Irvine Co. offers to move Laguna Laurel

By LESLIE EARNEST
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Irvine Co. officials announced Wednesday they will consider developing the Laguna Laurel Planned Community in Irvine rather than the current site in Laguna Canyon if officials from both cities agree to a complex set of conditions that would require an amendment to Irvine's General Plan.

The proposal, which Laguna Beach City Manager Ken Frank called a "starting point," would require that Irvine agree in concept within 45 days to allowing the 3,200-home project to be built on up to 400 acres of company land in Irvine.

The development would have to occur on land not currently zoned or identified for development.

Immediately dubbed the "Irvine alternative," the proposal would require that Laguna Beach pay all costs associated with planning, filing and processing the project. In addition, Laguna Beach would be required to work with Irvine to assure the project's approval.

After Wednesday's meeting between city and company officials, Laguna Beach Mayor Robert Gentry said he was "very encouraged" by the proposal.

"While it isn't a quick and easy solution, it is movement," Gentry said. "It shows the company is really negotiating in good faith and will consider other alternatives to that site, which is very exciting to us."

Laguna Beach Councilwoman Lida Lenney said she too was optimistic.

"I came out of it feeling very positive," Lenney said. "I think we have, in a sense, a ball we can run with."

Irvine Co. Vice President Gary Hunt said the proposal is in keeping with the spirit of the ongoing discussions between the two groups and with previous options suggested by Laguna Beach.

"We basically reached a conclusion that, in the spirit of good faith, it was appropriate for Laguna Beach to be given the opportunity to discuss with the city of Irvine this possibility," Hunt said.

The company still plans to develop the project in its entirety and does not want it to be splintered, Hunt said.

Kraft sentenced to die for string of grisly slayings

By JANET ZIMMERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Convicted serial killer Randy Kraft maintained his innocence even as he was sentenced Wednesday to death in the gas chamber for the grisly homosexual slayings of 16 young hitchhikers.

"Burn in hell, Kraft!" yelled the father of 22-year-old Mark Hall, who was sexually mutilated and killed by Kraft. "Turn around and look!" he said as the former computer consultant was led from the courtroom.

But Kraft, 44, did not face his accusers.

Sentencing by Orange County Superior Court Judge Donald McCartin brought an end to more than six years of legal wrangling and emotional trauma for the families of Kraft's victims, who sobbed and hugged each other.

Kraft was expected to be whisked away to San Quentin early this morning via a private plane taking off from Fullerton Airport, sources said.

"If anyone ever deserved the death penalty, he's got it coming," McCartin said.

"I sat here for a year, and I didn't see any remorse, feelings or regret," the judge said. "It seemed he was in another world during this trial."

Kraft casually chatted with his attorneys during the hearing in Santa Ana, and addressed the issue of his guilt for the first time during the year-long trial.

"I haven't murdered anyone and I believe a reasonable review of the record will show that," Kraft said he had more to say but stopped short of doing so on the advice of his attorney.

A dozen or so families and jurors who filled the courtroom said they were not surprised by the statement. They called for a swift execution.

"Our vindication will come the day he walks into the gas chamber,"

COVER STORY LIGHTER SIDE

Motorists creative with excuses for parking tickets

By LESLIE EARNEST
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In Laguna Beach, where parking spaces are at a premium, about 55,000 parking tickets are written each year. Parking, you might say, is serious business.

But for traffic bureau supervisor Sgt. Linda Parker, it's still sometimes hard to keep a straight face.

Parker, who shares a tiny office just inside the Police Department's closed doors, is the person responsible for reading the 20 or so written complaints the city receives about parking tickets each day.

Sometimes, Parker said — maybe in even half the cases — motorists have a legitimate gripe. In those instances, the ticket is dismissed.

But even when the complaint won't get the resident off the hook, it might catch Parker's fancy for another reason. Parker, who has become something of a connoisseur of parking complaints, has for the past year been collecting the most creative comments she receives.

The excuses are alternately funny, perplexing and bizarre, she said. Their authors appeal to Parker's sympathies, her sense of fair play and even her sense of commerce.

"Even though we overstayed our 25 cents worth by 15 minutes, we were shopping and bought a set of windchimes," one wrote.

"You have to understand," Parker said, "this is their excuse, the reason they think the cite should be voided."

Some residents are downright indignant about having been cited.

"Being eight years in business in Laguna Beach, I know better than to get a ticket," wrote one. Some motorists are disdainful of both parking tickets and punctuation.

"I parked on the PCH in front of La Paz and I pulled up behind a car that had pulled up too far forward so I parked behind him and so there was a space behind me and while I was gone a motorcycle parked behind me and so the officer thought that I was parked in an invalid space but I really wasn't," another wrote.

Others are just harried.

"I'm always under stress and have little time to do my errands," complained one.

"Misplaced parking meter," wrote another.

But if it's sometimes entertaining reading the notes, it's less than amusing handing out the tickets.

Costa Mesa chamber forced to lay off staff

By BOB VAN EYKEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Hard times and sagging membership have forced the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce to lay off three of its four paid staff members in order to stave off a cash flow crunch, chamber officials announced Wednesday.

But rumors of the chamber's demise are much exaggerated, president Russ Gilbert said.

"Income from chamber membership renewals has been very slow in coming this year," he said. "It generally is at this time of year. This is a time when a lot of businesses are coming to the end of their fiscal year and they're really concentrating on finances."

"Things such as civic responsibilities and donations often fall behind. So to get us through our slow period, our board decided to tighten our belts."

The chamber will remain open, however, staffed by executive director Arlene Schafer and a crew of volunteers, Gilbert said.

Hard times are nothing new to the Costa Mesa chamber, which has suffered declining membership in recent years, Gilbert said.

"We had a cash flow problem last year at this time, but we decided to get around it by borrowing from the bank," he said. "We're still not finished repaying that loan, so rather than dig the hole deeper, we decided to cut our overhead this year."

Band swears it doesn't play to a gang beat

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A member of the Huntington Beach band Evasive Action said Wednesday that his group has been incorrectly identified as a street gang in a police report prepared for top city officials.

Sean Mallard, the band's spokesman, said the group is into making positive music for friends and fans and doesn't engage in or condone violent activities.

"We're strictly in it for the fun of rock 'n' roll, togetherness and making positive music," Mallard said.

Jim Keeble, a "roadie" who transports and sets up equipment for Evasive Action at various gigs, said that incorrectly labeling the group a gang could lead to unwanted trouble.

"I don't want to be called a gang and go to a party and be shot by someone who is a gang (member)," Keeble said.

Evasive Action was identified as one of 14 or 15 street gangs that operate in Huntington Beach in a police report that Police Chief Ron Lowenberg forwarded to City Council officials.

The Evasive Action group was listed as a gang in a news story in the Daily Pilot that was based on the police report.

The group, which Mallard said plays "power rock" that's not racial and neither heavy metal nor punk rock, is cutting an album they hope to release soon. All four members work full-time to support themselves and the band, and play local clubs like Night Moves in Huntington Beach as well as private parties.

Keeble said Evasive Action, formed about 3½ years ago, also has a copyright to prevent other bands from taking its name.

He acknowledged that there may be graffiti on city walls with the group's name, but that it would be a carryover from several years ago.

Mallard said it's not unusual for fans to paint the names of bands on walls.

Police sources said Wednesday they believe there are cases where followers of certain bands name themselves after the band and engage in street gang action that run a gambit of violent activities.

If that's true, Mallard said, he didn't know anyone who was using the band's name or engaged in gang activity.

"We are ourselves. We're not into

Irvine Co. offers to move Laguna Laurel

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Irvine Co. officials announced Wednesday they will consider developing the Laguna Laurel Planned Community in Irvine rather than the current site in Laguna Canyon if officials from both cities agree to a complex set of conditions that would require an amendment to Irvine's General Plan.

The proposal, which Laguna Beach City Manager Ken Frank called a "starting point," would require that Irvine agree in concept within 45 days to allowing the 3,200-home project to be built on up to 400 acres of company land in Irvine.

The development would have to occur on land not currently zoned or identified for development.

Immediately dubbed the "Irvine alternative," the proposal would require that Laguna Beach pay all costs associated with planning, filing and processing the project. In addition, Laguna Beach would be required to work with Irvine to assure the project's approval.

After Wednesday's meeting between city and company officials, Laguna Beach Mayor Robert Gentry said he was "very encouraged" by the proposal.

"While it isn't a quick and easy solution, it is movement," Gentry said. "It shows the company is really negotiating in good faith and will consider other alternatives to that site, which is very exciting to us."

Laguna Beach Councilwoman Lida Lenney said she too was optimistic.

"I came out of it feeling very positive," Lenney said. "I think we have, in a sense, a ball we can run with."

Irvine Co. Vice President Gary Hunt said the proposal is in keeping with the spirit of the ongoing discussions between the two groups and with previous options suggested by Laguna Beach.

"We basically reached a conclusion that, in the spirit of good faith, it was appropriate for Laguna Beach to be given the opportunity to discuss with the city of Irvine this possibility," Hunt said.

The company still plans to develop the project in its entirety and does not want it to be splintered, Hunt said.

Kraft sentenced to die for string of grisly slayings

By JANET ZIMMERMAN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Convicted serial killer Randy Kraft maintained his innocence even as he was sentenced Wednesday to death in the gas chamber for the grisly homosexual slayings of 16 young hitchhikers.

"Burn in hell, Kraft!" yelled the father of 22-year-old Mark Hall, who was sexually mutilated and killed by Kraft. "Turn around and look!" he said as the former computer consultant was led from the courtroom.

But Kraft, 44, did not face his accusers.

Sentencing by Orange County Superior Court Judge Donald McMartin brought an end to more than six years of legal wrangling and emotional trauma for the families of Kraft's victims, who sobbed and hugged each other.

Kraft was expected to be whisked away to San Quentin early this morning via a private plane taking off from Fullerton Airport, sources said.

"If anyone ever deserved the death penalty, he's got it coming," McMartin said.

"I sat here for a year, and I didn't see any remorse, feelings or regret," the judge said. "It seemed he was in another world during this trial."

Kraft casually chatted with his attorneys during the hearing in Santa Ana, and addressed the issue of his guilt for the first time during the year-long trial.

"I haven't murdered anyone and I believe a reasonable review of the record will show that," Kraft said he had more to say but stopped short of doing so on the advice of his attorney.

A dozen or so families and jurors who filled the courtroom said they were not surprised by the statement. They called for a swift execution.

"Our vindication will come the day he walks into the gas chamber,"

Motorists creative with excuses for parking tickets

By LESLIE EARNEST
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In Laguna Beach, where parking spaces are at a premium, about 55,000 parking tickets are written each year. Parking, you might say, is serious business.

But for traffic bureau supervisor Sgt. Linda Parker, it's still sometimes hard to keep a straight face.

Parker, who shares a tiny office just inside the Police Department's closed doors, is the person responsible for reading the 20 or so written complaints the city receives about parking tickets each day.

Sometimes, Parker said — maybe in even half the cases — motorists have a legitimate gripe. In those instances, the ticket is dismissed.

But even when the complaint won't get the resident off the hook, it might catch Parker's fancy for another reason. Parker, who has become something of a connoisseur of parking complaints, has for the past year been collecting the most creative comments she receives.

The excuses are alternately funny, perplexing and bizarre, she said. Their authors appeal to Parker's sympathies, her sense of fair play and even her sense of commerce.

"Even though we overstayed our 25 cents worth by 15 minutes, we were shopping and bought a set of windchimes," one wrote.

"You have to understand," Parker said, "this is their excuse, the reason they think the cite should be voided."

Some residents are downright indignant about having been cited.

"Being eight years in business in Laguna Beach, I know better than to get a ticket," wrote one. Some motorists are disdainful of both parking tickets and punctuation.

"I parked on the PCH in front of La Paz and I pulled up behind a car that had pulled up too far forward so I parked behind him and so there was a space behind me and while I was gone a motorcycle parked behind me and so the officer thought that I was parked in an invalid space but I really wasn't," another wrote.

Others are just harned.

"I'm always under stress and have little time to do my errands," complained one.

"Misplaced parking meter," wrote another.

But if it's sometimes entertaining reading the notes, it's less than amusing handing out the tickets.

Costa Mesa chamber forced to lay off staff

By BOB VAN EYKEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Hard times and sagging membership have forced the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce to lay off three of its four paid staff members in order to stave off a cash flow crunch, chamber officials announced Wednesday.

But rumors of the chamber's demise are much exaggerated, president Russ Gilbert said.

"Income from chamber membership renewals has been very slow in coming this year," he said. "It generally is at this time of year. This is a time when a lot of businesses are coming to the end of their fiscal year and they're really concentrating on finances."

"Things such as civic responsibilities and donations often fall behind. So to get us through our slow period, our board decided to tighten our belts."

The chamber will remain open, however, staffed by executive director Arlene Schaefer and a crew of volunteers, Gilbert said.

Hard times are nothing new to the Costa Mesa chamber, which has suffered declining membership in recent years, Gilbert said.

"We had a cash flow problem last year at this time, but we decided to get around it by borrowing from the bank," he said. "We're still not finished repaying that loan, so rather than dig the hole deeper, we decided to cut our overhead this year."

Band swears it doesn't play to a gang beat

By ROBERT BARKER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A member of the Huntington Beach band Evasive Action said Wednesday that his group has been incorrectly identified as a street gang in a police report prepared for top city officials.

Sean Mallard, the band's spokesman, said the group is into making positive music for friends and fans and doesn't engage in or condone violent activities.

"We're strictly in it for the fun of rock 'n' roll, togetherness and making positive music," Mallard said.

Jim Keeble, a "roadie" who transports and sets up equipment for Evasive Action at various gigs, said that incorrectly labeling the group a gang could lead to unwanted trouble.

"I don't want to be called a gang and go to a party and be shot by someone who is a gang (member)," Keeble said.

Evasive Action was identified as one of 14 or 15 street gangs that operate in Huntington Beach in a police report that Police Chief Ron Lowenberg forwarded to City Council officials.

The Evasive Action group was listed as a gang in a news story in the Daily Pilot that was based on the police report.

The group, which Mallard said plays "power rock" that's not racial and neither heavy metal nor punk rock, is cutting an album they hope to release soon. All four members work full-time to support themselves and the band, and play local clubs like Night Moves in Huntington Beach as well as private parties.

Keeble said Evasive Action, formed about 3½ years ago, also has a copyright to prevent other bands from taking its name.

He acknowledged that there may be graffiti on city walls with the group's name, but that it would be a carryover from several years ago. Mallard said it's not unusual for fans to paint the names of bands on walls.

Police sources said Wednesday they believe there are cases where followers of certain bands name themselves after the band and engage in street gang action that run a gambit of violent activities.

If that's true, Mallard said, he didn't know anyone who was using the band's name or engaged in gang activity.

"We are ourselves. We're not into

Fiery Feinstein favors more active role as governor

By PAUL ARCHIPLEY
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Repudiating the hands-off governing style of the state's current chief executive, gubernatorial candidate Dianne Feinstein on Wednesday promised an activist approach to tackle the myriad problems facing California.

The former mayor of San Francisco spoke with about 40 guests at a reception hosted by John and Nancy McNaughton and Bill and Alta Jaffe at the McNaughton's Laguna Beach home.

Feinstein said a philosophy of non-intervention that has ruled state government for 30 years spells disaster for California's future.

"I believe if we do nothing to solve the problems of our infrastructure, of education, of caring for the needs of our people, we're going to come to Armageddon," she said.

She cited, for example, the state's continuing economic shift toward specialization in high tech fields, while at the same time its education system is failing to turn out the workers that will be qualified for those fields.

"Once one of the best education systems in the nation, it's now one of the worst," Feinstein said. She said the high school dropout rate in the Los Angeles Unified School District is approaching 50 percent.

"The system has to be changed. Teachers have to be paramount. Parents have to be involved," she said. Feinstein favors decentralization, creation of smaller school districts and allowing parents to choose where to send their children.

In a swipe at her chief rival in the Democratic primary, state Attorney General John Van de Kamp, Feinstein said criminals have gotten away with too much for too long.

During her tenure as San Francisco's mayor — from 1978-88 — Feinstein said she beefed up the police force, adding 320 officers, computerized dispatching and fingerprinting systems and took other steps that helped cut crime 20 percent in that city.

"There are people who have been arrested for selling crack cocaine 4-to-5 times and never did a day in jail," she said. "I favor a law that says if you sell drugs you go to jail."

She would use specially trained members of the National Guard for drug interdiction work at the nation's borders and would try to speed up the criminal justice system for murderers facing the death penalty.

Feinstein also favors state leadership and regional approaches to local growth issues.

She said no-growth communities are merely pushing development and related infrastructure problems across their borders, and rural communities are finding themselves unable to handle or afford the sudden, expansive growth there.

She would call for a statewide inventory on water availability, road and school capacities and other growth-related issues.

"It would be the job of the governor to see that new growth goes where it can be accommodated," she said.

Feinstein is also strongly pro-choice on the abortion issue.

Finally, with the sound of Pacific Ocean waves crashing outside the McNaughton home, Feinstein said she opposed all offshore oil drilling and favored state control of coastal water issues from the shoreline to the 12-mile limit.

Against Van de Kamp, Feinstein is a consensus underdog in the race for the Democratic nomination.

She said the road to victory will depend on her ability to raise adequate funds to wage a credible statewide campaign.

The winner of the nomination will likely face Sen. Pete Wilson, who has announced his candidacy in the Republican primary.

Pair admits abusing woman in their care

By City News Service

In the first elderly abuse case prosecuted in Orange County under a new state law, a San Clemente woman pleaded guilty to abusing an elderly woman she and her son were hired to care for, a prosecutor said Wednesday.

Jacqueline Anderson, 40, and her son, Kevin Prescott, were charged last June with endangering the life of Anna P. Knost, an 86-year-old San Clemente widow, through gross neglect.

Prescott pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of neglect on Nov. 8. "Knost was not eating, was unbathed, wore dirty clothes and was left unattended for long periods of time," county investigator Kenneth Jones wrote in court documents.

The mother and son were also accused of stealing more than $25,000 from the woman by persuading her to sell her home below market value and having the woman write them checks on her bank account.

Anderson and Prescott were caretakers for the elderly woman between October 1987 and October 1988, during which time prosecutors said the abuses took place.

Sentencing has been postponed until Jan. 3.

EXCUSES

according to Parker. Tongue lashings are an occupational hazard.

"In my opinion, being a parking control officer is one of the toughest jobs on the Police Department because of that," Parker said. "I have found as a police officer I could pull over a person and write them a speeding ticket that would cost them over $100, and they would be polite and even thank me when they left. You could take that same person and give them a $16 parking ticket and they go bonkers."

According to Dick Reese, Laguna's director of finance, the city collected approximately $650,000 in parking ticket fines.

The most common tickets go to people who overstay their welcome at a parking meter or who park where no parking signs are posted, Parker said. Bail for those tickets is about $16. If motorists are nabbed in a spot reserved for the handicapped, they can expect to part with $54.

"That's the biggie," Parker said. The city has five full-time parking officers in the winter and seven in the summer. There are about 1,800 meters scattered around town and another 200 ticking in the canyon during the summer.

A common and often legitimate complaint is that a parking meter was not working right, Parker said. Other explanations that sometimes result in the ticket being dropped involve improperly posted parking instructions or worn curb markings, she said.

But often, miffed motorists take a different tact.

"I had a flat tire and pulled into a flat alley to change it," offered one. "After I put on the little wheel, I was afraid to drive the spare and rolled it around the corner to park."

"Some requests are direct and personable."

"Why are you so cruel?" wrote one.

"Please leave me alone," pleaded another.

When she settles down to read a stack of complaints, the person with whom she shares the cramped office can often tell, Parker said.

"I'll start chuckling about something and she'll say, 'Oh, you're doing parking complaints again, aren't you?'"

CHAMBER

From A1

Gilbert said elimination of the three staff positions would save the chamber about $6,000 a month.

With about 700 active members, the Costa Mesa chamber claims as its own only about 7 percent of the city's industrial firms and about 15 percent of retail businesses.

Those numbers do not compare favorably with the neighboring Newport Harbor and Irvine chambers of commerce, Gilbert said.

"Newport has about 1,200 members and Irvine has 1,000, and yet Costa Mesa has more business and industry than either of those cities," he said.

The main problem for the Costa Mesa chamber over the years has been poor membership recruitment, Gilbert said.

"We had problems with the person who was handling our membership, so we didn't renew his contract," he said. "Then we brought someone else in, and he didn't work out very well. So we've been trying to do it ourselves, but we just haven't been getting the word out very effectively."

Gilbert said he and other board members hope the situation will reverse itself after a new executive director is found. Schafer announced last month that she would leave her post as executive director at the end of December.

"We're getting some excellent applicants," he said. "We hope to bring in someone with a very strong track record in running a chamber of commerce. We'll be looking to that person for guidance as to how to proceed with increasing our membership."

The chamber needs about 850 members in order to carry its overhead, including the three now inactive staff positions.

Gilbert said the chamber's goal was to have 1,000 active members by the end of the first six months of 1990.

FV police to vote Friday on contract

By PAUL ARCHIPLEY

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Beginning Friday, Fountain Valley police officers will report for duty without a contract.

However, they are scheduled to vote that same day on a new contract, according to Jim Perry, president of the Police Officers Association.

Negotiations between the association and city have been under way for about six months on a contract for the city's 60 police officers.

The current contract expires today.

Negotiators met Wednesday and agreed on terms that will be put before the membership.

Perry declined to discuss specifics of the proposal, but he said it includes provisions for incentive pay and insurance benefits.

Officers' salaries are determined by a formula based on averages of what police in other cities earn.

New insurance provisions are being proposed to "offset rising insurance costs," Perry said.

Although he didn't predict the outcome of Friday's vote, Perry suggested POA negotiators were satisfied their demands were being met in the proposed contract.

"We're close enough that we have a proposal to take to the membership," he said.

IRVINE

From A1

Had not yet seen the written proposal, said the concept of picking up and moving the development to Irvine is "probably simplistic and unrealistic," but that he is willing to consider any alternative that might preserve the pristine canyon.

"I haven't heard anything about this but I've indicated in the past we regard Laguna Canyon as a valuable open space resource for the city of Irvine as well as for the entire county," Agran said. "Accordingly, we would be willing to consider any proposal that might save Laguna Canyon."

"At the same time," he added, "we have to be sure that any changes wouldn't impose an undue burden upon our own city."

Laguna Laurel has been slated to be built on Irvine Co. land on both sides of Laguna Canyon Road, between El Toro Road and the San Diego Freeway. The project includes a 12.4-acre school center, an elementary school and an 18-hole golf course.

The plan was approved in concept by the Orange County Board of Supervisors in 1984 and a revised plan was approved in 1986.

The Orange County Planning Commission was to review environmental documents relating to Laguna Laurel and an accompanying plan to widen Laguna Canyon Road this week. However, Irvine Co. officials last Thursday requested that the hearing be indefinitely postponed to allow the company to continue to work toward a compromise with the city.

Although Hunt said the company is not willing to allow the development to be fragmented, Agran said there still might be other alternatives to consider.

"I don't see how you can take a whole community being proposed and pick it up and move it somewhere else," Agran said.

drugs. We're not racist. We write positive lyrics," he said.

He acknowledged that the high energy music they play sometimes attracts troublemakers to parties, despite an opposite goal.

"Our parties are all about bringing friends together and making new friends for a positive time," Mallard said. "We don't judge people by the way they look and we don't want to be judged by the way we look."

Meanwhile, Lt. Mike Biggs confirmed reports Wednesday that members of another gang have threatened the lives of two police officers after the arrest of several gang members earlier this month.

The warnings, in the form of graffiti sprayed on the walls at Koleso Park, followed arrests of gang members for spray-painting, possession of cocaine and rape, Sgt. Jeff Cope said.

Cope said he considered the threat serious; Biggs said he didn't know how serious it was.

"We have gang activity but it's not a serious problem and we don't want it to become a serious problem," Biggs said.

In his report to the police chief, Cope said gang activity is on the rise and is projected to continue to climb.

a transfer of development rights, he said. For example, the city might consider allowing the company to increase development in the Irvine Center area, where the San Diego and Santa Ana freeways meet, he said. Another possibility might be to allow additional housing in Irvine where Laguna Canyon Road nears the San Diego Freeway, Agran said.

Immediately after Wednesday's meeting, Frank drafted a letter to Irvine City Manager Paul Brady Jr. requesting a meeting to explore various possibilities using the Irvine Co. proposal as an "initial focal point."

The next step, Lennay said, is for Laguna Beach to craft a proposal tempting enough to elicit Irvine's support.

"I think in all honesty we now have to go with our hats in our hands to the city of Irvine and ask the citizens of Irvine for their help," she said. "Laguna Beach has to go to Irvine with a proposal that's sweet enough that they will listen to us and try to help us."

LOTTERY

By The Associated Press

Here are the winning numbers picked Wednesday night for the California Lottery's twice-weekly "Lotto 6-49" game: 2, 6, 15, 16, 17, 27 and the bonus number, 39.

Players who correctly guessed all six numbers will share a prize pool of $4.4 million, lottery officials said.

All those who picked five numbers plus the bonus number will divide among themselves a prize pool of $1.2 million; five of six will share $654,000; four of six will share $395,000. Three of six is worth an automatic $5 per winner.

The numbers were chosen by Lotto machine during a television broadcast originating in Sacramento. Any combination of the numbers would win.

The sales from Saturday night to Wednesday's drawing were $11.9 million.

TIME OF MY LIFE

The Irvine Co.'s candidates only know of potholes

At first I thought it might have been a typographical error; I've seen a lot of them lately. So I read it again — the editorial in the Irvine newspaper owned by The Irvine Co. The line that shocked me read:

"City Councils are elected to fill potholes, not legislate morality."

For the next 22 lines of circuitous thinking void of logic, the editorial discussed the recent election and particularly Proposition N (as in Neanderthal), and then concluded with:

"Now, more than ever, Irvine City Council members and their colleagues around the county will have their hands full taking care of basic responsibilities, keeping the potholes filled."

Now there is a beautiful exposition of the rights and duties of city councils — "keeping the potholes filled."

I don't know who wrote that editorial, and I don't particularly care. I consider Jeanne Kevill, editor of the Irvine World News a friend, and also Brian Manning, the publisher. But since the newspaper is owned by The Irvine Co., you have to assume that its editorials pretty much reflect the thinking and attitudes of the owner, regardless of who spun the blank paper through the typewriter.

And if The Irvine Co. believes that "city councils are elected to fill potholes," it explains why the company has so much difficulty getting its various projects through the various city councils in the county.

It might also explain why Irvine Co.-backed candidates in Irvine take such a beating. Either voters deliberately turn their backs on The Irvine Co., or they pay no attention to what the company's newspaper prints. At a recent seminar on press freedom, I shared the platform with publisher Manning, who said they were trying to offset the public's perception of his newspaper as "The Irvine World Snooze."

To me, it would appear that the newspaper and the company have developed a pathological paranoia about Larry Agran, the mayor of Irvine, who has never been supported by The Irvine Co. and who has never been defeated, either for City Council or for mayor. When you read The Irvine World News you have to conclude that everybody is against Agran except the people.

Agran was always the top vote-getter when he ran for the council, and yet The Irvine Co. majority for years denied him the office of mayor. So he led a fight to change the charter so the mayor would be elected directly, and after that passed, he was easily elected mayor.

But that was after years of watching The Irvine Co. candidates — Dave Sills, Bill Vardoulis and Art Anthony — play musical chairs with the office of mayor. One of these three, Anthony, shot his wife, and maybe instead of filling potholes — as good Irvine Co. candidates should do — maybe he should have been legislating morality.

If you want to analyze editorials that appear in the Irvine newspaper, there is a simple question to ask about any editorial that addresses the performance of the city government. And that question is "Who is the target?" Almost always, the answer will be Larry Agran.

For example, one paragraph in the pothole editorial read:

"City Council members and anyone who would aspire to city office would do well to consider the probability that many Irvine voters were moved more by an abhorrence of government intrusion than by fear of homosexuality."

Probability?

Many Irvine voters? Name two. The target is so obvious here. It's Larry Agran. His opponents have long tried to develop a campaign issue based on the mayor's admirable social concerns. Our state Legislature, and our Congress, firmly in the grip of special interests and PACs and lobbyists, do not face up to pollution, fluorocarbons, civil liberties, and discrimination.

Many city councils throughout the land are standing up and sending urgent messages to the president and to Congress about vital issues other than potholes. The Palo Alto City Council, after a lengthy public hearing, unanimously passed a resolution urging a nuclear freeze. But when the Irvine City Council adopts related social legislation, there is a loud hue and cry by Agran opponents.

The sad thing is that there are those with minuscule intellects who honestly believe all a city council should do is fill potholes, and their candidates are usually eminently qualified to do just that and nothing more.

When the world is currently concerned about its own survival, when the peoples of the world are marching everywhere for more liberties and more voice in the affairs of government, it seems to me that what we need on city councils are concerned public servants capable of leadership and intelligent attention to the public's welfare.

If this is true, if what we really need are leaders and not just pothole fillers, the Irvine newspaper editorial writer owes an apology to every city council everywhere in the world. And that includes Orange County whether the new Values Coalition likes it or not.

KRAFT GETS DEATH SENTENCE

From A1
said Shirley DeVaul, whose 20-year-old son, Rodger DeVaul Jr., was drugged and strangled by Kraft in 1983.

"I pray God will keep me alive and well so I can see that day," DeVaul told a crowd of news media as she wiped tears from her eyes.

She and her husband, Rodger DeVaul, are sponsoring an initiative drive to hasten the judicial process in death penalty cases. Kraft's case from arrest to sentencing took six years. Rodger DeVaul said he guessed Kraft would not actually face his death penalty for another six to 10 years.

"People keep saying the death penalty is not a deterrent and that's true," he said. "We have got to start executing some of the murderers, then it will be a deterrent."

Kraft was sentenced to death for 11 murders and given consecutive life prison terms for the other five slayings. The judge said the intent was to keep Kraft in custody in case all the death sentences were overturned.

A death sentence is automatically appealed to the state Supreme Court.

Kraft was also sentenced to 10 years in prison for three counts of sodomy, four have been affirmed on appeal; the rest are pending.

Judges have the option of reducing a jury's recommendation for the death penalty to life in prison without possibility of parole, although no Orange County jurist has ever done so.

On Aug. 11, a 10-woman, two-man jury recommended Kraft should die in the gas chamber for his crime spree that spanned from 1972 to 1983. He has been linked to some 45 other murders in three states.

The same panel, which spent 13 months in trial, convicted Kraft in May of killing the 16 men, who were all without transportation when he rendered them defenseless with sedatives and alcohol.

Many of the victims were bound with their own shoelaces and strangled slowly with their belts. Kraft tortured and mutilated the bodies, and in some cases emasculated the victims while they were still alive, before dumping their dead bodies along remote Orange County highways.

The killing frenzy ended on May 14, 1983, when Kraft was stopped by California Highway Patrol officers for erratic driving. They discovered a strangled Marine in the fully reclined passenger seat of Kraft's car, with his pants down around his knees.

Prosecutors claim a list with more than 60 handwritten entries, which was found in Kraft's trunk at the time of his arrest, was a coded way to remember his gruesome nocturnal outings and the sexual euphoria he reportedly gained from them.

The judge expressed revulsion as he described a victim whose eyes, eyelids and other body parts were burned with a cigarette lighter. The victim's throat was packed with dirt and grass and he had been castrated, mutilated and left with his legs around a tree.

"I don't know of any person who could do that to another human being," McCartin said.

"Mr. Kraft took innocent and unsuspecting victims who he drugged, tortured and mutilated. He demonstrated an unbelievable, aggressive, violent tendency toward humanity. I just can't imagine this violence to satisfy his sexual desires," the judge said.

McCartin said his biggest concern was two letters he received from parents in Corona del Mar and Iowa whose children were missing. They wanted to know if their son was an entry on Kraft's death list.

"As far as maintaining your innocence, that's your prerogative," said McCartin, noting that he was addressing Kraft as an individual and not as a judge. If the death sentence appeal fails, "you might give some thought in your waning moments to help those people out," he said.

Outside court, relatives of victims clasped hands, hugged and cried. They planned a lunch with 11 of the 19 jurors and alternates who attended the sentencing.

Juror Connie Goldfarb said the evidence in the case "was more horrible than any horror movie because it was real. Yet at times, it was so unimaginable that it was hard to believe it was real."

counts of mayhem and three counts of great bodily injury.

The judge pronounced sentence after denying motions by the defense for a new trial or modification of sentence.

Defense attorney Thomas McDonald said it was impossible for Kraft to get a fair trial because the judge refused to order separate trials for each of the counts, which he claims automatically prejudices a jury.

"Kraft would have liked to speak to every single count," McDonald said. "He feels he is not guilty of these offenses and he has maintained that from the start."

Kraft's sentence makes him the 21st Orange County killer on California's Death Row, according to the district attorney's office. Five of those sentences

Condition of baby hurt in fall upgraded

By The Daily Pilot

The condition of a child who suffered massive head injuries when he fell 23 feet from a cliff in Laguna Beach earlier this month has been upgraded from critical to serious condition, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

"He's off the life support," Nancy Gasho said. "Other than that, there's not a lot of change, but that's an improvement."

The 18-month-old child, Braden Little, was injured Nov. 12 when he fell from a cliff at the edge of his back yard in the 700 block of Pearl Street. The child's mother, Jayne Barbara Little, had been playing with her son and was briefly distracted when the accident occurred, according to Laguna Beach police.

Although a fence rims the yard, at one section near a spa the fence is only 17 inches high. Laguna Beach police Sgt. Raymond Lardie said: Braden apparently flipped over the fence at that location and fell onto Pearl Street below. Lardie said.

Orange, San Diego counties to work together on funding

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The boards of supervisors from Orange and San Diego counties agreed during a joint meeting to explore cooperative ways to overcome their relatively low shares of state funding.

The 75-minute session, conducted Tuesday in San Diego, ended with promises of future staff collaboration in areas including transportation, criminal justice, hazardous wastes and land-use planning.

San Diego also was invited by the Orange County supervisors to examine and join their push for a regional jail authority that would establish a shared detention facility.

Building and operating costs would be substantially reduced for such a jail, which might be located in one of the region's desert areas, said Orange County Supervisor Don Roth.

Officials from both counties agreed that mutual assistance could be the key to overcoming what they called inequities in financial assistance from the state.

Of the 58 counties in California, statistics show Orange ranks 55th in per capita allocations of state funds while San Diego ranks 57th. Although the statewide average is $236 per resident, the amount is $180 in Orange County and $174 in San Diego County.

Weekend motorcycle crash victim ID'd

A Marine who was killed in a motorcycle accident over the weekend was identified Wednesday as Cpl. Stephen J. Vergo of Joliet, Ill.

Vergo, 26, was stationed at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station when he died of head injuries.

But the end of the trial didn't end the nightmare for jurors, foreman Jim Lytle said.

Lytle, an electrician, had started as an independent contractor just three months before the trial began. By the time it was over, he had lost most of his contacts.

Lytle said he now works primarily in gang prevention with the Sugar Ray Robinson Youth Foundation in Orange County as a result of the Kraft trial.

"Maybe if drugs weren't a part of their lives, one or two of (Kraft's victims) would still be alive," Lytle said. Many of the victims had a history of drug and alcohol abuse, as well as petty criminal records.

According to a probation report submitted to the court, Kraft had a history of prowling the freeways at night and picking up hitchhikers.

Jeff Seeling, Kraft's roommate and lover, told probation officers after Kraft's arrest that they sometimes picked up hitchhikers on the freeway and brought them home to have sex with them.

John F. McWilliams, who lived with Kraft in 1977 and 1978, said Kraft would sometimes stay out all night, but would not disclose what he'd done during that time.

"The defendant frequently traveled to Oceanside, where there were Mannes, because he had a thing about men in uniforms," the report states.

Both men said Kraft purchased numerous prescriptions for valium and other sedatives and carried the drugs in his car.

In his interview for the probation report, Kraft said the justice system had failed him because he did not receive a fair trial.

"Both judges had their minds made up beforehand and jurors held things against him after having been led to believe that he had 'fooled' everyone all his life. The defendant feels that the jury was stampeded into returning a guilty verdict," the report says.

His sister, Kay Plunkett, told the probation officer that Kraft planned to "throw himself into writing for jail reform" after his conviction.

Woman raped at her home

By EMILY ADAMS
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

A 19-year-old woman was attacked and raped in her Irvine apartment before dawn Wednesday by an intruder wearing gloves and a mask, police reported.

The woman was asleep in her ground-floor apartment at 4 a.m. when she was awakened by a noise. She walked into her living room and saw a man wearing plastic disposable gloves and a nylon stocking over his face, Lt. Mike White said.

"He told her he had a knife and forced her into the back bedroom, where he raped her," White said.

The intruder did not display a knife. The woman sustained no other physical injuries, police said.

The rapist fled the woman's home, located near Kelvin Avenue and Jamboore Road, on foot.

The man was described as 5 feet 8 inches, 140 to 150 pounds and 20 to 30 years old. He was wearing a dark sweatshirt and jeans, White said.

The victim was taken to a nearby hospital for an examination, White said.

Police believe the man entered her apartment through an unlocked sliding door. The woman's roommate was not home at the time.

The police investigation is continuing.

By The Daily Pilot

A dead black cat found tied to a cross in the front yard of a Newport Beach residence two weeks ago died of a blow to the head, not from being hit by a car, according to results of a necropsy conducted by the Orange County Health Care Agency.

But Newport Beach police Sgt. Andy Gonis discounted a link to Satanic rituals.

Police still have no leads in the Nov. 18 incident in which a resident in the 100 block of Kings Place found the dead, adult cat in front of his home tied to a wooden, two-foot-tall cross. The cat had no identification tags.

Gonis said the suspicious cat death was the first reported in Newport Beach.

"It's an isolated incident," he said. "We don't believe it was consistent with Satanic practices because there was no form of mutilation. It's still being investigated."

A series of cat deaths in the north Tustin area has raised fears among residents of a rise in Satanic rituals, though many authorities believe coyotes are responsible for the deaths.

CHP on lookout for polluting cars in south county

By City News Service

In a bid to improve air quality, a squad of California Highway Patrol officers will patrol southern Orange County today for vehicles that are belching out excessive exhaust.

Eight CHP officers in marked cars will roam the Capistrano Valley area throughout the day looking for vehicles emitting excessive exhaust, CHP Capt. Steve Mallone said.

"The officers on patrol are experts in pollution enforcement, having written over 1,000 polluting vehicle citations per month," Mallone said.

The captain said the officers will be watching for diesel cars and trucks, since about 75 to 80 percent of the 15,000 citations issued for smog violations have been written on those types of vehicles.

A man and wife in the 400 block of Ruby reported receiving "profound" phone calls on Tuesday.

A gold chain with a diamond pendant was stolen from a location in the 300 block of Cliff Drive on Tuesday. The necklace was valued at $2,100.

A resident in the 1000 block of Baja reported a neighbor keeps taking garden items. The loss was estimated at $10.

Newport Beach

A male in his early 20s wearing pants with a geometric design and a black turtle-neck was seen trying to punch out the door lock of a 1982 Honda Civic parked in the 1200 block of West Bay Street. The suspect had a screwdriver in his hand and broke a brown bottle on the car's hood when confronted by a witness. He drove off in a clean and shiny red Ford Pinto.

A tall man with curly brown hair peered into a 23-year-old woman's bedroom window in the 200 block of Prospect Street. A few days earlier, a suspect was caught in a neighbor's planter and claimed he was looking for his cat.

Cash and coins totaling $107, two emergency flare guns and five packs of 12-gauge flare shells were taken from Dad's Marine Supply, 2610 Avon St., by a burglar who unscrewed a roof skylight to enter the business. However, the flares and flare guns were left on the roof and ground near the business.

Thieves reportedly stole the wallets of several members of the Huntington Beach High School girl's drill team while they were at practice.

Six or seven men reportedly sat against the wall in the 17000 block of Queens Lane and smoked marijuana.

Someone stole a 1985 Cadillac Eldorado belonging to a member of Golden West College staff at the college parking lot.

A man was detained while allegedly trying to steal a leather jacket and jeans valued at $220 from a department store in the Huntington Center, 7777 Edinger Ave.

Five or six men reportedly got intoxicated while drinking beer in their car and urinated on a wall at a service station at Warner Avenue and Golden West Street.

A man reported that children came to him, telling him that their baby sister was hitting and beating them in the 18000 block of Mora Kai Lane.

Edison to test Irvine facility

By The Daily Pilot

The Southern California Edison Co. is ready to begin operating a $300,000 cogeneration test facility at Irvine's Heritage Park aquatics center that will heat the pools and provide electricity for Edison's grid.

The two-unit, 60 kilowatt system will save the city at least $12,700 a year, the city estimates. It initially runs on natural gas and recaptures energy from pool. It is housed in a concrete building inside the aquatics complex. Edison is testing the efficiency of a unit that is one-tenth the size of traditional cogeneration systems, usually found in larger manufacturing plants and buildings.

The company will operate and maintain the system two years, after which the city will have the option to buy, sell or remove the facility.

Rebels attack affluent areas, trap many foreigners

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist rebels invaded parts of the capital's most affluent neighborhoods before dawn Wednesday, trapping many foreigners, and dug in after fierce combat with government forces.

How many people had been killed in the latest guerrilla offensive was not clear. Eleven bodies of combatants were seen lying in the streets.

Guerrillas briefly held a U.S. Embassy officer's home, officials in Washington said. They were also said to have seized the home of a French diplomat.

U.S. Embassy personnel were told not to report to work Wednesday, and the embassy was closed for the day, White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said in Washington.

Administration officials said no Americans were injured, and the rebels said in a statement that their fighters had been told not to attack Americans.

A Salvadoran Foreign Ministry official said rebels took over the Japanese Embassy, which is four blocks from the home of U.S. Ambassador William Walker, but Japan denied the report.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III said guerrillas "briefly overran" an unidentified U.S. Embassy officer's home. The State Department said the home apparently was seized at random.

"The family was safely evacuated by Salvadoran government forces, and the family was not actually in the hands of the guerrillas at any time," said David Denny, a department spokesman.

Heavy and sustained fire was reported blocks from Ambassador Walker's home. Embassy spokesman Jeff Brown said Walker was "fine ... working in his office at the embassy."

Denny said, "Several families are unable to leave their homes because of fighting in their locations."

Late Wednesday, the rebel leadership proposed a six-hour truce Thursday morning to evacuate foreigners from the neighborhoods. There was no immediate public response from the government.

In a broadcast by their clandestine Radio Venceremos, the rebels also said their fighters had captured the homes of three "oligarchs" but freed the occupants to show they are a "responsible force."

Crackdown gets Baker's approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Wednesday that the Salvadoran government's domestic crackdown was an "absolutely appropriate" response to rebel attacks on U.S. and other targets.

Earlier, White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said when asked about the government's crackdown, "Our response is that we deplore violence and killing on both sides."

The leftist guerrillas "briefly overran" the home of at least one U.S. Embassy officer in the early morning outbreak of fighting, Baker told reporters, also saying, "We are taking steps to assure the safety of embassy personnel."

Administration officials said all the Americans escaped injury.

The State Department, meanwhile, set up a 24-hour task force to monitor the events in El Salvador.

The task force said in a statement that the family whose home was briefly seized had been "safely evacuated by Salvadoran government forces" and that the Americans were "not actually in the hands of the guerrillas at any time."

The rebels "appeared to seize this residence at random," said task force spokesman David Denny.

After the pre-dawn attack, embassy personnel were told not to report to work Wednesday and the embassy was closed for the day, said White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk.

Parliament ends Communist monopoly

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The Communist-run Parliament swiftly ended the party's 40-year monopoly on power on Wednesday and a Politburo member said Czechoslovakia's first free elections since 1948 could be held within a year.

The move was a frantic effort to satisfy the demands of the growing pro-democracy movement here.

Premier Ladislav Adamec said he intended to negotiate a reassessment of the 1968 Warsaw Pact invasion that crushed reform in Czechoslovakia and would be prepared to negotiate the withdrawal of Soviet troops.

It was the first such statement by a top-echelon official.

Vasil Mohorita, a member of the ruling Politburo, told a news conference that now that the Communist Party has agreed to relinquish complete control, free elections could be held within 12 months.

Voting with the somber, mechanical gestures born of decades of rubberstamp approval of Communist measures, the 309 deputies unanimously scrapped Article 4 of the constitution, which mandated the leading role of the Communist Party. They also deleted a clause that bases all education on Marxism-Leninism.

"The revolution is proceeding much quicker than we expected," said Jiri Dienstbier, spokesman for the Civic Forum opposition, minutes after the vote was broadcast live on national television.

The emergency parliamentary session ended late Wednesday, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

The changes were among historic concessions the opposition won from the Communist government on Tuesday when Adamec also promised to form a new government, including non-Communists, by Sunday.

They followed 11 straight days of huge anti-government demonstrations, which culminated in a two-hour strike on Monday in which millions of workers participated.

Adamec went on national TV and said he had asked Civic Forum for its suggestions on whom to include in the new government.

Parliament also eliminated the Communists' leading position in the National Front, an umbrella organization embracing all political parties and social groups allowed in Czechoslovakia.

The removal of the requirement that Marxism-Leninism be the guiding principle of education was a prime demand of students who staged the Nov. 17 protest and have led the pro-democracy movement since.

Cutting ancient redwoods opposed

SAN FRANCISCO — The Pacific Lumber Co.'s plan to clear an ancient redwood forest would destroy one of oldest and most pristine of the majestic groves that once blanketed California's north coast, environmentalists said Wednesday as they urged the state to stop the proposal.

Environmentalists oppose felling 564 acres of the trees in the 3,000-acre Headwaters Forest, a glorious region of giant mossy redwoods, some 1,500 years old, rising out of deep gorges in the coastal region of Humboldt County. Pacific Lumber has submitted two timber harvest plans to the state Department of Forestry, which must approve the cuts.

Elephant that had C-section dying

SAN DIEGO — A 19-year-old elephant that became the first pachyderm to undergo a Caesarean section has developed an abdominal infection and probably will die soon, a Wild Animal Park spokesman said Wednesday. Jean, an Asian elephant that had been pregnant for more than 730 days, underwent a 5½-hour Caesarean section on Nov. 20. A dead 300-pound fetus was removed during the procedure.

Harrison: No reunion without Lennon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul McCartney's suggestion that the surviving Beatles reunite isn't for George Harrison, who says he doesn't believe in yesterday. "As far as I'm concerned, there won't be a Beatles reunion as long as John Lennon remains dead," Harrison said in a terse statement. During the publicity blitz surrounding the start of his world tour, McCartney said in an interview this week that he's receptive to getting together again with Harrison and Starr. "We might get to play together after all this time," he said.

ACLU asks probe of Thornburgh

WASHINGTON — The American Civil Liberties Union asked Congress Wednesday to investigate Attorney General Dick Thornburgh's decision leading to dismissal of the Iran-Contra case against a former CIA station chief. There is a "strong possibility" Thornburgh's action regarding Joseph Fernandez stemmed in part from the CIA's desire "to cover up its involvement in the Iran-Contra affair," Morton Halperin, director of the ACLU's Washington office, said in a statement.

A week ago, Thornburgh filed an affidavit blocking disclosure of classified information relating to the location of three CIA facilities in Central America and details of three agency programs in Costa Rica. Thornburgh was acting on behalf of U.S. intelligence agencies. U.S. District Court Judge Claude Hilton threw out the criminal charges against Fernandez on Friday, saying the CIA's ex-station chief in Costa Rica needed to use the classified information in order to get a fair trial.

Two win National Book Awards

NEW YORK — The 1989 National Book Award for fiction went to John Casey on Wednesday for "Spartina," and Thomas L. Friedman won the non-fiction award for "From Beirut to Jerusalem," his account of the battle-scarred Middle East.

Also Wednesday night, the second annual National Book Award for Distinguished Contribution to American Letters was presented to Daniel J. Boorstin, Librarian of Congress Emeritus. The $10,000 prize is awarded for lifelong contributions to American letters which have had an extraordinary and permanent impact on American literature.

Supreme Court blocks execution

ANGOLA, La. — Convicted killer Dalton Prejean won a stay of his midnight execution Wednesday from the U.S. Supreme Court after spending the day with his family in the state prison's death house. Prejean, 10 days shy of his 30th birthday, had been scheduled to die in the electric chair for a murder he committed when he was 17.

But the Supreme Court granted Prejean's emergency plea, barring his execution until the justices decide whether they will hear his formal appeal to set aside his death penalty.

Bush signs $305 billion defense bill

WASHINGTON — President Bush on Wednesday signed, with reservations, a bill authorizing $305 billion for defense programs for the current fiscal year, including a slash in his request for the Strategic Defense Initiative. The measure cuts $1.1 billion from Bush's $4.9 billion request for spending on the SDI program, or Star Wars, in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

Bush, in a statement, said the measure would provide sufficient funds to "provide a national defense sufficient to meet foreseeable threats to the national security" in the coming year. In signing the bill, Bush voiced reservations over several provisions, including one calling on him to persuade NATO partners to increase their active-duty forces in Europe.

End of rain forest seen in 50-100 years

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — A new study by the Brazilian Space Research Institute shows the entire Amazon rain forest could be wiped out in 50 to 100 years if deforestation continues at the present rate. Carlos Nobre, an engineer and meteorologist with the institute, said he used mathematical formulas to project the effects of deforestation, which he estimates destroys 14,000 square miles of rain forest a year. The computer predicted the huge wilderness could dry up and turn into a vast, scrub-covered savanna, he said.

Abortion rule argued before chief justices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was asked Wednesday to rule that most young girls have no right to abortions without first telling their parents.

The justices, who have allowed limits on the availability of abortions for minors in the past, questioned lawyers defending and attacking parental-notification laws in Minnesota and Ohio.

In two hours of relatively narrow arguments, they gave no sign they are considering the broader possibility of scrapping the court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortion — an idea much discussed outside the court whenever they take up any abortion case.

"The court showed no interest in overturning a woman's constitutional right to abortion," Cleveland lawyer Linda Sogg said after the argument session in which she attacked the Ohio law.

Minnesota Chief Deputy Attorney General John Tunheim agreed. "I don't think Roe should be on the table in this case," he told reporters after defending his state law before the court.

Last July, the court voted 5-4 to give states more authority to regulate abortions for all women. Four justices appeared ready to go even further and overturn Roe vs. Wade, but Justice Sandra Day O'Connor refused.

Summit should aid progress on nuke treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's weekend summit with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev should leave the superpowers "better prepared to make substantial progress" on a treaty to slash long-range nuclear weapons, Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Wednesday.

However, he emphasized anew that no such agreement would be reached during the two-day meeting.

In a pre-summit news conference at the White House, Baker also said the democratic reforms that are bringing down Eastern Europe's hard-line communist regimes are "the only path to long-term legitimacy and stability in the region," and he warned against any crackdown by authorities.

While saying Moscow has not stood in the way of the stunning changes, Baker declared, "We firmly believe that any attempts to forcibly intervene and prevent continued reform will be extremely destabilizing and dangerous."

He made a clear distinction between "forcibly suppressing peaceful dissent" and intervention by authorities to restore order, such as in possible ethnic violence in the Soviet Union.

OBITUARY

Glenn Vedder, ex-Laguna mayor, community leader

As friends planned a weekend memorial service for Glenn Vedder, the former Laguna Beach mayor was remembered by residents this week as a dedicated community servant who was largely responsible for the creation of a marine preserve that the city named in his honor.

Vedder, who was 88 when he died Monday of cancer, was elected to the Laguna Beach City Council in January 1965 and served as mayor from 1968 to 1970.

According to his son, Phil Vedder, the former mayor considered the creation of the marine preserve, which runs from Main Beach to a point 800 feet off shore at Diver's Cove, and his involvement on the Festival of Arts board of directors as two of his most important civic contributions.

Vedder was a central figure on the Festival of Arts scholarship foundation, which gives approximately $100,000 in scholarships annually to Laguna Beach High School graduates, according to festival spokeswoman Sally Reeve. At their last meeting, board members voted to name the fund the "Glenn E. Vedder Scholarship Fund." Reeve said, Vedder learned of the honor before his death, she said.

"I would describe him as probably one of the most valuable members this board has ever had," Reeve said.

Charlie Boyd, who served on the council with Vedder, praised his former colleague as a very responsible citizen with high standards and a deep concern about the preservation of marine life.

"He had a great love for the ocean," Boyd said. "He had been very concerned we were losing precious marine life to visitors who were thoughtlessly taking them in large quantities."

"(He was) a very, very fine man and a very good friend. I will miss him."

Vedder was born in Santa Ana on March 27, 1901, according to Phil Vedder. He grew up in Los Angeles and graduated from Pomona College in 1923.

He and his wife, Helen, were married Jan. 4, 1924. Helen Vedder died in May.

Vedder taught science for 30 years at a private boys school in Claremont, his son said. After retiring, Vedder, who had a summer home in Laguna for years, moved permanently to the city in 1953.

Vedder is survived by his three sons, Phil, a San Clemente resident who has two daughters; Jack, who lives in Portola Valley with his wife and two daughters; and Jim, a Los Altos resident who is married and has a son and a daughter.

The memorial service will be held Saturday at the festival grounds at 10 a.m. The family asks that memorial donations be made to the scholarship fund.

Group wants to spread holiday cheer all year

By HOLLY J. WAGNER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

"You're the gift" is a philosophy one group of Orange Coast residents hopes to spread for this season and throughout the year.

Nine volunteers are acting as area chairpersons to spearhead an effort to revive The Holiday Project, a national holiday visitation program that nearly dropped out of the Orange County scene last year for lack of publicity and participation.

The people leading this year's drive are primarily volunteer visitors from former years who got involved in the leadership because they found the visitation experience so satisfying, said Orange County chairman and Costa Mesa resident Steven Saunders.

Saunders said most of the volunteers involved with The Holiday Project are between 30 and 40 years old, and many choose this activity because they recognize the baby boom generation is getting older.

But he has two more personal reasons for getting involved. One is that his grandmother was placed in a home for the elderly when he was young and she later died there. "I didn't really like that scene because I knew she was lonely there," he said.

The other is the satisfaction of visiting people who might otherwise be altogether alone during the holidays. "What got me involved is we don't go to give people gifts, we go just to talk to them and be with them," he continued.

Many would not see friendly faces otherwise. Some have no family or friends left, some have families elsewhere in the country who have placed them in California homes because of the temperate climate, and some are just forgotten.

"They're alive now and they contributed a lot to the world at one time," Saunders said. "Just because they're a little disabled or can't afford to do things doesn't mean we should lock them in a closet."

While the national project is geared primarily toward collecting and making gifts for the elderly and then delivering the gifts at Christmas, Saunders and the crew have set a goal of recruiting teams to visit all year long.

"Hopefully once they see how easy and fulfilling this is, they'll want to stay with it," Saunders said.

But first things first. Since the project here didn't get off the ground until September this year, the group is occupied with recruiting volunteers for the holiday season first.

Holiday visitations are organized under team leaders who lead little platoons of five to 15 volunteers into area convalescent facilities and hospitals to visit. To meet its goal of visiting 6,000 people in 50 facilities this year, the project will need to double its current recruitment of 300 Orange County residents.

While the volunteers wrap and deliver small presents to the shut-ins they visit, the gifts are really just an ice-breaker, Saunders said.

"The gifts are really for the volunteers, not the people," he said. "Otherwise some of the people, when you first go up to them, think you're just there to turn them over or draw some blood from them or give them medication."

But their faces light up when they discover someone has come just to visit and talk.

"As soon as you hand them a gift and begin to talk to them, you can tell which one is more important," Saunders said.

The Holiday Project's next task is wrapping the token gifts in a daylong party from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 9 at Fairview Hospital in Costa Mesa. Project leaders have issued an open invitation for community members to join the party, encouraging people to bring a small teddy bear, a pair of booty socks or some gift wrap along.

But as Saunders reminds, the people are the thing.

Orange Coast residents helping to revive the project with Saunders include Newport Beach resident Kevin Riley; Costa Mesa residents Fran Bracey, Karen Beckingham, Peggy Condore, Valerie Hardman and Keri Stafford; and Santa Ana residents Bill Hayes and Debra Anne Smith.

With a little help from their friends, they hope to brighten the holidays for some otherwise forgotten folks.

Jake needs love, a new home and a lot of money

By BOB VAN EYKEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Jake's a good dog. Handsome too. But his health isn't so good these days, and a couple of animal lovers in Costa Mesa are trying to raise money to do something about it.

Jake, a 1 1/2-year-old purebred white Labrador retriever, has had his troubles recently. But it's nothing a couple of $1,500 hip operations won't cure.

"He's got a problem called bilateral hip dysplasia," said Donna Melin, a technician at the Newport Beach Animal Shelter, where Jake is living.

"It's caused by arthritis. It gets worse and worse and in a couple of years the dog isn't able to get up."

Melin said the condition can be corrected by surgically implanting new, artificial hip joints. But the estimated $3,000 cost of the two operations Jake needs has proved a stumbling block, she said.

"He's a really nice dog, well behaved and mellow," Melin said. "A lot of people would like to adopt him, but they can't afford the cost of the surgery."

Melin said she didn't know how Jake came to be homeless. He was found walking down a Newport Beach street on Nov. 12 and brought to the animal shelter, she said.

Shelter policy is to hold animals for five days, in hopes their owners will claim them, and then to put them up for adoption.

One family did adopt Jake before his hip ailment was diagnosed. But they noticed he was having trouble walking and had X-rays taken, which revealed the problem. Unable or unwilling to undertake the expense, the family returned Jake to the shelter.

Shelter officials put Jake up for adoption again but were unable to find a new home for him.

And unfortunately, in the animal welfare business, long term liabilities can only be dealt with in one way.

"I was supposed to be the one to put Jake to sleep," Melin said. "But I couldn't."

Instead, Melin and her colleague, Tracy Donovan, accepted responsibility for trying to save Jake.

Melin said she hopes to be able to raise the $3,000 from friends and well wishers by Jan. 1.

"We're putting a can for donations out in the lobby," she said. "And we're hoping, if we can get some publicity, that people will read about Jake and mail in donations. I'm pretty confident that we can get at least half the money by then, so we can go ahead with the first operation."

Contributions may be sent to the Newport Beach Animal Shelter, care of Tracy or Donna, 125 Mesa Drive, Costa Mesa, 92627.

Donna Melin is trying to raise $3,000 so Jake, a Labrador retriever, can have hip replacement surgery.

SPOTLIGHT

George L. Williams was introduced as the new president and chief executive officer of the Orange County Urban League in a reception Wednesday at the Westin South Coast Plaza.

Williams previously served as the League's vice president of education and social services for Southwestern Fairfield County in Stamford, Conn.

He has a bachelor's degree in social sciences from Houston-Tillotson College and a master's degree in public administration from Rutgers. He has served with the Denver and Seattle urban leagues in employment development assignments.

The Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce has named its officers for 1990.

Named to the executive committee are Bob Shackleton of Peat Marwick, chairman of the board; Michael Stephens of Hoag Memorial Hospital, vice chairman; David Carmichael of Pacific Mutual Life Insurance, secretary; Tom Clark of Lesley, Thomas, Schwartz and Postma, chief financial officer; Philip Glasgow of Ford Aerospace Corporation, immediate past chairman; and Richard Luehrs of the Newport Harbor Area Chamber of Commerce, president.

Named as division presidents were Les Turner of Allstate Insurance, business development; Cal Schmidt, Commodores; Doris Farinacci of Lesley, Thomas, Schwartz and Postma, Dolphins; Eileen Bohon of Fashion Island Merchants Association; Dick Miller of bank of Newport and Tom Stephenson of The Irvine Co.; Newport Center; Bill Hamilton of The Cannery restaurant, Peninsula; and Leah Marshall of South Coast Plaza Management, South Coast Metro.

A record-setting 17 police officers graduated last month from the 80-hour training session of the Motorcycle Academy at Golden West College Criminal Justice Training Center.

Among the graduates were Bertrum Adkins of the Huntington Beach Police Department; Glen B. Fisher, Steven Martinez and Randy Slaughter of the Newport Beach Police Department; and Manuel Nunez of the Laguna Beach Police Department.

Huntington Beach resident Gerald Hime has been appointed as director of special education and special education local plan area in the Tustin Unified School District.

Hime will be responsible for providing a quality special education program that meets state and federal standards. The program served 700 students in the district. Prior to his Tustin appointment, Hime worked as an administrator with the Los Angeles County Office of Special Education and a special education teacher with the Anaheim Union High School District.

Costa Mesa resident Elizabeth Gecsey has received the Outstanding Contribution to Education Award from the Orange County Department of Education. She was nominated by Foothill High School Principal Jim Ryan, who described her as a "one-person art department."

In 11 years at Foothill, Gecsey has developed several art programs and projects. They include setting up an independent study fine arts program, an art club and a student art gallery at the school. She has also arranged field trips for groups of 50 advanced art students and encouraged them to enter art contests.

Gecsey's students also paint murals in the school's halls and sets for school dramatic productions.

Regulators had 'gut-level concerns' about Lincoln

By KATHLEEN GRUBB
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO — State regulators had "gut-level concerns" about a junk bond offering by Lincoln Savings but never had cause to stop its sales, the corporations commissioner said Wednesday.

State Corporations Commissioner Christine Bender, testifying on an Assembly subcommittee investigating the collapsed thrift and the now worthless bonds, defended the state's regulation of Lincoln Savings as aggressive.

"I do not want anyone to think the Department (of Corporations) took a passive view of our responsibilities..." Bender said. "To my knowledge, no application has ever received greater scrutiny by our department."

Bender said examiners with the state Department of Savings & Loan informed her agency in late 1988 about "gut-level concerns" about the thrift and its parent corporation, American Continental Corp.

But she said investors never complained to Corporations Department and that state examiners failed to provide strong enough evidence to back up their "good-faith impressions."

She said she was unaware until two weeks ago that the Savings & Loan Department issued the findings in October 1988 of its examination of Lincoln, ordered the thrift in December 1988 to stop the bond sales, then last February gave it 30 days to prove it had the assets to back them up.

The high-yield, uninsured bonds with a quick maturity were issued in two offerings in 1986 and 1988 — of $200 million and about $150 million — plus the rest of the unsold initial offering.

About 23,000 buyers, many of them elderly pensioners who invested their life savings, lost more than $250 million on the bonds.

Federal regulators seized Lincoln in April and estimate that its failure will cost the American taxpayers $2 billion, making it the costliest thrift failure in the nation's history.

Lincoln depositors were protected by federal insurance, but customers who bought American Continental subordinated debt from salespeople in Lincoln branch lobbies were not.

Wednesday's three-hour hearing was the second by an Assembly subcommittee on savings and loan law and regulation. Chairman Patrick Johnston, D-Stockton, said he intends to introduce a package of bills after the Legislature reconvenes in January to reform the thrift industry.

In other testimony Wednesday, Gov. George Deukmejian's former campaign finance chief and close advisor, attorney Karl Samuelian, said he never used his political influence while representing Lincoln.

Samuelian said he did recommend that Deukmejian appoint Bender and her predecessor, Franklin Tom. Bender worked for Samuelian's law firm before taking

Sales tax rate increases ¼¢ Friday

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Beginning Friday, California shoppers will have to dig one-quarter of one percent deeper into their pocketbooks to help pay for earthquake relief.

The quarter-cent per-dollar sales tax increase approved in the Legislature's special session this month takes effect Dec. 1 and lasts until Dec. 31, 1990.

Those extra one-fourths of pennies are expected to raise $800 million over the next 13 months. Most of that money will, along with federal funds, pay for rebuilding roads, bridges and public buildings damaged in the Oct. 17 earthquake that struck the San Francisco area.

For Orange County and most other counties in the state, the new sales and use tax rate will be 6¼ percent.

However, voters in 13 counties have previously approved sales tax increases, most of those for transportation projects. Five of them have had two such increases. And voters in five counties approved increases on the Nov. 7 ballot, but these cannot take effect until April 1, 1990, at the earliest.

Orange County rejected a sales tax hike measure on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Therefore, the sales tax beginning Friday will be 6.75 percent in Fresno, Inyo, Los Angeles, Riverside, Sacramento, San Benito, San Francisco and Santa Cruz counties. It will be 7.25 percent in Alameda, Contra Costa, San Diego, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

The counties that Nov. 7 approved additional half-cent increases are Imperial, Monterey, San Bernardino, San Francisco and Santa Barbara. When that increase takes effect, the tax will be 6.75 percent in all but San Francisco, which will rise to 7.25 percent.

The state Board of Equalization, which collects the sales tax, is helping businesses make sure they have the correct rate starting Friday. The board has specialists in 59 field offices to answer questions, and has new easy reference tax rate cards showing the amount of tax to charge on transactions up to $50.

Analysts identify sharp weakening in economy's growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy grew moderately from July through September, the government said Wednesday, but analysts said it has since weakened sharply, threatening to derail an unprecedented peacetime expansion.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, grew at an annual rate of 2.7 percent in the third quarter, slightly higher than the 2.5 percent rate originally reported last month.

Earlier this year, economists had widely forecast only sluggish growth in the quarter, but the revision means the third quarter topped the 2.5 percent second quarter rate.

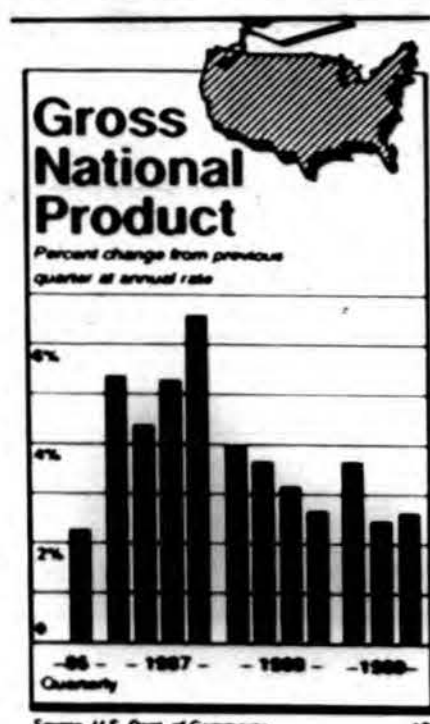

At the White House, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said, "We always like to see increase in growth. And this report is relatively good news in that sense."

However, private analysts predicted with near unanimity a sharply weaker performance in the final three months of 1989 and the first quarter of next year. A few expect the nation to topple into a recession, ending the expansion, which enters its eighth year in December.

"We should enjoy these (third quarter) numbers because the chances are we're not going to see their like anytime soon," said economist Robert Dederick of Northern Trust Co.

Most economists attribute the current sluggishness to a year-long anti-inflation campaign by the Federal Reserve Board, which pushed interest rates up through this spring.

Since then, the Fed has nudged rates lower, but the economy won't reflect the full benefit of rate cuts — and any further declines in the next few months — until later next year.

"The reason the economy will skirt a recession, but not fall into one, is interest rates are coming down substantially," said economist Bruce Steinberg of Merrill Lynch. He predicted a further decline in rates next month.

Newspapers in south county purchased

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Media General Inc. has reported it will sell 30 community newspapers in Southern California to Freedom Newspapers Inc., owners of the Orange County Register.

The sale, terms of which were not disclosed, still requires the signing of a definitive agreement, but Media General said it expects the deal to be completed in early 1990.

The newspapers are published in Orange County and the eastern part of Los Angeles County by Golden West Publishing Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Media General. The papers have a total circulation of 470,000.

Media General said its decision to sell the Southern California newspapers represents a strategic decision to concentrate efforts on its larger operations in the East and South.

The Richmond-based Media General is a publicly held company and owns the Richmond Times-Dispatch and The Richmond News Leader. It also is involved in broadcast television, cable TV and newspaper publishing.

Eight of the California publications sold, one of which is a paid circulation paper, reach nearly 130,000 households in southern Orange County. Based in Mission Viejo, they are operated as the South Orange County News division of Golden West Publishing.

Twenty-two of the newspapers are distributed free to more than 340,000 households in eastern Los Angeles County and northern Orange County. These papers are published by Highlander Publications.

Freedom Newspapers publishes 27 daily newspapers in nine states and also operates five TV stations.

After-tax corporate profits down

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. corporations' after-tax profits fell a sharp 7.2 percent in the July-September quarter, the third consecutive decline and a drop attributed largely to losses stemming from Hurricane Hugo, the government said Wednesday.

The Commerce Department said the drop followed an identical fall in the second quarter, which was the steepest in three years, and a 1.1 percent decline in the first quarter. The changes left after-tax profits at an annual rate of $149.5 billion in the third quarter.

A broader measure, before-tax profits adjusted for depreciation and inventories, decreased at an annual rate of $15.5 billion to $292.3 billion. But, $11 billion of that was attributed to hurricane-related losses: $9 billion from payouts by insurance companies and $2 billion from uninsured losses.

Analysts also attributed the poor showing to firms' inability to raise prices to compensate for rising labor costs and to slower growth in export sales. Exports are being hurt by the strong dollar, which makes U.S. goods more expensive on overseas markets.

"The problem is very basic. Labor costs are rising and prices are not going up fast enough to cover the increase," said economist Bruce Steinberg of Merrill Lynch.

Analysts said the profit squeeze likely will continue. Consumer resistance caused by a softening economy, as well as stiff competition from overseas firms, will make it difficult for U.S. companies to raise prices.

Economist David Wyss of DRIMCraw Hill, a Lexington, Mass., forecasting firm, said fourth quarter profits also will be depressed by a strike at the Boeing Co. and from insurance losses attributable to the San Francisco earthquake.

Hotel expansion ahead of airport's

By HOLLY J. WAGNER
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Anticipation is the name of the game in the Orange Coast's hospitality industry, said Marriott Hotels Executive Vice President and General Manager Paul Reed.

Reed was in Costa Mesa on Tuesday for the grand opening of the chain's new Marriott Suites, a 253-room luxury hotel similar to the Marriott Suites in Newport Beach.

Although the Newport Beach location has not been the draw over the last year chain executives had hoped it would be, Reed said the industry is hanging its hopes on the expansion of John Wayne Airport next April.

Reed attributed the 70 percent occupancy rate in the 254 rooms at Newport Beach to the increase in new hotels in the area the last five years.

"We're running a little bit ahead of demand for rooms," he conceded. "We're never happy unless we're in the eighties."

Reed said planning for the new Costa Mesa unit began 4½ years ago, when competition wasn't as fierce.

"It takes much longer to build a hotel than we in the industry think it should," he said. "I wish there was less room to compete with. But we'll give it our best shot to fill the rooms."

He added that Marriott Hotels work together. "A big convention in Anaheim will push business down into this area," he said.

He also said once the airport expansion is complete, Marriott plans to link the chain's four area hotels with transportation services among the hotels and to and from the airport.

No more Suites are planned in the Orange Coast area, he said, although

Paul Reed

Marriott hopes to double its eight Suites locations nationwide by the mid 1990s.

Suites are only about 4 percent of the hotel industry nationwide, Reed said, so competition for guests hasn't reached the fever pitch of traditional hotels. Marriott's growth plans are concentrated in the mid-range hotels, he added.

The Marriott Suites cater to business travelers looking for a place to relax and to smaller group functions, with a target business mix of 80 percent individual travelers and the balance groups.

The Costa Mesa location hopes to draw its conference business from the Town Center office crowd, but the chain also advertises in USA Today and in-flight magazines.

The more intimate, full-service settings are in greater demand in airport areas such as LAX, O'Hare and Dulles, he added. In those areas, Marriott has been converting two or three rooms to small conference spaces like those at the Suites.

Conference spaces are built to handle groups of 15 to 40 rather than the larger convention crowds. There are nine conference suites set up for up to six people and two hospitality suites for more intimate groups. The Windows restaurant on the ground floor seats 110 and has a private dining room that may be closed off for groups of up to 30 people. The adjacent lounge also seats 30.

While the Conference Center seats up to 200, Reed conceded, "We couldn't feed them all." The larger rooms mean smaller "back house" facilities, including the kitchen.

Hotel staff will take orders from guests or conference attendees and serve each by appointment in the dining area. The service allows each diner individual choice of meals and schedule while allowing staff to accommodate a larger group from a smaller kitchen.

Suites feature bedrooms with televisions and radios, bathrooms with hair dryers, living rooms with sofas, televisions with cable channels, work desks, wet bars, refrigerators and coffeemakers. Each suite has two telephones and most have king-size beds.

Guests can expect to find suites stocked with soft drinks, coffee, tea, milk and cookies. A morning newspaper will be delivered each day and complimentary danish, fruit and coffee are available in the lobby for late sleepers.

Introductory rates are $99 a night weekdays and $59 weekends. A "Two For Breakfast" weekend package sleeps two and adds a full buffet breakfast for $69 a night. Reed said rates will remain lower than the Newport Beach location, where the view is a major draw and suites are about 100 square feet larger.

GrowingTrends, a fashion store for children, hosted a grand opening Nov. 16 for its store at Fashion Island.

Quorum Real Estate Services Corp., an affiliation of USAA Real Estate Co., opened a western regional office in the Dupont Centre in Irvine.

The Irvine office, the company's fourth, will manage more than 1.2 million square feet of office space and more than 1,000 apartments with a market value exceeding $200 million, according to the company.

J. Crew hosted a grand opening Nov. 30 for its new store in South Coast Plaza. The store donated a percentage of its first week sales to the Junior League of Orange County.

Mercantile National Bank opened an office in Irvine, marking the bank's first expansion outside the Los Angeles area.

The office at 2010 Main St. will service the bank's Orange County escrow and title industry clients, as well as the bank's other specializations including professionals and middle market businesses, according to a company spokesman.

First American Capital Bank headquartered in Laguna Beach established a branch office in Corona del Mar on Nov. 1 at Goldenrod and East Coast Highway in the building formerly occupied by Trans National Bank.

Hammond Co.'s chairman resigns

From staff and wire reports

First Fidelity National Financial Inc. Chairman William Foley has resigned his position as chairman of The Hammond Co. Foley was elected chairman of Hammond, a Newport Beach mortgage banking company, at the July 25 annual shareholders meeting, according to a Securities and Exchange Commission filing. Fidelity National holds a 23.6 percent stake in Hammond, but has signed an agreement that bars it from purchasing additional shares for six months.

Rick A. Russell joined the office properties division of Grubb & Ellis' Newport Beach commercial brokerage office.

Russell comes to the real estate firm with over 12 years of marketing experience, the majority of it in the airline industry. During his 8-year tenure at AirCal, Russell participated in the development of the marketing strategy that brought the company to increased profitability and expanded operations up through its merger with American Airlines in 1987.

Russell holds a bachelor's degree in marketing from Long Beach State. He lives in Irvine.

John Patrick Ormsbee has joined the investment properties division of Grubb & Ellis' Newport Beach commercial brokerage office.

Prior to joining to real estate firm Ormsbee advised clients on investment opportunities in real estate syndications and securities for five years as a financial planner in the Newport Beach area, first with Christopher Weil & Co. and then with Kuryla, Wise, Ormsbee & Bertshofer.

Previously Ormsbee was the vice president of finance at DalTex Petroleum in Denver, an integrated oil and gas firm, a position in which he also acted as an investment advisor.

Ormsbee, resident of Corona del Mar, holds a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Barbara A. Wagner was named senior vice president, international director of training for Coldwell Banker Residential Group in Newport Beach.

Wagner has held several executive positions at Coldwell Banker since 1977. She was most recently president, mid central operations, and senior vice president, midwest sector. Prior to that, she was senior vice president, director of acquisitions, and senior vice president, new market entry.

The Waterfront Hilton named Cindy Ferranti Smith sales manager.

Smith previously served as sales manager for several Southern California resorts, including the Hyatt Newport, the Disneyland Hotel and the Ramada Beverly Hills. She also worked as a consultant for several travel-related organizations.

The Waterfront Hilton is a 300-room, 12-story hotel along 8½ miles of continuous coastline in Huntington Beach. The resort is scheduled to open summer 1991.

Gerald Singh has been promoted to vice president of business development at Elliott Corp., a Newport Beach-based general contracting company.

Singh, who joined the company in April as a director, is responsible for Elliott's marketing and business development efforts and is the liaison in various government and civic matters. He previously was a marketing principal for Paragon Group's commercial and industrial operations in the Inland Empire.

Singh is a business graduate from University of Southern California.

Laguna Beach resident Jerry Ebanes was named manager of The Sports Club Irvine, a sports and fitness complex that will be opening in January.

Ebanes was previously manager of the athletic club's sister, The Sports Club LA. He also has 11 years experience in the hotel industry, most recently with Interland Resorts as a manager. A Hawaii native, Ebanes graduated from University of Hawaii where he studied liberal arts.

Measure: Double business taxes for social programs

By E. SCOTT RECKARD
AP Business Writer

LOS ANGELES — The latest in a string of radical California ballot initiatives seeks to shelter the homeless, provide affordable housing, improve education, repair roads and reduce residential property taxes.

There's a catch, of course: the Split-Roll Property Tax Initiative would do all that by raising the business property tax from 1 percent to 2.2 percent.

The measure has survived an important court challenge, and its author predicted Tuesday it will appear on the ballot either next June or next November, depending on how fast signatures on the petition are verified.

Proponents say the measure is needed in large part because California's Proposition 13, the property-tax slashing measure that launched a national tax revolt in 1978, has left state and local governments without the money to provide basic services.

It is sponsored by Voter Revolt, the group whose Proposition 103, passed last year, is among the most radical of attempts in the nation to control insurance rates.

Homeowners have a major incentive to vote for the new measure: a $500 yearly reduction in their residential property tax.

Opponents say most businesses will just pass on their extra costs to consumers. They say such sweeping changes should be enacted by the Legislature as a part of a general tax increase.

"It's a thinly disguised tax increase for every person who lives in the state," said Martyn Hopper, the state director for the National Federation of Independent Businesses, one of many business groups who oppose the measure.

But the measure's author, Bill Zimmerman, said Tuesday the measure was needed precisely because lawmakers have been ineffective.

"The only reason we have to bring such a complex initiative to the ballot," he said, "is that we have a paralyzed state Legislature that can't address the major problems of the state."

Opponents, including the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce and the California Farm Bureau Federation, asked the state Court of Appeal to invalidate it, arguing it violates California's constitutional ban on initiatives dealing with more than one subject.

"On the one hand, it changes property tax methods, and on the other it creates new social programs relating to the homeless and housing," said John Hodgson, a lawyer for the opponents.

But the court, in a decision received this week, refused to review the case. Hodgson said opponents will appeal to the state Supreme Court, but Zimmerman said the high court has never intervened in such a case.

And Tony Quinn, another official of the National Federation of Independent Businesses, acknowledged the measure would probably make the June ballot.

Under the initiative, business property would be taxed at 2.2 percent instead of the 1 percent now standard for California property.

Residential property would still be taxed at 1 percent, with the first $57,000 in value exempt, compared to $7,000 today. Homes assessed at $1 million or more wouldn't get the increased exemption.

Voter Revolt says 842,119 Californians signed the petition by October, 595,485 valid signatures are needed to qualify it for the ballot. Zimmerman said it will appear on either the June or November ballot, depending on how fast the signatures are verified.

The state legislative analyst estimates the measure would generate $7.9 billion a year when fully operative in 1991. Of that, $5 billion would go to homeowners and to increased rental-tax credits, the rest to state and local governments for affordable housing, shelter for the homeless, better education and repair of crumbling roads, sewers, bridges and the like.

Zimmerman said that in the long run, such improvements would be good for business. Many businesses already are finding it impossible to locate in a state plagued with astronomical housing costs, clogged roads, mediocre schools, and infrastructure problems.

"Business will be more profitable if we solve problems of law enforcement, zoning, streets, education and housing," he said. "All of that has an impact on the long-term business prospects."

Cranston defends actions on behalf of Lincoln thrift

SAN JOSE (AP) — Sen. Alan Cranston said he was convinced San Francisco-based federal regulators waged a "vendetta" against the savings and loan of Charles H. Keating Jr., and said he asked regulators to handle their investigation more fairly.

In a telephone interview with the San Jose Mercury News from Santa Barbara, Cranston discussed his activity on behalf of Keating, a Phoenix, Ariz., resident facing multiple investigations. Keating also is accused in a federal government lawsuit of looting millions of dollars from Lincoln Savings and Loan.

"For God's sake," said the 75-year-old Cranston. "If a senator is not supposed to speak to regulators who are on somebody's back, and seek to make sure they're being treated fairly, and to end the process, what is a senator supposed to do?"

Keating's thrift is in the midst of a taxpayer bailout that is expected to cost at least $2.3 billion, the country's most expensive S&L bailout.

Cranston said he regretted none of his actions on behalf of Keating, and did not regret accepting $970,000 for his political campaigns and favorite causes from Keating, his relatives and associates.

Cranston received $850,000 for voter registration groups in 1987 and 1988, and another $120,000 in 1986 for his re-election and for the California Democratic Party.

A California senator since 1969, Cranston said he thinks the country's top thrift regulator, M. Danny Wall, acted correctly when he transferred jurisdiction of Keating's savings and loan from San Francisco to Washington D.C. in 1988.

Cranston said he wasn't alarmed to learn in 1987 that Justice Department prosecutors would be asked to look at possible criminal activity involving Keating's thrift "because it's very often done by regulators. When they can't resolve something, and they're annoyed, they send it over to Justice."

her post in 1987. Tom returned to the law firm after resigning as commissioner in February 1987.

But Samuelian, who is now finance chairman for the California Republican Party, said his recommendations were based solely on Bender's and Tom's qualifications.

He denied lobbying on behalf of Lincoln, American Continental or owner Charles Keating Jr., saying he kept his political fund-raising efforts and legal duties separate.

Keating and his son, companies and associates contributed $150,000 to Deukmejian's campaign in 1986 and 1987, Samuelian said. American Continental gave $100,000 to the Republican Party in 1988, he said.

"While I have served as a fundraiser for and advisor to Gov. Deukmejian, I have never coupled contributions to the governor's campaign with the exercise of political influence on behalf of clients of my firm or other contributors," Samuelian said.

"Since George Deukmejian became governor of California, I have not discussed with him the legal services my firm was providing to its clients, and I have made it a practice not to advise the governor of the identity of my clients. tinental Corp. or Lincoln Savings & Loan."

Richard Newsom, an examiner for the state Savings and Loan Department, said that soon after he was assigned to the Lincoln case he identified "flagrant, unsafe and uninsured lending practices" that he said amounted to the theft of $20 million.

$38 million more in utility profits allowed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state Public Utilities Commission has set profit levels for four major energy companies about $38 million above a hearing officer's recommendation and $100 million above a staff proposal.

The action was taken last week in the commission's annual approval of the rate of return on investment for gas and electric utilities, which determines the amount stockholders will earn.

The authorized profit rates for 1990 are close to the current rates and are less than the rates the companies had requested, an increase that would have totaled over $150 million.

But Administrative Law Judge Mark Wetzel, who heard testimony in the case, and the commission's Division of Ratepayer Advocates had both recommended decreases, citing economists' forecasts of lower short-term interest rates and lower inflation.

The commission rejected Wetzel's proposal for a slight decrease in the current rates by a 4-1 vote, with commissioner Frederick Duda dissenting.

Customers of the four largest companies — Pacific Gas & Electric, Southern California Edison, Southern California Gas and San Diego Gas & Electric — should barely notice the commission's action. James Pretti of the PUC staff said even $100 million is only 1 percent of those companies' total rate base of $10 billion.

But the consumer group Toward Utility Rate Normalization said it saw the decision as part of a disturbing trend toward looser curbs on utilities — citing in particular the remarks of PUC President G. Mitchell Wilk, who said the commission may be overregulating the companies' capital structure.

"You have an ideologue running the commission, someone who is committed on an ideological basis to promoting free enterprise," said TURN's executive director, Audrie Krause.

Steven Kotz, an aide to Wilk, said Wednesday the commissioner was suggesting only that his colleagues consider the same type of flexible regulation of capital structure that they recently approved for telephone companies.

Compromise necessary in council stalemate

Apparently, finding a consensus in Fountain Valley is almost as difficult as locating a fountain.

The city that belies its name came up dry Tuesday night in trying to name a replacement for ousted Councilman Fred Voss. The city's voters recalled Voss earlier this month, largely as a result of his conviction for soliciting sex from an undercover policewoman.

Unfortunately, voters were not given a list of names of possible replacements, for they were certainly more decisive Nov. 7 than the remaining council members were Tuesday.

Judging from that frustrating council session, the city is destined to be under-represented for some time. After 15 rounds of silent balloting, the four remaining council members could not agree on a fifth, nor would they attempt to publicly persuade one another to switch — stalemate.

Councilman James Petrikin and George Scott favored Planning Commissioner John McKnight while Mayor Laurann Cook stood firm behind John Collins, who was the runner-up in last year's council election and was endorsed for the open seat by the Daily Pilot. Mayor Pro Tem James Neal took turns supporting Collins and offering compromise candidate Ellery Deaton, but there were no takers.

The council adjourned with a vacant chair on the dais and the prospects for filling it just as empty. In fact, the four seem willing to accept the stand-off status until the next general election in November 1990, when they could let voters decide.

While the electorate would have far less trouble filling the seat than the city's leadership, the prospect of continuing a four-member council for another 11 months is unacceptable and may, in fact, be prohibited under the city's charter.

Clearly, a division of political philosophy exists on the council that could virtually paralyze the city until next November. We see the possibility of a series of 2-2 votes stretching from Thanksgiving through April Fool's Day to Halloween.

Petrikin, Scott, Cook and Neal have a civic responsibility to fill the seat and move on with the task of governing the city. They should not be allowed to duck their duty simply because it is not an easy issue.

We are on record as supporting Collins, believing him to be a most qualified candidate who enjoyed widespread approval in last year's election. Some 11,000 Fountain Valley voters agreed.

Yet, we are equally adamant that it is most important that some qualified person fill the seat, whether it be Collins, McKnight, Deaton or another compromise candidate.

The council should reconvene in public session with the stated intention of making the council whole again and the public should not let the members adjourn until they have accomplished it.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Thursday, Nov. 30, the 334th day of 1989. There are 31 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Fifty years ago, on Nov. 30, 1939, the Russo-Finnish War, also known as the Winter War, began as Soviet troops invaded Finland. Although the Finns mounted a spirited defense, they were eventually overwhelmed by the Red Army and forced to sign a treaty the following March. (War between the two countries broke out again in 1941, and became a part of the overall global conflict.)

On this date:

In 1782, the United States and Britain signed preliminary peace articles in Paris, ending the Revolutionary War.

In 1803, Spain completed the process of ceding Louisiana to France.

In 1804, the first U.S. Supreme Court justice to be impeached, Samuel Chase, went on trial in Washington. (He was acquitted.)

In 1936, London's famed Crystal Palace, constructed for the International Exhibition of 1851, was destroyed in a fire.

In 1949, the Chinese Communists captured Chungking.

Today's Birthdays: Actress Virginia Mayo is 69. Actor Efrem Zimbalist Jr. is 66. Former New York Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm is 65. Actor Richard Crenna is 62. Television personality and producer Dick Clark is 60. Convicted Watergate defendant G. Gordon Liddy is 59. Playwright David Mamet is 42. Singer Billy Idol is 34. Football and baseball player Bo Jackson is 27.

Uncle Sam's highway help needed

CHRIS COX

With the recent defeat of the Measure M half-cent sales tax, it's more important than ever that we put our federal gasoline tax dollars to work on solving our local transportation problems.

Regular readers of this column know that I'll always be among the last to advocate new federal spending programs. That's just as true when it comes to tax increases. Instead, we should be looking for ways to rearrange our priorities so that the taxes we already pay — in particular, our transportation user fee, the gas tax — are spent on our most critical needs.

You already pay 9.1 cents per gallon in federal gas taxes every time you fill up at the pump. Each year, more than $10 billion is collected in this manner for the Federal Highway Trust Fund, and all of the money is earmarked by law for transportation purposes.

In fact, however, more than $3 billion annually that could be obligated from the Highway Trust Fund is being held in reserve as an accounting gimmick to make the federal budget deficit look smaller. We need our tax dollars to go to work for us, not to sit idle in a trust fund. Ending this smoke-and-mirrors practice is one of my top priorities.

Even before I was a member of Congress, I worked with former Federal Highway Administrator Ray Barnhart to develop a plan for using Trust Fund tax dollars for local gridlock relief. Last year, Virginia Congressman Frank Wolf became convinced that we had a good idea, and he introduced my proposal as H.R. 961, the Gridlock Relief for Interstates Program ("GRIP"). GRIP would direct gas tax revenues no longer needed for rural portions of the Interstate Highway System to areas where congestion is the worst.

GRIP would target about half of the money no longer needed for new interstate construction to areas like Orange County. Just as importantly, it would allow local officials the flexibility to use much of the money in ways they consider to be most effective.

One might think it would be difficult to convince national lawmakers to go along with a program that gives so much help to our area. But, our bill already has 52 cosponsors — including eight members of my Public Works and Transportation Subcommittee on Surface Transportation. It also has bipartisan backing — including the sponsorship of Democratic Congressman Robert Mrazek, a powerful member of the Transportation Appropriations Subcommittee.

The National Council for Urban and Economic Development, the American Road and Transportation Builders Association, the U.S. Conference of Mayors, the Urban Land Institute, the Washington Post, and the National Industrial Transportation League — along with mayors, city managers, and county and state officials across the nation — have all expressed their support for the bill. The GRIP bill isn't the only relief in sight for Orange County gridlock. Because the expected 1990 completion of the Interstate Highway Construction Program will free up more than $4 billion per year currently being spent out of the Highway Trust Fund, that money will soon be available for other transportation projects. With this in mind, my Public Works and Transportation Subcommittee on Surface Transportation is considering a complete revision of the federal transportation program.

In hearings to start soon, we'll be looking directly at the role of the federal government in transportation during the 1990s and beyond. I'll be urging my fellow Surface Transportation Subcommittee members, who will be deciding where and how our federal gas taxes will be spent, to target local highway congestion.

While local highways and streets have rarely been the concern of the United States Congress, reducing local congestion would serve important national goals — not only reducing air pollution, but also contributing to economic growth. With international competition increasing as Europe eliminates regional barriers to trade in 1992, moving U.S. workers and goods more quickly, cheaply and efficiently will become still more important to our economic position in the world. The Congress has heard testimony that traffic congestion in California alone costs our economy millions of dollars each day in lost productivity. That means fewer jobs, lower wages and higher prices for all Californians.

For these reasons, investment in infrastructure is one of the best investments the federal government can make. And the best place to invest our transportation funds is where they're needed most.

We've been told over and over again how bad our traffic congestion really is — as if anyone need be reminded after a commute on the Santa Ana or San Diego freeways. Now, we have an opportunity to do something about it.

Chris Cox is the U.S. Representative for the 40th Congressional District.

INS, Laguna move in opposite directions

More small thoughts on big subjects...

The Good Sam award of the week has to go to the INS, that lovable federal tentacle that slithers around Orange County with all the style and grace of a night crawler.

Among other things, the Immigration and Naturalization Service is in the business of tracking down illegal aliens and sending them home, usually to Mexico. It's a nasty job, but someone has to do it. At least I guess they do.

This week the INS decided to huddle up a little business in Laguna Canyon. And why not? City officials in Laguna Beach had gone to the trouble to find a spot along Laguna Canyon Road for day laborers to gather and seek work. The picking was easy for the INS.

Tuesday's sweep, though, was slightly different from the garden variety raid the INS conducts in Southern California.

Like many cities, Laguna Beach has a burgeoning number of day laborers — people, often illegals, who gather at a pick-up spot hoping to make a day's wages. Usually they are hired for the most menial of jobs — things like pulling out tree stumps, digging ditches and busting up concrete.

Laguna Beach recognized what was happening and decided the most logical thing to do would be to find a place in the city where the day laborers could gather. And that spot was on Laguna Canyon Road. Pretty. Out of the way. Convenient for employers.

So painstaking was the city's efforts that it actually bused people to the day-laborer site.

And several citizens decided to help out by watching out for the day laborers, teaching them local customs and etiquette.

And then — bingo — here comes the INS, which has its own subtle brand of etiquette.

Now I suppose it's not unusual to have two different brands of government working at cross purposes. In some ways, you sort of expect it. Some of your tax money goes to making life more comfortable for someone and some of it goes for making life miserable for that same someone.

Perhaps Laguna Beach, which has already banned nuclear weapons from the town and plastic foam cups from City Hall, can simply outlaw the INS. That ought to show 'em.

Well, now we've learned a sad truth. Without Fred Voss, the Fountain Valley City Council can't even make a simple choice. It's rudderless without Fred.

Voss got into hot water last year when he was arrested on suspicion of soliciting sex from an undercover police officer posing as a hooker. It seems some citizens in town thought that was unseemly behavior for a mayor.

Though he was urged to step down, Voss declined. He surrendered the mayor's gavel and became a mere councilman, but didn't quit. He refused to quit.

So the voters of Fountain Valley did it for him. In a recall vote early this month, Voss was bounced from office. Overwhelmingly.

But the vote left the council one member short. So on Tuesday, the remaining four council members got down to the business of appointing someone to complete the year left on Voss' four-year term.

If that sounds easy, think again. After 15 tries, the council couldn't decide whether to appoint Planning Commissioner John McKnight or John Collins, who finished just out of the money in the last council election.

In fact, the only decision the four council members could make was to agree they couldn't make a decision. Neat.

Oh yeah. The council also agreed it will reconsider the matter in the future. But they couldn't decide upon a date. Figures.

Maybe it's time to forgive Voss and draft him to complete his term.

Some might say there's only one thing wrong with giving Randy Kraft the death penalty.

He gets an automatic appeal. Steve Marble is the Daily Pilot's City Editor.

LETTER

Christians can't agree on when it all began

To the Editor:

In regard to the debate on creation vs. evolution in the school curricula, I would like to point out two views on creation widely held among Christians.

One view considers the six days of creation in Genesis, chapter one, to be literal 24-hour days. This view has the earth and the universe at a young age, about 6,000 years old. This view stems generally from tracing the age of the earth (and universe) from the six days of creation down through the genealogies listed in the Bible.

Incidentally, a common misconception is that the Bible claims that age of the earth and universe is 6,000 years old, which it most definitely does not. Bishop Ussher, in 1650 A.D., made a chronology based on the best material available to him at the time, and figured that Adam, the first man, was created in 4004 B.C. The 6,000 years for the age of the earth (and universe) draws on his chronology.

However, there are uncertainties in the genealogies of the Bible. For instance, the Hebrew word for "father" and "son" can also mean antecedent (i.e. grandfather, great-grandfather, etc.) or progeny (grandson, etc.). Thus, time periods may be longer or shorter than first thought from reading English translations.

The Hebrew word for the creation, "days," can also mean "a period of time" or "age." We have the same construction in English, such as "the dawning of a new day," meaning a new period or era, such as is going on in Eastern Europe right now. Halley's "Bible Handbook" says that the construction of the Hebrew of Genesis 1 allows that the creation "may have been countless ages before."

Most of the arguments over creationism in the public school curricula revolves around the use of the 6,000 years age of the earth and universe. The 6,000-year creationists have had to come up with some unusual propositions to reconcile current scientific findings to fit their views. One example is a canopy of ice that shrouded the earth for some time, cutting out sunlight and cosmic rays.

Another view held by Christians accepts the factual findings of science and find that they are generally in harmony with the Biblical record, taking into account the fact that the Bible is primarily a record of God's relationship to man, rather than a scientific text on the creation. However, since Christians believe the Bible to be inspired by God himself, they presume the record to be, at the same time, accurate.

The Dead Sea Scrolls and numerous other archaeological findings have proven the reliability of the Bible over and over. No serious scholar doubts the historical accuracy of the Bible.

Those of this other view allow for an old universe (like 17 billion years) and a middle-aged earth, but hold that they were created by God. And that man, as we know him, was specially created by God, having an eternal spirit, differentiating him from the animal kingdom.

My problems with calling evolution a scientific fact are with such things as the missing links still being missing. As more fossil evidence is gathered, the gaps where the "missing links" are supposed to be become only more pronounced rather than filled in.

Modern Information Theory has provided means to calculate how long it would take evolution to bring about life as we know it. Several have calculated that it would take multiplied billions of years (around 10,000,000,000 years). Whereas, current scientific theory places the age of the earth and universe at only 20 billions years (only 2 x 10⁹ years). This is far, far short of the time required to evolve life by pure chance as we know it.

Moreover, it is estimated by astronomers that every 20 million years or so a star could explode that is close enough to the earth to obliterate life from radiation. Thus, the chance beginning of life and evolution would have to start all over. Perhaps a reason for the extinction of the dinosaurs?

The age of the universe has been estimated by several means. One means is to mathematically run the expanding universe "backward," like a tape recorder, until it becomes a dimensionless point. Albert Einstein first worked out the equations to do this in 1915. This results in all matter and energy having a beginning about 17 billion years ago. Recently, Dr. Stephen Hawking and others added time and space to Einstein's equations (don't ask me how!) and concluded that time and space also began at the same "time" and "place." This is referred to as the Big Bang theory.

The interesting thing about the Big Bang theory is that time having a beginning is referred to in the Bible, in 2 Tim. 1:9 "This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time."

The other interesting thing about the Big Bang theory is that both the 6,000-year creationists and secular scientists are trying to discredit it. The 6,000-year creationists are trying to discredit it from the standpoint of its long-age implications. The secular scientists are trying to discredit it from the standpoint of spontaneous beginning of a finite universe and the implication of a creator God, outside the universe as we know it.

For further information on this viewpoint, I recommend the new book "The Fingerprint of God" by Dr. Hugh Ross.

The bottom line for all Christians, though, is not to get enamored with any of the winds of current scientific thought, because they tend to shift each generation. As the Apostle Paul said as he entered Corinth, "I resolved to know nothing while I was with you except Christ Jesus and him crucified."

Corona del Mar's Paul Orris begins his fourth year.

Despite departures, Sea Kings expecting another strong season

By JON FERGUSON

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Five seniors have departed from Corona del Mar High's CIF state playoff team of a year ago, but the way Coach Paul Orris sees it, the Sea Kings are poised for another strong season.

Four seniors who started the entire season and a fifth who started in the playoffs after overcoming a football injury have departed from a team which went 20-11, lost to Trabuco Hills in the CIF 3-A final and bowed in the CIF Division II state playoffs.

That team matured greatly as season evolved and four football players became eligible following the Sea Kings Division VI title season. This year's team, like last year's, awaits the arrival of four football players — two of them starters, so again it will not be an eye-catcher in December.

While Orris sees another very close Sea View League race, and he expects the Sea Kings to be in the thick of it come mid-February.

"Talent wise, I really feel that athletically speaking, we have better athletes and better balance," Orris said. "We may not be quite as big as last year. But I think we have a little better quickness and are at least as good shooting-wise or better. We'll miss Brian Spratt inside, but I think everybody we put in the starting lineup will contribute to scoring."

The Sea Kings' football team, which plays at least one more game and maybe two, will provide senior guards Warren Johnson and Weston Johnson, senior forward Jeff Jackson and 6-foot-5 sophomore postman Todd Kehrli.

"Right now we only have seven players out for the varsity team," Orris said. "I think we'll probably be a little slow coming around in the month of December."

"With the football guys coming out next week or the week after, it just takes some time, no matter how good of athletes they are, to become basketball players instead of football players trying to play basketball. It takes a good three to four weeks before they're playing with some finesse and react without thinking so much."

Warren Johnson started most of the team's game a year ago at guard and averaged 8.1 points per game. His twin brother Weston Johnson will challenge for playing time at guard and small forward.

"Warren is a good outside shooter, very aggressive and has that ability to kick it up a notch with the game on the line," Orris said.

Jackson, who at 6-foot-4, 225 pounds provides a bruiser inside, averaged 4.4 points per game a year ago and will start at power forward. A year ago, he came on strong in the playoffs, and while he served a role of defender and rebounder a year ago, Orris sees more of an offensive role from Jackson this season.

"He wasn't a starter, but at crunch time, it seemed like he was always in there," Orris said. "He'll be a team (Please see CdM/B2)

Bowen feels Laguna can contend for PCL crown

By JON FERGUSON

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Laguna Beach High's Ed Bowen calls this year's returning nucleus the best he's had in his second stint at the Artists' coach over the last four years.

What that means, Bowen feels, is that the Artists will be a title contender despite the fact their school is only one-third the size of the Pacific Coast League's largest entry.

"Last year, we only had about six guys," said Bowen of a squad which went 10-13 and finished fourth in the PCL. "Outside our six men, they were small. This year, the team is well-balanced, and we have seven kids up from last year's JV team that was a second place team."

"Others have said Woodbridge is the team to beat. We'll play Woodbridge all the way. Woodbridge has an excellent nucleus back. Trabuco Hills has three kids who are excellent and they are probably deeper. But overall, they better watch out for us, if we don't get hurt or don't get sick."

A year ago, Laguna suffered a three-week bout with the flu.

Ocean View Coach Jim Harris starts his 12th season.

Ocean View appears to be talented enough to survive tough slate

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Eleven years ago when Jim Harris began what has been a long-running success story as Ocean View High's basketball coach, he always had a tag-along nearby, holding a ball, kicking a ball, observing the scorebooks, sometimes shooting a hoop at halftime, and eventually spinning a ball on his fingers while waiting the outcome of another Seahawks' venture.

The father-son dream endured for over a decade, and now, except for the fact they still have to wait a few more weeks, Jim Harris finally gets to shoot the ball as opposed to the Jim Harris, who has been doing all the coaching.

Jim Harris — Jr. — is a freshman, and he's a 5-foot-9, 145-pound floor leader whose sudden absence from the floor is making it all the more clear he belongs with the varsity despite the fact he's but a freshman.

"He broke his foot last Saturday," said the elder Harris. "It really had me down, I guess, because at first it was that father-son thing. But now it's really beginning to hit home. He's one of our better players and we're not going to have him (possibly) for six weeks."

"He's just fundamentally sound at every part of the game."

So with that portion of Ocean View's game obviously missing for a while, Harris finds himself turning to a quintet that still warrants rankings in CIF and Orange County Top 10s, and one so regarded that it is invited to the Great Florida Shootout, where such entries as nationally renowned Bronx Tolentine is entered, as well as a long list of other powers.

"They've got the top team from Kentucky, and from this state and that state," said Harris. "One was 30-2 last year and they return nine players, that type of thing."

Ocean View's schedule also includes its own Tournament of Champions, and non-league opponents St. Paul, Long Beach Poly and Mater Dei, as well as what appears to be the toughest march through the Sunset League in memory.

It's a big order, but Ocean View appears to have the talent to survive such a march, and it includes all-league returner Greg Evans, a 6-foot-3 senior with a 10.5 scoring average as a junior, as well as 6-6 Darren Ernst, 6-5 Jim Gwaltney, 6-7½ junior Marcel TenBerge and 6-3 junior Ryan Martin.

"Evans is just lightning quick and a great athlete who has become an awfully good basketball player," said Harris of the Loyola Marymount-bound Evans.

"Mike Frohn ran our club the last two years and Todd (Norman) was our power, so I was wondering where is our game going to come from?"

"I think it will be a balanced situation, which I prefer. A lot of direction of the team lies on his shoulders. He makes good decisions, he's quick and he plays hard at both (Please see SEAHAWKS/B2)

Numbers in Fontana's favor

Fontana High is a team with big numbers everywhere. Edison's have come mainly on the football field in earning its CIF Division I semifinal playoff berth.

"In the final Orange County rankings, we couldn't make the top 12 or 13, and now we're still alive," said Edison Coach Dave White.

Saturday night at 7:30 at Fontana High, White's squad will meet one of the top teams in the nation, according to USA Today and likely the top team in the state when it takes on the Steelers, ranked first in Division I all season.

The Chargers, unseeded entering the playoffs and ranked sixth in the final Division I poll, have won six straight games and check in with a 10-2 overall mark. Fontana arrives with a 12-0 mark.

The two are not strangers either.

Their first meeting occurred in 1979 when Kerwin Bell returned the opening kickoff for a touchdown and the Chargers rolled to a 34-14 win.

A year ago, Chargers Coach Dave White was infuriated after the Chargers went 9-1 as a second place team from the Sunset League and were given a first round road test at Fontana. The Steelers, playing before a packed house with a rabid crowd, earned a 21-16 victory.

"The kids are hungry, and they have something to prove," White said. "Fontana knocked us off last year. What better way than to go back to their turf and knock off the No. 1 team in the state? We are not in fear of them, not in awe of them. We feel like we can go back and play

Newport's Olson built herself into skating champ

By JON FERGUSON

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

When Betty Olson was a competitive figure skater, there was not the multitude of training benefits such athletes now have at their disposal in this modern age of training the ultimate competitor.

But she did pretty nicely on her own. For children growing up in Winnipeg, Manitoba in Canada, skating is like learning to ride a bike — everyone does it. Olson began at age 3, was competing by age 10 and became a North American speed skating champion in her late teens.

"It was like hockey up there," Olson said. "Only the boys went for hockey. There's not much skating because it's flat, so skating was the main sport. It's something you learn when you're four or five years old."

"When I first started off, I had a club coach, but he moved away and then we more or less coached ourselves. It's hard for youngsters to believe we did so much on our own. We'd even arrange our own trips to competitions."

When she competed in the World Championships in Kongsberg, Norway in 1949, she went on her own — no coaches, no trainers — although she had sponsorship from her workplace.

"It's not a team sport like basketball or volleyball," said the longtime Newport Beach resident. "You're on your own. I had basic coaching to start with, and then after that, I didn't have a regular coach. When they sent me to Norway, I was practically on my own."

"You learned from the others, and learned coming down here to the States from the competition you faced. It's kind of a different world than it is now."

Olson has lived in the U.S. since 1954 when she sought a change in lifestyle, but her achievements as a Canadian still draw acclaim in her native land. Elected to the Canadian Skating Hall of Fame in 1965, she recently attended an induction ceremony for the Manitoba Sports Hall of Fame in Winnipeg. Among the others inducted was longtime hockey star Bobby Hull.

"I was quite surprised when they called me about it, because it was a long time ago," Olson said. "Two things that were neat were seeing all the people I hadn't seen for so long, and then when we went out the following day, I watched some of the kids skating, and they were explaining to me the system they have now for bringing them up through the ranks."

"In 35 or 40 years, they've made quite a few improvements," Olson said. "When (young skaters) get to a certain point where they're going into international competition, they go to sports camps, one in Western Canada and one in Eastern Canada."

Olson won North American titles — a combined score from five events — from 1946-48 and in 1950, and in 1949, she made her way to Oslo for the World Championships, the ultimate test at the time since there was no Olympic competition for women speedskaters until 1960.

"It was right after the fellows went to the '48 Olympics," Olson said. "It was something everybody tried to work toward, not having women in the Olympics. I didn't think I'd ever get over to international competition as far as going to Europe. It was a thrill for me to do that."

While Soviet women took the first few places, Olson finished 12th in her first shot at international competition.

"Norway is the home of speed- (Please see OLSON/B2)

When Betty Olson was a competitive figure skater, there was not the multitude of training benefits such athletes now have at their disposal in this modern age of training, the ultimate competitor.

But she did pretty nicely on her own. For children growing up in Winnipeg, Manitoba in Canada, skating is like learning to ride a bike — everyone does it. Olson began at age 5, was competing by age 10 and became a North American speed skating champion in her late teens.

"It was like hockey up there," Olson said. "Only the boys went for hockey. There's not much skiing because it's flat, so skating was the main sport. It's something you learn when you're four or five years old."

"When I first started off, I had a club coach, but he moved away and then we more or less coached ourselves. It's hard for youngsters to believe we did so much on our own. We'd even arrange our own trips to competitions."

When she competed in the World Championships in Kongsberg, Norway in 1949, she went on her own — no coaches, no trainers — although she had sponsorship from her workplace.

"It's not a team sport like basketball or volleyball," said the longtime Newport Beach resident. "You're on your own. I had basic coaching to start with, and then after that, I didn't have a regular coach. When they sent me to Norway, I was practically on my own."

"You learned from the others, and learned coming down here to the States from the competition you faced. It's kind of a different world than it is now."

Olson has lived in the U.S. since 1954 when she sought a change in lifestyle, but her achievements as a Canadian still draw acclaim in her native land. Elected to the Canadian Skating Hall of Fame in 1965, she recently attended an induction ceremony for the Manitoba Sports Hall of Fame in Winnipeg. Among the others inducted was longtime hockey star Bobby Hull.

"I was quite surprised when they called me about it, because it was a long time ago," Olson said. "Two things that were neat were seeing all the people I hadn't seen for so long, and then when we went out the following day, I watched some of the kids skating, and they were explaining to me the system they have now for bringing them up through the ranks."

"In 35 or 40 years, they've made quite a few improvements," Olson said. "When (young skaters) get to a certain point where they're going into international competition, they go to sports camps, one in Western Canada and one in Eastern Canada."

Olson won North American titles — a combined score from five events — from 1946-48 and in 1950, and in 1949, she made her way to Oslo for the World Championships, the ultimate test at the time since there was no Olympic competition for women speedskaters until 1960.

"It was right after the fellows went to the '48 Olympics," Olson said. "It was something everybody tried to work toward, not having women in the Olympics. I didn't think I'd ever get over to international competition as far as going to Europe. It was a thrill for me to do that."

While Soviet women took the first few places, Olson finished 12th in her first shot at international competition.

Remember 'The Boz?' Seahawks would just as soon forget him

From The Associated Press

SEATTLE — Ever wonder what happened to "The Boz," that $11 million linebacker from Oklahoma? The Seattle Seahawks do.

The Seahawks, who won a lottery to take Bosworth in the June 1987 supplemental draft, fear they may have seen the last of him.

"I don't know, I can't answer that," Seahawks President Tom Flores said when asked whether Bosworth would ever play again. "Right now it looks a little tenuous."

Bosworth's third NFL season — in which he is being paid $500,000 — is symbolic of the Seahawks' demise from AFC West champions to a 4-8, non-playoff team.

"All I know right now, and the only thing that we can go on, is that the right shoulder was a similar injury to the left and the rehabilitation is similar," Flores said.

"Hopefully, the right one will be able to come back like the left one did. Then we'll have to re-evaluate it at that time. But right now we don't know."

Bosworth's third season with the Seahawks consisted of two games and a dozen tackles before he was forced out by a sore shoulder. That's $41,666 per tackle.

A year ago he missed seven games, including the Seahawks' playoff game, because of an injured left shoulder, which required arthroscopic surgery. His right shoulder didn't require surgery.

Except for his rookie season, he has been a virtual one-armed tackler.

The man who was supposed to make a dramatic impact on the Seattle defense has become invisible, remembered more for his hairdo and his deodorant commercials than his tackling.

His most memorable on-field performance was when he hit Bo Jackson at the 1-yard-line in a Monday night matchup with the Los Angeles Raiders. Bo beat the Boz and scored the touchdown.

His pro career has consisted of 24 games and 175 tackles.

Coach Chuck Knox danced at the team's headquarters in Kirkland and hugged then-General Manager Mike McCormack after the Seahawks got the right to pick Bosworth. Visions of a blond Dick Butkus danced in his head.

The Seahawks signed Bosworth to a 10-year, $11 million contract. The NFL Players Association said the first five years were guaranteed.

There have been no Dick Butkus results.

Manning's return spoiled

Rickey Pierce scored 10 of his 26 points in the final seven minutes and Jack Sikma scored 12 of his 25 points on 3-point shots, leading the Milwaukee Bucks to a 117-103 victory Wednesday night at the Sports Arena that spoiled the successful return of Danny Manning to the Los Angeles Clippers.

Manning connected on his first six shots and 7 of 10 for the game while equalling Ken Norman's 21 points for the Clippers.

In other NBA games Wednesday:

■ Mavericks 102, Hornets 83: Rolando Blackman scored 22 points in Dallas' first game under interim head coach Richie Adubato and the host Mavericks rolled. John MacLeod was fired eight hours before the game after the Mavs stumbled to a 5-6 start. Rick Sund, operations manager of the Mavs, said MacLeod was let go because the team wasn't motivated.

■ Celtics 118, Nets 95: Larry Bird had 29 points and 11 rebounds in East Rutherford as Boston dealt New Jersey its ninth consecutive loss.

■ 76ers 114, Cavaliers 84: Hersey Hawkins made 13 of 14 shots in scoring a season-high 28 points and Philadelphia pulled away in the third quarter to defeat Cleveland at the Spectrum.

■ Pistons 111, Suns 103: Isiah Thomas had 29 points and Bill Laimbeer scored 11 of his season-high 21 in the fourth period as Detroit triumphed in Phoenix.

■ Knicks 129, Warriors 111: Patrick Ewing scored a season-high 44 points and grabbed a career-high 24 rebounds as New York started a four-game Western trip with a victory in Oakland.

■ Timberwolves 105, Heat 100: Tony Campbell scored 31 points, including the final two baskets in a 12-2 third-quarter spurt, as Minnesota won for the first time on the road and broke a seven-game losing streak.

■ Pacers 100, Jazz 88: Indiana played its best defensive quarter since joining the NBA in 1976, held visiting Utah to eight points in the second period.

■ Hawks 111, Bullets 104: Dominique Wilkins overcame a 1-for-7 start to score 27 points, leading Atlanta in Landover, Md.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

Bill (Spaceman) Lee, pitcher-manager for the Winter Haven Super Sox in the Senior Professional Baseball Association, on Bobby Tolan, manager of the St. Petersburg Pelicans, banning facial hair on his squad: "It's a damn militaristic regime over there. Tolan makes them shave their mustaches."

Raiders' deal threatened

Sacramento's bid for the Los Angeles Raiders may be foundering over the insistence of a Sacramento partnership on owning part of the team.

That situation arose as Sacramento was closing its sale of $40 million in bonds to lure the National Football League team. The local ownership issue has been a sticking point since negotiations started eight months ago. But with every other issue virtually resolved, it now threatens a deal that has come tantalizingly close in recent days. The Sacramento Bee reported Wednesday.

In other sports news Wednesday:

■ Wide receiver Willie Anderson of the Rams, who broke the NFL record with 336 receiving yards on 15 catches in a 20-17 win in New Orleans Sunday, has been named NFC Player of the Week on offense.

■ Emerson Fittipaldi won the Indianapolis 500, went on to take the CART-PPG Indy-car championship and capped his season by being named the 1989 Driver of the Year by a national panel of motorsports writers and broadcasters.

■ The Pittsburgh Pirates, whose chief off-season goal was to sign a starting pitcher, reached terms with free agent right-hander Walt Terrell on a three-year, $3.6 million contract.

TALLEY

From B1

■ The Chicago Cubs, meanwhile, have played 6,848 games since last winning a pennant.

■ One more salary chuckle: The Cleveland Indians will pay Candy Maldonado $825,000 next season. He hit .217 with the Giants last year and also gets a $50,000 bonus for signing. Gag me.

■ Now the flip side: The Cubs won a divisional title because of youngsters like Damon Berryhill, Mark Grace, Dwight Smith, and Jerome Walton — none of whom are under contract for 1990 or eligible for arbitration.

■ In other words, under the current system, the Cubs can offer under-$100,000, take-it-or-leave-it contracts to their stars while Candy Maldonado lives off his interest. Gag me again.

■ Excellence Dept: Since 1963, when Al Davis first took over the Raiders as head coach and general manager, the team has a record of 255-124-11, the best winning percentage (.654), according to the Raiders, in any professional sport over 27 years.

■ However, during eight seasons in Los Angeles, the Raiders are 69-47 (.590) and in Our Town, that won't cut it. Studio bosses get fired daily with that success ratio.

■ Do you think anybody has placed a bounty yet on Buddy Ryan? Count on it.

After a weekend off, we resume our heretofore fruitless assault on National Football League point spreads. Season RixPix record is 24-24-1 and at $100-a-pop, you would be $240 down to the man who collects the vig.

Week No. 13, however, could be the time for a major move. Try

Since there was no Olympic goal, Olson decided to try some other sports for recreation and set her skating career aside.

"It's something you would work toward," Olson said. "People here, the kids love to work toward the Olympics. I could have stayed in and worked toward another world, but there wasn't really anything else to work toward, so I tried some other sports."

these:

■ Green Bay (-3) at Tampa Bay: The Packers have tasted success and appear well-armed to continue.

■ Cleveland (-4) at home against Cincinnati: Without Woods this season, the Bengals have been lousy.

■ Giants (-3) over the Eagles at the Meadowlands, a.k.a. Hoffa's Gardens: This won't be easy for New York after a short work week. Philly, meanwhile, has been resting since a bounty-full Thanksgiving.

■ Denver (+1½) at the Coliseum against the Raiders: I know how badly the Raiders need this one to achieve AFC wild card status but the Broncos are the better team.

■ Minnesota (-6) at home against the Bears: What psychological outburst will Mike Ditka offer after this one? The last 417 haven't worked.

Barons, without Weaver, ready to slug it out in rugged Sunset

Of the Daily Pilot Staff

It would figure that any coach following someone like Dave Brown, who had 20 years of success behind him, would have one strike against him even before he starts.

For new Fountain Valley High Coach Gordon Billingsley, that much was granted, everyone takes one look at the plate.

However, he wasn't counting on the curvball that was to come in the form of football star Doug Weaver, the talented wide receiver who was being relied on to carry a large share of the load on the basketball floor for the Barons.

Weaver went down against Huntington Beach in the regular season finale with a badly injured knee and following major surgery, is obviously lost for the entire basketball season.

So Billingsley has two strikes on him now, and the season doesn't begin until Friday when the Barons host Mission Viejo in a non-league encounter.

Despite the setback, however, the Barons appear to have a great deal to offer in what is anticipated as the best Sunset League race in years in terms of sheer talent.

The league is loaded. Edison, Marina and Ocean View are being touted as the Big Three, Huntington Beach is very much a threat to make it the Big Four, and Fountain Valley, even without Weaver, has the horses to beat each and everyone mentioned.

"One of our goals is to win the Sunset League," said Billingsley. "That's our main goal every year. I think we can be real competitive."

"Without Doug, it puts a lot more pressure on Derrick (Corcoran). And with Doug in there I believed we had two 3-point shooters. Now, hopefully Derrick will come through. But he's unproven. Doug had his junior year to do that stuff."

Billingsley is a first-year coach, but hardly a newcomer to the program. He was a longtime assistant (12 years) for Brown and his 1-2 punch, Mike Merli and Corcoran, were sophomores on his 23-1 junior varsity two years ago.

Merli, a 6-foot-4 senior, averaged 16.4 per start a year ago, and the 6-foot Corcoran dropped in 12.3 points per game.

A year ago Billingsley was coaching a couple of standouts — Vince Nguyen (6-1) and Eric Zellmer (6-2), and both will be integral parts of the varsity this year.

Both averaged in double figures. (Please see BARONS/B3) ends of the court."

Ernst is a returning starter (averaging 5.6 a game) and is "strong as an ox."

He was an honorable mention all-league selection. "He's a great post defender," said Harris, and that would seem to be a prerequisite for anyone to compete in the Sunset considering the competition at Marina (Cherokee Parks) and Edison (Bill Martineau). "And," adds Harris, "he's a good rebounder."

Gwaltney started the last half of the season and is an offensive threat up front, while Martin is a long-range shooter who can go inside or outside.

TenBerge, at 220 pounds, has the muscle to go with the height and offers the Seahawks a big piece to the puzzle. "He's big and strong and really a good shooter," said Harris.

Martin and TenBerge are both returning lettermen.

Chris Garbe is a 5-8 senior guard who offers Ocean View the option of a more guard-oriented offense, and with the anticipated return of Harris (with the broken foot) the Seahawks may well run a three-guard offense at times (Evans, Garbe and Harris).

Harris is only the second freshman to ever sit on the varsity bench. The other was Ricky Butler, the current UCI standout.

Others who work into Harris' plans are 6-7 junior Jack Pietrowski and 6-7½ senior Lee Quinn.

Pietrowski is up from the junior varsity, while Quinn returns after a two-year absence when he chucked basketball and went for volleyball.

"He (Quinn) is a good athlete and experienced," said Harris. "And he's a pretty smart fellow. He explained he left because he just couldn't make the commitment we require. But I listened to what he said, and he said the right things."

Darin Upstill (6-1 sr.) and sophomore Albert Fanoga (5-11), a late arrival from football, round out the squad.

"This team has two great pluses," said Harris. "They're really together and they'll improve immensely. During the summer I'd label it as good. We were winners about 60-65 percent of the time."

Despite Ocean View's ability to field a starting quintet which includes 6-7½, 6-6, 6-5, 6-3 and 6-3, with 6-7½ and 6-7 on the bench, Harris said he feels his team's best asset is its ability to run.

"Evans can push the ball up the court," noted Harris.

"We have a long ways to go defensively, but this team is going to improve. And we have a 6-7 kid with a world of potential who hasn't played for two years. And, my son has a world of potential, but unfortunately he'll miss some action."

As for the Sunset League, Harris doesn't rule out even Westminster, a team which is probably the unanimous favorite to finish last.

"Everyone leaves Westminster out," said Harris. "But no one has seen them. Knowing them, they'll play all over the place and it's a worry."

Harris is placing no demands in terms of victories. It's more a case of how far do you get?

"Just playing in our league is a good schedule," he said. "For us, we could easily be 500 going into our league and be a pretty good team."

"I'm really excited about it. I would pick Edison and Marina, in that order, with us and Huntington Beach behind them. But I'm excited about our chances to challenge that. It's going to be a neat league. You're going to have to get up every night. It's sort of like the ACC or Big East in a high school setting."

"But with our pre-season schedule we're going to be used to that, if we're not worn out or hurt."

"That's going to mean a lot — who comes up with the twisted ankle, or whose back goes out."

formers. Trevino averaged 15.4 points a game and will share the ball-handling duties. Blanton hit 13.9 points a contest and will shoulder much of the rebounding chores.

"Both have been scoring since they were sophomores on the varsity," Bowen said. "Trevino can handle the ball well and shoot outside shot well. He'll be one of the best outside shooters in Orange County."

"Blanton's good on the inside and can really run the floor fast. He's real good around the bucket, and his 10-foot jumper is real good."

As for the seven up from the junior varsity, 5-11 guard Josh Borella has nailed down a position in the backcourt with Trevino but the other six are virtually interchangeable at the other two spots, Bowen said.

Borella provides a good ball-handler whose penetration ability is his strength, but he can shoot the outside jumper too.

The six frontliners battling at center and forward include Kris Smith and John Van Uden, who are 6-5 seniors, Brady Butcher, Trevor Murphy and Lee Kirner, who are 6-2 seniors, and junior Paul Bass.

"Brady Butcher can shoot the jumper with the best of them and Trevor Murphy is tough," Bowen said. "If opponents don't have much height against us, those five (Butcher, Murphy and the top three) will probably be the players."

"I'm going to give them all a real good look; they're all so close. All those guys are going to play. If one of them stands out, he'll earn the spot. I can go to anybody anytime and not be disappointed. They're going to be interchanging in there."

Two junior varsity players who will see varsity time are Darren Gravley and Tommy Ravensburg.

A first on the Laguna front this season is the schedule.

"It's the first time in the history of Laguna Beach High School we'll be traveling all around the world to play teams that are just the same size," Bowen said.

No longer will the Artists compete at the Coast Christmas Classic at Estancia High. This year brings trips to the Orange Lutheran Tournament and the Rossmore Smiff Schools Desert Tournament, where Bowen notes the total sum of the seven competing schools doesn't equal the enrollment of Woodbridge.

Also, the Artists will not earn a playoff spot based on their PCL finish. In the new playoff format where schools are rated solely on size and not by league, Laguna could be among the top few teams in the CIF 2-A division.

"I told our kids, one of our goals is 20 wins," Bowen said. "If we get it, it will be easier (in the playoffs) than what we see in our normal scheduling except when we get down to the final few teams."

BOATING

OCC adventure series a must for area sailors

Armchair sailors — and even active cruisers — have been fascinated for years by Orange Coast College's Sailing Adventure Series, featuring some of the most widely heralded cruising authors and photographers in the world.

This year's series, Jan. 12-Feb. 2, is coordinated, as usual, by Walt Gieckner and co-sponsored by Kettnerburg Marine.

The opening program, Jan. 12, features Dom Degnon, an East Coast sailor who will offer an evening of fun and humor with tales of his seven-year circumnavigation aboard his 41-foot Taku.

Degnon is noted for his great sense of humor and nautical theatrics (complete with his yellow slicker and character acting). He also combines some excellent photography with some informative comments on such areas as the Solomon Islands, New Guinea, the Red Sea, Sudan, Egypt, Tunisia, Turkey and others.

On Jan. 19, Peter Tangvald, a legendary circumnavigator in the mold of Tristan Jones, will tell about building his engineless 49-foot ketch on the beach in French Guinea before taking off on a lifetime of world cruising in which his two kids were born on board, his first wife killed by pirates in the South China Sea, and his second wife drowned in a freak jibing accident in which she was knocked overboard.

Tangvald now lives aboard in the Caribbean. This is his premier West Coast appearance.

For those seeking to "break away," the Jan. 26 program by Doug and Jamie Owen, entitled "Breaking Away: Put Yourself in the Picture," is a must. The couple have romantic tales and beautiful photos of their cruise south to some of the most secluded anchorages and peaceful villages.

The final program will be the Incredible Voyage of Totorea by New Zealander Gerry Clark, who concluded a 3½-year, 38,000-mile Antarctic circumnavigation to survey Antarctic seabirds, during which he survived two dismastings, five capsizings or "pitchpoles" — end over end capsizings.

Author of a southern hemisphere best seller, this is his first U.S. appearance.

Series tickets are $27 in advance or $31 at the door. Single admission is $7.50 in advance or $9 at the door. All programs are at the Robert B. Moore Theater, Orange Coast College. For detailed ticket information, call 432-5527. Almon Lockaby's column appears every Thursday.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Sooners miss 100—in a half

From The Associated Press

Oklahoma missed four chances at college basketball's first 100-point half before settling for a record 97 and the 17th-ranked Sooners got a career-high 31 points from William Davis in crushing U.S. International, 173-101, Wednesday night.

Davis, who also had 18 rebounds, scored 20 points in the first half when the Sooners piled up a 97-45 lead. That broke the mark of 94 scored last season by Loyola Marymount — also against U.S. International.

Oklahoma failed to connect on four 3-point shots in the final minute of the first half in an attempt to reach 100 by the intermission. The Sooners used their press for the entire first half and forced 28 turnovers, setting up numerous easy baskets.

The Sooners also set an NCAA record for shots in a game with 147, surpassing the 132 by Illinois against Colgate on Dec. 30, 1948. The 173 points were eight short of the NCAA record set by Loyola Marymount against USIU in last year's 181-150 shootout. It was a 20-point margin, eclipsing the mark of 152 the Sooners scored against Oral Roberts last season.

In other college action:

Cal State Fullerton 88, West Texas State 74: Cedric Ceballos scored 25 of his 34 points in the second half and the Titans (2-0) beat the Buffaloes (4-1). Mark Hill added 18 points and Wayne Williams 16 for Fullerton. Red Taylor had 20 points for the Buffaloes (4-1).

California 74, Prairie View 68: Roy Fisher scored a career-high 24 points to lead California to the victory

ORANGE COAST Auto PILOT

Corrado G60, VW's newest sports car, revving up

By GENE SELIG
Daily Pilot Correspondent

Readers of car magazines, along with word of mouth, are causing quite a stir at South County Motors at 18711 Beach Blvd. in Huntington Beach, where the hottest wheels from Deutschland are going on display.

Mike and Dana McKenna, father and son owners, are going to have to ask potential buyers to take a number once the word is out on the Corrado G60, now replacing Volkswagen's Scirocco as the sports car that I give a big 10 to.

Karmann-assembled means Klass, impeccably finished. Corrado means "sprint" in Spanish. The Scirocco (hot wind) is no more; even though it made a last-ditch attempt with a 16-valve engine, a Corrado is 100 times better.

First of all, this car is super charged, not turboed. Super charge means mechanically driven by the engine, either by gears or belt; in short, no lag. Turbo is hot exhaust-driven. Most of them have a lag.

I prefer my boost from a super charger; this one is a G60 — 60mm interior venturi size; the flow is channeled in a figure G configuration, hence G60, which belts out a mean 158 hp from a 1.8 liter engine.

Those Germans engineer it

right. At $19,035, this is a steal. Add ABS brakes at $800 more and you've just added the one and only option; well worth it, too. Leather will come later, and rumor has it that automatic transmission is now being tested.

McKenna agencies include Porsche Marquis in Hawaii, VW, Isuzu here, and they tell me that this new VW is the best sports car that has come out of Europe in many a moon.

Volkswagen has always made good stuff. Mike Jennings of Irvine tells me his 1989 Fox SC had no complaints, it was clearly the best car he had owned, and he couldn't speak more eloquently about the dealership and the way he was treated there when he made his purchase.

The Fox SC is a peg above the average Fox with spoilers front and rear, alloy wheels, low-profile rubber, ground effects and exotic paint variation. Like so many other service customers, Mike was delighted to see the Corrado and is contemplating this as his next VW.

I was intrigued with some of the newest innovations the engineering boys came up with. Unlike 944 Porsche, which added some 60 pounds to the rear end to keep it from wandering at higher speeds, Corrado has a speed-sensitive active rear spoiler which extends automatically as the car hits 45 mph, thus reducing rear-end lift by a whopping 64 percent. The rear spoiler goes back to its normal position when the car is decelerated to 5 to 10 mph. Now that's innovative.

I was very impressed with the Heidelberg VI AM-FM stereo with six speakers; the inside of the Corrado is every bit as good acoustically as the Orange County Performing Arts Center. I have listened to fine music in both places.

All cars that go good must be able to stop good, and this car stops on a dime — 11-inch front disc brakes take care of the stop department in no uncertain terms.

Shifting through five gears also is quite positive because of the newly developed Bowden cable system; generally found only on much more expensive cars. With the combination of seat adjustments and tilting steering wheel — four different positions — I found everything to be visible as I did my instrument panel sweep.

At legal speed, this is a remarkably quiet car. Transfer of unwanted car or road noise can be virtually eliminated from the passenger compartment. There is no doubt, this is the quietest, quietest VW ever built.

Statistically, this car will propel you down the highway at 140 mph — that means the left lane on the Autobahn over there, hardly possible and highly illegal here — but at least you know what's possible, which puts it clearly in the sports car category on either side of the road.

It was nice to know also that at Dana McKenna's shop, talent is recognized. Sales rep Jimmy Hargreaves, just 25 years old, is a five-time winner of the Salesman of the Month award. I noticed that he published his home telephone number on his business card. Nice to know you can reach Jimmy when he's not on showroom duty.

When I asked to list a few attributes about Corrado that might convince a buyer, he sprang into verbal action with a litany of answers. I was only able to capture a few, but they all made good sense, like low maintenance, more leg room than most cars on this wheel-base, more headroom and certainly more cargo space, and a higher resale value.

The white one on the showroom floor was all set to make a swell Christmas present. It was wearing a big red bow and all ready to drive away.

"In Europe, building a sports car is more than a tradition, it's an obsession," Hargreaves says. "Every part is engineered to the highest possible standards and subjected to the strictest scrutiny."

Personally, I'd like to see just two minor things in the VW line — a power top for the Karmann convertible (at $20,000 it would be a nice feature to have) and a slush pump in the Corrado soon.

For now, go drive a fun car. I think you'll like it well enough to buy it. I noted five in stock; all had sun roofs, some had the ABS brakes, which I would take for the slight difference in price.

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HUNTINGTON BEACH AMENDING THE HUNTINGTON BEACH MUNICIPAL CODE BY REPEALING CHAPTERS 17.02, 17.04, 17.08, 17.12, 17.20, 17.24, 17.28, 17.36, 17.40, 17.44, 17.48, AND 17.60 AND ADDING THERETO NEW CHAPTERS 17.02, 17.04, 17.08, 17.12, 17.20, 17.24, 17.28, 17.44, 17.48, AND 17.60 TO ADOPT THE UNIFORM ADMINISTRATIVE CODE, 1988 EDITION, UNIFORM BUILDING CODE, 1988 EDITION, UNIFORM HOUSING CODE, 1988 EDITION, UNIFORM MECHANICAL CODE, 1988 EDITION, UNIFORM PLUMBING CODE, 1988 EDITION, UNIFORM CODE FOR ABATEMENT OF DANGEROUS BUILDINGS, 1988 EDITION, UNIFORM SOLAR ENERGY CODE, 1988 EDITION, AND THE NATIONAL ELECTRICAL CODE, 1987 EDITION

The City Council of the City of Huntington Beach does ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. Huntington Beach Municipal Code Chapter 17.02 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Chapter 17.02

UNIFORM ADMINISTRATIVE CODE

17.02.010 Adoption. There is hereby adopted by the city council of the city of Huntington Beach that certain code known as the Uniform Administrative Code, compiled by the International Conference of Building Officials, being particularly the 1988 edition thereof and the whole thereof. Such code, and amendments thereto, is hereby adopted and incorporated, pursuant to California Government Code sections 50022.2 et seq., as fully as though set forth at length herein, to serve as the administrative, organizational and enforcement rules and regulations for the technical codes which regulate the site preparation and construction, alteration, moving, demolition, repair, use and occupancy of buildings, structures and building service equipment in the city of Huntington Beach, and repealing all ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith. From the date on which this chapter takes effect, the provisions of said code, together with amendments thereto, shall be controlling within the corporate limits of the city of Huntington Beach.

17.02.020 Repealed by Ordinance No. 3022/89

17.02.030 Subsection (b) of section 301 of the Uniform Administrative Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 301(b) EXEMPTED WORK. A permit shall not be required for the types of work in each of the separate classes of permit as listed below. Exemption from the permit requirements of this code shall not be deemed to grant authorization for any work to be done in violation of the provisions of the technical codes or any other laws or ordinances of this city.

"1. BUILDING PERMITS. A building permit shall not be required for the following:

"A. One-story detached accessory buildings used as tool and storage sheds, playhouses, private lathouses, glasshouses, pagodas, gazebos and similar structures and uses, provided projected roof area does not exceed 120 square feet.

"B. Fences not over forty-two (42) inches high.

"C. Oil derricks.

"D. Movable cases, counters and partitions not over five-foot nine (5'9") high.

"E. Retaining walls which do not support over two (2) feet of earth, unless supporting a surcharge or impounding flammable liquids.

"F. Water tanks supported directly upon grade if the capacity does not exceed five thousand (5000) gallons and the ratio of height to diameter or width does not exceed two to one.

"G. Platforms, walks and decks not more than thirty (30) inches above grade and not over any basement or story below.

"H. Painting, papering and similar finish work.

"I. Temporary motion picture, television and theater stage sets and scenery.

"J. Window awnings supported by an exterior wall of Group R, Division 3, and Group M occupancies when projecting not more than fifty-four (54) inches.

"K. Prefabricated swimming pools accessory to a Group R, Division 3 occupancy in which the pool walls are entirely above the adjacent grade and if the capacity does not exceed five thousand (5000) gallons.

"L. Flag poles, light poles and TV dishes in connection with a Group R, Division 3 occupancy and not exceeding fifteen (15) feet zero (0) inches in height.

"M. Playground equipment and similar type recreational structures.

"Unless otherwise provided by this code, separate plumbing, electrical and mechanical permits will be required for the above-exempted items.

"2. PLUMBING PERMITS. A plumbing permit will not be required for the following:

"A. The stopping of leaks in drains, soil, waste or vent pipe, provided, however, that should any concealed trap, drainpipe, soil, waste or vent pipe become defective and it becomes necessary to remove and replace the same with new material, the same shall be considered as new work and a permit shall be procured and inspection made as provided in this code.

"B. The clearing of stoppages or the repairing of leaks in pipes, valves or fixtures, nor for the removal and reinstallation of water closets, provided such repairs do not involve or require the replacement or rearrangement of valves, pipes or fixtures.

"C. Repair or replacement of any plumbing fixture or appliance of the same type and size and in the same location provided it does not require liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas to operate.

"D. Replacement of any component part of an appliance or fixture which does not alter its original approval and complies with other applicable requirements of the technical codes.

"3. ELECTRICAL PERMITS. An electrical permit shall not be required for the following:

"A. Portable motors or other portable appliances energized by means of a cord or cable having an attachment plug end to be connected to an approved receptacle when that cord or cable is permitted by the electrical code.

"B. Repair or replacement of fixed motors, transformers or fixed approved appliances of the same type and rating in the same location.

"C. Temporary decorative lighting.

"D. Repair or replacement of current-carrying parts of any switch, contactor or control device.

"E. Reinstallation of attachment plug receptacles, but not the outlets therefor.

"F. Repair or replacement of any overcurrent device of the required capacity in the same location. "G. Repair or replacement of electrodes or transformers of the same size and capacity for signs or gas tube systems. "H. Taping joints. "I. Removal of electrical wiring. "J. Temporary wiring for experimental purposes in suitable experimental laboratories. "K. The wiring for temporary theater, motion picture or television stage sets. "L. Electrical wiring, devices, appliances, apparatus or equipment operating at less than 25 volts and not capable of supplying more than 50 watts of energy. "M. Low-energy power, control and signal circuits of Classes II and III as defined in the electrical code. "N. A permit shall not be required for the installation, alteration or repair of electrical wiring, apparatus or equipment or the generation, transmission, distribution or metering of electrical energy or in the operation of signals or the transmission of intelligence by a public or private utility in the exercise of its function as a serving utility. "4. MECHANICAL PERMITS. A mechanical permit shall not be required for the following: "A. Any portable heating appliance. "B. Any portable ventilating equipment. "C. Any portable cooling unit. "D. Any portable evaporative cooler. "E. Any closed system of steam, hot or chilled water piping within any heating or cooling equipment regulated by the mechanical code. "F. Replacement of any component part of assembly or an appliance which does not alter its original approval and complies with other applicable requirements of the technical codes. "G. Any refrigerating equipment which is part of the equipment for which a permit has been issued pursuant to the requirements of the technical codes. "H. Any unit refrigerating system as defined in the mechanical code. 17.02.040 Fees. Section 304 for the Uniform Administrative Code is amended to read as follows: "Sec. 304(a) GENERAL. The fee for each permit shall be as established by resolution of the city council. "(b) PERMIT FEES. The determination of value or valuation under any of the provisions of these codes shall be made by the building official. The value to be used in computing the building permit and building plan review fees shall be the total value of all construction work for which the permit is issued as well as all finish work, painting, roofing, electrical, plumbing, heating, air conditioning, elevators, fire-extinguishing systems and any other permanent equipment. "(c) PLAN REVIEW FEES. When a plan or other data is required to be submitted by subsection (b) of section 302, a plan review fee shall be paid. This fee shall be paid at the time of submitting plans and specifications for building plan check and at the permit issuance for plumbing, mechanical and electrical plan checks. Said plan review fee for buildings or structures shall be as established by resolution of the city council. "(d) EXPIRATION OF PLAN REVIEW. Application for which no permit is issued within 180 days following the date of application shall expire automatically, and plans and other data submitted for review may thereafter be returned to the applicant or destroyed by the building official. The building official may extend the time for action by the applicant in increments of 180 days subject to the following conditions: "(1) The applicant shall submit a written request every 180 days stating the reason for such extension, accompanied by a plan check extension fee, established by resolution of the city council. "(2) Any plans that remain in plan check over 360 days shall be revised to meet all requirements in existence at the time the permit is issued. "(3) Any alterations to the plan shall be reviewed by plan check personnel on an hourly fee as established by resolution of the city council. "(4) Under no conditions may a plan remain in plan check over 720 days. "(e) INVESTIGATION FEES. Where work for which a permit is required by this code is started or proceeded with prior to obtaining said permit, the total permit fee shall be the standard permit fee as required in subsection (a) hereof plus an investigation fee established by resolution of the city council. The payment of the investigation fee shall not exempt any person from compliance with the provisions of this code or from any other penalty prescribed by law.

"Gates or doors shall be provided with self-closing and self-latching devices capable of keeping such gates or doors securely latched. Such self-latching devices shall be located not less than five (5) feet above exterior grade or at another equally inaccessible location.
"A dwelling or appurtenant structure may be used as a part of the required enclosure.
"The safety fencing, all self-closing and self-latching devices, required by this section, shall be installed and in proper working order before any water is placed in the pool.
"The building official may alter or waive these requirements when, in his opinion, they are impractical due to proximity of pool to other bodies of water such lagoons and channels.
"(c) CASH BOND. Before any permit is issued for any swimming pool a cash bond in the amount of three hundred dollars ($300) shall be posted with the city. The bond shall be for the purpose of assuring that all construction materials are removed from the public streets, that any damage to any curb, gutter, sidewalk, street, wall or other public property is repaired; and that the required safety fencing and related devices are installed and in proper working order. In the event the above work is not properly done, the cash bond shall be forthwith and summarily forfeited to the city. Unless the bond has been so forfeited, it shall, upon final inspection and approval of the installation, be returned to the person who posted the bond.
"(d) EQUIPMENT SLAB. Pool equipment shall be installed on a concrete slab two (2) inches above ground level.
"(e) HYDROSTATIC DEVICES. In areas of anticipated high water table, an approved hydrostatic relief device shall be installed.
"EXCEPTION: pools having no structural bottom such as plastic-lined pools, need not be equipped with such relief device"
17.04.055 The Uniform Building Code is hereby amended by adding thereto a new paragraph to Section 1210(a) Dwellings and Lodgings Fire Prevention Regulations to read as follows:
"Section 1210(a) Any dwelling or lodging classified under Group R Division 3 of the Uniform Building Code shall have a smoke detector installed as herein described above in this section.
All such smoke detectors shall be installed within 90 days of the passage of the ordinance."
17.04.060 Section 2623 of the Uniform Building Code is amended to read as follows:
"Section 2623. All concrete floor slabs on grade shall have a minimum net thickness of 3 1/2 inches, and shall be provided with minimum reinforcing equal to 6 x 6-W1.4 x W1.4 welded fabric. When such slabs are to be covered with carpet or any floor covering they shall be separated from the ground by 2" clean sand over an approved vapor barrier."
17.04.064 Section 3202 of the Uniform Building Code is amended by adding to the definitions of both wood shakes and wood shingles as follows:
WOOD SHAKES are tapered or nontapered pieces of approved durable wood of random widths ranging from 4 inches to 14 inches with a minimum of Class C fire-retardancy and of the following four types:
1. Hand-split and resawn, tapered with one sawed and one split face, semisplit, tapered with partially sawn and split faces both sides, 15 inches, 18 inches or 24 inches in length
2. Taper-split, tapered with both split faces, 24 inches in length
3. Straight-split, nontapered with both split faces, either 18 inches or 24 inches in length.
4. Taper-sawn, sawn both sides, edges sawn or split. Lengths 24 inches and longer
Preservative-treated wood shakes are taper-sawn pieces of southern pine wood treated in accordance with U.B.C. Standard No. 25-12 of random widths ranging from 4 inches to 8 inches and lengths of 18 inches.
WOOD SHINGLES are tapered pieces of approved durable wood, sawed both sides, of random widths ranging from 3 inches to 14 inches and in lengths of 16 inches, 18 inches or 24 inches with a minimum Class C fire-retardancy 17.04.066 Section 3204(d) of the Uniform Building Code is amended by deleting (d)2 and (d)3.
17.04.070 Section 3802 of the Uniform Building Code is amended by adding subsection (h) to read as follows:
"Section 3802(h) For amended sprinkler requirements, see Chapter 17.56 (Uniform Fire Code) of this code."
17.04.080 The Uniform Building Code is hereby amended by adding thereto new Chapter 41 entitled, "Building Security," to read as follows:
"Section 4101 Purpose. The purpose of this chapter is to establish minimum standards of construction for protection against unlawful entry
"Section 4102 Scope. The provisions of this chapter shall apply to all new construction for which building permits are issued after February 29, 1976.
"Section 4103 Limitations. No provisions of this chapter shall impose or be construed as imposing any requirements contrary to those contained in Chapter 33 of the Uniform Building Code
"Section 4104 Alternative security provisions. When approved by the building official, site security systems may be provided in lieu of the specific security provisions of section 4111. Garages--Multiple dwellings."
"Section 4105 Definitions. For the purpose of this chapter, certain terms used herein are defined as follows:
"Cylinder guard" means a hardened ring surrounding the exposed portion of the lock cylinder from wrenching, prying, cutting or pulling by attack tools
"Deadlocking latch" means a latch in which the latch bolt is positively held in the projected position by a guard bolt, plunger or auxiliary mechanism
"Dead bolt" means a bolt which has no automatic spring action and which is operated by a key cylinder, thumb turn, or level, and is positively held fast when in the projected position
"Latch" means a device for automatically holding a door shut after being closed
"Light" means any glazed opening whether glazed with glass, plastic, metal, wood or composition sheets or panels, or similar materials, and shall include window, skylights, view ports or view panels and similar openings.
"Section 4106 Tests
(a) Sliding Glass Doors. Panels shall be closed and locked. Tests shall be performed in the following order:
"(1) Test 'A'. With the panels in the normal position, a concentrated load of three hundred (300) pounds shall be applied separately to each vertical pull stile incorporating a locking device, at a point on the stile within six (6) inches of the locking devices, in the direction parallel to the plane of glass that would tend to open the door.
"(2) Test 'B'. Repeat above Test 'A' while simultaneously adding a concentrated load of 150 pounds to the same area of the same stile in a direction perpendicular to the plane of glass toward the interior side of the door.
"(3) Test 'C'. Repeat above Test 'B' with 150 pound force in the reversed direction toward the exterior side of the door.
"(4) Tests 'D', 'E' and 'F'. Repeat Tests 'A', 'B' and 'C' with the movable panel lifted upwards to its full limit within the confines of the door frame.
"(b) Sliding Glass Windows. Sash shall be closed and locked. Tests shall be performed in the following order:
"(1) Test 'A'. With the sliding sash in the normal position, a concentrated load of 150 pounds shall be applied separately to each sash member incorporating a locking device, at a point on the sash member within six (6) inches of the locking device, in the direction parallel to the plane of glass that would tend to open the window.
"(2) Test 'B'. Repeat above Test 'A' while simultaneously adding a concentrated load of seventy-five (75) pounds to the same area of the same sash member in the direction perpendicular to the plane of glass toward the interior side of the window.
"(3) Test 'C'. Repeat above Test 'B' with the seventy-five (75) pound force in the reversed direction toward the exterior side of the window.
"(4) Tests 'D', 'E' and 'F'. Repeat above Tests 'A', 'B' and 'C' with the movable sash lifted upwards to its full limit within the confines of the window frame.
"Section 4107. Entry vision. All main or front entry doors to R occupancies shall be arranged so that the occupant has a view of the area immediately outside without opening the door. Such view may be provided by a door viewer or view port or by window or other opening located and constructed as required by this chapter. Such area shall be provided with a light.
"Section 4108. Doors. (a) General. A door forming a part of the enclosure of a dwelling unit or of an area of a building occupied by one tenant shall be constructed, installed, and secured as set forth in this section.
"(b) Swinging doors.
"(1) Swinging wooden doors which can be opened from the inside without using a key shall be of solid core construction. Lights in doors shall be as set forth in this chapter.
"(2) A single swinging door, the active leaf of a pair of doors, and the bottom leaf of Dutch doors shall be equipped with a dead bolt and deadlocking latch. The dead bolt and latch may be activated by one lock or by individual locks. Dead bolts shall contain hardened inserts, or equivalent, designed to resist cutting tool attack. The lock or locks shall be key operated from the exterior side of the door and engaged or disengaged from the interior side of the door by a device which requires no key, special knowledge or effort.
"(3) A straight dead bolt shall have a minimum throw of one (1) inch and the embedment shall be not less than five-eighths (5/8) inch into the holding device receiving the projected bolt. All dead bolts of locks which automatically activate two (2) or more dead bolts shall embed at least one-half (1/2) inch but need not exceed three-fourths (3/4) inch into the holding devices receiving the projected bolts.
"EXCEPTION:
"Locks may be key, or otherwise, operated from the inside when not prohibited by Chapter 33 of the Uniform Building Code or other laws and regulations.
"(4) A deadlocking latch shall be provided with a bolt projecting not less than five-eighths (5/8) inches from the edge of the door in which it is installed.
"(5) The inactive leaf of a pair of doors and the upper leaf of Dutch doors shall be equipped with a dead bolt or dead bolts as set forth in subsection (b)(2) above.
"EXCEPTIONS:
"(1) The bolt or bolts need not be key operated but shall not be otherwise activated, from the exterior side of the door.
"(2) The bolt or bolts may be engaged or disengaged automatically with the dead bolt or by another device on the active leaf or lower leaf.
"(3) Manually-operated hardened bolts at the top and bottom of the leaf and which embed a minimum of one-half (1/2) inch into the device receiving the projected bolt may be used when not prohibited by Chapter 33 of the Uniform Building Code or other laws and regulations.
"(6) Doorstops on wooden jambs for in-swinging doors shall be of one piece construction with the jamb or joined by a rabbet.
"(7) Nonremovable pins shall be used in pin-type hinges which are accessible from the outside when the door is closed.
"(8) Cylinder guards shall be installed on all mortise or rim-type cylinder locks installed in doors whenever the cylinder projects beyond the face of the door or when otherwise accessible to gripping tools.

Garage space for each tenant shall be separated by partitions of three-eighths (3/8) inch plywood or any approved equivalent with studs set not more than twenty-four (24) inches apart on one side. Doors and windows in such garages shall be constructed, equipped and secured as required by this chapter."
17.04.085 Methane District Regulations. The Uniform Building Code is hereby amended by adding thereto new Chapter 55 entitled "Methane District Regulations" to read as follows:
"Section 5501 Purpose. This Division sets forth the minimum requirements of the City of Huntington Beach for new building construction in the defined methane overlay districts. It is also the purpose of this chapter to reduce the hazards presented from accumulations of methane gas by requiring the appropriate testing and mitigation measures for all new buildings in the methane overlay districts.
"Section 5502 Definitions. For the purposes of this division, the following definitions shall also be applied.
A. FLAMMABLE GAS shall mean any gaseous substance capable of sustaining combustion or explosion.
B. GAS DETECTION SYSTEM shall mean one or more electrical devices capable of continuous monitoring for the presence of flammable gases and containing an audible alarm capable of alerting occupants that a hazardous atmosphere exists. The system and all devices which are department and fire department approval.
C. METHANE GAS shall mean the hydrocarbon substance commonly known as "natural gas," chemical formula CH4. For the purposes of definition in this chapter, natural gas from the distribution system of a utility company is exempted and excluded from the scope of the application of the provisions of this chapter.
D. METHANE GAS OVERLAY DISTRICT shall mean those districts within the City of Huntington Beach as defined in Section 5503.
E. QUALIFIED ENGINEER shall mean a civil engineer currently registered in the State of California and possessing experience in the design of subsurface gas control systems.
F. VENT SYSTEM shall mean a system or device which gathers or collects flammable gasses and releases these gasses in a specified manner and location.
"Section 5503 Overlay Districts. Boundaries of the districts set forth herein are measured from centerline to centerline of indicated streets unless otherwise described, and are graphically depicted by the copy of the map designated "Methane Overlay Districts," which is on file with the Department of Community Development and the Fire Department.
The Methane District boundaries are as follows: Note that the directions of north, south, east, west and similar directions are general in nature only.
District One: Saybrook Lane south from Edinger Avenue to Davenport Drive to Algonquin Street, south on Algonquin Street to Warner Avenue, east on Warner Avenue to Bolsa Chica Street, north on Bolsa Chica Street to Edinger Avenue, west on Edinger Avenue to Saybrook Lane.
District Two: All land on both sides of Pacific Coast Highway northwest from the City Boundary at the Santa Ana River to the City Boundary at the Bolsa Chica Bluff, then following the City Boundary northeast to Edwards Street, Edwards Street north to Slater Avenue, Slater Avenue east to Gothard Street, Gothard Street south to Ellis Avenue, Ellis Avenue east to Newland Street, Newland Street south to Adams Avenue, Adams Avenue east to the City Boundary at the Santa Ana River, City Boundary south along the Santa Ana River to Pacific Coast Highway.
"Section 5504 Plan Required. All proposed subdivisions, divisions of land, developments of property, and new buildings within the methane overlay districts shall be reviewed by the Fire Department. The Fire Chief may require a plan for the testing of site soils for the presence of methane gas. Such plan shall be subject to the approval of the Fire Department, and may pneumatically driven probes, and core hole samples with monitoring for the presence of methane gas. The Fire Chief may require other actions as deemed necessary to insure the safety of the development or building site.
"Section 5505 Testing Required. Testing for the presence of methane gas shall be required to be carried out in accordance with the approved plan. Results of such testing shall be submitted to the Fire Department for review and analysis.
"Section 5506 Mitigation Required. Anomalous high levels of methane gas in the near surface of subsurface soil layers may require mitigation before any grading, development, or building construction is allowed to take place. Such mitigation may include, but is not limited to, the venting of abandoned oil wells, underground gathering and collection systems for gasses, vent systems, and flared vent systems. Other systems, devices, or components may be required as deemed necessary by the Fire Chief in order to insure the safety of the development and buildings.
"If the mitigation measures do not reduce the soil concentrations of methane to an acceptable level, or if other contaminants are present in the methane at a level which poses a threat to the health and safety, further development may be halted until such time as the site is rendered safe from these hazards.
"Section 5507 Isolation Barriers Required. New buildings which fall under the provisions and requirements of this article may require the installation of continuous, flexible, permanent, and non-permeable barrier, and shall be a type approved by the Department of Community Development and the Fire Department.
"Section 5508 Access. All methane gas mitigation systems required by this article shall be made accessible to city personnel for the purposes of monitoring, maintenance, and evaluation for effectiveness.
"Section 5509 Areas Outside of Established Methane Overlay District boundaries. Upon the determination of the Fire Department that hazard may exist from methane intrusion at a geographical location or area outside the boundaries established in Section 5503 above, the Fire Department may enforce any or all of the provisions of this article as deemed necessary by the Fire Chief to preclude potential hazards from fire or explosion from methane gas accumulations.
"Section 5510 Additional Remedial Measures. If the concentration of flammable gas in any building in the city reaches or exceeds twenty-five percent (25%) of the minimum concentration which form an ignitable mixture with air at ambient temperature and pressure, the owner of such building shall hire a qualified engineer to investigate, recommend, and implement mitigating measures. Such measures shall be subject to the approval of the Department of Community Development and the Fire Department."
17.04.090 Amendments to appendices. The Uniform Building Code is hereby amended by deleting from the appendices Chapters 1, 12, 23, 38, 51, 53 and 57.
17.04.100 Stockpile. "STOCKPILE" shall be defined as earth material in excess of 50 cubic yards stored for a temporary period of time upon a lot not in compliance with the grading provisions of this chapter.
17.04.110 Appendix Chapter 70, section 7006(h) Subsection (h) is hereby added to section 7006 of Appendix Chapter 40 to read as follows:
"Section 7006(h) Temporary Stockpile Permit. The city may issue a permit to stockpile soil on a lot or parcel upon the submission of an application for a temporary stockpile grading permit by the owner of such lot or his authorized agent. A site plan of the lot showing the area in which the stockpile is to be placed and the approximate amount of soil to be stockpiled shall be required.
"Soil so stockpiled shall not be disturbed or leveled until a regular grading permit has been obtained for such work. The placement of the stockpile shall not adversely affect the safety, use, or stability of any structure, nor create a nuisance because of dust or erosion therefrom, or block a public way or drainage course; nor shall such placement of stockpile material constitute a hazard to public welfare or endanger property. Stockpiling in a residential zone may be permitted under this section for purposes of providing fill material to be used onsite only. Stockpiling in residential zones for purposes of selling of material shall be prohibited.
"The temporary permit shall expire one (1) year after issuance thereof. A new permit shall be required annually.
"Stockpile Permit Fee. The permit fee for stockpiling shall be established by resolution of the city council."
SECTION 3. Huntington Beach Municipal Code Chapter 17.02 is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 6. Huntington Beach Municipal Code Chapter 17.24 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Chapter 17.24

SUN DECKS -- WINDSCREENS

17.24.010 Construction. Decks projecting beyond the bulkhead shall meet the following design requirements:

(a) Decks shall be designed to sustain minimum live load of one hundred (100) pounds per square foot

(b) There shall be no moment connection between the deck and the bulkhead

(c) Projecting decks shall be designed to sustain all dead loads plus the required live load within the stresses permitted for the particular materials by the Uniform Building Code. In no case shall the resultant load on the bulkhead, from dead loading, exceed 750 pounds per lineal foot. In addition, a maximum equivalent uniform live load of 50 pounds per square foot is permitted. This live load shall be used to account for all ancillary features incorporated into the deck/patio structure including but not limited to overlayment, windscreens, and planters.

(d) Projecting decks are permitted along the bulkhead provided the total length of the deck along the bulkhead does not exceed 80 percent of the length of the bulkhead abutting the lot. No deck segment shall exceed 50 feet in length. There shall be a minimum 10 foot separation between adjacent deck segments except where the combined total deck segments and intervening space does not exceed 50 feet.

(e) The elevation of the top of the deck shall not be higher than the height of the slab of the ground floor of the dwelling unit nor be more than 18 inches above the top of the bulk head, whichever is less.

17.24.020 Railing. Railing, not exceeding 42 inches in height and capable of withstanding a horizontal force of 20 pounds per lineal foot applied to the top of the railing may be constructed completely surrounding the deck area

17.24.030 Windscreen. The windscreens may enclose the entire deck perimeter within the following structural limitations:

(a) Windscreens may be supported horizontally by bracing to the main dwelling.

(b) The windscreen shall be designed to withstand a horizontal wind load of 10 pounds per square foot

(c) Except for necessary framing and overhead windbreaks, all portions of the windscreen above the allowed 42 inch railing height shall be open for clear glass or other transparent material.

(d) All glass shall comply with the applicable provisions of Chapter 54 of the Huntington Beach Building Code

17.24.060 Applicable to waterfront lots. This chapter shall apply only to lots designated as waterfront lots, and decks projecting beyond the bulkhead line shall be limited to wharfage areas assigned to said waterfront lots

SECTION 7. Huntington Beach Municipal Code Chapter 17.28 is hereby amended to read as follows:

MOVING BUILDINGS

17.28.010 Permit--Application--Conditions

(a) No person, firm or corporation shall move any building, structure, or portion of a building or structure into the city or relocate within the city, or cause the same to be done without first obtaining a separate relocation permit for each building or structure.

(b) Such relocation permit shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) Payment of a nonrefundable relocation fee, established by resolution of the city council;

(2) All streets shall be dedicated to their ultimate right-of-way and improved to city standards including street trees, street lights and street signs;

(3) All utilities shall be installed underground;

(4) On-site walkways and driveways shall be installed to city standards;

(5) The building shall be repainted;

(6) Payment of all required fees; and

(7) A cash bond in the amount specified in section 17.28.110(b).

17.28.020 Permit--Application. To obtain a permit the applicant shall first file an application therefor. Every such application shall contain or have appended thereto the following information:

(a) Name of street and official house number, the name of the tract and/or block and zone use legend, the lot number and its dimensions, where the building or structure to be moved is to be placed;

(b) The proposed use or occupancy for the building;

(c) The tract, block, lot, zone use and official address of the building or structure's existing location;

(d) All dimensions and structural type of the building or structure.

(e) The nature of the repairs and any alterations or additions;

(f) The complete valuation of the proposed work;

(g) A plot plan drawn to scale shall be filed with the application. Such plot plan shall indicate with dimensions, all existing and proposed setbacks; and

(h) Two clear photographs of the building.

17.28.030 Moving notice cards posted. When such application is filed with all the information required, the building shall be inspected to determine if the structures can be made to conform with applicable State of California and Huntington Beach building regulations. If the structure can be made to conform, the moving notice cards shall be made and posted by the city. If the building cannot be made to conform with the minimum requirements of the Huntington Beach Building Code, the application shall be denied.

17.28.040 Moving notice card specifications. The notice of moving and relocation card shall contain the following information:

(a) A brief description of the structure or structures, and the address from which and to which it is proposed to move such structure or structures;

(b) A statement that if a written protest, signed by one or more persons who own real property within three hundred (300) feet of the location to which the structure or structure is to be moved, is filed in the office of the city clerk within seven (7) days after the notice of moving and relocation has been posted, such protest shall be heard and determined by the city council at its first regular meeting after the time for filing protests has expired; and

(c) A statement that if a written protest has not been filed with the city clerk, as provided in subsection (b) hereof, and provided that all other requirements have been satisfied, a relocation permit will be issued.

PUBLIC NOTICE

17.28.050 Cards posted in conspicuous place. One moving notice card shall be posted in clear view in a conspicuous place approximately 15 feet back of the front property line on the lot to which it is proposed to move the building or structure. If the proposed move of the building or structure is to a corner lot, a second moving notice card shall be posted in like manner, facing the secondary street. A moving notice card shall be posted on the front of any building or structure to be moved within the city.

17.28.060 Card posting period. The moving notice cards shall remain posted for a period of seven (7) consecutive days. At the end of such time, moving notice cards shall be removed by an official of the city.

17.28.070 Determination of effect of move. If, following initial inspection of the building, it is determined that the structure would have an adverse effect on the characteristics of the neighborhood to which it is proposed that the building be moved, the planning director shall refer the matter to the zoning administrator.

17.28.080 Review by zoning administrator. The zoning administrator shall review the matter as an administrative act to determine whether the movement of the building to its proposed location will adversely affect the neighborhood based on the following criteria:

(a) The age of the building compared with the age of those already in the neighborhood;

(b) Architectural design of the building compared with those in the neighborhood and the effect upon same; and

(c) The size of the structure in comparison to those in the neighborhood

17.28.090 Decision of zoning administrator. The zoning administrator may approve, conditionally approve or disapprove the application for a permit to relocate.

17.28.100 Protest and hearing. Any protest with respect to a decision of the zoning administrator against the moving of a building or structure shall be in writing, signed by one or more persons owning real property within three hundred (300) feet of the relocation to which it is proposed such building or structure be moved, and filed in the office of the city clerk within the time specified on the moving notice card.

The city council shall hear such protest at its first regular meeting after the time for filing protests has expired

17.28.110 Relocation permit--Bond required. (a) No relocation permit shall be issued unless the applicant has first posted a cash bond

(b) The bond shall, in form joint and several, name the city of Huntington Beach as obligee, and shall be in an amount equal to the cost, plus 50 percent of the work required to be done, in order to comply with all of the conditions of such relocation permit as estimated by the building official

(c) No bond, however, need be posted in any case where the building official shall determine that the only relocation involved is that of moving a building temporarily to a regularly occupied business premises of a house mover or that of moving a building to adjacent property of the same owner, but the exceptions herein made shall not apply unless the building official finds that no such security is necessary in order to assure compliance with the requirements of this section

17.28.120 Bond conditions. Every bond posted pursuant to this section shall be conditioned:

(a) That each and all of the terms and conditions of the relocation permit shall be complied with to the satisfaction of the building official

(b) That all of the work required to be done pursuant to the conditions of the relocation permit shall be fully performed and completed within the time specified in the relocation permit, or if no time is specified, within ninety (90) days after the relocation permit is issued. The time specified in any permit may be extended for good and sufficient cause by the building official. No such extension of time shall be valid unless in writing, and no such extension shall release any surety from any bond

17.28.130 Default in performance of conditions--Notice given

(a) Whenever the building official shall find that a default has occurred in the performance of any term or condition of any permit, written notice thereof shall be given to the principal.

(b) Such notices shall specify the work to be done, the estimated cost thereof, and the period of time deemed by the building official to be reasonably necessary for the completion of such work

(c) After receipt of such notice the owner shall cause the required work to be performed or failing therein, the building official shall then proceed forthwith to cause the required work to be performed and complete. All costs incurred shall be paid out of the aforementioned cash bond. No liability shall be incurred therein other than for the expenditure of the sum in hand therefore

17.28.140 Cash bond--Manner of enforcement. If a cash bond has been posted, notice of default, as provided above, shall be given to the principal, and if compliance is not obtained within the time specified, the building official, in his discretion, shall proceed without delay and without further notice of proceedings whatever to use the cash deposit of any portion of such deposit to cause the required work to be done by contract or otherwise. The balance, if any, of such cash deposit shall, upon completion of the work, be returned to the depositor or his successor or assigns, after deducting the cost of the work plus 25 percent thereof

17.28.150 Option to demolish building. When any default has occurred on the part of the principal under the preceding provisions, the building official shall have the option, in lieu of completing the work required, of demolishing the building or structure and clearing, cleaning and restoring the site

17.28.160 Bond--Period and termination. The term of each bond posted pursuant to this section, shall terminate upon the completion to the satisfaction of the building official of the performance of all the terms and conditions of the relocation permit. Such completion shall be evidenced by a statement thereof, signed by the building official, a copy of which shall be sent to any principal upon request. When a cash bond has been posted, the cash shall be returned to the depositor or to his successors or assigns upon the termination of the bond, except any portion thereof that may have been used or deducted as elsewhere in this chapter provided

17.28.170 Entry upon premises. The building official and his duly authorized representatives shall have access to the premises described in the relocation permit for the purpose of inspecting the progress of the work

17.28.180 Default--Completion of work by city. In the event of any default in the performance of any term or condition of the relocation permit, the building official or his authorized representative shall have the right to go upon the premises to complete the required work or to remove or demolish the building or structure

17.28.190 Interference with completion by city. It is unlawful for the owner or his representative, successors or assigns, or any other person, to interfere with or obstruct the ingress or egress to or from any such premises of the city of Huntington Beach, engaged in the work of completing, demolishing or removing any building or structure for which a relocation permit has been issued after default has occurred in the performance of the terms or conditions thereof

17.28.200 Relocation permits--Exception. The provisions of this chapter relating to the posting of bonds shall not apply where the building or structure is to be moved to a location outside the city limits. In such cases, if the building official finds that the building or structure is so constructed and in such condition that it can be moved with safety, the permit shall be issued without the requirement of a bond

EXCEPTION: when approved by the building official, water heaters installed as replacements for existing water heaters inside existing buildings may be installed with an approved temperature gas shutoff valve in lieu of temperature and pressure relief valve where it is impracticable to comply with requirements of subsection (e) hereof. This valve is in addition to the regular thermostat."

17.44.070 Subsection (h) of section 1009, "Size of Meter and Pipe," is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 1009(h) Size of Meter and Building Supply Piping Using Table 10-2. Knowing the available pressure at the water meter or other source of supply, and after subtracting 1/2 pound per square inch pressure for each foot of difference in elevation between such source of supply and the highest water supply outlet in the building or on the premises, use the "Pressure Range" group within which this pressure will fall. Select the "length" column which is equal to or longer than the required length. Follow down the column to a fixture unit valve equal to or greater than the total number of fixture units required by the installation. Having located the proper fixture unit valve for the required length, sizes of meter and building supply pipe will be found in the two left-hand columns.

No building supply pipe shall be less than 3/4 inches in diameter and no building supply line for a new residential structure shall be less than 1 inch diameter. Each main building shall have a minimum of two 3/4-inch hose bibbs, one of which shall be readily accessible to the rear yard."

17.44.090 Repealed by Ordinance 3022/89.

SECTION II. Huntington Beach Municipal Code Chapter 17.48 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Arrange a calorie-wise holiday buffet

The holidays are filled with festive parties, tradition and joy. As we all know, that often means an abundance of calorie-rich and fat-laden foods. It can be a frustrating time of year for those who need to watch their weight.

Even for those who are not on a strict regime, lighter foods that are lower in fat, salt and calories come as a welcome respite during the holiday season.

This year, entertain with light and healthful foods without skimping on any of the delicious traditions we look forward to all year long. Try this holiday buffet for a healthful feast. All of the recipes follow the American Heart Association's Dietary Guidelines with lower salt and cholesterol and less than 30 percent of the calories coming from fat.

They are surprisingly low in calories, too, with all but the dessert weighing in modestly at under 200 calories per serving. Even the dessert is hardly an indulgence at 250 calories per serving of the Frozen Souffle and only 91 additional calories to top it with Raspberry Sauce.

But most important, these recipes do not skimp on flavor. Without a doubt they'll go into the recipe box for use all year long.

WATERCRESS SOUP

- 1 tablespoon margarine
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 2 chicken bouillon cubes
- 2 cups boiling water
- 4 cups watercress sprigs
- 3 cups (1 pound) sliced zucchini
- 1 potato, peeled and cubed
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 2 cups lowfat milk
- Salt and pepper to taste

Melt margarine in large saucepan over medium heat. Stir in onions; cook until soft, about 5 minutes. Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water; stir into onions. Stir in remaining ingredients except milk. Cover and simmer 30 minutes until zucchini and potatoes are very soft.

Puree mixture in food processor with metal blade in place. Return pureed mixture to pan. Stir in milk. Stir soup over medium heat until heated through. Season with salt and pepper, if desired, before serving. Makes 6 servings.

GLAZED ROAST TURKEY BREAST

- 1/4 cup raspberry jam
- 1/4 cup raspberry or red wine vinegar
- 2 pounds boneless turkey breast

Mix together raspberry jam and vinegar in small mixing bowl. Remove skin from turkey breast. Place turkey breast on foil-lined roasting pan; brush lightly with jam mixture, until self timer pops up or juices run clear. Remove turkey from oven and allow to stand 10 minutes before carving. Makes 8-10 servings.

COUSCOUS ALMONDINE STUFFING

- 1 tablespoon margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1/2 cup sliced celery
- 1 cup couscous
- 1 cup chopped apples
- 1/4 cup currants
- 1/2 teaspoon sage
- 2 chicken bouillon cubes
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1/2 cup natural sliced almonds, toasted
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley

Melt margarine in large saucepan over medium heat. Stir in onions and celery; cook until soft, 8-10 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in couscous, apples, currants and sage. Dissolve chicken bouillon cubes in boiling water; stir into couscous. Cover and let stand 5 minutes. Fluff couscous with fork. Stir in almonds and parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrients per serving: calories, 182; protein, 5.11 g; carbohydrates, 28.3 g; cholesterol, .25 mg; fat, 6.21 g; and sodium, 236 mg.

POTATOES ANNA

- 1 tablespoon margarine
- 1/4 cup blanched slivered almonds, toasted
- 4 medium (2 pounds) baking potatoes
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- Salt and pepper to taste

Melt margarine in a heavy, 8-inch non-stick skillet with ovenproof handle. Remove from heat. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon almonds over bottom of pan.

Peel potatoes and slice into 1/4-inch thick slices. Spread potato slices on paper towels. Blot to remove excess moisture.

Arrange one layer of potatoes in concentric circles over bottom of pan. Sprinkle potatoes evenly with a pinch of garlic, thyme and nutmeg. Sprinkle evenly with about 1 tablespoon almonds. Season with salt and pepper, if desired. Continue layering potatoes in circles and sprinkle each layer with garlic, thyme, nutmeg and almonds until all ingredients have been used.

Cover pan tightly with foil. Place a heavy weight on top of foil, such as a pie plate filled with beans. Place pan over medium heat on stove. Cook for 5 minutes to brown bottom layer of potatoes. Place pan in oven. Bake at 350 degrees, 45 minutes, until potatoes are tender.

Remove pan from oven. Let potatoes cool with weight for 5 minutes. Remove weight and foil. Run knife around edge of pan to loosen potatoes. Invert onto serving platter before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Nutrients per serving: calories, 137; protein, 2.85 g; carbohydrates, 23.9 g; cholesterol, 0 mg; fat, 3.78 g; and sodium, 23.2 mg.

STEAMED VEGETABLE MEDLEY

- 1 head broccoli
- 1 head cauliflower
- 1 red pepper
- 2 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cut broccoli and cauliflower into florets. Place in steamer rack. Steam, covered, 5 minutes. Remove lid from steamer. Add red pepper strips. Cover and steam an additional 2 to 3 minutes until all vegetables are tender-crisp. Place vegetables in serving bowl. Toss with 2 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice and sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Makes 8 servings.

Nutrients per serving: calories, 26; protein, 2.2 g; carbohydrates, 5.3 g; cholesterol 0 mg; fat, .26 g; and sodium, 17 mg.

FROZEN APRICOT SOUFFLE

- 1 cup (6 ounces) dried apricot halves
- 1 cup water
- 1 can (12 ounces) lowfat evaporated milk
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 6 egg whites 1 cup sliced natural almonds, toasted
- Raspberry Sauce, if desired

Combine apricots and water in small, heavy saucepan; cover and bring to a boil. Simmer mixture 15 minutes, until apricots are soft. Remove from heat and cool. Puree mixture in blender until smooth. Blend in evaporated milk and almond extract.

Transfer mixture to a large mixing bowl. Beat egg whites until stiff meringue forms. Fold meringue into apricot mixture. Chop 1/4 cup almonds. Fold into soufflé mixture. Gently spoon soufflé mixture into prepared 6- or 8-cup soufflé dish. Freeze firm.

When ready to serve, allow soufflé to stand at room temperature 5 minutes to soften slightly, if necessary. Decorate top with remaining 1/4 cup almonds. Serve with Raspberry Sauce, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Nutrients per serving: calories, 250; protein, 8.62 g; carbohydrates, 42.4 g; cholesterol, 1.67 mg; fat, 6.3 g; and sodium, 89.6 mg.

To prepare soufflé dish with a collar, cut a piece of waxed paper long enough to fit around the soufflé dish (1 1/2 to 2 feet long). Fold waxed paper in half lengthwise. Attach one end of the waxed paper to the dish with tape, making sure that the paper extends several inches above the rim of the dish.

Yule log a cool idea for dessert

Want a dessert that looks and tastes as if you slaved all day, but involves a minimum of effort? The Lemon-Ginger Yule Log could become one of your Christmas favorites.

Time is of the essence during the hectic holiday season, and this dessert is easy to make when you use gingerbread cake and cookie mix.

Lemon sherbet inside a moist and flavorful gingerbread roll makes for a delicious and sophisticated combination of flavors. Whipping cream added to vanilla frosting mix makes the topping light and sweet.

This elegant yule log is perfect for any gathering of family or friends this holiday season.

LEMON-GINGER YULE LOG

- 1 package gingerbread cake

- and cookie mix
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 cup light molasses
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 4 eggs

- Powdered sugar
- 3 cups lemon sherbet, slightly softened
- Whipping Frosting (below) or sweetened whipped cream

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour jelly roll pan, 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1 inch, generously. Mix gingerbread mix, water, molasses, cinnamon and eggs in medium bowl until uniform color and consistency. Pour into pan; spread evenly. Bake 15 to 20 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean.

Loosen cake from edges of pan immediately; invert on towel sprinkled generously with powdered sugar. While hot, roll cake and towel carefully from narrow end. Refrigerate at least 1 hour until chilled.

Unroll cake carefully; remove towel. Spread cake with sherbet; roll up cake. Cover and freeze at least 2 hours. Spread with Whipped Frosting. Garnish with rolled green gumdrops and red candied cherries to resemble holly if desired. Freeze any remaining cake roll. 10 servings.

Whipped Frosting

- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons 'creamy vanilla frosting mix
- 1 1/2 cups whipping cream

Beat frosting mix (dry) and whipping cream in chilled large bowl on low speed 30 seconds, scraping bowl constantly. Beat on high speed 1 to 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally, until mixture holds its shape.

Pepper party with zesty spread

A holiday party can be the easiest and most fun way to entertain during the holiday season. It is less formal than a dinner party and can accommodate a large number of guests at one time.

The trick to having a perfect party is a little advance planning and attention to detail. The following tips can help ensure an elegant evening for you as well as your family and friends.

If there is plenty of time before the party, send invitations well in advance and request RSVPs. This will help determine the number of people to plan for.

Before the party, remember to check for the little extras like a corkscrew, bottle opener, ice bucket and water pitchers.

Since guests often show up later than the time stated on the invitation, don't worry about keeping a tight schedule. Just relax and plan on serving snacks half an hour after the appointed time.

A good estimate on the amount of food to serve is eight pieces of hors d'oeuvres per person during a two-hour party. Homemade appetizers will cost a fraction of purchased ones and can be prepared in advance.

An easy way to give your party foods pizzazz is to include Vlasic peppers. Their brilliantly festive red and green colors will perk up any holiday table. When added to unusual dips and spreads, they can also be real conversation starters.

But don't be scared off by their fiery-hot reputation as they range from mild pepperoncini to hot jalapenos. They can be interchanged to give dishes a subtle zestiness or potency.

Try Hot and Sweet Spread and Spicy Peanut Dip for delicious offerings. The spread combines orange marmalade, cream cheese and hot chili peppers in a sweet and tangy topping for crackers. The dip is another tantalizing hors d'oeuvre that mixes peanut butter, chutney and hot pepper rings for a

HOT AND SWEET CHEESE SPREAD

- 1/2 cup sweet orange marmalade
- 2 tablespoons seeded and finely chopped hot chili peppers
- 1 tablespoon liquid from hot chili peppers
- 1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese

In 1-quart saucepan over low heat, heat first 3 ingredients until marmalade is melted, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat;

SPICY PEANUT DIP

- 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup finely chopped hot pepper rings
- 1 tablespoon chopped chutney

In a small bowl, combine peanut butter and milk until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients. Serve with crackers or fresh vegetables for dipping. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

Cookbooks feature fish, quick recipes

Two topics of great interest to modern-day cooks are featured in a pair of new cookbooks, published by Sunset.

For a quick and easy approach to cooking, "6 Ingredients Cook Book" offers recipes for delicious dishes that are made from no more than six ingredients, and most of these recipes can be served in 30 minutes or less.

A popular and fashionable entrée is the subject of the other publication, "Seafood Cook Book," a guide to exciting new seafood adventures as well as to the more familiar, ever-popular standbys.

Thanks to fishing technology, packaging and transportation, your "fresh catch" now offers a much greater variety of fresh fish, which has become a favorite of celebrated chefs, nutritionists and people who eat wisely to stay fit.

Never dull, seafood can be served poached, grilled, sauced or sautéed and served whole, filleted or in the shell.

learn different ways to combine seafood and pasta, how to keep red snapper moist while baking, and new uses for canned seafood.

In addition to the more than 210 flavorful dishes, the book gives you tips on buying and storing fish and shellfish, guidelines for judging accurate cooking times, and a variety of cooking methods. A handy "Buying Guide to Common Fish" helps you identify and cook some 40 different species.

Eliminating work doesn't mean sacrificing flavor or nutrition, according to the mouth-watering recipes in the "6 Ingredients Cook Book."

From quick-to-fix appetizers to succulent seafood, and from hearty meats to delectable desserts, you'll discover it takes only a few fresh ingredients to whip up great meals that go on the table in short order.

The seafood edition retails for $6.95; 6 Ingredients for $7.95. Both are available at major book stores.

Spirited cookies brighten tradition

'Twas the night before Christmas ... the cookies were done for the season with care, left for St. Nicholas and others to share. In boxes, in tins, in baskets, on plates, cookies were everywhere, lovingly baked.

The recipes offered here, Hawaiian Kisses and Poppyseed Crescents, created by the Kraft Kitchens, present enticing new ideas for this year's cookie collection. Complementing the Christmas spirit is a favorite ingredient of the holiday season, cream cheese.

POPPYSEED CRESCENTS

1 15-ounce package all ready pie crust

1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened

1 1/2 cups powdered sugar

2 tablespoons poppyseed

1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

3 tablespoons lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Unfold crusts; peel off plastic sheets. Place crusts on lightly floured surface; cut each into 12 wedges.

Beat cream cheese, 1/2 cup sugar, poppyseed and 1/2 teaspoon peel at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Spread each pie crust wedge with approximately 1/2 tablespoon cream cheese mixture. Roll up to form crescents.

Place on baking sheets. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on wire racks. Beat remaining sugar and juice and peel; spread evenly over cooled cookies. 24 cookies.

HAWAIIAN KISSES

1 cup powdered sugar

1 cup margarine

2 teaspoons vanilla

1/2 teaspoon salt

2 cups flour

1 1/2 cups macadamia nuts, finely chopped

2 8-ounce containers soft cream cheese with pineapple

Coconut, toasted

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat sugar and margarine at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Blend in vanilla and salt. Reduce mixer to low speed; add flour, beating until well blended.

Shape dough into balls using 1 slightly rounded teaspoonful per cookie; roll in chopped nuts. Place dough on baking sheets; press thumb on center of each cookie to form indentation.

Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Cool on wire racks. Spoon or pipe cream cheese into cookies as needed; sprinkle with coconut. 6 dozen.

Tip: Prepare dough; do not roll in nuts. Wrap; refrigerate up to one week.

BUFFET

From C1

Pull the paper tautly around the dish and fasten the second edge of the waxed paper with tape. The collar should stand stiffly 2-3 inches above the rim of the soufflé dish. If you choose a 6-cup soufflé dish, you will have more soufflé showing above the dish than if you use an 8-cup dish. Either works well, however.

RASPBERRY SAUCE

1 package (12 ounces) slightly sweetened frozen raspberries, thawed

1/2 cup sugar

Combine raspberries and sugar in food processor with metal blade in place; process until smooth. Pass sauce through metal sieve to remove seeds. Makes (about 1 cup) 8 servings.

Nutrients per serving: calories, 91.5; protein, .29 g; carbohydrates, 23.6 g; cholesterol, 0 mg; fat, .07 g; and sodium, .82 mg.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR TOASTING ALMONDS: To toast in oven, spread almonds in single layer on baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees 9 to 11 minutes for blanched slivered almonds or sliced natural almonds, stirring constantly, until golden brown. Cool.

TURKEY TEMPERATURE

When roasting a whole turkey or a whole boneless turkey, for best results use a meat thermometer. Insert into the thickest part of the breast or thigh and check frequently during cooking.

The breast will be done between 160-170 degrees. The dark meat may take a while longer. Prick thigh with fork. If the juices run clear, not pink, turkey is done. Be careful not to overcook.

Colorful Hawaiian Sunburst Salad easy to make, has flair

When days get busy, good cooks seek recipes that are easy to prepare and have appealing taste and flair. Hawaiian Sunburst Salad is such a recipe.

The natural combination of Hawaiian fresh pineapple and papaya takes on new personality when the fruits are arranged in a sunburst pattern around chicken, turkey, ham or seafood salad. Served with a light rosy Pimiento Dressing, it makes a satisfying, healthful and attractive luncheon or buffet salad.

When the fruits, dressing and salad are prepared early, covered and kept fresh in the refrigerator, a quick assembling is all it takes to present an inviting meal. Hot muffins and a cool sherbert with thin crisp ginger cookies fill out the menu nicely.

HAWAIIAN SUNBURST SALAD
12 spears fresh pineapple
1 medium papaya
Pimiento Dressing

2 cups cooked chicken, turkey or ham
1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
1/4 cup thinly sliced sweet pepper (red, yellow or green)
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley or cilantro

Small crisp lettuce cups
Trim, remove peel, quarter pineapple lengthwise and cut off core. Cut fruit into lengthwise spears, then each spear crosswise in half. Cut peel from papaya, halve lengthwise and remove seeds. Cut fruit into slices. Prepare Pimiento Dressing.

Toss chicken, turkey or ham with celery, pepper, parsley and 2 tablespoons dressing. Center large serving plate with lettuce cups and fill with salad. Arrange pineapple and papaya around center in a sunburst pattern. Serve with remaining dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Pimiento Dressing: Puree in blender or beat together well, 1 tablespoon each chopped canned pimiento and crumbled blue cheese, 1/2 cup light oil, 1/4 cup tarragon-flavored vinegar, 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon lemon-pepper seasoning, and 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard. Makes about 1/2 cup.

Change the pace with taco salad

Better Homes and Gardens

No one can deny that the contrasting flavors and textures of taco salad are tempting. Unfortunately, a regular taco salad gets fat from the deep-fried shell, meat mixture and generous topping of cheese. That's likely to add up to 450 calories and 25 grams of fat.

Our test kitchen took on the challenge of making a low-fat taco salad that would taste great. Here it is, and here's how they did it: cooked turkey contains less fat than ground beef; crispy tortilla chips are baked instead of fried; the amount of cheese was reduced by 50 percent.

TURKEY TACO SALAD

1 1/2 cups chopped cooked turkey
1 cup salsa
4 cups torn lettuce
1/2 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese (2 ounces)
4 cherry tomatoes, quartered
4 8-inch flour tortillas
In a medium saucepan stir together turkey and salsa. Cook 8 minutes or until heated through, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, combine lettuce, cheese and tomatoes. Add turkey mixture; toss lightly. Arrange Tortilla Flats (see below) around the side of the bowl. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Tortilla Flats: Stack the flour tortillas; cut into quarters. Place in a single layer on a baking sheet. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until toasted.

Nutrition information per serving: 265 cal., 24 g pro., 26 g carb., 8 g fat (25 percent of calories from fat), 13 mg chol., 631 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 10 percent vit. A, 19 percent thiamine, 19 percent riboflavin, 42 percent niacin, 21 percent calcium, 12 percent iron.

Healthful dishes all for the heart

With the holidays rapidly approaching, millions of Californians are once again preparing for the traditional feasting that accompanies year-end celebrations. Following, of course, will be the traditional New Year's resolutions to start a new diet.

But now the American Heart Association says you can enjoy holiday eating without the guilt or the need to diet afterward. Just use the special recipes featured in "Holidays a la Heart," a new brochure available from local American Heart Association offices.

The recipes focus on easy preparation and all items are low in sodium, cholesterol and saturated fats. Diabetic information is also provided for each recipe.

The brochure contains recipes for appetizers, side dishes, entrees and desserts, so you can prepare an entire "heart healthy" feast from this one publication. You and your guests may be surprised how tasty heart healthy food can be.

To get your free copy of this recipe brochure, send a self-addressed, 25-cent stamped, business size envelope marked, "Attention: Holidays a la Heart," to the local American Heart Association office listed in the white pages of the telephone directory.

'Tis The Season To Be Saving

Lively bidding boosts funds for facility

By KAREN M. REED
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Cynthia Courtney, one of the four chairwomen for Saturday night's Interval House gala, was hesitant to commit to a net proceeds figure for the evening.

Acknowledging that there would be some 420 in attendance (she did the seating) at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel for an evening of silent and live auctions as well as opportunity drawings, Courtney still deferred to co-chairwoman and Interval House executive director Mary Walton.

"What is our goal tonight? You want the honest truth?" Walton said with powerful conviction — "$250,000!" No wonder Courtney wasn't eager to commit. That's a lot of money to take in at one event.

During the evening, the total was bandied about quite a bit as everyone involved reminded attendees that money was needed to build a new facility for Interval House, a crisis shelter for victims of domestic violence.

According to Robert Armstrong, capital campaign chairman and event committee member, the amount would kick off the $2 million drive to fund the larger facility in Midway City — a much needed expansion. The new house will shelter an average of 70-75 victims each month, an increase of 30 percent.

But even with the new facility, this may not be enough. Some 2,000 calls per month are received from victims needing shelter and assistance in Orange County alone.

Six women, whose calls were fortunately answered, told the group their stories of how Interval House literally saved their lives and helped them back into society. They built upon the evening's theme of "Le Bal du Bicentenaire" (the French Bicentennial) discussing how "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite" can also be seen as watchwords for Interval House.

The speeches were moving, and it was an effective method for inspiring bidders to dig deep into their pockets to support the auction.

As has become a tradition at the Interval House auction — now in its 10th year — celebrities dotted the audience and took turns at the mike discussing the various items. Beverly Garland (known for her roles on "My Three Sons" and "Scarecrow and Mrs. King") filled in with Disneyland director Stan Freese as co-emcees.

Other celebs adding to the festivities included John Milford ("I remember when we only made $15,000 at this event") and John Schuck (his wife, artist Harrison Houle, once again donated the intricate logo art for the invitations and programs.)

Former mayor of San Francisco Diane Feinstein was also scheduled to attend but, according to major underwriters Nancy and Jack McNaughton, she had the flu. The McNaughtons hosted a separate reception for Feinstein this week.

Always a full evening, the festivities also included an acknowledgment of Supervisor Harriett Wieder by former governor Edmund "Pat" Brown; a message from honorary committee member Catherine Deneauve read by the Consul General of France, Gerard Coste; selections from "Les Miserables" performed by members of Opera Pacific; and, oh yes, dinner — fennel flan, caviar, wrapped in Scottish smoked salmon, Guinea hen Farcié with a gratin of wild mushrooms, and rum parfait.

Carol Anne Williams and Isa Smashey Rogers were the other chairwomen, with committee members including Skip Courtney (he's board chair), Kathy Elliott, Harlene and Michael Goodrich, Charlene Robinson, Kathy Jensen, Cheryl Baldinger, Ann DeJarnett, Cathie Escarida, Jim Jimenez, Candy Masterjohn, Sue Middleton, Daniel Neill, Andrew F. Romero, June Taylor, Janis Vaughan, Eugene Williams and Tracy Christine Williams.

Everyone is familiar with holdup plays by declarer, especially with only one control of the enemy suit. But the holdup is a technique available to the defenders as well, and can be just as effective with two stoppers in the suit.

Since South's jump to two no trump describes a hand of defined pattern and strength, it is not forcing. North's decision to go on to game is borderline, but within reason.

The jack of diamonds by West was a perfectly normal opening lead. Declarer won and immediately attacked hearts. West followed with a low heart when first the suit was led and, to all intents and purposes dummy was dead. Declarer had no way of collecting more than one heart trick, so at trick three South tried the club finesse. That lost and another diamond came back. When the clubs failed to break, declarer was held to one spade, one heart and three tricks in each minor for down one.

Had West won the first heart, the defense would have collapsed. Declarer would have taken the diamond return in hand and led another heart, eventually forcing out the remaining stopper. The king of diamonds would still have been on the table as an entry to the hearts, and declarer would have ended up scoring one spade, three hearts, three diamonds and two clubs—just enough to land his contract.

Here's your lesson for the month—one which could make your bridge endeavors a lot more profitable. Bear in mind that most techniques available to declarer can be used equally effectively by the defenders.

Finally, triangle's male member blamed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read those comments about affairs with married men, I became angry because so many people blamed the "other woman."

As one betrayed wife put it, "I will never feel anything but contempt for the bimbo who tried to break up my family." Other readers blamed the wife because she was too self-involved, too demanding, too boring, too cold, etc. etc.

What about HIM? He is the one who should be viewed with contempt for breaking up the family. He is the one who chose to betray his wife when he decided to have an affair. The bimbo never made a commitment to the wife. She owes the wife nothing. The husband is the one who is violating a solemn vow to be faithful in good times and bad.

No one forced him to have an affair. It did not "just happen." He made a deliberate decision to cheat on the woman he promised to love and cherish.

If there was a problem in the

relationship, he had several options. He could have discussed it with his wife and sought the help of a marriage counselor. By so doing, he lets her know that his marriage is important, that he is willing to work to improve things and that he is a man of integrity. Men need to get this message. Please tell them. — MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR MINN.: You've zeroed in on a problem that drew a great many responses. Here's another:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the reader who has been both the "other woman" and the cheated-on wife. What I want to know is this:

Why doesn't the lying center of this triangle get some well-deserved heat? Why does everyone hate the bimbo or the inadequate wife? Why is a man who is sexually active called a "stud" or a "playboy" and a woman who does the same thing called a "tramp" or worse?

Why is an unmarried man viewed with envy and called an eligible bachelor while a single woman is accorded a pitying glance and called an old maid?

Why are there shelves full of books written to advise women on how to open up to men, how to make men open up to them, and how to get a male to the altar. I see no books telling men how to stop being abusive, how to stop using women to prop up their sagging egos, how to stop being wimps, mamma's boys, liars and cheats, or how to get a woman to make a serious commitment.

The double standard with which we raise our children is enormously destructive. It's keeping women unhappy, unfulfilled and self-denigrating. It keeps men from becoming emotionally healthy, responsible members of the human race. No name, please just — FRUS-TRATED IN SAN JOSE

DEAR FRUS: A great many men are spoiled because too many women let them get away with crummy behavior. The sad truth is they would rather put up with a fourth-rate guy than to be alone.

Men are taught to be "strong," "self-reliant," and to keep their feelings to themselves. They are ashamed to get help because they fear they will be perceived as weak. In truth, the man who is willing to go for counseling shows that he is truly strong in the ways that really count.

GEM OF THE DAY: A sweater is something you put on when your mother is cold. (Natalie Heineman, Chicago)

Dick Clark, America's oldest teen, turns 60

MALIBU (AP) — Dick Clark, the Pied Piper of rock music known to generations as America's oldest teenager, turns 60 today secluded on another continent far away from the enamored masses.

The squeaky-clean packager of pop blows out the candles on a birthday cake with his wife, Kar, and another couple somewhere in Brazil, publicist Paul Shetrin said. No fanfare. No party. No fuss.

Whether modesty or vanity, Clark turned down an interview request. In the past, the multimillion-dollar entertainer-producer said he would prefer to "age gracefully" without media attention.

Clark arrived in the nation's living rooms through his "American Bandstand" television show to introduce teen-agers to Stevie Wonder, The Jackson 5 and Madonna as well as the Bunny Hop, Twist and Jerk dance crazes.

He lives on the beach near Paradise Cove, entering through an imposing iron gate and going down a winding driveway from Pacific Coast Highway. In March, he hung up his saddle shoes after 33 years of hosting "American Bandstand."

Clark was born at the onset of the Great Depression, so-called Hoovervilles were springing up and the Big Band era started to flourish.

Wrinkles can finally be seen on his boyish face, but it's hard to believe he's 60.

For decades, his youthful looks were the butt of jokes. Clark once compared the burden to that of female sex symbols.

"They're constantly told how wonderful they look, but it gets to be a drag after a while because someday the looks have gotta go. It would be nice to be allowed to age gracefully," he said.

Clark joins other celebrity sexagenarians this year — Jacqueline Onassis, Bob Newhart, Audre Hepburn, Jane Fonda, Carol Burnett, Adam West, Jules Feiffer, Jean Seberg and Arnold Palmer.

Dick Clark

With 33 years of experience, Clark reigns as the most successful variety program

Clark was unique, however, in transcending the generations with a hip music show, and in recent years as host of the old "$25,000 Pyramid" and "The $100,000 Pyramid" game shows. He produces the annual American Music Awards, the Academy of Country Music Awards, the "New Year's Rockin' Eve" TV bash and "TV's Bloopers and Practical Jokes."

"Bandstand" as it was first called hit the airwaves in September 1957 on WFL-TV in Philadelphia, and Bob Horn and Lee Stewart say.

But Clark became a star when he took the show to Los Angeles, the clean-cut, conservative, teen-idol capital of the world. He was the father figure.

On Aug. 10, 1962, "Bandstand" moved to New York City, where it became a national sensation. It was the only variety program

Quality, friendliness blend well at Treuhaft's Jewelry

Treuhaft's Nancy Butler and Kezia greet customers.

By PATRICIA A. GABLE

If you're tired of the sterile, snobbish atmosphere of most fine jewelry stores, visit Treuhaft's Fine Jewelry in Irvine. Owned and operated by Bruce and Lana Treuhaft, this store has a friendliness that sets it apart from most jewelry stores.

If you aren't impressed by the Treuhaft's friendly nature, then Nancy Butler, the store's graduate gemologist, will surely make you comfortable with her easy smile and professional manner. And finally, if you aren't convinced that this store is just a bit different, enter Kezia, Treuhaft's friendly boxer, who will put a smile on your face and definitely start an interesting conversation.

This comfortable environment is what the Treuhafts have strived for in the three years they have been located in the Woodbridge Village Center.

"We get really involved with the people who come in here. We like to get to know their families and something of their life. I think we have a personal level here that isn't found anywhere else," Butler said.

And, if you're worried that all this friendliness doesn't lead to the quality of jewelry you're looking for, don't. Treuhaft's carries only high quality pieces and stones for its customers.

"One of the things we strive to do is to educate the customers — it is important that they know exactly what they are getting," said Treuhaft, who has 23 years of experience and started his career as a bench jeweler.

"We opened this store so that we could service the consumer and offer them quality merchandise at fair prices," he explained.

Treuhaft's Fine Jewelry offers everything from custom work in gold or silver to jewelry repair and appraisals, loose stones, watches and a few gift items.

"We also do a lot of traditional things, such as signet and coat of arms rings as well as other things," Treuhaft said.

The Treuhafts and Butler invite customers to come in and ask questions or look at the merchandise. The store is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday and Friday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday; noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, and closed on Tuesday.

Treuhaft's Fine Jewelry is located at 4630 Barranca Parkway in Irvine's Woodbridge Village Center. For more information, call 552-1955.

Furry festivities

Exclusifurs in Newport Beach's Westcliff Court hosted a Halloween party Oct. 31. Along with the entertainment, Exclusifurs raffled five fox flings to benefit the Red Cross' San Francisco earthquake fund. The party was attended by, from left: Mark Bethea, George Roth, Exclusifurs owner Rik Kiszely and Jim Munyon.

Alpha California softens county water without salt

The environmental movement appears to be making headway in its campaign to prohibit water softeners that use salt.

More than 25 communities in California — including Orange County — already have banned or restricted the use of such water softeners on the grounds that they are hazardous to the environment.

Other counties taking action against salt-using softeners include Los Angeles, San Diego, Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside, Kern, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Marcos and Tulare.

The executive director of the Santa Ana Region of the California Regional Water Quality Control wrote to one concerned environmentalist:

"The Santa Ana Region is experiencing a serious adverse salt balance problem due to extensive water re-use within the basin and the importation of water supplies from outside the basin."

"As such, we strongly discourage the use of water softeners which would result in a salt discharge..."

According to Dr. Martin Fox's book, "Healthy Ways for a Longer Life," an adult who takes a 15-minute bath typically absorbs almost twice as much water — and the chemicals dissolved in it — as he or she gets in a day's drinking water.

Alpha California (891-5988) has been successfully meeting the increasing demand for a no-salt solution to Orange County's hard water concerns with the Stabilizer water conditioner. Manufactured in Lafayette, Ind., the Stabilizer does not use salt to soften water and does not remove calcium and magnesium, two vital minerals necessary for good health.

This proven system does not require backwashing to regenerate mineral beds, so water bills are reduced, no water is wasted and regeneration time is not necessary. There also is no sodium residue, thus cutting down septic tank pump-outs.

And, since Alpha California's Stabilizer does not utilize potentially harmful chemicals, there are no health or environmental hazards in using the Stabilizer water conditioner.
