Marine Guilty of Murder In Strangulation Case

TERRORISTS CONTINUE TO HOLD 59 ADULTS

Terrorists Still Hold 59 Adults

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Gasps of relief and quiet reunions with parents marked the end of four days' captivity for 105 Dutch children held by armed Asian extremists in a village schoolhouse. The mass release occurred after half of them came down with a stomach virus.

But five South Moluccan separatists continued to hold four teachers today, including two women, in the school and refused to surrender. At least 55 other hostages remained the captives of seven other separatists on a train 15 miles north of the school.

The South Moluccans, who want the independence of their Pacific island from Indonesia, have demanded the release of 21 fellow extremists jailed for terrorist activities and a jumbo jet to take them to an undisclosed location.

"It was fascinating to see the reaction of the children," a Red Cross spokesman said. "Only three of them cried when they saw their parents again."

He said while many mothers had tears in their eyes or were openly crying, the children were shy for a few awkward moments before breaking into hugs, kisses and "just happy children's talk."

The Red Cross said one little girl's first words were: "Mummy, I left my coat in the school."

One girl said she and her schoolmates were never threatened by the extremists but were restricted in their movements and had trouble sleeping on the cold hard floors at night. She said they spent much of the time playing games and watching television.

Ambulances rushed the ailing children to a hospital where 26 were admitted. Another 79 children and a teacher — also released — were reunited with families under the watchful eye of Dutch psychiatrists.

Hospital officials declined to disclose the condition of the hospitalized children, but unconfirmed reports said they were "reasonably well." The children (See TERROR, Page A2)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A student editor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was suspended and three other students were put on probation for publishing an article rating the sexual performance of 36 MIT men.

The authors said they rated the men on the basis of their own experiences with them.

Ship Sails Stormy Sea

LNG TANKER TO BE DEDICATED IN SEA OF CONTROVERSY OVER SAFETY
Ship's Capacity Gives Rise to Concern Over Possibility of Giant Fires

Controversial Ship Goes to Work Today

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The first of 18 American-built natural gas tankers is being dedicated here while controversy still simmers over whether such ships are answers to the energy shortage or potential sources of flaming disaster.

The ship to be put into service today will carry 125,000 cubic meters of liquefied natural gas. Supporters say that's enough to serve an American city of 500,000 people for a month.

But critics say it is also enough to cause a catastrophic fire 100 times the size of the wreck of the Hindenburg, the hydrogen-filled German dirigible that burst into flames in 1937.

The greatest damage could occur, scientists say, if the ship's tanks were ruptured during a collision at sea. The liquid gas would pour into the water, and if it did not catch fire immediately, would evaporate into a colorless, odorless cloud of gas.

That gas, they say, would float close to the surface. If the wind eventually pushed it to land, any flame, even a cigarette, could ignite it.

The new ship, called the LNG Aquarius, is the first of 12 liquefied natural gas tankers being built by the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy. Six others are under construction at shipyards in Newport News, Va., and New Orleans. The 936-foot-long ship, which cost $100 million, will be operated by Burmah Oil Company of England to carry gas from Indonesia to Japan.

The giant, black-hulled ship carries its cargo in liquid form in five globe-shaped tanks. The tanks protrude above the deck. (See TANKER, Page A2)

Drug Firm Faces Charge

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A pharmaceutical firm was charged in U.S. District Court here with manufacturing Laetrile under unsanitary conditions.

Federal prosecutors said the Laetrile, believed by some to be effective against cancer, was adulterated and could have been contaminated at the Mosinee Research Corp. plant in Manitowoc, Wis. The charges said the substance was prepared, packed and held under unsanitary conditions.

The charges followed a U.S. Food and Drug Administration raid on the plant May 16, when 12 tons of apricot pits and 100,000 gelatin capsules were seized.

Toro Marine Found Guilty Of Murder

One of two El Toro Marines tried in Orange County Superior Court for the strangulation killing of a fellow Marine was found guilty of first degree murder late Thursday after less than three hours of jury deliberations.

The jury returned that verdict in Judge Kenneth Williams' courtroom after hearing testimony that Marine Robert Jones, 22, played an active part in the killing of Marine Patrick Michael McCone, 20.

Co-defendant Terry Alan Corfield, 21, was sentenced to six years in state prison earlier this month after being found guilty of second degree murder in a separate trial before the same judge.

Judge Williams set June 20 as the date he will sentence Corfield to what could be life in prison.

It was successfully alleged in both trials that Jones and Corfield killed McCone last Nov. 17 after a dispute over a narcotics sale and then dumped his body in the El Modena area.

Woman Heists $134

Brandishing what was apparently a pistol wrapped in a yellow kerchief, Orange County's bandana bandit struck again Thursday night in Huntington Beach, taking $134 from an ice cream parlor.

This time, the trim, petite armed robbery artist who favors a different-colored scarf for every holdup, hit a Baskin-Robbins 31 Flavors ice cream store during the supper hour.

Clerk Chris Marriott was on duty at 5971 Warner Ave., alone before the busy after-dinner influx of customers picking up dessert, when the young woman walked up to the counter, police said.

"What can I do for you?" Marriott asked the woman, who wore huge, mirrored, Lolita-style sunglasses.

"You know what you can do for me..." she replied, brandishing the apparent weapon swaddled in a yellow kerchief matching the scarf that tied down her brunette hair.

"Pardon me...?" the young clerk stammered.

"Give me all the money!" she snapped.

Detective Dick Nolen said at that point Marriott quickly grabbed a white paper bag from beneath the counter and stuffed it with bills.

He said the bandana bandit refused to take any silver coin change.

Two stunned customers stood (See BANDIT, Page A2)

Carter Rides

Los Angeles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, a onetime career submarine officer, slipped beneath the surface of the Atlantic today aboard the nuclear-powered, hunter-killer sub Los Angeles.

When the Los Angeles began its dive at 8:15 a.m. PDT, Carter became the first president to cruise in a submerged undersea vessel since Dwight D. Eisenhower dove in aboard the nuclear-powered Sea Wolf 20 years ago.

By coincidence, Carter had been senior naval officer in charge during the construction of the Sea Wolf.

The Los Angeles took two to three minutes to complete its dive in waters about 35 miles off the Florida coast.

Carter had begun his Atlantic cruise some three hours earlier, eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles and perhaps willing to let wife Rosalynn take a turn in the "driver's seat."

Aboard nuclear subs, the individual who mans the helm is said to be driving the ship.

Accompanied by Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father of the nuclear Navy," the President and Mrs. Carter boarded the Port Canaveral for the eight-hour cruise.

Carter, an Annapolis graduate, joked to reporters that when he was a career submarine officer, the undersea craft were called boats. He said they've grown so large they are now known as ships.

"Do you have any last words?" a reporter inquired shortly before two Navy tugs began (See SUB, Page A2)

LA Budget OK'd

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City Council members have approved their first $1 billion budget, allowing a possible four-cent increase in the city property tax rate.

'Weighty Problem'

Obese Sub Crew Hides From Carter

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Five crew members of the submarine Los Angeles said they were banished from the boat today, while President Carter was aboard, because they're too fat.

The five reportedly were assigned to temporary duty aboard the submarine Spadefish here and were kept aboard, out of sight, until Carter and the Los Angeles left port.

Only one of the five, William Darrendorf, a fire control specialist, said he was willing to be quoted by name about the incident.

The men claimed five or six other Los Angeles crew members also had been deemed overweight but were not banished because they were needed to help run the boat.

Obviously angered at being denied the opportunity to meet Carter, the portly submariners — one said he weighed 260 pounds — said they had been working long hours and getting about three hours sleep a night preparing the Los Angeles for the presidential visit.

Capt. Lawrence Burkhardt, a spokesman at the submarine base here, said the Los Angeles had a larger crew than was required for the Carter mission and "we wanted to present a good appearance" so the crew members judged most overweight were relieved for the day.

When a reporter told Burkhardt that the relieved men seemed rather bitter, he responded, "Then I would suggest they lose weight."

nudging the Los Angeles into a narrow channel leading to the ocean.

"No," said Carter, laughing heartily, "because they won't be last words."

The President was whistled — not piped — aboard the submarine and, as he disappeared down an open hatch, the presidential ensign was raised from the conning tower.

As soon as the Carters got inside the sub, the President shucked his blue-gray suit coat and donned a tan nylon windbreaker he carried off Air Force One when he arrived here from his holiday weekend retreat at St. Simons Island, Ga.

The President and First Lady were taken first to a wardroom where Rickover briefed them on the status of his beloved nuclear Navy, which boasts 108 submarines and six surface ships.

The admiral told Carter the Los Angeles required refueling only every 400,000 miles, compared to 5,000-6,000 on the conventional subs on which the President served.

As the tugs pulled the Los Angeles away from the pier, the President and Mrs. Carter emerged from the top of the conning tower, where they waved to people on docks nearby. Mrs. Carter wore a gray and white striped pant suit and sneakers.

Tot Takes Family Auto For Joy Ride

HUBBARDSTON, Mich. (AP) — The sheriff's deputy leaned into the smashed, upside-down car, spotting only a child and a dog, he asked the little boy where his mother was.

"I was driving," 3-year-old Michael Delbert Ward responded indignantly.

The Hubbardston lad had grabbed a car key when his mother wasn't watching, loaded his dog into the family auto Thursday and took the wheel, tracing an erratic two-mile patch through rural Ionia County, the sheriff's office said.

Michael managed to drive by hopping from the seat onto the accelerator and then jumping back onto the seat to steer, reported deputy Terry Jungel.

The car veered in and out of a ditch, heading down the road for about 15 minutes at roughly 10 miles per hour.

Michael's father theorized the drive was triggered Wednesday night when he told his son he should begin acting like a big boy since he would be going to school soon, the deputy said.

Michael emerged from the wreck unhurt as did his dog. Jungel said the auto was heavily damaged.

No charges were filed.

and from the air, the ship looks like a long, narrow coffin filled with eggs.

Boston is the only U.S. port where liquefied natural gas is delivered. The Coast Guard considers the tankers so dangerous that all other traffic is halted when they enter the harbor.

Other docking facilities for such cargoes are being prepared in New York, Providence, R.I., and Cove Point, Md.

One of the most outspoken critics of gas tankers is James MacKenzie, a director of the Union of Concerned Scientists.

"If and when an accident occurs, there would be an enormous conflagration with people being injured for miles around," MacKenzie said. "It would be a devastation. There would be a huge fireball in the sky visible from miles away."

"It has a potential of being very hazardous under certain conditions," said Robert Reid, a natural gas expert at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "But if it's handled right, it's about as safe as anything. There are lots of other dangerous gases we handle on our waterways."

Rolf Glasted, the chief development engineer for the new tanker, said he believes the ship is a safe way to transport fuel.

"No question about it," he said. "And no effort has been spared to make it so."

by during the holdup, after which the young woman scurried out the door of the ice cream parlor which is located in a busy shopping center.

The victim said she jumped into a waiting car described as a 1974 or '75 domestic sedan, dark blue, driven by a second, male suspect. A third man sat in the back seat, wearing a pulled-down hat.

Marriott told Officer Jim Austin the bandana bandit wore a matching blue denim jacket and pantsuit outfit and was about five feet, four inches tall, weighing about 110 pounds. "This gal has been hitting all over the county," Detective Nolen said today.

Investigators say she has robbed small businesses such as liquor stores and markets in at least five Orange County cities over the past few weeks, using the same method of operation.

Victims describing the scarved gunman indicate to police that she selects a different color scarf to wear as an accessory before every armed robbery.

Witnesses to the Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlor holdup which occurred at 6:30 p.m. were unable to obtain descriptions of her two male partners.

Bandit Hits Coast Market

A gunman who threatened the female clerk with an automatic pistol took $60 in cash from a Capistrano Beach market Thursday night.

Orange County Sheriff's Officers said the robbery occurred at Paul's Market, 26891 Camino de Estrella, where the clerk was ordered at gunpoint to empty the cash register and put the money in a paper bag.

Officers described the gunman as a male Mexican-American, about 15 to 16 years of age, wearing an olive green military jacket, dark blue slacks and a dark blue watch cap.

Issue Worsens

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Police were called to deal with unruly pupils, 800 teachers stayed out sick and the San Diego school system gave in Thursday on a stumbling block in contract talks. School Supt. Tom Goodman said the district is withdrawing a plan to restructure the salary-step scheduled for the system's 5,800 teachers.

Tie-in Possible

Attempted Assault, Burglary Probed

Newport Beach police are investigating an attempted burglary and an attempted rape to see if the two crimes are related.

Both cases occurred early Thursday morning within three blocks in Central Newport and both cases involved break-ins through bathroom windows.

The first case was reported shortly after midnight when an 18-year-old UC Irvine student told police she frightened off a would-be intruder by screaming.

The woman said she was drying off after a shower when she saw her bathroom curtains move and a man's hand come through the open window.

After the man ran off, the student and police found bricks stacked up outside the six-foot high window.

About five hours later, a 19-year-old woman reported a rape attempt inside her apartment.

She told police she was awakened when a man put a T-shirt over her mouth, but she squirmed away from him and screamed, frightening him off.

As the man ran out of her apartment, she said she noticed he was naked.

Police said the man apparently got into the apartment by opening an unlocked bathroom window and climbing in.

The suspect in the rape attempt is described as being five feet, 11 inches tall, and weighing about 175 pounds. The woman said he had shoulder-length, curly blond hair.

Down to Earth

Pizzeria Plaster Placater Puzzled

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The owner of a local pizzeria has had to contend with complaints about both nudity and racial discrimination since he put a replica of Michelangelo's David in front of the shop.

Lorenzo Amato said he was surprised when he started receiving complaints about the four-foot nine-inch statue.

"People started to make calls telling me it was obscene, that they were going to knock it down, that it would hurt my business, so I painted black pants from the waist to the knees," Amato said.

But painting the statue resulted in 150 complaints that it was discrimination to paint the statue half black and half white.

"I didn't know what to do after I painted it black and people started to complain," said Amato.

He said local police told him the statue was not illegal and a priest told him it posed no religious conflicts.

Then Amato acted with results from a straw poll and whitewashed the statue, which is the way it remains.

Asked whether he thought people realized the Michelangelo's statue was a work of art, Amato replied: "Apparently not. They think it's obscene."

Amato's next worry is a statue of the Virgin Mary he wants to place in front of the shop.

"Mary has half of her bust exposed," said Amato, "but I refuse to put a bra on her because it would look funny, but before I do anything else, I'm going to take another poll."

Suspect Nabbed

EXETER (AP) — A Navy recruit, Allen Raymond Casselman, 23, has been arrested for investigation of murdering a Lancaster man whose badly decomposed body was found in a remote area east of here, Tulare County authorities report. Casselman was already being held in San Diego on wife-beating charges.

Command Tops

Singlaub Gets Big Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub was named chief of staff of the Army's biggest command today, less than a week after being relieved as U.S. staff chief in South Korea for publicly challenging President Carter's decision to withdraw American ground troops from there.

Singlaub's assignment as chief of staff of the Army Forces Command headquartered at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., was announced a day after Carter said the general would be given a job of "equal degree of responsibility and stature" to the Korean post.

Singlaub has returned to Korea to clear up personal matters and will take over his new job on June 27.

The Army Forces Command is responsible for training, equipping and insuring the combat readiness of all Army troops in the continental United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It is also responsible for supervising the training of the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve.

Singlaub will be stepping into a vacancy created by the promotion of Maj. Gen. John Q. Henion to three stars and command of the 9th Corps in Japan. The Henion promotion was announced April 14.

We know that color coordinating is the primary target when buying carpet. Quality is usually second in line, and because we have such a vast selection of qualities, it is easy to coordinate color and quality to each individual's taste.

However, we know that a volume of samples looking at you can seem very confusing — but we feel that showing just a few samples is not a fair representation of the carpet business. Our huge selection gives our salespeople every possible option in working with people, helping them to find the perfect choice.

Jury Eyes Diedrich-Conrad Land Link

By GARY GRANVILLE

The Orange County Grand Jury's probe into political campaign practices swept out Thursday to delve into real estate transactions allegedly involving federal indicted Gene Conrad and county Supervisor Ralph Diedrich.

But Diedrich's attorney today said the Fullerton supervisor had no part in any of Conrad's real estate deals.

"As a matter of fact," Fullerton attorney Michael Remington said, "Ralph referred Conrad to me with a warning that I watch my wallet. He (Diedrich) said he didn't want to get involved in any way."

"Unfortunately," Remington added, "I did get involved. And it cost me a few bucks."

Conrad is the former paid

police informer who turned political financier last fall when he dumped more than $53,000 into various campaigns.

Early this year, Conrad's activities and those of the Irvine-based firm he heads, Pension Funds of America, fell under the scrutiny of a federal Grand Jury as well as the county Grand Jury.

In April, the federal jury indicted the burly ex-Chicagoan on seven fraud related charges related to $1.2 million worth of loan fees for loans allegedly never made.

Like Diedrich, Conrad has denied the two were ever joined in business ventures.

And Remington today emphasized that point.

"Naturally I'm concerned because anything Conrad was involved in spooks me a little. But that's hindsight now that I've lost a few dollars. However, Ralph had nothing to do with any of the so-called transactions that never were," Remington said.

He admitted that Diedrich had had past dealings with two witnesses who appeared before the jury Thursday.

The two witnesses were real estate brokers Stephen Berck and Bart Rainone.

Diedrich, who is out of town and was not available for comment, showed on a recent conflict of interest statement that he received income from Berck and Rainone's firms last year.

"Yes," Remington said, "that's true. So, big deal. Ralph's a wealthy man with extensive holdings and you would expect him to do business with brokers."

Remington said, "The jury obviously is following whatever Ralph did whether there's a re-

Death Penalty Measure To Brown

Penalty Measure To Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate sent a death penalty bill to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s desk today for a certain veto.

The 27-10 vote came after lengthy debate that focused more on charges of political motives than on the minor amendments which were the only issue technically before the Senate.

The vote was the exact two-thirds majority required in the 40-seat house.

"I am convinced the punishment should not be the death penalty. I am convinced a better punishment would be life imprisonment without possibility of parole," said Sen. Milton Marks of San Francisco, one of only two Republicans to oppose the bill to restore capital punishment for treason and 15 categories of murder.

Sen. John Briggs of Fullerton, a Republican candidate for governor, said Brown's "heart bleeds not for the attacked, but the attacker. He continues to speak out for those who commit crimes."

"Every day in California, over five people are executed — not by the state, but by the criminals," Briggs said.

Briggs also charged that the Democratic governor made a deal with Democrats in the legislature to override his veto to prevent the political embarrassment of facing a death penalty initiative on the ballot next year.

Democratic floor leader David Roberti of Los Angeles angrily replied to Briggs: "No deals have been made."

"I'm proud of the governor on this issue," Roberti said of Brown's pledge to veto the bill as a matter of conscience.

"Sen. Briggs, you are running for the governorship. You want the headlines," Roberti said.

The Senate approved an earlier draft of the death penalty bill on a 29-10 vote March 31. Today's vote approved amendments made by the Assembly to simplify trial procedures and limit the manner in which prior records can be brought before the jury.

The Assembly gave approval on a 54-23 vote Monday.

LONG, LONG TRAIL A-WIDING AT SAN ONOFRE PARK All Available Camping Spaces Snatched Up Quickly

Camp Fills Up Cars Wait at San Onofre

It was first come, first served at San Onofre State Park today and the first came last night and slept in front of the gates.

This morning when the gates opened to the newly refurbished park, 150 cars, campers, trucks, trailers and other assorted vehicles were in line for the 290 available camping spaces.

Parks officials expected all the available camping spaces to be taken quickly.

Camping spaces in the two other state parks at San Clemente and Doheny were "sold out" under the state's reservation system a month ago for the Memorial Day weekend.

Although camping spaces are gone, day-use spaces were still available.

Controversial Ship Goes to Work Today

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The first of 18 American-built natural gas tankers is being dedicated here while controversy still simmers over whether such ships are answers to the energy shortage or potential sources of flaming disaster.

Teens Admit Mo-ped Thefts In Huntington

The case of the mobile mobsters known as the mo-ped bandits who specialized in hit and run strong arm robberies of women pedestrians in Huntington Beach today has been solved.

Detective Dick Nolen said two teenagers, 15 and 16, taken into custody on burglary charges have admitted to the several purse-snatching incidents.

Cases including one in which a woman, 73, was knocked down in an alley and another in which a lady leaving a bank lost her purse and $185, were reported.

Detective Nolen indicated today others apparently went unreported to police.

He said many citizen tips supplied after newspaper coverage of the incidents led him to suspect two local youths.

Confronted about the recent wave of purse snatch robberies, the youths, who fit the bandits' descriptions perfectly, admitted their role, Nolen said.

They are now awaiting Orange County Juvenile Court hearing on the burglary charges for which they were originally arrested.

But, Nolen said, since victims of the mo-ped bandits purse snatching escapades cannot positively identify the two as their hit and run robbers, they will not face armed robbery charges.

Scrubbing Up

Costa Mesa-Newport Harbor Lions Club members (from left) Eric Johnson, Lou Yantorn and Conrad "Shorty" Schaefer scrub deep fry cookers in preparation for club's 32nd annual Fish Fry and Carnival, slated June 3, 4, and 5 at Lion's Park in Costa Mesa. Lions members have set a goal of $100,000 for this year's event, which raises funds for local youth-oriented groups and services to the blind.

Command Tops

Singlaub Gets Major Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub was named chief of staff of the Army's biggest command today, less than a week after being relieved as U.S. staff chief in South Korea for publicly challenging President Carter's decision to withdraw American ground troops from there.

Singlaub's assignment as chief of staff of the Army Forces Command headquartered at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., was announced a day after Carter said the general would be given a job of "equal degree of responsibility and stature" to the Korean post.

Singlaub has returned to Korea to clear up personal matters and will take over his new job on June 27.

The Army Forces Command is responsible for training, equipping and insuring the combat readiness of all Army troops in the continental United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It is also responsible for supervising the training of the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve.

'Weighty Problem'

Obese Sub Crew Hides From Carter

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Five crew members of the submarine Los Angeles said they were banished from the boat today, while President Carter was aboard, because they're too fat.

The five reported they were assigned to temporary duty aboard the submarine Spadefish here and were kept aboard, out of sight, until Carter and the Los Angeles left port.

Only one of the five, William Darrendorf, a fire control specialist, said he was willing to be quoted by name about the incident.

The men claimed five or six other Los Angeles crew members also had been deemed overweight but were not banished because they were needed to help run the boat.

Obviously angered at being denied an opportunity to meet Carter, the portly submariners — one said he weighed 260 pounds — said they had been working long hours and getting about three hours sleep a night preparing the Los Angeles for the presidential visit.

Capt. Lawrence Burkhardt, a spokesman at the submarine base here, said the Los Angeles cost $100 million, will be operated by Burmah Oil Company of England to carry gas from Indonesia to Japan.

The giant, black-hulled ship carries its cargo in liquid form in five globe-shaped tanks. The tanks protrude above the deck, and from the air, the ship looks like a long, narrow carton filled with eggs.

Boston is the only U.S. port where liquefied natural gas is delivered. The Coast Guard considers the tankers so dangerous that all other traffic is halted when they enter the harbor.

Other docking facilities for such cargoes are being prepared in New York, Providence, R.I., and Cove Point, Md.

One of the most outspoken critics of gas tankers is James MacKenzie, a director of the Union of Concerned Scientists.

"If and when an accident occurs, there would be an enormous conflagration with people being injured for miles around," MacKenzie said. "It would be a devastation. There would be a huge fireball in the sky visible from miles away."

"It has a potential of being very hazardous under certain conditions," said Robert Reid, a natural gas expert at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "But if it's handled right, it's about as safe as anything. There are lots of other dangerous gases we handle on our waterways."

Rolf Glasted, the chief development engineer for the new tanker, said he believes the ship is a safe way to transport fuel.

"No question about it," he said. "And no effort has been spared to make it so."

Drug Firm Faces Charge

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A pharmaceutical firm was charged in U.S. District Court here with manufacturing Laetrile under unsanitary conditions.

Federal prosecutors said the Laetrile, believed by some to be effective against cancer, was adulterated and could have been contaminated at the Mosinee Research Corp. plant in Manitowoc, Wis. The charges said the substance was prepared, packed and held under unsanitary conditions.

And the rock thrower who has terrorized Riverside Freeway motorists for the past eight months — smashing more than 35 windshields — may be the same man who has smashed beehives in the canyon and who has broken into the pro shop at the Green River Golf Course on several occasions, they said.

Investigators believe the man confronted by Allen may be living off the land and making his headquarters in the rough terrain near Featherly Regional Park and the Green River Golf Course.

They believe that his periodic bouts of rock throwing along the Riverside Freeway may be indicative of his need to vent his frustrations at a civilization that may have driven him to loneliness and exile.

The attack on Allen, who is now recovering from knife wounds on his right arm and neck, has given them their first real description of the rock thrower.

The Mission Viejo deputy described him as a short, bearded black man, dressed in dark clothing and wearing what appeared to be Army boots.

Phantom's Activities Probed by Deputies

By TOM BARLEY

Orange County Sheriff's officers are becoming increasingly convinced today that the so-called Phantom Rock Thrower who eluded capture after stabbing a deputy may be responsible for a number of other bizarre incidents in the general area of his anti-auto activities.

They believe that the man who was challenged by deputy Dave Allen Wednesday night may be the intruder who has carried off the carcasses of several dead goats in recent months from a goat ranch in Santa Ana Canyon.

Other officers and the Anaheim police helicopter took up the pursuit of the suspect in vain.

Investigators believe that the rock thrower may be the same man who has set a number of fires in the canyon area in recent years.

A man answering the rock thrower description was hunted for three days in the summer of 1974 while firemen fought a number of fires deliberately set in the bone dry Santa Ana mountains.

But sheriff's officers working on a new plan conceived since the attack on deputy Allen believe the rock thrower's days are numbered.

"I can't tell you a thing about it," a senior officer commented today. "But we believe we can track this man down and end what has been 10 frustrating months of nonsense in this general area."

Allen told his fellow officers that the man repeatedly warned him to leave him alone and emphasized his demands by tossing rocks at the deputy while the pair scrambled through brush and scrub at the side of the freeway.

Allen said he spotted the rock thrower while he was driving home from duty Wednesday night on the Riverside Freeway.

The deputy said the man he described and subsequently chased was piling rocks on the center divider of the freeway, apparently preparing for another session of windshield-shattering attacks on passing cars.

Fellow officers rushed Allen to the nearby Canyon General Hospital after the chase ended with the hunted man slashing the deputy in the neck and arm.

Carter Dives in Sub LA

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, a onetime career submarine officer, slipped beneath the surface of the Atlantic today aboard the nuclear-powered, hunter-killer sub Los Angeles.

When the Los Angeles began its dive at 8:15 a.m. PDT, Carter became the first president to cruise in a submerged undersea vessel since Dwight D. Eisenhower dove in aboard the nuclear-powered Sea Wolf 20 years ago.

By coincidence, Carter had been senior naval officer in charge during the construction of the Sea Wolf.

The Los Angeles took two to three minutes to complete its dive in waters about 35 miles off the Florida coast.

Carter had begun his Atlantic cruise some three hours earlier, eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles and perhaps willing to let wife Rosalynn take a turn in the "driver's seat."

Aboard nuclear subs, the individual who mans the helm is said to be driving the ship.

Accompanied by Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father of the nuclear Navy," the President and Mrs. Carter boarded the attack sub Los Angeles at Port Canaveral for the eight-hour cruise.

Carter, an Annapolis graduate, joked to reporters that when he was a career submarine officer, the undersea craft were called boats. He said they've grown so large they are now known as ships.

"Do you have any last words?" a reporter inquired shortly before two Navy tugs began nudging the Los Angeles into a narrow channel leading to the ocean.

"No," said Carter, laughing heartily, "because they won't be last words."

The President was whistled — not piped — aboard the submarine and, as he disappeared down an open hatch, the presidential ensign was raised from the conning tower.

VETO...

State Sen. George Deukmejian, author of the bill, met privately for about an hour with Brown Thursday to try to convince him to change his mind about his pledge Jan. 6 to veto any death penalty bill "as a matter of conscience."

Deukmejian said the meeting was "constructive" and hinted there was still a chance that Brown might reconsider.

But in a pre-recorded television interview broadcast a few hours later, Brown repeated his intention of vetoing the Deukmejian bill.

Brown said he still intends to veto the bill, even if politically damaging, and even though capital punishment may be reinstated anyway — either by a veto override in the legislature, or a ballot initiative.

"I think it would be better not to have it. I think at each point where it can be stopped, we should try to stop it," the Democratic governor said.

Haldeman Plans Expose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Those who enjoyed the published and televised inside stories of Watergate by John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Charles Colson and Richard Nixon have a new treat in store this fall — Watergate "with the gloves off and no holds barred" by H.R. Haldeman.

Haldeman called a news conference on his front lawn Thursday to say he is dissatisfied with Nixon's televised explanation of the Watergate cover-up and has a book coming out to outline his version.

Tools Taken From Costa Mesa Cycle

A Costa Mesa man told police Thursday someone stole tools worth $235 from his motorcycle trailer which he left parked in front of his house at 336 Hamilton St.

William Akins, a 35-year-old California highway patrolman, told police he was too tired to put the tools away after a day of dirt bike riding, and when he returned to the bike trailer later, the tools were missing.

Banks Hike Loan Rates

By the Associated Press
 A number of major commercial banks raised their prime lending rate from 6½ to 6¾ percent today.

Among banks increasing the rate were New York's Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank, and Chicago's Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, the nation's seventh-largest bank.

Bert Lance, director of the federal Office of Management and Budget, said he sees no reason why banks should be raising their prime rate. Lance said that banks "are awash with cash."

THIS WAS THE MODEL T — THE CAR THAT PUT THE WORLD ON WHEELS IN 1908
Fifty Years Ago Today This Classic Auto Was Put Out to Pasture

'Lizzie' Goes Strong

At 50, Model T Still Revolutionary

DETROIT (AP) — The last of the Model T Fords are 50 years old, but the simple black "Tin Lizzie" still stands out as the most revolutionary of automobiles.

It capped the industrial revolution, introduced the world to mass production, made $5 a day the standard wage and drove the United States toward a lifestyle based on auto ownership.

BEGINNING IN 1908, Ford turned out more than 15 million Model T's, and the car's popularity was unchallenged until 1927, when General Motors' Chevrolet took over first place. Affluence was spreading and Americans wanted a choice.

Model T production was halted by Henry Ford's order on May 26, 1927, at the principal plant in Highland Park, Mich., and a few months later at two other plants.

The 19-year total was 15,456,868 Model Ts, a record that stood for 44 years. In 1971, the Volkswagen Beetle became the new champion, but only after 26 years of production. Beetle output now stands at about 18.7 million.

MODEL T POPULARITY had peaked in 1925, when Henry Ford's assembly-line production facilities were turning out 2,000 cars a day, permitting the base price to drop to $290 and daily wages to rise to $5. His manufacturing innovations put a car within the means of millions of Americans. It was cheap, reliable transportation.

In its first 10 years, the Model T had to be started with an often-difficult crank. Uncounted broken fingers, hands, arms and noses were dispensed when the crank snapped back.

There was no door on the driver's side of those earliest Model Ts.

The accelerator was on the steering column. The brake pedal was on the right, a reverse pedal was in the center and a pedal for shifting gears — from low to high and back — was on the left.

THE FOUR-CYLINDER engine could push the car to 45 miles per hour and could run for 22 miles on a gallon of gasoline at that speed, but few people went that fast because the car would vibrate violently. Besides, roads were in no shape to support such breakneck speeds.

The Model T was gradually refined, and by the 1920s it had an ignition key on the dashboard and a starter button on the floor. It also had one gauge — an ammeter to measure electric current. But fuel levels were still measured by a stick. Speed and distances were guessed at.

FROM THE START, the Model T came only in basic black, because that was the paint that dried fastest — important on an assembly line. Henry Ford once said people could have the Model T in any color they wanted "so long as it is black."

In December 1927, Ford reopened Highland Park to produce the Model A. But the new car never approached the success of its predecessor.

The Model T is far from extinct. Ford Motor Company officials say there may be 100,000 Tin Lizzie owners around the country. It's obvious that some of them tool along, because Model T parts still are listed occasionally in automotive catalogues.

'Corruption' Alleged

Grindle Asks Public Funding

By HILARY KAYE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Shirley Grindle, former Orange County planning commissioner, says she's convinced campaign fund-raising in Orange County has reached the level of "outright corruption."

To combat that, Mrs. Grindle suggested Thursday during a talk at UC Irvine that local campaigns be financed primarily with public funds, rather than private donations.

"Let's take the game away from the fat cats and return it to the local people," argued Mrs. Grindle, who served four years on the commission including two terms as chairwoman.

Mrs. Grindle says she's considering running for a seat on the Orange County Board of Supervisors, now that districts have been redrawn and she would be battling Ralph Diedrich, not Ralph Clark.

If she decides to run, she says she would utilize a grassroots campaign, where she would not rely on contributions from the development industry.

According to the former commissioner, there is a "close alliance" between supervisors and members of the development industry, which includes developers, architects, labor unions, contractors, engineers and others. "It's no secret that the development industry in Orange County is the primary source of funds for the campaigns. Land development is the biggest game in town," Mrs. Grindle said.

"Developers are totally dependent on favorable decisions by supervisors, particularly in the south end of the county where there are vast areas of undeveloped land," she added.

Mrs. Grindle admitted that not all developers or supervisors are happy with the situation, but that it is part of the current system.

Mrs. Grindle explained that contributing to supervisors' campaigns doesn't necessarily insure "yes" votes.

"But it lets the developer avoid being on the 'didn't contribute list,'" she said.

"Persons on those lists can be assured that their projects will be mysteriously delayed or they will be subtly harassed because they aren't playing the game," Mrs. Grindle asserted.

Mrs. Grindle has been involved in current secret Grand Jury testimony related to campaign practices concerning the board of supervisors.

On that subject she commented only, "What I told the Grand Jury won't hang anybody. But what came out later may hang quite a few."

$200 Monkey Suit

'Big Foot' Admits Hoax

VANCOUVER, Canada (AP)

A bus driver and several passengers who reported seeing the legendary man-beast Sasquatch were tricked by four practical jokers using a $200 monkey suit and shoulder pads, according to the hoaxsters.

"It was a just a good practical joke, we thought it might fool a few people," said Ken Ticehurst, the 5-foot-11, 165-pound man who dressed up in the gorilla costume. "I was running like O.J. Simpson."

For years, stories have persisted that the gorilla-sized Sasquatch, North America's version of the Abominable Snowman, lives in the woods of the Pacific Northwest. From time to time sightings are reported and there is at least one photograph of an alleged Sasquatch, although it looks more like a blurry picture of a gorilla. Several books and articles have been written about the beast.

The pranksters said the hoax took three weeks to prepare, including buying the suit from a costume shop, manufacturing a foot to make a footprint, checking bus schedules so enough people would see it "to make it more believable," and planting a phony witness on the bus to make the first move and get passengers excited.

SEMINAR SLATED ABOUT MONSTERS—A9

The reported sighting occurred May 15 as Pat Lindquist was driving a Pacific Stage Lines bus westbound on the Harrison Hot Springs, British Columbia-to-Vancouver run May 15. He and several passengers saw what they thought was a Sasquatch lumber across Highway 7 about 35 miles east of Vancouver.

Lindquist stopped the bus and pursued the creature into the bush.

"At first, we thought it was a prankster in a fur suit," said Lindquist, a 28-year-old reserve Vancouver city policeman, at the time of the incident. "It had flat, flared nostrils like a monkey and large white eyes. It didn't make any sound except heavy breathing."

Lindquist was unavailable for comment on the hoax report.

Ticehurst, 24, of Port Coquitlam, revealed the scam Thursday in an interview on a radio talk show along with Don Ticehurst, 26, and Rene Quesnel, 19, of Port Moody. The three said they planned the stunt along with Gordon Jacobi, 26.

They said they based their pattern on a resin-cast Sasquatch foot on a book about the creature by Don Hunter and Rene Dahinden.

Prosecutor Raps Younger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger "is very much mistaken" if he believes Patricia Hearst got a more severe sentence in her federal bank robbery trial because her parents are wealthy, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning says.

"If he (Younger) is criticizing the federal prosecution, I think he is wrong," said Browning, who added that he has written Younger a letter taking issue with the attorney general's remarks.

Younger was quoted as saying if Miss Hearst had an alcoholic welfare mother, she would have served less time in jail.

Nixon a Surprise Guest at Luncheon

Former President Richard Nixon dropped in on a women's club luncheon in San Clemente Thursday to thank the ladies for sending his wife a painted rock inscribed, "You're wonderful."

Nixon stopped in before his golf game to greet the San Clemente Women's Club, which had heard Nixon aide Col. Jack Brennan talk about the Nixon family and his own interest in the California Angels baseball club.

The 74 women were meeting at the Estrella Golf Club, formerly the Shorecliff Golf Club, where Nixon plays three times a week.

"He really looked happier today than I've seen him for a long time," said club member Mrs. Vern Haugland.

After Brennan's talk, the women gave him a painted rock to take to Mrs. Nixon.

Later, the Nixon party drove by the club meeting room in golf carts, she said. Nixon, wearing a black turtle-necked sweater and black-and-white golf trousers, waved then turned around the carts and returned.

"He came barging right through the open door and said 'Hi,' Everybody jumped up and said, 'Hi, Mr. President' and ran up to shake hands. He said, 'I wasn't sure you'd all be of voting age,' looking around at all the gray heads."

No Holiday For Highway Patrolmen

The three-day Memorial Day weekend will be a holiday for most Orange County but not for the 190 California Highway Patrolmen assigned to county freeways.

Patrol spokesman Jerry Maxwell said all officers will be on duty at some time over the three-day holiday watching for speeders and for anyone driving erratically.

Maxwell noted that 63 people died in traffic crashes in California over the Memorial Day weekend last year. It was the highest three-day death toll in four years. Four of those deaths occurred in Orange County.

"We hope we don't have a repeat this year," he added.

Maxwell said during last year's Memorial Day weekend, patrolmen assigned to the Santa Ana division, which covers the bulk of Orange County, arrested 104 drinking drivers and cited about 1,400 speeders.

OFF & RUNNING: These appear to be the days when the more zany events are staged in our region and elsewhere. Last night it was chili cooking. Tomorrow it may be mule riding.

Indeed, only last evening, the Balboa Bay Club in Newport Beach, home of luxury yachts and luxury apartments for those who lead the good life, became the headquarters for chili-makers.

This was the California State Chili Cookoff, which draws chili cooks from all over our Golden State. Each cooker and his team of experts is convinced they brew up the best chili around. And they all get to try their hand at it during the competition.

THOUSANDS ALSO gather at Newport's club by the bay to do chili testing.

This chili making is no joke. A lot of hijinks surround the event but not for those cooks who are sweating over chili pots.

The chili-makers were positioned out on the Bay Club's back parking lot so they wouldn't be distracted by such events as celebrants attempting to walk a rope stretched across the BBC's swimming pool. Few made it but many participated.

A prestigious panel of judges was assembled to do the chili-tasting and select California's grand champion. Such notables were on this panel as television personality Ralph Story, auto racing person Carroll Shelby, noted Orange County jurist Calvin Schmidt, Daily Pilot Editor Tom Keevil, Santa Ana Register Editor Jim Dean and a character garbed in monk's cloth known as Father Duffy.

I would like to report to you who won but there was so much celebrating on the grandstand it was difficult to determine.

I can report to you that one winner, in a highly emotional moment, grabbed the microphone and testified to the assembled:

"IF MY PARENTS are out there somewhere, I want to thank them for my college education."

Despite what you may suspect that chili does to your digestive processes, I defy you to attend an event like the Balboa Bay Club's chili cookoff without succumbing to the temptation of at least testing the chili.

I don't know whose chili I tested. I wouldn't malign that fine person if I did know. The suspicion here is, however, that his product placed about 94th in the competition.

Mind you, it tasted fine. Trouble is, I expect to continue tasting it through the Memorial Day weekend.

This brings us to mule skinning. Don't ask me how. But you can move from chili to mules if you want to travel up to the town of Bishop, where they are holding Bishop's Eighth Annual Mule Days.

THE ONLY CONNECTION I can think of between the two events is a man named Dee Cook. He used to be a Newport Beach city councilman and now serves on the Bishop City Council.

Maybe Cook will be riding a mule during the celebration. If we could get him to eat a bowl of chili while doing it, we'd have a celebration from the mountains to the sea.

WOMEN DEMAND JUDGE RESIGN

Judge's Rape View Has Women Stewing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A county judge who says rape is a normal reaction from juveniles exposed to provocative clothing in a sexually permissive society is under fire from women demanding his resignation.

Sixty people picketed the city-county building here Thursday, protesting comments made Wednesday by Dane County Judge Archie Simonson in the case of a 16-year-old girl raped by three boys in a school stairwell.

At a disposition hearing for a 15-year-old boy who in January had pleaded no contest to charges of second-degree sexual assault, Simonson said the boy's reaction was understandable.

COMPLAINING ABOUT provocative women's clothing, Simonson asked, "Should we punish severely a 15 or 16-year-old who reacts to it normally?"

Asst. Dist. Atty. Meryl Manhardt called the judge's courtroom remarks "particularly sexist." She said the rape was the most serious crime in the history of Madison public schools.

The judge said in an interview Thursday that it was "normal for impressionable juveniles to react violently" to some women's clothing because they are "groping to decide what is proper conduct in this world."

"THEIR SEXUAL juices really start to flow at 14, 15 and 16," said the 52-year-old judge. "It doesn't take much to provoke a guy. Whether you like it or not, a woman's a sex object and they're the ones who turn the man on, generally."

Simonson found the youth delinquent and ordered him to remain at home for a year under court supervision. The boy must be tutored at home and continue receiving treatment at a nearby youth center.

A 14-year-old accused in the case was sentenced to one year at a group home in Milwaukee. A third boy was given immunity from prosecution in exchange for testimony against the others.

SIMMONSON SAID his remarks should not cause women to fear appearing before him in sexual assault cases, but the women protesters disagreed.

"Rape is a violent crime, a terrible crime, and here is a judge calling it a normal reaction," said a statement issued by the protesters, whose action was sponsored by the local chapter of the National Organization of Women (NOW).

"Simonson's usefulness is over as far as his continued judgeship is concerned," NOW said. "What woman would ever believe that she could receive fair treatment from him?"

THE PROTESTERS, including women dressed in bikinis and parkas, said they objected to Simonson's courtroom remarks, not to the punishment ordered for the youth.

Elena Cappella, one of the protesters, said women were organizing around the city of 175,000, home of the University of Wisconsin. She said they would try to have Simonson recalled and would work to defeat him in elections next April.

'Human Fly' Hero

NYC Drops Suit Threat for Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The city made peace with its newest hero today, dropping the threat of a $250,000 suit against World Trade Center climber George Willig and settling for a fine of $1.10 — a penny per floor.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame met with Willig at City Hall to work out the amicable settlement and then accepted a dollar and a dime from the 27-year-old climber's lawyer at a packed news conference.

Willig in turn agreed to give the city some tips on how to prevent a rash of attempted copycat climbs.

"It's been done, so let's leave it at that," said the smiling Willig, who works as a toy designer and climbs mountains for recreation.

HE TOLD REPORTERS that Thursday's ascent "was like climbing a ladder" and the only problem he suffered was blisters on his hands. Thousands watched and cheered below as Willig, of Queens, climbed the quarter-mile-high skyscraper in 3 1/2 hours. Even police who handcuffed him took time to shake his hand first.

Willig's climb also left officials wondering what else could be in store for its tallest skyscraper, the second highest in the country.

French aerialist Phillippe Petit three years ago walked from one of the World Trade Center's 1,350-foot towers to another on a tightrope, and about a year later Owen Quinn became the first man to parachute off the trade center. Both were promptly arrested.

TODAY THE new hero, "Human Fly" Willig, was at home receiving congratulations.

This time, he said in a copyrighted story in the New York Daily News, it will be rock-climbing. "I find it much scarier than climbing the World Trade Center," says Willig.

What made Willig's quarter-mile ascent so easy was a small piece of equipment he designed himself and hopes to patent. The T-shaped device fit into the finger-sized grooves that go up the aluminum corners of the towers and which are used by window washers. The device, secured with a twist, holds a sling for the climber's foot.

Angolans Claim Victory

Many Said Slain in Crush of Attempted Coup

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Angolan President Agostinho Neto said today his forces had crushed an uprising by extreme leftists after a shootout in which there was heavy bloodshed.

Many men and women died, Neto said. He gave no further details.

In a broadcast monitored in Johannesburg, the Marxist president said those responsible for the revolt would be punished "with utmost severity."

Earlier, the government said it had put down the uprising after the rebels seized the radio station and attempted to storm the presidential palace, army headquarters and the prison where purged dissident leaders were being held.

"drastic measures" would be taken to prevent another uprising. He provided no details during the 11-minute broadcast.

ALVES REPORTEDLY opposes Neto's plans to attract Western investment, reinforce ties with the former colonial power, Portugal, and for the gradual withdrawal of the 10,000-15,000 Cuban troops who remain in the central African country.

The Cubans helped Neto's group defeat two non-Communist liberation movements in the 1975 Angolan civil war.

A Luanda-based correspondent for the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug quoted one of the Cubans as saying, "the reaction has been overcome, what else."

It was not known whether the Cubans or Neto's Soviet advisers played any role in the day's events, although Tanjug said the Cubans were checking identification papers in the capital.

TRUCKLOADS OF heavily armed Angolan troops were seen rushing toward the presidential palace, and witnesses said the streets were largely deserted except for troops.

Witnesses said the shooting began about 3 a.m. local time.

Long 'n Short Sheets Law Repeal Backed

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The Oregon House tossed and turned but finally voted 50 to 7 to repeal a law that says inkeepers must have bed sheets at least nine feet long.

The bill to repeal now goes to the Senate. The bedsheets bill was sponsored by Rep. Nancie Fadeley (D-Eugene), who can't say why the law got on the books in the first place. It's been there since 1909, along with a penalty of $50 a day for violations.

Dissident Rep. Mike Ragsdale (R-Beaverton), a six-footer, said that tall people need long sheets. He said he would have sought "vigorous enforcement of the law" — if he had been aware of it.

Marines Immune In Suit

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A judge says a $21 million suit by parents of a Marine fatally injured in pugil stick training cannot be heard because the military is immune from such litigation.

The ruling Thursday came in a suit stemming from the death of Pvt. Lynn E. McClure of Lufkin, Tex., who was injured while undergoing a bout after bout with the sticks, or wooden staves.

THE CASE triggered investigations at the U.S. Marine Corps Recruit Depot that led to court-martial proceedings against a series of officers and non-coms.

McClure, 20, received serious head injuries in December, 1975, and died three months later at a Veterans Administration Hospital in Houston without regaining consciousness.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Enright said the suit by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Calhoun of Lufkin, McClure's mother and stepfather, is ineligible for hearing because of the 27-year-old Feres Doctrine, which says the military cannot be sued for the injuries or death of a member of the armed forces.

Drinking Age Drop Proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Another proposal to lower the drinking age from 21 to 19 — this time through a vote of the people — has reached the Assembly floor.

The measure by Assemblyman Lou Papan, (D-Daly City), won an 8-2 vote of the Assembly Judiciary Committee Thursday.

IF IT PASSES both houses, it will go on the ballot next year.

The legislature has voted down numerous attempts to lower the drinking age.

"I don't consider drinking any greater responsibility than voting for president or getting married," Papan said in an interview after the vote.

PAPAN SAID he set the age at 19 rather than 18 because many 18-year-olds are still in high school.

RIVAL PROPERTY RELIEF TAX BILLS APPROVED IN SENATE. Sen. Jerry Smith, Left, and Sen. Nicholas Petris Authored Plans

Two Tax Bills Backed

Third Property Relief Bill Awaits Debate

By STEVE LAWRENCE

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Two rival property tax relief bills have been approved by the state Senate, but the votes were little more than ritual.

The real showdown on what may be close to $1 billion a year in tax cuts is still weeks away, and it will occur in a special committee that hasn't even been formed yet.

ON THURSDAY, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s property tax relief bill survived a close Senate vote and was sent to the Assembly after lengthy debate. A few minutes later, a rival measure backed by liberals and labor was also sent to the Assembly.

Brown's bill, carried by Sen. Jerry Smith (D-Saratoga), cleared the upper house on a 27-8 vote — the bare two-thirds majority needed for passage in the 40-seat Senate.

THE OTHER MEASURE, by Sen. Nicholas Petris (D-Oakland), needed only a simple majority. It was approved without a vote to spare, 21-13.

The bills differ mainly in the amount of direct aid they would provide and their sources of revenue. But both authors said they planned to make changes in the Assembly that would alter dollar figures now in the bills.

SMITH'S BILL, as now written, would provide $435 million in direct homeowner property tax relief and $140 million in renter assistance its first year. But he said he would boost those totals to $500 million and $250 million because of a projected increase in the state's budget surplus.

PETRIS' BILL would provide $660 million in property tax aid for homeowners and $465 million for renters in its first year, 1978-79.

A third bill, by Assemblyman Willie Brown (D-San Francisco), is still in an Assembly committee. It is awaiting amendments that would boost its tax relief from $850 million to over $1 billion.

THE FINAL PLAN will probably be a composite of those three measures, written by a six member senate-Assembly conference committee which can be formed to work out differences after each measure passes each house in a different form.

The Petris bill aims more money at low-income homeowners than the other two.

TO HELP PAY for the relief, the Petris bill would raise income taxes for the wealthiest six percent of the state's taxpayers and limit capital gains allowances, especially for higher income persons.

Petris said, however, that this would cut the number of additional income tax brackets in the bill from nine to four and make up the difference by using up more of the budget surplus.

SMITH'S BILL contains no tax increase, while Assemblyman Brown's bill contains a smaller income tax hike.

The Senate also approved a constitutional amendment that would activate another part of the Smith bill. That provision would enable owner-occupied homes to be taxed at a different rate than other property.

THAT WOULD BOOST homeowner relief after the first year of the bill, Smith said. The constitutional amendment, which cleared the Senate on a 27-12 vote, would have to be approved by the voters in 1978 before taking effect.

Police Arrest 401 In UC Demonstration

By The Associated Press
Police arrested 401 sit-in demonstrators before dawn today at the University of California at Santa Cruz, after students demonstrated at several UC campuses where demands included ending university ties with firms doing business in South Africa.

Police said the demonstrators cooperated with officers and no one was hurt.

MOST OF THOSE arrested were cited for trespassing and released on their promise to appear in court June 2.

Some 40 policemen and five vans moved up to the administration building at Santa Cruz late Thursday and began arresting students inside the building.

Panel 'Startled' In RFK Hearing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A witness who underscored his "second gun" assassination theory by pulling out a revolver startled county supervisors looking into the 1968 slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Theodore Charach, a journalist who wants a presidential commission to investigate Kennedy's death, was testifying loudly at the hearing Thursday when he drew the gun and pointed it at his head.

THE THREE supervisors, nearly dozing during the long hearing, jerked upright in their seats. A security officer, Lance Harper, rushed up and grabbed the gun. The revolver was not loaded and Charach had a permit for it.

The session was the last of public hearings on a report by special county investigator Thomas F. Kranz, on the assassination. Kranz concluded there was no proof that Sirhan B. Sirhan did not act alone in the 1968 shooting of Kennedy in a hotel pantry.

Supreme Court ruling against the university's special admissions program for minorities. At Santa Cruz, students also demanded improvements in the campus Third World studies program.

charges of trespassing. They also were released, pending court appearances June 1.

About 200 students at the Berkeley campus staged a two-hour sit-in at Benjamin Ide Wheeler Hall without incident.

The Santa Cruz demonstration was the largest, attracting 1,000 students to the administration building during the day. Demands included a stipulation that the demonstrators be given amnesty.

CAMPUS POLICE had circulated among the demonstrators, warning of the possibility of arrests. The first arrests were not made until nearly 10 p.m.

The demonstrators on all the campuses were protesting university investments in firms with financial interests in South Africa. They also were demanding overturn of the Alan Bakke Decision — the state

Job Aid for Youth

It's a chronic sign of our times that summer jobs for youngsters are hard to come by. According to recent forecasts, it won't be any different in Orange County this summer.

However, federally sponsored youth employment programs will bring about $4 million worth of part-time jobs to county youngsters this year.

County government will administer one $540,347 youth employment program for itself and seven cities.

With good logic, county officials decided to earmark 150 of the 525 part-time jobs the program will generate for disadvantaged youngsters and youngsters with problems.

Unfortunately, last week a local radio commentator incorrectly babbled that all the jobs were to be handed to young people who have had trouble with the law. It was, he said, some sort of a reward for misbehaving.

Besides being incorrect, the commentator's words did a disservice to an effort to make sure some kids who need a helping hand receive one.

Postal Solution?

The word is that, once more, there'll be some changes in the postal service. Probably elimination of Saturday deliveries, probably another boost in mail rates.

But the real news seems to be that in the not-too-distant future there may not be any postal service at all. It will have been replaced by other forms of communication.

Already the Social Security Administration is bypassing the mails by using electronic computers to deposit payments directly into bank accounts. Other government agencies that mail out funds plan to follow suit.

Businesses that have used the mails for advertising are finding it better to have their brochures inserted in newspapers and magazines.

Some magazine publishers are finding it more economical to display their wares in supermarket racks than to solicit mail subscriptions. Utilities can have meter readers deliver their bills.

And, as many a parent knows, we already have produced a generation of young people who feel more comfortable chatting on the phone than writing long, comfy letters.

So perhaps "postal reform" is just a matter of time and technology.

Safe Hiking

With the first big holiday weekend of the season coming up, mountain rescue squads once more are braced for the inevitable—lost and injured hikers.

Last year in the Angeles National Forest they logged 439 rescues, mostly hikers. And of 39 fatalities in the mountains, 30 were hikers.

Most of the accidents involve falls from cliffs, often caused by the instable rocks and soil hikers encounter when they leave established trails or try to take short cuts.

And most of the victims are inexperienced hikers who wander off into the mountains without adequate protective clothing and equipment.

The rescue squads have a few suggestions:
—Wear boots, not tennis shoes, take along a warm jacket for protection against sudden weather changes, and carry water.

—Always let someone know where you are going and when you expect to return.

—If lost, get out into a clearing and stay put so rescuers can locate you.

Happy hiking!

"Sit down, General Amin, old friend, and have another Coke. Tell me, what brings you to Zaire?"

"Well, frankly, President Mobutu, old buddy, your conduct of this war here in Zaire has won the respect and admiration of all us third world leaders. And I'm looking for a piece of the action. In fact, I just told the reporters at your airport that I was sending you 41 tons of food and a suicide squad."

"A suicide squad? What's it do?"

"I don't know. I suppose it commits suicide."

"And they bought it? Amin, you're a real card!"

"Thanks, Mobutu, old chap. But level with me. Tell me how you brought the whole thing off, step by step."

"WELL, if I do say so myself, it was brilliant. First, of course, you have to get yourself invaded. I decided to be invaded by Cuban-led Angolans. For some reason, Americans are hysterically afraid of Cubans."

"Today, Cuba; tomorrow, the world?"

"I suppose. Anyway, we said there were 5000 of them equipped with 'Stalin organ' rockets. Don't they sound frightening? Whatever they are? So the Americans sent me a million dollars."

"A drop in the old bucket."

"Right. So we doubled the invasion force, included Russians along with the Cubans and said they were 'advancing swiftly' although Mutshatsha was still bravely held by us."

"Where's Mutshatsha?"

"Who knows. Anyway, the Americans said they'd send us $13 million in 'non-lethal' aid to help kill the 2000 invaders who were now only 50 miles from Kolwezi. And within two days—would you believe it—our 1500 Moroccans were able to drive the 5000 invaders back 15 miles from Kolwezi."

"A great victory."

"EXACTLY. That enabled us to throw 'a crack unit' of 300 pygmies, whom we described as 'excellent bowmen with a high combat ability' into surrounding Mutshatsha which we had been bravely defending."

"Pygmies?"

"Americans are always on the side of the little man. Unfortunately, a pygmy expert told Newsweek that pygmies hate violence and are the world's worst shots."

"MOBUTU, you're a riot! One last thing, why did you ask the Americans for a cargo plane full of Coke?"

"Because—oh, this'll kill you—the State Department said that diet cola didn't qualify as non-lethal aid."

"Oh, my sides are splitting! But, seriously, don't you feel guilty exploiting the fears and taboos of these backward people?"

"You mean the pygmies?"

"No, I mean the Americans."

Shut Out by Carter? Military Discontent Simmers

EVANS-NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Just as President Carter was publicly rebuking Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub, resentment among senior military officers was given a stronger impetus when the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) belatedly learned about the latest SALT proposal.

The JCS was briefed only last week on the new U.S. strategic arms limitations (SALT) plan some two weeks after it was submitted to the Russians. The new proposals embrace basic questions of U.S. military strength, including retarded development of the cruise missile. That has generated rising resentment among senior officers that reaches into the JCS itself.

This is strikingly similar to both the cause and the underlying meaning of the Singlaub affair. His clearly out-of-order public criticism of Korean troop withdrawals reflected widespread frustration among the generals for not having been consulted in shaping that policy. So, in both Korea and SALT, the military's complaint is not so much that it disagrees with a policy but that it is ignored in policy formation.

Herein lies an unhealthy situation not fully comprehended at the White House. While nobody questions civilian supremacy, senior officers bitterly grumble that they are given no chance to submit their views but are simply handed the completed policy—along with a muzzle.

ODDLY, the chairman of the JCS, Gen. George Brown, plays no part in this simmering revolt. Kept at his post by surliness of President Ford and now President Carter after his string of indiscreet public remarks, Brown wants to serve out his term without further trouble. But other senior officers, including members of the chiefs, want a greater policy voice. Gen. Bernard Rogers, Army chief of staff, has pushed particularly hard for a military role in SALT policymaking.

The Army is at the center of Pentagon discontent mainly because of special concern with Korea. When Mr. Carter entered office, he did not ask the Pentagon's advice on whether to remove troops from South Korea but merely requested their comments on the best way to do it (just as he did on his plan for drastic mutual reduction in long-range missiles).

THE TROOP withdrawal had been decided on by Mr. Carter long before he became President. Admittedly a novice in foreign affairs, candidate Carter based his decision more on the imperatives of presidential politics than any exhaustive study of the Korean situation.

Singlaub's view stated to the Washington Post that Mr. Carter's Korean policy will lead to war is nearly universally shared by other U.S. generals, as well as many of the most politically sensitive Japanese. Since the understrength U.S. 2nd

Infantry Division is obviously not a significant military factor, the question is whether its departure, along with U.S. support troops, will be interpreted by Communist North Korea as an invitation to attack. While the debate clearly has two sides, the generals resent not having a chance to argue their case.

THAT resentment was intensified by the President's dramatic order of Singlaub to the Oval Office. Old hands in Washington with no particular interest in Korea were amazed that the President had chosen public humiliation of a distinguished officer by the flamboyant summons when a quiet reprimand and transfer would have sufficed.

To some officers, Mr. Carter, his eye on style, was seeking to emulate Harry Truman's historic sacking of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. But MacArthur was a major political figure who repeatedly defied his President; Singlaub is an anonymous subordinate (third-ranking officer in Korea) guilty of one indiscreet interview. Actually, senior of-icers are even more concerned about the sudden exclusion of the military from SALT policymaking. While the Pentagon helped prepare Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's negotiating position in Moscow, it had no part in devising the new, softer stand in Geneva.

The possibility of a pattern here is suggested by the downgrading of military intelligence units, putting the CIA in a monopolistic status. While deprived of a full advisory voice before positions are taken, the officers are barred by the Constitution from commenting afterwards—as John Singlaub has learned.

THE GAGGED condition of the military contrasts starkly with the rest of the open-mouthed administration, most conspicuously Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall criticizing the President's economic policies and UN Ambassador Andrew Young saying whatever comes to his mind. At a time of U.S. military decline in relation to the Soviet Union, this anomaly breeds angry frustration among the military.

The People's Business

EARL WATERS

Two members of a school board have blown the whistle on a recent meeting held in "executive session" charging violation of state laws which require all meetings of public bodies to be conducted in full view of the world. Unfortunately the significance of their revelations appear in danger of being lost in the exchanges which have resulted.

In brief, after their disclosure the board president promptly denied the misdoing, explaining to the press the meeting dealt with student personnel matters and employe negotiations.

That explanation was denounced by the two board members who declared the explanation a flat lie.

Since the members were only recently elected to the Folsom-Cordova School Board it might be thought that the flap was a misunderstanding of the law on their part. But because both are attorneys the assumption must be that they read the law well and their objections are valid.

What threatens to be overlooked is that it points up once again the error in thinking when the law was drafted.

The provisions governing meetings of public bodies, state and local, are to be found in the Government Code commencing with section 54950.

IN HONOR of its author it is declared to be the Ralph M. Brown Act, after the late Speaker of the Assembly who battled long and hard in behalf of openness in government meetings and records.

The declaration of its intent is worthy of reciting in all of its nobility. Stating that public agencies "exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business," it provides specifically: "It is the intent of the law that their actions be taken openly and that their deliberations be conducted openly."

So that there would be no misunderstanding about it, the section reads further, "The people of this state do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them. The people, in delegating authority, do not give their public servants the right to decide what is good for the people to know and what is not good for them to know. The people insist on remaining informed so that they may retain control over the instruments they have created."

Churchill might have written it better but that section leaves no room for doubt that it was intended that boards and commissions would meet in a fish-bowl.

In the drafting, Brown went on to spell out specifically how meetings were to be conducted, including the giving of adequate notice beforehand to the public of the time and place of such meetings.

UNFORTUNATELY, he was prevailed upon to accept some amendments allowing exceptions in the form of executive sessions for certain limited purposes which he apparently thought were reasonable or, as often happens, believed would thwart the overall effort if he rejected them.

These exceptions were narrowly described so as to permit secret meetings only to hire or dismiss an employe. Subsequent tampering has extended such private meetings to include those on "national security" as well as threats to the security of public buildings.

Time has provided experience, such as the Folsom case, which casts grave doubts as to the wisdom of permitting any exceptions to the open meeting law. All too often they have been used as a convenient curtain for the handling of matters which clearly belong in public view. Without board members such as the Folsom two, these violations go unnoticed.

With the knowledge gained by experience it is time to review the need for any exemptions. National security hardly figures in state and local meetings. As for hiring and firing, these are not the private employes of the board but the employes of all the public. The opening sections of the Brown Act should be reread.

Exile in New York

NEW YORK. By Anthony Burgess & the Editors of Time-Life Books. Time-Life Books, 200 Pages. $8.95.

If, as British author Anthony Burgess contends, New York "is a displaced person's camp," then what better person to write about a city full of strangers than Burgess himself, "a writer always in exile, an Englishman whose grandmother was a Finnegan... a paradigm of displacement."

And write about "my preferred city," Burgess does. In near lyrical prose, he goes back to the beginnings when Giovanni da Verrazano first sighted the terrain in 1524 and ranges into the future, stating flatly that "New York will survive. It is an aspect of America that America cannot do without. Nobody can do without it."

IN BETWEEN, between the past and the future, Burgess takes the reader on a highly personal tour of the city as it is today. There is much about New York that Burgess finds pleasing, its many ethnic groups, its cultural life, its parades, its rivers, bridges, churches, skyscrapers.

But his account is balanced, Burgess is not writing a chamber of commerce puff. There is also much about the New York Burgess does not like—its dirty streets, its violence, its corruption—and he discusses these less favorable aspects as openly as he parades the city's virtues.

What really puts the icing on this large-format, handsome book are the dozens of photographs—many of them large and in color—that not only illustrate Burgess' text but amplify it.

Junior Willie Wonkas Create Chocolate Factory

MENTOR, Ohio (AP) — When a bunch of third graders decided to set up a chocolate factory in class, they had a few problems getting under way. David Stentz, for example, had trouble deciding whether to be a chocolate pourer or a vice president.

But the chocolate — and the project — turned out fine. What started as an attempt to learn some principles of economics ended up with a profit of $289.19.

"WE WERE TRYING TO find something the children could do which would be both fun and a learning experience," said Margaret Fletcher, one of three teachers who developed the project at the Dale R. Rice School here.

"We wanted them to begin to learn about economics and how the whole system works," she added.

Kathleen Bonnes, another teacher, said, "We gave the students some basic ideas, but they took it from there. They got very involved and came up with ideas of their own."

A BOARD OF DIRECTORS WAS picked, including some teachers and parents, and after reviewing job applications the board picked 8-year-old Ken Koleszar as president.

Job selections came next, and David Stentz eventually decided to pour. He said vice president was his second choice.

The pupils were paid for their work in currency — called "gumps" — printed for the project. Workers earned five gumps for 30 minutes' work.

THERE WAS EVEN A CASE of gump counterfeiting. One pupil took a sheet of gumps home "and ran off lots more on his father's copying machine," Mrs. Fletcher said.

"We discovered it immediately," she added. "The copies were clearer than our originals."

The candy was manufactured each Thursday morning for three weeks, and teacher Wendy Williams couldn't help noticing that there was no absences on Thursdays.

"Everybody wanted to be involved," she said.

THE CANDY WAS SOLD IN the community, and it did very well.

However, the kids may have had their fill of chocolate. They decided to spend their profits on a pizza party.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — People in California have 20 million tons of garbage hauled away for $500 million a year, and some people pay much more than others, a legislative study says.

The Assembly Committee on Labor, Employment and Consumer Affairs said in a staff report that the Los Angeles County resident pays 91 cents a month and those of Marin County pay $17, the lowest and highest in the state respectively.

Navy Wives' Traumas Described

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A psychologist says Navy wives who traditionally are apprehensive, even afraid, when their sailors leave for sea are now often experiencing the same trauma when the ships return.

The wives, says Stephen Pfeiffer, "experience most of the things we would think of as inappropriate for a time of reunion." It is mainly the result of having to adjust to a sharing outlook after learning to run things alone.

SHIPS USUALLY are gone for seven months. Separations and divorces, especially among younger couples, have increased in recent years.

In an interview, Pfeiffer said children also are filled with stress, suffering a "revolving daddy" problem. He urges wives and older children to write frequently to their sailor, discussing personal changes which are taking place in his absence.

"THE BIGGEST deficit in our problem," said Pfeiffer, who counsels Navy families in cooperation with chaplains, "is that the men are not similarly prepared, except in a few cases where chaplains deal with this problem aboard ship."

"It's hard to get to the men. In our culture, it is difficult for men to appear weak — not the consistent family leader — and this is particularly true in the Navy."

Bone-cruncher at the Wedge

Academia Receives Summertime Boost

In addition to the usual roster of standard academic classes, summer school students in the Newport-Mesa Unified School District will be able to dabble in other subjects, including electronics, television production and statistics.

District trustees have approved a list of 11 classes to be taught at the four high school campuses this summer, offered in addition to the academic classes selected for each campus.

THE LIST INCLUDES advanced television production; awareness of our city, county and state, I and II; energy and environmental studies; exploring electronics; fitness for living; introduction to photography; introduction to the social studies; or how to survive in high school; physics C: modern physics; the revolutionary experience: America and China, and a seminar in probability, statistics and computer programming.

Trustees expressed some concern that elective classes like the type on the list would displace needed academic subjects, but district officials assured them that no academic classes would be dropped to make room for the new ones.

SUPERINTENDENT JOHN

Nicoll said there would be no added expense to the district in offering the classes.

He pointed out they generate student interest in summer school, and increase attendance means increased state revenues to the district.

Strangulation Motive Probed

FRESNO (AP) — The body of a young woman found along a deserted road west of here has been identified as Deborah Jean King, 18, of Kerman, authorities report. The Kerman High School senior apparently was strangled but a final cause of death won't be determined until an autopsy is completed, a coroner's spokesman said.

18th Street Widening Plan Nixed in Mesa

Costa Mesa city councilmen kicked around the idea of making 18th Street an arterial highway — at least on paper.

Then they tossed the suggestion back at Public Services Director Jim Eldridge, telling him the scheme would probably be met with less than enthusiasm by city residents.

THE CITY IS looking into a realignment of 18th Street at Newport Boulevard, which currently divides East 18th from West 18th.

Eldridge said the realignment would cost the city about $1 million, which he said could come from gas tax funds or downtown redevelopment funds, since the project falls in that section of Costa Mesa.

Or, he said, the city could get 18th Street put on the county's master plan of arterial highways.

"BY DOING THAT, the county would match dollars for the realignment," Eldridge said, which would mean Costa Mesa's cost would only be about $500,000 for the project.

But what about the stretch of 18th from Placentia Avenue to Orange Avenue? Wouldn't the county insist the city begin buying up property for the widening of 18th, city councilmen asked.

Eldridge reassured councilmen that the city council is the government body that decides when the widening would take place, if ever.

"IF YOU APPROVE getting 18th on the map as an arterial highway, we could start work on the realignment part by summer of 1978," Eldridge said.

But Mayor Norma Hertzog balked at the suggestion, saying that, even if the present council never intends to actually widen the entire stretch of 18th, they couldn't speak for future city councils.

Councilmen decided they didn't want 18th turned into a highway, even on paper.

Rabies Clinic Set for Mesa

An anti-rabies clinic for dogs will be held Tuesday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Orange County Fairgrounds.

Pet owners will be charged $2 for the vaccination. All dogs four months of age or older may receive the shot.

The clinic is being sponsored by the Southern California Veterinary Medical Association, the North Costa Mesa Kiwanis Club and Costa Mesa's animal control service.

No Insults With Injury

STOCKTON (AP) — Getting stuck in a courthouse elevator isn't much fun, but for David Adams it did have its rewards.

Adams, 22, who was stuck in the elevator for almost a half hour, found an overtime parking ticket on his car when he was finally freed.

But Frank Dean, deputy San Joaquin County district attorney, came to the rescue and nullified the citation.

Carter Debate Fizzles as 2 Find Accord

Two presidential observers from opposite ends of the political spectrum assessed the first 125 days of President Jimmy Carter's administration in a program at Anaheim.

Despite viewing the President from different vantage points, Theodore C. Sorensen and James J. Kilpatrick agreed more than they disagreed on Carter's job performance.

BOTH SORENSEN and Kilpatrick gave Carter passing marks on his handling of foreign affairs, for example.

And both men said it's unlikely that Carter will be able to reduce the federal bureaucracy as he vowed to do in last year's campaign.

Sorensen and Kilpatrick drifted apart in their debate at the Disneyland Hotel on their assessments of Carter's energy program and his support of the establishment of a consumer protection agency.

BUT ONCE THOSE differences were aired, Sorensen and Kilpatrick fell back into agreement on how the nation's new president is going.

Sorensen was Carter's original nominee for CIA director, an appointment that fell through when Congressional critics made it obvious confirmation would be a tough battle.

In the so-called Camelot years of the Kennedy administration, Sorensen was a confidant in the Kennedy inner circle and one of the President's chief speech writers.

ON THE OTHER hand, syndicated columnist Kilpatrick is a leading spokesman for conservative causes.

Kilpatrick's column appears in 322 newspapers and both his face and debate technique is known to viewers of TV's 60 Minutes, a weekly network news feature.

The ruddy-faced conservative had little opportunity to sit Sorensen down in debate, however, as the two men agreed on most issues discussed at the National Consumer Finance Association convention.

SORENSEN PRAISED Carter "for letting the world know that America once again is standing on moral issues."

"He doesn't intend to force our moral standards on others. But he wants to hold our standards out so that others see we are what we say we are," Sorensen said.

In turn, Kilpatrick praised Carter for "openly supporting Soviet dissidents" and said he "goes along with" most of what Sorensen had said.

BUT, THE NEWSPAPER columnist warned, Carter must be careful not to raise "false hopes" among dissidents in Iron Curtain countries.

"On the whole, though, I'm very satisfied with what Mr. Carter has done (in foreign affairs)," Kilpatrick said.

However, his appraisal of the President's energy conservation program was far less flattering.

Kilpatrick predicted much of Carter's proposed program won't make it through Congress.

His Weapon Neutralized By Policeman

Slingshots will get you in trouble every time.

That's what a hungover Huntington Beach man must be thinking today, after a visit from police Wednesday night in response to neighbors' complaints on the city's north side.

One woman alleged that he was shooting missiles at children, but there was no proof of this, police said. The proof of the beverage he'd been imbibing, however, had made his aim more errant than unerring.

So Patrolman Arden Fick just broke his slingshot and suggested he lay off the sauce.

POMONA SCHOOL STUDENT YOUNG LEE LENDS A HAND AT COOKING He's Part Of Fourth Grade Class Learning About Japan Through Food

Kids Eat to Learn Japan Comes Alive Through Chopsticks

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Twenty sets of small hands clutch the little white plastic bowls and struggle with the rebellious sticks.

One girl succeeds in scooping a glob of rice but loses control and howls when the rice drops down the front of her dress.

THE BATTLE BETWEEN the fourth graders and their chopsticks is watched intently by some younger students attracted by the delicious odors that have drifted around Pomona School.

The scene has been repeated twice a day this week at the Costa Mesa elementary school as students in the classes taught by Sharon Haight and Anita Butterworth learn about Japan by eating — and cooking — its food.

Mrs. Haight and Mrs. Butterworth say they hit on the idea when setting up the lesson plan for their social studies section on Japan.

"IN STUDYING OTHER COUNTRIES, such as Mexico, cultural things, like the food, are similar to the children. But Japanese culture is not familiar to them, so we thought food would be a good way to acquaint them with the culture."

With the help of media center aides Mary Lee Davis, Beverly Lee and Fern Baldwin, the students set up a corner of Japan in the school library where they conduct their daily culinary lessons.

They take turns cooking a variety of Japanese dishes, such as sukiyaki, and then sit on the floor and have at it with the chopsticks.

BY WEDNESDAY, SOME HAD become fairly proficient in the Oriental style of dining, although most resorted to holding their bowls close to their mouths and scooping in the contents.

Apart from the difficulties in enjoying the food they cook, the students, teachers and aides have declared the idea a success.

Asked if they like the food, the students nod enthusiastically as they wait for seconds.

"I want to have some of this stuff at home," volunteers Esa Montgomery, "but my mom won't fix it."

FLAT EARTH EXTENDS INFINITELY IN ALL DIRECTIONS?
So Says Man Whose Australian Wife Never Hung Upside Down

Cult Likes It Flat

Experience Shows 'Pancake' Earth

LANCASTER (AP) — Only 10 miles from where scientists are working to perfect a space shuttle to expand man's frontiers, Charles K. Johnson steadfastly teaches that the world is as flat as a pancake and that the space program is a multibillion-dollar hoax.

"People treat us as if we're some sort of radicals — as if the flat-earth theory is a radical, eccentric idea and that there's some vast body of proof that the earth is round," explains the 53-year-old Johnson, president of the International Flat Earth Research Society.

"WE'RE ALWAYS ON the defensive," he says.

Nonetheless, he is confident that his teachings will soon triumph and bring an abrupt end to the four-century reign of those who contend the earth is a spinning ball hurtling around the sun.

"Our beliefs are based on experience, not on mathematical scribbles," Johnson insists as he leads a newsman around his literature-cluttered home outside this sleepy desert community. "We do not accept theory, which is imaginary."

JUST OVER THE cactus-strewn horizon from Johnson's rickety little house lies sprawling Edwards Air Force Base Flight Test Center, where the first space shuttle is to be launched in two years.

But the rugged, white-haired Johnson sees no need for space exploration. The proper view of the universe, he says, can be drawn from a literal reading of Genesis: "God created the heavens above and the earth below, and there should be no further doubt about the matter."

The earth itself, Johnson's society teaches, is flat and extends infinitely in all directions, although the known world is saucer-shaped because it is hemmed in by an impenetrable, 150-mile-high wall of ice that forms a South Pole around the rim of the saucer.

THE SUN, HE SAYS, is a 32-mile-high "spotlight" that moves in a circle 3,000 miles above the North Pole at the center of the known world. However, he conceded he wasn't quite sure whether the stars were stationary or mobile.

Johnson claims . . . the photographs purportedly sent back from space are fakes and no one has ever been to the moon.

Johnson, who was born in San Angelo, Tex., the son of a cattle rancher, says he began doubting the world was round while he was in grammar school.

"The first time I saw a globe, it just didn't make any sense," he says. "But it was years before I could prove why."

TO PROVE THE earth was not round, Johnson claims, the flat-earth society used surveyors' equipment to see if there was a curvature in the 61-mile Kiel Canal linking the Baltic and North Seas. There was no curve, he says.

Besides, claims Johnson, who also rejects the theory of gravity as "absurd," if the world were round Australians would be hanging by their feet as they spin through space. And his wife, Marjory, an Australian, has never hung by her feet, he says.

To Johnson, the 16th century Copernican Revolution, which upset the traditional flat-earth theory of the universe, "is just a dusted off version of an ancient Greek myth."

"THERE IS NO evidence whatsoever to support the theory that the earth is hurtling through space," says Johnson, echoing Samuel Shenton, his British predecessor as leader of the flat earth society. "But the world is run on this belief, so it must be maintained."

A ship that seems to be disappearing over the horizon is merely becoming smaller to a viewer as it moves into the distance, Johnson claims, while the photographs purportedly sent back from space are fakes and no one has ever been to the moon.

Johnson concedes that rockets have been sent aloft, but says their orbits amounted to no more than flying a level, circular pattern around the earth, not unlike a plane circling an airport.

ALTHOUGH HIS SOCIETY claims only about 200 dues-paying members worldwide, Johnson — who's been society president for five years — contends he has "thousands and thousands" of followers who keep their beliefs secret for fear of being persecuted as heretics.

However, as an indication that people may be becoming more open about their beliefs, Johnson points to the movie "Capricorn One," due for release this fall, which tells the story of a mission to Mars that was faked by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on a movie set in Hollywood.

Out of Closet

Monsters Go To University

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The Abominable Snowman, Big Foot and other world-famous monsters will go to college next spring.

The University of British Columbia, convinced that "it's time the academic community came out of the closet," plans to hold an international seminar on monsters and reports of their activities.

DR. MARJORIE HALPIN, CURATOR of the university's museum of anthropology, says belief in monsters has become too widespread now "for the academic community to say there is nothing there."

Halpin says funds have been raised to provide transportation for Canadian scholars, but more money is needed to bring in experts from the United States and the Soviet Union.

THE THREE-DAY CONFERENCE — exact dates have not been set — will consist of a series of academic papers on "the question of Sasquatch and other monsters," Dr. Halpin said.

Sasquatch, or Big Foot, is an enormous, hairy, man-like creature reportedly spotted from Northern California into western Canada.

Dr. Louise Jilek Aall of the psychiatry department at Vancouver General Hospital will lecture on the psychological aspects of Sasquatch belief.

DR. RICHARD PRESTON OF McMaster University in Hamilton, Ont., will discuss Witiko, a spooky creature seen by Cree Indians.

Dr. Frederick Aldrich of Memorial University in St. John's will describe the Newfoundland giant squid, the existence of which was denied by zoologists until several were found.

The conference "will force us to stretch our minds," said Halpin, by focusing serious academic attention on research that, until now, has been carried on only by amateurs.

TV Show Delays Jail Term

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Entertainer Chad Mitchell, founder of the Chad Mitchell Trio, has won a two-week delay in starting a prison sentence for possessing marijuana.

Mitchell was to have begun a five-year sentence Tuesday, but his lawyers won a delay so that he could perform in a television program next month, court officials said.

Mitchell was charged with possession of 400 pounds of marijuana, which federal agents said they found in his car outside a motel in September 1973.

The postponement was granted by U.S. District Judge Richard Owen of New York after consulting with Judge Adrian Spears, who presided at Mitchell's non-jury trial.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear Mitchell's appeal.

Couple Betting All on Lottery

"Stay away from the car while Daddy shuts its mouth."

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pennsylvania lottery jingle says "You have to play to win." But lottery folks never figured Tom and Philomena Drake would take it so seriously.

The couple have sold almost all their personal possessions for a total of $20,000 and are buying 200 lottery tickets at $1 a day, all in hopes of striking it rich.

"WE THINK THE lottery is fun, but we don't think it's a good investment," said lottery spokesman Matthew Macioroski when he heard of the Drakes' efforts.

The Drakes say they're gambling on a second chance at life.

"We're going to invest everything we have until we win $1,000 a week for life," said Drake, a 30-year-old realtor from nearby McMurray.

"WE'RE SELLING EVERYTHING except our clothes and our furniture and enough to pay the rent and the utilities. If we go broke, we'll go back to work."

"When we win the million, we'll do what we want for the rest of our lives," said Drake.

The odds of any single $1 ticket in the Instant Bingo game winning the millionaire drawing are 35 million to one. Even the 20,000 tickets the Drakes say they will buy won't improve the odds greatly.

CARNEGIE-MELLON University mathematician Ken Kortanek calculated the odds of the Drakes winning the top prize at about one in 1,600 assuming they buy 200 tickets a day for 100 days.

The Drakes started scratching bingo tickets at a suburban mall on Monday, and their winnings Wednesday after 500 boards totaled $94. No ticket has paid more than $5.

"We're still learning," said Mrs. Drake, who gave up a job with U.S. Steel Corp. to participate.

SHE SAYS HER HUSBAND has come up with unusual ideas in the past, but "nothing this big or this crazy." Still, she's sticking with him and hoping for the payoff.

"I feel it's crazy enough to happen," she said.

Device Brewing Trouble

DEAR PAT: I have a Mr. Coffee machine. I must have missed the notices, but a neighbor said some models are being recalled. Which ones?

A.J., Mission Viejo

The recalled coffee makers have a letter and number code on the upper right-hand portion of the back cover plate. Look for the single letter, G through L, followed by the number 75. If you have a recall model, write to Box 22132, Cleveland, OH 44122. Include your name, address, phone number and the code number of the coffee maker. Information about free modifications will be mailed to you. More than three million of the 1975 Mr. Coffee machines are being recalled by the manufacturer (North American Systems Inc., Bedford Heights, Ohio) due to shock and fire hazards. The manufacturer urges consumers to use precautions when using the recalled coffee makers prior to modification. The machine should not be left unattended while in use, and should be turned off when not in use. Turn off the brewing switch when the brewing cycle is completed, and turn off the warmer switch when coffee is not being warmed. Do not try to fix the machine yourself.

Homesteading Protects Home

DEAR PAT: What are the limits on a homestead declaration? I understand that just a portion of one's equity is protected by a homestead exemption.

E.G., San Clemente

You can prevent forced sale of your house by filing a $3 notarized homestead declaration with the county recorder. This will protect a large portion of your equity, which has probably increased. A married couple, single head of household or single person over age 65 can protect the first $30,000 of equity by a homestead declaration. The limit for a single person under age 65, not heading a household, is $15,000. Even if your actual profit upon a forced sale is over the limit, the chances of a creditor insisting upon a sale and being able to collect are limited. A homestead does not protect you from mortgage payments, tax bills or liens by plumbers, painters or contractors. You are required to live in the house when you file, but a move does not affect benefits.

You are cordially invited to attend

Grumman Opens Plant

Irvine Facility Builds Electronic Gear

Grumman Aerospace Corp., the firm that designed and built the Apollo Lunar Module that landed men on the moon, has opened an operation in Irvine.

Although Grumman employees have been working at the new facility since the first of the year, a grand opening ceremony was delayed until this week.

Facility Director Art Bertapelle said the opening was delayed until the complex laboratory equipment inside the building was completed.

Bertapelle said the new facility will design and build electronic gear to be used in aerospace crafts.

About 35 Grumman employees are already working at the new building, located at 2852 Kelvin Ave., but Grumman officials predict that number will quadruple by this time next year.

THE COMPANY IS HEADQUARTERED in Bethpage, N.Y., and includes 24,000 employees, according to Bertapelle.

At this point, the Air Force is the sole customer for the products to be designed and built on Kelvin Avenue, although the director said the number of customers will expand with time.

"We're leasing the building, with an option to buy, but we've made a substantial commitment in equipment to remain here and grow," Bertapelle said.

Industry Honors Trio

Nobel Winners See Maturing of Brainchild

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The three scientists who won the Nobel Prize in physics for inventing the transistor have been honored by the electronics industry spawned by their brainchild.

"There are few men who can say their work has caused a profound change in our world. These men can," said Philip L. Gregory, president of SEMI, the nonprofit trade association for the semiconductor industry.

"THEIR INVENTION HAS improved the lives of people the world over," added Gregory, referring to Drs. John Bardeen, William Shockley and Walter Brattain.

The trio developed the transistor at Bell Laboratories in the late 1940s and were awarded the Nobel Prize in 1956.

Bardeen is on the staff of the University of Illinois, Shockley is at Stanford University and Brattain at Whitman College in Walla Walla, Wash.

AT A NEWS CONFERENCE before the banquet, the three were asked how their invention had changed their lives.

"It taught me a lesson," said Brattain. "My first conclusion about one year afterwards was that no publicity is worthwhile except your name on a scientific paper, and the rest is nonsense."

"I used to be scared of the press," said Shockley, who has become a controversial figure because of his well-publicized thesis that intelligence is a racially linked genetic trait. "Now I don't know if the reverse is true," he added, smiling.

BARDEEN SAID HIS fame has brought more correspondence than he wants to deal with, and when he travels it makes it difficult for him to talk science with fellow scientists because curious lay people show up who want to hear him speak in more general terms.

Keynote speaker Patrick E. Haggerty predicted the semiconductor industry of the future will have a major impact on increasing productivity in industrialized societies.

Tab Cans Banned

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Sale of metal beverage cans with detachable flip-top openers will be prohibited in Oregon after March 1, 1979.

The measure expands Oregon's 1971 beverage container law, which required deposits on beer and soft drink bottles and cans and which prohibited flip-top openers on carbonated beverage cans.

Pacific Gas and Electric and the energy trend

Pacific Gas and Electric Company serves 48 counties in north and central California. Its historical growth trend far exceeds that of most utilities. Yet today finds many investors trying to weigh the circumstances which could affect the performance of P & E stock. To help in this evaluation, Kidder, Peabody has just completed a timely 23-page analysis of the utility.

The report penetrates the more publicized subjects—drought conditions, and the supply of natural gas and fuel oil. And it goes deep into less visible but significant problems and the ways P & E plans to meet them. It discusses complementary supply sources, including nuclear, to meet future demand; the raising of expansion capital, both internally and externally; the recapture of past outlays through rate relief; relations with the California Public Utilities Commission; its dividend policy and many more details.

To obtain a mailing list application for the GSA list, write to the GSA, Federal Supply Service, Personal Property Department, 5555 S. Eastern, Bell, CA. 90201.

The Defense Department handles sales of its own property, including large quantities of commercial, industrial and consumer merchandise.

To obtain a mailing list application, write to DoD Surplus Sales, P.O. Box 1370, Battle Creek, MI. 49016.

When the classes of property specified on the application are placed on sale in the geographical areas designated, the department mails invitations for bid that contain description of the property, specific locations, dates and times for inspection as well as other detailed information about the sales. Notices of sales to the public also may be in newspaper, radio and TV announcements, trade journals, notices in such public buildings as post offices, and through announcements in the Department of Commerce publication, Commerce Business Daily.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THIS publication, at $75 a year, are obtained by writing to the nearest Department of Commerce field office or the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20540.

SPOT BIDS ALSO ARE USED, with the bidder submitting an offer during the sale. Awards are made item by item as the sale progresses. Those on mailing lists receive information on the property and instructions for placing bids. Provision may be made for bids by prospective purchasers who can't attend the sales in person.

Public auctions are another vehicle used by the government. These follow traditional commercial auctioning methods. Catalogs are provided. Government-approved auctioneers are in charge.

Sheriff Fights Anita Bryant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Attention Anita Bryant: the sheriff is after you.

Sheriff Richard Hongisto said Thursday he is going to Miami this weekend to campaign against Miss Bryant and her campaign opposing a Dade County ordinance prohibiting discrimination in housing and employment against homosexuals.

HONGISTO, WHO WAS ELECTED and re-elected sheriff with strong gay support, said Miss Bryant was "telling a very large and fundamental untruth."

"The implication is that gay people are child molesters, etc. I think that's about the same as saying all black people are thieves," he added.

THE SHERIFF SAID HE would take a week's vacation to make the Miami trip, where a June 7 voter referendum to repeal the ordinance is scheduled. He will accompany San Francisco state Assemblyman Willie Brown, who earlier announced plans to head for Florida.

Miss Bryant has said she opposed the ordinance, contending that homosexuals recruit minors to their ranks.

Stock Squabble

Sinatra Tiff Settled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A controversy between singer Frank Sinatra's attorney and the management of Del Webb Corp. which threatened to disrupt the annual shareholder meeting at Scottsdale, Ariz. has been resolved.

At issue is a move by attorney Milton Rudin, Frank Sinatra and others to elect Rudin as a member of the board of directors of Del Webb. The entertainer and his counsel have acquired 560,000 shares of the company, a 6.5 percent interest.

DEL WEBB, A HOTEL-CASINO owner and real estate development and contracting firm, asked a federal judge for a preliminary injunction aimed at preventing the attempt to gain a voice in management.

By stipulation between both parties and in an order signed by U.S. District Court Judge William Orrick, the motion for a preliminary injunction was withdrawn.

The order provides that in the event Rudin or his nominee is elected a director, that person will not be a director or assume office as a director until the matter is settled by trial which is scheduled to start Sept. 6.

IN THE INTERIM, the incumbent director would continue to serve.

Del Webb filed Suit Feb. 25 alleging Rudin, Sinatra and others conspired to compel it to sell certain hotel properties to them and to book certain entertainers.

It said the defendants unlawfully combined as a group for the purpose of acquiring and holding more than 5 percent of Del Webb stock without complying with federal securities laws designed to insure availability of complete and accurate information to the company and shareholders.

It also claimed they had misstated or omitted to state material facts concerning ownership and intentions.

Supervisor Thomas F. Riley got an attractive lunch plate from Las Marineras Auxiliary's Coffee Garden in San Juan Capistrano.

Supervisor Laurence Schmit's lunch of a sandwich, apple and other items was handed to him in a pink box.

Swiss cheese and ham was Supervisor Philip Anthony's fare, which he didn't have time to eat.

It wasn't a fancy restaurant but a turnabout day in which the Orange County Supervisors were treated to lunch by the League of Women Voters.

In return for the meal, the supervisors talked to league members from their districts about local and county problems.

The occasion was the League of Women Voters' Day With Orange County Government Tuesday, attended by nearly 80 members of the seven county leagues.

The day was designed to offer league members an opportunity to see county government in action, to meet the supervisors on an informal basis and to see the county facilities.

ABOUT TWO-THIRDS of the group lunching with Riley had never talked with him face to face and many of the women attending had never been to a board of supervisors meeting, so the day probably could be considered a success.

Since the lunch was a "brown bag" affair, and the league members had brought lunch to the supervisors, there was much kidding about the food.

"They told us you usually grab something out of the machines for lunch," said Jessica Dean, offering Riley the plate of food.

"Are you going to auction these boxes of lunch off?" Riley wanted to know. "Usually you get the lunch and the girl."

When Ms. Dean introduced the supervisor, she said informally, "This is Riley," which got a lot of laughs. Ms. Dean apologized, saying "that's the way we usually talk about you."

When all the kidding was done, the 20 or so league members in Riley's group fired questions at him for nearly an hour.

THE MOST important topics were housing, the airport, water and energy conservation, solid waste disposal and preservation of agricultural land.

Riley said speculation in housing is "one of the most pressing problems" in Orange County. "Many people feel that free enterprise should swing with supply and demand," he added, indicating he opposes government regulation.

On water and energy conservation he said, "There is a new task force. I was kindly nominated by my fellow supervisors."

About solid waste disposal, Riley reported that a "number of discussions" have taken place over the last few years about the problem in Orange County.

"We would like to take advantage of recycling but it is not working out," he said. "Land fill now is the best. But recycling is an item that's very much alive."

A league member asked the supervisor if Orange County Airport is going to become "another LAX."

"IF I HAVE anything to do with it, it will not be an LAX," he asserted, adding that he favors development of the Ontario Airport and some sort of monorail system to transport passengers both there and to LAX from Orange County.

"We do everything there (development, tourist bureaus, etc.) near the airport contrary to the philosophical concept of the airport," he said.

The day, which also included attendance at the Board of Supervisors meeting at 9:30 a.m. and a panel discussion by the supervisors' aides, concluded with a talk by Maxine Maniss, administrative officer of the County Administrative Office and a tour of the historic Waffle House.

The supervisors said they thought it had been a worthwhile day and indicated they would be open to a repeat.

"It's a good thing to do," said Philip Anthony, supervisor of the first district. "I picked up several good ideas and sources today."

Newswomen's Impact Broadcasted

By MARCIA FORSBERG
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

He was introduced as "gentle and personable," a description most of the audience agreed with, judging from the applause and nods of recognition.

Within seconds, his winning behavior established him as an easygoing man, as comfortable in person as he is on camera.

Jess Marlow, anchorman on the 5 p.m. KNBC Newscenter 4 program, demonstrated that conversational knack as guest speaker for the May meeting of the American Association of University Women.

The tri-branch function was sponsored by the Huntington Beach, Newport-Costa Mesa and Westminster-Fountain Valley groups.

The amiable Marlow presented a serious side of the impact of women in the news media, nudging the topic with humorous touches.

He noted that over the years women have been emerging and making "an incredible impact" in the field of broadcast journalism.

THE APPEARANCE of women in the news may be attributed to the feminist movement, which has been partly responsible for the rush of women to the business world. With more women making news, they also are reporting it.

"I'm just now developing a real sensitivity to women's issues," Marlow admitted. He added that acceptance of equality of the sexes — emotionally, legally and intellectually — is becoming more pronounced.

When the women's movement was new, "we didn't understand it and we didn't take it seriously for a long time."

He recalled an incident with feminist Betty Friedan. "She bled me. She said, 'You can't read a story about women with a straight face. You smirk.'"

The Equal Rights Amendment also gave newsmen an opportunity to banter jokes around. Marlow remembered one newscast when he commented, "Maybe we could have separate but equal restrooms. That's something even the most militant woman won't stand for."

NOW, HE BACKS the ERA as a means for a woman to have her own identity. "I can't imagine not having the ERA, but we used to joke about it."

While he is "coming around," women are appearing on the news scene all over the country. As a man in the business, he quipped that he now finds himself "a threatened, if not endangered, species."

Marlow recalled that in the past, it was "okay for women to do commercials, the weather and an occasional feature, but it wasn't okay for them to do the news."

"It was partly the audience's fault. People had been conditioned to hearing men read the news."

"But now that we've been dragged kicking and screaming into the 20th century, a lot of men show a disgusting preference for women reading the news," he kidded.

After the laughter died down, Marlow turned to a sobering aspect of women in television news.

"I'M NOT SURE the problem is ours as males, or as-broadcasters. I think part of the problem is yours, (as women)."

He was referring to the age-old practice of females using their womanly wiles to get ahead.

He illustrated with an anecdote about certain women in broadcasting who walk into parties on the arms of network executives.

"That shows you still have a long way to go, baby," he said. "Until the day when those women have the courage to say 'no thank you,' they haven't really arrived."

He remarked that "the real impact of women in journalism will come from the type of person who does her job and does it well," relying on her strengths as a reporter rather than on her sex.

He cited as an example Channel 4's Heidi Schulman, "the best political reporter in broadcasting in Southern California. People have almost stopped calling her a 'woman reporter.'"

Often, Marlow asks Ms. Schulman questions on the air that pertain to her news reports. Her expertise at answering gives the viewing public "an opportunity to see that she isn't just an attractive woman who reads well. She can think on her feet."

MARLOW ALSO mentioned KNBC's Tritia Toyota as having a "remarkable impact on television news. She came to work with all the credentials and experience, yet she suffered terribly because she's such a stunning beauty."

Her looks were "an incredible handicap, because she was rejected by the public. It took a long time for people to take her seriously."

Marlow suggested that Barbara Walters is a "classic example of a woman who's made it" in broadcasting.

He believes that her strength is in her interviewing techniques rather than in reading the newscast, "but there is much that I admire about her work."

Her compelling commodity, he said, is her personality. "I think she has become news at times, and I'm disturbed when we as reporters become the news."

Marlow pointed out that "five years ago you (women) were a novelty. Now you aren't."

WOMEN COMING INTO the field "are going to have to fight for positions with their qualifications, experience and determination."

He advised a broad educational background, a college degree that need not be in journalism and experience with broadcasting in university and college facilities as well as at smaller stations.

But the main quality Jess Marlow looks for in a reporter who just happens to be a woman is independence and the courage to make it on her own — without making dates with the big shots.

College Team Styles Grand Slam

It's easy to see that Golden West College's four-member cosmetology team is cut out for the hairstyling profession.

The Orange County students proved they were a cut above other contestants from 10 junior colleges at the Southern California intercollegiate hairstyling competition at Santa Monica City College.

By winning first place in four possible categories, the team also was awarded the team trophy.

Categories, stylists and models, respectively, are:

—Daytime: Craig Phillippi and Deann Crowe.

—Evening: John Lantow and Theo Horton.

—Artistic: Fran Brendel and Desiree Corderre.

—Haircutting: Jym Genesta and Julie Gonzales.

All models and contestants are GWC students majoring in cosmetology, with the exception of Ms. Horton, a former student.

Gary Black, styles director at the college, picked the faculty-approved team and trained all eight entrants for the competition.

Judging was based on all hair-dos following the national trend style, known as "the scoop," explained Black.

"The daytime style is soft, simple, casual and easy to maintain, while the evening style is a little more elegant with a more formal, detailed look," he said.

The artistic coiffure is a "creative and exotic hairstyle, but it has to fit the model and be wearable. Again, it follows the feeling of 'the scoop,'" added Black.

In the haircutting category, "the judges were looking for the most well-executed 'scoop,'" he said.

Competition was sponsored by the Association of Cosmetology Teachers of Southern California.

Weddings and Engagements

To avoid disappointment, prospective brides are reminded to have their wedding stories with black and white glossy photographs to the Daily Pilot People Department one week before the wedding.

Pictures received after that time will not be used.

For engagement announcements it is imperative that the story, also accompanied by a black and white glossy picture, be submitted six weeks or more before the wedding date; otherwise it will not be published.

To help fill requirements on both wedding and engagement stories, forms are available in all Daily Pilot offices. Further questions will be answered by People Department staff members at 642-4321.

Ann Landers

Interference No Solution

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My brother and his girl friend have been going together for over seven years. Mary Ann is a devout Catholic and Mark is Jewish, but not very devout. They are both in their late 20s and Mark is well off financially.

The problem is how they will raise their children. It isn't that Mark is so dedicated to the Jewish faith, he just says he doesn't want his children to be raised as gentiles. Mary Ann feels this is very unfair under the circumstances.

Please don't tell me to MYOB. Mark and Mary Ann are as eager for a solution as I am. — CONCERNED

DEAR CON: Sorry, but I AM going to tell you to MYOB. This is not your problem. If Mary Ann and Mark are interested in my opinion, they can write to me and get it.

If you were to go to them with "Ann Landers said," it would be considered interference by at least one of the parties and he (or she) would be right.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I smoke and intend to continue. Within reason. The problem is that some people forget this is a free country.

I belong to a bridge club. One woman who is also a long-time member gets on my nerves. The minute a cigarette comes into sight, she says, "Don't smoke. It hurts my throat." If it hurts her throat, why doesn't she drop out of the club? Whenever there is a "problem" the smoker is always expected to bow to the non-smoker. I think this is terribly unfair. Will you please do all of us smokers a big favor and comment, please? — N.Y. SMOKER

DEAR N.Y.: Why is the smoker always expected to bow to the non-smoker? Because it IS a free country. The air belongs to everyone. No one has the right to pollute it.

If an individual wishes to smoke, he should be permitted to do so, but only insofar as he does not interfere with the rights of others.

Laboratory tests have produced evidence that non-smokers who breathe the air polluted by smokers for extended periods of time (meetings, card parties, cocktail bashes, etc.) are adversely affected by it.

I urge all my readers to summon the courage when someone lights a cigarette and asks, "Do you mind if I smoke?" to say, "Yes, I DO mind. Do us both a favor and put it out."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've asked this question of several people and have gotten several different answers. No one seems to know for sure. Please consult with your authorities and get me the correct information. It means a lot to me, for reasons I won't go into.

Is it possible for a dark-skinned (Caucasian) brown-eyed couple to have a fair-skinned, blue-eyed child? — NEED TO KNOW

DEAR NEED: I checked with a Nobel Prize-winning geneticist. His answer was, "It happens all the time." So there's your answer — right from the top of Mt. Olympus.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers's booklet, "Booze and You — For Teenagers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Laver Vies Tonight in Anaheim

Legendary Rod Laver will lead the San Diego Friars against the Los Angeles Strings at the Anaheim Convention Center tonight in a World Team Tennis match, then will return to Anaheim Sunday night against the Indiana Loves.

Both matches begin at 7:30. The Strings and Friars have both started slowly this season but the San Diego crew is expected to make a switch in the two weekend matches and make a run at division leading Phoenix.

In the first match at Anaheim between the Strings and Phoenix, a crowd of 6,171, second largest in Orange County history for a tennis match, viewed the action.

In addition to Laver, San Diego will also have Cliff Drysdale, Kerry Reid, Mona Guerrant and Julie Anthony to go against the Strings' Dennis Ralston, Charlie Pasarell, Mark Cox, John Andrews, Rosie Casals and Dianne Fromholtz.

When the Loves come to town, Vitas Gerulaitis, the recent winner of the Italian championship, will be joined by Sue Barker, Allan Stone and Syd Ball along with Ann Kiyomura.

Laver, winner of the big four singles tournaments known as the Grand Slam of Tennis (Wimbledon, U.S., French and Australian) in 1962 and 1969, still hits the ball with authority from the southpaw side and doesn't show any signs of letting up.

Tickets for the matches are available at the Convention Center and area ticket agencies. For further information, call 956-1890.

Retirement Out

Laver, 38, Stays On Full Schedule

By HOWARD L. HANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Rod Laver of Corona del Mar has reached the age of 38 but he doesn't profess to have found the Fountain of Youth even though he still follows a rigid schedule of competition and has no thought of retirement from a flossy tennis career.

The Rocket will be at Anaheim Convention Center tonight as his San Diego Friars tangle with the Los Angeles Strings in a World Team Tennis match.

"When you get older and meaner, you have to keep playing," Laver said Thursday. "I really don't find there is much difference in my game now than there used to be."

"I plan on competing as long as I can play well and the arm doesn't give me trouble. Retiring? I don't look at it too seriously. I just have to be careful and take a little longer to warm up. The arm lubricates itself and I feel pretty good right now."

"I think I can certainly play a lot more tennis and in World Team Tennis, I could play three or four sets and not worry about it."

How does he feel about WTT? "I think we (the league) are doing fairly well," he says. "We (San Diego) haven't been doing as well as we would like and Los Angeles has had a rough start."

"But I think LA will turn itself around and in general, WTT is doing very well on the West Coast."

How about some of the Eastern cities that have been drawing less than 1,000?

"That's a disaster," he says. "Those teams in the East having trouble are not promoting the matches. We've been pretty consistent in San Diego with crowds from 4,500 to 7,000."

"Anaheim is a hotbed of tennis and it isn't surprising to me that the LA Strings drew well their last game even though LA isn't doing well. I think they will turn things around in another few matches," Laver says.

He plans to compete at Wimbledon next month with participation in singles and doubles with John Newcombe as his partner.

"That may change," Laver says. "He's commenting and I don't believe you can play in the matches and be on the air but I'm not sure."

Laver, the southpaw, red-headed tennis great from Corona del Mar, says Team Tennis has given him more time at home.

"With the airport right here in Orange County, I'm not upsetting my family too much because I can compete and be back home again when we play in San Francisco, Phoenix or San Diego. The matches are all pretty much in my backyard."

In addition to playing, he is also tennis director at the San Vicente Racquet Club in Ramona where he does some coaching on the side.

Dodgers, Reds Open Warfare

LOS ANGELES — World champion Cincinnati invades Los Angeles tonight, 12½ games behind the host Dodgers in the National League West.

Pitching matchups in the 7:30 game are Tommy John against the Reds' Pat Zachery.

Dusty Baker's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the 10th inning gave Los Angeles a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday night.

Ron Cey led off the 10th with a walk off loser Ken Forsch, 4-3, who took over for starter J.R. Richard. Forsch fanned Steve Garvey, but Rick Monday singled Cey to third and pinch runner Lee Lacy raced home with the winning run on Baker's fly to short right.

Mike Garman, 2-0, earned the victory after Burt Hooton hurled the first nine innings for Los Angeles.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on just one hit, a two-run single by Garvey. Richard loaded the bases on walks before Garvey singled and Monday followed with a sacrifice fly.

Brawl Marks 76ers' Win

Everybody Gets Into Free-swinging Act

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Darryl Dawkins tried to destroy a pair of Portland Trail Blazers, did desecrate a dressing room urinal and left hopping mad at everybody, including his teammates.

It all happened Thursday night during and after the Philadelphia 76ers' 107-89 rout over Portland in the second game of the National Basketball Association championship series.

With 4 minutes, 52 seconds left, the 250-pound Dawkins first tangled with Portland's 200-pound Bob Gross, then squared off with the Blazers' 218-pound Maurice Lucas.

Before the fighting ended, players from both benches, coaches, officials Joe Gushue and Richie Powers, and at least 50 fans were involved in a free-for-all. The officials and the coaches were swept up in the melee trying to stop it.

Dawkins and Lucas were ejected, Dawkins after sinking his half of a double foul and Gross missing his opportunity.

In the 76ers' dressing room, the 6-11½ Dawkins angrily tore a toilet tank off the wall. He showered, dressed and stomped from the dressing room, pausing momentarily to say: "I'm mad at my teammates for letting a man get behind me and belt me cold turkey. Get out of my way."

And Dawkins, the 20-year-old who was drafted two years ago directly out of high school, stormed into the night.

The incident almost turned into a full scale riot as enraged fans ran onto the court and took punches at players. The Spectrum security force — a couple of dozen strong — pushed and dragged some of the fans off the court. The scene lasted about 10 minutes.

Gross tried to explain what happened.

"We both had our hands on the ball," said the Portland forward. "He (Dawkins) threw me down. I think he lost his temper."

Dawkins threw a punch at Gross, but it never reached its target. Instead, Dawkins hit teammate Doug Collins, who had jumped between the two players in an effort to stop the fight.

"He just grazed me," said Gross. "Dougie got hit."

Collins, who earlier in the game twisted an ankle, had to go to the hospital after the game and get the cut above the right eye stitched.

"I didn't even know who hit me," Collins said, "until I went to the bench and Rick Barry (TV color man) told me."

"Oh my God," said Collins when he heard "King Kong" — the 76ers' affectionate nickname for the huge Dawkins — had hit him. "If he hit me square I'd still be out. I still don't think that Darryl knows he hit me. Boy, it's scary out there with all those big guys around you fighting," said the slender Collins.

After the Dawkins-Gross bout was broken up, the 6-9 Lucas clobbered Dawkins from behind. The enraged Dawkins went after Lucas. They squared off in the middle of the court and traded punches, none damaging, until non-combatants jumped in and separated them.

Gross was concerned that the bitterness would spill over to the third game of the series, at Portland Sunday.

Sports in Brief

Unser 4-1 Choice For Indy Victory

Bobby Unser is the favorite at 4-1 odds, to win the Indianapolis 500.

The other drivers in the front row for Sunday's auto race, pole-sitter Tom Sneva and Al Unser, were listed at 5-1 and 6-1, in the odds posted by Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Racebook.

Three-time Indy winner A.J. Foyt also was listed at 6-1, with Gordon Johncock, Mario Andretti and Johnny Rutherford all 8-1.

Janet Guthrie, the first woman driver to make the 500 starting field, is 40-1.

Vroman Quits

UCLA's 7-foot center, Brett Vroman, is switching to Nevada Las Vegas this fall. "I'm unhappy with the program here," said Vroman, who has clashed with Bruin coach Gene Bartow.

Vroman believes his chances for a pro career will be enhanced under Las Vegas coach Jerry Tarkanian. "I don't think I'm improving that much here and I feel I'll be in a better situation," he said.

He said he had not discussed his decision with Bartow, adding: "A lot of people are unhappy, but you have to be very unhappy to leave with one year left."

Bartow was not available for comment.

Angels Play

TORONTO — The California Angels meet the expansion Toronto Blue Jays tonight for the first time this season with Gary Ross pitching against a former Angel, Bill Singer.

The game will be heard in the Southland at 4:30 on KMPC (710).

Dorsett Rich

DALLAS — Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry says there is no need to draft the top player if a team is not willing to pay him a high salary, and newly signed Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett is a millionaire because of the Cowboys' willingness.

Dorsett, who led the University of Pittsburgh to college football national championship last season, Thursday signed a contract reportedly worth more than $1 million.

Newsome Jailed

DENVER — Veteran defensive end Bill Newsome of the New York Jets was being held in lieu of $75,000 bail Thursday in a county jail on charges of kidnap.

Scott Coasts In Prelims

FARGO, N.D. — Steve Scott won his 800-meter heat, but elected to finish second in a 1,500 heat to highlight UC Irvine's performances in Thursday's NCAA (Division II) track and field meet at the University of North Dakota, here.

No finals were held Thursday and only the 10,000 and hammer throw are being held today. The rest of the finals will be Saturday.

Scott captured his 800 in 1:52.0, but in his 1,500 heat the UCI junior stopped short of the finish line to allow a North Dakota runner to win — much to the delight of the Fargo crowd. Scott clocked 3:56.0.

Other UCI athletes advancing included pole vaulter Mike Sabatino, hurdler Wilbur Gregory, Richard Grout in the 300 meters, Ed Ahlmeyer in the steeplechase and Ralph Serna in the 1,500.

Sabatino took just one vault and easily cleared 15-0. Ahlmeyer was second in his heat in 9:26.0, Gregory ran third in the 110 highs in a school record mark of 14.0, Serna was second in his heat of the 1,500 (3:53.5) and Grout was third in his 800 race (1:52.4).

Slain Fighter

Tyrone Everett, 25, a top contender for the world junior lightweight boxing crown, was found dead Thursday in a Philadelphia residence with shotgun wounds in the face and head. He was due to fight world champ Alfredo Escalera next month in a rematch after losing a controversial split decision to Escalera last year. No suspects have been named in the slaying.

Been Treated Unfairly Says Harris

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Harris won't say it, but chances are he would like to be traded by the Los Angeles Rams to a team that would give him a better chance at being the starting quarterback.

Harris, one of the few black signal-callers in the National Football League, feels he has been treated unfairly by the Rams, and thinks he could lead them to the Super Bowl if given the chance.

During the 1976 season, Harris lost his starting job to Pat Haden.

His future with the Rams is even more in doubt now with the recent highly publicized signing of Joe Namath.

Harris, 29, was one of three quarterbacks who started last season for the Rams. He began the year as No. 1, but ended on the bench as the team lost in the playoffs to Minnesota.

"I never said I wanted to be traded," Harris said Thursday. "That situation is in the hands of the Rams, as is my contract situation." Harris has one year left on his contract with the Rams. "The reason I didn't play involved something other than my ability," said Harris, refusing to elaborate but leaving the door open to a charge of racism. "Based on my performance over the past three years, I shouldn't have been benched."

"I think Haden taking over as the No. 1 quarterback on the Rams was a management decision, not one made by coach Chuck Knox," added Harris. "I feel I have been treated unfairly by the Rams over the past year."

Walters-Kingsland 880 Featured in CIF Meet

NORWALK—This is the rubber match. The two fastest 880 runners in CIF's Southern Section have split a pair of previous head-to-head races, and tonight they go for the tiebreaker.

Jim Walters of Estancia High (Costa Mesa) won the first during Century League finals, clocking 1:51.3, the nation's fastest time this season by a high school runner.
Dave Kingsland of El Modena High (Orange) won the second during CIF finals, running 1:52.3 and leading Walters from start to finish.

In the race that Walters won, Kingsland was clocked at an identical 1:51.3, but the Estancia runner broke the tape first.
They'll be running side by side, in lanes four and five tonight for the CIF Southern Section state qualifying meet at Cerritos College.

Boys and girls field events start at 5 and running begins at 6:30. Five athletes from each event qualify for the California state meet finals June 3-4 at UCLA.

Walters didn't race Kingsland during the league dual meet season because of a hamstring muscle pull, but Walters has been fully recovered for several weeks now, and tonight's 880 figures to be a two-man race between him and Kingsland.

A similar battle shapes up in the mile with three outstanding prospects leading the way. Most notable is Mark Fricker of Hemet, who ran a CIF record 4:08.2 during the 2-A finals.

Agoura's Joe Stormo, with a 4:10.2, figures to challenge Fricker most of the way. Charlie Christensen of Edison High in Huntington Beach could also pose a threat. His best this season is 4:11.4.

The closest race of the night could come in the 120 high hurdles where no fewer than four runners must be considered potential winners.

One is Ken Margerum of Fountain Valley High, with a season best of 13.9. The others are Corneal Milloy of Pasadena High, Jerry Sanders of Muir (Pasadena) and Milan Stewart of West Covina High, each with a top time of 14.1.

Pasadena has more depth and talent than any other school in the meet and its brightest star is sprinter James Sanford, a potential double winner tonight.

Sanford's best times for the 220 (21.1) and 440 (46.7) are within fractions of a second from the meet records, and if anyone can stay close, they could push the graceful runner to new standards.

Meet records are also endangered in the high jump and pole vault.

Two jumpers who have cleared 7-0½ battle tonight—Dennis Smith of Santa Monica High and Gary Lawrence of Thousand Oaks High.

Anthony Curran of Crespi High (Encino) tops the pole vault entry list with a 16-2¼, two inches better than the state meet record.

His closest competitor is Edison High's Steve Rakhshani, who has cleared 15-8½ this season.

Gymnasts Advance Weaver Top Performer

Huntington Beach High's Randy Weaver and Eric Bravel, along with Craig Graves of Edison (Huntington Beach) won events to highlight Thursday night's CIF boys gymnastics prelims at Huntington.

Weaver, a 5-4 senior, remained undefeated in floor exercise this year. Bravel captured the rings competition and Graves had the top average on the long horse.

Weaver was easily the top all-around performer, qualifying in all six events for next Friday night's CIF finals at Millikan High in Long Beach.

Weaver was also fourth in the parallel bars, fifth in the horizontal bar and had sixths in the long horse, pommel horse and rings. The top seven in each event advance to the CIF finals, along with the leading four all-around performers.

Huntington also got a fine effort from senior Don Thornton, a one-legged gymnast who was third in pommel horse, fifth in rings and seventh in parallel bars.

Nearly Snubbed Once, Edison Seeks CIF Title

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Almost overlooked as an entry in the CIF golf sectionals recently at Mission Viejo, the Edison High (Huntington Beach) Chargers don't figure to get the same light treatment Tuesday at Riverside's Indian Hills Country Club.

The Chargers raced through the opposition last week at Mission Viejo Country Club with a five-stroke advantage over their nearest competitor.

But only hours before the day-long event was to get under way, CIF officials were not aware of Edison—since the Sunset League champions, unbeaten in league, was not reported as such by Sunset League tournament host Marina High of Huntington Beach.

"We don't know why we weren't entered with the rest," says Edison coach Larry Milne. "It was a problem, but not anymore."

The quintet of Greg Frederick (80), Rick Van Dyke (82), Jim Lencek (84), Randy Peterson (81) and Dave Melanson (83) used its customary balance to beat the tricky Mission Viejo course.

"Those aren't exceptional scores," admits Milne. "But at Mission Viejo the course wasn't in the best of shape and it's a tough course."

Indian Hills presents another prob-blem in the fact that it's a different setup. "I have mixed reactions to the course," says Milne. "It's not uninteresting, however, and it should be competitive."

Golf is an individual sport as you'll find, but Milne says teamwork does become a factor in one sense: "You have to be aware that your individual score goes toward a team effort. You can't fall apart if things go bad."

In league, only four of the five scores count toward the total, but in CIF, all five count. Thus if you're having a bad day, you still have to work at every stroke, because it can still mean the difference to whether your team comes out on top," says Milne.

Frederick, Van Dyke and Lencek, the three seniors of Edison's five, are considered the best at Edison, although depth has been the Chargers' major weapon.

Also instrumental in the annexation of the Sunset League crown have been sophomore Greg McDonald and junior Clint Juhl.

"Considering his consistency and mental approach," says Milne, Frederick is our best player. But any in our lineup can beat him on a given day."

And although none of Edison's aces ranks as a solid bet for individual honors at Riverside Tuesday, chances for a team title are more than a pipe dream.

Mangano Throws No-hitter

Sunset League champion Marina (Huntington Beach) High, behind the no-hit, 14-strikeout pitching of Diana Mangano, rolled into the second round of the CIF 4-A girls softball playoffs following Thursday's 5-0 victory over visiting Bishop Amat High of La Puente.

And, Santa Ana's Mater Dei, Sunrize League co-champ, advanced when Darlene Ramirez singled with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to get past visiting Covina, 6-5.

In 3-A action, San Clemente's Tritons posted a 2-1 victory over visiting Neff (La Mirada) while University High (Irvine) posted a 6-2 decision to visiting Anaheim.

In 2-A play, Huntington Valley Christian High of Newport Beach was ousted by host Walnut, 23-1.

Mangano, in addition to 14 whiffs, walked none in dominating Bishop Amat. Marina is at West Torrance Saturday.

Mater Dei, which journeys to Katella (Anaheim) Saturday in the second round, got the winning run set up by singles from Kathy Baetts and Michelle Zamora.

San Clemente's two runs were scored on back-to-back triples by Mona Bishop and Cindy Furst and an error in the third inning. Tritons pitcher Robin Ponceyham ran her season record to 7-0 with a five-hitter. San Clemente hosts Los Amigos Saturday.

Area Girls Shine In CIF Swimfest

EAST LOS ANGELES—Tracey Cook of Estancia High School, Alice Browne of Corona del Mar High and Lisa Hilger of Mission Viejo established girls swimming records at the CIF championship finals meet at East Los Angeles College here Thursday night.

Mission Viejo won the team championship by a wide margin, scoring 169 points to 78 for runnerup Indio.

Cook came through with a surprising 1:51.14 clocking in the 200-yard freestyle, her best effort by more than three seconds, as she lowered Shirley Babashoff's CIF mark of 1:53.3. Cook also finished second in the 100 free where another national mark was recorded by the winner.

Browne, one of three CdM sisters swimming in the meet, posted a 4:51.60 in the 500-yard freestyle which lowered the CIF mark by more than six seconds. She also finished second to Cook in the 200 with a 1:51.28 clocking.

During the meet, all CIF records were broken with exception of the 100-yard butterfly with five national marks erased.

Hilger of Mission Viejo was the winner in the 100 backstroke with a 59.59, good for a CIF standard, lowering her own mark set in the preliminaries Tuesday night.

Becky McCafferty of Mission Viejo captured the 100-yard butterfly event in 59.18 while the Mission Viejo 400-yard freestyle relay team lowered its own CIF standard with a 3:34.78 clocking. The old meet record was 4:12.85 set in 1976.

Holiday Regattas Slated

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Writer

Memorial Day regattas from San Diego to Santa Barbara will keep sailors and powerboaters waterborne during the three-day weekend which officially marks the beginning of the summer yachting season.

Action on the local front is light with only two regattas scheduled, but many of the yachtsmen will be competing in major events outside the area.

Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club has invited five classes of rag sailors to compete in its annual Invitational Memorial Day regatta for Ethebells-22s, Solings, P-Cats, Lido-14s and Lasers.

DANA POINT WILL BE the focus of two events — a coastal race from Marina del Rey to Dana Point for ocean-racing types and a Memorial Day regatta for small classes.

Huntington Harbour Yacht Club will be host to powerboaters with its annual Easter Catalina Predicted Log race which starts today in a race to Avalon and ends with a race home Monday.

The big event for powerboaters will be the Craig Trophy race for one of the most coveted predicted log kudos in the United States. The first leg of the race will start today from Long Beach with the power cruisers headed for San Diego. The second leg is from San Diego to Long Beach on Monday with both legs counting toward the trophy. The event is sponsored by Long Beach Yacht Club.

MAJOR EVENTS FOR sailboaters will be Los Angeles Yacht Club's Channel Islands race Saturday and Sunday; a Pacific Ocean Racing Conference (PORC) day race out of Del Rey Yacht Club on Saturday, followed by the start of a California Yacht Club sponsored race from Marina del Rey to Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club at Newport Beach.

It's Staggering Measured Start for La Paz Race?

Newport Harbor Yacht Club's use of the "staggered start" in the Cabo San Lucas race may have started a trend in medium distance yacht racing.

The Long Beach Yacht Club has announced that it will use the staggered start as one means of salvaging its 1,000-mile La Paz race next October. The once popular biennial race was almost scuttled two years ago when only five boats participated.

But the main feature in re-viving the La Paz race will be the inauguration of what LBYC chooses to call the Sea of Cortes Series in which one race will involve the taking of elapsed times as the yachts round a mark at Cabo San Lucas while continuing on their way to La Paz.

ALSO TO STIR interest in the race, LBYC has opened it up to yachts rated under the Performance Handicap Racing Fleet as well as the International Offshore Rule ratings.

General chairman Bob Graham said the race committee would review the PHRF ratings prior to the start and may make adjustments to improve the quality of the ratings based on wind conditions encountered in the race.

In addition to the original La Paz trophies, a new Sea of Cortes perpetual trophy will be dedicated recognizing the overall winners of the IOR, PHRF and first-to-finish fleet.

GRAHAM SAID THE slower half of the fleet or classes will start Saturday, Oct. 22 and the other half will start the next day.

"The staggered start should equalize the wind conditions encountered in rounding Cabo San Lucas and beating up the inside of the gulf to La Paz," said Graham. "It should also bring the fleet together during the latter part of the race and at the finish."

Questions and suggestions regarding the race should be addressed to the Race Committee, Long Beach Yacht Club, 6201 Appian Way, Long Beach, CA. 90803.

Lights on Life Preservers Asked

The Coast Guard is proposing new standards for life preservers used on commercial vessels.

The regulations would require lights on life preservers used on ships on the oceans and Great Lakes and in coastal waters. Reflective materials would have to be included on life preservers on vessels in service on lakes, bays, sounds and rivers.

The proposed regulations would affect only commercial vessels, not recreational boats.

Shelter Island Boat Launch Site Finished

The State Department of Navigation and Ocean Development (DNOD), in cooperation with the San Diego Unified Port District, has announced the completion of a $218,000 improvement project at the Shelter Island Boat launching facility, located on San Diego Bay in San Diego County.

The project included removing the existing 10-lane ramp and replacing it with a new 10-lane concrete ramp

CITY

It's just good common sense to want great gas mileage these days. But there are more economies built into these Toyota trucks than just what you'll save at the gas pump. Durability. It makes sense to buy a truck that'll hold up. Toyotas are built to last. That's why you see so many older Toyota trucks still in-service. Reliability. It makes sense to buy a truck you can depend on. Toyota built its reputation with reliable vehicles. For example, all 5 Toyota trucks have a transistorized ignition system for dependable starting. Value. It makes sense to buy a truck that'll hold its value. Owning a Toyota is like money in the bank. Because Toyotas have traditionally high resale value. *These California EPA results with manual transmission are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on your driving habits and your truck's condition and equipment.

Bradley Elsberry as Jesus (left) is besieged by his followers, who include Beth Hansen (right) as Mary Magdalene, in 'Jesus Christ Superstar' at OCC

'Superstar' Visits Coast

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A historical opera that was never meant to be staged hardly seems like a popular project for a college campus.

But from its nativity as an album through its Broadway production at Orange Coast College, "Jesus Christ Superstar" has lost none of its appeal, according to director Thomas Bradac.

MUSIC director Steven Jay Warner said he believes the OCC presentation will have freshness and originality, despite students' familiarity with other productions.

"They're putting their own interpretation into the numbers," Warner said. "A lot of the time when musicals are done, people tend to imitate, but they (cast members) are not."

Bradac said one reason for choosing "Superstar" was that it hasn't been given a college-level production locally. He cited two high school productions — he directed one himself at Newport Harbor High School two years ago — and one at the Fullerton Civic Light Opera.

One reason for the paucity of productions may be the difficulty of staging "Superstar." There are 40 cast members at OCC and "we auditioned over 150," Warner said. "We tried to get the strongest singers that we could."

WARNER AND BRADAC said the production required an unusually long rehearsal period, about six weeks of musical rehearsals followed by seven weeks of choreography and staging. Just sorting out which director was responsible for what was complicated.

"My job is basically concept," Bradac said. "Going more to the historical than to the religious, for example, and the visualization that we will present on stage. Melinda (Moreno, a professional choreographer) helps to integrate my concept into her choreography."

Meanwhile, Warner and his assistant, University of Southern California student Gary Ellis, are working with an orchestra of about 12 players, including such instruments as a string synthesizer, piano, organ, drums, lead and bass guitar, woodwinds and brass.

"We usually don't step on each others' toes," Bradac said. However, he said things will get a bit hectic right before the opening, June 7, since the cast will have only three rehearsals on the OCC Auditorium stage.

BUT THE TECHNICAL problems haven't obscured the philosophical requirements of presenting a story about such a

"We're not trying to deal with this but to take what Rice and Webber (composers Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber) have interpreted," Bradac said.

He said he believes that opera's point is "that this (Jesus) is a man who was trying to initiate change. Judas has been looked at as the villain, but Webber and Rice make him as much a victim as Christ."

"BASICALLY JUDAS says we're getting away from our cause and calling you (Jesus) a god on earth. Judas questions that," Bradac said.

The role of Jesus will be played by Bradley Elsberry, with Michael Soto as Judas and Beth Hansen as Mary Magdalene.

Other leading roles will be played by Cary Miller, Jim Fletcher, Joseph M. Collins, Richard Kleber, Kevin Duffis, David Kent, Cynthia Wenner and Kim Hill.

Additional apostles are portrayed by Rene Gubernick, Brian DeLapp, Rick Millikan, Duane McDonald, Richard Greeley, Brian Fields, Pat Lipot, Harry Fitzner and Michael Barnes.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" will play at 8 p.m. June 7-9 and 11 and at 2:30 p.m. June 10 in the OCC Auditorium, 2701 Fairview Road, Costa Mesa.

Tickets are $2 evenings, $1 matinee, and can be reserved by calling 556-5527 or by sending a check and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Superstar Tickets at the college, zip 92626. Tickets may also be purchased at the box office, noon to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Designers for the production are Jeffrey M. Koppe, sets; Stanley Tudor, costumes, and Dean Alexander, lighting.

Arts, crafts, special entertainment and personal appearances by television and film celebrities will be featured at the park, 8800 Moulton Parkway, Laguna Hills.

In addition, beginning June 1, hours will be extended. The last car admitted into the wildlife preserve will be at 6 p.m. instead of the current 5 p.m., and the Safari Camp entertainment center will also close one hour later, at 7:30 p.m. Opening time is 9 a.m. every day, regardless of weather, with admission $4.95 for adults and $2.95 for children 3-11.

MEANWHILE IN Buena Park, Cajun fiddler Doug Kershaw kicks off Knott's Berry Farm's summer entertainment. He will perform at 6:30, 9:30 and 11 o'clock tonight through Sunday and 3:30, 6:30 and 8 p.m. Monday.

Singer Jody Miller will be on stage at 3:30, 5 and 8 o'clock today through Sunday, and 12:30, 2 and 5 p.m. Monday.

Cathy Steele and Willy Bietak. Shows will be given four times daily except Friday.

In nearby Anaheim, today marked the official dedication of the new Space Mountain attraction and its support facilities.

The attraction, similar to a popular space ride at Disney World in Florida, has futuristic spires 118 feet high, a new landmark in Tomorrowland.

Inside, "astronauts" board special rockets for a journey through the whirling galaxies of outer space. During the roller-coaster-type ride, visitors also encounter a threatening meteor shower and other special effects.

IN ADDITION, the Space Mountain complex includes Space Place, a 650-seat restaurant, plus a 1,000-seat amphitheater and the Starcade, an arcade with electronic games.

Opening in conjunction with Space Mountain is the PeopleMover attraction, presented by Goodyear. It features an elevated scenic tour of Tomorrowland and passes through the new Superspeed Tunnel, which produces the sensation of tremendous speed.

Then, beginning June 18, summer activities at Disneyland will be in full swing. Nighttime entertainment will be highlighted by a new version of the Main Street Electrical Parade, each night at 9 and 11.

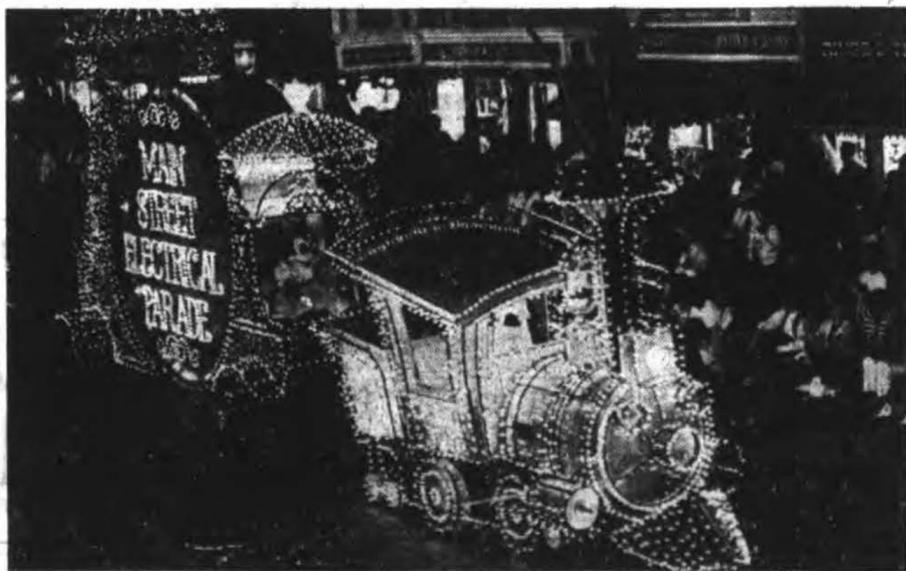

Among the new effects will be an underwater illusion and neon lights in the shape of Disney cartoon characters. Following the 9 p.m. parade, "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks will be launched above the Sleeping Beauty Castle. The show features pyrotechnics from throughout the world and is accompanied by appropriate music.

UPCOMING THIS summer will be Buddy Rich and his Killer Force, June 18-25; the Duke Ellington Orchestra, June 26-July 2; Les Brown and His Band of Renown, July 3-9; Louie Bellson and the Big Band Explosion, July 10-16, and Freddy Martin and His Orchestra, July 17-23.

Passengers prepare for a roller-coaster style ride at Space Mountain (above). Summer activities at Disneyland will also include the Main Street Electrical Parade, debuting June 18.

Love Vs. News

Sandy Elliot (center) has the sinking feeling she's losing her fiance, Steve DeNaut (left) to his job as a newspaper reporter. George Woods plays his crusty managing editor in the comedy "The Front Page," which will run at May 31-June 18 at the Laguna Moulton Playhouse, 494-0743.

Film Explores Hawaii

Dick Clark narrates "Hawaii: In Conquest of the Sea" Saturday at 8 p.m. on KTTV, Channel 11. Underwater explorer/photographer Bruno Vailati leads an expedition into uncharted waters off the Hawaiian Islands, braving the South Point where currents, rough seas and sharks have kept divers away for centuries. The special is climaxed by a 1600 foot dive (in a diving bell) in search of precious pink coral, recording the exploits of coral divers who submerge 300 feet.

Sully's Restaurant Opens in Clemente

Relegate to history the City Yard Bar and Grill in San Clemente. A new name, menu and staff debuted two weeks ago as Sully's restaurant at the Old City Plaza location, 111 W. Palizada.

Sully's, we're told, offers a wide range of seafood and meat entrees. A house feature in the beef department is the cut of prime rib labeled Sully's Special.

Fish fanciers can turn to such choices as sand dabs St. Germain, boneless trout bretonne and filet of sole almondine. Still more selections are veal piccata and veal Oskar, as well as a chef's choice every day for lunch and dinner.

AT THE SALAD bar — open during all hours of food service — diners can create their own salads with a choice of bleu cheese, green goddess, thousand island and vinegar and oil dressings.

Kitchen supervisor is Robert Serna, former chef at Donkin's. Prior to that he was banquet chef at the Airport Marina Hotel in Westchester and has been associated with the Velvet Turtle restaurants and the Hyatt House Corp.

Open every day, Sully's serves its luncheon menu from 11:30 to 2:30. From 2:30 to 5 you can partake of the salad bar and steak and prime rib sandwiches.

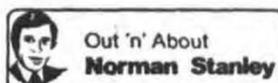

Dinner is served Monday through Thursday from 5 until 9:30 p.m., and until 10:30 on Friday and Saturday. Sunday dinner hours are 4 to 9:30 p.m.

ON SUNDAY there's also a champagne brunch, at $3.95 per person, served from 10:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Featured are such dishes as eggs Benedict, huevos rancheros, eggs Florentine and a wide choice of omelets.

In addition to all the other changes, Sully's restaurant is progressively being remodeled. And there's piano bar entertainment on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The telephone number for reservations at Sully's is 498-1211. The restaurant is reached by taking the San Diego Freeway south to the Avenida Palizada off-ramp and turning right a few hundred feet to Old City Plaza.

crazy about dieting. So those with an uncontrollable urge for something gooey and fattening can create the sundae of their dreams at 1,001 Sundaes, now open in Costa Mesa.

Orange County's first make-it-yourself ice cream shop, 1,001 Sundaes features a smorgasbord of toppings and flavors of Dreyer's Grand Ice Cream. And for those with more will power, ice cream cones and shakes in a variety of flavors are available as well as Dreyer's frozen yogurt.

This ice cream heaven, located at 2750 Harbor Blvd., also offers facilities for children's parties.

READ THEM AND WEEP! That's what we did the other day while perusing the prices on a menu dated Sunday, December 8, 1935.

Like the dinosaur, this relic of another age proved fascinating for all that was and can never be again. For the opportunity to examine it (and make a photocopy) we're indebted to Eddie Park of Costa Mesa.

Now retired and living near the Daily Pilot's main office, Eddie spent his entire working life in the food and restaurant business.

It was while going through some old papers that he came across the menu from the Melrose Grotto — 5507 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, Hillside 9033.

The bill of fare, it turns out, was one Eddie would have had a hand in preparing since he was employed by the Grotto at that time. And somewhere along the line, obviously, he had tucked away this memento of life in the depths of the great Depression.

WHAT COULD YOU get for 85 cents nearly 42 years ago? Well, would you believe a complete dinner?

That consisted of ripe olives and hearts of celery; appetizer choice of shrimp, lobster, oyster, avocado, fruit or tomato juice cocktail; choice of soup; salad; choice of 10 entrees (abalone steak, half broiled or cold lobster, scallopine of veal, French lamb chops, fried Pismo clams, top sirloin steak, etc.);

AT BOB BURNS PIANO

choice of dessert (nine selections plus assorted pies); choice of beverage — and — a glass of claret wine.

If the 85 cents asking price was a bit steep for your pocketbook, you could turn instead to the only slightly less sumptuous — complete — dinner for 50 cents. Or, if you were really a big spender, the full deluxe dinner was an astronomical $1.

Chef's special dinners for the day included whole baby broiled lobster, 60 cents; fresh fried shrimps, 45 cents; grilled salmon steak, 40 cents; half cooked crab, 45 cents; calf's liver and bacon, 40 cents; fresh lobster a la Louis, 60 cents; roast tom turkey and dressing, 50 cents.

But why go on? The next thing you know Eddie will be coming around with a later menu that shows the price of a martini or Manhattan has skyrocketed from 20 to 25 cents.

MARK YOUR CALENDAR for an exciting opening on the local entertainment scene, on Tuesday night. Keyboard virtuoso Ronnie Brown will return to his old stand at Bob Burns restaurant, 37 Fashion Island, Newport Center, 644-2030.

Rowe Directing 'Page'

Back in 1964, when Hap Graham retired for the second time as managing director of the Laguna Playhouse, the theater signed on a young man in his middle 20s to guide its fortunes.

His name was Doug Rowe, and his informal, easygoing style — along with his generally first-rate productions — made him a popular figure in Laguna, where he directed nearly every playhouse production through the next two seasons.

After stepping down from his full-time post in 1966, Rowe returned periodically to stage some of his best works ("A Man for All Seasons," "A View From the Bridge," "Dylan") as guest director during the playhouse's last three years on Ocean Avenue. He closed out the old theater in 1969 with a hilarious production of "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath."

THAT WAS THE last Laguna was to see of Doug Rowe for seven years. Then, early in 1976, he was back at the new Laguna Moulton Playhouse to mount a revival of "The Petrified Forest" — in which he also stepped into the leading role on a few days' notice.

The success of that show earned him an invitation for a return engagement, and Rowe was back four months ago to interpret Oliver Hailey's moving comedy "For the Use of the Hall." Two months later Hap Graham, who had served six years in his third stint as managing director, announced his retirement and Rowe inherited the direction of Laguna's last two shows of the season, "Finishing Touches" and "The Front Page."

Having dispatched "Finishing Touches" in April, Rowe is currently in the final stages of putting "Front Page" on the boards for its opening on Tuesday. And he seems to have his hands full. "I was up on stage talking to about a dozen cast members and I turned around and there were another half dozen sitting in the audience," he remarked. "It's really madness in this show."

THERE ARE, IN fact, 18 roles in "The Front Page," the vintage newspaper comedy recently remade as a Jack Lemmon-Walter Matthau movie. In the Lemmon role is Steve DeNaut, an actor-writer from South Coast Repertory who helped create SCR's superior mime show "The Daring Dardolases."

With Rowe putting three of Laguna's last four plays on the boards, it might seem that history is repeating itself and that he's about to succeed Hap Graham as managing director for the second time in 13 years.

He's definitely in the running for the post, along with a half dozen other applicants, and the decision is in the hands of the theater's board of directors. And while Doug Rowe may or may not be the front runner, like the salesmen in the prelude to "The Music Man," he certainly knows the territory.

SOUTH COAST Repertory has scheduled its sixth annual Summer Conservatory from June 20 through Aug. 13 at the company's Third Step Theater in Costa Mesa.

The eight-week session, the most intensive of all SCR's professional acting training programs, will run from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. five days a week. It will feature workshops, acting laboratories and lectures by guest artists from the stage, movies and television.

The curriculum will consist of acting technique, stage movement, voice and improvisation. A workshop presentation will wind up the conservatory program.

The seminar is open to adults 18 and over with or without previous acting training. A limited number of scholarships are available, with the grants based on need and ability. Deadline for scholarship applications is Saturday, while the deadline for enrollment is June 9. Further information is available at 646-3252.

PIANIST RETURNS TO NEWPORT...

Ronnie, together with Bob Ciccarelli on string bass, will be holding forth with show, pop and jazz tunes. And if you've never heard him before, you're in for a lesson in authority over the 88s. Above all, Ronnie is the master of free and easy improvisation. He never strays too far from the original theme, but makes it sound new and bright with his interpretation.

In addition to his piano artistry, Ronnie is also an arranger, composer and conductor. Some of the top artists he has accompanied include Tony Bennett, Ella Fitzgerald, Sammy Davis and Frank Sinatra.

Great Ape Studied In Special

Two women research scientists, Dian Fossey and Birute Galdikas-Brindamour, track the gorilla and orangutan through unknown terrain when "The Search for the Great Apes," a National Geographic Special, is reprised Tuesday on KCET, Channel 28.

Richard Kiley narrates the documentary, which begins 10,000 feet high in the mountains of Rwanda, Africa, in a camp that has been home to zoologist Dian Fossey for nearly 10 years. She has spent thousands of hours recording the behavior of the mountain gorilla, an animal that can grow to six feet tall, weighing 400 pounds or more with an eight-foot arm span.

Frampton Due at Big A TV DAILY LOG

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

British guitarist Peter Frampton, rock's biggest new superstar, will appear July 6 outdoors at Anaheim Stadium. Tickets go on sale May 31 at the stadium box office and local ticket outlets.

Cost is $9 for a reserved seat in one of two stadium upper decks, or $10 for a non-reserved "cramming-room-only" spot on the playing field.

This marks Frampton's first return to Anaheim since his show-stealing performance last summer co-headlining with Yes. His last tour supported the modest success of his "Frampton Comes Alive" album, which has already passed the seven million sales mark in the U.S. alone.

WORLDWIDE sales of "Alive" are approaching an awesome 12 million copies and a spokesman for his label, A&M, is predicting the album will be the biggest selling LP in American rock history, topping Carole King's "Tapestry."

The lithe, undeniably cute singer/guitarist's success has been long overdue based on his four previous solo efforts since leaving Humble Pie. However, his overwhelmingly rapid climb to popularity with "Alive" has prompted a critical backlash, with many writers claiming his fortunes are due more to his charisma and lucky timing than musical prowess.

No doubt the debate will be rekindled with the release of Frampton's crucial follow-up album, "I'm in You," which is set for a June 1 issue. The title track, a string-laden but pleasant ballad, is already out as a single and the album will contain a Motown medley featuring Jr. Walker's classic "Roadrunner."

A bit frightening perhaps to newer fans, but Frampton did an able cover job of Stevie Wonder's "I Believe When I Fall in Love," on his second solo album, "Frampton's Camel."

His upcoming concert is a Wolf and Rissmiller affair, and the promoters have tentatively slated Emerson, Lake and Palmer, a Ted Nugent/Lynyrd Skynyrd show and Chicago for additional summer shows at the stadium.

LIKE A BOTTLE of vintage wine, Little Feat keeps getting better with time. With the release of its sixth album, "Time Loves a Hero" (Warner Bros. BS-3015), the soulful sextet may finally overcome its label as "America's greatest unknown band."

"Hero" is the band's most balanced and rewarding effort since its early "Sailin' Shoes" era. Striking a varied musical posture, which mixes elements of soul, jazz, reggae and straight-out rock boogie into an engaging whole, Feat, once again, is ready for its big stride to popularity. Backed by some well-arranged horn charts supplied by Tower of Power and the neat production of Ted Templeman, Little Feat has moved away from the flat dynamics that made "The Last Record Album" a minor disappointment to fans.

Lowell George and Paul Barrere team up for some excellent guitar interplay on their progressive instrumental, "Day at the Dog Races," and the rhythm section of Ritchie Hayward (Drums), Kenny Gradney (Bass) and Sam Clayton (congas) is back in full force.

Versatility is Feat's strength and the group adeptly moves from the hard-core funk of "Rocket in the Pocket," and the Boz Scaggs-like rhythm and blues of "Hi Roller," to the simple country charm of "Missin' You." This is easily the best American rock album of the year to date.

Stung Again

Confidence man Paul Newman finds himself pitted against racketeer Robert Shaw in "The Sting," costarring Robert Redford, which has been rereleased. The film won seven Academy Awards and is set in Chicago of the 1930s.

KCET to Air 'Giselle'

The American Ballet Theater production of "Giselle," starring Natalia Makarova as Giselle, Mikhail Baryshnikov as Albrecht and Martine van Hamel as Myrta, airs on "Live From Lincoln Center" Thursday at 8 p.m. on KCET, Channel 28.

"Giselle" was conceived by Theophile Gautier, 19th century poet and critic, who took his inspiration from the Slavic legend of the "Wilis," maidens who have died of unrequited love.

Their souls can find no rest, and they are doomed forever to roam the earth from the hours of midnight to dawn. If a male enters their domain during these hours, the maidens force him to dance to his death.

Films Offer Nostalgia

By BOB THOMAS
The Associated Press

"SMALL CHANGE" is a celebration of childhood as seen through the fond eyes of Francois Truffaut. There is no plot. The film maker shows us a series of superbly wrought vignettes during a year at a boys' grammar school in a French village. Truffaut touches the heart as a filmmaker no other director practicing today. His new film is poignant and sentimental, yet with an edge of reality. PG.

"FRATERNITY ROW" explores the same nostalgic country of "The Summer of '42" and "American Graffiti." A Pennsylvania college fraternity reflects the youthful attitudes of 1954, complete with Perry Como hits, singing commercials and college fads. Two idealists, Peter Fox and Gregory Harrison, try to fight snobbery and brutality in the fraternity and fail. Filmed as a doctor's thesis at USC, the movie overcomes awkward and amateurish moments to register ingenious charm and vitality. PG.

"THE GREATEST" is Muhammad Ali's portrait of Muhammad Ali, born Cassius Clay. It is a complimentary portrait, of course, but also a fascinating one. The late Tom Gries directed the episodic chronicle with a sure touch, exacting from Ali a performance that is both accurate and moving. This is no "Rocky" dream world, but the Cinderella story is more convincing because it is real. The champion gets solid support from Ernest Borgnine, John Marley, Robert Duvall, James Earl Jones, Annazette Chase (as the second Mrs. Ali) and Phillip MacAllister, a convincing replica of the 18-year-old Cassius. Rated PG.

"ISLANDS IN THE STREAM" is an old-fashioned movie — well-written, compellingly acted, directed with intelligence, taste and honest sentiment. Based on Ernest Hemingway's last, autobiographical novel, the film stars George C. Scott as a reclusive but not embittered artist on a Caribbean isle. He has never given a more sensitive performance on the screen. The supporting cast, headed by David Hemmings and Claire Bloom, is equally fine. An achievement for director Franklin Schaffner and writer Denne Bart Petric. Rated PG.

"THE LITTLE GIRL WHO LIVES DOWN THE LANE" is a modest thriller that satisfies despite its far-fetched plot. Young Jodie Foster moves into a seaside house with her poet-father. But the father is never seen, and his estranged wife seems to be missing, too. Then a nosy real estate woman disappears, and the town starts wondering. Foster is such an inspired actress that she manages to maintain credibility, and she is aided by Martin Sheen, Alexis Smith and Scott Jacoby. Rated PG, it has sexual undertones.

"COUSIN COUSINE" follows the romantic

tradition of "A Man and a Woman" with a sardonic twist. Marie-Christine Barrault and Victor Lanoux fall in love despite their marriages to others. They are secretive, at first, then flaunt the affair before their bewildered relatives. Director Jean Tachella's sharp eye for the absurdities of polite society makes the film a Gaullic delight. Rated R.

"ANNIE HALL" presents Woody Allen as a neurotic, obsessive Jewish comic enmeshed in hopeless, tempestuous love with Diane Keaton. Autobiographical? No matter. Allen is in superior form, tossing absurd insights and profound nonsense like tree blossoms in the spring wind. He is again masterful as the survivor in spite of himself. The real news is Diane Keaton, who emerges as a comedienne of the Jean Arthur-Carole Lombard class. Rated PG.

"AIRPORT '77" gives every indication that the disaster movie trend may soon come to a crashing halt. This time Universal is hard put to breathe life into the cardboard characters and the contrived jeopardy. Billionaire James Stewart has an assortment of people and a planeload of art flown to his Florida mansion; the plus 747 disappears underwater. PG.

Diamond Man Viewed

Senor Geraldo Santos de Silva, a life-long diamond prospector now 80 years old, is profiled in "Diamond Rivers," airing Wednesday at 10 p.m. on KCET, Channel 28. It will be repeated at 1 p.m. June 3, 8:30 p.m. June 4 and 1 and 5:30 p.m. June 5.

A tiny, rustic village in the Brazilian state of Bahia is da Silva's home; he has spent his life there searching for gems in the dingy water of the river.

"I was born looking for diamonds. One day in the river I found a diamond. . . I went to town and got a good revolver, good clothes, good liquor, good women and good times. And when the money was gone, I went back to the river to find another."

Plays Himself

Muhammad Ali stars in his own life story in the new film "The Greatest," which features Mira Waters as an early romance. Also in the film are Ernest Borgnine and Annazette Chase. Phillip MacAllister portrays the boxer as a young man.

Arts Education Called Essential

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of 25 prominent Americans said recently that the arts, far from being frills, can perform a useful function as essential as the three Rs.

The committee headed by David Rockefeller Jr., following a two-year study, urged the nation to reverse the historic segregation of the arts from education. Such a move, it said, would not only teach children about the arts themselves but would enhance learning in general.

"This report appears at a time of contradictory trends," the 330-page volume says. "On the one hand, the arts are flourishing as never before in America. . .

"On the other hand, arts education is struggling for its life."

The report titled, "Coming to Our Senses," contains 92 recommendations addressed to every level of government as well as to teachers, arts specialists, school administrators and parents.

It proposes that the U.S. Office of Education be raised to Cabinet status.

New York Fetes Dolly

By LISA ROBINSON

Dolly Parton took New York City by storm last week.

She performed six sell-out shows at the Bottom Line, was the honored guest at a lavish (the Dom Perignon flowed like water) party atop the World Trade Center and had every celebrity in town at her feet.

Among those who saw Dolly were Mick Jagger, Andy Warhol, Candy Bergen, Lily Tomlin, Phoebe Snow, John (it wouldn't be a party without) Belushi, Nona Hendryx, Eric Idle, Olivia Newton-John and Terry Southern.

Watching Dolly perform wearing a rhinestone-studded diaphanous pink chiffon gown, with that hair and sparkly shoes, ring bracelets and teeth, I wondered if she ever wanted to just unburden herself of all that image, and sing in a simple black dress.

"NEVER," SHE told me emphatically when we spoke the following day. "Never. See, my gaudy appearance is part of my personality. It's something I enjoy, it makes me happy. I love all that glitter and glare."

"And I like to think that people think it's cute, or funny, or ridiculous... outrageous, whatever they think; because a true person, with any directness at all, can see right through it and know that it's a kind of gimmick, a fun thing for the audience. That's what it is for me."

"I'm just a character and I like to be an extremist. I have been all my life. I don't want to be like everybody else, I want to be like myself."

As for the well-publicized "switch" from country music to conquering the pop audience: "I've been planning to do this for a long time," Dolly said simply. "I just felt that as a writer and creator of my own music, I wanted total musical freedom."

"THERE WAS SO much more I could do than to just have it labeled as country, even though it will always have its country flavor."

"I was sure I had a broader audience than what I was playing to. For years, I knew I had a large following in the contemporary area, but they wouldn't go to the places where the families went to see me.

Tops in Pops

"So I wanted to try and do something that would please as many people as possible and add as much to my music as I can. I think it was a smart move, I'm not leaving what I've done — I just want to reach more people. I'll always go back and do my simple, country songs like 'Coat of Many Colors' and 'Tennessee Mountain Home.'"

And the reported bitter Nashville reaction? "It got distorted in the press," said Dolly. "I didn't leave Nashville, I just moved my business things. I love my friends there and I love the Grand Ole Opry which I'm still a member of and hope to be forever."

"I GUESS THERE was some fear at the start; some of the people who loved me thought I was making a mistake and wouldn't do well. Then, of course, there were those who were afraid that I would do well; they resented the fact that I was doing something they didn't have the nerve or the courage to do."

"I had my feelings hurt a few times. "But my writing is more serious to me than any phase of this whole business. If I had to make a choice to be an entertainer, a singer or a writer, I'd choose to be a writer. I'd hate to give up any of it, it's all so closely related it's almost like one gigantic thing. But the song writing I take very seriously."

"I would like to think that getting into my music would be considered fashionable now. I can feel it growing and spreading, and I can see it in the faces of the audience. They've got me working like a man these days," she laughs, "but it's so exciting, it's really fun."

Deputy

Yvette Mimieux portrays a deputy marshal in "Ransom For Alice," a movie of the week about the investigation of a businessman's granddaughter. It will be shown at 9:30 p.m. Thursday on Channel 4.

Dog Lands Broadway Role

New star on Broadway: Sandy, of 'Annie,' even has his own understudy—a long way from the pound where he was discovered.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK — The perils of Pauline had nothing on the career of Sandy Berloni, Broadway's most improbable celebrity.

Rescued from mercy extinction, later mangled by a truck, untutored in the skills of professional rivals, Sandy has survived to meet Presidents Carter and Ford, eat steak nightly and thrive on gushy audience acclaim.

Sandy is the tan dog of chaotic ancestry who turned out to be a casting director's dream in the new smash musical "Annie," a caper based on the comic strip "Little Orphan Annie."

been photographed by high fashion's Richard Avedon and is besieged to endorse every dog food around.

IN APRIL, 1976, though, he was a scrawny waif at the end of his rope. Salvation came because up at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam, Conn., untested "Annie" was slated for presentation.

The producer found that getting a regular trained animal would cost $600 a week plus expenses, so actor-technician Berloni was sent on a hound hunt.

After seeing 500 lost, stolen and strayed canines in a half-dozen pounds, Berloni arrived at the dog-catcher's corral in Newington, just outside Hartford.

"Over in a corner of a cage, this fellow was cowering, scaly and sad, skinny as anything. I was sorry."

When Berloni reached in his pocket to post a guarantee, he discovered he had no money with him. Could he return in the morning before the pound opened? "You can try," was the noncommittal answer.

At 8:30 a.m. Berloni returned, roused the janitor, paid the $8 adoption fee and hurried his nameless companion to the nearest roadside eatery for a couple of hamburgers.

"HE IS A VERY mellow animal," says owner Bill Berloni of the psychological complacency with which his charge has adjusted to unexpected salvation.

Between roles, the only performer around to be named for his stage part likes to curl up in a corner of his Alvin Theater dressing room. Deep in long doggy introspection, he lets his understudy Arf welcome visitors with woofs and sniffs.

Bill Berloni, 20, does the talking to an occasional rollover, paw stretch or corroboratory eye roll as tribulations and triumph are reviewed.

"Ever since the opening, he's been on a round of chores that have knocked him off habit," Berloni says. Sandy has been on television, has an elaborate magazine profile upcoming, has

THE GOODSPEED company enthusiastically received the vagabond at the communal barracks. "Just right," said the bosses, and Berloni settled down to preparing his charge for "Annie," scheduled to open in August.

"The vet decided he was 18 months old, in good health but in need of lots of care and nourishment," says Berloni. "He's mostly Airedale and Irish Setter." Today, Sandy stands 24 inches at the shoulder, weighs in at 50 pounds.

Having had many pets, Berloni set about winning the dog's trust with kindness. And after the curtain came down each night on the show then running, Sandy was taken on stage to get used to the orchestra and audience clatter.

Everything went fine, including getting acquainted with the youngsters who were to be in "Annie," until two weeks before the musical was to open. A delivery truck ran over him legs at the hip. Immobilized in a cast for a week, Sandy only got three days of rehearsals before the show opened. He just had one scene, but audiences immediately flipped.

THE END OF the run apparently was to be the end of his stage career, but Mike Nichols took the property over, planning revisions and performances in Washington and on Broadway.

Sandy was recalled, so Berloni gave up his own drama studies. Next, the dog's role was expanded to parts in four scenes. In one he has a solo stroll across the stage.

There's never been a sign of stage fright.

"His performance every night is totally unpredictable. There's a bit of ham in him. Sometimes he is brilliant, sometimes he disrupts a scene."

SOON AFTER the New York opening, Sandy decided to wash himself in a way that broke up the audience and sent Andrea McCordle, who plays Annie, giggling into the wings, her song unfinished. Miss McCordle has become adept at ad-libbing around his inopportune whims.

Like any important performer, Sandy now has an understudy, the 10-month-old Arf, found in a New York Humane center.

New Bogart Picks Hits

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the "new Hollywood," where record studios are busier than film factories, they still speak of "Bogart and Casablanca" with reverence.

But there's a difference. The object of admiration is not the 1943 movie or its star. Instead, it's 1977's recording industry wonderchild — Neil Bogart — and his small but mighty record company, Casablanca.

It is the kind of dazzling success story the old movies could have told well:

A YOUNG MAN with ambition sells his share of a small New York record company to go West. He borrows $2.5 million to start his own firm, then releases his first record and it flops, losing $1 million.

The scene shifts to two years later. Neil Bogart, ensconced in Moroccan-style offices on the Sunset Strip, is a millionaire at 34.

"We've gone from a deficit to a $30 million company in two years," exults Bogart.

"We've released 30 albums. Nine of them went gold ($1 million in sales) and three went platinum (one million albums sold). That statistic has to be mind boggling in the industry."

What turned the company around? Outsiders might say it was the star power of two Casablanca acts — Kiss and Donna Summer.

BUT, IN THE ephemeral world of rock, where stars are known to flash and fizzle fast, insiders say it was Bogart's sense of timing and taste that made the difference.

"The history of Casablanca Record and Filmworks is as colorful and dynamic as its founder and president, Neil Bogart," Cashbox magazine declared recently.

He has a pitchman's instinct for what will sell.

"It's a gut feeling," he says.

"You make music for yourself as you think you'd like it if you were 15 years old or 25 years old."

"When we started with Kiss, people thought we were crazy. We had four kids with makeup shooting fire out of their mouths ... But they were very visual and had a good rock sound."

"THEY SAID WE were crazy when we came out with Donna Summer's 17-minute version of 'Love to Love You, Baby,'" Bogart recalls. That 1975 record, featuring Miss Summer emitting sounds of sexual ecstasy, sold 600,000 albums and launched a career.

"It was something daring," says Bogart. "You have to take chances. In the motion picture and TV business, you hear — 'That's not done.' In the record business, there's no such thing."

But a potential hit record can die if no one hears about it. A colleague calls Bogart "the best merchandiser in the business."

Bogart says, "He's right."

Consider a Bentley Mercia Roadster. We start with a Bentley Sedan, discard the body, modify the chassis to sport car standards with every single part checked, repaired, re-machined, or replaced as is required. 800 man hours later a virtually new chassis is the result, with a pre 1955 title. THEN an all aluminum coach built Roadster body is manufactured and installed. Trimming is to highest standards. A gorgeous machine. The prototype is in our showroom. The second car is in transit. 8 MORE are in production. Prox $37,000. Jim Rickman Motors, 2124 E. Colorado Bl., Pasadena (213) 795-2551 or locally call Carlos Carrion at 752-7847

Huntington Teacher Pact Draws Fire

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff
A bitter dispute between two Huntington Beach City (elementary) School District trustees over a new teachers contract has splashed over into other areas of the city.
Mark Porter, president of the HOME Council, said Thursday his group will call for a study of the contract by an impartial agency such as the Educational Employment Relations Board (EERB).

Steve Schumacher, a member of the HOME Council and the parent of a child in a district school, wants to go a couple of steps farther.
Schumacher says he would like the contract set aside for a review and he wants board President Brian Garland to step down pending results of an investigation.

He said he wants to find out if the negotiations were conducted legally and in good faith.
The contract, which gives teachers a 6.7 percent salary increase as well as other benefits, touched off fireworks between Garland and Trustee Norma Vander Molen when settlement was reached May 17.
Mrs. Vander Molen said that her position as the board's negotiating representative was circumvented by Garland.

She said that Garland had taken it upon himself to initiate changes and had discussed matters with the teacher representative on a personal basis.
She said Garland's position on the board is clearly a conflict of interest "and that his action clearly indicates his allegiance to the teachers who endorsed him."
Garland, a high school teacher and a member of the California Teachers Association (CTA), emphatically denied favoring the teachers.

'Bandana Bandit'

$134 Taken In HB Robbery

Brandishing what was apparently a pistol wrapped in a yellow kerchief, Orange County's bandana bandit struck again Thursday night in Huntington Beach, taking $134 from an ice cream parlor.
This time, the trim, petite armed robbery artist who favors a different-colored scarf for every holdup, hit a Baskin-Robbins 31 Flavors ice cream store during the supper hour.
Clerk Chris Marriott was on duty at 5971 Warner Ave., alone before the busy after-dinner influx of customers picking up dessert, when the young woman walked up to the counter, police said.

"What can I do for you?" Marriott asked the woman, who wore huge, mirrored, Lolita-style sunglasses.

"You know what you can do for me..." she replied, brandishing the apparent weapon swaddled in a yellow kerchief matching the scarf that tied down her brunette hair.

"Pardon me...?" the young clerk stammered.

"Give me all the money!" she snapped.
Detective Dick Nolen said at that point Marriott quickly grabbed a white paper bag from beneath the counter and stuffed it with bills.

He said the bandana bandit refused to take any silver coin change.

Two stunned customers stood by during the holdup, after which the young woman scurried out the door of the ice cream parlor which is located in a busy shopping center.

The victim said she jumped into a waiting car described as a 1974 or '75 domestic sedan, dark blue, driven by a second, male suspect. A third man sat in the back seat, wearing a pulled-down hat.

Marriott told Officer Jim Austin the bandana bandit wore a matching blue denim jacket and pantsuit outfit and was about five feet, four inches tall, weighing about 110 pounds.

"This gal has been hitting all over the county," Detective Nolen said today.

Investigators say she has robbed small businesses such as liquor stores and markets in at least five Orange County cities over the past few weeks, using the same method of operation.

Victims describing the scarved gunman indicate to police that she selects a different color scarf to wear as an accessory before every armed robbery.

Witnesses to the Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlor holdup which occurred at 6:30 p.m. were unable to obtain descriptions of her two male partners.

Body Discovered

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The body of a master watchmaker has been found bound and gagged in the bathroom of his apartment-workshop, police said. The partially decomposed body of James Olsten, 41, was discovered Wednesday by the apartment manager who said he was concerned because Olsten hadn't been seen for more than a week.

Terrorists Hold Adults

59 Remain After 105 Dutch Children Freed

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Gaspings of relief and quiet reunions with parents marked the end of four days' captivity for 105 Dutch children held by armed Asian extremists in a village schoolhouse. The mass release occurred after half of them came down with a stomach virus.

But five South Moluccan separatists continued to hold four teachers today, including two women, in the school and refused to surrender. At least 55 other hostages remained the captives of seven other separatists on a train 15 miles north of the school.

The South Moluccans, who want the independence of their Pacific island from Indonesia, have demanded the release of 21 fellow extremists jailed for terrorist activities and a jumbo jet to take them to an undisclosed location.

"It was fascinating to see the reaction of the children," a Red Cross spokesman said. "Only three of them cried when they saw their parents again."

He said while many mothers had tears in their eyes or were openly crying, the children were shy for a few awkward moments before breaking into hugs, kisses and "just happy children's talk."

The Red Cross said one little girl's first words were: "Mummy, I left my coat in the school."

One girl said she and her schoolmates were never threatened by the extremists but were restricted in their movements and had trouble sleeping on the cold hard floors at night. She said they spent much of the time playing games and watching television.

Ambulances rushed the ailing children to a hospital where 26 were admitted. Another 79 children and a teacher — also released — were reunited with families under the watchful eye of Dutch psychiatrists.

Hospital officials declined to disclose the condition of the hospitalized children, but unconfirmed reports said they were "reasonably well." The children had been suffering from vomiting and diarrhea.

The parents of children returning home were told by the Red Cross to give them hot baths and send them to bed. The children were also told not to drink or eat too much at first.

Dutch television said one 12-year-old asked his mother for pancakes but was refused.

The Orange County Grand Jury's probe into political campaign practices swept out Thursday to delve into real estate transactions allegedly involving federal indietee Gene Conrad and county Supervisor Ralph Diedrich.

But Diedrich's attorney today said the Fullerton supervisor had no part in any of Conrad's real estate deals.

"As a matter of fact," Fullerton attorney Michael Remington said, "Ralph referred Conrad to me with a warning that I watch my wallet. He (Diedrich) said he didn't want to get involved in any way."

Conrad is the former paid police informer who turned political financier last fall when he dumped more than $53,000 into various campaigns.

HB Cadet Wins Drug Rap Victory

Drug charges filed against a Huntington Beach police cadet accused on arrest of taking $5,600 worth of confiscated drugs from his department's crime lab were dropped in court Thursday.

Douglas E. Dunn, 23, a five-year employe when he was taken into custody March 4, won the victory at a pretrial hearing in West Orange County Judicial District Court.

Judge Ragnar Engebretsen granted a defense motion to suppress evidence, namely the cocaine police allege they confiscated from his home at 8342 Munster Drive in Huntington Beach.

Narcotics Detail Lt. Bruce Young said several days afterward that a California Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement (BNE) analysis confirmed the white powder was cocaine.

Judge Engebretsen based his suppression of evidence ruling on the defense's argument that a search warrant allowing police to enter Dunn's home was issued without sufficient information.

Police Chief Earle Robitaille said today that although charges against Dunn were dropped, he will not be re-employed by the department as a police cadet.

The cadets are paid employes who perform various auxiliary work within the department and outside headquarters, while attending college in a variety of fields, some law enforcement-related.

They are not to be confused with the department-sponsored Police Explorer Scout Post, (See CADET, Page A2)

Cop Shuns Involvement

A law enforcement officer for another agency called Huntington Beach police late Thursday pleading with them to quell a wild party involving about 100 people who were keeping the neighborhood awake.

Investigators who later ordered the revelers to quiet down said they asked the policeman if he wished to sign a complaint against the disturbers of the peace.

But he declined because he apparently didn't want to get involved.

Deputies Mull Phantom's Activities

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Sheriff's officers are becoming increasingly convinced today that the so-called Phantom Rock Thrower who eluded capture after stabbing a deputy may be responsible for a number of other bizarre incidents in the general area of his anti-auto activities. They believe that the man who was challenged by deputy Dave Allen Wednesday night may be the intruder who has carried off the carcasses of several dead goats in recent months from a goat ranch in Santa Ana Canyon. And the rock thrower who has terrorized Riverside Freeway motorists for the past eight months — smashing more than 35 windshields — may be the same man who has smashed be-hives in the canyon and who has broken into the pro shop at the Green River Golf Course on several occasions, they said. Investigators believe the man confronted by Allen may be living off the land and making his headquarters in the rough terrain near Featherly Regional Park and the Green River Golf Course. They believe that his periodic bouts of rock throwing along the Riverside Freeway may be indicative of his need to vent his frustrations at a civilization that may have driven him to loneliness and exile. The attack on Allen, who is now recovering from knife wounds on his right arm and neck, has given them their first real description of the rock thrower. The Mission Viejo deputy described him as a short, bearded black man, dressed in dark clothing and wearing what appeared to be Army boots. Allen told his fellow officers that the man repeatedly warned him to leave him alone and emphasized his demands by tossing rocks at the deputy while the pair scrambled through brush and scrub at the side of the freeway. Allen said he spotted the rock thrower while he was driving home from duty Wednesday night on the Riverside Freeway. The deputy said the man he described and subsequently chased was piling rocks on the center divider of the freeway, apparently preparing for another session of windshield-shattering attacks on passing cars. Fellow officers rushed Allen to the nearby Canyon General Hospital after the chase ended with the hunted man slashing the deputy in the neck and arm. Other officers and the Anaheim police helicopter took up the pursuit of the suspect in vain. Investigators believe that the rock thrower may be the same man who has set a number of fires in the canyon area in recent years. A man answering the rock thrower description was hunted for three days in the summer of 1974 while firemen fought a number of fires deliberately set in the bone dry Santa Ana mountains. But sheriff's officers working on a new plan conceived since the attack on deputy Allen believe the rock thrower's days are numbered. "I can't tell you a thing about it," a senior officer commented today. "But we believe we can track this man down and end what has been 10 frustrating months of nonsense in this general area."

2 Teens Held

Mo-ped Bandit Sprees Solved

The case of the mobile mobsters known as the mo-ped bandits who specialized in hit and run strong arm robberies of women pedestrians in Huntington Beach today has been solved. Detective Dick Nolen said two teenagers, 15 and 16, taken into custody on burglary charges have admitted to the several purse-snatching incidents. Cases including one in which a woman, 73, was knocked down in an alley and another in which a lady leaving a bank lost her purse and $185, were reported. Detective Nolen indicated today others apparently went unreported to police. He said many citizen tips supplied after newspaper coverage of the incidents led him to suspect two local youths. Confronted about the recent wave of purse snatch robberies, the youths, who fit the bandits' descriptions perfectly, admitted their role, Nolen said. They are now awaiting Orange County Juvenile Court hearing on the burglary charges for which they were originally arrested. But, Nolen said, since victims of the mo-ped bandits purse snatching escapades cannot positively identify the two as their hit and run robbers, they will not face armed robbery charges. An uncorroborated confession is not sufficient evidence for prosecution. Detective Nolen said the pair have promised to pay their victims back and authorities will see that they do.

Car Slams Into Home; 4 Injured

An eight-month-old infant, two young boys and their mother were injured as they slept when an auto crashed into their Westminster home early this morning, police reported. Infant Biff Wyatt Yelgnsky reportedly suffered a fractured skull and was taken to UCI Medical Center in Orange, officials said. Michael Patrick Dykes, 8, underwent surgery at Westminster Community Hospital for facial injuries. Hospital officials refused information on his condition this morning. The mother, Deborah Sue Yelgnsky, 25, of 14265 Magnolia St., and her son, George Donald Dykes, 10, suffered minor injuries in the crash and were released from Westminster Community Hospital this morning, officials said. Police arrested David Hall Grinstead, 22, of 14271 Magnolia St., Westminster, for allegedly being under the influence of alcohol when his auto crashed into the side of the house at about 1:10 a.m. Police said Grinstead's sedan continued through the house and smashed into the bedrooms where the victims were sleeping. Grinstead was booked into the jail ward at UCI Medical Center, police said.

Haldeman Plans Expose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Those who enjoyed the published and televised inside stories of Watergate by John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Charles Colson and Richard Nixon have a new treat in store this fall — Watergate "with the gloves off and no holds barred" by H.R. Haldeman. Haldeman called a news conference on his front lawn Thursday to say he is dissatisfied with Nixon's televised explanation of the Watergate cover-up and has a book coming out to outline his version. Nixon's former top White House aide said the television interviews by David Frost did not clear up unanswered questions about the cover-up.

By coincidence, Carter had been senior naval officer in charge during the construction of the Sea Wolf. The Los Angeles took two to three minutes to complete its dive in waters about 35 miles off the Florida coast. Carter had begun his Atlantic cruise some three hours earlier, eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles and perhaps willing to let wife Rosalynn take a turn in the "driver's seat." Aboard nuclear subs, the individual who mans the helm is said to be driving the ship. Accompanied by Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father of the nuclear Navy," the President and Mrs. Carter boarded the attack sub Los Angeles at Port Canaveral for the eight-hour cruise. Carter, an Annapolis graduate, joked to reporters that when he was a career submarine officer, the undersea craft were called boats. He said they've grown so large they are now known as ships. "Do you have any last words?" a reporter inquired shortly before two Navy tugs began nudging the Los Angeles into a narrow channel leading to the ocean. "No," said Carter, laughing heartily, "because they won't be last words."

When the Los Angeles began its dive at 8:15 a.m. PDT, Carter became the first president to cruise in a submerged undersea vessel since Dwight D. Eisenhower dove in aboard the nuclear-powered Sea Wolf 20 years ago. The ship to be put into service today will carry 125,000 cubic meters of liquefied natural gas. Supporters say that's enough to serve an American city of 500,000 people for a month. But critics say it is also enough to cause a catastrophic fire 100 times the size of the wreck of the Hindenburg, the hydrogen-filled German dirigible that burst into flames in 1937. The greatest damage could occur, scientists say, if the ship's tanks were ruptured during a collision at sea. The liquid gas would pour into the water, and if it did not catch fire immediately, would evaporate into a colorless, odorless cloud of gas. That gas, they say, would float close to the surface. If the wind eventually pushed it to land, any flame, even a cigarette, could ignite it.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, a onetime career submarine officer, slipped beneath the surface of the Atlantic today aboard the nuclear-powered, hunter-killer sub Los Angeles.

Controversial Ship Goes to Work Today

Command Tops Singlaub Gets Big Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub was named chief of staff of the Army's biggest command today, less than a week after being relieved as U.S. staff chief in South Korea for publicly challenging President Carter's decision to withdraw American ground troops from there. Singlaub's assignment as chief of staff of the Army Forces Command headquartered at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., was announced a day after Carter said the general would be given a job of "equal degree of responsibility and stature" to the Korean post. Singlaub has returned to Korea to clear up personal matters and will take over his new job on June 27. The Army Forces Command is responsible for training, equipping and insuring the combat readiness of all Army troops in the continental United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It is also responsible for supervising the training of the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve. Singlaub will be stepping into a vacancy created by the promotion of Maj. Gen. John Q. Henion to three stars and command of the 9th Corps in Japan. The Henion promotion was announced April 14.

Death Bill Veto Seen

Penalty Measure To Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate sent a death penalty bill to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s desk today for a certain veto.

The 27-10 vote came after lengthy debate that focused more on charges of political motives than on the minor amendments which were the only issue technically before the Senate.

The vote was the exact two-thirds majority required in the 40-seat house.

"I am convinced the punishment should not be the death penalty. I am convinced a better punishment would be life imprisonment without possibility of parole," said Sen. Milton Marks of San Francisco, one of only two Republicans to oppose the bill to restore capital punishment for treason and 15 categories of murder.

Sen. John Briggs of Fullerton, a Republican candidate for governor, said Brown's "heart bleeds not for the attacked, but the attacker. He continues to speak out for those who commit crimes."

"Every day in California, over five people are executed — not by the state, but by the criminals," Briggs said.

Briggs also charged that the Democratic governor made a deal with Democrats in the legislature to override his veto to prevent the political embarrassment of facing a death penalty initiative on the ballot next year.

Democratic floor leader David Roberts of Los Angeles angrily replied to Briggs "No deals have been made."

"I'm proud of the governor on this issue," Roberti said of Brown's pledge to veto the bill as a matter of conscience.

"Sen. Briggs, you are running for the governorship. You want the headlines," Roberti said.

The Senate approved an earlier draft of the death penalty bill on a 29-10 vote March 31. Today's vote approved amendments made by the Assembly to simplify trial procedures and limit the manner in which prior records can be brought before the jury.

The Assembly gave approval on a 54-23 vote Monday.

State Sen. George Deukmejian, author of the bill, met privately for about an hour with Brown Thursday to try to convince him to change his mind about his pledge Jan. 6 to veto any death penalty bill "as a matter of conscience."

A Big Stretch

Julie Pitchess, 8, leaps over a hurdle during Thursday's track and field meet at Irvine's University High School. Several hundred first, second and third graders participated in the meet, which culminated a three-week "team teaching" program by high school and elementary school teachers. High school teachers helped instruct students during their lunch hours in an attempt to develop sports potential at an early age.

LONG, LONG TRAIL A WINDING AT SAN ONOFRE PARK
All Available Camping Spaces Snatched Up Quickly

Camp Fills Up Cars Wait at San Onofre

It was first come, first served at San Onofre State Park today and the first came last night and slept in front of the gates.

This morning when the gates opened to the newly refurbished park, 150 cars, campers, trucks, trailers and other assorted vehicles were in line for the 290 available camping spaces.

Parks officials expected all the available camping spaces to be taken quickly.

Camping spaces in the two other state parks at San Clemente and Doheny were "sold out" under the state's reservation system a month ago for the Memorial Day weekend.

Although camping spaces are gone, day-use spaces were still available.

Volunteers Needed For Culture Center

College Park School in Irvine is sending out an SOS for community members with knowledge of other countries and cultures who can help out next year in the school's "multi-culture learning center."

Mary Beth Butts, a spokeswoman for the school, said Irvine residents are being sought who have come from other countries who can share information with College Park youngsters.

The learning center will supplement the regular instruction at the school, providing insight into people from other areas, Mrs. Butts explained.

The center will be directed by the school, but it is hoped that community members will run the operation for the students.

The school already offers a bi-cultural program, that includes Spanish-speaking and English-speaking students, as part of the curriculum. But the learning center will be separate and will be available to all students at the school.

An organizational meeting is planned for the last week of school so persons willing to help are asked to call Mrs. Butts at 551-3871, as soon as possible.

Issue Worsens

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Police were called to deal with unruly pupils, 800 teachers stayed out sick and the San Diego school system gave in Thursday on a stumbling block in contract talks. School Supt. Tom Goodman said the district is withdrawing a plan to restructure the salary-step scheduled for the system's 5,800 teachers.

Drug Firm Faces Charge

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A pharmaceutical firm was charged in U.S. District Court here with manufacturing Laetrile under unsanitary conditions.

Federal prosecutors said the Laetrile, believed by some to be effective against cancer, was adulterated and could have been contaminated at the Mosinee Research Corp. plant in Manitowoc, Wis. The charges said the substance was prepared, packed and held under unsanitary conditions.

Rock Thrower Faces Queries On Incidents

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Sheriff's officers are becoming increasingly convinced today that the so-called Phantom Rock Thrower who eluded capture after stabbing a deputy may be responsible for a number of other bizarre incidents in the general area of his anti-auto activities.

They believe that the man who was challenged by deputy Dave Allen Wednesday night may be the intruder who has carried off the carcasses of several dead goats in recent months from a goat ranch in Santa Ana Canyon.

And the rock thrower who has terrorized Riverside Freeway motorists for the past eight months — smashing more than 35 windshields — may be the same man who has smashed bee hives in the canyon and who has broken into the pro shop at the Green River Golf Course on several occasions, they said.

Investigators believe the man confronted by Allen may be living off the land and making his headquarters in the rough terrain near Featherly Regional Park and the Green River Golf Course.

They believe that his periodic (See PHANTOM, Page A2)

Four Typewriters Stolen in Irvine

Four IBM Selectric typewriters valued at $5,600 were stolen from Allergan Pharmaceuticals Company in Irvine, police reported today.

The theft occurred either late Wednesday or early Thursday while the company was closed. Police said the typewriters were missing from desks in the main lobby, but that there was no sign of forced entry.

Irvine Landowners Mull Water Issue

Four landowners in Irvine will decide in next Tuesday's special election if they wish to spend $19,345,000 to improve domestic water service in the proposed Irvine Industrial Complex-East area.

Landowners who will be casting votes include the Irvine Company (3,646,760 votes), the Irvine Industrial Complex (5,017,720 votes), the Atchison-Topeka Santa Fe Railroad Company (34,270 votes) and the U.S. Marine Corps (2,070 votes). Votes are assigned on the basis of land values.

Improvement District 103 lies in the eastern portion of the Irvine Ranch Water District and encompasses 3,150 acres.

A two-thirds "yes" vote is needed to pass the bond measure, which would provide funds to improve domestic water service facilities in that area. The district lies in the vicinity of the junction of the Santa Ana, San Diego and Laguna Freeways where the Irvine Industrial Complex-East is planned.

Track Meet Set Saturday At UC Irvine

Athletes between the ages of 30 and 70 will compete Saturday at UC Irvine in the fifth annual relay meet sponsored by the Corona del Mar Track club to benefit the UCI track team.

The meet begins at 9 a.m. with the hammer throw and the 10,000-meter run and is slated to end at 3 p.m. with the mile relay. All events will be conducted at UCI's track stadium.

Admission is free, although athletes and spectators will be asked to make tax-deductible donations to the university's track team. Free parking is available in the Crawford Hall parking lot.

Sport Signups Set

Signups for the next series of tennis and racquetball classes in Irvine will be held Saturday morning at Harvard Community Athletic Park. Signups will be taken from 9 a.m. to noon at the park, located at 14701 Harvard Ave. Instruction for the new series begins next week.

LNG TANKER TO BE DEDICATED IN SEA OF CONTROVERSY OVER SAFETY

First LNG Tanker Sails

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The first of 18 American-built natural gas tankers is being dedicated here while controversy still simmers over whether such ships are answers to the energy shortage or potential sources of flaming disaster.

The ship to be put into service today will carry 125,000 cubic meters of liquefied natural gas. Supporters say that's enough to serve an American city of 500,000 people for a month.

But critics say it is also enough to cause a catastrophic fire 100 times the size of the wreck of the Hindenburg, the hydrogen-filled German dirigible that burst into flames in 1937.

The greatest damage could occur, scientists say, if the ship's tanks were ruptured during a collision at sea. The liquid gas would pour into the water, and if it did not catch fire immediately, would evaporate into a colorless, odorless cloud of gas.

That gas, they say, would float close to the surface. If the wind eventually pushed it to land, any flame, even a cigarette, could ignite it.

The new ship, called the LNG Aquarius, is the first of 12 liquefied natural gas tankers being built by the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy. Six others are under construction at shipyards in Newport News, Va., and New Orleans.

The 936-foot-long ship, which cost $100 million, will be operated by Burmah Oil Company of England to carry gas from Indonesia to Japan.

The giant, black-hulled ship carries its cargo in liquid form in five globe-shaped tanks. The tanks protrude above the deck, and from the air, the ship looks like a long, narrow carton filled with eggs.

Boston is the only U.S. port where liquefied natural gas is delivered. The Coast Guard considers the tankers so dangerous that all other traffic is halted when they enter the harbor.

Other docking facilities for such cargoes are being prepared in New York, Providence, R.I., and Cove Point, Md.

One of the most outspoken critics of gas tankers is James MacKenzie, a director of the Union of Concerned Scientists.

"If and when an accident occurs, there would be an enormous conflagration with people being injured for miles around," MacKenzie said. "It would be a devastation. There would be a huge fireball in the sky visible from miles away."

"It has a potential of being very hazardous under certain conditions," said Robert Reid, a natural gas expert at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "But if it's handled right, it's about as safe as anything. There are lots of other dangerous gases we handle on our waterways."

Rolf Glasteld, the chief development engineer for the new tanker, said he believes the ship is a safe way to transport fuel.

"No question about it," he said. "And no effort has been spared to make it so."

Carter Takes Sub Ride

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, a onetime career submarine officer, slipped beneath the surface of the Atlantic today aboard the nuclear-powered, hunter-killer sub Los Angeles.

When the Los Angeles began its dive at 8:15 a.m. PDT, Carter became the first president to cruise in a submerged undersea vessel since Dwight D. Eisenhower dove in aboard the nuclear-powered Sea Wolf 20 years ago.

By coincidence, Carter had been senior naval officer in charge during the construction of the Sea Wolf.

The Los Angeles took two to three minutes to complete its dive in waters about 35 miles off the Florida coast.

Carter had begun his Atlantic cruise some three hours earlier, eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles and perhaps willing to

Kid Hostages Free

Terrorists Still Hold 55 on Train

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Gasps of relief and quiet reunions with parents marked the end of four days' captivity for 105 Dutch children held by armed Asian extremists in a village schoolhouse. The mass release occurred after half of them came down with a stomach virus.

But five South Moluccan separatists continued to hold four teachers today, including two women, in the school and refused to surrender. At least 55 other hostages remained the captives of seven other separatists on a train 15 miles north of the school.

The South Moluccans, who want the independence of their Pacific island from Indonesia, have demanded the release of 21 fellow extremists jailed for terrorist activities and a jumbo jet to take them to an undisclosed location.

"It was fascinating to see the reaction of the children," a Red Cross spokesman said. "Only three of them cried when they saw their parents again."

He said while many mothers had tears in their eyes or were openly crying, the children were shy for a few awkward moments before breaking into hugs, kisses and "just happy children's talk."

The Red Cross said one little girl's first words were: "Mummy, I left my coat in the school."

One girl said she and her schoolmates were never threatened by the extremists but were restricted in their movements and had trouble sleeping on the cold hard floors at night.

She said they spent much of the time playing games and watching television.

Ambulances rushed the ailing children to a hospital where 26 were admitted. Another 79 children and a teacher — also released — were reunited with families under the watchful eye of Dutch psychiatrists.

Hospital officials declined to disclose the condition of the hospitalized children, but unconfirmed reports said they were "reasonably well." The children had been suffering from vomiting and diarrhea.

The parents of children returning home were told by the Red Cross to give them hot baths and send them to bed. The children were also told not to drink or eat too much at first.

bouts of rock throwing along the Riverside Freeway may be indicative of his need to vent his frustrations at a civilization that may have driven him to loneliness and exile.

The attack on Allen, who is now recovering from knife wounds on his right arm and neck, has given them their first real description of the rock thrower.

The Mission Viejo deputy described him as a short, bearded black man, dressed in dark clothing and wearing what appeared to be Army boots.

Allen told his fellow officers that the man repeatedly warned him to leave him alone and emphasized his demands by tossing rocks at the deputy while the pair scrambled through brush and scrub at the side of the freeway.

Allen said he spotted the rock thrower while he was driving home from duty Wednesday night on the Riverside Freeway.

The deputy said the man he described and subsequently chased was piling rocks on the center divider of the freeway, apparently preparing for another session of windshield-shattering attacks on passing cars.

Fellow officers rushed Allen to the nearby Canyon General Hospital after the chase ended with the hunted man slashing the deputy in the neck and arm. Other officers and the Anaheim police helicopter took up the pursuit of the suspect in vain.

Investigators believe that the rock thrower may be the same man who has set a number of fires in the canyon area in recent years.

A man answering the rock thrower description was hunted for three days in the summer of 1974 while firemen fought a number of fires deliberately set in the bone dry Santa Ana mountains.

But sheriff's officers working on a new plan conceived since the attack on deputy Allen believe the rock thrower's days are numbered.

"I can't tell you a thing about it," a senior officer commented today. "But we believe we can track this man down and end what has been 10 frustrating months of nonsense in this general area."

Irvine Crash Hurts Woman

A 21-year-old Tustin woman is listed in satisfactory condition today at Tustin Community Hospital after crashing her moped into a parked car in Irvine Thursday.

Irvine Police said Cassandra Stover Fow was traveling on Gates Avenue near Milliken Avenue Thursday afternoon when she ran into a parked auto while looking over her shoulder for rear traffic.

Officers said she suffered bruises and a possible fractured leg and was treated at the scene by paramedics before being taken to the hospital.

Class Saves

Survivors 'Physically Fit'

Grace Ellerbrock of Leisure World says she and her husband, Byron, survived history's worst aviation disaster two months ago because of a physical conditioning class she had taken.

THE RETIRED couple, part of a handful of people who survived the collision of two jumbo jets in the Canary Islands, were hospitalized in Ft. Dix, N.J., upon their return to this country.

Mrs. Ellerbrock wrote a letter to Diane Edwards, Leisure World exercise director and an instructor in the Saddleback Valley Unified School District's adult education program, thanking her for the conditioning class.

"IF THERE was ever a living testimonial to your conditioning classes, this must be it," Mrs. Ellerbrock wrote.

"When one of your senior citizens can jump from the wing of a 747 jumbo jet and drag a 200-pound man (Mr. Ellerbrock) barefoot across a field with no more than abrasions, cuts and bruises, it's something to be grateful for," she added.

"WE ARE MENDING. It will take time, but you can be certain when I get home I'll be back in your class — 'beginners only' probably."

Mrs. Ellerbrock's husband sustained a broken pelvis and other injuries in the crash, which claimed 575 lives, including 27 Leisure World residents.

VETO...

Deukmejian said the meeting was "constructive" and hinted there was still a chance that Brown might reconsider.

But in a pre-recorded television interview broadcast a few hours later, Brown repeated his intention of vetoing the Deukmejian bill.

Brown said he still intends to veto the bill, even if politically damaging, and even though capital punishment may be reinstated anyway — either by a veto override in the legislature, or a ballot initiative.

"I think it would be better not to have it. I think at each point where it can be stopped, we should try to stop it," the Democratic governor said.

Fugitive Eyes U.S. Trial?

OAKLAND (AP) — The lawyer of Panther party founder Huey P. Newton is negotiating with federal authorities for his return from Cuba to the United States, according to published reports.

An associate lawyer in Charles Garry's San Francisco office, Francis J. McTernan, was quoted by The Oakland Tribune as saying Garry left for Cuba Wednesday and would be gone about 10 days.

Newton, 35, jumped bail in 1974 while awaiting trial for murder in Alameda County in the fatal shooting of 17-year-old Katherine Smith.

Redistrict Plan Moves Supervisors

If you live in Mission Viejo or El Toro, Ralph Diedrich of Fullerton is now your representative on the Orange County Board of Supervisors.

A redistricting plan approved by supervisors March 22 went into effect Thursday, correcting population imbalances among the five districts.

As a result what had been Board Chairman Tom Riley's fast-growing fifth district, covering all of Southeast Orange County has been split between Riley and Diedrich.

The redistricting, which leaves each supervisor with about 344,000 residents in his district, also places all of Fountain Valley in Supervisor Phil Anthony's first district.

The city had been split between Riley and Anthony.

The plan reduces the number of county cities divided between supervisorial districts from 11 to three.

Huntington Beach is one of the divided cities but almost all of the city will be in Supervisor Laurence Schmit's second district with a small portion in Riley's fifth.

Costa Mesa, Newport Beach, Irvine, Laguna Beach, San Juan Capistrano and San Clemente remain in Riley's district.

So do the unincorporated areas of Laguna Hills and Laguna Niguel.

Even though population figures have been put in balance by the redistricting, county figures show the districts vary in the number of registered voters.

Riley's fifth district has 185,627 registered voters, while Diedrich's third has 172,417. Schmit's district has 166,668 registered voters, Anthony's first district, 134,996 and Clark's fourth has 151,046.

Although supervisors' offices are non-partisan, Democrats outnumber Republicans in registration in Anthony's, Schmit's and Clark's districts. Republicans are in the majority in both Diedrich's and Riley's districts, according to county figures.

Artists, Craftsmen Invited by Irvine

Accomplished artists and budding craftsmen interested in the arts and crafts center to be located in Heritage Park in Irvine are invited to attend next Wednesday's Community Services Commission meeting.

The architectural firm that has been working on the center will present recommendations to the commission at the 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall.

The recommendations follow a series of community meetings and surveys sent out to numerous Irvine residents. But city aides explain there is still time to change parts of the plans if residents have additional ideas.

The center is planned as a $1 million, 20,000 square foot facility to be built during the next phase of Heritage Park construction.

It is planned as a center where artists may gather to work on projects, receive instruction and exchange ideas with others interested in the same areas.

Other items scheduled for the meeting include:

—The joint use agreement between the city and school district related to the new stadium being built next to Irvine High School.

—An update on the proposal to install a Frisbee Disc Golf course in an Irvine park.

—Findings from the Archaeological and Paleontological Advisory Committee on the site where the University Town Center development is being planned.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Our showroom is a virtual kaleidoscope of colors. The reasons are varied—

We know that color coordinating is the primary target when buying carpet. Quality is usually second in line, and because we have such a vast selection of qualities, it is easy to coordinate color and quality to each individual's taste.

However, we know that a volume of samples looking at you can seem very confusing — but we feel that showing just a few samples is not a fair representation of the carpet business. Our huge selection gives our salespeople every possible option in working with people, helping them to find the perfect choice.

So if you are in the market to select your carpeting — select Alden's to help you, that's what we're here for!!!

By GARY GRANVILLE

The Orange County Grand Jury's probe into political campaign practices swept out Thursday to delve into real estate transactions allegedly involving federal indicted Gene Conrad and county Supervisor Ralph Diedrich.

police informer who turned political financier last fall when he dumped more than $53,000 into various campaigns.

Early this year, Conrad's activities and those of the Irvine-based firm he heads, Pension Funds of America, fell under the scrutiny of a federal Grand Jury as well as the county Grand Jury. In April, the federal jury indicted the burly ex-Chicagoan on seven fraud related charges related to $1.2 million worth of loan fees for loans allegedly never made.

Like Diedrich, Conrad has denied the two were ever joined in business ventures.

And Remington today emphasized that point.

"Naturally I'm concerned because anything Conrad was involved in spooks me a little. But that's hindsight now that I've lost a few dollars. However, Ralph had nothing to do with any of the so-called transactions that never were," Remington said.

He admitted that Diedrich has had past dealings with two witnesses who appeared before the jury Thursday.

The two witnesses were real estate brokers Stephen Berck and Bart Rainone.

Diedrich, who is out of town and was not available for comment, showed on a recent conflict of interest statement that he received income from Berck and Rainone's firms last year.

"Yes," Remington said, "that's true. So, big deal. Ralph's a wealthy man with extensive holdings and you would expect him to do business with brokers."

Remington said, "The jury obviously is following whatever Ralph did whether there's a re-

Smoky Fire A Cover For Theft?

San Clemente firemen battled a smoky fire in a $100,000 canyon view home Thursday.

An investigation into the cause of the blaze in the home of Chuck Nauman, 222 La Cuesta, was under way today. Initial evidence indicated the fire could have been deliberately set to cover up a burglary.

A determination into the dollar amount of damage was pending. Unofficial estimates ranged as high as $24,000 due to the heavy smoke damage. There was little structural damage, firemen said.

The fire killed one dog. A second dog bolted from the home when firemen forced open the door and a cat was rescued by firemen.

The fire was battled by 17 San Clemente firemen and four city fire department engines.

Fire Capt. Gary Carmichael said the house was unoccupied and tightly closed when the fire began.

Evidence indicated it started in a pile of papers and books on the floor of the living room.

Captain Carmichael said it was likely the fire had been going for some time before it was noticed. He said the death of the dog was attributable to the dense smoke.

Fire Marshal Don Hodgson is investigating the possible arson.

LONG WAIT—There was a long, long line a winding back up the highway this morning as the wouldbe campers waited for San Onofre State Beach to open for the three day weekend. Credits Alan Crow,

San Onofre State Park Filling Up

It was first come, first served at San Onofre State Park today and the first came last night and slept in front of the gates.

This morning when the gates opened to the newly refurbished park, 150 cars, campers, trucks, trailers and other assorted vehicles were in line for the 290 available camping spaces.

Park officials expected all the available camping spaces to be taken quickly.

Camping spaces in the two other state parks at San Clemente and Doheny were "sold out" under the state's reservation system a month ago for the Memorial Day weekend.

Although camping spaces are gone, day-use spaces were still available.

San Clemente police arrested a 16-year-old youth after the burglar alarm for Park Liquor, 3119 El Camino Real, sounded.

Police said entry to the store was gained by breaking through a common wall shared by the store and a laundromat next door.

Banks Hike Loan Rates

By the Associated Press

A number of major commercial banks raised their prime lending rate from 6 1/2 to 6 3/4 percent today.

Among banks increasing the rate were New York's Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank, and Chicago's Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, the seventh-largest bank.

Bert Lance, director of the federal Office of Management and Budget, said he sees no reason why banks should be raising their prime rate.

Penalty Measure To Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate sent a death penalty bill to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s desk today for a certain veto.

The 27-10 vote came after lengthy debate that focused more on charges of political motives than on the minor amendments which were the only issue technically before the Senate.

The vote was the exact two-thirds majority required in the 40-seat house.

"I am convinced the punishment should not be the death penalty. I am convinced a better punishment would be life imprisonment without possibility of parole," said Sen. Milton Marks of San Francisco, one of only two Republicans to oppose the bill to restore capital punishment for treason and 15 categories of murder.

Sen. John Briggs of Fullerton, a Republican candidate for governor, said Brown's "heart bleeds not for the attacked, but the attacker. He continues to speak out for those who commit crimes."

"Every day in California, over five people are executed — not by the state, but by the criminals," Briggs said.

Briggs also charged that the Democratic governor made a deal with Democrats in the legislature to override his veto to prevent the political embarrassment of facing a death penalty initiative on the ballot next year.

Democratic floor leader David Roberts of Los Angeles angrily replied to Briggs: "No deals have been made."

"I'm proud of the governor on this issue," Roberts said of Brown's pledge to veto the bill as a matter of conscience.

"Sen. Briggs, you are running for the governorship. You want the headlines," Roberts said.

The Senate approved an earlier draft of the death penalty bill on a 29-10 vote March 31. Today's vote approved amendments made by the Assembly to simplify trial procedures and limit the manner in which prior records can be brought before the jury.

The Assembly gave approval on a 54-23 vote Monday.

Survivors 'Physically Fit'

Grace Ellerbrock of Leisure World says she and her husband, Byron, survived history's worst aviation disaster two months ago because of a physical conditioning class she had taken.

THE RETIRED couple, part of a handful of people who survived the collision of two jumbo jets in the Canary Islands, were hospitalized in Ft. Dix, N.J., upon their return to this country.

Mrs. Ellerbrock wrote a letter to Diane Edwards, Leisure World exercise director and an instructor in the Saddleback Valley Unified School District's adult education program, thanking her for the conditioning class.

"IF THERE was ever a living testimonial to your conditioning classes, this must be it," Mrs. Ellerbrock wrote. "When one of your senior citizens can jump from the wing of a 747 jumbo jet and drag a 200-pound man (Mr. Ellerbrock) barefoot across a field with no more than abrasions, cuts and bruises, it's something to be grateful for," she added.

"WE ARE MENDING. It will take time, but you can be certain when I get home I'll be back in your class — 'beginners only' probably."

Mrs. Ellerbrock's husband sustained a broken pelvis and other injuries in the crash, which claimed 575 lives, including 27 Leisure World residents.

Light Vote Expected

CUSD Voters Go to Polls Tuesday

A $39 million local bond and a $10 million state loan election faces Capistrano Unified School District voters Tuesday, with the county registrar of voters predicting a light voter turnout.

Polls in the district's 56 consolidated precincts will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The district's 41,106 voters live in the communities of San Clemente, Dana Point, Capistrano Beach, San Juan Capistrano, Laguna Niguel and part of Mission Viejo.

School officials say passage of the bond and state loan election is needed to build schools for the 8,221 new students expected to move into the Capistrano school district in the next five years.

When school opens in the fall, district officials predict 16,355 students will attend the district's 20 schools, which have a capacity of 16,171.

In addition to 14 elementary schools, three junior highs and three high schools, the district is operating with more than 80 portable classrooms.

District officials say county planners predict the population of the Capistrano school district will grow from 82,809 residents in 1977 to 124,645 in 1981.

If the registrar of voters' estimate of voter turnout is accurate, about eight percent of the school district's voters will decide what school facilities are available over the next five years, as the district's population swells.

Capistrano Unified trustees have said that if the election fails, the district schools will be forced to operate on double session or perhaps year-round in the struggle to educate the growing number of students.

There has been no organized opposition to the election. Both the local bond issue and the state loan measures require two-thirds voter approval.

District officials have called the local bond-state loan financing of school construction the most equitable way to provide housing for the expanding student population.

They say it places a heavier financial responsibility for new school construction on people moving into the district than alternative funding methods.

Because the Capistrano school district receives state building aid, district taxpayers will have the same 90-cent tax rate, whether or not the election is approved, said Ted Kopp, president of the board of trustees.

"As I see it, this is really the way to go," he said. "It seems ironic that a two-thirds vote is required to pass a bond issue, when that enables us to do what must be done and do it the cheapest way possible."

Kopp said district voters should understand that if they approve the bond issue, bonds can be sold only to 10 percent of the district's assessed valuation and can be used only for school construction — not for teacher salaries, educational materials or anything else.

Election returns will be compiled Tuesday night at district offices, 32972 Calle Perfecto in San Juan Capistrano. Results will be available by calling 496-1215 or 837-5181.

Haldeman Plans Expose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Those who enjoyed the published and televised inside stories of Watergate by John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Charles Colson and Richard Nixon have a new treat in store this fall — Watergate "with the gloves off and no holds barred" by H.R. Haldeman.

Haldeman called a news conference on his front lawn Thursday to say he is dissatisfied with Nixon's televised explanation of the Watergate cover-up and has a book coming out to outline his version.

SC Eyes Dam Site Projects

Creation of artificial lake, a regional county park and a "clean" industrial park are being mulled by the San Clemente City Council.

The location for all this is up Avenida Pico three quarters of a mile beyond San Clemente High School.

There are three locations under consideration for flood control check dams. Behind the dam, the city contemplates creation of a small artificial lake filled with reclaimed water and adjacent to it the 100-acre Segunda Deshecha Regional Park.

After a bit of foundering around on the dam-park proposal, the county is showing renewed interest and an environmental impact report is in progress as are geologic tests. Estimated completion is within five years.

For its part, the city Tuesday suggested to the county a dam site about three quarters of a mile above San Clemente High School.

The dam is designed to protect lower lying reaches from the flood damage created in a 100 year flood statistically the worst storm that can be expected to occur in a 100-year period.

The city also set in motion the potential creation of an industrial park tucked into a canyon near the county park.

"This is ideally suited for industrial," Councilman Tony DiGiovanni said. DiGiovanni, has been working with city businessmen in finding a location for clean industrial development.

DiGiovanni said both the city and the developer for the property independently reached the idea of industrial use in that area.

Councilman B. Patrick Lane didn't agree. After much talk about alternative dam sites and how they would impact the industrial area, Lane said: "I think we would be a damn sight better off to encourage industrial by the freeway or TRW."

He voted no on the dam location but Councilman DiGiovanni was supported by Mayor Donna Wilkinson and Councilman William Walker.

Walker said the city should encourage creation of an "autorow," a collection of automobile dealers, along the freeway frontage, and he said utilities would be too expensive to put it at TRW area to attract industry.

PHANTOM...

Investigators believe that the rock thrower may be the same man who has set a number of fires in the canyon area in recent years.

A man answering the rock thrower description was hunted for three days in the summer of 1974 while firemen fought a number of fires deliberately set in the bone dry Santa Ana mountains.

But sheriff's officers working on a new plan conceived since the attack on deputy Allen believe the rock thrower's days are numbered.

"I can't tell you a thing about it," a senior officer commented today. "But we believe we can track this man down and end what has been 10 frustrating months of nonsense in this general area."

Carter Sinks Beneath Sea In LA Sub

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, a one-time career submarine officer, slipped beneath the surface of the Atlantic today aboard the nuclear-powered, hunter-killer sub Los Angeles.

When the Los Angeles began its dive at 8:15 a.m. PDT, Carter became the first president to cruise in a submerged undersea vessel since Dwight D. Eisenhower dove in aboard the nuclear-powered Sea Wolf 20 years ago.

By coincidence, Carter had been senior naval officer in charge during the construction of the Sea Wolf.

The Los Angeles took two to three minutes to complete its dive in waters about 35 miles off the Florida coast.

Carter had begun his Atlantic cruise some three hours earlier, eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles and perhaps willing to let wife Rosalynn take a turn in the "driver's seat."

Aboard nuclear subs, the individual who mans the helm is said to be driving the ship.

Accompanied by Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father of the nuclear Navy," the President and Mrs. Carter boarded the attack sub Los Angeles at Port Canaveral for the eight-hour cruise.

Carter, an Annapolis graduate, joked to reporters that when he was a career submarine officer, the undersea craft were called boats. He said they're grown so large they are now known as ships.

"Do you have any last words?" a reporter inquired shortly before two Navy tugs began nudging the Los Angeles into a narrow channel leading to the ocean.

"No," said Carter, laughing heartily, "because they won't be last words."

The President was whistled — not piped — aboard the submarine and, as he disappeared down an open hatch, the presidential ensign was raised from the conning tower.

'Weighty Problem' Obese Sub Crew Hides From Carter

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Five crew members of the submarine Los Angeles said they were banished from the boat today, while President Carter was aboard, because they're too fat.

The five reported they were assigned to temporary duty aboard the submarine Spadefish here and were kept aboard, out of sight, until Carter and the Los Angeles left port.

Only one of the five, William Darrendorf, a fire control specialist, said he was willing to be quoted by name about the incident.

The men claimed five or six other Los Angeles crew members also had been deemed overweight but were not banished because they were needed to help run the boat.

Obviously angered at being denied an opportunity to meet Carter, the portly submariners — one said he weighed 260 pounds — said they had been working long hours and getting about three hours sleep a night preparing the Los Angeles for the presidential visit.

Capt. Lawrence Burkhardt, a spokesman at the submarine base here, said the Los Angeles had a larger crew than was required for the Carter mission and "we wanted to present a good appearance" so the crew members judged most overweight were relieved for the day.

When a reporter told Burkhardt that the relieved men seemed rather bitter, he responded, "Then I would suggest they lose weight."

Two Laguna Girls Escape Auto Crash

Two Laguna Beach High School girls escaped major injury in a crash into a truck on Laguna Canyon Road at the Big Bend curve Thursday.

The girls, both 16, were taken by ambulance to Saddleback Community Hospital for emergency treatment of gashes, and bumps and bruises suffered in the accident, which smashed the front end of their Volkswagen.

Jody Alderson, of 1036 Dyer Way, driver of the car, suffered a bump on the head, bruises on her legs and possible whiplash.

Lauren Post, 680 Wendt Terrace, was jolted into the windshield by the impact of the collision. She suffered cuts on her head and a leg.

The girls were released after treatment.

The driver of the truck, Leslie A. Chapman, 55, was uninjured. Police were unable to furnish her address immediately.

The collision occurred while the girls' car was turning across the opposing traffic lane.

Police are investigating.

Services Held For Teen-age Crash Victim

Mass of the Christian Burial for Sean Patterson, 14, a Laguna Niguel boy killed in an Ortega Highway automobile accident, was celebrated Thursday at St. Edward's Catholic Church in Dana Point.

The Dana Hills High School student was one of two boys killed last Friday when their car missed a curve and overturned into a gravel pit. The accident was undiscovered for 11 hours until another passenger in the car recovered consciousness and reported it.

The deceased, of 23691 Sidney Bay, was buried in Ascension Cemetery in El Toro.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Patterson; a brother, Brian; and three sisters, Susan, Sheila and Cheryl.

Bandit Hits Coast Market

A gunman who threatened the female clerk with an automatic pistol took $60 in cash from a Capistrano Beach market Thursday night.

Orange County Sheriff's Officers said the robbery occurred at Paul's Market, 26891 Camino de Estrella, where the clerk was ordered at gunpoint to empty the cash register and put the money in a paper bag.

Officers described the gunman as a male Mexican-American, about 15 to 16 years of age, wearing an olive green military jacket, dark blue slacks and a dark blue watch cap.

Closure Due For Library In San Juan

The San Juan Capistrano Branch Library will close for two weeks, beginning Tuesday, while library staff conduct book inventory.

Library officials advise patrons to use the San Clemente Branch Library during this time. Patrons can also use the Dana Niguel Branch Library when the new facility opens on June 6. Dana Niguel is located at Mariner Drive and Niguel Road just off Coast Highway in Laguna Niguel.

The San Clemente Branch Library, 233 Avenida Granada, is open Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Friday, Saturday 1 until 5 p.m. The branch will be closed on Sundays.

San Juan Capistrano Branch Library will reopen on Monday.

3-Arch Bay Tax Increase Vote Tuesday

Voters in the South Laguna community of Three Arch Bay vote Tuesday whether to tax themselves up to an additional 65 cents per $100 assessed valuation to finance park playground improvements.

The possible tax increase, to a maximum $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation, is a one-time boost only for fiscal year 1977-78. After that, the tax rate would return to the present maximum $1 per $100 AV.

Actual tax now is 85 cents per $100 AV. The Three Arch Bay Community Services District tax override election is the first since 1970, when residents of the private community voted a $1.80 tax rate to finance a traffic signal.

The purpose of the district is to raise money for security, lifeguard service, beach sanitation, storm drains, operation and maintenance of the park playground area, and recreation programs.

There are 701 registered voters in the district, about half the total population.

Drew Harper, Three Arch Bay manager, said the $86,000 tax override would raise would pay for new playground equipment — basketball court, large level playing field, children's play areas — and new electrical and sprinkler systems.

Voting at the community clubhouse is from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

privately for about an hour with Brown Thursday to try to convince him to change his mind about his pledge Jan. 6 to veto any death penalty bill "as a matter of conscience."

Deukmejian said the meeting was "constructive" and hinted there was still a chance that Brown might reconsider.

But in a pre-recorded television interview broadcast a few hours later, Brown repeated his intention of vetoing the Deukmejian bill.

Brown said he still intends to veto the bill, even if politically damaging, and even though capital punishment may be reinstated anyway — either by a veto override in the legislature, or a ballot initiative.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Our showroom is a virtual kaleidoscope of colors. The reasons are varied—

We know that color coordinating is the primary target when buying carpet. Quality is usually second in line, and because we have such a vast selection of qualities, it is easy to coordinate color and quality to each individual's taste.

However, we know that a volume of samples looking at you can seem very confusing — but we feel that showing just a few samples is not a fair representation of the carpet business. Our huge selection gives our salespeople every possible option in working with people; helping them to find the perfect choice.

Four Agencies

Job Counseling In San Juan

Employment counseling and job placement are now offered to South Orange County residents by four sponsoring agencies at a single San Juan Capistrano location.

The state and county employment services, the Youth Employment Service and the Summer Youth Program have representatives at the Capistrano-Laguna Regional Occupational Program (ROP) employment office, 26900 Acjachema St.

BEATRICE LEON, a local state employment representative, and Jose Lopez, a county personnel specialist, work with a state job bank and can determine eligibility of applicants for a number of government-funded programs.

Carl Adams represents the Youth Employment service (YES), sponsored by UC Irvine. The Summer Youth Program, directed by Joyce Mendoza, is sponsored by Saddleback College.

YES offers job counseling and placement to south county youths 17 or younger.

THE SUMMER YOUTH PROGRAM serves economically disadvantaged young people, 14 to 21, who live in the Saddleback College district. The district encompasses the communities of Irvine, Laguna Beach, San Clemente, San Juan Capistrano, Tustin, Capistrano Beach, Dana Point, El Toro, Laguna Hills, Laguna Niguel and Mission Viejo.

Summer Youth Program applications must be filed by today.

Additional information on counseling or job placement is available by calling the ROP employment office, 496-3514.

Water Board to Grow?

The Irvine Ranch Water District is considering expanding the size of its board of directors and allowing the public to elect two of the directors.

A public hearing has been scheduled June 13 to give citizens a chance to comment on the proposal, which could be put into effect for the Nov. 8 election.

CURRENTLY, ALL FIVE directors are elected by landowners, with voting rights assigned on the basis of land values. The Irvine Company holds the vast majority of the votes.

If the new plan goes into effect, two more members will be added to the board and two seats would be chosen directly by Irvine registered voters.

A spokesman for the district said the plan is being considered to allow "greater representation" among Irvine residents.

THE CURRENT SYSTEM was initiated when Irvine was primarily agricultural. Now that it is evolving into a residential area, district officials see the need for change, the spokesman explained.

The new system is now permissible due to a bill introduced by Assemblyman Robert Badham in 1975, that expanded some of the voting to all residents.

Board President Lansing Eberling explained that as the ratio of residential to agricultural areas increases, the number of popularly-elected directors would increase, too. Voting districts would be formed representing both residential and non-residential areas.

THREE CURRENT directors come up for re-election in December, including E. Ray Quigley, Charles H. Oliver and C. Orville Reinhardt. Those seats, and two others, will be on the November ballot, if the new system is approved.

The board is being suggested for expansion to "spread the workload," Eberling said.

Reining In The Reindeer

If two men get into a violent jealousy fight over some girl in a singles bar, it's almost always after 10 p.m. Or so a proprietor of such reports. BLOOD

Q. "What kind of phobia is it in a person who can't stand the sight of blood?"

A. Hemophobia. Hemophobias do not make good surgeons, bullfighters, butchers, etc. In a related matter, please note, the world's ophidiophobias outnumber all those other people not so identified. Ophidiophobia is the fear of snakes.

Q. "In San Francisco's Chinatown is a city-block-long golden dragon called 'Gum Lung.' He only comes out on parade night to celebrate the Chinese New Year. How many men does it take to make him dance?"

A. Three shifts of 22 men each. Over the course of the 18-block parade, they individually work their way in and out of the dragon with fast feet.

Dana Hills Band Set for Marathon

Under the direction of Leon Badham, the Dana Hills High School Dolphin band will present its second annual band marathon today through Sunday.

The Dolphins will attempt to perform continuously in the high school mall for 60 hours to beat last year's record of 48 hours. The public is invited tonight from 7 to 9 and on Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9.

Accommodations have been made for the girls in the chorus room and the boys in the band room. Parents will chaperone the group and provide meals.

This year's goal is to raise $10,000 for uniforms, parade transportation, additional music and new equipment.

Sponsors or anyone wishing to make donations may call the high school at 496-6666. Tax-deductible checks should be made to Dana Hills High School Music Department and be mailed to the Dolphin Band Marathon, Music Department, Dana Hills High School, 33333 Golden Lantern, Dana Point, 92629.

Jury Eyes Diedrich-Conrad Land Link

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Orange County Grand Jury's probe into political campaign practices swept out Thursday to delve into real estate transactions allegedly involving federal indictee Gene Conrad and county Supervisor Ralph Diedrich.

But Diedrich's attorney today said the Fullerton supervisor had no part in any of Conrad's real estate deals.

"As a matter of fact," Fullerton attorney Michael Remington said, "Ralph referred Conrad to me with a warning that I watch my wallet. He (Diedrich) said he didn't want to get involved in any way."

"Unfortunately," Remington added, "I did get involved. And it cost me a few bucks."

Conrad is the former paid police informer who turned federal financier last fall when he dumped more than $53,000 into various campaigns.

Early this year, Conrad's activities and those of the Irvine-based firm he heads, Pension Funds of America, fell under the scrutiny of a federal Grand Jury as well as the county Grand Jury.

In April, the federal jury indicted the burly ex-Chicagoan on seven fraud related charges related to $1.2 million worth of loan fees for loans allegedly never made.

Like Diedrich, Conrad has denied the two were ever joined in business ventures.

And Remington today emphasized that point.

"Naturally I'm concerned because anything Conrad was involved in spooks me a little. But that's hindsight now that I've lost a few dollars. However, Ralph had nothing to do with any of the so-called transactions that never were," Remington said.

He reminded that Diedrich has had past dealings with two witnesses who appeared before the jury Thursday.

The two witnesses were real estate brokers Stephen Beck and Bart Rainone.

Diedrich, who is out of town and was not available for comment, showed on a recent conflict of interest statement that he received income from Beck and Rainone's firms last year.

"Yes," Remington said, "that's true. So, big deal. Ralph's a wealthy man with extensive holdings and you would expect him to do business with brokers."

Remington said, "The jury obviously is following whatever Ralph did whether there's a re- (See PROBE, Page A2)

Penalty Measure To Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate sent a death penalty bill to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s desk today for a certain veto.

The 27-10 vote came after lengthy debate that focused more on charges of political motives than on the minor amendments which were the only issue technically before the Senate.

The vote was the exact two-thirds majority required in the 40-seat house.

"I am convinced the punishment should not be the death penalty. I am convinced a better punishment would be life imprisonment without possibility of parole," said Sen. Milton Marks of San Francisco, one of only two Republicans to oppose the bill to restore capital punishment for treason and 15 categories of murder.

Sen. John Briggs of Fullerton, a Republican candidate for governor, said Brown's "heart bleeds not for the attacked, but the attacker. He continues to speak out for those who commit crimes."

"Every day in California, over five people are executed — not by the state, but by the criminals," Briggs said.

Briggs also charged that the Democratic governor made a deal with Democrats in the legislature to override his veto to prevent the override embarrasment of facing a death penalty initiative on the ballot next year.

Democratic floor leader David Roberti of Los Angeles angrily replied to Briggs: "No deals have been made."

"I'm proud of the governor on this issue," Roberti said of Brown's pledge to veto the bill as a matter of conscience.

"Sen. Briggs, you are running for the governorship. You want the headlines," Roberti said.

The Senate approved an earlier draft of the death penalty bill on a 29-10 vote March 31. Today's vote approved amendments made by the Assembly to simplify trial procedures and limit the manner in which prior records can be brought before the jury.

The Assembly gave approval on a 54-23 vote Monday. (See VETO, Page A2)

59 Still Held by Terrorists

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Gasps of relief and quiet reunions with parents marked the end of four days' captivity for 105 Dutch children held by armed Asian extremists in a village schoolhouse. The mass release occurred after half of them came down with a stomach virus.

But five South Moluccan separatists continued to hold four teachers today, including two women, in the school and refused to surrender. At least 55 other hostages remained the captives of seven other separatists on a train 15 miles north of the school.

The South Moluccans, who want the independence of their Pacific island from Indonesia, have demanded the release of 21 fellow extremists jailed for terrorist activities and a jumbo jet to take them to an undisclosed location.

"It was fascinating to see the reaction of the children," a Red Cross spokesman said. "Only three of them cried when they saw their parents again."

He said while many mothers had tears in their eyes or were openly crying, the children were shy for a few awkward moments before breaking into hugs, kisses and "just happy children's talk."

The Red Cross said one little girl's first words were: "Mummy, I left my coat in the school."

One girl said she and her schoolmates were never threatened by the extremists but were restricted in their movements and had trouble sleeping on the cold hard floors at night. She said they spent much of the time playing games and watching television.

Ambulances rushed the ailing children to a hospital where 26 were admitted. Another 79 children and a teacher — also released — were reunited with families under the watchful eye of Dutch psychiatrists.

Hospital officials declined to disclose the condition of the hospitalized children, but unconfirmed reports said they were "reasonably well." The children had been suffering from vomiting and diarrhea.

Controversial Ship Goes to Work Today

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The first of 18 American-built natural gas tankers is being dedicated here while controversy still simmers over whether such ships are answers to the energy shortage or potential sources of flaming disaster.

The ship to be put into service today will carry 125,000 cubic meters of liquefied natural gas. Supporters say that's enough to serve an American city of 500,000 people for a month.

But critics say it is also enough to cause a catastrophic fire 100 times the size of the wreck of the Hindenburg, the hydrogen-filled German dirigible that burst into flames in 1937.

The greatest damage could occur, scientists say, if the ship's tanks were ruptured during a collision at sea. The liquid gas would pour into the water, and if it did not catch fire immediately, would evaporate into a colorless, odorless cloud of gas.

That gas, they say, would float close to the surface. If the wind eventually pushed it to land, any flame, even a cigarette, could ignite it.

The new ship, called the LNG Aquarius, is the first of 12 liquefied natural gas tankers being built by the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy. Six others are under construction at shipyards in Newport News, Va., and New Orleans.

The 936-foot-long ship, which (See TANKER, Page A2)

Tennis Courts Reservation Rule Changed

Recreation supervisors for the city of Newport Beach have instituted a new reservation system for the city-owned tennis courts.

The new system is as follows:

- An arriving player places his racquet on the waiting board in the lowest numbered position available.
- When a court is available, the player with his racquet on the lowest number chalks his name and the time he starts playing on the playing board.
- All the other waiting players move their racquets forward one number.
- Players can use the court for one hour provided there is a name and correct time entered on the playing board.
- If the name and correct time are not on the playing board and another player arrives, the people on the court have only 15 minutes to play.
- Players already on the courts may not take a position on the waiting board for a minimum of two hours.
- Waiting players without partners may not hold a court.

cost $100 million, will be operated by Burmah Oil Company of England to carry gas from Indonesia to Japan.

The giant, black-hulled ship carries its cargo in liquid form in five globe-shaped tanks. The tanks protrude above the deck, and from the air, the ship looks like a long, narrow carton filled with eggs.

Boston is the only U.S. port where liquefied natural gas is delivered. The Coast Guard considers the tankers so dangerous that all other traffic is halted when they enter the harbor.

Other docking facilities for such cargoes are being prepared in New York, Providence, R.I., and Cove Point, Md.

One of the most outspoken critics of gas tankers is James MacKenzie, a director of the Union of Concerned Scientists.

"If and when an accident occurs, there would be an enormous conflagration with people being injured for miles around," MacKenzie said. "It would be a devastation. There would be a huge fireball in the sky visible from miles away."

"It has a potential of being very hazardous under certain conditions," said Robert Reid, a natural gas expert at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "But if it's handled right, it's about as safe as anything. There are lots of other dangerous gases we handle on our waterways."

Rolf Glasted, the chief development engineer for the new tanker, said he believes the ship is a safe way to transport fuel.

"No question about it," he said. "And no effort has been spared to make it so."

VETO...

State Sen. George Deukmejian, author of the bill, met privately for about an hour with Brown Thursday to try to convince him to change his mind about his pledge Jan. 6 to veto any death penalty bill "as a matter of conscience."

Deukmejian said the meeting was "constructive" and hinted there was still a chance that Brown might reconsider.

But in a pre-recorded television interview broadcast a few hours later, Brown repeated his intention of vetoing the Deukmejian bill.

Brown said he still intends to veto the bill, even if politically damaging, and even though capital punishment may be reinstated anyway — either by a veto override in the legislature, or a ballot initiative.

"I think it would be better not to have it. I think at each point where it can be stopped, we should try to stop it," the Democratic governor said.

Stereo System Stolen in CdM

A Corona del Mar woman who left her apartment unlocked and unattended for two hours Thursday returned to find her stereo system had been taken.

Wynn Louise Collins, 34 of 420 Goldenrod Ave. told officers she lost $3,100 worth of stereo equipment as well as some camera gear in the break-in.

The woman told officers she was out of her apartment for about two hours beginning at noon. Neighbors said they didn't notice anything out of the ordinary at the time.

Two Teens Held

MERCED (AP) — Two Sacramento teenagers have been arrested here on charges of kidnaping a young Sacramento woman at gunpoint, the highway patrol reported. The two boys, ages 14 and 16, were arrested Wednesday after a chase on Highway 99 which ended when the youths' car went over an embankment and into a ditch.

Seniors Strain To Hear News

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The nearly 20 hours of public testimony and city council discussion on the Newport Beach Senior Citizens Center produced some interesting, sometimes moving, scenes.

ONE MAN WHO attended four of the council meetings is blind. A civic leader from the bygone days when Newport Beach had only a few thousand permanent residents, he is well known to his fellow seniors.

They all made sure he was led to the podium each time he wished to speak and they saw to it he was taken to a front row seat when he finished. Someone always sat beside him to narrate the things that could not be perceived by ear.

REYNOLDS

There were as many as 100 old people who attended some of the hearings, and hearing proved to be their most common problem.

They'd sit in groups straining forward to hear what was being said, asking one another when they couldn't quite pick up a phrase.

And they were not shy about letting a speaker know he wasn't being heard. "Talk louder," someone would shout as the rest nodded their approval.

ONE MAN SPOKE of his friends in the local veterans of World War I barracks.

"Some can't talk. Some can't hear too good like me. Others are blind or have trouble walking.

"Some of 'em are so bad off, they have to be carried into the meetings, but they wouldn't miss, they want to be there so bad.

"And I feel sorry for 'em and I think they ought to have a place they could go all the time."

THERE WAS AN icy confrontation between Councilwoman Lucille Kuehn, the primary proponent of the center, and John Wilson, owner of the private school on the site.

Why, Mrs. Kuehn demanded, had Wilson persisted in seeking government-owned property for his school rather than private property?

Wilson snapped back that she knew very well he'd done some looking for a new site with the Irvine Company.

The school owner objected to the questioning, telling Mayor Milan Dostal he could see no purpose served by answering.

Mrs. Kuehn interjected: "The purpose to be served is to determine if the public is carrying a tax burden in support of a private enterprise."

BACKERS OF THE senior center complain that council assurances that the Carden School lease will not be renewed again have been heard before.

They say councilmen said the same thing last year when the school owners got their existing lease. Councilman Ray Williams is adamant that no further extension will be granted beyond June 30, 1978.

That may be, but things could change.

Between now and next June, four council seats will come up for election — the ones held by Trudi Rogers, Pete Barrett, Milan Dostal and Lucille Kuehn.

With at least one of the remaining councilmen — Paul Ryckoff — firmly behind the school, that matter of the lease extension will remain in doubt in the minds of many until after that election next April.

Tie-in Possible

Attempted Assault, Burglary Probed

Newport Beach police are investigating an attempted burglary and an attempted rape to see if the two crimes are related.

Both cases occurred early Thursday morning within three blocks in Central Newport and both cases involved break-ins through bathroom windows.

The first case was reported shortly after midnight when an 18-year-old UC Irvine student told police she frightened off a would-be intruder by screaming.

The woman said she was drying off after a shower when she saw her bathroom curtains move and a man's hand come through the open window.

After the man ran off, the student and police found bricks stacked up outside the six-foot high window.

About five hours later, a 19-year-old woman reported a rape attempt inside her apartment.

She told police she was awakened when a man put a T-shirt over her mouth, but she squirmed away from him and screamed, frightening him off.

As the man ran out of her apartment, she said she noticed he was naked.

Police said the man apparently got into the apartment by opening an unlocked bathroom window and climbing in.

The suspect in the rape attempt is described as being five feet, 11 inches tall, and weighing about 175 pounds. The woman said he had shoulder-length, curly blond hair.

Class Saves Survivors 'Physically Fit'

Grace Ellerbrock of Leisure World says she and her husband, Byron, survived history's worst aviation disaster two months ago because of a physical conditioning class she had taken.

THE RETIRED couple, part of a handful of people who survived the collision of two jumbo jets in the Canary Islands, were hospitalized in Ft. Dix, N.J., upon their return to this country.

Mrs. Ellerbrock wrote a letter to Diane Edwards, Leisure World exercise director and an instructor in the Saddleback Valley Unified School District's adult education program, thanking her for the conditioning class.

"IF THERE was ever a living testimonial to your conditioning classes, this must be it," Mrs. Ellerbrock wrote. "When one of your senior citizens can jump from the wing of a 747 jumbo jet and drag a 200-pound man (Mr. Ellerbrock) barefoot across a field with no more than abrasions, cuts and bruises, it's something to be grateful for," she added.

"WE ARE MENDING. It will take time, but you can be certain when I get home I'll be back in your class — 'beginners only' probably."

Mrs. Ellerbrock's husband sustained a broken pelvis and other injuries in the crash, which claimed 575 lives, including 27 Leisure World residents.

Carter Dives in Sub LA

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, a onetime career submarine officer, slipped beneath the surface of the Atlantic today aboard the nuclear-powered, hunter-killer sub Los Angeles.

When the Los Angeles began its dive at 8:15 a.m. PDT, Carter became the first president to cruise in a submerged undersea vessel since Dwight D. Eisenhower dove in aboard the nuclear-powered Sea Wolf 20 years ago.

By coincidence, Carter had been senior naval officer in charge during the construction of the Sea Wolf.

The Los Angeles took two to three minutes to complete its dive in waters about 35 miles off the Florida coast.

Carter had begun his Atlantic cruise some three hours earlier, eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles and perhaps willing to let wife Rosalynn take a turn in the "driver's seat."

Aboard nuclear subs, the individual who mans the helm is said to be driving the ship.

Accompanied by Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father of the nuclear Navy," the President and Mrs. Carter boarded the attack sub Los Angeles at Port Canaveral for the eight-hour cruise.

Carter, an Annapolis graduate, joked to reporters that when he was a career submarine officer, the undersea craft were called boats. He said they've grown so large they are now known as ships.

"Do you have any last words?" a reporter inquired shortly before two Navy tugs began nudging the Los Angeles into a narrow channel leading to the ocean.

"No," said Carter, laughing heartily, "because they won't be last words."

The President was whistled — not piped — aboard the submarine and, as he disappeared down an open hatch, the presidential ensign was raised from the conning tower.

As soon as the Carters got inside the sub, the President shucked his blue-gray suit coat and donned a tan nylon windbreaker he carried off Air Force One when he arrived here from his holiday weekend retreat at St. Simons Island, Ga.

The President and First Lady were taken first to a wardroom where Rickover briefed them on the status of his beloved nuclear Navy, which boasts 108 submarines and six surface ships.

The admiral told Carter the Los Angeles required refueling only every 400,000 miles, compared to 5,000-6,000 on the conventional subs on which the President served.

Command Tops

Singlaub Gets Big Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub was named chief of staff of the Army's biggest command today, less than a week after being relieved as U.S. staff chief in South Korea for publicly challenging President Carter's decision to withdraw American ground troops from there.

Singlaub's assignment as chief of staff of the Army Forces Command headquartered at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., was announced a day after Carter said the general would be given a job of "equal degree of responsibility and stature" to the Korean post.

Singlaub has returned to Korea to clear up personal matters and will take over his new job on June 27.

The Army Forces Command is responsible for training, equipping and insuring the combat readiness of all Army troops in the continental United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It is also responsible for supervising the training of the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve.

Phantom's Activities Probed by Deputies

By TOM BARLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County Sheriff's officers are becoming increasingly convinced today that the so-called Phantom Rock Thrower who eluded capture after stabbing a deputy may be responsible for a number of other bizarre incidents in the general area of his anti-auto activities.

They believe that the man who was challenged by deputy Dave Allen Wednesday night may be the intruder who has carried off the carcasses of several dead goats in recent months from a goat ranch in Santa Ana Canyon.

And the rock thrower who has terrorized Riverside Freeway motorists for the past eight months — smashing more than 35 windshields — may be the same man who has smashed bee hives in the canyon and who has broken into the pro shop at the Green River Golf Course on several occasions, they said.

Investigators believe the man confronted by Allen may be living off the land and making his headquarters in the rough terrain near Featherly Regional Park and the Green River Golf Course.

They believe that his periodic bouts of rock throwing along the Riverside Freeway may be indicative of his need to vent his frustrations at a civilization that may have driven him to loneliness and exile.

The attack on Allen, who is now recovering from knife wounds on his right arm and neck, has given them their first real description of the rock thrower.

The Mission Viejo deputy described him as a short, bearded black man, dressed in dark clothing and wearing what appeared to be Army boots.

Allen told his fellow officers that the man repeatedly warned him to leave him alone and emphasized his demands by tossing rocks at the deputy while the pair scrambled through brush and scrub at the side of the freeway.

Allen said he spotted the rock thrower while he was driving home from duty Wednesday night on the Riverside Freeway.

The deputy said the man he described and subsequently chased was piling rocks on the center divider of the freeway, apparently preparing for another session of windshield-shattering attacks on passing cars.

Fellow officers rushed Allen to the nearby Canyon General Hospital after the chase ended with the hunted man slashing the deputy in the neck and arm.

Other officers and the Anaheim police helicopter took up the pursuit of the suspect in vain.

Investigators believe that the rock thrower may be the same man who has set a number of fires in the canyon area in recent years.

A man answering the rock thrower description was hunted for three days in the summer of 1974 while firemen fought a number of fires deliberately set in the bone dry Santa Ana mountains.

But sheriff's officers working on a new plan conceived since the attack on deputy Allen believe the rock thrower's days are numbered.

"I can't tell you a thing about it," a senior officer commented today. "But we believe we can track this man down and end what has been 10 frustrating months of nonsense in this general area."

Banks Hike Loan Rates

By the Associated Press

A number of major commercial banks raised their prime lending rate from 6 1/2 to 6 3/4 percent today.

Among banks increasing the rate were New York's Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank, and Chicago's Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, the nation's seventh-largest bank.

Bert Lance, director of the federal Office of Management and Budget, said he sees no reason why banks should be raising their prime rate. Lance said that banks "are awash with cash."

Jury Eyes Diedrich-Conrad Land Link

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The Orange County Grand Jury's probe into political campaign practices swept out Thursday to delve into real estate transactions allegedly involving federal indictee Gene Conrad and county Supervisor Ralph Diedrich.

But Diedrich's attorney today said the Fullerton supervisor had no part in any of Conrad's real estate deals.

"As a matter of fact," Fullerton attorney Michael Remington said, "Ralph referred Conrad to me with a warning that I watch my wallet. He (Diedrich) said he didn't want to get involved in any way."

"Unfortunately," Remington added, "I did get involved. And it cost me a few bucks." Conrad is the former paid political informer who turned federal financier last fall when he dumped more than $53,000 into various campaigns.

Early this year, Conrad's activities and those of the Irvine-based firm he heads, Pension Funds of America, fell under the scrutiny of a federal Grand Jury as well as the county Grand Jury.

In April, the federal jury indicted the burly ex-Chicagoan on seven fraud related charges related to $1.2 million worth of loan fees for loans allegedly never made.

Like Diedrich, Conrad has denied the two were ever joined in business ventures.

And Remington today emphasized that point.

"Naturally I'm concerned because anything Conrad was involved in spooks me a little. But that's hindsight now that I've lost a few dollars. However, Ralph had nothing to do with any of the so-called transactions that never were," Remington said.

He admitted that Diedrich has had past dealings with two witnesses who appeared before the jury Thursday.

The two witnesses were real estate brokers Stephen Berck and Bart Rainone.

Diedrich, who is out of town and was not available for comment, showed on a recent conflict of interest statement that he received income from Berck and Rainone's firms last year.

"Yes," Remington said, "that's true. So, big deal. Ralph's a wealthy man with extensive holdings and you would expect him to do business with brokers."

Remington said, "The jury obviously is following whatever Ralph did whether there's a re- (See PROBE, Page A2)

$4 Million Lake Fill Plan Eyed

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The California Water Resources Control Board will decide on June 16 if an ambitious, $4 million plan by the Mission Viejo Company to fill its man-made lake is acceptable.

Company officials spent the day in Sacramento Thursday, detailing the plan drafted by consultant Jack Raub to water board staff members and two directors.

The company proposal basically calls for extraction of about one billion gallons of water with an extremely high mineral content from the lower portion of the San Juan Creek underground basin near San Juan Capistrano.

This water would be pumped from wells and then piped 11 miles uphill to the partially filled lake bed, located near the corner of Marguerite Parkway and Alicia Parkway.

Company officials told the water board that the expense is justified on grounds that an estimated $28 million per year in wages, new home sales and taxes are on the line if the lake project is not completed in a timely manner.

The state water board ordered the company to halt the filling of Lake Mission Viejo March 2, declaring that the use of imported water for a recreational project was wasteful in the time of drought. The 125-acre basin is one-third full.

The estimated cost of the company's groundwater extraction system would cover renovation of old wells, drilling of new wells, the 11 miles of pipeline and pumping equipment (three pump stations) and electricity.

LONG WAIT—There was a long, long line a winding back up the highway this morning as the wouldbe campers waited for San Onofre State Beach to open for the three day weekend. Charles Alan Crow, 19, of Westminster waits for the gate to open. He was first in line and said he had been waiting since 4 p.m. Thursday at the facility south of San Clemente.

Camp Fills Up Cars Wait at San Onofre

It was first come, first served at San Onofre State Park today and the first came last night and slept in front of the gates.

This morning when the gates opened to the newly refurbished park, 150 cars, campers, trucks, trailers and other assorted vehicles were in line for the 290 available camping spaces.

Parks officials expected all the available camping spaces to be taken quickly.

Camping spaces in the two other state parks at San Clemente and Doheny were "sold out" under the state's reservation system a month ago for the Memorial Day weekend.

Although camping spaces are gone, day-use spaces were still available.

Nudity, Race Bias Bug Pizza Parlor

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The owner of a local pizza parlor has had to contend with complaints about both nudity and racial discrimination since he put a replica of Michelangelo's David in front of the shop.

Lorenzo Amato said he was surprised when he started receiving complaints about the four-foot nine-inch statue.

"People started to make calls telling me it was obscene, that they were going to knock it down, that it would hurt my business, so I painted black pants from the waist to the knees," Amato said.

But painting the statue resulted in 150 complaints that it was discrimination to paint the statue half black and half white.

"I didn't know what to do after I painted it black and people started to complain," said Amato.

He said local police told him the statue was not illegal and a priest told him it posed no religious conflicts.

Then Amato acted with results from a straw poll and whitewashed the statue, which is the way it remains.

Asked whether he thought people realized the Michelangelo's statue was a work of art, Amato replied: "Apparently not. They think it's obscene."

Amato's next worry is a statue of the Virgin Mary he wants to place in front of the shop.

"Mary has half of her bust exposed," said Amato, "but I refuse to put a bra on her because it would look funny, but before I do anything else, I'm going to take another poll."

Body Discovered

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The body of a master watchmaker has been found bound and gagged in the bathroom of his apartment-workshop, police said. The partially decomposed body of James Olssten, 41, was discovered Wednesday by the apartment manager who said he was concerned because Olssten hadn't been seen for more than a week.

CUSD Voters To Consider Bond, Loan

A $39 million local bond and a $10 million state loan election faces Capistrano Unified School District voters Tuesday, with the county registrar of voters predicting a light voter turnout.

Polls in the district's 56 consolidated precincts will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The district's 41,106 voters live in the communities of San Clemente, Dana Point, Capistrano, Laguna Niguel and part of Mission Viejo.

School officials say passage of the bond and state loan election is needed to build schools for the 8,221 new students expected to move into the Capistrano school district in the next five years.

When school opens in the fall, district officials predict 16,355 students will attend the district's 20 schools, which have a capacity of 16,171.

In addition to 14 elementary schools, three junior highs and three high schools, the district is operating with more than 80 portable classrooms.

District officials say county planners predict the population of the Capistrano school district will grow from 82,809 residents in 1977 to 124,645 in 1981.

If the registrar of voters' estimate of voter turnout is accurate, about eight percent of the school district's voters will decide what school facilities are available over the next five years, as the district's population (See VOTERS, Page A2)

Drug Firm Faces Charge

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A pharmaceutical firm was charged in U.S. District Court here with manufacturing Laetrile under unsanitary conditions.

Federal prosecutors said the Laetrile, believed by some to be effective against cancer, was adulterated and could have been contaminated at the Mosinee Research Corp. plant in Manitowoc, Wis. The charges said the substance was prepared, packed and held under unsanitary conditions.

Penalty Measure To Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate sent a death penalty bill to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s desk today for a certain veto.

The 27-10 vote came after lengthy debate that focused more on charges of political motives than on the minor amendments which were the only issue technically before the Senate.

The vote was the exact two-thirds majority required in the 40-seat house.

"I am convinced the punishment should not be the death penalty. I am convinced a better punishment would be life imprisonment without possibility of parole," said Sen. Milton Marks of San Francisco, one of only two Republicans to oppose the bill to restore capital punishment for treason and 15 categories of murder.

Sen. John Briggs of Fullerton, a Republican candidate for governor, said Brown's "heart bleeds not for the attacked, but the attacker. He continues to speak out for those who commit crimes."

"Every day in California, not five people are executed — over by the state, but by the criminals," Briggs said.

Briggs also charged that the Democratic governor made a deal with Democrats in the legislature to override his veto to prevent the political embarrassment of facing a death penalty initiative on the ballot next year.

Democratic floor leader David Roberti of Los Angeles angrily rebuffed to Briggs: "No deals have been made."

"I'm proud of the governor on this issue," Roberti said of Brown's pledge to veto the bill as a matter of conscience.

"Sen. Briggs, you are running for the governorship. You want the headlines," Roberti said.

The Senate approved an earlier draft of the death penalty bill on a 29-10 vote March 31. Today's vote approved amendments made by the Assembly to simplify trial procedures and limit the manner in which prior records can be brought before the jury.

The Assembly gave approval on a 54-23 vote Monday.

Voice From Past Lashes Trustees

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN DEPARTMENT — former Saddleback College Trustee Robert Bartholomew has acidly voiced his displeasure with the present college board in a letter to the Tustin weekly newspaper.

Bartholomew, you may recall, is the John Birch Society member who quit the college panel last fall to move his nursery business to Montecito in Ventura County.

In the finest right-wing rhetoric, his letter lashed out at the current board majority, calling the trustees "fuzzybrained" for scrapping one satellite campus site near Tustin in favor of another location 3.5 miles south.

He said he had hoped after his departure that two other conservative trustees, Frank Greinke and Donna Berry, would be able to "keep some common sense thinking and reasoning before the rest of the board." He said he was mistaken.

He went on to accuse the board of selling out to the Irvine Company in moving the campus site and said the only thing trustees haven't done is to rename the district the "Irvine Company Community College District."

Bartholomew said it is "quite apparent they feel said company owns the district."

"It is apparent that neither the Irvine Company nor the Norrisa Brandt-Larry Taylor combined (two of the four trustees who favored the site switch) has anything but contempt for the Tustin area students and taxpayers. So what else is new," he added.

Taylor, of Laguna Beach, has fired off a reply to Bartholomew's Salvo, saying that if Bartholomew had all the facts, he would have voted to switch sites as well because of the large cost savings.

He said in an interview that Bartholomew has little to be proud of since he calculatedly resigned his seat the day after the deadline for making an appointment, leaving his constituents without representation for four months.

ONE OF THE SADDLEBACK VALLEY'S fire department captains has ended three years of service at Mission Viejo Station 24 with a promotion.

Orange County Fire Department Capt. Tim Sappok will assume the duties of dispatch chief in the department headquarters in Orange in the "very near future."

Sappok said his present assignment is the longest he has spent at one station since joining the fire service. He is a Mission Viejo resident.

The new chief follows the valley's former battalion chief, George Toussaint, to the county headquarters. Toussaint, of Lake Forest, had been posted at the Laguna Hills station and is now a division chief for operations in charge of four north county battalions.

GRACE ELLERBROCK, a Laguna Hills Leisure World resident who survived history's worst aviation disaster in the Canary Islands in March, credits a physical conditioning class with her survival.

She wrote a letter to Diane Edwards, the Saddleback Valley Unified School District's Leisure World exercise director recently noting that, "If there was a living testimonial to your conditioning classes, this must be it."

"When one of your senior citizens can jump from the wing of a 747 jumbo jet and drag a 200-pound man (her husband, Byron) barefoot across a field with no more than abrasions, cuts and bruises, it's something to be more than grateful for."

She went on to say she and her husband, who are hospitalized in Ft. Dix, New Jersey, are "mending."

"It will take time, but you can be certain when I get home, I'll be back in your class — 'beginners only' probably."

Capistrano Unified trustees have said that if the election fails, the district schools will be forced to operate on double session or perhaps year-round in the struggle to educate the growing number of students.

There has been no organized opposition to the election. Both the local bond issue and the state loan measures require two-thirds voter approval.

District officials have called the local bond-state loan financing of school construction the most equitable way to provide housing for the expanding student population.

They say it places a heavier financial responsibility for new school construction on people moving into the district than alternative funding methods.

Because the Capistrano school district receives state building aid, district taxpayers will have the same 90-cent tax rate, whether or not the election is approved, said Ted Kopp, president of the board of trustees.

"As I see it, this is really the way to go," he said. "It seems ironic that a two-thirds vote is required to pass a bond issue, when that enables us to do what must be done and do it the cheapest way possible."

Kopp said district voters should understand that if they approve the bond issue, bonds can be sold only to 10 percent of the district's assessed valuation and can be used only for school construction — not for teacher salaries, educational materials or anything else.

Election returns will be compiled Tuesday night at district offices, 32972 Calle Perfecto in San Juan Capistrano. Results will be available by calling 496-1215 or 837-5181.

"I think that's unfortunate because no one should have to put up with that kind of thing," he added.

59 Still Held by Terrorists

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Gasps of relief and quiet reunions with parents marked the end of four days' captivity for 105 Dutch children held by armed Asian extremists in a village schoolhouse. The mass release occurred after half of them came down with a stomach virus.

But five South Moluccan separatists continued to hold four teachers today, including two women, in the school and refused to surrender. At least 55 other hostages remained the captives of seven other separatists on a train 15 miles north of the school.

The South Moluccans, who want the independence of their Pacific island from Indonesia, have demanded the release of 21 fellow extremists jailed for terrorist activities and a jumbo jet to take them to an undisclosed location.

"It was fascinating to see the reaction of the children," a Red Cross spokesman said. "Only three of them cried when they saw their parents again."

He said while many mothers had tears in their eyes or were openly crying, the children were shy for a few awkward moments before breaking into hugs, kisses and "just happy children's talk."

The Red Cross said one little girl's first words were: "Mummy, I left my coat in the school."

One girl said she and her schoolmates were never threatened by the extremists but were restricted in their movements and had trouble sleeping on the cold hard floors at night. She said they spent much of the time playing games and watching television.

Ambulances rushed the ailing children to a hospital where 26 were admitted. Another 79 children and a teacher — also released — were reunited with families under the watchful eye of Dutch psychiatrists.

Hospital officials declined to disclose the condition of the hospitalized children, but unconfirmed reports said they were "reasonably well." The children had been suffering from vomiting and diarrhea.

The parents of children returning home were told by the Red Cross to give them hot baths and send them to bed. The children were also told not to drink or eat too much at first.

LAKE...

The company contends that the degraded groundwater, which is usable only on a few hardy crops, will be adequate for recreational use in the lake and, mixed with the good water already in the lake, could serve as a water supply in time of extreme emergency.

The extensive company study of the proposed groundwater extraction notes that the San Juan basin contains an estimated 28 billion gallons of water and is currently saturated to its maximum.

But the study noted that about 4.5 billion gallons of groundwater located nearest to the coastline has been gradually degraded in quality through the years by the flow of dissolved salts and minerals from the streams and creeks that feed the basin.

By removing a portion of that poor-quality water, the report contends, there will be space for higher-quality runoff or better water from other parts of the underground basin.

According to the study, extraction of about a billion gallons at the lower end of the basin will cause the rest of the basin water to seep downstream and fill the extraction zone.

There is no indication in the report that the company is planning to pump more imported water to the basin to replenish it. It is apparently counting on natural runoff and seepage to recharge the basin.

The company project has the endorsement of T.J. Meadows, president of the San Juan Basin Authority.

Meadows said that the basin is now so full that runoff water cannot be absorbed and is running into the ocean at a rate of about 3.5 billion gallons a year.

He said removal of degraded water at the lower end of the basin will make room for storage and use of the better water and will cut down on the use of imported water in the basin region.

The company study also noted that the extraction plan is a step toward achieving a goal of the State Department of Water Resources — that of upgrading the entire San Juan Basin.

But the study also noted that far more than a billion gallons will have to be "flushed" from the basin to fully revitalize it.

LNG TANKER TO BE DEDICATED IN SEA OF CONTROVERSY OVER SAFETY Ship's Capacity Gives Rise to Concern Over Possibility of Giant Fires

First LNG Tanker Sails

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The first of 18 American-built natural gas tankers is being dedicated here while controversy still simmers over whether such ships are answers to the energy shortage or potential sources of flaming disaster.

The ship to be put into service today will carry 125,000 cubic meters of liquefied natural gas. Supporters say that's enough to serve an American city of 500,000 people for a month.

But critics say it is also enough to cause a catastrophic fire 100 times the size of the wreck of the Hindenburg, the hydrogen-filled German dirigible that burst into flames in 1937.

The greatest damage could occur, scientists say, if the ship's tanks were ruptured during a collision at sea. The liquid gas would pour into the water, and if it did not catch fire immediately, would evaporate into a colorless, odorless cloud of gas.

That gas, they say, would float close to the surface. If the wind eventually pushed it to land, any flame, even a cigarette, could ignite it.

The new ship, called the LNG Aquarius, is the first of 12 liquefied natural gas tankers being built by the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy.

Six others are under construction at shipyards in Newport News, Va., and New Orleans.

The 936-foot-long ship, which cost $100 million, will be operated by Burmah Oil Company of England to carry gas from Indonesia to Japan.

The giant, black-hulled ship carries its cargo in liquid form in five globe-shaped tanks. The tanks protrude above the deck.

PHANTOM. . .

diative of his need to vent his frustrations at a civilization that may have driven him to loneliness and exile.

The attack on Allen, who is now recovering from knife wounds on his right arm and neck, has given them their first real description of the rock thrower.

The Mission Viejo deputy described him as a short, bearded black man, dressed in dark clothing and wearing what appeared to be Army boots.

Allen told his fellow officers that the man repeatedly warned him to leave him alone and emphasized his demands by tossing rocks at the deputy while the pair scrambled through brush and scrub at the side of the freeway.

Allen said he spotted the rock thrower while he was driving home from duty Wednesday night on the Riverside Freeway.

The deputy said the man he described and subsequently chased was piling rocks on the center divider of the freeway, apparently preparing for another session of windshield-shattering attacks on passing cars.

Fellow officers rushed Allen to the nearby Canyon General Hospital after the chase ended with the hunted man slashing the deputy in the neck and arm. Other officers and the Anaheim police helicopter took up the pursuit of the suspect in vain.

Investigators believe that the rock thrower may be the same man who has set a number of fires in the canyon area in recent years.

A man answering the rock thrower description was hunted for three days in the summer of 1974 while firemen fought a number of fires deliberately set in the bone dry Santa Ana mountains.

But sheriff's officers working on a new plan conceived since the attack on deputy Allen believe the rock thrower's days are numbered.

Groups Urge Smoking Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former U.S. surgeons-general and 10 organizations opposed to cigarette smoking have petitioned the federal government to regulate cigarettes more strictly than saccharin and to require doctors' prescriptions for cigarette sales.

The petition filed with the Food and Drug Administration Thursday asked the agency to assert jurisdiction over cigarettes on the ground that tobacco contains drugs and therefore is under FDA's authority.

The FDA has proposed rules that would ban the use of saccharin as a food additive but permit its sale as a single ingredient, non-prescription drug. The FDA is soliciting comment on the proposal and may make the rule effective in July.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Our showroom is a virtual kaleidoscope of colors. The reasons are varied—

We know that color coordinating is the primary target when buying carpet. Quality is usually second in line, and because we have such a vast selection of qualities, it is easy to coordinate color and quality to each individual's taste.

However, we know that a volume of samples looking at you can seem very confusing — but we feel that showing just a few samples is not a fair representation of the carpet business. Our huge selection gives our salespeople every possible option in working with people, helping them to find the perfect choice.

So if you are in the market to select your carpeting — select Alden's to help you, that's what we're here for!!!!

U.S. Sells Used Property

By SYLVIA PORTER

People in the market for a used car, aircraft, plumbing and heating equipment, a typewriter or office machine, medical items, textiles, hardware, furniture and other items may find the government has a good buy in store.

A variety of personal property is continuously offered for sale by the federal government, with the General Services Administration (GSA) and the Department of Defense the principal agencies engaged in selling it.

THE CONDITION OF THE PROPERTY ranges from good to poor; it may be new or used and could require repair. Some is not even salvageable, having only scrap value.

Sales of civil agency personal property include a long list of consumer items. Each of the 10 GSA regional offices conducts sales and each office maintains a mailing list for the geographical area it serves.

To obtain a mailing list application for the GSA list, write to the GSA, Federal Supply Service, Personal Property Department, 5555 S. Eastern, Bell, CA. 90201.

The Defense Department handles sales of its own property, including large quantities of commercial, industrial and consumer merchandise.

PROPERTY DESIGNATED AS military surplus is sold through defense property disposal sales offices. There are five: Columbus, Ohio; Portsmouth, R.I.; Memphis, Tenn.; Ogden, Utah, and Pearl City, Hawaii. A centralized mailing list is maintained for sales conducted by these offices.

To obtain a mailing list application, write to DoD Surplus Sales, P.O. Box 1370, Battle Creek, MI. 49016.

When the classes of property specified on the application are placed on sale in the geographical areas designated, the department mails invitations for bid that contain description of the property, specific locations, dates and times for inspection as well as other detailed information about the sales. Notices of sales to the public also may be in newspaper, radio and TV announcements, trade journals, notices in such public buildings as post offices, and through announcements in the Department of Commerce publication, Commerce Business Daily.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THIS publication, at $75 a year, are obtained by writing to the nearest Department of Commerce field office or the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Personal property is sold on a competitive bid basis, in quantities to encourage participation by individuals as well as businesses. No priorities or preferences are given.

Property is frequently sold by sealed bid, with invitations for bid mailed to prospective buyers.

SPOT BIDS ALSO ARE USED, with the bidder submitting an offer during the sale. Awards are made item by item as the sale progresses. Those on mailing lists receive information on the property and instructions for placing bids. Provision may be made for bids by prospective purchasers who can't attend the sales in person.

Public auctions are another vehicle used by the government. These follow traditional commercial auctioning methods. Catalogs are provided. Government-approved auctioneers are in charge.

Values Hunted Bank Projects More Spending

Bigger incomes and greater spending power will be enjoyed by Southern California residents between now and 1980, says Southern Pacific Bank, but increasingly selective and value conscious consumers will become more prevalent despite their increased buying power.

That assessment is part of a major economic study on Southern California, entitled: Southern California: Economic Trends in the Seventies, which the bank will release Wednesday. The bank's study says that, assuming no business downturn, the anticipated gains in employment between now and 1980, coupled with relatively moderate consumer price inflation rates in the 5 to 7 percent range, will mean greater purchasing power.

FOR A SHORT-TERM, THE BANK'S research points to the current drought pushing up 1977's consumer prices by around 6.3 percent, higher than originally forecast but below the recession era's double-digit rates.

Looking to the end of this decade, the bank's study says the picture appears more encouraging for local residents. "We are estimating that real disposable income per capita — what's left for spending after taxes and such — will rise about 1.8 percent per year between now and 1980.

CONSUMER

"That would be slightly higher than the rate recorded in the first six years of this decade and would mean that consumers would have more money to spend," says Richard W. Ayer, assistant vice president.

What will people buy with their increased incomes? "Home furnishings, major appliances and building materials, automobiles and auto supplies should do well over the next four years, principally because of the increased number of new households being formed in the next few years and the Southland's continued dependency upon the car as the primary means of urban transportation," says Ayer.

THE STUDY ALSO SAYS THAT although people will have more to spend between now and 1980, they will demand value for their money.

"Consumers have become much more selective and value conscious, and this trend will become even more widespread as higher education levels and increased consumer activism expands the ranks of 'aware' consumers," Ayer says.

While sales attract consumers, he says, "they will pay full price for more expensive or top-of-the-line products which they believe offer either value or fashion appeal. Recently, for example, better jewelry and expensive leather products have been selling well."
