

Oil pact dashed, talks reopen

Congressional subcommittee learns why more drilling off coast 'ill-advised'

From staff and wire reports

Members of California's congressional delegation differed sharply today over their next step in a dispute over offshore oil drilling, after the collapse of an tentative agreement with Interior Secretary Donald Hodel.

With the breakdown of that agreement to permit limited exploratory drilling in 150 offshore tracts, "we're going to end up with guerrilla warfare up and down the coast of California and litigation until the year 2000 or beyond," Rep. Mel Levine, D-Los Angeles, told a House hearing in Washington D.C.

Levine and Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Santa Cruz, accused Hodel of reneging on the agreement announced July 16 and urged that Congress write the terms of the accord into law.

They agreed that would be preferable to extending past Sept. 30 the four-year moratorium on new, exploratory drilling off California that Congress imposed in 1981 in response to then-Interior Secretary James Watt's plan to open almost the entire California coast to oil development.

At a hearing of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries subcommittee on the Outer Continental Shelf, the state's Republican House members generally supported Hodel's position that the 150 tracts covered by the mid-July agreement offered too little potential for development, and that other tracts should be selected for greater productivity.

Freeway work noise feared

Nighttime racket on 405 greater concern than diamond lanes

By TONY SAAVEDRA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Residents testifying Tuesday on a project to widen the San Diego Freeway through Orange County seemed more concerned about nighttime construction noise than the car pool lanes proposed for the 24-mile stretch.

Most of the people urged the State Department of Transportation to limit roadwork to daytime hours and to make sure sound attenuation walls are built before construction begins.

About 80 people attended the public hearing at TeWinkle Intermediate School in Costa Mesa on the project to add one lane in each direction on the congested San Diego (405) Freeway.

The widening would run between the San Gabriel River (605) Freeway and the Santa Ana (5) Freeway, traversing the cities of Seal Beach, Westminster, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Costa Mesa and Irvine.

Caltrans is considering reserving the extra lanes for cars carrying two or more passengers. The proposed "high occupancy vehicle" (HOV) lanes would be similar to the ill-fated "diamond lane" experiment on the Santa Monica Freeway during the mid-1970s.

Caltrans engineer Bill Weldele said the lanes would be built along the freeway median, using the existing right-of-way.

The project would cost an estimated $44.3 million if the lanes are open to all traffic, or up to $50 million if they are reserved for car pools. State transportation officials attributed the extra costs to the additional designs and markers needed for the HOV lanes.

The Federal Highway Administration will foot 90 percent of the bill, with the remainder coming from state gasoline tax money.

Weldele said work could begin as early as January 1987 and would continue for about two years. But first the general widening plan must receive state and federal approvals.

Moreover, the lanes cannot be restricted to car pools without the blessing of the Orange County Transportation Commission, which has

Newport hotel cocaine bust nets 3 arrests

11 pounds seized in 3rd drug raid on Coast in 2 weeks

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A continuing crackdown on cocaine traffic in Orange County resulted in the seizure of 11 pounds of high-grade cocaine at a Newport Beach hotel Tuesday and the arrest of three men on suspicion of drug sales.

The cocaine bust is the third in two weeks on the Orange Coast. Drug agents have now confiscated about 138 pounds of cocaine worth nearly $17 million on the streets.

"The fact that we keep getting so much tells you something about the level of cocaine traffic in Orange County," said Newport Beach Sgt. Tim Riley. "There's just a lot of cocaine out there."

The latest drug seizure culminated a month-long investigation by the federal drug agents and narcotic officers from Brea and Newport Beach.

Riley said drug agents purchased five kilograms or about 11 pounds of top-grade cocaine at the Meridian Hotel in Newport Beach late Tuesday. Three Santa Ana men were arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to sell cocaine.

David Wayne Cantral, 22; Louis Palomino Valadez, 24; and Anthony Joseph Barela, 25, were being held today at the Newport city jail in lieu of $500,000 bail each, police said. Cantral also is being held on a robbery warrant issued out of Orange County Superior Court.

The seizure comes two weeks after federal drug agents and narcotics officers from Brea confiscated 125 pounds of cocaine by setting up a transaction at the Marriott Hotel in Irvine. Seven men were arrested during the investigation, police said.

Newport Beach police seized $40,000 worth of cocaine last Thursday and arrested a Dana Point man on suspicion of drug sales.

Lion Country's new projects win OK from Irvine

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Irvine City Council members have unanimously overturned a planning department ruling that might have jeopardized plans to build water-amusement rides at Lion Country.

City planning officials had urged a three- to four-month review be conducted before allowing construction of water slides and other amusements at the former wild animal park.

But representatives of Lion Country and American Sportsworld, the Colton-based company seeking to build the rides, said construction must begin immediately to complete the amusements for next summer.

They said the $4.5 million Lion Country project would be abandoned if the city imposed a further delay.

Tuesday's council decision hinged on whether the businesses were required to obtain a new conditional-use permit before building the water rides. Obtaining such a permit requires environmental traffic, parking and other studies. Such projects also have to be reviewed by the city's transportation and planning commissions.

The developers argued that Lion Country's existing permit, issued in 1973, was sufficient. They said it allows the proposed amusement rides.

The 1973 document lists park rides, themed amusement rides, shallow lakes, ponds and waterfalls as permitted uses in Lion Country's 48-acre entertainment area.

But Pat Hayes, a city planning staff member, said water slide amusement centers are a relatively new form of entertainment not envisioned when the original permit was issued.

Attorneys for the developers said the 15 water rides proposed for Lion Country would not create a new park but would be additions to an existing entertainment center. They said a 40-foot mound would be constructed for the water slides, but that most of the

Heroic guard shuns offers of reward

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Mike Minarchen knows that it's better to give than receive. But he also knows that receiving isn't too bad either.

Minarchen, a security guard employed by Guardsmark of Santa Ana, played the role of hero recently when he came to the rescue of a 10-year-old boy wedged in the wreckage of his mother's car.

He did what he believes anyone would have done.

"I ran out there because I wanted to make sure everyone was all right," said Minarchen, who was pulling weekend guard duty at Kaiser Elec-troprecision in Irvine when the car accident occurred near the intersection of Von Karman Avenue and Michelson Drive.

"The boy was bleeding pretty badly from the left wrist," Minarchen said. "I'm not a doctor but I know a little about first aid so I applied pressure to the wound to stop the bleeding."

Minarchen said he remained with the boy until paramedics arrived and then went back to his patrol duties.

"I was a little worried because I'm actually not supposed to leave my post. I could get fired for that," said

Minarchen, who reluctantly told his boss about the incident the following day.

But whatever concerns he had about were swept away when he got a call from Charles Ellison III, the 10-year-old's father.

The father, a Montreal entrepreneur who was visiting the Orange Coast with his family to scout out a location for a new business, said he was so appreciative of Minarchen's efforts that he wanted to • Give him a $3,000 cash reward

• Establish a college scholarship for him

• Offer him a high-level position in the family's computer business

Charles Ellison IV, the injured 18-year-old, wrote a letter to Minarchen's supervisor to underscore the family's gratitude.

"My doctors said that what he (Minarchen) did saved me from bleeding to death and I am lucky he knew what to do," the youngster wrote. "My parents are very grateful and my grandfather thinks of Mike as

Escort service thrives on Coast

More career women choosing alternate for dates at job-related social events

Like the Marine Corps, Kevin Minnich is looking for a few good men.

Applicants should be in their mid-20s to early 30s. Well-developed social skills, good health and a well-groomed appearance are musts. Knowledge of current events, business and the cultural arts are helpful.

Employees will accompany women to social and business functions. And they'll be paid handsomely for their efforts.

It's not a job, it's an adventure, an

Armed Forces recruiter would undoubtedly say.

Mention the words "escort service" in a sincere tone of voice and it surely will be greeted by snickers and winks. Only the incredibly naive, you'd think, would believe that such businesses are anything more than euphemistically named fronts for prostitution.

Escort services often are advertised in the personals portion of a newspaper's classified advertising section, next to massage parlors and private photo studios.

Minnich admits such sexual implications exist, but argues that in Orange County, there is a need for legitimate escort services that have nothing to do with the illegal sex-for-hire trade.

The need is so great, he said, that he is continually looking for new escorts. He adds that he turns down any illicit business propositions that would jeopardize the credibility of his company, Male Escorts, Ltd.

Minnich has completed only his second summer of working as an escort, but his efforts have led to a business managing 12 other young men who work part-time to earn extra money in addition to their other careers.

Beyond the escort business, Minnich is branching into services that provide drivers, bodyguards and fitness consultants.

Most of his requests come from the Orange Coast area, especially Newport Beach, Irvine and Laguna Beach. About 30 customers a week will call Male Escorts with requests for an escort at an average price of about $100 an evening.

A major factor contributing to the growing escort business is the ever-increasing number of single women in the workplace — women who see an escort service as a way to meet the social obligations of their careers without dealing with the insecurities of a date who may be uncomfortable with their assertiveness.

Passenger traffic soars at Wayne Airport

By JEFF ADLER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

As the number of flights has increased at John Wayne Airport during 1985, so has passenger traffic at the airport, jumping 10.4 percent during the first six months of the year.

Airport Manager Murry Cab said Tuesday that between January and July, 1,855,727 passengers passed through JWA's main terminal, up from the 1,680,717 travelers who used the county airport during the same period in 1984.

"It (the increase) is nothing more than a good market coupled with the flight increase," Cable explained. "That's what did it, going from 41 to 55 (flight per day)."

Supervisors voted early in the year to increase the number of daily departures from 41 to 55 beginning April 1, an 18.6 percent increase over previous years.

Because of the flight increase, Cable estimated that 3.5 million passengers will use the airport during 1985, up from 2.8 million last year.

Under terms of a compromise agreement worked out with Newport Beach city officials and two citizens' groups, the number of passengers permitted at JWA soon could increase to 4.75 million per year until a new terminal building is completed, around 1990.

While commercial airline operations increased at JWA, the number of flights by air taxi operators declined by nearly 50 percent during the first six months of 1985, in comparison to

Cable attributed the decrease in commuter airline operations to the decision by several airlines not to serve JWA any longer and to the flagging financial fortunes of several others.

While the number of commercial airline passengers arriving at JWA jumped by 10.7 percent over the first six months of 1984, the number of departing passengers using JWA increased by 10.1 percent.

ESCORT BUSINESS THRIVING ON COAST...

a social function?

"The three words that describe the business would be 'subtlety, grace and discretion,'" said Minnich, 25, of South Laguna. "If there was anything legal or sleazy about this, I wouldn't be involved. It's just not worth it."

Minnich had misgivings about the escort businesses when he started as an escort. A friend of his was trained as a Certified Public Accountant, but earned his money as an escort rather than as an accountant.

"He tried to get me to become an escort for about five years, but I kept putting him off," Minnich said. "Finally, last summer I decided to give it a whirl."

A law student who studied international relations last year at England's University of Reading, Minnich is now prepping to attend law school next September at Stanford University.

He recruited other friends — students and young professionals — to handle some of the requests he didn't have time for. And the business quickly grew.

To understand how a legitimate escort service works, Minnich said, it's important to differentiate between an escort service and a dating service.

The company isn't providing dates for lonely women. Minnich is not interested in social matchmaking.

According to Minnich and the escorts who work with him, the customers are typically highly motivated women who often feel the need to have an escort at career-related social events.

"It's difficult taking a boyfriend or date to a business meeting," said Michelle, a 30-year-old Newport Beach resident who works in marketing for an Irvine-based computer company. (Michelle and others interviewed asked that their last names not be used in this story.)

"An unattached woman can sometimes be a threat to the wives of male co-workers," she said. "You might have to be in that kind of situation to really understand what I mean, but it's true."

Michelle, who has hired an escort "about a half-dozen times," said at such social events she is interested in making professional contacts and furthering her career. Making sure a date is properly entertained and occupied would be an distraction.

Faced with the prospect of a coming meeting that would mix business in a social setting, Michelle turned to a friend who recommended Male Escorts, Ltd.

Michelle said she expects certain traits from an escort she hires.

"He should be presentable and know how to properly meet people. He should be interested in what's going on, well-spoken and current in terms of what's going on — in fact, they're paid to be interested in what's going on," she said.

"Physically, all I would expect is someone who looks presentable — clean, neat, attractive."

Michelle said while she personally enjoys an escort's company, she isn't interested in establishing a romantic relationship with one.

"There are plenty of interesting men out there to date. But they might not always want to do what you want to. I think you would hire an escort when you want to do something you're interested in, but don't want to do it alone," she said.

"If someone was looking to meet Mr. Right, they're going to be disappointed."

Alan, a 24-year-old Newport Beach resident, finds his escort work interesting and enjoyable. Like other escorts, he finds himself meeting people he might not ordinarily come in contact with and welcomes those opportunities. He's able to attend concerts, theater performances, ballets, business dinners and often travels.

Also, the money's good. "It beats the hell out of bartending," he cracked. "Let's face it, it's very pleasant to be out with a stunning, interesting woman."

Alan, who met Minnich at school, said he had to overcome initial apprehensions before becoming an escort.

"It was something that I thought would be contrary to what I should be doing," he said. But after trying it out, Alan said he is very comfortable with the work and the company's insistence on keeping all transactions legal and aboveboard.

David, a 27-year-old escort, agreed to work with Minnich only after he was convinced his services would be limited to escorting.

"There's no typical evening and that's what I like," he said. "It might be a trip to the theater or ballet, or to a social function. A lot of it is related to their (the client's) work."

Minnich, Alan and David — interviewed separately — all had a similar picture of what makes a good escort.

"I was raised treating women right and you'll find that all of these guys simply enjoy being in the company of women. It starts from there," Minnich said.

"I think we all have a pretty healthy attitude about ourselves," Alan said. "There's a natural sophistication about this."

"I think most guys don't believe they are escorts and are surprised when they find out it's not as difficult as they made it out to be," Minnich said.

"Anyway, we genuinely like to spend time in the company of women."

Banker's trial set in death of former Coast woman

From staff and wire reports

SAN RAFAEL — A bank executive accused in the bondage death of a 19-year-old prostitute formerly from Huntington Beach was ordered Tuesday to stand trial in Superior Court.

Marin County Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ordered an arraignment for Leslie Arthur Byrd on Sept. 24 in Superior Court and also rescinded his $250,000 bail and sent him to jail until the trial.

Byrd, 39, is the former senior vice president for Westamerica Bank in San Rafael. He pleaded innocent in his Municipal Court arraignment to charges of killing Cynthia Lynice Engstrom during a $500 sexual encounter in his home on June 17. Police said the victim had moved to San Francisco about a month before her death. She had previously attended Edison High School in Huntington Beach and a local independent study program.

Deputy District Attorney Ed Berberian requested that Byrd's bail be revoked, saying he was dangerous. "Cynthia Engstrom's death speaks louder than anything about this man's danger to the community," Berberian said.

Defense attorney Jerrold Ladar countered, "There simply is not any credible evidence he will harm others."

Prosecutors allege Byrd killed Engstrom during a sexual fantasy in which he bound her, covered her mouth with tar and put her struggling for breath in a bathtub. Prosecutors say he amped her body by a road the next day.

Byrd has told investigators that Engstrom drowned while he was feeding his cat.

Engstrom's family has filed a $1 million wrongful death suit against Byrd and Westamerica. Sexual harassment complaints have also been filed by women employees at the bank.

Westamerica fired Byrd from his $72,000-a-year position after court proceedings begin.

Miscellaneous items totaling $80 were reported stolen from a Datsun 200SX parked in the 16900 block of Von Karman Avenue.

Sometime since May someone reportedly stole a $5,000 circuit breaker from a construction site at 17901 Von Karman Ave.

A 15-year-old boy was apprehended for allegedly burglarizing a home along Midwaygrass Tuesday. He was released to his parents and the can of chili hotole was recovered. Police said this was the second time he had been apprehended for burglarizing the same house.

Fountain Valley

A resident in the 15900 block of Ward Street reported Tuesday that vandals did $500 damage to his carpets and floors when they put a garden hose under his front door and turned the water on.

A thief reportedly stole an $800 stereo from a new 1985 silver Toyota parked in the 16500 block of Mt. Neota Tuesday morning. Police reports said the suspect also did $100 damage to the dashboard.

Vandals did $800 damage to a yellow 1968 Chevrolet Impala Tuesday morning when they poured gasoline on the vehicle and set it on fire. The incident took place in front of a home in the 10400 block of Calle Independencia.

Irvine

John Clifford Kenyon, 37, was arrested Tuesday at the corner of MacArthur Boulevard and Von Karman Avenue on suspicion of possessing marijuana. He was taken to Orange County Jail and booked.

A portable TV, a wallet, and a gym bag were reported stolen from a locked vehicle parked in front of a home in the 17300 block of Daimler Tuesday. The loss was estimated at $200 to $400.

Newport Beach

A $2,500 pearl necklace was reported stolen Monday from a home in the 4600 block of Tremont.

Police reported Monday that someone did $200 damage to a Corona del Mar beach restroom by pulling a urinal off the wall.

A $50 purse containing a $250 pair of gold driving glasses, a $300 pair of prescription sunglasses, a $30 leather makeup case, a pair of $25 gold earrings, and $550 in cash was reported stolen Tuesday from a room at Hoag Hospital, 301 Newport Blvd. Police reports said the patient was in the bathroom when the incident occurred.

Costa Mesa

An $800 car stereo was reported stolen from a black 1984 Volkswagen Rabbit convertible parked in a lot at 1300 Adams Ave. Tuesday.

Entering through a bedroom window, a burglar reportedly stole a $460 color TV from a home in the 700 block of Hamilton Tuesday. Police reports said the victim was at home asleep when the incident occurred.

A $500 car stereo was reported stolen from a beige 1981 Toyota parked in front of a home in the 600 block of Anton Tuesday.

Power tools worth $2,320 were reported stolen from a West Electric construction site, 3301 Fairview Road, Tuesday. Police reports said the suspect used a wheelbarrow to remove the items.

South County

A Mission Viejo resident reported that someone last Wednesday or Thursday someone stole a $50 car stereo from her unlocked vehicle. The incident took place in the 27400 block of Conato.

A $20 purse containing $150 in cash was reported stolen last Tuesday from a car parked at the U.S. Post Office.

A Laguna Niguel resident reported that a $200 car stereo was stolen while the car was parked in the Laguna Hills Mall last week.

Laguna Beach

An Aster Street residence was ransacked and possibly burglarized, the victim told police Tuesday night. The loss has yet to be determined.

Plants and planters together worth $100 were reported stolen Tuesday from a Katella Street address.

A car cover valued at $120 was stolen from a car parked in front of a Temple Hills Drive home, the victim told police Tuesday.

Police responded to reports Tuesday night of prowlers along the 400 block of Park Avenue. No suspects were located.

A burglar reportedly entered a Temple Terrace home early Tuesday, and took an estimated $465 worth of property, the victim said.

Police arrested Roy Alfred Lindeberg, 58, on suspicion of driving under the influence of alcohol Tuesday on South Coast Highway near Aliso Beach.

Someone reportedly stole $200 in video equipment and $7,000 in jewelry from a home in the 4800 block of Tully Tuesday.

A resident in the 5700 block of Stardust reported that someone stole a $1,000 TV stereo from his home Tuesday.

Camera equipment valued between $350 and $400 and a diamond ring of unknown value was reported stolen from a home in the 6500 block of Glen Tuesday.

Power tools worth $2,000 were reported stolen from the garage of a home in the 900 block of 10th Street Tuesday.

Officials at Huntington Harbor Hospital, 17772 Beach Blvd., reported Tuesday that someone had stolen a child's toy and a suitcase from a patient's room on the fourth floor. The loss was estimated at $50.

Arson probed in Mesa blaze

Costa Mesa police said today that arson is the suspected cause of a fire that gutted an apartment on Hamilton Street Tuesday morning.

According to police reports, someone apparently climbed onto the balcony of the New Breed apartments, entered a second-floor apartment through a sliding glass door, splashed a flammable liquid all over the living room, set fire to the apartment and fled.

Firefighters reported that no one was injured in the 5:50 a.m. blaze which took firefighters a little under an hour to extinguish. Damage estimates were not available.

The incident is still under investigation.

Bianchi parole bid draws opposition

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prosecutors will argue against the parole of multiple-killer Kenneth Bianchi, 33, who confessed to slaying five women in the 1979 Hillside Strangler case.

"We obviously will oppose parole," district attorney's spokesman Al Albergate said Tuesday. "We are talking about a multiple murderer here."

The California Board of Prison Terms will meet in Sacramento next Tuesday to hear Bianchi's request to be released from a Walla Walla, Wash., prison.

Bianchi is serving seven consecutive life terms — five for the Hillside Strangler slayings and another two for his conviction in the killings of two Washington state women.

W. German official guilty of spying, sent to prison

By the Associated Press

KOBLENZ, West Germany — A former high-ranking official in the Interior Ministry was convicted today of spying for communist East Germany and sentenced to 5½ years in prison, court officials said. The state supreme court in the Rhineland city of Koblenz said Arthur Roski had caused "considerable losses to the security" of West Germany during 13 years of spying. Roski, who handled political asylum cases, admitted the spy charges on the first day of his trial Aug. 27. But the 36-year-old defendant said he had agreed to spy only after East German officials threatened to punish him for violating currency regulations during a 1971 trip to East Germany.

Ambassador kidnap attempt thwarted

BEIRUT — Gunmen tried to kidnap the Portuguese ambassador at a checkpoint between the Christian and Moslem sectors of Beirut today, but soldiers from a mostly Shiite Moslem army brigade opened fire and scattered the abductors, an embassy spokesman said. Anis Abdul-Malak, a Lebanese who serves as the chief of the Portuguese Embassy's consular section, said the kidnap attempt occurred this morning at the Kassass-Masaleh crossing along the mid-city Green Line. The ambassador, 57-year-old Louis Gonzaga Ferreira, was riding with his wife Maria in a chauffeur-driven Chevrolet when the limousine was intercepted by gunmen on the Moslem side of the Green Line, Abdul-Malak said.

Car bomb explodes in Lebanon

TEL AVIV — A car bomb exploded at a roadblock in southern Lebanon today, killing the driver and injuring two militiamen from the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army, military sources said. The Toyota car blew up at a checkpoint near the village of Hasbaya, at the edge of Israel's buffer zone about 10 miles north of the Israel-Lebanon border, said the sources. They spoke on condition they not be identified.

BANGKOK — Officials said today that 79 members of an air force security unit had been detained in connection with a failed coup, and that some business and labor leaders also may have been involved in the revolt. In Singapore, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs issued a statement saying Thailand had requested that a suspected coup leader be allowed to stop over in Singapore while he made arrangements to go elsewhere. Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda said Tuesday that the coup had been suppressed with a minimum of violence, and that the suspected leaders would be treated fairly. The revolt Monday by about 500 soldiers was quelled after a confrontation that left four people dead and 59 others injured.

Looting, arson follow England rioting

BIRMINGHAM, England — Sporadic looting and arson were reported early today in a riot-torn immigrant district of Birmingham, and police in London and Liverpool reported scattered violence. Police flooded into the streets of Birmingham's Handsworth district, where two people were killed in rioting Monday night, and had arrested 92 people by dawn today for burglary, theft, carrying offensive weapons and stealing vehicles. A total of 128 people have been arrested since the rioting began. Ten police officers, three civilians, and three firefighters were injured by rioters overnight, but that none of the injuries was serious, said a police spokesman.

Reagan discusses Gorbachev summit

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, saying he doesn't know if nuclear weapons can be abolished, stated that at least the Soviet Union "will know where we're coming from" after he meets with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in November. Reagan discussed the Nov. 11-12 summit meeting in closed-door sessions Tuesday with Danish Prime Minister Poul Schluter and Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd prior to a state dinner. Byrd, who recently headed a Senate delegation that met for 3½ hours with Gorbachev in Moscow, said following Tuesday's meeting, "I have no doubt that Mr. Reagan will carry the day" when the two leaders meet in Geneva, Switzerland. "Mr. Gorbachev is to be respected ... but at the same time he isn't 10 feet tall."

Slayer executed in Texas prison

HUNTSVILLE, Texas — Charles Rumbaugh, convicted of a murder he committed during a robbery at age 17, was put to death today in an execution a human rights group said violated international agreements. "About all I can say is goodbye," Rumbaugh, 28, told his personal witnesses in the death chamber. Then he said to the other two dozen people who watched the lethal injection: "For the rest of you, even though you don't forgive me for my transgressions, I forgive you for yours against me. That's all I wish to say. I'm ready to begin my journey."

House committee OKs new farm bill

WASHINGTON — A divided House Agriculture Committee patched up its differences at least temporarily, completing and sending to the full House a massive farm bill to replace the law that expires in less than three weeks. The committee approved its version of the new 1985 farm bill on a voice vote after tacking on a provision allowing wheat and corn farmers to vote on a program giving them higher price-support levels. The provision also appealed a substantial minority on the committee opposed to efforts to ease such supports downward.

Government seeks boost in debt limit

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, saying the Treasury will run out of cash by Oct. 15 unless Congress increases the national debt limit, is seeking to boost borrowing authority beyond $2 trillion. But the Senate is unlikely to allow the hike without attaching strings, including language to hold back deficit spending that's adding $20 billion a month to the public debt. "If we don't take drastic action, I think we're just inviting disaster for this country," said Sen. Steven D. Symms, R-Idaho, who noted he could not support raising the debt without an amendment imposing spending restraints.

Firm to admit Pentagon conspiracy

WASHINGTON — A subsidiary of the GTE Corp. has agreed to plead guilty to illegally receiving Defense Department budget documents, some of them classified, and will pay $590,000 in costs and fines, the company and Pentagon officials say. The announcement of the pleading came Tuesday as a federal grand jury charged a consultant and two officials connected to the firm, the GTE Government Systems Corp., with conspiring to illegally obtain Pentagon documents. The GTE subsidiary was charged in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., with a single count of conspiracy. The company said it would plead guilty to the charge today.

Animal rights protesters arrested

LOS ANGELES — Eight protesters who chained themselves to a truck purportedly used to gather pound animals for medical experiments were arrested early today outside Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, police said. About 25 protesters had chained themselves Tuesday to various portions of the medical center, including the truck, to protest medical experiments on animals.

Group battles for teens' privacy

SAN FRANCISCO — A coalition of doctors and family planning groups have filed suit in the state Court of Appeal to block a law they say would invade the privacy of sexually active minors who seek abortions, birth-control devices or prenatal care. The suit filed Tuesday by Planned Parenthood and several physicians maintains that applying a child-abuse law to family planning matters would bring more pregnancies, abortions and cases of untreated sexually transmitted diseases among teen-agers.

Toxic cleanup program wins support

SACRAMENTO — Gov. George Deukmejian's plan to reorganize all state toxic and solid waste cleanup programs into a new cabinet-level department has passed what both supporters and critics say was its toughest test. The reorganization plan, one of the Republican governor's top priorities in the 1985 Legislature, won a bipartisan 5-1 vote late Tuesday of a special two-house conference committee. That sent it to the Senate and Assembly floors for final action later this week.

Governor gets holiday time off bill

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to require time off the job on Sabbath and other holy days — unless it would mean an undue hardship for the employer — is on the governor's desk. The bill by Assemblyman Tom Hayden, D-Santa Monica, won final passage Tuesday.

Judge sentences LA draft resister to 'house arrest'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Due to a judge's unusual "house arrest" sentence devised during a sleepless night, draft resister David Wayne must spend six months confined to his grandmother's home and may not continue his public service work.

"I'm relieved that I'm not going to prison, although I'm facing a substantial penalty," Wayne, 24, said after U.S. District Judge Terry Hatter meted out the unique sentence. "It's been a lot of emotional drain, waiting and anticipating. It's a big relief to have it over."

He had faced up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine after pleading guilty June 13 to one count of failing to register for the draft.

Wayne's grandmother and host for the next six months, Helen Wayne, was unable to comment on the sentencing.

"She's ill," Wayne said by telephone Tuesday afternoon from the Whittier home where he will be confined, except in emergencies, for the next half-year. "She's permanently disabled and not able to talk on the phone."

Hatter, apparently moved by letters from Wayne's friends and family, said Tuesday that the unusual sentence keeps Wayne out of prison but punishes him substantially by banning public service. Wayne works at a school for disabled adults and at a shelter and soup kitchen for the homeless in Pasadena.

The judge said he lost sleep Monday night trying to devise the proper sentence for Wayne, a former Yale University philosophy student who fought his case up to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lawmakers still sparring in last days of '85 session

SACRAMENTO (AP) — With three days left of the 1985 session, legislative leaders say the seat belt, unitary tax, prisons, and death penalty issues are far from being resolved.

Assembly Minority Leader Patrick Nolan, R-Glendale, said Tuesday he would ask Republican Gov. George Deukmejian to call the Legislature into special session if the Democrats don't agree to suspend environmental laws and allow prisons to be built faster.

The Legislature is scheduled to adjourn for the year by midnight Friday. Bills that aren't sent to the governor's desk before the lawmakers adjourn cannot be considered again until January, except in special session.

Assembly Speaker Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, criticized the Senate for holding up his seat-belt bill and refusing to hold hearings on other Assembly-passed bills, including measures that would limit rent control and set up a work program for some welfare recipients.

Brown objected to senators removing Assemblyman Dennis Brown's name from a bill because the conservative Long Beach Republican often votes no on bills.

"There's a real tragedy when we resort to that sort of thing," Brown told reporters. He said he would attempt to have the bill's authorship restored.

"I have to move to make sure a member of my house is not mistreated," he said.

Speaker Brown's bill, AB27, which would require seat belt use and passive restraints like air bags in future cars, has been in a two-house conference committee. But the Senate conferees Monday refused to accept Brown's proposal to amend the bill so it won't be used to help terminate a federal requirement for air bags.

The new conference committee met Tuesday and voted 5-0 to send the bill to the floor. The committee agreed to amend the bill so that the mandatory seat belt use requirement would terminate if the federal government rescinded its air bag requirement. That amendment had been in the bill when it passed the Assembly, but was removed in the Senate because of heavy opposition.

The death penalty bill, AB989 by Assemblyman Gary Condit, D-Ceres, is the subject of a partisan dispute.

Helms vows to retaliate as Senate defeats prayer bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms says the evangelical movement will publicize the names of senators who defeated a school prayer bill, but one of those lawmakers contends the public doesn't want government deciding religious matters.

By a 62-36 vote Tuesday, the Senate tabled the Helms-sponsored bill that would have prohibited the Supreme Court and lower federal courts from deciding cases on voluntary prayer, Bible reading or religious meetings in public schools.

Prior to the vote, Sen. Barry

Goldwater, R-Ariz., one of the Senate's leading conservatives, told Helms, R-N.C.: "If I would have written it (the bill), I would be ashamed of it."

The vote most likely killed the legislation. However, a proposed constitutional amendment to allow voluntary silent prayer in public schools is before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Helms said he brought the bill to the floor to get a roll call vote, adding, "I imagine people in the evangelical movement are going to be willing to circulate it."

Daughter of Duarte kidnapped at campus

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Six heavily armed kidnapers seized the eldest daughter of President Jose Napoleon Duarte as she arrived for classes at a private university, wounding a bodyguard and killing her driver.

The kidnapers, dressed in civilian clothes, opened fire on the bodyguards of Ines Guadalupe Duarte Duran, 35, dragged her from her car and forced her into a van Tuesday, a presidential adviser said. She was unharmed when last seen.

A somber Julio Adolfo Rey Prendes, Duarte's closest adviser and secretary of culture and communications, told reporters Tuesday night that there had been no contact with the kidnapers.

No one claimed responsibility, but a presidential security captain at the scene said "certainly it was the guerrillas" who have been fighting the U.S.-backed government for the past six years.

The evening broadcast of the leftist guerrillas' Radio Venceremos, five hours after the incident, made no mention of it.

Mrs. Duarte Duran, a divorced mother of three, was taking courses in advertising and public relations at the New San Salvador University on the west edge of the city. The director of her father's successful 1984 presidential campaign, she also directs San Salvador's Radio Liberty.

German POW surrenders after 40 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A World War II German soldier who said he lived in fear of capture for 40 years after fleeing a prisoner-of-war camp surrendered to federal authorities today, saying he was relieved the ordeal was over.

Georg Gaertner, 64, alias Dennis Whiles, author of a book which was published today called "Hitler's Last Soldier in America," wept as he described his 1945 escape from Fort Deming, N.M., and four decades as a fugitive.

Of the 2,000 prisoners of war who escaped American camps during the war, only 12 remained at large in 1946. By 1963, all but Gaertner had been captured.

"During my freedom, I have lived my own version of the American dream," Gaertner, whose fate now rests with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Denver, told a San Pedro news conference.

His wife of 21 years, Jean, had begun asking questions about missing links in his background.

"I want to stay in the United States with her," he said.

INS Western Regional Commissioner Harold Ezell said chances were that Gaertner could remain, because he is married to a U.S. citizen.

Ordinance revising zoning code for restaurants wins initial OK

By SUSAN HOWLETT

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A revised ordinance governing the zoning code for restaurants in Newport Beach was tentatively approved by the City Council Monday.

The ordinance was changed from a version approved by the Planning Commission May 23 following a review by the council, according to Newport Beach Planning Department spokeswoman Sheri Vander Dussen.

The council passed the first reading of the revised ordinance, which would require new restaurants to follow new guidelines of the Municipal Code, Vander Dussen said. Councilman John Cox cast a dissenting vote and council members Evelyn Hart and Ruthelyn Plummer were absent. The second reading is scheduled for Sept. 23.

Under the revised ordinance, new restaurants will have to seek city approval if they want to remain open after 12:30 a.m., Vander Dussen said. Existing establishments, however, will only be required to seek approval if they want to make drastic changes in entertainment or hours of operation.

In opposing the ordinance, Cox said the 2 a.m. closing time has been appropriate in the past, and to impose a 12:30 p.m. closing time on new restaurant owners would not be fair.

But Councilman Bill Agee said the revised ordinance represents a welcome compromise.

"We started out with a document that I think scared people to death, and ended up with one we could live with," Agee said.

Agee said that the revised ordinance represents an approach by the city to work with restaurant owners in the owners' "self-policing" of their establishments.

"We would wish that everybody would just obey the law and be good neighbors," Agee said. He said that the city's independent restaurant association is working with the council to achieve that goal.

In other council action, the members continued to Sept. 23 an appeal by Ocean Front Wheelworks in Balboa to obtain a take-out restaurant permit. The Newport Beach Planning Commission denied the permit July 18 because of parking and other problems.

Also continued to Sept. 23 was the consideration of annexing the J.M. Peters Co. Bayview site in Santa Ana Heights to Newport Beach. The site would include a hotel, condominiums and a restaurant.

The council continued for two weeks a city request to amend the land use portion of the city's General Plan for the Brisa del Mar parcel, located at MacArthur Boulevard and East Pacific Coast Highway.

A resolution authorizing Newport Beach Mayor Phil Maurer and the city clerk to execute new leases with existing tenants of the Marinapark Mobilehome Park was passed at the council meeting.

OBITUARIES

Newport businesswoman dies

Tommie Laurine Wilck, owner and president of Ambassador Travel-Newport and former confidential assistant to the late Walt Disney, died Monday of cancer in Newport Beach. She was 57.

Before moving to Orange County in 1973, Mrs. Wilck served as personal secretary to Disney from 1958 to 1966. Following Disney's death, she remained with the Disney organization until 1968 and played a significant role in the development of Disney's dream of a California Institute of the Arts. She served as the first executive director for the women's board of the institute.

Born in Battle Creek, Mich., Mrs. Wilck moved to California in 1952 where she began her career with the Disney organization. She joined the Times Mirror Co. in Los Angeles in 1968 as administrative assistant to board chairman Franklin Murphy.

In 1971, she moved to Washington, D.C., and served as invitation chairman for the final performance of the World Symphony Orchestra at Kennedy Center. After returning to Orange County in 1973, Mrs. Wilck served on the board of trustees of the Newport Harbor Art Museum and as its corporate secretary. She was co-chairman of the museum's "Grand Marche" fund-raising event in 1973.

She is survived by her husband, Tom Wilck of Corona del Mar; a sister, Ginger Vance of Newport Beach; her mother, Thelma England, and a sister, Skip Walker, both of Jonesville, Mich.

Memorial services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. at the Community Congregational Church, 611 Heliotrope Ave., Corona del Mar. The family has suggested tributes in the form of contributions to the Hoag Memorial Hospital Cancer Fund, HMHP Foundation.

Peter Howe

A memorial service will be held Thursday for Peter James Howe, 18, of Costa Mesa, who was killed in a motorcycle accident near Stockton last Wednesday.

Mr. Howe, a recent graduate of Estancia High School, was the captain of his water polo team in his senior year. He was attending the University of the Pacific in Stockton on a scholarship.

He is survived by his parents, Blair and Judy Howe; a brother, Brian

Tommie Laurine Wilck

Howe; and grandparents Jim and Catherine Paddleford.

Services are scheduled for 4:30 p.m. at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Newport Beach. Memorial donations have been suggested to the Estancia High School water polo team or the Youth Group of the Village Church of Irvine, 14795 Jeffrey Road, Suite 206, Irvine, 92714.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Announcement of Public Hearing

Study Results Available for Proposed Improvements to Route 55 From Route 405 to Route 91

What's Being Planned

CALTRANS (California Department of Transportation) is proposing to restripe the Route 55 Freeway to add an additional lane in each direction. These additional lanes would be reserved for high occupancy vehicles (HOVs) exclusively or available for all vehicles. The lane use will be determined after the public comment period.

Why This Ad?

CALTRANS has studied the effects this project may have on the environment. Our studies show that it will not significantly affect the quality of the environment. The report that explains why is called a Negative Declaration/Environmental Assessment (ND/EA). This notice is to advise you of the availability of the study and a scheduled public hearing on the project.

What's Available?

Maps, and the Negative Declaration/Environmental Assessment are available for review at CALTRANS 120 South Spring St., Los Angeles and the Tustin City Library, 345 East Main Street, Tustin, Monday through Friday.

Where You Come In

Do you have any comments about processing the project with a Negative Declaration/Environmental Assessment? Do you disagree with our findings as set forth in the ND/EA? Would you care to make any other comments on the project? Please submit your comments no later than October 5, 1985 to W. B. BALLANTINE, Caltrans, Environmental Planning, 120 S. Spring St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

When and Where

A Public Hearing will be held at Tustin City Council Chambers, 300 Centennial Way, Tustin, on Thursday, Sept. 19, 1985 at 7:00 p.m. An Open House starting at 6:00 p.m. will proceed the Public Hearing.

Castaways survived on toothpaste

PALO ALTO (AP) — A motorboat ride in the Indian Ocean turned into a 21-day ordeal for two women who were reduced to "happy hour" meals of toothpaste and rainwater after their food ran out.

The women, Judith Gale Schwartz and Rickey Berkowitz, were back on more substantial diets in a private home in Jakarta, Indonesia, on Tuesday.

"They're eating hamburgers and milkshakes," said Schwartz's sister, Wendy Fein, who talked to the women by telephone from Rancho Palos Verdes.

"They were supposed to be on a bland diet. It doesn't sound that bland to me," said Fein, who added that beer was also part of the fare.

The two women had left Carita on Aug. 17 for what they thought would be a "romantic" boat ride with two guides to a camping site at Unjung Kulon on the island of Java, a trip that was to take five to 10 hours. But the boat's 25-horsepower engine broke down and the foursome was left to drift.

The women reached safety on Sunday, four days after Indonesian authorities had called off the search.

The women suffered sunburn and dehydration, but were otherwise in good shape. The guides were ill, according to Fein.

Schwartz's mother, Ruth, returned to California on Saturday, thinking that authorities had "exhausted all possibilities." The family was told that no one could survive three weeks on a boat in the Indian Ocean.

But the hearty women, who had been vacationing in the South Pacific for two months before heading to Indonesia for their sea excursion, were lucky enough to encounter calm waters after their boat became disabled, Fein said.

They stretched their four-day ration of food to last a week, she said. "Judith said that every night they would have a 'happy hour' with Colgate" after the food ran out, Fein said.

Schwartz, a special education teacher who lives in Palo Alto, and Berkowitz, a hospital administrator in Rancho Palos Verdes, finally reached land when the 25-foot boat broke up Sunday. They and their guides swam to a beach on the southwestern tip of the island of Sumatra.

Prison melee not result of crowding

SOLEDAD (AP) — Soledad State Prison officials say overcrowding wasn't the cause of a weekend melee that left 31 people injured, even though the prison was designed for about half the number of inmates it currently houses.

Prison spokesman Herb Matthews said prison officials believe the violence was sparked by a dispute between Hispanic inmates from Northern California and Southern California, which he said is a common source of fights in the prison.

Officials at the prison were investigating Monday to determine the exact cause of the Sunday night eruption. He said the prison would remain in lockdown status during the investigation to give inmates time to "cool off."

It was quiet at the prison Monday, but Matthews said officials feared the violence would resume if inmates were allowed to leave their cells for prison activities. He said the lockdown status would be lifted "as soon as possible," but added it probably would be a week before the investigation is completed.

Two of the prison's three units were locked down after the incident, the exception being a minimum security unit.

The prison currently houses 5,865 inmates, Matthews said. He said the facility was designed to hold 2,981 prisoners.

Matthews said violence erupted about 9 p.m. Sunday in a three-tier wing housing about 350 inmates and continued for 20 minutes before guards armed with batons and guns brought the inmates under control.

Matthews said prison officials would take disciplinary action against inmates determined to have been involved in the incident.

American business leaving S. Africa

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Many American businesses and banks are gradually but steadily pulling out of South Africa because, as one bank spokesman put it, they no longer find that country "an attractive place to do business."

"The private market is sending a much stronger message than official sanctions have to the South African government that their policies are creating an economic climate that is unattractive for conducting business," says Jeffrey J. Schott, research associate at the Institute for International Economics.

"The compromise sanctions coming out of Congress pale by comparison to what the private sector is doing," Schott adds, referring to the House-passed bill that is now before the Senate. On Monday, President Reagan on his own put into effect most of the provisions of that measure.

Hundreds of millions of dollars in U.S. investments remain in South Africa. But government figures show an annual decline, except in private loans, since 1981.

Some of the changes that are under way:

- Engelhard Corp., a big New Jersey manufacturer of chemical and metallurgical products, this year liquidated its wholly owned South African affiliate. The operation had $4.5 million in sales in 1983, 2 percent of the company's total.

- Phibro-Salomon Inc., an investment banking firm, announced last month a withdrawal from South African operations. The company's South African assets had been estimated at less than $420 million.

- The DoALL Co., a Des Plaines, Ill., machine tool maker, closed its South African sales office. Spokesman John Flink said the decision was mainly based on industry factors and that the company wants to remain in the South African market.

- Coca-Cola Co. announced sale of majority interest in its group of South African bottling plants to a South African company, though it will continue to hold a minority stake.

- West Point-Pepperell, a Georgia-based textile company, sold its minority interest in a South African affiliate to local managers for one rand — less than 40 cents.

But while officials of most companies withdrawing from South Africa said the decisions were based on dollars-and-cents business judgments, several acknowledged that political factors also came into play.

In some cases, the decision to end business dealings with South Africa was prompted by laws discouraging ties with the apartheid regime.

For example, Motorola Inc. dropped its sales of two-way radios to the South African police forces this year in response to a New York City ordinance barring purchases from firms dealing with South Africa, spokesman George Grimsrud said. The company had no choice if it wanted to sell radios to New York City.

Some companies say they are firm in their intention to remain in South Africa, however.

"There's been no change; it's just business as usual," said Cameron Calder, vice president of international operations for American Cyanamide, the big chemical company. Its South African affiliates have 700 employees and had 1983 sales of $50 million.

Public schools achieving their goals handily

By DR. LAWRENCE KEMPER

The 1985 Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes Toward the Public Schools is very encouraging.

The overwhelming majority of public school parents endorse the job their local schools are doing for students.

You may have missed the news item. Criticism of public schools tends to get headlines, while praise gets less attention.

What makes the poll results so remarkable is the major mission of public schools in this country. Unlike most of the world, our major task has been to provide access for the largest possible number of youths.

More youths are enrolled as full-time students in the United States than in most other western nations. Approximately 75 percent of our young people aged 15 to 19 are full-time students. Compare that with 51 percent in France and Germany, 44 percent in the United Kingdom and 40 percent in Italy.

Considerable progress has been made in the area of educational opportunity. In 1950, approximately 55 percent of white students graduated from high school, while 30 percent of black students graduated. Today, 85 percent of white students and 75 percent of black students are high school graduates.

This accomplishment is particularly remarkable when the matter of immigration is considered. During the 1970s alone, the U.S. absorbed 12 million immigrants. This was the largest wave of immigration in our nation's history. Public schools have been the key to assimilating future citizens.

Handicapped youth in America have more education aimed at their special needs than is provided by any nation in the world. The result is productive and useful citizens.

While our public school systems are non-elitist, the facts show that the top 5 percent of the U.S. school population achieves as well as the top 5 percent from any nation in the world.

In 1970, 58,000 high school students sought advanced placement in college classes through testing. In 1981, the number had increased to 134,000.

Following high school, 65 percent to 70 percent of our young people go on to college. Fifty percent of them graduate. From 1966 to 1981, college enrollment rose from 6 million to 12 million.

The economic contributions of the public schools should be considered in any assessment. Some economists have estimated that between one-quarter and one-half of the increase in the nation's GNP over the last two decades can be traced to the increased educational level of the workforce.

As to the economic benefits of education to the individual, one need only refer to a recent issue of "U.S. News and World Report." The annual median income of heads of families who were at least 25 years of age were compared.

Grade school graduates earned $17,169, while high school graduates made $26,528. College grads earned $40,724.

Public schools are not perfect. Present improvements and reform are certainly increasing effectiveness. It is important to note, however, that — whether you use economic or educational indicators — the public schools have made a significant contribution to the health of our great nation.

Of equal importance is the fact that the life chances of young Americans are being significantly increased because of this educational advantage.

Dr. Lawrence Kemper is superintendent of the Huntington Beach City School District.

AFRICAN POLITICS FOR THE BEGINNER

Northerner finds out that South isn't really so bad

The South understands what Burke called 'unbought grace of life,' the spirit of chivalry

WASHINGTON — My business takes me deeper and deeper into the South, most recently to Jackson, Miss. I had never been to Mississippi before. One of my hosts asked me how I had imagined it.

"Well," I said, "for my first 20 years I had the impression that you people spent most of your time whipping Negroes."

One of the reasons I don't trust the impressions of South Africa I get in the newspapers is that the American South used to be reported in just the same way. It was all Ku Klux Klan, fire hoses and police dogs. When I got older, I learned by my own experience what a lovely region the American South is. The North is prose; the South is poetry.

The North has always had its own cherished image of the South, half-sentimental, half-cynical. Politically, of course, we have always put the South in the wrong. The South had slavery, and we had fought the Civil War (we told ourselves afterward) to free its slaves. Then it became necessary for us to step in again to destroy racial segregation, and everything we did toward that end, including taking some mighty fishy constitutional shortcuts, was "progressive."

Renegade Southerners have always been able to make a good living by coming North and telling us how awful the South is. We Yankees have put many of our dollars into the pockets of Southern writers who give us what we like to think of as the lowdown on the South: racism, violence, sexual perversion. Tennessee Williams was the outstanding example — a twisted personality who presented a distorted picture of the South for Northern consumption. Blanche Dubois was his answer to Scarlett O'Hara.

Someone should write a book on the scalawags-in-exile who have come "north toward home," in Willie Morris' phrase, to make their fortunes at the expense of the South's reputation. And yet few Southerners ever entirely lose their affection for the South. At some point they feel compelled to defend the South against those who are crass enough to despise it. William Faulkner, a favorite of the North's liberal literati, created an uproar when he told an interviewer (after a few drinks) that he would take up a shotgun to protect the South from do-gooding Northerners.

It is always risky to generalize about large numbers of people, but then again there are such things as national and cultural characteristics. There is of course a wide range of personality types in the South, as there is anywhere. Still, the whole atmosphere of the South is immediately distinctive. The North is intellectual, calculating, legalistic, bustling; the South is relaxed, intuitive, courteous. The Northerner tends to think in terms of what he can get away with. The Southerner has a stronger sense of honor, and he takes pride in applying it to new situations, subtle and elaborate, that the law doesn't cover. This makes him more generous, hospitable and sensitive than the Northerner. Northern legalism is literal-minded. Southern honor is metaphorical and expansive.

The South understands what Edmund Burke called the "unbought grace of life," the spirit of chivalry that Burke opposed to the age of "sophisters, economists and calculators." I never cease to marvel at the Southerner's easy good manners, flowing without formality.

Of all the surprises I have had in my own experience of the South, the greatest is that the races get along far better in the South than in the North. This definitely wasn't in the script I read when I was growing up in Michigan. I was taught that we Northerners were the champions of the Negro. And in some respects we may have been.

But our legalistic equality had little to do with the social reality of separate black and white neighborhoods and the emotional distance between the races. We wanted to pretend we didn't notice when an individual "happened to be" black, as if blackness were an embarrassing deformity to which it would be insulting to allude. The situation is much better now than it was when I was a schoolboy, but I can't help feeling that we still have a lot to learn from the casual kindness and good humor of the South.

When I say that the South is "poetry," I don't mean to imply that its outlook is unrealistic. On the contrary, there is some unfathomable connection between its realism and its romance. The South knows the needs of the human soul. It knows that people need love — including the modest kind of love that is expressed in common good manners. At the same time, it knows the limits of love, and doesn't try to force a false intimacy where it can't exist. Its friendliness coexists with a delicate respect for privacy.

But all this is perhaps a Northerner's gauche attempt to translate poetry into prose. It's best just to savor that poetry.

S. Africa lobbyists working overtime

Influential hired guns battle against Krugerrand ban

WASHINGTON — As the Senate debates economic sanctions against South Africa this week, a few high-powered lobbyists will be doing all they can to soften any action against what has become a symbol of apartheid: the Krugerrand. The coin is minted by the white-minority government from gold mined by politically powerless black miners.

The lobbyists, hired by both the South African government and the nation's gold mining industry, include a former campaign manager for Ronald Reagan, George Bush's former press secretary, a former Senate sergeant-at-arms and a number of former members of Congress.

Former Rep. Garry Brown, R-Mich., who is coordinating the lobbying effort to prevent a ban on trading in Krugerrands, concedes that it all may be an exercise in futility, as violence continues in South Africa. It's the Pretoria government's choice of response — reform or repression — that counts, he indicated.

"What we in Washington do is of little consequence," he told our associate Tony Capaccio, "but what the government does in South Africa is what's important."

This recognition of reality hasn't stopped the lobbyists from doing their best, nor has it discouraged the South Africans from laying out substantial sums to promote its interests on Capitol Hill.

For example, the South African government has paid former Reagan campaign manager John Sears $1.3 million in quarterly installments since April 1983. Among the issues Sears has been working on this year is the proposed ban on Krugerrand sales. He provided fact sheets to at least 63 members of Congress, arguing that a ban would throw thousands of black miners out of work.

From January 1984 through March 1985, the Pretoria government paid the law firm headed by ex-Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., $406,034. The firm has kept track of the progress of at least 18 congressional actions, including the proposal to ban the Krugerrand.

The South African gold industry's lobbying funds in this country are dispensed by its New York marketing arm, International Gold Corp. Ltd. A spokesman for the firm confirmed it had an operating budget of $11.3 million for the first five months of 1985.

Among International Gold's expenditures this year is $165,000 in retainer fees paid to the Washington law firm of Kirkpatrick & Lockhart. Since 1983, the firm has been paid a total of $247,857 by International Gold, to lobby against the Krugerrand ban.

At Brown's urging, Kirkpatrick & Lockhart in July hired Peter Teeley, Bush's former press secretary. An unspecified part of Teeley's $5,000 monthly retainer is for advice he is to provide to International Gold, which also hired lobbyist Howard Liebgood, the former Senate sergeant-at-arms, for $10,000 a month.

Teeley, pointing out that his client was the law firm, not the South African gold industry, declined to say what kind of advice he is providing to International Gold. Liebgood called the proposed Krugerrand ban "unfortunate and unfair."

Shortly after the firm hired Liebgood, but before it was getting any advice from Teeley, International Gold on June 21 donated $20,000 to the Conservative Caucus Foundation, a leading New Right group.

Brown himself has carried on a quiet lobbying campaign on behalf of the Krugerrand. It has included lobbying his one-time political opponent, Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., in February, and escorting an International Gold representative to a meeting with a State Department official in June.

EDITORS NOTE: In the Jack Anderson/Joseph Spear column published last Sunday, the last paragraph in the story about cities' reaction to efforts to rescind affirmative action should read:

"Macon, Ga., An attorney for minority clients who once sued the city wrote: 'We do not believe (the Supreme Court decision) is applicable to (our) case and will fight any effort to change or modify the consent order,' instead of 'an attorney for the city.'"

Uproar at pot bust forces re-examination of values

To the Editor:

It may seem strange, but I think this whole controversy involving Judge Bostrum and the Newport Beach Police Department is wonderful, especially for its widespread publicity.

It is the type of issue which (hopefully) forces us to examine, and possibly change, our social values.

Barbara Wilson (Pilot, Aug. 18) said she wonders "why the police are so restricted and why in most cases the law now protects the guilty." Maybe I can provide a partial answer.

Where there are no restrictions on the power of the police, there are invariably abuses (as is also true with the judicial and legislative systems). This can be seen in any totalitarian or communist country. It can also be seen (it would seem) in Newport Beach, where the police can order evidence altered.

The beauty of our political system is that we can keep these abuses to a minimum through the "checks and balances" systems.

And why does the law protect the guilty? Because it protects us all. In France, the accused must prove his/her innocence while here the state must prove the defendant guilty. That is to say, we are innocent until proven guilty. Our being arrested or accused of a crime does not mean that we are guilty.

The equating of accusation with guilt is one thing that our founding fathers tried hard to prevent. I should hope that we, some 209 years later, feel the same way. Let us strive for justice, not just quick convictions.

I'm going to be wealthy in spite of myself.

A few weeks ago, out of curiosity, I ordered a book that would give me the secret to instant riches. The ad in the paper said by following the directions in the book I would be making $8,000 every two days or my $10 would be refunded.

That $10 put my name on The List. I had no idea so many millionaires were willing to share their methods of making money. All they want, according to the literature I have been getting through the mail, is my faith in them and a small check to cover the cost and handling of the book that will put me on Forbes' 400 Richest List.

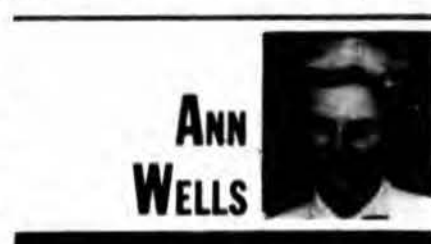

The first millionaire to share his money-making discovery with me is guaranteeing only $1,000 the first five days, and he wants $29 for this formula. He does assure me this will build very fast, that it is legal and does not involve real estate, coins, stamps or the stock market.

The second mailing is from a millionaire who claims his system has brought in $100,000 in one month and offers a $5,000 guarantee to anyone who can prove otherwise. He is right up front with his money-making technique — betting on the horses.

You do not have to know anything about horses or even live near a race track to use this system. His book ($39) will teach you everything you need to know.

Unfortunately, it will not work for dog racing. He has checked out many dog systems and theories and has not been able to come up with a sure thing. Maybe there are too many bushes alongside of the track.

The third enticing offer I received was to become a distributor of books on — what else? — How to Get Rich.

For only $49 I can get a Distributor Kit and go into business for myself. There is no set figure here on how much I can earn — just the statement that I can earn tens of thousands of dollars doing this on a part-time or full-time basis.

I do not have to write, print, publish or mail these books, just take orders from the "...40 million people who answer the ads for these books each year..." Aha! Just what I thought all along. That's how they make their millions.

Apparently, anyone can write a book claiming to unlock the secret of instant wealth and sell copies to enough of those 40 million people to bring in the big bucks. The book I was urged to sell cost $15; I can keep $7.50 of it and send the other $7.50 to the

Night school's for coeds

The Maldives Islands off India are Moslem. It's considered unseemly there for women to appear in the streets during daylight. So the girls have to go to school at night.

Young sloths are so inept they sometimes think their own arms are company which was kind enough to let me in on this deal.

There is no reason for anyone with a sure-fire method of getting rich quick to share it with others — outside of one or two members of the family. How many people go out and beg for competition?

One of these generous millionaires offered to include a free report titled, "How to Legally Stop Paying Income Tax." Should that make me suspicious?

Should I be suspicious because two of these companies offering two different schemes for getting rich, and operating under two different names, have the same address and telephone number?

Or should I have that warm-all-over feeling because there are so many caring and sharing millionaires in our country?

And how do I get my name off The List? I haven't made that first $8,000-in-two-days yet, and my tax man can handle only one multi-million dollar scheme at a time.

Panel approves new tax bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A proposal to give multinational companies a $250 million-plus California state tax break has won committee approval.

The measure, developed by Sen. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, was approved 7-2 by the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee. That sent it to the Senate floor, where further approval was expected.

The bill, AB1300, is being carried by Assemblyman Sam Farr, D-Carmel. But it is the brainchild of Alquist, chairman of the Senate's two key fiscal committees. It is also supported by Gov. Deukmejian.

The Senate committee approved the measure Monday after amendments offered by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, went down to defeat. Vasconcellos' amendments had also been defeated in his own committee, which last week shelved Alquist's original unitary bill, SB85.

Firewalk: A 10-foot head trip

By SUSAN MONAHAN
Daily Pilot Correspondent

Before I was permitted to set foot near a hot coal, I had to sign a release. It said, in part: "...I agree to hold Anthony J. Robbins, Robbins Research Institute, Inc., all assistants and co-sponsors...harmless for any damage or injuries, physical or mental, which may occur to me as a result of my attempts to walk upon a bed of hot coals at: Sheraton Plaza La Reina...Los Angeles, California, on August 23, 1985.

And just in case I wasn't clear about the possible damages: "...I may, in fact, receive severe burns to my feet..."

My confidence soared.

Nonetheless, I signed, picked up my nametag and, feeling rather like a reluctant lemming, followed the crowd into the hotel conference room where "Fear Into Power: The Firewalk Experience" was about to begin.

I later found out that last-minute second thoughts are not uncommon and that about 20 percent of those who sign up never show up.

Of course, I already knew — and would be told many more times before the night was over — that firewalking is not the point, but is a metaphor for breaking through limiting belief systems. But the flashy means attracted me more than the practical ends.

I was also aware that the firewalk had been growing in popularity for the past year and a half and was somewhat comforted by the thought that other people had walked across wood coals that are said to be somewhere in the range of 1,200-2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. But past experience had taught me that fire burns.

So when Robbins (the Anthony J. of the release) informed us that people had been severely injured and that some deaths had resulted from firewalking, I held my breath. Apparently, the approximately 300 other participants were doing the same thing, because there was a mass exhalation when Robbins said, "The good news is that none of these people attended my seminar."

He said that he had brought 30,000 people across the coals in the last year and a half. The youngest "graduate" was three and a half at the time of the walk, the oldest 87, he added.

"But I can't give you any guaran-facial expressions, breathing patterns, etc.), you automatically change your state.

In other words, if we behaved as though we could walk on fire, we could walk on fire. A lot of the evening's exercises — jumping up and down, clapping our hands, giving and getting messages — were obviously meant to change our physiologies. Robbins had also told us that he tees, and wouldn't if I could," said Robbins, explaining that since the idea was to change fear into power, some risk was necessary.

'I believe I walked across a 10-foot long bed of extremely hot coals without benefit of external protection. I hope I did' — the seminar cost more than $100, not to mention parking.'

Firewalking isn't new, but the accounts I had read on the subject gave the impression that it was shrouded in mystery and mysticism and certainly not a skill that could be picked up in a few hours. Robbins, however, assured us that we could get "in state" in 10 minutes.

We were told that many of the techniques we would be using to reach this state were based on neurolinguistic programming (NLP). "This is the science of how language — verbal and non-verbal — affects the nervous system," said Robbins.

Of special interest to us was a procedure called "modeling." Robbins said that it is possible to learn, "how to duplicate any form of talent, skill or intelligence by finding out what they do in their brain and nervous system."

You do this, continued Robbins, by duplicating the belief systems, mental syntax (the way someone strings thoughts together) and physiology of the person you want to model. Which sounds a bit complicated, but Robbins said that "If you change your physiology (posture, eye movements, was giving us "embedded commands," many of which would go straight to our unconscious minds.

I thought the exercises silly at first, but I eventually got into the spirit of things and jumped and shouted like everyone else. But I could not — and still can't — understand what this had to do with walking across 10 feet of hot coals without getting burned.

The one thing I was convinced of was that the coals were hot. At the beginning of the evening, we had watched Robbins Institute staffers set fire to nine piles of wood outside the hotel. They would eventually burn down and be raked into three paths of cruel red heat. Several times during the firewalk, Robbins would call for "fresh coals" and wheelbarrows full of them would be dumped on the paths.

Robbins noted that the firewalk has been explained by the "mass hypnosis" theory — nobody has really walked across hot coals, they just think they have — and the "vapor lock" theory — perspiration from the feet forms steam which protects the walkers from burning.

I believe I walked across a 10-foot-long bed of extremely hot coals without benefit of external protection. I hope I did — the seminar cost over $100, not to mention parking.

Before we started there were a few basic instructions. We were to look up, which would put us in a "visual state" rather than down, which would drop us into a "kinesthetic state." (Made sense to me, I sure didn't want to feel anything.) We were also to repeat a mantra, "cool moss," as we walked across the hot coals.

My turn came much too soon. I looked down at the coals, then up at Robbins. "Come on, Susan, you can do it," he said cheerfully. "I can?" He assured me that he would be watching me and I remembered that I had offered to write a first person account.

And that's practically the last thing I remember. For less than an instant, I was aware that my right foot was in something extremely hot. Before my brain could register either panic or pain, I was on the other side, where cool water was splashed on my feet (Robbins warned that if we snapped out of the state and coals were clinging to our feet, we would get burned) and I was greeted with hugs and cries of "You made it!"

Four people opted not to walk, and a few of the walkers got blisters. Nine year old Martha Rocha of Los Angeles wasn't one of them. "It felt like marshmallows," she said. "It didn't burn."

Her parents, Gloria and Miguel, also walked, and Mrs. Rocha said that she never thought her daughter would get burned. "I had faith in Tony," she said, adding that the firewalk was "a beautiful experience."

Since I went into a fugue state during my walk, I was glad that someone was able to give me a detailed account of it. The friend who attended with me (and refuses to allow me to use his name — some friend) paid special attention when it was my turn. "You stumbled a bit at first," he said. "But after that, you just strolled across."

I knew I could do it.

Robbins says he's almost burned out on firewalk meets

Daily Pilot Correspondent

Anthony Robbins conducted his first firewalk in a backyard in Vancouver, Canada. Two years and approximately 30,000 firewalkers later, Robbins is, if not exactly burned-out, at least ready to move on. "I've got the seminar mastered and now I want to go on to something else that challenges me," explained Robbins during a recent interview at a Ramada Inn in Los Angeles.

The firewalk is only one area in what amounts to a human potential empire. It includes a four-day "Mind Revolution" seminar, an advanced 12-day workshop and a "Super Camp" for children. Then there is the Del Mar-based Robbins Research Institute which has programs in bioscience, accelerated learning, child development and neuro-linguistics.

The 25-year-old, 6-foot-6 Robbins was dubbed "The Charismatic Kid" by one magazine, but he insists that he is not interested in being anybody's guru. "I believe that if anybody else can do it, so can I, and so can you," he says.

Robbins means this quite literally. He studied neuro-linguistic programming (NLP) under Richard Bandler and John Grinder, who developed the psycho science. "NLP in the true sense is the process of modeling," explained Robbins. "The question is not 'why' but 'how.' If I can find out how you're doing it, I can do it myself."

According to Robbins, obtaining new skills need not involve years of practice. He believes that the source (i.e. the person with the desired skill) can be tapped through the duplication of belief systems, thought patterns and physiology.

He is currently planning a course that will enable people to achieve basic comprehension of a foreign language within 50 hours. The "model" for this program speaks fluently languages.

Speed does seem to be a Robbins hallmark. U.S. Olympic Team swimmer Michael O'Brien stated in writing that, after an hour and a half with Robbins, he felt sure he would win a gold medal. He proceeded to do just that during the 1984 Olympics, and also beat the previous American record holder in the 1,500-meter freestyle by six seconds.

Robbins is known as the "One-Stop Therapist" because of his reputation for ridding clients of phobias, relationship problems and other limitations in a single one or two hour session (for which he charges $1,000 per hour). He says that the therapy is successful 99 percent of the time.

Although NLP certainly figures prominently in his work, Robbins says that "NLP" is just a tool to add to my box of tools. It can create great limitations when you get hung up on one technology."

He added that he does not simply consider himself an NLP practitioner. "I use NLP as a metaphor — if it works, I call it NLP."

Robbins is already working on an alternative for the one-percent who are not helped with NLP. It involves identifying value conflicts which can create problems and Robbins says that by using the value criteria system as a guide, "I can create more congruency up front." While NLP can be a process of trial-and-error, "the value criteria helps me know where to go first."

Right now, "I'm working every day with kids, sports books he is the author of Unlimited Power: Strategies for Personal Excellence tapes, private therapy."

So he has decided that it is time to train others to lead the "Mind Revolution," although Robbins will still make an appearance via videotapes. He will continue to lead the firewalk — for a while, anyway. That will be the last thing to be leveraged/delegated," said Robbins.

HELP YOURSELF

Overweight? Eat carbohydrates

Well, you are ten pounds overweight and have finally decided to dump that unwanted baggage. You start dieting, and ordering those "lo-cal" plates in the restaurants, usually a small steak with tomatoes and cottage cheese. You avoid all breads, pasta, potatoes, fruits, and other starchy foods because for years carbohydrates have been blamed for obesity.

Guess what, for years we have been wrong! If you shunned the steak and cottage cheese, and ate the breads, pasta, potatoes and fruits, you would likely lose weight more successfully and, more importantly, keep it off. It is the fat in our foods that cause obesity, not the carbohydrate.

Countries that have significant obesity problems like the U.S. and western Europe generally eat a diet that is only 45 percent carbohydrate calories, and a whopping 40 percent fat calories. On the other hand, countries like Japan that have few obesity problems, eat food that is 75 percent carbohydrate calories and only 10 to 15 percent fat. However, when the Japanese come to this country and eat our high fat foods, they routinely become obese and suffer higher rates of heart disease and cancer as well.

The body handles carbohydrate and fat calories differently. Contrary to popular belief, carbohydrates are rarely turned into fat. Studies show that only 1 to 3 percent of the carbohydrate calories wind up as stored fat, even if you overeat. Excess carbohydrate calories are usually burned up in heat producing reactions that stimulate weight loss, not gain. Excess fat, however, is rapidly stored as fat, and since the

American diet is to fat rich, we routinely balloon outward.

Even when small amounts of carbohydrates are turned into fat and stored, it takes 23 percent of the ingested calories to do so. Fats, on the other hand are rapidly funneled into fat stores at a cost of only 3 percent of the ingested energy.

The difficulty in putting the above realities to work for you is that getting rid of the fat in our diet is no small chore. Fat dominates American food. Salad dressing is almost all fat, and we routinely fatten baked goods with oils, butter, and eggs. Almost all animal protein foods are fat rich — many steaks are 65 to 75 percent fat, and we love to fry foods like potatoes, chicken, and shrimp that loads on the fat calories. However, if you want to try a new and more successful way to unload that extra ten pounds, rid your diet of fatty foods and eat only the carbohydrates for one month. For instance a day's meals could be the following:

Breakfast: Hot or cold cereal with fresh fruit, skim milk, toast with a low sugar fruit spread, and hot tea or decaffeinated coffee.

Lunch: A heaping salad of all varieties of vegetables (except avocado that is loaded with fat calories) dressed with lemon juice and eaten with an unbuttered roll.

Dinner: A rice, barley, pasta, or other grain dish served with steamed vegetables (kernel corn blends particularly well), or a non-fat tomato or marinara sauce, eaten with bread, and with fresh fruit for dessert.

Of course, variations of the above can be expected, but the trick is to keep the fat out.

Try it for a month. You have nothing to lose but your unwanted ten pounds.

Chapman College's Fashionables have the spirit

By BETTY PORTER
Daily Pilot Correspondent

"La Roca" — the Newport Beach home of Pilar Wayne — is especially beautiful on a summer night. In fact, the 8,000-square foot European-style estate has all the glamour you would expect to find in the home of a former movie star who was married to the legendary actor John Wayne.

On Thursday evening, Wayne threw open her courtyard's stately wrought iron gates to welcome THE FASHIONABLES, a support group of Chapman College.

Greeting the 130 guests was the group's gracious president, Mary Lou Hopkins Hornsby (in fashionable black) with husband Scott. Party chairman Winnie Short (in sparkling white) was with her husband Bob.

Guests gathered for cocktails in the Wayne cavernous living room, spilling over to a patio around a swimming pool. Both areas offered unobstructed water views of the Back Bay's moonlit bird sanctuary.

Before dinner, Saks' Fifth Avenue's Billur Wallerich (in a black cocktail hat) presented an informal fashion show, including Adolpho suits and Revillon furs. A $95,000 Black Legend mink (worn by auxiliary member Toni Oliphant) stole the show.

The models — all auxiliary members — entered the living room via a grand spiral stairway. They were Ken Oliphant, Jo Anne and Gene Mix, Lynn and Don Osen, Mary Ann and Lon Wells, Aissa Wayne and Dr. Jerrel Richards.

Among the honored guests were Chapman College president G.T. ("Buck") Smith with his wife Joni, and Maxine Preston, who is assistant director of Chapman's Enterprise Institute (James Roosevelt is director).

Noted Chapman supporters, including Virginia and Paul Bender, Bob and Shirlee Guggenheim, Charley and Nora Hester and Elaine and William Redfield — enjoyed a Pennington buffet of cold watercress soup, filet of beef (with croissants) and fruit (peaches and kiwi) with whipped cream.

Dining at tables and chairs on an elevated patio (above the swimming pool-and-Jacuzzi and below the tennis court were Jean Tandowsky and Dick Dimmett, Dr. George Brennan, Robert and Bobbie Grant, Bill and Rusty Hood and Walter and Claire Crutenden.

"Tom (Supervisor Riley) is in Anaheim, giving a speech," reported Emma Jane Riley, and James Roosevelt was in Oakland at an event concerned with "restoring the presidential yacht 'Potomac,'" according to his wife Mary.

President Smith praised the "can-do spirit" of The Fashionables.

"It is a spirit which the college tries to emulate — and that is why we are doing so many wonderful things..." the eloquent Smith said.

Among the "wonderful" accomplishments to which Smith referred was the college's soon-to-be-dedicated $10 million ($5 of which has been raised) "high-tech" Learning Center.

At evening's end, guests lingered as if they could hardly bear to tear themselves away. But pretty Joni Smith said that she and her husband were off to deliver a "birthday hug" to 11-year-old Jake Bassett, the son of a faculty member.

Wayne treated departing guests to a "concert" (shades of Julio Iglesias) by her parrot "Gucci," who also squawked polite "good-nights." The party benefitted Chapman College Scholarships.

Among other guests attending were Anne McKnight (just home from India), Kent and Barbara Freundt, George and Barbara Karl, Bill and Georgia Haney, George and "Sug" Jones, John and Nancy Pettijohn, Stan and Marylou Molander, Rita Falkenstein, Evalyn Zack and Thelma Sanders (Revillon Furs).

Are burial procedures in harmony with way of life?

DEAR LANDERS: I have lived in Third World countries and experienced with families their births and deaths. Welcoming babies and saying farewell to the departed were reverent, awe-inspiring occasions. Now I am settled in America and have experienced American obstetrical birth. So for my second baby

I found a midwife and fulfilled God's wish that birth be sacred as well as safe. But this letter concerns death. Please, Ann, can you tell me what is allowed legally in preparing a loved one for the grave? I am filled with anxiety and sadness as I face the probable death of a child in the near future. Please find out: If a child dies in the hospital, can a mother wrap that child in a blanket and take her home to wash and clothe her for burial? Must we use a funeral parlor and let strangers do for us what we wish to do as part of our acceptance of the loss? If a child dies at home, who must be told? Can the dead child be kept there for the wake?

Can the father build a simple pine casket or must he buy a casket?

It doesn't seem right that a family cannot orchestrate the burial of loved ones in harmony with the life they try to live. — A FRIEND IN OHIO

DEAR FRIEND: To ensure correct information I turned to my funeral maven, Jules Farth, a fifth-generation Chicago funeral director. This is his response:

1. If a child dies in the hospital, can a mother wrap that child in a blanket and take it home to prepare for burial?

The letter writer was from Ohio, so I checked with the Ohio State Health Department. They said the child may be taken home and cared for by the parents. (State laws vary.)

Ann Landers

2. Must we use a funeral parlor and let strangers do for us what we wish to do as part of our acceptance of the loss?

A funeral director is usually required to sign a death certificate and apply for a permit for final disposition, be it burial, cremation or whatever. There is no necessity to use the funeral parlor in any other capacity.

3. If a child dies at home, who must be told and can a dead child be kept there for a wake?

When a child dies at home, notify the police or fire department, which in turn will call the medical examiner. The wake can be held at home. However, it is not wise to keep an unembalmed body around any length of time, especially if the child died of a contagious disease.

4. Can the father build a simple pine casket or must he buy a casket?

The family may furnish whatever burial container they wish.

Lastly and most important, it is my personal recommendation that funeral services for children, whenever possible, be private for the family. Others can express their sympathy at another time.

Dear World

MY YOUNG SON starts to school this week . . . It's all going to be sort of strange and new to him for awhile, and I wish you would sort of treat him gently.

You see, up to now he's been king of the roost . . . He's been boss of the backyard . . . His mother has always been near to soothe his wounds and repair his feelings.

But now things are going to be different.

He's going to walk down the front steps, wave his hand, and start out on the great adventure . . . It is an adventure that might take him across continents, across oceans . . . It's an adventure that will probably include wars and tragedy and sorrow . . . To live his life in the world he will have to live in will require faith and love and courage.

So, World, I wish you would sort of look after him . . . Take him by the hand and teach him things he will have to know.

But do it gently, if you can.

He will have to learn, I know, that all men are not just, that all men are not true.

But teach him also that for every scoundrel there is a hero . . . that for every crooked politician there is a great and dedicated leader . . . Teach him that for every enemy, there is a friend.

Steer him away from envy, if you can . . . and teach him the secret of quiet laughter.

In school, World, teach him it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat . . . Teach him to have faith in his own ideas, even if everyone says they are wrong . . . Teach him to be gentle with gentle people and tough with tough people.

Try to give my son the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone is getting on the bandwagon . . . Teach him to listen to all men — but teach him also to filter all he hears on a screen of truth and take just the good that siphons through.

Teach him, if you can, how to laugh when he's sad . . . Teach him there is no shame in tears . . . Teach him there can be glory in failure and despair in success.

Treat him gently, World, if you can. But don't coddle him . . . Because only the test of fire makes fine steel . . . Let him have the courage to be impatient . . . Let him have the patience to be brave.

Let him be no man's man . . . Teach him always to have sublime faith in himself.

Because then he will always have sublime faith in mankind.

This is quite an order, World, but see what you can do . . . He's such a nice little fellow, my son!

REVIEW

Dire Straits laces music with satire in Mesa gig

By ROBERT HYNDMAN

of the Daily Pilot Staff

"That ain't working, that's the way you do it. You play the guitar on the MTV."

Irony strikes again. Like Randy Newman's "I Love LA" which Angelinos embraced despite its stinging jabs at the city's superficiality, Dire Straits' "Money for Nothing" has become an MTV favorite while poking fun at the cable network's reliance on music videos drenched in sex and undeserved overnight success.

Dire Straits has shown it's possible to bite that hand that feeds it as the band's latest "Brothers in Arms" LP has pushed its way to the top of the charts on the strength of its MTV diatribe.

Sunday night at the Pacific Amphitheater in Costa Mesa, Dire Straits celebrated its penchant for bucking the trendy tide of popular music with two hours of decidedly untrendy, straightforward music.

The British band has always relied heavily on Mark Knopfler's clean, distinctive guitar work and powerful support by bassist John Illsley, drummer Terry Williams and a pair of keyboardists. The band was augmented onstage by a second guitarist and the fluent saxophonist, Chris White.

And on "Money for Nothing," "Sultans of Swing" and "Tunnel of Love," Knopfler ran through his tastefully controlled guitar solos that have always been the trademark of Straits albums.

Before a near-sellout crowd Sunday, the band drew heavily from its best record, the 1981 "Making Movies" LP, with sparkling renditions of "Expresso Love," "Romeo and Juliet," "Tunnel of Love" and the encore "Solid Rock."

While Dire Straits has a wealth of strong material culled from six records, they falter during live shows from a somewhat lethargic attitude toward performing. Knopfler is an unflashy performer whose vocals, while distinctive, show little range or emotion.

And while their keen musicianship often bails them out, the band has the maddening habit of following a thunderous number like "Sultans of Swing" with the mellow "Why Worry Now."

Dire Straits' reluctance to follow the tried-and-true concert formula doesn't seem to hinder their popularity, however, as the band continues to build a growing and loyal following that, like the band, shuns the trendiness that popular music in the mid-'80s has become.

While MTV-generation bands worry themselves silly about their hairstyles, video image and other gimmicks, Dire Straits remains true to the sound that first thrust them before the public ear when they told the tale of the "Sultans of Swing."

As Knopfler aptly says, "That ain't working, that's the way you do it."

'Follies' becomes concert

By MICHAEL KUCHWARA

AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK — Some performances, by a unique mixture of cast, material and occasion, are transformed into extraordinary events.

That's what happened over the weekend at Lincoln Center's Avery Fisher Hall where "Follies," the Stephen Sondheim-James Goldman musical, was presented Friday and Saturday nights in a concert version that justifiably deserved the overused adjective of "all-star."

The parade of performers was as impressive as it was eclectic. The four leads were Barbara Cook, Mandy Patinkin, Lee Remick and George Hearn, supported by a cast that ranged from Licia Albanese to Carol Burnett. The orchestra was the New York Philharmonic under the direction of Paul Gemignani.

When "Follies" was first presented on Broadway in 1971, it provoked enormous debate. The show, despite its authors' obvious affection for the golden age of American musicals, is not an exercise in nostalgia. If "Follies" comes to praise the past, it also comes to bury it in an unsentimental way.

Goldman's original book made that clear. Phyllis and Sally are among the ex-Follies girls attending a party at the theater where they once performed and which is now scheduled to be turned into a parking lot. Their husbands, Ben and Buddy, are there too. Also present are the ghosts and memories of their unfulfilled youth. Before the evening is over, past and present confront each other uncomfortably before the characters go off to face an uncertain future.

It's no wonder many theatergoers were confused or disappointed. Although "Follies" ran for over a year on Broadway, the show was never a sellout, and because of its expense production, never returned much of its $800,000 investment.

"Follies" is one of Sondheim's most ambitious scores. There's genuine love for the melodies of such composers as Porter, Gershwin, Arlen and Kern, and yet a dissatisfaction and regret for the past in such poignant numbers as "The Road You Didn't Take," "The Right Girl" and "Too Many Mornings."

The concert was presented with a minimum of new dialogue, supplied by Goldman, that would make the story difficult to follow if you didn't know it before walking in the door.

The four stars were all superb, but the evening's most special moments were supplied by Miss Cook whose soaring soprano illuminated her two solos — "In Buddy's Eyes" and "Losing My Mind," a Harold Arlen-styled torch song. When will this woman be back on Broadway in a new musical all her own?

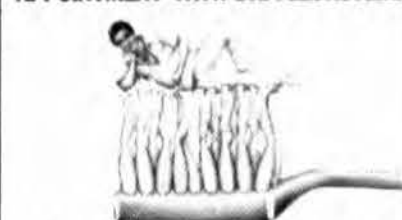

Much of "Follies" consists of specialty numbers, and the crowd roared its approval at every one of them.

Phil Donahue show airing live in LA area next week

BURBANK (AP) — Phil Donahue will telecast his one-hour talk and information show live from Burbank for five days next week.

It will be the first time California viewers will be able to phone in and participate in the show, although "Donahue" has been seen live in California before, said Sandra Willis, KNBC spokeswoman.

"Donahue" normally originates in New York and is seen here on a tape-delay basis. He moved the show to New York from Chicago in January.

In recent years, Pakistan has dominated Asian bridge. This year they will again represent their zone in the World Bridge Championships, to be held in Sao Paulo, Brazil. Paying attention to spot cards proved rewarding on this deal from Pakistan's Asian Championship match against India.

The bidding in the two rooms was similar except that the Indian North chose three no trump as the final contract. He lost four diamond tricks and a spade.

Against four spades, West led the queen of diamonds. East overtook with the king, cashed the ace and shifted to a heart. Declarer won, cashed the king and ace of clubs, then took care to ruff a club with the seven of trumps. Next he led the jack of trumps and overtook in dummy with the king.

These plays in trumps were crucial, for now declarer led the six of trumps and, when East followed with a low trump, declarer could underplay the five. When the six won, declarer was still in dummy, and he shortened his trump length further by ruffing a club.

The rest was routine. With seven tricks in the bag, declarer simply cashed his remaining high heart and exited with a heart. It made no difference who won the heart trick. Declarer could simply sit back and wait to score his last two trumps to bring home a well-played game.

I might have been trying too hard—Rose

CINCINNATI (AP) — The chase goes on.

In his first opportunity to break Ty Cobb's 57-year-old mark of 4,191 lifetime hits, Pete Rose came up empty Tuesday night. He went 0 for 4 against San Diego.

"I wasn't nervous," said Rose, the Cincinnati Reds player-manager. "I've made more outs than anyone. I wasn't nervous. I might have been trying too hard."

Rose tied Cobb last Sunday in Chicago, going 2 for 5. He did not play in the opener of a 10-game homestand Monday night against San Diego because the Padres threw a left-hander, Dave Dravecky.

But, on Tuesday night, before a packed house of 51,045 at Riverfront Stadium, Rose took his place in the lineup at first base against Padres right-hander LaMarr Hoyt.

Hoyt had not pitched since Aug. 18 because of arm trouble, but he got Rose out three times. And rookie right-hander Lance McCullers got him the final time in the game, in the eighth inning, when Rose lined out hard to the gap in left-center with a runner on second.

"The only time I swung the bat good was the last time I got up," Rose said. "If it had stayed straight, it might have been a base hit in the gap, but it hooked back toward the fielder and made it an easy play."

Edison's Kaleaph Carter is hauling in passes and praise.

A classic returns

Edison-El Modena game also features classic hype

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Entering his 20th season at El Modena it's obvious Vanguards Coach Bob Lester has a very small list of opponents who hold the upper hand on him — but it's one which includes Edison, which has a 3-1 series advantage.

In fact, the only victory for El Modena was a 28-27 verdict in what was (1) a major upset and (2) a spectacular game in 1979.

Now, after a three-year absence, one of Orange County's classic matchups is back with the two prep football powers colliding at Orange Coast College Friday night.

The game set aside, for a moment, it pits two of the more distinctive coaches against one another, and both are ready for the matchup.

Says Lester: "I'll tell you right now, if we get beaten too badly I'm not above breaking our contract (for the following season)."

"I think what I've got is a big pain in the wazoo with Edison. Every time I schedule them they're the world's finest."

"The last time we played... well, those guys are still playing professional football."

"The only reason I scheduled him (Workman) in the first place is because I love to see his pregame warmups. They could put it to music and take it on the road. They're all on their knees and Billy comes along and blesses them. I'm going to get there early because I don't want to miss it."

Says Workman: "Lester's one of my favorites. We don't run into anybody that doesn't feel it's special to beat us, and I don't think they run into anyone that doesn't feel it's special to beat El Mo."

"We don't deserve to be in anybody's Top 10, or Top 20."

"In the Orange County Top 10 I'd put a lot of teams ahead of us. El Modena, Foothill, Esperanza, Newport Harbor, La Quinta..."

"Our children are not ready for El Modena's men."

How the coaches see it

Bob Lester, El Modena: "I think what I've got is a big pain in the wazoo with Edison. Every time I schedule them they're the world's finest."

Bill Workman, Edison: "Our children are not ready for El Modena's men."

Workman says he's not sure who his starter at tailback will be, but that Rich Lee, David Sherman and Kaleaph Carter will all see action at the position.

Carter is the sophomore subject who has kept Lester busy reading about, and Workman says his 190-pounder will also be in there defensively at linebacker in passing situations.

A major hole has been created in the offensive line with the absence of '84 starter Randy Goens, a 6-3, 253-pound tackle. Goens isn't expected to return for another three weeks because of a knee injury suffered in practice.

"Kevin Fairman (6-1, 251), a backup to left tackle Chris Wickenkamp (6-2, 223), moves into Goens' spot."

"We're bigger than El Modena," says Workman to the question. "Not really. They're a little bigger defensively. Up front we might be bigger, but they have a whole lot of 200-pounders."

"Actually," says Lester, "we're talking about a first game of the season and I have no idea where we are. Billy probably doesn't, either."

Within the framework of where both coaches finally agree, Workman states: "We're both out there to try to win the game, but we know at the same time we're playing a quality opponent. If we go out and play good, hard football that's probably the most important thing. Our team is not put together, we're not all in the right place yet. But I feel we can make progress."

El Modena's blue chip in the line is three-year starter Don Gibbon, a 6-3, 255-pound two-way tackle.

Lester is hopeful senior Chris Gallego, a 6-3, 180-pound senior who did not play as a junior, can pick up where quarterback Brett Johnson left off.

"Chris throws awfully well," admits Lester. "But he hasn't played a varsity game." Also a potential thorn in Edison's side will be linebacker Ross Bauer, who is described by Lester as "a little turkey for us at 175."

This time Kansas City enjoys re-run

Leibrant baffles Angels with a 3-hitter; Royals bid to hike lead to 2½ tonight

By CHRIS MONAHAN
Daily Pilot Correspondent

September is usually the time that all the new shows come out on television. Not so at Anaheim Stadium.

If the Angels-Kansas City series was a show, the viewers would have turned the channel because Tuesday's game was an almost perfect re-run of Monday.

One night after John Candelaria and Doug Corbett two-hit Kansas City to move the Angels to within a half-game of the Royals, Charlie Leibrant returned the favor.

Leibrant (15-7) threw what he called "my best game of the year under the circumstances," a three-hit shutout, as the Royals rolled, 6-0, before 37,813 fans.

The victory pushed the Royals lead in the West back to 1½ games and assures that they will leave Anaheim in first place.

"We were not looking at this series as a do-or-die confrontation. We're just looking to put some ground between us and the Angels," said George Brett. "Even after last night, we were laughing in the shower and everyone was loose. Or if they were a little nervous, they hid it very well."

"I'd say, under the circumstances, that was my best game of the year," said Leibrant. "We're playing the team that we have to beat to win it and September is the time when everyone is looking."

Royal Manager Dick Howser concurred with Leibrant.

"Under the circumstances, after last night, that was the best game we've had pitched all year," said Howser. "He would get into a little bit of trouble, throw the ground ball and get a double play to pitch out of it."

Leibrant served up three double play groundballs, including one that went around-the-horn to end the game.

"That (double play) is how you win ballgames," said Brett, who started two of the double plays and also contributed two hits and two runs scored. "We did the same thing to us that they did to us. We had some hitting, good fielding and great pitching."

"Charlie pitched as well tonight as Candy did last night. It was nice to have an easy game for once. Most of ours have been 6-5, 4-3 or 3-2."

"He simply pitched for groundballs and got them. But those balls were hit hard enough that if they find a hole, we've got something going," said Angels Manager Gene Mauch. "They got the kind of pitching we got last night and it's hard to win those kind of games."

Leibrant hasn't gotten as much ink as the younger pitchers on the

Newly-acquired Sutton to pitch Friday vs. Texas

Seeking a little more pitching help "for the balance of the season and the rest of the way," the Angels on Tuesday acquired veteran right-handed pitcher Don Sutton from the Oakland A's for two minor league players to be named later.

For Sutton, who lives in nearby Laguna Hills, it was the culmination of five years of waiting to return to Southern California.

"It will be nice to go home after home games," said Sutton at a pregame press conference. "I'd had a plan for the last five years. It wouldn't have gone like this, but I wouldn't have traded the experience. The A's collectively were the nicest bunch of guys I ever knew."

Because of the late date of the trade, Sutton will not be eligible for post-season play, but the Angels say they are looking for immediate help for the stretch drive and for 1986.

Don is one of a group of players we were trying to acquire before mid-July, but Oakland was still legitimately in the race," said General Manager Mike Port. "By the rules that are set up, there is no way he can be eligible for the playoffs. Our minds' eye is looking to 1986."

Said Sutton of his late acquisition, "I'll be very happy being the world's highest paid batting practice pitcher."

Sutton's impact will likely be more than that and it will be soon. After talking with Sutton Manager Gene Mauch said he will start Friday.

NH-Saints: Defense may take back seat

Newport Harbor High is ranked No. 10 in Orange County by the Daily Pilot, but Sailors football coach Mike Giddings isn't paying too much attention.

At least that's the look off his comments as the Sailors prepare for the 1985 season opener Friday night when Santa Ana High's Saints invade.

"I think it'll be a high-scoring game... if it isn't, we're going to get our comeuppance," says Giddings.

"We're nowhere near where our recent teams have been at this point. But I'm not going to bemoan the fact we have to open with Santa Ana and I'm not going to panic (if Santa Ana wins). We have a definite plan for the season and I haven't really changed our practices for Santa Ana. We're just going to go play."

For Giddings, it's a matchup with an old friend — Santa Ana's Dick Hill.

"He was at Downey High when my dad was the mayor of Downey," recalls Giddings. "I had a job coaching summer baseball, so I've known Dick Hill a long, long time. I know he came in late last year at the 11th hour and I know they'll be fired up because we beat them."

Lasorda's pep talk spurs Honeycutt, Dodgers

It's a perfect day as LA scores two 10s to win doubleheader from lowly Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Pitcher Rick Honeycutt says knowing that the Los Angeles bullpen was tired made him work harder and pitch his first full game of the season against the Atlanta Braves, who lost a doubleheader to the Dodgers Tuesday.

"We needed a complete game to rest the bullpen. Knowing they are overworked makes you bear down more," said Honeycutt, after pitching the Dodgers to a 10-1 victory in the first game of the doubleheader Tuesday.

The Dodgers also came up with 10 runs in the nightcap, winning 10-4, with Greg Brock's grand slam homer leading the way. The twin victory boosted the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to 9½ games over Cincinnati, which lost to third-place San Diego, 3-2.

Honeycutt, 8-12, said he received a pep talk from Manager Tom Lasorda and a promise from his teammates before pitching the five-hitter.

"Tom Lasorda told me, 'Go as hard as you can for as long as you can.' The guys told me I had to complete the game no matter what," the pitcher said. "I told them if they'd get me seven runs I would, and they had me seven by the third inning."

Honeycutt, who had lost six of his last eight decisions, also set off a five-run second inning with an RBI single.

Mariano Duncan drove in two of the runs in the second inning with a single against Pascual Perez, 1-10, and knocked in two more in the third with a triple off reliever Jeff Dedmon.

Honeycutt's bases-loaded single with one out in the second scored Bill Madlock. The lead followed with his two-run homer. After an out and a walk, Dedmon singled off Perez and yielded a two-run single to Brock.

The Dodgers added three runs in the eighth, one on a fielding error by shortstop Ramirez, one on a single by Duncan and one on Ken Landreaux's groundout.

"We quit our smoking and got a lot of runs," Lasorda said of the Dodgers' 10-4 win against the Braves this year. "We keep coming at you, keep plugging."

Yankees close to getting Seaver from White Sox

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have claimed 300-game winner Tom Seaver of the Chicago White Sox and will try to work out a deal for the 40-year-old veteran today, according to a report in the New York Daily News.

The News reported in today's editions that sources close to both Seaver and the White Sox said that details of a trade were being negotiated. A 48-hour waiver period will expire today.

No other American League club lower in the standings than the Yankees had claimed Seaver.

If a deal is not worked out between the two clubs, Chicago will remove Seaver from the waiver list today.

The Yankees, 13-10 winners in Milwaukee Tuesday night, have won 11 straight and 29 of 34 New York trails the Toronto Blue Jays by 1½ games in the American League East.

But despite the winning streak, the Yanks have been looking for help in the pitching department.

"We're trying, believe me, we're trying," Yankee owner George Steinbrenner said of New York's quest for pitching help. "I've said before that we're not going to mortgage our future for the sake of getting a veteran pitcher who might only help us for a couple of weeks."

But the prospect of the one-time Met in pinstripes has to be an attractive one to Steinbrenner, as well as to Seaver.

"All I can say right now is that the thought of coming back to New York is certainly attractive from a personal standpoint," Seaver told the News. "I haven't been told anything, but I'm not totally surprised by this, simply because our club has to decide which way they want to go next year. At least I have a say in this."

Seaver's approval on an agreement between the Yanks and White Sox would be needed to complete any transactions.

Seaver, who won his 300th game on Aug. 4 at Yankee Stadium, is 13-10 this year with a 3.25 ERA, eighth best in the AL.

The News said a source close to Chicago co-owner Jerry Reinsdorf was looking to trade Seaver and his $1 million annual salary. Chicago is all but out of the pennant race, standing nine games behind first-place Kansas City in the AL West.

Seaver broke into the major leagues in 1967 when he went 16-13 for the New York Mets and became the club's first star, winning rookie of the year honors.

In 1969 he won 25 games and the first of three Cy Young Awards in leading the Mets to the world championship.

Seaver was traded to the Cincinnati Reds on June 45, 1971, following a money dispute with club official M. Donald Grant.

After six seasons with the Reds, including a no-hitter against St. Louis on June 16, 1978, he was traded back to the Mets in December of 1982.

Seaver was the Mets' opening day pitcher in 1983 and finished the year 9-14.

In a move that dismayed many Met fans, Seaver was left unprotected in the 1984 free-agent re-entry draft and was claimed by the White Sox on Jan. 19 as compensation for Dennis Lamp, who signed with Toronto.

Seaver is fourth on the all-time strikeout list with 3,515, 19 behind Gaylord Perry.

Gamblers always looking for better systems

But even most-heralded formulas took beating in opening week of pro football

Now that football has returned to enhance our culture and refinement, horse racing has returned to second place in the area of betting handle.

In the opening week of the professionals, the house had it smooth and sweet. Such upsets as Minnesota over San Francisco and Houston over Miami upset the stomachs of the smartest players.

Systems also went down the drain. Possibly the most heralded formula for early season wagering is the "unders" plan. This system is to be the unders on all games on the theory the defenses are far ahead of the offenses as the field comes out of the gate in early autumn.

That system failed nine times over the opening weekend.

Another traditional and time honored system is the home underdog method. This formula scored only two times in all the contests on the first day of '85.

It goes without saying that most of the exotic bettors — the guys who play parlays and teasers and other wild wagers — had a bad weekend. They always do.

Now, this is not to say that football wagering does not have its decent points and is without its contributions to the good of our society.

Losing on football builds character. This is to be compared with losing on the horses except that at the race track, it happens with greater frequency.

Then, too, the start of the football season marks the arrival of the popular wagering "card" and the office pool. This creates water cooler conversation and serves to bring the stalwarts of American industry closer together.

Speaking of American industry, the football touts are back for another season of service. The advertisements of the services appear in print across the nation and one must admire the sincerity of the promises of these citizens.

BUD TUCKER

SPORTS COLUMNIST

Like... "If you don't receive nine out of 10 winners in his weekly $35 package, old True Blue Lou will throw himself in front of a train."

At any rate, the season of this sort of thing is upon us and it can be fun and entertainment if you keep certain things in mind. I mean, there are lessons to be learned in the art of gambling.

Recall this ancient but honored story:

A horse player left Del Mar after an afternoon of ill-advised transactions and was on his way to his hotel room. Dinner would have to wait for a better day.

Along the way, the horse player met a fisherman who was carrying a fish of respectable size.

"What kind of fish is that?" the horseplayer asked the fisherman.

"This," the angler replied, "is a bonito."

"For $10," the horse player said, "that is not a bonito."

"You would be making a stupid bet," the fisherman said. "I have been fishing these waters for 30 years and I know it is a bonito."

"Nevertheless," the horse player said, "for 10 bucks, it is not a bonito."

The fisherman shrugged and agreed and they took the fish to the local meat market and laid it on the counter and asked for a ruling.

"It is a bonito," the market man said.

After he pocketed the horse player's last 10 spot, the fisherman asked why he would make such an obviously stupid wager.

The horse player replied, "It was a good bet. All you had was a bonito."

"I had every other fish in the ocean going for me."

Mrs. Weaver may coach Earl on his managing plans

From AP dispatches

BALTIMORE — It seems to be up to Edward Bennett Williams and Marianna Weaver to decide whether the Baltimore Orioles' manager will return next year.

Earl Weaver, who said he hedged on the question, indicated he would be interested in continuing as Baltimore skipper in 1986 if both his owner and his wife are interested as well.

Weaver was unsure of how long he would like his return engagement to be, or if anyone else would endorse the move, but implied that he would not be the one to stop it.

"At the end of the season," Weaver said, "I'll have to sit down with my wife and see if she was: (a) miserable, (b) happy, (c) upset with all my thoughts being on baseball the last 3½ months, or (d) willing to put up with it another year, or longer."

"I told my wife years ago that baseball came first, that it had to be that way if you have a job in the major leagues," Weaver said. "So, that could be a topic of discussion."

"I wouldn't want to take a job unless it would come first," Weaver said. "I think that on any job you have to put it above your wife and children at times if you want to support them."

Quote of the day

San Francisco 49ers Coach Bill Walsh after his team's mistake-filled loss to the Minnesota Vikings: "The men who have the privilege to carry that ball and to catch it ought to do their damn jobs so the rest of the men's efforts are fully warranted."

Golf discrimination?

OAKLAND — Oakland Mayor Lionel Wilson said he plans to set up meetings with directors at two golf clubs regarding charges of alleged discrimination against blacks.

The mayor said he will seek a solution that can be "negotiated without confrontation." However, he said he also is researching the possibility of taking legal action if discussions fail.

Wilson sent letters protesting the alleged discrimination to Sequoyah Country Club and the Claremont County Club two months ago after he heard complaints that black golfers were being excluded from membership.

Chargers looking for a kicker

SAN DIEGO — San Diego Chargers' place-kicker Rolf Benirschke could be out for as long as a month because of a groin injury, and the search is on for a temporary replacement.

Bob Thomas, Eddie Garcia, and Dean Biasucci were to audition for the spot today, made available when Benirschke aggravated a groin strain during San Diego's 14-9 victory over the Buffalo Bills last Sunday.

Thomas was waived by the Chicago Bears recently despite hitting on 22 of 28 field goal attempts in 1984.

Nevitt signs one-year contract

INGLEWOOD — Chuck Nevitt, billed as the National Basketball Association's tallest player, has signed a new one-year contract with the Lakers.

Nevitt, a 7-5, 245-pound center, was a reserve last season as the Lakers won the NBA title.

Originally signed by the Lakers as a free agent prior to the 1984-85 campaign, Nevitt averaged 1.1 points, 1.8 rebounds and 1.4 blocked shots last season, and 1.4 points while appearing in seven playoff games.

Mets take lead from Cards, 5-4

Howard Johnson lined a grand slam moments after a bench-clearing altercation, capping a five-run first inning Tuesday night that led the New York Mets past St. Louis, 5-4, and back into first place in the National League East. The victory in the opener of the three-game series gave the Mets a one-game lead over St. Louis. The Cardinals had been in first place since Aug. 22.

Elsewhere, San Diego's Garry Templeton collected four hits to lead the Padres to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati as Pete Rose went hitless in four tries.

Mike Schmidt's three-run homer with none out in the bottom of the 11th gave Philadelphia a 5-2 victory over Montreal. Ex-University High star Tim Wallach slugged his 16th homer of the season for the Expos.

Bob Knepper pitched a three-hitter and Kevin Bass hit a two-run single in Houston's three-run fourth inning as the Astros won a 4-1 victory over San Francisco.

Denny Gonzalez hit a two-run homer and Rick Reuschel pitched his sixth straight complete game, striking out 12 batters, as Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs, 2-1.

Yankees win 11th straight

Ron Hassey and Ken Griffey hit three-run homers Tuesday night as the New York Yankees outlasted Milwaukee, 13-10, for their 11th consecutive victory. The win kept the Yankees within 1½ games of Toronto in the American League East baseball race.

Damascus Garcia singled in the winning run in the seventh to snap a 1-1 tie and Doyle Alexander bested Jack Morris as Toronto defeated Detroit, 2-1.

Bruce Bochte's 12th home run of the season sent Oakland ahead in the fifth inning and Dave Kingman hit the 15th grand slam homer of his career in the seventh as the A's ended a six-game losing streak by downing Texas, 10-3.

Wade Boggs, going over the 200-hit mark for the third consecutive season, went 4 for 4 in leading Boston to a 5-3 victory and a split of a doubleheader with Baltimore. In the first game, Eddie Murray, Mike Young and John Shelby hit eighth-inning homers to pace the Orioles to a 7-5 victory.

Joel Davis, a 20-year-old rookie, outpitched veteran Bert Blyleven in hurling the Chicago White Sox to a 7-2 victory over Minnesota.

Young signs with Buccaneers

TAMPA, Fla. — Quarterback Steve Young left the United States Football League Tuesday and signed a multiyear contract with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League, attorney Leigh Steinberg said.

Coach Leeman Bennett said he doesn't expect Young to be a big help to the Bucs this year.

The contract puts Young "in the same category as the John Elways and the Bernie Kosars... in an extremely fair way, in a lucrative way. It's a happy day for him," Steinberg said in an interview with ABC-Radio Sports.

Asked how Young can help, Bennett replied: "Not a whole lot right now with him missing all of training camp and our first game. He is so far behind it would be difficult for him to catch up this year."

The former Brigham Young star signed a reported $40 million contract with the USFL's Los Angeles Express in March 1984, but had been trying to buy his way out of the deal claiming the pact was violated when the league assumed operation of the financially strapped franchise.

Sinaryl, skippered by Francois Homberger of Geneva, Switzerland, was the winner of the first race of the 5.5-meter world championship Tuesday in a 7½-mile race off the Santa Ana River Jetty.

Fourteen crews from six countries started competition in the series which will conclude with the Scandinavian Gold Cup Challenge starting next week.

Second in Tuesday's race was Moirna, skippered by Bob Mosbacher of Houston, and third was Firestorm, sailed by Al Fay, also of Houston.

Watson turns his attention to polo

OCC's successful swim coach to try new sport this year

In the shadow of the championship squads at Golden West recently, the Orange Coast College water polo team has a new excitement as it enters the 1985 campaign.

Don Watson is OCC's new head coach this season and he has instilled new enthusiasm in the program this year. A former All-American poloist at Rio Hondo College and Long Beach State, Watson is not new to the Pirates' campus. He has had great success coaching Orange Coast's men's and women's swim teams the past five seasons.

His women have finished among the top five swim teams in the state the last four years and have claimed the state crown the last two seasons. His men have finished among the state's top 10 teams in each of his five seasons.

"My goal is to bring OCC back to the forefront of community college water polo," said Watson. "This is an extremely crucial season for us because this is the year that we have to establish our credibility."

It took Watson only four years to take OCC's women's swim team to its first state championship. His goals for the water polo squad are similar.

"Perhaps it's unrealistic to expect that we can win a state title in four years — but it's something to shoot for," he said.

"We'll be very young this year, but we'll be competitive. We're not going to win all our games, but we'll be able to play with every single team we face on our schedule this year. I don't expect us to get blown out."

OCC's only returning sophomore is Rob Mirande, a field player who attended Costa Mesa High. The only other sophomore on the squad is goalie Mike Hinz, who was an All-American swimmer last spring for Watson, setting an OCC record in the 1,600 freestyle.

"Rob is a very fine player," said Watson, "he will be one of our leading scorers this year. Mike is an outstanding goalie and we'll be depending heavily upon him this season."

Another player Watson is relying on is Eric Keller, a freshman field player from Los Amigos High. Keller will share scoring duties with Mirande.

"We won't be a team of superstars. I'm sure many of the teams we face this year will have better individual athletes, but we'll play well as a team," said Watson.

"If we attempt to deviate from the team concept and play as individuals, we'll get killed."

HB poloists post 10-8 win

Brian Schiaccia scored four goals to lead the Huntington Beach High water polo team to a season-opening 10-8 decision over visiting La Quinta Tuesday.

The Oilers trailed 8-7 late in the third quarter when Rod Hansen scored the last of his three goals with 56 seconds left in the period.

Then, Kurt Diendorfer and Schiaccia broke the deadlock with a pair of goals in the fourth quarter to give the Oilers the victory.

Diendorfer had two goals and Jeff Russ the other for Huntington Beach. Goalie Mark Hirsch made a couple of key saves in the final quarter to preserve the win.

Elsewhere:

Mater Dei 17, Pacifica 7 — Brian Breen scored five goals to lead the Monarchs to a non-league victory over visiting Pacifica.

Senior Dan Smith and Geoff Atchinson scored two goals apiece, while eight other Monarchs had single tallies. Zoltan Teglas turned away eight shots in goal for Mater Dei, while Mike Thome saved three.

SUTTON...

From B1

Though Mauch denies it, it appears that Sutton will replace Jim Slaton, who has struggled since mid-May. Mauch has said that after Sutton, John Candelaria will take his regular turn Saturday.

"He is not taking anyone's place specifically," said Mauch. "I want him to pitch at least four times, maybe five."

"He's pitching great right now. He likes pitching in September and he likes pitching in these situations. That's why we got him."

"I'd like this deal to be the bottom line of all your stories tomorrow," said Sutton. "The big deal is not me, it's this team being in a pennant race. It's an added plus to play at home."

"At this point in my career, there's not an awful lot for me to do. It's nice to spend it at home."

One of the things left for Sutton to do, in 1986, is win his 300th game. Sutton (13-8 in 1985) currently has 293.

"When I started playing this year, it was primarily because 300 was the apple out in front of me. I realized it was going to be a two-year project."

Cameras roll for Irvine, University

Cross-town rivals premiere many new players

By SHARON FRUTOS

When Terry Henigan's Irvine High Vaqueros take the field Friday night against cross-town rival University, it will be a premiere of sorts in the non-league football test.

The films have already been viewed, but Henigan believes there's still a lot to see.

"We just saw last year's film (of University)," Henigan said. "You can't go scouting practice. Plus, you never know... they can change, we can change things. I think the first game we're more concerned with what your kids do."

And premiering at quarterback for Irvine is Jimmy Raye, a returning starter who'll be steering the offense for the first time.

"He's never played a down at quarterback before," Henigan said. Raye's seen time at defensive back, and has shown promise on the other end of the field.

"He performed better in practice," Henigan said of Raye. Brian Snoddy, also listed as a quarterback, will start at safety for the Vaqueros.

The Uni-Irvine series shows Irvine with a 4-3 edge.

"They've all been very close," Henigan said. "We've won the last three in a row. It's always a good game. I would expect this to be another close battle."

On the battlefield for Irvine are

"All three are doing quite well," Henigan said.

"In the opener you want to play well, you want to win of course. Hopefully make a few mistakes as possible. And hopefully we'll play a lot of kids. We're so inexperienced, we need to see a lot of kids play."

There's a premier of sorts going on for the Trojans, too, inasmuch as Coach Rick Curtis has settled on Bart Silverman as his starter at quarterback.

"He's done a good job," says Curtis, "and off our scrimmage last week he's won the job for right now."

The Trojans will have junior Craig Belle at tailback and Brett Howard at fullback in what is a completely new backfield.

"Obviously we want to win the game," says Curtis, "but we have to be realistic. We're young and going to make mistakes, but we want to keep improving."

Curtis says the key is to keep the ball away from Raye and the Irvine offense.

"We have to establish a running game," says Curtis. "If we establish that we can pass the ball. It's probably the key for both teams."

Raye is the central figure the Trojans base their concern on, and Curtis explains:

"He's a phenomenal athlete and is going to cause problems for people at that position. And, Irvine is big and experienced inside. They have the people inside and we're just going to have to hang in there against those big hogs."

ANGELS TUMBLE, 6-0...

From B1

Royals staff, but he says that doesn't matter.

"We've got some good young arms on this staff and I've gotten my name in some stories," said the 28-year-old Leibrandt. "Just pitching well is good enough for me."

"The young guys on this staff have gotten so much attention, but Charlie is getting better," said Howser. "That's how he pitched for us since last year. He has kept us in a lot of ball games. He was good last year and he is better this year."

He was so good Tuesday that through the first four innings he had a no-hitter, which was broken up by Bobby Grich at the beginning of the fifth.

"You have to be awfully lucky and have great stuff (to get a no-hitter)," said Leibrandt. "I didn't have great stuff early, but when they hit it, luckily it was at someone."

"After the fourth I settles down. Before that I kept the ball down and they (the Angels) hit it right at people for easy double plays. Those are a pitcher's best friend."

Some other doubles that were friends of Leibrandt's Tuesday were the two that came off the bat of KC designated hitter Hal McRae. Both in the first inning and in the fourth, McRae followed singles by Brett with RBI doubles to left, giving the Royals an early cushion.

In the fourth his double was followed by Frank White's two-run home run — a feat that was matched by teammate Lonnie Smith in the fifth.

ANGEL NOTES: Doug DeCinces, who has not started a game since Aug. 17 because of back pains, pinch hit Tuesday and struck out Bobby Grich, who broke up Charlie Leibrandt's no-hitter in the fifth inning Tuesday, now has 1,003 hits as an Angel. Jim Fregosi (1,408) is the only other player in Angel history with more.

With his first-inning RBI double, Kansas City's Hal McRae earned his 2,000th career hit. The Angels' win Monday night was their second straight; the first time they have done that since Aug. 22-23.

Overheard in the Angel lockerroom before the game Tuesday: Rogee Jackson to newly-acquired Don Sutton. "We put you next to (Angel coach) Jimmy Reese so you could remind me and so you'd have someone to laugh at your jokes." Sutton is now the oldest Angel at 40, surpassing Jackson at 39.

Tonight's final game of the series will be televised (Channel 5).

TARS FACE SANTA ANA...

From B1

Santa Ana enters with 6-4, 190-pound quarterback Eric Turner at the helm, and there is a lot of strength up front, including 240-pound Lale Afalo, 235-pound Tony Gonzales, 215-pound Lanier Bridges and 205-pound Carlos Sanchez.

Harbor's look has been shuffled a bit, due largely to the emergence of Chuck Warwick (237) and Chris Sylvis (290) at the tackles.

That's allowed Scott Craig (241) to move to left guard, to complement right guard Jason Nedelman (211), and center Gus Hurst (201), giving the Sailors' interior an average weight of 236 pounds per starter.

"I was hoping we could do that," says Giddings. "Warwick and Sylvis seem to be doing the job. Tackle was my No. 1 concern."

Operating behind this group, of course, is returning starter Shane Foley at quarterback, and the big front gives Giddings the opportunity to "run right at you or throw."

Mark Craig (6-6) and Andy Sheppard, along with Steve Sheppard, figure as Foley's main receivers.

Defensively the Sailors have found what they were looking for at the nose with the surfacing of Dan Hill, a 6-3, 210-pound senior who has not played football since his freshman year.

"It was just out of the blue," says Giddings.

Friday's game is also "out in the blue," according to Giddings. "I know Santa Ana is going to be good," he says, "but really we're going in with no idea."

DEATH NOTICES

HOWE

Peter James Howe, born Dec. 23rd 1966, resident of Costa Mesa, was killed in a motorcycle accident near Stockton on Sept. 4, 1985.
He will be sadly missed by his parents, Blair & Judy Howe; brother Brian Howe; grandparents, Jim & Catherine Padelford; uncles, Jim, Joe, Ed & Wes; relatives and his many friends.
Peter was a recent graduate from Estancia High School where he excelled scholastically and captained the water polo team in his senior year. He accepted a scholarship and was attending the University of the Pacific at Stockton, CA.
A memorial service will be held at St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, 600 St. Andrews Road, N.B. on Thursday Sept. 12, at 4:30 P.M.
In lieu of flowers, it is suggested that donations be made either to the Estancia H.S. water polo team, or to the Youth Village Church of Irvine, 14795 Jeffrey Rd., Suite 206, Irvine, CA 92714.

'Racial reform at our pace'

Botha urges South Africans to find freedom, not as U.S., Russia direct

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — President P.W. Botha today said South Africa's white-minority government would set its own pace toward racial reform, and not be swayed by pressure from the United States or the Soviet Union.

Botha called for "all well-meaning, reasonable and honest South Africans" to "take the road of renewal, reform and freedom as South Africans determine it and not as Russia or America wish to determine it."

In an address to the Orange Free State provincial congress of his ruling National Party, Botha also suggested some blacks might be able to regain the South African citizenship they lost when the white government created four independent black homelands.

As rioting against apartheid persisted, a funeral crowd near Cape Town mobbed a man thought to be a policeman, then kicked and stabbed him to death this morning, witnesses said. Police said he was of mixed racial ancestry but witnesses said he was white.

Police also said today that they shot and killed a 4-year-old black girl who was playing inside her house during township rioting.

In a separate development, Zenani Mandela, daughter of imprisoned black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela, said today her father has an enlarged prostate gland and cysts on his liver and right kidney, and doctors say he needs surgery.

She made the announcement after visiting the 67-year-old Mandela at Cape Town's Pollsmoor Prison. Mandela, president of the outlawed African National Congress, has been in prison for 23 years on charges of high treason, sabotage and conspiracy to overthrow the government.

The prison service announced last week that Mandela had been seen by a urologist. His daughter did not give any indication today when Mandela might undergo surgery.

The 4-year-old girl, Mita Ngobeni, was killed in Atteridgeville, west of Pretoria, where a police spokesman said a rubber bullet fired by officers to disperse rioters apparently killed her.

Ramirez home combed for eyes of Night Stalker victim

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities investigating the "Night Stalker" case searched in Texas for a pair of brown eyes gouged from a woman during the rash of serial killings and attacks that terrorized California.

The eyes were among items listed in a warrant served during a search of the El Paso home of the sister of defendant Richard Ramirez, court documents say.

Investigators found more than 300 items allegedly stolen by Ramirez, 25, and hidden in the home of his sister, Rosa Flores, police say. The items included rings, necklaces and brooches.

But the eyes, cut from a middle-aged woman shot and stabbed to death March 27 in Whittier, about 18 miles southeast of downtown Los Angeles, were not found. The search for them continues, authorities said Tuesday.

Capt. Robert Grimm, commander of the Los Angeles County sheriff's homicide bureau, said the eyes were included in the warrant because other items were sent to El Paso.

"We searched the (murder) scene thoroughly and they weren't discovered," Grimm said. "We had information that stolen property had been sent to El Paso, and the eyes were still outstanding, and that's the rationale."

It was the first official confirmation that the Night Stalker mutilated victims during more than 30 attacks that included at least 14 killings. News reports earlier said eyes may have been gouged from victims and satanic rituals may have taken place at crime scenes.

Authorities have attributed the Night Stalker attacks to a lone intruder who attacked people in Southern California and the San Francisco area, entering homes at night through unlocked doors and windows.

The affidavit said investigators were searching for satanic materials such as writings or drawings that Ramirez may have mailed to relatives.

Despite the discovery of allegedly stolen articles in Flores' house, Grimm said Los Angeles authorities do not consider her an accessory.

"At this point, there is nothing to indicate that she violated California law, which says that you have to know the items that you're accepting have been stolen," Grimm said.

The home of Ramirez' father, Julian Ramirez Sr., was also searched last week, court records show.

Investigators also searched for handguns, knives, double-edged daggers, handcuffs and bloody clothing, the affidavit said.

In the search warrant affidavit filed last week in El Paso County Court, authorities disclosed that two informants in California had confirmed that Ramirez was sending stolen articles to El Paso.

One of those informants, Donna

Myers of San Pablo, Calif., reportedly received stolen jewelry from Ramirez, said Bill Moody, an assistant district attorney in El Paso. A San Francisco-area man, Armando Rodriguez, also told authorities that Ramirez was dealing in stolen property, Moody said.

Authorities hoped to find blood-stained clothing, tape recordings, videotapes or photographs of victims, he said.

None of those items was found during searches last Wednesday by three El Paso policemen and two Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies.

Municipal Court Judge Elva Soper has delayed taking a plea to murder and other counts from Ramirez until Sept. 27.

Salads simply sensational

Toss a little imagination with an array of produce

Whether you have a green thumb or do all your gardening via the local supermarket, this is the best time of year for fresh produce. Thanks to the abundant supply, many people are on the lookout for new ways to serve their favorite fruits and vegetables.

One great vegetable dish is the ever-popular salad. Salads give the perfect opportunity to combine freshness, nutrition, taste and texture all in one entree.

All you need to invent a sensational salad is a little imagination. For example, plain lettuce takes on new life simply by adding fresh vegetables like mushrooms, onions and tomatoes. Then, for some extra crunch, top the salad with a handful of toasted walnuts. Salads don't necessarily have to begin with lettuce. Many favorites start with potatoes or fruit.

To dress up ordinary greens, add fresh mushroom caps stuffed with a blue cheese-sour cream mixture, then top with Mushroom Dijon Dressing. Or, serve Mushroom Blue Caps and Garden Greens without the dressing for an elegant appetizer.

For a French version of an American favorite, try Country French Potato Salad. Tender potatoes and peas are topped with chicken and seasoned in a mint dressing. For more flavor, toss the potatoes and mint dressing while the potatoes are still warm. This hearty salad makes a delightful warm-weather main dish.

Walnuts are the crowning glory in Walnut Grove Salad Bowls. Just fill melon shells with assorted fruits, top with crunchy walnuts then drizzle with a tangy orange walnut dressing. For a single serving, use small cantaloupe halves. For a larger crowd, substitute a hollowed watermelon half. Walnut Grove Salad Bowls can also be served as a light and nutritious dessert.

Served alone, or together as a special meal, this delicious trio of salads, fill every role on a menu.

Here are some simple yet sensational tips:

• ANTIPASTO MUSHROOMS — In a stainless steel saucepan, bring 1 pound of mushrooms to a boil in 1 cup distilled white vinegar mixed with 1 bay leaf, 1 clove of garlic, halved, 1 teaspoon oregano, a dash salt and a few peppercorns. Simmer 10 minutes; cool. Add ½ cup olive or vegetable oil.

Refrigerate in covered jars. Bring to room temperature before serving in antipasto salads or tossed green salads, using some of the strained marinade for dressing.

• MUSHROOM CURRY CAPS — In medium skillet stir 2 teaspoons curry powder over low heat for 1 minute. Stir in 3 tablespoons vegetable oil. Add 8 ounces mushrooms. Toss over medium-high heat just until tender, 3 to 4 minutes. Add salt, to taste. Cool. Toss with mixed green salad or rice salad moistened with lemony dressing.

• POTATO SALAD SCOOP — Leftover mashed potatoes make tasty salads. Mix in some mayonnaise or salad dressing, sieved hard-cooked eggs and chopped herbs. Chill; serve little scoops on lettuce with sandwiches, or fill hollowed-out tomatoes and serve on beds of watercress.

• SPUDWICH SALADS — Halve cooked baked potatoes and spread cut sides with mayonnaise or mustard. Sandwich your choice of thinly sliced tomatoes, meats and cheese, and a ruffle of lettuce between the halves. Wrap snugly in foil for a picnic surprise.

• SALAD WALNUTS — Beat together 1 package (3 ounces) softened cream cheese, ¼ cup shredded Cheddar cheese and ¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce. Mix in ½ cup finely chopped walnuts. Roll into 1-inch balls.

Place on plate in a single layer; cover and chill. Toss torn spinach leaves and red onion rings with a vinaigrette dressing and portion onto individual plates. Top each serving with 3 or 4 Salad Walnuts.

• WALNUT SALAD CROUTONS — Heat 1 tablespoon each butter or margarine and vegetable oil in small skillet. Add 1 clove minced garlic and ¼ cup walnut pieces. Cook and stir until walnuts are lightly roasted, 3 or 4 minutes.

Transfer walnuts to bowl with slotted spoon. Add 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese; toss to coat walnuts. Cool. Store in covered jar. Add Walnut Salad Croutons to tossed green salads for flavor and crunch.

• COUNTRY FRENCH POTATO SALAD
1½ pounds (4 to 5 medium) potatoes
2 cups fresh cooked peas or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, thawed
Garden Mint Dressing (recipe follows)
4 chicken breast halves, boned, skinned and poached
Lettuce leaves
Radishes, for garnish
Mint sprigs, for garnish

In heavy saucepan with tight-fitting lid, cook potatoes in about 1 inch boiling water just until tender, about 30 minutes. Drain, cool slightly and slice ½-inch thick into large bowl. Add peas and half the Garden Mint Dressing. Toss gently; cover and chill. In another bowl toss chicken with the remaining dressing; cover and chill.

To assemble, line platter with lettuce. Arrange potato mixture on lettuce. Cut chicken breasts into ½-inch slices. Arrange chicken breasts across platter. Drizzle any dressing remaining in bowl over salad. Garnish with radishes and mint sprigs. Makes 4 main dish servings.

Garden Mint Dressing: In bowl whisk ¼ cup vegetable oil, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons water and 1 teaspoon each dry mustard and honey. Stir in ¼ cup sliced green onions, 3 tablespoons chopped fresh mint (or 1 tablespoon dried mint, crumbled) and salt. (Please see SALADS/C3)

Celebrate Jewish new year

Jewish cookery is a delicious mixture of foods from around the world. All families can readily enjoy this cuisine, with its sophisticated yet comforting taste of good home cooking.

Among the many fall and winter specialties are a savory potato pudding and harvest pot roast, both often served for Rosh Hashana (Jewish new year — Sept. 16) or Succoth (Feast of Booths — Sept. 30).

Holiday Potato Kugel, affectionately called "Potato Nick," is a modern version of a popular side dish.

The colorful addition of carrots, a traditional new year ingredient that symbolizes the wish for prosperity, enhances this pudding. So, too, does Tabasco sauce, which heightens and adds depth to the delicate flavors of the vegetable ingredients.

The kugel has a unique airy texture in keeping with contemporary preferences for light meals. If a food processor is not available, grate the potato and carrots by hand. Avoid using a blender which will produce an unsatisfactory kugel with too fine a texture. Kugel is best served warm.

Fruited Pot Roast incorporates fruits and sweetness, elements essential to the Succoth meal that celebrates the bounty of the harvest.

Traditionally, meals were eaten in a booth decorated with ripe apples, ears of corn, pumpkins, squashes and other produce to recall the temporary shelters of the Israelites as they wandered in the wilderness. In this recipe, prunes and apricots represent the natural abundance that is the focus of the eight-day observance.

To sample some of the most typical of Jewish festival foods, try these dishes that have been passed down for generations by discerning Jewish cooks. A simple green vegetable, a fruit pastry such as apple strudel and tea or coffee are all that would be necessary to complete the meal.

SENSIBLE EATING

Vegan diet takes careful planning

Registered Dietitian

Youngsters can grow well on a healthy strict vegetarian, or vegan, diet but parents must be well informed and careful about planning meals to insure that the diet is adequate.

Vegans, who eat no animal foods at all — not even eggs or dairy products, must know how to combine plant foods that are necessary to supply all nutrients that nonvegetarians get when they eat dairy foods, meat and eggs.

Vegan children having diets lacking in variety and balance of foods are at risk of rickets, slower growth and multiple nutrient deficiencies.

A well-designed vegan diet that includes variety and enough calories contains enough protein for adults. But pound for pound, children have a greater need for protein, and require a special plan that includes the use of protein supplements.

Since the vegan child gets no milk products, other foods such as fortified soybean milk preparations, leafy dark-green vegetables, and legumes, nuts and dried fruits must be added to supply the nutrients.

The high nitrate content of spinach and similar greens limits the amount that can be offered to infants, but they should be included in the diets of older children.

For infants who are not breastfed and for older children who have been weaned, there are nutritionally adequate commercial formulas made of soy protein. Available under the brand names such as Soyabac, ProSoy, Nursoy and Isomil, these formulas are fortified with vitamins D and B-12, calcium and zinc — nutrients that may be inadequate in diets of vegan children.

Homemade soy milks, consisting of ground soy beans soaked and filtered, are not a substitute for commercial soy formulas.

By including a variety of plant proteins the quality and adequacy of the protein in the diet can be improved. This calls for a good variety of legumes and grains, with some nuts and seeds.

Tofu and tempeh (soy-based products), texturized vegetable protein, spreads made of nuts or seeds and fortified dried soy-milk powder that may be added to casseroles, soups and desserts are additional protein sources for the toddler and preschooler.

To achieve a good complement of amino acids derived from plant protein foods, include legumes — soybeans, lentils, black beans, garbanzos, black-eyed peas, split peas, pinto beans — should be combined with grains — barley, millet, brown rice, oats, rye, wheat berries, shredded wheat or wheat flakes and bulgur. Or, legumes should be matched with nuts and seeds — almond, cashew, pecan, walnut, peanut, pumpkin, pine, pistachio, sesame, sunflower.

Because many plant foods are low in calories, total calories for the day are generally limited in the vegan diet. Ways to add calories to meet a child's energy need for growth and activity are necessary.

The provision of between-meal finger foods made with legumes and legume spreads of all types, nut butters, sesame-chickpea butter (tahini), avocado, dried fruit spreads and other calorie-nutrient-dense items helps children, whose stomach capacity is small, to consume sufficient calories.

The risk of poor growth and health is greatest when extremely limited vegan diets of only a few foods are provided especially when the infant or child is not kept under the care of a pediatrician.

A qualified nutritionist can help develop necessary dietary plans without disrupting the vegan family's food ways.

Versatile dip accompanies fresh vegetables and fruit

Abundant fruit and vegetables from the garden, produce stand or supermarket are especially nice served raw with a tangy dunk. Their fresh flavor and natural crisp or juicy textures are hard to beat in their uncooked state.

So for appetizer or dessert plates that take advantage of late summer and early fall harvests, serve a colorful array with a Tangy Blue Cheese Whip.

Blue Cheese has an affinity for both fruits and vegetables that's softened and mellowed with whipping cream, herbs and crunchy, nutritious diced almonds.

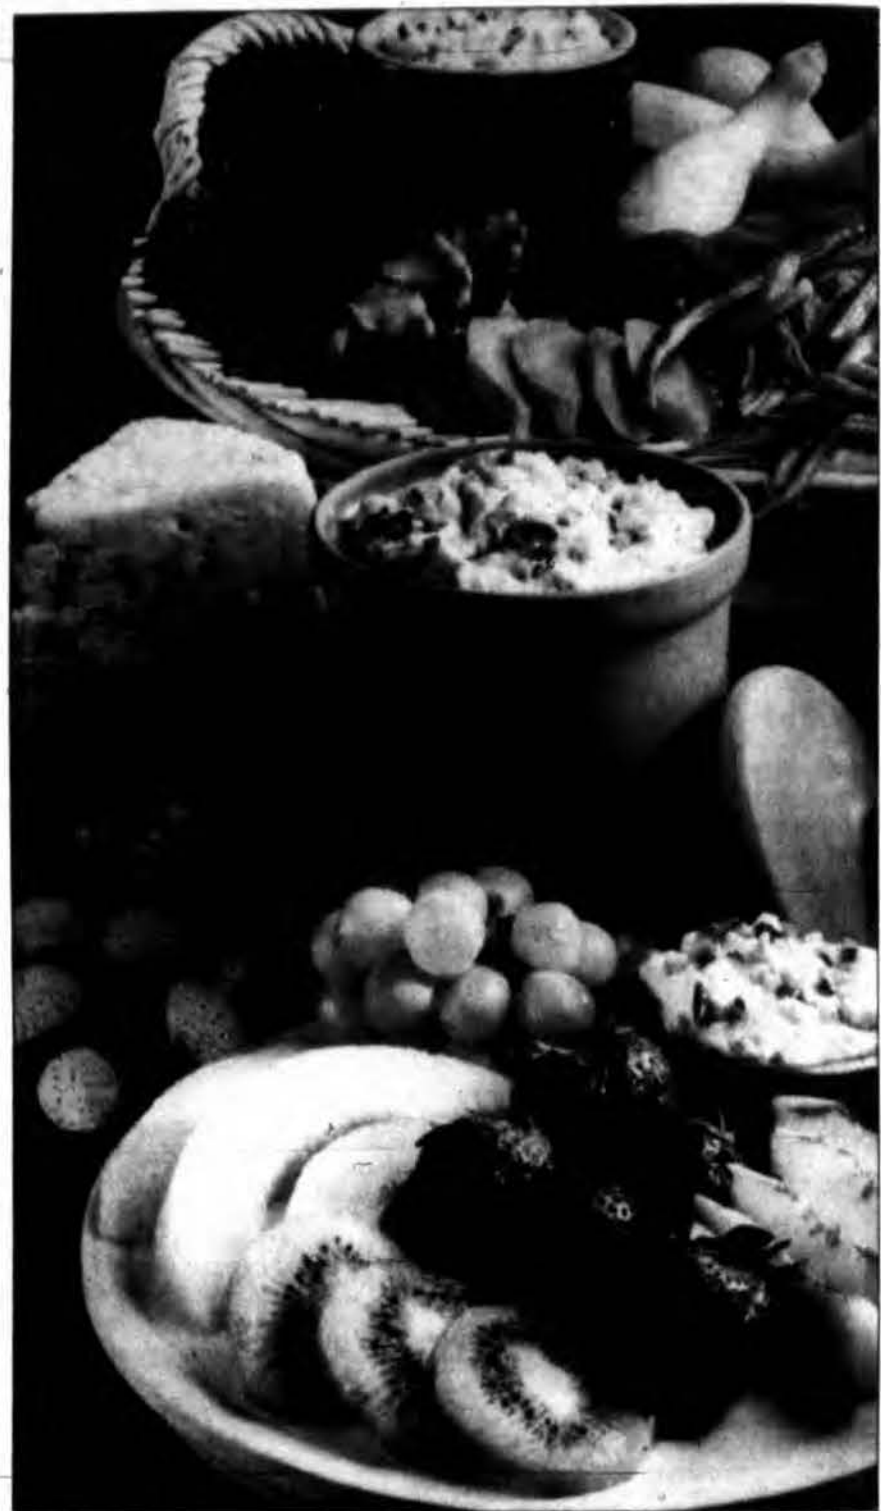

Lightly roasted almonds add flavor as well as vegetable protein, riboflavin, vitamin E and an array of essential minerals including magnesium, potassium and copper.

This airy flavorful dunk is equally good with apples and pears, as it is with the melons and soft fruits, or beans, squash, peppers and pea pods, it's a versatile whip you'll enjoy as a special topper on cooked vegetables, too.

TANGY BLUE CHEESE WHIP
 1 cup heavy cream
 1/4 cup finely crumbled blue cheese
 1 teaspoon basil
 1 teaspoon garlic salt
 1/4 cup chopped toasted almonds
 Variety fresh summer fruits such as cantaloupe, peaches, nectarines and pears or assorted fresh vegetables.

In small mixing bowl combine heavy cream, blue cheese, basil and garlic salt. Blend until mixture thickens. Fold in almonds.

To serve, arrange sliced fruits or vegetables on serving plates. Serve with Tangy Blue Cheese Whip and sprinkle with additional almonds. Tangy Blue Cheese Whip may also be used as a dip with fresh vegetables. Makes 6 servings (2 cups whip).

'Devil's sauce' hot winner

Renee's Seafood Fra Diavolo judged best in garlic competition

Sauce "from the devil" was judged the best in the Great Garlic Recipe Contest and Cookoff, a highlight of the annual Gilroy Garlic Festival.

Renee Norine Teles of Saugus, a former restaurant manager and cooking teacher, won $200 for her original recipe, Renee's Seafood Fra Diavolo.

Fra Diavolo, she said, means "from the devil" in Italian, which refers to the red hot sauce. Teles said she developed the dish of rich seafood to please her husband who is of Italian descent.

RENEE'S SEAFOOD FRA DIAVOLO

1/2 cup chopped fresh garlic
 1/4 cup olive oil
 1 small lobster in the shell, about 1 pound, cleaned, small claws and antennae removed 6 large shrimp, cleaned and deveined

1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
 1 small onion, chopped
 5 leaves each fresh mint, fresh basil and fresh oregano, chopped
 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon crushed dried red pepper
 1 teaspoon clam or chicken soup base (paste or granulated)
 1 cup dry white or red wine
 1 can (28 ounces) whole Italian tomatoes with basil, including juice
 3 large mussels, scrubbed
 6 large clams, scrubbed
 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
 1 pound thin spaghetti or vermicelli, cooked and drained

In 14-inch skillet, cook 1/4 cup garlic in hot oil over high heat for 2 to 3 minutes; do not burn. Add lobster and shrimp; cook on high heat 3 to 4 minutes, until lobster turns pink. Remove seafood and set aside.

Add remaining garlic, mushrooms, onion, mint, basil, oregano and red pepper. Cook over medium heat 8 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour mixture into blender or food processor. Add soup base, wine and tomatoes; puree. Pour puree into 3-quart saucepan and cook over medium-high heat, adding mussels and clams when mixture begins to boil.

Stir often until mussels and clams open, then add parsley. Remove clams and mussels to dish with seafood. Toss pasta with 2 cups sauce. Line bottom of oven-proof serving platter with coated pasta.

Place lobster in center on top of pasta with shrimp, mussels and clams decoratively on both sides. Pour remaining sauce over the top, being careful not to hide the shellfish. Cover with foil and place in preheated 375-degree oven for 7 to 10 minutes. Serve when piping hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: This recipe may be made without the lobster and canned clams and mussels may be substituted if fresh seafood is not available or to reduce cost of the dish.

FISH & TIPS

by Rex Chandler

SAUTE, SAUTE, SAUTE—When sauteing fish the temperature of the pan is the key. Using 1/2 oil and 1/2 butter, water should skip across its surface when it reaches proper temperature. Try to use clarified butter to avoid burning. Flour and season damp fish and saute about one minute on each side until golden brown.

FRESH CLAMS—Remember when catching your own clams check on their eatability. They are only as pure as the water they came from.

Have a fiesta on Mexican holiday

Mexican Independence Day provides a great "excuse" for hosting a party with south-of-the-border flair. A national holiday in Mexico, tradition calls for fun and feasting.

Because the holiday falls next Monday, fast-to-fix fiestas will be the order of the day for busy north-of-the-border party hosts. In honor of the festivities here are two Mexican-style party recipes that can be prepared in short order.

Tex-Mex Tostada Soup boasts scrape-bright colors and the temperature, texture and color contrasts that make soup a year 'round menu staple in Mexico. Prepared with ground meat, pinto beans, tomatoes and picante sauce in the cook's choice of mild, medium or hot, the soup is served with an assortment of toppings.

For casual fiesta fun, ladle the soup into bowls at the table and let everyone help themselves to additions of tortilla chips, cheese, shredded lettuce, sour cream and additional picante sauce.

If enchiladas are familiar favorites, go adventurous and serve guests Picadillo Enchiladas. Picadillo (pee-kah-DEE-yo) means "minced meat" or "meat and vegetable hash" in Spanish. Although popular in Mexico as a filling for tortillas and a topping for rice, picadillo is largely unknown to Mexican food fans north of the Rio Grande.

The spicy ground meat and vegetable mixture is flavored with the sweet, mellow additions of raisins, nuts and a hint of cinnamon, with picante sauce providing the authentic Mexican flavor.

Brown meat with onion in 3-quart saucepan; drain well. Drain and chop tomatoes, reserving juice. Add tomatoes and juice to saucepan with beans, tomato sauce, water, picante sauce and cumin.

Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Ladle into soup bowls. Top with tortilla chips, cheese, lettuce, sour cream and additional picante sauce, as desired. Makes 6 servings, about 6 cups soup.

PICADILLO ENCHILADAS

1 pound ground beef

1 medium onion, chopped
1 16-ounce can stewed tomatoes
1 cup picante sauce
¼ cup raisins ¼ cup chopped slivered almonds, toasted
2 teaspoons garlic salt
¼ teaspoon ground cumin
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
Vegetable oil
12 corn tortillas
1½ cups (6 ounces) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
Brown meat with onion in 10-inch skillet; drain. Stir in tomatoes, ¼ cup of the picante sauce, raisins, almonds, garlic salt, cumin and cinnamon. Simmer uncovered, stirring occasionally to break up tomatoes, 20 minutes.

Heat about ½-inch of oil in small skillet until hot but not smoking. Quickly fry each tortilla in oil to soften, about 5 seconds on each side. Drain on paper towels.

Spoon a scant ¼ cup meat mixture down center of each tortilla; roll and place seam side down in a 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking dish. Combine remaining picante sauce with remaining meat mixture; spoon evenly over enchiladas and cover with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes or until hot. Makes 6 servings.

to taste. Makes ¾ cup.

MUSHROOM BLUE CAPS AND GARDEN GREENS

½ cup crumbled blue cheese (about 3 ounces)
¼ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons finely chopped red onion
12 ounces mushrooms
Chopped parsley
Mushroom Dijon Dressing (recipe follows)
1 quart trimmed and torn salad greens, chilled

In small bowl combine cheese, sour cream and onion; mix to blend thoroughly. Gently remove stems from two-thirds of the mushrooms; reserve stems. Fill mushroom caps with cheese mixture. Garnish with parsley. Cover and chill.

Meanwhile prepare Mushroom Dijon Dressing. To serve, slice the remaining mushrooms. Toss with greens; arrange on platter with filled mushroom caps. Pass dressing separately. Makes 4 servings.

Mushroom Dijon Dressing: In container of electric blender combine ¼ cup vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons each distilled white vinegar and Dijon-style mustard, ¼ teaspoon each salt and pepper, and the mushroom stems (reserved above). Blend until smooth. Makes about ¾ cup.

WALNUT GROVE FRUIT SALAD BOWLS

2 medium cantaloupes, halved and seeded
3 cups assorted seasonal sliced fruits (peaches, plums, strawberries, oranges, cherries, grapes)
¼ cup walnut pieces and halves
Orange Walnut Dressing (recipe follows)

Scoop flesh out of melon halves, using melon baller; reserve shells to use as bowls. In large bowl combine melon balls and assorted fruits; cover and chill. To serve, fill shells with fruit mixture. Garnish with walnut pieces and halves. Pass Orange Walnut Dressing separately. Makes 4 servings.

Orange Walnut Dressing: In container of electric blender combine ¼ cup vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons each white wine vinegar, frozen orange juice concentrate and water, 1 teaspoon grated orange peel, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper and 2 tablespoons parsley sprigs. Blend until smooth, scraping sides of container as needed. Mix in ½ cup finely chopped walnuts. Makes about ¾ cup.

Nectarine Zuppa Inglese a great summertime treat

Nectarine Zuppa Inglese, an Italian variation of the English Trifle, can only be made during the summer months when fresh California nectarines are available.

California produces about 95 percent of the nation's total crop. Peak supplies are still coming and the current varieties are great — sweet, large and highly colored.

Select well-formed nectarines that show a creamy yellow background color. Fresh California nectarines, like their cousins peaches, ripen off the tree when held for several days (depending upon the fruit's firmness) in a loosely closed paper bag.

This highly perishable fruit should be refrigerated until used but brought back to room temperature for the best flavor.

Save the best of the lot for Nectarine Zuppa Inglese, a dessert that defies the summer credo "take it easy" for the pastry chef and satisfies the season's tendency toward sweet indulgence for the lucky partakers.

NECTARINE ZUPPA INGLESE

1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
2 cups hot milk
4 egg yolks, lightly beaten
1/4 cup brandy
Spongecake
1/4 to 1/2 cup dark rum
2 fresh California nectarines, thinly sliced (2 cups)
1 cup whipping cream
Extra nectarine slices

Combine sugar and flour in saucepan. Beat hot milk until mixture with wire whisk until smooth. Heat gently, stirring constantly 3 minutes. Whisk in egg yolks and continue stirring over low heat until custard is very thick and glossy, about 2 minutes.

Remove from heat and stir in brandy. Chill custard with piece of plastic wrap over surface of custard to prevent skin from forming.

Cut spongecake in large triangles and place them point first into 1 1/2-quart dome-shaped bowl or mold, piecing where necessary to fully line bowl. Reserve some cake pieces to cover middle layer and top.

Sprinkle cake with half the rum, then spread half the custard in center. Top with half the nectarine slices. Top with cake pieces, sprinkle with some rum and spread remaining custard over cake. Top with nectarines, then with remaining cake pieces and sprinkle with remaining rum.

Chill Zuppa 3 to 4 hours or until set. When ready to serve, unmold Zuppa, whip cream until stiff and spread over Zuppa. If desired, pipe extra whipped cream in decorative pattern over Zuppa and garnish with extra nectarine slices and chocolate curls. 6 to 8 servings.

Spongecake: Sift 1 cup flour with 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Beat 3 eggs until very thick and lemon-colored. Gradually beat in 1 cup sugar. Blend in 1/2 cup water and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Gently mix in dry ingredients, stirring or beating only until batter is smooth.

Pour into greased jelly roll pan (15 x 10 x 1-inch) lined with greased brown paper. Bake in 375-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Loosen edges and immediately turn cake upside down on towel or sheet of wax paper. Carefully peel off paper. Let cool.

FESTIVAL... From C1

1 teaspoon baking powder
3 eggs separated
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1/4 cup vegetable oil, heated until hot

Position knife blade in food processor bowl. Process potatoes, in several batches, until they are very fine. Drain well and turn into a large bowl. Process carrots and onion until they are very fine; add to potatoes; mix well. Combine matzo meal and baking powder; stir into potato mixture.

In a small bowl beat egg yolks and Tabasco sauce until light; stir into potatoes. Quickly stir in hot oil. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into potato mixture. Spoon mixture into a greased 9x9-inch shallow baking dish.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 1 hour and 10 minutes until golden. Let pudding rest 10 minutes before serving. Yield: 12 servings.

FRUITED HOLIDAY POT ROAST

1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 to 5 pound beef chuck roast or brisket, rolled and sliced
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
1 1/2 cups orange juice
1 cup beef broth or bouillon
3/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1 cup pitted prunes
1 cup dried apricots

Combine flour and salt. Dredge meat in flour mixture. In Dutch oven or large, heavy saucepot, heat oil. Brown meat on all sides. Drain fat; discard.

Add onion, orange juice, broth, cinnamon, ginger and Tabasco sauce to Dutch oven. Bring to boiling. Cover; reduce heat, simmer 2 hours, basting occasionally. (If using thin cut of brisket, simmer 1 hour.)

Add prunes and apricots. Simmer 1 hour longer or until meat is tender. Stir fruits occasionally to blend flavors and prevent sticking. Let roast stand 10 minutes before slicing. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Super icy lemonade is a perfect refresher on a warm afternoon. To make Slushy Lemonade, simply combine in blender container, 1/2 cup bottled lemon juice from concentrate and 1/2 cup sugar with 1 cup water; add ice to make 1 quart. Blend until smooth. Serve immediately.

Sparkling wine from Spain worth waiting for

The name Domecq is French, but has been associated with Spain for so long that it seems Spanish to most of us. Most famous for its production of fine sherry, especially that wonderful fino "La Ina," Domecq is also a major brandy producer, both in Spain and Mexico, and, in the past decade, became a vintner of the wines of Rioja.

Between now and the holiday season, Domecq is going to acquire a new renown, this time for sparkling wine, perhaps the best you've ever tasted produced in Spain.

My meeting with the American representatives of Domecq to preview this product a month or so ago had a humorous note. We met in a restaurant where the owner was an old friend I hadn't seen in a while, who was too busy with a private party to get over right away.

Since the reservation was in the name of Domecq, he assumed we were there to talk or taste sherry. As a small kindness, he sent a bottle of a famous French Champagne with apologies for his absence.

He couldn't have known that we were about to taste an inexpensive Spanish sparkler, nor could he have known that Domecq's press release brags, "Compare it with the best you have from any country. It is a truly world-class sparkling wine, and we produced it with that goal in mind."

With the French Champagne already on the table, it was only natural to compare the two products, and was the restaurateur ever red-faced when he finally got by the table and discovered the difficult situation he had created for the Domecq people: Here they are trying to court a wine writer's favor for a product that will sell for $6 or less, and he's setting up a comparative tasting with a competitive product that sells for more than twice as much.

"Lembey" is the name of the new Domecq sparkling wine, and it is produced in that part of Spain, near Barcelona, where all the best Spanish sparklers are made. The wine it was tasted against was Laurent-Perrier non-vintage Brut.

It would make a much better story if I could tell you I liked Lembey better, but such is not the case, but the story isn't over either. In deference to the less expensive product, I tasted it first, so as not to be prejudiced by the Champagne. I was impressed.

Lembey is the best Spanish sparkler I've ever tasted, which is a strong statement because I enjoy a number of such wines and have consistently recommended them as being good values. But Lembey has several things going for it.

The carbonation is as fine as you'll find in any sparkling wine produced anywhere in the world, and in this instance, it appeared to have an even smaller "bead" than the Champagne.

It is not only produced by the expensive "methode Champenoise" (bottle fermented), but spent two full years on the yeast undergoing the secondary fermentation that creates the bubbles.

Whether it is the time on the yeast, or some other factor such as grape selection or choice of yeast strain, I cannot say, but Lembey has that rich, toasty, almost yeasty character that Champagne-lovers covet, and that is so often missing in other Spanish sparklers.

Spanish sparkling wines usually tend toward straightforward, austere fruit, which can be its own kind of charm, but they rarely approach Lembey's level of complexity.

Lembey is rich in the mouth without being heavy, and a deft hand was employed in the dosage, meaning that the wine is truly in the brut range, finishing dry and crisp but not acidic.

You can look for 1982 Lembey to begin appearing on retailer shelves nationally anytime from now through the holidays. You'll recognize it by its deep green and gold label and the handsome gift box of the same colors in which it is packaged.

Oh, the Laurent-Perrier. It was more delicate, more elegant, and the aftertaste stayed around considerably longer. Without taking price into consideration, I'll take the Champagne every time. When I have to reach in my wallet, though, I'll probably buy Lembey more often than not, because this product held its own with the French Champagne and was in no way embarrassed by the comparison.

OTHER WINE COUNTRY — All of California wine country is not north of San Francisco, a great deal of it is to the south, and much of it is to the east. Napa, Sonoma, Mendocino and Lake counties are all wonderful, but don't forget Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and even Riverside and San Diego counties.

If San Francisco is your starting base, one of the closest wine countries is the historic Livermore Valley, home to Wente Bros., Concannon and several other excellent producers. For a free map and guide to the area, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Livermore Wine Country, P.O. Box 2052, Livermore 94550.

HARVEST PROMISING — The harvest for 1985 is in full swing as you read this, having actually started some weeks ago. Grapes for sparkling wines started hitting the crushers even longer ago as they are usually picked for low sugar and correspondingly high acid.

It is a little early to predict the overall quality of the vintage in California, and there is always some differences between regions to complicate things, but I can tell you that everything I've heard, even from the pessimists, is that 1985 is going to be one very fine vintage. With many of the white grapes already harvested, one can almost safely predict an exceptional vintage for white wines and champagnes.

The reds look good, too, but every farmer knows that there is still time for early rains, scorching heat spells or some other vagary of nature to change things virtually overnight.

I'll keep you posted on any changes, and as you read this I'll be in France having a look at things over there. Reports are that heavy frosts last winter did very bad things to Champagne and Burgundy, which could mean small yields and increasing prices. I'll let you know whether to start heading Dom Perignon and Romanee-Conti when I return.

Here's a dilly of a fish stew recipe

FISH STEW

2 tablespoons butter
1 medium onion, (3 to 4 ounces), thinly sliced and separated into rings
3 medium potatoes (1 pound) pared, and cubed (1/2-inch)
1 cup milk
1/2 cup bottled clam juice
1 pound white-flesh fish fillet (such as scrod), cut in 2-inch pieces
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup fresh dill fronds, finely chopped
Salt and pepper to taste

In a medium saucepan melt butter, add onion and cook gently, covered, until softened. Add potatoes, milk and clam juice; simmer (do not boil) until potatoes are tender. Add fish; simmer until opaque through — about 5 minutes. Add cream, dill, salt and pepper; simmer for 2 minutes. Makes 5 cups.

Perk up backyard menus with fresh tomatoes

Bored with barbecued hot dogs and hamburgers? Perk up your outdoor meals with these recipes featuring fresh tomatoes. Ripened at room temperature for best flavor and texture, fresh tomatoes are guaranteed to turn backyard barbecues into exciting occasions.

For a tasty salad or appetizer, try colorful Marinated Broccoli Stuffed Tomatoes. They're easy to prepare using bottled Italian salad dressing. Hollowed-out tomatoes make convenient containers for the vegetable filling.

Refreshing Chilled Tomato Carrot Soup, mildly seasoned, is best made the day ahead to allow the flavors to blend. This delightful first course is rich in tomato flavor, but low in calories.

Teriyaki Seafood Tomato Kabobs are as tasty as they are attractive. Marinating the foods in the Teriyaki Marinade for several hours imparts delicious flavor.

Mushroom Onion Cheeseburgers are a savory variation of an old-time favorite. Topped with fresh tomato slices, onion slices and lettuce, they put all fast-food hamburgers to shame.

(about 2 pounds), peeled and chopped
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) chicken broth
1/4 teaspoon each basil and thyme, crushed
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon each pepper and nutmeg
1 cup milk
Chopped parsley

In large saucepan, melt butter. Add carrots, onion and garlic; cook 5 minutes. Add 7 of the tomatoes, chicken broth, basil, thyme, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 30 minutes, or until vegetables are tender.

In electric blender or food pro-

TERIYAKI SEAFOOD TOMATO KABOBS

2 pounds fillet of sole, cut into 2 to 3-inch strips
Teriyaki Marinade (recipe follows)
1 1/4 cups cubed fresh pineapple
1 green pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
1/4 pound small fresh mushrooms
3 small fresh tomatoes, quartered

Hot, cooked rice (optional)
Marinate fish in half of Teriyaki Marinade in shallow glass dish about 2 hours. Marinate pineapple, green pepper and mushrooms in remaining marinade in a separate dish.

Thread folded fish strips, pineapple, green pepper, mushrooms and tomato onto skewers. Broil or barbecue just until fish flakes, about 7 to 10 minutes, turning often and basting frequently with marinade. Serve over hot, cooked rice, if desired. Makes 5 servings.

TERIYAKI MARINADE

1 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup dry sherry
1/4 cup packed brown sugar

2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cloves garlic, minced or pressed
1 teaspoon ground ginger
Combine all ingredients in jar with tight-fitting lid. Cover and shake well.

MUSHROOM ONION CHEESEBURGERS

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, coarsely chopped
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
1 pound ground beef
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon each pepper and chili powder

3 ounces Cheddar cheese, sliced
4 onion rolls or hamburger buns, split
Mayonnaise or softened butter
3 medium fresh tomatoes, sliced
4 lettuce leaves

In medium skillet, melt butter. Add mushrooms, onion and garlic; cook until tender. Cool slightly. Mix together mushroom mixture, beef, salt, pepper and chili powder. Shape into 4 patties.

Barbecue or broil to desired doneness, turning once. Top with cheese when almost done. Spread rolls with mayonnaise or butter. Serve cheeseburgers on rolls, topped with tomato slices and lettuce. Makes 4 servings.

MARINATED BROCCOLI STUFFED TOMATOES

1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped broccoli
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup bottled Italian salad dressing
6 to 8 medium fresh tomatoes
1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup chopped green onion
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon dill, crushed

In medium saucepan, cook broccoli and mushrooms in small amount of boiling salted water just until broccoli is tender, 3 to 5

5-ounce can evaporated milk, undiluted
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1 1/2 teaspoons yellow Dijon mustard
1/4 teaspoon paprika
Salt to taste

In a food processor with the metal blade, pulse together evaporated milk, lemon juice, oil, mustard, paprika and salt until thick. Store in a tightly covered jar in refrigerator. If mayonnaise separates, whisk lightly before using. Makes about 1 1/2 cups. Stores well in refrigerator for about a week.

East, West agree on dish: Sukiyaki's simply super

You might be surprised to know that beef has only been featured in Japanese cuisine for the last 100 years. It wasn't until the late 1900s that the Japanese became infatuated with Western culture and began incorporating foods such as beef into their cuisine.

But rather than preparing it as we might a steak or roast, they adapted it into their lifestyle and eating habits. The beef was sliced very thin and cooked with vegetables and tofu; the seasoning was soy sauce, and they called this dish sukiyaki.

Accommodating today's hectic lifestyles is Simply Super Sukiyaki that takes only minutes from range to table. Ground beef has been substituted for economy and ease of preparation, and vegetables that are available in our markets.

Virtually a one-dish meal, Simply Super Sukiyaki is best complemented with a side dish of rice or noodles.

SIMPLY SUPER SUKIYAKI

1/2 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 pound ground beef
1 medium-size yellow onion, thinly sliced
1 pound fresh spinach, washed and drained
1 bunch green onions and tops, cut into 2-inch lengths, separating whites from tops
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 block tofu, cut into 1-inch cubes and well drained

Combine soy sauce, sugar and 1/2 cup of water; set aside. Brown beef in Dutch oven or large skillet over medium heat, stirring to break beef in large chunks. Add yellow onion; cook 1 minute.

Add spinach, white parts of green onions, mushrooms and soy sauce mixture; cook until spinach wilts, stirring constantly. Gently stir in tofu and green onion tops. Cook about 5 to 7 minutes, or until vegetables are tender and tofu is seasoned with sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Chocolate diet the only way for her to grow

By MARLENE AIG
APress Writer

NEW YORK — For as long as Lora Brody can remember, chocolate has been a way of life.

When other kids were eating pizza, she was feasting on fudge brownies.

When other adults were mastering the art of cooking main courses, she was perfecting chocolate-laced desserts.

Now, at the suggestion of a fellow chocoholic, she has concocted a book about her favorite subject.

Just as she whips chocolate into tortes, ice cream, pies, fondues and coverings for bananas, she whipped autobiographical sketches and recipes into the book, "Growing Up on the Chocolate Diet," which she hopes will help put one of her three sons through college.

"I hooked up the food processor to the word processor," Brody, 39, explained in an interview.

The food of the gods — which is what the word chocolate means — has been her "main ingredient, passion, love" all her life, she says.

"Maybe you the word diet means cottage cheese and Melba toast," she writes. "To me it means chocolate layer cake, fudge brownies and egg creams. While other kids were growing up on pizza and Coke, chili dogs and cheeseburgers, I was eating chocolate."

Eating chocolate was easy, but learning to cook and bake — not just with chocolate — was more difficult.

Her husband, David, agrees that as a bride his wife took no prizes as a chef, but time, effort, determination and imagination turned Lora Brody into a woman who made her first money selling cookies to Bloomingdale's.

Moving from cookies and cakes to catering, she helped found the Women's Culinary Guild.

Part of the thanks for her success goes to her husband and friends, who serve as her "research and development" department, she says.

"My friends are honest, although they do like to eat," says Brody, a Hartford, Conn., native who now lives in a Boston suburb.

She also has taught baking classes, lambasting the "thin ladies" who are interested in learning, but not eating, for fear that they will gain an ounce. Brody herself has never been fat; in fact, she was always thin.

"I'm real compulsive about my weight," admits the woman who works only with high-calorie ingredients. "But I work all the time. I run around being a mother. I do watch what I eat. And then, for one week a year, I get away from food."

She retreats to an old house in upstate New York, a health resort, where all she does is "drink water, rest, walk in the country. It's like someone took a big toothbrush and scrubbed you out. It's invigorating."

She concedes that many of the recipes in her book are time-consuming and complex for the average baker, but she insists they can be done.

"You can do it if you really want to," she says.

DILLY BEANS

1 pound snap beans, trimmed
3 cups water
1 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons dill seed, crushed with back of a spoon
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
1 cup onion rings

Rinse beans and cut into 2-inch lengths. In a large saucepan stir together water, vinegar, sugar, dill seed, salt and red pepper flakes. Bring to a boil; simmer, covered, for 5 minutes. Add beans; simmer, covered for 1 minute. Add onions; simmer, covered for 1 minute. Pour into a container with a tight fitting cover. Refrigerate overnight or longer to allow flavors to blend. Makes about 5 cups.

SMOKE SIGNALS SPARERIBS ARE ON BARBECUE

Today's outdoor chef has developed a sophisticated approach to cooking that goes beyond the prosaic hamburger and hot dog. A good cook's repertoire now includes all sorts of intriguing recipes; such as stuffed Barbecue Sparerib Stack that is served with an unusual Green Salad with Walnuts.

Cooking the spareribs first in boiling water gets rid of the fat, a bonus for those interested in lowering the fat content of foods they eat. The two racks of cooked ribs are then stuffed with a deliciously seasoned dressing based on a handy package of herb seasoned stuffing mix.

The stuffing mix is then endowed with sweet Italian sausage, chopped zucchini, celery, onions, tomato and a minced clove of garlic. Once blended, the dressing is spooned between the two racks of ribs and all tied together.

Thus joined and brushed with a spirited sweet-sour sauce, the ribs are ready for grilling over the glowing coals.

The accompanying salad is a veritable garden of crisp greens, endive and cucumber tossed in a honey-based salad dressing of your own making. Toasted walnuts and a sprinkling of Sour Cream and Chive Croutons adds a delightful counterpoint of texture and flavor.

BARBECUED SPARE RIB STACK

- 2 racks spareribs (4 1/2 to 5 pounds total weight)
- 1/4 pound Italian sausage
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 cup coarsely chopped zucchini
- 1/2 cup sliced celery
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onions
- 1 medium clove garlic, minced
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 cup chopped tomato
- 1 1/4 cups herb seasoned stuffing mix
- 1 cup ketchup
- 4 tablespoons brown sugar
- 4 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 2 medium cloves garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon basil, crushed
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard

Cook spareribs in boiling, salted water for 1 hour. Drain.

Meanwhile, in skillet, brown sausage in oil, using fork to break into bits. Add zucchini, celery, onion and garlic. Cook until zucchini is tender. Remove from heat. Add water, tomato and stuffing mix; toss to blend.

Layout one rack of spareribs, top with stuffing mix, spreading to cover meat; top with remaining rack of spareribs. Tie together. Combine for 30 minutes or until tender. Brush frequently with barbecue sauce and turn every 5 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

WALNUT GREEN SALAD

- 2 cups leaf lettuce in bite-size pieces
- 1 small Boston lettuce in bite-size pieces
- 1 1/2 cups watercress
- 1 endive, cut into quarters, lengthwise
- 1 medium cucumber, sliced
- 1 cup toasted walnut halves
- 1/2 cup pimiento strips
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon toasted sesame seeds
- 1 cup sour cream and chive croutons

In a large bowl, toss lettuces, watercress, endive, cucumber, walnuts and pimiento. Combine oil, honey, lemon juice and sesame seeds; mix well. Add to greens and toss to blend. Serve sprinkled with sour cream and chive croutons. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

OCC cuisine classes have foreign flavor

A trio of exotic food classes — "Chinese Cooking," "International Cuisine," and "Sushi" — will be presented by Orange Coast College's Community Service office.

The seven-part course on Chinese cuisine will meet Saturdays at noon beginning Sept. 14. Taught by May Tai, who received her culinary arts training in Taiwan and Hong Kong, the class will emphasize correct usage of appropriate ingredients, tools and techniques.

For six Mondays, beginning Sept. 16 at 3 p.m., international cuisine will be taught by Lynn Jaramillo, who has been an instructor of such classes for 11 years and has conducted tours to Cordon Bleu in England and La Varenne in France. The class will be repeated, starting Nov. 4.

Students, under the direction of Masako Nishii, will learn to make sushi in a two-part class at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 20 and 27.

All classes will be held in Room 105 of OCC's Home Economics Building. For registration information, call 432-5880.

"Wine Basics," a workshop focusing on California wines, will be presented at 7 p.m. Sept. 20 and 27 in Orange Coast College's Fine Arts Hall 116.

Instructor will be James E. Clarke, member and past president of the Innominate Wine Guild of Southern California and member of the Orange County Wine Society and Les Amis Du Vin.

For information, call 432-5880.

PASTRY PEAR-FECT

There is more than one way to eat a fresh California Bartlett pear. The first and most obvious way is to take it hand to mouth and bite.

A second and far less usual way is to blend it into a cold and luscious Pear-Raspberry Pie.

PEAR-RASPBERRY PIE

1/4 cup water
3 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 pound fresh Bartlett pear, pared, cut into chunks (1 large, 1 cup)

1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, broken into chunks
2 cups whipping cream
Crumb Crust

Stir gelatin and water in small saucepan over low heat until dissolved; set aside. Place egg yolks and sugar in blender; cover and process until thick and lemon colored. Bring corn syrup to full boil in saucepan.

While blender is processing, remove lid and gradually pour hot corn syrup into egg yolks. Blend until light yellow colored and slightly thickened. Add pear chunks, raspberries and gelatin mixture; cover and blend smooth. Chill until mixture mounds.

Whip cream in large bowl until thick; fold in chilled pear mixture. Place in freezer 5 to 10 minutes to allow to firm up before turning into prepared Crumb Crust. Freeze at least 3 or 4 hours, until firm. Garnish with extra raspberries and pear slices, if desired. Makes 1 pie.

Crumb Crust: Combine 1 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs, 1/4 cup sugar and 1/4 cup melted butter in bowl. Lightly press against bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Bake in 375-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes, until crust begins to brown.

Look for quality seafood

"Most people are aware that eating seafood is healthful, but have very little confidence in what to look for when buying it," states Joe Fesler, president of the California Fisheries Association.

"As a result, they consume their seafood in restaurants and miss out on some great culinary experiences," Fesler believes that by following a few basic guidelines, buying quality seafood can be easy.

First, seafood is broken down into two categories; shellfish and finfish. Shellfish include shrimp, crab, lobster, oysters, mussels, scallops and clams. Finfish encompass all other varieties and are either round or flat.

Both shellfish and finfish come fresh, frozen, smoked or canned. When buying fresh finfish fillets or steaks, check for an ocean-fresh odor, firm elastic flesh and appealing color.

If buying whole fish, they should have bright, clear eyes. Never buy pre-packaged product that has liquid in the tray and looks dried out.

Live shellfish, like lobster and crab should be moving immediately before cooking, while oysters, clams and mussels are best when they have tight shells. Quality frozen seafood should be solid, free of ice crystals, have a pleasant sea odor and if visible, an appetizing appearance.

Once knowledgeable in what to look for in the market, the next step is the fun of deciding just which variety of seafood to buy. Nothing could be more simple this September.

From Pacific waters come Petrale, Rex and Dover sole, flounder, sand dabs, halibut, Pacific snapper, albacore tuna and mackerel. Swordfish is particularly prevalent now with prices that should be at the year's lowest level.

Dungeness crab, Pacific perch, ling and true cod are available as well. The salmon family including chinook (king), coho (silver), chum and sockeye are in good supply, as is thresher shark.

From the East Coast, monk fish, scrod, dab sole, Eastern fluke, swordfish, haddock, cod, squid, mackerel and pollock are plentiful finfish coming in daily. Also, varieties of shellfish such as mussels, clams, oysters, live Maine lobster and sea and bay scallops are arriving fresh.

Imported species like sea bass, orange roughy and John Dory are available. Frozen shrimp is arriving from all over the world and salmon from Norway can also be found.

Our Great Lakes are supplying whitefish, perch and lake trout while farm-raised rainbow trout and catfish are plentiful.

With this abundant supply of seafood products available and new-found knowledge of how to judge its quality, September could be the beginning of an exciting and healthier way of life.

It's time to make meat loaf again

MEAT LOAF

14-ounce can peeled plum tomatoes in juice
2 slices dry white bread
1 pound ground beef chuck
1/2 pound ground veal
1 medium onion, quartered
1 medium green pepper, seeded deribbed and quartered
1/2 cup parsley leaves
Dried thyme to taste
Salt and pepper to taste
Flour

Drain tomatoes, reserving juice. In a food processor, grind bread; turn into a bowl; add meat. In the processor, puree together onion, green pepper, drained tomatoes, parsley, thyme, salt and pepper. Mix well with meat and bread. Shape into an oval loaf in a shallow 3-quart baking dish so there is space around the loaf.

Sprinkle flour over loaf. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes; pour reserved tomato juice over loaf; bake 15 minutes longer. Makes 4 servings.

Unscrambling the nutritional values of eggs

By DOROTHY WENCK
Home Economist
UC Cooperative Extension

How many eggs do you eat a year? If you're average you eat about 265 — not all of them as "eggs." A number will be incorporated in other foods such as baked goods.

According to U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics, the per capita consumption of eggs dropped from over 300 per year in the early 1970s. The reason is attributed to the publicity about the high cholesterol content of egg yolks. One egg yolk has 250 milligrams of cholesterol. Scientists are still debating the question of whether cutting down on cholesterol in the diet will help everyone reduce the risk of clogged arteries and coronary heart disease. But even though research has shown that the amount of cholesterol eaten in foods has a variable and small effect on the amount of cholesterol in the blood, some people have decided to eat fewer eggs.

For persons with atherosclerosis (clogged arteries) and high blood cholesterol levels, this may be a wise choice. But for the average healthy person, the decision to eat fewer eggs may be unnecessary and possibly nutritionally and economically unwise.

Eggs are our lowest-priced source of high quality, "complete" animal protein. Looking at the Consumer Price Index (CPI), you see that the cost of eggs has risen less than that of any other animal food.

Compared to the base year (1967) CPI of 100, the first quarter 1985 index was 267 for beef and veal, 258 for pork, 218 for poultry, and just 168 for eggs. The overall 1984 index for meat, poultry, fish, and eggs was 267 while it was 209 for eggs.

Besides being our "best buy" in animal protein, eggs are a good source of iron and zinc, vitamins A, thiamin and riboflavin, and they have a higher protein-to-fat ratio (more protein, less fat) than other meats. And while their water content is higher than that of most other protein foods (74 percent), eggs have very little waste.

Another plus is that eggs are so versatile and easy to prepare in so many different ways. In many recipes eggs help to bind other ingredients or form the protein structure. As persons who are allergic to eggs have found, it's hard to cook without eggs!

In hot weather eggs have another virtue. Hard-cooked, with shells intact — not cracked or crazed, eggs are protected from the invasion of food poisoning bacteria.

So unpeeled cooked eggs make good picnic foods. They're also handy to have on hand in the refrigerator in hot weather for protein food when you don't feel like cooking.

The shell is nature's way of protecting the egg. Thus, fresh eggs have excellent keeping quality. When properly refrigerated, clean eggs, free of cracks will keep for months. Thus, you don't need to worry about the safety of refrigerated eggs that are older than the "pull date" stamped on the carton.

Since egg shells have very small pores, eggs can pick up odors from foods stored next to them in the refrigerator. For this reason, and also to protect eggs from breaking, they should be stored in the carton rather than in uncovered egg containers built in the refrigerator.

QUESTIONS WE ARE ASKED:

Q. At one market where I shop some of the eggs are labeled "organic" and cost quite a bit more than other eggs. What are organic eggs? Are they worth the extra price?

A. This is difficult to answer since the California Department of Food and Agriculture does not have a definition for the term "organic."

In most cases, "organic" may be used to describe eggs laid by hens that are maintained on the floor or free range instead of in cages and/or those hens housed with cocks, or male chickens.

This type of management system, floor vs. cage, is normally determined by the size and age of the poultry farm. Small, older ranches may have their birds on the floor.

Most newer ranches have their birds in cages. This allows for better utilization of space, better labor efficiency and also improves disease prevention and results in cleaner eggs.

The "organic" label also has been applied to eggs produced by hens that are consuming diets that do not contain any drugs or hormones. By this definition, most eggs in the supermarket are "organic." In other instances the term may be applied to eggs produced from feed which does not contain meat by-products such as meat, fish, and bone meal.

Thus, "organic" means different things to different people. However, the type of management system does not affect the quality of eggs, their nutritional value, or wholesomeness. So paying a higher price for them is of questionable value.

Q. At the store where I shop they claim that the fertile eggs they sell are more nutritious than infertile eggs sold at supermarkets. Is this true?

A. No. A hen will ovulate and form eggs without ever being in contact with a cock. If the two sexes are maintained together, fertile eggs will be produced. This is both desirable and necessary if the eggs are to be incubated for the production of chicks.

But in terms of eggs produced for human consumption, there's no reason to produce fertile eggs. The difference between an unincubated fertile egg and an unfertile egg is so small as to be indistinguishable and has no effect on the nutritional value of the eggs.

Q. I have a friend who doesn't eat eggs because she's afraid the hormones they feed chickens to make them lay more eggs might be harmful. Is this something to be concerned about?

A. No! No hormones are used in egg or poultry production. The poultry producer provides the hen with a balanced diet that meets all of her needs for body maintenance and egg production.

In fact, more is known about the nutrition of the chicken than about any other animal, including man. The diet is predominantly a corn and soybean mixture, but also contains vitamins and minerals, and may contain other grains and by-product feeds such as fish, meat, or cottonseed meal.

Even with sound poultry management practices, the laying hen may be subject to disease, so in some cases a low level of antibiotic may be added to the ration, but there is no carry-over of this material into the egg.

Crisp coating made for thighs

CRISP-TOP CHICKEN

1/2 cup stirred all-purpose flour (spooned and leveled)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon chili powder
6 chicken thighs (about 2 pounds)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons olive oil

Into a plastic bag pour flour, salt, pepper, paprika, garlic powder and chili powder; add 2 thighs at a time and shake to coat well. In a 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking pan in a 425-degree oven heat butter and oil; stir well.

Add thighs, skin side down, spacing apart. Bake for 30 minutes; turn and bake until tender and dark in color — about 15 minutes longer. Baste with the clear part of the drippings. Makes 3 to 6 servings — 1 or 2 thighs per portion.

Freeway work noise feared

Nighttime noise on 405 greater concern than diamond lanes

By TONY SAAVEDRA Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Residents testifying Tuesday on a project to widen the San Diego Freeway through Orange County seemed more concerned about nighttime construction noise than the car pool lanes proposed for the 24-mile stretch.

Most of the people urged the State Department of Transportation to limit roadwork to daytime hours and to make sure sound attenuation walls are built before construction begins.

About 80 people attended the public hearing at TeWinkle Intermediate School in Costa Mesa on the project to add one lane in each direction on the congested San Diego (405) Freeway.

The widening would run between the San Gabriel River (605) Freeway and the Santa Ana (5) Freeway, traversing the cities of Seal Beach, Westminster, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Costa Mesa and Irvine.

Caltrans is considering reserving the extra lanes for cars carrying two or more passengers. The proposed "high occupancy vehicle" (HOV) lanes would be similar to the ill-fated "diamond lane" experiment on the Santa Monica Freeway during the mid-1970s.

Caltrans engineer Bill Weldele said the lanes would be built along the freeway median, using the existing right-of-way.

The project would cost an estimated $44.3 million if the lanes are open to all traffic, or up to $50 million if they are reserved for car pools. State transportation officials attributed the extra costs to the additional designs and markers needed for the HOV lanes.

The Federal Highway Administration will foot 90 percent of the bill, with the remainder coming from state gasoline tax money.

Weldele said work could begin as early as January 1987 and would continue for about two years. But first the general widening plan must receive state and federal approvals.

Moreover, the lanes cannot be restricted to car pools without the blessing of the Orange County Transportation Commission, which has

Undercover operation nets 11 pounds of high-grade coke; 3rd bust in 2 weeks

By STEVE MARBLE Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A continuing crackdown on cocaine traffic in Orange County resulted in the seizure of 11 pounds of high-grade cocaine at a Newport Beach hotel Tuesday and the arrest of three men on suspicion of drug sales.

The cocaine bust is the third in two weeks on the Orange Coast. Drug agents have now confiscated about 138 pounds of cocaine worth nearly $17 million on the streets.

"The fact that we keep getting so much tells you something about the level of cocaine traffic in Orange County," said Newport Beach Sgt. Tim Riley. "There's just a lot of coke out there." The latest drug seizure culminated a month-long investigation by the federal drug agents and narcotic officers from Brea and Newport Beach.

Riley said drug agents purchased five kilograms or about 11 pounds of top-grade cocaine at the Meridian Hotel in Newport Beach late Tuesday. Three Santa Ana men were arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to sell cocaine.

David Wayne Cantral, 22; Louis Palomino Valadez, 24; and Anthony Joseph Barela, 25, were being held today at the Newport city jail in lieu of

From staff and wire reports

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary Donald Hodel dashed a plan he had negotiated with the California congressional delegation to limit offshore oil and gas drilling, prompting some angry lawmakers to push for a new offshore drilling moratorium.

"We are essentially back at war" on the issue of offshore drilling, Rep. Leon F. Panetta, D-Monterey, said after the delegation met for two hours Tuesday with Hodel.

"Secretary Hodel has become the F.R. Ewing of the California offshore oil drilling industry," said Rep. Robert F. Matsui, D-Sanramento, referring to the villainous character on the "Dallas" television series.

Members of a delegation of Orange County officials, including representatives from Newport Beach, Laguna Beach, San Clemente and Orange County, Supremacy was to push today before a House subcommittee hearing on the drilling question.

The hearing is the first opportunity Congress has had to consider the original compromise plan. Hodel's aide, Rep. Bill Badham, R-Newport Beach, said in favor of this compromise and in favor of Orange County's efforts to limit offshore drilling.

Orange County Supervisor Harold Wiedersheim said he had been in the hearing.

Tuesday Hodel told the lawmakers he had changed his mind about the preliminary agreement he reached with them July 16 because he learned that most drilling sites allowed by the plan had little production potential.

But he denied that pressure from the oil industry had influenced his turnaround.

"The pressure I feel is to try to do what's in the national interest," he said.

The July 16 agreement would have restricted oil and gas exploration off the California coast to 150 tracts — each of them nine miles square — through the year 2000.

Hodel told reporters he believes a good chance exists for a new agreement with the delegation on offshore drilling and that Interior Department aides planned to begin discussions.

"I will continue to try to seek a deal that provides protection of the environment and an orderly exploitation of the outer continental shelf," Hodel said.

Both California Senators, Democrat Kent Connelley and Republican Phil Webster, were among the lawmakers who called immediately after the deal for another year-long moratorium on offshore drilling or for an effort to pass a modification of the law that would limit Hodel's backing.

The moratorium began as a response to the plans of former Interior Secretary James Watt to use almost the entire California coast for oil exploration, ends at 10:00 a.m. Sept. 10.

It was decided to propel the moratorium through Congress, so that changes will be sought.

Hodel said that is proposed for the moratorium off Newport Beach and Laguna Beach would be deleted and replaced with sites elsewhere and

Lion Country gets green light for new rides

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Irvine City Council members have unanimously overturned a planning department ruling that might have jeopardized plans to build water amusement rides at Lion Country.

City planning officials had urged a three to four-month review be conducted before allowing construction of water slides and other amusements at the former wild animal park.

But representatives of Lion Country and American Sports World, the Colton-based company seeking to build the rides, said construction must begin immediately to complete the amusements for next summer.

They said the $4.5 million Lion Country project would be abandoned if the city imposed a further delay.

Tuesday's council decision hinged on whether the businesses were required to obtain a new conditional use permit before constructing the water rides. Obtaining such a permit requires environmental, traffic, parking and other studies. Such projects also have to be reviewed by the city's transportation and planning commissions.

The developers argued that Lion Country's existing permit, issued in 1973, was sufficient. They said it allows the proposed amusement rides.

The 1973 document lists park rides, themed amusement rides, shallow lakes, ponds and waterfalls as permitted uses in Lion Country's entertainment area.

But Pat Haley, a city planning staff member, said water slide amusement centers are a relatively new form of entertainment not envisioned when the original permit was issued.

Attorneys for the developers said the 15 water rides proposed for Lion Country would not create a new park but would be additions to an existing entertainment center. They said a 40-foot mound would be constructed for the water slides, but that most of the present landscaping and many existing buildings would be preserved.

Mayor David Baker said he feared the Lion Country water amusement site might be a "wild west" site.

"It seemed to me to be a site with what's already got there," he said.

Councilwoman Barbara Wiedersheim said city planning officials had not convinced her that the proposed water rides differed from those allowed under the 1973 permit.

Although a lengthy conditional use permit review will not be required, the city would be required to obtain a new conditional use permit from the city's planning commission.

With the city's support, the developer of American Sports World earlier this month began construction of the rides. He estimated the amusement area will attract up to 3,000 visitors daily on weekends and holidays and up to 1,000 on summer weekdays.

Escort service thrives on Coast

More career women choosing alternate for dates at job-related social events

Like the Marine Corps, Kevin Minnich is looking for a few good men.

Applicants should be in their mid-20s to early 30s. Well-developed social skills, good health and a well-groomed appearance are musts. Knowledge of current events, business and the cultural arts are helpful.

Employees will accompany women to social and business functions. And they'll be paid handsomely for their efforts.

It's not a job, it's an adventure, an

Armed Forces recruiter would undoubtedly say.

Mention the words "escort service" in a sincere tone of voice and it surely will be greeted by snickers and winks. Only the incredibly naive, you'd think, would believe that such businesses are anything more than euphemistically named fronts for prostitution.

Escort services often are advertised in the personals portion of a newspaper's classified advertising section, next to massage parlors and private photo studios.

Minnich admits such sexual implications exist, but argues that in Orange County, there is a need for legitimate escort services that have nothing to do with the illegal sex-for-hire trade.

The need is so great, he said, that he is continually looking for new escorts. He adds that he turns down any illicit business propositions that would jeopardize the credibility of his company, Male Escorts, Ltd.

Minnich has completed only his second summer of working as an escort, but his efforts have led to a business managing 12 other young men who work part-time to earn extra money in addition to their other careers.

Beyond the escort business, Minnich is branching into services that provide drivers, bodyguards and fitness consultants.

Most of his requests come from the Orange Coast area, especially Newport Beach, Irvine and Laguna Beach. About 30 customers a week will call Male Escorts with requests for an escort at an average price of about $100 an evening.

A major factor contributing to the growing escort business is the ever-increasing number of single women in the workplace — women who see an escort service as a way to meet the social obligations of their careers without dealing with the insecurities of a date who may be uncomfortable with their assertiveness.

Why Minnich asks should a single woman have to struggle with the romantic and sexual advances of a date if all she wants is his company at a

Clinic needs transfusion of donations

Laguna Beach Free Clinic patients are still paying what they can, but reduced foundation and corporate donations have left the 15-year-old health facility in a financial crunch, its director Bea Hetrick said.

"We are going to have to raise $40,000 to keep the doors open through December," Hetrick said this week in an appeal for donations.
