Deregulation of Cable TV may cost HB, FV millions

By ROBERT BARKER Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Proposed legislation to deregulate the cable television industry could cost Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley and two partner cities millions of dollars, an official said yesterday.

The deregulation bill, sponsored by Sen. Barry Goldwater, would force cities to pay full market value before taking ownership of the cable

That provision contradicts an agreement signed between Dickinson Pacific Cablesystems and the four cities it serves -Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Westminster and Stanton.

In fact, one of the major arguing points during negotia-tions was that the cities would get possession of the system automatically and free of charge at the end of 20 years of operation.

Ben Nielsen, a Fountain Valley City Councilman who also is Public Cable Television Authority director, said the system will be worth millions, perhaps more.

"There have been a lot of horror stories about the role of cities and I can agree with Senator Goldwater's position to a point. But I don't see why the industry should be deregulated if there's no competition. And that's the case in our area. (See CABLE, Page A2)

LB musician played passionate WWII role

By STEVE MITCHELL
Of the Daily Pliot Staff

To thousands of Orange Coast music lovers, the face is oh-so-familiar. And it should be.

She's Frieda Belinfante, co-founder of the Orange County Philharmonic Society and founding conductor of the now-defunct Orange County Philharmonic Orchestra.

She has taught piano and cello to literally thousands of future musicians over the past three and a half decades in Orange County.

And, at age 78, she still teaches "a couple of dozen" youngsters, who schedule hour-long sessions with the classical musician at her studio overlooking the ocean in Laguna Beach.

But what most people don't know her most ardent admirers - is that Frieda Belinfante was a member of the Dutch underground during World War II.

The woman sitting at the piano softly playing a Beethoven sonata once altered thousands of identification cards to be used by Jewish fugitives fleeing occupied Holland.

That was just for starters.

In the years to follow, the then 36-year-old music teacher and conductor: · Helped blow up a substantial portion of Amsterdam's City Hall. Helped find a hiding place for the father of Anne Frank, just days after the girl's now-famous hideaway was discovered. Ushered five downed American pilots to dinner in German-occupied Brussels. In public.

She downplays her part in the resistance, saying, "You think you can be neutral, but the word — sometimes — does not exist."

"If you're a soldier, you fight. If you're a citizen, you can't close your eyes on what is happening to other citizens."

Frieda Belinfante jumped into the resistance movement with both eyes wide open.

She and 19 other artists, musicians and curators formed their own resistance group. "We saw what was happening in Germany — the taking of land belonging to Jews, the wearing of the yellow David Star," she said.

"They were being written up for slaughter."
Fearing the same fate for Holland's Jews, Frieda began making ID cards for fugitives shortly after the occupation.

$30,000, manager gone from gas station

Huntington Beach police are searching for a local gas station manager who may have pocketed up to $30,000 in station receipts.

Detective Art Droz said police want to question Chookiat Banduwong, 41, who failed to show up for work yesterday at the Oasis Gas Station, 19492 Golden West St. Banduwong, who had been managing the station for several years, is a citizen of Thailand who has been living in Westminster, police said.

Droz said officials of Oasis Petroleum, based in Culver City discovered the loss after the manager failed to come to work yesterday. He said the missing money, which should have been deposited, was taken in by the station over a period of days early this month.

The police detective said no warrant has been issued for the missing manager's arrest. He said an audit must first be completed by the company.

Droz said officers are concerned that Banduwong may flee this country to return to Thailand, where his family still

Say goodbye to Mesa fountain

By KAREN E. KLEIN Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Pride and prose soared on the 1966 day construction began on the Costa Mesa Civic Center. Proclaiming the center "the most fantastic complex ever put together in Southern California," then-mayor Robert Wilson turned the first shovelful of earth for the 10-acre project.

The complex, which cost $5 million, included a five-story City Hall and a two-story police headquarters. To put the finishing touch on the works, an extraordinary fountain and reflecting pool was designed.

Unfortunately, the complex

wasn't exactly the most fantastic to be put together in Southern California - and the fountain wasn't all it was billed to be,

In fact, the fountain proved to be more trouble than delight for 15 years. And now, the City Council has voted to bulldoze the cracked concrete base of the fountain and put turf in its place.

The cost to the city for demolition, installation of turf, sidewalk, soil and other improvements to the area will be

But that will be less than it costs to repair and maintain the costly, inefficient fountain, officials said, a fountain which has been filled with soap suds by pranksters and has flooded the basement of the police

The William J. Moran Company, an Alhambra-based contracting firm, didn't know in the mid-1960s that an upcoming energy crisis and then a water shortage would make elaborate fountains unpopular.

And city officials didn't know the pipes would leak, the drains wouldn't work, and the pool would be clogged with debris. Grass and sprinklers will take their place.

Recall supporters seek board posts

By PHIL SNEIDERMAN of the Delly Pilot Staff

Three members of the committee advocating the recall of three Fountain Valley School District trustees have filed papers seeking to replace those trustees on the school board.

During the June 7 election, school district residents will first decide whether each of three targeted trustees, Cheryl Norton, Roger Belgen and Suzanne Moore, should be recalled.

Voters who indicate any trustee should be unseated can select a person to fill that seat on the board.

Devon Dahl, a 40-year-old financial planner, has filed to take Belgen's seat if the trustee is recalled. D. Kurt Hansen, a 31-year-old attorney, has filed to succeed Moore. Edward Sidney Landon, a 41-year-old administrator, has filed to succeed Cheryl Norton.

All three filed their papers with the Orange County Registrar of Voters before the deadline at 5 p.m. yesterday. The three candidates and the targeted trustees each opted to include a 200-word statement of qualifications in the ballot booklet. The charge for each statement is $800.

The three challengers are all members of the Committee Advocating Responsible Education, CARE, a local parents group that gathered the signatures needed for scheduling a recall election.

CARE has charged that the targeted trustees have failed to comply with state education laws and have overseen fiscal mismanagement within the district. The three trustees have denied the allegations.

CARE Chairwoman Carol Dunn said the organization is expected to endorse candidates in the upcoming election, with interviews slated April 20.

reported its deadlock yesterday after more than four days of deliberation. Most jurors favored acquittal on 11 of the 16 charges against McDonald. They were split 6-6 on three others and favored conviction 7-5 on the remaining two.

McCartin set an April 21 date for Armbrust's new trial motion, but said he was leaning against granting the request, though he had not yet made a final decision.

McCartin said the severe divisions in the jury vote helped him to lean in that direction.

"We've tried this case twice. In

The trial judge can allow new trials indefinitely after a jury deadlocks, or, if he feels there is little chance of a decision, can dismiss the charges.

McDonald is charged with 15 counts of lewd and lascivious acts with a child under 14 and a single misdemeanor count of child annoyance. His first trial ended in a mistrial when a jury deadlocked in September. He remains free on bail.

Prosecutors allege that McDonald sexually abused young female visitors to his Cape Cottage Lane home by fondling them, pressing them against his nude body, showing them pornographic films, placing their hands on his body and asking them to remove their clothes in numerous encounters over more than a year.

McDonald's attorney, Gary Pohlson, argued that children who testified against McDonald were lying and that there was insufficient evidence to convict

Reagan believes Mideast peace plan still alive

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON President Reagan is convinced his Mideast peace initiative is still alive, even though the Palestine Liberation Organization has turned it down, say administration officials. They say Jordan and Saudi Arabia have encouraged him to go

The initiative will be discussed at meetings today between Reagan and the Sultan of Oman, Qaboos Bin Said, who is visiting the United States for the first time since 1975.

John Hughes, the State Department spokesman, said yesterday that both Jordan's King Hussein and Saudi Arabia's King Fahd told Reagan in telephone conversations they think his plan still is worth pursuing.

Oscar Night a dandy for 'Gandhi'

Kingsley and Streep top winners

By YARDENA ARAR

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) —

"Another 20 years? Without question I would do it again,' said a clearly gratified Richard Attenborough as his two decades of labor to produce the epic "Gandhi" paid off with eight Oscars, including best picture.

Attenborough, who produced and directed "Gandhi," said his wildest expectations were more than fulfilled at the 55th annual Academy Awards last night as "Gandhi" also earned him the best director award and, for Ben Kingsley, best actor honors. Meryl Streep, who won the best actress award for her portrayal of the tortured Polish war refugee in "Sophie's Choice," said she thought she'd given her best performance ever in the role.

"I don't think I'll ever see one like that again," Streep said.

Six and a half months pregnant with her second child, Streep admitted that attending the ceremony had entailed a certain amount of physical discomfort: "The baby was kicking all night long," she smiled ruefully.

The big three at last night's Oscar presentations were (from left) Richard Attenborough, producer and director of "Gandhi"; Meryl Streep, best actress for "Sophie's Choice," and Ben Kingsley, best actor for "Gandhi."

It was Streep's second Oscar she won for supporting actress in 1979 in "Kramer vs. Kramer."

Louis Gossett Jr. became the first black actor since Sidney Poitier's best actor award for 1963's "Lilies of the Field" to garner an Oscar, winning best supporting for his steel-hard drill sergeant in "An Officer and a Gentleman."

Only one other black performer has ever won an Oscar Hattie McDaniel for "Gone With the Wind" in 1939. Gossett previously won an Emmy as the slave Fiddler in the miniseries "Roots."

Noting that his Oscar-winning role was not written for a black man, Gossett offered some advice to other black actors: "Don't look !! at black parts - look at parts." He added that the part was not changed in any way after it was given to him.

Holocaust survivors recall the horror

WASHINGTON (AP) -Thirty-eight years ago this week, a Jewish chaplain with the U.S. Third Army drove a jeep through the gates of Buchenwald, raised a megaphone and announced in Yiddish: 'Yidden, ir zeit frei!" - "Jews, you are free!"

He saw a frightened, 8-year-old boy cowering behind a mound of corpses and lifted him into the air, laughing and

Last night, in a sporting arena, the chaplain, Rabbi Herschel Schechter of New York City, and the boy, now Rabbi Israel Lau of Israel, liberator and liberated, shared their memory before 16,-000 other Jews attending the American Gathering of Jewish Holocaust Survivors.

Each survivor defied Adolf Hitler's intention to slaughter all the Jews of Europe, and each had his own survival story accounts of horror, told with distaste and disbelief; stories of atrocity, filled with corpses.

President Reagan and his wife. Nancy, stood with the survivors. The president was warmly received - interrupted by applause 26 times in a 25-minute speech - and applauded most when he pledged American strength to Israel's survival.

'As a man whose heart is with you - and as president of a people you are now so much a part of - I promise you that the security of your safe havens, here and in Israel, will never be compromised," Reagan said, bringing his audience to its feet.

Like the two rabbis, Reagan had a survival story. It concerned

"I saw them and I figured that if I was ever going to make it I was going to make it now," the 49-year-old real estate and investment broker recounted as he recovered at his Anaheim home last week.

Johnston's ordeal began Friday, April 2 when he and a companion, Glen Judd of Long Beach, began the long, steep hike out of the canyon after spending four days with campers from a Long Beach church.

Johnston and Judd soon became separated from the group. Lost and disoriented, they hiked until nightfall, when Judd became exhausted and had to stop. Johnston hiked on alone, telling Judd to join him in the morning.

But Judd failed to show up in the morning, although Johnston left signs along the trail. Rescuers found Judd that day. Johnston, carrying a backpack, belonging to a woman in the

A freezing night passed and Johnston set out Sunday following a trail of horses hoofs that eventually led nowhere. Twice during the day a search helicopter flew over without spotting him. He finally discarded the unusable contents of backpack, tied a red flannel sleeping bag liner to a bush as a signal, and traded his shredded jeans for a pair of woman's jeans he was now gaunt enough to wear. He lost 20 pounds during the ordeal. Sunday night he huddled in a little cave, catching falling snow in his hat for moisture. Monday's wandering got him nowhere and another freezing night fell.

At 10 o'clock the next day a helicopter spotted Johnston. "When I saw them, it was the most wonderful feeling," he said.

"I never had any sensation of being scared or of giving up," he said. "I had faith in God, and I really believed I could conquer that mountain. But afterward, when I saw myself in the mirror at the hotel, I was shocked.

"You know what I'd really like to do," said Johnston after calls from well-wishers poured in, "I'd like to rent a big sign that says, Thank you, America. I'm fine.

BULLETIN BOARD Students seeking homes in Irvine

Guest hosts are sought for foreign students planning to visit the Orange Coast during the next several months.

Two separate groups, one handling students from Japan and the other from Europe, are each soliciting residents who might enjoy foreign guests. Here are the specifics:

- The Pacific American Institute is seeking hosts for 18to 22-year-old students from Japan who will stay three weeks in local homes. The students have from five to eight years of English training and are placed with families where they can experience American life and practice speaking English.

People can contact Ken Krueger of Irvine at 730-9097 for more information.

 The International Cooperative Education Program based at UC Irvine is looking for hosts for European students who will work in pre-arranged summer jobs. The students, also with advanced English skills, will pay $45 a week for room and board.

Interested people should contact program coordinator Randall Williams at 833-6881.

Lorin Gibson of Huntington Beach, a senior at the University of Arizona majoring in elementary education, has been named to the dean's list.

To make the honors list, students must carry a full course load and maintain a 3.5 or better grade point average.

A course designed to offer advice on coping with chronically ill children will be offered three Thursdays this month through the UC Irvine Extension.

The three-part program will begin this Thursday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the Social Sciences Lab, Room 129 at UCI. Other classes at the same time and place will be on the following two Coordinator for the course is Linda G. Young, a clinical social worker at UCI Medical Center. Topics include using the medical system, organizing daily activities, handling sibling relationships and providing physical therapy at home.

Cost for the program is $35. For more information, call the UCI Extension office at 833-5414.

Flights keep getting better

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — Early aviation feats astounded Bernard Waggoner, but after viewing the landing of the space shuttle Challenger the 96-year-old man says he no longer considers the sky the limit.

"It was great — just what I expected," said the retired carpenter, one of about 100,000 enthused spectators who braved throngs of traffic and wind-whipped clouds of dust to see Saturday's landing in the California desert.

He and his wife, Mary, 93, peered anxiously into the brilliant sky and then smiled as Challenger and its crew of four made a pinpoint touchdown at Edwards Air Force Base.

Earlier, Wagonner admitted: "I wouldn't mind going myself. I think it would be great."

Wagonner was 16 when the Wright Brothers changed the world in 1903. He was 20 when he took his first plane ride - a heartstopping aerial tour of his Kansas farm - and he didn't fly again for more than half a century.

"I didn't think it could happen," he said of Charles Lindgergh's 1927 transatlantic flight. "I didn't think you could possibly fly a plane that far."

The Waggoners, who live in Ventura, have followed the space program for years. They have toured the Kennedy Space Center at Florida's Cape Canaveral and watched most previous missions on

"I heard we would be a long way away and we were," said Jim Marek of Los Angeles. "But there is always the fear that it's not going to come down and in seeing it, it's like you are part of the success in a history-making event."

"We've been out here for each landing," said Marty Holyfield of Los Angeles. "You can't beat it. It's just for that fleeting few moments of glory for the U.S. It really puts us out front."

EPA's new chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's air is getting cleaner, but the Environmental Protection Agency is holding off on the bragging until its new administration can release the news, according to a trade publication.

The weekly Air-Water Pollution Report, a trade newsletter, says EPA is waiting until William Ruckelshaus is confirmed as the agency's new administrator to release a study showing improvement in air quality.

Ruckelshaus then will be allowed to announce the news, attributing part of the improvement to Reagan administration environmental policies, the publication says.

The study will show, however, that much of the most recent improvement resulted from the idling of factories during the economic recession.

President Reagan has nominated Ruckelshaus to succeed Anne M. Burford as EPA's chief, but the Senate has not yet voted on his confirmation.

EPA spokesman Chris Rice said, however, that the publication had obtained a draft copy of a report that was still undergoing agency review. He said Kathleen Bennett, assistant administrator for air pollution, had not yet reviewed the draft or approved it.

There's no attempt to hold it for Ruckelshaus," Rice said, adding, "Coincidentally, he'll probably be on board when we release it."

Rice said the annual reportd ordinarily is released in late spring or early summer, and this pyear's report would follow that schedule, with public release in about two months.

According to the trade if publication, the "National Air Quality Emissions Trends Report, 1975-1981" concludes that air pollution has been substantially reduced over the last six years.

Air controller now a 'pizza man'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Doug Ramsay once plotted the course for airplanes carrying hundreds to the safety of airport runways. Now he tracks pepperoni pizzas to their destinations.

Monitoring the route of a pizza is less stressful than doing the same for a Boeing 727, and it pays a lot less — about one-fifth the $42,000 salary he made as an intraffic controller. But for air traffic controller. But for Ramsay, 35, there are compensations.

"I used to have nightmares about planes running into each other," he said. "I used to chew antacids like candy. No longer."

Although he works as assistant manager for a pizza franchise, Ramsay said he technically is on strike against the federal government, a year and seven months after he and 130 colleagues of the 160-member Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization Local 504 walked off their jobs.

A few days later, President Reagan grounded them and 11, 400 other striking controllers. The union was later decertified as representative of the controllers by the federal

Keep politics out of the classroom

Recent cutbacks in the Coast Community College District, which included elimination of many programs and the layoff of 114 full-time instructors, have understandably stirred a furor among both students and teachers.

Soon after announcement of the cuts, a recall campaign against the five district trustees was launched. Supporters of the recall contend the trustees could have found other ways to respond to reductions in financial support from the state.

For weeks now, the cutbacks and the recall have been the chief topic of discussion at the district's three colleges, Orange Coast, Golden West and Coastline.

Unfortunately, according to some students, the topic has been prominently featured during classroom hours by some teachers eager to enlist support for the recall action including, some allege, the circulation of recall petitions in classes.

As a result, District Chancellor Norman E. Watson has issued a warning, in the form of guidelines sent to the presidents of the three colleges, against using instruction time for partisan

The guidelines state that employees may use district resources to disseminate information regarding school measures during their work hours, but not during classroom instruction

The executive committee of the American Federation of Teachers, representing instructors at the colleges, has called the Watson memo a "feeble attempt to silence the faculty and students" citing constitutional guarantees of free speech.

This is stretching the point. The instructors are clearly free to discuss the cutbacks and the recall issue on campus before and after class hours. But their students, many of whom are equally distressed about the cuts, should not be distracted from their pursuit of education by dragging the issue into classroom time. This should have been obvious without an official warning.

The Chamber, through many meetings, studied and compiled the information we presented to the City Council, on the basis that the Visitors Bureau would be entirely separate from the operation of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce. We indicated that the Chamber would provide all the necessary liaison with the public, occupancy space for such a bureau, as well as the secretarial help which would be needed in placing such a bureau in action. This would be the sole part of participation from the Chamber standpoint in establishing this bureau.

We are most appreciative of the cooperation and participation of the City of Costa Mesa in helping make this a reality in our good city, but we wish to convey than in no way is the Chamber of Commerce being subsidized in any manner in establishing this Visitors Bureau. This is a fine example of your Chamber and your city working together independently

Communication lapse

To the Editor:

I recognize that there are few things less likely to evoke public sympathy than a bureaucrat claiming he was misquotod, but I must at least try to correct an error in communication. In his story in the April 5 edition of the Daily Pilot, my comments to Steve Marble about the Corona del Mar Chamber of Commerce sidewalk business promotion were paraphrased and their meaning slightly skewed. The article says "... the problem arose because the Chamber did not get police approval for the daylong fest." Police approval, however, is not required for any special event - the Police Department makes recommendations, but the permits are approved by the City Manager's office. The problem that Sunday came about because no one on duty at the Police Department that day was aware of the planned event; the permit process had not been completed.

The unfortunate comments by Mr. Wood, President of the Corona del Mar Chamber of Commerce, have distorted the incident. I think a brief recounting of the facts might alleviate some natural concerns a Daily Pilot reader might feel after reading comments such as "(police) should have been able to analyze that kids selling balloons and women with Easter bonnets aren't a threat." What actually happened is that the area officer, having no knowledge of the planned event, was surprised to find balloon vendors, hat vendors, an organ grinder, and sidewalk sales in orona del Mar on a sunny Sunday in Easter week. He was even more surprised when he talked with an official of the Chamber, who by the way described him as cheerful and polite, and discovered plans for a hot air balloon launch and a skydiving exhibition. The event was attracting people, and with additional people comes additional traffic.

None of these circumstances offered insurmountable problems. The beat officer warned vendors on business license violations and cited no one. Traffic officers alleviated some of the traffic problems. The event continued, and according to Mr. Wood was a success.

The city, and the Police Department, handle hundreds of special events each year. On those rare occasions when the permit process breaks down and the Police Department isn't able to plan for anticipated problems in advance, a spirit of mutual cooperation can resolve almost everything.

Egg on their faces

To the Editor:

We took our 2-year-old daughter to the Costa Mesa Egg-a-thon with no idea we were to witness the "Costa Mesa Egga-thon Saturday Massacre.'

Because organizers requested parents not to enter the toddlers' egg hunt area we stood back, anxious to watch our daughter enjoy her first egg hunt.

On the go signal we watched with horror as dozens of parents greedily rushed in, pushing, shoving and collecting candy for children who were knocked to the ground, others crying in disappointment since no candy was left by the "big people" and four dozen or so "big people" who looked like perfect fools.

The glorious result? Terrified

For those who worked so long and hard to execute this event, we thank you for your efforts.

For those "big people" who walked off with buckets of candy and grins from ear to ear, our prayer for you is "what goes around, may it come around special delivery" — soon!

West Bank land sale in U.S

WASHINGTON - Without saying anything to the U.S. State Department, the Israeli government is risking further deterioration in relations between the two allies by trying to sell to American Jews the very West Bank lands that President Reagan insists Israel must stop settling.

The sales pitch was made, through the auspices of a taxexempt American organization created to boost Israel, during a March 13 conference at New York City's Sheraton Centre. Some 300 prominent Jewish citizens from across the country were invited to hear Israeli government officials close to Prime Minister Menachem Begin brief them on current Mideast conditions and promote West Bank land sales.

THAT DAY-LONG conference, sponsored by Americans For a Safe Israel (AFSI), dramatized the complicating factor confronting the U.S. and its closest ally in the Mideast; the direct relationship between the Israeli regime and millions of American citizens.

Jerusalem were blunt in informing the participants at the Sheraton Centre that not only are Israeli settlers on the West Bank to stay, but Israeli troops would have to remain in southern Lebanon unless and until Maj. Saad Haddad's Israelbacked Christian militia could take over. At that point in the meeting, the sensitivity of Israel's direct relationship with American Jews was underlined.

According to persons attending, there was a pause when a speaker declared that the Marines would be no match for Israeli troops in Lebanon. The speaker later told us that was a misinterpretation of what he really said: that the Marines were not capable of keeping the peace if the Israelis pulled out.

There is no doubt, however, that the invited guests were given brochures and maps explaining how easy it is for American Jews (non-Jews are Government officials from not eligible) to buy a piece of the West Bank, with or without moving there themselves. That would put a private American presence into the Israeli settlement of the West Bank that always has been opposed by the U.S. government. The reaction at the State Department when it was learned what went on in New York was one of shock.

A WRITTEN explanation ("Purchasing Land in Samaria") told how to take title of land bought from Arab deedholders. A check payable to Eretz Israel Academy in the West Bank town of Kadumin (where an Israeli settlement has been widely criticized) would buy land "in areas to be developed in the near future" at $3,800 a dunum (one-fourth of an acre) or $2,500 in areas scheduled for later development. A brochure compared that to $80,000 a dunum for land near Jerusalem, warning that "prices are rising MOSHE ARENS had been scheduled as the main speaker March 13, but AFSI director Peter Goldman explained to the guests that Arens had left as ambassador to the U.S. to return to Jerusalem as defense minister. Substituting for him were Ehud Olmert, a member of parliament who belongs to Begin's Likud Party and is close to the prime minister, and Mayor Era Rapaport of Shiloh, another controversial West Bank settlement.

Mayor Rapaport, a former American citizen, declared his motive was idealism when he first settled on the West Bank. But today, he continued, it is not idealism that makes the West Bank so attractive but simply that "it has become a good place to live" with huge mortgage subsidies and cheap land. A West Bank apartment twice as big as a Tel Aviv flat, he said, costs only half as much.

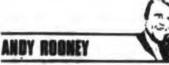

Only this month Reagan shocked Israel by banning the sale of promised F-16s because of Israeli foot-dragging in Lebanon. Discovery of Israeli solicitation in the U.S. for purchasing West Bank land in direct opposition to U.S. policy might evoke a similar presidential reaction. Israel's direct relationship with Jewish Americans could mean more trouble with official Washington.

Freedom includes some risks

Last Saturday night police in Westchester County, New York, set up barricades and stopped 3,200 cars. They were trying to find out whether or not the drivers were drunk.

I'm glad I wasn't one of the 3,200 drivers detained while they checked the state of my sobriety because it is likely I'd have ended up in jail; not because I was drunk but because I'd almost certainly have had a run-in with the police.

THEY WERE just doing their job" is an answer I haven't accepted since I saw my first concentration camp at the end of World War II. I find this kind of Gestapo-like invasion of privacy intolerable. Don't write to me about the innocent people who are killed by drunk drivers. I know all about them and have often thought that getting killed by some intoxicated idiot who crossed the median divider and hit me head-on would be the worst and most senseless way to die. I mourn for the parents of children who have died at the hands of drunk drivers. But none of this makes a police state acceptable. Freedom doesn't come risk-free. I'm willing to take some risks in exchange for my freedom.

This same stunt was pulled by police in Maryland a few weeks ago and apparently it's a growing practice. And a lot of Americans not only accept it but think it's the right thing to do.

"I feel a lot safer driving home knowing you guys (police) are out there," one driver was quoted by a reporter as saying. "You should be out there every weekend." One of the most chilling winds feel blowing is this popular reaction against the kind of freedom and liberty Americans used to love. Too many people seem willing to give up some of their liberty in exchange for what they feel is security. We talk a lot about the Constitution, but we don't read it or understand it. Sometimes I doubt if we'd even vote for it if it were put on a referendum tomorrow.

The Fourth Amendment says: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized."

THE FOUNDING FATHERS who wrote that didn't drive around Philadelphia in their cars, of course, so it didn't occur to them to include automobiles in places where citizens should be able to expect some personal freedom if they weren't suspected of breaking any law. Did the police in Westchester County really have some reason to believe all 3,200 people they stopped were breaking the law? If they did, they turned out to be wrong because only 12 of the people they stopped were arrested. It was determined that eleven of the twelve were drunk and one was stoned on drugs.

In 1979 the Supreme Court, ruling on the right of cops to stop drivers indiscriminately, found in favor of the police "provided all motorists are stopped." It is one of the most disgraceful decisions the Supreme Court ever made. It nibbles at freedom. That's the worst way for freedom to go: in small pieces so we don't notice it much.

"If you aren't doing anything wrong, what have you got to worry about?" That's the argument you hear.

Well, I haven't done anything wrong. I don't drink when drive and I'm plenty worried. If the police can stop us anytime in our cars, why can't they stop us on the street and check us over for counterfeit $20 bills or weapons? They would question us on any criminal activity down by the supermarket.

The police in this country have a tough enough time maintaining their image as friendly protectors of law-abiding citizens without the burden of this kind of police-state work.

'education' stifle learning? does

Being a trifle out of touch with the public school situation, I learned something today that you may already know - in New York City, at least, the old-fashioned "truant officer" has a new name: he is now an 'attendance teacher.'

I couldn't comprehend what an "attendance teacher" was until I read the explanation in a news story that disclosed that more than one-third of New York's high school pupils are chronic truants, who attend school only on those rare occasions when they can find nothing more pleasing to do.

ONE ACADEMIC phrase that has always fascinated me with its monumental inaccuracy is "compulsory education." There is no such thing, and there never has been. You cannot have compulsory education — the most you can have is compulsory attendance. The body may be clamped into a seat, but there is no way of forcing the mind into

If one-third of the pupils in a school system are chronically truant, it would seem to me that "attendance teachers" would be more usefully employed in examining the system than in running down the truants. There may be something wrong with the pupil, or his environment, but the odds are much higher

Who says crime doesn't

IN TWO MILLENIA of formal education, we have still not mastered the art of stimulating rather than repressing the human tendency toward learning, growing, expanding, experimenting and developing. With all the huge amounts of money, time and effort thrown into the educational enterprise, we still find that pupils have to be coaxed, wheedled, commanded and forced to ecome the rational creatures we need to be.

There has been a revolution in almost every area that there is something wrong of human thought — in physics, in astronomy, in all the fundamental disciplines — but we are still waiting for the revolution in educational technique that will lift children to the heights instead of dropping them to the depths, that will make them eager collaborators instead of grudging accomplices in the marshalling and structuring of their intellectual powers.

School administrators often have too many other irons in the fire — political aspirations, publishing, refereeing athletics, public speaking, business on the side, advancing their own education, to name a few. (Only so many hours in a day!) OBSERVANT

Interest, oil boost stocks

Western economy expanding but consumers reluctant to spend

By The Associated Press Falling interest rates and stabilizing oil prices gave stock prices a boost but new figures on installment debt indicate consumers have been reluctant to increase their spending.

A private study, meanwhile, showed economies of Western industrial nations to be expanding again, but prospects for sustained growth were regarded as uncertain.

A potent rally yesterday lifted the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials by 17.12 points, to 1,-141.83, a few points shy of its record closing high of 1,145.90 on March 24.

Stocks, especially energy issues, benefited from falling interest rates and from confirmation by British authorities that most buyers of North Sea oil had accepted Britain's new price cuts.

Interest rates on short-term securities traded in the resale market fell about 14 of a percentage point yesterday. The average yields on new six-month Treasury bills auctioned yesterday fell to 8.248 percent from 8.605 percent at the previous week's auction.

During the first months of this year, "one should see a strong and rapid recovery," the business-financed study said. But it added that the pace of expansion over the next few years is expected to be slower than in the past because of higher long-term interest rates and government constraints.

Reagan's jobless assist labeled 'grandstanding'

PITTSBURGH — Calling President Reagan's intervention on behalf of a jobless steelworker a "grandstand play," a group is asking thousands of the unemployed to submit resumes for mass delivery to

"We want Ronnie Reagan to put up or shut up,"
Robert Warfield, organizer of "Resumes for Reagan,"
said yesterday. "We have to do it in a very public way.
Otherwise we don't have an impact."
Under the resume drive, launched by the Tri-

State Conference on Steel, employment qualifications will be collected and given to the White House on Aug. 27 at a national rally for jobs.

"If the president is truly sincere, we think he should receive and act on the resumes of all Americans. We're going to see that he gets a bundle from western Pennsylvania," said the Rev. Garrett Dorsey, chairman of the Tri-State Conference, a non-profit group working to save steelmaking in the industrial Monongahela River Valley.

Ron Bricker, 39, was furloughed a year ago from his mill job and is being retrained to work with his mill job and is being retrained to work with computers. He handed his resume to Reagan during the president's visit here last Wednesday, and the president called him personally to tell him of a job interview with Radio Shack.

Visa cards due new look

SAN FRANCISCO - Visa credit cards are going to have a new look and some new tricks by this summer, Visa U.S.A. Inc. announced yesterday. D.W. Hock, president of Visa International and chief Hock, president of Visa International and chief executive of Visa U.S.A., said the world-wide credit card company plans to launch a global network of automated teller machines on July I. The service could encompass 8,000 machines worldwide by 1986, he said. Visa U.S.A. directors also have approved a new design for all Visa cards which would place the Visa blue, white and gold logo, flanked by a flying days and white and gold logo, flanked by a flying dove and another new symbol, in the bottom third of the card.

Western Airlines chief quits

LOS ANGELES - Neil Bergt, who came in 17 months ago to rescue ailing Western Airlines, is resigning as chief executive officer to be succeeded by Western vice president Lawrence Lee, the airline says. Bergt will remain, at least temporarily, as chairman, company spokeswoman Linda Dozier said yesterday. No reason was given for the change, and Dozier said Bergt was not available for questions. The change comes at a crucial time for Western, which is preparing to float a $40 million stock offering after it just revealed in a prospectus that it would post an operating loss for the first quarter of 1983 that will "substantially exceed" last year's loss for the quarter of $6.4 million.

Boat racer...

'Old man of the sea" will make record run

By ALMON LOCKABEY

Bob Nordskog of Tarzana has been called "the old man of the — and justly so. He has the trophies and scars to prove it. Just don't call him "that old man." Not when he intends to celebrate his 70th birthday in his offshore racer, Powerboat Magazine Special, with an attack on the elapsed time record down the Sea of Cortez.

Nordskog is preparing for the 600-mile run from San Felipe to La Paz on May 3, just four days short of his 70th birthday. He hopes to erase the existing record of 12 hours and 45 minutes now held by Betty Cook of Costa Mesa

Cook made the run with two fuel stops in a 30-foot twin outboard-powered Scarab three years ago. Nordskog plans to run non-stop in less than 10 hours, battling strong tides and often lumpy water and navigating around the numerous islands in the Sea of Cortez.

Nordskog has the credentials to accomplish his goal. He is currently the holder of 26 national and world offshore speed records — many of them set in the last three years. His career shows 60 firsts, 31 seconds and 26 thirds in the rugged sport. What makes Nordskog run at an age when most men are content to retire and contemplate their accomplishments?

Primarily, it's the love of the sea and competition. Mixing the two has created a potion which keeps the easygoing Norwegian as vitally powerful as the equipment he races.

There is nothing common about Nordskog. He differs from other sportsmen in that his love for a sporting challenge did not follow his fortune. It grew with it.

Although racing has been an integral part of his life, Nordskog has found time to build a million-dollar industry that provides airline inflight food service equipment. He heads Nordskog Industries, a California conglomerate that manufactures lightweight galley equipment for most of the major airlines. The sporting aspect of Nordskog's life has led to other successful endeavors. Through his Nordskog Competition Center he tests boats of all manufacturers for performance and safety. His extensive research and testing with fiberglass, plastic, Kevlar, aluminum, stainless steel and other materials have led to new corrosion protection processes and new products in airline, marine, electric vehicle and auto manufacturing.

He has also found time to serve as president of the American Powerboat Association (APBA), the governing body for all powerboat racing in the U.S., and as president of the Union Internationale Motonautique, the world governing body for the Nordskog has made extensive contributions to the science of marine engineering, equipment design and development, and the promotion of safety in the fields of racing and pleasure boating.

Bob Nordskog (inset) is getting ready to drive his "Powerboat Magazine Special" to another record down the Sea of Cortez Locally, Nordskog was one of the founders of the Pacific Offshore Powerboat Racing Association (POPBRA) and is serving his fourth term as president. He was also the founder of the Marathon Boat Racers Association which currently conducts offshore races on the West Coast.

Nordskog started his string of racing records and victories at the age of 22 when he set the world's record in a Model T Ford

— a car and engine he built himself — at 125 mph at Muroc dry lake — a record which still stands.

His boating career started in 1945 with a Luxor 15-foot skiboat with a Mercury V-8 engine. He barrel-rolled and sank this one in 1946. Since that time he has accumulated enough racing accident hash-marks to last most people several lifetimes

In August, 1974, with a broken arm, collarbone, several ribs, a shattered elbow, a punctured lung and ruptured kidney, he got in a boat a week later (armored with casts) and set a new world offshore record at the Powerboat Magazine Special speed trials at Marina del Rev

Nordskog not only plowed much of his fortune back into the sport he loves, but generously contributed to numerous charitable and community causes.

He is a staunch supporter of the Guide Dogs For the Blind program. In 1980 he set a world offshore record from Canada to Mexico — 31 hours, 13 minutes and 55 seconds — an event that raised $70,000 for the Guide Dogs.

He is a generous contributor to many community youth programs, including the Boy Scouts and Children's Hospital. Nordskog is currently serving as chairman for the San Fernando Valley March of Dimes' "Walk for Health" and was selected 1981 Humanitarian of the Year by the March of Dimes. He is also active in the President's Club at Cal State University,

So why is Bob Nordskog taking his own life in his hands again when most men would be content to sit back and declare: "I've got it made"?

'As long as I'm alive, I need a challenge," said Nordskog as he prepared for another offshore powerboat race last weekend out of Oxnard. "Challenges keep me young, and this race against the clock down the Sea of Cortez is a major challenge.

Mayor Dianne Feinstein talks with residents from Chinatown in her campaign against her recall.

Recall. . . Mayor's future at stake

By THOMAS MURPHY

SAN FRANCISCO — She's equally at ease on posh Pacific Heights or a sleazy Tenderloin street corner. But Mayor Dianne Feinstein's future in this odd city rests on the past, and on an April 26 recall ballot.

If the recall succeeds, the mayor will be barred from holding office in this city-county by the bay for two years. If it fails, even the mayor's opponents admit she is likely to win re-election in November. Feinstein, 49, was born and raised in San Francisco and has used high-profile, mid-spectrum politics to win broad support in the city's diverse communities. She touts her record as she campaigns against the recall threat. I would submit to you the city is being well run," she told the young lawyers of the Barristers Club last week. "At the same time, the mayor is Being subject to recall at a time when she, seven months later, will be in a general election. 'So for me, it is a period of enormous harassment, some degree of loneliness and a certainly a sense at times of despair.

She pointed to a $150 million city surplus, a violent crime rate down 10 percent in 1983, a police response time that fell from 8 minutes to 21/4 minutes under her administration, high bond ratings and the rehabilitation of 69 parks.

And we have been able to replace virtually every state and federal cutback, unlike any other big city in this nation," she said.

Since she took office, she's earned a reputation as a "hands-on" mayor who sometimes shows up at five-alarm blazes to watch firefighters on the job. She even has disguised herself in a blonde wig to get a better look at the city.

"I've stood on a corner in the Tenderloin for three hours and just water, the various activities," she said in a 1979 newspaper interview. "You learn a lot, much more than anyone would imagine.'

She was elected a San Francisco supervisor in 1970 and was re-elected twice before assuming the mayor's office following the fatal shootings of Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk in November, 1978.

"I happen to be a strong proponent for gun control," she said. "I've seen what guns can do first-hand, not only in the streets, but in the mayor's office and on the Board of Supervisors.'

Yet it's that very stand that targeted the mayor for recall.

In January 1982, the Public Defenders Office, at the mayor's request, drafted a proposition to ban hand guns for most San Franciscans. Supervisors approved the ban in June, and the mayor signed it

On Aug. 1, as the mayor turned in her own 38-caliber Chief's Special, a pro-gun communal group called the White Panthers began circulating a petition seeking her recall.

The state Court of Appeal struck down the gun ban on Oct. 13, saying the city did not have jurisdiction over firearms. And on Jan. 27 of this year, two weeks after the Panthers turned in more than enough valid signatures to force the recall, the state Supreme Court upheld the lower court action.

The mayor tarred the Panthers as avowed communists, many with police records, who live in a Haight-Ashbury commune and are led by a man who spent three years in prison for shooting at a

Vanity Fair magazine returns

Openly and unabashedly wooing the 'new elite'

By EILEEN PUTMAN

NEW YORK - Vanity Fair, the exemplar of Jazz Age sophistication, returned last month as a slicked-up, ad-heavy journal of cocktail conversation for the soon-to-be-rich. Some critics thought it fell flat on its elegant face.

A watercolor on the cover showed Pan blowing geometric abstractions out of a pipe. Inside were Andy Warhol's paintings of Alfred Hitchcock, Richard Avedon's portraits of coal miners, a collage of scenes from Wagner

Nora Ephron contributed a short story of a man who preserved a dead pet hamster in the freezer next to the ice cubes, and Nobel laureate Gabriel Garcia Marquez was represented by his grim "Chronicle of a Death Foretold."

Ads offered apparel, Palm Beach townhouses, world cruises and financial services "for those who are getting rich."

Publisher Joseph E. Corr Jr.
said it all gave him a headache, but he retains his faith that Vanity Fair will be the preferred reading matter of the "new elite."

.Not since the 1920s have the American rich been so ostentatious about their lack of ostentation, so smug in their mutual self-congratulation, so indifferent to the society upon which they feed," wrote Jonathan Yardley in the Washington Post. "In Vanity Fair. . . That message comes through loud, clear and contemptible."

Henry Fairlie in The New Republic dismissed it as "so crude, so wasted, so trumpery an effort." Fairlie thought a 12-page section advertising the clothes of designer Ralph Lauren was "the most appealing thing" in the magazine. Others said it didn't live up to its predecessor's illustrious reputation.

The old Vanity Fair, which introduced such writers as Dorothy Parker and Edna St. Vincent Millay and artists like Picasso and Matisse, was published by Conde Nast from 1914 to 1936 when it was incorporated into the fashion magazine Vogue. Revived at a reported cost of $10 to $15 million, Vanity Fair is unabashedly wooing "the new elite." Not the old-rich, but the new moneyed young Corr says are becoming the "emulated aristocracy of our society.'

The magazine's targets are "upscale" professionals, average age 38-40, mean annual income, $40,000 and up. They came of age in the turbulent 1960s, perhaps dropped into a commune for a while but soon learned, Corr says, "you couldn't make much growing mushrooms."

The new magazine will cover anything that "counts," he said, from punk rock to William F.

Buckley Jr. "We will be high, low, beautiful, grotesque. We will be the cocktail conversation of the '80s that our illustrious forebear was to the '20s. .

"These young folks fill their lives with an eclectic and rather deep interest in things cultural," Corr says. "If they're into music they have a record collection from Bach to the B-52s.

Apparently, that's the sort of people advertisers want.

The magazine's 290-page March issue had 168 advertising pages, which the Publishers Information Bureau says might be a first-issue record although there are no definitive figures. A full-page, four-color ad cost $12,750, the magazine

There are ads for cognac, ads for world cruises, ads for Palm Beach townhouses that start at $565,000. Ralph Lauren reportedly spent $130,000 for an 11-page spread. And Calvin Klein advertised his couture line, not his jeans.

In a two-page color ad, U.S. Trust offered "banking for those who are getting rich" and invited applications for a $250,000 credit

Of the 700,000 people who bought the first issue on the newsstands or received it at home free, Corr said 100,000 have bought a year's subscription at $24. The newsstand price is $3 per copy.

Criticism that the magazine's writers don't rise to the level of those who graced the old Vanity Fair, he said, is "just outrageous."

A reader checks out the premiere issue of the new Vanity Fair, a reincarnation of the magazine that 50 years ago was the ultimate in sophistication.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column, "Happy in Poughkeepsie" suggested that to keep a marriage romantic a wife should "flirt with him like you suspect his secretary does." Your reply suggested that the approach might have some merit, and by indirection you agreed that this is

As a member of the secretarial profession I strongly resent the implication. Enough unsavory aspersions have been cast in our direction (thanks to the films and TV), we don't need more. If some of those idiots would spend just one day following a hard-working secretary around, they would discover that even if she was gaga over her boss, she'd be too pooped to do anything about it.

On behalf of secretaries everywhere we respectfully request that you dispel the notion that because a woman works with a man 40 hours a week (make that 50!) she is inclined to do him sexual favors.

Gotta go, the boss wants more coffee! --OTHERWISE OCCUPIED IN FORT WAYNE

DEAR OTHERWISE: The implication was "Poughkeepsie's" — not mine. I am not so stupid that I would antagonize the country's best typists, who have a machine, stationery and stamps at

DEAR ANN: Two of my sons have a paper route. You would not believe the number of customers who move in the dead of night without paying their bill. I wonder if they realize the kids have to come up with the money whether they collect from the customer or not.

Another thing: Why do folks who take a week's vacation think they should be able to deduct the price of their paper? Do they expect the same from the telephone company, trash collection agency or sewer service?

And while I have your ear, Ann, may I give you the whole load? When kids try to collect, they are often told, "Sorry, we don't have anything smaller than a $20 bill in the house" — or "My husband has the checkbook. Come back next week." Finding people home is one thing, but getting them to pay is another.

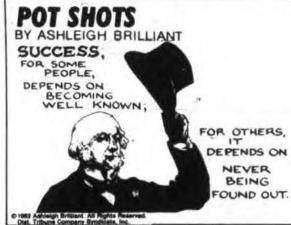

A paper route is a learning experience, but some kids learn some things that could make them bitter and cynical. For example, some people are no darned good and they will cheat you every chance they get. God bless the nice ones who pay on time, and the kind-hearted customers who tip. They make up for the deadbeats. - A MOTHER IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Do this: If using a dark-colored thread, hold the eye of the needle over white material. For light-colored thread, hold it over dark fabric. It really works. - ANOTHER ANNE IN ROANOKE

Tourists look at the Forum with scaffolding covering the Temple of Saturn.

Rome sights blocked from view

By JOHN WINN MILLER

ROME - Marcus Aurelius is gone. The Pantheon is closed. Everywhere arches, columns and buildings are concealed behind protective

What the Vandals and the Goths failed to do. the ravages of pollution and rumbling traffic are accomplishing — the destruction of the Eternal

City.

The unavailability of some of the city's greatest monuments is a major disappointment greeting tourists now pouring into Rome for the 1983 extraordinary Holy Year of Redemption. Pope John Paul II proclaimed the Holy Year to commemorate the 1,950th anniversary of the crucifixion of Jesus.

And part of the problem is that attempted cures often conflict with the needs of this bustling capital city of 3 million.

For example, the government banned traffic around several monuments, but the rules are often ignored by drivers trapped in the resulting congestion. Merchants at the bottom of the Spanish Steps have flooded the Communist-led city government with protests claiming their business has dropped by more than 20 percent since the square was closed in January. 'Many of our customers are American and

Japanese tourists and they don't know how to reach our store now that buses are banned from the area," said Paolo D'Arpini, spokesman for fashion leader Gucci on Via Condotti. "They should at least allow tourist and city buses and taxis into Piazza di Spagna.'

The city has erected scaffolding and protective green cloth around some of the city's most famous sights, including the arches of Constantine and Septimius Severus, Trojan's Column and the columns of the Temple of Saturn at the Roman Forum.

While the coverings slow deterioration from wind and rain, they hide the beauty of the

Nor do they stop the real culprit - acid rain, the combination of sulfur from auto exhaust and rain into a mild sulfuric acid that eats away at marble and bronze.

Some experts predict that the coverings, which first started going up in 1980, may have to remain in place for as long as 20 years until Rome finds the money and the technology for permanent restoration.

Adriano La Regina, the city superintendent of archaeology, hopes they can come down in five years but says the city must come up with a permanent solution soon or risk losing its national

ERMA BOMBEC AT WIT'S END

Royalty's hat crowning blow

If the millinery industry is really serious about bringing back hats, they should keep Queen Elizabeth out of them.

With all due respect, that woman has done for hats what a shark attack does for tourism.

Every time I think maybe I'll add a hat to my wardrobe, I see another picture of the royal family and think, "Maybe next year when I see someone else wearing one.

Like most women of my generation, I've been a "Queen Watcher" for years and I've never known her to appear without a hat. She has a hat for reviewing the troops, one for receptions, a hat for polo matches, a hat for balcony waving, a hat for weddings, one for funerals, a hat for Scotland, a hat for Africa and a hat for ships returning from the Falklands.

It's the same hat.

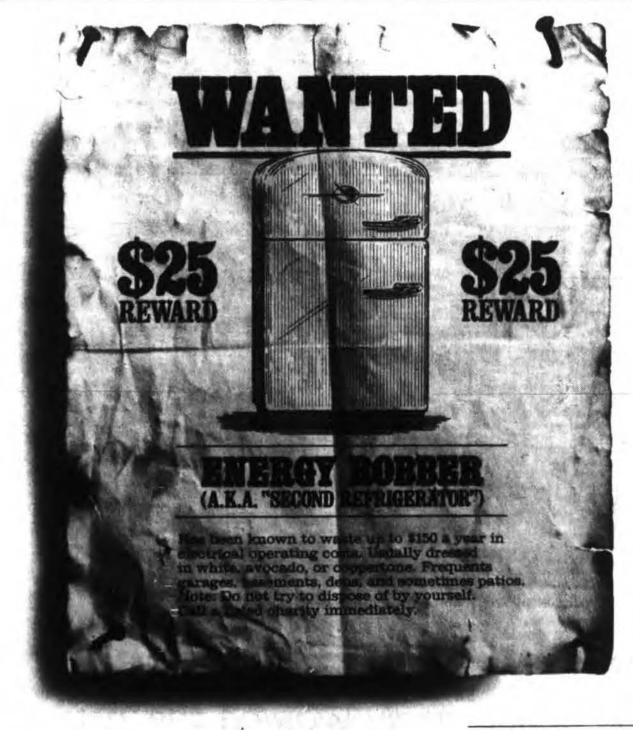

I used tohink it was just a matter of personal preference. Her Majesty liked to play dress-up with long white gloves, a big handbag and a country of her own just like the Queen Mother, but now I'm convinced it comes with the territory.

It's only theory, mind you, but remember when we first saw Princess Di? Her haircut swept this country like a designer label. All people talked about was Princess Di's hair. Next thing you know, we saw her going down the aisle in a headpiece attached to a train the size of our first apartment. We never saw her hair again.

I think when she promised to love and to cherish the future King of England and to serve the British commonwealth and all of its traditions, she became an obedient subject of the Royal Hatmaker. From that day forward, she would endure the hat drill that would prepare her for her place in English

Bette Midler says the hatmaker lives in the basement of the castle and turns out hats all day long. I don't think so. I think he only makes two hats now - one for the Queen and one for Princess

There is a moral to the story. All of you young girls out there who want to be storybook princesses, listen up. You know you have to kiss a load of toads before you marry a prince, but are you willing to wear that hat with everything before you wear a crown? Think about it.

Donate your operating second refrigerator to a charity listed below and Southern California Edison will pay

You'll be in the money in another way, too. Because you'll be saving up to $150 a year in second refrigerator operating costs.

You may also qualify for a tax deduction on the donation. The charity should give you a receipt for income tax purposes. And your refrigerator will be picked up at no charge?

When you make the arrangements, be sure to mention this special offer, and when your refrigerator is picked up, we'll send you the reward upon notification by the participating charity.

You'll see that saving energy is a great way of saving money.

This offer is limited to Edison customers only, two donations per household, or a maximum of $50 per person. Cooperating charitable organizations are listed below. You must mention this offer to collect the reward. This offer expires May 31, 1983. For details, call Édison's Conservation Action Line at 1 (800) 952-5062 and ask for Tape Number 120.

Oscar's humanitarian made career of heavies

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES — Jean Hersholt, the man whose name is on the movie Academy's humanitarian award, first made his mark as one of the screen's blackest villains.

He starred in the 1923 silent epic "Greed", and in a 1938 interview he said, "Wasn't I a dirty rat?" In all, he played in 453 motion pictures. He was the heavy in "Tess of the Storm Country" with Mary Pickford, in "Don Q" with Dougles Fairbanks, and in the country with Country" with Mary Pickford, in "Don Q" with Douglas Fairbanks, and in the silent version of "Stella Dallas." It was a role as a kindly professor in "The Student Prince" that turned him away from villainy. He soon became a much-beloved personality.

Gary Crosby, son of the late Bing Crosby, doesn't understand why his book, "Going My Own Way" has caused such a shock wave.

Gary Crosby stung over book uproar

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES — Gary Crosby is somewhat miffed over the shock caused by his new book, "Going My Own Way," which depicts the late Bing Crosby as a cold, often heartless and abusive father.
"Dad was no different from many fathers of

"Dad was no different from many fathers of his time," Gary says. "Most of my friends felt the same as I did: Fathers were more to be feared than loved.

"My idea of a good day was when my mother passed out and my father was on the road," he said. "Then I could play football until 5:30 in the afternoon, come home and go to my room and not be hassled. There were so many rules, so many people ready to jump on me.

"All I had to hear was somebody yelling 'Gary!' and I'd be terrified. I knew that something bad had happened."

With collaborator Ross Firestone, Crosby tells a sometimes harrowing story of his life as a celebrity child. His mother was an alcoholic; his father endlessly berated him; his schoolmates called him a

"Hollywood faggot."
Crosby, 49, relates his own addiction to booze, uppers and downers, and how they almost destroyed his life.

His father's widow, Kathryn Crosby, who comes off well in "Going My Own Way," admits she cried as she read Gary Crosby's book, but is critical of his portrayal of his mother, Dixie Lee Crosby.

Crosby's brother Dennis told People magazine the book was "Gary's business," while another brother, Lindsay, supported him. "My relations with Denny and Linny are great," Crosby says. "Phil (Dennis's twin) is another matter. I don't give a damn what he thinks. If he wants to come after me, I'll be ready for him."

The two brothers have been conducting a blood feud. "I think Phil still can't get over the fact that I was the only one of us four who was mentioned in Dod's will." he said

Dad's will," he said.

Crosby writes that after his conquest of booze and pills he managed a reconciliation with his father.

"I didn't set out to write a 'Daddy Dearest,' "Gary says. "That was the farthest thing from my mind. Originally, I wrote about myself, my brothers, our mother, and Dad was just sort of an outside figure in the story. But that wasn't what the publisher wanted, so I had to change my approach."

Two generations of Americans knew Jean Hersholt as the genial Dr. Paul Christian of the "Dr. Christian" radio drama that ran on CBS from 1937-54. Hersholt's role as Dr. Dafoe in "The Country Doctor," with the Dionne quintuplets in Canada, led to the radio series.

Less known to the public is that Hersholt served as president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and for more than 18 years as president of the Motion Picture Relief Fund. He was instrumental in founding the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital near Los Angeles.

Los Angeles.
In World War II he established the Danish-American Relief Sciety and broadcast to his native Denmark during the Nazi occupation.
He was knighted in 1956 by King Christian X.

Hersholt, who was born in Denmark in 1886 and migrated to this country in 1915, died in 1956.

The Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award was established in 1956 and is given to individuals "in the motion picture industry whose humanitarian efforts have brought credit to the industry." Among the recipients have been Samuel Goldwyn, Bob Hope, Gregory Peck, Frank Sinatra and Danny Kaye.

This year producer Walter Mirisch was presented the award by Charlton Heston, a past recipient, for his leadership in community and charitable work.

Hersholt made his last movie in 1955 when he played Viveca Lindfors' father in "Run for Cover." It was his first movie since 1937.

His first movie was in 1905 in Denmark. He described it as a "300-foot comedy about an old man who sits on a painted bench." His pay was 10 kroner or about $1.50. But the producer was broke and he settled for half.

South Coast Rep ready for 'Freddy'

By TOM TITUS Of the Daily Pilot Staff

In a season devoted entirely to world premieres, "Goodbye Freddy" — opening next week on South Coast Repertory's Second Stage — is first among equals.

It's the winner out of more than 900 scripts in a search conducted by the Costa Mesa company to procure a new play for inclusion in its 1982-83 season.

And SCR is one of five professional theaters nationwide participating in a CBS-funded program to pick a national winner, who will be awarded a cash prize of $10,000.

"Goodbye Freddy," described as a sophisticated comedy of modern love and infidelity, was written by Elizabeth Diggs (whose drama "Close Ties" was presented last season at the Newport Harbor Actors Theater). Reviewing that play, an Eastern critic

To enter, you must decide which player, in the opinion of the experts, is most to blame for the catastrophe. Also, which of the bids the panel will select as the worst. Your entry might read: East (most to blame), 2 diamonds (worst bid); or West, 3 hearts. Note that the player who is adjudged the most guilty might not necessarily be the one who made the worst bid.

To enter, send your verdict and a stamped, selfaddressed envelope to: "Judgment," The Bridge World, 39 West 94th St., New York, N.Y. 10025. (Correspondents from outside the United States and Canada may send postal coupons instead of stamps; Canadian readers, please send loose stamps.)

All who enter will be sent a copy of the panel's vote and comments, plus the staff's analysis. If you correctly predict the panel's vote on BOTH questions, you will also be sent a copy of the magazine that includes the "Judge" article. Entries must be postmarked no later than April 18.

Young mother periled by baby sitter in movie

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES — Kim Darby wasn't surprised when she was offered the role of a young mother victimized by a scheming nymphet in the CBS movie Summer Girl."

"I was really kind of perfect for it at this point in my life," she says. "I was very close to the character. It wasn't a stretch for

In the two-hour film, on KNXT, Channel 2 Tuesday night, Barry Bostwick plays her husband, and Diane Franklin is the baby sitter out to seduce Darby's spouse and convince everyone that she's losing her grip on reality.
"I liked the character's values.

She was bright and instinctive," Darby says. "What I liked was that she was happy with where she was in life and with having children.

"This young girl played a lot of tricks on her. She was susceptible to that. She had reasons to be tentative and halting because this girl was setting her up so much.

Darby is 36 and the mother of a 15-year-old daughter, but her career has been affected by the fact that she still looks so young. "I'm so glad to be playing mothers and older women," the actress says.

"I was usually the girl next door. Actually, the victim next door. I never had much sympathy for those characters. They were so passive. It's hard to tolerate that in somebody. If you want an audience to go with you you have to make an effort to help yourself.

"I heard on television," Darby says, "That the word 'victim' is the ugliest word in the dictionary. I agree. A victim means you don't have a choice. I think people do have a choice. Nothing is easy, but it's important that you make the

Darby probably is best

Mattie, the spunky girl who holds her own against Rooster Cogburn in "True Grit." John Wayne won an Oscar as best actor as the one-eyed U.S. marshal in the 1969 movie.

"Mattie was certainly no victim," Darby says. "I wish I had another role like that. She was very self-possessed and resourceful. I had just turned 21 and three weeks before I'd had a baby. I kept turning the role down, but personal circumstances turned out that I accepted it.

"I got a taste of the golden era," she says. "They wouldn't shoot any closeups of me after lunch because I might be a little tired. That's unheard of today."

How did she get along with Wayne? "He and I never really connected," she says. "He'd go his way and I'd go mine. But something happened on the

Kim Darby and Barry Bostwick star in the contemporary suspense drama "Summer Girl" tonight at 9:00 on KNXT (2).

Orange County auto show a sellout

'There will be more new car models at the 1983 Orange County International Auto Show than in all the other auto shows throughout the country this year," stated John McGuckin, show Manager. "Orange Countians can view and compare more than 25 new cars they may have never seen before - in one place, at the same time.'

Sponsored by the Motor Car Dealers Association of Orange County, and produced by Cahners Exposition Group, the Orange County Auto Show will open Wednesday, April 13, and continue through Sunday, April 17, at the Anaheim Convention Center.

Major domestic and foreign car manufacturers will be represented on the floor this year. Scores of production 19831/4 and 1984 models will be on display, ranging from sporty subcompacts to luxury sedans, soft-tops and hardtops, for the street or the back-country roads.

Of particular note this year is the increased floor space reserved by some manufacturers. AMC-Jeep-Renault, Volkswagen, Audi-Porsche and Mazda have more than doubled their display area over last year. In addition. Mercedes-Benz will be a first-time exhibitor in this year's show. Increased interest has also been displayed by exotic and specialty car manufacturers. "There's something for Show," sad James Upp, Executive Director of the Dealers Association of everybody at the 1983 Auto Orange County. "The economy is starting to pick up now, and we can expect that many show visitors will come in to compare the new models preparatory to buying one. In keeping with that thought, our show theme this year is 'Selling Spree for '83'."

The new cars are the stars of the show. New domestic models include the 1984 Chevrolet Corvette, the Ford Tempo, the Mercury Topaz, the Ford Bronco II, and Chrysler's LeBaron

"Woody" convertible.
Foreign car manufacturers will display a host of new models, including the Nissan Pulsar, the Mazda 626 (FWD), the Toyota Camry, Subaru's new turbo station wagon, the Honda Prelude. the new Ferrari, and 5 new Volkswagens headed by the Quantum 5 cylinder model.

In addition to the new cars, most manufacturers will feature displays of technical innovations and integral safety features. The California Highway Patrol will also be in attendance, with safety information and one of their new high-performance Mustang patrol cars.

Another feature this year will be displays by various Orange County newspapers and radio stations in support of the Orange County Dealers. Auto Show hours will be Wednesday, April 13, 5:00 to 10:30 p.m.; Thursday and Friday, 1:00 to 10:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10:00 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; and Sunday, 11:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. The general admission price is $4.00 per adult, $2.00 for children 6-12, under 6 free. Discount tickets are available at participating Denny's Family Restaurants and at Orange County Auto Dealerships.

The stylish Cavalier is the only hatchback in the Cavalier lineup.

The 1983 half-ton Nissan King Cab is ready to go when you are.

Cougar is the prestigious luxury car for 1983.

In all the world, no other luxury car achieves the unique Jaguar blending of beauty, response, strength and sheer mechanical excellence.

One look at the XJ6 is an education in the art of classic design. But grace of form is only the beginning of the many pleasures that Jaguar owners experience.

The XJ6 is at its very best in motion. Powered by the strong and responsive electronically fuel injected Jaguar six, the car is quick in its handling and stable in turns. Directional precision is assured by the Jaguar power rack and pinion steering system. Smooth ride and surefooted handling come from four wheel independent suspension. And four wheel power disc brakes stop the car smoothly and steadily.

In the 1983 XJ6 Series III, new testing techniques help maintain the" car's legendary silence. Inside the car, where understated luxury reigns supreme, there is a new driver's console veneered in rare walnut to match the dashboard. New, too, is a trip computer, and seats faced in superb smooth grain hides. Numerous electronic conveniences are standard: cruise control; a self regulating heating and air conditioning system; power sunroof and much more.

Come in today and drive this best of all Jaguars.

Ski team aid goes past need

Every amateur athletic team dreams of a sponsor who'll support its goals in addition to supplying its

In the case of the association between the U.S. Ski feam and Subaru of America, that ideal, the concept of a relationship that goes far beyond contracts and lawyers' agreements, obviously has been realized.

The relationship between the U.S. Ski Team and Subaru began in late 1976, a time during which both organizations had a common problem: lack of public awareness. At the time, the Ski Team was struggling to overcome yet another obstacle: attempts to find a new sponsor to supply them with fuel-efficient, reliable vehicles for use in both the U.S. and Europe had proved fruitless.

The Team's lack of public recognition, coupled with the fact that they receive no governmental financial support, contributed to their inability to locate a sponsor among American vehicle manufacturers. The Team was regarded in some circles as a relatively obscure, fledgling group of athletes with limited

It was about this time that Subaru began looking for a way to showcase its recently introduced "On Demand" 4-wheel drive station wagon. The vehicle was an entirely new concept: a smooth-riding, fuel-efficient, 4-wheel drive vehicle with the ability to negotiate highways like a car, or snowy roads during inclement weather with equal ease.

The 4-wheel drive Subaru wagon was then, and remains today, the only 4-wheel vehicle whose primary drivetrain powers the front wheels. Its "On Demand" 4-wheel drive feature, which allows shifting while in motion from front-wheel drive to 4-wheel drive by just flicking a lever or pushing a button (with automatic transmission) made it even more attractive.

With its outstanding inclement weather traction and unusual fuel efficiency, Subaru reasoned that skiling would be an ideal way to showcase the capabilities of its 4-wheel drive wagon. But, besides providing a showcase for its vehicles, Subaru recognized that the Ski Team's outstanding athletes - many of whom become members of the U.S. Olympic Ski Team every four years — had unlimited horizons. They were worthy of support by public spirited companies simply from the standpoint of encouraging amateur athletics and physical fitness.

With these thoughts in mind, Subaru, the only publicly owned, American operated import automobile company, offered its vehicles to the U.S. Ski Team for Exhaustive evaluation by the Team's athletes and administrators followed; happily the Team soon announced the adoption of the Subaru as its official car.

"Our testing showed the Subaru 4-wheel drive wagon more than met our needs for fuel efficiency, wagon more than met our needs for fuel efficiency, traction in bad weather, and comfort," said Edward Hammerle, president of the U.S. Ski Team. "Reliability and durability were also of paramount importance, and we had reason to believe at the time they would hold up well. Today we can confirm our faith in Subaru durability was well-founded," Hammerle said.

But the agreement between Subaru and the Ski Team soon evolved into much more than just a group of athletes receiving corporate support and in return allowing advertising use of its athletes and log. Subaru realized from the beginning that if its relationship was to have any meaning, it had to go much deeper.

Subaru began heavily promoting the Ski Team, bringing it the recognition it so richty deserved. Subaru also realized that the Team had other needs, needs which would have to be fulfilled if it was to reach its ultimate potential.

itimate potential.

Today, the U.S. Ski Team and its athletes are finally scelving the recognition they deserve. Phil Mahre won the 1982 World Cup for the second straight year; his prother Steve placed just a few notches lower in the international competition. The Women's Team had an outstanding year. By doing well in international competition they earned the Nation's Cup.

Thunderbird is 'a true road car' with multiple-port fuel injection, five-speed manual overdrive transmission and special handling suspension are exceptionally well-balanced to mesh the driver and machine in a single harmonious unit.

"It is a true road car — totally honest, with an impeccable driving feel," said Louis E. Latalf, Ford vice president and Ford Division general manager.

The Turbo Coupe has two recessed fog lamps, a minimum of chrome trim, and fully articulated performancé-type bucket seats. The special handling suspension has two rear axle dampers and two gas-pressurized rear shock absorbers.

"Its extremely clean, fuselage-type design — best in class with a .35 air drag coefficient — is the kind that turns people's heads," Mr. Lataif added. "We expect the Thunderbird Turbo Coupe to expand the traditional limits of the middle specialty segment of the car market. Those who appreciate total car performance - people who take their driving seriously - will want to drive this

The heart of the Turbo Coupe is a potent 2.3-liter four-cylinder engine that is turbocharged and fuel-injected — but with a difference. The turbocharger is Ford's first use of a "blow-through" design.

This system, which places the turbocharger ahead of the throttle, provides faster response by maintaining a slight pressure in the inlet system to help overcome the low-speed lag of more conventional systems.

The fuel-injection system is designed to provide maximum performance and efficiency from idle to wide-open throttle. The multiple-port injection gives each cylinder port its own injector. This produces excellent efficiency in fuel distribution.

In Ford tests, the Turbo Coupe consistently delivers zero to 60 mph times of about nine seconds. Projected fuel economy is 33 mpg on the highway and 21 in the

with its computer brain. The engine is coupled to the five-speed manual transmission with performance-type, close-spaced gear ratios in first through fourth gear. Fifth gear is a 0.86:1 overdrive ratio for highway cruising.

A new Ford rear suspension, called Quadra Shock, is offered for the first time on the Turbo Coupe.

Chevrolet's new Corvette 'a milestone car'

Chevrolet's new Corvette, pushes the automotive state of the art farther than any Corvette before it.

"This is a milestone car absolutely in keeping with Corvette's status as America's only true production sports car," said Robert C. Stempel, Chevrolet's

"But to leave it at that is to ignore what this car really does for automotive innovation."

The 1984 Corvette — so designated because it has been engineered to 1984 emissions, safety and fuel economy standards — is a careful blend of yesterday's Corvette styling cues with tomorrow's high-tech sophistication.

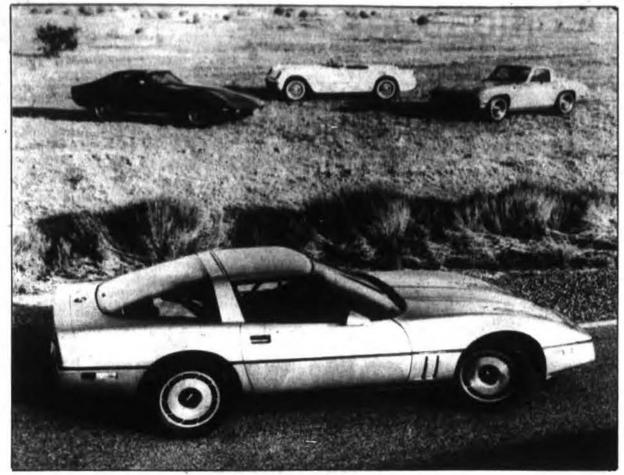

Vents behind the front wheel housing, foldaway headlamps, carefully-arched front fenders, inset round tailiamps and functional rear spoiler link Corvette to previous models. These, combined with the car's massive leveled lines in the hood area and sweeping new rear hatch, bring on a new generation. There is the feeling at Chevrolet that a new classic has been Compared with 1982, the new Corvette is 1.

inches lower, 8.8 inches shorter overall, and two inches shorter in wheelbase. Overall width is increased by two inches. The passenger compartment has more head, leg and shoulder room. Its wind tunnel-tuned shape is 23.7 percent more aerodynamic. Powered by Chevrolet's proven 5.7-litre V-8 engine, available with either automatic or manual transmissions, it is capable of speeds in excess of 140 miles excess of 140 miles excess. miles per hour.

With an extremely fast windshield angle of 65 degrees, flush-mounted glass and body lines tested in the Boeing wind tunnel, the Corvette has an serodynamic drag coefficient of .34.

Equipped with the optional Z51 performance handling package, the car is designed to corner at lateral accelerations up to 0.95 Gs. Handling during transitional maneuvers is impeccable.

As David R. McLellan, Corvette chief engineer, explains: "Even in its standard suspension configuration, the new Corvette is a sports car absolutely superior to any production vehicle in its part of the market. To find even a peer to this vehicle, you have to look at cars produced in extremely limited numbers, and at prices traditionally two or more times that of the Corvette. This car will be at home and respected on the autobahn or any highway in the world."

High performance, however, is only half the Corvette story. Adds McLellan, "It has, for three decades, been a Corvette tradition to oppose the notion that sports cars must be spartan or uncomfortable. With the new design, we continue the Standard features include air conditioning, electronically tuned AM/FM radio with digital clock, power windows, liquid crystal analog display, digital instrumentation, one-piece removable roof panel, electronic remote control sports mirrors, ergonomically-designed and wool-padded high contour bucket seats, leather-wrapped steering wheel, leather transmission shift-lever boot, advanced driver information system, load area security shade, power radio antenna, halogen headlamps and foglamps, hatchback controlled by any of three remote electrical releases, and built-in theft deterrent system.

A passenger-restraint interior design optimizes occupant protection, and includes seat belts which convert from motion-sensittive to locking at the touch of a button. The cargo area is easily accessed through the hatchback, and under the clamshell hood, there is a new and simple layout, which aids servicing. Corvette improvements run the gamut from style to ride, performance and fuel economy.

The two-inch increase in width results in a wider front and rear track and more interior room. Other exterior dimenions are reduced, cutting weight and improving maneuverability. Length is 176.5 inches; wheelbase, 96 inches; and the new low-profile height is 46.9 inches.

Headroom is up fractionally at 36.5 inches; leg room of 42.6 inches is up one-half inch and shoulder room is up 6.5 inches at 54.

The new hatch gives Corvette a cargo volume index rating of 17.9 cu. ft. Curb weight is 3,192 pounds, down 175. EPA fuel ratings of 16 mpg city; 28 highway, are up about one mpg over 1982 Power continues to be supplied by a 205 horsepower V8, with Cross-Fire Fuel Injection. A four-speed automatic transmission is standard. A new four-speed manual transmission featuring computer-controlled overdrive in three forward gears is optional.

Also new is an engine accessory drive system utilizing a serpentine double-duty belt drive which is lighter, more durable and conserves engine power. A belt tensioner maintains constant and uniform tension to help eliminate slippage.

The new cooling system's energy efficient, compact, lightweight design consists of an electrically-driven, single-speed fan mounted directly to the radiator shroud.

The new, all-welded uniframe is an integral unitized structure utilizing high-strength steel in strategic areas to reduce weight. It is 100 percent galvanized for corrosion protection. A one-piece removable canopy attaches at all four corners and enhances the "convertibility" of the Fiberglass body panels feature the new

"molded-in" coating rocess to cut surface imperfections. The process has urethane compound injected into the mold as the panels are being formed. Exposed bond seams are avoided.

BMW's service gives special information

For most drivers, scheduled automobile service is established by a predetermined mileage schedule spelled out in the car's owner's manual. Manufacturers determine the wear and tear to be expected from the average driver and set the service intervals accordingly.

BMW engineers, however, realized that this system was useful only to the average driver. The car driven aggressively over several short trips probably needs more frequent service than one driven gently over fewer, longer trips. The engineers set out to find a system that would take varying driving styles into account and alert the driver when service was actually needed.

The system, which is standard equipment on all 1983 six-cylinder BMWs, is the latest of BMW's electronic innovations designed to provide the owner with as much information as possible to keep his car running smoothly and efficiently. Called the Service interval indicator (SI), the system is a computer-age processing unit that monitors various operating conditions in the car and converts the data into a signal to the driver when it's time for service.

The heart of the SI system is a processor which receives imput signals from the starter, tachometer, odometer and coolant-temperature sensor. Whenever the car is running, the information is continuously processed. The service intervals it calls to the driver's attention are thus based on a "processed" mileage rather than on the actual number of miles driven.

When the car is new or freshly serviced, five green LEDs light up briefly when car is started.

The system appears to the driver as nine light-emitting diodes (LED) in three colors located between the speedometer and the tachometer, plus "oil service" and "inspection" lights.

and "Inspection" lights.

When the car is new or freshly serviced, five green LEDs light up briefly when the car is started to signal that maintenance is up to date. As time for service approaches, fewer green LEDs light up on starting. When service is due, the "oil service" or "Inspection" light comes on, accompanied by a yellow LED. If the suggested service is postponed, first one, then two and finally three red LEDs appear.

If the driver does primarily highway driving, seldom starts the engine from cold, and avoids high rpm, the mileage between services can be as much as 9,000 miles.

The SI is one of four "driver information" systems standard in all six-cylinder BMW's (One system, the On-board Computer, is optional on the 528e.).

Energy Control, introduced last year with the 528e and 733l, is a computer-calculated analog readout that continually monitors fuel economy. The system is built into the tachometer face for easy visual access.

The On-board Computer is a 10-function, keyboard-operated unit that can calculate or read out the following: outside ambient temperature; distance to destination; time of arrival; exit reminder; average trip speed; average fuel economy; cruising range on available fuel; stopwatch functions; timer reminder; and anti-theft action.

1983 Nissan pickup meets truck owners' specifications

The tailgate no longer reads DATSUN, but for the new 1983 %-ton Nissan pickup truck that's only the beginning.

engine, roomier cab and improved suspension are some of the major refinements in the new Nissan truck.

The standard engine for the new truck is a 2.4-liter NP NAPS-Z four-cylinder producing 103 horsepower.

Inside, the headroom has been increased by more than an inch and legroom increased by more than two inches. The seats have also been redesigned for better riding comfort.

Changes in the suspension result in improved ride, handling and braking.

The new Nissan truck is offered in both two and fourwheel-drive versions, with a choice of trim levels and also King Cab models, which feature extra storage space behind the seats.

Small cars finish line

The Introduction of the Nissan Pulsar two-door and four-door hatchbacks gives Nissan the most complete selection of front-wheel-drive cars offered by an Import manufacturer in the United

"At the beginning of the 1982 model year we brought out the Nissan Stanza, the largest car in terms of interior volume Nissan has ever sold in this country," said C.P. (Chuck) King, senior vice president, sales for Nissan U.S.A.

"That was followed in the spring with the economical Nissan Sentra, which proved to be the import sales success of the year. 'And now we are introducing the Nissan Pulsar hatchbacks, completing a process which began only a little more than a year ago and giving Nissan the competitive edge in stateof-the art front-wheel-drive automobiles," said King.

The two-door and fourdoor hatchbacks complete the Nissan Pulsar line, joining the sporty Nissan Pulsar NX coupe introduced at the start of the 1983 model year.

With its unique wedgeshaped styling, the fivepassenger Nissan Pulsar line represents a new direction in small car technology by combining the efficiency and function of front-wheel-drive into a sporty car package.

Power is provided by the 1.6-liter, four-cylinder Nissan "E" Series engine, a single overhead cam with cross-flow type cylinder head and semihemispherical combustion chambers. Peak horsepower for the engine is rated at 69 at 5,200 rmp and torque is 92 pounds-feet at 3,200 rmp.

A five-speed overdrive manual transmission is standard on the Nissan Pulsar, with an optional three-speed automatic incorporating a lock-up torque converter also available on all models.

The wind-cheating styling of the Nissan Pulsar, with such features as a flush-mounted windshield set at a 32-degree angle, slanted hood, concealed drip moldings and front and rear spoilers, gives it an aerodynamic coefficient of 0.38 for the hatchbacks and 0.37 for the coupe among the lowest in their

In comparison to the Datsun 310 which it replaced, the Nissan Pulsar interior has 2.6 inches more cabin length, 1.3 inches more width and 1/2-Inch more height.

On the two-door hatchback, the front seats have an adjustable seatback with a programmable memory that returns to its original setting once moved for entry to the back seat. The rear seats in both the 2-door and 4-door hatchbacks are split and fold down to allow direct access to the trunk area.

The suspension system is basically the same as the 310 — independent front struts and rear trailing arms — but has been refined for improved handling and stability.

Olds features specialty cars

Oldsmobile Division's display at the Orange County Auto Show starting April 13 thru 17 at Anaheim Convention Center will feature many of the 30 1983 models, including the new Firenza Cruiser and a number of specialty cars.

Specialty cars in the division's 1983 lineup include the Omega ES and ESC, Cutlass Ciera ES and a 15th anniversary version of the Hurst/Olds.

This series of specialty cars is expected to help the division maintain its third place in domestic sales for the ninth consecutive year.

Two station wagon models enter the six model Firenza lineup for 1983 — the Firenza Cruiser and Firenza LX Cruiser. With 64-cubic-feet of cargo volume with the rear seat folded down, and 34-cubic-feet of cargo room with the rear seat used for passengers, the wagons are compactly sized for maneuvering and parking.

Exterior appearance of the wagons can be tailored by customers by ordering the optional two-tone paint, simulated woodgrain or an accent stripe.

The wagons join two hatchback coupes and two notchback sedans.

A new standard engine for 1983 Firenza models is a four-cylinder 2.0-liter with throttle body fuel injection. It is teamed with a four-speed manual transmission as standard equipment and available with either a five-speed manual or automatic.

Four Omega models, both coupes and sedans in base and Brougham levels, are available for 1983. Customers may also order the Omega ES or ESC appearance package for a continental look with blacked-out grille, wrap-around bumpers with integral scoop, black headlamp bezel, tall lamp bezel, door frame, quarter window and rocker panel moldings. A firm ride and handling package, custom sport steering wheel, styled polycast wheels with trim rings and blackwall tires complete the look.

A new front end appearance on Omega models is highlighted with a restyled eggcrate grille. The conventional chrome outside rearview mirrors are replaced with aerodynamic patch mirrors. The standard driver's side mirror is black and the optional dual mirrors match the car's body color.

A first for Oldsmobile is an electronic instrument panel cluster available on Cutlass Clera models. The display includes a digital speedometer for speed readout, bar graph fuel and engine temperature gauges, low fuel warning indicator, trip odometer and an English/metric conversion switch.

A special option, offering similar continental flair as the Omega ES, is the 1983 Cutlass Clera ES. Available on either Cutlass LS or Brougham

Available on either Cutlass LS or Brougham models, the new option is offered on both coupes or sedans.

Specific exterior appearance items include blacked-out grille bars, headlamp housing and rear end treatment. Both side moldings and bumper rub strips are black as well.

Once you see the new Buicks, you may never see the rest of the show.

After you make your way through the crowds around the 1983 Buicks, you'll probably find enough there to occupy yourself for quite some time. Because our 1983 Buicks are very arresting indeed.

Their stylish, sleek good looks and sumptuous interiors will make it very difficult to tear yourself away. And the longer you stay, the more you'll find out about the '83 Buicks' aerodynamics and technological advancements. Because you can see it in everything from the incredibly well equipped, luxurious Riviera down to the small, sporty, luxurious Skyhawk. So stop by and take a look at the 1983 Buicks first. Electra, LeSabre, Riviera, Regal Coupe, Regal Sedan, Century, Skylark, and Skyhawk. And your next stop will no doubt be at your Buick dealer's to get one of your very own.

Toyota changes design

Innovation is more than skin deep on Toyota's exciting line of cars and trucks appearing at the Orange County Auto Show April 13-17. A host of technological improvements bring better performance to the entire line, featuring the all-new 1983½ Camry, the Tercel 4WD Wagon, the Celica Supra and Toyota's line of small trucks.

The front-wheel drive five-passenger Camry is available in both four-door sedan and five-door liftback models with Deluxe and L.E. trim levels for both body styles.

Aerodynamics played a key role in the design of the Camry. As a result of extensive wind tunnel testing, all surface pillars are flush for reduced wind noise and drag, while a thin, flat roofline helps reduce wind buffeting. A sloped nose and hood combine with a one-piece bumper and air dam to provide a smooth air flow both over, under and around the Camry.

Camry's cavernous interior puts it among the compact leaders in every interior dimension. The transverse mounted engine, Toyota's first such offering in the U.S., couples with a low floor to provide outstanding legroom. Rear seat occupants also enjoy ample leg and foot room, thanks in part to the low floor and wide front seat track.

An overhead cam, 2.0-liter four-cylinder engine with electronic fuel injection, powers the Camry. The engine is Toyota's latest in the development of lightweight fuel-efficient engines offering outstanding performance and maintenance characteristics.

Sharing the limelight at the Orange County Auto Show is the Tercel, Toyota's high mileage ploneer in the front-wheel drive small car market, which combines its proven economy with sporty new styling inside and out.

Lawn bowling: Just what the doctor ordered

By ROGER CARLSON Of the Daily Pilot Staff

An 89-year-old man recently went to his doctor and suggested he was getting too old for lawn bowling, maybe he'd better give it up.

"You do and you can get yourself another doctor," was the response. "That's what's keeping you alive," continued his doctor. The patient agreed and returned to his activity at the Newport Lawn Bowling Club.

"You see so many around the island who are just lost," says Balboa Island resident Ken Fagans, referring to the retired generation.

"They just don't have any interest at all, sitting around the tube all day. If they'd just get out and get some fresh air and a little exercise

A former basketball star at Oregon State University, a highly successful basketball coach at Compton High (53 straight wins at one point) and the CIF Southern Section Commissioner for 20 years, Fagans is in a position to know what he's talking about.

Now 73, Fagans continues to thrive on being active and lawn bowling has become a way of life "I got into this about four years ago when I happened to be in New Zealand," recalls Fagans. "I ran into a fellow over there from Laguna Beach and he was there to bowl. He thought I'd be a natural at it and got me interested.

"I just wish I would have started 10 years ago, I could be a champion.

Fagans is a member of the Newport Lawn Bowling Club where he finds competition there and

Fresh air and a little exercise can cost a person a bundle in some areas - such as golf - but in lawn bowling, the cost is 50 cents a day and you can pick up a set of four used bowls in the neighborhood of $30. Newcomers often get free use of bowls for some time.

No, you didn't hear that announcement last night. And yes, it is a little trite. But on Academy Awards night, Grich's performance was certainly deserving of an Oscar.

For it was his soft-shoe shuffle in front of Seattle shortstop Todd Cruz in the second inning that opened the floodgates and allowed the Angels to post a 6-1 decision over the Mariners before 22,588 at Anaheim Stadium.

Grandstaff: He even likes to practice

Slugger has found a home with Rustlers

By CURT SEEDEN
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

For many years, Bob Grandstaff used to walk the few short blocks from his Huntington Beach home to Golden West College to catch the Rustler baseball team in action.

And it's true he had a dream of playing some day at Golden West. Hardly the greatest of goals, you might think, but Grandstaff is a realist.

Not only did he look forward to making the switch from Marina High School to Golden West, but by the time he completed his senior year with the Vikings, he didn't have too many other choices. The fact is, Grandstaff struggled through his senior year at Marina, and the two offers he received were from Golden West and Orange Coast. "You really can't expect to be recruited by a four-year school unless you bat .500," Grandstaff says. For the record, the 6-1, 180-pound third seman batted .340 during his senior year. His performance in 11/2 seasons at Golden West, however, has brightened the outlook.

To begin with, Grandstaff has already been drafted three times: Minnesota picked him in the seventh round in January of 1982; the New York Yankees also made him a seventh-round selection in the June of 1982; and Cleveland picked him in the first round of the January draft this year.

In addition, Grandstaff has now narrowed the field in his search for a four-year school to collegiate powers Arizona State, Cal State Fullerton and Nebraska.

"I guess I really didn't work too hard when I was in high school," Grandstaff admits. "I was only hitting about .250 until the last six games when I caught fire (as a senior). Also, I was being moved around to different positions and it was hard to

"Actually, I thought I would get an offer after my junior year (when he batted .425) but things just didn't pan out," Grandstaff continues. "I just played terrible in my senior year. But I wasn't that disappointed that I wasn't going to be recruited because I knew I was going to play at Golden

So, in his first year with Coach Fred Hoover's Rustler Grandstaff led the team in home runs (seven), at-bats (169) and tied for the team lead in stolen bases with 22. He also hit .320 and knocked in

This year, Grandstaff has survived a mild slump and is batting .324. He has 24 hits in 74 at-bats, 26 RBI, five doubles, three triples and six home runs. And he's working on an eight-game hitting streak.

"He's simply one of the best baseball players around," says Hoover of his third-base prize. "He's one of the most feared and respected hitters in the

Grandstaff says his game has improved ever since he found a home at third. True, he led the team with 17 errors last year, but he's still comfortable (See RUSTLERS, Page D2)

Bob Grandstaff is setting a sizzling pace for Golden West College this season.

Seve Ballesteros

Ballesteros just watches for birdies

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The final round of the 47th Masters, agreed the players in contention, was over almost before it began. "The key," said winner Seve Ballesteros of Spain, "was the first four holes. I played 4-under on the first four holes."

And that, along with Tom Watson's sudden putting lapse, proved decisive yesterday as Ballesteros stalked virtuallyunchallenged to his second Masters victory a four-stroke triumph in the day-late

"It's like being knocked down two times in the first round — and having a three-knockdown rule," said Watson, the principal victim of Ballesteros' birdieeagle-par-birdie start. And Watson's chances disappeared on a string of three-putts beginning on the eighth hole.

"I was very lucky," said Ballesteros.

"I got my birdies early. They put me in

"On this course, you have to wait for the birdies. In the last round, if you have to make three-four birdies, they won't come. When you play aggressive here, this golf course will kill you."

After his start, he played the golf course 1-over par. By that time, it really didn't

Ballesteros, a 26-year-old globetrotting Spaniard, acquired his third title in golf's Big Four events with a closing round of 69, and a 280 total, eight shots under par on a Augusta National Golf Club course still wet

Ballesteros, who won the 1979 British Open and the 1980 Masters, took command immediately. An approach to six feet set up a first-hole birdie. He reached the green on the long second with a wood club, and needed only a 10-footer for eagle-3. The third went to par, but he birdied the fourth after a 2-iron to two feet.

That put him in front. And he stayed in front. Watson, playing in the same twosome this warm and windy day, once got close. That was on the eighth. A long putt, perhaps 35 or 40 feet, gave Watson an eagle. It cut Seve's lead in half, down to

But it was the last look-in anyone had.

Watson, noted as one of the finest putters in the world, bogeyed three in a row, two of them on 3-putt greens.

"I had a good chance after eight, but the three-putts put me too far behind," said Watson, the only man in the field who had any legitimate chance of overtaking Ballesteros.

"Then," he said, "I hit a bad wedge at 14 which resulted in a double bogey-6 and that sealed the coffin."

Russell survives the boos

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The fans at Dodger Stadium booed Billy Russell last night. So, what else is new?

"The crowds and I have an old thing going," Russell, the Dodgers' dean, was saying with a smile. "But the same ones who were booing me earlier were cheering me when I got those last two hits.

The last one, a bunt in front of the plate, traveled some 395-feet less than the drive Pedro Guerrero hit earlier in the game, a homer to center. But it had every bit as much impact, a successful squeeze play that brought Derrel Thomas racing home from third in the bottom of the 11th inning for a 4-3 victory over Houston.

For the Astros, it was their seventh loss without a win, continuing the worst start in the club's history.

Bob Knepper, the Astros' starting pitcher, said it about as well as anyone.

"Generally, I was satisfied with my pitching," he said after the game, "but I'm not overjoyed we lost - again."

Knepper was gone by the 11th, when the Dodgers loaded the bases with no one out on walks issued by young Julio Solano, a rookie, who was pitching in Class A a year ago

He walked Thomas to lead off the inning, then threw a wildpitch that sent Thomas all the way to third. He walked Steve Yeager, and then pinch hitter Rick Monday, intentionally.

Dave Smith took over, got Steve Sax for the first out, but Russell, on a 1-0 pitch, bunted one in front of the plate, Thomas scored and the Dodgers had the Reliever Steve Howe, 1-0, got the victory and Solano, 0-2, took the defeat.

USFL wants Schlichter

Commissioner Chet Simmons said last night the United States Football League would consider accepting Art Schlichter into its ranks if the Baltimore Colts' quarterback were freed of his National Football League contract. Schlichter's future in the NFL has been in doubt since it was disclosed last week that he had bet heavily on sports events . . . A meeting between free agent quarterback Dan Fouts and the USFL has been postponed indefinitely . . . World record-holding distance runner Mary Decker Tabb was taken to a Eugene, Oregon hospital for treatment of a minor injury after she was involved in a traffic accident yesterday . . . Nicholas Lansford, the 2-year-old son of Oakland A's third baseman Carney Lansford and his wife, Deborah, died Sunday of kidney disease.

Reagan seeks speed record on Great Lakes

By ALMON LOCKABEY
Delity Prior Souting Writer

Mike Reagan, eldest son of the President, probably won't have any Secret Service security men trailing him when he makes his "Assault on the Great Lakes" May 16. He'll be going too fast. The adventurous young Reagan, 38, will take the wheel of an 80-mph Wellcraft Scarab, pushed by 1,000 Evinrude horses in an attempt to establish the first-ever water speed record from Chicago to

He hopes to average more than 60 mph over the cold and grueling 605-mile run across lakes Michigan and Huron in a fundraising effort for the U.S. Olympic Committee.

A veteran champion speed boat racer and marine endurance driver, Reagan was successful last summer in his 'Assault on the Mississippi," shattering the record for the 1,027-mile dash from New Orleans to St. Louis by one hour and 40 minutes.

The Mississippi run was made in 25 hours and 10 minutes and was also an Olympic fund-raiser that netted more than $500,000 for the USOC.

If the weather cooperates, Reagan and his crew of two, a navigator and throttleman, will leave Chicago's Navy Pier early on May 16 in the 38-foot

The proposed course will take them straight north along the Illinois-Wisconsin lakeshore, northeast for a fueling stop at Mackinaw City, Mich., then southwest down Lake Huron for midafternoon finish at Detroit's Renaissance Center

Reagan has also announced that if all goes well on the Chicago to Detroit attempt, he may seek the Charles F. Chapman Trophy for the 1,257-mile ocean run from Miami to New York later

CM's Oliver in regionals

Keri Oliver of Costa Mesa has qualified for the United States Gymnastics Federation western regional finals after performing well in the state meet last weekend in Fountain Valley.

Oliver, a sophomore at Costa Mesa High, competes for SCATS of Huntington Beach.

She will now compete in the western regionals this weekend at Glendale High School. Oliver qualified in the vault, parallel bars, balance beam and floor

She placed third in the state in the beam with a two-day average of 17.7. She was also ninth in the state in floor exercise and 13th in all-around.

UCI set to sign four players

By JOHN SEVANO
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

College basketball letters of intent are not scheduled to be formally announced until tomorrow. UC Irvine Coach Bill Mulligan, however, has quietly started his Assuming no last-minute snags, four players will officially sign their letters tomorrow, with a fifth - Raymond Lankford - having already verbally committed himself.

Mulligan, along with assistant coach Bob Schermerhorn, be in the San Francisco area tomorrow to ink Skyline College's Derrick Johnson and James Rhodes. Assistant Mike Bokosky, meanwhile, will head for San Bernardino where Jerome Lee is located. Bokosky will then trek to Artesia to get Tom Tolbert's signature. Johnson, a 6-0 guard, was the Coast Conference's Player of the Year and Skyline's Most Valuable Player. Johnson averaged 19.7 points and 5.9 rebounds in leading the Trojans into the Division II playoffs and a 21-7 overall record.

Johnson, a sophomore this season, was also named Division II first team all-state.

Johnson's teammate - Rhodes, a 6-6 sophomore forward, was named second team all-state after averaging 14.5 points and 6.9 rebounds.

Lee, who figures to have the inside track as UCI's starting points guard, averaged a little better than 21 points per game at San Bernardino College.

Lee, a 6-0 sophomore guard, was named the Indians' Most Valuable Player.

UCI's fourth player, Tolbert, was the first player to verbally commit himself to the Anteaters, having done so a couple of months back.

Tolbert, a 6-7 forward at Artesia High, was named the CIF 2-A Co-player of the Year after leading the division in scoring at 31.7 points per game. He also picked off an average of 11 caroms.

Lankford, having already signed a letter of intent once for Oregon State, can only sign a scholarship letter to attend UCI, according to NCAA regulations. Lankford, a 6-2 sophomore guard who was named first team all-state out of Butte College, is expected to sign his letter in the next few months. Lankford averaged 24.3 points and 7.8

rebounds in leading the Roadrunners to a

Mulligan, under NCAA rules, is not allowed to comment on the signings until after tomorrow.

at the corner.

"That's my spot now. There are guys who can play everywhere. When I was in high school, I couldn't concentrate in the field or at the plate. I would make an error and then come up and pop up. Now I've learned to concentrate," he says.

During his recent slump, Grandstaff, who bats third in the Rustler lineup, admits he was going after some bad pitches.

OCC outlasts foe in tennis action

Orange Coast College remained in contention for the South Coast Conference tennis title yesterday, as the Pirates got by Fullerton, 5-4.

It took some fine doubles play for the Pirates to win the match, as the teams were tied 3-3 after

Todd Braun and Jeff Barnard remained unbeaten in doubles (12-0) by winning in three sets, while Brad Parker and Myles Matias clinched the victory with another doubles decision. The Pirates

In women's play, Orange Coast dropped its first conference match, a 5-4 setback against Cerritos. It didn't matter though, as the Pirates have already captured Coach Janice Maran's seventh straight SCC title.

Ronald Ellison and Liz Carlisle turned in Orange Coast's only singles wins, while Suzanne Brodie and Mary Bantz played well for the Pirates.

But Hoover simply moved Grandstaff to the No. 2 spot in the lineup, put a hot-hitting Kevin Elster in the No. 3 slot and opposing pitchers no longer could afford the luxury of trying to be too careful. Walking Grandstaff would only create a scoring threat with Elster following.

"Yeah, they were pitching around him," Hoover says. "Now he's getting better pitches." Grandstaff and his teammates are playing some of their best ball of the season and are within 11/2 games of the South Coast Conference lead prior to today's game at Compton. "Without a doubt, we have the best team in the league this year," Grandstaff says. And Hoover, for one, will agree that he has the best third baseman in the conference. "Grandstaff's a real up person," says Hoover. He and it does get close. "Yes," admits Fagans, "there are rhubarbs at times. Sometimes the measurements are so close. Everyone has a little tape measure, but sometimes you have to have a third party. A 32nd or 64th of an inch can make the difference."

The sport involves many retired persons, including those with physical disabilities and heart problems, among other things. "But," adds Fagans, "they're able to bowl and compete, and do a good job of it."

There can be drawbacks. A recent call to the Fagans residence found his wife, Norma, home, but Ken away.

Hughes, Estey earn All-CIF

Estancia High's Debbie Hughes and Corona del Mar's Heather Estey have been named to the All-CIF 3-A basketball first team, chosen by the First Interstate Bank Athletic Foundation's All-Southern California board of athletics.

Hughes led Estancia to the Sea View League championship with a 14.8 scoring average. Estancia's Amy Hathcock, 5-8, who averaged 15.7 points a game, was named to the second team.

Estey sparked Corona del Mar to the CIF 3-A crown, scoring at an 18.0 clip from her back court position. Another Corona del Mar guard, 5-7 Lisa Romney, was chosen on the third team.

Linda Dempsay, athletic director at UC Irvine since 1977, has announced her resignation, effective June 30.

"Anytime we've got a runner on third and less than two outs, I'm looking for the squeeze sign," Russell said afterward. "Tommy (Manager Lasorda) likes the play. He (Smith) gave me a fast ball down the middle . . . he's got to throw strikes in that situation."

He did, too, and the Dodgers pulled a win out of the air, after going down to their last out in the ninth inning and still behind,

But Sax singled home Thomas with a tying run.

It was a dramatic inning for other reasons.

Moments before, Mike Marshall, who said he still had a "little bit of a headache" after his scary beaning two days earlier, appeared as a pinch-hitter.
"I felt fine," Marshall said later. "I told Tommy I'd be available in an emergency.

The emergency came with two outs in the bottom of the ninth, one on and only one power-hitting, right-handed hitter on the bench — Marshall.

The Angels' Reggie Jackson and Tommy John strike familiar poses in last night's 6-1 win.

Lakers still worthy of title?

Worthy, the Los Angeles Lakers' outstanding rookie who's out for the rest of the season with a broken bone in his leg, sees no reason why the club can't win the National Basketball Association title without him. "Why not? They won it without me last year," said Worthy, who was scheduled to undergo surgery today to have INGLEWOOD (AP) - James undergo surgery today to have one or two screws inserted in the broken bone, the fibula, just below the knee in his left leg.

Dr. Stephen Lombardo was scheduled to perform the surgery at Centinela Medical Center.

"We really feel optimistic about his eventual return," Laker physician Dr. Robert Kerlan said. "Without complication, the prognosis for the future is excellent and it is expected that James will be ready to return to action in approximately six months from the time of surgery."

The injury, suffered Sunday night against Phoenix, would appear to be a big blow to the playoff-bound Lakers, who already have clinched the Pacific Division title.

"We've had very serious injuries this year," said Earvin "Magic" Johnson. "But this one really hurts the most. It's going to have a big effect on the team.

Worthy, out of North Carolina and the Lakers' No. 1 draft choice, was being counted on to give the team the offense off the bench that it lost when veteran Bob McAdoo was injured.

by getting in the way at the right

"It was smart baseball by him, and dumb for me to stop. I should have gone with my initial reaction. I messed it up by stopping. I ain't perfect."

On that particular play, however, Grich was.

"The timing on that play has to be perfect," Grich explained. "You have to time it where it almost hits you, then it becomes a split-second thing for the infielder.

"It's just a reaction on my part, but the key to it is to not start your run too soon. I was verv close to the ball on that play. It just did miss me."

Added Foli, who has been in that situation himself: "I would have played it the same way. It was a do-or-die type of play. It's a tough decision to make."

The irony is that the play was ruled a single inasmuch as the rule book states if a fielder's vision is impaired, no error can be awarded.

Seattle starter Matt Young (1-1), the hard-luck recipient of this mess, thus had two earned runs cross the plate and surrendered another moments later in the inning to stake the Angels — and Tommy John (2-0) - to an early 3-0 lead.

Four frames later the Angels tagged Young for another trio of runs (with Foli getting two more RBI) and the Mariner demise was complete.

"The score could have easily been 0-0 going into the sixth inning," said a sympathetic Foli of Young's bad break in the second inning "He (Young) had second inning. "He (Young) had great movement on the ball. You don't see a whole lot of hard throwers like him.

"Grich just screened the guy perfectly and the ball took a wicked hop."

John, in posting his second complete game, induced Seattle into hitting 20 of its 27 outs on the ground.

Bobby Grich

That means in TJ's two outings, spanning 18 innings, 34 of the 54 outs recorded have been of the ground ball variety.

"I threw much easier than I did the last time out," agreed John, who beat Milwaukee, 4-3, in his first outing.

"I was really pumped up last time. This time I was more relaxed."

After the game Grich seemed more relaxed, too, as his 4-for-4 outing rocketed his average from .200 to .333. "So," said Grich humorously to no one in particular, "did I get a nomination for my performance?" Maybe next year, Bobby.

Maybe next year, Bobby.

ANGEL NOTES — Fell ended up going 12-for-3 with 4 RBI... Some interesting notes although still early in the season: Through eight days, spanning 72 games, only six complete games have been thrown in the American League. Bill Travers threw batting, practice yesterday as he continues his attempt to join the big cub. Also hurting a little BP was none other than Reggle Jackson, which brought about the obvious observation of who would draw the largest pitching salary if Jackson, the pitcher, was to meet Fernande Vetenswate? . Red Career made his first start in the field last night at first bees and schended his hitting streak to four games with a 1-tor-3 performance. ... Catcher Bob. At Golden West, Kyler gave up only a leadoff single in the seventh inning. With the win, Kyler runs her record to 18-2 on the season.

Golden West scored in the second inning when, after Shanna Moore got aboard on an error and was sacrificed to second, Liz Mason knocked her in for the only run. The Rustlers, now 8-1 in SCC (20-6 overall) played at Mt. San Antonio today.

cocaine sellers and alcoholics and burns," the elder Schlichter said. "He (Art Schlichter) is not a bum. He's 22 and he's made a bad mistake, and he'll pay for it for a long time, and his family will pay. But we were a family before and we'll be a family afterwards."

According to published accounts and law enforcement officials, the young Schlichter turned to the FBI after losing $389,000 gambling. According to court documents, four Baltimore-area men involved in the gambling operation threatened to tell the Colts because Schlichter could not cover his losses.

The four are charged with participating in a gambling conspiracy and will be arraigned this week in Columbus.

"You talk to somebody and you'll see how these guys work," Max Schlichter said. "You'll see how they get you for one little bit of action, and then they get you to raise the line, and then they say, 'Why don't you double up?' And before long, it's just like having a fish on a hook."

Schlichter said he could not disclose why his bets "because it might jeopardize him or the case or his standing in the NFL (National Football League).'

"I will talk about it afterwards. The thing I wish people would understand is the fear a young man might have in this position. When you've had the standing he's had and made the mistakes he's made and been threatened like he was He was man enough to stand up and tell."

Schlichter claims his son could have had the NC State won the NCAA championship last money to pay off the debts, "but other threats were made and he knew it was time to say, 'no.'

"I'm sorry that he's done this and he's sorry, but he's human. People around Columbus have never realized that," Schlichter said.

Playoffs hit snag

MONTREAL (AP) - The starting date for two National Hockey League playoff series was undecided yesterday as discussions continued between the league and the four clubs involved in

The two series with undetermined dates were the Adams Division final between the Boston Bruins and Buffalo Sabres and the Norris Division final pitting the Chicago Black Hawks against the Minnesota North Stars.

The Bruins and Black Hawks, the home team for the first two games of their respective series, were reported to be seeking a starting date other than Thursday night, which the league originally announced as the start of all second-round series.

The Patrick Division final between New York Islanders and New York Rangers and the Smythe Division final between Edmonton Oilers and Calgary Flames will start Thursday night.

Borg doesn't plan any comeback

LONDON (AP) -Bjorn Borg, who retired from the professional tennis circuit last week as one of the world's greatest players, said he enjoyed every minute of his career but ruled out a comeback.

"I had 10 wonderful years and have no regrets whatsoever," the 26-year-old Swede said in a British Broadcasting Corp. television

"I will still play tennis. It's been my life and I love the sport. But if I ever have that feeling I want to come back and start to feel itchy, I'll tell myself no," said Borg.

"I've been through 10 or 11 years and I know what has to be done to make a comeback. There's no way I could go out and put that much effort into tennis again."

Interviewed in his adopted home, the taxlenient principality of Monte Carolo, Borg said he now planned to try his hand at promotion and television commentary.

"I'm a very ambitious guy and like to set different goals," he said. "The important thing is knowing what the day holds in store. It's terrible to wake up without anything to do."

HOROSCOPE BY SIDNEY OMARR

Wednesday, April 13
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Reply received to inquiry concerning investment possibility, loan or special payment. Spotlight also on invitation to prestigious social affair. You'll be dealing with lively, creative, restless individuals, some of whom are likely to be Geminis and Sagittarians.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You'll be at right place at crucial moment. Individuals who previously opposed you will now express desire to cooperate. Focus on timing, intuition, judgment and circumstances which take sudden turn in your favor. Scorpio plays key role.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Aura of glamour permeates scenario — you'll be provided with privileged information and could be asked to join an exclusive club. Be ready for significant changes, a variety of experiences and relationship which intensifies. Sagittarian is in picture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You've asked for certain opportunities - now you receive them. Moon position highlights emotional fulfillment, popularity, ability to win friends and influence people. Gift received which aids in beautifying domestic surroundings. Remember sentimental anniversary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Orders from top could lack substance, are subject to change. Know it, keep options open and have alternatives available. Pisces, Virgo natives figure prominently. You'll receive encouragement from individual who works behind scenes, lends vocal support.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Good lunar aspect highlights travel, communication, knowledge of international customs. You'll have added responsibility, chance for increased rewards. Relationship grows stronger, you'll be more fulfilled and gain added recognition. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Finish rather than initiate project. Financial backing is required from more than one source. Study prospects of a limited partnership. Keep track of taxes, interest rates and valid deductions. Aries, Leo and another Libra figure prominently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Break from past indicated - new procedures are required. Focus also on possible partnerships, cooperative efforts and rapprochement with one who respresents opposition. Make concession to those close to you, including partner or mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21); First impressions likely to prove correct. Basic problems can be resolved. Emphasis on dependents, pets, employment. Sense of direction will be restored, family member will express desire to cooperate.

Aquarian figures prominently. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Social activities accelerate, significant changes occur and you are free from obligation which was not your own in first place. You'll be in touch with modern themes and youthful, vigorous people. Gemini, Sagittarius natives figure prominently.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Roadblock to progress is temporary; property dispute will be amicably settled. News received which encourages you to begin rebuilding process. Check safety procedures, get rid of hazards. Scorpio and another Aquarian figure in scenario.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Movement replaces inertia — response received to recent message, request. Short trip is part of scenario, could involve close relative. Member of opposite sex expresses feelings in creative manner, boosts your morale. Gemini plays key role.

Burglaries plague Laguna

Police stepping up patrols in northern part of city

By STEVE MITCHELL

Laguna Beach police are stepping up patrols — especially at the north end of town following a notable increase in home burglaries the past month.

There were 39 residential burglaries last month, said . Officer Tim Miller, adding total home burglaries in February totaled only 19.

Belongings taken in those burglaries, combined with four commercial break-ins during March, totaled $43,317, Miller

And, depending on whom you talk to within the police department, the sudden rash of home burglaries is blamed on one of two things:

- The possibility of a professional burglary team operating in Laguna, or — The lack of a Neighborhood Watch program in the area of Laguna hit most by burglars.

If one buys the theory of a professional team in town, Miller says, it's apparent they are working the north end of town, around Hillcrest Drive and Beverly Street.

He said the thieves are paying particular attention to homes that are either unlocked, or have windows that are easy to pry

And, he said, the burglary ring, if there is such a ring, is still in operation. "We had another two or three break-ins over the weekend,'

Miller said

He said the area most affected by burglars is a community that does not have an active Neighborhood Watch program.

LB musician played passionate WWII role

By STEVE MITCHELL Of the Daily Pilot Staff

To thousands of Orange Coast music lovers, the face is oh-so-familiar.

And it should be.

She's Frieda Belinfante, co-founder of the Orange County Philharmonic Society and founding conductor of the now-defunct Orange County Philharmonic Orchestra.

She has taught piano and cello to literally thousands of future musicians over the past three and a half decades in Orange County.

And, at age 78, she still teaches "a couple of dozen" youngsters, who schedule hour-long sessions with the classical musician at her studio overlooking the ocean in Laguna Beach.

But what most people don't know - even her most ardent admirers - is that Frieda Belinfante was a member of the Dutch underground during World War II.

The woman sitting at the piano softly playing a Beethoven sonata once altered thousands of identification cards to be used by Jewish fugitives fleeing occupied Holland.

That was just for starters.

In the years to follow, the then 36-year-old music teacher and conductor:

· Helped blow up a substantial portion of Amsterdam's City Hall. Helped find a hiding place for the father

Frieda Belinfante jumped into the resistance movement with both eyes wide open.

She and 19 other artists, musicians and curators formed their own resistance group. "We saw what was happening in Germany

— the taking of land belonging to Jews, the wearing of the yellow David Star," she said. "They were being written up for slaughter." Fearing the same fate for Holland's Jews, Frieda began making ID cards for fugitives shortly after the occupation. 'I asked (non-Jewish) friends to 'lose' their

When German inspectors began checking the bogus ID cards against records kept at City Hall, the band of arts professionals considered destroying the city's files.

"The former director of the museum and I came up with the idea," Belinfante recalls. "We had explosives hidden in the sand dunes, and a person in City Hall to tell us where

$30,000, manager gone from gas station

Huntington Beach police are searching for a local gas station manager who may have pocketed up to $30,000 in station receipts.

Detective Art Droz said police want to question Chookiat Banduwong, 41, who failed to show up for work yesterday at the Oasis Gas Station, 19492 Golden West St. Banduwong, who had been managing the station for several years, is a citizen of Thailand who has been living in Westminster, police said.

Droz said officials of Oasis Petroleum, based in Culver City discovered the loss after the manager failed to come to work yesterday. He said the missing money, which should have been deposited, was taken in by the station over a period of days early this month.

The police detective said no warrant has been issued for the missing manager's arrest. He said an audit must first be completed by the company.

Droz said officers are concerned that Banduwong may flee this country to return to Thailand, where his family still

Say goodbye to Mesa fountain

By KAREN E. KLEIN Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Pride and prose soared on the 1966 day construction began on the Costa Mesa Civic Center. Proclaiming the center "the most fantastic complex ever put together in Southern California," then-mayor Robert Wilson turned the first shovelful of earth for the 10-acre project. The complex, which cost $5 million, included a five-story City Hall and a two-story police headquarters. To put the finishing touch on the works, an extraordinary fountain and reflecting pool was designed.

Unfortunately, the complex

wasn't exactly the most fantastic to be put together in Southern California - and the fountain wasn't all it was billed to be, either

In fact, the fountain proved to be more trouble than delight for 15 years. And now, the City Council has voted to bulldoze the cracked concrete base of the fountain and put turf in its place.

The cost to the city for demolition, installation of turf, sidewalk, soil and other improvements to the area will be $18,575.

But that will be less than it costs to repair and maintain the costly, inefficient fountain, officials said, a fountain which has been filled with soap suds by pranksters and has flooded the basement of the police department.

The William J. Moran Company, an Alhambra-based contracting firm, didn't know in the mid-1960s that an upcoming energy crisis and then a water shortage would make elaborate fountains unpopular.

And city officials didn't know the pipes would leak, the drains wouldn't work, and the pool would be clogged with debris.

Newport nixes plan for housing tract

By STEVE MARBLE
Of the Daily Pilot Staff

Bombarded with complaints, Newport Beach City Council members rejected a plan last night that would have permitted the Irvine Co. to build 135 homes on two chunks of land in Corona del Mar.

The council said it would reconsider the development scheme this summer. The site is adjacent to the Oasis Senior Citizens Center on Marguerite Avenue.

"This is the last piece of turf in Corona del Mar that can be used as a park," protested Kent Moore, an area resident.

"For once it's time you put the developer on the back burner and listened to the residents," he added.

H. Ross Miller, a spokesman for Oasis, said he would like to see one piece of the land used as a senior citizen village. He told the council several builders are interested in leasing the land for senior housing.

There appears to be confusion from many different and varied sources," said Councilman Bill Agee suggesting more study was needed.

The Corona del Mar development was only one part of a massive general plan amendment that the council tentatively approved.

Other portions of the general plan include a six-story medical tower in Newport Center and up to 130 homes on a piece of land owned by Caltrans on West Coast Highway near Superior Avenue. The general plan also would permit continued residential development in Big Canyon.

Council members, in considering the Caltrans property, agreed that a five-acre park would be located on the 17-acre piece of land or the adjacent Banning Ranch. (See HOMES, Page A2)

Orange County Superior Court.
Huntington Beach resident Val
Norman Owen, accused of the strangulation murder of his girlfriend last August, and James O'Driscoll, accused of committing the first murder in Disneyland's history, are both charged with second-degree murder.

Owen's first trial ended in a three-way split in February, with six jurors reportedly favoring acquittal, three favoring a second-degree murder conviction and three others favoring a manslaughter conviction.

O'Driscoll's case ended last October with jurors deadlocked 11-1 in favor of a second-degree murder conviction.

Owen, 29, is accused of killing 20-year-old Suzette Adams, whose body was discovered Aug. 2 in a Huntington Beach park.

The two had been living together in an apartment near Oak View Park, where Adams' body was discovered. The discovery was made a day after the two allegedly had argued repeatedly.

reported its deadlock yesterday after more than four days of deliberation. Most jurors favored acquittal on 11 of the 16 charges against McDonald. They were split 6-6 on three others and favored conviction 7-5 on the remaining two.

McCartin set an April 21 date for Armbrust's new trial motion, but said he was leaning against granting the request, though he had not yet made a final decision. McCartin said the severe divisions in the jury vote helped him to lean in that direction. "We've tried this case twice. In view of the vote breakdown, I'm inclined to dismiss it. I just don't think it's in the cards to retry it,' he said

The trial judge can allow new trials indefinitely after a jury deadlocks, or, if he feels there is little chance of a decision, can dismiss the charges.

McDonald is charged with 15 counts of lewd and lascivious acts with a child under 14 and a single misdemeanor count of child annoyance. His first trial ended in a mistrial when a jury deadlocked in September. He remains free on bail

Prosecutors allege that McDonald sexually abused young female visitors to his Cape Cottage Lane home by fondling them, pressing them against his nude body, showing them pornographic films, placing their hands on his body and asking them to remove their clothes in numerous encounters over more than a year,

McDonald's attorney, Gary Pohlson, argued that children who testified against McDonald were lying and that there was insufficient evidence to convict

"I thought I was about an hour away from the parking lot all the time," he said. "Every minute I told myself that if I just got over the next hill, I'd be out."

A freezing night passed and Johnston set out Sunday following a trail of horses hoofs that eventually led nowhere. Twice during the day a search helicopter flew over without spotting him. He finally discarded the unusable contents of backpack, tied a red flannel sleeping bag liner to a bush as a signal, and traded his shredded jeans for a pair of woman's jeans he was now gaunt enough to wear. He lost 20 pounds during the ordeal.

Sunday night he huddled in a little cave, catching falling snow in his hat for moisture. Monday's wandering got him nowhere and another freezing night fell.

At 10 o'clock the next day a helicopter spotted Johnston. "When I saw them, it was the most wonderful feeling," he said.

"I never had any sensation of being scared or of giving up," he said. "I had faith in God, and I really believed I could conquer that mountain. But afterward, when I saw myself in the mirror at the hotel, I was shocked.

"You know what I'd really like to do," said Johnston after calls from well-wishers poured in, "I'd like to rent a big sign that says, 'Thank you, America. I'm fine.'

Challenger a boost to NASA

Once-radical concept proves craft of the future

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Two years ago space officials held their breath as they tested a radical concept that some thought impractical - a reusable shuttle. Now, with two of the ships in operation, NASA is boldly moving forward with plans to expand America's presence in space.

From launch to landing last week, Challenger, second in the shuttle fleet, performed with a precision that impressed the experts. The only blemish — a problem with the $100 million communications satellite - apparently had nothing to do with Challenger, but was caused by a faulty

"It was kind of a proof flight," said Gary Coen, a flight director. "We're proving that it works the way it was built to work.

In two years, NASA has come from having no proven shuttles to having two of the world's most advanced spacecraft.

When Columbia was poised for launch in April 1981, space agency experts still had a timid uncertainty about the wisdom of trying to fly a

Flights keep getting better

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — Early aviation feats astounded Bernard Waggoner, but after viewing the landing of the space shuttle Challenger the 96-year-old man says he no longer considers the sky the limit.

"It was great — just what I expected," said the retired carpenter, one of about 100,000 enthused spectators who braved throngs of traffic and wind-whipped clouds of dust to see Saturday's landing in the California desert.

He and his wife, Mary, 93, peered anxiously into the brilliant sky and then smiled as Challenger and its crew of four made a pinpoint touchdown at Edwards Air Force Base.

Earlier, Wagonner admitted: "I wouldn't mind

going myself. I think it would be great."
Wagonner was 16 when the Wright Brothers changed the world in 1903. He was 20 when he took his first plane ride — a heartstopping aerial tour of his Kansas farm — and he didn't fly again for more than half a century

"I didn't think it could happen," he said of Charles Lindgergh's 1927 transatlantic flight. "I didn't think you could possibly fly a plane that far."

The Waggoners, who live in Ventura, have followed the space program for years. They have toured the Kennedy Space Center at Florida's Cape Canaveral and watched most previous missions on

Mrs. Waggoner, who had 10 children during the couple's 74 years of marriage, noted that the United States has its first woman astronaut: Sally K. Ride, who is due to participate in Challenger's

Thousands of other spectators crowded behind a wooden fence on the east shore of the dry lake bed last Saturday to share in America's space program and gain their own small personal piece of history.

"I heard we would be a long way away and we were," said Jim Marek of Los Angeles. "But there is always the fear that it's not going to come down and in seeing it, it's like you are part of the success in a history-making event."

"We've been out here for each landing," said Marty Holyfield of Los Angeles. "You can't beat it. It's just for that fleeting few moments of glory for the U.S. It really puts us out front."

The landing held a special significance for Ray Vitols, 60, a naturalized U.S. citizen who works for the Navy at China Lake, Calif.

winged craft into and out of space. Aerodynamically and scientifically, there were unknowns that caused sleepless nights and gray

Now, after five flights by Columbia and one by Challenger the shuttle system has accomplished these important milestones:

 Proven the practicality of a reusable craft that can land like an airplane. That accomplishment will be enhanced even further on the seventh flight when Challenger lands on a limited concrete runway at the Kennedy Space Center.

 Proven a spacesuit design that is more flexible, more easily put on and less expensive. A pair of malfunctions in the fifth flight helped to iron our small design and application flaws and helped make possible the highly successful 3½-hour spacewalk by Story Musgrave and Donald Petereson. Astronauts say they now have full confidence in the new suits.

Proven the design and use of a robot arm that can be used to move large objects in space. The arm was tested on flights of Columbia and is ready for a major application, such as launching or recovering satellites.

- Proven the reliability and cost-effectiveness of using the shuttle to ferry satellites into orbit. The fifth flight successfully launched two satellites.

NASA officials are now looking ahead eagerly to their goals for the next six flights:
7: Three satellites will be launched and

America's first woman astronaut will fly in space. 8: The shuttle will be launched at night for the first time, on a mission that includes America's first black astronaut.

9: Six astronauts will be housed in Columbia for a week of science experiments in the Spacelab

10: Challenger will deploy a secret military cargo on flight.

12: A third shuttle, Discovery, will take its maiden voyage.

During a later mission, an astronaut flying in the ricket chair will cruise out to repair a broken satellite. And on Flight 25, a powerful space telescope — able to study vistas never before seen — will be launched by Challenger.

EPA's new chief gets good news

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's air is getting cleaner, but the Environmental Protection Agency is holding off on the bragging until its new administratior can release the news, according to a trade publication.

The weekly Air-Water Pollution Report, a trade newsletter, says EPA is waiting until William Ruckelshaus is confirmed as the agency's new administrator to release a study showing improvement in air

Ruckelshaus then will be allowed to announce the news, attributing part of the improvement to Reagan administration environmental policies, the publication says.

The study will show, however, that much of the most recent improvement resulted from the idling of factories during the economic recession.

President Reagan has nominated Ruckelshaus to succeed Anne M. Burford as EPA's chief, but the Senate has not yet voted on his confirmation.

EPA spokesman Chris Rice said, however, that the publication had obtained a draft copy of a report that was still undergoing agency review. He said Kathleen Bennett, assistant administrator for air pollution, had not yet reviewed the draft or approved it.

"There's no attempt to hold it for Ruckelshaus," Rice said, adding, "Coincidentally, he'll probably be on board when we me release it."

Rice said the annual report in ordinarily is released in late spring or early summer, and this hi year's report would follow that w schedule, with public release in ?# about two months. According to the trade of publication, the "National Air of Quality Emissions Trends Report, 1975-1981" concludes that air pollution has been substantially reduced over the last six years.

Marine dies after cycle accident

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) -Pvt. 1st Class Hardy E. Teas, 20, of Sunnyvale has died from injuries he received in a motorcycle accident last week at Camp Pendleton, a Marine spokeswoman reports.

Teas died Saturday at the Naval Regional Medical Center in San Diego after being in very critical condition with head and chest injuries since the April 4 accident, said Marine Sgt. Tracy Heuman.

She said the riders veered off a road into a ditch, but cause of the accident still was under investigation. The driver of the motorcycle, also a Marine, was treated and released for minor cuts and abrasions.

Reagan's jobless assist labeled 'grandstanding'

PITTSBURGH - Calling President Reagan's intervention on behalf of a jobless steelworker a 'grandstand play," a group is asking thousands of the unemployed to submit resumes for mass delivery to the White House.

"We want Ronnie Reagan to put up or shut up,"
Robert Warfield, organizer of "Resumes for Reagan,"
said yesterday. "We have to do it in a very public way.
Otherwise we don't have an impact."

Under the resume drive, launched by the Tri-State Conference on Steel, employment qualifications will be collected and given to the White House on Aug. 27 at a national rally for jobs.

"If the president is truly sincere, we think he should receive and act on the resumes of all Americans. We're going to see that he gets a bundle from western Pennsylvania," said the Rev. Garrett Dorsey, chairman of the Tri-State Conference, a nonprofit group working to save steelmaking in the industrial Monongahela River Valley.

Canada lowers gas export price

OTTAWA - The Canadian government has lowered its price for natural gas exports by 11 percent to $4.4 per 1,000 cubic feet, energy minister Jean Chretien announced yesterday. Some U.S. industry spokesmen, noting the price for domestic gas was about $2.50, complained that Canada's price cut was not big enough. Chretien said Canada will watch with particular interest proposals by U.S. pipeline companies to recenture industrial gas demand through companies to recapture industrial gas demand through incentive prices. However, he didn't announce volume discounts for Canadian gas as had been expected.
