Grants scarce until deficit cut

Cranston tells Irvine town hall crowd of tough times for social service funds

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

U.S. Senator Alan Cranston listened attentively in Irvine City Council Chambers Friday as residents and community leaders pressed for more federal money for crime restitution programs, senior health care, education and food and housing for the poor. The California Democrat offered sympathy but little optimism. "We're having a tough time getting more money for any (social service) programs, no matter how worthy, because of the federal deficit," Cranston said. Until the deficit is reduced through restrained defense spending and other tactics, the senator said he anticipates little extra money for such programs.

"That's a terrible situation," he said. "I hope we can cope with it soon."

The 71-year-old senator, who has already raised $2 million for a 1986 re-election drive, has conducted more than 40 town hall meetings in California since January. His Irvine session drew an overflow crowd of about 300 people, ranging from high school students to senior citizens. Cranston said he picked crime as a key topic for the meeting — then learned that Irvine has an unusually low crime rate.

Irvine officials seated on a panel with Cranston attributed the low crime figures to the city's master-planned village design (lacking a central downtown trouble spot) and to strong Neighborhood Watch programs.

Harbor Municipal Court Judge Russell Bostrom said Irvine's low crime rate is due to the affluence and high education level of its residents.

Another panelist, Jean Forbath, a director of the Share Our Selves (SOS) charity group in Costa Mesa, said she felt out of place in the "antiseptic" Irvine environment. She said her group regularly helps victims of violent crime as well as people who have just been released from jail.

"Orange County is not just a place of beautiful people with high incomes," she said. "We have a large class of people here who are homeless." Sister Carmen Sarati, who works at St. Joseph Parish in Santa Ana, agreed. She said affluent Orange County actually has "42 hidden barnos."

"We have people here who do not have access to medical services and education or even police services," she said. "I ask the federal government to address the basic human needs of people like us."

Fences were removed so Tom Linskey, left, could get 36-foot Bristol Channel Cutter from backyard to Newport Bay.

Cutter's ready for new chapter

Sailmaker-turned-magazine writer is eager to Freelance on ocean voyages

By TONY SAAVEDRA
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Tom Linskey sat on the deck of his large bluewater cruiser and stared out at the sea of rooftops surrounding his back yard in Costa Mesa.

Most people have gardens or maybe a swing set in their yards. Linskey, 32, had a boat — a very large boat — stretching 36 feet from bowspit to boomkin. That's front to back for the uninitiated.

The sailboat, named Freelance, was hoisted on a wooden cradle so that its deck was level with the roof of Linskey's home.

For the past five years, Linskey has worked weekends and nearly every spare minute to complete the Bristol Channel Cutter that he bought as an unfinished shell for $10,000.

Roughly $50,000 later, the Freelance began her first voyage Friday morning, through three back yards to an alley where a truck was waiting to take her to Newport Bay. She was expected to be christened today.

It's been a long haul for Linskey, a sailmaker turned free-lance boating magazine writer. He plans to soon leave his small house, one of three rentals lining a dirt driveway off Bernard Street, and live with his girlfriend aboard the vessel.

Together they will sail to distant lands, mused Linskey, maybe linking up with the Greenpeace environmental group or the Jacques Cousteau Society. Linskey has time for romantic visions now that his self-ordained burden has been lifted.

The Freelance is finally finished. Was it the challenge that lured him into such a laborious project?

Hardly. Linskey, a world-class sailor and a standby member of the 1984 U.S. Olympic yachting team, figured that he could never afford to buy a

Bradley ignores prison crisis

Governor: Facility in Los Angeles is required by law

By LISA MAHONEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Gov. George Deukmejian implied Friday that Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley is holding up California's efforts to provide more space for the burgeoning state prison population.

Deukmejian's swipe at his political opponent came during a speech before the California Correctional Peace Officers' Association at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

While lauding his own performance in the realm of law and order, Deukmejian said, "Thirty-eight percent of state prison inmates come from Los Angeles. The law requires that a state prison be built in Los Angeles, yet we have received no help from City Hall. It's time that Los Angeles carried its fair share of the burden."

Prison overcrowding has reached serious proportions in California. There are more than 48,000 inmates in correctional facilities designed to house 29,000, Deukmejian said.

A new prison has opened in Vacaville and inmates were moved this week into Southern Maximum Security Complex at Tehachapi, the state's first new maximum-security prison in more than 50 years, he said.

But while planned expansion programs will increase prison beds by 15,000 by 1987, more correctional institutions are needed, Deukmejian said.

HB man attempts rescue in flames

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A passer-by broke down the door to a burning home in Huntington Beach and crawled on his hands and knees through heavy smoke to search for possible victims, a fire official said Friday.

Fortunately, no one was in the house at the time of the 2:45 p.m. blaze, according to Fire Department spokeswoman Martha Werth.

The passer-by, Mark Stemmer of Huntington Beach, was driving in the area when he noticed flames and smoke coming from the two-story house in the 18000 block of Well-brook.

He called officials on the 911 emergency line from his car telephone and then knocked down the door of the house to search for victims. "He crawled on his hands and knees through the house and yelled and screamed," Werth said, "because the smoke was too thick for him to see."

The owners of the home, Jim and Sarah Stringer and their five children were away at the time.

The fire, which allegedly started in the garage, caused about $30,000 damage, Werth said. Its cause is under investigation.

Ferguson urges authority for bay

By SUSAN HOWLETT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Assemblyman Gil Ferguson said Friday that although local and state officials have joined to accomplish some issues in the affluent coastal city, Newport Beach still has the problem of cleaning up its popular harbor.

"The bay is a problem that hasn't been solved yet," said Ferguson at an informal breakfast gathering in his Newport Beach office.

Ferguson said that the pollution problem in Newport Harbor is not an easy one to clean up without an authority designated by the state to settle the matter.

The 70th District assemblyman suggested that a bay authority be implemented which will "knock heads to get something done."

A bacteria that causes gastrointestinal illnesses was found in the harbor last year, and state Regional Water Quality Control Board officials have been concerned about the problem for some time.

The bay authority would force legislators and community officials to "come together to do a job," Ferguson said. "What I'm suggesting is that we establish one agency to be a lead agency, or bring someone in to do the job."

Ferguson said at the meeting that his time in the Assembly has been "a

Cranston reassures he's against offshore oil rigs

Senator tells hopes to revive the original Hodel agreement

U.S. Sen Alan Cranston said Friday he supports the efforts to keep the Orange County's coastline free of more offshore oil rigs.

The senator addressed the issue during a town hall meeting in Irvine. Laguna Beach Mayor Bobbie Minkin asked for Cranston's support in reaching a new agreement with Interior Secretary Donald Hodel concerning offshore oil drilling rights.

Last summer, Hodel approved an agreement with the California congressional delegation, calling for the opening of 150 six square-mile offshore oil tracts along the California coast in exchange for putting other coastal areas off limits through the year 2000. Nine of the tracts were to be off the coast of Orange County, and the plan triggered strong local opposition. The cities of Laguna Beach, Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and San Clemente formed a coalition to oppose the plan.

Hodel later abandoned the agreement, but the current moratorium on leasing offshore oil rights in federal waters is set to expire Nov. 15.

At the Irvine meeting, Cranston, a Democrat, said he and others members of the California delegation are working on a bipartisan basis to resolve the oil issue before that deadline.

He said he hopes to revive the original Hodel agreement, with added protection for sensitive coastal areas such as Orange County. If that agreement cannot be revived, Cranston said he hopes to extend the offshore oil moratorium to a year for development of a new proposal.

Cranston also suggested that the Reagan administration was unwisely preparing to open up large oil reserves at a time of a worldwide oil glut. He said such drilling should be delayed until the oil surplus period has passed.

Cranston added that he wants to preserve scenic California coastal areas such as Big Sur and Laguna Beach to protect the fishing and tourism industries.

"I am dedicated to doing what I'm doing for environmental and economic reasons," he said. — By Phil Sneiderman tor on concerns ranging from nuclear weapons to toxic waste dumps, from child abuse to drug abuse, from mental illness research to illegal immigration.

An elderly Leisure World resident urged adoption of a national health care plan. Cranston said he supports the concept but said it is too expensive to implement until the deficit is reduced.

An Irvine woman asked Cranston to support a UNICEF bill aimed at worldwide immunization against childhood diseases by 1990. Cranston said he already co-sponsors the measure.

A young man questioned the senator's apparent lack of enthusiasm for the "Star Wars" strategic defense system. Cranston said he favors research into "Star Wars" technology but doesn't back testing or deployment because "it costs too much... I have grave questions whether it will work."

Then there was the man who complained to Cranston about the "tyranny" of the Internal Revenue Service.

The senator, who said he supports reform of the tax system, urged the speaker to send him a letter outlining the specific abuses he'd encountered.

The speaker agreed to send such a letter — on the condition that Cranston not forward his name to the IRS.

finished Bristol Channel Cutter. The boat, sold locally by Costa Mesa shipbuilder Sam Morse, is to sailing what Peterbilt is to trucking. It runs about $80,000 complete.

So he bought the stripped model — merely a husk of a boat — and went to work.

"I definitely wasn't into the romance of building it myself," said Linskey, a pen poised behind one ear. "I'm not a woodworker. All I had was a cheapo Black and Decker chainsaw and a Sear's drill."

At times, his questionable craftsmanship and lack of tools made for late nights on the backyard boat — nights when his hobby became a nautical nuisance.

"Especially when you know you have three more years to go on it," said Linskey. "I became a hermit. I felt like Noah back here. I used to have a bunch of friends. Now I have fewer."

Mounted on wheels, the 5,000-pound boat and its cradle were pushed into the narrow yard by Linskey and some of those friends. An ivy-covered wooden fence was dismantled so the Freelance could be wheeled in.

Now it would take a professional boat mover to budge the 14,000-pound vessel. And more than one fence would have to come down.

His neighbors have all been cooperative and paid little mind to the long, pointy bowsprit protruding over their fence, or the carpenter looming above their yards.

A high-gloss finish, betraying hours of sanding, gleamed from the teak- and cedar-paneled walls below deck. The tiny living quarters were awash in wood, from the shiny ladder to the drawers in the sleeping berth.

This, Linskey said, would become home to himself and girlfriend Harriet Rogers, 24, also an avid sailor.

"For us, this is a vehicle to a different, more creative lifestyle than the Orange County philosophy of money and success," he explained. "I think there's a lot to find at sea."

Linskey said he and Rogers plan to support their new venture by freelance writing, hence the name for the sailboat.

"I don't want to be a boat bum," Linskey clarified. "I definitely want to contribute back to the ocean in some way."

"You've gotta' ease into these things," said Linskey, rubbing his bare feet together and looking into the ivy covered fences that would soon come down to free the boat. "We've got to get used to the Freelance — also to ourselves on it."

Blast evidence heading for FBI

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Evidence from a bomb explosion that killed the regional director of an Arab anti-discrimination group last week will be sent to an FBI laboratory in Washington D.C. for comparison with evidence from other bombing throughout the nation.

Investigators have speculated the Oct. 11 bombing may be the work of terrorists.

The bombing killed Alex Odeh, 41, the West Coast director of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, and rocked his Santa Ana offices. The explosion is being investigated by the Santa Ana police and the FBI with assistance from the Orange County Sheriff's bomb squad, which has opened a laboratory to the FBI.

FBI Agent Jim Nielsen said any person arrested and convicted in connection with the bombing would be prosecuted in California and would face the death penalty.

Odeh was killed at 9:10 a.m. after arriving at his 1905 E. 17th Street office. The blast caused extensive damage to the three-story stucco building.

In a television interview just hours before the bombing, Odeh had called PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat a "man of peace." Odeh was described as a proud Arab American who spoke only of peace, not violence.

The anti-discrimination committee has a membership of 13,000 and works against what they see as discrimination in the United States and the Middle East. They have worked for a negotiated settlement to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

HB man sentenced for energy scheme

A Huntington Beach man was sentenced to two years in prison for his role in an investment scheme that involved converting old tires into oil.

Craig F. Velasco, 50, allegedly told potential investors that a $100,000 investment in the plan could yield a return of $900,000 in a year. Velasco claimed that the money would be used to build pyrolysis machines that use heat to convert old tires into oil, carbon, methane gas, ammonia, steel wire and electricity.

Al Albargate, of the Los Angeles District Attorney's office, said that while the machine would work it would not work as effectively or profitably as Velasco claimed.

Velasco, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced on one count of attempted grand theft.

Joseph Gennitti, 44 of Rancho Santa Fe, still faces charges in the case. His preliminary hearing will start in Los Angeles on Monday.

The men were arrested at Newport Beach's Airport Inn where they were allegedly trying to get investments for the machine. Police said the two men met potential investors at hotels and restaurants in Orange, Los Angeles and San Diego counties.

Lottery drawing moved up

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Officials who believe they underestimated the sales of the new lottery say they'll pick another 10 finalists Tuesday for the first $2 million jackpot drawing Oct. 28.

Lottery spokesman Bob Taylor said Friday that a second set of finalists will be chosen from another batch of 6,250 $100 "instant" winners in a preliminary drawing Tuesday in the lottery's Whittier office.

The first set of 10 finalists was selected in the initial preliminary drawing last Tuesday in Pico Rivera. Taylor said all 20 finalists will spin a "wheel of fortune" for jackpots of $10,000, $50,000, $100,000 or $2 million. Each is assured of hitting at least the $10,000 amount.

The grand-prize drawings, to be held weekly beginning Oct. 28, will be edited into 30-minute shows before being aired on 11 ABC TV stations after Monday Night Football in most areas.

Grandmother gets custody of child

Boy, 11, orphaned after Cooper attack killed parents, sister

RIVERSIDE — The maternal grandmother of 11-year-old Joshua Ryen won a custody battle and received permission to adopt the boy, orphaned after an attack that killed his parents, sister and a family friend.

Riverside County Superior Court Judge George Grover made the decision after a closed adoption hearing and a private talk with the boy. Joshua's uncle, Richard Ryen of New Jersey, had also sought custody of the youth.

Joshua has been living for the past two years with his grandmother, Mary Howell, a chiropractor who can now become the boy's legal mother. During the custody dispute, Howell and Ryen shared guardianship of the boy, who spent school months with his grandmother and vacations with his uncle.

Grover announced the decision Thursday after hearing two days of testimony from both sides in a closed adoption hearing and speaking privately with Joshua in his chambers.

Kevin Cooper, who escaped from the California Institution for Men at Chino one day before the June, 1983 murders, was later recaptured and convicted of killing F. Douglas and Peggy Ryen, their daughter Jessica, 10, and a friend, Christopher Hughes, 11, at the Ryens' Chino Hills home, about 40 miles east of Los Angeles.

Joshua, who was 8 at the time, survived a slashed throat. Cooper was also convicted of attempting to murder him.

"I am delighted that Joshua will be able to resume a normal lifestyle," said attorney Linda Trautman, who represented Howell at the hearing. "His life is going good, and this lady (Howell) is the reason why."

Hijack tension leads to foreign fence-mending

U.S. envoy carries Reagan's responses to leaders of Italy, Egypt this weekend

By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON — Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead is undertaking a fence-mending mission to Italy and Egypt to try to ease tensions growing out of the forced downing of Palestinian hijackers by U.S. jet fighter planes, U.S. officials said Friday.

Whitehead was to fly to Rome immediately and, after consultations with Italian officials, go on to Cairo, where President Hosni Mubarak has demanded an apology from President Reagan for the interception of an Egyptian plane that was carrying the four hijackers to safe haven.

The American envoy carried Reagan's response to Mubarak. U.S. officials declined to describe the contents of the presidential message. The exchange between the two leaders "can be characterized as frank and direct," said an official, who demanded anonymity.

In diplomatic terms that means sharp disagreement.

Italy, meanwhile, has accused the United States of violating Italian air space. Prime Minister Bettino Craxi resigned Thursday after defending his government's actions in the aftermath of the hijacking of the Italian cruise ship Achille Lauro.

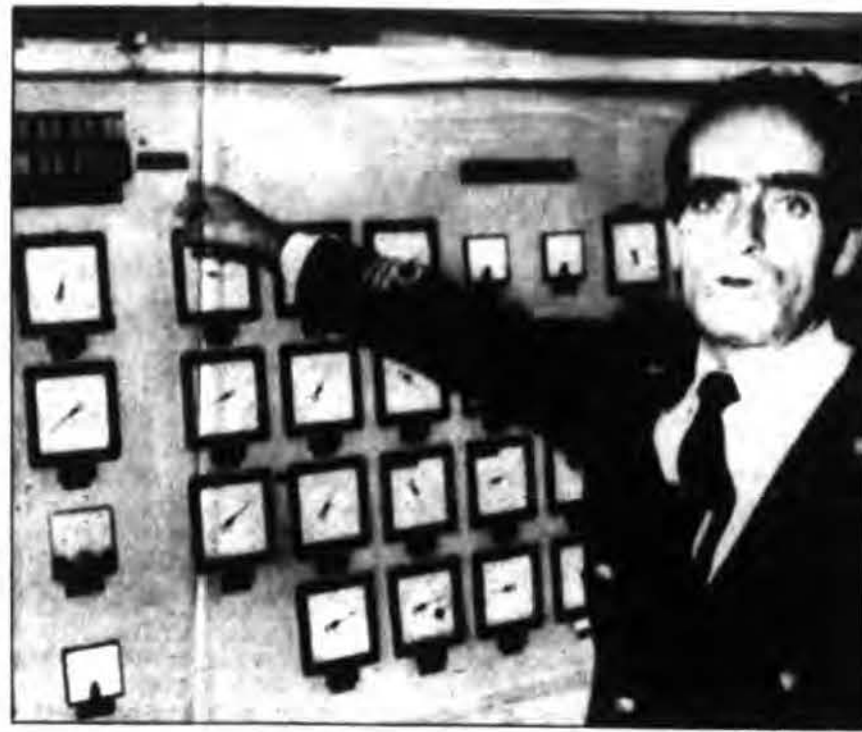

Whitehead will meet with Craxi, said Bernard Kalb, a State Department spokesman. One of the subjects to be discussed is whether the Italian leader will go to New York next week to participate in meetings Reagan is holding with world leaders in ceremonies marking the 40th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations.

"U.S.-Italian relations have been, and will remain, broad, deep and strong," Kalb said in reply to questions. "Close friends have no difficulty in discussing their differences candidly in an atmosphere of friendship. We share a fundamental commitment to wiping out terrorism and responding firmly to the threat posed by international terrorists."

The crisis in the Italian government erupted when Defense Minister Giovanni Spadolini took his pro-American Republican Party out of the ruling coalition, charging he had not been properly consulted by Craxi during the affair.

The Pentagon said late Friday afternoon that Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has written a letter of praise to Spadolini indicating that his "support, cooperation and cool counsel during a critical period is greatly appreciated and will not soon be forgotten."

A Defense Department statement confirmed a CBS News report that Weinberger and Spadolini spoke by telephone after the Egyptian airliner with the hijackers aboard arrived at an air base in Sicily.

Officer Cataldo Accardi points to bullet holes where PLO pirates fired weapons in control room of Achille Lauro.

Killing action described

ROME (AP) — The hijackers of the Achille Lauro forced the ship's hairdresser and a waiter to throw Leon Klinghoffer's body into the sea, Italian newspapers reported Friday.

Joaquim Pineiro da Silva, 27, was quoted in Corriere della Sera, Italy's largest newspaper, as saying that two hijackers held an automatic rifle to his back and threatened to kill him and the hairdresser, Ferruccio Alberti, if they did not obey.

"So Ferruccio and I picked up the old American by the armpits and turned him around," he said. "He was all covered with blood, so much that we couldn't figure out where he was hit. We picked him up. He was already almost cold."

"I wish I could cry, but I can't," da Silva, a Portuguese citizen, said.

The newspaper said the waiter gave the account in an interview after the cruise ship returned Wednesday night to Genoa, its home port.

Klinghoffer's body will be flown from Rome to New York on Sunday and a private funeral is planned for Monday, a family spokeswoman said Friday night.

Italian political leaders replacing ousted coalition

ROME (AP) — Political leaders on Friday began talks to form a new government to replace the coalition brought down by the Achille Lauro hijacking, which continued to grip the nation a day after the liner began a new cruise.

Italian newspapers speculated the four luxury liner pirates may have intended to ask Syria for help or to take hostages to shore.

The political maneuvering to form Italy's 45th postwar government followed Socialist Premier Bettino Craxi's resignation Thursday.

Some politicians said another five-party Cabinet led by Craxi was a strong possibility, and public opinion polls showed general approval for the government's performance during the hijacking, which was criticized by the United States.

The 26-month-old, center-left government fell apart after the Republicans, led by Defense Minister Giovanni Spadolini, pulled out of the coalition to protest Craxi's release of a PLO official accused by the United States of masterminding the hijacking.

Spadolini also accused Craxi of failing to consult him before the premier allowed Mohammed Abbas, the PLO official, to leave the country.

President Francesco Cossiga began consultations with major political figures before naming a new premier-designate, which could occur Monday. Craxi is acting as caretaker premier until the president makes his decision.

Craxi had been scheduled to go to Washington next week and meet with President Reagan on Oct. 24. An adviser to Craxi said the meeting is in doubt and will depend on whether Craxi is appointed premier-designate.

Intercept plan too scary to leak

NEW YORK (AP) — A cable news executive and two network anchormen said Friday that if they had known in advance of the plan to intercept a plane carrying four cruise ship hijackers, they would have waited before reporting it.

"Only after the fact," said Ed Turner, executive vice president of Cable News Network.

Peter Jennings and Tom Brokaw, anchormen of the ABC and NBC network news shows, also said they would have held off until after the operation to force down the Egyptian plane was finished.

The three commented during a panel discussion on news coverage of terrorism, conducted at the regional conference of the Radio and Television News Directors Association.

Brokaw and Jennings both said their organizations committed excesses in the heat of competition in covering the June hijacking of TWA flight 847 in Lebanon.

Brokaw said he thought there were too many interruptions of regular broadcasts to report minor or old developments, creating a "cry wolf" effect, and that repeated showing of hostages' families on both network and local news broadcasts amounted to "wall-to-wall electronic frenzy."

Jennings said the technical capability of being able to tape or live pictures aired instantly from Beirut may have overridden good news judgment.

"One of the things we've learned from 847 — because we did on occasion go on the air live with unedited material, to our regret — is that in a similar situation we would probably be far less likely to go on live than we might have been before," he said.

Food stamps fall short of diet

Consumer group surveys food prices, calls for larger maximum allotments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The amount of food stamps allotted to poor families falls short of providing an adequate diet and should be increased, a public interest group charged Friday.

The Food Research and Action Center, a nonprofit, consumer-oriented group, reported that it had surveyed food prices in eight cities across the nation, and found the price of a basic diet higher than even the maximum allotment of food stamps.

"Food stamp families in the United States would have to come up with substantial amounts of cash ... in order to eat as well as the Department of Agriculture would have them eat under the Thrifty Food Plan," said Michael R. Lemov of the center.

Prices of foods included in the government's Thrifty Food Plan ranged from 26 percent to nearly 50 percent higher than the government's food stamp allotments — depending on location of store and brands purchased, according to the center's survey.

Food stamp benefits are based on the Thrifty Food Plan, an estimate developed by USDA to provide an adequate, basic diet.

The USDA said it questioned the center's findings. "The department has confidence in the estimates it makes, which are based on a national survey of eligible households," the USDA said in a statement.

The USDA said the results are "suspect" because the study looked at just eight cities and based its food costs on a diet plan that used more of some expensive foods than the USDA recommends.

The department assumes a family will spend about one-third of its income on food, and if that falls short of the estimate of what is needed for food, food stamps can be provided up to a maximum of $268 a month for a family of four.

While sample purchases based on national brand products were considerably more costly than the government estimates, buying generic and store brands kept spending close to the food stamp level plus 30 percent, which government programs assume, in most cities.

Lemov, however, also contested the assumption that families can spend one-third of their income on food, urging that food stamps benefits be increased to assure an adequate diet on their own.

Currently, families and individuals using only food stamps to buy food cannot afford to fulfill their nutritional needs, he insisted, based on a survey of 309 stores. The maximum weekly food stamp allotment for a family of four is slightly less than $62.

Lemov said that his survey found that the price of the same items could range from a high of $103.22 for national brands bought in Washington, D.C., to a low of $84.59 for store and generic products purchased in Detroit.

In addition, he said, prices in many areas varied between low-income areas of the cities and more affluent sections.

Six teen-agers wounded at school football game

By The Associated Press

DETROIT — A teen-ager opened fire with a shotgun during halftime at a high school homecoming football game Friday, wounding six other youths, police said. The gunman, who had apparently been involved in a fight at Murray-Wright High School earlier in the day, fled the scene following the shootings at halftime, said police. None of the wounded, who were hit with birdshot, was seriously hurt.

Chrysler strike talks recess for weekend

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. — Talks aimed at settling a nationwide strike against Chrysler Corp. recessed for the weekend with no agreement Friday, and the union's president said the two sides were "still far apart" on key issues. Suppliers, meanwhile, began laying off employees, and dealers worried about running short of cars and parts as the walkouts by 70,000 U.S. and 10,000 Canadian autoworkers stretched through a third day.

FBI recovers stolen Rodin sculpture

MIAMI — A $100,000 Rodin sculpture stolen last year from the University of Pennsylvania has been recovered, and three men were charged in the case, the FBI said Friday. One suspect, Mark DeCoutsworth, 27, of Philadelphia, is a former maintenance worker at the university, said special agent Joseph V. Corless. Also arrested were Robert Balkunas, 25, of Philadelphia, and Robert Petrie, 43, from Surfside, who allegedly hid the bronze "Jean d'Aire" in a motel closet.

No contest plea entered in drownings

SANTA MONICA — A Japanese woman who survived her own suicide attempt but drowned her two children when she carried them into the ocean pleaded no contest Friday to two counts of voluntary manslaughter. Fumiko Kimura, 33, entered the plea in front of Superior Court Judge Robert W. Thomas, who set a Nov. 21 sentencing date. She had faced a possible death penalty if the case had gone to trial. The no contest plea means she did not admit guilt but is offering no defense.

FBI espionage trial goes to jury

LOS ANGELES — The case of Richard W. Miller, the only FBI agent ever charged with espionage, was placed in the hands of a jury Friday with instructions to "reach a just verdict, regardless of the consequences." U.S. District Judge David Kenyon added an unusually stern admonition that the six men and six women are not to communicate anything about their deliberations to the bailiffs who are guarding them.

Single blaze plagues firefighters

LOS ANGELES — One brushfire raged out of control in Southern California on Friday, but firefighters had controlled dozens of other blazes that burned more than 100,000 acres, destroyed 23 homes and caused one death. About 1,900 firefighters were on the line to fight the 43,350-acre blaze in the rugged Los Padres National Forest, said Capt. George Hatt of the Ventura County Fire Department.

Mobs rampage after African execution

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Angered by the execution Friday of black poet Benjamin Moliso, 30, who was convicted of killing a policeman, black mobs overwhelmed police in downtown Johannesburg, beating up whites and smashing and looting shops for four hours. It was the first time black mobs roamed unchecked through white Johannesburg. Witnesses said two policemen were stabbed, white men and women were beaten, and police shot at least one black man in the leg.

Thirty killed in Irish explosion

LONDON, Northern Ireland — A bomb exploded outside a crowded shopping center Friday night, injuring 30 people, including three policemen trying to evacuate people after a telephoned warning, police said. The outlawed Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the bombing in a message to Northern Ireland news organizations.

Fragment of Air-India fuselage found

WASHINGTON — Investigators looking into the possibility that a bomb caused the crash of an Air-India jet near Ireland last summer have found "punctures" in a piece of fuselage from the baggage area. "There are punctures of the fuselage skin recovered from the lower part of the baggage compartment," said Ira Furman, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board. But he refused to say Friday whether the "13 distinct punctures" could have been caused by a bomb.

All military to be tested for AIDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department, in a major response to the growing problem of AIDS, has decided to test all 2.1 million U.S. military personnel for the disease, a Pentagon official said Friday.

"We want to be sure military people and their families are aware of the AIDS problem," said the official. "There's no reason for any kind of hysteria or overreaction; it's merely a case of dealing with a new disease which has potential implications."

A formal announcement of the program will be made after the uniformed services establish an examination system and decide what to do with servicemen and women with positive readings on tests for the AIDS virus, said the official, who divulged the policy on condition he not be identified.

He said it had not been decided how soon testing would begin.

Since the discovery of dozens of military AIDS victims, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has been trying to formulate policies that would keep people with the disease from joining the armed forces and control its spread from sufferers already on duty.

An armed forces medical board recommended on Sept. 17 that active duty personnel heading overseas be screened for an antibody that accompanies AIDS, but said logistical headaches made it infeasible to screen all personnel.

The Pentagon, however, had ordered the services to begin screening new recruits this month and there already have been reports of positive readings from preliminary AIDS blood tests given to Marine Corps and Air Force recruits.

Weinberger met with the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force on Thursday to discuss the situation, the official said, predicting a formal announcement of the military-wide program "sometime in the near future."

"Because it (the Defense Department) is an organized body which can test people and have results it's probably ahead of the general population in what it's doing in research and care at this point," the official said.

"Although it's a serious disease, we're talking about something that does not affect most of the military population," he said.

Preliminary plans call for each serviceman and woman and each prospective recruit to undergo a blood test known as ELISA, a preliminary search for the HTLV-III virus — a common tipoff that a person has been exposed to AIDS.

Hedgecock resignation put on hold

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mayor Roger Hedgecock on Friday put his decision to resign on hold, saying that jury tampering allegations may have tainted his conspiracy and perjury conviction.

Hedgecock appeared at an afternoon news conference 30 minutes before he was to officially resign as mayor of the nation's eighth largest city.

"I put my faith in this (court) system when I defended myself against charges brought by the district attorney," Hedgecock said. "I resigned on the basis of a valid verdict. If there is no valid verdict, there is no basis for resignation."

Hedgecock, 39, announced his resignation plans a week ago, two days after he was convicted of 13 felony perjury and conspiracy counts in a campaign-finance case.

As a convicted felon, he faced automatic ouster from office upon his sentencing, scheduled Nov. 6.

He said he will not use the jury-tampering allegations as a basis to seek a plea bargain but he said he hopes there will be no third trial. His first trial when a jury deadlocked 11-1 for conviction.

In a stunning turnaround Thursday, Hedgecock's lawyer filed a motion for a new trial based on sworn statements from two jurors that the court bailiff interfered with deliberations in the second trial in the case, which has stretched over 1½ years.

Aides said the mayor's office was swamped by more than 1,300 calls from people urging Hedgecock to stay in office until the jury tampering allegations were resolved. A hearing on attorney Oscar Goodman's motion is set for Nov. 4.

Hedgecock spent Friday morning taking calls from supporters from across the country, said press secretary Mel Buxbaum.

Hedgecock, who was first elected mayor in 1983, was overwhelmingly re-elected last November while under indictment.

OBITUARIES

Wilder services Monday

Memorial services for Pamela Floyd Wilder will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Laguna Beach Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Wilder died Wednesday of leukemia. A realtor with Grubb & Ellis in Laguna Beach, she was a leader in Orange County civic affairs.

She was a co-founder of New Directions for Women, Inc., a recovery center for alcoholic and drug dependent women in Orange County in 1977. This was an extension of the national organization, Woman to Woman, which she founded in 1974.

She was on the board of the Los Angeles and Newport Harbor Junior League, the Friendly House in Los Angeles, Human Options in Laguna Beach and the Orange County Chapter of the National Council. Mrs. Wilder was also a trustee of Harbor Day School and was involved in work with the Orange County Performing Arts Center.

The family suggests remembrances be made in her name to New Directions For Women Inc., 2601 Willow Lane, Costa Mesa, 92627.

She is survived by her husband, James Lynwood Wilder Jr.; their children, Gayle, Allison and James; her mother, Dorothy Floyd of Laguna Hills; and brothers, Nataniel Floyd and William Floyd.

Cal State university trustees approve 10% fee increase

By the Associated Press

California State University trustees approved a 10 percent fee increase ranging from $33 to $57 a year per student for the 1986-87 school year.

The increase — and a $1.45 billion budget also passed by the trustees — will go to Gov. George Dukmejian for approval or amendment and then to the state Legislature as part of the overall state budget, university spokesman Roger Kuhn said.

If they pass legislative muster, the budget and the higher fees will take effect July 1, 1986, Kuhn said.

University fees would rise from $573 a year to $630 a year for students who take six or more units. For part-time students who take fewer than six units of course work, the fee would rise from $333 a year to $366 a year, Kuhn said.

In addition to the statewide fee, each of the university's 14 campuses charges yearly student fees ranging from $50 to slightly more than $100, Kuhn said.

We Asked:

'Do you think a Huntington Beach man was justified in shooting two teenage boys after they threw two bricks at the car he was riding in?'

Victor Lawnicki
Irvine Engineer

"I support his actions. I wish human nature was better but since it's not, if someone can't defend himself against situations like this then crime will keep going up and up."

Stefani Malgeri
Huntington Beach Children's shoe sales

"That's absurd. I can see beating them up but not shooting them. I don't see the logic. It's excessive."

Wayne Gardner
San Clemente Lumber wholesaler

"I don't think anybody has the right to pick up a gun and shoot someone for any reason. If they did, where would it begin and where would it end?"

Mark McCammon
Newport Beach Hotel grounds supervisor

"No, I think he used excessive force. Taking the law into your own hands today is not possible. One can't go around being Charles Bronson or John Wayne in real life."

Elizabeth Creely
Costa Mesa Bookstore sales

"I would have called police first. You can't just do things like that. The system is imperfect but it works. Nonetheless, I think the judge was correct in letting him off. It compensates for the kids going free."

Steve Meistrich
Huntington Beach Life insurance sales

"Although I don't know the details of the case, my gut reaction is that he didn't use excessive force. It's time for the public to react against terrorism whether it be Arabian terrorism or terrorism from youths."

Ed Healy
Newport Beach Banker

"If I were in the same situation, I might want to do the same thing but it's still not right. Perhaps it would be more understandable if he acted spontaneously. But the fact that he went home to get a gun and came back after them makes his reaction excessive."

Courtney Johns
Newport Beach Designer

"His reactions are kind of pre-meditated. I think it was a little excessive. It's the kind of stuff that happens in New York City."

Four state lottery winners lose it all 'instantly'

Winnings withheld to pay delinquent child support dues

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Four "instant" $5,000 and $1,000 lottery winners Thursday were among the first to be instantly stripped of their entire windfalls by the state.

In the most detailed disclosure of information on diversion of prize winnings for various state debts, Department of Social Services officials said they found that winners in San Bernardino, San Joaquin, El Dorado and Alameda counties owed more than their winnings in delinquent child support.

A San Bernardino County resident who won $5,000 owed $6,100 in back payments. "It appears all of the $5,000 will be diverted" before the prize payout is ever made, said department spokeswoman Kathleen Norris.

Likewise, in Joaquin County, a $5,000 winner owed $5,800 in court-ordered child support.

"The winnings were intercepted by the (state) Franchise Tax Board, diverted to the San Joaquin County district attorney and applied to the arrears accordingly," she said.

In San Mateo County, a third $5,000 winner's prize was partially diverted to pay $2,257 in delinquent child support, Norris said.

In El Dorado County, a $1,000 winner owed more than $15,000 in child support and back taxes. Norris said $527 will go to taxes and the remaining $473 to child support.

In Alameda County, a $1,000 winner owed $2,100 in late child support payments, she said.

Officials said they were protecting the child support debtors' right to privacy by not releasing their names or the cities in which they live. "Typically, they are predominately men but there are women, too," Norris said.

Prize payouts between $100 and $5,000 are diverted to any debts through the state's fledgling Lottery Winners Intercept Program.

Under lottery rules, winners of more than $100 must send a claim form to Sacramento. The names and Social Security numbers on the forms are matched by computer to information on all who owe on such items as taxes, child support, student loans or due to overpayment of unemployment insurance.

The state's prize intercept program is expected to yield $100,000 in new child support collections alone in its first full year of operation.

"This is a great opportunity for those absent parents delinquent in their child support payments to clear their records with what amounts to 'windfall' funds," said department director Linda S. McMahon.

"Everyone wins, including those children needing financial support from both parents," McMahon said.

The lottery windfalls also can cause welfare recipients to be bumped off the roles, at least temporarily. State welfare officials say mothers receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children — the most common form of welfare — could see their benefits disappear for a month or more.

Bird appointees usually agree with chief justice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Like past California chief justices, Rose Bird picks judges to fill temporary vacancies on the state Supreme Court. And like her recent predecessors, she has chosen judges who have voted with her more often than not in close cases.

Temporary appointments, authorized since 1926, have not come under much scrutiny. But with Bird and five colleagues facing a retention election in 1986, the anti-Bird California District Attorneys Association has accused her of a form of "court-packing" — a systematic bias in appointments to influence the outcomes of cases.

An Associated Press study of the voting records of Bird's appointees did not reveal consistent patterns, and shed no light on her motivations.

In those cases, temporary justices appointed by Bird voted with her position 58 percent of the time. In the same cases, regular members of the court agreed with Bird 40 percent of the time.

In four major rulings decided by one vote, the majority included a Bird appointee. They were:

- A 1982 reapportionment case allowing districts drawn by legislative Democrats to be used in that year's elections. Bird's opinion for a 4-3 court was joined by her appointee, Appeals Court Justice Stephen Tamura.

- A 1981 case allowing universities to give preference to minority applicants to professional schools. The 4-2 majority included Bird and Appeals Court Justice Joseph Rattigan.

- A 1980 case allowing victims of the drug DES who could not identify the manufacturer to sue all major manufacturers. The 4-3 majority included Bird and Appeals Court Justice Clinton White.

- A 1984 decision setting precedent for rulings upholding all of the state's 1975 law restricting malpractice suits against doctors. The 4-3 court included two Bird appointees; one, Rattigan, dissented along with Bird, while the other, Appeals Court Justice Sidney Feinberg, joined the majority.

Legless man's U.S. trek for hunger takes him to Ohio

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — A legless Laguna Hills man on a coast to coast trip to fight hunger brought his message to Ohio last week.

Bob Weiland, 39, moves by thrusting himself forward with huge arms while sitting on an oval-shaped leather apparatus. He lost his legs to a land mine in Vietnam.

"These are leather chairs," he said. "It's not a sled, there are no roller skates underneath."

He says his "shoes" are the thick rubberized grips on his hands.

His trip is billed as "The Walk for Hunger," and he estimates he has raised $235,000 from rallies and personal appearances.

Weiland plans to walk through Ohio along an interstate highway, but is not sure if officials will allow it.

"I'm told they say it's not safe," Weiland said. "I can tell them the interstate is the safest place to walk."

Weiland is accompanied by Marshall Cardiff, 58, who left his job as a salesman and joined Weiland nearly two years ago in Las Cruces, N.M. Weiland set out on his journey in September 1982 from California.

"I wouldn't have joined Bob for a walk for five minutes just to get him into the Guinness Book of World Records," said Cardiff. "We've seen more than 1,100 children come to know God through Bob."

Weiland's appearances at schools and rallies are "combating spiritual hunger as well as physical hunger," said Cardiff, a lay preacher.

The two travel three to five miles a day. The journey is made longer by the frequent stops by passersby. Weiland takes those opportunities to seek contributions, asking strangers to sponsor a step for $5.

Weiland's trip is also interrupted by flights home to see his wife, Jackie.

Americans most educated in world

WASHINGTON (AP) — Giant strides in schooling since 1940 "have made the American people the most educated in the world," but the quality of U.S. schools sagged in the 1970s, a Census Bureau study concluded this week.

The special demographic study by two Census analysts also found evidence that the "return" on a college education — the edge in earnings that college graduates have over high school graduates — is growing again after shrinking in the 1970s.

"Less than 45 years ago... a solid majority of young adults were either high school dropouts or had never gone beyond elementary school," said the report. "Today... high school dropouts have been reduced to a small minority."

In 1940, only 38 percent of those ages 25 to 29 had attained a high school diploma, and a mere six percent had college degrees. Now, the report said, 86 percent of those surveyed by the Census Bureau said they have high school diplomas and 22 percent possess college degrees.

"These are very large trends and they have made the American people the most educated in the world," said the report. "Education in the United States: 1940-1983," by Dave M. O'Neill and Peter Sepielli.

It cited surveys showing that in 1980-81 almost 32 percent of all U.S. adults 25 or older had at least some college education, compared with 17.3 percent of East Germans, 17.2 percent of Canadians, 15.5 percent of Swedes, 14.5 percent of Japanese, and 7 percent of Hungarians.

The Census figure on high school graduation is markedly higher than that used by the U.S. Department of Education. Vance Grant of the National Center for Education Statistics said 76 percent of the students who were fifth-graders in public and private schools in 1975-76 graduated in 1983. Another Education official, Alan Ginsburg, said that figure does not include those who obtain high school equivalency diplomas after dropping out.

O'Neill, the Census analyst, said, "Some people could lie. That's definitely a possibility."

Numerous groups of educators, civic and business leaders have deplored the state of U.S. high schools in recent years and called for steps to make them more rigorous.

The Census report said the education gap between the races has narrowed and may have helped blacks make economic gains.

It pointed to Scholastic Aptitude Test scores, results from the National Assessment of Educational Progress and other evidence to support its conclusion that "the quality of schooling has declined, especially during the 70s."

The report said that the poor showing of American students on some international scholastic comparisons is due in part to the low rate of attrition from U.S. schools.

'Farm diet' helps triplets reach their 85th birthday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Velma, Vilda and Vinal may have been tiny, but the newborn triplets wowed the crowds at the 1900 Utah State Fair.

When they returned to the state fair spotlight seven years later, throngs of people still turned out to take a peek, toss balloons their way and even throw money.

On Wednesday, the national spotlight shone on the threesome — believed to be the oldest triplets in the United States — as they celebrated their 85th birthday.

The triplets gathered in San Francisco for a week-long flurry of television appearances and a 1,000-guest birthday party on Friday. Vinal Mauss lives in nearby Walnut Creek, but Velma Thorp and Vilda Hughes took a flight in from Utah.

"This has been the highlight," said Velma. "We really have been honored so grand all over."

Ten years ago, their diamond jubilee birthday celebration drew about 800 people in their hometown. But this year's festivities have been so good they plan to come back for their 95th birthday, along with their eight children, 37 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren.

Vinal credits their longevity to the "good farm diet" they enjoyed while growing up in Murray, Utah, but Vilda recalled they also benefited from some special care and attention at first.

Each of the triplets weighed less than three pounds at birth so their mother wrapped them in cotton, tucked them into a shoe box and gingerly placed them in a warming oven to help survive the winter, she said.

"My mother's wedding band would fit over our wrists," said Vilda. "Our little fingers were like matchsticks and our heads were like apples."

Growing up, their home life was no different than their six brothers and sisters, the triplets agreed.

Their father did capitalize on their popularity, and after having 100 photographs taken of his three children, he sold the pictures for 25 cents each.

"Daddy caught it all," Velma said of the profits from the state fairs. "People would throw money at us. Then they'd throw balloons and we'd bat them back. We thought it was really choice to have that kind of fun."

Velma said as far as they know, they are the oldest triplets in the country. They've sent out challenges through radio stations, but no older triplets have come forward.

The nation's oldest triplets Velma Thorp and Vilda Hughes of Murray, Utah and Vinal Mauss of Walnut Creek celebrated their 85th birthday with a week-long celebration and civic party for 1,000 guests Friday in San Francisco.

Review begins on text revision

National publishers describe evolution more scientifically

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO — All six national textbook publishers whose junior high school science books flunked California standards for treatment of evolution have submitted new drafts.

In each case, the books have been rewritten to include more detailed scientific data on evolution theories, Francie Alexander, manager of the state Office of Curriculum Frameworks and Textbooks, said Wednesday.

"We are just starting to review them, so I'm reluctant to say anything without a real careful study, or to make an overall evaluation. But most are very detailed drafts. They are certainly extensive. I'm talking of thick binders, volumes," she said.

Last month, the state Board of Education, dominated by conservative Republicans, voted unanimously to reject every seventh- and eighth-grade science book offered this year by major publishers on grounds that they had "watered down" their segments on evolution to pacify fundamentalist believers in the biblical view of creation.

State schools Superintendent Bill Honig has said attempts by publishers to pacify critics who support the creation theory seriously undermined the quality of the proposed new textbooks.

"We have looked at these books from a science perspective, and they just don't come up to a level that's acceptable as far as making these ideas understandable to our students," he said.

The six publishers who revised their textbooks are Holt, Rinehart and Winston; Scott, Foresman and Co.; D.C. Heath and Co.; MacMillan Publishing Co.; Charles E. Merrill Publishing Co.; and Prentice-Hall Inc.

Do adults need to fear lies of children?

SAN DIEGO (AP) — David Allen Ward loves children. He loves being around them, playing with them and making them laugh. Since being accused and cleared of child molesting, Ward has dropped his act out of fear that a child may again lie about him to authorities.

"I was sure I wouldn't change toward children, but I already have," Ward said. "I always thought all kids are nice. The reason kids are kids is because they haven't had a chance to get screwed up. They haven't had a chance to be adults yet. You grow into being a jerk."

Ward, 31, was substituting as a bus driver for a migrant education program July 23 when he was accused by several children on the bus of abusing and molesting them. Ward was arrested for investigation of felony child abuse and jailed briefly.

The accusing children, offspring of undocumented aliens working in the fields of northern San Diego County, told the district attorney's investigator that they made up the story about Ward. The charges were dropped and Ward's record was sealed Oct. 9.

"I guess if anyone ever asked me, I could say I was never arrested," Ward said. "But everybody knows. Everybody has read something or seen something. They must be afraid to have their kid near me."

Child abuse experts say Ward's case is rare. For years, it was believed that children were incapable of lying about such things.

"As a rule, kids don't lie. But they do lie," said Dr. Perry Bach, a child psychiatrist. "Adults need to look at themselves and how they are perceived. With the increased public awareness and the increased awareness by children of child abuse and molest, questions are going to be raised which in the past were not ... a second-guessing of motive."

In Ward's case, authorities "are satisfied it was not criminal behavior," district attorney's spokesman Steve Casey said.

The district attorney's office had trouble with the case from the start. When the parents of the alleged victims refused to cooperate, the four felony counts were reduced to misdemeanors.

Police officers who investigated the case were convinced the parents were afraid to cooperate because they were fearful their legal status in the United States would be questioned and they might be deported.

But Deputy District Attorney Phil Walden said the children's stories seemed vague and sketchy. A Spanish-speaking investigator questioned the children and the children admitted lying. Ward said he thinks the children made up the story and got others to go along with it because Ward had disciplined two children for screaming and fighting during the morning run.

"There's a very strong tendency for kids to recant when they find out what some of the consequences are," said Dr. David Chadwick, director of the Center for Child Protection at the Children's Hospital and Health Center in San Diego. "As the implications of (abuse charges) become clear, it is possible that the parents influenced them. I don't know if that's the case here."

Chadwick said child abuse experts usually can determine the validity of a child's story before criminal charges are brought.

Fundamentalists' rights defended

By the Associated Press

SEWANE, Tenn. — Vice President George Bush has criticized liberal attacks on fundamentalist Christians such as Moral Majority leader Jerry Falwell for speaking out on political issues. Bush defended their right to do so.

"What bothers me is that these denunciations seem mainly directed against one group or loose federation of groups, the fundamentalist Christians," Bush, an Episcopalian, told a special convocation at the University of the South.

He said that if Catholic bishops, newly elected Episcopal Presiding Bishop Edmond Browning, civil rights leader the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Presbyterian activist William Sloane Coffin or former Massachusetts congressman the Rev. Robert Drinan "take sides on political issues," then "it's all right" for Falwell to do so.

NEW YORK — Asked what he thought of Lutheran Bishop James Crumley's insistence that Lutheran and Roman Catholic churches need to take concrete steps to implement agreements reached by their theologians, Roman Catholic Bishop James Malone, president of U.S. bishops, told a news conference, "I say, 'Amen.'"

CHICAGO — The National Coalition of American Nuns has called for dismissal of Cardinal Jerome Hamer as head of the Vatican Congregation for Religious and Secular Institutes, saying he is "incapable of resolving" a current impasse between him and 24 American nuns.

He has demanded that they recant their signing of a statement last year saying diverse Catholic views exist about abortion, or be dismissed from their orders.

The coalition, a nuns' group devoted to social justice issues, says Hamer in encounters with several nuns on a recent visit to this country "was rude and overbearing in an effort to intimidate women," an approach contrary to "collegiality and adult dialogue" called for by the Second Vatican Council.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate has voted to revoke tax exemption for any cult or other organization that promotes "Satanism or witchcraft."

The measure, proposed by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and approved as an amendment to the 1986 general appropriations act, defines Satanism as worship of the "powers of evil" and witchcraft as "the use of sorcery or supernatural powers with malicious intent."

NEW YORK — The American Jewish Committee has issued a booklet, the "Joys of Parenting," seeking to encourage young men and women to marry and have children.

Yehuda Rosenmen, director of the committee's Jewish family center, says in a foreword the center is committed to "communal continuity," adding:

"Our belief in the importance of marriage and children is based on a conviction that ultimate happiness and fulfillment derive from selfless and transcending love ... possible only within a happy family framework."

RICHMOND, Va. — The Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board has adopted a record $162.3 million budget for 1986 to finance the work of its worldwide corps of more than 3,500 missionaries.

Despite bombing, broadcast to stay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Voice of Hope will stay in Lebanon despite a terrorist-linked explosion that destroyed its Christian radio studio, killing at least five people, the head of the station's parent group said Thursday.

Accounts varied, with Israeli military officials saying three terrorists, a Lebanese militiaman and a radio employee died in the midnight bombing near Al Kham.

However, George Otis, president of High Adventure Ministries of Van Nuys, said four or five Palestine Liberation Organization terrorists broke through the station's chain-link perimeter fence at 12:04 a.m. local time Thursday.

"Four or five PLO terrorists came running out of the darkness firing Kalashnikovs (Soviet-made automatic weapons)," Otis said. "Strapped to their back like they sometimes do they had plastic explosives with them. They also had a case of explosives with them and had broken through the chain-link fence...."

"Our one single guard picked up his rifle and started firing. He struck one of the explosives packets, and that detonated," Otis said in a telephone interview.

He said the guard's shots touched off a chain reaction, because the terrorists "were close together and they were all blown up."

"Our guard was killed and also our man who was broadcasting in the studio, who was on the air, was also killed," he said.

Monotheistic faiths share roots and a decorative tent

Symbols display the intertwined histories of faiths

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

From the outside, it looks like a big, black Bedouin tent. On the inside, its walls glow with religious imagery of Judaism, Christianity and Islam. The incense air hums with soft, mystical music.

"It's a contemplative place," says its creator, artist Michele Zackheim. "People come to be quiet and learn, to listen to their pasts. And maybe listen to themselves."

The unusual, 1,000-square-foot "Tent of Meeting," juxtaposing the symbols and scenes of the three, great monotheistic faiths in one multi-visual, tapestried room, is meant to show their intertwined histories.

The big tent itself is a reminder of the ancient shelters of the biblical patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and Moses, the tents of the early, roving Christians and tents of the later nomadic Moslem tribes.

"When you realize the three faiths came from the same roots, it makes a big difference," Zackheim said of the serene yet subtly animated tent. "It's so simple, but hardly anyone knows it."

"They're shocked. Even Sunday school teachers don't know it. It's amazing. Christians don't know Jesus was a Jewish rabbi, and neither do Jews. Yet they, and Moslems, too, worship the one God of Abraham."

"It educates people to realize this relationship."

That link is brought out in the contours of mountains rimming the entire interior and forming the background for three 40-foot-long sections, one devoted to scenes and representations of each of the three faiths.

Zackheim of Santa Fe, N. M., a collage-arranger, got the idea for the tent-enclosed portrayals while on a trip to the Middle East where she climbed Mt. Sinai. There, Scripture says, Moses received the 10 Commandments.

"It was an exhilarating experience," she said, recalling a little chapel atop the mountain where Jews, Arab Christians and Moslems worshipped side-by-side. "If they can share the mountaintop, why not their stories?"

Their stories are told in 250 artworks on the tent walls: the characters and events of Judaism, the life of Jesus and the floral and calligraphic designs of Islam, which avoids portrayal of human images.

The scenes were taken by Zackheim from the accumulated, classical artwork of centuries of religious portrayals — paintings, engravings, icons, murals and other works, reduced to miniature, vivid moments.

After an opening display last spring in New York's Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, the "tent" is to be shown in numerous other American cities, with bookings already scheduled for the next two years.

Several corporations and foundations have funded the non-profit, $400,000 project, including the Xerox Corp., whose 2080 copier was used in transferring the images to canvas. Painters added the coloring.

Scenes from Judaism are positioned on the giant, spread wings of cherubim, while vignettes from the ministry of Jesus are shown on tree branches. Five window-shaped "tubas" frame the geometric patterns of Islam.

"Wings of God protected the people of Israel and carry its story," said Zackheim. "Trees worked well for telling the stories of Christianity. There's a wonderful naturalness to it, the tree of life."

Jewish branches urged to start healing rifts

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

American Jews, often portrayed as firmly united in mutual solidarity, are in reality sharply divided, and by some evidence, getting more so. But new efforts have arisen to try to check that splintering trend.

Some unusual diplomacy, involving reciprocal appearances of leaders of the rival Jewish branches at one another's national meetings, has spurred the mediating impulse, with still uncertain results.

Some suggested concessions, however, have met with rejection or temporary non-commitment.

A rare joint conference of 60 rabbis of four branches of U.S. Judaism declared during the summer that it escalating conflicts are not allayed, they could "lead to disaster, a fundamental split in the Jewish people."

The conference, in Simi Valley and sponsored by the New York-based National Jewish Resource Center, urged the different Jewish branches to "give major priority to intra-Jewish dialogue," something lacking in the past.

At "a time of divisiveness and growing disharmony in Jewish life," the conference said dialogue was essential for "seeking unifying solutions in an atmosphere of mutual respect, trust and understanding."

In a keynote paper, Rabbi Irving Greenberg, an Orthodox leader and president of the center, outlined what he termed the "grim consequences" of continued non-communication between the various Jewish branches.

If current "sociological forces are left to operate unchecked," he said, "within decades, the Jewish people will be split apart into two mutually divided hostile groups" not recognizing each other and disapproving inter-marriage.

Projecting statistics on various factors, including criteria for Jewishness in Reform Judaism differing from that in Conservative and Orthodox branches, he predicted that by the year 2000, the Jewishness claimed by nearly 1 million Americans will be denied by other Jewish groups.

"One can project a cycle of alienation, hostility and withdrawal that will lead to a sundering of the Jewish people into two religions or two social groups fundamentally divided and opposed to each other," he said. "All it will take is neglect, doing nothing."

Of the 5.7 million U.S. Jews, about 4.4 million belong to the three main branches, Reform, Conservative and Orthodox, 1 million-plus in each, in about 3,500 congregations.

Orthodoxy adheres closely to "halacha," the ancient Jewish regulations on such matters as diet, rituals and Sabbath observance. Conservatives believe in adapting the ancient laws to modern conditions. Reform Jews are still more flexible, considering the old requirements generally inapplicable, but valuing many traditional worship practices.

The chief differences have arisen in regard to conversions, mixed marriages, divorce, ordaining women and how to define Jewish lineage, with the different branches, in varying degrees, taking different approaches.

"The gap has gotten wider and wider over the course of the years," Rabbi Alexander M. Shapiro, leader of the Conservative Rabbinical Assembly, told the Orthodox Rabbinical Council of America.

It was the first major address by a Conservative rabbi before the Orthodox branch, and was part of an exchange in which the Orthodox leader, Rabbi Louis Bernstein, had addressed Conservatives the month before.

GARDENING

Add to your Halloween fun by growing own pumpkins

By Earl Aronson
AP Garden Writer

An estimated 80 percent of the pumpkins sold for fresh use in this country are picked up in October to become Halloween Jack-O-Lanterns or other decorations.

It's easy to go to the market or a roadside stand and buy a pumpkin, so often the centerpiece for the Halloween observance. If you are a gardener, plan ahead for next spring and grow your own pumpkins with the whole family participating.

Have a contest to determine who can raise the largest or best shaped pumpkin to carve at Halloween. Children will enjoy raising pumpkins, with a little parental help.

Pumpkin seeds are fairly large and easy to sow when the weather and the soil are warm in spring. Seeds sprout fast and the plants grow large.

Some varieties of pumpkins, Big Max, Jack-O-Lantern and Triple Treat, require considerable space to handle their sprawling vine habit.

But if your garden space is limited, there are newer bush-type pumpkins needing only 6 square feet. These include Cinderella and Spirit hybrid with compact plants.

The pumpkin meat makes delicious pies and puddings and the seeds provide a tasty, high-protein snack raw or roasted.

Pumpkins cannot stand frost in spring, so wait until soil and weather are warm before planting. Select a sunny, well drained site.

Prepare the soil well, working in ground limestone if needed and a balanced fertilizer. Compost, peat and other organic materials improve the soil and help grow better plants.

For vine-type pumpkins, sow five to six seeds in groups on hills 6 to 8 feet apart each way. Cover with one half-inch to one inch of fine soil and firm lightly.

Usually there is enough moisture in spring ground for good sprouting of seeds. If the weather is very dry, water with a fine spray to keep the soil evenly damp. When seedlings begin to crowd, thin each group to two or three plants.

Bush types may be sown closer — three to four seeds every 2 feet in rows 3 feet apart. Later thin to one to two plants in each group.

To get jumbo-size pumpkins, let only one or two fruits develop on each vine, keep fertilized and watered.

In late August, when the pumpkins are fairly large but the shells haven't hardened, scratch names or initials into the fruit with a nail or a knife. As the pumpkins mature the inscriptions will callus over and will be easily readable.

Gather pumpkins for food or fun just before first fall frost. Leave on a small part of the stem and don't bruise the fruit. Cure for 10 days in a warm, dry place to harden shells, then store in a cool, airy dry area (45-55 degrees F.) until ready to use.

Water efficiency theme of LA show

Water and how to get the biggest splash from it in your garden will be the theme of the Los Angeles Garden Show, today through Oct. 27 at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum.

About 40 model gardens designed by landscaping professionals will show optimal ways to use the limited water likely to be available in the future.

Thoughtful, informed choices seem to be the watchword at this year's show. Do you want to spread the available water uniformly over a velvety green lawn or would you rather use water sparingly in some areas so you can concentrate the moisture on a lush fern grove? How about a cooling spring that splashes over boulders into a mountain pool, or would a more formal fountain that looks as if it came from a Spanish courtyard be more your style?

No longer do you have to settle for a lifeless landscape if you choose to save water in one portion of your garden. As an example, the California Landscape Contractors Association took a dry bank for its model and turned it into a multi-level "stairway garden" made lively with colorful and unthirsty Australian native plants.

Seemingly at the other end of the water-use spectrum are the sparkling ranks of fountains that border the long entrance promenade. They sweep up to encircle the central water fantasy of cascading droplets, diagonal jets and a still reflecting pool that sets the theme for the show. Even these lavish water features are conservation-minded, since behind-the-scenes recirculating pumps send the same water up over and over.

Truly thirsty plants like orchids and camellias also will be displayed in sheltered nooks, illustrating the tropical effect you can create for a few heavily watered areas around your outdoor living spaces.

Space-saving vegetable gardens, a topiary garden replete with shrubs clipped into animal shapes and a display of rare tropical fruit trees are just a few of the other attractions at the show.

The show, which fills the 10,000-square-foot Ayres Hall and a nearby three-acre lawn, will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Tickets costing $4 for adults and $3 for senior citizens, students and children under 18, also give visitors access to the entire 127 acres of the arboretum at 301 N. Baldwin Ave. in Arcadia. Through Oct. 27, its grounds will be accessible only to show ticket-holders.

During ceremonies Sunday, TV personality Tom Hatten will be awarded the "Spirit of Spinach Award." According to show sponsors, Hatten earned the honor for the 30 years he spent promoting spinach to viewers of the "Popeye" show on KTLA. From 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., he will sign autographs for fans who also know him from the Sunday "Family Film Festival" and his performances on stage and in movies.

Gardeners can learn from horticulturists every day during 1 p.m. lectures. Talking about their specialties will be David Klostmann, California Waterscape, "Planning a Waterfall," Saturday; Pamela Ingram, Sassafras Nursery, "English Container Gardening," Sunday; Dan Davids, Davids & Royston, "Bulbs in Containers," Monday; Shirley Kearns, landscape architect, "Designing an Herb Garden," Tuesday; Ernie Heatherington, Stewart's Orchids, "Cymbidium Growing Made Easy," Wednesday; Al Johnson, Kellogg, "Success in Southern California Gardening," Thursday; Bob Rosebrock, Rosebrock's Vegetable Garden Center, "Growing Fall and Winter Vegetables and Herbs," Oct. 25; Sheril Hopkins, Common Grounds Program, "Urban Gardening," Oct. 26, and Susan Tufenkian, Tufenkian Plants, "Propagating Geraniums," Oct. 27.

A series of specialty shows within the show will feature plants in containers and cut flower displays.

GARDEN CHECKLIST

• Before planting bulbs, be sure to add some growing food such as bonemeal at the bottom of the hole, then put in a 1/4-inch layer of soil over it and plant.

• Let your roses rest. Stop feeding now as they are becoming dormant for winter.

• Let the tops of tuberous begonias and dahlias die back before removing them.

• There are all sorts of annuals to plant now for color this fall and winter. Try violas, pansies and stock to start.

• Plant a persimmon tree this fall for decoration with colorful fall leaves, fruit and general all-around good looks.

The Koffee Klutchers hold a comfortable lead at the halfway mark of Trivia Bowl IV, but anything could happen between now and the end of December. Here's your next 10 questions:

1. In what movie did Rita Hayworth sing her famous number, "Put the Blame on Mame?"
2. What comic introduced TV audiences to the town of Mt. Ivy?
3. Sam Ketchum was the second banana in what comic strip?

4. If you visited Des Plaines, Ill., you might see a museum built as a monument to what commercial enterprise?

5. Adolf Hitler's "Sieg Heil March" actually was adapted from the fight song of what U.S. university?

6. Name two Broadway musicals inspired by the comic strip Peanuts.

7. Identify the only baseball player who ever collected two hits in the same inning in his major league debut (and has been hitting ever since).

8. Name the movie in which Rita Hayworth sang "The Heat is On."

9. The movie "Fireman, Save My Child" starred Hugh O'Brian and Buddy Hackett, replacing what previously signed comedy team?

10. The only actor ever to be billed above Elvis Presley in a movie currently stars in a daytime soap opera. Identify (a) the actor, (b) his TV show and (c) the character he now plays.

This family feud goes beyond pettiness

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I disagree that family feuds are usually over some small misunderstanding and if all parties will give a little, everything can be worked out. For example:

How do you reason with a sister who forges her elderly mother's name on checks because she knows her mother won't turn her in to the authorities?

I cannot invite this woman (my own sister) to our home. The same goes for her children. They have stolen so many of my lovely things I'm afraid of being completely cleaned out. Others in the family have had the same experience. These people are crooks and thieves, Ann. Do you still feel we should try to maintain a relationship? My minister has advised me to stay away from them. —No Name, Just Anguished.

DEAR ANGUISHED: Most family feuds are the result of petty jealousies, lack of consideration and poor communication. Your situation is quite different. It involves criminal behavior. And that my dear, is a horse of a different color. The next letter memoration of Wagner's appearance as the 25,000th guest on the Griffin show.

That takes the cake

might interest you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I agree with you that many family feuds are the result of silly misunderstandings, but some are not. For example, when a close relative believes you are the devil and tells everyone that you have the ability to cast spells on people, bring bad luck and even death, the problem is somewhat different.

The only way I can deal with this situation is to put as much distance between me and the nut as possible. To do otherwise would be self-destructive and hypocritical. Am I wrong? —Not Fitting the Mold in Mo.

DEAR N.F.: You are not wrong. The first letter deals with criminal behavior. Yours deals with a psychotic personality. I believe you both are entitled to a pass.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Put yourself in my place and tell me what you would have done. You are out with your family to enjoy an evening of car racing. Seated next to you in the bleachers is a man with his young son. (My guess is the lad was about 5.) In the party are five others, all respectable-looking, quiet people.

As the racing begins the man boasts to his son and the rest of the group how he put away a six-pack of beer just prior to the event. He appears to be somewhat high, but you write it off as another immature 40-year-old, and you are happy no liquor is sold on the premises.

After about 30 minutes the man takes a bottle of vodka out of his shirt and drinks about a fourth of it. He then gives the bottle to his young son. The boy drinks a few swigs as if it were lemonade.

Should I have said something to the man, who was by then quite drunk? I chose to avoid what might have been a fistfight and kept quiet. But I felt guilty afterward because I did nothing to help the boy. Please comment. —Red Bank, N.J.

DEAR RED: I would have said nothing to the man. Remember one of Landers' Laws: Never get involved in a dispute with strangers. They may be armed, drugged or crazy.

I would, however, have asked one of the respectable-looking members of the party to please intervene on behalf of the child. That poor kid needs a friend.

'Golden Child' next for Murray

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eddie Murphy's next movie will be Paramount's "The Golden Child," an action-fantasy-adventure.

It will be Murphy's first movie since entering an exclusive contract with Paramount last year prior to the release of "Beverly Hills Cop." That film currently is the ninth biggest box-office hit.

A one-of-a-kind American film about love, marriage and divorce.

Ribbon of solidarity starts at Oktoberfest

By ROBERT HYNDMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A long yellow ribbon signed by well-wishers will accompany the Jacobsen family to Washington D.C. later this month when they join other families in seeking the release of six Americans hostage in Lebanon.

The ribbon was signed by the residents, staff and guests of the Hy-Lond Convalescent Hospital in Westminster who helped raise money Friday to send the Jacobsens to the nation's capital.

Huntington Beach resident David Jacobsen, the father of Paul Jacobsen of Fullerton, Diane Jacobsen of Long Beach and Eric Jacobsen of Huntington Beach, was kidnapped by terrorists May 28 outside the American University of Beirut Hospital in Lebanon where he worked as chief administrator.

Since then, residents of the convalescent hospital have "adopted" the families and have supported efforts to free the hostages, said Nancy Fontaine, activities director at Hy-Lond.

Friday's event featured an Oktoberfest celebration. While an oom-pah-pah band and folk dancers entertained the crowd, youth service groups helped raise money through the sale of baked goods and German food.

"I don't know if there are any words that can express the gratitude we feel for what these people have done for us," Paul Jacobsen said following the event.

"They've shown an incredible amount of energy and support for us," he said. "The ribbon, I feel, is a symbol of the solidarity that's behind us when we go to Washington."

The Jacobsens plan to fly to Washington D.C. Oct. 27 to again focus the public's attention on the plight of the hostages.

"We intend to meet with members of the media there and keep up the public awareness of what's going on."

While elderly men and women watched the entertainers outside the hospital, youth service groups from Westminster High School and Long Beach State showed their support through food sales.

"We were looking for a service project to do and felt this would be an important one," said Carrie Reardon, service chairman of the Westminster High Interact Club.

Teresa McKivergan of the Air Force ROTC program at Long Beach State agreed.

"We're here to help out the hospital," she said. "But we also hope to bring the community together and, of course, help the Jacobsens."

Westminster Mayor Joy Neugebauer said while the funds raised were important, the show of support also was vital to speed the release of the hostages.

Said Neugebauer, "I know that with each signature on that ribbon goes a prayer."

Hildegard Dunlap does a kick step over Ed New as international dance group did a polka at Hy-Lond party.

Clyde Edwards shows off balloon artistry.

Bill Workman and Lila Moore do a German dance in keeping with Oktoberfest theme.

HOROSCOPE

SYDNEY OMARR

Sunday, October 20

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You receive acclaim from peers, superiors. What had been deemed a lost cause is revived, much of it due to your efforts. Focus on completion, add recognition, intensified love relationship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stress independence, creativity willingness to go beyond previous limitations. Scenario highlights unique information, travel, education and a variety of experiences. You'll get to heart of matters in romance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You're being pulled in two directions simultaneously. Follow through on hunch, keep promise to loved one, fulfill financial obligations before engaging in speculative venture. Family reunion is part of fulfilling scenario.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are in enviable position of "having a choice." Avoid scattering forces, refuse to be cajoled into snap decision. Social activities accelerate, popularity increases. You'll be sensitive to "body image."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Attend to details, read between lines, realize someone is trying to "tell you something." Don't object to frankness! Be aware, alert, willing to remodel, to revise original plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Open lines of communication, be alert to signals, clues. Lunar position highlights speculation, variety, charisma, physical attraction. Member of opposite sex dispatches special message.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on land, real estate, shelter, lifestyle. You'll receive news concerning ways to beautify surroundings - and yourself. Be diplomatic, refuse to act on impulse. You have marvelous opportunity to win friends, influence people.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Define terms, look behind scenes, give full play to curiosity. Make inquiries, reject superficial responses. Relative is sincere but could be misinformed. Respond accordingly. Pisces plays paramount role.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Nothing occurs halfway - scenario highlights deadlines, pressure, promises, love and money. Older individual helps you understand rules, regulations. Cancer, Capricorn persons play top roles in dynamic scenario.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You'll have chance to prove major point. People you admire will be drawn to you, will confide problems and seek your counsel. You'll be at right place, you'll receive reward long overdue.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Light is shed on areas previously "restricted." You'll be asked to participate in project relating to community, charity or politics. Be receptive, but define role. Leo, another Aquarian figure prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Elements of timing, luck ride with you! Intuition rings true, you'll know what to do at crucial moment. Focus also on popularity, gain through business or career. You'll be invited to gourmet dinner. Family reunion is featured.

IF OCTOBER 20 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sensitive, loyal, present, emotional, and mother had more influence on you than did father. You have gourmet appetite and possible digestive problem. Capricorn, Cancer persons play important roles in your life. This can be your power year, you make remarkable comeback, if single you could marry. If married, there could be an addition to family. Married or single, you take greater charge of your own destiny and could go into business for yourself. You make "fresh start" in November.

Barons cut 'em off with the pass

Fountain Valley uses aerial attack to beat OV, 28-0

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

All the ingredients were there Friday night — Ocean View High's Seahawks were primed for the upset of the year — they had paid their dues in a killer schedule to ready themselves for a shot Sunset League power Fountain Valley.

The running game was there — but it didn't take long for the Barons to turn the league football opener before 3,600 at Orange Coast College into a showcase for its passing game as Dennis Arey single-handedly destroyed Ocean View's secondary with six receptions for 123 yards, with touchdowns coming from 28, 7 and 29 yards out on the way to a 28-0 breeze.

"We didn't expect to pass that much," said Barons' Coach Mike Milner. "Going in we were thinking about 10 passes, but they couldn't cover a couple of our routes. It's gratifying to put some points on the boards."

The Barons were up, 7-0, in the first quarter with the help of a 19-yard, four-play march after the hit-of-the-

The last time Westminster High captured a Sunset League championship — 1975 — Muhammad Ali was still heavyweight champion of the world, the Big Red Machine in Cincinnati was intact and Orange Coast College actually had the best football team in the state of California ... if you can believe that.

Talk about living in a time warp! And although the corks weren't popping off champagne bottles Friday night, Jim O'Hara's Lions sure had reason to party.

That's because for the first time since 1982 and only the second occasion since the 12-year rivalry's inception, Westminster had knocked off heavily-favored Edison, the score being 24-14 before an overflow crowd of more than 5,000 at Westminster High.

Junior place-kicker Todd Weaver's 23-yard field goal with 2:40 remaining in the final period officially iced the victory. But essentially, this was a contest decided long before Weaver's kick.

Four fumbles, missed defensive assignments, some additional poor defensive play by the secondary and numerous missed scoring opportunities were simply too much for the Chargers (4-2 overall, 0-1 in league) to overcome.

"What can I say?" shrugged a disconsolate Chargers head coach Bill Workman. "We were lackluster on offense and certainly no better on defense. Give Westminster credit. We made them look like a great passing team. We didn't help ourselves at all."

"We're 0-1 in league and that's not a great start. We played poorly. In fact, we stunk. Do me a favor, don't ask any more questions."

By now Workman's blood was coming to a boil. And why not? He had seen his team blow a 14-7 lead, miss two field goals and get stopped on three successive attempts for a first down at the Lions' 10-yard line late in the first quarter when the Chargers had the opportunity to take command.

Incidentally, on those three attempts, all the Chargers needed was ONE YARD.

On the other hand, the Lions (4-2, 1-0) capitalized on almost everything the Chargers gave them, especially in the second half when they scored 17 unanswered points.

In fact, the Lions scored the tying and go-ahead touchdowns after a pair of Edison fumbles. With senior quarterback Steve Guiley back at the helm after almost a month absence

Vikes open Sunset with 26-10 win

Marina has offense in gear, taking early lead and thwarting Oilers' challenge

By STAN GRANCH
Daily Pilot Correspondent

The Marina High Vikings held off the Huntington Beach Oilers in a hard fought battle to win their Sunset League football opener, 26-10, and Marina Coach Dave Thompson was pleased by his team's performance, especially with offense.

"This was the first game that we could run and pass well," he said.

The Vikings led from the start as they scored on their first possession. The seven-play drive covered 55 yards and was capped by Bill Craft's 11-yard run.

"This was our first drive of the year, and it could not have come at a better time," exclaimed Thompson. Because the kick for the extra point failed, Marina only led 6-0 at the end of the first quarter.

Huntington Beach got on the board early in the second quarter as place kicker George Hadjis connected on a 27-yard field goal. The field goal capped a 10-play drive that stalled on the Viking 10 yard line. Then, with 50 seconds before half-time Marina scored as Sean Magula plunged up the middle for nine yards. The touchdown was a product of Marina's perfect two-minute drive that covered 71 yards in nine plays.

The pass for the conversion failed giving Marina a 12-3 halftime lead.

Huntington Beach scored on its first possession in the third quarter, as Joe Napoli hit Chris Ross with a 4-yard touchdown pass. The score was set up by the Oiler defense which recovered a fumble on Marina's first play. The Vikings bounced back late in the third quarter as Craft raced six yards for the score.

Craft had a good night, rushing for 39 yards and two touchdowns on four carries, and adding two sacks and breaking up several passes on defense.

Things did not go well for Huntington Beach in the fourth quarter. The Oilers were constantly starting from deep in their own territory.

Perhaps because of the close score and maybe because of some frustration, a fight broke out in which two players were ejected. The fight seemed to spark the Oilers, at least. They drove the ball from their own 2-yard line to the Viking 11 and elected to go for the field goal with 2:30 left. The kick sailed wide right along with Huntington Beach's hopes.

Two plays after the missed field goal, quarterback Rick Vanderriet raced 84-yards untouched on a quarterback option.

The 5-11, 180-pound junior was the offensive leader for Marina. He rushed for 69 yards and passed for 144.

The Viking offense was balanced, with tailback Sean Magula rushing for 79 yards to lead the team.

Oilers Coach George Pascoe was "beyond disappointment."

"We must regroup," he said. "This was a must game for both teams if they have any hopes of making the playoffs. Now we have a large ... hill to climb."

The Oilers had some stand out

Guardian appointed for OV pair

In the latest chapter of the Ocean View High basketball saga — which has seen the Seahawks forfeit 24 victories from last year and the right to participate in the 1986 CIF 5-A playoffs, Huntington Beach resident Lee Jackson has been officially appointed legal guardian of juniors Ricky Butler and Dezi Hazely.

"It's all finalized," said Ocean View basketball coach Jim Harris.

"That's the end of that issue."

The Huntington Beach Unified School District released the information Friday in what appears to be the final wrap in guaranteeing the two Ocean View players are eligible to compete for Ocean View this year.

The two, originally incoming freshmen from the Lynwood attendance area under the umbrella of Laurant Brown as their legal guardian, were left by Brown without residence when Brown moved with his son from the Ocean View attendance area to Pasadena.

Rather than returning to their parents' homes in Lynwood, they wound up with Harris at his El Toro residence and continued their education and basketball playing at Ocean View with an intra-district transfer, but were later declared ineligible because of "undue influence" charges.

Harris was fired from his post, but was later reinstated in district determinations, but the 24 forfeits stood. Later the CIF Southern Section stepped in and imposed further sanctions knocking the Seahawks out of the '86 playoffs.

An appeal to the state CIF will be heard within two weeks, according to Harris.

Woodbridge compounds Artist woes

By RICHARD DUNN
Daily Pilot Correspondent

Woodbridge High, with a defense that won't stop, made a bad week for Laguna Beach worse.

The Artists, under the microscope earlier in the week because of the discovery of an ineligible player, which will force Laguna Beach to forfeit three of its victories, fell on harder times Friday night when the Warriors' stingy defense tied Laguna's offense in knots.

Woodbridge (5-1) stopped the Artists' offense cold and pulled off a 21-7 victory before a capacity crowd of 3,200 at Laguna Beach High.

The win puts Woodbridge at 3-0, tied with Newport Harbor for the top spot in the Sea View League, but its true test will come next week when the Warriors' high-powered defense takes on Saddleback and its explosive offense.

"We feel good about being 3-0," Woodbridge Coach Gene Noji said. "But we can't be too happy. We have Saddleback next week."

With the forfeits, Laguna Beach is now 1-5 and only 1-2 in league play. Without the forfeits, the Artists would be 4-2 and 2-1.

But either way you look at it, Woodbridge clearly had the upper hand in this one, although the game of

Goliath a winner, 42-7, over Mustangs

By JIM CARNETT
Daily Pilot Correspondent

It was a game which could be summarized by what occurred on the field following the final gun — David vs. Goliath.

Costa Mesa High's beleaguered Mustangs walked across the field to shake hands with the huge, and victorious, Newport Harbor High Sailors.

Mesa's gutsy little 5-7, 135-pound starting center, Kevin Mayne, extended his hand to 6-4, 291-pound defensive tackle, Chris Sylvis. The two had seen a lot of each other all night.

Sylvis at first reached for Mayne's hand, then decided against it. Instead, he grabbed Costa Mesa junior around the neck and gave him a big hug. It was the kind of hug that expressed admiration and respect.

Newport had won the football game convincingly Friday night, 42-7, but Mesa's banged-up and battered Mustangs captured the hearts of the fans and the respect of Coach Mike Giddings and his hosting Tars.

"We may have won the game, but they 'out-tried' us all night," the Newport coach said. "You have to give them a lot of credit. They're not very big, but they have very big hearts."

"We knew going in that we were out-manned," said a smiling Mesa coach Tom Baldwin. "We gave it our best shot."

The Mustangs, who have lost a host of starting players this year due to injuries, started six sophomores on defense Friday night. Those six players played on a freshman team last year that didn't win a game.

Senior quarterback Shane Foley turned in a masterful effort for Newport. He completed 12 of 17 passes for 221 yards and four touchdowns. He didn't throw an interception, and rushed for 35 yards on five carries.

"Foley played pretty well for us," Giddings said. "He hasn't thrown an interception in our last two games, and he's only thrown four on the season. He's really a ball-control kind of a quarterback."

Foley threw a pair of touchdowns to wide receiver Andy Sheppard within 1:58 of each other in the second quarter. The second looked like an exact replay of the first, a soft lob into the corner of the end zone.

The first came from 17 yards out and the second was a 16-yarder.

These Cards are marked — with Whitey's signature

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Will Whitey Herzog's knowledge of the Kansas City Royals work to the advantage of the St. Louis Cardinals in the World Series?

It's been six years since he was fired as the Royals' manager, but Herzog remains one of the most popular men on the Kansas City sports scene. It was Herzog who made the Royals into winners.

When he took over for the fired Jack McKeon midway through the 1975 season, he promptly turned the team's fortunes around.

The next year, the Royals won their first of three straight American League West titles, each time losing to the New York Yankees in the playoffs, twice in the ninth inning of the final game.

He was instrumental in the development of George Brett, Frank White and Willie Wilson.

Additionally, he knows Royals' left fielder and leadoff hitter Lonnie Smith, who came to Kansas City this year in a mid-season trade with the Cardinals.

Few men outside the Kansas City organization know the Royals as well as Herzog. White, for one, figures his insight into the team will certainly not hinder the Cards' chances.

"Whitey's an awful smart man. It sure might be a help to the Cardinals," said White, who credits Herzog with molding him into a major league player.

On TV tonight
Channel 7 at 5:30

"When he was here, he kept charts on every hitter in the league, and it was amazing how he could predict the way people would do, and where they would tend to hit certain pitches."

White was a nervous, unsure youngster when Herzog took over.

"He was very, very patient with me, and that was just what I needed at the time," said White, who went on to win six Gold Gloves at second base.

"I was only hitting about .210 or so, and he kept me in the lineup. He told me, 'I've got other guys who can get the runs in right now, you just help save us some runs and get your feet on the ground.'" White said. "I'm sure he's got a pretty good idea of what he wants to do."

Jamie Quirk, who played for Herzog with the Royals and also in St. Louis, is back in a Kansas City uniform as a backup catcher. But he doubts Herzog's knowledge of the Royals will affect the outcome of a game.

"I don't think it will give them an edge at all," he said. "He can go out to the mound and tell John Tudor, 'Here's the way I want you to pitch to Brett. Throw it low and away, or high and inside, or whatever.' But then he'll walk back to the dugout and Tudor will be the one to throw the ball."

performances too. Quarterback Joe Napoli, was the Oilers' offense. He was 21-of-45 for 243 yards and a touchdown.

The senior showed great poise, always choosing the right receiver.

The defense was led by defensive back Scott Goodman, who seemed to be all over the field making tackles and breaking up passes.

Marina (3-2-1 overall) will play rival Fountain Valley next Friday at Orange Coast College. The winner will be in good position for the playoffs.

The Oilers (2-4 overall) will tangle next Friday with surprising Westminster. This is a must game for the Oilers if they are to have any hope of making the playoffs.

Rustlers polish off Pasadena

Marina holds on;
CdM, Barons rally;
Newport breezes

Golden West College had nine different players score and had no trouble brushing aside visiting Pasadena Friday afternoon to keep its South Coast Conference water polo record unblemished.

Meanwhile, on the high school level, Marina held on to top Estancia, Corona del Mar and Fountain Valley rallied for wins, and Newport Harbor cruised to a lopsided victory in non-league tests.

Here's what happened:

Golden West 17, Pasadena 4: Geoff Gruber and Mark Wicks each scored five goals — one more than the visiting Lancers' total output — as the Rustlers cruised to the victory at home.

Gruber helped Golden West to a fast start, tallying a pair of goals in the first period when the Rustlers jumped out to a 2-0 lead. Besides Gruber and Wicks, seven other Golden West players scored one goal apiece.

Back-up goalie Jay Winterhalter, a product of Marina High, worked about three quarters of the match and was credited with five saves.

The Rustlers moved to 3-0 in South Coast Conference play and 11-2 overall. Golden West plays its next SCC match Tuesday at Long Beach City College.

In high school action:

Marina 10, Estancia 8: Senior David Budman and junior Andy Parazette scored fourth-period goals to thwart an Estancia rally and lead the visiting Vikings to the win in the Eagles' pool.

Estancia had closed within 8-6 in the early stages of the final quarter before Budman and Parazette tallied to put the game out of reach. It was Parazette's fourth goal of the match.

Driver Scott Larsen added three to the Marina attack, while Wade Womack had the other.

For Estancia, Jim Devore scored all three of his team's goals in the first half and finished with five overall. Richard Emil notched a pair of goals for the Eagles.

Corona del Mar 7, El Dorado 6: The Sea Kings trailed 4-1 at the half, but came up with four goals in the third period and two in the final while holding the host Golden Hawks scoreless to secure the win.

Chris Morgan scored with 1:20 left in the game to tie the score at 6-6, and Jason Likins followed with a tally a minute later for the game-winner. El Dorado had possession in the waning seconds, but were unable to score.

Jim Wagner had eight saves in goal for CdM (10-4), which faces Sunny Hills today at Newport Harbor.

Fountain Valley 13, Los Alamitos 10: The Barons shook themselves after a sluggish start, taking command in the second half to beat the host Griffins.

Fountain Valley was trailing 3-1 at the end of one period and was tied 5-5 entering the second half but scored the first two goals in the third quarter and led the remainder of the match.

Los Alamitos pulled within 10-9 in the final period but the Barons pulled away after that.

Sharing scoring honors for Fountain Valley were Todd Thompson, Brent Peters and Brian Judd with four goals each. The Barons, 14-8 overall, meet Huntington Beach in a Sunset League match Wednesday at Golden West College.

Newport Harbor 19, Downey 4: The Sailors rolled up an 11-1 halftime advantage and had their starters out before the end of the second period on the way to improving their overall record to 12-3 in this breather.

Sophomore Bob Gifford was the leading scorer with six goals and Matt McLaren added three goals, while Joe Andrian, Tom Hunter and Eric Krumins each contributed two goals.

SPORTS BREAK

Royals' pitchers aren't in swing with NL hurlers

From AP dispatches

KANSAS CITY — Everybody knows the Kansas City Royals pitchers can pitch.

Now, can they hit?
"When's the last time I saw a breaking ball?" asked reliever Dan Quisenberry. "How am I going to hit a breaking ball?"

Every other year, the great designated hitter debate rages during the World Series. And this is the season of no DH, meaning those Kansas City pitchers will have to step to the plate against the St. Louis Cardinals' pitchers.

"I used to hit for average and power in high school," said Mark Gubicza, a starter who has never hit in a regular-season game in the major leagues. "But I don't think I'll be able to do either one now."

Only two Kansas City pitchers have ever hit in the majors and that was in the National League where there is no DH.

Charlie Leibrandt, who played several years with Cincinnati, has a career average of .146 (13 for 89), while Joe Beckwith, who played for the Dodgers, is 1 for 19, which translates to .053.

"I hit a 2-2 fastball from Pascual Perez up the middle for a single in 1983," Beckwith said, very proudly.

The last AL pitcher to get a hit in the World Series was Baltimore's Tim Lincecum, with an RBI single in Game 4 in 1979. Since then, AL pitchers are 0 for 31 in Series competition.

The last hit by a National League pitcher came in the last DH-less Series, when Philadelphia's John Denny singled and scored in Game 4 versus Baltimore.

Leibrandt, the hit leader among the Kansas City hurlers, said the other Royals pitchers shouldn't assume he knows how to do it well.

"If they ask me for advice, they're halfway out already," Leibrandt said. "I have no grand illusions about hitting a home run."

One of Leibrandt's 13 hits was a triple. But, he said did not recall which team and pitcher he hit it against.

"I remember it was a fly ball that fell in," he said.

"No, say it was a line drive."

Quote of the day

Kansas City pitcher Joe Beckwith on his unfamiliarity in the batter's box: "I'm just going to pick up a stick and go up there. I just hope I pick up the right end."

Knight raps NBA, broadcasters

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Bobby Knight, coach of the Indiana University Hoosiers, says he has his reasons for not wanting to coach a team in the National Basketball Association.

"I don't want to coach 82 games a season with some players who make 10 times as much as I do," Knight said. "It would be a tough time telling Moses Malone to get the lead out."

Knight was characteristically critical of sports broadcasters during his talk before about 3,000 IU students at a campus auditorium, including CBS-TV college basketball announcer Billy Packer.

"Billy at least admits he doesn't know anything about basketball," Knight said. "I've never been able to get Al McGuire to do so."

Muldowney to return to racing

POMONA — Three-time world drag racing champion Shirley Muldowney, who's still recovering from injuries suffered in a 250-mph crash last year, said Friday she'll return to competition in 1986.

Muldowney, 45, said she plans to pilot a top-fuel dragster in the 24th annual Hot Rod Association Winter Nationals, which will open the NHRA season Jan. 30, 1986.

Muldowney of Mt. Clemens, Mich., is a spectator at this week's 21st annual Winston World Finals at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona.

Capitals, Oilers secure wins

Mike Gartner scored two goals and picked up an assist as Washington rolled over host Buffalo, 4-1, in a National Hockey League game Friday. Gaetan Duchesne and Bobby Carpenter also scored for the Capitals, while Mike Foligno notched Buffalo's only goal. In another NHL game Friday, Mark Messier scored the eventual winning goal on Wayne Gretzky's second assist in the second period as Edmonton edged Boston, 3-2.

Kings lose in last two seconds

VANCOUVER — Defenseman Jiri Bubla, making his first start of the season, scored his second goal of the game with two seconds left to give the Vancouver Canucks a 5-4 victory over the Los Angeles Kings in the National Hockey League Friday night.

Bubla, sidelined four games with a rib injury, fired a backhand shot high into the net past netminder Bob Janecyk from a sharp angle at 19:58 to finish off a last desperate rush with Tony Tanti and Cam Neely.

The Canucks also got goals from Neely, Gary Lupul and Petri Skriko as they increased their record to 3-1-1, the best start in the 16-year history of the NHL team.

Goals in the third period by defenseman Gary Galley and Dave (Tiger) Williams had tied the score after Skriko gave the Canucks a 4-2 lead with Vancouver's second power-play goal of the game.

Bernie Nicholls and defenseman Brian Engblom also scored for the Kings as their record dropped to 1-4.

Martina is No. 1 on birthday

FORT WORTH — Top-ranked tennis star Martina Navratilova, who turned 29 years old Friday, received an early birthday present when she regained her No. 1 world ranking.

Navratilova earned the necessary points last Monday by defeating Steffi Graf, 6-3, 6-1, in the Maybelline Tennis Classic final.

"I feel like I'm getting to be a grown-up now," she said. "And I like that. But I'll always be a kid at heart."

The Fort Worth resident dropped to No. 2 last June when she lost to Chris Evert Lloyd in the French Open title match. She remained there despite winning Wimbledon a month later.

Chargers activate Winslow

SAN DIEGO — The San Diego Chargers activated Kellen Winslow Friday and said the All-Pro tight end could see his first game action Sunday since suffering a serious knee injury last year.

Winslow, a three-time Pro Bowl starter, began participating in contact drills for the first time on Oct. 9, nearly 12 months after undergoing reconstructive knee surgery to repair torn ligaments, Chargers spokesman Rick Smith said.

Winslow has repeatedly refused to discuss his playing future with reporters, but Chargers Coach Don Coryell said that Winslow was ready to come back.

Mater Dei in 17-14 shocker

SANTA FE SPRINGS — Gary Coston's 47-yard field goal with 2:10 remaining catapulted Mater Dei High's Monarchs to a 17-14 Angelus League football victory here at St. Paul High, knocking the Swordsmen from the ranks of the unbeaten in the league opener for both schools.

Sophomore quarterback Todd Marinovich drove St. Paul's secondary into a turmoil with a short game which netted 174 yards on 26 completions out of 38 attempts, with his 9-yard strike to junior Tony Rocco breaking the scoring ice in the first quarter.

Paul Cardenas carried over from the 8-yard line in the second quarter to give Mater Dei at 14-7 halftime lead.

St. Paul drew even at 14 in the fourth quarter when quarterback John Scott found Frank Mazzotta from four yards out, but the Monarchs responded with their winning drive.

A big factor in Mater Dei's upset victory (the Monarchs are now 4-2 overall) were interceptions by Tim Haider, O'Brien and Paul Padova. The Monarchs played turnover-free football.

O'Brien caught 13 passes for 73 yards.

with ligament damage to his ankle, the Lions fashioned TD drives of 25 and 30 yards late in the third quarter to move in front, 21-14.

Ironically, the second touchdown — a 24-yard pass from Gully to flanker Jon Ostler — came as the Westminster coaching staff was frantically waving for a timeout.

It was that kind of a night for the Chargers, who watched Gully throw two TD passes while racking a total of 177 yards through the air on 8 of 13 completions.

"Luck is what happens when preparation meets opportunity," offered O'Hara philosophically. "Yes, this was a big win for us... the biggest one we've had in a long time. But we still have four league games to play."

"Our goals at the beginning of the year were to finish 4-1 in the pre-season and 3-2 in league," offered O'Hara. "Of course, with goals you're always reassessing and re-evaluating."

Obviously, the Lions will be doing a little reassessing and re-evaluating this morning.

Dutch player pulls upset in tourney

Unseeded Chantelle Vandeirondk of Holland claimed a second seeded victim Friday in the United States Wheelchair Tennis Championships at the Racquet Club of Irvine.

Vandeirondk, who earlier defeated third-seeded Becky White, knocked off second-seeded Michelle DeJarlais of Fresno, 6-4, 7-6 to advance to today's noon final against No. 1 seeded Marilyn Hamilton of Fresno. Hamilton survived Terry Gray's upset bid, defeating the San Leandro player, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

On the men's side, the doubles semifinals were held and form prevailed. Top-ranked Brad Parks (Laguna Niguel) and Rick Slaughter (Nashville) ousted Dave Kiley (Pomona) and Chip Parmaley (Diamond Bar), 6-1, 6-4.

Rustlers, Pirates, Gauchos hit road

Golden West (1-2-1, 1-1) at Mt. San Antonio (2-3, 0-3): The Rustlers have enjoyed considerable success against the Mounties in recent years, having compiled a 10-3-1 overall record.

Mounties' quarterback Dave Ruiz aired it out in last week's 25-24 loss to Pasadena, throwing for 312 yards.

The Rustlers pin their hopes on quarterback Tim Hanson, who has completed 49 of 94 pass attempts for 597 yards and rushing leader Todd Parker, who has 437 yards on 106 carries.

Saddleback (5-0, 3-0) at Southwestern (5-0, 3-0): The Gauchos may face their first serious test of the season in Chula Vista against the also-unbeaten Apaches.

Saddleback, which has averaged 37 points, faces a Southwestern team that has been scoring at a 32.1 point-per-game clip.

Each is coming off convincing victories. The Gauchos throttled San Diego Mesa's passing game en route to a 36-7 win, while Southwestern was a 31-16 victor over Rancho Santiago.

Aragon to be honored at Irvine boxing

Former Southland boxer Art Aragon who fought for 17 years beginning in 1944, compiling a 89-19-6 record, will be honored during the boxing program at the Irvine Marriott Hotel Oct. 24 by promoter Don Fraser.

Aragon, who lost his only title fight, a 15-round lightweight decision, to Jimmy Carter in 1951 at the Olympic Auditorium, had 61 career knockouts.

He fought champions Don Jordan and Lauro Salas, defeating Salas, along with such notable fighters as Carmen Basilio, Billy Graham, Chuck Davey, Enrique Bolanos and Cisco Andrade.

Now Aragon, once known as "Golden Boy," is now a successful ball bandman in Van Nuys.

George Garcia of Santa Ana will meet Luis Hernandez of Redlands in a 12-round battle for the vacant California bantamweight championship in the evening's ring action.

Reserved $15, $20 and $25 seats are on sale at all May Company Ticketmaster locations and at Megan's Ticket Service, in the Heritage Shopping Center, Irvine.

BARONS...

From B1

game set up the turnover-of-the-game.

"Ramsey's hit in the early part of the game sort of set the tone for the rest of the night," said Milner. "It was an unbelievable hit, probably the best I've seen in 17 years."

That defensive surge by Ramsey turned what appeared to be a certain Ocean View pass completion into a loose ball and Terry Reichert scooped it out of the air and returned the interception 10 yards to set up that first 19-yard drive.

Sophomore Derek Teuscher, in for the re-injured Tom Vrab (hip-point), went the final three yards for the touchdown. It took the Barons just 90 seconds to score their first TD, then when they went to the air late in the second period, drives of 80 and 47 yards consumed just 1:48 and 38 seconds, respectively.

A 17-yard pass to a wide open Arey set the stage for the second TD, which was a 38-yarder to Arey, who had the Ocean View secondary beaten down the left side with 2:32 left in the half.

"Speed," was Barons' offensive coordinator Dave Penhall's one-word explanation for Arey's success, and the Barons obviously wanted another crack before halftime.

The defense forced an Ocean View punt and with 1:05 left the Barons were 47 yards away. Three plays and 34 seconds later it was 21-0 after quarterback John Pearl's third straight completion.

First it was Arey for 24 yards, again wide open. Then to Glen Gordon for 16 yards and finally to Arey again, from 7 yards out on a simple loft to Arey, who had his one-on-one coverage beaten after three steps.

"Pass defense has been our strong point of the year," commented Ocean View Coach Karl Gaytan.

Ocean View's only bright spots were early ball-control domination, but Reichert's fumble recovery at the Barons' 29 of an unfurled Ocean View turnover and a costly delay of the game penalty after driving to the Barons' 6-yard line resulted in a missed field goal attempt.

The Barons spent much of the second half working on the clock with a ball-control offense, going to the pass only when necessary to keep things going. Arey's third scoring catch came on the fourth play of a series beginning at the Ocean View 46, his route splitting a pair of deep defenders in a picture play.

Vaqs pull it out over Tritons, 21-6

By DOUG WARD

They put on a terrific homecoming show at San Clemente High, complete with Mercedes Benzes, the new homecoming queen's name in lights and fireworks in the sky.

If artistic merit put points on the board, this South Coast League football game would have been San Clemente's in a blowout.

But fortunately for Irvine High, the only fireworks that counted were the two big scoring plays the Vaqueros pulled off that, along with a 1-yard touchdown run, gave Irvine a 21-6 win over San Clemente Friday night.

Despite the win, Irvine Coach Terry Henigan was sounding more like someone who came up on the short end of the score.

"We were lucky," Henigan said. "I'm happy that we won but I can't tell you if we played well. You've heard it before, but I won't be able to tell how well we played until I look at the films."

San Clemente, running its triple threat wishbone attack, took the opening kickoff 67 yards in 13 plays to take a 6-0 lead. Fullback Bobby Moore was the workhorse of the drive, carrying six times for 39 yards.

The Tritons, grinding out yardage and eating up time off the clock on each possession, appeared to be in control. But Vaqueros quarterback Jimmy Raye broke loose for a 76-yard touchdown run on a third and 35 play to put Irvine ahead 7-6 with 4:17 left in the half.

Despite the halftime edge, Henigan didn't feel secure. "We were pretty nervous at halftime," Henigan said. "I think they can play with anybody in the league, I'm glad we don't have to play them again. They're a well-coached team, they keep coming and they don't quit."

San Clemente's hopes faded on the first play of the second half when quarterback Alex Baker, who doubles as a safety, was injured making a tackle and spent the rest of the evening on the sideline.

"The reason their offense bogged down was because they lost their quarterback. He's a fine talent, I'd hate to think what the score would have been if he had played the whole game."

Irvine stretched its margin with 4:55 left in the third quarter when Jim Miele scored from one yard out to cap a four play 31-yard drive that was aided by 23 yards in San Clemente penalties.

The winners upped the margin to 21-6 in the fourth quarter when Raye found Peter Brantley, his tight end, on 54-yard play-action pass.

It capped an 80-yard drive that used 5:01 in nine plays.

Miele was Irvine's most effective rusher, gaining 92 yards on 16 carries for a 5.7 average, his longest a 25-yard burst.

Foley tossed two scores to wide receiver Mark Craig. The first was a six-yarder that came late in the first period, and the second was a 57-yard bomb in the third quarter.

The remaining Newport scores came on a nifty 18-yard rush by halfback Kevin McClelland, and a 47-yard interception return by Peter Howser.

Tight end John Carlson had another outstanding game for Costa Mesa. The 6-3, 235-pound senior caught eight passes for 90 yards. He hauled in three passes for 43 yards during the Mustangs' 68-yard scoring drive.

Carlson also rushed three times for 10 yards, and averaged 39.8 yards on six punts.

"John was almost our entire offense out there," Baldwin said. "I'd hate to think where we'd be without him."

Trojans rally too late, CdM wins, 27-21

Belle blossoms in second half, but

Uni nipped in bud

By SHARON FRUTOS

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Corona del Mar never seems to have it easy when it comes to University.

No matter the Trojans' record, they always seem to pester the usually higher-ranked Sea Kings.

Friday night proved no exception, as University rebounded from a 21-0 halftime deficit to bother CdM for 21 second-half points. The Sea Kings, however, wouldn't tolerate another loss at the Trojans' hands as they escaped with a 27-21 Sea View League victory at Irvine High.

University (0-3) has taken the last three of five meetings from CdM (2-1), despite the Sea Kings' better records. The Trojans seemed a little late on the upset trail, though, and CdM was able to stymie a late surge.

"We had a letdown on our part and they (Trojans) took advantage of it," Sea Kings Coach Dave Holland said. "They rose to the occasion."

The occasion was University's homecoming, and the rose — even in defeat — turned out to be Craig Belle, the Trojans talented running back.

The 5-11 junior blossomed in the second half to the tune of three touchdowns, including a 95-yard kickoff return that left Corona del Mar reeling.

The initial half saw the Sea Kings rush for 165 yards, with Sean Turner and Chris Warner clearing the path.

Turner followed the lead of QB Mitch Melbon and chipped away at the Trojans' defense. Turner put CdM up, 7-0, with a 2-yard score with 47 seconds remaining in the first period and Chris Greco hit the PAT. Midway through the second quarter, the Sea Kings embarrassed University with Melbon handing off to Turner, who connected with Tod Bearbower on a 17-yard touchdown strike.

CdM would score again before intermission with Warner catching a 40-yarder from Melbon, giving the Sea Kings a healthy 21-0 advantage.

But the halftime fireworks seemed to ignite the Trojans.

Belle scored from six yards two plays after teammate Adam Leiter recovered a Sea King fumble at their 12.

CdM's Turner went in from 1 yard out with five seconds left in the third period and PAT was missed to put the Sea Kings up at 27-7, but Belle took the ensuing kickoff all the way in from his own 5 to make it 27-14.

Mistake-plagued Estancia dropped by Roadrunners

By JOSEPH DUDEVOIR

Daily Pilot Correspondent

The "little things" added up on the wrong side of the ledger for the Estancia High football team Friday night. After another frustrating loss, Eagle Coach Ed Blanton started counting off the mistakes his team made in its 38-14 loss to Saddleback.

Then he stopped counting and said, "It's a million little things. And they add up real quick. Those little things are killing us."

The big ones must hurt as well.

In dropping to 0-3 in Sea View League play (2-4, overall), the Eagles were burned by the big play all night by the Roadrunners.

A crowd of 2,000 at the Santa Ana Bowl saw the Eagles get off on the right foot, though, as linebacker Brian Sherrard ran back an interception 27 yards for a touchdown to give the Eagles their only lead of the night at 7-0. But after that Saddleback rolled and Estancia reeled.

First, a 53-yard bomb from quarterback Myron Butler to wide receiver Danny Ontiveros made it 7-6. Then the Roadrunner defense got even as linebacker Glenn Campbell returned a 58-yard interception to put Saddleback on top for good.

"That interception by Campbell was the key for us," said Saddleback Coach Jerry Witte. "After that, we just rolled."

And Blanton agreed. "That play turned the game," he said. "We just couldn't do anything right after that."

Add another 38-yard scoring throw from Butler to wide receiver Joe Deal and a 72-yard scamper by reserve quarterback Nick Santa Cruz, and you can start counting the Eagles out.

"I just don't know why we keep doing these kinds of things," said Blanton. "We make penalties in crucial situations, we give up big plays on defense, we can't move the ball on big short yardage downs. You can go on and on..."

Saddleback did, until the Eagle offense scored its first touchdown in two games. Tom Gumm pulled in an 11-yard toss from quarterback Sean Kinkade with 2:15 left to make it 38-14.

Estancia had some earlier chances, but mistakes cost the Eagles a few scoring opportunities. A delay of game penalty helped stop a 14-play drive at the Saddleback 31.

Then the Eagles drove 57 yards to the Roadrunner 12-yard line, only to have a 29-yard field goal attempt miss wide left as time ran out in the first half.

In the second half the Eagles drove into Saddleback territory on five occasions, one time all the way down to the 3-yard line, only to turn the ball over on downs.

WOODBIDGE WINS...

From B1

the week was somewhat tarnished because of all the hoopla about the ineligible player.

"Our defense is solid," Noji said. "We gave up a few more points than normally."

Defensive back John Evers helped create problems for Laguna quarterback John Kimball by intercepting two passes, but it was the Warriors' defensive front that made Kimball run for his life most of evening, sacking him three times for a minus 26 yards.

The Artists committed five turnovers — four interceptions and one fumble — but only one turnover indirectly led to a Woodbridge score.

Evers picked off the second of his two interceptions with 10:10 remaining in the third quarter, giving the Warriors excellent field position on the Artists' 43.

Eleven straight running plays and one penalty later Woodbridge broke a 7-7 tie when Dave Townsend scored on a 7-yard run.

Laguna's fourth turnover cost them dearly, and the Warriors rode the momentum they had with 4:40 left in the third quarter when Townsend gave them the lead through the rest of the game.

Woodbridge jumped out to an early 7-0 lead when Townsend ran 29 yards on a trap play to the end zone, climaxing a 12-play drive which accumulated 73 yards and most of the first quarter.

Paul Rodriguez's interception was the only other highlight in the first quarter, but the Artists, who normally rely heavily on fullback Jonathan Todd for the bulk of their running game, used Kimball's arm to get them on the board in the second quarter.

Kimball completed four passes for 52 yards during the Artists' only scoring drive, hitting tight end Kent Chesley with a 23-yard touchdown pass with 4:55 to go to complete it.

Kimball threw for 69 yards, so it's apparent that Woodbridge shut down Laguna's passing attack entirely — except for the one second-quarter scoring drive.

Woodbridge iced its victory with another touchdown early in the fourth quarter. Quarterback John Yurkovich found Evers for a 24-yard touchdown pass with 11:41 to go in the game.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING TO ESTABLISH COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 86-1 AND TO AUTHORIZE THE LEVY OF A SPECIAL TAX WITHIN COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 86-1

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN of the intention of the Board of Education of the Irvine Unified School District to form Community Facilities District No. 86-1 of the Irvine Unified School District for the purpose of providing school facilities ("Facilities") for Community Facilities District No. 86-1 and to authorize the levy of a Special Tax to pay for the facilities. The time and place of the Hearing on the establishment of the District and the authorization to levy tax is 7:30 p.m. October 29, 1985 at 5050 Barranca Parkway, Irvine, California 92714 and at such time the testimony of all interested persons or taxpayers for or against the establishment of the District, the extent of the District or the furnishing of specified types of public facilities or services will be heard. Protests by interested persons or taxpayers may be made orally or in writing. All written protests shall be filed with the Clerk of the Board of Education of the Irvine Unified School District on or before the time fixed for the Hearing, and may be withdrawn in writing at any time before the conclusion of the Hearing. The text of the Resolution of Intention adopted by the Board of Education of the Irvine Unified School District follows.

Helen T. Cameron, Clerk of the Board of Irvine Unified School District

RESOLUTION NO. 85/86-6

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE IRVINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT TO ESTABLISH COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 86-1 AND TO AUTHORIZE THE LEVY OF A SPECIAL TAX WITHIN COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 86-1

WHEREAS, two members of the Board of Education (the "Board") of Irvine Unified School District ("the District") have filed a request with the Board of Education of the Irvine Unified School District to establish Community Facilities District No. 86-1 of the Irvine Unified School District ("Community Facilities District No. 86-1") pursuant to the Mello-Roos Community Facilities Act of 1982, as amended, commencing with Section 53311 of the Government Code (the "Act") to finance the construction, acquisition, modification, rehabilitation and leasing of school facilities including land, as well as modification, rehabilitation or relocation of existing or future facilities, equipment, and appurtenances (the "Facilities") to serve the area of land depicted on attached Exhibit "A" and more fully described on attached Exhibit "B", ("Project Area") which consists of contiguous and non-contiguous areas; and

WHEREAS, it is the intention of the Board of the District to form Community Facilities District No. 86-1 and WHEREAS, the Board further intends to approve an estimate of the costs of the Facilities for Community Facilities District No. 86-1 in the approximate amount of $150,000,000; and

WHEREAS, it is the intention of the Board to finance and construct, modify, relocate, acquire, or lease the Facilities or any combination thereof for the Project Area through the formation of Community Facilities District No. 86-1 subject to the authorization of bonds and the levy of a special tax to pay lease payments, installment purchase payments or other payments, or principal and interest on bonds, being approved at an election to be held within the boundaries of Community Facilities District No. 86-1.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE IRVINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT DOES HEREBY RESOLVE, DETERMINE AND ORDER AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Community Facilities District No. 86-1 is proposed to be established under the terms of the Act. Community Facilities District No. 86-1 shall be as depicted on attached Exhibit "A" and described on attached Exhibit "B".

Section 2. The name of the proposed Community Facilities District shall be "Community Facilities District No. 86-1 of the Irvine Unified School District."

Section 3. The Facilities proposed to be provided, modified or relocated for Community Facilities District No. 86-1 are public facilities as provided for in the Act and as herein described.

Section 4. Except where funds are otherwise available, it is the intention of the Board to levy annually a special tax sufficient to pay for all such facilities including land, and work including, lease payments, installment purchase payments or other payments or obligations or the principal and interest and other periodic costs on bonds proposed to be issued to finance the Facilities and bonds previously issued by Irvine Unified School District including replenishment of a reserve fund, remarketing fees, credit enhancement fees, liquidity facility fees, the costs of administering the levy and collection of the tax including any foreclosure proceedings, architectural, engineering, inspection, legal, fiscal, and financial consultant fees, discount fees, interest on bonds due and payable prior to the expiration of two years from the date of completion of facilities, election costs and all costs of issuance of the bonds, including, but not limited to, fees for bond counsel, bond assurance premiums and printing costs, and all other administrative costs of the tax levy and bond issue. The schedule of the rate and method of apportionment of the special tax is described in detail in Exhibit "C" attached hereto. The tax is based upon the cost of making the Facilities available to each parcel in the project area. The special tax is apportioned to each parcel on the foregoing bases pursuant to Section 53325.3 of the Government Code. In the event that any parcel zoned for residential use within Community Facilities District No. 86-1 undergoes a change of zoning so that it is no longer zoned for residential development at the densities shown on the Facilities Plan placed on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board, or no longer zoned for residential development, the rate and method of apportionment of the special tax specified on Exhibit "C" or as determined by the Board may be applied to such parcel as if it were still zoned for residential development at the densities shown on such plan as of the date of this resolution if necessary to meet the debt service or other obligations of Community Facilities District No. 86-1. In the event that a portion of the property within Community Facilities District No. 86-1 shall become for any reason exempt, wholly or partially, from the levy of the special tax specified on Exhibit "C" or as determined by the Board, the Board shall, on behalf of Community Facilities District No. 86-1 increase the levy to the extent necessary upon the remaining property within Community Facilities District No. 86-1 which is not delinquent or exempt in order to yield the required payments. To the extent that the amounts for each category of land use are not adequate to service the debt on any bonds issued or other indebtedness incurred on behalf of Community Facilities District No. 86-1, the maximum tax rate in each such category shall be proportionately increased.

Section 5. The Board hereby finds that the Facilities are necessary to meet the increased demand put upon the District as a result of the development of the Project Area.

Section 6. A public hearing (the "Hearing") on the establishment of Community Facilities District No. 86-1 and the proposed rate and method of apportionment of the special tax shall be held on October 29, 1985, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. or as soon thereafter as practicable, at 5050 Barranca Parkway, Irvine, California 92714.

Section 7. At such time and place set forth above the Board shall consider:

(a) Whether an ad valorem property tax is currently being levied on property within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1 for the exclusive purpose of paying principal or interest on bonds or other indebtedness, including state school building loans, incurred to finance construction of capital facilities; and

(b) Whether the Facilities to be financed and constructed by Community Facilities District No. 86-1 will provide the same services to the Project Area as were provided by the capital facilities mentioned in Subsection (a); and

(c) If the Board makes the findings specified in subsections (a) and (b) above, it will consider appropriate action to determine that the total annual amount of ad valorem property tax revenue due from parcels within Community Facilities District No. 86-1, for purposes of paying principal and interest on the debt identified in subsection (a) above, shall not be increased after the date on which Community Facilities District No. 86-1 is created, or after a later date determined by the Board with the concurrence of the legislative body which levied the property tax in question.

Section 8. At the time and place set forth in this Resolution any interested person, including all persons owning lands or registered to vote within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1, may appear and be heard.

Section 9. Each District officer who is or will be responsible for providing the Facilities within Community Facilities District No. 86-1, if it is established, is hereby directed to study the proposed district and, at or before the time of the above-mentioned Hearing, file a report with the Board containing a brief description of the public facilities and services by type which will in his or her opinion be required to adequately meet the needs of Community Facilities District No. 86-1 and his or her estimate of the cost of providing those public facilities and services.

Section 10. The Clerk of the Board is hereby directed to publish a notice ("Notice") of the Hearing pursuant to Section 6061 of the Government Code in a newspaper of general circulation published in the area of proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1. Such publication shall be completed at least 7 days prior to the date of the Hearing.

Section 11. The Clerk of the Board is hereby directed to send a copy of the Notice of the Hearing by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to each registered voter and to each landowner within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1 as shown on the last equalized assessment roll. Said mailing shall be completed not less than fifteen (15) days prior to the date of the Hearing.

ADOPTED, SIGNED AND APPROVED this 17th day of September, 1985.

Clerk of the Board of Education of Irvine Unified School District

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING OF INTENTION TO INCUR BONDED INDEBTEDNESS WITHIN COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 86-1

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN of the intention of the Board of Education of the Irvine Unified School District to incur bonded indebtedness in the amount of $150,000,000 within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1 of the Irvine Unified School District for the purpose of providing school facilities ("Facilities") for Community Facilities District No. 86-1 to fulfill school needs resulting from development and/or rehabilitation within Community Facilities District No. 86-1. The time and place of the hearing on the intention to incur bonded indebtedness is 7:30 p.m., October 29, 1985, at 5050 Barranca Parkway, Irvine, California, 92714, and at such time the testimony of all interested persons or taxpayers including persons owning property within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1, for or against the proposed debt issue will be heard. Protests by interested persons or taxpayers may be made orally or in writing. All written protests shall be filed with the Clerk of the Board of Education of the Irvine Unified School District on or before the time fixed for the Hearing, and may be withdrawn in writing at any time before the conclusion of the Hearing. The text of the Resolution of Intention adopted by the Board of Education of the Irvine Unified School District follows.

Helen T. Cameron, Clerk of the Board of the Irvine Unified School District

RESOLUTION NO. 85/86-7

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE IRVINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT TO INCUR BONDED INDEBTEDNESS IN THE AMOUNT OF $150,000,000 WITHIN PROPOSED COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 86-1 OF THE IRVINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT

WHEREAS, the Board of Education (the "Board") of the Irvine Unified School District (the "District") heretofore has adopted Resolution No. 85/86-6, after receiving a request signed by two members of the Board to include the area of land described in said resolution ("the Project Area") within the hereinafter mentioned community facilities district, stating its intention to form Community Facilities District No. 86-1 of the Irvine Unified School District ("Community Facilities District No. 86-1"), pursuant to the Mello-Roos Community Facilities Act of 1982 (the "Act") as amended, to finance the construction, acquisition, rehabilitation and leasing of school facilities including land, equipment, and appurtenances described therein (the "Facilities") to serve the area within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1; and

WHEREAS, the Board estimates that the amount required to finance the Facilities is $150,000,000; and WHEREAS, in order to finance the Facilities it is necessary to incur bonded indebtedness in the amount of $150,000,000.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF IRVINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT DOES HEREBY RESOLVE, DETERMINE AND ORDER as follows:

Section 1. It is necessary to incur bonded indebtedness within the boundaries of proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1 in the amount of $150,000,000 to fund the costs of the Facilities for said District.

Section 2. The indebtedness is incurred for the purpose of financing the costs of designing, constructing and acquiring the Facilities, the acquisition of necessary equipment and property therefor, and the acquisition of funds to fulfill contractual commitments and carry out the powers and purposes of Community Facilities District No. 86-1 including but not by way of limitation, the costs of selling bonds to finance such costs of acquisition and construction.

Section 3. It is the intent of the Board to authorize the sale of bonds in the maximum aggregate principal amount of $150,000,000 at the maximum interest rate permitted by law.

Section 4. A public hearing (the "Hearing") on the proposed debt issue shall be held on October 29, 1985, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. or as soon thereafter as practicable, at 5050 Barranca Parkway, Irvine, California, 92714.

Section 5. At the time and place set forth in this Resolution any interested persons, including all persons owning land or registered to vote within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1 may appear and be heard.

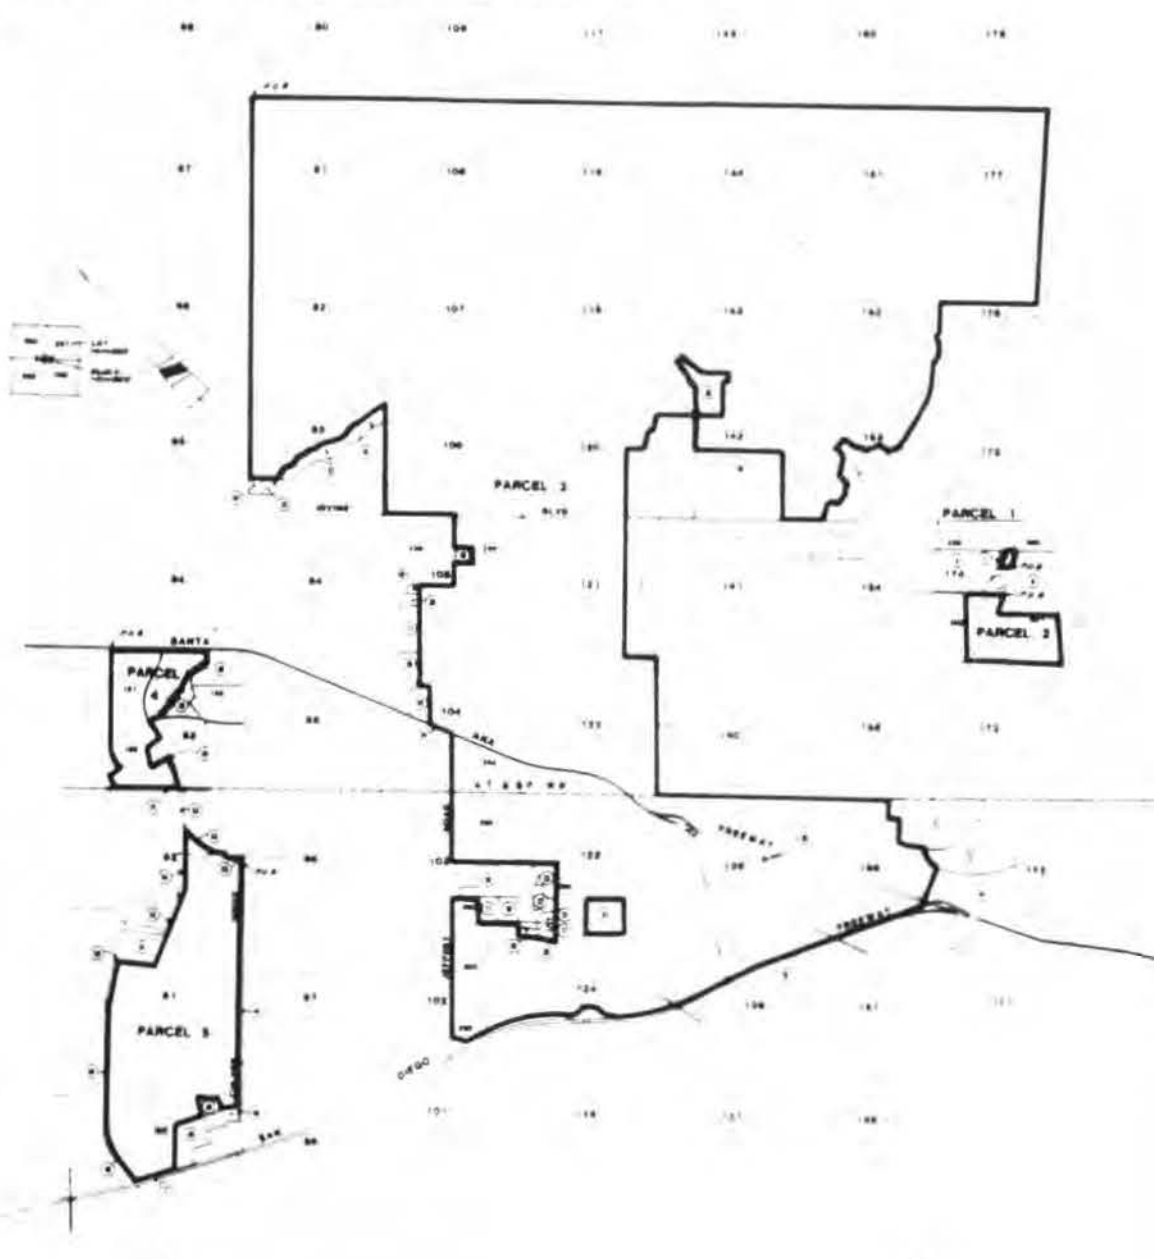

Section 6. The Clerk of the Board is hereby directed to publish a notice ("Notice") of the Hearing pursuant to Section 6061 of the Government Code in a newspaper of general circulation published in the area of proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1. Such publication shall be completed at least 7 days prior to the date of the Hearing.

Section 7. The Clerk of the Board is hereby directed to send a copy of the Notice of the Hearing by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to each registered voter and to each landowner within proposed Community Facilities District No. 86-1 as shown on the last equalized assessment roll. Said mailing shall be completed not less than fifteen (15) days prior to the date of the Hearing.

COMMUNITY FACILITIES SPECIAL TAX FOR COMMUNITY FACILITIES DISTRICT NO. 86-1 OF IRVINE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT

The proposed Special Tax for Community Facilities District No. 86-1 (herein "CFD No. 86-1") shall be levied and collected according to the tax liability determined by the Irvine Unified School District (herein "the District") for each Assessor's Parcel in CFD No. 86-1.

All of the property in the Project Area, for which construction was not completed before January 1, 1986 and property not exempted by law or by these proceedings, shall be taxed for the purposes, and to the extent and in the manner herein provided. (Construction shall be deemed to be completed for the purposes of levying any Special Tax provided for herein when a certificate of occupancy has been issued or improvements are reflected on the local assessment roll whichever shall first occur.) For purposes of determining tax liability, the Special Tax shall be as herein set forth.

The Special Tax shall be levied as herein provided to pay debt service payments for the bonds issued by CFD No. 86-1 or to provide funds for lease or purchase payments in whole or in part as well as funds from bonds, other indebtedness or for payments to modify or relocate present or future school facilities. The term "debt service" shall include, but not be limited to, amounts needed to pay principal of and interest on such bonds, amounts needed to replenish the bond reserve fund for such bonds, amounts to pay the administrative cost of issuing and servicing the bonds, and amounts necessary to collect the Special Tax.

The Special Tax herein provided for shall be levied on all property not excepted or exempt from Special Taxes that is located within CFD No. 86-1.

A. Special Tax.

For purposes of imposing, administering, levying and collecting the herein specified Special Tax all property, not excepted or exempt from the Special Tax, is divided into two (2) groups of properties: developed properties and undeveloped properties. The classes set out below are established for the developed properties. The Special Tax, except as herein otherwise provided, shall be levied and collected according to the designated class or type of the unit as described below at an annual rate shown below for the 1986-87 fiscal year which rate shall increase four percent (4%) per year compounded annually unless the Board of Education subsequently determines that rental, debt service or other payments may be met with the levy of a lesser tax. The rate in effect for the class of unit during the fiscal year a unit is first subject to the tax shall be the rate initially applicable to such unit. Such rate shall continue to increase four percent (4%) per year compounded annually unless the Board of Education subsequently determines that rental and/or debt service payments may be met with the levy of a lesser tax.

Class	Density/Type	Amount/Rates per year
A	0 to and including 8.5 residential units per acre	$550
B	8.6 to and including 13.5 residential units	$500
C	13.6 to and including 20.0 residential units per acre	$450
D	20.1 or more residential units per acre	$400
E	Hotels	$425 per unit
F	Retail	$.25 per square foot of building and structures
G	Office Buildings	$.35 per square foot of buildings and structures
H	Industrial	$.20 per square and structures

The Classes are composed of all property that is developed and constructed on or after January 1, 1986, including residential, office, commercial, industrial, hotels and other types of developed property. Each Assessor's Parcel which is developed as residential property shall be placed into a Class in Classes A through D based on the density of residential development within such Assessor's Parcel. A Parcel shall be placed in the highest possible category relative to density. All office, commercial, industrial and other types of developed property, except residential property, shall be placed in Classes E, F, G and H. (Developed and constructed property shall be deemed to mean office, residential, commercial, industrial and other types of property for which either a certificate of occupancy has been issued or for which improvements are reflected on the local assessment roll.)

For each Assessor's Parcel, which is not excepted or exempt from the Special Tax and which does not fall into any of the above listed (i.e. the undeveloped properties), the Special Tax shall be levied on the basis of the amount of acreage included in the Assessor's Parcel.

The Special Tax shall be levied in the following manner: (1) For each tax year, the Special Tax, in the amounts set forth above, shall be levied on each Assessor's Parcel of property that falls into one of the above-listed Classes (i.e. the developed properties). (2) As to all other property (i.e. the undeveloped properties) within the District, the Special Tax for each tax year shall be levied by (a) determining the amount of money needed to pay the debt service or other payments described in this Resolution for the fiscal year for School Facilities then issued, outstanding or incurred on behalf of the District, (b) subtracting from that amount the total amount of taxes levied on the Assessor's Parcels that fall into the above-listed Classes (i.e. the developed properties) and then (c) determining that difference and dividing it by the number of net acres as shown on the Records of the County Assessor of the County of Orange for property that is not included in one of the above-listed Classes and which is not exempt or excepted from the Special Tax. (d) This amount per acre shall then be multiplied by the number of acres in each Assessor's Parcel which shall result in the amount of the Special Tax for each such Assessor's Parcel. However, as to undeveloped property, in no event shall the Special Tax be greater than three hundred dollars ($300.00) per acre per year.

For developed properties for which the net acreage in Assessor's Parcel exceeds one acre for each residential unit, the amount of net acreage in excess of one acre per residential unit shall be treated as not being included in any of the Classes provided for herein and the Special Tax levied on such property shall be determined on the same basis as the other property that is not included in any of such Classes (i.e. on the acreage basis).

B. Limitations.

The Special Tax shall not be imposed upon property for which construction is completed before January 1, 1986, public properties, open space areas, common areas, property owned by community associations, utility properties belonging to public and private utilities, and properties encumbered with public or utility easements making impractical their utilization for other than the purposes set forth in the easement.

For purposes of determining the net area of Assessor's Parcels that do not fall, for a particular tax year, into any of the Classes set out in paragraphs A and B, the area upon which the Special Tax shall be applied shall be the entire net area of the parcel exclusive of streets but inclusive of all land contained therein irrespective of its topography or usability. If net acreage is not reflected in the Assessor's Records for a Parcel, the acreage shown thereon shall be used.

C. Modification of Special Tax Rate.

The tax rates set forth herein in paragraph A may be decreased when the amount of the total tax levy for a particular tax year on all of the Assessor's Parcels that fall into the Classes set forth in paragraph A becomes greater than the amount of money required to pay for the annual debt service or other payments authorized in this Resolution for that tax year on the bonds then issued or obligations outstanding by the District. The tax rate applicable to each Class shall be reduced proportionately based on the number of parcels in each Class to the point where the amount of the Special Tax levied is sufficient to raise enough funds to pay the described payments.

D. Review/Appeal Board.

The Irvine Unified School District shall establish as part of the proceedings and administration of Community Facilities District No. 86-1 a special three-member review/appeal board. The members of this Board shall be appointed by the Board of Education. The duties of this Board shall be to construe and make determination relative to the administration, including determinations as to density and inclusion in a Class, of the Special Taxes herein specified specified due to any variations, determinations and yearly adjustments.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Matchup ranks among the best

No. 1 Iowa tests
No. 2 Michigan's stubborn defense

From AP dispatches

The first time a team ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press poll team met No. 2 occurred in 1943 when service teams often appeared in the rankings and No. 1 Notre Dame edged No. 2 Iowa Pre-Flight 14-13.

Another No. 1 vs. No. 2 meeting is on tap today, the 19th in the 50 years of the AP rankings. This time, it will be Iowa Post-Flight—or at least Iowa Present-Flight, since the top-ranked University of Iowa Hawkeyes are the country's sixth best passing team and quarterback Chuck Long is third nationally in passing efficiency.

When Iowa entertains runner-up Michigan today, it will be No. 1 against No. 1 as well as No. 1 vs. No. 2. Iowa is the highest scoring team in the nation, averaging 44.2 points a game, and Michigan is the stingiest, yielding only 4.2. In fact, the Wolverines have surrendered only one touchdown in five games.

However, Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler predicts that Long & Co. "will be the greatest challenge for our defense."

The Hawkeyes are sixth nationally in offense, rolling up 469.8 yards a game, with Long completing 106 of 158 passes for 1,288 yards and 15 touchdowns and Ronnie Harmon rushing for 512 yards in five games. Michigan is fourth nationally in total defense (220.0 yards a game), 12th against the rush (99.2) and eighth in passing defense (120.8).

Today's only other contest between members of the AP's Top Twenty finds No. 15 Alabama playing host to No. 20 Tennessee in Birmingham. Meanwhile, third-ranked Oklahoma finally plays its home opener against Miami, Fla., No. 4 Arkansas entertains Texas and fifth-ranked Florida is at home against Southwestern Louisiana.

The rest of the Top Ten are on the road—sixth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, No. 7 Nebraska at Missouri, No. 8 Auburn at Georgia Tech, No. 9 Brigham Young at New Mexico for a night game and No. 10 Air Force at Colorado State.

In the Second Ten, Purdue is at No. 11 Ohio State, Tulsa at No. 13 Florida State at night, Texas A&M at No. 14 Baylor under the lights, No. 16 Georgia at Vanderbilt, Kentucky at No. 17 LSU at night, No. 18 UCLA at Washington State and No. 19 Army at Notre Dame. Twelfth-ranked Oklahoma State is idle.

"I've never been associated with a 1-2 game in the middle of the season," says Iowa Coach Hayden Fry, who has never been associated with any of the six such bowl matchups, either, unless he watched on television.

"It's an important game, the biggest game of the week, but we don't want to put all our eggs in one basket. We have to be realistic. If we don't win, life will continue. I don't want our guys to think it's a matter of life and death. I'd hate to think the game has reached that point."

Ex-TCU players to talk

FORT WORTH (AP) — Four former Texas Christian University football players said they planned to interview with the National Collegiate Athletic Association next week in its continuing investigation of the school.

The four received a written guarantee from TCU on Thursday that their full scholarships will continue until 1987. The former players' attorney, Spencer Kopf, and TCU counsel Marcus Ginsburg reached an agreement on the scholarships.

"The school had represented to the public that it intended to fulfill the scholarships," said Kopf. "But that's not what was in writing. Only after two attorneys negotiated did the players get the guarantee the school said it was offering."

The former players, Egypt Allen, Marvin Foster, Gary Spann and Gerald Taylor, said they will cooperate fully with the NCAA investigation.

They were among seven players suspended in September by TCU Coach Jim Wacker for taking cash payments from boosters. University officials turned down their requests to be reinstated to the football team.

The agreement signed by the former players provides that TCU's administration will offer the scholarships as long as the players maintain a 2.0 grade point for academic eligibility.

Jinx no concern to Riley

Lakers' coach isn't worried about past champs' failures

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers are preparing for the upcoming National Basketball Association season, determined not to buckle under the weight of the championship crown.

Since the 1968-69 season, 16 teams have failed to successfully defend their title. The Lakers and the Boston Celtics, the last repeat champions, each have come up empty three times during that stretch.

Lakers Coach Pat Riley said the team isn't concerned about the pattern.

"We're not going to focus on why teams didn't repeat, we're not going to take that frame of mind," said Riley, who has won two NBA titles in his four years on the Lakers' bench. "Because if we do that, we'll only talk about what it takes to lose."

"We want to concentrate on the season, what it takes to get to the playoffs, get through the playoffs and finish in the finals."

Last year, the Lakers rolled through the regular season with a 62-20 mark. After dispatching Phoenix, Portland and Denver in the playoffs, they beat the Celtics in six games in the finals.

"One of the keys to success is durability, both mentally and physically," said Riley, whose club was virtually injury-free last season.

Standout guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson said the Lakers have to maintain last year's level of play, but some things will be out of their control.

"Luck plays a lot in it, avoiding injuries and things like that," Johnson said. "Not only in repeating, but in winning. You have to be lucky, blessed, to win it all."

"It's no secret what you have to do to repeat. It's hard to win it, harder to repeat." Physical durability may be the most important and yet elusive key to repeating. Each of the last three NBA champions have been nagged by injuries the following year.

The 1981-82 Lakers were without Bob McAdoo for the final 32 regular-season games and lost forward James Worthy for the playoffs.

After winning the 1982-83 title, the Philadelphia 76ers were not at their best during the playoffs the following season with guard Maurice Cheeks slowed by a bad knee.

The 1983-84 champion Celtics lost Cedric Maxwell to a knee injury and their star, Larry Bird, was plagued throughout the playoffs by a bad elbow.

"Anytime you have an injury, it disrupts the team," said Laker forward Kurt Rambis. "It doesn't necessarily have to be a star. It can be any player who played with a group of guys and that group played well together. If you're missing a piece of the puzzle, things just don't roll as well."

Johnson has said during the preseason that, with the addition of veteran Maurice Lucas and rookie A.C. Green, a pair of forwards, the Lakers have the capability of being a better team than last season.

"On paper it could be," Riley said. "But that doesn't mean anything."

"Maurice Lukas and A.C. Green figure to play a lot. It will be how they blend in that counts. If they do, then I think we will be a better team (than last year)."

Umpires' hearing postponed

Site of meetings now in New York, to begin Monday baseball changed the playoff format from best-of-five games to best-of-seven.

Nixon said previously that the two sides were "not that far apart."

He said he was chosen as arbitrator because, "First, I'm a baseball fan," but also because of his role as arbitrator in a 1960 steel dispute. "My experience in this area goes back many years," he said.

A year ago, the umpires went on strike before the playoffs, staying out until the decisive fifth game of the National League series. College and sandlot umpires were used to fill in until the regulars returned when Commissioner Peter Ueberroth agreed to arbitrate the issue.

Ueberroth's settlement gave each of the 12 umpires working the league playoffs $10,000 for assignment to those best-of-five series, and provided for a $160,000 pool to be distributed among the other umpires.

Olympic city hopefuls confident

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The final two candidates bidding for the 1992 Olympic Games — Anchorage, Alaska and Birmingham, England — expressed confidence Friday after their presentations at a meeting of the International Olympic Committee.

In remarks to reporters after separate 15-minute meetings with the IOC's Executive Board, members of both delegations described the sessions as "very good."

Anchorage Organizing Committee President Dave Baumeister said the U.S. group's presentation "didn't lose the executive board's attention at all" throughout the meeting. "I think they were very curious about Anchorage," he said.

Denis Howell, president of the Birmingham Olympic Council, was pleased after the British group's presentation, claiming: "I think we've had a successful week here in Lisbon. If I were a bookmaker, I'd be shortening the odds (on Birmingham holding the Games)."

Anchorage and Birmingham were the last of 14 cities to formally open their candidacies for the 1992 Olympic Games.

Washington can pad its Pacific-10 lead with win

From AP dispatches

The University of Washington figures to have no problem extending its lead in the Pacific-10 Conference football race today when the Huskies entertain Oregon State.

Washington, 3-0 in Pac-10 play and 4-2 overall, was listed as a whopping 37-point favorite over the Beavers, who are 1-2 and 2-4.

The Huskies are one of only two teams unbeaten in Pac-10 action. The other is Arizona, which plays a non-conference game.

The Oregon State-Washington contest is one of four Pac-10 games scheduled today. In the others, 18th-ranked UCLA, 2-1 and 4-1-1, plays at Washington State, 2-2 and 2-4; Stanford, 0-2 and 1-4, is at Southern Cal, 1-1 and 2-2, and California, 0-4 and 2-4, is at Oregon, 2-1 and 2-3.

A pair of non-conference games involving Pac-10 teams are scheduled tonight — Arizona, 2-0 and 4-1, entertains San Jose State, a Pacific Coast Athletic Association team with a 1-3 league record and a 1-5 overall mark, and Arizona State, 1-1 and 3-2, hosts another PCAA team, Utah State, which is 2-3 in league play and 2-4 overall.

NEW LISTING - LIDO ISLE

We have just listed a charming Lido Isle home that has to be one of the best buys around. Located on one of the Island's nicest streets, the lot is forty-five feet wide and offers tremendous potential for expansion or remodeling. There is an existing very livable Lido Isle charmer with a south-facing patio, two bedrooms, two baths, family room and a cozy fireplace in the living room. The best news is you can have all of it for only $345,000.

LIDO ISLE BAYFRONT DUPLEX

Two bayfront homes for the price of one! Built as a duplex with four bedrooms and four baths in the main residence plus two bedrooms and one bath in the second. Both homes have excellent bay views. There is a great sandy beach right in front and an association-owned boat dock nearby where you can greet your yachting guests. Offered at $1,150,000

FIFTY-FIVE FEET ON LIDO ISLE BAYFRONT

Situated on the east end of Lido Isle, this distinctive contemporary home has five bedrooms, five and one-half baths, including a maid's room and bath. A large formal dining room, family room and breakfast area completes the living quarters. A much desired four-car garage is one of the numerous amenities. Waterfront patios of generous proportions offer the opportunity for gracious outdoor entertaining. The existing dock and slip will accommodate a large boat, and may be enlarged. Southern exposure ensures the maximum enjoyment of this choice estate. Offered at $3,750,000

BIG CANYON COUNTRY CLUB

Ideally located overlooking the third tee, fairways, lakes and greens are included in the view from this distinctive golf course estate. Custom built and occupied by the original owner, this warm and cheerful home offers four bedrooms, three and one-half baths, plus a spacious yard, pool and spa. The owner has moved and would like to sell this home. Offered at $1,200,000

BIG CANYON COUNTRY CLUB

We are convinced that this is one of the better buys in Big Canyon. It's a Deauville model Deane home, with three bedrooms, three baths and a den that could be a fourth bedroom or maid's room. The original owners have given their home meticulous and loving care, and it shows! There are lots of amenities including a spa, steam bath, air conditioning, built-in Bar-B-Q and much, much more. Now offered at only $550,000

DOVER SHORES BAYFRONT

Warmth and charm are the first visual impressions as you approach the front of this home where used brick is generously applied. There is a bayfront living room with deeply toned architectural wood paneling, marble fireplace, french doors and towering ceilings. Five bedrooms plus four and one-half baths, and a large used brick patio facing the bayfront where a 50 foot yacht may be accommodated. Offered at $1,175,000

Biweekly mortgages not for Yuppies only

MIAMI — The Yuppie mortgage may not be just for young urban professionals after all.

Biweekly payment of mortgages may eventually replace the traditional monthly payment through a new program designed to cut down dramatically on interest while drastically reducing time of payments.

Doug Gallagher, who has written numerous articles on mortgage banking and real estate financing for the nation's business magazines, tells how the new biweekly mortgages work and points out some of the advantages and disadvantages.

The most obvious advantage resulting from biweekly mortgage payments, Gallagher said, is the saving of $58,000 or 3 percent on a $50,000, 30-year loan.

Another advantage of the biweekly mortgage is that it is paid off in about 19 years instead of 30.

That's not all, said Gallagher. The program results in rapid net equity accumulation and generally will obtain lower interest rates and fees to the lender.

And that does not take into consideration the convenience of automatic mortgage remittance.

For the lender, biweekly mortgages also offer some advantages, Gallagher said.

There's the paperless mortgage remittance by debit from depository account; notification on a problem account by internal exception report reflecting defaults immediately; opportunities for total account relationship, cross selling borrower for depository institution; potential market share if lender offers biweekly loan early, and, early repayment term will likely lend itself to secondary market resale and/or securitization.

There are some disadvantages for the borrower, Gallagher also points out.

He may not like the increased total yearly payments for housing required, which may result in slightly lower maximum loan amount when normal underwriting ratios are figured or a biweekly loan.

Other disadvantages are effect that the reduction of interest has on income tax deductions. Moreover, it may be more difficult to qualify.

"The biggest disadvantage," said Gallagher, "concerns the potential servicing nightmare."

This can be limited, he said, by processing of remittances through an automated clearinghouse which would mitigate the disadvantage of more frequent payments.

According to John Khuri of the marketing department of Johnstown Savings Bank, Johnstown, Pa., that institution is doing 80 percent of its mortgage business on a biweekly basis and their business has doubled in the past year since introducing the biweekly mortgages.

Rental furniture can be inexpensive way to fill empty rooms

If you are sitting on an orange crate in the middle of the home of your dreams reading the furniture ads in your local newspaper, don't despair.

Visit your local furniture rental showroom instead. Begin to fill those empty rooms with soft chairs, stunning tables and elegant chests (with abundant drawers to stash away your mortgage slips).

Rental furniture is becoming the easy answer to the near-empty pockets and rooms that heavy down payments and mortgages are leaving new homeowners.

Renting home furnishings solves some particular problems that moving to a home of your own poses.

The furniture you bring with you often is not up to the standards of your new home in style or size. Often it has been selected and purchased to fill immediate and temporary needs.

Now, with a home that may have a personality built into its walls, you are finding that the two are not meshing. A sofa that had served well in an apartment living room ends up in a basement den. And tables and chairs that were your company-best in former times now fill up a bare room.

How does that leave your living room, your dining area? Mostly empty — watching your savings account.

Until you can recoup from the financial trauma of buying your first home, consider filling this beloved home with rented furniture that reflects the same taste you displayed when you chose your house.

Furniture rental showrooms in cities and towns across the nation have room displays to give you infinite ideas of ways to furnish your home. The showrooms will put before your eyes a vast selection of styles and fabrics and woods. Call 800-FOR-RENT for a list of showrooms by state.

Perhaps the decision to choose a house has exhausted your ability to choose. Then try out what you think might work. There is no commitment, so the decision is not permanent.

Move some country furniture into your Cape Cod home and see how it sits in your environment.

Or perhaps a more contemporary line would be more interesting. Are you up to mixing up an eclectic potpourri? Since the selection you make is not necessarily permanent, you can test your taste temporarily as you rebuild your bank account, getting ready for the time when you will want to purchase.

Pieces of furniture, or whole room units, are available, as you see them in the showrooms, for periods of your choice from one month to many years. After renting furniture for longer periods you might wish to consider the economies of applying the rental payments to the purchase. Most rental companies will provide credit for at least part of your rental payments.

Renting home furnishings is gentle on your bank account. For an average of $60 per month, estimated by the Furniture Rental Association of America (FRAA), the industry group that represents nearly 75 percent of all furniture rental business transacted in America, you can fully furnish a living room, dining room and bedroom. For that amount of monthly payment, you could only hope to purchase a sofa or a bedroom set.

According to FRAA, more than half a million homes in this country are now furnished with rental furniture, reflecting the burdens inflicted by increased costs of furniture and housing, inflated finance charges and mortgage rates. The popularity of rental furniture also reflects the needs homeowners have for a way to fill in while tastes are developing and the desire to commit to a style becomes full blown.

Furniture rental allows homeowners to make wise investments in housing by giving new homeowners an alternative to holding back down payment money for furniture purchases, to going without furniture to making do with old furnishings in new surroundings.

By renting furnishings, new homeowners can postpone an investment in furniture until they can study the market and scout out the best buys. As much

Fannie Mae OKs tough guidelines for loans with low down payment

The Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) has tightened eligibility requirements for persons buying homes with less than a 10 percent down payment, effective last Tuesday.

The changes restrict a borrower's anticipated housing expense (principal and interest taxes and insurance on the loan) to not more than 25 percent of gross monthly income. Furthermore, housing expense coupled with total installment debt may not exceed 33 percent of gross monthly income. (Previously these ratios were 28 and 36 percent respectively.)

The changes may shut some first time homebuyers out of the market or cause them to settle for a smaller home for the money. Mortgage bankers anticipate FHA loan programs will become more attractive alternatives as a result of the tightened ratios.

Karl Mendenhall, senior vice president of marketing for the mortgage banking firm of Cameron-Brown Co., said the tightened ratios "will have the same effect as if interest rates rose 2 percent."

"This means a borrower who under the old ratios qualified for a $60,000 loan will now be eligible for only a $54,000 loan or will have to have 12 percent additional annual income to qualify for the larger amount."

D'Arlin's new planning chief

Michelle Camille d'Arlin has been promoted to the position of director of planning and development for Ponderosa Homes. D'Arlin has been with Ponderosa since 1983, most recently as manager of planning and development. She is also president of the Home Builders Council and a director of the Building Industry Association of Southern California and the BIA's Orange County region.

David P. Baker has been named manager of Lynne Valentine Properties, Inc., a Newport Beach real estate firm. The Laguna Beach resident is an active member of the Newport Beach-Costa Mesa Board of Realtors, the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and the Industrial League of Orange County. Lynne Valentine, owner and broker of the firm, has also announced top producers for 1984. They include: Marie Fargo, Todd Gross and Sue Thomas, all of Newport Beach.

Michelle d'Arlin

Homes Inc., the United States subsidiary of London-based John Laing plc (public limited company), spoke to British home builders in London recently. Laing talked about eight Southern California housing developments as part of an address on trends in American home design.

Judy Redman has been named Top Salesperson of the Month for September at Coldwell Banker Residential Real Estate Services' Huntington Beach office. Redman has been with the firm for one year.

Timothy L. Unger, president of John Laing

Award winner

Carol Jeffs receives an award for outstanding sales from Clark Cornman, vice president of sales for Great Western Real Estate. Jeffs, who works out of the Newport Beach office, has been a member of the company's winners circle for years, and has twice been office salesperson of the year. She is a Newport Harbor area resident.

First Team awards 4 trips

The right answer earned four Orange Coast residents a free Hawaiian vacation in the First Team Walk-In Realty Hawaii Vacation Contest, reports Cam Meraj, president of the Costa-Mesa based firm.

"The winners in each of our four satellite offices were the 25th callers, with the right answer taken from our newspaper advertising during the contest," said Meraj. Each received a trip package valued at more than $750.

The winners: Gerald Edick and Janice Frohm of Huntington Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Lindsey of Irvine; and David Adams of Mission Viejo.

The four will be treated to air fare, plus seven days and nights in Waikiki at the Miramar Hotel.

To bend, grip or cut, proper choice is plier

By ANDY LANG
Associated Press

If you want something held, bent, gripped, turned, cut, the chances are you need pliers.

Shop for a pair and you are likely to be bewildered by the almost endless variety of shapes and sizes, but can get by in your home workshop with three or four unless you are engaged in some special kind of project or hobby.

The kind most commonly used in the house is the slip-joint type. When the pivot is in one position, the jaws can grip a small object. Larger items can be held when the pivot is moved to a second position. In some pliers, a third position can be used for still larger objects. In some cases, pliers can be used in place of a small wrench, generally it is better not to do so. A damaged bolt or nut may be the result. If you have a small wrench, use it.

Slip-joint pliers have jaws which are irregularly shaped to provide a better gripping surface. This irregularity is known as "milled," although the term is seldom used except among professionals. It is because of this mill that the use of pliers instead of a small wrench can cause damage.

Within the slip-joint category are many different types of pliers. There are combination slip-joints, pliers with grips, thin bent nosers, straight nosers and others. They are usually for special jobs. However, combination slip-joint pliers is handy if you need regular pliers with cutting edges. The cutting edges enable you to cut strip wire or similar materials. Many workmen have regular slip-jointers plus extra cutters. The combination has both in one tool.

Firms reclaims items from old buildings to be used as decorations

By BARBARA MAYER
Associated Press

It's easy to see why outlets for architectural artifacts are fascinating. Where else can you find an 18-foot pawnbroker's sign or the ticket booth off an old movie theater or an 8-foot-high "ear of corn" made of sheet-metal painted brown and yellow?

All these items, as well as claw-footed bathtubs, pedestal sinks, stained-glass window panels, mantels and old doors were on sale recently at the lower Manhattan showroom of the Great American Salvage Co.

The company is one of a number in many parts of the country that reclaim the usable parts of buildings that are coming down. Today's interest in renovating and recycling buildings has created a demand for the artifacts, according to Stephen Israel, who opened Great American Salvage in 1979. The firm has outlets in Montpelier, Vt., and in Jacksonville, Fla., as well as in New York and will travel virtually anywhere to salvage a building.

While customers for the grander and more outlandish items tend to be mainly film and theater companies and advertising agencies, most buyers are consumers who use the artifacts as decorative elements in their homes.

Peter Kamenstein, who is building a house in New York's Westchester County, for example, recently bought almost the entire front of a Stanford White mansion that once stood in Middlebury, Conn., for use in a soon-to-be constructed home.

The Kamensteins acquired an entryway, the main staircase, some Palladian windows, interior and exterior doors with their original solid brass knobs, all the porch columns and the granite steps from the front porch, as well as a few pedestal sinks. A major objective in seeking these artifacts was to build a home that doesn't look new.

Melinda Davis, a New York advertising executive, filled her 200-year-old house in upstate New York with architectural oddments from Great American Salvage. She has an old-fashioned shower basin, several pedestal sinks, a butcher block and some meat hooks from a real Vermont butcher shop. Pots and bunches of dried herbs now hang from the hooks in her kitchen.

"The house is 200 years old and I wanted the interior to reflect that past," said Ms. Davis. Most of the former old details had been removed in earlier attempts at what is known as "remuddling." So purchasing the artifacts from other old places was the only solution to restoring the house's history, she explained.

For many like her, the value of architectural oddments is that they bring a house back to what it once was.

For Pam Geiger, however, the elements she used in the transformation of her Long Island bungalow gave a house the charm it never had. Among her purchases was a whole downstairs flooring that helped provide some badly needed atmosphere.

According to Israel, prices have been going up for artifacts that some years ago cost next to nothing or even were available for the taking. However, he added, they still go for less than the same quality of workmanship would cost today.

The Kamensteins agree. They paid

Peter Kamenstein, who is building a house in New York's Westchester County, for example, recently bought almost the entire front of a Stanford White mansion that once stood in Middlebury, Conn., for use in a soon-to-be constructed home.

over $25,000 for their Stanford White facade, but Kamenstein says it would cost between $50,000 and $60,000 to duplicate just the staircase.

While the prices Davis paid were not low — she spent about $1,000 for an oval pedestal sink, for example — she feels comparable decorative pieces would not be available today at any price.

Prices vary depending on the condition and quality of the artifacts and, to some extent, on the difficulty of removing them. Great American Salvage reconditions most of what the company sells, maintaining a workshop in its Montpelier headquarters where pieces can be repaired or rebuilt.

Items in original condition or those still on a house, which you take off yourself, are likely to be less costly. However, authorities advise caution if you plan to do the removal yourself.

In some cases, removal may be dangerous and in others, paint or other coverings may mask a serious flaw such as dry rot or warping.

Ms. Geiger, for instance, learned the hard way that cutting doors down to size, can lead to problems. If the door has already been trimmed (as many older doors have been) there may not be enough of a sturdy frame to trim anymore. Beware of so-bargains, she said. A reputable dealer will tell you if something you're planning to buy will be costly to install, but you must decide to go ahead anyway, as she did with her floor.

The cost was worth it because she ended up with a beautiful floor that couldn't be purchased today," she concluded.

Villa Del Obispo opens

The retirement village of Villa Del Obispo in San Juan Capistrano is the fifth retirement villa developed and managed by California Retirement Villages, Inc. A sixth such villa is under construction in Mission Viejo, with a complete date of March 1986.

Other facilities are located in Placentia, Fullerton, Encinitas and San Diego.

Oriental designs have rich heritage

Americans sometimes seem to have an "interior" complex since so many design inspirations have come from France and England.

But, says designer Ray Sobota, perhaps we'd be less intimidated if we realized that many of the French and English designs are themselves based on Oriental motifs.

"The Chinese invented the cabriole and much else besides," says Sobota, director of design for Century Furniture. Furthermore, he adds, many of the illustrious designers of history — such as Chippendale, for example — drew heavily from the Chinese.

According to Sobota, fretwork, which is characteristic of much 18th century English furniture, is one of the least-recognized Oriental borrowings. Western furniture designers and artists found the ornamental detailing and patterns on Chinese architecture so interesting that they used them as repetitive cut-out patterns to add interest to furniture. Fretwork is found as a design element on paper and fabric, too.

Chinese motifs appeared not only on furniture, but also on 18th century silver, tea, textiles and architecture. In fact, the cult of Chinese decoration was so widespread that the term "chinoiserie" was invented to describe it.

While the Chinese influence was at its peak in England and also flourished in France, the young nation of America in the 18th and 19th centuries was also influenced. Besides the obvious motifs of pagodas and Oriental-garbed figures, examples of chinoiserie include the flowers, trees and bushes of China, such as the mulberry, the peony and the willow.

Today, the enthusiasm that began in the 18th century has re-emerged as Oriental style home furnishings once again become popular. Today's interior designers use the style as it was always used: to lend distinction to a faceless interior, to provide a bit of color in a drab room, to suggest formality and richness.

One of the special advantages of decorating with Oriental-style furnishings is the ability to create both traditional and contemporary settings with them. Chinese-inspired pieces such as lacquer screens, Oriental rugs and ebony and ivory furniture and accessories are timeless and are likely to remain fresh and attractive for many years.

Perhaps one reason for the richness of Chinese designs is their symbolic content, which may lend power to the furnishings. Animals, birds and elements of nature are not merely pretty designs to the Chinese; each has a particular meaning. For example, the dragon represents the deity and has been the symbol of the Chinese emperor since about 200 B.C. Before 1912, when China became a republic, the five-clawed dragon was used only on rugs made for the emperor or important princes. Others had to be content with a four-clawed dragon.

Foo dogs are probably one of the most familiar Chinese depictions on rugs as well as in bronze. The Foo (or Fu) dog is the companion of Buddha whose Chinese name is Fu. Elements of nature such as the sea and mountains symbolize luck and a long life. Butterflies stand for luck while fish mean abundance. Tortoises also indicate long life while stags are supposed to stand for well being.

Although the symbols figure commonly in Oriental rugs (which remain today the most popular area rugs sold) they are also found on Coromandel screens. The screens, which come in many sizes ranging from one or two panels to room size with up to 12 panels, feature ornate landscape scenes. Today they are used just as in the past — in place of pictures on a wall, as free-standing screens, or to replace the doors of an important armoire or other type of cabinet.

Shading devices cut heating costs

It's autumn — that time of year when football starts, hot weather ends, and many people begin thinking about furnaces, wood-burning stoves and other ways of heating their home.

For those homeowners with greenhouses, sunspaces, or other rooms with large glass areas, it's also time to think about saving on heating bills through the use of passive solar energy. But before you open your home to the sun, maybe you should open your eyes to some potential problems.

The low-lying winter sun may provide free heat to a room, but intense sunlight can also overheat a room or fade the colors in rugs, upholstered furniture, and other fabrics. In addition, winter sunlight causes glare which may make it difficult to read, watch television, or enjoy other activities.

One way to avoid excessive heat and glare and to protect rugs and furniture is to use shading devices such as sun screens, awnings, or rolling shutters. These devices let sunlight in when you want to benefit from solar energy, but keep sunlight out when the room gets too hot, when glare gets too bad or when you fear fabrics may become damaged.

A good way to get maximum solar benefits and avoid other problems, says Somfy Systems, Inc., a manufacturer of motors for sun screens and other shades, is to let the sunlight in between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. — and when the sun is its hottest — allowing for sufficient solar-energy benefits.

After 2 p.m., the sun begins to set and the lower angle increases glare. This is a good time to lower sun screens, says Somfy. Not only will the heat and glare be eliminated, but fabrics will avoid three to four additional hours of exposure to the sun's rays.

Motorized sun screens and rolling shutters are easier to operate, says Somfy. At the touch of a button, the motors raise or lower them to provide sunlight or shade when needed. Motors can also be hooked up to sun-wind sensors or programmable timers for automatic operation.

Love of food can help decorate a home

By The Associated Press

Many women dress in red, yellow and blue, but have homes that are decorated primarily in neutral colors.

"They've been taught that color is fine for clothes, but not for rooms," said interior designer Elaine Ryan.

She advises against taking the easy way out by choosing neutrals and instead sends her clients into the supermarket's fresh fruit and vegetable section to discover what colors they really like.

"The supermarket test came from my love of food,"

she said. She theorizes that if you like the taste of a fruit or vegetable, you will also like its color on your plate, in your clothes closet and in your living room. The taste and color of foods are so closely associated, she added, that they are almost inseparable. "Think of the names we give our colors — lime green, lemon yellow, plum, tomato red."

"Once you have found your true colors, you can begin to integrate them into your home. Suppose you discover that you love the purple of eggplant and the green in broccoli. Look for a fabric in which these colors predominate and cover a sofa or a chair."

Old toys add decorative touch to a room

by BARBARA MAYER
Associated Press

Are there toys in your attic? Before you bundle them up for the next charity rummage sale, examine them more closely.

Toys such as dolls, trains, cars and boats and even old games and plastic figures from the 1950s are finding their way into the living room as decorative accessories. Not only are toys that were made originally for children being used, but, in addition, contemporary artist-made toys are now being shown and sold in galleries and shops.

Besides being colorful, unusual, and appealing to today's nostalgia for the past, old toys and dolls are fine for making personal decorating "statements" at a time when the personal approach to home decor is quite popular, according to interior designer Rebecca Davidoff, of Stamford, Conn., a board member of the American Society of Interior Designers.

Furthermore, adds Dana Hawkes, director of the collectibles department of the New York auction house, Sotheby's, old toys as collectibles are keeping pace with inflation.

Davidoff recently furnished an old-fashioned armoire with dolls, thereby creating a focal point in a sitting room for a client. The woman, already a doll collector, derived special pleasure from the display. As for the decorative value of the armoire, whose interior was lined with fabric on which the dolls are placed, "the eyes of everyone who enters the room go immediately to the piece," she said.

While the toys used as decorative accessories are more commonly old, some are made by contemporary artists. According to Suzanne Vanderwoude, of Vanderwoude Tanenbaum Gallery in New York, toys being made by artists are snapped up for decorating purposes. One reason is that while toys are just as imaginative as other products of artists' imaginations, they are often less expensive than more traditional pieces.

Last year the gallery hosted its second annual toy invitational exhibition after a first try in 1983 produced good sales, publicity and attendance. Prices ranged from $25 to $2,500, but most of the objects in the shows cost between $300 and $600.

"There is a tradition of artists making toys either for their own children or for fun," said Vanderwoude. Perhaps the best-known recent artist-made toys are Alexander Calder's circus mobiles. But gallery personnel found that many artists have made toys used primarily for display over the years.

Davidoff offers some advice to individuals who want to employ toys as decorative accessories. "Keep the backgrounds simple but create an environment in which the toys can be displayed." Remember you need more than one to create an effect; one toy should play off the others so the collection becomes more than the sum of its parts, she said.

Arrange the lighting to highlight the toys and employ the same principles as in arranging any decorative objects, grouping items of similar size, function, color or shape. Furniture and other surfaces which look great with toys include bookcases, glass-fronted display cases, tabletops and armoires. You might choose to arrange a group of toys on a mantelpiece, or a soft table.

What type of toys are the most popular? Alexander Acevedo, who has added a toy annex to his art gallery in New York, said transportation toys remain the most popular. They seem to be especially appealing to men who are not tempted by other types of home accessories.

Acevedo, a toy collector himself, prefers trains, boats, cars and planes.

"A doll just sits there and whines, but you can play with a car or a boat," he said. Furthermore, toy cars are part of the American love affair with the automobile.

You could pay $22,000 for a 19th century painted tin boat — as Acevedo did at a Sotheby's auction recently. Or, he said, you could collect toys for much less. Among inexpensive contemporary collectibles are small die-cast cars and battery-operated items from the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s.

Toy "royalty," which naturally commands higher prices, are items made before World War I. Dale Kelley, of Chicago, founder and editor of Antiquary Toy World Magazine, said there's almost nothing not being collected today. Kelley, who has been collecting toys ever since he can remember, finds that interest in toys among adults has never been higher.

Subdivision application forms to be revised by state task force

A Task Force has been formed to review and revise subdivision application forms for the state Department of Real Estate, Commissioner James A. Edmonds Jr. has announced.

California Real Estate Law generally requires subdivision developers to apply for and obtain a final subdivision public report from the Department of Real Estate before subdivided property can be offered for sale.

The last major revisions, which took place before Edmonds assumed office, were in response to incompleteness and lack of clarity in earlier versions of the application forms. "The trouble is, those revisions resulted in some subdivision questionnaires growing to 62 pages in length. I believe we can do better, much better," the commissioner said.

In addition to top-level managers and analysts representing the DRE, industry representatives have been included on the task force. Among them: Ray Becker Lusk Homes; Susan Mills, First American Title Co.; Mike Shaw, Lewis Homes of California; and Diane Zapalac, Founder Title Co.

Lawsuits over defects boosting housing costs

by I. BARRY BLAXBERG and MARK T. REEVES

MIAMI — In recent years, the housing construction industry has experienced a dramatic increase in litigation arising from alleged construction and design defects.

The impact has been felt by virtually every occupation and profession tied to the housing industry — from developers, surveyors and lenders to architects, engineers, contractors and local governments.

Though exact figures are difficult to pinpoint, lawsuits involving the housing industry already may add $3,000 to $10,000 to the price of a $100,000 home.

To what extent should the housing and construction industry be liable for defects and imperfections found in housing?

Most in the industry agree that firms or individuals producing shoddy or dangerously defective design or construction work should be liable for the resulting damages.

However, the industry also generally agrees that no construction project is perfect, nor would the cost of building such a flawless project be acceptable to the consumer.

Those directly involved in the planning and design of housing, particularly architects and engineers, often are drawn into litigation even though their services may not have been in any way involved in whatever caused a defect or injury. That's because an aggrieved party often will "sue everyone involved" so that completely innocent architects, contractors or engineers get caught up in a costly problem that isn't their fault.

Industry analysts complain that skilled craftsmen, once numerous, are now few and far between and generally have been replaced by unskilled workers. Furthermore, the contracting or subcontracting companies that employ such workers are often shortlived, undercapitalized or poorly insured.

Consequently, this often leaves the original developers and/or architects "holding the bag" for defects that may not become apparent for years. Accordingly, the design professions have seen significant increases in their insurance premiums.

The legal climate today in the home construction industry can only be characterized as unsettled. The long-term economic impact may be even more significant. At all levels of the building industry, firms and companies faced with ever-rising costs for litigation and insurance premiums may well leave the market.

It can be said with some certainty that those involved in the construction industry, from the largest subdivision developer to the smallest masonry subcontractor, will continue to face greater numbers of lawsuits. And this ultimately will raise the price of the average family home to the consumer.

Barry Blaxberg is a principal and Mark T. Reeves a registered architect and an attorney with the Miami law firm of Sparber, Shevin, Shapo & Heilbronner.

Should old shingles be replaced, or new layer simply added?

By ANDY LANG
Associated Press

Q. — My house has an asphalt-shingled roof which is showing signs of wear and will need to be replaced soon. The house is about 16 years old and has the original roof. I've talked with roofers and homeowners who believe the entire roof should be replaced and with others who say that putting on a second layer of shingles (legal in this area) is all that is needed. How do I go about making this decision?

A. — This is a question that keeps popping up all the time. As has been explained before, the decision can only be made by a roofer who has gone up on the roof and examined everything carefully. The question is always the same — is the framework sufficiently strong to support a second layer? Since your house has the original layer of shingles on it, the chances are it can handle a second layer. But you still need an opinion from somebody who has inspected the roof and bases his opinion on what he sees, not from somebody who gives you an off-the-cuff decision.

Q. — I think there may be a leak around the flashing at a vent pipe going through our roof. To make sure, I plan on adding some asphalt roofing cement around the pipe where it comes out of the roof. I am hopeful this won't do any damage in the event I am wrong and there is no leak.

A. — Go ahead with the roofing cement. It can help but not hurt the situation. Just be sure you don't poke any holes in the cement already there.

Q. — I live in a warm climate and have a white roof on my house. It is somewhere between 15 and 20 years old. Lately it has started to develop some kind of fungus on it. I am about ready to have the roof resingled with the same kind of white asphalt shingles, but now I am beginning to wonder whether I should get white. Can you give me some advice?

A. — Homeowners in warm, humid areas know their roofing sometimes is subject to unsightly staining and discoloration caused by fungi and algae. This happens on different kinds of roofs, but is most noticeable when it takes place on white roofs. You now can obtain white roofing shingles treated to make them resistant to fungi and algae. Be sure you get that kind. If your dealer does not have them in stock, he can order them for you. They cost a bit more, but are well worth it if you are in an area where fungi and algae attack roofs.

Blended Rate Mortgage

A blended rate mortgage is a new mortgage that covers an old mortgage and advances new funds. The new mortgage is used to pay off the existing mortgage at a lower rate than the current market rate. The lender grants the new rate somewhere between the old rate and the prevailing market rate. The new monthly payment is larger than it was previously, but not as high as current rates would require.

Impact on buyer

- Receives a lower than market rate
- Can qualify with a lower income
- Lower monthly payments

Impact on seller

- Attracts potential buyers
- Receives all funds at closing

Many lenders offer a blended rate mortgage as it produces a higher return than the old mortgage. A real estate professional can guide a buyer to those properties where this type of mortgage is available.
