Job Seekers

This was the scene outside Newport Beach's City Hall this morning as applicants lined up to put their names in for a single opening in the city's fire department. The line stretched along Newport Boulevard in front of city hall and halfway around the block into the adjacent municpal parking lot. The job opening is for a beginning fireman.

County Birth Site In Controversy

Linda Okenewski, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., underwent a successful Caesarean section operation at 5:12 p.m., hospital officials said.

Doctors said the woman and child received no blood transfusion in the operation in which they cut into the mother's abdominal and uterine walls.

Dr. Anthony LeDonne, Mrs. Okonewski's physician, said there were no complications and mother and child are doing fine.

The parents have not selected a name for the infant.

Last week Mrs. Okonewski told officials at Broward General Medical Center in Florida she would refuse transfusions for herself or her child because of her religion.

Hospital officials said the transfusions would be necessary because of the mother's rare blood type.

Two Florida assistant public defenders appointed as guardians for the unborn child have sought to have the fetus made a ward of the court but were unsuccessful.

The Okonewski's then fled to Fountain Valley to avoid a court order which forced all Florida hospitals to give blood transfusions to the mother and child when the baby was delivered.

Korean Bribery

Hanna Named Co-conspirator

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park has been accused of 36 federal corruption charges in an indictment that lists former Rep. Richard T. Hanna of Orange County as an unindicted co-conspirator and names several other present and former members of Congress as recipients of alleged bribes from Park, the Justice Department said today.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said he will ask President Carter to contact South Korean President Park Chung-hee "in order to have Tongsun Park, who's now a fugitive, returned to the United States."

Bell said he will leave it up to the South Korean government to determine how Tongsun Park should be taken into custody if President Park agrees to the request.

Tongsun Park, a Washington party giver who has been the focus of the government probe of influence buying on Capitol Hill, has been in Seoul for about a week.

At a news conference, Bell declined to say whether Hanna, a California Democrat, and other members of Congress would be indicted.

Hanna, who represented the Anaheim area in the House of Representatives from 1962 to 1974, lived in Newport Beach following retirement.

However, he left Orange County in late July and a former associate said three weeks ago Hanna moved to Arkansas.

Following retirement, the Democrat set up business offices in Newport Beach and Irvine, serving in a variety of quasi-official capacities, including the county-funded Economic Development Corporation and the fledgling International Trade League.

County records show that Hanna resigned from the corporation formed to attract industry to Orange County on July 8 as the Park investigation was probing

Motive Sought In Mutilation Of Mesa Teen

Costa Mesa police continued a search today for a firm motive in the Sunday slaying of a 16-year-old boy, whose slashed and gunshot-riddled body was discovered in an abandoned house at 1818 Pomona Ave.

Acting on an anonymous phone tip shortly before dawn Sunday, police went to the home and found the body of Raymond Jerome Gaspard.

Police said the young transient had been shot at least twice with a .22 caliber revolver, stabbed several times and his throat had been slashed.

Within four hours, police arrested another occupant of the house, Donald James Hartman, 19, who is now being held on a charge of suspicion of murder.

Hartman, unemployed with no local address, is being held on a $250,000 bond.

Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton said the District Attorney's Office will seek a murder charge against Hartman.

Hartman was arrested after he returned to the scene Sunday and

MONTREAL (AP) — A stolen car fleeing police crashed into another car Monday night and killed the four occupants of the second car, a police spokesman said. Two policemen were hurt in the chase when their car hit a tree. The driver of the stolen car which contained stolen license plates, arms and ammunition, was arrested.

Jurors Back On Allaway Sanity Issue

Deliberations resumed today in Orange County Superior Court where a jury is trying to reach a verdict in the sanity phase of convicted killer Edward Carles Allaway's trial.

Divided at 8-4 when they took the weekend break jurors returned to Judge Robert P. Kneeland's courtroom today for what will be their fourth day of discussions.

The jury earlier found Allaway, 38, guilty of seven counts of murder and two of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the shooting of nine Cal State Fullerton employes on July 12, 1976.

The jury must now determine if Allaway falls within the standards of the M'Naughgen rule, the definition of legal sanity or insanity that is applied in California Courts.

Origin Of Blast Unknown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 39-foot sloop exploded and sank at the San Francisco Yacht Club, but police said they were unable to determine the cause of the blast. There were no injuries.

Police Lt. Richard Shippy said although the origin of the explosion at 8:40 p.m. Monday was unknown, San Francisco police intelligence had been alerted through sources last week that the New World Liberation Front might bomb yachts in the harbor.

He said no special patrols had been planned in light of the information, but added that the marina was part of normal checks by cruising squad cars.

Within the past two weeks, the NWLF has struck on four occasions, including bombings at a Pacific Gas & Electric substation in Sausalito and the plush Olympic Club in San Francisco. An undetonated device outside the private Pacific Union Club here was found by police and disarmed.

"We don't know if this explosion is related," Shippy said.

Hanafi Chief Gets 120-year Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was sentenced today to spend 41 to 120 years in prison for his role as leader of a 38-hour bloody siege that gripped this city last March.

Before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "I know that whatever happens here will be the will of Allah."

Khaalis would be 97 years old before he is eligible for parole.

A second defendant, convicted of stabbing two men at B'nai B'rith headquarters, received a slightly harsher sentence. Abdul Adam, 31, was sentenced to a total of 44 to 132 years in prison.

Khaalis and Adam were the first sentenced of the 12 Hanafis convicted July 23 of seizing three buildings here — the B'nai B'rith building, the Islamic Center and Washington's city hall — and with taking 149 hostages in an incident that began March 9.

Prosecutors asked D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio Jr. to hand down stiff sentences to show "that those who use terror to victimize persons do so at the risk of forfeiting their right ever again to be free in society."

Nunzio sentenced Khaalis to five to 15 years in jail on 24 separate counts of armed kidnaping.

However, most will run concurrently. Only those counts dealing with hostages taken at B'nai B'rith Headquarters, where Khaalis and six other men held more than 100 hostages, will run consecutively. Nunzio also added an additional one to three years for conspiracy.

Khaalis also received a term of 20 years to life for the second-degree murder of a young radio reporter killed at Washington's city hall and five to 15 years in prison in connection with the shooting of two othe men there and for the stabbing and shooting of a man at B'nai B'rith.

However, the judge set all of these to run concurrently with the others.

In remarks before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "This country is in grave problems . . . and I'm ready to offer my assistance."

He repeated earlier statements that he had been fighting against mockery of the prophet Mohammed.

Looking at the judge, Khaalis said, "Hamaas made a stand. I'm going to keep that stand . . . I'm not going to apologize for fighting for his religion . . . Once you do that everything is lost."

SENATORS TELL CARTER LANCE SHOULD RESIGN

Lance Bank 'Run Like a Playpen'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman said today budget director Bert Lance operated one of his Georgia banks like a family "playpen."

"Banks are not the personal toys of bankers — at least they are not supposed to be," Chairman Fernand St Germain said.

"While I do not want to prejudge, the evidence I have seen to date leads me to believe that Bert Lance, his family and friends regarded the Calhoun First National Bank as their playpen — to be used as they pleased."

A statement by St Germain, a Rhode Island Democrat, came as President Carter resisted efforts by two key senators to get Lance to resign.

Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and Charles H. Percey (R-Ill.), told Carter Monday that they think Lance should step down while Congress investigates what they called serious new allegations of illegality. Ribicoff and Percy are ranking members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which confirmed Lance and which is investigating his affairs further this week.

Carter was noncommittal today when asked if he thought Lance should resign.

"We'll see about that later," was Carter's only response to the question.

Asked if this meant he was not ruling out a resignation, Carter ignored the inquiry and returned to his Oval Office after saying goodbye to Panama's head of government, Omar Torrijos. Torrijos was at the White House in preparation for the historic signing Wednesday of a new Panama Canal agreement.

The President reportedly still feels Lance has done nothing wrong and will be vindicated by the committee's investigation.

In an interview with CBS News today, Lance said he doesn't believe the Carter administration is losing confidence in him.

"I haven't seen any evidence of that at all," he said.

Asked if he thinks he will be exonerated of the allegations made against him, he said, "certainly . . . absolutely . . ."

He also said he did not believe his problems are hurting the administration.

The House hearing today focused on the comptroller of the currency's investigation which cleared Lance before he was confirmed by the Senate as budget director.

Senators have said they did not know that Lance had made substantial overdrafts at the Calhoun bank and that the comptroller's office had reached an agreement with the bank to make him stop the practice.

Robert A. Bloom, who was acting comptroller at the time, said he did not tell Ribicoff's committee about the agreement because he thought it already knew about it.

Bloom had written a letter to the committee saying, Lance "enjoys a good reputation in the banking committee," but Bloom said he did not think the Senate panel was asking for a detailed account because it had given him only a day to write it.

"I tried to balance the negative comments with references to Mr. Lance's considerable postiive accomplishments as a banker."

Bloom said he had suggested to Lance that he tell Carter about the agreement "and subsequent events confirm that Mr. Lance followed my advice."

3 Little Pigs Didn't Make It to Market

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Andrew Tabb of Wylam, Ala. saw a car with a flat tire along an interstate highway. He pulled over to offer aid and noticed three young pigs in the car's open trunk.

The two men in the auto offered him one of the pigs if he would take the flat tire and have it fixed.

Tabb took the tire, but called his brother, who owns some pigs in nearby Dolomite. The pigs in the trunk had looked familiar.

Sure enough, his brother, Adam Hendrix, said three of his little pigs were missing. The two men returned to the highway, but the car was gone.

A police officer had taken the two men into custody for public drunkenness and had the car towed to the city pound.

Tabb and Hendrix went to the lot, but there was no trunk key. Police gave permission for the lock to be drilled out.

The pigs, cooped up in the hot trunk, were revived by dousing them with water.

Police said the break-in was not discovered until 6 a.m. when William Neth, a newspaper deliveryman spotted the broken front window.

Beach Crowd Thin In Newport Area

Newport Beach city officials are trying to figure out where everybody went over the Labor Day weekend.

The usual mobs that have crowded into their city in past years just didn't show up this year, although lifeguards said the beach wasn't exactly deserted.

Lifeguards said there were 75,000 beach visitors on Saturday, 80,000 on Sunday and 120,000 Monday. "It was crowded," remarked a lifeguard spokesman, "but it wasn't as bad as Labor Days have been in recent years."

Police said there were no major traffic tieups and the traffic and parking problems were no more severe than a normal summer weekend.

Lifeguards said there were only 67 rescues made during the three-day weekend. The low number was attributed to the small surf.

Air temperature on the beaches ranged from 66 degrees in the early morning to a mid-afternoon high of 71 on Monday. Water temperature cooled slightly from last week's 70 degrees down to 67 degrees.

"The investigation is continuing," Bell said. "We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring."

The indictment Park was returned by a federal grand jury Aug. 26 and kept sealed until today when the department asked that it be unsealed. Although the indictment was reported last week, no details of the charges had been available.

Park was charged with conspiracy, bribery, mail fraud, racketeering activities, failure to register as a foreign agent, and making political contributions which are prohibited for foreign agents.

According to the indictment, Park, Hanna, and two former directors of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency conspired from about 1967 until Dec. 31, 1975, to bribe members of the House and Senate for their actions to promote South Korea's interests.

The two former KCIA directors — Kim Hyung Wook, who held the position between 1963 and 1969, and Lee Hu Rak, who held the job from 1970 through 1973 — were also named unindicted coconspirators.

Hanna played a key role in advising Park on which members of Congress should be bribed and how thousands of dollars should be parceled out to them, the indictment said.

Bell said Hanna is not cooperating with the investigation.

The 30-page indictment was filled with more than a dozen names of present and former members of Congress who received money, sometimes in the form of campaign contributions from Park.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti said some of those named are targets of the probe and some aren't.

POTENTIAL FIREMEN WAIT TO FILE APPLICATIONS
In Newport Beach, One Job Opening Draws 115 Men

A Long Line

115 Apply for Single Job

Newport Beach City Manager Robert Wynn said he thought city hall was being picketed today when he arrived for work and saw a line of men around the front of the building.

But the men were there to apply for the single job opening in the Newport Beach Fire Department.

According to a spokesman in the city's personnel office, the lineup of applicants for the firefighter's job began forming Monday night.

By the time city officials started accepting the applications at 9 a.m., there were 115 men in the line. It ran from city hall to Newport Boulevard and into the city parking lot.

The personnel department spokesman said a maximum of 300 applications will be accepted for the post.

Some of those who applied are firemen with other agencies, but city officials said the majority are men who want to become firemen and apparently feel the $1,038-a-month job would be a good way to start.

Thrill Killing?

Horses and Cows Slain

Two thoroughbred horses and two cows were shot to death Monday in an apparent thrill-killing spree just off Santiago Canyon Road in the Cook's Corner area, Orange County sheriff's deputies said today.

A THIRD horse was shot through the neck but survived.

A witness, who had been motorcycling in the area, described the suspects as two white men, about 20 to 25 years old and driving a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

The slain horses were owned by Frank Waer of Orange and the cows were the property of a William Flowers. Flowers also owned the wounded horse.

ALL THE ANIMALS were shot with a small-caliber rifle at about 2 p.m., according to sheriff's deputies.

The witness provided investigators with a description of the vehicle and a license number, which is being checked out today.

Lance Bank Said 'Run Like Playpen'

'Threats, Abuse'

Wallace's Wife Leaves Mansion

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace's wife, Cornelia, moved out of the executive mansion today, saying she can "no longer endure the vulgarity, threats and abuse."

"I have struggled a long time to preserve my marriage," Mrs. Wallace said in a statement.

She said she has instructed her lawyers to "do what is necessary to protect me," but that she has "nothing further to say at this time."

There was no immediate comment from the governor.

The Wallaces reportedly have been having domestic trouble for some time, and a divorce petition was drawn in the governor's name several weeks ago but was not filed in court.

A moving van was seen at the mansion today, apparently to take Mrs. Wallace's belongings to a new home. Mrs. Wallace declined to say where she will live except that it will be in Montgomery.

The unfiled divorce petition, which blamed the marital troubles on "a complete incompatibility of temperament" and an "irretrievable breakdown of the marriage," came to light early in August when copies of the petition were mysteriously made available to the news media.

Neither Wallace nor his wife, was available for comment at that time, but Elvin Stanton, the governor's assistant news secretary, said "there's nothing to that."

Later, at a news conference, Wallace said it was a "purely domestic" affair."

Carter Talks Treaty

Panamanian Chief Discusses Canal Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter welcomed Panamanian head of government Omar Torrijos to the White House today in preparation for the historic signing of a new treaty forged in 13 years of negotiations over the future of the Panama Canal.

Carter strode out of the Oval Office onto a collonade to shake hands with the Panamanian. They chatted as they walked inside, flanked by Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security assistant.

Torrijos and Carter spoke in English as they posed for photographs at Carter's desk in the Oval Office.

"It's all very well organized," Torrijos noted, referring to the administration's elaborate preparations to receive more than 20 Western Hemisphere heads of state or their representatives.

The dignitaries will observe the treaty-signing ceremonies Wednesday.

"I hope so," Carter replied, grinning.

"Well, we must have faith," the Panamanian replied.

The United States and Panama later gave final approval to the texts which will be signed by Carter and Torrijos.

"We have come to the end of a very long road," said the cochairman of the U.S. negotiating team, Ellsworth Bunker, as he initialed the documents for the United States.

The initialing for Panama was performed by its chief negotiator, Romulo Escobar Bethancourt, and the Panamanian minister of education, Aristedes Royo.

Lawyers for the two countries have been working on the Spanish and English language text since the conceptual agreement on the new treaties was reached in Panama four weeks ago.

The texts added little new information to what already has been said publicly by both sides.

A request that the U.S. Supreme Court block Wednesday's scheduled signing of the treaty was officially received by court employes today but appeared in jeopardy of being ignored by the justices until next month.

The request by the attorneys general of four states was filed over the weekend but was not officially logged then.

"It's on the full court's agenda and is not being sent to one justice," a court employe said.

County Birth Site In Controversy

Linda Okenewski, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., underwent a successful Caesarean section operation at 5:12 p.m., hospital officials said.

Doctors said the woman and child received no blood transfusion in the operation in which they cut into the mother's abdominal and uterine walls.

Dr. Anthony LeDonne, Mrs. Okonewski's physician, said there were no complications and mother and child are doing fine.

The parents have not selected a name for the infant.

Last week Mrs. Okonewski told officials at Broward General Medical Center in Florida she would refuse transfusions for herself or her child because of her religion.

Hospital officials said the transfusions would be necessary because of the mother's rare blood type.

Two Florida assistant public defenders appointed as guardians for the unborn child have sought to have the fetus made a ward of the court but were unsuccessful.

The Okonewskis then fled to Fountain Valley to avoid a court order which forced all Florida hospitals to give blood transfusions to the mother and child when the baby was delivered.

900 Illegal Aliens Caught on Coast

Border patrol agents picked up nearly 900 illegal aliens over the long Labor Day weekend, including one sedan with 15 adults crammed inside.

Agent-in-charge Al Janicky said it was a very busy weekend for the U.S. Border Patrol at the checkpoint where agents inspect northbound traffic on the San Diego Freeway.

"Saturday was really busy," Janicky said. "We apprehended 434 aliens that day."

He said 198 were picked up Friday, 128 on Sunday and 112 aliens stopped on Monday.

Agents pulled over a 1969 Dodge sedan Monday containing 15 men, according to Janicky.

"There were seven of them in the car and another eight crammed in the trunk," he said.

"They weren't very comfortable," Janicky added.

Another 16 aliens were spotted near the San Onofre Nuclear Plant on Sunday, according to San Clemente police. Agent Janicky said those illegals were also captured and included in the Labor Day weekend statistics.

SF Blast Sinks Sloop

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 39-foot sloop exploded and sank at the San Francisco Yacht Club, but police said they were unable to determine the cause of the blast. There were no injuries.

Police Lt. Richard Shippy said although the origin of the explosion at 8:40 p.m. Monday was unknown, San Francisco police intelligence had been alerted through sources last week that the New World Liberation Front might bomb yachts in the harbor.

He said no special patrols had been planned in light of the information, but added that the marina was part of normal checks by cruising squad cars.

Within the past two weeks, the NWLF has struck on four occasions, including bombings at a Pacific Gas & Electric substation in Sausalito and the plush Olympic Club in San Francisco. An undetonated device outside the private Pacific Union Club here was found by police and disarmed.

"We don't know if this explosion is related," Shippy said.

A spokeswoman from the Peoples' Information Relay, which has received NWLF communiques in the past, said they hadn't gotten any information from any underground revolutionary groups relating to the explosion.

The sunken ship, the Major O, was owned by Paul Fisher, 45, an operator of the Comstock Termite and Pest Control Co. A yacht moored in the adjacent slip was undamaged.

PLANNING UCI COURSES ON HISTORY OF BIRDS
Biologist Pitman Out to Give Birders a New Image

Booby Alert

Bird Watcher New Species

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

You can dial a telephone number in Los Angeles and the woman who answers will tell you cheerily, "There was a blue-footed booby seen last Wednesday on the breakwater at Playa Del Rey."

Or, "The boobies at the Salton Sea this past week were all very dark birds."

She's with the Los Angeles Audubon Society, and the telephone number (213-874-1318) is the society's Rare Bird Alert number. Anyone can call and find out who just flew into town, birdwise.

An increasing number of Americans — an estimated five million of them, are discovering the peculiar thrills of sighting the blue-footed booby, the wandering tattler, the American oystercatcher, the white-eyed hummer and a thousand other species.

The image of the bespectacled pantywaist who looks like Truman Capote trudging through the tall grass in knickers and kneesocks is being punched to birdfeathers by a new species of birdwatcher.

He's even got a new name: He's a birder, and his sport is "birding."

Robert L. Pitman, a UC Irvine research biologist, is one of the new breed of birder who'll testify his sport has its rugged side. He wears a brace from the time he fell 50 feet from cliffs on Santa Cruz Island, fracturing a vertebra.

Pitman was counting cormorants at the time.

It broke his back but not his enthusiasm for birds.

Pitman will try to communicate some of that enthusiasm through a UC Irvine Extension course in the natural history of birds, which will meet Thursdays 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., Sept. 29, Oct. 6 and Oct. 13.

In three Saturday field trips (Oct. 1, 8 and 15) Pitman and another UC Irvine research biologist, Paul Kelly, will take their initiate and experienced birders where the birds are: Upper Newport Bay and the San Joaquin marsh.

There's a Channel Islands trip in October to spot sea birds, Pitman's specialty, besides populations of porpoises, whales, sea lions, elephant seals, sharks and sea turtles.

Fee for the course is $88.50.

"There are few places in the United States that are notorious for having lots of bird species," Pitman said.

The Orange Coast is one of them, though most people are unaware of that.

"That's because you have to go where they are to see them," Pitman said. Not many birds prefer the concrete habitats offered by urban shopping centers and highways, he said.

So Pitman plans to take his students to coastal salt marshes, chaparral, riverside, grassland and oak woodland.

He hopes to spot such rare species as the long-tailed Jaeger, rarely seen on the California coast because the Arctic tundra-breeding bird migrates at high speed and at high altitude.

In the Channel Islands, on San Miguel, is the biggest sea bird population — 20,000 birds is Pitman's conservative estimate — from San Francisco to the Mexican border.

His students will stalk Xantus' Murrelet, a species of small diving birds whose largest colony in the world may be on Santa Barbara Island.

There are a hundred resident species of birds, and several dozen migrants who summered on the Orange Coast and are leaving, or who will winter there and are just coming. Enough, that is, to make any birder's binoculars water.

As for Pitman, "It's something I do naturally, and don't think about.

"For others, it's a way of getting in touch with things around them."

SC Holdup Try Thwarted By Minister

A Costa Mesa minister thwarted a holdup attempt Saturday in San Clemente when he told two men holding a gun on him the weapon did not look real.

Rev. Paul Butler told San Clemente police he was outside Sebastian's West, a dinner playhouse at 140 W. Pico, when two young men approached him and asked for matches.

When Butler said he had no matches, the men pulled a gun and demanded cash, he said. The minister told them the gun didn't look real to him, and they could go ahead and shoot it.

Instead, they fled, running south toward the municipal beach club, Butler said. He described his assailants as 18 or 19 years old.

Boat Crash Body Found

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities reported finding part of the sixth victim of Sunday night's three-boat collision in the San Jacinto River today.

Police said the victim appeared to be an unidentified woman. Parts of her body were found a quarter mile downstream from the site of the accident.

Authorites said the wreck occurred when a motor boat, running without lights, pulled into the river and was rammed by two high-powered jet boats. Eight survivors were plucked from the water minutes after the crash.

Laguna 'Begging' Modified

The city of Laguna Beach will modify its anti-begging ordinance in the face of a federal court decision in favor of the Hare Krishna cult which had challenged the city law on constitutional grounds.

That was the word today from City Manager Al Theal who said a new ordinance meeting the court's requirements should be ready for City Council consideration Sept. 21.

U.S. District Court Judge David W. Williams ruled against the city Friday in a suit brought by the Society for Krishna Consciousness against Police Chief Jon Sparks and Orange County District Attorney Cecil Hicks.

Six Krishnas who brought the suit charged claimed that handing out leaflets and soliciting donations is a part of their proselytizing.

Judge Williams said the municipal code was unconstitutional in allowing a city official almost arbitrary power to deny a permit to anyone he chooses.

The Krishnas, however, had never been denied a permit, Theal said. They had never completed the application form. The cultists balked at supplying the financial data sought by the city.

Theal said the overturning of the solicitation law has broad consequences for the city.

"Being a resort community, you could be deluged every summer with people wanting to solicit on the beaches, in front of the festivals and on the streets. That's why we're concerned about it," he said.

LISTED IN BRIBERY
Ex-Congressman Hanna

HANNA...

According to the indictment, Park, Hanna, and two former directors of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency conspired from about 1967 until Dec. 31, 1975, to bribe members of the House and Senate for their actions to promote South Korea's interests.

The two former KCIA directors — Kim Hyung Wook, who held the position between 1963 and 1969, and Lee Hu Rak, who held the job from 1970 through 1973 — were also named unindicted coconspirators.

Hanna played a key role in advising Park on which members of Congress should be bribed and how thousands of dollars should be parceled out to them, the indictment said.

Bell said Hanna is not cooperating with the investigation.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti said some of those named are targets of the probe and some aren't. He declined to say who was in which category.

Moslem Sentence Lengthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was sentenced today to spend 41 to 123 years in prison for his role as leader of a 38-hour bloody siege that gripped this city last March.

Before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "I know that whatever happens here will be the will of Allah."

Khaalis would be 97 years old before he is eligible for parole.

A second defendant, convicted of stabbing two men at B'nai B'rith headquarters, received a slightly harsher sentence. Abdul Adam, 31, was sentenced to a total of 44 to 136 years in prison.

Khaalis and Adam were the first sentenced of the 12 Hanafis convicted July 23 of seizing three buildings here — the B'nai B'rith building, the Islamic Center and Washington's city hall — and with taking 149 hostages in an incident that began March 9.

Ten followers received sentences ranging from 24 years to life.

Prosecutors asked D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio Jr. to hand down stiff sentences to show "that those who use terror to victimize persons do so at the risk of forfeiting their right ever again to be free in society."

Nunzio sentenced Khaalis to five to 15 years in jail on 24 separate counts of armed kidnaping.

However, most will run concurrently. Only those counts dealing with hostages taken at B'nai B'rith Headquarters, where Khaalis and six other men held more than 100 hostages, will run consecutively. Nunzio also added an additional one to three years for conspiracy.

Khaalis also received a term of 20 years to life for the second-degree murder of a young radio reporter killed at Washington's city hall and five to 15 years in prison in connection with the shooting of two othe men there and for the stabbing and shooting of a man at B'nai B'rith.

However, the judge set all of these to run concurrently with the others.

Wisconsin Voters to Judge Judge

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Dane County Judge Archie Simonson, whose criticism of sexual permissiveness stirred a move for his recall, faces the end of a tumultuous summer in a special election Wednesday against five opponents.

It is the first judicial recall election ever in Wisconsin, but the historical significance has been overshadowed by voters' reaction to the judge's remarks in a teen-age sexual assault case.

Simonson, speaking from the bench in May, criticized what he called provocative women's clothing and permissive community attitudes in Madison.

"Are we supposed to take an impressionable person 15 or 16 years of age who can respond to something like that and punish that person severely because they react to it normally?" Simonson asked.

The comments triggered a wave of protest by local feminists who picketed the courthouse wearing bikinis and raincoats. The National Organization for Women and other feminist groups led a drive that gathered 35,000 signatures and forced the recall

Of Simonson's five opponents, feminist lawyer Moria Krueger and assistant family court commissioner Daniel Moser appear to be the strongest.

Simonson has said he has no idea how well he'll do.

City Clerk Eldon Hoel refused to predict the turnout for the voting, which also features a controversial Madison rent control referendum.

Simonson said the principle of whether he should be recalled was at issue, rather than the nature of his comments. He refused to participate in some candidate forums and refused to answer newsmen's questions about his qualifications.

The incumbent emphasized what he called his constitutional protections of free speech. He said transcripts showed he never personally took the position that rape was a normal reaction, and accused opponents of diverting public opinion from what he actually said.

In addition, the 15-year-old boy involved in the case was taken into custody and charged with delinquency once again, this time in connection with the theft of a bicycle. He was sent to a juvenile detention home just six days before the election.

At the disposition hearing in May, Simonson followed the recommendation of social workers and ordered the youth to spend a year at home under court supervision.

CASHING IN — Ann Burnett, who bought 500 copies of the Memphis Press-Scimitar with coverage of Elvis Presley's death, has sold 20 of them at $25 apiece. She hopes to pay off her house with her eventual profits.

Elvismania

Souvenirs Snatched Up

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Novelty stores, old newspaper back issues and the trees around Elvis Presley's mansion are being stripped bare as fans surprised by his sudden death scrounge for mementos in his adopted hometown.

"They are buying anything," said M. P. Anderton, whose brother Louis owns a local novelty shop. "We can't keep things in stock.

"ALL THIS STARTED WHEN HE died and we're selling as soon as we get something in."

T-shirts, posters, bumper stickers, key rings and other gewgaws have flooded the market since Presley's death Aug. 16.

There is a demand for copies of his films, copies of his will and copies of tickets from his concerts.

Newspapers from the day he died are rarities. Magazines and paperback books about Elvis sell out as they reach the shelves.

MORE THAN ONE MILLION copies of special tribute editions of the Commercial Appeal and the Press-Scimitar have been sold, and orders are still coming in.

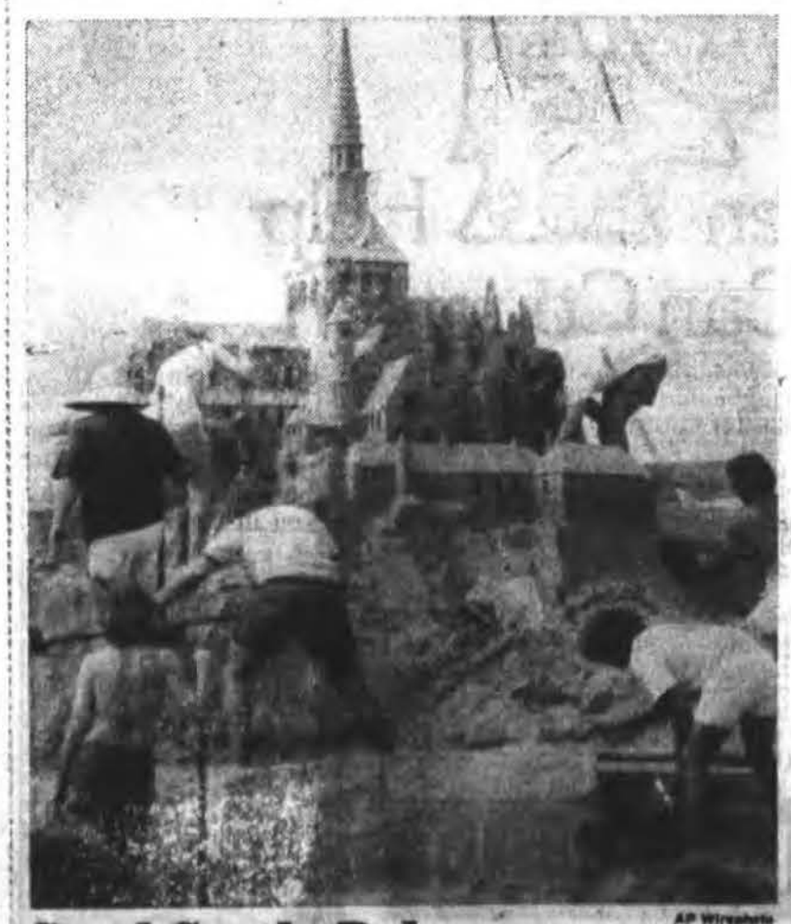

The thousands of fans who come to Memphis to see Presley's mansion, Graceland, often stretch for a twig or piece of a branch from a tree.

Fans also clip or pull grass near the Forest Hill Cemetery mausoleum where Presley was entombed Aug. 18. Flowers, which arrive daily at the white marble mausoleum, are almost immediately snatched up, along with their vases.

"I GUESS A LOT OF US, ESPECIALLY around here, took Elvis for granted," said Jim Godown, owner of T-shirts International.

Godown's firm is finding it increasingly difficult to keep up with the demand for Elvis shirts.

"I think the overall demand for Elvis souvenirs has naturally come because of the death thing," Godown said. "We all expected him to die an old man and all of a sudden, he was gone."

Holiday 'Follows The Sun'

By the Associated Press

Holiday revelers followed the sun to the mountains and the Mexican border, shunning normally popular beaches where dense fog dimmed hopes of a pleasant Labor Day celebration.

Fog shrouded the Southern California coast much of Monday, and beaches from Zuma south to Redondo reported no crowds larger than 60,000. Even Santa Monica Beach, which usually attracts more than a million persons on Labor Day, reported only 60,000.

Temperatures along the beaches were in the 70s and surf was running about two feet every 15 seconds, according to the National Weather Service.

About 50 boats ran into difficulties during the holiday weekend and were assisted by the Coast Guard, but no serious injuries to passengers were reported.

Many holiday travelers returning to Los Angeles International Airport encountered delays as several runway were closed due to fog both Monday and today. The airport reported all runways operational by 8 a.m. today.

But in mountain resorts, thousands of campers basked in sunshine that brought temperatures to the 80s. Ranger stations reported an overflow of visitors throughout the Big Beor, Lake Arrowhead and Idyllwild areas.

In Baja, at the California-Mexico border, a crowd described as the biggest in years turned out to celebrate the holiday.

The 24-gate U.S. port of entry along the Mexican border between Tijuana and San Diego was geared for an overflow of cars, motor homes and trucks. A long line of cars had already formed by midafternoon, and authorities said they had a huge crush of homeward-bound traffic Monday evening.

Fifty persons died in traffic accidents throughout the state as of 6 a.m. Monday, according to the California Highway Patrol. Last year 43 persons lost their lives on the highway during the holiday period.

Drunk driving arrests were down compared to last year, with 1,627 arrests made as of 6 a.m. Monday throughout the state. During the same period last year, 1,837 persons were arrested.

Cautious NB Woman Little Too Cautious

Newport Beach patrolmen George Stavropoulos and Jim Coe said they really didn't pay much attention to the car that stopped behind theirs Sunday night on Balboa Boulevard.

The policemen were busy questioning the driver of what they suspected was a stolen car. They said they assumed the driver was attracted by the patrol car's flashing lights and pulled in to ask a question.

But when more than 10 minutes went by without that driver emerging, the officers got curious and went to investigate.

They said they found a 43-year-old Newport Beach woman waiting patiently. They asked her what she wanted and she replied:

"Nothing, thank you. I'm just waiting for this yellow light to turn green so I can go home."

The woman was booked for driving under the influence of alcohol. The suspected car thief was booked, too.

Building Blocked At Kent State Gym

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan blocked today for the time being construction of a gymnasium at Kent State University on the site where National Guardsmen seven years ago killed four Vietnam war protesters.

Brennan, the second member of the nation's highest court to consider the Kent State case, said the start of construction should be postponed until university officials respond to a request by construction opponents that no gymnasium be built.

"It is ordered that the issuance of the mandate of the 6th U.S. Court of Appeals be stayed pending the filing of a response to the application and further order of Brennan or of the court," Brennan's brief decision said.

Justice Potter Stewart, the circuit justice who usually handles urgent matters for the high court coming from the judicial circuit which includes Ohio, refused Saturday to delay the construction.

A group calling itself the May 4th Coalition then went to Brennan, as it is allowed to do under Supreme Court rules.

A U.S. District Court order barring construction of the building near the site where the protesters died and nine other persons were wounded May 4, 1970, was to expire today.

The protesters plugged their public address system into a dormitory outlet, but police promptly unplugged it.

Rally leaders then went to another part of the building for power and established a human chain to try to keep police away.

However, police outflanked them by cutting off the building's main power supply. Robert Malone, head of the campus police, said the power was cut because "the rally was not approved or recognized, and the campus was closed."

The speakers went ahead with their addresses to the crowd of 200 anyway.

Later, the coalition posted what it called a "people's permanent injunction" against the gymnasium and also against what was described as police harassment.

30 Acres Charred By Blaze

A massive firefighting effort that involved use of four aerial tankers held a brush fire in the eastern end of Silverado Canyon in check Monday.

By the time county firemen doused the blaze, 30 acres had been blackened by what investigators said today was "prbably a man-caused fire that could have been much worse."

A fireman injured in a fall down a rocky embankment was airlifted from the canyon for treatment of injuries at Mission Community Hospital.

Officials today described those injuries as bumps and bruises but said x-rays were taken as a precautionary measure.

According to county fire officials, the canyon fire was reported at 6:06 a.m.

By 10 a.m. the blaze reportedly was contained in a massive effort involving 29 engines, four fire line crews, four aerial tankers, two bulldozers and two emergency medical crews.

The county firefighters were aided in that display of mountain firefighting power by engine units from Santa Ana, Tustin and Orange, county officials said.

Of the 30 acres charred by the blaze, 25 were in Cleveland National Forest and the remaining five were in unincorporated county territory.

One official said the fire area was immediately adjacent to a larger area that had burned last year.

Crash Victim Identified As HB Driver

A 23-year-old driver killed in a high-speed traffic accident Friday evening 50 miles east of San Diego has been identified as Jesus Guzman Chavez of Huntington Beach.

An officer with the California Highway Patrol in San Diego said that Chavez' car plunged 120 feet off an embankment on Interstate 8 near the small town of Boulevard.

Chavez, of 228 Chico St., was rushed to the El Cajon Valley Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

He was traveling at about 90 miles per hour and passing traffic on the shoulder of the highway shortly before the fatal accident, the CHP said.

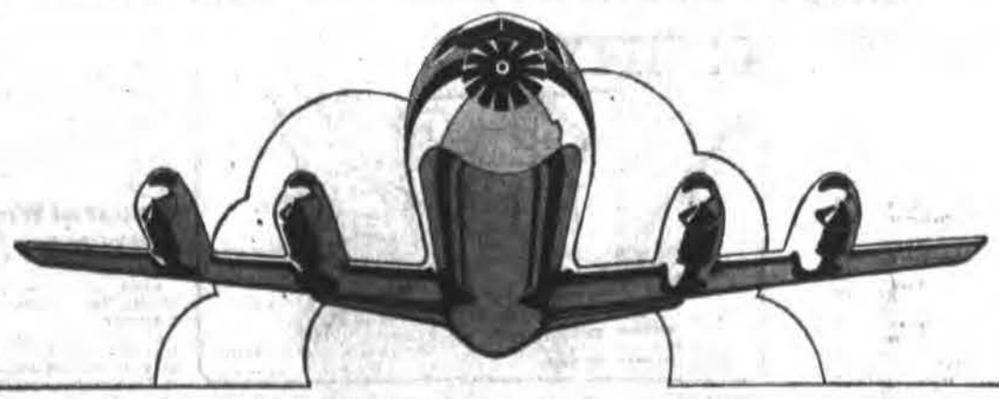

He was alone and there were no other injuries, the CHP added.

G-IVL/SNA-36

RICKY TICKY POLITIX: Ron Cordova, the Democratic assemblyman who represents a vast segment of our coastal region, has just been handed a delicious opportunity for political maneuvering.

Cordova achieved this marvelous chance by getting himself attacked on the Assembly floor just the other day by one of his own party's biggies — Assemblyman Willie Brown, the Democrat from San Francisco.

At issue was a measure called Senate Bill 154, which had been touted as a tax relief measure. It would offer certain rebates to the taxpayer.

Willie Brown was all out and impassioned for passage of this one.

CORDOVA WASN'T. He saw it as a tax sham rather than a relief measure. He and Assemblyman Dennis Mangers of Huntington Beach ended up as the only two Democrats in the Assembly to vote against the measure.

It passed the assembly, 57 to 18 but then got dumped by the state senate, 23 to 15.

Anyway, Cordova attacked the measure on the Assembly floor as a political deception, offering only a short-range tax relief while failing to address major tax reform questions.

Tax rebates would have been paid from state surpluses, which Cordova reasons only exist because the people are overtaxed in the first place.

Clearly, Cordova may carry the Democratic Party label but he sounds like he hovers near Barry Goldwater on the conservative scale.

So he got verbally whacked by Willie Brown, out on his charger. Brown indeed labeled Cordova a conservative and then declared that anybody who would vote against the bill demonstrated "the highest form of insensitivity and stupidity."

STRONG WORDS from Willie, in flaying a fellow Democrat.

Brown is reputed not to be much of a friend of Orange County anyway, viewing almost anything or anybody associated with our region with enormous suspicion.

Thus Brown, in his vituperative assault upon our assemblyman's brainpower, has perhaps unwittingly handed Cordova a splendid political opportunity.

You see, Cordova's 74th Assembly District is weighted so heavily with Republican voters that it lists to the right.

Cordova's victory in that district last November is already legend.

He pulled off the upset stunner when the GOP vote was horribly split between faltering candidate Jim Slemons and write-in candidate Marion Bergeson.

Now Mrs. Bergeson has taken a running start at Cordova. She has stepped down from her Newport-Mesa school district board post and has already announced for the Republican primary race next June.

But meanwhile, Cordova has clearly established himself as a conservative in Democratic cloth. He has been verbally assaulted by one of the top Democratic liberals in Sacramento.

SO WHAT HAPPENS if Cordova should abruptly announce he can no longer work within the Democratic majority? So he switches parties and runs as an incumbent next time in the GOP primary.

'A Dead Martyr'

Teen Sniper Kills Man, Then Self

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A swastika-wearing, white high school junior who turned an M1 carbine on a crowd of blacks at a Labor Day picnic, killing one man and wounding three other people before killing himself, was "daffy about World War II," one of his teachers said.

Police withheld the identity of the gunman who fired at some 200 picnickers Monday while they were on an annual gathering at the Jonesville African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.

BUT THE Charlotte Observer today identified the youth as Kenneth Wilson, 17, who attended East Mecklenburg High School.

Acquaintances of the youth verified the gunman's identity. Police said today a note was found on the gunman's body.

Mecklenburg County police said the gunman stood about 40 feet from a softball field where some of the picnickers were playing and began firing the carbine without warning about 3 p.m.

The gunman fired 11 shots as the picnickers hit the dirt and grass, striking four persons, police said.

THE GUNMAN then put a bullet through his throat, police said. Lottie Carothers, organizer of the picnic, said she saw Roosevelt Davis fall from a chest wound. Davis, 29, of Charlotte, died about 20 minutes after being taken to a hospital.

"I heard a shot and saw that boy (Davis) fall backwards," she said. "They (members of the church) told us to get down, get down. Whoever it was just kept shooting."

"At first I thought it was a plane, but it kept going bam, bam, bam," said Mrs. Willie F. Pierce of Charlotte, one of the picknickers.

NO ONE COULD offer any motive for the shooting or explain why the youth wore a swastika.

In Raleigh, the head of North Carolina's Nazi party, Harold Covington, 23, said today of the sniper's attack: "We don't condone it, but we don't condemn it either.

"We don't ask our men to go out and die in some kamikaze action. We'd rather this guy had chosen to live and get involved actively . . . I'd rather have a live activist than a dead martyr."

Jo Anne Terry, 28, of Charlotte was in intensive care and listed in critical condition early today at Presbyterian Hospital where she underwent surgery Monday night. Joseph Walker Jr., 29, of Charlotte was in satisfactory condition with a foot wound, while Larry Eugene Smith, 15, was treated for a leg wound and released.

Discotheque Fire Bombing Injures Nine

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fire bomb was hurled into a crowded Washington discotheque late Monday, touching off a blaze that injured at least nine people and left the bar area in a mass of rubble, police said.

Two people were critically injured as dozens of patrons fled from the night club, some burning and choking in what witnesses described as a scene of screaming panic.

THREE MEN who had been asked to leave the Shepherd Park Restaurant earlier in the evening apparently "came back and bombed the place," said Capt. Maurice McDonald of the District of Columbia Police Department.

Police said approximately 80 customers and a dozen employes were inside the restaurant when the fire bombing occurred shortly after 10 p.m. When firefighters arrived, the restaurant was "a wall of flame," said one fire official. Firemen extinguished the blaze within 30 minutes.

ONE WITNESS said she noticed the front door being opened, heard glass shattering and then "fire was all over the place." Another said "it went up like a firecracker."

A fire department investigator said the incendiary device apparently was a bottle filled with a flammable liquid, probably gasoline.

WITNESSES SAID the fire erupted about 45 minutes after three men were asked to leave. The reason for the request was not immediately clear, police said.

According to an employe of the go-go club, the trio had given club bouncers "a hard time" before they left.

Police said early today that they were searching for the three men.

Jerry Lewis' Telethon Nets $26.8 Million

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A television audience estimated at 85 million people contributed toward a total of $26.8 million in the 22½-hour Jerry Lewis Labor Day muscular dystrophy telethon.

"This fantastic result proved once again that until we find a cure for muscular dystrophy, the public will never let us down," an elated Lewis said Monday as the tote board showed final telephone pledges were $5.1 million ahead of last year.

LAST YEAR'S telephone pledges were $21.7 million, but a total of $22.5 million was collected, the Muscular Dystrophy Association said.

"Telethon '77" — Lewis' 12th telethon for muscular dystrophy — was broadcast over a network of 213 stations in the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Singer Frank Sinatra appeared by himself this year, unlike last year when he brought Dean Martin for the first Martin and Lewis reunion since the comedy duo broke up.

JOHNNY CARSON also appeared for the first time in several years, along with singers Englebert Humperdink, Connie Stevens, Eartha Kitt and the Count Basie Band, which Lewis conducted.

Actor Charlton Heston and other stars also gave videotaped presentations. The telethon was co-hosted by actors Chad Everrett, David Hartman and Ed McMahon.

"It's those wonderful people out there watching that pick up their phones . . . that make that final figure on the tote board possible," Lewis said.

Hurricane 'Babe' Spawns Tornadoes

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tornadoes and heavy rains tossed out by a slowly dying Hurricane Babe, downgraded to a tropical depression, plagued inland towns today as the storm moved north and allowed coastal residents to return to their relatively undamaged homes.

Forecasters predicted more tornadoes as the storm moved into Mississippi, and tornado watches and some warnings were posted in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

IN ITS SLOW TREK through Louisiana on Monday, the low-powered storm took no lives, despite a dozen tornadoes that raced through areas north of Lake Ponchartrain.

Twisters damaged houses in Hammond and Ponchatoula. Heavy rains flooded streets in both towns, and parts of Ponchatoula's main thoroughfare was under two feet of water.

In Pass Christian, Miss., which bore the brunt of the killer Hurricane Camille as it slammed into the coast in 1969, a tornado ripped up the roof and damaged six classrooms in an unoccupied elementary school. The tornado inflicted an estimated $500,000 in damage.

THREE TWISTERS were sighted in western Florida, but none touched down.

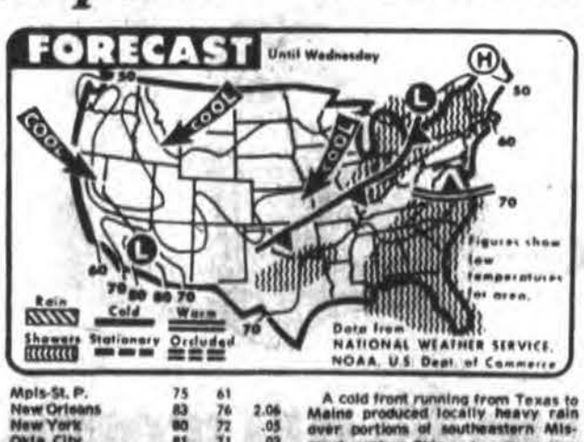

Babe was demoted to a tropical depression Monday afternoon by the time it was 70 miles west of New Orleans. The storm's highest sustained winds were about 74 miles per hour — the minimum for a storm to be called a hurricane — when it hit shore, and the winds quickly slowed down as it moved inland in the pre-dawn hours Monday.

Baffling

Sniper Hits 4; 2 Dead

ESCONDIDO (AP) — The source of sniper bullets that killed two motorcyclists and wounded their passengers on a freeway baffled investigators today.

Apparently no one but the killer saw the shooting Monday

A car with three occupants went "flying by" seconds after the shooting, motorists reported. But authorities said the shots could have been fired from the roadside.

THE SOUTHBOUND MOTORCYCLISTS were felled as they went over a rise in Interstate 15. Motorists behind them came upon the sprawled bikes and victims lying across the road.

Raymond L. Smith, 26, of El Cajon was dead. Emerson Richard Morris, 29, of Spring Valley southeast of San Diego, died 2½ hours later in Palomar Memorial Hospital.

LISTED IN SERIOUS CONDITION after undergoing surgery late Monday night was Morris' wife Dolores. Smith's wife, Diane, was treated at Palomar Hospital and released.

13 Arrested

1 Killed, Cop Hurt in Melee

LONG BEACH (AP) — Thirteen people have been arrested for investigation of murder in a melee during which a plainclothes police officer was shot, slashed and stabbed and a 21-year-old Gardena man was shot to death, police say.

Officer William Penhollow, 39, a nine-year veteran of the police force, was reported in satisfactory condition Monday with cuts and bruises at St. Mary Medical Center. Hospital officials said he was saved from death because his badge deflected the bullet fired at him.

KILLED WAS PAUL GONZALEZ of Gardena, who was shot five times by an officer identified only as D. Montgomery. Montgomery had graduated from the police academy only two days before.

Police Sgt. Howard Jenkins gave account of the incident:

Penhollow and his partner, Mark Hanson, responded to a disturbance call Sunday and found two men struggling in a car. As the men fled and Hanson chased one of them, several other men attacked Penhollow with razor blades and knives.

ONE OF THE MEN ALLEGEDLY grabbed Penhollow's pistol and fired at him, but the bullet was deflected by the badge and creased the officer's rib cage.

At that point, Montgomery and a fourth officer arrived. While the fourth officer wrestled with the man who shot Penhollow, Gonzalez allegedly pointed a gun at the struggling officer and Montgomery opened fire, police said.

'Crime's a Lifestyle'

Study Recommends Early Imprisonment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Crime is a lifestyle for some people and they should be imprisoned when they are young and most likely to break the law, a study by the Rand Corp. suggests.

In a study released Monday, 49 California inmates convicted of armed robbery said stiffer sentences, stricter parole supervision or the threat of being caught would not have deterred them from returning to their criminal lifestyles.

"I remember working a dry cleaners once — I had nothing in common with those people," said one prisoner. "I was anxious to get back with my own kind. I deliberately got myself busted when things got too bad." The prisoner said he only knew how to function in jail.

Gas Explosion Kills Man

NEW CUYAMA (AP) — A moving van that drove through a vapor cloud leaking from a natural gas line sparked an explosion and raging fire Monday, critically burning one man and killing his brother, authorities said.

STATE

Flames towered 500 feet in the air as Arco crewmen worked to cap the pipelines that led from a compression plant. Three nearby ranches in northeast Santa Barbara County were evacuated as flames destroyed the moving van and engulfed a perimeter extending 400 feet from the pipes.

Woman Nabbed for Smuggling

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Customs agents and the San Ysidro border station arrested an unidentified woman for investigation of smuggling some 800,000 amphetamine pills into the United States.

Harley Carter, customs supervisor, said the arrest Monday came when a van was stopped and the pills were discovered as it was about to cross the border from Mexico.

SF School Opening Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — About 60,000 San Francisco public school children will miss school for at least five days — and perhaps longer — until a logjam in contract talks with the city's teachers is resolved.

School Supt. Robert Alioto told a Monday news conference that a scheduled Sept. 7 opening would be postponed until Sept. 12. He said if no agreement is reached by then, the opening would be put off another week.

Marine Faces Kidnap Charge

CULVER CITY (AP) — A 25-year-old Marine stationed at Camp Pendleton was arrested in connection with the kidnaping of a 19-year-old Oceanside housewife whose body was found in a ravine north of Oceanside.

Burglar Hit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A burglar who was caught in the act at the Bel-Air mansion of hotel magnate Conrad Hilton left behind a trail of blood as he fled in a hail of bullets, police say.

Investigators said Monday that the intruder apparently was wounded when a private security guard fired five shots as the man escaped into the bushes. The security guard was alerted by a silent alarm.

Hilton, 89, and his family — asleep upstairs were startled awake by the gunfire but were not directly involved in the incident, said police Sgt. Bob Lowrey.

Murders 'Triggered'

LONG BEACH (AP) — A $40 theft which led to the arrest of a Long Beach man apparently triggered the weekend shooting deaths of four persons, including a 3-year-old girl, police said today.

Pamely Cade, 30, was entertaining guests Sunday when three men burst into her apartment and began blasting away with a shotgun, police said.

Mrs. Cade and guests Christal Baxter, 23, and Luther Larry Evens, 32, all of Long Beach were killed. Her daughter, Chinue, 3, died Monday at St. Mary's Hospital.

Teacher Lottery Out

SACRAMENTO (AP) — There won't be any more teacher employment lotteries when school boards have to lay off some but not all the teachers who were hired on the same day, under a bill signed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. SB 274 by Sen. Peter Behr (R-Tiburon) allows boards to decide which teachers to keep and which to let go.

$80,000 AID SET

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Highway Commission has voted to spend $80,000 to help long-toed Santa Cruz salamanders — eight years after building a highway over part of their habitat.

Put a Real Limit On the Politicians

Last year's county Grand Jury said elected county officials shouldn't vote on issues affecting the financial well-being of those who give them hefty campaign contributions.

The jury drew the donation line at $250 and said officials should be made to refrain for four years from voting on issues where the interests of donors of that much or more is at stake.

As might be expected, Orange County's five supervisors didn't agree with the jury's recommendation.

Somewhat lamely, supervisors said in their recent reply to the jury they didn't know if the Board of Supervisors has the legal muscle to say who can and cannot vote.

There might be some constitutional merit in that argument. But it begs the point.

What the Grand Jury said was that the public has grown weary of a discredited Orange County political system that casts office holders in the role of dollar seekers with their hands constantly out for any bucks that might fall their way.

It does no good for supervisors and other elected officials to insist their judgment is not swayed by heavy political donations.

The ill-fated political careers of Dr. Louis Cella and other county political financial bosses in recent years say otherwise.

So, supervisors should not simply dismiss the Grand Jury's recommendation as impractical. Nor should they return to their hypocrisy of 1975 when they proposed political campaign reform and did nothing.

What supervisors should do is work with sincerity to find a method to return credibility and integrity to Orange County politics.

Educational Quality

A recent report that freshmen entering American colleges this month will have the lowest scholastic aptitude scores in 51 years of testing comes as no surprise.

The size of the drop is not great — less than one percent — but the continuing downward trend year after year is cause for deep concern.

More important, it ought to put to an end the defense offered by too many educators, that the tests are somehow testing the wrong things. Or that the Vietnam War is somehow to blame. Or loss of family identity. Or whatever.

On the other hand, a good many educators have been deeply concerned about this trend for a number of years. It's about time they had more than lip service support from their colleagues, from parents and from students.

Speaking of students, it is disheartening to have the Student Lobby representing the University of California students, fighting strengthened admission standards for the University of California. The faculty senate had endorsed a program that would require entering freshmen to have the additional year of high school English composition, and it would have placed more emphasis on entrance tests than on increasingly meaningless high school grade averages for admission.

What the Student Lobby is saying is that it would prefer to see the system continue to erode academically rather than to face up to the necessary corrective action with its attendant problems in insuring minority students a fair shot at getting into UC.

This is a mixture of shortsightedness and the inevitable malaise of lobbying groups who become addicted to wielding power for power's sake.

If the strength of this country, as we all are so fond of saying — and as history appears to have confirmed — relates to the quality of our educational system, it's about time for the ordinary citizen who's paying the education bills to stand up and demand quality.

Irrigation — Not a Dry Subject

Once, I don't know quite how, I found myself covering an international conference on the riparian rights of the Danube river states. The question before the conference was who owned what waters that irrigated the area.

More precisely, riparian rights embody the ancient doctrine that surface water for fishing and agriculture and all other uses belongs primarily to landowners along streams.

For sheer theologizing, and complexity of structure, I have never been involved in a more complicated bit of reporting, unless it was the hugger-mugger involved in the financing of the rapid transit systems of New York City, a subject of notable density.

THE LANGUAGE involved in riparian rights is so obese and unmanageable, I suspect, because the matter is so important — water is life and death, water is money, water is the most important thing on earth if you do not have it. Sex is nothing compared to this need.

There is an important difference between the Danube region, and most of the rest of the world, for that matter, and California and the Western states of America. In the American West underground water is as important as surface water, as so much of our agriculture is based on irrigation by means of artificial ditches and channels.

OVER THE YEARS in this area an informal code has been worked out about the ownership of water. Though it oversimplifies the matter, water belongs in perpetuity to the first person who grabs it. This means, essentially, that agribusiness owns California's water.

That ownership is protected by one of the most powerful lobbies in Sacramento, the Association of California Water Agencies, which benefits 260 groups of beneficiaries of the old grab-water system.

This system has grave shortcomings. It is known, for instance, that owners draw water from rivers and wells simply to keep rights alive. The grab-water system also works powerfully against allocating water where it is most needed.

INCREASINGLY, there is a growing body of opinion that considers water is a public resource. Naturally this view is pretty hot at this moment of profound drought in Northern California. The view was expressed succinctly in 1974 by Ronald B. Robie, director of the State Department of Water Resources:

"Water is a public resource. Therefore, the traditional conception that a water fight is a property right subject to minimal governmental regulation must be changed so that a right to use water is created by the state acting in the public interest."

Governor Brown has said "the (water) law we have now is archaic — it has disincentives to careful water conservation." Early this year he created a commission of lawyers and water experts to see what useful changes might be made in the old grab-it-and-run system.

The commission is holding meetings in Sacramento right now, under the chairmanship of Donald R. Wright, the recently retired chief justice of the State Supreme Court. The hearings have attracted almost no attention because riparian rights are, at the moment, unsexy.

THERE'S going to be a helluva fight over all this. It is well known that the agenda of the water commission consists not only in bringing order to an amorphous frontier code of laws, but in actually socializing to some degree what has traditionally beeen considered private property. The water lobby is predicatably — well, upset.

The water lobby has as much clout as any group in Sacramento seeking to make new laws or preserve old ones. The water reformers, too, have considerable support, and it is growing. A recent State Appellate Court opinion held that the State Appellate Court opinion held that the state constitution "abjures the waste of water and seeks its conservation in the interest of the state's entire population."

This is low-profile stuff. It is also, substantively, just about the most daring thing Jerry Brown has undertaken in his term as governor.

Our Guests Don't Behave Like Guests

When the United States elected to host the United Nations it was assumed that these foreign "guests" would always be on their best behavior.

In the years since, however, the world's backward nations have come to dominate the General Assembly — and many brought with them their backward ways.

Last year three cars registered to Idi Amin's Ugandan Mission in the United States collected 1,761 traffic tickets in eleven months — and ignored them.

A foreign diplomat can come and go — into and out of our country — carrying cash, drugs or state secrets in his luggage — and there is not a thing we can do about it.

A FOREIGN diplomat living in the United States can ignore his bills, let his dog bite the neighbors. He can injure and even kill people with his automobile — and there's not a thing we can do about it.

And not only are diplomats beyond the reach of our laws but their wives and children are also — and even the housemaids in their embassies!

No other nation in the world treats international emissaries as leniently as do we.

Indeed, hard pressed as New York City is to pay its bills, the city still must spend more than two million dollars a year to protect these visitors — while they ignore some two hundred thousand traffic tickets each year.

A GENERATION ago it was the "Ugly American" who sometimes made himself unpopular and unwelcome overseas. But nowhere did we expect to flaunt the laws of a host nation.

Newsweek magazine remembers when a cultural attache at the Panamanian Embassy ran a red light in 1974 — crashed into the car of a Dr. Halla Brown — a 62-year-old clinical professor of medicine at George Washington University.

The impact damaged Dr. Brown's spine, turned her into a permanent quadraplegic. Her medical bills have totalled a quarter million dollars and so far she still requires round-the-clock nursing.

Panama's Ambassador offered his condolences; nothing else.

Diplomatic immunity was intended to protect diplomats from intimidation by the host government. This is important.

In "undemocratic" countries our own diplomats might be subjected to harassment under local news or kangaroo courts.

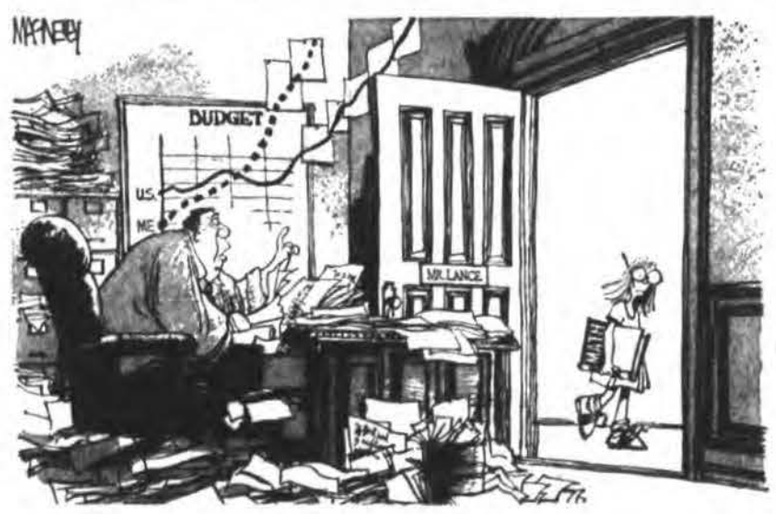

BUT THIS experience of Dr. Brown. . .

And the death of a young boy last year who was run over by the chauffeur of the Senegalese Embassy. . .

These incidents have finally motivated our Congress to modify the Act of 1790. If that bill passes the Senate this Fall our guests are going to be taught some manners.

Top diplomats will retain criminal and civil immunity — but not lesser embassy employees and not their servants. And the bill will require every member of the diplomatic community to carry liability insurance.

This will not clip their wings but, as United States protocol chief Erin Dobelle says, "It will require that they answer for what they do."

"AMY?...COULD YOU STEP IN HERE A MINUTE, HONEY?"

Boyd / Devil

By L. M. BOYD

When Johann Gutenberg, the inventor of movable type, was taking his first load of printed books to market, inspectors couldn't figure out why they all were exactly alike instead of each slightly different as handlettered books would be. "The work of the Devil!" they cried, or words to that effect. Clever rascal, that Johann. Picked the right book for his first job. Would the Devil, said he, turn out a cartload of Bibles? They let him pass.

Gravity of the sun is so much greater than that of the earth that a 160-pound man there would weigh over two tons. Briefly.

It's common knowledge that the noise most likely to wake up a sleeping mother is the crying of her baby. But what noise most readily awakens a man? So inquires another customer. That, too, has been tested. It's the mention of his own name.

Do you remember why trousers are called pants? Follow this: Patron Saint of Venice was Saint Pantaleone. Venetians generally, therefore, came to be known as Pantaleones. A stock character in Italian comedies was a clowning Venetian who wore odd trousers which were dubbed pantaloons, still another reference to that patron saint. And pants evolved out of that.

Q. "Where'd the word 'Bible' come from?"

A. A Greek word meaning "the books."

Before William Harvey figured out blood circulation about 360 some odd years ago, people thought their blood washed back and forth like ocean tides.

Dear Gloomy Gus

Over 3,000 florals were sent to Elvis Presley's funeral service—including one from the Soviet Union. They should extend condolences, for Presley did more to disturb the mind of our youth and damage this country than did all the combined intelligence the Soviets have been able to get up.

Immigrants Find Way to Welfare Rolls Quickly

WASHINGTON — Buried in State Department documents is evidence that a high percentage of immigrants start collecting welfare checks soon after they arrive — despite advance pledges to keep off the welfare rolls.

About 400,000 immigrants pour into this country every year. They are admitted only after their U.S. sponsors certify they won't become public charges. Yet a large number hardly get settled in the United States before they apply for relief. The cost to the federal, state and city governments is enormous.

Some 30,000 immigrants, as a case study, flock to the United States from the Philippines each year. The U.S. embassy has reported to the State Dept. that consular officers cannot seem to ferret out the future welfare clients.

"WE ARE NOT even close to adequately satisfying the intent of Congress in keeping immigrants off the welfare rolls," the embassy has confided to Washington.

The confession continues: "Approximately 90 percent (or possibly even higher) of the applicants who qualify for . . . old age assistance accept this form of welfare assistance within the first year . . . in the United States."

Yet in every case that was cited, a relative in the United States had guaranteed the immigrant would not become a welfare statistic. Among the U.S. residents who have permitted their relatives to go on relief, for example, have been a physician earning $50,000 a year in the Great Lakes area and a Californian making $30,000.

NOR ARE THE new immigrants at all reluctant to take the welfare payments they had promised not to seek. Declares the memo from Manila: "In numerous cases, when asked why they accepted such welfare payments, the answer was 'because it's there.'

"The argument has been heard," the embassy continues its report, "that this trend is the result of a fault in our own system. This theory may be acceptable if one assumes that the public at large is without ethics or principles. If such is indeed the case, then possibly a review of the system is in order."

The embassy contends that the present safeguards are "ineffectual" and recommends tougher restrictions and better enforcement. "Bureaucratic as it may be," the memo urges, this is "preferable to paying out the taxpayers' money to undeserving cases."

PERFECT PEAR: While others seek solutions for the energy crisis, arms race and Mideast muddle, the unsung scientists of the National Agricultural Research Center are striving to perfect the pear.

This is no idle pursuit but a serious effort to save the pear. For in 1961, the pear was on its way to becoming an endangered species.

The scientists searched the world for a pear that might survive all the bugs and blights found on U.S. fruit farms. In the Asian highlands, they discovered a tiny, pea-size pear that grew on a stocky tree with shiny leaves.

THIS PITIFUL little pear had one endearing quality; it was immune to all the pests known to afflict pears. Neither fireblight nor worm could faze it.

The slow, painstaking process began of breeding its rugged qualities into a larger, more flavorful pear suitable for marketing.

The scientists have now developed a pear, close to normal size, that tastes good but can resist all the known afflictions.

Sydney Harris / Introspection Is a Lost Cause

Thoughts at Large:

* Just as the tongue cannot taste itself and the eye cannot see itself, so the mind cannot know itself; introspection is a futile pursuit, for we come to realize who and what we are only by our relations with others.

* Any religion that ignores or rejects the findings of modern scientific inquiry is bound to become bankrupt in the long run; just as any scientific inquiry that remains mechanistic in its approach can never penetrate to the ultimate unity of creation.

* The stupid maxim that "the end justifies the means" is continually rebuked in history by the perverse fact that our efforts to do good so often result in evil, while, contrariwise, good can grow out of our efforts to do evil.

* There is always an element of pleasure, as much as of fear, in social emergencies such as floods or power failures, for these crises bring persons closer together in a sense of belonging and having meaning for each other, which is lacking in everyday life.

* IT IS significant that the First Commandment warns against idolatry, not atheism; God can always fill an empty space within us, but not if it is already occupied by the false deity of greed or passion or intellectual pride.

* The central problem with human society is the same that it has always been — there aren't enough "racists" in the sense of people who regard us all as members of the human race first and foremost.

* A "code of ethics" is always slackly enforced, if at all, in a group that has an identity of interest; the interest corrupts the code rather than the code policing the interest.

* In fewer than a dozen words, Santayana summed up what it takes most of us a lifetime to learn, when he observed: "The length of things is vanity, only their height is joy."

* Most of what we call "explanation" is merely reduction to the familiar — and such reduction often distorts more than it clarifies.

* WE SAY carelessly that a melody is "composed of certain notes in a certain order," yet the melody is something quite different from a combination of notes, because you can transpose to another key in which every single note is different, and the melody remains the same.

Ehrlichman Book Basis for 'Doors'

By JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Ehrlichman, the ex-Nixon aide now in the slammer, once wrote a novel, "The Company." ABC made it the basis of a $7.5 million TV flick, "Washington: Behind Closed Doors."

With ABC expecting a Roots-like rating, the first "Doors" open tonight, the rest Wednesday through Sunday with a fastpaced pageant of D.C. power illegalities, love, fear and loathing, even an embassy party. (Channel 7, 8:30 p.m.)

The series ends with a Watergate-type bugging, begins with an election scramble touched off by the surprise announcement of a Johnsonesque president (Griffith) that he's too ill to seek a second term.

TV REVIEW

The bad new xcomes tonight as CIA director William Martin (Robertson) sits in his plush, carpeted office, partly watching what he thought would be a routine presidential speech on national television.

DURING THIS TIME, the CIA chief also is discussing with two aides various CIA business — including a secret $20 million, 3,500-man counter-insurgency program in Southeast Asia. Which is Hot Stuff. The big news surprises him. He goes home, broods, tells his wife, Linda (Lois Nettleton), who also has seen the announcement on TV.

As we quickly learn, she's the president's ex-lover . . . and still cares for the old rascal. This distresses Martin, likewise a somewhat indelicate statement by Griffith the next day in the Oval Office.

THERE, AFTER DISCUSSING BUSINESS, he urges the CIA boss to start a family soon, adding: "Linda's a passionate girl. Go home and make a baby." This is known as the old flame angle.

The business angle concerns the secret Primula Report that could ruin Martin, as it concerns his part in assassinations of foreign leaders during a previous administration. Which is Extremely Hot Stuff.

Griffith seeks the illegal aid of the CIA in getting his chosen successor in office — in return for stashing the report from hostiles.

BUT WHEN A RIVAL-PARTY senator (Robards), whose aide de-campaign is Vaughn, starts leading in the presidential polls, Martin . . . well, many machinations mount, and good luck in keeping track of them.

Then a marriage collapses, a love affairs commences, an illegal $250,000 campaign contribution arrives and Robards, cast as a Nixon-like hater of the effete Eastern Establishment, is elected president.

THE SHOW IS GOOD, WITH deft touches of reality, and the acting is excellent, particularly that of Robards and Robertson. Despite their work and a tolerable script, though, I have a feeling "Doors" is going to bomb in ratings during its six-night run.

Jobs Unique

Brown Aides Supply Ideas

By DOUG WILLIS

Occupation: creator of the "Whole Earth Catalogue," temporary consultant, office of the governor. Duties: orchestrate Whale Day for the governor.

WHEN JERRY BROWN WAS campaigning for governor, he promised to bring new people and different ideas into state government.

BARZAGHI

But a few of the circle around Brown lived up to his promise. Indeed, they probably wouldn't be found working in any other state Capitol.

Take Brian Victoria. Victoria, who directs the governor's intern program, has a degree in Buddhist social ethics and says he was ordained in Japan as a Buddhist priest before he was deported for antiwar activism.

ASKED IF HE THOUGHT IT strange that a Buddhist priest is working in state government, Victoria replied with a slight smile: "Some people find it hard to believe Jerry Brown is in the system, too."

But Jerry Brown is very much in the system. Even critics who can't stand his politics often admire his tactical abilities in the world of power, deals, compromises and posturing.

CHATFIELD

And one of Brown's favorite ploys is to surround himself with a host of different voices — tugging him politically this way and that.

With one hand he'll have Victoria running his intern program. With the other, he will have a conservative Republican Vietnam veteran, who lost an arm and leg in the war, lobbying for him in the legislature.

But back to the cast of characters.

THERE'S RUSTY SCHWEICKART, THE Apollo 9 astronaut who was the first man to walk in space free of a space ship.

Today the lanky, red-headed Schweickart — on loan from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — practices meditation and works as an adviser to Brown and his cabinet members on space, energy and related technologies.

PROCUNIER

Across the hall from Schweickart is Jacques Barzaghi French-born former actor, former assistant film director, former sea navigator, connoisseur of the arts. Today he is secretary to the governor's cabinet and special assistant to Brown.

ANOTHER BROWN TROUBLESHOOTER IS Ray Procunier, an earthy, tough-talking former prison guard who worked his way up to chief of California's prison system under former Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Procunier is now deputy director of the Department of Health, the agency Brown has labeled as most in need of a shaking up. He says his lack of background in the health field is an asset in shaking up the department.

And from time to time, Brown hires Stewart Brand, creator of the "Whole Earth Catalog," as a temporary consultant.

The impact of these aides on state government is hard to assess. In most cases, it can be measured only in the ideas that Brown adopts from them.

New Gadget Aids Forecasters

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Electronic weather forecasting equipment that will help the skipper of America's Cup defender Courageous predict wind shifts and sea conditions has been installed at the Kings Point Syndicate headquarters.

The radio facsimile marine weather chart recorder, worth more than $3,000, produces a surface map of weather patterns showing atmospheric and wind conditions, sea conditions, storm movements and even ice flows from 12 different sending stations on the north Atlantic.

Armand Bouchard — service representative of the electronics firm that installed the device, which is about the size of a typewriter — said "the weather charts can help the crews of the 12-meter yachts prepare for storms, tropical depressions, squalls and fog."

"Special purpose charts provide sea surface temperatures as well as information on salinity and currents," Bouchard said.

"I think skippers Ted Turner (of Courageous) and Ted Hood (of Independence) will be at a big advantage having this information available to them before the start of every race," he said.

Star Champ Wins Fifth

KIEL, West Germany (AP) — American Dennis Connor, already 1977 World Star Class Sailing champion, won his fifth event in a row Friday, the final run in the six-day Kiel regatta.

Connor, a 34-year-old San Diego businessman, became champion Thursday after four straight wins in five days, which gave him an unsurpassable point lead. It is the first time in recent memory that any has ever won five events in six Star Class championship races.

Barton Beek of Los Angeles was third best American competitor overall by overcoming in fifth on Friday to grab 361 points for the 13th spot in the standings. His son, Charles, was 11th for 345 points and 16th slot.

Winds Whip Race

Bright Star First in Wild Regatta

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Daily Pilot Boating Writer

The annual Labor Day weekend San Clemente Island race, co-sponsored by Dana Point Yacht Club and Silver Gate Yacht Club of San Diego, for the first four years could be counted on to be somewhat of a drifting match.

Things changed dramatically Saturday and Sunday when the fifth race was blasted by 35-40 knot winds for almost the entire 134-mile distance from Dana Point around San Clemente Island to San Diego.

The race started Saturday at Dana Point and before it was half over one yacht had been dismasted, a crewman on one of the yachts was taken to Avalon Hospital for severe head injuries, and at least three others — skippers and crews alike — suffered broken ribs and other minor injuries as they battled gusty winds and heavy seas down the back side of San Clemente Island.

THE DISMASTED yacht was Saga, a Coronado-30. There were no injuries in that mishap. But a crewman on the yacht Independence suffered a severe head gash when he was struck by a flying winch handle.

The Independence crewman was given emergency treatment at Avalon Community Hospital and later released. Those with minor injuries on other yachts remained in the race.

The first yacht to finish was the Ericson-46 Bright Star, skippered by Mel Wills, San Diego Yacht Club. She finished at 11:34 a.m. Monday for an elapsed time of 24.9280 hours, just short of the record of 24.5653 hours set by the Ericson-46 Invader in the 1976 race.

DESPITE THE weather problems, the race has been growing in popularity. This year's race drew 75 starters.

'PEOPLE-MOVER' UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT ATLANTA AIRPORT
Facility Will House Underground Trains, Moving Sidewalks

Atlanta Terminal: Case of Catching Up

ATLANTA (AP) — Olympic marathoner Frank Shorter, in Atlanta for a long-distance race, told reporters he'd never run here before. But then he added, "Of course I've run that 10-mile loop around Atlanta airport. Everybody who changes planes does."

It's a familiar, if exaggerated, complaint for the 27 million non-marathoners who came through one of the world's busiest airports last year, a majority of them stopping only to change planes.

OFFICIALS HOPE TO SATISY THEIR complaints — and others — with the $400 million terminal and plane concourse beginning to take shape near the patched-up, outgrown present terminal at Hartsfield International Airport.

The airlines estimate passenger traffic through Atlanta — a hub connecting flights among hundreds of cities — will rise to 55 million by the late 1980s.

The facility is designed to handle that many passengers with ease, providing them with large parking lots near the two-building terminal, zipping them to plane concourses as much as a mile away on underground trains and moving sidewalks

TRAVEL

Or so the designers say.

A PASSENGER RUNNING TO CATCH a connecting flight still could face as much as a half-mile on foot, but that's not as bad as some jaunts to far-flung gates at the present terminal

Passengers and pilots alike will cheer the new terminal's location between major runways, a location that will end the current need for many planes to cross a major runway to reach their gates.

Eventually, airport planners expect to slice off the ends of the present terminal building — and lop off its top few floors — to make room for a fourth major runway and provide a good approach for it.

THE NEW AIRPLANE CONCOURSES ARE expected to be expanded from the original 104 gates — capable of parking 104 "jumbo jets" at once — to 135 gates..

The new facilities are scheduled to open in 1981 — and the new terminal at present is no more than plans on paper, a little concrete and a lot of dirt and dust.

Bulldozers and other earth-moving machines work long days at the site, which is mostly on property that was already within the confines of the present airport.

Squabbles about city demands for black participation in contracts delayed the start of construction for months, but the dry summer that has hurt Georgia farmers has helped the airport construction crews get back on schedule.

TWO STRIKING SIGNS OF THE progress are a mountain of dirt piled up by the machines and a long trench where the "people-mover" subway is becoming recognizable.

The infield construction has caused a few headaches for air controllers "having to open and close taxiways, switch planes around," but in general there has been little disruption for scheduled flights, said John Braden of the city's aviation department.

The airlines agree.

Some airlines, which will foot the bill for most of the construction cost, were slow to give approval for the project which was first proposed a decade ago, just a few years after the 1961 dedication of the present terminal.

BUT THE AIRLINES ARE SOLIDLY committed now, and Braden said airline leases have been signed for all 104 gates.

City officials have been solidly behind the project for years and also have pushed for a second major airport.

The need — or desire — for expanded airline facilities in Atlanta is due to its nearly unique status as a connecting point. It is significant that the world's busiest airport — Chicago's O'Hare International — also serves as a hub for flight connections.

Several airlines — Delta and Eastern in particular — have found it profitable to plan their routes around Atlanta, thereby choking the Atlanta airport with travelers who never set foot on Georgia soil.

"SEVENTY PERCENT OF THE people coming through here get off one plane and get on another," Braden said.

Without that relay traffic, the present airport would be just fine, but the city wants the traffic for a wide variety of reasons ranging from economic considerations to a feeling that it lends "major-league" status to the city.

And it also provides Atlanta residents with as good air service as any city in the world, Braden said.

Atlanta may be only a stop on a New Yorker's journey to Miami, but that connection status means an Atlantan has a number of nonstop flights to both those cities.

ATLANTANS CAN REACH 100 CITIES nonstop on scheduled flights and more than 140 with nonstops or one-stops, Braden said.

And that access is bound to expand if the government agrees to one of a number of airline requests for nonstop service between Atlanta and London. That would make Atlanta a jumping-off place for international flights originating throughout the South and West.

City officials who relish the situation say that despite the current expansion at Hartsfield, a second major airport is a necessity for the Atlanta area before the end of the century.

IN FACT, THE CITY HAS purchased land at two possible sites 30 or more miles north of Atlanta.

But work on a second airport has been held up by long, detailed federal procedures, by residents' protests that they don't want jets scaring their farm animals, by Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson's hopes to locate the second airport south of the current one which is south of the city.

And, as airport manager Grady Ridgeway said, the final go-ahead for the Hartsfield project has taken the "umph" out of pressures to build the second airfield quickly.

TDMs Top of the Trade

Apprenticeship Takes Time, Wages Low

By JOYCE L. KENNEDY

CAREERS

Dear Joyce: I am a 38-year-old woman and have five children. Soon I will be their sole support. I am interested in tool and die making. Is this on-the-job training or taught in schools?
—S.D., La Porte, Texas.

Tool and die makers (TDMs) are classed as skilled workers. They rank at the top of the machine trades in pay and prestige.

Many journeyman TDMs earn in the $7.50-$10.00 an hour range, although this is not true for every tool and die making job in all parts of the country.

WHILE RELATED, TOOL making and die making actually are separate crafts; within them, some analysts count as many as 25 different specialities, ranging from diesinkers in metalworking industries to moldmakers in plastics.

Tool makers produce and repair jigs and fixtures — devices to hold metal while it's being worked on. Die makers construct and repair dies — metal forms — used for the mass production of parts.

A four-year apprenticeship is said to be the best preparation.

(IN YOUR SITUATION, S.D., you may not be able to support your family at the start because apprentice pay begins at half that of journeyman wages.)

Apprenticeship is undergoing change, so get in-depth advice from the U.S. Labor Department's Apprenticeship Information Centers, located in dozens of major cities. Two more sources of information: state apprenticeship agencies, and state public employment service offices.

A special pre-job training program for metalworking industries operates in 25-30 cities; the program is continuous in some cities, in others it's given at intervals. It's for low-income, unemployed people, and operated by the National Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association with federal funds.

FOR 12 WEEKS YOU'RE given a crash course in shop math, blueprint reading, and the like. You're paid about $60 a week and helped to find an entry level machining job when you're finished, from which you may be able to enter an apprenticeship program.

Ask your public employment service office for details.

Another approach is to attend a vocational school, then get on-job training. For school leads, contact your state department of education, division of vocational education; any high school counselor can give you the address in your state.

READER SERVICE: To obtain a free copy of "The Making of a Machinist," 18 pages, published by the National Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association, send your postcard request to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Allow several weeks for delivery. This offer ends Dec. 1.

Let Us Help

...A father discovers his adolescent daughter is experimenting with drugs. He doesn't know what to do.
...A lonely wife sobs into a pillow. Her marriage is breaking up. Her elderly parents have become a burden. She can't cope.
...A middle-aged man with a good job shakes uncontrollably as he reaches for a bottle of booze. He tried to stop drinking, but failed.

These scenes are common everyday experiences. All of us have problems and we search for their solutions. Sometimes we succeed. Other times we can't. Then we need professional help. Where to find this help can become a problem. PROBLEM TALK SHOP helps people find answers to their problems.

PROBLEM TALK SHOPS are free counseling and referral services located in Orange County.

PROBLEM TALK SHOPS are here to offer you help through counseling and referral. There is no charge for our service to you. We refer to both public and private agencies in Orange County. Facilities to care for individuals are available on a 24-hour basis. That means we can help you whenever you need help. Appointments are not necessary. If you prefer to make an appointment, day and evening hours are available. (Office hours: 8:30 a.m. — 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. In extreme emergencies, a counselor can be reached after 5:00 p.m., and on weekends.)

Let Us Help With:

Crisis Intervention —When a problem is so big or complex that you are unable to see alternatives, talking with a professional may help.

Marital Discord — A counselor helps establish a starting point and guidance for husband and wife.

Adolescent Problems — The years 14 through 18 are trying for the young person as well as his parents, learning to communicate is one of the basic steps a counselor can help bring about.

Single Parent Problems — The single parent may often feel ignored in a couple-oriented society. Trying to be two people, mother and father, can be too difficult for one person to handle.

Geriatric Problems — Sometimes a senior citizen parent needs tender loving care away from the family, specialized nursing care, or a place to live with others near his or her own age, and the children who make these decisions must learn how to cope with their feelings of guilt.

Alcohol and Drug Problems — More and more people are becoming dependent on alcohol and other drugs. Specialized medical care and a treatment program are needed.

Individual Psychiatric Problems — Sometimes we feel that our world is caving in on us. Tension, anxiety, and fear may keep us from coping effectively with everyday life. Psychiatric help may be your first step toward healthy living.

HOST 'FATHER' OVERSEES TECHNIQUES

Luck Doubles For Lagunan

(Editor's note: this article was prepared by the Australian Information Service.)

When Craig French, high school student and part-time sculptor, returns to Laguna Beach after a year's stay in Australia, he will leave behind something more tangible than fond memories.

At least one of his sculptures, a "fun thing" of his host "father," Australian sculptor Alan Ingham, will have a permanent place in the home of his host family.

CRAIG, 18, THE SON OF MR. and Mrs. Lee French of 980 Bluebird Canyon, Laguna Beach, shrugs off the work as a "family joke, like a caricature sketch."

But Ingham agrees with his wife, a school teacher, who says the work really "captures" her husband.

"It's so much like Alan when he's bending over his work it's ridiculous," she says.

Craig, who has been living with the Inghams and their three daughters in their Sydney home since January on an American Field Service scholarship, describes himself as "double lucky."

"WHEN AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE International told me I was one of 82 students selected to go to Australia, I thought I was lucky to be going to what seemed such an interesting country," he said.

"But my host 'father' being a sculptor was really a bonus."

Although Craig did not know it at the time, Ingham is one of Australia's leading sculptors in metal and has worked and studied for more than four years under the great English sculptor, Henry Moore.

Like Ingham, Craig works in metal. While in Australia, he sold three works to pay for oxy-acetylene gas for welding work on other, more serious projects, including a kinetic energy sculpture which incorporates moving balls in a metal framework of tracks.

"MY RELATIONSHIPS WITH THE family are truly like those of a family, but my relationship with Alan in artistic terms has been a fantastic one," Craig said.

"We relate completely and openly, and although Alan has so much more experience and has taught me so much, he is too much of an artist to impose his opinions or suggestions on me.

"I am learning in free discussion and exchange and, when he answers my questions, he is never patroning or condescending."

Craig will complete a full year of school before he returns home in January, 1978. He is in his senior year at Pittwater High School near the Ingham home at Newport, a northern suburb of Sydney.

THE HOME, WITHIN FIVE MILES of six ocean beaches, is set in forest land overlooking Pittwater, one of Sydney's most popular power and sailboat areas.

Craig said that although he had to work at school to adjust to what he felt was a greater emphasis on academic work in the Australian school system, he had settled in comfortably.

Mrs. Ingham said Craig's latest school report noted that he had "charmed all his teachers" and that an earlier worry about adjusting to the Australian system of teaching English had been overcome.

Crippled Wing Can't Stop the Bird's Tune

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Today's important television news is that Howard Cosell is in no immediate danger of losing his post as ABC's chief baseball analyst.

The network of the Olympics — and, by the way, this year's World Series — celebrated its final Monday night baseball telecast before post-season time by introducing to the television booth one Mark Fidrych, once a famous pitcher for the Detroit Tigers.

Fidrych's arm is on baseball's disabled list. But there is nothing wrong with his larynx. So, ABC hired him to do its expert analysis on one of its regional telecasts, with Al Michaels handling play-by-play for the Minnesota-Texas game.

It is safe to report that the Bird will not receive an Emmy for his debut.

He was, of course, beautiful. Resplendent in a yellow ABC blazer and Harpo Marx hairdo, Fidrych looked cute as a button. One ABC technician in New York, unfamiliar with the Bird, wondered if he was wearing a wig. But the curls were natural and so was the trace of a beard that Fidrych is cultivating.

Michaels introduced the Bird as "a refugee from Disneyland," but Fidrych seemed determined to prove how serious he could be. He carried it off, too, for about three innings.

Then, ex-teammate Willie Horton — all 205 pounds of him — tried to steal second and the Bird couldn't suppress a laugh. "That's weird . . . seeing Willie run with his body," he said.

When Daye May came to bat for the Rangers, Michaels asked if Fidrych knew him.

"No, I never met him," said the Bird.

"Well, he's the guy Atlanta got when they traded Hank Aaron," pointed out Michaels. "Don't forget that, now."

"Ask me again in about four innings and I probably won't remember," confessed the Bird.

Fidrych, as you might expect, was deeply involved in the pitching. On a couple of Minnesota hits, he shouted into the mike, "Hey, he hung that one." Then, looking for the replay like a good broadcaster should, he advised the audience to "watch this one." The problem was that the wrong replay came up. Sorry, Bird.

Before the game, Fidrych had visited on the field with the players and talked particularly to Bert Campaneris of the Rangers. Campy missed his first swing in a strategy maneuver by Texas manager Billy Hunter, who let Lou Beasley bat in the leadoff slot before inserting Campaneris to play shortstop.

"I talked to him earlier about it," reported Fidrych dutifully, "but I couldn't understand what he was saying."

Oh.

Later, the conversation in the booth turned to Richie Hebner of the Philadelphia Phillies. "Who's Richie Hebner?" asked Fidrych.

"You really don't know who Hebner is?" said Michaels, sounding slightly bewildered. "He's the Phillies' first baseman. Do you just follow

TOM WEISKOPF GRIMACES AFTER MISSING A PUTT.

Unruly Tennis Fans Win; So Does Vilas at Open

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — They had watched Tracy Austin, Harold Solomon and Virginia Wade, but the fans at center court at the $462,420 U.S. Open Tennis Championships weren't going home without seeing Guillermo Vilas.

A chanting crowd of more than 12,000 clapped, stamped its feet and yelled Monday until tournament officials with scheduling problems relented, agreeing to bring on Vilas and Jose Higueras.

"We won't go," they cried. "We want Vilas."

They braved a thunderstorm, waited for the court to dry and watched a steady, unemotional Vilas dispatch Higueras 6-3, 6-1.

Earlier Monday, the 14-year-old Austin overcame the scorching forehand of Virginia Ruzici for a 6-3, 7-5 victory, and Billie Jean King needed a tie-breaker to eliminate ninth-seeded Kerry Reid 6-1, 3-6, 7-6.

Wade, the Wimbledon champion and No. 3 seed, rallied to beat Fiorella Bonicelli 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

No. 5 Betty Stove defeated Kathy Kuykendall 6-3, 6-0, reaching the quarter-finals against Austin. No. 2 Martina Navratilova beat Tanya Harford 6-0, 6-2; No. 6 Rosie Casals eliminated Brigitte Cuypers 6-2, 1-6, 6-2, and No. 10 Mima Jausovec ousted Janet Newberry 6-1, 6-2.

Solomon, the 12th seed, upset eighth-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis 7-6, 6-3. The women's No. 12 seed, Wendy Turnbull, downed Barbara Jordan of King 6-4, 6-3.

Vilas and Higueras were kept waiting in the wings as tournament officials changed their mind several times about whether the match would be played before the daytime crowd. Officials had wanted to reschedule the match for night when the day matches ran longer than expected. There is a separate charge for night admission and the afternoon crowd knew it.

Finally, rain delayed the match until night, and the Chris Evert-Nancy Richey match that had been scheduled for the evening was postponed until today. Both players had eaten during the delay and Higueras said playing on a full stomach had made him uncomfotable.

"I think it's very nice," the 25-year-old Vilas said of the crowd's insistence on seeing him. "Better they say that than 'We hate Vilas.' I was happy, for sure."

Vilas was brilliant in the second set, and 30-40 in the final game, he blistered Higueras with a winner down the line.

Higueras dropped his racquet in amazement and applauded his opponent.

"I worked so hard for four or five hits from one side to the other," Higueras said. "I didn't see how he could do that."

Tiny Tracy, the innocent-looking ball of fire from Rolling Hills, had a far more difficult time against Ruzici than she had against fourth-seeded Sue Barker Sunday.

In the second set, she answered Ruzici's forehand with drives to her opponent's backhand and with lobs designed to slow the pace.

LA's Garvey In Groove, Ends Slump

LOS ANGELES (AP) — All is back to normal for Steve Garvey who "just kept swinging and went back to the basics" while trying to end the worst slump of his major league career.

Garvey snapped out of the well-publicized slump in the most explosive way imaginable Aug. 28 with two home runs, three doubles, five runs scored and five runs batted in as Los Angeles clobbered St. Louis, 11-0.

Since then, the Dodgers' 28-year-old first baseman has been his usual consistent self, picking up nine hits in 24 at-bats with seven rbi.

During the first half of the 1977 season, Garvey, who collected 200 hits in each of the past three years, was doing as well as ever at the plate.

His batting average reached a high of .316 on July 3, and in addition to hitting for a high average he was showing more power than ever before.

Suddenly, things went sour. Garvey's average slowly fell to .276 by Aug. 28, including one streak of 22 games without an rbi. During one stretch he had only nine hits in 73 at-bats.

"It's just a period that catches up with everybody," said the powerfully built 5-10, 185-pounder. "I was fortunate to avoid any kind of a lengthy slump the past three years.

"You just keep swinging and go back to the basics. I never questioned my ability. There were times when I just wondered when it was going to end. I usually have one or two little slumps during a season. I don't think about slumps, I think about streaks."

After the Aug. 28 explosion, Garvey is back up to .287. He has 157 hits, 29 of them homers, and 101 rbi.

Garvey's chances of accumulating 200 hits for a fourth straight year are slim. He needs 43 in the remaining 26 games.

"It's going to be tough, but who knows?"

Wadkins Still in Shock

World Series of Golf Winner Pockets $100,000

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Lanny Wadkins still is in a state of shock.

The 27-year-old Virginian, his career threatened by a gall bladder operation less than three years ago, has won the PGA and the World Series of Golf titles and $145,000 in the last month.

"It hasn't really hit me," Wadkins said after his record-breaking 65-267 total over the feared Firestone South course.

"The PGA still hasn't sunk in. I hear them announce, 'PGA champion' and I look around to wonder who in the heck it is."

Someone suggested Wadkins' playoff victory over Gene Littler in the PGA might have been a fluke.

"I never felt the PGA was a fluke," he answered. "If anybody else does, I don't care. I feel I'm back where I belong."

Even a record-tying 29 by playing partner Tom Weiskopf, six-under par on Firestone South's front nine, failed to rattle him Monday.

"I thought I put all the pressure I could on him. Lanny played perfect, fantastic golf. He never looked worried. That's why he's the champion," said Weiskopf, who finished in a tie for second place with Hale Irwin.

Weiskopf matched Wadkins' final-round 65. Irwin, one stroke behind the winner going into the last 18 holes on the hot, humid day, shot a 69. He and Weiskopf had 272 and earned $35,000.

Weiskopf birdied six of the first eight holes and was even with Wadkins at nine-under-par. Still, the former Wake Forest College star was unshaken.

"I told Tom, 'This is really fun. I'm having a ball.' It didn't surprise me. I've played with Tom a lot and have seen him do it before. When he plays like that, he's something to behold," said Wadkins.

"I was really pouring on the coals. I wasn't backing off. I hoped I could just hang on and something would happen."

It did. Weiskopf unleashed one of his booming tee shots at nine. Wadkins sent his drive 35 yards farther down the fairway, a total of 308 yards.

"Tom told me, "I think there's something wrong with this ball. He was serious. He declared the ball unplayable," said Wadkins.

Moments later, Wadkins sank a 15-foot birdie putt and regained the lead, at 10-under-par. Weiskopf parred from 25 feet at No. 9. He never challenged seriously again. Wadkins was ahead to stay.

Lezcano Fells Halos

Takes Wrap Off Injured Hand

Sixto Lezcano felt an anticipatory throbbing in his left hand before his Milwaukee Brewers' game with the California Angels Monday night.

The Milwaukee outfielder's hand had been broken July 22 and he had missed 49 games.

"I didn't know if I could play tonight," he said. But play he did — slamming a seventh-inning home run over the centerfield wall to give the Brewers a 6-5 victory at Anaheim Stadium.

"The hand hurt," he said, "so I wrapped it with tape before the game. I said to heck with it before I hit the home run and took the wrap off. It was a 3-1 pitch so I knew he (pitcher Wayne Simpson) had to come in to me."

The victory enabled Jim Slaton to snap a five-game losing streak. Slaton, 9-14, required relief from Bob McClure and Eduardo Rodriguez.

Angels starter Frank Tanana lasted only six innings, going down to his ninth loss against 15 victories.

"I've been working very hard since I got hurt," said Lezcano. "I didn't know if I could play the rest of this season. I was working hard to get ready for winter ball."

Stars, Spikers Vie at Santa Ana

The Santa Barbara Spikers, winners of five of six previous starts with the Orange County Stars, tangle with the Stars tonight at Santa Ana College in the International Volleyball Association semifinals.

It starts at 7:30 and the winner advances to the finals . this weekend against Wednesday's winner between El Paso-Juarez and Denver.

The Stars finished 20-16 for the regular season, one game ahead of Santa Barbara in the Western Division.

Padres Star Pumped Up

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Bob Owchinko didn't get to say 'Hi Mom' on television, but the 22-year-old San Diego Padres rookie did prove something to those who say he's too young.

The left-handed pitcher held the Los Angeles Dodgers, who produced 24 hits over the weekend, to two hits as the Padres won 1-0 Monday.

"I was pumped up. My adrenalin was running," Owchinko said after the regionally televised game. "I thought it was a national telecast and that my folks in Detroit would get to see it. Then I found out it was only a regional telecast and I felt like I was going out to pitch a B game in spring training."

Owchinko pitched his team's fourth complete game and his second in 23 starts, bringing up his record to 8-9. He struck out six, mixing sliders, curves and fastballs.

"I want to even my record up," he said, "and then set a goal of 20 wins for next year. I'm here to do a job. I'm tired of hearing how young I am, of people making excuses for rookie mistakes.

"If you can shut out the best team in the league . . ."

The game was not as satisfying for Doug Rau, who was 11-1 at the All-star break but is now 13-6. He held the Padres to four hits and an unearned run.

The run came in the third. Gene Richards hit a single and stole second. Bill Almon singled, sending Richards to third. Rau tried to pick Almon off first, but Dodgers first baseman Steve Garvey chased Almon towards second and threw over second baseman Davey Lopes, allowing Almon to reach second and Richards to score.

Rau, however, said he was not unhappy about his loss.

"The pitching I do this month will be like spring training for the playoffs," he said. "I feel like I'm in a good groove now and that's my goal."

FOUNTAIN VALLEY HIGH STAR WILLIE GITTENS.

Gittens Leads Talented List of Returnees

There are few secrets at Fountain Valley High School where the Barons are considered as tough—maybe eventually better—than the 1976 football unit which racked up a 10-2 record.

Coach Bruce Pickford's Fountain Valley eleven is considered No. 3 in CIF Southern Section circles by a national prep magazine and that may be a little conservative.

To begin with the Barons have 5-11 senior Willie Gittens at tailback, a 175-pound, 9.9 speedster with excellent moves. He was a second team All-CIF choice last year and Pickford says: "The only back I saw last year that was better than Willie was Darrin Nelson of Pius X High (Downey).

"Gittens really looks good at this point. He's faster, stronger and better than last year. He's older and has more confidence now. He could be our franchise."

Two of Pickford's concerns are at tackle and considering what's available in the form of talent, it's a good indicator of Pickford's worries in relation to the strength of the Barons.

Among the offensive tackle candidates are Al Koenig (6-4, 232), Steve Sistler (6-3, 200), Pete Chinnici (6-2, 227), Steve Cupp (6-1, 195), Mike Broulliard (5-11, 190), Tucson transfer Mike Freeman (6-2, 200), Russ Heidesch (205), Steve Johnson (210) and Jose Kaufman (210).

Defensive tackle begins with center Bryan Caldwell (6-5, 215 sr.) Heidesch, Sistler and Mitch Finklea possibles. "We'll platoon a little at tackle, but we're still looking for the right combinations," says Pickford.

Gittens is not the only outstanding player in the fold in the skilled positions. There is receiver Tim Holmes (6-3), 205 sr.), who doubles in the secondary with returning starters Ron Padilla (5-9, 170 sr.) and Stan Shibata (5-11, 170 sr.). Also at defensive back is Tom Shaw, an excellent candidate who can also fill in at quarterback.

At quarterback is senior Doug Thompson (6-4, 180), who guided the Barons to seven wins in the last nine games. Thompson showed last year he's capable of doing the job and the Barons have Gil Compton available.

Compton is up from the sophomore team and although many of Pickford's aces lack varsity experience, this fact remains: Of the 35 returning seniors, they have lost only twice in the past three years (undefeated as freshmen and sophomores). The juniors in this same cycle have never lost.

Backing Caldwell at center is Greg Barrios. The kicking game is questionable, but four candidates include Dave Larson, John Hall, Bob Campbell and Scott Steinke.

The Barons lost plenty at linebacker to graduation (Bo Boxold), but Larry Budgen is back and Pastizzo, Henigman, Dan Dennis and Jim Freeman should fill the gaps.

Stanton, Carlos Reyes and John Nicholson are returning lettermen at defensive end and Barrios also figures there.

Wood, Mike Fanoga, Mike Harbottle and Mitch Finklea are the leading middle guard candidates in a field of 80 as the Barons continue preparations for the 1977 campaign.

Saturday's scrimmage with Santa Ana Valley is set for 7 p.m. at Huntington Beach High.

Falcons Win, 24-16

KANSAS CITY — Steve Bartkowski, playing with his injured right knee in a brace, converted three Kansas City turnovers into third-quarter scoring drives and sparked the Atlanta Falcons to a 24-16 National Football League exhibition victory over the Chiefs Monday night.

Bartkowski, who was hurt in Atlanta's victory over Tampa Bay last week, sat out the first half while reserve quarterback Kim McQuilken managed just one touchdown as the Chiefs built a 16-7 lead.

It's a Wire-to-wire Victory for Ancient Title

DEL MAR (AP) — Ancient Title goes on and on like Old Man River, but the Pacific Ocean probably cost him a world record.

The 7-year-old gelding fooled his eight rivals and many in the crowd of 21,062 Monday with his wire-to-wire victory in the $100,000 invitational Del Mar Handicap.

The elderly runner shattered the track record for the Crosby Course, which is 120 feet less than one and one-quarter miles because a highway and a railroad track run between Del Mar and the ocean, so the chute can't be of regulation length.

While favorite Crystal Water was turtle slow getting out of the gate, Ancient Title broke first and won in 1:55 2/5, breaking the record of 1:56 3/5 set in 1971 by Kobuk King.

Del Mar officials estimate that at his winning pace, Ancient Title would have gone the full 1¼ miles in 1:57 4/5, compared to the world record of 1:58 1/5 shared by Noor and Quack.

Valbuena Waived; Carlton Wins 20th

MIAMI — The Miami Dolphins have added 10-year veteran Steve Spurrier at quarterback behind Bob Griese and to make room, have waived former Fountain Valley High and Orange Coast College star Gary Valbuena.

For Valbuena, Miami's No. 3 quarterback, it's the second time the Dolphins have let him go after a trade to Tampa Bay in 1976.

Griese experienced blurred vision in the Dolphins' 17-10 exhibition win loss to New Orleans Saturday. Spurrier won the Heisman Trophy in 1966 while at the University of Florida, but has spent most of the past nine years on the San Francisco 49ers bench.

Carlton Triumphs

PITTSBURGH — Steve Carlton became major league baseball's first 20-game winner of the 1977 season Monday, scattering seven hits in eight innings and rapping a home run, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to an 11-1 romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates and a doubleheader split.

Pittsburgh won the first game 3-1.

Carlton, 20-8 overall and 3-0 against Pittsburgh, got all the runs he needed in the second inning on Jay Johnstone's two-run homer off loser Bruce Kison, 7-8.

Nabs Amateur Title

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. — John Fought of Tualatin, Ore., took a giant step toward an impending pro golf career Monday by winning the 77th annual U.S. Amateur golf championship 9 and 8 over outclassed Doug Fischesser, the Connersville, Ind., greenskeeper.

Hot Idea Wins

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Hot Idea, who had won only $2,460 in her brief racing career, ran away with the $330,000 first prize in the 19th running of the $1.03 million All-American Quarter Horse Futurity Monday by outrunning favored Town Policy over the final 100 yards.

Munson to SD

SAN DIEGO — Quarterback Bill Munson, waived by Seattle after playing for the Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions, is joining San Diego, the Chargers said today.

the American League?"

"I don't follow no league," explained the Bird.

"Harry and Barbara who?" wondered the Bird.

Now you know Howard would never have said that.

Michaels moaned ever so slightly and went back to the old ball game.

There were the predictable technical problems that occur when you put a pitcher in the broadcast booth. The microphone is not a baseball and so Fidrych wasn't used to talking to it.

Early in the game, a director coaxed him to "speak up when you talk," and he replied "Okay." The problem was that the booth mikes were on and the directions went out over the air. Later, the Bird got too close to his mike and the result was some distortion.

The Bird's best moment came mid way through the game when the camera in the booth went on and Michaels found himself alone. A moment later, Fidrych returned.

"Where'd you go," asked the play-by-play man.

Fidrych hesitated for a moment and then, deciding that honesty was the best policy, replied.

"I had to go to the commode," he said.

He's not the first guy in the press box to miss a pitch because of that.

PALOS VERDES — A 22-year-old Santa Clara woman has broken Greta Andersen's 1958 record for swimming across the Catalina Channel both ways.

Penny Dean swam the 52 miles in 20 hours and three minutes Monday, beating Anderson's time by six hours and 5 minutes.

Red Skelton's tried some cigars that are more expensive than House of Windsor Palmas, but never one that's better.
The reason is that our Palmas are made from only the choicest imported filler tobaccos and then carefully wrapped in specially selected Honduran natural or candela leaf.
The result: quality and value rolled into one rich, smooth-smoking cigar. House of Windsor Palmas, shapely Sportsman or full-sized Panatelas—they've got the kind of taste that could make you forget you ever smoked anything else.

Look for this House of Windsor display at your tobacconist.

GENE GURULE

Saddleback Relies on Freshmen

Saddleback College cross country coach Gene Gurule could have gone jogging to recruit most of this year's Gauchos squad.

Two other South Coast League performers from a year ago- Art Van Wie of El Toro and Jim Vasquez of Dana Hills—join returning lettermen Dave Furbee and Dave Tokar in Gurule's attempt to rebuild Saddleback's cross country team after a disappointing fifth place finish in the Mission Conference last year.

Furbee, an El Toro product, was the third man on last year's Gauchos squad and finished 25th in the conference finals. Tokar, who hails from Anaheim, was the No. 4 man on the team and finished 32nd in the conference.

Despite the abundance of freshmen, Gurule feels the Gauchos could be a contender this season even though Chaffey returns all but one runner from its 1976 Mission Conference championship unit. "We have some borderline kids who are supposed to be out but aren't yet," he said. "If they come out, we could be right in there for the conference championship."

However, Gurule is planning his season around those runners now out. "We're going to play it by ear with what we have now," he said. "I had a group running in the mountains that could put it all together if they work. This year, it's whether they come around like I think they can that will determine how well we do. But we do have some pretty good kids out right now."

Walterhouse, a 9:09 two-miler, was second in the 19th South Coast League track finals and in the CIF 3-A cross country finals. Mann, No. 3 on the same Diablos cross country team, is a sub 10 minute two-miler while Borland, out for his first cross country season, is a 1:57 half-miler.

Cook is somewhat of an unknown quality. After competing in track for Saddleback in 1976, he transferred to Orange Coast College last year, didn't compete, and returned to Saddleback this fall where he keeps his freshman status for cross country.

Van Wie was a 4:25 miler as a prepster while Vasquez was the No. 3 man on Dana Hills' harrier squad.

Grid Outlook

Patience Key For Irvine

Patience is the key at Irvine High where the Vaqueros of coach Chuck Sorcabal are preparing for their first year of varsity football competition.

There are a lot of negatives present—no seniors, no returning varsity lettermen, the transfer of two top prospects and a tough schedule. And at the rate work is being done on the stadium, Irvine could be playing afternoon games.

But there is also a goal that is within reasonable reach and the payoff is a berth in the CIF 1-A playoffs.

"The CIF has told us that if we can win six games we'd be eligible for a spot in the playoffs," says Sorcabal, who has a squad of 36 juniors and nine sophomores, but with very little depth.

There are bright spots in the Vaqueros' armor, too, beginning with flanker Gary Jones (5-6, 130, jr), tackle Lynn Buchan (6-2, 205 jr.), guard Art May (5-10, 210 jr.), center and team leader Steve Bodkin (5-11, 160 jr.) and quarterback Herb Thompson (5-10, 160 jr.).

Thompson was an outside linebacker and a receiver as a sophomore, but has experience at quarterback as a freshman.

Running the team out of the veer, Thompson appeared sharp and capable of directing the attack during the summer passing league.

Jones, despite his lack of size, has excellent hands and maneuvers well. With split end James Rudy (6-0, 165 soph.) and tight end Dan Monteverde (6-2, 185 jr.), the Vaqs have good targets for Thompson, who is backed by sophomores Rob Bradbury and Greg Creese.

CHUCK SORCABAL

Three are in the picture for the two halfback slots with juniors Dennis Nickens (5-10, 175) and Sam Clonts (5-8, 150) and sophomore James Rudy (6-0, 165) available.

Buchan is joined at tackle by Okinawa transfer Vinnie Enders (5-10, 210 jr.), John Malloy (5-10, 195 jr.) and May, the strongest on the squad.

Sophomores Steve Renteria (6-0, 195) and Frank Austin (5-10, 165) are at guard and if they can fill the gaps, Malloy will stay at tackle.

Bodkin is a question mark due to a knee operation, however, at center. If he can't return, May will return to the spot he played as a sophomore.

Thompson figures to handle the punting duty, but Irvine's overall kicking game needs a lot of work—especially in placekicking.

Defensively many of the same players are in the picture where Sorcabal has inserted a six-man front, similar to the even front with stunting he learned while playing at Bishop Amat High.

Up front at guard are Malloy, Enders, Austin and Darrell Sprewell (5-10, 160 jr.), while tackle candidates include Bucken and May.

Other defensive aces include sophomore Steve Bills (5-10, 180) at linebacker, Clonts and Swancoat at rover; Jones, Nicken and John Goseco (5-8, 140 jr.) at the corners; and Monteverde or Greg Creese at safety.

Lost are linebacker Damien Watters, who has moved to Arizona and halfback Mark Headlough to Florida. Headlough gained 180 yards in six carries in a sophomore game against Corona in 1976.

An additional problem for the Vaqs is the field situation. The lights may not be ready at Irvine until mid-season and presently the Vaqs must practice off campus at Harvard Athletic Field because facilities at Irvine have not been completed.

Tonight's TV Highlights

NBC 4 8:00 — "The Hindenburg." A dramatization of the spectacular crash of the German zeppelin and the events leading up to it in the TV premiere of this 1975 movie with George C. Scott, Anne Bancroft, Gig Young, Roy Thinnes, Burgess Meredith and Charles Durning.

KTLA 5 8:00 — "Call Me Madam." Ethel Merman recreates her Broadway role as the ambassador to a tiny European country in this 1953 movie musical with Donald O'Connor.

ROBARDS

CBS 2 8:30 — "Logan's Run." The sci-fi movie that inspired the upcoming TV series from the 23rd century where people over 30 are not only not trusted — they're terminated. Michael York and Jenny Agutter star with Peter Ustinov, Roscoe Lee Browne and Farrah Fawcett-Majors.

ABC 7 8:30 — "Washington: Behind Closed Doors." Part I of the six-consecutive-day drama on power politics in the nation's capital, based on John Erlichman's novel "The Company." Stars include Jason Robards (as the president), Cliff Robertson, Stefanie Powers, Robert Vaughn, Barry Nelson and John Houseman.

'Odd Couple' Returns

If you missed "The Odd Couple" at the Harlequin last month, fear not. You can catch it at Sebastian's West Dinner Playhouse in San Clemente, beginning tonight and running through the next two months.

One of Neil Simon's most popular comedies, and the only one to inspire a hit television series, "The Odd Couple" is, understandably, one of the most produced plays on the Orange Coast. At Sebastian's, Michael Collins will play the slob sportswriter and Gwil Richards is cast as his prissy roommate.

Completing the San Clemente cast are Charles St. John, Wayne Madison, Lou Genevrino and John Bernabei as their poker-playing buddies and Carolyn Bowden and Jenny Sharf as the Pigeon sisters.

Directed by Dan Verre, "The Odd Couple" will play nightly except Monday at varying curtain times at Sebastian's, 140 Avenida Pico. Reservations 492-9950.

The six-character musical salute to the showbiz movies of the 1930s and 40s is in the third week of a scheduled five-week run. It's at the Harlequin, 3503 S. Harbor Blvd., just north of the Costa Mesa city line. Reservations 979-5511.

DIRECTOR JOHN WILLIAMS has two community theater productions on the boards, both running weekends through Sept. 24 and 25, respectively. One is "My Daughter's Rated X" for the Huntington Beach Playhouse; the other is "Kiss or Make Up" at the Westminster Community Theater.

Robert Renfrow, Ann Leverett and Patricia Corbett comprise a frustrated family in "My Daughter," on stage Fridays and Sundays only at the Edgewater Hyatt House, Pacific Coast Highway at Westminster Boulevard in Long Beach. Reservations 828-0583.

Intermission
Tom Titus

"Kiss or Make Up," to be reviewed Thursday, spotlights Sheri Goldstein, Bunny Goodmansen and Robin Cooke at the Westminster Theater, 7272 Maple St. Reservations 893-8626.

CALLBOARD — Director Kent Johnson will be holding auditions for "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" at the San Clemente Community Theater Sept. 25 and 26. . .he'll be looking for a cast of nine men and five women, most of whom must be able to sing and dance. . .tryouts are scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Cabrillo Playhouse, 202 Avenida Cabrillo, San Clemente. . .

War Recalled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Carson will be the host and narrator of "Life Goes To War," a look at Hollywood and the home front during World War II. The program will air on NBC's "Big Event" on Sunday, Sept. 18.

Private Eye Role Next for Coburn

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Coburn will play world-weary private eye Hamilton Nash in "The Dain Curse" for CBS.

It will be Coburn's first dramatic television appearance in many years. He said he was attracted to the project because it will be done as a mini series and the thriller by Dashiell Hammett had never been filmed before.

Benson Plays Priest

LOS ANGELES (AP) Robby Benson will play a young priest in United Artists' "The End," directed by Burt Reynolds and starring Reynolds, Joanne Woodward, Myrna Loy, Pat O'Brien and Sally Field.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking.

For years, you couldn't get real tobacco flavor without high tar. As a result, many smokers wanting to switch to a low tar cigarette couldn't.

Couldn't—until MERIT.

Until 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. A breakthrough in tobacco science that resulted in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

This breakthrough has made MERIT one of the most popular new cigarettes in twenty years. More importantly, over 75% of all MERIT smokers are former high tar smokers.

It's clear: low tar MERIT is delivering the kind of flavor that can satisfy high tar smokers, the toughest "taste' critics of low tar smoking.

Taste-Test Proof

MERIT and MERIT 100's were packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And you can taste it.

William Sheffield: He's willing to go anywhere in the world to do a 'delicate' job.

Wiliam Sheffield's job has led him to Damascus, Thailand, Mexico.

Just Call Him A Troubleshooter

By JUDITH OLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Thead in the classified section of the International Herald Tribune (the English language newspaper serving all of Europe) was intriguing:

* * * *

William Sheffield lives in a glass and wood house high on the hill in Laguna Beach with a spectacular view of the canyons.

A Marriage Encounter sticker decorates the back of his vintage car and there are three cats running around the house. Sheffield's wife, Lolie, is expecting their first baby.

Such a domestic scene. It seems an unlikely setting for a man of intrigue who is willing to go anywhere in the world to attempt a "delicate" job.

"I wasn't sure how the ad would go," admitted Sheffield, a practicing attorney who already has some experience in doing odd jobs around the world.

SO FAR HE has had replies from a man in Finland who wants help getting his daughter out of jail in Bolivia, a person who needs some negotiating done in South America and another with a "very mysterious" mission in Geneva.

Sheffield most recently helped get a 20-year-old youth out of prison in Damascus after he had served only 10 months of his 15-year sentence.

The young man, jailed for trafficking in narcotics, was fortunate, Sheffield said, because foreign countries usually are "firm in their sentences.

"I've done a lot of work in Mexico," he added. "I started doing work like this about 10 years ago when I had a client who wanted interviews done with famous people around the world. It was fun."

On that job, which took a year to complete, Sheffield met such famous people as Picasso, the King of Thailand and Marahishi Mahesh Yogi, the Beetles' spiritual leader.

"I ENJOY those types of challenges," Sheffield commented. "Especially those which require an intensive amount of energy and negotiations."

Sheffield, in fact, would like to have an entire law practice based on such work abroad. "It's different than my local practice," he explained. Here I have 200 cases at once.

"There I go with one purpose. I check into a hotel and spend full time on it. All my creative energy goes into accomplishing that task. I sometimes work 16-20 hours a day."

Sheffield doesn't speak any foreign languages, which he believes is to his advantage. "I always have a local interpreter and people go out of their way to help me," he said.

"The ultimate would be to know languages but not tell anyone."

He learns local customs by observation and being sensitive to "vibes." "In Damascus you couldn't talk business for at least a half hour," Sheffield said. "You had to drink tea and Turkish coffee first or you were being rude."

Even to get a file folder in this hot spot required the same protocol, so his job there turned out to be time-consuming.

Sheffield's modus operendi is to be direct, whether it be in trying to get an American out of jail in Europe or interviewing a famous personality.

"The best way to get things done is the most direct," he asserted. "If you can't get in the front door always go in the back."

When he tried to see the King of Thailand this philosophy was his key. He went to the palace in Bangkok and was told that the proper way to meet the king was to talk to the Thai ambassador in Washington, D. C.

THE SECRETARY let it slip that the king was at his summer palace, however, and Sheffield promptly went to try there.

"A number of people talked to me," he recalled. "They all said, 'You can't see the king.'" But Sheffield told the king's secretary what hotel he was stay-

Studying Other Ways to Live

By DENNIS McLELLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

During the four years Bill Goodykoontz taught a marriage and family class, he discovered that he was spending too much time discussing alternative lifestyles.

"I got to the point where I was covering too much," he recalls. "There were a lot of people not living in nuclear families."

The solution was simple: He would teach a separate class on alternative ways of living such as open marriage, cohabitation, marital contracts, communes, singlehood, swinging and homosexual unions.

His first Golden West College class on the subject was last spring. About 60 people showed up the first day.

"Some wanted to know what the phrase 'alternative lifestyle' means," says the sociology instructor. "Some were genuinely looking for a new way of life.

"And some had more scholarly interest. So it was really interesting the way it turned out."

This fall two alternative lifestyle classes are scheduled at Golden West College, beginning Sept 12

"A lot of people assume they can read a book about open marriage or communes and think they can just do it," says Goodykoontz, who spends the first three weeks on an overview of the subject and discusses the reasons people choose alternatives.

People planning to try an open marriage, for example, must seriously rethink their ideas on love, intimacy, trust and privacy, he says.

"A lot of people just try to jump right into it," he adds. "And then when it doesn't work, they put down open marriage."

Many of these alternative ways of living, says Goodykoontz, have been around a long time, but only in recent years have they openly been discussed.

He says the nuclear family (parents and children), in fact, is less than 100 years old, while extended families (parents, children and other relatives) and communes have been around for centuries.

"The nuclear family essentially is an experiment," he says. "But because most people live that way, we don't see it as an experiment."

He believes there is one primary problem with the nuclear family: It makes people feel isolated.

This is illustrated by the overwhelming response to "Roots," in which thousands of Americans began searching for their ancestors, he says.

"People are seeking a sense of family they don't feel," he says. "I think that has spawned the growth of all types of lifestyles."

Two or three years ago, Goodykoontz notes, he would have said open marriage was the most popular alternative lifestyle. But to-

A Summer At Disneyland

When Stan Dembecki was a Costa Mesa High School student, he played Burt the chimney sweep in the school's production of "Mary Poppins."

Dembecki had no idea that he once again would have to call on "Burt."

But that's what the 19-year-old UCLA theater arts major did early this summer when he auditioned for the Disneyland entertainment work experience program.

What better way to bowl over the folks at the Magic Kingdom than to sing the "Mary Poppins" classic "Chim Chim Cher-ee?"

Actually, the Disney tune wasn't chosen by grand design. "I sang it," admits Dembecki, "because I don't have very many songs in my repertoire."

Despite a limited supply of songs, Dembecki's singing—and particularly his dancing—were so impressive that he became one of the 39 college students picked to participate in the seven-year-old program."

More than 2,500 musicians, singers and dancers auditioned throughout the country for the 10 weeks of schooling and work experience held at Disneyland and Disney World.

The students spent early afternoons attending classes and lectures given by top entertainment professionals such as writer-arranger Anita Kerr and actor Ronnie Schell.

In the late afternoons and evenings, they became performers, doing five shows a day, five days a week.

Dembecki and his partner Lauri Thompson of Boulder, Colo. danced with the All-American College Marching Band, which performed in the four theme lands.

"The biggest thing I learned was how to do shows five times a day and still make it fun to watch and maintain a high performance level," he says. "It would have been easy to slump off."

The college sophomore, who plans an acting career, views the experience as a stepping stone.

"Getting exposure is one of the main things in being an actor," says the one-time movie extra. "You just can't get a chance like this to perform to so many people consistently."

Annie Belknap: 'I'm a little scared.'

Destination: Paris

By CHERYL ROMO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Move over, Margaux Hemingway. Annie Belknap is coming to town.

The Laguna Beach blonde who is almost 6 feet tall is on her way to Paris to become a high-fashion model.

The 1976 Laguna Beach High graduate has just been tagged to receive an all-expense paid contract from La Gence, an international modeling agency located in Paris.

Is the young woman, who has spent her childhood learning to surf and ride skateboards in the famed art colony, frightened about leaving home for the first time?

"I'm a little scared; but it's exciting and I figure it's time for me to grow up. Besides that, I get a real trip out of meeting people with an accent."

Wearing a red T-shirt and white pants, the lean blonde with classic American good looks is currently represented by semi-retired modeling agent Adolph Scott of Laguna Beach.

SHE SAYS THE only regret she has about going to Paris is leaving her boyfriend behind, then with a half smile, she confides she's heard "French men are very aggressive."

Scott waves off her remark by telling her she will soon be famous and might even be in films someday. She nods, grins, and says, "that would be unreal."

Jackie Belknap, her mother, is a pretty, dark-haired woman who seems somewhat in awe of her daughter's sudden rise to fame. She did a "little modeling" in her youth

Was Best Friend's Affair Real After All?

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last night my best friend (of 15 years) confided in me that she had had an affair with my husband. The woman cried hysterically, apologized all over the place — said it was all her fault, that she had thrown herself at my husband and pursued him shamelessly.

When I recovered from the shock, I quieted her down, told her I would accept her apology and we would remain friends.

The problem is this: When I confronted my husband with the story this morning he looked at me as if I had lost my mind. He said the woman is as crazy as a loon, that nothing of the sort took place. Then he made me feel disloyal for believing her outrageous story.

What should I do now? Get the two of them together and try to find out which one is lying? I don't want to add fuel to the fire but I'd like to know the truth. — EAST COAST DILEMMA

DEAR E.C. DILLY: Drop it. Mrs. Big Mouth doesn't sound like much of a friend. Moreover, she could be mentally ill. Some people have delusions and are unable to separate fact from fiction.

In marital matters regarding infidelity, I believe a man (or woman) should be considered innocent unless proven guilty.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Would you please say something in your column about gum-snapping? Maybe I'm some kind of nut but it really drives me crazy. It's bad enough to have someone snapping a huge wad of gum behind you on a subway or a bus, but to work in an office where a woman pops and snaps her way through the day is more than I can take.

I have thought of coming right out with it and telling her how I feel but I don't know her well and don't want to make an enemy.

Can you give any advice here? Should I grin and bear it? I've tried to control myself but it's so irksome I fear my blood pressure is going up. — ON EDGE

DEAR EDGE: Gum-snapping is boorish and crude and it irks many people (me for one) so don't feel like such an oddball, dear.

Unfortunately, nothing can be done about the subway or bus gum-snapper, but something can and should be done about a person with whom you must work all day. Explain you'd be very grateful if she'd try to chew her gum more quietly because it bothers you terribly. You might even take the burden on yourself by explaining that something in your childhood has made you overreact to gum-popping — which, incidentally, is what happened to me. A relative did it to be annoying, and now in my adult years I find gum-popping unbearable.

DEAR ANN: Our daughter, like so many others in this lost generation, fell in with a religious cult. We were heartsick, frustrated and lost.

Friends suggested an organization for parents who are struggling with the same problem. Please, Ann, tell them to write to Citizens' Freedom Foundation, Box 256, Chula Vista, 92012. There are chapters in many cities of the U.S. and this headquarters office will put people in touch with the closest. — A MOTHER WHO IS STILL HOPING

DEAR MOTHER: Here it is. I'll keep my fingers crossed for you.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It — A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," gives no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, IL 60611.

A Day for Love

AT WIT'S END

One of the most personal experiences I've shared with readers over the past 13 years was the occasion of sending my last child to school.

Boy, how I had lusted for that day. I was going to have all my stomach muscles back by lunch, go to the bathroom without locking the door, pull the shades and sing duets with Barbra Streisand, and burn my maternity clothes. (The statute of limitations had run out and I had won!)

But there was no exhilaration in my victory, watching "the baby" sit pathetically at the curb. I thought of the woman he was going to — Miss Chalkdust, or whatever. And I wrote "Miss Chalkdust, give him patience and gentleness. Please have a soft lap and a warm smile. I submit to your tender, loving care my son who is a little shy and a lot stubborn. Who can't cope yet with zippers that stick or buttons on sweaters that don't come out even. One who makes his 5s sideways and doesn't know B-O-Y-S from G-I-R-L-S on the door. I may sue you for alienation of affection but for the moment, God bless you."

Those small, pathetic, scared children who will be sitting on the curbs next week for the first time don't have their own column. If they did, they might confess that they didn't have breakfast this morning because they couldn't swallow. They didn't sleep well last night. They're afraid. Afraid they'll get lost. Afraid they'll goof up. Afraid they'll look different. Afraid they'll be called upon. Afraid they won't find the straw for their milk.

One of the most poignant insights into a child's venture into education comes from a book written by Albert Cullum called "The Geranium On The Window Sill Just Died But Teacher You Went Right On." It deals with an insensitivity of the feelings of children and what they are going through. This is one of my favorites.

"I have a messy desk,
I have milk money that rolls,
I have a lazy pencil,
a book that won't open,
a mouth that whispers.
I have a shirt that's out,
shoelaces that won't tie
And sometimes I wet my pants —
but never on purpose."

From C1

...Troubleshooter

ing at and said he would be available a few more days.

"The next day the secretary called my hotel and asked me if I wanted to talk about Vietnam. I said no. The secretary asked me what I wanted to talk about. I said it was a personal matter.

"Finally he said I could see the king at 3 p.m. for 10 minutes. I actually spent nearly three hours with him. He had been educated at Harvard and wanted someone to practice his English with."

SHEFFIELD, whose assignment was to talk with a list of famous people about their philosophy, talked with the king about his goals in relationship to Thailand, his personal life philosophy and his definition of love.

Going off to remote places on such "touchy" missions could be dangerous but Sheffield said he doesn't worry about it.

"Sometimes it involves working opposite to what some local and powerful people want to see accomplished," he said. "And in many countries the way to get rid of the opposition is to kill them.

"But I go in with a positive attitude. I don't do anything illegal. I value my own freedom too much."

This career as a lawyer/troubleshooter is Sheffield's second, and possibly not his last.

"As a kid I could fantasize building buildings and I've done that. I could fantasize being in the courtroom and I've done that. I also saw myself as being a doctor," he said with a laugh. "But that would mean going back to school again."

From C1

day he feels more people are talking about the communal living.

SOMEWHAT OF AN offshoot of this is the cluster family where "instead of everyone living in a cooperative fashion, they say 'let's have small nuclear family units, but let's not isolate ourselves.'

"It means you might have a condominium with people having their own family units, but then go a step futher and have such things as communal food preparation and communal child care."

Goodykoontz believes it is healthy for people to be aware of the choices available to them because then they can find the lifestyle that best suits their needs.

What sort of family structure does he envision for the future?

"It's hard to know where we're going," he says. "We're in the middle of change. We've been with a certain kind of family for a hundred years and people are looking around now. They want to see what else is available."

From C1

. . . To Paris

("Nothing really important.") and says "everything has come easily for Annie all her life."

Annie says she just wants "to make a lot of money" because that's "what makes the world turn."

She has no ambition to continue her schooling and says, if her career is successful, she "will keep going with it for as long as I can.

"The only other goal I've ever had is to become a stewardess because you get to travel and receive good pay. I think it's interesting to go all over in an airplane."

Glancing at Jackie, she smiles, "You always have to have a second goal. That's what my mother always tells me."

"When I see a face like Annie's," says Scott, whether it be male or female, I try to open doors."

Modest Dress Law Stressed

King Khaled of Saudi Arabia said American and other foreign women living in his kingdom must obey Islamic teachings and dress modestly or otherwise face unspecified punishment.

In a statement broadcast by Saudi state radio, the Moslem monarch also said hippie-like people would not be tolerated in his kingdom. He said they would face arrest and imprisonment if they did not respect Islamic law.

Khaled's statement was addressed to all foreigners in the oil-rich state, though he did not specify nationalities, as well as to Saudis.

Country Gig For Tiny Tim

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The country music capital of the world — the domain of the rhinestone rebels and the Mary Sues and the honkytonk heroes is vibrating to the falsetto sounds of an intruder.

Tiny Tim has gone country.

With his ukelele, his stringy black hair and effeminate manner, he has recorded four country songs where fiddles and steel guitars predominate and where anyone who blows kisses is regarded suspiciously.

"THEY ASKED ME TO TAKE a challenge and see what happens," he said as he sat in a Music Row office just before a three-hour recording session. "Everybody wonders where I am, and I pop up in Nashville," he marveled.

TINY TIM

He has kept busy recording and making club appearances. He and his wife, Vicki, who were married on the Tonight Show in 1969, are separated.

"I've decided not to get friendly," he said about their relationship. "I don't believe in in-betweens. Either you're hot or cold."

His career has fallen off since he became famous for his version of "Tiptoe Through the Tulips" 10 years ago.

"IT WAS MY OWN FAULT and bad management," he said. "I had to break away from my manager and haven't had one as great since. Good managers are vital."

He's also had problems getting the right sound on his recordings.

"A lot of the songs I've done were like an orange — half squeezed. Something was missing. I have many different sounds and styles. Every song and style I do is like a sculpture — it has to be just right.

"They say it's impossible to record me because no one knows what a song will do or how to handle me or what I can do."

"I'VE RECORDED A LOT OF things; you never know what will happen. If these country records click, we'll see what happens."

He listed Hank Snow, Molly Bee, Porter Wagoner, Kitty Wells and Waylon Jennings as his favorite country performers, but said: "All country singers sing well. I never want to play favorites."

He said his night club act always includes a couple of country songs like "You Are My Sunshine" or "Jingle Jangle Jingle."

"WHEN ANYBODY SAYS THEY don't like country music, they don't know what it's about. What you don't feel is what you don't understand is what you don't like."

The songs released will be taken from those recorded here. Among those cut were the classic "Help Me Make It Through The Night" and a new song, "Country Queen," about a man who dresses as a woman trying to make a successful country music career. There's also a reference to Dolly Parton in the song.

SAID HIS PRODUCER, JIMMY Rogers: "I'm putting him in a new ballpark. Country fans are dedicated. If they like him, they'll buy his stuff."

But Tiny Tim is worried.

"I'M NOT A COUNTRY SINGER from the roots. I didn't start here. The public looks at me as an oddity, a weirdo, a freak. Maybe I am."

Weather, Illness Linked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Health officials say there may be a link between the weather and the appearance of Legionnaires disease here late this summer.

Dr. Ian Baird, director of infectious disease at Riverside Hospital where all four confirmed cases here were admitted, said the disease's recent history indicates it becomes active in late summer.

IN SHORT

Baird said his research shows there were late summer outbreaks of pneumonia-like deaths in Pontiac, Mich., and Washington, D.C., before the infection was isolated when 29 of about 180 people stricken with the disease died during or after an American Leagion convention in Philadelphia July 21-24, 1976.

WASHINGTON (AP) No-fault insurance would end discrimination against certain people who pay higher rates than others regardless of their driving records, says a study.

The study by the Library of Congress, requested by Rep. Ralph Metcalfe, D-Ill., focused on the impact pending no-fault bills would have on poor people. Metcalfe, a co-sponsor of the legislation, released the study Monday.

Charge Denied

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass today denied U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon's charge that Soviet firemen who put out the fire af the U.S. Embassy on Aug. 27 also did a bit of looting.

WISCONSIN BICYCLISTS HIT THE TRAIL
State Converts Abandoned Railway Lines for Recreation

New Trails Blazed Along Railway Lines

NEW GLARUS, Wis. (AP) — There's a different kind of traveler on the rights-of-way where steam locomotives once chugged through the rolling green countryside of southern Wisconsin.

Bicyclists, young and not so young, are riding the 25-mile Sugar River Trail that connects the little towns of New Glarus, Monticello, Albany and Brodhead.

THE TRAIL, DEVELOPED and maintained by the state's Department of Natural Resources over the abandoned roadbed of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, is one of four in Wisconsin. The state considers itself a leader in giving bicyclists safe, scenic and level places to ride.

"There are thousands of miles of rights-of-way up for abandonment nationwide and we get lots of requests for information from other states about our program," said Dave Weizenicker, deputy director of the DNR's Bureau of Parks and Recreation. "We've been a stimulator."

WEIZENICKER SAYS after the state buys the abandoned lines, the tracks and ties are torn up and replaced with fine-ground gravel, five to six inches deep.

Between Elroy and Sparta in western Wisconsin is the 32-mile line which the Northwestern Railway sold the state in 1965 for $12,000. Bicyclists riding the full length travel through three tunnels and over 33 trestles. The Milwaukee Road property, purchased eight years later, cost the state $150,000, officials said.

OUTDOORS

Northeastern Wisconsin has the 15-mile Ahnapee Trail, using a former roadbed of the Ahnapee and Western Railroad. Far northern Wisconsin has the newly opened Heafford Junction Trail, 19 miles long.

All the trails are free to the public.

OFFICIALS SAY THERE is no way to determine exactly how many riders take to the trails annually. You can register at the headquarters of the Sugar River Trail here the handsomely refurbished Milwaukee Road station but only a few riders do so.

Bob Martin, chief of resource area studies for the Lake Central region of the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, based at Ann Arbor, Mich., says "there certainly is a lot of activity," in other states following Wisconsin's lead in developing old bicycle paths.

THOUGH THOUSANDS OF miles of railroad lines are being abandoned, states may have to move fast to save them for recreational purposes such as bicycling, recreational promoters warn.

"There's a great untapped potential there," Martin says. "But unfortunately, it's a short-lived potential. Many interests will be seeking these properties."

Country Gig For Tiny Tim

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The country music capital of the world — the domain of the rhinestone rebels and the Mary Sues and the honkytonk heroes is vibrating to the falsetto sounds of an intruder.

Tiny Tim has gone country.

With his ukelele, his stringy black hair and effeminate manner, he has recorded four country songs where fiddles and steel guitars predominate and where anyone who blows kisses is regarded suspiciously.

"THEY ASKED ME TO TAKE a challenge and see what happens," he said as he sat in a Music Row office just before a three-hour recording session. "Everybody wonders where I am, and I pop up in Nashville," he marveled.

TINY TIM

He has kept busy recording and making club appearances. He and his wife, Vicki, who were married on the Tonight Show in 1969, are separated.

"I've decided not to get friendly," he said about their relationship. "I don't believe in in-betweens. Either you're hot or cold."

CdM Man An Expert

Naval Reserve Commander Jay Moseley, of Corona del Mar, was designated Navy Expert Pistol Shot during a small arms training course conducted at Point Mugu.

Moseley is an Orange County deputy district attorney. The designation of Expert Pistol Shot is the highest possible shooting qualification.

District To Elect

An election will be held Nov. 8 to fill two seats on the board of directors of the Surfside Colony Community Services District.

For further information, call the registrar of voter's office at 834-2244 and ask for the "candidate filing section."

Wins Acclaim

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The program for mentally retarded patients at Napa State Hospital has won accreditation again from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

At Your Service

"Got a problem" Then write to Pat Dunn. Pat will cut red tape, getting the answers and action you need to solve inequities in government and business. Mail your questions to Pat Dunn, At Your Service, Orange Coast Daily Pilot, P.O. Box 1560, Costa Mesa, CA 92626. As many letters as possible will be answered, but phoned inquiries or letters not including the reader's full name, address and business hours' phone number cannot be considered. This column appears daily except Saturdays.

Decree Available in LA

DEAR PAT: Where can I get a copy fo my final divorce decree? I tried the Hall of Records in Los Angeles, but they didn't answer me. The divorce was granted in Los Angeles in 1948. I received the final decree then, but I had it notarized and sent it back.

E.Y., Costa Mesa

The city records office couldn't help you because divorce cases are handled in the county superior court and subsequent records are retained by county offices. If you know your divorce case number, contact the Los Angeles County Archives, 227 N. Broadway, Room A-103, Los Angeles, CA 90012. Provide the case number and 50 cents per page for a copy. If you don't know the case number, ask that it be provided by Los Angeles County Clerk, 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012. Include as much information as you can (names of husband and wife, court location, date case heard, etc.).

Sitter Needs Temporary Home

DEAR PAT: I want to find someone who needs a "housesitter" or a couple of months this winter and for three months next summer. The winter months for my parents, and the summer for my brother and his family. They would be willing to take care of the homes and/or pay a low rental charge. My family lives in Iowa and I'm here in California trying to find them a place to stay. Any suggestions?

S.G., Orange

A house exchange would be your best bet. Contact these firms for the details: Adventures in Living, Box 278, Winnetka, Il 60093; Vacation Exchange Club, 350 Broadway, New York, NY 10013; Holiday Home Exchange Bureau, Box 555, Grants, NM 87020; Inquiline, Box 208, Katonah, NY 10536, and Creative Leisure, 1280 Columbus Ave., San Francisco, CA94133. You also should contact area real estate firms that specialize in rentals, but the short term involved may limit you to a swap arrangement or a low-cost area rental.

DEAR PAT: Home Portrait Studios of Los Angeles canvassed our neighborhood recently to take photos. Our family had pictures taken and the salesman returned July 18 with proofs. I ordered and paid for $37.05 worth of finished photos, and was told that they would be mailed to me in 10 days. I haven't received any photos and the HPS phone number is always busy. I checked with the Better Business Bureau and was told that there is a long file of complaints against this company. Can anything be done, or am I out of luck?

K.F., Fountain Valley

AYS contacted Home Portrait Studios and all your photographs now have been mailed. The firm's spokesman said that delivery takes up to 25 working days for lab processing, not 10 days as the salesman told you. The Los Angeles Better Business Bureau reports that complaints have been "on file" about HPS since 1975, and that the studio does not answer all BBB-issued complaints. Next time, contact the BBB first.

Antiques Get Special Plate

DEAR PAT: I am considering the purchase of an antique automobile. Will I have to have it equipped to meet current antipollution standards, and is a special license plate required?

P.L., Irvine

Vehicles of historic interest are not required to have any motor vehicle pollution-control device except for those which were required for such vehicles by the Pure Air Act of 1968. The Department of Motor Vehicles will fill you in on specific equipment details. The DMV issues special identification plates for motor vehicles manufactured after 1922 and for cars at least 25 years old.

Worthy Charities Listed

DEAR PAT: It seems that I'm on every solicitation mailing list that exists. I do make contributions to various charities on a fairly regular basis, so I'm not surprised. My problem is how to tell the worthy charities from the ripoff operations.

N.H., Balboa

"Standards for Charitable Solicitations," a Council of Better Business Bureaus booklet, can help you separate the emotional appeal charities from worthwhile organizations. Request a free copy from CBBB, 1150 17th St. N.W., Washington, DC 20036. CBBB suggests that if you don't know anything about a charity, you should check its complaint file with your local BBB, Chamber of Commerce or consumer protection agency.

Claims Course Taught

A seminar on how to effectively present a case in small claims court will be offered by Orange Coast College Sept. 17 in OCC's Fine Arts Hall.

The seminar, to be conducted by attorney Gilbert A. Thomas, will run from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Pre-registration fee is $2.50. Tickets will be available at the door for $3.50 on a space available basis.

Checks, made payable to Orange Coast College, should be sent to Business Management Development Center, OCC, 2701 Fairview Road, Costa Mesa, 92626. For more information phone 556-5880.

WORDY GURDY

BY TRICKY RICKY

Every WORDY GURDY answer is a rhyming pair of words (like True Blue, Plain Jane, and Humpty Dumpty). Read the definition, then think of two rhyming words that will fit in the letter squares. The number after the definition tells you how many syllables in each word of the rhyming pair.

1. Taking a chance with a frisbee (1)
2. Ridicule smut (1)
3. Ache from a twisted ankle (1)
4. Mickey joins Rev. Sun Myung (2)
5. Indoor tennis structure problem (2)
6. Blonde Carol taking the sun (2)
7. Glowing cud-chewing mammal (3)

Thanks and $10 to John Miller of Alamogordo, NM for #7. Send your entry to this newspaper.

Korea Indictment Names Hanna

Floridan Flees For Birth

Linda Okenewski, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., underwent a successful Caesarean section operation at 5:12 p.m., hospital officials said.

Doctors said the woman and child received no blood transfusion in the operation in which they cut into the mother's abdominal and uterine walls.

Dr. Anthony LeDonne, Mrs. Okonewski's physician, said there were no complications and mother and child are doing fine.

The parents have not selected a name for the infant.

Last week Mrs. Okonewski told officials at Broward General Medical Center in Florida she would refuse transfusions for herself or her child because of her religion.

Hospital officials said the transfusions would be necessary because of the mother's rare blood type.

Two Florida assistant public defenders appointed as guardians for the unborn child have sought to have the fetus made a ward of the court but were unsuccessful.

The Okonewski's then fled to Fountain Valley to avoid a court order which forced all Florida hospitals to give blood transfusions to the mother and child when the baby was delivered.

Park's Return Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park has been accused of 36 federal corruption charges in an indictment that lists former Rep. Richard T. Hanna of Orange County as an unindicted co-conspirator and names several other present and former members of Congress as recipients of alleged bribes from Park, the Justice Department said today.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said he will ask President Carter to contact South Korean President Park Chung Hee "in order to have Tongsun Park, who's now a fugitive, returned to the United States."

Bell said he will leave it up to the South Korean government to determine how Tongsun Park should be taken into custody if President Park agrees to the request.

Tongsun Park, a Washington party giver who has been the focus of the government probe of influence buying on Capitol Hill, has been in Seoul for about a week.

At a news conference, Bell declined to say whether Hanna, a California Democrat, and other members of Congress would be indicted.

Hanna, who represented the Anaheim area in the House of Representatives from 1962 to 1974, lived in Newport Beach following retirement.

However, he left Orange County in late July and a former associate said three weeks ago Hanna moved to Arkansas.

Following retirement, the Democrat set up business offices in Newport Beach and Irvine, serving in a variety of quasi-official capacities, including the county-funded Economic Development Corporation and the fledgling International Trade League.

County records show that Hanna resigned from the corporation formed to attract industry to Orange County on July 8 as the Park investigation was probing his business links with Park.

"The investigation is continuing," Bell said. "We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring."

The indictment Park was returned by a federal grand jury Aug. 26 and kept sealed until today when the department asked that it be unsealed. Although the indictment was reported last week, no details of the charges had been available.

Park was charged with conspiracy, bribery, mail fraud, racketeering activities, failure to register as a foreign agent, and making political contributions which are prohibited for foreign agents.

According to the indictment, Park, Hanna, and two former directors of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency conspired from about 1967 until Dec. 31, 1975, to bribe members of the House and Senate for their actions to promote South Korea's interests.

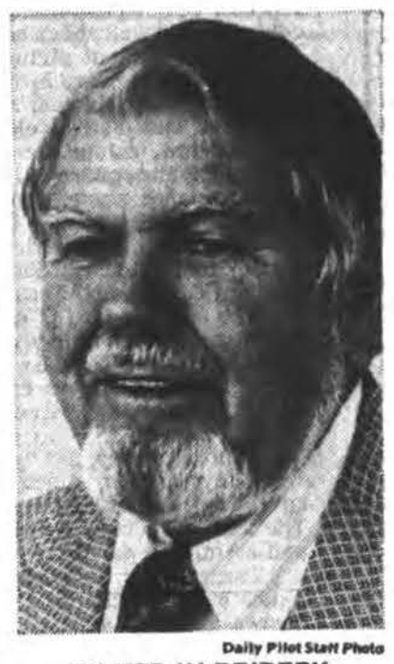

The two former KCIA directors — Kim Hyung Wook, who held the position between 1963 and 1969, and Lee Hu Rak, who held the job from 1970 through 1973 — were also named unindicted coconspirators.

Hanna played a key role in advising Park on which members of Congress should be bribed and how thousands of dollars should be parceled out to them, the indictment said.

Bell said Hanna is not cooperating with the investigation.

The 30-page indictment was filled with more than a dozen names of present and former members of Congress who received money, sometimes in the form of campaign contributions from Park.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti said some of those named are targets of the probe and some aren't. He declined to say who was in which category.

Sky Banner Revocation Considered

Huntington Beach City Council members will act tonight on a possible revocation of a business license for airplane banner-towing operations at Meadowlark Airport.

The council voted last month to give the owner of the Sky-Ad banner-towing business 30 days to relocate his business from Meadowlark.

The action was taken when a banner was inadvertently dropped from an advertising airplane and became entangled in power lines at an intersection near the airport.

Sky-Ad owner Bob Cannon has indicated to the council that he can't find an alternate location.

Tonight's session gets under way at 6:30 in a joint meeting with the planning commission regarding Lake Street extension and widening.

Planning commissioners earlier made a decision to discontinue planning for the Lake Street extension.

The issue has been reopened because of an increase in development activities along the street, according to Planning Director Edward Selich.

2 Gunmen Hold Up HB Store

Two ski-masked gunmen tied up a clerk, locked him in a back room and stole $3,275 from Pasha's Liquor Store, 706 Coast Highway, Huntington Beach, Monday morning, police reported.

Two unmasked gunmen stole $600 from the same store last Wednesday and fled across Coast Highway.

Police Detective Dick Nolen said it is not known at this time if the bandits in Monday's heist are the same ones who struck last week.

Store employe Richard Bishop told police he was opening the store at 6 a.m. Monday when the two gunmen burst in and ordered him to the back room to open the safe.

While one of the men bound Bishop, the other apparently cleaned out the cash register, police said. The two bandits left Bishop bound and locked in the room for about an hour until the store owner arrived with the keys to unlock the door, police said.

In both robberies, the gunmen were described as male Latins in their mid-20s. The bandits carried large caliber plated handguns. No vehicles were used by the thieves in both robberies, witnesses told police.

Moslem Chief Gets Prison for Siege

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was sentenced today to spend 41 to 120 years in prison for his role as leader of a 38-hour bloody siege that gripped this city last March.

Before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "I know that whatever happens here will be the will of Allah."

Khaalis would be 97 years old before he is eligible for parole.

A second defendant, convicted of stabbing two men at B'nai B'rith headquarters, received a slightly harsher sentence. Abdul Adam, 31, was sentenced to a total of 44 to 132 years in prison.

Khaalis and Adam were the first sentenced of the 12 Hanafis convicted July 23 of seizing three buildings here — the B'nai B'rith building, the Islamic Center and Washington's city hall — and with taking 149 hostages in an incident that began March 9.

Prosecutors asked D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio Jr. to hand down stiff sentences to show "that those who use terror to victimize persons do so at the risk of forfeiting their right ever again to be free in society."

Nunzio sentenced Khaalis to five to 15 years in jail on 24 separate counts of armed kidnaping.

However, most will run concurrently. Only those counts dealing with hostages taken at B'nai B'rith Headquarters, where Khaalis and six other men held more than 100 hostages, will run consecutively. Nunzio also added an additional one to three years for conspiracy.

Khaalis also received a term of 20 years to life for the second-degree murder of a young radio reporter killed at Washington's city hall and five to 15 years in prison in connection with the shooting of two othe men there and for the stabbing and shooting of a man at B'nai B'rith.

However, the judge set all of these to run concurrently with the others.

In remarks before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "This country is in grave problems . . . and I'm ready to offer my assistance."

HB Telephone Box Torched

A vandal torched a telephone terminal box near 8472 Don Caster St., in Huntington Beach Monday by pouring a flammable liquid on the structure and then igniting it, police reported.

Police Detective Bob Russell said the incident is apparently not related to the 10 vehicle arsons reported in north central Huntington Beach last week.

Monday's incident occurred sometime in the morning but was not reported until 10:43 a.m., police said.

Talks 'Fruitful'

TOKYO (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia said Monday his talks with Communist party chairman Hua Kuo-feng and other Chinese leaders were "very frank, sincere and fruitful," Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported.

Brown Urges Labor Effort

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. told organized labor it should act to stop worker exploitation and help fight unemployment instead of "sitting on its laurels."

"It's time you pull together," he said before a Labor Day meeting of the Catholic Labor Institute of Southern California. "Let labor take the lead as it has in the past. You can't rest on your glory. Things are tougher. You're losing ground."

Blast Sinks 39-foot Sloop In SF Harbor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 39-foot sloop exploded and sank at the San Francisco Yacht Club, but police said they were unable to determine the cause of the blast. There were no injuries.

Police Lt. Richard Shippy said although the origin of the explosion at 8:40 p.m. Monday was unknown, San Francisco police intelligence had been alerted through sources last week that the New World Liberation Front might bomb yachts in the harbor.

He said no special patrols had been planned in light of the information, but added that the marina was part of normal checks by cruising squad cars.

Within the past two weeks, the NWLF has struck on four occasions, including bombings at a Pacific Gas & Electric substation in Sausalito and the plush Olympic Club in San Francisco. An undetonated device outside the private Pacific Union Club here was found by police and disarmed.

"We don't know if this explosion is related," Shippy said.

A spokeswoman from the Peoples' Information Relay, which has received NWLF communiques in the past, said they hadn't gotten any information from any underground revolutionary groups relating to the explosion.

The sunken ship, the Major O, was owned by Paul Fisher, 45, an operator of the Comstock Termite and Pest Control Co. A yacht moored in the adjacent slip was undamaged.

Shooting Ends Romantic Feud

ARLETA (AP) — One man's loss of his girlfriend led to the shooting death of another, police said.

Dennis Fonder, 24, of Sepulveda, was found dead Monday at the home of William Scott Martin, 23, of Arleta, officials said. They said Fonder had claimed Martin had alienated his girlfriend, and the two had been feuding.

'Out of the Woodwork'

60,000 Jam HB Sands

A crowd estimated at 60,000 people swarmed to Huntington City Beach Monday, making it one of the largest Labor Day turnouts in recent history.

Lifeguard Capt. Doug D'Arnall said that "people started coming out of the woodwork" when the sun broke through overcast skies shortly after noon.

He said that about 45,000 bathers were lured to the beaches Sunday and 35,000 more came Saturday.

Parking lots which can accommodate 2,150 vehicles overflowed Sunday when air temperatures reached 76 degrees. Water temperatures were 68.

D'Arnall said the crowd was just slightly less than the Fourth of July which is traditionally Huntington Beach's heaviest beach day.

Surf was running at about three feet and there were just a handful of rescues, according to D'Arnall.

Lifeguard Frank Browne said the probable cause for the large turnout was it was one of the last times for people to enjoy the beach before school starts.

"It was the last chance for many of them to work on their suntans before winter hits," he observed.

The Huntington State Beach and Bolsa Chica State Beach weren't nearly as popular over the weekend.

Sunday was the heaviest day with crowds reported at 31,000 for both beaches.

A total of 26,000 bathers were reported Monday.

Police were investigating the rape of a 27-year-old Fountain Valley woman today. Lt. Lewis Barlow said the sexual attack occurred early Sept. 3 in the woman's condominium. It was not reported to police until Sunday.

Coogan moved his mother from her Gardena residence to his brother's home in the same city to provide closer care. He returned to work today.

Ocean View School District

(CLIP AND SAVE FOR YOUR DISTRICT)

ABOUT THE DISTRICT: Ocean View staff members are currently gearing up for the September 12, 1977 start of a new school year that promises further refinement of last year's successful programs.

"This summer brought us evaluations that were up in all categories — except enrollment," noted Schools Superintendent Dale Coogan. He stressed a highly positive community attitude survey and annual testing in basic skills. The survey showed an all-time high of 85 percent of district parents satisfied with overall school performance. Test scores in reading and math ranked higher than any other recent year and well above both state and national norms.

The enrollment picture shows a decline for the kindergarten through grade eight district. Down from a peak of 14,200 students, this year's projection shows an enrollment of 13,200. The district closed the first of its 25 schools, Rancho View, in June. Ocean View is still the largest in both enrollment and square miles of the five elementary districts sending eighth graders on to high schools operated in the Huntington Beach Union High School District. Borders of the 15-square mile district are roughly McFadden on the north, Huntington Harbour on the west, Magnolia on the east and Talbert on the south.

The school board is elected at large in odd-numbered years, and serves four-year terms without pay. The president of the Board for the current year is Charles Osterlund. Other Board members include Marianne Blank, Darrell Carter, Julio "Jay" Rivera and Dr. Margaret "Maggie" Stark.

Approximately 575 teachers, including learning assistance teachers, music specialists, psychologists and speech and language therapists will be employed this year. The staff also includes approximately 40 administrators and 400 full and part-time non-teaching employes.

Tax rate for the current year is estimated at $2.99, a figure up approximately 20 cents over last year, due to decreasing enrollment and declining state contributions to general operating costs. "Unlike other agencies, we don't realize new money when assessed values rise and taxpayers see large hikes in monthly housing payments," explained Superintendent Coogan. "We operate under state funding formulas, and when local taxes rise, most of those new dollars wind up in the state treasury, not in Ocean View."

CURRENT PROJECTS: Completion is near at hand on the several building projects designed to expand the district's facilities for seventh and eighth graders. The building additions and modifications reflected a year of study by staff and community, and complement program changes and expansions at those grade levels.

Further refinement of the district's math and reading program is planned. Last year the district launched its teacher-developed and district-produced curriculum in reading and math, and first year results indicate a high degree of success in most of the classrooms where they were used.

Currently under study by the Board are programs and facilities for kindergarten through grade six. The findings of a staff committee resulted in a series of recommendations aimed at equalizing facilities and opportunities, much as the earlier seven/eight study.

A decision is expected this year on the disposition of Rancho View School, located at B Street and Warner. Current options under consideration include sale or rental, or moving of the district's central offices now on the valuable commercial corner of Beach and Warner, to the vacant school.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM: The District supports a strong basic program laced with a "diagnosis and prescription" teaching approach geared to each individual student.

This summer, several district teachers have been working with high school district teachers and officials to jointly agree on basic skills competency standards for graduating eighth graders. As a result of these meetings, a series of test questions and procedures has been designed to assess competency. This competency is the foundation of the district's educational program, and current test results show 75 percent of Ocean View eighth graders graduating with skills beyond their grade level as judged by national norms. The district is also strongly committed to providing as much success as possible to every youngster and to building the student's self-concept.

SPECIAL SERVICES: Because the Ocean View philosophy stresses meeting individual needs, a large number of special programs operate within the district. These include special classes for mentally gifted minors, located at two district schools, in addition to enrichment programs at each neighborhood school. Parents may choose to enroll their youngster in either. Classes for mentally and physically handicapped students are available, with transportation provided by the district.

The district also offers "open enrollment," a policy allowing students to attend any district school, assuming that space is available and that the student provides his/her own transportation.

Early childhood education programs, funded by special state monies, are expanding this year assuming financing for additional schools becomes available. This program, a popular one with parents and staff alike, operated last year at Crest, Glen, Meadow, Vista, Sun, Robinwood, Oak, Circle, Mesa, Golden, Pleasant, Lake, Village and College.

Special funding will be continued this year for American Indian Education, for disadvantaged and bilingual youngsters, metrics education, and for pre-school youngsters also operating within the district.

INVOLVEMENT OPPORTUNITIES: Ocean View has taken major steps over the past several years to provide involvement opportunities for local residents. Believing that participation in the school system is essential for both understanding and improvement, the district supports School Advisory Committees (SAC) in every building. More than 300 citizens are involved on the committees, studying curriculum, school problems, analyzing community surveys, and serving as a communications link between the local school and the neighborhood.

In addition to school-based committees, there are district-level committees of parent group presidents, Early Childhood Education, MGM, as well as staff committees that assure staff participation in decisions affecting the instructional programs.

Over 2,000 parents participate in an active volunteer program which has been underway for several years, and any resident with time or skills to share is warmly welcomed at every school.

SCHOOL TIMES AND CALENDARS: Starting times for each school vary, and, along with class lists will be posted at the schools prior to opening day. School holidays and time schedules will be sent home with students in the early weeks of the first semester. Questions regarding specific school schedules should be directed to the schools.

New students may enroll any time after August 23, 1977 and entering kindergartners should have proof of birth and immunization history with them at the time of enrollment. Parents of entering first graders are reminded that recent state legislation requires a physical examination prior to school opening. Forms for these examinations are available at local schools.

HB Panel to Eye Surplus Property

A Huntington Beach Union High School citizens' advisory committee on the sale of surplus property will meet at 7:30 tonight in the Marina High School cafeteria, 15871 Springdale St., Huntington Beach.

The panel, formed by trustees earlier this year, will study the proposed sale of district-owned land near Huntington Beach and Westminster High Schools.

Marathon Ends for HB Man

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Sunburned and bewhiskered Walter Leon Shatsky is back home in Huntington Beach today after a cross-country bicycle marathon.

Walter, 50, a bachelor purchasing clerk at McDonnell Douglas Aircraft Company in Long Beach, lit out across the continent July 20 on his bicycle after flying to Miami to begin a 36-day, 10-speed odyssey, seeing America the hard way.

"For social activities, in cities where they had Parents Without Partners chapters, I would attend their functions," said Shatsky.

"I talked four girls into coming out to visit," said Walter. "One is supposed to come out next week. She was originally from Venezuela but I met her in Houston."

Shatsky, of 19909 Sheffield Lane, recalled, "I met a lot of people who were curious but the thing about bicycling is that people are usually nice to you. I met a guy, a teacher, from Toronto, Can., just east of Biloxi, Miss. While he was pedaling east and I was going west."

Shatsky started out camping on his first night out of the Everglades but quickly decided discretion is the better part of valor and began checking into hotels instead of lodging in the great outdoors.

The mosquitoes were eating him.

Walter, in fact, met lots of people along his 3,100-mile route on which he pedaled 155 miles on his longest day and averaged 90 miles daily.

He pumped the pedals for 155 miles the day after he blew his rear tire and broke 13 spokes near Alpine, Tex., vowing to make Marfa even if it was after dark.

Shatsky and his bicycle got blown off the road once by a big diesel truck's slipstream. And he learned the real meaning of ice water, a shower and a soft bed on his trip from east to west, he says.

"The worst part of the bike ride was west from New Mexico and Arizona. The heat was sort of unbearable and the towns are too far apart," he explained.

"I weighed 170 when I started out," he explains, adding that food and other living expenses averaged $15 daily.

A member of the Orange County Wheelmen, Los Angeles Wheelmen, American League of Wheelmen, American Youth Hostel and the Sierra Club's bicycling branch, Shatsky says the last eight days of his trip were the toughest.

"I ran out of water a few times and then the mountains to climb to get into San Diego were quite a burden. . ."

Treaty Signing Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter welcomed Panamanian head of government Omar Torrijos to the White House today in preparation for the historic signing of a new treaty forged in 13 years of negotiations over the future of the Panama Canal.

Carter strode out of the Oval Office onto a collonade to shake hands with the Panamanian. They chatted as they walked inside, flanked by Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security assistant.

Torrijos and Carter spoke in English as they posed for photographs at Carter's desk in the Oval Office.

"It's all very well organized," Torrijos noted, referring to the administration's elaborate preparations to receive more than 20 Western Hemisphere heads of state or their representatives.

The dignitaries will observe the treaty-signing ceremonies Wednesday.

"I hope so," Carter replied, grinning.

"Well, we must have faith," the Panamanian replied.

The United States and Panama later gave final approval to the texts which will be signed by Carter and Torrijos.

"We have come to the end of a very long road," said the cochairman of the U.S. negotiating team, Ellsworth Bunker, as he initialed the documents for the United States.

The initialing for Panama was performed by its chief negotiator, Romulo Escobar Bethancourt, and the Panamanian minister of education, Aristedes Royo.

Lawyers for the two countries have been working on the Spanish and English language text since the conceptual agreement on the new treaties was reached in Panama four weeks ago.

The texts added little new information to what already has been said publicly by both sides.

Boat Crash Body Found

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities reported finding part of the sixth victim of Sunday night's three-boat collision in the San Jacinto River today.

Police said the victim appeared to be an unidentified woman. Parts of her body were found a quarter mile downstream from the site of the accident.

Authorites said the wreck occurred when a motor boat, running without lights, pulled into the river and was rammed by two high-powered jet boats. Eight survivors were plucked from the water minutes after the crash.

Auto Strikes Bicyclist; Suspect Held

William Francis Newton, 18, remained in critical condition today at Pacifica Hospital where he was taken after being hit by a car while riding his bicycle in Huntington Beach Sunday evening.

Young Newton, of 7562 Alhambra Drive, Huntington Beach, was struck while riding near Silver Lane and Glencoe Avenue about 7:30 p.m., according to police reports. He is the son of Huntington Beach Fire Department Capt. Bill Newton.

The driver of the car, Daniel Lane Hagerman, 29, of 7622 Volga Drive, Huntington Beach, was arrested on suspicion of felony drunken driving, police said. He is free on bail today.

Traffic investigators said both Newton and Hagerman were traveling north on Silver Lane when the collision took place.

Protest Broken Up

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — About 100 police in riot gear broke up a crowd of 300 to 400 antibusing protesters Monday night after the demonstrators blocked traffic on a major highway. A 9-year-old black girl was injured.

Lance's Bank Playpen?

"Banks are not the personal toys of bankers — at least they are not supposed to be," Chairman Fernand St Germain said.

"While I do not want to prejudge, the evidence I have seen to date leads me to believe that Bert Lance, his family and friends regarded the Calhoun First National Bank as their playpen — to be used as they pleased."

A statement by St Germain, a Rhode Island Democrat, came as President Carter resisted efforts by two key senators to get Lance to resign.

Jurors Back On Allaway Sanity Issue

Deliberations resumed today in Orange County Superior Court where a jury is trying to reach a verdict in the sanity phase of convicted killer Edward Carles Allaway's trial.

Divided at 8-4 when they took the weekend break jurors returned to Judge Robert P. Kneeland's courtroom today for what will be their fourth day of discussions.

The jury earlier found Allaway, 38, guilty of seven counts of murder and two of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the shooting of nine Cal State Fullerton employes on July 12, 1976.

The jury must now determine if Allaway falls within the standards of the M'Naughgen rule, the definition of legal sanity or insanity that is applied in California Courts.

Ocean View School District

(CLIP AND SAVE FOR YOUR DISTRICT)

ABOUT THE DISTRICT: Ocean View staff members are currently gearing up for the September 12, 1977 start of a new school year that promises further refinement of last year's successful programs.

"This summer brought us evaluations that were up in all categories — except enrollment," noted Schools Superintendent Dale Coogan. He stressed a highly positive community attitude survey and annual testing in basic skills. The survey showed an all-time high of 85 percent of district parents satisfied with overall school performance. Test scores in reading and math ranked higher than any other recent year and well above both state and national norms.

The enrollment picture shows a decline for the kindergarten through grade eight district. Down from a peak of 14,200 students, this year's projection shows an enrollment of 13,200. The district closed the first of its 25 schools, Rancho View, in June. Ocean View is still the largest in both enrollment and square miles of the five elementary districts sending eighth graders on to high schools operated in the Huntington Beach Union High School District. Borders of the 15-square mile district are roughly McFadden on the north, Huntington Harbour on the west, Magnolia on the east and Talbert on the south.

The school board is elected at large in odd-numbered years, and serves four-year terms without pay. The president of the Board for the current year is Charles Osterlund. Other Board members include Marianne Blank, Darrell Carter, Julio "Jay" Rivera and Dr. Margaret "Maggie" Stark.

Approximately 575 teachers, including learning assistance teachers, music specialists, psychologists and speech and language therapists will be employed this year. The staff also includes approximately 40 administrators and 400 full and part-time non-teaching employes.

Tax rate for the current year is estimated at $2.99, a figure up approximately 20 cents over last year, due to decreasing enrollment and declining state contributions to general operating costs. "Unlike other agencies, we don't realize new money when assessed values rise and taxpayers see large hikes in monthly housing payments," explained Superintendent Coogan. "We operate under state funding formulas, and when local taxes rise, most of those new dollars wind up in the state treasury, not in Ocean View."

CURRENT PROJECTS: Completion is near at hand on the several building projects designed to expand the district's facilities for seventh and eighth graders. The building additions and modifications reflected a year of study by staff and community, and complement program changes and expansions at those grade levels.

Further refinement of the district's math and reading program is planned. Last year the district launched its teacher-developed and district-produced curriculum in reading and math, and first year results indicate a high degree of success in most of the classrooms where they were used.

Currently under study by the Board are programs and facilities for kindergarten through grade six. The findings of a staff committee resulted in a series of recommendations aimed at equalizing facilities and opportunities, much as the earlier seven/eight study.

A decision is expected this year on the disposition of Rancho View School, located at B Street and Warner. Current options under consideration include sale or rental, or moving of the district's central offices now on the valuable commercial corner of Beach and Warner, to the vacant school.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM: The District supports a strong basic program laced with a "diagnosis and prescription" teaching approach geared to each individual student.

This summer, several district teachers have been working with high school district teachers and officials to jointly agree on basic skills competency standards for graduating eighth graders. As a result of these meetings, a series of test questions and procedures has been designed to assess competency. This competency is the foundation of the district's educational program, and current test results show 75 percent of Ocean View eighth graders graduating with skills beyond their grade level as judged by national norms. The district is also strongly committed to providing as much success as possible to every youngster and to building the student's self-concept.

SPECIAL SERVICES: Because the Ocean View philosophy stresses meeting individual needs, a large number of special programs operate within the district. These include special classes for mentally gifted minors, located at two district schools, in addition to enrichment programs at each neighborhood school. Parents may choose to enroll their youngster in either. Classes for mentally and physically handicapped students are available, with transportation provided by the district.

The district also offers "open enrollment," a policy allowing students to attend any district school, assuming that space is available and that the student provides his/her own transportation.

Early childhood education programs, funded by special state monies, are expanding this year assuming financing for additional schools becomes available. This program, a popular one with parents and staff alike, operated last year at Crest, Glen, Meadow, Vista, Sun, Robinwood, Oak, Circle, Mesa, Golden, Pleasant, Lake, Village and College.

Special funding will be continued this year for American Indian Education, for disadvantaged and bilingual youngsters, metrics education, and for pre-school youngsters also operating within the district.

INVOLVEMENT OPPORTUNITIES: Ocean View has taken major steps over the past several years to provide involvement opportunities for local residents. Believing that participation in the school system is essential for both understanding and improvement, the district supports School Advisory Committees (SAC) in every building. More than 300 citizens are involved on the committees, studying curriculum, school problems, analyzing community surveys, and serving as a communications link between the local school and the neighborhood.

In addition to school-based committees, there are district-level committees of parent group presidents, Early Childhood Education, MGM, as well as staff committees that assure staff participation in decisions affecting the instructional programs.

Over 2,000 parents participate in an active volunteer program which has been underway for several years, and any resident with time or skills to share is warmly welcomed at every school.

SCHOOL TIMES AND CALENDARS: Starting times for each school vary, and, along with class lists will be posted at the schools prior to opening day. School holidays and time schedules will be sent home with students in the early weeks of the first semester. Questions regarding specific school schedules should be directed to the schools.

New students may enroll any time after August 23, 1977 and entering kindergartners should have proof of birth and immunization history with them at the time of enrollment. Parents of entering first graders are reminded that recent state legislation requires a physical examination prior to school opening. Forms for these examinations are available at local schools.

Park's Return Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park has been accused of 36 federal corruption charges in an indictment that lists former Rep. Richard T. Hanna of Orange County as an unindicted co-conspirator and names several other present and former members of Congress as recipients of alleged bribes from Park, the Justice Department said today.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said he will ask President Carter to contact South Korean President Park Chung Hee "in order to have Tongsun Park, who's now a fugitive, returned to the United States."

Bell said he will leave it up to the South Korean government to determine how Tongsun Park should be taken into custody if President Park agrees to the request.

Tongsun Park, a Washington party giver who has been the focus of the government probe of influence buying on Capitol Hill, has been in Seoul for about a week.

At a news conference, Bell declined to say whether Hanna, a California Democrat, and other members of Congress would be indicted.

Hanna, who represented the Anaheim area in the House of Representatives from 1962 to 1974, lived in Newport Beach following retirement.

However, he left Orange County in late July and a former associate said three weeks ago Hanna moved to Arkansas.

Following retirement, the Democrat set up business offices in Newport Beach and Irvine, serving in a variety of quasi-official capacities, including the county-funded Economic Development Corporation and the fledgling International Trade League.

County records show that Hanna resigned from the corporation formed to attract industry to Orange County on July 8 as the Park investigation was probing his business links with Park.

"The investigation is continuing," Bell said. "We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring."

The indictment Park was returned by a federal grand jury Aug. 26 and kept sealed until today when the department asked that it be unsealed. Although the indictment was reported last

Thrill Killing?

Horses and Cows Slain

Two thoroughbred horses and two cows were shot to death Monday in an apparent thrill-killing spree just off Santiago Canyon Road in the Cook's Corner area, Orange County sheriff's deputies said today.

A THIRD horse was shot through the neck but survived.

A witness, who had been motorcycling in the area, described the suspects as two white men, about 20 to 25 years old and driving a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

The slain horses were owned by Frank Waer of Orange and the cows were the property of a William Flowers. Flowers also owned the wounded horse.

ALL THE ANIMALS were shot with a small-caliber rifle at about 2 p.m., according to sheriff's deputies.

The witness provided investigators with a description of the vehicle and a license number, which is being checked out today.

Mom Flees Florida, Has Baby in County

Linda Okenewski, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., underwent a successful Caesarean section operation at 5:12 p.m., hospital officials said.

Doctors said the woman and child received no blood transfusion in the operation in which they cut into the mother's abdominal and uterine walls.

Dr. Anthony LeDonne, Mrs. Okonewski's physician, said there were no complications and mother and child are doing fine.

The parents have not selected a name for the infant.

Last week Mrs. Okonewski told officials at Broward General Medical Center in Florida she would refuse transfusions for herself or her child because of her religion.

Hospital officials said the transfusions would be necessary because of the mother's rare blood type.

Two Florida assistant public defenders appointed as guardians for the unborn child have sought to have the fetus made a ward of the court but were unsuccessful.

The Okonewskis then fled to Fountain Valley to avoid a court order which forced all Florida hospitals to give blood transfusions to the mother and child when the baby was delivered.

New School Started for Woodbridge

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held today to celebrate beginning of the construction of Stone Creek Elementary School in Irvine.

The school is the first for the housing area called Woodbridge. It will be located at the corner of West Yale Loop and Stone creek South.

Estimated cost of construction is $2.3 million.

The facility is scheduled to open next fall to serve 276 kindergarten through sixth grade students. Ultimate enrollment is planned at 480, with a maximum 600 students.

Woodbridge area children currently attend Woodbridge Instant School, a collection of portable classroom buildings on West Yale Loop.

Booby Alert

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

You can dial a telephone number in Los Angeles and the woman who answers will tell you cheerily, "There was a blue-footed booby seen last Wednesday on the breakwater at Playa Del Rey."

Or, "The boobies at the Salton Sea this past week were all very dark birds."

She's with the Los Angeles Audubon Society, and the telephone number (213-874-1318) is the society's Rare Bird Alert number. Anyone can call and find out who just flew into town, birdwise.

An increasing number of Americans — an estimated five million of them, are discovering the peculiar thrills of sighting the blue-footed booby, the wandering tattler, the American oystercatcher, the white-eyed hummer and a thousand other species.

The image of the bespectacled pantywaist who looks like Truman Capote trudging through the tall grass in knickers and kneesocks is being punched to birdfeathers by a new species of birdwatcher.

He's even got a new name: He's a birder, and his sport is "birding."

Robert L. Pitman, a UC Irvine research biologist, is one of the new breed of birder who'll testify his sport has its rugged side. He wears a brace from the time he fell 50 feet from cliffs on Santa Cruz Island, fracturing a vertebra.

Pitman was counting cormorants at the time.

It broke his back but not his enthusiasm for birds.

Pitman will try to communicate some of that enthusiasm through a UC Irvine Extension course in the natural history of birds, which will meet Thursdays 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., Sept. 29, Oct. 6 and Oct. 13.

In three Saturday field trips (Oct. 1, 8 and 15) Pitman and another UC Irvine research biologist, Paul Kelly, will take their initiate and experienced birders where the birds are: Upper Newport Bay and the San Joaquin marsh.

900 Illegal Aliens Caught on Coast

Border patrol agents picked up nearly 900 illegal aliens over the long Labor Day weekend, including one sedan with 15 adults crammed inside.

Agent-in-charge Al Janicky said it was a very busy weekend for the U.S. Border Patrol at the checkpoint where agents inspect northbound traffic on the San Diego Freeway.

"Saturday was really busy," Janicky said. "We apprehended 434 aliens that day."

He said 198 were picked up Friday, 128 on Sunday and 112 aliens stopped on Monday.

Agents pulled over a 1969 Dodge sedan Monday containing 15 men, according to Janicky.

"There were seven of them in the car and another eight crammed in the trunk," he said.

"They weren't very comfortable," Janicky added.

Another 16 aliens were spotted near the San Onofre Nuclear Plant on Sunday, according to San Clemente police. Agent Janicky said those illegals were also captured and included in the Labor Day weekend statistics.

Bull Panics Fair Crowd

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — A 1,300-pound bull crashed through a six-foot fence at the state fair and ran through a packed grandstand for five minutes before cowboys roped it. A woman was trampled by the bull, and two other people were trampled by fleeing spectators, officials said.

Vermont State Fair officials said several of the estimated 5,000 spectators in the grandstands when the bull broke loose swung box-seat chairs at the bull trying to divert it.

A Rutland Hospital spokesman said Virginia Cruickshank, 34, of Orwell, was in satisfactory condition in the hospital with head and chest injuries following the incident Monday night.

Forum Slated On Housing

The future of housing in Irvine will be the subject of a special public hearing before the Planning Commission, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Purpose of the housing element of the city's general plan is to detail Irvine's housing needs, goals and policies to meet those needs, and current housing.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Seven firms in the Kearney Mesa industrial area in the north-central part of this city suffered extensive damage from weekend arson fires over a 12-hour period, authorities said.

Irvine Panel Eyes City Arts Policy

The Irvine Community Services Commission has expanded its considerations for a city arts policy from the public to the private sector of development.

Last month the commission, trying to devise a plan to bring more art work into the city, examined the possibility of requiring developers of public projects to include works of art in site designs.

But at a meeting of the commission scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at city hall, commissioners have been asked to comment on four categories of development.

Besides public projects listed as potential subjects for an arts policy, schools, libraries, fire stations and private projects are being considered.

Among private projects included in the debate over a city arts policy are shopping centers, banks, industrial buildings, hospitals, housing tracts, apartments and condominiums.

Art works could include fountains, murals, statues, monuments, sculptures or paintings.

The Irvine exploration of such an arts policy is based on existing policies: Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and Philadelphia.

According to Jesse Washington, the city's community services director, one percent to two percent of gross estimated costs or projects might be set aside for art works inside or on the grounds of the projects.

Community services commission recommendations on the policy will be forwarded to the Irvine City Council.

Laguna 'Begging' Modified

The city of Laguna Beach will modify its anti-begging ordinance in the face of a federal court decision in favor of the Hare Krishna cult which had challenged the city law on constitutional grounds.

That was the word today from City Manager Al Theal who said a new ordinance meeting the court's requirements should be ready for City Council consideration Sept. 21.

U.S. District Court Judge David W. Williams ruled against the city Friday in a suit brought by the Society for Krishna Consciousness against Police Chief Jon Sparks and Orange County District Attorney Cecil Hicks.

Six Krishnas who brought the suit charged claimed that handing out leaflets and soliciting donations is a part of their proselytizing.

Judge Williams siad the municipal code was unconstitutional in allowing a city official almost arbitrary power to deny a permit to anyone he chooses.

The Krishnas, however, had never been denied a permit, Theal said. They had never completed the application form. The cultists balked at supplying the financial data sought by the city.

Theal said the overturning of the solicitation law has broad consequences for the city.

"Being a resort community, you could be deluged every summer with people wanting to solicit on the beaches, in front of the festivals and on the streets. That's why we're concerned about it," he said.

Jurors Back On Allaway Sanity Issue

Deliberations resumed today in Orange County Superior Court where a jury is trying to reach a verdict in the sanity phase of convicted killer Edward Charles Allaway's trial.

Divided at 8-4 when they took the weekend break jurors returned to Judge Robert P. Kneeland's courtroom today for what will be their fourth day of discussions.

The jury earlier found Allaway, 38, guilty of seven counts of murder and two of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the shooting of nine Cal State Fullerton employes on July 12, 1976.

The jury must now determine if Allaway falls within the standards of the M'Naughgen rule, the definition of legal sanity or insanity that is applied in California Courts.

Shooting Ends Romantic Feud

ARLETA (AP) — One man's loss of his girlfriend led to the shooting death of another, police said.

Dennis Fonder, 24, of Sepulveda, was found dead Monday at the home of William Scott Martin, 23, of Arleta, officials said. They said Fonder had claimed Martin had alienated his girlfriend, and the two had been feuding.

Stereo, Cash Gone

A thief crept through an unlocked open bedroom window of an Irvine house and took a $300 stereo set and $500 in cash, police reported today. Victim Renee Laurent, a 47-year-old auto mechanic, said the stereo was taken from his living room and the cash from a wallet he kept in a bedroom nightstand.

Moslem Chief Gets Prison for Siege

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was sentenced today to spend 41 to 123 years in prison for his role as leader of a 38-hour bloody siege that gripped this city last March.

Before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "I know that whatever happens here will be the will of Allah."

Khaalis would be 97 years old before he is eligible for parole.

A second defendant, convicted of stabbing two men at B'nai B'rith headquarters, received a slightly harsher sentence. Abdul Adam, 31, was sentenced to a total of 44 to 136 years in prison.

Khaalis and Adam were the first sentenced of the 12 Hanafis convicted July 23 of seizing three buildings here — the B'nai B'rith building, the Islamic Center and Washington's city hall — and with taking 149 hostages in an incident that began March 9.

Ten followers received sentences ranging from 24 years to life.

Prosecutors asked D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio Jr. to hand down stiff sentences to show "that those who use terror to victimize persons do so at the risk of forfeiting their right ever again to be free in society."

Nunzio sentenced Khaalis to five to 15 years in jail on 24 separate counts of armed kidnaping.

However, most will run concurrently. Only those counts dealing with hostages taken at B'nai B'rith Headquarters, where Khaalis and six other men held more than 100 hostages, will run consecutively. Nunzio also added an additional one to three years for conspiracy.

Khaalis also received a term of 20 years to life for the second-degree murder of a young radio reporter killed at Washington's city hall and five to 15 years in prison in connection with the shooting of two othe men there and for the stabbing and shooting of a man at B'nai B'rith.

However, the judge set all of these to run concurrently with the others.

In remarks before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "This country is in grave problems . . . and I'm ready to offer my assistance."

HANNA. . .

week, no details of the charges had been available.

Park was charged with conspiracy, bribery, mail fraud, racketeering activities, failure to register as a foreign agent, and making political contributions which are prohibited for foreign agents.

According to the indictment, Park, Hanna, and two former directors of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency conspired from about 1967 until Dec. 31, 1975, to bribe members of the House and Senate for their actions to promote South Korea's interests.

The two former KCIA directors — Kim Hyung Wook, who held the position between 1963 and 1969, and Lee Hu Rak, who held the job from 1970 through 1973 — were also named unindicted coconspirators.

Hanna played a key role in advising Park on which members of Congress should be bribed and how thousands of dollars should be parceled out to them, the indictment said.

Bell said Hanna is not cooperating with the investigation.

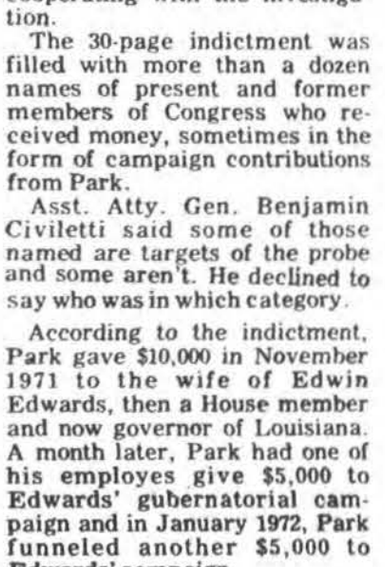

The 30-page indictment was filled with more than a dozen names of present and former members of Congress who received money, sometimes in the form of campaign contributions from Park.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti said some of those named are targets of the probe and some aren't. He declined to say who was in which category.

According to the indictment, Park gave $10,000 in November 1971 to the wife of Edwin Edwards, then a House member and now governor of Louisiana. A month later, Park had one of his employes give $5,000 to Edwards' gubernatorial campaign and in January 1972, Park funneled another $5,000 to Edwards' campaign.

In April 1972, Park had $3,000 in cash delivered to the campaign of Jack Miller, a former Republican senator from Iowa, the indictment said.

Later that year, Park delivered $1,000 to Rep. John McFall (D-Calif.), the indictment said.

SC Holdup Try Thwarted By Minister

A Costa Mesa minister thwarted a holdup attempt Saturday in San Clemente when he told two men holding a gun on him the weapon did not look real.

Rev. Paul Butler told San Clemente police he was outside Sebastian's West, a dinner playhouse at 140 W. Pico, when two young men approached him and asked for matches.

When Butler said he had no matches, the men pulled a gun and demanded cash, he said. The minister told them the gun didn't look real to him, and they could go ahead and shoot it.

Instead, they fled, running south toward the municipal beach club, Butler said. He described his assailants as 18 or 19 years old.

Irvine Housing Meeting Scheduled

A workshop meeting to discuss a major revision of Irvine's housing development guidelines, goals and policies will be held 9 a.m. to noon Sept. 10 at city hall, 17200 Jamboree Blvd.

Irvine planning department staff will give an overview of the housing element of the city's general plan and talk about what changes are proposed. The meeting is public.

Lance's Bank Playpen?

"Banks are not the personal toys of bankers — at least they are not supposed to be," Chairman Fernand St Germain said.

"While I do not want to prejudge, the evidence I have seen to date leads me to believe that Bert Lance, his family and friends regarded the Calhoun First National Bank as their playpen — to be used as they pleased."

A statement by St Germain, a Rhode Island Democrat, came as President Carter resisted efforts by two key senators to get Lance to resign.

In an interview with CBS News today, Lance said he doesn't believe the Carter administration is losing confidence in him.

Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and Charles H. Percey (R-Ill.), told Carter Monday that they think Lance should step down while Congress investigates what they called serious new allegations of illegality. Ribicoff and Percy are ranking members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which confirmed Lance and which is investigating his affairs further this week.

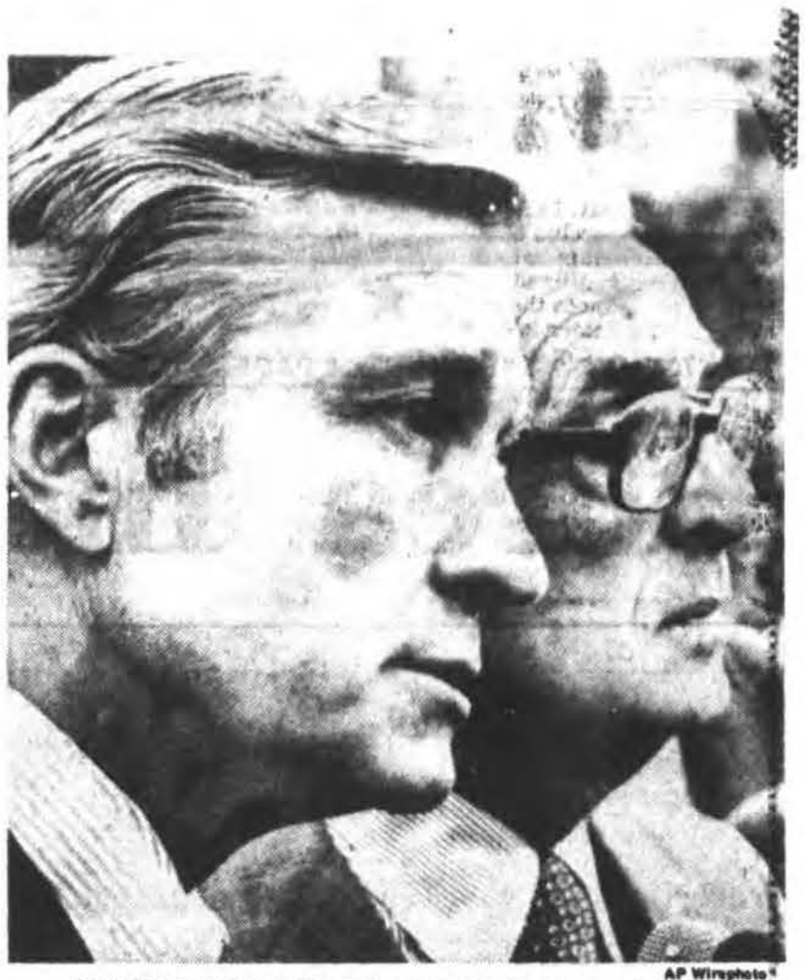

Carter was noncommittal today when asked if he thought Lance should resign.

"We'll see about that later," was Carter's only response to the question.

Asked if this meant he was not ruling out a resignation, Carter ignored the inquiry and returned to his Oval Office after saying goodbye to Panama's head of government, Omar Torrijos. Torrijos was at the White House in preparation for the historic signing Wednesday of a new Panama Canal agreement.

The President reportedly still feels Lance has done nothing wrong and will be vindicated by the committee's investigation.

"I haven't seen any evidence of that at all," he said.

"There are few places in the United States that are notorious for having lots of bird species," Pitman said.

The Orange Coast is one of them, though most people are unaware of that.

"That's because you have to go where they are to see them," Pitman said. Not many birds prefer the concrete habitats offered by urban shopping centers and highways, he said.

So Pitman plans to take his students to coastal salt marshes, chaparral, riverside, grassland and oak woodland.

He hopes to spot such rare species as the long-tailed Jaeger, rarely seen on the California coast because the Arctic tundra-breeding bird migrates at high speed and at high altitude.

In the Channel Islands, on San Miguel, is the biggest sea bird population — 20,000 birds is Pitman's conservative estimate.

Execution Threatened

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Telephoned threats claimed a kidnaped West German industrialist would be executed today. He was abducted Monday in a street ambush in which his chauffeur and three bodyguards were killed.

Authorities said they had detained two persons in connection with the attack and kidnaping of Hanns Martin Schleyer. But Chief Federal Prosecutor Kurt Rebmann said it was not yet known whether the two were directly involved. They were not identified.

Park's Return Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park has been accused of 36 federal corruption charges in an indictment that lists former Rep. Richard T. Hanna of Orange County as an unindicted co-conspirator and names several other present and former members of Congress as recipients of alleged bribes from Park, the Justice Department said today.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said he will ask President Carter to contact South Korean President Park Chung Hee "in order to have Tongsun Park, who's now a fugitive, returned to the United States."

Bell said he will leave it up to the South Korean government to determine how Tongsun Park should be taken into custody if President Park agrees to the request.

Tongsun Park, a Washington party giver who has been the focus of the government probe of influence buying on Capitol Hill, has been in Seoul for about a week.

At a news conference, Bell declined to say whether Hanna, a California Democrat, and other members of Congress would be indicted.

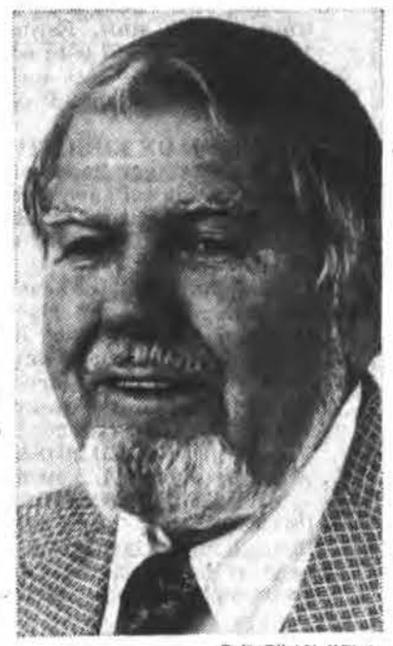

Hanna, who represented the Anaheim area in the House of Representatives from 1962 to 1974, lived in Newport Beach following retirement.

However, he left Orange County in late July and a former associate said three weeks ago Hanna moved to Arkansas.

Following retirement, the Democrat set up business offices in Newport Beach and Irvine, serving in a variety of quasi-official capacities, including the county-funded Economic Development Corporation and the fledgling International Trade League.

County records show that Hanna resigned from the corporation formed to attract industry to Orange County on July 8 as the Park investigation was probing his business links with Park.

"The investigation is continuing," Bell said. "We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring."

900 Illegal Aliens Get Return Trip

Border patrol agents picked up nearly 900 illegal aliens over the long Labor Day weekend, including one sedan with 15 adults crammed inside.

Agent-in-charge Al Janicky said it was a very busy weekend for the U.S. Border Patrol at the checkpoint where agents inspect northbound traffic on the San Diego Freeway.

"Saturday was really busy," Janicky said. "We apprehended 434 aliens that day."

He said 198 were picked up Friday, 128 on Sunday and 112 aliens stopped on Monday.

Agents pulled over a 1969 Dodge sedan Monday containing 15 men, according to Janicky.

"There were seven of them in the car and another eight crammed in the trunk," he said.

Another 16 aliens were spotted near the San Onofre Nuclear Plant on Sunday, according to San Clemente police. Agent Janicky said those illegals were also captured and included in the Labor Day weekend statistics.

Mom Flees Florida, Has Baby in Valley

Linda Okenewski, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., underwent a successful Caesarean section operation at 5:12 p.m., hospital officials said.

Doctors said the woman and child received no blood transfusion in the operation in which they cut into the mother's abdominal and uterine walls.

Dr. Anthony LeDonne, Mrs. Okonewski's physician, said there were no complications and mother and child are doing fine.

The parents have not selected a name for the infant.

Last week Mrs. Okonewski told officials at Broward General Medical Center in Florida she would refuse transfusions for herself or her child because of her religion.

Hospital officials said the transfusions would be necessary because of the mother's rare blood type.

Two Florida assistant public defenders appointed as guardians for the unborn child have sought to have the fetus made a ward of the court but were unsuccessful.

The Okonewskis then fled to Fountain Valley to avoid a court order which forced all Florida hospitals to give blood transfusions to the mother and child when the baby was delivered.

Booby Alert

Birdwatcher New Species

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

You can dial a telephone number in Los Angeles and the woman who answers will tell you cheerily, "There was a blue-footed booby seen last Wednesday on the breakwater at Playa Del Rey."

Or, "The boobies at the Salton Sea this past week were all very dark birds."

She's with the Los Angeles Audubon Society, and the telephone number (213-874-1318) is the society's Rare Bird Alert number. Anyone can call and find out who just flew into town, birdwise.

An increasing number of Americans — an estimated five million of them, are discovering the peculiar thrills of sighting the blue-footed booby, the wandering tattler, the American oystercatcher, the white-eyed hummer and a thousand other species.

The image of the bespectacled pantywaist who looks like Truman Capote trudging through the tall grass in knickers and kneesocks is being punched to birdfeathers by a new species of birdwatcher.

He's even got a new name: He's a birder, and his sport is "birding."

Robert L. Pitman, a UC Irvine research biologist, is one of the new breed of birder who'll testify his sport has its rugged side. He wears a brace from the time he fell 50 feet from cliffs on Santa Cruz Island, fracturing a vertebra.

Pitman was counting cormorants at the time.

It broke his back but not his enthusiasm for birds.

Pitman will try to communicate some of that enthusiasm through a UC Irvine Extension course in the natural history of birds, which will meet Thursdays 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., Sept. 29, Oct. 6 and Oct. 13.

In three Saturday field trips (Oct. 1, 8 and 15) Pitman and another UC Irvine research biologist, Paul Kelly, will take their initiate and experienced birders where the birds are: Upper Newport Bay and the San Joaquin marsh.

There's a Channel Islands trip in October to spot sea birds, Pitman's specialty, besides populations of porpoises, whales, sea lions, elephant seals, sharks and sea turtles.

Fee for the course is $88.50.

"There are few places in the United States that are notorious for having lots of bird species," Pitman said.

Brown Urges Labor Effort

"It's time you pull together," he said before a Labor Day meeting of the Catholic Labor Institute of Southern California.

Laguna Site For Shelter On Agenda

The Laguna Beach City Council will be asked Wednesday to select a site for a municipal animal shelter and to authorize initial architectural and engineering work.

Cost of the shelter has been estimated at $187,000 of which $60,000 was allocated in the 1977-78 city budget.

The planning commission has recommended placing the shelter on the city's old landfill dump just north of the SPCA facility in Laguna Canyon.

Also under consideration is a spot now used for summer art festival parking across the street from Hunt Automotive.

The city has studied alternatives to a city-operated shelter and a final decision is pending.

Other council business includes:

—Increasing the parking fine from $3 to $5 per violation of overtime meter or meter feeding.

—Seeking a $150,000 grant for acquisition of Moulton Meadows, property sought as a park between Top of the World and Arch Beach Heights.

The meeting begins at 3:30 p.m. in city hall chambers, adjourns at 5 p.m. and reconvenes at 6 p.m.

Boat Crash Body Found

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities reported finding part of the sixth victim of Sunday night's three-boat collision in the San Jacinto River today.

Police said the victim appeared to be an unidentified woman. Parts of her body were found a quarter mile downstream from the site of the accident.

Authorites said the wreck occurred when a motor boat, running without lights, pulled into the river and was rammed by two high-powered jet boats. Eight survivors were plucked from the water minutes after the crash.

Two policemen were hurt in the chase when their car hit a tree. The driver of the stolen car which contained stolen license plates, arms and ammunition, was arrested.

Crowds Small at Beaches

Newport Beach city officials are trying to figure out where everybody went over the Labor Day weekend.

The usual mobs that have crowded into their city in past years just didn't show up this year, although lifeguards said the beach wasn't exactly deserted.

Lifeguards said there were 75,000 beach visitors on Saturday, 80,000 on Sunday and 120,000 Monday. "It was crowded," remarked a lifeguard spokesman, "but it wasn't as bad as Labor Days have been in recent years."

Police said there were no major traffic tieups and the traffic and parking problems were no more severe than a normal summer weekend.

Lifeguards said there were only 67 rescues made during the three-day weekend. The low number was attributed to the small surf.

Air temperature on the beaches ranged from 66 degrees in the early morning to a mid-afternoon high of 71 on Monday. Water temperature cooled slightly from last week's 70 degrees down to 67 degrees.

Funeral Rites Held for Mr. Perrin, 88

Funeral service and interment for Kurt M. V. F. Perrin, a 47-year resident of Laguna Beach and an early Dana Point developer, were scheduled today in Santa Paula.

Mr. Perrin died Friday at a Santa Paula convalescent home. He was 88.

Mr. Perrin came to Laguna Beach in 1927. He became involved in real estate sales and development and associated with S. M. Woodruff in the initial development of Dana Point.

Later he entered the investment business and became manager of the Laguna Beach office of Crowell, Weedon & Co. Mr. Perrin moved to Leisure World upon his retirement.

Mr. Perrin, an ardent tennis player even in his 70s, helped establish the first city tennis courts near the Irvine Bowl park. He was active in the local Rotary Club, Masonic Lodge 672, the Laguna Beach Tennis Club and St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

The deceased is survived by a son, Kurt Douglas Perrin of Mazatlan, Mexico; daughters, Betty Stroh of Santa Paula and Marilyn Parker of Villa Park; seven grandchildren including Janet Bladergroen and Joan Forbes of Laguna Beach; six great-grandchildren and sister Joanna Sitzler of Karlsruhe, Germany.

Execution Threatened

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Telephoned threats claimed a kidnaped West German industrialist would be executed today. He was abducted Monday in a street ambush in which his chauffeur and three bodyguards were killed.

Authorities said they had detained two persons in connection with the attack and kidnaping of Hanns Martin Schleyer. But Chief Federal Prosecutor Kurt Rebmann said it was not yet known whether the two were directly involved. They were not identified.

Church Orders Critic Silent

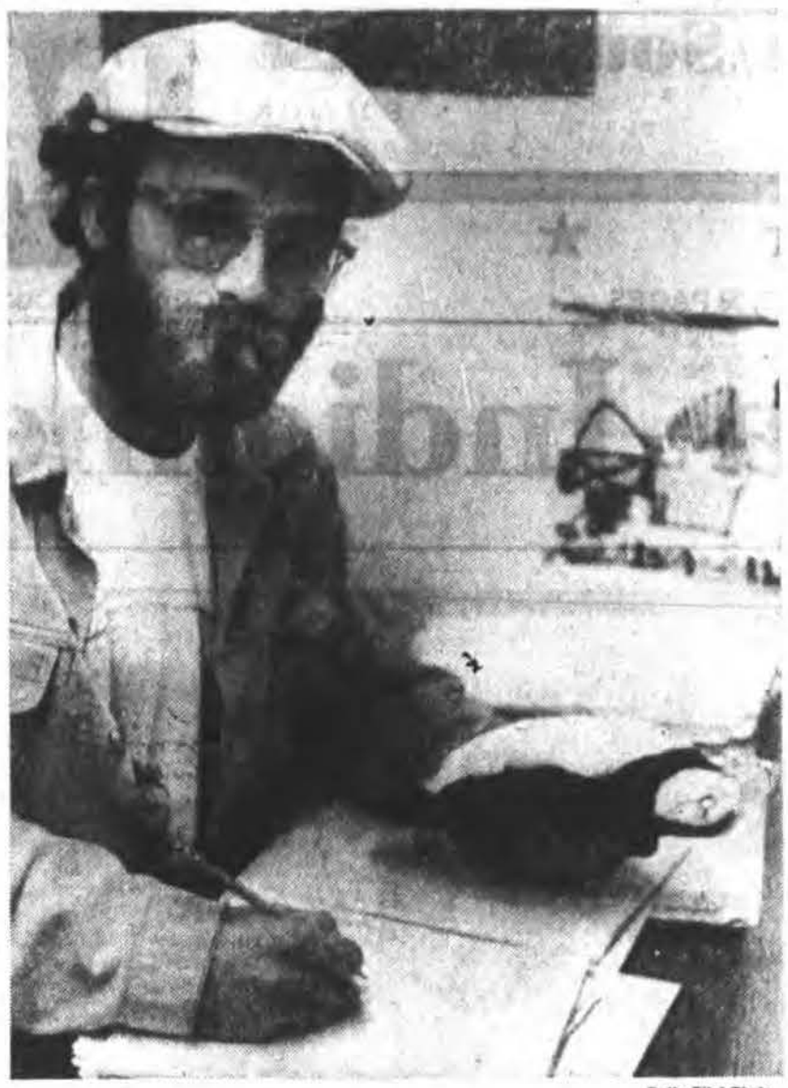

NEW YORK (AP) — The Vatican has ordered a New York Jesuit, known as an advocate for liberalized attitudes toward homosexuals within the church, to keep silent on the subject.

The Rev. John J. McNeil, author of "The Church and the Homosexual," was also told to ask the publishers of his book to remove the "imprimi potest," words indicating church permission, from future editions of his book.

McNeil canceled a scheduled speaking engagement at a convention of Dignity delegates, an organization for homosexual concerns he helped found six years ago.

Antique Rugs Gone

Three antique rugs valued by the owner at $200 were taken Monday from a Laguna Beach home, police said today. Glen Mochmar of 1481 Santa Cruz St., told officers the thieves may have entered the home through an unlocked door.

There are a hundred resident species of birds, and several dozen migrants who summered on the Orange Coast and are leaving, or who will winter there and are just coming. Enough, that is, to make any birder's binoculars water.

As for Pitman, "It's something I do naturally, and don't think about.

"For others, it's a way of getting in touch with things around them."

Shooting Ends Romantic Feud

ARLETA (AP) — One man's loss of his girlfriend led to the shooting death of another, police said.

Dennis Fonder, 24, of Sepulveda, was found dead Monday at the home of William Scott Martin, 23, of Arleta, officials said. They said Fonder had claimed Martin had alienated his girlfriend, and the two had been feuding.

Skiing Gear Stolen

Linda Harrington, 37, of 2845 Chateau Way told Laguna Beach police someone stole skis and ski poles worth $145 from her unlocked garage over the weekend.

Lance's Bank Playpen?

"Banks are not the personal toys of bankers — at least they are not supposed to be," Chairman Fernand St Germain said.

"While I do not want to prejudge, the evidence I have seen to date leads me to believe that Bert Lance, his family and friends regarded the Calhoun First National Bank as their playpen — to be used as they pleased."

A statement by St Germain, a Rhode Island Democrat, came as President Carter resisted efforts by two key senators to get Lance to resign.

In an interview with CBS News today, Lance said he doesn't believe the Carter administration is losing confidence in him.

Two Injured In Laguna Surf Mishaps

Two Labor Day visitors to Laguna Beach left the city with dislocated shoulders after suffering separate accidents at about the same time Monday at Main Beach Park.

Paramedics responded to two calls at 12:50 p.m. Monday at the busy beach park, arriving to find Darwin Babers of Fullerton, lying on the basketball court.

Firemen said the man dislocated his shoulder while playing basketball.

At nearly the same time on the beach, paramedics treated Philip Delorm of Upland, who said he was knocked down by a wave and dislocated his shoulder.

Both men were taken to South Coast Community Hospital where nurses said they were treated for their injuries and released.

Treaty Signing Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter welcomed Panamanian head of government Omar Torrijos to the White House today in preparation for the historic signing of a new treaty forged in 13 years of negotiations over the future of the Panama Canal.

Carter strode out of the Oval Office onto a collonade to shake hands with the Panamanian. They chatted as they walked inside, flanked by Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security assistant.

Torrijos and Carter spoke in English as they posed for photographs at Carter's desk in the Oval Office.

"It's all very well organized," Torrijos noted, referring to the administration's elaborate preparations to receive more than 20 Western Hemisphere heads of state or their representatives.

The dignitaries will observe the treaty-signing ceremonies Wednesday.

"I hope so," Carter replied, grinning.

"Well, we must have faith," the Panamanian replied.

The United States and Panama later gave final approval to the texts which will be signed by Carter and Torrijos.

"We have come to the end of a very long road," said the cochairman of the U.S. negotiating team, Ellsworth Bunker, as he initialed the documents for the United States.

The initialing for Panama was performed by its chief negotiator, Romulo Escobar Bethancourt, and the Panamanian minister of education, Aristedes Royo.

Lawyers for the two countries have been working on the Spanish and English language text since the conceptual agreement on the new treaties was reached in Panama four weeks ago.

The texts added little new information to what already has been said publicly by both sides.

POTENTIAL FIREMEN WAIT TO FILE APPLICATIONS
In Newport Beach, One Job Opening Draws 115 Men

A Long Line

115 Apply for Single Job

Newport Beach City Manager Robert Wynn said he thought city hall was being picketed today when he arrived for work and saw a line of men around the front of the building.

But the men were there to apply for the single job opening in the Newport Beach Fire Department.

According to a spokesman in the city's personnel office, the lineup of applicants for the firefighter's job began forming Monday night.

By the time city officials started accepting the applications at 9 a.m., there were 115 men in the line. It ran from city hall to Newport Boulevard and into the city parking lot.

The personnel department spokesman said a maximum of 300 applications will be accepted for the post.

Some of those who applied are firemen with other agencies, but city officials said the majority are men who want to become firemen and apparently feel the $1,038-a-month job would be a good way to start.

Brown Urges Labor Effort

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. told organized labor it should act to stop worker exploitation and help fight unemployment instead of "sitting on its laurels."

"It's time you pull together," he said before a Labor Day meeting of the Catholic Labor Institute of Southern California.

Park's Return Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park has been accused of 36 federal corruption charges in an indictment that lists former Rep. Richard T. Hanna of Orange County as an unindicted coconspirator and names several other present and former members of Congress as recipients of alleged bribes from Park, the Justice Department said today.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said he will ask President Carter to contact South Korean President Park Chung Hee "in order to have Tongsun Park, who's now a fugitive, returned to the United States."

Bell said he will leave it up to the South Korean government to determine how Tongsun Park should be taken into custody if President Park agrees to the request.

Tongsun Park, a Washington party giver who has been the focus of the government probe of influence buying on Capitol Hill, has been in Seoul for about a week.

Hanna, who represented the Anaheim area in the House of Representatives from 1962 to 1974, lived in Newport Beach following retirement.

However, he left Orange County in late July and a former associate said three weeks ago Hanna moved to Arkansas.

Following retirement, the Democrat set up business offices in Newport Beach and Irvine, serving in a variety of quasi-official capacities, including the county-funded Economic Development Corporation and the fledgling International Trade League.

County records show that Hanna resigned from the corporation formed to attract industry to Orange County on July 8 as the Park investigation was probing his business links with Park.

"The investigation is continuing," Bell said. "We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring."

The indictment Park was returned by a federal grand jury Aug. 26 and kept sealed until today when the department asked that it be unsealed. Although the indictment was reported last week, no details of the charges had been available.

Park was charged with conspiracy, bribery, mail fraud, racketeering activities, failure to register as a foreign agent, and making political contributions which are prohibited for foreign agents.

Thrill Killing?

Horses and Cows Slain

Two thoroughbred horses and two cows were shot to death Monday in an apparent thrill-killing spree just off Santiago Canyon Road in the Cook's Corner area, Orange County sheriff's deputies said today.

A THIRD horse was shot through the neck but survived.

A witness, who had been motorcycling in the area, described the suspects as two white men, about 20 to 25 years old and driving a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

The slain horses were owned by Frank Waer of Orange and the cows were the property of a William Flowers. Flowers also owned the wounded horse.

ALL THE ANIMALS were shot with a small-caliber rifle at about 2 p.m., according to sheriff's deputies.

Lance Bank Said 'Run Like Playpen'

"Banks are not the personal toys of bankers — at least they are not supposed to be," Chairman Fernand St Germain said.

"While I do not want to prejudge, the evidence I have seen to date leads me to believe that Bert Lance, his family and friends regarded the Calhoun First National Bank as their playpen — to be used as they pleased."

A statement by St Germain, a Rhode Island Democrat, came as President Carter resisted efforts by two key senators to get Lance to resign.

In an interview with CBS News today, Lance said he doesn't believe the Carter administration is losing confidence in him.

Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and Charles H. Percey (R-Ill.), told Carter Monday that they think Lance should step down while Congress investigates what they called serious new allegations of illegality. Ribicoff and Percy are ranking members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which confirmed Lance and which is investigating his affairs further this week.

'Threats, Abuse'

Wallace's Wife Leaves Mansion

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace's wife, Cornelia, moved out of the executive mansion today, saying she can "no longer endure the vulgarity, threats and abuse."

"I have struggled a long time to preserve my marriage," Mrs. Wallace said in a statement.

She said she has instructed her lawyers to "do what is necessary to protect me," but that she has "nothing further to say at this time."

There was no immediate comment from the governor.

The Wallaces reportedly have been having domestic trouble for some time, and a divorce petition was drawn in the governor's name several weeks ago but was not filed in court.

A moving van was seen at the mansion today, apparently to take Mrs. Wallace's belongings to a new home. Mrs. Wallace declined to say where she will live except that it will be in Montgomery.

The unfiled divorce petition, which blamed the marital troubles on "a complete incompatibility of temperament" and an "irretrievable breakdown of the marriage," came to light early in August when copies of the petition were mysteriously made available to the news media.

Neither Wallace nor his wife, was available for comment at that time, but Elvin Stanton, the governor's assistant news secretary, said "there's nothing to that."

Later, at a news conference, Wallace said it was a "purely domestic" affair."

CARLA SANTANGELO, 11, REUNITED WITH 'WILLARD'
Pilot's Dog of the Week Picture Draws Own Family

Lost Pooch In NB Pound

By JOANNE REYNOLDS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Willard was found, not too long ago, by the Richard Santangelo family of Newport Beach. When nobody claimed the lost dog, they took him in as a member of the family.

"We named him Willard, cause he looks like a rat," explained one family member.

Willard is listed as a terrier, but family members say the breed designation is just a guess.

Apparently in his roamings, Willard was arrested by police and incarcerated at the Newport Beach animal shelter, run by Dr. Wayne Davis at 3838 E. Coast Highway.

There he was spotted by Daily Pilot photographer Patrick O'Donnell who had gone to the shelter to shoot a picture for Saturday's dog of the week feature.

When the Santangelos opened their Saturday paper, there was Willard, renamed Wonder Dog, peering out at them.

County Birth Site In Controversy

Linda Okenewski, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., underwent a successful Caesarean section operation at 5:12 p.m., hospital officials said.

Doctors said the woman and child received no blood transfusion in the operation in which they cut into the mother's abdominal and uterine walls.

Dr. Anthony LeDonne, Mrs. Okonewski's physician, said there were no complications and mother and child are doing fine.

The parents have not selected a name for the infant.

Last week Mrs. Okonewski told officials at Broward General Medical Center in Florida she would refuse transfusions for herself or her child because of her religion.

Hospital officials said the transfusions would be necessary because of the mother's rare blood type.

Two Florida assistant public defenders appointed as guardians for the unborn child have sought to have the fetus made a ward of the court but were unsuccessful.

The Okonewskis then fled to Fountain Valley to avoid a court order which forced all Florida hospitals to give blood transfusions to the mother and child when the baby was delivered.

LISTED IN BRIBERY

HANNA. . .

According to the indictment, Park, Hanna, and two former directors of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency conspired from about 1967 until Dec. 31, 1975, to bribe members of the House and Senate for their actions to promote South Korea's interests.

The two former KCIA directors Kim Hyung Wook, who held the position between 1963 and 1969, and Lee Hu Rak, who held the job from 1970 through 1973 — were also named unindicted coconspirators.

Hanna played a key role in advising Park on which members of Congress should be bribed and how thousands of dollars should be parceled out to them, the indictment said.

Bell said Hanna is not cooperating with the investigation.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti said some of those named are targets of the probe and some aren't. He declined to say who was in which category.

According to the indictment, Park gave $10,000 in November 1971 to the wife of Edwin Edwards, then a House member and now governor of Louisiana. A month later, Park had one of his employes give $5,000 to Edwards' gubernatorial campaign and in January 1972, Park funneled another $5,000 to Edwards' campaign.

In April 1972, Park had $3,000 in cash delivered to the campaign of Jack Miller, a former Republican senator from Iowa, the indictment said.

Later that year, Park delivered $1,000 to Rep. John McFall (D-Calif.), the indictment said.

The thieves got into the residence at 131½ 44th St. by cutting a window screen on the apartment's bedroom window. Listed as missing was stereo equipment, a camera and a television set.

Moslem Sentence Lengthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was sentenced today to spend 41 to 123 years in prison for his role as leader of a 38-hour bloody siege that gripped this city last March.

Before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "I know that whatever happens here will be the will of Allah."

A second defendant, convicted of stabbing two men at B'nai B'rith headquarters, received a slightly harsher sentence. Abdul Adam, 31, was sentenced to a total of 44 to 136 years in prison.

Khaalis and Adam were the first sentenced of the 12 Hanafis convicted July 23 of seizing three buildings here — the B'nai B'rith building, the Islamic Center and Washington's city hall — and with taking 149 hostages in an incident that began March 9.

Ten followers received sentences ranging from 24 years to life.

Prosecutors asked D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio Jr. to hand down stiff sentences to show "that those who use terror to victimize persons do so at the risk of forfeiting their right ever again to be free in society."

Nunzio sentenced Khaalis to five to 15 years in jail on 24 separate counts of armed kidnaping.

However, most will run concurrently. Only those counts dealing with hostages taken at B'nai B'rith Headquarters, where Khaalis and six other men held more than 100 hostages, will run consecutively. Nunzio also added an additional one to three years for conspiracy.

Khaalis also received a term of 20 years to life for the second-degree murder of a young radio reporter killed at Washington's city hall and five to 15 years in prison in connection with the shooting of two othe men there and for the stabbing and shooting of a man at B'nai B'rith.

However, the judge set all of these to run concurrently with the others.

Dover Shores Dredge Case Appeal Asked

Dover Shores residents who want to dredge their two boat channels are preparing today to take their case to the state Coastal Commission after local commissioners refused to reconsider the projeet.

The upper Newport Bay homeowners had submitted an application for a $25,000 dredging project which would have cleared 5,000 cubic yards of silt from the two channels between Morning Star and North Star lanes.

Under the group's proposal, the material was to have been buried in pits dug in North Star beach. The beach then would have been graded smooth.

But regional commissioners said the project could not be done unless the material was taken four miles out to sea and dumped.

That project is to cost an estimated $50,000, according to Dorothy Doan, president of the homeowners' association.

Mrs. Doan said today her group is preparing an appeal of their case to the state commission.

They had written the regional commission asking for a rehearing last week, but Mrs. Doan said the association's board of directors received a verbal denial of that request late last week.

Commissioners imposed the dumping plans because they claimed the burying plan would cause a severe harmful environmental impact on the beach. But homeowners contend there is no scientific evidence to support that contention.

NB Sands Crowd 'Small'

Low Holiday Turnout Puzzles Officials

Newport Beach city officials are trying to figure out where everybody went over the Labor Day weekend.

The usual mobs that have crowded into their city in past years just didn't show up this year, although lifeguards said the beach wasn't exactly deserted.

Lifeguards said there were 75,000 beach visitors on Saturday, 80,000 on Sunday and 120,000 Monday. "It was crowded," remarked a lifeguard spokesman, "but it wasn't as bad as Labor Days have been in recent years."

Police said there were no major traffic tieups and the traffic and parking problems were no more severe than a normal summer weekend.

Lifeguards said there were only 67 rescues made during the three-day weekend. The low number was attributed to the small surf.

Air temperature on the beaches ranged from 66 degrees in the early morning to a mid-afternoon high of 71 on Monday. Water temperature cooled slightly from last week's 70 degrees down to 67 degrees.

NB Areas Compete For Clean Award

Newport Beach's communities are competing this week to see which part of town can get itself the cleanest during the city's annual Litter Awareness Week.

Large trash containers donated by the Dewey Dumpster Company have been placed in five locations and residents are using them to dispose of useless clutter from old newspapers to worn out appliances.

The cleanup effort is being coordinated by the Litter Control Citizens Advisory Committee. The big cleanup will conclude Saturday with a free community picnic from 3 to 5 p.m. at Peninsula Park adjacent to the Balboa Pier.

Live music and free hot dogs will be part of the festivities as will the awarding of certificates to the cleanest, most improved and dirtiest parts of the city.

Trash containers will be located at 3116 Newport Boulevard for West Newport residents; at the Market Basket on 23rd Street for Peninsula dwellers; Community Youth Center, Iris and 5th Avenues, for Corona del Mar; Mariner's Library, 2005 Dover Drive, for Upper Newport; and at the vacant church site on Cliff Drive for Newport Heights.

City planning commissioners will tour the areas before and after the cleanup to evaluate each area's effort.

For more information on Litter Awareness Week contact Suzanne Rudd at 646-7711 or Ron Whitley at 640-2271.

Men's Store Burglarized

Police said thieves smashed the front windows of Stuard's, 3439 Via Oporto early Sunday morning, grabbed more than 50 suits, coats and sports coats off the racks and fled, dropping five suits as they ran.

Police said the break-in was not discovered until 6 a.m. when William Neth, a newspaper deliveryman spotted the broken front window.

200 Indicted

Recreation Panel To Hear Park Plan

Newport Beach's Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commissioners will discuss a proposal tonight to use part of the three acres set aside for Bayside Drive Park for a city parking lot.

A letter signed by chamber President Bill Kull asks that the parcel on Bayside Drive between Jasmine Avenue and the rear entrance to the United California Bank be turned into a parking lot, since the recently completed Corona del Mar traffic survey indicated support for such lots.

However, Kull later indicated that the chamber's board of directors was not aware that the plans for Bayside Park, which include that parcel, were about ready to be initiated.

Cal Stewart, director of Parks, Beaches and Recreation said today the plans have been put out to bid and he expects the park's landscaping and bicycle trail to be installed by the first part of 1978.

According to Stewart, the chamber officials have indicated they will not push for the parking lot in light of the imminent development of the park, but they wanted to insure there is some public use of the city-owned parcel that has been vacant for several years.

Slaying Motive Sought

Costa Mesa police continued a search today for a firm motive in the Sunday slaying of a 16-year-old boy, whose slashed and gunshot-riddled body was discovered in an abandoned house at 1818 Pomona Ave.

Acting on an anonymous phone tip shortly before dawn Sunday, police went to the home and found the body of Raymond Jerome Gaspard.

Police said the young transient had been shot at least twice with a .22 caliber revolver, stabbed several times and his throat had been slashed.

Within four hours, police arrested another occupant of the house, Donald James Hartman, 19, who is now being held on a charge of suspicion of murder.

Hartman, unemployed with no local address, is being held on a $250,000 bond.

Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton said the District Attorney's Office will seek a murder charge against Hartman.

Hartman was arrested after he returned to the scene Sunday and was taken into custody for questioning in the youth's death.

NB Burglary Loot $2,825

A Newport Beach family, returning from vacation this weekend, found their home had been broken into and valuables worth $2,825 and personal papers had been taken.

Gustav Kol of 1842 Port Abbey Place told police a box containing heirloom jewelry and a television set were taken by burglars who apparently pried open the home's sliding glass door.

Kol, a native of Poland, told police the box also contained personal papers such as his birth certificate and his citizenship papers.

Park's Return Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korean businessman Tongsun Park has been accused of 36 federal corruption charges in an indictment that lists former Rep. Richard T. Hanna of Orange County as an unindicted co-conspirator and names several other present and former members of Congress as recipients of alleged bribes from Park, the Justice Department said today.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said he will ask President Carter to contact South Korean President Park Chung Hee "in order to have Tongsun Park, who's now a fugitive, returned to the United States."

Bell said he will leave it up to the South Korean government to determine how Tongsun Park should be taken into custody if President Park agrees to the request.

Tongsun Park, a Washington party giver who has been the focus of the government probe of influence buying on Capitol Hill, has been in Seoul for about a week.

At a news conference, Bell declined to say whether Hanna, a California Democrat, and other members of Congress would be indicted.

Hanna, who represented the Anaheim area in the House of Representatives from 1962 to 1974, lived in Newport Beach following retirement.

However, he left Orange County in late July and a former associate said three weeks ago Hanna moved to Arkansas.

Following retirement, the Democrat set up business offices in Newport Beach and Irvine, serving in a variety of quasi-official capacities, including the county-funded Economic Development Corporation and the fledgling International Trade League.

County records show that Hanna resigned from the corporation formed to attract industry to Orange County on July 8 as the Park investigation was probing his business links with Park.

"The investigation is continuing," Bell said. "We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring."

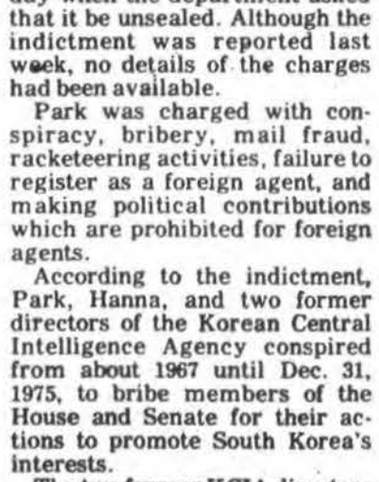

The indictment Park was returned by a federal grand jury Aug. 26 and kept sealed until today when the department asked that it be unsealed. Although the indictment was reported last week, no details of the charges had been available.

Park was charged with conspiracy, bribery, mail fraud, racketeering activities, failure to register as a foreign agent, and making political contributions which are prohibited for foreign agents.

According to the indictment, Park, Hanna, and two former directors of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency conspired from about 1967 until Dec. 31, 1975, to bribe members of the House and Senate for their actions to promote South Korea's interests.

The two former KCIA directors — Kim Hyung Wook, who held the position between 1963 and 1969, and Lee Hu Rak, who held the job from 1970 through 1973 — were also named unindicted

Thrill Killing?

Horses and Cows Slain

Two thoroughbred horses and two cows were shot to death Monday in an apparent thrill-killing spree just off Santiago Canyon Road in the Cook's Corner area, Orange County sheriff's deputies said today.

A THIRD horse was shot through the neck but survived.

A witness, who had been motorcycling in the area, described the suspects as two white men, about 20 to 25 years old and driving a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

The slain horses were owned by Frank Waer of Orange and the cows were the property of a William Flowers. Flowers also owned the wounded horse.

ALL THE ANIMALS were shot with a small-caliber rifle at about 2 p.m., according to sheriff's deputies.

The witness provided investigators with a description of the vehicle and a license number, which is being checked out today.

Mom Flees Florida, Has Baby in County

Linda Okenewski, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., underwent a successful Caesarean section operation at 5:12 p.m., hospital officials said.

Doctors said the woman and child received no blood transfusion in the operation in which they cut into the mother's abdominal and uterine walls.

Dr. Anthony LeDonne, Mrs. Okonewski's physician, said there were no complications and mother and child are doing fine.

The parents have not selected a name for the infant.

Last week Mrs. Okonewski told officials at Broward General Medical Center in Florida she would refuse transfusions for herself or her child because of her religion.

Hospital officials said the transfusions would be necessary because of the mother's rare blood type.

Two Florida assistant public defenders appointed as guardians for the unborn child have sought to have the fetus made a ward of the court but were unsuccessful.

The Okonewskis then fled to Fountain Valley to avoid a court order which forced all Florida hospitals to give blood transfusions to the mother and child when the baby was delivered.

Jurors Back On Allaway Sanity Issue

Deliberations resumed today in Orange County Superior Court where a jury is trying to reach a verdict in the sanity phase of convicted killer Edward Charles Allaway's trial.

Divided at 8-4 when they took the weekend break jurors returned to Judge Robert P. Kneeland's courtroom today for what will be their fourth day of discussions.

The jury earlier found Allaway, 38, guilty of seven counts of murder and two of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the shooting of nine Cal State Fullerton employes on July 12, 1976.

The jury must now determine if Allaway falls within the standards of the M'Naughgen rule, the definition of legal sanity or insanity that is applied in California Courts.

New School Slated For Aegean Hills

Saddleback Valley Unified School District trustees will be asked Wednesday to advertise for bids on the construction of a new Aegean Hills elementary school, which is scheduled to open next fall.

The district's 18th elementary school, designed to house 427 students, will be built at Arcadian and Lindley streets.

District officials estimate construction of the facility, which will include 12 classrooms and one kindergarten room, will cost about $1.34 million.

Trustees also will be asked to approve preliminary plans for a new Laguna Hills elementary school which is expected to be open in Sept. 1980.

Plans for this school, to be built at Camberwell and Beckenham streets at an estimated cost of about $1.5 million, include four portable rooms as well as 16 permanent classrooms.

Robert Ferguson, director of planning and development, said the inclusion of portables in the design will provide "a lot more flexibility." He explained that the school can be made smaller or larger as needed.

Trustees will be asked to authorize the architectural firm of Davis-Duhaime Associates to proceed with the working drawings for a fee of about $82,000.

In other action, trustees will be asked to decrease the district's revolving cash fund from its present level of $50,000 to $30,000, the amount normally held in this fund.

Trustees added $20,000 to the account to cover emergencies last May while they were facing a teachers' strike.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the district offices at 25631 Diseno Drive, Mission Viejo.

Pair Arrested In Burglaries

Two El Toro juveniles were arrested Monday on suspicion of burglarizing about 25 automobiles in the El Toro-Lake Forest area over the past two weeks.

Sheriff's deputies said they recovered $750 to $1,000 worth of citizen's band radio units, car stereos and speakers at the homes of the two suspects.

Officers said the 16 and 17-year-old youths probably planned to dispose of the equipment at a swap meet.

The pair have been released to their parents pending juvenile court action, officers said.

Lance Bank Setup Said Like 'Playpen'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman said today budget director Bert Lance operated one of his Georgia banks like a family "playpen."

"Banks are not the personal toys of bankers — at least they are not supposed to be," Chairman Fernand St Germain said.

"While I do not want to prejudge, the evidence I have seen to date leads me to believe that Bert Lance, his family and friends regarded the Calhoun First National Bank as their playpen — to be used as they pleased."

A statement by St Germain, a Rhode Island Democrat, came as President Carter resisted efforts by two key senators to get Lance to resign.

In an interview with CBS News today, Lance said he doesn't believe the Carter administration is losing confidence in him.

Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and Charles H. Percey (R-Ill.), told Carter Monday that they think Lance should step down while Congress investigates what they called serious new allegations of illegality. Ribicoff and Percy are ranking members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which confirmed Lance and which is investigating his affairs further this week.

Carter was noncommittal today when asked if he thought Lance should resign.

"We'll see about that later," was Carter's only response to the question.

Asked if this meant he was not ruling out a resignation, Carter ignored the inquiry and returned to his Oval Office after saying goodbye to Panama's head of government, Omar Torrijos. Torrijos was at the White House in preparation for the historic signing Wednesday of a new Panama Canal agreement.

The President reportedly still feels Lance has done nothing wrong and will be vindicated by the committee's investigation.

"I haven't seen any evidence of that at all," he said.

Asked if he thinks he will be exonerated of the allegations made against him, he said, "certainly . . . absolutely . . ."

He also said he did not believe his problems are hurting the administration.

The House hearing today focused on the comptroller of the currency's investigation which cleared Lance before he was confirmed by the Senate as budget

Bandit Robs Toro Eatery

A bandit brandishing a blue-steel revolver escaped Monday with between $600 and $1,000 from an El Toro restaurant, Orange County sheriff's deputies said today.

The 9:40 p.m. robbery occurred at the Red Onion restaurant in the Saddleback Valley Plaza shopping center.

Witnesses described the bandit as a black male, about 27 years old, five feet 11 inches tall and weighing about 200 pounds. He had black hair and a mustache.

Sheriff's deputies said the suspect escaped on foot.

900 Illegal Aliens Caught on Coast

Border patrol agents picked up nearly 900 illegal aliens over the long Labor Day weekend, including one sedan with 15 adults crammed inside.

Agent-in-charge Al Janicky said it was a very busy weekend for the U.S. Border Patrol at the checkpoint where agents inspect northbound traffic on the San Diego Freeway.

"Saturday was really busy," Janicky said. "We apprehended 434 aliens that day."

He said 198 were picked up Friday, 128 on Sunday and 112 aliens stopped on Monday.

Agents pulled over a 1969 Dodge sedan Monday containing 15 men, according to Janicky.

"There were seven of them in the car and another eight crammed in the trunk," he said.

"They weren't very comfortable," Janicky added.

Another 16 aliens were spotted near the San Onofre Nuclear Plant on Sunday, according to San Clemente police. Agent Janicky said those illegals were also captured and included in the Labor Day weekend statistics.

Hanafi Chief Gets Sentence Of 123 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was sentenced today to spend 41 to 123 years in prison for his role as leader of a 38-hour bloody siege that gripped this city last March.

Before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "I know that whatever happens here will be the will of Allah."

Khaalis would be 97 years old before he is eligible for parole.

A second defendant, convicted of stabbing two men at B'nai B'rith headquarters, received a slightly harsher sentence. Abdul Adam, 31, was sentenced to a total of 44 to 136 years in prison.

Khaalis and Adam were the first sentenced of the 12 Hanafis convicted July 23 of seizing three buildings here — the B'nai B'rith building, the Islamic Center and Washington's city hall — and with taking 149 hostages in an incident that began March 9.

Ten followers received sentences ranging from 24 years to life.

Prosecutors asked D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio Jr. to hand down stiff sentences to show "that those who use terror to victimize persons do so at the risk of forfeiting their right ever again to be free in society."

Nunzio sentenced Khaalis to five to 15 years in jail on 24 separate counts of armed kidnaping.

Treaty Signing Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) President Carter welcomed Panamanian head of government Omar Torrijos to the White House today in preparation for the historic signing of a new treaty forged in 13 years of negotiations over the future of the Panama Canal.

Carter strode out of the Oval Office onto a collonade to shake hands with the Panamanian. They chatted as they walked inside, flanked by Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security assistant.

Torrijos and Carter spoke in English as they posed for photographs at Carter's desk in the Oval Office.

"It's all very well organized," Torrijos noted, referring to the administration's elaborate preparations to receive more than 20 Western Hemisphere heads of state or their representatives.

The dignitaries will observe the treaty-signing ceremonies Wednesday.

"I hope so," Carter replied, grinning.

"Well, we must have faith," the Panamanian replied.

The United States and Panama later gave final approval to the texts which will be signed by Carter and Torrijos.

"We have come to the end of a very long road," said the cochairman of the U.S. negotiating team, Ellsworth Bunker, as he initialed the documents for the United States.

PLANNING UCI COURSES ON HISTORY OF BIRDS
Biologist Pitman Out to Give Birders a New Image

Booby Alert

Birdwatcher New Species

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

You can dial a telephone number in Los Angeles and the woman who answers will tell you cheerily, "There was a blue-footed booby seen last Wednesday on the breakwater at Playa Del Rey."

Or, "The boobies at the Salton Sea this past week were all very dark birds."

She's with the Los Angeles Audubon Society, and the telephone number (213-874-1318) is the society's Rare Bird Alert number. Anyone can call and find out who just flew into town, birdwise.

An increasing number of Americans — an estimated five million of them, are discovering the peculiar thrills of sighting the blue-footed booby, the wandering tattler, the American oystercatcher, the white-eyed hummer and a thousand other species.

The image of the bespectacled pantywaist who looks like Truman Capote trudging through the tall grass in knickers and kneesocks is being punched to birdfeathers by a new species of birdwatcher.

He's even got a new name. He's a birder, and his sport is "birding."

Robert L. Pitman, a UC Irvine research biologist, is one of the new breed of birder who'll testify his sport has its rugged side. He wears a brace from the time he fell 50 feet from cliffs on Santa Cruz Island, fracturing a vertebra.

Pitman was counting cormorants at the time.

It broke his back but not his enthusiasm for birds.

Pitman will try to communicate some of that enthusiasm through a UC Irvine Extension course in the natural history of birds, which will meet Thursdays 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., Sept. 29, Oct. 6 and Oct. 13.

In three Saturday field trips (Oct. 1, 8 and 15) Pitman and another UC Irvine research biologist, Paul Kelly, will take their initiate and experienced birders where the birds are: Upper Newport Bay and the San Joaquin marsh.

There's a Channel Islands trip in October to spot sea birds, Pitman's specialty, besides populations of porpoises, whales, sea lions, elephant seals, sharks and sea turtles.

Fee for the course is $88.50.

"There are few places in the United States that are notorious for having lots of bird species," Pitman said.

The Orange Coast is one of them, though most people are unaware of that.

"That's because you have to go where they are to see them," Pitman said. Not many birds prefer the concrete habitats offered by urban shopping centers and highways, he said.

So Pitman plans to take his students to coastal salt marshes, chaparral, riverside, grassland and oak woodland.

He hopes to spot such rare species as the long-tailed Jaeger, rarely seen on the California coast because the Arctic tundra-breeding bird migrates at high speed and at high altitude.

In the Channel Islands, on San Miguel, is the biggest sea bird population — 20,000 birds is Pitman's conservative estimate.

Trustee Filing Deadline Nears

Saddleback College has set Sept. 20 as the filing deadline for applicants seeking the trustee seat to be vacated within the next few months by Tustin's Frank Greinke.

The board chose to appoint Greinke's successor rather than hold a special election because of the expense involved. The Tustin trustee's term lasts until February of 1979.

Applications for the board post will be screened by the members of the governing board prior to the final selection process.

Greinke's district is bounded generally on the east by Newport Avenue, on the north by Crawford Canyon and Fairhaven Roads and on the west by Lyon Street.

HANNA...

Hanna played a key role in advising Park on which members of Congress should be bribed and how thousands of dollars should be parceled out to them, the indictment said.

Bell said Hanna is not cooperating with the investigation.

The 30-page indictment was filled with more than a dozen names of present and former members of Congress who received money, sometimes in the form of campaign contributions from Park.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti said some of those named are targets of the probe and some aren't. He declined to say who was in which category.

According to the indictment, Park gave $10,000 in November 1971 to the wife of Edwin Edwards, then a House member and now governor of Louisiana. A month later, Park had one of his employes give $5,000 to Edwards' gubernatorial campaign and in January 1972, Park funneled another $5,000 to Edwards' campaign.

In April 1972, Park had $3,000 in cash delivered to the campaign of Jack Miller, a former Republican senator from Iowa, the indictment said.

Later that year, Park delivered $1,000 to Rep. John McFall (D-Calif.), the indictment said.

McFall appeared throughout the indictment as the recipient of several payments.

To collect the favors he was allegedly buying, Park gave McFall a draft of a letter addressed to the Korean president in February 1973, the indictment said. The letter was to be typed on McFall's official stationary and signed by the congressman. The indictment did not identify the content of that letter nor did it say whether it was actually sent.

But about the same time, Hanna sent President Park a letter recommending "that President Park utilize all of his resources to influence the actions of members of Congress" and asserting that Tongsun Park agreed with Hanna's proposal, the indictment said.

Cause Unknown

No Injuries In Yacht Blast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 39-foot sloop exploded and sank at the San Francisco Yacht Club, but police said they were unable to determine the cause of the blast. There were no injuries.

Police Lt. Richard Shippy said although the origin of the explosion at 8:40 p.m. Monday was unknown, San Francisco police intelligence had been alerted through sources last week that the New World Liberation Front might bomb yachts in the harbor.

He said no special patrols had been planned in light of the information, but added that the marina was part of normal checks by cruising squad cars.

Within the past two weeks, the NWLF has struck on four occasions, including bombings at a Pacific Gas & Electric substation in Sausalito and the plush Olympic Club in San Francisco. An undetonated device outside the private Pacific Union Club here was found by police and disarmed.

"We don't know if this explosion is related," Shippy said.

A spokeswoman from the Peoples' Information Relay, which has received NWLF communiques in the past, said they hadn't gotten any information from any underground revolutionary groups relating to the explosion.

The sunken ship, the Major O, was owned by Paul Fisher, 45, an operator of the Comstock Termite and Pest Control Co. A yacht moored in the adjacent slip was undamaged.

Senators have said they did not know that Lance had made substantial overdrafts at the Calhoun bank and that the comptroller's office had reached an agreement with the bank to make him stop the practice.

Robert A. Bloom, who was acting comptroller at the time, said he did not tell Ribicoff's committee about the agreement because he thought it already knew about it.

Bloom had written a letter to the committee saying, Lance "enjoys a good reputation in the banking committee," but Bloom said he did not think the Senate panel was asking for a detailed account because it had given him only a day to write it.

"I tried to balance the negative comments with references to Mr. Lance's considerable postiive accomplishments as a banker."

Bloom said he had suggested to Lance that he tell Carter about the agreement "and subsequent events confirm that Mr. Lance followed my advice."

Silverado High School Accredited

Silverado Continuation High School in the Saddleback Valley Unified School District has been granted a full five year term of accreditation by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

WASC, one of six accrediting associations in the United States, is responsible for accrediting high schools and colleges in California, Hawaii, Guam and American schools in the Far East.

Silverado was given the accreditation for the maximum time allowed on the basis of an evaluation by three outside educators last spring.

Slaying Motive Sought

Costa Mesa police continued a search today for a firm motive in the Sunday slaying of a 16-year-old boy, whose slashed and gunshot-riddled body was discovered in an abandoned house at 1818 Pomona Ave.

Acting on an anonymous phone tip shortly before dawn Sunday, police went to the home and found the body of Raymond Jerome Gaspard.

Police said the young transient had been shot at least twice with a .22 caliber revolver, stabbed several times and his throat had been slashed.

Within four hours, police arrested another occupant of the house, Donald James Hartman, 19, who is now being held on a charge of suspicion of murder.

Hartman, unemployed with no local address, is being held on a $250,000 bond.

Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton said the District Attorney's Office will seek a murder charge against Hartman.

Hartman was arrested after he returned to the scene Sunday and was taken into custody for questioning in the youth's death.

"We really don't know the motive," said Lt. Lorton, who described the two youths as "young men with no real direction in life."

The fatal incident apparently started with an arguement and Lt. Lorton noted that the murder suspect may have become disenchanted with the victim's constant presence.

The victim's parents were notified of the death while vacationing in the mid west.

Labor Chief Hit

dealing with hostages taken at B'nai B'rith Headquarters, where Khaalis and six other men held more than 100 hostages, will run consecutively. Nunzio also added an additional one to three years for conspiracy.

Khaalis also received a term of 20 years to life for the second-degree murder of a young radio reporter killed at Washington's city hall and five to 15 years in prison in connection with the shooting of two othe men there and for the stabbing and shooting of a man at B'nai B'rith.

However, the judge set all of these to run concurrently with the others.

In remarks before the sentencing, Khaalis said, "This country is in grave problems . . . and I'm ready to offer my assistance."

SC Holdup Try Thwarted By Minister

A Costa Mesa minister thwarted a holdup attempt Saturday in San Clemente when he told two men holding a gun on him the weapon did not look real.

Rev. Paul Butler told San Clemente police he was outside Sebastian's West, a dinner playhouse at 140 W. Pico, when two young men approached him and asked for matches.

When Butler said he had no matches, the men pulled a gun and demanded cash, he said. The minister told them the gun didn't look real to him, and they could go ahead and shoot it.

Instead, they fled, running south toward the municipal beach club, Butler said. He described his assailants as 18 or 19 years old.

TDMs Top of the Trade

Apprenticeship Takes Time, Wages Low

CAREERS

Dear Joyce: I am a 38-year-old woman and have five children. Soon I will be their sole support. I am interested in tool and die making. Is this on-the-job training or taught in schools?
—S.D., La Porte, Texas.

Tool and die makers (TDMs) are classed as skilled workers. They rank at the top of the machine trades in pay and prestige.

Many journeyman TDMs earn in the $7.50-$10.00 an hour range, although this is not true for every tool and die making job in all parts of the country.

WHILE RELATED, TOOL making and die making actually are separate crafts; within them, some analysts count as many as 25 different specialities, ranging from diesinkers in metalworking industries to moldmakers in plastics.

Tool makers produce and repair jigs and fixtures — devices to hold metal while it's being worked on. Die makers construct and repair dies — metal forms — used for the mass production of parts.

A four-year apprenticeship is said to be the best preparation.

(IN YOUR SITUATION, S.D., you may not be able to support your family at the start because apprentice pay begins at half that of journeyman wages.)

Apprenticeship is undergoing change, so get in-depth advice from the U.S. Labor Department's Apprenticeship Information Centers, located in dozens of major cities. Two more sources of information: state apprenticeship agencies, and state public employment service offices.

A special pre-job training program for metalworking industries operates in 25-30 cities; the program is continuous in some cities, in others it's given at intervals. It's for low-income, unemployed people, and operated by the National Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association with federal funds.

FOR 12 WEEKS YOU'RE given a crash course in shop math, blueprint reading, and the like. You're paid about $60 a week and helped to find an entry level machining job when you're finished, from which you may be able to enter an apprenticeship program.

Ask your public employment service office for details.

Another approach is to attend a vocational school, then get on-job training. For school leads, contact your state department of education, division of vocational education; any high school counselor can give you the address in your state.

READER SERVICE: To obtain a free copy of "The Making of a Machinist," 18 pages, published by the National Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association, send your postcard request to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Allow several weeks for delivery. This offer ends Dec. 1.

Atlanta Terminal: Case of Catching Up

ATLANTA (AP) — Olympic marathoner Frank Shorter, in Atlanta for a long-distance race, told reporters he'd never run here before. But then he added, "Of course I've run that 10-mile loop around Atlanta airport. Everybody who changes planes does."

It's a familiar, if exaggerated, complaint for the 27 million non-marathoners who came through one of the world's busiest airports last year, a majority of them stopping only to change planes.

OFFICIALS HOPE TO SATISY THEIR complaints — and others — with the $400 million terminal and plane concourse beginning to take shape near the patched-up, outgrown present terminal at Hartsfield International Airport.

The airlines estimate passenger traffic through Atlanta — a hub connecting flights among hundreds of cities — will rise to 55 million by the late 1980s.

The facility is designed to handle that many passengers with ease, providing them with large parking lots near the two-building terminal, zipping them to plane concourses as much as a mile away on underground trains and moving sidewalks.

TRAVEL

Or so the designers say.

A PASSENGER RUNNING TO CATCH a connecting flight still could face as much as a half-mile on foot, but that's not as bad as some jaunts to far-flung gates at the present terminal.

Passengers and pilots alike will cheer the new terminal's location between major runways, a location that will end the current need for many planes to cross a major runway to reach their gates.

Eventually, airport planners expect to slice off the ends of the present terminal building — and lop off its top few floors — to make room for a fourth major runway and provide a good approach for it.

The new facilities are scheduled to open in 1981 — and the new terminal at present is no more than plans on paper, a little concrete and a lot of dirt and dust.

Bulldozers and other earth-moving machines work long days at the site, which is mostly on property that was already within the confines of the present airport.

Squabbles about city demands for black participation in contracts delayed the start of construction for months, but the dry summer that has hurt Georgia farmers has helped the airport construction crews get back on schedule.

TWO STRIKING SIGNS OF THE progress are a mountain of dirt piled up by the machines and a long trench where the "people-mover" subway is becoming recognizable.

The infield construction has caused a few headaches for air controllers "having to open and close taxiways, switch planes around," but in general there has been little disruption for scheduled flights, said John Braden of the city's aviation department.

The airlines agree.

Some airlines, which will foot the bill for most of the construction cost, were slow to give approval for the project which was first proposed a decade ago, just a few years after the 1961 dedication of the present terminal.

BUT THE AIRLINES ARE SOLIDLY committed now, and Braden said airline leases have been signed for all 104 gates.

City officials have been solidly behind the project for years and also have pushed for a second major airport.

The need — or desire — for expanded airline facilities in Atlanta is due to its nearly unique status as a connecting point. It is significant that the world's busiest airport — Chicago's O'Hare International — also serves as a hub for flight connections.

Several airlines — Delta and Eastern in particular — have found it profitable to plan their routes around Atlanta, thereby choking the Atlanta airport with travelers who never set foot on Georgia soil.

Without that relay traffic, the present airport would be just fine, but the city wants the traffic for a wide variety of reasons ranging from economic considerations to a feeling that it lends "major-league" status to the city.

And it also provides Atlanta residents with as good air service as any city in the world, Braden said.

Atlanta may be only a stop on a New Yorker's journey to Miami, but that connection status means an Atlantan has a number of nonstop flights to both those cities.

ATLANTANS CAN REACH 100 CITIES nonstop on scheduled flights and more than 140 with nonstops or one-stops, Braden said.

And that access is bound to expand if the government agrees to one of a number of airline requests for nonstop service between Atlanta and London. That would make Atlanta a jumping-off place for international flights originating throughout the South and West.

City officials who relish the situation say that despite the current expansion at Hartsfield, a second major airport is a necessity for the Atlanta area before the end of the century.

IN FACT, THE CITY HAS purchased land at two possible sites 30 or more miles north of Atlanta.

But work on a second airport has been held up by long, detailed federal procedures, by residents' protests that they don't want jets scaring their farm animals, by Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson's hopes to locate the second airport south of the current one which is south of the city.

And, as airport manager Grady Ridgeway said, the final go-ahead for the Hartsfield project has taken the "umph" out of pressures to build the second airfield quickly.
