Lance 'Welcomes' Public as His Jury

The People's Verdict Will Be Fair, Just'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bert Lance struck back at his tomentors today, acting as if he considered himself Gulliver beset by

He let it be known at the outset that his remarks were aimed at the American people, not the senators on the Governmental Affairs

'I WELCOME THEM AS THE jury in this proceeding," Lance said into the television cameras. "I am secure and comfortable knowing that my conscience is clear and that the people's verdict will be a fair and just one.

The setting was one of those big Senate Office Building hearing rooms that have become so familiar in movie and TV fictionalized accounts as well as in real life. The Senate Watergate hearings spring to mind, although they were in a different chamber.

Lance, the kind of big amiable fellow who looks as if he'd cry if he squashed a bug, came armed for the fight with a 49-page statement to read. And Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), the chairman of the committee, said he'd get all the time he needed, if it takes a Saturday session.

That alone indicates a serious matter.

LANCE WALKED INTO THE hearing room 15 minutes early with his lawyer, Clark Clifford, who was described as urbane as long ago as Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S Truman. Now he's described as white-haired and urbane.

I don't feel lonely today at all," said Lance as he looked around the crowded room.

He had plenty of support. Wife LaBelle and son David, 22, sat in the front row, right behind the tables for reporters.

'Nervous this morning?" a reporter asked as Lance made his way to center stage. 'No," he said.

HE STOOD COMFORTABLY BEHIND the witness table as a horde of photographers, sandwiched between the senators at their semicircular bench, clicked away. Lance's hands were in his . pockets. He looked unruffled.

The senators, meanwhile, looked lonely and ignored. Ribicoff called the hearing to order five minutes late and intoned that "we don't intend this to be a trial by ordeal."

AND SO IT WENT, LANCE'S first session of what he called his

One lesson he has learned, Lance told the senators in a Gulliver-

The Energy Research and Development Administration is planning to develop six locations for long-term or permanent burial of radioactive wastes by 1985. But the report by the investigative arm of Congress says that "ERDA may have promised more than it can deliver.

"There are, we believe, formidable social, geological and regulatory problems which must be solved," it continues. Foremost among them is opposition of the public and some political leaders.

"ERDA may not be successful in gaining their acceptance unless it can convince people that is has a sound waste-management program and that geological disposal risks to man's environment are acceptably low," a difficult task, the report said.

'Some radioactive wastes will remain hazardous for hundreds of thousands of years," it said, meaning they must be permanently isolated from human contact and environmental influence.

'A program must be developed for present and future waste-disposal operations that will not create unwarranted public risk. Otherwise, nuclear power cannot continue to be a practical source of energy," it

ERDA is considering burial of radioactive wastes in underground salt formations that are stable, relatively free of circulating ground water and able to carry off heat from the radioactive wastes, block the escape of radiation about as effectively as concrete and stretch, rather than shatter, in an earthquake.

In taking responsibility for the death, the Air Force said: "The United States does not contest the allegation that if proper care and treatment were rendered to the patient, Michelle Pope, the baby would, based on a reasonable degree of medical certainty, have been delivered alive and healthy.'

He declined to "contend that I made no mistakes" when he ran the Calhoun First National Bank of Calhoun, Ga., of which he was board chairman, and the National Bank of Georgia, in Atlanta, which he served as president.

But to accept the assertion that I could not even manage a small country bank, one must ignore the objective facts," he told the committee, which recom-mended his confirmation as the nation's budget maker last January.

Lance told the panel he answered questions from members and from its staff fully and accurately in January and withheld nothing.

In regard to personal loans he received from banks with which his own banks had special rela-tionships, he said, "In no in-stance was there a finding that the terms of my loans were more favorable" because of the business ties.

Lance vigorously denied he had backdated any checks to allow him to take income tax deductions for 1976, a possibility suggested by Percy Friday. Lance also made it clear that he did not take any improper deduc-

In order to qualify for their share, each of the three women would have to show an attorney, a Mr. Stouts, they had enough cash to live on for the 90-day waiting period.

The two young women took the older woman to her home where she got the money and the rings then drove to the attorney's office in Newport Beach.

One woman went up to the lawyer's office with the woman's funds and with the found money. returning moments later apparently empty-handed.

The older woman was then sent upstairs to talk to the lawyer and collect her cash, but when she got there, there was no lawyer's office, no cash and by then, the two young women had departed.

Courageous Leads In America's Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. — Shifty winds on Rhode Island Sound left some doubt today as to whether the second race of the America's Cup would be finished. Rules say the race must be finished in 51/2

At mid-afternoon, the two boats were still on the fifth leg in winds that had diminished to zero. The challenger Australia led the first three legs, but sailed into a hole as the winds shifted on the fourth leg, allowing Ted Turner and Courageous to take a 10:45 lead.

Three Sites Considered Newport-Mesa to Move Continuation School

Three Costa Mesa elementary schools are now being considered as a future site for the Newport-Mesa School District's continuation high school.

District officials plan to shut down McNally High School at 19th Street and Newport Boulevard at the 'end of this school year. Its 300 students would be moved to a new facility

A special study panel of inquiry was appointed today by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to study why a rocket built in Huntington Beach failed in a Tuesday night. launch from Cape Canaveral's Kennedy Space Center.

The giant rocket hefting a European Space Agency (ESA) communications satellite into the heavens on an experimental mission was blown to bits like a $40 million firecracker.

Divers began to hunt wreckage at daybreak Wednesday along the sea floor in 65-foot depths of the Atlantic Ocean off the cape to reassemble in search of clues to the failure.

LEVINE...

Pat Wallace, assistant director, refused comment on Levine's allegations, saying "It's a matter between Dr. Levine and the state board.'

Commission members were told by Levine that Fairview "bluffed its way through" an accreditation procedure by the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Hospitals, according to a Sacramento Bee account of the hearing.

Nathan Shapell, head of the commission, has been urging the commission to turn Levine's allegations over to the state attorney general's office for further investigation.

Shapell said in a prepared open-ing statement that the hearing was targeted at finding out how much the department had responded to commission findings one year ago on state health programs.

Hoag to Host Fair to Note Anniversary

In celebration of its first 25 years service, Hoag Memorial Hospital will host a free health fair Saturday as the hospital's thank you gift to the community for its support. (See related story, Page A13.)

More than 30 health organizations will be on hand to provide information and demonstrations. The event opens at 10 a.m. in the hospital parking lot. Included will be the emergency medical service teams from the Costa Mesa and Newport Beach Fire Departments as well as a rescue helicopter from El Toro Marine Corps Air Station.

There will be continuous entertainment from 10:30 a.m. until 4 "Healthy" food will be available for 25 cents and there will be free cake and ice cream following a cake cutting ceremony at noon.

Included in the list of dignitaries expected to attend are Assemblyman Dennis Mangers (D-Huntington Beach). Assemblyman Ron Cordova (D-El Toro), Mayor Milan Dostal of Newport Beach, Mayor Ron Pattinson of Huntington Beach and Mayor Bill Vardoulis of Irvine.

Entertainment will be provided by local Girl Scout troops, the Harbor Singers, the All Organic Low Calorie Kazoo Band, the Retrogressive Five and the singers from the Live Wire singing telegram agency.

Regents Eye UCI Design Center Issue

University of California regents, meeting in Los Angeles Friday, will be asked to okay a design for a previously approved $4 million University Center on the Irvine campus.

The design plan calls for a twostory, 30,000 square-foot concretebuilding, with a concrete and glass facade and heavy timber roof.

Estimated completion date is June, 1980.

The center will be located west of the campus administration building, within an area called the Gateway Quadrangle.

It will house student govern-ment offices, recreation areas, food service and a bookstore.

There will be lounges, music listening rooms, offices for clubs and organizations and conference rooms.

Radioactive Waste Chreatens Power'

WASHINGTON (AP) -Despite decades of study, the United States still has not figured out how to get rid of dangerously radioactive waste from power plants and military-weapons production, the General Accounting Office reports.

Unless this problem is solved, the GAO says, the accumulation of nuclear wastes with hazardous radiation that lasts up to half a million years "threatens the future of nuclear power in the United States.

Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration, defended the waste-disposal program before a House government operations subcommittee.

He said that many of the GAO's observations are based on 1976 data and outdated. He said that his agency, which will be absorbed by the Department of Energy on Oct. 1 - is doing the best it can to deal with the problems.

Fri said that the Carter administration will shortly announce plans to deal with spent fuel at commercial reactors, a program under which the government would reportedly offer to take these wastes off the hands of commercial plants for a fee.

The Energy Research and Development Administration is planning to develop six locations for long-term or permanent burial of radioactive wastes by 1985. But the report by the investigative arm of Congress says that "ERDA may have promised more than it can deliver.

"There are, we believe, formidable social, geological and regulatory problems which must be solved," it continues. "Foremost among them is opposition of the public and some political leaders. "ERDA may not be successful in gaining their acceptance unless it can convince people that is has a sound waste-management program and that geological disposal risks to man's environment are acceptably low," a difficult task, the report said.

"Some radioactive wastes will remain hazardous for hundreds of thousands of years," it said, meaning they must be permanently isolated from human contact and environmental influence.

'A program must be developed for present and future waste-disposal operations that will not create unwarranted public risk. Otherwise, nuclear power cannot continue to be a practical source of energy," it

THEIR AGES SOMETHING TO CHEER ABOUT Pep Squad Members Keran and Perkins

Real Seniors Cheer Leaders 28 and 36

FRESNO (AP) - At ages 28 and 36, Marlene Keran and Inkan Perkins are practically senior citizens as members of the

Another use for that leverage of age is in recruiting fans to attend games.

Our age is an advantage when we're talking to older students. At least we arouse their curiosity," she said. "And the younger kids on the squad look up to us. . . they listen to us. and they keep us young.

Battered Women's Aid Nixed

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) Feminists are seeking to dump a women's rights commission which has opposed abortion, the Equal Rights Amendment, and the "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" TV show while supporting the lady bug as the state insect.

The latest flap surrounding the New Hampshire Commission on the Status of Women occurred when the panel refused to act on a program to help women who have been beaten by their husbands

Although there was no formal vote, nine of the 10 commissioners said they were against the program. Commissioners at Monday's meeting said they saw it as an intrusion of government into the personal problems of New Hampshire

"You can't legislate love in the home. The government isn't designed to interfere here," said commissioner Simone Mason of Salem.

Commission member Gloria Belzil of Nashua simply said of the program's defeat, "Some women libbers irritate the hell out of their husbands.

Dorothy Craigie, commission chairman, said the panel has not dismissed the wife-beating problem but plans to "study the problem and come up with a recommendation.

The dissenting member of the commission, Frances Drown, said she would continue to pursue the program to help battered women at a special conference of women's groups set next Wednesday.

The commission's record also includes support of prayer in the schools and opposition to the repeal of a law banning lesbian activities and to a federal family and child services program.

But the rejection of the battered wives plan outraged feminists groups and women legislators.

Republican Rep. Gale Morrison called on conservative Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson, who appoints commission members, to remove those who voted against the pro-

Killers in Indiana Inspired by Movie?

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Vincent Bugliosi, who prosecuted Charles Manson and his family, says he is "terribly disturbed" over reports than an Indiana mass murder may have been inspired by a movie based on a book Bugliosi wrote about the Manson case.

"It's a terrible tragedy and I'm extremely upset about it," Bugliosi said Wednesday when told that one of the accused Indiana killers alluded to the movie 'Helter Skelter' in court testimony

Dan Stonebreaker, 20, and three others are accused of indiscriminately killing four brothers in a Valentine's Day rifle attack in Hollandsburg, Ind.

Stonebreaker, who has turned state's evidence, testified this week that he and another of the accused watched "Helter Skelter" on television two months before they walked into the mobile home of Mrs. Betty Spencer and opened fire.

We talked about it (the movie)," Stonebreaker testified. "It was the movie of how Charles Manson killed people for no reason.'

Stonebreaker said he. Roger Drollinger, 24, David Smith, 17, and Mike Wright, 21, picked the Spencer family at random. The attack killed 14-year-old Ralph Reese, his brothers, Reeve, 16, and Raymond, 17, and their halfbrother, Gregory Brooks, 22.

Mrs. Spencer's wig was blown off and the killers left her, apparently thinking she was dead, authorities said.

"This is the first indication I've ever received that anyone ever got any ideas from 'Helter Skelter',' said Bugliosi, a private attorney in Beverly Hills. People have asked me before if I was worried someone might get ideas from the book or the movie, but I said it has never happened. I'm terribly disturbed about it.

"I'm sure people will start saying that shows like 'Helter Skelter' shouldn't be aired, but that's an extreme, too," he said. 'What's the alternative? Are we going to keep stories of tragedies off the air because some demented mind might try to parallel the act? I just can't believe that just watching a movie would turn someone into a cold-blooded

Mexican-Americans Set Observance

Mexican-Americans in Orange County will join thousands of others in Southern California starting at about midnight tonight in marking 16 de Septiembre Mexican Independence Day

The celebrations begin with the traditional "El Grito," which literally means "The Yell" but is, in fact, a Mexican cry of freedom declaring independence from Spain.

Though there will no doubt be numerous private festivities in the Mexican-American communities of the county, few large activities have been planned to mark the day Father Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla aroused the revolt that began in 1810.

In Santa Ana, the county seat, Mexican-American leaders have prepared a special flag-raising ceremony at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Civic Center's "Plaza of the

After the ceremony, which will feature speeches by government leaders, a small parade will take place in the downtown area starting at noon.

In the parade will be a precision motorcycle team from Tijuana, high school marching bands, floats and other features.

The other large event planned in the county will take place in Placentia Saturday.

Casa Placentia and Amigos de Casa Placentia have planned a block party in the Atwood community. Santa Fe Street will be closed to vehicular traffic, according to organizers.

The event, which is public, will feature booths for food and games, live music and a queen crowning. It will run from noon to 9 p.m.

The actual day of Mexican in-dependence is Friday but the celebration usually lasts several Numerous events are taking place in Los Angeles, which has declared this week to be "Mexico Week." Tonight at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, there will be three and a half hours of Mexican entertainment, including mariachis, the Ballet Folklorico and the "El Grito" ceremonies at

The Sand And Fury

BARE FACTS DEPT. -Downcoast in San Diego, voters will be going to the polls Tuesday to decide whether or not bare is beautiful. The issue on the ballot is Proposition D involving a place called Black's Beach.

This relatively secluded strand is the only place in our region where public beach nudity is tolerated. Now the practice has become an election issue.

The question has raised some temperatures in the San Diego area and newspapers of that region are filled with letters, pronude and anti-naked. The question has triggered sermons, quips, puns, wisecracks and some pretty emotional blather on both sides.

ALAS, IN ALL the fervor. Black's Beach nakedness has drawn considerable attention in the news and not always with pinpoint accuracy.

As August began to wind down and the nude election month approached, a local television station fired the first loaded salvo by suggesting lifeguards were concerned about "an atmosphere of permissiveness" at Black's

From there, the papers began hyping the story, indicating police had established "a bikini patrol" to search for crime and sexual misconduct along the bathing suit-optional strand.

"Several arrests have been made, including one in which an adult male is charged with child molesting," a police spokesman was quoted as reporting.

THEN IT DEVELOPED that Al JaCoby, assistant to the editor of the San Diego Union, got suspicious of all these rather generalized reports. He went on an investigative spree of his own

In his column on the editorial page, JaCoby characterized the escalating nudie beach stories as 'a media storm.

JaCoby discovered that

Despite the television hype about "permissiveness" along the strand, an actual police report got buried in the flurry. That report said, "Black's Beach has one-half to one-third the crime of other San Diego beaches.'

There is no such thing as a "bikini patrol." Police had regular plainclothes patrols. The 'bikini'' name had been made up by a reporter.

As for the lone child molesting case, it had not occurred in the last few weeks. JaCoby pushed to find out when. He was given an "either April or May"

He persisted in insisting that police give him the precise date of that arrest.

They finally supplied it - last Feb. 6, a 50-year-old man who was babysitting a 6-year-old girl.

JACOBY WAS RIGHT. San Diego had been swept by a media storm in which the news people didn't cover themselves with

Folks Back Lance Hometown Rallies for 'Georgia Boy'

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) - It was like an oldfashioned revival meeting as the hometown folks stomped their feet, prayed and cheered one of their own —Bert "Good Ole Georgia Boy" Lance.

About 1,500 people — more than one-fifth of Calhoun's population — turned out in a demonstration of support for the director of the federal Office of Management and Budget on the eve of his appearance before a Senate panel investigating his financial affairs.

THE CROWD gave a standing ovation as the high school band played "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "I Did It My Way."

They had placards saying "Calhoun for Bert" and "Bert's A Good Ole Georgia Boy." They used words like "love," "friendship," and "honesty" to describe Lance, who did not attend the rally.

'I'll tell you what kind of a guy he is," said Jack Purcell, who used to be the catcher on the softball team when Lance was pitcher.

"I called him up last year to come speak to the graduating class of the school where I was principal. And even though it rained and the loudspeakers didn't work, he came and he spoke. And when I sent him a check for speaking to the class, he sent the check back because he didn't do it for the money. That's the kind of guy Bert is.

A DOWNPOUR drove the crowd from the high school football field across the street to a gymnasium, but it didn't dampen their spirits.

Lance's minister, the Rev. Emory Brackman, told of the "very generous" contributions of time and money that Lance and his wife, LaBelle, made to the First Methodist Church. He recalled that Lance received "the highest honor" a United Methodist can receive when he was elected to the church's General Conference.

LT, GOV. Zell Miller, who shared a double desk with Lance in grammar school, accused the news media of distorting the Lance affair. He denied a statement in an article in a national magazine that quoted him as saying Lance was a poor arithmetic

"Powerful and ruthless forces" - whom he later identified as the federal bureaucracy - have attacked Lance, Miller said.

'To say that Bert Lance has done something wrong does not make it so," he said.

THEY WANTED to talk about the backslapping, joke-telling Bert Lance who married his high school sweetheart and helped his neighbors as he rose from a 19-year-old bank teller to a 32-yearold bank president.

'He treated a man like a man wants to be treated," said John Houser, who carried a sign saying "Bert Lance Was Fair To Me . . . We Need Him In D.C." He said Lance helped him get back on his feet several years ago when he lost "a lot of money" investing in a mill.

"He went out of his way to help a lot of people in this town.

NewSS Plan } Hikes Limit For Retired

WASHINGTON (AP) Retired people could earn up to $4,500 next year without losing Social Security benefits under a plan approved by a House sub-

Its chairman says the current limit reduces some elderly persons to eating pet food.

RECIPIENTS WHO now earn more than $3,000 lose $1 in benefits for every $2 they bring in above the ceiling. That limitation, says Rep. James A. Burke (D-Mass.), means some retirees are "living on a diet of cat and dog food.

In a move experts say could affect a million people, the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security Wednesday tentatively approved raising the allowance in 1978.

Under the proposal, recipients could earn $6,000 in 1979 without facing an aid cutback.

THE LIMIT ON exempt earnings this year is $3,000. It is expected to go to $3,240 in 1978 and $3,480 in 1979 under a provision of the existing law that ties benefits to inflation.

The subcommittee's move, approved 9 to 3, was a compromise between proposals to abolish the limitation and others for a smaller or later increase. Republicans had suggested phasing out the limitation over three

AS PART OF the compromise, the subcommittee agreed that the whole subject would be considered again when the panel takes up long-range changes in Social Security, probably next

The subcommittee is now putting together legislation to keep the deficit-plagued Social Security system alive.

All the votes it is now taking are subject to later change or reversal. Burke, the panel chairman, predicted the move 'wouldn't get 50 votes against it' if it reaches the House floor.

Partly offsetting the cost of raising the income lid, the subcommittee voted to remove from the law a quirk that allows a retired person to earn as much as he can in a month if he forfeits his benefits for that month.

Report Says Breast X-rays Possible Cause of Cancer

tional breast cancer detection program should be continued. but its use of breast X rays should be restricted because of their potential for causing the disease in some women, a National Cancer Institute advisory group said today.

The report, presented today at a breast cancer screening meeting, said X-raying breasts, a process called mammography. effectively finds cancer that goes undetected by other methods.

BUT TOO MUCH is unknown about the possibility of radiation causing cancer for mammography to be used routinely on all women, particularly those under age 50, the study said.

Attending the meeting at the National Institutes of Health is a group of scientists, physicians and laypersons who hope to develop a consensus on whether the detection program should be continued and what it should in-

The report reviewed data from the $54 million Breast Cancer Detection Demonstration Project, cosponsored by the National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Society, in which up to 270,000 volunteer women aged 35 and older are being screened for five years.

The value of the project has been questioned not only because of mammography, but also because it is still unclear if early detection improves long-term survival, as many medical authorities believe.

'32 Million' Need Mental Health Care

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Between 20 million and 32 million Americans need mental health care, a new report to the government says, but help is often unavailable because of inadequate community services, costs that are too high or the stigma of mental illness.

"The time has come for mental health care to become part of a broader effort to deal with human needs," concludes the preliminary report of the President's Commission on Mental Health, released today

THE REPORT notes that 15 percent of the population needs some form of help, ranging from counseling to long-term care, not counting the six million who are mentally retarded.

At any one time, the report adds, about 25 percent of the country is under enough emotional stress that a doctor might diagnose such' people as suffering from depression or anxiety.

This semester, Courses by Newspaper explores "Crime, Justice and Punishment In America" beginning Sept. 17 in the Daily Pilot

The series of 15 articles was prepared by Dr. Jerome Skolnick, director, Center for the Study of Law and Society at UC Berkeley. He and 13 noted legal scholars and writers contribute the articles which make up Courses by Newspaper.

The weekly articles may be read just for their interest value, but many readers also enroll to earn college credit from area colleges including Coastline and Santa Ana Community Colleges.

Dr. Howard E. Fradkin, nationally recognized adviser in corrections and sociology professor at Cal State University, Long Beach, is course instructor for students enrolling in the Coastline Community College. Completion of the blank below initiates enrollment. The colleges may require additional readings, one or two on-campus meetings and a final paper or examination.

The Daily Pilot offer Courses by Newspaper as a public service. Readers residing in the Saddieback Community College District must obtain a permit from that district prior to registering for credit in another district.

Rich Bomb Target?

Blast Shatters Windows in SF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - San Francisco's wealthy were the apparent target of another bombing attack early today, in a raucous explosion that police said shattered windows in the city's plush Pacific Heights section but injured no one.

Responsibility for the explosion at about 2:45 a.m. was claimed by the Tom Hicks Unit, the New World Liberation Front, in a telephone call to the Associated Press early today.

THE ANONYMOUS FEMALE caller said "the bombing attack at Pacific Heights" was "to further press home our just demands for decent housing for all people in San Francisco.

She said an NWLF communique would be "available later Previous NWLF messages have said that attacks were to compel the city's rich to improve living conditions for the poor.

The attack was the sixth in about three weeks in and its second within a week.

A blast early Friday at the San Francisco Opera House crumpled an aluminum awning outside the building and shattered windows but didn't delay the scheduled opening of the opera's 55th season Friday night.

Official Urges Ship Terminal For 2 Tankers

LONG BEACH (AP) - A proposal for an oil tanker terminal designed to accommodate two ships, rather than three as originally planned, was raised Wednesday at a meeting of the. South Coast Air Quality Management District Board.

The board passed a motion by Orange County member Paul Raven ordering its staff to prepare a supplemental environmental impact statement on the effects of a two-berth facility. Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio) has proposed a $45-million three-

AN ENVIRONMENTAL impact statement has already been submitted on the three-berth, trestle-supported Sohio proposal, which would handle tanker shipments of up to 700,000 barrels a day of crude oil from Valdez, Alaska. The oil would be pumped through pipelines to Midland, Tex. for distribution to midwest refineries.

Raven's motion provides for public hearings within 30 days after the supplemental statement is realeased.

The statements include estimations of how much pollution the facility would create.

Baby Brings Woe

Eviction Fight Could Be Landmark Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- Steve and Lois Wolfson's bundle of joy has caused them a peck of trouble ever since the landlord informed them their baby son would force their eviction from the apartment where they have lived for more than three years.

Culver City Municipal Court Judge Harold I. Cherness began hearing testimony today on the suit the Wolfsons filed to hold onto their $390-a-month home overlooking the yacht harbor at Marina

They contend the apartment's ban on children violates state law. The case could have sweeping implications for millions of families with small children seeking rental housing.

MRS. WOLFSON BROUGHT her infant son, Adam, home from the hospital in September 1975, but nobody said a word about it for more than a year after he was born.

"We've never had any complaints about Adam," she said in an interview. "In fact, all of our neighbors have signed affidavits saying they like him and want him to stay in the building, and they're appearing in court on our behalf." A neighbor, Robert Smith, whose bedroom is directly over the Wolfsons' apartment, said: "We've never been awakened by Adam crying. The Wolfsons are very considerate people and have asked us on several occasions to be sure the child isn't bothering us."

IN NOVEMBER 1976, after the Wolfsons had signed their lease renewal. they got a letter from the corporation that acts as landlord, Marina Point Ltd., telling them they would have to leave because of the child.

Entrenched there since February 1974, they decided to fight rather than

"We love it here. It's a terrific buy, and we're pleased with it," Wolfson said. "There's a great view of the marina from both bedrooms."

Several other children already live in the apartment complex. They lived there before the ban on children was imposed.

"The children from adjacent buildings who came over to play in front of this one are a lot noisier than Adam's ever been," Smith said.

Aqueduct Repair Prolonged

Water Shutdown Imminent?

Northern San Diego County residents were facing imminent water shutoffs and 300 Riverside farmers had no relief for their parched crops as workmen discovered even more debris than expected clogging the vital Colorado River Aqueduct. Sand, gravel and rock were found as far as 1,000 yards into the pipeline Wednesday, causing Metropolitan Water District Officials to estimate the water route won't be clear until next Tuesday, rather than Sunday as they had predicted.

The aqueduct, a major source of water for 11 million Southern Californians, was shut down when a flash flood tore away a 2,500-pound access hatch at a Desert Hot Springs transition structure last weekend, pushing mud and muck into the adjacent siphon and pipeline.

A New Credibility Gap in Washington

Even as Bert Lance was scheduled to have his say before the Senate Committee, two things became painfully obvious:

Lance has to go.

President Carter has bungled this one badly.

It is clear that Lance's record as a financial wheeler dealer and his lack of candor with the Senate during his confirmation hearings and since have destroyed his usefulness. He simply would not have the confidence of the Congress and probably not the confidence of the people at large.

This is too bad because Lance by all reports has a pretty fair degree of competence and has had the confidence of the business community as a voice for moderation among the sometimes zany economic theorists in other parts of the administration and in the departments.

We have commented before on the fact that the furor resulting from the progressively more damaging revelations about Lance has overshadowed other problems that need more attention from Carter and more public discussion — the Panama Canal Treaty, the defense picture, the Middle East, energy and the economy generally.

Now we have Carter's own credibility suffering from the question of how much he really knew about Lance's situation. If he knew little or nothing, the administration looks terribly inept. If he knew much or all of the story, his judgment and his Mr. Clean image both are in question.

Now comes another damaging development: Press Secretary Jody Powell's "leak" of information about the supposed use by Sen. Charles Percy, a Lance critic, of free airplane transportation and other favors from various cor-

Apparently Powell's information was wrong. And this could happen to a new boy in town.

But there are two disturbing aspects:

It begins to smack of the old Ron Ziegler performance in the eagerness to harpoon a critic.

More important, it raises the question of Carter's involvement in the leak.

If we are to believe that Carter keeps a tight rein on the finer points of White House staff activities, it is hard to believe that Powell would have leaked the information without Carter's knowledge. Carter is too smart to let a press secretary jeopardize his relations with a key member of the Congress without knowing what's going on.

Mr. Carter better be preparing a full, frank explanation of all that has transpired, and he had better be ready to deliver it soon. And it better be good.

There is a man living in San Clemente who could tell Mr. Carter the perils of stonewalling and cover-up.

Wrong Target

Meanwhile, Sen. S. I. Hayakawa has weighed in with his share of foolishness in the Lance affair.

Rushing to defend Mr. Lance's "giving up a lot to accept the federal job," Hayakawa railed against the media for reporting (and in some cases digging out) the activities which now have Lance in trouble with the Senate.

Hayakawa apparently belongs to those who believe that nothing a public official does would be improper or illegal if the media did not report it.

Rather than "driving good men away from government," as Sen. Hayakawa seems to feel, the media exposure is about the only mechanism available to the American public for making sure that they get good men in the government.

Opinions expressed in the space above are those of the Daily Pilot. artists. Reader comment is invited.

Latins Eye Panama

It seems incredible that the U.S. distributes millions of dollars throughout the world in order to shed responsibilities, while in Panama, where the gringos would like to stay forever, a considerably smaller sum is offered. The South Koreans do not want the Americans to go, yet the U.S. pays the South Koreans so they can pull out. There is just no way to understand the gringos.

- Juan Carrete, Critica, Panama City (independent).

The agreement will make us a sort of sanctuary similar to Switzerland. In fact the only threat to the canal's security is sabotage. Our people have proven over 70 years that they are capable and responsible enough to keep it functioning. The agreement seems to be right and proper for the Panamanian community's best interests.

- La Republica, Panama City (pro-government).

The agreement in principle between the U.S. and Panama, in addition to providing a solution to the problem of the canal, also restores one's faith in the possibility of negotiating the many disputes that exist between our continent and the whole world. It is also palpable evidence of a new North American political style.

- La Nacion, San Jose (independent).

The projected new treaty represents a triumph for the Panamanians and for all Latin Americans. On few other occasions has there been such a continental consensus. Why, one might ask, is there not a similar unanimity about the independence of Puerto Rico?

WASHINGTON - The same Carter administration document that contemplates losing onethird of West Germany to a Soviet attack contends that removing U.S. troops from South Korea gives Washington "flexibility" to determine whether or not to intervene against Communist invasion from the north.

PRM (Presidential Review Memorandum) 10, a top secret

inter-agency study of U.S. force structures, also is gloomy about holding the South Korean capital of Seoul against invading North Koreans today. Even with U.S. air and naval intervention and U.S. troops still stationed in South Korea, the study suggests Seoul cannot be held.

All this contradicts President Carter's assurances that his decision to remove the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division does not undercut the U.S. commitment to South Korea. It also undermines current military doctrine based on the retention of Seoul as a necessity. Thus, South Koreans face the same problem as the West Germans: shall they believe public pronouncements of U.S. leaders or private documents of their staff experts?

The administration's claim that PRM-10 merely discusses options is simply untrue. Just as PRM-10 states that present allied forces could not hold one-third of Germany, its disturbing com-ments on Korea are based on conditions before and after the U.S. troop pullout, not on any option.

"ONCE THE U.S. land forces are out of Korea," says PRM-10, 'the U.S. has transformed its presence in Asia from a landbased posture to an off-shore posture. This. . . provides the U.S. flexibility to determine at the time whether it should or should not get involved in a local

veal an unpublicized reason for removing the 2nd Division: to give Washington the choice of whether or not to intervene. With the troops gone, says PRM-10, "the risk of automatic involvement (which was a major factor in removing land forces from Korea) is minimized. However, should the U.S. decide to intervene, military forces would be readily available."

Even with the 2nd Division still on station and the U.S. supplying "initial air and naval support at D-Day," PRM-10 spins a grimscenario: "If the North Koreans were to achieve tactical surprise, it is possible that they could at least temporarily attain their most likely major objective — the capture of Seoul."

While predicting North Korea could not win "a sustained combat," it predicates this on major U.S. help. "With the U.S. con-tributions of land and carrier based tactical air assets and material support, it would appear that the U.S. and ROK (Republic of Korea) would prevail against North Korea in the longer term, but with possible initial setbacks - including perhaps the fall of Seoul.

Thomas Keevil/Editor

WITHOUT U.S. help, the situation is desperate, according to PRM-10: "The level of forces which could be brought to bear at the front on D-Day would generally favor North Korea over the ROK in all categories. . The ROK has widely spread infantry forces with limited mobility and vulnerable stocks of war materiel."

The document implies a return to the old U.S. strategy of keeping allied troops away from the DMZ and instead falling back on Seoul. Now-retired Lt. Gen. James Hollingsworth changed that when he took command nearly four years ago, contending the North Koreans wanted to capture Seoul quickly and then start debilitating peace negotia-tions. So, allied strategy changed to a forward defense of Seoul.

Such a defense requires Korean confidence in U.S. readiness to supply indispensable airpower. South Korea long has worried that its defense pact with Washington provides a less automatic U.S. response to in-vasion than does the NATO treaty. President Carter's July 25 letter sought to reassure President Park Chung Hee that the U.S. troop pullout does not mean "any change whatsoever in our commitment."

PRM-10 undercuts all of South Korea's expectations. While emphasizing that only U.S. air and naval intervention could stop an invasion, it now makes that intervention a matter of choice rather than automatic response.

After our column reported the PRM-10 assessment of a Soviet attack in Central Europe, a senior West German army officer secretly visited Washington to find the truth. Interviews with 30 people, the general said, left "not the shadow of doubt in my mind" that the column was ac-curate despite White House denials. South Korea's generals may now begin a similar process with hopes that the answer will be more reassuring than the findings of their German colleague.

Red Carpet Treatment for a Communist

WASHINGTON - For 25 years, the State Dept has been arbitrarily blocking selected communists from entering the United States by invoking a law from the Red Scare days of Sen. Joseph McCarthy

The McCarran Act, passed in 1952, established nearly 30

categories of people who could not visit the United States unless they were recommended for visa waivers by the State Dept. Among desirables were prostitutes, polygamists, paupers and advocates of the "international doctrines of world communism.'

Now, thanks to a recent bill passed by Congress, the McCarran Act will soon be less restrictive. Over the years, nevertheless, the law has often been selectively applied. Out of some 19,000 waiver applications last year, for example, only about a thousand were denied. During the Richard Nixon-Henry Kissinger era, Communist leaders from Western Europe were considered anathema, because official visits to the United States would give them credibility at home. In 1975, for instance, a prominent Italian Communist, Sergio Segre, was invited to speak at the New York Council on Foreign Relations. The waiver was denied and the conference had to be cancelled.

COMMUNISTS who were critical of U.S. allies were also considered verboten by the Nixon administration. One such case involved a prominent British citizen, Carmel Budiardjo, who wanted to lecture in the United States on human rights violations in Indonesia. Under pressure from the Indonesian government, the State Dept. temporarily withheld her visa on the grounds that she had previously lied about being a Communist from 1946 to 1948.

In contrast, Communists who have the State Dept. seal of approval are speedily granted visa waivers and are ushered in on a red carpet.

Take Vulkan Shopov, chief of agriculture for the Bulgarian Communist party. As an Eastern European Communist, in an era of detente, he is ardently courted by U.S. diplomats.

SHOPOV CAME to the United States in June at the invitation of the State Dept. The U.S. taxpayers footed the bill for his month-long visit, including travel expenses to and from Bulgaria.

In a May 9 cable to the State

Dept., the U.S. ambassador in Sofia, Martin Herz, was ecstatic about Shopov's pending tour. Embassy strongly believes (Shopov) must be accorded VIP status as far as (expenses) and general treatment is concerned," exclaimed Herz.

The Communist leader, cabled the ambassador, should be taken to a "Southeastern agricultural region, including visit to Atlanta or other Southern city;" the Great Plains wheat, corn and soybean region; and the Western

In general, wrote Herz, Shopov "would like to see most advanced forms of American agricultural technology. He has said he expects to work hard during the

DESPITE the distinguished Bulgarian's announced intention to keep his nose to the grindstone, Herz suggested some lavish entertainment for the visitor:

"He would appreciate chance to see modern American dance (though we suspect anything too avant-garde would not go down well; believe American Ballet Theater, Alvin Ailey or Eliot Feld would be just about right), Broadway show (suggest, if possible, 'A Chorus Line' or 'Bubbling Brown Sugar'). Opera, or orchestral concerts. Shopov not interested in jazz or rock.'

The ambassador added a "special note." In his talks with Shopov, wrote Herz, the Bulgarian made a "special point of saying he does not want to bump into correspondents from (Radio Free Europe) while in U.S., and does not wish to give interview to (Voice of America). . . He asked that interpreter not be 'political immigrant' . . . '

Shopov had been assured, the ambassador stated, "that interpreter would be selected in such fashion as to assure there would be absolutely no political embarrassment."

WHEN HE finally arrived in the United States, Shopov was taken to the Smithsonian, the Kennedy Center, colonial Williamsburg, Va., and to other spots around the country.

But the scholarly Shopov, a State Dept. official told us, "squeezed in" the cultural sights only when he had spare time. The Bulgarian decided to forego Dis-neyland, which "disappointed" State Dept. officials.

'Romeo and Juliet' Wasn't Meant as Romance

Asked to name Shakespeare's "most romantic" play, ninety-nine persons out of 100 would promptly reply: "Romeo and Juliet." And they would be shocked and disbelieving to be told it is really an "anti-romantic" play.

In recalling the tale, it is easy to forget that Romeo was passionately passionately in love with another girl in the first act. Her name was Rosaline, and Romeo is convinced no other women exists for him that is, until he spies Juliet, who is not yet 14. Then he is just as quickly convinced that he "never saw true beauty till this night."

is not only love at first sight, but first sight is nearly last sight. Their contacts are brief, furtive, and spasmodic; their mutual infatuation lasts only a few days, to be culminated in the double tragedy.

knew nothing about each other. It

(Several playwrights — the funniest among them being W.S. Gilbert — have speculated on what the married life of Romeo and Juliet might have been like if they had not perished. The con-sensus is that they would have ended like most married couples, in a truce, comfortable or un-TT IS NOT the enmity between the Montagues and Capulets that precipitates the tragedy, but the hastiness of the couple. They are slaves of passion, and Shakespeare consistently warns warns us that catastrophe awaits auch people. ("O give me that man that is not passion's slave It is interesting to note, further, that Shakespeare borrowed the story from a long poem by Arthur Brooke, in which the original Juliet is a "wily wench" who waxes merry over her suc-cessful deception of her mother. Brooke sees the death of the cou-ple as "deserved punishment" for their rashness (Shakespeare goes even further by changing Brooke's months into days, so that Romeo and Juliet are virtually strangers to each

EVERYTHING in the play is an unfortunate "accident," brought on by their headlong passion. It is accidental that Mercutio takes Romeo to the dance where he meets Juliet. It is an accident that brings him to the fateful duel between Tybalt and Mercutio. It is an accident that

Friar John is quarantined. And it is a fatal accident that Juliet awakens from her trance a moment too late to prevent Romeo taking poison.

It is not a play about "love" at all, but about romantic rashness. Everybody is overexcited, especially Romeo at each critical turning of the plot. The im-petuosity of the Montagues and Capulets is reflected in the behavior of their children — and "Romeo and Juliet," rather than being a dramatic rebuke to the hatred between the houses, is an example of "the sins of the fathers being handed down to the children."

Shakespeare was for love, as no poet before or since; he was not for its callow counterfeits, or for passion out of control, lives lost by blind chance. This is what his "most romantic" play is all

Unions Balance Economy

WASHINGTON - The other day an intelligent young person asked me whether there were labor unions in the U.S. as early as the Twenties. I replied that there sure were.

that unions h a v e since the last century and grew up with our industrial life.

I was only partly right. True, the International Typographical Union dates to 1852, but in 1648, long before this land had its Industrial Revolution, the shoemakers and barrel workers had formed a union in Boston. The urgefor workers to organize to protect themselves is both deeply felt and universal, and goes back to al least the Mid-dle Ages.

Perhaps my young friend, growing up in the television era, thinks of unions in terms of Cesar Chavez and the grape workers, or the disappearance of Jimmy Hoffa, or the murder of Jock Yablonski.

Unions are so integrated in our economic system that their role is often functionary. They splash in the press during strikes, or threats of them, or when Democratic aspirants are looking for money, or when good old Hubert Humphrey is pushing another full employment

TO MANY Americans, unions loom as powerful ogres, capable of crippling or even destroying our enterprise system. Frankly, unions are often a pain in the you-know-where. No baron of industry was ever more autocratic than some labor skates I have known. But the labor movement is an absolutely necessary balance wheel in our society - indeed, has essentially been a conservative influence in our national life.

Despite all the huffing and puffing at the national level, the labor movement these days is scarcely holding its own. Only 20 million of the 97 million employed Americans (20 percent of work force) belong to labor unions. Employment growth is in the government and service sectors and in the South. Labor unions make little headway in these areas.

Moreover, most union members would rather gape at TV than go to meetings, and yawn about their affiliation unless there is strike talk. The union movement is run from the aging top. AFL-CIO president George Meany, four score and three, isn't too much older than the rest of uniondom's brass.

In the Thirties, a collection of spirited, courageous young men organized the huge Basic Industries of America. That was adventure. But today, unions representing workers in autos, steel, rubber, aluminum, glass and mining have settled into efficient maintenance of their members' rights and welfare. The growth is in associations representing government employes, say, civil workers or teachers. These associations like to think of themselves as "professional," though they talk, act and function like labor un-

IF THERE is any question that labor leaders and their members are really middleof-the-road to conservative in social and political outlook, flash back to the hard-hat movement during the Vietnamese war, or to the reality that the majority of union members voted for Richard Nixon, not George McGovern, in 1972.

Still, without labor unions, the American economic system could turn back to chaos. The lust for the buck is so strong in our society that avarice and exploitation would surely overwhelm, if there were no labor unions.

Unions serve a bourgeoisie, not revolutionary, purpose They balance, and keep industry and business on notice not to get out of line, to put aside any lustful, greedy urges.

Though I am far from a liberal, I have never regretted belonging to labor unions (Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America, Laborers and Hod Carriers International Union of North America, The Newspaper Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists). A seat belt or crash helmet may be be uncomfortable, but they are necessary.

AND UNIONS can help keep industrial order as well as disturb it. One of the great industrial relations experts of our time is Lou Seaton, now retired as vice president of General Motors, in charge of personnel. He once told me. after a heated bargaining session with Walter Reuther:

"The UAW can drive you up the wall, but General Motors couldn't operate without it. Imagine having 50 different outfits in our plant system, all yipping or threatening to walk out. At least with the UAW we have some consistency and know where we

Editorial Views

By The Associated Press

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion on the proposed Panama Canal treaty:

ARIZONA DAILY STAR - "By putting all its energies into the canal pact, the Carter administration has shown that its priorities are out of line. Just as the canal is an emotional issue that elicits pangs of patriotic fervor, limitation of strategic arms is more abstract, less likely to stir latent jingoism.

ALBUQUERQUE N.M. TRIBUNE -- "Carter and the country have much to lose in a treaty defeat. His ability to conduct foreign affairs would be diminished. Other countries would hesitate to make agreements with us, even vital ones on limiting nuclear weapons, out of fear that the White House could not deliver congressional approval.'

SEATTLE POST-INTELLIGENCER . "This nation, it must be admitted, was engaged in practices, 74 years ago when the treaty was written, that we now condemn in Soviet strategy when segments of the population in a country are induced to rebel against that nation's leadership.'

NEW YORK DAILY NEWS -- "Transferring ownership of the waterway to Panama would not impose any hardships on the U.S., or diminish its security. And doing so would be a mark of strength rather than, as treaty foes contend, a sign of weakness.'

Privacy Bill Signed

SACRAMENTO (AP) - A right-to-privacy bill banning secret government files and allowing persons to review most of the data the state keeps on them has been signed by Gov. Edmund Brown

The bill is SB 170 by Sen. David Roberti (D-Los Angeles). Brown vetoed similar bills in 1975 and 1976, contending they were too costly.

Last year the governor signed an executive order that was similar to the Roberti bill, but critics said it did not go far enough and could be revoked by another governor.

The bill, modeled after privacy legislation enacted by Congress in 1974, gives persons the right to inspect records kept on them by the state, except for some law enforcement data.

Courageous Favord to Retain Trophy

It's almost that easy

The only question left is whether skipper Noel Robins' 12-meter yacht Australia, the challenger from Perth, will be able to win a race in the best-ofseven series, which began Tuesday with a convincing victory for Courageous and skipper Ted Turner.

THE TWO BOATS continue the series today, if the weather permits, and it has come down to a race not so much of holl speed - which seems comparable -but of sails, rigging, tactics and crew work.

In fact, one of the reasons hull speed has been so comparable is that Australia is very similar in design to Courageous. A source inside Sparkman and Stephens of New York, which designed Courageous, said the firm strongly suspects the Australia syndicate had drawings of Courageous before building the new Aussie yacht. Other publushed reports have indicated the same.

'We're not making any predictions," said Bob McCullough, commodore of the sponsoring New York Yacht Club. "After all, we all know that Australia is a carbon copy of Courageous,"

IN THE FIRST RACE, Australia's hull speed stood her in good steal . . . after dropping more than a minute behind on the first leg because of sail

The experience behind the American defense, the 23rd since the schooner America won the trophy in 1851, is immense.

Two of the world's best-known and most successful sailmakers - Ted Hood of Marblehead, Mass., and Lowell North of San Diego - were skippers of defense candidates which Courageous eliminated. Courageous uses Hood sails. Australia uses North sails made in Australia. And both Sverige of Sweden and Australia's Gretel II, unsuccessful challengers, used foreign-made North sails

Schedule Given For Harris Series

The California Yacht Club has announced the schedule of its annual Fred Harris Fall Series, a four-race offshore series on Santa Monica Bay com memorating the late Fred "Friendly" Harris Harris, one of the most well-known and com petitive yachtsmen in Southern California, died a few years ago after a long bout with cancer During the last year of his life he gained considerable publicity from his frequent visits to cancer patients throughout the Southwest, offering friendly en couragement. Despite knowing that his illness was terminal, he continued to compete in yacht races until the last.

The Harris Series is open to all yachts of the In ternational Offshore Rule, Performance Handicap Racing Fleet, Midget Ocean Racing Fleet, Midget Ocean Racing Association, and Cruising Club of America rating rules.

First race of the series will be the Squirrel Bank Race, an 18-miler over a windward leeward course Sept. 17.

Other races will be the Inverted Enduro, Sept 24; Lazy 8 Race, Oct. 1, and the Five O'clock Bell race, Oct. 15.

Sailing Courses Offered at College

Coastline Community College is offering two marine oriented courses this fall — one on ocean sportfishing and the other on the techniques of sailing and the design of sailcraft. The fishing course will be held at the McGaugh Intermediate School Library, 1698 Bolsa Ave., Seaf Beach. The first lecture will be held Monday night Sept. 19 from 7 to 10 p.m. and will continue each Monday night through Oct. 24. Lecturer will be Jack Main, a professional fisherman for over 50 years and co-owner-operator of a fleet sport and commercial fishing boats. The sailing lectures will start Thursday, Sept. 29, and continue each Thursday through Nov. 3 at the Harbor View School Multipurpose Room, 900 Goldenod Ave., Corona del Mar. Lecturer will be Al Nelson, a veteran sailor with more than 30 years experience in everything from Sabots to 12-meters. There is no charge for either series. Registration will be at the first session. For additional information call Coastline, 963-0811, Ext. 256.

Classes Set Dana to Teach Novices

Novice sailors can learn basic boating skills in a 12-week course starting Monday, sponsored by the Dana Point chapter of the U.S. Power Squadron, a boating fraternity. The free classes will meet Mondays at 7:30 p.m. at Dana Hills High School, 33333 St. of the Golden Lantern in Dana Point.

All family members can attend classes, which will feature discussions of marine safety, good seamanship, equipment maintenance, navigation and compass reading for both sail and power

Additional information on the course is availa-ble by calling 496-6115.

LA County Population Up

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The nation's most populous county, which saw a dip in the number of residents earlier in the decade, appears to be growing again, census statistics indicate.

Census Bureau figures released in Washington show that at least as many people are moving to Los Angeles County as are moving out:

FOR THE FIRST TIME since 1970, the county's population topped seven million. The provisional census statistics for mid-1976 recorded 7,004,400 people, less than the 1970 all-time high of 7,041,980, but more than the low point in 1974 of 6,930,000.

"The amount of net out-migration from the county has been going down in the last few years, but Los Angeles grows more from natural increase than from immigration," said Walter Hollmann of the state Finance Department.

HOLLMANN AND LARRY LONG, a census bureau demographer, were cautious in predicting that the dip in out-migration in one year was setting

Census figures for the 1970-75 period show a net out-migration of 362,600 from the county. During the same period plus 1976, the figure dips to 356,200 persons, suggesting a small gain of 6,400 people.

The population dip in the early 1970s has been attributed to job losses in the aerospace industry and fears of earthquakes.

Zoning Restudy Urged

Newport Beach officials want county officials to reconsider a zoning case which could end up producing more than 600 apartment units in an island of county territory surrounded by the city.

THE CASE THAT drew the ire of councilmen involved the triangle of county territory near Hoag Memorial Hospital. It has been zoned for a combination of light industry and apartments. County supervisors last week rezoned most of it for high density (about 23 units per acre).

The highest density allowed in Newport Beach is 12 units per acre. At Monday's council meeting, McInnis pointed out that the triangle includes one apartment complex that contains more than 40 units per acre.

Councilmen decided to ask supervisors to reconsider their decision, but differed on how to present the request.

McINNIS, WHO DESCRIBED the county Planning Commission

as a kangaroo court, suggested a hard line, demanding that the case be reconsidered.

He was backed by Councilman Trudi Rogers who said she views the rezoning as "totally unacceptable. I think we should be forceful about this.

The city's community development director, Dick Hogan, suggested that some personnel lobbying by councilmen with supervisors might be a more effective way to get the case reheard.

Councilmen agreed to try both approaches simultaneously.

Committee Approves Children's Porn Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate rin Hatch (R-Utah) to ban the sale or Judiciary Committee has approved unanimously a bill to make it a federal crime to use a child under age 16 in the production of pornographic materials.

It also would prohibit the interstate transportation of any child, boy or girl, for the purposes of prostitution

IN ADDITION, THE bill would sharply increase penalties for the sale or distribution of pornographic materials

Sen. John C. Culver (D-Ind.), chairman of the committee's subcommittee on juvenile deliquency, said Wednesday the bill was designed to enable the federal government to take effective action against the sexual exploitation of children.

He said that testimony taken by the subcommittee showed that use of children in pornography and prostitution has become a highly organized, multimillion dollar business operating nationwide.

SIMILAR HEARINGS have been held by a House Judiciary subcommittee, but it has not acted on any legislation. The Senate committee approved the bill without dissent after rejecting by a 9-4 vote an amendment by Sen. Or-distribution of any obscene material depicting sexually explicit conduct by children.

Culver and Sen. Charles McC. Mathias (R-Md.), who introduced the bill, contended that Hatch's amendment was unnecessary and might imperil the constitutionality of the legislation by raising First Amendment questions about what is obscene under U.S. Supreme Court rulings.

THE FIRST AMENDMENT. among other things, bars Congress from making any law restricting freedom of speech or the press.

Hatch's amendment, in effect, would have broadened the legal definition of obscenity to cover anything depicting explicit sexual conduct by children. If a movie or a book or other material include something of this nature, it would be treated as obscene as a whole and thus banned from sale or distribution.

WHILE HATCH SAID that he believed that would be upheld as constitutional, Culver and Mathias argued it would lead to court tests that could drag on for three or four years while what they called the vicious exploitation of children continued.

Hoag Celebrates 25 Years of Service

It has been 25 years, 400 more beds, 300 more physicians and a vast array of medical technology since Hoag Memorial Hospital opened its doors.

On Sept. 15, 1952, eight patients were checked into the 75-bed hospital where they were the center of attention of the 68 physicians and 66 staff mem-

THE HOSPITAL, CALLED IN those days the pink hotel on the hill, was the brainchild of the late Raymond Brahams, a Laguna Beach clergyman whose friend died on the long drive to St. Joseph hospital in Orange during the early 1940s.

The often-frustrating struggle to raise money to buy land and build the hospital lasted for nearly a decade, until the Hoag Foundation donated $500,000 to the hospital fund to get the project moving. Since then, the foundation has given nearly $6 million to

George Hoag II, whose father, George Hoag Sr., established the foundation, recalled with irony that he was a patient at another hospital when work on the Orange Coast's first hospital was begun.

"IN AUGUST OF 1951," HE said, "I had my ap-pendix out at St. Joseph Hospital at four o'clock in the morning, sat on the edge of the bed at eight o'clock, signed the contract with Means and Ulrich, contractors, and the hospital was physically

The original administrator, Robert Bacon, presided over the planning and construction, but, just before the hospital opened, he died of a stroke.

His wife, Winifred, took over and ran the hospital until her restrement in 1967. Before her death in 1975, she recalled looking around the hospital the night beofre it opened and discovering a few of the beds had been assembled backwards.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS LATER, the hospital boasts some of the most advanced medical equipment available and a staff of 385 physicians who represent 22 medical specialities.

However, in its earlier days, life at Hoag was a little less sophisticated and there were times when supporters and staff had to rely on their wits.

For instance, Guy Claire, a member of the board of directors, recalls one of the early fundrais-

While community members were scrambling for money, staff members were scrambling to keep on top of things at the hospital.

Hoag recalled one memorable evening, not long after the hospital opened, when the frogs kept in the lab for pregnancy tests escaped, sending doctors, nurses, aides, orderlies and anyone else handy in a mad dash after the hopping beasts.

THE STAFF SOMETIMES WAS stretched thin. Kelley Ludwig, now supervising nurse in pediatrics, remembered working as relief operator on the switchboard in between nursing duties.

Roberta Heath, now the senior surgical aide in the James Irvine Surgical Center, joined the staff less than a month after the hospital opened.

'The emergency room wasn't staffed when we opened, and when an ambulance called to tell us a patient was on the way, one nurse and an aide had to leave the ward to staff the Emergency Room,

ACCORDING TO HOAG, HOSPITAL officials and staff members also had to rely on their wits during one of the facility's first inspections by the state Joint Commission on Accreditation.

He said that, when inspectors arrived at the hospital, there were 94 patients in the 75-bed facili-"Everyone was wheeling those not critically ill up and down the halls, hoping they would never figure out the total," he recalled.

Apparently, the inspectors never added up the patients, and the hospital received accreditation, a hallmark of quality care, a year after opening. It has maintained its accreditation since then.

BECAUSE THE HOSPITAL HAD a chronic problem of having more patients than beds, the facility began to expand within a year of its open-

Ludwig said the staff put patients "wherever we could stash them when it got crowded. We were so full at times we made patient rooms out of offices and put beds out in the halls with screens around them for privacy.

First patients were moved into existing facilities, by conversion of the solarium and Grace Hoag Home, a nurse's residence.

THE FIRST MAJOR ADDITION, A four-story main wing that held an additional 150 beds, a medical library, more laboratory space and the maternity facilities, was finished in 1959.

Forty-six more beds were added in 1966 when the pediatrics wing was built and in 1963 the hospital leased a nearby convalescent hospital, thus adding another 93 beds.

That addition proved to be too complicated to be practical and fundraising got under way for the 11-story tower that opened in 1974, bringing the hospital's bed count to 471.

A FEW OF THOSE BEDS COME with extra pampering. Patients who care to add an extra $55 a day to their normal $110-a-day hospital tab may rent themselves a room on the tower's tenth floor.

There, they find themselves in double-sized rooms equipped with sofa beds for overnight visitors and refrigerators for snacks.

Gourmet meals, served by the floor's hostess, are set on a linen-covered table.

TOP-FLOOR PATIENTS ALSO HAVE the use of a sauna and a beauty salon.

With the expansion of the hospital's ability to house patients has come an increase in staff size to 1,344 and improved technology, ranging from the James Irvine Surgical Center, an outpatient surgery clinic, to the critical-care units and the computerized diagnostic equipment.

Through the years, the surrounding com-munities has provided support in the form of donations and volunteers.

Carroll Beek, a 56-year resident of Balboa Island, recalls a luncheon at the Newport Harbor Yacht Club in 1945, during the fundraising days before construction, in which community members came up with $19,000 in donations in 45 minutes.

MRS. BEEK IS A PAST MEMBER of the hospital's board of directors and a longtime member of the hospital's auxiliary.

Dora Hill, Newport Beach's first woman mayor, was the first president of the auxiliary. When we organized in 1952, our uniforms were bright yellow smocks we made ourselves," she recalled.

"Then we learned we were supposed to be 'pink ladies' and we changed to that color." In addition to helping in the hospital, the group raises money. It donated $65,000 to the hospital last

ANOTHER SUPPORT GROUP IS the 552 Club, group of businessmen formed in 1966 to raise funds for a 552-bed hospital. That number has since been revised to 471, but the name stuck. There are now 125 members of the 552 Club.

One of the newest support groups at the hospital is the Sandpipers, organized in 1975.

It was founded to raise funds for the hospital's radiation therapy center when Corinne Elkouri, after undergoing a mastectomy, learned there was no radiation therapy center in the Harbor Area.

THE HOSPITAL IS STILL changing. Plans are in the works for construction of an interfaith spiritual center and remodeling of the obstetrics and orthopedic units.

Reflecting on the hospital's 25 years, Hoag noted, "We are still the 'pink hotel on the hill' to the majority of beach people and we hope to keep it that Several times, Mrs. Brock told commissioners the parcel should be used for a motel or hotel to allow visitors to enjoy the area.

THE COMMISSION'S STAFF recommended denial of the plans, saying federal and state agencies are interested in preserving the 509 acres south of Hamilton Street and east of Valley Road for recreation and wildlife.

However, Gregory was able to sway com-

Helpful Hint For LA: Build Swim Stadium

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The U.S. Olympic Committee has given the city a few helpful hints on how to be chosen to host the 1984 summer Olympics

The trick is to build a $25million covered swimming stadium, a separate diving pool and additional facilities for other water games, officials say.

Anton Calleia, Mayor Tom Bradley's liaison official for the Olympics, announced the privately made suggestions

Wednesday. He said city administrative officer C. Erwin Piper has estimated that building a covered stadium at the Sepulveda Basin site in the San Fernando Valley — instead of the planned open pool - would boost the capital outlay for the proposed project from $15 million to $40 million.

But even so, Calleia said the city would go along with the cov-ered stadium providing that federal funds would be available to finance it as part of an expected federal subsidy for the games. Dr. John A. Bogert, a member of the Olympic committee, explained the ideas were only suggestions made to the city. "This is not to say Los Angeles wouldn't get the support of the U.S. Olympic Committee or the International Olympic Committee or the support of the International Olympic Committee or the International Olympic Committee without the support of the su tee without some of those things we were suggesting. We were only citing precedents."

Bogert reasoned that the final swimming events have been held at night since the 1960 Olympics in Rome, And recently, the national swimming championships in Mission Viejo were, at times, pretty chilly.

In fact, Vataha had praise for the Patriots when contacted by the Daily Pilot at his Boston home.

Yes, I was a bit surprised I was waived by the Patriots, but the team is very deep in a lot of positions. They have a lot of No. 1 picks and a lot of talent. It was a numbers game, "says Vataha.

"Right now the Patriots

"But I really enjoyed it here. This is now my home and I'll continue to live here. The Patriots were very good to me. wish them a lot of luck. I played six more years than I had planned on," says the former Golden West College and Stanford University standout.

Vataha, who came to Golden West as a quarterback from Garden Grove's Rancho Alamitos High and was turned into a wide receiver by Rustlers coach Ray Shackleford, made a name for himself catching passes from Jim Plunkett.

He was Plunkett's chief receiver at Stanford and after being cut by the Rams in 1971 (he was the Rams' 17th round draft choice), he was picked up by the Patriots where he rejoined Plunkett.

He had an outstanding rookie year in '71, catching 51 passes. He caught 48 passes two seasons ago, but broke his cheekbone before the start of the '76 campaign and missed the first four regular season games. He lost his starting job and caught only 11 passes.

He'll report to Green Bay today and will be in uniform Sunday in the New Orleans Superdome when the Packers play the Saints.

"I had a chance to become a free agent, but Green Bay wanted me and I am satisfied with my contract. At the end of this year I'll see where my priorities lie and determine what I'll do," says Vataha.

Vataha and a business partner have been involved in constructing an $800,000 14-court racquetball facility. "I've been running things

Seaver Shoots For 200th Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Tom Seaver will be bearing down on a personal milestone tonight against the Los Angeles Dodgers. It's at 7:30 and will be broadcast on KABC (790).

The Cincinnati Reds' right-hander is going for the 200th victory of his career, a feat accomplished by only four other active major league pitchers: Ferguson Jenkins, Gaylord Perry, Jim Kaat and Catfish Hunter.

Meanwhile, the Reds' only battle left is for second place in the National League West.

But after coming from behind to defeat division-leading Los Angeles 9-8 Wednesday night, the Reds' Pete Rose looked on the victory as something of a consolation.

"At least," he said, "they can't clinch it here against us, and that means something.

The Dodgers' magic number remains at four for wrapping up the division crown after Cincinnati scored six runs in the last two innings to defeat Los Angeles ace Tommy John for the first time this season.

'Tommy John got the Dodgers where they are," said Rose. "He's the most valuable pitcher on their staff, maybe in the league. For us to score nine runs off him is really something."

The Dodgers had an 8-3 lead after the seventh inning with Dave Lopes, Steve Garvey and Steve Yeager slugging home

But Cincinnati got within a run, scoring four times in the eighth inning - three of them on a home run by Cesar Geronimo. Ken Griffey's-two-run homer in the ninth was the game winner.

Earlier, George Foster clouted his 48th homer, tops in the ma-

John started the ninth as the National League's leader in earned run average, at 2.48. After the Reds got through with him, the e.r.a. jumped to 2.73.

When you're just starting out, you never really know how successful your career is going to be," Seaver said, "so the round numbers seem to take on significance. I can remember going for my 50th, then my 100th.

'It will be nice to get my 200th, whenever it comes. Then I can start thinking about 300 victories That will become my new goal. Back in spring training this year, I remember saying to myself that I wanted to make sure I won at least 18 games so I could make it to 200 this season.

The 32-year-old Seaver has moved steadily toward his goal since joining the Reds in June. Ten of his 17 victories so far this year have come since he was traded to Cincinnati by the New York Mets.

He averaged 18 victories during his 10-year career with the Mets, and started the current season with a record of 182-107.

This has been a season of personal milestones for Seaver. On Aug. 31, he made Montreal's Del Unser his 2,500th strikeout victim, a total reached by only 10 other pitchers in major league history. He since has boosted that total to 2,509 and moved past Christy Mathewson into 10th place on the all-time list.

Seaver needs 25 strikeouts to reach the 200 mark for the 10th consecutive time. His string of nine is a major league record.

The three-time Cy Young Award winner also is hoping for his fifth 20-game season, needing three victories in possibly four

His career high of 25 victories came in 1969. He won 20 in 1971,

Kansas Next Step for Ex-Edison Ace

By ROGER CARLSON

Reserved and unassuming sophomore quarterback Rick Bashore of the UCLA Bruins is going about the business of preparing for invading Kansas Saturday night — still maintaining a low profile.

Bashore and the Bruins collide with Kansas in their second nonconference football game in six nights and the Bruins quarterback says (1) the Kansas efense is big and physical (2) he's assuming he'll be the starter again, although no one has told him directly.

Questioned about Bashore's status, UCLA drumbeater Vic Kelley almost came unglued. "Are you kidding? After Mon-day's performance? Of course

he's our starter barring a disaster," says Kelley

Reflecting on his efforts against Houston at the Astrodome Monday night before a national television audience, Bashore says, "I'm satisfied, but I need to improve a lot on my footwork and fundamentals. And I've got to learn to protect myself after handing the ball off. The refs weren't watching very closely."

The Bruins suffered a 17-13 deféat to Houston, keyed by the in-ability to punch the ball across after threatening three times in scoring territory during the

'We were there three times and we didn't score," says Bashore. "It was kind of disheartening. . . we should have put it (scored) in there at least

Bashore's starting nod was not made official until Monday. but he says he had an inkling the nod would go to him the past two

"I felt like I was ahead of the pace, especially a couple of days before the game," says Bashore, who prepped at Edison High (Huntington Beach) School.

Bashore appeared nervous at the outset with Houston and agrees that he was. "Yeah, a lit-tle," says Bashore. "But a couple of plays later things got going pre-tty quick. I felt a lot better as the game went on.

"And I was surprised that I played the entire game. I didn't expect that. But it helped me a lot. I learned to go the distance and it did a lot for me. I think the team is gaining confidence in me. I feel accepted by the team. 'I didn't think we'd throw nearly that much, but Houston was keying on the run so much. giving us the pass.

A sophomore starter at quarterback at a major universiy is not a common occurrence, but Bashore says that was his goal.

"When I decided to come to UCLA I looked ahead and felt the job would be open my sophomore year. It's something I've worked and prepared for. The option series is difficult to learn, but I feel I'll get better with each

'The coaches told me I played well for my first game, but they also told me there was room for mprovement.'

Bashore completed 12 of 27 passes for 245 yards and a 20yard scoring pass. And he netted 33 yards on the ground, including 25-yard scamper to the Houston

"I thought I was going to score and I think I should have," says Bashore. "I thought we'd win the game."

No Pushing Around For Gauchos' Wade

A year ago, Ron Wade was just about set to play football at Orange Coast College.

A standout at San Clemente High School, Wade had become disenchanted living in the South Coast area.

But two things changed his and turned his future mind around.

There were just too many guys out for football (over 100) at Orange Coast. And the Saddleback coaches had a real positive attitude when I talked to them, but they didn't put any pressure on me, says Wade, a linebacker

The decision, says Wade, was one of the best he's ever made. "I'm just super glad I came here. I like the school and I like the coaches. I couldn't have picked a better school," says Wade. But he may have had some reservations after playing in his first game for the Gauchos last "It was against Cypress and I really learned a lot that first game. I got pushed around quite a bit and I found out it's a lot tougher playing JC football," says Wade. Wade doesn't figure to get pushed around this season - due primarily to the fact he's gained 30 pounds and added an inch to his height -he's now 6-3 and 205. "I've just been skinny most of my life, but I started to gain weight last year. And I lifted a lot of weights," says the 19-year-old ARLINGTON, Tex. The sag ging California Angels were mathematically eliminated from the American League West title race Wednesday when they took a 2-1 loss from the Texas Rangers.

Right Decisions

Is Holst's Forte

HB Rival Larger, Stronger

You can bet Huntington Beach High won't be fooled by the 1976 toothall record of Garden Grove High, who the Oilers open up against Friday night (7:30) in Garden Groves

The Argonauts officially were 0-9 last year but that is more than a little misleading. On the week they were to enter the CIF playoffs, Garden Grove head coach Dick Campbell discovered that one of his players was 30 days past the age limit for high school players. The Argonauts not only missed the playoffs, but had to wipe out the slate on a 6-2-1 campaign.

A little wiser this year, Garden Grove is also a lot stronger. Only two of last year's offensive starters graduated and Campbell has 16 starters and 26 lettermen back overall.

The best of the lot could be quarterback Tim Golia (5-11, 185), an all-league pick destined for college greatness, according to Campbell. In addition, there is an offensive line which has just one starter under 200 pounds. Two are massive underclassmen who started as sophs, all-league center Dan McKie (6-5, 240) and strong tackle Kevin Alexander (6-4, 235).

The guards are Roy Yoshida (6-0), 200) and Dennis Laughon (5-11, 180). David Hanzich (6-0, 200), a starter at tackle last year. is being challenged by another potential blue chipper in soph Terrance Rock (6-0, 205). The tight ends are Joe Ryan (6-1, 205) and Mike Clayton (6-3, 200). Clay Harris (6-2, 180) caught six touchdown passes as an allleague wide receiver.

The only vacancies on offense are at running back where Campbell says he has plenty of depth and speed but no clear cut starter.

Among the seven starters back on defense are end Ron Amendola (5-8, 155), nose guard Mike Malone (6-1, 200), linebackers Mary Rose (6-0, 200) and Bruce McGinley (5-8, 185) and tackle Steve Brill (6-2, 220). The giant on defense is the second nose guard, Dan Leonard (6-5, 270).

Campbell feels that Huntington Beach will be a lot stronger than last year when the Argonauts whipped the Oilers 14-0.

'Huntington Beach has some real good juniors and their quarterback (Marco Pagnanelli) looks like a real good one," he said. "They have a couple of good receivers and it looks like their defense is a lot more mobile than last year. I expect a good football game from them because they throw the football very well."

Los Amigos Has Vets On Offense

Los Amigos High (Fountain Valley) is a considerably different football team from the one that handed Dana Hills a 13-3 loss in the season opener last year.

Coach Al Calonico says his offense is much improved but his defense is much weaker. That diversification makes it difficult for Calonico to forecast how his '77 edition will fare.

Friday night's season opener against Dana Hills at San Clemente High (7:30) will be the third time the Dolphins and Lobos have met. They split their previous games.

Los Amigos has four returning starters on offense and three on defense. The most prominent returnee is all-league offensive tackle Randy Vasquez, a 64, 245-pound senior.

Joining him on the offensive line are two guards from last year's varsity — 5-11, 200-pound Dan Kirkland and 6-0, 185-pound Mike Sands.

Los Amigos has a speedster at wide receiver, 5-9, 155-pound Randy Lewis. Calonico says he runs the 40 in 4.7 seconds.

At quarterback, Calonico is still debating between two can-didates for the starting job. Junior Art Wilcox is the better passer, but senior Ernie Fisher is the superior runner, a distinct advantage in Los Amigos' veer Calonico says he'll play both extensively during pre-league games. Fisher is also a starting cornerback and Calonico calls him the best athlete on the squad.

"Our major concern is the de-fense," Calonico says. "We played poorly in our scrimmage. We weren't aggressive enough and we didn't seem sure of ourselves. I've got seven players in the defense who've never been in a varsity game before.

Los Amigos' outstanding defensive player so far has been nose guard Matt Shields (6-2, Calonico says he expects to en-counter problems from Dana Hills' fondness of running around the ends on sweeps and rollouts.

JEFF BITETTI (LEFT), JOE CARNAHAN LEAD THE WAY FOR NEWPORT BACKS TONIGHT.

Newport, Millikan Square Off

Newport Harbor High's edition of 1977 football will be unveiled tonight as the Long Beach Millikan High Rams invade the Sailors campus for an 8 o'clock non-league tiff. As in most openers, tonight's clash involves a lot of unknowns. What is known about the Sailors of Newport Harbor coach Bill Pizzica is that they are the fastest in years

What isn't known is how effective the passing game from quarterback Craig Lyons to receivers Wayne Kasparek, Jeff Bitetti and Larry Higby will be. Nor has it been established that the Sailors' game is a weapon to be reckoned with. Pizzica has three standouts who will shuttle at fullback (Dave Thompson, Don Barker and Dana Wandrocke), but tailback Chris Corum is out with a knee Corum is the fastest on the team with the ability to run 40 yards in 4.5 seconds. "I've no idea when Corum will be back," says Pizzica. "It's a recurrence of an old knee injury and we're going to get it taken care of properly.

Pizzica is not overly concerned at tailback, however, with 170pound Bryon Ward stepping into the starting berth.

"Ward is the best surprise we've had," says Pizzica. "He runs the 40 in 4.6 seconds. He's quick and has the moves." Ward is the Sunset League record holder in the frosh-soph high and low hurdles.

Newport's defense, with Barker and Bob Brown leading the way, should be up to par. The question is offense and Pizzica says: "Last year we had no of-fense."

Millikan marches in with an option offense, but the individual with the most potential is 170pound halfback Fred Morre, who averaged 7.8 yards per carry in

Norton Says Ali Won't Fight Him

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Ken Norton continues to wonder whether Muhammad Ali will ever fight him again.

"I'll believe it only when I climb into the ring with him," said the No. 1 challenger from Los Angeles, who beat Ali once and then lost two disputed decisions to the current heavyweight boxing champion.

Norton, 223, first has a date with Jimmy Young on Nov. 5, and the two tuned up with easy victories in nationally-televised bouts at Caesar's Palace here Wednesday night.

Norton says Ali wants to avoid him, but the heavyweight champion - who has a title fight on Sept. 29 against Ernie Shavers -has gone on record saying he would put his title at stake against the Norton-Young winner.

Young, a 213-pound Philadelphian, started slowly but picked up speed and boxed his way to a one-sided 10-round verdict over Jody Ballard, 205, of Norton started even slower and got tagged a couple of times. But at the end of the fifth round he knocked out No. 10-ranked Lorenzo Zanon, a awkward 207pounder from Milan, Italy. There were only two seconds left in the stanza when a left hook started Zanon on the way out, so the time goes as 3:08, eight seconds after the round's scheduled end.

Neither Young nor Norton said he was impressed by each

One Starter Back State JC Champs Regroup

Golden West College water polo coach Tom Hermstad figures the 1976 Rustlers record will be hard to top. "It took us 11 years to win the state championship and we hope it doesn't take another 11. But last year's performance will be hard to top—especially with only one starter back," says Hermstad.

The '76 Rustlers fashioned a 34-1 record on the way to the state title—losing only to West Valley—a decision they later avenged.

The lone starter back is Jeff DeMott.

"After DeMott, I don't know who will start," says Hermstad, whose team begins action Tuesday against Grossmont.

"Potentially, we have a good group of freshmen, but we've looked good and bad at times. The key to the season is being able to stay in contention during the first half of conference play. We play all the contenders—Ventura, Glendale, Cypress and Santa Monica—in their pools," says the GWC coach.

Trenders the list of freshmen are Marty White (Long Beach)

Topping the list of freshmen are Marty White (Long Beach Jordan), goalie Jeff Walters (Garden Grove) and Tony Wooten (Huntington Beach).

And returning squad members Glen Lindenstadt, Tom Gentsch, goalie Ken Gallagher and Merrill Riley also figure to see quite a bit

Others on the GWC roster include Chuck Conway (Newport Harbor), Jim Keefe (Huntington Beach), Eric Bauer (Marina, HB), Jeff Bowen (Los Amigos of Fountain Valley), Mike Allen (Edison, HB), Fred Walter, Jeff Smithson and Dan Smith (Garden Grove).

'And he is a hell of a leader. He's not a screamer, but everyone on the team likes him because he's such a nice kid. The team respects him and they play well behind him," adds the Golden West coach.

Holst, a 5-11, 175-pounder was a backup QB to Jim Andrus last year, but saw enough action to complete 29 of 58 passes for 343 yards and four touchdowns.

And although he only gained 46 yards passing and ran for 40 more against Santa Ana last week, he has the confidence to have a banner year.

Lakers Trim List

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Los Angeles Lakers announced Wednesday that they have released guard Bo Lamar.

The Lakers acquired the 6-1 Lamar the day before the 1976-77 season started in trade with Detroit. Lamar, 27, appeared in 71 games for the Lakers, averaging 7.1 points and 2.5 assists.

The release of Lamar brings the number of players reporting to the Lakers' training camp which begins next Monday to 17. Included are eight guards, six forwards and three centers.

"But I'd like to get at least 1,000 yards passing this season," says the former Huntington Beach High standout who will lead GWC against rival Orange Coast Saturday night.

Holst has had little problem adapting to Golden West's veer offense since he was a veer quarterback at Huntington.

"Bill had a super high school coach in Roy Brummett. I really can't take the credit for teaching Bill the veer. Brummett was a very, very good high school coach and he had a solid understanding of the veer," says Shackleford.

As for Holst's future after Golden West, it will depend a great deal on what the Rustlers quarterback does this season.

"Bill is not a very big guy, so it will depend on what kind of year he has. If he has a big year, he should get quite a few scholarship offers. Option football is very prevalent now and there are a lot of quarterbacks skilled in the option, both in junior college and high school.

"So it will depend on how big a year he has."

But if he continues to play the way he has so far, there's little doubt the four-year coaches will be knocking on his door come

Costa Mesa Cross Country Loaded

The number is 64 and counting. That's how many dual meets Costa Mesa High's cross country team has won without a loss. The streak reaches back to 1968

Coach Joe Fisher has guided the team since 1969 and he has yet to taste dual meet defeat. This season his Mustangs are favored to win the CIF 4-A crown, and if they do it will be back-to-back titles. Costa Mesa won the 3-A honors last year.

Only two of Costa Mesa's starting seven runners from last season have graduated and Fisher has an added secret weapon that should make his team unbeatable again.

The weapon is transfer student Mark Charkey. last year's Wyoming state prep cross country champion. He runs 1:56 in the 880 and could probably be the No. 1 cross country runner at almost any school except Costa Mesa.

Returning are last year's No. 1 runner, Joe Young, and two other lettermen who will battle for the No. 2 position, John Gerhardt and Brian' Thompson. All three are seniors.

Charkey is currently the No. 4 man, but some jockeying for position is certain to take place as the season progresses. In whatever order they are ranked, the top four are Young, Gerhardt, Thompson and Charkey. Beyond them, the varsity candidates include senior Chris Tomlin and four juniors—Ted Evans, Brian Overholt, Alan Venable and Fred Lara. Teams which have the best shot at thwarting Costa Mesa's drive to the CIF crown appear to be Eisenhower High (Rialto) and Palos Verdes High.

PUC Approves 7.2% Average Temporary Jump

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Southern California Edison has been granted temporary rate increases averaging 7.2 percent because of additional energy costs due to drought conditions, a tate Public Utilities Commission spokeswoman said.

Carol Kretzer said the increases took effect immediately following the commission's approval this week of an application filed by the utility in June, and will remain in force until energy costs are reviewed again late this year.

"NONE OF THE increase will be passed on to residential usage of 300 kilowatt hours or less, Ms. Kretzer said.

Car Sales Increase

DETROIT (AP) - The pace of domestic cars sales in early September was the highest for the period in 22 years, with the industry reporting a gain of 11 percent from the same period last year.

The four major car makers reported Wednesday that dealers delivered 180,725 cars in the Sept. 1-10 span, compared with 163,052 .. in the same period a year ago.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY SAID that during the period it sold a record number of cars, 55,945, for a 9.5 percent increase from 1976.

The only manufacturer to show a decrease was troubled American Motors Corp., which said its sales fell 28 percent from a vear ago to 3,338

The industry's daily sales rate for the period was 22,591, the best early September since 1955, when a record 23,812 cars a day were sold. The latest rate was second-best for an early September. The daily rate is the industry's yardstick for comparing sales in periods which have a different much head husiness days.

3.3 percent more on the excess. A Southern California Edison spokesman said the increase would work out to about 73 cents on an average bill of $21.66 for a residence using 500 kilowatt

OTHER INCREASES approved were 8.4 percent for agricultural use, 8.3 percent for commercial use, 10.6 percent for industries and 8.4 percent for public authorities.

Ms. Kretzer said that because of the drought, the utility was unable to purchase hydroelectric power from Northern California, Washington and Oregon this year and was forced to buy higherpriced fuel oil

In its application for the increases, Edison asked that the new rates take effect Aug. 1.

THE UTILITY HAD expected to realize $39.4 million additional revenue from the increases over the three months ending Nov. 1 but because the commission did not act until this week the additional revenue for the period will be about half that figure, Ms.

Slowing Growth Due, Bank's Report Says

The nation won't face a recession in 1978, but economic growth will slow throughout the year and quite slugglish by year-end, according to an economic forecast by Security Pacific

In releasing some highlights of the quarterly economic report, economist and senior vice president, Dr. Robert T. Parry said the next year's growth pattern will help keep a lidon inflation.

"SLOWER GROWTH IN such key areas as retail sales, inventory management, personal income and employment will prevent inflation from escalating as it did a few years ago," Parry said.

"While the national rate of inflation will average around 6 percent next year, up very slightly from 1977's projected 5.7 percent, it will be well below the double-digit rates of 1974-1975, and should improve steadily throughout 1978," he said. "In turn, consumer price inflation should go down from this year's estimated 6.7 percent to 5.8 percent in 1978."

He said the expected slowdown in consumer prices will stem from only gradual rises in food prices for the consumer and a leveling off in energy price inflation from the sharp increases of recent years.

ON THE OUTLOOK for employ-ment and the nation's jobless rate, the bank's latest forecast says the expected slower economic growth, plus an easing from the recent unsustainable surge in homebuilding, will affect job gains in 1978.

'This slowing of growth, coupled with the constantly growing workforce, will make it more difficult to cut our nation's jobless rate in 1978 much below an estimated 6.7 percent compared with 1977's projected rate of 7.2 percent," Parry said.

Turning to some of the administration's proposals and their potential impact on the economy, the bank forecast says some may face "tough sledding" in Congress, specifically those on energy and reforms of tax, welfare and social security programs. Parry said the administration's energy package probably will be modified extensively as it goes through Congress.

AN AMERICAN multinational in Ireland that never appreciated the depth of the religious conflict there found, belatedly, it had employed only Protestants in supervisory positions, and Catholics as underlings.

- American companies operate in Canada without an understanding of the Quebec Separatist movement when, as Probe and some of its outside experts believe, the Separatists are gaining and civil war cannot be ruled out.

For multinationals, problems are multitudinous. Earlier conferences dealt with opportunities and difficulties in the Middle East, bribery and corruption, boycott and antiboycott, Eurocommunism and prospects in Vietnam (immediately: nil; long range: modest).

IN ALMOST ALL situations, the prospect for terrorism or disruption is inherent. And since the corporations know little about dealing with the problems, Probe has succeeded with its "trouble oriented meetings," once believed to be an anathema.

Its pre-emptive attack against terrorism begins with the thesis that there is nothing you can buy to protect yourself. There are no gadgets or guns or cages that car provide a seal of security.

This being so, the best protection is said to be a low profile.

"DON'T MAKE A public personality of yourself if it doesn't advance your company," says Weiner. Newspaper ads featuring the chief executive are foolish from his point of view. A But the details we won't hear about, because terrorism is bes combated by withholding in formation from potential terrorists, and in today's society, potential terrorists may not stand out. The rostrum of speakers does, however, give some hint of the issues.

- J. Bowyer Bell, of the Institute of War and Peace Studies, Columbia University, is author of the forthcoming book. The Democratic Response to Terrorism."

- L. DEAN BROWN, president of the Middle East Institute. is former deputy undersecretary of state and was the President's special representative to Lebanon.

- Miles Copeland was a senior official of the Central Intelligence Agency, Lt. Gen. Benjamin Davis, Jr. developed the U.S. antihijacking program, James Ingrim is with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. . .

PUC Approves 7.2% Average Temporary Jump

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Southern California Edison has been granted temporary rate increases averaging 7.2 percent because of additional energy costs due to drought conditions, a tate Public Utilities Commission spokeswoman said.

Carol Kretzer said the increases took effect immediately following the commission's approval this week of an application filed by the utility in June, and will remain in force until energy costs are reviewed again late this year.

"NONE OF THE increase will be passed on to residential usage of 300 kilowatt hours or less, Ms. Kretzer said.

Owners of homes using more than 300 kilowatt hours will pay

Car Sales Increase

DETROIT (AP) - The pace of domestic cars sales in early September was the highest for the period in 22 years, with the industry reporting a gain of 11 percent from the same period last year.

The four major car makers reported Wednesday that dealers delivered 180,725 cars in the Sept. 1-10 span, compared with 163,052 . in the same period a year ago.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY SAID that during the period it sold a record number of cars, 55,945, for a 9.5 percent increase from 1976.

The only manufacturer to show a decrease was troubled American Motors Corp., which said its sales fell 28 percent from a

The industry's daily sales rate for the period was 22,591, the best early September since 1955, when a record 23,812 cars a day were sold. The latest rate was second-best for an early September. The daily rate is the industry's yardstick for comparing sales in periods which have a different number of business days.

3.3 percent more on the excess. A Southern California Edison spokesman said the increase would work out to about 73 cents on an average bill of $21.66 for a residence using 500 kilowatt hours a month.

OTHER INCREASES approved were 8.4 percent for agricultural use, 8.3 percent for commercial use, 10.6 percent for industries and 8.4 percent for public authorities.

Ms. Kretzer said that because of the drought, the utility was unable to purchase hydroelectric power from Northern California, Washington and Oregon this year and was forced to buy higherpriced fuel oil.

In its application for the increases, Edison asked that the new rates take effect Aug. 1.

THE UTILITY HAD expected to realize $39.4 million additional revenue from the increases over the three months ending Nov. 1 but because the commission did not act until this week the additional revenue for the period will be about half that figure, Ms. Kretzer said.

Slowing Growth Due, Bank's Report Says

The nation won't face a recession in 1978, but economic growth will slow throughout the year and quite slugglish by year-end, according to an economic forecast by Security Pacific

In releasing some highlights of the quarterly economic report, economist and senior vice president, Dr. Robert T. Parry said the next year's growth pattern will help keep a lid on inflation.

"SLOWER GROWTH IN such key areas as retail sales, inventory management, personal income and employment will prevent inflation from escalating as it did a few years ago," Parry said.

"While the national rate of inflation will average around 6 percent next year, up very slightly from 1977's projected 5.7 percent, it will be well below the double-digit rates of 1974-1975, and should improve steadily throughout 1978," he said. "In turn, consumer price inflation should go down from this year's estimated 6.7 percent to 5.8 percent in 1978."

He said the expected slowdown in consumer prices will stem from only gradual rises in food prices for the consumer and a leveling off in energy price inflation from the sharp increases of recent years.

ON THE OUTLOOK for employ-ment and the nation's jobiess rate, the bank's latest forecast says the expected slower economic growth, plus an easing from the recent unsustainable surge in homebuilding, will affect job gains in 1978.

'This slowing of growth, coupled with the constantly growing workforce, will make it more difficult to cut our nation's jobless rate in 1978 much below an estimated 6.7 percent compared with 1977's projected rate of 7.2 percent," Parry said.

Turning to some of the administration's proposals and their potential impact on the economy, the bank forecast says some may face "tough sledding" in Congress, specifically those on energy and reforms of tax, welfare and social security programs. Parry said the administration's energy package probably will be modified extensively as it goes through Congress.

Deadbeats All Banks Help Us Run Up Debts

DAILY PILOT

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

The key to successful selling is to make it easy for t customer to buy. Thanks to the credit card, banks have grasped that key. And as they turn it, they are well on their way to opening the door to bankruptcy - for us.

The messages banks direct at us, in their ads and other published materials, make it appear as if they are in the public service business. We're almost expected to respond "Thank you.

IN FACT, OF COURSE, banks are as much in bush ness as an apparel company or food processor. They too, have a product to sell. They, too, hope to sell that product at a profit.

The product banks have to sell is money. They buy it from you and me and others at one rate — say, in the form of say. ings accounts, the quarterly interest you receive being price you're getting for your money. And then they loan it out at a higher interest rate.

The bulge between what they pay for their money and what they get for loaning it represents their profit margin.

Before the advent of the credit card, if you wanted to borrow money from a bank, you had to fill out a long application form. It was a cumbersome affair, and bankers were never famous for making the small borrower feel Today bankers have made it easy for us to become instant borrowers. Just go to a store or hotel or car rental agency or airline ticket counter. flash your card and presto - you have the product or service you desire. IF YOU PAY THE MONTHLY BILLING in full fight away, it doesn't cost anything extra. But in practice two out of three cardholders cannot - or do not - pay in full. And what we don't pay immediately becomes a loan - at 18 percent annual interest. At first the bank credit card business proceeded along two tracks. There was one group that issued BankAmericard while another group issued Master Charge. Now, though, the business has taken a wild turn. Banks that issued BankAmericards (this name is being changed to Visa) can issue Master Charge cards. And Master Charge banks are free to issue Visa cards. As a result, banks are hustling to get their cards into your hands. The nation's largest, Bank of America, has some 4.5 million Visa cardholders in California. On Feb. 15 it began issuing Master Charge cards as well. It has already issued 800,000 Master Charge cards.

MORE THAN 65 MILLION BANK credit cards are already in the possession of American consumers. The present drive by the banks to sign up cardholders can expand that total by two or three times. It's now easy for you to get your hands on two, three, four cards.

The banks don't care if you don't pay off the balances. They're quite willing to accept a minimum payment. The smaller the payment, the bigger the interest on the outstanding balance.

In their zeal to sell credit, the bankers will make deadbeats of us all.

Market Slips Ahead As Report Awaited

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market moved ahead gradually today as traders awaited the Federal Reserve's weekly report on the money supply The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.08 points to 860.79.

Gainers held a 4-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading remained quiet. Big Board volume came to 18.23 million shares

The market appeared to draw some support from a re port by New York's Citibank that asserted that the economy was still showing solid signs of vitality But analysts noted that the main subject on investors minds was the report on the money supply due to be issued by the Federal Reserve at the NYSE close today.

Two New Cop Shows, Redd Foxx in Debuts

By JAY SHARBUTT LOS ANGELES (AP)

Three new series wobble in tonight California Highway Patrol party called and mild racial gags "CHIPs" on NBC, Chantassed in to indicate pronel 4 at 8, and ABC's "Carter Country" sitcom and Redd Foxx' new comedy, music and old-times hour on Channel 7. We warn right off the bat that NBC's entry is a stone dog. Intended as action without gunfire, it is show without mind. It stars Larry Wilcox and Erik Estrada as two cheery motorcycle cops.

Wilcox is your basic All-American, awshucks boy. Estrada plays the lady killer, "Ponch." He has a crooked smile, but straight teeth. Both are dashing young bachelors, Kawasaki Kids, if you will

IN THEIR premiere hour, they roar about, grin, meet a pretty crash victim and bring a hot-car ring to justice. Ponch also gets to fall in a mess of spilled glue and emit such classic lines as:

'If I ever scope that turkey again, I'm gonna pull him out through his wind wing, seat belt attached.'

ABC's "Carter Coun-try" is about a young, New York-trained black cop (Kene Holliday) who is a sergeant on the small-town, once allwhite Georgia con-stabulary of Victor French, who plays the police chief.

Tonight's premiere involves a presidential visit; French's fried chicken; a man-hungry, middle-aged secretary; a low-key redneck in police blue and a mayor who fears only his. mother and French.

IF THE show has a memorable line, I forgot it. It's just another Hollywood attempt at Southern humor, with a White House is giving the kiss of death to its fleet of fuel-hungry. luxury sedans.

Despite the switch to fuelefficient compacts, the Carter administration - and the taxpayer - will wind up paying more money to lease them.

THOSE SLEEK CHRYSLER sedans still cruising through the White House gates at 14 miles to the gallon have been leased for $600 a year. But Chrysler intends to raise the basic rate to $900 per car even though the White House wants to switch to the economy-sized models.

That's a 50 percent increase in rates, though the smaller cars will save an undetermined amount of gasoline and further burn in the image of a downhome administration that poohpoohs such trappings of power as fancy autos.

THE NEW LEASING contracts are still being negotiated so what kinds of cars the White House will get isn't definite. And that means no one knows just how much gasofine the move will save idential assistant in charge of cutting White House expenses, said he wasn't sure why the rates are going up so much.

In the old days, the Ford Motor Co. leased cars to the White House for $1 a year. And businesses and individuals that lease cars today pay anywhere from $115 to $700 a month.

CHRYSLER GETS a lot of publicity out of the deal as their cars flash across the TV screens during nightly newscasts.

"It's part of our exposure program," said a Chrysler spokesman. "It's the same general idea as Ford giving their cars to Starsky and Hutch," a popular television show. "You know, everybody except the bad guys drives a Ford." After a year in the White House motorpool, a car is sold at auction to dealers, who often pass the word to prospective buyers that this was a car fit for a Carterite "WE DON'T FLAUNT it. We don't capitalize on it." said Ike Jarvis, government fleet coordinator for Chrysler, about the White House connection.

"But if someone wants to know where the cars are from we tell them. I remember selling a car that Mrs. Nixon rode in once, and that seemed to mean a lot to the buyer."

Letter Writing Loses to the Telephone

By JUDITH OLSON

How long has it been since you've gotten a newsy, folksy letter from someone back home? If you're an average American, the chances are it has been a long while. People are writing fewer and fewer personal letters each year.

The main culprit, according to postal authorities and psychologists, is the telephone.
"People are lazy," said Dr. Kenneth Fineman, a Huntington Beach psychiatrist. They are getting lazier in terms of everything. from walking to the store to writing letters. If people can afford to telephone, they will."

Even those who can't afford the longdistance charges will not hesitate to dial a friend or relative, Dr. Fineman added. He said he and his colleagues have all had patients who have racked up enormous bills without seeming able to control their habit.

"THESE CALLS are not important, either,"
Dr. Fineman added. "They're not about lifethreatening matters.

He suggested that because writing skills aren't stressed much in school anymore, reading and writing have almost become a skill of the "People tend to jump on schools a lot but you can't believe how many people come out of high school without knowing how to write a good letter.

Some people are "totally unaware" of their lack of writing skills, the psychiatrist said, while others "have a gut feeling" that they aren't very good and consequently avoid writing letters, fearing that they will "make fools" of themselves

A poll of Orange Coast residents found only a few people who enjoy writing letters.

Dolores Blanco, a Newport Beach resident, said she likes to write because she "talks" to her friends and relatives through letters. She writes two to three a week, two to four pages each, and gets letters in return.

ONE WOMAN reported that she writes eight to nine letters each week, two to three pages each, to various relatives and friends. "I like to write," she explained. "But my friends don't like to write back.'

She admitted she sends many more letters than she gets, but she didn't seem to feel cheated. Why don't her friends write more often? "I guess it's laziness," she said.

Judging from responses, writing letters today is a woman's art. Most men stated bluntly that they don't like to write and won't do it.

'We usually talk on the phone," one man said. "My wife writes but not very often."

Dr. Fineman said that this sex difference is a "culturally reinforced thing."

"INTERPERSONAL communication has been given a non-masculine overtone. Men don't want to get involved. It's difficult to sit down and write a meaningful letter without expressing yourself," he added, "and men find that it's safer to back off.

"It would be interesting to see letter writing (See LETTERS, Page C2)

Karen Ohringer, at 31, is the youngest manager in the I. Magnin chain. She tends to all the details of operating the 23rd store, which opened here in August.

Mrs. Ohringer is one of many women managers employed by Magnin's, and she says that as she worked her way up she never once encountered discrimination because of her sex or her youth.

Sometimes, though, when she's introduced in public or to a customer as the store's manager, she senses vibes that say, "A little thing like you can't possibly do all

AFTER LUNCH, she's back on the floor "to see how the staff is servicing the customers" and to straighten displays. She works closely with the display department "to make sure the 83 mannequins tell a great fashion story.'

Mrs. Ohringer doesn't do any actual buying of the store's merchandise, but she does "pass on to buyers what we feel the customers in our location want" as well as well as local trend ideas.

The chain conducts fashion seminars at the beginning of each season which Mrs. Ohringer attends to keep up with the industry.

"Fashion is something you kind of feel. When you spend time in a store you pick it up. It's a sensitivity.

Through medical treatment and by following

Before proper diagnosis, she says with a shrug, she was treated for arthritis and "female problems" and was told to "see a psychiatrist for her chronic exhaustion. Today, lupus is still a little known and often misdiagnosed disease that cripples and maims. Through ignorance and misdiagnosis it often "Lupus is one of a large family of rheumatoid diseases and has been around for at least 150 years," says James G. Gitlin, M.D., a Huntington Beach specialist in arthritis and rheumatic diseases.

According to the Orange County Lupus Chapter, the disease generally strikes women between the ages of 15 and 35 and is responsible for 5,000 deaths a year in the country. More than 50,000 new cases are diagnosed annually.

The disease is not restricted to women; men and even children also can contract the disease.

Dr. Gitlin says.
To stimulate public awareness, the Presi

tional Lupus Week.

Mrs. Jean and Stephen Steffins, both of Huntington Beach, have organized a local chapter for lupus sufferers. The group hopes to provide information on the disease through lectures from specialists and to offer support to each other through rap sessions.

According to Dr. Gitlin, lupus was at first "only recognized as a skin disease and then it was found that it could affect the internal organs as well." Today we recognize two forms of lupus, he says: One that affects only the skin called discoid (DLE) and another called systemic (SLE) which may affect the skin and may attack every internal

Dr. Gitlin warns that every patient's symptoms are not the same. While the lungs, joints, kidneys and nervous system may suffer, the most common manifestations are joint pain, anemia, sun sensitivity, high fever, weight loss, chest pain and chronic fatigue.

The disease is frequently misdiagnosed as rheumatoid arthritis, he says. However, "with careful patient history, through physical examination and the proper blood tests, diagnosis today is much simpler, 'he says.

The cause of the disease is unknown. There are flareups and remissions, he says.

Airlines have become a battleground for the dissension. The segregation of smokers and nonsmokers has divided wives and husbands, executives and clients, and has gotten some illicit weekends off to a shaky start.

Recently, on a guided tour, the sightseeing buses were divided into smoking and nonsmoking. One day when a man boarded the nonsmoking bus, someone noted he had a pack of cigarettes bulging in his shirt pocket. "He's one of them," cried a non-smoker. ### Arthritis Affects Entire Lifestyle

By WILLIAM HODGE

While almost everyone suffer s from some form of arthritis an inflammation of the joints - few people realize the disease can abruptly shatter someone's entire lifestyle.

The cost of medical care alone can devastate someone's financial security." Karen Schmid, arthritis Foundation social worker, told a gathering at Saddleback Community Hospital.

FOR MANY, EVEN IF THEY'RE not totally disabled, their physical condition is changed so that they cannot continue their present job," Miss Schmidsaid.

And the necessity of changing jobs or quitting work altogether can have deep psychological implications for the arthritis sufferer. Some of these people have avoided life's problems through dedication to their jobs and all of a sudden their ability to do this is impaired," Miss Schmid explained.

"PSYCHOTHERAPY CAN be a very painful ex-perience," she said, "But so can the depression itself.

'A psychotherapist will help people explore other ways of cop-Schmid cited techniques like self-hypnosis that train peof ple to help themselves relax. She said classes in "progressive relaxation" are held at local community colleges and will teach people self-hypnosis techniques.

RELAXATION IS particularly important to arthritis sufferers because of the disorder's nature. When you're uptight and

Three-man Basketball Loop Forming

The Saddleback Valley Unified School District's Recreation Department now is accepting applications for three-man basketball leagues.

League games will be played on Sundays from 5 to 9 p.m., beginning Oct. 2, in El Toro High School. For competition, leagues will be classified according to age and height.

A $20 entry fee is required. However, $10 will be returned if no forfeits occur.

Entry forms may be obtained from the department office at 25631 Diseno Dr., Mission Viejo, or by calling 768-0981 or 586-1234.

Street Work Foes to Meet

The Dana-Niguel Defense League, a group of homeowners opposed to the extension and widening of Golden' Lantern and Chaparosa Avenue to Moulton Parkway, are holding a fund raising art auction Sept. 30.

Money raised from the auction will support action against the Orange County supervisors, who plan to widen Chaparosa from our to six lanes.

League spokesman Jim Richardson said the auction will be held at 6:30 p.m. at the San Clemente Clubhouse, 100 N. Calle Seville. For more information, call Richardson at 495-5395.

CdM Club Playing For High Steaks

The Corona del Mar High School Touchdown Club will host a steak fry Saturday to raise funds to support the school's athletic teams. The dinner begins at 5 p.m. in the school's quad. Tickets cost $5 each. Entertainment will include performances by the drill team, songleaders and band.

Utah Liquor Laws Stir Controversy

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -Drinkers complain that Utah líquor laws - designed under Mormon influence to discourage the consumption of spirits - are harassing and degrading.

But the same laws make it so the weakest cocktail served in Utah is 1.6 ounces, one of the strongest drinks served in any American bistro.

Council May Hike LB Parking Fines

Laguna Beach motorists who fail to plunk dimes into city parking meters in time to avoid a ticket, might be paying larger fines for their .

Councilmen are mulling an increase from the current $3 fine to $5 for parking violations on city streets

BUT FIRST, they wanted to wait and see what the Parking, Transportation and Circulation Committee's recommendation on the fine fee hike would be.

Councilman John McDowell said he would also like time for citizen comments on the procosed increase before voting on the resolution. Athough they will wait until the Sept. 21 meeting to vote on the resolution, it is apparent. what the outcome will be, based on council comments last week.

LAGUNA'S BUILT-IN parking woes were a major factor in the proposal for fine increases, and Vice Mayor Sally Bellerue said the current $3 rate is too low. 'It's very clear to me that $3 is what people expect to pay when they come down to the beach and

She said many people accept the fine as a parking fee.

"BUT A $5 FINE might make them think twice about parking illegally," she said, adding that raising the fine will have an effect on those motorists.

Other council members said they had no sympathy for motorists who block fire access routes in the city, or those who block private driveways and business entrances

Another recent commission ruling — closing state liquor stores at 7 p.m. — was promptly changed because derelicts began hanging around the fancier hotels, where state liquor sales, were allowed until 10 p.m.

LAW ENFORCEMENT officials complain the laws have increased the numbers of drunk drivers because any drink sold in Utah comes from 1.6 and 1.75ounce minibottles. A normal drink is one ounce.

"We serve the biggest drink in the country - liquor by the drunk," said Michael D. Gallivan, director of the state's tourism development agency Tourists think twice about coming back," he said, because of the confusion and inconvenience they experience as a result of the laws.

IN ALL BUT a select few restaurants, you have to bring your own booze with you in a bag. Then you have to drink it all. because it is illegal to have an open bottle in your car.

At restaurants authorized by the state to sell mini-bottles, you have to walk across the room, buy the mini-bottle, then return to your table to pour the drink yourself. Your waitress could be arrested if she handled the

If you decide to purchase a temporary guest membership at one of Utah's 149 private clubs, another proposed regulation would prohibit all but your spouse from accompanying you. And he or she would have to prove it by showing a marriage

A UTAH RESIDENT must submit an application, with references, to the governing board of a club to gain membership and wait a minimum of seven days for approval.

You can't buy a glass of wine in Utah. If you want red wine and your date wants white, you must order two bottles of wine.

"The laws are an absolute joke," said James W. Gilson, attorney for Benihana's Japanese restaurant. "It simply isn't hospitable to be made to feel that if you drink liquor you're a substandard citizen."

THE CHURCH OF Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) successfully rallied . opposition to liquor-by-the-drink in a 1968 referendum. Legislators then passed the mini-bottle law.

The church, which bans drinking by members, supports the state monopoly of liquor and opposes any changes that would encourage more liquor consumption, a spokesman said. Former state Sen. Hughes Brockbank says the church supported the mini-bottle bill after it opposed one he sponsored.

The state's latest attempt to stifle alcohol consumption is a printed sign that must be displayed anywhere liquor is sold: The consumption of alcoholic beverages purchased in this establishment may be hazardous to your health and the safety of others."

BUT BOB HUTCHINS, vice president for food and beverage at Snowbird, a resort with a dozen food concessions, said the signs increased sales because they tell people booze may be purchased in places where they didn't know it was available.

Hutchins said Snowbird, a ski resort during winter months, has difficulty competing with large Colorado and Idaho ski resorts because of the liquor laws.

'We spend a lot of time at the front desk alienating guests" trying to explain how and where alcohol can be purchased, he said.

DENNIS R. KELLEN, acting operations manager of the liquor commission, said all private clubs in Utah must be registered as non-profit organizations. But he said "almost all" get around that ruling by setting up two corporations - one to lease or rent facilities to the other company, which runs the business and is listed as non-profit.

Kellen said commissioners are hiring auditors to monitor leases and transfer of money from one company to another.

ANOTHER REQUIREMENT, that all private clubs maintain lockers for patrons to store liquor in, is archaic, he said. A spot check of local clubs revealed lockers sit unused in back rooms gathering dust. The law refers to all clubs as "locker clubs."

Kellen said the commission, with a full-time staff of 230, will spend $3.8 million this year administering liquor laws. He said the state grossed $36.2 million in liquor sales last year. Utah ranks lowest in its annual per-capita consumption di alcohol among the 18 states where alcohol is controlled. Utahns and visitors drank 97 gallons of alcohol per capita last year as compared to No. 1 New Hampshire where drinkers consumed 5.45 gallons per person, Kellen said.

TRAINEE A way for a high school graduate to enter the newspaper business

DAILY PILOT

This highly successful local newspaper has an opening for a trainee in the circulation sales area. Selected applicant will receive a liberal starting salary, regularly scheduled raises, bonus opportunities, and many fringe benefits such as paid vacations, paid group insurance and a credit union. He will also be provided a company car with personal use privileges.

Applicants must be 18, have a clean driving record, have a high school diploma. Hours are generally 11 A.M. to 9 P.M. with some Saturday overtime.

If you are qualified and are interested in learning more about where this training leads, come to the DAILY PILOT office, 330 West Bay Street and ask for Milan Leavitt in the Circulation Department.

B Wins Delay in Bolsa Discussions

By GARY GRANVILLE

At the city's request, the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFC) agreed Wednesday to put off consideration of a Huntington Beach bid to annex 327 acres of Bolsa Chica bluff land until early next March.

Initially, Huntington Beach sought to annex the entire. 1,603-acre Bolsa Chica area southeast of Warner Avenue and inland from Pacific Coast Highway.

But the city council decided instead to reduce the proposed annexation to the 327 acres between Warner Avenue and the Win-tersburg Flood Control Channel. That decision was based on a state move to buy 927 Bolsa Chica wetlands acres. That move was engineered by Assemblyman Dennis Mangers (D-Huntington Earlier, the Orange County Board of Supervisors agreed to a county purchase of another 314 Bolsa Chiea acres to serve as a link between a city park and the Bolsa Chica marsh lowlands.

As a result of the state and county planned acquisitions, the city's interest in annexation dwindled to the 327 acres scheduled for discussion by LAFC Wednesday.

However, an LAFC staff report said Huntington Beach needed time to revise the map and legal description of the affected acreage.

Furthermore, the staff report continued, the city wants to prepare a revised environmental impact report covering only the 327 acres included in the revised annexation overture.

"The lengthy period for the continuance (until March 8) is requested in order to permit enough time to prepare and receive comments on a new environmental impact report for the reduced project," city administrator Floyd Belsito said in a letter to the LAFC commissioners.

Without comment the commissioners agreed to the request-

The charter, which hasn't been substantially changed since 1966, serves as the constitution for the city and outlines the scope and power of city government.

The nine-member charter revision committee has made a number of recommendations that already have sparked some controversy.

Some of the major recommendations include keeping the position of city attorney elective in-stead of making it appointive, elimination of the office of city treasurer in favor of an elected city auditor and removal of top officials and department directors from the personnel system.

The recommended changes inspired a letter from treasurer Warren Hall who would see his job eliminated if the recommen-

Radioactive Waste Threatens Power'

WASHINGTON (AP)
Despite decades of study, the United States still has not figured out how to get rid of dangerously radioactive waste from power plants and military-weapons production, the General Accounting Office reports.

Unless this problem is solved, the GAO says, the accumulation of nuclear wastes with hazardous radiation that lasts up to half a million years "threatens the future of nuclear power in the United States.

Robert W. Fri, acting ad-ministrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration, defended the waste-disposal program before a House government operations subcommittee.

He said that many of the GAO's observations are based on 1976 data and outdated. He said that his agency, which will be absorbed by the Department of Energy on Oct. 1 - is doing the best it can to deal with the problems.

Fri said that the Carter administration will shortly announce plans to deal with spent fuel at commercial reactors, a program under which the government would reportedly offer to take these wastes off the hands of commercial plants for a fee.

The Energy Research and Development Administration is planning to develop six locations for long-term or permanent burial of radioactive wastes by 1985. But the report by the investigative arm of Congress says that "ERDA may have promised more than it can deliver."

"There are, we believe, formidable social, geological and regulatory problems which must be solved," it continues. "Foremost among them is opposition of the public and some political leaders.

"ERDA may not be successful in gaining their acceptance unless it can convince people that is has a sound waste-management program and that geological disposal risks to man's environment are acceptably low," a difficult fask, the report said.

"Some radioactive wastes will remain hazardous for hundreds of thousands of years," it said, meaning they must be permanently isolated from human contact and environmental influence.

Inquiry Panel Sets HB Rocket Study

A special study panel of inquiry was appointed today by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to study why a rocket built in Huntington Beach falled in a Tuesday night launch from Cape Canaveral's Kennedy Space Center. (See picture, Page C5.)

The giant rocket hefting a European Space Agency (ESA) communications satellite into the heavens on an experimental mission was blown to bits like a $40 million firecracker.

Divers began to hunt wreckage at daybreak Wednesday along the sea floor in 65-foot depths of the Atlantic Ocean off the cape to reassemble in search of clues to the failure.

Parents Win: Venado Kids Get Buses

Reacting to the pleas of two dozen angry parents, Irvine Unified School District trustees ordered Wednesday that school buses be provided for Venado Middle School students from the College Park and Colony areas. Parents claimed it is unsafe for the 11 to 13-year-old students to cross railroad tracks and Culver Drive to get to school. Busing was provided last year but was canceled this year because the residential areas are less than two miles from the school. By board policy, two miles has been the cutoff point for eligibility for busing.

Stan Corey, superintendent of schools, and Gene Hartline, business administrator, argued that junior high school children ought to be able to, in Corey's words, "learn some of the survival skills of the 20th Century - deciding when to cross the street and how to watch for a train.'

The administrators contended the district would be required to bus students from other areas of lesser distances from school, if the board gave in to the College Park and Colony cases.

But Trustee Frank Hurd said he doesn't share Corey's opinion that seventh and eighth grade children should have the responsibilities of "Joy and enthusiasm," he said, might find them thinking of things other than safety while on the way to school.

"The fact of the matter is," Hurd said, "there have been three kids killed on Culver already (although not necessarily on their way to school)."

On Hurd's motion, the board unanimously ordered that district staff prepare a report on costs and alternatives for providing permanent busing for the College Park and Colony students of Venado Middle School.

Begnning Monday, the board decreed, interim busing will begin until a further decision is made. The staff report is due Sept. 28.

Hartline had told the board that full busing of the approximately 170 extra students to Venado would require three buses at a cost of $53,000 per Posting crossing guards at the railroad crossing at Culver Drive, and at two other Culver Drive intersections—at Acacia Street and Deerfield Avenue, would cost $9,300 a year, he said.

Regents Eye UCI Design Center Issue

University of California regents, meeting in Los Angeles riday, will be asked to okay a design for a previously approved $4 million University Center on the Irvine campus.

The design plan calls for a twostory, 30,000 square-foot concrete building, with a concrete and glass facade and heavy timber

Estimated completion date is June, 1980.

The center will be located west of the campus administration building, within an area called the Gateway Quadrangle.

It will house student government offices, recreation areas,

Hospital Holiday Hit in Baby Death

MIAMI (AP) - Michelle Pope's baby died at delivery because a base hospital was on a three-day holiday and the limited staff failed to give her "proper care and treatment.

The Air Force admits it was at fault. It has offered $15,000 in restitution.

But Mrs. Pope and her estranged husband, Army Sgt. James Pope, say it's not enough to make up for mental suffering and the breakup of their mar-"I never saw my baby. I had to ask if it was a boy or a girl. I wanted her to have her name, not just be a dead baby," Mrs. Pope testified Wednesday. A federal judge set a final hearing for Friday to decide the government's liability. It was not known how much the Popes are asking.

Testimony showed Jessica Marie was alive and well in her mother's womb when the time for delivery arrived and passed but that labor should have been induced.

But the Homestead Air Force Base hospital staff failed to give Mrs. Pope needed tests when she arrived because no doctors were on duty during the 1975 Veterans Day holiday. The night duty nurses, the government added, were not certain of their ability to treat the woman.

"I knew what was going on, butI didn't want to know," Mrs.

Irvine Panel May Resolve Land Usage

The Irvine City Council is expected tonight to resolve land use issues concerning the so-called Village 14, agricultural land on which the Irvine Company wants to build apartments and condominiums.

The city's community services, transportation and planning commissions all have voted in favor of the development plans. However, some protesting citizens say the land should remain in agricultural preserve.

Village 14 is the area bounded by Culver Drive on the east, the San Diego Freeway on the south, San Diego Creek and Peters Canyon Wash on the west and Irvine Center Drive on the north. The latest plan for Village 14 was a collaborative effort of city planning staff, council members Gabrielle Pryor and John Burton, the Irvine Company and the U.S. Marine Corps.

It calls for almost strictly residential building in the area bounded by Harvard Avenue and Culver Drive to the west and east, and by Irvine Center Drive and the San Diego Freeway to the north and south.

Densities would range from five to 25 dwelling units per acre. Some 10,000 units could be built.

Lance 'Armed' For Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)-Bert Lance struck back at his tormen-tors today, acting as if he considered himself Gulliver beset by Lilliputians

He let it be known at the outset that his remarks were aimed at the American people, not the senators on the Governmental Affairs

"I WELCOME THEM AS THE jury in this proceeding." Lance said into the television cameras. "I am secure and comfortable knowing that my conscience is clear and that the people's verdict will be a fair and just one.

The setting was one of those big Senate-Office Building hearing rooms that have become so familiar in movie and TV fictionalized accounts as well as in real life. The Senate Watergate hearings spring to mind, although they were in a different chamber.

Lance, the kind of big amiable fellow who looks as if he'd cry if he squashed a bug, came armed for the fight with a 49-page statement to read. And Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), the chairman of the committee, said he'd get all the time he needed, if it takes a Saturday session.

That alone indicates a serious matter.

LANCE WALKED INTO THE hearing room 15 minutes early with his lawyer, Clark Clifford, who was described as urbane as long ago as Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S Truman. Now he's described as white-haired and urbane.

'I don't feel lonely today at all," said Lance as he looked around the crowded room. He had plenty of support. Wife LaBelle and son David, 22, sat in

"Nervous this morning?" a reporter asked as Lance made his way to center stage. No," he said.

HE STOOD COMFORTABLY BEHIND the witness table as a horde of photographers, sandwiched between the senators at their semicircular bench, clicked away. Lance's hands were in his pockets. He looked unruffled.

The senators, meanwhile, looked lonely and ignored. Ribicoff called the hearing to order five minutes late and intoned that "we don't intend this to be a trial by ordeal.

AND SO IT WENT, LANCE'S first session of what he called his

One lesson he has learned, Lance told the senators in a Gulliverto Lilliputian-tone of voice, "is to be mighty careful in the future when I am discussing basic human rights.

"I did not ask for this fight, but now that I am in it, I am fighting not only for myself but also for our system," Lance declared. "I was a successful businessman in my home state, and I thought I had an important contribution to make by coming into government service.

The budget director has said again and again he will not quit. His demeanor and his words appeared to underscore that de-

"But to accept the assertion that I could not even manage a small country bank, one must ignore the objective facts," he told the committee, which recom-mended his confirmation as the nation's budget maker last

U.S. Stymied By Nuclear Plant Waste

Despite decades of study, the United States still has not figured out how to get rid of dangerously radioactive waste from power plants and military-weapons production, the General Accounting Office reports.

Unless this problem is solved, the GAO says, the accumulation of nuclear wastes with hazardous radiation that lasts up to half a million years "threatens the future of nuclear power in the United States.

Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration, defended the waste-disposal program before a House government operations subcommittee.

He said that many of the GAO's observations are based on 1976 data and outdated. He said thathis agency, which will be absorbed by the Department of Energy on Oct. 1 -- is doing the best it can to deal with the problems.

Fri said that the Carter administration will shortly announce plans to deal with spent fuel at commercial reactors, a program under which the govgernment would reportedly offer to take these wastes off the hands of commercial plants for a fee.

Lance 'Welcomes' Public as His Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Bert Lance struck back at his tomen tors today, acting as if he considered himself Gulliver beset by

He let it be known at the outset that his remarks were aimed at the American people, not the senators on the Governmental Affairs

I WELCOME THEM AS THE jury in this proceeding,' Lance said into the television cameras "I am secure and comfortable knowing that my conscience is clear and that the people's yerdict will be a fair and just one.

The setting was one of those big Senate Office Building hearing rooms that have become so familiar in movie and TV fictionalized accounts as well as in real life The Senate Watergate hearings spring to mind, although they were in a different chamber

Lance, the kind of big amiable fellow who looks as if be'd cry if he squashed a bug, came armed for the fight with a 49-page state ment to read. And Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn), the chairman of the committee, said he'd get all the time he needed if it takes a Saturday session.

That alone indicates a serious matter

LANCE WALKED INTO THE hearing room 15 minutes early with his lawyer, Clark Clifford, who was described as urbane as long Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S Truman Now he's described as white-haired and urbane.

'I don't feel lonely today at all," said Lance as he looked around the crowded room.

He had plenty of support. Wife LaBelle and son David, 22, sat in the front row, right behind the tables for reporters.

'Nervous this morning?" a reporter asked as Lance made his way to center stage. No," he said.

HE STOOD COMFORTABLY BEHIND the witness table as a horde of photographers, sandwiched between the senators at their semicircular bench, clicked away. Lance's hands were in his pockets. He looked unruffled. The senators, meanwhile, looked lonely and ignored.

Ribicoff called the hearing to order five minutes late and intoned that "we don't intend this to be a trial by ordeal."

AND SO IT WENT, LANCE'S first session of what he called his day in court.

One lesson he has learned, Lance told the senators in a Gulliverto Lilliputian-tone of voice, "is to be mighty careful in the future when I am discussing basic human rights."

It was the first quake that could be detected without instru ments in Orange County since Memorial Day, according to Christopher Buckley, assistant professor of earth sciences

Buckley said the quake hit at 2 35 p.m on an unnamed fault five miles south of the campus The tremor caused no damage and apparently affected an area 15 miles from its point of origin

Coeds Guarded After Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -Measures designed to assure the nighttime safety of studerits at San Francisco State have been adopted in the wake of the murder of a female student.

Among the steps is a university police plan to hire student security teams for special evening patrols of the campus.

The stabbed and bludgeoned body of Jenny Low Chang, 19, a dorm resident, was found this week in a campus library faculty reading room. No arrests have been made.

Clinic Plans Fund Dance

A third annual dinner dance to raise funds for the Laguna Beach Free Clinic will be held at the Festival of Arts outdoor restaurant Friday beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Live dance music arranged by Robby Whalley and the Guitar Shoppe will be performed. No host bar, dining, entertainment and dancing under the stars will round out the fund-raising event.

LB Seniors Get Discount

Officials of the Senior Citizens' Club of Laguna Beach say 45 city merchants are now members of the club's Senior Citizen discount program.

Merchants participating in the program offer discounts from five to 25 percent on merchandise in their stores. Discount cards are available for older residents at the Council on Aging Office, 515 Forest Ave. as well as a list of the participating merchants.

Panel Okays Popular Vote For President

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Judiciary Committee approved today, by a 9-8 vote, a pro-posed constitutional amendment to provide for the election of the president by direct popular vote.

Attempts to attach a series of other constitutional amendments, including one to let states decide whether to prohibit abortions, were rejected.

Also rejected was a proposed amendment to retain the electoral college system of electing the president but to allot each state's electoral votes to the candidates in proportion to their popular vote in the state. This lost, 8 to 7.

Mark Rudd Visits Home

MAPLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) Mark Rudd returned to his parents' home here for the first time in seven years Wednesday night, soon after he surrendered to authorities in New York to face charges in connection with the student takeover of Columbia University buildings in 1968.

The 30-year-old former leader of the Weather Underground apparently slipped through a back door at the family home in a quiet upper middle class neighborhood, eluding a bevy of reporters and photographers in the front yard.

A witness said Rudd's father, retired Army Lt. Col. Jacob L. Rudd, 67, told the crowd about 9:45 p.m.: "Look guys, Mark's in here and he's going to bed. He's not coming out.

Clemente Parking

Rejected

San Clemente city councilmen have rejected a proposal to study the possibility of providing over-night parking for recreational vehicles at North Beach.

Mayor Donna Wilkinson and Councilman William Walker voted Wednesday in favor of sending the proposal to the city planning commission for a full review:

Councilmen Thomas O'Keefe, Patrick Lane and Tony DiGiovanni opposed it.

We have one of the best facilities now for recreational vehicle overnight parking - San Clemente State Park," said DiGiovanni. "Why should we compete with the state?

Walker and Mrs. Wilkinson said families visiting San Clemente in recreational vehicles are currently parking in supermarket parking lots or on the street, creating a policing problem.

"This is a tourist-oriented town," Walker said. "Residents have said they don't want a lot of industrial development, and the tourist business is probably the cleanest industry we can have.

"It is only wise to provide a place for visiting families to

"I doubt that self-contained units will spend all that much money, "said Lane.

"I disagree," said Mrs.
Wilkinson. "We have a selfcontained unit, and when we use it, we eat out very often.'

O'Keefe said he opposed the proposal on the ground that a private property owner, rather than the city, should provide overnight recreational vehicle parking, if it is feasible.

The Sand And Fury

BARE FACTS DEPT. Downcoast in San Diego, voters will be going to the polls Tuesday to decide whether or not bare is beautiful. The issue on the ballot is Proposition D involving a place called Black's Beach.

This relatively secluded strand is the only place in our region where public beach nudity is tolerated. Now the practice has become an election issue.

The question has raised some temperatures in the San Diego area and newspapers of that region are filled with letters, pronude and anti-naked. The question has triggered sermons. quips, puns, wisecracks and some pretty emotional blather on both sides,

ALAS, IN ALL the fervor. Black's Beach nakedness has drawn considerable attention in the news and not always with pinpoint accuracy.

As August began to wind down and the nude election month approached, a local television station fired the first loaded salvo by suggesting lifeguards were concerned about "an atmosphere of permissiveness" at Black's

From there, the papers began hyping the story, indicating police had established "a bikini patrol" to search for crime and sexual misconduct along the bathing suit-optional strand.

Several arrests have been made, including one in which an adult male is charged with child molesting," a police spokesman was quoted as reporting.

THEN IT DEVELOPED that Al JaCoby, assistant to the editor of the San Diego Union, got suspicious of all these rather generalized reports. He went on an investigative spree of his own.

In his column on the editorial page, JaCoby characterized the escalating nudie beach stories as 'a media storm.

JaCoby discovered that:

- Despite the television hype about "permissiveness" along the strand, an actual police report got buried in the flurry. That report said, "Black's Beach has one-half to one-third the crime of other San Diego beaches.

There is no such thing as a "bikini patrol." Police had regular plainclothes patrols. The "bikini" name had been made up by a reporter.

As for the lone child molesting case, it had not occurred in the last few weeks. JaCoby pushed to find out when. He was given an "either April or May"

He persisted in insisting that police give him the precise date of that arrest.

They finally supplied it - last Feb. 6, a 50-year-old man who was babysitting a 6-year-old girl.

JACOBY WAS RIGHT. San Diego had been swept by a media storm in which the news people didn't cover themselves with

Folks Back Lance Hometown Rallies for 'Georgia Boy'

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) — It was like an old-lashioned revival meeting as the hometown folks stomped their feet, prayed and cheered one of their own — Bert "Good Ole Georgia Boy" Lance. About 1,500 people — more than one-fifth of Calhoun's population — turned out in a demonstration of support for the director of the federal Office of Management and Budget on the eve of his appearance before a Senate panel investigating his

THE CROWD gave a standing ovation as the high school band played "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "I Did It My Way."

They had placards saying "Calhoun for Bert" and "Bert's A Good Ole Georgia Boy." They used words like "love," "friendship," and "honesty" to describe Lance, who did not attend the rally.

"I'll tell you what kind of a guy he is," said Jack Purcell, who used to be the catcher on the softball team when Lance was pitcher.

"I called him up last year to come speak to the graduating class of the school where I was principal. And even though it rained and the loudspeakers didn't work, he came and he spoke. And when I sent him a check for speaking to the class, he sent the check back because he didn't do it for the money. That's the kind of guy Bert is.

A DOWNPOUR drove the crowd from the high school football field across the street to a gymnasium, but it didn't dampen their spirits.

Lance's minister, the Rev. Emory Brackman. told of the "very generous" contributions of time and money that Lance and his wife, LaBelle, made to the First Methodist Church. He recalled that Lance received "the highest honor" a United Methodist can receive when he was elected to the church's General Conference.

LT. GOV. Zell Miller, who shared a double desk with Lance in grammar school, accused the news media of distorting the Lance affair. He denied a statement in an article in a national magazine that quoted him as saying Lance was a poor arithmetic

"Powerful and ruthless forces" - whom he later identified as the federal bureaucracy - have attacked Lance, Miller said.

"To say that Bert Lance has done something wrong does not make it so," he said.

THEY WANTED to talk about the back-slapping, joke telling Bert Lance who married his high school sweetheart and helped his neighbors as he rose from a 19-year-old bank teller to a 32-yearold bank president

'He treated a man like a man wants to be treated," said John Houser, who carried a sign saying "Bert Lance Was Fair To Me . We Need Him In D.C." He said Lance helped him get back on his feet several years ago when he lost "a lot of money" investing in a mill.

"He went out of his way to help a lot of people in this town.

New SS Plan Time-Bombs Explode Hikes Limit For Retired

WASHINGTON (AP) Retired people could earn up to $4,500 next year without losing Social Security benefits under a plan approved by a House subcommittee.

Its chairman says the current limit reduces some elderly persons to eating pet food.

RECIPIENTS WHO now earn more than $3,000 lose $1 in benefits for every $2 they bring in above the ceiling. That limitation, says Rep. James A. Burke (D-Mass.), means some retirees are "living on a diet of cat and dog food.

In a move experts say could affect a million people, the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security Wednesday tentatively approved raising the allowance in 1978.

Under the proposal, recipients could earn $6,000 in 1979 without facing an aid cutback.

THE LIMIT ON exempt earnings this year is $3,000. It is expected to go to $3,240 in 1978 and $3,480 in 1979 under a provision of the existing law that ties benefits to inflation.

The subcommittee's move, approved 9 to 3, was a compromise between proposals to abolish the limitation and others for a smaller or later increase. Republicans had suggested phasing out the limitation over three

AS PART OF the compromise, the subcommittee agreed that the whole subject would be considered again when the panel takes up long-range changes in Social Security, probably next

The subcommittee is now putting together legislation to keep the deficit-plagued Social Security system alive.

All the votes it is now taking are subject to later change or reversal. Burke, the panel chairman, predicted the move 'wouldn't get 50 votes against it' if it reaches the House floor.

Partly offsetting the cost of raising the income lid, the subcommittee voted to remove from the law a quirk that allows a retired person to earn as much as he can in a month if he forfeits his benefits for that month.

Killers in Indiana Inspired by Movie?

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Vincent Bugliosi, who prosecuted Charles Manson and his family, says he is "terribly disturbed" over reports than an Indiana mass murder may have been inspired by a movie based on a book Bugliosi wrote about the Manson case.

"It's a terrible tragedy and I'm extremely upset about it," Bugliosi said Wednesday when told that one of the accused Indiana killers alluded to the movie 'Helter Skelter!' in court testimony.

Dan Stonebreaker, 20, and three others are accused of indiscriminately killing four brothers in a Valentine's Day rifle attack in Höllandsburg, Ind.

Stonebreaker, who has turned state's evidence, testified this week that he and another of the accused watched "Helter Skelter" on television two months before they walked into the mobile home of Mrs. Betty Spencer and opened fire.

"This is the first indication I've ever received that anyone ever got any ideas from 'Helter Skelter'," said Bugliosi, a private attorney in Beverly Hills. People have asked me before if I was worried someone might get ideas from the book or the movie, but I said it has never happened. I'm terribly disturbed about it.

"I'm sure people will start saying that shows like 'Helter Skelter' shouldn't be aired, but that's an extreme, too," he said.
"What's the alternative? Are we going to keep stories of tragedies off the air because some demented mind might try to parallel the act? I just can't believe that just watching a movie would turn someone into a cold-blooded killer."

Mexican-Americans in Orange County will join thousands of others in Southern California starting at about midnight tonight in marking 16 de Sep-tiembre — Mexican Independence Day.

The celebrations begin with the traditional "El Grito," which literally means "The Yell" but is, in fact, a Mexican cry of freedom declaring independence from Spain.

Though there will no doubt be numerous private festivities in the Mexican-American communities of the county, few large activities have been planned to mark the day Father Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla aroused the revolt that began in 1810.

In Santa Ana, the county seat, Mexican-American leaders have prepared a special flag-raising ceremony at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Civic Center's "Plaza of the Flags.

In the parade will be a precision motorcycle team from Tijuana, high school marching bands, floats and other features.

The other large event planned in the county will take place in Placentia Saturday.

Casa Placentia and Amigos de Casa Placentia have planned a block party in the Atwood com-munity. Santa Fe Street will be closed to vehicular traffic, according to organizers.

Official Urges Ship Terminal For 2 Tankers

LONG BEACH (AP) - A proposal for an oil tanker terminal designed to accommodate two ships, rather than three as originally planned, was raised Wednesday at a meeting of the South Coast Air Quality Management District Board.

The board passed a motion by Orange County member Paul Raven ordering its staff to prepare a supplemental environmental impact statement on the effects of a two-berth facility. Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio) has proposed a $45-million threeberth plan.

AN ENVIRONMENTAL impact statement has already been submitted on the three-berth, trestle-supported Sohio proposal, which would handle tanker shipments of up to 700,000 barrels a day of crude oil from Valdez, Alaska. The oil would be pumped through pipelines to Midland, Tex. for distribution to midwest refineries.

Raven's motion provides for public hearings within 30 days after the supplemental statement is realeased.

The statements include estimations of how much pollution the facility would create.

Baby Brings Woe Eviction Fight Could Be Landmark Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Steve and Lois Wolfson's bundle of joy has caused them a peck of trouble ever since the landlord informed them their baby son would force their eviction from the apartment where they have lived for more than three years.

Culver City Municipal Court Judge Harold I. Cherness began hearing testimony today on the suit the Wolfsons filed to hold onto their $390-a-month home overlooking the yacht harbor at Marina del Rey.

They contend the apartment's ban on children violates state law. The case could have sweeping implications for millions of families with small children seeking rental housing.

MRS. WOLFSON BROUGHT her infant son, Adam, home from the hospital in September 1975, but nobody said a word about it for more than a year after he was born.

"We've never had any complaints about Adam," she said in an interview. "In fact, all of our neighbors have signed affidavits saying they like him and want him to stay in the building, and they're appearing in court on our behalf."

A neighbor, Robert Smith, whose bedroom is directly over the Wolfsons' apartment, said: "We've never been awakened by Adam crying. The Wolfsons are very considerate people and have asked us on several occasions to be sure the child isn't bothering us.'

IN NOVEMBER 1976, after the Wolfsons had signed their lease renewal. they got a letter from the corporation that acts as landlord, Marina Point Ltd., telling them they would have to leave because of the child.

Entrenched there since February 1974, they decided to fight rather than

"We love it here. It's a terrific buy, and we're pleased with it," Wolfson said. "There's a great view of the marina from both bedrooms.'

Several other children already live in the apartment complex. They lived there before the ban on children was imposed.

"The children from adjacent buildings who came over to play in front of this one are a lot noisier than Adam's ever been," Smith said.

Commission member Gloria Belzil of Nashua simply said of the program's defeat, "Some women libbers irritate the hell out of their husbands."

Dorothy Craigie, commission chairman, said the panel has not dismissed the wife-beating problem but plans to "study the problem and come up with a recommendation."

The dissenting member of the commission, Frances Drown, said she would continue to pursue the program to help battered women at a special conference of women's groups set next Wednesday.

The commission's record also includes support of prayer in the schools and opposition to the repeal of a law banning lesbian activities and to a federal family and child services program.

But the rejection of the battered wives plan outraged feminists groups and women legislators.

Killers in Indiana Inspired by Movie?

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Vincent Bugliosi, who prosecuted Charles Manson and his family, says he is "terribly disturbed" over reports than an Indiana mass murder may have been inspired by a movie based on a book Bugliosi wrote about the Manson case

"It's a terrible tragedy and I'm extremely upset about it.' Bugliosi said Wednesday when told that one of the accused Indiana killers alluded to the movie 'Helter Skelter'' in court testimony.

Dan Stonebreaker, 20, and three others are accused of indiscriminately killing four brothers in a Valentine's Day ri-fle attack in Höllandsburg, Ind.

Stonebreaker, who has turned state's evidence, testified this week that he and another of the accused watched "Helter Skelter" on television two months before they walked into the mobile home of Mrs. Betty Spencer and opened fire.

'We talked about it (the movie)," Stonebreaker testified. "It was the movie of how Charles Manson killed people for no reason.

Stonebreaker said he, Roger Drollinger, 24, David Smith, 17, and Mike Wright, 21, picked the Spencer family at random. The attack killed 14-year-old Ralph Reese, his brothers, Reeve, 16, and Raymond, 17, and their halfbrother, Gregory Brooks, 22.

Mrs. Spencer's wig-was blown off and the killers left her, apparently thinking she was dead. authorities said.

"This is the first indication I've ever received that anyone ever got any ideas from 'Helter Skelter','' said Bugliosi, a private attorney in Beverly Hills. 'People have asked me before if I was worried someone might get ideas from the book or the movie, but I said it has never happened. I'm terribly disturbed about it.

"I'm sure people will start saying that shows like 'Helter Skelter' shouldn't be aired, but that's an extreme, too," he said. "What's the alternative? Are we going to keep stories of tragedies off the air because some demented mind might try to parallel the act? I just can't believe that just watching a movie would turn someone into a cold-blooded

The Sand And Fury

BARE FACTS DEPT. -Downcoast in San Diego, voters will be going to the polls Tuesday to decide whether or not bare is beautiful. The issue on the ballot is Proposition D involving a place called Black's Beach.

This relatively secluded strand is the only place in our region where public beach nudity is tolerated. Now the practice has become an election issue.

The question has raised some temperatures in the San Diego area and newspapers of that region are filled with letters, pronude and anti-naked. The question has triggered sermons, quips, puns, wisecracks and some pretty emotional blather on both sides.

ALAS, IN ALL the fervor. Black's Beach nakedness has drawn considerable attention in the news and not always with pinpoint accuracy.

As August began to wind down and the nude election month approached, a local television station fired the first loaded salvo by suggesting lifeguards were concerned about "an atmosphere of permissiveness" at Black's Beach.

From there, the papers began hyping the story, indicating police had established "a bikini patrol" to search for crime and sexual misconduct along the bathing suit-optional strand.

"Several arrests have been made, including one in which an adult male is charged with child molesting," a police spokesman was quoted as reporting.

THEN IT DEVELOPED that Al JaCoby, assistant to the editor of the San Diego Union, got suspicious of all these rather generalized reports. He went on an investigative spree of his own.

In his column on the editorial page, JaCoby characterized the escalating nudie beach stories as "a media storm.

JaCoby discovered that:

Despite the television hype about "permissiveness" along the strand, an actual police report got buried in the flurry. That report said, "Black's Beach has one-half to one-third the crime of other San Diego beaches.

-There is no such thing as a 'bikini patrol.' Police had regular plainclothes patrols. The 'bikini" name had been made up by a reporter.

-As for the lone child molesting case, it had not occurred in the last few weeks. JaCoby pushed to find out when. He was given an "either April or May"

He persisted in insisting that police give him the precise date of that arrest.

They finally supplied it - last Feb. 6, a 50-year-old man who was babysitting a 6-year-old girl.

JACOBY WAS RIGHT, San Diego had been swept by a media storm in which the news people didn't cover themselves with

Folks Back Lance Hometown Rallies for 'Georgia Boy'

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) - It was like an oldfashioned revival meeting as the hometown folks stomped their feet, prayed and cheered one of their own — Bert "Good Ole Georgia Boy" Lance.

About 1,500 people - more than one-fifth of Calhoun's population - turned out in a demonstration of support for the director of the federal Office of Management and Budget on the eve of his appearance before a Senate panel investigating his financial affairs.

THE CROWD gave a standing ovation as the high school band played "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "I Did It My Way."

They had placards saying "Calhoun for Bert" and "Bert's A Good Ole Georgia Boy." They used words like "love," "friendship," and "honesty" to describe Lance, who did not attend the rally.

I'll tell you what kind of a guy he is," said Jack Purcell, who used to be the catcher on the softball team when Lance was pitcher.

'I called him up last year to come speak to the graduating class of the school where I was principal. And even though it rained and the loudspeakers didn't work, he came and he spoke. And when I sent him a check for speaking to the class, he sent the check back because he didn't do it for the money. That's the kind of guy Bert is.

A DOWNPOUR drove the crowd from the high school football field across the street to a gymnasium, but it didn't dampen their spirits.

Lance's minister, the Rev. Emory Brackman, told of the "very generous" contributions of time and money that Lance and his wife, LaBelle, made to the First Methodist Church. He recalled that Lance received "the highest honor" a United Methodist can receive when he was elected to the church's General Conference.

LT. GOV. Zell Miller, who shared a double desk with Lance in grammar school, accused the news media of distorting the Lance affair. He denied a statement in an article in a national magazine that quoted him as saying Lance was a poor arithmetic

"Powerful and ruthless forces" — whom he later identified as the federal bureaucracy — have attacked Lance, Miller said.

"To say that Bert Lance has done something wrong does not make it so," he said.

THEY WANTED to talk about the backslapping, joke telling Bert Lance who married his high school sweetheart and helped his neighbors as he rose from a 19-year-old bank teller to a 32-yearold bank president.

"He treated a man like a man wants to be treated," said John Houser, who carried a sign saying "Bert Lance Was Fair To Me . . . We Need Him In D.C." He said Lance helped him get back on his feet several years ago when he lost "a lot of money" investing in a mill.

New SS Plan Time-Bombs Explode Hikes Limit For Retired

WASHINGTON (AP) Retired people could earn up to $4,500 next year without losing Social Security benefits under a plan approved by a House subcommittee.

Its chairman says the current limit reduces some elderly persons to eating pet food.

RECIPIENTS WHO now earn more than $3,000 lose $1 in benefits for every $2 they bring in above the ceiling. That limitation, says Rep. James A. Burke (D-Mass.), means some retirees are "living on a diet of cat and dog food.

In a move experts say could affect a million people, the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security Wednesday tentatively approved raising the allowance in 1978.

Under the proposal, recipients could earn $6,000 in 1979 without facing an aid cutback.

THE LIMIT ON exempt earnings this year is $3,000. It is expected to go to $3,240 in 1978 and $3,480 in 1979 under a provision of the existing law that ties benefits to inflation.

The subcommittee is now putting together legislation to keep the deficit-plagued Social Security system alive.

All the votes it is now taking are subject to later change or reversal. Burke, the panel chairman, predicted the move 'wouldn't get 50 votes against it' if it reaches the House floor.

Partly offsetting the cost of raising the income lid, the subcommittee voted to remove from the law a quirk that allows a retired person to earn as much as he can in a month if he forfeits his benefits for that month.

Report Says Breast X-rays Possible Cause of Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A national breast cancer detection program should be continued. but its use of breast X rays should be restricted because of their potential for causing the disease in some women, a National Cancer Institute advisory group said today.

The report, presented today at a breast cancer screening meeting, said X-raying breasts, a process called mammography, effectively finds cancer that goes undetected by other methods.

BUT TOO MUCH is unknown about the possibility of radiation causing cancer for mammography to be used routinely on all women, particularly those under age 50, the study said.

'32 Million' Need Mental Health Care

Americans need mental health care, a new report to the government says, but help is often unavailable because of inadequate community services, costs that are too high or the stigma of mental illness.

'The time has come for mental health care to become part of a broader effort to deal with human needs," concludes the preliminary report of the President's Commission on Mental Health,

THE REPORT notes that 15 percent of the population needs some form of help, ranging from counseling to long-term care, not counting the six million who are mentally retarded. At any one time, the report adds, about 25 percent of the country is under enough emotional stress that a doctor might diagnose such people as suffering from depression or anxiety.

BUNDLE OF JOY CAUSES HEADACHE FOR LOS ANGELES COUPLE Steve and Lois Wolfson Stand Outside Apartment With Adam, 2

Baby Brings Woe Eviction Fight Could Be Landmark Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- Steve and Lois Wolfson's bundle of joy has caused them a peck of trouble ever since the landlord informed them their baby son would force their eviction from the apartment where they have lived for more than three years.

Culver City Municipal Court Judge Harold I. Cherness began hearing testimony today on the suit the Wolfsons filed to hold onto their $390-a-month home overlooking the yacht harbor at Marina del Rey.

They contend the apartment's ban on children violates state law. The case could have sweeping implications for millions of families with small children seeking rental housing.

MRS. WOLFSON BROUGHT her infant son, Adam, home from the hospital in September 1975, but nobody said a word about it for more than a year after he was born.

"We've never had any complaints about Adam," she said in an interview. In fact, all of our neighbors have signed affidavits saying they like him and want him to stay in the building, and they're appearing in court on our behalf."

A neighbor, Robert Smith, whose bedroom is directly over the Wolfsons' apartment, said: "We've never been awakened by Adam crying. The Wolfsons are very considerate people and have asked us on several occasions to be sure the child isn't bothering us.'

IN NOVEMBER 1976, after the Wolfsons had signed their lease renewal. they got a letter from the corporation that acts as landlord, Marina Point Ltd., telling them they would have to leave because of the child.

Entrenched there since February 1974, they decided to fight rather than

"We love it here. It's a terrific buy, and we're pleased with it," Wolfson said. "There's a great view of the marina from both bedrooms.'

Several other children already live in the apartment complex. They lived there before the ban on children was imposed.

A New Credibility Gap in Washington

Even as Bert Lance was scheduled to have his say before the Senate Committee, two things became painfully obvious:

—Lance has to go.

-President Carter has bungled this one badly. It is clear that Lance's record as a financial wheeler aler and his lack of candor with the Senate during his conrmation hearings and since have destroyed his usefulness. He mply would not have the confidence of the Congress and proably not the confidence of the people at large.

This is too bad because Lance by all reports has a pretty air degree of competence and has had the confidence of the usiness community as a voice for moderation among the ometimes zany economic theorists in other parts of the administration and in the departments.

We have commented before on the fact that the furor refulting from the progressively more damaging revelations about Lance has overshadowed other problems that need iore attention from Carter and more public discussion — the Panama Canal Treaty, the defense picture, the Middle East, energy and the economy generally.

Now we have Carter's own credibility suffering from the question of how much he really knew about Lance's situation.
If he knew little or nothing, the administration looks terribly inept. If he knew much or all of the story, his judgment and his

Mr. Clean image both are in question.

Now comes another damaging development: Press Secretary Jody Powell's "leak" of information about the supposed use by Sen. Charles Percy, a Lance critic, of free airplane transportation and other favors from various cor-

Apparently Powell's information was wrong. And this could happen to a new boy in town.

But there are two disturbing aspects:

It begins to smack of the old Ron Ziegler performance in the eagerness to harpoon a critic.

ment in the leak.

If we are to believe that Carter keeps a tight rein on the finer points of White House staff activities, it is hard to believe that Powell would have leaked the information without Carter's knowledge. Carter is too smart to let a press secretary jeopardize his relations with a key member of the Congress without knowing what's going on.

Mr. Carter better be preparing a full, frank explanation of all that has transpired, and he had better be ready to deliver it soon. And it better be good.

There is a man living in San Clemente who could tell Mr. Carter the perils of stonewalling and cover-up.

Wrong Target

Meanwhile, Sen. S. I. Hayakawa has weighed in with his share of foolishness in the Lance affair.

Rushing to defend Mr. Lance's "giving up a lot to accept the federal job," Hayakawa railed against the media for reporting (and in some cases digging out) the activities which now have Lance in trouble with the Senate.

Hayakawa apparently belongs to those who believe that nothing a public official does would be improper or illegal if the media did not report it.

Rather than "driving good men away from government," as Sen. Hayakawa seems to feel, the media exposure is about the only mechanism available to the American public for making sure that they get good men in the government.

It seems incredible that the U.S. distributes millions of dollars throughout the world in order to shed responsibilities, while in Panama, where the gringos would like to stay forever, a considerably smaller sum is offered. The South Koreans do not want the Americans to go, yet the U.S. pays the South Koreans so they can pull out. There is just no way to understand the gringos.

The agreement will make us a sort of sanctuary similar to Switzerland. In fact the only threat to the canal's security is sabotage. Our people have proven over 70 years that they are capable and responsible enough to keep it functioning. The agreement seems to be right and proper for the Panamanian community's best interests.

La Republica, Panama City (pro-government).

The agreement in principle between the U.S. and Panama, in addition to providing a solution to the problem of the canal, also restores one's faith in the possibility of negotiating the many disputes that exist between our continent and the whole world. It is also palpable evidence of a new North American political style.

Korea Memo Paints Grim Picture

PRM (Presidential Review Memorandum) 10, a top secret

inter-agency study of U.S. force strucfures, also is gloomy about holding the South Korean capital of Seoul against invading North Koreans to-

day. Even with U.S. air and naval intervention and U.S. troops still stationed in South Korea, the study suggests Seoul cannot be held.

All this contradicts President Carter's assurances that his decision to remove the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division does not undercut the U.S. commitment to South Korea. It also undermines current military doctrine based on the retention of Seoul as a necessity. Thus, South Koreans face the same problem as the West Germans: shall they believe public pronouncements of U.S. leaders or private documents of their staff experts?

The administration's claim that PRM-10 merely discusses options is simply untrue. Just as PRM-10 states that present allied forces could not hold one-third of Germany, its disturbing comments on Korea are based on conditions before and after the U.S. troop pullout, not on any option.

"ONCE THE U.S. land forces are out of Korea," says PRM-10, "the U.S. has transformed its presence in Asia from a landbased posture to an off-shore posture. This. . . provides the U.S. flexibility to determine at the time whether it should or should not get involved in a local

veal an unpublicized reason for removing the 2nd Division: to give Washington the choice of whether or not to intervene. With the troops gone, says PRM-10, "the risk of automatic involvement (which was a major factor in removing land forces from Korea) is minimized. However, should the U.S. decide to intervene, military forces would be readily available.

Even with the 2nd Division still on station and the U.S. supplying "initial air and naval support at D-Day," PRM-10 spins a grim scenario: "If the North Koreans were to achieve tactical surprise, it is possible that they could at least temporarily attain their most likely major objective the capture of Seoul.

While predicting North Korea could not win "a sustained combat," it predicates this on major U.S. help. "With the U.S. con-tributions of land and carrier based tactical air assets and material support, it would appear that the U.S. and ROK (Republic of Korea) would prevail against North Korea in the longer term, but with possible initial setbacks - including perhaps the fall of Seoul."

Thomas Keevil/Editor

WITHOUT U.S. help, the situation is desperate, according to PRM-10: "The level of forces which could be brought to bear at the front on D-Day would generally favor North Korea over the ROK in all categories. . The ROK has widely spread infantry forces with limited mobility and vulnerable stocks of war materiel."

The document implies a return to the old U.S. strategy of keeping allied troops away from the DMZ and instead falling back on Seoul. Now-retired Lt. Gen. James Hollingsworth changed that when he took command nearly four years ago, contending the North Koreans wanted to capture Seoul quickly and then start debilitating peace negotiations. So, allied strategy changed to a forward defense of Seoul.

Such a defense requires Korean confidence in U.S. readiness to supply indispensable airpower. South Korea long has worried that its defense pact with Washington provides a less automatic U.S. response to invasion than does the NATO treaty. President Carter's July 25 letter sought to reassure President Park Chung Hee that the U.S. troop pullout does not mean "any change whatsoever in our com-

PRM-10 undercuts all of South Korea's expectations. While emphasizing that only U.S. air and naval intervention could stop an invasion, it now makes that intervention a matter of choice rather than automatic response.

After our column reported the PRM-10 assessment of a Soviet attack in Central Europe, a senior West German army officer secretly visited Washington to find the truth. Interviews with 30 people, the general said, left "not the shadow of doubt in my mind" that the column was accurate despite White House denials. South Korea's generals may now begin a similar process with hopes that the answer will be more reassuring than the findings of their German colleague.

Red Carpet Treatment for a Communist

Communists from entering the United States by invoking a law from the Red Scare days of Sen. Joseph McCarthy

The McCarran Act, passed in 1952, established nearly 30

categories of people who could not visit the United States unless they were recommended for visa waivers by the State Dept. Among the undesirables were prostitutes, polygamists, paupers and advocates of the "international doctrines of world communism."

Now, thanks to a recent bill passed by Congress, the McCarran Act will soon be less restrictive. Over the years, nevertheless, the law has often been selectively applied. Out of some 19,000 waiver applications last year, for example, only about a thousand were denied.

During the Richard Nixon-Henry Kissinger era, Communist leaders from Western Europe were considered anathema, because official visits to the United States would give them credibility at home. In 1975, for WASHINGTON - For 25 instance, a prominent Italian Dept., the U.S. ambassador in years, the State Dept has been arbitrarily blocking selected invited to speak at the New York Council on Foreign Relations. The waiver was denied and the conference had to be cancelled.

> COMMUNISTS who were critical of U.S. allies were also considered verboten by the Nixon administration. One such case involved a prominent British citizen, Carmel Budiardjo, who wanted to lecture in the United States on human rights violations in Indonesia. Under pressure from the Indonesian government, the State Dept. temporarily withheld her visa on the grounds that she had previously lied about being a Communist from 1946 to 1948.

red carpet. Take Vulkan Shopov, chief of agriculture for the Bulgarian Communist party. As an Eastern European Communist, in an era of detente, he is ardently courted by U.S. diplomats.

SHOPOV CAME to the United States in June at the invitation of the State Dept. The U.S. tax-payers footed the bill for his month-long visit, including travel expenses to and from Bulgaria.

"He would appreciate chance to see modern American dance (though we suspect anything too avant-garde would not go down well; believe American Ballet Theater, Alvin Ailey or Eliot Feld would be just about right), Broadway show (suggest, if possible, 'A Chorus Line' or 'Bubbling Brown Sugar'). Opera, or orchestral concerts. Shopov not interested in jazz or rock."

The ambassador added a "special note." In his talks with Shopov, wrote Herz, the Bulgarian made a "special point of saying he does not want to bump into correspondents from (Radio Free Europe) while in U.S., and does not wish to give interview to (Voice of America). . . He asked that interpreter not be 'political immigrant' . . .

Shopov had been assured, the ambassador stated, "that interpreter would be selected in such fashion as to assure there would be absolutely no political embarrassment."

WHEN HE finally arrived in the United States, Shopov was taken to the Smithsonian, the Kennedy Center, colonial Williamsburg, Va., and to other spots around the country.

But the scholarly Shopov, a State Dept. official told us, "squeezed in" the cultural sights only when he had spare time. The Bulgarian decided to forego Dis-neyland, which "disappointed" State Dept. officials.

Friar John is quarantined. And it is a fatal accident that Juliet awakens from her trance a moment too late to prevent Romeo taking poison.

It is not a play about "love" at all, but about romantic rashness. Everybody is overexcited, especially Romeo at each critical turning of the plot. The im-petuosity of the Montagues and Capulets is reflected in the behavior of their children — and "Romeo and Juliet," rather than being a dramatic rebuke to the hatred between the houses, is an example of "the sins of the fathers being handed down to the children."

Shakespeare was for love, as no poet before or since; he was not for its callow counterfeits, or for passion out of control, lives lost by blind chance. This is what his "most romantic" play is all VOL. 70, NO. 258, 4 SECTIONS, 42 PAGES

NB Plea Falls Flat Realtors Polite to Councilman Ryckoff

By JOANNE REYNOLDS

Conceding that he "probably won't change your minds at all,' Newport Beach City Councilman Paul Ryckoff took his case for a building moratorium to the Newport Harbor-Costa Mesa Board of Realtors this morning.

The 50 real estate agents and brokers who attended the breakfast seassion at the Marriott Hotel were polite, but apparently unimpressed with Ryckoff's proposal. They gave a colleague a rousing ovation when he urged the councilman to leave the moratorium issue alone and move ahead with road construction instead.

Ryckoff has twice this year failed to get his fellow councilmen to approve a moratorium he says whould only last four months in order to give the city time to lower building densities on the city's remaining open

Ryckoff said this morning that, if his next bid - which comes before the council Monday fails, he will support a citizens group which is planning to launch an initiative drive to get the issue on next April's ballot.

The councilman acknowledged that there is merit in the arguments of the pro-development faction as well as the promoratorium faction, but said he believes most of the residents of Newport Beach favor a moratorium.

He also said he believes most of the city's residents want the city to move quickly on road improvement projects such as the widening of Pacific Coast Highway, MacArthur Boulevard and Jamboree Road to six lanes. He pledged to work on expediting those projects.

But Ryckoff said that divergent opinions on the extension of University Drive and the completion of Fifth Avenue in Corona del Mar means those projects are not likely to be undertaken.

He said he doesn't believe a moratorium would force housingprices up, but he noted that a subsequent lowering of allowable densities would probably in-crease property values in the city by reducing the future supply of housing.

'I feel no personal obligation to provide low cost housing in Newport Beach," he added.

Ryckoff said the proposed moratorium, "might not cover all of Newport Beach" and cited West Newport as an example of an areathat might be excluded.

He said he was particularly concerned with proposed residential development at the Castaways adjacent to Dover

Police said the woman was shopping at South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa when a woman in her mid-twenties stopped her in the mall and pretended to be an acquaintance. They chatted for a while and the young woman related she had a friend who had found a bag containing $45,000 in cash and some pornographic photos.

The young woman told her elderly companion that the friend was afraid to turn the money in to police, but didn't know what to do with it.

At this point, the friend joined the two women and the first young woman suggested she talk to her boss to see what should be

While the pair waited, the young woman disappeared, allegedly to see her employer, and returned with the following adThey could keep the cash, since older woman to her home where she got the money and the rings then drove to the attorney's office in Newport Beach.

One woman went up to the lawyer's office with the woman's funds and with the found money, returning moments later apparently empty-handed.

The older woman was then sent upstairs to talk to the lawyer and collect her cash, but when she got there, there was no lawyer's office, no cash and by then, the two young women had departed.

Viejo Loses 3 Highways

Plano Trabuco in the Mission Viejo area were deleted from a county highway plan approved Wednesday by the Orange Coun-

But supervisors decided approval of the highways would be an infraction of south county population growth goals approved in 1976.

It was on a motion made by Supervisor Ralph Diedrich that the board voted unanimously to delete the roadways most planners felt would open the area to development.

Earlier, the Board of Supervisors asked the planning

'Conscience Clear'

Lance 'Armed' For Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bert Lance struck back at his tomentors today, acting as if he considered himself Gulliver beset by

He let it be known at the outset that his remarks were aimed at the American people, not the senators on the Governmental Affairs

"I WELCOME THEM AS THE jury in this proceeding," Lance said into the television cameras. "I am secure and comfortable knowing that my conscience is clear and that the people's verdict will be a fair and just one.

The setting was one of those big Senate Office Building hearing rooms that have become so familiar in movie and TV fictionalized accounts as well as in real life. The Senate Watergate hearings spring to mind, although they were in a different chamber.

Lance, the kind of big amiable fellow who looks as if he'd cry if he squashed a bug, came armed for the fight with a 49-page statement to read. And Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), the chairman of the committee, said he'd get all the time he needed, if it takes a Saturday session.

That alone indicates a serious matter.

LANCE WALKED INTO THE hearing room 15 minutes early with his lawyer, Clark Clifford, who was described as urbane as long ago as Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S Truman. Now he's described as white-haired and urbane.

"I don't feel lonely today at all," said Lance as he looked around the crowded room.

He had plenty of support. Wife LaBelle and son David, 22, sat in the front row, right behind the tables for reporters.

'Nervous this morning?" a reporter asked as Lance made his way to center stage. 'No," he said.

HE STOOD COMFORTABLY BEHIND the witness table as a horde of photographers, sandwiched between the senators at their semicircular bench, clicked away. Lance's hands were in his pockets. He looked unruffled.

The senators, meanwhile, looked lonely and ignored. Ribicoff called the hearing to order five minutes late and intoned that "we don't intend this to be a trial by ordeal."

AND SO IT WENT, LANCE'S first session of what he called his

One lesson he has learned, Lance told the senators in a Gulliverto Lilliputian-tone of voice, "is to be mighty careful in the future when I am discussing basie human rights.

"I did not ask for this fight, but now that I am in it, I am fighting not only for myself but also for our system," Lance declared. "I was a successful businessman in my home state, and I thought I had an important contribution to make by coming into government service."

The budget director has said again and again he will not quit, His demeanor and his words appeared to underscore that determination.

But even as he spoke, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill told reporters that because of Lance's financial problems "the image of the President is going down a lit-

'But to accept the assertion that I could not even manage a small country bank, one must ignore the objective facts," he told the committee, which recommended his confirmation as the nation's budget maker last January.

Lance told the panel he answered questions from members and from its staff fully and accurately in January and withheld nothing.

In regard to personal loans he received from banks with which his own banks had special relationships, he said, "In no instance was there a finding that the terms of my loans were more favorable" because of the business ties.

Lance vigorously denied he had backdated any checks to allow him to take income tax deductions for 1976, a possibility suggested by Percy Friday. Lance also made it clear that he did not také any improper deduc-

Banks Help Us Run Up Debts

By MILTON MOSKOWITZ

The key'to successful selling is to make it easy for the customer to Buy. Thanks to the credit card, banks have grasped that key. And as they turn it, they are well on their way to opening the door to bankruptcy — for us.

The messages banks direct at us, in their ads and other published materials, make it appear as if they are in the public service business. We're almost expected to respond "Thank you."

IN FACT, OF COURSE, banks are as much in but ness as an apparel company or food processor. They, too, have a product to sell. They, too, hope to sell that product at a profit.

The product banks have to sell is money. They buy it from you and me and others at one rate - say, in the form of savings accounts, the quarterly interest you receive being the

price you're getting for your money. And then they loan it out Money Tree *

Before the advent of the credit card, if you wanted to borrow money from a bank, you had to fill out a long application form. It was a cumbersome affair, and bankers were never famous for making the small borrower feel comfortable.

Today bankers have made it easy for us to become instant borrowers. Just go to a store or hotel or car rental agency or airline ticket counter, flash your card and presto - you have the product or service you desire.

IF YOU PAY THE MONTHLY BILLING in full right away, it doesn't cost anything extra. But in practice two out of three cardholders cannot — or do not — pay in full. And what we don't pay immediately becomes a loan — at 18 percent annual interest

At first the bank credit card business proceeded along two tracks. There was one group that issued BankAmericard while another group issued Master Charge. Now, though, the business has taken a wild turn. Banks that issued BankAmericards (this name is being changed to Visa) can issue Master Charge cards. And Master Charge banks are free to issue Visa cards.

As a result; banks are hustling to get their cards into your hands. The nation's largest, Bank of America, has some 4.5 million Visa cardholders in California. On Feb. 15 it began issuing Master Charge cards as well. It has already issued 800,000 Master Charge cards.

MORE THAN 65 MILLION BANK credit cards are already in the possession of American consumers. The present drive by the banks to sign up cardholders can expand that total by two or three times. It's now easy for you to get your hands on two, three, four cards.

The banks don't care if you don't pay off the balances. They're quite willing to accept a minimum payment. The smaller the payment, the bigger the interest on the outstanding balance.

In their zeal to sell credit, the bankers will make deadbeats of us all

Two New Cop Shows, Redd Foxx in Debuts

By JAY SHARBUTT LOS ANGELES (AP)

Three new series wobble in tonight - a California Highway few affirmative-action nel 4 at 8, and ABC's "Carter Country" sit-com and Redd Foxx' new comedy, music and old-times hour on Channel 7. We warn right off the bat that NBC's entry is a stone dog. Intended as action without gunfire, it is show without mind. It stars Larry Wilcox and Erik Estrada as two cheery motorcycle cops. Wilcox is your basic

All-American, awshucks boy. Estrada plays the lady killer. "Ponch." He has a crooked smile, but straight teeth. Both are dashing young bachelors, Kawasaki Kids, if you will.

IN THEIR premiere hour, they roar about, grin, meet a pretty crash victim and bring a hotcar ring to justice. Ponch also gets to fall in a mess of spilled glue and emit such classic lines as:

'If I ever scope that turkey again, I'm gonna pull him out through his wind wing, seat belt attached."

Tonight's premiere involves a presidential visit: French's fried chicken; a man-hungry, middle-aged secretary; a low-key redneck in police blue and a mayor who fears only his mother and French.

IF THE show has a memorable line, I forgot it. It's just another Hollywood attempt at Southern humor, with a

VD Abundant Among Gays

DENVER (AP) - Sexually active homosexuals have a 33 percent chance of contracting gonorrhea in a gay bath house, a local study by public health officials has shown.

The finding, published in the American Journal of Public Health, was contained in a study conducted between January and October 1976 by the Denver Metro Health Clinic and paid for by the state health department.

THE STUDY FOUND THAT more than 11 per-cent of the patrons of three Denver steam baths catering to homosexuals had gonorrhea.

Dr. Richard Rothenberg, acting head of the state venereal disease program, said the figure is "fairly high" and probably indicates that 21/2 times as many homosexuals as non-homosexuals from similar categories of age, race and sexual activity have gonorrhea.

HE SAID THE DENVER study "compares reasonably with other cities in which gay populations have been analyzed. It does confirm that VD is more common among gay men.

Denver's deputy manager of medical affairs, Dr. John Sharbaro, said the VD screening was the first in the country done in gay baths.

'Most public health departments tend to shy away from anything that has to do with moralistic values," said Sbarbard. "The Denver Metro clinic took the view that there is no morality involved in

IN FACT, HE SAID, a secondary aim of the study was to convince gay persons that they can be treated fairly in the city's public clinics

The clinic director, Dr. Franklyn, N. Judson, speculated in the article that the higher gonorrhea rate among homosexuals "may be a function of homosexual acts, greater promiscuity, and lesser utilization of the health care facilities."
