Tax Cut Plan Hit By Burns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," Burns said. "My mind on the subject, however, is by no means closed."

President Ford will send to Congress in January his proposal to cut taxes across the board by $10 billion, with an increase in the Social Security tax rate that would mean a net cut of $8 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider asking Congress for a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Although a tax cut could be enacted without Burns' approval, some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York.

His remarks came as the government reduced its estimate of growth in the nation's economic output to 3.8 percent during the fall quarter.

That rate is just below the level generally considered necessary to whittle unemployment, which was at 7.9 percent of the labor force in October with 7.6 million Americans out of work.

Schenkel Sour

Raps Barbara Walters' Pay

"If Barbara Walters is worth $1 million, what are we worth? ABC Sports is the only thing that makes money for the network," Schenkel said in a question-and-answer session before the Phoenix Executives Club.

Miss Walters signed a contract recently to co-anchor the ABC Evening News with Harry Reasoner.

Schenkel offered, "Barbara is the kind of girl who would vote a town dry, then move."

Suspected Burglary Tips Bust

Two Newport Beach patrolmen who thought they had spotted a burglar, ended up arresting a man early today for possession of 120 pounds of hashish worth an estimated $545,000 on the illicit drug market.

Jailed was Robert Edward Smith II, 27, of 4901 Seashore Drive. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

According to police, Smith was arrested at 3 a.m. by officers who allegedly found the drug in the home Smith shares with his wife and two young children. His wife was not home at the time of Smith's arrest, police said.

According to investigators, the alleged cache of hash was discovered by patrol Officers Michael Jackson and Andrew Gonis.

The two officers were patrolling the area when they spotted a man who appeared to be tampering with the doorknob of Smith's house.

The two officers stopped to investigate and the man told them he was a friend of the occupant of the house.

To prove his point, the man opened the front door and walked in with the officers behind him.

Fugitive Nabbed

Drug Suspect Held After Narco Raid

One year after he vanished, Gregory E. Burt, who police allege is a West Orange County drug dealer suspect, is jailed again.

Burt, 26, was captured Wednesday as he huddled naked in a closet at his aunt's home in San Diego County.

The suspect was picked up in a 10-man pre-dawn raid by Huntington Beach police and the San Diego County Narcotics Task Force.

Burt is in San Diego County Jail today, charged with drug-related offenses carrying $42,000 in bail, Huntington Beach officers reported.

He was booked on two arrest warrants issued last November when he posted bail and then failed to appear for hearings in West Orange County Judicial District Court.

Quantities of alleged cocaine and marijuana seized in the 3 a.m. raid at his relative's Spring Valley home resulted in additional charges against Burt.

He is to first face charges of possession of cocaine and marijuana for sale — about $5,000 worth — in San Diego, after which he faces similar charges in Orange County.

First Graders Foil Knife-wielding Pair

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — First grade pupils helped an elementary school teacher flee unharmed when a pair of escaped convicts held a knife to her throat and tried to take her hostage.

"He could have stabbed me in the heart or the back," said Peggy O'Brien, the teacher stopped by the convicts outside St. Patrick's Elementary School. "But the children scared him. He dropped his knife to his side."

Mrs. O'Brien said she ran at that moment, guiding the children to the school entrance and inside. The two convicts fled, and later were captured.

The convicts stopped her as she was leaving her car Wednesday and preparing to enter the school. One of them held an eight-inch butcher knife to her throat, Mrs. O'Brien said. She screamed.

Two pupils came running up and other children followed, said Mrs. O'Brien, a first-grade teacher. Their presence, she said, made the knife wielder nervous.

One of the men grabbed a set of keys she was holding, But Mrs. O'Brien said they were keys to the school and not her car.

Until the children came up, Mrs. O'Brien said, the men were trying to force her to get back in her car and drive them wherever they wanted to go.

She said one of them told her, "There's cops all over the place and you're going to drive us out of here."

When Mrs. O'Brien and the children entered the school, the fugitives fled into a nearby woods. Police failed to catch them there, but less than four hours later apprehended them without resistance in a shopping center parking lot in the same north Jacksonville area.

Ad Produces an Heir

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man who advertised last year for a "test tube" mother to bear his child through artificial insemination is the proud father of a baby girl.

"Childless husband with infertile wife wants test tube baby," said a want ad published April 15, 1975, in the San Francisco Chronicle. "English or Northwestern European background. Indicate fee and age. All answers confidential."

The man agreed to tell his story to a Chronicle reporter on the condition that he and the mother remain anonymous.

He was the last of his family line and said that when the ad was placed he wanted a child — his child — to carry on his family name.

He chose artificial insemination because, he said, it would be immoral for him to have a sexual relationship outside of marriage to father a child.

News stories about his plight brought 181 letters from women as far as Bangladesh, he said. Letters were sent to an ad number at the Chronicle, and the man hired a lawyer and a doctor to take care of selection and the actual impregnation.

The man was never to meet the mother of his child.

The woman selected was described only as an attractive, blonde, unmarried office worker living in the San Francisco Bay area. She had never had a child before.

Last December, the father visited a doctor's office where he produced a sample of his sperm. After he left, the doctor injected the sperm into the mother.

"It took the first time," the father said.

The mother told her boss and co-workers what she was doing. According to the man's lawyer, her boss at first reacted with, "'That kind of thing isn't going on in my office,' as though there were sexual pleasure involved."

He changed his mind when the mother argued that she was doing something morally positive.

The baby, five pounds and six ounces with red hair and blue eyes, was born Sept. 6. The father said there were some medical problems at first, but she is home and doing well.

His wife, he said, was a "bit dubious" about the idea at first, "but she loves that baby now like it was her own."

Neighbors Object To Pair Renting

GROSSE POINTE PARK, Mich. (AP) — Because they are single, Donald J. Mazzola and Richard Grover are being forced by neighbors to leave the four-bedroom house they rented in this affluent Detroit suburb.

The neighbors' fear, that they would harm the character of the area, carries weight since a local law forbids occupancy of single-family dwellings by anyone not related by blood, marriage or adoption.

According to a local official, however, the ordinance is not enforced against single women.

Mazzola, 28, divorced father of two small sons, and Gronan, 30, a used car salesman, moved here after learning that a house they shared in Detroit for 1½ years was to be sold.

They looked for a replacement, and the tree-shaded home for $350 a month just fit the bill.

Aware of the zoning ordinance, Gronan inquired at city hall, came away convinced things could be worked out and decided to file for an exception. They even moved in some belongings before the hearing.

Neighbors, notified by mail that a public hearing would be held, filed objections. The neighbors had never met the two.

The City Council deadlocked 3 to 3 with one abstention — Clayton Alandt, who owned the house.

Councilman Charles Tompkins voted for the exception. He said the objections probably arose because the applicants were men, but noted that permission had been granted many times for women to live together without any objection.

Mazzola said he would like to continue the legal battle but added moving expenses already had cut heavily into their budget.

"I would like to do it for the sake of other people and to straighten out these Grosse Pointe snobs," he said.

However, help may be on the way.

The Michigan branch of the American Civil Liberties Union said the ordinance appears to be "offensive to constitutional rights, both of privacy and of freedom of association."

The organization has scheduled a board meeting Monday to decide whether grounds exist to carry on the fight for the two.

Poor Showing Ends Dallas' JFK Service

DALLAS (AP) — An annual memorial service on the anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination has been canceled this year because of sharply reduced public attendance.

Less than two dozen people showed up for last year's observance at the site where Kennedy was slain Nov. 22, 1963, said a spokesman for Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom when asked Wednesday about the service.

Folsom sent a letter to the Greater Dallas Council of Churches this month asking it to encourage Dallas residents to observe the anniversary at their individual houses of worship.

"It had gotten to the point where we had more organizers at the memorial than participants," said Folsom aide David Miller. "We thought we could reach more people through their individual houses of worship than asking them to come downtown to the site."

Monday marks the 13th anniversary of the fatal attack on Kennedy while he was riding in a motorcade in downtown Dallas.

TAX CUT. . .

The Commerce Department estimated last month that the Gross National Product — or total output of goods and services — grew at an annual rate of four percent during the third quarter. The revised figures show an unexpectedly poor performance in foreign trade.

Referring to a tax cut, Burns said he "will weigh the issue carefully" if the economy appears to need such a stimulus and if there are "economies" in federal spending.

While some of Carter's advisers have said they would prefer a one-time tax rebate, Burns said he would prefer a broad-based permanent tax reduction of both business and individuals, similar to a tax cut enacted in the early 1960s.

"Such a measure, on a responsible scale, would minimize social conflict for our country," he said.

Carter, on the other hand, has said he will consider tax cuts aimed at benefiting low and middle-income workers and has said nothing about cutting taxes to benefit business.

In any case, Burns said there is no need for a tax cut at the present time, partly because it could add to inflationary pressures and partly because he expects the economy to resume solid growth without one.

Illegal Parking

Mesa Planning A Crackdown

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

TRAFFIC

Costa Mesa police are going to crack down on owners of house and boat trailers and other unattached vehicles parked on city streets.

And that will mean fewer little pink warning cards attached to the illegally parked vehicles, and more $15 citations and $25 vehicle tow-away charges, officers warn.

Although a city council-revised parking ordinance took effect in mid-October, Costa Mesa traffic officers have refrained from active enforcement of the law thus far in order to inform residents of the changes.

But all of that will soon change. And the new law is a lot tougher than the original parking ordinance, says police traffic bureau commander Lt. John A. Regan.

"From now on, anyone who owns a house trailer, boat trailer or any other type of detached vehicle, must keep that vehicle off the public streets," Regan said.

He cited reduced visibility in residential areas, reduction of usable roadway and problems involving street cleaning and inadequate parking as reasons for the revised ordinance.

Under the former regulation, owners were allowed up to 72 hours to move detached vehicles from the street.

"We used to mark the street with chalk to see how long these vehicles were stored on public roadways," Regan said. "But now we're going to give them one warning. Then, if there is no compliance, we will tow them off or cite them."

He said the pink warning card would only be in effect a few hours, or overnight at the most.

"The warning cards are a courtesy. We don't have to issue them," he said.

He said the ordinance still allows cars to remain parked in one location for 72 hours.

"But those cars must be moved at least three car lengths or one tenth of a mile after that 72 hours," he warned.

Regan said the revised ordinance does not include motorists who use their recreational vehicles to get to work and back.

And, he said, owners are still allowed to park their detached-type vehicles on the street while loading or unloading them, or while conducting emergency repairs on them.

"What we're after are the residents who store their vehicles on the street. We're not out to harass the person who just pulls his trailer up to clean it out."

The traffic commander suggests that recreational vehicle and trailer owners pull their vehicles into the driveway if they are going to be gone for a length of time.

"Or store it at a service station if you can arrange it," he said.

Regan said that in most cases, the department will tow offending vehicles away for storage. Fees average $3 per day, according to one of the city's three authorized towing agencies.

"As a rule, we will store the vehicle rather than cite the owner," he said, adding that recreational vehicles and boat trailers often change hands several times, making it difficult for police to cite the current registered owner.

"This ordinance isn't as tough as some cities' parking laws," Regan said. "And I think it gives vehicle owners a little latitude."

SUSPECT. . .

"We've been looking for this guy for a year," Huntington Beach police narcotics detail Sgt. Carl Vidano announced Wednesday afternoon.

"Yesterday I got an anonymous telephone call. The guy was 100 percent correct, right down the line on Burt's whereabouts and everything," Sgt. Vidano said.

Burt, Sgt. Vidano noted, was arrested along with an alleged accomplice in two related Westminster and Huntington Beach cases last year involving some $50,000 worth of drugs.

Investigators said the aunt had no connection with the case other than having given her nephew a place to stay while seemingly jobless and down on his luck.

Cops Quell SC 'Orgy'

A man who refused to identify himself complained to San Clemente police Wednesday night that a wild party next door was keeping him awake.

"I have to get up early to work," he said. "It sounds like a —— orgy over there."

Booze Heir's Tale Attacked

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Whisky Heir Samuel Bronfman II has put on record a tearful tale of nine days of terror and despair while he was a kidnap victim last year. Now the account is under sharp attack by the defense.

Bronfman went under cross-examination Wednesday afternoon, in his second day on the witness stand at the trial of the men accused of kidnaping him. Mel Patrick Lynch, 38, and Dominic Byrne, 54.

The questioning was to continue today regarding Walter Higgins' homosexual relationship with the 23-year-old Bronfman. The defense contends the threat of exposure led Lynch to acquiesce in a scheme by Bronfman to fake a kidnaping to extort $2.3 million in ransom money from his father, Edgar Bronfman, head of the Seagram distillery empire.

White Marines Attacked

A commando-style attack by up to 10 black Marines using screwdrivers and other weapons against seven white Marines at Camp Pendleton has prompted an investigation that could lead to court-martials, a base official says.

A military magistrate was to decide, possibly today, whether to try four black Marines who were taken into custody after the clubbing and stabbing assault in a new motel-style barracks Saturday night, a base spokesman said.

All but one of the white Marines were injured in the indicent, and three of them remain hospitalized in satisfactory condition at the base hospital.

Spokesman Lt. Charles Owen refused comment on anonymous telephone calls to local newspapers saying the targets of the attack were white power advocates. "The investigation has not been completed," he said.

But Owen confirmed that in addition to the black Marines already identified, three to five more were being sought for questioning.

The incident apparently was the most serious racial outbreak at the base since 1970, when more than 30 black Marines stormed through a barracks occupied by men getting ready to ship out for Vietnam. It took several hours to restore order.

In April of the same year, military police used tear gas to quell interracial fighting at a base club and the barracks of a helicopter squadron.

"The Marine Corps has a good record in race relations," he said. "Whenever you mix 50,000 people together, there is going to be some friction."

Brown Playing Scrooge Again To Employes?

Last Christmas, the California State Employes Association showed a caricature of Brown on its Christmas cards telling Santa Claus it was fine to wish everyone a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, "but is it reasonable? And who's going to pay for it?"

On Wednesday, the Clerical and Allied Service Employes (CASE) issued a press release urging Brown to declare Dec. 24 and Dec. 31 state holidays so 110,000 state workers could spend the days with their families.

Christmas and New Year's fall on Saturdays, and state law doesn't provide time off when a holiday falls on Saturday. If it falls on Sunday, state employes get Monday off.

CASE is distributing Christmas cards and suggesting that they be sent to Brown.

The card includes this verse:

" 'Twas the day before Christmas, And all through the state, All the clericals were working, 'Cause Brown's a cheapskate."

Naydeane Troy, CASE president, said the "card is funny but the situation isn't."

County Man Hit, Killed Crossing Road

A 41-year-old Santa Ana man was killed Wednesday evening when he apparently tried to cross a dark street against the flow of traffic, police reported today.

William James Everson, whose address is unknown, died about half an hour after the 12:26 a.m. accident, police said.

Everson was struck at 3600 W. First St. Santa Ana, by a pickup truck driven by Gene Pentecost, 4906 W. Morningside Ave., Santa Ana, then was run over by a white Mustang which did not stop, police said.

Officers said Pentecost was not held, but the driver of the other car is being sought for questioning.

Orange County Coroner's officers said they have not been able to locate any relatives and do not know if Everson had any survivors.

DAN RIOS WILL SHOW OFF HIS 'OLDEST ADOBE'
Remembering San Juan Capistrano's Old Days

Sixth Generation Looks Back Fondly

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Dan Rios will open his adobe to visitors Dec. 5 for the third annual San Juan Capistrano Christmas home tour.

A bronze plaque by his front door at 31781 Los Rios Street reads: "Oldest adobe residence in California, owned and occupied continuously by the Rios family since 1794."

Rios can remember when only 800 people lived in all of the Capistrano Valley, and everybody spoke Spanish. Today, more than 14,000 people live in San Juan alone, and monolingual Spanish-speaking residents are a small minority.

"Things have changed. Whether it's for the better or worse, who knows?" said Rios.

But as he talked about the past, he left little doubt as to his preference for the old days. His stories were happy, vibrant accounts of folks working together to wring a decent living and simple pleasures from an existence often fraught with hardship and danger.

Don Feliciano Castengura Rios came to San Juan in 1784. He was a Spanish soldier, called a "leatherjacket," because of the heavy bullhide covering he wore, to be impervious to Indian arrowheads.

He was one of a dozen soldiers whose job it was to protect the fledgling Mission San Juan Capistrano, founded in 1776 by Father Junipero Serra. After six years, soldier Rios was released to return to more civilized country — Mexico, Cuba or Spain.

Instead, he accepted the Spanish government's enticement to pioneers — 1,000 acres of land and 300 head of cattle to stay and improve the virgin Capistrano Valley.

"The Indians provided plenty of labor," said the pioneer's descendant. "The government wanted skilled, Spanish labor, though, and since there was no social life, settlers had to be enticed to stay."

The Spaniard, Rios, settled in, improved his land and built his adobe. In three years he was able to repay the government the 300 head of cattle.

Dan Rios is the sixth generation of the family to live in the adobe. His son Steven, an Oakland attorney, plans to move back to San Juan in the near future to raise his family — the eighth generation to grow up in the shadow of the famous "Jewel of the Missions."

Dan Rios said he remembers the days when Santa Ana was an eight-hour buggy ride from home. On one trip to the city to stock up on supplies, 5-year old Dan, stuck in the back of of the buggy with the store goods, ate the family's whole stock of peanuts, leaving a trail of peanut-shells from Santa Ana to San Juan.

When he was a young man during the Depression of the 1930's, his mother and sisters ran a restaurant on the adobe property.

"My mama was the best Spanish cook that ever was," said Rios. "Hollywood stars would arrange to come to San Juan for the day, and Mama would turn the house over to them. My sisters would make out like bandits — they'd make five or six dollars in tips, and that was big money in those days."

The wartime food shortage closed the restaurant in 1942, but by that time Rios was fighting with the U.S. Army in Europe. He made first lieutenant, but was discharged in 1945, when he lost his right eye in the fighting.

Back in San Juan, Rios worked 25 years as a sheriff's deputy and deputy marshal.

When his mother died about 15 years ago, Rios removed from the adobe the newfangled modern furniture she'd bought and replaced it with family heirlooms, which had been "junked" in the shed. He now opens the adobe on appointment to school children, historians and others interested in Alta California pioneer life.

"The city wants to buy the adobe for $35,000 an acre," Rios said. "The property is an acre and a half. The scrap of land across the street from the adobe isn't even big enough to build on, and it sold for $35,000. I don't know what to think about what is happening to San Juan.

"Just look at this street," he said, pointing down Los Rios Street. "The only time the street cleaners come by here is when the city officials are expecting tourists — like when the Freedom Train was in town. I think they've swept the street three times.

"The first time the sweeper came by, an old grandma sitting out on her front porch nearly had a heart attack — she had never seen one before, and the noise frightened her."

Rios said city planners may know what is best for San Juan, but he said he has his reservations.

"Take the whole lot of them," he said, "the councilmen and city staff — they average about six years' residence in San Juan, yet they're so sure they know what's best."

Camera Equipment Stolen From Store

Rooftop burglars who broke their way through the ceiling to gain entry to a South Laguna camera store carried off camera equipment and cash with a total value of $3,976.17.

Orange County sheriff's officers said the break-in was discovered by employes of Aperture Camera and Stereo, 16 Monarch Bay Plaza. Officers said the intruders broke a hole in the ceiling and then lowered themselves to the floor by ropes.

Congress Woes Due?

Carter Aide Sees More Problems

By JCANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jimmy Carter's weaknesses as a candidate will prove to be his weaknesses as a President, says the leader of Carter's California campaign.

Joe Cerrell, head of Carter's California election effort, and Stuart Spencer, chief political strategist for President Ford in California, came up with some surprising insights about the campaign and the President-elect's future during a forum Wednesday in Newport Beach.

The two men analyzed the recent campaign before a meeting of the Orange County Republica, a public affairs forum sponsored by Claremont Men's College.

Both men agreed that the campaign lacked real substance with both candidates relying heavily on personality rather than issues. Spencer called Ford's tactics the "no campaign campaign."

Cerrell said he titled his remarks on the campaign: "The Final Result Could Have Been Different, or Eastern Europe versus Playboy Magazine."

He said Carter's feat was one of the most remarkable of American political history, but he predicted that Carter, who he described as a "poor politician," will have problems with Congress.

Spencer, for the most part agreed with Cerrell, saying he considered the closeness of the race a tribute to President Ford.

He termed Ford an "accidental president" and said the goal of the 73-day campaign was to win 10 million voters — a goal that was not met because of a 10-day flat spell after the second debate and during the Butz crisis.

Spencer said Carter would have been completely untouchable if he had praised Ford's policies instead of attacking them.

"We would have been hard put to produce a sympathetic image for the President if Carter had done a JFK or Martin Luther King-type thing of saying 'things have been all right so far, but now's the time for a new beginning'."

Cerrell said flatly that Robert Dole's selection as Ford's running mate was the biggest blunder of the campaign.

He said Dole gave Democrats who might have not voted or who might have crossed party lines a "hate object" that drove them back into the party. "It was a blunder to let him play the hatchet man," Cerrel said of Dole.

But Spencer disagreed, noting Ford's solid showing in the traditionally Democrat farm states was due to Dole's presence on the GOP ticket.

Spencer countered that Wlater Mondale's selection gave the Carter campaign the appearance of a sellout to the eastern liberal faction of the Democratic party — an impression that probably cost Carter votes in the western states.

Both men agreed that Carter faces problems in Washington that Walter Mondale's selection gave the Carter campaign the appearance of a sellout to the eastern liberal faction of the Democratic party — an impression that probably cost Carter votes in the western states.

Both men agreed that Carter faces probiems in Washington from a Congress that is likely to be trying to reassume powers it lost to the executive branch during the Nixon years. They also predicted that Carter would have trouble with a House and Senate that seem to be much more liberally oriented than the President-elect.

Cerrell predicted the first parting of ways would come over the Humphrey-Hawkins Full Employment bill pending before the Senate.

As for the campaign, they both said a few more votes in a couple of key states, such as New York, and it would be Gerald Ford facing a troublesome Congress, not Jimmy Carter.

Quipped Cerrell: "Jerry Ford assumed the presidency because of the Washington Post and it lost it because of the New York Daily News."

He was referring to the Post's Pulitzer Prize-winning coverage of the Watergate scandal and the famous headline when Ford initially turned down a bill to help the city of New York out of its financial crisis. The headline read, "Ford to NY: Drop Dead."

Jury Demands Death Penalty For CdM Man

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Corkey Ogle, convicted of the ax killing of an Oroville woman and the shooting death of her son, committed a crime that requires the death penalty, a jury says.

The Superior Court jury decided Wednesday that the crime fits two "special circumstances," either of which makes a death sentence mandatory under California law: multiple murder, and murder committed during a burglary.

Ogle, 26, of Corona del Mar, was convicted Tuesday of killing Virginia Corkin, 58, and her son, Shane, 21, after breaking into their Oroville house May 25.

Officers said Ogle was in the house when Mrs. Corkin returned home, and hit her in the head with an ax. Her son returned home soon afterward, saw his mother's body, and was telephoning for help when he was shot.

Bottleneck In Waiting

ON THE ROAD: I refuse any attempt to chronicle the number of years I've been plying up and down Pacific Coast Highway in our region. No matter. It could be 100 summers and I'd still never understand the bridge.

The bridge? Well, yes, there is only one bridge on Coast Highway that you can't understand. That's the one spanning Newport Bay. It is a chronic traffic bottleneck, four lanes narrow with signals on either side.

All you need is a smallish fender-bender in the middle of that span and you can tie up Coast Highway from Seal Beach to San Clemente.

ONE OF THE interesting features of Newport's Coast Highway Bay Bridge is the special sign for traffic in upcoast lanes.

Here, as you approach the bridge, upon some occasions you are greeted by a large sign hanging over the highway that flashes huge white words that warn, "PREPARE TO STOP."

The impact is such that the sign might as well read, "PREPARE TO MEET YOUR MAKER."

Anyway, some days you are asked to Prepare and other times the sign stays dark; just sulking there, doing nothing.

I've always been mystified by why it is some times it demands that you Prepare and other times the sign doesn't give a hoot if you're prepared or not.

Thus, without really going out and showing my ignorance by asking someone in authority, I've tried to puzzle out what causes the sign to want you prepared only at certain times.

IT SHOULD BE noted that at the Bay Bridge, there is no such preparation sign for traffic moving downcoast. You are left to presume those motorists never have to stop, or be prepared to do it.

Anyway, once I theorized that the sign is mysteriously triggered to light up and flash, somehow, when the traffic gets backed up across the bridge due to the Dover Drive signal.

Alas, this theory seems fuzzy because the traffic is always backed up across the bridge from the Dover Drive signal.

Other times I've calculated the warning placard works like an automatic foghorn. When it gets just so foggy, the thing starts flashing its ominous message.

THIS NOTION ALSO explodes because the sign has been known to light up on perfectly clear days. Clear in the sky, that is. It's never clear on the bridge.

Currently, I'm working on another theory that the sign is actually there in event of crashes. First it will light up with the traditional message, "PREPARE TO STOP." Then, if a crash occurs, the message will change to, "I TOLD YOU SO."

Then, a mechanical alarm will drop out of the bottom of the sign and slap a ticket on the errant driver's windshield.

China's Fallout Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are checking for fallout from China's latest nuclear test explosion, the largest in China's 12-year history as a nuclear power.

U.S. officials expressed hope that the above-ground explosion Wednesday would not cause hazardous radiation levels in the United States.

THE EXPLOSION, estimated at four megatons by U.S. officials, also prompted speculation by Western military experts that China has developed a nuclear warhead that can be loaded on a long-range missile.

The blast was 20 times larger than the last Chinese test explosion in September. But the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) reported that with favorable weather conditions, the fallout here from the blast may not exceed the low and harmless amounts of radiation caused by the September test.

However, the levels could be increased, for example, by heavy rains when the radioactive cloud from the explosion passes over the United States, the EPA said.

EPA ACTIVATED A nationwide network of 61 monitoring stations, located in every state except West Virginia and New Hampshire, after the blast was detected.

The blast occurred at 10 p.m. PST Tuesday at the Lop Nor nuclear test site in western China, said a spokesman for the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA).

ERDA said the explosion had a force of four megatons, or 4 million tons of TNT. The September blast measured 200,000 tons.

MEANWHILE, JAPAN'S Kyodo News Service and the Japanese newspaper Asahi reported from Peking that Western military sources say that the latest test may signal completion by the Chinese of a strategic nuclear warhead for missiles.

Kyodo quoted sources who said the latest nuclear tests and four launchings of earth satellites by China since the summer of 1975 point to development of thermonuclear warheads and sophisticated intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs), possibly with a range of about 2,500 miles.

The latest test, which the Chinese said would counteract "nuclear blackmail" by the United States and Russia, was an above-ground blast that produced the familiar mushroom cloud.

BOY KILLS DOG TO SAVE SISTER

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy may have saved his sister's life when he shot and killed a Doberman Pinscher that was mauling the girl, authorities a say.

Police said the boy, Jamie Wright, fired three shots into the dog at point-blank range with his father's .22-caliber pistol when the animal attacked his 10-year-old sister, Vickie.

The girl was listed in fair condition at Midland Hospital on Wednesday following surgery for deep bites on both her legs.

"The dog would have killed my daughter," the children's mother said. "He would have killed her if Jamie didn't keep his head."

Christians Claim Strategic Victory

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians claimed the capture today of a strategic Moslem village near the Israeli border, and pro-Syrian Palestinians battled in a refugee camp in souther Beirut with guerrillas who support Yasir Arafat.

The Christian Phalange party said its forces captured Kfar Kial in house-to-house fighting during the night. But the leftist Lebanese Arab Army claimed the attackers were thrown back to the fringes of the village, a few hundred yards from the Israeli border.

A leftist communique said the Christians were aided by Israeli commandos and backed by an artillery barrage from Israeli border positions. Authoritative military sources in Tel Aviv denied Israeli involvement, but there was no way to determine the validity of either report.

OPEC Retains Plan

KUWAIT (AP) — The oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will meet as scheduled Dec. 15 to study proposals for oil price hikes, Minister of State Abdulaziz Hussein said today.

Hussein denied reports from Vienna, where OPEC headquarters is located, that the meeting will be postponed until after a Paris conference starting the same day between rich and poor nations.

Fraud Rx: Jail?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is being urged to consider severe jail terms for doctors, druggists and nursing home operators found guilty of taking part in the estimated billions of dollars in Medicaid fraud.

Charles Hynes, New York state special prosecutor for nursing homes, told a Senate investigating committee Wednesday that his office uncovered evidence that nursing home operators were padding bills under the federal-state Medicaid program to pay for personal luxuries.

60 Missiles Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — In its waning days, the Ford Administration is going ahead with production of Minuteman long-range missiles in what officials say is a demonstration to the Soviet Union of American determination not to weaken its defenses.

IN SHORT

President Ford has approved production of an additional 60 Minuteman III long-range missiles, the Pentagon said Wednesday, indicating that a major factor in Ford's decision is the lack so far of U.S.-Soviet agreement on long-term limitation of strategic nuclear weapons.

Kennedy Death

Doctor Backs Warren Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Columbia University medical school official says his independent tests confirm the Warren Commission's finding that President John F. Kennedy was shot from the back and not the front, a key point in determining whether there was more than one assassin.

The Warren Commission said the bullet was fired by Lee Harvey Oswald, who it said acted alone in the killing.

DR. JOHN K. Lattimer, chairman of the Urology Department at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, showed films of experiments he conducted by firing a rifle identical to the one used by Oswald into the back of an animal skull. Each time the shot produced the same backward motion seen in a film of the Kennedy assassination.

That motion was the result of a jet recoil effect caused by the explosion of the entire right front of Kennedy's head, Lattimer told a National Press Club luncheon.

Kennedy's movement "in no way implies that he was shot from the front right," Lattimer said. Lattimer's findings parallel those of government physicians who re-examined the Kennedy autopsy materials in 1967 and again in 1975. Lattimer was the first nongovernment physician to be given acess to the autopsy materials.

HIS FINDINGS contradict the publicly stated belief of Rep. Thomas Downing, chairman of the House Assassination Committee, that Kennedy was shot from the front.

Downing signed about 10 subpoenas Tuesday to be issued in connection with his committee's investigation of the Kennedy slaying and that of Dr. Martin Luther King, a spokesman said. No details about the subpoenas were available.

DOWNING CONTENDS THE backward motion indicates the bullet struck Kennedy in the front, meaning a second assassin was present in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Dr. Cyril Wecht, another physician who has examined the autopsy materials, has said he agrees with the Warren Commission finding that Kennedy was struck from the rear. But Wecht contends the angle at which the bullets entered Kennedy's body made it impossible for them to have been fired by Oswald from his location on the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository.

Kennedy was struck twice, first in the neck and then in the head. Lattimer said the first shot alone, which injured Kennedy's spine and pierced his windpipe, probably would have been fatal.

Lattimer also endorsed the Warren Commission's so-called "single bullet" theory which holds that the same bullet that struck Kennedy in the throat hit then Texas Gov. John Connally.

Missing Boy's Body Found, No Foul Play

TEN SLEEP, Wyo. (AP) — A month-long vigil by the parents of 4-year-old Ronnie Rea, unable to speak and legally blind without glasses, has ended with the discovery of his decomposed body.

The boy's Oct. 11 disappearance had baffled sera searchers.

WASHAKIE COUNTY Sheriff James Warila said two ranchhands found the body Wednesday partially buried in an open field about nine miles southeast of here and three miles from the boy's home. He said the body was near a dirt road that passes by the boy's home.

Warila said there was no evidence of foul play. He said the body would be transported to Casper today for an autopsy.

Officials had formally disbanded their search eight days after Ronnie disappeared. The area had been chilled by temperatures in the teens, buffeted by strong winds and blanketed by snow in the days immediately following the disappearance.

U.S. Summary

Dense fog was reported today in much of Florida and South Carolina and southern Alabama and Georgia.

Travelers were advised that driving would be hazardous until mid or late morning as visibility dropped to zero in many areas. Locally dense fog also was developing in the San Joaquin and the San Fernando valleys of California.

In Montana the strong winds on the east slopes of the Rockies which had reached up to nearly 65 miles an hour through the canyon and mountain areas will slow a bit, dropping to around 25 miles per hour tonight, but should pick up again Friday and over the weekend, the Weather Service said.

Gusts of 38 m.p.h. were clocked Wednesday at Cajon Pass in San Bernardino County.

The weather drew an estimated 300,000 persons Wednesday to beaches from Zuma to Newport, but swimmers were warned to beware of offshore riptides.

At Zuma Beach, lifeguards prevented persons from entering the water because of the tides, which are remnants of a storm system at sea earlier this week.

The riptides will diminish the next few days, but highs that will remain in the high 70s will draw more crowds.

San Diego had a record Wednesday of 88, breaking the Nov. 17 mark of 85 set in 1949.

Coastal Weather

Sunny and warm Friday.

Light and variable winds night and morning hours. Highs in the mid 70's.

California

The dry, hot Santa Ana winds that have blown all week will continue to bring clear and unseasonably warm weather to Southern California for a few days, the National Weather Service says.

The winds that have been blowing subsided as a cold front moved eastward.

Winds gusting to 40 miles an hour accompanied the front in eastern Montana. Scattered showers followed the influx of cooler air in western Montana, northern Idaho and Oregon.

The movement of the vigorous cold front through the northern Rockies is part of a change in the nation's weather pattern. The change also brought a significant flow of warmer air over the north and central Plains for the first time this month.

There was light rain over south Texas, northern Florida and southern Georgia and light snow flurries over upper Michigan.

Patient Abuse Revealed

Camarillo Nurse Blames Administrators

VENTURA (AP) — Patients are undersupervised, too heavily medicated, sometimes choked, and tended by poorly trained employes at Camarillo State Hospital, says a nurse, blaming the hospital's management for concealing poor conditions.

In a startling departure from the testimony of most witnesses Wednesday during an investigation of deaths at Camarillo, Linda Holder offered to tell all she knew, naming names and specific details.

ADMITTEDLY NERVOUS on the witness stand, the 13-year employe of Camarillo suddenly poured out a story that accused higher-ups, including acting medical director Dr. Martin Gish, of participating in a cover-up to deceive state inspectors.

Her testimony came during the second week of a public investigation by the Ventura County Grand Jury. The investigation resulted from a year-long probe of patient deaths at the hospital dating back to 1972. Investigators have called at least 55 deaths "suspicious."

THE 32-YEAR-OLD nurse said that when an inspection is due, "they find out what unit will be visited. They put new pajamas on the patients, put new sheets on the bed, and call extra help from other units" to make it appear the hospital has adequate staff.

"They cover up the conditions that we have to work under," she said, adding that she had been recently directed to work alone on the admissions unit, which receives many violent patients.

IN THE PAST, Mrs. Holder continued, her complaints went unheeded and she was afraid to give her version to inspectors.

"I'm not afraid anymore," she said, though she added that administrators were having her transferred from the admissions unit to another part of the hospital.

Gish, speaking to reporters after Mrs. Holder's testimony, said of the cover-up allegations, "I think that's long past. I think that happened during Gov. Reagan's administration."

ABOUT UNDERSTAFFING, he said, "We wish it would be better. The people above us are working toward improving it."

Coincidentally, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) submitted to the 16-member grand jury Wednesday a report calling Camarillo's management an "administrative nightmare."

The report said "the administration encourages and rewards staff members who look the other way when patients are abused or mistreated and punishes those who speak out when they see something wrong."

THE STATEMENT, submitted by Ventura County ACLU chapter officer James Provenza, included several criticisms similar to those mentioned by Mrs. Holder.

"We have found that patients at Camarillo State Hospital are systematically given large doses of drugs as a means of control rather than therapy," the ACLU report said.

It went on to say that prescriptions which can be given by nursing staff "as needed places the decision-making power over the use of these drugs in the hands of psychiatric technicians who are neither trained nor qualified to make such decisions."

CALLED AS A witness in the Feb. 4 death of Thomas Riddle due to strangulation and a drug overdose, Mrs. Holder said she would not have given Riddle the multi-drug tranquilizing shot he received hours before his death.

She said that in the past she has refused to carry out orders she considered harmful to a patient, and that such action has resulted in "counseling" by supervisors and a label as a "trouble maker."

Food Pay Hikes VP By $2.72

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two unions have approved new contracts with The Food Employers Council that will cost Southern California supermarkets almost $3 an hour per worker, or more than $50,000 an hour overall.

The new contracts cover approximately 10,000 Teamsters and 9,000 meatcutters. They had threatened to strike supermarkets from San Luis Obispo to the Mexican border and in Las Vegas.

BOB VOIGT, A spokesman for the food council, said the Teamster warehousemen and truckers accepted a wage and benefit package that included a pay boost of $1.65 an hour over the three-year contract.

A cost of living increase and other benefits bring it to $2.72 per hour for each worker.

The meatcutters will get about $1.35 more per hour under the terms their contract, and higher benefits put it on a par with the Teamster contract, said Voigt.

THE MEATCUTTERS voted overwhelmingly to accept their new contract. The Teamsters voted to reject the contract by a simple majority, but the contract was accepted because a two-thirds majority is required for rejection.

County Chiefs Seek Tax Action

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Supervisors from around the state say Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. will be asked to call a special legislative session to deal with tax reform and property tax relief for homeowners.

The executive committee of the County Supervisors Association of California, presently holding its convention in San Diego, foresaw no opposition to a resolution already adopted by top officers and needing only routine approval by the 1,000 delegates.

THE RESOLUTION calls for the special session to be convened prior to the Dec. 6 opening session of the Legislature or to be set so it runs concurrently with the new session.

A spokesman for Brown in Sacramento said the governor plans no immediate action on the resolution.

The executive director of the National Association of Counties said counties need federal help because they are being strangled by rising welfare costs.

"THE REQUIREMENTS are dictated by the federal government but the cost is paid for in part by the counties," said Bernard Hillenbrand, who said six counties in New York have been bankrupted by the costs of welfare payments.

Care Facilities

More Shocks Yet to Come?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says problems plaguing state mental hospitals may be dwarfed by conditions in community board and care facilities.

"After we get through with the mental hospitals we are going to start looking at the board and care homes and other places in the community and we are going to find things that are even worse. It will be shocking," said Brown.

State

The state mental hospital system has been rocked by a series of revelations in recent weeks that includes investigations into patients' deaths at Metropolitan State Hospital in Norwalk and Camarillo State Hospital in Ventura County.

Driver Killed in Bus Crash

RIVERSIDE (AP) — One person has been killed and two others injured in a collision between a bus carrying 20 elderly persons and a station wagon.

Police said Robert Freeman, 43, the driver of the station wagon, was killed Wednesday when his car apparently swerved into the path of the bus near here. Two bus passengers were injured and hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Standoff on Diamond Lane?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The question of whether the nine-mile diamond lane on the San Diego Freeway in Los Angeles will be open to all traffic is still unresolved after a meeting involving principals on both sides.

Adriana Gianturco, state transportation chief, said Wednesday she can't legally open the lane to all traffic. But Los Angeles City Councilman Zev Yaroslavsky claimed the lane can be opened to all vehicles.

Porpoise Death Reduction Eyed

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Preliminary results of a UC Santa Cruz research project now under way off the Mexican coast indicate the death rate of porpoises accidentally caught by U.S. tuna boats can be significantly reduced.

The project studied porpoise behavior as the boat's net was pulled close around the schools of porpoise and tuna. The crucial point, a researcher said, is when the boat backs down, permitting the net to slacken and drop and allow the porpoises to escape.

Minority Appeal Opposed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A coalition of minority groups have announced opposition to any appeal of a state Supreme Court ruling that a University of California minority admissions program is unconstitutional.

The groups believe the university's defense of the special minority program was weak, and an adverse ruling might be applied more broadly to other affirmative action programs in the nation.

Exxon Ending Flores Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Exxon Oil has apparently given up its effort to win the right to process oil from the San Barbara Channel at a proposed facility about 30 miles east of Santa Barbara.

Exxon Corp. attorneys Wednesday asked a federal court here to dismiss a suit Exxon had filed earlier this year against the California Coastal Commission, which had said Exxon's processing plan would be approved only under terms Exxon said were unacceptable.

AN EXXON spokesman said the company will also ask that a similar suit in state courts be dismissed.

The spokesman said the action came because Exxon could see "no early resolution" to the dispute over Exxon's proposed Las Flores Canyon facility.

THE "ONLY alternative," the spokesman said, is for Exxon to proceed with plans to process the oil at an offshore facility just outside the state's jurisdiction in federal waters.

Alien Job Controls

On the theory that the tide of illegal aliens could best be stemmed by making it more difficult to obtain work, several laws have been proposed to prosecute employers who hire them.

While some unscrupulous employers deliberately look for a low-cost work force, even those who seek proof of legality could be penalized under the proposed laws. And the ubiquitous Social Security card, customarily checked by employers, is all too easily counterfeited.

Opponents of the laws have expressed fear that they could result in hiring discrimination against anyone of foreign name, appearance or accent.

A recent survey of Orange County business firms by U.S. Senate representatives indicates this is all too true. More than one employer said the easiest way to avoid problems is "just not to hire Mexicans."

Obviously this is grossly unfair to Mexicans and other foreigners who are legal immigrants and need work.

Penalizing employers cannot be justified unless the federal government devises some method of providing legal aliens with documentation that cannot be counterfeited and can be accepted by prospective employers as proof of status.

Empty Pledge

The 100-page "code of conduct" signed by 35 nations, including the United States, at Helsinki on July 30, 1975, gave the Soviet Union something it had wanted for more than 20 years— international confirmation of the postwar boundaries of its Eastern European satellites.

In return for this plum, the Soviets agreed to sign the so-called Basket 3 of the agreement. This pledges the participating nations to freer movement and contact between countries, the right of citizens to travel, wider dissemination of information and acceleration of cultural and educational exchanges.

No one really expected the Soviets to live up to the letter of Basket 3. And, apart from relatively innocuous cultural exchanges and considerable promotion of dollar-gathering tourism, they haven't.

In fact, there have been so many reported violations of the Helsinki agreement, a group of 12 United States congressmen decided they warranted on-the-scene investigation.

Unfortunately, the federal commission, now in Europe, will have to confine its investigating to the perimeter of the scene.

With the exception of Yugoslavia, all the Eastern European satellites joined the Soviet Union in refusing to issue visas to the Americans.

President-elect Carter has complained that we have failed to enforce the human rights provisions of the Helsinki pact. That we have. But whether he can do any better than the Ford-Kissinger team in this aspect of detente remains to be seen.

Think Clean

Behavioral science, much in the news these days for application to everything from quitting smoking to learning new skills, now is being used to reduce littering.

Keep America Beautiful Inc., which monitors programs in more than 30 cities, claims a reduction of up to 70 percent in littering where the so-called Clean Community System is in effect.

Teams from participating communities attend workshops in behavioral processes designed to change "negative" trash handling habits to a positive approach. Citizens, government and business must be involved in the local clean-up effort.

The workshops offer step-by-step instruction in techniques for public education, updating sanitation ordinances, using improved technology and enforcing sanitation laws. Then participants return home to help their fellow citizens "think clean."

An up-to-date approach to an age-old problem— and apparently it works.

"Four years is a long time, dear... and what if Carter's reelected?"

Sadat Feeling Pressure

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Mounting pressure on President Anwar Sadat from the Egyptian army, the most powerful political force in Egypt, is the real reason Sadat is pressing hard on Moscow to arrange military spare parts for the aging Soviet war machines delivered to Egypt a decade ago.

If there is no Carter administration breakthrough in Arab-Israeli peace talks and if the U.S. continues to embargo arms for Egypt, military backlash against Sadat could force him to do an about-face and turn to Moscow from Washington — a grave decision that would undo almost five years of U.S. diplomacy.

SADAT'S military problem is far more politically acute than realized in the U.S. Congress (which systematically denies Egypt military aid despite Sadat's Washington orientation).

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger did little to discourage Sadat's public claims of U.S. pledges for voluminous military supplies following the second Sinai agreement last year. But while Congress was approving more than $4 billion in aid for Israel, including the most advanced U.S. weapons, Egypt received six C-130 transports.

That was a blow to Sadat, whose military commanders believed the Sinai agreement would be followed by a gradual switch from Soviet to American military supplies, starting with U.S. F-5 aircraft.

MOSCOW, switching vital spare parts on or off for Sadat, recently approved spare parts sales from one of its Eastern European satellites to keep Sadat's MIG-21s flying. But that beneficence could be turned off whenever Moscow chooses.

Accordingly, pressure from the military on Sadat is understandable. Sadat told a congressional delegation in Cairo Nov. 9 that Egypt was ready to sit down with Israel and other Arab states at Geneva to negotiate a settlement — and that Egypt would welcome a U.S.-Israeli security pact to guarantee Israel's borders after settlement.

SADAT'S PROBLEM, however, will soon get more dangerous. Israel is complaining that peace talks are out of the question until after its late-1977 elections. Moreover, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin summarily rejected Sadat's Nov. 9 olive branch as simply a "general statement" signalling the start of a new Arab campaign to "pressure" Israel.

Dear Gloomy Gus

With 65 the mandatory age at which most of us are supposedly ready to be put out to pasture, why is it that so many politicians just begin their careers at that age—or over? Seems like gross discrimination. Or is this the reason the country seems to be in such a mess all the time?

Brass Salutes a Congressman

...and a Tearful Finale in the Oval Office

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon delivered its biggest bicentennial salute this year not to one of our dead military heroes, but to Rep. F. Edward Hebert, the crotchety old Democrat from Louisiana, who is still very much alive.

The crusty Congressman is finally stepping down after a 36-year career dedicated primarily to championing causes dear to the hearts of the brass hats.

Hebert was a member of the House Armed Services Committee from its inception in 1947, and served as the committee's chairman from 1971 to 1974 when a group of feisty freshmen deposed him in favor of someone less inclined to carry water for the Pentagon.

Hebert had indeed been a one-man bucket brigade for the military. From the center of a two-tiered curved desk, with two small American flags flanking him, he ruled the committee with the stern hand of a drill sergeant. At times, he appeared to be playing Charley McCarthy to the Pentagon's Edgar Bergen. Perched upon the Defense Department's knee, he opened his mouth and the military spoke.

THE BRASS HATS deeply appreciate such faithful service, so they decided to bid farewell to the old soldier in style. As an occasion for the ceremony, they chose homecoming weekend at Tulane University, in Hebert's hometown of New Orleans. Tulane, appropriately enough, was playing Army.

With a blaring of trumpets and rolling of drums, military officials assembled the night before the game to say goodbye. The Secretary of the Army was present, as was the Army Chief of Staff, the West Point Commandant, and a host of lesser lights.

Four military bands, one from each of the services, played swan songs for Hebert. The Army had flown in its 60-man Chorus and Herald Trumpets, which usually plays only at the White House in honor of visiting heads of state. The 80-member Army Chief of Staff's band, decked out in special bicentennial uniforms, was also there.

The Chorus and Herald Trumpets led the other bands in a ceremonial military tattoo. It was the first time such a tattoo had ever been performed on a college campus.

Hebert, according to eyewitnesses, was "visibly moved" by the military's farewell for him. The taxpayers should be moved as well; it cost them $27,158 to bid aloha to Eddie Hebert.

Footnote: A military spokesman claimed the money spent in honor of Hebert's departure was not wasted. The ceremony, he said, "provided good local exposure for recruiting."

BACKSTAGE SCENE — The nation watched the poignant scene in the White House as Betty Ford, her chin high, read the concession telegram her husband was too hoarse to read. But even more touching were the scenes that the public never saw.

Before President Ford faced the TV cameras to concede his defeat, he gathered his family in the oval office. Only a few intimates were allowed inside. They have described the scene for us. The President, exhausted and voiceless after 12 days of the most arduous campaigning any president had ever endured, tried to bolster his family's spirits. Like the quarterback of a defeated but undisgraced team, he spoke quiet words of encouragement. The hoarse whisper made the words all the more heart-wrenching.

Sons Steve, Jack and Michael tried not to show their hurt. Michael's wife, Jayne, also managed to keep her composure. The First Lady had an air of pride, without defiance. Only daughter Susan seemed inconsolable. She couldn't hold back the tears. She turned away, perhaps to hide the tears from her father, and gazed out the window at the chilly autumn day. She continued to weep, without sobbing.

BETTY FORD began reading the concession telegram softly to herself. The others hushed to listen. Then they filed into the room where the cameras were waiting.

As the nation watched, the President explained that his voice was too strained for him to speak. His wife took over. "The President asked me to tell you," she began, "that he telephoned president-elect Carter a short time ago and congratulated him on his victory ...."

Once it was done, the family separated. Ford stepped into the crowd, mouthing silent hellos. Then he disappeared into the oval office, alone except for his appointments secretary, Terry O'Donnell, and photographer friend David Kennerly.

Inside, he threw a strong arm around O'Donnell's shoulders. Another man might have spoken of his own pain of defeat or, at least, might have asked how the TV performance looked.

But Gerald Ford apologized to his young aide. "I see you so often," said the President, "and still don't get a chance to thank you for the great help you've been to me."

Suddenly, the tough O'Donnell's eyes were afloat.

"Is there anything I can do for you?" pressed the President. "If there is, let me know."

KENNERLY, tears streaming down his own cheeks, walked from the room. O'Donnell struggled to control his emotions, so he could tell the older man what he had meant to them all. The aide spoke of the President's courage and humor, of the miracle comeback against the odds. O'Donnell started to add that he had never seen such manliness and dignity under fire.

But the words choked in his throat; he broke down. The President cut him off. "We've got a lot to be proud of," he whispered. Then he smiled and growled through his frog throat: "Come on, keep your chin up!"

Privacy Law Veto Key Mistake

EARL WATERS

Nowhere does the fallacy of a governor substituting his judgment for that of 120 members of the Legislature show so glaringly as in Governor Jerry Brown's veto of the Privacy Law authored by Senator David Roberti. In this instance the governor was taken in by the bureaucrats who fantasized estimated costs in their deliberate and successful efforts to thwart legislative policy.

Ignoring the positive purpose of the bill to protect the privacy of citizens, who are compelled to give information to the government about their personal affairs, from the prying eyes of busybodies, the governor dismissed the measure by declaring "The bill costs too much."

Admittedly the prime purpose of the veto power is to ward against unbridled spending by an irresponsible Legislature. But the Roberti bill carried no appropriation and any costs involved in complying with the law were nebulous and could only have been nominal, for the most part resulting from failures to comply.

IN WHAT can only be a complete recognition of the need for the legislation the governor immediately turned around and issued an executive order which he erroneously stated "will do most of what is essential in this bill at a fraction of the cost."

If there is any cost in complying with the designs of the executive order it will be no different from compliance with a statute. But the executive order does not come close to providing the protections to the public which were contained in the Roberti bill.

First off it can have no power over those agencies of government not under the direct authority of the governor. These include the Department of Justice, the Controller, the Department of Education, Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, Treasurer, and Secretary of State. Neither does it include the University of California, State Colleges, Public Utilities Commission and the State Personnel Board.

Furthermore an executive order is meaningless if the governor chooses to ignore failures to comply by his subordinates. And he can amend it in whole or in part to suit his convenience.

FINALLY, unlike a statute, it provides no penalties for violation and no basis for remedy in court for the citizens.

The Roberti measure was carefully worked out over a period of two years. Its history covered an even greater period for it was initially proposed by Senator George Moscone before he left to take office as Mayor of San Francisco. Moscone had demonstrated a great interest in public records, desiring to keep government open and above board while at the same time protecting the privacy of individuals. He authored substantial improvements in the public records act but didn't complete the privacy legislation.

Had the governor been sincere in a desire to protect that privacy he would have worked with Roberti in devising the legislation instead of sitting back until the bill had passed the Legislature and then substituting his hastily drafted executive order as a sop to his veto.

AS ROBERTI, with understandable anger, has pointed out, the substitution is far short of providing the public adequate protection against bureaucratic treatment of personal information compiled. It doesn't even permit the citizens to know what information is being kept let alone give them a right to review and get corrections of inaccurate documents.

The Roberti measure would have required every state agency to file with the Secretary of State notice of the existence and character of the records being kept. It specifically spelled out the circumstances under which information could be used and provided penalties for persons obtaining individual records under false pretenses as well as for those who willfully disclosed information unlawfully.

Intelligence Test

SYDNEY HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

The most profoundly useful maxim for our time was given not by a philosopher or a theologian, but by a contemporary novelist, Scott Fitzgerald, when he said several decades ago: "The test of a first-rate intelligence is the ability to hold two opposed ideas in the mind at the same time, and still retain the ability to function."

It is wrong to suggest, as some do, that certain languages are "hard" while others are "easy" — when every child of three, no matter where he is born, learns his language with equal facility.

The word "revolution" is a misnomer, in its political context, for a true revolution is a complete turning back to its original position, while political revolutions are only half a turn, from bottom to top.

Our new "age of exploration" will not be in the solar system, which is arid for our purposes, but under the seas of our own world, where more is to be discovered now than on land, possibly including the means for our survival as a species.

All oppressed minorities soon learn to understand the dynamics of their oppressors far better than the oppressors ever bother to understand them; this is why men generally find women "hard to figure out" while women can usually understand men with painful clarity. (As I have observed before, being a "master" makes one stupid.)

The idea that "values are relative" has been at once the greatest liberator and the greatest threat to modern society: it has liberated us from intellectual and cultural provincialism, but at the same time has cast us into the deepest pit of moral anarchy.

IUD Failure May Kill

BOSTON (AP) — Fifteen of every 100,000 women who continue to wear intrauterine devices — IUDs — after becoming pregnant die from infected spontaneous abortions, a federal study says.

That death rate is 50 times higher than among women who do not use the IUD birth control method, the study said.

THE RESEARCHERS SAID THAT, because of the danger, women should have their IUDs removed at the first sign of pregnancy.

IUDs are plastic shields, loops or coils inserted into the uterus to prevent pregnancy. However, about 2 percent of the time they fail, and women become pregnant, anyway.

The study says that if these women fail to have their IUDs removed, they run a risk of dying from infected, or septic, abortions that occur spontaneously, unlike those induced by doctors.

THE RESEARCH WAS CONDUCTED BY the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. It was published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

MEDICINE

The study is the latest in a series of reports that raise questions about the effects of IUDs on prenancy. The researchers said theirs is the first study to determine the death rate among women who continue to wear the birth control device while pregnant.

"This was meant to be the final nail in the coffin with regard to IUDs involved in septic spontaneous abortion," Dr. Willard Cates Jr., who directed the study, said in an interview.

THE DOCTORS REACHED THEIR conclusions after surveying all abortion-related deaths in the United States between 1972 and 1974. During that time, there were 33 deaths, and they estimated that 115,000 pregnant women were wearing IUDs and 11.9 million were not.

They found there were about 15 deaths among every 100,000 women who kept wearing their IUDs while pregnant. Among women who did not have IUDs, there was only a fraction of one death per 100,000.

"We conclude that the risk of death from spontaneous abortion in the United States is over 50 times greater in women continuing a pregnancy with IUDs than in those without IUDs in place," the researchers wrote.

UNTIL ABOUT TWO YEARS AGO, doctors left IUDs in place during pregnancy, because they feared removal would cause an abortion. However, in 1974, the Food and Drug Administration urged doctors to remove the devices, if possible, during pregnancy because of mounting evidence that they caused complications.

Since then, the number of abortion-related deaths among women with IUDs has declined.

The greatest threat of IUDs now, Cates said, is to women in the early stages of pregnancy.

Adultery Laws Draw Protests

AP Wirephoto

MADRID (AP) — Riot police dispersed hundreds of women who demonstrated in front of a Madrid court to protest the trial of a woman charged with adultery.

In Barcelona, more than 1,000 women also demonstrated in a similar case, shouting and carrying signs saying, "No to laws discriminating against women," "Remove adultery from the penal code," and "Right to divorce." Divorce is illegal in Spain.

The women are charged under Spanish laws that allow prison terms of up to six years and heavy fines in cases of adultery. The women claim the law is discriminatory, and that men are permitted "casual extramarital relations" while women are severely punished for the same thing.

To Be Deported

The British government says it plans to deport Philip Agee, who became a critic of the CIA when he quit the agency after nine years. The report says he has "maintained . . . contacts harmful to the security of the United Kingdom."

Demand 'Nil' for Nutrition

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The fast-food outlets that offer pizza, fried chicken and hamburgers would be happy to add peas and carrots if Americans wanted them, says a home economist.

Dr. Carolyn Lara-Braud of the University of Iowa's home economics department said the nutritional value of convenience meals is determined by the demand and "we just don't ask, 'where's the cole slaw, fruit cup or vegetables' when we eat at fast-food restaurants.

"IF THERE was enough demand, those things would be provided because it would be good business."

The missing fruits and vegetables — and the vitamins, minerals and dietary fiber they provide — are a major drawback to America's quick eating habits, along with too many calories, over-eating and high fat content, Dr. Lara-Braud said.

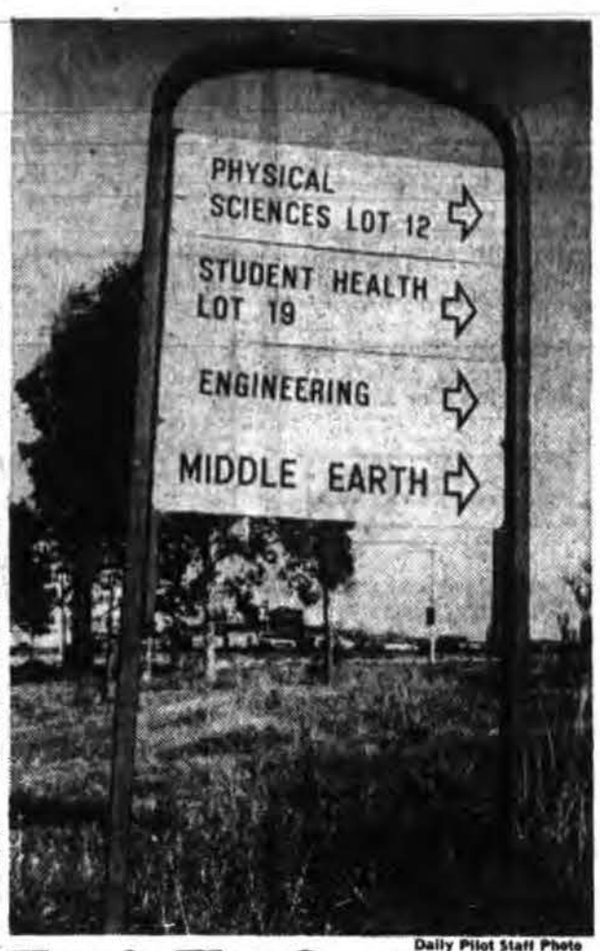

TO COMBAT those drawbacks, she recommends:

— Order hamburgers or fried fish without the trimmings.

— Drink milk, skim or low-fat milk if possible, instead of shakes.

— SKIP THE french fries and potato chips. Order mashed potatoes and gravy instead.

— Cut down on the intake of animal fats by trying more fish and chicken. When you do eat beef, order it well done and drained of fat.

"French for Travelers" is offered in two sections. Tuesday meetings are scheduled in room 202 at Fountain Valley High School while Wednesday classes meet at Edison High School (Rm. 105). Classes meet from 7 to 9 p.m.

REGISTRATION for the free course will be conducted in class through the first week of instruction. Friday is the last day to register. Further information may be obtained by calling the Coastline Community College registration hotline at 963-0824.

Ohio Cows Up Creek In Booze

VERSAILLES, Ind. (AP) — Motorists near this southeastern Indiana town should be on the lookout for hiccuping horses with a hangover and boozed-up bulls.

A transport truck carrying 40,000 pounds of 188 proof alcohol overturned on U.S. 50 near here, spilling its contents into a creek that cuts through farmland on its way to the Ohio River.

Trooper Lyman Conley said the alcohol would cause no damage.

DOOR BARS NOW LEGAL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles City Council has changed the municipal code to permit the building of security bars on home doors and windows as long as fire warning systems are installed.

Only bars that can be opened from the inside will be permitted, according to the code change. Permanently attached bars are illegal.

Computer to Aid Cops

Orange County supervisors have decided to buy $500,000 worth of computer equipment to handle information for county law enforcement agencies.

The computer message switching device will improve abilities of county law agencies to retrieve information from state and federal enforcement officers, county officials explained.

AND IT WILL RESULT IN an eventual savings in tax dollars because the computerized information will require fewer employes for relaying data, they said.

The device will serve needs of all county police departments and the county sheriff's office, along with the probation department, courts and the district attorney's office.

Ron Bates, an assistant director of the county General Services Agency, said court calendar schedules will be set by computer once the new system is installed.

IT ALSO WILL BE USED TO automate jail purchasing and will be capable of keeping track of a person from his arrest until his release from the justice system.

Bates, in a report to supervisors, said the new system will serve county needs through 1981. He said the present message switching system is not capable of meeting peak demands at present.

Utility Asks LNG Backing

A Southern California Gas Company official called on Orange County business leaders Wednesday to write Governor Edmund G. Brown in support of two liquified natural gas (LNG) projects he said would help ease the state's gas shortage.

William Cole, vice president of gas supply for the utility, addressed a meeting of the Council on Environment, Employment, Economy and Development (CEEED) in Anaheim.

"THE PUBLIC MUST LEARN the facts of the energy situation, and must forget the myths and half-truths," Cole told CEEED members.

Among these myths are that conservation or exotic energy sources like solar and geothermal promise an easy way out of our energy predicament, he said.

"Conservation can't do more than give us breathing space, a margain of time to look for real answers to our problems," Cole said.

UNLESS MAJOR NEW GAS supplies are brought to California by 1980, small businesses and industries face complete cutoff of gas service and possible shutdowns that year, according to gas company estimates.

Imports of LNG from Indonesia and south Alaska to receiving terminals along the California coast are the only major new sources of gas that can be delivered by that deadline, Cole said.

LUNG CHECK CONTINUES

A free lung testing clinic will continue Saturday 10 a.m.-noon at the American Red Cross West Orange County Service Center, 7571 Westminster Ave., Westminster.

Kenyon Rites Held

Memorial services were held Wednesday for long-time Tustin resident Dwight T. Kenyon, 75, who died Sunday following a brief illness.

A resident of Tustin since 1903, Mr. Kenyon formerly taught accounting at the Orange County Business College in Santa Ana. He also operated his own accounting business.

Mr. Kenyon was prominent in the organizational efforts of the Jehovah's Witnesses in Orange County and was an elder in the Tustin Congregation.

He is survived by his widow, Juliet, and five nieces.

Collector Talks Set

Coin collecting will be the subject of four free lectures at Golden West College starting Friday.

Dr. John Venable, a coin collector for more than 20 years, will be the speaker.

Coins of the world and coin collecting as a hobby will be discussed Nov. 19; U.S. coins — 200 years, Dec. 3; coin dealers, shows and auctions, Dec. 10, and organization of a coin club, Dec. 17.

Lectures will start at 7:30 p.m. in math-science room 123.

Teachers' Study Set

A workshop designed for college instructors of composition will be hosted by Orange Coast College's English department Jan. 7-8.

The workshop will be held in the college's new literature and language building.

Registration fee is $25 and application blanks are available in OCC's English department. For information, phone 556-5595.

Display Set

"Beginnings," an exhibition of paintings and drawings by Cathy Engel of Huntington Beach, is on display in the Administration Building lobby at UC Irvine through Friday.

Deputy Job Challenges Volunteers

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

If you're in good condition, at least 18 years old and have a minimum of 50 hours free time each month, Orange County Sheriff's Sgt. Edward L. Beach may have an interesting job for you.

The job pays nothing — in fact, you'll have to shell out about $200 of your own money for a gun and handcuffs — but it offers a chance to serve the community in a challenging, often exciting, role.

BEACH IS LOOKING FOR reserve sheriff's deputies to work out of the south county substation in Laguna Niguel, covering the unincorporated areas from El Toro south to the San Diego County line.

There are about 30 reserve deputies working in the south county and Beach said some are contributing up to 200 hours a month to the job.

"We'd like to have 50 reservists down here but right now, we're trying to maintain the 30 we have, what with our turnover and attrition rate," he said. "It's like shoveling against the tide sometimes."

Beach is encouraged by the progress his reserve group has made since its inception a year ago.

In the last month, six of Beach's reservists have left the ranks due to other commitments or to take regular police jobs in other cities.

"WHEN THEY LOWERED THE minimum age for reserve deputies to 18, we started getting a lot of young people looking for ways to get experience so they could become policemen later on," said Beach. "I could probably get all the 18-year-olds I wanted but the problem is, they don't stay around too long."

There are nine men in the county police and sheriff's academy training for south county reserve jobs, but Beach said they'll barely fill the void.

Still, Beach is encouraged by the progress his reserve group has made since its inception a year ago.

"It takes almost a year before they are completely finished with their training and can get into the field on their own," he said. "So all in all, we haven't done too badly."

THE SOUTH COUNTY RESERVES are in need of deputies to serve in the headquarters and patrol unit, the harbor patrol and a unit just getting organized — a mounted patrol.

"The mounted deputies will have to provide their own horses and transport," Beach noted.

There is also an administrative unit for persons over 40. These deputies take an abbreviated training course and provide support services at the substation.

Beach noted that the purpose of the reserves is not to replace the regular deputies but rather to supplement them so the regulars "can do some real police work."

HE SAID THERE ARE generally three types of people who become reserve deputies — young people looking for experience, older people with good jobs but seeking other outlets and older people who simply want to serve their community.

"We have insurance agents, brokers, bankers, executives and others involved who are successful but still want something else," Beach said.

Reservists undergo 14 weeks of training on Sundays and two nights a week for a total of 200 hours — the minimum for police officers in California.

"They go through the same training as our regulars," Beach said.

PRIOR TO ATTENDING THE ACADEMY, potential reserve deputies must spend 40 hours as observers at the county jail "to get an idea of the kind of people they'll be dealing with," Beach said.

"It kind of takes some of the shine off the badge," Beach said. "It acts as a cooling-off period."

Applicants must also undergo exhaustive background screening that can take months to complete. A total of 60 percent are washed out before being accepted and another 30 percent drop out during training.

Beach said that means to get 20 reservists, he must get up to 200 applications. More information on the south county reserve program can be obtained by calling Beach at the Laguna Niguel station at 831-9250.

Rehab Center Opens

An employment center to help rehabilitated ex-convicts find jobs upon their release from prison has been opened in Orange County.

The program, sponsored by the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB), was financed by a $17,000 federal grant obtained by county officials.

Those interested in the program may contact NAB at 547-5923 or local probation and parole offices.

Hospitalized

Chief Justice Donald Wright of the California Supreme Court was rushed to Presbyterian Hospital, San Francisco, Wednesday after complaining of flu symptoms.

FTC Eyes Car Rent Ad Aids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is investigating the advertising subsidies paid by auto manufacturers to car rental firms for featuring a particular brand of car.

The affiliated companies are Ford and Hertz; Chrysler and Avis; and General Motors and National.

A Ralph Nader study group charged that the subsidies are a major deterrent to competition in the auto rental industry, since they give the established companies an advantage.

The Nader group said the subsidy by Ford to Hertz was $10 million per year and the payment by Chrysler to Avis was about $8 million.

Study Hits Aid Service

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The case of a man rescued from suicide but refused mental health assistance prior to a fatal jump from the Coronado Bay Bridge is not unusual, according to a study.

That was the finding of a five-month study of area abilities to handle mentally disturbed persons in crisis situations.

The study by the San Diego Mental Health Advisory Board said services are fragmented and disorganized.

In the case of the man who jumped from the bridge, he had been stopped by police and taken to the County Mental Health Facility, where he was refused entry and released. He returned to the bridge.

'Flea' Falls in Her Lap

Kids' Theater Buff Directs Bawdy Flick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Directing children's plays taught Sharon McNight about the theater but did little to prepare her for the writhing bodies she encountered when she directed her first erotic movie.

When Miss McNight was asked to direct "Autobiography of a Flea," she protested that she knew nothing about film or technical aspects of certain body movements required of actors in such productions.

BUT THE OFFER FROM THE Mitchell Brothers Stood, and Miss McNight took on a task rarely handled by a woman.

"It caused me problems in the beginning," said the rookie director. "I come from a liberal background, but never had seen two people engage in sex before my eyes — on screen, yes, but not live."

Miss McNight concentrated on dialogue and directing the actors but left most of the close-up camera work to cinematographer Jon Fontana, who has shot most of the films made by the Mitchell Brothers, prolific hard-core producers based in San Francisco.

"I KNEW WHAT I WANTED everyone to see — through the eyes of a flea," she said. "As far as the sex went, he (Fontana) handled that. He had more of an eye for that."

The movie chronicles the ribald adventures of a teen-age girl named Belle as narrated by a flea. Set in 1810 and filmed in seven days last April, the movie has been described as a hard-core "Barry Lyndon."

Production of "Autobiography of a Flea" cost $100,000, considerably less than the multimillion-dollar "Barry Lyndon" but more expensive and elaborate than the average erotic movie.

MISS McNIGHT SAID THE MOVIE has run at theaters in six California cities for nearly three months, a longer-than-average engagement. With "Autobiography of a Flea" and another popular erotic movie, "The Joy of Letting Go" on the same bill, the Mitchell Brothers San Francisco theater grossed $10,000 during one week in early November, she said.

Miss McNight, who won't disclose her age beyond saying she's in her 20s, came here from Modesto. She majored in drama at San Francisco State, specialized in children's theater, directed a number of plays and later taught two semesters at San Francisco City College.

But after eight years in theater, she said, "I really got tired of teaching school and doing children's theater, especially directing."

MISS McNIGHT SAID HER FIRST love is singing and dancing and that directing the movie "was a sidetrack that just started happening."

After retiring from theater work, she sang with a rock-blues group called "Menage" for a year and half, then gave that up and got a secretarial job with Mitchells in February 1975.

She later worked on writing dialogue for "Autobiography of a Flea," adapted from a 19th Century book of unknown authorship.

When Jim Mitchell found his time tied up by a legal battle in Los Angeles, he asked Miss McNight to direct the movie.

SHE STILL WORKS FOR MITCHELL Brothers but hasn't directed another film. If she does direct another erotic movie, Miss McNight said, "I would like to do one based more on love than lust."

Miss McNight said she felt that as a woman director she was able to bring some fresh touches to "Autobiography." But, she said, "There were too many deadly sins we had to hit, and so we had to make it bigger than life."

Student Wins Suit In 'Theft'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal jury has awarded $53,000 to a student threatened with a gun and kicked by a Philadelphia policeman after being charged with stealing a 79-cent bag of pistachio nuts.

The jury ruled in favor of Elliot Branch, 22, a student at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School.

ACCORDING to testimony, Branch was accused by the manager of a West Philadelphia Penn Fruit store of stealing the nuts. When Branch denied the theft and refused to sign a paper admitting guilt, a security guard was alerted and police were summoned.

Branch claimed in his suit that he was taken to a police station where detective Martin Vitkow kicked him in the face. He claimed Vitkow took him to a restroom, held a gun to his neck and threatened to shoot him if he did not sign the confession.

Branch signed, but the shoplifting charge was not pursued.

Libra: You Can Win

By SYDNEY OMARR

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on unusual literature, the occult, money in connection with partner, mate. You gain wide recognition, opportunity for better display, distribution.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Emphasis on agreement, legal verification, special document. Marriage, partnership, public relations are featured. You get chance for new start.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Low key approach indicated, but aura of excitement is present. Steam builds — one who works with you expresses controversial opinion.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good moon aspect coincides now with change, variety, physical contact, aliveness, personality, dealings with opposite sex and children.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What seems solid, set may actually be flexible. Know and don't be afraid to ask questions. Give full play to curiosity, especially where home, taxes, land values are concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on messages, short trips, a call which involves you with mail and a relative. Sense of humor is your ally. Express yourself — get thoughts, promises on paper.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on costs, valuables, personal possessions, domestic agreements and adjustments. Key now is diplomacy. You can win your way. Attempted force proves costly and misses the mark.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Cycle high — there is a figurative drum roll in your behalf. The buildup is on — you receive benefit of any doubt. Enjoy without believing your own publicity.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What was hidden becomes visible. You are able to deal with issues and you get support from those in positions of authority.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on fulfillment, popularity, friend who confides problem. Be sympathetic but insist others do something to help themselves.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Spotlight on goal, ability to communicate with one who can aid you in obtaining needed material. Stress independence, confidence.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Philosophical concepts become more clearly outlined, defined. You obtain better answer to why you are here — and where you might be going.

If November 19th is your birthday you are independent, creative, forceful, dedicated, stubborn and this has been one of your most significant of the past nine years for you. You are "in business," in love, handling more pressure, responsibility.

She Enters Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman charged with assisting an osteopath in delivering babies has pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge in a case involving the deaths of 17 infants. The plea was entered Tuesday in Superior Court by Irene Barcenas, 43, after authorities described her role as aide to Dr. Joseph Emory, operator of three cut-rate obstetrical clinics.

Exhibit, Sale Set

An art auction and exhibition will be held Saturday night at the SELF High School in Irvine with proceeds to benefit the school's student body fund.

The exhibition will begin at 7 p.m., with the auction following at 8. The school is located at 16841 Milliken Ave. Admission is $1.50 at the door.

Works offered during the auction will be mostly oils, lithographs and serigraphs, by modern American and European artists.

Coast Fellowships Okayed

Faculty fellowships for the Coast Community College District have been approved for the fall semester, with funding set aside for projects ranging from "Individualization of Lessons in Organic Gardening" to "Visual Segments of History of Rock Music."

Ten fellowships, totaling $26,498, were approved by Coast trustees for the fall semester.

THE FELLOWSHIPS ARE FOR instructors at all three of the district's colleges. Fellowship topics and their costs, include:

— "Creative Analysis." A $3,572 project to develop a color video tape to help students overcome blocks to creativity and "to use analysis to order and create."

— A "How to" Single Concept Cook Training Film project. This $2,200 project includes a series of video tapes dealing with basic commercial cooking techniques.

— A $5,600 PROJECT TO "Develop appropriate software for beginning typing and intermediate typing in Golden Keys. It will include approximately 30 videotapes and be used by nearly 1,000 students each semester, according to the fellowship outline.

— "Slide Tape Presentations of Clothing Techniques," a $1,920 project which will visualize 20 clothing presentations.

— A 30-minute videotape, with sound and in color, discussing the principles of dance ethnology. Cost is $2,984.

— FOUR TO EIGHT 30-MINUTE audio visual presentations for beginning conversational Spanish. Cost is $1,730.

— A $2,440 project including two instructional packages in the teaching of Spanish-medical course. The fellowship will include slides, master cards, transparencies, two filmstrips, two cassettes, flash cards and handouts.

— "Visual Segments of History of Rock Music." This $2,300 slide show project has the objective of "adding a visual dimension to the history of rock music. Slides will cover every visual aspect of rock music, according to the fellowship description.

— A $1,990 FELLOWSHIP, ENTITLED "Individualization of Lessons in Organic Gardening," will include two videotapes and/or sound-on-slide packages. The projects will be used as "a pilot to determine their effectiveness in the organic gardening and edible plants courses."

— A $1,762 fellowship, including an audio-tape cassette, color slides, and printed handouts on "Inferential Statistics," which the fellowship describes will "better condense and illuminate the essential concepts of statistics needed by the social sciences oriented student."

Patients To Meet For Party

Former patients, their families and the medical staff of the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) at the UC Irvine Medical Center in Orange will gather for their fifth annual reunion Dec. 10.

Refreshments, entertainment and an appearance by Santa Claus will be part of the festivities from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in the medical center cafeteria.

The former patients were treated in the NICU for life-threatening problems at birth. The reunion, a time of celebration, also allows the medical staff to view the progress of the children.

"We have sent invitations to many former patients, but are interested in locating more," said Elisabeth Hostocki, a member of the NICU nursing staff who is coordinator of the reunion.

Further information about the reunion may be obtained from Miss Hostocki at 634-5285.

Processing Costly

$1 County Fees May Be Dropped

The chairman of the Orange County Board of Supervisors believes it may cost more to process service fees of $1 or less than the county makes from charging them.

Ralph Diedrich told fellow board members this week he received complaints from citizens about a $1 fee health officials charge to certify immunizations for passports.

And at his request the board asked Auditor-Controller Vic Heim to see if there are other areas where small fees are charged.

Heim was asked to study the revenue they bring into the county versus the amount it costs in accounting and processing fees.

Diedrich said the study should determine whether such fees should be abandoned.

Peg South, 83, is on her way to the courts for another game of tennis. The Emerald Bay resident doesn't believe in giving up, which is obvious from her collection of tennis trophies and medals.

No One's In Her Set

By JUDITH OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

There's a lot of love in Peg South's tennis game, but it doesn't mean she's a loser.

She loves the game and she loves to win, which she does surprisingly often for a woman of nearly 84.

Miss South, a resident of Emerald Bay who took up tennis seriously in her 60s "so I wouldn't become a tea and toast old lady," has just one regret about her game. She has a hard time finding players of her own age to compete with.

Just back from New York where she appeared on the TV show "To Tell the Truth," Miss South sat in her beachfront home and talked about tennis over the roar of the surf.

"You could sit here in this lovely location and die, couldn't you?" she asked.

Miss South obviously has no intention of sitting down long enough to even think about doing that.

She is on the court five days a week, slamming the ball at a pace that would wear out some younger people. Not too long ago she even played five hours straight on a hot tournament day.

The retired gift shop owner does it because she believes people should find something to do and then do it.

GIVE UP

"People just give up," she mused. "When you start getting older, you'd better find something to do. People say, 'I used to do something. They don't try.'

"You have to give something in this world. The more you give, the more it comes back to you."

Miss South said she is able to play tennis partly because she has always enjoyed good health. "That's as good a reason as any," she added. "Women who can physically do it should take up something."

She stressed that she never was more athletically inclined than the average person and that she had not exercised much over the years before she took up tennis.

"I played in college a while," she said. After deciding to start again, she figured she would get serious about the game if someone would give her lessons.

Under the tutelage of Al Erie, the Emerald Bay pro, Miss South worked on her game for four years. "He was a man of a vast amount of patience."

She started entering tournaments seven years ago and received nationwide coverage as a gold medal winner in the Senior Olympics.

She enjoys entertaining (eight guests maximum) and reading and disdains the suggestion that it's a lot of work to cook for a crowd. "I enjoy it," she asserted.

Miss South also makes her own Christmas gifts and still sings. "When you play tennis four or five times a week you don't have time to do much else."

She is looking forward to playing many more games and especially to meeting anyone who will take up a challenge issued on her behalf by George MacCall, a partner and former U. S. Davis Cup team captain.

Since their combined ages total 140 years, he has invited anyone whose ages equal that number to take on Miss South and himself.

"He at first invited anyone in California, then he made it the U.S., and now he says anyone in the world," Miss South said with a smile.

"These last 10 years have opened up a whole new world," she observed, explaining that tennis has taken her abroad twice through the People to People program.

FOREIGN MATCHES

On these trips, she played in clubs in Sweden, Italy, Austria, Germany, Hungary, Australia and New Zealand. In turn, she has entertained guests from several of the countries.

A brass box on her coffee table is filled with newspaper clippings indicating that tennis has brought her recognition, too.

Miss South, who majored in vocal music and taught for several years, said part of the secret to her pep and vigor is that she eats nourishing food and keeps on the move.

"I cook for myself just like I was cooking for a family," she explained. "I eat good food. You have to take care of yourself."

There's just one more game Miss South hopes to take part in before too many months are up.

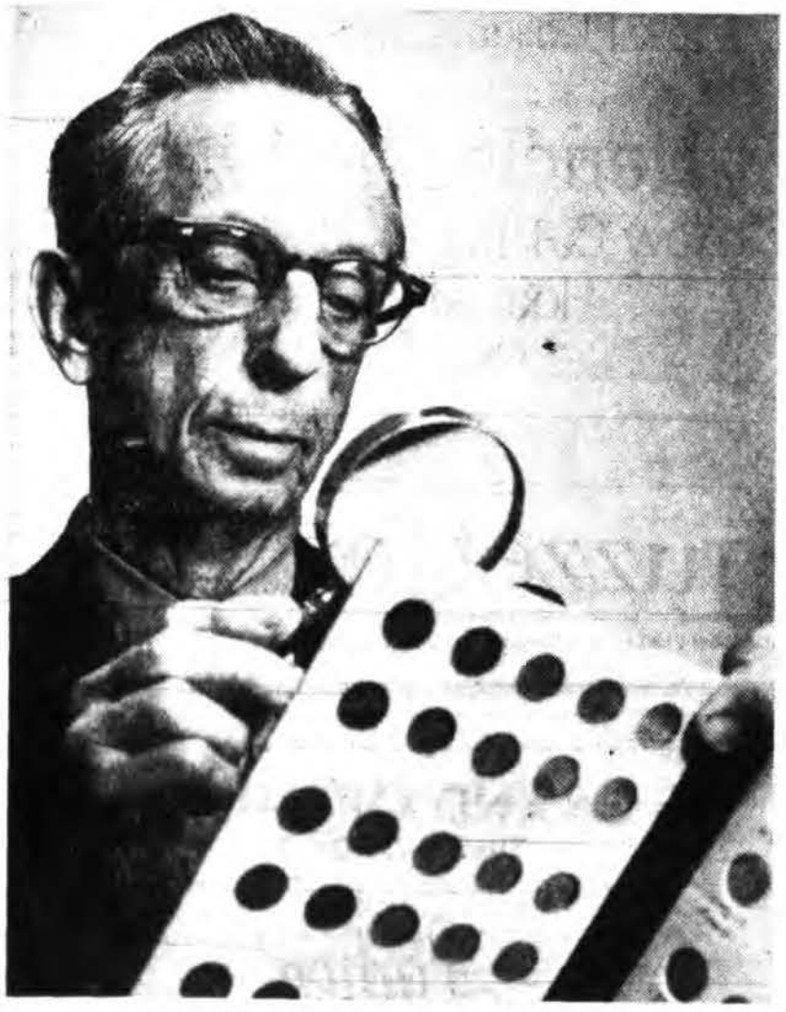

"I was supposed to play with Bobby Riggs," she revealed. "But he cancelled out."

Coin a Phrase: Collect

By MARCIA FORSBERG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When he was a high school senior in 1927, John Venable worked at the local drug store in a town in the Midwest.

"They were still fairly common at that time," he said. The coins had been minted from 1859 to 1909.

He began collecting the pennies and soon had a cigar box full. This was the beginning of a hobby that he has recently plunged into on a larger scale.

Taking time out to earn a PhD in physics from Oklahoma University, Dr. Venable then served as principal at John Muir High School in Pasadena for 10 years.

After working as director of curriculum for the Huntington Beach Union High School District, he retired in 1970 and wanted something to do.

Because of his lifelong interest in coins, he took up where he left off as a boy and has become an expert in the field of numismatics—coin collecting.

PURSUED HOBBY

Dr. Venable started haunting coin shops, talking to dealers and joining coin clubs.

"A couple of years ago a dealer offered me an apple box full of assorted coins for $200.

"I bought them, and to date I've sold about $1,000 worth of those coins.

"But collectors should understand that they won't get rich within a year because they'll have to pay a premium to the dealer," he noted. Collecting for the fun of it is his philosophy.

Three years ago Dr. Venable traded money for a roll of nickels at a local bank and discovered when he got home that he had just bought Indian head coins without knowing it.

"I don't know where they came from, but what a find!"

INTEREST GREW

He became interested in coins of the world when he vacationed in Europe. "I came back with a little chamois bag full, and since then I've collected them from more than 200 countries."

He also owns a complete collection of Indian heads, which will sell for $5 to $100 depending on condition.

"All are kept in a safety deposit box at the bank," he said, since he believes they should be protected from burglers.

"Advertising your collection is a no no," he advised.

Not all are round. During his trading days he has acquired a square token from British North Borneo, a doughnut shaped coin with a hole in the middle from East Africa and a scalloped-edged one from Egypt.

"The United States three-cent pieces were issued from 1851 to 1873 primarily because stamps cost three cents at that time. They could easily be exchanged."

In the early days of our country, various states in the 13 colonies put out their own coins. "Half-cent pieces would buy an awful lot in 1800."

STORY

Dr. Venable recalled a story about Josh Tatum, a deaf mute who hooked up with some con men in 1883.

"A nickel minted that year had the Roman numeral V on the back, but nowhere on the coin did it say how many cents it was worth.

"The racketeers dipped them in gold plate and Josh passed them off as $5 gold pieces.

"He'd set the coin on the counter, along with a five-cent item, and get $4.95 in change. He did it hundreds of times.

"But they couldn't convict him because, as a deaf mute, he never said it was worth $5 and he never asked for change."

Dr. Venable mentioned that on the reverse side of the present-day penny, Abraham Lincoln can be seen sitting in the center of the Lincoln Memorial. A magnifying glass helps to locate him.

EVENTS REMEMBERED

"Just pick your event and there's probably a commemorative coin for it," he asserted.

Commemorative half dollars in his collection include those of Booker T. Washington, the Monroe Doctrine, Stone Mountain and the Columbian Exhibition.

Dr. Venable will speak on coins during a four-part Friday night series at Golden West College.

The free lectures and slide shows are scheduled from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Nov. 19, Dec. 3, 10 and 17 in math/science 123 on the campus at Golden West.

Paper Treasured

Job Historic

By DENNIS McLELLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It was a warm 11th day of May in the Territory of Arizona. The year was 1889.

Maj. J.W. Wham, U.S. Army paymaster, and his 11-man escort guided a treasury box-laden wagon through a narrow pass.

In a sudden burst of gunfire from the ragged boulders above, the escort was caught in a deadly ambush.

The battle raged until every soldier except the corporal who remained with the major near the treasury box was incapacitated by one or more rounds.

But it's true. It's all documented in a Grand Jury report to the district court of the Territory of Arizona, dated September 1889.

"The Grand Jury...takes great pleasure in expressing its approbation of the courage, fidelity and skill evinced by Maj. Wham in protecting and defending the property of the United States in his charge."

That 87-year-old document, affixed with the signatures of the 14 jury members, is part of a historic treasure trove available for public inspection at the Federal Archives and Records Center in Laguna Niguel.

Researchers can peruse the aged paperwork of the Bureau of Customs, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, district courts and other agencies.

Until the National Archives and Records Center was established in 1934, there was no uniform plan for preserving the material, according to James Byers, chief of the archives branch.

Many documents were stored in basements and attics. "Sometimes," he said, "the condition we got them in left a lot to be desired."

Donn Cochran and Paula Tucker research family histories.

The facility receives all the noncurrent records of the federal agencies. A retention or disposal schedule is drawn up after a study is made.

Those records that are considered to have significant historical value become the property of the archives branch.

Of all the records created by the federal government, Byers said, only three to five percent are considered to have permanent value. The remainder is destroyed.

The center also houses a microfilm collection of national documents dating from the Revolutionary War to German records captured at the end of World War II.

One of the most used collection of reels is of the federal census from 1790 to 1900, said Byers.

Most of the research room visitors (there were 477 in October) keep the 17 microfilm readers busy poring over the census for information in piecing together family histories and genealogies.

"I think the pursuit of one's roots is probably one of the most popular hobbies," said Byers, who recently explained what is available at the archives to the Orange County Genealogical Society.

Byers, who holds graduate and undergraduate degrees in history, worked with the National Archives in Washington before taking over his present position in January.

The field, he said, was one of the options he had when he got out of the Air Force. "I was interested in history," he said, "and the job certainly involves that."

Bald Truth: Cover-up Exposed

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I saw it again today and said to myself, "This is it! I've got to write to Ann Landers."

The problem is not mine but it has me baffled and I simply must find out from someone WHY they do it. I refer to aging males whose hair has thinned or largely departed. They let the few remaining strands grow long, then they drape them all over the head to create the illusion of hair.

Almost always the draped strands fall out of place, hang down over an ear or down the back of the neck and it looks ridiculous.

These men are not blind. Why don't they realize what they look like? — PET PEEVE FROM PUERTO RICO

DEAR PET: Robert Burns said it best: "O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us To see ousels as others see us!"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on the letter from the unhappy "liberated" woman whose 50-year-old husband encouraged her to "do her thing." Later she learned he was "libbing it up" with girls less than half his age. She went on to say he bragged about having sex in automobiles, on the beach and even in a haystack. You called him "a case of arrested development." Why?

My husband and I have beem married for 30 years and our sex life is more exciting now than it was on our honeymoon.

He taught me not to be a prude — to be willing to let myself go. We've made love in the car, in the woods, on the beach and in every room in the house. A change of scenery can do wonders!

Fours years ago we put in a swimming pool. We'd heard about skinny-dipping followed up by sex and decided to try it on a very dark night. It was so terrific we've made it a regular thing. Honestly, Ann, that pool has done more for our love-life than any vacation we ever took.

So please don't be so quick to call the guy bonkers. His problem is his wife. She needs to get with it. — ALL WOMAN AND GLAD OF IT

DEAR WOMAN: I'm for married people doing anything that pleases them — anyplace, anytime — so long as it's private.

The man you refer to was bragging to his wife about his sex-capades with girls half his age. You call that mature? I don't.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I may be only 11 years old but I have a problem that is just as horrible as some of the things older people write about.

I have a big space between my two front teeth. People are always asking me if I lost a tooth. It is easier to lie, and way "Yes" than to explain things.

I hate this space. I wish I didn't have it. I'm sending my picture so you can see how ugly it is. Will I have the space forever? Please answer my letter even if it isn't about sex. — JUST ME

DEAR YOU: I'm glad you sent the picture so I could see your problem.

Don't lie. Tell people it's "just a space." But — you don't have to go through life with it. If your mom will take you to a dentist he (or she) will fix it so you will have a beautiful smile when you're older. No one should go through life with a defect he hates if something can be done to fix it. Good luck, Sweetie.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Lander's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Center Develops

Seen as a model, the center has attracted visitors from various parts of the State and the nation.

It is unusual because of its training program and because it has the home atmosphere that many centers of its kind miss when they become too institutionalized, according to Dr. Bettye Lewis, chairperson of the psychology department.

The center has just moved to a new facility which actually consists of three homes which the college purchased and moved to the southwest corner of the campus.

There were many reasons necessitating a change in location, Dr. Lewis said. "Obviously, we needed more space, and we wanted to expand so we could accommodate up to 60 children at one time."

An increased opportunity to provide programs for exceptional as well as normal youngsters was another significant need, said Dr. Lewis.

Directed by Barbara Hartman, the center contains four classrooms and one multipurpose room. The new facility has a large play area and patio section for outside activities.

Dr. Lewis believes there are definite advantages in having a preschool in a home setting. "We prefer it because it is much easier for the child to adjust to a school situation if it looks like home."

Youngsters are placed in four groups of about 15 children each with three staff members assigned to every group. The age range of children is from 2½ to 5 years old.

Children's schedules can be set up in any way that best suits the parents' schedule, as long as the child attends one of two three-hour programs.

"We will serve parents in any way we can as long as it doesn't exploit the child," said Dr. Lewis.

Moores Renew Vows

Edith and Ed Moore of Huntington Beach celebrated their golden anniversary by renewing their marriage vows in the First Baptist Church, Westminster. A luncheon-reception followed at their home. The Moores were married in Knoxville, Tenn. and resided in Lake City and Knoxville before moving to California in 1960.

Rich Is as Rich Does

By ERMA BOMBECK

The other day out of a clear, blue sky Brucie asked, "Are we rich?"

I paused on my knees as I retrieved a dime from the sweeper bag, blew the dust off, and asked, "Not so you can notice. Why?"

"How can you tell?" he asked.

I straightened up and thought a bit. Being rich is a relative sort of thing. Here's how I can always tell:

"You're rich when you buy your gas at the same service station all the time so your glasses match.

"You're rich when you can have eight people to dinner and don't have to wash forks between the main course and dessert.

"You're rich when you buy clothes for your kids that are two sizes too big for the one you buy 'em for and four sizes too big for the one that comes after him.

"You're rich when you own a boat — without oars.

"You can tell people have money when they record a check and don't have to subtract it right away.

"People have money when they sit around and joke with the cashier while she's calling in their charge to see if it's still open.

"You're rich when your television set has all the knobs on it.

"You're rich when you can throw away a pair of pantyhose just because it has a large hole in it.

"You know people are loaded when they don't have to save rubber bands from the celery and store them on a doorknob.

"You're rich when you can have a home wedding without 'Haven Funeral Home' stamped on the folding chairs.

"You're rich when the Scouts have a paper drive and you have a stack of New York Times in your basement.

"You're rich when your dog is wet and smells good.

Brucie sat quietly for a moment, then said, "I think my friend, Ronny, is rich."

"How can you tell?" I asked.

"His mom buys his birthday cake at a bakery and it isn't even cracked on top."

Law Blamed For Fugitive

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Marine Corps says the California Privacy Law prevented recruiters from knowing a young man being signed up was a wanted parole violator.

An investigation has been ordered into the enlistment of Pvt. William M. McCune, presently in the San Diego County jail.

McCUNE, 21, ENLISTED MAY 11 at Sacramento while the California Adult Authority was looking for him. A warrant for his arrest was issued March 27.

Under the California law, Brig. Gen. James Day said, Marine recruiters are prevented access to police and school records, even with the applicant's consent.

A preliminary police check was made by the recruiter who enlisted McCune but apparently the form went only to the Sacramento County Juvenile Probation Office, where the form was routinely stamped "no record," Day said in an interview.

HE SAID THE FORM ALSO was addressed to the Sacramento police and sheriff's offices but that officials initially believed the "no record" statement applied to all departments.

The California Department of Justice has sent a letter to the Marine Corps recruiting chief in Los Angeles saying its records would not be open to recruiters.

Day, deputy commander of the San Diego recruit depot, said an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People brought the case of McCune to his attention.

McCune's civilian record was expunged by the Marine Corps last week, and Lt. Col. John Hopkins was relieved of duties as McCune's battalion officer and given a staff job instead.

Facing Prison

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dana Thomas Storey, 21, of Los Angeles, will have to serve 10 years to life in state prison in the death of another Los Angeles man aboard a bus at the downtown depot. Storey was convicted on a second-degree murder charge in the July 6 shooting of Wardell Monroe Campbell, 25.

Job Referral Service Offered in Capistrano

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In the two weeks since Beatrice Leon opened her San Juan Capistrano office, providing state-sponsored job referral services, she has interviewed about 35 applicants.

"There are plenty of people anxious to work," said Mrs. Leon. "Our primary task for the present is to let employers know we are here, offering free job referral, supplying them with qualified applicants."

MRS. LEON HAS a computer terminal in her office, which provides her with job listings in various geographical and vocational areas.

Located in the Capistrano-Laguna Regional Occupational Program (ROP) complex, 26900 Acjachema St., the new state job bank assists ROP students in finding jobs when they complete their training.

Leata Ritter, department supervisor in Santa Ana, said Mrs. Leon works with a range of job seekers, from economically disadvantaged, unskilled workers to affluent professionals who have been phased out of their jobs or wish to relocate.

MRS. LEON'S COMPUTERIZED job bank includes openings throughout California, out of state and abroad.

Certain applicants can qualify for retraining benefits, said Mrs. Ritter, providing them with an unemployment stipend while they learn new skills.

Mrs. Leon can also certify disadvantaged job applicants for federally-sponsored training, provide vocational testing and counseling and furnish unemployment insurance information.

'PLENTY WANT WORK' Job Supervisor Leon

ORANGE COUNTY ALSO operates a job development, counseling and placement service at the ROP complex. County and state job services are coordinated to supplement one another and offer employers and job applicants extensive services, Mrs. Ritter said.

Additional information is available on state and county job services by calling 496-3513 weekdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Orange Coast College's forensics team finished third out of more than 30 schools at the California-Arizona Community College Speech Tournament at Pasadena City College.

Ben Watkins of Costa Mesa took both a first place trophy in expository speaking and a third in reader's theater. He also received an excellent certificate in oral interpretation.

Other winners included:

Howard James and Eric Postle of Huntington Beach and Jill Wiese of Newport Beach, all third in reader's theater; Michele Anderson of Costa Mesa, third in reader's theater and an excellent certificate in oral interpretation.

Shirley Janson, Costa Mesa, excellent in radio and superior in persuasion; Dave Lambertson, Fountain Valley, excellent in extemporaneous and superior in impromptu, and Cathy Artell, Costa Mesa, excellent in oral interpretation.

Principal Suspended Over Strip

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — An assistant middle school principal has been suspended for one day and reprimanded for ordering a class of eighth-grade students to strip during a search for a missing key.

The action against Stephen McDermott of the Clintondale Middle School in Clinton Township came at a board of education meeting.

Clintondale Schools Supt. John Savel said McDermott was suspended for one day without pay. He said the written reprimand will be put in McDermott's permanent file.

Last Thursday, McDermott ordered the boys in an industrial arts class to strip so he could search for a missing master key to a classroom cabinet. Two girls in the class undressed in a separate room under the supervision of a woman teacher. No key was found.

Krishnas OK'd

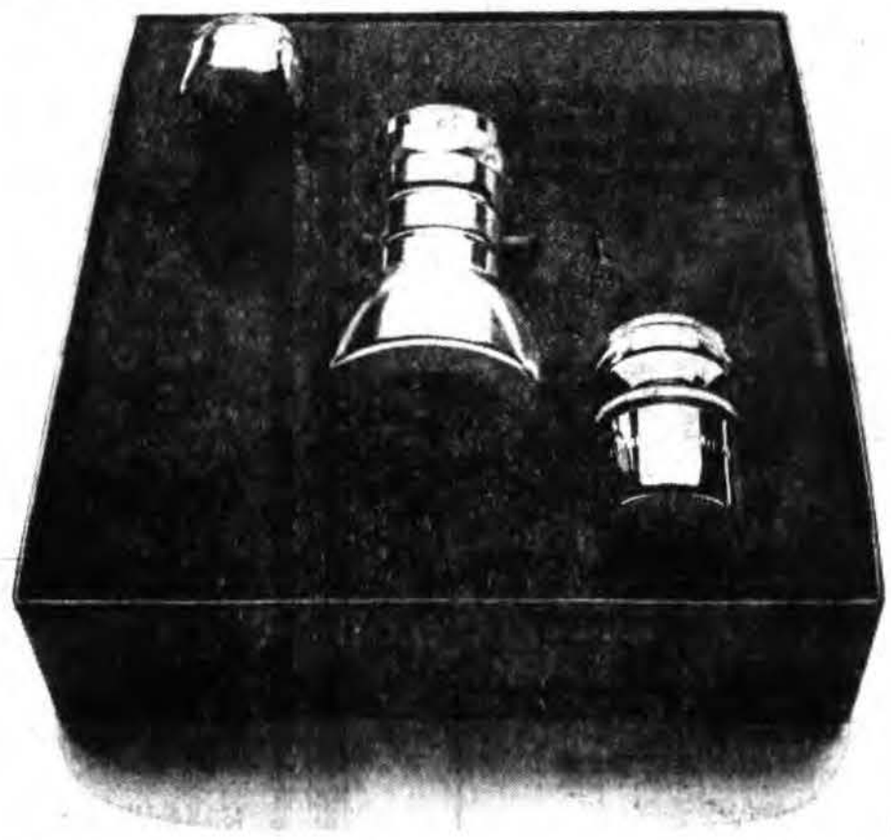

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The director of the Port of Portland said that religious groups are now allowed to pass out literature at Portland International Airport. U.S. District Court Judge James Burns ruled that to bar the Hare Krishna sect from public areas of the airport was unconstitutional.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GAS COMPANY

Do this.

Get this free.

The person in the picture is installing R-19 whole house insulation in his attic. It's a very smart way to spend a Saturday afternoon.

For one thing, he'll keep his house warm and cozy during the cold winter months. And reduce the amount of gas he uses for heating by up to 20%.

When summer rolls around, insulation will help keep the heat out. And, if he has air conditioning, insulation can help him save on cooling costs, too. He'll also save on the cost of installation. Simply by doing it himself.

But he's even smarter than you think. Because just for installing insulation, the Gas Company is giving him a free water saver kit. It includes an energy-saving shower head and two sink faucet aerators. All three are designed to save hot water and still give an excellent water spray.

If you'd like to find yourself in this person's position, visit a participating Do-It-Yourself Insulation Dealer. He'll explain how easy it is to get the job done. And get your free water saver kit.

So don't wait. Insulate. Spend a few hours fighting the energy crisis.

THE gas COMPANY

DON'T WAIT. INSULATE.

Reprising the Reprises

Their intentions were good, but their timing could have been better.

The San Clemente Community Theater devoted its 1976-77 schedule to a "reprise season" of its most popular plays over the 10 years the group has been housed in the Cabrillo Playhouse.

The leadoff show was "Bell, Book and Candle," which hit the boards a few months after the Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse presented its own version of the John Van Druten comedy.

NUMBER TWO, opening tonight, is "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," which the Lido Isle Players also are running this week. This weekend the Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse opens "Butterflies Are Free" — and guess what's next on the San Clemente bill?

The second half of the San Clemente season should be a bit less encumbered by duplication. The schedule calls for "The Girl in the Freudian Slip," "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off," none of which is scheduled for another local theater in the near future.

CALLBOARD — Speaking of "Butterflies Are Free" at San Clemente, auditions for the show will be held Sunday and Monday evenings at 7:30 at the Cabrillo Playhouse, 202 Avenida Cabrillo. . . .director Peggy O'Hara Gibble will be looking for two young men and two women, one young, the other middle aged. . . . the comedy-drama opens Jan. 20. . . .

'Pioneer Diary' Drama Airs

By JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tonight at 9 on Channel 28, public television is airing an original drama, "Liza's Pioneer Diary," which shows the life of a young Kentucky woman moving westward in 1848.

As fate would have it, Nell Cox, the film's producer, director and writer, is doing a little westward pioneering of her own. After 17 years of working in New York, she's moving here to set up shop.

Miss Cox, a Frankfort, Ky., native who makes documentaries and has made industrial films, grinned when reminded that certain types on the East Coast often claim Los Angeles life is deadly, that the sun here has been known to turn good brains to mush.

"THAT'S WHAT I'VE HEARD," she said. "I can hardly wait to see what happens. They say, 'People out there don't even read the New York Times.'"

But that isn't a reason to recommend against moving here, she said, also dismissing another New York claim that the California life is too relaxed to keep the creative juices bubbling.

"That's as though getting a cardiac arrest before you're 40 is some kind of virtue," she said.

An attractive, soft-spoken woman, she said she's moving here for two related reasons, one being that documentary and producing work seems to have dried up in Fun City.

THE OTHER FACTOR IS that filmmaker Cox wants to carve out a new career doing only entertainment films — both for TV and theatrical release — and here is where the action is.

"Sure, the theater's in New York, but not movies and television," says Miss Cox, 39, who got the filmmaking bug from what folks who call flicks the cinema have dubbed the "New Wave" of French films that began rolling in during the late 1950s and early 1960s.

She was asked if the film — her first feature-length movie — marks the start of her effort to get a foothold in writing and directing in the Los Angeles branch of American filmdom.

"YES, I THINK THAT IT is," replied Miss Cox, whose previous work has ranged from a study of cooks toiling in a plus New York restaurant to a look at various persons involved in a murder trial.

"The notion behind the series — or at least a big part of it — was that commercial television really dosen't encourage new drama, new writers," she

"So noncommercial television says, 'Okay, let's see if we can inject some new blood into the medium or the commercial networks.'

"So in a way, I hope that works for me, because that's what I'd like to do. And this could be a real transition for me.

"It sure is the direction in which I want to go, and it's been a long, hard time for me getting a transitional film to fit into it."

Pacer Rebates To Start Now

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors, which revived small-car rebates a week ago, has expanded the program with an offer of $253 back on the purchase of a new Pacer through Jan. 10.

The Pacer rebate plan, which takes effect immediately, is similar to a $200 cash bonus program General Motors launched last week on three of its subcompact cars.

IN HIGH GEAR

AMC, stuck in an auto sales slump, said it decided to offer a rebate on the Pacer "to further stimulate the small car market" following a favorable response to its $253 price cut on the Gremlin.

With the rebates, the 1977 Pacer sedan price is $3,396 and the 1977 station wagon is $3,546. The base prices on new 1976 models is $3,246 with the rebate, an AMC official said.

AMC also reports it will step up Jeep production from 475 to 500 vehicles a day and hire another 100 workers at the Toledo, Ohio, assembly plant starting Nov. 29 because of brisk demand.

Ford Recalls 393,500 Cars

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Company is recalling 393,500 of its 1976 subcompact Pinto, Bobcat and Mustang II models because of a potential fuel-line defect which could cause a fire under the hood.

The auto maker says it has received 100 reports of under-the-hood fires. No collisions resulted from the blazes, although two persons suffered minor injuries, Ford said.

The recall affects models with 2.3-liter engines, including 372,000 in the United States, 20,100 in Canada and 1,400 overseas.

Ford said the fuel-line hose adjacent to the carburetor may have been assembled improperly and caused a fuel leakage which, in turn, could create a fire hazard.

State Settles Toyota Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger says his office has settled a suit against Toyota Center of San Mateo over auto leasing practices.

The complaint filed in San Mateo County Superior Court had alleged the firm published advertisements that failed to contain information required under the Moscone Auto Leasing Act.

Younger said Wednesday that under the settlement, Toyota Center did not admit any wrongdoing but agreed to include required information in its advertising and pay costs of the investigation and suit.

New BMW Tops 1977 Line

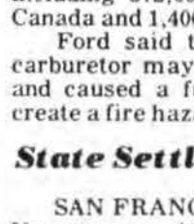

A successor to the BMW 2002 — the 320i — and refinements to the BMW 530i highlight the 1977 line of BMW sports sedans.

The 320i represents an evolutionary step in the BMW line; the 2002 series made its American debut in 1967 as the BMW 1600.

The new body shell and new styling provide increased interior room and improved heating and ventilating system. The suspension of the 320i has been refined.

BMW's two-liter (1900cc or 121.3-cubic-inch) four-cylinder engine powers the 320i; it requires no catalytic converter to meet government emission standards. The 320i engine produces 105hp in California.

PHARMACY INTERNS WHO ARE THEY?

By TERRY GRANT, R.Ph.

Before pharmacy school graduates can practice their profession, they must have served an apprenticeship under the observation of a registered pharmacist. Here under the watchful eye of the experienced pharmacist, they learned at first hand how to carefully check each prescription, counsel a patient on their medication, consult with a physician and all the other important duties they must perform.

In our pharmacy we try to give a pharmacist intern an added ingredient, a sense of pride and a dedication to helping people in need.

Oly Eyes East's Big Beer Fans

TUMWATER, Wash. (AP) — Olympia, the beer that made Tumwater famous, is reversing pioneer tradition and heading East because, Horace Greeley notwithstanding, that's where the people are.

THE BREWERY, known as Oly to local fans, bought financially troubled Theodore Hamm Company of St. Paul, Minn., for $22 million, enabling it to sell beer in 26 states, Oly in 24 of them. Reaction in those states to the light beer brewed from artesian spring water "has been very gratifying," company spokesman Don Lee said.

Leopold F. Schmidt III, president, says he has his eye on Chicago and New York but is waiting for the right time. He plans to make his moves like he makes his beer — slowly.

"It may not be too far off, hopefully within the next five years."

NBC Accepts Program Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has agreed to settle an antitrust suit against the National Broadcasting Company after NBC accepted a broad range of restrictions on the production of entertainment programs.

Similar suits against the CBS and ABC television networks are pending.

Under terms of the settlement Wednesday NBC must limit the amount of entertainment programming it produces. This would force the network to purchase more programs from independent producers. This restriction would continue for 10 years.

BankAmerica Plans Disclosure

NEW YORK (AP) — BankAmerica Corp., parent of the nation's largest commercial bank, has unveiled a new voluntary disclosure code that goes beyond what the federal government requires it to make public.

The San Francisco-based company, owner of the Bank of America, claimed Wednesday that its code is the most comprehensive effort yet to "open a large corporation's activities to the public gaze."

The code, detailed in a 28-page booklet, lists 70 areas of banking, trusts and investments and corporate activity in which information will be available to the public. In some cases, BankAmerica said, information seekers will be required to pay for the material they request.

UPS, Union Dismiss Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Parcel Service and the Teamsters Union have decided to get along without federal mediators in their efforts to end a two-month strike.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service has confirmed that the two parties had asked the mediators to withdraw.

Rain Dampens Record Hope

KINGSBURG (AP) — Sun-Maid Raisin Growers of California had record sales in 1975-76 but is unlikely to duplicate that feat this fiscal year because rain ruined much of the crop.

Sales in the past fiscal year totaled $94 million, up $15 million from a year earlier, the cooperative revealed in its annual report Wednesday.

Finance News Also C4

Raisin sales totaled 103,000 tons, the most since Sun-Maid sold 143,000 tons in 1928 for $11 million, the report said.

Arches Loom in Future

Big Mac Maps Hamburger-dotted Globe

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

It's tough for anyone to predict what the world will be like in 1985 but McDonald's, the hamburger maker, knows. It will be a world overflowing with Golden Arch hamburger stands.

The glorious future that lies ahead of us was sketched recently by Fred L. Turner, president of McDonald's, who predicted the company will open 350 new restaurants every year for the next 10 years. That's just in the United States. The rest of the world is down for 100 new restaurants every year.

If McDonald's can adhere to its game plan, by the time 1985 rolls around it will have something like 7,500 units operating worldwide, 6,300 of them in the United States.

IMAGINE A RESTAURANT chain with 6,300 links in this country? No supermarket chain has ever been able to field so many units. McDonald's has already carved out a significant portion of the total dining-out market. What kind of share will it command after it doubles the number of units?

The fast-food restaurants that decorate (and some people think blight) our highways now take roughly 25 percent of all the dollars spent on eating out. And McDonald's, with its 3,700 units, has captured 20 percent of the entire fast-food market.

Seen from the window of a car, McDonald's appears to be a small place. However, it has machine gun-like cash registers pumping away with targets (customers) always in sight. The average McDonald's unit in the United States takes in $794,000 a year or about $15,500 a week or more than $2,000 a day.

THE PEOPLE WHO eat at McDonald's this year will leave behind $3 billion. Only 10 retailers in the nation took in that much money last year.

Money Tree

McDonald's boasts a higher sales volume than such big retail operators as Food Fair Stores, May Department Stores, R. H. Macy and Walgreen's.

It all adds up to a lot of hamburger. In 1972, ground beef accounted for 17 percent of our beef consumption. This year it will account for 40 percent. And by 1980, as McDonald's continues to expand at the rate of one new unit a day, ground beef is expected to account for more than half of our beef consumption. Last year it took about 2 million head of cattle to satisfy the hamburger needs of customers at McDonald's, Burger King and Burger Chef.

Hamburger consumption in the United States for 1976 is estimated at 50 billion.

THE RESTAURANT business has been traditionally a field where newcomers could enter easily because the capital requirements are not imposing. It has thus been a haven for the small entrepreneur. However, McDonald's has introduced the strain of bureaucratic efficiency. It's intent on becoming the General Motors or Procter & Gamble of the restaurant industry.

To do that, it needs to deliver a standard product. A Big Mac tastes the same in Key West, Fla., as it does in Bellingham, Wash. And the bathrooms are clean in both places.

McDonald's was able to expand quickly (the company is only a little more than 20 years old) by selling franchises to local businessmen. But the operation has become so successful and so profitable that the company wants to keep more of the action for itself.

McDONALD'S CORP., the parent company, is currently acquiring 29 McDonald's units that had been operated by a licensee in North Carolina, South Carolina and Arizona. As a result, more than 30 percent of McDonald's restaurants are now owned by the company itself. And many of the other operators are tenants of McDonald's because the company owns the land underneath the restaurants. Ray Kroc, founder of the company, once said McDonald's is as much in the real estate business as it is in the hamburger business.

In 1971, McDonald's earned $25 million after taxes. This year it will net more than $100 million, which means that a significant portion of every dollar you spend at McDonald's — perhaps as much as 33 cents — gets filtered through the system back to Oak Brook, Ill., where McDonald's Corp. is headquartered.

Group Offers Market Aids

A workshop in marketing research will be sponsored by the Western States Advertising Agencies Association Saturday at the Marriott Hotel, Newport Beach.

Speakers will be James J. Brennan, vice president, Drosler Marketing Research, San Francisco; Kenneth L. Barasch, president, Kenneth L. Barasch & Associates, Villa Park; and Arne F. Haug, president, Haug Associates, Inc., Los Angeles.

ISB Can Answer Stock Questions

By SYLVIA PORTER

How do you find a reputable local broker willing to handle small transactions?

How do you transfer securities or replace those that are lost, stolen or destroyed? Or trace securities that have a questionable value? Or complain about purchased securities that have not been delivered as agreed?

More than 4,000 people wrote to the New York Stock Exchange's Investors Service Bureau (ISB) in response to a recent column explaining how the ISB would answer questions and provide free referral services and remedial action. The NYSE broke down the inquiries and problems into the major categories based on the questions above. There also were miscellaneous questions about oil well speculations, options, investments in scotch whiskey, jewelry and gold coins.

THIRTY PERCENT ASKED THE bureau for basic investing literature.

The ISB offers a package of three new booklets for $1. The titles: "Ten Questions to Ask Before You Buy Stocks," "Growth Leaders on the Big Board" and "Income Leaders on the Big Board."

In addition to providing the earnings, dividends and growth rates for companies listed on the NYSE, "Growth Leaders" lists firms that have paid quarterly dividends for 40 years or more and companies that have increased their dividends in each of the past 10 years. "Income Leaders" lists stocks and bonds returning 6 percent or more.

THE ANSWER TO THE FIRST question above may be found in another free pamphlet: the Investors Service Bureau Directory. It lists the names of close to 300 NYSE member organizations that welcome individual investors of all types, along with the member firms' requirements for minimum accounts. The ISB will enclose a list of local NYSE member firms.

There were a number of inquiries concerning Polish or other foreign government dollar bonds issued in the 1920s. From time to time and generally without publicity, Poland — and other foreign governments — offer settlement agreements on bonds denominated in dollars.

Inquiries about these bonds may be sent to the Foreign Bondholders Protective Council Inc., 1775 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019.

MANY LETTERS ASKED FOR the ISB's help in tracing old securities. The bureau suggests a bit of personal detective work, specifically:

— Write to the secretary of state or corporation commissioner in the capital of the state in which the company was incorporated and ask about the company's current status, its outstanding bonds, debentures, common and preferred stocks.

— Contact the transfer agent whose name appears on the front of the stock certificate or bond.

— INQUIRE AT A NYSE MEMBER firm; many maintain records that could include the company in question.

— Hire a tracing service. Several tracing companies charge a flat fee and include an opinion letter when securities are found to be unredeemed. Opinion letters from major brokerage firms, banks and tracing companies generally are accepted by the Internal Revenue Service as proof of a capital loss.

— Research the company at a major business or public library. One source is "National Stock Summary." Another is the "Robert D. Fisher Manual of Valuable and Worthless Securities," published by R.M. Smythe & Co.

Questions may be addressed to ISB, New York Stock Exchange, Inc., P.O. Box 252, Wall Street Station, New York, N.Y. 10005. But don't send original securities certificates, currency or other valuables. Contact us exclusively by letter and postcard," says George Christopoulos, head of the ISB.

Jobless Chiselers Theories Blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government studies suggest that the long-term unemployed are unable to find jobs and are not chiselers who "ride with the system" at government expense.

The studies, one by the Labor Department and another prepared for the government by a private firm — show that the majority of those who had exhausted their jobless benefits were still unemployed a year after the benefits ended.

ROGER ROSSI, WHO HEADS THE department's unemployment insurance research division, said the studies provide the first information about who the long-term unemployed are and what happens to them.

The findings tend to rebut arguments by some economists and politicians that unemployment benefits discourage people from looking for work and that those who use up their benefits either quickly get jobs or drop out of the labor market.

The findings also could be important to the incoming Carter administration, which will have to decide early next year whether to recommend continuation of the emergency jobless aid program.

THAT PROGRAM, WHICH PROVIDES an extra 26 weeks of federal aid — for a total of 65 — to persons who have used up their regular and extended state-federal benefits, expires in March.

Labor Department figures show that more than 2.7 million Americans exhausted their benefits from January 1975 through last July. The latest figures show there were 7.6 million persons out of work but seeking it in October. This was a jobless rate of 7.9 percent.

Because the government does not keep track of individuals who are no longer entitled to benefits, no figures are available on the actual number of these people who found jobs or dropped out of the labor force. However, the two surveys indicate most were still looking for work several weeks after their benefits ran out.

THE DEPARTMENT FOUND IN A four-state sampling that 80 percent of those surveyed were still in the labor force two months after their benefits ran out, but only 16 percent found jobs.

The other survey, based on interviews in four major cities by Mathematica Policy Research of Princeton, N.J., showed that about 25 percent of the "exhaustees" were working within four months after benefits stopped and that only 36 percent found jobs after one year.

UAW Assails GM Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, after narrowly ratifying a contract with Chrysler, launch a final bargaining drive at General Motors today in an attempt to avert a 9 p.m. PST walkout by 390,000 hourly GM workers in 21 states.

Charging that the negotiating pace at GM had slowed, the UAW warned the No. 1 auto maker Wednesday to "step up" its talks if it hopes to avoid becoming the second major auto company struck this year.

Allstate Invests Funds

Allstate Insurance Companies have invested more than $14,370,000 in bonds in Orange County, according to F.P. Mims, associate vice president.

Orange County investments are part of more than $285,000,000 in bonds held by Allstate in 42 counties in California.

Not Cheaper By the Dozen

Much ado has been made of late about how the Moslem bigwigs around the Mediterranean have become fantastically rich on oil. But extraordinary wealth among rulers thereabouts is nothing new. Take Abdul Aziz IV, for instance. He was Sultan of Morocco from 1894 until he was kicked out in 1909 for extravagance. Evidently, a high-powered musical instrument salesman got to him during his rule. It's a matter of record that he first learned much to his amazement several years after his retirement that pianos did not have to be bought by the dozen.

The Venezuelans for years were permitted to send love letters at half the usual first-class mail rates so long as they put those messages in special bright red envelopes.

Recent surveys show that time of the week when a child is most likely to swallow poison is Sunday morning.

HEARTBEAT

Q. "Average human heart beats 70 or 80 times a minute. How fast does a whale's heart beat?"

A. About nine beats a minute is average for a gray whale. But there are other species. And not all of their heartbeat rates have been checked out. Don't have at hand an explanation of how a whalt's pulse is taken, as a matter of fact. Will look into it and report back.

Was at Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1937, that bowler Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., rolled 33 consecutive strikes. If any bowler before or since has ever done better than that, kindly name said phenom. Statistically, a perfect game of 12 strikes supposedly only turns up once in 450,000 times.

LONG RUNS

Those prime-time TV shows that tend to run the longest have a certain something in common. Namely, not just a different story, but a different cast of characters every week, too. Consider "The Wonderful World of Disney." Or "The ABC Sunday Night Movie." Or NBC's Saturday Night at the Movies." They've been on the air for 16, 15 and 14 years, respectively. No other evening hour network program has held up that long.

Let's say you stretch your arms straight out from your sides. If you're put together properly, the distance between the fingernails on your right hand and those on your left hand will be eight times the vertical length of your head.

Now some medical experts contradict a long time notion to say you're just as likely to become seasick in the dark as in the daylight.

As for earaches, the statisticians report they're most common in February and least common in June.

SMWD Approves Treatment Right

Directors of the Santa Margarita Water District have approved an agreement for the lease of water treatment capacity rights from the city of San Juan Capistrano for the next two years.

The city-water district agreement will allow the district to send up to 800,000 gallons per day through the city's plant.

The agreement calls for a payment to the city of $15,792 for each 100,000 gallons per day.

City councilmen approved the agreement this month over the objections of a developer who contended it will hurt city property owners.

William Knitz, general manager of the water district, said the district probably won't use all the capacity it is allowed under the agreement. He said the district should have its own treatment plant in operation by the end of next year.

VP Named To Coast Water Post

District officials said Lodder resigned because he became too busy with plans for development of the Aliso Viejo property, formerly known as the Moulton Ranch.

Skiers Find Everything at Ski Mart

By CHERYL ROMO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Are you ready for ski "cruising" and "mogul mashing" this season? Or, are you looking for a gift suggestion for your favorite "hot-dogger?"

After two devastating fires, the firm is once again open for business in Newport's Miracle Mile at 2700 W. Coast Hwy. Ski Mart part-owner Jeff Jones says he's "really excited" about this season.

"This year we're really seeing an emergence of American ski products. Better than 50 percent of our skis, and 30-40 percent of our boots, are made by American manufacturers.

"In addition, the sport has been made safer. The injury rate is down due to better bindings and equipment," says Jones.

This year there is a trend toward mid to conventional length "bump skis." They are softer and more flexible. Jones says the shorter skis of previous seasons are not high-performance oriented, as are the new, longer models.

"Boot design is finally becoming highly sophisticated. They are much more comfortable and give better performance," he says.

Hansen, Scott and Nordica all have new models with colors ranging from white, root beer, black and green to silver-gray. Jones says the most popular shades remain yellow, orange and navy blue.

Marker has introduced a complete M-4 binding series, varying in both

Long, Hot Fall Hides Approach of Holidays

It's hard to believe — especially with the Indian Summer weather we've been experiencing -- that the holidays are almost upon us. But they are . . . .

In this edition of Orange County Living, you'll be given a personal, guided tour to a kaleidoscope of merchants presenting unusual and interesting gift ideas.

You'll tiptoe through shops with gifts for the "special" man or woman in your life, and you'll enter a child's wonderland of stuffed animals and toys. As the tour progresses, you'll see "family" gift ideas ranging from therapeutic spas home video units to microwave ovens.

There are tips on where to shop if you plan on making your own holiday gifts, as well as places where you'll find unique ornaments and Christmas trees.

You'll find stocking stuffers for the whole family, and gift ideas ranging from ski gear and maternity fashions, to authentic "Pieces of Eight."

So, wherever your magical tour leads, why not make this holiday season a little less frantic? To find the items you want to give, and to avoid long lines and crowds in the parking lot — it's wise to get an early start on Santa.

Nooks Hold Fantasy for Kids' Gifts

Geppetto's — A Child's Fantasy, of South Coast Village in Costa Mesa, is a myriad of European toys, children's clothing and imported ornaments.

Geppetto's has dollhouses in all sizes and shapes, as well as furniture, accessories and wallpaper to go in them. Dollhouse pattern and decorating books are available for "do-it-yourselfers."

Located just across from the Mercantile Building, Geppetto's will be open during the holidays from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The store carries girls clothing in sizes from infant to 6X; and boys clothing from infants to toddlers.

Variety of Clothing Hangs Ready for Holiday Gifting

Would you like to avoid parking hassles and big crowds this holiday season?

Reinert's, 1816 Newport Blvd. in Costa Mesa, may have just the solution for you.

"We have plenty of free parking just a step from our rear door and offer personalized service to our customers," said owner Jack Reinert.

The store is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 to 6 p.m., and specializes in men and women's wear and gift items.

Reinert's gift department features household items such as crockery, dishes, glassware, towels and linens. Prices range from $2 to $30.

The ladies' department is stocked with a large selection of leisure wear, dresses, lingerie and casual shoes. The men's department also features leisure wear.

"We feel our type of merchandise is comparable to that found in large department store such as Bullocks or Broadway," said Reinert.

price and weight-holding capacity. Look-Nevada has a new N-17 — an improved version of the Grand Prix binding.

What kind of clothes will be seen on the slopes this season? "Insulated nylon bibs are popular; as well as jumpsuits and two-piece insulated outfits for both men and women," says Jones.

Ski Mart carries its own line of clothing called Bohle from Austria. Roffe's line is also featured, which Jones says offers "high quality and value at a reasonable price."

Poles now have strapless grips, and the new Allsop models have a shock absorber in the handle.

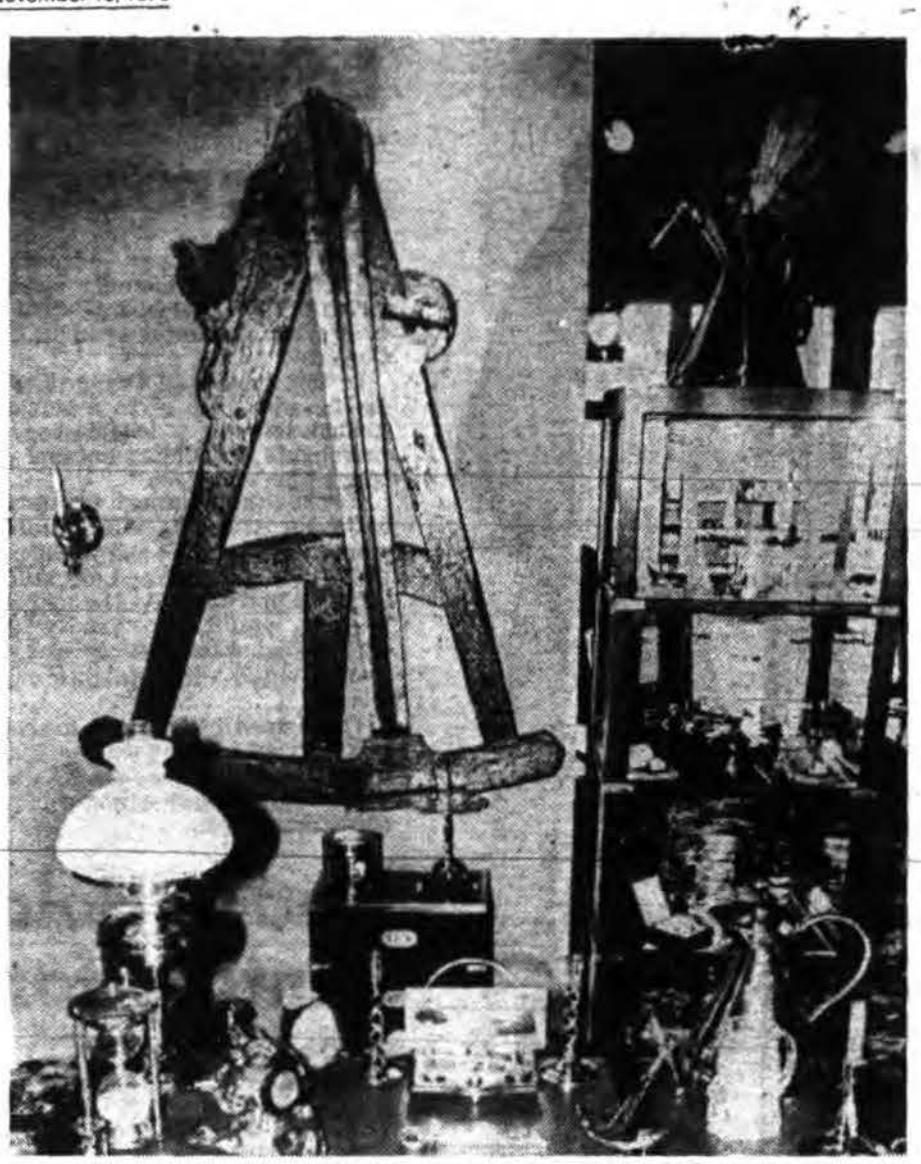

Jones says anti-fog goggles have "finally been perfected," and are priced from $6 to $28.

The Ski Mart Service Card is a new item and is priced at $20. The package includes a major ski tuneup, three binding adjustments, unlimited hot waxes and a minor tuneup at the end of the season.

The firm's rental department is in full operation, but Jones advises reservations are necessary for Christmas and Thanksgiving.

For parents concerned about the cost of outfitting growing children each year — Ski Mart offers a boot and ski trade in program. Parents receive one-half of the original purchase price back, from equipment purchased from the Children's Department.

The firm also has the largest section of backpacking equipment in Orange County and carries tennis gear.

The Unusual Fills Shelves At Russell's

Try Russell I Interiors, 2700 W. Coast Hwy. in Newport Beach.

Located in the Miracle Mile, the firm has unusual items such as: sextants, hourglasses and boat models. Authentic Pieces of Eight are available and are priced at $125.

Miniature diver's helmets for the executive's desk are priced at $59. They are exact replicas of actual helmets, and are made of solid copper and brass.

"All of our items are imported from England," says owner Beverly Diehl. "We're really excited about our new Chelsea Clocks which give both military and regular time."

Russell I also carries telescopes and other instruments, as well as small gift items, such as; anchor paper weights, corkscrews and bottle openers priced from $6.90.

"We have a very limited supply of Sheffield magnifying glasses, with bone handle and sterling silver tip," says Mrs. Diehl.

Lamps, chess and bridge tables, pill boxes and brass and copper items all combine to make Russell I a "one of a kind" place to shop.

Roger's Ready For Santa

The trees will be decorated in different motifs, such as: crystal, old-fashioned, red, silver and gold, a natural tree and a gift tree. The trees are designed by David Jensen.

Store personnel will be attired in burgundy blazers says manager Catherine Blackburn.

Rasmussen's Saddlery Horseperson's Delight

Rasmussen's Saddleback Saddlery has everything for the horseperson.

Located in the shadows of Saddleback Mountain at 13922 Newport Ave. in Tustin, the store has served the area for over a decade.

Store manager Bill Bolin boasts the firm has the largest selection of English and western clothing, saddles and riding equipment in Orange County. Rasmussen's has 5,000 pairs of boots and 300 saddles in stock at all times.

What's happening in the world of equestrian fashion? Bolin sees a marked trend toward "closer-fitting, tapered" garments in western wear. Leather is in. Especially in natural "saddle" tones and the chamois or "nude look."

The store features the lines of Lee, Levi and Wrangler for a western look. Harry Hall, Brittany and Miller cater to those desiring a continental flair.

Tony Lama and Justin & Acme boots are priced from $25 to $300. Leather jackets retail from $90 to $300, and saddles range from $125 to $1,000.

Rasmussen's accepts custom orders, specializing in saddles.

"Our motto is, if we don't have it — or can't find it — you don't need it," said Bolin.

Bayside Merchants Join To Present Yule Display

The merchants at Bayside Center have joined in the spirit and will present fifteen, individually decorated trees — making 1090 Bayside Dr. in Newport Beach a sparkling wonderland.

The theme was selected because of the Center's close proximity to the water, located on Bayside Dr. and Jamboree Rd. at the entrance to Balboa Island.

DIAMONDS • GEMSTONES

WE HAVE A STANDARD,
SO SHOULD YOU.

At Professional Jewelers we adhere to policies established by the Gemological Institute of America, who is the world authority on diamonds and colored stones, and the only place in the world the jewelry industry uses for quality certification.

All three "C's" of cut, clarity and color are absolutely necessary to determine quality. You could have a flawless diamond that could be poor in quality if it were poorly cut or a color that was not pleasing to the eye.

Professional Jewelers purposely located in an area other than a large mall to be able to reduce our overhead and still maintain a large comfortable intimate surrounding to serve you better and pass along the savings to you the customer.

Every diamond purchased from Professional Jewelers of ¼ ct. or larger has with it a complete two (2) page written report outlining the quality in detail of your purchase based on specific World Wide Accepted Standards.

A gem expert is a Gemologist who holds a degree from the Gemological Institute of America. All personnel at Professional Jewelers, Inc. at 20902 Brooknurst Street, Suite 201 in Huntington Beach are Gemologists.

The firm has the largest gem lab in Orange County, where the customer is given information about the background of stones, and why some are more valuable than others.

They are also encouraged to see the gem through a microscope and weigh it on lab scales.

Professional Jewelers does custom design and appraisals. Terry says you can save up to 20 percent in costs because the firm is not located in a major shopping center, and buys gems direct from mines in South America, eliminating the "middle-man."

Projection TV Unit Adds Big Entertainment Plus

It's called projection television, and its available at Video Plus, Inc. — 2816 E. Coast Hwy., Newport Beach.

Zeke Lenn, vice president, says projection television is a "radical new design" and the home model projects a six foot diagonal picture on a screen.

"The picture is very bright and sharp, and is especially excellent when viewing sporting events," he says.

Waiting Lady Given Glamor

The lady in waiting will find herself glamorized in chiffon dresses, pajamas and coats by Bob Mackie. Until recently, only stars of the magnitude of Cher or Carol Burnett could make that statement.

Emmy Award winning designer Mackie practiced on pregnant Cher and came up with new designs that will be carried by Page Boy Stores across the country.

Shelves Filled With Variety

Lydia's is also a gift boutique — with items starting at $10.

"We carry an excellent selection of crystal, china, Cappe original figurines, silver, towels and custom bedspreads and draperies," says decorator-designer Frederick Tedesco.

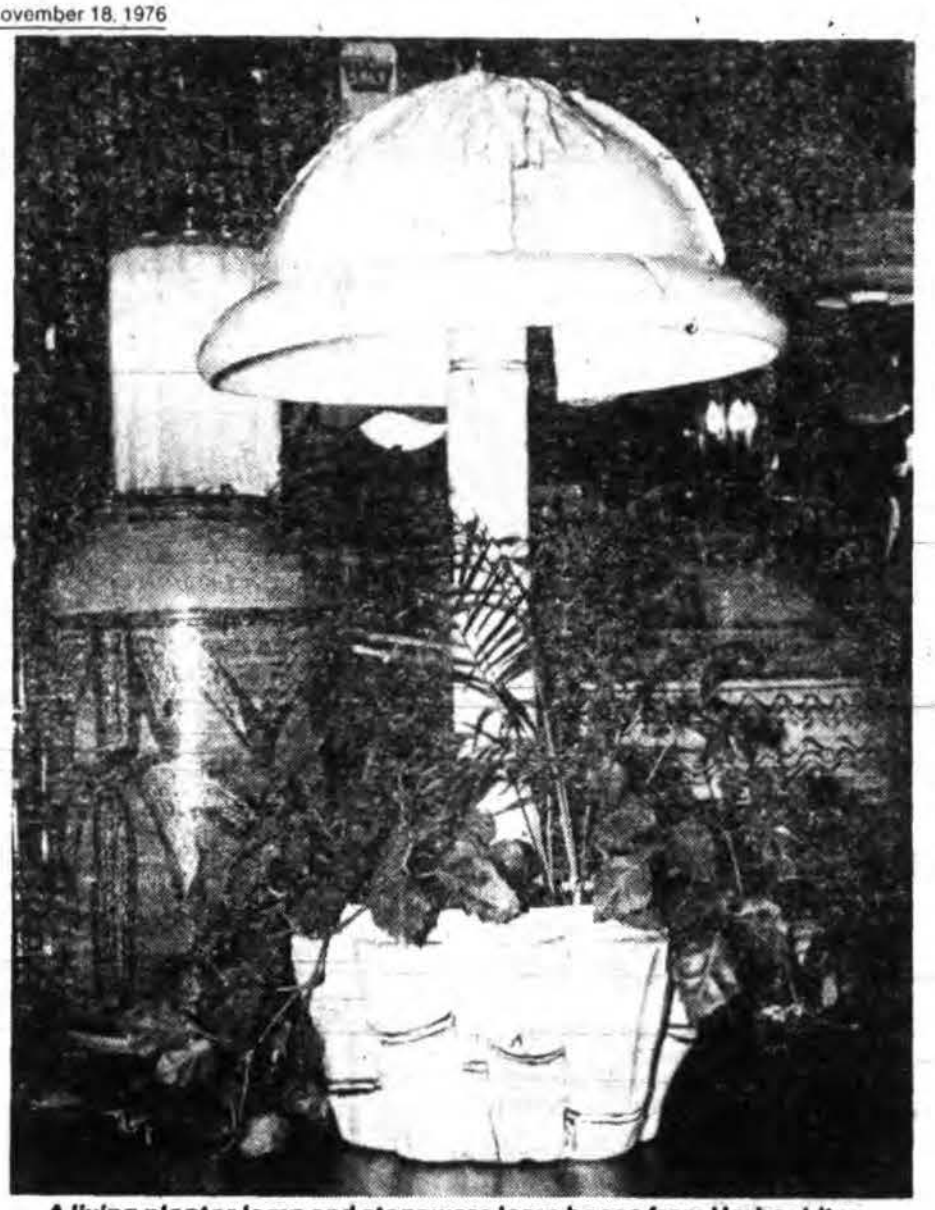

The firm also has its own line of custom furniture, called Karges. Most of the upholstery is done in imported Italian and Belgian silk.

Lydia's owner Lydia Fabiano has worked in areas from "Hollywood to Palm Springs" and has served the Orange Coast for the last 16 years.

Tedesco says he has seen a lot of changes in the last few years, "Its so nice to see the affluent getting away from the Hawaiian hut look — to the elegant look of the Riviera."

What constitutes a "Riviera look?" Tedesco cited examples of furnishings, such as French, Italian, "the country look" in both French and English provincial and the Karges line.

Lydia's offers free home consultations and for information about the service, call 548-2350.

Rudi Joins Angels; Cash to Montreal

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Outfielder Joe Rudi and shortstop Bert Campaneris are the latest refugees in the exodus of the Oakland A's via baseball's free agent route.

Rudi joined another ex-Oakland outfielder, Don Baylor, with the California Angels, and Campaneris signed with the Texas Rangers.

Both players agreed to long-term deals Wednesday and ex-Philadelphia Phillies' second baseman Dave Cash reached a similar arrangement with the Montreal Expos.

That's five signings in two days for super-agent Jerry Kapstein and four of the players he has parceled out are ex-employes of the A's and owner Charles O. Finley. Besides Rudi, Baylor and Campaneris, former Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace signed with San Diego.

Still waiting their turns are reliever Rollie Fingers, one of five free agents Kapstein still has available, and third baseman Sal Bando.

Finley retained the negotiating rights to all of his players as part of the free agent draft arrangement but, according to Kapstein, he never called the agent.

Rudi, who carried a million-dollar price tag after Boston paid Finley that much for him last June in a deal that was vetoed by commissioner Bowie Kuhn, bristled over the image his old boss has painted for himself in this free agent marketplace.

"It's incredible that Charlie comes out looking like a good guy," the veteran outfielder said. "The average people really don't know what is going on. People say, 'How can you not get along with such a nice man like that?' But they don't know him."

Rudi batted .270 with 13 home runs and 94 runs batted in for the A's last season. He missed three weeks when Finley refused to allow him in the lineup following Kuhn's block of the sale to Boston.

Only a strike threat by the rest of the team forced Finley to restore Rudi, Fingers and Vida Blue to active duty.

"Finley says he's trying to win," Rudi continued. "But going into September, when we still had a chance to win, he's trying to sell Sal Bando.

"I spent 13 years in one organization," said Rudi. "We had great closeness on that ball club. I had a lot of great moments there. . .but that's behind me now. Now, I'm looking to a great future."

So are the Angels. With Rudi and Baylor added to holdover Bobby Bonds, California has one of the top outfields in the American League.

"We are in search of a championship ball club in Anaheim," said Harry Dalton, executive vice president and general manager of the Angels.

California lost three minor league infielders, Paul Dade, Billy Smith and Tim Nordbrook, in the draft. That allows the Angels to sign three other free agents, one more than any other club except the A's, who can sign six.

So far the strategy has paid off with two quality outfielders in Rudi and Baylor and there's still room for one more if owner Gene Autry has anything left in his petty cash account.

A Twisting Jump Shot

Buffalo's Adrian Dantley (44) took a downcourt pass from a teammate to score two points Wednesday night at Houston. Calvin Murphy has his back to Dantley. Houston won in overtime, 120-114.

Passing To Tell It Saturday

OF THE PASS — If Michigan and USC can be successful with their passing attacks I tab them to down Ohio State and UCLA in Saturday's college football spectaculars.

OF THE FUTURE—Watch out for Estancia High of Costa Mesa this coming basketball season. The Eagles of coach Dave Carlisle have good height, ball handling and firepower.

They scrimmage Fountain Valley Wednesday and it will be interesting to see how they fare against the school many observers feel has the best prep basketball team in Orange County.

WHITE WASH

OF SUCCESS—Rich Branning continues to sparkle for the University of Notre Dame. In a recent intrasquad game he hit the winning layup with eight seconds remaining to give the Blue unit an 81-80 victory over the Gold. A crowd of 4,000 watched the action.

Branning had 16 points and seven assists.

Notre Dame plays the University of Windsor Sunday night in an exhibition then opens regular season a week from Saturday night at Maryland.

OF TREADING WATER—So the Angels have signed Joe Rudi. Just what they need...another .270 hitter.

OF CLOSENESS—Cal and Stanford have met 78 times in football and 36 of those games have been decided by seven or fewer points.

OF AREA PRODUCTS—Vince Mulroy (Newport Harbor High) has caught 18 passes for 234 yards this season at Stanford University. Gavin Hedrick (also Newport Harbor) is the second leading punter in the Pacific 8 Conference with an average of 42 yards per boot for Washington State University.

And, John Dixon (Estancia of Costa Mesa) has 19 carries for 97 net yards as a Cal back and has caught six passes for 29 yards.

24 Interceptions

Talented Sea Kings Led by Secondary

By HOWARD L. HANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The score is 24-23 before the Corona del Mar High Sea Kings and the Cajon High Cowboys take the field for their first round CIF 2-A football playoff game Friday night at Newport Harbor High.

But that score is only for the passing game of the two schools. It stems from the fact that CdM has intercepted 24 passes this season and the Cowboys have thrown for 23 touchdowns.

What happens when two such teams tangle on the field is usually a case of concentration and coach Dick Morris of Corona del Mar is confident his team will survive.

"Our secondary is outstanding," he says. "It is probably one of the strongest points in our defense and the reason is the number of interceptions we have made this year."

Scott Merry, the Sea Kings starting quarterback who doubles as a defensive cornerback and safety Earl Callison each have four. Kurt Brockman and Todd Hoffinga trade off at the roverback position and between them have six interceptions.

Several other players have two or three apiece and Morris gives a great deal of the credit to defensive coach Ed Blanton who handles the secondary.

"Our secondary does a lot of one-on-one drills. They go after the ball and are very aggressive. Ball drills are a part of every practice session and they do a lot of other things to provide for quickness and aggressiveness."

The secondary will get a solid test this week when Craig Gerber begins throwing for Cajon of San Bernardino. He has rolled up 1,623 yards passing including the 23 touchdowns for the offensive-minded Cowboys. Cajon has scored 279 points to 145 for the opposition. CdM has scored 102 and given up 79, 44 of these in the last two games.

While Morris is high in his praise of the secondary, he also credits others on the defensive unit for a share of the team's success in tying for the South Coast League championship.

"We have strong linebackers in Brad Stassel (6-1, 195) and Brian Garratt (6-1, 185). They have done a good job along with our ends, Dave Meador, Dave Gambill and Don Harrier."

Morris feels that linemen Mark Cardelucci and Eric Raff have contributed a great deal to the defense. Cardelucci is one of the most improved players on the squad and Raff is a sophomore at the middle guard position. Cornerback Bruce Batcheller has also done an outstanding job.

Until the last two games, Corona del Mar's defense hadn't given up more than one touchdown in a game for seven straight outings and had posted a pair of shutouts.

The Sea Kings are averaging 11.3 points per game and the opposition, 8.8. The offense-minded Cowboys are averaging 31 points and are giving up 14.5.

The most interceptions in any one game for CdM has been four on three different occasions.

With an outstanding passing attack facing a stout defense geared to stopping the aerial threat, it will be something like the irresistible force meeting the immovable object Friday night.

Or it could turn out that Corona del Mar will catch almost as many Cajon passes as Cowboys receivers do if Morris and his secondary have anything to do with the situation.

Rookies Battle For NASCAR Title Sunday

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Some of the best competition in Sunday's $185,000 500 stock car race should be between two rookies with virtually no chance of winning.

But Skip Manning and Terry Bivins aren't just any rookies. They're the most successful rookies this season in NASCAR Grand National racing, and their fight for the $10,000 rookie of the year title has come down to the season finale.

Manning, 31 from Bogalusa, La., has led the complicated rookie point standings most of the season, while Bivins, 33, of Shawnee Mission, Kan., has come back strong the final third after an impressive start. Manning now leads only 323-319 in points in what is the tightest rookie competition in NASCAR annals.

The fastest rookie qualifier will get 10 points; the highest rookie finisher will be awarded 10 points. The second rookie in both categories gets nine, third eight, and so forth. But since they are the only two rookies officially in the points battle, neither can pick up more than two points in those categories.

The key will be in bonus points for top 10 finishes. Tenth place gets one bonus point, scaled all the way up to 10 points for winning the race.

The way it stands now, Bivins would have to qualify faster than Manning, and finish higher, actually eighth or better to theoretically win the title — and then by only a point.

Rentzel in Trouble; Record $ to Reds

LOS ANGELES — Lance Rentzel is in trouble again.

A Superior Court judge issued a bench warrant for his arrest Wednesday after the former Los Angeles Rams wide receiver failed to appear in court for a probation report stemming from a 1973 marijuana case.

Rentzel, 33, who was suspended for one season by the National Football League following the incident, was to have been in court to give a progress report on his unsupervised probation.

Rentzel pleaded guilty in April 1973 to a marijuana possession charge but later appealed it unsuccessfully on grounds the search and seizure were illegal.

He was fined $2,000 but last May told the court he was unable to pay the money and was ordered instead to perform 100 hours of volunteer work with the youth foundation of former boxer Sugar Ray Robinson.

Heads Come Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio — City officials here will remove the business ends of 355 parking meters in the Ohio State University area for the school's weekend football game with Michigan — a move they think will save up to $25,000.

The Division of Traffic Engineering figured it would be cheaper to spend $200 to $300 for labor to remove the meter heads than to replace them. After the OSU-Michigan meeting here four years ago, celebrating fans tore the heads off.

Big Payoff

NEW YORK — Thirty-one members of the Cincinnati Reds soon will receive a check worth $26,366.68. That's their record prize for winning the 1976 World Series, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced Wednesday.

In the Series, the Reds swept the New York Yankees in four games last October. The full share is $1,700 more than the previous record of $24,617.57, which was awarded to the 1973 Oakland A's.

The Yankees' losing share of $19,935.48 per player was also a record. It surpassed by more than $4,000 the $15,703.97 given the 1974 Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Kansas City Royals, winners of the American League West, voted 33 full shares of $8,451.50 while the National League East champion Philadelphia Phillies doled 34 full shares for an individual award of $8,620.84.

Quarry, 31, said the accident occurred near Cholame last Saturday night when his pickup truck hit a mud puddle and rolled over.

Fathers Die

CHICAGO — Running back Larry Schreiber and tight end-punter Bob Parsons were given Wednesday off from practice with the Chicago Bears to return home after learning of the deaths of their fathers.

Parsons received word Tuesday night of his father's death in Pennsylvania. Schreiber learned shortly before practice of his father's death in Kentucky.

SC Tiff Is Something Special--Donahue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The USC game is something very special," says UCLA coach Terry Donahue, who went through it as a Bruins player and now gets his first chance as a coach.

"The running backs run a little harder, the linemen hit harder, the intensity is higher and you hurt more on Sunday."

Donahue's second-ranked Bruins and John Robinson's third-ranked Trojans battle Saturday for the right to represent the Pacific-8 Conference in the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl. Oddsmakers say the game is a tossup. The coaches involved agree.

Responding to a question, Donahue said, "Yes, the quarterback is very important in a game like this, but in most great football games, the difference is usually on defense. USC's is big, and it's maybe the quickest we've seen.

"And their offense is very, very good. It's the No. 1 offense in the nation, and that wouldn't be so bad if you didn't have to play against the best running back on the West Coast. And maybe he's the best running back the nation has ever seen."

Donahue was talking about big Ricky Bell, the Trojans workhorse who has been injured the past three weeks and has slipped to third in the nation in rushing, behind Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh and Western Michigan's Jerome Persell.

Bell, still nursing an injured left ankle, is expected to start against the Bruins, meaning USC shouldn't lose much from its nation-leading average of 459.9 yards per game.

The Bruins, meanwhile, might not have all the full services of running back Wendell Tyler, the all-time UCLA rushing leader. He suffered a dislocated shoulder against Oregon State last week and will be wearing a shoulder harness when the 1 p.m. game starts Saturday.

"Instinct tells me it's going to be a low-scoring game," said Donahue, "but the way our offense is and their offense is, it might wind up 45-44."

Edison's Clower Criticizes Pairings

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Edison High athletic director Lyman Clower has never been one to throw his weight around, but the Chargers official is burning over his school's apparent slight by the CIF Southern Section office and the pairings committee for the 4-A football playoffs.

The Huntington Beach-based Chargers, Sunset League champions, must play Angelus League power Pius X of Downey in the first round—in direct conflict with the basic element of any tournament—matching strong against strong in the first round.

"We're very displeased with the pairings," says Clower, "and our plans are to request the Sunset League to draft a letter of complaint and suggest that some representation on the committee be afforded a Southern Orange County person."

The committee assisting CIF commissioner Tom Byrnes and aides Ray Plutko and Dean Crowley consisted of Anaheim High's Clare Van Hoorebeke, Arcadia High's Dick Salter and Lou Joseph, of the Orange Unified School District.

Says Edison coach Bill Workman: "It looks like the CIF wants to eliminate us. If not in the first round with Pius X, then in the second round with West Torrance. There seems hardly any doubt."

Clower expands on his views: "We feel it's unfair to pair off strong league against strong league. The Sunset, Angelus and Sierra (which houses South Hills, West Covina and Los Altos) are very strong and teams from those leagues should not be paired in the first round.

"The CIF tells us all they do is seed four teams, but if you look at the pairings, you can find eight definite seeds, of which the Sunset League has none.

"On paper it's legitimate. We got a third place team and Fountain Valley and Westminster (which Edison defeated in league play) get co-champs (Empire League teams Los Alamitos and Loara). But everyone is pretty aware that third place in the Angelus League is a very, very strong team.

"We wouldn't expect to see Pius X in the first round, rather we'd expect a second place tie or third place team from one of the leagues around that is not of the caliber of the Angelus."

In reply to criticism, Byrnes offers: "There's so many variables involved—such as keeping league teams separated from one another and placing non-champions against champions, that we find the only thing we can be reasonably sure of is getting the top four seeds placed.

"The Edison arguments may have substance from the Edison point of view, but you'll find differences in opinions everywhere.

"We must have had 100 calls from Orange County last year when we seeded St. Paul and Loyola 1-2—yet as it turned out it was those two which met for the championship."

LYMAN CLOWER

Edison's Main Goal: Stop Pius X Back

Edison High of Huntington Beach meets the Warriors of Downey's Pius X High Friday night at 8 in the first round of the CIF 4-A football playoffs at Huntington Beach High.

And although the Warriors have impressive physical statistics, Edison coach Bill Workman sees a mismatch only in terms of his offensive guards and with the tight end at Pius X.

"If there's a physical mismatch," says Workman, "it may be with the Pius X linebackers against our guards. Randy Schwartz is only 175 pounds and will be up against a 220-pounder, for instance.

"And the tight end, James Forge, could be a problem for us." Forge is 6-4, 220 pounds.

Otherwise Workman says the issue Friday night is much like facing Fountain Valley. "Pius X has good skilled people and the defense is very much like Fountain Valley.

As for their offense, the Warriors are very much like us. I understand the Pius X coaching staff started laughing when they saw us on film...we're so similar.

The defensive problem for Edison is in stopping tailback Darrin Nelson, a 165-pounder with 17 touchdowns to his credit.

"The passing game is there," says Workman, "but we've got to stop the tailback first...he's their biggest weapon.

"Offensively we've just got to mix it up. Pius X has stopped some good football teams."

The Edison starting lineups remain the same as in the victory over Huntington Beach, although all but fullback Larry Simpson will be ready to play.

Simpson is out with a possible concussion. Tailback Jim Judd is ready for duty in the backfield or at linebacker, but will not start, according to Workman.

Corsairs To Appeal Decision

LOS ANGELES—Santa Monica College apparently will forfeit seven of its football victories this season because of an ineligible player—if two appeals are denied in the next few days.

The player, linebacker Frank Smith, has been charged with playing for El Camino in a game Sept. 21, 1974. He also played for Santa Monica last season.

At a Southern California Conference meeting Wednesday at Los Angeles City College, Santa Monica asked to have Smith's eligibility retroactive.

"The conference denied that which means Santa Monica had an ineligible player," Golden West College athletic director Fred Owens told the Daily Pilot.

Santa Monica was to appeal the decision today before a conference appeals committee and also next Monday or Tuesday before a Southern California JC appeals group.

If those two are denied, Golden West and Rio Hondo would probably finish as conference co-champs—if both win their final games Saturday night.

And by virtue of its victory over Rio Hondo last week, Golden West would represent the conference in the Nov. 27 Avocado Bowl against South Coast Conference champ Fullerton.

CdM's Elson Returns

Rob Elson will start at tailback for the Corona del Mar High Sea Kings football team Friday night (8) when they entertain the Cajon Cowboys of San Bernardino in a first round 2-A CIF playoff game at Newport Harbor High.

Elson, the team's leading rusher a year ago, suffered a knee injury in the first game of the season against Marina and has been sidelined until last week. He returned kickoffs and had one run of five yards against Costa Mesa's Mustangs.

Elson, a 170-pounder, rushed for 558 yards in 104 carries as a junior and scored four touchdowns. His loss was eased by the performance of Spraitz as the latter rushed for 709 yards in seven games, getting more than 100 in four different outings.

Corona del Mar coach Dick Morris is gearing the Sea Kings defense for a potent offensive attack. Cajon has scored 279 points, an average of 31 per tilt, and has given up 145, a 16.1 norm.

"They have some really explosive guys on that team," Morris says. "They use a combination of running and passing and have a quarterback who can throw the football 55 to 60 yards in the air.

"Their running back, Freddie Washington, is a super back—he's big and fast and makes it so we can't concentrate on stopping the run or the pass."

Morris also pointed out that the Cowboys have two tackles on defense who are much bigger than any of the CdM players. Curtis Norris at left tackle is 6-2 and 258 pounds while left tackle Bill McCarty is 6-5 and 240 pounds.

Griffins' Ground Attack County's Best--Pickford

It's like old times for Fountain Valley High as the Barons prepare for Saturday night's (8) CIF 4-A first round football collision with Los Alamitos at Cerritos College.

For the past six years these two have rolled in the dirt in league play and the record is two wins, two losses and two ties for the series, each claiming a one-point victory and the last two tiffs ending up 14-14.

"Los Alamitos," says Fountain Valley coach Bruce Pickford, "probably has the best running attack in Orange County. There may be better, but we haven't seen it.

"And defensively Los Alamitos is almost a carbon copy of Edison. It uses a 5-2 and comes after you very aggressively.

"Defensively we're impressed with guards David Ferguson (175) and Pete Gregor (185), in addition to linebacker Rick Senteno (195).

"And we wouldn't be surprised to see Bruce Heiser playing in the secondary with a man-to-man assignment on our Ken Margerum.

"We think Steve Fogel will be in there at linebacker, too."

Pickford's concern with the offense of Los Alamitos, which has three backs netting over 2,300 yards rushing is not limited to running only. "We know there is the definite passing threat...Los Al has scored through the air and can hurt you with the play-action pass," says Pickford.

"We're sure, however, Los Al won't come out with the idea of throwing the ball 20 times...not when it runs so well."

Fountain Valley's lineup remains the same as in the Westminster tiff and the hopes that quarterback Gary Coleman would be able to return have been tucked away for good—he is lost for the season with the knee injury.

"We expect to see a lot of what we saw in the Edison game," says Pickford. "Los Al is good, but so are we. We're looking forward to the game."

Mesa Pass Rush Key to Victory?

A trademark of the small Costa Mesa High Mustangs football team is quickness, an ingredient it has used to its advantage over larger and more physical opponents.

"Quickness has been an asset for us, but I think Sonora is as quick as we are," says Mustangs head football coach Tom French. "They will be the quickest team we have faced this year."

Sonora's quickness, along with its football tradition, make the Raiders favorites over Costa Mesa's Mustangs in the first round of the CIF 2-A playoffs at 8 Friday night at Orange Coast College.

Sonora is the 1975 CIF 2-A champion while Costa Mesa has never qualified for post-season competition in its 11-year-history.

"We're just telling our kids we don't want them to be happy just to get in the CIF," says French. "If we're happy just to be here, we're going to get beat. We're out to get everything we can."

But getting everything they can won't be easy against a Sonora team that finished third in the rugged Orange League and compiled a 7-2 season record.

"They have a returning quarterback who led them to the CIF championship and they have a good running back," says French. "We're going to have to contain their quarterback and if we don't get a pass rush, he is going to eat us apart."

French is talking about Matt Switzer who has completed 40 of 70 for 427 yards. Sonora also has a backup quarterback in Dave Stivers who has connected on 22 of 49 for 319 yards.

The fact that Costa Mesa wound up 6-1 in a league that didn't have many passing quarterbacks could be a drawback but French says, "we throw a lot and work against our own passers in practice."

And Costa Mesa has a top quarterback in Dave Mollica, a third team All-Orange County choice. As a runner, Mollica has netted 446 yards and as a passer, he has completed 69 of 125 for 834 yards.

But because Sonora's linemen are quick, they figure to pressure Mollica and French says, "I think the key will be whether our offensive linemen can negate their quickness."

Tritons to Face Strange Defense

The San Clemente High Tritons have faced the two-tight end offense, the veer, the split backs and the I en route to a 6-3 regular season football record.

But when they clash with the Northview High Vikings of Covina at 8 Friday night in the first round of the CIF 2-A playoffs at West Covina High, the Tritons will be encountering a new defensive experience.

"They like to run the outside belly play which is hardly run anymore," says Allie Schaff, head football coach at San Clemente. "Our kids have never seen it. It's very difficult to key on one player out of a fullhouse backfield.

"Also, they are big and very physical. They have a good fullback, a good halfback, a good quarterback and good receivers. And they have a big tackle who goes both ways and is a pretty sturdy kid."

With their talented backfield, Northview has scored more than 25 points per game on five occasions while compiling a 6-3 mark and a co-title in the Montview League.

But the Vikings will be facing a defensive-oriented Tritons team that has shut out four opponents and only given up seven points in the last three games. The Tritons wound up third in the South Coast League with a 5-2 mark.

"We've been improving every game," says Schaff. "We had some kids who were as green as grass in the defensive backfield, but they don't make the same mistake twice. Plus, we've got a couple of sophomores who are playing well."

Those sophomores are fullback-tackle Mike Dunivin and defensive back Brad Parker. Dunivin has rushed for 314 yards on 71 carries from the wishbone while Parker is a secondary starter. Dunivin also opens at tackle on defense.

In addition to Dunivin, the Tritons offense is sparked by running back Randy Adams and quarterback Glenn Dill. Adams has picked up 424 yards on 126 attempts while Dill has passed for 477 yards and run for 197.

Northview's defense, meanwhile, has only limited one foe to less than two touchdowns but Schaff says, "they're fine against the run and I imagine they will put on a pass rush.

As for his Tritons, Schaff reports that starting running back Bill Lawbaugh may be sidelined with a shoulder injury. Also, Schaff says he is bringing up freshman L.G. Greene, a 5-7, 155-pounder who gained over 1,000 yards.

Sunset Runners Compete

Fountain Valley and Marina of Huntington Beach are the favorites, but Huntington Beach would be no surprise if it won—and even Westminster and Edison of Huntington Beach are given outside chances.

That's the way the Sunset League cross country finals shape up as the aforementioned teams, all ranked among the top ten in the CIF 4-A poll, conclude their wild league season Saturday morning at McCracken Park in Huntington Beach.

The varsity race gets under way at 9:30 and is preceded by a junior varsity race at 9. The sophomores run at 10 and the freshmen tangle at 10:30.

In dual meet action, Fountain Valley and Marina tied for first with 4-1 records; Huntington Beach was third with a 3-2 mark; Westminster and Edison tied for fourth with 2-3 marks. On a point system, Marina and Fountain Valley have five; Huntington Beach three and Edison and Westminster 1½. Points for the first five teams in the league meet are 7-4-3-2-1.

The two teams with the highest cumulative point totals advance to the CIF preliminaries, while the third place team is expected to petition to the CIF in hopes of qualifying.

And while Fountain Valley and Marina are in the best positions, anything could happen as evidenced by dual meet scores. For instance, Edison knocked off Fountain Valley.

Individually, Edison figures to have the winning harrier in Charlie Christensen, second in last year's Sunset League finals and a consistent winner this year.

But Fountain Valley and Marina are balanced. Fountain Valley is led by Brian Appell and Kurt Buehler while John Spreitzer, Jim Testrake and Rick Smoot round out the top five.

Oilers Nip Edison; 43rd Win for NH

A hustling Huntington Beach High team defeated Edison (Huntington Beach), 7-5, in water polo action Wesday evening at Golden West College to capture second place in the Sunset League and a spot in the CIF playoffs.

In earlier league competition, Newport Harbor routed visiting Marina of Huntington Beach, 20-7, for the Sunset title and its 43rd straight victory. And Fountain Valley breezed past Westminster, 16-6, at Golden West.

Meanwhile in Century league play, host Estancia of Costa Mesa brought its league season to an end with a 15-4 decision over Tustin for a third place finish (5-2).

Newport, ranked No. 1 in the CIF 4-A poll, has not lost since the 1974 CIF finals, but could be pressed Friday when it plays host to No. 2 ranked Sunny Hills of Fullerton.

Huntington Beach, playing aggressive ball, jumped out to an early 5-0 lead on three penalty shots in the first quarter, two by Tony Wooten.

By the time Edison could adjust the damage had been done. The loss drops Edison into third place with a 3-2 league record.

It was a strong defensive effort which made the difference for Fountain Valley. Goalie Will Hogue had eight saves in three quarters in the net and then scored two goals from the field.

Gauchos' Chances Are Slim

Saddleback, after its 7-3 loss to Citrus last week, has a 5-1 record and hosts Chaffey Saturday night at Mission Viejo High. Citrus (5-0-1) visits Riverside.

"The chances aren't real good that Citrus will lose, but stranger things have happened," says Swearingen. "But we're being honest with our kids. They know the chances aren't good that Citrus will lose, but you never know.

"This team has a lot of pride and the sophomores may be playing their last game here, so I don't think there will be a letdown."

The Gauchos have only had 13 points scored against them in the six Mission Conference games and when Citrus tallied its touchdown in the final quarter last week it ended a 21-quarter shutout streak.

"I don't think I've had a team play that well defensively in all the years I've been coaching," says Swearingen, who tutored El Camino College for 14 seasons before switching to Saddleback this year.

"I don't think I've had a team that has been that well prepared, not only in terms of strategy, but in execution. If we just could have held on to the ball, we would have won," said Swearingen.

Saddleback turned the ball over eight times—five of them fumbles.

Chaffey, which has never defeated the Gauchos in seven tries, is vastly improved, says the Gauchos coach.

McKeon Nears Milestone

That's when the Rustlers take on host Los Angeles City College in an important SoCal Conference football game.

McKeon, the sophomore star who rushed for 257 yards in the 43-13 win over Rio Hondo last weekend, has 941 yards for the season—needing just 59 to hit the 1,000-yard figure.

McKeon is fourth on the all-time Golden West rushing list with 1,267 yards.

Another Rustler, quarterback Jim Andrus may have a tougher chore in hitting the 1,000-yard figure. Andrus has 846 yards, passing needing 154. The sophomore QB has completed 55 of 103 passes for seven touchdowns.

"They appeared to be a good football team in the Orange Coast scrimmage and they won their opening game. But since that time it's been kind of futile for them defensively. They have a good offensive team, but they've given up a lot of points," says Shackleford.

The Rustlers have really jelled offensively in the last four weeks and Shackleford says the biggest reason is the fact that he has been playing the same people in the offensive line.

Golden West has had to shuffle personnel in and out of the lineup because of injuries.

"Considering the injuries we've had and the schedule we've played, I'm very pleased with this team. We've had 12 or 13 major surgeries this season and to come back the way we have is a tribute to the players and coaches," says Shackleford.

The latest operation on a Rustlers came Wednesday when offensive guard Pat Dion had knee surgery. Reserve defensive end Wayne Stewart, injured in the LA Harbor game, will have knee surgery Monday.

Mesans Favored

The talented Costa Mesa High Mustangs, heavy favorites to capture the CIF 3-A cross country crown, bid for their ninth straight league title Saturday morning at UC Irvine.

Competition starts at 8 with the first varsity race slated for 8:30.

The Mustangs, ranked No. 1 in the CIF 3-A poll, don't figure to have competition for the South Coast League championship, although second place is up for grabs between Corona del Mar, Mission Viejo and University High of Irvine.

Mission Viejo is rated No. 3 in the CIF 3-A poll while University is No. 5 and Corona del Mar No. 10. All finished league action with 5-2 marks. The league's top two teams automatically qualify for CIF preliminaries.

In addition to having a team that has defeated all the top CIF 4-A squads, Costa Mesa also has one of the top harriers in junior Joe Young, who lost to Mission Viejo's Mike Walterhouse in the dual meet but defeated him in a later invitational.

Pickeroo Game

Daily Pilot Pigskin Pickeroo football guessing contest players need not be concerned about the Oklahoma-Nebraska game listed on this week's entry blank.

The game will be played Friday, Nov. 26 and therefore will not be counted in the Pickeroo.

'Lame Ducks' Take Wing

Tax-supported 'Facts' to Assist Whom?

From AP Dispatches

HUTCHINSON

The lame-ducks have until Jan. 4, when the next Congress convenes without them, to complete their journeys.

Rep. William Randall (D-Mo.), chairman of the Select Committee on Aging, is on a 16-day tour of Yugoslavia, Romania, France, West Germany, Italy and other countries.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, (R-Mich.), another retiree, is on a House Judiciary Committee tour of Africa.

Rep. James O'Hara (D-Mich.), who unsuccessfully sought a Senate seat, is planning to attend a United Nations conference in Nairobi.

GABIN

The crowds overran the security arrangements outside the crematorium at Pere Lachaise Cemetery, trampling on many tombs. Streets had to be blocked off outside the cemetery. Angry disputes broke out as the spectators pushed forward, trying to get a better view.

Long lines formed to pass before the casket as final sign of respect, but after about 15 minutes the casket was taken inside the crematorium.

A San Jose man has been in jail since Oct. 12 because he refuses to sign court papers awarding a half-interest in his house to his ex-wife.

Alan Stadmiller, 40, who was divorced by his wife, Carol, last May said he is not interested in saving the half-interest, worth an estimated $12,690, simply because of the money involved.

PEOPLE

"I just wanted to make sure there's always a house for my three kids," he said in an interview from a minimum security area of the Santa Clara County jail.

★

Francis Gary Powers, imprisoned for espionage in the Soviet Union after his U2 spy plane was shot down, joined KNBC-TV as a helicopter pilot and news reporter, NBC officials said.

POWERS

Powers was sentenced to 10 years in 1960 in a sensational trial at the height of the Cold War. The downing of his high-flying CIA plane by a missile led to the breakup of a summit meeting between President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev.

He was released in a prisoner exchange in 1962.

★

Former rock 'n' roll star Jimmy Clanton, after a decade-long recording hiatus, signed a long-term contract with the Starcrest label, the company announced in Nashville.

His first release is "Old Rock 'N' Roller: Will It Happen Again?," described by the company as "soft rock."

Among his biggest hits as an early rock 'n' roll star were "Just A Dream," "Go Jimmy Go," and "Venus in Blue Jeans."

Federal officials surveying drought damage in South Dakota will have to ask for water to go with their meals if they stop at Loretta's Truck Stop Haven in Mitchell.

Restaurant manager Loretta Cain ordered waitresses not to serve water unless the customers ask for it.

"We're trying to remind everybody about our water shortage," she said.

The drought has left many areas in South Dakota 10 or more inches short of the normal annual rainfall. Gov. Richard Kneip has asked the federal government for more than $12 million in drought aid for erosion control and water studies.

★

Country music star Johnny Cash says he tried to call Gary Gilmore at the Utah State Prison to urge him to "fight for his life" only minutes after the convicted murderer was found unconscious in an apparent suicide attempt.

CASH

Cash said a call from Gilmore's attorney had prompted him to call the 35-year-old convicted killer, who said he wants to die before a firing squad.

"I don't know what I would have told a man who was planning to take his life," Cash said. "Sometimes it helps, sometimes it doesn't. But I would have tried to talk him out of it."

Taming Mighty 'Mo' Cuts Wildlife Homes

ECOLOGY

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — When you fool with Mother Nature you win some and lose some, Iowa conservationists are learning after Army Corps engineers straightened the Missouri River.

"It is indefinable what existed before. So many geese don't fly anymore, so many fish are gone," Iowa Conservation Commission Chairman Tom Bates said at a commission meeting.

THE COMMISSION STAFF said the Corps' project to tame the wild Missouri begun in 1945 and completed early in this decade has cost Iowa 32,000 acres of wildlife habitat — timber, marshland and quiet backwaters favored by many species of game fish.

"People may have gained from this, but wildlife certainly hasn't," said Tom Berkley, a western Iowa district wildlife supervisor for the commission.

He said land once suitable mainly for fishing, hunting and other outdoor recreation has been reclaimed as farmland because it no longer is subject to flooding.

THE RIVER WAS shortened by 15.4 miles along Iowa's northern boundary, separating Iowa from Nebraska and South Dakota. The purpose of the project was basically two-fold, to control periodic floods and to provide enough depth for commercial navigation important to the upper Midwest farm economy.

Early in the history of what the corps calls its Missouri River "Navigation and Bank Stabilization Project," the old bends in the river were hailed as prime wildlife areas, with lakes and marshes replacing the continually flowing water.

BUT THE STRAIGHTENING project had another effect, that of increasing current speeds and hence scouring a deeper channel. The lower river bed resulted in drainage of many of those still water areas, allowing the land to be cleared for farming.

Another effect was that some land that once belonged to Nebraska is now on the Iowa side of the river, and some former Iowa land is now on the Nebraska side.

THE CORPS HAS called on the states affected to determine their wildlife losses and says it will try to provide new land nearby where game can flourish.

But the commission staff says that because the corps wants to limit such acquisition to river-adjacent areas, and because such bottom land is limited, the issue of replacing lost wildlife habitat may become a political football that eventually will wind up in court.

Feminists Marching, Claims NOW

FRESNO (AP) — The feminist movement is far from dying as some claim, says Eleanor Smeal, head of the directors of National Organization for Women.

"While others are writing requiems to the women's movement, we are building it," she said here at a state NOW convention. "Some are calling a funeral for us and we're not coming.

"WE ARE COMMITTED. There shall never be another season of silence."

Ms. Smeal outlined these directions she thinks NOW will take as it begins its second decade:

— Formation of a feminist statistical bureau.

Detroit Just Too Deadly

DETROIT (AP) — It was hard for Detroit homicide detectives to keep straight faces when they read the message on their teletype printer.

The message came from the Presque Isle County sheriff's office in the northeastern reaches of the Lower Peninsula.

The sheriff asked to hear from "any department having unsolved murders, kidnapings, assaults or armed robberies" in which the suspect used sawed-off shotguns or knives.

Got eight maids a milking you'd like to move by Christmas?

Move them under our tree.

On each Thursday through December 16th, the Daily Pilot will publish special pages to make it easier for you to convert your saleable items to Christmas cash.

Buy a box under our tree & sell your toys, sports equipment, luggage, appliances, furniture, antiques, handmade & unique gifts and no matter what your business — we have a box for you!

Putting a box under our tree is easy and inexpensive. Rates are $4.00 for the smaller box to $22.50 for the largest box. BIG, BIG SAVINGS if you run more than one time.

For more information and to place your ad just call 642-5678 and ask for your Christmas Ad-Viser for more information. Your credit is good with us. We'll bill you or you can charge your ad to your Master Charge or BankAmericard.

Redevelopment Round Two Tonight

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The second round in the battle over Huntington Beach redevelopment will take place tonight at the Huntington Beach High School gymnasium.

Planning staff members will give a preview of the 688-acre plan at 5 p.m. Public testimony is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Mayor Harriett Wieder said today that the city council, which doubles as the redevelopment agency, won't reach a decision tonight.

"We are going to let everyone have a chance to speak and we won't cut off debate," she said. "We'll then need time to reflect on the citizens' input. Our minds are not made up."

A large crowd is expected tonight.

When the first hearing was held Oct. 11, a crowd of 400 people jammed into city council chambers. Hundreds more were locked out on orders of the fire marshal.

Because of the earlier turnout and the emotions generated by redevelopment, tonight's meeting was scheduled at the gymnasium across the street from city hall.

City officials say that seating provisions have been made to accommodate a turnout of 1,500. Other sections of the gym can be expanded to seat up to 2,500 if necessary.

Lance Jacot, a leader of the Save Our Seaside Committee (SOS), says he believes his group has picked up support since the first hearing and that opposition to the plan is "overwhelming."

"We will not support anything until after Jan. 1 when the Montoya legislation takes effect," Jacot said Wednesday.

The Montoya measure is expected to add certain restrictions on redevelopment.

Since the first public hearing on Oct. 11, several changes and alternatives have been made in the plan for council consideration.

They deal with time limits on eminent domain, limits on indebtedness, how much the city can spend in tax funds, height limitations and provisions for low and moderate income housing.

City council members also have rescinded an earlier approval in concept of a plan by Voorhies, Trindell and Nelson (VTN) calling for a 22-story hotel

Ad Paid Off For Father

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man who advertised last year for a "test tube" mother to bear his child through artificial insemination is the proud father of a baby girl.

"Childless husband with infertile wife wants test tube baby," said a want ad published April 15, 1975, in the San Francisco Chronicle. "English or Northwestern European background. Indicate fee and age. All answers confidential."

The man agreed to tell his story to a Chronicle reporter on the condition that he and the mother remain anonymous.

He was the last of his family line and said that when the ad was placed he wanted a child — his child — to carry on his family name.

He chose artificial insemination because, he said, it would be immoral for him to have a sexual relationship outside of marriage to father a child.

News stories about his plight brought 181 letters from women as far as Bangladesh, he said. Letters were sent to an ad number at the Chronicle, and the man hired a lawyer and a doctor to take care of selection and the actual impregnation.

The man was never to meet the mother of his child.

The woman selected was described only as an attractive, blonde, unmarried office worker living in the San Francisco Bay area. She had never had a child before.

Last December, the father visited a doctor's office where he produced a sample of his sperm. After he left, the doctor injected the sperm into the mother.

"It took the first time," the father said.

The mother told her boss and co-workers what she was doing. According to the man's lawyer, her boss at first reacted with, "'That kind of thing isn't going on in my office,' as though there were sexual pleasure involved."

He changed his mind when the mother argued that she was doing something morally positive.

The baby, five pounds and six ounces with red hair and blue eyes, was born Sept. 6. The father said there were some medical problems at first, but she is home and doing well.

His wife, he said, was a "bit dubious" about the idea at first, "but she loves that baby now like it was her own."

The father said expenses totaled about $10,000 - $7,000 in payment to the mother and the rest in legal and medical fees.

He said he still wants a son.

"I can't afford it right now," he said, "but I may try again."

The father's lawyer said there was no precedent for such a case.

SADIE AWAITS FATE AT ORANGE COUNTY POUND
Abandoned Dog Guarded Huntington Beach Home

Sadie Caged

Home Defender Faces Death

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sadie, the canine who guarded what was her home even after her master moved away and abandoned her, is in captivity today, at the Orange County Animal Shelter.

She eluded the orange and white Animal Control truck and the men in it several times before they finally surprised her Wednesday.

They caught her at 20272 Village Drive, Huntington Beach, where she had stood in defense against new tenants for two weeks.

Today, Sadie's days are numbered.

If no one comes forth for the black and white mongrel, she will be put to death on Sunday.

"I sure hope someone claims her or wants her," said Animal Control Officer Chris Thibault.

She explained that impounded animals are automatically granted the day of their capture — whether it was morning or night — and three more additional days' grace period before they are destroyed.

New renters Bob MacPhee, 20, his brother Ed, 19, and roommate Dave Wathmough, 20, reported Sadie Monday, after moving into the Village Drive cottage in central Huntington Beach.

She was brave but nervous.

Sad-eyed Sadie sat beside the door and twice lunged to warn Ed MacPhee it was not his home, but then became nervous and defensive, retreating to a dark corner of the backyard.

The theory is that Sadie was foraging in the neighborhood for food and water. All she had left in that dark corner of the backyard was an old, well-gnawed, pot roast bone.

Tax Cut Nixed?

Burns Sees 'No Advantage'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," Burns said. "My mind on the subject, however, is by no means closed."

President Ford will send to Congress in January his proposal to cut taxes across the board by $10 billion, with an increase in the Social Security tax rate that would mean a net cut of $8 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider asking Congress for a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Although a tax cut could be enacted without Burns' approval, some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York.

His remarks came as the government reduced its estimate of growth in the nation's economic output to 3.8 percent during the fall quarter.

That rate is just below the level generally considered necessary to whittle unemployment, which was at 7.9 percent of the labor force in October with 7.6 million Americans out of work.

The Commerce Department estimated last month that the Gross National Product — or total output of goods and services — grew at an annual rate of four percent during the third quarter. The revised figures show an unexpectedly poor performance in foreign trade.

Referring to a tax cut, Burns said he "will weigh the issue carefully" if the economy appears to need such a stimulus and if there are "economies" in federal spending.

While some of Carter's advisers have said they would prefer a one-time tax rebate, Burns said he would prefer a broad-based permanent tax reduction of both business and individuals, similar to a tax cut enacted in the early 1960s.

"Such a measure, on a responsible scale, would minimize social conflict for our country," he said.

Carter, on the other hand, has said he will consider tax cuts aimed at benefiting low and middle-income workers and has said nothing about cutting taxes to benefit business.

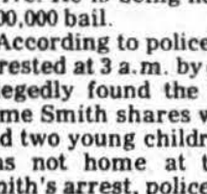

In any case, Burns said there is no need for a tax cut at the present time, partly because it could add to inflationary pressures and partly because he expects the economy to resume solid growth without one.

Schenkel Sour

Raps Barbara Walters' Pay

"If Barbara Walters is worth $1 million, what are we worth? ABC Sports is the only thing that makes money for the network," Schenkel said in a question-and-answer session before the Phoenix Executives Club.

WALTERS

Miss Walters signed a contract recently to co-anchor the ABC Evening News with Harry Reasoner.

Schenkel offered, "Barbara is the kind of girl who would vote a town dry, then move."

Drug Suspect Held After Narco Raid

One year after he vanished, Gregory E. Burt, who police allege is a West Orange County drug dealer suspect, is jailed again.

Burt, 26, was captured Wednesday as he huddled naked in a closet at his aunt's home in San Diego County.

The suspect was picked up in a 10-man pre-dawn raid by Huntington Beach police and the San Diego County Narcotics Task Force.

Burt is in San Diego County Jail today, charged with drug-related offenses carrying $42,000 in bail, Huntington Beach officers reported.

He was booked on two arrest warrants issued last November when he posted bail and then failed to appear for hearings in West Orange County Judicial District Court.

Quantities of alleged cocaine and marijuana seized in the 3 a.m. raid at his relative's Spring Valley home resulted in additional charges against Burt.

He is to first face charges of possession of cocaine and marijuana for sale — about $5,000 worth — in San Diego, after which he faces similar charges in Orange County.

"We've been looking for this guy for a year," Huntington Beach police narcotics detail Sgt. Carl Vidano announced Wednesday afternoon.

"Yesterday I got an anonymous telephone call. The guy was 100 percent correct, right down the line on Burt's whereabouts and everything," Sgt. Vidano said.

Burt, Sgt. Vidano noted, was arrested along with an alleged accomplice in two related Westminster and Huntington Beach cases last year involving some $50,000 worth of drugs.

Investigators said the aunt had no connection with the case other than having given her nephew a place to stay while seemingly jobless and down on his luck.

Tito Stands Firm

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito, in his meetings this week with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, refused again to submit to Soviet domination, a Yugoslav government spokesman says.

Suspect Released

OXNARD (AP) — One teenage boy has been released and a second has been arrested and charged with murder in the strangulation death of a 17-year-old Oxnard High School girl. Fernando Jiminez, 18, had been arrested Saturday but charges were dropped and he was released after police checked his story that he had been dropped off at his home last Friday by Mona Cantu, 17, and Robert V. Salas, 19. Salas now has been charged with murdering Miss Cantu, whose nude body was found Saturday on the school grounds.

Valley Okays Reclassifying Of City Land

The first step in rezoning an 8.7-acre parcel from commercial to residential has been taken by the Fountain Valley City Council.

The council voted 3 to 1 this week to reclassify the land, located near the southwest corner of Heil Avenue and Harbor Boulevard, as a residential area in the city's master plan.

The currently undeveloped parcel is owned by Gimp Investment Company of Marina Del Rey and Robert K. Wong of Anaheim.

Robert Main, a representative of Mailon Builders, Inc. of Garden Grove, developers of the property, told the council his firm hopes to subdivide the parcel into 30 lots for homes ranging in price from $73,000 to $92,000.

Mayor Pro Tem Roger Stanton opposed the change saying, "I can't see giving up commercial land on Harbor. We are giving it up too soon."

9 Firms Indicted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal grand jury in Honolulu has indicted nine Hawaiian hotel firms and their trade association on charges of conspiring to fix hotel room prices from prior to 1966 to at least Dec. 20, 1974.

Newport Arrest

Big Hashish Raid Made by Accident

Two Newport Beach patrolmen who thought they had spotted a burglar, ended up arresting a man early today for possession of 120 pounds of hashish worth an estimated $545,000 on the illicit drug market.

Jailed was Robert Edward Smith II, 27, of 4901 Seashore Drive. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

According to police, Smith was arrested at 3 a.m. by officers who allegedly found the drug in the home Smith shares with his wife and two young children. His wife was not home at the time of Smith's arrest, police said.

According to investigators, the alleged cache of hash was discovered by patrol Officers Michael Jackson and Andrew Gonis.

The two officers were patrolling the area when they spotted a man who appeared to be tampering with the doorknob of Smith's house.

The two officers stopped to investigate and the man told them he was a friend of the occupant of the house.

To prove his point, the man opened the front door and walked in with the officers behind him.

The large quantity of the narcotic was found after a search warrant had been obtained and Smith was booked for possession of hash for sale. The man the patrolmen first thought to be a burglar was booked on an outstanding traffic warrant.

The children were turned over to Smith's parents.

Victim Stabbed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the victims of the Skid Row Slasher was stabbed 32 times in the head and neck before his throat was slit from ear to ear, Dr. Manuel Breton, pathologist, testified at the Superior Court trial of Vaughn Orrin Greenwood, who is accused of the nine Slasher murders that occurred from December, 1974 to January, 1975, and two other murders in 1964.

Oil Drillers Run Into Snag

Plagued by troubles in anchoring their self-propelled floating oil platform Aleutian Key, Gulf Oil Corporation officials today reported it will now be 40 days before they complete a test well off Tanner Banks.

Gulf's exploratory oil drilling site is about 28 miles from San Clemente Island. Keydril Corporation, operators of the oil rig for Gulf, have spent the last 12 days getting the drilling vessel properly anchored.

Gulf plans to drill the exploratory well to a depth of 9,000 feet in one of six undersea oil leases held by the company in the Tanner Banks area. Aleutian Key is operating in 680 feet of water.

Suicide Try Effect Nil

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore's sleeping pill overdose may have been a sympathy ploy or a genuine suicide attempt, but it probably won't influence his chances of facing a firing squad, the head of the state pardons board says.

Hospital officials said the 35-year-old convicted killer, who fought efforts to delay his execution, was to be returned to his Death Row cell at the Utah State Prison today.

Pair Face Eviction

Unmarried Males Meet Neighbors' Blasts

GROSSE POINTE PARK, Mich. (AP) — Because they are single, Donald J. Mazzola and Richard Grover are being forced by neighbors to leave the four-bedroom house they rented in this affluent Detroit suburb.

The neighbors' fear, that they would harm the character of the area, carries weight since a local law forbids occupancy of single-family dwellings by anyone not related by blood, marriage or adoption.

According to a local official, however, the ordinance is not enforced against single women.

Mazzola, 28, divorced father of two small sons, and Gronan, 30, a used car salesman, moved here after learning that a house they shared in Detroit for 1½ years was to be sold.

They looked for a replacement, and the tree-shaded home for $350 a month just fit the bill.

Aware of the zoning ordinance, Gronan inquired at city hall, came away convinced things could be worked out and decided to file for an exception. They even moved in some belongings before the hearing.

Neighbors, notified by mail that a public hearing would be held, filed objections. The neighbors had never met the two.

Councilman Charles Tompkins voted for the exception. He said the objections probably arose because the applicants were men, but noted that permission had been granted many times for women to live together without any objection.

Mazzola said he would like to continue the legal battle but added moving expenses already had cut heavily into their budget.

"I would like to do it for the sake of other people and to straighten out these Grosse Pointe snobs," he said.

However, help may be on the way.

The Michigan branch of the American Civil Liberties Union said the ordinance appears to be "offensive to constitutional rights, both of privacy and of freedom of association."

The organization has scheduled a board meeting Monday to decide whether grounds exist to carry on the fight for the two.

Frog-jumping enthusiasts turned out Wednesday at UC Irvine to partake in a contest that pitted frog against frog as part of Biology Week activities. This contestant got his entry to leap into the air, but alas, the green creature kept hopping in the wrong direction.

Teacher Saved by Students

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — First grade pupils helped an elementary school teacher flee unharmed when a pair of escaped convicts held a knife to her throat and tried to take her hostage.

"He could have stabbed me in the heart or the back," said Peggy O'Brien, the teacher stopped by the convicts outside St. Patrick's Elementary School. "But the children scared him. He dropped his knife to his side."

Mrs. O'Brien said she ran at that moment, guiding the children to the school entrance and inside. The two convicts fled, and later were captured.

The convicts stopped her as she was leaving her car Wednesday and preparing to enter the school. One of them held an eight-inch butcher knife to her throat, Mrs. O'Brien said. She screamed.

Two pupils came running up and other children followed, said Mrs. O'Brien, a first-grade teacher. Their presence, she said, made the knife wielder nervous.

One of the men grabbed a set of keys she was holding, But Mrs. O'Brien said they were keys to the school and not her car.

Until the children came up, Mrs. O'Brien said, the men were trying to force her to get back in her car and drive them wherever they wanted to go.

She said one of them told her, "There's cops all over the place and you're going to drive us out of here."

When Mrs. O'Brien and the children entered the school, the fugitives fled into a nearby woods. Police failed to catch them there, but less than four hours later apprehended them without resistance in a shopping center parking lot in the same north Jacksonville area.

Booze Heir's Tale Attacked

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Whisky Heir Samuel Bronfman II has put on record a tearful tale of nine days of terror and despair while he was a kidnap victim last year. Now the account is under sharp attack by the defense.

Bronfman went under cross-examination Wednesday afternoon, in his second day on the witness stand at the trial of the men accused of kidnaping him, Mel Patrick Lynch, 38, and Dominic Byrne, 54.

The questioning was to continue today regarding Walter Higgins' homosexual relationship with the 23-year-old Bronfman. The defense contends the threat of exposure led Lynch to acquiesce in a scheme by Bronfman to fake a kidnaping to extort $2.3 million in ransom money from his father, Edgar Bronfman, head of the Seagram distillery empire.

Girl Facing Face Surgery After Crash

A young Huntington Beach woman who was disfigured in a three-car collision on Pacific Coast Highway early Tuesday was reported to be progressing satisfactorily today.

Sharon Kramer, 18, of 16382 Oakmont Lane, underwent immediate surgery at Pacifica Hospital following the 2:15 a.m. accident at the Bolsa Chica bluffs Tuesday.

The victim was pinned in the wreckage of a van driven by a companion later arrested on suspicion of felony drunk driving.

Several facial lacerations will require further care and probable plastic surgery for Miss Kramer, officials said. The five other people in the three-car collision suffered only minor injuries, or were unhurt.

Slain Youth's Body Found

Orange County Sheriff's officers ran fingerprint tests today to determine the identity of a young man whose body was found Wednesday in the Tustin area.

Homicide investigators said the man, about 20, was strangled with a length of rope or cord. They believe he may have been killed in another area and then dumped in the Panorama Heights residential area.

Officers said the body was found on the side of a slope by a local resident who lives on Vista Panorama. They said all identification had been removed from the victim's clothing.

Brown Trip 'No PR Try'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. will be in Atlanta tonight on his way to a speaking engagement in Florida, but he has no plans to meet with President-elect Jimmy Carter, Brown's office says.

Brown, the last Democrat to challenge Carter for the presidential nomination, said the trip was not part of a travel program designed to keep his name before the public as a possible future presidential contender.

Blaze Damages Skateboard Firm

The fire at Coast Polyamics, 3011 S. Orange Ave., was reported at 8:29 p.m. and was under control 21 minutes later.

Council members said that the earlier "conceptual approval" was premature and didn't have the input from citizens.

The VTN plan remains a concept that still could be acted upon under the redevelopment plan, however.

There are two other suggested concepts for redevelopment of lesser intensity.

One calls for rehabilitation of buildings on the first five blocks along Pacific Coast Highway between Walnut Street and Lake and 6th Streets.

Acting Planning Director Edward Selich said that public expenses for the project would be about $6.3 million.

The concept also could result in a mall area on Main Street and adjacent alleyways. All development would be one and two stories in height.

A second concept calls for consolidation of five blocks along Pacific Coast Highway. Existing structures would be removed to be replaced by moderate intensity development including offices, retail and specialty commercial and parking.

Several restaurants and beach oriented businesses would be located on the ocean side of Pacific Coast Highway.

Suggested under this concept is a five-story office building west of Lake Street on Pacific Coast Highway, the highest building in the plan.

Selich said that public costs for improvements would again be in the $6.3 million range.

He said that acquisition of the land could cost about $8.3 million but that costs could be minimized when the city re-sells the property to developers.

He added that some business people in the area would be relocated along with about 90 residents of ocean front hotels.

A pedestrian mall also is included in this concept.

If the VTN plan is the one to be eventually followed, existing structures would be removed and replaced with higher intensity development including office buildings and an 800-room hotel.

The pier also would be refurbished to handle additional shops and upgrade its appearance.

The public costs for the improvements would be about $6.3 million with $8.3 million more for land acquisition, Selich said.

He added that there would be additional costs to develop parking facilities.

Woman Dies Of Poisoning

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles police say a Lynwood woman was killed when she apparently accidentally poisoned herself by mistaking hot water for what turned out to be a deadly chemical.

Chamoy Nummesri, 35, was working at her job at a jewelry manufacturing company Wednesday when she mixed a headache powder with what she thought was hot water and drank it.

But it turned out to be sodium cyanide, a colorless and poisonous chemical used in industrial cleaning of jewelry.

Poor Showing Ends Dallas' JFK Service

DALLAS (AP) — An annual memorial service on the anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination has been canceled this year because of sharply reduced public attendance.

Less than two dozen people showed up for last year's observance at the site where Kennedy was slain Nov. 22, 1963, said a spokesman for Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom when asked Wednesday about the service.

Folsom sent a letter to the Greater Dallas Council of Churches this month asking it to encourage Dallas residents to observe the anniversary at their individual houses of worship.

"It had gotten to the point where we had more organizers at the memorial than participants," said Folsom aide David Miller. "We thought we could reach more people through their individual houses of worship than asking them to come downtown to the site."

Monday marks the 13th anniversary of the fatal attack on Kennedy while he was riding in a motorcade in downtown Dallas.

Services Set For Admiral J. C. Alderman

Rear Adm. John C. Alderman (U.S. Navy, Ret.,) died Wednesday at San Clemente General Hospital. Admiral Alderman, a resident of Laguna Beach, was 70.

Visitation will be from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Sheffer Laguna Beach Mortuary. Memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Unitarian Universalist Fellowship Center, 429 Cypress Dr., Laguna Beach.

Admiral Alderman was graduated in 1928 from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He served in the Navy for 34 years. Among his many honors and decorations are the Navy Cross, Legion of Merit, the commendation ribbon and ribbon for presidential citation.

Burial will be at Willamette National Cemetery in Portland, Ore.

Admiral Alderman is survived by his wife, Abigail of Laguna Beach; sons, John of Georgia, Bill and Tim of Oakland; and David of Santa Clara; a sister, Ruth Tate of New York; his mother, Lola Alderman of McMinnville, Oregon; and four grandchildren.

The family requests that memorial donations be made to the American Cancer Society or the Unitarian Service Commission.

Hay Burning Arson Probed

HOLTVILLE (AP) — Imperial County sheriff's deputies say armed ranchers have started to patrol their fields at night after the deliberate burning of 1,300 tons of hay in a series of incidents.

Investigators said Wednesday the fires have destroyed hay valued at about $120,000. The arson began Nov. 8.

The 30 farms which produce thousands of acres of hay in the area have posted a $1,000 reward for information leading to conviction of the persons responsible for the fires.

'Test-tube' Papa Reports Ad Paid Off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man who advertised last year for a "test tube" mother to bear his child through artificial insemination is the proud father of a baby girl.

"Childless husband with infertile wife wants test tube baby," said a want ad published April 15, 1975, in the San Francisco Chronicle. "English or Northwestern European background. Indicate fee and age. All answers confidential."

The man agreed to tell his story to a Chronicle reporter on the condition that he and the mother remain anonymous.

He was the last of his family line and said that when the ad was placed he wanted a child — his child — to carry on his family name.

He chose artificial insemination because, he said, it would be immoral for him to have a sexual relationship outside of marriage to father a child.

News stories about his plight brought 181 letters from women as far as Bangladesh, he said. Letters were sent to an ad number at the Chronicle, and the man hired a lawyer and a doctor to take care of selection and the actual impregnation.

The man was never to meet the mother of his child.

The woman selected was described only as an attractive, blonde, unmarried office worker living in the San Francisco Bay area. She had never had a child before.

Last December, the father visited a doctor's office where he produced a sample of his sperm. After he left, the doctor injected the sperm into the mother.

"It took the first time," the father said.

The mother told her boss and co-workers what she was doing. According to the man's lawyer, her boss at first reacted with, " 'That kind of thing isn't going on in my office,' as though there was sexual pleasure involved."

He changed his mind when the mother argued that she was doing something morally positive.

The baby, five pounds and six ounces with red hair and blue eyes, was born Sept. 6. The father said there were some medical problems at first, but she is home and doing well.

His wife, he said, was a "bit dubious" about the idea at first, "but she loves that baby now like it was her own."

State Ignored Reports On Hospitals—Prober

Situation Known in January

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What has been recently described as shocking conditions at state mental hospitals are not really new at all, the chairman of a state investigative panel said in Santa Ana today.

Developer Nathan Shapell, who heads the state's 13-member Little Hoover Commission, said the shocking conditions were described in a commission report last January but were ignored by state health officials.

"This commission will not rest until the level of care in state hospitals meets the standards that are compatible with a society that calls itself civilized," Shapell said as a one-day hearing opened.

"How many times must these problems be described before positive action is taken," he continued. "We don't have very much time, people are dying."

Ray Procunier, chief deputy director of the state health department, told Shapell the recommendations in the January report were not really ignored.

But he described the reaction of state officials as being "paralyzed" by the report.

He said state officials realized there were problems in the mental facilities but they took little action because they wanted to be right.

RELATED STORY PAGE A5

He said the officials should have been making decisions to correct problems rather than searching for right answers.

Procunier said the revelations unveiled during a Ventura County Grand Jury investigation into deaths at Camarillo State Hospital should not be shocking.

"These revelations now are not new. They are all in the (commission) report," he said.

And while Procunier said steps are under way to improve hospital administration and staffing, Shapell asked where the dollars will come from to make improvements.

He said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. vetoed two bills to improve hospitals and asked, "will the governor change his mind now?"

He asked Procunier if wards of 45 severely ill mental patients can adequately be handled by

Miss Walters signed a contract recently to co-anchor the ABC Evening News with Harry Reasoner.

Schenkel offered, "Barbara is the kind of girl who would vote a town dry, then move."

Burns: Tax Cut Unneeded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," Burns said. "My mind on the subject, however, is by no means closed."

President Ford will send to Congress in January his proposal to cut taxes across the board by $10 billion, with an increase in the Social Security tax rate that would mean a net cut of $8 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider asking Congress for a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Although a tax cut could be enacted without Burns' approval, some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York.

His remarks came as the government reduced its estimate of growth in the nation's economic output to 3.8 percent during the fall quarter.

That rate is just below the level generally considered necessary

New Irvine Center Project Revealed

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Plans for a Woodbridge commercial center that will include the first movie theater in Irvine were unveiled Wednesday at a joint meeting of four city commissions.

Irvine Company officials briefed commissioners on their plans for the activity corridor that will run through Woodbridge and also on their plans for the next phase of residential development in Woodbridge.

According to Jan Vail, of the Irvine Company's commercial division, the commercial center is expected to be completed by summer of 1978.

In addition to a four-screen movie theater, the first phase of the activity corridor will include a market, a drug store with a soda fountain, a car wash and other retail uses, such as a hardware store and bicycle shop.

The development will be located between Barranca Parkway and the San Diego Creek, with a wooden bridge over Barranca Parkway connecting the center to the residents in the north quadrants.

Additional facilities will be built in the activity corridor and two restaurants are planned for the edge of the new northeast quadrant, overlooking North Lake.

According to David Kuhn of the Irvine Company's residential division, the northeast quadrant is planned to include 1,942 units with a population of about 6,115.

That would include detached housing, attached housing, moderate income attached housing and apartments. There are

Slain Youth's Body Found

Orange County Sheriff's officers ran fingerprint tests today to determine the identity of a young man whose body was found Wednesday in the Tustin area.

Homicide investigators said the man, about 20, was strangled with a length of rope or cord. They believe he may have been killed in another area and then dumped in the Panorama Heights residential area.

Officers said the body was found on the side of a slope by a local resident who lives on Vista Panorama. They said all identification had been removed from the victim's clothing.

Big Hashish Raid Made by Accident

Two Newport Beach patrolmen who thought they had spotted a burglar, ended up arresting a man early today for possession of 120 pounds of hashish worth an estimated $545,000 on the illicit drug market.

Jailed was Robert Edward Smith II, 27, of 4901 Seashore Drive. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

According to police, Smith was arrested at 3 a.m. by officers who allegedly found the drug in the home Smith shares with his wife and two young children. His wife was not home at the time of Smith's arrest, police said.

According to investigators, the alleged cache of hash was discovered by patrol Officers Michael Jackson and Andrew Gonis.

The two officers were patrolling the area when they spotted a man who appeared to be tampering with the doorknob of Smith's house.

The two officers stopped to investigate and the man told them he was a friend of the occupant of the house.

To prove his point, the man opened the front door and walked in with the officers behind him.

Knifers Frightened

Kids Foil Hostage Grab

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — First grade pupils helped an elementary school teacher flee unharmed when a pair of escaped convicts held a knife to her throat and tried to take her hostage.

"He could have stabbed me in the heart or the back," said Peggy O'Brien, the teacher stopped by the convicts outside St. Patrick's Elementary School. "But the children scared him. He dropped his knife to his side."

Mrs. O'Brien said she ran at that moment, guiding the children to the school entrance and inside. The two convicts fled, and later were captured.

The convicts stopped her as she was leaving her car Wednesday and preparing to enter the school. One of them held an eight-inch butcher knife to her throat, Mrs. O'Brien said. She screamed.

Two pupils came running up and other children followed, said Mrs. O'Brien, a first-grade teacher. Their presence, she said, made the knife wielder nervous.

One of the men grabbed a set of keys she was holding. But Mrs. O'Brien said they were keys to the school and not her car.

Until the children came up, Mrs. O'Brien said, the men were trying to force her to get back in her car and drive them wherever they wanted to go.

She said one of them told her, "There's cops all over the place and you're going to drive us out of here."

When Mrs. O'Brien and the children entered the school, the fugitives fled into a nearby woods. Police failed to catch them there, but less than four hours later apprehended them without resistance in a shopping center parking lot in the same north Jacksonville area.

Cops Quell SC 'Orgy'

A man who refused to identify himself complained to San Clemente police Wednesday night that a wild party next door was keeping him awake.

"I have to get up early to work," he said. "It sounds like a —— orgy over there."

also eight parks planned, ranging from a .6 acre site to a four-acre parcel that will be used for a tennis club.

The Irvine Company is also proposing that a small convenience market be built among the residences, but some commissioners already have indicated they are not in favor of mixing residential and commercial uses in that manner.

Those attending the joint meeting represented the planning, community services, transportation and bike trails commissions.

It was strictly a preview session and the blueprints are scheduled to come before each commission during a lengthy review process that begins next month at the transportation commission.

Kuhn said that he expects the residential quadrant to be open a little sooner than the activity corridor, probably in early 1978.

Several concerns were expressed by commissioners, including a fear that parking will be insufficient in the commercial sector.

The Irvine Company proposes sharing parking spaces, meaning that the theater would use the spaces at night and the other facilities in the daytime.

But some commissioners said they felt that matinees and other daytime uses of the theater would cause problems.

Irvine Church, School Okayed

The Irvine Planning Commission has approved a request by the American Lutheran Church to build a new sanctuary and pre-school at a site in Irvine.

The new structure will be located at the northeast corner of Irvine Center Drive and Yale Avenue, in a zone designated for agricultural uses.

Church officials said they plan to build a sanctuary, an office building and a pre-school facility, plus provide parking space for 97 cars.

South County

Planner Backs Building Quota

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Planning Commissioner William McDougall of Laguna Niguel indicted Wednesday he would favor a construction moratorium in the south county if the rate of development exceeds government-imposed growth limits.

It was the second time in two weeks that McDougall has stated his support for some kind of annual development quota that would permit population growth up to — but not beyond — the 1995 figure of 711,000 desired by the County Board of Supervisors.

The county is attempting to establish a development monitoring program to keep track of new construction using the perspective of that ultimate population figure.

SACC activist Nance North asked McDougall what would happen if the planning commission discovers that south county development has already gone beyond its present allotments.

"If it happens that we are already over the growth projection, I would favor a long pause," said McDougall.

During his talk, McDougall assured members of the community group liaison organization that its recommendations on proposed development are heard and heeded by the planning commission.

"We really do pay attention to the SACC recommendations," he said. "We even put items over if we don't have a recommendation. You are a very essential part of the planning process in Orange County."

TAX CUT. . .

to whittle unemployment, which was at 7.9 percent of the labor force in October with 7.6 million Americans out of work.

The Commerce Department estimated last month that the Gross National Product—or total output of goods and services — grew at an annual rate of four percent during the third quarter. The revised figures show an unexpectedly poor performance in foreign trade.

Referring to a tax cut, Burns said he "will weigh the issue carefully" if the economy appears to need such a stimulus and if there are "economies" in federal spending.

While some of Carter's advisers have said they would prefer a one-time tax rebate, Burns said he would prefer a broad-based permanent tax reduction of both business and individuals, similar to a tax cut enacted in the early 1960s.

"Such a measure, on a responsible scale, would minimize social conflict for our country," he said.

Carter, on the other hand, has said he will consider tax cuts aimed at benefiting low and middle-income workers and has said nothing about cutting taxes to benefit business.

In any case, Burns said there is no need for a tax cut at the present time, partly because it could add to inflationary pressures and partly because he expects the economy to resume solid growth without one.

Oil Drillers Run Into Snag

Plagued by troubles in anchoring their self-propelled floating oil platform Aleutian Key, Gulf Oil Corporation officials today reported it will now be 40 days before they complete a test well off Tanner Banks.

Gulf's exploratory oil drilling site is about 28 miles from San Clemente Island. Keydril Corporation, operators of the oil rig for Gulf, have spent the last 12 days getting the drilling vessel properly anchored.

Gulf plans to drill the exploratory well to a depth of 9,000 feet in one of six undersea oil leases held by the company in the Tanner Banks area. Aleutian Key is operating in 680 feet of water.

Two Face Eviction Hearing

GROSSE POINTE PARK, Mich. (AP) — Because they are single, Donald J. Mazzola and Richard Grover are being forced by neighbors to leave the four-bedroom house they rented in this affluent Detroit suburb.

The neighbors' fear, that they would harm the character of the area, carries weight since a local law forbids occupancy of single-family dwellings by anyone not related by blood, marriage or adoption.

According to a local official, however, the ordinance is not enforced against single women.

Mazzola, 28, divorced father of two small sons, and Gronan, 30, a used car salesman, moved here after learning that a house they shared in Detroit for 1½ years was to be sold.

They looked for a replacement, and the tree-shaded home for $350 a month just fit the bill.

Aware of the zoning ordinance, Gronan inquired at city hall, came away convinced things could be worked out and decided to file for an exception. They even moved in some belongings before the hearing.

Neighbors, notified by mail that a public hearing would be held, filed objections. The neighbors had never met the two.

Councilman Charles Tompkins voted for the exception. He said the objections probably arose because the applicants were men, but noted that permission had been granted many times for women to live together without any objection.

Mazzola said he would like to continue the legal battle but added moving expenses already had cut heavily into their budget.

"I would like to do it for the sake of other people and to straighten out these Grosse Pointe snobs," he said.

Laguna OKs 15-year Cable TV Pact

By JACK CHAPPELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Storer Cable TV was granted a new 15-year franchise Wednesday to provide service within the city of Laguna Beach.

Storer will receive a rate increase from $6 to $6.75 monthly for residential service. The fee allows the cable firm a 15 percent return on its investment.

The Laguna Beach rate compares with $7.50 paid by county subscribers to the Storer system.

Storer is committed under the franchise to improve and expand service and to improvements in handling subscriber complaints.

Bob Herman, one of the city's negotiating team members, said the rate increase was needed to provide Storer with incentive to improve its system.

The company is to begin a complete rebuild of the Laguna Beach system next year. Additionally, the company will expand local programming, provide a "pay channel" for televising of current motion pictures, and resume (pending FCC approval) carrying San Diego stations.

The company is bound to resolve subscriber complaints within 72 hours, or rebate payments to subscribers for the lost service. The city may step in to help resolve complaints, as well.

The rate increase will be effective Jan. 1. The franchise requires an 18-month period to lapse before a new or subsequent rate increase can be sought from the city.

The City Council passed both the franchise and an enabling ordinance unanimously and had high praise for the citizens' group.

The action concluded more than six months of formal negotiating between the cable television firm and the city, and more than two years of work by a citizens cable television committee reworking the city's old fashioned franchise arrangement.

"This committee represents the epitome of citizen involvement. They were full-time employees of the city and haven't received a cent," Councilman Jon Brand said.

There was no public opposition to the proposal. Only one person spoke during the public hearing and that was to seek clarification of two questions.

State Ignored Reports On Hospitals—Prober

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What has been recently described as shocking conditions at state mental hospitals are not really new at all, the chairman of a state investigative panel said in Santa Ana today.

Developer Nathan Shapell, who heads the state's 13-member Little Hoover Commission, said the shocking conditions were described in a commission report last January but were ignored by state health officials.

"This commission will not rest until the level of care in state hospitals meets the standards that are compatible with a society that calls itself civilized," Shapell said as a one-day hearing opened.

"How many times must these problems be described before positive action is taken," he continued. "We don't have very much time, people are dying."

Ray Procunier, chief deputy director of the state health department, told Shapell the recommendations in the January report were not really ignored.

But he described the reaction of state officials as being "paralyzed" by the report.

He said state officials realized there were problems in the mental facilities but they took little action because they wanted to be right.

He said the officials should have been making decisions to correct problems rather than searching for right answers.

Procunier said the revelations unveiled during a Ventura County Grand Jury investigation into deaths at Camarillo State Hospital should not be shocking.

"These revelations now are not new. They are all in the (commission) report," he said.

And while Procunier said steps are under way to improve hospital administration and staffing, Shapell asked where the dollars will come from to make improvements.

He said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. vetoed two bills to improve hospitals and asked, "will the governor change his mind now?"

He asked Procunier if wards of 45 severely ill mental patients can adequately be handled by

Burns: Tax Cut Unneeded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," Burns said. "My mind on the subject, however, is by no means closed."

President Ford will send to Congress in January his proposal to cut taxes across the board by $10 billion, with an increase in the Social Security tax rate that would mean a net cut of $8 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider asking Congress for a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Although a tax cut could be enacted without Burns' approval, some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York.

His remarks came as the government reduced its estimate of growth in the nation's economic output to 3.8 percent during the

San Juan to Get Trial Newsletter

By ANNE COOPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

San Juan Capistrano city councilmen voted 4-0 Wednesday to issue a city newsletter on a trial basis, with 4,000 issues to be printed in English and 500 in Spanish.

Councilman Kenneth Friess said Mission Bell Ranch homeowners Joe and Judy St. Jean and Armando and Therese Gomez will be paid $3 an hour to compose the first issue.

The two couples have been responsible for compiling, printing and distributing a monthly Mission Bell newsletter for residents of the south San Juan tract.

Friess said the couples will compile city news and submit it to councilmen privately for their comments before the newsletter is typed and printed on city equipment and mailed bulk rate — at taxpayers expense — to city residents.

The target date for the first newsletter is Dec. 1. Friess said he would take responsibility for editing of the city-sponsored publication to avoid error in editorial content.

He said the newsletter will be strictly informational, with no editorializing, advertisements or justifications of city positions.

City Manager James Mocalis said his experience with city newsletters in other cities leads him to view them as having a built-in capacity to become politically troublesome.

"If we are going to put out a newsletter, we must do it in a most circumspect manner, avoiding any slant," he said.

Mocalis also said he would pre-

School Board Chief Injured On Motorcycle

Sagar said he was struck from behind while cruising Alicia Parkway in Irvine at 25 miles per hour, by a car cruising at a faster speed.

The trustee broke his right femur — the big bone in his upper leg — and will be on crutches for a couple of months after his expected release from the hospital this weekend.

Sagar had still not regained full strength in his right leg as the result of a crash on his motorcycle a year ago, when he broke his right tibia—the big bone in his lower leg.

Laguna Police Nab Burglary Suspect

David D. Wise was booked on suspicion of burglary following the 3:10 a.m. incident and held in Laguna Beach City Jail pending court appearance.

Laguna Beach Police Sgt. Terry Temple said he and officer Don Barney responded to the silent alarm and found a large plate glass window had been broken in.

Additional officers were called to the scene and all exits were covered while officers waited the arrival of the restaurant manager.

Officers made repeated attempts to contact whoever was in the building via announcements over a public address system urging surrender. No one responded.

When the manager's arrival was delayed, Sgt. Temple, and Officers Barney, Jim Lansford and Doug Johnson entered the darkened restaurant.

Sgt. Temple said he came upon Wise lying on the floor, apparently asleep. No property was taken.

Valuable Watch Taken in Niguel

A burglar who walked into a Laguna Niguel home while the occupant was practicing on a nearby golf course took a watch valued at $1,500 from the master bedroom.

Orange County sheriff's officers said the theft was reported by housewife JOyce Elizabeth Slayman, 48, of 30701 Fairgreens West. She said nothing else of value was taken by the intruder.

Slain Youth's Body Found

Orange County Sheriff's officers ran fingerprint tests today to determine the identity of a young man whose body was found Wednesday in the Tustin area.

Homicide investigators said the man, about 20, was strangled with a length of rope or cord. They believe he may have been killed in another area and then dumped in the Panorama Heights residential area.

Officers said the body was found on the side of a slope by a local resident who lives on Vista Panorama. They said all identification had been removed from the victim's clothing.

Girl Born to 'Test Tube Dad'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man who advertised last year for a "test tube" mother to bear his child through artificial insemination is the proud father of a baby girl.

"Childless husband with infertile wife wants test tube baby," said a want ad published April 15, 1975, in the San Francisco Chronicle. "English or Northwestern European background. Indicate fee and age. All answers confidential."

The man agreed to tell his story to a Chronicle reporter on the condition that he and the mother remain anonymous.

He was the last of his family line and said that when the ad was placed he wanted a child — his child — to carry on his family name.

He chose artificial insemination because, he said, it would be immoral for him to have a sexual relationship outside of marriage to father a child.

News stories about his plight brought 181 letters from women as far as Bangladesh, he said. Letters were sent to an ad number at the Chronicle, and the man hired a lawyer and a doctor to take care of selection and the actual impregnation.

The man was never to meet the mother of his child.

The woman selected was described only as an attractive, blonde, unmarried office worker living in the San Francisco Bay area. She had never had a child before.

Last December, the father visited a doctor's office where he produced a sample of his sperm. After he left, the doctor injected the sperm into the mother.

"It took the first time," the father said.

The mother told her boss and co-workers what she was doing. According to the man's lawyer, her boss at first reacted with, "'That kind of thing isn't going on in my office,' as though there were sexual pleasure involved."

He changed his mind when the mother argued that she was doing something morally positive.

The baby, five pounds and six ounces with red hair and blue eyes, was born Sept. 6. The father said there were some medical problems at first, but she is home and doing well.

His wife, he said, was a "bit dubious" about the idea at first, "but she loves that baby now like it was her own."

Building Quota Favored

County Planner Supports Development Moratorium

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Planning Commissioner William McDougall of Laguna Niguel indicted Wednesday he would favor a construction moratorium in the south county if the rate of development exceeds government-imposed growth limits.

It was the second time in two weeks that McDougall has stated his support for some kind of annual development quota that would permit population growth up to — but not beyond — the 1995 figure of 711,000 desired by the county Board of Supervisors.

The county is attempting to establish a development monitoring program to keep track of new construction using the perspective of that ultimate population figure.

McDougall's comment on the possibility of a moratorium came during a question and answer session after his hour-long address.

SACC activist Nance North asked McDougall what would happen if the planning commission discovers that south county development has already gone beyond its present allotments.

"If it happens that we are already over the growth projection, I would favor a long pause," said McDougall.

During his talk, McDougall assured members of the community group liaison organization that its recommendations on proposed development are heard and heeded by the planning commission.

"We really do pay attention to the SACC recommendations," he said. "We even put items over if we don't have a recommendation. You are a very essential part of the planning process in Orange County."

SACC and the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council recently expressed concern that their findings and comments on planned developments were not being heard by the county.

McDougall noted that the county planning commission has been caught up in a new concept in county government organization —the agency.

He said it is "the only way to organize a government these days but the planning commission is a still trying to find a role for itself."

Since he joined the panel five months ago, McDougall said a "new majority" has emerged on the commission, replacing the 2-2 and 3-2 votes of the past.

"We're not always together but the 3-2 votes gave way to 4-1 votes and, though it isn't always reported by the media, we often go 5-0," he said.

McDougall lauded a recent County Administrative Office study of the planning commission's role in the new Environmental Management Agency that revealed a number of shortcomings.

He said the study also "laid to rest the ghost that the communications from the commission to supervisors were not being handled well. There was no reason to think that this big agency with the little commission in the middle were not getting along."

The SACC members were told that the hottest issue the commission has handled since McDougall took his seat was the low-cost senior citizen housing proposal for the Marcroft property in Laguna Hills, which the commissioner called a "clash of forces, neither of which could be totally denied."

He also reiterated a remark made last week during commission discussion of growth monitoring proposals.

"I don't know where we are and no one else on the commission or staff knows where we are, either," he said. "We have to know how many houses can be built and approved so we'll know when the spigot has to be turned down."

Skaters' Problems Studied

The Laguna Beach City Couucil ordered formation of a citizens committee Wednesday to "recommend constructive solutions" to problems involving use of skateboards on city streets.

Further, the council instructed city staff to check out city-owned property to see where special skateboard runs could be created.

The council's action came after deliberation on a three-page report from Police Chief Jon Sparks detailing the characteristics of use, the hazards and enforcement problems of skateboarding.

The council pointedly refused to consider partial or complete prohibition of skateboarding in the community.

Chief Sparks noted that in the past the city has had similar difficulties involving swimmers versus surfers on the city's beaches.

"A reasonable solution was reached whereby surfers and swimmers can enjoy the water at the same time without creating hazards to each other.

"Perhaps such a rational and realistic solution can be found regarding our youthful skateboard enthusiasts and the other citizens who must use our city streets and sidewalks without being annoyed by safety hazards," Sparks said.

The police chief said that skateboarding is more than a sport to its devotees. Many youngsters and adults use the wheeled boards as transportation. Because of this, attempts to ban the boards from the streets is usually doomed, he said.

"The Newport Beach ordinance prohibits skateboards on streets with a six percent or higher grade. Such streets are well posted. According to officials in Newport Beach the ordinance is enforced by police.

Clemente Pays for Rush

Lack of Pipeline Bid Jacks Price $25,000

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Urgency to construct a new, although temporary, sewage disposal pipeline to the sea has cost the city of San Clemente an extra $25,000.

The city is under intense pressure from the San Diego Regional Water Quality Control Board to replace an existing ocean outfall that was built in the 1930s and is so worn that one official said a finger could poke holes in it.

The water board imposed strict sanctions against the city until sewer management improvements are made. Among the sanctions is a partial ban on sewer connections, which has cramped local building.

About a month ago, the city rushed to replace the outfall to show the board good faith, and using its emergency powers the council hired Travelair Inc. of Santa Ana, a jet aircraft leasing firm, to do the job.

The company would use City Engineer Phil Peter's plan to build a new pipeline on the beach and lift it into place with four big helicopters. The cost: $20,000 then.

The task was to have been accomplished in just one day, weeks ago.

But the city attorney afterward advised the council that while it's action to award the Travelair contract was probably legal, it was not legal to obtain the materials for the steel pipeline without advertising for competitive bidding.

That legal requirement, combined with the council's haste to convince the water board of its good intentions, cost the city $12,000, because when bids were revealed this week, Travelair's low bid was $32,000.

Company executives explained that the helicopters needed to do the work were out of the country on another job, and would have to be flown back.

Wednesday Peter told the council that an apparent mistake in the Travelair bid cost the city another $13,000. Travelair, Peter said, neglected to post the legally required bond with its bid.

On the advice of Peter, city attorney F. MacKenzie Brown and city manager Gerald Weeks, the council accepted instead the next lowest bid, at $44,900, from Sub-marine Engineers Associates of Newport Beach.

Councilman Thomas O'Keefe bitterly blamed the state coastal commission, exclaiming to Peter, "so in effect the coastal commission just cost us $24,000!"

Peter told him, "You could look at it that way."

But today Peter said it would be difficult to blame the commission because it required no hearings on the outfall project. The replacement project was classified as repair work, not subject to full review.

Councilman Tony Di Giovanni briefly attempted to find a way to save the Travelair project, asking whether the city might reject all bids and readvertise.

But Peter said that would be "gambling" since the bids might climb still higher.

The outfall project, scheduled to begin next week, will be accomplished from barges, rather than helicopters.

fer having city staff type and duplicate the newsletter. He said having volunteers use city equipment has interfered in the past with smooth operation of city business.

Councilman Yvon Heckscher said that unless the newsletter is so carefully edited as to be a completely antiseptic recitation of meeting announcements and the like, it would likely become an instant creator of controversy.

"If the newsletter is so antiseptic, people won't be interested in it. It will just wind up in the round file," he said.

Friess said the city has a responsibility to educate people as much as possible.

"How do we educate without taking position?" Heckscher asked.

Councilman John Sweeney said he viewed the available alternatives either as having the city take a position or else feeding people pablum. He said he would be willing to support the project, nevertheless, to see how it goes.

Services Set For Admiral J. C. Alderman

Rear Adm. John C. Alderman (U.S. Navy, Ret.,) died Wednesday at San Clemente General Hospital. Admiral Alderman, a resident of Laguna Beach, was 70.

Visitation will be from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Sheffer Laguna Beach Mortuary. Memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Unitarian Universalist Fellowship Center, 429 Cypress Dr., Laguna Beach.

Admiral Alderman was graduated in 1928 from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He served in the Navy for 34 years. Among his many honors and decorations are the Navy Cross, Legion of Merit, the commendation ribbon and ribbon for presidential citation.

Burial will be at Willamette National Cemetery in Portland, Ore.

Admiral Alderman is survived by his wife, Abigail of Laguna Beach; sons, John of Georgia, Bill and Tim of Oakland; and David of Santa Clara; a sister, Ruth Tate of New York; his mother, Lola Alderman of McMinnville, Oregon; and four grandchildren.

The family requests that memorial donations be made to the American Cancer Society or the Unitarian Service Commission.

That rate is just below the level generally considered necessary to whittle unemployment, which was at 7.9 percent of the labor force in October with 7.6 million Americans out of work.

The Commerce Department estimated last month that the Gross National Product —or total output of goods and services — grew at an annual rate of four percent during the third quarter. The revised figures show an unexpectedly poor performance in foreign trade.

Referring to a tax cut, Burns said he "will weigh the issue carefully" if the economy appears to need such a stimulus and if there are "economies" in federal spending.

While some of Carter's advisers have said they would prefer a one-time tax rebate, Burns said he would prefer a broad-based permanent tax reduction of both business and individuals, similar to a tax cut enacted in the early 1960s.

"Such a measure, on a responsible scale, would minimize social conflict for our country," he said.

Carter, on the other hand, has said he will consider tax cuts aimed at benefiting low and middle-income workers and has said nothing about cutting taxes to benefit business.

In any case, Burns said there is no need for a tax cut at the present time, partly because it could add to inflationary pressures and partly because he expects the economy to resume solid growth without one.

Police Probe Unusual SC Burglaries

— Someone carried off one white toilet bowl and water closet, plus a 100-foot electric extension cord from a house construction site at 1418 Avenida de la Estrella.

— Rex Baker, of 619 Calle Campana, reported that someone entered his unlocked apartment and took both of his telephones. The thief also took $50 hidden under one of the phones.

— Another man told police that when his girlfriend and he broke up, she left with his clothes and other personal belongings which he valued at $2,065.

Suicide Try Effect Nil

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) —Gary Gilmore's sleeping pill overdose may have been a sympathy ploy or a genuine suicide attempt, but it probably won't influence his chances of facing a firing squad, the head of the state pardons board says.

Hospital officials said the 35-year-old convicted killer, who fought efforts to delay his execution, was to be returned to his Death Row cell at the Utah State Prison today.

The father's lawyer said there was no precedent for such a case.

Airlines Must Muffle Domestic Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary William Coleman said today the government will require U.S. airlines to muffle their old domestic jets or replace them with quieter, new ones within eight years.

Some of the jets must be muffled or replaced in half that time.

In all, the requirements apply to 1,654 planes, more than three-fourths of the jets in use domestically by U.S. airlines. These jets have been exempt from federal anti-noise regulations because they were built before the regulations went into effect in 1969.

At a joint news conference with Federal Aviation Administrator John McLucas, the secretary said the government also will require pilots to change landing and takeoff procedures to lessen noise.

McLucas said the pilots will be required to start descents closer to airports and make minimum use of noise-producing wing flaps, used to increase lift during takeoffs and landings. He did not say how these requirements would be enforced.

McLucas said these changes, starting Jan. 1, will reduce noise on the ground by about 15 to 30 percent.

Coleman said the changes in planes and procedure will help but "persons who live near airports should not believe they will solve all airport noise problems."

He called airport noise his department's "No. 1 aviation environmental problem" and said excessive noise is an unacceptable intrusion into the lives of six million Americans.

The requirement to modify planes or replace them, which Coleman said will cost the airline between $5 billion and $8 billion, also goes into effect Jan. 1 — 20 days before President-elect Jimmy Carter takes office.

The broad outlines of the new policy were announced by President Ford during his unsuccesssful election campaign. The government might help the airlines finance some of the cost. But Coleman did not say how much or where the money would come from.

He will hold a public hearing on the financing in December.

Coleman and McLucas also acknowledged that local airport operators have the right to take

State Ignored Reports On Hospitals—Prober

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What has been recently described as shocking conditions at state mental hospitals are not really new at all, the chairman of a state investigative panel said in Santa Ana today.

Developer Nathan Shapell, who heads the state's 13-member Little Hoover Commission, said the shocking conditions were described in a commission report last January but were ignored by state health officials.

"This commission will not rest until the level of care in state hospitals meets the standards that are compatible with a society that calls itself civilized," Shapell said as a one-day hearing opened. (See related story Page A5.)

"How many times must these problems be described before positive action is taken," he continued. "We don't have very much time, people are dying."

Ray Procunier, chief deputy director of the state health department, told Shapell the recommendations in the January report were not really ignored.

But he described the reaction of state officials as being "paralyzed" by the report.

He said state officials realized there were problems in the mental facilities but they took little action because they wanted to be right.

He said the officials should have been making decisions to correct problems rather than searching for right answers.

Procunier said the revelations unveiled during a Ventura County Grand Jury investigation into deaths at Camarillo State Hospital should not be shocking.

"These revelations now are not new. They are all in the (commission) report," he said.

And while Procunier said steps are under way to improve hospital administration and staffing, Shapell asked where the dollars will come from to make improvements.

He said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. vetoed two bills to improve hospitals and asked, "will the governor change his mind now?"

He asked Procunier if wards of

Burns: Tax Cut Unneeded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," Burns said. "My mind on the subject, however, is by no means closed."

President Ford will send to Congress in January his proposal to cut taxes across the board by $10 billion, with an increase in the Social Security tax rate that would mean a net cut of $8 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider asking Congress for a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Although a tax cut could be enacted without Burns' approval, some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York.

His remarks came as the government reduced its estimate of growth in the nation's economic output to 3.8 percent during the fall quarter.

That rate is just below the level generally considered necessary to whittle unemployment, which was at 7.9 percent of the labor force in October with 7.6 million

Raps Barbara Walters' Pay

"If Barbara Walters is worth $1 million, what are we worth? ABC Sports is the only thing that makes money for the network," Schenkel said in a question-and-answer session before the Phoenix Executives Club.

Miss Walters signed a contract recently to co-anchor the ABC Evening News with Harry Reasoner.

Schenkel offered, "Barbara is the kind of girl who would vote a town dry, then move."

'Test Tube' Mom Bears Baby Girl

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man who advertised last year for a "test tube" mother to bear his child through artificial insemination is the proud father of a baby girl.

"Childless husband with infertile wife wants test tube baby," said a want ad published April 15, 1975, in the San Francisco Chronicle. "English or Northwestern European background. Indicate fee and age. All answers confidential."

The man agreed to tell his story to a Chronicle reporter on the condition that he and the mother remain anonymous.

He was the last of his family line and said that when the ad was placed he wanted a child — his child — to carry on his family name.

He chose artificial insemination because, he said, it would be immoral for him to have a sexual relationship outside of marriage to father a child.

News stories about his plight brought 181 letters from women as far as Bangladesh, he said. Letters were sent to an ad number at the Chronicle, and the man hired a lawyer and a doctor to take care of selection and the actual impregnation.

The man was never to meet the mother of his child.

The woman selected was described only as an attractive, blonde, unmarried office worker living in the San Francisco Bay area. She had never had a child before.

Last December, the father visited a doctor's office where he produced a sample of his sperm. After he left, the doctor injected the sperm into the mother.

"It took the first time," the father said.

The mother told her boss and co-workers what she was doing. According to the man's lawyer, her boss at first reacted with, " 'That kind of thing isn't going on in my office,' as though there was sexual pleasure involved."

He changed his mind when the mother argued that she was doing something morally positive.

The baby, five pounds and six ounces with red hair and blue eyes, was born Sept. 6. The father said there were some medical problems at first, but she is home and doing well.

Big Hashish Raid Made by Accident

Two Newport Beach patrolmen who thought they had spotted a burglar, ended up arresting a man early today for possession of 120 pounds of hashish worth an estimated $545,000 on the illicit drug market.

Jailed was Robert Edward Smith II, 27, of 4901 Seashore Drive. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

According to police, Smith was arrested at 3 a.m. by officers who allegedly found the drug in the home Smith shares with his wife and two young children. His wife was not home at the time of Smith's arrest, police said.

According to investigators, the alleged cache of hash was discovered by patrol Officers Michael Jackson and Andrew Gonis.

The two officers were patrolling the area when they spotted a man who appeared to be tampering with the doorknob of Smith's house.

The two officers stopped to investigate and the man told them he was a friend of the occupant of the house.

To prove his point, the man opened the front door and walked in with the officers behind him.

The large quantity of the narcotic was found after a search warrant had been obtained and Smith was booked for possession of hash for sale. The man the patrolmen first thought to be a burglar was booked on an outstanding traffic warrant.

The children were turned over to Smith's parents.

Gullett Signs With Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have signed free-agent pitcher Don Gullett to a multi-year contract, it was announced this afternoon.

Gullett is the sixth client of agent Jerry Kapstein to sign in the last three days. He has a career record of 91-44.

Earlier, the Atlanta Braves announced the signing of outfielder Gary Mathews of San Francisco.

Cops Quell SC 'Orgy'

A man who refused to identify himself complained to San Clemente police Wednesday night that a wild party next door was keeping him awake.

"I have to get up early to work," he said. "It sounds like a —— orgy over there."

Mesa to Cite Parked Trailers

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Costa Mesa police are going to crack down on owners of house and boat trailers and other unattached vehicles parked on city streets.

And that will mean fewer little pink warning cards attached to the illegally parked vehicles, and more $15 citations and $25 vehicle tow-away charges, officers warn.

Although a city council-revised parking ordinance took effect in mid-October, Costa Mesa traffic officers have refrained from active enforcement of the law thus far in order to inform residents of the changes.

But all of that will soon change.

TRAFFIC

"From now on, anyone who owns a house trailer, boat trailer or any other type of detached vehicle, must keep that vehicle off the public streets," Regan said.

He cited reduced visibility in residential areas, reduction of usable roadway and problems involving street cleaning and inadequate parking as reasons for the revised ordinance.

Under the former regulation, owners were allowed up to 72 hours to move detached vehicles from the street.

"We used to mark the street with chalk to see how long these vehicles were stored on public roadways," Regan said. "But now we're going to give them one warning. Then, if there is no compliance, we will tow them off or cite them."

He said the pink warning card would only be in effect a few hours, or overnight at the most.

"The warning cards are a courtesy. We don't have to issue them," he said.

He said the ordinance still allows cars to remain parked in one location for 72 hours.

"But those cars must be moved at least three car lengths or one tenth of a mile after that 72 hours," he warned.

Regan said the revised ordinance does not include motorists who use their recreational vehicles to get to work and back.

And, he said, owners are still allowed to park their detached-type vehicles on the street while loading or unloading them, or while conducting emergency repairs on them.

"What we're after are the residents who store their vehicles on the street. We're not out to

Building Quota Favored

County Planner Supports Development Moratorium

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Planning Commissioner William McDougall of Laguna Niguel indicated Wednesday he would favor a construction moratorium in the south county if the rate of development exceeds government-imposed growth limits.

It was the second time in two weeks that McDougall has stated his support for some kind of annual development quota that would permit population growth up to — but not beyond — the 1995 figure of 711,000 desired by the County Board of Supervisors.

The county is attempting to establish a development monitoring program to keep track of new construction using the perspective of that ultimate population figure.

SACC activist Nance North asked McDougall what would happen if the planning commission discovers that south county development has already gone beyond its present allotments.

"If it happens that we are already over the growth projection, I would favor a long pause," said McDougall.

During his talk, McDougall assured members of the community group liaison organization that its recommendations on proposed development are heard and heeded by the planning commission.

"We really do pay attention to the SACC recommendations," he said. "We even put items over if we don't have a recommendation. You are a very essential part of the planning process in Orange County."

SACC and the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council recently expressed concern that their findings and comments on planned developments were not being heard by the county.

McDougall noted that the county planning commission has been caught up in a new concept in county government organization — the agency.

He said it is "the only way to organize a government these days but the planning commission is a still trying to find a role for itself."

Since he joined the panel five months ago, McDougall said a "new majority" has emerged on the commission, replacing the 2-2 and 3-2 votes of the past.

"We're not always together but the 3-2 votes gave way to 4-1 votes and, though it isn't always reported by the media, we often go 5-0," he said.

McDougall lauded a recent County Administrative Office study of the planning commission's role in the new Environmental Management Agency that revealed a number of shortcomings.

He said the study also "laid to rest the ghost that the communications from the commission to supervisors were not being handled well. There was no reason to think that this big agency with the little commission in the middle were not getting along."

Neighbors Object to 2 Renting

GROSSE POINTE PARK, Mich. (AP) — Because they are single, Donald J. Mazzola and Richard Grover are being forced by neighbors to leave the four-bedroom house they rented in this affluent Detroit suburb.

The neighbors' fear, that they would harm the character of the area, carries weight since a local law forbids occupancy of single-family dwellings by anyone not related by blood, marriage or adoption.

According to a local official, however, the ordinance is not enforced against single women.

Mazzola, 28, divorced father of two small sons, and Gronan, 30, a used car salesman, moved here after learning that a house they shared in Detroit for 1½ years was to be sold.

They looked for a replacement, and the tree-shaded home for $350 a month just fit the bill.

Aware of the zoning ordinance, Gronan inquired at city hall, came away convinced things could be worked out and decided to file for an exception. They even moved in some belongings before the hearing.

Councilman Charles Tompkins voted for the exception. He said the objections probably arose because the applicants were men, but noted that permission had been granted many times for women to live together without any objection.

Mazzola said he would like to continue the legal battle but added moving expenses already had cut heavily into their budget.

From Page A1

FATHER. . .

His wife, he said, was a "bit dubious" about the idea at first, "but she loves that baby now like it was her own."

The father said expenses totaled about $10,000 — $7,000 in payment to the mother and the rest in legal and medical fees.

He said he still wants a son.

"I can't afford it right now," he said, "but I may try again."

The father's lawyer said there was no precedent for such a case. But he added, "It isn't bizarre when you think about it. It is exactly equivalent to artificial insemination of women by anonymous donors, a standard practice when a husband has an insufficient sperm count."

Mesan Seized On Heist Rap

Youle said Smith matches the description of the gunman who last Friday robbed the Surf and Sand Hotel in Laguna Beach, and Fry's Market and the Sportsman's Liquor store in Newport Beach.

The traffic commander suggests that recreational vehicle and trailer owners pull their vehicles into the driveway if they are going to be gone for a length of time.

"Or store it at a service station if you can arrange it," he said.

Regan said that in most cases, the department will tow offending vehicles away for storage. Fees average $3 per day, according to one of the city's three authorized towing agencies.

"As a rule, we will store the vehicle rather than cite the owner," he said, adding that recreational vehicles and boat trailers often change hands several times, making it difficult for police to cite the current registered owner.

"This ordinance isn't as tough as some cities' parking laws," Regan said. "And I think it gives vehicle owners a little latitude."

Airlines Must Muffle Domestic Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary William Coleman said today the government will require U.S. airlines to muffle their old domestic jets or replace them with quieter, new ones within eight years.

Some of the jets must be muffled or replaced in half that time.

In all, the requirements apply to 1,654 planes, more than three-fourths of the jets in use domestically by U.S. airlines. These jets have been exempt from federal anti-noise regulations because they were built before the regulations went into effect in 1969.

At a joint news conference with Federal Aviation Administrator John McLucas, the secretary said the government also will require pilots to change landing and takeoff procedures to lessen noise.

McLucas said the pilots will be required to start descents closer to airports and make minimum use of noise-producing wing flaps, used to increase lift during takeoffs and landings. He did not say how these requirements would be enforced.

McLucas said these changes, starting Jan. 1, will reduce noise on the ground by about 15 to 30 percent.

Coleman said the changes in planes and procedure will help but "persons who live near airports should not believe they will solve all airport noise problems."

He called airport noise his department's "No. 1 aviation environmental problem" and said excessive noise is an unacceptable intrusion into the lives of six million Americans.

The requirement to modify planes or replace them, which Coleman said will cost the airline between $5 billion and $8 billion, also goes into effect Jan. 1 — 20 days before President-elect Jimmy Carter takes office.

The broad outlines of the new policy were announced by President Ford during his unsuccesssful election campaign. The government might help the airlines finance some of the cost. But Coleman did not say how much or where the money would come from.

He will hold a public hearing on the financing in December.

Coleman and McLucas also acknowledged that local airport operators have the right to take

Hospital Problems 'Ignored'

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What has been recently described as shocking conditions at state mental hospitals are not really new at all, the chairman of a state investigative panel said in Santa Ana today.

Developer Nathan Shapell, who heads the state's 13-member Little Hoover Commission, said the shocking conditions were described in a commission report last January but were ignored by state health officials.

"This commission will not rest until the level of care in state hospitals meets the standards that are compatible with a society that calls itself civilized," Shapell said as a one-day hearing opened. (See related story Page A5.)

"How many times must these problems be described before positive action is taken," he continued. "We don't have very much time, people are dying."

Ray Procunier, chief deputy director of the state health department, told Shapell the recommendations in the January report were not really ignored.

But he described the reaction of state officials as being "paralyzed" by the report.

He said state officials realized there were problems in the mental facilities but they took little action because they wanted to be right.

He said the officials should have been making decisions to correct problems rather than searching for right answers.

Procunier said the revelations unveiled during a Ventura County Grand Jury investigation into deaths at Camarillo State Hospital should not be shocking.

"These revelations now are not new. They are all in the (commission) report," he said.

And while Procunier said steps are under way to improve hospital administration and staffing, Shapell asked where the dollars will come from to make improvements.

He said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. vetoed two bills to improve hospitals and asked, "will the governor change his mind now?"

He asked Procunier if wards of 45 severely ill mental patients can adequately be handled by

'Test Tube' Mom Bears Baby Girl

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man who advertised last year for a "test tube" mother to bear his child through artificial insemination is the proud father of a baby girl.

"Childless husband with infertile wife wants test tube baby," said a want ad published April 15, 1975, in the San Francisco Chronicle. "English or Northwestern European background. Indicate fee and age. All answers confidential."

The man agreed to tell his story to a Chronicle reporter on the condition that he and the mother remain anonymous.

He was the last of his family line and said that when the ad was placed he wanted a child — his child — to carry on his family name.

He chose artificial insemination because, he said, it would be immoral for him to have a sexual relationship outside of marriage to father a child.

News stories about his plight brought 181 letters from women as far as Bangladesh, he said. Letters were sent to an ad number at the Chronicle, and the man hired a lawyer and a doctor to take care of selection and the actual impregnation.

The man was never to meet the mother of his child.

The woman selected was described only as an attractive, blonde, unmarried office worker living in the San Francisco Bay area. She had never had a child before.

Last December, the father visited a doctor's office where he produced a sample of his sperm. After he left, the doctor injected the sperm into the mother.

"It took the first time," the father said.

The mother told her boss and co-workers what she was doing. According to the man's lawyer, her boss at first reacted with, "'That kind of thing isn't going on in my office,' as though there was sexual pleasure involved."

He changed his mind when the mother argued that she was doing something morally positive.

The baby, five pounds and six ounces with red hair and blue eyes, was born Sept. 6. The father said there were some medical problems at first, but she is home and doing well.

His wife, he said, was a "bit dubious" about the idea at first, "but she loves that baby now like it was her own."

The father said expenses totaled about $10,000 — $7,000 in payment to the mother and the rest in legal and medical fees.

He said he still wants a son.

"I can't afford it right now," he said, "but I may try again."

The father's lawyer said there was no precedent for such a case. But he added, "It isn't bizarre when you think about it. It is exactly equivalent to artificial insemination of women by anonymous donors, a standard practice when a husband has an insufficient sperm count."

Gullett Signs With Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have signed free-agent pitcher Don Gullett to a multi-year contract, it was announced this afternoon.

Gullett is the sixth client of agent Jerry Kapstein to sign in the last three days. He has a career record of 91-44.

Cops Quell SC 'Orgy'

A man who refused to identify himself complained to San Clemente police Wednesday night that a wild party next door was keeping him awake.

"I have to get up early to work," he said. "It sounds like a —— orgy over there."

Tax Cut Nixed?

Burns Sees 'No Advantage'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," Burns said. "My mind on the subject, however, is by no means closed."

President Ford will send to Congress in January his proposal to cut taxes across the board by $10 billion, with an increase in the Social Security tax rate that would mean a net cut of $8 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider asking Congress for a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Although a tax cut could be enacted without Burns' approval, some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York.

Neighbors Object to 2 Renting

GROSSE POINTE PARK, Mich. (AP) — Because they are single, Donald J. Mazzola and Richard Grover are being forced by neighbors to leave the four-bedroom house they rented in this affluent Detroit suburb.

The neighbors' fear, that they would harm the character of the area, carries weight since a local law forbids occupancy of single-family dwellings by anyone not related by blood, marriage or adoption.

According to a local official, however, the ordinance is not enforced against single women.

Mazzola, 28, divorced father of two small sons, and Gronan, 30, a used car salesman, moved here after learning that a house they shared in Detroit for 1½ years was to be sold.

They looked for a replacement, and the tree-shaded home for $350 a month just fit the bill.

Aware of the zoning ordinance, Gronan inquired at city hall, came away convinced things could be worked out and decided to file for an exception. They even moved in some belongings before the hearing.

Neighbors, notified by mail that a public hearing would be held, filed objections. The neighbors had never met the two.

Councilman Charles Pompkins voted for the exception. He said the objections probably arose because the applicants were men, but noted that permission had been granted many times for women to live together without any objection.

Mazzola said he would like to continue the legal battle but added moving expenses already had cut heavily into their budget.

"I would like to do it for the sake of other people and to straighten out these Grosse Pointe snobs," he said.

Newport Arrest

Big Hashish Raid Made by Accident

Two Newport Beach patrolmen who thought they had spotted a burglar, ended up arresting a man early today for possession of 120 pounds of hashish worth an estimated $545,000 on the illicit drug market.

Jailed was Robert Edward Smith II, 27, of 4901 Seashore Drive. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

According to police, Smith was arrested at 3 a.m. by officers who allegedly found the drug in the home Smith shares with his wife and two young children. His wife was not home at the time of Smith's arrest, police said.

According to investigators, the alleged cache of hash was discovered by patrol Officers Michael Jackson and Andrew Gonis.

The two officers were patrolling the area when they spotted a man who appeared to be tampering with the doorknob of Smith's house.

The two officers stopped to investigate and the man told them he was a friend of the occupant of the house.

To prove his point, the man opened the front door and walked in with the officers behind him.

The large quantity of the narcotic was found after a search warrant had been obtained and Smith was booked for possession of hash for sale. The man the patrolmen first thought to be a burglar was booked on an outstanding traffic warrant.

The children were turned over to Smith's parents.

Robber Nets Stereo, Cash, Narcotics

Newport Beach police are seeking the three men who tied up a resident of a West Newport trailer park and stole cash and stereo equipment that police said was worth more than $1,000 and narcotics that would sell for about $1,000 on the illicit drug market.

Rena Louise Johnson, 21, of 2136 W. Coast HIghway told police she was alone in her trailer Tuesday night when the three men broke in.

She said one was armed with a handgun and two were wearing face masks.

She said they tied her up with tape and searched her residence for about half an hour before leaving.

According to police reports, the trio made off with $500 in cash, stereo equipment worth $500 and 50 Thai sticks.

According to investigators, Miss Johnson said the three men also took an unknown quantity of cocaine. She said the narcotics belong to her boyfriend.

Thai sticks sell at about $20 a piece on the illicit drug market. Police did not list a dollar value loss for the narcotics in their report. Capt. Richard Hamilton of the detective bureau explained that under state law, it is impossible to steal something that is illegal to possess in the first place.

Police Seek Homes for '5 Orphans'

O'Sullivan said he has five hanging plants that he acquired Tuesday when he arrested a burglary suspect who allegedly admitted to stealing the plants from homes.

O'Sullivan says he has been waiting for someone to file a stolen plant report, but, so far no one has, and the plants are beginning to fade.

"I'd sure like to give them back before they die," he said.

According to the detective the plants are:

—A Creeping Charlie in a wire basket;

—Two fern-like plants, each in a wooden basket.

Anyone who believes the plants belong to them may contact O'Sullivan at 644-3761.

Building Quota Favored

County Planner Supports Development Moratorium

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Planning Commissioner William McDougall of Laguna Niguel indicated Wednesday he would favor a construction moratorium in the south county if the rate of development exceeds government-imposed growth limits.

It was the second time in two weeks that McDougall has stated his support for some kind of annual development quota that would permit population growth up to — but not beyond — the 1995 figure of 711,000 desired by the County Board of Supervisors.

The county is attempting to establish a development monitoring program to keep track of new construction using the perspective of that ultimate population figure.

SACC activist Nance North asked McDougall what would happen if the planning commission discovers that south county development has already gone beyond its present allotments.

"If it happens that we are already over the growth projection, I would favor a long pause," said McDougall.

During his talk, McDougall assured members of the community group liaison organization that its recommendations on proposed development are heard and heeded by the planning commission.

"We really do pay attention to the SACC recommendations," he said. "We even put items over if we don't have a recommendation. You are a very essential part of the planning process in Orange County."

SACC and the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council recently expressed concern that their findings and comments on planned developments were not being heard by the county.

McDougall noted that the county planning commission has been caught up in a new concept in county government organization — the agency.

He said it is "the only way to organize a government these days but the planning commission is a still trying to find a role for itself."

Since he joined the panel five months ago, McDougall said a "new majority" has emerged on the commission, replacing the 2-2 and 3-2 votes of the past.

"We're not always together but the 3-2 votes gave way to 4-1 votes and, though it isn't always reported by the media, we often go 5-0," he said.

McDougall lauded a recent County Administrative Office study of the planning commission's role in the new Environmental Management Agency that revealed a number of shortcomings.

He said the study also "laid to rest the ghost that the communications from the commission to supervisors were not being handled well. There was no reason to think that this big agency with the little commission in the middle were not getting along."

The SACC members were told that the hottest issue the commission has handled since McDougall took his seat was the low-cost senior citizen housing proposal for the Marcroft property in Laguna Hills, which the commissioner called a "clash of forces, neither of which could be totally denied."

He also reiterated a remark made last week during commission discussion of growth monitoring proposals.

"I don't know where we are and no one else on the commission or staff knows where we are, either," he said. "We have to know how many houses can be built and approved so we'll know when the spigot has to be turned down."

First Graders Foil Knife-wielding Pair

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — First grade pupils helped an elementary school teacher flee unharmed when a pair of escaped convicts held a knife to her throat and tried to take her hostage.

"He could have stabbed me in the heart or the back," said Peggy O'Brien, the teacher stopped by the convicts outside St. Patrick's Elementary School. "But the children scared him. He dropped his knife to his side."

Mrs. O'Brien said she ran at that moment, guiding the children to the school entrance and inside. The two convicts fled, and later were captured.

The convicts stopped her as she was leaving her car Wednesday and preparing to enter the school. One of them held an eight-inch butcher knife to her throat, Mrs. O'Brien said. She screamed.

Two pupils came running up and other children followed, said Mrs. O'Brien, a first-grade teacher. Their presence, she said, made the knife wielder nervous.

One of the men grabbed a set of keys she was holding, But Mrs. O'Brien said they were keys to the school and not her car.

Until the children came up, Mrs. O'Brien said, the men were trying to force her to get back in her car and drive them wherever they wanted to go.

She said one of them told her, "There's cops all over the place and you're going to drive us out of here."

When Mrs. O'Brien and the children entered the school, the fugitives fled into a nearby woods. Police failed to catch them there, but less than four hours later apprehended them without resistance in a shopping center parking lot in the same north Jacksonville area.

Suicide Try Effect Nil

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore's sleeping pill overdose may have been a sympathy ploy or a genuine suicide attempt, but it probably won't influence his chances of facing a firing squad, the head of the state pardons board says.

Hospital officials said the 35-year-old convicted killer, who fought efforts to delay his execution, was to be returned to his Death Row cell at the Utah State Prison today.

He was found unconscious Tuesday after taking an overdose of sleeping pills in what prison officials called an apparent suicide pact with his girlfriend, Nicole Barrett.

He defended state health employes saying they were dedicated but he said they often lack direction.

In addition, he said, there are now 1,000 staff vacancies at state hospitals and recruitment and training has been difficult.

Miss McLaughlin has played nurse Jessie Brewer on the highly rated ABC daytime serial for 13 years.

Services Set For Admiral J. C. Alderman

Rear Adm. John C. Alderman (U.S. Navy, Ret.,) died Wednesday at San Clemente General Hospital. Admiral Alderman, a resident of Laguna Beach, was 70.

Visitation will be from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Sheffer Laguna Beach Mortuary. Memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Unitarian Universalist Fellowship Center, 429 Cypress Drive, Laguna Beach.

Admiral Alderman was graduated in 1928 from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He served in the Navy for 34 years. Among his many honors and decorations are the Navy Cross, Legion of Merit, the commendation ribbon and ribbon for presidential citation.

Burial will be at Willamette National Cemetery in Portland, Ore.

Admiral Alderman is survived by his wife, Abigail of Laguna Beach; sons, John of Georgia, Bill and Tim of Oakland; and David of Santa Clara; a sister, Ruth Tate of New York; his mother, Lola Alderman of McMinnville, Oregon; and four grandchildren.

The family requests that memorial donations be made to the American Cancer Society or the Unitarian Service Commission.

Slain Youth's Body Found

Orange County Sheriff's officers ran fingerprint tests today to determine the identity of a young man whose body was found Wednesday in the Tustin area.

Homicide investigators said the man, about 20, was strangled with a length of rope or cord. They believe he may have been killed in another area and then dumped in the Panorama Heights residential area.

Officers said the body was found on the side of a slope by a local resident who lives on Vista Panorama. They said all identification had been removed from the victim's clothing.

TAX CUT. . .

That rate is just below the level generally considered necessary to whittle unemployment, which was at 7.9 percent of the labor force in October with 7.6 million Americans out of work.

The Commerce Department estimated last month that the Gross National Product — or total output of goods and services — grew at an annual rate of four percent during the third quarter. The revised figures show an unexpectedly poor performance in foreign trade.

Referring to a tax cut, Burns said he "will weigh the issue carefully" if the economy appears to need such a stimulus and if there are "economies" in federal spending.

While some of Carter's advisers have said they would prefer a one-time tax rebate, Burns said he would prefer a broad-based permanent tax reduction of both business and individuals, similar to a tax cut enacted in the early 1960s.

"Such a measure, on a responsible scale, would minimize social conflict for our country," he said.

Carter, on the other hand, has said he will consider tax cuts aimed at benefiting low and middle-income workers and has said nothing about cutting taxes to benefit business.

In any case, Burns said there is no need for a tax cut at the present time, partly because it could add to inflationary pressures and partly because he expects the economy to resume solid growth without one.

Poor Showing Ends Dallas' JFK Service

DALLAS (AP) — An annual memorial service on the anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination has been canceled this year because of sharply reduced public attendance.

Less than two dozen people showed up for last year's observance at the site where Kennedy was slain Nov. 22, 1963, said a spokesman for Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom when asked Wednesday about the service.

Folsom sent a letter to the Greater Dallas Council of Churches this month asking it to encourage Dallas residents to observe the anniversary at their individual houses of worship.

"It had gotten to the point where we had more organizers at the memorial than participants," said Folsom aide David Miller. "We thought we could reach more people through their individual houses of worship than asking them to come downtown to the site."

Monday marks the 13th anniversary of the fatal attack on Kennedy while he was riding in a motorcade in downtown Dallas.

The man was never to meet the mother of his child.

The woman selected was described only as an attractive, blonde, unmarried office worker living in the San Francisco Bay area. She had never had a child before.

Last December, the father visited a doctor's office where he produced a sample of his sperm. After he left, the doctor injected the sperm into the mother.

"It took the first time," the father said.

The mother told her boss and co-workers what she was doing. According to the man's lawyer, her boss at first reacted with, " 'That kind of thing isn't going on in my office,' as though there were sexual pleasure involved."

He changed his mind when the mother argued that she was doing something morally positive.

The baby, five pounds and six ounces with red hair and blue eyes, was born Sept. 6. The father said there were some medical problems at first, but she is home and doing well.

His wife, he said, was a "bit dubious" about the idea at first, "but she loves that baby now like it was her own."

State Ignored Reports On Hospitals—Prober

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

What has been recently described as shocking conditions at state mental hospitals are not really new at all, the chairman of a state investigative panel said in Santa Ana today.

Developer Nathan Shapell, who heads the state's 13-member Little Hoover Commission, said the shocking conditions were described in a commission report last January but were ignored by state health officials.

"This commission will not rest until the level of care in state hospitals meets the standards that are compatible with a society that calls itself civilized," Shapell said as a one-day hearing opened.

"How many times must these problems be described before positive action is taken," he continued. "We don't have very much time, people are dying."

Ray Procunier, chief deputy director of the state health department, told Shapell the recommendations in the January report were not really ignored.

But he described the reaction of state officials as being "paralyzed" by the report.

He said state officials realized there were problems in the mental facilities but they took little action because they wanted to be right.

He said the officials should have been making decisions to correct problems rather than searching for right answers.

Procunier said the revelations unveiled during a Ventura County Grand Jury investigation into deaths at Camarillo State Hospital should not be shocking.

"These revelations now are not new. They are all in the (commission) report," he said.

And while Procunier said steps are under way to improve hospital administration and staffing, Shapell asked where the dollars will come from to make improvements.

He said Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. vetoed two bills to improve hospitals and asked, "will the governor change his mind now?"

He asked Procunier if wards of 45 severely ill mental patients can adequately be handled by

South County

Planner Backs Building Quota

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Planning Commissioner William McDougall of Laguna Niguel indicted Wednesday he would favor a construction moratorium in the south county if the rate of development exceeds government-imposed growth limits.

It was the second time in two weeks that McDougall has stated his support for some kind of annual development quota that would permit population growth up to — but not beyond — the 1995 figure of 711,000 desired by the County Board of Supervisors.

The county is attempting to establish a development monitoring program to keep track of new construction using the perspective of that ultimate population figure.

SACC activist Nance North asked McDougall what would happen if the planning commission discovers that south county development has already gone beyond its present allotments.

"If it happens that we are already over the growth projection, I would favor a long pause," said McDougall.

During his talk, McDougall assured members of the community group liaison organization that its recommendations on proposed development are heard and heeded by the planning commission.

"We really do pay attention to the SACC recommendations," he said. "We even put items over if we don't have a recommendation. You are a very essential

Teachers' Dispute Talks Continuing

By LAURIE KASPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Negotiations between representatives of the Saddleback Valley Unified School District and its teachers resumed this morning following another trustees' meeting Wednesday that was dominated by a one-sided discussion of the unsettled situation.

Several residents apparently had come to the meeting in response to letters they received from teachers at Los Alisos Intermediate School. Their reaction, however, may not have been what the teachers had hoped for.

An El Toro woman said she finds it "very upsetting" that homeowners are being pulled into the dispute and an Aegean Hills resident said he is "a little tired" of getting letters from teachers.

In the midst of the stream of speakers, a man declared, "I feel like I'm a victim of a mugging."

Irene Small, a Mission Viejo resident, told the teachers, "If you don't like it, get out of the kitchen if you cannot stand the heat.

"There are many people willing to take your place," she said.

But another Mission Viejo resident, Maxine Gereb, spoke in support of the teachers and objected to the school board's handling of the situation.

Still another Mission Viejo resident contended the dispute would more easily be solved if a representative of the community were involved in the negotiations.

"I sort of felt the board of education sort of represented the community," said Trustee Dennis Smith. "We're sort of elected

Slain Youth's Body Found

Orange County Sheriff's officers ran fingerprint tests today to determine the identity of a young man whose body was found Wednesday in the Tustin area.

Homicide investigators said the man, about 20, was strangled with a length of rope or cord. They believe he may have been killed in another area and then dumped in the Panorama Heights residential area.

Officers said the body was found on the side of a slope by a local resident who lives on Vista Panorama. They said all identification had been removed from the victim's clothing.

Burglars Get Cash and Beer

Cash and cases of beer topped the priorities of burglars who broke into a shoe store and a Chinese restaurant during a tour of an El Toro shopping complex.

Orange County sheriff's officers said intruders who entered via the roof vent took $115 in cash from K.O.'s Footwear, 24301 Muirlands Blvd.

They said the burglars then broke a hole in the wall to gain entry to the Yin Han Restaurant where 10 cases of bottled beer were taken from the kitchen. Owner Bill Dang valued the loss at $60.

Blaze Damages Skateboard Firm

The fire at Coast Polyamics, 3011 S. Orange Ave., was reported at 8:29 p.m. and was under control 21 minutes later.

No Tax Cut Now, Burns Recommends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule out changing his mind if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

"I see no advantage in a tax cut at the present time," Burns said. "My mind on the subject, however, is by no means closed."

President Ford will send to Congress in January his proposal to cut taxes across the board by $10 billion, with an increase in the Social Security tax rate that would mean a net cut of $8 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider asking Congress for a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues.

Although a tax cut could be enacted without Burns' approval, some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York.

His remarks came as the government reduced its estimate of growth in the nation's economic output to 3.8 percent during the fall quarter.

That rate is just below the level generally considered necessary to whittle unemployment, which was at 7.9 percent of the labor force in October with 7.6 million Americans out of work.

The Commerce Department estimated last month that the Gross National Product — or total output of goods and services — grew at an annual rate of four percent during the third quarter. The revised figures show an unexpectedly poor performance in foreign trade.

Referring to a tax cut, Burns

Party Serves Flu Vaccine

Instead, they got a shot of something else: swine flu vaccine.

"It was my idea," Schoenith said Wednesday. "I had talked to many of the people before the party, and I asked them if they had taken their swine flu shots. Almost all of them said no, they hadn't had the time."

So the couple arranged for Dr. Roman Harkaway to be on hand with a supply of swine flu serum from a local hospital.

Schenkel Sour
Raps Barbara Walters' Pay

"If Barbara Walters is worth $1 million, what are we worth? ABC Sports is the only thing that makes money for the network," Schenkel said in a question-and-answer session before the Phoenix Executives Club.

Miss Walters signed a contract recently to co-anchor the ABC Evening News with Harry Reasoner.

Schenkel offered, "Barbara is the kind of girl who would vote a town dry, then move."

Cops Quell SC 'Orgy'

A man who refused to identify himself complained to San Clemente police Wednesday night that a wild party next door was keeping him awake.

"I have to get up early to work," he said. "It sounds like a —— orgy over there."

Teacher Saved by Students

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — First grade pupils helped an elementary school teacher flee unharmed when a pair of escaped convicts held a knife to her throat and tried to take her hostage.

"He could have stabbed me in the heart or the back," said Peggy O'Brien, the teacher stopped by the convicts outside St. Patrick's Elementary School. "But the children scared him. He dropped his knife to his side."

Mrs. O'Brien said she ran at that moment, guiding the children to the school entrance and inside. The two convicts fled, and later were captured.

The convicts stopped her as she was leaving her car Wednesday and preparing to enter the school. One of them held an eight-inch butcher knife to her throat, Mrs. O'Brien said. She screamed.

Two pupils came running up and other children followed, said Mrs. O'Brien, a first-grade teacher. Their presence, she said, made the knife wielder nervous.

One of the men grabbed a set of keys she was holding. But Mrs. O'Brien said they were keys to the school and not her car.

Until the children came up, Mrs. O'Brien said, the men were trying to force her to get back in her car and drive them wherever they wanted to go.

She said one of them told her, "There's cops all over the place and you're going to drive us out of here."

When Mrs. O'Brien and the children entered the school, the fugitives fled into a nearby woods. Police failed to catch them there, but less than four hours later apprehended them without resistance in a shopping center parking lot in the same north Jacksonville area.

School Board Chief Injured On Motorcycle

Sagar said he was struck from behind while cruising Alicia Parkway in Irvine at 25 miles per hour, by a car cruising at a faster speed.

The trustee broke his right femur — the big bone in his upper leg — and will be on crutches for a couple of months after his expected release from the hospital this weekend.

Sagar had still not regained full strength in his right leg as the result of a crash on his motorcycle a year ago, when he broke his right tibia — the big bone in his lower leg.

Three Shag Carpets Stolen in Viejo

Three large shag carpets laid out to air in the parking lot got a lot more air than the operators of a nearby Mission Viejo carpet shop expected or intended.

Orange County sheriff's officers said thieves made off with the carpets while the operators of Saddleback Carpet Interiors, 25721 Obrero, were busy inside the store. The carpets are valued at $150.

He added, "I'm sure if we're so out of touch with the community, we're not going to be re-elected or we're going to be recalled or something."

Through the meeting, trustees continued their policy of quietly listening to the comments and not responding to any issues currently being discussed at the bargaining table.

Negotiations broke off last week after which the teachers' leaders planned to take a strike vote. Trustees, however, later agreed to resume negotiations.

Oil Drillers Run Into Snag

Plagued by troubles in anchoring their self-propelled floating oil platform Aleutian Key, Gulf Oil Corporation officials today reported it will now be 40 days before they complete a test well off Tanner Banks.

Gulf's exploratory oil drilling site is about 28 miles from San Clemente Island. Keydril Corporation, operators of the oil rig for Gulf, have spent the last 12 days getting the drilling vessel properly anchored.

Gulf plans to drill the exploratory well to a depth of 9,000 feet in one of six undersea oil leases held by the company in the Tanner Banks area. Aleutian Key is operating in 680 feet of water.

Services Set For Admiral J. C. Alderman

Rear Adm. John C. Alderman (U.S. Navy, Ret.,) died Wednesday at San Clemente General Hospital. Admiral Alderman, a resident of Laguna Beach, was 70.

Visitation will be from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Sheffer Laguna Beach Mortuary. Memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Unitarian Universalist Fellowship Center, 429 Cypress Drive, Laguna Beach.

Admiral Alderman was graduated in 1928 from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He served in the Navy for 34 years. Among his many honors and decorations are the Navy Cross, Legion of Merit, the commendation ribbon and ribbon for presidential citation.

Burial will be at Willamette National Cemetery in Portland, Ore.

Admiral Alderman is survived by his wife, Abigail of Laguna Beach; sons, John of Georgia, Bill and Tim of Oakland; and David of Santa Clara; a sister, Ruth Tate of New York; his mother, Lola Alderman of McMinnville, Oregon; and four grandchildren.

The family requests that memorial donations be made to the American Cancer Society or the Unitarian Service Commission.

The father said expenses totaled about $10,000 — $7,000 in payment to the mother and the rest in legal and medical fees.

He said he still wants a son.

"I can't afford it right now," he said, "but I may try again."

The father's lawyer said there was no precedent for such a case.

Newport Arrest

Big Hashish Raid Made by Accident

Two Newport Beach patrolmen who thought they had spotted a burglar, ended up arresting a man early today for possession of 120 pounds of hashish worth an estimated $545,000 on the illicit drug market.

Jailed was Robert Edward Smith II, 27, of 4901 Seashore Drive. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

According to police, Smith was arrested at 3 a.m. by officers who allegedly found the drug in the home Smith shares with his wife and two young children. His wife was not home at the time of Smith's arrest, police said.

According to investigators, the alleged cache of hash was discovered by patrol Officers Michael Jackson and Andrew Gonis.

The two officers were patrolling the area when they spotted a man who appeared to be tampering with the doorknob of Smith's house.

The two officers stopped to investigate and the man told them he was a friend of the occupant of the house.

To prove his point, the man opened the front door and walked in with the officers behind him.

The large quantity of the narcotic was found after a search warrant had been obtained and Smith was booked for possession of hash for sale. The man the patrolmen first thought to be a burglar was booked on an outstanding traffic warrant.

The children were turned over to Smith's parents.

Detroit Area

Town Evicts Single Pair

GROSSE POINTE PARK, Mich. (AP) — Because they are single, Donald J. Mazzola and Richard Grover are being forced by neighbors to leave the four-bedroom house they rented in this affluent Detroit suburb.

The neighbors' fear, that they would harm the character of the area, carries weight since a local law forbids occupancy of single-family dwellings by anyone not related by blood, marriage or adoption.

According to a local official, however, the ordinance is not enforced against single women.

Mazzola, 28, divorced father of two small sons, and Gronan, 30, a used car salesman, moved here after learning that a house they shared in Detroit for 1½ years was to be sold.

They looked for a replacement, and the tree-shaded home for $350 a month just fit the bill.

Aware of the zoning ordinance, Gronan inquired at city hall, came away convinced things could be worked out and decided to file for an exception. They even moved in some belongings before the hearing.

Neighbors, notified by mail that a public hearing would be held, filed objections. The neighbors had never met the two.

Councilman Charles Tompkins voted for the exception. He said the objections probably arose because the applicants were men, but noted that permission had been granted many times for women to live together without any objection.

Mazzola said he would like to continue the legal battle but added moving expenses already had cut heavily into their budget.

"I would like to do it for the sake of other people and to straighten out these Grosse Pointe snobs," he said.

However, help may be on the way.

The Michigan branch of the American Civil Liberties Union said the ordinance appears to be "offensive to constitutional rights, both of privacy and of freedom of association."

The organization has scheduled a board meeting Monday to decide whether grounds exist to carry on the fight for the two.

said he "will weigh the issue carefully" if the economy appears to need such a stimulus and if there are "economies" in federal spending.

While some of Carter's advisers have said they would prefer a one-time tax rebate, Burns said he would prefer a broad-based permanent tax reduction of both business and individuals, similar to a tax cut enacted in the early 1960s.

"Such a measure, on a responsible scale, would minimize social conflict for our country," he said.

Carter, on the other hand, has said he will consider tax cuts aimed at benefiting low and middle-income workers and has said nothing about cutting taxes to benefit business.

In any case, Burns said there is no need for a tax cut at the present time, partly because it could add to inflationary pressures and partly because he expects the economy to resume solid growth without one.

SACC and the Mission Viejo Municipal Advisory Council recently expressed concern that their findings and comments on planned developments were not being heard by the county.

McDougall noted that the county planning commission has been caught up in a new concept in county government organization — the agency.

He said it is "the only way to organize a government these days but the planning commission is a still trying to find a role for itself."

Since he joined the panel five months ago, McDougall said a "new majority" has emerged on the commission, replacing the 2-2 and 3-2 votes of the past.

"We're not always together but the 3-2 votes gave way to 4-1 votes and, though it isn't always reported by the media, we often go 5-0," he said.

McDougall lauded a recent County Administrative Office study of the planning commission's role in the new Environmental Management Agency that revealed a number of shortcomings.

He said the study also "laid to rest the ghost that the communications from the commission to supervisors were not being handled well. There was no reason to think that this big agency with the little commission in the middle were not getting along."

The SACC members were told that the hottest issue the commission has handled since McDougall took his seat was the low-cost senior citizen housing proposal for the Marcroft property in Laguna Hills, which the commissioner called a "clash of forces, neither of which could be totally denied."

"I don't know where we are and no one else on the commission or staff knows where we are, either," he said. "We have to know how many houses can be built and approved so we'll know when the spigot has to be turned down."
