County jobless figures increase

By JEFF ADLER

The number of jobless Orange County residents edged upward in November. But the unemployment rate remained steady at October's 5.2 percent level as people found jobs faster than they were lost last month.

The number of those without jobs rose by 300 during November, with 63,600 countians reporting they were out of work, according to monthly unemployment statistics released this morning by the state Employment Development Department.

Still, November's unemployment rate matched October's 5.2 percent, the lowest the rate has been in two years, according to Alta Yetter, a labor market analyst with the state agency.

She said the rate remained steady despite the slight increase in unemployed people because of the more rapid expansion of the job market. Temporary job seekers seeking work during the Christmas shopping season swelled both the ranks of the employed and the unemployed, she noted

The maid spoke only Spanish, but another motel maid said the woman stayed at work after being questioned by police and did not seem overly upset.

The second maid said she was originally scheduled to clean Room 113 but had passed it when she noticed that a window screen on the room had been slashed.

Police would not release any details of their investigation into the murder, but as late as 5 p.m. uesday investigators were still laboring in the disheveled motel room, dusting for fingerprints and attempting to gather any evidence (See SLAYING, Page A2)

Costa Mesa, home of the Orange County Fair, South Coast Repertory and the proposed Orange County Performing Arts Center, is happily establishing itself as a focal point for mainstream cultural events.

FV citizens, panel talk sludge tonight

Citizens Watch, the Fountain Valley group organized to monitor sludge disposal plans that may affect the city, will conduct an open meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Jordan family home, 10475 Egret

The session also has been designated as an official meeting of the Fountain Valley City Council to permit council members to participate in the gathering.

Citizens Watch was formed recently after residents learned the Sanitation Districts of Orange County, headquartered in Fountain Valley, were considering long-range sludge disposal projects that could be built in the city. Sludge is the semi-solid ma-

water is treated.

The City Council and Citizens Watch are opposing plans for mechanical composting (storing sludge in tall towers) and co-combustion (burning sludge with municipal garbage) at the Fountain Valley plant.

Ellery Deaton, a city planning commissioner who helped organize Citizens Watch, said tonight's meeting will cover recent disposal developments and residents will be assigned to attend future Sanitation Districts board meetings.

She also said the group will develop its strategy for testifying at an Environmental Protection Agency hearing focusing on sludge disposal next September.

Crowds that have swamped area shopping centers and malls during the Christmas season especially in the past two days seem to indicate retailers are experiencing the kind of holiday sales they had hoped to have.

Yetter said she was somewhat surprised the unemployment rate didn't edge upward slightly in November.

We were already low (compared to Los Angeles County and the statewide rates). I didn't expect us to go down, but maybe up a little," she said.

the labor analyst added.

Even so, the latest employment figures show county employment still is 25,700 jobs below the peak employment level registered in December 1981, Yetter said. But the current statistics are far better than they were a year ago, when an all-time high of 101,500 county residents said they were without work and the unemployment rate registered 8.3 percent.

Besides the retail industry, November job gains in the county were reported in service-related industries, such as amusement parks and hotels, as well as in public education, Yetter said.

The job outlook in Orange County for December and the first quarter of 1984 remains bright, she said. The job market should show continued improvement during the next several months, mirroring state and national economic forecasts, Yetter predicted.

If the employment outlook remains stable in December, Yetter said the unemployment rate for all of 1983 should register about 6.5 percent, a substantial improvement from the 7.2 percent annual rate posted in 1982.

While Orange County's unemployment rate remained at just over 5 percent in October and November, neighboring Los Angeles County experienced almost a full percentage point drop in its rate, from 8.7 to 7.8 percent.

The state's unemployment rate slid from 8.4 to 8.3 percent between October and November.

Newport Beach budget consistent in yearly increases

It doesn't matter what the inflation rate is, the city of Newport Beach is bound to increase its expenditures by 20 percent each year.

That is the conclusion of an analysis of the city's budgets since

"Regardless of how frugal we think we have been, we still, on the average increase our expenditures by that amount every year," said Newport City Manager Robert Wynn.

financial deficits by 1981 unless corrective action was taken by the city. This corrective action was taken and the current projections show a positive reserve through 1993-94," the study says.

"It raises a concern that we have to be aware of. We will face it when it is closer," Wynn said.

One factor that may help the city is historically, revenues have outpaced projections.

Revenues for the coming fiscal year are an estimated $21 million higher than long-term projections made in 1974. Expenditures for

Keeping a lid on the number of city employees is one way the city has reduced its expenditures.

Newport planners thought the city would have 733 employees during the 1983-84 year. In fact, the city will have 669, an 8.7 percent difference.

"That is really an effort to keep the line on expenditures. About 50 percent of the budget is in salaries and wages," Wynn said.

financial news and stock report is followed by a mysterious reference to the "morning fixing" or the "afternoon fixing" of the price of gold. What does this mean? The fixing is done daily at 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. by five men who sit at tables in London. They represent the five major gold builion houses: Rothchild's, Johnson Mathhey, Mocatta and Goldsmid, Montagu and Co., and Sharps Pixley. The five men sit at separate tables and talk by telephone with gold dealers from their companies. They stay on the phone until they find an approx-imate balance between orders to buy gold, and the supply of gold they have for sale. When that balance is reached, the price is set, or "fixed." Quite simply, it is the old law of supply and demand at work; the demand for gold and what people are willing to pay, balanced against the supply that is for sale. Every working day of the year, this supply and demand is brought into balance twice daily — and the gold price is fixed. The word goes out to gold markets each morning and afternoon, and the "fix" price is used in worldwide gold transactions. ance is reached, the price is set, or

Hit-run fatal haunts her for 45 years

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The memory of a speeding car striking a man on a dark country road haunted a woman for 45 years, and she finally confessed that her long-dead stepfather was the driver, police said.

Authorities would not identify the stepfather dead for 20 years - or the woman. But officers believe the fatal hit-and-run is solved, even though the evidence is circumstantial and there is no one to

On Feb. 27, 1938, Peter Pico, a 44-year-old ranch worker, was found dead on a rural road about 35 miles north of Santa Barbara.

He had been walking home about 3 a.m. when the hit-and-run driver struck. There were no skid marks, indicating the driver never slowed.

No evidence was found, and police eventually forgot the case. But a girl who was riding in the car remembered Last week, Santa Barbara police officer Skip Bond answered a phone call from a Los Angeles woman in her 50s. Her voice was sincere, and the story, though strange, was convincing. 'It sounded like it could have happened," Bond years earlier. She also remembered the distress of being told to keep quiet. Since the death occurred in an unincorporated area of Santa Barbara County, Bond referred the woman to Lorin McRae of the California Highway sleepless nights, tormented by the recurring vision of her stepfather's car striking an object in the road 45

She was 8 or 9 years old when it happened, the woman told McRae. She was riding in the car with her stepfather, her mother, brother and sister late one night Her stepfather was driving without a license, and had the headlights off to evade police. Suddenly, there was the sound of something

Her mother told the stepfather to stop because he'd hit a man. He refused, saying he'd get in trouble and go to jail. He insisted he struck a deer.

At home, her parents continued to argue. The stepfather said he could go to jail for driving without a license. Then he went outside and washed the car.

The next day, the girl heard that a man named Peter Pico had been killed the night before in a hit-and-run accident. Her stepfather told the family

The woman told him she'd spent two months of to forget what happened.

The next year her mother died, and the girl was sent to Los Angeles to live with her grandmother. The stepfather went his own way and died in 1963.

But the woman's flashbacks to the February night continued through the years. And last summer, after her grandmother died, they became much stronger and clearer, she told McRae.

McRae found Pico's death certificate, which said he'd been killed in a hit-and-run accident. He also found the man who investigated the case, Orville H. Ellis, a retired CHP officer, commander and Ellis remembered walking back and forth along the highway, searching for evidence, McRae said.

'As far as he can tell, the stuff I've got substantiates her story," McRae said. "It's surprising that everything fit together. It's all circumstantial, of course, and there can be no prosecution in it, but at least it's solved."

He does not know if there are any remaining survivors of Pico, but he knows the woman is resting more easily in Los Angeles.

'She told me that the day she called was the first time she'd had any sleep in two months," McRae said

Propane gas explosion kills 6, injures 43, levels block in Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - Firefighters combed the smoldering ruins of a residential neighborhood today for more victims of a propane gas explosion and fire that killed at least six people, injured 43 and leveled a city block, officials said.

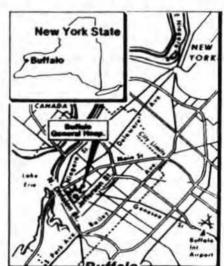

Five firemen and a resident were known dead in the blast at a warehouse Tuesday, and another fireman was missing, officials said.

Of 43 people taken to three hospitals with injuries ranging from severe burns to broken bones and cuts, five were listed in critical condition.

The blast hit around 8:30 p.m., just minutes after three fire trucks arrived in the neighborhood east of downtown to check a report of a propane leak around a bakery supply building and an adjacent four-story brick warehouse, Battalion Fire Chief Michael Angrisano said.

About 15 firefighters were searching the leak in and around the warehouse when the building exploded with two jarring blasts felt up to 15 miles away. The warehouse, bakery and several houses in the same block were demolished, and windows were broken half a mile away.

"I thought that a nuclear war had hit. I thought the Russians pulled one of them buttons," said Clinton Holloman, 56, a resident who heard the first fire trucks arriving and was leaving his house to see what was happening when the explosion knock-

15,400 steel job layoffs anger leaders of union

PITTSBURGH (AP) - U.S. Steel Corp.'s plan to do away with 15,400 jobs at 73 plants proves "the futility" of union concessions to save jobs, an angry labor leader said, but the company called its action "unavoidable."

David Roderick, chairman of the nation's biggest steelmaker, announced Tuesday that six plants in the Northeast will be closed, probably by April 1984, and others, including the big South Works near Chicago, will be mostly shut down.

The reductions will save U.S. Steel about $650 million in after-tax writeoffs and will likely boost earnings next year by $180 million to $200 million, Roderick said after the company's annual meeting. "Everybody must be competitive. And if any of us fail to do that, any facility is in jeopardy," Roderick said.

But some union members accused the company of betraying workers, especially after the United Steelworkers Union agreed to a package of givebacks in their latest contract in March.

"It just seemed to whet their appetite. It wasn't enough," said Jerry Guido, president of Local 2670 in Trenton, N.J.

Roderick said the cuts were prompted by high labor costs and by competition from Third World steelmakers, such as Brazil and South Korea. He called the reductions "unavoidable in light of global economic and market conditions." U.S. Steel lost $487 million in the first three quarters of this year.

The plants to be closed are Cuyahoga near Cleveland; Ambridge, Pa.; Johnstown, Pa.; Shiffler in Lawrenceville, Pa.; Elmira, N.Y.; and Trenton, N.J.

After the announcement, U.S. Steel stock rose five-eighths of a point to 29 1/2 in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange

The company had warned of the closings Dec. 7 and said then some jobs could be saved through cost-saving measures at individual plants.

But the union, having negotiated an estimated $3 billion worth of concessions over 31/2 years, accused steel companies of provoking "job wars" between individual locals and adopted a policy against any additional give-

Granny kills hubby

OAKLAND - A 70-year-old woman described as a "typical grandmother" has been charged with murdering her husband at the doorstep of a younger woman with whom police say he was having an affair. Creasie Woods was scheduled to enter a plea in Municipal Court today. She was freed on $5,000 bail after being arraigned Tuesday. Ben Woods, 72, her husband of 26 years, was killed with a bullet to the chest on Christmas night as he left an all-day party at the house of a neighbor with whom he had carried on a long-term affair, police said.

MADRID, Spain - The commission investigating the Dec. 7 collision of two Spanish airliners that killed 93 people at Madrid's Barajas airport has cited human error as the cause, the Diario 16 newspaper reported today. Diario 16 said the collision in heavy fog occurred when the pilot of the Aviaco DC-9, Augusto Almoguera, was trying to leave the takeoff strip he had entered by mistake and return to the taxiway without notifying the airport control tower.

KATMANDU, Nepal - A Colorado mountain climber has become the first American to complete a wintertime ascent of Pumori, one of the sister peaks of Mount Everest, Nepal's Ministry of Tourism said today. The ministry said Jeff Lowe, a 33-year-old mountain equipment designer from Louisville, Colo., scaled the 23,399-foot peak Dec. 18, using a southeastern approach. After the conquest of Pumori, he and his partner had planned to make an attempt on the nearby 25,764-foot Nuptse through an untried south face route. But Lowe reported that the climb was abandoned due to the illness of the other climber, Earl Wiggins, 26, of Boulder, Colo.

Hunger in U.S. not 'massive'

WASHINGTON (AP) - A draft report by a presidential commission concludes that while there are significant "pockets of hunger" in the United States, accounts depicting hunger as a widespread problem among the poor are exaggerated, the Washington Post said today.

"I don't think anyone in their right mind believes that there is a massive hunger problem," the newspaper quoted Dr. George G. Graham of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, a task force member, as saying. "There are malnourished children, God knows, but it is not a national problem."

The Post said that view is contained in the report, which is subject to final approval by the commission next month before being forwarded to President

The report also reportedly concludes that no one knows the true extent of hunger but suggests it may be a problem confined largely to homeless people who often decline offers of help, recent immigrants and to "newly poor" unemployed workers.

Further, the Post said, the study finds that administration budget cuts in food stamps and child nutrition programs have not increased hunger, that adequate assistance is available for the needy; and that there are no holes in the federal "safety net" for

The newspaper also said the task force reportedly is preparing a series of program recommendations that could substantially cut some federal food aid.

Andropov still fails to attend Soviet meeting

MOSCOW (AP) - President Yuri V. Andropov, ailing and out of public view for 132 days, missed another major Soviet function today as the national parliament convened for its winter session.

Andropov's repeated absence from ceremonies which, according to Soviet tradition and protocol, he should attend are thought to be unprecedented and suggested he is hospitalized with a serious illness.

Reports about Andropov's poor health, which have circulated since he took power 13 months ago and intensified when he was hospitalized last spring, were renewed when he missed the Nov. 5 Kremlin gathering and Nov. 7 Red Square parade marking the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The Kremlin insists Andropov is not seriously ill, but his absence from the important events including a Communist Party Central Committee meeting Monday and Tuesday - clearly indicates his condition is poor. He has reportedly undergone dialysis treatment for kidney problems.

During the Supreme Soviet session today, the Soviets announced a 1984 national budget of 365.7 billion rubles ($461.45 billion) - a 3.4 percent increase over 1983 - that included a token boost in defense spending for the first time in four years.

The Defense Ministry's budget was set at 17.054 billion rubles ($21.52 billion), or 4.66 percent of the total budget, compared with 17.05 billion rubles last year. Western defense experts, however, believe the Soviets spend nearly twice that much for defense, hiding costs in allocations to other ministries.

Israeli patrol, guerrillas clash

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Six bombs exploded in rapid succession in the Israeli-occupied port of Sidon overnight, and radio stations said today that six Lebanese civilians were wounded.

The state radio said the bombs went off in various neighborhoods of the south Lebanon city within 10 minutes around midnight. It said Israeli troops sealed off the areas where the explosions occurred and made several arrests.

Blast won't start pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon investiga-tion into the suicide bombing that killed 241 U.S. servicemen in Beirut said today there is an "urgent need" to review the entire U.S. military mission to see if "alternative means" can be found to achieve U.S. goals in Lebanon

The finding is likely to provide new ammunition for critics of the U.S. peacekeeping mission in the Mideast nation. President Reagan made clear Tuesday after reviewing the report that the future of Lebanon made it essential that the Marines stay in Beirut.

The board of inquiry also criticized flaws in security and the military chain of command, which it said opened the way to the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing.

It recommended that disciplinary action be considered against U.S. officers for permitting a terrorist to crash an explosives-laden truck into a building filled with sleeping Marines.

But Reagan also had rejected that conclusion in advance, saying he accepted full responsibility and did not want them punished.

The 1,400 Marines in Beirut are part of a four-nation peacekeeping force designed to shore up the government of President Amin Gemayel.

The five-member Pentagon board called for a "re-examination of alternative means of achieving U.S. objectives in Lebanon, to include a comprehensive assessment of the military security options being developed by the chain of command and a more vigorous and demanding approach to pursuing diplomatic alternatives.'

The panel, headed by retired Adm. Robert L.J. Long, did not spell out what alternatives it meant.

Contractor has different view of HB Center flap

Regarding your article on the Huntington Beach Senior Citizens Center, I would like to set the record straight. By giving the true facts of why the project is lagging. First, the job was given a standard completion schedule of 120 calendar days. The contract has been extended to allow for rain delays. Delays in construction due to the unforeseen problems by the contractor which could not be known prior to bidding or construction of the building. They were inherent problems in the existing structure and because of that, problems with correlating the plans with the building.

Some of the major problems encountered during construction are as follows.

During demolition of the project extensive dry rot and termite damage was found, which carefully had to be removed and repaired afer weeks of consulting with the architects, architectural firms engineer, and then approval by the city. The redesign of the building because of the sewer line that was not considered in the original design of the building.

The two wings of the building are being tied together. But had to be redesigned because the building had settled and there was now two different floor elevations.

The architectural plans (framing plan) were different than the structural steel plans, therefore, when both were constructed they did not match and had to be redesigned and rebuilt. These are but a few of the problems encountered. We have had over 100 requests for clarifications, asking how to proceed where the actual site conditions differed from the plans and specifications, including over $20,000 plus, in change orders for additional work.

Why is it that the contractor is always the scapegoat for the problems in a project? They are blamed for the rain, weather and pre-existing problems with the building, problems with the plans and specifications, the impact of owner requested change orders on the completion schedules, change orders required by the inherent problems with the building itself, and the time to confer with the architects and city representatives to make a decision on how to resolve the problems correctly.

Your statement that the city officials are frustrated and are losing their patience. What about the contractor trying to work with plans that did not and could not reflect the problems of an old existing building, with the additional costs to the contractor, after all we do not get paid by how long the job lasts, but by the job.

The 1,400 or so members of the Huntington Beach Senior Citizens Center and the city officials should have been better educated to the problems of remodeling an old existing building prior to deciding to remodel, with current updates as the "real" reason why the project has taken so long to complete. One need only ask someone who has had their house remodeled, or a room addition built to understand and

I believe that a good community paper's purpose is to educate and inform the public by thorough research of an issue, obtain both sides before issuing an opinion, "without a sarcastic tone," unless it editorialize's its articles.

With our approved time extensions and our submitted requested extensions of time for the additional problems, we are scheduled for completion by March 1, 1984. We are obviously hesitant to commit to any completion date due to the continued unforeseen problems we keep encountering "not the fault of this contractor." Delays, problems should accepted prior to deciding to remodel an old existing building.

War souvenirs can prove fatal

WASHINGTON - This season is an appropriate time to give yourself and your loved ones the greatest gift of all - life itself by asking your police department or nearest military base to check out any war souvenirs you may have in your home.

An astonishing number of supposed "duds" or practice rounds are actually explosive enough to kill you, your children and your neighbors.

This warning comes from the heart. My associate Dale Van Atta, his wife and two children lived in mortal danger for several months without knowing it. A cluster bomblet he brought back from Lebanon last year and stashed on a shelf in his garage turned out not to have been defused as he had

The little bomb was given to my associate by Palestine Liberation as evidence that the Israelis were using American-made cluster bombs. Arafat obviously thought the bomb had been defused, and

Israeli military officers later gave it a cursory check and let it pass.

Months later, at the urging of a thoughtful Pentagon officer, Lt. Col. Mark Foutch, my associate belatedly called the 57th Ordnance Detachment at Fort Belvoir, Va., to have the device checked out. The two Army experts who took the bomb away to detonate on a firing range said: "You're lucky to be alive.

Others have not been so lucky. Unexploded ordnance from World War II, Korea and Vietnam even from World War I and the Civil War - is still capable of detonating with tragic results. Consider these examples from Army files:

Earlier this month, two 8-year-old boys in San Diego were killed by the explosion of a World

Slow start for health 'revolution'

By THOMAS ELIAS

verge of going broke 18 months ago, state officials set up a unique sustem designed to save billions of dollars in Medi-Cal costs by forcing hospitals into a competitive bidding situation.

Then, to prevent hospitals from upping their rates for middle- and upper-class patients to make up for their losses on welfare recipients, the state allowed doctors and hospitals to form new "preferred provider organizations" to bid for the business of labor unions, corporations and private families.

All this was billed as "a revolution in health care delivery," but so far it's been a bit slow in arriving, at least for folks not eligible for Medi-Cal.

But a revolution it will still be, according to both doctors and the insurance industry.

More than 100 preferred provider organizations, known as "PPOs" have been formed so far in California and one former president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association predicts that within five years, 90 percent of California doctors will belong to at least one PP0.

When California was on the CALIFORNIA FOCUS

And Blue Cross of California, which will have just 50,000 persons in its PPO next month, says it expects to be covering 1 million a year from now. More than 8,500 of the state's 30,000 physicians and 110 hospitals are already signed

The aim: To cut costs for consumers and their employers, who often provide health insurance as a fringe benefit.

Costs are cut by offering patients a little less choice. Members of a PPO get total coverage, without the 20 percent deductible charged by most policies, as long as they use only doctors and hospitals certified by the PPO. When they go outside, the deductible may be higher than 20 percent in some cases.

But the reduced choice also produces lower premiums — about 15 percent less than conventional policies for Blue Cross.

The reductions are possible because PPOs insist that doctors and hospitals lower their rates when they join. Blue Cross reports its member hospitals have reduced charges an average 23 percent for PPO members. And doctors who formerly charged $1,824 for removal of a gall bladder get only $1,148 from the Blue Cross PPO. Both doctors and hospitals expect to make up for their price reductions by eventually treating many more patients.

The meaning of all this is simple: Competition has finally arrived in the medical marketplace, where California has a surplus of both doctors and hospi-

California's almost 500 general care hospitals typically fill just 60 percent of their beds each night, so they are willing to bargain in order to get higher occupancy and more total revenue. And California doctors are also feeling some pressure to compete, after a decade of being able to charge almost whatever they wanted.

The state has one physician for every 440 residents, compared with one for 553 persons nationally, a doctor surplus that's widely acknowledged

But even with lower prices and complete coverage, don't expect PPOs to monopolize health care soon. Analysts say many patients will stick with the old "fee-for-service" plans because they will want to retain complete freedom of choice, while others will want the security and one-stop care of pre-paid health maintenance plans.

But no medical analysts doubt the Blue Cross forecast which says PPOs will have a major share of the California market soon. Nor do they doubt that this state will serve a a model for others.

Said one Oakland hospital administrator, "Within 10 years, 90 percent of all hospitals in this state will be aligned in some manner in five or six systems that will compete with each other. Future medical care will look a lot different than what we see today.

The fewer friends the better

There is a popular saying, "You can't have too many friends," but I have never been persuaded of its truth or validity. It has long been my conviction that nobody has more than a handful of friends, that you are lucky if you have those, and the rest don't matter

Friendship is not something that one can spread around, for what it gains in quantity, it loses in quality. Promiscuity in friendship is as devaluating as promiscuity in sexual relationships -- the more you distribute it, the less you have to give to any one person. This, of course, may just be my own temperament: I make friends slowly, but once made, never lose them. I do not tend to call "acquaintances" friends, as so many politicians and public fig-ures do, who then find that their circle has shrunken woefully when they fall out of favor or office or popularity.

Nor have I found over the years that real friendship is a matter of common tastes or opinions; rather, it is a kind of chemistry of personality that surmounts these differences of background and beliefs. One of my dearest friends, who died only this year, was a man who disagreed with me completely on almost every issue; yet I enjoyed his company, had the highest regard for his character, and would have trusted him with my life.

"Everybody's friend is no-body's," warned Schopenhauer, and I remain wary of men and women who slide too easily into personal confidences, who assume intimacies before they have been willing to serve a probationary period of tactful reserve. Each of us has a core that is not to be invaded without express or tacit permission; nor is this permission to be lightly granted, and then just as abruptly withdrawn. People who make friends promiscuously remind me of Talleyrand's wickedly witty comment about Mme. de Stael: "She is such a good friend that she would throw all her acquaintances into the water for the pleasure of fishing them out."

There is a mystery at the heart of friendship, transcending all the categories of taste and background.

Some last-minute ways to slash 1983 tax liability

By DAN JAMIESON Daily Pilot Correspondent

Investors facing large tax bills can still take steps to reduce their 1983 tax liability — even with just a few days left in the year.

Possible 11th hour tax strategies include "bond swapping," prepayment of 1983 state taxes, use of short sales or stock "puts" to delay capital gains and making a full contribution to an IRA account.

Except for the IRA deduction, all these transactions must be accomplished on or before Dec. 31 (the last business day in 1983 will be Friday, Dec.

The "bond swap" is a very popular year-end tax strategy if investors have depreciated bond holdings, said Dave Parker, president of FISER Financial Services in Orange, a municipal bond firm.

The loss on the initial bond sale can be used to reduce 1983 taxes, Parker said. Proceeds from the sale can then be used to simultaneously purchase a new set of similar bonds.

Investors can liquidate their bond holdings until Dec. 31, take a loss on the sale, and then re-invest their proceeds in similar securites and not have an significant change in their portfolio," Parker

To qualify as a tax write-off, the purchaser must re-invest in bonds with different coupon rates, issuers and different maturity dates. Two of the three factors must differ, Parker said.

'Let's say you sold some San Francisco municipal bonds with a coupon rate of 8 percent and maturing in 1999, took a loss on that sale, and re-invested in 8 percent bonds issued by Los Angeles and maturing in the year 2000," Parker said.

the IRS) since two of the three features are different, yet you've essentially maintained your portfolio, and in this case possibly upgraded it."

Swapping is possible even at this late date, even though bond prices have risen due to swapping activity

"You can still arrange a loss on bond holdings in December, but you'll have to pay more to get similar bonds into your portfolio," Parker said. "The activity level in the bond markets has just soared recently."

Another last minute tax planning move is to: prepay state taxes before year end, thereby, deducting 1983 state taxes from 1983 federal taxes, said Merilyn Steeler of Kenneth Leventhal & Co., a Newport Beach accounting firm.

'If a person doesn't have significant long-term' capital gains, they can prepay their 1983 state taxes and deduct that from their 1983 federal tax return rather than waiting until 1984 when the federal rates will be lower," Steele said.

Since delaying tax payments until next year is considered good strategy - not procrastination investors often do anything they can to pay taxes in 1984 instead of 1983

If an individual has a potential capital gain at the end of the year from a stock price appreciation, and, they want to take that gain, said Steele, they can sell an equivalent number of shares short or purchase a "put" option. Either action will help guarantee the gain and hold it until next year.

For the same reasons, Steele recommends saving That loss can be preserved (as a write-off with the final close of a property sale until 1984, making any gain taxable on 1984's return.

One final investment with tax advantage is the IRA account, available to taxpayers until their 1983. return is filed. The maximum $2,000 yearly contribution is deducted off "adjusted gross income" on the tax return.

Burned in the past by high interest rates and a fickle economy, home builders cautious about the possibility of a housing boom in 1984.

Housing construction boom? Builders in California cautious

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Wary of being stuck with too many unsold homes, California builders are taking a cautious approach to the possibility of a new housing construction boom.

"We would rather be cautious and not make as much money than take the gamble and lose big by building too many houses," said Nathan Shapell, who heads one of California's largest home construction firms.

Shapell Industries Inc. plans to take some risk and build "several hundred homes," Shapell said, "But we're not going to build several thousand.

Builders know there is pent-up demand for housing by young people 25 to 35 years old who have been waiting through years of inflation and high interest rates for the right time to build new houses or buy existing ones.

Shapell recalled that in 1982 he had eager potential buyers for 700 new homes. But when interest rates soared to 18 percent, monthly payments rose so much that many prospective buyers cancelled their purchase agreements. That left his company with a backlog of homes he's still trying to sell.

In recent years, the biggest problem for would-be home buyers has been earning enough to make high monthly payments. Although interest rates have fallen to about 12 percent from an average 14.2 percent in 1982, home prices have remained about the same in the past year.

If interest rates stabilize or drop builders still are worried that a brisk housing recovery would push up costs for labor and materials - both in short supply

Many skilled workers left the industry during the extended slump. Since 1980, for example, active membership in the Los Angeles County District Council of Carpenters has fallen from 21,000 to 17,500.

November home resales boosted

WASHINGTON - Declining mortgage rates boosted resales of single-family homes 0.8 percent in November from the previous month and 22.3 percent above the year-ago level, according to a real estate group. The National Association of Realtors said Tuesday that home sales were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.63 million units in November. compared with 2.61 million the previous month, when sales had fallen slightly.

Citrus growers expect losses

MIAMI - Florida citrus fruit growers say they do not expect prices for orange juice to rise despite the recent cold wave that has wreaked havoc on the orange crop. But farmers say the prices of vegetables are bound to rise. After two days of freezing weather, citrus growers in Florida and Texas said Tuesday that they expected some losses.

Economic recovery 'broadening'

NEW YORK - The auto, steel and chemical industries will enjoy higher profitability in 1984 as the economic recovery, sparked by consumer spending in 1983, broadens its base in most major industry groups, Standard & Poor's Corp. predicts.

In its annual survey of eight bellwether industries, Standard & Poor's forecast Tuesday that 1984 will bring "surging profit growth" in the airline, auto, chemical and steel industries and "substantial though less dramatic gains" in other industries such as coal, industrial electronics and oil.

Citgo rescinds oil price cut

NEW YORK — Citgo Petroleum Corp. has rescinded a previously announced $1.50-a-barrel reduction in the price it pays for oil, after other U.S. companies failed to follow its lead. Citgo, a subsidiary of Southland Corp. and a relatively small oil refiner, said Tuesday it would not go ahead with the cut

Dollar retreats; gold steady

LONDON - The dollar opened lower today, but recovered some of its lost ground by midmorning in listless trading. The price of gold was little changed. Dealers said trading was extremely light, typical of the week between Christmas and New Year's Day.

Barons bounce back

But Vikings still in reverse after 32-point loss

Fountain Valley High's Barons returned to their winning form as expected Tuesday night in closing out the first round of the Orange Holiday Classic at Chapman College — snapping a four-game losing streak in the process.

Lakers regroup LA didn't want to get blown out again

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It was the National Basketball Association's version of leaping from the frying pan into the fire. But Jamaal Wilkes says the Los Angeles Lakers

Two days after suffering one of their worst defeats of the season, a 141-121 drubbing in Portland, the Lakers were up against the Denver Nuggets, the NBA's highest scor-

were in no mood to be burned

We had gotten blown out up there (in Portland) so we wanted to come back strong tonight. Having heard before the game that Portland had gotten beat gave us a lot of incentive to win," Wilkes said after the Lakers slipped past Denver 118-116 Tuesday night.

Wilkes' six-foot jumper with five seconds left enabled Los Angeles to reclaim first place in the NBA's Pacific Division by a scant percentage point, .678 to .677. Portland was routed in Detroit, 140-100.

Denver had wiped out a 17-point Laker third-quarter lead, deadlocking the score at 116 with 1:11 left on Kiki Vandeweghe's short jumper and a freethrow

Wilkes' winning basket came a few seconds after he had been called for an offensive charge, giving Denver an opportunity to go ahead.

Raiders' Hayes has 1980 look

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It was three years ago that Lester Hayes of the then-Oakland Raiders had one of the finest seasons by a defensive back in National Football League history

Hayes intercepted 13 passes during the regular season and five more in four playoff games, helping the Raiders earn a wild-card berth in the post-season competition and, eventually, a victory in Super Bowl XV.

A lot has happened to Lester Hayes since then. Not all of it has been positive. However, as evidenced by his second-team All-Pro selection this season and the fact that he will start for the AFC in the Pro Bowl, things are going pretty good.

Perhaps the most memorable thing about Hayes' 1980 season was his appearance. He covered himself with a gooey, glue-like substance called stickum, and his well-coated image was seen countless times on television sets throughout the country during the playoffs and Super Bowl.

Then came what Hayes now calls "post-Super Bowlitis," when he decided, "I was invincible, the Six-Million Dollar Man, God's gift to cornerbacks.'

After that, Hayes nearly ate himself out of his place among the NFL's best cornerbacks. During the off-season, he added 32 pounds to his 6-0 frame, ballooning to 238 pounds. He played the 1981 season at 230 pounds and had only three interceptions.

He rededicated himself after that campaign and played at 204 pounds during the strike-shortened 1982 season.

Robinson is enjoying the distractions

John Robinson, the head keeper at Rams Park, includes among the inmates the gentlemen of the working press.

"A couple of days before the Dallas game," Robinson says, "everybody in camp was 'up' except the writers. They were laying around the press room half asleep most of the time so I thought I would do something to wake them up.

"I slipped into the press room and wrote something on the blackboard.

What the coach wrote was: "NFC wild card: Rams 24, Cowboys 21.1

Of course, Robinson overestimated his opposition for the playoff game in Dallas. The Cowboys got only 17 points.

Unhappily, Robinson is suddenly wearing a vest and holding his cards close to it. He resembles a crap shooter who makes a couple of passes and pinches at the line.

Asked to write the score of Sunday's Rams-Washington game on the blackboard, Robinson runs whimpering into the underbrush.

"Once is enough," he says. "It serves my purpose.

Indeed it did. The authors are no longer slumbering in their lavish quarters at Rams Park. Quite the opposite. They're sitting up, aware, and asking questions. One of the things they want to know is how Robinson is holding the attention span of his players who had to concentrate and apply themselves for 60 minutes against America's team, a game in which they were underdogs by nine points. It is not something a coach can write on a blackboard.

"Certainly not," Robinson says, "but neither is it as complicated as you might think. I don't have to spend time making this team believe it can beat Washington. These guys are already convinced of that just as they were positive they could beat

"Once you are operating on that level of attitude, the preparations become pretty basic football.

Another question concerns the weather. It was cold in Dallas but it was the same temperature on both sides of the line of scrimmage and the conditions were JFK Stadium in Washington, however, may present a different set of circumstances. The field is marshy and will be acceptable if frozen but undesirable in the event of a sudden thaw. Of course, that part of the nation is gripped in its most memorable Arctic freeze in 50 years.

Edison is hot on a cold night

But Newport falls to undefeated Reed in Carson City opener

Special to the Daily Pilot

CARSON CITY, Nev. - Edison High survived a late plane trip, the cold and high altitude Tuesday to pull out a 65-50 victory over Reno High in the opening round of the Carson City Basketball Classic.

Likewise, Newport Harbor, on another plane, also was a late arriver for the tourney, and Coach Jerry DeBusk's Sailors dropped a 58-52 decision to undefeated Reed High of Nevada.

Rodney Johnson scored 25 points, including 21 in the second half, and Kenny Wiles added 17 as the Chargers survived their tardiness with an opening-round win. The Chargers, coming off a big 76-55 victory over Capistrano Valley, battled back from a 29-25 halftime deficit to pick up the victory. Edison will meet Bellarmine High of San Jose tonight in the championship semifinals.

The Chargers arrived just a few hours before game time and had to go straight to the tournament rather than check in at the hotel.

Newport Harbor, meanwhile, stayed close to undefeated Reed and, in fact, took a 51-50 advantage with less than 21/43 minutes remaining in the game before Reed sealed the decision with some late free

The Sailors used a balanced scoring attack as Dean Sorensen had 15 points, Chuck McGavran added 11 and Alan Fraser scored 10.

"We played pretty decent," noted DeBusk. "We were at 4,000 feet and I think our guys really felt it. They were asking for a breather.'

The Sailors fell behind 9-1 at the outset and spent the rest of the contest trying to battle back. Newport Harbor will meet Douglas High of Johnson added six rebounds for the Chargers, Nevada this evening in the consolation bracket.

Rams bring back memories of 1979

From AP dispatches

(See TUCKER, Page B3)

In the surprise story of the 1979 National Football League season, quarterback Vince Ferragamo led the upstart Rams through the playoffs and into the club's first Super Bowl appearance

Are Ferragamo and the Rams up to their old tricks?

More on the subject will be forthcoming Sunday, when the upstart Rams, 1983 version, face the National Football League's reigning kings, the Washington Redskins.

Thus far, this year's Rams are bearing a suspicious resemblance to their team of four years ago. Like that club, they finished the season with a 9-7 record. And, too, they opened the playoffs by upsetting the Dallas Cowboys.

The 1979 Rams went on to beat Tampa Bay in the NFC title game, then played a respectable game in a 31-19 Super Bowl loss to powerful Pittsburgh.

Different this time, of course, is the fact that Washington lurks in the middle of the path to the Super Bowl. The Redskins had the NFL's best record this year, 14-2, and thumped the Rams 42-20 just last month.

Ferragamo, however, had a hand injury that limited his passing efficiency in that regular-season meeting with the Redskins.

The injury - a tear in the webbing between the ring finger and little finger on his right hand suffered more than a month ago - has healed to the extent that Ferragamo could throw three touchdown passes in Monday's 24-17 victory in Dallas. Despite the icy cold, he completed 15 of 30 passes for 162 yards and was not intercepted.

"Vince was like his old self," said Rams center Doug Smith. "He's what you'd call a playoff quarterback. He comes off in the huddle cool as a cucumber.'

Coach John Robinson, in his first year at the Rams' helm, couldn't compare Ferragamo's performance to his play in 1979, but the coach did say of his outing against the Cowboys: "Vinnie was great."

Baldi returns at right time; Warriors hold on, 41-40

By RICHARD DUNN

Woodbridge High School's 7-1 start this season, its best ever, is primarily due to 6-9 center Marco Baldi, who dominates the boards, is devastating underneath the basket on offense, and, for the most part, completely intimidates the opposition with his size

And Tuesday's first round basketball game with Hacienda Heights Wilson in the Brea Tournament proved Baldi's worth in the Warriors' 41-40 victory over the Wildcats at Brea-Olinda High.

Missing throughout most of the fourth quarter because of foul trouble, Baldi stepped in with 3:44 left and the game tied at 38 to single-handedly dispose of Wilson with a game-winning blocked shot with one second left.

Baldi, a junior, tied with teammate Mark Foringer for scoring honors with 15, grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds, sank 4 of 5 free throws and blocked two shots to lead Woodbridge to its win over Wilson. With 0:19 left in the third quarter, Baldi committed his fourth foul and Woodbridge Coach Bill Shannon had no choice than to sit his prize center. But, the question was, for how long could he get away with it? The Warriors started the fourth quarter without Baldi, and the Wildcats quickly took advantage.

Opening the quarter down 37-32, Wilson poured in two quick field goals, and Shannon had to settle for Plan B. That meant a four-corner stall -Woodbridge executed poorly - turning the ball over twice. But fortunately for Woodbridge, Wilson couldn't capitalize.

"I thought the three-minute mark was a good time to put Baldi back in," said Shannon. "That is, if we were ahead (and could afford to play without him), and we

Tom Tobiason sank a pair of free throws with 3:02 left in the game to give the Warriors a 40-38 lead, and Foringer netted one with 0:35 left to nearly ice it.

But the credit indirectly goes to Baldi, who froze the Wildcats' offensive attack in the final three minutes. Although Woodbridge was outscored by Wilson in the fourth quarter, 8-4, and in the second half, 20-11, the Warriors managed to hang on and move into the winner's bracket today at 4:45 against Sonora, which knocked off Schurr, 63-54. "To be honest, I feel fortunate to get out of here — we were lucky," said Shannon. "We ran some things we hadn't done before, just kind of experimenting." Shannon proved he may not be the best experimentalist because of the Warriors' lapse in the third quarter, but he did prove that his Warriors can compete against a respectable team without Baldi.

Top-seeded Seahawks blast foes for 12 goals

Top-seeded Ocean View High blasted two opponents for 12 goals while the Seahawk goalkeepers lounged through two shutouts Tuesday to highlight action in the sixth annual Huntington Beach High boys' soccer tournament.

Coach Paul Kollar's Seahawks, who had already won the prestigious South Torrance Tournament, opened play Tuesday with an 8-0 whipping of Santiago and a 4-0 thumping of Mater Dei.

The two triumphs propelled Ocean View into today's championship second round with a 10-0-1 record, with the lone blemish a 0-0 non-league tie

Maury Wills arrested for stealing car, cocaine possession

From AP dispatches

LOS ANGELES - Maury Wills, a longtime star shortstop for the Los Angeles Dodgers and former manager of the Seattle Mariners, was arrested in a stolen car Tuesday for investigation of grand theft auto,

Officers said they found a small quantity of what appeared to be cocaine on the front seat beside Wills. Wills, 51, was booked at the Southeast Division station and the white substance which was field-tested postive as cocaine was seized, said Capt. John Sparkenbach, the station area commander.

Wills, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1962 when he stole a then-major league record 104 WILLS bases, said he lives in nearby Playa del Rey and is self-employed. He was freed on $1,500 bail and is scheduled to appear in court in Compton on Jan. 6, Sparkenbach said.

Sparkenbach said officers Susan Smith and Dan Gardner spotted a broken window on an Audi 4000 headed northbound in the rain on the Harbor Freeway near El Segundo Boulevard at 5 a.m.

"A broken window in a newer-model car might indicate it was stolen," said Sparkenbach. 'So the officers ran the license plate and our computer system said it was stolen from (nearby) Lakewood.

"After the stop, the officers observed in plain view a six-inch glass vial with a white substance. It was field-tested positive for cocaine. We'll have to have a lab test on it, also," Sparkenbach said.

'Additionally, they observed a clear-glass water-type pipe. That's commonly used in using cocaine

Sparkenbach said the test-tube vial and the white substance together weighed 20 grams.

The Redskins had considered packing their bags and moving to Blacksburg, Va., for the rest of the week to escape the sub-freezing temperatures in the Washington area and practice on an indoor Astroturf field on the campus of Virginia Tech.

Despite a five-day forecast that includes freezing rain and temperatures ranging from the 20s to the low 40s, the coaching staff opted to stay at home Tuesday morning.

No holiday for Uni, Irvine

Trojans and Vaqueros stumble at Canyon tournament

By RICHARD DUNN

It wasn't a good day for area teams competing in the Canyon Tournament Tuesday, as University and Irvine high schools both suffered defeats in first

University could only manage 15 first-half points in its loss to Cypress (44-41), and Irvine, despite Lance Neal's 25 points, was bounced by Los Amigos,

Here's how it went Tuesday:

Cypress 44, University 41

The Trojans must have left their holiday spirit in the locker room, or forgot to empty their Christmas stockings because they simply didn't come to play.

Cypress took it to the Trojans from the start, a game which it never trailed, and breezed through the first half, 25-15, with a unit that has won only three times this season in six starts.

University (2-5) used 8 of Sid Venkatesh's 9 points in the second half to spark its comeback (Venkatesh also grabbed 8 rebounds in the half), but Cypress simply had too much.

University came within eight at the end of the third quarter (33-25) after it had outscored Cypress, 10-8, and used an opening fourth quarter bucket by Graham Everett to drop the deficit to six

But Cypress took advantage of 10 second half fouls in the fourth quarter as it rang up 8 of its 11 fourth-quarter points at the free throw line.

'We've lost so many close games - I can't believe it. Our players are playing hard — there's not much else we can do," said Trojan Coach Steve Scoggin. "They're all close losses and they all count on the other side of the lake."

PREPS

"We keep doing things like throwing passes away," Scoggin said. "You have to beat people when they're playing well, so you can become a better team. We didn't shoot well in the first half, 5-35 (from the floor) - that's ridiculous

"We always come back, but just enough to lose sometimes. We have to find a way to win close games; until you do, you're not going to win many games."

Los Amigos 76, Irvine 69

Irvine (5-4) was forced to change the tempo of its game to a much faster pace to keep up with Los Amigos, which used 44 second-half points to prevail, led by Steve Hutson's 20 in that span to net 30 in all.

Irvine moves into the consolation bracket, along with University, today at 4:30 against Esperanza, which lost to host Canyon, 62-44. University plays at 3 today against Bolsa Grande, which lost to Santa

Jeff Bielman hit on one of his many outside jumpers to end the first quarter and put the Vaqueros ahead, 18-16, but it wasn't to remain, as the Lobos shot 51 percent in the first half and took a 32-26 lead

Bielman, who scored 20 points and led all rebounders with 10, sank two consecutive field goals opening up matters in the third quarter to lower the Lobos' lead to 34-30, but Los Amigos, with its run-and-gun type of offense, quickly turned the table by pouring in 9 of the game's next 11 points (6 straight) to take a commanding lead.

We had to pick up the tempo because we were down," said Vaquero Coach Al Herring.

Hurricane hits and Waves fall Tulsa sets record in win over Pepperdine; No. 1 Tar Heels roll

From AP dispatches

TULSA — Tulsa's Steve Harris, Herb Johnson COLLEGES and Bruce Vanley had 21 points each in a record-setting 102-70 non-conference basketball win over Pepperdine Tuesday night.

The Hurricane, 9-0, set a school record for their best start in a basketball season. Tulsa also set school records with 22 steals in the game and 11 blocked shots. Harris had eight of the steals, another school

Ahead by two points with 12:24 remaining in the first half, Tulsa upped its lead to eight points with 9:23 before intermission and then pulled ahead with a 24-12 spree over the next nine minutes.

Ocean View survives; Edison, Mater Dei, Vikes, Barons romp

Ocean View High along with co-hosts Edison and Marina, as well as Mater Dei and Fountain Valley recorded victories Tuesday in the opening round of the Marina-Edison girls' basketball tournament, and it was an especially difficult task for the Seahawks of Coach Kelly Painter.

"They've been refinishing the basketball floor at the school and we haven't been able to practice for five days," lamented Painter. 'We hadn't picked up a basketball for awhile and it showed." Still, Ocean View managed to hold on to nip Loara, while Edison breezed past Savanna and Mater Dei overwhelmed Cypress. Meanwhile, Costa Mesa had no trouble with Garden Grove in the opener of its own tournament.

Here's what took place:

Ocean View 45, Loara 43 Senior Karen Chase scored 17 points before fouling out as the rusty Seahawks won their opener over a determined Loara squad. Ocean View, now 9-2, won it the hard way, battling back from a 10-5 first-quarter deficit. Laura Simek added eight rebounds to go along with her nine points for Ocean View, while teammate Trina Vlachos also scored nine points. Michele Chomicz had 12 rebounds for the winners. With the victory, the Seahawks advance to the championship round against defending tour-tons won it, 42-20. "Well," replies John Robinson, "it isn't a pleasant memory but it can only help us. Remembering that game leaves no doubts in our minds what we have to do. In that game, Washington played very well and we were terrible. If there is a repeat of that, we will lose

"On the other hand, if we play the whole game the way we played in Dallas, we have a chance to win. Our guys know that."

The questions persist from sunrise to nightfall at Rams Park. They come from the alert press room crowd and visitors and from telephone contacts around the country.

John Robinson tolerates the distractions almost to a point of enjoying them. Perhaps he is.

At the moment, Bum Phillips and Tom Landry are not being pestered attall.

Ocean View High plays host to 15 other schools beginning Thursday morning in the Seahawks' first girls soccer tournament.

Joining the host Seahawks are Edison, Fountain Valley, Westminster, Huntington Beach and Marina among others.

Action begins at 8:30 a.m. Thursday with three games. The tournament concludes Saturday with the championship match set for 2:30 p.m.

This deal is from the 10th round match between these two countries. In one room the Brazilians bid un North East molested to four spades. The bidding shown occurred in Pass Dble the room where Brazil's star, Pass Pass Gabriel Chagas, held the West eards. He and his part Opening lead. Nine of . ner pushed to five diamonds a contract that could be made if declarer takes the diamond finesse. However, the New Zealanders bid on to five hearts, a contract that seemed safe enough.

It would have been safe had Chagas routinely led either his suit or his partner's. Unfortunately for New Zealand, he hit upon a spade lead, and declarer stood no chance. East won the ace and shifted to a club. Chagas rose with the ace of clubs and returned another spade for his partner to ruff. The defenders had collected their three tricks before declarer could even get started.

New Zealand was doubly unlucky, because it could have made live spades unless East found an inspired heart lead, or a club lead followed by a heart shift from West. As it was, New Zealand lost 13 International Match Points.

In the match between Taiwan and Sweden, the former made five hearts with an overtrick in one room and five diamonds doubled in the other room for a huge gain.

Connery: 'I'm too old to play Bond'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Sean Connery's role in "Never Say Never Again" was his first appearance as Agent 007 in 12 years and he insists it's his last, even though producer Jack Schwartzmann has an option for another James Bond film.

'By the time they'd be ready to go on to another Bond I'd be too old," says Connery, 53. Neither does the classy master spy believe his alter ego, Roger Moore, should portray 007 again.

"He's also too old," Connery said of Moore, 55. "Bond should not be older than 35."

Critics rated Moore's Bond in "Octopussy" unfavorably after Connery resurfaced as 007 in "Never Say Never Again," to which the unflappable Moore responded, "It's the first time I've been panned for a picture I wasn't in."

Moore will star next year in "From a View to a Kill," produced by longtime Bond moviemaker

NEW YORK - At the peak of his business, Bozo the Clown ran a corporate empire he estimates generated $150 million in revenue. Now, he's back in the public eye, preaching his philosophy to kids of all ages that drugs and drink are "Bozo No-Nos."

Larry Harmon, 58, wouldn't be recognized on the street. But once he dons white face, greasepaint, red honker, orange wig, baggy pants and size 18 shoes, he's known worldwide as "your ol' pal Bozo." In his heyday in the 1960s, there were 183 Harmon-trained Bozos performing live on TV around the world.

Next month will mark the 34th consecutive year that "The Bozo Show" has been on TV. WGN in Chicago currently broadcasts it locally and beams it nationwide through some 4,000 cable systems.

Harmon is more than a grown-up kid in a clown suit. He's a sincere, outgoing, energetic spokesman for such causes as UNICEF and CARE. But he's also a shrewd businessman with a showman's flair for promotion, merchandising and kiddie-philosophy.

But rarely did kids see Harmon, although he has flown to Brazil, Australia and Thailand to fill in for ailing Bozos.

Through his clown schools in Texas, Florida and California, Harmon created an army of Bozos. One graduate was Willard Scott, now the genial eatherman on NBC's "Today" show.

Harmon gave a kid named Fred Silverman his first job in TV - floor manager at WGN. "Bozo was his step to fame," Harmon said. Silverman went on to top programming jobs at all three networks and now is an independent producer.

"My own language is laughter," said Harmon. "I've been all over the world, even visited cannibals and made them laugh. They didn't eat me because they didn't have a recipe for clown a la carte.'

In the vernacular, "bozo" means buffoon, which upsets Harmon. "What it really means is a character

TV miniseries tells how modern Olympics born

ATHENS (AP) - A new televison miniseries being filmed in the Greek capital revives the long-forgotten story of a group of American college students with little athletic training who triumphed in nine out of 12 eyents at the first modern Olympics here in 1896.

The $7 million Columbia Pictures production is said to be based on the memories of the late Robert Garrett, a member of the first U.S. Olympic team, and the winner of both the discus and shot-put events.

"I met Garrett shortly before he died in 1962. He was the only surviving member of that team and he asked me to tell this story because America doesn't know it, and probably Greece doesn't either," said Gary Allison, the film's producer and co-writer.

"The first Olympics -Athens 1896," a five-hour film to be broadcast in two parts, will premiere simultaneously in the United States on NBC and on most major European TV networks, proabably in May, a few months before the 1984 Olympics get underway in Los Angeles, Allison said.

"Of course, it's a topical story and the Oscar-winning success of 'Chariots of Fire' - a feature film about two athletes - should add to people's interest," he said.

The ancient Olympic games were staged in a wooded sanctuary in western Greece. But when a French nobleman, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, revived them, they were moved to a Roman-era marble stadium in the center of Athens, reconstructed by a wealthy Greek.

"At a time when there were no organized athletics clubs in the United States, 13 students from different colleges were picked to represent their country in the first-ever international track and field event," Allison said.

The pioneer Olympic competitors were coached by an eccentric Princeton classics professor, Dr. William Sloane, using javelins and discus copied from pictures of ancient Greek athletes on classical vases.

'They trained with a solid iron discus weighing 27 pounds, so when they got to Athens and competed with a discus of just 4.5 pounds ... well, things were easy," said Hunt Block, who plays Garrett in the film.

The American students walked off with nine out of the 12 silver medals awarded to winners at the first modern

"There were no gold medals in 1896. Only silver medals for victors and laurel wreaths and scrolls for runners-up," Allison said.

"Those games were about struggle, competition and gaining an edge. It was the perfect American dream," actor David Caruso said.

Actors in knee-length running shorts and light leather moccasins were cheered on by more than 100,000 Greek extras dressed in long skirts and straw boaters, sheepskin jackets and coarse pantaloons dug up from grandparents'

Entertaining goes casual with easy, light main dishes nce casual entertaining was only associated with patio and poolside parties. But today, foods served at such gatherings have become so popular that they'll be found on tables indoors as well. Whatever the location, the meals must be hearty enough to satisfy, yet light enough and quick enough to prepare to fit contemporary

We offer main dish recipes that are ideal for casual dining

CALCUTTA CHICKEN AND RICE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine 8 choice broiler-fryer chicken pieces 1 medium onion, sliced

1 can (101/2 ounces) chicken gravy 3 tablespoons ketchup

3 tablespoons orange marmalade

1 to 11/2 tablespoons curry powder

3 cups hot cooked rice

In 10-inch skillet over medium heat in hot butter brown chicken on all sides; remove from skillet. Spoon fat from drippings remaining in skillet. Add onions to drippings in skillet; cook over low heat until tender. Stir in gravy, ketchup, marmalade and curry, scraping any bits from bottom of pan.

Add chicken. Reduce heat to low, cover, and simmer 30 minutes or until chicken is fork-tender.

Serve chicken with rice; spoon gravy over chicken. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

BEEF AND FRUIT KABOBS

11/2 pounds boneless sirioin steak, cut in 1-Inch cubes

12 carrot pieces, each 11/2 inches long

12 green pepper pieces, each 2 inches can (about 16 ounces) chunk pineapple, drained

3 cups hot cooked rice. In 2-quart saucepan over medium heat in 1-inch boiling water, heat carrots to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Cover; simmer 5 minutes. Add green pepper; simmer 3 minutes more or until tender-crisp. Drain.

On six 18-inch skewers thread meat alternately with pineapple, green pepper and carrots. Broil kabobs 10 minutes or until done, turning and basting with sauce made by bringing to a boil 2 cans (101/4 ounces each) beef gravy, 1/4 cup brown sugar and ¼ teaspoon ground cloves.

Heat remaining sauce; serve with kabobs and rice. Serves 6.

DILLED YOGURT PORK CHOPS

4 pork chops (about 11/2 pounds)

2 tablespoons vegetable oil 1 can (101/2 ounces) chicken gravy

Pepper, paprika

1 cup diagonally sliced celery 1/4 cup chopped green onlons, including

1/4 teaspoon dill weed, crushed 1/2 cup plain lowfat yogurt or sour cream 1 cup peach slices 2 cups hot cooked rice

Season chops with pepper and paprika. In 10-inch skillet over medium heat in hot oil slowly brown pork chops on both sides (about 15 minutes). Spoon off fat. Add gravy, celery, onions

Reduce heat to low. Cover; simmer 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend a small amount of gravy into yogurt; stir into skillet. Add peaches; heat through. Serve with rice. Serves 4.

HAM AND SPICED BANANAS

2 tablespoons butter or margarine 4 medium bananas, peeled and cut in half crosswise Ground cinnamon dry white wine 8 slices (1 to 11/2 ounces each) fully-cooked ham* 2 cups hot cooked *Use slices 6 x 4 inches

In 10-inch skillet over medium heat in hot butter heat bananas through, turning to coat evenly. Remove bananas from skillet and sprinkle lightly with cinnamon. Stir gravy and wine into same skillet. Remove from heat.

Meanwhile, to assemble ham roll, place banana at narrow end of ham. Roll up jelly-roll fashion. Place seam side down in skillet. Repeat with remaining ham and bananas. Cover; bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes or until ham rolls are heated through. Serve over rice. Makes 4 servings.

California sets new trend: Dining style simple, elegant

By BEA ANDERSON Of the Delty Pilot Staff

For years the repertoire of sophisticated cooking was the exclusive property of the French, but today a new cuisine has emerged. And food authority Diane

Worthington has defined it in a compilation of more than 200 recipes in her newly published cookbook, "The Cuisine of California.' This new dining style, says

Worthington, "emphasizes freshness of ingredients, simplicity of preparation and elegant presen-The movement defines itself by the use of fresh local produce, herbs, fish and dairy products; lighter marinades and sauces; the use of wines as both ingredients and accompaniments; and an astounding array of ethnic and indigenous ingredients.

First, brief cooking releases fresh flavors while retaining the desired texture. For example, hot searing techniques on a barbecue grill lock in flavors and keep meats moist and tender.

Second, combinations of ingredients are chosen so that natural flavors are heightened and balanced rather than masked. Third, the simple yet elegant presentation that began with nouvelle cuisine continues as California chefs adapt their varied and eclectic training on interpreting regional ingredients.

Although the movement is new, said Worthington, it already has identifiable characteristics and

Festive desserts complement celebration

As a grand and glorious finale to the past year or a joyous beginning to the new one, why not treat your friends to a New Year's celebration that includes a dazzling chocolate dessert?

A special festive dessert can be just the right touch to a party buffet or a glamorous conclusion to an intimate or family dinner.

Featured here are two extraordinary chocolate recipes that are perfect party fare — Čelebration Chocolate Chip Pie and Jubilee Chocolate Cake.

CELEBRATION CHOCOLATE CHIP PIE One 9-inch unbaked pie shell

I cup sugar

1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted

3 to 4 tablespoons bourbon or 1 teaspoon vanilla ¼ cup cornstarch

I cup finely chopped pecans

1 cup (6-ounce package) chocolate chips

Prepare pastry shell; set aside. Beat eggs slightly in small mixer bowl; gradually add sugar. Add melted butter or margarine and bourbon or vanilla; mix well. Blend in cornstarch. Stir in pecans and chocolate chips; pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. Cool 1 hour and serve warm with a dollop of Festive Whipped Cream. 8 to

APPLE-ALMOND TART

For Pastry

1 cup pastry flour

Pinch salt 6 tablespoons (34 stick) unsalted butter, frozen and cut into small pieces

14 cup ice water

For Almond Filling 11/2 cups blanched almonds

> 34 cup sugar 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) unsalted butter

2 tablespoons all-purpose flour ¼ cup Amaretto liqueur

2 eggs For Apple Topping

8 medium Golden Delicious apples, peeled, cored and halved

3 tablespoons unsalted butter 3 tablespoons sugar

For Garnish

1 cup Apricot glaze, recipe follows

2 tablespoons chopped pistachios For pastry: Combine flour and salt in food processor fitted with steel blade. Process a few seconds to blend. Add butter and process until mixture resembles coarse meal, about 5 to 10 seconds. With blades of processor turning, gradually add water until dough is just beginning to come together and will adhere when pinched.

Transfer dough to floured pastry board or work surface. Press into round shape for easy rolling. Roll out into a circle large enough to fit a 10-inch tart pan with removable bottom. Drape circle over rolling pin and fit it into pan. Roll rolling pin over tart pan with moderate pressure to remove excess overlapping dough. Place tart on baking sheet. Preheat oven to Press pastry with fingers so that it adheres to sides of pan. If using tart pan with straight edges, raise edges of pastry ¼ to ½ inch above top of pan by squeezing dough from both sides using index fingers.

For almond filling: Grind almonds in food processor fitted with steel blade until they are fine. Add sugar, butter, flour and Amaretto. Turn machine on and off repeatedly until a meal-like paste is formed. Add eggs and process for 10 seconds to incorporate. Spread mixture in lined pan to make an even layer.

For apple topping: Slice apple halves in food processor fitted with slicing disk. Arrange apple slices, overlapping them in concentric circles; be sure to fit them tightly together. Arrange 2 rows of apple slices in center of tart.

Dot apples with butter and sugar and bake 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes, until tart is brown on top. Remove from oven and let cool. Bring glaze to boil in saucepan and spoon over tart. Let cool and decorated with chopped pistachios.

Pork featured in one-pot meal

This year, why not open your doors to a sensational end-of-the-year dinner party? Good food and good friends are the key ingredients for success.

To winterize menu planning, consider one-pot meals. Lucky for you, pork offers a world of delicious heart-warming options.

Paella, for instance, will be a real standout. This famous Spanish dish gets its name from the iron skillet with two handles in which the ingredients are cooked and served.

Paella is a delightful amalgamation of intriguing ingredients. Pork sausage, chicken, shrimp and rice are bolstered by the golden hue and pleasantly bitter flavor of saffron.

Ground pork takes on its own personality in Pork and Apple Pie, a deep-dish pie highlighted with shredded apple, chopped walnuts, raisins and Cheddar cheese. To save a step, refrigerated crescent roll dough takes the place of regular pastry.

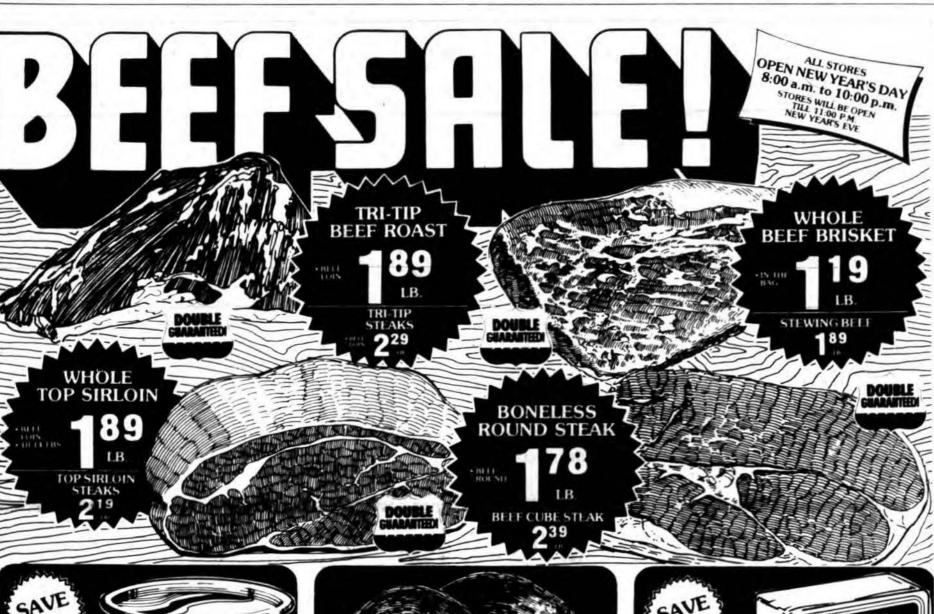

Pizza is good, of course, but Italian Sausage Pizza even better. For a change of pace, this unusual version calls for Italian sausage, mozzarella cheese and chopped broccoli.

PAELLA

34 pound pork sausage links

- 2 tablespoons olive oil or cooking oil
- I pound boneless chicken breasts, cut into 1-inch

¾ cup sliced green onion 1 clove garlic, minced

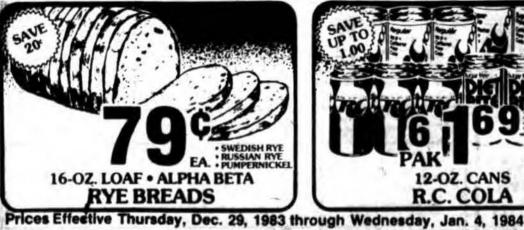

21/2 cups chicken broth

I cup long grain rice

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon ground oregano

¼ teaspoon ground saffron bay leaf

pound fresh medium shrimp, peeled 1 2-ounce jar pimiento strips, drained

2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley In a large skillet or 4-quart Dutch oven brown sausage over medium heat. Drain, reserving 2 tablespoons drippings in Dutch oven; set sausage aside. Add olive oil to drippings and heat. Add chicken, green onion and garlic; cook till chicken is browned, stirring occasionally. Add sausage, chicken broth, uncooked rice, salt, oregano, saffron and bay leaf. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 25 minutes. Add shrimp, pimiento and parsley. Simmer, covered, for 10 to 15 minutes or till shrimp are done. Remove bay leaf. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PORK AND APPLE PIE

1 ¼ pounds ground pork 1 cup shredded apple

1/4 cup chopped walnuts 1/4 cup raisins

3 tablespoons all-purpose flour ¼ teaspoon salt

½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

¼ teaspoon pepper

Dash ground cloves 1 cup water

34 shredded Cheddar cheese 1 package (8) refrigerated crescent rolls

In a large skillet cook ground pork till browned; drain. Stir in shredded apple, chopped walnuts, raisins, flour, salt, cinnamon, pepper and cloves. Add water. Cook over medium heat 5 to 6 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; stir in 1/2 cup of the cheese. Set aside.

Unroll crescent roll dough; set aside two sections and place the remaining 6 sections in 11/2-quart baking dish. Press edges and perforations together, extending the dough 1/2 inch beyond the edge of the dish. Turn edge under to form smooth crust.

Spoon pork mixture into baking dish. Press the remaining 2 crescent roll sections together to form a rectangle; cut lengthwise into 6 strips. Place 3 strips vertically and 3 strips horizontally atop pork mixture. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes. Cover loosely with foil and bake 10 minutes longer. Remove from oven, sprinkle the remaining cheese on top. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE PAN PIZZA

cup all-purpose flour

1 package active dry yeast

1 tablespoon sugar 1 teaspoon salt

4 cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees)

2 tablespoons olive oil or cooking oil I cup whole wheat flour

Cornmeal

2 cups chopped broccoli 1 pound bulk Italian sausage

2 large tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped

I teaspoon Italian seasoning

2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese (8 ounces) tablespoons grated Romano cheese or Parmesan cheese

In a large mixer bowl combine all-purpose flour. yeast, sugar and salt. Add water and oil; beat at the low speed of electric mixer ½ minute, scraping sides of bowl. Beat 3 minutes at high speed. Stir in as much of the whole wheat flour as you can mix in with a

Turn out onto a lightly floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic. Shape into a ball. Place in a greased bowl; turn once. Cover; let rise in a warm place till double(about 45 minutes).

Punch down. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Sprinkle cornmeal in a well greased 12-inch deep-dish pizza pan. With greased fingers, pat dough onto bottom and halfway up sides of pizza pan. Cover; let rise 30 minutes. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or till lightly browned.

Meanwhile, cook broccoli, covered, in 1-inch boiling water till crisp-tender (about 5 to 10 minutes).

Drain and set aside.

In a large skillet, cook sausage till browned; drain. In a small saucepan combine tomatoes and Italian seasoning; cook over medium-high heat for 5 minutes or till liquid has evaporated.

Sprinkle the shredded mozzarella cheese over the hot pizza crust; top with broccoli, sausage and tomatoes. Sprinkle Romano or Parmesan cheese atop. Return to the 375 degree oven; bake for 20 to 25 minutes longer or till bubbly. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes one 12-inch pizza.

Guests warm up to hot drink

By TOM HOGE

As New Year's Eve approaches, hostesses cast about for something different to usher in 1984

Why not try brandy, which stands as a symbol of elegance and comfort? A dram of this will warm your guests up on the coldest winter night.

The Dutch discovered this spirit by accident in the 16th century when they received some wine from France in distilled form. The French vintners used this device to save cargo space aboard ship and reduce

The curious Dutch sampled the spirit straight from the barrel, rather than reconstituting the wine to its original form by adding water as the French intended. They liked the liquor so much they publicized their find. Soon the Germans were drinking it, followed by the French, who called it brandywine. Finally the British sampled some and shortened the name to brandy

Cognac is generally recognized as the world's finest brandy. It is produced exclusively on some 239,000 acres of vineyards surrounding the town of Cognac in southwestern France.

All cognac may be brandy, but all brandy is not cognac. Since every step of cognac production is controlled by French law, no other brandy can legally

Many excellent brandies are produced. California has a wide range of excellent ones. So does topping for coffee mixture. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

People have traditionally sipped vintage cognac from "balloon snifters" inhaling the aroma after warming the goblet with their hands. But brandy is not always drunk straight. It is excellent blended with other ingredients such as coffee - as in this warming potion you might want to serve with New Year's Eve midnight supper.

Toast new year with brandy nog

Brandy has had a special mystique ever since some medieval knights stumbled across the secret of its production.

And certainly, brandy drinking has become synonymous with holiday cheer. What would New Year's Eve be, after all, without sipping a creamy, brandy-based eggnog by a roaring fireplace?

Most brandy is simply grape wine that has been distilled, aged and blended. The name was provided by the Dutch, the first true brandy connoisseurs, who called the beverage "brandewijn," or burnt wine.

HOT SPICED PUNCH

- 1 gallon apple cider 3 sticks cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon whole mace
- 1/2 teaspoon whole allspice
- 1 cup dark rum 1 cup brandy

Simmer cider and spices for about an hour. Add the rum and brandy and stir until the liquors are heated. Serve hot in heat-proof cups or glasses. Makes 40 servings.

Here's an eggnog made without cream — a boon for waist-watchers:

CREAMLESS EGGNOG

- 2 cups brandy
- 4 large eggs
- 3 tablespoons sugar 2 tablespoons instant coffee Crushed ice
- Grated nutmeg

Place all ingredients except nutmeg into blender and blend until thoroughly integrated. Strain, if desired. Serve immediately, or refrigerate until needed. Sprinkle each serving with nutmeg. Makes 8

Rabbit meat seen as food of future

ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — No matter whether he calls it "lapin," "cone jo" or "hasenpfeffer," Robert Patrick has a real challenge bying to persuade more Americans to try rabbit meat.

Patrick, an official of a firm here that processes up to a million rabbits a year for consumption in this country and abroad, says some Americans' seeming reluctance to consider rabbit meat as a food is psychological.

"Many Americans don't take kindly to the consumption of rabbit," said Patrick, director of marketing for Pel-Freez Rabbit Meat Inc.

"Although it's featured at many of the better French, Italian, German, Greek and Hungarian restaurants around the country, most Americans don't even know what rabbit tastes like. And the problem is, their desire to know is blocked by visions of the Easter Bunny, Peter Cottontail and Bugs Bunny.

All the same, Patrick believes rabbit is the "food of the future," not only because of its taste domestic rabbit is tender white meat, quite different from wild rabbit — but for a number of more practical

More than 93 percent of the rabbit can be used: a young rabbit fryer dresses out at up to 55 percent of its live weight; its fur is used for coats and gloves; its blood and brains are important to medicine and research, and its feet are sold as good luck charms.

— Rabbits require no grazing land, use feed not directly edible by human beings and have one of the highest feed to meat conversion ratios around. A 5-ounce serving of rabbit has only 199 calories, yet is higher in protein than beef, pork or chicken. It's low in fat, low in cholesterol and so low in sodium that it's recommended by the American Heart Association for low salt diets. "Add to this the fact that one female rabbit, or doe, can produce at least 10 times her weight in meat a year, and one can call 'efficient' an understatement," Patrick says.

Pel-Freez, in business here for 72 years, contracts with 800 local farmers to raise rabbits to its specifications and monitors production, sales and futures on an IBM computer so that the prolific animals won't outproduce the marketplace.

"Generally speaking, Americans either love rabbit or they won't dare try it," Patrick says. "But the American palate is becoming more sophsticated. People are becoming more willing to experiment with new foods particularly prople who like to transfer with new foods, particularly people who like to travel and eat out. Every year the number of Americans who consume rabbit as a main dish increases by about 15 percent.

"But there's still a long way to go," Patrick says. pointing to sales printouts from the computer. "The average American consumes 60 pounds of poultry a year. The same person consumes 1/2 of one ounce of rabbit annually."

Celebrating? Choose your champagne with eye to taste, cost

If budget is important, and you're serving champagne to a large crowd, I recommend Angelo Papagni Brut or Extra Dry, or Le Domaine Brut. Avoid Le Domain Extra Dry unless you like lots of sweetness

Other good values come from too many Spanish producers to begin to mention. Ask your wine merchant to recommend his favorite.

From California, my favorite very serious champagnes are Piper Sonoma Blanc de Noirs (about $12) and Domaine Chandon "Reserve" (about $15). I also love multi-gold medal winning Culbertson Natural, but supply is limited and you may have trouble finding it.

For fresh, fruity typically California flavors, try Korbel Blanc de Blancs or Blanc de Noirs, the former made entirely from Chardonnay, the latter from Pinot Noir.

Best buys from France are generally non-vintage. Vintage Champagne, generally speaking, costs more than any difference in quality can justify.

Avoid the so-called "tete de cuvees," the top of the line sparklers such as Dom Perignon, Rene Lalou and Roederer Crystal. They are indeed lovely, but there is just as many bubbles and nearly as much palate pleasure in wines selling for one-quarter the price.

Some of my favorite French labels, because I like rich, full-bodied Champagnes, include Bollinger and Veuve Clicquot. I also like Krug, Perrier Jouet and Dom Ruinart.

If you like them sweeter than most, Mumm's is your Champagne. If you're into light, delicate and easy to drink its Moet & Chan-

If you want to be with the majority, you could buy the largest selling sparkling wine in America...Andre by E. & J. Gallo.

Spice up your soup

Even when you use the finest and freshest of ingredients in soups, they can still taste blah. Of all dishes, soups seem to require the most seasoning.

There are many ways of spicing soups, according to the American Spice Trade Association. Here are a few:

Try a whole onion stuck with one or two cloves. . . especially good in meat, split pea or bean

For long, simmered-in flavor, add whole spices at the beginning of the cooking. Try bay leaf (removing before serving), whole black pepper, allspice, celery seed and dill seed or marjoram. - When the flavor needs last-minute reviving, add ground spices or finely crushed herbs about 10 minutes before the end of the cooking time. Onion and garlic powders are also great for this.

Spice blends come in handy, too: chili powder in corn and potato chowders and bean soups; curry powder in creamy fish or chicken soups; poultry seasoning in vegetable soups; Italian seasoning in tomato-based soups.

malo-lactic fermentation, one would expect fatness, richness, almost buttersctoch qualities. Instead, the wine is delicate, crisp, firm of acid and very easy to drink.

This is a food wine, and would be a great addition to restaurant wine lists.

Post-holiday cleaning jobs easier when you know how

By DOROTHY WENCK Home Economist UC Cooperative Exter

Holiday fun and entertaining inevitably leads to post-holiday cleaning jobs that aren't much fun - especially when there are spots and stains on carpets and furniture.

Here are some typical holiday clean-up questions we receive every

- Q. What's the best way to remove melted candle wax from last traces of wax by ring the finish?

can with your fingers and a dull table knife. Then, take the knife or a stiff piece of cardboard, and holding it at a low angle, scrape the wax from the wood surface. The cardboard is better to use because even the dullest knife may scratch the finish.

You can remove the furniture without mar- rubbing the wood with a cloth dampened in A. First, crumble turpentine or grease soloff as much wax as you vent spot remove. A fresh coat of wax or polish over the entire surface will even out any dull spots. why not avoid the problem? Keep the wax off furniture by setting candles on coasters, pieces of clear plastic, or decorative mats.

- Q. How can I re- towels or facial tissue move candle wax from a linen tablecoth? The cloth is white and the wax is red.

 A. The first step is the same as the one used for removing wax from ull spots. furniture — scrape as And next time around, much wax off as possible using a dull table knife. Sometimes the wax will crumble off if you rub the fabric between your

> Next, place stain between folded paper and iron at a low temperature. Replace papers and iron again. Continue changing papers and ironing until no more wax melts. Then sponge the stain with dry cleaning solvent (grease solvent spot remover). If any color remains, scrub the stain with laundry detergent and water or soak in an enzyme laundry product, following directions on the package.

If color still remains, treat with a solution of chlorine bleach - 1 teaspoon bleach to 1 tablespoon water - applied with an eye dropper. Don't allow this solution to remain on the stain more than 2 minutes. Flush with water; apply 1 teaspoon vinegar and flush with water again and check to be sure that all the bleach is removed.

Q. We have both stains on our tablecloth which is supposed to have a stain resistant finish. How can these be removed?

 A. A stain resistant finish on fabric means that the stain will not be quickly absorbed - giving you time to run for a cloth to sop it up. However, if you don't do this, the liquid will dry on the fabric and cause a stain.

To remove wine or fruit stains from fabric, red wine and red punch hold the material tautly over a bowl and pour boiling water on the stain from a height of 1 or 2 feet. This should remove all traces of color and you can proceed with laundering the tablecloth.

- Q. We had some sloppy drinkers at our holiday open house. Now we have some alcohol spots on our beautifully finished walnut coffee table. Can these be removed?

A. Since alcohol dissolves many finishes, you have a real problem. Spills should be wiped up just as quickly as possible - the longer they sit, the more finish is dissolved. Rubbing the spot with a cloth moistened in an oil polish may help smooth out the

For old stains, use rottenstone or powdered pumice mixed to a thin paste with linseed oil. Rub lightly in the direction of the grain. Wipe with a cloth dampened with plain linseed oil. Repeat as many times as necessary, then apply polish or wax. Sometimes, if damage is severe, refinishing is necessary.

- Q. Our children received a new puppy for Christmas, and naturally, in the excitement the puppy puddled on our nearly new carpeting. We blotted up the urine, but now there's a discoloration. Is there anything we can do about this?

- A. You should act quickly to rinse away urine stains - as soon after they occur as possible - with several applications of clear lukewarm water, followed by blotting with a damp cloth. Don't wet the carpet so much that the backing gets soaked as this can cause discoloration too. Follow the water treatment using a mix-ture of 1 tablespoon household ammonia with 1/4 cup water (but omit this step if you have a wool carpet). Apply a small amount to the stain and blot until no more stain can be removed. Then treat the stain with a mixture of 1/2 cup white vinegar and 3/3 cup lukewarm water.

Squeeze this mixture on the spot, let it stand for 2 or 3 minutes. Then blot it with a clean damp cloth. Finally, squeeze clear lukewarm water on the area and blot. Do this several times to remove all the vinegar. Place a 1/2-inch layer of white tissues or paper towel over the damp area and weight it down. Allow to dry for 6 hours.

- Q. When taking down our Christmas tree, we somehow dripped some pitch on our carpet. How can we rmove this?

 A. Using a dull knife, gently scrape off as much of the pitch as you can. Then soak a cloth with drycleaning solvent and using a light, upward brushing motion, rub the stain out of the rug. Change the cloth when it becomes soiled and continue until the stain is gone.

If stain is not removed by this method, sponge with a mixture of 1 teaspoon liquid hand dishwashing detergent and I cup warm water, followed by clear water rinses and blottings, being careful not to get the carpet too wet. Cover with a 1/2-inch layer of white tissues or paper towel, weighted down, and allow to dry for 6 hours.

Leftover turkey has many uses

Turkey sandwiches and reheated vegetables can leave family and friends cold after a festive holiday meal. So here are some easy ideas that will put that sparkle back into your post-holiday meals.

TURKEY ITALIAN

1 8-ounce package spaghetti, cooked and drained

2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms

1/4 cup butter or margarine tablespoons all-purpose flour 2 cups chicken broth or bouillon 1 8-ounce container

plain yogurt 1 teaspoon granulated

sugar 3 tablespoons sherry

1 teaspoon salt Dash pepper

Vs teaspoon nutmeg 3 cups cooked turkey ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Saute mushrooms in 2 tablespoon butter in large skillet until tender. Combine mushrooms and spaghetti in large buttered casserole.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan; blend in flour. Add chicken broth; stir until thickened. Remove from heat; add yogurt, sugar, sherry, salt, pepper. nutmeg and turkey. Pour over spaghetti mixture. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake 20 to 25 minutes until heated thoroughly and lightly browned. Serves

HAWAIIAN SWEET POTATOES

2 medium cooked, peeled sweet potatoes 1 cup pina colada yogurt

1 tablespoon sugar Salt to taste

2 tablespoons butter ¼ cup flaked coconut Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Mash until smooth the sweet potatoes together with the yogurt, 1 tablespoon of butter and sugar. Turn into a buttered 9-inch pie plate. Bake for minutes lightly browned. While the potatoes are cooling, melt the remaining butter in a heavy skillet over moderate heat. Add the coconut and stir until browned. Sprinkle over the sweet potatoes and serve hot. Super with pork or poultry. Serves 4.

MERRY BERRY MOLD

3 8-ounce cups mixed berries yogurt 1 8-ounce cup vanilla yogurt

envelope unflavored gelatin 14 cup cold water

1 16-ounce can whole berry cranberry sauce Soften gelatin in water. Heat in a saucepan over low heat, stirring until completely dissolved. Add 1/2 cup cranberry sauce and bring the mixture to a near boil. Remove from heat and chill for 5 minutes.

Get on the sauce

Rich in chocolate flavor

CHOCOLATE SAUCE

2 ounces unsweetened chocolate 6 ounces semisweet chocolate pieces

1 tablespoon honey 8 ounces heavy cream In the top of a double water (bubbles should boiler over simmering break just below surface of water and double boiler top should not touch water), stirring often, melt the chocolate with the honey.

Gradually stir in the cream; if mixture is not blended, continue to stir. especially around the sides of the pan, until it is. Serve warm over ice cream. Any sauce left over may be refrigerated, tightly covered, and reheated over simmering water. Makes a scant 1 % cups.

Stir the fruit up from the bottom of the containers of mixed berries yogurt. Beat the yogurt thoroughly with the gelatin mixture. Pour mixture into a lightly oiled, one-quart mold. Chill until firm.

Unmold and top each serving with a dollop of vanilla yogurt and a spoonful of the remaining cranberry sauce. Serves 6 to 8.

Turn turkey carcass into tasty soup Do you discard the turkey carcass after the meat has been consumed? If the bones only seem like useless scraps to you, you're missing out on a chance to make some tasty, satisfying dishes for pennies.

Transform your next turkey carcass into Turkey Soup en Croute. You can serve it as the main dish for a light supper or as a soup course for a more substantial meal.

TURKEY SOUP en CROUTE

Turkey carcass 8 cups water 1 bay leaf

I whole onion 1/2 cup chopped green pepper

1 cup sliced carrots

1 cup chopped tomatoes I cup chopped onion

4 frozen corn on cobs, each cut in 4 pieces 1/2 cup chopped parsley

1 egg, beaten

1 package puff pastry (two 9 x 10-inch sheets) Break up turkey carcass; remove leftover meat and reserve. Place carcass in large pot; cover with water. Add bay leaf and whole onion; simmer one hour. Remove bay leaf, onion and bones. Remove meat from bones; add with reserved meat to broth.

Add vegetables and parsley; simmer 15 minutes. Cool. Fill 2 1-quart souffle dishes or casseroles with soup. Brush edge of serving dishes with egg; lay puff pastry over edge, pressing to seal. Trim edge of pastry, if necessary.

Use scraps to make decoration, if desired. Brush top with egg and place in freezer 45 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees, for 45 minutes. Each diner gets some crust with soup. Makes 8 servings.

You can't have enough eggbeaters — but 550 of them?

By JOHN W. REID

HARTFORD, Conn. - Can you beat this? When Don Thornton wants to whip up an omelet, he can choose from dozens of antique eggbeaters hanging from his kitchen wall. If none of them is right for the job, hundreds more are stacked in drawers and cupboards in the dining room a few feet away.

Thornton collects old eggbeaters. By his count, he has more than 550 now, and the number keeps going up.

"One can never have enough of them, you know," he explains.

Some of the eggbeaters are little more than twisted wires with simple gears. Others are large, elaborate and shiny — made during the era when America had recently discovered its industrial might.

"Man used to express himself — his personality in designing eggbeaters," says Thornton, reaching for one whose blades resemble those of a helicopter.

The eggbeater hanging next to it looks and works like a child's mechanical top. Its handle is a red, wooden ball attached to a foot-long plunger. Pushing it up and down turns the dashers. A flywheel maintains the momentum between strokes

"There's an eggbeater for every occasion," says Thornton, turning his attention to a long, skinny model that looks like a unicycle. "This one is used for mixing eggs in tall, narrow glasses."

Why collect eggbeaters?

everyone else does? I know of only four other people doing this - and this collection is by far the biggest.'

He got the idea several years ago when, as a reporter in California, he was assigned to do a story on a fellow who had 50 eggbeaters.

"About a year later, I picked up an old eggbeater at a flea market. Pretty soon, things started getting out of hand. I was hooked."

Now Thornton's collection includes a Dover Egg Beater made in 1870, just 15 years after the first eggbeater patent was issued.

He moved to Connecticut 21/2 years ago and is an assistant managing editor at The Hartford Courant. Thornton is author of "The Eggbeater Book,"

"What's the point of collecting something that billed as "the first and last word about man's greatest invention."

> Thornton's a serious collector of eggbeaters, but that doesn't mean he takes the subject seriously. He can't resist a grin as he tells why he wrote the

> "I felt eggbeaters just weren't getting the recognition they deserved. People were ignoring a great part of American history. "After all, did you ever study eggbeaters when you were in school?"

Thornton doesn't expect his book to end up in home reference libraries. "Let's face it, it's the type of book you'd buy on impulse - something to give to that strange neighbor

Homemade glaze for macadamias

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

A while back, a friend sent me a gift from Hawaii; a can of glazed macadamia nuts. Each nut had a thin, crunchy, candy coating. Absolutely marvelous tasting. I couldn't stop munching them.

Then and there I decided to offer you a copycat recipe for these glazed macadamias. With the help of some candy-making experts, the recipe evolved and it follows.

One comment. If you find a can of these glazed macadamias in a food shop and buy them, you'll notice that their coating looks white. The coating on our homeglazed made macadamias may be on the white side or a golden color - it will depend on the oven in which they are baked. But whatever the color of the coating, the glazed macadamias will still taste wonderful.

Why the variation? Because it is normal for range ovens to be up to 25 degrees below or above the temperature set on the oven control. This latitude isn't significant because it is taken into account by professionally adept testers when they issue recipes. For example, in our recipe for Conves Glazed Macadamia Nuts, the baking time is 40 to 50 minutes. This time range offsets the vagaries of the ovens of ranges.

COPYCAT GLAZED MACADAMIA NUTS

3 cups macadamia nuts, see Note 1/2 cup sugar 14 cup light corn syrup 1 tablespoon corn oil 1/4 teaspoon salt ¼ cup butter

Spread nuts in a single layer in a 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking pan. Bake in a preheated 250-degree oven for 5 minutes; reserve. Leave oven control at 250 degrees.

In a heavy 2-quart saucepan stir together sugar, syrup, oil and salt. Stirring constantly over medium heat, bring to a boil; boil without stirring for 5 minutes. Off heat. stir in butter until melted.

Pour this white syrup over reserved nuts, stirring constantly to coat evenly. Bake in the 250-degree oven, stirring several times, until lightly browned - 50 to 60 minutes.

Sprinkle with extra sugar (about 1/4 cup); toss to coat evenly. At once spread on cookie sheets to cool. Separate into individual nuts. Cool completely. Store in a tightly covered container.

Makes 3 cups.

NOTE: We used the macadamia nuts that come in jars or cans and are salted.

Chemical group readies for Halley's appearance

WASHINGTON (AP) - While scientists around the world gear up for an intensive study of Halley's Comet, the American Chemical Society and the Universe Planetarium-Space Theater, Science Museum of Virginia, are preparing a planetarium show to help the general public understand comets and what may be learned from

The 45-minute program, "Comet Halley: Once in a Lifetime," will be mass produced and made available at no charge to planetariums around the world. As new discoveries are made about the comet, kits of audio and visual changes will be rushed to participating planetariums to keep the show up to date.

In addition, the show's script will be revised for reading and will be published in a profusely illustrated booklet. A filmstrip presentation also will be prepared to make the show available to students who do not have access to a planetarium.

The world's approximately 1,100 planetariums attract massive numbers of visitors, and those in North America enjoy an annual attendance of about 40 million, according to a recent study by the International Planetarium Society. Some 600 U.S. planetariums are operated by schools as teaching facilities.

The show will demonstrate that standard chemical analytical techniques are essential to the study of comets.

Named for Sir Edmund Halley, the 18th-century British astronomer who was the first to determine that comets travel in predictable orbits about the sun, Halley's Comet returns about every 76 years. Its last visit was in 1910.

The comet contains molecules of water, carbon monoxide and dioxide, exotic combinations of the most abundant elements, plus tiny particles of rock and metals. These have existed in a pristine state since the formation of the solar system

Says Dr. Ray Newburn, cometary science team leader at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif .: "By studying a comet chemically, and also with specially designed spacecraft now being developed, we should expect to learn much about the early days of the solar system, how the planets developed so differently, and why life could arise on Planet Earth but apparently nowhere else in the solar system.

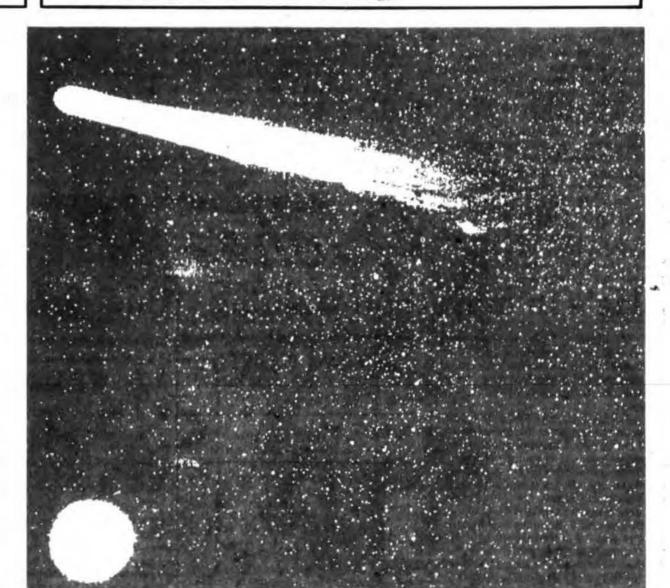

"And, because our solar system appears to be rather average, comprehending its development should contribute to understanding the development, and probability of development of other planetary systems and life elsewhere in the universe.

Newburn, one of a dozen outstanding cometary and life scientists serving as technical advisors to the "Comet Halley: Once in a Lifetime" project, is the leader of the International Halley Watch (IHW). IHW is an international network of scientists organized to coordinate studies of Halley's Comet.

Comet Halley will swing around the sun in 1985-86, making its closest approach on Feb. 9, 1986. Cycling the sun at 140,000 mph, its head will expand to a diameter of over 100,000 miles, and its tail, beginning to form in November 1985, will sweep across 50 million miles.

Production and worldwide distribution of "Comet Halley: Once in a Lifetime" is being made possible in part by grants from the Bushnell Optical Division of Bausch & Lomb, The Planetary Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the American Astronomical Society.

Show production materials, to be distributed to all interested planetariums next summer, will include over 200 35mm slides, films, stereophonic sound track and instructions for achieving special

Growing old... Studying effects of diet on health

By DANIEL Q. HANEY

BOSTON - It is, without a doubt, the most expensive hotel in Boston and perhaps anywhere. Guests are cloistered for months on

The idea is to see how diet affects the seemingly unstoppable process of growing old. And it may, if the research succeeds, find ways for old folks to help preserve their bodies far into their retirement years, simply by watching what they eat.

The effects of diet on health have long interested scientists. But getting hard facts is difficult. Compared with a guinea pig or a rat, the human being is an expensive creature to study.

There is no good way to do people can be persuaded to live in confinement for a long time while the experts measure and analyze everything that goes into them, everything that comes out of them and how their bodies change in the process.

This is the goal of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University.

Three upper floors of its newly opened building in downtown Boston house a combination hotel and laboratory. Currently it is home to 14 live-in volunteers, and soon this will be expanded to 28. Some stay a day or two, others for six months or

It would not be everyone's idea of a good time, even though there are amenities.

Volunteers get comfortable private rooms. They use a rooftop swimming pool. a game room, a library as well as dining rooms and lounges. The center arranges outings to the theater, movies and the

But on the other hand, they must undergo frequent tests to check the effects of their diet on their blood, their bones and their organs. Some have to collect all their feces and urine. At mealtime, they are persuaded to eat everything on their

And they cannot leave the building

If they need to attend a wedding or go to the bank, they must be accompanied by a chaperon. The scientists want to make sure that the volunteers don't spoil their experiments by stopping off for a pizza and beer.

The center recruits these people through churches and elderly groups as well as ads in newspapers and on radio and television.

Why do they come here? "The biggest motivation is the feeling of making a contribution," said Dr. Robert

CORRECTION

We aren't exactly helping you keep those New Year's resolutions like we promised

Everything was right with question

There are other reasons, too. Most of the volunteers are elderly, and some of them are simply lonely

"We were surprised that a number of people wanted to be in here over Christmas,'' said Dr. Bess Dawson-Hughes, an endocrinologist. "They didn't have anywhere else they wanted to go.

For others, it's a change of scenery. "I thought it would be an adventure for me," said Lillian Rosen, 80, who signed up for a five-day stay." I figured I'd be getting a nice vacation for free. It's as good as any

The volunteers also receive a daily stipend of $10 or $20, depending on how demanding and unpleasant their tests are But center officials downplay the money.

"We are looking for volunteers as opposed to human guinea pigs who want a livelihood," said Dr. Jeffrey B. Blumberg, the assistant director.

But the dollars can be an enticement, especially for younger people who are recruited for comparison groups.

"It would be noble to say that I can do something for medical science, and in a way, that's one reason why I'm here," said Robert White, 39, a free-lance graphic artist from Boston. "But I can't deny that the financial incentive was there, too.'

However, the daily pay is just a small part of the expense of operating the nutrition center. When all the backup services are taken into consideration, it costs $630 a day for each volunteer.

Just fixing dinner here is no simple matter. Technicians weigh and analyze all the ingredients that go into each meal.

The party was in full swing when one of the hostesses arrived.

Anne De Wald's plane was delayed out of Chicago, but the Notre Dame student joined right in the father-daughter Children's Home Society party being held in the Big Canyon home of her parents, Carolyn and Maury DeWald.

Other debutantes and their parents hosting the event were Karen Howard and Cleva and Robert Howard; Erica Warren and Margaret and William Warren; Colleen Kerrigan and Kathleen and David Kerrigan, and Mary Ann Logan and Rosemsary and George Logan

The purpose of get together (besides fun and socializing) was to get instruction in the basic waltz step. After hors d'ouevres and drinks, John Maxfield from the Fred Astaire Studio in Newport Beach spent a few minutes with each deb and her father offering dancing tips.

The DeWalds yard was tented for the occasion and the three-quarter time music was a Barbara Mandrell waltz tune. When everyone had mastered the step, a lasagna dinner was served.

The 26 young women (all but one made the party) will make their debut tonight at the 30th annual CHS Newport Harbor Auxiliary at the Newport Marriott Hotel.

When all of the introductions have been made the traditional debutante-father waltz will begin and Maxfield's instructions will be put into play.

Other pre-ball parties include a brunch at Magic Island hosted by debs Rebecca Delancy, Nell Killefer and Allison Walters and a holiday

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a person who has fought depression all my life I felt very sorry for "Hurting in Florida," the woman who is depressed and getting precious little cooperation from her husband. (He keeps urging her to "snap out of it.") The boss who said she was lucky to get her job back after a week's hospitalization should be strung up by his thumbs.

I find it outrageous that people with a history of mental illness must lie about it when filling out employment forms because some firms will not hire a person who has had a record of treatment for a psychiatric disorder or a serious and disabling emotional problem.

It seems to me that an employee who has had therapy or is in treatment would be more

How about taking up the cudgel, Ann? — BETTY IN MARYLAND

Dear Betty: The National Institute of Mental Health has already done it. A program has been launched to educate employers about the advantages of hiring former mental patients.

For example, the National Restaurant Assn., in response to a survey, reported the former mental patients are as good as or better than their co-workers when it comes to attendance, punctuality, job tenure, quality of performance and

Dr. Herbert Pardes, director of the institute, said, "We hope the time will soon come when no boss will tell an employee who has had a mental illness that he is lucky to have a job to come back to. Instead, the boss will consider himself lucky to have such an employee."

Ready to ring out old century

He's booked at unbuilt New York hotel for Dec. 31, 1999

NEW YORK (AP) — The new millennium is 16 years away, but one man has already been assured himself a prime spot on the big day — a suite at a Times Square hotel that hasn't even been built yet.

It didn't matter to Ed Woodyard that the Marriot Marquis doesn't exist yet and that the New Year's Eve in question isn't until Dec. 31, 1999. He's made a reservation.

The advance booking, he said, was a sudden spiration.

In 1958, said Woodyard, his father took family to the Astor Hotel on Times Square on New Year's Eve. From their room, they looked down at the noisy mob and watched the lighted ball herald the new year.

Woodyard, 35, now a communications executive from Greenwich, Conn., never forgot that evening, and when he pondered Dec. 31, 1999, he knew "exactly where I wanted to be."

The Astor Hotel no longer exists, and most of the other hostelries that overlook Times Square are not family-type establishments. His quest led him to the Marriott Marquis, a giant luxury hotel due to open in 1985.

He considered waiting a few years to make a reservation, but figured "they'd probably get (See READY FOR, Page A2)

County jobless figures increase

By JEFF ADLER

The number of jobless Orange County residents edged upward in November. But the unemployment rate remained steady at October's 5.2 percent level as people found jobs faster than they were lost last month.

The number of those without jobs rose by 300 during November, with 63,600 countians reporting they were out of work, according to monthly unemployment statistics released this morning by the state Employment Development Department.

Still, November's unemployment rate matched October's 5.2 percent, the lowest the rate has been in two years, according to Alta Yetter, a labor market analyst with the state agency.

She said the rate remained steady despite the slight increase in unemployed people because of the more rapid expansion of the job market. Temporary job seekers seeking work during the Christmas shopping season swelled both the ranks of the employed and the unemployed.

The victim was found lying in bed in Room 113 of the California 6 Motel, 1441 Gisler Ave., by a motel maid during her normal cleaning rounds about 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sgt. Bill Bechtel said.

The maid spoke only Spanish, but another motel maid said the woman stayed at work after being questioned by police and did not seem overly upset.

The second maid said she was originally scheduled to clean Room 113 but had passed it when she noticed that a window screen on the room had been slashed.

Police would not release any details of their investigation into the murder, but as late as 5 p.m.

Tuesday investigators were still laboring in the disheveled motel room, dusting for fingerprints and attempting to gather any evidence (See SLAYING, Page A2)

Shopping lots full on 'the days after'

It was the week after Christmas and all through the land the parking lots were full, the stores were jammed.

That's been the scene at area shopping centers as after-Christmas shoppers scurry for parking places, stand in lines to

Cops corral fewer drunk motorists

Drunken driving arrests during the long Christmas weekend were down slightly from a year ago and the four highway deaths counted in that period were not blamed on alcohol.

The California Highway Patrol reported it made 102 drunken driving arrests from Friday evening to midnight Monday compared to 118 arrests during a similar period a year ago.

In all, 293 people were arrested on suspicion of driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs by the CHP, Orange County Sheriff's deputies and city police departments.

Four people died from injuries suffered in weekend mishaps. One, a 27-year-old transient, was (See DRUNKS, Page A2) return gifts and jostle through the aisles at area shopping centers to find the bargains.

If it was a record Christmas season, it's also becoming a record after-Christmas season, according to merchants.

"There's definitely been more people in our store than ever before. Business is good and returns have been lower than last year. I guess our sales people are getting better at helping people find what they want. An unusual aspect this year has been the attitude of the shopper," said Sue Graham, Bullock's South Coast Plaza General manager. "They're very good natured and friendly. Usually after driving around for a while looking for a parking place, then fighting through the crowds they're usually ready to bite somebody. Not this year. The sales people say they've been really super.

On Monday after Christmas there were about 200 people at every doorway to the plaza and the parking lot was full by early afternoon. The crowds are starting to tapered down a little each day, according to Carolyn Cirillo, public relations administrator for "All the stores had a great Christmas season and this week sales will be good also. On Monday, there were quite a few stores you couldn't even get into. It's only slowed up a little," she said.

Burglars hit home of jailed child molester

The sister of convicted Newport Beach child molester Craig Sinclair told police that burglars broke into his Cannery Village house, ransacked the place and made off with $940 in belongings.

Police said the intruders removed louvered windows to gain entry to the house and tipped over furniture while taking an expensive antique telephone and two stereo units.

Sinclair, 43, was sentenced to 19 years in prison Dec. 15 for molesting two teen-age boys. He is lodged at Chino State Prison.

His sister told police she secured her brother's home before the long Christmas weekend. She noticed the damage this week when she returned to the home. when a local night spot became a gathering place for a more off-beat cultural movement — the punk rock fad. The club, at 1714 Placentia Ave., was known as the Cuckoo's Nest.

After a year-long legal battle that reached as far as the state Supreme Court, the club was closed and sold. (Under new management, it now operates as the Concert Factory.)

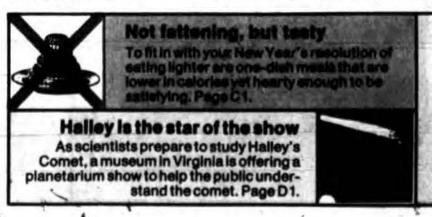

The Cuckoo's Nest may be gone, but its colorful contribution to local history still lives — on film.

"Urban Struggle: the Battle of the Cuckoo's Nest," a 38-minute documentary tracing the final days of the punk rock haven, will be shown Thursday at the Surf Theater, 5th Street and Pacific Coast Highway, in Huntington Beach. (On-the-hour showings begin at 7 p.m.)

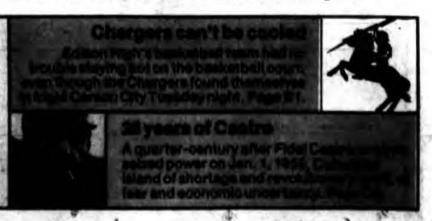

The black-and-white film includes Cuckoo's Nest performances by such popular punk bands as Black Flag, Circle Jerks and T.S.O.L. It also contains footage of slam dancing, the violent audience response to the throbbing punk beat.

The film also contains extensive interviews with the man who was at the center of the Cuckoo's Nest controversy, the club's co-owner Jerry Roach.

Today, Roach runs Radio City, an Anaheim club that presents every type of music except punk. (See CUCKOO'S, Page A2)

The session also has been designated as an official meeting of the Fountain Valley City Council to permit council members to participate in the gathering.

Citizens Watch was formed recently after residents learned the Sanitation Districts of Orange County, headquartered in Fountain Valley, were considering long-range sludge disposal projects that could be built in the city.

Sludge is the semi-solid material left after sewage waste-

The City Council and Citizens Watch are opposing plans for mechanical composting (storing sludge in tall towers) and co-combustion (burning sludge with municipal garbage) at the Fountain Valley plant.

Ellery Deaton, a city planning commissioner who helped organize Citizens Watch, said tonight's meeting will cover recent disposal developments and residents will be assigned to attend future Sanitation Districts board

She also said the group will develop its strategy for testifying at an Environmental Protection Agency hearing focusing on sludge disposal next September.

Crowds that have swamped area shopping centers and malls during the Christmas season especially in the past two days — seem to indicate retailers are experiencing the kind of holiday sales they had hoped to have.

Yetter said she was somewhat surprised the unemployment rate didn't edge upward slightly in November.

'We were already low (compared to Los Angeles County and the statewide rates). I didn't expect us to go down, but maybe up a little," she said.

The unemployment rate's steadiness between October and November "helps confirm that we do indeed have a substantial improvement in our employment picture over the past few months,"

the labor analyst added.

Even so, the latest employment figures show county employment still is 25,700 jobs below the peak employment level registered in

December 1981, Yetter said. But the current statistics are far better than they were a year ago, when an all-time high of 101,500 county residents said they were without work and the unemployment rate registered 8.3 percent. Besides the retail industry, November job gains in the county were reported in service-related industries, such as amusement parks and hotels, as well as in public education, Yetter said.

The job outlook in Orange County for December and the first quarter of 1984 remains bright, she said. The job market should show continued improvement during the next several months, mirroring state and national economic forecasts, Yetter predicted.

If the employment outlook remains stable in December, Yetter said the unemployment rate for all of 1983 should register about 6.5 percent, a substantial improvement from the 7.2 percent annual rate posted in 1982

While Orange County's unemployment rate remained at just over 5 percent in October and November, neighboring Los Angeles County experienced almost a full percentage point drop in its rate, from 8.7 to 7.8 percent.

Ex-Lagunan, D. Wilcoxen dead at 55

Former Laguna Beach resident David Stevenson Wilcoxen, 55, died Christmas Eve at his Palos Verdes home. The cause of death was unknown.

Born in Des Moines, Iowa, Wilcoxen moved with his family to Laguna Beach in 1943. He graduated from Laguna Beach High School, Pomona College and Stanford University Business School. He worked for International Business Machines Corp. from 1954 until his death. He was active for many years in Project Touch, a non-profit organization for troubled youth. Wilcoxen is survived by his wife, Anne; and two sons, Peter, who attends Harvard University; and Thomas, who attends Prescott College. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. Frank Wilcoxen; and his brother, William Merritt Wilcoxen, both of Laguna Beach.

Memorial services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Neighborhood Congregational Church, 340 St. Ann's Drive in Laguna Beach. The Rev. William Eilers will officiate. Wilcoxen's ashes have been scattered at sea.

The family has requested memorial tributes be given to the Wilcoxen Memorial Fund, Project Touch, 325 S. Peek Ave., Manhattan Beach.

In 1978, Roach began booking a few punk bands to supplement his schedule of more mainstream rock acts. Eventually, the punk bands became the most popular.

"If I'd had a crystal ball, I don't think I would have done it,' Roach says. "But in my business, you just follow the trends. There was a demand, and I tried to satisfy it. That's what the kids in the area wanted to see."

But problems surfaced. Roach said the Cuckoo's Nest was near two "cowboy bars," whose patrons did not mix well with the punk enthusiasts. Neighboring business began vandalizing the area. In 1981, the Costa Mesa City Council voted to revoke the club's live entertainment permit. Roach fought back in court. At one point, he charged the city with harassment and violation of First

By JERRY HIRSCH

It doesn't matter what the inflation rate is, the city of Newport Beach is bound to increase its expenditures by 20 percent each year.

That is the conclusion of an analysis of the city's budgets since 1962.

"Regardless of how frugal we think we have been, we still, on the average increase our expenditures by that amount every year," said Newport City Manager

From 1962 to 1972 the city's budget increased 207 percent and In the decade from 1972 to 1982 it increased 197 percent, the study

The budget increases are from a combination of inflation and the addition of services such as paramedics in 1975, $600,000 a year, and county dump fees in 1981, $500,000 a year.

Despite the increases, Newport's finances should remain fairly healthy for at least four

"Nine years ago, the 10-year budget projections showed financial deficits by 1981 unless corrective action was taken by the city. This corrective action was taken and the current projections show a positive reserve through 1993-94," the study says.

Budget projections for the next decade, however, show the city is heading for a deficit of more than $100,000 in 1988. It will grow to more than $1 million by 1993 if reserves are not used to cover the

"We will have to either decrease expenditures or increase revenues. The value of a 10-year projection is to impress the community with that fact so that we can make those changes for 1988," Wynn said, adding that the city could not adopt a deficit budget.

"It raises a concern that we have to be aware of. We will face it when it is closer," Wynn said.

One factor that may help the city is historically, revenues have outpaced projections.

Revenues for the coming fiscal year are an estimated $21 million higher than long-term projections made in 1974. Expenditures for the coming year are about $8 million higher than projections made a decade ago, the study says. The city will spend more than $51 million during the 1983-84 fiscal

Keeping a lid on the number of city employees is one way the city has reduced its expenditures.

Newport planners thought the city would have 733 employees during the 1983-84 year. In fact, the city will have 669, an 8.7 percent difference.

"That is really an effort to keep the line on expenditures. About 50 percent of the budget is in salaries and wages," Wynn said.

'One of my hallmarks is a great reluctance to add employees. If you can keep that under control you have the money to repair the streets and have good fire equip-

"If we had added all the employees we thought we would 10 years ago the annual increase in the budget would have been a lot higher, between 27 and 30 per-cent," Wynn said.

followed by a mysterious reference followed by a mysterious reference to the "morning fixing" or the "afternoon fixing" of the price of gold. What does this mean? The fixing is done daily at 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. by five men who sit at tables in London. They represent the five major gold bullion houses: Rothchild's, Johnson Mathhey, Mocatta and Goldsmid, Montaguard Co. and Sharre Pixlay. The five Motherild's, Johnson Mathney, Mocatta and Goldamid, Montagu and Co., and Sharpe Pixley. The five men sit at separate tables and talk by telephone with gold dealers from their companies. They stay on the phone until they find an approximate balance between orders to buy gold, and the supply of gold they have for sale. When that balance is reached, the price is set, or "fixed." Quite simply, it is the old law of supply and demand at work; the demand for gold and what people are willing to pay, balanced against the supply that is for sale. Every working day of the year, this supply and demand is brought into balance twice delity — and the gold price is fixed. The word goes out to gold markets each morning and afterneon, and the "fix" price is used in worldwide gold transactions.

Contractor has different view of HB Center flap

Regarding your article on the Huntington Beach Senior Citizens Center, I would like to set the record straight. By giving the true facts of why the project is lagging. First, the job was given a standard completion schedule of 120 calendar days. The contract has been extended to allow for rain delays. Delays in construction due to the unforeseen problems by the contractor which could not be known prior to bidding or construction of the building. They were inherent problems in the existing structure and because of that, problems with correlating the plans with the building.

Some of the major problems encountered during construction are as follows.

During demolition of the project extensive dry rot and termite damage was found, which carefully had to be removed and repaired afer weeks of consulting with the architects, architectural firms engineer, and then approval by the city. The redesign of the building because of the sewer line that was not considered in the original design of the

The two wings of the building are being tied together. But had to be redesigned because the building had settled and there was now two different floor elevations.

The architectural plans (framing plan) were different than the structural steel plans, therefore, when both were constructed they did not match and had to be redesigned and rebuilt. These are but a few of the problems encountered. We have had over 100 requests for clarifications, asking how to proceed where the actual site conditions differed from the plans and specifications, including over $20,000 plus, in change orders for additional work.

Why is it that the contractor is always the scapegoat for the problems in a project? They are blamed for the rain, weather and pre-existing problems with the building, problems with the plans and specifications, the impact of owner requested change orders on the completion schedules, change orders required by the inherent problems with the building itself, and the time to confer with the architects and city representatives to make a decision on how to resolve the problems correctly.

Your statement that the city officials are frustrated and are losing their patience. What about the contractor trying to work with plans that did not and could not reflect the problems of an old existing building, with the additional costs to the contractor, after all we do not get paid by how long the job lasts, but by the job.

The 1,400 or so members of the Huntington Beach Senior Citizens Center and the city officials should have been better educated to the problems of remodeling an old existing building prior to deciding to remodel, with current updates as the "real" reason why the project has taken so long to complete. One need only ask someone who has had their house remodeled, or a room addition built to understand and appreciate.

I believe that a good community paper's purpose is to educate and inform the public by thorough research of an issue, obtain both sides before issuing an opinion, "without a sarcastic tone," unless it editorialize's its articles.

With our approved time extensions and our submitted requested extensions of time for the additional problems, we are scheduled for completion by March 1, 1984. We are obviously hesitant to commit to any completion date due to the continued unforeseen problems we keep encountering "not the fault of this contractor." Delays, problems should always be anticipated and carefully considered, and then accepted prior to deciding to remodel an old existing building. JEFFREY J. JOLLEY

WASHINGTON - This season is an appropriate time to give yourself and your loved ones the greatest gift of all - life itself by asking your police department or nearest military base to check out any war souvenirs you may have in your home.

An astonishing number of supposed "duds" or practice rounds are actually explosive enough to kill you, your children and your neighbors.

This warning comes from the heart. My associate Dale Van Atta, his wife and two children lived in mortal danger for several months without knowing it. A cluster bomblet he brought back from Lebanon last year and stashed on a shelf in his garage turned out not to have been defused as he had thought.

If a fire or careless handling had detonated the live shell, it would have demolished his house and anyone in it. The 13-inch-long, bell-shaped Rockeye bomblet was armed with a "shape charge" designed to penetrate a foot of tank armor, allowing the main charge to explode inside the tank.

The little bomb was given to my associate by Palestine Liberation killed when a missile they were Organization leader Yasir Arafat playing with exploded. DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: A tragic irony may be developing in Honduras: The continued pres-ence of U.S. military forces there may undermine the democratic government it was intended to protect. Reason: The 6,000 American troops on "extended maneuvers" bolster the power of Gen. Gustavo Alvarez Martinez, the armed forces chief. More than 8,500 of the state's 30,000 physicians and ents, the state allowed doctors and 110 hospitals are already signed hospitals to form new "preferred provider organizations" to bid for

The aim: To cut costs for consumers and their employers, who often provide health insurance as a fringe benefit.

Costs are cut by offering patients a little less choice. Members of a PPO get total coverage, without the 20 percent deductible charged by most policies, as long as they use only doctors and hospitals certified by the PPO. When they go outside, the deductible may be higher than 20 percent in some cases.

But the reduced choice also produces lower premiums about 15 percent less than conventional policies for Blue Cross.

The reductions are possible because PPOs insist that doctors and hospitals lower their rates when they join. Blue Cross reports its member hospitals have reduced charges an average 23 percent for PPO members.

And doctors who formerly charged $1,824 for removal of a gall bladder get only $1,148 from the Blue Cross PPO. Both doctors and hospitals expect to make up for their price reductions by eventually treating many more patients.

The meaning of all this is simple: Competition has finally arrived in the medical marketplace, where California has a surplus of both doctors and hospitals. California's almost 500 general care hospitals typically fill just 60 percent of their beds each night, so they are willing to bargain in order to get higher occupancy and more total revenue. And California doctors are also feeling some pressure to compete, after a decade of being able to charge almost whatever they wanted.

The state has one physician for every 440 residents, compared with one for 553 persons nationally, a doctor surplus that's widely acknowledged.

But even with lower prices and complete coverage, don't expect PPOs to monopolize health care soon. Analysts say many patients will stick with the old "fee-for-service" plans because they will want to retain complete freedom of choice, while others will want the security and one-stop care of pre-paid health maintenance plans.

But no medical analysts doubt the Blue Cross forecast which says PPOs will have a major share of the California market soon. Nor do they doubt that this state will serve a a model for others.

Said one Oakland hospital administrator, "Within 10 years, 90 percent of all hospitals in this state will be aligned in some manner in five or six systems that will compete with each other. Future medical care will look a lot different than what we see today."

The fewer friends the better

There is a popular saying, "You can't have too many friends," but I have never been persuaded of its truth or validity. It has long been my conviction that nobody has more than a handful of friends, that you are lucky if you have those, and the rest don't matter

Friendship is not something that one can spread around, for what it gains in quantity, it loses in quality. Promiscuity in friendship is as devaluating as promiscuity in sexual relationships -- the more you distribute it, the less you have to give to any one person.

This, of course, may just be my own temperament: I make friends slowly, but once made, never lose them. I do not tend to call "acquaintances" friends, as so many politicians and public fig-ures do, who then find that their circle has shrunken woefully when they fall out of favor or office or popularity.

Nor have I found over the years that real friendship is a matter of common tastes or opinions; rather,

it is a kind of chemistry of personality that surmounts these differences of background and beliefs. One of my dearest friends, who died only this year, was a man who disagreed with me completely on almost every issue; yet I enjoyed his company, had the highest regard for his character, and would have trusted him with my life.

"Everybody's friend is nobody's," warned Schopenhauer, and I remain wary of men and women who slide too easily into personal confidences, who assume intimacies before they have been willing to serve a probationary period of tactful reserve. Each of us has a core that is not to be invaded without express or tacit permission; nor is this permission to be lightly granted, and then just as abruptly withdrawn.

People who make friends promiscuously remind me of Talleyrand's wickedly witty comment about Mme. de Stael: "She is such a good friend that she would throw all her acquaintances into the water for the pleasure of fishing them out."

There is a mystery at the heart of friendship, transcending all the categories of taste and back-

Pennzoil bids on Getty Oil

NEW YORK - Pennzoil Co. surprised the oil industry by announcing a $1.6 billion bid for a 20 percent stake in Getty Oil Co., which has been thought vulnerable to a takeover attempt but is still three times Pennzoil's size. Pennzoil, a Houston-based oil producer and refiner, said Tuesday it will offer $100 a share for each of 16 million Getty shares, about 20 percent of stock outstanding.

November home resales boosted

WASHINGTON — Declining mortgage rates boosted resales of single-family homes 0.8 percent in November from the previous month and 22.3 percent above the year-ago level, according to a real estate group. The National Association of Realtors said Tuesday that home sales were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.63 million units in November. compared with 2.61 million the previous month, when sales had fallen slightly.

Citrus growers expect losses

MIAMI - Florida citrus fruit growers say they do not expect prices for orange juice to rise despite the recent cold wave that has wreaked havoc on the orange crop. But farmers say the prices of vegetables are bound to rise. After two days of freezing weather, citrus growers in Florida and Texas said Tuesday that they expected some losses.
