Carter Asks Miners Ordered to Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration asked a federal judge today to order striking coal miners back to work, saying the 94-day coal strike would "imperial the national health and safety" if it continues.

POWER CAN'T HELP END COAL STRIKE—B6

Justice Department lawyers, acting under the Taft-Hartley Act, asked the U.S. District Court in Washington to order members of the striking United Mine Workers union back to the mines immediately.

The government also asked for a court order directing coal companies to reopen the mines, idle since the strike began Dec. 6.

The request was assigned to Judge Aubrey Robinson, one of the 12 federal judges who preside in the district. The judge was expected to set a hearing on the request and then decide whether to grant the government's request for an injunction.

The government petition asks that the order be directed at 1,450 union entities, coal companies and individuals named in the court papers.

Officials said Attorney General Griffin Bell planned to be in court when government attorneys argued their case later. His presence was seen as a sign of the importance that the Carter administration attaches to the case.

Bell said, "I believe that the miners will obey the law and this includes court orders. I also have every confidence that law

Newport Resident Arrested

A self-employed Newport Beach builder was arrested today on manslaughter charges in the hit-and-run death of a young woman Wednesday in Newport Beach.

Suspect Steven Jay Landrigan, 26, of 445 Catalina Drive, was booked into Newport Beach City Jail, according to police Sgt. Ken Thompson. Bail was set at $2,500.

Killed instantly in the 12:20 a.m. accident Wednesday was Doreen You, 18, who was standing on a curb on the Arches overpass on Coast Highway when a white pickup truck swerved over the curb and hit her, Thompson said. The truck sped away without stopping.

Thompson said a description of the truck provided by witnesses was circulated to various auto repair and parts shops with a note that there was probably damage to the front end and a broken headlight.

He said a parts dealer led police to the vehicle. Landrigan turned himself in at about 8:30 a.m. today, Thompson said.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation, Thompson said.

An Orange County Coroner's deputy said today that Miss You had apparently lived in Newport

Two Trapped In Sub 300 Feet Down

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP) — A two-man submarine engaged in North Sea oil operations was snagged in a wire and trapped on the seabed nearly 300 feet down today, operators said.

The P. and O. Steam Navigation Company, which is operating the vessel for the American Conoco oil concern, said it was trapped soon after mid-day.

"The two men aboard have enough oxygen and food to last eight days," a company spokesman said.

"They are sitting calmly on the bottom waiting to be rescued," he said.

It Didn't Pay

Victims Broke—Gun Too

CLEVELAND (AP) — A would-be burglar paid his fare to board a Cleveland bus, took out his .32-caliber revolver, and ordered the passengers to turn over all their money.

But every one of the riders — and even the driver — said they were broke.

The gunman, apparently angry at finding a bus full of indigents, fired a shot at the back of the bus, then hit a passenger on the head with the gun.

True to his luck, the gun fell apart, the cylinder fell out and clattered along the bus floor.

The man ran off, and police said they were searching for him. The passenger who was conked was not seriously hurt.

CM Hotel Guest Slain by Captor

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A South Coast Plaza hotel guest was shot and killed early today after he refused the commands of an unidentified gunman to join the gunman and two hostages on an elevator ride from the lobby of the Costa Mesa Hotel, police said.

The name of the victim of the 2:46 a.m. shooting is being withheld pending notification of family members. Police would only say that the dead man was from out of state.

The gunman fled immediately after the shooting and is still being sought by police.

A second male guest and a hotel employee who were being held hostage by the gunman managed to escape by closing the doors of the elevator as the gunman fired several times at his victim.

According to Costa Mesa Polict Lt. George Lorton, the fatal incident began in the ground floor kitchen area of the hotel, 666 Anton Blvd.

The gunman approached the room service employee and forced him to follow him into the lobby of the hotel where the two guests were seated.

Lt. Lorton said police are uncertain as to the gunman's motive, but believe a robbery may have been planned.

The gunman ordered the two guests to get into the elevator, but the victim refused and began to walk away. Three to five shots were fired from a small caliber handgun, with at least one bullet striking the hotel guest, police said.

The hotel employee and second guest were in the elevator at the time.

Escort Service 'Cover'

A man and three women who police allege used a Costa Mesa escort service as a cover for prostitution activities were jailed Wednesday night by Orange County Sheriff's officers.

Investigators said the arrests took place at the Hyatt House in Laguna Hills where at least 14 male patrons gathered to meet four women who were to be paid a total of $1,800 for their services.

Investigators said the arrests were the climax of a prostitution probe that began when undercover officers checked into the services actually provided by Kats Enterprises, 230 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Sam Charles Wright, 32, of 213 17th St., and Kathleen Eileen Hill, 22, of 17402 Waal Circle, both of Huntington Beach, were jailed on pimping charges.

Officers identified Wright and Hill as the couple who handled negotiations between the bevy of male clients and the alleged prostitutes assigned to meet them at the Laguna Hills location.

Also jailed in the vice roundup were Kathryn Jean Huberty, 24,

Did Fiction Germinate Clone Book?

By The Associated Press

David M. Rorvik, author of a forthcoming book that allegedly chronicles the creation of a human being by cloning, once said he was writing a pornographic, science fiction thriller called "The Clone," the Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune said today.

The Tribune said that Rorvik, who was born in Circle, Mont., on Nov. 1, 1943 and went to school in the state, was interviewed by the newspaper in May 1970. He discussed his career as a free-lance writer and talked about the novel he planned to write.

"Rorvik says he finds fiction writing more difficult than nonfiction, but is determined to complete his novel, 'The Clone,' and perhaps get it made into a movie," the 1970 Tribune story said. " 'The Clone' is a pornographic science fiction thriller based on current medical possibility, he said," according to the eight-year-old report.

Rorvik's new book, "In His Image: The Cloning of a Man," is being published by J.B. Lippincott Co. It describes the alleged creation of a boy, now 14 months old, by cloning, the process of duplicating living things from an individual cell. Cloning has been used in creating plants and a frog but has never been attempted with humans.

Lippincott has said Rorvik assured them the story was true, but that the publishing company did not know whether it was indeed fact.

Rorvik has been unavailable for comment since news of his book broke. A statement issued by Lippincott on Wednesday quoted him as saying the boy, offspring of a wealthy, unidentified man, is "alive, healthy and loved today."

Information about Rorvik also has been sketchy. He is a 1966 graduate of the journalism school at the University of Montana and received a master's degree from the Columbia University School of Journalism in 1967.

The same year he received a Pulitzer Traveling Fellowship and, according to Lippincott, used it to study racism and apartheid in white-dominated countries in Africa. Lippincott said that in 1975 Rorvik won an Alicia Patterson Foundation Fellowship to investigate the politics of cancer research.

Rorvik became embroiled in controversy during his senior year at the University of Montana, the Tribune said, because of his editorials published in the student newspaper, the Kaimin. Parents threatened to remove their children from the university because of alleged sex-flavored and subversive material published in the newspaper.

State Route 1 along the coast was blocked by slides and washouts between Hearst Castle and Carmel.

TRACY (AP) — An attempt to escape the Deuel Vocational Institute ended with a superficial gunshot wound and recapture within four hours, for a convicted murderer serving life, officials say.

Prison spokesman Cliff Reed said Wednesday that Lorenz V. Karlic, sentenced from Los Angeles County, cut through two bars of his cell window and was climbing over a fence at 2:05 a.m. when tower guards fired six shots.

He said Karlic was spotted in a car shortly before dawn on State Route 120 near Manteca, about seven miles from the prison. The inmate fled on foot to a nearby restaurant, where he surrendered without resistance, Reed said.

Therapy Violation Charge Dismissed

Charges of illegally practicing psychology without a license against a Huntington Beach man were dropped Tuesday in West Orange County Judicial District.

James K. McCann, a UC Extension business seminar director, was charged last October with four counts of violating the State Business and Professions Code in his now-defunct Huntington Beach hypnosis center, 17522 Beach Blvd. He was not arrested.

Deputy District Attorney Mike Nunn asked the charges against McCann be dropped because the prosecutor received "assurances" from the accused hypnotist that the alleged violations would not recur.

McCann closed his hypnosis practice late last October. He declined to comment on the dismissal of charges by Municipal Judge Kenneth Smith.

Nunn said a female undercover agent from the State Medical Quality Assurance Board received "hypnosis therapy" from McCann during four October visits to the hypnotist's office.

Hypnosis therapy can only be used by a licensed hypnotherapist or in the presence of a physician, according to the State Business and Professions Code.

McCann was granted a business license last year by the Huntington Beach City Council to practice hypnosis.

But state officials charged that he went beyond practicing simple hypnosis as permitted by the city.

"Usually, all we try to do in these cases is to get the violator to stop the practice," Nunn said.

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, Robinson has the power to order the miners back to work for 80 days and to direct both sides to resume good-faith bargaining.

Failure to comply could result in fines or prison for contempt of court.

Leaders of the 160,000 striking miners and government officials expect widespread defiance of a back-to-work order.

Carter directed Bell to seek the order after he received an 11-page report on the strike from a board of inquiry that the president created under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The board's report delivered to the White House earlier today said the strike had "reached alarming proportions." The three-member board said, "Already thousands of workers in other industries have been laid off or placed on reduced work schedules and this can only accelerate.

"It is imperative, in the national interest, that the parties find a basis for resolution of the strike as expeditiously as possible."

Among the 1,450 defendants named in the suit were the United Mine Workers of America and its affiliated locals, and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and the mining companies the organization represents.

Looter Abandons Live Ammunition

NEWBURY PARK (AP) — A looter who took 80 live .20-mm shell casings from the wreckage of an Air Force jet apparently abandoned them outside a bank early today after authorities warned the shells were dangerous.

Air Force Maj. Harry Childress said the shells were found outside a Security Pacific Bank branch in Newbury Park early today.

Childress issued the warning Wednesday that the 80 shells still had the powder and detonator caps in them although the bullet heads had been broken off in last week's fatal crash of an F-105G training fighter.

If they had exploded, said Childress, "It certainly would have been lethal to anyone close by. We're just glad to get them back."

He said Ventura County sheriff's deputies received an anonymous tip that the shells were at the bank.

In the crash the pilot was killed but his copilot parachuted to safety.

Police Sgt. Paul Osteen said the death had homosexual overtones.

The youth, whose name was not released due to his age, is now lodged in Los Angeles County Juvenile Hall.

Osteen said the youth told a "far-out story" on details of Waters' death. Osteen declined to release all the details.

Carter Expects Miners to Obey Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said this afternoon he expects coal miners and operators alike to obey the law, and told Attorney General Griffin Bell to take personal command of federal law enforcement to back an anticipated back-to-work order.

Carter told a nationally televised and broadcast news conference that he firmly believes a federal court order under the Taft-Hartley Act will be observed.

"I have absolutely no plans to seek congressional action to authorize seizure of the coal mines," he said.

Carter spoke as government lawyers prepared their arguments for a Taft-Hartley injunction. He said he also has asked Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall to enlist the labor experts who studied the strike situation to go into the coal fields and urge the miners to return to their jobs.

POWER CAN'T HELP END COAL STRIKE—B6

While the 94-day coal strike topped his news conference agenda, Carter also announced what appears to be a partial resolution of the conflict between Ethiopia and Somalia.

He said that Somalia is withdrawing troops from the Ogaden region of Ethiopia, and called upon Cuba and the Soviet Union to withdraw their forces and advisers from the area.

The president said he hopes a Somali withdrawal from the disputed desert region "will result in an immediate halt to the bloodshed in the Horn of Africa."

"The United States looks forward to the withdrawal of all foreign forces at an early date," Carter said.

Carter began his news conference with a statement on the coal strike, noting that the administration has gone to court for a strike-ending injunction, and adding:

"The welfare of our nation requires this difficult step and I expect that all parties will obey the law."

He said the government will use its resources to ease the energy and economic problems caused by the walkout.

"This is a time for cooling off and we will do everything in our power to ensure that it does not become a time of confrontation," Carter said. "The law must be enforced."

Mesa Hotel Guest Shot to Death

Gunman Manages Escape

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A South Coast Plaza hotel guest was shot and killed early today after he refused the commands of an unidentified gunman to join the gunman and two hostages on an elevator ride from the lobby of the Costa Mesa Hotel, police said.

The name of the victim of the 2:46 a.m. shooting is being withheld pending notification of family members. Police would only say that the dead man was from out of state.

The gunman fled immediately after the shooting and is still being sought by police.

A second male guest and a hotel employee who were being held hostage by the gunman managed to escape by closing the doors of the elevator as the gunman fired several times at his victim.

Costa Mesa police said today they are seeking two occupants of an orange 1976 Porsche that was seen leaving the hotel parking lot about two minutes after the shooting.

Police are not linking the car occupants to the shooting but are seeking information that could be crucial to the murder case, investigator Gerry Thompson said.

According to Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton, the fatal incident began in the ground floor kitchen area of the hotel, 666 Anton Blvd.

The gunman approached the room service employee and forced him to follow him into the lobby of the hotel where the two guests were seated.

Lt. Lorton said police are uncertain as to the gunman's motive, but believe a robbery may have been planned.

The gunman ordered the two guests to get into the elevator, but the victim refused and began to walk away. Three to five shots were fired from a small caliber handgun, with at least one bullet striking the hotel guest, police said.

The hotel employee and second guest were in the elevator at the time.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy General Hospital in Santa Ana.

Descriptions from the uninjured guest and the hotel employee have led to a composite drawing of a suspect described as a white male in his early 20s with blond to light brown hair and brown eyes. The suspect is approximately five feet eight inches tall and weighs between 135 and 150 pounds, according to witnesses.

'Call Girl Ring'

6 From Coast Face Sex Raps

One man and five women were jailed Wednesday on prostitution charges after police alleged the suspects used a Costa Mesa dating service to cover a call girl ring.

Police assert that two Huntington Beach policewomen infiltrated the operation by posing as call girls.

The arrests came at a Laguna Hills hotel where vice officers allege the five women and man were offered $1,800 for "convention services."

Orange County Sheriff's officers said the arrests were made possible through the combined efforts of Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and Garden Grove police.

Vice officers said more than 14 male patrons had gathered at the Laguna Hills hotel to purchase the services allegedly to be provided out of Kats Enterprises of 230 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Sam Charles Wright, 32, of 213 17th St. and Kathleen Eileen Hill, 22, of 17402 Waal Circle, both of Huntington Beach, were arrested on charges of pimping.

Investigators alleged that Wright and Miss Hill were the couple who handled negotiations between the group of male clients and the call girls assigned to meet them at the Laguna Hills hotel.

Officers said the arrests were made at the moment money exchanged hands in the hotel room.

Also jailed on prostitution charges were Kathryn Jean Huberty, 24, Catherine Sue Ferguson, 19, Carla Meredith, 28, and Sandra Baker, 26, all of Huntington Beach.

Investigators said the method of selling sex allegedly used by the defendants was via what has become known to vice investigators as "the convention approach."

The two were believed to be British, but the company said it will not release their names "until we are sure their next-of-kin are notified."

The sub had been working on a wellhead in the Murchison field, the company said.

He said the mother ship, Sub Sea 2, is standing by while a second mother ship, the Sub Sea 1, is steaming to the scene with a rescue submersible from Montrose on the Scottish east coast.

Hippo Foils 'em Again

Bubbles Sidesteps Snare; Trap Still Untested

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"She came out on the wrong side of the pond (a trap awaits on the other side) and slipped back into the water," explained Jane Culjis, Lion Country Safari's marketing director, in recounting the latest overnight failure to capture Bubbles, the wild animal park's runaway hippo.

"I guess she wasn't hungry and was bored by the situation."

A bored hippopotamus has an imposing yawn.

Less imposing are the yawns of exhausted Lion Country rangers who have now spent 17 night-long vigils waiting for Bubbles to give herself up.

Their latest ruse to get her, a pole, net and pulley affair meant to snare Bubbles in netting so she can be tranquilized, still awaits testing.

Nobody knows if it will work. It's the first time the rangers have ever had to catch a hippo in the wild — the wild being a small pond off Laguna Canyon Road near Laguna Beach, several miles from Lion Country.

Laguna Canyon Road will be closed from 8 o'clock tonight as Lion Country Safari officials mull the wisdom of draining Bubbles' watery temporary home.

Solon Probe Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — California Attorney General Evelle J. Younger said Wednesday he will launch a state investigation of possible corruption in the California legislature because federal authorities won't turn over any information from their inquiry.

CalTrans has approved the road closure, which may continue in effect until 8 a.m. Friday.

The draining of the pond had not received final approval as of early afternoon today, however.

Asked if the chance of rain might postpone plans for draining the pond tonight, Safari representative Jane Culjis just laughed.

"If we can't catch a hippo, we can't stop the rain," she said.

Today Lion Country officials seriously considered accepting the offer of a man who claims to be the nephew of Frank Buck, the legendary lion tamer. Only, Dr. Alan C. Buck purports to be a hippo tamer who has caught 100 such beasts in his day.

Said Mrs. Culjis, "It's absolutely phenomenal, the number of people who claim to do nothing but capture hippopotamuses for a living. And they're all right in the area."

She said at least 35 people claim the profession.

"There can't be that many professional hippo catchers in Southern California," Mrs. Culjis said. "There can't be."

Charges of Therapy Violation Dropped

Charges of illegally practicing psychology without a license against a Huntington Beach man were dropped Tuesday in West Orange County Judicial District.

James K. McCann, a UC Extension business seminar director, was charged last October with four counts of violating the State Business and Professions Code in his now-defunct Huntington Beach hypnosis center, 17522 Beach Blvd. He was not arrested.

Deputy District Attorney Mike Nunn asked the charges against McCann be dropped because the prosecutor received "assurances" from the accused hypnotist that the alleged violations would not recur.

McCann closed his hypnosis practice late last October. He declined to comment on the dismissal of charges by Municipal Judge Kenneth Smith.

Nunn said a female undercover agent from the State Medical Quality Assurance Board received "hypnosis therapy" from McCann during four October visits to the hypnotist's office.

Hypnosis therapy can only be used by a licensed hypnotherapist or in the presence of a physician, according to the State Business and Professions Code.

McCann was granted a business license last year by the Huntington Beach City Council to practice hypnosis.

But state officials charged that he went beyond practicing simple hypnosis as permitted by the city.

"Usually, all we try to do in these cases is to get the violator to stop the practice," Nunn said.

Newport Man Held in Death

A self-employed Newport Beach builder was arrested today on manslaughter charges in the hit-and-run death of a young woman Wednesday in Newport Beach.

Suspect Steven Jay Landrigan, 26, of 445 Catalina Drive, was booked into Newport Beach City Jail, according to police Sgt. Ken Thompson. Bail was set at $2,500.

Killed instantly in the 12:20 a.m. accident Wednesday was Doreen You, 18, who was standing on a curb on the Arches overpass on Coast Highway when a white pickup truck swerved over the curb and hit her, Thompson said. The truck sped away without stopping.

Thompson said a description of the truck provided by witnesses was circulated to various auto repair and parts shops with a note that there was probably damage to the front end and a broken headlight.

He said a parts dealer led police to the vehicle. Landrigan turned himself in at about 8:30 a.m. today, Thompson said.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation, Thompson said.

An Orange County Coroner's deputy said today that Miss You had apparently lived in Newport Beach for some time but didn't have a fixed address. Her parents, who identified the body, live in Baldwin Park.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Roy C. Addleman and Son Funeral Home in El Monte.

Storm Slams North State

By The Associated Press

A storm drenched the San Francisco Bay area and sent water brimming over the banks of reservoirs in Northern California.

Rainfall totals for the 24-hour period ending at 4 a.m. showed Oakland had 3.40 inches, San Francisco Airport 2.01, downtown San Francisco 1.50, Ukiah 1.45, Red Bluff 1.22, Sacramento .74 of an inch and Marin Civic Center 72.

State Route 1 along the coast was blocked by slides and washouts between Hearst Castle and Carmel.

Alpine Inn Ordered: Cut Music Noise

The 26-year-old Alpine Inn in Silverado Canyon won't be closed down, Orange County supervisors decided Wednesday.

Rather than revoke the inn's operating permit, supervisors ordered that weekend rock music which irked some inn neighbors should be quieted down after midnight.

Supervisor Ralph Diedrich suggested that if additional soundproofing can be installed by inn operators during the next 90 days, the midnight music curfew might be lifted.

Some inn neighbors had complained about late night amplified rock music on weekends as well as noisy motorcycles and the behavior of some inn patrons.

Others viewed the inn as an asset in the rustic, winding canyon and said its operators had tried to be good neighbors.

Diedrich said Wednesday he viewed the rock music noise as the chief issue.

Blanket Firings Shelved

Coast Community College District trustees said Wednesday they won't send out blanket dismissal notices in anticipation of the passage of the Jarvis-Gann tax initiative, which would reduce district property tax revenues by about $14 million.

Some school districts across the state have sent out the notices, conditional on the initiative's passage, because state law provides that teachers must be notified by March 15 if they are to be dismissed for the next school year. (Related stories Page A3.)

District spokesman Richard Simon said trustees unanimously voted not to send the notices but instead to issue information to all employees about possible effects on programs and personnel if the initiative passes.

Simon said trustees discussed the possibility of trying to continue operating with full staff in the 1978-79 year and making cuts for the following year if necessary.

He said the colleges — Golden West, Orange Coast and Coastline—would be operated until funds ran out, at which time they would all be closed and an emergency funding application be made to the state.

Simon said trustees cited the effect on employee morale in deciding not to issue across-the-board dismissal notices.

County Sets Rates On Ambulance Ride

Residents of unincorporated Orange County communities in need of ambulance service can expect to pay at least $60 a call.

That is the base rate set by county supervisors for the 15 ambulance firms operating in unincorporated county areas.

Firms also are to charge $3 per mile of travel, $10 extra for calls between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. and $12.50 for each 15 minutes of waiting time.

In addition, they can collect $10 for use of oxygen, up to $20 for medical supplies used on a trip and $10 for emergency runs.

Mike Williams, county emergency medical services director, said according to new county ambulance regulations all firms in the unincoprorated area must charge the rates set by supervisors.

He said the rates are about the same as those already charged by the ambulance companies.

Rates will be reviewed again in six months by the county's Emergency Medical Care Committee, he said, and later will be subject to review and possible change annually.

Did Fiction Plan Spark Clone Book?

By The Associated Press

David M. Rorvik, author of a forthcoming book that allegedly chronicles the creation of a human being by cloning, once said he was writing a pornographic, science fiction thriller called "The Clone," the Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune said today.

The Tribune said that Rorvik, who was born in Circle, Mont., on Nov. 1, 1943 and went to school in the state, was interviewed by the newspaper in May 1970. He discussed his career as a free-lance writer and talked about the novel he planned to write.

"Rorvik says he finds fiction writing more difficult than nonfiction, but is determined to complete his novel, 'The Clone,' and perhaps get it made into a movie," the 1970 Tribune story said. " 'The Clone' is a pornographic science fiction thriller based on current medical possibility, he said," according to the eight-year-old report.

Rorvik's new book, "In His Image: The Cloning of a Man," is being published by J.B. Lippincott Co. It describes the alleged creation of a boy, now 14 months old, by cloning, the process of duplicating living things from an individual cell. Cloning has been used in creating plants and a frog but has never been attempted with humans.

Lippincott has said Rorvik assured them the story was true, but that the publishing company did not know whether it was indeed fact.

Rorvik has been unavailable for comment since news of his book broke. A statement issued by Lippincott on Wednesday quoted him as saying the boy, offspring of a wealthy, unidentified man, is "alive, healthy and loved today."

Information about Rorvik also has been sketchy. He is a 1966 graduate of the journalism school at the University of Montana and received a master's degree from the Columbia University School of Journalism in 1967.

The same year he received a Pulitzer Traveling Fellowship and, according to Lippincott, used it to study racism and apartheid in white-dominated countries in Africa. Lippincott said that in 1975 Rorvik won an Alicia Patterson Foundation Fellowship to investigate the politics of cancer research.

Rorvik became embroiled in controversy during his senior year at the University of Montana, the Tribune said, because of his editorials published in the student newspaper, the Kaimin. Parents threatened to remove their children from the university because of alleged sex-flavored and subversive material published in the newspaper.

Republicans Unveil Code

Orange County Republican candidates, many of them facing stiff primary competition, have been asked by their party's county central committee to sign its so-called 11th commandment: Thou shall not speak ill of any other Republican.

A code of ethics has been sent by the Orange County Republican Central Committee's Ethics Committee to all GOP candidates.

Candidates are asked to sign a statement that they will conduct their campaigns ethically, not attack the integrity, ability or sincerity of other Republican candidates and support whoever wins their party's nomination.

A list of candidates signing the pledge will be made public.

Candidates ignoring the code of ethics may lose the central committee's support in the general election in November. Grievances will be heard by the ethics committee.

The committee is chaired by Bill Hill of the 70th Assembly. Other members include Central Committee members Louise Steel, 69th Assembly; Jim Meehan, 73rd Assembly; William Dougherty, 70th Assembly; and Ruthelyn Plummer, 74th Assembly.

Ethics committee members also include Vera Manning, Orange County Federation of Republican Women; Bob Whitmore, Orange County California Republican Assembly; Larry Griffith, Orange County Young Republicans; Tim Haidinger, Republican Associates; and Juanita Firth and Charlotte Mousel, California Federation of Republican Women.

Supplies Reach Victims

Twelve tons of food and supplies were airlifted Tuesday to 28 people, including a Newport Beach couple, stranded by recent storms in Teneja Valley, a remote portion of southwestern Riverside County.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson of Newport Beach, are remaining to care for animals on their ranch until a road is reestablished into the valley. Peterson owns Peterson Diversified in Costa Mesa.

A third Newport Beach resident, Tom Beckman, flew into the area Tuesday to care for his ranch, according to Keith Cordrey, also of Newport Beach. Cordrey helped organize the airlift.

A private plane brought four people out of the area Sunday, Cordrey said, but other residents are remaining to care for their animals.

Riverside County road crews have estimated the repair of the 13 mile dirt road leading into the valley could take one to three weeks depending on the weather, Cordrey added.

Flynt Reported Stricken

ATLANTA (AP) — Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt is paralyzed from the hips down as a result of being shot and has less than a 50 percent chance of regaining movement, doctors at Emory University Hospital said today.

"There are no reflexes in the lower extremities and there is a loss of sensation from his mid-thighs down," said Dr. George Tindall, the hospital's chief neurosurgeon, who removed a bullet and bone chips from Flynt's back today.

Flynt, 34, and his local attorney, Gene Reeves Jr., were shot Monday as they walked on a street in suburban Lawrenceville where Flynt was being tried on a charge of distributing obscene literature.

Tindall said the damage occurred to a mass of nerves near the end of the spinal column known in medical terms as the "cauda equina."

Some nerves were broken or damaged, while others were left virtually intact, he said.

Regeneration is possible, the surgeon added, but he said it would take six months to a year to know whether that will occur in this case.

Earlier, a spokesman for Flynt, Andrew Jaffe, had said the bullet was about two inches from Flynt's spine and was "not a problem."

Flynt was transferred Wednesday from Button Gwinnett Hospital to Emory under heavy security. Jaffe said the publisher's family felt "better equipment and better specialists" were available at Emory. He said Mrs. Flynt was saying at the hospital with her husband.

Flynt has been reported in critical condition almost continuously since he and lawyer Gene Reeves were shot Monday.

Reeves, 47, was reported in satisfactory condition at Button Gwinnett, and authorities said Wednesday the lawyer's vital signs were stable.

Was Baby Alive?

Defense Witness Admits Possibility

A pathologist who is testifying as a defense witness told an Orange County Superior Court jury Wednesday that a newborn infant allegedly murdered by Dr. William Baxter Waddill "was probably alive" at the time injuries to its neck were nflicted.

Dr. Susan B. Turkel offered that opinion during a long day of cross examination from Deputy District Attorney Robert Chatterton.

And Chatterton made no secret of the fact that he regards the statement by the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center pathologist as reinforcement of the prosecution's belief that Waddill strangled the baby to death.

Dr. Turkel earlier testified that the baby allegedly murdered on March 2, 1977, in the Westminster Community Hospital nursery may well have succumbed to hypoxia, an oxygen deficiency that claims the lives of many prematurely born infants.

Using slides to point out areas of hemorrhage to the jury, she stated that injuries suffered by criminal action were an unlikely cause since such physical pressure would havs left larger areas of hemorrhage.

Waddill, 44, of Huntington Harbour, is accused of strangling the infant after he learned that the 31-week fetus had survived an abortion induced when injected a saline solution into the unwed, 18-year-old mother.

Clark Supports Reform

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

County Supervisor Ralph Clark endorsed the TIN CUP political campaign reform initiative today.

Clark cast the lone dissenting vote last week in a 4-1 Board of Supervisors ballot that enacted a county campaign reform measure.

In endorsing the TIN CUP ballot measure today, Clark said he will move to have the county ordinance rescinded should the county's voters approve the initiative in November.

As things stand now, TIN CUP (Time Is Now, Clean Up Politics) workers are circulating petitions seeking about 54,000 voter signatures needed to move the initiative onto the ballot.

That drive has continued despite enactment last week of the county ordinance seeking to regulate campaigns of those in quest of county elected offices.

Clark criticized that ordinance for, among other things, creating "a paper tiger" fair political practices commission "hand picked" by the Board of Supervisors.

The Anaheim supervisor also characterized the county ordinance as "more illusion than reform."

Simultaneously, Clark said he is "not entirely satisfied with all aspects of TIN CUP."

In contrast to the county ordinance, the TIN CUP initiative seeks to control campaign activities of county supervisors rather than all elected county officials.

It sets the amount supervisorial candidates can accept in any year from individual political donors to $500 rather than the $1,000 per election limitation in the county legislation.

TIN CUP also aims its reform arrows at lobbyists and the amount of influence and activity they can generate on the county campaign front.

Looted Shells Abandoned, Recovered

NEWBURY PARK (AP) — A looter who took 80 live .20-mm shell casings from the wreckage of an Air Force jet apparently abandoned them outside a bank early today after authorities warned the shells were dangerous.

Air Force Maj. Harry Childress said the shells were found outside a Security Pacific Bank branch in Newbury Park early today.

Childress issued the warning Wednesday that the 80 shells still had the powder and detonator caps in them although the bullet heads had been broken off in last week's fatal crash of an F-105G training fighter.

If they had exploded, said Childress, "It certainly would have been lethal to anyone close by. We're just glad to get them back."

He said Ventura County sheriff's deputies received an anonymous tip that the shells were at the bank.

DAVE LEARNS ABOUT CRIME

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dave Lucchesi spent the morning talking with Sheriff Duane Lowe about crime, getting information he planned to use in his campaign for election to the state Assembly.

When he returned home Wednesday, he discovered his house had been broken into and his bedroom ransacked.

Prop. 13 Threatens Few Teaching Jobs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Though the Jarvis property tax initiative would cost California public schools billions of dollars, it appears relatively few districts would lay off teachers.

With some notable exceptions like Los Angeles and San Diego, many of the state's 1,047 school districts apparently will not notify teachers by the March 15 state deadline that they face possible layoffs next year.

That means most districts will have to find other ways to cut budgets if voters approve the Jarvis measure, Proposition 13 on June 6, and if the state does not immediately restore the lost revenue.

Possible budget-slashing methods include salary cuts, half-day sessions, elimination of programs such as band, sports and counseling, and closing schools once the money runs out.

"Most school districts are adopting a wait-and-see attitude," says Gordon Winton, spokesman for the Association of California School Administrators. "They say they'll run the schools until they run out of money."

William Fisher, superintendent of the Orinda Union School District in Contra Costa County, said Wednesday that most of the local school officials attending a recent meeting "decided the best thing to do is play it cool."

He said it could be illegal to send layoff notices on the basis of an initiative that hasn't been voted on yet, and to increase class size for financial reasons.

Winton's group has issued a legal opinion saying such layoff notices are invalid, although some school district lawyers disagree.

"The attitude of 'Henny Penny, the sky is falling' would create all kinds of problems," Fisher added. "Probably something will be done" by the state to restore the money.

The Jarvis initiative would cut property taxes by 55 percent, or $7 billion, by limiting them to 1.25 percent of market value, a figure that would decline to one percent gradually as bond debts are paid off.

State school Superintendent Wilson Riles has estimated the measure would cost schools $2.5 billion, or 38 percent of their revenue. Some school groups have made higher estimates.

Marine Faces Court-martial In 'Hazing'

The Marine Corps says a rifle filled with blanks was fired at a recruit acting as a make-believe war prisoner in a Camp Pendleton field exercise.

A general court-martial has been ordered for Staff Sgt. Allen G. Connor, 23, of Brooklyn, N.Y., on six charges, including two alleging that he fired the rifle twice at the 17-year-old Marine.

The recruit, Pvt. W.L. Taylor of Boyd, Texas, was taking part in a field exercise Dec. 20, a base spokesman said. Although no report was made of the shooting, Taylor suffered a slight powder burn.

Medical personnel who treated Taylor reported the incident.

No date has been set for Connor's trial.

Old Fighter Plane Found Off Catalina

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An old fighter plane has been found by a two-man submarine crew off Catalina Island.

"It is in remarkably good shape," oceanographer Merle Wilson told a news conference Wednesday. If his firm is allowed to salvage it, he said the plane will be donated to the Aero-Space Museum in San Diego which is being rebuilt after a fire.

Wilson said the plane, believed to be from World War II, was found Tuesday by sonar equipment of the submarine Nekton Beta, owned and operated by his General Oceanographics firm.

Rent Break Expected

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Howard Jarvis said Wednesday in Anaheim that if the tax relief initiative he authored passes on June 6, he believes apartment owners will give renters a break.

"I expect to have before very long a solid commitment of 90 percent of the apartment owners in this state that they will cut rent if 13 (the initiative's ballot number) passes," Jarvis said at a forum sponsored by CEEED, a business-labor lobbying coalition.

CEEED stands for Californians for an Environment of excellence, full Employment and a strong Economy through planned Development.

He himself works for the Los Angeles Apartment House Association.

Questions have been raised about the effects on renters of Jarvis' Proposition 13.

Other speakers at the CEEED luncheon were Trevor A. Cushman Jr., president of the Laguna Beach Taxpayers Association; Paul Hummel, a Newport Beach planning commissioner and city council candidate; Santa Ana City Manager Bruce Spragg, and Murry L. Cable, director of Orange County's Medical Services Administration.

Jarvis also commented on the Behr bill, tax relief legislation signed by Governor Brown. It will go into effect if Proposition 13 is defeated.

SEES RENT REDUCTION
Bill Sponsor Jarvis

"It's the worst monstrosity I've ever seen in my life," Jarvis said. "It's an insult."

When Cushman and Hummel expressed doubt about renters receiving relief, Jarvis said, "I think we will get a general rent reduction across this state. If you're paying $200 a month, I expect a $20 reduction."

He said competition would bring the price down. Asked by Cable why a rent-lowering provision wasn't written into the initiative, Jarvis replied that the bill would have then had to provide that all prices be lowered, since most businesses would receive tax relief.

Jarvis denied charges that he has been influenced by big business, saying some large businesses oppose the initiative and that he was fighting for lower taxes before he worked for the apartment association.

Jarvis also said he does not believe schools would be affected by the sharp cuts in property tax revenues because the state Constitution requires the state to finance schools.

Another of the initiative's provisions was challenged by Cable. Under the measure, assessed valuations could rise only two percent per year unless a piece of property was sold, at which time it could be reassessed at market value.

Cable pointed out that homeowners change property more frequently and would, therefore, end up with higher valuations than business Jarvis responded that his bill would merely treat all properties equally.

He added that while some public employees will lose their jobs, he expects to see 300,000 new jobs available statewide.

"One of the things I think this bill will do is develop the biggest business and building boom this state has ever seen," Jarvis said.

Big Jess Off, Running

OFF & JOGGING — SLOWLY: Word has reached our region today that Jesse M. Unruh, former speaker of the California Assembly, former Mr. Big of the Legislature and former gubernatorial candidate, is once again on the election trail.

Alas, it must be reported that Jess hasn't exactly roared away from the election starting gate in an enormous cloud of dust, scattering opponents in his wake.

This is somewhat melancholy, when you consider the style of his charge off the line nearly eight years ago when he challenged Ronald Reagan for the governor's chair.

UNRUH

A TAD SHORT OF Long Green in the old war chest, Unruh proved back then that he was a clever campaigner. He staged a series of "media events."

These well-orchestrated happenings were calculated to sucker the television people into rushing out with all their lights and cameras and giving Unruh free air time. To a large degree, Unruh's gimmick worked.

Democrat Unruh, it should be noted, wasn't the least bit shy about waltzing right into Reagan Country in the effort to bamboozle the TV boys with his Boob Tube Bandwagon.

So it was that Jess came down to our coastal region to decry the "giveaway" in a complex Upper Newport Bay tidelands exchange between the Irvine Company and Orange County government.

HE STOOD UPON the cliff's edge and emoted while television cameras groaned away. He even got into an argument with a couple of staunch Newport Beach citizens who happened to be passing by. It was great fun.

History, however, records that Unruh lost the governor's race to Reagan and the Back Bay tidelands swap never came to pass.

But today, Unruh is back running again. This time there are no frantic "media events" for the tube. No brass bands. No heavyweight hoopla.

Unruh is seeking re-election to his current post as state treasurer. He didn't even call a press conference. Jess just shipped out a few mimeographed notices.

I didn't even get one. It was somewhat disappointing in that just one year ago I almost became Unruh's pen pal.

I had written a piece about fabled senior citizen Robert Simpson, who used to picket the capitol halls carrying X-rated placards. The suggestion was the old man had even angered Unruh.

JESS PROTESTED in a letter, saying he supported the late Mr. Simpson's picketing rights. I wrote that report too.

Then exactly one year ago today, Jess wrote back again. He said, "At the risk of us becoming pen pals, let me thank you for your column on my relationship with the late Mr. Simpson . . . his (Simpson's) words were too picturesque for a family newspaper. So they will have to remain my secret unless you come to Sacramento in which case you may expose your eyes to his sulphurous spewings."

Sulphurous spewings?

Commuter Shoved Onto Subway Tracks

"I'm going to throw you in when the next train comes," police say the woman told her.

Apparently not believing her, the secretary remained where she was. Authorities say that when the train came out of the tunnel into the station, the woman pushed the secretary onto the tracks.

"I WAS AT THE OTHER end when I heard her scream," said Transit Authority Police Officer Jack Maple, on duty Wednesday at the IRT Seventh Avenue station. "She was running on the tracks, hysterically screaming for help.

"Then I saw a hand come out and she was pulled out," Maple went on. "The train just missed her by seconds."

The secretary, whose name was withheld by police, had been saved from almost certain death by an unidentified person, who reached down and snatched her from the tracks.

Maple arrested Carolyn Spector, 29, of the Bronx, who was charged with attempted murder.

Food Leads Price Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices manufacturers receive for their products rose by the largest amount in three years last month as food prices showed unusually large gains, the Labor Department said today.

Consumer foods rose 2.9 percent in February, leading the increase of 1.1 percent for all finished goods.

These prices, charged at the last stage of production, usually show up at the consumer level within a few months.

CONSUMER PRICES have already begun to rise rapidly, going up 0.8 percent in January, about double the increase of last year.

The 1.1 percent increase in finished goods prices for January was the largest since a 1.9 percent increase in November 1974. It followed rises of 0.6 percent in November, 0.5 percent in December and 0.6 percent in January.

Unlike the January report, most of the increases were among foods, some of them in short supply because of the severe winter weather.

WHOLESALE PRICES turned up sharply for pork, eggs and dairy products in February after declining in the previous month. Beef and veal prices rose much more than in January. However, prices declined for roasted coffee. Prices rose less than in January for fresh and dried fruits and vegetables and processed poultry.

The 2.9 percent price increase for consumer foods followed rises of 1.1 percent in January and 0.5 percent in December.

If food is removed, wholesale prices were up 0.4 percent, about the same level as the last half of 1977.

Prices declined for jewelry, gasoline and home heating oil.

PRICES ROSE less in February than in January for automobiles, household furniture and mobile homes. However, prices rose more rapidly for beverages, soap and synthetic detergents, footwear and tobacco products.

The Labor Department's finished goods price index is intended to replace the wholesale price index, to make the monthly report coincide more with consumer prices.

A Virginia state trooper, wearing a riot helmet and carrying a stick, was among guards watching striking miners move toward the union hall in Norton, Va. The feared clash between them and non-union miners failed to materialize.

JFK X-ray Supports Findings?

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Breaking a 15-year silence on the assassination of President Kennedy, the radiologist who performed the autopsy X-rays on Kennedy's body said he agrees with the Warren Commission that the fatal shots came from the rear.

Some critics of the Warren Commission report have suggested bullets striking Kennedy were fired from the front.

DR. JOHN H. Ebersole, now chief of radiation therapy at Lancaster General Hospital, said his conclusions parallel those of the Warren Commission, which said the bullets were fired from somewhere behind the Kennedy motorcade.

Ebersole, formerly assistant chief of radiology at Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital where the autopsy was performed, said Wednesday in an interview he was breaking his silence because he has been summoned to meet Saturday with investigators from the House Select Committee on Assassinations at the National Archives where the X-rays are stored.

He said if he was going to discuss the case in Washington he might as well discuss it in Lancaster.

"I WOULD SAY unequivocally the bullet came from the side or back," Ebersole said. "The front of the body, except for a very slight bruise above the right eye on the forehead, was absolutely intact. It was the back of the head that was blown off.

"There is no way that I can see on the basis of the X-rays that the bullet came from anywhere in the 180 degree angle to the front, assuming Kennedy was facing forward. It looked to me like an almost right to left shot from the rear."

Ebersole said he has not been told the reason for being called to meet with congressional investigators, but believes some pencil marks on X-rays may be puzzling them.

Red Bomb Ban Assailed

U.S. Criticizes 'One-sided Propaganda' Draft

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Soviet Union presented the Geneva disarmament conference with a draft treaty today to ban neutron bombs. The United States immediately denounced the draft as a "one-sided propaganda exercise" trying to divert attention from serious arms control efforts.

Introducing the draft, co-sponsored by seven communist allies, Soviet delegate Viktor I. Likhachev warned that development of the neutron bomb by the United States would deal a "great blow" to detente and would "unavoidably trigger retaliatory measures" by the Soviet Union.

IN SHORT

Hijacking Fails

HONG KONG (AP) — A crewman waving an ax and a pair of scissors tried to hijack a Taiwanese jetliner to mainland China today but a security guard aboard the plane shot and killed him, police said.

The pilot and co-pilot were injured by the crewman, identified as flight engineer Shih Ming-Cheng, 34, before he was shot, police said. The plane, a Boeing 737 carrying 101 persons from Kaoshiung, Taiwan, to Hong Kong, landed at Hong Kong and the "situation was under control," a government spokesman said.

Ban Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government said today that a controversial three-month birth control shot widely used in other countries is too dangerous for contraceptive use in the United States.

Wayne Pines, a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration, said FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy has notified the drug's manufacturer and plans to announce his decision to Congress today. The drug is medroxyprogesterone, marketed by Upjohn Co. under the brand name Depo Provera.

Guerrillas to Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two guerrilla leaders who have vowed to take over Rhodesia by force are meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance today as part of an Anglo-American drive to bring all black elements into settlement.

Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe of the Patriotic Front have dismissed the current plan for black rule in Rhodesia as "the biggest sellout in African history."

Guard Linked To Pot Buys?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Federal authorities are investigating alleged use of Oklahoma Air National Guard planes to import marijuana from Mexico, reports the Daily Oklahoman.

A Washington datelined story in today's editions quotes an unnamed official as saying federal indictments are expected in the case within the week.

Brig. Gen. Stanley Newman, commander of the 137th Tactical Airlift Wing, said Wednesday night he was "dumbfounded" by the report.

U.S. Summary

Clearing skies were expected across Florida today following a day of heavy rain that caused scattered flooding. The weather picture for much of the rest of the nation also was wet.

The river already had crept slightly above its 12-foot flood stage Wednesday night, but officials said there were no reports of flooding.

School children in Blountstown were sent home at noon Wednesday as bus routes were threatened with flooding.

Tours were canceled after the Florida Caverns at Marianna filled with flood water from the Chipola River.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain persisted in the mid-Atlantic states and into the Ohio Valley. Travel advisories were up because of slippery roads.

A frontal system dropped rain on northern California, with scattered showers extending into Idaho and Montana.

But in the Rockies, across the Plains and Great Lakes and into northern New England, skies were mostly clear.

Coastal Weather

Increasing chance of showers with 50 percent chance of measureable rain tonight, and 20 percent by Friday afternoon.

Temperatures will be a little cooler with a range of low to mid-60s. The water temperature will be 58.

Old Globe to Rise Again

Theater Rebuilding Vowed by Directors

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Old Globe Theater will rise again, and the 29th annual San Diego National Shakespeare Festival will go on this summer as planned, vow directors of the theater which was reduced to a gutted shell by arsonists.

"We'll be rebuilding the theater. We will be doing that as soon as we can," said Superior Court Judge Charles W. Froelich Jr., president of the Old Globe's board of directors, following a crisis session Wednesday in the wake of the dawn fire.

POLICE ARE seeking two suspects in connection with the second arson-caused blaze in two weeks at a Balboa Park landmark. Around the clock police patrols were ordered for the 1,400-acre park near downtown San Diego.

But police say the two suspects hunted in connection with the theater fire are not the same ones who burned down the Aero-Space Museum and Aerospace Hall of Fame Feb. 22, causing more than $4 million damage.

A SECURITY guard said he saw two young men running from the Old Globe as the fire broke out.

Art Robertson, a fire department arson investigator, said no motive for the fires has been established.

"It could be anything from getting their kicks to retaliation against somebody or something," he said, adding that different descriptions have been given of the two sets of suspects, and the two fires were not set in the same way.

INVESTIGATORS believe juveniles who set the Aero-Space Museum ablaze were not trying to burn it down. Robertson said the Old Globe fire was set against doors in a hidden area a little after 5 a.m. "They meant to get the building in this one," he said.

The tudor-style, polygonal playhouse built to resemble London's "Old Globe" theater was engulfed in flames within minutes. A fireman was overcome by smoke and hospitalized, but later released. About 75 firefighters controlled the blaze within an hour, preventing the flames from spreading to a neighboring building.

"AN INCOMPARABLE treasure," has been lost, said Mayor Pete Wilson, and the city will offer a $5,000 reward for help in finding and convicting the culprits. The city's major newspapers, the San Diego Union and The Evening Tribune, each put up $2,500.

The playhouse opened in December, 1937 after being built for the Pacific International Exposition. Its first Shakespearean play, "The Twelfth Night," was performed in 1949. "Henry IV" had been scheduled for a May performance.

Coal Gasification Set

ROSEMEAD (AP) — Southern California Edison and Texaco jointly announced Wednesday that preliminary engineering is under way for a $300 million coal gasification demonstration project near Daggett. The project is designed to help clear the air.

The project would use 1,000 tons of coal per day to demonstrate Texaco's new coal gasification process by the mid-1980s at Edison cool water generating station 12 miles east of Barstow, company spokesmen said.

Texaco and Edison say they believe the project offers an economically and environmentally feasible alternative for using coal as a source of electricity generation.

Chain Purchased?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carter Hawley Hale Stores Inc. has announced plans to buy Wannamaker, a department store group centered in Philadelphia.

Under the agreement, 2 million shares of Carter Hawley Hale common stock plus $12.6 million will be exchanged for all common stock of the Wannamaker stores, Phillip M. Hawley, president of Los Angeles-based chain, said Wednesday

Alta-Dena Fights Ban

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alta-Dena Dairy has contended in a Superior Court suit that the state Department of Health and its director, Jerome A. Lackner, lack the authority to halt sales of the firm's raw milk products.

The dairy firm said in its suit filed Wednesday that tests revealed no danger of salmonella bacteria in raw milk. In his order, Lackner claimed salmonella had been found in tests of cows and milk in some Alta-Dena herds. The suit asks the court to block enforcement of the state's ban on sales of the dairy's raw milk.

Bandit Wounded

NORWALK (AP) — The manager of a liquor store owned by former South Vietnamese premier Nguyen Cao Ky of Huntington Beach shot and wounded a holdup man who threatened him with a broken beer bottle.

Authorities said Wednesday that Ben Corral, 25, of Whittier, was hit in the right thigh by one of four bullets fired at him by Khoa Nguyen, 42.

Complaint Filed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A grand theft complaint has been filed against former UCLA Assistant Chancellor Donald M. Bowman, who is accused of siphoning more than $100,000 from the university's private endowment fund.

The 10-count felony complaint filed by the attorney general's office Feb. 9 was disclosed Wednesday. It charges that Bowman illegally claimed $28,200 in expenses between April 3, 1975, and Oct. 11, 1976. He remains free on his own recognizance.

Krishna Challenge

Judge Voids Solicit Law

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city's 40-year-old law restricting soliciting to city-approved charitable groups has been voided by a Superior Court judge after it was challenged by the Krishna religious organization.

Judge Jerry Pacht said the law was unconstitutionally broad and vague and that it gave the city's Social Services Department power to "set whatever 'standards' it chooses."

THE LAW WAS CHALLENGED by the attorney for six Krishna devotees who were arrested during the Christmas holidays on misdemeanor charges of soliciting without a license.

The six — Michell Florence Perlman, Sandra Dimock Leavitt, Christina Fowler, Patricia Mary Demperio, Rosalie J. Borthwick and Miran Briks — had been scheduled to go on trial at the end of the month.

"There is nothing in the ordinance's terms. . .to prevent the department from simply stating that the applicant has not, in fact, shown a 'need' for his solicitation," Pacht ruled.

ASSISTANT CITY Attorney Ward G. McConnell had argued that the solicitation permits and identity cards were issued automatically, there was "really no discretion to be abused by the department."

He added, "If the information card requirement is unconstitutional, then any fraud is protected."

Power Cut By Blown Breaker

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An overloaded circuit breaker blew out as 138,000 volts surged into it, cutting off power to nearly 1.2 million San Diego County residents in the area's biggest blackout in history, say San Diego Gas and Electric Co. spokesmen.

Power was cut off for one minute short of 4½ hours, company spokesman Fred Vaughn said Wednesday night.

"For some reason, 138,000 volts were switched into an oil-insulated circuit breaker while it was still electrically attached to the ground," Vaughn said.

The accident at SDG&E's South Bay plant in the suburb of Chula Vista "acted like a great big dead short," he said.

Film Canceled At Museum

RIVERSIDE (AP) — After complaints that the film "Birth of a Nation" was racist, the City Council has ordered that the first of two screenings of the D.W. Griffith classic at the city museum be canceled tonight.

"All of us want to avoid the stink of censorship," Rabbi Philip Posner, chairman of the city's Community Relations Commission, said.

But on Tuesday, Posner testified at an hour-long City Council hearing that the film was viewed by blacks as racist, offensive and demeaning.

HE ASKED THE COUNCIL to cancel both showings of the film. He later agreed to drop his objections to the second screening, planned for April 20, if an appropriate speaker was brought in to comment on the movie's racial content.

Ron Pidot, the museum's curator, said a fact sheet commenting on the movie's racism was to have been handed out at tonight's showing. But he added that that fact was lost in the council debate.

Closures Reflect New Juvenile Laws

Orange County supervisors' decision to close two of the county's six juvenile detention facilities on April 1 is not an indication of a drop in youthful offenses.

Rather the board's move to close David R. McMillan School in Santa Ana and Rancho Potrero in Trabuco Canyon was an economic move reflecting a change in the handling of youngsters committing minor offenses.

Starting last year, changes in state law required that more youngsters be steered into treatment programs and diverted from incarceration with major young offenders.

As a result the county's juvenile institutions have been only about 60 percent full. It has been too costly to operate all six facilities with such high vacancies.

County Administrative Officer Robert Thomas said the two closings should save the county $125,500 by the end of the fiscal year in June.

Besides, as he pointed out, both institutions could be reopened later if needed.

The closures are justified as long as necessary juvenile justice programs can be maintained at the other institutions.

A Shortsighted Bill

A bill prohibiting mandatory overtime was passed by the state Assembly last year, but seemed likely to fade into oblivion after a couple of Senate committee hearings.

Now AB 1295, by Assemblyman Tom Bates, D-Oakland, is back in the limelight. No fewer than 80 persons were on hand to speak for and against the measure when the Senate Industrial Relations Committee picked it up last week.

The bill would prohibit any business with 50 or more employees from compelling any overtime work and it is generating a full-scale labor vs. management confrontation.

Labor spokesmen say no worker should have to risk losing his job because he refuses to work overtime. They further charge that some employers use overtime to avoid hiring additional help.

But state legislative analyst William Hamm warned the committee that passage of the overtime ban could increase labor costs and consumer prices and further damage California's business climate.

As Hamm pointed out, the measure could force many employers to maintain a greater work force than necessary for normal production in order to meet the demands of periodic peak production, thus boosting total labor costs.

And, in assembly line situations, the refusal of a single worker to put in overtime could shut down the whole line.

This is one more example of a well meaning effort to create additional jobs, with little consideration for the overall effect on the economy.

If AB 1295 is passed by the Senate, California will be the first state with such a law. And business, unwilling to relinquish its essential "right to manage" will find still another reason to steer clear of our borders.

Too Much Truth?

Truth in advertising is all very well, but the latest proposal of the Federal Trade Commission promises to confuse a lot of citizens who are just looking for something to help their runny noses, hacking coughs and upset stomachs.

The FTC is zeroing in on print and broadcast advertising for over-the-counter remedies for these and other common ailments.

The commission thinks admen should use proper medical terms like "antitussive," "antiflatulent," "rhinitis" and "sinusitis" instead of just saying a given remedy will ease your cough, relieve gas pains, dry up your nose or unclog your sinuses.

The drug manufacturers say they're afraid such medical accuracy in advertising would only bewilder the suffering citizen who's grown accustomed to more down-to-earth talk.

To make the point, the industry conducted a telephone poll of 1,000 persons and found that most had little or no idea what ailments and remedies were being referred to in the FTC-approved ad vocabulary.

Definitions volunteered for the term "antiemetic" included guesses that it might be something to control diarrhea or to ease constipation, with only a handful describing the term correctly as a remedy for excessive vomiting.

Curbing the curative claims made for many patent medicines may be an admirable goal, but trying to accomplish it through a government-mandated vocabulary could clearly lead to even more trouble.

Boyd/Kissing

By L.M. BOYD

Kissing can loosen your teeth. So says the American Dental Research Institute. Our Love and War man is baffled by this report. He feels it's not in sync with his recommendations for tenderness in physical romance. He believes anybody who loosens teeth by kissing is doing it wrong.

Now it's claimed the largest city in the United States by far is not Jacksonville, Fla., nor Juneau, Alaska, but Honolulu, Hawaii. Most of it's water, please note.

A mark of the individualist among men, it's said, is the parting of the hair on the right side of the head. By far the most men part on the left.

Another good way to quiet down a squeaking floorboard is to sprinkle it with talcum powder and then sweep same into the cracks.

Q. "Who invented belly dancing?"

A. It developed exactly where you might suppose, in the mideast harems. The desirous inmates of same competed nightly with one another thusly for the amorous attentions of the sultans. Most of those poor helpless girls so exploited in bygone years actually thought it was pretty nifty. Sure beat scrubbing the laundry down on the river bank, or hauling jug water, or milking the goats.

Radiation Peril Study Hushed

WASHINGTON — We began reporting a year ago that the 1957 "Big Smoky" atomic bomb test had left some invisible injuries. The military volunteers, who survived the test seemingly unscathed, are now in danger of dying from leukemia. They are victims of low-level radiation.

But nuclear tests aren't the only source of this insidious menace. We have also reported that some nuclear facilities have been bombarding the public with low doses of radiation for years. Unsuspecting workers and neighbors may be in the same danger as the survivors of Big Smoky.

This disturbing subject was discussed recently behind closed White House doors. Defense Secretary Harold Brown reported to President Carter that the "whole series of tests in the 1950s in Nevada are now getting attention because of the alleged after-effects."

Brown explained that he personally had attended some of the nuclear tests while director of the Livermore Laboratories. He assured the president that he had always worn a radiation badge and "at least one member of each group in an area" was supposed to have one.

THEN HEALTH, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano interrupted with his own report. According to the confidential minutes Califano informed the president that the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta "is concerned that the incidence of leukemia in connection with these tests may indicate that more cancers result from low levels of radiation than previously thought."

The publicity over Big Smoky has stimulated a flood of letters and phone calls to the Pentagon from servicemen who participated in nuclear tests in Nevada and the South Pacific. Hundreds of them have reported they are suffering from leukemia and other maladies.

This does not mean, of course, that their diseases were caused by radiation exposure. But the Pentagon is busily pulling together the names of 200,000 to 300,000 military personnel who are believed to have participated in 190 atmospheric tests between 1946 and 1962. A spokesman promised to "fulfill the government's responsibility to the people involved."

In contrast, the Energy Department has joined the nuclear industry in hushing up the disagreeable information about the low-level radiation that emanates from peaceful nuclear facilities.

University of Pittsburgh Professor Thomas F. Mancuso spent more than 12 years on an epidemiological study of atomic workers at the government's Hanford, Wash., plant.

His findings turned out to be the opposite of what the Energy Department had hoped. His superiors had encouraged him to debunk the research of another scientist who found inexplicable cancer increases among Hanford workers. Instead, Mancuso confirmed these findings.

THE PROFESSOR was ordered to turn over his data to scientists at the government-controlled laboratories in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and the government-contracted Battelle Pacific Northwest Labs in Richland, Wash. None of these scientists had ever conducted a human epidemiological study.

At Battelle, the study was assigned to Dr. Ethel Gilbert whose preliminary analysis was so obtuse that associates complained they "couldn't make heads or tails of it."

AT OAK RIDGE, the government hired Dr. Edythalena Tompkins to make an "objective analysis" of the Mancuso data. She has a reputation as an apologist for the nuclear industry. Her husband, Dr. Paul Tompkins, headed the Federal Radiation Council in the 1960s when it raised permissible radiation dose levels for the general population by 20 times.

Dr. Edythalena Tompkins told our associate Howard Rosenberg that she still believes low levels of radiation not only are harmless but, in fact, "stimulate the body's natural repair mechanisms." This should startle the doctors at the Disease Control Center.

The superiors who took the research project out of Mancuso's hands were Assistant Energy Secretary Dr. James Liverman and project supervisor Dr. Sidney Marks. Now Marks has resigned from the government and turned up at the Battelle labs where he now supervises the analysis of the Mancuso project.

EMBATTLED dissident scientists and environmentalists have raised such a hue and cry that the Energy Department has been compelled to conduct a grudging internal investigation. A House Commerce subcommittee, alerted by our stories, is also investigating. It has accused Energy Department officials of a "coverup."

Despite Mancuso's alarming findings, the industry-backed National Council on Radiation Protection is recommending that permissible worker radiation doses should be raised five-fold. Government officials have recently quoted these recommendations as evidence that atomic workers are in no danger.

The government is eager to suppress evidence that radiation exposure at low levels is an occupational hazard. For this could cost the nuclear industry millions in workman's compensation.

Footnote: Reps. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., and Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., are considering steps to prevent any tampering or misuse of the Mancuso data. The Energy Department's internal investigators haven't yet filed their report.

Smoking Ban Showdown Due on Ballot

Shaping up for a final showdown between smokers and anti-smokers is an initiative which would ban smoking almost everywhere the public attends. According to Secretary of State March Fong Eu, sponsors have collected nearly twice the number of signatures required to qualify the measure for the November ballot.

It is the culmination of efforts which commenced at the local levels and imposed the bans in various cities and counties. Apparently tired of this piecemeal approach and angered by rejections in many areas, the anti-smokers league now seeks to make the ban a matter of state law.

Ever since the anti-smokers succeeded in getting the Surgeon General warning of health hazard on each package of cigarettes, the war against smokers has been raging. The fact the warning is based upon nebulous scientific studies linking tobacco to cancer did not deter the decision to require it. The studies however were not convincing enough to persuade Congress to cease farm subsidies to tobacco growers.

AND DESPITE the warnings against cigarette smoking now having been a part of the scene for more than a decade, the record indicates cigarette sales have been increasing annually. Whether that means more people are smoking today or that those who smoke have increased their consumption is beside the point which is that a significant percentage of the population find satisfaction in puffing. This promises a November battle between the smokers and those who are fanatic in their crusade against tobacco.

But the crusaders concern isn't the altruistic desire to protect the users from their own self-destruction. Rather it is the more selfish view that the smokers infringe upon some kind of "inalienable right" to enjoy an atmosphere free from contamination wherever they choose to go. They pursue this goal in an angry, bitter mood which exudes hatred for the offenders.

ONE LARGE segment of the population which is perplexed and hurt by this demonstration of antipathy is the veterans, especially those of WW II. During that era the attitude of the public was that nothing was too good for "our boys." People willingly went without butter, sugar and other goodies in the belief the sacrifices were made for "our boys overseas."

As part of "doing their bit" the Rotary and other civic groups purchased cigarettes by the caseload for distribution to the troops. It was "everything for the boys" and cigarettes were the symbol. Even the government joined in, supplying cigarettes as part of every K ration. Not only did such demonstrations serve to show wholehearted endorsement of smoking by the American people, but American cigarettes became the ultimate of barter, more important than money wherever the GI went.

Today these same GIs, now grown older and forgotten, are being shamed and treated as un-American because they continue to smoke.

FEW USERS would contend cigarette smoking is a desirable habit and most discourage the young from doing it. On the other hand many would argue that it is no more harmful than many other forms of self-indulgence and all will defend their right to smoke free from the harassment of do-gooders.

What the initiative seems to boil down to then is nothing more than a poll to determine whether there are more users than non-users.

Age-old Ritual Gives Meaning to 'Relationship'

Kids, kids, kids! Nothing but problems. My youngest daughter, Griselda, dropped by the other evening to pick up our surplus canned goods and announce she and Stanley were "into a whole new lifestyle."

I shuddered. In the six years they've been living together, they've gotten into a dozen whole new lifestyles, each more obscure than the last.

"Well, as long as it doesn't involve animals," I said tolerantly. (Our oldest daughter, Daverne, has spent the past decade in a Maine commune studying the effects on hogs of their astrological signs and I frankly feel she's been wasting herself.)

"No, Stanley and I plan to seek a more meaningful relationship through taking part in an age-old ritual. All our friends are doing it."

"Hare Krishna?"

"No," said Griselda. "Marriage."

MARRIAGE! The word rang a distant bell in the dusty attic of my mind. Emeline, that was it! Long ago, our daughter, Emeline had once become married for several months.

"Oh, no!" I said. "I'm not getting up before dawn to trudge to the top of some soggy hillside to drink white wine, eat feta cheese and listen to you and Stanley recite Khalil Gibran."

"You don't understand, we want a real old-fashioned wedding. You know, in a church."

"It's the in thing to do. An afternoon wedding's best. I'll wear a long white satin gown . . ."

"In the afternoon? My daughter, the hippie," ". . . and Stanley will wear a pale-blue tuxedo, but he wants his ushers to wear light-beige tuxedos with yellow ruffled shirts."

"USHERS? Well, if you dress up like that in the middle of the day, I guess you could sell tickets."

"My ten bridesmaids will all be wearing pale-pink gowns and picture hats. And the church will be filled with tons and tons and tons of beautiful, beautiful flowers. A soprano will be singing, 'O, Promise Me,' and we'll hire a photographer to take pictures . . ."

"I've got it! It's a publicity stunt."

"And afterwards we'll have this intimate little supper for our 200 closest friends with champagne, cases and cases of champagne and dancing to a 12-piece orchestra and . . ."

"It sounds like a wonderful party, Griselda. I'm glad you and Stanley have struck it rich. And I only hope you'll invite me."

"Invite you? Gosh, Dad, you're the host."

I ASKED HER how come I got to pay for her and Stanley's party. She said it was because I was her father. That makes sense. Whenever they get "into a whole new lifestyle," it usually costs me a bundle. But this one's a dilly.

These kids! What'll they think of next?

Everything's Normal in Ridgefield

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. — My old aunt used to say you never really know who your neighbors are until one day you read about them in the paper being appointed to the White House transportation staff or taken off in the patrol wagon for wife-beating or graduating with high honors from welding school.

And, by George, she was right.

This town, for instance, is chock full of interesting people, what you might call real characters just waiting to be discovered by some sharp-eyed reporter or a playwright in search of a sequel to "Our Town."

OVER ON LUDLOW HILL there's a man who never in all his born days has seen a flying saucer. Old Ben Lovecraft has lived in these rocky, rolling hills of Connecticut for nigh onto half a century, since moving up from the Bronx, without catching so much as a glimmer of an outer world touchdown on his two-acre zoned spread there behind the town dump.

The other night he thought he saw an eerie light reflecting from an elliptical shaped object in his driveway that wasn't there when he took in the cat and turned off the carriage lamps. He put on his new Christmas cardigan, grabbed a flashlight from the hall closet and made his way stealthily along the hedges bordering the garage. He could hear chattering and the sound of equipment being unloaded.

Mulligan's Stew

THERE IN THE MOONLIGHT, HE saw five tiny creatures no bigger than a breadbox with enormous shiny eyes filing out of an aluminum cylinder. They fled in panic the instant his beam hit them.

"You know how racoons scamper after they've tipped over a garbage can to get at a turkey carcass," Ben drawled in his matter of fact way. "I called the Air Force and they didn't want to hear about it. They already had four people on hold with positive sightings."

Fascinating fellow, Ben. A real skeptic. He's seen "Star Wars" twice and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" three times and doesn't believe a word of either of them.

OVER ON LAGONWIFFLE ROAD, near the new condominiums, there's a young fellow, name of Nick Nevens, who hasn't put his name down for Pan Am's first flight to the moon and says he doesn't intend to, ever. Nick, who moved up from the Bronx a year ago, says he's not interested in that space shuttle either.

Nick took the bus to Hartford last week to visit the Mark Twain house, and it broke down with a vapor lock or a burnt-out transmission or something coming out of Waterbury, which he says taught him a lesson about inter- and outer-galactic travel.

"If God wanted man to go traipsing about on the stars and planets," he chuckled over his root beer, "he'd have created moonbeams with median strips and rest areas."

REAL PHILOSOPHER, NICK, AND not a word has ever been written about him. Up to now.

Down in the village, across from the knitting and crochet shop, lives a family, the Dorks, who actually were at home one night when one of those television polling outfits telephoned to ask which program they were watching.

"We actually were looking at home movies at the time," reminisced Myra Dork, mother of four who moved up from the Bronx last winter. "Of course, I couldn't tell the man that so I said it was one of them family situation comedies."

MYRA SAYS THE POLLSTER asked if it was "Soap" they were viewing.

"That's it, I told him, and he wanted to know if we had any objections to the strong language being used. Well, Uncle Dudley was visiting us that night and some of the language was pretty rough, seeing as how he hates home movies, even the ones he takes himself, so it fitted right in with the man's question and I told him we were used to that kind of language around here. I guess they think we're a pretty wild bunch here in Ridgefield."

And we are. There's a man over on Appleknocker Terrace who was at St. Andrew's in Scotland when Jack Nicklaus drove the 18th green in winning the British Open in 1970. Only Sedge Walker — that's his name . . . moved up from the Bronx three years ago — wasn't out at the Old Course that day to watch.

SEDGE HATES GOLF. HE WAS in the reading room of the university library studying up on old Scottish kirk steeple construction and design, his hobby.

Last year when Reggie Jackson hit those three home runs in the last game of the World Series, Sedge came across some fascinating drawings of early Aberdeen and Dundee bell tower shafts in the Fifth Avenue Library.

Sweet, Light, Not Best Bet

DEAR PAT: Breakfast food is fast becoming a luxury food. In view of constantly rising cereal prices, I'd like to find out which kind is the most economical and nutritious.

H.W., San Clemente

Your best cereal values are whole grain products that you cook (oatmeal); toasted, cracked or rolled wheat and unrefined corn meal. Next best are the milled enriched cereals that you cook, such as farina, cream of rice and degermed corn meal. Most economical ready-to-eat cereals are those with the least amount of sugar and fat. Choose brands made with whole grains and those with nutritious added ingredients, such as soy, dry milk, wheat germ, bran and raisins.

An average serving of cereal is one ounce. Divide the number of ounces in the package into the cost of the entire package to determine cost per serving. Remember that cereals vary greatly in density because of differences in form (puffed, flaked, granules, etc.) and ingredients (sugar and oil add weight). Check the nutrient statement for a one-ounce serving to compare nutrients, calories and cost

Auto Insurance Required!

DEAR PAT: Does state law require a driver to have car insurance? If it does, what would happen if an uninsured driver had an accident?

P.S., Laguna Beach

It's a violation of state law to drive without being covered by some form of financial responsibility in the amount of $35,000 or more. For most people, this means having a public liability insurance policy in this amount, which will pay for injuries negligently done to others (Vehicle Code 16021). If you get in an accident without insurance, you face a long license suspension unless you can post a bond to cover possible liability. You may have to do this even before you are found by a court to have been at fault or partly at fault.

If you are found to be at fault, you will either have to pay off the judgment against you or declare bankruptcy before your license suspensions will be cleared. In either case you will have to show that you have complied with the financial responsibility law.

Project Aims at Plane Safety

DEAR PAT: Is there any private consumer group that aims to improve airline safety? I'm doing a school report on aviation safety, and although I've tried to find such a group, I haven't had any luck.

L.E., Huntington Beach

Aviation Consumer Action Project (1346 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036) concerns itself with airline safety and the rights of airline passengers. This group also monitors workings of the Civil Aeronautics Board and Federal Aviation Administration.

Rolling Ruler Rolling Out

DEAR PAT: I ordered a "Rolling Ruler" measuring device from Pat Harris Inc. of Rutherford, N.J., on Dec. 7, 1977. So far, I've not received it even though my check was cashed and I've written them two letters.

D.J., Costa Mesa

This firm's customer service department says that cards notifying customers of a delay in processing orders for this item were mailed serveral weeks ago. The merchandise now is avilable and orders, including yours, are being filled.

Agency, Court, Best Bets

DEAR PAY: Whom do I contact if I can't get an exchange or refund, or if I think I was a victim of misrepresentation or was sold a defective product?

L. C., Costa Mesa

Contact the Orange County Office of Consumer Affairs or file a Small Claims Court suit. If you go to court, make sure you have as much evidence as possible to support your case, as you may find it is your word against that of the store representative.

Doll Commercials To Be Discontinued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The maker of a nationally marketed "Cher" doll will discontinue a television commercial that shows children using the toy in a dangerous way, the government said.

The commercial depicts a young girl seated on a stool next to a water-filled bathroom sink. As she washes the doll's long black hair, the girl's mother enters and hands the child an electric hair dryer. The mother then leaves and the girl dries the doll's hair with the appliance.

The Federal Trade Commission said the commercial is unfair or deceptive because it might influence children to use a small electrical appliance near a sink filled with water. Severe electrical shock could result, the FTC said.

Biofeedback Hailed in Building Esteem

NOT A CURE-ALL
Robert B. MacIntyre

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Students taught to relax their muscles and increase the blood flow to their hands by using biofeedback have shown significant increases in self-esteem and confidence, a Los Angeles psychologist said in Newport Beach.

Robert B. MacIntyre said Tuesday that an experiment he and several colleagues conducted showed that after only eight half-hour sessions with college students, "We got significant changes to higher self-esteem."

MacINTYRE WAS speaking on biofeedback at "Focus on Learning," a national conference hosted by the Coast Community College District at the Marriott Hotel.

In biofeedback, a person's tension level as reflected in muscle tension or poor circulation is shown on equipment. As the person changes his tension level, he can get an immediate changed reading on the monitor and learn to willfully control tension.

The surprising finding, MacIntyre said, is that learning such simple bodily control also affects the way people think.

"WHAT I THINK is going on is that biofeedback helps us restructure the way we look at ourselves in interaction with the world," he said.

He said he has also used biofeedback with hyperactive children. No change was noted in academic performance, but teachers said the children were much calmer after biofeedback.

MacINTYRE CAUTIONED that such deep relaxation as that achieved with biofeedback decreases the need for medications and that people using insulin should be cautious.

He joked that he became interested in biofeedback after he was turned down in a proposal to experiment with meditation and yoga in the schools.

"You couldn't get into the public schools with anything that smacked of Oriental mysticism," MacIntyre said. "But I found that biofeedback is a way around that. Anything with needles that click and lights that flash has an obvious place in education."

BUT BIOFEEDBACK in many cases lead people into further self-exploration and learning, he said.

"Suddenly other things begin to look like they might be worth dealing with, such as yoga and meditation," MacIntyre said.

He cautioned that biofeedback is not a cure-all for lifestyle problems.

"IF SOMEBODY IS going to sit at a high-pressure job and continue to pour alcohol and tobacco and other poisons into his system, the biofeedback can help, but it can't get rid of the problem," MacIntyre said.

He also noted that it isn't yet known what role the therapist plays in administering biofeedback.

"You don't put people into a room with a piece of equipment and get the results I'm talking about," he said.

For Juvenile Offenders

2 Institutions to Close

Orange County supervisors have rejected a probation for adjusting inmate loads between facilities and instead voted to close two of the county's six juvenile institutions.

The supervisors' move Tuesday reflected a continuing drop off in the population at the county's juvenile institutions.

That dropoff is more reflective of a change in the handling of juvenile offenders than a decline in youthful offenses.

SINCE ENACTMENT of new juvenile laws that became effective Jan. 1, 1977, emphasis is on diverting minor juvenile offenders into treatment programs and steering them away from incarceration with major youthful offenders.

As a result, county supervisors tightened their economy belts when they ordered the two facilities closed.

Targeted for April 1 closure are David R. McMillan School in Santa Ana and Rancho Potrero in Trabuco Canyon.

McMILLAN SERVED as a 30-bed facility for juveniles serving short-term but definite sentences.

Rancho Potrero was a stopping place for youngsters from 12 to 14 years old whom the courts said should be held in an institution.

A Probation Department report asked that the two facilities be kept open and adjustments be made at other institutions, including closing a 20-bed ward at the Youth Guidance Center in Orange.

County Administrative Officer Robert Thomas, however, told supervisors there would be greater economy in closing McMillan and Potrero.

Designer Hired

Willdan Associates has been hired by Orange County Supervisors to design a 237,000-square-foot parking area for transient aircraft at Orange County Airport.

Supervisors agreed to pay the firm $45,100. Paving is expected to cost $435,000.

Grove Resident, 19, Faces Rape Charges

A man accused of breaking into three Fountain Valley homes and raping the women occupants has been ordered to face trial April 17 in Orange County Superior Court.

Judge Robert E. Rickles set the trial date and pretrial action March 24 for Frank William Johnson, 19, of Garden Grove. Eleven felony counts contained in a grand jury indictment include charges of rape, sex perversion and burglary.

Johnson will be tried in Judge Mason Fenton's courtroom. He is held in the county jail, with bail set at $250,000.

He was arrested Jan. 11 shortly after he allegedly raped a 29-year-old victim at knifepoint while her 9-year-old slept nearby.

It is alleged that Johnson raped three Fountain Valley women during a three-month period. All of the women lived on the same block in that city.

Woman Seeks Damages

From AP Dispatches

A former saleswoman turned truck driver is suing her employer for $2 million, claiming company brass vandalized two of her cars, booby-trapped her equipment and fired her twice for no good reason.

"It's not easy to get a job in this industry because there's a lot of prejudice against women. Well, now that I've got it, I'm hanging onto it," said trucker Alma Howard, 33, who quit her job behind a department store sales counter a few years ago to get behind the wheel of the big rigs.

The suit against the East Texas Motor Freight Co. was filed in Alameda County Superior Court.

The Duchess of Alba, Spain's most titled woman and one of its richest and most fashionable women, is going to marry the government's director of music, Jesus Aguirre.

PEOPLE

Sources at the duchess' Liria Palace said the wedding date is March 16, and that the 52-year-old duchess barred the press.

The blonde duchess is the mother of six. She was widowed five years ago. An accomplished flamenco dancer, student of Russian and patron of the arts, she assumed the title of Duchess of Alba on the death in 1953 of her father, a former ambassador to Britain.

Turner, speaking in Los Angeles as a panel member at the annual convention of the National Association of Television Program Executives (NATPE), gave no examples of what he considers bad programs.

TURNER

But after saying quality shows "would be really good stuff, like Shakespeare," he went on to say:

"Most of the programs that get the highest audiences in America are garbage. And that's what we are in the habit of giving people."

Saudi Arabian businessman Ghaith Pharaon asked for a two-month delay in his purchase of controlling interest of Bert Lance's former bank.

LANCE

A bank spokesman says the delay is so the National Bank of Georgia can get things settled with federal investigators.

Prince Charles of England, who says he wants to learn the samba, gets his chance tonight when he attends a performance by the Beija Flor samba school in Rio de Janeiro.

CHARLES

Mayor Marcos Tamoio is offering a dinner and reception in the prince's honor, to be followed by a performance by experts from the school, which won first prize in this year's carnival parade.

Upon his arrival Wednesday, Charles reportedly said he is eager to learn the samba, the best-known feature of the parade.

Hawaii Prays for Rain

Pacific Storms Bypass State; Drought Worsens

ECOLOGY

HONOLULU (AP) — Tourists scowl when skies darken over the Hawaiian paradise, but some Hawaiians are hoping for lots of clouds with very wet linings.

Scattered areas of the islands are in their second year of a drought. The Pacific storms which washed — and sometimes inundated — parched California this winter have largely bypassed Hawaii.

RAINFALL FOR THE year at Honolulu Airport was measured at week's opening as just under 1½ inches, compared to a normal rainfall for the period of 7½ inches.

Light occasional rain chased sunbathers off beaches early in the week but, despite the hopes of ranchers and others dismayed by the dry weather, the showers did little to relieve the problem.

As climatologist Saul Price put it: "These rains are helpful, but by no means are they sufficient. They are a very, very long way from ending the drought."

SO FAR, THE drought has meant only inconvenience in Honolulu, the resort city on the island of Oahu. But on the larger island of Hawaii, it has caused enough trouble for cattle ranchers to seek — and get — federal aid to buy feed to replace depleted range grass.

Some ranchers say it is the worst drought in their lifetime, and Don Hansen, manager of a 300,000-acre ranch, said water is so scarce in some areas that cattle have died after drinking ocean water.

In Honolulu, a voluntary conservation drive asked residents to water lawns less, call off benefit car washes and serve water in restaurants only when patrons ask. Officials say the measures cut water usage by 10 percent.

ON OAHU, WHICH has 80 percent of the state's 900,000 residents, officials expect more problems in summer and fall if rain does not replenish the underground water table.

"If we don't have a wet spring, we'll have the same record low levels in our supply and we'll have to consider mandatory cutbacks," said Edward Hirata, manager of the Honolulu Board of Water Supply.

Mandatory cutbacks might catch by surprise the mainland winter refugees who have been unaware of the drought. The cutbacks would limit water in swimming pools and decorative fountains, as well as order less lawn-watering and car-washing.

In the ranchlands on the west coast of the island of Hawaii, ranchers have already been ordered to cut water use.

75th Birthday

Welk Relates Health Secret

By BOB THOMAS

SANTA MONICA (AP) — As often happened during his long career, Lawrence Welk won't be home for his birthday. He'll celebrate his 75th entertaining the folks in Shreveport, La.

He has been warming up for the big event on weekends at the Lawrence Welk Country Club at Escondido. He entertains the guests with his accordion and then tells them, "I've been playing 'Happy Birthday' for other people all these years; how about singing it for my 75th birthday, which will be on March 11?"

THE MUSIC MAKER talked about birthdays and other things one morning in his suite at the 21-story Lawrence Welk building overlooking the Pacific. He seemed relaxed and fit, and he admitted surprise at reaching 75.

"I was very sick as a boy, and after 35 I had severe health problems — spastic colon, gall stones and other ailments," he remarked. "I remember once telling my wife, 'If the good Lord lets me live to be 60, I'll be happy.'

"At one time in 1957, my doctor advised me to give up the band because of my health. That was when I joined the Bel Air Country Club and started taking better care of myself.

"MY WIFE HAS BEEN a great help. She is a nurse, and she knows all about diets and how to cook foods. I don't eat out, and I take an hour's nap every day; I'm able to go right to sleep. I play golf, I swim every morning, and I have a driving net at my home where I can practice. Mainly, I've developed a knack of being not too anxious.

"A few months ago, I gathered my musical family and told them they were going to put the television shows together. I made a little speech: they'd better learn how to do it in case something happened to me. And if they didn't know how to do it by now, we were all in trouble.

"SO I WENT AWAY and played in all the golf tournaments — Andy Williams', the Bob Hope's, the Bing Crosby, the L.A. Open. I always came back on the day of the show and saw what my people had done. The ratings have been excellent, and people have been telling me, 'I don't know what you've been doing, but the show is better than ever.' Maybe that tells me something."

The Welk enterprises continue to prosper. They are directed from the ninth floor of his building and include music publishing, records, real estate enterprises, as well as the "Lawrence Welk Show," whish is generally at the top of the syndicated TV market. It appears on more than 250 stations.

AFTER 27 YEARS on national television, it's hard to imagine Lawrence Welk as anything but a fabulous success story of a North Dakota farm boy to music-making millionaire. But he admits to a number of low points in his career, two in particular.

"The first was in the 1930s, when my band walked out on me in North Dakota. They didn't think I was a good enough musician to make the big time, so they all left. For three days, I couldn't sleep. My father was afraid I would come back to the farm like the prodigal son, but I knew I couldn't go home in defeat.

"AT THAT TIME Billboard carried ads by musicians who needed work. I read about the two Reed brothers in Dayton, Ohio; one played saxophone, the other trombone. I called them in Dayton and asked them to come to work for me. That's how I got the band started again."

THE SECOND LOW CAME IN 1971, when the Welk show was still riding high in the ratings after 16 years on ABC. Welk was pulled off a golf course to learn the news that the network had canceled the show. He was in the middle of a dinner party a few days later when a sponsor called with the message: "We still have faith in you."

Welk instructed his manager, Sam Lutz, to offer the show to the nation's TV stations. Four hundred replied yes.

IN RECENT YEARS Welk has limited his appearances. The band makes a 10-day tour in the South during March, another up North in June. Three weeks at Lake Tahoe in the summer end the year's tours. The rest of his performing time is devoted to the TV show.

While he talks about "passing along the show to the kids," his associates doubt that he will quit. One of his veterans told him: "If you ever lay down the baton," that's the end."

Divorce Price Tag High

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Roughly 27 percent of the total county government budget in Orange County goes to help shore up financial chaos caused by broken marriages, according to a county study.

Translated to dollars, the study concludes county government spent at least $123.8 million in 1976-77 providing some form of financial assistance to broken homes.

MAJOR COST items on the $123.8 million shattered marriage tab are medical services, cash grants to families with dependent children and food stamps.

Major cost items on the $123.8 million shattered marriage tab are medical services, cash grants to families with dependent children and food stamps.

Not included in the broken home price tag tabulated in a County Administrative Office study are the cost of indirect services frequently used at times of family crisis.

Those untabulated services frequently related to the trauma of a shattered home include mental health counseling available to those who can't afford private counseling.

THE COUNTY broken home study points out that not all broken families end up with some members receiving public assistance of some kind.

But it also points out that divorce is on the rise in Orange County.

It notes, for example, there were 8,718 county divorces in 1970.

By 1976, the divorce figure had risen to 11,893.

"This rise is not simply due to population growth," according to the county study.

TO BACK THAT conclusion, it cites a 1970 divorce rate of 6.1 divorces for each 1,000 population and a 1978 rate of 6.8 divorces for each 1,000 population.

The study made no attempt to trace the causes of the increasing divorce rate.

Its purpose was to measure the impact of broken homes on the public pocketbook in Orange County.

Not all the $123.8 million broken marriage price tag in fiscal year 1976-77 was borne alone by county taxpayers.

OF THE TOTAL amount, $39.5 million came from the county general fund.

The remaining $84.3 million was sifted into the county treasury from state and federal sources, most of it from the state.

Major direct cost items included in the hefty annual $123.8 million family support package included:

—$56.1 million in Medi-Cal services provided to broken home family members who otherwise wouldn't be able to afford needed medical care.

—$40.3 MILLION in cash payments to families with dependent children left without a breadwinner or whose remaining breadwinner lacks the earning power to provide family necessities.

—$14.2 million in food stamps to help broken families stretch their food buying dollars.

—$5.4 million it costs to administer family aid programs.

Former Area Golfer Rising Star on Tour

By HOWARD L. HANDY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) moves to Mesa Verde Country Club in Costa Mesa to start the 1979 season next January, Susan O'Connor could have an edge on the others in the field.

But the pert blonde golfer doesn't think it will be that great an advantage despite the fact she has played many rounds on the course.

"There are a few things I know about the course," she says. "But it has so much character and can change from day to day. The wind and the weather will enter into it. When it is overcast and hazy, the ball doesn't have as much flight.

"Maybe some people will think I have an advantage because I have played there as much as I have. I am proud of the fact the LPGA is going to play a major tournament there but I don't believe I will have that much of an advantage."

O'Connor lived in Newport Beach for several years and her father lives in Costa Mesa and is a member at Mesa Verde where the tournament will be held Jan. 8-14.

She joined the tour by qualifying in the July, 1974 school and is beginning her fourth year as a full-time member of the tour. She is playing this week in Los Angeles at Rancho Park Golf Course and will play in San Diego next week.

O'Connor started playing golf at age 11.

"I played until I was 15 and won the San Diego junior championship four consecutive years from 1959 to 1962."

Has golf always been her first love in sports?

"I used to high dive and then I went to tennis," she recalls. "About a year before I turned to golf, I lost my first match in tennis and didn't like it very well.

"In golf it was different. I finished second in my first tournament and won a trophy. It didn't make any difference that there were only three girls in my age group. Nobody likes to lose like I did in tennis."

At 15 she decided there were other things in life besides golf and quit the game for nine years during which time she was married. Then she started playing again with her dad at Mesa Verde, usually on Friday, and both her father and her husband encouraged her to try to play professionally.

"I didn't pick up a golf club for nine years, though, and that hurt me," she says.

"The first two full years on tour I didn't like it and I didn't really know where I was. Last year I decided I was going to do well or quit.

"I concentrated on it all year long and I found I enjoyed it much more. I had a much more relaxed attitude and instead of thinking about win, win, win, I started to think about each shot and what I was going to do at that time.

"I think it is tougher for me because of the years I lost between 15 and 24 but I am getting back into the feel of competition and my attitude is much better now."

Does playing tournament golf bother her before an event gets under way?

"I have really had bad dreams before a tournament," she admits. "Things like trying to tee the ball up in the mattress on the bed or finding a tree in the way on the first tee so you can't bring the club back. I wake up from these dreams very frustrated.

"But once I get on the course, I am really keyed up and want to play well."

There is no qualifying on Monday for the LPGA yet but it might be only a matter of time until such a thing comes about. But she isn't worried.

"I feel I can shoot par consistently," she says. "My goal is to shoot par or better as often as I can. Even par would be good enough to make the top 10."

How does she feel about the other members of the tour and their willingness or lack of same to help each other?

"The girls, as compared to the men in golf, are much more friendly. That doesn't mean they are good buddies on the golf course.

"But I find very little pettiness on the tour. We all try to help each other, even if we aren't the best of friends.

"I will go to the driving range when JoAnne Carner, Judy Rankin or some of the others are hitting balls and watch them drive to see if I can pick something up.

"Personally, I don't like to ask somebody else for help. I would rather watch another player and they don't mind at all. I feel it is a compliment for another player to watch you on the practice tee."

When she turned things around in 1977, O'Connor tripled her career earnings with almost $15,000 in prize money and three top 10 finishes including her best-ever, a fifth place in Columbus.

Susan O'Connor is considered a rising star on the LPGA tour and perhaps, if it doesn't happen this year, her first tournament victory will come at her "home course" at Mesa Verde Country Club in Costa Mesa next January.

Kings' Goring Sparkles

TORONTO — Butch Goring scored twice for a career-high 34 goals to lead the Los Angeles Kings to a methodical 5-1 rout of their National Hockey League hosts, the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Los Angeles dominated the first period in the game Wednesday night, scoring three times on goals by Randy Manery, Dave Taylor and Goring.

After the Maple Leafs yanked Gord McRae in favor of Mike Palmateer, the first time all season Toronto has changed goalies during a game, Darryl Sittler and the Kings' Marcel Dionne traded goals in the second period.

Austin Advances

DALLAS — Martina Navratilova and Tracy Austin, the 15-year-old darling of women's tennis, stormed to second-round victories in a pro tournament Wednesday night.

Navratilova made Lesley Hunt her 37th straight victim this year in a 6-0, 6-1 romp after Austin topped Helena Anliot, 7-5, 6-2.

Austin meets Navratilova in the quarterfinals Friday.

In other matches, Betty Stove defeated Nancy Richey, 6-2, 6-4, Pam Shriver, 15, defeated Regina Marsikova, 6-0, 7-6 and Kerry Reid beat Virginia Ruzici, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Borg Collects

GOTEBORG, Sweden — Bjorn Borg trounced Vitas Gerulaitis, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 in the finals of the $60,000 Invitational Scandinavian Cup Wednesday to win his first tournament in Sweden since 1974.

In a match for third, John Lloyd beat Sandy Mayer, 7-6, 6-3.

Edwards Quits

BERKELEY—Dick Edwards resigned Wednesday as the University of California's basketball coach after a disappointing 11-16 season.

The Bears had just one winning season in six years under Edwards, who came to Cal after producing several outstanding teams at the University of the Pacific.

Cage Coach Fired

WICHITA, Kan. — Harry Miller, who two years ago led Wichita State to a Missouri Valley Conference basketball title and a trip to the NCAA tournament, was fired as the Shockers coach Wednesday.

Fight Erupts

CASA GRANDE, Ariz.—Bill Madlock and John Montefusco got into a fistfight at the San Francisco Giants' Casa Grande spring training camp Tuesday while Montefusco was being interviewed in the clubhouse.

Witnesses said Madlock interrupted the interview, insisting on talking to Montefusco, who

Soviets Have Patent On Skating Crowns

OTTAWA (AP) — The Russians may or may not have invented figure skating, but they certainly have the patent on winning world championships in the pairs competition.

The incomparable Irina Rodnina won her 10th straight pairs title at the World Figure Skating championships Wednesday night, teaming with her husband, Aleksandr Zaitsev, for the sixth straight year.

Before hooking up with Zaitsev, Rodnina had won four straight titles with Alexei Ulanov, who jilted Rodnina after the 1972 Olympics and married another skater.

The gold medal for Rodnina and Zaitsev gave the Russians the last 14 world pairs titles. And this one came very easily. The heavy favorites picked up all nine first-place votes for nine ordinals and 147.26 points.

A very strong East German couple, Manuela Mager and Uwe Bewersdorff, finished second with 19 ordinals and 142.88 points. American champions Tai Babilonia of Mission Hills and Randy Gardner of Los Angeles finished third for the second year in a row.

"They're much better and they get very high marks," Gardner said in explaining the constantly phenomenal success of the gold medalists.

Gardner said he was slightly disappointed by the bronze medal since the California couple had been shooting for second place. But a fourth place position after Tuesday's short program had practically doomed their bid for silver.

The gold medal in the pairs may have been a foregone conclusion, but the top spot in the individual events is very wide open after Wednesday's full day of skating.

Going into today's short program, Linda Fratianne of Northridge, gunning for her second straight world title, was in third place behind European champion Anett Poetzsch of East Germany and Dagmar Lurz of West Germany. Fratianne's specialties, however, are the skating segments and not the compulsory figure-tracing exercises.

Garden Grove's Lisa-Marie Allen was 14th.

PAIRS (Final)

1. Irina Rodnina and Alexander Zaitsev, Soviet Union, 9 ordinals, 147.26 points. 2. Manuela Mager and Uwe Bewersdorff, East Germany, 19, 142.88. 3. # Bavasi Raps Padres

San Diego Brings B Team

HOLTVILLE (AP) — When the first "Play Ball" to begin the major league baseball exhibition season was sounded Wednesday, most of the San Diego Padres couldn't hear it.

They were 47 miles away in Yuma playing a touring Japanese team.

Except for a few top pitchers, the Padres squad which arrived to face the California Angels was composed of rookies and 1977 reserves. California won the traditional Cactus League opener 5-2.

The makeup of the Padres' traveling squad was an "insult" to the fans who paid to attend the game, said Angels general manager Buzzie Bavasi, who directed the San Diego front office until the past winter.

"This is no insult to the players out there, but the people came to see Dave Winfield, Gene Tenace, Rollie Fingers and George Hendrick," Bavasi said.

"Outside of the pitchers, I know the first names of only three of their 11 other players," said public address announcer Mel Franks.

"This is a violation of the commissioner's ruling that the team's manager should accompany the team," Bavasi said, but he added that he will not file a formal protest with baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Instead, Bavasi said that he plans to give the Padres some of their own medicine, by sending an Angels "B" team to play the Padres in scheduled spring games April 3-4-5 at the Padres' training base in Yuma.

"He's entitled to his opinion, but we did not intend to slight the Angels or anyone else," said Bob Fontaine, who has succeeded Bavasi as Padres' vice president and general manager.

"We had another game against a team from Japan, the Yakult Swallows, here in Yuma," Fontaine said Wednesday night. Directed by manager Alvin Dark, the Padres beat the Swallows 3-2.

Falcons Fly Past Pirates, 75-62

By CRAIG SHEFF
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

NORWALK — A 5½-minute drought at the start of the second half proved fatal to Orange Coast College's basketball team as the Pirates fell to Cerritos College, 75-62, here Wednesday night in the South Coast Conference wild card playoff finale.

Thus, Cerritos advances to the state tourney, challenging Saddleback Wednesday night (7:30) at the Long Beach Arena.

OCC, trailing 39-27 at the half after Cerritos hit 69 percent of its shots, came out ice cold after the intermission — and that turned out to be the difference in the game.

Coach Tandy Gillis' Pirates missed their first seven attempts from the field and four free throw tries — failing to score a point for the first 5½ minutes. By that time the Falcons had a 51-27 lead.

But Coast didn't give up.

But the rally came too late. Cerritos, now 23-8 for the season, went into semi-delay tactics and held off the Bucs in the closing minutes.

The Falcons couldn't miss in the opening half. Behind the shooting of David Wilburn, Brian Lumsden and Harold Homsher, Cerritos hit 18 of 26 shots from the field — most of them 15-20-foot jumpers.

Orange Coast (17-14) never had the lead as Cerritos jumped ahead immediately and increased it as the game got older.

"I think that first half was really the difference," said Gillis. "They shot 69 percent while we hit 40 percent and we were taking percentage shots. But our kids really showed me something. They showed some style, they didn't give up. Akin and Orgill just played super."

Orgill finished with 23 points, hitting 9 of 12 from the field. And Akin, who became an OCC starter three games ago, had 16 before fouling out in the waning stages of the game.

The victory was Cerritos' 26th in 30 games with Orange Coast.

Sea Kings, MV Riddle Rivals

Mission Viejo High toppled Estancia, Corona del Mar won over Tustin and Fountain Valley fell to Long Beach Wilson in non-league baseball action Wednesday.

Mission Viejo's Diablos scored runs in bunches to defeat visiting Estancia High (Costa Mesa), 8-2, with Phil Caruso getting four rbi and Jeff Newton having a perfect day at the plate, 3-for-3. Newton had a double and a pair of singles.

Caruso's hits were both singles but each got a pair of runs across for the Diablos. Chris Reed had two hits and an rbi, Ed McCann had two and scored three runs and Paul LaJoie had two safeties.

Caruso and Newton pitched for the Diablos with the duo striking out five batters and issuing four walks.

Corona del Mar scored seven times in the fifth inning to post a 10-5 victory over visiting Tustin High.

The uprising was sparked by base hits by Chris Johnston, Jim Hall and Jeff Cole along with three walks, two hit batters and a pair of errors.

Tustin made six errors as the Sea Kings ran their season record to 3-1. They play Garden Grove in their next outing Friday.

Fountain Valley ran into an afternoon of missed opportunities in losing to host Long Beach Wilson, 3-1.

The Barons had the bases loaded three times and could score only one run. Nine walks and five base hits along with the Wilson miscues gave FV numerous opportunities. But three double plays erased scoring threats.

The lone FV run came in the top of the first inning when Kevin Romine was safe on an error and Mike Lung reached base on another miscue. Mark Roberts walked to load the bases with one away and Stuart Miles walked to force the run across.

Fountain Valley and Huntington Beach tangle in a night game Friday (7) at Mile Square Park with the Garden Grove at Corona del Mar outing set for 3:15.

Mission Viejo opened South Coast League play this afternoon at home against University (Irvine) while Estancia hosted El Modena.

Saddleback Shocks Foe; GW Beaten

A pinch-hit double by Hugh Austin scored two runs in the eighth inning to give Saddleback College an upset victory over visiting San Bernardino in opening Mission Conference baseball action Wednesday afternoon, 3-1.

Golden West College opened the Southern California Conference flag chase at Los Angeles Harbor but fell to the Seahawks, 8-1.

San Bernardino, the No. 1 rated team in Southern California with a perfect 11-0 record going into conference play, fell to the Gauchos with the aid of outstanding relief pitching by Tony Nigro.

Nigro came on in the eighth inning with two outs and the bases loaded. He struck out the final batter and had no trouble in the ninth.

Saddleback scored a run in the first on a walk to Vic Hasler, a stolen base and two throwing errors. After San Bernardino tied it in the second, the Gauchos scored two more in the seventh to win on Austin's timely blow.

It was preceded by singles off the bats of Mark Stowell and Bruce Welz.

Golden West was the victim of an outstanding pitching performance by Harbor's Mark Cherrick. He had a no-hitter into the seventh inning when John Moses led off with a bloop double.

The second GWC hit came in the ninth as the Rustlers scored their only run. Jim Allen was safe on an error, stole second and scored on Steve Nemeth's two-out single.

MV Romps To Victory Over Oilers

Mission Viejo High's Diablos breezed to an unexpectedly easy three-set victory over visiting Huntington Beach and Costa Mesa High's Mustangs advanced to the finals of the Inglewood High varsity tournament Wednesday night before falling to highlight area Orange Coast area volleyball action.

The Diablos cut Huntington Beach down, 15-7, 15-5, 15-7, as Mission Viejo put together an excellent team effort, keyed by the blocking of Mike Brawley and Dan Charnitski and the defense of Dave Ochoa in the back row.

Also, Mission Viejo's team passing showed improvement as Huntington Beach failed to come up with the expected firepower.

Costa Mesa, meanwhile, had Redondo on the run with a 15-12 victory in the first game of the finals and in the decider the Mustangs extended Redondo to a 16-14 decision before falling.

All-tourney honors went to Jim Pinkerton and Pete Hamborg, the latter was chosen the tourney's most valuable player. Also honored from Costa Mesa was honorable mention choice Marlon Liotta and Jerry Winant as the coach of the tourney.

Estancia's (Costa Mesa) High's sweep over visiting Dana Hills was keyed by the blocking of Jeff Gasper and Craig Keup, while Sean Hamishige was the leader in University (Irvine) High's three-game sweep of host Canyon (Anaheim) High.

Ocean View dropped a hastily-scheduled match with Colton High in four games. The match was set up as a substitute for one with Edison High (Huntington Beach), which cancelled because it had to travel to the Ingelwood Tournament for a semifinal match.

Tritons, Lagunans Win

San Clemente opened play in the Troy baseball tournament Wednesday with a 4-1 victory over Brea, but El Toro High fell to Valencia (Placentia), 1-0, in the same affair.

In other action, Laguna Beach defeated Valley Christian (Cerritos), 6-0, and Santa Ana toppled Costa Mesa, 6-2, in non-league action.

San Clemente scored two runs in the fourth and sixth innings as pitchers Dave Law and Steve Wyche limited Brea to two hits. Law worked five innings, striking out six, but issuing seven walks. Wyche finished the final two frames, striking out four.

In the fourth, Law reached base on an error and after Fred Merrill walked, they pulled a double steal. Chris Russick drove Law across and Merrill scored on an error.

In the sixth, Frank Masonsong doubled to bring two insurance markers across.

Jeff Huddleston pitched well for El Toro but fell victim of an unearned run in the fifth inning. He had six strikeouts while allowing four hits.

Steve Key had two of the four El Toro hits with David Brunner and Bob Craig getting the others.

Laguna Beach had a makeup game that was delayed by the recent rains and posted a victory over visiting Valley Christian.

Kevin Kiesselbach had a solo home run for the Laguna Beach Artists in the sixth inning and Alex Bacon pitched well for the victors. Bacon had 10 strikeouts in four innings and relief pitcher Ian Calderwood had five in the final three.

Laguna Beach scored three times in the second and had single markers in the fourth, fifth and sixth frames, capped by Kiesselbach's homer.

Jeff Sutterfield went the distance for Costa Mesa's Mustangs but tired in the final frame when the Santa Ana Dons scored four of their six runs.

Costa Mesa took the early lead in the fourth when Jerry Cribbs was safe on an error, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on two passed balls. Tom England singled in the fifth and scored on another single by Joe Seeley.

SoCal Trips Aztecs; UCI Loses Again

Southern California College of Costa Mesa, behind the excellent pitching of Butch Ward and Bill Riddell, defeated San Diego State University, 3-2, in non-conference baseball action Wednesday, then had a second game cancelled after three innings because of a power failure.

At Sawtelle Field in Westwood, UC Irvine Anteaters suffered their seventh straight defeat at the hands of host UCLA, 6-0, in another non-conference outing.

Ward started on the mound for SoCal and worked three innings before coming out with a leg cramp. Riddell finished up, allowing but one hit over the final six innings and striking out five. San Diego State was limited to two hits.

SoCal scored in the first on a walk to Butch Plank, a base hit by Mark Wood and a hit batter to load the bases. Mike Scheetz then singled in the run.

In the third, Plank again drew a walk with Wood getting his second hit and Stan Thomas walked to load the bases. Singles by Scheetz and Dave Wilson got the decisive runs across. The win brings SoCal's record to 6-2.

Former UC Irvine coach Gary Adams' UCLA Bruins wasted little time in jumping on the Anteaters, scoring a pair of runs in each of the first two innings and holding a 5-0 edge after three.

MV Swimmers Thump El Toro

The swimming showdown for the South Coast League championship Tuesday proved to be no contest after all.

Mission Viejo, displaying the kind of awesome power that has earned the school three consecutive CIF titles, handed visiting El Toro its first season loss, 122-49, by winning every event but the diving.

"That was the best meet, unshaved and unrested, ever in the history of Mission Viejo," said coach Mike Pelton, who watched nearly every event won with a great time.

The best performance, according to Pelton, came in the 100 butterfly where Jesse Vassallo turned in the team's best of the season, 52.63, despite the fact it is not his best event.

Charlie Ray won the 100 freestyle in 47.8, well under his career best of 48.7 and well under the CIF qualifying time of 49.0.

David Barnes turned the 200 freestyle in 1:46.59 to win an event in which the top three places bettered the CIF qualifying mark.

Other top marks came from Paul Kontrimas in the 50 free (22.15), Vic Vassallo's personal best in the 100 back (54.60) and Jim New in the 500 free (4:37.7). New's time was one of the best in the nation this year.

Costa Mesa's Bob Dolan had another outstanding day, winning the 200 free in 1:46.59 and the 500 free in 4:43.5, both personal bests. His efforts helped the Mustangs stop visiting Corona del Mar, 96-73.

Dave Varney of Dana Hills turned in a fast double in Dana Hills' 94-78 win over visiting San Clemente, taking the 100 butterfly in 55.4 and the 500 free in 4:51.0. Mitch Kahn went 1:50.5 in the 200 free for San Clemente.

Jeff Fults went 22.5 in the 50 free for Newport Harbor in an 87-80 win over Marina (Huntington Beach); Shawn McCraney won two events as Edison (Huntington Beach) wound up the Sunset League dual meet season unbeaten; and freshman Blair Murphy recorded his third 22.2 time in the 50 free for Irvine.

CdM, Diablos, Tritons

Volleyball Outlook

Two of the four teams in last year's CIF volleyball semifinals were from the South Coast League, and that circuit again has an abundance of talent.

Laguna Beach is the loop favorite, but the Artists may be challenged by a trio of strong teams—Corona del Mar, San Clemente and Mission Viejo.

Mission Viejo

Five lettermen return, including two who started—6-3 hitter-blocker Mike Brawley and 5-10 setter Kevin Severson.

Moving up into starting roles are juniors Jim Feicht and Lance Richardson, along with senior Jim Flynn. Also seeing action will be junior Curt Alderson.

"Although we lost a lot of our hitting depth, our middle blockers are still strong and I think we'll be a better defensive team," Swenson says. "We've got some quickness in the back row."

San Clemente

"Laguna Beach can be beaten, and I think we have a team capable of doing it," says San Clemente coach Jack Iverson. "They're a great team, but with our potential, anything is possible."

The Tritons return five lettermen, including three who were full-time starters last season—setter Mark Rivadeneyra, middle blocker Mark Anderson and hitter Larry Meara.

Also returning from last season's 11-5 team are hitter-blocker Steve McAskin and setter Pete Ditto. Up from the JV team is senior hitter Taylor Waters, the Tritons' tallest player at 6-3. Also vying for a starting berth is junior Brian White.

"We're about half juniors and half seniors," Iverson says. "That's the balance I like. We're a very good hitting team and the attitude is the best of any team I've ever coached."

Corona del Mar

Five returning starters give Corona del Mar a solid, experienced nucleus to build on, and coach John Weyrauch expects to improve upon last season's 9-5 league record.

Edison Girls Planning Trip

After running away with the CIF championship in its second year of existence, the Edison (Huntington) High girls cross country team will try its hand at international competition.

The Chargers, ranked first in the nation by Harrier magazine, have accepted an invitation to compete in the International Schoolsports Federation cross country championships in Austria March 29.

Running as the USA junior women's team, the 12 Edison girls will be pitted against 15 other national teams in the bi-annual affair. And with only one senior on the roster, the school could be providing the United States entry in 1980.

Since the trip is not sanctioned by the CIF, Edison coach Gordie Fitzel will not be making the trip. Serving as the appointed coach will be Jack Kirkhorn, a veteran AAU coach who has a daughter on the squad.

Sophomore Sharon Hulse, fourth in the CIF finals, and senior Cathy Jones, who was eighth, head the young squad which features four 14-year-olds. Rounding out the roster are Julie Bergdahl, Cyndi Carroll, Lisa Clark, Tawnny Ferree, Alicia Kirkhorn, Janet Martel, Kathi Moren, Jenny Rakhshani, Kelly Ringer and Cathy Wall.

With expenses of $1,000 per girl, the team is still raising funds for the trip, which begins March 19 and includes a tour of Europe. Interested parties can call Kay Bergdahl at Edison High (962-1356) or write to California Schoolsports Federation treasurer Jack Kirkhorn at 9122 Kahului Drive, Huntington Beach, 92646.

Girls Soccer Team Has Rough Slate

The North Huntington Beach Cosmos girls soccer team recently played a morning game in San Diego and defeated the Bombers, 8-0, then flew to San Francisco to participate in a weekend tournament at Dublin in the afternoon.

The team arrived at 3 and played at 4:30, defeating Las Vegas, 2-1, and moving to Sunday's action. On Sunday, the Cosmos defeated Dublin, 2-0; Sacramento, 6-0; and San Ramon, 3-1.

On Monday, Calgary felt the sting of defeat, 5-1, at the hands of the Cosmos who then won the event in the afternoon. After tying San Ramon, 1-1, in two overtime periods, the outcome was decided on penalty kicks in favor of the Cosmos.

The girls, age 14-15, play in two leagues, the Pacific Soccer League and the Coast Soccer League. Bill Parker is the team coach.

North Coach Selected

Bob Schermerhorn, a former assistant at Costa Mesa High and Orange Coast College and the varsity coach of Canyon (Anaheim) High's Comanches, has been chosen to guide the North in the 13th Orange County All-star basketball game June 17 at Orange Coast College.

The South leads in the series, 8-4, with five wins in the last seven starts.

Schermerhorn led Canyon to a 20-6 record and the Orange League championship.

Dodgers, Yankees To Duel

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, champions of the National League, are ready to pick up where they were ceremoniously dumped off last year — in a baseball match against the New York Yankees.

The remarkable first-year season for Dodgers pilot Tommy Lasorda, in which his club ran from the league with a 22-4 start and won a rain-sodden pennant in Philadelphia, ended on a chilly note last October when Reggie Jackson's Yankee Stadium home run derby sank the Dodgers in the sixth game of the World Series.

The teams are in sunny Florida now, readying for a match Friday that is as insignificant as their last meeting was important, the first game of the exhibition season. The Dodgers, whose only major off-season change was the addition of free-agent reliever Terry Forster late of Pittsburgh, were pronounced sore but fit Wednesday for their spring debut.

"Everyone is in great shape and I'd say we're ready to go," said Preston Gomez, the Dodgers' third base coach. Gomez said there were no major ailments, "just few aches and pains, which is normal after about a week."

"All the pitchers were getting in their batting practice work and are coming along very well," he said. "We are pleased. The hitters are coming along fine, too."

The new kid in camp, Forster, has impressed the regulars and manager Lasorda with his early form, and will see action against the Yankees in Friday's game at Fort Lauderdale. Doug Rau and Lance Rautzhan will also pitch for Los Angeles and the Yanks plan to use Ed Figueroa and newly acquired Rich Gossage.

FV, Edison To Tangle

Members of Edison (Huntington Beach) High's football team, which lost a 6-3 decision to rival Fountain Valley last fall, will take aim at the Barons again—this time in basketball Wednesday night (7:30) at Fountain Valley High.

Among the Edison Chargers squad will be seniors Jeff Heikes, Jeff Hyder, Chuck Crawford, Gil Harris, Rick Barla and Scott Feeney.

The event is being held as a fund-raiser for both schools' football programs.

Teller Itches To Hold Money

AP Wirephoto

ITCHING TO GET MONEY
Teller Threasa Torza

OLD LYME, Conn. (AP) — Lots of people have money problems, but Theresa Torza's may cost her her job. She's a bank teller who may be allergic to money.

"Inch by inch the skin on the palm of my right hand and my left-hand thumb and forefinger has broken out into an itchy mess," Mrs. Torza said.

She said her malady resembles "a severe case of dishpan hands."

MRS. TORZA, 21, used to work in the computer department of the Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., but transfered to the Old Saybrook branch near her home soon after getting married in November.

Dr. Eric Thomas, her dermatologist, said Wednesday he is still testing Mrs. Torza but it is possible she has "contact dermatitis."

If Mrs. Torza is allergic, Thomas said, it could result from dye in paper money or chemicals used to treat the paper. It also could result from metals in coins, he said.

"WE DON'T KNOW if it definitely is money," Mrs. Torza said. "It could be a condition I got, and money might be aggravating it."

She said she still has the rash on her hands, but it has subsided significantly during a two-week leave she has taken. She's due to return Monday.

"If the rash persists and I can't work with the money, I'm going to have to look for another job," she said, "hopefully in the bank because I have some time with them.'

WHEN THE RASH was at its worst, she said, "I couldn't grip things . . . Even brushing my teeth, I couldn't really hold the toothbrush."

She said she suspected an allergy to money because she never suffered the problem before and the rash broke out shortly after she began work as a teller.

She tried covering the first marks with bandages, then used cotton gloves. They were hot and hindered her money-counting. So she cut the fingertips off. The gloves "helped somewhat. but they didn't seem to help well enough."

Mrs. Torza said one benefit of her condition has been not having to wash dishes, but now, she added, "My husband's tired of doing them."

Force Can't End Strike

Miners Put Carter's Prestige on the Line

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

"You can't mine coal with bayonets," said John L. Lewis, who helped establish the nucleus of today's powerful unions and who served as the dedicated and defiant head of the United Mine Workers.

Of this, President Carter is aware. He knows that presidential power is limited. It cannot force miners back to the job; were it able to do so, it could not make them dig coal nor maintain equipment.

WELL, PERHAPS it could, but the devastating cost to the country, and the political cost to an administration that stresses human rights, would seem to make it tragic and foolhardy.

The miners, after all, are balking less about money than about the loss of health insurance benefits. Prone to black lung disease and other scourges, they see insurance as a right, not a benefit.

In fact, much of America shares this view. Benefits are hardly on the fringe today; they are at the center, and they are considered essential not only to health but to economic survival as well.

EXPERIENCE HAS taught workers this. Forced by inflation to watch their dollars shrink, they have learned to take much of their pay in services, and let the company worry about inflated prices.

In 1959, fringe benefits — including vacations, retirement programs, insurance, unemployment programs and the like — accounted for just 14.6 percent of a production worker's total compensation.

By 1974, the percentage had risen to 23.1, and the trend since then has certainly brought the benefit figure to about one-quarter of a worker's total compensation.

HIGH ON THE list has been health insurance. In 1959, Morgan Guaranty found in a study, life insurance and health benefits accounted for just 3 percent of total compensation; by 1974 the percentage had doubled.

Why? Because of increasing health care costs, but that is not all. Employers can obtain volume discounts. And they can deduct the cost from their taxes as a business expense. Business likes that.

But perhaps of more significance is the realization by the typical worker, whoever he and she might be, that health insurance benefits, taken as pay, are tax-free. And so the trend.

WHETHER THIS trend is justified is one matter; that it exists is undeniable. It is undeniable also that the miners, in giving up some health benefits, are worried that they are going into reverse.

In that context it is understandable they feel cheated. Progress has never come easy in the coalfields; to foresake what had been pioneered, while others benefit from their pioneering, rankles.

In seek an agreement, threfore, the president is asking a lot of the miners, at least from their point of view. That is, if it is expected that they will foresake benefits already won.

IT WOULD TAKE a tremendous amount of force to get the miners back to the pits and tunnels, and then what would be accomplished? Little, perhaps, but ill will, low productivity and future problems.

CUNNIFF

The test is Jimmy Carter's. The prestige, the leadership, the future of his presidency are on the line, and he is challenged to use all its mightly resources more effectively than he has to date. And in a hurry.

All the resources, perhaps, but raw power. John L. Lewis indicated a weapon is useless in mining coal. And no better, it would seem, at improving a miner's sense of security about his health.

Miner Gets Backing

MADISON, W. Va. (AP) — Women have always worked hard in Appalachia. They have raised the kids, canned the corn and nursed the injured mining men. Now, in the ever leaner days of the coal strike, they are working to survive.

Edith Burgess, a veteran of nearly 30 years of strikes and labor strife, is still feeding her family steak and roasts, even though they have received no food stamps and her husband, Roy, has not had a paycheck since last December.

The Burgesses, who have reared four children, said they had $5,000 in the bank when the strike began.

Is Mrs. Burgess pushing her husband to return to work?

"No, indeed!" she said. "Some women may be pushing their husbands but I'm not one of them. I want him to get a good contract."

Utility Wants to Zap Electricity Thieves

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. has lost more than $1 million to electricity thieves in the past year and the huge utility says it intends to let customers know such banditry could result in death.

Warnings about the tampering of meters will be included soon in an edition of Progress, the PG&E publication that accompanies monthly billings.

BURT HAZEL, director of customer services, said the utility had no evidence of organized crime was involved in electricity theft in Central and Northern California.

He estimated 95 percent of the thefts involve residents, ranging "from the guy who thinks he's an electrician to one in need."

Meter readers have been instructed to be particularly alert for altered or replaced meters.

"A meter is like a watch," he said. "Eventually we'll pick up the evidence — when someone gets careless."

PG&E SAID IT had found 15,000 instances of tampering with the dials that record the number of kilowatt hours of electricity consumed, the basis for the customer's monthly bill.

Tampering can lead to the possibility of electrocution, the utility warned.

The utility also has its lawyers drafting proposed law requiring customers be held responsible for broken meter seals and interference of meters.

Newspaper Advertising Increases

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Television is losing part of its audience while the outlook for newspaper advertising is brightening, a New York researcher says.

HE WAS IN San Diego to speak to 500 representatives of advertising agencies and retailers.

Solich quoted figures prepared by the A.C. Nielsen rating firm indicating 1.1 million households dropped out of the national television audience from last March through November.

In contest, he said retail advertising in newspapers is growing.

A LOT OF the bright young people are coming into the newspaper advertising business now," Solich said Tuesday.

"It used to be that all of them would go to television for the glamour, but they are finding that TV isn't so glamorous anymore."

Land Bought

In a transaction reportedly valued in excess of $1 million, Telaris Telecommunications, Inc. has purchased a 41,498-square-foot facility and five acres from the Irvine Industrial Complex. They are at Main and Jamboree in Irvine.

Thursday's Closing Prices

NYSE COMPOSITE TRANSACTIONS

Quotations include trades on the New York, Midwest, Pacific, PBW, Boston, Detroit and Cincinnati stock exchanges and reported by the National Association of Securities Dealers and Instinet.

Airlines Cater To Diet Needs

By SYLVIA PORTER

What restaurant will prepare a lacto-ovo vegetable meal? Where can you get kosher filet of sole? Kosher curry? Who serves chicken chasseur? Where can you select from a 40-menu variation?

DID YOU GUESS A FAMOUS restaurant in Stockholm for the vegetarian meal? Wrong. You can request a lacto-ovo meal before you board Trans World Airlines.

A Delhi hideaway for the curry? No. Kosher curry is served on Air India and kosher filet of sole is available from American Airlines on request two weeks before your flight.

Chicken chasseur at an upper Eastside bistro in New York? Probably — but it's also available on special order from United Airlines as part of its Weight Watchers lunch.

Money's Worth

Deliberately unheralded, air carriers serve thousands of special meals annually to passengers whose religious requirements or diets dictate them.

YOU CAN GET SOUL FOOD with tobasco sauce on request from United; a special low-cholesterol menu if you travel American; a special bland meal if you travel TWA.

What's more, despite the medical restrictions that govern the preparation of many of the menus, airline food experts generally make them appealing.

TWA tallied passenger reaction to special-request diets served to 19,000 passengers last August and received only 102 complaints, reports Burt Kenyon, spokesman for the airline's food and beverage planning.

MOST POPULAR OF THE special meals is kosher food, accounting for nearly half the requests. United serves close to 50,000 kosher meals a year; TWA recently added roast turkey to its traditional kosher menu entree of brisket of beef. A favorite breakfast on TWA is kosher, consisting of cheese blintzes with cherry sauce or pancakes with blueberry sauce. American has four kosher menus for first class and coach that rotate every three months. El Al serves only kosher food.

Sky Chef, a subsidiary of Americn an Airlines, prepares meals for 33 other airlines. United has 19 kitchens, producing the bulk of its own meals. So does TWA.

SOME SPECIAL REQUESTS WON'T be approved. TWA refused a request for small meat balls — for a parakeet. Pan Am nixed a request from an economy-class passenger who said his physician insisted his diet include a lot of caviar. Pan Am recommended fish.

A key to special diets is advance notice. You can order most popular special meals by requesting them four hours in advance of flight time. Less popular meals can require 24 hours.

Passengers from the West Coast order more special diets in the low-calorie and vegetarian category than their Eastern counterparts, according to TWA.

While the airlines are under no legal obligation to serve special foods, they seldom fail to follow through on a reasonable request.

Internal Factors Aid Another Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a small and erratic advance today, struggling to extend its recent technical upswing despite some negative inflation news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 0.87 points to 750.00 after an advance of 8.15 points the last two sessions.

Gainers held a 7-4 lead over losers in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts have attributed the market's recent strength to technical forces after the sharp decline of January and February, when the Dow fell 89 points.

Computer Invasion

Attorney Warns of Threat to Public Privacy

By WILLIAM HODGE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

As computers get smaller and smaller — and more affordable to a vast amount of small businesses — consumer rights could suffer from potential computer errors, an attorney specializing in computer law said in San Juan Capistrano.

"We are talking about a whole new ball game," Richard Schwarzstein told a Capistrano Valley Exchange Club meeting. "Years ago a businessman would think of a small manual adding machine to help his bookkeeping.

"NOW THAT BUSINESSMAN is thinking of a lease/purchase program where he can afford his own computer."

And that increases the potential for invasion of the public's privacy.

"By digesting great amounts of information, they (computers) can watch you all along," the Newport Beach attorney said. "Computers are working their way into our lives completely.

"There is a possibility for abuse."

SCHWARZSTEIN SAID, however, the government is taking steps to protect the consumer.

"There are limits now about what the government can find out about you," he said, citing recent privacy legislation that affected computer records.

And he cited the Federal Fair Credit Billing Act as enabling consumers to examine their credit ratings through a written request.

BUT THE POTENTIAL problems of a computer-oriented society don't involve the consumer only.

Schwarzstein said many small businesses face problems growing out of dealing with a product of which they're not very knowledgeable.

"Despite the claims of computer manufacturers, the installation of a computer is a very trying process," he said. "Probably there are no two companies that are exactly alike.

"AND FREQUENTLY THE representation and fine print on the contract aren't exactly what you expected," he continued. "The courts are filled these days with cases that are showing greater sympathy for the computer users."

He cited an $11 million suit decided against IBM in favor of a Rhode Island corporation that purchased a computer system from the massive, multinational conglomerate.

"That kind of a case has caused great concern in the industry," he explained. "Buyers will apparently not sit back and be abused as they have done before."

AND THE FEDERAL government has also taken steps to regulate the nation's computer industry.

The case, which involves extremely complex testimony and exhibits, is expected to take years.

'Needs' Topic

Capo Valley Meet Planned

Human needs in the Capistrano Valley area is the topic of a community meeting sponsored Tuesday by the United Way of Orange County at 3:30 p.m. at Dana Hills High School.

Residents will be asked to join one of three discussion groups dealing with community needs of youth, adults and senior citizens.

A similar meeting is scheduled for Irvine, the Laguna area and Saddleback Valley, however dates and times for these have not been announced.

Volunteers are also needed to assist in conducting a population survey on area needs. Interested people may call 634-2252 or 770-2856.

United Way Project Needs Volunteers

Volunteers are being sought for a major social needs assessment study sponsored by the Orange County North-South United Way.

The project will benefit existing and future social service needs in four areas of the south county, including Irvine, Saddleback Valley, the Laguna Beach area and the Capistrano Valley.

VOLUNTEERS ARE needed to conduct the population survey, with two-man volunteer teams conducting 10 to 12 interviews in their areas.

Capistrano Valley committee chairman Ollie Harris said the survey approach has never before been attempted in the United States, but cannot be successful without the help of students, retirees, senior citizens and housewives to volunteer some time to the study.

The first forum for volunteers will be held Tuesday at Dana Hills High School for residents of Laguna Niguel, San Juan Capistrano, Dana Point, Capistrano Beach and San Clemente. The workshop will be held from 3:30 to 6 p.m.

THE IRVINE AREA forum will be held April 3 at several schools in that city. Volunteer workshops for Laguna and Saddleback areas have not been set up to date.

To volunteer your services or for more information, call Ronald Hukill at 770-2856 or 634-2252.

Saddleback Arts Complex Rites Set

Dedication ceremonies and a classical concert will herald the opening of Saddleback College's $3.7 million Fine Arts Complex on Sunday.

Tours of the art, music, speech and theater wings of the center will be conducted beginning at 6 p.m. in the fine arts courtyard.

Admission to the concert is free. However, reserved seat tickets are required and may be obtained in the fine arts box office.

MONTE LABONTE, director of the Fine Arts Division, said the complex is potentially "a center for the performing and visual arts not only in southern Orange County but also for the greater Orange County and Los Angeles area as well."

He said the uniqueness of the complex is what is unique about the fine arts division.

"There is an intermixing of the disciplines, where people get together and cross the disciplines in working as a total unit," he explained.

TICKETS FOR THE dedication activities may be obtained in the college box office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 5 to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

That Golden Voice

His name is Sterling Holloway, but you're more likely to remember his voice as Flower in 'Bambi,' as Winnie the Pooh, or as the stork in 'Dumbo'.

By DENNIS McLELLAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

At the recent Community and Americana Awards Night at Cypress College character actor Sterling Holloway was escorted to the stage by his son Rick to accept the award.

An outpouring of love in the form of a standing ovation greeted the 73-year-old whose familiar voice brought Winnie the Pooh and a menagerie of other cartoon characters to life.

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart and pacemaker," Holloway told the audience.

It was his first public appearance since a year-long hospital stay. It was also the first time he was able to wear a new velvet suit.

"You may come feel it later," he joked. "I'm so glad to be wearing it vertically."

Several weeks later a nurse greeted a visitor to the hilltop South Laguna home Holloway designed 14 years ago to get away from the bustle of Hollywood.

ALTHOUGH HE IS feeling stronger than ever, he tires easily and requires a nurse around the clock. And, while he plans to visit New York in May, it will be months before he is feeling up to par.

But the actor was in good spirits this afternoon as he sat in his living room reminiscing about his career, one which spans more than 50 years.

Stepping down into the living room — a spacious room with a hardwood floor and high wood-beamed ceiling—is like entering an art gallery. An avid collector, Holloway has filled the white walls with large colorful paintings by Lichtenstein, Stella, Appel and others.

While it was built in the early '60s, the one-bedroom split level house is still decades ahead of its time. It has, in fact, won numerous architectural design awards.

"I WANTED TO be high up, have space around me and have a view," said Holloway, seated on a large white sectional sofa, accented with a dozen red, yellow and blue throw pillows.

"I looked up and down the coast. But some friends of mine were down here and I liked the looks of it. The coastline is beautiful. It's like Italy a little bit."

Holloway's shock of brilliant orange hair is toned down with gray, but his eyes are clear and blue and his complexion pink. He looked comfortable wearing a cardigan sweater and moccasins. A pre-Columbian beaded necklace—one of many necklaces he owns — hung around his neck.

While his son slept in another room and the nurse read a paperback book at the kitchen table, Holloway talked.

He said he will visit New York where he has an apartment "just to be there. The doctor says I can go if I take the two nurses."

He described receiving his recent award as "very nice. I wondered why, but I appreciated it. It was kind of fun to be in front of an audience again and both nurses wanted to go, so we all went."

ONCE NEWS LEAKED out that the actor had been admitted to nearby South Coast Community Hospital after suffering chest pains, he was deluged with letters from fans.

Even Jimmy Carter called to wish him well. The president revealed that Amy is a big Holloway fan and has all of his records.

Holloway laughed. "I saw (cartoonist) Interlandi the other day and said, 'You lay off Carter; he's my friend.'"

Before his heart surgery Holloway was "doing commercials every now and then, but I don't do movies anymore."

One Way To Leave a Lover

Solo
By Cheryl Romo

Paul Simon may think there are 50 ways to leave your lover, but the only one I know about is to say goodbye. And it's painful.

This weekend I was kicking pillows around the house, writing letters I would never mail, waiting for a phone call that didn't come, and feeling utterly miserable. I even purchased a book entitled "How to Survive the Loss of a Love — 58 Things to do When There is Nothing to be Done" by Bloomfield, Colgrove and McWilliams and published by Leo Press, New York.

I read it twice and suffered through the stages of limbo, shock-denial, anger and finally went into recovery. But, lest you think it all sounds too easy, I must confess that the road to survival is not a straight, super highway. Rather it's a craggy old dirt road with a lot of potholes.

"How to Survive" was written by a psychiatrist, a psychologist and a poet. It's light reading, with pages sometimes filled with just a few lines of poetry: "I must conquer my loneliness alone. I must be happy with myself or I have nothing to offer." And when you're tempted to pick up the phone to try and rekindle a relationship that's become more destructive than constructive, there are more lines of poetry:

"She asked me if seeing you was a drain.
Seeing you is not a drain.
It's a sewer."

As I was sulking around, growling at my kids, and playing the martyr — I began to realize and understand that losing is a part of life, just as winning is. It is a part of being alive and being human.

Once you are able to work through your anger and forgive the other person and yourself — you're finally free to begin inviting other people back into your life. Then it's time to get out there and start doing something and get-

All Sewn Up

Take the traditional quilt-making skills of the Amish women in Pennsylvania and the new designs of a young artisan and put them together and what do you have? A collection of unusual quilts, shown here by Theresa Pawley, that someday may be heirlooms. The quilts, on display at Geraniums and Sunshine in Newport Beach, represent the best of the old and new. The artist, Bryce Hamilton, designs and cuts the fabric then sends the material for assembly to the Amish women. Although Hamilton, now a resident of Minneapolis, uses other seamstresses throughout the country, his primary work force is in Pennsylvania.

Music Man

A series of music enrichment programs is helping fourth-grade students of Turtle Rock and Bonita Canyon elementary schools and third grade students at Harbor Day School become appreciative listeners to various types of music.

The program is coordinated by the Irvine Philharmonic Committee, which is part of the Orange County Philharmonic Society. Mrs. Eldon Hauck is chairman.

Upcoming programs include an introduction to folk music on Monday, March 13; a vocal demonstration by Juilliard graduate Lenore Silby on Friday, March 31; and a discussion and demonstration by the University High School band led by director Larry Granger on Friday, April 14.

The programs are designed to stimulate interest in existing music programs in the schools and prepare pupils for the Youth Concert Program offered them in the fifth and sixth grades. More information is available from Mrs. Frank Siler, 551-6373.

Teen Sad About Parental Praise

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read a lot lately about how ungrateful kids are. I wonder if some of the parents who read your column will see themselves in a little different light after they have answered these questions:

When was the last time you spent an hour with your child — doing what he wanted?

When was the last time you said to your child, "You did a great job, I'm proud of you!"

When did you last say, "Let's talk about anything you want to talk about. I'll listen and answer all your questions if I can."

When was the last time you said, "I'm sorry," or "I made a mistake."

How long has it been since you said, "I trust you. I know you have good judgment and will do the right thing."

I'm a 16-year-old girl and I've never heard one of these statements from either of my parents. I know more about raising kids right now than they do. I'll bet there are plenty of teenagers out there who are in the same boat. — NOT SOUR, JUST SAD

DEAR SAD: Thanks for writing. I'll bet this is one column that will be handed to lots of parents who have been pointing out certain letters for their teenagers to read. So be it. We can all learn from each other.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A very close friend of mine is involved with a man she is counting on to marry her. The problem is he has informed me that he has no such intentions. The truth of the matter is, he plans to break off with her gradually and then have a relationship with me.

I have never led this man to believe I have any interest in him whatsoever, so help me. Now I need to know if I should tell my friend what he has in mind. If so, how? — F.S. IN W.I.

DEAR F.S.: Cross talk is always dangerous — especially when dealing with lovers. If the man is planning to drop your friend, she'll get the message soon enough. Stay out of it.

CONFIDENTIAL to Depressed: Buy the paperback book Shyness, by Phil Zimbardo. It will do you a world of good.

ting involved with the world. Communicate with others by asking them questions that require more than just a "yes" or a "no" answer.

Saturday night I watched an old Humphrey Bogart movie and went to sleep still feeling sorry for myself. By Sunday morning the rain had stopped and my dog and I went out on the beach to watch a spectacular sunrise. We went running and I worked off a lot of excess energy (physical exercise is an important part of emotional recovery).

Then an old friend called and asked me to go flying and I realized that even though I have neglected my friends for a while — they're still there. Up in the air, we flew high above the menacing gray storm clouds and rose to view the majestic white cumulus. I sat in awe of the incredible beauty. There was still hope, after all.

Later, I drove along the coast to Laguna and stopped in to see a friend I hadn't see in months. I found him radiant and excited. He confided he had finally, after seven years of searching for the right woman, fallen in love. My happiness for him was such that I couldn't help smiling and feeling alive again.

Monday morning the sun came up clean and fresh. Once again I was moving in time with the universe. I had passed through all the stages of accepting the goodbye and survived. Someday I've just got to ask Paul Simon about those 49 other ways . . .

Study Sees Security Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government task force says the Social Security law treats men and women differently and favors families where the husband works and the wife keeps house.

The task force, headed by Social Security Commissioner Don I. Wortman, reached no conclusions on how to solve these problems and called for further study.

The retirement system entitles a spouse to an extra 50 percent of her husband's benefit, whether she worked or not.

But if the woman worked and paid Social Security taxes, her benefits frequently are less than the 50 percent spouse's benefit she would get anyway.

The task force also said, "Many consider it unfair that benefits can be lower for two-earner couples than for one-earner couples with the same average lifetime earnings."

For instance, a working couple who retired and has earned $6,000 each would be entitled to benefits of $3,173 apiece, or $3,346 together.

But a couple with only one wage earner who made $12,000 would get benefits of $7,640 a year.

Meanwhile, the Social Security Administration is proposing regulations to determine how much a person's age, education and work experience should count in deciding whether he qualifies for disability benefits.

The administration said 75 percent of the disability cases are resolved solely on the basis of medical considerations.

Housewives Saw Winter First

Erma Bombeck

With all due respect to the long-range weather forecasters, I'm always interested in what the naturalists predict in regard to the weather.

This year, they all hit it right on the button. They knew back in early December that this winter was going to be wet and rotten because: The elk and deer came down early from the high country.

Mud-dauber wasps were building their nests higher.

Skunk cabbages grew taller.

Woolly bear caterpillars had heavy coats.

Bears were fat.

Squirrels had ravenous appetites in the fall.

They should have asked housewives. They also have an inside track on how the winter is going to compare with previous ones. I knew it was going to be a bruiser because:

This is the year eight pairs of boots in our house didn't match one pair of feet. This phenomenon occurs only once in every 72 years and can only mean that blizzard conditions are on the way.

This is the year we cleaned out the freezer — leaving only three snowballs from 1971, five packages of squash which everyone hates, and 12 packages of chicken innards to be thrown away on garbage day . . . someday.

This is the year we got the puppy, rationalizing that we could watch him when he started to twirl around in a circle, grab him and put him outside.

This is the year we didn't buy firewood, because we figured it was too expensive and besides, we rarely used the fireplace as it smoked up the bricks.

This is the year we put the sleds up in the attic — on the far side where there is no floor and you have to crawl through the insulation and put the rope in your teeth and slide it carefully along the beam before you fall through the floor.

Yep, no doubt about it. When our 72-year-old milkman got new teeth and began to look more like Robert Redford every day, we knew it was going to be a cold winter.

Karen M. Kirish says:
"For the past few years, my skin was increasingly becoming worse. I was breaking out more, and the scars getting deeper and deeper. I tried soaps, facials, pills and diet to try and halt this horrible deformation of my face, all to no success.
I was becoming noticeably self conscious about my appearance, trying to cover it up with make-up and keeping my hair close to my face.
My family and friends watched me withdraw more and more from my usual personality. Talking to me about it only brought tears and a feeling of defeat.
On the recommendation of a friend, I decided that nothing could be done to worsen my skin, so I consented to the treatments. I was able to see some results after the first treatment, and I began to think that I could get rid of this "condition". The treatments were easy and quite painless, in fact they are pleasant.
I was able to look in the mirror again and in fact was proud of my progress. I've been faithfully working now to control my "new face", which is smooth, soft and virtually blemish free. I'm outgoing again and I can talk about it now without getting upset."

(From Page C1)

His most famous must be for Puppy Chow—"I've made eight or 10 of them with more to do." He also does one for Shout—"You want to get the dirt out, Shout it out."

The Georgia-born actor said his son, who deals in investments and handles his father's business affairs, does not have any acting ambitions.

"I'm the only actor in the family, except for way back; there was an ancestor, Lady Boothby. Since then there have been no other actors.

"BUT I STARTED young enough to make up for everything. All my life this is what I wanted to do. When I was very young I wrote plays and had the other kids play in them."

When he enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York a questionnaire asked how long he had contemplated a career on the stage. He said 16 years. "But I was only 15."

Fellow members of his class at the Academy included Spencer Tracy and Pat O'Brien. He was asked if these soon-to-be world-famous stars displayed any signs of greatness.

He paused, then said, "Yeah. But I probably was too busy thinking of myself to think of other people."

While he went to the Academy to learn to be an actor, he said, he always was given comedy parts. One day he complained.

"You go home and take a look in the mirror," was the reply. That sentiment was to be echoed.

HOLLOWAY APPEARED IN numerous plays and revues in New York. In one revue he introduced the Rodgers and Hart song "Manhattan." "Then I came to the movies and didn't do one musical, so that's the way the business is."

He was invited out to Hollywood to make a screen test for Paramount in the early '30s. When he didn't hear from the studio for a month after the test, he went in to see the studio head.

The verdict? "You might as well forget pictures—your face is too repulsive." Ironically, as he was leaving the studio, "I met the four Marx Brothers coming in."

Not long afterward his phone rang. It was Walt Disney, who said he didn't care what Holloway looked like. "He said, 'You've got a crazy voice. I'd like to use you.' So I did six or seven Disney things."

Some of those Disney things include Flower the skunk in "Bambi," the Cheshire Cat in "Alice in Wonderland," Ol' Doc Stork in "Dumbo," the snake in "The Jungle Book," (for which he earned a gold record), and, of course, "Winnie the Pooh."

HOLLOWAY'S SON RICK, who was now seated on the sofa, mentioned that his father has never said which character he felt the most affinity for.

"Probably the skunk," said Holloway. "I really don't know. I never thought about it." Because he enjoys eating, he noted, "I'm beginning to look like Winnie the Pooh."

Has he ever defined what makes his voice so unique? "I wouldn't quite know what to say about it," he said. "It seems normal to me."

Despite the low esteem of his face at Paramount, Holloway did, of course, go on to act in a string of movies, something he never particularly enjoyed, he said.

But because it was fun to make, one of his favorites is "Remember the Night" with Fred MacMurray and Barbara Stanwyck.

"I was a hired boy on the farm and madly in love with Barbara Stanwyck," he recalled. "I used to follow her around all the time, which was easy to do."

Holloway reached over to pick up a book. It was "The Will Rogers Scrapbook," in which he is interviewed. "Have you seen this?

"I NEVER SIGNED any movie contracts except to do some with Will Rogers. He liked to call me the boy. He'd quit at 4:30 and say, 'Put the camera on the boy, I'm going home.'"

Holloway added that even while making a movie Rogers had to produce his newspaper column. "He would sit on a running board and write his squib and then he'd come over and read it to us."

Once, when he was in his hometown, Cedartown, to dedicate a new auditorium, a reporter asked Holloway who his favorite actress was to work with.

He said it was Joan Crawford. The reporter sent a clipping of the story to Miss Crawford, who promptly got hold of Holloway's address.

"She wrote me the nicest letter just before she died," he said. "I really treasure that letter. Most people wouldn't have bothered."

Rick, noting the flood of letters his father recieved at the hospital, spoke up:

"This is his big thing. He says, 'Why are these people writing? Why would they bother to write me?' I think that my dad has failed to realize what joy and pleasure he has given people over the years and this is just an outpouring from them."

Kelly Kicks Again

'American in Pasadena' Due Monday

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The trouble with being a dancer, says Gene Kelly, is that before you reach your peak the machinery starts wearing out.

"The dances get tougher after you're 21," he said. "It's like sex. You're a living paradox. Your instrument is your anatomy and as you age it starts going down hill. You regret as you learn your trade you don't have the tools to accomplish it."

Still, at age 65, with his black hair turning to gray, Kelly is trim and lithe. He can still make an attempt at performing the athletic dances that made him famous on Broadway in the 1930s and in dozens of screen musicals since 1942.

"AN AMERICAN in Paris" in 1951 was one of the most infectious musicals ever, winning five Academy Awards, including best picture, and a special Oscar to Kelly for her "brilliant achievements" in film choreography. His 20-minute dance sequence with Leslie Caron to the George Gershwin suite that gave the picture its name was a movie milestone.

Reminiscent of that picture, he stars in "Gene Kelly. . .An American in Pasadena," to be seen on CBS, Channel 2, Monday at 10 p.m. In his usual low-keyed manner Kelly makes no extravagant claims for his latest special. "It's nothing earthshaking," he said, "but it's a good, old-fashioned entertainmont show."

Joining him will be former leading ladies from movies and TV, Lucille Ball, Cyd Charisse, Gloria De Haven, Betty Garrett, Kathryn Grayson, Janet Leigh, Liza Minnelli and Cindy Williams, plus his old screen partner and long-time pal, Frank Sinatra.

AFTER THE DECLINE of the big film musical, Kelly turned to directing, including "Flower Drum Song" on Broadway and such films as "Invitation to the Dance," "Gigot," "Hello, Dolly!" and his segment with Fred Astaire in "That's Entertainment, Part II."

STARS IN SPECIAL
Gene Kelly

A widower with a grown daughter and two teen-aged children, Kelly said, "I'm very choosy about directing because of the time involved. Last year I was offered a charming story, but it had to be done in Austria. Last year there was a New York play, but what if I got stuck in a hit? I can't leave the children.

"I've been offered many things on television to direct, but turned them down. It's dawn to dark, with no home life. Right after my wife's death I was asked to direct 'Cabaret,' but they wanted me to do it in Hamburg."

HE SAID HE was sorry to turn that one down because it would have been a reunion with Liza Minnelli. He sang the title song of his first movie, "For Me and My Gal," with her mother, Judy Garland, and again with Miss Minnelli on a TV special when she was only 13. The director he recommended, Bob Fosse, won an Academy Award.

His first television series was "Going My Way," in which he played Father O'Malley, adapted from the movie that brought an Oscar to Bing Crosby. "I took it because my wife was pregnant and it meant I would stay home for a year," he said.

"But the network was afraid of offending the Catholic Church. They were afraid of doing a piece on abortion even after a priest approved the script. They wouldn't let a priest do any hard-hitting stories. The hardest thing you could do was to have him teach a young hoodlum basketball."

HE ALSO WAS the MC of "The Funny Side," where he worked with Cindy Williams.

"Those were my two experiences with TV series and both were pleasant," he said. "I've been approached to do another series. The trouble with TV is you don't know you're in show business. You go to work every morning and come home every night. It's like being a banker."

ASKED TO COMPARE himself and Astaire as dancers, he replied, "Fred was a product of the '20s. And he had the same partner in most of his pictures, Ginger Rogers.

"His was a high class ballroom style. There were many good ballroom dancers but what they didn't have was Astaire's ability to act. Astaire and Rogers brought this unique quality to the screen. He was a thinking dancer. You can't have longevity if you have to depend on a choreographer."

Kelly said, "My style is based on a combination of balletic training and sports. It was very strong and athletic. Fred's was intimate and contained. He wore a tux. I wore blue jeans and loafers.

"I HAD TO have a wide open space and pay a lot of attention to the camera because it had to stay away from me. That's why a lot of my dances were outdoors."

'Tonight' Host

George Carlin brings his offbeat humor to the Tonight Show where he'll fill in for Johnny Carson tonight and Friday at 11:30 on NBC, Channel 4.

Ed Asner Honored As 'Man of Year'

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television star Edward Asner was named "Man of the Year" during the 18th annual International Broadcasting Awards.

Asner, star of the CBS-TV series "Lou Grant" was introduced for the honor by Mary Tyler Moore, whose show provided the start of his own series.

ASNER

Miss Moore introduced a brief excerpt from the series by saying, "You have seen many commercials here tonight. Now here is one for one the finest men I know. He's been 'Man of the Year' in my life for many years.'

THE AWARD TO Asner was presented by the Hollywood Radio and Television Society during ceremonies at the Century Plaza Hotel, honoring the best television and radio commercials from around the world.

Asner said he was touched by Miss Moore's introduction and kidded that he was going to reprise his acceptance speech from the Golden Globe ceremony. Asner's lengthy acceptance speech was cut from the televised Golden Globe awards ceremony.

WITH REFERENCE to his show's ratings, he said, "I do intend to leave this podium until CBS picks up the show." "The Lou Grant Show" started slow in ratings, but has been climbing in the past several months.

Television host Peter Marshall was the emcee during the ceremonies, attended by about 1,000 advertising and broadcasting executives and their guests.

'Weakness' Not Fatal

Intermission
Tom Titus

It is ironic that playwright George Kelly, who turned his satirical sword on community theater in his 1922 comedy "The Torchbearers," should be treated so charitably by a community theater group in a production of his last, and probably least impressive, work.

"The Fatal Weakness" is virtually self descriptive, such are its shortcomings in plotting, dialogue and characterization. Yet the Saddleback Valley Communlty Theater has attacked this soggy, maudlin soap opera script with something approaching religious zeal.

HYDE

Director Ben Jutzi and his dedicated cast have taken Kelly's 30-year-old "trauma drama" about indiscretions among the idle rich and given it their utmost endeaveor in their attempt to breathe new life into lackluster prose. That they quite nearly succeed is a ringing tribute to this young Mission Viejo-based theater group.

MOST NOTABLE IN THIS regard is Jean Hyde, who delivers a beautiful performance in an emotionally demanding role of a middle-aged woman who, on learning her husband is unfaithful, pursues the "case" relentlessly to learn all she can about her rival. Even in the final scene, when Kelly's potboiler runs over, Miss Hyde displays enormous strength and skill.

Balancing Miss Hyde's performance with a touch of humorous dexterity is Joan Sidell as her friend and confidante, who engineers an elaborate bit of espionage. Mary Lou Humphrey enacts the unhappily married daughter with a disturbing air of rigid superiority, reminiscent of the girl Patrick nearly weds in "Mame."

"THE FATAL WEAKNESS"
A drama by George Kelly, directed by Ben Jutzi, technical director and set design by Jim Kuehnert, production coordinator Ellis Estes, presented by the Saddleback Valley Community Theater with closing performances Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the little theater of Mission Viejo High School. Reservations 586-8342.

THE CAST

|---|---|
| Mrs. Paul Espenshade | Jean Hyde |
| Mabel Wentz | Joan Sidell |
| Penny | Mary Lou Humphrey |
| Vernon Hassett | Michael Bielitz |
| Paul Espenshade | John Childress |
| Anna | Kay Oetting |

John Childress, in his stage debut, is effective, if a bit hesitant in his delivery, as the straying spouse of Miss Hyde. Kay Oetting completes the cast as the family maid.

THE "FATAL WEAKNESS" of Kelly's play, one that even a strong Saddleback cast cannot overcome — as it does the tiresome, expository first act and the limited dimension of the characters — is the playwright's narrowness of scope. There are many fine plays dealing with matters of the heart on a minor scale ("Middle of the Night," "Dear Friends"), but "The Fatal Weakness" is not among them.

Credit, however, to Jutzi and his company for achieving the utmost from a quite unworkable play. Musical interludes during the climactic scenes are well chosen, and the mood of the production is sustained impressively.

"The Fatal Weakness" will close out its two-weekend run with performances Friday and Saturday at 8 and Sunday at 2:30 in the Mission Viejo High School little theater.

CALLBOARD — The Saddleback Valley Community Theater has announced auditions for its next production, the British comedy "The Busy Body," to be directed by Michael Beilitz . . . tryouts will be held Sunday, March 19 and Monday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of the El Dorado Bank, 25255 Cabot Road, Laguna Hills, for a cast of four men and four women in various age ranges . . . the show opens May 12.

Dreyfuss Honored By Harvard 'Pot'

DREYFUSS

Hasty Pudding is a Harvard undergraduate organization that claims to be the oldest dramatic organization in the United States and the third oldest in the world. Harvard men have played men and women in the shows since 1844.

Breast Cancer Still a Major Killer

AP Wirephoto

PUSHING EARLY DETECTION OF CANCER
Nurse Connie Todd Shows Signs, Stickers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Despite medical advances, more than 90,000 American women will learn they have breast cancer this year and experts fear the deaths will climb.

"This is partly because we live in a sea of carcinogens," said Dr. Arthur Holleb, senior vice president of the American Cancer Society, who attended a breast cancer conference sponsored here by the American College of Radiology.

HOLLEB SAID Wednesday that one out of every 14 women born in the United States this year will be a victim of the disease. And studies show the mortality rate hasn't changed in 40 years, despite advances in diagnosis.

If the statistical outlook is bleak, no less disconcerting is the cloud of controversy that shrouds the field.

Trained medical professionals disagree about treatment and technique, about probable causes and possible cures. Each side charges the other lacks statistical evidence to back their position.

IN CONFERENCE PANEL discussions, doctors all agreed on the portance of regular self-examination which they say leads to early discovery of lumps or other symptoms.

Of particular interest here was the controversial mammogram — the X-ray breast examination which became a medical hot potato after recent attacks.

Critics, including Dr. John Bailar of the National Cancer Institute, charge that the doses of radiation in the test pose a significant threat of causing cancer. Bailar said in a telephone interview there is no statistical proof that screening is of any benefit for women under 50.

In a speech Wednesday, Holleb answered the charges, saying the radiation doses have been greatly reduced in the recent years. He admitted all the statistical evidence isn't in, but said the known benefits outweigh what he said were unproved risks.

"The presumptive risks, if they do exist, should not nullify the life-saving potential of low dose mammography," he said in the speech. "One must also ask — what is the risk of not using mammography when it offers the first real possibility of reducing the death rate of breast cancer?"

Rent Curb Plan Nixed

COTATI (AP) — Voters in this Northern California town have rejected a measure that would have established the state's first constitutional rent control ordinance.

Unofficial results Wednesday showed voters turned down, by a 501-415 margin, a measure which would have rolled back rents to 1977 levels and put the power to grant rent increases in the hands of a five-member rent control board.

Huntington Wins Property Tax Battle

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The City of Huntington Beach has won a lengthy property tax battle at the appellate court level and most residents stand to be the winners on a couple of points.

A decision by the 4th District Court of Appeals Tuesday means that taxpayers won't have to come up with $900,000 in the event the city lost the property transfer tax case.

Secondly, the ruling apparently paves the way for an additional property tax reduction which City Council members promised at budget time last year.

But attorney Christian Van Deusen, who filed the suit in behalf of Orin Berge Jr. and others in 1975, said today he will seek a rehearing. He also plans to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

He contends that several constitutional issues weren't adequately presented.

The appeals court supported the city's contention that the controversial tax imposed in 1974 was not a property tax but "an exercise or privilege of transferring real property."

The city in 1974 put a one-half of one percent tax on all real estate transactions.

There were approximately 10,000 transactions before the measure was overturned overwhelmingly by voters in 1975.

Van Deusen and Berge are seeking refunds of $900,000 for those who were required to pay the tax.

A superior court judge last summer supported Van Deusen's contentions that the levy constituted a form of property tax and therefore was in violation of property tax limits set by the city charter.

The city successfully appealed the opinion.

Last year at property tax setting time, city officials put the equivalent of a three-cent tax reduction into a special fund in case the city lost the suit.

At that time, a pledge was made to cut property taxes another three cents if the city prevailed in the court action.

Mayor Pro Tem Ron Shenkman said today he will recommend that the tax cut be implemented at this year's budget hearings.

However, he said that the tax cut may hinge on the fate of the Jarvis tax-cutting initiative.

City Attorney Don Bonfa was jubilant.

Six Held On Sex Charges

One man and five women were jailed Wednesday on prostitution charges after police alleged the suspects used a Costa Mesa dating service to cover a call girl ring.

Police assert that two Huntington Beach policewomen infiltrated the operation by posing as call girls.

The arrests came at a Laguna Hills hotel where vice officers allege the five women and man were offered $1,800 for "convention services."

Orange County Sheriff's officers said the arrests were made possible through the combined efforts of Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and Garden Grove police.

Vice officers said more than 14 male patrons had gathered at the Laguna Hills hotel to purchase the services allegedly to be provided out of Kats Enterprises of 230 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Sam Charles Wright, 32, of 213 17th St. and Kathleen Eileen Hill, 22, of 17402 Waal Circle, both of Huntington Beach, were arrested on charges of pimping.

Investigators alleged that Wright and Miss Hill were the couple who handled negotiations between the group of male clients and the call girls assigned to meet them at the Laguna Hills hotel.

Officers said the arrests were made at the moment money exchanged hands in the hotel room.

Also jailed on prostitution charges were Kathryn Jean Huberty, 24, Catherine Sue Ferguson, 19, Carla Meredith, 28, and Sandra Baker, 26, all of Huntington Beach.

Investigators said the method of selling sex allegedly used by the defendants was via what has become known to vice investigators as "the convention approach."

LIGHTS ON— A joyous Judy Neal grabs Roger Krause after being rescued from an elevator in San Diego after the city's blackout. Krause and Dennis Detjen (right) pried the elevator open with crowbars.

Jackie Dark

Power Cut in Performance

SAN DIEGO (AP) — It would take more than a power outage to faze an old pro like Jackie Gleason — even if the blackout was the worst in the San Diego area in 20 years. (Related story, A5)

"I was trimming my mustache in the dark and when the lights went on, one of my eyebrows was missing," said Gleason.

His appearance in "The Sly Fox" is his first on stage since 1959, when he co-starred with Walter Pidgeon in the musical comedy, "Take Me Along."

GLEASON SAID WEDNESDAY THE week and a half that he's been in San Diego has been curious, at the very least.

"There have been continuous rains, winds of hurricane force, a guy running down the aisle who interrupted the show, and a blackout," Gleason said.

THERE'S NOT MUCH EVEN Gleason can do about rain and wind and a blackout. But when a man interrupted the show by running to the stage, Gleason quipped: "How do you like that? I come all the way to San Diego, and Norton is here in the audience!"

The actor was referring to the character played by Art Carney, his sidekick in their long-running television series, "The Honeymooners."

Gunman Escapes

Costa Mesa Hotel Guest Murdered

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A South Coast Plaza hotel guest was shot and killed early today after he refused the commands of an unidentified gunman to join the gunman and two hostages on an elevator ride from the lobby of the Costa Mesa Hotel, police said.

The name of the victim of the 2:46 a.m. shooting is being withheld pending notification of family members. Police would only say that the dead man was from out of state.

The gunman fled immediately after the shooting and is still being sought by police.

A second male guest and a hotel employee who were being held hostage by the gunman managed to escape by closing the doors of the elevator as the gunman fired several times at his victim.

According to Costa Mesa Polict Lt. George Lorton, the fatal incident began in the ground floor kitchen area of the hotel, 666 Anton Blvd.

SOUGHT FOR MURDER
Police Sketch of Gunman

The gunman approached the room service employee and forced him to follow him into the lobby of the hotel where the two guests were seated.

Lt. Lorton said police are uncertain as to the gunman's motive, but believe a robbery may have been planned.

The gunman ordered the two guests to get into the elevator, but the victim refused and began to walk away. Three to five shots were fired from a small caliber handgun, with at least one bullet striking the hotel guest, police said.

The hotel employee and second guest were in the elevator at the time.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy General Hospital in Santa Ana.

Descriptions from the uninjured guest and the hotel employee have led to a composite drawing of a suspect described as a white male in his early 20s with blond to light brown hair and brown eyes. The suspect is approximately five feet eight inches tall and weighs between 135 and 150 pounds, according to witnesses.

Do Efforts Bore Her?

Wily Hippo Foils Plan

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"She came out on the wrong side of the pond (a trap awaits on the other side) and slipped back into the water," explained Jane Culjis, Lion Country Safari's marketing director, in recounting the latest overnight failure to capture Bubbles, the wild animal park's runaway hippo.

"I guess she wasn't hungry and was bored by the situation."

A bored hippopotamus has an imposing yawn.

Less imposing are the yawns of exhausted Lion Country rangers who have now spent 17 night-long vigils waiting for Bubbles to give herself up.

Their latest ruse to get her, a pole, net and pulley affair meant to snare Bubbles in netting so she can be tranquilized, still awaits testing.

Nobody knows if it will work. It's the first time the rangers have ever had to catch a hippo in the wild — the wild being a small pond off Laguna Canyon Road near Laguna Beach, several miles from Lion Country.

Today Lion Country officials seriously considered accepting the offer of a man who claims to be the nephew of Frank Buck, the legendary lion tamer. Only, Dr. Alan C. Buck purports to be a hippo tamer who has caught 100 such beasts in his day.

Said Mrs. Culjis, "It's absolutely phenomenal, the number of people who claim to do nothing but capture hippopotamuses for a living. And they're all right in the area."

She said at least 35 people claim the profession.

"There can't be that many professional hippo catchers in Southern California," Mrs. Culjis said. "There can't be."

SHE'LL NEVER STRAY AGAIN

Among hundreds of suggestions for capturing Bubbles, Lion Country Safari's wayfaring hippopotamus, was this latest one today:

Fill her pond with plaster of Paris, a caller advised Let it set. Then, when dry, just pull out the mold and you've got Bubbles, suitable for mounting.

Heart Attack Kills HB Jogger, 57

Mathew J. McGrath, 57, collapsed and died from an apparent heart attack while jogging Wednesday afternoon in Huntington Beach's Central Park.

He was pronounced dead upon arrival at Huntington Intercommunity Hospital after being found by park passersby.

A coroner's spokesman reported that Mr. McGrath's doctor said the death was due to a heart attack.

He was a longtime resident of Huntington Beach and was employed by the U.S. Postal Service in Long Beach.

He is survived by his widow, Jean, and two sons, two daughters and eight grandchildren.

Services will be private.

Inflation Rate Top Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, G. William Miller, took up today where former chairman Arthur F. Burns left off, expressing deep concern about the nation's inflation rate.

"One of the great disappointments of the past year has been the lack of progress in reducing the pace of inflation," Miller told the House Banking Committee a day after he was sworn in as the nation's chief central banker.

Huntington Case

Therapy Violation Charge Dismissed

Charges of illegally practicing psychology without a license against a Huntington Beach man were dropped Tuesday in West Orange County Judicial District.

James K. McCann, a UC Extension business seminar director, was charged last October with four counts of violating the State Business and Professions Code in his now-defunct Huntington Beach hypnosis center, 17522 Beach Blvd. He was not arrested.

Deputy District Attorney Mike Nunn asked the charges against McCann be dropped because the prosecutor received "assurances" from the accused hypnotist that the alleged violations would not recur.

McCann closed his hypnosis practice late last October. He declined to comment on the dismissal of charges by Municipal Judge Kenneth Smith.

Nunn said a female undercover agent from the State Medical Quality Assurance Board received "hypnosis therapy" from McCann during four October visits to the hypnotist's office.

Hypnosis therapy can only be used by a licensed hypnotherapist or in the presence of a physician, according to the State Business and Professions Code.

McCann was granted a business license last year by the Huntington Beach City Council to practice hypnosis.

But state officials charged that he went beyond practicing simple hypnosis as permitted by the city.

"Usually, all we try to do in these cases is to get the violator to stop the practice," Nunn said.

DAVE LEARNS ABOUT CRIME

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dave Lucchesi spent the morning talking with Sheriff Duane Lowe about crime, getting information he planned to use in his campaign for election to the state Assembly.

When he returned home Wednesday, he discovered his house had been broken into and his bedroom ransacked.

Missing was about $500, a $200 watch and up to a $1,000 worth of other jewelry.

Two Trapped In Sub 300 Feet Down

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP) — A two-man submarine engaged in North Sea oil operations was snagged in a wire and trapped on the seabed nearly 300 feet down today, operators said.

The P. and O. Steam Navigation Company, which is operating the vessel for the American Conoco oil concern, said it was trapped soon after mid-day.

"The two men aboard have enough oxygen and food to last eight days," a company spokesman said.

Six Railroad Cars Derailed

ROSEVILLE (AP) — Six railroad cars, including one carrying 30,000 gallons of high-proof alcohol, have gone off the Southern Pacific tracks in this suburb of Sacramento, but there are no injuries.

SP spokesman Bob Cedarholm said it happened Wednesday as yard trainmen were putting together a 70- to 80-car train for San Francisco.

He said some of the grain alcohol leaked from the dome of the tank car, which tipped over on its side. Firemen sprayed it with foam and there was no fire.

Ochoa Named To OC Panel

Huntington Beach Police Sgt. Luis Ochoa has been appointed by Orange County supervisors to the county Delinquency Prevention Commission.

Ochoa, 36, has been with the Huntington Beach Police Department for the past 12 years, the last three as supervisor of the department's juvenile bureau.

The commission was created by county supervisors in 1976 to coordinate efforts of private and governmental agencies working to prevent juvenile delinquency.

Off HB Pier

Shivering Four Saved at Sea

A merry quartet who took a stroll on the Huntington Beach Pier early today are back home in Fontana after learning how not to use the buddy system while swimming.

By the time the 2 a.m. episode concluded, the end of the pier was crowded with lifeguard jeeps, police cars and fire engines.

"These four guys walked out on the pier and one of them got a brilliant idea to throw one of the other brothers off the end," explained Lifeguard Lt. Bill Richardson.

"He was fully clothed and he couldn't keep himself up."

He said two of the three would-be rescuers on the pier then went to his aid, performing cannonball plunges into the sea, which was a dizzying distance below because of an extremely low tide.

"Then the fourth guy took off all his clothes and jumped in," said Lt. Richardson.

Bystanders ran to sound an alarm as the quartet thrashed around screaming for help, trying to hold each other up and hoping to survive what must have been a sobering episode.

Once on the scene, Lieutenant Richardson stripped to his trunks, gritted his teeth and took the plunge into the 60-degree sea, making it five in the water.

The tide was so low the first four hadn't been able to reach the bottom rungs of the ladder at pier's end, nor clumps of mussels above them on the slick pilings to which they clung.

One man finally grabbed the ladder somehow and rescued himself, Lt. Richardson said. A second man made it up the ladder with a boost. Firemen lowered a line to hoist up the other two.

Two were treated at Pacifica Hospital for shock and exposure and released, investigators said.

Police today were contemplating what charges, if any, will be filed against the quartet.

Valley Man Recovering In Stabbing

A Fountain Valley man stabbed in the chest and slashed across the back in a Huntington Beach oceanfront tavern fight Sunday remains hospitalized today but is reportedly out of danger.

Delbert Ray Calvin, 41, was listed in satisfactory condition at Pacifica Hospital when first admitted with multiple wounds.

Calvin and Jones were drinking at the Capri, 406 Pacific Coast Highway, and when an argument began, Calvin reportedly poked Jones in the buttocks with a buck knife.

Witnesses told police Jones wrestled the blade away and attacked his assailant, then fled several blocks to his apartment, where he was taken into custody.

County Sets Ambulance Call Rates

Residents of unincorporated Orange County communities in need of ambulance service can expect to pay at least $60 a call.

That is the base rate set by county supervisors for the 15 ambulance firms operating in unincorporated county areas.

Firms also are to charge $3 per mile of travel, $10 extra for calls between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. and $12.50 for each 15 minutes of waiting time.

In addition, they can collect $10 for use of oxygen, up to $20 for medical supplies used on a trip and $10 for emergency runs.

Mike Williams, county emergency medical services director, said according to new county ambulance regulations all firms in the unincoprorated area must charge the rates set by supervisors.

He said the rates are about the same as those already charged by the ambulance companies.

Rates will be reviewed again in six months by the county's Emergency Medical Care Committee, he said, and later will be subject to review and possible change annually.

Storm Slams North State

By The Associated Press

A storm drenched the San Francisco Bay area and sent water brimming over the banks of reservoirs in Northern California.

Rainfall totals for the 24-hour period ending at 4 a.m. showed Oakland had 3.40 inches, San Francisco Airport 2.01, downtown San Francisco 1.50, Ukiah 1.45, Red Bluff 1.22, Sacramento .74 of an inch and Marin Civic Center .72.

State Route 1 along the coast was blocked by slides and washouts between Hearst Castle and Carmel.

Teen Arrested In Huntington On Death Rap

A 16-year-old Long Beach youth was arrested at the Huntington Beach City Pier Wednesday in connection with the unsolved Jan. 15 death of a 47-year-old Hollywood man.

Los Angeles police officers from the Hollywood Division said the boy admitted being present when Ronald Wayne Waters died suddenly in his apartment.

Police Sgt. Paul Osteen said the death had homosexual overtones.

The youth, whose name was not released due to his age, is now lodged in Los Angeles County Juvenile Hall.

Osteen said the youth told a "far-out story" on details of Waters' death. Osteen declined to release all the details.

Determination of Waters' actual cause of death is will be released when a toxicology test is completed, according to Los Angeles County Coroner officials.

Pair Charged In Thievery

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Two men were arraigned in Johnson County District Court on charges of stealing periscopes from four Marine Corps tanks.

The two were charged with burglary and theft after they were arrested with a juvenile near a railroad siding in Olathe. Four M-48A3 tanks were parked there on a railroad car en route from Barstow, Calif., to Anniston, Ala.

Police said they spotted the trio at the siding Tuesday and found four periscopes and an empty metal box in a car driven by the men.

Signups Scheduled

Signups for the Ocean View Colt baseball league will be held March 18 at Ocean View High School gymnasium from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Shells Found At Bank

NEWBURY PARK (AP) — A looter who took 80 live .20-mm shell casings from the wreckage of an Air Force jet apparently abandoned them outside a bank early today after authorities warned the shells were dangerous.

Air Force Maj. Harry Childress said the shells were found outside a Security Pacific Bank branch in Newbury Park early today.

Childress issued the warning Wednesday that the 80 shells still had the powder and detonator caps in them although the bullet heads had been broken off in last week's fatal crash of an F-105G training fighter.

If they had exploded, said Childress, "It certainly would have been lethal to anyone close by. We're just glad to get them back."

He said Ventura County sheriff's deputies received an anonymous tip that the shells were at the bank.

Top Citizen In Cardiac Care Unit

Longtime west county community service and political worker Lucille Wolf, Westminster's 1977-78 Citizen of the Year, remained hospitalized today in the cardiac care unit at Westminster Community Hospital.

Spokesmen there said she remains in guarded condition for observation of heart problems for which she was recently treated.

During ballot-counting shortly before midnight Tuesday at Westminster City Hall, Mrs. Wolf, 73, collapsed while seated in the audience.

Friends noted that although she had been released from the hospital only a short time ago, for years she has been an avid spectator at every vote-counting session.

Police Seek Huntington Store Bandit

Huntington Beach police are still seeking a greasy-haired bandit who held up a shopping mall shoe store and made off with $200 Tuesday afternoon.

Armed with a .38 caliber handgun, the robber jumped a store employee at Regal Shoes shop, 7777 Edinger Ave. at 2:20 p.m.

The thug waited for his victim behind a wall of stacked shoe boxes. He ordered the shoe clerk to give him all the cash in the store register.

Ocean View Students Sing In HB Concert

Seventy-six trombones would be totally drowned out by the 1,000 music students from throughout Huntington Beach's Ocean View School District, who will perform a choral concert tonight.

The musical presentation will be at 7 p.m. in the Ocean View High School auditorium near Warner Avenue and Gothard Street.

grade pupils have been practicing all year and will perform in six choirs led by teachers Tom Barnett, Sandy Cupp, Catalina Koepke, Nancy La Ruffa, Dave Shephard and Cathy Short.

No admission will be charged and the public is invited.

Inmate Back After Escape

TRACY (AP) — An attempt to escape the Deuel Vocational Institute ended with a superficial gunshot wound and recapture within four hours, for a convicted murderer serving life, officials say.

Prison spokesman Cliff Reed said Wednesday that Lorenz V. Karlic, sentenced from Los Angeles County, cut through two bars of his cell window and was climbing over a fence at 2:05 a.m. when tower guards fired six shots.

It Didn't Pay

Victims Broke—Gun Too

CLEVELAND (AP) — A would-be burglar paid his fare to board a Cleveland bus, took out his .32-caliber revolver, and ordered the passengers to turn over all their money.

But every one of the riders — and even the driver — said they were broke.

The gunman, apparently angry at finding a bus full of indigents, fired a shot at the back of the bus, then hit a passenger on the head with the gun.

True to his luck, the gun fell apart, the cylinder fell out and clattered along the bus floor.

The man ran off, and police said they were searching for him. The passenger who was conked was not seriously hurt.

Carter Asks Miners Ordered to Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration asked a federal judge today to order striking coal miners back to work, saying the 94-day coal strike would "imperial the national health and safety" if it continues.

Justice Department lawyers, acting under the Taft-Hartley Act, asked the U.S. District Court in Washington to order members of the striking United Mine Workers union back to the mines immediately.

The government also asked for a court order directing coal companies to reopen the mines, idle since the strike began Dec. 6.

The request was assigned to Judge Aubrey Robinson, one of the 12 federal judges who preside in the district. The judge was expected to set a hearing on the request and then decide whether to grant the government's request for an injunction.

The government petition asks that the order be directed at 1,450 union entities, coal companies and individuals named in the court papers.

Officials said Attorney General Griffin Bell planned to be in court when government attorneys argued their case later. His presence was seen as a sign of the importance that the Carter administration attaches to the case.

Bell said, "I believe that the miners will obey the law and this includes court orders. I also have every confidence that law enforcement officers in the states concerned will provide adequate and effective protection for those miners returning to work. We are a nation committed to law."

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, Robinson has the power to order the miners back to work for 80 days and to direct both sides to resume good-faith bargaining.

Failure to comply could result in fines or prison for contempt of court.

College Vetoes Ousters

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Coast Community College District trustees said Wednesday they won't send out blanket dismissal notices in anticipation of the passage of the Jarvis-Gann tax initiative, which would reduce district property tax revenues by about $14 million.

Some school districts across the state have sent out the notices, conditional on the initiative's passage, because state law provides that teachers must be notified by March 15 if they are to be dismissed for the next school year. (Related stories Page A3.)

District spokesman Richard Simon said trustees unanimously voted not to send the notices but instead to issue information to all employees about possible effects on programs and personnel if the initiative passes.

Simon said trustees discussed the possibility of trying to continue operating with full staff in the 1978-79 year and making cuts for the following year if necessary.

He said the colleges — Golden West, Orange Coast and Coastline—would be operated until funds ran out, at which time they would all be closed and an emergency funding application be made to the state.

Simon said trustees cited the effect on employee morale in deciding not to issue across-the-board dismissal notices.

Policy Outlined

TOKYO (AP) — President Carter has messaged Chinese Chairman Hua Kuo-feng that relations between the United States and China are a "central element" in U.S. foreign policy, and the United States wants normal relations with the Communist regime on the basis of the 1972 Shanghai Communique.

'More to Life'

Ex-principal Eyes Challenge

By ARTHUR R. VINSEL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Tall, lean, broad-shouldered and sandy-haired, Dr. Thomas Griffith will tell you there is far more to life and the world than paying homage to the daily work-a-day grind and griping about it.

The Glen View School principal who just resigned after nine years with Huntington Beach's Ocean View School District also will tell you education is the key to satisfaction.

EDUCATION IS ONE OF THE biggest things in life for Griffith and — indeed — his entire family, who live in Bellflower.

They all keep busy learning and enjoying the process, whether it is scholarly learning or learning recreational skills to enjoy when they aren't busy, and that isn't often.

"Mama finally went back to school," he says of his wife Johnie, who is majoring in liberal arts at Cal State Long Beach.

GRIFFITH

Their daughter Jeannie, 19, is a freshman liberal arts major there, so mother and daughter share homework and housework.

Jeannie, who this year won honors as Miss Bellflower and Miss West World, works as a florist in addition to school and promotional activities as a beauty queen.

Twins Glen and Gary just turned 18.

A bit of the Renaissance man is quietly exuded by Griffith, who is considering a variety of job options while waiting for his last semester with the local district to end.

HE WOULD LIKE TO find one where the sprawling suburbs don't hem in a man and his family so much.

"I'm considering possibilities both in and out of Southern California, but I'm not an urban man," says the trim educator who took his doctorate in 1976 from Brigham Young University.

"Our family has traveled extensively in the West and more recently, annually, throughout the entire country."

He lists other interests as "travel, Scuba diving, hunting, fishing, backpacking, sailing, photography, camping, four-wheel drive vehicles and the creative arts. Metal sculpture especially, welding them."

HIS GREATEST SATISFACTION IN nine years locally, says Griffith, has been working within a district where his primary expertise — organization, plus program and curriculum planning — has been used.

The administration, in other words, gave him a job assignment where he did not feel like a square peg in a round hole.

"That and having an opportunity to direct programs where we could see a positive effect on the kids," Griffith explains.

Police Auction Set In Huntington

Some 60 bicycles, a few small boats, assorted jewelry, tools and other items are to be offered Saturday at the periodic Huntington Beach Police Department auction.

Lost, stolen, recovered and unclaimed goods will go on the block at 10 a.m. on the corner of Main Street and Yorktown Avenue, the police department's parking lot.

Property officers say they have about 120 items of inventory to be sold to the highest bidders.

Officer George Abbond of the Administrative Services Division says purchases will be on a cash-only basis.

St. Pat Ball Set By Lions

Sounds of the famous Big Band Era will echo Friday night when the Huntington Beach Host Lions Club stages its first Leprechaun Ball at the Balboa Pavilion in Newport Beach.

Tickets are available from Willodean Vance, 10122 Kaimu Drive, Huntington Beach, 556-0782, according to dance chairman John Flood.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. St. Patrick's Day season celebration are $7.50 a person. Proceeds will aid favorite Lions charitable projects for needy young persons with eyesight and hearing handicaps.

Keith Williams and his 14-piece orchestra will entertain at Friday's soiree in the historic bayside ballroom.

Swapping Scheduled

A swap meet will be held Saturday at Newland School to support the campus library.

The affair will be held in the campus parking lot at 8787 Dolphin Drive, Huntington Beach, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

FEBRUARY GIRL ATHLETE NAMED

The winner of the Girl Athlete of the Month Award for February is Debbie Burrows, a 5'10" senior from Huntington High.

Debbie won the honor over nine other nominees from local high schools. She made the All-League and All-CIF Basketball Teams last year and was nominated to the All-Tournament Team two years in a row.

The competition is sponsored by The Finicky Fox, an apparel shop for teens serving the Huntington Beach, Westminster and Fountain Valley areas.

Ocean View Boundary Switches Mulled

Formal notice of proposed boundary adjustments for attendance areas around seven campuses in Huntington Beach's Ocean View School District will be sent home soon by principals.

The suggested shifts would affect only about 110 pupils among the approximately 12,000 enrolled youngsters, and the district wants to know what their parents think.

NO ACTION WILL be taken until later in the spring, when district officials and the board of trustees evaluate the responses.

"It's basically a return to their home school district," explains Supt. Dr. Dale Coogan.

Children who would normally attend Glen View School and are being bused to College View School could choose either campus next year. They would be bused in the 1978-79 school year, but not in the next year.

SUN VIEW SCHOOL students temporarily going to Pleasant View School could go back to the campus closer to home, which will get one new portable classroom.

Children in kindergarten, first and second grades who would ordinarily be enrolled at Marine View School but attend Meadow and Lark View schools could have their choice.

Older grade levels would be moved the following year, with addition of a portable classroom to the Marine View School campus to accommodate them.

CROWDED CONDITIONS at Marine View School resulted from increased homebuilding in its area, just inland from the Bolsa Chica Ecological Preserve in the city's northwest end.

Trustees also decided about two years ago not to build a new campus on an existing site in that area, due to shifting enrollment patterns.

OPEC to Meet April 3

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will hold an "informal meeting" in Geneva on April 3, the official Iraq news agency has reported.

The decline of the U.S. dollar on foreign exchange markets and its effect on oil revenues are expected to be on the agenda.

Arab members of the 13-nation organization have been calling for a new system to calculate crude oil prices after last week's decline in the value of the dollar.

Citrus Prices to Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government predicts continued high prices for oranges, grapefruit and lemons, with an overall reduction in the nation's citrus crop of 1 percent this season.

The Crop Reporting Board said Wednesday that total citrus fruit production was down by 12.9 million metric tons this season with the grapefruit crop considerably below estimates. Consumer prices for fresh citrus fruit were 13 percent higher in January than last year, and growers' prices in February were up 60 percent over the same month last year.

Airlines Cater To Diet Needs

By SYLVIA PORTER

Do you pride yourself on familiarity with exotic foods? Then try this quick quiz:

What restaurant will prepare a lacto-ovo vegetable meal? Where can you get kosher filet of sole? Kosher curry? Who serves chicken chasseur? Where can you select from a 40-menu variation?

DID YOU GUESS A FAMOUS restaurant in Stockholm for the vegetarian meal? Wrong. You can request a lacto-ovo meal before you board Trans World Airlines.

A Delhi hideaway for the curry? No. Kosher curry is served on Air India and kosher filet of sole is available from American Airlines on request two weeks before your flight.

Chicken chasseur at an upper Eastside bistro in New York? Probably — but it's also available on special order from United Airlines as part of its Weight Watchers lunch.

Money's Worth

Deliberately unheralded, air carriers serve thousands of special meals annually to passengers whose religious requirements or diets dictate them.

YOU CAN GET SOUL FOOD with tobasco sauce on request from United; a special low-cholesterol menu if you travel American; a special bland meal if you travel TWA.

What's more, despite the medical restrictions that govern the preparation of many of the menus, airline food experts generally make them appealing.

TWA tallied passenger reaction to special-request diets served to 19,000 passengers last August and received only 102 complaints, reports Burt Kenyon, spokesman for the airline's food and beverage planning.

MOST POPULAR OF THE special meals is kosher food, accounting for nearly half the requests. United serves close to 50,000 kosher meals a year; TWA recently added roast turkey to its traditional kosher menu entree of brisket of beef. A favorite breakfast on TWA is kosher, consisting of cheese blintzes with cherry sauce or pancakes with blueberry sauce. American has four kosher menus for first class and coach that rotate every three months. El Al serves only kosher food.

Sky Chef, a subsidiary of Americn an Airlines, prepares meals for 33 other airlines. United has 19 kitchens, producing the bulk of its own meals. So does TWA.

SOME SPECIAL REQUESTS WON'T be approved. TWA refused a request for small meat balls — for a parakeet. Pan Am nixed a request from an economy-class passenger who said his physician insisted his diet include a lot of caviar. Pan Am recommended fish.

A key to special diets is advance notice. You can order most popular special meals by requesting them four hours in advance of flight time. Less popular meals can require 24 hours.

Passengers from the West Coast order more special diets in the low-calorie and vegetarian category than their Eastern counterparts, according to TWA.

While the airlines are under no legal obligation to serve special foods, they seldom fail to follow through on a reasonable request.

Pinkerton's Gives Tips on Meetings

This is the season of the year when thousands of companies hold annual meetings, and Pinkerton's, the nation's oldest private security firm, suggests some basic measures to insure a safe meeting:

— If the annual meeting is likely to draw a considerable attendance by shareholders, pick a meeting place that will accommodate up to twice the number of expected people. There's nothing better calculated to produce a disgruntled shareholder than having to stand.

— IF FEASIBLE, HAVE A guest book or sign-in sheet so that you have a complete record of those attending. If the crowd is large, consider issuing cards that can be filled in and deposited as people leave.

— Control entries of the meeting room. People entering and exiting from a number of side doors create noise and confusion. Have guards or ushers posted. The visible presence of uniforms has the psychological effect of projecting calm and orderliness.

— If you hire a security firm for the meeting, analyze in advance such matters as whether dissidents, demonstrators or hecklers are expected to attend, and why; the way in which disruptive people will be dealt with; the adaptibility of the meeting to good security practices; adequacy and location of utilities.

— TEST THE ROOM FOR ITS acoustics and, if a public address system is warranted, get a reliable one. If the group is large, provide portable microphones for shareholders' questions.

— Keep the program as brief as possible, while covering all the essentials and allowing the shareholders a reasonable time for questions and answers. If you fall behind schedule, cut parts of the presentation rather than time for shareholders' questions.

Security Pacific Wins District Bid

Security Pacific National Bank in South Laguna submitted a winning bid of 5.25 percent for the purchase of $2,750,000 in general obligation bonds from South Coast County Water District.

Six other bids ranging up to 5.35 percent were received.

The funds will be used by the water district to construct a 7 million-gallon terminal storage reservoir on a five-acre site in the southeast part of the district. The reservoir will be constructed underground, providing surface space for future recreational use.

Issuance of the bonds was approved by a majority of voters in the district in the general election in November.

Design work on the reservoir is now being completed and construction is expected to get under way in the early spring.

Teacher Notices Eschewed

Irvine Unified School District trustees are figuring that the Jarvis/Gann property tax initiative will be defeated in June, or that the state Legislature will bail out underfunded school districts if the initiative does pass.

Wednesday, trustees refused to order that notices of prospective dismissal be sent to 321 teachers — about half the district faculty.

District administrators say that many would have to be dismissed if the initiative is approved by voters because, with the resulting loss of property tax revenues, there wouldn't be enough money to pay them.

The Irvine district has estimated the impact of the property tax meausre to be an $11.3 million loss of revenues, or 45.6 percent of the total projected 1978-79 budget.

In advising the board not to send dismissal notices, thus committing the district to carrying a full staff, A. Stanley Corey, superintendent of schools, emphasized his belief that the schools will be funded, one way or another.

Corey urged the board to endorse Proposition 8, the implementing measure for Senate Bill 1, the Behr Property Relief Bill.

That legislation provides for a property tax cut of 30 percent, and includes a system for funding schools, which Jarvis/Gann does not.

The school board, at Trustee Frank Hurd's urging, took no stand on either proposition and ordered a staff study of the effects of Proposition 8.

Hurd also wanted a county counsel opinion on whether the board legally is able even to support or oppose ballot initiatives, because of the question of spending public funds to lobby on public matters.

Corey warned that if the board tried to mount an actual information campaign against Jarvis/Gann, "You can almost make book you'll get sued."

One resident, Robert Gordon, irritated because the board gave up the opportunity to begin the process for layoffs if needed, warned that would mean the schools would have to be closed.

Corey agreed, but discounted that likelihood.

"There is always a chance that California will split off and fall into the ocean, that tomorrow won't come, that California education as we know it has come to an end.

"It is our judgment that it has not.

"But you're right. Without an

Six Coast Residents Face Sex Charges

One man and five women were jailed Wednesday on prostitution charges after police alleged the suspects used a Costa Mesa dating service to cover a call girl ring.

Police assert that two Huntington Beach policewomen infiltrated the operation by posing as call girls.

The arrests came at a Laguna Hills hotel where vice officers allege the five women and man were offered $1,800 for "convention services."

Orange County Sheriff's officers said the arrests were made possible through the combined efforts of Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and Garden Grove police.

Vice officers said more than 14 male patrons had gathered at the Laguna Hills hotel to purchase the services allegedly to be provided out of Kats Enterprises of 230 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Sam Charles Wright, 32, of 213 17th St. and Kathleen Eileen Hill, 22, of 17402 Waal Circle, both of Huntington Beach, were arrested on charges of pimping.

Investigators alleged that Wright and Miss Hill were the couple who handled negotiations between the group of male clients and the call girls assigned to meet them at the Laguna Hills hotel.

Officers said the arrests were made at the moment money exchanged hands in the hotel room.

Also jailed on prostitution charges were Kathryn Jean Huberty, 24, Catherine Sue Ferguson, 19, Carla Meredith, 28, and Sandra Baker, 26, all of Huntington Beach.

Investigators said the method of selling sex allegedly used by the defendants was via what has become known to vice investigators as "the convention approach."

Gunman Escapes

Costa Mesa Hotel Guest Murdered

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A South Coast Plaza hotel guest was shot and killed early today after he refused the commands of an unidentified gunman to join the gunman and two hostages on an elevator ride from the lobby of the Costa Mesa Hotel, police said.

The name of the victim of the 2:46 a.m. shooting is being withheld pending notification of family members. Police would only say that the dead man was from out of state.

The gunman fled immediately after the shooting and is still being sought by police.

A second male guest and a hotel employee who were being held hostage by the gunman managed to escape by closing the doors of the elevator as the gunman fired several times at his victim.

Costa Mesa police said today they are seeking two occupants of an orange 1976 Porsche that was seen leaving the hotel parking lot about two minutes after the shooting.

Police are not linking the car occupants to the shooting but are seeking information that could be crucial to the murder case, investigator Gerry Thompson said.

Police Sketch of Gunman

According to Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton, the fatal incident began in the ground floor kitchen area of the hotel, 666 Anton Blvd.

The gunman approached the room service employee and forced him to follow him into the lobby of the hotel where the two guests were seated.

Lt. Lorton said police are uncertain as to the gunman's motive, but believe a robbery may have been planned.

The gunman ordered the two guests to get into the elevator, but the victim refused and began to walk away. Three to five shots were fired from a small caliber handgun, with at least one bullet striking the hotel guest, police said.

The hotel employee and second guest were in the elevator at the time.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy General Hospital in Santa Ana.

Descriptions from the uninjured guest and the hotel employee have led to a composite drawing of a suspect described as a white male in his early 20s with blond to light brown hair and brown eyes. The suspect is approximately five feet eight inches tall and weighs between 135 and 150 pounds, according to witnesses.

Storm Slams North State

By The Associated Press

A storm drenched the San Francisco Bay area and sent water brimming over the banks of reservoirs in Northern California.

Rainfall totals for the 24-hour period ending at 4 a.m. showed Oakland had 3.40 inches, San Francisco Airport 2.01, downtown San Francisco 1.50, Ukiah 1.45, Red Bluff 1.22, Sacramento .74 of an inch and Marin Civic Center .72.

State Route 1 along the coast was blocked by slides and washouts between Hearst Castle and Carmel.

2 Trapped in Sub 300 Feet Down

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP) — A two-man submarine engaged in North Sea oil operations snagged in a wire about 80 miles east of here and was trapped on the seabed nearly 300 feet down today, operators said.

The P. and O. Steam Navigation Company, which is operating the submarine named the PC 9 for the American Conoco oil concern, said it became trapped at mid-day.

"The two men aboard have enough oxygen and food to last eight days," a company spokesman said. "They are sitting calmly on the bottom waiting to be rescued."

The two were believed to be British, but the company said it will not release their names "until we are sure their next-of-kin are notified."

The sub had been working on a wellhead in the Murchison field, the company said.

He said the mother ship, Sub Sea 2, is standing by while a second mother ship, the Sub Sea 1, is steaming to the scene with a rescue submersible from Montrose on the Scottish east coast.

"The Sub Sea 1 should arrive on the scene Friday and start rescue operations immediately with the manned submersible it is carrying, the Mermaid 3," the spokesman said.

Under Taft-Hartley

Work Order Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration asked a federal judge today to order striking coal miners back to work, saying the 94-day coal strike would "imperial the national health and safety" if it continues.

Justice Department lawyers, acting under the Taft-Hartley Act, asked the U.S. District Court in Washington to order members of the striking United Mine Workers union back to the mines immediately.

The government also asked for a court order directing coal companies to reopen the mines idle since the strike began Dec. 6.

was expected to set a hearing on the request and then decide whether to grant the government's request for an injunction.

The government petition asks that the order be directed at 1,450 union entities, coal companies and individuals named in the court papers.

Officials said Attorney General Griffin Bell planned to be in court when government attorneys argued their case later. His presence was seen as a sign of the importance that the Carter administration attaches to the case.

Bell said, "I believe that the miners will obey the law and this includes court orders. I also have every confidence that law enforcement officers in the states concerned will provide adequate and effective protection for those miners returning to work. We are a nation committed to law."

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, Robinson has the power to order the miners back to work for 80 days and to direct both sides to resume good-faith bargaining.

Failure to comply could result in fines or prison for contempt of court.

Bubbles Sidesteps Snare; Trap Still Untested

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"She came out on the wrong side of the pond (a trap awaits on the other side) and slipped back into the water," explained Jane Culjis, Lion Country Safari's marketing director, in recounting the latest overnight failure to capture Bubbles, the wild animal park's runaway hippo.

"I guess she wasn't hungry and was bored by the situation."

A bored hippopotamus has an imposing yawn.

Less imposing are the yawns of exhausted Lion Country rangers who have now spent 17 night-long vigils waiting for Bubbles to give herself up.

Their latest ruse to get her, a pole, net and pulley affair meant to snare Bubbles in netting so she can be tranquilized, still awaits testing.

Nobody knows if it will work. It's the first time the rangers have ever had to catch a hippo in the wild — the wild being a small pond off Laguna Canyon Road near Laguna Beach, several miles from Lion Country.

SHE'LL NEVER STRAY AGAIN

Among hundreds of suggestions for capturing Bubbles, Lion Country Safari's wayfaring hippopotamus, was this latest one today:

Fill her pond with plaster of Paris, a caller advised Let it set. Then, when dry, just pull out the mold and you've got Bubbles, suitable for mounting.

Today Lion Country officials seriously considered accepting the offer of a man who claims to be the nephew of Frank Buck, the legendary lion tamer. Only, Dr. Alan C. Buck purports to be a hippo tamer who has caught 100 such beasts in his day.

Buck's isn't the only offer from self-styled professionals.

Said Mrs. Culjis, "It's absolutely phenomenal, the number of people who claim to do nothing but capture hippopotamuses for a living. And they're all right in the area."

She said at least 35 people claim the profession.

"There can't be that many professional hippo catchers in Southern California," Mrs. Culjis said. "There can't be."

One Arrested In Boat Tiff

SAUSALITÓ (AP) — A brief rhubarb at Waldo Point, scene of repeated protests by houseboat owners who oppose construction of a new marina, ended with one arrest, deputies said.

Marin County sheriff's officials said the confrontation occurred Wednesday when developers tried vainly to free a floating piledriver which was blocked in the harbor and has halted construction for three months.

As they have in the past, houseboat owners swarmed out in a flotilla of small boats and have blocked the path of the piledriver.

County Sets Ambulance Service Fee

Residents of unincorporated Orange County communities in need of ambulance service can expect to pay at least $60 a call.

That is the base rate set by county supervisors for the 15 ambulance firms operating in unincorporated county areas.

Firms also are to charge $3 per mile of travel, $10 extra for calls between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. and $12.50 for each 15 minutes of waiting time.

In addition, they can collect $10 for use of oxygen, up to $20 for medical supplies used on a trip and $10 for emergency runs.

Mike Williams, county emergency medical services director, said according to new county ambulance regulations all firms in the unincoprorated area must charge the rates set by supervisors.

He said the rates are about the same as those already charged by the ambulance companies.

Rates will be reviewed again in six months by the county's Emergency Medical Care Committee, he said, and later will be subject to review and possible change annually.

Policy Outlined

TOKYO (AP) — President Carter has messaged Chinese Chairman Hua Kuo-feng that relations between the United States and China are a "central element" in U.S. foreign policy, and the United States wants normal relations with the Communist regime on the basis of the 1972 Shanghai Communique.

Newport Resident Arrested

A self-employed Newport Beach builder was arrested today on manslaughter charges in the hit-and-run death of a young woman Wednesday in Newport Beach.

Suspect Steven Jay Landrigan, 26, of 445 Catalina Drive, was booked into Newport Beach City Jail, according to police Sgt. Ken Thompson. Bail was set at $2,500.

Killed instantly in the 12:20 a.m. accident Wednesday was Doreen You, 18, who was standing on a curb on the Arches overpass on Coast Highway when a white pickup truck swerved over the curb and hit her, Thompson said. The truck sped away without stopping.

Thompson said a description of the truck provided by witnesses was circulated to various auto repair and parts shops with a note that there was probably damage to the front end and a broken headlight.

He said a parts dealer led police to the vehicle. Landrigan turned himself in at about 8:30 a.m. today, Thompson said.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation, Thompson said.

An Orange County Coroner's deputy said today that Miss You had apparently lived in Newport Beach for some time but didn't have a fixed address. Her parents, who identified the body, live in Baldwin Park.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Roy C. Addleman and Son Funeral Home in El Monte.

Carter directed Bell to seek the order after he received an 11-page report on the strike from a board of inquiry that the president created under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The board's report delivered to the White House earlier today said the strike had "reached alarming proportions." The three-member board said, "Already thousands of workers in other industries have been laid off or placed on reduced work schedules and this can only accelerate.

"It is imperative, in the national interest, that the parties find a basis for resolution of the strike as expeditiously as possible."

Among the 1,450 defendants named in the suit were the United Mine Workers of America and its affiliated locals, and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and the mining companies the organization represents.

The government's move for a court order came as the Labor Department reported that 25,500 factory workers were laid off last week as a result of the strike.

The government said about 45 percent of the layoffs were in Indiana, with workers in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Maryland and Ohio also affected. The layoffs were up 2,900 from the previous week.

Six Railroad Cars Derailed

ROSEVILLE (AP) — Six railroad cars, including one carrying 30,000 gallons of high-proof alcohol, have gone off the Southern Pacific tracks in this suburb of Sacramento, but there are no injuries.

SP spokesman Bob Cedarholm said it happened Wednesday as yard trainmen were putting together a 70- to 80-car train for San Francisco.

Power Cut in Performance

SAN DIEGO (AP) — It would take more than a power outage to faze an old pro like Jackie Gleason — even if the blackout was the worst in the San Diego area in 20 years. (Related story, A5)

"I was trimming my mustache in the dark and when the lights went on, one of my eyebrows was missing," said Gleason.

His appearance in "The Sly Fox" is his first on stage since 1959, when he co-starred with Walter Pidgeon in the musical comedy, "Take Me Along."

GLEASON SAID WEDNESDAY THE week and a half that he's been in San Diego has been curious, at the very least.

"There have been continuous rains, winds of hurricane force, a guy running down the aisle who interrupted the show, and a blackout," Gleason said.

THERE'S NOT MUCH EVEN Gleason can do about rain and wind and a blackout. But when a man interrupted the show by running to the stage, Gleason quipped: "How do you like that? I come all the way to San Diego, and Norton is here in the audience!"

The actor was referring to the character played by Art Carney, his sidekick in their long-running television series, "The Honeymooners."

Airport Advocates To Meet Tonight

On the heels of a county-sponsored report citing a shortage of airport space in Orange County, a south Orange Coast airport advocacy group has called a meeting tonight in San Juan Capistrano.

South Orange County Airport Committee members plan to discuss the county General Services Agency (GSA) report which claims a gap between county airports and aircraft is expected to reach 1,152 tie-down spaces by 1980.

The committee was organized to search for another airport site in the south county after San Juan councilmen ordered Capistrano Airport to be closed June 1.

The county GSA study mentioned two possible airport sites in the south county area:

— A San Juan Creek site located one mile north of Ortega Highway near Bell Canyon.

— The so-called "Prima Deshecha" site which abuts an existing county dump site east of San Juan.

On Feb. 28, county supervisors ordered a search of potential airport sites in the county. The two south county sites are included in the search.

South county airport committee members also plan to discuss actions they could take to keep Capistrano Airport open until a new south county facility is developed.

The meeting will take place at 7:30 p.m. in Capistrano Unified School District offices, 32972 Calle Perfecto in San Juan.

Inmate Back After Escape

TRACY (AP) — An attempt to escape the Deuel Vocational Institute ended with a superficial gunshot wound and recapture within four hours, for a convicted murderer serving life, officials say.

Prison spokesman Cliff Reed said Wednesday that Lorenz V. Karlic, sentenced from Los Angeles County, cut through two bars of his cell window and was climbing over a fence at 2:05 a.m. when tower guards fired six shots.

Therapy Violation Charge Dismissed

Charges of illegally practicing psychology without a license against a Huntington Beach man were dropped Tuesday in West Orange County Judicial District.

James K. McCann, a UC Extension business seminar director, was charged last October with four counts of violating the State Business and Professions Code in his now-defunct Huntington Beach hypnosis center, 17522 Beach Blvd. He was not arrested.

Deputy District Attorney Mike Nunn asked the charges against McCann be dropped because the prosecutor received "assurances" from the accused hypnotist that the alleged violations would not recur.

McCann closed his hypnosis practice late last October. He declined to comment on the dismissal of charges by Municipal Judge Kenneth Smith.

Nunn said a female undercover agent from the State Medical Quality Assurance Board received "hypnosis therapy" from McCann during four October visits to the hypnotist's office.

Hypnosis therapy can only be used by a licensed hypnotherapist or in the presence of a physician, according to the State Business and Professions Code.

McCann was granted a business license last year by the Huntington Beach City Council to practice hypnosis.

But state officials charged that he went beyond practicing simple hypnosis as permitted by the city.

"Usually, all we try to do in these cases is to get the violator to stop the practice," Nunn said.

Ill Will Cut for Primary?

Orange County Republican candidates, many of them facing stiff primary competition, have been asked by their party's county central committee to sign its so-called 11th commandment: Thou shall not speak ill of any other Republican.

A code of ethics has been sent by the Orange County Republican Central Committee's Ethics Committee to all GOP candidates.

Candidates are asked to sign a statement that they will conduct their campaigns ethically, not attack the integrity, ability or sincerity of other Republican candidates and support whoever wins their party's nomination.

A list of candidates signing the pledge will be made public.

Candidates ignoring the code of ethics may lose the central committee's support in the general election in November. Grievances will be heard by the ethics committee.

The committee is chaired by Bill Hill of the 70th Assembly. Other members include Central Committee members Louise Steel, 69th Assembly; Jim Meehan, 73rd Assembly; William Dougherty, 70th Assembly; and Ruthelyn Plummer, 74th Assembly.

Victims Broke—Gun Too

CLEVELAND (AP) — A would-be burglar paid his fare to board a Cleveland bus, took out his .32-caliber revolver, and ordered the passengers to turn over all their money.

But every one of the riders — and even the driver — said they were broke.

The gunman, apparently angry at finding a bus full of indigents, fired a shot at the back of the bus, then hit a passenger on the head with the gun.

True to his luck, the gun fell apart, the cylinder fell out and clattered along the bus floor.

The man ran off, and police said they were searching for him. The passenger who was conked was not seriously hurt.

Won't Be Closed

Alpine Inn Told To Reduce Noise

The 26-year-old Alpine Inn in Silverado Canyon won't be closed down, Orange County supervisors decided Wednesday.

Rather than revoke the inn's operating permit, supervisors ordered that weekend rock music which irked some inn neighbors should be quieted down after midnight.

Supervisor Ralph Diedrich suggested that if additional soundproofing can be installed by inn operators during the next 90 days, the midnight music curfew might be lifted.

Some inn neighbors had complained about late night amplified rock music on weekends as well as noisy motorcycles and the behavior of some inn patrons.

Others viewed the inn as an asset in the rustic, winding canyon and said its operators had tried to be good neighbors.

Diedrich said Wednesday he viewed the rock music noise as the chief issue.

Pair Charged In Thievery

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Two men were arraigned in Johnson County District Court on charges of stealing periscopes from four Marine Corps tanks.

The two were charged with burglary and theft after they were arrested with a juvenile near a railroad siding in Olathe. Four M-48A3 tanks were parked there on a railroad car en route from Barstow, Calif., to Anniston, Ala.

Police said they spotted the trio at the siding Tuesday and found four periscopes and an empty metal box in a car driven by the men.

NEW LAGUNA CONTINUATION SCHOOL STILL NOT FINISHED AFTER EIGHT MONTHS

Construction Lags On Laguna School

The whole project was expected to take 160 days from start to finish.

But Laguna Beach Unified School District officials say it's been more than eight months since they broke ground on the new continuation high school building. And they still don't know when it will be completed.

Construction crews began work May 23 for the new building, located at the east end of the 14-acre high school campus. School officials expected the 25 or so continuation students would be moving in last Oct. 30.

But district business manager Clyde Lovelady says move-in day is still a ways off. "I figure if we could get six weeks of good weather, we could get it done," he said.

The first problem encountered by work crews, Lovelady said, came when they attempted to sink large steel caissons into the earth.

"The soil report was incorrect," he explained. "It was supposed to be good soil, but they found big chunks of concrete, steel supports and other junk in the ground."

It appears the area was used as a dumping ground for building materials from other areas of the campus, Lovelady said.

Then the rains came, and with the deluge, more delays.

The $153,975 price tag dropped to $149,079 after trustees cut some items from the blueprints.

The wood structure will include a large classroom, an audio visual class area, an arts and crafts room, offices for the continuation school secretary and director, and a large outdoor patio.

Supervisor Clark Backs 'TIN CUP'

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

County Supervisor Ralph Clark endorsed the TIN CUP political campaign reform initiative today.

Clark cast the lone dissenting vote last week in a 4-1 Board of Supervisors ballot that enacted a county campaign reform measure.

In endorsing the TIN CUP ballot measure today, Clark said he will move to have the county ordinance rescinded should the county's voters approve the initiative in November.

As things stand now, TIN CUP (Time Is Now, Clean Up Politics) workers are circulating petitions seeking about 54,000 voter signatures needed to move the initiative onto the ballot.

That drive has continued despite enactment last week of the county ordinance seeking to regulate campaigns of those in quest of county elected offices.

Clark criticized that ordinance for, among other things, creating "a paper tiger" fair political practices commission "hand picked" by the Board of Supervisors.

The Anaheim supervisor also characterized the county ordinance as "more illusion than reform."

Simultaneously, Clark said he is "not entirely satisfied with all aspects of TIN CUP."

In contrast to the county ordinance, the TIN CUP initiative seeks to control campaign activities of county supervisors rather than all elected county officials.

It sets the amount supervisorial candidates can accept in any year from individual political donors to $500 rather than the $1,000 per election limitation in the county legislation.

TIN CUP also aims its reform arrows at lobbyists and the amount of influence and activity they can generate on the county campaign front.

Vandals Hit Pier Eatery

Vandals were blamed by city police today for an estimated $2,255 in damages to the Galley resturant, located at the end of San Clemente's municipal pier.

Restaurant operator Claude Wilkens told police Wednesday that someone had apparently climbed up on the roof and smashed lights on a sign. A vent cover and a kitchen fan, also accessible only from the roof, were also damaged, police said.

The vandalism was believed to have occurred while the eatery was closed, Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

Costa Mesa Hotel Guest Murdered

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A South Coast Plaza hotel guest was shot and killed early today after he refused the commands of an unidentified gunman to join the gunman and two hostages on an elevator ride from the lobby of the Costa Mesa Hotel, police said.

The name of the victim of the 2:46 a.m. shooting is being withheld pending notification of family members. Police would only say that the dead man was from out of state.

The gunman fled immediately after the shooting and is still being sought by police.

A second male guest and a hotel employee who were being held hostage by the gunman managed to escape by closing the doors of the elevator as the gunman fired several times at his victim.

According to Costa Mesa Polict Lt. George Lorton, the fatal incident began in the ground floor kitchen area of the hotel, 666 Anton Blvd.

SOUGHT FOR MURDER
Police Sketch of Gunman

The gunman approached the room service employee and forced him to follow him into the lobby of the hotel where the two guests were seated.

Lt. Lorton said police are uncertain as to the gunman's motive, but believe a robbery may have been planned.

The gunman ordered the two guests to get into the elevator, but the victim refused and began to walk away. Three to five shots were fired from a small caliber handgun, with at least one bullet striking the hotel guest, police said.

The hotel employee and second guest were in the elevator at the time.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy General Hospital in Santa Ana.

Descriptions from the uninjured guest and the hotel employee have led to a composite drawing of a suspect described as a white male in his early 20s with blond to light brown hair and brown eyes. The suspect is approximately five feet eight inches tall and weighs between 135 and 150 pounds, according to witnesses.

Optimism, Support Eyed

Laguna Aides React to New Majority

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

The mood at city hall following the election of a new City Council in Laguna Beach appears today to range from hesitant optimism to outright support.

Anonymous comments were elicited from a dozen municipal employees in five city departments this morning following the election Tuesday of councilmen Howard Dawson, Kelly Boyd and Wayne Baglin.

The three new councilmen, who campaigned for fiscal responsibility, will be sworn into office Wednesday night.

And while some city employees were hesitant to discuss the new conservative majority, others were vocal in their support or opposition to the change.

"We're due for a change," one employee said. "I think they'll do a hell of a good job. There's been a lot of wasted spending as far as I can see."

"The bureaucratic system must prevail, but there's got to be some sense to it."

Another employee compared recent Laguna Beach elections to a pendulum. "First it was way over on one side, now it's way over on the other side. Changes are bound to come about, but what they are going to consist of, I can't guess.

"Generally the change is for the better, although I would hate to see a concrete belt instead of a greenbelt."

A third employee said he expects to see substantial personnel replacements in the next few months. "Two of the candidates said they would make from 23 to 28 cuts in employees. And they said those cuts would not come from the 100 public safety jobs. So they're talking about cuts in human affairs, planning, finance and municipal services."

An immediate resolution to the lawsuits over development of Sycamore Hills is predicted by one employee, who would not say whether that solution would come about by negotiation or other means.

That employee also predicts a more friendly relationship between Laguna Beach and other cities, as well as Orange County government, CalTrans and large property owners.

"But hopefully that new relationship will not be at the expense of giving in to those entities, just to keep things on a more friendly basis."

A long-time city employee said he is happy with the expected change in philosophy of the new panel. "I'm glad to see some progressive thinking people in there. I think the era of

Contract Talks Set For Capo Teachers

Teacher contract negotiations were scheduled to begin today in the Capistrano Unified School District, where teachers have proposed a 10 percent pay hike.

In addition to the 10 percent salary boost, teachers represented by the Capistrano Unified Education Association have proposed a contract calling for full health care for dependents, more flexible working hours and binding arbitration.

Teachers have also proposed a new pay schedule for speech therapists, improved working conditions for school nurses and new coaching positions for junior high sports.

In its counter proposal, the school district has offered an increase of four percent, which would cover fringe benefits, salary increases and any other cost increases.

Cost to the school district if the CUEA proposal were accepted would be $2.8 million, said Sam Chicas, assistant superintendent for general services. The district's four percent proposal would cost $850,000, including $350,000 to maintain the present teacher salary schedule, said Chicas.

The annual base pay for a beginning teacher in the Capistrano Unified School District is currently $10,555. An ex-

City Voters Blamed for Bond Defeat

City voters were blamed by Capistrano Unified School District Superintendent Jerome Thornsley Wednesday for the Tuesday defeat of the district's $49.3 million school construction bond issue.

The sprawling Capistrano school district, which takes in 20 percent of Orange County land, includes the unincorporated communities of Dana Point, Capistrano Beach, Laguna Niguel and eastern Mission Viejo — where the bond measure passed — and the cities of San Juan Capistrano and San Clemente — where it was defeated.

"In the unincorporated areas, the bond measure was the only issue on the ballot, and it passed 2.5 to 1," said Thornsley. "In Mission Viejo the vote was 10 to 1 in favor of the bonds. But the two cities, particularly San Clemente, pulled it down."

The defeat of the bond measure — the third in two years — prompted some Mission Viejo residents to ask Thornsley for legal guidelines for creating their own Mission Viejo school district.

Mission Viejo voters have consistently supported bond issues

Bubbles Sidesteps Snare; Trap Still Untested

"She came out on the wrong side of the pond (a trap awaits on the other side) and slipped back into the water," explained Jane Culjis, Lion Country Safari's marketing director, in recounting the latest overnight failure to capture Bubbles, the wild animal park's runaway hippo.

"I guess she wasn't hungry and was bored by the situation."

A bored hippopotamus has an imposing yawn.

Less imposing are the yawns of exhausted Lion Country rangers who have now spent 17 night-long vigils waiting for Bubbles to give herself up.

Their latest ruse to get her, a pole, net and pulley affair meant to snare Bubbles in netting so she can be tranquilized, still awaits testing.

Nobody knows if it will work. It's the first time the rangers have ever had to catch a hippo in the wild — the wild being a small pond off Laguna Canyon Road near Laguna Beach, several miles from Lion Country.

SHE'LL NEVER STRAY AGAIN

Among hundreds of suggestions for capturing Bubbles, Lion Country Safari's wayfaring hippopotamus, was this latest one today:

Fill her pond with plaster of Paris, a caller advised Let it set. Then, when dry, just pull out the mold and you've got Bubbles, suitable for mounting.

Today Lion Country officials seriously considered accepting the offer of a man who claims to be the nephew of Frank Buck, the legendary lion tamer. Only, Dr. Alan C. Buck purports to be a hippo tamer who has caught 100 such beasts in his day.

Buck's isn't the only offer from self-styled professionals.

Said Mrs. Culjis, "It's absolutely phenomenal, the number of people who claim to do nothing but capture hippopotamuses for a living. And they're all right in the area."

She said at least 35 people claim the profession.

"There can't be that many professional hippo catchers in Southern California," Mrs. Culjis said. "There can't be."

Six Held On Sex Charges

One man and five women were jailed Wednesday on prostitution charges after police alleged the suspects used a Costa Mesa dating service to cover a call girl ring.

Police assert that two Huntington Beach policewomen infiltrated the operation by posing as call girls.

The arrests came at a Laguna Hills hotel where vice officers allege the five women and man were offered $1,800 for "convention services."

Orange County Sheriff's officers said the arrests were made possible through the combined efforts of Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and Garden Grove police.

Vice officers said more than 14 male patrons had gathered at the Laguna Hills hotel to purchase the services allegedly to be provided out of Kats Enterprises of 230 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Sam Charles Wright, 32, of 213 17th St. and Kathleen Eileen Hill, 22, of 17402 Waal Circle, both of Huntington Beach, were arrested on charges of pimping.

Investigators alleged that Wright and Miss Hill were the couple who handled negotiations between the group of male clients and the call girls assigned to meet them at the Laguna Hills hotel.

Officers said the arrests were made at the moment money exchanged hands in the hotel room.

Also jailed on prostitution charges were Kathryn Jean Huberty, 24, Catherine Sue Ferguson, 19, Carla Meredith, 28, and Sandra Baker, 26, all of Huntington Beach.

Investigators said the method of selling sex allegedly used by the defendants was via what has become known to vice investigators as "the convention approach."

Coal Strike Lashed

Judge Asked to Order Miners to Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration asked a federal judge today to order striking coal miners back to work, saying the 94-day coal strike would "imperial the national health and safety" if it continues.

Justice Department lawyers, acting under the Taft-Hartley Act, asked the U.S. District Court in Washington to order members of the striking United Mine Workers union back to the mines immediately.

The government also asked for a court order directing coal companies to reopen the mines, idle since the strike began Dec. 6.

The request was assigned to Judge Aubrey Robinson, one of the 12 federal judges who preside in the district. The judge was expected to set a hearing on the request and then decide whether to grant the government's request for an injunction.

The government petition asks that the order be directed at 1,450 union entities, coal companies and individuals named in the court papers.

Officials said Attorney General Griffin Bell planned to be in court when government attorneys argued their case later. His presence was seen as a sign of the importance that the Carter administration attaches to the case.

Bell said, "I believe that the miners will obey the law and this includes court orders. I also have every confidence that law enforcement officers in the states concerned will provide adequate and effective protection for those miners returning to work. We are a nation committed to law."

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, Robinson has the power to order the miners back to work for 80 days and to direct both sides to resume good-faith bargaining.

Airport Advocates To Meet Tonight

On the heels of a county-sponsored report citing a shortage of airport space in Orange County, a south Orange Coast airport advocacy group has called a meeting tonight in San Juan Capistrano.

South Orange County Airport Committee members plan to discuss the county General Services Agency (GSA) report which claims a gap between county airports and aircraft is expected to reach 1,152 tie-down spaces by 1980.

The committee was organized to search for another airport site in the south county after San Juan councilmen ordered Capistrano Airport to be closed June 1.

The county GSA study mentioned two possible airport sites in the south county area:

— A San Juan Creek site located one mile north of Ortega Highway near Bell Canyon.

— The so-called "Prima Deshecha" site which abuts an existing county dump site east of San Juan.

On Feb. 28, county supervisors ordered a search of potential airport sites in the county. The two south county sites are included in the search.

South county airport committee members also plan to discuss actions they could take to keep Capistrano Airport open until a new south county facility is developed.

The meeting will take place at 7:30 p.m. in Capistrano Unified School District offices, 32972 Calle Perfecto in San Juan.

County Sets Rates On Ambulance Ride

Residents of unincorporated Orange County communities in need of ambulance service can expect to pay at least $60 a call.

That is the base rate set by county supervisors for the 15 ambulance firms operating in unincorporated county areas.

Firms also are to charge $3 per mile of travel, $10 extra for calls between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. and $12.50 for each 15 minutes of waiting time.

In addition, they can collect $10 for use of oxygen, up to $20 for medical supplies used on a trip and $10 for emergency runs.

Mike Williams, county emergency medical services director, said according to new county ambulance regulations all firms in the unincoprorated area must charge the rates set by supervisors.

He said the rates are about the same as those already charged by the ambulance companies.

Rates will be reviewed again in six months by the county's Emergency Medical Care Committee, he said, and later will be subject to review and possible change annually.

County Plans Canyon Creek Bridge Work

Orange County fire crews are expected to be at work the next couple of days to reinforce a Laguna Canyon Creek bridge weakened by recent rains.

The bridge, near the El Toro Road intersection, connects about 25 homes on Sun Valley Drive and Stans Lane with Laguna Canyon Road, county officials said.

County Fire Chief Carl Downs inspected the bridge Tuesday and found it weakened. He noted its collapse would be hazardous to area residents and would hamper fire and rescue operations.

County fire crews with the help of jail inmates are sandbagging the bridge abutment and shoring up several homes next to the creek.

"San Clemente people have to realize they are not supporting school building just in Mission Viejo," said Thornsley. "They are going to need new schools right in their own back yard as development begins on the three major San Clemente ranches."

The bond issue, if approved, would not have increased the district's 1978-79 tax rate of 90 cents, Thornsley said. A $27.2 million lease-purchase agreement, which will appear on the June 6 ballot, would increase the tax rate by 36 cents for new school construction.

Miners Ordered To Work?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration sought a back-to-work court order against striking coal miners today, saying the national "health and safety could be imperiled" if their 94-day walkout continues.

U.S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson set an afternoon hearing on the request, made under the Taft-Hartley Act. The request also asks for an order directing coal companies to reopen mines to the strikers.

The United Mine Workers denounced the request in advance as an "outrage."

Coal operators had said they would comply and open their mines to all strikers wishing to work.

Officials said it was likely to be Monday before miners would be expected to report for work.

But there were expectations within the union, industry and government that defiance of a back-to-work order would be widespread.

President Carter directed Attorney General Griffin B. Bell to seek the order after receiving a gloomy report from a fact-finding board of inquiry he set up this week under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The report said the strike had "reached alarming proportions."

"It is imperative, in the national interest, that the parties find a basis for resolution of the strike as expeditiously as possible," it said.

Carter wrote Bell that the fact-finding board felt there was little chance of settling the dispute without outside intervention adding:

"As a result of dwindling coal stocks in the affected region, electricity curtailments are in effect, the production of

2 Trapped in Sub 300 Feet Down

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP) — A two-man submarine engaged in North Sea oil operations snagged in a wire about 80 miles east of here and was trapped on the seabed nearly 300 feet down today, operators said.

The P. and O. Steam Navigation Company, which is operating the submarine named the PC 9 for the American Conoco oil concern, said it became trapped at mid-day.

"The two men aboard have enough oxygen and food to last eight days," a company spokesman said. "They are sitting calmly on the bottom waiting to be rescued."

The two were believed to be British, but the company said it will not release their names "until we are sure their next-of-kin are notified."

The sub had been working on a wellhead in the Murchison field, the company said.

He said the mother ship, Sub Sea 2, is standing by while a second mother ship, the Sub Sea 1, is steaming to the scene with a rescue submersible from Montrose on the Scottish east coast.

"The Sub Sea 1 should arrive on the scene Friday and start rescue operations immediately with the manned submersible it is carrying, the Mermaid 3," the spokesman said.

One Arrested In Boat Tiff

SAUSALITO (AP) — A brief rhubarb at Waldo Point, scene of repeated protests by houseboat owners who oppose construction of a new marina, ended with one arrest, deputies said.

Marin County sheriff's officials said the confrontation occurred Wednesday when developers tried vainly to free a floating piledriver which was blocked in the harbor and has halted construction for three months.

As they have in the past, houseboat owners swarmed out in a flotilla of small boats and have blocked the path of the piledriver.

Held in Newport Hit-run Death

A self-employed Newport Beach builder was arrested today on manslaughter charges in the hit-and-run death of a young woman Wednesday in Newport Beach.

Suspect Steven Jay Landrigan, 26, of 445 Catalina Drive, was booked into Newport Beach City Jail, according to police Sgt. Ken Thompson. Bail was set at $2,500.

Killed instantly in the 12:20 a.m. accident Wednesday was Doreen You, 18, who was standing on a curb on the Arches overpass on Coast Highway when a white pickup truck swerved over the curb and hit her, Thompson said. The truck sped away without stopping.

Thompson said a description of the truck provided by witnesses was circulated to various auto repair and parts shops with a note that there was probably damage to the front end and a broken headlight.

He said a parts dealer led police to the vehicle. Landrigan turned himself in at about 8:30 a.m. today, Thompson said.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation, Thompson said.

An Orange County Coroner's deputy said today that Miss You had apparently lived in Newport Beach for some time but didn't have a fixed address. Her parents, who identified the body, live in Baldwin Park.

Costa Mesa Hotel Guest Murdered

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A South Coast Plaza hotel guest was shot and killed early today after he refused the commands of an unidentified gunman to join the gunman and two hostages on an elevator ride from the lobby of the Costa Mesa Hotel, police said.

The name of the victim of the 2:46 a.m. shooting is being withheld pending notification of family members. Police would only say that the dead man was from out of state.

The gunman fled immediately after the shooting and is still being sought by police.

A second male guest and a hotel employee who were being held hostage by the gunman managed to escape by closing the doors of the elevator as the gunman fired several times at his victim.

Costa Mesa police said today they are seeking two occupants of an orange 1976 Porsche that was seen leaving the hotel parking lot about two minutes after the shooting.

Police are not linking the car occupants to the shooting but are seeking information that could be crucial to the murder case, investigator Gerry Thompson said.

According to Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton, the fatal incident began in the ground floor kitchen area of the hotel, 666 Anton Blvd.

SOUGHT FOR MURDER
Police Sketch of Gunman

The gunman approached the room service employee and forced him to follow him into the lobby of the hotel where the two guests were seated.

Lt. Lorton said police are uncertain as to the gunman's motive, but believe a robbery may have been planned.

The gunman ordered the two guests to get into the elevator, but the victim refused and began to walk away. Three to five shots were fired from a small caliber handgun, with at least one bullet striking the hotel guest, police said.

The hotel employee and second guest were in the elevator at the time.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy General Hospital in Santa Ana.

Descriptions from the uninjured guest and the hotel employee have led to a composite drawing of a suspect described as a white male in his early 20s with blond to light brown hair and brown eyes. The suspect is approximately five feet eight inches tall and weighs between 135 and 150 pounds, according to witnesses.

Coast Community College District trustees said Wednesday they won't send out blanket dismissal notices in anticipation of the passage of the Jarvis-Gann tax initiative, which would reduce district property tax revenues by about $14 million.

Some school districts across the state have sent out the notices, conditional on the initiative's passage, because state law provides that teachers must be notified by March 15 if they are to be dismissed for the next school year. (Related stories Page A3.)

District spokesman Richard Simon said trustees unanimously voted not to send the notices but instead to issue information to all employees about possible effects on programs and personnel if the initiative passes.

Simon said trustees discussed the possibility of trying to continue operating with full staff in the 1978-79 year and making cuts for the following year if necessary.

He said the colleges — Golden West, Orange Coast and Coastline—would be operated until funds ran out, at which time they would all be closed and an emergency funding application be made to the state.

Simon said trustees cited the effect on employee morale in deciding not to issue across-the-board dismissal notices.

Charges of Therapy Violation Dropped

Charges of illegally practicing psychology without a license against a Huntington Beach man were dropped Tuesday in West Orange County Judicial District.

James K. McCann, a UC Extension business seminar director, was charged last October with four counts of violating the State Business and Professions Code in his now-defunct Huntington Beach hypnosis center, 17522 Beach Blvd. He was not arrested.

Deputy District Attorney Mike Nunn asked the charges against McCann be dropped because the prosecutor received "assurances" from the accused hypnotist that the alleged violations would not recur.

McCann closed his hypnosis practice late last October. He declined to comment on the dismissal of charges by Municipal Judge Kenneth Smith.

Nunn said a female undercover agent from the State Medical Quality Assurance Board received "hypnosis therapy" from McCann during four October visits to the hypnotist's office.

Hypnosis therapy can only be used by a licensed hypnotherapist or in the presence of a physician, according to the State Business and Professions Code.

McCann was granted a business license last year by the Huntington Beach City Council to practice hypnosis.

But state officials charged that he went beyond practicing simple hypnosis as permitted by the city.

"Usually, all we try to do in these cases is to get the violator to stop the practice," Nunn said.

Republicans Unveil Code

Orange County Republican candidates, many of them facing stiff primary competition, have been asked by their party's county central committee to sign its so-called 11th commandment: Thou shall not speak ill of any other Republican.

A code of ethics has been sent by the Orange County Republican Central Committee's Ethics Committee to all GOP candidates.

Candidates are asked to sign a statement that they will conduct their campaigns ethically, not attack the integrity, ability or sincerity of other Republican candidates and support whoever wins their party's nomination.

A list of candidates signing the pledge will be made public.

Candidates ignoring the code of ethics may lose the central committee's support in the general election in November. Grievances will be heard by the ethics committee.

The committee is chaired by Bill Hill of the 70th Assembly. Other members include Central Committee members Louise Steel, 69th Assembly; Jim Meehan, 73rd Assembly; William Dougherty, 70th Assembly; and Ruthelyn Plummer, 74th Assembly.

Ethics committee members also include Vera Manning, Orange County Federation of Republican Women; Bob Whitmore, Orange County California Republican Assembly; Larry Griffith, Orange County Young Republicans; Tim Haidinger, Republican Associates; and Juanita Firth and Charlotte Mousel, California Federation of Republican Women.

Supplies Reach Victims

Twelve tons of food and supplies were airlifted Tuesday to 28 people, including a Newport Beach couple, stranded by recent storms in Teneja Valley, a remote portion of southwestern Riverside County.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson of Newport Beach, are remaining to care for animals on their ranch until a road is reestablished into the valley. Peterson owns Peterson Diversified in Costa Mesa.

A helicopter from Santa Ana Air Base made three drops of food, supplies and animal feed into the valley.

A third Newport Beach resident, Tom Beckman, flew into the area Tuesday to care for his ranch, according to Keith Cordrey, also of Newport Beach. Cordrey helped organize the airlift.

A private plane brought four people out of the area Sunday, Cordrey said, but other residents are remaining to care for their animals.

Riverside County road crews have estimated the repair of the 13 mile dirt road leading into the valley could take one to three weeks depending on the weather, Cordrey added.

Thieves Take Balboa Isle Welcome Sign

A picturesque wooden sign welcoming visitors to Balboa Island has been stolen and island shopkeepers are appealing to Orange Coast residents to help them recover it.

"I don't know of anybody that could use it," said Jim Jennings, owner of Jim Jennings Balboa Island Union Station and a co-sponsor of the sign.

"It has to be a college fraternity, that's the only thing I can figure."

The four-foot by four-foot sign, about six inches thick and weighing 150 pounds, was stolen last weekend, Jennings said. He said heavy bolts holding it down had been cut.

An earlier sign, put up about four years ago at the intersection of Park and Marine avenues, was stolen about two years ago and immediately replaced, Jennings said. "That's the last one we're going to purchase," he added.

The sign, which contained the message "Welcome to Beautiful Balboa Island" surrounded by hand-carved borders, cost $350, he said. The Village Inn and Jennings shared the cost.

It didn't start out to be a landmark, Jennings said, but "it was so colorfully done that every tourist who came onto the island immediately stood beside it and had their picture taken."

Alpine Inn Told To Reduce Noise

The 26-year-old Alpine Inn in Silverado Canyon won't be closed down, Orange County supervisors decided Wednesday.

Rather than revoke the inn's operating permit, supervisors ordered that weekend rock music which irked some inn neighbors should be quieted down after midnight.

Supervisor Ralph Diedrich suggested that if additional soundproofing can be installed by inn operators during the next 90 days, the midnight music curfew might be lifted.

Some inn neighbors had complained about late night amplified rock music on weekends as well as noisy motorcycles and the behavior of some inn patrons.

Others viewed the inn as an asset in the rustic, winding canyon and said its operators had tried to be good neighbors.

Diedrich said Wednesday he viewed the rock music noise as the chief issue.

Bloodmobile Visits Slated In Newport

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will be making two visits to Newport Center and Fashion Island this month.

Lucy Hart of the Orange County chapter of the Red Cross said the first visit, from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. March 27 at the Marriott Hotel, is open to the public. Reservations can be made by calling 835-5381.

The next day, the bloodmobile will pay its regular visit to Fashion Island, where employees of major department stores are expected to participate.

In the past, Mrs. Hart said, Fashion Island employees have donated about 100 pints per visit. However, because of the addition of a Bullock's Wilshire and a Neiman-Marcus store, she said 140 pints are anticipated this time.

materials and parts essential to manufacturing industries has decreased, and unemployment has increased and threatens to increase drastically if the coal strike is allowed to continue."

Many states have ordered power cutbacks and have warned that deeper cuts may be necessary as stockpiles dwindle.

Efforts to get negotiations resumed between the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association appeared in a holding pattern.

Both the Union and the industry have indicated a willingness to resume talks, but on somewhat different terms.

In its report to Carter the fact-finding board said several witnesses at a hearing "expressed the view . . . that further negotiations could produce" a settlement.

The government's request to the court was accompanied by 11 affidavits from Cabinet members and other government officials, describing the potential damage of a continued strike.

The government's claim that the nation's "health and safety" were in danger is a test under the Taft-Hartley Act for whether an order should be issued.

The government made its request as the Labor Department reported that 25,500 factory workers were laid off their jobs last week because of the strike. Strike-related layoffs increased by 2,900 from the previous week, the agency said.

The government's petition asks that the order be directed at 1,451 defendants, including the UMW and its president, Arnold Miller, as well as hundreds of union locals. Also named as a defendant was the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and more than 250 coal companies.

In addition, the government's petition was directed against mine contracting companies, which are negotiating separately with the UMW for a contract to cover an estimated 14,000 construction miners.

Guest Shot to Death at Mesa Hotel

By MICHAEL PASKEVICH
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A South Coast Plaza hotel guest was shot and killed early today after he refused the commands of an unidentified gunman to join the gunman and two hostages on an elevator ride from the lobby of the Costa Mesa Hotel, police said.

The name of the victim of the 2:46 a.m. shooting is being withheld pending notification of family members. Police would only say that the dead man was from out of state.

The gunman fled immediately after the shooting and is still being sought by police.

A second male guest and a hotel employee who were being held hostage by the gunman managed to escape by closing the doors of the elevator as the gunman fired several times at his victim.

According to Costa Mesa Police Lt. George Lorton, the fatal incident began in the ground floor kitchen area of the hotel, 666 Anton Blvd.

The gunman approached the room service employee and forced him to follow him into the lobby of the hotel where the two guests were seated.

Lt. Lorton said police are uncertain as to the gunman's motive, but believe a robbery may have been planned.

The gunman ordered the two guests to get into the elevator, but the victim refused and began to walk away. Three to five shots were fired from a small caliber handgun, with at least one bullet striking the hotel guest, police said.

The hotel employee and second guest were in the elevator at the time.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy General Hospital in Santa Ana

CHALLENGES ASSERTIONS
School Trustee Kohler

By LAURIE KASPER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A Saddleback Valley Unified School District teachers' bargaining unit leader has raised questions of a possible conflict of interest on the part of a district trustee.

Bill Mecham, president of the Saddleback Valley Educators Association (SVEA), presented reporters with a letter Wednesday in which trustee Bill Kohler solicited insurance business from a district teacher.

About the same time the letter was sent out, Kohler was opposing a deferred compensation plan proposed for district employees that would offer benefits similar to the tax sheltered annuity plan Kohler was selling.

The deferred compensation plan eventually was passed by trustees, with Kohler casting a dissenting vote.

Mecham admitted he could not actually charge the trustee with a conflict of interest because he has no proof that the trustee intended to make financial gain by his action.

If he had proof of this, Mecham said, he would have taken it to the county Grand Jury. Proof, he explained, would have to be something written or a witness's testimony that Kohler said his motive was personal profit.

But the teachers' association leader argued that the combination of Kohler's opposition to the deferred compensation plan and his solicitation of employees for the tax sheltered annuity plan is "about as much a conflict of interest as you can get."

"I have not broken any laws. I have not done anything unethical," Kohler said when contacted this morning.

The trustee said he has not threatened anyone in his business dealings with employees and couldn't threaten anyone because he is not involved in the process of evaluating

Six Held On Sex Charges

One man and five women were jailed Wednesday on prostitution charges after police alleged the suspects used a Costa Mesa dating service to cover a call girl ring.

Police assert that two Huntington Beach policewomen infiltrated the operation by posing as call girls.

The arrests came at a Laguna Hills hotel where vice officers allege the five women and man were offered $1,800 for "convention services."

Orange County Sheriff's officers said the arrests were made possible through the combined efforts of Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and Garden Grove police.

Vice officers said more than 14 male patrons had gathered at the Laguna Hills hotel to purchase the services allegedly to be provided out of Kats Enterprises of 230 17th St., Costa Mesa.

Sam Charles Wright, 32, of 213 17th St. and Kathleen Eileen Hill, 22, of 17402 Waal Circle, both of Huntington Beach, were arrested on charges of pimping.

Investigators alleged that Wright and Miss Hill were the couple who handled negotiations between the group of male clients and the call girls assigned to meet them at the Laguna Hills hotel.

Officers said the arrests were made at the moment money exchanged hands in the hotel room.

Also jailed on prostitution charges were Kathryn Jean Huberty, 24, Catherine Sue Ferguson, 19, Carla Meredith, 28, and Sandra Baker, 26, all of Huntington Beach.

Investigators said the method of selling sex allegedly used by the defendants was via what has become known to vice investigators as "the convention approach."

City Voters Blamed for Bond Defeat

City voters were blamed by Capistrano Unified School District Superintendent Jerome Thornsley Wednesday for the Tuesday defeat of the district's $49.3 million school construction bond issue.

The sprawling Capistrano school district, which takes in 20 percent of Orange County land, includes the unincorporated communities of Dana Point, Capistrano Beach, Laguna Niguel and eastern Mission Viejo — where the bond measure passed — and the cities of San Juan Capistrano and San Clemente — where it was defeated.

"In the unincorporated areas, the bond measure was the only issue on the ballot, and it passed 2.5 to 1," said Thornsley. "In Mission Viejo the vote was 10 to 1 in favor of the bonds. But the two cities, particularly San Clemente, pulled it down."

The defeat of the bond measure — the third in two years — prompted some Mission Viejo residents to ask Thornsley for legal guidelines for creating their own Mission Viejo school district.

Mission Viejo voters have consistently supported bond issues to pay for new school construction. San Clemente voters have just as consistently been opposed to the three attempts to pass the bond measures.

"San Clemente people have to realize they are not supporting school building just in Mission Viejo," said Thornsley. "They are going to need new schools right in their own back yard as development begins on the three major San Clemente ranches."

The bond issue, if approved, would not have increased the district's 1978-79 tax rate of 90 cents, Thornsley said.

County Sets Ambulance Service Fee

Residents of unincorporated Orange County communities in need of ambulance service can expect to pay at least $60 a call.

That is the base rate set by county supervisors for the 15 ambulance firms operating in unincorporated county areas.

Firms also are to charge $3 per mile of travel, $10 extra for calls between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. and $12.50 for each 15 minutes of waiting time.

In addition, they can collect $10 for use of oxygen, up to $20 for medical supplies used on a trip and $10 for emergency runs.

Mike Williams, county emergency medical services director, said according to new county ambulance regulations all firms in the unincoprorated area must charge the rates set by supervisors.

He said the rates are about the same as those already charged by the ambulance companies.

Rates will be reviewed again in six months by the county's Emergency Medical Care Committee, he said, and later will be subject to review and possible change annually.

2 Trapped in Sub 300 Feet Down

LERWICK, Shetland Islands (AP) — A two-man submarine engaged in North Sea oil operations snagged in a wire about 80 miles east of here and was trapped on the seabed nearly 300 feet down today, operators said.

The P. and O. Steam Navigation Company, which is operating the submarine named the PC 9 for the American Conoco oil concern, said it became trapped at mid-day.

"The two men aboard have enough oxygen and food to last eight days," a company spokesman said. "They are sitting calmly on the bottom waiting to be rescued."

The two were believed to be British, but the company said it will not release their names "until we are sure their next-of-kin are notified."

The sub had been working on a wellhead in the Murchison field, the company said.

He said the mother ship, Sub Sea 2, is standing by while a second mother ship, the Sub Sea 1, is steaming to the scene with a rescue submersible from Montrose on the Scottish east coast.

"The Sub Sea 1 should arrive on the scene Friday and start rescue operations immediately with the manned submersible it is carrying, the Mermaid 3," the spokesman said.

Hippo Foils 'em Again

Bubbles Sidesteps Snare; Trap Still Untested

By PHILIP ROSMARIN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"She came out on the wrong side of the pond (a trap awaits on the other side) and slipped back into the water," explained Jane Culjis, Lion Country Safari's marketing director, in recounting the latest overnight failure to capture Bubbles, the wild animal park's runaway hippo.

"I guess she wasn't hungry and was bored by the situation."

A bored hippopotamus has an imposing yawn.

Less imposing are the yawns of exhausted Lion Country rangers who have now spent 17 night-long vigils waiting for Bubbles to give herself up.

Their latest ruse to get her, a pole, net and pulley affair meant to snare Bubbles in netting so she can be tranquilized, still awaits testing.

Nobody knows if it will work. It's the first time the rangers have ever had to catch a hippo in the wild — the wild being a small pond off Laguna Canyon Road near Laguna Beach, several miles from Lion Country.

SHE'LL NEVER STRAY AGAIN

Among hundreds of suggestions for capturing Bubbles, Lion Country Safari's wayfaring hippopotamus, was this latest one today:

Fill her pond with plaster of Paris, a caller advised Let it set. Then, when dry, just pull out the mold and you've got Bubbles, suitable for mounting.

Today Lion Country officials seriously considered accepting the offer of a man who claims to be the nephew of Frank Buck, the legendary lion tamer. Only, Dr. Alan C. Buck purports to be a hippo tamer who has caught 100 such beasts in his day.

Said Mrs. Culjis, "It's absolutely phenomenal, the number of people who claim to do nothing but capture hippopotamuses for a living. And they're all right in the area."

She said at least 35 people claim the profession.

"There can't be that many professional hippo catchers in Southern California," Mrs. Culjis said. "There can't be."

SVUSD BUS DRIVERS RACK UP MORE THAN 4.5 MILLION MILES WITHOUT ACCIDENT

64 Years of Safety

Saddleback School Bus Drivers Cited

Five Saddleback Valley Unified School District bus drivers were presented awards Wednesday from the California Highway Patrol recognizing their many miles of safe driving.

Henry Marman, Bette Harmon, Minnie Spangler and Joyce Zacher have each driven school buses for more than a million miles and never had an accident. Joan Pangle has driven more than 500,000 accident-free miles.

Combined, the five drivers have 64 years experience and made the equivalent of 900 trips from Los Angeles to New York without an accident, said Dave Bennett, the district's driver/trainer.

He noted that the district is "number one" with the best driver-safety record in Orange County. In the state, he said, the district is considered one of the three safest districts.

CHP Officer William Fielder commended the drivers for their work.

"I've found out that school bus driving is a thankless profession," he said. But, he added, if critics took the time to find out what people have to do to become school bus drivers, "they would be astounded, absolutely amazed."

Coal Strike Lashed

Judge Asked to Order Miners to Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration asked a federal judge today to order striking coal miners back to work, saying the 94-day coal strike would "imperial the national health and safety" if it continues.

Justice Department lawyers, acting under the Taft-Hartley Act, asked the U.S. District Court in Washington to order members of the striking United Mine Workers union back to the mines immediately.

The government also asked for a court order directing coal companies to reopen the mines idle since the strike began Dec. 6.

The request was assigned to Judge Aubrey Robinson, one of the 12 federal judges who preside in the district. The judge was expected to set a hearing on the request and then decide whether to grant the government's request for an injunction.

The government petition asks that the order be directed at 1,450 union entities, coal companies and individuals named in the court papers.

Officials said Attorney General Griffin Bell planned to be in court when government attorneys argued their case later. His presence was seen as a sign of the importance that the Carter administration attaches to the case.

Bell said, "I believe that the miners will obey the law and this includes court orders. I also have every confidence that law enforcement officers in the states concerned will provide adequate and effective protection for those miners returning to work. We are a nation committed to law."

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, Robinson has the power to order the miners back to work for 80 days and to direct both sides to resume good-faith bargaining.

Failure to comply could result in fines or prison for contempt of court.

Leaders of the 160,000 striking miners and government officials expect widespread defiance of a back-to-work order.

Contract Talks Set For Capo Teachers

Teacher contract negotiations were scheduled to begin today in the Capistrano Unified School District, where teachers have proposed a 10 percent pay hike.

In addition to the 10 percent salary boost, teachers represented by the Capistrano Unified Education Association have proposed a contract calling for full health care for dependents, more flexible working hours and binding arbitration.

Teachers have also proposed a new pay schedule for speech therapists, improved working conditions for school nurses and new coaching positions for junior high sports.

In its counter proposal, the school district has offered an increase of four percent, which would cover fringe benefits, salary increases and any other cost increases.

Cost to the school district if the CUEA proposal were accepted would be $2.8 million, said Sam Chicas, assistant superintendent for general services. The district's four percent proposal would cost $850,000, including $350,000 to maintain the present teacher salary schedule, said Chicas.

The annual base pay for a beginning teacher in the Capistrano Unified School District is currently $10,555. An experienced teacher, holding a master's degree, can earn $23,045 a year. Teachers with doctorate degrees earn an additional $675 a year.

A 1976 teacher contract increased Capistrano Unified teacher salaries by 8.4 percent. A six percent salary boost agreement was reached in 1977.

complete negotiations before school is out, and we administrators would like to be done before the new fiscal year starts July 1, but it doesn't usually work out that way," said Robert Knapp, personnel director. "We may be in negotiations through the summer."

Teacher salaries, excluding fringe benefits, accounted for $13.1 million, or 45 percent, of the $29.4 million 1977-78 school district budget.

CB Radios Taken From MV Office

Intruders who gained entry by throwing a rock through the glass pane of the front door took four CB radios valued at $1,127 from a Mission Viejo office.

Orange County sheriff's officers said the break-in and theft was reported by officials of Tower Electronic, Inc., 24001 Alicia Parkway. The office was closed at the time.

Employees, he added, have the right to say yes or no to his business proposals.

Kohler also questioned whether the teachers are opposed to his tax sheltered annuity business or his opposition to public employee unionism.

Mecham said he has raised the issue publicly and written to Kohler as well as Superintendent Richard Welte because "We want Mr. Kohler to stop trying to sell insurance to us."

In his letter to the trustee, he also asked, "that you refrain voting on topics which may be related to your business interests."

And, in his letter to the superintendent, he said Kohler "may possibly" be using the district personnel directory to solicit business for his insurance company. He argued that the district has a policy limiting use of that directory to official district business.

However, Agnes Meck, assistant to the superintendent, said the district has no such policy. But in December, she said, a memo was sent from the personnel department informing employees that names and addresses are not to be given to any commercial organization.

Supervisor Clark Backs 'TIN CUP'

By GARY GRANVILLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

County Supervisor Ralph Clark endorsed the TIN CUP political campaign reform initiative today.

Clark cast the lone dissenting vote last week in a 4-1 Board of Supervisors ballot that enacted a county campaign reform measure.

In endorsing the TIN CUP ballot measure today, Clark said he will move to have the county ordinance rescinded should the county's voters approve the initiative in November.

As things stand now, TIN CUP (Time Is Now, Clean Up Politics) workers are circulating petitions seeking about 54,000 voter signatures needed to move the initiative onto the ballot.

That drive has continued despite enactment last week of the county ordinance seeking to regulate campaigns of those in quest of county elected offices.

Clark criticized that ordinance for, among other things, creating "a paper tiger" fair political practices commission "hand picked" by the Board of Supervisors.

The Anaheim supervisor also characterized the county ordinance as "more illusion than reform."

Simultaneously, Clark said he is "not entirely satisfied with all aspects of TIN CUP."

In contrast to the county ordinance, the TIN CUP initiative seeks to control campaign activities of county supervisors rather than all elected county officials.

It sets the amount supervisorial candidates can accept in any year from individual political donors to $500 rather than the $1,000 per election limitation in the county legislation.

TIN CUP also aims its reform arrows at lobbyists and the amount of influence and activity they can generate on the county campaign front.

El Toro Man Sues School Over Injuries

A three-judge panel in Orange County Superior Court admitted Wednesday that it goofed when it released an opinion to the effect that Mrs. Lewis' appeal against an earlier ruling was rejected.

Judges John L. Flynn Jr. and William S. Lee upheld the trial court's ruling for the district against the San Clemente woman who had kept her son home.

But the embarrassed judges then discovered that they had acted and signed the judgment without the approval of Judge Robert H. Green who is putting together a dissenting opinion.

Judge Green's opinion isn't ready yet, however. The trio of judges will meet March 23 to discuss his written comments and then determine how they will rule on the Lewis issue.

Judges contacted today said it is by no means certain that the next decision will be a 2-1 ruling against Mrs. Lewis.

"It could well be that they might agreen with Judge Green's views and go along with him," a judge explained.

"Anyway, they shouldn't have acted as they did without waiting for his opinion.

In the trial court, Mrs. Lewis was placed on three years probation after a jury found that she unlawfully kept her son home from school.

Her attorney unsuccessfully argued that the verdict returned last June by a South Orange County Municipal Court jury should be overturned.

Mrs. Lewis prosecuted by the Saddleback school district on the grounds that she kept her 12-year-old son home from school for three months early last year without providing school authorities an acceptable doctor's note.

Father Sues Schools Over Teen's Mishap

Damages to be determined in trial court were demanded from the Saddleback Valley Unified School District Wednesday by the father of a Mission Viejo High School student who assertedly was run over by a tractor while engaging in athletics on the track field.

The Orange County Superior Court lawsuit was filed by Edward Eugene Hatter, 25892 Serenata Drive, Mission Viejo, for his son, Bryan Travis Hatter, 16.

It is alleged that the youth was knocked down by the tractor which twice ran over him on May 3, 1977, inflicting serious injuries. It is alleged that negligence by school authorities led to the accident.

Flynt Facing Surgery

ATLANTA (AP) — A bullet that struck Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt and lodged an inch or two from his spine has left him at least temporarily paralyzed from the waist down, doctors say.

They said the bullet also broke bones and left debris in Flynt's body.

Flynt, 34, was to undergo surgery today, three days after he and his lawyer were shot as they walked along a street in Lawrenceville, Ga., where Flynt was on trial on a charge of distributing obscenity in Gwinnett County.

"The operation hopefully will relieve pressure on the spinal column," said Andrew Jaffe, a spokesman for Flynt.

Dr. George Tindall, a neurosurgeon, said he would perform a laminectomy — removal of all or part of a vertebra.

Flynt "cannot move his legs, but he does have sensation in both legs," said Dr. John Galambos.

Flynt was transferred Wednesday from Button Gwinnett Hospital to Emory under heavy security. Jaffe said the publisher's family felt "better equipment and better specialists" were available at Emory. He said Mrs. Flynt was saying at the hospital with her husband.

Flynt has been reported in critical condition almost continuously since he and lawyer Gene Reeves were shot Monday.

Reeves, 47, was reported in satisfactory condition at Button Gwinnett, and authorities said Wednesday the lawyer's vital signs were stable.

Was Baby Alive?

Defense Witness Admits Possibility

A pathologist who is testifying as a defense witness told an Orange County Superior Court jury Wednesday that a newborn infant allegedly murdered by Dr. William Baxter Waddill "was probably alive" at the time injuries to its neck were nflicted.

Dr. Susan B. Turkel offered that opinion during a long day of cross examination from Deputy District Attorney Robert Chatterton.

And Chatterton made no secret of the fact that he regards the statement by the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center pathologist as reinforcement of the prosecution's belief that Waddill strangled the baby to death.

Dr. Turkel earlier testified that the baby allegedly murdered on March 2, 1977, in the Westminster Community Hospital nursery may well have succumbed to hypoxia, an oxygen deficiency that claims the lives of many prematurely born infants.

Using slides to point out areas of hemorrhage to the jury, she stated that injuries suffered by criminal action were an unlikely cause since such physical pressure would havs left larger areas of hemorrhage.

Waddill, 44, of Huntington Harbour, is accused of strangling the infant after he learned that the 31-week fetus had survived an abortion induced when injected a saline solution into the unwed, 18-year-old mother.

Prop. 13 Threatens Few Teaching Jobs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Though the Jarvis property tax initiative would cost California public schools billions of dollars, it appears relatively few districts would lay off teachers.

With some notable exceptions like Los Angeles and San Diego, many of the state's 1,047 school districts apparently will not notify teachers by the March 15 state deadline that they face possible layoffs next year.

That means most districts will have to find other ways to cut budgets if voters approve the Jarvis measure, Proposition 13 on June 6, and if the state does not immediately restore the lost revenue.

Possible budget-slashing methods include salary cuts, half-day sessions, elimination of programs such as band, sports and counseling, and closing schools once the money runs out.

"Most school districts are adopting a wait-and-see attitude," says Gordon Winton, spokesman for the Association of California School Administrators. "They say they'll run the schools until they run out of money."

William Fisher, superintendent of the Orinda Union School District in Contra Costa County, said Wednesday that most of the local school officials attending a recent meeting "decided the best thing to do is play it cool."

He said it could be illegal to send layoff notices on the basis of an initiative that hasn't been voted on yet, and to increase class size for financial reasons.

Winton's group has issued a legal opinion saying such layoff notices are invalid, although some school district lawyers disagree.

"The attitude of 'Henny Penny, the sky is falling' would create all kinds of problems," Fisher added. "Probably something will be done" by the state to restore the money.

The Jarvis initiative would cut property taxes by 55 percent, or $7 billion, by limiting them to 1.25 percent of market value, a figure that would decline to one percent gradually as bond debts are paid off.

State school Superintendent Wilson Riles has estimated the measure would cost schools $2.5 billion, or 38 percent of their revenue. Some school groups have made higher estimates.

Supplies Reach Victims

Twelve tons of food and supplies were airlifted Tuesday to 28 people, including a Newport Beach couple, stranded by recent storms in Teneja Valley, a remote portion of southwestern Riverside County.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson of Newport Beach, are remaining to care for animals on their ranch until a road is reestablished into the valley. Peterson owns Peterson Diversified in Costa Mesa.

A helicopter from Santa Ana Air Base made three drops of food, supplies and animal feed into the valley.

A third Newport Beach resident, Tom Beckman, flew into the area Tuesday to care for his ranch, according to Keith Cordrey, also of Newport Beach. Cordrey helped organize the airlift.

A private plane brought four people out of the area Sunday, Cordrey said, but other residents are remaining to care for their animals.

Riverside County road crews have estimated the repair of the 13 mile dirt road leading into the valley could take one to three weeks depending on the weather, Cordrey added.

Won't Be Closed

Alpine Inn Told To Reduce Noise

The 26-year-old Alpine Inn in Silverado Canyon won't be closed down, Orange County supervisors decided Wednesday.

Rather than revoke the inn's operating permit, supervisors ordered that weekend rock music which irked some inn neighbors should be quieted down after midnight.

Supervisor Ralph Diedrich suggested that if additional soundproofing can be installed by inn operators during the next 90 days, the midnight music curfew might be lifted.

Some inn neighbors had complained about late night amplified rock music on weekends as well as noisy motorcycles and the behavior of some inn patrons.

Others viewed the inn as an asset in the rustic, winding canyon and said its operators had tried to be good neighbors.

Diedrich said Wednesday he viewed the rock music noise as the chief issue.

Old Fighter Plane Found Off Catalina

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An old fighter plane has been found by a two-man submarine crew off Catalina Island.

"It is in remarkably good shape," oceanographer Merle Wilson told a news conference Wednesday. If his firm is allowed to salvage it, he said the plane will be donated to the Aero-Space Museum in San Diego which is being rebuilt after a fire.

Wilson said the plane, believed to be from World War II, was found Tuesday by sonar equipment of the submarine Nekton Beta, owned and operated by his General Oceanographics firm.

Club Fights To Keep Gals

DUARTE (AP) — The Duarte Rotary Club, faced with the order to kick out its three women members or get kicked out of Rotary International, has decided to seek legal action to keep the club in the parent body.

"We have already made a decision to keep the women," club secretary Bill Brooks said Wednesday.

Brooks said an attorney has offered his services to seek a way to stay in Rotary International despite the fact that its constitution prohibits women members.

Marine Faces Court-martial In 'Hazing'

The Marine Corps says a rifle filled with blanks was fired at a recruit acting as a make-believe war prisoner in a Camp Pendleton field exercise.

A general court-martial has been ordered for Staff Sgt. Allen G. Connor, 23, of Brooklyn, N.Y., on six charges, including two alleging that he fired the rifle twice at the 17-year-old Marine.

The recruit, Pvt. W.L. Taylor of Boyd, Texas, was taking part in a field exercise Dec. 20, a base spokesman said. Although no report was made of the shooting, Taylor suffered a slight powder burn.

Medical personnel who treated Taylor reported the incident.

No date has been set for Connor's trial.

Special Agent Joe Chiaramonte, head of the FBI's San Jose office, said Wednesday an officer lifted the bedding off the steamer trunk, which was being guarded by a German shepherd dog.

Rent Break Expected

By JACKIE HYMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Howard Jarvis said Wednesday in Anaheim that if the tax relief initiative he authored passes on June 6, he believes apartment owners will give renters a break.

"I expect to have before very long a solid commitment of 90 percent of the apartment owners in this state that they will cut rent if 13 (the initiative's ballot number) passes," Jarvis said at a forum sponsored by CEEED, a business-labor lobbying coalition.

CEEED stands for Californians for an Environment of excellence, full Employment and a strong Economy through planned Development.

He himself works for the Los Angeles Apartment House Association.

Questions have been raised about the effects on renters of Jarvis' Proposition 13.

Other speakers at the CEEED luncheon were Trevor A. Cushman Jr., president of the Laguna Beach Taxpayers Association; Paul Hummel, a Newport Beach planning commissioner and city council candidate; Santa Ana City Manager Bruce Spragg, and Murry L. Cable, director of Orange County's Medical Services Administration.

Jarvis also commented on the Behr bill, tax relief legislation signed by Governor Brown. It will go into effect if Proposition 13 is defeated.

SEES RENT REDUCTION
Bill Sponsor Jarvis

"It's the worst monstrosity I've ever seen in my life," Jarvis said. "It's an insult."

When Cushman and Hummel expressed doubt about renters receiving relief, Jarvis said, "I think we will get a general rent reduction across this state. If you're paying $200 a month, I expect a $20 reduction."

He said competition would bring the price down. Asked by Cable why a rent-lowering provision wasn't written into the initiative, Jarvis replied that the bill would have then had to provide that all prices be lowered, since most businesses would receive tax relief.

Jarvis denied charges that he has been influenced by big business, saying some large businesses oppose the initiative and that he was fighting for lower taxes before he worked for the apartment association.

Jarvis also said he does not believe schools would be affected by the sharp cuts in property tax revenues because the state Constitution requires the state to finance schools.

Another of the initiative's provisions was challenged by Cable. Under the measure, assessed valuations could rise only two percent per year unless a piece of property was sold, at which time it could be reassessed at market value.

Cable pointed out that homeowners change property more frequently and would, therefore, end up with higher valuations than business Jarvis responded that his bill would merely treat all properties equally.

He added that while some public employees will lose their jobs, he expects to see 300,000 new jobs available statewide.

"One of the things I think this bill will do is develop the biggest business and building boom this state has ever seen," Jarvis said.

Big Jess Off, Running

OFF & JOGGING — SLOWLY: Word has reached our region today that Jesse M. Unruh, former speaker of the California Assembly, former Mr. Big of the Legislature and former gubernatorial candidate, is once again on the election trail.

Alas, it must be reported that Jess hasn't exactly roared away from the election starting gate in an enormous cloud of dust, scattering opponents in his wake.

This is somewhat melancholy, when you consider the style of his charge off the line nearly eight years ago when he challenged Ronald Reagan for the governor's chair.

UNRUH

A TAD SHORT OF Long Green in the old war chest, Unruh proved back then that he was a clever campaigner. He staged a series of "media events."

These well-orchestrated happenings were calculated to sucker the television people into rushing out with all their lights and cameras and giving Unruh free air time. To a large degree, Unruh's gimmick worked.

Democrat Unruh, it should be noted, wasn't the least bit shy about waltzing right into Reagan Country in the effort to bamboozle the TV boys with his Boob Tube Bandwagon.

So it was that Jess came down to our coastal region to decry the "giveaway" in a complex Upper Newport Bay tidelands exchange between the Irvine Company and Orange County government.

HE STOOD UPON the cliff's edge and emoted while television cameras groaned away. He even got into an argument with a couple of staunch Newport Beach citizens who happened to be passing by. It was great fun.

History, however, records that Unruh lost the governor's race to Reagan and the Back Bay tidelands swap never came to pass.

But today, Unruh is back running again. This time there are no frantic "media events" for the tube. No brass bands. No heavyweight hoopla.

Unruh is seeking re-election to his current post as state treasurer. He didn't even call a press conference. Jess just shipped out a few mimeographed notices.

I didn't even get one. It was somewhat disappointing in that just one year ago I almost became Unruh's pen pal.

I had written a piece about fabled senior citizen Robert Simpson, who used to picket the capitol halls carrying X-rated placards. The suggestion was the old man had even angered Unruh.

JESS PROTESTED in a letter, saying he supported the late Mr. Simpson's picketing rights. I wrote that report too.

Then exactly one year ago today, Jess wrote back again. He said, "At the risk of us becoming pen pals, let me thank you for your column on my relationship with the late Mr. Simpson . . . his (Simpson's) words were too picturesque for a family newspaper. So they will have to remain my secret unless you come to Sacramento in which case you may expose your eyes to his sulphurous spewings."

Sulphurous spewings?

Rapid Gain

Food Leads Price Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices manufacturers receive for their products rose by the largest amount in three years last month as food prices showed unusually large gains, the Labor Department said today.

Consumer foods rose 2.9 percent in February, leading the increase of 1.1 percent for all finished goods.

These prices, charged at the last stage of production, usually show up at the consumer level within a few months.

CONSUMER PRICES have already begun to rise rapidly, going up 0.8 percent in January, about double the increase of last year.

The 1.1 percent increase in finished goods prices for January was the largest since a 1.9 percent increase in November 1974. It followed rises of 0.6 percent in November, 0.5 percent in December and 0.6 percent in January.

Unlike the January report, most of the increases were among foods, some of them in short supply because of the severe winter weather.

WHOLESALE PRICES turned up sharply for pork, eggs and dairy products in February after declining in the previous month. Beef and veal prices rose much more than in January. However, prices declined for roasted coffee. Prices rose less than in January for fresh and dried fruits and vegetables and processed poultry.

The 2.9 percent price increase for consumer foods followed rises of 1.1 percent in January and 0.5 percent in December.

If food is removed, wholesale prices were up 0.4 percent, about the same level as the last half of 1977.

Prices declined for jewelry, gasoline and home heating oil.

PRICES ROSE less in February than in January for automobiles, household furniture and mobile homes. However, prices rose more rapidly for beverages, soap and synthetic detergents, footwear and tobacco products.

The Labor Department's finished goods price index is intended to replace the wholesale price index, to make the monthly report coincide more with consumer prices.

JFK X-ray Supports Findings?

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Breaking a 15-year silence on the assassination of President Kennedy, the radiologist who performed the autopsy X-rays on Kennedy's body said he agrees with the Warren Commission that the fatal shots came from the rear.

Some critics of the Warren Commission report have suggested bullets striking Kennedy were fired from the front.

DR. JOHN H. Ebersole, now chief of radiation therapy at Lancaster General Hospital, said his conclusions parallel those of the Warren Commission, which said the bullets were fired from somewhere behind the Kennedy motorcade.

Ebersole, formerly assistant chief of radiology at Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital where the autopsy was performed, said Wednesday in an interview he was breaking his silence because he has been summoned to meet Saturday with investigators from the House Select Committee on Assassinations at the National Archives where the X-rays are stored.

He said if he was going to discuss the case in Washington he might as well discuss it in Lancaster.

"I WOULD SAY unequivocally the bullet came from the side or back," Ebersole said. "The front of the body, except for a very slight bruise above the right eye on the forehead, was absolutely intact. It was the back of the head that was blown off.

"There is no way that I can see on the basis of the X-rays that the bullet came from anywhere in the 180 degree angle to the front, assuming Kennedy was facing forward. It looked to me like an almost right to left shot from the rear."

Ebersole said he has not been told the reason for being called to meet with congressional investigators, but believes some pencil marks on X-rays may be puzzling them.

Red Bomb Ban Assailed

U.S. Criticizes 'One-sided Propaganda' Draft

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Soviet Union presented the Geneva disarmament conference with a draft treaty today to ban neutron bombs. The United States immediately denounced the draft as a "one-sided propaganda exercise" trying to divert attention from serious arms control efforts.

Introducing the draft, co-sponsored by seven communist allies, Soviet delegate Viktor I. Likhachev warned that development of the neutron bomb by the United States would deal a "great blow" to detente and would "unavoidably trigger retaliatory measures" by the Soviet Union.

Hijacking Fails

HONG KONG (AP) — A crewman waving an ax and a pair of scissors tried to hijack a Taiwanese jetliner to mainland China today but a security guard aboard the plane shot and killed him, police said.

The pilot and co-pilot were injured by the crewman, identified as flight engineer Shih Ming-Cheng, 34, before he was shot, police said. The plane, a Boeing 737 carrying 101 persons from Kaoshiung, Taiwan, to Hong Kong, landed at Hong Kong and the "situation was under control," a government spokesman said.

Ban Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government said today that a controversial three-month birth control shot widely used in other countries is too dangerous for contraceptive use in the United States.

Wayne Pines, a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration, said FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy has notified the drug's manufacturer and plans to announce his decision to Congress today. The drug is medroxyprogesterone, marketed by Upjohn Co. under the brand name Depo Provera.

Guerrillas to Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two guerrilla leaders who have vowed to take over Rhodesia by force are meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance today as part of an Anglo-American drive to bring all black elements into settlement.

Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe of the Patriotic Front have dismissed the current plan for black rule in Rhodesia as "the biggest sellout in African history."

Guard Linked To Pot Buys?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Federal authorities are investigating alleged use of Oklahoma Air National Guard planes to import marijuana from Mexico, reports the Daily Oklahoman.

A Washington datelined story in today's editions quotes an unnamed official as saying federal indictments are expected in the case within the week.

Brig. Gen. Stanley Newman, commander of the 137th Tactical Airlift Wing, said Wednesday night he was "dumbfounded" by the report.

Commuter Shoved Onto Subway Tracks

"I'm going to throw you in when the next train comes," police say the woman told her.

Apparently not believing her, the secretary remained where she was. Authorities say that when the train came out of the tunnel into the station, the woman pushed the secretary onto the tracks.

"I WAS AT THE OTHER end when I heard her scream," said Transit Authority Police Officer Jack Maple, on duty Wednesday at the IRT Seventh Avenue station. "She was running on the tracks, hysterically screaming for help.

"Then I saw a hand come out and she was pulled out," Maple went on. "The train just missed her by seconds."

The secretary, whose name was withheld by police, had been saved from almost certain death by an unidentified person, who reached down and snatched her from the tracks.

Maple arrested Carolyn Spector, 29, of the Bronx, who was charged with attempted murder.

Surf Report

Huntington Beach: Waves one to three feet with southwest swell. Conditions fair. Newport Beach: Waves two to three feet with southwest swell. Conditions fair.

U.S. Summary

Clearing skies were expected across Florida today following a day of heavy rain that caused scattered flooding. The weather picture for much of the rest of the nation also was wet.

The river already had crept slightly above its 12-foot flood stage Wednesday night, but officials said there were no reports of flooding.

School children in Blountstown were sent home at noon Wednesday as bus routes were threatened with flooding.

OPEC to Meet April 3

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will hold an "informal meeting" in Geneva on April 3, the official Iraq news agency has reported.

The decline of the U.S. dollar on foreign exchange markets and its effect on oil revenues are expected to be on the agenda.

Citrus Prices to Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government predicts continued high prices for oranges, grapefruit and lemons, with an overall reduction in the nation's citrus crop of 1 percent this season.

The Crop Reporting Board said Wednesday that total citrus fruit production was down by 12.9 million metric tons this season with the grapefruit crop considerably below estimates. Consumer prices for fresh citrus fruit were 13 percent higher in January than last year, and growers' prices in February were up 60 percent over the same month last year.

Airlines Cater To Diet Needs

By SYLVIA PORTER

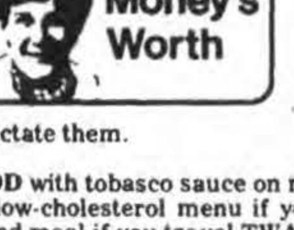
What restaurant will prepare a lacto-ovo vegetable meal? Where can you get kosher filet of sole? Kosher curry? Who serves chicken chasseur? Where can you select from a 40-menu variation?

DID YOU GUESS A FAMOUS restaurant in Stockholm for the vegetarian meal? Wrong. You can request a lacto-ovo meal before you board Trans World Airlines.

A Delhi hideaway for the curry? No. Kosher curry is served on Air India and kosher filet of sole is available from American Airlines on request two weeks before your flight.

Chicken chasseur at an upper Eastside bistro in New York? Probably — but it's also available on special order from United Airlines as part of its Weight Watchers lunch.

The menu with 40 variations? Scandinavian Airlines can produce 40 special request diets with advance notice.



Deliberately unheralded, air carriers serve thousands of special meals annually to passengers whose religious requirements or diets dictate them.

YOU CAN GET SOUL FOOD with tobasco sauce on request from United; a special low-cholesterol menu if you travel American; a special bland meal if you travel TWA.

What's more, despite the medical restrictions that govern the preparation of many of the menus, airline food experts generally make them appealing.

TWA tallied passenger reaction to special-request diets served to 19,000 passengers last August and received only 102 complaints, reports Burt Kenyon, spokesman for the airline's food and beverage planning.

MOST POPULAR OF THE special meals is kosher food, accounting for nearly half the requests. United serves close to 50,000 kosher meals a year; TWA recently added roast turkey to its traditional kosher menu entree of brisket of beef. A favorite breakfast on TWA is kosher, consisting of cheese blintzes with cherry sauce or pancakes with blueberry sauce. American has four kosher menus for first class and coach that rotate every three months. El Al serves only kosher food.

Sky Chef, a subsidiary of American Airlines, prepares meals for 33 other airlines. United has 19 kitchens, producing the bulk of its own meals. So does TWA.

SOME SPECIAL REQUESTS WON'T be approved. TWA refused a request for small meat balls — for a parakeet. Pan Am nixed a request from an economy-class passenger who said his physician insisted his diet include a lot of caviar. Pan Am recommended fish.

A key to special diets is advance notice. You can order most popular special meals by requesting them four hours in advance of flight time. Less popular meals can require 24 hours.

Passengers from the West Coast order more special diets in the low-calorie and vegetarian category than their Eastern counterparts, according to TWA.

While the airlines are under no legal obligation to serve special foods, they seldom fail to follow through on a reasonable request.

Pinkerton's Gives Tips on Meetings

This is the season of the year when thousands of companies hold annual meetings, and Pinkerton's, the nation's oldest private security firm, suggests some basic measures to insure a safe meeting:

— If the annual meeting is likely to draw a considerable attendance by shareholders, pick a meeting place that will accommodate up to twice the number of expected people. There's nothing better calculated to produce a disgruntled shareholder than having to stand.

— IF FEASIBLE, HAVE A guest book or sign-in sheet so that you have a complete record of those attending. If the crowd is large, consider issuing cards that can be filled in and deposited as people leave.

— Control entries of the meeting room. People entering and exiting from a number of side doors create noise and confusion. Have guards or ushers posted. The visible presence of uniforms has the psychological effect of projecting calm and orderliness.

— If you hire a security firm for the meeting, analyze in advance such matters as whether dissidents, demonstrators or hecklers are expected to attend, and why; the way in which disruptive people will be dealt with; the adaptibility of the meeting to good security practices; adequacy and location of utilities.

— TEST THE ROOM FOR ITS acoustics and, if a public address system is warranted, get a reliable one. If the group is large, provide portable microphones for shareholders' questions.

— Keep the program as brief as possible, while covering all the essentials and allowing the shareholders a reasonable time for questions and answers. If you fall behind schedule, cut parts of the presentation rather than time for shareholders' questions.

Security Pacific Wins District Bid

Security Pacific National Bank in South Laguna submitted a winning bid of 5.25 percent for the purchase of $2,750,000 in general obligation bonds from South Coast County Water District.

Six other bids ranging up to 5.35 percent were received.

The funds will be used by the water district to construct a 7 million-gallon terminal storage reservoir on a five-acre site in the southeast part of the district. The reservoir will be constructed underground, providing surface space for future recreational use.

Issuance of the bonds was approved by a majority of voters in the district in the general election in November.

Design work on the reservoir is now being completed and construction is expected to get under way in the early spring.

Computer Invasion

Attorney Warns of Threat to Public Privacy

By WILLIAM HODGE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

As computers get smaller and smaller — and more affordable to a vast amount of small businesses — consumer rights could suffer from potential computer errors, an attorney specializing in computer law said in San Juan Capistrano.

"We are talking about a whole new ball game," Richard Schwarzstein told a Capistrano Valley Exchange Club meeting. "Years ago a businessman would think of a small manual adding machine to help his bookkeeping.

"NOW THAT BUSINESSMAN is thinking of a lease/purchase program where he can afford his own computer."

"By digesting great amounts of information, they (computers) can watch you all along," the Newport Beach attorney said. "Computers are working their way into our lives completely.

"There is a possibility for abuse."

SCHWARZSTEIN SAID, however, the government is taking steps to protect the consumer.

"There are limits now about what the government can find out about you," he said, citing recent privacy legislation that affected computer records.

And he cited the Federal Fair Credit Billing Act as enabling consumers to examine their credit ratings through a written request.

BUT THE POTENTIAL problems of a computer-oriented society don't involve the consumer only.

Schwarzstein said many small businesses face problems growing out of dealing with a product of which they're not very knowledgeable.

"Despite the claims of computer manufacturers, the installation of a computer is a very trying process," he said. "Probably there are no two companies that are exactly alike.

"AND FREQUENTLY THE representation and fine print on the contract aren't exactly what you expected," he continued. "The courts are filled these days with cases that are showing greater sympathy for the computer users."

He cited an $11 million suit decided against IBM in favor of a Rhode Island corporation that purchased a computer system from the massive, multinational conglomerate.

"That kind of a case has caused great concern in the industry," he explained. "Buyers will apparently not sit back and be abused as they have done before."

AND THE FEDERAL government has also taken steps to regulate the nation's computer industry.

The case, which involves extremely complex testimony and exhibits, is expected to take years.

'Needs' Topic

Capo Valley Meet Planned

Human needs in the Capistrano Valley area is the topic of a community meeting sponsored Tuesday by the United Way of Orange County at 3:30 p.m. at Dana Hills High School.

Residents will be asked to join one of three discussion groups dealing with community needs of youth, adults and senior citizens.

A similar meeting is scheduled for Irvine, the Laguna area and Saddleback Valley, however dates and times for these have not been announced.

Volunteers are also needed to assist in conducting a population survey on area needs. Interested people may call 634-2252 or 770-2856.

Badham Appointments

Three From Coast Get Academy Nods

Three Orange Coast men have been offered appointments by the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs for the school year beginning in July, according to Rep. Robert E. Badham, R-Newport Beach.

They are Devin Bower, 26692 Valparaiso Drive, Mission Viejo; Christopher P. Russick, 2801 E. El Camino Real, San Clemente, and Eric T. Stake, 2014 Phalarope Court, Costa Mesa.

THEY WERE AMONG 20 young persons nominated by Badham.

Bower, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Bower, attends Mission Viejo High School where he has been a member of the varsity football and track teams.

RUSSICK IS THE son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russick and attends San Clemente High School, where he is active in varsity football and baseball.

Stake attends Estancia High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Stake. He is an Eagle Scout and plays in the school band.

Exercise Program Planned by YMCA

A six-week exercise program for people with back problems will begin at 7 p.m. Monday at the Orange Coast YMCA.

United Way Project Needs Volunteers

Volunteers are being sought for a major social needs assessment study sponsored by the Orange County North-South United Way.

The project will benefit existing and future social service needs in four areas of the south county, including Irvine, Saddleback Valley, the Laguna Beach area and the Capistrano Valley.

VOLUNTEERS ARE needed to conduct the population survey, with two-man volunteer teams conducting 10 to 12 interviews in their areas.

Capistrano Valley committee chairman Ollie Harris said the survey approach has never before been attempted in the United States, but cannot be successful without the help of students, retirees, senior citizens and housewives to volunteer some time to the study.

The first forum for volunteers will be held Tuesday at Dana Hills High School for residents of Laguna Niguel, San Juan Capistrano, Dana Point, Capistrano Beach and San Clemente. The workshop will be held from 3:30 to 6 p.m.

THE IRVINE AREA forum will be held April 3 at several schools in that city. Volunteer workshops for Laguna and Saddleback areas have not been set up to date.

To volunteer your services or for more information, call Ronald Hukill at 770-2856 or 634-2252.

Saddleback Arts Complex Rites Set

Dedication ceremonies and a classical concert will herald the opening of Saddleback College's $3.7 million Fine Arts Complex on Sunday.

Tours of the art, music, speech and theater wings of the center will be conducted beginning at 6 p.m. in the fine arts courtyard.

MONTE LABONTE, director of the Fine Arts Division, said the complex is potentially "a center for the performing and visual arts not only in southern Orange County but also for the greater Orange County and Los Angeles area as well."

He said the uniqueness of the complex is what is unique about the fine arts division.

"There is an intermixing of the disciplines, where people get together and cross the disciplines in working as a total unit," he explained.

TICKETS FOR THE dedication activities may be obtained in the college box office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 5 to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday.
