Traffic accident toll surpasses 160

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents around the nation claimed more than 160 lives by the second day of the four-day Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

By 9 p.m. PST Friday, 162 people had been killed in traffic accidents since the holiday began at 6 p.m.

Florida, with 12, was the state with the most traffic fatalities. California and Texas each had recorded 10 highway deaths.

The National Safety Council has estimated between 380 and 480 people could die in traffic during the period that extends to midnight Sunday.

About 470 people could be expected to die in traffic accidents during a non-holiday, four-day weekend at this time of year, council statistician Barbara Carraro said.

Last year's Thanksgiving traffic death toll was 401. The highest toll for the holiday period was 764 dead, recorded in 1968.

2 die, boat lost in raging storm

Will give way to clear weekend weather — but another storm waiting in wings

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A raging storm that dumped more than an inch of rain on the Orange Coast, where it caused flooding, numerous accidents and a freak shipwreck in Dana Point, will give way to crisp but clear weather this weekend — and then another, even wetter, storm on Monday.

The National Weather Service said a frigid storm moving south from the Gulf of Alaska is expected to hit Southern California sometime Monday, bringing more rain and potential problems with it.

The most recent storm, which began Thanksgiving and hung on through nightfall Friday, dropped an inch of rain in most county areas and as much as two inches on hillside regions such as Santiago Peak.

The rain swamped intersections and roadways, triggering a spate of car accidents.

An unidentified pedestrian was killed early Friday trying to cross the San Diego Freeway in San Juan Capistrano.

A Capistrano Beach woman, identified as Valle Lee, 34, was killed later in the day in a two-car accident in San Juan Capistrano. Rain was a factor in both fatalities, authorities said.

The Perseus, a 120-foot sailboat, snapped free of its anchor late Friday morning in the gusting storm and was driven onto a rocky area known by local surfers as "the boneyard."

The 82-year-old boat was pounded on the rocks until it split and sank, said an Orange County Sheriff's Harbor Patrol spokesman. The ship was a total loss.

A passenger on the boat, Melody Baxter, 16, of San Clemente, suffered facial cuts and a concussion when she was hit by falling rigging, said sheriff's

Sgt. Dick Powell.

The boat was being taken to San Diego after being purchased recently in Los Angeles for $30,000, Powell said. The deteriorated condition of the vintage boat may have been a factor in the accident, he suggested.

The storm prompted several power outages, including two intersections in Newport Beach where officers were

Clang go cash registers in spite of rain

Some retailers call wet weather a blessing, leaving revelers without much else to do

By TONY SAAVEDRA

Neither wind, nor rain, nor flooded streets kept holiday shoppers from streaming to Orange Coast malls Friday — the first day of the traditional Christmas rush.

Raincoats, boots and umbrellas were the uniform of the day for people braving the storm to ring in the holiday shopping season, which traditionally accounts for between 30 and 50 percent of annual retail sales.

Most businesses were unfettered by the shower; in fact, some retailers considered the downpour a blessing in disguise.

"People who thought about spending the day outdoors had little else to do but go shopping," said Maura Eggen, marketing director for South Coast Plaza in Costa Mesa.

Crowds at the posh, fully enclosed shopping center were expected to reach 40,000 by the end of the day.

Outdoor malls had less luck, although Newport Beach's Fashion Island proved to be the exception. Shoppers flooded the complex, taking refuge in the larger department stores.

Spokeswoman Kathleen Lauren Flood said customers could roam for hours among the various departments of Neiman Marcus, Bullock's Wilshire, Buffum's, Robinson's and The Broadway without having to go back into the rain.

The picture wasn't quite so rosy at the unenclosed Seaciff Village Shopping Center in Huntington Beach, where sales at one clothing store fell about 15 percent below projections.

"It's still a good day," General Manager Mike Debowksi said. "But the rain kept a lot of people away. On days like this, customers like to go to malls where they can stay dry."

The weather was only part of the problem for people trying to find parking at the busier centers. Cars roamed up and down the asphalt aisles at South Coast Plaza, jockeying for the 10,894 parking spaces — including the 1,404 stalls in a new six-level garage. Lots were also full at

2-year probe ends in arrest

Financial consultant facing five counts of theft in alleged fraud

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A self-employed financial consultant who allegedly promised clients high rates of return on their investments faces nine counts of grand theft, Huntington Beach Police Detective Ron Pomeroy disclosed Friday.

Mission Viejo resident Jerome Paul Berenbeim, 54, a former resident of Laguna Beach, was arrested at a Van Nuys coffee shop to culminate a 2½-year investigation, Pomeroy said.

Pomeroy said 24 Orange and Los Angeles County residents — and maybe more — invested $10,000 to $300,000 in an allegedly non-existent company called "The Fund."

Pomeroy, who said he obtained 18 search warrants in the course of his investigation, claimed that financial records disclosed that Berenbeim transferred investors' money into several bank accounts, but allegedly not to any financial company known as "The Fund."

Berenbeim, who could not be reached for comment, allegedly would make high interest payments to investors for several months by using money from new investors to

Murder suspect sought

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A Costa Mesa man wanted in the shooting death of an acquaintance remained at large late Friday as police searched an area around Costa Mesa High School looking for the suspect or those who might know his whereabouts.

Georgeo Peregrino, 26, was shot once in the chest during a heated argument early Friday and died after being rushed to Fountain Valley Regional Hospital trauma center, said a police spokesman.

Officers said they are looking for a man identified as Bavlio Pantojas. He is described as a 26-year-old Hispanic man who stands 5-foot-5 and weighs about 130 pounds.

Pantojas vanished after the shooting, which was reported at 12:35 p.m. in a residence on the 2900 block of Mendoza Drive.

Cars of stars on block at auction

By SUSAN HOWLETT
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An event billed as "Hollywood's Garage Sale" will place 400 wheeled masterpieces on the auction block in Newport Beach this weekend to celebrate the Newport Beach Collector Car Auction.

The cars are available for public preview today at 9 a.m. until the auction begins at 10 a.m., according to auction spokesman Robbie Raffish. The auction will last until 8 p.m. today and Sunday.

The auction will feature the 1983 four-passenger Auburn Speedster replica featured in "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom," which was originally titled to George Lucas Films.

Officials at the film company reportedly spent more than $100,000 to get the car the way they wanted it.

"Tonight Show" host Johnny Carson's DeLorean sports car is also up for auction. The car was loaned to Carson by the DeLorean Motor Co. for promotional purposes and has been repossessed by bankruptcy trustees as part of the liquidation process.

Auction coordinator Rick Cole first became involved with the DeLorean bankruptcy trustees last year when he auctioned the two original DeLorean prototypes. The first prototype sold for $37,000, and the second for $21,000. Carson's DeLorean is expected to go for more than $25,000.

Also ready for auction is Zsa Zsa Gabor's 1975 Silver Shadow Rolls Royce. The silver-blue automobile

Wieder pushes safe disposal of toxins

Asks Sen. Bergeson's help in collection of household products

By LISA MAHONEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Supervisor Harriett Wieder has asked state Sen. Marian Bergeson, R-Newport Beach, to help Orange County establish a long-term program aimed at ridding households of hazardous materials.

Wieder — who represents the second supervisory district and is Orange County's delegate to the Southern California Hazardous Waste Management Authority — asked Bergeson to draft legislation or search out grant programs to finance a collection program.

Material might be collected door-to-door or at permanent drop-off stations throughout the county, Wieder said in a letter mailed this week.

Orange County organized three Toxic Round-ups this year for residents who wanted to dispose of hazardous household materials such as paint and pesticide. Another round-up is planned for spring 1986, according to Jan Goss, a Wieder aide. But after that, money set aside for the pilot program will have run out, she said.

"The round-ups have helped raise citizen awareness. Now we need to move toward the establishment of a long-term program to keep these hazardous materials out of our landfills and sewers," Wieder wrote.

The county collected 65,670 gallons of hazardous materials during its Toxic Round-ups in Huntington Beach, Anaheim and Laguna Niguel, according to Wieder.

The cost of collection and disposal by a hazardous waste handler came to $216,892, half of which was paid for with county funds, she said. Local water and sanitation districts paid the rest.

Bergeson will assist the county with legislation that will "provide more hazardous waste collection points," said Julie Froberg, Bergeson's chief

Strike talks resume, go nowhere

CARSON (AP) — After nearly a week of silence, negotiations between striking Teamsters and Southern California supermarket management resumed but broke off with no progress and no new talks scheduled to try to end the 26-day work stoppage.

"There's been no progress," said David Willauer, spokesman for the Food Employers Council, which represents the grocery chains. "We've been here a long time and we haven't accomplished anything."

The talks, which had resumed at 2 p.m. Friday, broke off at 9:30 p.m. and no additional talks were scheduled, he said.

"I just feel kind of frustrated," said union spokesman Dan Swinton. "Management absolutely refuses to show any movement. They just hung up on everything, practically. There's no movement at all."

However, the United Food and Commercial Workers, who walked off the job with the Teamsters on Nov. 3, planned to resume negotiations with the employers council at 4 p.m. today. Those talks had recessed for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Before the Teamster-management negotiations broke off Friday, federal mediator Frank Allen said the talks centered on a major benefits issue.

Arab anti-discrimination group's Washington office damaged by fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fire officials say they suspect that arson was the cause of a fire that destroyed the offices of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee.

Damage to the committee's Washington offices, located on top of a market on Connecticut Avenue in the northwest section of the city, was estimated at $450,000, said District of Columbia Fire Department spokesman Ray Alford. No one was reported hurt in the blaze.

The fire came a month after the committee's offices in Santa Ana were bombed, killing the group's regional director, 41-year-old Alex Odeh.

The FBI blamed the Jewish Defense League for the California bombing, which occurred the morning after Odeh said in a television interview that Palestinian Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat was "a man of peace." He said Arafat deserved the praise because of his role in the release of the passengers from the hijacked Italian cruise ship Achille Lauro.

The JDL denied responsibility for the bombing.

Alford said fire investigators were trying to determine the origin of the fire, but that eyewitness accounts led him to believe that the fire was deliberately set. He said one woman said she saw the windows of the second floor blown out around 8 p.m., the time the fire was first reported.

It took more than 80 firefighters using 25 pieces of equipment nearly 50 minutes to extinguish the blaze.

The fire started in the second floor and spread to the roof of the building.

BOAT SWAPS MOORINGS IN STORM...

From A1

assigned the soggy duty of directing traffic in the pouring rain.

Though there were numerous reports of flooding, no homes on the Orange Coast were threatened and hillsides held firm through the rain.

The rain also appeared to have little impact on retail business, which traditionally counts the day after Thanksgiving as being one of its most lucrative of the year.

South Coast Plaza, Fashion Island and Mission Viejo Mall reported full parking lots throughout the day.

But things went less swimmingly in San Bernardino, where Santa Claus was supposed to arrive at a shopping mall in a hot-air balloon, according to an Associated Press report.

The balloon arrival was scrubbed because of the weather and St. Nick was hurried to a standby helicopter. But that also failed to take off because of the rain.

Santa Claus finally showed up a half-hour late...in a car.

There appeared to be a bright side to the lashing rain storm, however. The California Highway Patrol reported that the rugged weather apparently was keeping people inside for the long holiday weekend, while those on the roads were driving slower and more safely.

The CHP reported only 10 fatalities in the first 36 hours of the four-day holiday, compared to 18 during a comparable period last year.

In addition, the number of arrests for drunken driving dropped to 784, compared to 982 a year earlier.

The weather through Sunday is expected to be clear and warmer with daytime highs in the upper 60s and lows in the mid-50s. The brief clearing, though, should deteriorate again Monday with the arrival of the latest storm.

RETAILERS ENJOY GOOD DAY..

From A1

Fashion Island, where the 5,200 parking stalls were at a premium.

But neither the parking problems nor the wet weather affected sales at South Coast Plaza, retailers said.

"There's lots of people here and they're not just browsers; they're in the buying mood," said Eggan. The Costa Mesa mall is adorned with more than $750,000 worth of holiday trimmings, including a giant rocking horse and a mammoth Raggedy Ann, to keep people in the spirit of "giving."

"I think everything's so beautiful. Christmas is really a big 'do' over here, isn't it?" exclaimed Catharina Storm of New Zealand, resting on a bench near the line of squirming children waiting to take a photograph with Santa.

Storm and husband Johannes came by bus from their Anaheim hotel to see the renowned shopping center.

"The rain didn't stop us one bit," she said.

Linda Still of Irvine and her family were also undaunted by the storm.

"When you have to get your shopping done, you have to get it done," reasoned Still, who came early to beat the crowds.

Yet others appeared to enjoy shopping elbow to elbow.

"The crowd is part of the ambience," Eggan said. "It's busy and bustling and hectic: That's kind of an integral part of Christmas."

Crowd-seekers at South Coast Plaza weren't disappointed, especially at Williams-Sonoma gourmet cookware, where free mulled cider took the chill off the storm.

"We're massively busy, we couldn't even move a few minutes ago," saleswoman Nancy Roberts said, dipping a ladle into the steaming mixture.

Down the way, Peter Merii, manager of David Orgell silver and crystal ware, arranged a tea set and philosophized on the seasonal shopping rush.

"I don't care how many Christmas seasons you go through, you never get used to it," Merii advised.

An executive at the J.C. Penney store in Huntington Center Mall said Friday's sales were robust and easily matched predictions for a record day.

In fact, the employee, who asked not to be named, said several departments in the extensively remodeled three-tiered store were understaffed.

At South Coast Plaza, money appeared to be no object for shoppers fixing to put Christmas bows on fine crystal, hand-woven sweaters, furs, jewelry and expensive fragrances.

"The high-end stuff is starting to check," said Bullock's branch manager Sue Graham. Among the hot sellers were a radio ($20) and a telephone ($40) that mounted in the shower, the ideal gifts for the frequently indisposed.

Topping the toy chest this season is an animated teddy bear whose moving mouth, nose and eyes have given many shoppers pause.

Teddy Ruxpin, retailing for $80 to $90, hasn't matched last year's clamor over Cabbage Patch dolls. But he appears to be this year's hottest ticket, said Toys International manager John Bryant at South Coast Plaza.

Bryant said people seemed willing to pay more for their playthings.

"I'm seeing a trend of high ticket categories that are outselling any prior years," he said, noting a current run on expensive European electric train sets. "I think people are scrimping less and looking for more quality."

He added that it also appeared to be the "year of the gun."

"I've sold more toy guns, especially ones that shoot soft projectiles, this year than I would in a normal three-year period," Bryant said.

Chinese sharpei dogs, wrinkled pooches retailing for a modest $2,000, were making a hit at Russo's World's Largest Pet Store at Fashion Island. Pets are becoming popular holiday presents, said Manager Michael Igoe, although the logic of putting a puppie next to a tree — Christmas or otherwise — is questionable.

TOXIC WASTE DISPOSAL...

of staff.

Household hazardous materials are but a small part of what has become a huge toxic waste problem throughout the nation. The cost of cleaning up the damage already caused by toxic dumping is estimated in the billions of dollars.

Providing collection centers or other means of safe disposal will avoid adding to the toxic mess, Goss said.

In the long run, however, Orange County will have to find a way to treat hazardous materials so they may be buried in sanitary landfills. "The real answer is treatment so it is no longer a danger to the environment," she said.

Under federal law, communities have until 1990 to find a way to treat toxic waste or keep it out of sanitary landfills. After that, hazardous materials must be rendered harmless before they can be placed in sanitary landfills.

And they allegedly put their money into the venture without benefit of seeing documents or paperwork showing that the company was authentic, he said.

Pomeroy said he's been investigating the case since two Huntington Beach residents lodged complaints in 1983.

Mall movies for children free adults for shopping

By the Associated Press

REDONDO BEACH — Former film executive Joseph Adelman has designed a movie and video theater, Kidpix, that offers fare exclusively for the 5-to-11-year-old crowd — freeing their parents for unencumbered shopping. Kidpix Theater Corp.'s first cinema opened in October in the Galleria at South Bay in Redondo Beach. A second is planned for Glendale, and a national franchising plan is being readied for next year. The 80-seat Redondo Beach theater offers continuous 100-minute programs of short subjects such as the Three Stooges and Little Rascals, as well as Warner Bros. cartoons featuring Bugs Bunny and Daffy Duck. Adelman plans to import programming from New Zealand, Great Britain, France and Spain and says he has firm exhibition deals with Columbia Pictures Corp., Warner Bros. and Ziv International.

Town remembers Twain as lazy miner

TWAIN HARTE, Calif. — Mark Twain was a prolific writer but a "genuinely lazy" gold miner during his time on Jackass Hill. That's how descendants of brothers Steve, William and Jim Gillis — who brought Twain here to seek gold and avoid the law — remembered the humorist as they celebrated his 150th birthday Friday in the village named after him and literary rival Bret Harte. It was in the Gillis cabin on the side of Jackass Hill in the central Sierra gold country near Yosemite National Park that Twain penned "Roughing It" and "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," the story that brought him his first national acclaim when it was published in New York in 1865.

AIDS cases declining in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO — Health officials say the spread of AIDS in San Francisco has leveled off for the first time, and they credit educational efforts about taking precautions against the fatal disease. But the plateau could be temporary if homosexual men quit using condoms during sex, said Dr. Dean Echenberg, head of communicable disease control for San Francisco. No other large city has reported a leveling trend in AIDS cases, said Chuck Fallis, a spokesman at the national Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. During the past 11 months, the number of cases reported in San Francisco has ranged from about 60 to 70 per month, Echenberg said.

Seaway accident blocks waterway again

VALLEYFIELD, Quebec — A freighter slammed into a drawbridge on the St. Lawrence Seaway Friday, blocking the waterway only weeks after a 24-day closure stopped ships at the height of the shipping season. Two people were injured in the latest incident. A Seaway spokesman in Quebec, Richard Juteau, said the Beauharnois Canal would be closed for at least 24 hours while engineers checked damage done to the St. Louis bridge. He said that if the drawbridge was not weakened, ships could sail around the area where a 60-foot-long section of the bridge dropped into the water. Juteau said six ships were waiting in the canal by Friday afternoon, and predicted the number would grow quickly unless the canal is reopened soon.

Casinos see windfall in Caesars' closure

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Neighboring casino hotels expect to take up the slack Saturday when Caesars Atlantic City closes its casino for a day under a state penalty for helping a compulsive gambler lose millions embezzled from his employer. It was the harshest penalty ever imposed in this city's 7½ years of casino gambling, and the first time a casino has been ordered temporarily closed in the United States for violations of state regulations. Industry officials predict a revenue loss of between $700,000 and $800,000 because of the shutdown.

Haitian stowaways escape ashore

MIAMI — Five Haitian stowaways who were being held in a cargo ship while the U.S. and Bahamian governments argued over their fate took advantage of the dispute to sneak ashore in Florida, an immigration official said Friday. The men escaped late Thursday from the ship, where they had been kept for three days, the official said. The stowaways, locked in a hot, windowless, 30-by-10-foot cargo box aboard the Alco Trader since they were discovered Tuesday, escaped while the ship was docked at Port Everglades, said Perry Rivkind, district director for the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Miami.

Year-long wait for transplant ends

TUCSON, Ariz. — A man who waited a year for donor lungs and a heart, then learned from television that the organs were available, underwent transplant surgery Friday and was recuperating in critical condition. Terry May, 32, of Tempe, was in surgery just over six hours at University Medical Center during which the organs of a woman who shot herself in the head were transplanted. Dr. Jack Copeland, who led the transplant team, said he was pleased with the operation's results even though complications from the bullet wound were causing premature heart failure and almost persuaded him to cancel the procedure.

Reagan science adviser resigns

WASHINGTON — George Keyworth, President Reagan's science adviser for the past 4½ years and a principal proponent of his "Star Wars" missile defense strategy, is resigning, an aide said Friday. Keyworth, a nuclear physicist turned unofficial chief scientist of the United States, will leave effective Dec. 31 to go into private business, said Bruce Abell, assistant director for public affairs in the White House science office. Abell said Keyworth and Herbert Meyer, vice chairman of the National Intelligence Council at the Central Intelligence Agency, who is also resigning, would form a business together.

Tough standards cost police their jobs

TIJUANA, Mexico — The mayor of Tijuana says 132 members of the municipal police force have been fired this year because they couldn't meet the department's toughened standards. In his state of the city address Thursday, Rene Trevino Arredondo said current police officers are being evaluated to measure their effectiveness. Those failing to make the grade will be retired, he said. Trevino said he is trying to change the way his police officers are perceived by American tourists. The police long have had a reputation as being less than helpful and in some cases dishonest.

Soldier killed by car bomb in Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — A bomb exploded Friday in a booby-trapped car, killing a member of the Ulster Defense Regiment, police reported. The outlawed Irish Republic Army said its guerrillas planted the device. A police spokesman in Belfast said the bomb killed Gordon Hannah, a 44-year-old captain in the predominantly Protestant regiment. He said Hannah had just driven away from his home in Kilkeel, a fishing village on Northern Ireland's southeastern coast.

Soviets confirm exit of divided families

MOSCOW — The emigration agency director has confirmed that some Soviet citizens married to Americans will be allowed to join their spouses, but did not say who or how many, a member of the "divided families" group said Friday. Rudolf A. Kuznetsov, chief of the All-Union Department of Visas and Registrations, said only that "a group" of spouses would be allowed to leave and the other requests would be rejected, the source said, asking not to be identified by name.

Aquino verdict, election conventions set

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos' governing New Society Movement and the opposition National Unification Committee on Friday scheduled conventions to pick presidential candidates for the Feb. 7 election. In other developments, the government barred Australia from using Clark Air Base, a U.S. facility, to protest "highly offensive" remarks by Foreign Minister Bill Hayden, and judges in the Benigno Aquino assassination case summoned defendants to appear in court Monday to hear the verdict. The New Society Movement set its convention for Dec. 7 to nominate Marcos for re-election. The National Unification Committee, a major opposition group, said it would convene Dec. 9 to pick a presidential candidate.

Body of hijack victim back home

Flag-draped casket bearing Scarlett Marie Rogenkamp lands in light rain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The flag-draped casket of Scarlett Marie Rogenkamp, the only American killed during last week's hijacking of an Egyptair jetliner, was brought home Friday and unloaded without ceremony from an airliner. A light rain was falling as her casket

Inadequate security cited around planes in Athens

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The security chief for international airlines said Friday that inadequate security around parked planes at the Athens airport may have allowed hijackers to smuggle weapons aboard the Egyptair jet seized last week.

"The investigation is centering on the ramp area, which is vulnerable. There have been instances where a man disguised as a member of the ground crew managed to reach the ramp of a plane undetected," said Rodney Wallis, head of security for the International Air Transport Association.

He spoke in a telephone interview with The Associated Press after touring airport security facilities.

Gunmen with pistols and hand grenades seized the Egyptair Boeing 737 last Saturday on a flight from Athens to Rome and ordered it to land on Malta, where they shot five passengers, killing one. Egyptian commandos stormed the plane Sunday and 58 people perished. Wallis would not say whether he thought the weapons went aboard at Athens or Cairo, where the flight originated. He said security was too thorough at both Athens and Cairo for weapons to be carried aboard in hand baggage.

Greece increased airport security after a TWA jet was hijacked in June on a flight from Athens to Rome. The hijackers killed an American and held 39 others hostage in Lebanon for 17 days.

"There are two screening procedures at Athens and Cairo. Investigators don't think it's viable for people to get weapons through there," Wallis said.

An Arab terrorist got through the Athens airport's perimeter fence in April and hit a Jordanian airliner with a shoulder-fired missile. The missile did not explode and no one was injured.

A stronger barrier is being built, but is not finished. "The new fence is taking shape, although there are a few gaps. But they are being sufficiently patrolled," Wallis said.

was gently lowered from a Pan American World Airways flight from London. The casket was placed inside an enclosed luggage carrier and driven away.

The 38-year-old woman, a civilian who worked for the U.S. Air Force in Athens, was shot in the head and her body thrown from hijacked Egyptair jetliner after it landed in Malta on Saturday.

Fifty-eight other people, including all but one of the suspected hijackers, were killed after Egyptian commandos stormed the plane.

The woman's parents, Vernon and Heddy Peterson, live in Oceanside. Funeral services were planned for today at Saint Mary's Star of the Sea Roman Catholic Church.

Ms. Rogenkamp's parents were at their home Friday, and no other member of the family made themselves available for reporters. Relatives have asked police to keep a 100-yard perimeter around the church during the funeral.

Ms. Rogenkamp had worked as an industrial properties management specialist at the Air Force Contract Management Center detachment at Tanagra Air Base near Athens.

Family members have said they believed Ms. Rogenkamp was singled out by the hijackers because she was an American.

"Most of the time, we think of wars happening between nations," her sister, Katharine Dons, 33, said after learning Ms. Rogenkamp had been killed. "I think there are little mini-wars that happen on airplanes."

The jetliner was seized 10 minutes after taking off from Athens on a flight to Cairo. Hijackers diverted the plane to Malta.

Libya claims Egypt massing for invasion

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Libya claimed on Friday that Egypt has completed a military buildup along its border and is preparing to invade after blaming Libya for the hijacking of an Egyptair jetliner last week.

The official Libyan news agency JANA, monitored in Cairo, said the Egyptians planned to claim Libya was plotting an air raid on Egypt and then launch an attack on Libya.

An Egyptian Foreign Ministry source, who spoke on condition he not be identified, dismissed the Libyan report as "purely propaganda."

In another dispatch, JANA claimed U.S. forces in the Mediterranean had increased surveillance of the border in the past 48 hours to help the Egyptians plan the attack.

JANA said the United States was eager for an excuse to intervene militarily in Libya "to put an end to the role" that country played in confronting "American policy against the Arabs."

Egypt's foreign minister, Ahmad Esmat Abdel Meguid, said Egypt has increased its troops along the Libyan border "in view of the seriousness of the situation that has come out of the hijacking."

Group plans to raise Titanic

LONDON (AP) — An Admiralty Court judge ruled Friday that the British government cannot claim the goods salvaged from the sunken liner Lusitania, clearing the way for an effort to raise another famous shipwreck, the Titanic.

In 1982, a British-led team brought up $3.4 million worth of treasures from the Lusitania, which was sunk by a German submarine off the Irish coast in 1915 with the loss of 1,198 lives.

The government said that under a 14th century law, it had first claim to any salvaged material brought to Britain, including that from the Lusitania.

Because of that law, John Pierce, Welsh leader of the Lusitania salvage operation, had feared that if he went ahead with his plan to raise the recently discovered wreckage of the Titanic, it might be seized when he tried to restore the liner at the Belfast shipyard where it was built.

The idea of bringing the Titanic up from the floor of the North Atlantic was vetoed by the French-American team that found it last September, and at least one survivor of the 1912 disaster is "revolted" by the prospect of disturbing the wreck.

The luxury liner Titanic struck an iceberg on its maiden voyage, taking 1,513 people to their deaths. The French-American team that found it 560 miles off Newfoundland, more 13,000 feet below the ocean surface, decided to leave it where it was and make it a marine memorial.

Judge Sir Barry Sheen ruled Friday that the British government had no title to wrecks found in international waters, only to those within territorial waters.

Sen. Paul Laxalt

Laxalt fails to answer allegations

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A 12-year-old report says investigators were told that an underworld figure received money skimmed from a casino when it was owned by the family of Sen. Paul Laxalt, and the senator refused to answer questions about the allegations last month, court documents show.

Laxalt's refusal, at his attorney's directions, appears in transcripts of a four-day deposition taken in Washington, D.C., in October as part of the senator's $250 million libel suit against the Sacramento-based McClatchy newspaper group.

The deposition is on file in U.S. District Court here, where the libel suit was filed.

During the deposition, McClatchy attorney James Brosnahan questioned Laxalt about a Nov. 29, 1973, report by the Organized Crime and Criminal Intelligence Branch of the California Department of Justice.

Astronauts find beam assembly a real snap in orbit

Test of construction techniques that future homesteaders may use for space villages

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two spacewalking astronauts quickly assembled a 45-foot beam in the cargo bay of shuttle Atlantis on Friday in a test of construction techniques that future homesteaders may use to build villages in orbit.

Sherwood Spring and Jerry Ross assembled the long beam in less than 40 minutes after their six-hour spacewalk started at 4:36 p.m. EST. This was much faster than experts had predicted, and officials said the astronauts were 22 minutes ahead of schedule at one point.

The beam was assembled from 93 aluminum tubular struts that snap together like Tinkertoys. The astronauts also were to build a pyramid-shaped lattice from a set of six struts. Both structures were to be put together and disassembled repeatedly during the test.

"This is amazing, absolutely amazing," said Spring as he and Ross worked.

"You guys are doing great," said Mission Control.

After building the beam once, the astronauts immediately began taking it apart and reported that disassembly went even faster. In 85 minutes, they completed one entire cycle of construction and disassembly and were preparing to start on the pyramid.

Television views showed Ross standing on one side of a platform with a rack of struts and Spring at the other side with another rack. Spring would snap yellow-coated struts into place, building one side of a segment, or bay, and Ross then would rotate the platform and secure other struts.

When the bay was completed, they slid it upward and started building another segment attached to the first. The completed beam had 10 bays, or segments, and Spring told Mission Control. "For your information, the first bay took two minutes, 30 seconds."

Later, the astronauts got even faster.

Several times the astronauts paused to look at the Earth below and one noted, "Ahhhhh, that's beautiful."

"We envy you your view," said Mission Control.

"What are you smiling about, Woody," Ross said, kidding Spring about their excitement at walking in space.

As the spacecraft passed over west Africa, Spring noted, "There are fires down there. Lots of them."

Experts hope that the spacewalk and a similar one planned for Sunday will demonstrate the ability of astronauts to join laboratories, living quarters and power modules to create space stations and even communities in orbit.

"We can carry the modules for a space station into orbit, but we've got to know how to build beams that will hold them all together," said Ross in a pre-mission interview. "That's why we're doing this space walk."

During the two space walks, the astronauts were to assemble the pyramid with their feet anchored and while floating free, and to detach the beam and the pyramid and move them about while standing on the end of Atlantis' robot arm. This is to test how well such large structures can be maneuvered by hand in the weightlessness of orbit.

Pesticide ratings for produce proposed

SAN FRANCISCO — A California company has invented a four-star rating system to tell consumers how much pesticides are on the fresh fruits and vegetables they buy.

Ohlone Research Systems, which has so far signed up two San Francisco Bay area supermarkets for its new service, is hoping to force farmers to use fewer pesticides by rating produce for chemical "cleanliness" and posting the results, an official says.

"We're trying to bring back pesticide-free food. We're trying to set the clock back 45 years," said Stan Rhodes, a chemist and Ohlone president.

The two supermarkets signed up so far are expected to begin offering fresh fruit and vegetables tested and rated for their chemical content around the first of the year. Rhodes said he hopes to serve dozens of West Coast retailers and the major food store chains within a year.

The service will add about 35 percent to the fruits' and vegetables' cost, Rhodes estimated.

"California consumers do not have any reason to not feel confident in our food supply," said Lori Johnston, who is in charge of pesticide testing with the state Department of Food and Agriculture.

A Bible dictionary, published by Harper and Row, was unveiled this week at a press conference in the Anaheim Hilton and Towers.

According to the publishers, "The Harper's Bible Dictionary" ($27.50; thumb indexed $29.50) is the authoritative reference guide for anyone who owns a Bible or questions the meanings behind what is attributed to it.

The dictionary took 179 scholars of the Society of Biblical Literature three years to compile. There are 3,700 entries, covering such aspects as names, places, climate, political history and geography. Terms are defined and explained along with pronunciation and derivative cues.

Blind student claims rights denied

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A blind student, denied state and federal vocational rehabilitation aid because he is studying for the ministry, contends the action violates his free exercise of religion.

The case, involving Larry Witters, a student at the non-denominational Inland Empire School of the Bible in Seattle, is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court. Witters was denied aid on grounds it would advance religion, a position upheld by Washington's supreme court.

Arguing Witters' case, attorney Michael P. Farris said there was "no justification to single out ministerial students for exclusion" from vocational aid. He said they "do not have to be quarantined" from society to avoid establishing religion.

ST. LOUIS — Although Pope John Paul II wants efforts halted to get women admitted to the Roman Catholic priesthood, hundreds of American women still seek that role, says the Women's Ordination Conference.

Its coordinator, Ruth Fitzpatrick, says interest in women's ordination has not dwindled among the 1,800 members of the conference since its founding in 1977. Its annual meeting here, planned only for women seeking ordination, attracted about 200 nuns and lay women.

A Chicago archdiocesan report of meetings with parish lay leaders recently found most of them would rather have female priests and married priests than not enough priests.

NEW YORK — Most people have become "habitual non-readers," says a Scripture specialist, a condition that has been added to illiteracy as an obstacle in regard to the Bible.

Unless it is "heard through the ears, the great majority of people in every country will not receive it," says the Rev. Tom Houston, president of World Vision and former head of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

He told the 1985 annual meeting of the American Bible Society:

"It is not just that the majority of people in the Third World are not yet literate or able to read. It is that the majority of people in our Western countries like the United States are habitual non-readers."

CHICAGO — A poll of 480 grassroots advisers to a committee revising the United Methodist hymnal found that most of them oppose any attempts to change traditional language about God to sexually inclusive or feminine forms.

However, the lay and clergy "consultants" spread across the country indicated willingness to change exclusive nouns and pronouns about people to inclusive terms.

MINNEAPOLIS — "I'll give them communion, but they can't become members of the church," a California pastor said at a special consultation on pastoral counseling of couples living together outside marriage.

The minister's view was among opinions reflecting confusion about the issue at a conference arranged by the American Lutheran Church for pastors and specialists in theology, psychology, sociology and demographics of cohabiting couples.

Bible in Chinese ready for printing

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A church in search of a cause, a mission in search of a benefactor and a publisher in search of something to print have joined together to produce a Chinese translation of the New Testament for the people of China.

The first copies, "The Simple Chinese Bible," are due from a printer in Peking on March 1, with a guaranteed first press run of 200,000, says the Rev. Ken Stegall.

As pastor of Seventh and Beech Church of Christ in Durant, Okla., which is handling the project, he says he hopes to persuade the Chinese government to approve printing an additional 253 million copies later for schools as a learning tool, and eventually millions more for the Chinese people.

He says it also will include "lessons on English grammar, overview lessons on the Bible, a modern English dictionary and an international dictionary." He says 253 million Chinese are learning English in schools.

Victorian holiday re-created

A solution to discontent with the season can be found at the Fullerton Arboretum, which is offering a peek into Christmas past during December.

The charm of a Victorian Christmas will delight viewers as they stroll around a tree decorated with popcorn strings, paper chains and gingerbread cookies, or another adorned with antique hand-blown ornaments, gilded paper ornaments of the era, candles and angels. The scent of fresh pine and spice balls will fill the air.

Docents, in period costumes, will be on hand to welcome visitors and share the traditions and stories of Christmas celebrations of the 1890s.

Candlelight tours from 5 to 7 tonight and Sunday will open the exhibit. The exhibit is open to the public from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday through Dec. 22 at the Arboretum Heritage House, Cal State Fullerton, Yorba Linda Boulevard at Associated Road.

Sponsors are the Friends of the Arboretum; admission is $1, adults; 50 cents, children; and $5, candlelight tours. For information, call 773-3579.

HOW TO KEEP CUT FLOWERS FRESH LONGER

Arrangements of cut flowers add beauty to your home during the holidays and year-round.

To help you keep your cut flowers flourishing, Michael S. Reid, post-harvest specialist, UC Cooperative Extension, Davis, offers some guidelines:

— Use a clean vase. Clean it with hot soapy water to eliminate bacteria and fungi. Then rinse thoroughly.

— Prepare the flowers properly. Cut just-opening flowers early in the morning.

— Recut the stems under water before putting flowers in the vase. You can do this by cutting the stems in a basin of water or under running tap water. Don't crush or burn stems.

— Improve the vase life of flowers that ooze a milky sap such as poinsettias and poppies by immersing the bottom two inches of their stems in boiling water for 10 seconds before using them in an arrangement.

— Gently remove lower leaves from stems so that no leaves will be in the vase water.

— A vase solution of lemon-lime soda and three parts of water helps buds open and last longer, and reduces bacteria and fungal growth.

Add ¼ teaspoon of household bleach per quart to keep the solution clear.

— You can also make a solution from 2 tablespoons of lemon juice or bottled "Real Lemon," 1 tablespoon of sugar, and ¼ teaspoon of bleach per quart of warm water. Add another ¼ teaspoon of bleach to the vase every four days.

Or, you can use a commercial flower preservative, sold in florist shops and supermarkets. These preservatives may not be as effective as the other solutions.

— Don't use diet drinks or colas, aspirins or vinegar in vase solutions. Don't use softened water (it contains sodium). If you live in a hard water area and you find white deposits in tea kettles and on faucets, use demineralized water sold in supermarkets.

If you use florist foam as an arranging aid, let it soak in the vase solution until it sinks. Don't push it down into the container.

Arrangements prefer cool temperatures. Don't place them in sunny locations, near heaters or fireplaces, or on top of the television. Put them in a cool place overnight, if possible.

Now yule know how to pick a tree

By EARL ARONSON
AP Garden Writer

The time is approaching for selecting a tree to add to the Christmas spirit in your home. There are a few considerations before you venture out to buy a tree or cut one in local woodlands.

Check the tree's needle-holding ability first by shaking branches. Pines, firs and freshly cut spruces are good. Then check firmness of the branches that will bear ornaments. Select a fragrant tree.

Several varieties of Christmas trees are available. To help you identify some: Scotch pines have whorled branches with blue or gray-green needles 1½-3 inches long. Austrian pine branches are smooth and light brown, their stiff needles are dark green, 3 to 7 inches long.

Spruce needles have a quadrangular cross section and are short and sharp. White spruce has blue-green needles nearly an inch long and holds its needles longer than Norway spruce, which has dark green needles three quarters of an inch long.

Fir tree branches are perpendicular to the trunk and twigs are perpendicular to the branches. Douglas fir has short flat needles, dark yellow-green to blue-green in color. Balsam fir is dark green with rounded, notched needle tips growing in such a way that annual shearing to develop full crowns is not necessary as in the pines.

After deciding the type of tree you want, select one that will fit into the room where you plan to use it. Keep it fresh by cutting an inch off the bottom of the trunk and put the base in water. A good fresh-cut tree can drink more than a quart of water a day. Doing this will help keep the tree fireproofed as well.

Gift suggestions

Having difficulty deciding what to give a gardener for Christmas? The choice is wide — far beyond plants such as amaryllis, Jerusalem cherry, cyclamen, Christmas cactus and poinsettias. There are excellent "how-to" garden books and subscriptions to gardening magazines.

There are "Back Saver" lawn rakes with unique bends in the handles to keep you from getting bent out of shape.

The new "4-in-1" walk-behind multi-purpose lawn mower mows, mulches, bags leaves and catches grass. Its price is about $570.

A kid's garden in a can, containing a booklet, string, stakes and packages of flower and vegetable seeds, is about $10.

Tallow trees won't grow along Coast

In the Daily Pilot's Nov. 16 edition, a story appeared on the Garden Page with the heading "Tallow trees a good choice" — and they are but not for the Orange Coast.

Among the Sapium sebiferum's attributes cited in the article, prepared by the California Association of Nurserymen, was the statement that it grows in all areas of the state.

A Corona del Mar reader thought he'd like to plant one of these trees, so he began calling area nurseries. No one stocked them and didn't know who might.

Don Seal called the Daily Pilot for some information. The nurserymen's association was called but no one there knew of a Southern California outlet, but still contended the trees grew anywhere.

After several more phone calls, Seal checked with Sunset and was referred to its Western Garden Book, which states the tree only grows in a small section of Whittier and Pasadena and no farther south.

If anyone else has been searching for the tree, we regret publishing the misinformation supplied by the nurserymen's association.

Color this year's airing of '34th Street' miraculous

By BETHANY KANDEL
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Everyone knows Santa Claus wears a red outfit, but just what shade of red? It's not an idle question when you're converting the classic 1947 Christmas movie "Miracle on 34th Street" from black and white into color.

hiring an Academy Award-winning art director to color the film by computer. The total cost: $188,000. "Miracle," which will be broadcast in color in hundreds of cities this holiday season, is the first feature-length, black-and-white film to be electronically converted to color by Color Systems Technology Inc. of Los Angeles.

television reruns and old black-and-white newsreel footage since 1978. Ralph Weinger, chairman of the company's board, invented the patented process. Its first major exposure came earlier this year, when the revived "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" featured introductions by the late master himself — the original introductions from the original 1950s series, but now in color.

Toronto, has colored two movies for cable television using another computerized process and is working on another holiday classic. "It's a Wonderful Life," for the 1986 season. "Color updates a film and makes it more realistic," said Buddy Young, president of Color Systems. "We live in color; we dream in color. I've never seen a black and white Christmas tree."

rest of the frames are automatically colored based on the colors chosen for the key frames. Getting just the right shade of red for Santa's outfit and the ruddy skin tone of Edmund Gwenn's cheeks were important elements in making "Miracle" believable in color. "There are some things that just have to be accurate — Maureen O'Hara's eyes for example," said Young. "That you can't invent."

Edison kicks Servite away, 14-13

Angelovic threads needle, then defense holds to get rematch with Westminster

By ROGER CARLSON
Of the Daily Pilot Staff
NORWALK — Edison High's Chargers advanced to the CIF Big Five Conference football semifinals against Sunset League rival Westminster Friday night, by virtue of a 14-13 decision over Servite before 7,500 fans at Cerritos College.

On the surface, the only important numbers are quarterback Mike Angelovic's 20-for-28 performance through the air, good for 255 yards and the winning touchdown, a 10-yard strike to Mike Henderson in the third quarter.

But as near-perfect as Angelovic was, it took an even better defense in the fourth quarter as the Sunset League champions hung on to post the decision.

"We called time out on that last (Servite) drive," said Edison defensive back Rick Justice, "and told ourselves we had to toughen up. We couldn't wait for them to mess up, we had to make something happen."

Edison had its one-point lead, but the Friars were on the move, with five Tim Rosenkranz completions helping move Servite from its 29 to the Edison 25, well within reach of sophomore kicking sensation Pat Blottiaux.

The Friars had riddled Edison's secondary with one completion after another to Nick-John Haiduc, who set a Servite school record with 12 catches for 143 yards, many coming on unstoppable curl and crossing patterns.

But Servite went deep and came up empty-handed, rather than going for the seemingly unstoppable short patterns, then a Brian Booker run netted nothing, setting up third-and-10.

Servite hurt its own cause with a delay of the game penalty, then the Chargers made something happen as Greg Leavey, Bruce Dubois and Jim Collins combined for a triple-sack to shove the Friars back to the 37.

All Servite had left was a 54-yard field goal attempt, which fell short with 3:24 left. Later after appearing to have one more shot with an Edison punt in the fading seconds, an offside call against Servite gave Edison a first down with 56 seconds left and it was clinched.

"Yes," admitted Edison Coach Bill Workman. "I thought they'd get a shot at it (a field goal within reasonable range)."

The Chargers added another defensive back in those final moments in an attempt to stop Haiduc and Workman explained it was a key reason why the big sack came, because the quarterback couldn't find Haiduc quickly enough.

Justice, who caught six passes for 52 yards, made something happen a little earlier in the fourth quarter, when he intercepted and returned 17 yards to the Servite 49.

It helped soothe the pangs of Edison's second lost fumble, but the Chargers were unable to do anything with it and had to punt away, setting up Servite's final thrust.

In the final analysis it was a nose-to-nose conflict in which Edison had

Foley pulls it out in last quarter, 6-0

Craig's 10-yard TD pass puts Tars atop; La Quinta next for No. 1-seeded Harbor

By HOWARD HANDY
Daily Pilot Correspondent

LA MIRADA — Shane Foley is close to taking over the Orange County career passing record and his performance Friday night at La Mirada Stadium left little doubt as to his prowess.

Foley came through with flying colors, directing a 52-yard drive in the fourth quarter to lead his Newport Harbor High teammates to a 6-0 victory over host La Mirada High's Matadors in quarterfinal action of the Central Conference CIF football playoffs.

The game figured as a high-scoring offensive battle before kickoff. Instead, with a wet field, it developed into a defensive struggle with both teams missing early opportunities to score.

Foley entered the game with 4,755 passing yards and finished with an additional 133 to close to within 68 of all-time Orange County career leader Burt Call of Capistrano Valley High. He should erase the mark next week against La Quinta, a 41-0 winner over Sonora, in a semifinal outing.

Friday night, Foley's favorite receiver Mark Craig, found a mismatch in the Matador secondary and Foley easily connected on a pair of passes during the touchdown drive. Craig, at 6-6, had a 9-inch height edge over defender Ray Zazueta and Foley hit his taller target for a 19-yard gain to the Matador five. After a 5-yard penalty, the Newport passing duo wasted no time in getting the lone score of the game on the board with a 10-yard completion. It made little difference that Sean Gerber broke through to block the conversion try.

During the touchdown drive, Foley completed 3 of 4 passes for 46 yards and ran for the other six yards.

Going into the game, Newport had been averaging 32.7 points per outing and La Mirada was scoring at a 30.1 clip. But the defenses rose to the occasion and with the aid of fumbles, a blocked field goal attempt and another that was wide along with a disastrous clipping penalty, the teams were scoreless until the Tars scored with 4:29 remaining. The first half was a succession of missed opportunities.

La Mirada opened by driving to the Newport 14-yard line before a fumble recovery by Bryan Wildman turned the ball over to the Tars.

Newport missed its first scoring opportunity as well. The Tars drove to the Matador 20 before a 37-yard field goal attempt was wide of the uprights.

When the Matadors were forced to punt on their next possession, Andy Sheppard took the ball on his own 8-yard line and returned it to the La Mirada eight, an 80-yard effort that could have been the turning point. A clipping penalty, however, brought the ball back to the Newport eight and an interception ended the next threat.

After the Matadors drove to the Newport 9-yard line on their next series, the 6-6 Craig broke through to block a 26-yard field goal attempt to thwart another La Mirada scoring try. The game remained scoreless as time ran out on the Tars on their next possession at the La Mirada 41-yard line.

A fumbled handoff that was recovered by the Matadors' Tom Mesa, ended the Tars first threat in the third period at the La Mirada 21. The two teams then exchanged punts until the Tars took over at their own 48 with 5:33 remaining in the fourth quarter. That's when Foley went to work with Craig as his target to end the scoring drought as it appeared the game might go into a tie-breaker ending.

Lack of a stable passing attack found the Matadors running on almost every play when they got the ball back before outstanding running

Lions pull out 21-14 overtime decision

Mater Dei unable to contain Gulley in fading moments

By RICHARD DUNN
Daily Pilot Correspondent

Westminster High's sterling defense and a clutch touchdown pass by quarterback Steve Gulley in overtime lifted the Lions to a 21-14 victory over Mater Dei Friday night, sending the Lions into the CIF Big Five Conference football semifinals.

The Lions avenged a 14-11 non-league loss in the process, now they face the same prospect Mater Dei did, they go up against a foe (Edison) which has a 24-14 Sunset League memory to dwell on.

Gulley lofted his 3-yard touchdown pass to Danny Saldana on the Lions' third play of the four-down California tie-breaker system to pull ahead.

Following an incomplete pass on their first attempt from the 10-yard line, the spot where each team begins the overtime drive, Gulley hit James Solley for a 7-yard completion to set up the winning score.

Mater Dei (8-4), which had come back from a 14-0 halftime deficit behind sophomore quarterback Todd Marinovich's sharp passing, could not handle the intense Westminster pass rush during its turn in the overtime period and watched its season come to an end when Marinovich's final pass fell into the arms of Westminster defensive back Robert Martinez at the 4-yard line.

Mater Dei won the coin flip and — not uncommonly — elected to play defense first.

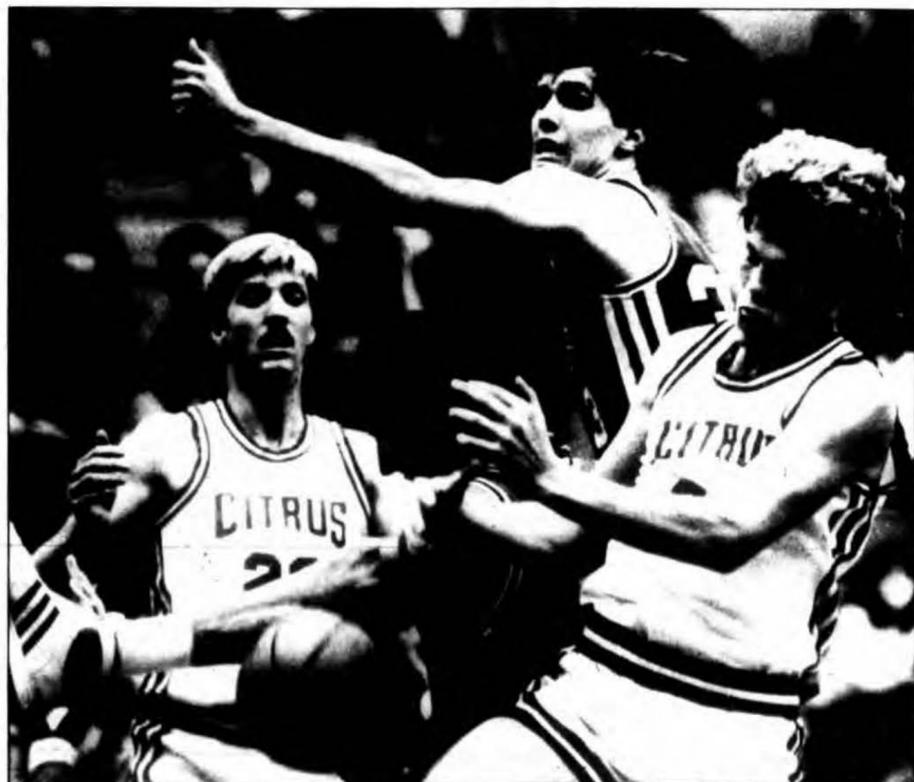

After the Lions pushed the score to 21-14, the Monarchs were unsuccessful on their first two passes, then were penalized five yards to make it third and 15.

Charles Anton's third-down pass off a reverse was incomplete before the Lions closed the lid on fourth down.

The pulsating overtime period, however, wasn't nearly as exciting as the fourth quarter. That's when Mater Dei, down 14-0 with as little as eight minutes left in the game, started getting clutch passes from Marinovich and key penalty breaks to move the chains.

Marinovich's 40-yard completion

OCC cans Citrus in home opener

Seager's 28 points lead the Pirates to 85-72 triumph

By CHRIS MONAHAN
Daily Pilot Correspondent

Although Orange Coast College's basketball team certainly didn't look too fired up for its home opener Friday night against Citrus College, it certainly didn't stop the Pirates from lighting up a victory Seager (pronounced SEE-ger) — a Joe Seager, that is.

The Pirates (2-0), with the luxury of a big man in the middle for the first time in many years and a very tall team overall, utilized the 6-10 Seager often underneath the basket. Seager was hot from 10 feet and in, hitting 13 of 17 shots, 28 points total, and grabbing 13 rebounds in leading OCC to an 85-72 victory.

"We have a lot more size this year and when you have a guy under there who is 6-10, you're always going to go to him," said Pirates' Coach Tandy Gillis.

Despite the relative ease of the win, Gillis was hot about the play of his own team.

"We played very poorly. We've got to play better than that," said Gillis. "We were very sloppy. We had 14 turnovers in the first half. We had no defense and we were reaching in.

"There's no way we could have beaten a good team playing like that." Although the Pirates took a 42-36 lead in at halftime, their margin should have been much wider. They got 18 from Seager in the half and shot 59 percent (19 of 32) from the field, but the turnovers and numerous late fouls combined with Citrus hitting 12 of 17 from the free-throw line kept the Owls (0-1) in the ball game.

In the second half, Seager, whom the Pirates found so often in the initial half, got into foul trouble and began to tire. He left the game eight minutes into the half, but not before scoring six of the Pirates' first 12 points, pushing them out to a 12-point lead, 56-44.

With their big man on the bench, the Pirates put in a smaller, faster team and began to use their quickness to wear down the Owls.

Led by sophomore captain Jon Johnston (14 points, nine assists) and freshmen Chuck McGavran (eight points, six assists), and Scott Clements (12 points), the Pirates ran the lead out to 17 points over the next six minutes, 71-54.

The Pirates also got a nice all-around game from freshman swingman Fred Bickett. Though he was on and off the bench with foul trouble (he finished with four), he still contributed five points, nine rebounds, six assists and two steals.

Kareem hits game-winner as Lakers slip by Seattle

INGLEWOOD (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 10-footer with three seconds to play gave the Los Angeles Lakers a 108-107 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics Friday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Abdul-Jabbar led all scorers with 31 points, and Byron Scott scored 28. Earvin "Magic" Johnson notched his second triple-double of the year with a season-high 16 rebounds, 17 assists and 14 points. James Worthy added 20 points for Los Angeles and assisted Abdul-Jabbar on the winning basket.

Tom Chambers came off the bench and scored 30 points to lead Seattle. Xavier McDaniel scored 16 points and Gerald Henderson had 15 points and eight assists for the Sonics. Jack Sikma had 14 points and 13 rebounds. The Lakers maintained a lead throughout the first half and went into the intermission with a 58-54 advantage. Los Angeles led 88-81 at the end of three quarters.

But the Sonics battled back to tie the score, 98-98, on Ricky Sobers' layup with 4:20 to play. The game was tied twice more before Chambers hit a 12-footer with 15 seconds remaining to put Seattle ahead 107-105.

Abdul-Jabbar was fouled and made one of two free throws with 10 seconds remaining. And with just eight seconds left, the Lakers fouled McDaniel, who missed both free throws to set up Abdul-Jabbar's winning shot.

The Lakers called a timeout after Maurice Lucas hauled down the missed free throw.

Johnson rebounded the ball to Abdul-Jabbar for the winner.

The Lakers went nearly seven minutes in the fourth quarter — from 8:05 to 1:11 to play — without scoring a field goal.

Sikma fouled out with 2:48 remaining and McCormick, a forward who moved to center when Sikma left the game, fouled out with 10 seconds remaining.

The Lakers improved their record to 14-2, and Seattle fell to 7-10.

Abdul-Jabbar took his last-minute heroics in stride.

"I really didn't show much emotion outwardly but I felt it inside," he said. "It's not all the time that I get the winning shot. This was a nice one to win because we almost kicked it

"We were fortunate to come out of this one with a victory," Riley said. "We went to Kareem and he took the turn-around jumper. They took away the sky hook but his jumper is not a bad shot. We must have won at least four or five games with that shot."

Seattle Coach Bernie Bickerstaff took an optimistic approach to the loss and looked forward to the games ahead.

"We played well," he said. "We had a chance. We put ourselves in the position to win. We've got to put our heads up and go from here. This was a big game for us. It was a test to see what we are all about."

Trojans stop Oregon, 20-6

TOKYO — The University of Southern California football team wrapped up its regular season with a 20-6 Pacific-10 victory over Oregon today in the Mirage Bowl.

The Trojans, who will compete in the Aloha Bowl on Dec. 28, improved to 6-5 with the victory.

The USC defense, meanwhile, held the Ducks (5-6) to just a pair of field goals, one in each half. The Trojans led, 17-3, at halftime.

Oregon's starting quarterback Chris Miller missed most of the second half after being injured.

Perez seals up win, Irvine boxing

His fifth-round TKO over Rabotte completes season

By JOSEPH DUDEVOIR
Daily Pilot Correspondent

Thomas Perez closed out the Irvine Marriott's first season of pro boxing Friday with a technical knockout win over Ernie Rabotte in their featured super welterweight bout in front of a sellout crowd and the cameras of the Donny Osmond Entertainment Corporation.

While the Osmond Corp. provided the lights and cameras, Perez and Rabotte put up the action before the 1,450 fans who filled the grand ballroom.

Perez, who hails from Santa Ana, lit up his foe with a series of left hooks and hard rights to open a gaping cut over the right eye of Rabotte, forcing referee Robert Byrd to put an end to the scheduled 10-round bout after the bell ended the fifth stanza.

"Everything seemed to be working tonight," said Perez. "I hit him with a lot of hooks in the same place. I knew his eye was bad and I just kept going after it."

Rabotte's corner wasn't happy with the fight being stopped and let Byrd know so after the fight.

"I've been in the ring in the same situation," said Byrd. "I know from experience it was time to stop it. I've had my eyes cut the same way, it's not too nice to try and come back from."

Rabotte, a native of Long Beach, wanted to come back for more as he continued to swing from the heels — and continued to miss badly — giving Perez an easy turkey shoot.

It had been pretty easy throughout the first four rounds for Perez. Rabotte kept going for the home run punch and missing. And whenever he missed, Perez (now 14-1) would make him pay dearly with a stinging right or left hook.

"I like guys who throw bombs," said Perez, who will be pitted against Sean Mannion in a future Marriott attraction. "I'm able to use my boxing skills and pick my spots."

And the spot he picked was the right eye of the 155½-pound Rabotte.

"I'm glad the fight was stopped," added Perez, who earned $1,500 for the win. "I just would've hit that cut some more and hurt him worse. This way he'll be able to come back and fight sooner."

If he decides to fight at the Marriott again, Rabotte, who also pocketed $1,500, will have to wait until Jan. 20. That's when the next card is slated.

Osmond was on hand for the action for the third straight month and said, "It looks good, but I can't say anything for sure at this time."

But from the initial reactions of Osmond and Co., one can expect to see more cameras and action at the Marriott in the future.

In a supporting bout, Huntington Beach's Roderick Starks and Steve Renwick of New Zealand squared off in a six-round super welterweight tilt.

In a very unpopular decision, Renwick was awarded a split decision win. The scores were: 58-57 Starks, and 58-57, 59-55 for Renwick.

UCI wins game, loses Graham

LAS CRUCES, N.M. — UC Irvine's women's basketball team opened its season with a win Friday night, but the price the Anteaters paid was very high.

UCI's senior All-American center Cheri Graham broke her wrist six minutes into the Anteaters' 57-52 win over Southern Methodist University in the first round of the New Mexico State tournament. Zalina Walton paced UCI with 13 points and seven assists.

Graham is not expected to return to play for at least several weeks.

The Anteaters meet host New Mexico State tonight at 7 p.m. for the championship.

SPORTS BREAK

He's building a new career with a little muscle

From AP dispatches

In his junior year as a nose guard at Broome High School in Cherry Hill, S.C., Lee Haney broke his right leg.

In his senior year, he broke his left leg. It was about then that Haney began to get the idea that football might not be his sport, after all.

"I had been doing some weight training," he said. "It started as a hobby but it was mandatory for football. When I kept running into problems with my legs, I began taking it more seriously."

Working with weights evolved into bodybuilding and victories in the Mr. America and Mr. Universe amateur competitions. Now Haney, 26 years old and 250 pounds, has become the youngest and biggest man to win the Mr. Olympian title. And he's done it twice.

"I'm after five of them," Haney said. "Then I'll go into something else, maybe movies." He's got a role model to follow. Arnold Schwarzenegger, an ex-Mr. Olympian, moved to Hollywood as Conan the Barbarian. His image is that of a bruiser but Haney said strength is not an issue in body building. "The judges are looking for the best body," he said. "They're interested in symmetry, how the muscles flow together, their sweep through the body."

But Mr. Olympian is no lightweight when it comes to lifting weights. "I bench press over 500 pounds," he said. "I squat lift over 600. You can't just look strong. You have to be strong in this business."

To maintain his muscles, Haney follows a rigid regimen, in the gym and at the dining table.

"I work out four hours a day," he said. "That's when the hard work takes place." There are 20 routines designed to build his shoulders, legs, back, chest, biceps, triceps and abdomen. The payoff includes a 31-inch waist, a 58-inch chest and 21½-inch biceps.

His other reward comes at mealtime. He eats four meals and two snacks daily and his menus would make a nutritionist salivate. "I eat eggs, chicken, fish, a small amount of steak," he said. "Also grains, nuts, milk, low-fat dairy products, fruits and vegetables. It's a basic diet, nothing really out of the ordinary."

Detroit rolls past Milwaukee

Kelly Tripucka scored 26 points and Bill Laimbeer added 23 Friday night as Detroit took advantage of Milwaukee's disastrous third-quarter shooting for a 111-102 National Basketball Association victory over the Bucks.

Milwaukee made only three of 24 field goal attempts in the third quarter and scored half of its 14 third-quarter points on free throws. In other NBA action Friday, Moses Malone scored 21 of his game-high 26 points in the second half and Bobby Jones had seven of his 13 in a two-minute spurt that put Philadelphia ahead to stay as the 76ers downed Indiana, 110-100, handing the Pacers their seventh consecutive loss.

Buck Williams scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds while Albert King added 24 points to lead New Jersey to a 107-97 victory over Atlanta.

Dominique Wilkins had a 30-point, nine-rebound performance in a losing effort for the Hawks.

Larry Bird exploded for 18 of his game-high 31 points in a decisive third period as Boston cracked New York's tight defense and went on to its sixth consecutive victory, a 94-88 decision over the Knicks.

Sam Perkins, Mark Aguirre and Derek Harper sparked a third-quarter rally to lead Dallas to a 133-111 victory over Sacramento.

Walter Davis scored 39 points and Larry Nance 30, season highs for both, to lead Phoenix to a 126-110 win over Houston.

Alex English scored 32 points and Bill Hanzlik had 23 as Denver snapped a three-game losing streak with a 129-114 win over Utah.

Kenny Carr's rebounding and Kiki Vandeweghe's scoring propelled Portland to a 21-point first-quarter lead and the Trail Blazers rolled to a 122-107 victory over cold-shooting Chicago.

LOS ANGELES — The Chicago Bears' William "The Refrigerator" Perry will make his debut as an off-the-field entertainer on "The Bob Hope Christmas Show" Dec. 15 on NBC, a spokesman for Hope said Friday.

Perry, who's dieted down to 302 pounds, was invited personally by Hope to appear on the holiday special.

The comedian is flying to Chicago to go one-on-one with the pro football player in a video-taping session.

The show also will feature Hope's introduction of The Associated Press All-American football team for 1985.

Canadiens rally past Buffalo

Guy Carbonneau scored two of Montreal's four third-period goals to spark the Canadiens to a 5-2 National Hockey League victory over Buffalo.

The Canadiens entered the third period down 2-1 but scored four straight goals to claim the victory. Elsewhere in the NHL, Jan Ericson set up a pair of goals for the New York Rangers in a 5-2 victory over Washington, snapping the Capitals' seven-game unbeaten streak.

Ron Duguay and John Ogradnick scored power-play goals and Gerard Gallant added a short-handed tally during a three-goal second period burst that carried Detroit to a 5-3 victory over St. Louis.

Ilkka Sinisalo scored twice as Philadelphia jumped to a 4-0 lead and won for a 4-1 victory over Minnesota. The Flyers, who have lost only two of their last 19 games, improved their Patrick Division leading record to 19-4 and their road record to 8-2, best in the league.

Defenseman Denis Potvin scored a key goal in the first period and veteran goaltender Billy Smith made 23 saves as the New York Islanders beat slumping Winnipeg, 4-1.

In losing five straight games, the Jets have been outscored, 30-7. Stewart Gavin scored two goals in the opening period as Hartford defeated Vancouver, 5-4.

Players ready for Skins Game

MURRIETA — Fuzzy Zoeller, ambled around the clubhouse while a cold, wet rain washed out the pro-am, took a look at his fellow competitors in the Skins Game.

"Hey, these are classic guys," Zoeller said Friday of the other three members of the quartet that will compete for $450,000 in the two-day, 18-hole Skins Game.

They are Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, all charter members of the made-for-television golf show that now is in its third year.

"What is Zoeller doing here?" asked Fuzzy, holder of a U.S. Open and Masters title, but whose career credentials are pale in comparison with the others.

The answer is simple:

The same as the other three, trying to win a large amount of money, possibly the whole purse.

This year's purse offers $15,000 on each of the first six holes, $25,000 on the next six and $35,000 on the final six.

Nine holes will be played today and another nine Sunday.

Kriek, Martina San Antonio buries Clippers post victories

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Two-time champion Johan Kriek of the United States moved impressively into the fourth round of the $1.5 million Australian Open tennis championships while second-seeded Martina Navratilova led three other seeds into the last 16 of the women's singles.

South African-born Kriek, winner here in both 1981 and 1982, recovered from a slow start Saturday to crush Australian Peter Doohan, 7-5, 6-4, 6-0, in the only third-round men's singles match played.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Artis Gilmore scored 24 points, 16 of them in the third quarter, as the San Antonio Spurs defeated the Los Angeles Clippers, 134-106, in National Basketball Association action Friday night.

The Spurs turned a 63-61 halftime deficit around when they scored the Clippers, 17-8, in the final 11 minutes of the third period. Gilmore scored nine points during the run.

Marques Johnson led the Clippers with 29 points, 17 in the second quarter. Mike Mitchell scored 24 points for the Spurs and Steve Johnson added 23.

The Spurs led by as many as 30 points, 129-99, when they went on a 13-0 streak in the fourth period.

Alfredrick Hughes, after seeing no action in the third period, added eight of his 15 points during the streak.

The final score is the highest output by the Spurs this season. The Spurs shot a sizzling 63.3 percent from the field, hitting on 57 of 90 shots.

The Clippers continue their swing through Texas tonight when they meet the Dallas Mavericks.

Servite quarterback Tim Rosenkranz tries eventually pulled down for a sack during to elude Edison's Greg Leavey but is Chargers' 14-13 CIF Big 5 victory.

From B1

two legitimate shots to score and did. Servite had more chances, and didn't.

Servite opened a 7-0 lead in the second quarter on a 39-yard drive, ignited by Jason Rosish's fumble recovery, with a 30-yard pass to Haiduc down the middle setting it up at the Edison 3.

Rosenkranz went to Haiduc on third down on a crossing pattern from the left and Corey Wentz added the PAT.

Edison tied it at 7 with a 73-yard march which consumed just 2:20 of playing time, as Angelovic found his receivers six straight times out of the shotgun or one-back offense, almost always with four wideouts.

Strikes of 20 and 19 yards to tight end Ken Griggs were the key gains and Kaleaph Carter did the honors from a yard out, diving over the right side.

Eric Thayer kicked the first of two PATs with 1:03 left in the half — as Edison turned the tables in the kicking game.

The Chargers took the second-half kickoff (Servite elected to kickoff at the start and at halftime) and marched 58 yards when the Friars' onside attempt backfired.

Chris Boyd returned the kickoff to the 42 and in just seven plays, with strikes of 16 and 15 yards to Dan Hughes, a junior playing in his first-ever varsity game.

"He just wasn't ready until now," explained Workman of his additional passing target.

The second completion to Hughes put Edison on the Servite 10, then Angelovic found Henderson for the touchdown.

Servite, which had moved 60 yards in just seconds in the fading seconds before blowing what could have been another chip-shot attempt for Blotiaux, had shown its explosive abilities, and there was still 9:13 left in the third quarter.

Casey Jones delayed Servite with an interception, but the Chargers were forced to punt and Servite responded with a 42-yard march, Rosenkranz finding Jeff Fieldhouse from 10 yards out.

But that kicking game Servite was so well known for failed again as the center snap on the point after went awry and Henderson was all over the attempt.

Still, Edison had to survive an 8-yard punt, then the second of two lost fumbles at the Edison 39.

Servite tried for a halfback pass, however, and Justice was there to intercept. "I was watching him all the way," said Justice, who returned it 15 yards to the Edison 49, nearly breaking away. "I wanted six real bad."

He didn't get six — but the Chargers got something better — a shot at Westminster High in the semifinals. Yes, the same Westminster which dealt Edison (10-2) a 24-14 loss in its Sunset League opener, dropping them to 4-2 overall, 0-1 in league at the time.

WESTMINSTER PULLS IT OUT, 21-14...

From B1

to Paul Cardenas on fourth and long helped keep Mater Dei's first scoring drive alive before the southpaw quarterback made it in from the 1-yard line two plays later. Gary Coston, who hadn't missed a PAT all year, muffed it and Westminster still led, 14-6.

On its next possession, Mater Dei benefited from 30 yards worth of Westminster penalties to set up a 33-yard touchdown pass from Marinovich to Cardenas, which made it 14-12.

The Monarchs tied it when Marinovich, back-pedaling against a strong Westminster rush, found Jim O'Brien open in the corner of the end zone for a two-point conversion.

Mater Dei had one last shot at ending the game in regulation before the clock ran out, but sacks by linebackers Mark Smith and Ray Smith nullified any Mater Dei scoring hopes.

"They're an extremely well coached and balanced team," Westminster Coach Jim O'Hara said of the Monarchs. "We were hitting tonight — there's no doubt about that."

The Lions' Mike Austin, with 52 seconds left in the first quarter, intercepted a pass on the Mater Dei 43 and returned it to paydirt giving Westminster an early lead.

The defense, which sacked Marinovich six times (three in each half), was the reason for the Lions' 14-0 halftime cushion. Mike Cover, who opened the game with a 20-yard run for Westminster and was only heard from once after that the rest of the way, sacked Marinovich on a third down play to indirectly set up the Lions' second quarter touchdown.

Jon Ostler, on Westminster's eighth play of a 73-yard scoring drive, pulled in a 38-yard pass from Gulley with 5:52 remaining in the first half.

In the midst of wet, sloppy terrain, the punting game proved to be a large makeup of the contest.

Vikes, Amat try tonight

Marina High's Vikings, weather-permitting, meet Bishop Amat High tonight in the second round of the CIF Big Five football playoffs, in a repeat performance of the 1981 playoffs when rain caused Westminster High's field to be in an unplayable condition Friday night.

Kickoff is 7:30 at Westminster High with Bishop Amat's unbeaten and No. 1-seeded Lancers favored to eliminate the Vikings.

Marina Coach Dave Thompson is hopeful the deja vu holds up all the way — Marina shocked a favored Amat team at the same site in 1981 after the Friday night postponement, 21-14.

The winner qualifies for the Big Five semifinals against Long Beach Poly.

Oklahoma tackles Oklahoma St. after big win last week

From AP dispatches

Top-ranked Penn State and runner-up Iowa are through until their bowl games but No. 3 Oklahoma visits No. 17 Oklahoma State for a night game to highlight today's slate in college football.

Oklahoma is in the Orange Bowl against Penn State regardless of what happens in its final two games against Oklahoma State and SMU.

"It's difficult to be more pleased than I was at the way we played against Nebraska (27-7 last week)," says Coach Barry Switzer. "And yet, while we are extremely happy to again represent the Big Eight in the Orange Bowl, we realize we can't spend a lot of time thinking about it. Oklahoma State has all the tools to bring us down to earth in a hurry."

Florida has never had three consecutive nine-win seasons but the Gators will be shooting for that when they meet Florida State. It will mark the end of Florida's season since the Gators are on probation and ineligible for a bowl game.

Florida was off last week and Coach Galen Hall welcomed it, saying he had "a very tired football team after facing Auburn, Georgia and Kentucky in successive weeks."

"Florida State will present us with perhaps our biggest challenge of the season. They can run and pass the ball with equal effectiveness and have big-play capabilities in both areas. Their defense has been solid throughout the year and is much improved over last year.

"Florida State will be ready for us because they have lost four straight games to Florida. I feel we will be ready because of the time off and the fact that it will be our last game of the season."

The Seminoles will play Oklahoma State in the Gator Bowl but Coach Bobby Bowden says he "doesn't even want to think about bowl games right now. This is the most important thing on any of our minds. We have people from freshmen to seniors who have never beaten Florida. That is our only goal."

Last year, Alabama ended Auburn's Sugar Bowl hopes with a 17-15 upset. This time, the Tigers are locked into the Cotton Bowl against Texas A&M while Alabama is headed for the Aloha Bowl, with an outside shot at the Sugar Bowl if Vanderbilt, a 20-point underdog, upsets Tennessee.

In a game played Friday, Cherry Bowl-bound Maryland clinched its third straight Atlantic Coast Conference title with a 33-21 victory over Virginia. The Terrapins (8-3) will meet Syracuse (7-3) on Dec. 21 in Pontiac, Mich.

Elsewhere today, sixth-ranked Florida entertains No. 12 Florida State, seventh-ranked Auburn meets Alabama at Birmingham's Legion Field and No. 10 Tennessee needs a victory at home against Vanderbilt to represent the Southeastern Conference in the Sugar Bowl. Fifth-ranked Michigan, No. 8 Nebraska and No. 9 Brigham Young are not scheduled.

Pirates on attack

Orange Coast's Chuck McGavran works from the baseline to connect on a reverse lay-up as teammate Matt Judd blocks out defender (left), while Pirate Fred Bickett eyes basket as he takes jump shot. OCC won home opener, 85-72.

Roadrunners hold down errors, Tigers in a 28-9 Central Conference triumph

By STAN GRANCH
Daily Pilot Correspondent

About 4,000 people packed Irvine High Stadium and saw the second-seeded Saddleback High Roadrunners capitalize on mistakes by the Valencia Tigers en route to a second-round Central Conference victory, 28-9.

Saddleback Coach Jerry Witte said there were three keys to the Roadrunners' victory.

"First, we had to control the line of scrimmage and for the most part we did; second, we had to convert on third down to keep our drive going and keep their offense off the field;

finally, we had to get them to use their special teams because they were weak in the kicking game," Witte said.

The Roadrunners controlled the line of scrimmage as the offense opened up many holes in the Tiger defense, while the defense bottled up Valencia's powerful running attack.

Saddleback's hard-hitting defense caused three turnovers and stopped the Tigers at key times. The Roadrunners were neither penalized nor committed any turnovers on the evening.

"Our defense played great," Witte said. "We have a very good defense we're just not a team built around offense and speed." Saddleback's special teams played well too, as it blocked a punt and an extra point. Also, the punting and place-kicking of the Roadrunners kept Valencia in terrible field position for the entire game.

Saddleback opened the scoring late in the first quarter as Willie Pickering raced up the middle untouched for a 54-yard touchdown. Pickering rushed for 82 yards in six carries.

Early in the second quarter, Valencia retaliated as kicker Bryan Elliott booted a 26-yard field goal. Saddleback took the ensuing kickoff and drove 57 yards in six plays. The touchdown came on a 7-yard run by Glenn Campbell.

Campbell rushed for 86 yards on 18 carries, caught two passes for 14 yards and scored three touchdowns.

Later in the second quarter, Valencia's weakness on special teams became evident, as punter Jeff Martinez fumbled the snap and fell on it giving the ball to Saddleback at the Tiger 35. Six plays later Campbell scored on a one-yard run, which gave the Roadrunners a halftime lead of 21-3.

The Tigers sealed their fate on the first play from scrimmage in the third quarter as Saddleback's Nate Primous recovered a Valencia fumble. On the next play Campbell raced 27 yards for the touchdown, giving Saddleback a 28-3 lead.

Later in the quarter, Valencia scored its final points of the year as Tony Goulet ran three yards for the touchdown. The point-after was blocked making the score 28-9. Neither team would score again.

The Tigers finish with a 9-3 record. Valencia's running back Ray Pailares had 136 yards rushing in 24 carries. Pailares is the state's all-time leading rusher as he finished his high school career with 5,399 yards. He rushed for 2,097 this year, which is the second highest total in a single season (behind Kerwin Bell's 2,226 at Edison in 1979).

Titans finish fast to beat Loyola, 76-71

Cal State Fullerton advances at Utah; UCLA routs St. Mary's for first victory

From AP dispatches

SALT LAKE CITY — Senior Kerry Boagni scored 22 points to lead Cal State Fullerton to a 76-71 victory over Loyola-Marymount in the first round of the Utah Classic basketball tournament Friday night.

After Keith Smith of Loyola hit two free throws with 5:44 remaining, the Titans reeled off six consecutive points to take the lead for good as they outscored Loyola, 12-6, for the duration of the game.

Fullerton's victory spoiled the 30-point effort by the Lions' Forrest McKenzie, a senior All-American candidate who just returned to action Friday after breaking his thumb in practice last month.

Fullerton's scoring attack was paced also by Kevin Henderson with 21 and Richard Morton with 14. The Titans evened their record at 2-2, while Loyola dropped to 1-1.

Elsewhere:
UCLA 91, St. Mary's 62: At Pauley Pavilion, Reggie Miller scored a game-high 30 points and freshman Jerome "Pooh" Richardson led an effective trapping defense as UCLA defeated St. Mary's in a non-conference game.

It was the first victory of the year for the Bruins, who rebounded from a 107-70 loss to No. 1 North Carolina last Saturday.

UCLA Coach Walt Hazzard unfurled the Bruins' 1985 NIT Championship banner in front of 7,241 at Pauley Pavilion before his team dismantled the Gaels, who were led by Paul Robertson with 15 points.

Syracuse 102, USC 68: Seniors Wendell Alexis and Rafael Addison paced Syracuse with 22 and 20 points, respectively, as the undefeated Orangemen crushed the Trojans in a non-conference matchup.

Playing the third of 10 straight home dates in the Carrier Dome, No. 4-ranked Syracuse improved to 3-0 while dropping the Trojans to 1-2.

The Orangemen, who are averaging 100 points per game, raced to a brief flat spell, kept pulling away in the second half.

Freshman Tom Lewis, the Mater Dei High standout who was heavily recruited by Syracuse before deciding to remain in his native Los Angeles area, paced the Trojans with 16 points, while Derrick Dowell and Greg Kimble contributed 12 each.

UC Davis 66, Chapman 65: The Panthers held a one-point lead with five seconds left in the game, but were called for a five-second violation and the Mustangs' Angelo Rivers hit a 20-foot jump shot with a second to go to cap the win for Davis at Chapman in a non-conference game.

In the Sun Met Classic in Fresno: Fresno State 62, Eastern Washington 50: Freshman guard Mike

Mitchell, a product of Mater Dei High, scored a game-high 24 points to lead the Bulldogs to the first-round win.

Louisiana Tech beat San Diego State, 74-72, earlier in the other first-round game and will play Fresno State tonight in the championship game.

In the semifinals of the inaugural Big Apple NIT in New York:

Duke 71, St. John's 70: Senior guard Johnny Dawkins finished with 20 points, including the game-winner with 21 seconds remaining, as sixth-ranked Duke defeated No. 18 St. John's to gain a berth in the championship game.

Kansas 83, Louisville 78: Senior guard Calvin Thompson scored 25 points and Ron Kellogg added 20 as fifth-ranked Kansas beat No. 9 Louisville.

In the opening round of the Great Alaska Shootout in Anchorage: Nevada-Las Vegas 61, Villanova 49: Freddie Banks scored 19 points and Armon Gilliam added 14 as 16th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas downed defending NCAA champion Villanova.

Banks and Gilliam scored 10 apiece in the first half to stake the Runnin' Rebels to a 30-23 halftime lead.

North Carolina 84, Missouri 63: Led by Brad Daugherty's 22 points, No. 1-ranked North Carolina survived a sluggish start to defeat Missouri.

In the Hawaii Loa Classic in Honolulu:

Oklahoma 81, Marshall 70: Darryl Kennedy scored 27 points and 13th-ranked Oklahoma went 29 of 32 from the line to hold off Marshall. Tim McCalister had 14 and Kennedy 13 in the first half as the Sooners took a 46-33 halftime lead.

In an exhibition at the Long Beach Arena:

Athletes in Action 73, Long Beach State 65: Tracy Jackson and Michael Wiley each scored 16 points to lead AIA to the win.

Army probe sheds light on intelligence work

Investigations focus on the way some secret, or 'black' units handle money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's attempt to make sure its money has been well spent has focused renewed attention on "black" operations, exposing some details of a normally secret world of intelligence-gathering and special operations.

Two years after the investigations began, one officer involved in intelligence work has been indicted, two others are being court-martialed, and an Army sergeant has been cleared of larceny charges after a court martial.

The service officially refuses to discuss the investigations or even say which units are under investigation.

But details of the probes have emerged from Justice Department officials, along with records of some of the court proceedings.

The investigations center on the handling of money used by some of the Army's secret, or "black" units, such as the Delta Force, the anti-terrorist commandos about whom the Pentagon says little.

Pentagon special operations have expanded in recent years, particularly since President Reagan took office in 1981. The increase is due in part to a recognition by defense officials that secret, small-unit operations may be needed in future conflicts and to deal with a rash of terrorist incidents.

But as those units have grown, they have often used money that has been "laundered" to conceal its connections with the U.S. government, according to details emerging from the investigations.

For instance, the legal documents have disclosed that at one point, the Army ran a "front" company based in suburban Annandale, Va., to provide security support for some secret operations.

At one point, according to service sources speaking on condition they not be named, the investigation was expanded to cover the Delta Force, which is based at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Some Delta Force soldiers were suspected of double-billing the government while on temporary duty protecting U.S. diplomats overseas. The soldiers reportedly charged the Army for expenses that had already been paid by the State Department. A major crack in the secrecy around the investigations came last August, when Lt. Col. Dale C. Duncan filed suit in federal court against the Army, alleging he had been wrongly accused of misusing government funds.

Duncan, 39, a veteran intelligence officer, said in the suit that he had helped run Business Security International, the Virginia company which was said to be a front to support "classified, sensitive special operations units" involved in "military and foreign intelligence missions."

On Nov. 19, Duncan was indicted by a federal grand jury in Alexandria, Va., on charges of misusing more than $60,000 in government funds.

Duncan, who has pleaded innocent, was charged with filing a false claim for an airline ticket he received under an airline bonus program. He was also charged with falsely claiming to have spent $8,400 to charter a plane and with submitting a voucher for more than $56,000 worth of electronic equipment when the equipment had already been paid for by the Army's Intelligence and Security Command.

The Army has also said that two other officers, Lt. Col. Frederick Byard and Col. James Longhofer, are facing courts-martial in connection with the probe.

Byard is charged with making false claims, false official statements, larceny and dereliction of duty. Longhofer is charged with disobeying a lawful order, dereliction of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer.

A fourth person, Master Sgt. Ramon Barron, was acquitted Nov. 23 after a court-martial on Nov. 23.

Barron, a veteran of 25 years in the Army, was suspended from his duties in counterintelligence in December 1983 and formally charged last May.

The military judge in the case, who threw out some of the charges before they went to a seven-member panel, raised questions about the Army's handling of the covert funds and its attempt to prove they had been mispent.

"The Army chose this extraordinary means to circumvent accountability for money," Col. James E. Noble, the judge, said at one point during the proceedings. "And it did it for a reason: specifically to cut off the ability to find the (source of the) money."

"And (in so doing) they also chose to risk losing the money ... and they cut off statutory and regulatory claims against them...."

Great-grandma loves to run rapids

Audubon's pre-eminent conservationist also loves long rides to remote campouts

By LISA LEVITT RYCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE — One day back when she was just somebody's sweet-faced grandma, Hazel Wolf took a moment to smell the flowers and consider the difference between a raven and a crow.

That was 26 years ago. These days, she is a great-grandma, and her love for the outdoors has blossomed into a penchant for long rides over rough roads to remote campouts, raft runs on wild rivers and hot and cold-running environmental battles.

Such is the life of the 87-year-old grande dame of Pacific Northwest conservationists.

White-haired and bespectacled, Wolf looks every bit the Audubon Society birdwatcher as she sits in her small apartment, surrounded by pictures of robins and jays and books about birds and butterflies.

But look again. This is one birdwatcher who believes in the power of politics with a kind of religious fervor. Since Hazel Wolf joined in 1959, Seattle Audubon has gone from 400 elderly people dedicated to putting up birdboxes in parks to 4,000 members watching out for the world, and she has led the way.

"We had a slogan a couple of years ago — 'Think Globally and Act Locally.' I never did like that slogan very much. I thought it should have said, 'Think and Act Globally and Locally,'" said Wolf, who received Audubon's first "Conservationist of the Year" award in July. "What's the good of sitting around thinking about it?"

Wolf, who set up 17 of the state's 21 Audubon chapters and has been elected secretary of the Seattle club every year for the last 22 years, has never been one for sitting around. The cold she caught on a four-day trip running the Rogue River is evidence of that. She has kayaked in Alaska, backpacked all over the country and canoed the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

And she has just returned from Nicaragua, where she and other environmentalists examined that country's environmental protection program.

The phone rings a dozen times in an hour with news of her latest project, rounding up sponsors from within the environmental movement for a new committee, Educational Supplies and Equipment for Nicaragua. And she persuaded the Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs to pass a resolution condemning U.S. aid to the contras.

No topic is too hot for Ms. Wolf, a master organizer who started young, forming the first girls' basketball league while an elementary student in her hometown of Victoria, British Columbia. She knows how to get things done.

"For instance, Puget Sound is incredibly polluted. But you're not going to get anywhere going around to all these polluters and saying, 'Please, don't do this polluting anymore,'" she said. "We have to educate the people and say, 'Look, we can't put up with this pollution anymore. And here's how it's being done.'"

Twenty years ago, she and some friends stumbled across a birdwatcher's paradise at the end of 25 miles of the roughest road in Washington state, a site that turned out to be an old logging camp owned by Boise Cascade.

Ms. Wolf wrote to the timber company describing the natural wonders of the place and the dozens of species of birds there and touched a nerve with a bird-watching Boise executive. The campground became the Wenas Bird Sanctuary, site of an annual Audubon Memorial Day campout that attracts more than 300 people. And Boise and the environmentalists became friends.

"I think if you have something reasonable, something that doesn't cut into their profits too much" — she laughed — "you go talk to them. I think there are some areas where you can negotiate."

And there are some where you can't. Ms. Wolf helped stop a plan to build an oil pipeline from Alaska through Puget Sound, lobbied against big irrigation projects, sued to halt plans for a nuclear power plant on the Skagit River. She is president of the Hanford Oversight Committee, a citizens' group opposed to making the Hanford nuclear reservation a repository for high-level radioactive waste.

In the summer of 1979, she visited every Indian tribe in Washington, part of her on-going effort to turn silence into a useful dialogue. The result was a coalition of Indians and environmentalists and a conference that brought them together.

"We're trying to beat down our bird-watching image," Ms. Wolf said. "When I hear somebody say Audubon's a bunch of radicals, then I'll begin to think it's working."

Ex-emperor Bokassa says French won't let him leave

'My place is in Africa. They can't hold me here,' he tells press

HARDRICOURT, France (AP) — Jean-Bedel Bokassa, deposed ruler of the Central African Republic, says he wants to go home, but French authorities are forcing him to live in poverty in an 18-room chateau west of Paris.

"President Francois Mitterrand ordered that I be shot at if I show up in Bangui," capital of the Central African Republic, Bokassa said.

A French-backed coup in 1979 toppled Bokassa's regime, notorious for its ruthlessness. He lived in the Ivory Coast for four years and came here in 1983. "I don't want to stay in France," Bokassa said. "My place is in Africa. They can't hold me here forever.... If they try, I will go to some embassy, I will do something."

The Foreign Ministry said Friday it would not comment on Bokassa's statements.

Bokassa spoke Thursday at a news conference and then in a brief interview at his chateau, unheated except for a gas stove in the untidy kitchen. He sat behind a desk under portraits of Napoleon I and himself as

Jean-Bedel Bokassa

Emperor Bokassa I, a title he still claims.

French courts have ruled Bokassa is entitled to keep the French citizenship he was given after service in World War II.

But, Bokassa said he has no travel documents and all of his identity papers have been seized except his French military volunteer's card. He claimed that police follow him whenever he leaves Hardricourt.

Bokassa said authorities blocked his bank accounts and seized his three chateaus and two houses for unpaid taxes.

"I receive only 5,998 francs ($780) a month military pension," he said. "I don't get social security I am entitled to. Try to raise nine kids on that, plus the costs of the chateau."

Bokassa posed for photographers with 8-month-old Jean-Bedel, carefully holding the infant so he would not conceal the gold cross of the French Legion of Honor on his uniform tunic.

He claimed France installed Col. Frederic Mansion of French intelligence as "super chief of state" in the Central African Republic. Mansion is head of security for Gen. Andre Kolingba, chief of state.

Bokassa said he sent his 12-year-old son, Jean-Bertrand, to Bangui but Mansion put him on a plane back to France. Bokassa, who claims to have 55 children, said most of them remain in the Central African Republic and all of his 17 wives have left him.

He displayed his book, "My Truth," that has been banned in France. It contained specific, often crude, allegations about former President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Bokassa said he was working on a second volume but would find a foreign publisher.

If rumors affect your profits, don't ignore them — fight 'em

Professor spent years studying field, now has written a book

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — If sales are hurt by false rumors that your company puts cockroach flour in its pies, you're better off waging an all-out campaign to refute the rumor than ignoring it, a Tulane University professor says.

"Hit 'em hard and fast," said Dr. Fredrick W. Koenig, a professor of social psychology whose book "Rumor in the Marketplace" was just published by Auburn House Publishing Co.

"Either it's a problem or it isn't. And if it is, then you do everything you can to extinguish it," said Koenig, who has been studying commercial rumors since 1977.

In the last several years, such false but damaging reports have included claims that Proctor & Gamble was in league with Satanists and that Wendy's and then McDonald's hamburgers were made with worm meat.

Koenig's book says a company confronted with a rumor has four choices:

- Do nothing and hope the rumor will burn itself out.
- Do something locally as rumors erupt, rather like fighting brush fires.
- Try to deal obliquely with the rumor, without ever mentioning the rumor itself.
- Wage an all-out campaign, using all the media resources available.

Koenig, who serves as a consultant to companies that want to quash rumors, said his preferred approach is not always popular.

"There are people who think that if you try to fight a rumor that you're just calling attention to it," he said.

He said he never planned to become an expert on commercial rumors.

It started when he read an article about the rumor that McDonald's President Ray Kroc was giving money to the Church of Satan.

"I thought, 'That's the craziest thing I ever heard of,'" said Koenig. "And I decided I'd call (company spokesman) Doug Timberlake in Oakbrook, Ill.," said Koenig. "This is one of these examples where you do something on impulse and it changes your whole life."

As media coverage of the rumor continued, Koenig said, Timberlake started referring calls to him.

"So AP, the Wall Street Journal — everybody was calling me as the expert on rumors," he said. "Before I knew it, I was the internationally renowned expert on commercial rumors."

Koenig said he originally thought the McDonald's rumor might make a good case study for a scholarly article, but "instead of an article, before too long I ended up with enough material for a book."

Last of the glass

Walter Jones, bottle washer operator at the Welsh Farms dairy, washes the last of the glass milk bottles used for home deliveries at the Long Valley bottling plant in New Jersey on Friday. Home deliveries from the dairy will continue, but plastic and cardboard containers will substitute for the old-fashioned glass.

Stolen card racks up $271,000 bill

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Even though he already knew he did not have to pay, Jerry Pepper panicked when he opened a 646-page telephone bill for $271,261.91.

"Traditionally, I'm a worrier," said Pepper, owner of the Happy T-Shirt store in Athens. "I was as nervous as can be for a week. I was real bad. Nobody could talk to me. I worried even when they had told me I didn't have to worry."

Pepper said GTE Sprint Co., a long-distance telephone carrier, called before sending the bill to let him know that he would not have to pay the amount. "If they hadn't warned me, I would have fainted on the spot."

Van Wilson, head of corporate security for Sprint, said a person was arrested in New York Tuesday and charged with selling Pepper's account number to various people, mostly in New York and southern California.

Pepper said his portion of the phone bill was $64.43.

The problems began when Pepper requested a GTE calling card account number for his business. The phone company promised to mail the card within a few weeks, but Pepper never received it.

"It travels like wildfire, particularly with individuals who make a lot of international calls," Wilson said.

He declined to identify the suspect, but said he was not a Sprint employee. Investigators are still trying to determine exactly how Pepper's account number was obtained.

One call listed on the bill shows that someone spent two hours, 23 minutes and $195 talking to someone in Egypt.

On page 300 of the bill, figures show that a caller talked to someone in Hong Kong for 17 minutes and, at the same time, a second caller was talking with another Hong Kong resident for 35 minutes.

"This bill is a trip," Pepper said. "It's a storybook fantasy. There are some calls on here (where) they probably called some little village in the middle of Africa somewhere."

Conservation saves tax dollars

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Energy conservation measures at North Island Naval Air Station have saved the base and taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars, a Navy spokesman said.

Installation of a system that automatically turns off the lights in unoccupied workshops, storage rooms, restrooms and other places trimmed North Island's utility bill by $1.5 million in the year ended Oct. 1, base spokesman Ken Mitchell said.

Other energy-saving actions, such as recycling dirty engine oil into fuel for boilers, saved $175,000.

HOROSCOPE

SYDNEY OMARR

Sunday, December 1
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Family member announces plans for new start, perhaps change of residence. Cooperate but also realize that you have your own tasks to perform. Be creatively selfish. Romantic evening provides emotional-mental stimulation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You're being pulled in two directions — choose course leading to security, family, basic joys as contrasted to deception and intrigue. Relative does care, will soon prove it to your satisfaction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Personal horizons expand — you'll reach beyond previous expectations. Good news relates to money, speculation, social activities. You'll be more conscious of physical appearance, wardrobe, body image.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Check small print, read between lines, realize you actually are in driver's seat. One who attempts to intimidate you is bluffing. Be aware, alert, sensitive to trends, and imprint your own style.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Individual who kept a secret will now be in mood to talk. Be analytical, separate fact from fancy. You'll obtain behind-scenes view. Cycle high, you'll emerge victorious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You get almost everything you want, but there is a price. Know it, be diplomatic, realize one close to you could be suffering pangs of jealousy. Key is to handle with care.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Theories will be tested. You'll have opportunity to prove major point. Check references, source material. Some revisions may be necessary. Superior does want you to succeed.

Pisces native plays significant role.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Spiritual values surge to forefront, combining with basic necessities. You learn plenty today — about yourself, about others. Journey could be part of scenario.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Key is to reach right people in connection with funding. Utilize lessons learned in recent past. Word of mouth is more important than paid advertising. Romance is part of exciting scenario.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Stress independence, creativity, and avoid heavy lifting. You have chance to get rid of burden which was not rightfully your own in first place. Reunion with loved one is highlighted. Leo plays key role.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20-Feb. 18): What appears a setback will boomerang in your favor. Lost article will be recovered. Focus on people who rely upon your judgment, basic procedures, employment and health. Another Aquarian figures prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Reach beyond the immediate — open lines of communication, make pertinent inquiries. You'll receive numerous invitations. Keep resolutions concerning diet, nutrition, general health.

IF DECEMBER 1 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, obstinate, sensual, determined and have natural flair for showmanship. Leo, Aquarius persons play important roles in your life. You seldom are satisfied with status quo, you travel, you disseminate information and you imprint your own style. You achieved major victory this year, with spotlight on August. In December, you'll travel, you'll be more popular, you'll be sensitive concerning body image, physical appearance. Memorable day in December will be the 5th.

THE GEORGE ELKINS COMPANY BRANCHING OUT IN NEW DIRECTIONS

George W. Elkins

After graduation from Southwestern University and a stint in the Texas oilfields, George W. Elkins headed for Southern California to launch a career in real estate.

Upon his arrival in Beverly Hills, he met the general manager of the old Metro Studio in Hollywood, who in turn introduced him to the stars and studio executives.

Elkins was given carte blanche access to the studio to meet with his clients and discuss their real estate investments — and thus was laid the foundation for the beginning of the prestigious and exclusive residential area known as Beverly Hills.

Elkins is also credited with encouraging business in the downtown sector of Beverly Hills and was instrumental in the formation of what is known as the "corridor" of major businesses along Wilshire Boulevard. Adam Gimbel, W. & J. Sloane, and I. Magnin were among established businesses that Elkins persuaded to relocate to the Beverly Hills area.

Other businesses followed, and the legacy of the city began.

From its beginnings in 1923, the George Elkins Co. has expanded into a full-service real estate corporation. Still headquartered in Beverly Hills, the company offers a variety of services, including an independent escrow operation with two full-time escrow officers, who specialize not only in residential closings, but also in commercial and investment escrows.

The independent insurance company will be installing a Wang/Redshaw computerized system in the very near future. The equipment is already purchased and will be in operation as soon as the insurance division's office remodeling is completed.

The business has five mortgage loan offices, seven residential sales offices and two commercial/investments divisions. The loan offices are located in Newport Beach, Seattle, San Francisco, Beverly Hills, and San Diego. The mortgage loan division is among the top nationally, and Elkins has formally served as the vice president of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America.

The residential sales offices are in Newport Beach, Brentwood, Beverly Hills, Encino, Hancock Park, San Marino, and Palm Desert.

The commercial/investments divisions are in Beverly Hills and Newport Beach.

One of the latter offices has just closed a $5.6 million dollar deal on a multipurpose office building in Tarzana, and another $3 million in commercial property has sold — consisting of a two-story office building in Beverly Hills, and an unusually designed office complex called "The Castle" in Sherman Oaks.

Property management is an integral part of the multi-service real estate company's offerings: The department manages more than 120 separate investment properties, including apartment complexes, condominiums, office buildings and shopping centers. The majority of those investments are in Los Angeles, Santa Monica, Beverly Hills, West Hollywood, the San Fernando Valley, and as far inland as the San Gabriel Valley.

In conjunction with the mortgage loan division is the development division, currently concentrating on the development of a three-phase commercial and retail complex called the Claremont Center.

Located near the San Bernardino Freeway at Indian Hill Boulevard, Claremont Center is a 40-acre parcel of satellite shops, restaurants, and financial institutions. Also within the center will be a 14-acre stretch of new auto dealerships, including Tate Cadillac, and an Isuzu and Honda dealership.

According to Elkins, "citizenship demands active participation in efforts to better the quality of life for all." In keeping with his own philosophy, he has participated extensively throughout the Southland in such areas as education, government, cultural affairs, and civic and charitable organizations.

He holds an honorary doctorate in law, serves as director of the State Parks Foundation, and is a member of the Board of Directors for the Greater Los Angeles Zoo Foundation. Elkins has also served on governmental advisory committees and real estate boards (state and national).

Recently honored by the Boy Scouts as their "Outstanding Citizen of the State," Elkins has also been a strong supporter of education, as evidenced by Elkins Auditorium on the Malibu campus of Pepperdine University.

Don De Thomas

DON DeTHOMAS — Much like his employer, George Elkins, Don DeThomas was born into a hard-working family that taught him the value of self-discipline. Manager of the Newport Beach office for residential sales, DeThomas is a 25-year resident of Newport Beach and an active member of the community, along with his wife Virginia and their family.

DeThomas is a two-time winner of the George Elkins prestigious Million Dollar Gold Key Club award for sales and accomplishments. While managing his office of 27 full-time residential sales associates, DeThomas has specialized in waterfront properties and estates in Newport Beach.

Beginning his real estate career with the George Elkins Co. in 1981, DeThomas was co-salesperson of the year in 1983, and was the firm's top producer for the first six months of 1984.

After serving as co-manager of the Newport Beach office, DeThomas was appointed manager of the residential sales office in October 1984. According to George Elkins, "DeThomas is one of our company's top managers."

Superstars to battle in golf's Skins Game

Murrietta's Bear Creek Golf and Country Club is the site of this weekend's 1985 Skins Game, one of golf's most popular events.

Competing this year in the high-stakes Skins Game is the superstar foursome of defending champion Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Tom Watson and Fuzzy Zoeller. The Skins Game is co-produced by Ohlmeyer Communication and Trans World International, Inc.

Skins is a betting game among golfers where a player can win a skin by scoring lower than the other golfers in the foursome. If two tie on a hole, they all tie and the prize money carries over to the next hole until someone wins the hole outright.

The tournament is being televised nationally on NBC, Channel 4.

Recently, more than 100 members of the Southern California media attended a media golf day and press conference at the golf and country club, where they were offered a hands-on introduction to the master-planned golf course community, designed and built by Jack Nicklaus and his development corporation. The media guests participated in a best ball scramble tournament, coordinated by Bear Creek and Stan Wood Public Relations.

InterCommunications, Inc., a Newport Beach-based public relations and advertising agency for Bear Creek, has been handling some of the event's marketing collateral and publicity in conjunction with Ohlmeyer.

Located in the Murrieta foothills of the Rancho California area, Bear Creek is a 650-acre community of varied residential housing types, centered around the 7,024-yard championship golf course.

The prize money for the two-day, 18-hole Skins

Game have been increased from last year's $360,000 to $450,000.

In last year's event, Nicklaus sunk a 15-foot putt for a birdie on the final hole to win $240,000.

Nicklaus opened the press conference at Bear Creek by predicting, "The guys (Palmer, Zoeller, Watson) are going to have to play a great game to meet par. The course has never been in greater shape."

This will be the first Skins Game for Zoeller. "Whether he's winning or losing in this match, you can bet he'll be laughing," said Nicklaus.

Nicklaus added that 20 percent of the winnings —

Creek public relations director; Garth Chambers, executive vice president of Jack Nicklaus Corporation of California, and InterCom art director Richard Darner.

$48,000 — will go to the Junior Golf Foundation.

Bear Creek, planned for 600 units including custom homesites, was developed to fit the natural terrain. It offers a blend of natural beauty and Scottish-links format that characterize Nicklaus designs. He has taken advantage of the rolling hills and 200-year-old oak trees that enhance Bear Creek's location.

Developments currently selling at Bear Creek include custom homesites, Country Club Villas, Bear Creek Villas and Oak Tree Villas, all offering views of the golf course as well as of the surrounding countryside.

Choose the proper sandpaper for task

By ANDY LANG
Associated Press

Selecting the proper sandpaper can be a chore in these days of both man-made and natural abrasive grain materials.

There are three man-made and two natural abrasives used in consumer sandpaper, each applicable for a different use. Aluminum oxide, man-made, is the big seller, since it can be used on a variety of surfaces and is especially durable. Another man-made abrasive is silicon carbide. It is very sharp, can cut faster than aluminum oxide and requires very little pressure. It is used often to sand household items made of soft metals, such as aluminum furniture, or to remove rust from a car. Another grain that man has wrought is zirconia alumina. It is sharp yet strong and is best suited for the rough sanding jobs performed with power sanders.

Flint and garnet are natural materials. Flint was the first grain used for common household wood sanding chores. But it is comparatively brittle and quickly deteriorates in use. Susan Black, technical manager for the Consumer Products Division of Norton Co., says flint is not recommended for sanding jobs these days and, in fact, is rarely found on the market today.

Garnet is still widely used. It is not as durable as the manufactured abrasives, nor is it recommended for sanding metals, but it is excellent for wood sanding because it removes soft material easily and resists what is known as "loading," which means filling up the spaces between the abrasive grains that occurs during the sanding of certain materials. Soft woods and plaster tend to load sandpaper, thereby decreasing its effectiveness. One of the solutions is a special open coat sandpaper that has more and larger spaces between grains. There is also a special treatment that will retard loading.

The size of the abrasive grain particles, called the grit size, determines the kind and quality of the final finish. It is designated by either a number or a classification. The smaller the number, the larger the grit size.

Most manufacturers are beginning to call their products by the simpler designations of coarse, medium, fine, very fine, etc.

A new view of Turtle Rock.

It's a view of tranquil hillsides and striking natural beauty. With sophisticated comforts of elegant homes plus the privacy of electronically-controlled entry gates. And it's more.

It's a special view on living that can be seen in each of the sophisticated homes of Turtle Rock Pointe — luxurious homes displaying the attention to detail and unhurried craftsmanship that are hallmarks of J. M. Peters Company.

Interiors are large, dramatic and feature-filled. There is central air conditioning. Special, hand-troweled ceiling treatments. Hand-finished oak cabinetry. Hand-set ceramic tile in the kitchens and oak-framed luminous ceiling lighting. There are gourmet appliances including Jenn-Air tri-convertible cook-tops. And there is much more: including a sensational recreation center with pool, spa and cabana.*

Come share our outlook on this very special part of Irvine and you're bound to agree. Turtle Rock just doesn't get any better than this.

*A Homeowners' Association financially supported by all residents maintains recreation facilities and common areas. Ask our sales representative for details.

Designers solve window-decorating problems

Burlington Industries contest gives the treatment to winners

By BARBARA MAYER
Associated Press

Odd-sized windows are the main window decorating problem in most American homes, according to Burlington Industries.

The fabric producer bases this statement on the results of its recent national contest. Contestants were invited to send in pictures of their problem windows. Thirty of the most common difficulties were selected as winners by the company's ready-made window coverings division.

Winners received window schemes created for them by interior designers as well as enough curtains and draperies to implement the suggested treatments. Five individuals also received cash awards — one of $5,000 and four of $1,000 each.

After analyzing all the entries, the company concluded that the most common problem is dealing with odd- and irregularly-shaped windows; next comes poor window placement; then, mixed combinations of sizes and shapes in the same room.

According to Donald J. Johnson, executive vice president, it is relatively easy to use window coverings to control the view, the entry of sunlight, and the amount of privacy. Solving esthetic problems, such as how to deal with stained glass and leaded glass windows, is also fairly simple.

But structural difficulties are harder to deal with.

Besides the problem windows already mentioned, others which give people a hard time include bay windows, patio and French doors, windows in stairwells, high overhead windows that can't be reached, windows that open inward and those with obstructions — such as air conditioners or radiators — installed beneath them.

Solutions proposed by a panel of designers for specific situations in the contest are readily usable in other situations as well, according to Burlington. For example, to improve the look of rooms with windows of different sizes, the strategy of using the same material for each one is usually successful. In one instance, where two odd-sized windows were on the same wall, the designer treated them as two elements in a picture wall, covered each in the same material and then hung paintings above the smaller one to balance it against the larger window a few feet away.

With multiple windows, such as those found in a bay, the technique of giving each window its own curtain or Roman shade and then tying the whole together with a valance and side draperies was effective in several rooms.

Most of the designers turned problem windows into decorating assets not by hiding the windows but by virtually drenching them in fabric. As a rule, three or sometimes four separate elements were employed in each treatment. These included an undercurtain or Roman shade, side draperies, tiebacks and a valance.

One of the conditions of the contest was that only ready-made curtains and draperies from Burlington's line could be used. Nevertheless, the designers managed to achieve some custom touches with the ready-mades. For example, several stitched together two or more tiebacks to obtain a length of fabric long enough to make large decorative bows or to serve as a jabot.

One inventive idea was to sew together two sets of the same curtains in different colors. The resulting two-toned curtain was then hung and folded back and caught on a hook, thus exposing the second color to the room.

Where a set of windows was too long for ready-mades, another designer chose three (two beige and one blue) sets of curtains and hung them in layers on three different curtain rods. Then she plaited the blue and beige tiebacks into a large braid and used that braid as a tieback.

draperies in the same material at the windows. In another treatment, another chose to hang four sets of sheer valances on four curtain rods to produce, in effect, a four-tiered ruffled curtain.

One important factor in making these unusual treatments possible is that the variety of choice in ready-mades has increased recently. Nowadays, extra full and deep fabric valances are sold with two rod pockets. The look can be varied according to where a second drapery rod is placed.

Hung near the top rod, the effect is balloon-like; hung lower, a slender narrow valance is created. By installing a larger rod than the top rod, one can also create an awning-like effect.

Clean glass before cutting

If you use a glass cutter to cut glass to size for replacement in a window, always clean the glass thoroughly. Dust that is barely visible can interfere with the cutting operation.

Real estate survey highlights prices

DES MOINES, Iowa — The average price tag for a new home is $103,633, while an existing home averages $93,163, according to a fall survey by Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service.

But there is a large variation in costs across the nation.

For example, the average existing home price is $47,500 in Buffalo, N.Y., while in Saddle River, N.J., it is $435,000. New home prices range from $60,000 in Buffalo to $350,000 in Carmel, Calif.

The semi-annual survey, conducted among Better Homes and Gardens brokers nationwide, highlights home prices in 100 communities representing different geographic areas and population sizes. A typical home is based on broker estimates of the cost of a three-bedroom, 1,600-square-foot home with 1-12 to two baths, in a desirable neighborhood.

The survey showed a home stays on the market an average of 95 days before it sells. In Concord, N.H., houses are snapped up in an average of 12 days. Greenville, Miss., reports the longest span of 209 days.

The average ratio of sales price to asking price nationally is 94 percent. This means a house listed for $100,000 sells for about $94,000.

In addition, Better Homes and Gardens brokers said they are pleased with current market activity, as 54 percent rated business activity as "good," 39 percent as "average," and 8 percent as "poor."

Tearing out walls requires planning

By ANDY LANG
Associated Press

Q. — You once gave advice to somebody who wanted to tear down a wall in the house. The answer referred to load-bearing and non-loading bearing partitions and how to make sure which was which. I would appreciate it if you could repeat the advice since I have a similar project in mind.

A. — Without going back to the other reply, the rule in all such cases is that you must know ahead of time whether the wall is load-bearing or not. If it is, new support will have to be found for the ceiling, a job that should be undertaken only by a professional. If the wall is not load-bearing, it can be removed without fear of consequences, although it must be pointed out that great care must be taken because of the presence of cables and pipes.

How do you tell whether a wall is load-bearing? When the ceiling joists run at right angles to the wall. Or, to put it another way, a wall is non-load-bearing when the joists and the wall run in the same direction. If you are unsure, better get an opinion from somebody who knows, not only about the load-bearing subject but about the removal of the wall itself.

Q. — I will be doing a project that calls for drilling a large number of holes. I have always preferred a brace and bit for this type of work, but maybe you can help me with a problem I always have. It's the breaking of the wood when the drill bit goes through on the other side. Is there some way to stop the wood from splintering as the bit goes through?

A. — You did not say what the project is, which would have made the answer more pertinent. However, when using a brace and bit, you should stop drilling as soon as the point of the bit comes through the other side. Do this when the bit projects the tiniest fraction of an inch. Turn the work around and complete the drilling. Another way to eliminate splintering is to attach a piece of scrap wood to the side on which the bit will emerge. When you drill the hole, the scrap wood will keep the main wood from being marred.

(Andy Lang answers questions of general interest in his column.)

Care of antique linens easier in modern age

In the Victorian age, keeping household linens white and spotless was a task that required knowing a number of homemade recipes for removing stains, washing with hard water, and adding starch.

Fortunately, care of antique textiles is much easier today, according to Country Home magazine. Although the ideal care formula may differ from case to case, here are some basic pointers to follow:

Almost all antique linens need some type of cleaning before they're used, stored, or displayed. Dirt speeds up deterioration and encourages damage from bacteria, mildew, mold and insects. Even textiles that look spotless should be cleaned to remove damaging acids and airborne pollutants that you can't see.

Most cotton or linen textiles that are in good condition can be washed with water. Generally, it's best to use distilled water because it's free of salts and iron impurities. Water temperature also is important because textiles absorb more as the water temperature increases. To reduce the risk of fibers breaking from overabsorption, use cold or warm water rather than hot.

If the piece is colored, test it for colorfastness. Place a drop or two of distilled water on a small, inconspicuous spot. Wait until it soaks in, then blot with a thick white towel. If the color runs, you'll need to dryclean the piece or display or store it as is.

White or colorfast linens from the 1930s or later can usually be machine washed. Allow the tub to fill with water first, then add the detergent. To remove light stains, add a small amount of nonchlorine bleach. Mix the solution well before putting in the textiles.

More delicate pieces should be hand washed. Use an enamel, glass or stainless steel container. Again, make your solution of water and detergent before adding the textile. Do not scrub or agitate the piece. Instead, gently stir the water above the textile. Rinse well with distilled or softened water, then blot with clean towels.

Linens that are in good enough condition to use can be ironed with care. Use a clean, well padded board and a clean press cloth. First dampen the pieces, then wrap them in a towel and set the bundle in a covered container. Allow the bundle to sit for a few hours until the moisture spreads throughout before ironing.

Store linens and other fine textiles in an acid-free environment. Wood, cardboard and paper produce acids that are harmful to textiles. To make wooden drawers and closets safe, coat the inside wooden areas with polyurethane varnish to act as an acid barrier.
