.

Slaying, Assault Try Linked?

By STEVE MITCHELL

Costa Mesa police said today they have found several links between an attempted assault on a Laguna Hills woman a week ago, and the murder of a Costa Mesa housewife last month.

A description of her assailant by the Laguna Hills woman is very similar to the one provided by a witness in the murder of Pam Davis, who was shot five times at close range in her Costa Mesa home Sept. 10.

"At this time, we think both suspects may be the same man," said Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton.

Pam Davis received a phone call at her home, which was for sale, at about noon Sept. 10. The caller said he was interested in looking at the home, which had been advertised for sale in several newspapers.

The man, posing as a potential buyer, showed up at the home at 2867 Velasco Lane a short time later, wearing a black raincoat, black trousers and a hat pulled down over his face.

Mrs. Davis apparently allowed the man to enter her home, and a short time later, a young woman in the home heard shots and a scream.

The witness entered a hall in the home and saw the suspect standing at the entrance to the master bedroom. She ran out the back of the home and sought help.

17 Dead in Collision

Trains Crash in Mexico

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — A passenger train carrying tourists, including some Americans, collided with a freight train in the rugged Sierra Madre Mountains of northern Mexico, killing at least 17 persons and injuring 45, police reported today.

They said at least five of the injured were Americans, and there were unofficial reports that one of the dead was from New York City.

Some of the passengers were travel agents, most from Mexico

City, making the trip as part of a tourism promotion, police said.

The American Society of Travel Agents had been meeting in Guadalajara, though it was not known whether any of the group was aboard the train.

One observation car on the "Railroad to the Pacific" tumbled into a 45-foot-deep canyon when the passenger train smashed into the freight train afternoon near the village of Pitoreal about 200 miles west of Chihuahua City and 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said.

They said rescue workers were still trying to pry apart the car's wreckage to reach passengers trapped inside. The rescue squads could not use cutting torches on the wreckage because spilled diesel fuel might ignite, police said.

The freight train was east-bound from San Rafael en route to Chihuahua City, and the passenger train was westbound on the same track, police said.

Fog Hides Coast; 3 Boats Aground

Two people were injured Sunday when a dense afternoon fog caused three power boats to run aground along the Orange Coast.

Bishop Moses suffered leg injuries when the 21-foot cabin cruiser Centurion, with seven people aboard, went on the rocks off Crescent Bay Point in Laguna Beach. Moses was apparently injured while attempting to hold the boat off the rocks. He was reported in guarded condition today at UCI Medical Center after undergoing surgery.

An unidentified woman was treated for minor shock after the 42-foot cabin cruiser Lucky Duck crashed onto San Juan Rock shortly after clearing the Dana Point Marina for Newport Beach. Harbor Department officials said the craft owned by A.E. Aiken eventually sank in 40 feet of water.

A 21-foot motorboat with four people aboard went aground off Eighth Street Sunset Beach. No injuries were reported.

A Harbor department spokesman said the afternoon fog caught many yachtsmen by surprise and Orange County Harbor Department rescue boats from Dana Point and Newport Harbor were kept busy locating small craft in distress.

Also assisting in the rescue operations was the Coast Guard cutter Point Divide.

Despite the numerous calls from people expressing concern over yachtsmen who had not returned on schedule, harbor department officials said all boatsmen were accounted for.

COOPER...

He said men of the enlightenment had broad tastes and interests, particularly in literature, art, music, history and politics—subjects which interest Cooper.

Followers of this philosophy also share a love for the world of the mind and world of ideas. Cooper, who has a scholarly manner about him, said he, his wife and two young sons "are all very heavily into reading books."

He also said it is "sort of a natural" for him to be involved with Freemasonry and public education since both came out of the enlightenment period.

A UCLA graduate, Cooper, 34, has a masters degree in political science. He started teaching in Watts in 1965.

Although he liked teaching there, he said he moved to Mission Viejo because the houses were cheaper than in Los Angeles at that time.

He taught in Orange and then started at Mission Viejo High School in 1968. After four years, including one year as chairman of the Social Science Department, he moved into the administration.

"I still love teaching," he said. He regrets that this year he had to give up a part-time teaching job he had at Saddleback College.

He gave that up, however, because he is now spending three evenings a week at Claremont Graduate School. With the help of a Scottish Rite fellowship, he is working toward a doctorate in educational administration.

Someday, he hopes to be a school principal and — when he is older and wiser — a district superintendent.

Both education and administration are alike in that they involve practicing "the art of leadership," he said. He advocates a "string principle" of leadership. "You can pull a string but you can't push it," he explained.

Cooper said he enjoys "an interaction of minds and bringing people toward the realization of something they haven't seen before."

In the classroom, he said, the teacher draws new ways of looking and thinking from the minds of the students.

In negotiations, it is the drawing out of each other's point of view. "Since it's a mental process, which education is, it has its own challenges," he said.

However, he is not so appreciative of the state law, the Rodda Act, which mandated these negotiations. "I think the Rodda Act has sapped energy and money that could go into education," he said.

One reason for this, he explained, is that the law came into effect on July 1 in the middle of the traditional negotiation season.

And, he said, neither the district nor the employees are used to the collective bargaining concept and process. "It's tough," he said. "It's tough for them and it's tough for us."

But he quickly added that nobody should ever assume life is easy.

Israelis Aid Lebanese

METULLA, Israel (AP) — Israeli medics treated wounded Lebanese Christian soldiers hit in a weekend battle in southern Lebanon, Israeli officers have said.

One of the wounded Lebanese died in a helicopter en route to an Israeli hospital after he was first treated at a clinic near this community on the Lebanese-Israeli frontier. Medical workers said at least seven Lebanese soldiers were brought to the clinic.

Reports from southern Lebanon said Israeli soldiers were fighting alongside Lebanese Christians. Israel's military command refused to comment on the reports, repeating only, "Israel is not involved in the war in Lebanon."

a kindergarten at Gates Elementary School. Although at first he wasn't sure that's what he wanted, in the end he decided, "I loved it."

After two years at Gates, he taught a third grade at Glen Yermo Elementary School. He "jumped at the chance" to get back into the kindergarten when Rancho Canada opened this fall.

He likes that grade level, he said, because the youngsters are anxious to be there. "I makes it all worthwhile to me."

Meacham admitted his role as teacher and teachers' leader appear to be contrasting personalities. "I don't think I am two different people though," he said.

He explained that he carries out the things he believes both in the classroom and the association.

"Anything we can do to make education better for kids, I think we should do it," he said. The classroom is one method of assuring that it is the best possible process and the association is another, he said.

He said his goal, which he believes will help in his role as SVEA president, is "to be the best possible teacher I can be in the classroom."

Police Probe Knifing Death

Anaheim police are seeking the killer of an unidentified stabbing victim whose body was found on a city street early Sunday morning.

The victim, believed to be an alien, reportedly died in Anaheim Memorial Hospital about an hour after being discovered lying at 1 a.m. in the street in the 100 block of Wills Drive.

Police said the mortally wounded man was treated at the scene by paramedics but died shortly after arriving at the hospital.

Laguna Hills High

School Slates Parent Meets

Parents of students who will be attending Laguna Hills High School are invited to discuss the philosophy and programs they would like to have at the new school at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the multipurpose room at Lomarena Elementary School.

The new high school will be built next to Leisure World, opposite the deadend of Alicia Parkway on Paseo de Valencia. It is expected to open in September with about 700 freshmen, sophomores and juniors who live in the Valencia, Lomarena and San Joaquin Elementary School attendance areas.

The meeting has been scheduled to inform the community of the school and to find out what parents would like to see in terms of academics, athletics and activities, explained Donald Ames, assistant superintendent of the Saddleback Valley Unified School District.

From that input, we are going to try and get a principal to bring them that program," he explained.

Ames, the former principal of Mission Viejo High School who had been named principal of the new school before being given his present position, said other meetings or random mailings may be used to obtain additional information.

He said this is the first time the community is being involved in a new school before a principal is selected. It is being done, he explained, because state and local educators and the district's trustees believe a community's school should be a reflection of the community.

Ames said the principal probably will be named in January.

The first phase of the project, estimated at $8 million, has been designed for about 1,400 students, he said. When the second phase is completed, he said, the school will hold 2,250 students. The completed project is expected to cost about $14 million.

Trio Seized In Clemente Jewel Holdup

Three men face armed robbery charges in San Clemente today after they were chased down by the wife of a jeweler who'd been robbed and maced.

Police said Michael Disieno, owner of Michael's Jewelers, 139 Avenida Del Mar, called police Friday afternoon to report he'd been robbed.

As police cars sped to the scene, Disieno's wife took off on foot after the three men and chased them down the street to another jewelry store, Phillips Jewelers.

Police spotted the suspects, and the woman chasing them, and made arrests. Booked on charges of armed robbery were Thomas G. Irving, 45, of Visalia, Helen Q. Irving, 26, of Porterville, and Bill W. Pierce, 26, of Hermosa Beach.

A 9 mm Walther semiautomatic pistol was booked into evidence as the alleged weapon used to hold up the store.

Psychologist Sets Session For Parents

Psychologist Elnora Schmadel will discuss how people fail and succeed and how parents can support healthy behavior in their children in a lecture series beginning Tuesday in Mission Viejo.

The series will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Oct. 12, 19, and 26 in multi-purpose room A at Mission Viejo High School, 25025 Chrisanta Drive.

Dr. Schmadel, executive director of The Learning Center in Laguna Hills, is a credentialed teacher and school psychologist.

Her lectures, she said, will help participants develop greater self-fulfillment and more positive techniques for working with their children.

The tuition-free series is sponsored by the Saddleback Community Mental Health Clinic and the Saddleback Valley and Capistrano Unified School Districts. Additional information is available by calling 831-9860.

Women's Coaching Staff to Add Ten

Saddleback Valley Unified School District trustees have approved 10 new coaching positions for women's sports at the high school level.

John Cooper, assistant to the superintendent, said the additional coaches will put the district in compliance with federal regulations prohibiting sex discrimination.

"It brings us equality at all levels," he said.

In the past, explained Herman Schmidt, El Toro High School principal, coaches worked with both the varsity and junior varsity teams. Now, he said, there will be a coach for each team, just as there has been in the men's sports program.

Coaches usually are full-time teachers. They receive supplementary pay for the coaching duties.

Cooper said the new coaching positions were included in the district's offer of a contract to teachers. Since negotiations are continuing and the sports programs have begun, he said, trustees agreed to go ahead and approve the positions.

Women's sports have been becoming more and more popular in the last few years, Schmidt said.

Up until two years ago, the young women at his school could participate only in five sports through the Girls Athletic Association.

Now, the women participate in California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) competitions in basketball, field hockey, softball, swimming, volleyball, tennis and cross-country track.

"It's really building. It's great for girls," he said.

He estimated that about 250 women and 400 men participate in sports at his school. Men, he said, have more sports, including water polo, soccer, golf, wrestling and football.

a man knocked on her front door and identified himself as a realtor.

When he entered the home, the tall suspect said he was not really a realtor. "What I really want is you," he told the woman.

The victim, who was edging toward a rear door, asked the man what his name was and he said, "Earl."

Sheriff's deputies said the woman then ran to a neighbor's home.

Costa Mesa's Lt. Lorton said today the Laguna Hills woman provided a description of the assault suspect before viewing an earlier drawing provided by the witness in the Pam Davis murder.

"The two drawings are very similar," he noted.

Police are circulating the two drawings in hopes the suspect might be identified.

The man is described as being between 27 and 35 years old, with short black hair parted on the left. He wears square clear glasses with thick dark frames.

Anyone who can provide clues as to the man's identity is asked to contact Costa Mesa police or the Orange County Sheriff's Office.

Handicapped Fight for Rights

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The handicapped figure the best way to make it convenient for them to get around in public is to put civic leaders in wheelchairs and let them see how far they can go.

This is just one project planned by the South Orange County chapter of the California Association of the Physically Handicapped (CAPH).

"People don't realize how difficult it is for a handicapped person to shop or attend school or go to the beach — activities other people take for granted," said Cleova Weinert, chapter president.

Mrs. Weinert, who was crippled by polio as a young child, said people have asked her why the handicapped should have the most convenient parking spaces.

"It's not just to save us a few steps," she said. "Those special parking slots are reserved next to an open space, because it takes a lot of room to get a wheelchair out of a car."

Mrs. Weinert, who can get around quite spryly with the help of a cane, traveled to Hawaii entirely by wheelchair, in order to discover how the trip could be made easier for someone unable to travel any other way.

"Our goal is to make as much available to the handicapped as to the non-handicapped person," she said. "Our organization welcomes all people interested in helping us meet this goal. Not everyone in the Heart Association has heart problems, and we don't limit our membership to the handicapped."

One non-handicapped person who is active in the south county chapter is Ellen Trujillo of Dana Point. She is involved in problems of the handicapped ranging from fighting for pending legislation to developing projects for those confined to a wheelchair.

One of her current projects is working for a dial-a-ride system to assure local handicapped students are not prevented from attending college because they lack transportation.

The local CAPH chapter is cooperating with Saddleback College on Thursday, "Awareness Day," to present an informational program from 2 to 4 p.m. at the campus for the handicapped.

The local CAPH group also holds monthly meetings at Marco Forster Junior High School in San Juan Capistrano.

"Our meetings feature a speaker, who presents information helpful to the handicapped," said Mrs. Weinert. "Mike Kevoian, a Long Beach artist who teaches the handicapped, also attends each month with some of his students for painting demonstrations."

"Perhaps the most valuable part of the meeting, though, is the opportunity to share with one another in an atmosphere where we don't have to feel self-conscious."

Additional information on CAPH activities is available by calling Mrs. Weinert, 496-2836, or Mrs. Trujillo, 496-2938.
