TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, packing winds up to 155 miles per hour, slammed into the northeast Mexican coast before dawn today, washing out roads, uprooting trees and tearing off rooftops in a dozen or more fishing villages.

There was no immediate report of casualties. At least some of the villages had been evacuated hours beforehand.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Electric power was cut off in Soto La Marina, the town directly in the hurricane's path as it came ashore at about 4 a.m., rushing in at 120 m.p.h.

Soto la Marina and La Pesca, both on the edge of the Laguna Madre, had most of their resi-

Suspect Denies Theft Plan Hoax

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A man who told police of a plot to steal Elvis Presley's body for $10 million ransom says he and two other men were offered $40,000 to remove the body from its tomb.

Ronnie Lee Adkins said Thursday in an interview that another man was to hold the body until the Presley family paid the $10 million.

Some police officials have said privately the affair was a hoax, but Adkins denied this.

Adkins was one of three men arrested Monday near Forest Hill Cemetery, where the rock 'n' roll singer was entombed following his death from a heart attack last month. The Presley mausoleum had been staked out by officers on a tip from Adkins that the body would be stolen and ransomed. Adkins and the others were charged with trespassing. Police said they found no explosives or burglary tools.

Later, Police Director E. Winslow Chapman said Adkins was a police informant and he was recommending that the charge against him be dropped.

A repliminary hearing for Adkins, Raymond M. Green, 25, and Bruce Eugene Nelson, 30, was postponed Tuesday until Oct. 4.

Jay Fred Friedman, attorney for Green and Nelson, has suggested that his clients were themselves unwitting victims of a plot. He said his clients were not at the cemetery to steal a body.

Mom Guilty In Starving Death of Son

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court jury has found a San Francisco waitress guilty in the starvation death of her 11-year-old son. The waitress, Shirley Ellenburg, was found guilty of second-degree murder Thursday after a six-week trial.

The trial had been marked by the defendant's testimony as she struggled through tears to explain her relationship with her boyfriend and son, Gary, who died Feb. 11.

The child, weighing 44 pounds, had been taken to San Francisco General Hospital Jan. 28 in a coma. Doctors said he died two weeks later of starvation and pneumonia.

Ms. Ellenburg, was charged with murder after she and her Daughter Sued

Parents Seek Wedding Halt

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations.

But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilert's names should not have been included.

Authorities said this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order.

Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to include their names on the invitations.

The Weilerts also claim that their daughter and Mrs. Miller disregarded their wishes and instructions when they included the Weilerts' names on the invitations. They said the invitations gave the impression they were participating in inviting guests to the wedding.

The court order sought to require Miss Weilert and Mrs. Miller to notify "by letter or by news media" all people invited that the Weilerts' names should

Five Arrested In Costa Mesa Drug Seizure

Costa Mesa police capped a week-long undercover investigation Thursday with the arrest of five alleged drug dealers and the seizure of cocaine and methamphetamine with a combined street value of almost $28,000.

Wade, an unemployed construction worker, is in custody today on charges of sales of dangerous drugs. His bail is set at $25,000.

Also arrested was Steven Warren Price, 25, of 702 Shalimar Drive, Costa Mesa. He is being held on a $10,000 bond.

Last week, undercover agents from Costa Mesa and Huntington Beach Police closed in on a Redondo Beach home and confiscated one-quarter pound of cocaine valued at $25,000.

Arrested in the earlier incident were Jeffrey Alan Guilfoyle, 21, Diana Marie Dunnekle, 20, both of Redondo Beach, and John Robert Legerton, 22, of Seal Beach.

Machine Traps Worker

A UCI Medical Center amputation team was flown to the Superior Milk Company, 10581 Los Alamitos Boulevard, at 8:30 a.m. in an attempt to free Manuel Avila of Norwalk who had been caught in the bottle filler for almost one hour.

The helicopter from the U.S. Marine Corps El Toro Air Station landed on Los Alamitos Boulevard while police cleared traffic so that doctors could aid the stricken man.

Avila was reported in good condition and in excellent spirits after his ordeal, said dairy manager Jay Walker.

"His wife is expecting a baby and couldn't be notified for two hours because she doesn't speak much English," said Orange County Fire official Greg Lyons.

Walker said Avila's wrist became snagged in a conveyor belt as the employe was operating the machine near a conveyor belt.

Rescuers loosened a chain in the conveyor belt and eased Avila's bloodied wrist and hand from the apparatus, said Lyons.

"This is the first time I've ever seen this happen," said Walker. "He was in pain but stood up through the whole thing."

Labor Day Weekend

Countians Eye Summer Finale

Hundreds of thousands of Southern Californians trying to make the most of the last three-day weekend of the year began their Labor Day pilgrimages today.

The weather forecast abetted the holiday migration: Mostly sunny skies and air and water temperatures in the low 70s along the Orange County coast.

Mountain temperatures were in the mid to upper 70s, to nearly 90 degrees at California's campers' mecca, Yosemite National Park, where there's no room for anyone without a reservation.

State parks space has been reserved for a month.

The Orange County parks department reported it expected full, first-come, first-serve use of parks.

Local state parks superintendents said the best chance people have to find space this weekend is along the strands of Bolsa Chica and Huntington State beaches.

Predicted fogs and low morning and afternoon clouds — and stiff westerly winds — may discourage some sunbathers.

Water temperatures were unusually warm: 72 degrees at Huntington Beach, 74 degrees at San Clemente.

The California Highway Patrol reported it will be out in full force, arresting drunken or speeding drivers.

The Automobile Club of Southern California reported that regular gasoline will average 67.1 cents per gallon, premium 71.6 cents and unleaded 70 cents.

There are several local events of special interest, including an outdoor ballet in Laguna Beach's Irvine at 8:30 p.m. Saturday; the Orange international street fair today through Sunday, and a Long Beach speedboat regatta Monday.

Busy Holiday Weekend Eyed Along Beaches

If Labor Day weekend is here, windy winter can't be far behind and lifeguards along the lengthy Huntington Beach shoreline have predicted a busy three days with good surf and fine weather.

Sea water temperatures were listed at an average 71 degrees today, with a two to four-foot wave pattern expected to hold throughout the Labor Day period.

Lifeguards at Huntington State Beach and Bolsa Chica State Beach said they pulled 130 people out of the breakers Thursday.

Their colleagues at Huntington Beach's city strand, however, said they made only 26 rescues.

Surf in the area around the pier, which is their primary control area, generally breaks a bit easier than that on the open state beaches, depending on weather conditions.

Man Guilty Of Porno Mailings

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — After viewing magazines and a 10-minute movie showing teenaged boys in homosexual activity, a federal jury has convicted a San Francisco man of mailing obscene material.

The seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated 2½ hours Thursday before finding Vincent Proca guilty of all 13 counts.

U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel raised Proca's $10,000 bail to $100,000 and ordered him to jail until he posts the higher bond.

Brown Mulls Rum-soaked Sweets Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. must decide whether young people may have their cake and drink it, too.

On Thursday the Assembly sent a bill to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. that would outlaw the sale of small rum-soaked cakes and other liquored sweets to persons under 21.

The Assembly's 65-0 vote was on Senate amendments to AB 711 by Assemblywoman Leona Egeland, (D-San Jose).

The bill would affect sales of products weighing five ounces or less and containing more than 2 percent alcohol by weight.

Ms. Egeland said one commonly sold rum-soaked cake contains 6 percent alcohol, and seven of them contain as much alcohol as an ounce of an 80-proof liquor.

Pet Cougar Mauls Girl, 4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 4-year-old girl was in critical condition today, hospital officials said, after a pet cougar broke loose from its chain and gnawed the child around her head, neck and face.

Sharon Newt, daughter of Ron and Lynn Newt, was taken to San Francisco General Hospital after the mauling Thursday afternoon.

Four of five rifle shots fired by Darryl Bowman, the girl's uncle, downed the cougar called Mr. Hiss. Neighbors heard the child's screams from the uncle's backyard where the animal was kept.

"People are more afraid of the wind than the water," Flores said.

Mayor Leonel Tavares said the drought of recent months would help keep floods to a minimum.

Anita, first hurricane of the season, initially aimed its punch at the lower Texas coast, but veered south Thursday morning and drifted into northeastern Mexico, as South Texas sighed with relief.

In Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Tex., nearly 8,000 people had been taken to shelters. Officials said today most of them were returning to their homes and there appeared to be little danger of flooding.

"We were very, very lucky," said Brownsville meteorologist Al Dreumont, "torrential rains and excessive winds missed us by only 25 miles."

The National Weather Service said that the primary concern was a serious threat of flash floodings in northeastern Mexico as rains of more than eight inches fell in the area.

After the jury returned its verdict reached in 12 hours deliberation, the neatly dressed defendant left the courtroom with a coat over her head as she was taken by bailiffs back to jail.

Judge Donald Constine set a Sept. 21 sentencing date.

Defense attorney Clifford Gould had argued during the trial that his client was a submissive, confused woman who lacked the psychological makeup to plan to murder her son. He said Ms. Ellenburg turned over discipline of her son to her boyfriend and had not noticed the boy's deterioration.

Gould also contended that the boy's death had been caused by a hospital diagnostic procedure during the weeks the child lay in a coma.

The jurors had a choice of possible verdicts of innocent, guilty of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, or of first-degree or second-degree murder.

Sex Survey Ban Upheld

NEW YORK (AP) — The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that school officials had a right to ban a sex survey by a student publication at New York's Stuyvesant High School.

In a 2-1 decision, the court Thursday held a questionnaire about sex attitudes and experience might have led to "emotional disturbance" for some of the students, hence the ban did not violate constitutional rights.

All three judges found fault with the decision Dec. 16 by U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley.

BURLINGAME (AP) — There is little likelihood of a high magnitude earthquake on the fault nearest the proposed San Joaquin Nuclear Project in Central California, federal advisory committees were told today.

Studies so far have focused on the impact of a quake reaching 7.0 on the Richter scale on the Pond Poso Creek fault, officials said.

However, government and utility experts said the Pond Poso fault, which reaches to within 11 miles of the site in the southern San Joaquin Valley, is relatively motion-free.

MARINE PRIVATE WILLIAM McCLURE JR. (SECOND FROM LEFT) IN BOOT CAMP

Another McClure Joins

Pugil Stick Victim's Nephew in Training

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Another Private McClure from Texas is training to be a Marine at the recruit depot where his 20-year-old uncle was beaten unconscious — dying later — under the eye of drill sergeants.

The death of Pvt. Lynn E. McClure of Lufkin, Tex., in a veterans hospital in Houston set off a nationwide furor over military training.

BUT WILLIAM McCLURE JR. doesn't like to talk about the December, 1975, incident that led to his uncle's death four months later.

His uncle asked for trouble, the 18-year-old Lynn suggested in an interview.

He "wasn't mentally unbalanced, but he was slow at doing things. If he didn't have to do it, he didn't want to do it."

He was injured during a drill using pugil sticks, padded sticks used to teach close combat. He lapsed into a coma and never regained consciousness.

MARINE ENLISTMENT POLICIES were later tightened after it was disclosed that McClure was an abnormally slow learner who had a record of minor police scrapes before he signed up.

Marine officials were ordered to closely check drill sergeants and to report any abuses. Three drill sergeants and three other officers who supervised McClure's unit were court-martialed or reprimanded and a colonel was reassigned.

A $21 million wongful death suit filed by McClure's family was dismissed last May when a federal court in nearby San Diego ruled that the federal government was immune from prosecution.

WILLIAM McCLURE SAID HE met his uncle 10 years ago during a visit to his older brother's home. William said he "didn't get along" with his uncle and saw him only occasionally in the years since.

His uncle's death had nothing to do with his decision to enlist, said William, a dark-haired, slightly built youth.

In his basic training, Lynn is undergoing the same pugil stick training that resulted in his uncle's death.

Dutch to Float Brothel?

Prostitutes May Do Business on Ship

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — City officials are considering a plan to put Rotterdam's prostitutes aboard a floating brothel in an abandoned area of the local docks.

Mayor Andre van der Louw and three members of the City Council are going to Denmark today to look over a 400-bed hotel ship that might be for sale.

A campaign to confine the city's estimated 700 prostitutes to a secluded part of the city started in 1974 when the two main red light districts began spreading into residential districts.

The ship plan will be presented to the City Council on Oct. 13, and City Hall sources say approval is expected.

"The sooner it gets going the better," one streetwalker told a reporter who asked what the ladies of the evening think of the idea.

Rotterdam's brothel owners — not the city government — would buy the ship. Rechristened "Eros Center," it would be moored alongside the old port administration building and have a restaurant and bar.

Officials said the government is prepared to sell the building to the brothel owners and will help them find a reasonably priced, second-hand ship.

"Of course, we would have nothing to do with the running of such a scheme once it is set up," said the spokeswoman for the city government, Toos de Jong.

Prostitution is illegal in Holland, but the authorities have tolerated it for many years. Prostitutes are rarely prosecuted. The city has more than 60 brothels, many of which advertise in the newspapers. Brothel owners usually are prosecuted only when they employ girls under the age of 18.

The floating brothel is expected to accommodate many but not all of the prostitutes in Rotterdam, one of Europe's major ports. But authorities have said if the plan goes through, the police will crack down on prostitutes and brothels that don't cooperate.

Miss de Jong said it is not known how much the scheme would cost, but the brothel owners are already raising money. She said they are negotiating with catering companies that have indicated they are willing to finance the bar and restaurant.

"It all looks quite positive at the moment and I think it will be operating within a couple of years," Miss de Jong said.

Witnesses said bathers ran out of the surf without panic.

'Big, Nasty' Anita on Tear

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, "big and nasty" and packing 155 mile-per-hour winds, veered away from Texas and roared across the marshy, thinly populated Mexican coastal plain north of here today, tearing up fishing villages and picking up wallop as it moved inland.

"There is surely damage and there probably are casualties, but we have no reports of what they are for the time being," said a spokesman for the military units coordinating disaster relief. "Let's hope there are not too many."

The army evacuated 35,000 people from villages along a 240-mile stretch of coast from Tampico north to Matamoros, just south of the border city of Brownsville, Tex.

Anita, spawned in the Gulf of Mexico, had been headed toward Brownsville Thursday but suddenly turned sharply southwest overnight and slammed ashore at 4 a.m. at La Pesca, a fishing village about 150 miles south of the border.

The heaviest winds and torrential rains came no closer than 25 miles to Brownsville, which reported 45-m.p.h. winds and moderate rain.

It was reported that the storm's winds fell to 100 m.p.h. after its landfall, but Mexican meteorologists later said Anita was picking up more punch as it sucked hot air from the nearby Gulf.

"It may get worse before it gets better," said one Mexican meteorologist.

He said the Tamaulipas state capital of Ciudad Victoria, a city of 20,000, might be hit.

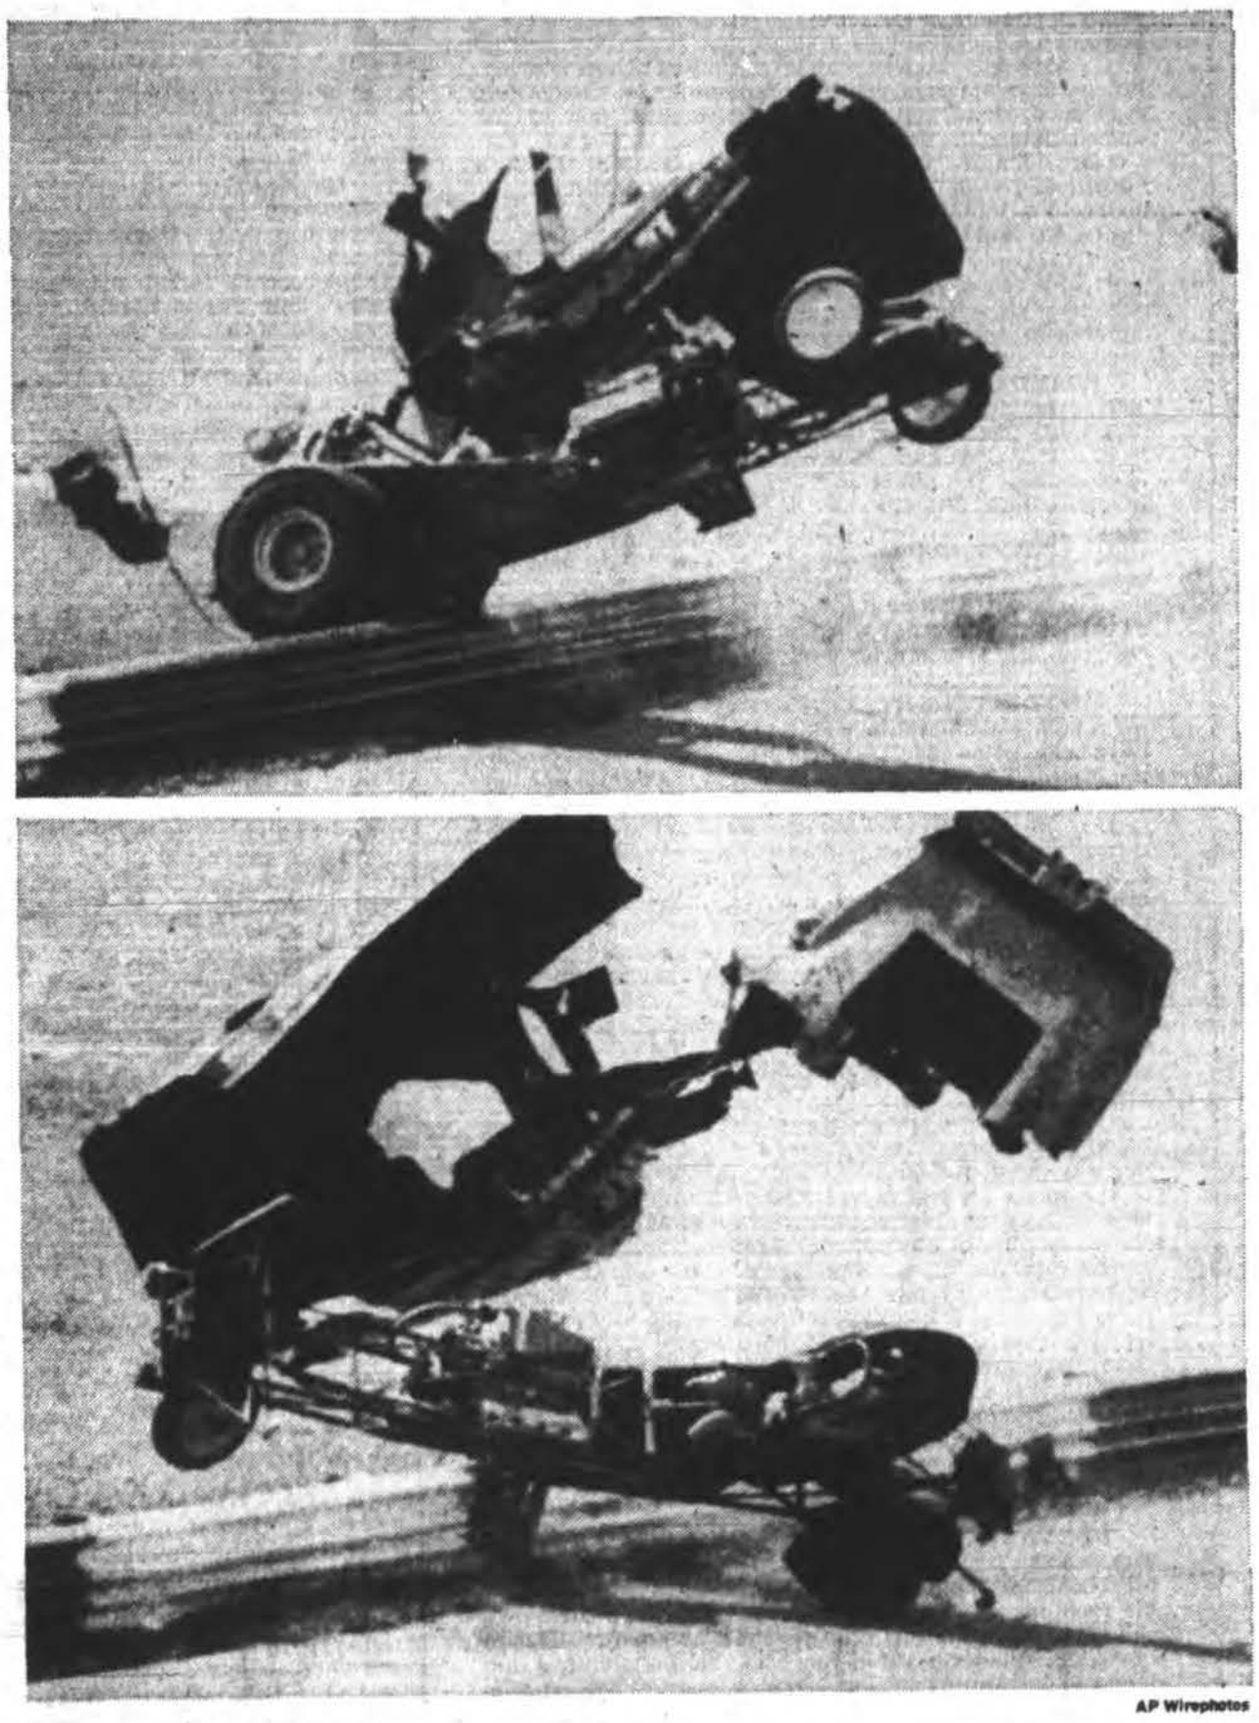

The storm was headed toward the Sierra Madre Oriental mountain range, where it was expected to spend itself.

Some caretakers and soldiers stayed behind in La Pesca, but most of its 1,500 residents were evacuated inland 30 miles to Soto la Marina, a town of 2,500, on Thursday.

Soto la Marina was hit a short time after La Pesca, and its electric power was quickly knocked out.

"We are huddled here in the municipal building waiting for the storm to pass," Leonel Tavares, mayor of Soto la Marina, said by telephone. "I see right through the window now the wind ripping off rooftops and blowing them away like paper, and uprooting trees."

Tavares said he believed damage was severe in Soto la Marina and La Pesca, which were also badly damaged by Hurricane Ella in 1970, and in the two nearby villages of Aldama and Vista Hermosa.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK
Senator Goldwater

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, the world is a rather gloomy place.

"I hate to paint such a dark picture," he told a group of community leaders today in Newport Beach, "but that's the way it is."

The Arizona Republican, who has been vacationing in Newport Beach, was the guest speaker at a small breakfast meeting held at the Newport Habrbor Area Chamber of Commerce which was attended by business leaders, city officials and aides to the area's legislators.

In the informal 90-minute session, the senator touched on a variety of domestic and foreign affairs issues which he prefaced by noting that "the old saying that the world's getting smaller is true. It's also getting meaner."

He explained that more of the world's population is living under repressive governments than did so 10 years ago.

Here's a look at some of the conservative politician's views:

—Socialization: Unless Carter is successful in turning the beauracracy around and halting the proliferation of governmental agencies and regulations, we will be a socialized country five years from now, 10 years at the most."

—Diplomacy: "We seem bent on losing what allies we have left. Perhaps one way to solve the problem would be to get Andrew Young out of South Africa and give him a nice, quiet job in Georgia somewhere."

—Panama Canal Treaty: "No one in Washington that I know of has seen the whole treaty — all the pages. Four or five months ago, it wasn't a bad sounding treaty, but I keep hearing new versions. "President Carter called me last week and asked me to endorse it and I told him I couldn't until I see all the dots and commas that are in the final document."

Goldwater said he doubts Congress will consider the (See GLOOMY, Page A2)

2nd-degree Murder

SF Mother Guilty Of Starving Son

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court jury has found a San Francisco waitress guilty in the starvation death of her 11-year-old son. The waitress, Shirley Ellenburg, was found guilty of second-degree murder Thursday after a six-week trial.

The trial had been marked by the defendant's testimony as she struggled through tears to explain her relationship with her boyfriend and son, Gary,. who died Feb. 11.

The child, weighing 44 pounds, had been taken to San Francisco General Hospital Jan. 28 in a coma. Doctors said he died two weeks later of starvation and pneumonia.

Ms. Ellenburg, was charged with murder after she and her boyfriend, Charley Nakas, told police the boy had to be handcuffed in the bathroom to prevent him from running away.

Nakao faces charges in a separate trial.

After the jury returned its verdict reached in 12 hours deliberation, the neatly dressed defendant left the courtroom with a coat over her head as she was taken by bailiffs back to jail.

Judge Donald Constine set a Sept. 21 sentencing date.

Defense attorney Clifford Gould had argued during the trial that his client was a submissive, confused woman who lacked the psychological makeup to plan to murder her son. He said Ms. Ellenburg turned over discipline of her son to her boyfriend and had not noticed the boy's deterioration.

Gould also contended that the boy's death had been caused by a hospital diagnostic procedure during the weeks the child lay in a coma.

The jurors had a choice of possible verdicts of innocent, guilty of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, or of first-degree or second-degree murder.

'Big, Nasty' Anita on Tear

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, "big and nasty" and packing 155 mile-per-hour winds, veered away from Texas and roared across the marshy, thinly populated Mexican coastal plain north of here today, tearing up fishing villages and picking up wallop as it moved inland.

"There is surely damage and there probably are casualties, but we have no reports of what they are for the time being," said a spokesman for the military units coordinating disaster relief. "Let's hope there are not too many."

The army evacuated 35,000 people from villages along a 240-mile stretch of coast from Tampico north to Matamoros, just south of the border city of Brownsville, Tex.

Anita, spawned in the Gulf of Mexico, had been headed toward Brownsville Thursday but suddenly turned sharply southwest overnight and slammed ashore at 4 a.m. at La Pesca, a fishing village about 150 miles south of the border.

The heaviest winds and torrential rains came no closer than 25 miles to Brownsville, which reported 45-m.p.h. winds and moderate rain.

It was reported that the storm's winds fell to 100 m.p.h. after its landfall, but Mexican meteorologists later said Anita was picking up more punch as it sucked hot air from the nearby Gulf.

"It may get worse before it gets better," said one Mexican meteorologist.

He said the Tamaulipas state capital of Ciudad Victoria, a city of 20,000, might be hit.

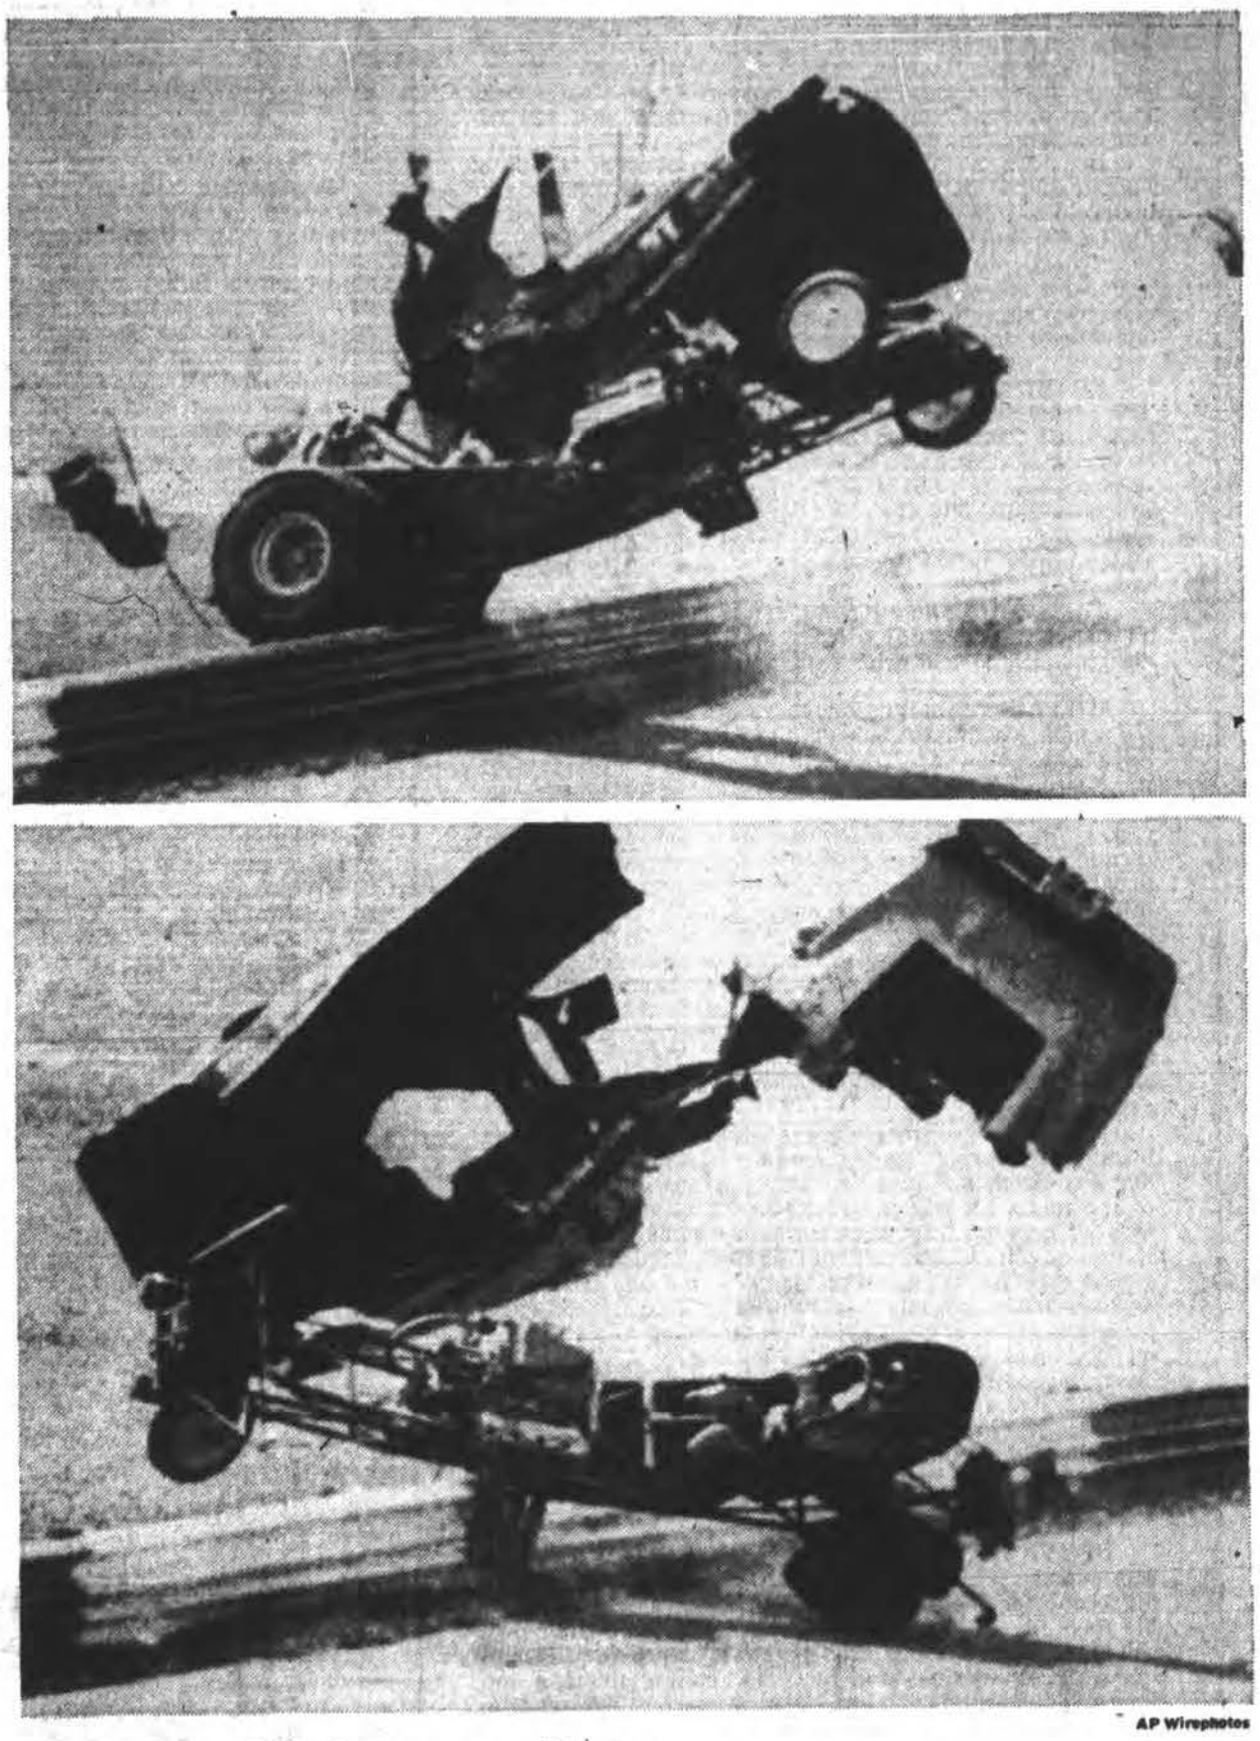

The storm was headed toward the Sierra Madre Oriental mountain range, where it was expected to spend itself.

Some caretakers and soldiers stayed behind in La Pesca, but most of its 1,500 residents were evacuated inland 30 miles to Soto la Marina, a town of 2,500, on Thursday.

Soto la Marina was hit a short time after La Pesca, and its electric power was quickly knocked out.

"We are huddled here in the municipal building waiting for the storm to pass," Leonel Tavares, mayor of Soto la Marina, said by telephone. "I see right through the window now the wind ripping off rooftops and blowing them away like paper, and uprooting trees."

Tavares said he belteved damage was severe in Soto la Marina and La Pesca, which were also badly damaged by Hurricane Ella in 1970, and in the two nearby villages of Aldama and Vista Hermosa.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK
Senator Goldwater

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, the world is a rather gloomy place.

"I hate to paint such a dark picture," he told a group of community leaders today in Newport Beach, "but that's the way it is."

The Arizona Republican, who has been vacationing in Newport Beach, was the guest speaker at a small breakfast meeting held at the Newport Habrbor Area Chamber of Commerce which was attended by business leaders, city officials and aides to the area's legislators.

In the informal 90-minute session, the senator touched on a variety of domestic and foreign affairs issues which he prefaced by noting that "the old saying that the world's getting smaller is true. It's also getting meaner."

He explained that more of the world's population is living under repressive governments than did so 10 years ago.

Here's a look at some of the conservative politician's views:

—Socialization: Unless Carter is successful in turning the beauracracy around and halting the proliferation of governmental agencies and regulations, we will be a socialized country five years from now, 10 years at the most."

—Diplomacy: "We seem bent on losing what allies we have left. Perhaps one way to solve the problem would be to get Andrew Young out of South Africa and give him a nice, quiet job in Georgia somewhere."

—Panama Canal Treaty: "No one in Washington that I know of has seen the whole treaty — all the pages. Four or five months ago, it wasn't a bad sounding treaty, but I keep hearing new versions. "President Carter called me last week and asked me to endorse it and I told him I couldn't until I see all the dots and commas that are in the final document."

Goldwater said he doubts Congress will consider the

MARGATE, N.J. (AP) — Hundreds of bathers were ordered out of the surf here when a wounded seven-foot shark surfaced within five feet of a teenage girl, lifeguards said.

"I didn't see anything and I was wondering what it was," she said.

An Enquirer spokesman said Thursday about six million copies of the paper were sold, compared to an average weekly circulation of about five million.

Enquirer President Ian Calder said the photo was "a super photo" but refused to say how it was taken. Cameras were not allowed in the room where the singer's body was on display.

$28,000 in Drugs Seized

Mesa Police Arrest Five Dealer Suspects

Costa Mesa police capped a week-long undercover investigation Thursday with the arrest of five alleged drug dealers and the seizure of cocaine and methamphetamine with a combined street value of almost $28,000.

Wade, an unemployed construction worker, is in custody today on charges of sales of dangerous drugs. His bail is set at $25,000.

Also arrested was Steven Warren Price, 25, of 702 Shalimar Drive, Costa Mesa. He is being held on a $10,000 bond.

Last week, undercover agents from Costa Mesa and Huntington Beach Police closed in on a Redondo Beach home and confiscated one-quarter pound of cocaine valued at $25,000.

Arrested in the earlier incident were Jeffrey Alan Guilfoyle, 21, Diana Marie Dunnekle, 20, both of Redondo Beach, and John Robert Legerton, 22, of Seal Beach.

Costa Mesa narcotics investigator Sgt. Gary Webster said the trio are being held on charges of possession of dangerous drugs for sale.

Sergeant Webster said the Thursday raid in Costa Mesa was "unusual" since relatively pure methamphetamine (better known as speed) is quite rare.

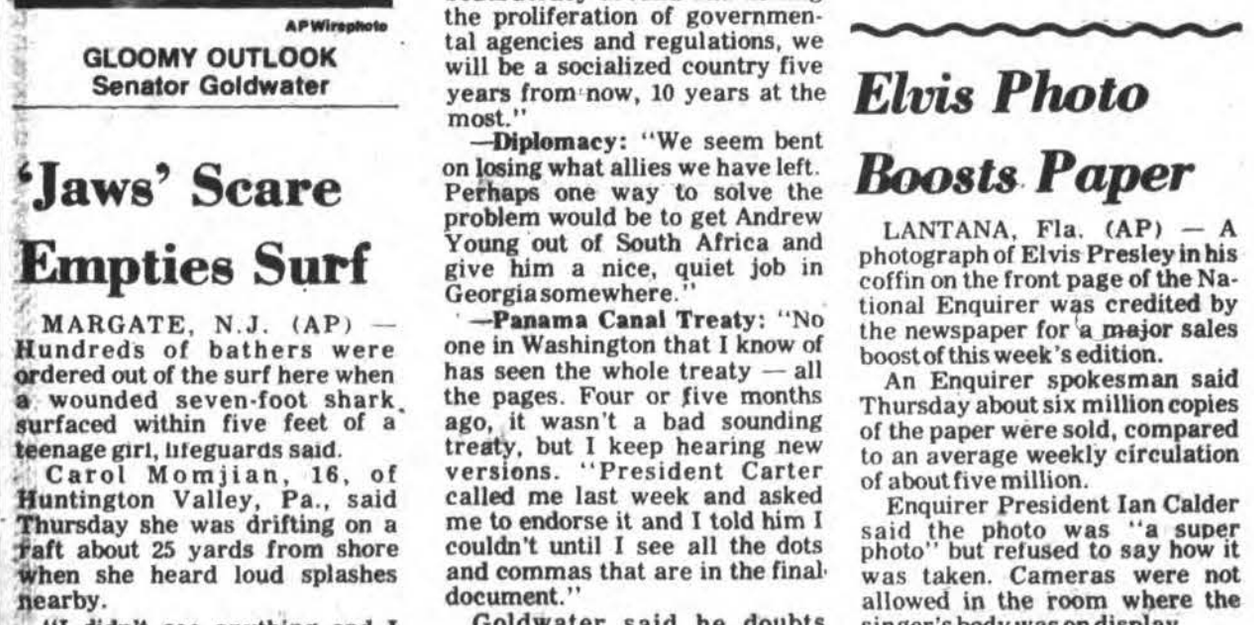

Webster said the flow of the powerful stimulant can be traced to outlaw motorcycle gangs.

Undercover agents closed in on the Wade residence shortly before noon Thursday and allegedly purchased a plastic bag containing the powdered substance. Wade was taken into custody and police later arrested Steven Price.

A third suspect, Michael Ray Price of Costa Mesa, was arrested but later released.

Sgt. Webster said police held off announcement of the Redondo Beach cocaine arrests until the

2nd-degree Murder

SF Mother Guilty Of Starving Son

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court jury has found a San Francisco waitress guilty in the starvation death of her 11-year-old son. The waitress, Shirley Ellenburg, was found guilty of second-degree murder Thursday after a six-week trial.

The trial had been marked by the defendant's testimony as she struggled through tears to explain her relationship with her boyfriend and son, Gary, who died Feb. 11.

The child, weighing 44 pounds, had been taken to San Francisco General Hospital Jan. 28 in a coma. Doctors said he died two weeks later of starvation and pneumonia.

Ms. Ellenburg, was charged with murder after she and her boyfriend, Charley Nakas, told police the boy had to be handcuffed in the bathroom to prevent him from running away.

Nakao faces charges in a separate trial.

After the jury returned its verdict reached in 12 hours deliberation, the neatly dressed defendant left the courtroom with a coat over her head as she was taken by bailiffs back to jail.

Information About...

Your Schools

Newport-Mesa Unified School District

(CLIP AND SAVE FOR YOUR DISTRICT)

ABOUT THE DISTRICT: Kindergarten-12 grade children residing in the cities of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa and adjacent county areas such as Santa Ana Heights are educated by the Newport-Mesa Unified School District. When school opens on Monday, September 12, about 24,000 students are expected, down slightly from last year's 24,551 and continuing the downward trend.

Dr. John W. Nicoll, district superintendent, heads a certificated staff of about 1,260 teachers, psychologists, counselors and administrators, and a classified support staff of 600 (full time equivalent).

"We go into a new year with many uncertainties having to do with school finance," Nicoll said. "But I have every reason to expect the 1977-78 school year to be a continuance of our efforts to maintain a superior educational program."

BOARD OF EDUCATION — CURRENT CONCERNS: The seven-member board of education meets the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month at 7:30 p.m. President Roderick MacMillian pointed out that the board is concerned about the effect of rising property taxes. "We've made continual efforts to hold down spending," MacMillian said. "This year we decreased the tax rate by 16.2 percent, which almost offset the 18.8 percent increase in assessed value."

The board of education has appointed Mrs. B.J. Skilling as trustee of Area 3. She will assume the seat vacated by the resignation of Mrs. Marian Bergeson.

WHAT IS TAUGHT: Specific graduation requirements for reading, computational skills (math), and composition have been reviewed by high school staffs. When accepted by the Board of Education, they will form the minimum standards students must meet to graduate, starting in 1981. All district 7th and 9th graders will be tested this fall to determine if they're making satisfactory progress in these areas. Students will be encouraged to progress beyond these minimums to the limits of their capabilities. They'll still need to complete 200 units of work before graduation. Minimum requirements in the areas of language systems, math systems, thinking, science, social studies, speaking and listening are being reviewed this fall by school staffs.

The primary reading program, a supplement to the district-wide program, provides extra funds for special help to strengthen reading skills for those children who need it in grades 1-3.

A new, comprehensive health education curriculum has been written for grades 5-12, and the K-4 curriculum is under way. Students' questions and concerns provided much of the material, which will also counter misinformation they've been getting elsewhere, according to Dr. Mary Kruse, director of instructional services. Topics such as environmental health, nutrition, and drug use and misuse are systematically developed as children become more mature. Stressing personal health practices, it includes information on noise levels and their effect on hearing, prevention of disease, and community agencies which handle such problems as child abuse. The curriculum is available for public inspection: just call 556-3515.

Adult Education classes serve local residents who want to learn English, upgrade basic skills, or get a high school diploma. Call 556-3302 for information.

SERVICES FOR SPECIAL STUDENTS: Newport-Mesa conducts special programs at all grade levels and in all schools for about 2,000 mentally gifted students. Trainable mentally retarded children aged 3-21 have their own school, Marion Parsons. The district also provides special classes and services for physical, communication and learning disabilities and specialists at every school who develop individual programs for students who need them.

CAREER/VOCATIONAL EDUCATION: This fall the N-MUSD, OCC, the Costa Mesa and Newport Beach Area Chambers of Commerce and the Greater Irvine Industrial League are jointly sponsoring Career Week 1977, October 24-28. Purpose is to give students (and the public) a comprehensive look at the businesses and services which form their community, and show them job opportunities and careers open to them.

During Career Week, employers and craftsmen will go into the classroom and discuss the skills and training their jobs require; local businesses will hold Open House; and a two-day Career Fair will be held at both South Coast Plaza and Fashion Island on October 26 & 27, 11-4:30, to which students will be bussed.

"We think this is a fine opportunity to teach students about our economic system," said Don Achziger, coordinator, career education. For more information, call him at 556-3303.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT OPPORTUNITIES: The school system seeks and receives community input at many levels, including such districtwide groups as the Citizens Budget Committee, Career Advisory Committee and the Graduation Requirements Committee. Residents of the Corona del Mar High School Zone have formed an areawide committee meeting monthly, and parent advisory groups serve individual schools. All schools welcome parent and community volunteers, several hundred of whom participate in the classroom and in Early Childhood Education, bilingual and other programs.

SCHOOL LUNCHES: All schools serve a complete and nutritious hot lunch at 45 cents for elementary students, 50 cents for middle school students, and 60 cents for high school students. Middle and high schools also have a la carte lunches available; and students can get a hot breakfast at all high schools and several middle and elementary schools.

A special lunch program for senior citizens is entering its third year. Any retired resident aged 55-up is eligible for this hot meal, complete with beverage, for 85 cents. Beginning Wednesday, September 7, it will be served every school day at 12:45 at Pomona Elementary, Pomona and Hamilton Streets, Costa Mesa.

TRANSPORTATION: Bus transportation is provided children Kindergarten through Grade 3 who live more than a mile from school, for upper elementary more than 1¼ miles, for middle school more than 1½ miles and for high school more than 2 miles. Bus schedules are available at the individual schools.

NEW IN DISTRICT? HOW TO ENROLL: All schools are now open for registration. Student Services, 556-3284, can tell you which school your child will attend. Your kindergartner (or any first grader who hasn't attended school) will need proof of age and that he/she has had state-required immunizations.

Planners OK New Sign Law

With concurrence of the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce, members of the Newport Beach Planning Commission approved a new sign ordinance Thursday, limiting the numbers and sizes of signs to be allowed in the city.

The measure will have to be approved by the city council before it takes effect. Two previous efforts to enact stricter sign controls failed to pass the council in the last three years because of chamber opposition.

The ordinance approved by commissioners Thursday calls for a half dozen changes in the existing city sign controls:

—IT LIMITS EACH building to one perpendicular sign which can be a roof sign, a projecting sign or a free standing sign.

—IT CUTS FROM a 30-foot height limit to a 15-foot height limit roof signs while maintaining the existing 200 square foot maximum size of roof signs.

—IT LIMITS WALL signs to three per building frontage. No limit on numbers of wall signs currently exists. The height is limited to the height of the building with area set at 40 percent of the frontage or 200 square feet as the maximum.

—REAL ESTATE SIGNS in residential neighborhoods will be allowed to increase in size two square feet to three. Instead of being limited to listing property for sale by owner, the signs can list property for sale by agents. However, the signs cannot list the agent's name, only the address and the telephone number.

—REAL ESTATE SIGNS in R-4 neighborhoods or on commercial and industrial property will be limited to 12 square feet and can only list the owner's name, address and phone number or the fact the property is for sale by an agent and the agent's address and phone number.

—THE NEW ORDINANCE also carries a maintenance clause which requires businessmen to maintain their signs or to remove them when the business no longer offers the service advertised in the sign.

—A GRANDFATHER CLAUSE carried in the new ordinance calls for all signs existing at the time it goes into effect to be listed as legal, nonconforming signs. It provides that those signs can be removed and then replaced for repair, for the remodeling of the building or even for the change in name of the owner of the business without having to conform to the new regulations.

Thieves Hit Warehouse

Burglars using a pry tool to enter a Costa Mesa warehouse took office equipment and tools valued at $2,766 early Thursday, police reported.

The loss was reported by an employe at Bismac International Warehouse, 1355 Warehouse Road, Costa Mesa.

Police said the burglars also broke into three company trucks during the heist. Police are attempting to locate the owner of a white van that was spotted near the scene early Thursday.

Man Guilty Of Porno Mailings

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — After viewing magazines and a 10-minute movie showing teenaged boys in homosexual activity, a federal jury has convicted a San Francisco man of mailing obscene material.

The seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated 2½ hours Thursday before finding Vincent Proca guilty of all 13 counts.

U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel raised Proca's $10,000 bail to $100,000 and ordered him to jail until he posts the higher bond.

—Political Scandals: Citing the recent political scandals in Maryland, Washington D.C. and Orange County, he said that he feels it is neither new nor unusual, that a small amount of that kind of behavior goes on in all walks of life. "I don't think there's as much to Korean bribery scandal as you read in the papers."

—Defense: He praised Carter for his policy of increasing defense spending, but added, "I hope I'm wrong, but I have the feeling that all of our presidents since Eisenhower have had a policy of 'don't fight unless you're attacked and even then hold off on fighting.'

"My personal feeling is that it would take another Pearl Harbor to get this country mad enough to fight anyone."

—Energy: "We can't solve the energy problem until we make it attractive through tax breaks for people to drill holes in the ground and find new supplies. We've got some alternate energy sources in the offing, but until they come along, we'll have to do what we can with what we've got."

—The GOP: "If the Republican Party would take up the battle cry of inflation and what it does to the income of working Americans, then I think we could do quite well. If we try to outpromise the other party, we're just going to get into more trouble."

Presley Plot

Suspect Denies Plans a Hoax

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A man who told police of a plot to steal Elvis Presley's body for $10 million ransom says he and two other men were offered $40,000 to remove the body from its tomb.

Ronnie Lee Adkins said Thursday in an interview that another man was to hold the body until the Presley family paid the $10 million.

Some police officials have said privately the affair was a hoax, but Adkins denied this.

Adkins was one of three men arrested Monday near Forest Hill Cemetery, where the rock 'n' roll singer was entombed following his death from a heart attack last month. The Presley mausoleum had been staked out by officers on a tip from Adkins that the body would be stolen and ransomed. Adkins and the others were charged with trespassing. Police said they found no explosives or burglary tools.

Later, Police Director E. Winslow Chapman said Adkins was a police informant and he was recommending that the charge against him be dropped.

A repliminary hearing for Adkins, Raymond M. Green, 25, and Bruce Eugene Nelson, 30, was postponed Tuesday until Oct. 4.

Jay Fred Friedman, attorney for Green and Nelson, has suggested that his clients were themselves unwitting victims of a plot. He said his clients were not at the cemetery to steal the body.

Adkins said he was recruited to help steal Presley's body from the Memphis funeral home before it was moved to the entertainer's mansion for funeral services.

Beaches Brace For Holiday Fun Seekers

Hundreds of thousands of Southern Californians trying to make the most of the last three-day weekend of the year began their Labor Day pilgrimages today.

The weather forecast abetted the holiday migration: Mostly sunny skies and air and water temperatures in the low 70s along the Orange County coast.

Mountain temperatures were in the mid to upper 70s, to nearly 90 degrees at California's campers' mecca, Yosemite National Park, where there's no room for anyone without a reservation.

State parks space has been reserved for a month.

The Orange County parks department reported it expected full, first-come, first-serve use of parks.

Local state parks superintendents said the best chance people have to find space this weekend is along the strands of Bolsa Chica and Huntington State beaches.

Predicted fogs and low morning and afternoon clouds — and stiff westerly winds — may discourage some sunbathers.

Thief Gets Boat At Dana harbor

Deputies said the 31-foot, blue and white vessel is owned by the Bank of America, 3444 Via Lido, Newport Beach. They refused to identify two suspects they are seeking in connection with the theft.

Parents Sue Over Wedding

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations.

But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilert's names should not have been included.

Authorities said this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order.

Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to include their names on the invitations.

The Weilerts also claim that their daughter and Mrs. Miller disregarded their wishes and instructions when they included the Weilerts' names on the invitations. They said the invitations gave the impression they were participating in inviting guests to the wedding.

The court order sought to require Miss Weilert and Mrs. Miller to notify "by letter or by news media" all people invited that the Weilerts' names should not be included on the invitation.

And the suit seeks in excess of $10,000 for the bride's parents for alleged mental pain and anguish.

Mrs. Weilert has refused comment on the suit, calling it a family matter.

MONDAY TRASH PICKUP NIXED

Newport Beach residents whose trash is normally collected on Mondays will have to wait until next Thursday for a pick up because the city's trash crews will be taking a rest on Labor Day.

According to General Services Director Jake Mynderse, there will only be one pickup next week in the areas of the city that normally have their trash collected on Mondays and Thursdays.

Legal Hassle Touched Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A judge has canceled an Episcopal congregation's vote over withdrawing from the national church in protest against the ordination of women as priests. And that is touching off a legal hassle over the separation of church and state.

The priest of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who wants the congregation to secede, says he is "flabbergasted" that the court would intervene. An earlier vote on the issue ended in a tie. But a church warden, who doesn't want to secede, says church property — not just religious doctrine — is involved. He cited that as a reason for bringing the case to court.

OC Panels Clash on Campaign Funds

Orange County's five supervisors aren't so certain the 1976-77 Grand Jury's enthusiasm for limiting the size of campaign contributions to elected county officials.

In its closing report, last year's Grand Jury suggested that elected officials be prohibited from voting on issues affecting major donors' financial well being.

That voting restriction should be applied to political donors who give $250 or more and should be in force for four years, the jury said.

In their written response to the '76-77 Grand Jury's recommendation, supervisors said the proposed campaign donor voting restriction "might have legal complications."

"Included (among the legal complications) could be a question of the Board of Supervisors' legal right to determine voting eligibility of an elected official," supervisors said.

"In addition, the (Grand Jury) recommendation addresses only the position of incumbents. So, it might well not accomplish, in its present form, the goals of the Grand Jury," supervisors added in their less than enthusiastic response to the jury's campaign contribution limitation proposal.

But their reply stopped short of outright rejection of the suggested.

It ended with a commitment to give the vote restriction recommendation "legal review and a study of just what it would accomplish."

Supervisors also said they "will take into consideration" a Grand Jury recommendation that the county's lobbyist ordinance be strengthened to a point that would all but do away with lobbyists.

It was the jury's suggestion that the ordinance be amended to prohibit lobbyists from:

— Making campaign contributions or acting as intermediaries for others who make contributions.

— Doing "anything" for the purpose of placing a county official under personal obligation to the lobbyist.

— Accepting payment for services contingent on the outcome of an issue attracting legislative or administrative attention.

—Causing a legislative issue to be considered with the idea in mind of seeking a fee "to secure its passage or defeat."

As things stand now, lobbyists must register with the county, periodically report who they represent and how much they are paid as well as what they spend to promote their clients' interests.

Accepting the Grand Jury's recommendations for strengthening the lobbyist ordinance, therefore, would represent an attempt to regulate lobbyists' activities in addition to already requiring their public disclosure.

And promising to "take into consideration" was as far as supervisors were willing to go in their response to the Grand Jury's recommendations to control lobbyists' activities.

The 1976-77 Grand Jury's attention to political campaign contributions and lobbyist activities was the most extensive of any recent county jury.

It paralled an eight-month investigation into county political campaign practices that ended with the indictment of Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony on charges related to alleged violations of state campaign regulations.

Indicted along with the two county supervisors in an alleged campaign finance laundering scheme were Anaheim City Councilman William Kott and three Diedrich-Anthony political associates.

OC Clerk Takeover Mulled

Orange County supervisors are slated next week to decide whether to go to court to halt a move by the county's Superior Court judges to take over the court-related functions of County Clerk William St John.

Dennis Horn, an aide to supervisor chairman Thomas Riley said today the supervisors are discussing court action halting the move to give them time to answer "some complicated legal and constitutional questions."

Those questions were raised in an opinion supervisors sought at St John's request from County Counsel Adrian Kuyper.

Horn also noted that Riley, in a meeting Thursday with presiding Superior Court Judge Byron K. McMillan, discussed taking the matter to the Fourth District Court of Appeal and was reportedly told that the judges would not object to supervisors taking whatever action they felt appropriate.

Kuyper's opinion on the validity of the attempted takeover was requested last week by St John who called the judges' action unconstitutional.

That action was based on recent legislation that allows the Superior Court's executive officer to perform a county clerk's functions in matters affecting court operations.

According to some of those who attended the judges' closed meeting last week, the court clerk takeover was touched off by complaints about St John's management of the clerks.

Complaints about that administration centered around alleged failure to provide sufficient staffing as well as training of court clerks.

Simultaneously, the practice of court clerks "serving two masters," the judges and the county clerk, was challenged.

Generally, the move to assign the clerks to the courts was applauded by the clerks who privately echoed the judges' criticism of St John's management.

But St John, an elected official, insisted the judges' move was illegal and said he would go to a higher court to prove that point.

His first step in that direction was to ask Kuyper for a written opinion on the legality of the judges' takeover.

While county counsel admitted "the matter is not free from doubt," he went so far as to call the move "invalid."

In a memo Thursday to the five county supervisors, Kuyper compared the judges' attempted takeover with the Board of Supervisors ill-fated 1975 attempt to transfer 22 investigators from the District Attorney's Office to the Sheriff's Department.

In that case, two courts ruled the board could not order such a move under the guise of budget transfer.

"In this case," Kuyper said in his memo to the supervisors, "the court, in effect, is mandating a budget action, to wit: the transfer of positions from the budget unit of the Clerk of the Court (St John) to the budget unit of the courts."

Nixon Gives Views On Watergate Tape

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Nixon says in an interview that he believes Rosemary Woods' explanation for part of an 18½-minute gap in a crucial Watergate tape, according to British television personality David Frost.

"He obviously is not eager to get Rosemary Woods in trouble and so forth," Frost said Thursday.

The interview, the fifth in a series of televised discussions between Frost and the former President, will be broadcast in 60 cities starting Sunday and will be seen Monday in Los Angeles. (Channel 11, 7:30 p.m.)

Frost added that Nixon also explained why he never destroyed the incriminating tapes.

Miss Woods, Nixon's former personal secretary, has said she might have accidentally erased four or five minutes of taped conversation between Nixon and his White House chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, three days after the June 17, 1972, burglary at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate office complex.

She said the erasure may have happened when she answered a telephone while transcribing the tape.

But a panel of audio experts appointed by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica found there had been four to nine consecutive, manual erasures that could not have happened accidentally.

Asked whether Nixon confirmed Miss Woods' account, Frost said that to answer "yes" or "no" would be an oversimplification. It "would be a reasonable guess," he said, that Nixon "makes a spirited defense of Rosemary Woods."

Frost declined to detail Nixon's remarks, saying he had made "so many vague, implicit and explicit promises" to prevent a "leak" before reporters screen the program in Washington Saturday afternoon.

Frost said the 90-minute program opens with a discussion of why the former president hadn't burned the tapes. The tapes, released by a Supreme Court order in 1974, showed that Nixon lied in denying he tried to derail an FBI investigation. He resigned three days later, on Aug. 9.

Also in the upcoming interview, Frost said, the former president talks about the ill-fated nomination of G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

Frost said Nixon also discusses his philosophy of the news media's role in reporting national events, his impressions about Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai, his relationship with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and an "extraordinary story" about former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and his late wife, Martha.

Without elaborating, Frost said the program also contained "a couple of macabre anecdotes."

Supervisors Okay Airport Expansion

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A recommendation by the 1976-77 county Grand Jury that facilities at Orange County Airport (OAC) be expanded "to meet present traffic demand" has won Board of Supervisors endorsement.

The board's endorsement, which is not an endorsement of expanded air traffic at the airport, is included in supervisors' formal response to recommendations made by last year's Grand Jury.

In its year end report to the Board of Supervisors, the jury said both terminal and parking facilities at OAC should be expanded "to meet present traffic demand."

The Grand Jury also said additional tiedown spaces for private planes should be provided and that OAC's main runway should be extended 737 feet in a northerly direction.

"We agree with those recommendations," supervisors said in their written response to the jury.

However, supervisors added, no action on the recommended airport improvements can be taken until an environmental impact report is completed and accepted.

And acceptance of a controversial $300,000 airport study submitted by a private consultant early last spring won't come at the earliest until "sometime between Christmas and Easter."

It is in that 1977-78 holiday time frame that a revised edition of the costly airport report is expected to go before the county Planning Commission.

The original version of the report was sent back to the consultant for an overhaul when airport critics charged it was inadequate.

The alleged report shortcomings notwithstanding, supervisors said in their response to the Grand Jury they "concur that these recommendations are appropriate for the future development of Orange County Airport."

However, the Board of Supervisors did not concur with all the recommendations made by last year's Grand Jury in its final report.

The board, for example, rejected a jury suggestion that one attorney in the County Counsel's office be assigned the responsibility for researching and responding to Grand Jury inquiries.

"To assign one county counsel (attorney) to deal with the Grand Jury is not an effective way to expedite responses," the board said.

"The inquiries of the Grand Jury cover the entire scope of local government law and do lend themselves to specialization by one attorney," the board's response added.

Supervisors also rejected a jury recommendation that a signed certificate "attesting to the compliance or non-compliance of (zoning) applications with the (county's) general plan" accompany all applications that go before the Planning Commission.

"The proposal that a 'signed certificate' accompany the report implies false reports have been made. This implication is rejected," supervisors said as they rejected the certification recommendation.

Supervisors also rejected several Grand Jury recommendations related to a controversial county contract covering physical examinations for prospective county employes.

Two Car Dealers Face Fraud Charges

Two Midway City car dealers stand accused today of filing fraudulent smog certificates with the state's Department of Motor Vehicles.

Named as defendants in the Orange County Superior Court civil lawsuit filed Thursday by the district attorney's consumer fraud division are John T. Ward and Darrell E. Hanson, owners of Ward Hanson Motors, 8041 Bolsa Ave.

Deputy District Attorney Jack Ryan explained that the Ward Hanson firm was one of about 20 Orange County dealerships which allegedly employed an unlicensed inspector to check the vehicles he improperly certified.

Ryan identified the inspector as Merlin "Lucky" Chambers, 43, of Huntington Beach, who this week pleaded guilty to charges of forging smog certificates.

Chambers will be sentenced Sept. 23. He faces a possible county jail term and a $1,000 fine.

The lawsuit against Ward Hanson seeks an injunction which would compel the firm to recall every illegally certified vehicle and have them certified by an approved inspector.

The action additionally seeks a penalty of $2,500 for every proved violation of the state law governing smog devices.

Briggs Starts Gay Teacher Ban Petition

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State Sen. John Briggs has started a petition campaign to get a measure banning homosexual teachers onto next June's ballot.

Briggs, a Fullerton Republican seeking a gubernatorial nomination, predicted Thursday it would easily pass — with a big vote in San Francisco, despite that city's homosexual community.

He said he expects to get double the 312,404 signatures he needs by the Nov. 15 deadline.

In an interview, Briggs said he expected to spend $200,000 collecting signatures "strictly with California help," and did not expect singer Anita Bryant to take part in this stage of the campaign: "We have her wishes and her prayers, and that's all we've asked for."

Earlier this year, Briggs visited Miss Bryant in Miami and endorsed her successful campaign to repeal a local ordinance banning discrimination homosexuals.

GRAND FINALE: So now, ladies and gentlemen, we are staring into the final fadeout of Summer '77; the wonderous three days of the Labor Day weekend. Already the predictions on scope of the celebration are awesome.

California Highway Patrol spokesmen, for example, have suggested that everybody will be on the road. Those in the north state will be headed south and the people of our region are going north.

This will just about fill all available freeway lanes in both directions.

The CHP figures to add to that congestion. The patrol will have 100 officers out there among 'em along Orange County freeways alone.

VISITORS FROM the hot inland reaches are expected to jam our beachfronts for the last fling of summer. And herein, you have some people offering up some opposite prayers.

Consider the men and women of our various beach lifeguard services. They know they can't pray away the throngs. So at least they are offering prayerful hopes for nice, little docile surf lapping at the shoreline; free of riptides or jellyfish.

This will uncomplicate their tasks for the next three days. Big surf and riptides often hit our coastline right along with the final Labor Day crowds of the season.

Inlanders and heavy seas can be a melancholy combination for lifeguards. The overweight executive drops down for his last summer fling and it could become his last fling — period — if he gets buried beneath a breaker and goes down for the last time.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the prayer front, you have our local Orange Coast surfers. For most of them, school looms on the immediate horizon. They'd like to get just one more shot at some big surf before doors close them into the educational slammer for the next nine months.

BUT THE PACIFIC has so lived up to its name over the past three months that some surfers swear they've forgotten what a big wave even looks like.

Consider Laguna Beach, for example, where this is the time of year they hold a surfing contest that has become an Art Colony tradition. This will be the 23rd annual Brooks Street Surfing Classic. It will be, that is, if it ever comes off.

Traditionally, the Brooks Streets affair is scheduled in early August but not on a specific day. It waits until the surf off Brooks Street Beach rises to acceptable competitive levels. Then the contestants gather and away they go.

This year, the classic was scheduled for about Aug. 6. If you check your calendar, you will note that was almost one month ago. It hasn't happened yet. The surf has stubbornly refused to cooperate.

Sponsors of the event even hoked up a ceremony whereby they "sacrificed" some virgins to the ocean in an effort to induce heavy breakers.

So now we are into the Labor Day weekend where surfers are praying for some action and the lifeguards are hoping for easy seas.

Somebody will get his wish.

Future War

Army Studies Women's Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is conducting a major new study which could result in women serving under fire in a future war, officials say.

The study, the most detailed of its kind ever conducted by the Army, is aimed at establishing how women can fit best into the service structure and how many can be used effectively.

Army officials said Thursday there is no intention to change longstanding policy barring women from a direct combat role — as an infantry soldier, machine-gunner, or member of a tank crew. But they said they are looking at how women might serve in what they call a "combat environment."

AS THE OFFICIALS explained the concept, women eventually might be assigned to signal, military police, transportation, maintenance or medical units with a role in the battle zones.

Traditionally, women soldiers have been kept far to the rear in higher headquarters or hospitals, although women nurses sometimes have been exposed to shellfire in past wars.

Meanwhile, leaders of women's organizations appealed to Congress on Thursday for more jobs for women in the armed forces.

TESTIFYING before a Joint Economic Committee panel, they said expanding participation of women in the armed forces would result in greater military effectiveness.

One witness, retired Col. Mary A. Halaren, a former director of the Women's Army Corps, testified that WACs served in London during World War II Bombing raids. "No one ever asked for a transfer to a safe billet," she said.

"There are women, as well as men, who crack under stress, who cannot take pressure, but working with men and women over the last 50 years, both in and out of the Army, has convinced me that it is the individual and not the gender that determines a person's strength under pressure," she said.

The Army study is being carried out in several sections, with most of the results due for consideration next spring by Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Gen. Bernard Rogers, Army chief of staff.

One of the most important tests, involves about 200 women who will go into the field with units in Western Europe this month.

Nation's Jobless Rate Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate rose from 6.9 percent to 7.1 percent in August as climbing unemployment among blacks matched a post-World War II high, the government reported today.

In August, the Labor Department said, "the over-the-month increase in unemployment was concentrated among black workers," whose jobless rate rose from 13.2 percent to 14.5 percent. The August level matched the post-war high for blacks recorded during the recession in September 1975.

UNEMPLOYMENT among blacks has been traditionally higher than for whites, whose jobless rate was unchanged last month at 6.1 percent.

Overall joblessness has hovered at about 7 percent of the work force since April, showing little month-to-month change after dropping steadily from its 1976 high of 8 percent last November.

Economists say economic growth has slowed following a sharp expansion earlier in the year, and this means fewer jobs are being created to meet the needs of the growing labor force.

"THE RATIO of black-to-white jobless rates continued its recent updrift to the unusually high level of 2.4 to 1 in August," the Labor Department said.

The rise in black unemployment comes at a time that civil rights and labor leaders have been increasingly criticizing the Carter administration programs for easing unemployment. Earlier this week, the government released figures showing joblessness among black youth, age 16 to 21, reached the highest summertime rate ever recorded — 34.8 percent.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said today in his annual Labor Day message that President Carter's job-creating programs were nothing more than "Band-aids" and that they would do little to solve the basic unemployment problem.

Commissioner of Labor Statistics Julius Shiskin told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that the August job figures were consistent with declines in the government's index of economic indicators and retail sales, and reflected the sluggishness in economic growth which became evident in July.

CAPTURED BY FBI
Douglas Henry, 22

FBI Nabs Escaped Convict

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An escaped Michigan convict was captured by the FBI, and the woman he had held hostage for a week was released unharmed, authorities said.

"Am I okay now?" Evelyn VanTassel, the kidnap victim, asked as she was led into the elevator of the motel where Henry was captured at about 8 p.m. Thursday.

"Yes, it's all over," said an FBI agent who accompanied her.

He was to be arraigned on federal kidnaping charges today before U.S. Magistrate R.E. Longstaff.

Mrs. VanTassel, 58, Marquette, Mich., "although shaken, was in good physical condition at the time she was rescued," the FBI said.

HENRY ESCAPED Aug. 22 from a prison farm near Marquette, Mich. He was serving a 6- to 15-year sentence for breaking and entering and carrying a concealed weapon. He was convicted in 1974.

Mrs. VanTassel was abducted at knife point from her family's cabin near Marquette a week ago when she and her husband arrived at the cabin and found Henry there, authorities said.

3 Men Arrested In Mass Murders

MIAMI (AP) — Three men were arrested during the night in the slaying of six people who were lined up and methodically shot to death more than a month ago, police said today.

"Officers hit about 12 locations overnight," police spokesman Ralph Page said. "They are still searching for one more person."

The mass slaying occurred July 28 when one of the gunmen got into a Miami home by posing as a utility company employe. Six people were killed, but two others survived after apparently being left for dead by the gunmen, police said.

ONE OF THE survivors, Margaret Wooden, 25, was able to give detectives information from her hospital bed. She and the other survivor, Johnnie Hall, 45, were placed in protective custody during the long investigation.

Police quoted Miss Wooden as saying she had been alone in the home of Livingston Stocker when a man came to the door saying he was a repairman for Florida Power & Light Co.

She told police the man bound her and let an unknown number of other persons into the house. As Stocker and the others arrived for a rock band rehearsal, they were captured, bound and shot.

PAGE SAID the motive in the mass slaying appeared to be robbery but drugs also were believed to have been in Stocker's home.

Canceled Concert Angers Rock Fans

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — When rock star Joe Cocker didn't show, angry concertgoers tried to burn down the downtown bullring where the program was canceled.

They threw rocks, but there was only minor damage from that and the fires set the night of the great music debacle.

The concert was a charity to provide a school for mentally retarded Tijuana children, but the fault was not Cocker's. The British entertainer "was in Mexicali for the concert there when the Mexican managers discovered the sound system did not work so they held him over to do the concert the next night," said Mark Phillips, of Cocker's New York City agents.

"THE MEXICAN impresarios in Mexico City canceled Cocker's Tijuana concert only hours before it was supposed to go on," said Roberto Curiel, president of the Tijuana Rotary Club, a sponsor.

Meanwhile, more than 4,000 ticket buyers are still getting their money back and the Rotary Club treasury is depleted by expenses ordered by Cocker's advance party.

ALL THAT included $500 for three limousines and $300 for imported cheese along with 50 bottles of beer, 50 bottles of cola drinks, fruit and cookies. Rentals for the concert itself came to another $2,000.

In the refunds was $700 for tickets that turned out to be counterfeit.

And the $300 worth of imported cheese disappeared in the confusion of trying to calm the hostile crowd.

"The insults hurled at us were absolutely terrible," Curiel said today. "We do not want them to be true."

U.S. Summary

Showers and thunderstorms along a stationary front dumped more than five inches of rain over portions of central Nebraska Thursday night and early today. Several tornadoes were sighted and touched down near Grand Island, Neb., late Thursday night. No injuries were reported.

Showers and thunderstorms also are reported over portions of central Iowa and southeast Minnesota from east central Illinois through southern Quebec. There also are showers and thunderstorms along the east coast from North Carolina to Florida.

California

Despite those late night and early morning low clouds which visited much of Southern California this week, the Labor Day weekend is expected to bring a bounty of sunshine and fair weather.

Forecasters say an air flow moving southward will increase the high level moisture resulting in cool, damp mornings but will turn to variable high clouds and sunshine by afternoon.

Clouds will begin building up in the mountains, however, from the San Bernardino range southward in the afternoon. Mountain resorts, despite the buildup, will enjoy highs in the upper 70s to low 80s.

The upper deserts, including Mojave, will have highs in the low 90s to near 100 while the lower desert valleys, such as Coachella and Owens Valleys will sizzle with temperatures near 100 up to 110.

Temperatures will be slightly warmer in the coastal and inland valleys, including San Fernando and San Gabriel. Highs are expected to be in the high 80s to mid-90s through Saturday.

At the beaches, highs will be in the low to mid-70s with water staying around 70.

Health Spa Files Seized

RIVERSIDE (AP) — Hundreds of pounds of documents have been seized at a controversial health spa that allegedly promised to cure cancer victims with a diet of distilled water and lemon juice.

More than 20 sheriff's and district attorney's investigators spent nearly five hours Thursday poring through files and case histories of patients at the Murrieta Hot Springs clinic.

The clinic's operator, R. J. Rudd, was arrested, but was booked only for two outstanding traffic warrants in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Two physicians associated with Rudd said last month that about a dozen cancer patients were being treated at Murrieta Hot Springs, about 30 miles south of here in southwestern Riverside County.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Kenneth Pike said the raid ended a month-long investigation.

He said search warrants were based on alleged violations of state medical laws, including practicing medicine without a license, a misdemeanor; practicing medicine without a license in a manner which endangers human life, a felony, and fraudulent diagnosing and treating of cancer victims without a medical license, a felony. The warrants also claimed conspiracy to violate all three laws.

Last week, the spa became the center of controversy when the parents of 7-year-old Kimberly Cox of Milwaukee, Wis., tried to remove the girl from a hospital where she is being treated for leukemia and take her to the Murrieta facility. Officials at Milwaukee Children's Hospital refused to let the girl be moved, and Milwaukee County officials temporarily had the child removed from her parents' custody.

NWLF Claims Bomb Blast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The New World Liberation Front today claimed responsibility for an explosion at an exclusive San Francisco country club, a day after FBI agents defused a bomb the terrorist group said it planted at a plush Nob Hill club.

No one was injured in the 3:30 a.m. explosion at the Olympic Golf and Country Club near Lake Merced, said FBI agent Frank Perrone. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

THE NWLF CLAIMED RESPONSIBILITY for the bombing in a phone call to Jacques Rogiers, a self-styled liaison between Bay Area terrorist groups and the public.

Rogiers recorded the message from a female caller and contacted the San Francisco Examiner, who sent a reporter to Rogiers' residence to hear the tape.

The Examiner reported the message said:

"THE NWLF CLAIMS RESPONSIBILITY for the bombing of the Olympic Country Club. The rich and powerful of San Francisco are responsible for the miserable, unsafe housing in poor San Francisco communities.

"These buzzards can either move to correct this injustice or rich areas of San Francisco will no longer be used as a self-indulgent playground for the greedy few.

"WE WILL DRIVE RICH TOURISM out of San Francisco if our three demands are ignored."

The voice said that the "ruling rich and big business" have 48 hours left to respond to the demands, which are "an end to the eviction of all poor and elderly, all substandard housing brought up to code without rent increases, and renovation of the International Hotel here."

Elderly tenants of the hotel were evicted by mounted police early one morning last month after a nine-year battle by the senior citizens to stay in their apartments.

Retiree Bill Goes To Senate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Capable employes could not be forced by private employers to retire at age 65, under a bill nearing final legislative approval.

The Assembly voted 73-0 Thursday for a two-house compromise on the bill, AB 586, by Assemblyman Richard Alatorre (D-Los Angeles).

Other pending legislation would erase the mandatory retirement age of 65 for state employes and make it optional for local government, except for police, firemen and teachers.

Alatorre's bill would require employes approaching 65 to give adequate written notice that they want to continue working. They would have to pass physical examinations.

Collective bargaining agreements would not apply to such workers, so employers would not be required to continue pension benefits nor grant pay raises

VIAL AIDS TREATMENT

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles County has developed a "Vial of Life" program, which will allow emergency medical teams to learn a victim's medical history faster.

The Sheriff's Department said plastic vials containing the vital information will be available to anyone desiring one. Printed in both English and Spanish, the forms in the vials will detail all the necessary information and should be kept in the refrigerator.

Jog Memory

Bid Denied For Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Convicted assassin Sirhan Sirhan has lost his bid to return to the scene of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's shooting in an effort to jog his memory of the crime.

Presiding Superior Court Judge William Hogoboom told Sirhan's attorney Thursday he knew of no legal precedent which would allow such a trip. Besides, the judge said, "There is no indication — psychological, medical, astrological or otherwise — that this man's memory can be refreshed."

To allow such a visit to the kitchen of the Ambassador Hotel, said the judge, would be to "operate the court under old wives' tales."

"I know of no scientific evidence that returning a person to the scene revives his memory," Hogoboom said.

Sirhan's attorney, Godfrey Isaac, conveyed the assassin's request for a return visit after two Los Angeles County supervisors met with Sirhan on June 2 at Soledad Prison, about 160 miles south of San Francisco.

Is 65 Too Early For Retirement?

A bill that's quietly working its way to the governor's desk could have a powerful effect on California's working force and on its businesses.

With very little fanfare, legislation that would prohibit private employers from forcing retirement on their employes at age 65 has just about completed its trail through the Legislature.

Its supporters have some persuasive arguments for the bill. As they correctly point out, some people are old at 65 and others are just as effective at their jobs as they've ever been.

"They lose their dignity when they're put out to pasture when they know they can still do their job," said the bill's author, Assemblyman Richard Alatore of Los Angeles.

But it can be looked at differently.

For every argument in favor of this bill, an equally impressive argument can be made against it. Entire corporations employing thousands and thousands of workers have done their planning and their pension funding based on acceptance of the age 65 retirement.

Further, job projections for young people coming on the labor market have been made on the assumption that a certain number would be retiring. Keeping someone on past the accepted age of retirement simply means one job less for a young person.

The bill also seems to contradict the fact that earlier — not later — retirement ages are being sought by workers and unions. The nationwide trend is generally being accepted by employers.

We're not all that certain Alatore's bill is a good one. We have the uneasy feeling that it is at least one session premature; that very little serious study has been made to determine longer range impacts it may have on employment, insurance and pension matters, labor contracts and the like.

If the retirement age is to be significantly changed, a federal law would make more sense than piecemeal rules varying from state to state.

Gov. Brown is described as open minded on signing the bill if it does reach his desk. He should give it very careful study. Rights of able senior citizens are an important concern. But this law may go well beyond what is seen on the surface.

6-mph Rear-ender

In a lengthy editorial discussing the pros and cons of auto air bags, the Wall Street Journal observed:

"While it is not clear whether air bags are the safest choice for future cars, it is quite clear they are the most expensive one. We will leave to the reader's experience whether the most accurate estimates of original equipment and repair costs are likely to be the high ones or low ones. But as a bit of evidence, we suggest they recall the 5-mph bumper, promoted by Allstate and other insurers a few years ago as a collision cost money saver. It wasn't, since in a 6-mph crash it cost more to repair."

Jarring little note of reality, isn't it?

And an item to keep in mind when we're being told by governmental experts what's best for us.

No Party Lines Here

The news source is 500 miles away, but the story is local — and worth repeating.

The Sacramento Bee reports that Sacramento County lobbyist Frank Mesple came down to Orange County to make a speech. Noting our political scandal problems, and the county's increasing tendency to elect politicians of more liberal persuasion, he looked around and observed:

"You people are electing Democrats even faster than the Grand Jury can indict them."

In fairness, Mr. Mesple, there were a couple of big-name Republicans on the list, too. Our knaves are known for being bipartisan.

A. No, that distinction now belongs to Haiti. The Cajuns of Louisiana are not an independent nation, please note. They just act that way. Incidentally, the French spoken in Quebec has changed less in the last 200 years than that of France itself. And the French spoken by the Cajuns is said to be purer now than what's heard in Paris.

Quota System Finds Supporter

WASHINGTON — A drama that began four months ago in a nasty confrontation between Jewish leaders and Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Secretary Joseph Califano is nearing a climax in the Oval Office when President Carter — urged on by Califano — is expected to back racial quotas in a Supreme Court test.

Leaders of eight national Jewish organizations left a June 6 meeting with Califano complaining about the Secretary's "Insensitivity" and "inflexibility." What most surprised them was Califano's revelation that he wanted the government to support the University of California's quota system on admissions — the famous Bakke case before the Supreme Court.

THE PRESIDENT must now decide whether to support Califano. Senior presidential aides insist no decision has been made. But insiders at HEW and the Justice Department take it for granted Mr. Carter will intervene against Allan Bakke, a white applicant denied admission to the University of California medical school to make room for a black applicant with inferior entrance qualifications to fill a university racial quota.

If Bakke loses, Califano's HEW will demand that all universities impose racial quotas. Since that runs counter to the anti-quota philosophy expressed by both the President and Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, why are they ending up on the pro-quota side? Nobody is quite sure, but the best answer may be the persuasive powers of Joe Califano: Mr. Quota.

With characteristic vigor, Califano opened the fight March 18 by openly endorsing quotas, then on March 30 backed away from the word "quota" — but not from the concept. Jewish leaders promptly requested a meeting. They were not reassured by Califano's June 5 speech at City College of New York when he supported "goals" instead of "quotas."

THE CONFRONTATION in Califano's office two days later was a disaster. As described in a July 13 memorandum by Ira Giffen of the Anti-Defamation League (ADL): "The meeting . . . was a disheartening experience . . . I left . . . convinced that Secretary Califano will push reverse discrimination and quota systems although, for public relations purposes, he may call them by other names. Our appeals for justice, fair play, reasonableness, and, indeed, logic, seemed to fall upon deaf ears."

Larry Lavinsky of the ADL opened the meeting with a plea to prohibit colleges from requiring "racial, ethnic and religious identifcation" by student applicants. He declared such identification violates "the right of privacy and needlessly poses the danger of discrimination."

Giffen's memo continues: "The Secretary's response was not at all responsive . . . To our utter dismay, he told us that he had already requested the Department of Justice to enter the Bakke case in support of the University of California.

Califano "seemed to believe" racial identification is required by statute, which is not the case. "It was my conclusion," Giffen's account continues, "that the Secretary either does not know the statutes . . . or else he chooses to misconstrue them." According to Giffen, the Secretary said "He was doing no more than what the Congress and the courts required and he advised us to take our concerns to the Congress."

THAT THIS was disingenuous was suggested July 27 when Califano addressed the National Urban League. He asserted he had helped kill a congressional proposal that he incorrecly described as prohibiting him "from using any funds for affirmative action programs." In truth, the amendment would have prevented HEW funds from enforcing "ratios, quotas or other numerical requirements" for student admission — but would permit "goals and timetables"; in other words; affirmative action.

On July 25, seven major Jewish leaders wrote Califano urging support for Bakke's anti-quota position; the letter was not even acknowledged. Since then, the solicitor general's office has prepared a brief taking the anti-Bakke position. Califano and high Justice Department officials are certain the government will intervene that way.

THE ULTIMATE decision is the President's, but that does not encourage anti-quota forces. "I am sure the decision will be solely political," one embittered Jewish leader told us, meaning Mr. Carter will offer blacks in quotas what he does not give in social spending programs. The Jewish lobby presumably will not protest strenuously because of larger interests in the Mideast.

But more is involved than pitting racial groups against each other. Edward Bennett Williams, Califano's former law partner, stated it well in a speech last October: "The total egalitarians miss the point. They would divide the wealth equally, impose quotas and ratios in education, in employment, and in the political process, regardless of merit, overlooking the crucial fact that all human progress throughout human history owes its origin to the talented and the enterprising."

Although it is hard to imagine Jimmy Carter and Griffin Bell disagreeing with those words, they are headed pell mell in the opposite direction — thanks to a strong push from Mr. Quota.

Panama Agreement Based on Blackmail

"Give us your canal or we'll destroy it!"

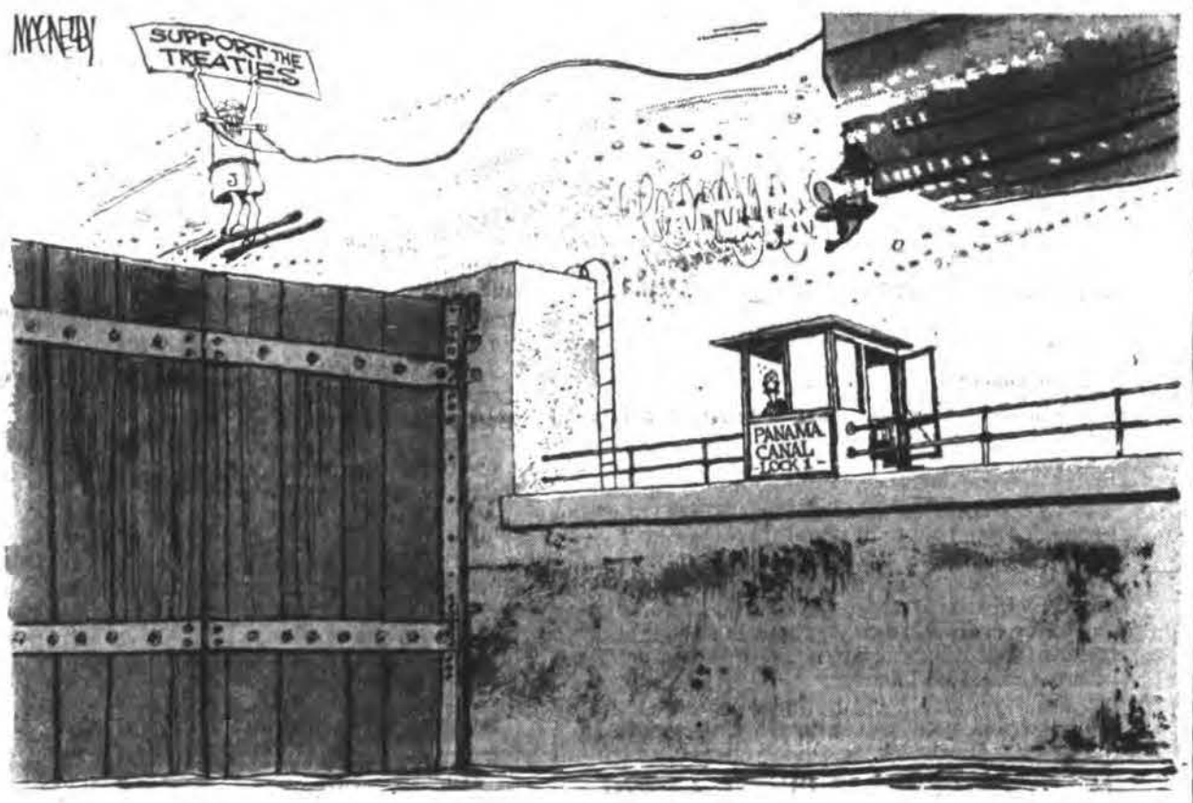

There is no way such a threat could be constructed as anything other than what is — blackmail.

Yet our ambassador, Ellsworth Bunker, insists we "did not come to any agreement under threat."

That's not what proponents of the Canal Treaty are saying.

Senators and diplomats who want us to give control of the canal to Panama are insisting that we have to — that guerrilla warriors may destroy it if we don't.

THE PANAMA CANAL is one of the world's all-time great engineering accomplishments. Including a preliminary effort by the French, it took 44 years to build that ditch, it cost $400 million in the days when they were hundred-cent dollars — and it cost 25,000 lives.

What the Panama Canal's six sets of locks do is to lift ships over a mountain and lower them to sea level on the other side.

Every year some 14,000 ships are thus moved from one ocean to another.

So effectively did we combat yellow fever and malaria in the Canal Zone that, by the time the canal opened in 1914, the annual death rate in that country was less than half the United States rate.

PANAMA was properly appreciative until the early 1960s when U.S. involvement in Vietnam invited the accusation that the United States was an outdated colonial power — and anti-American rioting erupted in the Canal Zone.

That is when the United States promised to negotiate an eventual return of the canal to Panamanian administration.

United States of Americans generally are disinclined to submit to intimidation or blackmail.

But the Carter Administration says we must.

THE ADMINISTRATION denies that it is yielding to threats in so doing; Ambassador Bunker explains that failure to give up the canal would "be looked upon by other countries in Latin America as evidence the United States has not given up imperialist notions."

Perhaps it is anachronistic in 1977 for the United States to maintain a zone of authority across any other sovereign nation.

Perhaps defending that authority would cost more than it would be worth.

If the new treaty does in fact protect the neutrality of the waterway, I suppose we have little to lose.

But bothersome to the conscience of historically generous Americans is the lopsided nature of this all-give, no-take treaty.

And the fact that our government insists this is not what it so obviously is: blackmail.

Nobody Can Make You Mad Without Your Help

Consider these two sentences: "He makes me mad!" and "He makes me weigh 115 pounds." They are both grammatically correct, but the first one strikes us as making more sense, while the second one is a little puzzling.

No one else can really make us weigh 115 pounds; it is beyond the voluntary control of anyone else. Only we ourselves can do it, if we can. So that sentence is what the linguists call "semantically ill-formed."

But what about the first? And this is where language betrays us. "He makes me mad" is actually just as wrong, although it sounds right. For the fact is that nobody else can "make" us mad any more than make us weigh a certain weight.

NOBODY CAN create an emotion in us. An emotion is in our own power, it is a response to an outside act. Just because the act precedes the response does not mean that the act causes or "makes" the response.

It is our own model of the world, and the choices this model opens to us, that determine our responses to other people's acts. In reflecting on her own early feelings, Eleanor Roosevelt once observed, "Nobody can make you feel inferior without your own consent." In the same way, nobody can make you mad without your own compliance.

We use phrases like "He makes me mad" and "She makes me sick" in order to disclaim the responsibility for our emotional responses. A food can make you sick whether you want it to or not; but another person cannot contaminate you unless you permit it.

Except for rare and extreme cases, our emotions are in our own hands. But we prefer to assign the responsibility elsewhere, because it is simpler and easier to blame some outside agency than to change our model of the world.

THE PERSON who says "You can't trust anybody" will never find a person to trust, because his model automatically excludes a sense of trust. His inward representation of the world makes no room for trust, just as the miser's makes no room for generosity.

Everyone sees what he calls "reality" through a lens of his own making and conditioning; and his view of the world is a projection of the little map he carries inside his head. Some of us are willing to change the map when we see that it does not agree with the outside territory; others insist their map is right, distorting the territory to make it fit.

These others are people who believe that someone can "make" you mad, although they can see perfectly well that nobody can make you weigh 115 pounds. When they learn that both ideas are equally and absurdly wrong, they are halfway home on the road to semantic sanity.

Strangled?

Hunters Find Dead Girl

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dove hunters Thursday discovered the body of a young girl clad in underwear and a football jersey in a field in a rural area of eastern Sacramento County.

Authorities said the unidentified girl, believed to be 15 to 17 years old, apparently had been strangled with a black, white and red scarf left on her neck.

They said she was a slender blonde with dots and a star tattooed, painted or decaled around her eyes. She was wearing a jersey with the words "79 Young Life" on it.

Drug, Alcohol Treatment Okayed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Senate has given a barely passing 21-14 vote to a bill to permit children age 12 and older to get medical treatment for drug and alcohol abuse without parental consent.

The bill, AB 460 by Assemblywoman Leona Egeland, D-San Jose, was returned to the Assembly Thursday for action on amendments. The Assembly had also passed it earlier on a bare majority.

Bank Overdraft Policies Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The comptroller of the currency, distressed by reports of bank overdrafts of more than $500,000 by U.S. budget director Bert Lance and his family, plans to ask all banks about their policies for overdrafts by employes and officers, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

It said the issue of overdrafts for bank officers would be investigated soon in a "call" report by the comptroller's office, under which all banks would be asked about their handling of overdrafts.

Space Shuttle Test Postponed

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — The second glide and landing test of the Space Shuttle will come no earlier than Sept. 13 because the craft's five computers need to be checked for possible malfunctions, the national space agency says.

The flight was originally set for Aug. 30, then postponed until Sept. 7 because unusually heavy rains soaked the dry lake bed on which the 75-ton spaceplane makes its landings.

Raw Milk Dairies Win Support

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill that would make it harder for local public health officials to close down a raw milk dairy they suspected of contamination was approved by the Senate Thursday.

The vote was 27-7, the bare two-thirds majority needed, on AB 602 by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-Upland. It sent the bill back to the Assembly for action on Senate amendments.

Restaurateur Kills Holdup Man

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The part-owner of a restaurant has shot and killed a third holdup man in 10 days, police said Thursday.

Police said Herman Rodriguez, 28, shot 20-year-old Alejandro Francisco Arauz after the youth allegedly went into Rodriguez's restaurant on the pretense of looking for work.

Sundesert First Exemption?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's year-old nuclear safety laws could get their first exemption, for the Sundesert power plant, under a bill passed by the Assembly Thursday.

The measure, AB 1852, would allow the proposed nuclear plant to be exempted from laws on permanent storage of nuclear wastes and reprocessing of nuclear fuel, if the Energy Commission and legislature concur.

Two Awarded Prison Term

ESCONDIDO (AP) — State prison terms of from six months to life and five years to life are being given two men convicted of participating in a shootout in May 1976 at Escondido police headquarters. Municipal Court Judge Roy G. Fitzgerald handed the lighter sentence to Gregory Francis Key, 25, and the heavier one to Wesley Ruggles Smiley, 35, whose record included other felony charges.

Cal-Vet Farm Loans Raised

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Cal-Vet farm loans are being boosted from $80,000 to $120,000 with a bill signed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. The author, Assemblyman Richard Lehman (D-Fresno), said the measure was designed to reverse a decline in the number of loans.

Programs Seek Cost Cut

Methods Could Boost Low-priced Housing

By KATHY CLANCY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Orange County's spiraling housing costs may be trimmed through a series of programs that range from creating low-cost housing zones with "no frills" construction to housing cooperatives that could discourage high-profit home resales.

Those were among recommendations of a nine-member citizens committee which spent the past 10 months studying low and moderate-priced housing shortages in Southeast Orange County.

"THE COMMITTEE HAS CONCLUDED that one of the reasons moderate-cost housing is not being built is because builders realize a higher profit by producing higher-cost homes," the committee concluded.

But its members said there are actions that government and private developers can take to stem the housing price spiral and produce homes that could sell in the $33,000 to $50,000 range.

The committee's report ranked 30 methods including zoning revisions, federal housing programs and property tax revisions which could help encourage a supply of less-expensive homes.

AT THE TOP OF THE COMMITTEE'S list was the creation of housing cooperatives which could be built with federally-guaranteed loans.

Such cooperatives could either purchase homes from co-op owners when they move or require the owners to turn over part or all of any profit realized on a sale, according to the report.

The group also strongly favored rehabilitation of older homes with the help of federal dollars and noted efforts to implement such a program already are under way.

THE COMMITTEE, CHAIRED BY Laguna Niguel resident Paul Cramer, suggested supervisors could help trim home prices by reducing processing time for plans offering low or moderate-cost homes.

In addition, supervisors could create a new housing zone to encourage less-expensive homes by reducing certain requirements for lot improvements and construction.

Supervisors also could adopt requirements that 10 to 15 percent of the homes in all new housing developments be low or moderate-priced.

AMONG OTHER METHODS ENDORSED by the committee were federal rent subsidies, use of prefabricated homes and attached housing, creation of mobile home subdivisions and the deferring of property taxes until a homeowner sells a moderate-priced home.

Committee members said low and moderate-priced homes would meet the needs of families whose income is less than $20,000 a year.

They also noted the county's housing need would not be met until those families have to spend no more than 25 percent of their income for either mortgage or rental payments.

THAT MEANS LOW AND MODERATE-income homes would have to sell for $33,000 to $50,000, the report said.

The committee also said the low and moderate-priced homes should be located near public transportation, schools, shopping and employment areas to reduce required travel and accompanying pollution.

In addition, members said future environmental impact reports should address housing needs for all segments of the community and those needs should be considered by county Planning Commissioners and supervisors when new developments are approved.

'Gold Card' Plan Due for Seniors

Saddleback College District residents at least 62 years old will soon be eligible for free or reduced admission to college events.

College officials have announced a so-called "Gold Card" program for the district's senior citizens. The cards will be available in three weeks from the college's community services office.

The gold card will allow district seniors free admission to Associated Students-sponsored events such as athletics games, drama productions and special programs.

Additionally, the card holder receives reduced admission to community services lecture programs held throughout the year on the district's Mission Viejo campus.

'All Quiet on the Western Front' transformed Corona del Mar into a war zone (right). And that's not the only film shot in Orange County. . .

All Not Quiet On Western Coast

By DENNIS McLELLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Theda Bara, the legendary vamp of silent movies, boards a barge and floats down the Nile in "Cleopatra."

World War I doughboys crawl through no-man's land as mortar rounds explode and biplanes swoop overhead in "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Herbie, the irrepressible Love Bug, eludes his pursuers by sailing off a pier and into the ocean in "Herbie Rides Again."

These three scenes represent the diversity of motion pictures made in the last 60 years. But they have one thing in common: They all were filmed in Orange County.

From Theda Bara to Herbie the Love Bug, Orange County has been — and continues to be — a favorite location for Hollywood producers searching for just the right locale for their latest epic.

"We have scoured the place many times for locations," says Dutch Horton, who, after 48 years in the business, is referred to as the patriarch of location managers.

"YOU HAVE QUITE a different beach area than Los Angeles County. And you have a great variety of stuff on the Irvine Ranch."

Horton, who spent 41 years at MGM and moved to Disney Studios seven years ago, is the man who brought "Herbie" to the Coast.

Portions of that movie were filmed at the Irvine equestrian area and at Laguna's Treasure Island Trailer Park, which, in fact, was named after the early movie made on its beach.

County beaches have been a magnet for filmmakers dating back to 1912, says author-historian Jim Sleeper who is up to the year 1922 in his research for "Great Movies Shot in Orange County that Will Live Forever (or at Least Until 1934)."

"I would estimate there were easily 500 movies made up to my cut-off date," he says. "The beach area was a popular site for one and two-reelers."

The "Cleopatra" company came to Newport in 1916, filming in the upper bay and on Balboa Island, where a "city" was built and a battle staged.

The realistic battlefield scenes in "All Quiet on the Western Front" (1930) were filmed in Corona del Mar. (The covered up trenches perplexed builders of the Harbor View Hills homes who momentarily thought they had stumbled across some long-lost civilization.)

"AND, OF COURSE," notes Sleeper, "we had all kinds of shipwrecks and South Sea island sagas with erotic Polynesians. But they sort of wore that out: palm trees were planted at the drop of a hat and then removed."

He adds that filmmaking was not only a boon to local restaurants and hotels, but residents often served as extras for a dollar a day and a free box lunch.

Dick Vane, former Quinn Martin Productions' location manager, cites two major reasons for the increasing amount of location filming, especially among TV series

First, today's audiences are more sophisticated and can readily tell if something was filmed on the back lot. The second reason is money.

"Set costs have gone up drastically," says Vane, 25, now location manager for the "Wonder Woman" company at Burbank Studios. "We could never reproduce what we get on location."

And, adds Vane: "Orange County has one major advantage over other areas: It's the closest place we can go."

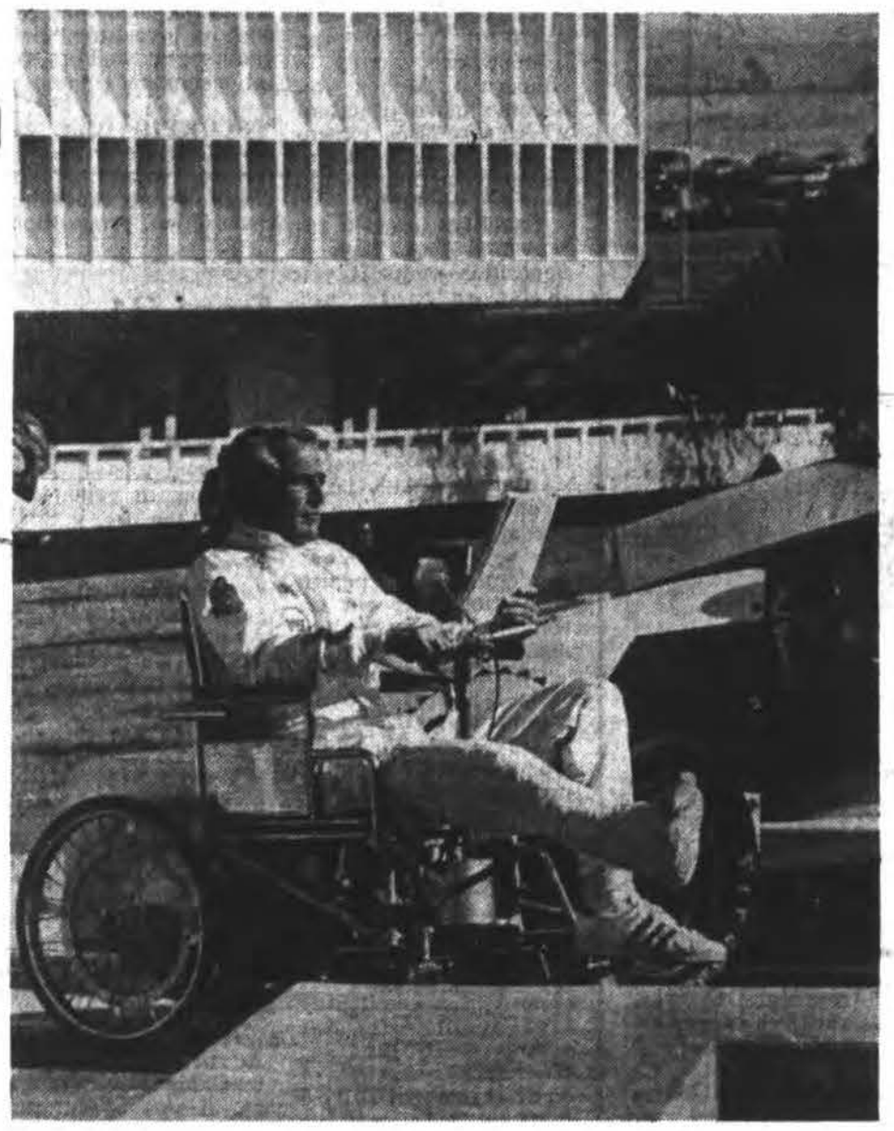

When the script for a "Cannon" episode called for a "safari-type park," Vane, who often travels 200 miles a day searching for suitable locations, lined up Lion Country Safari.

"We had a couple of chases among the giraffes," he notes.

William Conrad, the portly series star, even took home a souvenir of his visit to the jungle park. A sign on the side of his motor home dressing room forever warned: "TRESPASSERS WILL BE EATEN."

Despite paying $100 a day and up for temporary takeover by a production crew, location managers often have a difficult time talking

Bringing Opera to Life

By JUDITH OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

If you're one of Patrick Tavernia's friends, beware. You may see yourself on stage in one of his next operas.

Tavernia, stage director of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, admitted that as he brings an opera to life he identifies some of the characters with people he knows.

The man responsible for all the action on stage, Tavernia also makes sure that the sets, props and costumes are appropriate for the music and script.

In staging an opera, Tavernia said he "sees it like a movie" before anything is ever put down on paper for rehearsal. Once it is put together in his mind, the actual work of creating it begins.

The key to doing an opera well is knowing the music, Tavernia stressed. "There are limitations. You can't have singers going up and down stairs while singing hard passages."

Tavernia, in town briefly to teach a master class for the Opera Workshop at California State University, Fullerton, said the music also is the key to understanding the art form.

"THE CHARACTER is in the music. The music tells the whole story," he explained.

He contends that with a knowledge of the music, anyone can attend an opera and enjoy it. Though he speaks four languages, he still relies on the notes himself for a correct interpretation.

For novices, Tavernia recommends reading program notes to learn what the story is about and then listening to the music several times to get the mood.

A good opera, he added, "has love and death and some action, either a fight or dissension," all of which are universal entities.

Tavernia's preparation for an opera begins as long as a year before the actual production, if the opera is new to him. He obtains a score and learns it in its entirety so he himself can sing every part from beginning to end.

"The smart ones (stage directors) learn even the music that's not sung," he added. "I'm one of the smart ones."

ACTUAL REHEARSALS take only a few weeks, and once the stage production is under way Tavernia attends every performance. He arrives an hour early to see that things are going well and that the cast is happy. "I'm like a mother hen," he said with a laugh.

The sandy-haired director never socializes after a performance, however. "I go home and read or go to bed," he said. "After all, there's a rehearsal the next morning."

Tavernia isn't anti-social, though. He loves the people in the opera and feels that they are like family. He explained, "We've been through a lot together. They learn new parts and new languages. They get married. It's a nice outfit."

They also ate frozen cheesecake from a local deli

6,000 Miles of Togetherness Is Too Much

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently my husband and I invited our two sons and their wives on a 6,000-mile trip. We bought their airline tickets, paid their hotel bills, bought meals and rented cars everywhere we went.

On two occasions when we wanted to start sightseeing early, we had breakfast out of the hotel. Both times the older son told the waitress, "Separate checks please." (He and his brother are in the $20,000-a-year bracket.)

The last night of the trip, the boys and their wives "made other plans" and could not find time to have dinner with us. My husband was furious and told them off. Needless to say, the "vacation" ended on a sour note. I'm ashamed to sign my name, but would appreciate your comments on the ingratitude of this generation. — N.Y., N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: It isn't THIS generation — it's every generation from the beginning of time. Remember "Sharper than a serpent's tooth . . ."?

Six thousand miles of togetherness for three grown couples in the same family is a bit much, unless it's a super-special tribe. If it's advice you want, here it is: Don't try to buy the companionship of your children. If you think I'm being hardboiled, ask yourself this: Would your sons and their wives have accompanied you on that trip if they had to pay for it themselves?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am an exhausted mother who needs help. Our older boy is brain-damaged and cannot do many things for himself that most nine-year-olds can do. We had our younger boy (age six) tested three months ago and he is "hyperkinetic." I had never even heard the word before. I thought he was just overly energetic. (His teacher suggested we get him evaluated.)

We can't afford help and my mother is not well enough to give me a hand with these two children. Can you suggest some reading material that might help me cope? If I understood more about my children's problems I would do better by them as well as myself. Thanks, Ann. — HAVING A ROUGH TIME.

DEAR MOTHER: Help is as near as your mailbox. Write to The Exceptional Parent, P.O. Box 641, Penacook, N.H., 03301. This magazine is the best thing I've seen for parents whose children have disabilities of all kinds. It offers not only practical guidance but emotional support. The price is $10 for six issues and worth every cent.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I heard again today that teenagers are very rude and inconsiderate especially when they are driving. This is not true and I wish you'd disabuse the public of the falsehood.

Yesterday, on my way to work, I saw a car in a parking lane trying to get into the flow of traffic. I slowed down and let him in ahead of me. The car pulled away without a nod or a wave of thanks. The driver was about 50 years of age.

For the last three months I've been doing a private survey. My findings were completed this morning. Here are the results. The middle-aged and older drivers are about six times as unlikely to show appreciation for any small courtesy. Younger drivers (especially teenagers) are much more courteous and friendly. — TEST FROM THE MIDWEST

DEAR TEST: Thanks for the clue-in. Let's hear it for those considerate and friendly drivers, folks. Statistics also show they live longer.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Cancer: Friendly, Practical

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 3
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You see the light where money is concerned. Means you become more practical where purchases, expenditures enter picture. Impulsive actions should be placed on shelf.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Cycle high — opposition melts if you insist on facts, not rumor. Take charge of your own affairs. Highlight security. Romance is fine but reinforcements are needed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Diversify — accept social invitation. Broaden horizons. Be versatile without scattering your forces. Remember diet, health resolutions. Accent on romance, secrets, clandestine meetings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Combine friendship with practicality. Refuse to get involved in legal, partnership controversy. Hold off on affixing signature to documents. Protect your own status, marital and otherwise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Analyze — there is way to achieve, to overcome opposition. Member of opposite sex could play significant role. Set sights on objective. When you are sure of direction, needed material, allies will be present.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make arrangements which bring peace within family circle. Concessions now lead to progress. Emphasis on long-range prospects, philosophical demeanor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Define terms — take nothing for granted. Avoid self-deception. Accent on investment procedures, tax shelters, relationship that is intense.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be willing to test the waters. Means check various aspects of transaction, proposition. Protect your interests, legally and in other ways.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Finish rather than begin — complete project, assignment. Relationship is tested. What you took for granted may not be so accessible. Emphasis on services, employment, health.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emphasis on getting what you require, of understanding intricate processes. Tradition could block progress.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Take special care in traffic. Relative could be in mood to argue.

If September 3rd is your birthday, you are perceptive, a "traveler and searcher." Your intellectual curiosity is highly developed — your sense of the absurd is noted by individuals who do more than eat and sleep.

From B1

. . . All Unquiet Here

people into letting 50 to 150 people invade their front yard.

"PEOPLE HAVE HEARD a lot of stories about crews not being concerned about their property," says Vane.

But complaints are few and rarely involve the major studios. Still, not everyone falls under the spell of Hollywood glamor.

"We have received requests from all the studios," says Phil Greene of the Fluor Corp. "They're always looking for something new and here's this big fancy glass building."

The imposing structure off the San Diego Freeway is Hollywood's conception of a 21st Century building or a present-day CIA headquarters, says Greene.

Although an educational movie once was made there, the company feels filming would be too disruptive and declines all offers.

THAT'S NOT THE case with the 94th Aero Squadron Restaurant in Costa Mesa. Since it opened four years ago it has been used several dozen times (twice for the "Hardy Boys"), says manager Tom Cain.

It stands to reason: The restaurant — a replica of a World War I era French farm house — looks like it's right out of the movies anyway.

The restaurant, which receives a minimum base fee of $100, carries on business as usual. "The customers love it," says Cain.

That also was the case when the Costa Mesa City Hall doubled as a hospital a few years ago in a forgettable doctor epic.

But city business nearly came to a standstill as office workers stargazed at costumed actors who frequently bummed coffee from the workers.

One of the most popular spots in the county for filming is Laguna Beach, which can easily simulate the South of France or Italy.

IN FACT, A complete Italian village was built in Emerald Bay for a 1926 Buster Keaton comedy.

Because of the constant movie-making activity, the city passed a movie-television ordinance a few years ago to control and coordinate filming activities. (Newport Beach has a similar statute.)

While such illustrious stars as Errol Flynn and Lana Turner have emoted before cameras in the seaside community, it lately has been something of a mecca for commercials.

Everything from cars, to beer, gum and peanuts have been huckstered on the city's streets and beaches.

Films starring Glenn Ford, Bette Davis, Robert Cummings and Lucille Ball were made at the Treasure Island Trailer Park, long a popular site.

But that's old hat to 87-year-old William Crispinal, who has lived there 25 years.

"I PAY NO attention to them anymore," he says. "There is just so much activity going on down there."

It was a different story for UCI students when Paul Newman visited the campus to film the wheelchair chase in Mel Brooks' "Silent Movie" last year.

"There was a tremendous crowd out here," says Brad Atwood, assistant chancelor for university relations. "It was a good thing it was only for one day. Newman, by far, was the largest draw."

That's saying something, considering the campus also was overrun by actors in monkey suits for a sequence in "Planet of the Apes."

Peter Falk and the "Columbo" crew two years ago spent 16 days in Newport Beach, whose Fashion Island, Lido Village harbor, and beaches are the favored sites for 10 or so productions a year filmed there.

OTHER POPULAR locations along the coast are Huntington Beach ("Route 66," "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof") and the Laguna Niguel Ziggurat ("Death Race 2000").

And, of course, Orange County Airport, home of Tallmantz Aviation. The dozens of antique airplanes housed in its museum are filmed constantly, often flying over the nearby countryside.

One of the most memorable aerial sequences ever filmed was when an airplane flew through a billboard in "It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World." Veteran pilot Frank Tallman did that stunt with a billboard he erected in Laguna Canyon.

From B1

. . . Opera Comes to Life

together to celebrate his 20th year at the Met.

All of this would not have happened to Tavernia if he had not gone to Florence on a Fulbright scholarship as a youth from Anaconda, Mont.

There, in the beautiful Italian city, he discovered the beauty and depth of opera as he listened to his roommate rehearse.

TAVERNIA, IRONICALLY, had been educated for the foreign service at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C. and thus never dreamed he would have a career in opera.

He knew he didn't want to sing professionally but decided, as he studied music for fun, that he would like to work on the stage somewhere.

It was obvious that he would never make it as a singer when his teacher told him, "The world is paved with the voices of singers like you."

The maestro suggested that his young student work in an opera house instead, so he set out with his "pitiful" resume to find a job. When he was told at the old City Center Theater in New York that there was nothing for him, he volunteered to scrub the floors if necessary just to get in.

"Six months later the director called and asked me if I'd like to work," Tavernia recalled, "and I was hired as an assistant stage manager."

His big break came later when he met members of the Metropolitan Opera while they were performing in Puerto Rico, where Tavernia was working as a translator.

"THE MET PEOPLE liked the fact that I could help them with Spanish," he said.

The opera company was in Puerto Rico at the request of the local newspaper publisher, who had brought them in to do a season.

In the spring of 1956 he was hired for the Met by Rudolph Bing, and after a successful debut, his career was off to a slow but exciting start.

What keeps him going is the "emotional pull" of the opera. "I love the people I work with," he added. "I wouldn't like it only for the physical aspects. If the singers can do a good job emotionally, I couldn't care less how they look."

Beyond that, opera is fulfilling because it "combines two of the great arts — theater and music," Tavernia contends.

Though he also likes to get away to his summer home in New Hampshire, opera is never very far from him. The director is a walking encyclopedia of the art form who will sing his favorite parts at the slightest coaxing.

And he's full of historical and personal tidbits about his field. So many, in fact, that listening to Tavernia is almost as good as going to the opera itself.

Holiday Races on Tap

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Writer

Traditional Labor Day regattas, "homeward bound" races (from Catalina) and offshore races that keep the yachting fraternity afloat for three days will mark the long holiday that marks the end of one boating season and the start of another.

Top Labor Day regattas for all classes of small boats will be The Balboa Yacht Club's two-day event Saturday and Sunday, and The Alamitos Bay Yacht Club's Saturday and Sunday event off Long Beach harbor. But these will be primarily for the stay-at-homes.

THE LONGEST AND MOST prestigious offshore event will be the five year old San Clemente Island race co-sponsored by Dana Point Yacht Club and Silver Gate Yacht Club of San Diego. The event is open to all ratings — International Offshore Rule, Performance Handicap Racing Fleet, Midget Ocean Racing Fleet, Midget Ocean Racing Association and the San Diego Handicap Fleet.

The race starts Saturday off Dana Point, leaves San Clemente Island to port and finishes sometime during the weekend just inside San Diego Harbor.

Speaking of Homeward Bound races, Channel Cruising Club of Los Angeles has invited all racing and cruising sailboats which have spent the long weekend — or even summer — at Catalina to gather off Ship Rock at the Isthmus to start the 20-year old Homeward Bound classic that has been a popular Labor Day feature for 20 years.

ONE OF THE MOST interesting features of the CCC race is the division for "classic" sailboats designed and built before 1954. This attracts some of the most beautiful old windjammers which have long since been eliminated from the racing scene by advanced technology and the myriad changes in the handicap rules.

Another popular Labor Day feature centered at Catalina Island is Los Angeles Yacht Club's Wrigley Trophy race for IOR ratings and the Bob McNeil Trophy race for PHRF yachts. The race starts off Howland's Landing — LAYC summer home-away-from-home — and goes around Eagle Rock at the west end of the island and then back to Howland's.

Other than the traditional racing events, hundreds of yachts — both power and sail — will fill every cove on the island for one last summer fling. This is known as the "cruising, boozing and snoozing" crowd who frequent the island's beautiful mooring and anchorage areas throughout the summer and the early fall months.

North Won't Be Back

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Lowell North, the man who was fired as skipper of the now-defunct America's Cup challenger Enterprise, said Thursday he was not interested in making another try for world's oldest sporting trophy.

North, a 47-year-old San Diego sailmaker who has won just about every other trophy sailing has to offer, said:

"I don't think I want to do it again. After July, we felt we had a good shot; we thought we would win handily. Of course, now we've lost, but I figured, win or lose, once is enough.

"I THINK THE BOAT might be back again, but I'm not really that excited about it. The real enjoyment was the people in the syndicate, the people I worked with all summer," said North.

North is a double Olympic medalist, four-time world sailing champion, former star class and Southern Ocean Racing Circuit champion and current holder of the world two-ton title. But his America's Cup bid ended in a shambles early last week when Ed du Moulin, head of the Fort Schuyler Foundation syndicate, fired North for sloppy tactics.

But Lowell North is not a bitter man. He will read the results of this year's America's Cup between the challenger Australia and the Ted Turner-skippered Courageous in his newspaper, but he added he doesn't really care who wins.

HOWEVER, NORTH DENIED a published report that he had offered his help to the yacht Australia or had offered them new North sails. "Australia is using North sails," said North, "but they were made in Australia and by Australians." In fact, the unsuccessful Swedish yacht, Sverige, also used North sails, those made in England.

There were some reports, also, that Enterprise would sail against Australia, helping them tune for their races against Courageous.

"I think Enterprise would like to race here again," North said, "and if she did that, I don't think she'd be welcome back again."

SAILS WERE A POINT of contention between Turner and North all during the defense trials. Turner contended that North had promised to make him sails, then changed his mind. Turner called North a liar and said he deserved to starve.

"I think that was more or less for publicity," said North. "I don't think deep down inside that he (Turner) feels it would have helped his team to have our sails on aboard."

Turner is using sails made by Ted Hood, who skippered Courageous' sister yacht, Independence, and North said he felt too many sailmakers on board would have accomplished nothing.

More Lance 'Deals' Cited

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlanta bank headed by Budget Director Bert Lance deposited more than $4 million in interest-free accounts into a bank which about the same time issued sizeable loans to pay Lance's 1974 gubernatorial campaign debts, the Wall Street Journal reported today.

The newspaper said that the Citizens & Southern National Bank in Atlanta last December and January issued loans to a reconstituted "Bert Lance for Governor Committee" for a total of $390,000.

During both months, the National Bank of Georgia, of which Lance is the majority stockholder, substantially increased its interest-free correspondent account at the same Atlanta bank, the newspaper said.

'Scottsboro Boy' Suit Planned

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An attorney says he will file a damage suit "in the millions" of dollars this month on behalf of Clarence Norris, the only known surviving "Scottsboro Boy."

Donald Watkins says the suit, being prepared in conjunction with NAACP attorneys in New York, is "about the only vehicle left" to compensate Norris for time he spent in prison. He did not say exactly how much money would be involved. Norris was one of nine blacks charged with raping two white women on a freight train moving through northwest Alabama in the 1930s.

Bolles Killing Trial Jury Set

PHOENIX (AP) — A jury has been chosen in the trial of two men charged in the June 1976 car-bomb death of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles.

Selection of the jury of seven women and 11 men began July 11 and opening arguments were scheduled to begin today. Phoenix contractor Max Dunlap, 48, and Chandler plumber James Robison, 55, are charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying.

Peace Suggestions 'Crazy?'

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith termed key provisions in the British-American peace plan for Rhodesia "crazy suggestions" today but did not reject the proposal yet.

"It seems to me that the plan is not only ill-conceived, it is rushed," Smith told a news conference. He accused Britain of "seeking revenge" for his declaration of independence in 1965.

Korea Figure Told 'Stay Put'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer for Tongsun Park says he has advised the South Korean businessman to "stay put" in South Korea where he is safe despite reportedly being indicted by a U.S. grand jury.

Park, who fled the United States last fall, is the focal point of investigations into allegations that the South Korean government waged a massive lobbying campaign in Congress.

Six Plead Guilty to Escape

WARTBURG, Tenn. (AP) — The six prisoners who climbed over the wall of Brushy Mountain State Penitentiary with James Earl Ray last June pleaded guilty to escape charges today.

In a surprise move, the six were taken to the Morgan County Vocational School to appear before Judge Lee Asbury of the criminal court, who sentenced each to an additional year in prison. The maximum sentence for escape is five years.

Ray, who has told interviewers he masterminded the June 10 breakout, is to be tried for escape on Oct. 27. Trials for the other six were to have begun Sept. 26.

Connor Captures Star Class Crown

KIEL, West Germany (AP) — American Dennis Connor became Star class world sailing champion when he won his fourth event in a row Thursday to establish an unbeatable lead one day before the end of the six-day 55th Kiel Regatta.

Connor, a 34-year-old San Diego businessman, was ably supported by foredeckman Ron Anderson. It was their fourth straight win in five events. They led the field from start to finish.

CONNOR, WHO HAS taken 21 of his last 23 races, won the Star class world championship in 1971, belonged to the 1974 crew of the yacht Courageous, which defended the America's Cup, and won a bronze medal in the Tempest class at last year's Olympic Games.

Another American and 1975 world champion, James Schoonmaker, maintained his fourth overall position by reaching fifth place in the day's racing.

THE SILVER MEDAL winner and other positions will only be decided on the last day of the race Friday.

Date Data Decoder Detailed

DEAR PAT: I recently saw a brief television feature that gave an address where one could get an explanation of how to read dating codes on various canned and packaged food products. The address was flashed on the screen, but not long enough for anyone to copy it down. Where should I write?

J.W., San Juan Capistrano

Skim Skimpy on Butterfats

DEAR PAT: I've been told that it's not good to give skim milk rather than whole milk to an infant. Is there any truth to this? My older children prefer skim milk as do my husband and I, so it would be more convenient to give skim milk to our baby too.

H.T., Costa Mesa

Check with your baby's physician before feeding him skim milk. One study indicates that when skim milk is fed to infants, the diet will almost certainly be undesirably high in protein and carbohydrates and too low in fat, according to the U.S. Public Health Service. Under these conditions nutritionists question whether the infant is receiving adequate amounts of essential fatty acids for normal myelination of the nervous system. Skim milk is a reasonable food for children aged one year and older, and excellent for older children and adults.

Second Snap Goes on Record

DEAR PAT: Why do you need two pictures when applying for a passport? The passport contains only one photo. What happens to the other one?

M.B., Irvine

The second photo is retained with your passport application. The photos cannot be less than two and a half by two and a half or more than 3 x 3 inches in size, must be identical, on thin paper with a plain light background.

Library Offers Solar Data

DEAR PAT: I am very interested in solar energy heating and would like to get more information on it. Where should I look?

D.B., Huntington Beach

Check the library first. Dozens of books on solar energy heating have been published in the past year or two. If you are looking for specific information, write to National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center, which was established by Philadelphia's Franklin Institute. Its address is Box 1607, Rockville, MD 20850.

Want to Adopt a Wild Horse?

DEAR PAT: I've heard you can adopt a federally protected wild horse. Where can I find out more?

H.W., San Juan Capistrano

The Bureau of Land Management in the Department of the Interior is looking for foster homes for wild horses and burros. It won't cost you anything for the horse, but you must pick up and transport the animal from the capture site (in several Western states) to your home. Write: Adopt-A-Horse, Bureau of Land Management, Washington, DC 20240.

Below-border Brochures Offered

DEAR PAT: As new California residents, we are looking forward to our first visit to Mexico this fall. Where do I write for information about points of interest?

K.E., Costa Mesa

Write to the Department de Turismo, Paseo de la Reforma 45, Mexico 1, D.F., Mexico. And watch out for those real hot tamales!

Jalapeno Gaining in Popularity

DALLAS (AP) — That evil-looking little green critter sitting on your nacho can clear out the stuffiest sinus, tear the eyes of the biggest bully and send the mashed potatoes-for-ever crowd into water-logged spasms.

It's the jalapeno pepper and growers and restaurateur alike say the powerful little vegetable's popularity is growing like never before.

THE JALAPENO IS still recognized predominantly in the South were it accompanies virtually every Mexican dish served in restaurants. But some Texas growers say they are shipping their produce as far away as Saudi Arabia.

"Ten years ago, people didn't even know what jalapeno peppers were," said a spokesman for El Chico's 89 restaurants. "Now, they're like dill pickles. They're served as a garnish with all types of food — not only Mexican food."

EL CHICO SOLD 16 percent more jalapenos this year than last, and San Antonio-based Church's Fried Chicken restaurants, considered the largest marketer of jalapenos in the U.S., sold more than 32 million fresh peppers in 1976. A spokesman said the chain expects to sell in excess of 39 million this year.

Researchers at Texas A&M University estimate there were perhaps 500 acres of jalapenos being grown in Texas 10 years ago. Now, they figure about 2,000 acres are producing approximately 55 million pounds of peppers, which bring farmers an annual $6 million.

THERE'S NO DENYING the jalapeno can create some uncomfortable moments for the novice, or even the veteran pepper eater. But don't blame it on the seeds, as is the popular lament.

Scientists theorize it may have something to do with the amount of direct sunlight some peppers receive. They say the heat is chemically stored in small pockets along the walls of the peppers.

Another myth you hear frequently these days is someone bragging about building up a tolerance to jalapenos.

DR. JOHN FORDTRAN, a gastroenterologist at Southwestern Medical School said, "I don't know of any example where you can take something into the stomach that's harmful and have the stomach adapt to it by building up the stomach lining."

Still, the arguments can be expected to continue pro and con. It is difficult to talk about medical facts when a victim has just consumed his for fourth post-pepper glass of water.

A young man from Conneticut, when asked if he had ever eaten a jalapeno, replied, "Yes, only once — by accident"

Solar Writeoff OK

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate has approved a bill to allow individuals and businesses to deduct half the cost of solar systems or $3,000, whichever is less, from tax liabilities. The 28-3 vote Thursday sent the measure, AB 1558 by Assemblyman Gary Hart (D-Santa Barbara), to the Assembly for action on amendments.

Brewery Plans Conversion to Solar Energy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Anheuser-Busch Inc., the nation's leading beer producer, says it will soon become the first brewery in the country to use solar energy in its beer-making process.

The firm announced that a system is being installed that will use solar energy to heat water for the pasteurization of bottled beer at its St. Louis plant.

A spokesman said the installation represents "a major commitment by our company toward finding and using alternative energy systems."

The system, designed by Barry-Wehmiller Co., is to be coupled with a pasteurizer which processes about 1,000 bottles of beer a minute, the firm said.

Completion of the project is scheduled for the end of December.

Jobless Benefits Saved

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The national insured unemployment rate has risen again, staving off a 13-week cutback in jobless benefits to Californians that had been expected in mid-October, state officials say.

The U.S. Department of Labor announced the rate had risen again to 4.5 percent, so the extended duration program has begun another 13-week cycle nationwide.

BILL LAWSON, spokesman for the state Employment Development Department, said word of the latest federal change came after he reported that Californians would be losing those 13 weeks of benefits in October.

The benefits are suspended when the federal rate dips below 4.5 percent and a state's rate goes below 5 percent, which California's is expected to do in the next six weeks, Lawson said.

IF THE 13-week extended duration program had been lifted, along with the Oct. 30 cutoff of a 13-week federal supplemental benefit that Congress had enacted, the duration of benefits in California would have been cut in half, from 52 weeks to the base period of 26 weeks, Lawson said.

New claimants will be eligible for 39 weeks of benefits — 26 plus the 13 under extended duration — after Oct. 30.

Unsafe Cars Regretted

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II says it was "regrettable" that his company did not recall 424,000 1972 model cars even though Ford engineers suspected seriously unsafe engine fans.

"We don't want any products out there that are not right," the Ford Motor Company chairman told reporters Thursday at a news conference.

"CERTAIN THINGS are going to go wrong from time to time. We can never be perfect. We correct our mistakes as soon as possible . . . and hope there will be fewer recalls in the years ahead."

Broken fan blades from some 1972 Ford Torinos, Mercury Montegos and Lincolns killed one person and injured 11 before they were recalled on June 3. The models involved had engines of 302, 351 or 402 cubic inches displacement.

FORD REPEATED THE earlier comment of John Eckhold, director of Ford's automotive safety office, who said the incident was "a serious error in judgment."

Ford said the five-year delay in recalling the cars was the result of engineers concentrating on less serious defects.

"If there was an error in judgment it was that we assumed the failures were behind us," he said.

A 25-YEAR-OLD Detroit mechanic was killed in May while fixing a car when a fan blade broke off and struck him in the chest.

Diva Plays 2nd Fiddle

From AP Dispatches

Beverly Sills, refusing to rest on her laurels or her "Lucias," is pulling a switch by opening her 23rd season at the New York City Opera tonight in a supporting role she has never sung before.

As the mischievous parlormaid Adele in a revival of Johann Strauss' "Die Fledermaus," Miss Sills gets to trill her way through the show-stopping "Laughing Song," but otherwise plays second fiddle to the heroine, Rosalinde. That's a part she has sung often — including in her 1955 City Opera debut.

"I'm at the point in my career where I don't have to prove anything," Miss Sills, 48, one of America's most famous opera singers.

Actress Britt Eklund and rock star Rod Stewart, her former live-in boyfriend, have not reconciled, but her lawyer says they do talk to each other without fighting.

EKLUND

"I'm saying they're talking to each other without cussing or hitting," said the lawyer, Mason Rose. "So I'm saying that reconciliation is a possibility but certainly not a probability."

The actress sued the British-born rock star for $15 million and is seeking a division of community property. Stewart agreed to pay the 34-year-old actress $2,500 a month pending a property hearing Sept. 12, and to pay the cost of maintaining the house.

The wife of H.R. Haldeman denied a newspaper columnist's report that her husband's forthcoming book contains a story about former President Richard Nixon sitting nude in the Oval Office.

"He definitely denies the story," Joanne Haldeman said from her Los Angeles home. "He's telling all, but that (the nudity story) is a complete fabrication."

The former White House chief of staff is serving a 2½-to-8-year term at the Federal Correction Institution at Lompoc for lying to the Watergate grand jury.

PEOPLE

New York Daily News columnist Liz Smith said that Haldeman's book would include an incident in which Nixon sat naked in the Oval Office and asked Haldeman, "What's on the agenda?"

Actress Mary Martin, appearing in her first stage performance in more than 10 years, says she's had such a satisfying life that she couldn't be happier in reincarnation.

MARTIN

Miss Martin said at the National Press Club in Washington that her favorite roles were in "South Pacific" and "Peter Pan," in which she first came to stardom.

" 'Peter Pan' is the joy of my life," she said. "I like to have my feet off the ground. If I could fly up to the balcony right now, I would do it. I have tried it, and it doesn't work. I keep trying and sometime I will do it."

Country music singer Waylon Jennings and an aide face action by a federal grand jury in Nashville on cocaine charges.

JENNINGS

Jennings and Mark Rothbaum were bound over to the grand jury after the government presented testimony which it said links the two with a shipment of 27 grams of cocaine sent from New York to Nashville.

They are charged with possession of cocaine and conspiracy to possess the narcotic. They were allowed to remain free under $7,500 bond pending grand jury action.

The lawyer for Juan Corona believed Corona was mentally competent to stand trial and that the prosecution had a "flimsy" case against him, court documents reveal.

CORONA

Retired Superior Court Judge Louis Dematteis, who is acting as a referee, made that observation about attorney Richard Hawk in a report for a panel of appellate court justices.

The issue being examined by the panel is whether Corona, convicted in 1972 of slaying 25 farm workers and burying their bodies in shallow graves near Yuba City, will win a new trial.

U.S. District Court Judge Leland C. Nielsen named McNitt to the post. The appointment becomes effective Oct. 1 and was at the request of bankruptcy trustees of the conglomerate that once was a gem in the financial empire of businessman C. Arnholt Smith.

Trustees said an executive search group recommended McNitt, 56, as the man to guide Westgate back to "a viable, operating entity." McNitt until October was chief executive officer of Ward Foods, Inc., of Wilmette, Ill.

A man who served nearly two years in prison for embezzlement as head of the Sacramento Housing Authority has been approved as interim head of the Alameda County Housing Authority.

Alameda county officials said that Harry Zollinger's prison record, for misappropriating $2,000 in commissions paid to the Sacramento agency in 1972, won't stand in the way of his $25,736 job at Hayward.

"The position is a verification of my self-worth, and that's very nice for me," Zollinger said.

Morse Erskine II, 63, was alleged in 19 counts to have willfilly and knowingly presented financial statements to various banks between May 17, 1973 and July 27, 1976 which failed to correctly list his personal liabilities or those of the two businesses.

Erskine is the son of U.S. District Court Judge Herbert Erskine, who died in 1951.

Hockey Replaces Suit

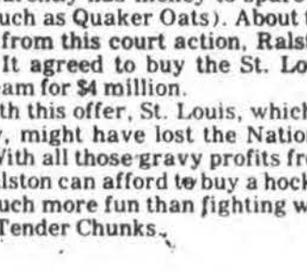

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

Chalk one up for Quaker Oats. The venerable Chicago cereal producer has scored at least a pyrrhic victory over Ralston Purina in their ridiculous squabble over a trademark.

When Quaker brought out a new dog food, Ken-L-Ration Tender Chunks, Ralston had its lawyers go to court and charge Quaker with infringing on a Ralston trademark, Tender Vittles.

THE FACT THAT TENDER Vittles is a cat food while Tender Chunks is a dog food didn't deter the folks at Ralston. They argued, in their suit, that the public would be confused by the similarity in names, which shows, if nothing else, how highly Purina rates the intelligence of the American pet owner. They asked the court to force Quaker to stop using the name.

Quaker Oats has been whipped soundly by Ralston Purina in the marketplace, but this suit was adding insult to injury — and Quaker saw no reason why it had to put up with such legal harassment. So, in answering the Ralston charges, Quaker said, in effect, "All right, if you want to fight, we'll give you a good one."

Quaker's legal rejoinder not only denied the charges, questioning whether anyone holds a patent on the common word "tender," but went on to indict Ralston for trying, by predatory and illegal means, to monopolize the pet food business.

Using specific examples, including the allegation that four years ago Ralston introduced an inferior cat food simply to foil the debut of a new Quaker Oats product, the Quaker counterpunch added up to a bill of particulars that must have made for wonderful reading at the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice.

IT TURNED OUT TO BE A punch that apparently landed flush on the jaws of Ralston Purina executives in St. Louis. Early in August the king of the pet food market withdrew its action against Quaker Oats. And Quaker followed by withdrawing its countersuit.

However, the antitrust lawyers in Washington have no doubt saved a copy of the Quaker Oats suit. If you hear next of a government suit against Ralston Purina, charging monopolization of the pet food market, you'll know where the inspiration came from.

Latest sales figures show that Ralston Purina holds nearly one-third of the entire market for dog and cat foods. It's particularly strong, of course, in the dry food segments.

WITH MARKET POWER LIKE that, you wouldn't think Ralston Purina would have to bother with such silly legal skirmishes. But it apparently has money to spare (it earns more than twice as much as Quaker Oats). About the same time that it withdrew from this court action, Ralston announced a new venture. It agreed to buy the St. Louis Blues professional hockey team for $4 million.

If it had not come up with this offer, St. Louis, which is Ralston's headquarters city, might have lost the National Hockey League franchise. With all those gravy profits from Dog Chow and Cat Chow, Ralston can afford to buy a hockey team — and that must be much more fun than fighting with Quaker Oats over the name Tender Chunks.

Stock Market Up With Another Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market put together a broad advance today, extending the rally that began at mid-week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which rose nearly six points Wednesday and Thursday, was up another 7.45 points to 872.31.

Gainers outnumbered losers by close to a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said traders appeared to be encouraged by the steady showing of the market in recent days after a five-week slide.

Sunkist Reply

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sunkist Growers Inc. denies it is using anticompetitive marketing techniques and claims its farmers' cooperative was authorized by Congress.

In a formal reply to complaints by the Federal Trade Commission that the firm has engaged in anticompetitive practices, Sunkist said, "It appears that the FTC is trying to overturn the congressional policy of encouraging cooperative marketing of agricultural products."

BENNY RICARDO (3) WAS MAKING IT IN DETROIT BEFORE BEING INJURED.

Pair of 250-pounders Snuffed Out His Hopes

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It was to be the year of fulfilled expectations, for true recognition as an established National Football League placekicker.

But on the kickoff following a 35-yard field goal in his first exhibition start of the 1977 campaign, 170-pound Benny Ricardo of the Detroit Lions went down between a pair of 250-pound blockers as Kansas City's Larry Brunson made his bid to return the kickoff the distance.

"I knew I was hurt immediately," says Ricardo, who bumped Errol Mann off the Detroit roster last year. Mann was picked up by the world champion Oakland Raiders.

It was the first time that Ricardo, a former Costa Mesa High, Orange Coast College and San Diego State standout, had ever been injured.

The damage was a third degree shoulder separation and subsequent surgery amounted to inserting a screw into the shoulder and moving some muscles to rebuild the ligaments.

The result: Ricardo is out for the season, on the injured reserve list with full pay.

"First I was cut in the pros, then traded. Then I had a team fold from under me (California Sun) and now this. It's frustrating because I had worked the whole year to get ready and I was fired up. I just sat and cried."

Ricardo will be traveling with the Lions for the duration of the season, but it's unlikely he'll be back in action this campaign.

"I'll be working with weights to rebuild the shoulder and maybe I'll be doing some team statistics on the sidelines," adds Ricardo.

BENNY RICARDO

"Detroit has been treating me super," says Ricardo. "They want me with them so I feel I'm still a part of the team. They told me I'm the best young kicker in football. There was some discussion early of wearing a harness, but they discarded the idea and told me there is no way they'll let me near the football field until I'm 100 percent."

Through a Lions spokesman, Lions coach Tommy Hudspeth says: "Had we chosen not to go to surgery it would have jeopardized Benny's career. We might have had him back in two-to-three weeks without surgery, but this way he has an entire year to rehabilitate and work with the kicking team.

"There's no question the job was his."

The beleaguered Lions have been through nine candidates trying to fill the gap Ricardo leaves and none have cut it. Michigan's Bob Woods was released Wednesday, the Lions brought in Fred Steinfort briefly, now Steve Mike-Mayer, of the 49ers is with the team.

With the talent that comes out of the collegiate roles each year, why is it so hard to find a qualified placekicker with the pros?

"For one thing," says Ricardo, "it's a different matter when you're kicking without a tee. And there is the mental aspect. Everything in this game is geared to the psych game."

The mental thing was getting to be a problem for Ricardo, too, as he sat in the press box watching his Lions teammates.

"I was going crazy back there," says Ricardo. "But I'll be working on the weights to rebuild the shoulder and just play things by ear. And I'll be running up and down stadium stairs and doing ballet exercises to keep strong."

Meanwhile, Ricardo is forced to view the action from the sidelines—probably the farthest thing from his mind prior to the season.

With Ricardo's ability as a field goal and extra point kicker, why was he tangled in a mess trying to stop the runner?

"I was the last player with a shot at the runner," explains Ricardo. "I tried to break up the wedge by hurling myself into the blockers and we went down.

"Our coach, Tommy Hudspeth, asked me later why did I do that. And I explained that if I didn't he would have been mad at him for not tackling him.

"He said, 'Yeah, I know. But you would be still playing right now, too.'"

Will Ricardo be running around trying to tackle the runner on future kickoffs? "No," says Hudspeth. "I think we'll have to protect him. He's too small for that and we're very fond of Benny. We're planning on Benny to be our No. 1 kicker next year."

Chargers' Joiner Calls Harris a Born Leader

By DAVE CUNNINGHAM
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

LOS ANGELES—If the mood in the locker room Thursday night is any indication, ex-Rams quarterback James Harris has found a happy home in San Diego.

Harris, his teammates and his coaches were all jubilant after the Chargers stunned the Rams 26-25 on a 22-yard field goal by Tony Fritsch in the final seconds of a pre-season exhibition at the Coliseum.

"I thought Harris played superbly," said Chargers coach Tommy Prothro. "We had a better passing attack than we've had all year."

Wide receiver Charlie Joiner, who caught two passes for 29 yards, says, "That man's a born leader. Everybody respects Harris so much. That head of his is always going, only he never gets excited."

The cool quarterback was as close to being excited as he ever gets Thursday night after beating his former Rams teammates.

Flashing a broad grin, Harris said, "This was a sweet victory. I really wanted this one badly."

Asked if the Rams tried to throw any unusual defenses at him, Harris said, "The only surprise I got all evening was when they introduced me before the game and I got all those cheers."

A controversial figure, Harris had heard more than his share of boos while playing in a Rams uniform, but Thursday night he was greeted with a resounding ovation.

"After I heard that I was really fired up," Harris said. "I wasn't really expecting that kind of reception, and it's great to know the fans feel that way about me."

Harris had an outstanding night, completing 16 of 30 passes for 234 yards. He threw three touchdown aerials and outshined every other quarterback who took the field, including Joe Namath and the man who replaced Harris in the Rams' starting lineup last season, Pat Haden.

Los Angeles coach Chuck Knox inserted Namath into the QB slot for the second half, and under Namath's direction the Rams drove for a third-quarter touchdown to take a 22-17 lead.

A 34-yard touchdown pass from Harris to Johnny Rodgers put San Diego back in front, 23-22 in the fourth period, and Tom Dempsey's 35-yard field goal gave the advantage back to the Rams, 25-23.

Fritsch's game-winning field goal was the culmination of a drive that started with Rodgers returning a Rams punt 31 yards.

Harris played the entire game and appears to have blended well with San Diego's system, although he doesn't say it's been easy.

"It's different. Sometimes when I get up to the line of scrimmage I have to stop and think where I am. I need a lot of help."

Harris says he got plenty of help against the Rams.

"I was telling the guys all week long that the Rams were going to be tough. They're a great team and we knew it," Harris says.

"We were prepared for this and I had a lot of support from everybody," he says. "Johnny Rodgers, in particular, made some big plays for us."

Rodgers caught five passes for 80 yards.

Joiner, a former teammate of Harris' at Grambling, says Harris is the one who makes San Diego click. The Chargers are now 3-2 in exhibition games, and Harris has played in only the games San Diego has won.

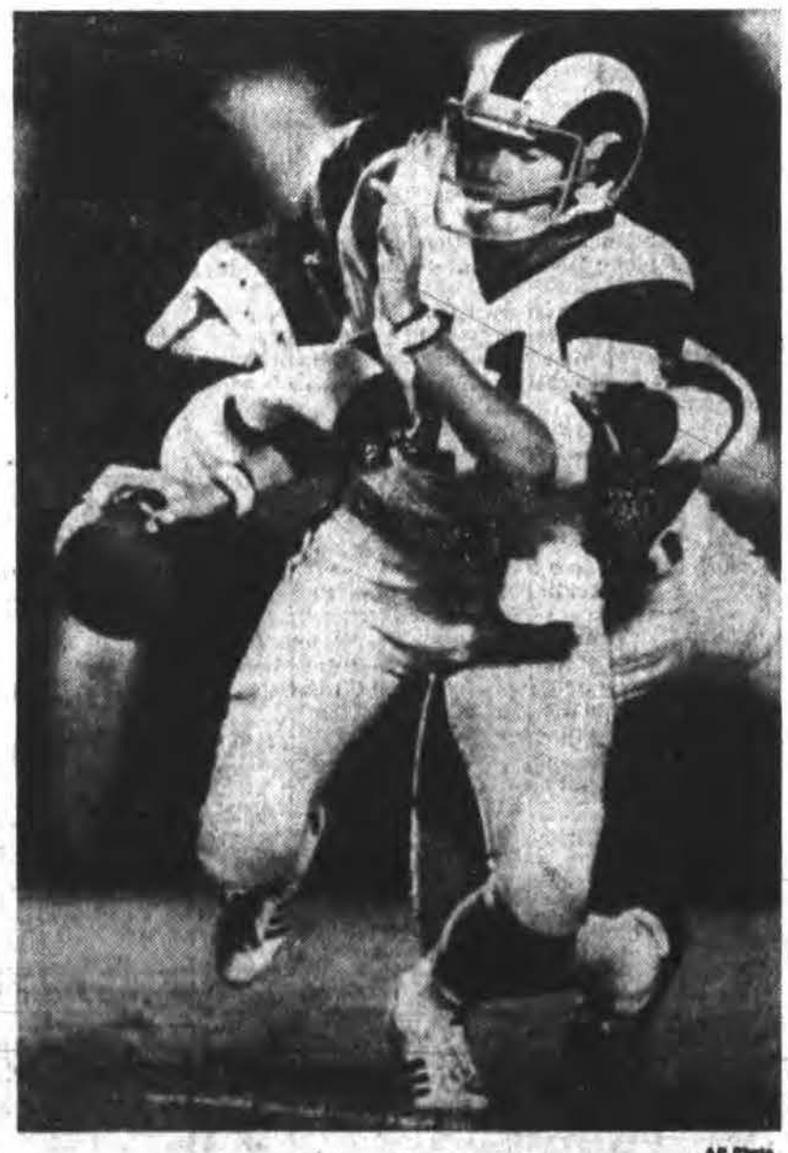

"He's one hell of a guy," Joiner says. "I never met a man who wanted so much to excell at everything he does."

Top Seeds Breeze; Richards Ousted

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — The tall, lean figure glided unsmiling through the gaggle of the curious. Renee Richards seemed grim as she approached her debut among the top women players.

Sixty-one minutes later, she emerged a loser but smiling, her close-cropped hair dripping under an eyelet hat. Wimbledon champion Virginia Wade beat her in the first round Thursday of the U.S. Open Tennis championships 6-1, 6-4. But the pressure was off, if only a little.

"Now I'd like to get rid of this whole zoo-thing," Richards said.

"For Virginia, it was just another tennis match," Dr. Richards said. "For me, of course, it was a very big match."

Borg, the top-seeded Swede who strained his shoulder in a practice session Tuesday, eased past Trey Waltke, 6-2, 6-1 Thursday. Connors, the second seed and defending champion overpowered Jasjit Singh, 6-2, 6-0 although a chronic back ailment hampered his play.

Some have doubted the seriousness of those injuries. Guillermo Vilas, the No. 4 seed and one of the Open favorites, observed, "They can't be hurt too badly or they would have withdrawn."

Dr. Richards, the 43-year-old Newport Beach ophthamologist who was Richard Raskind until a sex-change operation a year ago, had not been welcomed here with open arms. It took an order from a state Supreme Court judge to get her into the Open, from which she's been barred last year when she refused to submit to a sex chromosome test to prove her femininity.

"She's very consistent and hits very deep," Wade said. "She has a nice touch on the racquet. I think she has a nicer reach on the net than many players."

But about the wisdom of admitting Dr. Richards to the ranks of the women pros, a move opposed by many women players and by the Women's Tennis Association before the court ruling, Wade still was negative.

"If it had been my decision to make, things would be different. But it was not my decision," she said, pausing, "and it's all right with me."

Russell Quietly Getting the Job Done

While his teammates have been busy hitting home runs, Los Angeles shortstop Bill Russell has made contributions in other ways for the high-flying Dodgers.

Five members of the National League West leaders haye 20 or more home runs, making it difficult for Russell to be in the spotlight. But teammates of the 28-year-old native of Kansas say they know his value to the team.

"He's one of the most valuable players on our ball club," said Reggie Smith, who has 25 home runs and 74 runs batted in. "He's played a key role in our offense and he's done a great job on defense."

"Bill's done a great job for us this year in every department," said Steve Garvey, who has 28 homers and 95 rbi. "His arm and range have been invaluable and he's contributed better than ever on offense."

"Bill's done a great job for us this year in every department," said Steve Garvey, who has 28 homers and 95 rbi. "His arm and range have been invaluable and he's contributed better than ever on offense."

"He's made the adjustment from batting eighth to batting second very well and has had his best season offensively," said Ron Cey, who has 24 home runs and has driven in 98. "A shortstop has got to be a valuable player if you're going to be a contender and Bill has had a lot to do with where we are."

With 29 games to play, the Dodgers' shortstop is hitting .278 with four homers and 43 rbi. He has 149 hits, only one behind Garvey, the team leader in that department.

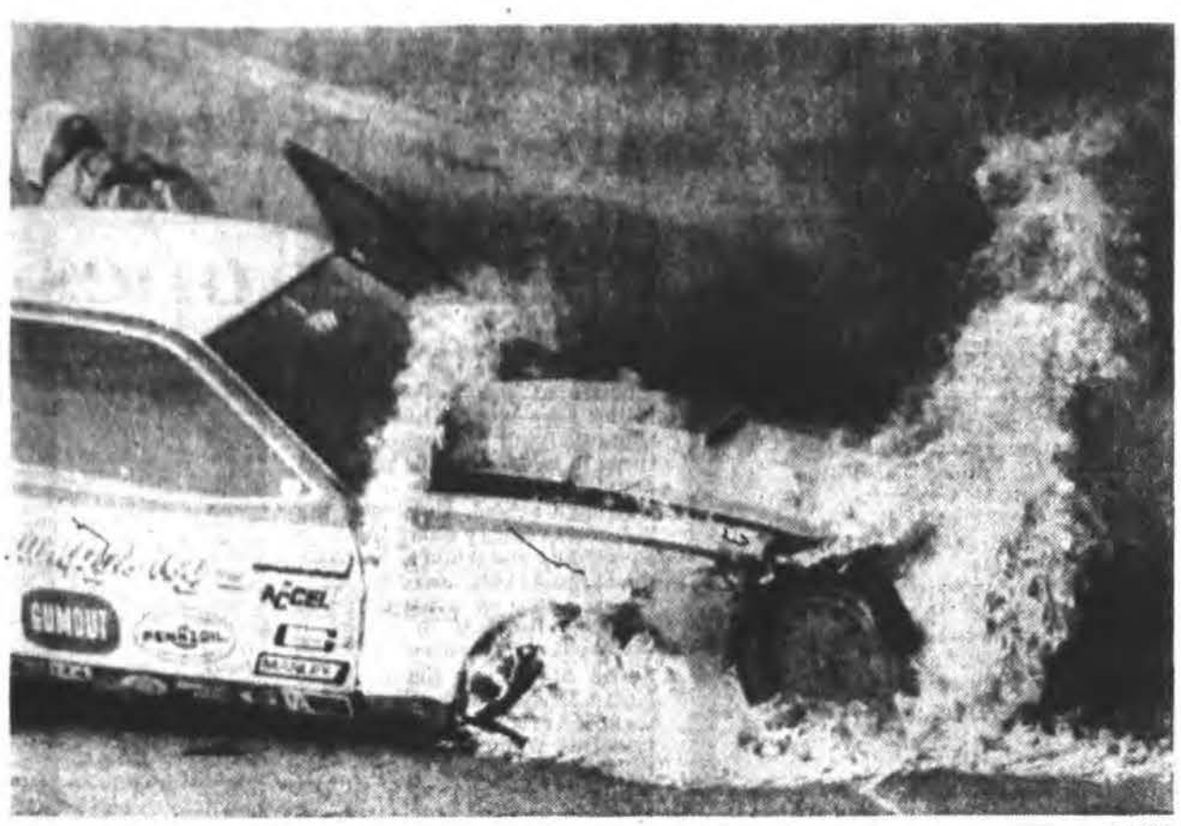

"This has probably been my best year," said Russell. "I think batting second has a lot to do with it. I have more chances to do things offensively than I had when I was batting eighth.

"Plus, the team's winning," added Russell.

Russell became Los Angeles' starting shortstop in 1972, succeeding Maury Wills. A converted outfielder, his memories of becoming a regular aren't particularly happy ones.

"The fans had Pee Wee Reese, Wills and then me," recalled Russell. "And I couldn't catch a ground ball in those days. But I stuck it out. The fans' boos made me play that much harder."

"Basically, the kind of a year I'm having has a lot to do with the confidence I have now," continued Russell. "I'm still learning something every day, but I have a lot more confidence now than I've ever had."

A Lucky Escape

Larry Lombardo of Malvern, Pa. jumps out of his burning dragster at Raceway Park in Indianapolis Thursday during qualifications for the 23rd U.S. Nationals drag races. Lombardo was unhurt but the car was destroyed after blowing a tire and hitting a guard rail.

Fastest Time to Ongais

Doing It a Day Late Means He Is 20th Starter

ONTARIO — Danny Ongais of Newport Beach, may have the fastest car in Sunday's California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway, but he will not start better than 20th position in the 33-car field.

Ongais, the former drag racing star who drives for Ted Field's Interscope Racing out of Costa Mesa, blew an engine in practice on opening day of qualifying Wednesday and had to wait until Thursday to get back on the track.

His speed of 196.389 was faster than pole sitter John Rutherford's time of 195.11 miles per hour but it came on the second day of qualifying, barring him from a better starting position. Nineteen cars qualified Wednesday and 12 more Thursday.

Ongais will start 20th because he qualified on the second day of time trials.

"A combination of a lot of work by many different people put us here," Ongais said upon climbing out of his sleek black Parnelli VPJ turbo. "We had a lot of trouble getting the car to handle. But it worked beautifully today."

Ongais, who now has turned in the fastest qualifying speed in the past three U.S. Auto Club Indianapolis car events, said he was especially disappointed at being deprived of the No. 1 starting position.

"I'm more interested in the fact the car is handling the way it should now, and should be competitive in the race Sunday," he added.

Duane "Pancho" Carter, driving Dan Gurney's All-American Racers Jorgensen Eagle, had a disappointing run of 184.776 Thursday. He made the starting grid. Carter is a Marina High School (Huntington Beach) graduate.

Carter parked his car, hopped out, pushed everyone in his way aside and steamed off to the garage area immediately after qualifying. Minutes later, he was in his street clothes, on his way to the parking lot.

A USAC official reported Carter was upset that a suspension piece broke on the car at the start of his test, causing him to nearly crash. He decided to fight the problem and complete his run, rather than bring it back into pit road for repairs.

Carter said earlier that Gurney has not renewed his contract for next season.

Veteran driver Dick Simon, who calls San Juan Capistrano his home these days, and Steve Krisiloff, recently moved to Dana Point, both qualified on opening day.

Krisiloff barely made the field on opening day, qualifying 19th at 180.551 in an Eagle-Offy. He will be on the inside of the seventh row.

John Martin of Irvine, whose past driving record in the Cal 500 is better than any of the area drivers, also qualified for this year's race. He finished fifth twice and eighth another time in the Ontario race.

Sports in Brief

Archibald Traded; Lions Get Kicker

PISCATAWAY, N.J. — The National Basketball Association Nets announced Thursday they have traded high-scoring guard Nate Archibald to the Buffalo Braves for center George Johnson and the Braves' No. 1 pick in 1979.

Mike-Mayer Acquired

PONTIAC, Mich.—The Detroit Lions, nearing the start of their National Football season without an established placekicker, Thursday acquired Steve Mike-Mayer from the San Francisco 49ers.

Streaks on Line

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Rutgers campaign and boasting the nation's longest winning streak, begins its quest for national recognition tonight when it meets Penn State in the first college football game of the 1977 season.

Rutgers has everything to gain and vitually nothing to lose except an 18-game winning streak that dates back to a 34-20 defeat against Lehigh in 1975.

Penn State, meanwhile, has precious little to gain against a club that finished no better than 17th in the 1976 national rankings despite an 11-0 record and was overlooked by almost everyone except its 11 victims.

LB Man in Finals

COLORADO SPRINGS— Frank Hardison of Laguna Beach defeated John Andersson of Sweden, 1-up, to reach the finals of the World Seniors Golf tournament at Broadmoor Country Club here Thursday.

Hardison played Earl Burt of Paradise Valley in the finals today. He is a two-time Western seniors champion and a nine-time club champion at Oakmont, Santa Ana and Big Canyon.

Hardison, a resident of Emerald Bay, was medalist in the tournament.

Hole-in-one

Forest Smith, chairman of the board at Irvine Coast Country Club, scored a hole-in-one on his course's 179-yard eight hole recently using a 4-wood.

900 Tickets Left For Borg-Laver

Approximately 900 reserved seats at $15 and a few boxes (seating four) at $200, are all that remain for the Rod Laver-Bjorn Borg tennis match at the Irvine Racquet Club Tuesday, Sept. 13.

All general admission tickets ($10) have been sold out for the 3,000-seat stadium and a spokesman for Harbor Day School, beneficiary of the match, says the match will probably be over-subscribed.

Motorcycles Race

Speedway motorcycle action is winding down to the national championships with tonight's action at the Orange County Fairgrounds in Costa Mesa featuring the return to full throttle of Bruce Penhall of Balboa.

Penhall and Mike Bast recently competed in the European championships but were eliminated before the finals. Penhall returned in time for last week's competition at Costa Mesa but a cold and jet lag brought on a poor performance.

He is ready this week and will contest Jim Fishback, Steve Columbo and Alan Christian among others, for the top spot tonight on the weekly card.

Qualifying action has been completed for the nationals at Ventura and San Bernardino. Irwindale will host a qualifying run Sept. 15 and the final one will be staged at Costa Mesa Sept. 16. The national championships will be held at the Orange County Fairgrounds, Oct. 15.

Non-stop Action

Television, Soccer Mull Differences

NEW YORK (AP) — Soccer, a non-stop game, is trying to get on commercial television, the one with the built-in stops every 10 minutes or so.

In fact, it's more like the irrestible object colliding with the immovable force. Soccer is constant action, constant kicking and running. There are no timeouts.

On the other hand, television wouldn't be television without its timeouts, the ones brought to you by your favorite car, deodorant or soft drink.

For soccer to get on national television, a very high priority of the North American Soccer League, something has to give. NASL commissioner Phil Woosnam says he is 99.9 percent sure it won't be the purity of the game, its constant flow of action.

"We're trying to maintain the game in its purest form," says Woosnam, who is shopping around for a national network for weekly broadcasts in 1979. "I know that if we slowed down the game, we would lose some of our appeal.

"The beauty of soccer is the flow of the game. The last thing you want is a stoppage. There has to be another way."

Commercial television is used to one way. Its way. When CBS broadcast soccer in 1973, the players were instructed to stay down for injuries. An injured leg, a hangnail, no matter. They should all take one minute to heal.

In one game, on national television, a player kept trying to get up while the referee kept pushing him down. It was embarrassing to the sport and to the network.

"The barriers aren't with the advertisers, they're with the networks," Woosnam said. "The commercial people are creative. They'll find a way to bring the fans real soccer and their messages, too."

Dr. Pepper, a soft drink company, has initiated the three-quarter screen commercial. While the action of the game was on one-quarter of the screen, the rest of the television set was singing the virtues of the soft drink that's not a cola.

"The Dr. Pepper commercials were very innovative and successful from our standpoint," says Woosnam. "And there's a lot more that could be done in that area."

Other possibilities are transparencies, shorter commercials and a slight tape delay. There are also, Woosnam says, better times to break away from the action. No one wants to miss a goal, especially since they don't come in bunches in soccer.

Goal kicks seem to be the safest times for shilling the products that make the broadcasts all possible. That's when the goalie has the ball and attempts to launch it downfield. Unfortunately the ball doesn't stay airborne for a 30-second spot, but it does stay up there a while and when it lands, it lands in midfield, which isn't goal-scoring territory.

The weakness of soccer on commercial television was glaring on Sunday, when one of the goals in the Cosmos' 2-1 Soccer Bowl victory over Seattle came while the home-screen fans were watching a commercial.

TVS, which had syndicated the game for national television, recovered by giving the TV viewer a quick replay of the goal from two different angles.

"That's what instant replay is all about," said George Gallup, executive vice president of TVS, which holds the contract on televising NASL games for the 1978 season. "I don't see anything else we could have done in that case."

Gallup thinks the American public will accept the occasional problems and that soccer will become a big television sport.

Lionettes Triumph

MERIDEN, Conn. — The Santa Ana Lionettes won the first game of the Women's Professional Softball World Series, defeating the defending world champion Connecticut Falcons 7-3 Thursday night.

Debbie Van Duser belted a single, a double and a two-run homer, accounting for four runs.

Martin to Defend Niguel Net Crown

Billy Martin will be back to defend his 1976 championship at the $25,000 Laguna Niguel International Tennis Classic Sept. 14-18 at Laguna Niguel Tennis Club.

Among Martin's competition will be Wimbledon quarterfinalist Byron Bertram, California open champ Tom Leonard and a hot newcomer to the tour, 18-year-old Elliot Telscher.

Laguna Niguel club owner Peter Paxton says players who have expressed a desire to play and whose entries are still pending include Roy Emerson, Vijay Amritraj, Marty Riessen, John Lloyd and Ray Moore.

Golden West Seeks To Rebound in '77

Head coach Tom Noon lost all but one runner from last year's Golden West College cross country team but still insists the Rustlers can rebound from their last place finish in the Southern California Conference.

The only letterman back from last year's squad which was 1-5 in conference and 1-6 overall is John Turner. The top man on the Rustlers' squad in 1976, the former Westminster High ace was 12th in the conference finals.

Steve Hendricks, a transfer, is being counted upon heavily to help revive the Rustlers' program. A Marina High grad, Hendricks attended the University of Oregon last year before enrolling at GWC.

The major key to the Rustlers' hopes will be the performance of five freshmen. Noon has what he calls three outstanding first year runners in Rudy Arcenega (Edison of Huntington Beach), Greg Boyland (Los Amigos of Fountain Valley) and Kern Easley (Marina of Huntington Beach). He also hopes to get some key help from freshmen Chris DeNovi (Los Amigos) and Rick Horn (Westminster).

Boyland had the best prep times of the group, 4:26.6 for the mile and 9:50 for two miles. Arcenega is close behind with times of 4:29.9 and 9:50.8

A member-member tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10-11 with deadline for entries Sept. 3.

19TH HOLE

Tony Campregher, the former Marina High School golf standout, will play in the Queen Mary Open at El Dorado Municipal Golf Course in Long Beach, Oct. 6-9.

A year ago Campregher had the tournament won had it not been for a two-stroke penalty for illegally tamping down a tuft of grass on the fringe of the second hole in the fourth round.

John Schroeder, waiting to tee off on No. 3, saw the infraction and told Jack Ewing, Campregher's playing partner. The latter reported it to the rules chairman. Campregher didn't deny it; he said he didn't know the rule.

As things turned out, Campregher finished in a tie for the lead but lost out in a playoff. The two-stroke penalty cost him an outright championship.

Dizzy and Daffy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals were the only pair of brothers ever to win all four games for their team in a world series. The Deans did it against the Detroit Tigers in the 1934 classic.

Transfers Bolster Rustlers

With most of the best talent from the Sunset League's two soccer powers on the high school level, the Golden West College Rustlers appear to have a shot at improving on last year's 18-3 record despite the graduation loss of scoring whizzes Juan Sandoval and Abel Dorado.

But the Rustlers have been beefed up with Cal State (Fullerton) transfers Jack Rainwater, Tyrone Blair and Charles Lamb and Biola University transfer Jim Popov.

Others in the picture at Golden West are sophomores Greg Dyer, Sam Nguyen, Steve Arlow and John Summerville and Huntington Beach High freshman Richard Llones.

"I can't promise the same amount of success as last year," says Ghica. "But we should be decent. We're changing our attack from a two-man front (Sandoval and Dorado) to a three-man setup because we have no one to match that type of offensive punch.

"We're strong in the goal with Benbow and Dyer and our mid-field strength is good with Nguyen, Boyle, Popov and Blair. But we don't have the speed we had last year.

Area JCs Scrimmage

Coaches at Golden West College, Orange Coast College and Saddleback College will get a better idea of what lies ahead in the 1977 football campaign Saturday when they send their teams against outside competition in controlled scrimmages.

Saddleback College coach Ken Swearingen enters his second season on the Gauchos campus and has his team colliding with Long Beach City College on the Saddleback campus at 2.

And Orange Coast College coach Dick Tucker has his Pirates involved in the annual double header with MiraCosta College and Rio Hondo, first with MiraCosta at 4:30, then Rio Hondo at 7:30 on the OCC campus.

Disappointment for Hulst

Overweight State Champ Can't Qualify

Eric Hulst, the second place finisher in the NCAA Division II cross country championships a year ago, has failed to make the UC Irvine team this season.

Hulst, an outstanding prep star at Laguna Beach High School for three years, is a sophomore at UCI this season.

"The runners have to run 2½ miles in 10:52.5," coach Len Miller of UCI says. "This is a standard we arrived at after a period of four years of experimentation.

"The reason for that standard is that I expect my athletes to report in shape—at a reasonable level of fitness.

"We had a qualifying run the other day and 10 runners met the standard. Eric reported about 15 pounds overweight and was unable to meet the standard by about six seconds.

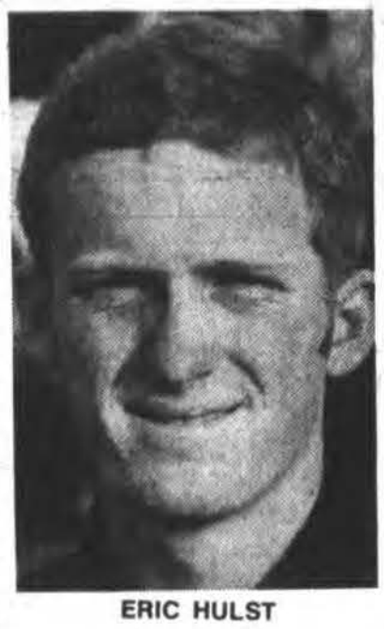

"At the present time, he is still a part of our track program. I am very concerned about helping him and about him helping himself to get back to a level of fitness where he can compete. At the present, he is not at that level."

"It's a combination of things," Miller says. "Eric had a knee problem as a junior in high school and it has been recurring since that time.

"I know the knee was bothering him at the beginning of the summer and he has been working at Forest Homes, a Christian youth resident camp in the mountains. I don't know his responsibilities there but he has always been a big sweet eater.

"He's a super kid and I don't want to cause him any undo embarrassment. I am sure that he was very disappointed and I was shocked by the turn of events.

"We talked for awhile that night and he returned to the mountains for the final week. We will get together again Saturday." Hulst was not available for comment.

ERIC HULST

Hulst is on a track scholarship at UCI and retains that position at the present time. Whether he will be able to get back on the school's cross country team this year remains to be seen. Miller would not commit himself on this possibility.

Steve Scott, UCI's premiere mile and 1,500-meter star, is in Europe at the present time. Miller says he will have to run the qualifying race when he returns to be eligible for the cross country team.

In high school, Hulst was the 2-A cross country champion as a sophomore and again as a senior, missing out in his junior season.

Last year, as a freshman at UCI, he finished in a virtual deadheat with teammates Ralph Serna and Steve Scott at the NCAA Division II meet and was awarded second behind Serna, a two-time winner. Scott finished third.

Hulst finished 34th in the Division I meet, highest of any UCI runner.

In the spring, he dropped out of the 10,000 meter run and scratched from the 5,000 at the Division II gathering.

Wisconsin Ace on Probation

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Running back Ira Matthews, one of the key players in Wisconsin's hopes for a winning football season, has been placed on one year's probation for fraudulent use of a credit card.

Matthews, 20, of Rockford, Ill., had pleaded no contest to the charge Aug. 5. He was placed on probation Tuesday by Dane County Judge William Buenzli.

Assistant District Attorney Daniel Mathews recommended the probation. Robert Harris, former freshman halfback who was charged with Matthews, also pleaded no contest and was placed on probation earlier.

Both were arrested May 22 after buying clothing and sporting equipment. Fraudulent use of a credit card is a misdemeanor which carries a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and a year in jail.

ABC

will have something for everyone, as long as everyone's not looking for anything new and different. There's a "President's Men" takeoff (left) called "Washington: Behind Closed Doors," with Jason Robards (front) as the president. It will air from 8:30 to 11 p.m. Tuesday, continuing from 9 to 11 p.m. through Sept. 11 on Channel 7. Then there's "Soap" (top right), an outrageous adult comedy series that has already aroused controversy (shades of "Mary Hartman"?), premiering at 9:30 p.m. Sept. 13, and a bit of froth called "Operation Petticoat" (below right) about a group of beautiful nurses aboard a submarine. It will premiere at 8:30 p.m. Sept. 17.

NBC

can't be called overly daring — it's sticking to the tried-and-true "Laugh-In" (below), which will return for six monthly specials beginning Monday at 8 p.m. on Channel 4. Guest stars will include Bette Davis, Barry Goldwater, Ralph Nader and quite a few others. "Laugh-In's" old standby Arte Johnson (left) will be making his own mark as a guest star on "C'mon, Saturday!", a one-hour preview of NBC's 1977-78 Saturday morning children's programs. That will air at 8 p.m. Sept. 9.

New Season On TV: Look Familiar?

CBS

is capitalizing on a few trends of its own. There's a foray into science fiction with "Logan's Run" starring Gregory Harrison and Heather Menzies (above), a spinoff from the film about an oppressive future society. It will begin at 9 p.m. Sept. 16 on Channel 2. Fans of the old "Mary Tyler Moore Show" can turn to the new "Betty White Show," which will feature Ms. White and Georgia Engel (above left), both veteran MTM actresses, premiering at 9 p.m. Sept. 12. Youngsters seeking some televised action may enjoy "Wacko," a Saturday morning series billed as high on zany sights and sounds in short slapstick skits. Julie McWhirter and Bo Kaprall (left) star in the series beginning at noon Sept. 17.

Myself, having been professionally in the art world for more than 30 years, find it incredible, how much there is still for me to learn. Were I to live for another 250 years, I would have just scratched the surface, in search for Art and its thousand facets.

Labor Day: Time to Take It Easy and Dine Out

The long Labor Day weekend looms as a favorable time to catch up on a lot of good intentions that fell by the wayside through an all-too-short and busy summer.

For many of us that may be seizing the chance to enjoy a little peace and quiet — for a change.

THREE DAYS provide an opportunity to set sail for some long-promised out 'n' abouting at a few of the fine dining and entertainment spots in Orange County.

Just bear in mind the important thing is returning home Monday night in peak condition — with a mellow afterglow that begs repetition of the proceedings on the next likely occasion.

By way of entertainment "best bets" for the holiday, you're sure to come out a winner with any of the following.

HUNTINGTON BEACH INN — The Orange Coast's Germaine, backed by Clear Days, in the Trinidad Lounge, Tuesday through Saturday, 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. — 21112 Pacific Coast Highway, Huntington Beach, 536-1421.

NEWPORTER INN — Talented group "Awakening" entertains and plays dance music nightly, 9 to 1, in the Lido Lounge — 1107 Jamboree Road, Newport Beach, 644-1700.

ON THE BASIS of advance raves by several tipsters, we're looking forward to visiting a new restaurant in Laguna Beach at the earliest opportunity.

It's the Mai Tai, a Chinese and Polynesian establishment, that has taken up where the old House of Hyun left off at 410 Broadway, near the Festival of Arts grounds. Owner Sam Chin, we're told, once operated a restaurant of like concept in the Bahama Islands.

The Mai Tai is offering an extensive lunch and dinner menu, seven days a week, together with tropical drinks featuring fresh juices in the Bali Lounge.

Eleven Polynesian dinners include war bar (pork, chicken, shrimp and vegetables), deviled lobster and tempura shrimp and vegetables. Price range is $4.50 to $6.50.

ALSO: half a dozen soups, from 50 cents; 28 a la carte Cantonese dishes from $2.35; combination plates at $3.95. Family dinners, all at $4.95, permit varied selection of courses.

Each person in the party can choose one of 14 entrees like moo goo gai pan, almond chicken, beef with Chinese vegetables, chop suey, barbecued spareribs or roast pork lo mein. Included is dim sum, egg roll or won-ton, egg drop, pork won-ton or chicken soup, rice, tea and cookies.

Lunch is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.; dinner to 11 p.m. Reservations and take out, 494-9980.

Ed Flanders: True to Truman

NEW YORK (AP) — When you meet Ed Flanders for the first time, you're tempted to ask him how daughter Margaret is doing, how things are in Independence, Mo., and how Bess is faring.

Flanders has played the role of Harry S Truman three times now — the latest in "MacArthur" — and critics and audiences agree that he seems to become the man rather than to impersonate him.

The affable acting veteran of 25 years thinks the finest accolade for his portrayal of the President came from Margaret Truman, who said only that his hairline was 1½ inches too far back.

FLANDERS — 42, blue-eyed, with short, curly and graying hair; he doesn't look at all like Truman—is pleased, too, that many who knew Truman well have seen the film and "it didn't jolt anybody. There was enough of the man there. That's as much as an actor can hope for: Capture the essence — then talk fast."

Flanders started acting at age 17 at San Diego's Globe Theater. He has a list of credits topped by a Tony Award and an Emmy for his role in "A Moon for the Misbegotten," stage and television versions. He started the Truman characterization with "Truman at Potsdam," followed by the one-man show, "Plain Speaking," both for television.

It was in preparation for the David Susskind production of "Plain Speaking" that Flanders saw film of Truman and "got to look at Harry talking," picking up the "melody, his speech: So fast. And I read as many books as I could get my hands on.

"Then it was only 'learn them words and don't stumble over the furniture.'"

There was, of course, more to the transformation.

"I'M BASICALLY a technical actor, I'm not into tertiary motivations. What's more important to me is that it looks right and sounds right."

"Getting his sound" was the first thing he set about to accomplish, Flanders said, treating a listener to the subtle inflections of the "Missoura-Oklahoma-Kansas thing." Then came the mannerisms.

The "look right" for "MacArthur" came with the help of makeup artist Dick Smith. It took three hours each day to put on the rubbery face, and he had to wear it another 10 hours or so during the shooting day. "You can't relax with that makeup. . .I couldn't eat, I couldn't do anything else."

The facial transformation was a meticulous mirror based on photographs of Truman. "We argued a couple of times about the nose," Flanders says. Smith won that one. "My face is rounder; Truman's jaw was bigger. We fixed up the jowls. . .I was 'Larry Latex.' Wear rubber, will travel."

A LIVELY SENSE of humor is something actor Flanders shares with the man he depicts. In fact, that Truman quality struck Flanders most of all.

"Even in the MacArthur crisis," when the President fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a dispute over Korea, "that survival instinct comes out in humor," Flanders says.

The actor professes genuine respect and affection for Truman. "Like him or not, you knew what you had. After Watergate, that's fresh air. He was not pompous; he was a down-on-ground horse trader. The man's directness was enough. And his honesty. I have great respect for the man."

Flanders' Truman in "MacArthur" probably will be the last. The makeup difficulty was part of the decision. "The color's been stripped out of my hair. . .I did it for 'me art.'"

What's next? Move? Play?

"I'M LOOKING for a play. It's been eight years since I did 'Moon' with Jason Robards. I've read maybe a dozen plays since. I don't know where people are coming from anymore," he says, referring to his displeasure with those scripts. "Maybe I'm getting older than I think."

In the interim, Flanders has directed Robards in a stage production of "That Championship Season" in Florida and has done a television program about journalist and newspaper editor William Allen White — without "rubber."

Ed Flanders (left) plays Harry Truman to Gregory Peck's MacArthur in the film 'MacArthur.' Flanders, 42, has been portraying the ex-president on TV as well as in the movies.

A pair of oldies that should nevertheless be quite new to Orange Coast audiences have been cast by the Laguna Moulton Playhouse and the Costa Mesa Civic Playhouse.

Laguna will open its new season with a theatrical antique from the archives of 50 years ago, "The Royal Family" by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber. Costa Mesa's inaugural production will be Peter Shaffer's pair of one-act comedies, "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye."

Doug Rowe, recently installed as managing director of the Laguna theater, is staging "Royal Family," a comedy about a family resembling the Barrymores. "The Royal Family" opens Sept. 13 and will play Tuesdays through Saturdays at 8:30 and Sundays at 2:30 at the playhouse, 606 Laguna Canyon Road, Laguna Beach. At Costa Mesa, guest director Paul Williams is mounting the Shaffer playlets, his first assignment in Orange County. A recent college graduate, Williams has directed community and college productions in Sacramento and Long Beach.

Cast in "The Private Ear" are Louis Shilling, Dale Griggiths and Ron Ellison. The cast of "The Public Eye" includes Dan Weinell, Yolla Mering and Ted Knorr.

The one-act comedies will open Sept. 16 for a run of three weekends, Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30, in the Civic Playhouse at the Community Recreation Center on the Orange County Fairgrounds. Call 556-5459 for reservations.

Musical Catches Mood

By BOB THOMAS
The Associated Press

"NEW YORK, NEW YORK" succeeds in capturing the sounds, styles and mood of the big band era following World War II. It fails in achieving workable scenes or audience interest. Liza Minnelli is in splendid voice and creates sympathy as the patient wife. Robert DeNiro continues the unexplained violence of "Taxi Driver." Rated PG.

"MARCH OR DIE" skirts the edge of travesty and too often falls over the brink. Unlike Marty Feldman's recent effort, this Foreign Legion movie is not supposed to be a comedy, but it nevertheless evokes laughter with grandiloquent speeches and absurd action. Too bad, because the cast is impressive and the photography superior. PG.

"OUTLAW BLUES" is startling — a grits-and-chase movie with charm and sparkle. Peter Fonda is a folk-singing convict who leaves prison to learn that a country music star (James Callahan) stole his hit song. Music-wise Susan Saint James helps Fonda achieve retribution. B.W.L. Norton's clever script and Richard T. Heffron's sure-handed direction make "Outlaw Blues" a summer delight. PG.

"ONE ON ONE" is another happy summer surprise, an unpretentious film brimming with heart and laughter. Robby Benson is an undersized basketball hotshot who learns the pitfalls of an athletic factory. Benson and his father, Jerry Segal, wrote the spare script, and Lamont Johnson directed with an understanding of the campus scene. Rated PG, but there's little to guide children about.

"MACARTHUR" convincingly reproduces the look and feel of the wars in the Pacific and Korea. Gregory Peck possesses the physical bearing and the heroic quality of the larger-than-life warrior, but his complexities are not captured in the Hal Barwood-Matthew Robbins script. Splendid support comes from Dan O'Herlihy as President Roosevelt and Ed Flanders as President Truman. Rated PG.

"HERBIE GOES TO MONTE CARLO" continues the adventures of the Disney Superbug. This time the intelligent VW is engaged in a road race between Paris and Monaco and a romance with a fetching powder-blue Lancia piloted by Julie Sommars. Herbie's long-suffering owner is Dean Jones, and Don Knotts is his bumbling mechanic. The film contains everything except spontaneous wit. Rated G.

"THE SPY WHO LOVED ME" is vintage Bond; this time the indefatigable 007 joins with his former enemies of KGB, principally a nubile stunner played by Barbara Bach, in combating a shipping magnate — Curt Jurgens — who collects nuclear submarines. Director Lewis Gilbert maintains a modicum of believability and Roger Moore no longer seems uncomfortable following Sean Connery's act. Rated PG.

"THE LAST REMAKE OF BEAU GESTE" makes a game try at finding laughs in a spoof of foreign legion movies. Some of the gags are outrageously funny, many are simply outrageous. Marty Feldman and Michael York play identical twins (twins?) who join the legion. Ann-Margret is their lascivious stepmother. Peter Ustinov plays the sadistic sergeant. PG.

"THE DEEP" is a supernatural adventure, not as horrifying as "Jaws" but more satisfying. A couple (Jacqueline Bisset, Nick Nolte) discover that World War II wreck on a scuba-diving vacation in Bermuda. The cargo: morphine. Underneath is a sunken ship with Spanish gold. Director Peter Yates ("Bullitt") keeps the action moving above and below the water. Rated PG.

"STAR WARS" is a landmark film, a work of such soaring imagination that it will set standards for years to come. The cast, headed by Alec Guinness, Mark Hamill and Carrie Fisher, is uniformly good, but the real stars are the special effects wizards. Rated PG.

"A BRIDGE TOO FAR" reproduces a World War II operation in a lavish style that the wartime Allies could scarcely afford. The spectacle is impressive, and the human stories are intelligently directed. Rated PG, the film contains much battlefield gore.

"ROCKY" gives the movie audience a shot of adrenalin. As modern as today, it is nevertheless made like old-fashioned movie, with vitality and heart. Sylvester Stallone wrote the starring role for himself, and gives a once-in-a-lifetime performance as a boxing bum turned contender. Talia Shire and Burgess Meredith also shine. Rated PG.

A Quick Look at the Movies

Dr. Dean Brooks, head of Oregon State Hospital, played Dr. Spivey (right) in scene with Jack Nicholson from 'Cuckoo'

'Cuckoo's Nest' Visited

An in-depth look at the mental hospital that provided the authentic background of the Oscar-winning film "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" will be presented when KCET offers "Inside the Cuckoo's Nest," Thursday at 9 p.m. on Channel 28.

The Oregon State Hospital, a 90-year-old institution in Salem, Ore., is the focus of this enlightening and disturbing film.

FOUNDED IN 1883 as an asylum for the insane, it has evolved into a modern therapeutic community that houses patients ranging from criminals and drug abusers to schizophrenics and manic depressives.

The realities of mental illness and institutionalization are sharply contrasted with the fiction presented in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

Stars Jack Nicholson, Louise Fletcher, William Redfield, and others discuss the impact of the filmmaking experience on their lives and comment on the honesty and realism that was attempted in their film.

DR. DEAN Brooks, Oregon State Hospital's superintendent and a recognized authority on alcoholism and innovative therapeutic procedures, portrayed the chief psychiatrist in the feature film. Many staff members had smaller speaking roles, and 89 patients worked as salaried members of the production crew during the filming.

They recount their experiences working with recognized Hollywood celebrities in a situation where they had no technical experience.

In addition, Dr. Brooks comments on his dedication to the making of the feature film, despite peer criticism, and mentions that, though fictionalized and often technically dated, the film "has exploded into consciousness the things we have refused to look at." He also cooperated fully in the filming of the documentary.

She's No Jazz 'Freak' Now

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In the super-hyped world of entertainment, a very young, black woman who happens to be a jazz pianist is like a walking dollar sign — a marketable item.

"Right off the bat I felt like that," said Patrice Rushen, who fit that bill exactly. "I was 17 and at the time that all the record companies hit on me. . .Bobbi Humphrey (the jazz flutist) had just hit the scene and she was really hot. Naturally every company was looking for an answer to her.

"Here I was, short, black, a musician and involved in jazz — it was automatic."

RUSHEN

NOW 22, SHE'S a seasoned musician who has appeared on 12 albums for seven companies, including three as a leader for Fantasy Records. She has arranged scores for television and her music has been recorded by prominent jazz musicians, including saxophonist Azar Lawrence and drummer Norman Connors.

The freak-show promotion is over, Ms. Rushen said in an interview. The public and her peers have to take her art seriously.

In a recent engagement here, Ms. Rushen engineered a 12-piece band, playing acoustic and electronic keyboards. She raced through the funky, upbeat set — most her own compositions — with her three-inch platform shoes helping her reach the foot pedals.

Still, she doesn't carry herself like the child wonder who at the age of 3 took part in an experimental course at the University of Southern California designed to introduce children to music. At 5 she began learning the piano and 13 years later she signed with Fantasy.

TO BE MARKETED solely on the basis of her sex is one aspect of her public life Ms. Rushen said she finds particularly unappealing. But being a woman also has its advantages.

"I'm definitely not trying to play down the feminine thing, by any means, because it has really been to my advantage," she said. "If I walk out on the stage and the audience is chit-chatting, as soon as I walk out they stop. I can hear it."

Ms. Rushen is her own manager, has her own publishing firm and is happy to count herself among the new breed of musicians who want to take control of their own music.

As for the question of race, Ms. Rushen said economics overshadow racial biases in the industry. Promotion is the name of the game.

Drought Theories, Effects to Be Aired

KNBC/Channel 4 will telecast a 30-minute documentary that explores Southern California's water predicament from a few new angles. "A Drop in the Bucket" is scheduled to air Monday at 7:30 p.m.

"A Drop in the Bucket," narrated by weather reporter Pat Sajak, gives a historical review of Southern California's dependence on outside water sources.

LOWELL PONTE, researcher and author of "The Cooling," discusses his views on the speculation that the earth is going through an extreme evolutionary climate change, and predicts the effects of this change.

"People-on-the-street" interviews reveal that residents do not realize the crisis a continued drought could create. While there is a consensus for conservation, there is also a lack of understanding as to why we are paying more for less water.

William Sachau, chief financial officer of the Department of Water and Power, explains why water bills do not decrease, though usage does.

Conrad Jaminson, economist with the Security Pacific National Bank, discusses the economic impact of the water shortage.

Chief meterologist with the National Weather Service Joe Vederman explains that no one can accurately predict weather patterns in the distant future, which is why peculation goes from one extreme to the other.

Dur Thetford, executive manager of th Orange County Farm Bureau, iscusses the impact of the water shortage on agriculture. More crop farming will have to switch to other ways of irrigation, such as the drip method.

He Boosts Theaters

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK — Danny Newman is an expert people collector, undismayed that most of them have never heard of him.

In the upper echelons of the performing arts on three continents, he is very well known indeed.

"I take a certain pride in working behind the scenes," the chunky operative asserts. "When business booms for an opera, dance, music or theater company, it's only justice that the credit should go to the brilliance of performers and directors.

"MY JOB IS MAKING the connection between public and organization so that audiences renew support in very large percentiles."

Newman's specialty, which he works at with crusader zeal and computer savvy, is developing the financial stability of ongoing culture projects through subscription ticket sales.

In moments of euphoria, the consultant on audience development — his official title — dreams of auditoriums totally filled with subscribers through an entire season.

"All factors are expandable," he replies when asked about spectators who might like to see a single show. "A few performances can almost always be added to a schedule."

DURING THE current year, the 58-year-old specialist is on an awesome itinerary that makes him one of the best friends airlines ever had. "I travel further in a year than Kissinger did at his busiest."

Under sponsorship of the Ford Foundation, which launched him on the way to global action 15 years ago, Newman is an advisor to 75 of the nation's 173 professional drama companies — "I haven't got around to the others yet."

He also is tending the needs of 42 domestic symphonies, 18 opera managements, seven ballet dance groups and six arts centers.

For the Canada Arts Council he advises 60 performing organizations, from Charlottetown on Prince Edward Island to Vancouver in British Columbia. More distant calls take him to England's Birmingham and to Holland, Israel, Scotland and Australia.

Being invisible publicly hasn't afflicted Newman with inordinate modesty when recounting accomplishments. For anyone interested, he has a 48-page list of encomiums that have come his way over the years.

"Every time we make a demonstration, we touch off activities in all the area around." Newman likes to describe his work in the first person plural, although he operates largely by himself.

"There are two important aspects that affect the economic stability of performing arts groups. One is subscription, the other is fund raising. All too frequently priority has been given that second element, but the first one is the most important."

He poses a question: "What's the use of opening a building and arranging productions before you know that you've got an audience big enough to pay expenses?"

NEWMAN FEELS such inverted reasoning accounts for the difficulty many fledgling theaters have had: "If critics pan the first show, nobody comes. If you get past that one, maybe the second runs into sub-zero temperatures."

The subscription idea wasn't invented by Newman — "opera companies have been using it for a hundred years" — but he has extended, orchestrated and organized ticket-in-advance campaigns over a broader culture spectrum. He reels off an imposing list of cases where the Newman method has doubled, tripled and even quadrupled subscription support.

Campaign details vary widely "depending on all sorts of variables" but the centerpiece is an intensive brochure mailing campaign.

"In a big city we'll send out a million brochures," followed by ancillary promotional devices. A compendium of such recommendations are being incorporated into a book "Subscribe Now!," which Newman is preparing for distribution by the Theater Communications Group, a service organization, in October.

"IT'S WORTH anything to get a subscriber," the benign Pied Piper of culture asserts, "because once someone joins he will probably renew." A renewal rate of from 50 to 80 percent is healthy.

Turnover is inevitable, but catching a replacement "costs from 10 to 20 times what a renewal does. One dividend is that subscribers frequently become contributors as well to the inevitable operating deficit."

Kids Present News Program

"Elementary News," Los Angeles' Emmy-Award-winning newscast for and by children, launches its sixth year this fall. The show offers a mixture of news, feature stories, interviews, book reviews and speciality reports such as "Overheard in the Adult News," and "Beasties and Things."

Hosting the show, which airs Saturday and Sunday mornings at 7, on Metromedia Television's KTTV Channel 11, are four anchor-kids, ages 9 to 11. In addition to anchoring the show, the youngsters interview guests and do some location reporting.

NONE OF THE children are actors. They're all chosen from the Los Angeles school district. The primary requirement for an audition is an ability to read at the college level.

"Overheard in the Adult News" tackles difficult concepts (i.e., impeachment, Red China, income tax, strikes, grand juries, Vietnam, devaluation, Mideast War and Northern Ireland), explaining them in terms children can understand with the help of specially designed graphics.

THE SHOW ALSO has an adult following. According to producer Marge Hunter, "They especially like 'Overheard in the Adult News' because it offers simple explanations of complex issues."

"Elementary News" is endorsed by the Association for Childhood Education, and is a recipient of the Jonathan Swift Award of the Southern California Teachers Association.

She Learns a Lot

Audience Responds to 'Teacher'

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Estelle Parsons in her latest role feels like a lion tamer in a circus.

"I have to watch all the time," she says. "Anything can happen and I have to decide how to react."

Instead of flying claws or fangs, the Parsons wariness is directed against paper missiles, an occasional apple, verbal taunts or the sudden intrusion on stage of a mischievous member of the audience.

THAT SHE'S really asked for such disruption doesn't diminish subliminal histrionic unease. For the doughty portrayer of sundry distraught characters on stage and screen is trying an unusual experiment in audience passive-active play participation.

The piece, which she took to Joe Papp's downtown Public Theater for test, is "Miss Margarida's Way." In it she enacts a most skittish teacher of an eighth grade class — the audience of 300 or so out front.

The only other cast member is a chap who appears briefly, his second visit ending with a Parsons-applied karate chop. For the rest of the theatrical flow, Miss Parsons relies on the willy-nilly interplay with the people who came to be entertained.

"I haven't had anything like this since I was making street-corner speeches for Adlai Stevenson," she reports. That was back in the greening years of the 49-year-old actress, a phase ended when NBC ruled partisan campaigning ill-became a reporter for the "Today" show.

SHE SEES A great future for "Miss Margarida's Way" on the college circuit, an outing probable next season.

"They'll really understand it," she says.

The play, written by Brazilian Roberto Athayde, now 27, has had 55 productions in 25 countries, and was brought to her attention by Andre Ernotte, a Belgian journalist-director. Before that, Ellen Burstyn had been interested.

Athayde, who during a somewhat hectic scholastic career learned English and briefly studied musical composition at the University of Michigan, undertook to direct Miss Parsons, an experience she speaks of with accustomed bluntness.

"He doesn't communicate much, so he gives me a worse problem. He's there, he sees the play, but he never speaks to me. He says it's my piece and has to be what suits me. If something doesn't suit, he says cut it."

SHE TRIMMED each one-hour act to 40 minutes.

Out of creative tribulation, which was augmented by the fact that Miss Parsons needed six weeks — instead of her usual three or four — to memorize the convoluted script, she evolved a performance alternating between sweetly benign and highly agitated. The jumps are what stimulate unpredictable reactions that vary widely from night to night.

"Miss Margarida is afraid of any power greater than hers," she summarizes. "There are a lot of different personalities in it, not just a repressed woman."

Through recurrent cycles, she builds from calm to frenzy. An Actors Studio veteran, she avoids articulation of how she romps that emotional carousal.

"If you had to face that audience staring, daring, you could build yourself up to anything," she comments.

MISS PARSONS won an Oscar in her first film, "Bonnie and Clyde," has recurrently enthralled since on the screen in "Rachel, Rachel" and on the stage in such distaff excesses as "The Seven Descents of Myrtle," "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little," through last season's "Ladies at the Alamo."

Such traumatic impersonations, she reflects, "have made me more assertive and definite, though they don't have much to do with the real me.

"I don't really care too much about playing characters. I'm more interested in myself. I like real life better than the theater, and I'm not very theatrical in real life. I just get up and do the shopping and go to the Y."

Oyster Cult Calming Down

By LISA ROBINSON

"Okay, ask me what I think about punk rock," laughed Allen Lanier as we sat in New York's Downey's restaurant during a recording break of Blue Oyster Cult's new LP.

"I mean we, too, were banned at one time."

Not any more. With their most recent album ("Agents of Fortune") about to go platinum, BOC, the band who performed years ago in all-black leather with a Nazi flag on stage, is most definitely an established superstar band.

How did it happen, and how do they feel about it?

ROCK TALK

"MAYBE EVERYONE just got used to us," said Allen. "I suppose our music became more musical, perhaps that's why there's less written about us these days. Everyone in the band spends their time and energy on the music.

"Initially we were an outrageous band, but that was a way of garnering publicity. We didn't plot it out, we just had a penchant for going with what occurred to us at the moment. When you're on the outside, it's real easy to do that kind of stuff — to think, 'Let's do something real obnoxious,' and sure enough, it gets publicity.

"It's inevitable that as you get more successful you get more boring or predictable. Because when you're starting out you're full of all this contrariness and anger, you're on the outside trying to break in. Then all of a sudden you've broken in, and you have to look around and say what's next. . .to have a hit.

"THERE ARE ALL these goals that crop up, and it has nothing to do with whether one is more virtuous than the other. It's just to get there.

"With 'Agents of Fortune,' the big difference was the production, and the fact that everybody played better than they did before. And on this new record we play better still. There were a lot of weaknesses on the last record that I don't hear on this one, it feels real strong to me.

"I hate to use the word, but it's real professional. It's not really radical anymore, except personally. It's as radical as any kind of art can be, just because it's trying to be something good."

As for success: "I'm happy, I feel we deserve it. It doesn't surprise me, I don't really think about it. I eat better food, I live in a better apartment, but substantially it hasn't changed my life all that much. We get to pick and choose what we do more, but it doesn't make being on the road any easier."

BLUE OYSTER Cult seem to always be on the road, they have intensely devoted audiences, and they give them a show. Allen laughingly admits that there is a "laser one-upmanship warfare" going on in rock and roll right now. "We use lasers as part of our show because in a 15,000-seat hall it helps to make it more intimate, it pulls the audience up to the stage.

"But to me, there's nothing more exciting than having a lot of songs that everybody loves. You can do a million things, but there's nothing really better than playing the opening chords of a song and having the audience go 'yeah!' That's why I like to have hits, I think hits are great.

"Show business is scary because you always know that tomorrow it could be boom, it could be nothing. It's like owning a bar, it's a day-to-day situation. It's still a lot of fun, otherwise we wouldn't do it. I can't think of anything else that's better.

"When you get on stage there's that great illusion of power that I still find addictive. It's an enormous rush, and I think rock and roll bands still have a political power and influence. . ."

GIVE IT A TEN!
It's not often that we offer for sale a bayfront residence that, on a scale of 1 to 10, gets a full 10 in every department. But we can now.
Overlooking the very hub of Newport Harbor's boating activity, the 270° view is breathtaking. For quality & detail, it gets a 10 because it was hand constructed by an old fashioned, old world craftsman — custom built for a perfectionist by a perfectionist. Antiques & artifacts from around the world are permanently built-in, providing a rare charm & sophistication seldom found in a home today.
If $950,000 (on exceptionally good terms) sounds like a reasonable price for a bayfront home that scores 10 out of 10, why not let us tell you about it.

Anita Slams Gulf Coast

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, packing winds up to 155 miles per hour, slammed into the northeast Mexican coast before dawn today, washing out roads, uprooting trees and tearing off rooftops in a dozen or more fishing villages.

There was no immediate report of casualties. At least some of the villages had been evacuated hours beforehand.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Electric power was cut off in Soto La Marina, the town directly in the hurricane's path as it came ashore at about 4 a.m., rushing in at 120 m.p.h.

Soto la Marina and La Pesca, both on the edge of the Laguna Madre, had most of their residents evacuated by the Army early Thursday ahead of torrential rains and vicious winds.

"People are more afraid of the wind than the water," Flores said.

Mayor Leonel Tavares said the drought of recent months would help keep floods to a minimum.

Anita, first hurricane of the season, initially aimed its punch at the lower Texas coast, but veered south Thursday morning and drifted into northeastern Mexico, as South Texas sighed with relief.

In Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Tex., nearly 8,000 people had been taken to shelters. Officials said today most of them were returning to their homes and there appeared to be little danger of flooding.

"We were very, very lucky," said Brownsville meteorologist Al Dreumont, "torrential rains and excessive winds missed us by only 25 miles."

The National Weather Service said that the primary concern was a serious threat of flash floodings in northeastern Mexico as rains of more than eight inches fell in the area.

Presley Plot

Suspect Denies Theft Plan Hoax

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A man who told police of a plot to steal Elvis Presley's body for $10 million ransom says he and two other men were offered $40,000 to remove the body from its tomb.

Ronnie Lee Adkins said Thursday in an interview that another man was to hold the body until the Presley family paid the $10 million.

Some police officials have said privately the affair was a hoax, but Adkins denied this.

Adkins was one of three men arrested Monday near Forest Hill Cemetery, where the rock 'n' roll singer was entombed following his death from a heart attack last month. The Presley mausoleum had been staked out by officers on a tip from Adkins that the body would be stolen and ransomed. Adkins and the others were charged with trespassing. Police said they found no explosives or burglary tools.

Later, Police Director E. Winslow Chapman said Adkins was a police informant and he was recommending that the charge against him be dropped.

A repliminary hearing for Adkins, Raymond M. Green, 25, and Bruce Eugene Nelson, 30, was postponed Tuesday until Oct. 4.

Jay Fred Friedman, attorney for Green and Nelson, has suggested that his clients were themselves unwitting victims of a plot. He said his clients were not at the cemetery to steal a body.

Adkins said he was recruited to help steal Presley's body from the Memphis funeral home before it was moved to the entertainer's mansion for funeral services.

But he said police security blocked the plan. He said the plan was changed to call for theft of the body from its crypt at the Forest Hill Cemetery mausoleum.

An Enquirer spokesman said Thursday about six million copies of the paper were sold, compared to an average weekly circulation of about five million.

Enquirer President Ian Calder said the photo was "a super photo" but refused to say how it was taken. Cameras were not allowed in the room where the singer's body was on display.

Beaches Brace For Holiday Fun Seekers

Hundreds of thousands of Southern Californians trying to make the most of the last three-day weekend of the year began their Labor Day pilgrimages today.

The weather forecast abetted the holiday migration: Mostly sunny skies and air and water temperatures in the low 70s along the Orange County coast.

Mountain temperatures were in the mid to upper 70s, to nearly 90 degrees at California's campers' mecca, Yosemite National Park, where there's no room for anyone without a reservation.

State parks space has been reserved for a month.

The Orange County parks department reported it expected full, first-come, first-serve use of parks.

Local state parks superintendents said the best chance people have to find space this weekend is along the strands of Bolsa Chica and Huntington State beaches.

Predicted fogs and low morning and afternoon clouds — and stiff westerly winds — may discourage some sunbathers.

Oh, Where Has Little Frog Gone?

The Huntington Beach City School District trustee said the big frog, whose mouth opens to make a seat, was taken from her front porch at the corner of Bushard Street and Mokihanna Drive.

"He's sort of a landmark on the corner. Children who pass by always say hello or 'rivet, rivet'," she said, adding, "He's kind of a flirt because he's been known to wink his left eye at some people."

If the frog is just playing hooky and returns to his place on the porch, she said, there will be no questions asked.

Bottling Machine Snags Arm

A UCI Medical Center amputation team was flown to the Superior Milk Company, 10581 Los Alamitos Boulevard, at 8:30 a.m. in an attempt to free Manuel Avila of Norwalk who had been caught in the bottle filler for almost one hour

The helicopter from the U.S. Marine Corps El Toro Air Station landed on Los Alamitos Boulevard while police cleared traffic so that doctors could aid the stricken man.

Avila was reported in good condition and in excellent spirits after his ordeal, said dairy manager Jay Walker.

"His wife is expecting a baby and couldn't be notified for two hours because she doesn't speak much English," said Orange County Fire official Greg Lyons.

Walker said Avila's wrist became snagged in a conveyor belt as the employe was operating the machine near a conveyor belt.

Rescuers loosened a chain in the conveyor belt and eased Avila's bloodied wrist and hand from the apparatus, said Lyons.

"This is the first time I've ever seen this happen," said Walker. "He was in pain but stood up through the whole thing."

After Tri-City paramedics arrived at the scene and were unable to remove Avila's arm from the machine, UCI surgeons were called in case the man's arm had to be amputated, said Lyons.

"It was just one of those freak deals," said Walker.

DA Demands Halt on Valley Printing Plant

Demands by the District Attorney's Office for an injunction that halts allegedly misleading printing activities by a Fountain Valley publisher have been granted in Orange County Superior Court.

The injunction issued by Judge Lloyd E. Blanpied Jr. will remain in effect until trial of the lawsuit filed by the consumer fraud division against Eden Press and Eden Underground News, 15751 S. Brookhurst St., Westminster.

Judge Blanpied's injunction prevents the defendants from possessing, advertising or selling identification cards or birth certificates which appear or purport to be official documents.

It also orders the defendants not to advertise that the book "Credit," published by Eden Press, contains plans which are "100 percent legal."

It further forbids advertising to the effect that "Paper Trip," another Eden Press publication, provides a plan whereby the reader can obtain official identification.

It is alleged in the lawsuit that Reid and his co-defendants have falsified birth certificates and public seals "with intent to defraud."

Carter Heads For Retreat

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is putting Bert Lance and the Panama Canal aside temporarily, tuning in some country music and heading for the Presidential retreat at Camp David, Md.

He met with country and western singers Willie Nelson and Emmylou Harris today in the Oval Office to say howdy. An aide said they worked in the Carter campaign.

Tax Policy Gone

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Board of Equalization has abandoned a 21-year policy of equalizing property tax assessments statewide by refusing to order San Luis Obispo County to raise its assessments.

Goldwater Paints Gloomy Picture

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, the world is a rather gloomy place.

"I hate to paint such a dark picture," he told a group of community leaders today in Newport Beach, "but that's the way it is."

The Arizona Republican, who has been vacationing in Newport Beach, was the guest speaker at a small breakfast meeting held at the Newport Habrbor Area Chamber of Commerce which was attended by business leaders, city officials and aides to the area's legislators.

In the informal 90-minute session, the senator touched on a variety of domestic and foreign affairs issues which he prefaced by noting that "the old saying that the world's getting smaller is true. It's also getting meaner."

He explained that more of the world's population is living under repressive governments than did so 10 years ago.

Here's a look at some of the conservative politician's views:

—Socialization: Unless Carter is successful in turning the beauracracy around and halting the proliferation of governmental agencies and regulations, we will be a socialized country five years from now, 10 years at the most."

—Diplomacy: "We seem bent on losing what allies we have left. Perhaps one way to solve the problem would be to get Andrew Young out of South Africa and give him a nice, quiet job in Georgia somewhere."

—Panama Canal Treaty: "No one in Washington that I know of has seen the whole treaty — all the pages. Four or five months ago, it wasn't a bad sounding treaty, but I keep hearing new versions. "President Carter called me last week and asked me to endorse it and I told him I couldn't until I see all the dots and commas that are in the final document."

Goldwater said he doubts Congress will consider the treaty this year and noted that it is the hottest issue he has ever seen in 25 years in Washington, "which means that as consideration gets closer to an election, fewer politicians will want to talk about it."

GLOOMY OUTLOOK
Senator Goldwater

—Political Scandals: Citing the recent political scandals in Maryland, Washington D.C. and Orange County, he said that he feels it is neither new nor unusual, that a small amount of that kind of behavior goes on in all walks of life. "I don't think there's as much to Korean bribery scandal as you read in the papers."

—Defense: He praised Carter for his policy of increasing defense spending, but added, "I hope I'm wrong, but I have the feeling that all of our presidents since Eisenhower have had a policy of "don't fight unless you're attacked and even then

Mother Starved Son

San Francisco Waitress Convicted in Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court jury has found a San Francisco waitress guilty in the starvation death of her 11-year-old son. The waitress, Shirley Ellenburg, was found guilty of second-degree murder Thursday after a six-week trial.

The trial had been marked by the defendant's testimony as she struggled through tears to explain her relationship with her boyfriend and son, Gary, who died Feb. 11.

The child, weighing 44 pounds, had been taken to San Francisco General Hospital Jan. 28 in a coma. Doctors said he died two weeks later of starvation and pneumonia.

Ms. Ellenburg, was charged with murder after she and her boyfriend, Charley Nakas, told police the boy had to be handcuffed in the bathroom to prevent him from running away.

Nakao faces charges in a separate trial.

After the jury returned its verdict reached in 12 hours deliberation, the neatly dressed defendant left the courtroom with a coat over her head as she was taken by bailiffs back to jail.

Defense attorney Clifford Gould had argued during the trial that his client was a submissive, confused woman who lacked the psychological makeup to plan to murder her son. He said Ms. Ellenburg turned over discipline of her son to her boyfriend and had not noticed the boy's deterioration.

Gould also contended that the boy's death had been caused by a hospital diagnostic procedure during the weeks the child lay in a coma.

The jurors had a choice of possible verdicts of innocent, guilty of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, or of first-degree or second-degree murder.

The remaining 3 percent will come out of District reserves. The estimated general purpose tax rate for 1977-78 will be 20 cents less than last year. Expenditure per high school student ADA will be $1,912 including special programs with ADA expenditure per adult school student at $929.

GOVERNING BOARD: The Board of Trustees is composed of five residents of the District who are elected at large for four-year terms with two members being elected one year and the other three elected in alternate years. Current members of the Board are: Don MacAllister, President, Doris Allen, Helen E. Ditte, John K. Hundley, and Zita I. Wessa. The following District directions are of interest to students and parents:

INCREASED GRADUATION STANDARDS. In an effort to make the high school diploma more meaningful, the Board of Trustees this year will be addressing an increase in credits needed for graduation and the requirement of students to demonstrate their ability to perform in the basic skill areas.

TESTING FOR KNOWLEDGE. Incoming ninth graders (Class of 1981) will be required to know and be able to demonstrate ability in the Board approved basic skill standards before their high school diplomas will be granted. Students who desire to graduate early before completing their four-year high school experience are required to take a battery of tests demonstrating knowledge and ability in reading, writing, math, spelling, and the completion of a job application form. The students are required to pass all areas except spelling in order to graduate early. Those students not included in the above will be given tests throughout their high school careers to determine if they are meeting and maintaining competency levels as approved by the Board. Parents will be kept informed of their student's scores so that remediation can take place in areas of weakness prior to graduation.

STUDENT ADVISEMENT PROGRAM. Each freshman in the District will be assigned an adult advisor who will provide information, resources, advice and references to the student. This system will be in addition to the necessary services being performed by trained counselors.

SPECIAL WRITING AND READING PROGRAMS: For the second year, the District will be giving special assistance for those freshmen who are found to be lacking in their ability to write. Reduced class sizes and individualized attention are given to the identified students in helping them improve their writing skill. The special reading program is going into its third year with students identified as reading two or more grade levels below their expectancy being diagnosed and prescriptions written to improve their areas of deficiency. Results of the reading program have been excellent with the students showing an average gain of over two years for the ten months spent in the program."

CAREER AND VOCATIONAL EDUCATION: All six high schools and the District Guidance Center have comprehensive career education programs as well as vocational education programs. Career development includes student career exploration in class and the use of career centers. A Computerized Vocational Information System (CVIS) and the Career Planning Survey are available to all students in their career centers.

Week's Work

CM Cops Bust 5 in Drug Ring

Costa Mesa police capped a week-long undercover investigation Thursday with the arrest of five alleged drug dealers and the seizure of cocaine and methamphetamine with a combined street value of almost $28,000.

Wade, an unemployed construction worker, is in custody today on charges of sales of dangerous drugs. His bail is set at $25,000.

Also arrested was Steven Warren Price, 25, of 702 Shalimar Drive, Costa Mesa. He is being held on a $10,000 bond.

Last week, undercover agents from Costa Mesa and Huntington Beach Police closed in on a Redondo Beach home and confiscated one-quarter pound of cocaine valued at $25,000.

Arrested in the earlier incident were Jeffrey Alan Guilfoyle, 21, Diana Marie Dunnekle, 20, both of Redondo Beach, and John Robert Legerton, 22, of Seal Beach.

Costa Mesa narcotics investigator Sgt. Gary Webster said the trio are being held on charges of possession of dangerous drugs for sale.

Sergeant Webster said the Thursday raid in Costa Mesa was "unusual" since relatively pure methamphetamine (better known as speed) is quite rare.

Webster said the flow of the powerful stimulant can be traced to outlaw motorcycle gangs.

Undercover agents closed in on the Wade residence shortly before noon Thursday and allegedly purchased a plastic bag containing the powdered substance. Wade was taken into custody and police later arrested Steven Price.

A third suspect, Michael Ray Price of Costa Mesa, was arrested but later released.

Sgt. Webster said police held off announcement of the Redondo Beach cocaine arrests until the Costa Mesa suspects were taken into custody Thursday.

Although the quarter-pound of cocaine is valued at $25,000, Sergeant Webster noted that it could have generated closer to $50,000 in street sales if the alleged dealers had diluted it with other substances.

Parents Sue Over Wedding

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations.

But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilert's names should not have been included.

Authorities said this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order.

Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to include their names on the invitations.

The Weilerts also claim that their daughter and Mrs. Miller disregarded their wishes and instructions when they included the Weilerts' names on the invitations. They said the invitations gave the impression they were participating in inviting guests to the wedding.

The court order sought to require Miss Weilert and Mrs. Miller to notify "by letter or by news media" all people invited that the Weilerts' names should not be included on the invitation.

Sex Survey Ban Upheld

NEW YORK (AP) — The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that school officials had a right to ban a sex survey by a student publication at New York's Stuyvesant High School.

In a 2-1 decision, the court Thursday held a questionnaire about sex attitudes and experience might have led to "emotional disturbance" for some of the students, hence the ban did not violate constitutional rights.

Not Much Action

Cement fire rings were unattended along the deserted strand of Huntington State Beach early today in the morning mists but that's all expected to change soon as labor Day crowds descend for the long three-day holiday weekend.

Jury Debates On Sanity of CSF Slayer

Six men and six women went into the jury room for the third day today in a bid to reach a verdict in the sanity phase of campus killer Edward Charles Allaway's Orange County Superior Court trial.

Deliberations have been interrupted during those three days for the rereading of testimony offered during the trial by Allaway's estranged wife, Bonnie, and three psychiatrists.

But jurors indicated Thursday that they will have no further requests for testimony and are now prepared to deliberate until they reach a verdict.

They earlier found Allaway guilty of seven counts of murder and two of assault with a deadly weapon. The charges stemmed from his six-minute shooting spree on the Cal State Fullerton campus on July 12, 1976.

Stereo Gear Stolen

Stereo equipment and cash with a total value of $1,570 was taken by burglars who entered a Sunset Beach home via an unlocked door. Orange County sheriff's officers said the theft was reported by salesman Rick Allen DeFoe, 25, of 16806 Bayview Drive. He was away at work at the time.

Legal Hassle Touched Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A judge has canceled an Episcopal congregation's vote over withdrawing from the national church in protest aqainst the ordination of women as priests. And that is touching off a legal hassle over the separation of church and state.

The priest of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who wants the congregation to secede, says he is "flabbergasted" that the court would intervene. An earlier vote on the issue ended in a tie. But a church warden, who doesn't want to secede, says church property — not just religious doctrine — is involved. He cited that as a reason for bringing the case to court.

Busy Holiday Weekend Eyed Along Beaches

If Labor Day weekend is here, windy winter can't be far behind and lifeguards along the lengthy Huntington Beach shoreline have predicted a busy three days with good surf and fine weather.

Sea water temperatures were listed at an average 71 degrees today, with a two to four-foot wave pattern expected to hold throughout the Labor Day period.

Lifeguards at Huntington State Beach and Bolsa Chica State Beach said they pulled 130 people out of the breakers Thursday.

Their colleagues at Huntington Beach's city strand, however, said they made only 26 rescues.

Surf in the area around the pier, which is their primary control area, generally breaks a bit easier than that on the open state beaches, depending on weather conditions.

PERSONNEL TOO TRUSTING

COLDWATER, Mich. (AP) — A shopper at Coldwater's Montgomery Ward store asked if he could look around in a storeroom for empty boxes. Store employes told him to go ahead.

The next time they saw the man he was driving off, a refrigerator-freezer strapped to the back of his pickup truck.

Irvine Mayor Bill Vardoulis told the State Highway Commission Thursday his city — and Orange County in general — is being "short-changed" by a proposed CalTrans six-year highways projects budget.

He urged that the commission increase the funding for projects in the county.

Vardoulis said the commission was receptive to his plea and ordered a review of the budget.

"The needs of Orange County — and the city of Irvine — are virtually overlooked in the proposed six-year plan," Vardoulis testified at public hearings in Santa Monica.

He said Orange County receives a minuscule share — only 37 cents per dollar it contributes — of highway funds.

Vardoulis called it "a gross inequity . . . which has been historically true."

Vardoulis in particular attacked a CalTrans identification of nine significant highway needs in Orange County, none of which are recommended for funding by the CalTrans six-year plan.

They include extension of the Corona Del Mar Freeway from Campus Drive to Bonita Canyon Drive, widening of the Newport Freeway and reconstruction of its interchange with the Santa Ana Freeway, and realignment of the Jeffrey Road/Santa Ana Freeway interchange.

The mayor also outlined a list of Irvine projects he said should be scheduled for funding.

They included:

—Construction of an Alton Avenue interchange with the Santa Ana Freeway.

—Widening of the Moulton Parkway overcross at the San Diego Freeway.

—Widening of the bridge at Culver Drive over the San Diego Freeway from four to six lanes.

—Construction of a four-lane bridge at Yale Avenue and the Santa Ana Freeway.

Machine Snags Worker's Arm

A UCI Medical Center amputation team was flown to the Superior Milk Company, 10581 Los Alamitos Boulevard, at 8:30 a.m. in an attempt to free Manuel Avila of Norwalk who had been caught in the bottle filler for almost one hour.

The helicopter from the U.S. Marine Corps El Toro Air Station landed on Los Alamitos Boulevard while police cleared traffic so that doctors could aid the stricken man.

Avila was reported in good condition and in excellent spirits after his ordeal, said dairy manager Jay Walker.

"His wife is expecting a baby and couldn't be notified for two hours because she doesn't speak much English," said Orange County Fire official Greg Lyons.

Walker said Avila's wrist became snagged in a conveyor belt as the employe was operating the machine near a conveyor belt.

Rescuers loosened a chain in the conveyor belt and eased Avila's bloodied wrist and hand from the apparatus, said Lyons.

"This is the first time I've ever seen this happen," said Walker. "He was in pain but stood up through the whole thing."

After Tri-City paramedics arrived at the scene and were unable to remove Avila's arm from the machine, UCI surgeons were called in case the man's arm had to be amputated, said Lyons.

"It was just one of those freak deals," said Walker.

Crossing the Tracks

Irvine youngsters find a way across railroad tracks in relative safety on Yale Avenue bicycle/pedestrian bridge built by city especially to ferry them over. Bridge connects residential centers. Ramps to get on and off resemble freeway ramps. The $100,000 structure was opened early this year as a link to schools and Heritage Park.

Goldwater On Coast, Tells Gloom

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, the world is a rather gloomy place.

"I hate to paint such a dark picture," he told a group of community leaders today in Newport Beach, "but that's the way it is."

The Arizona Republican, who has been vacationing in Newport Beach, was the guest speaker at a small breakfast meeting held at the Newport Habrbor Area Chamber of Commerce which was attended by business leaders, city officials and aides to the area's legislators.

In the informal 90-minute session, the senator touched on a variety of domestic and foreign affairs issues which he prefaced by noting that "the old saying that the world's getting smaller is true. It's also getting meaner."

He explained that more of the world's population is living under repressive governments than did so 10 years ago.

Here's a look at some of the conservative politician's views:

—Socialization: Unless Carter is successful in turning the beauracracy around and halting the proliferation of governmental agencies and regulations, we will be a socialized country five years from now, 10 years at the most."

—Diplomacy: "We seem bent

$40,000 Tab For Presley Body Theft?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A man who told police of a plot to steal Elvis Presley's body for $10 million ransom says he and two other men were offered $40,000 to remove the body from its tomb.

Ronnie Lee Adkins said Thursday in an interview that another man was to hold the body until the Presley family paid the $10 million.

Some police officials have said privately the affair was a hoax, but Adkins denied this.

Adkins was one of three men arrested Monday near Forest Hill Cemetery, where the rock 'n' roll singer was entombed following his death from a heart attack last month. The Presley mausoleum had been staked out by officers on a tip from Adkins that the body would be stolen and ransomed. Adkins and the others were charged with trespassing. Police said they found no explosives or burglary tools.

Later, Police Director E. Winslow Chapman said Adkins was a police informant and he was recommending that the charge against him be dropped.

A repliminary hearing for Adkins, Raymond M. Green, 25, and Bruce Eugene Nelson, 30, was postponed Tuesday until Oct. 4.

Jay Fred Friedman, attorney for Green and Nelson, has suggested that his clients were themselves unwitting victims of a plot. He said his clients were not at the cemetery to steal a body.

Adkins said he was recruited to help steal Presley's body from the Memphis funeral home before it was moved to the entertainer's mansion for funeral services.

Dutch City May Float Prostitutes

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — City officials are considering a plan to put Rotterdam's prostitutes aboard a floating brothel in an abandoned area of the local docks.

Mayor Andre van der Louw and three members of the City Council are going to Denmark today to look over a 400-bed hotel ship that might be for sale.

A campaign to confine the city's estimated 700 prostitutes to a secluded part of the city started in 1974 when the two main red light districts began spreading into residential districts.

The ship plan will be presented to the City Council on Oct. 13, and City Hall sources say approval is expected.

"The sooner it gets going the better," one streetwalker told a reporter who asked what the ladies of the evening think of the idea.

Man Guilty Of Porno Mailings

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — After viewing magazines and a 10-minute movie showing teenaged boys in homosexual activity, a federal jury has convicted a San Francisco man of mailing obscene material.

The seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated 2½ hours Thursday before finding Vincent Proca guilty of all 13 counts.

U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel raised Proca's $10,000 bail to $100,000 and ordered him to jail until he posts the higher bond.

Mother Who Starved Son Found Guilty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court jury has found a San Francisco waitress guilty in the starvation death of her 11-year-old son. The waitress, Shirley Ellenburg, was found guilty of second-degree murder Thursday after a six-week trial.

The trial had been marked by the defendant's testimony as she struggled through tears to explain her relationship with her boyfriend and son, Gary, who died Feb. 11.

The child, weighing 44 pounds, had been taken to San Francisco General Hospital Jan. 28 in a coma. Doctors said he died two weeks later of starvation and pneumonia.

Ms. Ellenburg, was charged with murder after she and her boyfriend, Charley Nakas, told police the boy had to be handcuffed in the bathroom to prevent him from running away.

Nakao faces charges in a separate trial.

After the jury returned its verdict reached in 12 hours deliberation, the neatly dressed defendant left the courtroom with a coat over her head as she was taken by bailiffs back to jail.

Defense attorney Clifford Gould had argued during the trial that his client was a submissive, confused woman who lacked the psychological makeup to plan to murder her son. He said Ms. Ellenburg turned over discipline of her son to her boyfriend and had not noticed the boy's deterioration.

Gould also contended that the boy's death had been caused by a hospital diagnostic procedure during the weeks the child lay in a coma.

The jurors had a choice of possible verdicts of innocent, guilty of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, or of first-degree or second-degree murder.

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, packing winds up to 155 miles per hour, slammed into the northeast Mexican coast before dawn today, washing out roads, uprooting trees and tearing off rooftops in a dozen or more fishing villages.

There was no immediate report of casualties. At least some of the villages had been evacuated hours beforehand.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Electric power was cut off in Soto La Marina, the town directly in the hurricane's path as it came ashore at about 4 a.m., rushing in at 120 m.p.h.

Soto la Marina and La Pesca, both on the edge of the Laguna Madre, had most of their residents evacuated by the Army early Thursday ahead of torrential rains and vicious winds.

"People are more afraid of the wind than the water," Flores said.

Mayor Leonel Tavares said the drought of recent months would help keep floods to a minimum.

Anita, first hurricane of the season, initially aimed its punch at the lower Texas coast, but veered south Thursday morning and drifted into northeastern Mexico, as South Texas sighed with relief.

In Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Tex., nearly 8,000 people had been taken to shelters. Officials said today most of them were returning to their homes and there appeared to be little danger of flooding.

"We were very, very lucky," said Brownsville meteorologist Al Dreumont, "torrential rains and excessive winds missed us by only 25 miles."

The National Weather Service said that the primary concern was a serious threat of flash floodings in northeastern Mexico as rains of more than eight inches fell in the area.

Wedding Fuss

Parents Sue to Nix Names

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations.

But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilert's names should not have been included.

Authorities said this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order.

Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to include their names on the invitations.

The Weilerts also claim that their daughter and Mrs. Miller disregarded their wishes and instructions when they included the Weilerts' names on the invitations. They said the invitations gave the impression they were participating in inviting guests to the wedding.

The court order sought to require Miss Weilert and Mrs. Miller to notify "by letter or by news media" all people invited that the Weilerts' names should not be included on the invitation.

And the suit seeks in excess of $10,000 for the bride's parents for alleged mental pain and anguish.

Mrs. Weilert has refused comment on the suit, calling it a family matter.

Information About...

Your Schools

Irvine Unified School District

(CLIP AND SAVE FOR YOUR DISTRICT)

ABOUT THE DISTRICT: The Irvine Unified School District will be starting its fifth year of operation in September.

The district will be serving 11,830 students at the beginning of the 1977-78 school year. This figure will gradually increase with the completion of the village of Woodbridge.

Irvine provides alternatives in school organization patterns and is organized with twelve elementary schools having a kindergarten through sixth organizational pattern and one school, Vista Verde, with a kindergarten through eighth pattern. Two middle schools, Rancho San Joaquin and Venado are organized on a seven eight grade basis. Two new elementary schools are opening this fall, Bonita Canyon Elementary which will service portions of the Turtle Rock Village and Stone Creek Elementary, the first elementary school servicing Woodbridge.

The high schools are University High, SELF (an alternative high school) and Irvine High, which is beginning its third year with freshman, sophomore, and junior classes.

Mr. R. Dean Olson, president of the Irvine Board of Education, states: "Providing maximum educational opportunities for our learners in order that they may reach their highest potential is the goal of the governing board of the Irvine Unified School District. The district provides many opportunities for the Irvine community to express its views on school operations.

BOARD OF EDUCATION: The board meets the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month. The meetings rotate between University and Irvine High Schools, and are televised on Channel 3 by Community Cablevision to the homes.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS: In the fall of 1975, Irvine parents, teachers and students were involved in a districtwide goal-setting process, establishing basic skills as a priority goal for all schools in the district. During this process, each school derived a set of goals which serve as the basis for that particular school's educational program plan. Learning basic skills was the top priority goal districtwide.

Basics Plus Elementary, Rancho San Joaquin Intermediate and SELF High School offer alternative educational programs to meet the needs of students and parents who wish their youngsters to have either a more open learning experience or a more formalized approach.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS' primary focus is on basic skill acquisition in reading, oral, and written language, math, social sciences and science. Other content areas of physical education, music and art add dimension to the elementary program. High district test scores verify the success of instruction and student learning. Grades one through six were at or above learning expectations in all academic areas tested.

MIDDLE SCHOOL students in grades seven and eight continue to round out and deepen the basic skills previously developed. They experience increased opportunities to apply these skills in other elective content areas designed to stimulate interest and exploration, and guide them toward career choices to be determined during high school.

HIGH SCHOOLS in the district offer comprehensive programs as well as special programs for mentally gifted minor students, for developmental reading improvement and for mathematics basic skills development. Guidance programs are designed to assist students in the development of decision-making skills to enhance emotional maturity and self satisfaction. In addition, emphasis is placed upon students utilizing their skills in personal and career planning.

ADULT EDUCATION: Over 3,500 Irvine adults, found interesting subjects in such areas as business, fine arts, foreign language, science, technical education and social sciences. The number of classes for adults has increased from 25 the first year of the program in 1973, to over 74 last year. Over 96 classes are planned for fall 1977. In the spring of 1977, the District initiated diploma programs at Santa Ana Marine Corps Air Station (LTA), and El Toro Marine Corps Base, graduating its first student in June of 1977.

CAREER AND VOCATIONAL EDUCATION: Career and vocational education has been identified as another priority goal in the Irvine Unified School District. All schools have career guidance programs and are making efforts to attain this goal. The career guidance center at University High School has gained state and national recognition as an exemplary program in career and vocational education. An ever-increasing number of high school students are gaining valuable on-the-job training through the Coastline Regional Occupational Program, work experience education, and assignments in the local business and industry training programs.

STUDENTS WITH SPECIAL NEEDS: The Irvine Unified School District is committed to the philosophy of meeting the educational needs of all children. Irvine District provides enrichment programs for mentally gifted students, kindergarten through twelfth grade. The district provides a supplementary education center program in each school which is based on the assumption the students' special needs can best be served in the context of the regular classroom with their friends and classmates.

Children who are educationally handicapped and have a learning disability or are educably mentally retarded are provided individualized instruction both within the regular classroom setting and in special learning centers throughout the school. Provision is made for primary aphasic children and children in need of speech therapy.

Contractual services with other public school programs and private schools for multi-handicapped, deaf, hard-of-hearing, visually handicapped, emotionally disturbed, trainable mentally retarded and upper grade aphasic children are provided.

OPEN ENROLLMENT: Students may attend schools outside their attendance area, dependent upon space availability and mutual agreement of the involved parties.

CALENDAR OPTIONS: The district offers both regular calendar schools and year-round (45-15) alternatives. Irvine High School will be initiating in the fall a quinmester (five 9-week sessions) program. The calendar is designed to closely approximate that of the regular calendar schools while allowing some integration of schedules for families with younger students in 45-15 schools.

TRANSPORTATION: Bus transportation is provided on the following basis: for kindergarten, grades 1 and 2, ¾ mile from school; for grades 3 and 4, one mile distant; for 5th and 6th graders, one and ¼ mile distant; and for grades 7 through 12, two miles distant.

NEW IN THE DISTRICT? HERE'S HOW TO ENROLL YOUR CHILD: Call Facilities Planning, 556-4900, and find which school your child will attend. All schools are open for registration. Your school will tell you about its academic program, opening, closing, lunch hours, and transportation schedules.

Kindergarteners, or any first grader who hasn't had kindergarten, will need (1) birth certificate or other proof of age, and (2) proof of state required immunizations. A new law also requires all first grade pupils to produce proof they've had a physical exam within the past year.

Legal Hassle Touched Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A judge has canceled an Episcopal congregation's vote over withdrawing from the national church in protest aqainst the ordination of women as priests. And that is touching off a legal hassle over the separation of church and state.

The priest of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who wants the congregation to secede, says he is "flabbergasted" that the court would intervene. An earlier vote on the issue ended in a tie. But a church warden, who doesn't want to secede, says church property — not just religious doctrine — is involved. He cited that as a reason for bringing the case to court.

Vardoulis said many of the projects might qualify for federal aid, since crossings are over the interstate highways system.

Following his presentation to the commission, Vardoulis said he was encouraged by the commission's reaction.

He said he expected to learn of possible changes in the CalTrans six-year plan within a month.

Week's Work

CM Cops Bust 5 in Drug Ring

Costa Mesa police capped a week-long undercover investigation Thursday with the arrest of five alleged drug dealers and the seizure of cocaine and methamphetamine with a combined street value of almost $28,000.

Wade, an unemployed construction worker, is in custody today on charges of sales of dangerous drugs. His bail is set at $25,000.

Also arrested was Steven Warren Price, 25, of 702 Shalimar Drive, Costa Mesa. He is being held on a $10,000 bond.

Last week, undercover agents from Costa Mesa and Huntington Beach Police closed in on a Redondo Beach home and confiscated one-quarter pound of cocaine valued at $25,000.

Arrested in the earlier incident were Jeffrey Alan Guilfoyle, 21, Diana Marie Dunnekle, 20, both of Redondo Beach, and John Robert Legerton, 22, of Seal Beach.

Costa Mesa narcotics investigator Sgt. Gary Webster said the trio are being held on charges of possession of dangerous drugs for sale.

Sergeant Webster said the Thursday raid in Costa Mesa was "unusual" since relatively pure methamphetamine (better known as speed) is quite rare.

Webster said the flow of the powerful stimulant can be traced to outlaw motorcycle gangs.

Undercover agents closed in on the Wade residence shortly before noon Thursday and allegedly purchased a plastic bag containing the powdered substance. Wade was taken into custody and police later arrested Steven Price.

A third suspect, Michael Ray Price of Costa Mesa, was arrested but later released.

Sgt. Webster said police held off announcement of the Redondo Beach cocaine arrests until the Costa Mesa suspects were taken into custody Thursday.

Although the quarter-pound of cocaine is valued at $25,000, Sergeant Webster noted that it could have generated closer to $50,000 in street sales if the alleged dealers had diluted it with other substances.

Strain Showing?

Job Telling on Carter?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Presidential confidant Charles Kirbo says the strains of the presidency are showing on fellow Georgian Jimmy Carter.

"He's changing in his appearance," Kirbo, an Atlanta lawyer, told an economic club Thursday. "He's a little grayer. He's getting older a little fast. You may be able to see the gray on television.

"How would you like to get up every day and be faced with the Middle East, Africa, Korea, China, Greece, the Panama Canal, balancing the budget, energy, unemployment, illegal aliens and retirement programs?" Kirbo asked. "His big problem is trying to restore confidence in the government."

But, Kirbo added, Carter isn't complaining.

Center," it would be moored alongside the old port administration building and have a restaurant and bar.

Officials said the government is prepared to sell the building to the brothel owners and will help them find a reasonably priced, second-hand ship.

"Of course, we would have nothing to do with the running of such a scheme once it is set up," said the spokeswoman for the city government, Toos de Jong.

Prostitution is illegal in Holland, but the authorities have tolerated it for many years. Prostitutes are rarely prosecuted. The city has more than 60 brothels, many of which advertise in the newspapers. Brothel owners usually are prosecuted only when they employ girls under the age of 18.

The floating brothel is expected to accommodate many but not all of the prostitutes in Rotterdam, one of Europe's major ports. But authorities have said if the plan goes through, the police will crack down on prostitutes and brothels that don't cooperate.

Miss de Jong said it is not known how much the scheme would cost, but the brothel owners are already raising money. She said they are negotiating with catering companies that have indicated they are willing to finance the bar and restaurant.

Sex Survey Ban Upheld

NEW YORK (AP) — The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that school officials had a right to ban a sex survey by a student publication at New York's Stuyvesant High School.

In a 2-1 decision, the court Thursday held a questionnaire about sex attitudes and experience might have led to "emotional disturbance" for some of the students, hence the ban did not violate constitutional rights.

2 Injured In Cycle Accident

Two people riding a motorcycle in Irvine were thrown to the street at 40 miles per hour when the vehicle reared and fell onto its side Thursday, police said.

Driver Henry Subia, 30, of Lawndale, who fractured his collarbone in the accident, was arrested on a charge of felony drunken driving.

His passenger, Sharon M. Morris, 27, of La Mirada, was taken to Tustin Community Hospital, with multiple cuts, bruises and scrapes, and was reported in stable condition today.

Subia told police his motorcycle slipped on gravel in the roadway, on Von Karmen Avenue north of Main Street as he tried to make a u-turn.

Subia was treated at the hospital for the fracture, as well as cuts and scrapes, and released to go home.

Jury Debates On Sanity of CSF Slayer

Six men and six women went into the jury room for the third day today in a bid to reach a verdict in the sanity phase of campus killer Edward Charles Allaway's Orange County Superior Court trial.

Deliberations have been interrupted during those three days for the rereading of testimony offered during the trial by Allaway's estranged wife, Bonnie, and three psychiatrists.

But jurors indicated Thursday that they will have no further requests for testimony and are now prepared to deliberate until they reach a verdict.

They earlier found Allaway guilty of seven counts of murder and two of assault with a deadly weapon. The charges stemmed from his six-minute shooting spree on the Cal State Fullerton campus on July 12, 1976.

Marine Dies In Van Crash Near Clemente

A 21-year-old Camp Pendleton Marine was killed Thursday night when the van in which he was driving overturned north of San Clemente and ejected him, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Randy Tyger was pronounced dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital shortly after the 11:10 p.m. accident, California Highway Patrol officers said.

The driver of the van, Paul Alexander, also a 21-year-old Camp Pendleton Marine, was treated for minor injuries then booked into Orange County Jail on charges of drunk driving and manslaughter, the CHP said.

The crash occurred on the Beach Cities Turn-off from the San Diego Freeway, officers said.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Electric power was cut off in Soto La Marina, the town directly in the hurricane's path as it came ashore at about 4 a.m., rushing in at 120 m.p.h.

Soto la Marina and La Pesca, both on the edge of the Laguna Madre, had most of their residents evacuated by the Army early Thursday ahead of torrential rains and vicious winds.

"People are more afraid of the wind than the water," Flores said.

Mayor Leonel Tavares said the drought of recent months would help keep floods to a minimum.

Anita, first hurricane of the season, initially aimed its punch at the lower Texas coast, but veered south Thursday morning and drifted into northeastern Mexico, as South Texas sighed with relief.

In Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Tex., nearly 8,000 people had been taken to shelters. Officials said today most of them were returning to their homes and there appeared to be little danger of flooding.

"We were very, very lucky," said Brownsville meteorologist Al Dreumont, "torrential rains and excessive winds missed us by only 25 miles."

The National Weather Service said that the primary concern was a serious threat of flash floodings in northeastern Mexico as rains of more than eight inches fell in the area.

La Pesca, a tiny coastal fishing village, and Soto la Marina bore the brunt of Hurricane Ella in 1970.

Six Percent

Teachers OK Pay Increase

By JACK CHAPPELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Tentative agreement between the Capistrano Unified School District and teachers for a six percent pay increase was announced today in a joint conference between teachers' union representatives and school administrators.

The agreement, which also provides for a form of binding arbitration in future teachers' contracts, still requires ratification by the 525 members of the Capistrano Education Association and the school board.

The package of wage and increases will add about $750,000 to the districts teacher payroll for the upcoming school year.

The average Capistrano Unified School District teacher's salary will go from $14,673 to $15,500 for the nine month school year.

The agreement was reached through the aid of a state mediator when the school district and its teachers reached impasse in talks last June.

The pay hikes mean the salary range for a Capistrano teacher runs from 10,555 for a beginning teacher to 23,045 for a teacher at the top of the salary schedule.

There are about 700 teachers in the 21-school Capistrano Unified School District.

The district extends from San Clemente to Mission Viejo and includes communities of Laguna Niguel, Dana Point, San Juan Capistrano, and Capistrano Beach.

The contract involved will extend only until the end of the upcoming school year. Then, all facets of the district-teacher labor relations will be reopened for negotiation.

Under the just concluded talks, only salary, fringe benefits and the arbitration issue were open for negotiation. Other areas were covered by a two-year contract signed last year.

While salary disagreements played a part in the protracted and at times discordant negotiations between the teachers and the school district, a major snag involved the issue of binding arbitration.

Under binding arbitration, if the two parties are unable to reach agreement, an outside arbitrator is called in. He reviews both sides and makes a binding decision.

Under the proposal contained in the tentative agreement, should the teachers and the school district not reach agreement, the arbitrator may be called in, but his decision can be appealed within 30 days by either party.

Dan Saling, executive director of the South Orange County Education Association, referred to the arrangement as a "quasi-binding arbitration."

Trustees Approve Pay Hikes

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Laguna Beach Unified School District trustees approved salary hikes of 4.5 percent for district administrators Thursday night, after hearing one trustee ask for comparative pay scales in other districts in the future.

New salary levels, ranging from $37,662 for District Superintendent Dr. Robert Sanchis to $27,335 for elementary school principals were approved by the four board members present. Trustee Marylyn Pauley did not attend Thursday's meeting. The salaries were approved unanimously.

Board member Dr. Ron Chilcote said he wholeheartedly supported the increases for supervisory district employes. But he suggested that trustees should receive comparative pay scales from other districts.

"I received three phone calls, all from professional people, questioning the total salaries, not the percentage increase," Dr. Chilcote said. No action was taken on his suggestion.

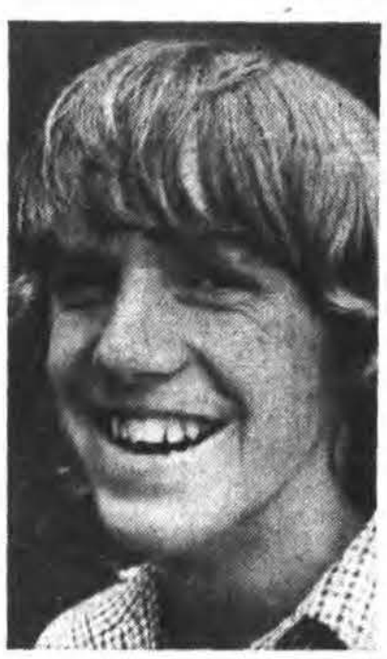

The package approved Thursday night gives Laguna's three elementary school principals annual salaries of $27,335. Those principals, Mike Carroll, Top of the World; Lyle Proctor, Aliso; and Bill Allen, El Morro, plus longevity pay of $500 per year after 15 years and $750 a year if a doctorate degree is held.

Thurston principal David Lloyd will receive $29,222 and

Trio of Exchange Students in Laguna

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

They are ambassadors in tennis shoes — three high school seniors who this year will be both learning about the United States and teaching fellow Laguna Beach High School students about their own countries.

They are the American Field Services (AFS) students Beatrice Russo, 17, from Frascati, Italy, Shadi Tcoubineh, 16, from Mashad, Iran and Michael Gaffney, 17, from Tasmaria, Australia.

Misses Russo and Tcoubineh have been in the United States for about 10 days. Gaffney has been here six weeks.

And, while many things are different here than in their own countries, some things are similar.

For Miss Russo, the climate and environment of Laguna Beach is similar to her home town located near Rome.

She finds American eating habits strange, however.

"You eat sandwiches and so many small things at lunch. We're used to spaghetti and pasta," she said.

Gaffney's home is on an island off the Australian coast, so the beaches are nothing new to him. But he said "everything seems so big here." Tasmania has a total population of about 400,000.

Also, he noted, "your language is hard to understand."

While most Americans tend to think of Iran as an arid country, Miss Tcoubineh, said in the locality of her home it is humid and rains frequently.

The standing weather joke about the area is that one has to carry a fan in one hand and a sweater in the other, she said.

All of them are looking forward to the school year. For the most part, their schedule of classes is similar. They'll be taking American history and government, leadership English and physical education. All will take advanced mathematics classes or physics as well.

But, in addition to the formal school education, all were looking forward to the total experience of living in, for them, a foreign country.

"I will learn everything. I will try to understand the way of living and feeling of Americans. American customs and everything in their lives," Miss Tcoubineh said.

"I wanted to see what I was able to do without my family," said Miss Russo. "I wanted to test myself," she said.

The AFS program is a state department authorized program providing for the exchange of American and foreign students.

The Laguna chapter was formed 20 years ago this year and usually hosts in addition to foreign students, students from other parts of the United States.

The students will live with host families here and will give talks to local organizations.

Among the more interesting observations all three made was one about the water.

Goldwater Paints Gloomy Picture

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, the world is a rather gloomy place.

"I hate to paint such a dark picture," he told a group of community leaders today in Newport Beach, "but that's the way it is."

The Arizona Republican, who has been vacationing in Newport Beach, was the guest speaker at a small breakfast meeting held at the Newport Habrbor Area Chamber of Commerce which was attended by business leaders, city officials and aides to the area's legislators.

In the informal 90-minute session, the senator touched on a variety of domestic and foreign affairs issues which he prefaced by noting that "the old saying that the world's getting smaller is true. It's also getting meaner."

He explained that more of the world's population is living under repressive governments than did so 10 years ago.

Here's a look at some of the conservative politician's views:

—Socialization: Unless Carter is successful in turning the beauracracy around and halting the proliferation of governmental agencies and regulations, we will be a socialized country five years from now, 10 years at the most."

—Diplomacy: "We seem bent on losing what allies we have left. Perhaps one way to solve the problem would be to get Andrew Young out of South Africa and give him a nice, quiet job in Georgia somewhere."

—Panama Canal Treaty: "No one in Washington that I know of has seen the whole treaty — all the pages. Four or five months ago, it wasn't a bad sounding treaty, but I keep hearing new versions. "President Carter called me last week and asked me to endorse it and I told him I couldn't until I see all the dots and commas that are in the final document."

Goldwater said he doubts

GLOOMY OUTLOOK
Senator Goldwater

Congress will consider the treaty this year and noted that it is the hottest issue he has ever seen in 25 years in Washington, "which means that as consideration gets closer to an election, fewer politicians will want to talk about it."

—Political Scandals: Citing the recent political scandals in Maryland, Washington D.C. and Orange County, he said that he feels it is neither new nor unusual, that a small amount of that kind of behavior goes on in all walks of life. "I don't think there's as much to Korean bribery scandal as you read in the papers."

Wedding Fuss

Parents Sue to Nix Names

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations.

But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilert's names should not have been included.

Authorities said this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order.

Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to include their names on the invitations.

The Weilerts also claim that their daughter and Mrs. Miller disregarded their wishes and instructions when they included the Weilerts' names on the invitations. They said the invitations gave the impression they were participating in inviting guests to the wedding.

The court order sought to require Miss Weilert and Mrs. Miller to notify "by letter or by news media" all people invited that the Weilerts' names should not be included on the invitation.

Your Schools

Capistrano Unified School District

(CLIP AND SAVE FOR YOUR DISTRICT)

ABOUT THE DISTRICT: Capistrano Unified School District serves the cities of San Clemente and San Juan Capistrano, as well as the communities of Capistrano Beach, Dana Point, Laguna Niguel and a large portion of Mission Viejo, educating children in kindergarten through 12th grade. The district also operates an adult high school and is the base for the Capistrano-Laguna Regional Occupational Program

The district is generally organized with elementary schools serving kindergarten through sixth grade, junior high schools serving grades seven and eight and high schools for grades nine through 12.

Opening day of school for grades kindergarten through 12th grade is Sept. 12.

About 16,755 students are expected at peak enrollment during the 1977-78 school year compared to 15,083 at the final enrollment period of the 1976-77 school year, indicating a continuing growth in student population in the district.

Schools are staffed by a 775-member faculty and 620 full and part-time support staff. Dr. Jerome R. Thornsley is district superintendent.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES — CURRENT CONCERNS: The seven-member board of trustees meets the first and third Mondays of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the District Education Center, 32972 Calle Perfecto, San Juan Capistrano. Ted Kopp is president. Major challenges confronting the board of trustees are: the implementation of state-mandated collective bargaining procedures; state limits on the funding of education coupled with inflationary factors; growth problems as reflected by an expected increase of 1,700 additional children enrolled in district schools; and state-mandated programs that are not funded.

What Is Taught: Elementary School. Consistent with the district's priority goal to "develop skills in reading, writing, speaking, and listening," the elementary program focuses on the basic skills. Students receive instruction daily in math, reading, language arts, science, social studies, and physical education. The most recent achievement tests, administered to all K-6 students, reflect district achievement in reading and math exceeding the national norm at all grade levels.

In addition to basic skills students also receive instruction in art and music. The music program is particularly unique in that all students, beginning in grade 2, receive formal instruction in musical instruments.

Junior High School. In addition to the required basic subjects junior high school students are offered a wide variety of electives including art, music, industrial arts, homemaking, photography, and foreign languages. To give them further opportunity to explore and develop their interests after school club and intramural activities are offered.

High School. Of the 220 units for graduation 140 are required including three years of English and social science, and one year of mathematics and science. In addition to the required courses a wide range of elective courses are available in all of the academic areas as well as industrial arts, homemaking, fine arts, and business.

For the college bound students there is opportunity to take advanced placement courses that will qualify the student for college credit. To meet other needs there are opportunities to learn a vocation and to participate in work experience as part of the high school program.

In addition to the comprehensive high schools, the Crossroads Program offers a unique alternative. While pursuing the basic requirements students may learn a public service occupation in a community-based setting.

Adult Education. Classes are designed to meet the needs of the adult community interested in completing a high school diploma, gaining citizenship, and exploring prevocational courses. A wide range of courses is also offered to meet the many avocational interests of the community.

CAREER AND VOCATIONAL EDUCATION: Career Centers are maintained at Capistrano Valley, Dana Hills and San Clemente Highs with trained counselors, career information, catalogs from hundreds of colleges and vocational schools. Work experience and Regional Occupational Program information and counseling is emphasized along with opportunities for on-the-job training. These career centers serve as the hub of an extensive effort by the district to help young people prepare for the world of work. Committees of businessmen are involved from time to time in developing new programs and classes designed to meet the changing needs of the community.

SERVICES FOR SPECIAL STUDENTS: The Capistrano Unified School District is committed to the philosophy that all children have a right to an education that is appropriate to their needs. The district offers a full range of programs specifically designed for both the mentally exceptional and physically exceptional child. Each child is viewed as a unique individual with educational considerations that must be met if success is to be achieved to the maximum potential of the child.

Specific programs exist for educable mentally retarded, trainable mentally retarded, educationally handicapped, learning disabled, aphasic, autistic, hearing impaired, orthopedic, communications problems, expectant mothers, and mentally gifted. A full range of ancillary support services in psychology, speech therapy, and nursing is also available to meet special needs.

FOOD SERVICES: All schools serve a nutritious hot lunch costing 45 cents for elementary students and 55 cents for junior and senior high students. Extra milk may be purchased for five cents per half pint. Free lunches and reduced price lunches and free milk will be available to students who qualify. Applications for free meals can be obtained from the office of each school. Breakfast will be served at the three high schools, the junior high schools, Palisades Elementary, Las Palmas Elementary and R.H. Dana Elementary for 25 cents.

TRANSPORTATION: Bus transportation to and from school is provided for students living beyond norm walking zones. Under most conditions, the walking limits are ¾ mile for kindergarteners; one mile for grades one to three; 1½ miles for grades four through six; two miles for junior high and three miles for high school. Bus schedules are being prepared for the fall term and will be posted at each elementary school beginning Sept. 2.

NEW IN THE DISTRICT? HERE'S HOW TO ENROLL YOUR CHILD: Call administrative services, 496-1215 to determine which schools your children will attend. All schools are open week days for registration. Your school will tell you about their academic programs, opening, closing, lunch hours and transportation schedules.

A state law requesting all first grade pupils secure a health screening if they have not had a physical examination within the past year became effective with the 1975-76 school year. Students new to California schools must provide proof of state-required immunizations and entering kindergarten and first grade students must present a birth certificate to verify age.

Children are eligible to enroll in kindergarten if their birthday is on or before December 2 and kindergarten as well as all students new to the district are urged to enroll as quickly as possible in order to facilitate class and grade placements and assignments.

Students who were in the district last year will receive registration packets for high school registration times. If packets are not received by Sept. 2 students should immediately call their school office or go to the office and pick up a packet.

Presley Plot

Suspect Denies Theft Plan Hoax

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A man who told police of a plot to steal Elvis Presley's body for $10 million ransom says he and two other men were offered $40,000 to remove the body from its tomb.

Ronnie Lee Adkins said Thursday in an interview that another man was to hold the body until the Presley family paid the $10 million.

Some police officials have said privately the affair was a hoax, but Adkins denied this.

Adkins was one of three men arrested Monday near Forest Hill Cemetery, where the rock 'n' roll singer was entombed following his death from a heart attack last month. The Presley mausoleum had been staked out by officers on a tip from Adkins that the body would be stolen and ransomed. Adkins and the others were charged with trespassing. Police said they found no explosives or burglary tools.

Later, Police Director E. Winslow Chapman said Adkins was a police informant and he was recommending that the charge against him be dropped.

A repliminary hearing for Adkins, Raymond M. Green, 25, and Bruce Eugene Nelson, 30, was postponed Tuesday until Oct. 4.

An Enquirer spokesman said Thursday about six million copies of the paper were sold, compared to an average weekly circulation of about five million.

Enquirer President Ian Calder said the photo was "a super photo" but refused to say how it was taken. Cameras were not allowed in the room where the singer's body was on display.

Planners: LB Housing Impact Nill

The County Board of Supervisors' action this week to allow construction of up to 58 homes on 210 acres overlooking Laguna Canyon will have minimal impact on the area, one Laguna Beach official said today.

"Many of the 58 units are already built and occupied in the area," said Planning Director Doug Schmitz.

"All the county land use change did was reflect what's in the area already."

Supervisors approved the low density zoning on the 210 acre parcel Wednesday. The property is located off Castle Rock Road, two miles north of the intersection of Pacific Coast Highway and Laguna Canyon Road.

Laguna planning commissioners last April 12 recommended low density residential zoning on about 28 acres in the area owned by Della Armitage. Those 28 acres, along with another 182 acres, were shown on county planning documents for agriculture and wildlife conservation.

Mrs. Armitage had asked permission to construct 56 units on half-acre lots on her property. But nearby homeowners complained their area could not support such a development.

Laguna councilmen ratified the planning commission's recommendation for low density units on the Armitage property April 20.

Action by county supervisors this week allows up to 58 homes on the hillsides. Only two homes would be allowed on Mrs. Armitage's property, according to Schmitz.

Owner Naps, Loses Mo-ped

Laguna Beach police said a second mo-ped has been stolen from city streets in as many days, and Thursday's theft occurred while the owner lay sleeping .....nearby.

Fred Stodder, 19, of 309 Dartmoore St. told police he woke up after a nap in Heisler Park at about 3 p.m. and found his $400 machine missing.

Police also are seeking a yellow mo-ped stolen Wednesday on Catalina Street.

Niguel Group To Hear Plans For Ziggurat

The Laguna Niguel Community Association will hear preliminary plans from a developer for an area surrounding the Ziggurat building at its meeting Sept. 12.

Association spokeswoman Susy Ring said Robert M. Campbell, vice president of industrial development for the Birtcher-Pacific Development Co., will address community association members beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Birtcher-Pacific is the developer for the proposed low-cost housing project near the Ziggurat.

The meeting will be held in the conference room of the Moulton Niguel Water District offices at 27500 La Paz Road.

adult education principal Wick Lobo will now earn $27,335. Robert Hughes, the district's high school principal, will receive $27,456 and Bill Barnes, director of educational services will now earn $33,144.

Clyde Lovelady, the district's business manager, said longevity and merit increases for administrators other than Dr. Sanchis, will tack up to three percent onto the 4.5 percent hike.

Those increases were added to average Laguna Beach teachers' salaries earlier this year, bringing their salaries to eight percent over last year.

But, Lovelady said, the longevity and merit increases vary between employes.

Trustees Thursday night also approved an increase to $33,144 for Lovelady. Five percent pay hikes were approved for other classified management employes and for three confidential employes.

Adult education instructors will receive $8.90 an hour and substitute teachers received hikes to $27.83 per day.

"Of course, we would have liked more. We didn't get everything we wanted. The district didn't get everything it wanted, but in the interest of industrial harmony, we can live with this," he said.

The six percent pay increase in the teachers' salary schedule does not represent the total increase in the amount teachers will be taking home.

Depending on longivity and educational advancements, individual teachers could earn from six to 20 percent more due as they climb the district's salary ladder.

No major changes were made in the district's fringe benefit package. The district will contribute from $450 to $1,186 annually to teachers' insurance depending on marital status and number of children.

School Tax Rate Reduced

The property tax rate in the Capistrano Unified School District will be $4.12 per $100 of assessed valuation this year, according to tax rates adopted this week by Orange County Supervisors.

The rate represents a 76-cent cut from the past year's $4.93. That means the owner of a home assessed at $80,000 will pay $834 to finance elementary and high school education.

Despite tax rate cuts in most Orange Coast school districts, many homeowners will face higher tax bills this year because of the countywide 19.7 percent increase in assessed valuation.

"My personal feeling is that it would take another Pearl Harbor to get this country mad enough to fight anyone."

—Energy: "We can't solve the energy problem until we make it attractive through tax breaks for people to drill holes in the ground and find new supplies. We've got some alternate energy sources in the offing, but until they come along, we'll have to do what we can with what we've got."

Thief Gets Boat At Dana harbor

Deputies said the 31-foot, blue and white vessel is owned by the Bank of America, 3444 Via Lido, Newport Beach. They refused to identify two suspects they are seeking in connection with the theft.

Support Given to Airport

Letters seeking community support for a new South Orange County airport will be sent next week to the San Juan Capistrano and San Clemente City Councils, a spokesman for a pilots' ad hoc committee said today.

"Both the San Juan and San Clemente City Councils have in the past endorsed a plan to get a new airport but naturally they don't want it in their backyard," Dennis Shattuck, a San Clemente resident and area pilot, explained.

Shattuck said the newly formed south Orange County Airport Committee is of 17 area pilots and aircraft owners is considering several potential sites including county-owned land about two miles from the Prima Deshecha dump.

"What we really need is a county-operated airport," Shattuck explained. "Several of the sites to be considered are on county land so we will eventually be seeking support from the County Board of Supervisors."

A spokesman for 5th District Supervisor Thomas Riley, whose district encompasses the possible sites, said Wednesday the board would consider a new south county airport if such a facility had community support.

The south county airport committee has scheduled meetings on Sept. 13 and 15 to hear federal and state aviation officials discuss "what they consider the prescribed and best route to getting a new airport."

Federal and state officials have said they could pay 90 percent of the cost for a new airport site study through trust funds accrued by aviation fuel and operation taxes.

"The big hurdle is getting community and county support," Shattuck said.

Marine Dies In Van Crash Near Clemente

A 21-year-old Camp Pendleton Marine was killed Thursday night when the van in which he was driving overturned north of San Clemente and ejected him, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Randy Tyger was pronounced dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital shortly after the 11:10 p.m. accident, California Highway Patrol officers said.

The driver of the van, Paul Alexander, also a 21-year-old Camp Pendleton Marine, was treated for minor injuries then booked into Orange County Jail on charges of drunk driving and manslaughter, the CHP said.

Home Rifled

Thieves removed the screen from a window in a house at 488 Alta Vista Way, Laguna Beach Thursday, taking a handgun and $30 in cash. Mrs. Richard Muther told officers the break-in occurred between 9:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Thursday.

Villages Damaged

'Big, Nasty' Anita on Tear

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, "big and nasty" and packing 155 mile-per-hour winds, veered away from Texas and roared across the marshy, thinly populated Mexican coastal plain north of here today, tearing up fishing villages and picking up wallop as it moved inland.

"There is surely damage and there probably are casualties, but we have no reports of what they are for the time being," said a spokesman for the military units coordinating disaster relief. "Let's hope there are not too many."

The army evacuated 35,000 people from villages along a 240-mile stretch of coast from Tampico north to Matamoros, just south of the border city of Brownsville, Tex.

Anita, spawned in the Gulf of Mexico, had been headed toward Brownsville Thursday but suddenly turned sharply southwest overnight and slammed ashore at 4 a.m. at La Pesca, a fishing village about 150 miles south of the border.

The heaviest winds and torrential rains came no closer than 25 miles to Brownsville, which reported 45-m.p.h. winds and moderate rain.

It was reported that the storm's winds fell to 100 m.p.h. after its landfall, but Mexican meteorologists later said Anita was picking up more punch as it sucked hot air from the nearby Gulf.

"It may get worse before it gets better," said one Mexican meteorologist.

He said the Tamaulipas state capital of Ciudad Victoria, a city of 20,000, might be hit.

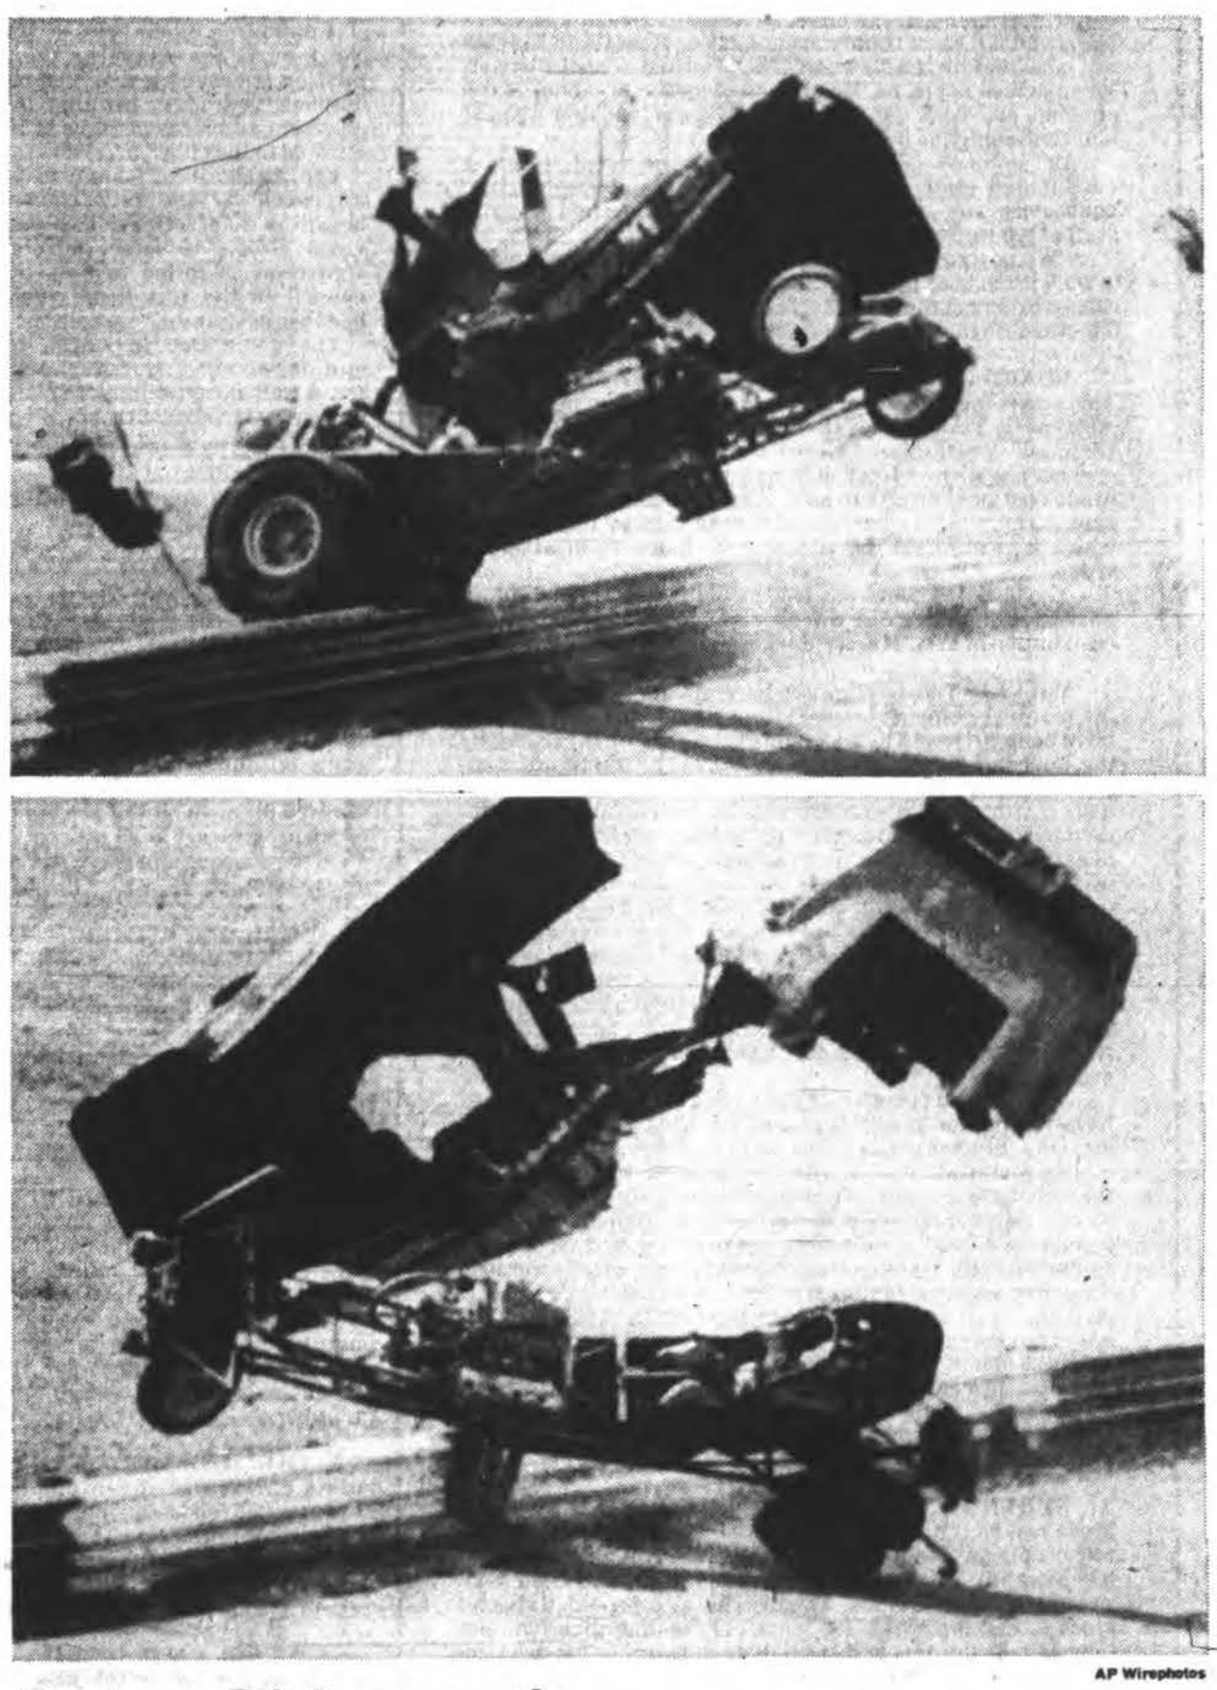

The storm was headed toward the Sierra Madre Oriental mountain range, where it was expected to spend itself.

Some caretakers and soldiers stayed behind in La Pesca, but most of its 1,500 residents were evacuated inland 30 miles to Soto la Marina, a town of 2,500, on Thursday.

Soto la Marina was hit a short time after La Pesca, and its electric power was quickly knocked out.

"We are huddled here in the municipal building waiting for the storm to pass," Leonel Tavares, mayor of Soto la Marina, said by telephone. "I see right through the window now the wind ripping off rooftops and blowing them away like paper, and uprooting trees."

Tavares said he believed damage was severe in Soto la Marina and La Pesca, which were also badly damaged by Hurricane Ella in 1970, and in the two nearby villages of Aldama and Vista Hermosa.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK
Senator Goldwater

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, the world is a rather gloomy place.

"I hate to paint such a dark picture," he told a group of community leaders today in Newport Beach, "but that's the way it is."

The Arizona Republican, who has been vacationing in Newport Beach, was the guest speaker at a small breakfast meeting held at the Newport Habrbor Area Chamber of Commerce which was attended by business leaders, city officials and aides to the area's legislators.

In the informal 90-minute session, the senator touched on a variety of domestic and foreign affairs issues which he prefaced by noting that "the old saying that the world's getting smaller is true. It's also getting meaner."

He explained that more of the world's population is living under repressive governments than did so 10 years ago.

Here's a look at some of the conservative politician's views:

—Socialization: Unless Carter is successful in turning the beauracracy around and halting the proliferation of governmental agencies and regulations, we will be a socialized country five years from now, 10 years at the most."

—Diplomacy: "We seem bent on losing what allies we have left. Perhaps one way to solve the problem would be to get Andrew Young out of South Africa and give him a nice, quiet job in Georgia somewhere."

—Panama Canal Treaty: "No one in Washington that I know of has seen the whole treaty — all the pages. Four or five months ago, it wasn't a bad sounding treaty, but I keep hearing new versions. "President Carter called me last week and asked me to endorse it and I told him I couldn't until I see all the dots and commas that are in the final document."

Goldwater said he doubts Congress will consider the

MARGATE, N.J. (AP) — Hundreds of bathers were ordered out of the surf here when a wounded seven-foot shark surfaced within five feet of a teenage girl, lifeguards said.

Carol Momjian, 16, of Huntington Valley, Pa., said Thursday she was drifting on a raft about 25 yards from shore when she heard loud splashes nearby.

"I didn't see anything and I was wondering what it was," she said.

An Enquirer spokesman said Thursday about six million copies of the paper were sold, compared to an average weekly circulation of about five million.

Enquirer President Ian Calder said the photo was "a super photo" but refused to say how it was taken. Cameras were not allowed in the room where the singer's body was on display.

$28,000 in Drugs Seized

Mesa Police Arrest Five Dealer Suspects

Costa Mesa police capped a week-long undercover investigation Thursday with the arrest of five alleged drug dealers and the seizure of cocaine and methamphetamine with a combined street value of almost $28,000.

Wade, an unemployed construction worker, is in custody today on charges of sales of dangerous drugs. His bail is set at $25,000.

Also arrested was Steven Warren Price, 25, of 702 Shalimar Drive, Costa Mesa. He is being held on a $10,000 bond.

Last week, undercover agents from Costa Mesa and Huntington Beach Police closed in on a Redondo Beach home and confiscated one-quarter pound of cocaine valued at $25,000.

Arrested in the earlier incident were Jeffrey Alan Guilfoyle, 21, Diana Marie Dunnekle, 20, both of Redondo Beach, and John Robert Legerton, 22, of Seal Beach.

Costa Mesa narcotics investigator Sgt. Gary Webster said the trio are being held on charges of possession of dangerous drugs for sale.

Sergeant Webster said the Thursday raid in Costa Mesa was "unusual" since relatively pure methamphetamine (better known as speed) is quite rare.

Webster said the flow of the powerful stimulant can be traced to outlaw motorcycle gangs.

Undercover agents closed in on the Wade residence shortly before noon Thursday and allegedly purchased a plastic bag containing the powdered substance. Wade was taken into custody and police later arrested Steven Price.

A third suspect, Michael Ray Price of Costa Mesa, was arrested but later released.

Sgt. Webster said police held off announcement of the Redondo Beach cocaine arrests until the

Lisa Fohring, 11, of Corona del Mar is certainly the prettier of the pair, but you've got to admit the wig does do something for her male golden Labrador, Lum. Lum didn't take any beauty prizes, but he did win an award for being "most social."

2nd-degree Murder

SF Mother Guilty Of Starving Son

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court jury has found a San Francisco waitress guilty in the starvation death of her 11-year-old son. The waitress, Shirley Ellenburg, was found guilty of second-degree murder Thursday after a six-week trial.

The trial had been marked by the defendant's testimony as she struggled through tears to explain her relationship with her boyfriend and son, Gary, who died Feb. 11.

The child, weighing 44 pounds, had been taken to San Francisco General Hospital Jan. 28 in a coma. Doctors said he died two weeks later of starvation and pneumonia.

Ms. Ellenburg, was charged with murder after she and her boyfriend, Charley Nakas, told police the boy had to be handcuffed in the bathroom to prevent him from running away.

Nakao faces charges in a separate trial.

After the jury returned its verdict reached in 12 hours deliberation, the neatly dressed defendant left the courtroom with a coat over her head as she was taken by bailiffs back to jail.

Defense attorney Clifford Gould had argued during the trial that his client was a submissive, confused woman who lacked the psychological makeup to plan to murder her son. He said Ms. Ellenburg turned over discipline of her son to her boyfriend and had not noticed the boy's deterioration.

Gould also contended that the boy's death had been caused by a hospital diagnostic procedure during the weeks the child lay in a coma.

The jurors had a choice of possible verdicts of innocent, guilty of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, or of first-degree or second-degree murder.

Information About...

Your Schools

Newport-Mesa Unified School District

(CLIP AND SAVE FOR YOUR DISTRICT)

ABOUT THE DISTRICT: Kindergarten-12 grade children residing in the cities of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa and adjacent county areas such as Santa Ana Heights are educated by the Newport-Mesa Unified School District. When school opens on Monday, September 12, about 24,000 students are expected, down slightly from last year's 24,551 and continuing the downward trend.

Dr. John W. Nicoll, district superintendent, heads a certificated staff of about 1,260 teachers, psychologists, counselors and administrators, and a classified support staff of 600 (full time equivalent).

"We go into a new year with many uncertainties having to do with school finance," Nicoll said. "But I have every reason to expect the 1977-78 school year to be a continuance of our efforts to maintain a superior educational program."

BOARD OF EDUCATION — CURRENT CONCERNS: The seven-member board of education meets the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month at 7:30 p.m. President Roderick MacMillian pointed out that the board is concerned about the effect of rising property taxes. "We've made continual efforts to hold down spending," MacMillian said. "This year we decreased the tax rate by 16.2 percent, which almost offset the 18.8 percent increase in assessed value."

The board of education has appointed Mrs. B.J. Skilling as trustee of Area 3. She will assume the seat vacated by the resignation of Mrs. Marian Bergeson.

WHAT IS TAUGHT: Specific graduation requirements for reading, computational skills (math), and composition have been reviewed by high school staffs. When accepted by the Board of Education, they will form the minimum standards students must meet to graduate, starting in 1981. All district 7th and 9th graders will be tested this fall to determine if they're making satisfactory progress in these areas. Students will be encouraged to progress beyond these minimums to the limits of their capabilities. They'll still need to complete 200 units of work before graduation. Minimum requirements in the areas of language systems, math systems, thinking, science, social studies, speaking and listening are being reviewed this fall by school staffs.

The primary reading program, a supplement to the district-wide program, provides extra funds for special help to strengthen reading skills for those children who need it in grades 1-3.

A new, comprehensive health education curriculum has been written for grades 5-12, and the K-4 curriculum is under way. Students' questions and concerns provided much of the material, which will also counter misinformation they've been getting elsewhere, according to Dr. Mary Kruse, director of instructional services. Topics such as environmental health, nutrition, and drug use and misuse are systematically developed as children become more mature. Stressing personal health practices, it includes information on noise levels and their effect on hearing, prevention of disease, and community agencies which handle such problems as child abuse. The curriculum is available for public inspection: just call 556-3515.

Adult Education classes serve local residents who want to learn English, upgrade basic skills, or get a high school diploma. Call 556-3302 for information.

SERVICES FOR SPECIAL STUDENTS: Newport-Mesa conducts special programs at all grade levels and in all schools for about 2,000 mentally gifted students. Trainable mentally retarded children aged 3-21 have their own school, Marion Parsons. The district also provides special classes and services for physical, communication and learning disabilities and specialists at every school who develop individual programs for students who need them.

CAREER/VOCATIONAL EDUCATION: This fall the N-MUSD, OCC, the Costa Mesa and Newport Beach Area Chambers of Commerce and the Greater Irvine Industrial League are jointly sponsoring Career Week 1977, October 24-28. Purpose is to give students (and the public) a comprehensive look at the businesses and services which form their community, and show them job opportunities and careers open to them.

During Career Week, employers and craftsmen will go into the classroom and discuss the skills and training their jobs require; local businesses will hold Open House; and a two-day Career Fair will be held at both South Coast Plaza and Fashion Island on October 26 & 27, 11-4:30, to which students will be bussed.

"We think this is a fine opportunity to teach students about our economic system," said Don Achziger, coordinator, career education. For more information, call him at 556-3303.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT OPPORTUNITIES: The school system seeks and receives community input at many levels, including such districtwide groups as the Citizens Budget Committee, Career Advisory Committee and the Graduation Requirements Committee. Residents of the Corona del Mar High School Zone have formed an areawide committee meeting monthly, and parent advisory groups serve individual schools. All schools welcome parent and community volunteers, several hundred of whom participate in the classroom and in Early Childhood Education, bilingual and other programs.

SCHOOL LUNCHES: All schools serve a complete and nutritious hot lunch at 45 cents for elementary students, 50 cents for middle school students, and 60 cents for high school students. Middle and high schools also have a la carte lunches available; and students can get a hot breakfast at all high schools and several middle and elementary schools.

A special lunch program for senior citizens is entering its third year. Any retired resident aged 55-up is eligible for this hot meal, complete with beverage, for 85 cents. Beginning Wednesday, September 7, it will be served every school day at 12:45 at Pomona Elementary, Pomona and Hamilton Streets, Costa Mesa.

TRANSPORTATION: Bus transportation is provided children Kindergarten through Grade 3 who live more than a mile from school, for upper elementary more than 1¼ miles, for middle school more than 1½ miles and for high school more than 2 miles. Bus schedules are available at the individual schools.

NEW IN DISTRICT? HOW TO ENROLL: All schools are now open for registration. Student Services, 556-3284, can tell you which school your child will attend. Your kindergartner (or any first grader who hasn't attended school) will need proof of age and that he/she has had state-required immunizations.

Planners OK New Sign Law

With concurrence of the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce, members of the Newport Beach Planning Commission approved a new sign ordinance Thursday, limiting the numbers and sizes of signs to be allowed in the city.

The measure will have to be approved by the city council before it takes effect. Two previous efforts to enact stricter sign controls failed to pass the council in the last three years because of chamber opposition.

The ordinance approved by commissioners Thursday calls for a half dozen changes in the existing city sign controls:

—IT LIMITS EACH building to one perpendicular sign which can be a roof sign, a projecting sign or a free standing sign.

—IT CUTS FROM a 30-foot height limit to a 15-foot height limit roof signs while maintaining the existing 200 square foot maximum size of roof signs.

—IT LIMITS WALL signs to three per building frontage. No limit on numbers of wall signs currently exists. The height is limited to the height of the building with area set at 40 percent of the frontage or 200 square feet as the maximum.

—REAL ESTATE SIGNS in residential neighborhoods will be allowed to increase in size two square feet to three. Instead of being limited to listing property for sale by owner, the signs can list property for sale by agents. However, the signs cannot list the agent's name, only the address and the telephone number.

—REAL ESTATE SIGNS in R-4 neighborhoods or on commercial and industrial property will be limited to 12 square feet and can only list the owner's name, address and phone number or the fact the property is for sale by an agent and the agent's address and phone number.

—THE NEW ORDINANCE also carries a maintenance clause which requires businessmen to maintain their signs or to remove them when the business no longer offers the service advertised in the sign.

—A GRANDFATHER CLAUSE carried in the new ordinance calls for all signs existing at the time it goes into effect to be listed as legal, nonconforming signs. It provides that those signs can be removed and then replaced for repair, for the remodeling of the building or even for the change in name of the owner of the business without having to conform to the new regulations.

Thieves Hit Warehouse

Burglars using a pry tool to enter a Costa Mesa warehouse took office equipment and tools valued at $2,766 early Thursday, police reported.

The loss was reported by an employe at Bismac International Warehouse, 1355 Warehouse Road, Costa Mesa.

Police said the burglars also broke into three company trucks during the heist. Police are attempting to locate the owner of a white van that was spotted near the scene early Thursday.

Man Guilty Of Porno Mailings

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — After viewing magazines and a 10-minute movie showing teenaged boys in homosexual activity, a federal jury has convicted a San Francisco man of mailing obscene material.

The seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated 2½ hours Thursday before finding Vincent Proca guilty of all 13 counts.

U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel raised Proca's $10,000 bail to $100,000 and ordered him to jail until he posts the higher bond.

Presley Plot

Suspect Denies Plans a Hoax

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A man who told police of a plot to steal Elvis Presley's body for $10 million ransom says he and two other men were offered $40,000 to remove the body from its tomb.

Ronnie Lee Adkins said Thursday in an interview that another man was to hold the body until the Presley family paid the $10 million.

Some police officials have said privately the affair was a hoax, but Adkins denied this.

Adkins was one of three men arrested Monday near Forest Hill Cemetery, where the rock 'n' roll singer was entombed following his death from a heart attack last month. The Presley mausoleum had been staked out by officers on a tip from Adkins that the body would be stolen and ransomed. Adkins and the others were charged with trespassing. Police said they found no explosives or burglary tools.

Later, Police Director E. Winslow Chapman said Adkins was a police informant and he was recommending that the charge against him be dropped.

A repliminary hearing for Adkins, Raymond M. Green, 25, and Bruce Eugene Nelson, 30, was postponed Tuesday until Oct. 4.

Jay Fred Friedman, attorney for Green and Nelson, has suggested that his clients were themselves unwitting victims of a plot. He said his clients were not at the cemetery to steal a body.

Adkins said he was recruited to help steal Presley's body from the Memphis funeral home before it was moved to the entertainer's mansion for funeral services.

Beaches Brace For Holiday Fun Seekers

Hundreds of thousands of Southern Californians trying to make the most of the last three-day weekend of the year began their Labor Day pilgrimages today.

The weather forecast abetted the holiday migration: Mostly sunny skies and air and water temperatures in the low 70s along the Orange County coast.

Mountain temperatures were in the mid to upper 70s, to nearly 90 degrees at California's campers' mecca, Yosemite National Park, where there's no room for anyone without a reservation.

State parks space has been reserved for a month.

The Orange County parks department reported it expected full, first-come, first-serve use of parks.

Local state parks superintendents said the best chance people have to find space this weekend is along the strands of Bolsa Chica and Huntington State beaches.

Predicted fogs and low morning and afternoon clouds — and stiff westerly winds — may discourage some sunbathers.

Water temperatures were unusually warm: 72 degrees at Huntington Beach, 74 degrees at San Clemente.

Thief Gets Boat At Dana harbor

Deputies said the 31-foot, blue and white vessel is owned by the Bank of America, 3444 Via Lido, Newport Beach. They refused to identify two suspects they are seeking in connection with the theft.

Parents Sue Over Wedding

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations.

But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilert's names should not have been included.

Authorities said this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order.

Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to include their names on the invitations.

The Weilerts also claim that their daughter and Mrs. Miller disregarded their wishes and instructions when they included the Weilerts' names on the invitations. They said the invitations gave the impression they were participating in inviting guests to the wedding.

The court order sought to require Miss Weilert and Mrs. Miller to notify "by letter or by news media" all people invited that the Weilerts' names should not be included on the invitation.

And the suit seeks in excess of $10,000 for the bride's parents for alleged mental pain and anguish.

Mrs. Weilert has refused comment on the suit, calling it a family matter.

MONDAY TRASH PICKUP NIXED

Newport Beach residents whose trash is normally collected on Mondays will have to wait until next Thursday for a pick up because the city's trash crews will be taking a rest on Labor Day.

According to General Services Director Jake Mynderse, there will only be one pickup next week in the areas of the city that normally have their trash collected on Mondays and Thursdays.

Legal Hassle Touched Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A judge has canceled an Episcopal congregation's vote over withdrawing from the national church in protest against the ordination of women as priests. And that is touching off a legal hassle over the separation of church and state.

The priest of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who wants the congregation to secede, says he is "flabbergasted" that the court would intervene. An earlier vote on the issue ended in a tie. But a church warden, who doesn't want to secede, says church property — not just religious doctrine — is involved. He cited that as a reason for bringing the case to court.

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, packing winds up to 155 miles per hour, slammed into the northeast Mexican coast before dawn today, washing out roads, uprooting trees and tearing off rooftops in a dozen or more fishing villages.

There was no immediate report of casualties. At least some of the villages had been evacuated hours beforehand.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Electric power was cut off in Soto La Marina, the town directly in the hurricane's path as it came ashore at about 4 a.m., rushing in at 120 m.p.h.

Soto la Marina and La Pesca, both on the edge of the Laguna Madre, had most of their residents evacuated by the Army early Thursday ahead of torrential rains and vicious winds.

"People are more afraid of the wind than the water," Flores said.

Mayor Leonel Tavares said the drought of recent months would help keep floods to a minimum.

Anita, first hurricane of the season, initially aimed its punch at the lower Texas coast, but veered south Thursday morning and drifted into northeastern Mexico, as South Texas sighed with relief.

In Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Tex., nearly 8,000 people had been taken to shelters. Officials said today most of them were returning to their homes and there appeared to be little danger of flooding.

"We were very, very lucky," said Brownsville meteorologist Al Dreumont, "torrential rains and excessive winds missed us by only 25 miles."

The National Weather Service said that the primary concern was a serious threat of flash floodings in northeastern Mexico as rains of more than eight inches fell in the area.

La Pesca, a tiny coastal fishing village, and Soto la Marina bore the brunt of Hurricane Ella in 1970.

Dutch City May Float Prostitutes

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — City officials are considering a plan to put Rotterdam's prostitutes aboard a floating brothel in an abandoned area of the local docks.

Mayor Andre van der Louw and three members of the City Council are going to Denmark today to look over a 400-bed hotel ship that might be for sale.

A campaign to confine the city's estimated 700 prostitutes to a secluded part of the city started in 1974 when the two main red light districts began spreading into residential districts.

The ship plan will be presented to the City Council on Oct. 13, and City Hall sources say approval is expected.

"The sooner it gets going the better," one streetwalker told a reporter who asked what the ladies of the evening think of the idea.

Rotterdam's brothel owners — not the city government — would buy the ship. Rechristened "Eros Center," it would be moored alongside the old port administration building and have a restaurant and bar.

Officials said the government is prepared to sell the building to the brothel owners and will help them find a reasonably priced, second-hand ship.

"Of course, we would have nothing to do with the running of such a scheme once it is set up," said the spokeswoman for the city government, Toos de Jong.

Prostitution is illegal in Holland, but the authorities have tolerated it for many years.

Parents Sue Daughter On Wedding

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — A prominent local businessman and his wife have sued their daughter for $10,000 and demanded that their names be removed from her wedding invitations.

But plans are still under way for Helen Ruth Weilert, 20, to marry 21-year-old Phillip Miller on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weilert Sr., failed to obtain a court order directing that their daughter and her future mother-in-law notify those receiving invitations that the Weilert's names should not have been included.

Authorities said this week that the daughter could not be located for service of legal papers for a hearing on the court order.

Court documents indicate the Weilerts claim they "at no time consented to be a party to the marriage ceremony" and did not give their daughter and Mrs. James Miller permission to in-

Valley Principal Feels 'Old Magic'

Kathy Dick, 26

By LAURIE KASPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Even with workmen hammering in the background, telephones needing service, furniture stacked in the corners and some equipment still lacking, Kathy Dick feels the magic.

As a 26-year-old new principal in a new Saddleback Valley school, she's feeling like she did when she started teaching five years ago.

"The first year that you teach is so exciting. It's all you can think about. It's all you can do . . . That first year almost has a magic about it.

"This is like having that feeling all over again," she explained.

When she was named principal of the new LaMadera Elementary school in Lake Forest, Mrs. Dick had reached her goal of moving into the administrative ranks of education.

It was something she had not only wanted but worked toward.

While teaching, she explained, she sought every experience that would train her for the position. For a year, she held a dual role as an administrative intern in the district's central office and a first grade teacher at Glen Yermo Elementary School.

Last year, while teaching a third and fourth grade class, she also served as coordinator of the school's Early Childhood Education program and an intern teacher's supervisor.

And all the time, she was working on a doctorate in educational administration at the University of Southern California.

Although Mrs. Dick has taken a leave from her studies to concentrate on the new job, she still expects to get the advanced degree in three or four years.

She enjoyed teaching. "I really liked working with children. I really liked seeing their progress," she said.

But, she explained, she wanted to see and influence her students in the next and following years. Administration was the way to do this.

Her job as administrator of a new school has been time consuming.

Twenty three teachers had to be hired; furniture had to be selected; instructional supplies and audio visual and playground equipment had to be ordered; texts had to be chosen, and even the lines on the playground had to be determined.

Six Percent Hike To CUSD Teachers

By JACK CHAPPELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Tentative agreement between the Capistrano Unified School District and teachers for a six percent pay increase was announced today in a joint conference between teachers' union representatives and school administrators.

The agreement, which also provides for a form of binding arbitration in future teachers' contracts, still requires ratification by the 525 members of the Capistrano Education Association and the school board.

The package of wage and increases will add about $750,000 to the districts teacher payroll for the upcoming school year.

The average Capistrano Unified School District teacher's salary will go from $14,673 to $15,500 for the nine month school year.

The agreement was reached through the aid of a state mediator when the school district and its teachers reached impasse in talks last June.

The pay hikes mean the salary range for a Capistrano teacher runs from 10,555 for a beginning teacher to 23,045 for a teacher at the top of the salary schedule.

There are about 700 teachers in the 21-school Capistrano Unified School District.

The district extends from San Clemente to Mission Viejo and includes communities of Laguna Niguel, Dana Point, San Juan Capistrano, and Capistrano Beach.

The contract involved will extend only until the end of the upcoming school year. Then, all facets of the district-teacher labor relations will be reopened for negotiation.

Under the just concluded talks, only salary, fringe benefits and the arbitration issue were open for negotiation. Other areas were covered by a two-year contract signed last year.

While salary disagreements played a part in the protracted and at times discordant negotiations between the teachers and the school district, a major snag involved the issue of binding arbitration.

Man's Hand Caught

Worker Freed From Milk Bottler

A UCI Medical Center amputation team was flown to the Superior Milk Company, 10581 Los Alamitos Boulevard, at 8:30 a.m. in an attempt to free Manuel Avila of Norwalk who had been caught in the bottle filler for almost one hour.

The helicopter from the U.S. Marine Corps El Toro Air Station landed on Los Alamitos Boulevard while police cleared traffic so that doctors could aid the stricken man.

Avila was reported in good condition and in excellent spirits after his ordeal, said dairy manager Jay Walker.

"His wife is expecting a baby and couldn't be notified for two hours because she doesn't speak much English," said Orange County Fire official Greg Lyons.

Walker said Avila's wrist became snagged in a conveyor belt as the employe was operating the machine near a conveyor belt.

Rescuers loosened a chain in the conveyor belt and eased Avila's bloodied wrist and hand from the apparatus, said Lyons.

"This is the first time I've ever seen this happen," said Walker. "He was in pain but stood up through the whole thing."

After Tri-City paramedics arrived at the scene and were unable to remove Avila's arm from the machine, UCI surgeons were called in case the man's arm had to be amputated, said Lyons.

"It was just one of those freak deals," said Walker.

Information About...

Your Schools

Saddleback Unified School District

(CLIP AND SAVE FOR YOUR DISTRICT)

ABOUT THE DISTRICT: Saddleback Valley Unified School District serves the communities of El Toro, Lake Forest, Mission Viejo, Laguna Hills, and Trabuco Canyon, educating children in Kindergarten through 12th grade. Its schools are organized into three levels: 17 elementary schools serve grades K-6 (Trabuco Elementary School has grades K-8); three intermediate schools serve grades 7-9; and two comprehensive high schools serve grades 9-12. The District also has one continuation high school (Silverado) which offers an alternative program primarily for students in the last two years of high school. A variety of special education programs are also provided, among them a special facility for handicapped youngsters, Esperanza School. The largest school in the District is the Adult Education School, which has more than 5,000 enrollees during the course of the year.

About 17,650 students are expected on opening day, September 12. This reflects the continued growth that the District is still experiencing. Schools are staffed by an 830 member faculty and 855 full- and part-time support staff. Dr. Richard Welte is our Superintendent of Schools.

BOARD OF EDUCATION — CURRENT CONCERNS: Meeting the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 8:00 p.m. at the new District Educational Center in Mission Viejo, the Board of Education is currently engaged in a needs assessment to determine expenditure priorities for the coming year. With new school financial legislation on the horizon, the District knows that the future will have less dollars rather than more. The Board cut this year's tax rate by 41¢, but State laws may make these kinds of savings impossible in the future. Citizens are welcome to attend meetings of the Board and an opportunity is offered at each meeting for the public to express its points of view on every subject.

WHAT IS TAUGHT: ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS. Establishing the child on a firm foundation in the essential skills is a primary goal in the elementary years. The District has won distinction for its Early Childhood Education programs, and will continue to utilize the best resources available to meet the individual needs of children. Each school has a list of basic texts and materials used in the schools, and the principal will be pleased to discuss instructional programs with you. Supplemental programs insure that the children receive broad experience in music, art, and other cultural activities.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL. Seventh and eighth grades are times of transition for a young person, and these programs are tailored to meet the special needs of the growing years.

HIGH SCHOOL. Two comprehensive high schools presently serve the students in the District with a third (Laguna Hills High) being planned to open in the fall of 1978. Graduation requirements include three years of English, one and a half years of Mathematics, one year of Science, three years of Social Science including World Geography and Cultures, History and Government-Economics, one year of Health and Driver Education, and Physical Education. These courses comprise 135 of the 210 units required for graduation. The remaining 75 units are electives.

The comprehensive high schools offer art, drama, vocal and instrumental music, photography, computer programming, foreign languages, team and individual sports, business and shop skills, ROTC, and horticulture and agriculture programs. Combination library-media centers provide research and materials, taped foreign language drills, and courses for students in media technology.

ADULT EDUCATION: Adults who want to get their high school diplomas can take necessary courses through the District. The Adult School also offers a wide range of courses of interest to all ages and occupations. The District has one of the largest Adult School programs in the State, and has been widely copied by other Districts.

CAREER AND VOCATIONAL EDUCATION: Each high school has an active Career Center, staffed by trained counselors and teachers. The centers offer information to students on occupations and help provide the planning necessary to choose a meaningful and productive career. Many students are enrolled in the work experience programs (Coastline Regional Occupation Program (CROP) in which the students actually work in the community, learning on a first-hand basis the skills they will need when they graduate from school. The District is striving to create a sense of responsibility and self-worth in its young people by preparing them for life-time commitments to useful careers. Job-entry skills are emphasized as well as college-bound orientation to maximize individual potential.

SERVICE FOR SPECIAL STUDENTS: The District is well prepared to meet the needs of learners at all levels of development, and this is especially emphasized by the number of special programs offered in the schools. Mentally-gifted students are offered special enrichment programs at all grade levels through the Mentally Gifted Minor Program (MGM). Students with specific learning disabilities have access to counseling services and psychological support services, as well as special classes designed to meet their needs. Classes are conducted for the educable mentally retarded and for the trainable mentally retarded children at all levels. Services are also provided cooperatively with neighboring Districts for handicaps that required special attention. In addition, the special needs of all the children in the regular programs are met through increased emphasis on individualization of instruction.

FOOD SERVICES: All schools serve a nutritious hot lunch costing $.55 for elementary and intermediate students, and the high school students' lunches start at $.70. Students can also buy a la carte lunches at the intermediate and high school levels.

TRANSPORTATION: Bus transportation is provided to children who are beyond certain walking distances from the school which they attend. The present minimum distances for bus service are:

3rd-4th grades:	1 mile
5th-6th grades:	1¼ mile
6th-12th grades:	2½ miles

NEW IN THE DISTRICT? HERE'S HOW TO ENROLL YOUR CHILD: Call the District Office (586-1234) to find out which school your child will attend. All schools are open for registration. Each school will provide information on their programs and activities.

Under binding arbitration, if the two parties are unable to reach agreement, an outside arbitrator is called in. He reviews both sides and makes a binding decision.

Under the proposal contained in the tentative agreement, should the teachers and the school district not reach agreement, the arbitrator may be called in, but his decision can be appealed within 30 days by either party.

Saling, who also represents teachers organizations in the Irvine Unified, Tustin Unified and Saddleback Unified school districts termed the settlement "adequate."

"Of course, we would have liked more. We didn't get everything we wanted. The district didn't get everything it wanted, but in the interest of industrial harmony, we can live with this," he said.

The six percent pay increase in the teachers' salary schedule does not represent the total increase in the amount teachers will be taking home.

Depending on longivity and educational advancements, individual teachers could earn from six to 20 percent more due as they climb the district's salary ladder.

No major changes were made in the district's fringe benefit package. The district will contribute from $450 to $1,186 annually to teachers' insurance depending on marital status and number of children.

Jury Debates On Sanity of CSF Slayer

Six men and six women went into the jury room for the third day today in a bid to reach a verdict in the sanity phase of campus killer Edward Charles Allaway's Orange County Superior Court trial.

Deliberations have been interrupted during those three days for the rereading of testimony offered during the trial by Allaway's estranged wife, Bonnie, and three psychiatrists.

But jurors indicated Thursday that they will have no further requests for testimony and are now prepared to deliberate until they reach a verdict.

They earlier found Allaway guilty of seven counts of murder and two of assault with a deadly weapon. The charges stemmed from his six-minute shooting spree on the Cal State Fullerton campus on July 12, 1976.

Then, there are the normal little problems that keep coming up in any new building.

The other night, after everyone else had left, she had to take a telephone apart. It was buzzing and hot but, because it was after hours, a repair man couldn't come out. Instead, a man from the telephone company told her how to take the instrument apart.

Despite the work involved, she said there are advantages to being a new principal in a new school. "I don't come into a situation where procedures have already been established," she explained.

Additionally, she has been able to hire teachers with whom she thinks she can work well. Although she rejected the thought that there is opposition to having a woman principal, she admitted that some people are apprehensive.

But, she added, many people, women especially, have told her how fantastic it is to have a woman principal.

Realtor Seeking To Freeze Taxes

By WILLIAM SCHREIBER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

STEVE TYLER OF LAKE FOREST, like just about every other homeowner, has watched his property taxes spiral almost out of sight in the 12 years he has lived in the Saddleback Valley.

As a realtor, the problem and how to solve it was more nagging to him than most people. Then, in a short item buried inside a large metropolitan newspaper recently, Tyler saw what he believes is the solution.

SCHREIBER

The news item referred to an initiative drive aimed at putting a proposed constitutional amendment on the June primary ballot next year that would hold annual property assessment increases in check by freezing values at the 1975-76 level.

That convinced Tyler he should get involved. Now, only a short time after learning that such a petition drive even existed, he is responsible for gathering as many as 20,000 signatures before the Nov. 25 deadline.

Tyler, who has enlisted the aid of the Saddleback Valley Board of Realtors and other groups, said anyone interested in the petition drive can call him at 586-8500.

SADDLEBACK COLLEGE TRUSTEE Frank Greinke, never one to avoid an argument or discussion on just about any issue, couldn't even resign this week without triggering a debate that lasted 20 minutes.

When Greinke announced he planned to leave no later than Nov. 15, fellow board member Robert Price moved to accept the resignation with regret and begin seeking applicants for the empty seat.

The lengthy discussion ensued over the legality of interviewing for a position when the occupant is still seated on the board.

One faction argued that it couldn't be done but the other, spearheaded by Board Chairman Larry Taylor and Greinke himself, maintained that it could.

Taylor's faction finally won its point and the Laguna Beach trustee turned to Greinke and said, "Gee, Frank, we've even gotta wrestle over your resignation."

When the vote finally came, Norrisa Brandt of Irvine topped things off by voting against acceptance of Greinke's resignation.

Marine Dies In Van Crash Near Clemente

A 21-year-old Camp Pendleton Marine was killed Thursday night when the van in which he was driving overturned north of San Clemente and ejected him, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Randy Tyger was pronounced dead on arrival at San Clemente General Hospital shortly after the 11:10 p.m. accident, California Highway Patrol officers said.

The driver of the van, Paul Alexander, also a 21-year-old Camp Pendleton Marine, was treated for minor injuries then booked into Orange County Jail on charges of drunk driving and manslaughter, the CHP said.

The Weilerts also claim that their daughter and Mrs. Miller disregarded their wishes and instructions when they included the Weilerts' names on the invitations. They said the invitations gave the impression they were participating in inviting guests to the wedding.

And the suit seeks in excess of $10,000 for the bride's parents for alleged mental pain and anguish.

Mrs. Weilert has refused comment on the suit, calling it a family matter.

GRAND FINALE: So now, ladies and gentlemen, we are staring into the final fadeout of Summer '77; the wonderous three days of the Labor Day weekend. Already the predictions on scope of the celebration are awesome.

California Highway Patrol spokesmen, for example, have suggested that everybody will be on the road. Those in the north state will be headed south and the people of our region are going north.

This will just about fill all available freeway lanes in both directions.

The CHP figures to add to that congestion. The patrol will have 100 officers out there among 'em along Orange County freeways alone.

VISITORS FROM the hot inland reaches are expected to jam our beachfronts for the last fling of summer. And herein, you have some people offering up some opposite prayers.

Consider the men and women of our various beach lifeguard services. They know they can't pray away the throngs. So at least they are offering prayerful hopes for nice, little docile surf lapping at the shoreline; free of riptides or jellyfish.

This will uncomplicate their tasks for the next three days. Big surf and riptides often hit our coastline right along with the final Labor Day crowds of the season.

Inlanders and heavy seas can be a melancholy combination for lifeguards. The overweight executive drops down for his last summer fling and it could become his last fling — period — if he gets buried beneath a breaker and goes down for the last time.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the prayer front, you have our local Orange Coast surfers. For most of them, school looms on the immediate horizon. They'd like to get just one more shot at some big surf before doors close them into the educational slammer for the next nine months.

BUT THE PACIFIC has so lived up to its name over the past three months that some surfers swear they've forgotten what a big wave even looks like.

Consider Laguna Beach, for example, where this is the time of year they hold a surfing contest that has become an Art Colony tradition. This will be the 23rd annual Brooks Street Surfing Classic. It will be, that is, if it ever comes off.

Traditionally, the Brooks Streets affair is scheduled in early August but not on a specific day. It waits until the surf off Brooks Street Beach rises to acceptable competitive levels. Then the contestants gather and away they go.

This year, the classic was scheduled for about Aug. 6. If you check your calendar, you will note that was almost one month ago. It hasn't happened yet. The surf has stubbornly refused to cooperate.

Sponsors of the event even hoked up a ceremony whereby they "sacrificed" some virgins to the ocean in an effort to induce heavy breakers.

So now we are into the Labor Day weekend where surfers are praying for some action and the lifeguards are hoping for easy seas.

Somebody will get his wish.

Future War

Army Studies Women's Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is conducting a major new study which could result in women serving under fire in a future war, officials say.

The study, the most detailed of its kind ever conducted by the Army, is aimed at establishing how women can fit best into the service structure and how many can be used effectively.

Army officials said Thursday there is no intention to change longstanding policy barring women from a direct combat role — as an infantry soldier, machine-gunner, or member of a tank crew. But they said they are looking at how women might serve in what they call a "combat environment."

AS THE OFFICIALS explained the concept, women eventually might be assigned to signal, military police, transportation, maintenance or medical units with a role in the battle zones.

Traditionally, women soldiers have been kept far to the rear in higher headquarters or hospitals, although women nurses sometimes have been exposed to shellfire in past wars.

Meanwhile, leaders of women's organizations appealed to Congress on Thursday for more jobs for women in the armed forces.

TESTIFYING before a Joint Economic Committee panel, they said expanding participation of women in the armed forces would result in greater military effectiveness.

One witness, retired Col. Mary A. Halaren, a former director of the Women's Army Corps, testified that WACs served in London during World War II Bombing raids. "No one ever asked for a transfer to a safe billet," she said.

"There are women, as well as men, who crack under stress, who cannot take pressure, but working with men and women over the last 50 years, both in and out of the Army, has convinced me that it is the individual and not the gender that determines a person's strength under pressure," she said.

The Army study is being carried out in several sections, with most of the results due for consideration next spring by Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Gen. Bernard Rogers, Army chief of staff.

One of the most important tests involves about 200 women who will go into the field with units in Western Europe this month.

Mexico's President Jose Lopez Portillo said Thursday that Mexico has begun an economic recovery but must slow its population growth to pull out of the recession. In his first state of the union address, he added there were hopeful signs of an early recovery.

Nation's Jobless Rate Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate rose from 6.9 percent to 7.1 percent in August as climbing unemployment among blacks matched a post-World War II high, the government reported today.

In August, the Labor Department said, "the over-the-month increase in unemployment was concentrated among black workers," whose jobless rate rose from 13.2 percent to 14.5 percent. The August level matched the post-war high for blacks recorded during the recession in September 1975.

UNEMPLOYMENT among blacks has been traditionally higher than for whites, whose jobless rate was unchanged last month at 6.1 percent.

Overall joblessness has hovered at about 7 percent of the work force since April, showing little month-to-month change after dropping steadily from its 1976 high of 8 percent last November.

Economists say economic growth has slowed following a sharp expansion earlier in the year, and this means fewer jobs are being created to meet the needs of the growing labor force.

"THE RATIO of black-to-white jobless rates continued its recent updrift to the unusually high level of 2.4 to 1 in August," the Labor Department said.

The rise in black unemployment comes at a time that civil rights and labor leaders have been increasingly criticizing the Carter administration programs for easing unemployment. Earlier this week, the government released figures showing joblessness among black youth, age 16 to 21, reached the highest summertime rate ever recorded — 34.8 percent.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said today in his annual Labor Day message that President Carter's job-creating programs were nothing more than "Band-aids" and that they would do little to solve the basic unemployment problem.

Commissioner of Labor Statistics Julius Shiskin told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that the August job figures were consistent with declines in the government's index of economic indicators and retail sales, and reflected the sluggishness in economic growth which became evident in July.

Douglas Henry, 22

FBI Nabs Escaped Convict

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An escaped Michigan convict was captured by the FBI, and the woman he had held hostage for a week was released unharmed, authorities said.

"Am I okay now?" Evelyn VanTassel, the kidnap victim, asked as she was led into the elevator of the motel where Henry was captured at about 8 p.m. Thursday.

"Yes, it's all over," said an FBI agent who accompanied her.

He was to be arraigned on federal kidnaping charges today before U.S. Magistrate R.E. Longstaff.

Mrs. VanTassel, 58, Marquette, Mich., "although shaken, was in good physical condition at the time she was rescued," the FBI said.

HENRY ESCAPED Aug. 22 from a prison farm near Marquette, Mich. He was serving a 6- to 15-year sentence for breaking and entering and carrying a concealed weapon. He was convicted in 1974.

Mrs. VanTassel was abducted at knife point from her family's cabin near Marquette a week ago when she and her husband arrived at the cabin and found Henry there, authorities said.

3 Men Arrested In Mass Murders

MIAMI (AP) — Three men were arrested during the night in the slaying of six people who were lined up and methodically shot to death more than a month ago, police said today.

The mass slaying occurred July 28 when one of the gunmen got into a Miami home by posing as a utility company employe. Six people were killed, but two others survived after apparently being left for dead by the gunmen, police said.

ONE OF THE survivors, Margaret Wooden, 25, was able to give detectives information from her hospital bed. She and the other survivor, Johnnie Hall, 45, were placed in protective custody during the long investigation.

Police quoted Miss Wooden as saying she had been alone in the home of Livingston Stocker when a man came to the door saying he was a repairman for Florida Power & Light Co.

She told police the man bound her and let an unknown number of other persons into the house. As Stocker and the others arrived for a rock band rehearsal, they were captured, bound and shot.

PAGE SAID the motive in the mass slaying appeared to be robbery but drugs also were believed to have been in Stocker's home.

Canceled Concert Angers Rock Fans

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — When rock star Joe Cocker didn't show, angry concertgoers tried to burn down the downtown bullring where the program was canceled.

They threw rocks, but there was only minor damage from that and the fires set the night of the great music debacle.

The concert was a charity to provide a school for mentally retarded Tijuana children, but the fault was not Cocker's. The British entertainer "was in Mexicali for the concert there when the Mexican managers discovered the sound system did not work so they held him over to do the concert the next night," said Mark Phillips, of Cocker's New York City agents.

"THE MEXICAN impresarios in Mexico City canceled Cocker's Tijuana concert only hours before it was supposed to go on," said Roberto Curiel, president of the Tijuana Rotary Club, a sponsor.

Meanwhile, more than 4,000 ticket buyers are still getting their money back and the Rotary Club treasury is depleted by expenses ordered by Cocker's advance party.

ALL THAT included $500 for three limousines and $300 for imported cheese along with 50 bottles of beer, 50 bottles of cola drinks, fruit and cookies. Rentals for the concert itself came to another $2,000.

In the refunds was $700 for tickets that turned out to be counterfeit.

And the $300 worth of imported cheese disappeared in the confusion of trying to calm the hostile crowd.

"The insults hurled at us were absolutely terrible," Curiel said today. "We do not want them to be true."

U.S. Summary

Showers and thunderstorms along a stationary front dumped more than five inches of rain over portions of central Nebraska Thursday night and early today. Several tornadoes were sighted and touched down near Grand Island, Neb., late Thursday night. No injuries were reported.

Showers and thunderstorms also are reported over portions of central Iowa and southeast Minnesota from east central Illinois through southern Quebec. There also are showers and thunderstorms along the east coast from North Carolina to Florida.

California

Despite these late night and early morning low clouds which visited much of Southern California this week, the Labor Day weekend is expected to bring a bounty of sunshine and fair weather.

Forecasters say an air flow moving southward will increase the high level moisture resulting in cool, damp mornings but will turn to variable high clouds and sunshine by afternoon.

Clouds will begin building up in the mountains, however, from the San Bernardino range southward in the afternoon. Mountain resorts, despite the buildup, will enjoy highs in the upper 70s to low 80s.

The upper deserts, including Mojave, will have highs in the low 90s to near 100 while the lower desert valleys, such as Coachella and Owens Valleys will sizzle with temperatures near 100 up to 110.

Temperatures will be slightly warmer in the coastal and inland valleys, including San Fernando and San Gabriel. Highs are expected to be in the high 80s to mid-90s through Saturday.

At the beaches, highs will be in the low to mid-70s with water staying around 70.

OC Panels Clash on Campaign Funds

Orange County's five supervisors aren't so certain the 1976-77 Grand Jury's enthusiasm for limiting the size of campaign contributions to elected county officials.

In its closing report, last year's Grand Jury suggested that elected officials be prohibited from voting on issues affecting major donors' financial well being.

That voting restriction should be applied to political donors who give $250 or more and should be in force for four years, the jury said.

In their written response to the '76-77 Grand Jury's recommendation, supervisors said the proposed campaign donor voting restriction "might have legal complications."

"Included (among the legal complications) could be a question of the Board of Supervisors' legal right to determine voting eligibility of an elected official," supervisors said.

"In addition, the (Grand Jury) recommendation addresses only the position of incumbents. So, it might well not accomplish, in its present form, the goals of the Grand Jury," supervisors added in their less than enthusiastic response to the jury's campaign contribution limitation proposal.

But their reply stopped short of outright rejection of the suggested.

It ended with a commitment to give the vote restriction recommendation "legal review and a study of just what it would accomplish."

Supervisors also said they "will take into consideration" a Grand Jury recommendation that the county's lobbyist ordinance be strengthened to a point that would all but do away with lobbyists.

It was the jury's suggestion that the ordinance be amended to prohibit lobbyists from:

— Making campaign contributions or acting as intermediaries for others who make contributions.

— Doing "anything" for the purpose of placing a county official under personal obligation to the lobbyist.

— Accepting payment for services contingent on the outcome of an issue attracting legislative or administrative attention.

— Causing a legislative issue to be considered with the idea in mind of seeking a fee "to secure its passage or defeat."

As things stand now, lobbyists must register with the county, periodically report who they represent and how much they are paid as well as what they spend to promote their clients' interests.

Accepting the Grand Jury's recommendations for strengthening the lobbyist ordinance, therefore, would represent an attempt to regulate lobbyists' activities in addition to already requiring their public disclosure.

And promising to "take into consideration" was as far as supervisors were willing to go in their response to the Grand Jury's recommendations to control lobbyists' activities.

The 1976-77 Grand Jury's attention to political campaign contributions and lobbyist activities was the most extensive of any recent county jury.

It paralled an eight-month investigation into county political campaign practices that ended with the indictment of Supervisors Ralph Diedrich and Philip Anthony on charges related to alleged violations of state campaign regulations.

Indicted along with the two county supervisors in an alleged campaign finance laundering scheme were Anaheim City Councilman William Kott and three Diedrich-Anthony political associates.

OC Clerk Takeover Mulled

Orange County supervisors are slated next week to decide whether to go to court to halt a move by the county's Superior Court judges to take over the court-related functions of County Clerk William St John.

Dennis Horn, an aide to supervisor chairman Thomas Riley said today the supervisors are discussing court action halting the move to give them time to answer "some complicated legal and constitutional questions."

Those questions were raised in an opinion supervisors sought at St John's request from County Counsel Adrian Kuyper.

Horn also noted that Riley, in a meeting Thursday with presiding Superior Court Judge Byron K. McMillan, discussed taking the matter to the Fourth District Court of Appeal and was reportedly told that the judges would not object to supervisors taking whatever action they felt appropriate.

Kuyper's opinion on the validity of the attempted takeover was requested last week by St John who called the judges' action unconstitutional.

That action was based on recent legislation that allows the Superior Court's executive officer to perform a county clerk's functions in matters affecting court operations.

According to some of those who attended the judges' closed meeting last week, the court clerk takeover was touched off by complaints about St John's management of the clerks.

Complaints about that administration centered around alleged failure to provide sufficient staffing as well as training of court clerks.

Simultaneously, the practice of court clerks "serving two masters," the judges and the county clerk, was challenged.

Generally, the move to assign the clerks to the courts was applauded by the clerks who privately echoed the judges' criticism of St John's management.

But St John, an elected official, insisted the judges' move was illegal and said he would go to a higher court to prove that point.

His first step in that direction was to ask Kuyper for a written opinion on the legality of the judges' takeover.

While county counsel admitted "the matter is not free from doubt," he went so far as to call the move "invalid."

In a memo Thursday to the five county supervisors, Kuyper compared the judges' attempted takeover with the Board of Supervisors ill-fated 1975 attempt to transfer 22 investigators from the District Attorney's Office to the Sheriff's Department.

In that case, two courts ruled the board could not order such a move under the guise of budget transfer.

"In this case," Kuyper said in his memo to the supervisors, "the court, in effect, is mandating a budget action, to wit: the transfer of positions from the budget unit of the Clerk of the Court (St John) to the budget unit of the courts."

Nixon Gives Views On Watergate Tape

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Nixon says in an interview that he believes Rosemary Woods' explanation for part of an 18½-minute gap in a crucial Watergate tape, according to British television personality David Frost.

"He obviously is not eager to get Rosemary Woods in trouble and so forth," Frost said Thursday.

The interview, the fifth in a series of televised discussions between Frost and the former President, will be broadcast in 60 cities starting Sunday and will be seen Monday in Los Angeles. (Channel 11, 7:30 p.m.)

Frost added that Nixon also explained why he never destroyed the incriminating tapes.

Miss Woods, Nixon's former personal secretary, has said she might have accidentally erased four or five minutes of taped conversation between Nixon and his White House chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, three days after the June 17, 1972, burglary at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate office complex.

She said the erasure may have happened when she answered a telephone while transcribing the tape.

But a panel of audio experts appointed by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica found there had been four to nine consecutive, manual erasures that could not have happened accidentally.

Asked whether Nixon confirmed Miss Woods' account, Frost said that to answer "yes" or "no" would be an oversimplification. It "would be a reasonable guess," he said, that Nixon "makes a spirited defense of Rosemary Woods."

Frost declined to detail Nixon's remarks, saying he had made "so many vague, implicit and explicit promises" to prevent a "leak" before reporters screen the program in Washington Saturday afternoon.

Frost said the 90-minute program opens with a discussion of why the former president hadn't burned the tapes. The tapes, released by a Supreme Court order in 1974, showed that Nixon lied in denying he tried to derail an FBI investigation. He resigned three days later, on Aug. 9.

Also in the upcoming interview, Frost said, the former president talks about the ill-fated nomination of G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

Frost said Nixon also discusses his philosophy of the news media's role in reporting national events, his impressions about Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai, his relationship with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and an "extraordinary story" about former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and his late wife, Martha.

Without elaborating, Frost said the program also contained "a couple of macabre anecdotes."

Briggs Starts Gay Teacher Ban Petition

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State Sen. John Briggs has started a petition campaign to get a measure banning homosexual teachers onto next June's ballot.

Briggs, a Fullerton Republican seeking a gubernatorial nomination, predicted Thursday it would easily pass — with a big vote in San Francisco, despite that city's homosexual community.

He said he expects to get double the 312,404 signatures he needs by the Nov. 15 deadline.

In an interview, Briggs said he expected to spend $200,000 collecting signatures "strictly with California help," and did not expect singer Anita Bryant to take part in this stage of the campaign: "We have her wishes and her prayers, and that's all we've asked for."

Earlier this year, Briggs visited Miss Bryant in Miami and endorsed her successful campaign to repeal a local ordinance banning discrimination homosexuals.

Supervisors Okay Airport Expansion

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A recommendation by the 1976-77 county Grand Jury that facilities at Orange County Airport (OAC) be expanded "to meet present traffic demand" has won Board of Supervisors endorsement.

The board's endorsement, which is not an endorsement of expanded air traffic at the airport, is included in supervisors' formal response to recommendations made by last year's Grand Jury.

In its year end report to the Board of Supervisors, the jury said both terminal and parking facilities at OAC should be expanded "to meet present traffic demand."

The Grand Jury also said additional tiedown spaces for private planes should be provided and that OAC's main runway should be extended 737 feet in a northerly direction.

"We agree with those recommendations," supervisors said in their written response to the jury.

However, supervisors added, no action on the recommended airport improvements can be taken until an environmental impact report is completed and accepted.

And acceptance of a controversial $300,000 airport study submitted by a private consultant early last spring won't come at the earliest until "sometime between Christmas and Easter."

It is in that 1977-78 holiday time frame that a revised edition of the costly airport report is expected to go before the county Planning Commission.

The original version of the report was sent back to the consultant for an overhaul when airport critics charged it was inadequate.

The alleged report shortcomings notwithstanding, supervisors said in their response to the Grand Jury they "concur that these recommendations are appropriate for the future development of Orange County Airport."

However, the Board of Supervisors did not concur with all the recommendations made by last year's Grand Jury in its final report.

The board, for example, rejected a jury suggestion that one attorney in the County Counsel's office be assigned the responsibility for researching and responding to Grand Jury inquiries.

"To assign one county counsel (attorney) to deal with the Grand Jury is not an effective way to expedite responses," the board said.

"The inquiries of the Grand Jury cover the entire scope of local government law and do lend themselves to specialization by one attorney," the board's response added.

Supervisors also rejected a jury recommendation that a signed certificate "attesting to the compliance or non-compliance of (zoning) applications with the (county's) general plan" accompany all applications that go before the Planning Commission.

"The proposal that a 'signed certificate' accompany the report implies false reports have been made. This implication is rejected," supervisors said as they rejected the certification recommendation.

Supervisors also rejected several Grand Jury recommendations related to a controversial county contract covering physical examinations for prospective county employes.

Two Car Dealers Face Fraud Charges

Two Midway City car dealers stand accused today of filing fraudulent smog certificates with the state's Department of Motor Vehicles.

Named as defendants in the Orange County Superior Court civil lawsuit filed Thursday by the district attorney's consumer fraud division are John T. Ward and Darrell E. Hanson, owners of Ward Hanson Motors, 8041 Bolsa Ave.

Deputy District Attorney Jack Ryan explained that the Ward Hanson firm was one of about 20 Orange County dealerships which allegedly employed an unlicensed inspector to check the vehicles he improperly certified.

Chambers will be sentenced Sept. 23. He faces a possible county jail term and a $1,000 fine.

The lawsuit against Ward Hanson seeks an injunction which would compel the firm to recall every illegally certified vehicle and have them certified by an approved inspector.

The action additionally seeks a penalty of $2,500 for every proved violation of the state law governing smog devices.

Deputy District Attorney Jack Ryan explained that the Ward Hanson firm was one of about 20 Orange County dealerships which allegedly employed an unlicensed inspector to check the vehicles he improperly certified.

Chambers will be sentenced Sept. 23. He faces a possible county jail term and a $1,000 fine.

The lawsuit against Ward Hanson seeks an injunction which would compel the firm to recall every illegally certified vehicle and have them certified by an approved inspector.

The action additionally seeks a penalty of $2,500 for every proved violation of the state law governing smog devices.

GRAND FINALE: So now, ladies and gentlemen, we are staring into the final fadeout of Summer '77, the wonderous three days of the Labor Day weekend. Already the predictions on scope of the celebration are awesome.

California Highway Patrol spokesmen, for example, have suggested that everybody will be on the road. Those in the north state will be headed south and the people of our region are going north.

This will just about fill all available freeway lanes in both directions.

The CHP figures to add to that congestion. The patrol will have 100 officers out there among 'em along Orange County freeways alone.

VISITORS FROM the hot inland reaches are expected to jam our beachfronts for the last fling of summer. And herein, you have some people offering up some opposite prayers.

Consider the men and women of our various beach lifeguard services. They know they can't pray away the throngs. So at least they are offering prayerful hopes for nice, little docile surf lapping at the shoreline; free of riptides or jellyfish.

This will uncomplicate their tasks for the next three days. Big surf and riptides often hit our coastline right along with the final Labor Day crowds of the season.

Inlanders and heavy seas can be a melancholy combination for lifeguards. The overweight executive drops down for his last summer fling and it could become his last fling — period — if he gets buried beneath a breaker and goes down for the last time.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the prayer front, you have our local Orange Coast surfers. For most of them, school looms on the immediate horizon. They'd like to get just one more shot at some big surf before doors close them into the educational slammer for the next nine months.

BUT THE PACIFIC has so lived up to its name over the past three months that some surfers swear they've forgotten what a big wave even looks like.

Consider Laguna Beach, for example, where this is the time of year they hold a surfing contest that has become an Art Colony tradition. This will be the 23rd annual Brooks Street Surfing Classic. It will be, that is, if it ever comes off.

Traditionally, the Brooks Streets affair is scheduled in early August but not on a specific day. It waits until the surf off Brooks Street Beach rises to acceptable competitive levels. Then the contestants gather and away they go.

This year, the classic was scheduled for about Aug. 6. If you check your calendar, you will note that was almost one month ago. It hasn't happened yet. The surf has stubbornly refused to cooperate.

Sponsors of the event even hoked up a ceremony whereby they "sacrificed" some virgins to the ocean in an effort to induce heavy breakers.

So now we are into the Labor Day weekend where surfers are praying for some action and the lifeguards are hoping for easy seas.

Somebody will get his wish.

Future War

Army Studies Women's Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is conducting a major new study which could result in women serving under fire in a future war, officials say.

The study, the most detailed of its kind ever conducted by the Army, is aimed at establishing how women can fit best into the service structure and how many can be used effectively.

Army officials said Thursday there is no intention to change longstanding policy barring women from a direct combat role — as an infantry soldier, machine-gunner, or member of a tank crew. But they said they are looking at how women might serve in what they call a "combat environment."

AS THE OFFICIALS explained the concept, women eventually might be assigned to signal, military police, transportation, maintenance or medical units with a role in the battle zones.

Traditionally, women soldiers have been kept far to the rear in higher headquarters or hospitals, although women nurses sometimes have been exposed to shellfire in past wars.

Meanwhile, leaders of women's organizations appealed to Congress on Thursday for more jobs for women in the armed forces.

TESTIFYING before a Joint Economic Committee panel, they said expanding participation of women in the armed forces would result in greater military effectiveness.

One witness, retired Col. Mary A. Halaren, a former director of the Women's Army Corps, testified that WACs served in London during World War II Bombing raids. "No one ever asked for a transfer to a safe billet," she said.

"There are women, as well as men, who crack under stress, who cannot take pressure, but working with men and women over the last 50 years, both in and out of the Army, has convinced me that it is the individual and not the gender that determines a person's strength under pressure," she said.

The Army study is being carried out in several sections, with most of the results due for consideration next spring by Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Gen. Bernard Rogers, Army chief of staff.

One of the most important tests involves about 200 women who will go into the field with units in Western Europe this month.

Mexico's President Jose Lopez Portillo said Thursday that Mexico has begun an economic recovery but must slow its population growth to pull out of the recession. In his first state of the union address, he added there were hopeful signs of an early recovery.

3 Men Arrested In Mass Murders

MIAMI (AP) — Three men were arrested during the night in the slaying of six people who were lined up and methodically shot to death more than a month ago, police said today.

The mass slaying occurred July 28 when one of the gunmen got into a Miami home by posing as a utility company employe. Six people were killed, but two others survived after apparently being left for dead by the gunmen, police said.

ONE OF THE survivors, Margaret Wooden, 25, was able to give detectives information from her hospital bed. She and the other survivor, Johnnie Hall, 45, were placed in protective custody during the long investigation.

Police quoted Miss Wooden as saying she had been alone in the home of Livingston Stocker when a man came to the door saying he was a repairman for Florida Power & Light Co.

She told police the man bound her and let an unknown number of other persons into the house. As Stocker and the others arrived for a rock band rehearsal, they were captured, bound and shot.

PAGE SAID the motive in the mass slaying appeared to be robbery but drugs also were believed to have been in Stocker's home.

Canceled Concert Angers Rock Fans

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — When rock star Joe Cocker didn't show, angry concertgoers tried to burn down the downtown bullring where the program was canceled.

They threw rocks, but there was only minor damage from that and the fires set the night of the great music debacle.

The concert was a charity to provide a school for mentally retarded Tijuana children, but the fault was not Cocker's. The British entertainer "was in Mexicali for the concert there when the Mexican managers discovered the sound system did not work so they held him over to do the concert the next night," said Mark Phillips, of Cocker's New York City agents.

"THE MEXICAN impresarios in Mexico City canceled Cocker's Tijuana concert only hours before it was supposed to go on," said Roberto Curiel, president of the Tijuana Rotary Club, a sponsor.

Meanwhile, more than 4,000 ticket buyers are still getting their money back and the Rotary Club treasury is depleted by expenses ordered by Cocker's advance party.

ALL THAT included $500 for three limousines and $300 for imported cheese along with 50 bottles of beer, 50 bottles of cola drinks, fruit and cookies. Rentals for the concert itself came to another $2,000.

In the refunds was $700 for tickets that turned out to be counterfeit.

And the $300 worth of imported cheese disappeared in the confusion of trying to calm the hostile crowd.

"The insults hurled at us were absolutely terrible," Curiel said today. "We do not want them to be true."

Nation's Jobless Rate Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate rose from 6.9 percent to 7.1 percent in August as climbing unemployment among blacks matched a post-World War II high, the government reported today.

In August, the Labor Department said, "the over-the-month increase in unemployment was concentrated among black workers," whose jobless rate rose from 13.2 percent to 14.5 percent. The August level matched the post-war high for blacks recorded during the recession in September 1975.

UNEMPLOYMENT among blacks has been traditionally higher than for whites, whose jobless rate was unchanged last month at 6.1 percent.

Overall joblessness has hovered at about 7 percent of the work force since April, showing little month-to-month change after dropping steadily from its 1976 high of 8 percent last November.

Economists say economic growth has slowed following a sharp expansion earlier in the year, and this means fewer jobs are being created to meet the needs of the growing labor force.

"THE RATIO of black-to-white jobless rates continued its recent updrift to the unusually high level of 2.4 to 1 in August," the Labor Department said.

The rise in black unemployment comes at a time that civil rights and labor leaders have been increasingly criticizing the Carter administration programs for easing unemployment. Earlier this week, the government released figures showing joblessness among black youth, age 16 to 21, reached the highest summertime rate ever recorded — 34.8 percent.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said today in his annual Labor Day message that President Carter's job-creating programs were nothing more than "Band-aids" and that they would do little to solve the basic unemployment problem.

Commissioner of Labor Statistics Julius Shiskin told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that the August job figures were consistent with declines in the government's index of economic indicators and retail sales, and reflected the sluggishness in economic growth which became evident in July.

CAPTURED BY FBI
Douglas Henry, 22

FBI Nabs Escaped Convict

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An escaped Michigan convict was captured by the FBI, and the woman he had held hostage for a week was released unharmed, authorities said.

"Am I okay now?" Evelyn VanTassel, the kidnap victim, asked as she was led into the elevator of the motel where Henry was captured at about 8 p.m. Thursday.

"Yes, it's all over," said an FBI agent who accompanied her.

He was to be arraigned on federal kidnaping charges today before U.S. Magistrate R.E. Longstaff.

Mrs. VanTassel, 58, Marquette, Mich., "although shaken, was in good physical condition at the time she was rescued," the FBI said.

HENRY ESCAPED Aug. 22 from a prison farm near Marquette, Mich. He was serving a 6- to 15-year sentence for breaking and entering and carrying a concealed weapon. He was convicted in 1974.

Mrs. VanTassel was abducted at knife point from her family's cabin near Marquette a week ago when she and her husband arrived at the cabin and found Henry there, authorities said.

U.S. Summary

Showers and thunderstorms along a stationary front dumped more than five inches of rain over portions of central Nebraska Thursday night and early today. Several tornadoes were sighted and touched down near Grand Island, Neb., late Thursday night. No injuries were reported.

Showers and thunderstorms also are reported over portions of central Iowa and southeast Minnesota from east central Illinois through southern Quebec. There also are showers and thunderstorms along the east coast from North Carolina to Florida.

California

Despite those late night and early morning low clouds which visited much of Southern California this week, the Labor Day weekend is expected to bring a bounty of sunshine and fair weather.

Forecasters say an air flow moving southward will increase the high level moisture resulting in cool, damp mornings but will turn to variable high clouds and sunshine by afternoon.

Clouds will begin building up in the mountains, however, from the San Bernardino range southward in the afternoon. Mountain resorts, despite the buildup, will enjoy highs in the upper 70s to low 80s.

The upper deserts, including Mojave, will have highs in the low 90s to near 100 while the lower desert valleys, such as Coachella and Owens Valleys will sizzle with temperatures near 100 up to 110.

Temperatures will be slightly warmer in the coastal and inland valleys, including San Fernando and San Gabriel. Highs are expected to be in the high 80s to mid-90s through Saturday.

At the beaches, highs will be in the low to mid-70s with water staying around 70.

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It was to be the year of fulfilled expectations, for true recognition as an established National Football League placekicker.

But on the kickoff following a 35-yard field goal in his first exhibition start of the 1977 campaign, 170-pound Benny Ricardo of the Detroit Lions went down between a pair of 250-pound blockers as Kansas City's Larry Brunson made his bid to return the kickoff the distance.

"I knew I was hurt immediately," says Ricardo, who bumped Errol Mann off the Detroit roster last year. Mann was picked up by the world champion Oakland Raiders.

It was the first time that Ricardo, a former Costa Mesa High, Orange Coast College and San Diego State standout, had ever been injured.

The damage was a third degree shoulder separation and subsequent surgery amounted to inserting a screw into the shoulder and moving some muscles to rebuild the ligaments.

The result: Ricardo is out for the season, on the injured reserve list with full pay.

"First I was cut in the pros, then traded. Then I had a team fold from under me (California Sun) and now this. It's frustrating because I had worked the whole year to get ready and I was fired up. I just sat and cried."

Ricardo will be traveling with the Lions for the duration of the season, but it's unlikely he'll be back in action this campaign.

"I'll be working with weights to rebuild the shoulder and maybe I'll be doing some team statistics on the sidelines," adds Ricardo.

The problem with the shoulder separation in relation

"Detroit has been treating me super," says Ricardo. "They want me with them so I feel I'm still a part of the team. They told me I'm the best young kicker in football. There was some discussion early of wearing a harness, but they discarded the idea and told me there is no way they'll let me near the football field until I'm 100 percent."

Through a Lions spokesman, Lions coach Tommy Hudspeth says: "Had we chosen not to go to surgery it would have jeopardized Benny's career. We might have had him back in two-to-three weeks without surgery, but this way he has an entire year to rehabilitate and work with the kicking team.

"There's no question the job was his."

The beleaguered Lions have been through nine candidates trying to fill the gap Ricardo leaves and none have cut it. Michigan's Bob Woods was released Wednesday, the Lions brought in Fred Steinfort briefly, now Steve Mike-Mayer, of the 49ers is with the team.

With the talent that comes out of the collegiate roles each year, why is it so hard to find a qualified placekicker with the pros?

"For one thing," says Ricardo, "it's a different matter when you're kicking without a tee. And there is the mental aspect. Everything in this game is geared to the psych game."

The mental thing was getting to be a problem for Ricardo, too, as he sat in the press box watching his Lions teammates.

"I was going crazy back there," says Ricardo. "But I'll be working on the weights to rebuild the shoulder and just play things by ear. And I'll be running up and down stadium stairs and doing ballet exercises to keep strong."

Meanwhile, Ricardo is forced to view the action from the sidelines—probably the farthest thing from his mind prior to the season.

With Ricardo's ability as a field goal and extra point kicker, why was he tangled in a mess trying to stop the runner?

"I was the last player with a shot at the runner," explains Ricardo. "I tried to break up the wedge by hurling myself into the blockers and we went down.

"Our coach, Tommy Hudspeth, asked me later why did I do that. And I explained that if I didn't he would have been mad at him for not tackling him.

"He said, 'Yeah, I know. But you would be still playing right now, too.'"

Will Ricardo be running around trying to tackle the runner on future kickoffs? "No," says Hudspeth. "I think we'll have to protect him. He's too small for that and we're very fond of Benny. We're planning on Benny to be our No. 1 kicker next year."

Chargers' Joiner Calls Harris a Born Leader

LOS ANGELES—If the mood in the locker room Thursday night is any indication, ex-Rams quarterback James Harris has found a happy home in San Diego.

Harris, his teammates and his coaches were all jubilant after the Chargers stunned the Rams 26-25 on a 22-yard field goal by Tony Fritsch in the final seconds of a pre-season exhibition at the Coliseum.

"I thought Harris played superbly," said Chargers coach Tommy Prothro. "We had a better passing attack than we've had all year."

Wide receiver Charlie Joiner, who caught two passes for 29 yards, says, "That man's a born leader. Everybody respects Harris so much. That head of his is always going, only he never gets excited."

The cool quarterback was as close to being excited as he ever gets Thursday night after beating his former Rams teammates.

Flashing a broad grin, Harris said, "This was a sweet victory. I really wanted this one badly."

Asked if the Rams tried to throw any unusual defenses at him, Harris said, "The only surprise I got all evening was when they introduced me before the game and I got all those cheers."

A controversial figure, Harris had heard more than his share of boos while playing in a Rams uniform, but Thursday night he was greeted with a resounding ovation.

"After I heard that I was really fired up," Harris said. "I wasn't really expecting that kind of reception, and it's great to know the fans feel that way about me."

Harris had an outstanding night, completing 16 of 30 passes for 234 yards. He threw three touchdown aerials and outshined every other quarterback who took the field, including Joe Namath and the man who replaced Harris in the Rams' starting lineup last season, Pat Haden.

Los Angeles coach Chuck Knox inserted Namath into the QB slot for the second half, and under Namath's direction the Rams drove for a third-quarter touchdown to take a 22-17 lead.

A 34-yard touchdown pass from Harris to Johnny Rodgers put San Diego back in front, 23-22 in the fourth period, and Tom Dempsey's 35-yard field goal gave the advantage back to the Rams, 25-23.

Fritsch's game-winning field goal was the culmination of a drive that started with Rodgers returning a Rams punt 31 yards.

Harris played the entire game and appears to have blended well with San Diego's system, although he doesn't say it's been easy.

"It's different. Sometimes when I get up to the line of scrimmage I have to stop and think where I am. I need a lot of help."

Harris says he got plenty of help against the Rams.

"I was telling the guys all week long that the Rams were going to be tough. They're a great team and we knew it," Harris says.

"We were prepared for this and I had a lot of support from everybody," he says. "Johnny Rodgers, in particular, made some big plays for us."

Rodgers caught five passes for 80 yards.

Joiner, a former teammate of Harris' at Grambling, says Harris is the one who makes San Diego click. The Chargers are now 3-2 in exhibition games, and Harris has played in only the games San Diego has won.

"He's one hell of a guy," Joiner says. "I never met a man who wanted so much to excell at everything he does."

At U.S. Open

Top Seeds Breeze; Richards Ousted

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — The tall, lean figure glided unsmiling through the gaggle of the curious. Renee Richards seemed grim as she approached her debut among the top women players.

Sixty-one minutes later, she emerged a loser but smiling, her close-cropped hair dripping under an eyelet hat. Wimbledon champion Virginia Wade beat her in the first round Thursday of the U.S. Open Tennis championships 6-1, 6-4. But the pressure was off, if only a little.

"Now I'd like to get rid of this whole zoo-thing," Richards said.

"For Virginia, it was just another tennis match," Dr. Richards said. "For me, of course, it was a very big match."

Borg, the top-seeded Swede who strained his shoulder in a practice session Tuesday, eased past Trey Waltke, 6-2, 6-1 Thursday. Connors, the second seed and defending champion overpowered Jasjit Singh, 6-2, 6-0 although a chronic back ailment hampered his play.

Some have doubted the seriousness of those injuries. Guillermo Vilas, the No. 4 seed and one of the Open favorites, observed, "They can't be hurt too badly or they would have withdrawn."

Dr. Richards, the 43-year-old Newport Beach ophthamologist who was Richard Raskind until a sex-change operation a year ago, had not been welcomed here with open arms. It took an order from a state Supreme Court judge to get her into the Open, from which she's been barred last year when she refused to submit to a sex chromosome test to prove her femininity.

"She's very consistent and hits very deep," Wade said. "She has a nice touch on the racquet. I think she has a nicer reach on the net than many players."

But about the wisdom of admitting Dr. Richards to the ranks of the women pros, a move opposed by many women players and by the Women's Tennis Association before the court ruling, Wade still was negative.

"If it had been my decision to make, things would be different. But it was not my decision," she said, pausing, "and it's all right with me."

Russell Quietly Getting the Job Done

While his teammates have been busy hitting home runs, Los Angeles shortstop Bill Russell has made contributions in other ways for the high-flying Dodgers.

Five members of the National League West leaders have 20 or more home runs, making it difficult for Russell to be in the spotlight. But teammates of the 28-year-old native of Kansas say they know his value to the team.

"He's one of the most valuable players on our ball club," said Reggie Smith, who has 25 home runs and 74 runs batted in. "He's played a key role in our offense and he's done a great job on defense."

"Bill's done a great job for us this year in every department," said Steve Garvey, who has 28 homers and 95 rbi. "His arm and range have been invaluable and he's contributed better than ever on offense."

"Bill's done a great job for us this year in every department," said Steve Garvey, who has 28 homers and 95 rbi. "His arm and range have been invaluable and he's contributed better than ever on offense."

"He's made the adjustment from batting eighth to batting second very well and has had his best season offensively," said Ron Cey, who has 24 home runs and has driven in 98. "A shortstop has got to be a valuable player if you're going to be a contender and Bill has had a lot to do with where we are."

With 29 games to play, the Dodgers' shortstop is hitting .278 with four homers and 43 rbi. He has 149 hits, only one behind Garvey, the team leader in that department.

"This has probably been my best year," said Russell. "I think batting second has a lot to do with it. I have more chances to do things offensively than I had when I was batting eighth.

Russell became Los Angeles' starting shortstop in 1972, succeeding Maury Wills. A converted outfielder, his memories of becoming a regular aren't particularly happy ones.

"The fans had Pee Wee Reese, Wills and then me," recalled Russell. "And I couldn't catch a ground ball in those days. But I stuck it out. The fans' boos made me play that much harder."

"Basically, the kind of a year I'm having has a lot to do with the confidence I have now," continued Russell. "I'm still learning something every day, but I have a lot more confidence now than I've ever had."
